Speed Now Central Theme As World Conference Nears End

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—A clamor for speed, coupled with fresh predictions of success in writing a world charter that will guarantee peace, arose tonight at the United Nations conference.

But the policy-making steering committee spent more time talking about a "grave urgency" for winding up the conference than in taking action in that direction.

Delegation chiefs of the Big Five called a night meeting (11:30 p. m. CWT), however, to try to figure out what can be done about some problems still on the "unsolved" list.

Smuts Optimistic

Prime Minister Jan Christian Smuts of South Africa told the steering committee "we know now that this conference is going to be a success," since the Big Five have settled differences over their veto powers.

In effect, the United States, Russia, Britain, China and France put their veto authority up to the 45 smaller nations at the conference today on a "take-it-or-leave it" basis.

They proclaimed firmly and formally that the veto is "essential" if a new world organization is to act "effectively" to maintain peace.

Smuts told his colleagues that President Truman wants to honor the conference by speaking at its final session and the conference wants to honor him. But if the job drags on much beyond mid-June, he said, many delegates will be headed for home.

Others Echo Sentiment

There were speeches in similar vein by Prime Minister Peter Frazer, of New Zealand and by Foreign Minister Ezequiel Padilla of Mexico and Herbert V. Evatt of Australia.

Whereupon Peru's delegate suggested that instead of talking the steering committee get along with the business at hand. It ratified executive committee decisions to send four different charter provisions back to technical committees for reconsideration — which will take up more time.

The Big Five took their strong stand for veto authority in a 1,200-word interpretation of how it would work. It was handed to a technical committee dealing with functions of a proposed peace-enforcing security council in which the veto formula would operate.

Russia ended the biggest row of the conference yesterday by swinging around to the position of the rest of the Big Five—that the veto shall not apply to the free discussions of international quarrels.

Will Argue, Then Accept

As the conference headed down the finish stretch, many delegates were in agreement that the small nations would argue, perhaps gag a bit, but in the end would accept the requirement that all the five great powers must approve unanimously any steps taken by the council to settle disputes or prevent war.

A half dozen or more problems still remain before the conference. The American delegation looked over some today, decided against fixing a definite closing date, and passed the word: "Don't pack your bags yet."

These problems involve such things as trusteeships, expulsion of any wayward members of the world organization, constitutional conventions to amend the league's charter, the right of members to withdraw, and powers of an all-nation general assembly.

Tempers Flare Violently As Solons Air Views On FEPC

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP) — House tempers verged near the breaking point late today in an increasingly tense debate over the future of the Fair Employment Practice committee.

A House attendant hurriedly stepped between Rep. Marcantonio (Al-NY) and Rep. Chelf (D-Ky) as they moved threateningly toward one another in violent argument over action of the rules committee in blocking consideration of temporary funds for FEPC.

Double Dealing Charged

For the second time in the day, the New Yorker accused FEPC opponents of "double dealing" and fighting the bill "behind closed doors."

Chelf jumped to his feet and shouted:

"I'll say to the gentleman that its things like that—your attitude—that explain why you don't have more support than you do."

The two rushed toward each other, shouting and gesticulating. From somewhere a House employe hurried into the aisle to step between them while the presiding officer banged his gavel.

Shouts of "vote" and "regular order" rattled through the chamber as other members tried to smother out the argument. They were trying to bring the House back to discussion of a war agencies appropriation bill which became the indirect vehicle for the renewed FEPC argument.

Order Soon Restored

In a few minutes order was restored.

The FEPC was set up by President Roosevelt to prevent discrimination in employment because of race, creed or color. President Truman has urged action on a bill to give the agency legislative backing.

An attempt today to provide temporary funds for the FEPC by writing them into the war agencies bill was defeated when Rep. Rankin (D-Miss) made a point of order against the move and knocked it out on a parliamentary rule.

Rep. De Lacy (D-Wash) started the afternoon argument when he

Senate 'Warned' On OPA Proposal

WASHINGTON, June 8. (AP)—The Senate, in its third day of debate on price control extension, heard argument today that proposed profit-assuring amendments would destroy OPA.

Shaking his finger at his colleagues, Senator Lucas (D-Ill) told them "you can kiss price control good-bye if you adopt either the Taft or Thomas amendments."

Similarly, Sen. Ellender (D-La) declared that if either amendment is adopted "you had just as well repeal the law."

Echoed By Bowles

Their arguments were echoed at OPA where Price Administrator Chester Bowles told a news conference that enactment of the proposals advanced by Senators Thomas (D-Okla) and Taft (R-Ohio) "would mean the end of effective price control and would inevitably result in a general inflation."

Thomas proposes to prohibit any price ceiling which does not allow a processor of agricultural products a margin covering all costs and a "reasonable profit." Extending much the same principle to all manufacturers, Taft's would require that ceilings allow "not less than the same dollar margin over costs" that was received in 1941.

Administration leaders asserted that they had the votes to defeat both proposals, but elected to postpone a showdown until next week in the expectation that some absent members will return over the week-end.

Arguments Disputed

Both Thomas and Taft disputed the interpretations placed on their amendments by Senate opponents and by Bowles.

Taft contended "it is only fair on the face of it" to allow profit margins equal to 1941. Thomas contended a "reasonable profit" on processing of agricultural productcs is necessary to get production. To the argument that OPA's present pricing system is fair, Thomas retorted that OPA had changed its meat-pricing schedule three times in recent weeks.

"If they are right now, they were wrong before," Thomas said.

Bowles asserted that Thomas' amendment would necessitate giving everyone "a price high enough to yield a profit to the most inefficient" or giving every firm "a formula for figuring its own costs, profits and prices."

"The chiseler and the profiteer would have a field day," he said.

AUSTIN PAPER EXPANDS

AUSTIN, June 8. (AP) — Louis Goldberg, business manager of the Austin Statesman, said today the Statesman had purchased all of the equipment formerly used by the Austin Tribune. The transaction was closed today.

Ward's Seizure Is Ruled Legal

CHICAGO, June 8 (AP)—Government seizure of Montgomery Ward and company properties in seven cities Dec. 28 was declared legal today by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, which ruled the mail order house was engaged in war production.

Two of the judges upheld the late President Roosevelt's authority to take over the properties in a labor dispute while the third, Judge Will M. Sparks, said he concurred in a district court ruling of Jan. 27 that the seizure had no constitutional or statutory basis.

To Ask Rehearing

A Ward's spokesman said the company would ask for a rehearing.

Ward's in opposing the seizure, contended it was not engaged in war production as meant in the War Labor Disputes act and therefore was not subject to regulation under the act. With this view, the circuit court of appeals disagreed, stating:

"Considering the nature of the act, its purposes, and the background therefore, we conclude that without the aid of the definition (of production) found in the fair labor standards act, we must and do hold that the act applied to Ward's.

"We would go further and say that the thousands of boys and girls who gather waste paper are engaged in production work within the meaning of this statute.

Bond Salesmen, Too

"Also, the thousands of bond salesmen and women engaged in selling United States war bonds so that the proceeds may be used to pay workers and to buy material for the Army, are engaged in production work.

"Any other conclusion would ignore the entire congressional plan for the conduct of this war, which includes participation, sacrifices and contributions by all citizens," said the majority opinion by Judges Evan S. Evans and Otto Kerner.

France Wavering On Her Levant Proposal

(By The Associated Press)

The French were said to be wavering last night in their determination to force a five-power conference over the entire Middle-East problem rather than discuss the Syria-Lebanon situation only with the U. S. and Britain.

A French spokesman declared there would be a five-power meeting or nothing, but at the same time it was learned in Paris that messages were flyng between London, Paris and Washington in an effort to reach a solution without holding a conference at all.

There appeared some need for haste. A dispatch from Lebanon said the situation there was tense, with the Lebanese demanding that French troops be removed immediately from their soil and with trouble threatening to break out any minute. French forces were being evacuated from Syria into Lebanon.

Another post-war dispute which for a time threatened serious trouble appeared settled with the British report that an agreement would be signed with Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia today bringing Trieste and all communications between that Adriatic seaport and Austria under the Anglo-American military government.

At the height of the dispute over Trieste, British Field Marshal Alexander accused Tito of acting like Hitler in attempting to occupy the port. Final disposition of the territory will be settled at the peace conference.

London sources discounted published reports that the initial meeting of the Allied Control council in Berlin on Tuesday "ended abruptly" in a strained atmosphere. They pointed out that Gen. Eisenhower and Field Marshal Montgomery finished all work that was on the agenda of the meeting before they flew back to their headquarters for the night. They did not know the Russians had planned a banquet after the meeting.

Aged Marshal Petain of France, whose trial for treason is due to open late this month, claimed in Paris that he was secretly negotiating a treaty with Prime Minister Churchill at the time of his first meeting with Hitler, and that his subsequent actions as Vichy chief of state were guided by the treaty. The British promptly denied that any such treaty existed.

Shangri-La Crash Survivors Await Army's Attempt At Glider Rescue

By RUSSELL BRINES
Associated Press Staff Writer

MANILA, Saturday, June 9.—The lumbering Army plane came out of the sky and crashed in flames half way up a towering mountain at the edge of a strange and primitive land.

It was a land never before visited by a white man, where native warriors grow six feet tall, carry spears, rotate crops, irrigate, and raise pigs "as big as donkeys."

It was a land of a fair degree of civilization, because the 50,000 to 100,000 natives living there had learned to make war, and lived in towns protected by walls.

The Far East Air forces had spotted this strange four-by-25-mile valley early in 1944 and had dubbed it "Shangri-La" because the snowtipped peaks that hemmed it in reminded them of James Hilton's book.

The day was May 13, the hour 3 p.m., and somehow out of the wreckage, 7,200 feet up the 13,000-foot mountain crawled an Army officer, a WAC and a sergeant.

Lt. John B. McCollom, Trenton, Mo., was bruised and cut.

Sgt. Kenneth W. Decker, Kelso, Wash., was hurt the worst. He had deep back wounds and suffered burns.

20 Bodies Near Wreckage

Behind them in or near the wreckage of the C-47 were the bodies of 20 of their comrades, who had set out on that day to see from the air the wild beauty of Dutch New Guinea.

The air forces think what happened was that the plane was caught in one of the downdrafts which swirl above these uncharted peaks, and was pulled down against the mountainside.

Three days later a Flying Fortress—part of a search fleet of war planes that had been hunting for two days—droned out of the sky and the pilot, Capt. William D. Baker, saw the three standing near the wreckage about 10 miles from the main valley of Shangri-La.

They were about 150 miles southwest of where the searchers had set out from Hollandia. Baker dropped markers as the weather closed in.

Nazis Outsmarted By Superb Yank Army

WASHINGTON, June 8. (AP) — Gen. Omar Bradley declared today that German officers were outsmarted and their men beaten by an American Army that was "the best trained and equipped Army any nation ever put in the field."

The commander of the million-man 12th Army corps gave this appraisal of the European operations at a news conference with Secretary of War Stimson.

Repeating every question and salting his answers with dry Missouri humor, the general traced how the Allied forces of the west burst through France, across the Rhine and to the Elbe.

As for his future plans as Veterans administrator, a post for which he was named by President Truman yesterday, he had nothing to say. He explained that he still has 30 to 60 days' work to do winding up his duties in Europe.

The quality of the American soldier and his equipment, the mobility of the armies and the strategy of the generals brought the triumph over the Nazis, he said.

"We ended up with the best trained and equipped Army any nation ever put in the field."

On two major operations, the German general staff was fooled, he asserted. They expected Patton to swing toward the British before he hit the Rhine and he swung in the opposite direction. The Ruhr was encircled, with a bag of 317,000 prisoners when the Germans then expected a dash straight to Berlin.

"We never intended to go to Berlin," Bradley said tersely.

He termed the campaign from the Ruhr to the Elbe one of the most interesting for future study "because everything worked so well."

The attack was planned for Jan. 10 at Aachen, then Von Rundstedt opened his Ardennes bulge offensive.

"Gen. Smith (Walter Bedell Smith) said to me 'Well, Brad, you've been asking for a counter attack. Here it is.' But I didn't want one that strong," Bradley said.

Three-Way B-29 Raid Batters Trio Of Jap Aircraft Cities

(By The Associated Press)

GUAM, Saturday, June 9.—Between 100 and 150 Superfortresses attacked aircraft factories at Nagoya, Naruo and Akashi today with high explosives in a three-way raid on the enemy main island of Honshu.

It was the first all high explosive raid since May 19 when the B-29s struck Hamamatsu although high explosives as well as fire bombs were dumped on the arsenal city of Osaka Thursday.

The raiders flew today without fighter escort and bombed visually from medium altitude in daylight.

Third Strike Of Week

It was the third strike of the Marianas-based sky dreadnaughts this week against the enemy homeland which has been warned by Tokyo radio that B-29s are ready to hit the medium and small as well as large cities.

About 450 of the big bombers struck Kobe Tuesday and followed that up in equal strength Thursday against Osaka, leading industrial city of the entire Orient.

More than 90 square miles in the congested, industrial sectors of Tokyo, Osaka, Kobe, Nagoka and Yokohama have been either burned out or badly damaged by the mounting air assaults.

Nagoya is 165 miles southwest of Tokyo. Akashi is just west of Kobe on the inland sea of Japan. Naruo is in Amagasaki harbor of Osaka bay.

On Strategic Task

Although today's force was small in contrast with the 400 to 500 formations recently engaged in fire bombings, it was large for its strategic task—destruction of specific aircraft establishments.

At Naruo, the big planes attacked the Kawanishi Aircraft company, oldest factory of that concern and a major producer of the Japanese Navy fighter known to Americans as "George." Naruo is at the mouth of the Muko river in Amagasaki harbor.

The plant had been expanded greatly since the war and includes 16 major structures plus smaller buildings, with a total roof area of 2,699,000 square feet.

Different Construction

The one-story buildings for engine production, machine shops, airframe and sub-assembly are of light steel frame construction. The hangar-type structures are made of reinforced concrete. The plant has two seaplane ramps along the bay front.

The planes hit the Kawasaki aircraft plant at Akashi for the second time. The previous strike was on Jan. 19 by 50 to 100 planes which destroyed 38 per cent of the factory area.

Today's assault was aimed at major repairs by the enemy plus additional objectives. The earlier assault there burned out the railroad yards, foundry and heat treating plant.

Earlier Raid Damage

The earlier raid also damaged 80 per cent of the main assembly building, destroyed 70 per cent of the machine shop and completely destroyed seven feeder warehouses.

The third formation today streaked over the Atsuta plant of the Aichi Aircraft company on the southwest corner of Nagoya. Formerly this plant produced watches and precision instruments.

It was converted to aircraft engine parts for assembly by other units of the company.

Some B-Carders To Get Extra Gasoline

WASHINGTON, June 8. (AP)—About 35 per cent of the nation's 8,553,200 B-card motorists will qualify for more supplementary gasoline when the ration ceiling is raised to 650 miles a month June 11.

The OPA estimated today that there are about 3,000,000 B-card holders whose essential occupational driving needs exceed current regional ceilings.

The uniform maximum of 650 miles will replace those prevailing top allotments to B-motorists.

The agency also announced that motorists no longer are required to display gasoline stickers — the A, B, C and T windshield markers.

Casualty Figure Reaches 1,012,049

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—U. S. combat casualties announced here reached 1,012,049 today.

This was an increase of 9,162 over the total announced last Thursday.

The new total included 895,834 Army and 116,215 Navy, Marine corps, and Coast Guard casualties as follows:

	Army	Navy	Total
Killed	185,670	44,503	230,173
Wounded	556,844	56,767	613,611
Missing	6,747	10,705	57,452
Prisoners	106,573	4,240	110,813
Totals	895,834	116,215	1,012,049

Of the Army wounded 317,626 have returned to duty.

Polio Quarantine At Texas U. Continues

AUSTIN, June 8. (AP)—A polio quarantine on naval ROTC and V-12 students at the University of Texas will not be relaxed for another week, Cmdr. John N. Ferguson, executive officer, announced today.

Restrictions were placed on the naval students May 31 following the death from infantile paralysis of Sidney James Stokes, naval student.

Yanks On Okinawa Tighten Squeeze On Split-Up Japs

By LEIF ERICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM, Saturday, June 9—Advancing swiftly on a broad front, American forces squeezed one of the two split Japanese garrisons on southern Okinawa into a three square mile pocket Friday and brought the other in the fortified Yaeju-Dake escarpment under intense plane, warship and artillery bombardment.

Seizing a substantial segment of the southwest coast and drawing up before the 450-foot-high escarpment in preparation for a strong push, the U. S. 10th Army compressed the divided Nipponese holdouts into less than 19 of Okinawa's 485 square miles.

Japs Attack Warships

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced Friday's ground advances in a communique today which also reported substantial enemy air assaults on Okinawa Wednesday and Thursday during which 67 raiders were destroyed. The raiders damaged two small American vessels.

Thursday, Okinawa-based Thunderbolts hit the takeoff points for the enemy air force on Kyushu. They shot down eight interceptors but had a difficult time finding ground planes along the south end of the enemy homeland. Apparently the Japanese are holding their air forces in north Kyushu and organizing attack groups for staging through the southern fields.

Aground, the First Marine division smashed yesterday to the west coast of Okinawa and captured substantial ground north of Itoman town.

Marines Near Junction

Advance elements of these two Leatherneck outfits were near a junction.

In south central Okinawa, clearing weather permitted a coordinated aerial, artillery and naval bombardment attack on strongly fortified Japanese positions along the Yaeju-Dake escarpment, the enemy's final defense fortifications.

The Seventh Infantrry division advanced several hundred yards although it had to fight through heavy machinegun fire in the vicinity of Hanagusuku town, end

Gotham Sets Up Three-Way Fight

NEW YORK, June 8. (AP) — The naming of a Democrat as the Republicans' candidate for mayor of New York City today produced a political uproar that gave promise of resulting in a three-way free-for-all fight.

These were the principal developments a few hours after the city's five Republican leaders endorsed Judge Jonah J. Goldstein, Democrat, to head their city ticket.

1. Newbold Morris, named by the Republicans for renomination as city council president, turned it down and said he was willing to make a primary fight against Goldstein on a "good government" ticket.

Seabury Is Caustic

2. Samuel Seabury, leader of three successful fusion campaigns for Mayor F. H. La Guardia, said neither Goldstein nor Brooklyn District Attorney William O'Dwyer, the Democratic leaders' choice for mayor, was "worthy of support." Seabury declared:

"I think there is a sufficient regenerative force in the community to form some party which will nominate worthy candidates upon which it can make a successful appeal to the people of the city of New York."

Morris said the Goldstein slate would become known as the "yellow dog ticket." Seabury said it meant that "we now have two Tammany Hall ticket in the field." Informed of Morris' withdrawal, Goldstein said: "It will mean the selection of a far superior candidate."

In naming Goldstein and Morris, as well as endorsing Controller Joseph D. McGoldrick for re-election, the Republican chairmen specified they must "not accept the nomination or support of the Communist-controlled American Labor party."

Hillman Heads ALF

The state chairman of the ALF is Sidney Hillman, who also heads the CIO Political Action committee.

Brooklyn Republican Leader John R. Crews said Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, whose term expires next year, was "highly pleased" with the selection of Goldstein, a longtime foe of Tammany Hall, and undoubtedly would campaign for the Republican city ticket.

The Labor party, which gave La Guardia 435,374 votes in 1941, has been expected to endorse Brooklyn District Attorney William O'Dwyer, 54, the unanimous choice of the city's Democratic leaders for mayor. Yesterday, however, it suddenly postponed its decision until next Monday.

Wichita Storm Damage Heavy

WICHITA FALLS, June 8. (AP) —A storm described by the U. S. weather bureau as "a hurricane" caused widespread damage in this vicinity late this afternoon.

The wind gauge at the municipal airport, where the storm seemed to center, registered up to 95 miles per hour before the gauge was destroyed.

Sam Ruddy, 50, store manager of the Bradford Supply Co., at Albany, Tex., was killed when his car was blown from the highway about 7 miles north of Albany.

One person, a Mrs. Byarly, suffered head injuries when the roof of her home was damaged at Burkburnett.

City Badly Damaged

Farm homes, business buildings and Wichita Falls residences were damaged. Windows were knocked out, trees uprooted and signs and smaller buildings swept away. The ripening fruit crop, mostly peaches, was hard hit.

The damage at the city airport was set at more than $125,000. At Sheppard Field, U. S. Army Air Forces Technical school, the loss was described by the public relations office as extensive but not critical.

Wichita Falls radio station KWFT went off the air due to a power failure and had not resumed broadcasting late tonight.

Strikes From Northwest

The storm struck from the northwest, reaching 60 miles per hour about 6 p. m., and veered along the Red river valley.

The main hangar at the municipal airport was ripped to pieces, as were several other buildings, and a number of planes were destroyed.

Rain at the weather station was recorded at 1.94 inches.

Okinawa Sightseeing Is Exciting Aplenty

By AL DOPKING

OKINAWA June 8.—The Army doesn't know whether to give Sgt. Floyd Adams, Plainview, Tex., a court martial or a decoration for helping the Marines take a hill in southern Okinawa.

Adams strayed into the bloody battle while sight seeing.

Adams is in the Army engineers construction battalion. He had a pass from his commanding officer to visit a friend. He became lost and wandered to a rise which the Japanese had taken back from the Marines the night before.

"What are we waiting for?" Adams drawled.

They charged up the ridge, throwing grenades and keeping up an intense chatter of small arms fire. Mortar shells burst all around.

"I'll never forget those two hours as long as I live," Adams told his officers later.

He crawled into a shell hole near the spearhead of the drive and found a Marine lieutenant who had been wounded in a thigh. He administered first aid and dragged the 200-pound lieutenant from one shell crater to another under sniper and mortar fire to safety.

The Marine lieutenant took Adams' name and remarked "if there are any more men behind the lines like you, send them up."

Adams returned to his camp, apprehensive. He had a pass, but it did not permit him to go to the front. He feared he would be called to account for "straggling."

So far, his status has not been determined, but his buddies figure that since he has not been summoned for court martial he may turn up with a decoration—something that isn't passed out every day for a construction engineer.

Program Planned For Wagner Park

A. C. Hamilton, superintendent of the Lubbock recreation department, announced Friday that Wagner park in Green Acres addition will be included in the summer parks recreation program and the opening events will be conducted Monday.

A director will be on duty from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m. Mondays through Saturdays and 4 to 9 p. m. Mondays through Fridays.

Events on the opening program, beginning at 10 o'clock Monday morning, will be a candy guessing contest, rope jumping contest for girls, sack race for boys and peanut hunt.

Activities will include volley ball, horseshoe, croquet, checkers, dominoes, arts and crafts, music, boxing, box hockey, washers, tether ball, social recreation, story telling, nature study and hiking, softball and touch-football.

Miss Lois Marie Killian will be the director.

Approximately 700 circulars announcing the program will be distributed in Green Acres addition.

The park, one of the city's newest, includes five acres in one part and five acres in another, said Hamilton. This will be the first time for it to be included in the summer recreation program.

Opening events in several parks have been held. Mexican park is not to be operated as previously planned.

News Briefs

David S. Glassman, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Glassman of 2806 Twenty-seventh, will report June 22 at Fort Bliss, El Paso, for military service. He was graduated last week in annual commencement exercises held at Castle Heights Military academy, at Lebanon, Tenn., and has arrived at his home. He is in the Army Air Corps reserve. He will be 18 two days before he reports.

Arriving in Lubbock early Friday afternoon J. G. Wood, navy yard representative from the West Coast, will be in the U. S. Employment Service offices until 5 o'clock this afternoon. Wood is interviewing applicants for jobs in ship yards in California and Washington. Transportation and housing will be furnished those taking a position. Wood said he was in need of skilled workmen only.

Drivers Charged In Auto Collision Here

Police said drivers of two automobiles in collision Friday morning at Sixth and Ave. E were charged with failure to have driver's licenses, and hospitals announced that two passengers who had been taken there for examination of possible injuries had been released after emergency attention.

Taken to hospitals were J. T. Hill, 51, of 618 Ave. E, and Miss Dorothy Aldridge, 17, of 421 Ave. E.

Police investigators George Hall, Tommie Everhart, W. E. Moffett and Charlie Street said in their reports that Hill and Miss Aldridge were riding southward on Ave. E in a car driven by Miss Aldridge's sister, Mrs. Patsy Boliver, 20, who was moving household possessions to Portales, N. M., from Lubbock. Roy Dorman 33, of 305 Eighth, an automobile mechanic, was driving eastward on Sixth. The machines "met" almost in the center of the intersection, after drivers patently attempted to avoid the collision, police said. Both cars were badly damaged, but neither Dorman nor Mrs. Boliver apparently was injured.

Exact Tire Sizes Must Be Specified

William G. Williams, district Office of Price administration executive, has announced that specific tire sizes will now be indicated on all certificates for truck tires.

Effective since June 5 this new requirement will make it possible for OPA to direct issuance of the various size truck tires to conform with supply and production, Williams said.

When a consumer's truck tire certificate calls for a single size tire, dealers may deliver only tires of the exact size designated. A single certificate may be issued for several tires only if all the tires covered by it are of the same size.

As in the past Williams added, all applications will be made to local War Price and Rationing boards who will forward those for tire sizes 8.25 or larger to the Emergency Truck Tire board at the Lubbock district office for processing. The exact truck tire sizes needed, however, must be furnished with each application in the future, he said.

Barley Crops Survey To Be Made In Area

A representative of the Kurth Malting company in Milwaukee, Wis., Donald Sanders, arrived in Lubbock last night and will begin a survey today of barley crops in this area, according to Dr. A. W. Young, head of the department of plant industry at Texas Technological college.

Young stated that the college has been carrying out variety tests since 1937 with from 100 to 200 types of barley being grown in this locality. Many have been eliminated and Sanders is checking to see the remaining types and the possibilities of shipping them back to his company for malting.

Combining began at the college today and Sanders will conduct a tour over the college farms while these operations are being conducted.

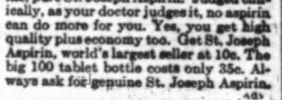

Hearing For Corpus Newsmen Postponed

CORPUS CHRISTI, June 8. (AP) A hearing on a contempt of court case against the publisher and two members of the editorial staff of the Corpus Christi Caller-Times today was postponed until July 16.

County Judge Joe D. Browning continued the case after Marcellus G. Eckhardt, attorney for the newsmen, filed an affidavit stating that the court reporter would be unable to furnish him before Monday a transcript of the trial of a suit over a lease out of which the contempt charges grew.

Conway C. Craig, publisher, Bob McCracken, managing editor, and Tom Mulvany, reporter, were cited for contempt of court as the result of published reports of the suit. Judge Browning ordered that the three be confined to the county jail for three days "unless they purge themselves thereof."

Garrison Says Crime Increase Astounding

AUSTIN, June 8. (AP) — Texas crime is on the upswing at an astounding rate, Homer Garrison, director of the state police, told a conference of Texas officers here yesterday.

The state's crime army, 292,000 strong, has opened its post-war offense in earnest, he said.

The Texas crime picture differs from the national picture only in that our rural crime has increased only 16.15 whereas urban crime is up 22.08. Other states show an increase in rural crime, Garrison said.

The crime increase in Texas for January was 12 per cent while at the end of the first quarter it had climbed 22 per cent, he said.

These figures reveal that in Texas, an average day brings three murders, two rape cases, six robberies, 65 burglaries, 182 thefts from person and 45 automobile thefts.

Showdown On Yalta Agreements Sought

LONDON, June 8. (AP)—Laborite demands for a full airing of everything that took place at the Yalta Big Three conference last February were turned down by Prime Minister Churchill today, but he declared that there were no secret agreements not since made public.

He indicated, however, that the discussions covered a wider field than had been announced, explaining that the "conversations, of course, proceeded in a very intimate manner, and I am not going to say that everything discussed at Yalta could be made the subject of verbatim report."

Opposition members persisted that Churchill was evading the issue, particularly as to Poland. If there were no secret agreements, he was asked, "why is it that the Russian government has acted in the matter of broadening the Polish government in a way totally at variance with the declared decisions of the conference?"

700 U-Boats Downed In Battle Of Atlantic

WASHINGTON, June 8. (AP) — America and Britain disclosed today that 700 Nazi submarines were destroyed during the battle of the Atlantic.

The United States Navy announced meanwhile that less than one out of every 1,000 ships convoyed by it was lost to submarines.

The actual count of convoy losses to U-boats from Dec. 7, 1941, to May 30, 1945, was 17 merchant ships sunks and 15 damaged out of 17,707 which sailed under protection of the U. S. Atlantic fleet. This does not take account of hundreds of unescorted vessels that fell victims to submarines.

American naval losses to German submarines in the 1941-45 period were reported as seven vessels sunk and six damaged, the biggest being the escort carrier Block Island whose loss was announced June 5, 1944.

President Truman and Prime Minister Churchill, in their last monthly statement on the submarine war, gave the total of more than 700 U-boats sunk, in addition to "many others" which they said the Germans themselves destroyed in the final stages of the war.

The joint Truman-Churchill statement said that "with the surrender of Germany, the battle of the Atlantic was ended."

Detroit Tigers Take First Place, Nose Out White Sox

DETROIT, June 8 (AP) — The Detroit Tigers grabbed the American League lead here today by beating the Chicago White Sox, 2 to 1, in a twilight game before 14,385 fans in the opener of a four-game series.

Forrest (Joe) Orrell, tall Tiger righthander, hurled four-hit ball in pitching Detroit into first place but Paul (Dizzy) Trout was called in to retire the Sox in the ninth after Orrell put the first two batsmen on base.

It was Trout's first relief appearance of the season but the victory went to Orrell, who had lost both his two previous starts.

Detroit scored both its runs off starter Thornton Lee, Chicago lefthander, who gave six hits before retiring for a pinch-hitter in the seventh.

BOSOX BUMP YANKS

NEW YORK, June 8. (AP)—Ernie Bonham allowed only three hits the first five innings today while trying for his first win, but in the sixth frame the Boston Red Sox smashed out four blows and combined them with an error for four runs and went on from there to defeat the New York Yankees, 6 to 4.

George Metkovich's two-run homer in the seventh cemented Boston's decision over the Yankees for the visitors 14th victory in their last 19 starts.

The loss knocked the Yanks out of the American League lead.

Bonham failed Manager Joe McCarthy for the fifth time after grabbing an early 3-0 lead by batting home Nick Etten and Russ Derry in the second and cashing Oscar Grimes' double on an infield out in the fourth.

Joe Cronin's high-flying gang kayoed Bonham in the sixth scoring four times on a combination of a walk to Eddie Lake, singles by Metkovich, and Bob Johnson, an error by Russ Derry, another single by Pete Fox and a double by Tommy McBride.

Nelson Takes Long Lead In Golf Meet

MONTREAL, June 8 (AP)—Byron Nelson of Toledo took a commanding seven-stroke lead at the half-way mark in the $10,000 Canadian PGA Open tournament at the Islesmere Golf club today by adding a four-under-par 68 to his record 63 of yesterday.

Nelson's closest rival, Jug McSpaden, of Sanford, Me., lost a bit more ground today although he shot a second three-under-par 69 for a two-day total of 138 compared to Nelson's 131.

A crowd of more than 5,000 watched the play today and saw many of the lesser golfing lights drop out of competition in the face of the hot pace of the leaders.

Meanwhile, Amateur Ed Furgol of Detroit, loomed as the tournament's surprise by stroking a 69 today to add to his 70 of yesterday for third spot in the field ahead of many leading professionals.

MPS Roll Over O. K. Garage Softball Ten

The Lubbock Army Air field MPs hung up their fifth straight win of the season Friday afternoon at the LAAF diamond, snapping the winning streak of the O. K. Garage club, 17 to 2.

Dean and Bybee made up the winning battery, while Henderson and Kelley worked for the losers. The heavy guns of the soldiers were Byletel, who hit a homer and triple, and Hudson, who banged out two triples, a double and a single.

Blue Bonnet Romps To Another Victory

With Ray Littrell hurling three hit ball, the Blue Bonnet Laundry softball team won another Friday afternoon, beating the LAAF Civilians, 8 to 1. The lone run off Littrell was scored on Pete Hill's error.

The Blue Bonnet club will go to Post Sunday afternoon to play a return game with Postex Mills at 3 o'clock. The Millers hold one decision over the Blue Bonnet club, its only loss this season.

Sixteen Ready For Derby Race

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 8 (AP) Sixteen finely turned three-year-old horses today accepted the issue for the 71st Kentucky Derby with the prospects that F. W. Hooper's Hoop Jr. would go postward the favorite to show the way home over Churchill Downs' racing strip soaked by two days of rain.

If the 13 colts, two geldings and one filly face the barrier tomorrow at about 5:15 p. m., Central war time, it will be the richest derby in history with a gross value of $86,875. The winner of America's premier turf event, expected to attract more than 60,000 fans, will take down a net purse of $64,850—topping the previous high of $64,675 won by Pensive last year.

For each withdrawal, permitted until 45 minutes before post time, the purse will be reduced by the starting fee of $500. Two of the field named through the entry box probably will be scratched if the going remains muddy as it was today.

Other Favorites

They are Burning Dream, carrying E. R. Bradley's hopes for his fifth derby victory, and Tom Graham's Kenilworth Lad, an outsider coupled with Bert G. in the betting. Final decision as to Burning Dream will be made by Bradley, who because of ill health will not see the race.

Another heavy rain, following yesterday's downpour, left the track in the worst condition since Clyde Van Dusen plowed through mud to win in 1929. The sun finally broke through the clouds this afternoon but it would take plenty of help from old sol to make the track anywhere near fast. And the weatherman doesn't promise too much cooperation, predicting showers for tomorrow.

Despite the prospects of bad going for the mile and one-quarter, Hoop Jr., winner of one division of the Wood Memorial at Jamaica ten days ago, vaulted into favoritism. The mile and one-eighth workout turned in by the son of Sir Gallahad 3rd last Wednesday was so sensational that horsemen and laymen, alike, figure he'll be the horse to catch from the time they swing out of the gate. His chances also are enhanced by the way he'll be piloted by Eddie Arcaro, only jockey in the race ever to win the derby. He scored with Whirlaway in 1941 and Lawrin in 1938.

Jeep, Pot O'Luck Seconds

Col. C. V. Whitney's Jeep and Warren Wright's Pot O'Luck were made co-second choices off the former's triumph in one section of the Wood and the latter's known ability to run all day. Wright won with Whirlaway and Pensive. His trainer, Ben Jones, is seeking his fourth decision, having also scored with Lawrin.

Whitney's eton blue and brown capped silks were out in front on Regret, the lone filly to take the blue ribbon event, in 1915 and Whiskery in 1927 but they represented the colonel's father, the late Harry Payne Whitney.

Jeep received one of the favored post positions when he drew the No. 2 stall, outside of Arthur Rose's filly, Misweet, and C. S. Howard's Sea Swallow. Pot O'Luck didn't do so badly with the seventh spot while Hoop Jr., a speed horse, should escape the early jamming as he'll break from near the outside.

Although transportation to derbytown was banned for the third straight year by the ODT and travel to the downs was confined largely to street cars, Matt Winn predicted the largest turnout since 1941. That year, according to Winn, there were 96,000 persons packed in the downs, where the five-sixteenth mile long stands seat 35,000.

SARAZEN IN MATCH

CHICAGO, June 8. (AP)—Gene Sarazen, veteran pro from the Brooklawn country club of New York, today filed the first entry in the 1945 All-American open golf tournament at Tam O'Shanter country club, July 26 to 29. A field of approximately 140 professionals is expected to vie for golfdom's richest stake, $57,733 in war bonds.

Optimists Coast To Win Over Rotarians

Getting away to a 13 run lead in the first two innings, the Optimist club coasted to its second straight American League junior baseball win Friday afternoon at the Boys club diamond, winning a 17 to 7 decision over the Rotary club nine.

Jackie Cook limited the Rotary nine to eight hits and his big lead was never threatened.

Marlin Smith started on the hill for the Rotary club nine, and was wild at the start, but settled down after the two bad innings, and turned in some good pitching.

Smith gave up six walks in the first inning, walked three more and hit one batsman in the second, while he was touched for 11 hits over the full seven inning route.

It was the first loss for the Rotary club, and leaves the Optimist and ABC nines setting an unbeaten pace at the end of the first week of league play.

ABC Wins Another, Nose By Lions, 9-7

Behind the steady pitching of Lester York, the American Business Club junior baseball nine nosed out the Lions club, 9 to 7, Friday afternoon at the Lubbock Boys club diamond.

It was the second loss of the season by the Lions, and tabbed them as the hard luck team of the league, losing both games by narrow margins, and through late inning rallies by the winners.

York handcuffed the Lions for five innings, while his mates piled up a 5 to 2 lead. In the sixth inning, his defense began to crumble, and the Lions staged a three run rally that tied the ball game.

John Potts, Lions club mound ace, relieved Eddie Martin in the fourth, and blanked the ABC for two innings, but weakened in the sixth, and the ABC nine exploded for a four run barrage that iced away the game.

The Lions staged a game rally in the seventh, using errors again to make most of the scores, but York pulled out of the hole in time to save the game.

SUN STREAM WINS

NEWMARKET, England, June 8 (AP)—Lord Derby's heavily backed Sun Stream won the Oaks, one of England's five classic horse races, today. The contest is restricted to three-year-old derbies and is a prelude to the famed derby which highlights tomorrow's program.

FIELDER WAITS INDUCTION

CHICAGO, June 8 (AP) — Outfielder Bill Nicholson of the Chicago Cubs, National league leader in home runs and runs batted in last season, today passed his preinduction physical examination but will play baseball until he hears from his Chestertown, Md., draft board.

REDS GET PITCHER

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 8 (AP)—Elmer Riddle, Cincinnati pitcher who has been troubled with an ailing arm, is en route to Chicago to join the Reds. Riddle said he planned to stay with the club for at least a month to give his arm another try.

Dutch Meyer Signs Five Year Contract

FORT WORTH, June 8 (AP) — That eternal optimist, Texas Christian's Dutch Meyer, today signed a new five-year contract as head coach and predicted football generally would be stronger next fall. He also said prospects at TCU were better than last season when the Horned Frogs won the Southwest Conference championship.

"Football will be stronger than it was during the past two seasons because of athletes discharged from the service," Meyer said as he entered his twenty-third year as a coach at Texas Christian. "This will mean more mature boys and of course better poise. TCU is getting a few dischargees and we look better now than we did at the same time last year."

Meyer went to TCU in 1923 as freshman football coach. He held that job for 11 years, seven of which he also was varsity baseball coach. He became varsity grid coach in 1934 when the late Francis Schmidt went to Ohio State. During the 11 years he has been head mentor, Meyer has won two Soupthwest Conference championships — 1938, when his team was undefeated and untied and was No. 1 in the nation, and last fall. His Horned Frog teams also have played in five bowl games, winning three of them.

Except for service in World War 1 and coach of basketball and baseball one year at Poly High school of Fort Worth, Meyer has been at TCU as student and coach since 1917. He would have become a coach at TCU in 1922 except that he had a contract with Cleveland of the American League.

A Law Not The Answer

Legislation Vs. Human Nature

THE man who sits behind the big desk at 1600 Pennsylvania avenue in Washington, D. C., no matter what his name or his political connections, is the President of all the people. This was true of George Washington. Is is true of Harry Truman. It has been true of every President we've had all along the line.

Therefore, the President of the United States frequently takes positions which to him, personally or politically, may not be pleasant, or practicable. But as the President of all the people, it is incumbent upon him to take such stands.

In our opinion, Mr. Truman's stand on the hotly debated and mis-named "Fair Employment Practices committee" is an example of a President's taking a stand as a purely technical and theoretical thing. Mr. Truman is an individual blessed with much common sense and as a man of such talents he is bound to know in his own mind that "you can't legislate human nature." But he has called for Congressional action guaranteeing by law certain practices upon the part of individuals, regardless of their personal choice in the matter. Mr. Truman is bound to know that such a law won't work, any more than national prohibition worked. But he undoubtedly feels it is his duty to espouse such a law and therefore he is espousing it.

No matter how promising any so-called "anti-discrimination" law may appear on paper, what it will do in practice is something else, altogether. The "FEPC," as the forerunner to proposed Congressional action is called, was brought into being not by law, but by a presidential directive possible under the War Emergencies act which gives the President broad powers during wartime. Mr. Roosevelt set up FEPC at a time when there was a shortage of labor and when it was necessary that the nation make use of every bit of labor it had; and also at a time when his political fortunes stood to gain by reawakened support on the part of the leftwingers of the country. Now, the leftwingers and spokesmen of the minority groups—in many cases they are identical individuals—seek to raise FEPC from the doubtful status of a directive-supported proposition to one supported by law. Mr. Truman has called for such a law, but powerful interests in Congress have announced they shall fight it to the last ditch.

THE basis for the fight against trying to force, by law, any national obedience to FEPC centers largely in the South. The white majority in the South simply does not want negro teachers in white schools; negro clerks in white stores; negro reporters in white newspaper offices, or negro doctors and nurses in white hospitals. No one objects to negro teachers in negro schools; negro clerks in negro stores; negro reporters and editors in negro papers; negro doctors and nurses in negro hospitals. As a matter of fact, the thinking whites not only approve negro leadership for negroes, but they go out of their way to aid and foster such negro leadership. And, by the same token, the best Southern negroes agree with the whites that both races will be better off and will be happier by adhering to the "color line." The Editor of The Morning Avalanche knows this to be true by virtue of numerous civic contacts with Lubbock's leading negroes.

The negroes of the South—and the negroes of Lubbock—do want better living conditions, and they should have them. This newspaper believes in a fair, square deal for the negroes; always has and always will. But we do not believe in a federal law attempting to force a merger of the races and neither do the wiser citizens among the negroes.

Of course, there are other angles to the FEPC than that which covers relations between whites and negroes. In the North, especially, the Gentile-Jewish friction plays a part. In other areas of the country, competition between persons of Anglo ancestry and Latin, and/or Slavic ancestory furnishes a background. But the fact remains that while a citizen—whatever his racial or religious background — has certain inaleinable rights in this country, it also is a fact that among those rights are the right to employ, or to mix with commercially, professionally or socially, whichever of his fellow citizens he so chooses.

A federal law, in our opinion, is no answer to racial and/or religious differences in the land today. Nor will a federal law ever be an answer to those differences. Tolerance, complete or partial, can come only with better understanding and broader vision—not with a statute enforced by courts, jails and police clubs.

"The world's in hell right now," declares a Louisiana evangelist who may be making the common mistake of judging the entire world by local conditions.

THE IVORY ELEPHANT
XXVII

Desperately Xavier took out his gun. He pointed at my stomach. I had a clear view of the small black hole in the muzzle that seemed to touch my flesh. Then came a report so loud that it filled the room like the blast of a coast-defense gun.

Xavier's pistol was pointed at the floor. He tried to raise it. An amazed look crossed his face and the gun dropped from his fingers. Then I heard Booker's voice.

"Xavier," he said dully, "you led with your right." The little round man opened his mouth, put his hands to his side, and slumped gently to the floor. I saw a wisp of smoke curling ceilingward from th muzzle of Booker's gun.

Booker looked at me sorrowfully. Then he cocked an ear. I heard remote sounds. Someone running over wood—a dock or a pier. A distant shout. Booker pulled down the brim of his hat.

"Trent, I'm leaving. You can explain this better than I." He paused at the door. "But I didn't kill Phineas Hudson. Killing without reason is stupid."

And with this strange bit of moral philosophy he left me.

Booker had saved my life. But it was the dogged devotion to duty of Simms that led to my discovery. The policeman had got his coffee from Simms in the kitchen. Simms had looked in on me to see if I needed anything, had found the library empty, gone to the window and seen Booker and Xavier putting the limp form that was Nicholas Trent into a car. Simms called the policeman who had managed to commandeer a cruising cab and keep us in sight until he lost the trail on the avenue by the docks. The gun-shot brought him back on the scent and not a half minute after Booker's departure, he found me. And Xavier's body.

I was taken to headquarters.

When Marks heard the story, he ordered the detail doubled at Louisburg Square, and accompanied me back to the house.

"You seem to be the focal point," he said.

Eric Woolf was just coming down the steps when we arrived. He was all Homburg and pinstripe respectability.

"But, Nicholas." He was very facile. "I've just been in to offer condolences. Miss Pat was too ill to see me."

"She's too ill to see anybody," I said shortly.

"I understand." Eric looked at Marks.

"This is Inspector Marks," I said. "Mr. Woolf. He was one of the party at The Ledges."

"How do you do, Inspector?" Eric looked at the scars on my face. He smiled. "What happened?"

"Mr. Woolf," Marks said, "we've been looking for you."

"For me?" Eric's eyebrows rose. Marks nodded.

"Questioning," he said. "We have talked with everyone else."

"Is it something about Mr. Hudson's death?" Eric asked.

"We call it murder," Marks replied. "Where will you be at noon?"

Eric stared at him soberly.

"At the Club," he said.

Marks nodded.

"If you will hold yourself in readiness."

"But, of course," Eric said. "Anything I can do." He looked back at me. "Nicholas, you must take care of yourself."

With that he left. Marks looked after him narrowly. He said:

"So that is Mr. Woolf."

"He hasn't by an chance a record?" I asked hopefully.

"Not a blemish," Marks replied. "A man with so good a record and so bad a face needs watching."

• • •

We were back in Louisburg Square after the funeral. We had stood in the cold and rain at the little burial ground in Sandy Point where the first Hudsons had ended their careers in the India trade. I was not three yards from the tall granite monument that marked the grave of every Hudson who had died for the past 150 years. I remember looking at it and marking its ostentatiousness.

When it was all over, we crept away with willing reluctance, got in the big black limousine, and drove home.

Pat had gone to her room. I sat in the library with Elijah Hudson, who looked disconcertingly like his dead brother. He had just shaken his head and said, "Why on earth should anybody want to kill Phineas?" when Pat reappeared.

"Nick," she said, "I'd forgotten somthing."

She held up a little ivory elephant.

"I don't know how it could have slipped my mind," she went on. "At the time I thought I'd never forget it."

"Forget what?" I asked.

"It was last Tuesday when I had that talk with father. I was not to think it odd or to be alarmed, he said, and it was very important."

"Yes?" I stared at the ivory elephant.

"He said if anything should happen to him. If—" Pat shook her head and closed her eyes, "he—should—die, I was to place this in the family monument in the little crypt beneath the pillars."

"That doesn't sound like your father," I said.

"Nothing that Phineas has said for the past few weeks has sounded like him," said Elijah Hudson.

"I was to go there alone," Pat said, "and to say nothing about it to anybody."

I reached out and took the figure from her. "You've already had more than you can stand. I can take it down and place it exactly as your father wished it. Were there any other directions?"

"No." Pat shook her head. "He merely said to be sure to say nothing about it to anyone."

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

A sixty-three-year-old train robber and murderer, known as a successful escape artist, is back in Kansas City State Prison today, happy to have returned to a life of safety and comfort.

He had escaped from other prisons before and gotten away, but this time he was found lying outside a shack near the city limits by passers-by who heard his feeble cries for help.

"I was just too old to make it" he told the warden, "escape from jail is for younger men then me."

BRANDEIS

Perhaps this story is a bit farfetched when applied to our own lives, and yet so many of us try to do things or get away from things only to find out that we "are just too old to make it."

For instance, this morning I thought I'd go out and help Paul, my gardener, to plant some vegetable seeds.

Well, Paul is the son of a neighboring farmer and he is just twenty-one. He gets up at five in the morning, milks the cows, does a lot of chores around the place and then comes over and does my gardening, at seventy-five cents an hour.

When he told me his price I thought it was too much, but I've found out that I wouldn't do it (or rather couldn't do it) for five times the money.

• • •

So I went out to help him, and now I sit at my typewriter stiff as a board from bending over. I had to change my shirt twice, it was wet with perspiration, and I was so tired at noon that I couldn't eat my lunch

Paul just got back from his—his was dinner, however, all ready for an afternoon's work. He had had roast pork and cabbage and a big piece of apple pie and two hunks of bread and two cups of coffee.

When I took Deuce, my dog, out for a walk a little while ago, I passed Paul's farm. There was his sister, Catherine, hanging up the wash. Three lines full and another basketful to go. She was singing, and she told me that she was going to a dance tonight. She, too, had gotten up at five, cooked breakfast and dinner, cleaned the house and done a week's wash.

But my wife is taking a nap. She is all tired out because we had company last night, and there was dinner to prepare and dishes to wash and playing the part of a pleasant hostess. There was breakfast this morning.

But Catherine is twenty-three and my wife is—(deleted by censor), at any rate my wife is nine years younger than I, and I am old enough to be Paul's father and the grandfather of his little son if he had a little son.

• • •

SO you see, it's a little bit like that old convict, after all.

We all try to escape from jail, the jail of approaching old age, and we all try to escape from the consciousness that there are lots of things that we can't do any longer because we aren't as spry as we used to be.

The old train-robber was glad to get back to the safety of his prison and we are glad to get back to the safety and comfort of our easy chair.

But why kick?

Paul will be old some day, and I was young once.

Doesn't that make it about even?

The National Whirligig

Soviet Aims Clear To Diplomats

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

ALTHOUGH Russia has built an impenetrable wall of secrecy around the vast region which she controls in eastern Europe, Moscow's far-reaching plans in that area constitute no mystery to Anglo-American diplomats and trade experts. From the Baltic to the Black Sea the Soviet Union intends to create a new economic empire which she will dominate.

TUCKER

The disappearance of Germany and her erstwhile satellite states have made a vacuum which the Russians intend to fill. More than 100,000,000 people inhabit this vast territory. Although undeveloped industrially, it is rich in natural resources. In the past Germany supplied the principal market for exports and contributed manufactured goods in return.

The Kremlin has not waited for the victorious nations to sit around a peace table and arrange for these countries to re-enter the European system. Stalin is rebuilding new governments that will look to Russia as their protector and friend. He is exacting reparations in the form of forced labor and shipment of available machinery. New boundaries have been established, and the right people have been placed in charge.

Stalin has indicated that he also seeks to bring a restored Reich into this closed economy, although as a very junior partner. He will then have transformed Russia into a European power — an ambition which most of the czars had entertained since the time of Peter the Great.

• • •

BARGAINS: The Soviet dictator's methods have caused deep concern in Whitehall and our State department. But quiet hints that "Uncle Joe" should abandon these designs, or at least defer measures aimed at acquiring complete control of eastern Europe and the Balkans, have apparently fallen on deaf ears.

Stalin may eventually use his power in this area as a bargaining chip in future deals with the United States. He needs machinery as well as raw materials. There are few tools for rebuilding his shattered cities in this part of the Continent. He will also require funds to get consumers' goods.

He has already approached London and Washington with suggestions that the western nations advance at least ten billion dollars in the near future. He may be persuaded to open up this barricaded territory in return for heavy machinery and long-range financing.

The United States will be the chief commercial victim if Stalin persists in his present program, for there can be no free trade with these millions of prospective customers under Soviet arrangements.

• • •

POLITICS: President Truman will probably refrain from active participation in local political battles, thereby breaking another Rocsevelt tradition. The new Chief Executive figures that by eschewing the role of an avowed partisan he can retain the good will which greeted his entry into the White House.

FDR, for instance, took a leading part in New York State and City politics on the ground that, as a citizen of that commonwealth, he was merely exercising his privilege as a voter. But he also found means of extending assistance to many candidates for governorships and Congress. He aroused bitter enmities inside and outside the Democratic organization with his distribution of favors and his favoritisms.

HST, naturally, was active in political affairs in Missouri, and he is more of an "organization man" than was his predecessor. But his interests never had the wide range of FDR's, and he rarely intervened in elections outside his native state.

National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan, however, will more than make up for any Presidential aloofness. He will out-Farley the famous James A. in placing the machine on a fighting basis. He has set out to increase the Democratic membership of House and Senate in 1946, especially in the upper chamber, which must ratify all peace treaties. He has plenty of money in the till, and he expects to augment the "kitty" with novel money-raising devices.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

EXPLOSIONS since V-E day in Syria, Trieste and other powder magazines convince realists that no matter what comes out of the San Francisco Conference, the peace of the world and the security of this hemisphere depend on keeping the United States the strongest nation on earth.

New York scientists warn that our position is hazardous because we are in danger of weakening the industrial machine from which comes our vast power. Disputes between capital and labor, the revival of Browderism and the shortsightedness of economic planners, they assert, may sap our vitality in the critical months ahead.

LEMAN

We now have the greatest military force and merchant marine in the world. We could build them up because we have the mightiest of all industrial setups, based on know-how, free labor, plant and raw materials. So long as this machine clicks, no state can take the lead from us.

But reconversion is menaced by cutbacks, regional unemployment and the seeming unwillingness of union chiefs and managements to settle their wage disagreements. Already minor labor conflicts are raging and more will come as V-J day approaches.

• • •

"COMMIES": Earl Browder will bear watching now that he has been ordered by his French Communist master, Jacques Duclos, to revert to "class struggle."

During the war his "Commies" were ardent advocates of the no-strike pledge because uninterrupted output and shipment aided the U.S.S.R. as well ast the U. S. A. They even favored the stretch-out, labor-saving machinery and other devices to step up production, measures which conservative union bosses fear as being detrimental to their members if permanently established. They champion the use of German slave labor because this strengthens Russia.

Now the talk in New York's Union Square is that the "Commies" will stage strikes in behalf of "workers' rights" in Detroit and other Victory plant areas.

This is camouflage. According to the informed in labor circles, the real purpose behind the threat is to retard recovery and bring about a depression, thereby weakening the industrial system of the United States while leftist nations wax strong.

• • •

HAMSTRUNG: The danger can be better appreciated if we know certain facts about our position. The biggest populations and widest land areas are not under the Stars and Stripes.

Our domestic reserves of petroleum, high-grade iron ore and natural gas are only sufficient to meet requirements for twenty-five years. We have plenty of coal, potash and phosphates but our stock piles of copper, lead and zinc are fast being depleted.

Before long we shall have to get most of our vital minerals from overseas—if we still have a Navy and merchant marine to bring them in.

The Soviet Union, the dominant European state, now has enough coal, petroleum, iron, maganese, chromium, zinc, potash and phosphates for all domestic purposes. Prospectors are constantly finding new underground treasures, such as alluvial gold in the Arctic regions and copper in the Urals. The U.S.S.R is close to the untapped mineral resources of Asia.

Senate Sincerity Facing Tests

Tariff Program, Bretton Woods Hang Fire

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Some time in the next few weeks the Senate will take up the charter of a world security organization drafted at San Francisco.

It must be ratified by the Senate by a two-thirds majority.

But, before this takes place, the Senate faces two other tests of its sincerity in international cooperation in measures tied up closely with the world political organization. The first of these, which passed the House a few days ago after a stiff fight, is for extension of the Reciprocal Tariff program. It is now being considered by the Senate Finance committee. The other is the measure embodying the Bretton Woods agreements for an international bank and monetary fund, passed Thursday by the House.

STOKES

Both are essential to the promotion of world trade and rehabilization, and therefore to world peace. Through the hard way we have learned the bitter lesson that trade barriers, by cutting off commerce among nations, contribute to nationalism, and nationalism contributes to wars. This all had its part in the war in which we are still engaged.

• • •

Opposition Is Surprising

President Roosevelt and former Secretary of State Hull were thoroughly aware of this. So is President Truman, and so, it would appear, are a majority of the American people. The administration is trying to reverse the trend after the last war when we and other nations tried to outdo each other in boosting tariffs.

It is therefore surprising to discover, both in the Senate Finance committee and in the Senate itself, that the administration's Reciprocal Tariff program is in danger, just when there is more need for it than ever before and when the rest of the world is watching us to see whether we really mean the numerous pronouncements that have come from the senate, itself, and from both parties, for international co-operation.

• • •

THE administration this time is going a step further than mere extension of the cat, which has been approved by Congress from time to time since its inauguration in 1934. It is asking for authority to reduce rates still further in negotiations for commensurate cuts by other nations. The maximum cut would be 50 per cent below the present rates.

This was the issue about which the House fight raged, and it is the point over which many senators are objecting. Yet, without this extra leeway, the Reciprocal Tariff program would mean little henceforth. For we have already nearly exhausted the allowance cut of 50 per cent below the Hawley-Smoot act rates in many cases, and in the cases of some of our best customers—England, Canada, Mexico, France and Sweden among them.

• • •

People Leading Congress?

There are indications that Congress is lagging behind the people in this matter of tariff reduction as an essential in a program of international co-operation. It was agreed in many quarters that the last election was a mandate largely on foreign policy and international co-operation, particularly because of the defeat of many outstanding isolationists.

Democratic gains in the House in that election probably counted the difference between victory and defeat on the Reciprocal Tariff program recently. For Republicans were almost solid and, if they had retained their strength of the previous Congress, they might have won with the few defections from the Democrats. That election reflected itself more in the House than in the Senate, for in the latter body only a third had to face the voters.

• • •

IT IS the view of some outstanding Republicans outside of Congress—and a few in Congress—that Republicans in Congress do not represent rank-and-file Republicans in their adamant stand on tariff reductions, nor past party leaders.

This view was expressed recently by Charles P. Taft, brother of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, and a staunch advocate of the administration Reciprocal Tariff program. After listening to arguments by Republicans members of the House Ways and Means committee, he said:

"I have been a Republican all my life, and I object to the impression given by those hearings and by the reports of them in the newspapers that these utterly unsound positions are Republican gospel. They are not."

Work To Start Soon On Howard Payne Job

BROWNWOOD, June 8. (AP) — Work on the first project of the $500,000 improvement plan at Howard Payne college will begin within 12 days, Dr. Thomas H. Taylor, college president, announced yesterday.

The building will be a $75,000 three-unit ministerial apartment.

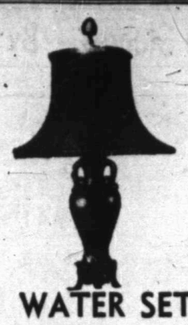

The complete program includes a 75-room men's dormitory, an addition to the girls' dormitory, a library and general repairs on the campus.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Buses are overburdened as never before. A crisis is near. With more men, tires and gas going to war, present service can barely be maintained. Each day brings greater loads. When you must travel locally, let this be your creed:

1. Do Not Ride in Rush Hours, except to and from your job.
2. Have Exact Fare Ready, saves time and fuss.
3. Move Back When Driver Asks, speeds your ride.

This simple creed will work wonders.

THANKS FARMERS
IN BEHALF of our boys in the armed forces, we wish to thank you for the way you responded to our plea for large clean grade A eggs. Because of your patriotic cooperation, we have been able to get their eggs to them much faster than could have been possible otherwise. We still have many more war department orders to fill, and the government is looking to you to help us meet our increased quotas.
If you haven't heard of the way that you can make more money, and still be helping our soldier boys, ask your neighbor, or we will give you the information. Your large clean grade A eggs are still desperately needed. Thanks again.

Jessie Adams Dies In Hawaii Hospital

Jessie Adams, son of Mrs. J. H. Adams of 3123 Twenty-first, died Tuesday in 147th General hospital in Honolulu, according to a telegram received Thursday by his mother.

The telegram did not state cause of his death. It was sent by the Veterans administration.

Adams previously had served in the Army and had received a medical discharge after suffering a leg injury about a year ago in Florida. He later joined the Merchant Marine, in which he was serving at time of his death.

Survivors in addition to his mother include two brothers, William Adams of Skellytown, and Howard Adams of Raton, N. M., and one sister, Mrs. R. M. Martin of Silsbee.

He lived in Pampa before entering service.

Aid of the Red Cross was asked this morning by Rev. G. E. Turrentine of Matador, friend of the family, in making burial arrangements. It was not known whether the body might be returned to the states.

Point Score Survey On Releases Finished

PARIS, June 8. (AP)—The point score survey that will enable the United States Army to release some 2,000,000 men not needed for the occupation of Germany for the war against Japan, has been completed ahead of schedule and forwarded to the war department, Brig. Gen. Ralph B. Lovett, adjutant general of the European theatre of operations, said today.

200,000 Japs Said Isolated

By SPENCER MOOSA
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHUNGKING, June 8 — A Chinese Army spokesman said today that approximately 200,000 Japanese troops have been isolated in southeast Asia as the Chinese offensive rolled into the northern suburbs of the vital Kwangsi province air base city of Liuchow.

The spokesman said it was quite possible that Liuchow and Kweilin, 90 miles to the northeast, would fall to the Chinese. Both cities were base sites for the U. S. 14th Air force, and their recapture would aid American air power in southern China.

Battle For Liuchow

A battle for Liuchow apparently was taking shape. The Chinese said the enemy, which has occupied the city for seven months, had strongly fortified the area and concentrated a large number of troops there.

The Chinese high command's announcement of Chinese operations around Liuchow made it plain that unofficial reports two days ago of the city's fall were premature.

The route by which the Chinese reached Liuchow's northern suburbs was not disclosed. It appeared likely, however, that the Chinese moved around the city from the south.

By shattering the southern link in the Japanese land corridor extending from Korea through China to French Indo-China, the Chinese isolated Japanese troops in Burma, Thailand, Indo-China and Malaya. The swelling Chinese offensive further threatened the Japanese forces in the stronghold of Ishan, 43 miles west of Liuchow.

May Cut Railroad

Chinese units have taken Tatang, on the Indo-China highway 21 miles southwest of Liuchow, and appear now to be in position to cut the Kweiyang-Kwangsi railroad west of Liuchow. This railroad is the main escape route for the Japanese at Ishan.

American officers said other Chinese forces moving against Ishan along the railroad were within six to 12 miles of the town from the west.

It was disclosed that the occupation of Mengshan, 75 miles east of threatened Liuchow, did not result from a long sweep by part of the Chinese forces in the Liuchow area, but was carried out by local Chinese milita. The communications town was lightly fortified by the Japanese and apparently was abandoned as part of the enemy's contraction plan in the south.

FEPC Argument

complained that the rules committee had prevented the House membership from expressing itself on the future of FEPC.

"I challenge the statement that the majority of the people of this country want this legislation," shouted Rep. Colmer (D-Miss), an opponent of a bill which would make a permanent federal law prohibiting job discrimination.

Regimentation Feared

"You talk about bureaucracy," he continued, "if this infamous, detestible scheme goes through you'll see regimentation and bureaucracy in this country that you've never seen before."

He argued that a "small willful group" is trying to force FEPC legislation through the House.

Rep. Hook (D-Pa) broke in to declare, "if the right to a job is not the right of every American citizen, then what else is that but Fascism."

Rep. Powell, negro Democrat from New York and a sponsor of the bill, declared its opponents were trying to "sabotage democracy" by letting a "small handful (of members) prevent consideration."

He referred to the fact that the bill has been bottled up in the rules committee for weeks.

News Briefs

Parkview Baptist church will hold their first service in their new location at Myrtle Drive on East Broadway at 11 o'clock Sunday morning, it was announced. The pastor, J. A. Gibson, will speak on the subject, "Making A Choice." The public is urged to attend.

Police recovered at 7:30 o'clock Friday night a 1942 Ford belonging to O. N. Stewart of Lubbock route 3 that had been reported as stolen at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The car was taken from Tenth and Ave. G and was located between Texas and Ave. J on Thirteenth.

Leon Hadley, 41, a negro, was fined $100 and costs in county court Friday on a charge of liquor law violation, and another negro, Lucy Dansby, 40, $100 and costs and 10 days in jail on a charge of stealing a watch at 3112 Twenty-first, the sheriff's office said last night. Police jailed a 17-year-old Mexican after he was found illegally wearing a service uniform, they said. At an auto court, police reprimanded a 77-year-old man who allegedly had "insulted" several little girls.

Drive Starts To Stop Leak Of War Secrets

WASHINGTON, June 8. (AP) — War secrets have been leaking from the government for months, the State department said today, and six arrests by the FBI is only one of the steps contemplated to tighten the security boundaries.

Acting Secretary Joseph C. Grew hinted other developments in the case but the Federal Bureau of Investigation said it knew of no new arrests impending now.

Grew said in a statement "a comprehensive security program is to be continued unrelentingly in order to stop completely the illegal and disloyal conveyance of confidential and other secret information to unauthorized persons."

Okinawa Advances

Maj. Gen. Pedro A. Del Valle's First division Marines swept southward past Zawa town to the north bank of the Mukue river, 1,000 yards inland directly east of Itoman town, western anchor of the Yaeju-Dake line. The advance moved the Marines 1,600 yards south of their Thursday position, south of Dakiton town.

Advances of First Marine elements, the 96th, and Seventh Infantry divisions established a fairly straight line before the well organized positions of the enemy on the escarpment.

The First Marines were using some of the captured stretch of the southwestern beach to bring in supplies between the two surviving enemy forces.

The character of Japanese resistance along the escarpment line suggests the 10th Army still has some days of tough fighting ahead.

The enemy force pocketed on Oroku peninsula are using rockets and automatic guns against the Sixth Marine division on the north but their position is endangered by the First Marine division push from the south on their rear.

A fiery curtain of Japanese mortar and machinegun fire, however, had forced the 381st regiment of the American 96th Infantry division to withdraw behind a smoke screen from a hill near Yuza in the west-center of the line.

500-Foot Height Taken

Other elements of the 96th division took and held a 500-foot height of land west of Yunagusuku in the center, while the Seventh division in the southeast recorded a hard-won 200-yard advance beyond the captured town of Gushichan.

Although Adm. Nimitz has announced that Japanese killed on Okinawa from the April 1 landing through June 6 totalled 66,324, the only reported indication of weakness among the surviving defenders came when about 1,000 broke and ran before an air strafing attack in the area of Itoman, big town on the southwest coast.

New Mexico Moves Swiftly Against Two

New Mexico justice moved swiftly Friday to put two Lubbock county men en route to the state penitentiary at Santa Fe less than 36 hours after their arrest here.

The sheriff's office and local Rangers said they had been informed that J. W. Boliver, 34, Lubbock, and V. E. Thompson, 24, Idalou, had pleaded guilty at Portales, N. M., to charges of felony theft; had been assessed sentences of three and two years, respectively; and were being taken yesterday afternoon to the New Mexico state prison.

The pair was charged with stealing 17,300 pounds of grain near Portales. They allegedly sold the grain in Lubbock.

Thompson moved recently to Idalou from Lubbock, officers said.

Shangri-La Valley

Next day food, medical supplies, a walkie-talkie and two Filipino medical technicians were dropped.

They reported that the natives had been neither helpful nor hostile. A supply of salt was dropped to the natives, and first thing anybody knew here they came bringing one of those big pigs for the survivors to roast.

One native village was near the wreck, and the tribesmen who came out to look at these strange birdmen yielded enough to cook some sweet potatoes for them.

On May 20, Capt. Cecil E. Walters and eight Filipino parachute troops were dropped into the valley about 10 miles from the survivors to begin work on a landing strip.

Finally Reach Party

They reached the survivors and the two other parachute troopers May 25, and by June 1 had them back in the valley camp after a slow and tortuous trip through incredibly wild country.

Before they left they were witnesses at an aerial funeral service. A plane came out of Hollandia May 26 and cruised over the scene of the wreckage while chaplains read the burial service.

Crosses were dropped to mark the spot where these Americans lie buried near the valley of Shangri-La.

Now a landing strip is being built so a glider can be sent in and be towed out by a transport but the Far East Air forces believe it will be a week before the party can be brought out.

Meanwhile, planes prowl the skies overhead to see that the natives behave, and the pilots swear they have never seen such fertile farm land—not even in Iowa, or Kansas, or Nebraska or Texas.

Little Big Inch Is Supplying Civilians

WASHINGTON, June 8. (AP)—The "Little Big Inch" pipe line, laid from Beaumont, Tex., to Linden, N. J., for movement of military gasoline, is now supplying civilian petroleum products to the Atlantic seaboard.

Deputy Petroleum Administrator Ralph K. Davies, who made the announcement, also said that "unexpected developments" had made possible temporary release of a few tankers from military to civilian service between gulf coast and east coast points.

MIDLAND BOND SALES

MIDLAND, June 8. (AP)—Midland sold $214,000 in war bond admissions to the Army show, "Here Is Your Infantry," which played here Wednesday night, Mayor A. N. Hendrickson said today.

Remarkable Treatment for STOMACH DISTRESS From Too Much Stomach Acid

Are you tortured with the burning misery of too much free stomach acid? Use of the famous VON TABLETS to bringing comforting relief to hundreds of such cases. Sincerely grateful people tell of what they call the "wonders" Von's Tablets have done for them. This gentle formula aims to counteract surplus, irritating stomach acid and to bring relief from such conditions. If you suffer from indigestion, gas, heartburn, belching, bloating, sour stomach and other symptoms — due to excess stomach acid — you, too, should try Von's for prompt relief right at home without rigid liquid diet.

First 1945 Cotton Is Without Takers

RIO GRANDE CITY, Tex., June 8. (AP) — The first bale of U. S. cotton for 1945 went begging today.

It was brought in by Arcadio Salinas, La Grulla grower, and ginned here at 4 p. m. yesterday. Today the 480-pound bale remained on the gin floor awaiting disposal.

County Agent Thomas Moon of Starr county said he was attempting to raise a premium among Rio Grande city business men for the grower; that Houston and Corpus Christi exchanges were not interested.

Salinas grew the first bale in 1941. He brought in 1500 pounds of seed cotton for this year's bale.

Pickets Hurt When Car Crashes Lines

BAY CITY, Mich., June 8. (AP)—Three women pickets and a police officer were injured today when an automobile was driven through a picket line at the Bay Manufacturing Co. division of Electric Autolite corporation. Police Chief Frank W. Anderson identified the driver of the car as Fred S. Wacker, assistant general manager of the plant.

Anderson, who was at the scene, said officials of Local 526, United Automobile Workers (CIO), were going over to tell the pickets to let members of the office staff go through the lines when Wacker drove into the crowd.

Agreement Reported In Trieste Dispute

LONDON, June 8. (AP)—Diplomatic sources close to the British foreign office said tonight that an agreement would be signed with Marshal Tito tomorrow bringing Trieste and all communications between Trieste and Austria "definitely under an Anglo-American military government."

This Belgrade agreement, the source said, is expected to "terminate in a very satisfactory manner a dispute which at one time was very threatening and critical."

It was indicated the accord would result in Yugoslav troops leaving the Adriatic port, which has been in contention since Germany's capitulation.

Man, 104, Has No Longevity Recipe

KANSAS CITY, June 8. (U.P.)—David S. Huffman, who will be 104 years old next Thursday, said today that he had no formula for attaining a long life.

"You can just say I've probably reached this age because I've lived so long," he grinned.

Huffman, a cavalry trooper in the southwestern Indian wars in the 1870's, was born in Liverpool, Pa. He lives alone, although relatives occupy a house nearby.

Only Few Ships Are Lost From Convoy

WASHINGTON, June 8. (U.P.)—The Navy revealed today that of 17,707 ships escorted by the Atlantic fleet during the "Battle of the Atlantic" only 17 were sunk and 15 damaged by enemy action.

While hundreds of merchant ships were sunk in the Atlantic during the war by German raiders, the great majority of those either were not in a convoy or were in a convoy escorted by units other than the U. S. Navy.

The Navy wound up the battle of the Atlantic with the latest figures on the anti-submarine warfare covering the period from Dec. 7, 1941, to May 30, 1945.

It disclosed that it took 3,732 escort trips to convoy the 17,707 ships, each convoy ranging from 24 to 119 vessels with eight or nine escorts.

In protecting their vital shipping lanes the Allies sank more than 700 German submarines during the Atlantic battle. Of these 120 were potted by U. S. ships and planes. The British claim over 500.

Man, Woman Held In Death Of Baby

TUCUMCARI, N. M., June 8. (AP)—Charges of murder were filed today against Theo Joe McKee, 27, Lebanon, Mo., and Veda Marie Yates, 26, Springfield, Mo., in the death of Mrs. Yates' 14-months-old boy at a tourist cabin here Saturday.

Both were held in jail in lieu of $10,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Fred White.

The child, Alfred Eugene Yates, died a few hours after McKee and Mrs. Yates arrived with him at the tourist cabin following a ride on a truck from Amarillo

RAILS SPECIALTIES STRONG

NEW YORK, June 8 (AP)—Assorted rails and specialties exhibited renewed strength in today's stock market while many leaders elsewhere were stymied by cautious selling.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was unchanged at 66. The session was broad, 950 issues registering. Of these, 399 advanced, 329 declined and 222 were unchanged.

Among front-liners were Douglas Aircraft, American Woolen common and preferred, U. S. Lines, Santa Fe, Great Northern, M-K-T preferred and Dow Chemical.

In the losing ranks were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Consolidated Edison, U. S. Rubber, Glenn Martin, Du Pont, Standard Oil (NJ), Anaconda, Westinghouse and Texas Co.

Secondary railway bonds improved.

NEW YORK, June 8 (AP)—Cotton futures staged a broad advance into new seasonal high ground today influenced by opposition in the Senate to present OPA strict price control.

Commission house and New Orleans buying was heavy in the distant months, selling at a discount, on the belief that enactment of the price control legislation will be followed by extension of the purchase program for another season.

The possibility that the textile ceilings may be raised pointed to larger goods output and consumption of cotton. Mills were aggressive buyers in the near months but gains were limited by considerable profit-taking and hedging against increased purchases of cotton attracted out of the loan by rising prices.

The July 1945 delivery reached a new 17-year peak for futures at 23.07 cents. Final prices were at or near the best of the day at 10 to 70 cents a bale higher.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, June 8 (AP)—The average price of middling 15-16ths-inch cotton at ten designated southern spot markets today was 5 cents a bale higher at 22.77 cents a pound. Average for the past 30 market days was 22.62. Middling 15/16ths-inch average was 21.49.

Grain . .

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, June 8 (AP) — Profit cashing and hedging caused grain markets to dip slightly after an early show of strength today but cash handlers bought on the break and prices were steady to firm.

Reports of an impending freight car shortage led shorts in July wheat to cover during the first hour. Brokers acting for southwestern interests sold on the bulge. Millers bought the September contract, removing hedges after additional flour sales.

At the finish wheat was ⅝ to 1¼ higher than yesterday's close, July $1.67⅞. Corn was unchanged to up ⅝, July 1.18⅛ bid. Oats were to ⅝ higher, July 65⅛-⅜. Rye was up ½ to 1¼, July $1.43⅛-½. Barley was ⅛ to ¼ higher, July $1.12.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, June 8 (AP) — Wheat No. 1 hard, 1.58-60.
Barley No. 2, 1.05-07.
Sorghums No. 2 yellow milo or No. 2 white kafir per 100 lb. 2.35-40.
Corn No. 2 white 1.45-50.
Oats No. 2 red 72¼-74¼.

FIRST NEW WHEAT

AMARILLO, June 8. (AP)—The first load of 1945 wheat for this section was delivered to Claude today by Claude R. Jones. The wheat tested 58 pounds per bushel and Jones' field yielded 15 bushels per acre. The price paid was $1.40 per bushel, plus a premium. Last year the first load was cut at Claude on June 16.
