Sale Of Federal Building Site To Government O.K.

Measure Expected To Expediate Construction In Few Months Of Proposed $350,000 Structure Here

Message Submitted

Action Of Both Houses On Project After Campaign Conducted By Senator Parrish, Rep. Roundtree

VIEWED by R. B. Creager, republican committeeman, and state officials as a measure which will expedite construction within a few months of the proposed $350,000 federal building in this city, a bill validating sale of the postoffice site to the United States government passed the senate and the house at Austin Saturday, according to a telegram received late last night from J. E. Vickers, of Lubbock.

The measure was submitted in a special message by Governor Moody, following an effective campaign conducted by State Senator Pink L. Parrish and Representative Carl Roundtree.

Action Clears Title.

"This action clears title to the site and in the opinion of Mr. Creager work should start immediately toward letting contract for the building," said Mr. Vickers in a communication to the Avalanche-Journal.

Norman A. Dodge of Fort Worth, United States district attorney, expressed the opinion that movement will not be taken toward letting of contract until the Lubbock county jail, situated near the proposed site, has been moved to a new location.

Half of Fund Available.

Practically half of the fund appropriated for the structure is now available for starting of construction.

South Plains Hoo Hoo Meet In City

Thirty Members Of Lumber Men's Fraternity Gather In Monthly Session Here Saturday; Guests Attend

The South Plains Hoo-Hoo club, faternal organiation of lumber dealers assembled in regular monthly meeting last night at Our Cafeteria with some 30 members present, including several guests.

A program of speaking and music had been arranged with Judge J. A. Raley, of the Lubbock Building and Loan association, as toastmaster. Jack M. Randall, of Wilson, Randall and Kirpatrick, and Dr. W. R. White, pastor of the First Baptist church, were the principal speakers of the evening. Judge Randall took as his subject "Lien and Homestead Laws in the State of Texas," and his talk was both interesting and instructive.

Talk On Cooperation.

Dr. White chose as his subject, "Cooperation." He told at some length of the vital necessity for cooperation in any organiation in order for success to meet the efforts of its promoters. Dr. White's address received the undivided attention of his hearers.

One of the features of the evening was a left-handed boxing match between Thomas E. Pirtle, S. J. Glae, L. L. Coleman and Joe Perkins. Perkins was the winner of the tilt and as a reward for his efforts was presented with a lovely

Hughes' Infant Daughter to Be Buried At Carlisle

Funeral services for Melva Caroline Hughes, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hughes, 2112 19th street, will be held this morning at the family residence with burial in the Carlisle cemetery. Bynum Brothers are in charge of the arrangements.

The child died Saturday evening at 7 o'clock.

Survivors are the mother and father, who moved to this city from Oklahoma about six months ago.

"Sunshine" Wins First Toad Derby

EL PASO, July 13. (AP)—Hundreds of El Pasoans crowded the Little Plaza today to witness the first horned toad derby, won by "Sunshine," owned by Charles Loomis of Las Cruces, N. M. Sunshine beat "Bozo" of San Angelo.

The preliminary was won by Ray Rice of Douglas, Ariz., with his entry, "Douglas" in a field of 49 starters.

A band played and traffic officers had trouble keeping the crowd away from the 50-foot "race track."

The entries, each bearing a number, were groomed carefully by their trainers. The toads raced from the center of the "track."

Pari Mutuels bets were taken at the scene. All proceeds from bets and the race were divided among charities sponsored by local newspapers.

Several Thousand To Attend Affair At Morton Today

Cochran County Seat Will Be Host To South Plains In Singing Convention; Lubbock Is Invited

Morton, county seat of Cochran county, will be host to several thousand people today who will gather for a South Plains singing convention and barbecue.

George E. Lance, editor of the Cochran County News at Morton visited in Lubbock several days ago and issued a special invitation to all Lubbock to attend the affair.

Entertainment Promised.

Lance called at the Chamber of Commerce while he was here in Lubbock and outlined Morton's plans for entertaining the visitors in real West Texas fashion.

He called attention to the fact that Morton with its $150,000 court house and $160,000 high and graded school and many new farms will present the people of the South Plains with a pleasing sight when they attend the singing convention and barbecue.

Highways in Cochran county have been put in good condition and will be in excellent shape today for those who will go from Lubbock to the convention.

Several new tracts of land have just recently been put on the market for sale. Included in these tracts is the 15,000 acre tract east of Morton which is for sale by the Lone Star Land company of Lubbock, which is known as the George M. Slaughter block. This block is 14 miles west and north of Levelland and seven miles east of Morton. It

Coste And Bellonte Turn For Paris After Reaching Azores; Poles Have Serious Engine Trouble

Landing Is Sought

Idikowski And Kubala Are Thought Down Following Reports Of Trouble; No Word For Several Hours

(By Associated Press)

THE FIRST Transatlantic air race in history ended before the contestants reached the first turn.

With about 1,000 miles of the route behind them last night, the French airmen, Coste and Bellonte, turned back at the Azores for Paris. At the same time their Polish rivals, Idzikowski and Kubala, were experiencing serious motor trouble in the same vicinity and, in fact, logically might have been considered already forced to land at sea or on one of the rocky islets of the group.

Bad Weather Assumed

Lacking any official information to explain Coste's abandonment of the flight, the French government assumed it to have been due to bitterly adverse weather conditions.

The Polish fliers reported their misfortune to the steamship Narenia at 2:36 p. m. E. S. T. in a message saying "my motor has trouble."

More than five hours later Horta reported them as indicating an urgent need for a landing location.

Silence Follows

After the Horta report not a word came from any source for everal hours.

Aviation observers deduced from this that the Polish plane must have been forced down. If at sea, it will be no new experience for the men. In August, 1928, using the same type of land plane, they came down sixty miles from the coast of Por-

Subway Opens To Traffic Monday

New Broadway Underpass At Intersection Of Santa Fe Tracks Completed At Cost Of $195,000

The new $195,000 subway under the Santa Fe tracks on East Broadway will be open probably for traffic Monday, it was announced Saturday.

All construction work on the project, expense of which was shared equally by the city of Lubbock and the Santa Fe railway company, was completed by the Panhandle Construction company last Friday night but steel facing of the underpass was painted yesterday by the railroad company. Approaches to the underpass were blocked during the painting.

Completion of the project is realization of a campaign which was started about four years ago by the city commission and the Lubbock chamber of commerce. Six months were required for installation of the underpass.

Death Calls J. W. Painter, Lubbock Citizen, Saturday

Local Man Succumbs At Hot Springs, N. M., Following Extended Illness; Funeral Services Not Set

J. W. Painter, 64, 1104 Avenue L, prominent Lubbock citizen for a number of years, died Saturday morning at 1 o'clock in Hot Springs, New Mexico, after an illness of several months. He had been in New Mexico for the past six weeks.

No definite funeral arrangements have been made, but it is understood that the body will be sent direct to Stephenville, former home of the family. Mr. Painter had lived in Lubbock for the past 8 years and was owner of the Painter House here.

He is survived by his widow, a daughter, Mrs. Pauline Owens, a son, Raymond, all of Lubbock and one sister, Mrs. J. N. Harris, of Fort Worth. The relatives, accompanied by friends, will go to Stephenville for the funeral.

Two-Cent Gas Tax To Double Monday

AUSTIN, July 13. (AP)—The present two cent gasoline tax will be doubled Monday when Governor Moody filed with the secretary of state a measure by Senator W. A. Williamson of San Antonio increasing the tax on fuel and reducing fees on passenger cars 50 per cent.

Figures announced today by the highway department reveal that approximately 1,250,000 motorists will be affected. Contrary to popular belief, reduced license fees will not become effective until January 1930.

Tractors and other farm machinery, airplanes and motor boats will use non-taxed gas under the bill.

The increased tax will yield the highway department approximately $22,000,000 annually for maintenance and new construction. From the registration fees, all counties will receive the first $50,000.

Free Conference Committee Takes Action Saturday

New $150,000 Structure Is Near Realization After Agreement Is Reached; Goes To House Monday

Dean Gordon Announces Construction Will Begin In Near Future If Measure Is Approved

A NEW LIBRARY building for Texas Technological college appears near realization with the announcement late Saturday night that an appropriation of $150,000 for the planned structure has been approved by the free conference committee, report of which will be presented the house for contemplated passage Monday.

The message announcing the committee's action predicted that the proposal probably would pass the house the early part of this week.

Senator Parrish Member

State Senator Pink L. Parrish, of Lubbock, was a member of the committee and his efforts were largely responsible for th epresent success of the measure, according to information received here.

Dean J. M. Gordon announced last night that should the report pass the house the new library building will be started with the opening of the fall session of the college.

Conditions Crowded

Inadequately housed in the administration building of the college, the library has grown to such proportion that need for a separate building has become pronouncedly acute.

Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of the institution here, and H. T. Kimbro, director, both of this city, have been in Austin several days in the interest of proposed appropriations for the college.

Entire Negro Population Of North Platte Leaves Town After Officer Is Slain With Sawed Off Shotgun

(By Associated Press)

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., July 13. Ordered by police to leave town after the slaying today of Policeman Ed Green by Louis Seelman, negro, 35, who later shot himself, the negro population of North Platte this afternoon began a general exodus.

The negroes were protected in their departure by special police sworn in after the slaying of the policeman and the subsequent formation of mobs who threatened negro residents.

The shooting grew out of an attempt by Green to arrest Seelman, previously ordered to leave town in lieu of paying a $100 fine for beating Ada Miller, negress with whom he lived. Green and another officer went to arrest Seelman.

Killed by Shotgun.

Green was shot with a sawed off shotgun as he entered Seelman's room. Officers Fitzgibbons who accompanied him, was unarmed. He gave an alarm downstairs, and stood watching the front of the house. Help came and when Seel-

Lubbock Girl Is Injured In Auto Mishap Saturday

Billie Louise Bain, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bain, 610 Avenue N, sustained slight concussion Saturday afternoon about 6:15 o'clock when she was struck down by an automobile at the corner of Main and Avenue J.

The little girl was said to have started across the street when the automobile, driven by Dr. C. N. James, struck her and knocked her to the pavement. Dr. James immediately stopped his car and ran to her and carried her to the curb. She was rushed to the Lubbock sanitarium, carried there by a man who ran most of the distance with the child in his arms.

Reports from the sanitarium last night stated that it was thought her injuries were not of a serious nature.

Self-Styled "Three Nuts" From Levelland Are Bouncing Way To All Texas County Seat Towns

ON THE ROAD 24 days or a total of 576 hours, the self-styled "Three nuts" that are making a non-stop automobile trip to include every county seat town in the state of Texas, are writing back home every day stating that they are enjoying their trip, although it is getting rather tiresome, according to information received Saturday from Levelland.

H. C. Gore, W. C. Breedlove and Walter Wright, are the men who left Levelland June 20 for the non-stop trip and have not yet killed the motor of their car. They expect to end their trip in Dallas. They have already visited about two-thirds of the county seat towns in Texas, covering the northwest, the south, west and central parts of the state. Amarillo and Lubbock have been visited.

Abilene Visited

Abilene and other towns in the heart of West Texas; San Antonio, Brownsville and other towns in south Texas and the Rio Grande Valley; and El Paso in the extreme western part of the state have all been visited.

The travelers have a typewriter along which is used to send the log of their trip back to Levelland each day. This log gives some of the difficulties the men are having in making the non-stop run, along with the names of the towns visited.

"Hello folks," says the log received Saturday, which reads in a familiar style, "We saw in a paper this morning that a car has just completed a 18-day run and claims the worlds' record for non-stop endurance running but this was made on an old brick speedway and they state that no roads could be compared with the speedway for roughness. Well, we can say this much for them, if they would only follow us where we have already been they would think that they had pavement as good as could be for their run, and anyone who has been through this country, especially from Leakey to Rock Springs via the river bottom, will tell you this

Borden Milk Plant May Be Opened Here

Mistletoe Unit In City May Be Used As New Industry

Purchase Of Interests Of Company By Organization Seen As Move For Placing Plant Here

Purchase of Mistletoe Creameries by the Borden Milk company is viewed here as a probability that the Lubbock Mistletoe unit will be converted into a canned milk plant, although no definite announcement has been received from the milk company.

The Borden company's current expansion program in the Southwest, where several plants and sub stations have been established, has given reason to believe that the purchase of Mistletoe creameries, manufacturers of ice cream and butter, will create no departure from Borden's present canned milk business.

Maggard Reticent

George T. Maggard of Amarillo, vice president and general manager of the western division of Mistletoe Creameries, would make no statement in a telephonic interview conducted by the Avalanche-Journal Saturday. He offered no negative answer when asked if Borden plans establishment of a milk plant in this city.

The Mistletoe unit, one of the major divisions of the Southwest, was established in this city four years ago. Manufacturing ice cream, the local plant buys cream which is delivered to the Amarillo unit for making butter, and in turn the butter is distributed by the local office.

Donahoo Reticent On Past 8 Years

Prisoner Captured In Post After Long Search Held In Jail Here; Charged In Mails Fraud Case

M. W. Donahoo, 35, sleek, dark haired and nattily attired glanced furtively when asked at the Lubbock county jail for an account of the transition of scenes in his life for the last eight years, during which time he has been pursued by government operatives.

Charged with using the United States mails to defraud, Donahoo has eluded officers since an investigation started in 1921 in connection with the defraud of the Pipes Grain company of Oklahoma City and the Anchor Grain company of Wichita, Kansas, of $1,300.

Arrested Thursday

Arrested Thursday at Post by Deputy United States Marshal Oscar Brothers, Donahoo would reveal no part of his eight years experience as a fugitive from justice when interviewed yesterday by an Avalanche-Journal reporter.

Relentless search through innumerable hamlets and cities of the United States and into foreign cities resulted in arrests during the eight years of two "M. W. Donahoos." Trial of each revealed innocence.

The third Donahoo has admitted his former managership of the Pipes Grain company, in connection with which the charge is made.

Never in South America

"I was never in South America," Donahoo said in referring to a search made by federal agents. "I will say nothing as to where I have spent the eight years." He admitted, however, that he has been in Texas for the last thirteen days.

Of dark complexion, and smooth hands, the slender fugitive is apparently calm and at ease in his cell, where he was found reading a western magazine. He talks in a drawl, and seldomly directs his eyes upon the person he is addressing. His bespectacled eyes sparkled at times in the semi-dark cell as he shifted restlessly on the cot.

He will be returned to Oklahoma probably Monday, Mr. Brothers indicated Saturday. He has waived extradition papers.

Dimmitt Awards Contract On New School Building

(Special To The Avalanche)

DIMMITT, July 13.—Getting together early in the afternoon on Tuesday of this week, and holding session until midnight, the Dimmitt school board closed the contracts for the erection and furnishing of the new $100,000 high school building, and construction work will begin immediately by the excavating contractor.

The general contract was awarded to G. W. Winsor, of Amarillo, for $62,500.

The brick, of a grey color, was purchased from the Amarillo Brick company, at a cost of $34 per thousand.

Electrical work will be done by the Triangle Electrical company of Lubbock, at a cost of $2,889.

The Board and teachers have been in nearly continuous session since Thursday morning, selecting equipment and supplies for the new building, and up to time of going to press, the list had not been completed for publication.

The new building will be completed and ready for occupancy on December 1st, it has been announced by B. D. Woodlee, secretary of the board.

Tax Board Ordered To Provide Capita

AUSTIN, July 13. (AP)—The state tax board was authorized to fix a rate which would yield $17 per capita for all children within the scholastic age through passage by the house late Friday a measure by Rep. Charles McCombs of Dallas.

A similar bill recently was passed by the senate, but the house chose to enact on its own measure because of the constitutional provision requiring that all revenue-raising measures originate in the house.

Board Will Start From 1st Scratch

CHICAGO, July 13. (AP)—The Federal Farm Board, in the words of its chairman, will "start froc scratch," unhampered by predetermined formulae for treatment of the farmers' ills.

"We all shall start together from scratch and think collectively," said Alexander Legge, in a conversation related in the Prairie Farmer by its publisher, Durridge D. Butler. The new board is to meet at Washington Monday for its first session.

"What we farmers must learn," he observed, "is to do collective thinking to solve our problems. A lot of fellows think the reason big business gets results is because big business has a lot of money. But the real reason is that big business has a lot of men in its organization who sit around a table and do collective thinking, and out of these conferences big business works out its problems."

Facts Bearing Upon Constitutional Amendment to Increase the Membership of the Supreme Court, to be Voted On July 16, 1929

At present, the Supreme Court of Texas consists of three judges. This Court has never had less than three judges, and at one time had five judges. Since that time, the business of this Court has multiplied to the point where it is a physical and mental impossibility for a court composed of three judges to transact it, with the care, efficiency and expedition demanded.

Unofficial Assistance

To aid the Court, the Legislature has created two branches of the Commission of Appeals, composed of three members each. The work of these Commissioners, however, is not official, but the Supreme Court itself must review and pass upon all work done by them. Because of this fact, the work of the Supreme Court proper is still further increased.

Commission of Appeals Abolished

To relieve this situation, the proposed amendment abolishes the Commission of Appeals and creates a Supreme Court of nine judges, all of whose work will be of equal dignity and authority.

Work of Court to be Continuous

Under the Constitution as now written, the Supreme Court is required to recess for three months out of the year, during which time it is unable to function. The proposed amendment also provides that the Supreme Court shall remain in continuous session for the purpose of transacting its business. The great economic saving and tremendous importance of this feature of the amendment is apparent, and, if the amendment is adopted, litigants need no longer suffer irreparable loss because of the inaction of the Supreme Court during one-fourth of the year, as is now very often the case.

Three Judges Chosen by People Each Election

The amendment provides for the appointment by the Governor of six new judges, the terms of two of whom shall expire with the terms of the respective members of the present court. Therefore: in 1930, the terms of three members of the court will expire; and at each election thereafter the terms of three other members of the court will expire, thus assuring the selection of the entire membership of the court by the people at as early a time as is practicable.

When Appointed Must be Confirmed by Two-Thirds of Senate

Additionally, each new appointee to said Court must be confirmed by a two-thirds vote of the Senate at its next session after his appointment.

This amendment was passed by the House with only five opposing votes, and by the Senate without one opposing vote.

Bar Strongly Endorses This Needed Reform

The great majority of the members of the Bar through the State are keenly aware of the need of this important reform and aided the Legislature by giving it their unstinted support.

The present members of the Supreme Court earnestly advocate and urge the adoption of the amendment because of the vastly increasing amount of work on the docket of the Court, and the absolute necessity for an adequate number of judges to dispose of it.

Increased Efficiency at ..Negligible Cost

The volume of work which is being done by the present Court is almost inconceivable, and substantially exceeds that done by the nine judges of the Supreme Court of the United States. We submit that it is, therefore, the plain duty of the voters to give these able servants of the people this much needed relief.

The increased expense through increased size of the Court and abolishing the Commissions of Appeals, is negligible.

May we not urge the people of Texas to take this further step which will add so materially to the efficiency of our entire court system.

We, the undersigned members of the bar of Lubbock county, desire to call attention to the fact that July 16th, 1929, the people will vote upon a Constitutional Amendment increasing the membership of the Supreme Court of Texas.

For many years our Supreme Court has been composed of three members. Finally, a few years ago, the work of the court became so heavy that the legisalture was virtually compelled to create two branches of the commissions of appeals, each composed of three judges, to aid and assist the court. The Supreme Court must now review the work done by these commissions, and this results in a further increase in the work of the court. However, under the present constitution, no better plan can be devised and it is to relieve this situation that this election is to be held.

If this amendment carries, the commissions of appeals will be abolished, and the Supreme Court will be composed of nine (9) members, each with equal authority. In addition to that, the court will be required to remain in continuous session, whereas under the present constitution the Supreme Court must recess for three months each year.

The cost of increasing the court to a membership of nine will be negligible, but the amount of work done by the court will be increased very much, and undue delay of decisions in appealed cases will be eliminated.

We unqualifiedly endorse this amendment, and urge the people to go to the polls and vote for it.

Fliers Are In Quest Of "Fool Proof" Plane

By NEA Service

NEW YORK, July 13. — Ocean flights, speed trails, altitude hops and endurance attempts once may have been considered tests for airplanes. But not now, and if you doubt it, ask any of the pilots in the Safe Aircraft Competition that's being held at Roosevelt Field on Long Island.

The spectacular stunts that have made many a plane world famous are as simple as flying a kite in a summer breeze—compared to the requirements for a perfect score in this contest, sponsored by the Deniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics.

Most remarkable, perhaps, is the complete lack of anything spectacular about the tests. There are no loops, spins, wing-overs or any other stunts concerned. In fact, the idea of the whole thing is to discover what most closely approxmiates a "fool proof" airplane —one which may be safely used by the average man for much the same purpose that the average man now uses his automobile.

Would Prove Safety

Said Harry F. Guggenheim, president of the fund: "The success of commercial aviation will be assured on the day that the public can be convinced that the statistics, but by actual demonstration, that airplanes are inherently no more dangerous than steamships or railways."

Neither Guggenheim, Colonel Charles Lindbergh, nor any of the other aeronautical experts connected with the competition have any preconceived ideas of just what the ultimate fool-proof plane is going to be. The Guggenheim Foundation is not interested in the commercial exploitation of the winners, but will spend more than $150,000 to discover them. Anybody, anywhere, with any kind of a heavier-than-air machine that will fly, is welcome to enter the competition—but mighty few of the craft, if any, will be able to make a high score against the nine most exacting requirements ever set down for flying machines.

Must Be Slow Flyer

The nine tests provide high hurdles. The prize winner must be able to maintain its altitude at 35 miles an hour. It must come to a complete stop within 100 feet of the spot where it first touches the ground in landing.

The craft must take off later not more than a 300-foot start along the ground and must then clear a 35-foot high obstruction 500 feet from the starting point.

To test its ability to approach an uncertain landing place, in event of engine trouble, it must, with all power shut off, glide at an angle of not more than 8 degrees to the horizon.

At a speed of 45 to 100 miles an hour, the pilot must take both hands off the controls, leaving them entirely free for at least five minutes to demonstrate the ability of his craft to right itself after disturbances from wind gusts.

Land in Small Space

It must show that if the engine suddenly fails on a steep climb, no abnormal attitude such as a stall followed by a nose dive will result and that the craft will descend on a steady easy glide without any aid from the pilot.

It must show its ability to take off and to land on a plot 500 feet square surrounded by a 25 foot obstruction.

Meeting all these, and a few more technical requirements is no small job. But even if all the entries fail it is believed that the competition will be a healthy one because it will focus attention on the possibility of a safe plane that the average man or woman can fly.

"We feel confident," said Guggenheim, "that this demonstration of the fundamentally safe airplane will point the way to the production of ships that will finally convince the public that air transport can be at least as safe as motor travel."

According to officials, scores of ships will take advantages of the invitation. Big planes, little planes, domestic and foreign, already are entered. Models submitted by unknown individual designers promise the greatest variety. A large mail order house announced it would send one of the flivver variety that costs only $450 to assemble.

Two autogiros have been entered for the $100,000 prize, a Cierva from England and a Pitcairn from the United States. A Handley Page plane now being tested in England for the competition will feature the slotted wing attachment which allows a high-angle take-off and slow sustained flight. A number of standard American models have been entered, as well as five British and one Italian.

"Monuments I'd Like To Leave"

Local People Vary In Desires For Benefits To Be Left For People After They Are Gone

It was not that their name be carved in marble or stone monuments—beneath which signature, an epitaph would cry out to the hurrying crowds that file by the white and silent cities of the dead—that, so and so, was world famed for an endurance flight, or as a great social celebrity; or the world's noted peanut pusher, or that he or she was an angelic dancer! No such ambition was put forward by the several Lubbock men and women interviewed on the subject, "Monuments I'd Like to Leave."

"The monument I'd like most to leave would not be one that could be bought with money," declared Mrs. W. M. Lawrence, active worker in the First Baptist church and Sunday schol here. "It would be that of a consecrated, helpful Christian life—one that would be a fit example for our people to follow. And most of all, I would like to be a 'soul winner.'

Build Institutions

"Passing then to the material things that money can make possible, the first material monument I'd like to erect to my memory, would be that of a number of religious institutions, such as churches and colleges with teachers that are one hundred per cent Christian."

Mrs. L. J. McLean of the Hall Music company, said when asked regarding the matter, "I'd rather leave a good name, and friends, and know that I had lived a life that people would miss me when I'm gone. To have it said of me that she lived upright and honorably. No social rating or financial gain could equal a record of that sort—and money can only buy us material things anyway. On the other hand, if I had money I would like to educate one or more orphan children. To help them make something worth while in life. That would be one of the many monuments I'd like to leave to dot life's highway when I've passed on."

Wants "Golden Rule"

W. L. Hester of the Office Equipment company declared, "I should like most to leave an influence that would promote truth, honesty and square dealing. In other words, an influence that would tend toward that of the 'golden rule' principle. As we have as great need for things of this type, as any other, as I see it. While as for making a bequest to some particular work, it would be to promote an ideal, through perhaps the publication of a book, to instill in the minds of the coming generation, that the goal of true success comes not through notoriety but instead through the daily application of the Christian principals of living. Also there is too much 'hero worshipping' and too often, public recognition acclaims so and so, as a world hero,—and, in such case his success is conferred rather than earned. If I had money, however, I'd like to go into some remote corner of the earth, where they have the least accomodations, and lend my aid to help eleviate pain and suffering and also do what I could to promote the cause of education. It's not altogether a lack of religion, that is to blame for the acute suffering in many places, it's too often due to ignorance. And, it's a long process to help bring them out of their chaotic condition, yet it can be done," said Mr. Hester.

According to Mrs. E. W. Wade, who recently moved here from Wichita Falls, and who is known to the club women of Texas through her articles in the Federation News, and also by her published poems, one of which appears in the July issue of the national poetry magazine, "The Scroll," declared that the monument she wishes most to leave, is, "She remembered those others forgot, and planted a rose or a tree—where none grew. That's my specialty in life," Mrs. Wade confided.

Opposition Made To Placing Oil On Tariff Bill

Representatives Of American Companies Ask That Petroleum Be Left On Free List Of Products

WASHINGTON, July 13. (AP) — Strong opposition to the proposal to take petroleum and its products off the free list was presented to the senate and finance sub-committee today by representatives of American companies developing the industry in Latin and South America.

The proposal of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association to place a duty on oil would increase the annual cost of petroleum products by $200,000,000, H. Walker, New York, representing American producers of oil in foreign fields, testified.

Walker said the charge that cheap labor was used in the production of oil in Mexico, Venezuela and Columbia was untrue. "American drillers, rig builders and tool dressers are used," he said, "and the only cheap native labor is that used in combatting the jungle."

Ninety per cent of the foreign production of oil is in favor of the United States, according to John S. Weller, Pittsburgh, representing the Penn-Mex Fuel company. He said most of the world's petroleum production was by Americans and American capital and that foreign produced petroleum resulted in great conservation of domestic resources.

Explaining that his company had secured concessions in Columbia and Equador and was negotiating for concessions in Peru, Walker said that American companies had gone into foreign fields under the impression that this government believed in encouraging American industry to seek business in foreign countries.

DALLAS, July 13. (AP)—W. B. Newsome, Dallas capitalist and former director of the Federal Reserve bank of Dallas, died today in Los Angeles, his son, Tom W. Newsome, informed friends here. The body will be brought here Monday.

Newsome was reared at McKinney where his father was in the mercantile business. Later he was associated with his father in that business, and then became interested in milling and banking there. At one time he was president of the Collins County National bank of McKinney. At the time of his death he was secretary-treasurer of the Morten Milling company.

Thirteen Popular In New Tribunal

BEAUMONT, July 13. (AP) — If "13" is an unlucky number for you it would be advisable that you stay away from Beaumont's new criminal district court.

The court was established by law on June 13. The first list of prospective grand jurors included 13 names. The first grand jury disposed of 13 cases in the first week and had 13 others set for consideration the second week. The 13th defendant to be tried pleaded guilty to horse theft.

Indians Take Long Struggle From Cubs

WACO, July 13. (AP)—In a game that long will be remembered in Waco, the San Antonio Indians wiped out a six-run Waco lead piled up in the first two innings of today's contest, tied the score in the ninth and sent the game into five extra innings, finally winning, 10 to 9.

Brosovich, new comer to the Tribe, hit a homer with none on for the tying count.

Stein, Brancheau and Thursman went to the mound for Waco. Both teams took 16 hits and made three errors.

'Hack' Wilson Revives Battles Of Old Days In New 'Cleanup' Role With Slugging Chicago Cubs

May Be Honored In Cincy With Riot August 5th

BY WM. M. BRAUCHER
NEA Service Sports Writer.

CHICAGO, July 13.—A couple of weeks ago Boss Joe McCarthy of the Cubs demoted Rogers Hornsby from fourth place in the batting order and installed Lewis Robert (Hack) Wilson to the cleanup role.

It begins to become fairly evident that Hack is going to be a cleanup man in every sense of the word. Also, it begins to look as if baseball were going to be put back on the you-bust-me--and-I'll-bust-you basis of the old glorious and gory days.

McCarthy must have seen plainly that Hack had gone into the cleanup business in a large way when the human fireplug walked over to the Reds' bench in Cubs' park and placed a silencing paw upon the person of Ray Kolp. Ray had been orating about Hack in this way and that.

He Bats 1.000.

That night, as both clubs were leaving Chicago, Kolp went to his berth 20 minutes before train time, but Pete Donohue lingered on the platform to say a few words to Mr. Wilson and got knocked stiff. Twice at bat in the cleanup role, Hack is batting 1.000.

Manager Jack Hendricks of the Reds was not slow to take a cue from Hack's leads, and deposes and says that when the Cubs come to Cincy August 5 for a double-header there may be quite a little confusion and alarm. That wouldn't be a bit strange for Reds' field, since every time J. J. McGraw used to stick his dome out of the dugout there several years ago, 7,854 bottles would be flung at the skull that houses baseball's master mind.

Maybe baseball needs a couple of invitational free-for-alls, like they used to have in other days in St. Louis, Cincy and New York. Whenever New York came to Cincinnati, excursion trains from many miles would haul the angry customers to Redland. Part of these would be McGraw partisans; the others, Reds. Finally the railroads cut out this monkey business, because Weideman's at 5 cents a bottle and hard feelings ruined most of the coaches when the fans would start debating McGraw's merits and demerits on the way home.

Other Combinations.

Hack Wilson looks promising enough to join the Herzog-Cobb-Koenig-Grimes-Snyder-Pipp school of baseball battlers. Olden legends name many more, but these gentlemen bear reputations of morg recent date.

Cobb and Herzog got mixed up during an exhibition series between the Tigers and Giants. Tyrus had a bad way of throwing up a leg when sliding into a close one. He came in that way at Herzog and Buck cast aspersions at his folks.

That night Cobb went to Herzog's room—and got licked. But Cobb was not one to quit a proposition before giving it a fair trial, so he went to Herzog's room the second night—and lost the decision again. Did he desist? Not Cobb. For the third time he went to Herzog's room, and this time he won the decision. Some say that Herzog got tired of seeing him come in and decided to get it over with by accepting the inevitable.

Burly Grimes is one of the same school. When Hornsby wise-cracked about his pitching ability, Burleigh swarmed all over the Rajah, and won a popular decision.

Babe Gets Busted.

Babe Ruth has been the victim of several of the bust-you fellers. Both Wally Pipp and Mark Koenig got away with decisions over the Bambino after Ruth had spoken out of turn. Many of the victims of the bust-you club have been 'jockeys,' the boys who ride the opposing players' from the bench. Leo (Mouthy) Durocher was playing a star jockey role in St. Louis during the World Series of 1928 when Jack Onslow took umbrage and a poke at Leo that busted up the show.

But people who undertake to ride Hack Wilson must like their riding rough. Hack isn't the warlike type, but he doesn't have to be. One good healthy look at him is enough. Mr. Wilson derived his nickname because he's built like a cab, though when he hits, according to observers, the effect is more like a street car.

When Hack first came to the Giants in 1924, he used to entertain the boys before the game by driving 10-penny nails into the Polo Grounds fence with his fists. Bernie Neis tried to copy the trick and spent a couple of weeks on the hospital list as a reward.

Dad a Cleanup Man, Too.

Wilson weighs about 205 pounds and has a barrel for a chest, a couple of I-beams for shoulders and wagon wheels for legs. He was born in Elwood City, Pa., in 1900 and his father was a cleanup man after a fashion, too, doing the hammer job in a steel mill.

Hack spent his youth plein' type in a printer's shop in Eddystone, Pa., and pushing around engines in the Baldwin Locomotive Works. He soon became good enough to take a hammer job in the mills and caught baseball for the Chester A. C.

His catching for the Chester A. C. got Hack a job with Martinburg, W. Va., entry in the Blue Ridge league. He was sold to Portsmouth in the Virginia league and then McGraw got him.

After John J. tried and failed to correct Hack's stance at the plate, he sold him to Toledo. One of John J.'s pleasant diversions these days, by the way, is picking up the morning paper and reading the headline "Hack Wilson's Homer Wins for Cubs Again."

The Cubs got Bouncer Wilson by draft in 1926.

"Are There Any More Suggestions From The Bench?"

Blue Larkspur Is 3-Year Old Champ

Colonel Bradley's Great Colt Captures American Classic At Arlington Park; Van Duzen Third

CHICAGO, July 13. (AP) — Blue Larkspur, Colonel E. R. Bradley's great colt, the son of Black Servant-Blossom Time, reigns supreme as three-year-old champion of the American turf.

With 50,000 spectators cheering him to victory, he won the $60,000 American classic at Arlington Park today, defeating the greatest field of three-year-olds brought together in one race in a decade. The race, at a mile and one quarter, was run over a heavy, difficult track in the slow time of 2:14 1-5.

Blue Larkspur won by five lengths, with Live Oak, a son of Master Star, which races in the colors of the Rosedale Stable, second. H. P. Gardner's Clyde Van Dusen, son of Man O'War, which triumphed in the Kentucky Derby, was third, three lengths back of Live Oak. Walter J. Salmon's Dr. Freeland, the Preakness winner was fourth. Rose of Sharon, former senator J. N. Camden's heavily played favorite, pulled up thirteenth in a field of fourteen starters. P. A. Grabner's Windy City, winner of the American Derby at Washington Park a month ago, finished twelfth.

The race was worth $59,000 to Colonel Bradley, Lexington, Ky., sportman.

Blue Larkspur rewarded his backers in the $2 mutuals with $7.40 to win, $4.74 to place, and $4.30 to show.

By winning the classic, Blue Larkspur earned the unquestionable title of three-year-old champion of America.

And He Made It
Needed Hole-In-One To Tie

RUDY MAUS, Ogden, Utah, golfer, accomplished the impossible in the recent Intermountain amateur invitational tournament. Maus was one stroke over Clyde Thomsen for the qualifying medal award in the Intermountain event. At the final hole, Thomsen laid his tee shot two inches from the cup and appeared a certain winner. Maus needed a hole-in-one to tie his rival for the prize. Maus' iron shot from the tee, 133 yards away, went straight into the cup and stayed there, tying the match. In the playoff Maus won.

LEAVE FOR VISIT

Mr. and Mrs. Williams To Go To Arizona

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Williams, son and daughter, Floyd and Miss Pauline, of 2514 21st street, and John Doyle Gammil, 2912 21st street, will leave this morning for a visit in Phoenix, Arizona. Before returning to Lubbock they also expect to visit in Los Angeles, Cal., and will be gone some three weeks.

George Perkins, a blacksmith at Northampton, England, bankruptcy court, recently testified that the increase in automobiles had killed his business.

The correspondence between Burns and Clarinda, whom the poet has described as "mistress of my soul," published at Edinburgh in 1843, was sold recently in London for $9,500.

Vets Twit Modern Tossers

By WM. M. BRAUCHER
NEA Service Sports Writer

The ball is livelier. You can find that out in the first barber shop you come to, or any other place where really serious thinkers gather to take up the world's problems one by one and get them over with.

But here's something that we may have overlooked in settling the matter of the lively ball in a large way: of late, just a suspicion has been creeping into the news here and there to the effect that even though the ball be lively, there are several gents who are called pitchers in the box scores but who are quite as dead as the old ball was—from the ears up.

Nap Rucker speaking. Nap Rucker, the old Brooklyn ace, who makes his home down in Atlanta now (of his own volition). Listen to Nap:

"There is no more pitching. . . . There are just a few tossers. . . . The batsmen nowadays grab their clubs by the end and take a free swing. A man who holds his bat in that fashion never could have hit one out of the infield on me . . . and I'm not speaking vainglioriously.

"I don't see why the younger generation of batters do not try to pattern their hitting like some of the batsmen who knew perfectly the art of timing. . . . No hit can be timed with a sweeping swing. . . . But they don't . . . they are out there swinging and grunting and missing and popping, all trying to be Babe Ruths.

"In the old days when a pitcher was taken out of the box he felt that he was disgraced. . . . Today they take that as part of the day's work and are rather relieved when they get under the showers. Baseball is different now."

Jack Coombs, whose flinging didn't greatly hurt Connie Mack's pennant winning march of years ago, agrees in several respects with the deposition of Nap Rucker.

Coombs says real pitchers care little whether the ball is rubber or as dead as a bean-bag. He points to Quinn, Grove, Walberg, Hoyt, Pipgras, Uhle, Vance, Haines, Faber and others.

Coombs draws the line among pitchers as "thinkers" and "throwers." Good pitchers get a fast ball, a hook, a change of pace and control and pitch good ball.

The others merely fling it, get into a hole where they have to put it over and it's just too bad.

Such things can be.

IN THE REALM OF SPORT

Quanah Chieftans are here today for a tussle with the Lubbock Hubbers at Merrill Park. The game starts at 3:30. Alex McColl is the pitching choice for manager Wilson while Big Jim Garner, another righthander, is slated to toil for the Redskins.

Bill Hargrove's Santa Fe boys go to Littlefield today for a doubleheader with the Lamb county nine. The Railmen have had little success with the Mueller-Ratliff combination this season and they are set to gain back at least one of the encounters lost to their rivals on the West.

The feud between the Auto-Barbers and Santa Fe teams of the Lubbock City League will be resumed at Merrill Park Monday evening. In their last meeting, the two clubs battled thru seven hectic innings to a 5-5 deadlock. Tomorrow's encounter will be in the form of a playoff. Several run-ins during the Thursday game threatened open warfare but actual hostilities were withheld for the time being. Umpire Miller was in grave danger on several occasions when made threats ranging from permanent injury to sudden death. The twilight arbiter stood up under the verbal fire with a remarkable coolness. At least two members of the Chisum aggregation have left themselves open to a barage of taunts when they appear when they appear on the field again. The result may produce additional excitement for the cash customers Monday.

The annual News-Globe baseball tournament in Amarillo will start this year on July 21. To date four teams in this section have officially accepted the invitation to compete in the championship series. These include Wellington, Pampa, Borger and the Amarillo Texans, Lubbock has but two days in which to decide on entering the tourney and put up its guarantee check. Business manager Joe Chisum was unable to say yesterday whether or not the Hubbers would be included in the teams in the tournament this year. Relative strength of the teams shows the locals to stand in a good way to cop first money. In addition to the dinero, a number of individual prizes are being offered by Amarillo merchants.

CHANGES IN THE AIR

It looks like there'll be a wholesale change in the managements of baseball teams owned and controlled by the Saint Louis Browns during the Hot Stove season just ahead. Dame Rumor has been doing duty for the past week or ten days and, chiefly, has deposed 'Howling Dan' Howley as skipper of the Brownies as the pennant chase continues thick and fast.

According to the dope spilled by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and enlarged upon by the Tulsa World, Howley and his boss, Philip DeCatesby Ball, aren't getting along so well and Dan will follow various and less successful predecessors who have tried for years to make something out of the St. Louis Americans and at the same time gee with the Ball methods of operation. Howley, Dame Rumor insists, will go to Washington or to the Boston Braves next year and will be succeeded at St. Louis by Marty Berghammer, former 'Miracle Man' of the Tulsa Oilers, recently removed to Milwaukee to succeed 'Smiling Jack' Lelivelt, canned.

Lelivelt, who had fine success with Milwaukee last year and year before, was shipped a couple of weeks ago with his Brewers doing everything but winning ball games. He caught on as pilot of the Los Angeles so he's probably well satisfied. Berghammer, who has made monkeys out of other Western league managers with his Tulsa Oilers, Brown-owned, for the past several years, was shifted to Milwaukee and is being primed to take faster company next season. While all this was going on Nick Allen, former St. Paul manager, was coaxed from his oil wells to boss Tulsa for the balance of the year and when Berghammer goes to St. Louis will succeed to the helm of the Brewers. That is—maybe!

Just who will succeed at Tulsa will be interesting to Texas fans by virtue of the fact that Doc Smith, former Cat star receiver, is being groomed for the post. B. A. Bridgewater, sports editor of the Tulsa World, says the Brown chain has been trying to get hold of Smith for several years and looks upon him with much favor as a potential manager for one of the farms. Smith is first string catcher at Tulsa now and, incidentally, is pounding the cover off the well-known sphere.

The trouble which brought forth the Howley - Berhammer - Allen-Smith rumors came, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, as a result of an argument between Howley and L. C. McEvoy, second to Ball in command of the Brown string. McEvoy, it seems, wanted Ralph Kress, Brown shortstopper, benched in favor of Eddie Roetz, who last year pastimed for Abilene in the West Texas league. Howley stuck to his buns and has continued to play Kress, claiming that he's boss of the club on the field. The rookus, however, put him 'in bad' with Ball and may be farreaching in its results. At any rate, the who business will be interesting to w—

Double Victory Over Chicago Enables Chicago To Clip Full Game Off Lead Of Macks Who Divide With St. Louis

Collins Subdues Mackmen In Opener, 3 To 1, And Bill Shores Comes Back In Nightcap To Hand Pale Hose 4-0 Shutout; Tribe Downs Nats

CHICAGO, July 13. (AP)—The Yankees took both ends of a double header from the White Sox here today, 4 to 2 in the opener and 6 to 5 in 14 innings in the night cap. The double victory enabled the champions to clip one full game from the lead of the Athletics who broke even in St. Louis and dropped to a point only seven and one-half games to the fore of the Hugmen.

Babe Ruth hit his nineteenth home run in the fifth inning of the night cap with one on and McKain pitching.

Kremer Hurls Bucs To 10-2 Triumph

PHILADELPHIA, July 13. (AP)—The leading Pirates today defeated the Phillies, 10 to 2, and made a clean sweep of the four game series. Remy Kremer rang up his fourth successive victory and the seventh in the last eight starts. He held the Phillies to eight scattered hits. One of these was Chuck Klein's 22rd home run of the season.

Robins Scuttle Cards In Final

BROOKLYN, July 13. (AP)—A rally for nine runs in the eighth enabled the Robins to come from behind and defeat the Cardinals, 15 to 8, in the final game of the series here today.

The victory placed Brooklyn within two games of the first division. Herman's homer and three Cardinal errors figured in the Robin rally.

Bill Ruggles Averts War Between Central Office And Shreveport Prexy

Former Lubbock Star Holds Bare Lead Over Cub

Shreveport Gardner Clings To Three Point Lead Despite Spree Of George Blackerby

DALLAS, July 13. (AP)—Despite a wild two-day spree by George Blackerby, Waco slugger, in which he blazed five hits in seven trips, Jon Langford, Shreveport gardener, held a slight lead in the Texas League batting race through games of Thusday. The Sport star was batting at a terrific .379 pace, as compared to Blackerby's .376.

Red Bennett, Wichita Falls' big inch, who rapidly is making Spudder fans forget there ever was a Pat Jenkins, boosted his average to .369 and was third among the regulars. Bennett also stood third in total hits, runs scored and third in homers.

Other leading swatsmiths were Cooper, (Sv) .371; Sullivan (FW) .360; Benton (WF) .362; Starr (Sv) .361; Sullivan (WF) .361; R. Moore (Ds) .336; J. Moore (Ds) .356.

Randy Moore of Dallas led in total hits with 140, pressed by Eddie Moore, Fort Worth, 133, and Bennett, Wichita Falls, 128. Whelan Shreveport first sacker, had scored the most runs, 91, with Eddie Moore and Rabbit Benton tied at 89.

Although he failed to add to his total in recent games, Sanguinet of Waco maintained a safe margin over his fellow home run clouters. He had poled 22 through Thursday. His teammate, Blackerby, had registered 18 and Bennett 17.

The fleet Eddie Moore led in triples, with 18, while his compatriot, Larmon Cox, had hit 33 doubles to lead that department. Randolph Moore had smacked 28 two-baggers.

Base Thieves Busy

Pepper Martin, Houston, and Cecil Stewart, Shreveport rookie, are running neck-and-neck for base stealing laurels. Each had pilfered 17 sacks through Thursday. Ray Flaskamper, Dallas, last year's leader, was next with 19.

When he chalked up his fourteenth victory against Shreveport Thursday, Charlie Barnabe, veteran Dallas forkhander, went into a class by himself among the pitchers. The willowy southpaw has dropped only three decisions. No other hurler had won more than 12 games.

Messenger Whiffs 76

Andy Messenger, San Antonio submarine, had fanned 76 batters. Lefty Walkup, Fort Worth portsider, had exhibited the best control, passing only 22 batters in 182 innings. Thurman, Waco slabster, had participated in the most games, 31.

Shreveport and Wichita Falls were tied for club batting honors, each with a .312 average. Dallas was next with .308. Houston as a team was hitting only .272.

Hereford Section Giving 2 Cars

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

HEREFORD, July 13.—The Terro Blanco association, composed of the Baptist churches of all counties in this section, are sponsoring the donation of a car of wheat, containing approximately 1,500 bushels, to the Buckner Orphans' Home at Dallas.

The Hicks Elevator at Hereford is handling and loading the grain free of charge, the Santa Fe railroad will transport it without cost and mills not yet announced will convert the grain into flour, gratis.

Bert Fuller and Robert Gollehon, two well-known Dimmitt farmers, will each give a truck load.

TOLLEY, THE TANKER

Cyril Tolley, who won the British amateur golf championship this year and will compete in the American amateur in September at Pebble Beach, Calif., ran a tank in the British forces in 1917.

This score was the largest margin of victory in the records of the track and field clashes between the Athletes of Old and New England. Today's meet was the "rubber" of the series and the Americans now have credit for five victories to England's four.

Babe Herman Tops National Hitters; Foxx Clings To Lead With Bare Margin

Mack's Star Loses Fourteen Points During Week

CHICAGO, July 13. (AP)—Jimmy Foxx of Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics still led American league batsmen after 12 weeks of the championship campaign, but by a margin of only one point over Hennie Manush of St. Louis. Unofficial averages including Wednesday's games reveal that Foxx had a mark of .396, a loss of 14 points.

Foxx experienced his worst week in nearly two months, and of all pitchers in the league it was against Lena Blackburne's hurlers that the Athletics' first-baseman faded. Foxx invaded Chicago with a mark of .416 and left 15 points shy of that figure. Manush added eight points to his average to go into second place with .395. Others in the first ten were: Fothergill, Detroit, .385; Lazzeri, New York, .366; Cochrane, Philadelphia, .365; Miller, Philadelphia, .361; Simmons, Philadelphia, .360; Heilmann, Detroit, .359; Falk, Cleveland, .357; Fonseca, Cleveland, .356.

Sox Slow Up Macks

The experience in Chicago, where they dropped three out of four games, helped to prune three points from the Philadelphia team average. The league leaders still led, however, with .309, one point better than Detroit. The Tigers passed the Athletics in runs scored, having crossed hostile plates 504 times this season. The A's had held opponents to 305 runs.

The leadership in team fielding was a joint affair with Philadelphia, New York and St. Louis tied at .975. Cleveland accomplished six double plays during the week, bringing its total to 91.

Bob Grove, Philadelphia ace, stepped out and got back the two defeats charged against him a week ago and topped the regulars with 14 victories and two defeats. George Blaeholder of St. Louis won one game and brought his mark to 10 triumphs and three losses, while Rube Walberg of Philadelphia lost one for a mark of 12 wins and four defeats. In the 20 games in which he had worked Grove had a strikeout collection of 105.

Other leaders: runs batted in—Simmons, Philadelphia, 85; hits—Manush, St. Louis, 126; home runs—Gehrig, New York, 22; triples—Miller, Philadelphia, 11; doubles—Gehringer, Detroit, 30; stolen bases—Gehringer, Detroit, and Cissell, Chicago, 13; triple plays—New York and Chicago, one each; team home runs—New York, 72.

He is a Swell Fellow

Walter Johnson, when he was in the spring training camp of the Washington Senators in Tampa, said he was not going to be hard with his athletes.

He also expressed a few opinions o nthe effect of golf ball players. "Golf doesn't hurt a ball player as long as he doesn't play 18 holes in the morning and arrive at the ball park all tired and full of sweat. They can play golf on their off days. We have some very fine golfers on this club and I don't want to deprive them of their pleasure. It's better to be out in the open than in a speakeasy."

Walter Johnson is that kind of a fellow. Always giving the other fellow a break and that's the reason a lot of baseball me think he never will be a successful manager.

But He Gets Mad

But, according to reports, Johnson is becoming hard. Just a few days ago one of his pitchers, Braxton, was knocked out of the box with the maximum speed that could be Muddy Ruel, the first string catcher, had one of his worst days.

Johnson learned that on the day previous, an off day, Braxton and Ruel had played 36 holes of golf under a broiling sun and that the two of them were sun burnt and out when they reported for work the next day.

Whew, What a Fine!

And then Sir Walter, the big boss, issued an order:

"Five hundred dollars fine for the next man on this ball club who plays golf before the club has played its last game."

Yep, He's a Boy Wonder!

Melvin Ott, the Giant child, who has been leading the sluggers of the major leagues with home runs, has won a big gallery at the Polo Grounds and around the National League circuit. Among them are some fair fans, as indicated in the following piece from Joe Vila, veteran New York sports editor:

"Melvin Ott, the Giant's infant prodigy, who is leading the National League in home run hitting, figured in a funny incident at the Polo Grounds the other day. A woman rooter, who sits daily in the front row of the right field stands and loudly encourages the Giants, stood up as Ott came to the bat and shouted at the top of her voice:

"Here's Melvin Ott, the boy wonder! Now, Baby hit one right into my hands!"

He Obeyed Orders

"She reached over the end of the stands and cupped her hands ready to make the catch. By a queer twist of fate, Ott lined the ball like a cannon shot straight at her hands.

"She ducked but threw up her hands in time to deflect the ball back into the stands, whereupon Ott galloped around the bases for his twenty-first homer.

"You can't beat that one."

Climbing Back

After taking the dust of the youngsters for the early half of the season, Rogers Hornsby, veteran star of the Chicago Cubs, is coming with a rush in the hit department. If the Rajah continues hitting at his present clip for the remainder of the season, he may win his seventh batting championship. Against the New York Giants yesterday, Hornsby poled out three hits out of four trips, including a home run and a double, and driving in 2 runs.

Quanah Chieftans Invade Hubbers' Stronghold Today

Jim Bradford's Redskins Boast Record Of Ten Victories And Two Defeats For Season

Quanah Chieftans, led by their Big Chief Jim Bradford, invade Merrell Park today for a battle with the rampaging Lubbock Hubbers, claimants of the unofficial amateur championship of West Texas. The game is called for 3:30.

Boasting a record of 10 victories out of 12 starts for the season, the Indians bring to Lubbock a veteran array of baseball talent that will in all probability give the Hubbers their hardest fight of the year. Such teams as Paducah, Childress, Vernon and Estelline have been forced to bow to the crack nine Bradford has assembled.

Hitting power plus worlds of hurling strength are two factors that the locals will be forced to overcome if they beat out the Hardeman county aggregation here today. Four hurlers will be included in the squad of 14 men making the trip.

Opposing Alex McColl, Lubbock mound ace, will be Big Jim Garner on the firing line for the Redskins. Williamson, another right-hander, and two southpaws, Dillon and Young, will be held for relief duty.

To cope with the formidable attack expected from the Chieftans, Manager Wilson has made several shifts in the Hubber lineup that will give the locals more power in all departments.

Following are the starting lineups:

Lubbock:	Quanah:
Brothers, lf	Ryan, lf
Waller, 2b	Black, 2b
Marshall, cf	Griggs, rf
Hill, c	Thurman, ss
Hodges, 3b	Garner, cf
Taylor, 1b	Brazil, 1b
Ater, ss	Stephenson, 3b
Hensley, rf	Bradford, c

Martinez And Colima Clash In Mexico City August 4

MEXICO CITY, July 13. (AP) — Plans are being completed for a bout here August 4 between Hilario Martinez, Spaniard, and Bert Colima, Mexican, fo rthe welterweight championship of Mexico.

Martinez came here from Havana recently after losing to Tommy White in the Cuban capital. Colima is expected to arrive from the United States shortly.

Colima now holds the championship.

NEWARK WANTS MELLANO

WACO, July 13.—(AP)—Newark of the International League has asked Waco to set a price on the services of Joe Mellano, second baseman, Manager Del Pratt of the Cubs announced today. In the event the price is right, Newark has asked for immediate delivery.

PARIS, Tex., July 13.—(AP) — The Paris Junior League baseball team won the first game of a three-game series here today from the Waco team 3 to 2.

Brooklyn Slugger Is Pressed By Vets In Hitting

NEW YORK, July 13. (AP)—Babe Herman is making the running this week in the race for National league batting honors, but with the stretch only a few weeks off other and more easily recognizable faces are peering at the leader from not far in the rear. The Brooklyn slugger has a mark of .393 for 70 games, with Frank O'Doul of Philadelphia in second place on .379.

The averages were issued today, including games of last Wednesday. Other leading regulars: Terry, New York, .369; Comorsky, Pittsburgh, .364; Klein, Philadelphia, .360; Traynor, Pittsburgh, and Hornsby, Chicago, .358; Frisch and Hafey, St. Louis, .355.

Unable to find a place among the topmost batters, young Melvin Ott of New York nevertheless leads in three highly valuable endeavors in runs scored with 80; runs batted in with 88; home runs with 24.

The youthful Giant has been unable, however, to lift his mark above .327.

"Sunny Jim" Shines

While advancing through the melancholy at the fag end of a pennant-wrecking Cardinal slump, to a personal triumph in home run hitting, Jim Bottomley of St. Louis tied a record of no less a person than Babe Ruth. In five successive games against the Phillies from July 5 through July 9. The Cardinal first-baseman punched seven home runs over the handy right field wall at Baker Bowl. The Babe hit seven in five games at the Polo grounds in 1921. He might have hit 17 had he been playing at Baker Bowl.

Bottomley's spree sent him into a tie with his team-mate, Chick Hafey, and Chuck Klein of Philadelphia for second place in the National with 26.

Bill Terry shows the way in total hits with 121, while Lloyd Waner of Pittsburgh is out in front with 12 triples, Kiki Cuyler of Chicago leads in steals with 26.

The portly and familiar figure of Burleigh Grimes overshadows the rest of the pitchers, but Guy Bush of Chicago is making a brave effort to match the Pittsburgh spitballer, stride for stride.

Grimes has won 14 and lost one for a percentage of .933, and has pitched 156 innings and 14 complete games. Lucas of Cincinnati also has started and finished 14 engagements. Bush has won 11 and lost one for .917 in 24 games, nine complete.

Three clubs are above .300 in batting, with the Phillies back in the lead at .311. The Pirates are next with .308 and the Giants third with .307. The Giants lead in fielding with .974, one point more than the Cubs.

British Rally In Davis Cup Match

BERLIN, July 13. (AP) — Rallying after two unexpected setbacks, British Davis cup forces defeated Germany today in the double match of the European Davis cup zone final round competition.

The crack British pair, I. G. Collins and J. C. Gregory, beat the German combination, Dr. H. Kleinscroth and Dr. Keinz Landmann, 6-4, 6-2, 6-0.

Germany holds a lead of two matches to one in the series and to win, needs only one victory in he two remaining singles matches, scheduled tomorrow.

"Pants" Rowland 1929 Miracle Man

CLARENCE "PANTS" ROWLAND, former manager of the Chicago White Sox and big league umpire, has turned out to be the miracle man of 1929. On May 28 the Nashville Vols, the team Rowland now manages in the Southern League, was in last place. Today the Rowlandites are in the thick of the pennant fight. The team started on a sensational winning streak, copping 26 out of 35 starts. For three weeks Relief Pitcher Roy Sanders sat and watched the regular pitchers finish their own games.

Near-Rupture Is Started In Row On Split Season

"Baseball Is Business With Me And I Don't Propose To Be Tampered With," Says Biedenharn

DALLAS, July 13.—(AP)—What for several days threatened to develop into a feud between President Ollie Biedenharn of Shreveport and the Texas League central office has been smoothed out and the boys are just like that again.

Anyway, that's what William B. Ruggles, acting league president, said today. He just had enjoyed a long distance conversation with the Shreveport magnate, in which all was explained and all forgiven.

"It was just a misunderstanding," Ruggles explained. "There will be no more friction."

Started Over Split

The near-rupture had its inception, of course, when the magnates met here two weeks ago and split the season, leaving Shreveport holding the sack by one-half game. That peeved Mr. Biedenharn, and he said so, but he didn't really buck over the traces until the crippled Dallas club tried to have Manager

Portland Golfer Wins Thirteenth Western Crown

Don Moe Defeats Gilbert Carter Of Missouri U. In Final Match Over Kansas City Course

MISSION HILLS COUNTRY CLUB, Kansas City, July 13. (AP)—Don Moe, University of Oregon sophomore from Portland, Ore., today won the thirtieth annual Western Amateur golf championship, defeating Gilbert Carter, Nevada, Mo., on the 37th hole, one up.

Carter, golf captain from the University of Missouri, lost the match because of a lost ball after a gallant uphill fight which brought him all square with Moe at the 36th hole after he had been 7 down at the start of the afternoon 18 hole round.

On the 37th hole Carter's drive was in a clump of bushes near the boundary line and he did not find it within the specified five minutes. He had taken a desperate chance and instead of playing his drive safe for a short approach had elected to shoot over a clump of tall trees direct for the green. He took a 5 to get down while Moe played conservatively and won on in two and down in two putts.

W. F. Schenck Opens Modern Apartments Building

Bosque Place Embodies Finest Home Facilities

Building Located At Main And Avenue Q Opened To People; Businesses Are Operated Also

The most desirable factor in city building is improvement of living conditions, created by efficiency and comfort of dwellings, expresses Walter F. Schenck, prominent Lubbock lawyer, and owner of the beautiful Bosque apartments and attendant improvements at Main street and Avenue Q, now open to the public.

Coupled with the commodious and splendidly furnished apartments, are a tailor shop, a grocery store and a filling staion, offering the patrons all the convenience of a concentration point of suburban stores, and yet the location's proximity to the city affords but little exercise to the energetic person who chooses to walk.

An One-Fourth Block

One-fourth of a block of improvements are included in the Schenck apartment building project.

Sixteen apartments, including eight four-room and eight five-room dwellings, are in the building. Garages for each apartment are located at the rear of the building.

Efficiency has been the paramount theme of Mr. Schenck's design. Water, lights, gas, refrigeration and all household equipment, with the exception of silverware and linens, are furnished. Each aparment is equipped with a telephone, monthly charges for which will be paid by the renter.

Modernly Designed

Of English architecture, built of face brick and tile, the apartment building is charmingly attractive. The accompanying improvements are modernly designed and harmonize effectively with the general plan for convenience. The apartment structure faces Main street, while the Heepy Cheepy store No. 2 faces Avenue Q. The filling station, owned by H. M. Williams, is located on the corner and the Globe Tailor Shop, operated by G. A. Gunn, fronts Main street.

Former mayor of Lubbock, Mr. Schenck has had a broad experience as a public official and in legal circles. While mayor of this city in 1914-15-16, he was instrumental, after a strenuous campaign, in creating municipal ownership of a light plant, which has been operating successfully since inauguration. In 1919 he was assistant attorney general of Texas, and prior to that time he was district judge at Breckenridge. While living in Wichita Falls in 1921 he served as district atorney.

All furniture for the apartments were purchased at the Rix Furniture store. All equipment is representative of the high quality of merchandise handled by the furniture company.

Refrigeration for the apartment was furnished by the Kelvinator Electric company, of which N. A. Baker is manager.

INSTALL BIG PLANT

Fertilizer Plant Will Be Opened In Texarkana

TEXARKANA, July 13. (AP)—A $750,000 fertilizer plant, one of the largest west of the Mississippi river, will be established in Texarkana soon by the International Agricultural Corporation, the chamber of commerce has announced.

Construction of trackage facilities will be started immediately and the contractor in charge of construction will arrive here July 15 to begin work.

The factory, twenty-seventh unit of the corporation's chain, will be erected on 20 acres owned by the chamber of commerce and under lease for manufacturing purposes for 99 years. Option was taken on the site in May 1928, by the fertilizer concern.

Buffalo Riding To Feature Old-Time Jubilee On Ranch

Old Settlers' Reunion Will Be Held On Bud Johnston Ranch Near Slaton July 18, 19 and 20

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

SLATON, July 13.—Wild buffalo riding, one of the most thrilling of rodeo performances, will feature the three days' Old Settlers' Reunion to be held July 18, 19 and 20, at the old Igo ranch, five miles north of Slaton, in the Yellowhouse canyon.

Fifty cowboys from all parts of New Mexico and West Texas have been secured to take part in the various rodeo events during the three days, according to H. L. Johnston, manager.

Cash Prizes to be Given

On the first day, a cash prize will be given to the oldest settler registering, and he will receive free admittance to all special attractions, Johnston said.

An old fiddlers' contest will be staged Friday morning, July 19, and will attract many entries. It will be a chief event that day.

Many Features Planned

Many other outstanding features of entertainment have been arranged for, including swimming, fishing, dancing, pony and chariot racing, public speaking, band concerts and old-fashioned chuck wagon dinners.

Cash prizes for the different events total $500, Johnston has announced. These will go to winners in many contests.

Old-timers from every part of West Texas have indicated their intention of attending the reunion, and a large crowd is expected for the entire three days.

A special platform has been constructed for the dancing and both old time "fiddle" music and modern "jazz" tunes will be played for the crowds that come to dance.

Cook Old-Time Food

An old fashion chuck wagon will be on hand at the celebration during the entire celebration where people can secure food cooked in real old time West Texas fashion.

No charge is to be made for entering the park, Johnston has announced. The Johnston ranch contains more than 5,000 acres and is one of the most beautiful and picturesque places in this section of the state. It has an abundance of pure spring water, ten miles of scenic driveways, and suitable places for outings, boating, fishing, picnicking and other outdoor sports.

"Marryin' Parson" Wins Acquittal

Solicitation of "Business" Results In Charge Of Vagrancy Filed By Opponent In "Knot-Tying"

FORT WORTH, July 13. (AP)—Solicitation of "marriage business" at the courthouse here won an acquittal for the Rev. W. B. Jordan, 60 year old "marrying parson," on a vagrancy charge.

The vagrancy charges contended that Rev. Jordan stayed around the courthouse but did no work. The Rev. J. T. Bloodworth, another of Fort Worth's "marrying parsons" as a defense witness in the vagrancy jury trial testified he had seen the Rev. Jordan "solicit marriage business." Another defense contention was that the Rev. Jordan's children paid board at home.

Assistant District Attorney Brown, examining the accused minister attempted to divulge details of a ceremony the Rev. Jordan had performed the night before his trial.

"Did you know the license the couple gave you was forged?" Brown asked.

The Rev. Jordan said he did NOT.

"Well, you married a 14-year-old girl to a man at your home last night, didn't you?"

"I don't know. She looked like a grown woman to me."

The parson admitted he married the latter couple in a hallway without turning on the light.

Acquitted of vagrancy, the Rev. Jordan said he would file a $100,000 damage suit against county officials.

Methodists Plan $23,000 Church For Crosbyton

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

CROSBYTON, July 13.—The building committeee of the Methodist church announced Sunday evening following a meeting that construction on the new place of worship would begin in the very near future.

The contract for the erection of the building has not yet been let, but, according to the building committee, this will be done within the next few days. Work on the excavation for the basemen will be started just as soon as the ground is cleared of the old building.

While the plans and specifications have not yet been finished and all details worked out, it is estimated that the building will cost around $23,000 when completed. The building over all will be 52 by 90 feet, with full basement and 18 class rooms, auditorium with a seating capacity of between four and five hundred.

Partners In Defunct Banking Concern Are Mum

NEW YORK, July 13. (AP)—Three of the partners in Clarke Brothers, defunct private banking concern, refused to answer many questions asked them at a bankruptcy referee's hearing today.

Coincidental with this United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle asserted at a John Doe hearing into the failure that the bank's four partners had admitted they transferred many millions of dollars to their wives and other members of the families before the bank went to the wall. Later Tuttle corrected this statement to many hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Crosby Tax Values Total $7,000,000

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

CROSBYTON, July 13. — George E. Mayes, county tax assessor, gave to the county commissioners court in sessions Monday an approximately taxable valuation of the county of over $7,000,000. This is an increase of over half a million dollars over last year's values. The exact figures will not be known, said Mr. Mayes, until the rolls have been completed.

The court will meet again on Saturday, July 20, at which time the tax rate for the county will be set.

The state board of commissioners will meet the latter part of July and at this time the state rate will be set.

GUANAJUATO, Guanajuato, Mexico, July 13. (AP)—The return to Guanajuato of Father Nicolas Munoz, to take charge of the Catholic churches here which had been priestless since the outbreak of the church-state controversy in 1926, was the occasion for an enthusiastic public celebration.

All church-bells in the city were set to ringing upon the arrival of Father Munoz and he was escorted through town by municipal officials while women showered the party with flowers from balconies along the streets.

The mayor delivered the churches over to the priest's care soon after his arrival.

Dimmitt District Witnesses Much Realty Activities

Farmers Flocking To New Territory Opened Up On South Plains; Dimmitt Is Busy Place

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

DIMMITT, July 13.—During the past 60 days there has been much activity in real estate circles in Dimmitt, some individual deals involving large cash sums being reported.

I. B. Brooks, local real estate dealer, reports sales approximating in the neighborhood of $75,000 and other active dealers will bring this total to well above the $100,000 mark for this 60-day period, it is conservatively estimated.

Newcomers from all sections of Texas, and many other states, are coming to this immediate section and all real estate men report that much activity will be evident during the balance of the summer, for as the farmers finish with their summer work in other sections, they are coming here to look over our land and prospects.

While the present wheat harvest has brought hundreds of strangers to Dimmitt, the desire to prospect has brought hundreds more, as evidenced on the streets daily, and the fact that all cafes, hotels and rooming houses are overtaxed and are compelled to turn away patrons nearly every day.

This pageant is being given under the auspices of the Birdie Bailey Missionary society of the Methodist church. The products of the business firms were set before the house by stunts, songs, chorus numbers and skits. A chorus consisting of girls ranging in ages from 6 to 13 was one of the outstanding features of the program.

INSTALL TWO PUMPS

Crosbyton Prepares For A Greater Water Supply

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

CROSBYTON, July 13.—The city commission has installed two new water pumps the past week and are now able to pump 500 gallons of water per minute from the two big wells. These pumps will furnish an adequate supply of water for all purposes. These two pumps will insure an abundance of water even though one should be under repair at any time. The many home lawns, city park and the recent improvements on the high school lawn have made heavy demands on the water supply causing the old pumps to wear out under the strain.

Building Program Of South Plains Reflected By Lubbock Steel Works

Lubbock and the South Plains section has been experiencing a most remarkable building program within the past several months and the Lubbock Steel Works, Inc., the only steel works concern in the South Plains section, has been taxed to capacity to take care of orders, J. I. Boggs, vice president and secretary of the concern declared yesterday.

The Lubbock Steel Works is one of four in the entire West Texas section, other such concerns being located at Wichita Falls, San Angelo and Amarillo.

Furnishes Buildings

The concern has furnished the structural steel for some of the larger buildings that have been erected on the South Plains since last August when the instiution was formed.

Right at this time over ten men are busy early and late at the plant in the northern part of Lubbock, getting out steel for a number of buildings.

Steel Supplied

Among the larger buildings under construction for which the concern is now preparing steel are the Ford garage at Turkey, 150 miles northeast; a Catholic hospital at Slaton, 18 miles southeast; a church at Ralls, 35 miles east and a high school building at Lockney, 50 miles northeast.

In addition to these jobs a number of smaller jobs are being supplied, and a large number of jobs have just been completed or are nearing completion. A new high school at Stanton is just being completed that was supplied with steel by the Lubbock Steel Works. All the steel that went into the big underpass on East Broadway here at Lubbock that is nearing completion was furnished by the concern. The Beacon Master Service Station, one of Lubbock's newest and most up-to-date automobile service stations was furnished by the steel company.

New Rate Granted

"We have just recently been granted a fabricating in transit rate by the Panhandle and Santa Fe Railway," Boggs stated recently in commenting on the progress of their business in Lubbock. "This new rate will enable us to ship in car loads of steel, fabricate it and prepare it to go into a building then ship it on out to the point where the construction work is under way, all on one bill of laden."

Being located right here in Lubbock where a majority of the contractors make their homes and headquarters who are getting the big construction jobs in Lubbock and over the South Plains section, the Lubbock Steel Works, Inc., is in a position to render a much more personal and a quicker service than companies located away from the section. The local builders can come in direct contact with officials of the local steel works and can get just what they want. They will also be contributing to a local industry by patronizing the local concern.

Interested In Lubbock

"We want to see Lubbock grow," Boggs said in commenting on the growth of their business. "We are just as interested in Lubbock and the South Plains section as any other local institution.

"One reason, I came to Lubbock was because of the Texas Technological college being here", he said. "I've a boy that I'm going to put through that college."

Ben Sibbitt, of Wichita, Kansas, is president of the corporation with J. I. Boggs, vice-president and secretary and Edgar G. Lewis, treasurer.

Well Equipped

The Lubbock Steel Works has one of the best equipped plants in the Southwest. Their work compared with the very best work in the nation. Their plant is equipped with all kind of machines, loading and unloading devises and other equipment necessary in the work.

Car loads of steel are shipped into Lubbock to the company. The steel is fabricated and made ready to be put into buildings and then shipped out to the construction work. Hundreds of car loads of the steel come in and out of Lubbock each month to and from the concern.

The steel works is one of the many industrial institutions in Lubbock that are helping to stabilize business conditions and to lend their part in the up building of Lubbock and the South Plains section. Ten men are employed at the plant now and others will be added as the work increases. Materials are purchases by the concern here in Lubbock and the plant supports the ten workers and their families.

CROPS LOOK GOOD

Howard County Expecting Bumper Crop

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

BIG SPRING, July 13.—Prospects are good for bumper crops in this county according to T. W. Ashley, business man and farmer. The cotton has not been bothered with pests to date. The recent rains have added greatly to the grain prospects throughout the entire section. The sheep and cattle are in excellent condition. Plenty of rain during May and June caused luxuriant growth of grass on the ranges.

Big Spring Gets Chicken Hatchery

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

BIG SPRING, July 13. — Big Spring is to have a chicken hatchery, to be operated by B. M. Logan & Son of Colorado, who will install a 2,000 egg incubator. The hatchery will be located on East Third street at the Big Spring Feed and Seed company building, and will be known as the Logan Hatchery.

J. V. Bush, county agent, says the poultry business is one of the most profitable in Howard county, there being a good local demand for poultry products and each season several carloads of fine turkeys and chickens are shipped out to distant points. The climate is ideal and cheap feed is produced from Howard county soil.

Old Time Hotel In City Has Story

SAN ANTONIO, July 13. (AP)—In the very center of the business district a "flop house" with sixty beds where those who have eluded death for more than four score years down strange highways and byways find a night's rest.

Many strange ships pass in the night, and most of them at one time or another find their weary way to the Night Rest Hotel, according to Shorty, the manager.

A list of recent guests includes one known as the Crutch-and-the-Cane, who gained that name because of injuries received when he leaped from a burning building years ago.

Another is Windjammer, who is 85 years old, and still walking the highway with a sturdy stride. He left a few days ago, Laredo bound.

Then there is Old Coffee, The Airdale, who is nearing 90. He has just left for Fort Worth on foot.

REGISTRATION DROPS

Five Cars Are Licensed In City On Saturday

The daily average of applications for licenses for new automobiles has slowly been dropping off since the first few days of the month and, according to records in the office of County Tax Collector A. J. Clark, only five were issued on Saturday. These include: Bailey Guess, Idalou, Ford fordor sedan; E. Guillot, Ford roadster; J. F. Frye, Ford coupe; J. E. Hartley, Buick sedan; W. I. Adkisson, Abernathy, Chevrolet landau.

A village hall built entirely by one man to seat 250 people was recently opened at Measbury, England.

Thirteen highway projects are under construction or contracted for by the Chilean government.

Two Railroads In Fight For Lines

Katy And Rock Island Seek To Purchase Line Of Beaver, Meade And Englewood Of Oklahoma

DALLAS, July 13.—The Dallas News today said that the Missouri-Kansas-Texas and the Rock Island lines will contend strongly for authority to purchase the Beaver, Meade and Englewood railway between Forgan and Huff in the Panhandle of Oklahoma. The matter will be discussed at an interstate commerce commission hearing at Oklahoma City July 26.

"Each road," the paper says, "proposes to acquire the stock of the Beaver road at about $20,000 a mile. It connects with the Katy at Forgan and the Rock Island at Hooker.

"The commercial markets of both Fort Worth and Dallas would benefit by the acquisition by either line, but in case the Katy were victor, another commercial point anticipating benefit would be Wichita Falls. For that reason, Wichita Falls interests have intervened on behalf of the Katy. Each of the roads have support local to the area traversed by the Beaver."

Projected originally to go west to the coal fields of Des Moines, New Mexico, the Beaver passes through the Oklahoma Panhandle counties of Beaver, Texas and Cimarron.

TO SELECT ROUTE

Howard County Men Are On Jury Of Views

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

BIG SPRING, July 13. — Five Howard county men appointed on a jury of view by the commissioners' court at their regular monthly session to select a route and open a highway connecting the Lomax settlement with the Elbow community in southern Howard county. Those appointed are: J. G. Crawford, Wylie Davis, Ches Anderson, J. D. Wright and Lem Stallings. The distance over which the most plausible route exists in eight miles.

CONGRATULATIONS

Mr. Schenck

This fine new apartment house is one of the finest in West Texas, and certainly is an asset to the people of Lubbock. We tender our wishes for happiness to those who live within.

BOSQUE APARTMENTS

KELVINATOR

(1) Silence—Positive and Paramount
(2) Flexible Rubber Trays for Ice Cubes

AGAIN, Kelvinator brings revolutionary new features and advancements to electric refrigeration.

The first of these is a silence of operation so positive, so nearly perfect, that the constant cold in the refrigerator becomes the only evidence that the mechanism is running.

The second is the flexible rubber tray which replaces the metal grid for the ice cubes.

Ice cubes frozen in the new 1929 Kelvinator are instantly available. You merely bend the flexible rubber tray. The cubes slip out in a twinkling.

The new Kelvinator, as always, is wholly automatic—without regulation or attention on the part of the housewife. It rapidly freezes desserts, salads and ice cubes. Summer and winter alike, it provides the proper scientific temperature to preserve food and improve its flavor, with a reliability that is unequaled.

Every home can now afford the economy, the better preservation of food, the health, the sanitation, which Kelvinator brings.

See the new Kelvinator at once, if you would learn about the latest developments in electric refrigeration. The 1929 models, in all the beauty of their new design and finish, are on display. Be sure to call and see them.

Enjoy your Kelvinator at once. Buy it NOW on Kelvinator's attractive ReDisCo monthly budget plan, as thousands are already doing. Do not wait.

Both Women and Men Appreciate This Wonderful Convenience

Made of purest and highest grade rubber, the Kelvinator rubber ice tray flexes easily in the hand, releasing the ice cubes in a flash—one, a dozen or all of them. No holding of metal trays under the faucet, no wasted ice supply, and precious minutes saved daily whenever ice is needed.

Honesty Of American People Shown In Surprisingly Low Losses Which Follow Installment Plan Purchase

Department Of Commerce In Washington Finds Retail Sales On Payments Bring Most Of Money In

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, July 13—After lengthy and exhaustive studies of retail credit and installment buying, Dr. Wilbur C. Plummer, professor of economics at the University of Pennsylvania, comes to the conclusion that the ratio of honesty among Americans is remarkably high.

Of course there are laws and policement and cautious credit bureaus which restrict our opportunities to be dishonest, but Dr. Plummer, who is temporarily attached to the Department of Commerce to direct a national survey of retail credit, asserts that the success of the retail credit structure and its very low proportion of bad debts is convincing proof.

"The strongest argument that individual consumers are honest is that although the most desirable credit principles are not applied in extending credit, we yet have this low proportion of dishonesty," he says.

Enormous Credit Sales

"Studying the affairs of 1876 retail establishments — department stores, automobile dealers, and grocery stores—with an annual business of a billion and a half dollars, we found that one-third of the department store sales, two-thirds of the automobile dealer sales and more than half of all grocery store sales were made on credit.

"The average bad-debt losses of department stores were only 9.4 per cent on regular charge account sales and 1.1 per cent on installment sales.

"Automobile dealers showed a reverse situation with regard to open credit and installment accounts, with losses of 0.9 per cent and 0.4 per cent respectively.

"Grocery stores, numbering 843, which did a credit business showed a percentage of bad debts on charge accounts of 0.6 per cent."

That makes an average for the several groups of of averages of about 0.7 per cent. Dr. Plummer points out that there are two classes of persons responsible for bad debts, those who cant' pay and those who don't want to pay.

"It isn't possible, of course, to tell just what proportion of debtors are those who simply don't want to pay," he says. "But the dishonest fellows as a rule are those who haven't anything.

"[illegible] the proportion of knaves [illegible] the customers simply can't [illegible] ove that figure of seven- [illegible] of one per cent and is pre- [illegible]ly well below that.

"[illegible]ly in very exceptional cases does anyone try to get away with goods without paying for them. It seems to me that the figures show a very high rate of honesty. Of course there are a few people who are always trying to cheat the stores and dealers and these have the most difficulty in getting credit.

"Easy credit plus many merchants out of business, but in any trade as a whole the credit losses are low. It's the merchant who goes too far in extending credit who meets with disaster. Credit is all right, but loose credit is dangerous and it has become one of the chife causes of failure among retail grocery stores.

"Credit is one of the weapons the individual store owner has against tthe chain stores. If he adopts a too lenient credit policy, however, he will attract customers who have no intention of paying and others who have difficulty in obtaining credit elsewhere."

Credit in Bankruptcy

Dr. Plummer has just made a report on a study of credit conditions and causes of failure among grocery stores in Louisville, Ky., where 416 stores were examined. This shows that among 30 stores which were on the verge of bankruptcy the average credit loss was several times as great as among the other 386. Five of them had ratios of bad debts to credit sales of 31.8, 17.5, 19.2, 25 and 37.4 per cent, whereas the average credit loss for well-conducted grocery stores is less than 0.5 per cent The fact was brought out that the larger the store the smaller the proportion of bad-debt losses.

"There are three sound principles for installment credit," Dr. Plummer says. Adequate investigation ought to be made of the individual's honesty and ability to pay. A down payment ought to be required large enough to insure the seller. Another thing the stores should find out, which they don't, is the size of the buyer's income and his existing instalment obligations.

"But if people were more dishonest I suppose the merchants would be more stringent."

Petition Asks For Eastern Bus Mail

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

CROSBYTON, July 13.—A petition is being circulated this week by W. T. Dunn, secretary of the chamber of commerce, to be presented to the postoffice department at Washington, asking that the mail be carried by the bus line from Crosbyton to Lubbock leaving out of here at 2:30 o'clock each evening. At present we have but one mail a day, which is brought in by the train about 11:30 and leaves out immediately. The Crosbyton petition is being joined by the citizens of Spur, Ralls, Lorenzo and Idalou.

Prior to July 1st a trial contract was given the bus line to carry the mail for a few months as set out in the petition, and also a mail coming in from the west on the early bus at nine o'clock, and it was very pleasing to the citizenship of Crosbyton as well as the other towns along the route, to get their mail at this time with an opportunity of getting their mail at another hour later in the afternoon, however, this contract has expired and the petition is praying the department that this may be reestablished.

Eight Texas Railroads Are Same To Commision

AUSTIN, July 13. (AP)—For rate making purposes, the railroad commission has issued an order announcing that eight Texas railroads, including the Texas and Pacific "Shall be considered and treated as being under the same management and control."

These lines are: Abilene and Southern, Cisco and Northeastern, Denison and Pacific suburban, Pecos Valley Southern, Texas-New Mexico railway, Texas and Pacific, Texas Short Line railway and Weatherford, Mineral Wells and Northwestern.

The order is effective five days after publication by carriers, not later than August 28.

FLIERS ARE HONORED

Yancey And Williams Given Aeronautics Medal

ROME, July 13. (AP)—Italy's gold medal for aeronautics was pinned this evening on the tunics of Captain Lewis A. Yancey and Roger Q. Williams, who flew the Pathfinder from Old Orchard, Maine, to the Eternal City. The presentation was made by General Italo Balbo, under secretary for aviation, and it took place to the accompaniment of roaring cheers from a big crowd of black-shirted fascists.

The reception accorded the flier was almost as deafening to them as was the constant roar of their motor on the trans-Atlantic hop. Not only did the crowd yell itself hoarse, but Italian government planes swooped down over the heads of the assemblage, the roar of their engines adding to the din.

"The popular idea that diphtheria is due to defective drains and other gross insanitary conditions does not appear to have any truth in it," declared the medical officer for Somerset, England, in a recent report.

Myrtle Murray To Judge 4-H Teams

Representative Of A. And M. College To Select Winning Team To Compete For Trip

Miss Myrtle Murray, of the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college, will be in Lubbock next Thursday for the purpose of judging 4-H team demonstrations in this county, according to an announcement made yesterday by Miss Louise Baird, county home demonstration agent.

Three teams in Lubbock county will be judged starting at 9 o'clock Thursday morning at the office of the county agent. The winning team will compete with others in this district for the honor of a trip to College Station for the annual Short Course. Two teams will be picked from the district.

To Give Demonstrations

The Hardy team, composed of Misses Fay Middleton and Elizabeth Hudson, will demonstrate appropriate footwear.

The Posey team, composed of Misses Geraldine Wicker and Jewel Wilson, will demonstrate dyeing and renovation of clothing.

The team from Liberty, composed of Misses Marie Flemming and Demaris Thummel, will demonstrate seams and finishes.

Refreshing Scenes From Some Of The Famous "Ole' Swimming" Holes Around The Universe

Sea here—you'd better get in the swim! For most everyone's a beach-nut nowadays, as aquatic cameramen for The Avalanche and NEA Service discovered . . . . . If you have friends who get hot at cards, you might recommend they dampen their ardor by making a water sport out of the game, like the five deck-hounds shown above. They can't hide aces up their sleeves . . . . The English Channel hasn't been overlooked, and Walter Brickett, veteran swimming instructor, is pictured below with his young proteges, Agnes Nicks, left, and Catherine Burge — two "finds" that'll run in the same Channel . . . . Over in Rumania there was a royal meeting between King Neptune and young King Michael, who had a doggy time with a little sailboat at the seashore . . . . All dives aren't premeditated, and it was a mean spill Helen Meany took off the shoulders of Johnny Weismuller, aquaplaning on Long Island Sound. They're both Olympic aquatic champions . . . No need to go to the ocean to get cool on a hot day—and who'd want to go, with such attractions as seven comely chorus girls turning the sidewalks of New York into a synthetic beach and water from a fire hydrant pouring over their permanent waves? . . . . There's a double purpose in the two Zitenfield twins—Phyllis and Bernice — of New York, being at Dover, England, right now. They're both in training for a swim across the Channel . . . . You can be tired and still take a perfect dive off a springboard—and Arthur Kurtz, upper right, former holder of the Western A. A. U. diving championship, shows how . . . Don't stay home from the beach because you need a new bathing suit. Top hats and full evening dress are just as good—in fact, better, if you'd join the freak swimming party shown lower right at Hyde Park, England.

Lamesa News

Pioneers to Be Honored

The only two pioneers included in the United States census of the year 1900, and still living in Dawson county, are to be honored by the Lamesa Luncheon Club.

These two pioneers, W. V. P. (Billie) Barker and Harry Morgan, will be presented with a framed document wishing them long life, happiness, health and the esteem of the residents of Dawson county.

The club pays tribute to the men whose indominable spirit made the South Plains of Texas what they are today. The document has been adopted and authorized by the President of the club, Mr. W. W. Evans, and the secretary, T. F. Vaughn.

Baseball Tournament

A Lamesa Baseball Tournament is to be organized here this week, with all Lamesa residents eligible. Bill White is to be manager of the new team.

Mr. Alvin Mitchell of Abilene will preach here at the Church of Christ during the absence of Bro. J. D. Boren. Mr. Mitchell is a graduate of Abilene Christian College and has received a Bachelor of Arts Degree, and a first grade permanent high certificate. Mr. Mitchell preached last year as local minister of the Church of Christ at Comanche, Texas.

Club Encampment

The City Tourist Park is being made ready for the annual Club encampment for the several hundred boys, girls and women enrolled as Club members of Dawson county, who will convene for a full day of training and instruction. The encampment is under the direction of the local agents, Miss Genevieve Chipman and Mr. W. W. Evans. Miss Myrtle Murray and S. C. Evans of the A & M College will also be present.

Twenty prizes are to be awarded, ten being merchant prizes and the others being paid trips to the A & M Short Course and State Club Encampment. These prizes are to be divided between boys, girls and women.

Whitehead Club

Mrs. Jack Phinizy entertained the Bridge club this week at her home. Out of town guests for the evening were: Mrs. Vaughn of Abilene, Mrs. Bordenkircher of Oklahoma, and Mrs. Tom Burnside of Abilene. Club members present were: Mesdames Lee Hanson, Tom Wood, William Cates, Philips Yonge, Allen G. Barnard, W. D. Arnett, J. E. Garland and D. H. Wallave. High score for the evening was made by Mrs. Vaukin who was presented with a lovely box of dusting powder. A fruit salad course was served consisting of sandwiches, fruit calad and iced tea.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Leming have returned to their home in San Antonio after a week's visit with their aunt, Mrs. H. J. Price, and were accompanied to the Carlsbad Caverns by Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Alsobrook and children, and Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Bockman and little daughter.

Miss Gladys and Laura Alsobrook have here Monday for a ten days trip to East Texas. They will visit with relatives in Dallas, Paris, Greenville, Clarksville, and other points.

Wednesday Club

Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Howard Thurston. Out of town guests for the afternoon were: Mrs. Tom Burnside of Abilene and Mrs. Bordenkircher. Club members were: Mesdames William Cates, Allen G. Barnard, J. Lonnie Teal, Sid Wells, W. D. Arnett and D. H. Lamb. Refreshments consisting of pear salad, sandwiches and iced tea were served. Mrs. W. D. Arnett made high score fo rthe evening and was presented with a beautiful sandwich plate. Mrs. Tom Burnside and Mrs. Bordenkircher were presented with a lovely bud-vase each. This Club has now changed their name from the Wednesday Club to the K. K. K. Club.

The Third Group Quarterly Conference of the Methodist church met here at the Methodist church on Thursday for an all day conference met with Reverend D. B. Doak of the Lubbock District in charge of the conference. Pastors and officials of the following local charges met to balance up their financial business for the year: Lamesa circuit, Lamesa Station, Spraberberg, O'Donnell Ackerly, McCarty, Ballard, Higginbotham, Mount Olive, Hancock, Liberty, Patricia, Threerees, Andrews and Pride.

Following the general assembly Reverend Doak addressed he Conference with the subject "Address of the Stewardship."

After this most interesting talk an old fashioned Methodist Experience" meeting was held with all the members relating their past experiences. Lunch served cafeteria style was given in the basement of the Church by the Ladies of the Lamesa Women's Missionary Society. After dinner the various chrages met in group conferences to discuss their past and future work. The main speaker for the afternoon session was Lay Reader Cline also of the Lubbock District, who addressed the body as a whole.

Fully 150 delegates attended the Confernece, and as expressed by the Pastor of the First Methodist Church Reverend W. P. Garvin was very satisfactory.

Mrs. Bordenkircher of Oklahoma City is visiting here with her daughter, Mrs. William Cates.

Connally Baldwin who has been attending the C. M. T. C. Camp at Ft. Logan, Colorado, was badly hurt in an accident last week. He was caught and crushed between two wagons, and will be confined to his bed for at last three weeks.

Mrs. Arthur Yonge, sr., of Post, Texas, is here visiting with her son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Yonge.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Burnside and little daughter Evelyn of Abilene are visiting with friends here for a week. They plan to move to Lamesa within the next few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Webb of Washington, D. C., arrived Monday for a two weeks vacation here. Mr. Webb is employed in the government printing office of that city, and Mrs. Webb is an experienced librarian. After leaving Lamesa they will go to Lovington, New Mexico, where a family reunion is to be held. Mr. Marshall resided at McCarty and was one of the older settlers of Lamesa.

Postmaster J. D. Dyer and family are visiting Mr. Dyer's father, T. L. Dyer of Lipton this week. They will also visit Mrs. Dyed's father, Texas, before returning to Lamesa.

Terry County 4-H Clubs Have 300 At Annual Meet

Past Year's Work Witnesses Many Of Projects Finished

Biggest Pig Club In World Reports Many Pigs Sold; Day Started With Parade Of 200 Boys and Girls

It is easy to understand why Terry county farmers have money in their banks; why they are not borrowing money from the banks, as they formerly did; why more and more purebred livestock, dairy cattle and poultry are being enumerated, when one sees the way the county's boys and girls work at the business of being 4-H club members.

Friday more than 300 4-H boys and girls of Terry county, gathered for an all-day meeting at Brownfield. And the meeting was not for fun. It was a business gathering of the most intense kind.

Parade Sees 200 Marching

There were approximately 200 boys and girls in the parade, which marched through the business section of Brownfield, at 10 o'clock Friday morning, ending at the tabernacle, one block southeast of the court house where others gathered. Here two long sessions, where 4-H members listended to instructive addresses by a number of agricultural and business experts, were held, in the morning and afternoon.

At noon luncheon was served by the Brownfield chamber of commerce and the Terry County Farm Bureau. Following the afternoon session all club members were the guests of the Brownfield Rotary club at a theater party at the Rialto.

Speakers on the day's program included Prof. Ray C. Mowery, of the animal husbandry department of Texas Technological college; J. D. Tinsley, agricultural agent for the Santa Fe railway; J. D. Coghlan, field director of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association, David F. Eaton, Lubbock county agent; Mr. Galloway, head of the poultry extension department of the Panhandle Lumber company; Roy B. Davis, Terry county agent, and a few others.

Club Project Results are Told

At the morning session John Young, vice president of the Terry county 4-H club federation, presided, while in the afternoon Harlan Howell, president of the county federation of clubs and of the Brownfield 4-H club, presided. A number of outstanding club members were called on during the day to tell of the results of their various projects, which were started about a year ago. All of these were exceedingly interesting, and all reported money made on every project.

Terry county has the honor of possessing the world's largest purebred pig club, with 150 members, all having taken the raising of a purebred pig as their project.

When the clubs were first organized a year ago, and the pig clubs immediately started, the largest shipment ever made by the famous Lillard Farms of Arlington to any clubs in the United States, was made to Brownfield, when almost 100 purebred Poland Chinas, Duroos and Hampshires were sent to Terry county. These pigs, together with many others secured from breeders of purebred hogs, located in the county, have all been raised and the resultant increases sold.

County Agent Has Much Work

Eighteen clubs are now organized in the county, the boys and girls work all being under the supervision of Roy B. Davis, county agent, as the county does not employ a home demonstration agent.

Friday four of these 18 clubs reported 100 per cent attendance at this club day, the prize of one free trip to the A. and M. college short course being awarded to the Johnson 4-H club because of it having more members than either of the other three, the Challis, Scuddy and Harmony clubs.

Two outstanding addresses were delivered at this meeting. One, by Prof. Mowery of Texas Tech, on the advantages of taking an agricultural course in college, and the other by Mr. Coughlan, on the subject of Farm Life as a Life and a Business.

Aggie Course Is Best

Prof. Mowery declared that, even though a student at college did not intend to pursue the business of agriculture, either as a county agent, as an extension worker for the United States department of agriculture, superintendent of some experiment station, or one of the numerous specialized position open to graduates in agriculture, a course in agriculture would do more to fit the young man or young woman for a business career in a great agricultural area, than any course available in any college.

"There is sufficient in liberal art subjects, compulsory with your course in agriculture, to give you all that is necessary of the artistics, so-called, in college life," Mowery said, "but, by training in agriculture, you will be better fitted to understand the problems of farmers and to deal with farmers, or to know the economic conditions of an agricultural empire, such as yo uare living in, than you could be by the study of engineering, or any other course."

Too Few Return to Farm

Mr. Coughlan stated that too few boys, when getting their higher education in agriculture, go back to the farm and put what they have learned into actual practice. He urged a greater study of the three basic fundamentals of success for all industries, economic finance, economic production and economic distribution, and declared that the farmer must solve his own problems.

It was through the efforts of farmers' co-operative organizations that the present farm bill has been passed, Coughlan stated. These organizations have been working for 10 years to this end. And he said that the assistance to be offered by this new farm board, when finally organized and operating, would be to associations, not to the individual farmers.

Included in several out of town visitors to the meeting were R. E. Shaver of Tahoka, Lynn county agent; County Agent Evans of Dawson county; C. C. Williams of Tahoka, chamber of commerce secretary; Frank A. Buckley, teacher of vocational agriculture in the Seagraves high school; J. R. Newman, I. J. Thornton, N. H. Payne, James Potts of Lubbock.

Operations Turn To Rails In New York Stock Mart

Nearly Score Of Carrier Stocks Are Sent To Record High Levels In Short Session On Saturday

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER,
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, July 13. (AP) — The bull party switched operations to the rails in today's two hour session of the stock market and sent nearly a score of the carrier stocks to record high levels.

The market was unsettled by another bear drive on the coppers, and there was a tendency to take profits in many of the utilities and industrials, but losses mostly were moderate. Extreme gains in the rails ranged to a maximum of nearly 16 points in New York central, and The Associated Press index of 20 leading issues in this group rose 5 points to the highest level yet recorded.

Await Opportunity

Operators for the advance have been awaiting an opportunity for a move i nthis group feeling that the favorable aspects of the St. Louis & O'Fallon decision have not yet been fully discounted marketwise, particularly in view of the large volume of freight movement, which set a new record for the first half of the year, freight car loadings making their best showing for the last week of June.

Daily Markets

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, July 13. (AP) — Livestock trade in line with prices yesterday. Hardly enough of any one class changed hands to test values.

Trade in grown cattle limited to package lots, common in quality. No steers or bulls changed hands. Ten cows sold from 4.50 for very thin canners to 8.00@9.00; a few of the better individuals.

Few heifers offered, mostly common, 7.00@9.00.

Calves full steady. One load heavy Brama 11.10; another load on the stocker order 11.25.

Sheep considered steady all classes.

Hogs did not measure up to those of yesterday when 11.85 was paid. Today's top was 11.70, called steady, quality considered. Truck top 11.35; packing sows at 9.50@10.00.

MID-WESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, July 13. (AP) — Livestock trade around the 11-market circuit this week was featured by a sharp advance on hogs. Current values are unevenly 25-65c higher than last week's close. St. Louis had a late top of 12.40.

Fat lamb prices fluctuated throughout the week and closing figures are steady to 25c lower than a week ago. Other killing classes of sheep firm to 25c higher.

Killing classes of cattle unsettled. Highly finished fed steers closing the week firm to slightly higher but other classes are steady to unevenly lower.

Manure Is Worth $15 Year Per Cow

How dairy farmers can make $15 more per cow each year by saving and spreading good old-fashioned manure is told by J. L. Thomas, dairy specialist in the extension service. "An average cow produces about 10 tons of manure annually," he declares, "and at least half of this cn be saved if suitabel barns and lots are provided and the herd managed properly. Manure is worth about $3 per ton if applied on land. An example of its value is found in Franklin county where Ross Newsome has been conducting a cropping demonstration involving the use of manure for three years. He scattered ten tons each year on each of three acres. In 1925, before the manure was applied, this land produced onethird of a bale of cotton to the acre; in 1926 it raised 30 bushels of corn per acre; in 1927 more than half a bale of cotton; and last year Mr. Newsome gathered 52 bushels of corn to the acre."

People of France ate nearly 63,000,000 pounds of American dried fruits last year.

Cotton Market Is Reported Dull In Saturday Session

NEW ORLEANS, July 13. (AP) — Cotton was decidedly dull in today's short session. During the first hour traders were waiting for the census report on domestic mill consumption during June with the total of 570,201 about what had been expected. The result was that trading failed to revive.

Prices declined 7 to 8 points in early trading owing to unfavorable Liverpool cables and although most of this loss was soon recovered on reports of rain in the Atlantic states, the market eased off again and closed at or near the lows.

October Drops.

October dropped to 18.14 or 7 points down for the day. It rallied to 18.18 but dropped back to 18.14 at the close. The general market closed 5 to 7 points net down.

Receipts 1,379; for year 9,364,108; last year 8,496,084. Exports 275; for year 7,799,071; last year 7,405,077. Stocks 674,889; last year 758,037. Stock on shipboard 54,106; last year 82,856. Spot sales 2,685; last year 3,368.

Wheat Is Whizzed Skyward Saturday

CHICAGO, July 13. (AP)—Shooting skyward 5 7-8c a bushel, wheat today went whizzing beyond all previous highprice records this season. It was declared by leading crop authorities that drought damage to North American spring wheat had become irreparable, and that rains from now on would be of no practical benefit. Trading operations were on an immene scale, with the market at a feverish pitch, especially on final dealings.

Wheat closed excited at the topmost figures reached, 5 1-4 to 5 7-8c above yesterday's finish. Corn closed 3-8c to 1c up, oats 57c to 7-8c advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 10c.

Weather Reports Prompt Drop In Price Of Cotton

NEW YORK, July 13. (AP)—Cotton was lower today under selling promoted by favorable weather reports and relatively easy Liverpool cables. October contracts sold off to 18.21 and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady at net decline of 4 to 11 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 4 to 7 points in response to lower Liverpool cables.

Suggests Dairy Crop System

COLLEGE STATION, July 13.—That dairy farmers in Texas must adopt definite cropping systems if the fast growing dairy business of the state is to be profitable and permanent is the belief of Extension Service authorities. E. A. Miller, Agronomist and J. L. Thomas, dairyman, have collaborated in formulating a cropping system plan which county agents are using this year in their dairy herd demonstrations. The plan is based on five-cow herds for which at least six acres of feed per cow is recommended.

For north, central and east Texas it is suggested that there be: (1) About five acres of permanent pasture, mostly on the rougher broken land or along creeks, consisting of Bermuda or mesquite grass, bur clover, rescue and Dallis grass; (2) Five acres of Sudan grass, supplemented by 2 1-2 acres of hegari Texas blackhull kaffir for late summer feed; (3) Two and onehalf acres of red-top sorghum, Sudan, oats, alfalfa, cowpeas or soy beans for hay to be used as winter roughage; (4) Ten acres of winter pasture consisting of oats, barley or wheat, or a combination of oats barley and dairy vetch where the grain is not to be harvested; and (5) Five acres of grain feed of either corn, grain sorghum, barley or oats.

Kiwanians Pay One A. & M. Scholarship

The Lubbock Kiwanis club, through its board of directors, has decided to pay the expenses of one member of Lubbock county's 4-H clubs to the annual summer farmers' short course College Station, which begins on July 29.

The Kiwanians are giving $25 for this purpose, which is ample to pay all expenses of the course, including railway fare to and from Lubbock.

The Australian government has refused to grant an increase on the bounty in cotton.

Big Growth Seen In Poultry And Dairy Interest

Rapid Development Noted And Cash Is Now Pouring Into Pockets Of Farmers Of Terry County

Opened for business on February 11, this year, Chisholm's Electric hatchery at Brownfield, completed an unusually good season recently, having hatched a total of some 35,000 eggs. The hatchery's incubator, of 16,000 egg capacity, will be doubled before next January, when another hatching season opens, as greater interest in poultry raising is gaining impetus in Terry county week in and week out.

Hundreds of pedigred poultry have been shipped into Terry this year, officials of the hatchery report, and the Chisholm company now has 3,000 head of pedigreed English leghorns and Rhode Island reds on their own poultry farm near Brownfield.

Big Saturdays are Had

Added to the increased interest in Poultry raising, farmers of Terry county are paying more attention to dairying, as is evidenced by the fact that the Chisholms pay out, on an average of $1,000 every Saturday, to the farmers for cream, eggs and poultry. There are four other concerns in Brownfield buying cream, some of them doing a volume comparable to this company.

Farmers are paying cash for their groceries and merchandise, when they come to Brownfield.

Cotton Leaf Worm Appears In Texas

COLLEGE STATION, July 13.—The cotton leaf worm has appeared in moderate numbers in parts of Nueces county and to a limited extent in portions of Bee county, and while the situation does not necessarily mean that Texas will suffer an early and general destructive infestation of this insect, it should be closely watched, according to R. R. Reppert, entomologist in the extension service.

"This infestation is about a month earlier than the insect has appeared in the same section in previous leafworm years," Mr. Reppert says. "Under very favorable conditions damage might develop over a great portion of the state within the next few weeks, but with dry, hot weather it is not probable that the infestation will become general before the latter part of July.

"The outbreak is serious enough in the places mentioned to warrant immediate poisoning. Extensive purchases of poison materials elsewhere are not advised, but farmers in sections where leafworms often appear would do well to inquire as to supplies of poison and to have a source located in advance of possible need. The prompt application of calcium arsenate, either in dust or liquid spray form, is effective in the control of this insect. Paris green and lead arsenate may be successfully used, but are more expensive."

Give The Farm A Square Deal

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

BALLINGER, July 13—By giving the farm a square deal, James Barron, local farmer, has changed a run-down sandy farm that five years ago produced less than one-third of a ton of maize and less than one-eighth of a bale of cotton to the acre into land that making nearly one ton of maize and more than one third of a bale of cotton to the acre.

This has been accomplished by a system of terraces for the washing land, backed up by a sound system of crop rotation, his county agent, C. W. Lehmberg says. Most of the 157 acre farm is devoted to cotton but the fields are rotated with feed and pasture crops. Five acres are planted to sudan grass for cows and hogs; two acres in alfalfa sowed last August were grazed down during the winter and made 185 bales the first two cuttings; and the poorest hardpan soil on the farm is growing sweet clover shoulder high. Mr. Barron is enthusiastic over his pasture and hay crops and believes he will get 350 bales of alfalfa on his two-acre patch this year. This crop is not irrigated.

In addition to these field crops three acres are set out to peaches, plums, apricots and pears, and one acre is devoted to blackberries and dewberries.

Sells Kaffir To Hogs

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

SINTON, July 13.—After selling his home grown kaffir to 25 hogs at a price well over $30 per acre, Clifford Powers, farmer at West Sinton, has cleared $88.83 above feed cost on these porkers sold in a local co-operative pool. He found that a few acres of oats and rape pasture helped him to produce pork at a little less than 8 cents per pound. He is feeding out 20 more pigs for the fall market.

Ewes Spell Much Profit

CROCKETT, July 13.—From four cars of ewes imported into Houston county in February farmers have gotten a 100 per cent lamb crop in addition to an average wool clip of 7.6 pounds per sheep, which has sold for 32 cents per pound. Owners are expecting to have the ewes represent net profit this fall, the county agent reports.

Natives of rural districts of Egypt are pouring into Cairo and other large cities to live.

Poultry Demonstrators Find Green Feed And Skim Milk Very Important

COLLEGE STATION, July 13.—Green feed and skim milk are two important factors in egg production, according to May records of 101 poultry flock demonstrators sent to the extension service by county and home demonstration agents in widely separated sections of the state. In the few cases where no green feed was supplied the flocks the production was lower, and in general where skim milk was fed with grain the production was higher.

An average profit above feed cost of 27 cents per hen was shown for May in these flocks, with those running above 300 birds in size having the largest profits, 33 cents per hen. The average number of eggs laid during the month by the fowls in the demonstration flocks was 17 1-2, which is slightly lower than the standard of production of 19 eggs for the month. This was due, E. N. Holmgreen, poultry specialist says, to a number of flocks having worm infestations, the monthly production in these flocks being as lwo as nine eggs per hen in some cases.

The flocks reported vary in size from 18 hens to 900, with the majority ranging from 100 to 300 birds. Nearly all flocks are standard bred and of many varieties, the White Leghorn predominating. There are more than 700 such flock demonstrations now under way for the purpose of showing how average farm flocks may be put on a paying basis. Careful records are kept by owners on calendars furnished by extension service.

Soy Beans Make Hay

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

JASPER, July 13—Beginning with four one-acre demonstrations in the growing of soy beans for hay four years ago, S. W. Monroe, county agent, reports that 300 Jasper county farmers are now growing this crop as a part of their fed crop program. Soy beans have been found to be an excellent livestock feed when cured for hay.

Terry County Looks Through Rose-Colored Glasses

Farmers And Business Men Look To Fall As Prosperous Time; Ballots To Be Cast For Paving On Tuesday

Brownfield And Meadow To Vote Monday, Bonds To Improve Schools; New Buildings Contracted

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

BROWNFIELD, July 13. — With citizens of Brownfield voting on the proposition of issuing $75,000 in bonds, for the purpose of building an addition to its high school and the citizens of Meadow voting on a similar project in the amount of $50,000, Monday will be another red letter day for Terry county, in the matter of progress.

On Tuesday, another $25,000 bond project will be voted on, throughout Terry county. This is for the purpose of paying the county's portion of paving the courthouse square. Recently the city of Brownfield voted $80,000, to pave some 20 or 25 blocks of streets in the business section. Tuesday's vote will determine whether or not the county will complete the paving around the square, the county's part being from the center of the square to the courthouse curb.

New School at Gomez

The Gomez independent school district has voted $20,000 in bonds, to build and equip a new school building at Gomez and the contract has just been let for this. The building will be modern in every respect, and of brick construction.

Contract has also been let for the erection of an $8,000 school building at Needmore. Improvements are being made, from time to time, in all of the 19 rural schools of this county, as are also being made in the schools of Meadow and Brownfield.

"Building has been more active, in the city of Brownfield, during the past year," announces J. E. Shelton, secretary of the chamber of commerce, "than in the last six years. There have been about 200 new residences constructed and about half a dozen business structures."

Population is 2,500

Shelton places the population of Brownfield, at this date, at approximately 2,500, which is an increase of about 500 in the past year. In 1920, this city's population was only 736. During the past year, he states that some 35,000 acres of new farm land has been put in cultivation, making the total number of farms in Terry county now estimated at more than 1,200, compared to 234 farms in 1920 and to 1,060 in 1925.

"This year's prospects for crops," says Shelton, "are the best ever had in the county at this time of the year, in the 13 years that I have lived here. We have a little excess in cotton acreage over last year, but 1928 witnessed a short crop, something less than 15,000 bales, which was under a 50 per cent yield.

85,000 Acres to Cotton

Terry county has about 85,000 acres planted to cotton this year Shelton believes, with corn credited with about 65,000 acres, which is about the same as last year's corn corn acreage. There were 1,125,000 bushels of corn produced in the county in 1928, more than 1,000 carloads of this grain having been shipped out of the area.

The remainder of Terry county's 156,000 acres in cultivation are principally planted to grain sorghums.

Fruit evidences the best yield in the memory of the oldest inhabitants of the county, almost every variety known to this region growing in abundance, including peaches, plums, grapes, apples, cherries, with apricots producing unusually prolific. This is the second time, in many years, that apricots have produced good. There are lots of home gardens, in the towns and on the farms, with widespread activity on the part of the housewives in the matter of canning vegetables and fruits, in spite of the fact that the county does not employ a home demonstration agent.

C. of C. Is Busy

"Brownfield's chamber of commerce," Shelton states, "has been working hand in hand in the development of agriculture throughout Terry county. We are working on the idea that by building up our farms, the town will more or less take care of itself. Brownfield is also reaching out for more trade territory, a campaign now being under way for securing more trade with the Lee county, N. M., area."

Accomplishments of he 4-H clubs, which were first started just a little more than a year ago, when County Agent Roy B. Davis was dividing his time with both Terry and Gaines counties, are greatly responsible for a wider interest in the raising of other things than cotton and corn. There are now more than 350 boys and girls enrolled in 18 different clubs. When Davis started out to organize these clubs, he took only 150 enrollment blanks, expecting these to cover the enire county. After visiting only three rural schools, he had to secure more blanks.

Projects of these club boys and girls have made possible the largest number of registered Pold China, Duroc and Hampshire pigs, ever shipped to any 4-H club by the Lillard Stock Farms, of Arlington, and has resulted in Terry county having what is claimed as the largest purebred pig club in the world.

Business Men For Clubs

Evidence of what the business men of the county think of these boys and girls is to be seen in the fact that some 25 or 30 club members will be sent to the A. & M. college short course, which begins July 29. The banks and some of the business institutions have subscribed sufficient funds to send some of these to the short course.

Following the club members' activities, county-wide interest in better dairy cattle, registered livestock and poultry, has resulted in the economic accomplishment best expressed by one of the Brownfield merchants:

"Farmers do not ask for credit when they come to town to make their purchases. Neither do they go to the banks and ask for loans. Their cream, butter, eggs and poultry are financing them, while they are making their crops of corn and cotton."

Travelling men have noticed this fact. They are saying:

"Business conditions at Brownfield are unusually good. Farmers, paying cash for their goods, provide the merchants with cash. We can always count on big orders to customers whose ratings are unquestioned."

Raise Many Hogs

According to Morgan L. Copeland, cashier of the Brownfield State bank, shipments of hogs from Brownfield number from two to four every week of the year, on an average. This is running above $500,000 a year. Cream and eggs are responsible for more than $225,000 income in 1928, and this year will see another $100,000 added to this amount, with a big possibility that it will reach half a million dollars. Cotton is responsible for approximately $1,125,000 a year income to the farmers.

The banks have had more money in them, all this year, than ever before in corresponding months.

This year's Terry county fair will be the biggest and best ever. If plans now formulated carry thru. Premiums of around $1,500 are to be offered, fireworks each of the two night of the fair, and a big carnival attraction have been added. The fair dates have been set for Friday and Saturday, September 27 nd 28, just before the opening of the Panhandle-South Plains Fair, at Lubbock. Horse racing may also be added.

There were 6,000 in attendance at the 1928 Terry county fair, which was also held for two days.

Banks in Good Shape

The Brownfield State bank, with capital stock of $25,000 and a surplus of $25,000, on July 1 had total resources of $471,812.12, with loans an ddiscounts at $130,817.36 and individual deposits of $381,750.84.

The First National bank, of Brownfield, with capital stock of $50,000 and a surplus of $9,500, on July 1 listed its resources at $331,653.59, with loans and discounts at $181,321.34, and individual deposits of $226,229.74.

Busines men of Brownfield claim that the present happy conditions are directly traceable to the fact that practically every farm has added its own pro rate of dairy cattle, hogs, other livestock, poultry, fruit and vegetables, as cash bringers. This has been done on a wholesale scale during the past year or so. The contrast is made of a few years back, when the farmers and business men were put through the trying ordeal of crop failure, when the one-crop system held full sway.

Split Season

Stock certified as a bench manager and placed on the ineligible list for two weeks instead of the stipulated 30 days.

When Ruggles put the Dallas request to a vote of the seven other clubs, Biednharn went on the warpath. He not only refused to grant the request, but was quoted as threatening to take his club's case to the civil courts if he was "tampered with" further.

Biedenharn further was quoted as saying the "cards" were stacked against his team, that the split season was "cut and dried before the meeting opened here and before he had an opportunity to present his case.

And Furthe?more

"From now on," he was quoted, "it will be a question of rules. We will continue to grant courtesy exchanges, but when we suspect things are not going according to Hoyle we will be prepared to fight. Baseball is a business with me and I don't propose to be tampered with."

All this, however, was before the acting league president gained Mr. Biedenharn's ear and smoothed things out. Ruggles took full blame for the request to make Stock a bench pilot temporarily, absolving the Dallas club from any attempt to put over a fast one. He admitted he technically was in error, but only had suggested the move because of the extremely crippled condition of the Steers.

Ruggles revealed today that Fort Worth had made a similar request, hoping to have Frank Snyder certified as a bench manager and not counted in the player limit until his spike wound, received yesterday at Wichita Falls, heals, but he had been forced to turn the Cats down because of Shreveport's protest on the Dallas plea.

THIRTY-FIVE KILLED

Rebels And Federals Clash In 3-Hour Battle

MEXICO CITY, July 13. (AP)—The war department today announced reoccupation by federal forces of Mezquitic, Jalisco, after a three hour battle in which 30 rebels and 5 federals were killed and 20 rebels and 13 federals wounded.

The official report says that although the rebels, entrenched outside the town, were 400 in number and the federals only 150, the government troops attacked so fiercely that they drove the rebels into the mountains.

General Alfonzo Sanchez led the federal attack. The Velez brothers commanded the rebel band.

Pro Agents Will Go To Trial For Murder Of Pair

Members Of Raiding Party Are Implicated In Slaying Following Preliminary Hearing On Saturday

TECUMSEH, Okla., July 13. (AP) Two members of a federal prohibition officer's raiding party must stand trial in state court for murder in the slaying of James Harris and Oscar Lowery, farmers and World war veterans, it was ruled today at the conclusion of a preliminary trial before J. J. Dutton, justice of the peace.

Jeff B. Harriss was bound over for trial on a charge of murdering both men and W. W. (Snake) Thomason on a charge growing out of James Harris' death. Charges against John Williams and Tom Little, two other members of the party, were dismissed after little evidence had been produced to connect them with the slayings.

Is Commissioned Agent.

Thomason is a commissioned federal prohibition enforcement agent. Washington officials have denied that Harris was a commissioned employe, but testimony at the hearing was that he had represented himself as a federal agent in a conversation after the slaying, both of which were attributed to him.

No testimony was offered today by the defendants. They probably will be tried this fall.

Widow Is Witness.

Mrs. James Harris, 31, widow of one of the slain men, was the chief state witness. The Harris family, tenant farmers, lived near Tecumseh and both the victim and his wife were leading members of a small community church. Several witnesses testified they never had known Harris to touch liquor or to have any in his house.

With the youngest of her three children, a curly headed little girl of three years, playing about her feet and later falling asleep in her arms, Mrs. Harris related in an emotionless voice that Jeff Harris had killed both her husband and Lowery, her brother, as they stood unarmed and with hands uplifted.

Jeff Harris came to their home on the morning of July 4, she said, and after a preliminary seach of outbuildings stated towad the house. Mrs. Harris said the raider had given no explanation of his presence and that they had concluded he was an intoxicated celebrant of the Fourth.

Shot Through Door.

The raider shot at her husband through a door, she testified, and then went into the house where James Harris was getting a shotgun shell from a trunk. Her husband picked up a shotgun standing in a corner, she related, and ran from the house, loading the gun as he went.

Turning in the yard, she continued her husband fired one shot. Jeff Harris was struck in the face by several shot. He appeared in court with his head still heavily bandaged. Her husband then ran across a small creek back of the house, she testified.

Jeff Harris then shot Lowery, who, she said had been sitting or standing on the back porch. Her brother, unarmed, threw up his hands and pleaded for mercy, Mrs. Harris said.

Begs To Surrender.

Mrs. Harris said she followed her husband, shouting that the raider was an officer, and begging him to surrender. James Harris then started to the house, she said, throwing down his gun and raising his hands. She turned back toward the house, she said, and hearing two shot turned to see Jeff Harris and Thomason bushes at the edge of the creek. It was testified that Thomason arrived at the Harris house after Lowery had been shot.

Harris died that night and Lowery the next day.

Wesley Lowery, brother of Oscar Lowery, said James Harris had told him from his death bed that Jeff Harris "Shot me down like a dog." When the victim had both of his hands in the air.

Invitation Given.

A copy of the Cochran County News has been received by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce this week, which gives a welcome to all who expect to attend the singing convention and barbecue there and calls attention to the fact that the visitors will see the last of the great South Plains that is now undergoing development; that the virgin farm lands of that section are being sold at low prices and on easy terms; that all churches have denominations; that the high and healthy climate with pure water offers splendid living conditions.

Growth Predicted.

The paper estimates that Morton will be a city of 5,000 population in 1935 and that the county will have over 35,000.

Those citizens who have watched the South Plains grow by leaps and bounds will likely consider those figures too conservative.

was not acted upon by the committee Saturday, but in all likelihood the measure will be tabled, according to dispatches.

AUSTIN, July 13. (AP)—The problems of adjusting differences between the senate and house on appropriations bills and re-writing statutes to safeguard oil deposits on Texas University land confronted weary legislators when they adjourned today for the week-end.

While committees from the two houses were attempting to strike a harmonious chord on aid for state schools and departments today, Governor Moody prolonged the session by saying that present land statutes were clouded and that millions of dollars might be lost if laws were not revised.

Lubbock Affected

The executive also submitted three local measures affecting Austin, Brownwood and Lubbock, expected to be uncontested.

The governor suggested a law which would reserve to the state all mineral rights on unsold school lands, the request coming almost on the heels of an announcement by Land Commissioner J. T. Robison that almost 1,500,000 acres of public school land would be placed on the market September 1. The tracts would be subject to the filing of leases by payment of a small fee and the governor expressed belief that the state should not risk losing extensive oil resources through private ownership.

Should Remove Excess

Excess oil lands, created through re-surveying university tracts in large bloc, should be removed from the market entirely, the governor said.

He declared that if the legislature were unwilling to remain in session to pass proper laws for the protection of the permanent school fund and the University of Texas, immediatel steps should be taken to withhold possible vacancies from the market.

"It is my personal judgment that it is better to pass a statute withholding this land from sale than one providing for its disposal," the governor said.

Threat of still another special session if appropriation bills finally approved by the two houses are not balanced was seen in the conclusion of the governor's text.

"It is economy of time to be patient with conference committees" he said, "and gives them time to balance appropriation bills and bring them within the revenues. But the term 'balance.' I mean that you do not appropriate more money to one department of institution that is needed and fail to appropriate as much as is needed in another department or school. If the measures should not be balanced in this sense of the term, it would create a necessity for further legislative consideration. Appropriation bills cannot be balanced by the use of veto power, because that power can be used only to take from an item it seems, therefore, that it would be an economy of time to see to the balancing of appropriation bills now. It will take less time now than later."

southeast portion of the courthouse square, occurred June 4 when F. E. Wheelock, one of the original owners of the property, executed a quitclaim deed, contingent upon fulfillment of an unexplained contract on part of several business men of the city who negotiated for clarifying the title. This action was followed by Postmaster John L. Vaughan's bid of $1 for the property before County Judge Robert H. Bean, who acted as special commissioner for the commissioners' court, complying with the ruling of District Judge Clark M. Mullican.

Sale Ratified.

Later the sale was ratified by the commissioners' court, and the property was re-dedicated to the government. Subsequently, the bill for validating the sale was prepared at Austin.

Several months ago the federal government refused to accept the property without a quit claim signature of F. E. Wheelock, who, with W. E. Rayner, deceased, deeded the courthouse square to the county when the county was formed. In the dedication deed was a clause to the effect that the property was to belong to the county for so long a time as it shall be used by the public for public property.

In an effort to clear the title a suit was filed in Ninety-Ninth district court several months ago. Mr. Wheelock was not made a party to the suit, but Mrs. Rayner, widow of W. E. Rayner, was named in it, and Judge Mullican's decision was to the effect that the county had full and complete title in the property and could do with it as desired.

Statute provisions make it necessary, if the county wishes to dispose of its property, to advertise for bids, according to Judge Mullican.

UNDERGO OPERATION

Six Physicians Report On King's Illness

LONDON, July 13. (AP)—King George must undergo another operation Monday that an abcess in the right side of his chest may be drained stated a bulletin issued tonight at Buckingham palace and signed by six physicians.

His Majesty, who spent part of afternoon in the grounds of Buckingham Palace, was visited by the Prince of Wales.

The official bulletin follows:

"The general health of His Majesty the King has further improved. The sinus in the right side of his chest has ceased to give adequate exit to, and therefore secure the healing of the small residual abscess with which it communicates."

tugal after turning back because of a leaking oil feed near the Azores. They kept afloat, until a German freighter picked them up, and said they could have floated even longer.

NEW YORK, July 13. (AP) — The radio marine corporation tonight picked up a message from the United States liner America saying the ship heard the Havre Shore station that Commandant Renvoise of Le Bourget air field, France, had requested by wireless all the principal French landing fields to illuminate their fields and clear them for a possible landing by the French aviator Coste.

Ships Informed

At the same time Commandant Renvoise informed these airfields and all ships at sea of Coste's return to France. He added that Coste would pass by way of Spain and included Santander among points to which he addressed his message.

NEW YORK, July 13. (AP)—Plans to extend the hand of felicitation to the French and Polish fliers racing across the ocean were interrupted tonight by the news that the former had turned back and that their rivals were experiencing difficulties near the Azores.

At Roosevelt Field watchers retired, leaving only the customary night crew on duty at Mitchell Field the U. S. army was making no immediate preparations. Neither field displayed any but the usual lights, although others could be switched on at a moment' notice.

Plans for a reception by city officials and Polish residents were held in abeyance pending news of the progress of the Polish fliers.

LISBON, Portugal, July 13. (AP)—Although the nine Azores Islands are very mountainous stretches of cultivated land, especially near Horta, would afford facilities for the emergency landing of an airplane.

If the Polish Trans-Atlantic fliers should be forced to come down in the Azores, they could use such field or even small football grounds available in most of the islands for day landing.

Night landings would prove dangerous unless the airplanes previously could announce the arrival that electric lights could be brought into service.

is almost impassable, and we have had plenty of black, sticky mud to pull through.

River Crossed

The log gives information about the difficulties in crossing a river that was up.

"We had to cross a river and it was raining and the river was swelling. The water was getting above our battery, that is, on the running board of the car on the left side. The driver was able to put his hands into the water and never leave his driving position. We dropped the exhaust pipe from the manifold before entering this time and a man stood on the right fender with a shoe in his hand and held it over the carburetor to keep the water out. In this manner we were successful in pulling through the steam and were soon on our journey again."

Sierra Blanca Visited

The log tells of visiting Sierra Blanca after leaving El Paso, Marfa was reached after a lonely ride. W. D. Click, formerly of Levelland and Lubbock, who is a plasterer, was met at Marfa. Fort Davis is ideal for a vacation trip, the three men observed as they rushed on to Fort Stockton. Out of Fort Stockton the men forced to wait four hours behind other cars waiting for water to fall in a draw. After waiting that time with their motor running, Walter Wright waded out into the stream to learn the depth of the water. It was 2 1-2 feet deep and the car, known as "Miss Levelland," was piloted across behind Wright while the other cars remained on the other side waiting for the water to run down.

Traverse Oil Section

Then through the oil fields the party went, to Crane, Rankin, Big Lake, Ozona, and on to Banderson, Del Rio, Bracketville, Uvalde, Leakey.

From Leakey the party went to Rock Springs, Junction, Menard, Eden, Paint Rock, San Angelo.

From San Angelo they viited El Dorado, Sonora, Brady, Mason and then to Llano, Fredericksburg, Kerville, Boerne.

The party arrived at Boerne at 6:45 and the log shows that they were checked in at the Saratoga Cafe where a young lady, by the name of Miss Meta Doeppenscmide, issued out coffee that was good.

Then the party reached the Rio Grande Valley and praise of the palm trees shows up in reports from Edinburgh, Brownsville and Mission. They reached the Valley in the night and their dismay is expressed in the following words:

"Of course it had to be night when we entered the Valley. We ride all day through nothing but deserts and mud and leave the pretty places to the night. As we passed through McAllen it was beautifully decorated for a big time. We are sure the city was crowded the next day with people and plenty of music. Sure hard to pass anything like this after being on the road as long as we have without any recreation whatsoever, but we are after county seats just now."

Strike Of Street Car Men Is Calm

NEW ORLEANS, July 13. (AP)—The strike of the street car workers in New Orleans today remained stationary.

While workmen continued odds and ends of repairing rails and line switches torn up in recent rioting of workers, United States Marshal Victor Loisel declined to modify his statement that the cars would be operated on Sunday. No assurance was given late today, however, that repairs could be completed by tomorrow.

Under the Federal injunction protecting employes of the company from attacks and property from molestation, the marshal was given authority to use any number of armed deputies needed to control the situation. Several hundred were sworn in and placed on duty.

The citizens mediation committee continued today its efforts to have negotiations opened for arbitrating the differences.

his post with Baylor. Dr. Brooks is mayor of the city of Waco.

Dr. and Mrs. Brooks will live at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Friend, 2005 Broadway.

C. H. Rogers, superintendent of instruction in the Amarillo high school, will arrive in Lubbock tomorrow to assume duties as a professor at Tech for the remainder of the term.

Prof. Stigler Coming

Prof. W. A. Stigler, assistant superintendent and director of research in the El Paso city schools, also will be included. A new course to be offered second term students will be the cotton classing school, under the direction of Prof. E. W. Camp, head of the textile engineering department at Tech, and Harry E. Blocker, president of the H. E. Blocker Cotton company, of this city. The cotton classing school will only run for four weeks, ending the course, August 10, two weeks earlier than the regular session. The regular course will end on August 23, at which time degrees will be given and graduating exercises held.

"Urban Problems," a course in sociology will be offered during the second term of the summer school, according to Dr. John C. Granbery, head of the department.

The course will consist of the study of the various phases and problems of the modern city, discussion and reports being made on all topics in the class.

Lubbock As Laboratory

One unique feature of the course will be that the city of Lubbock will be used as a laboratory and students will make a survey, investigate and report on the various problems that confront it.

Dr. Granbery, who is to teach the course, stated yesterday that he would be glad to have any city officials or others who are interested to visit the class at any time during the term. Regular credit will be allowed in the course. The class is to meet at 10 o'clock each morning except Monday.

Negroes Exit

man refused to come out, a gasoline fire was set around the house to drive him out.

Seelman shot himself as the flames began to creep around him. He died while being carried out of the house.

City In Arms.

North Platte was up in arms. The mob outside the house grew with the passing of hours. Sticks were wielded, police immediately swore in extra men and patrolled the negro district. They estimated there were about 200 negroes in the city before they started their outward trek.

What aroused the populace was the suspicion that some of the negroes had aided Seelman in hiding himself under a trap door, leading to the basement of the house fired.

Threats Are Heard.

The information leaked out and soon there came shouts: "Lynch them all," and "Get them out of town, quick." Subsequently the negro colony was told to clear out by 3 p. m. The exodus was orderly but was accomplished cautiously. Police guarded nearly every road the negroes took and assigned men to the railroad stations. In some instances police had to threaten members of the mob to protect the negroes.

All of the colony were given time to get what personal belongings they had. Others more fortunate left in their automobiles and some bought railroad tickets. Soon there was a general movement of all negroes outward bound, and the North Platte white populace looked on with watchfulness, lest some go a short distance and then turn back, seeking to return to their homes. Police were assigned to watch the depopulated negro colony through the night and members of the mob said they were determined to watch the roads and railroads for any returning negroes.

CUDAHY IS CHARGED

Scion Of Famous Family Is Accused In Complaint

LOS ANGELES, July 13. (AP)—Michael J. P. Cudahy, 21, scion of the famous Chicago packing family, was accused of driving while drunk in a complaint issued today by the district attorney's office.

Cudahy was married but a week ago to Adel Evansen, 18, motion picture actress.

Soviet Rusaia in Europe bought more than $1,000,000 worth of American industrial machinery last year which was twice that of 1927 and 10 times that of 1925.

Germany, Belgium Reach Settlement

BRUSSELS, July 13. (AP)—Belgium and Germany today settled the last outstanding problem hanging fire from the young reparations plan. Their representatives announcing agreement had been reached on the long pending question of German marks left in Belgium at the end of the war.

The agreement brought with it Belgiums unconditional approval of the young plan, since Belgium experts who signed the reparations agreement in Paris stipulated that they would accept only if Germany made good in some way the valueless marks.

By the agreement Germany must pay Belgium 37 annuities, the first to be paid March 31, 1930. These annuities will be identical with annuities fixed by the young plan.

The settlement is an absolute and independent one, Germany agreeing to pay even if a moratorium should intervene on the young payments. In the latter case payments to Belgium may be made in kind.

Seventh Florida Bank Is Closed

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 13. (AP) The First National bank of Sanford, Fla., was put into the hands of the comptroller of currency today and a notice on the door said it closed for "protection of all depositors." It was the oldest bank in Seminole county.

The First National bank was the seventh bank in Florida to close within the past eight days. The others were Merchants Bank and Trust, Atlantic Bank and Trust, Daytona Beach; Volusia County Bank and Trust and First National, Deland; Colonial Bank and Trust, Miami; Peoples Bank and Trust, Jacksonville.

Meanwhile, John L. Fouts, president of four other central Florida banks which closed simultaneously May 15, faced preliminary hearing on chrages that he violated banking laws by conlending himself $5,000 funds from one of the banks without the consent of directors. Those four banks were State Banks, Barlow; First National, Lakelnad; First National, Auburndale, and State Bank, Winterhaven.

"Blue Shirt" Hat Thrown Into Ring

DALLAS, July 13. (AP)—Charlton Brown, mayor of Mineral Wells, as a "blue shirt" candidate for the Governorship of Texas, was thrust forward here today by Mayor J. Waddy Tate of Dallas.

Asserting that politicians attempted to make the job of governor a stepping stone to the United States Senate, Tate launched Brown's candidacy on a platform of "less politics and more regard for the rights of plain people."

"I am good when it comes to picking winners," mayor Tate said. "I am in dead earnest about Charlton Brown. He isn't a lawyer. He has punched cattle, chopped cotton, carried a dinner pail, worn a blue shirt, and will fight the people's battles. He would make Texas the best governor since the days of Jim Hogg. We would have less politics and more regard for the rights of plain people whose language Charlton Brown knows."

"I believe the people of Texas are getting tired of the old line politicians using the governor's office as a stepping stone to the United States Senate or whatever other job they have in the back of their minds," Mayor Tate continued.

TAKE OFF LIKELY

Swedish Fliers Are Ready For Next Hop

OTTAWA, Ont., July 13. (AP)—The department of marine and fisheries today received a message saying Captain Albin Ahrenberg, Swedish airman attempting a flight from Stockholm to New York, "probably" would take off "this afternoon or tonight" from Ivigtut, Greenland, on the last leg of his journey.

Flood Waters In Kansas Threaten

HUTCHINSON, Kansas, July 13. (AP)—The flood waters of Cow Creek ravaging Hutchinson for the past 24 hours, tonight showed no signs of receding, and water still was running through the streets in torrents, observers from airplanes reported late today that the water coming from the north had not decreased in volume in the immediate vicinity of the city.

Water in downtown streets was running about four feet deep, while large portions of the residence section were submerged to a depth of nearly three feet.

Estimates of damage to property as high as three million dollars, but more conservative estimates placed the loss at about a million.

Masquerades As Girl

SELINSGROVE, Pa., July 13. (AP)—Marion Odmer, 19, son of Burgess G. A. Bodmer, after masquerading for 19 years as a girl has donned mannish attire and is preparing to enter the legal profession. This was revealed here today when it was learned that Bodmer had enrolled at an Allentown preparatory school for boys.

Bodmer was graduated from the Selinsgrove High school in 1928 as a girl. He had played three years on the girls' basketball team.

When Bodmer was born, Mr. and Mrs. Bodmer announced the birth of a daughter and the child was dressed in girl's clothing.

NOTICE OF BANKRUPT'S PETITION FOR DISCHARGE. In the District Court of the United States for the Northern District of Texas.
In the Matter of Barrier Brothers, a partnership, Bankrupt. No. 20 in Bankruptcy.
OFFICE OF REFEREE
Lubbock, Tex., July 12, 1929.

Notice is hereby given that Clifton, Paul and Mike Barrier of the County of Lubbock, and district aforesaid, did, on the 9th day of July, 1929, file in the Clerk's office of said Court, at Lubbock, a petition setting up that he has been heretofore duly adjudged a bankrupt under the act of Congress approved July 1, 1898; that he has duly surrendered all his property and rights of property, and has fully complied with all the requirements of said acts and of the orders of the Court touching his bankruptcy, and praying for a full discharge from all debts provable against his estate in bankruptcy, save such debts as are excepted by law from such discharge.

On considering the above mentioned petition, it is ordered that any creditor who has proved his claim, and other parties in interest, if they desire to oppose the discharge prayed for in said petition, shall, on or before the 15th day of August 1929, file with the Referee for the Lubbock Division of said district, a notice in writing of their opposition to a discharge in the above entitled cause.

Board Will Start From 1st Scratch

CHICAGO, July 13.—(AP)—The Federal Farm Board, in the words of its chairman, will "start froe scratch," unhampered by predetermined formulae for treatment of the farmers' ills.

"We all shall start together from scratch and think collectively," said Alexander Legge, in a conversation related in the Prairie Farmer by its publisher, Durridge D. Butler. The new board is to meet at Washington Monday for its first session.

"What we farmers must learn," he observed, "is to do collective thinking to solve our problems. A lot of fellows think the reason big business gets results is because big business has a lot of money. But the real reason is that big business has a lot of men in its organization who sit around a table and do collective thinking, and out of these conferences big business works out its problems."

When your speedometer says 50 . . . . what would happen if a tire should go ?

Too late when you are speeding to think about what would happen if a tire should go. Get rid of your tire worries before your engine starts—not after. Better yet—get rid of tire worries for good while you are about it.

Here is the way: Don't buy cheap or "bargain" tires—they are a wide open invitation to all sorts of tire failures. Forget the price that buys risk. Buy safety. Buy Hoods. In every Hood Tire is an inbuilt extra margin of safety that sends you out on the road with a free mind. No tire failures to dread. No plaguing delays changing tires on the road. No danger of tire trouble in emergencies. Be safe. Buy safe. You are safe if you ride on Hoods.

They Pay You

Advertisements pay you to read them. They pay you in time. From the advertisements in this newspaper you can learn where to get what you want, instead of searching around. You can know the merits of each article offered for sale.

They pay you in money. Advertisements help you to get full value for your dollars. Goods which are consistently advertised are of consistently high quality for their prices.

They pay you in satisfaction. Manufacturers and merchants will not undertake an advertising campaign until they are sure their product is right. It would be ruinous to advertise an unworthy product, for that would simply call added attention to its deficiencies.

They pay you in information. Advertisements tell of new products, of new designs, new materials, better workmanship. Well-informed people always read the advertisements to keep posted.

Reading the advertisements is an investment that pays big returns.

Violence Rumors Cause Transferal Of Local Negroes

Lubbock Officers Refuse To Divulge Whereabouts Of Blacks Charged With Accosting White Girls

Lubbock county officers, apparently fearing violence to a pair of negro prisoners, continued Saturday to withhold information as to whereabouts of Johnny Carter, and Richard Lasater, negroes who were arrested here Wednesday night in connection with the accosting of two Lubbock girls, students of Technological college.

Meanwhile, County Attorney Vaughn Wilson would make no announcement as to date for examining trial.

Threat Rumors Heard

Violence was feared by local officers after a circle of relatives and friends of the girls had, according to rumors, made certain threats. Numerous persons appeared Saturday morning at the office of the county attorney to inquire as to date for the examining trial.

The negroes were spirited out of the city under the veil of darkness Friday night to a safer refuge, after ominous rumors of probable mob violence were heard in the streets. General feeling grew to such proportions that officers deemed it wise to exercise hasty protective measures.

Hardy Silent

Sheriff Wade Hardy remained silent Saturday when querried.

The negroes are alleged to have stopped an automobile four times in attempts to influence the girls, who were walking between Avenues R and Q on Fourteenth street, to ride with them. Four small boys who were told of the incidents notified an officer and arrest followed a few minutes later.

History Contests In Demonstration Clubs Announced

Demonstration Agents Of Counties To Have Charge Of Contestants. Directed By Extension Service

A new contest will be offered Texas Home Demonstration girls in the nature of a record and history contest, and is to be under the direction of the Extension Service of the A. and M. college of Texas and U. S. Department of Agriculture, according to an announcement made Saturday. The home demonstration agent will have direct charge in her county and contestants must be members of regularly organized girls' home demonstration clubs.

Several prizes have been offered to the highest scoring club members including: The H. G. Hastings company will give $25, $15 and $10 as first, second and third prizes, to the highest ranking garden club girls. The Universal Mills will give $25, $15 and $10 as first, second and third prizes to the highest ranking poultry club girls; the Texas Jersey Cattle club will give $25, $15 and $10 as first, second and third prizes to the highest ranking dairy club girls.

To Keep Records

The best records, record books properly attested to, which histories from each county will be sent in to the district agents' office. These records and histories shall include all the productive demonstrations that are represented in the county and each home demonstration agent shall enter the best, second and third prize winners in the productive phases.

All data necessary to the awarding of these prizes must be in the hands of the district home demonstration agent not later than January 1, 1930, and the awards will be announced as soon after that date as practicable. Awards are to be based on the following score card: Production, 50 per cent; food preparation, 12 1-2 per cent; food preservation, 12 1-2 per cent; clothing, 12 1-2 per cent; home improvement, 12 1-2 per cent.

Textile Workers Vote Resolution On Labor Action

Executive Board To Carry On National Campaign to Promote Activities In Southern States

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 13.—The national executive board of the United Textile Workers, closing its quarterly meeting today, announced plans for a national campaign to establish the right of labor unions to conduct legitimate labor activities in all southern states "without having to fear assassination and sudden death."

Organization of the campaign will get under way tomorrow at the conference at Rye, N. Y., at which representatives from the federal council of churches, American civil liberties union, league for industrial democracy, committee for American conditions in Textiles, Workers Education Bureau of America and other social agencies are expected to attend.

Outgrowth Of Fracas

Thomas F. McMahon, president of the U. T. W. A. announced the campaign is an outgrowth of an alleged intimidation of John E. Peele, a United Textile Worpers representative, and George Googe, an American Federation of Labor organizer, in Ware Shoals, S. C., Thursday night by what he described as "a gang of thugs employed by the Ware Shoals Textile plant" where a mill strike is in progress.

Governor Richards of South Carolina, was sent a letter today by the U. T. W. A. informing him that labor union organizers had been instructed to return to Ware Shoals and to "take precautions to protect themselves against lawless persons until the state itself shall come to its sense and provide full protection." In a reply to a message to Governor Richards demanding protection for union organizers in Ware Shoals, the organization received the following:

"Your impertinent, threatening telegram addressed to the governor of South Carolina has been received and I wish to assure you that your communication will receive only such consideration and attention as communications of its character deserve."

Farm Bureau Will Aid 4-H Delegate To Short Course

County Association Holds Session At Posey Friday Night; To Donate $50 To College Station Winner

At a meeting of the Lubbock county Farm Bureau held Friday night at Posey, a proposal was made and passed that the bureau subscribe $50 for the expenses of a 4-H club boy and girl to the annual Farmers' Short Course to be held at College Station. The directors of the club were unanimous in their decision to make this donation.

An interesting program of entertainment and instruction was held and several speakers were featured. L. E. Henderson was chairman of the program committee and he had listed the following:

Address—S. A. Debnam, former county agent of Hockley county.

Musical reading—Miss Ardel Wicker, accompanied by Miss Geraldine Wicker.

Reading—Miss Kate Pressley, Lubbock.

Play, "The Cute Family"—Local talent, under direction of Mrs. C. Z. Fine.

Address—J. D. Coughlan, manager of Farm Bureau field service of Dallas.

Visitors Attend

Several visitors were present at the meeting including: M. Mitchell, field service man of Dawson county; J. A. Johnson, Fritz Inglehart, representative of the farm bureau federation of Eagle Lake; J. D. Coughlan, manager of farm bureau field service, Dallas; S. A. Debnam, former county agent of Hockley county; J. D. Tindaley, agricultural agent of the Santa Fe railroad.

The regular meeting in August will be held at Becton with Mrs. W. W. Ferguson as chairman of the program committee.

Ranking Rooms In Recent County-Wide Contest To Be Visited; Program Is Planned At New Hope

A county wide living room tour will be conducted on Monday, starting at 1:30 o'clock from the Lubbock county court house, according to Miss Louise Baird, county home demonstration agent.

Four of the high ranking rooms in the recent living room contest will be visited including Mrs. G. E. O'Neall, Carlisle; Mrs. Ed Schroeder, Wolffarth; Mrs. J. A. Cooksey and Mrs. J. A. Taylor, New Hope. A short program with refreshments will be given at New Hope and it is expected that every club in the county will be represented in the tour.

The purpose of the trip is to show the improvements made in the type of living rooms since the inauguration of the contest and to interest more women in entering next year.

Curityba, Brazil, will spend $1,500,000 for municipal improvement.

Two Draw Lake Selected For Annual Encampment Grounds For Camp Fire

One of West Texas' oases, Two Draw Lake near Post, is to be the site of the annual encampment for Lubbock Camp Fire girls, according to an announcement made last week.

A director has been chosen for the encampment, dates have been selected and supervisors and instructors are being secured. Approximately seventy-five girls are expected to attend the outing.

Miss Cecelia Patterson, Camp Fire executive whose home is in Phoenix, Ariz., is to be the director again this year. Miss Peterson directed last summer's conference, which was considered the best that had been conducted for the Lubbock council, and although a new site has been chosen, it is thought that this year's outing will be better than it was las year, according o council members here.

To Last One Week

The encampment is to open on Wednesday, August 14, and continue through August 21.

Each girl will be charged a fee of $5 for the week and each is to furnish her cot, bedding, cooking utensils and other paraphernalia. A definite list will be furnished those who expect to make the trip, according to Mrs. Hub Jones, local executive.

In order to insure the protection of the girls who are on this encampment, there will be an adult in each tent of approximately eight girls and the girls will swim in small groups under the direction of a life saver.

To Have Nurse

There is to be a camp nurse, a cook and a life saver in addition to the director and instructors. A course offered to girls who attend the encampment will include direction in games, music, swimming, handicraft, nature study and other Camp Fire projects. There will be periods for rest and recreation and the girls will be instructed in such duties as cooking and keeping their tents in order.

Excellent camping facilities are available at the lake, which lies about forty-three miles below Lubbock under the rim of the cap rock, and this conference is expected to excell any previous ones for the Camp Fire girls here, according to announcements that have been made.

J. W. Gamel is president of the Camp Fire council which is arranging for the conference.

Is China Dentist

Dr. Antonina Kazimiroff, above, only woman dentist in Shanghai, China, thinks a career should be no more than a part time job.

Dentist In China Finds Women Try Too Many Careers

Only Woman Dentist Living In China Fled From Her Native Land, Russia, To Live There

By JULIA BLANSHARD
Mor NEA Service

NEW YORK, July 13.—"Modern women are trying to do too much. Nobody can be successful in a profession or business, run a home in addition and still have time and energy left for friends, reading, music and other necessities of a larger life."

This is the opinion of a distinguished visitor to America, Dr. Antonia Kazimiroff, the only woman dentist in Shanghai, China, a Russian who fled St. Petersburg when the Bolsheviks overthrew the Czar.

"A fine old Chinese servant who speaks Russian gives me my leisure by managing everything in our home," Dr. Kazimiroff said, generously. "Our little Shanghai establishment runs like a Russian menage and is 'home' to many Shanghai Russians who, like myself, suffer nostalgia at times. I have my work and my play and my life is full without keeping house too."

Dr. Kazimiroff has the repose of a woman with a well-ordered life. Meticulously groomed and dressed with admirable taste in smart French clothes, she is a charming exponent of a less hurried existence than most American careerists know. She is in America to do intensive study for a few months on advanced dentistry. From here she will go to London, Berlin and Vienna for similar research work and back next year to her Shanghai clientele.

In fact, there are none of the earmarks of a pioneer careerist about her. Yet, when she left her home in Vladivostock to study medicine in St. Petersburg 20 odd years ago, she was the only girl in her classes and when graduated, the only woman dentist there.

"When we finished school in Vladivostock, the idea of women going into professions was in the air," she explained. "I went with three other girl friends on that long trans-Siberian trip clear across Russia to reach college. We felt such adventurers! I deliberately chose dentistry because no women were in the field and I felt I had a better chance to succeed."

Her choice proved excellent. After post-graduate work in Berlin, Dr. Kazimiroff was made Assistant Professor of Dentistry at Petrograd University which position she held in addition to private practice, when the revolution broke.

"All my family escaped unharmed. Her face clouded as she recalled those strenuous times 10 years ago. "In fact, we have a regular settlement of Russian relatives and friends in Shanghai today."

Summer Evenings Conspire To Form Beauty Setting

BY FRANCES CLYNE
Fashion Writer for Central Press

There is no time when a woman can appear lovelier than on a summer evening. Then femininity is at its height. Soft breezes, sweet scents, flattering lights all conspire to show her at her best. And fortunately this year's mode is in entire keeping with the setting.

This summer the graceful chiffon, made on flowing lines of simple elegance, will be the prime favorite in the wardrobe of the fashion-wise woman. It may be plain or it may be flowered, though irrespective of its color, it will be the same in general type. It will have a very low neck, and a long, sweeping, uneven back hemline. It will suggest grace and poise and gentle movement, and it will achieve this effect through the use of floating drapery and the irregular, train-like appearance of its silhouette.

Ornamentation on the summer evening gown is nil; in addition to the fact that the prevailing mode is all for a distinctive simplicity, there is the added consideration that for practical reasons summer clothes should be as devoid of any extra trimmings as is possible. That does not mean, however, that because of its simplicity, a successful gown can be easily turned out. On the contrary. It is this very simplicity that calls for only the most expert handling—it is the art that conceals art. Therefore the "dressmaker" model is the standard. This means a gown designed on very simple lines, but so gracefully worked in detail that it creates an effect of complete individuality and elegance.

Three Gowns Necessary

The wardrobe for the summer evening should really contain at least three dresses—a white, a black and a flowered. Black chiffon, lace or tulle is an ever handy standby, and can fill in for almost any number of occasions. It is indispensable for the semi-formal occasion, and the best possible choice for the limited budget. With changes of jewelry it takes on a new and different air each time it is worn, and is further useful for a summer evening or inclement weather, when a light gown would be spotted. White is always cool and fresh in its effect, and lends itself to striking color contrasts. One of my white gowns is most startling in its unusual contrast of a blue and capucine border against its snowlike background. Besides, the fashionable sun-burned complexion is shown at its best advantage against a pure or off-white tone.

Although chiffon is the wisest choice, a gown of tulle or lace or figured satin is another charming item in the wardrobe. For town or country residence any one of these fabrics would be suitable; but for the traveler, chiffon or lace, which do not tend to crease as much as other materials, is beyond dobut at once the smartest and most practical selection.

Adventure Has Universal Appeal For City Readers

Boys Interested In Aviation; Loans In Library Great

By BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche-Journal Saff

AS A counterpart of Judy O'Grady and the colonel's lady, the naive little boy fresh from his corner lot ball game has a trait in common with the gnarled workman who, dinner pail in hand, stops by the library on his weary trek home of an evening, or with the office man who sits down to pleasant hours lost in reading after his conferences or golf.

Each probably thumbs through volumes seeking stories of adventure.

And, making no distinction in sex, Judy, herself, or the erudite society leader may search through the same stacks with an identical purpose.

Appeal is Universal

Adventure has the most universal appeal to readers at the Lubbock County Library of any topic listed there, according to observations of the librarian, Miss Frances Hoyt Ford, and her assistants.

The small boy gambols about in estactic Indian raids, picturing himself as "Billy the Kid" of his story books; the little girl peers through her rimless lorgnette and recites platitudes in imitation of her idol in some deliciously sentimental story; an older boy flies airplanes over trackless seas—another Lindbergh—while his feminine companion in years day dreams through adventures in which she has the role of the beautiful and clever heroine.

There was a circulation of 5,750 in the Lubbock county library during June of this year, the largest turnover since the institution was established in April of 1926, and books most frequently loaned were volumes recording tales of adventure.

Tastes Different Yearly

Tastes in reading differ with the seasons just as fancies in dress change, the librarian pointed out, and at this time there is an unusual demand for detective stories, whereas only a few years ago the average monthly catlogue probably contained as many as three such tales.

While S. S. Van Dyne and Earl Derr Biggers, with their spicy tales are among the more popular writers, with many authors are now writing detective tales who did not attempt them in the past, simply to supply the increasing demand, the librarian believes.

The one subject that has a great appeal now for boys is aviation and every book on this subject is read and re-read by the youngsters, according to records of library loans.

Boys are less discriminating in their reading than girls and there are some Lubbock people who have probably read every volume in the local stacks.

He Reads Histories

One 15-year-old boy has read every history in the library, consistently borrowing one set of books after another to study the chronicles of nations recorded in them.

Week-End Parties Are Compliments To Summer Guest

Amarillo And Waco Visitors Share Honors At Parties Given By Local Hostesses Here Last Week

PREDOMINATING social functions in Lubbock during last week were parties complimenting visitors in the city, farewell events and affairs for brides of the summer.

Mrs. Gordon Inman, of Amarillo, has been extended several courtesies during her short visit in the A. T. Biggers home and sharing some of her honors have been Mrs. J. N. Hicks, Mrs. J. E. Chambers and Miss Virginia Lee Hicks, of Waco.

Mrs. Biggers and Mrs. Carl Slaton entertained on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons in the F. R. Friend residence complimenting these Amarillo and Waco visitors and Mrs. D. K. Bondurant entertained Friday morning for Mrs. Inman.

Misses Kate Boyd and Lucille Moxley entertained yesterday afternoon with a bridge party at the Glorieta complimenting Miss Hicks, whom they had known at Ward-Belmont college in Nashville, Tenn.

Other Parties Planned

These visitors have been guests at several other parties in the city.

Among the parties that are being planned for next week is one to be given by Misses Mary and Ann Snyder, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Snyder.

Misses Lucille Jordan and Ruth Culwell are entertaining the latter part of this week for Miss Lois Walker, of Bridgeport, who is to arrive Wednesday for a visit in the Culwell home.

Tentative plans have been announced for a number of other visitors in the city during the next few days.

Misses Moxley and Boyd Are Hostesses

Bridge was played yesterday afternoon at a party given by Misses Lucille Moxley and Kate Boyd at the Glorieta and Miss Virginia Lee Hicks, of Waco, was named honoree. Miss Hicks was a class mate of the hostesses at Ward-Belmont college.

An ice course was served after the games to Misses Ruth Slaton, Louise Corn of Crosbyton, Alma Spikes, Geraldine Smith, Blanche Bradley, Dorothy Rushing, Mary and Ann Snyder, Mary Louise Middleton, Mamie Wolffarth, Mary Alice Stanton, Virginia Bacon, Mildred Street and Virginia Lee Hicks.

Bridge-Luncheon Honors Visitor From Amarillo

Mrs. D. K. Bondurant entertained on Friday morning with a bridge luncheon in her home at 1917 16th street complimenting Mrs. Gordon Inman, of Amarillo, who is visiting in the A. T. Biggers home.

Mrs. Herbert Lowery scored high in the bridge games and a guest favor was presented to Mrs. Inman.

Guests included Mrs. Inman, Mrs. Biggers, Mrs. Ross McWhorter, Mrs. John Jarrott, Mrs. Herbert Lowery, Mrs. Howell Arnett, Mrs. Kenneth Kimbro, Mrs. T. C. Franke, jr., of Houston, Miss Virginia Lee Hicks, of Waco, Mrs. Richard L. Douglas, Mrs. Lawrence Bacon, Mrs. Carl Roberds and Mrs. Lewis Price.

Two Farewell Parties Fete Mrs. McKinney

Two parting courtesies were extended to Mrs. J. H. McKinney who is moving to Quanah, during the latter part of the week.

Mrs. R. L. Howell and Mrs. G. P. Kuykendall entertained yesterday afternoon with four tables of forty-two in Mrs. Kuykendall's new home on 16th street, and on Thursday afternoon Mrs. McKinney was honoree at a party given by Mesdames W. H. Blake, D. N. Leaverton and Charles F. O'Neall.

The Kuykendall residence was Castro County Has Excellent Harvest

Peak Believed Reached In Past Week; Total Of 535 Cars Shipped From Dimmitt To Market

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

DIMMITT, July 13.—With the peak reached early this week, and Castro county's grain crops practically three-fourths harvested, Dimmitt's wheat shipments reached a record mark when a total of 535 cars were reported shipped from here up to Thursday afternoon.

Cars Plentiful

This point experienced no difficulty whatever in having a sufficient number of cars for handling the grain, and the only delay reported was on two occasions, when there was a shortage of train crews, due to the sixteen-hour law compelling the trainmen to "lay up" here for an eight hour rest.

Nearly A Million Bushels

With shipments totaling near the 900,000 mark, it is estimated that practically a million bushels had been received here up to Thursday night.

Shipping From Other Points

Hart, in this county, and Tulia and Hereford have reported heavy shipments, and had certain sections not been visited by hail at two periods, the production would have been far in excess of two million bushels for the county.

The Fort Worth, Denver and South Plains railroad, together with the Castro County Grain Co., Farmers Elevator, and Dimmitt Coal & Grain, all deserve the gratitude of the entire county in the manner in which the rush was handled at this market.

Prices Remained Good

Prices started three weeks ago at 85c, jumping a short time later to 90c and on up to 98c, the present market price paid here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Stevens are leaving this morning for New Mexico and the Grand Canyon in Arizona. They expect to be gone about two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis mDingus have gone to Fort Worth for the weekend and expect to be accompanied on their return by Mrs. Dingus' sister, Mrs. G. P. Callon and two daughters.

Sun-Back Dress Is Fixture

By LILLIAN CAMPBELL

Whether you like it or not, the sun-back dress is here to stay. This is the estatement of Mrs. Edith Tadd Little, prominent business and club woman of St. Petersburg, Fla., who claims the design of the first sun-back frocks last winter which were worn by girls of the Beta woman's club in the fashion show in that city.

Why shouldn't it stay?" she demands.

"When I designed the sun-back dress I kept in mind the fact that the healing rays of the sun have brought more health to mankind than any other single agent. More than that, it is recommended to healthy people by physicians as a form of health insurance.

"With this in mind I cut a low V in the backs of the dresses, and the sun-back appeared."

After it was revealed by the members of the club here, it quickly caught on among other members in the fashionable winter colony. Soon it had taken hold in other parts of Florida. Now it is a national vogue.

As its advocates point out, vigorous objection to the sun-back frock in some cities has done more to popularize it than any other agency.

"Civic and school authorities were quick to see its virtues," Mrs. Little continued. "So they gave it their stamp of approval. As the vogue traveled northward it met with increasing opposition, but it has alighted in all of the leading summer resorts, and the coming winter in the south, and the following season of summer in the north, will see the sun-back dress an established institution — decent, economical, healthful, sensible and here to stay."

Only Woman Magistrate

Miss Jeanette Brill is Brooklyn's first and only woman magistrate.

"Any young woman starting out as a lawyer will succeed if she goes to work in the right way," she says. "Let her remember, first of all, that she must not ask favors on the score of being a woman."

Schools in Session

Four summer schools are being held by the Y. W. C. A. this season. There is one at Asilomar, Calif., one at Geneva, Wis., one at Proctorsville, Vt., and one in New York city. These schools meet the demands of the college graduates who seek to study the Y. W. C. A. preparatory to entering the association as a profession.

Stories Appeal

arts are called for less frequently than are volumes dealing with house decoration and furnishing.

There is a steadily increasing demand for non-fiction books, western stories are extremely popular with local readers, while books of travel rank almost in the class with stories of adventure.

Boys never read books which are intended primarily for girls, such as the Elsie series, but girls frequently read the Tom, Dick and Harry volumes which are listed as tales for boys.

The "weepy" story seems to have an appeal particularly feminine and men are more particularly readers of non-fiction than are women. Miss Ford has observed during her years in the library reading room.

Children may read books intended for adults as readily as they consume juvenile tales.

Fewer books are loaned, ordinarily, in September than during any other month of the year, according to a circlation map maintained by Miss Ford, and June usually has the heaviest circulation. The reason for this is easily seen, she points out. Schools open in September and boys and girls do hardly any reading at all. Many adults are busier during the early fall than during any other month in the year and less time is devoted to reading.

As schools are dismissed late in the month of May and boys and girls have less to do, there is more reading during June.

The circulation for the central library here and branches throughout Lubbock county during June of this year reached almost 6,000, according to records.

Collegiate Lists At Tech Include Forty Parents, Most of Whom Are Local People; Mothers Enrolled

The Woman's Day

By Allene Sumner

Allene Sumner

Here's Mrs. George Holt Strawbridge of Philadelphia, whose frumpy hat in her picture would proclaim her "socially elite," even if we weren't told so, who's trying to help out President Hoover on this prohibition question.

She is trying to form a committee of First Family Hostesses who will cease serving the golden cocktail and the mellow high ball.

Only "refined ladies" are being invited to join the committee. The theory, as expressed by the president himself, is that when the smart world of society decrees that drinking is no smarter than chewing gum, it will be ostracized.

Unless the whole idea of people setting themselves up as arbiters of what is smart and good form so antagonizes the rest of us that we guzzle all the more vociferously.

SHE'LL LEARN

Helen Wills optimistically announces that "when I am married I intend to keep on doing the same things I do now—tennis, painting, and I'll take up golf."

Miss Wills isn't the first young lady to opine that marriage will make no difference in her way of living. Most of them have learned how mistaken they were.

AIMEE LEARNS

Spectacular Aimee Semple McPherson seems learning more and more that her brand of "good old-fashioned religion" isn't hailed by the crowd as it once was.

Aimee essayed to sell the kingdom of Heaven at a Detroit prize-fight the other night. She climbed into the ring with an effigy of His Majesty, Mr. Devil. She tried a verbal wrestling match with him, but even the dramatics of the thing didn't go over with this particular crowd.

Somehow the occurence seems more of a testimonial to the audience than to spectacular Aimee, who didn't seem even a good show to this crowd.

Aimee is rapidly learning that we have outgrown "the devil era."

EARNS HER OWN

Here's feminism—if it is that—to an extreme. Sidney Webb of England has been named secretary for the Dominions and peerage conferred upon him. But his wife, Mrs. Beatrice Webb, who has collaborated with her husband in economic and sociological writings for a long time, insists that she will not use the "Lady" title.

She gives no reason, but it is conceivable that modern woman may be insisting on earning her own titles and not basking in reflected glory from her husband.

Still, it's sorta too bad, many husbands delight in acquiring honors only that they may be shared with their wives.

Collegiate are the forty parents who are attending classes daily with the younger students.

Mothers and fathers are enrolled at Tech along with their sons and daughters; mothers with small children to care for are continuing their studies, according to Dayle Wallace, acting registrar at the Technological college during the absence of E. L. Dohoney, and an estimate made by one mother in the city is that perhaps 50 per cent of the parents here would continue their studies which were terminated years ago, if the opportunity were offered to them again.

Mother to Graduate

One Lubbock woman who is enrolled at the Technological college, has a son who is to graduate in August of this year and a daughter who is a member of the junior class at the Tech. This woman is expecting to complete work for her bachelor's degree next June.

While the majority of the mothers enrolled in Tech are Lubbock women, one who is studying there this summer is from San Anton.o.

Home economics is a popular course with the matrons, but the majority of those enrolled here are in the liberal arts school, according to records at the institution.

They Choose for Hobbies

Some parents are taking work at the Technological college with a specific aim of receiving a teacher's certificate or a degree, but others enroll for occasional courses in which they have a specific interest.

Mrs. W. T. Milam, who is enrolled in a class in decorative arts during the summer, is in the latter group. This class is specializing in oil tapestries and canvas work with some work in landscaping and figure painting. Mrs. Milam is continuing a study of art which was started several years ago in Roswell and Santa Fe, New Mexico.

She has two daughters and is prominent in P. T. A. and social service work in the city.

Mrs. J. R. B. Cooper, who teaches

Teacher Is Specific

English in the junior high school here during the winter, is another mother enrolled at the college and her studies are completed for credits in obtaining higher certificates.

Another housewife who is studying at the college is Mrs. C. F. Drexel. Although her children are small, Mrs. Drexel is chosing her studies in the liberal arts school, working toward her bachelor of arts degree.

Few of the women who have small children bring them to class with them, Mr. Wallace believes.

Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette Harlan of Marlin are guests in the home of Mrs. Harlan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Phipps. Before her marriage last winter Mrs. Harlan was Miss Cecil Phipps of this city.

Miss Katharine Harper, who taught during the first summer term at Tech, has gone to her home in Quanah for a visit.

are numbered among Dr. Kazimiroff's patients. She is tremendously interested in Chinese children's teeth because preventive dental work is just beginning in Shanghai. "One of my most interesting patients is a very old, high-caste Chinese lady who never goes out of her home so I must go to her," Dr. Kazimiroff smiled. "She will never appear in the daytime so I must go at night. It is a social visit, with much etiquet extended and observed before I set up my machinery and begin on her teeth.

Chinese Women Domestic

"The Chinese are a fascinating people, greatly aroused now with their new social and economic ideas. But I think it will be a very long time before Chinese women will take professions earnestly. They have no scientific background. Literature, philosophy and sociology are giving them intellecual freedom. It will take several generations before they have any idea of real economic freedom."

There is real antipathy in China to woman entering professions, according to Dr. Kazimiroff. This was never so in Russia.

"All are 'people' in Russia," she observed. "Being a woman doctor, engineer, or any other professional was never a matter to make a fuss about. I am amazed at how American women in business and professions capitalize the fact of their sex."

A rounded life, with concentrated work and leisure to play, is Dr. Kazimiroff's prescription for success. Her office closes daily for two hours while she has "tiffin." Tennis, motoring, walking and swimming have regular places on her program. Reading several hours daily is there, too.

"A career is to be enjoyed, not just made a success of," she smiled in a quiet way. "I am fascinated by my work, can never read enough about it or see enough new work in my line. But I think I would get very one-sided if I did not have my leisure too."

prettily adorned with summer flowers yesterday and guests were presented with favors of sweetpeas and baby breath. A corsage was given to the honoree.

After the forty-two games, an ice course was served. Mesdames McKinney, O'Neall, Blake, Leaverton, W. N. Lemmon, S. J. McFarland, R. A. Mills, J. N. Nislar, C. H. Porter, of Fort Worth, W. P. Jennings, L. E. Grimes, J. B. Rountree, A. T. Biggers, Gordon Inman, of Amarillo, Paul Morgan and C. C. Lindsey were guests for the games. Others who called during the tea hour were Mrs. D. W. Robertson, Mrs. J. E. Hartley, Mrs. H. W. Crowder, jr., and Miss Theresa Lemmon. Miss Lemmon sang a solo during the afternoon.

The party Thursday was in the O'Neall residence at 1623 Broadway and after progressive games of forty-two, Mrs. D. W. Robertson sang "The Old Oaken Buckett", accompanied at the piano by Mrs. S. J. McFarland.

Guests were then invited into the dining room where a miniature ivy-covered well was fashioned in the center of the table within a rustic scene. This well contained farewell cards and letters for the honoree from guests. Mrs. W. P. Jennings presented Mrs. McKinney with a small marble figure, "The Scribe", as a parting gift from those at the party.

Roses and forget-me-nots bedecked the house and refreshment cubes were adorned with forget-me-nots.

Guests were Mesdames C. O. Akard, Charles C. Crenshaw, V. R. Dockray, W. N. Lemmon, W. P. Jennings, R. L. Howell, G. P. Kuykendall, John L. Ratliff, E. C. Young, R. B. Fairley, Hattie O'Hair, C. F. 'The Wave,' Novel Of War Brightens Season

Other Books May Be Bad, But Forgotten

PUBLISHERS usually serve their lightest, fluffiest literary fare during July and August, and this season is no exception. It is offering hammock books and train fiction, whose best recommendation is that they are easily forgotten, but it has also contributed some substantial, honest work, notably "The Wave" (Ponathan Cape and Harrison Smith', by Evelyn Scott.

Within its blue covers are 625 pages of narrative—not one story, but some 60 separate ones that give as many slants on the civil war. You follow no single characters, but you do follow the war, which becomes a regular tidal wave of force and energy, sweeping all before it.

There is no plot; the war is presented as a panorama which unrolls before your eyes as a picture rather than as a story. You see New England villages, and southern plantations, you go into the hospitals, camps and battlefields. You hear snatches of war songs and haunting old spirituals. Occasionally a fragment of sermon or a bit of racey war slang gives you just the slant you never had before.

"The Wave" is not a book you will hurry through, but one that you will ponder over—if you read it. Many who like a quick, snappy style may find it difficult, but there are few who would not be impressed by the depth of the book.

Miss Scott is a writer who has done fine books before, and from whom one expects something original and modern. Her "Narrow House," and more particularly, I should say, her "Escapade," are significant.

Someone who takes the name of Juanita Tanner, has come out with "The Intelligent Man's Guide to Marriage and Celibacy" (Bobbs-Merrill), which has a box office title, if I ever read one.

"Juanita Tanner" explains in the preface that she is the daughter of Ann Whitefield and John Tanner in Shaw's "Man and Superman." Whoever she is—and I strongly suspect she is some man—she has been most honorable in acknowledging her sources, and has credited on her first page almost every book on the subject of sex, including "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." Perhaps, she is just a good rewrite man trying to get along.

She asks you to believe:

That sex is a physical, not a mental distinction.

That mental differences apparently due to sex are the result of artificially imposed standards.

That creation of these differences is not desirable, inasmuch as the most efficient people unite in themselves both masculine and feminine qualities, or gain such qualities by association, and even the gain through association is impossible if sexual differences are emphasized.

Like most guide books, Juanita's book does not guide. It merely points out that you will probably choose wrong, whichever way you turn. The law of the herd is to marry and beget offspring, she points out, but there can be no question of the advantage for many people of absolute celibacy. He travels fastest who travels alone, and so does she, once she gets free of the entanglements of custom and her own feminine inhibitions. Romantic adventure is easy, she tells us, and we may have it without stirring from our neighborhoods—but so, for that matter, is the adventure of death.

Eventually she brings everything to a matter of taste and a sense of values, and to those intangible qualities which most us don't have—or if we did we would never need a guide book. It's rather interesting reading, and the chapters are by no means as snappy as the titles would indicate. However, I can't see it settling any earnest young man't sex problems for him—but wouldn't it be terrible if it tried to?

"Hunky," by Thames Williamson (Coward McCann) was press-agented to me as the story of a male "Lummox." I disagree. To be sure it is the story of an inarticulate, hulk of a man who works in a bakery until he is replaced by a machine. But so far as I was concerned, there was never any life in him.

He never convinced me that he was real, or that there was any particular reason why this story should be written. In Fanny Hurst's "Lummox" I found moments of rare beauty, and felt there was revealed a fineness and nobility in her character which made her eloquent in her silence.

As I remember it, Lummox did practically no talking, and you become acquainted with her through the action of life on her. Every time Jencic, the Hunky, speaks, he seems to deny what his author was trying to build up for him.

Tahoka News

BY MRS. FRANK HILL

Conference Held Monday

A group quarterly conference of the Methodist Churches of this section of the Lubbock district was held in Tahoka Monday by Presiding Elder D. B. Doak. Churches represented were Slaton, Wilson, Southland, Draw, Post and Tahoka. There were possibly 100 visitors in the city representing the five churches first named above. Pastors Webb of Slaton, J. B. Thompson of Wilson, Elmer Crabtree of Southland, Z. Y. Pirtle of Draw, and T. J. Rea of Post header the delegation from thir churches respectively. O. H. Cline of Lubbock, district lay leader and M. Graeber of Post, association lay leader, were also present and each addressed the conference.

Reports from the churches represented showed all of them to be in unusually good condition for this time of the year. The work seemed to be prospering everywhere and good reports as to finances and growth in membership came from each church.

Aside from the regular work of the conference the licensing committee met and granted Frank Sergant license to preach. He is the second member of the Tahoka church woh has been granted a license within the past few months, Jesse Robertson having been honored in a like way during the past winter.

The Post-Tahoka Epworth League Union also had a meeting at the church during the day, and Miss Venoy Coughran of Tahoka was elected president of the organization.

A cafeteria lunch was served at the noon hour by the ladies of the Tahoka church.

Contest Winner

The winner of the apron contest being conducted by the woman's club members of the county under the supervision and direction of Miss Greenwad will attend the stae contest to be held at the A & M College soon. Her expenses to amount of $25.00 will be paid by the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce and the Kiwanis club, each organization paying half. Action to this effect was aken by the Chamber of Commerce at its meeting Monday nigh, and by the board of directors of the Kiwanis club Wednesday.

Aged Minister

Rev. H. S. Anglin of Commanche county is spending the week here with his son and family, W. S. Anglin. W. S. visited his father in Comanche county last week and the latter returned to Tahoka with him Saturday.

Not only has Rev. Anglin spent his life as a preacher, but his father before him was a preacher. One of his brothers was a preacher. He has a preacher son and a preacher grandson.

Discussing Finances

A series of meetings of a novel character are being held in the Baptist church at night this week. The meetings are devoted almost exclusively to discussions of the church budget and church finances. On Tuesday night Rev. M. C. Bishop pasor of Post, spoke. On Wednesday night Mr. J. D. Carrell, educational director of the First Baptist church of Lubbock, was the speaker. On Thursday night Rev. B. G. Holloway, pastor at Slaton, will speak, and on Friday night Dr. W. R. White, pastor at Lubbock, will be the speaker.

Tahoka Meets T-Bar

The people of T-Bar were host to the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce Friday evening at which time a joint program was presented by the people of the two communities. A large crowd was present and an excellent program was rendered.

A fine spirit of cooperation was exemplified by the people of the community. Mr. J. C. McCarley reported that a committee had been appointed to get the exhibit ready for the Lynn County Fair and that the community would attend the fair in strong numbers.

Talks on various phases of cooperation and community building by Rev. Kerchville, County Judge G. C. Grider. Taylor White, County Agent Ral Shaver and C. C. Williams, ecretary of the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce, J. S. Dowell of the O'Donnell Chamber of Commerce was present and made a short but interesting talk.

The South Plains quartet, with Mrs. J. K. Applewhite at the piano as usual were applauded and required to sing their third number. Clifton Janak's cowboy songs were greatly appreciated and applauded. Four girls of T-Bar dressed in beautiful Spanish costumes sang "Ramona" in Spanish.

Another indication which shows that the people of T-Bar community are up and doing is the fact that the men are talking Bull Circles. This is a natural dairy country and the sooner a number of good bull circles are organized in Lynn county the sooner will the people start to biulding better homes, drive better automobiles and have less debts hanging over them.

DICKSON SELLS BUSINESS

C. L. Dickson has sold his fire insurance business to A. J. Glasgow & Co., of Lamesa, and the new owners have already taken charge of the business. Mr. A. F. Martin of the new firm comes from Breckenridge, and he will be in charge of the insurance department. The new firm will also do a loan and real estate business. Mr. Glasgow being in charge of the real estate department.

Mr. Dickson will remain here and conduct a life insurance business.

AMERICAN LEGION BOYS TO SERVE DUTCH LUNCH

The Marion G. Bradley Post of the American Legion has planned a Dutch lunch to be held at the Legion Hall here next Monday night. A splendid program is being prepared. Prof. Taylor White, County Attorney G. H. Nelson, Secretary C. C. Williams, and Rev. B. N. Sheperd are among the speakers listed. All business men are invited and their presence will be greatly appreciated by the Legion boys.

MEET NEXT SATURDAY

The members of the Woodmen of the World are to meet in the county court room in Tahoka Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, according to A. R. McGonagill. The purpose of the meeting is to elect new officers and to discuss the matter of building a hall on the lot owned by the order. The local camp has quite a sum of money on hand, and it is understood, and is proposed that this money be used in the construction of a hall. All members of the order are urged to attend the meeting Saturday afternoon.

Book News Notes For This Week

THE FROZEN NORTH

"THE TRAIL EATER," by Barrett Willoughby. 400 pp. G. P. Putnam's Sons. $2.

"THE TRAIL EATER," by Barrett Willoughby, is another tale of the frozen North. If its account of snow and ice, blizzard and sleet can bring your vicarious relief from the summer heat, read the book. If you like stories in which the hero is a strong yet gentle, self-effacing yet persistent, never-say-die young man, and in which the heroine is a lovely unspoiled young girl, read the book. But if you don't like that sort of hero and heroine, if you don't like a plot in which the good get their reward and the bad their just deserts, in which from their first meeting you know the hero will marry the heroine(though she is then engaged to his best friend), in which you know the hero will win the All-Alaska Sweepstakes in the face of all obstacles—if you don't like all these things, then don't read this "drama of love, conflict, treachery and courage."

CHUCKLES AND GRINS

"Ether and Me, or Just Relax." By Will Rogers. An uproarious account of Will and his operation, told with true Rogers humor. Putnam, $1.

"Salt Water Taffy." As told to Corey Ford. The life story in deep sea adventure of June Triplett, being a burlesque novel of a recent best seller. Putnam, $2.50.

"Round Up." The stories of Ring Lardner, worth a dozen seats on any aisle anywhere. Scribner's $2.50.

A MAN WILL ENJOY

"Sand." By Will James. The story of a man and a horse, the tenderfoot and the black stallion that every cowboy in Wyoming longed to catch. Illus, by the author. Scribner, $2.50.

"Hardware." By Edward L. McKenna. A story of the Cronins, who lived in the Red Hook section of Brooklyn, supported by James Cronin's saloon. McBride, $2.50.

"On The Bottom." By Commander Edward Ellsberg. The amazing chronicle of the raising of the submarine S-51, with detailed description of the heroic diving feats accompliahed during the salvaging. Dodd, M., $3.

"Lindbergh: His Story in Pictures," edited by Dr. Frances Trevelyan Miller, is what its name implies—a pictorial history of the famous young man's achievevments.

GOLFERS! ATTENTION!

Horace Liveright, publisher of the "Mental Side of Golf," by Charles W. Moore, the first book to present at any length the "mental hazards" of the game, is offering a free copy of the book to anyone in the United States who makes a hole in one. An officially attested report of his feat should accompany the letter of an applicant for the prize, and he will promptly receive a copy of the book, which has been heartily endorsed by leading professionals and amateurs.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Exercise is one good form of relaxation. You relax your mind as you work your muscles. And at the end of any vigorous exercises a complete physical and mental relaxation inevitably follows. This is the kind of rest that does you good—the kind that comes when your muscles are healthily tired and your body is willing and able to rest.

MME. RUBINSTEIN

Exercise in the out of doors! Sunshine, fresh air and exercise, combined, are better than any tonic for tired systems. And altogether they make an excellent form of beauty treatment.

Often when you are very tired, new lines come around your eyes and mouth. They need not be permanent. Often they will go away entirely if you rest, relax and walk in the open air. Try to be outdoors at least one hour a day in the sunshine! Now that summer is here you should be able to spend more time in the open air. Plan to make your vacation a period of beauty building—of real relaxation.

If you are naturally an intense, nervous sort of person, who finds it hard to relax, the following exercise may help you. It has as much value in relaxation as several hours of sleep.

First raise your body, and let it drop of its own weight several times. Then nestle in the mattress and settle yourself comfortably. Then lie flat on your back in bed—or in the outdoor sunlight, if you can. Lift one leg slowly into the air as high as you can, then let it drop slowly, relaxing first your toes, then your ankles, then your whole leg up to the hip, as your foot touches the ground. Then do the same for the other leg. And next, for each arm separately, relaxing first your fingers, then your wrists, and finally your whole arm, as your hand touches the ground—or bed.

Now relax your head. Move it slowly around in a circle, let it drop toward one side, then the other, then forward on your chest. When your neck feels loose and weary, stop. Now roll your eyes. Move them in circles, ten times to the right, ten times to the left, then straight up and down. Then sleep, or lie perfectly still and let your body and mind rest.

SECURITY SALESMAN WANTED

One of the nation's leading public utility investment houses requires the services of investment security salesmen in Lubbock and nearby towns. We offer a most liberal commission contract, with county rights, to men between the ages of 40 and 60 years who have high moral integrity and large personal acquaintance; men with investment sales, banking, insurance sales or promotion experience may qualify. Address Sales Manager, in care of this paper stating full particulars.

Law Operates Vs. Chicken Thieves

INDIANAPOLIS, July 13 (AP).—Chicken stealing has passed into the realm of "big business," special laws passed by the last legislature indicate.

Under the new statute dealers are required to be personally acquainted with the persons from whom they buy chickens or to take the name and address of the seller. Its object is to aid in the tracing of stolen poultry. Wholesale thefts are common, says Attorney General aJmes M. Ogden.

Potato King Puts In 5,000 Acres

SCOTT CITY, Kan., July 13 (AP).—Nearly 1,500,000 bushels of potatoes will be grown this year by two Kansans who have built what may be the world's largest farm potato cellar.

C. E. Foster and A. M. Bates, whose names stand for large scale potato production in Kansas, have planted 5,000 acres in "spuds." Last year their first crop totalled 100,000 bushels—the capacity of their cellar. For this year's crop they used 30,000 bushels of the 1928 yield for seed.

The pair literally stumbled onto sucess as "potato kings." They decided potatoes could be grown for a profit when their car broke down during a tour for new farm land.

Vibrant Atmosphere Of Old West A Boon To Youth Of Modern Day; One Time Indian Camp Yields To Boys

Old Ranch House Serves As Headquarters As Lads Of Plains Study Lore Their Forefathers Knew

THE VIBRANT and appealing atmosphere of the Old West pervades everything pertaining to the summer camp of the South Plains area council Boy Scouts, near Post. Situated on a sloping plateau, almost within the shadow of the caprock, the campsite, proper, can easily be visualized as once the gathering place of Indians.

Regulation army tents, utilized by the Scouts there, possibly are pitched where, not so many years ago, Indian tepees spread. Jutting skyward for several hundred feet to the west, north and south, the jagged rim of the cap rock, sentinel-like, separating the upper plateau from the more broken country that slopes ever southward toward the sea, gives one the impression of what once was all that could be seen—the wide-open spaces of the west.

Fine View Available

Southward and eastward, one may seen for 20 miles or more, from this camp site. Late in the evening, as now occurs every day, the lengthy and heavily laden freight and passenger cars of the Santa Fe, smoke piling from giant locomotives, creep from the far horizon to the southwest, nearer and nearer. As this sight is watched, one can visualize the Indians, from the vantage point watching in all their bloodthirsty cunning, the slow approach of covered wagons, or of cowboys, and planning to waylay and scalp.

The trim little city of Post, nestling several hundred feet lower to the east, glistens in the afternoon sun, and the farm houses, adorning checker-boarded farm lands, send back from their window lights glittering reflections.

Headquarters In Ranch

Headquarters for the South Plains Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, are established at this unique camp in an old-time ranch house. Under the shade of burlap or canopy, stretched over wooden framework, the scouts partake of their meals. Rugged, deep and wierd-looking canyons, cut by aeons of running waters, spilled from off the caprock, lie in all their mysery, in hree directions from this ranch home.

There are 500 acres in the camp grounds. Five hundred acres that, because of their wild disorder of cactus, bear grass, scraggy cedars and grasses common to the area, issue a primative call to all that is primitive in man or boy.

Half a century or more ago, undoubtedly numerous tribes of redskins inhabitated this very spot. With bow and arrow ready, the young braves watched mountainous clouds of smoke, from prairie fires set by their scouts on the plains above, curl nearer and nearer. As myriad buffalo scrambled in frantic madness, down the steep canyons in their mad rush to safety, arrows flew and hundreds of buffalo bit the dust, to provide meat for Indian food.

Coyotes Abound

Even today, in the year A. D. 1929, rabbits scamper about, as of old. Tarantulas creep about on warm summer days, mating. Rattlers coil beneath cooling shade of rock or scrubby plants. Coyotes abound.

Numerous battles, no doubt, have been fought between white man and red, upon these 500 acres. Evidence is to be found of this, with arrow heads, lead bullets from pioneers rifles and pistols, imbedded in the dirt.

As youthful Indians were want to compete in their peculiar games, or older braves to dance in preparation for war, today's Boy Scouts circle around bonfires; play and learn useful things to fit them for the battles of the lives of men, just around the corner of their years.

The first half of this summer's camp ended last Tuesday night. Scouts, who had been training diligently, were given awards in the Court of Honor, as listed following:

Return Tuesday Night

Rev. E. V. May, scout master of Troop 19, and sixteen scouts returned to the city Tuesday night after spending ten days at the C. W. Post Memorial Boy Scout Camp at Post, Texas. A wonderful time is reported by those in attendance. Rev. May was assisted bby Mr. C. L. Lincoln, assistant scout master of Brownfield, in the many responsibilities attending the stay. Scouts from Brownfield were King, Brownfield, Bandy, Bell, Moore, Barrett, Dallas, Adams, Michie, Fowler, Kendrick, Lewis, Cruice, Bigham, Scuddy and Davis.

Ideal Club Has Party

One of the most enjoyable jarties given recently was Wednesday afternoon when Mrs. Fiem McSpadden charmingly entertained the Ideal Bridge Club at four o'clock at her home on South avenue B. Beautiful small begonia plants were given as table cuts, Mrs. McCowan, Mrs. Fred Smith and Mrs. DuBois receiving them. Mrs. DuBois was also presented with a large plant for high score in the play. Mrs. McSpadden served an attractive plate of butterfly salad, chicken sandwiches, olives cake and orange sherbet in shape of flower pots. The sherbet was decorated with nasturtiums to her guests who were Mesdames Fred Smith, Joe McGowan, B. S. DuBois, R. W. Carter, R. L. Harris, W. R. McDuffie, A. W. Endersen, A. A. Sawyer, R. L. Bowers, Leo Holmes, I. M. Bailey and E. Michie. This was an extremely lovely party and most enjoyable.

Small Child Poisoned Monday

The fifteen months old child of Mr. and Mrs. Bailzy Bridges of Tokio followed the mother in the yard and sat down near a flower bed. Screams brought the mother to the child and she found a rattle snake running away. Everything was done that could have been to relieve the little sufferer. The child passed away Tuesday morning early, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Thompson, friends of Mr. and Mrs. Bridges. Interment followed Tuesday afternoon in Brownfield cemetery. Lovely floral offerings comforted in a way the distress of the parents.

Ex-captain Bruce Reed of Vernon, Texas star athlete of Texas Tech at Lubbock, was a guest Tuesday of James Harley Dallas and Bill Collins.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom May and little daughters returned Saturday from Manitou, Colorado, where they had gone to enroll their daughter, Miss Rebecca May, as a student at Camp Kinnikinnik Girls school, at Manitou. Word has been received from Miss Rebecca that she is delighted with surroundings and teachers.

Now! There! Watch For The Birdie!

Lubbock Photographers Tell A Few Of The Secrets Which They Use To Make Pictures More Natural

IN ONE CORNER sits grandmother, smiling affectionately and manipulating a string to which is attached a toy.

The mother is standing in the center of the room, using her best psychology to elicit a smile. The father, nearby, is making awkward gestures to convert tears into laughter.

A flood of light is centered upon the pride of the family.

That, ladies and gentlemen, is the setting for a photograph of Archibald, junior, one-year-old.

A "Tough Racket"

"What a task!" say Lubbock photographers, in speaking of the complex difficulties of making a likeness of a child. Each member of the family, in many cases, wants to make certain that the photographer overlooks no detail.

"We are always glad to have the mother in the camera room," said one photographer," for the presence of the maternal parent creates a desirable ease which is conducive to a good picture of the child. Too many relatives, however, will cause a number of attractions, and the results of the child would require a revolving camera.

Coloring No Handicap

Contrary to the common impression that only a certain type of individual will photograph well, photographers say that the use of light rays has eliminated many problems and will create a favorable condition for photographing blonde or brunette.

Hitherto, the baldheaded man was the nemesis of the skilled camera man. Now, the photographer creates a dark screen to take light off the shining head, and the picture is made sans hair. In few instances, however, the picture-takers insist upon hat covered hairless heads.

Men Buy 'Em, Too

The man is apparently educated to the fact that a picture is not an expression of vanity. Local photographers aver that the number of men who apply for pictures is increasing each year. About 10 or 15 years ago the man felt embarrassed when an example of good photography, in the nature of his picture, was placed in the photographer's display window. Today the picture serves many purposes as expressions of friendship and love.

Entirely different backgrounds are used for the old and the young. A soft reflected light tends to belittle wrinkles, while the direct light intensifies or exagerates the lines. This factor is taken into consideration when photographing old people.

Watch Dresses Closely

Occasionally, the photographer will ask for a change of dress. For instance, a highly figured silk dress might show up in the picture as a gingham or percale dress. Plain-colored silks with few designs are desired by Lubbock photographers. Wear clothes that will not detract from the facial features, they advise.

The best pictures are made of persons who make very little preparation, said one portrait maker. "Those who stroll into my studio nonchalantly, dressed in ordinary clothes and decide they want a photograph after looking over samples will make surprisingly good pictures," he said. "Perfect ease and comfort will cause any person to photograph well."

'Double-Barreled' Hen Lays Mammoth Eggs As Habit

CONWAY, N. H., July 13 (AP)—A hen that has almost developed a habit of laying mammoth eggs with "double barrelled" characteristics is owned by Perley McLellan of this town.

The year-old Plymouth Rock has laid 14 eggs of which each contains the usual contents and, in addition, another egg of average size in an average shell.

Some of the eggs were so large as to resembel the product of some far larger bird, measuring nine inches in circumference one way and seven and one-half inches the other. Their weights were about six ounces apiece. Three of these huge eggs weigh as much as nine common eggs. The hen laid one of these freaks every second day and then apparently returned to normal production.

Paintrock Territory Sends Out Various Products

PAINTROCK, July 13 (Special)—Paintrock exports during one week recently included one car of sheep to the Fort Worth market by Hartgrove and Becton, and cars of mixed stock.

Eighteen cars of grain and 15 cars of wool have been shipped to date. Last year's cotton crop of 3,289 bales is expected to be equalled this year.

HENDERSON, Ky. (AP).—A horde of white ants invaded the Episcopal church here, and caused $10,000 damage before they were discovered. The insects, known as termites, destroyed the wood work foundation of the church.

Because of the number of picnickers near London who have been bitten by snakes, a general warning against the plague has been issued.

THE SUPREME COURT AMENDMENT

VOTERS of Texas are to decide an important issue next Tuesday.

By the right of ballot, Texans will say "yes" or "no" to proposed amendment to the state constitution which calls for the abolishment of the Commission of Appeals; which calls for the election of nine Supreme court judges; instead of the present three which makes the work of the Supreme court continuous throughout the year instead of the present system of nine months per year and—which is more important—hopes to make the legal machinery of the state move in a more efficient manner.

The Avalanche-Journal hopes the amendment will pass. It should in the interest of better government.

For some time this newspaper has been outspoken in its criticism of the American and Texas systems of jurisprudence. In so doing, The Avalanche-Journal believes, it has been expressing the opinion of the majority of the rank and file of citizens—men and women who know nothing and care nothing for the red tape and high sounding phrases of the law offices and the courtrooms, but who are practical enough to want better business judgment exercised in the meting out of justice. The proposed amendment, the Texas Bar association says, will benefit conditions—and, if the bar is correct as it certainly should be in this matter, for Heaven's sake let's pass it!

This newspaper is of the opinion that were individual business operated upon the same basis as our public courts the wheels of progress would soon stop turning and grow rusty. Were the fetters of time allowed to cobweb the machinery of commerce and industry as they have the tribunals of justice—from the lowest to the highest—grass would be growing at 42nd street and Broadway and most of us would have 'nothing to do until tomorrow'.

It is because of these opinions and because it believes that the situation now prevailing should be improved, that The Avalanche-Journal favors the passage of the Supreme court amendment on Tuesday. After all the problem is one which must be solved by the public's representatives, the voters, and we've gotto to start somewhere. Methods of operation in the Supreme court of Texas are more than archaic—they are, to quote leading members of the bar, impossible.

Vote 'yes' Tuesday and help improve the situation.

WHY INDIANS REVERT

There was the old Quaker who said to his wife: "All the world is queer, Rachel, and even thee is a little queer." It seems a tendency of human nature to set one's self, one's family, one's state, one's nation and one's race apart from and perhaps above the mass. Here then is one approach to an appreciation of the thought in a recent article on the Indian and Indian policy by Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, the new secretary of the interior, in a national publication.

Why do so many Indian young men and women, after taking on what we have been calling an educational veneer in schools and colleges, revert to primitive tribal lives when returned to their reservations? We have been saying blood will tell: that instinct dominates and once an Indian always an Indian—a wild, untamable, uneducatable, unassimilable soul. Whereas Doctor Lyman says that then they have no exercise of their "learning," no call to retain social usages and the white man's social life, no chance for further growth in the contacts with other educated people in a business life. So what else than reversion can be expected.

Are there not rather too many similar reversions among graduates of colleges and universities other than Indians? Twenty years after, are we not compeled to wonder where, in tragic instances, a fine equipment for a good life has gone to?

ANTAGONIZING CUSTOMERS

While it is too early to put one's thumb on the cause, the drop in exports last month, leaving the United States with its first unfavorable trade balance since 1926, might be charged to the steadily-growing resentment abroad at the new tariff attitude of congress.

Seven foreign governments have sent protests to the state department, which has transmitted them to the senate finance committee. Sixteen other formal complaints were lodged with the house committee, in addition to numerous representations of a less official character.

While the argument is put forward that foreign buyers are dependent upon many American export products, the growth of our trade in manufactured goods offers testimony quite to the contrary. What may develop, if the present ill-feeling abroad is trnslated into action to restrict purchases from the United States, cannot be argued away, and one of the best indications of how leading industrialists view prospects is to be found in the method by which the two largest automobile companies will avoid future reprisals by setting up plants abroad.

Reactionary manufacturers may take great comfort in obtaining a share of the tariff spoils and dismiss all fears on the score of foreign trade. But it is indeed a short-sighted policy which drives away foreign customers and makes it necessary for American manufacturers to produce abroad with foreign labor what they formerly exported from American plants empolying Americans.

BETTER RETAIN FREE SPEECH

Senator Bingham, of Connecticut, is proposing an amendment to the constitution by which the congressional privilege of legal irresponsibility for anything that may be said on the floor will be abrogated. He hopes in this manner to improve the level of courtesy in both houses.

It is greatly doubted whether the people of 96 states care enough about this matter to attempt to make members of congress gentlemen by constitutional amendment. After all, the acquisition of notoriety by calling names and attacking reputations has been so long indulged in by a few members of every congress that few people take it seriously. Such conduct reveals a lack of breeding or of self-control, and it is so regarded.

Free speech in congress is of greater value to the nation than would be the curtailment of abuse by a self-seeking vulgar few.

PROPER LEGAL REFORM DECLARED TASK FOR SEVERAL SUCCESSIVE LIFETIMES

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 13.—With dozens of volumes more laws already, than the government can keep track of (according to legal authorities generally)—

With hundreds—maybe thousands—of old laws, still unrepealed, that not even the wisest lawyer knows of, except as he may happen on one of them accidentally, like a geologist stumbling on a new kind of fossil (according to Chairman Roy G. Fitzgerald of the house of representatives' committee on legal revision)—

With any law, once passed, virtually impossible of repeal, though about half of them ought to be repealed (according to Congressman John N. Garner, leader of the minority party in the representatives' chamber)—

America continues to pass additional laws faster than any other "five of the world's leading countries put together" (according to General Counsel James A. Emery of the National Association of Manufacturers, who considers so many laws an unmitigated nuisance).

AMERICA is at an advantage over the rest of the world in the matter of legislative record breaking because of the co-operation between congress and all the 48 states' respective lawmaking bodies.

Counsellor Emery puts their average biennial output at something over 12,000 statutes.

However, nobody can make even a good guess at the size of the entire accumulation of new and old ones—heaven only knows how many of the latter are lying dormant.

"Dormant" is right; they are not dead.

Every now and then some slick lawyer digs up one of these ancient enactments to spring on his rival unexpectedly and throw him into disorder. It usually does so—just as an arrow through his vitals would disconcert a modern soldier.

QUITE a noteworthy instance of this was brought to congress' attention a few years ago by the late Colonel James B. Ownbey, Colorado mining engineer.

A pre-revolutionary law of the type referred to above—it was known as the "Custom of London"—had been utilized against him in the Delaware courts some time previously at a cost to the colonel in excess of a million, and he resented it bitterly.

In due course the lawyer who had played the trick on him was appointed to the United States Supreme court and the colonel hastened to Washington to fight his confirmation by the senate.

He lost, the senators deeming it legal fair play; but they did agree that such laws ought not to be left unrepealed on the statute books.

In fact, the scandalized Delaware legislature already had repealed the "Custom of London"—repeal does occasionally follow, after the damage has been done—and tried to do it retroactively, but the supreme court vetoed that.

OF course all this case proves is that such legal confusion is dangerous—sometimes even sideswiping a pretty influential individual, like Colonel Ownbey, who is overheard when he howls about it.

Incidentally, some members of congress insist that it breeds disrespect of law—so much complained of recently.

Congressman Fitzgerald of the representatives' legal revision committee adds that many laws are hary; that they conflict; that one law often enables a person to evade another law; that there are laws which nobody can find, as well as laws which nobody ever heard of; that the whole situation is a terrible hodge-podge.

PAT LITTLE ASTRIGENT ON PERSPIRING PORTION AFTER WASHING, DRYING PERSPIRATION

"DEAR DOCTOR: My son is a clean young man always bathing, as they do nowadays, but his feet and underarms sweat too freely. He has tried alum and some patented preparations but with no relief. The formalin solution you advise our druggist said was poisonous and he would not advise it, and he also said that the 25 per cent aluminum chloride solution was sugar of lead and was also poisonous. May I know some details on this? MRS. H."

I wouldn't advise you to go to this druggist for any prescriptions for internal medication, Mrs. H., for if you have quoted him correctly, he doesn't know his chemistry and pharmacology. The prescription I gave, of one ounce of liquid formaldehyde (usually called formalin) to the quart of water, is not a poison. Naturally it is to be used externally, but even though a dose were taken internally in that percentage, it might be an irritant, but it wouldn't be dangerous. This prescription is a favorite prescription of the boys in the army and navy who are troubled with excessively perspiring and sometimes malodorous feet. It not only acts as an astringent, making the pores less active, but it is an antiseptic and germicide, preventing the growth and killing off any bacilli fetidus which produce a bad odor, and counteracting the ammoniacal decomposition of the sweat which also causes the bad odor.

Aluminum chloride has no relation to sugar of lead. They are two separate minerals. Aluminum Chloride is made from aluminum, so is alum, and many people get small doses of this frequently for most baking powders contain it. There is no evidence that so taken it has any deleterious effects.

The 25 per cent solution of aluminum chloride, used as an astringent and deodorant, is not absorbed when rubbed on the unbroken skin (very few things are), and certainly would have no harmful effect.

If you find that any preparation as an astringent causes itching or an eruption, it wust be diluted a little more. The method of using is to put a little of the soluton on the perspiring part, after first washing and drying it. The formaldehyde solution (especially good for the feet) may have to be used daily for a week, then twice a week, and then finally once a week.

Those of you who need to reduce won't be tempted quite so much to take certain well advertised tablets henceforth! As these contain thyroid, a medication that may do infinite harm unless supervised by a competent physician, the Federal Trade Commission has issued an order against the company to "cease and desist" from representing that the product is a scientific and accurate method of reducing obesity, made from a scientific formula, the result of scientific research, and that it can be taken without the advice of competent medical authority with no harmful results to the physical health.

The head of this concern will probably find some method of evading the law, for, having been at it for 25 years (at one time he was fined $5,000), he evaded the postal authorities in 1926 when they were going to issue a fraud order against the company, by changing its name and continuing to sell his nostrum through the drug stores instead of through the mails.

This report I get from the May 4, 1929 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

We have a pamphlet which gives instructions on how to gain or lose weight by scientific methods.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose, nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column, in turn. Requests for articles must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope and 2 cents in coin for each article, to cover cost of printing and handling. For the pamphlet on reducing and gaining, 10 cents in coin, with fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, must be enclosed. Address Dr. Peters in care of this paper.

Today's Poem

POETRY

I am the reality of things that seem;
The great transmuter, melting loss to gain,
Languor to love, and fining joy from pain.
I am the waking, who am called the dream;
I am the sun, all light reflects my gleam;
I am the altar-fire within the fane;
I am the force of the refreshing rain;
I am the sea to which flows every stream;
I am the utmost height there is to climb;
I am the truth, mirrored in fancy's glass;
I am stability, all else will pass;
I am eternity, encircling time;
Kill me, none may, conquer me, nothing can—
I am God's soul, fused in the soul of man.

Plainview's New Country Club To Be Open July 18

Reception And Dance Will Mark Formal Opening; Is Modern Unit With Complete Entertainment

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

PLAINVIEW, July 13. — Plainview's new Country club will be formally opened to the membership on July 18 with a reception and dance.

The club house is made of old residence which has been completely remodeled and rearranged to fit the needs of the club. It is located within a quarter mile of the highway from Plainview to Olton that is now being paved. The finished home gives to Plainview one of the finest club houses in West Texas.

One hundred charter members purchased the tract of land and since that time the membership has been authorized to increased to 150. Several applications for membership are now awaiting approval.

The Country club has recently purchased the lease and equipment of the Rio Blanco golf course which adjoins the club property and will utilize this golf course for the members until their own club course can be properly sodded.

Two tennis courts have been completed with a clay base which will give the club two of the fastest courts to be had. These will be ready for play this week.

Prisoners Being Returned To Home

GUADALAJARA, Jalisco, Mexico, July 13 (AP)—Wireless messages from the island penal colony "Tres Marias" said that the men and women exiled there some time ago on account of having given aid to the Christero rebels have been embarked on a special steamer and will reach the port of Manzanillo in a couple of days. They will be brought to Guadalajara, on a special train and then be allowed to proceed to their homes.

The prisoners, who were apprehended in Mexico City, Guadalajara and other parts of the country in the last few months, were pardoned by President Ports Gil immediately after the Church-State agreement was signed June 21, putting an end to a three-year-old religious controvrsy.

Branch-line programs of two Canadian railways will involve expenditures of approximately $80,000,000.

On the Fence with The Seer

Since early boyhood the Seer has vagabonded through pages of books—chiefly histories—and has through this pleasurable diversion revelled in the lives of others—He has in his own mind lived the lives of the Caesars and the Pharohs—He has wept at the undeserved fate of the early Christians—He has enhaled the smoke of Stanley's campfire in the heart of darkest Africa and lost himself in sleep in the midst of the monotonous drum of the tom-tom. In the smoke of battle at Waterloo his heart seemed to wither and die with the brokne spirit of his hero of history—Napoleon Bonaparte. When the little Corporal died in agony at St. Helena with the name of Josephine on his lips sadness seemed to besiege the soul of the Seer.

The power of the printing press has handed down the epochs of the earth. It has put enlightment and wisdom upon the threshold of the world. A wealth of knowledge awaits the ones who will commit themselves to the pages of good literature.

The Seer is for Home libraries, city libraries and other methods of bringing enlightment to the peoples of the earth. Ignorance is a plague uncalled for in this modern age, an age that is deeply embossed with opportunities.

The Seer noticed where a man who had fought Jack Dempsey six times is now an actor. If the Seer's memory is accurate he made a Charlie Paddock out of another.

Quotations Of Real Merit

"It is inconvenient, unpopular, and difficult to develop new methods of selection and admission which will decrease the thoughtless flood of youth to college. If, however, the principle is sound, the method should, in spite of all, be developed for the sake of youth itself."—Dr. C. C. Little, president University of Michigan (The New Republic).

"The pay check is important, but not half the story. No one has ever disputed the fact that boxing champions have cleaned up far greater amounts than any other professional stars. But after collecting his million, John L. Sullivan died in poverty, and most of the others since his day have finished 'broke and disallusioned." — Grantland Rice (Collier's).

"Birth control, moreover, improves the status of women, since constant child bearing and rearing is an excessive strain on women and robs them of their youth and strength and economic independence, which birth control enables them to retain."—C. V. Drysdale (Current History).

"It has become the custom to salute each of the great industrialists as a genius. I quarrel with that because there seem to be so many of them and when one dies or steps down another movves forward to take his place."—Heywood Broun (The Nation).

"Business has been quick to seize advantage of group action and slow to assume group responsibility."—Owen D. Young.

SIDE GLANCES By George Clark

"We haven't that in stock right now, Mrs. Van Scads. I could give you the same thing with a pale green stripe."

GOING PLACES AND SEEING THINGS

(Aboard the Great Circle's Line's inaugural plane-to-train flight.)

GARDEN CITY, Kas., July 13—It takes a conspiracy of varied minds to bring an innovation such as linking air and rail.

One man was a dreamer. He worked too hard in the face of a heart afffection and is dead. His name was Piper.

One was a practical organizer. His name is Halsey Dunwoody, and he developed the routine details.

The third sits across from me. His name is Dan Jones. He is a young man in his early thirties, whose father, Breckenridge Jones, was a banking power in St. Louis. When a young man, born to millions, uses the nam of "Dan" in relationship with a family name, "Jones," you have little trouble getting acquainted with him. Dan Jones, then, is the plunger, the adventurous minded factor in the aviation concern which was first to link the coasts by air and train.

He jumped into aviation just a few years ago. All about him were people going in for air development. He "got in" early. And he fairly bubbles with ideas of what the future holds.

Far below, acres of Kansas grain fields flow in green and yellow-green streams, like velvet covered rivers. . . . There is a quiet, velvet rythm such as no river knows, however.

And the most remote places spring into life as the whirr of the motors is heard. The farmers stop in their fields; families rush out of their houses and farm lads grow up with their eyes fastened on the skies. What this will mean to their adolescent restlessness, I can only conjecture!

The farm animals have not yet accustomed themselves to these roaring monsters. Contented cows break into southern stampede; herds of sheep and black, wallowing hogs join in the panic. Birds flutter frightenedly to the shelter of trees.

And this little town sees itself taking an important place on the map. The stout gentleman from the chamber of commerce will tell you, "how as the town figured that if they go to flying from Kansas City they might be wanting to stop here."

Well the airplane, after looking a number of towns over, did light upon Garden City. And its air field will be one of the most popular in future coast-to-coast service.

The town band is something to write about. When it comes down to meet you, you'll know you've been met. The town band, I might let you know, plays in its shirt sleeves, and when you've looked at the thermometer you'll understand why. What the town band may lack in technique, it makes up in willingness to perform. It plays with zest and abandon and with an ardor that needs no art.

Also Garden City has a "geographic camp ground." Each state has a space allotted to its care and its drivers. There are signs to designate the different places, each of which offers accommodations for the night. Garden City is going to get the tourists, or know why.

When I was a lad, the news butcher on the train was a romantic figure. Not a boy in my neighborhood but was on record as eager to take the next train. In those days the Horatio Alger influence was strong.

At the air ports, I find the same sort of lads trying to become porters—or anything, for that matter—aboard the new passenger air ships. The most envied boy I have met enroute is one who has the exalted job of flag waver on the Kansas City flying field.

GILBERT SWAN.

Asbestos Postcards? Well, Maybe!

"Am Having A Wonderful Time—Wish You Were Here" Not So Funny, Stay-At-Homes Here Aver

I AM HAVING a wonderful time. Wish you were here, Bob."

Did you ever receive a postcard with this message written on the back? Yes? Well, did you ever get it when you were just about at the end of the rope on an exceedingly warm summer afternoon when your desk was still piled to the ceiling with work that just must be finished?

If you ever did you know what you thought about him, if you didn't put it into words.

People on vacations seem to have a mania for writing postcards. They hunt for cards with pictures of the most inviting places and with the most provocative expressions on them and always write on the back "Wish you were here."

In a little poem he called "Punishment Undeserved," Harry Lee Marriner, now deceased, wrote about picture postals. Here is one verse of his poem:

"I love the pretty postal cards
They send me through the mails
With pictures of Napoleon
And ostriches and jails;
Of forest trees
Of making cheese
Of setter dogs and London fogs;
Of steeple tops
And barber shops,
But what I'd like to know
Is what in thunder I have done
To make them treat me so."

Well, What of It?

"Went fishing today and caught a whale of a fish." "The nights are wonderful and I'm sure catching up on my shut-eye," "Made a seventy-two in my golf game today. Wonderful course and great weather," are some of the things we read on the backs of postal cards we receive. This might not be so bad if they just wouldn't end by writing, "Wish you were here."

Well, what if he did catch a big fish. Lots of people catch fish. And the nights are not so bad here. With a couple of fans going and a pitcher of ice water by the bed we manage to get by pretty well. We have good golf courses, too. Why go somewhere else to get your face blistered when you can get an excellent sunburn in your own backyard?

1,000 Per Day Here

According to postmaster, John L. Vaughan, there are just about a thousand of these postal cards received by Lubbock people every day. Some friend goes on a trip and sees something he just knows you would enjoy and when he reaches the hotel just can't wait to write you about it or tell you when he gets home but must sit right down and send a postal card with the expression which will someday join the ranks of "Famous last words."

Again with apologies to Harry Lee Marriner:

The friends I have are loyal and show it by the way,
They mail me picture postals from everywhere they stray;
And one day I am certain some few will send regards
And tell where they are stopping —on asbestos postal cards!"

BRIDGE PARTY

Mrs. J. M. Stokes was hostess to the Thursday Afternoon Bridge club members and several guests.

The color scheme of white and yellow was carried out in the table decorations, score cards and refreshments, which consisted of cream molded in the shapes of Shasta daisies and angel food squares.

Those attending were Mesdames John Arnett, Lena Howard, F. G. Sadler, W. O. Stockton, W. G. Street, C. L. Harless, McGavock of Olton, Davis, S. J. Farquhar, Elmer Lloyd of Sudan, M. A. Etter, T. Wade Potter, R. T. Badger, R. H. Rutledge, Marie Harper of New Mexico, J. D. Dodgens of San Antonio, C. C. Clements, Doc Miller, Dyers and Miss Florence Pigley of Hastings, Okla.

PRESBYTERIAN AUXILIARY

The ladies of the Presbyterian auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. T. S. Sales Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. L. M. Touchon as hostess.

The meeting was opened by the chaplain, Mrs. Barber. Thirteen members answered to roll call.

Mrs. J. S. Hilliard and Mrs. W. S. Fulton were appointed to make plans for entertaing Miss Baker, a missionary from Gautemala, and securing the theater for a lecture to be given by Miss Baker Sunday evening.

Mrs. Brittain and Mrs. Stockton were appointed general chairmen for the bazaar to be given during the winter months.

At the close of the business session Mrs. E. A. Bills had charge of the devotional and Mrs. N. A. Douglass gave a lesson on Stewardship. At the close of the lesson the hostess assisted by Mrs. Gardner served delicious refreshments to the members of the society.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Wilda Courtney entertained her little friends Friday afternoon, the occasion being her tenth birthday. Games were played until 7 o'clock and then refreshments were served to the following: Alice Lynn Stret, Ann Marie Harless, Lounel Humphries, Earnestine Cundiff, Blanche Wales, Irma Willis, Ima Jo and Kathleen Bruer, Louise and Lennie B. Thornton, Edna Bell Gillette, Dorothy Newgent, Baby Clyde Willis, Betty Ann Hilliard, Jack Norman, Daniel Boone Hemphill and Gene Willis.

W. M. N. MEET

Mrs. Herbert Miller entertained the ladies of the Baptist church in all day social at her home Tuesday.

The ladies met at the church and went out to the Miller home in a body, after which a lunch, consisting of sandwiches, fruit salad, iced tea, cake and plenty of home made ice cream was served.

In a short business session the ladies planned a chicken dinner and food sale to be held in town Saturday, July 13. Committees were appointed to solicit funds for the church debt. After the business meeting a very interesting Bible contest was conducted by Mrs. Lena Howard. Mrs. R. T. Badger of Austin had the honor of answering the most Bible questions, after which she told the story of Ruth, as her favorite Bible story.

About sixteen ladies were present and a number of children.

METHODIST MISSIONARY

The ladies of the society met at the church. The lesson was led by Mrs. R. E. Riley. The next lesson will be the last chapter of "Friends of Africa," and be led by Mrs. Hobbs.

THEATER PARTY

Misses Addie Mae Hemphill, Pauline Courtney and Doris Williams entertained a few of their friends with a dinner and theater party Friday evening after the dinner was served at Miss Williams' home the joyful young people left for Lubbock to attepd the show. Those enjoying this affair were Misses Prudence Courtney, Winifred Willis, Addie Mae Hemphill, Doris Williams, Pauline Courtney, Messrs. "Close Harmony" Coming To Lindsey Theater Thursday

Scrapings From Filmland's Gossip

(By Central Press)

NEW YORK, July 13—Brief and—well, perhaps—breezy.

Davy Lee, the kid who broke into stardom by a role in an Al Jolson pic, will be seen in another movie starring the mammy yodeler . . . Davy and Al will emote together in Jolson's forthcoming "Say It With Songs" . . . Latest movie raid on vaudeville has resulted in signing of Mae Clark for a role in "Big Time" . . . She's the wife of Lew Brice, comedian, in case you didn't happen to know . . . Cleve Moore, brother of Colleen Moore, will appear in her next picture . . . Talkie makers say one of the hardest sounds to make register perfectly is that of the kiss . . . These hot summer nights Hollywood studios are doing a lot of night shooting . . . The early morning on the Pacific coast is plenty cool, while midday is something else again . . . 'Tis reported Ina Claire's clothes for "The Awful Truth" cost $20,000 . . . But that's hardly a news item in these days of big tags on little garments . . . If Ina's habiliments hadn't cost $20,000 it might have been news . . . A tiny gold ball on a golden chain to be worn by the ankle is now considered swank in Hollywood for movie femmes about to wed . . . Fred Kohler has been signed to a long-term contract.

Murder Mystery Comes To Lindsey

All Talkie Feature With Mary Duncan Starts Today

The famous New York courtroom in which scores of cases of world-wide interest have been tried, General Sessions, Part 1, in New York, was reproduced in exact detail for the production of "Thru Different Eyes," Fox Movietone all-talking murder trial film, featuring Mary Duncan, Warner Baxter and Edmund Lowe. "Thru Different Eyes" is scheduled for the Lindsey Theater starting today.

Photographs were made of the interior of the famous court, and studio carpenters and artisans reproduced the court room in its entirety. Jack Francis, old-time New York reporter, who reported many famous trials in General Sessions, was technical supervisor and checked every detail to see that no errors were made.

Among famous trials held in General Sessions was that of Roland Molineaux in which he was charged with poisoning a Mrs. Rogers. Twice he was convicted and sentenced to death in the electric chair, but both times the verdicts were set aside and finally, on his third trial, he was acquitted.

Many persons will remember the trial of the notorious Nan Patterson charged with shooting Caesar Young in a hansom cab. She was acquitted at her second trial, both trials being held in General Sessions.

Harry Thaw staged his sensational battles for freedom in General Sessions, Part 1, spending nearly a million dollars to escape paying the death penalty for killing Stanford White, famous New York architect whom he accused of wronging Evelyn Nesbitt, before she became Thaw's wife.

It was in this same court that Abe Hummel, king of the shyster lawyers of New York, heard himself condemned to prison for faking evidence in a divorce case.

None of these famous trials was more dramatic than the trial of Harvey Manning as enacted in "Thru Different Eyes," it is claimed, and certainly none had such a sensational climax as occurs in this Fox Movietone production.

Buddy Rogers And Nancy Carroll To Be Seen In Film

Musical Talkie Is Herald As One Of Best

HEADLINING this week's theater offerings in Lubbock will be "Close Harmony," heralded as one of the outstanding "Talkie" pictures yet produced. It will begin a three-day run at the Lindsey starting Thursday.

In "Close Harmony" will again be seen the stars of "Abie's Irish Rose," Nancy Carroll and Charles (Buddy) Rogers. The story is that of a back stage romance, Rogers as the musician appears in a new role—a role in which he is the best fitted of his career. He will be seen not only as a superb actor but as a capable musician. This is the kind of a film that Buddy Rogers fans have wanted to see him in for some time.

Song and Dance Girl.

Nancy Carroll plays the part of a song and dance headliner and she is gorgeous as only Nancy Carroll can be. The dancing and singing ability which "made" her on the New York stage before she entered the cinema is demonstraed to rare advantage in "Close Harmony." Remembber the date. It starts Thursday.

Mystery At Lindsey

Another murder mystery thriller, promising to be even more gripping than the ones which have been presented here previously starts a three-day run at the Lindsey today. This picture, "Thru Different Eyes," has the exact setting of a famous New York courtroom in which scores of cases of world-wide interest have been tried.

"Thru Different Eyes" is a Fox Movietone all-talking picture, starring Mary Duncan, Warner Baxter and Edmund Lowe. The many sensational murder cases tried in the original of the courtroom in New York could havev been no more dramatic romantic than "Thru Different Eyes."

Olive Borden At Palace

Starting today at the Palace Theater for a two-day run will be seen two favorites of the screen, Olive Borden and Ralph Graves, in their ltest picture "The Eternal Woman."

Theater goers will be carried from mountain wilds of Argentina to the metropolitan of New York City; they will be carried through the experiences of a dramatic, thrilling ship wreck, and a sojourn in a fisherman's cottage. All of the events serve to weave a beautiful romance between an American business man and a girl from the Pampas.

"Scarlet Seas" Coming.

The week's feature at the Palace will be "Scarlet Seas," starring Richard Barthelmess. In this production Barthelmess will bee seen in a new and different role. "Scarlet Seas" is a thrilling tale of the open seas with its setting teeming with the vivid color of the South seas.

Betty Compson plays the feminine lead, giving excellent support of Barthelmess.

"Simba" Is Different.

An entirely different sort of picture will be offered at the Lyric Theater for three days starting today. "Simba" is a thrilling big game hunting expedition in Africa. The film was made by Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson. It pictures native naked blacks, members of the negro tribes of Central Africa fighting with the various wild animals of the jungle.

Starting Wednesday at the Lyric for a two-day run will be "The Bellamy Trial," one of the most dramatic and thrilling ever to be filmed.

Dick Barthelmess Star In Film At Palace This Week

"Scarlet Seas" Will Start Run Next Thursday

"Scarlet Seas," the new First National picture starring Richard Barthelmess which comes to the Palace Theatre next Thursday, marked the destruction of the popular star's airplane jink.

Six years ago Barthelmess was on location near Washington, D. C., and took a flight in an airplane from Hampton Roads. The plane made a perfect flight until it neared its destination when something strange seemed to be happening; Barthelmess, however, felt that the pilot was competent and therefore sat tightly. When the plane landed, the pilot fell limp across his wheel—dead! It was pronounced a case of heart failure.

This experience left an indelibble imprint on Barthelmess' memory and he would never again fly. But when the First National "Scarlet Seas" company went to the Isthmus on Catalina Island, the star decided that production must not be held up—the age-old tradition of "the play must go on" prevailed. He chartered a plane and made the flight, thus killing, once for all, the jinx that haunted him since that fateful day six years ago.

"Scarlet Seas" is a thrilling tale of the open sea, teeming with the vivid color of the South Seas, trading i smuggled goods, rough-and-tumble fights and an unusual Barthelmess characterization. It was directed by John Frances Dillon, who made such a mark for himself with "The Noose."

Big Game Hunting Picture A t Lyric

Naked Blacks Kill Vicious Lions In "Simba"

The most thrilling moment in "Simba," the big game hunting motion picture made in Africa by Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson, which is at the Lyric Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, which shows the naked blacks of the Lumbwa tribe armed only with spears and shields, attacking and killing full grown lions.

It seems incredible that the king of beasts could be slain by such simple weapons, but the camera shows exactly how it is done, and the scene keeps spectat[illegible] on the edges of their seats.

As Martin Johnson, who photographed the battle, tells it, he, with his wife, Osa, and their safari, had treked down into Tanganyika on the trail of lions. This, says Johnson, is the most wonderful big game tract in the world.

"Not long after we entered Tanganyika," he says, "we met forty naked Lumbwa warriors in war paint out after lions. The native hunters were armed with long spears and shields of buffalo hide. Each man had decorated himself and his shield with his own idea of war paint.

Favorites Appear In "The Eternal Woman" At Palace

Olive Borden, Ralph Graves Will Be Seen At Best

Two of the greatest favvorites of the screen are featured in Columbia's new picture, "The Eternal Woman," which starts at the Palace Theatre today. They are Olive Borden and Ralph Graves. Both these players have been supplied with roles that give them every opportunity to display their great emotional talent.

This production, directed by John P. McCarthy, covers a large stretch of territory, starting on a mountain road in Argentina and crossing the sea to New York. The picture boasts of a thrilling shipwreck sequence and a sojourn in a fisherman's cottage serves to develop a beautiful romance between a girl from the Pampas and a young American business man.

Miss Borden, as the fiery, impetuous, beautiful, tempermental Argentine girl, gives a convincing performance. Ralph Graves is satisfactory as the American, whose wife after having proved faithless is lost in a wreck at sea. Anita, the Argentine girl, is a stow-away on the same ship, bent on finding the man who killed her father. She saves the American from drowning and in time they fall in love. The Argentine girl then learns that the woman, whom she had been following as a participant in her father's murder, was the wife of t[illegible] man she saved and has become engaged to. So she forgoes love for revenge and decides to kill him. Her attemp is frustrated. She discovers that she has been mistaken, that her sweetheart is innocent, and that a false friend pretending to be the husband of her fiance's deceased wife is the guilty person. Thus all ends on a note of happiness.

Of course, the big outstanding feature of the picture is the wreck at sea, with the attendant horrors and excitement, but scarcely less compelling is the love drama, the suspense and the characterizations—especially by the leads.

Stars Of "Abie's Irish Rose" Back In New Offering

"Close Harmony" Is Lindsey Feature This Week

With blaring trumpets and moaning saxaphones, not to mention resounding drums and lamenting trombones as his media of expression, Charles (Buddy) Rogers, "Jass-Tunes" his way across the audible screen in his latest picture, "Close Harmony" which starts a three-day run at the Lindsey Theater Thursday.

"Close Harmony" is a play of back-stage life, and Rogers, as the leading male character, plays a role for which he seems splendidly fitted. Doubtless his earlier trainig as a player in the student orchestra at Kansas University had something to do with the capable musicianship of this amazing young actor. It is certain that the Buddy Rogers fans will be agreeably surprised to see and hear their favorite in the kind of part they always wanted to have him perform for them.

Nancy Carroll, who was last seen with Rogers in the screen version of "Abie's Irish Rose" is gorgeous as the leading woman, playing the part of a song and dance headliner in a big cinema palace where Buddy and his band were given a try-out. Miss Carroll demonstrated the singing and dancing prowess that made her famous on the New York stage before she entered the "flickers."

The play has plenty of gripping plot and an abundance of sure-fire comedy, supplied by the stars and Jack Oakie and "Skeets" Gallagher. In sum, "Close Harmony" is rare entertainment.

CHAPTER 1

It is strange the way a little thing can change your whole life. If Molly Burnham had not read that poem the day she was graduated, everything would have been entirely different. She'd have married and settled down, most likely.

And it was such an unimportant little poem, too. And merest chance that Molly saw it at all. It was on the woman's page of a morning newspaper. The wonder is that Molly had time even to glance at the headlines on that eventful day.

There had been a breakfast at her sorority house in the morning. And what with one thing and another the hours were flying like mad. At 11 o'clock the seniors scrubbed down the steps of College Hall, and gave the Greek statues their traditional annual bath. Then there was the luncheon that Claudia Cabot gave for her bridesmaids.

Claudia was getting married the next day in College Chapel, and Molly was to be maid of honor. Her dress was that lovely new shade of green that looks like creme de menthe with cream drifting through it. It made Molly's eyes, which are gray sometimes and blue other times, as green as anything. Molly loved green eyes. She was sure the Lorelie and all real sirens had green eyes and auburn hair.

Only Molly's hair isn't auburn, bu tbrown, with streaks in it about the color of red fox, which may not sound alluring when you read about it but really is extraordinarily effective. Especially with straight black eyebrows and eyes like Molly's.

They say Molly got more from bids that year than anyone else in college. She had stepped at Princeton and West Point, and had been to Dartmouth Winter Carnival. But, mostly, Molly had a yen for Harvard. That was because Wells was a Harvard man.

Jack had been working a year but still was as poor as a church mouse. He was coming out that afternoon to take Molly to the president's tea . . . Heavens, what a day! A sorority breakfast, a bridesmaids' luncheon —and now the president's tea.

Molly, in a way, pitied Claudia Cabot, getting married right on top of being graduated. It must be pretty nice, though, marrying money. Not that Claudia cared. She had enough of it herself. Wasn't it always like that?—the more you had the more you got . . . Now if only Jack had a rich father or something. Or if Molly were an heiress like Claudia Cabot. Oh, well.

Molly glanced at her watch. She had an appointment at the Dean's office at two-thirty.

She leaned toward the mirror. Wiped a bit of rouge from her lips, powdered her nose thoughtfully. What under the sun did the Dean want.

On the way out she lingered in the lobby a moment. It was crowded with girls and rocked with the sweetness of Commencement offerings—flowers and perfumes. Molly felt a sudden pang. After all, college had been home to her for four years. She would miss it dreadfully.

"Ask Mr. Wells, if he comes before I get back, to wait for me here," she told the maid, and waved to a group that hailed her joyously.

"Hey, Molly, wait a minute."

"Can't," she told them. "The Dean —no less—is paging me."

She had a sort of lump in her throat. A silly thing. She was, at times, absurdly sentimental. Just seeing the girls like that, all together, made her think how lonely she was going to be when she couldn't see them any more.

"Lay off my boy," she admonished them with her flashing smile. "He'll be here any minute."

And off she ran, across the green and down the hill, to the administration office, where the Dean's secretary told her she was expected and asked her to wait.

So Molly sat at a window, watching the Commencement groups drift across the lawn. A lovely green lawn, smooth as velvet. It would be a marvelous place, she thought, to switch trains. Twenty years ago girls DID wear trains at Commencement . . . Molly surveyed her knees and smiled, and pulled her skirt down as far as possible. The Dean was a little bit old-fashioned.

Five minutes . . . Ten minutes . . . There was a newspaper on the table, and Molly reached for it restlessly.

It was open at the woman's page, and she noted idly that Dr. West had something to say about the care of babies in summer. And Aunt Emily held, in her column, that a man could not respect a girl who indulged in promiscuous kissing. She read a letter from "Mother of Eight," and another from "Bashful Sixteen," and wondered if women really wrote such things. Or if the editor made them up.

But she thought of a girl she knew, named Emmaline Luce, who had a baby nearly every year and raised them on "Dr. West's Words to Mothers."

And she thought of Jack Wells, and how much she loved him. And wondered if she, too, might marry and settle down like Emmaline and grow mediocre and dull . . . But of course she wouldn't. She and Jack would be different. Different from all those commonplace couples who played bridge and listened to the radio and gossiped about the neighbors. Different from all other lovers everywhere . . .

Suddenly Molly's eyes fell on a little verse:

But Fate was thwarted by a glance.

A look that set her heart afire,

So genius died, for warm desire.

Yet, still the phantom visions glow,

Although a world will never know

The Shining Talent that was dead

So soon as that bright soul was wed.

A dull and stodgy wife is she,

And dark the flame that used to be;

But always come to torture her

So this is the song of the wife—

Ah, what have I done with my life?

Molly read it through twice . . . "A girl, she had her hope and chance . . . A dull and stodgy wife is she . . ." Well, if it wasn't for all the world like Emmaline Luce! . . . 'So genius died for warm desire . . ." Poor old Emmaline!

Yet still the phantom visions glow,

Although a world will never know

The Shining Talent that was dead

So soon as that bright soul was wed."

"I wonder," mused Molly, "if there come to torture her "the dreams of things that never were."

It sounded to her as if a woman had written that verse—a woman who wondered what she'd done with her life. It was a disturbing little poem . . .

"The Dean will see you now, Miss Burnham."

Molly jumped guiltily to her feet. She had torn the verse from the paper and tucked it in the powder compact of her vanity. She felt at once uplifted and depressed.

The Dean, a busy woman, wasted no time on preambles.

"Ah, Miss Burnham. Sorry to have kept you waiting. Sit down, won't you? Our employment bureau has had a great many applications from the graduating class, and in view of that fact, it may seem a trifle strange that I should seem to urge a position upon any of our girls. You must not think me presumptuous, Miss Burnham—I am quite aware that you have not entered your name among the applicants for positions. But I have here a most unusual opportunity in the literary world . . . May I ask what your plans are for the future?"

Molly flushed like a high school girl.

"I—I'm thinking of getting married," she stammered.

"Indeed?" The Dean smiled politely. "I had not heard of your engagement."

"No." Molly stiffened defensively. It seemed, somehow, an indictment of Jack's success that she had not —like Claudia Cabot and the rest —been able to announce her engagement with a three-carat diamond and a luncheon at the sorority house.

The Dean snapped an elastic about the notebook in her hands.

"Then you wouldn't be interested," she observed, "in the position I was about to suggest. It—it seems a shame, Miss Burnham, to neglect a shining talent like yours. We were discussing, the other evening at faculty meeting, your really exquisite verse. Professor Hardy was particularly impressed. The haunting little thing you called 'Song of Sorrow' was quite touching. And your essays. Scarcely a trace of immaturity about them. You did very well, you know, on the Senior Play. However, you know best. I should not dream of urging a career upon a young woman who has chosen marriage . . . I wish you all the happiness in the world."

Molly did not know what to say. She grasped the Dean's proffered hand apathetically and felt small and insignificant and quite lost in the Dean's importance. She wondered, irreverently, if the Dean could have married if she had wanted.

"Maybe," she havarded doubtfully, "I'll get married and write, too."

But the other shook her iron gray head. "Oh, no," she said, "I hardly think so."

"Why not?" Molly demanded. "Lots of women do."

The Dean shrugged. "Women with a burning ambition," she said. "But I think you haven't that, Miss Burnham. Only a pretty little shining talent."

"I—I never thought much about it," Molly faltered.

"I know. That is exactly the point." The Dean stood up. "Don't mix love and a career, my dear," she admonished, and her manner had become strangely gentle. "To the woman who lives in pursuit of fame, conflict is death. Single-minded she must be. All other passions must be denied—even love. As no man can serve two masters, neither can a woman serve her heart and her mind."

"But you said I had talent," protested Molly.

The Dean smiled as one dismissing a subject. She touched an electric button, and her secretary opened the door. "Get in touch with Miss Segal," she commanded, "and tell her, please, that I should like to see her immediately."

Molly knew that Berta Segal, who was the most brilliant girl in her class, was about to be offered "a most unusual opportunity in the literary world." Berta Segal sent neat little essays to the better magazines, where they were occasionally accepted. She also—since the better magazines did not always pay so well—sold lesser stuff to the Sunday supplements. With all her heart Molly suddenly hated Berta Segal, who had dark, greasy hair. And also the Dean, who offered a girl a marvelous opportunity on a silver platter and then snatched it away.

For a moment she almost hated Jack who hadn't enough money to marry her, and didn't like it when she wrote things about passion and virgins . . . Jack was awfully old-fashioned, really. And probably the Dean thought her a silly little fool now . . .

Molly kicked at the little painted sign that said "PLEASE," and walked deliberately across the grass, digging her high heels in the soft turf defiantly. She felt not at all as an engaged girl should feel. Particularly an engaged girl on her way to meet her fiances. She felt, in fact, as if she were getting very much the small end of things. As if, indeed, she were being sorely cheated. Which wasn't, of course, the proper frame of mind for a sweet girl graduate contemplating matrimony.

All the girls thought her Jack was perfectly stunning. And, after all, a girl can't have everything. Claudia Cabot might be marrying a million and all that—but everybody knew that Dick Godfrey had a cleft palate and a perfectly rotten disposition.

There really wasn't a boy anywhere who could touch Jack for looks. He had, as they say, everything—everything, that is, but money. He was six feet one. In his stocking feet, as Molly used to add. And his hair had the most adorable wave. It was dark hair, and he had eyes to match. Sort of laughing eyes, they were. But his chin was one of those dreadfully determined things. So, if a girl thought she was going to get away with murder —just looking at his eyes—she had only to consider that chin of his and change her mind. Like Gibraltar, Molly said it was.

"If only," she was thinking at the moment, "he wasn't so darn stubborn!"

She opened her vanity and unfolded the torn clipping. "He'll have a fit," she mused, "but he can't expect me to sit around with my hands folded for the next year!"

Then she read the little verse aloud. And a frightened squirrel forgot to bury whatever it was he was buring and scampered away like mad, she was so dramatic about it.

"So this," she declaimed, throwing her arms wide—

"So this is the song of the wife—

Ah, what have I done with my life?"

And she repeated softly, "A girl, she had her hope and chance . . . A dull and stodgy wife is she . . ."

As she approached the dormitory she saw Jack talking to Claudia Cabot on the steps.

"I'll sneak in the back way," she decided, "and pawder my nose."

But once in her room she forgot her nose for the moment and read again the bit of doggerel that was destined to influence all her life. When she had finished she stuck it in the mirror with a safety pin.

"Nice little verse," she approved. "Make Molly a big smart girl."

Then she powdered her nose and rouged her lips and wafted the clipping an airy kiss.

"No humdrum life for me," she vowed. "Not until I've had my fling!"

Then she dashed down stairs to meet Jack. Dick Godfrey, Claudia's fiancee, had arrived meantime, and Rita Melnotte's boy, Bob Newton. Dick was all right—and he had oodles of money — but Molly was glad it was Claudia who was marrying him tomorrow. And Bob—well, of course, Bob was awfully nice and all that. But there he was, grouching and crabbing, just because Rita was a few minutes late. He wasn't a bit good looking either, with those wishy blue eyes—and big, thick glasses . . . No use talking—Jack certainly was the best looking man at Commencement. Molly's heart beat warmly, and she was engulfed in one of those nice, benevolent feelings.

"Hello, darlin'."

She greeted him happily. "Love your little senior?"

"You bet," he assured her. "Love your little draftsman?"

She kissed him swiftly, drawing his head down with a sudden sweep of her arms.

"Better get married," advised Dick Godfrey.

"Better not," counseled Bob Newton. "Why not stay in love?"

Claudia threw her arms violently around Molly.

"Oh, Molly!" she squealed. "Let's have a double wedding! Wouldn't that be the thrillingest thing kids! You be my maid of honor, Molly. Then I'll be your matron. And you can wear my wedding veil and everything. Gee, Molly, wouldn't it be just knock-out?"

Claudia was dancing up and down.

"Everything's all set," she proclaimed. "Decorations. Choir. Minister. Everything. You can have my bridesmaids, honey, and we'll just call up the Ritz and tell 'em to set some more places."

Molly looked at Jack. He was grinning foolishly.

"Will you?" she breathed. "Oh, Jack, wouldn't it be wonderful?"

"Molly, are you crazy?"

He frowned on her enthusiasm. "We're no bloommnig millionaires, you know, honey. Just a poor young couple trying to get along."

"Yeah?" taunted Bob Newton. "And the first hundred years are the hardest."

Rita laughed nervously. "Next year," she predicted gaily, "We'll all be married. Won't we, Bob? You and me. And Molly and Jack . . . And Claudia and Dick will be coming home from Paris for the weddings."

"Why wait?" demanded Claudia. "Why starve?" Bob countered irritably.

Rita patted his arm gently. "Little Sunshine!" she chided. "What you need is a sandwich."

"What I need," he told her coolly, "is a box of aspirin. Of all the fool places to drag a man, this blooming hen party is the worst!"

"My sweetheart!" Rita cooed amiably. "Hasn't he just the sweetest disposition, girls and boys?"

"Come on down to the lake," suggested Molly, "and date up a canoe for tonight."

"Who wants to go canoeing when they can get married?" demanded Dick.

"I can't get married today. My sweetie won't let me."

She slipped her hand through Jack's arm, and they sauntered toward the lake.

"Did you ever know," she asked him, "that there's a tradition about that little island out there in the middle of the like—see?"

She pointed to a bit of green that dotted the sparkling blue. "Well, they say that any girl that takes a man there is sure to get a proposal. You paddle out, and draw your canoe up on the bank. And nobody ever comes to bother you. The girls are awfully chivalrous about it. There isn't a kid in college would trespass for the world, if there was some other girl on the beach waiting for a proposal. As soon as you get one, you withdraw. That's etiquet, you see. And it gives some other girl a chance."

Jack laughed. "And you're going to take me there?" he bantered. "Don't you consider yourself engaged now, young lady?"

"Well, kind of," she admitted. "Only . . . I'm awful shameless, Jack. I want to get married."

"On $1500 a year!" he exclaimed. "You don't know what you're talking about, Molly."

"Well," Molly giggled, "we'll go out there anyhow and see what happens."

There was a moon that night. A little bit of a baby moon, that threw a dim and silvery light. And there were a lot of fireflies that sparkled with 10,000 tiny golden lights.

The astronomy professor looked at the heavens and remarked, "A perfect night to study the stars."

But the professor was getting old. It was pre-eminently, a night for love.

Jack and Molly paddled about until it was dark, eating sandwiches and playing Molly's small phonograph. Molly even took a book from the picnic basket and read some of Oscar Wilde's verse. By that time it was dark, and they drifted into the shadows that hugged the mossy banks.

"No use trying to get ashore," Molly decreed. "That place is dated up for a week."

Jack drew the paddle into the canoe and lay down beside her. He put his arm beneath her head and they lay quietly, studying the stars.

"A student of astronomy committed suicide," remarked Jack. "And before he died he wrote a letter ending with this quotation:

'What is it all but the trouble of ants.

In the light of a million, million suns?'

"Every tmie I see a heaven full of stars I think of it. Don't they make you feel fearfully small and unimportant, dear? And as if your finest dreams and deevest sorrows were insignificant as the frettings of ants . . . 'in the light of a million, million suns'?"

Molly clasped her hands beneath her head.

"Oh, no," she said. "I don't like feeling small. I'd lots rather feel important. You know that grand thing Emerson wrote:

"I am the owner of the sphere,

Of the seven stars and the solar

Of Caesar's hand, and Plato's brain,

Of Lord Christ's heart, and Shakespeare's strain."

Jack laughed. "Feel pretty special, don't you?" he teased.

Molly snuggled closer.

"Well," she confessed, "sometimes I get off on a grand strain, and there's no holding me. I think I'd like to be a Edna St. Vincent Millay, and write verse that sings and sparkles."

Jack whistled softly.

"My gosh," he asked, "and who's going to drop my eggs and broil my bacon, while you're writing this stuff that sings and sparkles?"

Molly pushed him away and held her head from his shoulder.

"That's just it," she said, and considered the stars solemnly. "Being a poor man's wife might cramp my style, mightn't it? Frying bacon is fearfully dull."

"Dearest!" . . . Jack put his lips against the fragrance of her hair. "You didn't mean that, Molly? Tell me you didn't mean it, Sweetheart."

She raised her arms then, and flung them about his neck.

"Oh, Jack! Jack!" she cried. "Marry me tomorrow, darling, and I'll never, never talk that way again! I don't care, dearest, HOW poor we are."

"Little Sunshine!" she chided. "What you need is a sandwich."

Claims Record

Red Barn Becomes Real Hot

RED BARN, Tex., July 13 (AP)—Red Barn claims two distinctions—but it does not boast of one of them. Post office boxes are called "stalls" and in a recent "warm spell" thermometers registered 125 degrees.

INCREASE CAPACITY

Borger Refinery Increased To 15,000 Barrels Daily

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., July 13 (AP)—The Phillips Petroleum company today approved an increase in the capacity of the company's refinery at Borger, Texas, from 10,000 to 15,000 barrels a day. The expansion program will start at once.

Wages in Belgium are to be increased.

Cheese Plant To Double Capacity

Struve Unit At Abernathy Is Running To Capacity Now; Milk Is Coming From Wide Territory

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

ABERNATHY, July 12. — The Struve cheese plant which opened here with a record of 4,500 pounds of milk on the first day is still running to capacity.

Dairymen in the South Plains are rejoicing that this new industry and source of income is available, and the milk is coming in from a wide territory.

The present capacity of the $15,000 plant is 10,000 pounds of milk a day, but the machinery has a capacity of handling as much as 20,000 pounds a day, the only thing necessary to double the capacity being the installation of another big vat.

ESTABLISH SERVICE

Cotton To Move Between Galveston And Dunkirk

GALVESTON, July 13 (AP)—About 150,000 bales of cotton are expected to move to Dunkirk this season with thte establishment of direct bi-monthly service between the gulf ports and the French port. It will be in connection with the Scandinavian service maintained by the Wilhelmsen Line and Swedish-American Mexico Line.

Tech Enrollment Stands Third In Schools Of State

Youngster Among Institutions, New Tax-Supported College Makes High Mark; University, Aggies In Lead

Next Long Term Enrollment Expected To Pass Record Of 2,500; Tech Threatens A. And M. For Honors

BY RAY CULP
Avalanche-Journal Staff

THIRD place among Texas' 68 institutions of higher learning is the place that Texas Technological has assumed in the first four years of progress and consistent growth with an enrollment of 2088 students for the long session of 1928-29. This record is unprecedented among Texas colleges, which along with all other lines of development in West Texas shows how things are done here.

With its first year's enrollment of 914 students Texas Tech became supreme in West Texas, and then in the following session of 1926-27 showed an increase of about 67 per cent, or a total enrollment of 1535 students which surpassed the enrollment of Baylor university, Texas' oldest institution of higher learning. The third long session of 1927-28 had an enrollment of 1685 students and the last session, that of 1928-29, Texas Tech's enrollment mounted to 2088 students which, according to a report on the enrollment of Texas colleges recently compiled by J. R. Reid, chairman of the State Board of Examiners, shows that Tech has surpassed the marks of all state colleges except the University of Texas with an enrollment of 5860 students and Texas A. and M. college with an enrollment of 2870.

May Pass Aggies

The increase in enrollment of the 1928-29 session over the previous year is better than 24 per cent and in view of past rate of increase in enrollment that of next year will in all probability exceed the 2500 mark.

There is also a probability that Tech may also exceed the enrollment of Texas A. and M. college. William Allen White, a famous author and newspaper editor, called "The Sage of Emporia", in a speech here last year predicted that within ten years Texas Technological college would have an enrollment of 10,000 students.

With Texas Technological college's great drawing power which it has demonstrated in the past over Baylor university, the University of Texas and other older established schools with much larger cities and thickly populated sections of the state to draw from in mind it appears that Texas Tech is predestined to become Texas' leading institution of higher learning.

According to the report compiled by Mr. Reid, the enrollment for the past long session follows in order: North Texas State Teachers college 1805, College of Industrial Arts 1794, Southern Methodist university 1615, East Texas State Teachers college 1472, Baylor university 1354, Texas Christian university 1336, Rice Institute 1309, Southwest Texas State Teachers college 1254, Sam Houston State Teachers college 961, Stephen F. Austin State Teachers college 874, Baylor college 873, West Texas State Teachers college 865, Simmons university 806, rinity university 521, Southwestern university 507, Texas School of Mines, 505, Abilene Christian college 503, Howard Payne college 459, McMurry college 307, College of Incarnate Word 287, South Texas State Teachers college 386, Texas Woman's college 363, Austin college 331, Our Lady of the Lake college 328, Daniel Baker college 262, Sul Ross State Teachers college 237, St. Mary's college 216, St. Edwards university 162, and Texas Presbyterian college 81, making a total enrollment of 32,806 students for 32 senior institutions of the state.

Juniors Are Busy

In the state's 36 junior colleges there are 6,552 students enrolled as follows: John Tarleton Jr. 775; Houston Jr. 635, Paris Jr. 360, South Park Jr. 350, San Antonio Jr. 296, North Texas Jr. Agricultural 295, Wichita Falls Jr. 273, Edinburg Jr. 242, Weatherford r. 237, JWesley Jr. 235, Lon Morris 225, Hillsboro Jr. 175, Wayland Baptist 171, College of Marshall 166, Tyler Jr. 163, Randolph Jr. 158, College of Lower Rio Grande Valley 138, Westmorland 136, Shreiner Institute 136, Kid-Key 135, Decatur Baptist 135, Burleson 128, Westminister 102, Thorp Spring Christian 99, Gainesville Jr. 93, Jacksonville Jr. 92, San Angelo Jr. 85, Clarendon Jr. 81, Blinn Memorial 80, Clifton Jr. 73, Victoria Jr. 69, Texas Military 67, Lutheran 55, Ranger Jr. 49, Littlefield Jr. 25, and St. Mary's Jr. 18, making a total enrollment of 39,357 students in all colleges.

A compilation of the number of students in the senior colleges in West Texas shows a total enrollment of 7,460 in Sul Ross State Teachers college, Daniel Baker college, Howard Payne college, West Texas State Teachers college, Simmons university, Abilene Christian college, McMurry college, Texas Tech, and Texas School of Mines. This gives West Texas upward of 2 3per cent of the total enrollment in Texas senior colleges, to say nothing of the large number enrolled in junior colleges, and shows that the western part of the state being now in a state of development as compared to the old established locations of the other schools, will soon have the greater number of college students enrolled within its bounds.

The people of West Texas being 90 per cent native born American citizens are showing their foresightedness in preparing the youth of her population to take the lead and carry on the great development that is just ahead, thus assuring the future or her progress in citizenship and industry.

Franklin Offers Sport Speedster

Augmenting its current line of air-cooled motor cars, the Franklin Automobile company of Syracuse, N. Y., announces a new enclosed sports car in the Speedster model. With body designed and custom built by Dietrich, the car is said to bring to he quality car field a hint of the style development which the motor car buyer of the future may expect.

Contemporaneous with a dicided trend toward cars of distinct sports appeal, Franklin's introduction of his new-air-cooled model brings the mode to a daring new peak eloquently expressive of modern life. Slanting lines and long horizontals are used with telling effect to bring out the idea of speed The body is mounted on the Model 137 chassis which is powered by the same series air-cooled engine that has established Franklin road record after road record during the current year

ON AUTO ROW

MAKE GOOD RECORD

A remarkable record was established by employes of the Kuykendall Motor company on Tuesday morning following the fire that played havoc in the service department on the previous night. With the entire department apparently demolished, the service crew set to work cleaning away the debris, installing new equipment and by 11 o'clock in the morning, resumed operation. The partially destroyed building will be rebuilt as soon as possible, G .P. Kuykendall, said yesterday.

MEETING BREAKS UP

The call meeting of local automobile dealers which was set for Monday night has been postponed until a later date, Mr. Kuykendall announced. Practically every dealer in town had gathered in the show rooms of Royalty Motor company for the meeting when the Kuykendall fire broke out.

SHOWROOM CLEARED

Increased demand for the new Hupmobile practically cleared the show rooms of the West Texas Motor company in the midst of last week's business, but a new carload of custom "6" jobs replenished the stock on Friday, according to F. A. Norman. The new machines on hand are all equipped with wire wheels.

New car deliveries by the Hupmobile distributors during the past week include the following: F. J. Dysart, of Lubbock, a Hupmobile "8" sedan; J. W. Sampson, Lubbock, Hupmobile "6" Cabriolet; J. C. Barron, cashier of the First National bank of Sudan, a custom "6" sedan; B. N. Malone, of Plainview, a Hupmobile "6" cabriolet.

FIGURES RELEASED

Figures given out by Davis Oldsmobile company show that only two products of General Motors have shown an increase in sales this year over the same time last year. These are the Oldsmobile and LaSalle. Other products of General Motors have taken a loss. Up to June 1st, there had been a gain of 6,971 over the first five months of 1928. The local Oldsmobile house has managed to hold its 1929 business on a par with last year.

In order to prepare for fall business, C. C. Arnold, sales manager of Davis Oldsmobile company, is concentrating his sales force on used cars. Thirteen used cars have been delivered by this company in the last ten days.

AWAIT COTTON CROP

The majority of Lubbock auto dealers expect new car sales to open up considerably during the latter part of August, basing their claims on the prospect for an income from harvested grain and the status on fall cotton at that time. Cotton farmers are fairly certain to know what to expect before the first of September.

TIPS DETROIT

Ted Tipps, [illegible] manager of the Joe Hilton co[illegible]ny, local Chrysler-Plymouth distributors, left last night for Detroit, Mich., where he will spend five days as guest of the manufacturers. Three of the five days will be spent in the Chrysler factory and the other two on Lake Erie. To win this trip, Mr. Tipps led in sales over this district during a contest staged by the manufacturers.

Jess M. Hollar, recently returned from California, has joined the sales force of the Joe-Hilton company here. Mr. Hollar was formerly of Vernon.

The local Chrysler-house closed yesterday a three week's celebration of the first birthday of the Plymouth, baby member of the Chrysler family.

British Royalty Use Sleeve-Valve

The question of what type of motor cars the royal family of Great Britain will drive during the next few years was answered a few days ago when their majesties replaced their personal and household cars with three new models of the same type that have been in he royal household since the days of King Edward VII, father of King George, the present ruler.

The latest motor purchases of their majesties show a continued preference for automobiles that use the Knight sleeve-valve type of engine. These cars replace models that also were powered by sleeve-valve engines and which were used by the royal family for five years before they were replaced. The new limousine for royalty's town us is a Daimler, powered by a 12-cylinder sleeve-valve engine. A second car equipped with the same type of engine will be used for shooting on the moors while a gray sedan completes the personal cars of the British rulers.

Avalanche-Journal Staff Member Practicing On Flying Lessons

By IRVIN HALL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

THE FIRST LESSON in flying is similar to the initial introduction to philosophy—both in extend to exalted heights.

My first fifteen minutes as a student of flying were experienced this week. Our take-off was perfect. As the ship gathered speed over the ground, the lifting power of the wings asserted itself, and before we were halfway across the field of the Lubbock Air Transport company, five miles north of this city, the plane started in a smooth, gradual climb. No move of the controls was made from neutral position until we had reached an altitude of 500 feet. And there the excitement began. I started to manage things myself from a back seat position. Back gently on the joy stick I pulled and a better view of heaven was ours. After climbing 200 feet I pushed the control forward, to keep from getting into a stall, and the ship leveled off again.

Proud of Himself

It touched my pride to know that I was manipulating the flying. I tried the controls again with the usual result—a nice smooth climb for a few hundred feet and then a forward movement of the stick and we levelled off aagin to increase speed.

Eager for something else, I again pushed the stick forward, but this time the nose pointed toward earth. After repeating this three times I finally manipulated the plane to an upward climb, reaching an altitude of 3,000 feet.

Jimmy Cole, the instructor, gave the signal to turn around, and I pushed the stick over to the left, forgetting the proper use of the rudder and sabelizer. We lost no time in getting into a fancy barrel roll. No fooling, I gave the whole ship back to Jimmy and did not argue. There was nothing wrong, except that I was getting too far advanced in aviation. Unintentional stunting of the ship is folly for the student.

Jimmy was soon master of the situation. Feigning courage, I pulled off my coat, loosened my tie and organized my face into a wide smile. And for the rest of the lesson I was interested in flying in one horizontal direction, executing gentle glides and climbs.

Of every 100 applicants to join the British Army, only 16 pass the medical examination, the most frequent causes of failure being bad sight, faulty teeth and flat feet.

R .W. Seton Watson Maseryk, professor of European history in the University of London, has received an honorary degree of Belgrade university.

PONTIAC BIG 6

PRODUCT OF GENERAL MOTORS

OUTPERFORMS ALL OTHER LOW-PRICED SIXES

The Pontiac Big Six is the fastest, snappiest, most powerful six of its price in America. The "fifth wheel," the most accurate speed measuring device known to automotive engineers, has proved that Pontiac has the highest top speed and the fastest acceleration available in any low-priced six. As for power, Pontiac is the most powerful of all low-priced sixes, a fact which can be proved by the dynamometer, a scientist's measuring stick for brake horsepower.

TRY TO MATCH THESE BIG CAR FEATURES OFFERED AT NO INCREASE IN PRICE—

BIG CAR ENGINE
The largest power plant used in any low-priced six. 200 cu. in. piston displacement. 60 brake horsepower at 3,000 r. p. m. The G-M-R cylinder head for high-compression performance with ordinary gasoline.

BIG CAR LUBRICATING SYSTEM
A lubricating system without equal in the low-priced field. Adjustable pressure feed lubrication to all main bearings and connecting rod bearings. Pressure-vacuum ventilation of the crankcase to maintain the quality of the oil.

BIG CAR BRAKES
The finest and the costliest brakes to be found on any car in Pontiac's field. Two braking systems, each entirely independent of the other. Mechanical internal-expanding four-wheel service brakes—silent, protected against rain or dirt, highly efficient in any weather and requiring minimum attention.

BIG CAR FUEL FEED
Latest type mechanical gasoline pump and filter, first introduced by Oakland, in place of the ordinary vacuum tank. Positive under all conditions. Eliminates "starving" on long hills or hard pulls of any kind.

BIG CAR COOLING SYSTEM
Automatic control of operating temperatures. Assures peak engine efficiency at all times. Water temperature governed by a thermostat which eliminates the inconvenience of hand operated radiator shutters and heat indicators.

AND THESE BIG CAR ADVANCEMENTS
The Harmonic Balancer which eliminates crankshaft vibration. Exclusive expansion-fit piston pins (patent applied for) which assure quiet operation over a long period of time. A counter-weighted crankshaft, airplane type interchangeable bronze-backed main bearings. Semi-steel pistons in matched and balanced sets.

Five-Passenger 2-Door Sedan Body by Fisher

The Pontiac Big Six was introduced at prices ranging as low as $745, f. o. b. Pontiac. And in spite of the fact that it offers every desirable big car quality—in spite of the fact that it is now available in a wide variety of popular colors—in spite of the fact that it represents the greatest value offered in the low-priced field . . . it continues to sell at no increase in prices. Small down payment. Balance only a few dollars per month. A liberal price for your present car.

CONSIDER the delivered price as well as the list price when comparing automobile values . . . Oakland-Pontiac delivered prices include only reasonable charges for handling and for financing when the Time Payment Plan is used.

PONTIAC Big Six, $745 to $895, f. o. b. Pontiac, Mich., plus delivery charges. Bumpers, spring covers and Lovejoy shock absorbers regular equipment at slight extra cost. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

keeping up with the Joneses

A larger income may make it possible for the Joneses to have a much finer home than the Browns—but the Browns can own just as fine a car. For it does not require a big income to own a De Soto Six. And with a De Soto Six the Browns have the pride and satisfaction of driving a Chrysler-built automobile—with the ability to out-perform most other cars on the road.

De Soto Six is obviously smart and stylish; up-to-the-minute in mode. And it has not taken the motoring public long to find that De Soto Six is also exceptionally comfortable and easy riding, powerful, speedy and safe. Record-breaking sales figures for a first-year car are proof enough of its established and growing popularity.

Combine these qualities with low price, low maintenance cost and assured long life. The reason is plain why those who insist on smartness and performance, but must consider economy, are finding De Soto Six the most satisfactory car.

Big Lockout Seen For Cotton Mills

Half-Million Workers In English Plants May Go On Strike Due To Cut In Wages By Group

(By Associated Press)

MANCHESTER, England, July 13 —A big lockout in the cotton manufacturing industry, possibly affecting a half million workers, is expected to result from Friday's decision of the Federation of Master Spinners to enforce a reduction of 2.82 per cent in wages from July 29.

The weaving side of the industry already had decided without a ballot to apply the reduction. All the workers unions have agreed to reject the demands of the employers.

There seemed little hope of reaching any compromise before July 29, unless the minister of labor intervenes. He may do this if the parties are unable to arrive at a settlement.

This is the first big labor dispute since the labor government came into office.

Whippet Wins In Aukland Racing

Since the introduction of the original Whippet four-cylinder model three years ago, it has established an outstanding reputation for its speed, stamina and roadability. Even in its initial year it was subjected to numerous tests in stock car races and hill climbs in every section of the country and because of its remarkable performance, quickly became the center of attraction among the cars in the lower priced field.

Not alone did it prove its ability to cope with cars even far beyond its price class in this country but it continues to maintain the reputation it has held for three years in foreign countries.

The latest accomplishment of a Whippet four was in three races against twelve other cars of both American and European make in a race program at Aukland, N. Z. Entered in three of the events, the Whippet Four captured two firsts and one second, even though pitted against six cylinder cars, several of which had been specially equipped for increased speed. The car that won the race in which the Whippet finished second was an American built car of sixcylinders selling in the $1500 price class.

Parking Tower Is Latest Addition To Motor Industry; "Park In Air" Now

Parking tower and (inset) how it works.

By NEA Service

SANDUSKY, O., July 13.—The latest answer to the ever-recurring question, "Where can we park?" comes from this city.

It is, "Park in the air."

On the ground space of a two-car garage, J. E. Morton has erected a steel and concrete tower in which there are spaces for 10 machines. It could be built high enough to take care of 60 machines, says Morton.

Inside the tower, platforms are attached to an endless chain mechanism. There is a separate key or push button for each platform. If you are a tenant, you turn your key or press your button, and the platform for your car automatically comes to the door and you drive in. Then, when you leave, it is automatically raised.

When you want to take your car out, you go through the same simple process—turn your key, and the platform comes down with your car.

Architects and engineers from all parts of the country are looking over the tower with the idea of incorporating it in new office buildings and apartment houses, like elevator shafts.

A record number of exhibits are expected at the annual fair at Marseilles, France, this year.

Hupp Springs Are Matched, Weighted

DETROIT, Mich., July 13.—No normal person would expect, in buying a pair of shoes, to purchase two shoes for the same foot. Yet he would want to be sure that each of his shoes was so built and constructed as to care for individual needs of each foot. Consequently, there is a slight variation in each shoe to conform to those demands.

While it is a far cry from shoes to a set of automobile springs, it is necessary to be just as meticulous in selecting and testing a set of motor car springs as it is to fit the individual requirements of each foot, in the opinion of engineers of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation.

While Hupmobile might put on a set of springs in which each one weighs and tests the same, it does not do so because there are certain peculiarities about an automobile which demand perfect fit and adjustment, just as there are about one's feet.

Pioneer Character Builds the Service You Get In Lubbock Furniture Stores

CHARACTER builded upon the strength of the pioneer past marks the foundation of the service you get in Lubbock furniture stores. Yet Lubbock furniture dealers are extremely modern in their methods, giving you the advantages and benefits of every scientific detail to beautify your homes, satisfy your tastes and provide you with comfort.

What romance is woven throughout this story of service to you!

That sturdy black walnut was dragged from fever infested swamp lands by groups of sturdy ebony skinned negroes. From the dense Indian jungles came the rosewood inlays that form its chief decoration, hauled to civilization by trumpeting, plodding elephants—into the civilization of America's great modern factories, where men of many nations with the craftsmanship of generations carve these woods into things of beauty and quality for your home.

From among the best of these huge factories, Lubbock furniture merchants, with their skilled buying organizations, choose the myriads of furnishings with which to bring you happiness. They offer them to you with all the service they can command—reliable, dependable service that bespeaks the spirit of both an old and new era. They offer them, too, with the greatest economy that modern merchandising methods can create. Citizens of Lubbock, your confidence is fully justified in your furniture stores. Patronize them.

Pioneer character also has builded the service given by your Utilities Companies. They have seen the meandering cow paths give way to a skyline of magnitude on these South Plains. Have anticipated—with the pioneer spirit—the needs of the furniture store, the bank, the grocer, the housewife, in fact, every need of a metropolitan city. Millions have been invested in reaching this present plane of efficiency, the spirit of the true pioneer has urged us on and on in our faith and now we are happy that we can serve with a minimum cost to every subscriber. Thankful that we can give the utmost in service to a list who demand the Pioneer Brand.

Carburetors Are Chrysler Feature

"It ain't the shoe that 'urts the 'orses 'oofs, hits the ammer, 'ammer, 'ammer on the 'ard 'ighways,' or to paraphrase that old adage, it isn't the speeding car burning up the miles on the open road that eats gasoline unreasonably, it's the constant starting and stopping in heavy traffic which leads the majority of motorists to believe that their engines are failing to deliver proper mileage per gallon," states Carl Breer, Chrysler executive engineer.

"The carburetors on each of the Chrysler cars, the '65', '75' and 'Imperial' have been designed to give the maximum efficiency at all throttle positions and subsequent speed ranges, with the least amount of fuel consumption. These carburetors are all tested before becoming part of the car power plant; are tested again before the motor is placed in assembly and are again tested an dadjusted after the car leaves the assembly line.

"The Chrysler car owner driving his automobile with perfectly adjusted carburetor on the open highway, finds that he gets normal mileage from a gallon of gasoline, but that in city driving his mileage per gallon decreases. A little study of the causes for this and a little more attention to the manner of driving in heavy traffic, should result in car owners obtaining much better mileage per gallon in city driving.

Instrument Panel Is Viking Feature

A fully illuminated front compartment when required and completed control over instruments panel lights combine one o fthe exclusive features of the new Viking, the V-type, eight cylinder automobile recently introduced as a companion car to the Oldsmobile Six. The advantages of this unusual lighting arrangement is obvious to all automobile drivers.

To permit of this convenience the instrument panel lights aore on a separate circuit and not connected with the headlight control. As a result the Viking can be driven at night with headlights on and no illumination on the instrument panel or in the driver's compartment. This is particularly advantageous when driving on dark nights and keen vision is necessary.

The instrument panel lights are controlled by a duel switch located ijust under the panel and convenient to the driver's hand. Turned one way the switch illuminates the instruments wit hindirect lighting. Thrown in the opposite direction, the switch also illuminates a special lamp located under the canopied top of the instrument panel as well as the lamps in back of the panel.

This special lamp throws a bright light down on the floor of the front compartment, giving ample illumination to find articles dropped or to consult maps at night. The rear compartment of closed body types is illuminated with the usual dome light.

America's Venice Is Really Going Dry; Highways To Replace Canals In Ancient City In California

By NEA Service

VENICE, Calif., July 13.—"America's Venice," one of the most unusual resorts in the United States, has bowed to the march of progress. Its historic canals are being filled and replaced by modern highways. The ripple of water from the bow of gondola and canoe is making way for the purr of the modern car.

It was the old story of romance and beauty versus metropolitan progress. After a five-year fight in the courts, progress won. The canals already have been drained and the task of filling them is under way.

Venice was founded about 20 years ago by Abbot Kinney, tobacco millionaire, who dreamed of reproducing the famous Italian city by the sea. Its palm bordered canals led to picturesque villas where Los Angeles commuters lived in quiet.

Commuters jumping into a rowboat or canoe moored at the front door sculled merrily to the trains. A regular motorboat taxi service plied its way up and down the canals. Groceries and other commodities were delivered by row-boat.

Recently came the annexation to Los Angeles, 14 miles away and the announcement that the canals were to be filled and replaced by highways. Civic bodies were for the improvement, but the old inhabitants were against it. Those who loved the romance and beauty of the original Venice organized.

The case went to court and the verdict was that the canals were to be filled.

To the tune of a Venetian requiem, the mermaids above were lifted in one of the big steam shovels after their last swim in Venice's Grand Canal. Below are the canals as they appeared before being filled in.

1914 Model Dodge Is Still Running

How long is 'long life in a motor car?

The characteristic dependability of Dodge Brothers cars has been given additional prestige by the discovery of a 1914 model whose mileage has been lost somewhere above the 300,000 mile mark. The motor number is 166, and for thirteen years this veteran car has been the proudest possession of Bill McCardle, a copper prospector who lives in a tar covered shack, isolated in the high mountains of northeastern Nevada.

McCardle's house and garden are surrounded by peaks nearly 10,000 feet high. There is nothing like a boulevard in this country. Over rocky hills, across gulches, and up difficult dugways, McCardle patrols his domain in his faithful car, which, he declares, still "runs like a top." Bill bought it second hand in 1916, and since that time, the car has taken him wherever he wished to go. Yet the repair bills in this period have totaled only $91. In 1921, he spent $70, and this spring he invested $21 more for the welfare of this old car and Bill's business.

Chile plans to spend $1,000,000 in building eight tuberculosis hospitals with a total of 1,400 beds, and branches.

Plymouth Birthday Being Celebrated

Observing he first birthday of the Plymouth dealers threw open their show rooms last night on some of the most unusual and attractive displays of automobiles seen for some time. These displays are being conducted by dealers throughout the country from June 29 to July 13 inclusive.

The improved Plymouth cars in a variety of new color combinations feature the displays. They are being shown in a patriotic setting of red, white and blue decorations. An unusual amoun of interest was evident among the thousands who thronged the show rooms during the opening evening, advices from the offices of the Corporation at Deroit indicate.

"Inauguration of the policy of effering the Plymouth in more than one standard color combination, while involving considerable expense, is a further indication of our desire to give to the public a product ha is out-standing in appearance as well as in inherent quality and performance," remarked A. van Der Zee, general sales manager, in commenting upon the opening of this national display. "In addittion to these new color combination, the improved Plymouth now possesses a number of engineering refinements in both the body and the chassis.

Mexico produced more silver in 1928 than in 1927.

Roosevelt Holds Non-Stop Record

The engine and driving mechanism of the Roosevelt straight-eight, holder of the new world's non-stop automotive endurance record of 440 hours and 30 minutes, showed far less wear than was expected after the gruelling test, a minute examination of the car revealed immediately following the completion of the run.

To onform to official rules of the American Automobile association, under whose supervision the test was conducted, the Roosevelt was disassembled at once and inspected, part for part, to determine that it was strictly a stock car in every mechanical detail. This examination was conducted by Louis Chevrolet, veteran racing engineer, Charles Merz, A. A. A. representative, and S. E. Rowe, chasis engineer of the Stutz Motor Car company.

7 Afterwards, every part of the car was subjected to careful scrutiny by Thomas J. Little, jr., chief engineer, and other members of the Marmon engineering staff. The engine was found to be in perfect working order and examination of the pistons, valves and other engine mechanism failed to disclose appreciable wear or defects. Axles, wheels, stearing gear, transmission and ignition system likewise were thoroughly inspected and found in their original condition.

Studebaker Fleet In Air-Rail Line

Presidents Eight Will Be Used To Unite Planes And Pullmans In Trans-Continental Service

A fleet of Studebaker President flights will form the link uniting planes and pullmans in the alliance of the Pennsylvania and Santa Fe railroads with the Transcontinental Air Transport, which will introduce a 48 hour coast to coast passenger service, July 8. Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh inaugurated the system when he left Los Angeles on the first eastbound flight

Eleven President Cabriolets and one President State Sedan have already been purchased by the Transcontinental Air Transport. The cabriolets will b eused with specially built Aero-Car to carry passengers between airports and downtown sections at "ports of call" for the planes.

One of the President Cabriolets, with Aero-Car trailer, will be stationed in each of the following cities: Los Angeles; Kingman, Arizona; Winslow, Arizona; Albuquerque, New Mexico; Clovis, New Mexico; Waynoka, Oklahoma; Wichita, Kansas; Kansas City; St. Louis; Indianapolis and Columbus, Ohio.

Graham Paige Is Proven By Tests

Try a tachometer test, if you would like to see for yourself what happens under the hood of your car at different road speeds.

The tachometer works on the same principle as a speedometer, but registers the engine speed in revolutions per minute, regardless of car speed. That is whether the car is standing still or moving, the tachometer shows how fast the engine is turning over.

The newest use of the tachometer is to demonstrate the advantages of the Graham-Paige four-speed transmission, so that the passenger may have visual proof of the low engine speeds at high road speeds. The Graham-Paige representative in this city, has received a tachometer-equipped car and is ready to give a demonstration to everyone who calls.

The chief advantage of the Graham-Paige four-speed drive is not its one additional speed, but the fact that it makes possible lower engine speed at any road speed, through the use of a high-gear rear axle. As a result, the engine of the four-speed car going 60 miles per hour is turning over slower than the engine of a three-speed car going 45 miles per hour. The tachometer shows this plainly, so that he who rides may read engine speed at any road speed.

In a four-speed car (gear ratio 3.6 to 1) at 60 miles per hour, the engine speed is only 2495 revolutions per minute.

In a three-speed car (gear ratio 4.7 to 1) at 60 miles per hour, the engine speed is 3337 revolutions per minutes, while at 45 miles per hour, the engine speed is 2502 revolutions per minute.

General Tire "Sky Fleet" Launched

"I christen' the, 'General Jim'!"

With these words, Miss Mary Fechet, pretty 17-year-old daughter of Major General James E. Fechet, chief of hte U. S. army air force, shattered a be-ribboned bottle over the propeller of the flagship of the "Sky Fleet" of the General Tire & Rubber Co., of Akron, when she formally christened the fleet of eight cabin monoplanes at Bolling Field, at Washington, D. C. recently.

Standing at her side was "General Jim" himself—none other than her father, Major General Fechet. With him were grouped many of the highest officials of the national air forces, repesentatives of both houses of congress, national leaders in the aviation inustry and a large crowd of spectaters.

Lined up on Bolling Field shining new ships of the "Sky Fleet" in military formation. Standing at attention weer the eight former army air scrivcerfiseld TAOISHRDL ETA air service fliers, who recently resigned from the army service to fily the "Sky Fleet" on its 30,000-mile air tour of the principal cities of the United States, Cuba, Canada and Mexico.

London's night life and traffic problems were recently studied at first hand by M. Chiappe, Prefect of the Paris police.

Pertinent Facts About Automobiles By Israel Klein, Science Editor For NEA Service

By ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor NEA Service

Too much can never be written about the care of the spark plugs, for these little attachments mean a great deal if the engine is to be kept running with the smoothness and power for which it has been designed.

Spark plugs have become more important in the last two years with the coming of the high compression engine, for these necessitate perfect ignition if they are to run properly. Here, too, with increased compression bringing higher operating temperature and much faster operation, much more stringent demands are made on the spark plug than heretofore.

The motorist, therefore, will find that loss of power, missing of the motor, knocking and other such difficulties may be traced to either fouled or improperly set plugs.

A new automobile is certain to have the right type of spark plugs in it, for these have been placed there by the manufacturer and have been expressly specified for that particular engine by the engineers.

After a year's operation, however, a car needs a new set of plugs. Spark plug designers say that plugs run down after about 10,000 miles of operation and should be replaced to maintain efficient engine performance.

It is in replacing spark plugs that the motorist should watch his step. He should find out, either from the booklet of instructions furnished with each automobile or from the automobile dealer, exactly what type of plugs should go into his motor. There are several types and sizes, in accordance with the size and design of the motors in use today, and only a definite type and size will fit into a certain motor.

The proper spark plug, if properly fitted, will so placed that the bottom of its shell will set flush with the top of the firing chamber, and only the firing points will extend into the chamber. Also its points will be just the distance apart required for the motor for which it is designed.

As a result there should be no trouble so far as ignition is concerned.

However, poor gasoline or oil pumped up into the chamber will foul the spark plugs and result in missing of the engine. The remedies are obvious. But a fouled spark plug, if comparatively new, needn't be thrown away. It can be cleaned with alcohol or any liquid metal polish and the carbon soot rubbed off gently with a cloth.

The fouled plug, however, should not be put back into its former cylinder. A plug from a cylinder that has caused no fouling should be substituted for it and the fouled plug, with points reset at the proper gap and cleaned, may go into the cleaner chamber.

If a pinging knock is heard in the motor, and the carbon has been cleaned out out of it, the cause of this knock may be traced to overheated spark plugs, which cause the mixture to ignite too soon. If the spark plug is of the right type and size for the motor and if it is installed properly, this trouble should not come up. It is brought up here as another reason why only the proper type and size of spark plugs should be used.

The only trouble that might arise from properly used spark plugs, aside from these caused by loose pistons and poor gasoline or a rich mixture, will come when the plugs get old. A recent test in Chicago showed that a motor with plugs that had been used for 12,000 miles had lost 15 per cent of its available power. New plugs brought it back to normal.

The City of London Corporation recently unanimously rejected a suggestion that it should find a new site for Mansion House, the official residence of the Lord Mayor of London, which was first occupied in 1753.

Silvertown Plane Will Attempt Hop

AKRON, O., July 13.—Undaunted by a series of tough breaks during his attempted non-stop record flight across the continent, Lee Schoenhair, pilot of the Goodrich "Silvertown" plane, declared on his return here today, that he wil make another attempt within the next thirty days. The daring pilot who attempted a dawn to dusk flight alone from Los Angeles to New York was greatly pleased with the performance of his ship and believes that he can crack the record after averaging better than 170 miles an hour from Los Angeles to Cleveland. Bad weather ahead forced him down at Cleveland. The Columbus airport signalled that New York was enveloped in a fog.

Schoenhair, after a delay of two hours due to slight damage to his plane while making ready for the flight, left Los Angeles at 3:41 o'clock, Los Angeles time, Saturday, June 22, and set his plane down at Cleveland thirteen hours later. Just before noon Sunday he attempted to finish the flight to New York in the face of adverse weather conditions. He was forced down by stormy weather at DuBois, Pa., and with his third attempt to get away from the DuBois field, cracked up damaging the landing gear of the Lockheed Wasp Vega plane.

A FACT FIVE YEARS AGO AND STILL A FACT TODAY

MAY 17 1924

"Out of a clear sky, the Chrysler has brought the motor car industry to the point invariably reached in any industry of economic importance. + That is the point where revolutionary improvements and advancements begin to render the original invention obsolete—when previous practice is brought to a full stop. + That never happens until the newest product proves its right to precedence, by reason of greatly simplified design, greater efficiency and operating results that are radically different."

WHAT CHRYSLER HAS DONE

It is hard to recall the day when there were no Chrysler cars; difficult to remember a time when the flashing Chrysler wings had not yet appeared on the world's highways. And yet, that was not so long ago—only five years, in fact.

Where it has taken the average automobile ten to twenty-five years of gradual, plodding growth to achieve public acclaim, Chrysler has risen swiftly to a foremost and topmost place in the industry in less than five short years!

What Chrysler has done is without parallel. Overnight, a name became a symbol of speed, quality, beauty and safety. At Christmas, 1923, the Chrysler emblem meant nothing in the public mind. By Easter, 1924, it had come to stand for leadership—a claim undenied to this day.

Fads come and go. Some motor cars have their brief hour of popularity and then are forgotten. Chrysler's unprecedented leap into a position in the van of the industry was neither forced nor accidental. That place was won by inherent worth and undeniable value. Today, Chrysler is firmly entrenched at the top, offering the finest performance in its history. A ride is a revelation.

Precincts To Get Ballots For July Election Monday

Citizens To Vote Tomorrow On Two Amendments To Texas Constitution; Bar Group Favors Both

Ballot boxes and election supplies for the special election Tuesday on proposed constitutional amendments which would provide for increase in the governor's salary from $4,000 to $10,000 per year and the addition of six members to the supreme court will be distributed Monday to all precincts in Lubbock county.

Thirty-seven members of the Lubbock County Bar association have signed petitions favoring the increase from three to nine members of the supreme court. The local bar members point out that the increased membership would create a continuous session of the court and that proceedings would be had with more dispatch and efficiency.

QUICK LAD HONORED

Kin Of Local People Named Winner Of Scout Trip

George S. Quick of Monroe, Michigan, nephew of J. D. Quick of this city, was a winner in the Wolverene Council trip to the International Boy Scout jamboree at Arrowhead Park, Birkenhead, near Liverpool, England, to be held this month.

Announcement of young Quick's success was made in a recent edition of the Evening News of Monroe.

After the close of the encampment of August 13, young Quick accompanied by the seven boys making up the Wolverene patrol council will make a tour of the continent including Germany, France, Switzerland and Italy. They will return to this country about August 28. Young Quick is also related to B. O. McWhorter of this city.

Suffering Of 9 Years Now Ended

Prominent Farmers Wife Had Tried Every Kind Of Treatment She Could Hear Of But Got No Relief Until She Took Orgatone

"Orgatone has really worked wonders in my wife's case," said J. H. Caps, residing on rural route, 2, Lubbock, Texas, while in Bowen's Drug Store. Mr. Caps is one of the best known farmers in this entire section of Texas.

"For almost nine years," continued Mr. Caps, 'my wife suffered with indigestion and dyspepsia, and during the past four months especially after she had an attack of influenza she had been growing steadily weaker and hardly able to get around at all. She had tried everything imaginable, with no results until I got Orgatone on the recommendation of a personal friend who had used it with good results. She had been suffering with very bad kidney trouble and pains from the small of her back and it was almost impossible for her to get a good nights sleep, we tried doctors, but she continued to suffer. Her stomach would cramp and bloat something awful, after eating and she had sever headaches. Her nerves seemed to give way and she had been unable to get sufficient rest and sleep.

"But it is all different now, since she was induced to try Orgatone, and after taking three bottles, I can truthfully say she feels better in every way than she has in at least nine years. Her sleep is sound and restful and, it is such a relief to be able to eat what she wants without suffering those terrible pains afterward. We feel very grateful and am only too glad to tell others about the medicine that has done so much for my wife".

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called secret or patent remedy but a new scientific preparation and is sold in Lubbock exclusively by the Bowens Drug Store, who are direct laboratory agents. Adv

Copy Of First Issue Of Lubbock Leader Gives Interesting Peek Back Into The Days Of 1891

Uncle Billy Clark Owns Volume One Number One

By AL HILL
Avalanche-Journal Staff.

Intensely interesting, is the first copy of the first newspaper published in Lubbock county.

This paper, The Lubbock Leader, under date of Friday, July 31, 1891, offers one an insight and panoramic picture of Lubbock and the South Plains, of 38 years ago. Through the courtesy of Judge W. S. (Uncle Billy) Clark, justice of the peace, who owns and cherishes volume one, number one, of the paper, the copy has been loaned to the Avalanche-Journal for the purpose of passing to the public some of the outstanding things revealed.

Elected County Assessor

"Uncle Billy" was elected to the office of County Assessor, at the first election held in Lubbock county, shortly after the county was organized, in 1891. His total receipt of votes numbered 19, and there were four opponents running for the office. The next year, at the regular election, "Uncle Billy" was re-elected with twice as many or 38 votes.

In addition to this first newspaper, "Uncle Billy" treasures a copy of the first election ballot ever used in Lubbock county. This sheet is headed: "Peoples' Ticket," and reads further:

For County Site, LUBBOCK. Section No. 1, Block O, Certificate No. 1-516, T. W. & N. G. Ry. Co.

For County Judge: W. C. Henderson, H. M. Bandy, G. W. Shannon.

For District and County Clerk: Jeff S. King, W. L. McCauley, George C. Wolffarth.

For Sheriff and Tax Collector: William M. Lay.

For Tax Assessor: W. F. Cobb, W. S. Clark, H. F. Welbourn, J. B. Mobley, Tang. Martin.

For County Treasurer: U. G. Moore, T. S. Bromley.

For County Surveyor: J. B. Jones, C. E. Lewis.

For Commissioner, Prec. No. 1: J. D. Caldwell, G. W. Singer, G. W. Lee.

For Commissioner, Prec. No. 2: F. E. Wheelock.

For Commissioner, Prec. No. 3: L. D. Hunt, Henry C. Hiatt.

For Commissioner, Prec. No. 4: Van Sanders.

No names appear as running for the offices of County Attorney and Justice of the Peace.

Officers Listed

Appearing in this first issue of The Lubbock Leader, which is a six-column, four-page sheet, the front and back pages being printed here and the two inside pages being what is termed in newspaper language of that day and time as "patent," is a list of the county's officers, as elected from the ticket above quoted. These are as follows:

G. W. Shannon, judge; George C. Wolffarth, clerk; W. M. Lay, sheriff; U. G. Moore, treasurer; W. S. Clark, assessor; J. B. Jones, surveyor; W. F. Hendrix, attorney. Commissioners of precincts 1, 2, 3 and 4, respectively, were, J. D. Caldwell, F. E. Wheelock, L. D. Hunt and Van Sanders. The county then had Hockley, Cochran and Lynn counties attached to it for administrative purposes, they being then unorganized.

A wealth of interesting stories are printed in the paper. Think of this, for instance:

"Just think of it! A man can get 160 acres of land in Lubbock county free. You are required to live on it three years. This land can not be excelled in the older settled counties for $25 per acre."

Rogers is Editor

Editor fo The Lubbock Leader was Robert L. Rogers. Evidence of the perspective then possessed in Lubbock is revealed in the following paragraphs, which tell something of the status of other cities in Texas. The wide stretch of territory represented includes north, east, southeast, central, south and west portions of the state. The paragraphs are under the heading, "Boiled Down" and read as follows:

Denison has raised $20,000 for the iron rolling mills.

New oil mill has been started at Caldwell.

Kerrville will have an artesian well soon.

A street railway is being built at Beaumont.

Nine business houses are under erection, at Velasco.

Made 41 Bushels

The wheat crop of S. R. Child, of Stephens county, yielded 41 bushels per acre.

Orange trees in Laredo are bearing profusely, and the fruit is good, so says the News of that place.

The crops in Johnson county are better than they have been for years. Wheat will yield from 20 to 25 bushels per acre.

And here are some paragraphs reflecting the Lubbock of the day:

People God-Fearing

The people of Lubbock are God-fearing, law-abiding, citizens. Religious services regularly. This alone should speak for a new country.

A great many people say that the average West Texas editor overrates his country. Lubbock county will prove her reputation—all she wants is a fair show.

Total value of Lynn, $57,950. Total tax, $417.02.

Grand total for Lubbock and attached counties, $1,121,706. Total tax, $9,077.

Quoted from the Gazette, evidently he old Fort Worth Gazette, is this:

Mr. Goldburg, of Quanah, shipped another train load of wheat to France, via New Orleans, on the 7th. This is the third train load and makes about 100 cars shipped from Quanah. The train was shipped June the 24th, and was the first solid train load of wheat that ever left the state.

Beneath the heading: GETTING IN PRACTICE:

Eagle Pass, Texas, July 19.—Dick Duncan, the condemned murderer, whose case has become national, owing to his attorney advancing a claim that the entire Texas code is invalid, takes his approaching doom very coolly. He is confined in jail here and spends his hours practicing on the harmonica, upon which instrument he has become an expert performer. He has also a banjo and a fiddle.

LUBBOCK WANTS

A Drug Store.
A Shoe Shop.
A Saddle and Harness Shop.

Locals printed in the paper occupied two columns:

The cages, and other material belonging to jail, has arrived.
