Trustees OK Budget, 4 On Teaching Staff

Band Head, Coach Hired

With school time less than three weeks away, Olton school board members Tuesday night approved a budget of $542,274 for the 1963-64 term.

The new budget is about $7,800 lower than that of the past year.

In other action, the board put its stamp of approval on employment of four teachers and heard a report from Supt. Johnny Clark Jr. on need for two more instructors to complete the 1963-64 faculty.

New teachers employed are:

Leslie C. Ross, band director, to replace Jimmy Priest. Ross has been director at Del Rio the past three years.

Lester A. Ramsey, first assistant coach, to replace Don Flippin. Flippin resigned to take a position at Ballinger. Ramsey has been a junior high coach at Pampa the past several years.

Miss Ella Ruth Williams, first grade teacher, who has taught in Arkansas the past four years.

Mrs. May Tuttle, second grade, who has been at Lone Oak the past 14 years.

The two teachers still needed are one in fifth grade and one for the special education class.

In addition to approving the budget for next year, the board also set the tax rate at $1.80--the same as this year.

Most of the reduction in the 1963-64 budget comes from the fact that less money is set up for maintenance of plant. The budget of $22,900 for this year was cut to $12,500.

Supt. Clark pointed out, however, that should the board decide later that more money will be needed for maintenance projects, more should be available.

The largest single item of expense in the budget is $318,500 for teachers' salaries. This is an increase of $9,000 over this year and has been set up to pay for two additional members of the faculty.

The gain in faculty members is due to increased attendance, the guide used by the state to determine how many teachers are allowed, for state pay purposes, per school district.

Other items of interest are: $1,000 set up for purchase of library books for Bohner School, $250 set up for purchase of comprehensive insurance on school buses, $65,600 set up for debt service.

About 60 per cent of the revenue for school operation will come from state sources, a total of $319,068.

Based on 93 per cent collection of local taxes, about $212,600 is expected from local sources--the taxpayer.

Counting an estimated balance of $3,000 in local maintenance as of Sept. 1, 1963, total available funds for local maintenance will be $442,918. Total expenses are expected to be $433,524, leaving a budget balance of $9,394.

In other activity, the board heard a report on high bids on the sale of two buses and a pickup. Clarence Carpenter was high bidder on the buses with bids of $528 and $559. Max Malone was high on the pickup with a bid of $125.25.

Two-Thirds Of Texas Roads
70-MPH Speed Starts Aug. 23

The Texas Highway Commission revealed this week that the new 70-miles-per-hour daytime maximum speed for passenger cars becomes effective August 23.

More than two-thirds of the Texas highway system will come under the new 70 mph ruling.

Under the speed control law passed by the Legislature this spring, all highways not zoned by the Commission will automatically go to the new 70-mph speed August 23.

This means that some 41,500 miles of the state-maintained highway system will be allowed to come under the higher maximum speed.

The Commission passed a Minute Order which zoned some 18,640 miles of the highway system at a maximum of 60-miles-per-hour daytime and 55-miles-per-hour at night for passenger cars, effective August 23.

These highways, said the Commission, will be restircted to the lower speed limit because engineering studies indicate they are inadequate to accomodate a 70-miles-per-hour maximum.

The Commission's action followed a series of engineering traffic studies conducted throughout the state by the Highway Department's 25 highway districts.

A large percentage of Texas' vast Farm to Market Road System will come under the 70mph tem will come under the 70-mph maximum, although some of these roads (and some of the older primary routes) will be restricted to the lower 60-mph maximum where conditions warrant.

ORC Club Golf Meet Scheduled

Fred Pendergrass, golf professional at Olton Recreation Center, announced this week that the ORC Golf Tournament would begin Thursday, August 15.

The three-day event will be climaxed Saturday evening at 6:30 p.m. with a barbecue.

Pendergrass said golfers would have three days in which to play 36 holes. There will be five flights, with first, second and third place trophies being awarded in each.

Trophies will be presented Saturday evening at the barbecue.

Entry fee is set at $5 per player.

Hart Stars Edge Olton For Area Championship

The All-Star Little League Tournament is completed. Hart won it, and they've collected their trophies and gone home.

While the tournament lasted, six days of it, action was hot and entertaining.

Teams from Olton, Amherst, Sudan, Earth, Nazareth and Hart slugged it out in the double-elimination bouts.

Here's the order they finished:

1. Hart--3-0
2. Olton-- 4-2
3. Sudan--2-2
4. Amherst--1-2
5. Nazareth--0-2
6. Earth--0-2

In Monday's double-header Sudan jumped on Nazareth, 6-0, and Amherst slipped by Olton, 5-3.

Tuesday's battle saw the most runs scored in a single night. Hart tromped Earth, 16-3, while Olton was pouring it on Nazareth, 11-7.

Only one game was played Wednesday night. Sudan won a 5-4 squeaker from Amherst.

Thursday, Hart continued its winning ways by taking a shaky 9-8 victory over Sudan, while Olton was turning away Earth, 10-5.

Come Friday, suspense began to mount and Olton had to win both games before it could get a crack at Hart Saturday night.

The local nine pulled off both encounters, beating Amherst, 4-3, and Sudan, 5-2.

For coaches Jackie Gray and Harold Lloyd, the championship was still two games away.

James Porch had been the stand out pitcher against Amherst until he faded in the closing frame.

Mike Gullett assumed a relief role and pitched himself proud.

He also started against Sudan in the next game, and pitched two-and-a-half innings of near flawless ball.

Danny Sides and Charles A. McClain also did some masterful pitching that game.

It seemed the tide had turned, that Olton had overcome its most pressing opponents, and would continue its onslaught against Hart.

But the Hart game went from bad to worse for the Olton crew. Only the spectacular catches of center fielder Frank Salvador eliminated a possible runaway.

In Saturday's finale, Hart came up with one run in the first inning, after they had the bases loaded twice.

A hit batsman forced a run in from third.

Olton got a goose egg on the scoreboard its first time at bat when luck turned sour.

Five runs on four errors gave in the second frame the visitors a 6-0 lead, and Olton couldn't catch up, although they never let up.

A lost ball by the catcher allowed two Hart runs to score, a wild ball cost another run and a single, scored as an error, allowed still another.

Olton, who had played almost flawless ball Friday found the going all uphill.

They battled back in the top of the fourth when Mike Gullett homered over the right field fience, scoring Danny Collins ahead of him.

Hart's pitcher, David Land, however, handcuffed the Olton batsmen once more, striking out the next two hitters.

Salvador scored Olton's final run in the top of the fifth, sliding home after escaping from a run-down between the plate and third base.

Land struck out two of the last three batsmen to face him, giving his team the first place and individual trophies.

Olton also was awarded a trophy for second. Presentations were made by Charles Polk, the man who umpired every game.

Two Sudan and Amherst boys were given awards for their

Water Supply Boost Coming With New Well

Mayor W. E. (Bill) Thomas and Water Supt. W.F. Williamson teamed up Tuesday night to answer questions on the whys of drilling another city water well.

Sealed bids will be opened Saturday, August 10, of proposed bidders, seeking to get the well-digging contract.

Tenative location of the new well will be in block 131, just east of the Little League ball park.

Williamson told that the city's one good well pumped two million gallons a day before the rains hit and that the city could have used another million gallons.

"We need another well, said the mayor, "because the well in the south part of town is at a 'maximum drawdown'."

He explained that the well is being taxed to its fullest capacity and that a new one would allow it to rest.

"In that way," he stated, "we could pump the new well and let water run back in the other, then pump it from a higher water level."

The well underneath the overhead tank, which is called well No. one, has been dry for several years.

Only servicable well is the one in the south part of the city.

Williamson said, "the storage capacity won't be increased with the new well, just the supply itself and the supply is way down."

Water is presently being pumped from the four settling and storage tanks south of the primary grade school, to the overhead tank.

"We chlorinate it manually," said Williamson, "then boosters pump it out of the settling tanks."

The Supt. noted for the city water supply to become state approved, Olton would first need to acquire a chlorinator.

He told that the powdered chlorine now used is about three times as expensive as the liquid form, which would be used in a chlorinator.

"The chlorine would automatically be put in by machine," he added, "and in two or three years the difference in price of the liquid over powder would pay for a chlorinator."

The mayor said some townspeople had asked him why the city didn't go ahead and get an outsider to drill a new well.

He explained, "anytime an item cost more than $2,000, the law states that sealed bids must be called for.

Besides, what if we had the well dug and it went dry? The mayor and city councilmen would be held responsible. Probably ran out of town."

Williamson said several people had approached him about being put on meters.

He said, "I'll gladly put a person on a meter if they'd like. If everyone in the city was on meters, we would have brought in $2,000 more last year on water rates."

Prize Quarter Horse Taken From Pen

A $2,500 Quarter Horse, belonging to Johnny Clark Jr., was taken from its pen last Thursday night, setting off a search which may include help from the Cattlemen's Association.

The animal, a registered sorrel stallion, disappeared from corrals behind the Olton Co-Op Gin.

Clark, Supt. of Olton schools, believes "Joe King Lauro" was taken just before daylight.

"The way he had his feed eaten down," said Clark, it looks like he may have been taken shortly before daylight."

Clark said whoever took the animal was not familiar with the pen. A panel gate, which is never used, was unwired to lead the stallion through.

Markings on the horse include a star on the forehead, running into a streak.

Clark has already turned the theft over to local authorities and is seeking help from the Cattlemen's Association.

"He's probably out of the country by now," said Clark, "but someone might give us a lead."

Clark and an airplane pilot searched this area thoroughly Friday but did not find the stallion.

No Objections On Paving

No formal meeting was necessary Tuesday night as councilmen gathered to hear possible objections to planned paving and gutter work on Olton's Main Street.

Mayor W. E. (Bill) Thomas and several councilmen assembled at City Hall in case someone showed to voice a complaint on curb and paving work from ninth to 14th Street.

The hearing was necessary said the mayor, to give property owners an opportunity to speak out if they desired.

"Under law, anytime an assessment is placed on property, there must first be a hearing," said the mayor.

Time and place was announced twice in legal notices prior to the actual hearing.

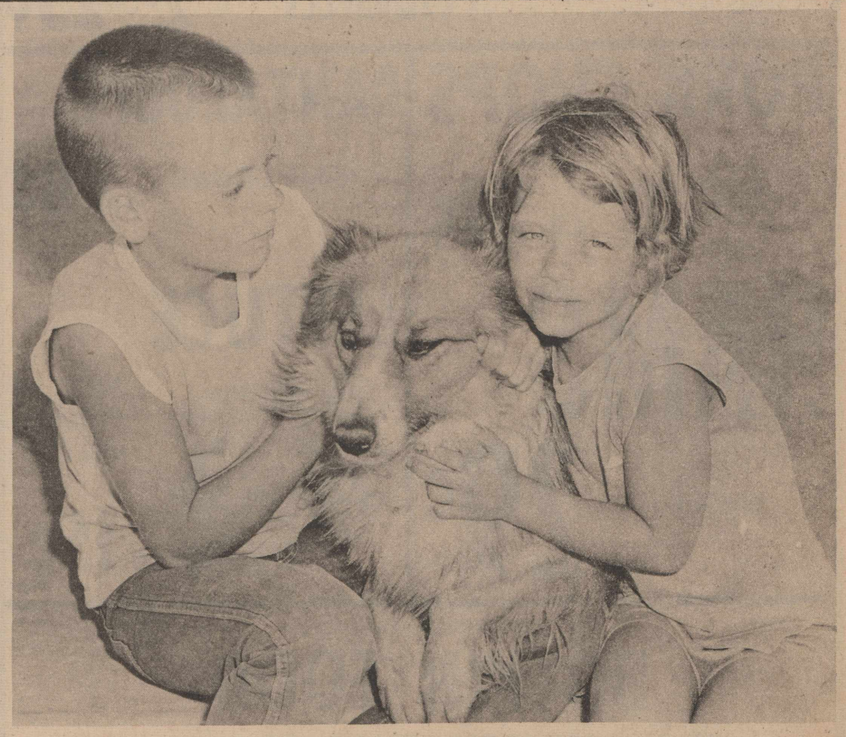

City officials were at the City Hall from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. but no one approached them on the project.

Plans and specifications prepared by the State Highway Department and the city of Olton have been worked out on the construction.

A bid has already been accepted, and work is expected to begin soon.

Running Water Philosopher Admits Test Ban Confusion

Editor's note: The Running Water Philosopher on his careless weed farm on Running Water Draw is worrying with the test ban treaty this week, his letter indicates.

Dear editar:

I don't want to throw cold water on the hopes of man, but this test ban treaty everybody's talking about has me confused.

As I understand it, the United States, Russia and England will agree not to test any more nuclear bombs in the atmosphere, underground is all right, and this is a step in the right direction, but compared with the distance we've got to go, I'd say it covers the first two feet on a thousand-mile hike.

What I mean is, the United States alone now has, according to an article I read last night, enough bombs stored away to destroy every major city in the world 125 times, Russia has enought to do the same thing, and England has whatever number her credit with us will allow.

As you can see, that's enough to get not only the cities but you and me and this careless weed farm too.

Agreeing not to test these any more is fine, since we already know they'll work anyway, but what I'd like to see is an agreement not to use them.

However, for those who're afraid Russia's word won't be any good, the treaty also includes a clause saying the ban can be broken merely by giving three-months notice. If some scientist thinks he's invented a newer type bomb that'll weigh half as much as the ones we've got and kill twice as many and he'd like to try it out, the treaty won't stand in the way of progress.

And as far as Russia's word goes, if she keeps it for three months, that's progress.

For all I know, Russia's word may be as good as her bond, but I don't believe I'd be interested in investing in Russian bonds.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Letter To The Editor

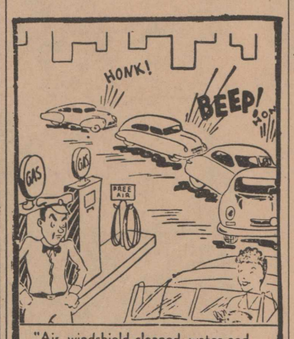

Dear Bill:

I just want to express my sincere congratulations to the entire Olton Community for having had such an important part in the Miss Texas Contest.

Cheryl was wonderful and in my opinion, she should have been Miss Texas. None of the girls there even compared to her, but of course, I could be just a tiny bit prejudiced, since she was from my home town and all. The Fort Worth paper gave her honorable mention on her talent and I think she well deserved it.

It was a thrill to me to be sitting in the audience and to see someone from my home town on the stage representing MY HOME TOWN. I sincerely hope that Olton will send a girl to the contest each year from now on and before you know it, Miss Olton will be MISS TEXAS.

WHY

do we recommend

LIQUID KARATHANE

For Powdery Mildew & Downy Mildew on

CUCUMBERS?

1. Applications can be made in slight wind (Normal for our area).

2. Full coverage can be assured (needless to dust or spray without full coverage).

3. Larger amount of Technical Karathane can be applied in liquid (1 full pound).

4. Technical material is dispersed evenly (liquid goes into solution quickly as compared to 1 pound Technical mixed with 99 pounds of Talc Dust).

5. You can mix Beetle Control Measures with liquid (no extra application cost).

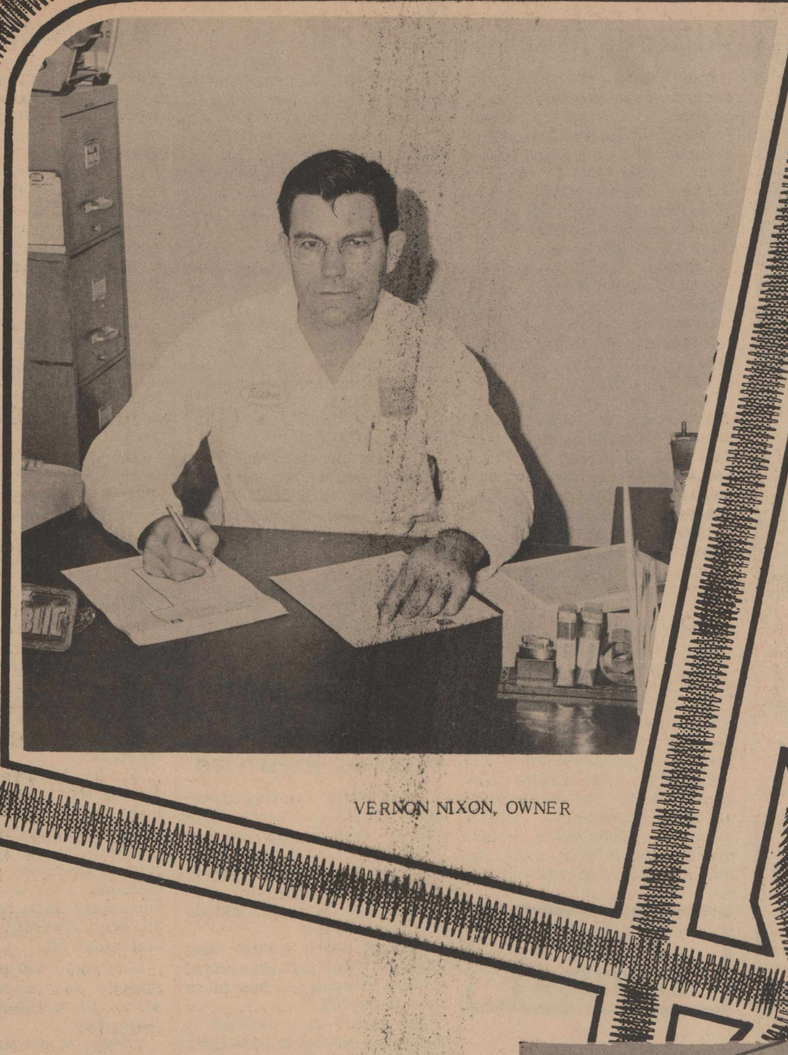

Mildew is present in some older crops now. Several days of harvest can be added by spraying early with Liquid Karathane.

IS IRRIGATION "TAILWATER" WORTH SALVAGING?

"It sure is," says Gilbert Wenner of the Hub Community in Parmer County. The picture at right above was made on Wenner's farm. It shows a large quantity of water emptying into a ditch through aluminum pipe from a lake pump installed on the farm. The irrigation well in the background was not operated during part of the pre-plant irrigation season. Wenner shut it down and irrigated with only "tailwater" that had collected in his lake from surrounding farmland. The weir shown in the photo at left is a measuring device installed in a Parmer County road ditch by the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District to demonstrate the quantity of irrigation "tailwater" allowed to flow unused from cropland. Many farmers from throughout the High Plains Water District are recognizing the value of "tailwater" and are installing systems on their farms to salvage and put it to use.

Sorghum Midge Is Discussed At Lions Meet

The Grain Sorghum Producers Association's research program in its fight against the sorghum midge was outlined at a meeting of the Olton Lions Club Tuesday.

Nolan Chandler, GSPA representative, told the club of the characteristics of the midge and its deadly effect on milo.

Chandler said GSPA had received an emergency grant of $5,000 from the government, for research on the midge.

"These funds have been exhausted and we have a long way to go," he said.

The GSPA is now seeking to expand into the South Plains. Most of its active support in the past has come from the areas of Castro, Hale, Swisher and Deaf Smith counties.

Meetings are being held in Lubbock and Lamb counties to enlist support in this area.

"The Midge," Chandler said, "strikes only during the bloom stage."

Host plants are Johnson grass, sorghum alum, etc.

"We advise that you check areas of this type around your grain field before your grain enters the bloom stage, to determine whether you should spray."

Chandler left further information on the midge with Melvin McReynolds, C-CA manager. McReynolds asked that interested farmers pick up the literature at his office.

CC-A Session Proves Routine

The regular monthly meeting of the CC-A Board of Directors turned out to be "routine" Tuesday morning. Only the 6 a.m. hour proved out of the ordinary.

Chamber Manager Melvin McReynolds said:

"Things were pretty slow, although, we did discuss a membership campaign to take place later in the fall."

The board also decided to sponsor a contest in Dimmitt's "Miss Grain Sorghum of the Nation" contest.

Other early morning business revolved about McReynolds report on his trip to the Institute of Organization Management in Houston.

He told that the Agriculture Committee is also working with the Grain Sorghum Producers Association to help them get organized in the county.

Fred Hicks is chairman of the committee.

Members of the board present were President George Redinger, Ed Thompson, Walter Lewis, James Cowart, Johnny Clark, Bill Walden, Dan Gregory, and George Caddel.

Lions Lauded For Help On Baseball Park

"If it hadn't been for the Lions Club, I doubt that Olton's new Little League ball park could have come about this year."

Thus spoke Carroll Cox, president of the Olton Baseball Association, as he expressed appreciation to the club at its regular meeting Tuesday.

"I just wanted to say thanks from all of us who are connected with the baseball program," Cox said.

Also announced at the meeting was the fact that money raised by the Lions during the recent tournament will go toward construction of bleachers at the park.

The club netted $81 from sale of snow cones during the week-long tournament.

Williamson Urges Suitable Trash Barrels

Olton's Water Supt. this week stressed the need of suitable trash barrels and their proper location.

W. F. Williamson said, in making the announcement, that many of the barrels now in use are not suitable.

"Many of the recepticles," said Williamson, "don't have bottoms. They are rusted and burned out. If the barrels aren't replaced, they will be picked up and hauled off."

The Supt. also asked that the utinsils be placed alongside alleys to facilitate better and faster service.

"Some of the containers are between the house and the alley in out-of-the-way places," he said.

Mayor W. E. (Bill) Thomas reminded there was a city ordinance which called for proper placement of the containers.

Williamson also asked cooperation from city residents on leaving dirt, rocks, bricks and iron out of the barrels.

"If such items are piled beside the containers," he said, "it will save the extra effort of having to empty the barrels and scoop up the heavy material, causing double work."

He also asked that paper be burned in the barrels to help keep down flies.

Rev. and Mrs. Cecil C. Hardaway and children will be gone for two weeks on vacation. Rev. R.H.Campbell, retired minister living in Olton, will handle pastoral duties of the First Methodist Church while the Hardaways are gone.

Nixon Auto Parts, Oliver House In New Home

A long-time Olton business firm has expanded its services, remodeled its quarters and divided itself into two businesses under one roof.

Now settled in new quarters after several weeks of expansion and remodeling are Bodkin-Nixon Oliver Co. and Nixon Auto Parts.

Owner of the two businesses is Vernon Nixon.

"The whole idea behind the expansion of our automotive parts business and remodeling of the entire firm is to keep pace with our area," said Nixon.

"It is steadily growing and we have felt the community needed a wider coverage on auto parts."

He added:

"We are really proud of our new building and we hope to serve our customers more efficiently in the future."

The original Oliver house in Olton was put in by G. A. Bodkin and Son in 1935. Nixon went to work for Bodkin in 1936 and four years later bought an interest in the business.

Bodkin retired in 1956 and sold his interest to Nixon.

Personnel at the business includes:

Gerald Nixon, brother of Vernon, who has been with the business 15 years. His duties mainly are in the parts department.

Troy Digby, general mechanic, who has been in the service department the past six years. Troy has attended Oliver schools to become thoroughly familiar with Oliver equipment.

Luie Cross, general mechanic, who has been with the firm the past three years.

J. W. Teague, general mechanic, who has been employed the past year.

Augustine Saldivar, part-time employe who works mainly in the parts department.

Besides automotive parts, the firm will handle farm hardware, irrigation supplies, along with Oliver parts, sales and service.

Among auto part lines handled by Nixon Auto Parts are Toledo Steel Products, Farm Filters, Ramco Rings, Niehoff Ignition, AC products, Champion Spark Plugs, Fitzgerald Gaskets, Whitaker Cables, Wagner Brake Parts, Wynn's Products and others.

Besides Oliver tractors and equipment, the implement house handles Graham Plows and Johnson shredders and ditchers.

In the farm hardware department are all kinds of farm tools, sweeps, bolts, Wanda oils and greases and other items.

All types of irrigation supplies are handled by the firm.

LOOKS LIKE FUN and plenty of it for contestants in the "Miss Texas Pageant". Among the flume riders at Six Flags Over Texas is Cheryl Poteet, third from the left. She's the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clovis Poteet. The Olton girl was one of 54 beauties who visited the recreation center, one of the numerous social function stops for contestants. Although the Olton entry did not place, she was considered one of the most poised and personable girls in the competition. Read Johnny Clark's account of the Pageant.

First Hand Impressions Of Pageant

BY JOHNNY CLARK JR.
Editors Note:

The following impressions preceding the Miss Texas Pageant finals last week in Fort Worth were recorded by Olton Supt. of Schools Johnny Clark Jr. Clark was in the party managing Cheryl Poteet, Olton's candidate for Miss Texas.

Fifty-four girls crowded in the Texas Hotel lobby. Each was curious and questioning. Managers (this included me) and chaperones were just as excited but trying to hide it.

Horse shows have lots of judging but nothing like this. Everyone is a judge, and all are being judged.

"What does the competition look like, and what are our chances now?" These are the best that Texas has to offer, and these 54 beauties are individualists.

All are outstanding, and it looks like a toss up.

The first general meeting at 9:30 a.m. placed them all together for the first time and only emphasized the difficulty that judges were going to have in selecting the "one".

There were few, however, that seemed to have just a little more poise--a little more personality.

Miss Olton was very definitely included in this group.

The judges could be anybody and could be any place. Candidates just had to smile continuously and speak to everyone.

To those who had this little extra something, this came naturally. There was a very definite separation of those who had personality only for the Miss Texas Pageant and those who had spent a life time developing personality.

For a small town girl who had always liked everyone and just enjoyed people, Miss Olton was having her day---remembering or forcing a smile was not necessary, this was a natural life time cultivation.

(Your writer could be partial, but even in this, it is possible that a girl from a rural West Texas community might have enjoyed the sights--at least more noticeably than others.)

Fifteen girls were selected to appear on television for pageant advertising. No one seemed to know whom.

This was honor number one for Miss Olton, for she had been chosen.

Rehearsal was an eye opener and gave a deeper insight into the personalities that had been on parade throughout the day.

Everyone forgot that these were beauties and deserving of soft pillow handling.

This was work, and a pageant was going to be presented nationwide that had to be a credit to the great state of Texas.

There was no time for apology and courtesy to soften criticism. Girls were called back, corrected, and drilled over and over again.

Contestants began to tire and become themselves. After two or three hours, smiles began to dissipate, posture and poise were lost, and only those who had lived and practiced showmanship for years were able to hold the pace.

Again the hopes of supporters for Miss Olton were encouraging. Our representative was a natural.

Wednesday morning was a new day with the pace continuing. The beauties, having worked late and put to bed at something like 2 a.m., were roused and rolled out by 7 a.m.

No one was in the mood, but breakfast was a part of the assignment.

After breakfast, all contestants were dressed in swim suits and rushed to the edge of town and a motel swimming pool. This was an official meeting and interview of the press.

If a girl was to win, she had to be advertised. Every effort was made to lure members of the press in a position of interview or picture taking.

Very noticeable was the attention directed toward those from the larger and more populous areas.

Things were beginning to take shape. Many had very definitely mapped out routes that would spotlight a certain candidate.

The judges were on the scene from the beginning and efforts were being made to attract their attention.

The pressure and awkwardness of this exercise brought sighs of relief when it was announced that the session was over.

The first of four nights of competition began with a tenseness that was never lessened.

Miss Olton won the hearts of many and certainly had the attention of all in her beautiful white swim suit.

The winners for the evening in the respective contests were announced. While points were awarded the top five candidates, only the winners were announced and presented awards.

The silence that followed the announcement was nearly felt, and then evolved into an uproarous murmur which indicated an atmosphere of disapproval.

Perhaps the backsters of all other candidates were not in agreement with the judges as was true of the band from Olton.

Cheryl Poteet, Miss Olton, had been gracious and had certainly gained favor with the audience. Those who saw her were definitely not let down by her performance--she had been tops.

Miss Olton remained a favorite, then there would be another day, and all were convinced she would make it later--perhaps next year.

Even if she should never attempt again; Miss Poteet had been a credit to Olton and deserving of an applause.
