Miss Ella Billinglea is directing the production which includes in the cast Ray Allen Peevey, Helen Rhea Dickson, Martha Beth Utts, Ann Danforth, Margaret Swan, Neal Hall, Mary Jane Patterson, E. L. Blum, Welton Minick and Elmer Russell.

Volus Bowman is business manager and his assistants are James Brady and Pauline Stubblefield; Kenneth Thompson is stage manager, and his assistant is Mary Blackstone. Jerry Henry is in charge of publicity. The Juniors are indebted to Mr. John Farr for his assistance in publicity.

"Special Delivery" is a play that combines human interest, comedy, suspense and mystery all in one show. The comedy dominates, of course, but when the hero loses his precious letter and the circumstances are such that he must have it at a given time or lose the girl he thinks he loves to another man, and when it is considered that you know all the time just where the letter is and who has it, you will be kept laughing half the time, and in the throes of suspense the rest.

These annual plays are for the purpose of raising funds for the Junior-Senior banquets and other activities on behalf of the same affair will probably be sponsored by the Juniors.

Fire Marshal On Rotary Program

John Blackstone, fire marshal, was presented on the Rotary program by Truman Garland Tuesday noon. Mr. Blackstone explained the reason Burk Burnett received the recent 25% good fire credit record. He stated there were two reasons for the credit. The first was due to the co-operation of the citizens with the fire department in the prevention of fires by removing the hazards. The other was due to the efficient work of the committee of the state firemen's association, who brought enough pressure on the fire insurance commission whereby Burk Burnett would be entitled to the 25% credit.

Jingle Hayes has the program for next week.

Rotarians from Wichita Falls attending were: Luther Hoffman, Scotty Scott, Earl Hodges and John Barbour.

Patent Office 150 Years Old

In depression days it has sometimes been proposed that the workings of the patent laws be suspended, presumably to discourage inventiveness. Others have suggested suspension of the use of labor saving machinery—which if carried to an extreme would outlaw the use of the wheelbarrow, the typewriter, the elevator and even the motor car. The idea is, of course absurd.

February was the 150th anniversary of the American patent system and was especially celebrated under the sponsorship of the National Association of Manufacturers. A point made in the literature of the celebration is that 84 per cent of all machines invented are "labor saving" rather than "labor serving." The 85 per cent are designed to create entirely new products or services or improve old products or services.

Statistics galore show that modern industry makes jobs, that inventiveness creates more jobs than it destroys, through increased consumer demand because of improved quality and lower production costs. That this improvement has not offset increased population and depressing world conditions is no argument for stifling genius and substituting a Chinese basket and a quill pen for more modern devices.

The Tax Miracle Hasn't Materialized

The Commerce Department reports that State tax collections in 1939 were $3,832,000,000. When local and Federal taxes are added it is readily seen that the American people are paying a tremendous sum for government. Federal expenditures have been averaging around nine billions. About 40 per cent of these expenditures have been financed out of loans, and have not come directly out of the pockets of taxpayers.

But instead of this being a favorable aspect it is quite the opposite, because it means that any lessening of Federal taxes is an impossibility for many years to come, even though expenditures are materially reduced. Very soon, we must begin paying two years' taxes in one year, the taxes to cover current expenditures and some portion of what we have been spending on borrowed money.

There is widespread opinion that all we need to do about Federal taxes is to wait until the national income gets back to what we call normal. A little honest calculation, however, will show the superficial basis of this hope. Without drastic increases in taxes or equally drastic reductions in expenditures there isn't a chance for the two being brought into balance.

In the meantime, of course, we must go on paying about four billions a year for State purposes and about an equal sum for county, city, school and other local taxes. The notion that local taxes were coming down as Federal taxes rise isn't working out.

Forcing An Unfair Choice

EMMA GARY WALLACE

It is not unusual to hear a father, mother, or even a relative or friend put such a question to a little child as: "Which do you love better—Daddy or Mommy?"

Perhaps both parents are there and the little one is torn with doubt. She loves both and feels this affection about equal in her heart. She does not want to hurt the feelings of either parent, and it is often nothing short of tragic to see the child's glance travel from one to the other.

Apparently she must make her choice. The one she elects to take the first place in her affections will be pleased. Even a young child will sense a discrimination of this kind is likely to hurt the one who has to take second place.

It is to the credit of the youngster if she says firmly, "I love my daddy and my mommy just the same!"

However, all children are not so diplomatic as that. Some, too, do not know just how to express themselves, and others are uncomfortably uncertain as to the true answer.

It is important, as the child grows a little older, to encourage the weighing of alternative choices so as to determine courses of conduct, but that is an entirely different matter. It is not advisable even to suggest to a child that there are differences in degrees of love among members of a family. Such a suggestion may lead to the thought that someone is loved more than the child himself, and that this isn't fair. If this idea takes root, it is likely to grow into jealousy, and a little later the conviction may come that God lavishes bounties on this or that seemingly favored person because of His greater affection for him.

It is better that the child should think of both parents in terms of love and gratitude for their watchful care, and that each parent should be to him a prototype of the Father of all.

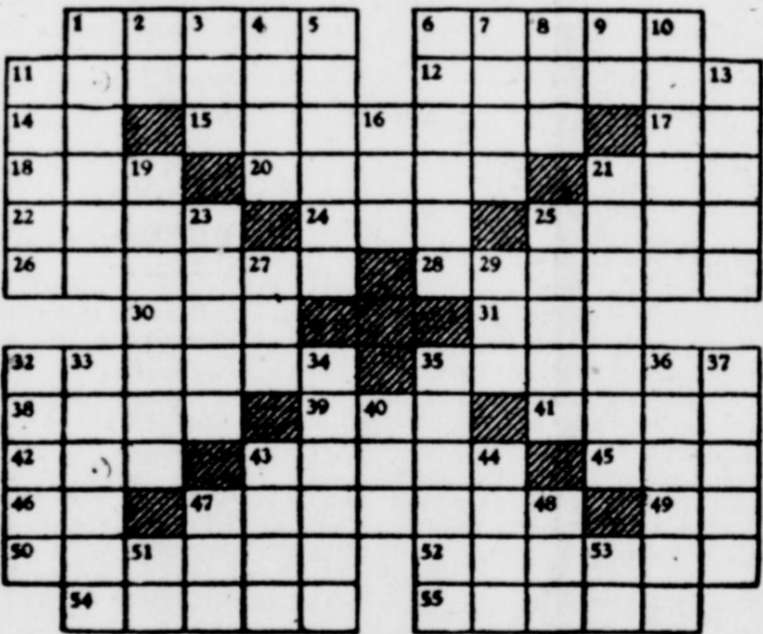

So, if anyone, just for fun, is tempted to ask a little child, "Which do you love better—Daddy or Mommy?" let him refrain and choose an amusement leading to less unfortunate consequences. Or, on the other hand, if he happens to be present when someone else thoughtlessly indulges in this very dangerous pastime, let him answer lightly before the child has time: "What a question! Of course he loves his daddy better for a daddy and his mommy better for a mommy."

Geologists estimate there is enough oil as yet undiscovered under Texas soil to supply the Texas oil industry for 100 years or more, provided operating costs and tax rates do not curtail development.

Oil companies made an average profit of slightly over two per cent yearly on their investment for the 17 years from 1921 to '37 inclusive.

Rosicrucian Philosophy Buried In Crypt Until Year A. D. 8113

Archaeologists of 6000 years in the future will have made most startling discovery in the history of man when they force their way into the Crypt of Civilization in Georgia.

The Rosicrucians, according to John A. Barnes, of Rt. 1, Box 34, a local member of the philosophical order, have been asked to make an important—and one of the final—contributions to the project being on Oglethorpe University, Georgia, for preserving today's knowledge for the civilization of the year A. D. 8113. The Rosicrucian order, AMORC, has sent from its archives at San Jose, California, upon the request of Dr. T. K. Peters, Archivist of Oglethorpe University, manuscripts containing the essence of its philosophical doctrines to be included with other chosen works of music, art, and the sciences, to be interred in the specially constructed vault and kept inviolate for over sixty centuries. The Crypt of Civilization, states John Barnes, began at Oglethorpe University several years ago, is made of stone in which is set a door of stainless steel 50 inches wide and 150 inches high. The enamel walls, floor and ceiling are lined with vitreous porcelain enamel which will have fused on them colored designs depicting today's life much in the manner of the tombs of Egypt. Every resource of modern science is being employed to insure that mankind of 8113 A. D., will find and be able to know of today's accomplishments. The problem of location was met by taking a triangulation of Stone Mountain and from Kennesaw Mountain. This was prepared by the United States Coast Geodetic Survey. Plaques of molded cellulose acetate giving a description of this location are being sent to libraries throughout the world and even to remote and strange monasteries high in the Himalayas.

Mr. Barnes further relates that the Rosicrucian manuscripts are being microfilmed; large pages of the text being reduced to frames of a 35 millimeter film. By this process each page will be an image of but 1x1 1/2 inches. The rolls of film are then placed in vitreous and asbestos-lined stainless steel capsules which, after they have been sealed and evacuated, have inert gas pumped into them. Fifty capsules will be placed in the Time Crypt, and they will contain 320,000 pages of knowledge in microfilm which can be projected to the original size, or larger.

Cecil A. Poole, Supreme Secretary of the Rosicrucian order, said the request for the Rosicrucian manuscripts was made because they represent a contemporary philosophy having its roots in the system of thought which began centuries before the present era. The Crypt will be officially sealed in May, 1940, it is announced by Dr. Peters.

Christian Science Services

"Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 10.

The Golden Text is: "O man greatly beloved, fear not: peace unto thee, be strong, yea, be strong" (Daniel 10:19).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Verily, verily, I say unto you. He that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life" (John 5:24).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Man is deathless, spiritual. He is above sin or frailty. He does not cross the barriers of time into the vast forever of Life, but he co-exists with God and the universe" (page 266).

WANT TO BE A MODEL? TAKE CARE; READ THIS!

A WARNING has been issued by heads of one of the newer industries to young women of America. It is a grave warning, much the same type as that which Hollywood authorities issue from time to time. It is to the effect that girls desirous of becoming photographers' models would do well to stay at home until they are very sure they will have even a 50-50 chance in the overcrowded profession.
 New York City is the mecca for these girls who, enticed by the success stories of various models, and encouraged by their friends who tell them they are "every bit as pretty," descend on the city in greater numbers even than those who descend on Hollywood to become unwanted extras. Claudia Cranston writes a blunt, true account of the difficulties in breaking into the modeling profession, in "What Price Glamour" appearing in the March issue of Good Housekeeping.
 Miss Cranston quotes the head of the largest and most famous model studio in New York as saying that for every one girl who has the luck and physical qualities to earn even a modest salary, there are ten thousand who find only bitterness and defeat.
 A successful model (and there are about 300 in New York) can expect to average about $25 a week throughout the year. Exceptional ones can hope for as high as $100 to $150 but only if they work desperately hard and if they just happen to be the type wanted for particular pictures.

"Disrespect For The Word Of God"

By O. D. DIAL, Minister
 Serious thinking people will agree with me when I say there is entirely too much disrespect and disregard for the word of God. Some have even dared to defy the word of God. Some have been very bold in their defiance of His word, while others are less defiant. Some even claim to be friends of the Bible, accepting parts of it, while they reject portions of it.
 One of the latest attacks on the word of God by an individual was the Rimmer-Floyd case in New York's municipal court. Floyd, who is a magazine publisher, boldly asserted that he had found 51 scientific errors in the Bible. His only witness in the $1,000 suit against Mr. Harry Rimmer, Presbyterian minister, was Wolsey Teller, vice-president of the American Association for the advancement of atheism. Teller called the Bible a "curiosity" and "a fairy tale."
 Such bold defiance of God's word is enough to cause our hearts to ache. I tremble to think of the fearful fate of a person who so disrespects and disregards God's word.
 Then there are those who accept the Bible in part, while they reject portions of it. If I was going to reject or deny any portion of God's word, I believe it would be more honorable and consistent to deny it all. The word of God does not give one the privilege to accept it in part and reject it in part—those parts that do not suit our fancy or creed. To learn this, we have only to turn to the Bible and read of those examples who obeyed God in part, which in reality is not obedience. It is disobedience and unbelief. Cain offered a sacrifice, but God rejected it. Gen. 4:5. Nadab and Abihu offered burnt incense, but God killed them before the altar. Lev. 10. Saul won the battle with the Amalekites, but he was rejected as king over Israel, I Sam. 15. The young prophet destroyed the false altars at Bethel, but a lion killed him and he never reached home. I Kings 13. Ananias and Sapphira fell dead at the apostles feet. Acts 5. These and many other examples that could be cited, are examples and warnings, to those who go through a form of doing part of what God says do, and in addition, add their own opinions. In this they do not obey God, and the worship is in vain. See Matt. 15:9.

 In many respects the supposed friends of the Bible prove themselves its worst enemies. The attorneys and the court in the Rimmer-Floyd case referred to above, counted and found that there are in the United States today, 213 distinct religious creeds. Friends, think of it! 213 religious creeds! People claiming to be friends of the Bible, divided into all these factions and conflicting creeds. The Bible knows only one body, and one faith, Eph. 4:1-4. 2 Jno. 9. This existing condition in the religious world can be nothing but a result of utter disrespect and disregard for the word of God.
 Let us be friends of Gods word. The Church of Christ invites you to come and study these and other vital issues. A welcome awaits you at each service.

BHS Homemakers Get Pointers On Convention Costumes

At a recent meeting of the Homemaking club of Burkburnett high school, the members, directed by their sponsor, Mrs. Ernest Dillon, read papers and gave demonstrations of "Packing A Convention Bag."

The paper written by Jimmie Jo Hodges was chosen as the best of the group and excerpts from it are printed as follows:

"The seven 'Good Travelers' which should be chosen to pack the 'convention bag' are: 1st, a 3-piece ensemble; 2nd, round-the-clock dress; 3rd, sports dress; 4th afternoon dress; 5th, dinner dress; 6th, evening dress; 7th, fur jacket."

"There are a few tricks to selecting the right dresses. It isn't so simple to pick out a basic color around which to revolve your traveling wardrobe. If you choose blue you will find it difficult to pick a variety of accessories."

"Brown is a good basic color since it combines, gold, green, burnt sienna, and orange. Naturally black is the most pliable basic color. It can be more formal than brown."

"You can give your ensemble variety by having several changes of blouses and sweaters."

"Be sure that your sport dress can be worn with your suit accessories and that the afternoon dress is suitable for the first evening's dinner."

"The fur jacket is to lend variety to your wardrobe and may be worn with it with the afternoon dress and as an evening wrap with an evening dress."

"Shoes are very important. Your suitcase should contain at least three pairs: one for walking, simple daytime shoes, and a pair of evening slippers. Two pairs of gloves should see you through the convention very nicely; one for traveling and daytime wear and one for evening."

"Here is a hint to everyone, and it is a very good one: It is the new traditional matching pajama set. They can be bought with matching housecoats in flattering jersey, which with the addition of jewelry, may form a charming hostess gown for those late get-togethers for groups."

"It might be a good idea to decide on your basic color for traveling and see that you have these 'Seven Good Travelers' on hand, ready to go at a moment's notice."

We had an increase of 16 in our Sunday school attendance bringing the total to 384. We also had a very substantial increase in the attendance at Training service and in the preaching services both morning and evening. We particularly rejoiced to see so many men present. It is always a great joy to see men taking a real interest in Christian service. When the men shoulder their part of the responsibility and lead the way we are going to see a real revival in Burkburnett. This was the emphasis in the sermon Sunday evening and will again be the emphasis in the sermon for this next Sunday morning when the pastor will preach on the subject "Arise, Go Up to Bethel." The evening message will be from Revelations ch. 19.

Friend, you are always welcome here, and you can always come knowing that you will be welcomed by God's people to hear a message from God's word.

High Spots on Record-Breaking Run

Signs of the times in a motor age—these highway markers tell the story of a two-year, 100,000-mile truck test run recently completed by Chevrolet in Canada, Mexico and every state of the Union. The truck operated on all types of highways and under every conceivable weather hazard, setting a new world mark for sustained and certified automotive operation, under the sanction and official observation of the American Automobile Association. The unit carried a 4,590-pound "payload." An average of 15.1 miles per gallon of fuel was maintained throughout the 100,000 miles, at an average operating speed of 33.07 miles per hour. Oil mileage was correspondingly high—1.072 miles per quart.

FARROWING WEIGHT OF PIGS VITAL FACTOR IN DETERMINING PROFIT OR LOSS IN HOG RAISING OPERATIONS

Experiments show that an extra pound average pig weight at birth can mean up to five times as many pigs alive at weaning time—and heavier pigs, too!

Does the farrowing weight of pigs have any effect upon the number and size of pigs at weaning time? "Decidedly!" is the answer that comes from the Purina Experimental Farm at Gray Summit, Mo. "The weight of pigs on farrowing day can mean the difference between profit and loss on an entire pork making operation," emphasizes E. H. Hamel, Manager of the Purina Hog Department, who cites some convincing records from Purina Research and Purdue University to verify his statement.

"In 1938," Hamel says, "84% of the pigs weaned at the Purina Experimental Farm weighed 2 1/2 lbs. or over at birth. But of pigs weighing under 2 1/2 lbs. when farrowed, only 54% were alive and thriving at weaning time. In other words, we weaned 30% more pigs weighing 2 1/2 lbs. and over at birth than pigs weighing under 2 1/2 lbs. at birth."

Proven by Purdue
"These results are in direct accord with experiments reported by Purdue University in Bulletin No. 413—page 40," says Hamel. "Purdue records of 784 spring farrowings show that the percentage of 2 1/2 pound pigs weaned was 5 times greater than the percentage of 1 1/2 pound pigs weaned. And the pigs that weighed 2 1/2 lbs. at birth averaged 8 pounds more at weaning time than the pigs with a 1 1/2 lb. birth weight. That extra pound at birth meant 5 times as many pigs per litter at weaning time—and heavier pigs too!"

Three Extra Pigs
"Comparing these successive records of 9.33 pigs and 9.4 pigs to the litter with the U. S. average of 6.32 pigs reported December 1, 1938, by the Department of Agriculture, shows better than 3 extra pigs weaned per litter in favor of the Purina fed sows. These Purina Farm brood sows all got the same gestation and nursing ration. Sow and Pig Chow, from breeding to weaning, along with corn. This is the same ration we are now packing in checkerboard bags, obtainable from any local elevator or feed store handling Purina feeds."

TEXAS OUT-O-DOORS

Special County Fish Laws

Austin—While the season on bass and crappie has been closed since March 1 and will remain so until May, anglers desiring to fish for other species should consult the game laws or a game warden, the executive secretary of the state game department warns. Many counties have special laws which close the season on all species of the finny tribe.

Briefly, the special laws are as follows: Kimble, Uvalde, Zavalla counties, closed to all species of fish from Jan. 1 to May 1. Hays, San Patricio, Jim Well, Live Oak, Gonzales, McLennan, Bosque, and Hamilton counties closed to bass, crappie, calico perch and bream from Feb. 1 to May 1. March (April and May are closed months for all species of fresh water fish in Bandera, Kerr, Edwards, Real, Sutton, Mason, Menard, Blanco, Kendall and Gillispie counties. Bass, crappie, perch and catfish cannot be taken from Feb. 1 to May 1 in Comal, Guadalupe, Bexar, Medina, and Wilson counties. Harrison and Marion counties close the season on black and white bass and crappie from Feb. 1 to May 1. Young county does not allow fishing in water stocked by the state from Feb. 1 to May 1.

Majority Allow Hunting
The false impression that all the game preserve demonstration areas set up in Texas by A. and M. college are closed to hunting still persists, but should be dispelled by the annual report of the college, which shows that of the 23,280 farmers and ranchers who are co-operating only 7,017 do not allow hunting at the present time. That leaves the land owned by 16,163 co-operators open to sportsmen for controlled hunting and fishing. Hunting should be better on the areas in the demonstration program because landowners are pledged to improve their cover for game birds and animals and to provide proper food. Many of the demonstrators are making a charge for hunting and fishing rights.

Got His Fish, Anyway
A little thing like a shark stealing his twenty-five pound redfish didn't keep G. P. Hardy, Jr., of Bay City, Texas, from feasting on redfish recently. On a recent expedition to Brown Cedar cut, Mr. Hardy caught a big red. He staked the fish and resumed his angling. A few minutes later he pulled in his stringer for a prideful look at his neat catch, but nothing remained of the red except its head. Disgruntled, Mr. Hardy went on fishing and in a few minutes tied into a whopper. After a battle, he landed an eight-foot shark. Upon cutting the shark open the fisherman was amazed to find his huge redfish in its stomach. Mr. Hardy announced later that the fish's adventure in no way affected its flavor.

National Wildlife Week
When more than 11,000,000 Americans got behind a movement which is non-profit and non-political that's news! The National Wildlife Federation, formed for the purpose of unifying effort toward restoring the depleted natural resources of the United States, it is certain that many persons will co-operate in staging of the National Wildlife Week March 17 to the 23rd. This will be the third annual observance and wildlife stamps, the proceeds from which are used to finance the nation-wide restoration program, will be on sale. More efficient patrolling of the Laguna Madro and Baffin Bay will be possible since the state game department recently put into operation a new 25-foot sedan type patrol boat. The boat has an eight-foot beam and a 15-inch draft and will exceed a speed of 25 miles an hour. It is the fastest boat the game department has in operation in coastal waters.

Want Squirrel Season Closed
A general closed season on squirrels is being advocated widely since members of this species are rapidly declining in numbers. Advocates of the general closed season would, make the law read that the owner of a pecan orchard would be free to kill squirrels at any time on his property. Squirrels are in acute danger, especially in East Texas, where they are the principal game animal, and are rapidly being shot out, reports of biologists and game managers to the state game department reveal. One big reason for the decline in the squirrel population in East Texas is the fact that many counties allow open seasons during both the summer and winter breeding seasons.

Peyton Warns Kite Fliers

A warning to children who fly kites has been issued by Mr. L. N. Peyton, manager of the Texas Electric Service company, who urges that parents tell children to keep their kites away from the electric wires, to avoid any chance of injury. If kites should become entangled in the electric wires, parents are cautioned to keep their children from trying to climb the poles or to use long sticks in trying to get the kite down. The electric company will send a man to get the kite down if it is possible to do so. The safest rules to follow in flying kites, according to Mr. Peyton, are:

Don't use wire or metal in making frame and never use wire in place of a kite string. Don't fly a kite in the rain, as wet cotton string may become a conductor of electricity. Representatives of the electric company soon will visit the schools and make a short talk about the need for being careful when flying kites.

Sadler Announces For Governor

Austin, March 5—Jerry Sadler, young, dynamic and colorful member of the Texas Railroad Commission, this week threw his broad-brimmed hat into the ring for governor. In his opening announcement, Sadler said that he would have plenty to say later on about the issues in the coming summer primaries.

"The day of pussy-footing and wild parties is over," Sadler declared. "The folks now want something definite. I propose to pay pensions, aid for the blind and needy children, with a 2 1/2c additional tax on oil and a 1c per thousand tax on natural gas at the well. I propose to pay the school teachers their money for teacher retirement by tightening the corporation franchise taxes and taxes on pipe lines. As is well known, I am unalterably opposed to a sales tax. This will be a campaign of issues and not of personalities."

"This tax program is in keeping with the well-known democratic theory of taxation based on the ability to pay. Eighty per cent of the oil and gas produced in Texas is sold outside of this state. It is high time that Texas began to profit from her natural resources rather than to permit them to be dissipated for the benefit of other sections," Sadler said.

Sadler, a political unknown two years ago, has amazed the veteran political observers by his quick rise in public affairs in Texas and his grasp of public issues.

Forty Areas Now Under Lease For Quail Restoration

Austin—The state-wide quail restoration project in which state officials hope to eventually establish quail management demonstration areas in the majority of counties in the state is progressing rapidly according to reports to the executive secretary of the game department.

To date, the director of game restoration reports, there have been forty areas leased and work on improving the habitat has been started. These areas total 38,465 acres. The areas, none smaller than 200 acres and none larger than 4,000 are set up under the guidance of technically trained managers and biologists. The areas established are expected to be examples for land-owners who desire quail on their farms and ranches to visit in order to get actual demonstrations of the needs of quail in the way of food and cover.

The management of quail from the standpoint of habitat improvement on a state-wide basis is a new thing in Texas, and although a considerable amount of research work has been done, there is still a great deal to learn concerning what practices are best suited to the various sections of the state.

On most farms and ranches there is a lack of suitable food and cover areas for quail. Therefore in order to correct this deficiency, fence corners, fence rows and other out-of-the-way places are being fenced as protection from livestock and are retired from crops so that quail can find suitable protective cover and feeding lanes. In general, quail prefer a habitat that contains a mixture of different vegetation types such as brush, woods or timber, weeds and grass. Therefore management practices are directed toward these ends on the particular projects being set up by the department.

Although domestic crops have been planted in some places to supply food, greater attention is being given by the biologists to the restoration of native woods and grasses because they are available to quail through the critical period of winter, whereas seeds from domestic crops plants oftentimes are not available after late fall. Biologists working on quail restoration, which is a Pittman-Robertson project partially financed by federal funds, are keeping careful records through systematic observations on the various projects so as to evaluate the effectiveness of the various habitat improvement techniques being used.

On some of the areas where there are no quail, birds trapped in the wild will be released. A metal band will be placed on the leg of each. If the bird is killed later and the band retrieved, it will be possible to tell how far the birds wander after release. It is generally thought that if birds wander far the habitat is not suitable to their needs. Game managers have found that in most parts of Texas sufficient brood stock is present to restock the surrounding country if food and cover conditions are right.

Curing Of Tires Vastly Important

"Everyone knows that improperly cooked food is harmful to digestion," says Mr. W. O. Sissel, local Seiberling tire dealer, but few people realize the importance of cooking, or curing tires as it is called, in the manufacture.

"A loaf of bread baked in a quick oven will have a tough, overdone crust and a doughy, sticky mass at the center. In the same way, a tire vulcanized too rapidly, will be overcured on the outside and undercured on the inside. This will result in rapid tread wear and weak spots in the tire."

"Today all tire manufacturers except Seiberling cure their tires in a steel mold from forty to one hundred and twenty minutes under terrific heat and pressure. Seiberling, however, uses the patented Vapor Cure process. In this method, the tire, after a short 'set cure' is vulcanized for a long period of time in a great Vapor-Cure tank. Gentle steam vapor cures the tire through and through, just as a good loaf of bread is evenly baked throughout in a slow, low-heat oven. The result is a long-wearing tread and a tire with no weak spots."

"Vapor curing is one of the many reasons why Seiberling tires have built such an enviable record of quality and long service. My customers tell me Seiberlings give them 10 to 30% greater mileage than any other tires they ever used. I am anxious to demonstrate to all Burk Burnett motorists the extra economy and safe mileage in the patented Seiberling Vapor-Cured tires."

The idea of having someone else write this column occasionally seems to have met with general approval. At any rate, it is a change from the usual stuff. Therefore, every so often some one else will do the writing of this column in order to afford the readers a change. Thanks again for the general approval that has been expressed concerning this column.

Two young ladies, members of the personnel of the local schools, seem to think that they produced a slight stir of surprise when they came to town last Saturday morning dressed in slacks. Perhaps they did; it isn't for me to say so. However, I can't see why that anyone would be surprised on seeing the female of the species dressed in slacks. For instance, on a windy day, as last Saturday was windy, it seems to me that such a mode of dress would be far more comfortable than other forms of effeminate attire.

Burkburnett is to have a Community Center. Preliminary work—that is, cleaning brick prior to starting actual construction—has already begun. This is a project worthy of the support of every citizen of the community. It will afford a place for public meetings, club meetings, etc. The site of the new community center is to be the old Municipal Light Plant. This structure will have an addition built to it in order to make it long enough. When completed, the building will be ninety feet long by thirty-six feet wide. It is to have a stage with back-stage area, including two dressing rooms. The auditorium will seat approximately four hundred people. We think that this project merits all the support it can muster from every citizen in this community.

One of the local readers ran across the following statement during his reading the other day: "In order to attain longevity, one must be moderate in all things." This covers a lot of ground, and then said: "That must be true, I must try it sometime." In our opinion he is already trying it—he was married not long ago.

Spring! Easter! And Hats! What else could one expect this time of year? Nevertheless, fashion experts could make women's hats look a little more like hats. But, apparently, the women think they are cute. And who am I to argue with a woman about her hat? I have seen a few of those tiny flat straw things called hats. No offense meant, but why do they make them without brims, others without crown—or almost without crowns?

About two weeks ago a little colored girl was fatally burned at her home in the colored section of Burk Burnett. A newsboy, Robert Wallace, white, made a heroic attempt to save the child by catching her and wrapping her in a tow sack.

What we are trying to get over is this: Why is it that those kind of stories always come to our ears too late? We don't fail to hear all the latest bits of gossip and a lot of other things that we could do just as well without, but when a real story like that takes place right at our back door we don't hear about it for two weeks.

Is the Star force entirely to blame? Well, you know, you can't be everywhere at once and after all, almost all the stories that appear in print, have to be literally 'dug out' of people. You'd be surprised if you knew just how long it takes sometimes to get the simplest facts about something you want to print.

From now on, when stories with the human interest appeal of this one come to your knowledge, you will be doing your paper, your town and yourself a great service by calling it to the attention of the Star, which will be very grateful.

Sewing Room Now Employs Sixty-five

The local sewing room project, sponsored by the city of Burk Burnett, and with a monthly payroll of $2,854.52 now employs sixty-five women, including the instructor, Mrs. Esther Ellis.

Salaries are paid as follows: seamstresses, $42.90 per month; cutters, $48.10, and the instructor, $57.20.

According to Mrs. Ellis, the women work two shifts each day and each woman is allowed to work 130 hours per month.

They average about 1340 garments per month. These garments are checked in Wichita Falls and then returned to Burk Burnett for distribution each month.

The sewing room is one of the most important WPA projects in this community and the women are justly proud of their accomplishments.

School Census Now Under Way

The annual school census began on Tuesday of this week according to Census Trustee C. J. Duncan, who pointed out that almost half of our school finances come from this source and it is essential that every child within the census age be enumerated.

The census age includes all boys and girls from the ages of six years to eighteen whose birthdays come on, or before, the first day of September, 1940.

Someone will contact you if there are children within the census age in your home, but in the event that you know of anyone who should be enumerated who has been missed, you are asked to call Mr. Duncan at once.

WHY HE MADE GOOD

The new minister in a Georgia church was delivering his first sermon. The darkey janitor was a listener from a back corner of the church. The minister's sermon was eloquent, and his prayers seemed to cover the whole category of human wants.

After the service one of the deacons asked the old darkey what he thought of the new minister. "Don't you think he offers up a good prayer, Joe?"

"Ah mos' suitably does, boss. Why, dat man exed the Lord fo' things dat de odder preachers didn't even know he had!"
