Trust Employees Quizzed; Impeachment Talk Heard

AUSTIN, Jan. 28 (AP)—Nobody but A. B. Shoemaker really knew what was going on behind the scenes in the affairs of U. S. Trust and Guaranty Co. of Waco in the period just preceding its collapse, House insurance investigators were told today.

Four employees of the defunct company headed by Shoemaker appeared unable to shed much light on such questions as:

Shoemaker's private line long distance calls.

What management arrangement he had last summer with Felix Einschn of Dallas, whose role in the affairs of U. S. Trust has not been completely developed by legislative committees.

What Shoemaker did with $50,550 in mostly unexplained cash drafts on company funds before and during the last session of the legislature.

Who Shoemaker's visitors were at his Waco office.

The House investigating committee adjourned subject to the call of Chairman Wade Spilman of McAllen, indicating it may not meet again until week after next.

The Senate investigating committee under Sen. William S. Fly of Victoria is also in indefinite recess but may meet again next week.

The House probes voted unanimously not to take any immediate action or express any opinions on recommendations made to it—as it has asked—by other House members until all testimony is in and evaluated.

It took this action after hearing Spilman read a letter from Rep. Jerry Sadler of Pecos, urging the committee to recommend impeachment of Insurance Commissioner J. Byron Saunders and Garland A. (Chink) Smith on the basis of evidence already heard. Sadler also said Gov. Allan Shivers' impeachment should be recommended if he continues to express complete confidence in the commission.

Sadler also asked the committee to recommend impeachment of all members of the Legislature "who accepted money and used undue influence in behalf of U. S. Trust and Guaranty Co. or any of its affiliates."

Committee members pressed witnesses today with questions on whether anyone who suggested that it would be better for them to give "evasive" answers and to testify that "Shoemaker was the whole show in U. S. Trust's affairs. Each responded No.

The burden of testimony from half a dozen employee witnesses heard by House and Senate probes so far has been that they knew very little except what was going on in their areas of employment.

Alfred J. Bistany of Waco, head of the U. S. Trust's legal claims department, told the committee that Shoemaker for a time last summer had "managerial control" of the firm. Einschn even moved the claims department to Dallas and Shoemaker "seemed to have his hands tied" in dealings with Einschn, Bistany said.

"Did you ever learn what Shoemaker's arrangement was with Einschn?" Spilman asked.

"No, but it must have been very binding," Bistany replied. "Einschn seemed to be the front man for somebody. It's my opinion only that a third party was involved."

Einschn originally came into the U. S. Trust picture when he was presented to the Insurance Commission July 5 by Shoemaker, who was then seeking to prove the company was solvent. Shoemaker told the commission that Einschn was a certified public accountant who had looked into the company's books and believed it sound.

Bistany explained that his job was to handle suits filed in connection with U. S. Trust. He said that Einschn had represented the company "very adequately" in that type of local legal work. He asked if he ever had occasion to write any "large checks" against Shoemaker's personal account, she said "No."

She said she had kept a record of outgoing long distance telephone calls and all incoming collect calls while handling the combination duties of switchboard operator and secretary to Shoemaker from mid-1954 through 1955.

But Shoemaker placed his own long distance calls on his private line, she added.

WACO, Jan. 28 (AP)—Condition of A. B. Shoemaker, 60, president of the now-defunct U. S. Trust and Guaranty Co., who shot himself in the head last Jan. 7, took a turn for the worse today and attendants said the next 24 to 48 hours may tell the story.

Shoemaker was taken off the critical list a week ago. His condition was termed critical again today, however, when his temperature rose to 104 degrees.

The Governor referred "he asked. Wood added, "It is now a question of enforcement, and certainly nothing can be gained by belittling the reputation of a very fine industry which has contributed so much to the economic welfare of the state and the protection and security of its citizens."

Testimony by Swift before the Senate investigating committee this week was called "shockingly inconsistent" by Gov. Shivers.

The Governor said Swift's company and many others during the last Legislature "exercised great influence to have adopted the three-man board system which he now recommends be abolished—without even a full month's trial."

Swift told the investigators that the Legislature might consider reorganization of the Insurance Commission along the lines of the State Banking Commission with a professional executive named by a lay board.

Man Slays Six In Family, Then Takes Own Life

PARSIPPANY-TROY HILLS, N.J., Jan. 28 (AP)—A quiet and popular civil engineer, a devout worker in the Methodist Church, killed six members of his family and then himself as they prepared for a gay trip to Florida.

An anxious neighbor, worried because William D. Bauer hadn't left for Florida as planned yesterday, looked into the handsome Bauer home today and uncovered the macabre story.

The 48-year-old Bauer, a New York state inspector of road material, had gone berserk and, triggering a pump shotgun, slaughtered his wife, their two small children, his mother and his wife's parents.

Then he turned the .12 gauge gun on himself and blew off his head. Police Chief Leo d'Orsi pronounced the case a multiple murder and a suicide. The shootings apparently occurred about 1 p.m., yesterday.

Bauer fired two shots at his wife, 36-year-old Mrs. Florence Alice Bauer, as she fled. She was killed at close range.

His 6-year-old daughter, Elizabeth Jane, was slain as she calmly ate a sandwich. Half of it was left in her hand. His son, Peter David, 2, was killed in the hall.

Neighbors said he was devoted to his children. He had planned to build a playground for them and their playmates in a vacant lot next door within a few months.

Bauer's mother, Emma, an 84-year-old invalid, was shot as she lay in bed. Friends said he had worried over her health constantly.

The Bauer car had been backed up to the front door of the $21,500 six-room ranch house on Sedgfield Drive at Exeter St., in the Sedgfield area, to take her to a nursing home while the family was in Florida.

Mrs. Bauer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. U. C. Number of Camden Rd., in nearby Lake Parsippany, were shot near the doorway of the home. They had arrived to keep the children while the elder Mrs. Bauer was being moved.

Neither police nor neighbors could give any motive for the shootings.

Ike Spurns Red Friendship Pact

Moscow Told To Show Peace Through Action

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—President Eisenhower turned down, in effect, today a Russian proposal for a 20-year United States-Russian friendship treaty but left the door open for further talks between the two countries.

The White House made public Soviet Premier Bulganin's message to the President earlier this week. Eisenhower's reply and the draft of a friendship treaty which the Soviet premier had enclosed.

Bulganin proposed that the United States and Russia agree "in conformity with the provisions of the Charter of the United Nations to settle all their international disputes by peaceful means."

Eisenhower said in reply that "The present state of international tension" has been brought about by the Russians and "was not prevented by the words of the (United Nations) charter."

"How can we hope that the present situation would be cured merely by repeating those words (of the charter) in a bilateral form?" the President asked Bulganin.

He went on to say: "I wonder whether again going through a treaty-making procedure, and this time on a bilateral basis only, might indeed work against the cause of peace by causing the illusion that a stroke of a pen had achieved a result which in fact can be obtained only by a change of spirit."

Eisenhower then called on the Soviets to show by their actions that they really want peace. The President's message was cabled late last night to U. S. Ambassador Charles Bohlen in Moscow and delivered by him today to acting Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

The Soviets had delivered Bulganin's letter to the President Wednesday.

Specifically, Eisenhower urged Bulganin to join the West in "prompt measures to re-unify Germany in freedom within the framework of security" and to carry out such other measures as might be agreed on the Eisenhower "open sky" program of mutual aerial inspection of armaments.

In these and other ways, the President said, the United States is prepared at any moment to move in a spirit of conciliation.

"May I hope," Eisenhower told the Soviet leader, "from your letter that you, too, are dedicated to these great ends? I shall look forward to your further expression of your views."

Bulganin, in his letter, asserted that cooperation between Russia and the United States is natural and desirable despite what he termed "serious disagreements" that have arisen in the course of the cold war.

Asserting that "under existing conditions international tension is fraught with the possibility of breaking the peace," Bulganin said it is more important than ever that disputes between countries be settled peacefully "in harmony with the aims and principles of the United Nations."

Eisenhower, in his letter, noted the United States and Russia "are already bound to each other by a solemn treaty—the charter of the United Nations."

Eisenhower said, too, that the three major articles in the treaty proposed by Bulganin already are covered by "explicit provisions" of the U. N. treaty.

These three sections would (1) bind both countries to develop friendly relations on the basis of equal rights, (2) require the settlement of international disputes by peaceful means and (3) tie the nations together through strengthened economic, cultural and scientific cooperation.

"The charter of the United Nations," Eisenhower said, "constitutes a solemn treaty not only between your country and our own—it is a treaty among many countries, all of whom are bound to us and to each other, and all of whom are concerned with world peace. The American people sincerely desire to help make reality of these charter goals."

State Bar Takes Up Special Study

EL PASO, Jan. 28 (AP)—The State Bar of Texas already is "at work" on a request that it help draw the line on what is proper for lawyer-legislators to do but won't wait for new legislation to do its own "house cleaning," the bar's president said today.

Maurice R. Bullock of Fort Stockton, in an address prepared for the annual banquet of the El Paso Bar Assn., said:

"This week the Senate investigating committee has called on the state bar to help draft proposed legislation to define more clearly the line between improper and proper private employment of lawyer-legislators. The bar welcomes this request and is at work on this problem."

"This is not to imply, however, that the state bar plans to wait for passage of new legislation to undertake any needed 'house cleaning' of its own."

"We urge the legislative investigating committees and anyone else who may uncover evidence of professional misconduct on the part of any lawyer in any capacity to refer such evidence to the state bar for thorough investigation and appropriate effective disciplinary action."

"The deplorable practice of 'influence peddling' involving public officials is not new," Bullock told the El Paso group. "It is not confined to the Legislature or to any other branch or level of government. Neither is it at all confined to lawyers."

"The public has the right, however, to expect and demand a high degree of moral integrity of all lawyers both in and out of public office. Lawyers occupying positions of public trust have the right to earn a living the same as anyone else—but only the same as anyone else. A law license can never under any circumstances legalize, justify or excuse the acceptance of a bribe."

Shepperd User Of Insurance Plane

HOUSTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—The Houston Post tonight said Attorney General John Ben Shepperd the past two years has had at his disposal the airplane of a San Antonio loan and credit insurance official.

The Post story said the plane belongs to E. M. Stevens, president of Great Western Loan and Trust Co., and also head of Great Western Life Insurance Co.

Shepperd, the Post said, readily admitted he had used the plane a number of times, including trips to Kerrville, Crystal City, Duval County and San Antonio.

Contacted in San Antonio, Stevens said Shepperd has used the company plane on several occasions.

"Heart specialists also have been flown in it, and many flights of mercy have been made," Stevens said. "Anyone that needs the plane for anything in the public interest can have it anytime."

"I always used it in connection with my official work when I couldn't get the Department of Public Safety plane," Shepperd said, adding that on every occasion except once he "solicited the use of the airplane myself."

He said he and Stevens have been friends "20 or 25 years."

He added that Stevens was not a contributor to his campaigns for attorney general.

"I have never gone out of my way to do Mr. Stevens or anybody else a favor as a result of using the airplane," Shepperd said.

The Chamber of Commerce received 314 ballots during the election of new directors, Jimmie Greene, manager, said this morning. Deadline for the ballots was Friday midnight.

The 15 new directors will be announced Monday, Greene said. Then the total of 30 directors will elect 10 more for one-year terms. The regular directors have two-year terms.

The Board of Directors of the Chamber will meet Monday noon. Besides announcing the new directors and electing 10 more, President Marvin Miller will appoint a nominating committee to nominate new officers for the year.

Alert Sounded On Escaped Killer

SANTA FE, N.M., Jan. 28 (AP)—The FBI has notified state police that the FBI "Mad Dog" Irvin, killer of six who escaped from Indiana while awaiting a death sentence, may be headed to New Mexico.

Irvin, 31, was reportedly seen in the West Texas town of Monahans early today.

RICHLAND, Kan., Jan. 28 (AP)—A quiet Washington public relations man, whose wife is a former treasurer of the United States, today shot and killed a young Texas outlaw who had returned for the second time this month to rob this little town's leading citizen.

The bandit was identified through fingerprints as Billy Gene Ross, 23, of Dallas. The Kansas Bureau of Investigation said he had a record in Texas of mail theft, forgery, burglary and robbery.

At least one and possibly two unidentified companions of the slain man escaped after the shooting.

Ross was killed by Andrew Gray, whose wife, Georgia Neece Clark Gray, 55, was treasurer of the United States during the Truman

Insurance Executives Reply To Gov. Shivers' Criticism

DALLAS, Jan. 28 (AP)—Two Dallas insurance executives today rapped Gov. Allan Shivers for his statement that the "insurance industry must shoulder its share of the responsibility for its current problems" in the insurance scandals and that one executive was "shockingly inconsistent."

The two replies came from James P. Swift, specifically cited by the Governor, and J. R. Wood, president of Swift's firm, Southwestern Life Insurance Co. Swift is a vice-president.

Wood declared that "the sound and well-managed Texas insurance companies cannot usurp the functions of the State Board of Insurance Commissioners or the powers and authority of the Legislature. They could do only as they did—urge and support good laws and good enforcement."

"If this is true, why should they be called on to share the blame for the so-called scandal to which the Governor referred?" he asked. Wood added, "It is now a question of enforcement, and certainly nothing can be gained by belittling the reputation of a very fine industry which has contributed so much to the economic welfare of the state and the protection and security of its citizens."

Testimony by Swift before the Senate investigating committee this week was called "shockingly inconsistent" by Gov. Shivers.

The Governor said Swift's company and many others during the last Legislature "exercised great influence to have adopted the three-man board system which he now recommends be abolished—without even a full month's trial."

Swift told the investigators that the Legislature might consider reorganization of the Insurance Commission along the lines of the State Banking Commission with a professional executive named by a lay board.

But after more than eight hours of searching the area near the desolate Ivanpah Mountains, Nellis AFB and San Bernardino County sheriff's searches reported no trace of the missing plane and its crew.

TV Open House Is Delayed To Feb. 19

A new date for an "open house" at the new Channel 4 television station—KBST-TV—has been announced by Jack Wallace, president of Big Spring Television, Inc. It is now planned to invite the public for a tour of the station on Feb. 19.

Earlier, it had been announced the open house would be today, but there remains some work to be done on the building, and principally on surrounding grounds, before a crowd can be accommodated, said Wallace.

Poll Taxes Lag, Deadline Near

The tabulation of poll tax receipts in comparison with the last presidential election year—1952—finds Howard County lagging some 600 behind the same date of that year.

Through Jan. 29, 1952, the county had registered 8,583 poll tax and exempt receipts. But through Saturday, only 7,996 persons were listed on the books, with 1,361 of them 600 behind the same date of that year.

Because of the slowness of the population to come by the county tax office and pay the tax or pick up the exempt receipt, the officers will have an extra chance to pay. The office will be open until midnight Tuesday for those eleven-hour patrons who might not have paid their poll tax.

That is the deadline for filing for the voting privileges.

The office will be open the regular hours Monday—from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. and then will be open until the deadline Tuesday. For the convenience of the county voters, the tax office personnel worked until 5 p.m. Saturday, and then again on Sunday as is the usual case on Saturdays.

Search Yields No Trace Of Plane

SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 28 (AP)—Searchers combed two mountain ranges roughly 150 miles apart today for a missing Air Force crew of four men from Goodfellow AFB, San Angelo, Tex.

Their B25 bomber presumably crashed Thursday night in a heavy rainstorm. Last night a United Air Lines pilot reported seeing what appeared to be a portion of an "SOS" signal being flashed from the ground near the California-Nevada border.

But after more than eight hours of searching the area near the desolate Ivanpah Mountains, Nellis AFB and San Bernardino County sheriff's searches reported no trace of the missing plane and its crew.

Pat M'Cormick Gored 4th Time

Patricia McCormick, gored Friday for the fourth time in her bullfighting career, was in "very good condition" Saturday at the home of a surgeon friend in Aguascalientes, Mexico.

The Big Spring bullfighter was gored in the left thigh Friday as she practiced at the Torreallas breeding farm near Zacatecas, in Central Mexico.

She was rushed to the Aguascalientes hospital, but after preliminary treatment was transferred to the home of a close friend, Dr. Oscar Hernandez Dague.

First reports said she was gravely injured, but the surgeon Saturday assured Pat's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. McCormick of Big Spring, that her condition was good and the injury not as serious as was reported.

Patricia was in central Mexico attending the "tetas" which are training sessions for bullfighters on the big breeding ranches.

Although she has appeared in border bullfights since she was seriously gored at Villa Acuna, she was making the practice rounds to the top of the list of women bullfighters prior to the injury.

She also was gored, not seriously, Jan. 14, 1953, in a fight at Aguascalientes. Another bull hooked her horn into the calf of her leg July 19, 1953, at Tijuana.

The goring at Villa Acuna, which almost cost her life, occurred on Sept. 5, 1954.

Mr. and Mrs. McCormick said Saturday they don't plan to visit Pat at Aguascalientes, since she apparently wasn't hurt seriously. They were informed by the surgeon that she was writing them a letter Saturday afternoon.

Patricia has been fighting bulls since 1951.

Mothers To March On Polio Tuesday

Big Spring mothers will join others throughout the nation at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the "Mothers March on Polio," what was to have been the climax to the month-long March of Dimes campaign.

The mothers are still being counted on to give the polio drive its best boost yet, but unless they bring in more than $8,000 Tuesday night the campaign is to be continued into February.

Contributions here edged above $3,500 Saturday, toward a goal of $12,000. The total of $3,589.84 reported Saturday afternoon does not include gifts collected by American Business Club members on downtown streets.

National Guardsmen will assist more than 100 mothers in the residential solicitation Tuesday evening. The group will canvass all residential areas from 7 to 8 p.m. Anyone desiring to make a contribution should have his porch light shining.

Mrs. E. P. Drive is to be in charge of the project. Her committee includes Mrs. Vern Vigar, Mrs. W. S. Goodlett Jr., Mrs. Elwood Carlile, Mrs. E. L. Fannin, Mrs. Bill Dawes, Mrs. J. T. Wilkinson, Mrs. Robert Clark, Mary Vasquez, Mrs. Roy C. Sloan and Mrs. A. J. Statter.

Taylor County Girl Shows Champ Steer

FORT WORTH, Jan. 28 (AP)—"Jumbo," a 940-pound Hereford, was named grand champion steer today of the junior livestock show of the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show.

Jumbo was exhibited by Jane Holloway, 11, 4-H Club member from Wylie in Taylor County. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Holloway. The steer was bred by Winston Brothers of Snyder.

Reserve champion steer of the show was a another Hereford, "Bunny," a 1000-pounder shown by Lile Lewter, 10, of Lubbock.

Changes Rejected

Demos May Bring Up Farm Bill While GOP's Are Out Talking

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Some Republican senators appeared likely today to find themselves in the embarrassing position of being booked for Lincoln Day political speeches across the country when Democrats bring the new farm bill before the Senate.

From Feb. 8 to 16 many GOP members plan to be away eulogizing Lincoln and their party. They, like the Democrats, have been calling for swift action to remedy farm troubles, but they did not expect the Senate Agriculture Committee to finish action on farm legislation until mid-February at the earliest.

However, a Democratic strategist said today the present timing calls for the bill to hit the Senate floor about Feb. 7.

"It will be all right with us if the Republicans are out making speeches when the bill is brought up," he said. "There will be plenty of Democrats around to talk about the farmers' plight."

No vote is expected until the Republicans get back, however, because there is a gentlemen's agreement no important action will be taken during the Lincoln Day speech period.

The farm bill is slated to contain, among other things, a soil bank plan to pay farmers for taking acreage out of crop production.

President Eisenhower recommended this. Democrats are expected to express their contention that the administration cribbed the idea from them after first opposing it.

A number of Republicans are expected to back the administration's argument that high price props enacted under Democratic administrations piled up surpluses and are largely responsible for farmers' woes. Some Republicans, however, want a return to these high supports.

Sen. Young (R-ND) said a "boner" the Agriculture Department admitted yesterday would assist the movement to restore the high supports.

Secretary Benson apologized because a letter was sent out under his signature praising a Harpers magazine article picturing farmers as greedy tyrants. It was explained

Lamesa Mothers To Seek Funds In Polio Drive

LAMESA, Jan. 28—About 200 mothers, escorted by 75 members of the Lamesa National Guard, will stage the "Mothers March on Polio" here Wednesday night.

The mothers' drive for polio funds will start at 7 p.m. and last until 8 p.m. Lighted porches will signify residents desiring to contribute to the campaign.

The Guard members also will participate in a Mothers' March Monday night when the Latin American residential district is to be canvassed.

Members of the DeMolay chapter Saturday was conducting a "roadblock" operation in Lamesa, stopping cars to request contributions to the March of Dimes. Girl Scouts and Brownies were operating booths on the square, also soliciting donations.

Gene Pearson, chairman of the Dawson County drive, said that the county was about $8,000 short of its goal for 1956, with about $2,150 raised prior to Saturday.

Picking Up Riders Proves Dangerous In New Mexico

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—Since 1935, nineteen men and women have been slain or have vanished in New Mexico because soft hearted motorists are nearly always ready to give someone a ride.

That doesn't count the wayside ambushes, highway robberies and slayings or close escapes of motorists from the friendly young man with an engaging smile and his thumb out.

Hitchhikers themselves are not always the villains in the highway tragedies of which New Mexico has more than her share. Three of the 19 persons dead or missing in the state in the past 10 years have been hitchhikers, who accepted a ride from the wrong guy.

That an aide sent the letter without reading the article, and that Benson had known nothing of the matter.

Young, who has twice joined Democrats in urging that Benson quit, said the letter episode "brings the whole farm issue into better focus."

"Secretary Benson has a number of aides who do not favor congressional farm programs," Young said. "I think this will help restore 90 per cent of parity supports."

Government Cracks Down On Rebellious Groups In Tunisia

TUNIS, Jan. 28 (AP)—The new Tunisian government closed a trap today on ultranationalists who want to renounce recent agreements with France and join hands with rebellious Algerians. The government thus appeared to have taken a firm stand against military strife with France.

The leader of Tunisia's diehards, Salah Ben Youssef, evaded police and is in hiding, but half a dozen of his lieutenants were rounded up, including the director of the Youssefist newspaper.

Ben Youssef was in exile before the French-Tunisian agreements were signed last summer and has denounced them continually since his return. He may be heading for Cairo where he has many contacts formed during his exile, which was also partly spent in Geneva and New York.

Police questioned about 1,000 persons in the raids. They began at dawn today after a month of investigations, started when terrorism first began to reappear in Tunisia. Close to 100 arrests are known to have been made. Police, acting under orders of Tunisian officials and courts, also reported seizing quantities of explosives, uniforms, cash and arms at Ben Youssef's headquarters.

Agreements reached after negotiations begun by Gen. French Premier Mendes-France in 1954 give Tunisians gradually increasing control of their internal affairs and reserve only defense and foreign relations to the French.

The country had been relatively free of terrorism from the time the agreements were reached until Ben Youssef partisans again began to take to the hills about one month ago.

ICC Hearing Due To Be Lengthy

HOUSTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—A lengthy Interstate Commerce Commission hearing was adjourned here this week to be resumed March 5 in Washington.

The issue has been over a railroad freight rate that was lowered to approach barge and truck rates on steel pipe.

No one knows how long the hearing will go on. Some say it will be 18 months before it's settled.

Two of the interested parties among the railroads are named Wait and Delay. They are W. H. Wait of Chicago, assistant manager for freight rates of the Santa Fe Lines, and R. W. Delay of Kansas City, rate man for the Kansas City Southern.

Sponsored As A Public Service By Big Spring Jaycees

A Complete and Understanding Service Under One Roof

Every Detail Of Our Newly Remodeled Home Is Designed for the Convenience and Comfort of the Families We Serve.

COY O. NALLEY, founder of Nalley Funeral Home, started his career with the Fort Worth Undertaking Home 35 years ago. In 1929 he went to school and earned his license as an embalmer and funeral director. Subsequently he was associated with Elliott Funeral Home in Abilene, had an interest in Kenney Funeral Home in Stamford, then represented Abilene Casket Company on the road for two and a half years. During this time he developed a fondness for Big Spring and at the first of 1938 opened the doors of Nalley Funeral Home.

When we first opened the doors of Nalley Funeral Home in Big Spring on March 1, 1938, it was with the intention of doing our best to provide a type of service which was not only possessed of dignity and efficiency, but what was more important—one that was full of understanding and human concern.

Over the years, as the people of this area rewarded us with their confidence, we have progressively expanded our facilities, increased our equipment and broadened our staff.

Because the perpetuation of this policy and these ideals is a matter of deepest concern to us, we have sought to bring into the firm someone whom we know to be devoted to these principles and will help preserve and extend them even more effectively.

It is therefore with considerable pride that we announce the association of Mr. James C. Pickle as a partner in the Nalley Funeral Home. He is experienced, capable, reliable and above all considerate of the public's needs. His personal interest in the firm, we feel, will assure a continuation of the fundamental tenets of this institution.

C. O. NALLEY.

JAMES C. PICKLE has a background of approximately 20 years in mortuary services and for most of three decades he has been a resident of Big Spring. A graduate of the Dallas Institute of Mortuary Science, he was a member of the staff of Nalley Funeral Home from 1946-51. Then for four years he was associated with Robert Massie Funeral Home in San Angelo before returning in November to renew his association with the Nalley Funeral Home.

Tokyo Rose May Face Deportation

ALDERSON, W. Va., Jan. 28 (AP)—Tokyo Rose, a convicted traitor to her country, summed up her uncertain future with these words as she was freed from prison today — "I am going out into the darkness."

She was trim and petit as she left the big federal reformatory here this morning, but older — at 39 — than when she used to tantalize American GIs in the Pacific with dreamy music and low-voiced talk of pretty girls and home.

Her real name is Mrs. Iva Ikuko d'Aquino, but the American soldiers who listened to Radio Tokyo during World War II called her Tokyo Rose.

Surprisingly, her father called her "Rose" today within the hearing of a newsman at a restaurant in South Charleston, W. Va. The father, Jun Toguri, a Chicago grocer, came here with linez and Fred Toguri, her sister and brother, to take her back to Chicago.

"That depends on Rose," Toguri said when a newsman asked him if they would reach Chicago today. That was at 9 a.m. when they had covered about 90 miles in the auto trip from Alderson.

Asked as she was freed what her plans were, Mrs. d'Aquino replied: "I really don't know. I'm going out into the darkness. I don't know what I can do because I don't know the restrictions yet. I am still under supervision."

She was sentenced in 1949 to 10 years for her treasonous broadcasts for the Japanese during war time, but good behavior gave her time off.

She was given permission to go to Chicago with her family. She faces a deportation hearing at a time as yet unspecified.

An American citizen, Mrs.

d'Aquino is the wife of a newspaperman in Tokyo. Felipe d'Aquino, who holds a Portuguese passport.

Where will she go if she is deported? Perhaps Portugal or even Japan. The Immigration Service referred to her only as a "stateless person" in the deportation warrant served on her last night after midnight.

Control Of Sky Must Be Decided By World Pacts

By JOHN M. NIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—The State Department is taking a serious look at a problem which old-time diplomats would never have imagined—Who controls the sky?

The question is being studied by the department's international law experts because officials foresee a time very soon when it will have to be given some kind of practical answer.

There may even have to be an international agreement on the subject, involving both Russia and the United States. Or perhaps if this follows the pattern of so many other East-West problems there will simply be an international disagreement.

Both this country and the Soviet Union have announced plans to launch man-made, earth-orbiting satellites. It is when these first air vessels of the new age of science begin to sail through the heavens far out beyond the normal aircraft lanes that people are expected to begin asking questions.

Americans may ask, what right do the Russians have to send their space machines through the sky over the United States?

The Russians may turn the question around and put it up to Washington. Right now nobody knows the answer. The laws and agreements which exist are based on airplane operations. But experts here say that eventually the answer may be to apply the doctrine of the high seas.

The high seas are the vast reaches of the ocean beyond territorial waters, those waters close about the shores of a nation. Just where territorial waters end is a question on which nations have not been able to agree.

This country goes on the rule of a three-mile limit. The waters beyond three miles are open to all travelers. It holds. Some other countries claim as far as 12 miles out, and the Russians have shot down American airplanes cruising much farther than that off their shores, creating a whole series of international incidents.

The idea that nobody owns the sky beyond a certain limit, just as nobody has sovereignty over the high seas, is one of three possible theories which may become the basis for a future legal doctrine of space.

Another theory, developed in earlier and far simpler days, is that the sovereignty of each nation extends to the sky above its territory.

Home Building Due To Remain Brisk

CHICAGO, Jan. 28 (AP)—The nation's builders look to a continued high production of new homes in 1956, but a lessening in the "extraordinary" rate maintained in 1955. This was the consensus at the 12th annual convention of the National Assn. of Home Builders in Chicago this week.

Nathaniel Rogg of Washington, D. C., NAHB economist, said the downturn from what he termed the "extraordinary" production of 1955 started in the last quarter of last year. He said it was expected to continue through the first half of 1956.

Rogg said he believed this estimate will hold despite an easing of Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration mortgage requirements and a general easing of the home finance situation.

"It takes a builder some six to nine months to retool and get rolling again after a slack period in his rate of construction," Rogg explained.

Costs and financing take the front rank in the association's policy statement issued after the convention. The builders said: "Increasingly burdensome local zoning, building and subdivision regulations, the exorbitant cost of financing (in many areas); high land costs; and, in particular, the costly and unnecessary constant increases in VA and FHA requirements are combining to add unnecessarily to cost."

"Unless this dangerous trend is checked, the industry will soon find it difficult to serve the mass market and thereby be forced drastically to curtail production and consequently endanger the national economic health."

The NAHB contended that "three times in less than five years" the industry has been "plunged into confusion by sudden, sharp change in the flow of mortgage credit."

"The housing economy can no longer safely endure either the excess of mortgage credit which characterized late 1954, nor its practical unavailability during the last six months of 1955," the NAHB said.

Police surrounded a house near the center of town and the two men and two women surrendered without a struggle.

The four were Yvonne Terral, awaiting trial on an armed robbery charge; Betty Reid, sentenced to two years on a narcotics charge; Johnny Claunch, awaiting trial for a robbery charge; and Kenneth Monk, sentenced on a theft charge.

All were from Galveston County. Sheriff Frank Blangene said Monk pushed a jail matron around and took her keys. When a trusty, Vernon Tetters, came to the rescue of the matron, Mrs. Mary Malla, Monk slugged Tetters with a heavy ring of keys.

Galveston, Jan. 28 (AP)—Four prisoners slugged a trusty and broke out of Galveston County Jail today but were recaptured less than two hours later.

Scalp Expert Coming Here To Reveal Secret Of Saving Hair

Residents of our city will have the chance to see and learn the latest that science has achieved to stop falling hair and promote growth of new hair for both men and women. F. A. Cherry, noted Trichologist for Vir-Bet, Inc., of Oklahoma City will hold a one-day clinic here at the Settles Hotel on Tuesday, Jan. 31.

Trichologist Cherry will give FREE examinations to all who are troubled by falling hair, itching scalp, chronic dandruff, bald spots, or generally receding hairline.

He will also give free information on the proper care of the scalp and hair. Such information is vital to all those who are concerned over falling hair or approaching baldness, Trichologist Cherry states. Learning how to care for the hair properly is the "Secret Key" to keep what hair you already have and to restore your hair if humanly possible.

Two of the newest discoveries—Acetone and Hexa-chlorophene play important roles in the Vir-Bet method of treatment of scalp and hair disorders. Both Acetone and Hexa-chlorophene stimulate the circulation and nourishment of the scalp.

Not everyone can be cured, Trichologist Cherry states. Vir-Bet does not profess to have the long awaited "cure-all." But more than half of all hair and scalp diseases are curable if given proper medication and stimulative massage, authorities state.

TREATMENT GUARANTEED
Even though every case is not curable, Vir-Bet nevertheless backs its treatments with a money-back guarantee. Only those cases that Vir-Bet feels treatable are accepted. Those who are accepted for the treatment are guaranteed that "If not completely satisfied at the end of thirty days, your money will be refunded."

Aquarium For Patients

Members of the Auxiliary to the Eagles Lodge at Odessa Friday presented an aquarium of tropical fish to patients of the Big Spring State Hospital. L. K. Miller, left, business manager of the hospital, watches the fish which had just been introduced into the water by Mrs. Minnie Weilmuenster, next to him. Mrs. Jeanne Oliver and Mrs. Era Hood, right, watch proceedings. The aquarium has an air circulating attachment along with marine plants. Half a dozen varieties of fish were provided. Previously, the auxiliary had given radios, but members felt the aquarium would be different, and if patients like it, another will be given.

Tribesmen And Dignitaries Welcome Queen To Nigeria

LAGOS, Nigeria, Jan. 28 (U.S.)—Fantastic throngs, ranging from the half-naked to dignitaries in the height of Nigerian and European fashion, welcomed Queen Elizabeth II with cheers and tom-tom language today as she set out on a royal tour of this century-old British crown colony. The young Queen was calm and unflustered in the mid-90 heat as she left the plane that had flown her and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, from London for the first visit here by reigning royalty. She wore a white rose-figured dress, a pink straw hat and open-toed white shoes. The Duke was in admiral's white uniform with purple sash of the Order of the Garter. Tribesmen who for days had flocked to Lagos from deep bush country let out a great shout of "Ekaba" ("Welcome" in the Yoruba language) and "Kabyesi" ("Long live the Queen.") This capital city of 300,000 reverberated with the music of strange instruments, the most stirring of which were the jungle drums which pounded out "welcome" in their mysteriously exciting language. The young sovereign and the Duke reviewed a military guard of honor. Then they went to the gold and red marquee where a dozen dignitaries in strange ceremonial dress were introduced to her in the first of the many ceremonies that will occupy here 20-day visit in this broad land of 32 million people. She chatted with each, and some bowed to kiss her white gloved hand. The Duke, in jovial mood, pumped hands vigorously. Many of the cheering throng along the way were half-naked, thousands barefooted. Some sported European coats and hats. Thousands of mothers held up their babies for the Queen to see. Others prostrated themselves. In the throngs were men carrying on their heads calabash gourds filled with coconut milk, trudging to market.

Knick-Knack Shelf Easily Constructed

By BILL BKAER
For both a decorative and useful addition to the furnishing of your home, you can't beat the popular knick-knack shelf.

Fine knick-knack shelves often cost more than fifty dollars, but you'll be building several in your home workshop for only a few dollars. And you won't have many construction problems, either, because of my new pattern package holds enough tricks to make the job an easy one.

SHELF AT LOW PRICE

A full material list, easy-to-understand directions, exact-size pattern pieces duplicating each part of the shelf—so all you'll have to do is tack, trace and cut—and assembly and finishing instructions are the helpers you'll have when you take the pattern package to your workshop.

Your finished knick-knack shelf will have four shelves, each one eight inches deep. The complete unit is a little over three feet wide and almost four feet tall. Two handy drawers add a final note of usefulness.

You'll probably want a knick-knack shelf in every room in your home. Your fine dishes will stand on the dining room shelf, and the shelf in your living room will hold books. Entrance hall, den and bedroom shelves will hold other family treasures.

Here's how to get your pattern package: send your name and address (clearly printed), together with only one dollar ($1) in check cash or money order, to Bill Baker, Big Spring Herald, P. O. Box 1111, Los Angeles 53, Calif. Be sure to ask for pattern No. 129.

Forgus Enters Constable Race

C. H. Forgus has announced that he will seek the Democratic nomination for constable of Precinct No. 1.

In authorizing the Herald to make this announcement, Forgus pointed out that he is familiar with the county and many of the people, having lived in Howard County for 20 years. He has served seven years in this county as a law enforcement officer, both as policeman and deputy sheriff.

Forgus had this statement to make in connection with his candidacy:

"After having given this matter a lot of thought, I have decided that Howard County needs an active constable. With my past experience I feel that I am qualified for the job. I believe in strict impartial law enforcement. I believe that the office of constable should be one where the people have a right to expect, and are entitled to, service.

"I pledge that I will stand ready to help the businessmen to the best of my ability under the Texas Hot Check Law. The constable has more time for these matters than any other law enforcement branch. I also pledge full cooperation with the Police Department, the Sheriff's Department, and the Juvenile Officer.

C. H. FORGUS

"I am a taxpayer and a homeowner in Big Spring and Howard County. I live at 2207 Main Street. I am 38 years old and a veteran of World War II. I am married and have two children, a son and a daughter.

"I may not be able to see each voter in Precinct No. 1 personally before the election, but I would like for you to consider this letter as a personal solicitation for your vote.

Fine Levied On Homicide Plea

COLORADO CITY — William Wayne Casey, Robert Lee youth, has entered a plea of guilty to charges of negligent homicide with a motor vehicle and was fined $250 and costs by Sam Bullock, Mitchell County judge.

Casey was involved in a collision 17 miles south of Colorado City on State Highway 208 Oct. 21, 1955. Mrs. Cecil Seale, 45, of Floydada was killed.

The complaint, prepared by County Attorney Frank Ginzler, alleged that Casey overtook and passed another vehicle proceeding in the same direction in a no-passing zone. Casey pulled into the left ditch in an effort to avoid the oncoming Seale car; at the same instant, driver of the Seale automobile pulled into the ditch to avoid Casey. The collision was in the ditch.

will do my best to make the kind of officer that the voters of Precinct No. 1 in Howard County are entitled to. Your vote will be greatly appreciated."

Mitchell Commissioners Up Own, Some Other Salaries

COLORADO CITY—The Mitchell County Commissioners' Court boosted salaries for the county treasurer, the justice of the peace, Precinct 1, and for commissioners this week but left the majority of courthouse salaries at last year's levels.

The last general raise was given in 1954, when salaries were upped for all elected officials at Colorado

City, except Sheriff Dick Gregory. Miss Louise Hardison, county treasurer, was raised from $2,800 to $3,100; JP G. C. Lemons from $1,920 to $2,187 and county commissioners, Sam Thompson, W. N. Northcutt and Moody Richardson from $3,400 to $3,760. The old figure of $3,400 for commissioners included $600 car expense.

Salaries for County Judge Sam Bullock, County Clerk Gilbert Leach, Tax Assessor Tom Glover, Sheriff Dick Gregory, and county attorney Frank Ginzler were left at $4,200; district clerk Harry Pond at $2,500; Homer Hart, JP, Precinct 5, at $900 and constable John Plummer of Westbrook at $600.

One officeholder—Mose Allen, constable, Precinct 1, took a pay cut, from $900 to $600 per year.

Non-elected officials benefiting from salary adjustments were County Agent Jack Burkhalter and Mitchell County Service Officer Mack Watson. The former received a $300 a year raise on the portion of his salary supplied by the county, and Watson's salary was changed from $1,350 to $2,400 per year.

The court also appointed C. B. Hines as deputy sheriff and jailer and set his salary at $240 per month.

Praying Mantis Is Problem To Reader

By RAMON COFFMAN

A letter about a praying mantis has come to me from Mrs. Angel Votava, who lives on Long Island. She writes:

"I found a praying mantis on one of my house plants. She must have wandered in while I had the window open the past fall. "How do I know that it is a female? Because she has laid eggs on my plants!"

"I want to keep her alive so that I can release her outdoors in the spring. If I let her go out now, could she survive the cold and snow?"

"The insect supply has vanished for the winter, and I am at a loss to know what to give her. She must be just about starved!"

"The trouble is that she likes to see her food alive and moving. I tried to feed her a dead roach one day, but she dropped it in a hurry."

"Please tell me what to do. Should I put the eggs outdoors, or wait until spring? I hope they won't hatch in the house! Think of all those mouths to feed!"

Perhaps Mrs. Votava will need the patience of an angel to keep the praying mantis alive. If, however, the insect has lived this long, it probably will live until spring. Many insects hibernate. They rest in cold weather, and eat little food, if any.

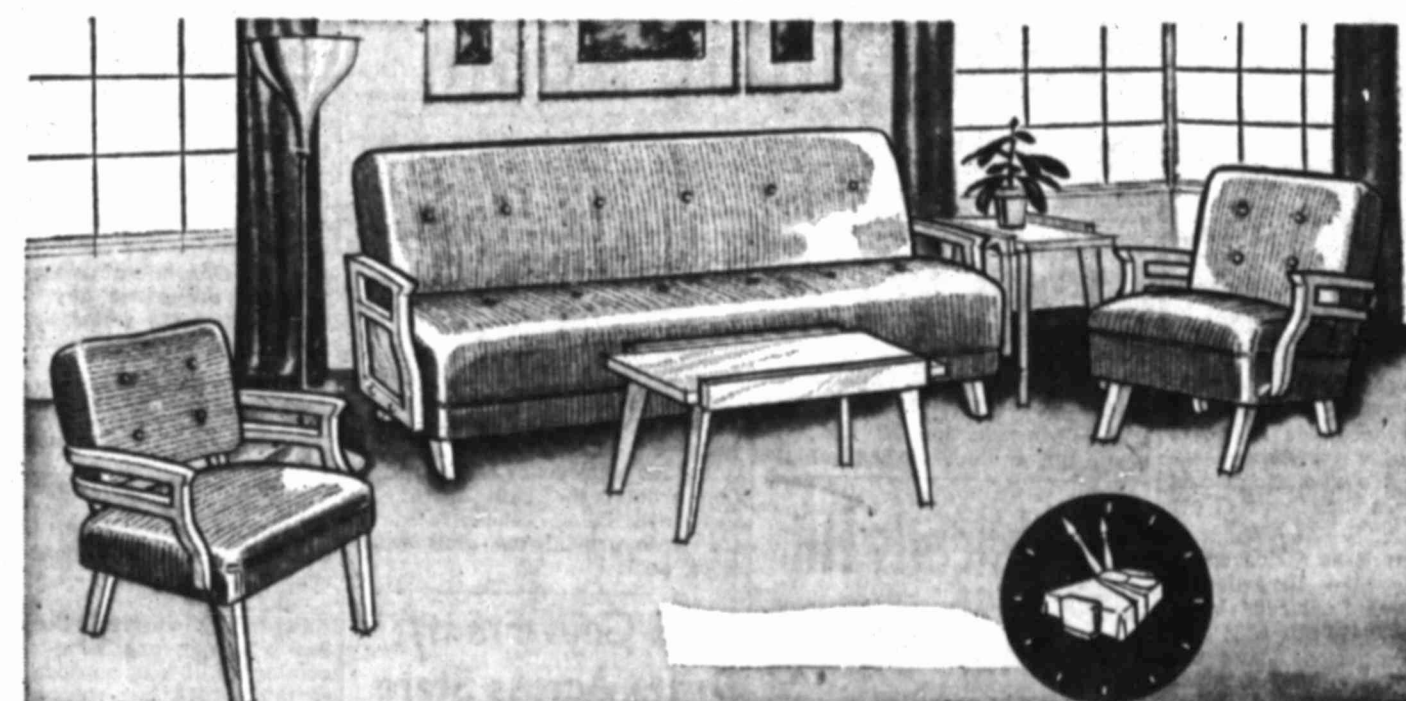

Most members of the mantis family live in warm areas, — in the tropics or sub-tropics. Some kinds, however, have managed to invade the area of Great Lakes, including parts of southern Ontario. They lay eggs which hatch in the spring.

I advise against putting pet mantis out in the cold! In that case she probably would die very soon. Perhaps she and the eggs should be kept in a basement where the temperature is neither high nor low. A praying mantis will eat various kinds of insects, but the appetite is less keen in winter.

West Texans Back Project To Check Water Evaporation Loss

West Texans are rallying to support of a project to study possibility of retarding loss of water through evaporation.

E. V. Spence, general manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District and chairman of a finance committee to raise funds for such a study, said Saturday that prospects were bright that the project would be underwritten quickly.

Latest reports reflect two-thirds of an estimated $25,000 needed for a two-year research program had been pledged or paid. Nearly one-third of this is from firms and agencies with interests in this area.

Texas Electric Service Company has put up $2,500 and Thursday the CRMWD voted to appropriate $1,000 to the study. Others include $500 from the City of Abilene, $250 from Coston Petroleum Corporation and $100 from Empire Southern Gas Company.

Spence said that he was hopeful that the entire $25,000 could be raised in advance of Feb. 9 in order that the committee could meet and iron out details for the work.

R. M. Dixon, chairman of the State Board of Water Engineers, has announced that the board would serve as the disbursing agency for all funds.

The study is to be undertaken by the Southwest Research Institute of San Antonio, which already has done some preliminary work. The institute works directly with various groups on a non-profit basis, putting its staff and laboratory facilities to the task of working out technical research problems.

Investigators have discovered that certain organic compounds placed on the surface of water form an almost microscopic film and thus retard water losses to a large extent. The film is claimed to resist itself after action of wind or of foreign objects and assumes its original effectiveness. At the same time, oxygen is claimed to be able to penetrate the film, therefore stagnation is prevented and plant and marine life are unaffected.

In Texas, explained Spence, as much water is lost through evaporation as is used. Evaporation records show a loss of 63 inches per year at Buchanan Dam, 74 inches at Del Rio, 87 inches at Amarillo and 113 inches at Falcon Dam. Total estimated loss of evaporation from Texas lakes of 1,000 or more acre feet is 7.5 million acre feet.

Net loss from Lake J. B. Thomas last year was 35,000 acre feet, of which approximately 12,000 was consumed for municipal and industrial purposes. This meant that 23,000 acre feet were lost through evaporation. While consumption is steadily increasing, Spence pointed out that under current conditions, the reservoir loses almost twice as much through evaporation as is used. Hence, anything which would reduce evaporation loss would mean an important water savings to the district and the area.

Australians have been carrying on evaporation studies for three decades, and it is possible that W. W. Mansfield, who pioneered that work for the Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization, might be brought to the United States to help set up the laboratory and field studies. The Australians began large scale work in 1952 at Melbourne with the idea of reducing evaporation losses in large bodies of water. Some estimates are that evaporation could be reduced by as much as 45 per cent.

Reports from East Africa on an 80-surface-acre lake showed that evaporation was reduced by a chemical film by 20 per cent over a three months period. There was a 30 per cent factor the first month when the film was new.

Preliminary work by the Institute indicates that certain alkaloids available at about 30 cents a pound could be applied at $90 per square mile. Under a hypothetical saving of 45 per cent, the cost per acre-foot of water thus conserved is about 80 cents.

While economics is certainly a controlling factor, the matter of conserving water weighs heavily also in West Texas, said Spence. He reminded that the study has much import for farmers and ranchers as well as for industries and municipalities.

"Anything which might save part of the six or more feet lost from stock ponds annually through evaporation would be vitally important," he said. "This might be the equivalent of a year's supply for ranchers. While those who contribute financially will receive regular progress reports, eventually whatever results are obtained will be made available without cost for the benefit of all."

Program Secretary For 'Y' Arrives

Truett Mobley, the new YMCA program secretary, arrived in Big Spring Friday to take over the new job. Bobo Hardy, general secretary, said Mobley would begin work Monday.

The new secretary is a graduate of Southwest Texas Teachers College at San Marcos. He was graduated this month with a major in physical education. He has worked with children at summer camps and lettered at A&M two years in basketball and baseball.

He is married and has a 3 1/2-month-old boy, Steven. The Mobleys will live at 509 Bell, Hardy said.

Bobby West, investigator for the district attorney, said the money was taken from the cash register and a filing cabinet. The thieves entered the building by prying open the rear door.

Changes At Their Club

Officers from instructor and student ranks are pitching in to make some changes to their club at Webb AFB, the major one being conversion of a lounge into a dining room. Above, 1st Lt. James J. Jelinek and 2nd Lt. Howard H. McWhorter, members of the 356th Pilot Training Squadron, do their bit toward lowering the ceiling.

Below, Lt. Col. Raymond L. Morris is planting a rose bush on the patio near the club swimming pool. In the background, Lt. Frank R. Chiappetta digs more holes with Lt. Richard H. Sanchez assisting. Also taking part are Capt. Merle F. Scoggins.

Flying instructors and students at Webb Air Force Base are contributing their own labors toward a new dining room.

The old Officers Club lounge rooms is being converted into dining space, and plans are to have the new facility open Feb. 15.

Under direction of Capt. J. D. Musgrove, instructors and students from Flying Section III are lowering the ceiling, closing off the west wall, and installing picture windows in the north wall.

Drapes for the new room have been donated by friends in Big Spring, and members of the Officers' Wives' Club will hang these. The room will be in a brown and gold color scheme. The men at present are trying to solve the problem of obtaining suitable floor covering since they're carrying on the whole project without funds.

While this work is going on, volunteers at Webb also are carrying out a program of beautification around the club house. Efforts are being concentrated on the patio around the club swimming pool.

Republicans Hit Economic Study

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Six Republican members of a Senate House Committee tonight accused Democrats of mixing "partisan politics" into a study of the nation's economic future.

They said Democrats have called "a group of politicians" to alternate with administration witnesses at hearings on President Eisenhower's economic report.

They called the idea "preposterous and unbecoming."

The six Republican members of the Joint Committee on the Economic Report said in a statement that the "politicians" are known to be "opposed on a partisan basis" to the Eisenhower administration.

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.), the committee chairman, has listed a series of hearings starting next week and running until mid-February at which testimony by top Eisenhower officials will be alternated with that of former Democratic administration officials, including Oscar L. Chapman, ex-secretary of the interior; Randolph E. Paul, former general counsel of the Treasury; and Robert R. Nathan, economist and former War Production Board official.

Under the 1946 Employment Act, the committee is charged with reviewing the President's annual economic report and submitting its own findings and recommendations.

The six Republicans said that in the past the group has called in executive officials responsible for government action in various economic fields and "a selected group of students in the field of economics, as well as representatives of certain economic groups."

Two Mishaps Listed

Two accidents were reported to police Friday and Saturday. Lois Dee Caston, 511 Lancaster, and Reginaldo Perez Lopez, 306 Lancaster, were in collision at Lancaster and Sixth, Friday. Early Saturday morning, Miguel Rojo Martinez, 1002 N. Main, and Gilbert Garcia Martinez, 602 NW 7th, ran together in the 500 block of N. Main.

James Earl DeWitt, 1101 W. 3rd, told police a check had been stolen from him. He said the check was for unemployment compensation in the sum of $21.

Court To Hear Application For Co. Engineer

An applicant for office of county engineer will be considered Monday by county commissioners.

R. H. Weaver, county judge, reported Saturday that a New Jersey engineer has expressed interest in the job. He is Walter G. Parks, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Abernathy of Big Spring.

Parks wrote that he holds an engineer's license in New Jersey and has made application for a Texas license. He said he could be available for the job here in about a month if he and the commissioners court can work out an agreement.

Parks now resides in Imlaytown, N.J., but plans to move to Texas. He conferred with Weaver briefly while on a visit here recently.

Commissioners also are expected to discuss progress on plans to pave more than 20 miles of county roads this year. They have agreed to employ a private engineer to prepare plans for 10 miles of paving to be constructed by contract, provided property owners give right-of-way for the two five-mile projects in Precincts 1 and 3.

Arthur Stallings, commissioner of Precinct 3, said Saturday he has contacted 11 of 14 property owners involved in the project proposed for his precinct. All have agreed to donate the necessary roadway, he reported.

Commissioner Ralph Proctor of Precinct 1 said earlier in the week he was unable to get a right-of-way commitment from one property owner although several others had agreed to the proposal.

Few Again Call For Polio Shots

For the second straight week, the number of persons receiving Salk polio shots at the city-county health unit has been small.

The health unit is open each Friday afternoon for indigent persons needing the third and final shot of the polio series. And both days, workers at the health unit have reported very few persons coming for the shots.

Only the medically indigent may receive the vaccine at the health unit. Others are urged to take the shots from their doctors. Persons who should come to the health unit for the vaccine are asked to come only on Fridays, rather than waiting until the exact day for the third shot of the series.

THE WEEK

His Golden Anniversary, Dr. Van Leer was commencement speaker.

Cap Rock Electric Cooperative has a major expansion program coming up, if loan approval means anything. REA last week gave the nod for $1,070,000. Some of this would be used to "heavy up" some existing lines and some of it for irrigation and offfield extensions.

Fitting tributes were paid Thursday to Grover C. Good, who has left active YMCA work after devoting a lifetime to it. He apparently has laid himself up some indestructible treasures. As someone has said, it's mighty nice to toss a few flowers while the recipient is alive to smell their fragrance. For which, Mr. and Mrs. Good said "Thanks" to everyone.

The city commission last week shattered our last fond dream. It ruled there could be no oil wells drilled inside the corporate limits. Our backyard was our only chance to become a fabulous Texas oilman.

Justices of Peace in West Texas organized formally here last week, dwelling on some common problem such as the small claims court, "standard" and perhaps better speeding fines, etc. Those common problems might also involve pay scales when the legislature convenes the next time.

Developments in the Big Spring Fusselman field to the northeast were less than bright at the end of the week, but there were other interesting area oil happenings. One was location of a Fusselman wildcat just south of Coston Refinery; others included staking of three or four wildcats north of Vealmoor and northeast of Ackert, and completion of a discovery in northeast Borden.

An oil transport and a Cadillac arrived at the 4th and Birdwell intersection simultaneously last week, sending nine people to the hospital. One of them, a five-year-old girl, was hurt critically, two persons seriously, and several painfully. We hope this is not an indication of the potential destruction which could be wrought at this U. S. 80 crossing.

Colorado River Municipal Water District directors tackled the problem of changing water rates next year. Within limits of what it can do under the indenture, the board's decision will be between whether to chop off the $3 ballroom at the end of the bond schedule ahead of time, or to plan on using the full 30 years to pay and thus grant cities some possible rate relief now.

East Germany Signs Treaty With Soviet

By TOM REEDY
PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Jan. 28 (AP)—East Germany tonight formally signed the Warsaw Pact, joining with seven other nations under the Soviet banner.

The alliance, formed two years ago to counterbalance the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, was thus expanded to unify the military forces of countries with 300 million population and bring them under Moscow's direction.

Red China gave its blessing to the anti-NATO organization through the presence of its official observer delegation.

The admission of East Germany, with its newly created army of about 110,000 men, was the chief business of a two-day conference of the Alliance's Political Advisory Committee which wound up today.

But the conference also arranged for future meetings twice a year, and created certain agencies, including a secretariat with headquarters in Moscow and a commission to handle "international" problems.

Willi Stoph, named East German defense minister last week when the East German Parliament unanimously voted to turn its police force into a full-fledged army, becomes a deputy commander of the Warsaw Pact forces. Soviet Marshal Ivan Konev is commander of the unified force.

The signing by East Germany, the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania and Albania took place in the old Czech palace of Count Wallenstein.

Every defense minister at the ceremony wore a uniform with one thing in common — the twin red stripe down the trouser leg which is the custom for senior officers in the Soviet army.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and Defense Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov signed for the Soviet Union. Deputy Premier Walter Ulbricht, chief of the East German Communist party machinery, and Stoph signed for East Germany. It was Ulbricht who yesterday announced the conference and urged it to admit East Germany.

The avowed purpose of admitting East Germany to full membership was stated in a speech by Molotov, who called upon the Eastern bloc to combat what he called the "aggressive" policy of NATO.

Young Burglary Suspects To Get Juvenile Hearings

Hearings for two juveniles charged with burglary of a cluster of homes on E. Highway 80 last week will be held in Juvenile Court either Monday or Tuesday, A. E. Leach, juvenile officer, said Saturday.

The boys, 11 and 14 years old, have been charged with about a dozen burglaries. They were picked up by sheriff's deputies Thursday and one of them has since admitted going into several of the houses reporting stolen articles.

The younger of the two may also be implicated in two burglaries in Snyder, Long said.

Air Academy To Close Nominations

Young men who desire to apply for admission to the United States Air Force Academy are now against a deadline.

Letters of nomination from the nominating authority (senator or congressman) or from an individual requesting permission to come to the academy, must be received by the AF Academy Appointment Branch not later than Tuesday midnight. The address is Headquarters, U. S. Air Force, Washington, D. C.

Candidates must be male citizens of the United States, possess good moral character, never have been married, be physically qualified for flying and be residents of the geographical area from which they are nominated or are applying. They must be at least 17 years of age and less than 22 on July 1, 1956.

If the commission's court of Howard County would heed the mandate of the people of our county by hiring a certified engineer and co-operate with him, this 22-mile program then could be completed at a saving of many thousands of dollars; which would put our county in position to offer a reasonable price to the land owner for the right-of-way needed, and in that way keep all our money in Howard County.

It would seem to me that unless our county commissioners hire a certified road engineer within a reasonable length of time the taxpayers should take it upon themselves to go into court and secure an injunction to prevent any further expenditures out of the road and bridge fund until the mandate of the people is obeyed.

Why can't we have a commission court that will try to carry out the wishes of the people by hiring a county engineer? It was a clear-cut mandate of the voters in two different elections for this to be done and we don't do it.

Understand, Mr. Editor, I am for good roads but as a taxpayer I am opposed to paying premium to outsiders in order to get them. I hope every taxpayer will go into our commissioners court and demand that the right thing be done.

We voted the County Unit Plan in order that our road dollar would go 25 per cent further. Mr. Commissioners and County Judge why can't we have it?

Coahoma Pair Hurt In Head-On Crash

A Coahoma couple and a Westbrook Negro were hurt Friday evening in a head-on automobile collision about three miles east of Coahoma.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lee Reeves of Coahoma were brought to Big Spring Hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises. Jack Hall, Westbrook, suffered a deep laceration above the left eye. He was taken to the Lee Memorial Hospital in Colorado City.

Highway Patrol officers said a car driven by Allen Palmer, Colorado City and Westbrook, collided with the Reeves car.

Palmer pulled out of his lane to pass a truck and met the Reeves car on the shoulder of the highway and was being held in the Howard County jail Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Reeves were brought to the hospital in a River ambulance. Their son, a passenger in the back seat of the car, was not injured in the wreck.

Mendes-France Slips In Bid For Cabinet

PARIS, Jan. 28 (AP)—Pierre Mendes-France's hopes of becoming the new French foreign minister appeared tonight to be fading.

As Premier-designate Guy Mollet labored to piece together a cabinet, the need for a majority vote in the splintered National Assembly seemed to doom the hopes of Mendes-France, Mollet's political partner, for the foreign office.

Mendes-France is expected to become deputy premier, without a specific portfolio.

Mollet, a Socialist, will make up his team largely from his own party and from the Mendes-France radicals. He also has to fit two minor groups into the puzzle, and possibly a general as well. There are reports he is considering a military man to head the Ministry of National Defense.

Mendes-France wanted the Foreign Ministry, which he held during most of his term as premier in 1954. But, in that time, he angered groups pressing for a united Europe by his failure to back the ill-fated plan for a single European army. If Mendes-France got the foreign post again, Mollet could not count on backing from the most "European" party, the Christian Democrats (MRP).

Mollet, a "European" himself, is said to have offered Mendes-France the responsibility for all economic affairs, but was turned down.

Most politicians assume Mollet will get assembly endorsement Tuesday or Wednesday. He does not need an absolute majority of the 598 members to win, but the more votes he gets the stronger his cabinet will be. There have been reports that he gives himself but three months as premier.

Graveside rites will be held Wednesday for Mrs. Essie Faye Parady, 37, who died Friday night at Coolidge, Ariz., after a two and one half year illness.

The graveside service will be conducted by Rev. Ed Welsh, pastor of the Phillips Memorial Baptist Church, at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the Trinity Cemetery, Nalley-Pickles Funeral Home will be handling the arrangements.

Ariz. Woman's Rites Set Here

Funeral services will be held at Coolidge Monday morning and then the body will be brought here for burial.

Mrs. Parady was born in German July 5, 1918.

Survivors include her husband, W. F. Parady of Coolidge; one daughter, Barbara Parady of Coolidge; three sisters, Mrs. Harry Schulman of Coolidge, Mrs. W. C. Sturdivant of Los Angeles, Mrs. Lyle E. Day of Odessa; seven brothers, Jack Parady, Sacramento, Calif., Alfred Parady of San Francisco, Fred Parady of Knott, Warren Parady who is in the Army, Wayne of Corpus Christi, and E. Says It's Time For A County Engineer

To the Editor:
In your Jan. 8 edition your printed a good editorial (Foundation of a Good Road Program). In this editorial it was stated that Howard County Commissioners Court had announced plans for paving at least 22 miles of important lateral roads in Howard County, provided the people would give the roads would provide the right-of-way, and I believe the editorial pointed out that the property owner would be greatly benefited and not damaged.

I am an every taxpayer in Howard County who read this fine editorial was elated with the good news; but let's see what thoughts were in the average businessman's mind after he had turned these thoughts over several times in his own mind.

Is it possible for our county to undertake such an expensive outlay in road paving without the services of a certified county road engineer which Howard County does not have, even though the voters went to the polls in 1953 and voted to keep the county unit plan in force which the law says the county commissioners shall immediately employ a certified road engineer.

It is my understanding that our county commissioners will let under contract to some building contractor 10 miles of this 22-mile project, and have been negotiating with a road engineer in Abilene, to make the survey and draw up plans for this work at a 7 per cent of the contract price. This fee will amount to approximately 7 or 8 thousand dollars, and all probability, will only require about 60 days to do the necessary surveying and to prepare plans and specifications, and to advertise for bids.

Every one knows that any contractor is entitled to a reasonable profit, and assuming at the very least his profit will be 2 thousand dollars per mile. This would make his total profit 20 thousand dollars on a ten-mile contract, and on top of this Howard County will have to pay for an inspector's salary approximately $400 dollars minimum per month, and for a period of at least three or four months. These approximate figures are given for the taxpayers, of Howard County to figure out the number of years salary this money which is being wasted would pay for a county engineer's salary.

If the commission's court of Howard County would heed the mandate of the people of our county by hiring a certified engineer and co-operate with him, this 22-mile program then could be completed at a saving of many thousands of dollars; which would put our county in position to offer a reasonable price to the land owner for the right-of-way needed, and in that way keep all our money in Howard County.

It would seem to me that unless our county commissioners hire a certified road engineer within a reasonable length of time the taxpayers should take it upon themselves to go into court and secure an injunction to prevent any further expenditures out of the road and bridge fund until the mandate of the people is obeyed.

Why can't we have a commission court that will try to carry out the wishes of the people by hiring a county engineer? It was a clear-cut mandate of the voters in two different elections for this to be done and we don't do it.

Understand, Mr. Editor, I am for good roads but as a taxpayer I am opposed to paying premium to outsiders in order to get them. I hope every taxpayer will go into our commissioners court and demand that the right thing be done.

We voted the County Unit Plan in order that our road dollar would go 25 per cent further. Mr. Commissioners and County Judge why can't we have it?

Ballots In Primaries Shorter This Year

This year will be quite different electionwise, come July. The poll tax is the regular price, the voting dates are the same, and the voting places are unchanged. But the size of the ballot and the number of offices to be filled will be radically reduced in the Democratic primary next July.

Reason for the change was a constitutional amendment altering county and district office terms, lengthening them from two to four years. And in doing this, elections were staggered, half the offices becoming vacant each two years.

Thus, half of the county and district officials elected in 1954 are serving four-year terms now while the other half are just in for two years.

Currently serving for four years for the first time are the district clerk, county clerk, county judge, county treasurer, county commissioners from Precincts two and four, and justices of the peace. These officials will hold office until January, 1958, but will be campaigning in 1956.

Elections for sheriff, county tax assessor-collector, district attorney, county attorney, county commissioners from precincts one and three, constables, and peace justices from Place one will be held this summer to start four-year terms.

The office of district judge has always been for a four-year term. To the voting judges and their personnel, the change was well received. The staggered elections will cut the ballot size almost in half, and in the same line will cut the counting time almost in half, too.

According to Mrs. Pauline Petty, county clerk and the official in charge of election return collections, the final box here was not reported until 6 a.m. the following primary in 1952. (And the polls closed at 7 p.m.)

If the final returns from one county are not reported until 12 hours after the poll closing, the final state tabulation would accordingly be thrown even later with 254 counties to be contacted.

To the voters, the alteration of office tenure could be either a welcome change or a headache, depending on the candidates elected. Previously, if an incapable candidate slipped into office, the county could suffer through the two years, chalk it up to experience, and then try to elect a more efficient citizen.

Under the current statutes, though, the time of service is twice as long, and the period of suffering will be doubly painful, if the official proves to be the undesirable type.

The first primary this year will be held July 28, and the second primary — or runoff — on Aug. 25.

Compact Committee Members Named

AUSTIN, Jan. 28 (AP)—Gov. Shivers has appointed five persons to the Texoma Compact Committee and one director of the Neches River Conservation District.

Appointed to the Texoma Compact Committee were R. A. McDerby of Denison, Barney Gross of Bonham, Earl Fisher of Muenster, Burl Alexander of Fort Worth and Vernon Smith of Dallas.

The committee, which will include five Oklahomans, was formed by request of citizens of the Lake Texoma area to make uniform laws for the lake, Shivers said.

W. R. Beaumier of Lufkin, was appointed to the Neches River board, succeeding Millard Cope of Marshall who resigned. Beaumier's term expires Sept. 5, 1957.

Retail Grocers Short Course To Open Monday

Retail grocers of Big Spring are to sponsor a series of training sessions for food store managers and personnel.

The training will be conducted by Clyde Bennett, grocery training specialist for the extension division of the University of Texas. Sessions are set for Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights of this week.

The classes will start at 8 p.m. and will be held in the Chamber of Commerce conference room.

Co-sponsors with the local retailers are the Texas Retail Grocers Association and the Chamber of Commerce.

Bennett is a former grocer with 16 years of experience in that field. He is expected to cover many of the problems and responsibilities of the grocer.

Subject of the short course will be "Grocery Checking Procedures" and Bennett will discuss appearance, customer relations and other problems of the check stand operator.

"The training is designed to improve the services of food stores, both large and small," said Ted Hull, local grocer, on announcing plans for the short course.

A small enrollment fee will be charged for the course, Hull reported. Persons wishing to attend should report for the first class Monday evening.

Assists With Retreat

Dr. Jordan Grooms, pastor of the First Methodist Church, directed worship services, discussion groups and devotionals at a Christian Life Retreat for McMurry College students at Madge-Butman Camp near Merkel Friday and Saturday. About 25 students attended the retreat sponsored by Christian Foundation, a campus-wide student religious organization at McMurry.

Hospital Board Lists Gains In Care, Facilities

AUSTIN—Improved patient care and hospital facilities are reflected in the annual report of the Board for Texas State Hospitals and Special Schools for the fiscal year covering most of 1955.

For the first time in 10 years patient population in the mental and geriatric hospitals declined and the death rate continued the downward trend established in these institutions four years ago. Their average daily patient load was 14,312.

Tuberculosis hospitals reported slight increases in waiting lists, while new facilities were under construction at San Antonio and Harlingen, but cited gains in the caliber of medical staffs and a slight reduction in the number of patients leaving the hospitals without medical permission, which the Board admits still poses a serious public health problem.

The average length of stay of tuberculosis patients who left against medical advice was seven and a half months, while those receiving medical discharges averaged 20 months of treatment.

Overcrowding and the lack of enough qualified personnel appears to be still a major problem in the special schools which care for epileptics, mentally retarded of all ages, orphans, seniles, some blind and deaf and even Indian wards of the State.

Reporting on the special building fund created by the 51st Legislature from a cigarette tax, the board said in a five-year period $18,728,603 had been allocated to new construction and $5,671,397 to repairs and rehabilitation of existing facilities.

Elimination of fire and safety hazards shows progress. Total fire losses for the 23 institutions supervised by the board were set at $2,690 for the 12-month period on property valued in excess of $150,000,000.

$25,400 Asked In Suit For Damages

Mr. and Mrs. Claude J. Bess of Sterling, Colo., ask judgment for $25,400 in a suit for damages filed in 118th District Court against Mr. and Mrs. Willard L. Hunt of Big Spring.

The suit is the result of a traffic collision at Mobile and Airport Streets on Jan. 3, 1954. Negligence is alleged. The plaintiffs ask $25,000 for injuries suffered by Mrs. Bess and $400 for damages to their car.

Wonders Why Pet Is Stolen

To the Editor:

The following letter is about my blonde cocker spaniel that disappeared a week ago. I wonder why anyone will take some pet. Don't they realize how much the animal usually means to the owner? Would they really steal them if they really knew? So much of this is prevalent in Big Spring.

Lots of time a great amount of money, love and training are lost with the pet.

Isn't there anything that can be done about it?

I knew my dog was loose last Friday but I was watching him, but in a few short minutes he was gone. The collar was there but not the dog. I knew whoever took him must have been pet-loving people, and on that basis I ask them sincerely please, please bring our dog back.

Woodrow Wilson's Virtues Disputed

To the Editor:

The Town Meeting of the Air was good. However, I disagreed with the speakers relative to the virtues and praise they bestowed upon the late president Woodrow Wilson.

I am of the opinion that Mr. Wilson was one of the biggest war horses this country has ever produced. He did not intend to establish a real Democracy as he phrased it.

Texas Insurance Scandals Have Far-Reaching Effect

EDITOR'S NOTE: Ramifications of the Texas insurance scandal increase daily as investigations report further violations of state laws. By Steve of The Associated Press has been in close touch with developments 30 months. This story is a recap of the state's insurance troubles, steps planned to correct them, and political implications.

By BO BYERS

AUSTIN, Jan. 28 (AP)—Twenty-eight insurance failures in three years have set off one of Texas' most tragic scandals.

These have cost some Texans long-time savings, dealt the Texas insurance industry a financial blow, and cast a shadow over some political futures.

Neither the impeachment of the late Gov. Jim Ferguson nor the veterans land scandal involved personal adversity for nearly so many as has the insurance debacle.

The industry and the Insurance Commission are facing feverish efforts to reestablish public confidence. The commission hopes, through certified public accountant audits and a "searching" questionnaire to determine within a few months what companies merit confidence.

Receivership suits have been filed against only three life insurance firms since the war, and none has involved a loss to policyholders. Most of the costly failures have been in the casualty insurance field, particularly in auto liability policies.

Three failures caused the greatest furore, resulting in investigations, and set off impeachment demands. These were:

Texas Mutual Insurance Co. of Beaumont, Feb. 14, 1953.

General American Casualty Co. of San Antonio, June 16, 1954.

U.S. Trust and Guaranty Co. of Waco, Dec. 15, 1955.

Out of the collapse of these three have erupted charges against the Insurance Commission, the industry, the Legislature, and Gov. Shivers.

The general tenor of these charges has been that negligence in all these areas allowed a bad situation to develop and to continue too long after it became apparent.

Cries of improper lobbying and influence peddling have brought a strong demand for legislative action.

Charges have been made of conspiracy to commit fraud; bribery; misappropriation of company funds; false reporting of financial condition; false affidavits by bank officers making loans to companies; and "milking" of assets before receivership action.

Names of several persons appear in records of more than one failing company. These include A. B. Shoemaker of Waco who was involved in a bankruptcy back in 1938; Joe A. Irwin of Dallas; Ralph Hammonds of Houston; W. C. Brickey Jr. of San Antonio; and Ben High of Houston.

The last Legislature made more than 100 changes in the insurance laws that went into effect Sept. 6. The commission said the laws would give Texas a model code but that it needs more time to put them into full effect.

The new laws required larger surplus and capital; more frequent examinations; gave the commission power to look into management competence; and regulated insurance stocks and trust company securities.

Commission attorney Paul Connor said more laws are needed to confine activities of firms like U.S. Trust and Guaranty into one field: insurance, and not to allow dual operations such as insurance-banking.

U.S. Trust and Guaranty's collapse was the biggest in Texas annals. The company engaged in banking as well as insurance—a curious, hybrid-type operation which escaped close state regulation for a decade.

While Texas Mutual and General American Casualty's bankruptcies hit a hard blow to policyholders, U.S. Trust's demise threatened the savings of 5,600 depositors and nullified 140,000 policies.

Depositors may recover 70 to 85 per cent, but the process may take years.

Shoemaker, organizer of U.S. Trust and Guaranty Co. and seven interlocking affiliates or subsidiaries, sent a bullet crashing through his head Jan. 7 at his palatial Waco home. Yet he lived, unconscious.

Senate and House Committees are checking on U.S. Trust. Grand juries at Waco and Austin are looking for possible criminal wrongdoing. Port Worth and Tyler grand juries also are expected to check.

Federal authorities are inquiring into the possible mis-use of the mails.

If Shoemaker survives, investigators want to ask him questions like these:

1. How many lawmakers did he try to hire? Two senators have said that he approached them on accepting a retainer, indicating he was interested in legislative action. They said they turned him down.

2. How did Shoemaker escape receivership so long? Insurance Commission Chairman Byron Saunders said although U.S. was under surveillance in the spring of 1954, the commission never felt it had adequate evidence to justify a receivership suit.

The firm's license was never renewed after May 31, 1953, and the Waco company operated its last six months without a permit.

Saunders said the commission took advantage of one of the new Sept. 6 laws as quickly as possible to stop U.S. Trust's sale of certified drafts—the securities which the firm sold in exchange for the depositor's money.

Members of both House and Senate investigating committees have indicated they are not completely satisfied that the commission was justified in waiting so long to act.

3. What happened to $50,550 in cash withdrawals from accounts of U.S. Trust and its affiliates during 1954-55? Most of it was paid out just prior to and during the 1955 Legislature.

Sen. Carlos Ashley of Llano has testified he received a $10,000 retainer in cash to represent Shoemaker's company before the Insurance Commission.

The Insurance Commission admitted having U.S. Trust under scrutiny at least 18 months and said it thought as early as June 24, 1954, the firm was insolvent. The commission chairman has said Shoemaker talked the board into believing examiners were wrong, and it took more than five months before court action was begun.

When the new laws took effect Sept. 6, the commission said "every major loophole in Texas insurance regulations will be filled." The commission now concedes this has not proved true.

Some 49 Texas insurance companies have been placed in receivership since 1945 in the postwar era during which insurance mushroomed into a vast Texas industry.

The rate of company failure began curving sharply upward in 1953 and, during the past three years, receivership suits have been filed at roughly triple the rate before 1953.

Shivers and the Insurance Commission say this is added evidence of more vigorous enforcement of insurance laws.

In the spring of 1952, Garland Smith, the governor's administrative aide, became casualty insurance commissioner. He became life insurance commissioner and chairman in October, 1953, when Saunders joined the board as casualty commissioner. Mark Wentz, the fire insurance commissioner, was appointed by Shivers in May, 1954.

Succeeding Smith as chairman this month, Saunders finally assessed blame for the insurance situation in testimony before the House investigating committee.

He said the industry, the Legislature and the Insurance Commission should each take "a fair share of the blame"—the industry for not accepting responsibility for self-policing; the Legislature for not providing adequate laws, personnel and funds; and the commission for being "derelict in its enforcement."

Saunders said he was not referring to present commissioners nor to any particular commission or commissioner in the past. Neither, he said, did he have in mind any particular companies or Legislature.

His testimony thus left the implication that the blame for insurance troubles generally cannot be fixed, that it has been cumulative over many years.

Warnings were sounded long before the Legislature warned to the task of doing a major insurance reform job in 1955. Late in the 1953 Legislature, Rep. Hulen Brown of Midland charged that "thousands and thousands of dollars" had been "poured into the House of Representatives to defeat" a resolution to investigate how insurance was being sold on military bases in Texas.

A stronger warning came Feb. 16, 1954, in Travis County's 98th District Court. Placing two El Paso firms in receivership, Judge Charles Betts denounced certain Texas insurance laws. He predicted that unless the laws were changed to provide more safeguards for the public, "they'll blow the top off the Capitol."

He said he was referring particularly to special statutes for such companies as Lloyd's-type operations, county mutuals and reciprocal. He said the laws permitted wild "promotion" schemes and "invited disaster" for policyholders and stockholders.

He warned the industry that continued failure of many of these special companies would cause the public to lose confidence in regular, solid companies.

On Feb. 17, 1954, Insurance Chairman Garland Smith seconded Betts' statement. Smith denounced speculation in insurance funds with policyholders, rather than the organizers who stand to make a profit.

He criticized "the willingness of some banks to make loans to promoters." Lending of money by banks to give companies an appearance of solvency has been cited in a number of receivership suits and has involved banks in El Paso, Waco, Beaumont and Victoria.

Like Betts, Smith was telling the 1,400 insurance companies in Texas two years ago that the number of unscrupulous promoters was "relatively small" but large enough to smear the names of the entire industry.

Little public stir resulted. The first time the focus strong attention on Texas insurance came May 12, 1954 from an appellate court.

The Texas Mutual Insurance receivership attracted little interest until Justice Robert Hughes of the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals sounded off at Austin.

Hughes said the record in the Beaumont company failure was "replete with evidence of fraudulent and corrupt abuse of our insurance laws and gross if not criminal laxness in their enforcement."

Hughes' opinion called attention to evidence about Sen. William Moore of Bryan representing Texas Mutual before the Insurance Commission. Court records show Moore received at least $13,600 from Texas Mutual in 40 months.

Moore also was on retainer of about $200 a month to represent General American Casualty for about two years before its collapse in June, 1954.

Other lawyer-legislators who have been recipients either directly or through their law firms, of money from insurance companies have included Sens. Rogers Kelley, William H. Shireman, Kilmer Corbin, Warren McDonald and Jeph Fuller, and Reps. Bert McDaniel and Doug Bergman.

Sen. Gus Strauss of Hallettsville has said that his law partner once did some work for U.S. Trust.

At least two former legislators have drawn compensation from U.S. Trust. They are former Rep. Sam Sellers of Waco and R. C. Lanning of Austin, who was in the House and Senate and a former member of the state Board of Control by appointment of Gov. Shivers.

Sen. Searcy Bracewell of Houston has said Shoemaker approached him prior to the 1955 Legislature about a retainer. Bracewell said he turned down the offer.

Bracewell quit as chairman and as a member of the Senate investigating committee this month when the committee insisted on the right to hold closed sessions.

The House investigating committee started its inquiry last week. Rep. Wade Spillman of Mc-

Allen, chairman, and two others on the committee had experience checking the veterans' land scandal last year. They will use a similar technique this time.

Four insurance examiners are under suspension because of a $5,640,000 damage suit filed Dec. 30 on behalf of the defunct General American Casualty Co.

The suit alleges the examiners were involved in a giant conspiracy to commit fraud on the public and the policyholders. Suspended were chief examiner L. W. Blanchard, first assistant chief examiner Robert Butler, both of Austin, William Noad of Dallas, and Lee Pfefferkorn of Lockhart.

Irene Allred, discharged attorney for the insurance commission has testified he was opposed by the insurance commission in the summer of 1954 when he wanted to take action against Blanchard. He asserted the Blanchard incident is one of the few reasons he can think of for the dismissal.

He said the laws permitted wild "promotion" schemes and "invited disaster" for policyholders and stockholders.

Allred said there is evidence of fraud, bribery, corruption or negligence in at least eight receivership records.

Directors of the State Bar indicated concern about the retainer question by calling on local grievance committees to investigate all instances of alleged misconduct by lawyer-legislators.

The insurance industry, shaken by increasing buyer resistance against Texas policies, is searching for ways to reassure the public that the vast majority of companies are sound and trustworthy.

When Kelley of Edinburg telegraphed Senate and House investigators he has never to the best of his knowledge retained, or propositioned in any way, by anyone connected with U.S. Trust and Guaranty or its subsidiaries.

Rep. Wade Spillman of McAllen, chairman of the House investigating committee, made public the telegram, in which Kelley said he is willing to appear before either the Senate or House committee "whenever desired."

Kelley said he has not demanded and is not now demanding to be heard.

"I have not been involved in any way with the insurance firms or individuals involved in the investigation, other than being a member of a law firm which was employed to handle local routine legal matters for Shoemaker and his companies in this area only," Kelley said.

His name was first injected into the investigation of U.S. Trust and Guaranty's collapse when the state auditor submitted a report on persons and firms receiving pay from U.S. Trust or its affiliates during 1954-55. The report listed payment of two checks for $2,400 each to the firm of Kelley, Loomer, McLean & Littleton of Edinburg.

NIXON TO BRAZIL

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 28 (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who has been vacationing here for a week, will leave tomorrow to attend the inauguration of President Juscelino Kubitschek of Brazil.

Other nations are in the field. Canada, Belgium and Italy will have medium-sized nuclear power plants operating within the next few years. Concrete plants are being made by Sweden, West Germany and some Latin-American countries. Talks are now proceeding on a West European nuclear power pool. They may lay the foundation for rapid development here.

One fact stands out rather prominently: The United States, which built the world's first atomic pile, made the first atomic bomb and put into operation the world's first atomic submarine, seems to be letting itself get behind in the first stages of atomic electric power development. The Russians put into operation the world's first small atomic power plant in 1954. The British (unless beaten by the Russians) will put into operation this year the first big atomic power plant. The Russians have set a target for 1960 which is as large or larger than current estimates of prospective U.S. development at the same date.

Many Western experts have expressed the opinion that in research and knowledge the United States is ahead of any other country including the U.S.S.R. So far this has not expressed itself in peaceful atomic power "firsts."

Yarborough Raps Shivers For Insurance 'Collapse'

TYLER, Jan. 28 (AP)—Ralph Yarborough asserted today that Gov. Shivers is trying to blame what Yarborough called "the complete breakdown of morality and responsibility in his insurance commission" on the Texas insurance industry.

Yarborough said such a stand by Shivers is "a shocking confession of governmental incompetence." He suggested the Insurance Commission should resign at once.

The Austin lawyer, beaten in two races against Shivers, made his remarks in a statement prepared for a meeting of East Texas Democratic leaders.

"When the people of Texas know the facts, they will demand the resignation of this Insurance Commission and the governor who appointed them," said Yarborough.

Shivers charged yesterday that the "insurance industry itself has done very little to prevent the sit-

NIXON TO BRAZIL

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 28 (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who has been vacationing here for a week, will leave tomorrow to attend the inauguration of President Juscelino Kubitschek of Brazil.

Other nations are in the field. Canada, Belgium and Italy will have medium-sized nuclear power plants operating within the next few years. Concrete plants are being made by Sweden, West Germany and some Latin-American countries. Talks are now proceeding on a West European nuclear power pool. They may lay the foundation for rapid development here.

One fact stands out rather prominently: The United States, which built the world's first atomic pile, made the first atomic bomb and put into operation the world's first atomic submarine, seems to be letting itself get behind in the first stages of atomic electric power development. The Russians put into operation the world's first small atomic power plant in 1954. The British (unless beaten by the Russians) will put into operation this year the first big atomic power plant. The Russians have set a target for 1960 which is as large or larger than current estimates of prospective U.S. development at the same date.

Many Western experts have expressed the opinion that in research and knowledge the United States is ahead of any other country including the U.S.S.R. So far this has not expressed itself in peaceful atomic power "firsts."

Yarborough Raps Shivers For Insurance 'Collapse'

TYLER, Jan. 28 (AP)—Ralph Yarborough asserted today that Gov. Shivers is trying to blame what Yarborough called "the complete breakdown of morality and responsibility in his insurance commission" on the Texas insurance industry.

Yarborough said such a stand by Shivers is "a shocking confession of governmental incompetence." He suggested the Insurance Commission should resign at once.

The Austin lawyer, beaten in two races against Shivers, made his remarks in a statement prepared for a meeting of East Texas Democratic leaders.

"When the people of Texas know the facts, they will demand the resignation of this Insurance Commission and the governor who appointed them," said Yarborough.

International Race Is On To Develop Power From Atoms

By TOM WHITNEY
Associated Press Foreign News Analyst

The international race to develop large scale production of electric power from atomic energy is well under way. And it's going to be a very hot competition.

The Soviet Union by its recent announcement that it plans by 1960 to have in operation atomic electric power plants with a capacity of from 2 to 2½ million kilowatts has openly declared its intention to take the lead.

The Kremlin's principal rival is the United States. Estimates of the capacity of atomic power plants which America will have by 1960 runs from one to two million kilowatts.

Britain, with a well planned long-range program, is forging ahead rapidly. And many experts believe that West Germany once it gets started will make startling progress in this crucial field—possibly as the leader of a big West European nuclear power pool.

Here's the way the race shapes out now:

Four nations—the United States, the U.S.S.R., Britain and France—are building large nuclear power stations. The British expect to complete the world's first this year—but the Russians may well try to beat them to it. The first big American plant will be finished only in 1957 while France will complete its the same year or shortly thereafter.

Other nations are in the field. Canada, Belgium and Italy will have medium-sized nuclear power plants operating within the next few years. Concrete plants are being made by Sweden, West Germany and some Latin-American countries. Talks are now proceeding on a West European nuclear power pool. They may lay the foundation for rapid development here.

Shivers charged yesterday that the "insurance industry itself has done very little to prevent the situation which is now so damaging to the industry."

Attacking Shivers' statement, Yarborough said:

"The Insurance Commission of Texas is supposed to regulate the Texas insurance companies; those companies are not supposed to police the Texas Insurance Commission."

"There are 1,400 Texas insurance companies chartered under Texas law, and a vast majority of them are solvent and sound—but during the tragic breakdown of state government in Texas in the past six years of cronyism and corruption, this administration has permitted scores of fly-by-night stock selling schemes to be chartered as Texas insurance companies."

"This Insurance Commission should resign today. The governor of Texas, knowing of the facts, has denounced the insurance industry and commended his Insurance Commission."

Age Of 80 Doesn't Slow Work Of This Master Wood Carver

By TIM PARKER
Associated Press Staff

A. F. Strohmeyer, one of the Southwest's greatest wood carvers, is in his 80s and his hair is white.

Does that make him a white-haired old man?

"Me old?" he asks in a surprised tone.

"Look at me!" he exclaims with a broad sweep of his arm toward the wood carvings in his Dallas home and shop. "Here I am doing what I've always wanted to do. Why, I have five weeks of work backed up."

In other words, he's just too busy and interested to grow old.

His hair, for that matter, has been white for 40 years. His quick step, sharp blue eyes and erect figure deny his age.

He worries about young people instead of himself.

Young people he says, aren't willing to take great pains. "They aren't interested. They fidget."

A small slender man with close-cropped hair, Strohmeyer usually wears sport shirt and slacks while conducting his wood-carving business in his shop behind his house.

The 1½-story white, frame house is the same one he and Mrs. Strohmeyer moved into when they first came to Texas 35 years ago.

In those 35 years, Strohmeyer has given Texas much beauty. Some of his most recent works are among his best. They include stairways in luxurious homes, life-like statues, furniture, but most of all, church interiors.

You can see his work in Dallas' Highland Park Methodist Church, St. Matthews Episcopal Church, and Holy Trinity Catholic Church. He did all the carving for Neiman Marcus' downtown store and frets because a woman brought in from New York by the specialty store had some of it covered by a false wall.

Large pillars in the Caprock Hotel at Lubbock are among the works he is proud of. And life-size statues of The Lady and The Tramp—the lovable dog characters in a recent Walt Disney movie. Disney ordered the statues, liked them, and has ordered more.

Strohmeyer, son of a Wheeling, W. Va., cabinet maker, became a cabinet maker himself after rejecting a teaching career for which he was educated. He taught languages in a Tennessee "female college" for 18 months and that was enough.

He taught wood-carving in a Dallas high school for 15 years.

"Then they found out how old I was and I had to quit," he recalls with some bitterness. "Fortunately, most of my students stayed with me. They just transferred to my classes in my shop here."

Cary Middlecoff Leads Demaret By One Stroke

By BOB MYERS.

PALM SPRINGS, Calif., Jan. 28 (AP)—Cary Middlecoff moved into a one-stroke lead over Jimmy Demaret today as the pair swept further out in front at the 54-hole point of the $15,000 Thunderbird Invitational Golf Tournament.

Middlecoff registered his second successive five-under-par 66, preceded by a first-round 67, for a score of 199 in three rounds, and dapper Jimmy tagged right behind with rounds of 64-69-67 for 200.

Middlecoff was 14 strokes under par for the route as he and 41 other especially invited professionals played the par 36-55-71 Thunderbird Country Club under skies that were bright throughout the day.

Nearest to the leaders, who started out the day all even, was Julius Boros, whose 69 left him with six strokes to go to catch Middlecoff in the final 18 holes tomorrow.

Lowest score of the day was a 65 by Ted Kroll, but it left him in the rear at 211 in a tie with Mike Souchak (71), Bob Rosburg (66), Billy Maxwell (69) and Gene Litter (69).

Pat Stacey of the Hobbs team and Horace Busby, business manager of the Midland team, were in attendance at the conclave and each stated that the other cities in the circuit were all rooting for Big Spring to remain in the league.

Right now, the circuit has nine teams ready to go and none wants to surrender its franchise.

Dr. M. H. Bennett, one of those present, said he was all for Big Spring starting the season if the town can field a contending team.

Three second-division finishes in a row have hurt our interest here," he said, "but there is no reason why the fans wouldn't start coming back to the park if we could field a good club. The fans here are no different from those anywhere else. They like a winner."

Ted Grobel, another staunch supporter, echoed Bennett's sentiments.

Pepper Martin, who operated the franchise here last year, said out-right working agreements are hard to come by at first.

"Those things have to come gradually," he pointed out. "A major league team is not going to invest heavily in some town it knows nothing about. It wants to view

Heights Upset By Park Hill

Park Hill's Spartans upset College Heights, 12-8, in a Ward School Basketball League game played here Saturday morning. The score was tied at 6-6 after two periods.

Dick Ebling recorded eight points for Park Hill while Donnie Alexander and Jimmy Burk got two each.

For College Heights, Jimmy Madry led the way with six points.

In other games, North Ward won over Washington Place, 25-5; and East Ward outlasted Kate Morrison, 31-21.

In the North-Washington game, Dee Scaggs accounted for four points, Arthur Harper had two, Gus Ochotorena six, John Paul eight and Herman Wright two.

For the Colonials, Jimmy Hinds and Chap Smith each counted two.

Ernest Sample led East to its win, with 18 points. Tony Dutchover registered 17 for Morrison.

Earl Lane played a fine floor game for the Greens.

Al (Kosse) Hill Is Sold To Pioneers By Martin

Pepper Martin, who directed the Big Spring Longhorn League baseball operation last year, said Saturday he had sold Al (Kosse) Hill, ace of the Cosden Cougars, to the Pioneers of the Southwestern League for $500. The sale was unconditional.

Hill, who resides in Tyler, told Martin via telephone he would report to the Pioneers. Hill originally had planned to enlist in the U. S. Marines.

Martin closed the deal with Frank Bentes, Cosmo manager.

A limited service player, Kosse played here the past two seasons. He got off to a slow start in 1955, winning only one game in his first eight decisions. However, he wound up with a 15-13 won-lost record, considered very good for a pitcher that finished seventh in the circuit.

He was considered a control artist, having walked only 70 batters in 223 innings. His earned-run-average was 3.29. He was prone to throw the gopher ball, having surrendered 35 of them in 38 games, tops in the league.

Hill is the ninth ball player sold by Martin in the past year. Such deals earned him the reputation as the league's David Harum and enabled him to keep Big Spring in the league last year.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Jan Loudermilk is the first Big Spring sophomore to score more than 300 points in one basketball season... At the rate he's going, he'll bank more than 1,000 during his high school career, barring injury... That would easily be a school record... Johnny Johnson, the local schoolboy basketball mentor, says—in his opinion—District 1-AAA is far stronger in the round-ball sport than it was last year... He thinks even Plainview, the 1955 champion, might be better than it was... Bob Clindaniel, the Plainview mentor, says his boys might have repeated their 1955 successes had his tall boy, 6-foot-5 Clifton Hartley, come through... Clindaniel had no fewer than 85 boys working out up there earlier this season... Johnson, incidentally, would very much like to have glass backboards in Steer Gym by next year... He points out that the gyms of most of the teams in Big Spring's new district are equipped with them and his team will be at a disadvantage, using the present fan-shaped boards... Amarillo is expected to complete its new $375,000 baseball park by June 1... If I were in professional baseball, I wouldn't be envying the working agreements arranged by either Amarillo or Abilene... Amarillo will be getting help from Sacramento, one of the three-head clubs of the Pacific Coast League... Abilene will work with Kansas City, where the operators leveled with Our Town's Pepper Martin last year and said they were in no position to work with any team and wouldn't be for some time... What a shame Thomas Jefferson of El Paso and Palo Duro of Amarillo aren't in the same classification in basketball... The two teams appear to be heads and shoulders above every other outfit in the state... Jefferson has a stringbean (6-8 Albert Almanza) who scored 39 points in a recent game against Yaleta and he's only a sophomore... Harold Davis, the HCJC coach, scouted Big Lake in Coahoma the other night, only to discover the Owls' finest specimen is only a sophomore.

Malcolm Fowler Visitor Here Recently

Forsan's Lovelle Fletcher is supposed to have possibilities as a college girl cager... Of the Vernon players who showed here against Big Spring the other night, six are seniors but the most promising young man on the team, Mac Percival, is only a sophomore... Of the five boys who have been starting games for the Lakeview School basketball team, three are seniors and two are freshmen... Mark Reeves, a guard, clocked the most playing time in Coahoma High School football games last fall, followed in the proper order by Bill Tindol and Don Kenner... Pete Jenkins of Big Spring, brother to the former Lightweight champion, Lew Jenkins, and a flight trainer in his own right, says he didn't try to organize a Golden Gloves team here because of a lack of training facilities... He says he's been promised some help toward that end in 1957... Malcolm Fowler, the former TCU football back who now is an assistant coach to John Hamburger at Schreiner Institute, visited here this week to confer with Jerry Graves, Charley Johnson and Jerry Bar-

BS Li'l Leagues Not To Join Stotz

The local Little Leagues will remain affiliated with the national organization, rather than join Carl Stotz, the founder who bolted the affiliation and formed what he calls the Original Little League... Incidentally, the city has been rezoned for Little League ball and the American League boundaries have retreated from Goliad to Settles streets, which will enable the National League to tap more players this summer... The Little Leagues here, which wound up something like $400 in the red in 1954, finished with a bank account of better than $400 last year... They've already outgrown their concession facilities... Little League officials still plan to locate another park somewhere on the south side of town, in compliance with Little League recommendations... Coahoma's track hopes were punctured recently when the Bulldogs' best all-around trackster, Bobby Myrick, failed to clear a scholastic hurdle... Myrick could help the Bulldogs a lot in 1957, however... Advance ticket

Local Girls Win Odessa Tourney

ODESSA, Jan. 28, (SC)—Big Spring breezed to the championship in the first annual Queen Bee Volleyball Tournament here Friday evening... Staged by Odessa Junior College, the entry list was limited to B teams of the various schools... Eight communities were represented... The Sterettes vanquished Andrews in the final, 15-13, 15-11. Big Spring had kayaked Monahans, 15-5, 15-4; and Denver City, 15-5, 15-3, in that order to get into the finals... Andrews had hurdled Midland,

Hoss Regains Scoring Lead

Horace Rankin of the Tate, Bristol, and Parks Insurance Company team has recaptured the lead in the individual scoring race in the YMCA Industrial Basketball League with a total of 107 points... Nabors' Paint Store's Bill Bennett still boasts the highest average, however. He has counted 102 points in six starts for a 17.0 game average... McMahon's Charles Caraway is third in the scoring derby, having counted 95 points in seven contests... The leaders:

Russians Take Big Lead In Olympics

By TED SMITS

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy, Jan. 28 (U)—Russia's zephyr-like speed skaters and hardy women skiers shot the Soviet Union into a commanding lead for unofficial team honors today in the seventh Winter Olympic Games. America had nothing to cheer but a second-round hockey victory... Led by Johnny Mayasich of Evelyn, Minn., who scored two goals, the United States' ice hockey team registered a comeback 4-0 triumph over Poland and virtually qualified for the championship bracket of the Olympic tournament. The Yanks were upset by Czechoslovakia in their opening match yesterday, 4-3... But when the gold medals were handed out for the three latest championships, including the two-man bobsled event dominated by the reckless Italians, the red, white and blue colors were back in line... Eugenij Grishin, a 24-year-old Russian engraver who goes like the wind on ice, led a 1-2-4 Soviet finish in the 500-meter speed skating sprint with the world record shattering time of 40.2 seconds... A petite Russian blonde, Ljubov Kozyreva, won the 10-kilometer cross-country ski race for women, covering the 6 mile, 376-yard course in 38 minutes, 11 seconds as two teammates trailed at second and fourth... Lamberto Dilla Costa, a lean Italian jet pilot, streaked down Cortina's twisting bobsled run with two for four beats. He was followed by his 140-pound teammate, Eugenio Monti, with 5:31.45... America's bobsled hope, Waighman (Bud) Washburn of East Hartford, Conn., drove the U. S. No. 1 sled to fifth place with a time total of 5:38.16. The veteran Art Tyler of Rochester, N. Y., was sixth in 5:40.8 after barely avoiding a serious accident with a high swerve which injured his brake...

TOPEKA JOINS WESTERN LOOP

COLORADO SPRINGS, Jan. 28 (U)—Directors of the Western League today chose Topeka, Kan., as the eighth member of the Class A baseball circuit by unanimous vote on third ballot... Rapid City, S. D., also was bidding for the spot. A third city seeking the berth, Hutchinson, Kan., withdrew from the bidding earlier in the day... Topeka will take the place of Wichita, Kan., which pulled out of the league to go into the Class AAA American Assn. The Western operated as a six-club league last season after losing Denver and Omaha to the American Assn.

DUAL DUTIES

Bolin Of Knott A Busy Fellow

By TOMMY HART

Howard County quite probably has the only superintendent of schools in Texas who doubles as athletic coach... That would be Bill Bolin, who is in his fourth year as mentor at Knott High School... Bolin assumed his dual duties last September after J. T. Lowe resigned the position of superintendent. Bill made a special request to continue coaching... Either assignment would be a full-time job for any man, but Bolin took the added work in stride. He proceeded to give the school its first six-man football championship in history and, at this writing, his basketball team is in an excellent position to power its play into the state playoffs... A native of Lewisville, Texas, and a graduate of North Texas State College of Denton, Bolin arrived at Knott in 1952. The Billie football team, which had experienced some rocky going before that time, hasn't had a losing season since... In '52, his gridgers won six and lost four games. In 1953, they improved on that mark with a 6-3 record. They did still better the following season, winning seven while losing two and last fall they won eight and lost only three while sweeping all the way into the Regional finals... Last year, his basketball team finished in a tie for first place in District 19-B standings before losing to Forsan in a special playoff. Overall, the Billie bounce-ball team won 17 and lost six. This season, it is an overwhelming favorite to take it all... Knott goes in little for track because it does not have the proper facilities but Bill did take a stand-out pole vaulter, Phil Stovall, to the state meet last year... Bolin first learned about the Knott job by reading the bulletin board at college in Denton. The Knott superintendent had notified the school that the position was open... Bolin had never seen a six-man football game before that time and managed only to get to San Angelo for the Six-Man All-Star game before assuming his duties. It proved a rewarding experience... He found there was basically little difference in the games, and had no trouble making the change... Bolin gets worked up during an athletic contest but he maintains outward calm at all times. Needless to say, he is very popular with "his boys" and in the community which he works... Bolin played his high school ball first under R. E. Mattingly, now the coach at Bowie, and then under J. K. DeLay. He was football captain his final season... He lettered three years in football, first as a guard, then an end and finally as a halfback. He was a forward in basketball... Bolin spent 32 months in the US Navy during World War II, approximately 30 minutes of that time in the cold waters of St. Bernardine Straits off the Philippines Oct. 25, 1944... An aviation mechanic, Bill was aboard the small carrier, St. Lo, formerly the USS Midway, when it was struck by a Japanese suicide plane and sunk... He was one of 432 survivors of a crew of 1000. He managed to get aboard a life raft before sailors from the USS Dennis pulled him from the drink... He was paralyzed for about five days with a back injury and spent some 40 days in a hospital... He was awarded the Purple Heart, the Presidential Unit Citation, and a Second Battle of the Philippines medal for his tour of duty in the Pacific... Bolin spent last summer working toward his Master's Degree at North Texas... He is married to the former Doris Jean Zuppen of Lewisville. They have two children, Dana, age 5, and Brenda Kay, 18 months... Bolin may surrender his coaching duties next year to concentrate on administrative work, but it'll be hard to give up coaching, he admits.

Phillips Shows Gain In Income

Phillips Petroleum Company's net income for 1955 will approximate $95 million which is $19 million (or 25 per cent) greater than last year.

These are the estimates released last week by K. S. Adams, chairman, and Paul Endacott, president.

Estimated earnings per share were $5.54, based on the 17,427 shares outstanding at the year-end compared with $5.20 on a lesser number of shares outstanding a year earlier.

During 1955 Phillips scored a substantial increase in product sales. Gross income is estimated at $900 million or about $104 million.

Capital expenditures for the year were approximately $175 million, 1954.

"I believe that earnings for 1956 will exceed those for 1955," said Adams. "Capital expenditures should be close to $200 million."

Directors have taken action to ask stockholders in April to increase common stock from 20 million to 40 million shares and to change the common stock par value from no par to $10 par.

The board has no present intention of issuing any of the stock but prefers to have the additional shares available for general corporate purposes. The board declared a regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents per share payable March 1 to stockholders of record Feb. 3.

Rotary Rig Total Declines In Basin

Heavy rotary rig losses in seven Permian Basin counties pulled the area's total activity from 615 units on January 10 to 550 on January 25, reports Reed Roller Bit Company.

The semi-monthly survey showed big drops in Fisher, Nolan, Stone-wall, Crockett, Reagan, Upton and Ector Counties. The Eastern Platform areas of Fisher, Nolan and Stone-wall Counties dropped a combined total of 21. In the south portion of the Midland Basin, Reagan, Upton and Crockett Counties lost 26 of the rigs.

The other big drop, seven in Ector County, lowered the total in that area from 41 to 34.

Andrews County continued to maintain a fast pace, showing an increase of two for a total of 90. In other areas adjacent to Midland County, Crane showed an increase of six while Glasscock dropped from four to three, with Martin County steady with two units.

Lea County, New Mexico, the Permian Basin's second most active area lost three rotary rigs for an active total of 67.

Although the entire Basin area lost 65 rigs, the 550 still running was 61 higher than on January 25, 1955.

The Reed survey includes the following counties, with the previous totals in parenthesis: Andrews 90 (88); Borden 9 (7); Brewster 2 (2); Cochran 2 (3); Coke 5 (5); Chavez 4 (5); Crane 38 (32); Crockett 9 (15); Dawson 6 (5); Dickens 0 (3); Ector 34 (41); Eddy 3 (6); Fisher 9 (16); Gaines 35 (34); Garza 1 (5); Glasscock 3 (4); Hockley 3 (3); HOWARD 18 (20); Irion 2 (3); Kent 5 (4); Lamb 2 (1); Lea 64 (67); Lubbock 1 (1); Loving 1 (1); Lynn 1 (0); Martin 2 (2); Midland 27 (29); Mitchell 8 (8); Nolan 15 (24); Reeves 2 (3); Runnels 18 (22); Scurry 10 (12); Schleicher 4 (6); Sterling 2 (3); Sutton 2 (0); Tom Green 7 (7); Terry 8 (9); Upton 15 (26); Val Verde 1 (2); Ward 14 (18); Winkler 10 (9); Yoakum 11 (10); Spraberry 15 (27); Permian Basin 550 (615).

'PIG' IN THE PIPE Ingenious Device Keeps Line Interior All Clean

TULSA, Jan. 28 (AP)—Almost as old as the business itself, the oil pipe liner's "pig" is one of the most fascinating devices in an industry renowned for colorfully named gadgets.

It is an apparatus by which oil and gas transmission lines are kept clean and at maximum efficiency. Termed a "pig" from its appearance, it also has been called a "go-devil" because of its sound.

Pioneer pipe liners tried shaping wooden balls or plugs to the pipe's interior dimensions and placing them ahead of the line's oil column. These could be crushed or dissolved by friction.

Another attempt was a succession of correctly sized leather and sheet iron washers on a long bolt. Driven by strong pumps through the gummed pipe, this usually worked with some complications.

Because of its eerie noise, Pennsylvania Dutch farmers associated the device with witches and evil spirits. Hence the nickname "go-devil."

The "pig" tag was applied to a bristly, snout-like type now commonly in use. It's a snout-nosed contraption of rubber and steel washers or rollers, wire brushes and metal springs that fit the pipe tightly but is flexible enough to negotiate a line's curves and dips and to pass any minor irregularity inside the pipe.

The scraper is driven by the pressure of the oil or gas behind it, the bristles rotating and loosening deposits from the pipe walls. These are swept ahead by the "pig" until it reaches the scraper or "pig" trap, a sort of dead end in the pipe from which it can be removed.

Longs For Peace

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 28 (AP)—The Punjab government tells it this way: An alleged embezzler found his jail cell unbolted and its guard napping. But he spurned freedom and shouted demands that his door be locked.

"Now," he announced, "I can sleep in peace."

Field Closing Is Postponed

MEXIA (AP)—Action on a Railroad Commission order closing the Mexia oil fields because of pollution of the Navasota River has been postponed by a commission official.

An order was issued Tuesday after land owners along the river south of Groesbeck told Atty. Gen. Shepperd salt water from oil leases is being emptied into Plummers Creek, a branch of the river.

The order called for pipelines to be disconnected on all oil leases from which salt water is pumped into the creek.

A district representative of the commission said the order would affect all oil operators in the Mexia field. He said he would suggest that a state engineer be sent to study the field before any action was taken.

A committee has been appointed by the Mexia Chamber of Commerce to appear before the commission.

Second Industry Exhibit Planned

Plans are under way for the second Manufacturer's Exhibit to be held in Big Spring. Last year, there were 18 local manufacturers, fabricators, and processors represented in the exhibit.

Jimmie Green, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, said the number would probably be close to 25 this year. Purpose of this Chamber-sponsored exhibit is to acknowledge local industries and acquaint the citizenry with them.

Tentative dates for this year's exhibit are April 12-14. E. B. McCormick, chairman of the Chamber's Established Industries Committee, has charge of the program. Arrangements have been made to conduct the exhibit at the National Guard Armory.

All persons interested in participating in the show should call the Chamber of Commerce, Greene said.

Bill Concerns FPC The Most

By MAX B. SKELTON
HOUSTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Federal Power commissioners are among those most anxiously awaiting outcome of the Senate debate on natural gas.

A ruling by FPC led to the Supreme Court decision which prompted the controversial Harris-Fulbright Bill.

In June, 1954, the Supreme Court reversed an FPC ruling that the commission did not have authority to control natural gas prices in the field. The court held that such controls were a responsibility of FPC.

The House approved 209-203 last year the Harris bill removing gas producers from direct federal control. A Senate vote on the Fulbright version of the Harris Bill is expected next week.

George, At 78, Feeling Good, Is Optimistic

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga.) turns 78 tomorrow and on the eve of his birthday he reported:

"I feel better than when I was about 28."

"I was kinda sick then," he recalled.

The dean of the Senate and chairman of its Foreign Relations Committee cast an experienced eye on the world situation and told reporters that while it isn't a "very happy one" he does not think conditions are growing worse.

He repeated his view that a shooting war with Russia is becoming more and more remote, although he said the Soviet Union still has as its main objective: "World domination."

Asserting the Russians have changed their tactics in recent months, George said:

"They have abandoned their military operations and the danger of a hot and shooting war is becoming more and more remote."

In its stead, he said, Russia is building up trade with Egypt, India, Burma, Pakistan and Afghanistan.

"They're sending in trained propagandists as technicians," he said. Just what this country can do about it, he continued to wait "until we're in a better position to know what they're driving at."

Domestically, George said he thought the general economy is good but he said one real breakdown is in agriculture and its related activities.

"Agriculture is not in a good way," he said, and added: "The administration is too slow in recognizing conditions. The President's farm program has some virtue but it doesn't offer very much direct or immediate relief to the farmer."

George said he is worried about the nation's farm surpluses, although he thinks the President has overemphasized these.

"I have some idea," he said, "Russia would know what to do about such a situation. Surpluses are not an unmixed evil: sometimes they're a great blessing."

If Russia had these surpluses, George said, "I have a feeling they would put them to great use as an economic weapon."

Rites Today For Mrs. R. E. Foust

LAMESA, Jan. 28 — Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. today at the Welch Church of Christ for Mrs. Robert E. Foust, 42, who died Friday of a bullet wound.

Mrs. Foust was found dying by her husband when he returned from Lamesa, where she had sent him for medicine for an illness she had suffered. She had been ill for several years.

Foust called an ambulance, but she died before it arrived.

Justice of the Peace Jim Edwards of Lamesa returned a verdict of death from self-inflicted wounds. He said Mrs. Foust was struck by a bullet from a 22-caliber pistol.

Mrs. Foust's mother, Mrs. W. E. Maberry, died earlier in the week.

Billy Joe Leach will officiate at last rites and interment is to be in the Lamesa Memorial Park under direction of Higginbotham Funeral Home. Mrs. Foust is survived by her husband, her father, W. E. Maberry of Lamesa; and four sisters, Mrs. Max Enriken of Seminole, Mrs. W. W. Myers of Lamesa, Mrs. Jack Addison of Welch and Mrs. Milton Addison of Brownfield.

Jaycees Will Honor Bosses

Big Spring Jaycees are to stage a "bosses banquet" Monday night in the Settles ballroom.

Each Jaycee is to bring his employer or some other guest. A turnout of around 60 persons is expected.

E. A. Stumpf, Houston, state Jaycee president, will be the principal speaker. Goodwin Simpson of Colorado City, state vice president, also will be on the program.

John Taylor, local president, will outline achievements of his group for the past year and a gift will be presented to the member of the organization selected as "Jaycee of the Year."

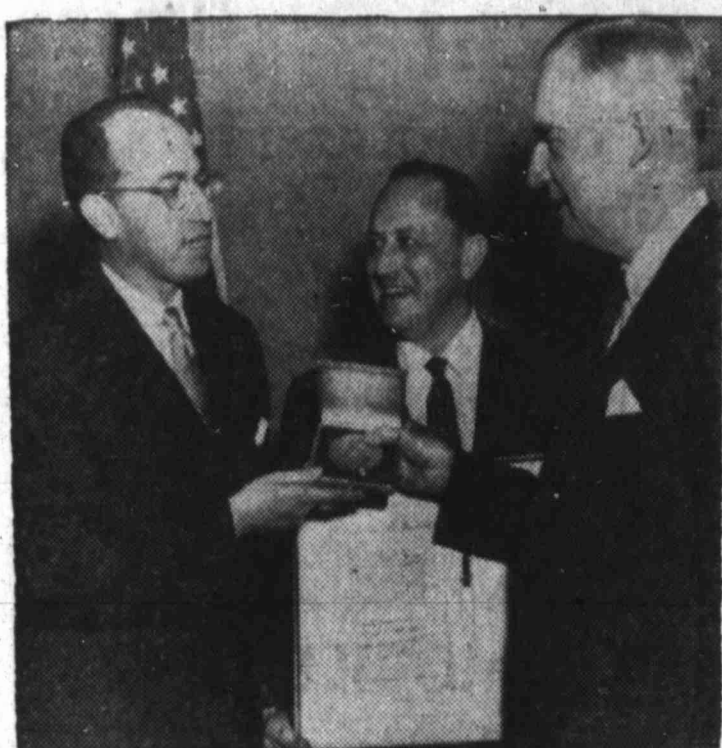

Invocation is to be by Dr. P. D. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist Church. Oliver Cofer will be master of ceremonies.

The banquet starts at 7 p.m. Monday.

All Crash Victims Off Critical List

Wanda Cowan, seven-year-old Sweetwater girl, was reported off the critical list at Big Spring Hospital Saturday. The little girl was one of eight persons injured in an automobile accident Wednesday afternoon on Birdwell Lane at Fourth.

The mishap involved a car and a Coaden truck. Driver of the truck was not injured but all eight persons in the automobile were taken to the hospital. Wanda was the last to be declared off the critical list. All the patients were reported in improved condition Saturday.

Medal For Dr. Salk

1000 At Meeting Of Cub Pack 100

About 1000 were in attendance Friday night at the St. Paul's Presbyterian Church at the monthly meeting of Cub Scout Pack 100. Nine Cub Scouts received awards at the meeting.

Two Cub Scouts, Arthur Farris and Dennis Collins received their Bear rank, while one-year pens were given to Dana Butts, Charles Neese and Clyde Gregory.

Receiving Bobcat badges were Dennis Errands, Bruce Bellamy, Ronny Pierce, and Morgan Gafford.

Refreshments were served by the mothers of Den 5 of the pack. Five dens are in the pack.

Commissioners' Pay Hike Illegal

ABILENE, Jan. 28 (AP)—Five percent raises voted Jan. 9 by the Taylor County Commissioners Court for county officials have been held illegal.

All money paid under the action will be refunded.

The commissioners voted themselves and all other county officials the pay raise without having given necessary 10-day notice in a newspaper of general circulation, County Atty. Lee Sutton said yesterday.

Sutton told County Auditor Herbert Middleton further payments would be illegal.

Candidates Decide On New Hampshire

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 28 (AP)—Will Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) enter New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation presidential primary? Will Adlai Stevenson risk an indirect battle with Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) in a state generally regarded as Kefauver territory?

The answers to those two questions, currently clouding the March 13 primary, are expected to come tomorrow as the result of simultaneous meetings 20 miles apart.

There's an abundance of circumstantial evidence to indicate that the answers to both questions could well be "yes," but there are other signs pointing to possible negative decisions, at least in regard to the Knowland candidacy.

The Senate minority leader is expected to give his reply in person at Manchester, the state's largest city, where he will hold a late afternoon news conference and deliver an evening banquet address.

The role which Stevenson will play in New Hampshire will be determined at a meeting of the 1952 Democratic nominee's supporters in Concord.

As of now, the winners of this state's previous presidential primary—President Eisenhower and Sen. Kefauver—are the only names entered in the preference poll section of this year's contest. Other potential candidates have only three more days to climb aboard before the Feb. 1 filing deadline.

The preference poll was added to New Hampshire's presidential primary for the first time four years ago, when Eisenhower defeated the late Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) and Kefauver upset President Harry S. Truman.

The poll, in which voters express a direct choice for their presidential candidate, is by law only "advisory" for national convention delegates, who are elected in another section of the ballot.

Three Knowland supporters already have filed as delegate candidates favorable to him and one is circulating petitions designed to place the Californian's name in the preference poll if he wishes. As it has since the filing period opened two weeks ago, the shadow of President Eisenhower hangs heavily across the Republican ballot.

Will the President, who has said he does not object to entry of his name in the preference poll, seek another term? If he does, he will have no intraparty opposition in New Hampshire.

Tonsillitis Is Most Prevalent Infection

The weekly report compiled by the city-county health unit shows that tonsillitis was the most prevalent disease during the past seven-day period.

Forty-six persons were bothered by tonsillitis during the week, while the next highest number was 35 cases of pneumonia.

Upper respiratory trouble affected 30, and diarrhea cases totaled 22. There were 16 cases of gastroenteritis.

Five cases of influenza were recorded and there were four of chickenpox. One case each of gonorrhea, mumps, and trenchmouth completed the list.

More Men Home From Pacific Area

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 28 (AP)—The transport David Shanks arrived today from Manila, Guam and Kwajalein with 257 Navy men, 88 Air Force, 67 Army and 3 Marines.

Four transports are due next week with service men. They are the Fred Almsworth, on Monday, from Honolulu; Gen. Edwin Patrick, Monday, from Taiwan, Yokohama and Okinawa; Marine Adder Friday from Inchon, Yokohama and Okinawa; and the Gen. Daniel Sultan Saturday, from Kwajalein and Guam.

JUST THE RIGHT PLACE TO RELAX—is this corner in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Schwarzenbach, 637 Manor Lane, where she and her mother, Mrs. Anna Whitney, at left, have a chat. Deep, comfortable chairs blend nicely with the brown, coral and turquoise of the attractive cafe curtains, with the latter color again picked up in the carpet of brown, beige and turquoise.

ESPECIALLY FOR FUN—are the fireplace and smaller grill in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Guin, where Jane seems to be preparing something good to eat. An attractive feature of the fireplace is its concave shape, rather than running straight across. The fun room, of which this is a part, is finished in soft grayish green walls, with matching draw draperies over a wide expanse of windows.

AN INSIDE GARDEN—can always be enjoyed by the Tom Guins and their children with this planter, which forms the divider between the living room and the foyer. The louvered door in the background is one of a pair, making a closet for coats and hats. The beamed ceiling, using fiberglass, admits light in a soft glow. Fiberglass also fills in each side of the door. (Photos by Keith McMillin)

New Homes Emphasize Convenience, Comfort

A COMBINATION OF THE OLD AND THE NEW — is to be found in the Schwarzenbach home. Modern in every element of comfort and convenience, the home graciously uses the family heirlooms as ornaments. The lovely plates are over 100 years old. The silver service and butter bowl are at least 100 years old, as is the pickle jar, for which Mrs. Schwarzenbach is holding the fork. LOOKING FROM THE DEN—into a most interesting location, the kitchen—aren't they, always! Walls and cabinets are of white pine, finished in a rich honey shade in these rooms of the Byron Lillie home at 1719 Harvard. In an experimental mood, Mrs. Lillie had the canopy over the stove lined with formica in a shade to blend with the wood. Pretty, too, as well as being easy to keep clean!

MRS. DON RICHARDSON

Don Richardson Takes Miss Smith As Bride

In the home of Mr. and Mrs. Finis W. Vaughn in Lubbock, Peggy Smith of that city became the bride of Don Richardson, 604 Aylford, Saturday evening.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. M. A. Smith of Lubbock and M. A. Smith of Bassett, Va. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Hazel Richardson at the Aylford address.

Rites were held before a fireplace decorated with a garland of greenery interlaced with flowers. The bride was in a gown of white tulle and lace, and the groom wore a tuxedo. The ceremony was officiated by the Rev. Carlos McLeod, pastor of Carle Baptist Church.

Cecil Bolton, organist, accompanied William R. Gelsert, as he sang "Through the Years," "O, Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mike Smith Jr. The bride wore a gown of white tulle and lace, and the groom wore a tuxedo. The ceremony was officiated by the Rev. Carlos McLeod, pastor of Carle Baptist Church.

Miss Brown Honored At Bridal Tea

Sallie Brown was honored at a bridal tea Friday evening in the home of Mrs. Rosa Callahan, with Mrs. Garland Sanders, Mrs. Dudley McKaskle, Mrs. C. M. Roberts and Mrs. G. E. Webb as cohostesses.

Miss Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Brown, 608 W. 18th, is the bride-elect of Glenn Sutton. The couple will be married on Feb. 10.

Receiving guests were Mrs. Callahan, who presented the honoree. Miss Brown chose a princess style frock of pink tulle with matching pumps. Her jewelry was of rhinestones and she wore a white carnation corsage. Others in the receiving line were Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Sanders.

Mary Beth Stratton and Claudia Reed alternated at the register. Serving was done by Mrs. Mickey Casey and Sylvia Bentley, and Mrs. Roberts displayed the gifts. All members of the house party wore corsages of white carnations.

The tea table was laid with a lace cloth and a theme of pink and white was featured. An arrangement of pink carnations and white stock held tiny pink tapers. Napkins were in silver with the names of the bridal couple inscribed. Pink and white mints were in the shape of small wedding bells.

About 50 attended the tea.

Lutherans Honor Ministers Friday

A fellowship dinner was held Friday night at St. Paul's Lutheran Church to welcome the new pastor, the Rev. Wayne Dittloff and his family, and to acknowledge the services rendered by the vacancy pastor, the Rev. C. E. Kleber of Lamesa.

A package of assorted grocery items was presented to the Dittloff family. A gift was given to each member of the Kleber family.

All the officers of the church and the members of the Ladies Aid Society were recognized. Reports were given from the department heads.

In a special free-will offering for the building fund, $1,011 was collected and $900 more was pledged.

Special recognition went to Mrs. Mickey Carroll for providing flowers for the altar for many years.

'ROUND TOWN

With Lucille Pickle

MR. AND MRS. GLENN SMITH will be in Odessa Monday evening to attend the wedding of Nancy Templeton and Roscoe Holt but more specifically to see their granddaughter, Sharon Sue Smith, who will be the flower girl. Sharon Sue is four and a half years of age and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Smith Jr. The ceremony is to be read at 7:30 in the evening at the First Baptist Church. Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Smith, who are attending Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene, plan to be present at the wedding also.

MRS. GROVER GOOD came in for her share of the tributes Thursday evening when her husband was honored by the YMCA. It was fitting that her first orchid corsage should come to her on such an occasion. It was brought to her from El Paso by her daughter, MRS. CECIL BEAN, and it was the gift of one of Mrs. Bean's dearest friends, Mrs. Vida Hawkins of Las Cruces, N. M. Mrs. Good's sister, who was also here for the banquet. She has returned to her home, as has Mrs. Bean.

MRS. RAY FORTSON who has worked closely with the Y's general secretary for several years was attractively dressed in a deep blue velvet sheath with a single rhinestone ornament at the throat. MRS. MAUDE WATERS wore a striking hat that was the whitest white with a jeweled ornament on the peaked top. MRS. CLYDE THOMAS was at the banquet, the first time I have seen her since the arrival of the newest little Thomas, Marion Harton.

This is strictly personal, but to me, MARGARET FRYAR looks like a younger edition of MRS. W. A. HUNT who in my opinion is a pretty good edition to resemble. With all the good will and warm friendship that was evident at this particular affair the most heartwarming thing were the talks made by the young people. Big Spring may fall short on a lot of good things but we're not falling short on fine young people. I wish I were one of them.

MR. AND MRS. ZACK GRAY, Linda and Robbie, visited with Dr. and Mrs. James Whitney in Dallas last weekend. The Whitneys are former residents here, he being the first president of the Optimists.

Last summer, when she was Janice Nalley, MRS. RUSSELL SCOTT visited in London while en route to the YMCA World Conference in Paris. In a few months, she will be seeing a lot more of it and this time the visit won't be a hurried one. Lt. Scott is being assigned by the Air Force to England. Mrs. Scott is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Nalley.

Speaking of Europe, we had the pleasure of talking to our niece, Mrs. Dean Todd, in Munich, Germany, last week and it was a real thrill to hear her. Her parents, MR. AND MRS. PAUL RIX, lived here when they were first married. They, with their daughter, Connie, are making plans to go to Germany late in May or early June. They make their home in Odessa.

Wilbur E. Barnett, son of MRS. JOE BARNETT, has been confined to USPHS Hospital, 15th Ave. and Lake St., San Francisco, Calif. He has had treatment for tuberculosis and is now convalescing and will be confined for several months. All moved in an nearly straightened out are the JIMMY RAY SMITHS who have recently bought a new home at 400 Birdwell.

Here to help J. B. PICKLE celebrate birthday anniversary No. 80

were MR. AND MRS. J. P. LANCASTER and their three children of Kermit, and Bishop Bailey Lida and Janet, of El Paso. All have returned to their homes.

Approximately 150 civilian wives joined members of the Officers' Wives' Club at the Webb Air Base for tea and bridge this past week. It was a benefit affair sponsored by the OWC. The women at the base wanted to meet more women from town and also show off their new lounge at the Officers' Club. Those who attended say the lounge is perfectly beautiful.

GEORGE BASS, who is secretary to A. C. LaCroix at the T&P offices, is also a fair hand with the coffee pot as those who attended the Texas & Pacific ladies' MOD coffee Wednesday can testify. Mr. Bass made the coffee for the benefit affair which was well attended and I understood the "take" was very good.

MRS. ARTHUR PACHALL, T&P Safety Council president, greeted guests in a two-piece navy wool with a white Peter Pan collar. Her pumps were navy and her jewelry was of pearl and rhinestones. MRS. W. F. TAYLOR, who was a guest, wore a knit suit in Dior blue which was topped with a short jacket of oyster white. Publicity chairman, MRS. SAM BARBEE, wore a charcoal suit with a white blouse. MRS. HARRY McDermott, in whose home the coffee was held, chose a black crepe dress with figures of pale coral and chartreuse. The skirt was full and was sparsely dotted with sequins. The small collar was trimmed with sequins. Her smoky coral earrings were a perfect complement to her dark hair.

Auburn-haired MRS. R. F. FALCON wore a brown two-piece polished cotton with brown accessories. Her yellow earrings just matched her corsage. MRS. C. L. RICHARDSON looked nice in a charcoal sheath of polished cotton, the wide collar of which was white linen, embroidered at the edges. The frock buttoned the full length of the back.

This wasn't just an affair for women as far as the T&P men were concerned. More than twelve of the men took time off from their various jobs and took their "coffee break" with the ladies and dropped their pittance in the pot, so to speak.

Don't forget to call when you have some visitors, if you plan to go some place or if you hear from someone who lived here at one time. I'm still interested. Call 3-2543.

OWC Hostess For Newcomers' Coffee

Ninety-two attended the Newcomers' Coffee for the Officers' Wives' Club in the lounge at Elbe Hall Friday morning.

Organ music was furnished through the serving hours by Lt. C. O. Bonelli. Mrs. W. W. Dunning introduced Lt. C. H. Webb Jr., personnel services officer, who explained the various helps offered through his office such as ceramics, golf, base theatre and library. He also played two piano selections, "Jealousy" and "Autumn Leaves."

After a brief welcome to all newcomers, Mrs. R. G. Thompson, first vice president of the OWC, announced that there would be a tour of the base for the wives on Feb. 14.

Hostesses for the coffee were the wives of the Maintenance and Supply.

Main Feature Of New Homes Is Informality

A house built especially for the convenience and pleasure of the family is the one recently occupied by the Tom Guins, on Indian Hills Drive.

Spacious closets in every available space make storage no problem at all, and shelves in the bedrooms display family hobbies. Colors here are pleasing greens, ivory and beige.

Most popular space of the entire house is the large family room, planned for dining, viewing television, for meetings or parties, or for just plain loafing.

Joined to the kitchen with a pass-through, the fun room is finished in a soft grayish-green with a fireplace of brick bordering on a rose shade. Draperies of pink, black and gray blend nicely here and pick up the pink and gray of the marbledized formica on the kitchen work spaces.

Of especial interest is the foyer, formed with a brick planter and a beamed ceiling, with fiber-glass making a translucent section of the living room. The glass is repeated in sections on each side of the front door.

Another new home where informality is a pleasing note is that of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Schwarzenbach, 637 Manor Lane.

The Amor wood makes a most attractive background for the ranch oak furniture used throughout the home, with the exception of that in the bedroom of Mrs. Anna Whitney, mother of Mrs. Schwarzenbach.

In this bedroom, as in the others, pale yellow walls blend with curtains of gray and green, of green and sand, and of brown, turquoise and coral. One bath is decorated in yellow; the other, with a lovely wide mirror over a vanity, is in pink.

Carpeting throughout the house is a blend of brown, beige and turquoise. The latter shade is picked up pleasingly by a pool in the living room and by other furnishings in the remainder of the house.

The kitchen and dining nook are done in warm copper and brown, with a luscious shade of pink formica and linoleum. A Dutch door leading into the front entrance adds interest to the room.

Furnishing the home of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Little, 1719 Harvard, is an event which is going to be prolonged over a period of time. They know exactly what furniture they want, and they expect to add

Norma Jones, Lt. Patterson Take Wedding Vows In Base Chapel

In an informal ceremony, wedding vows were exchanged by Norma Lou Jones and Lt. Robert Stevens Patterson, Saturday afternoon in the chapel at Webb Air Force Base.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones, 1908 Johnson, and Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Patterson of Elmhurst, Ill.

Father W. J. Ludlum, chaplain at the base, officiated for the double ring rites, held before a background of baskets of white stock and carnations in combination with emerald fern. White tapers completed the scene.

Mrs. Omar Pitman, organist, accompanied Mrs. Don Newsom as she sang "O Lord, Most Holy" by Cesar Franck, and "Sancta Maria" by Allan Caron. She also played the wedding marches, "Marche Nuptiale, No. One" for the processional, and "Marche Nuptiale, No. Two" for the recessional. Both are by Caron.

Mr. Jones gave his daughter in marriage. Her wedding gown was of white Chantilly lace over tulle, fashioned along princess lines, with a mandarin collar. Long fitted sleeves, fastened with tiny self-covered buttons, tapered to petal points at the wrists.

A swing skirt, extremely full, was attached to a fitted bodice, and a modified crown, frosted in pearls, held a waist length veil of illusion.

Frenched white carnations were backed with lace leaves and white satin ribbon for the bridal bouquet, which was centered with tiny pink sweetheart roses.

Attending her sister as matron of honor was Mrs. Harold C. Martin, while another sister, Beverly, served as maid of honor. The two attendants were identically attired in frocks of blue antique-tulle. Styled on princess lines, the dresses featured low necklines with points and pushup sleeves.

Half hats were made of velvet coils in the shade of the dresses. White wrist length gloves completed their costumes, and their flowers were pink carnations and tulle, showered with satin ribbons.

Serving as best man was John Kenneth Patterson, of Elmhurst, Ill., brother of the groom. Groomsman was Lt. Kenneth J. Vandewalle. Guests were seated by Lt. William J. Epperson and Lt. Jim Lancaster.

At a reception in Ellis Hall, the bridal couple received, assisted by their mothers and the bride's sisters, Mrs. Martin and Miss Jones. Arrangements of white stock and carnations decorated the reception suite.

On the bride's table, covered with an imported lace and cut-work cloth, the floral arrangement was of white carnations and silver fern. A petite nosegay of carnations and lily of the valley topped the bride's cake.

The cloth for the bridegroom's table matched that of the bride, with a similar arrangement centering it. Serving was done by Mrs. J. K. Carter of Midland, Mrs. Jim Zack and Mrs. O. F. Priest Jr.

Iris Jones, sister of the bride was at the register. Other members of the house party were Mrs. Ralph McLaughlin, Mrs. Jim Long, Mrs. G. R. Stewart of San Antonio, Mrs. Vandewalle and Dot Caudle.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Bill Condra of Austin, James McEllen of Elmhurst, Ill., John V. Addison of Lincoln, Neb., Mrs. Jewel Bowen of Midland, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hardy Jr. of Lubbock, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Brunson of San Angelo, Mrs. E. B. Kiser and Mrs. W. A. Davis, both of Pecos.

For a wedding trip to Las Vegas, Nev., the bride chose a linen suit in a coffee shade with brown alligator pumps and bag and a brown hat. Upon their return, the couple will live at 1509 Chickasaw.

The bride, who is a graduate of Big Spring High School, attended Howard County Junior College. She is a member of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority and is employed by Texas Electric Service Company.

The bridegroom was graduated from York Community High School, Elmhurst, and attended Purdue University. He is now an instructor at Webb Air Force Base.

Following the rehearsal Friday evening, a spinster party was given for Miss Jones in the home of Mrs. Jim Zack. Mrs. Carter and Mrs. Priest were cohostesses.

Gifts were presented to the honoree in a unique manner, with each guest "discarding" an article or garment being worn at the time. Games were played and refreshments were served.

Twelve attended, including Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Patterson.

She illustrated her talk with typical Japanese arrangements which included the Japanese Classical, the Moribana, the Nagirebana, the naturalistic and the traditional. These were displayed for close examination following the lecture.

Suit Of Quality Shows Good Taste In Design

A Mangone suit is a spring "must" and here it is with all the quality and agelessness that Mangone represents. In typical good taste, it has a lowered collar, which is face flattering, and a pique detail that buttons onto the jacket opening. Svelte from shoulder to hem, this meticulously cut model has slash side pockets, a straight skirt with a back slit.

If you prefer to wear it as a two-piece dress, it can be made without a lining. In the fall you can make the petal tabs in velvet and continue to enjoy wearing it all year 'round. Choose suiting wools, faille or other silks with body, pique or stiffish cottons. This pattern is cut to DESIGNER MEASUREMENTS, not Standard Pattern Measurements.

Size 12 bust 35, waist 25, hips 36 inches; size 14 bust 36½, waist 26½, hips 37½ inches; size 16 bust 38, waist 28, hips 39 inches; size 18 bust 40, waist 30, hips 41 inches; size 20 bust 42, waist 32, hips 43 inches.

Baby Flies Along With Mom And Dad

SALINA, Kan. (AP)—Five-month-old Valerie Moore is almost equal to her mother in the luggage compartment of a small airplane as in her crib.

This is only fitting, since Valerie was born into an air-minded family. Her grandfather runs a flying service here. Her father is a flying instructor and her mother, an attractive, 18-year-old brunette, is working toward a private pilot's license.

Mrs. Carol Moore, who met her future husband at a flying lesson, takes off two or three times a week to accumulate the necessary hours of dual, solo, and cross-country flying for her license.

She solved the baby sitter problem the simplest way, by taking Valerie along. Just pop the lot into the baggage compartment, made snug with blankets and pillows, and zooms away.

"Once we start flying," Mrs. Moore says, "the motion of the plane hushes Valerie to sleep. I don't see how she sleeps through some of my landings, though."

Bridal Date Told At Tea In Stanton Home

A white organdy cloth covered the table where an arrangement of red sweetheart roses in a crystal holder emphasized the bride's colors of red and white. Centering the roses was a small cupid holding a heart with the wedding date inscribed.

Cranberry punch was served with white frosted cakes resting on lace-paper hearts.

Mrs. Simpson greeted guests and presented Miss Chesser, Mrs. Chesser and Mrs. Bridges. Cohostesses were Mrs. Margaret Moffett, Mrs. P. M. Bristow and Mrs. Phil Berry.

Miss Anderson Is Wed To Prentiss D. Peak

MRS. PRENTISS PEAK

LAMESA — In a candlelight ceremony read in the Lamesa Church of Christ, Omalee Anderson became the bride of Prentiss Duane Peak Saturday evening.

The couple's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Homer Lee Anderson, 1308 N. 1st St., and Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis Peak, 3705 39th St., Lubbock.

Norville Young, minister of the Broadway Church of Christ in Lubbock, performed the double ring ceremony, assisted by W. T. Hamilton of the Lamesa Church of Christ. The arch of greenery was flanked at the sides of the double candelabra and baskets of white stock and carnations.

The wedding chorus from the Broadway Church of Christ sang "At Dawning," "Because," "I Love You Truly," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Dorothy Jean Beal attended as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Anesae Pritchett and Stephany Stephens. Flower girls were Amy Anderson, sister of the bride, and Marta Kennedy of Lubbock, cousin of the bridegroom.

The bride attendants were dressed in three tones of blue designed on similar lines with fitted bodices and full waltz length skirts with matching accessories. They wore long white gloves and carried arm bouquets of white carnations.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore an imported bridal satin gown accented with Chantilly lace fashioned with a yoke of lace outlined with seed pearls. The long sleeves that came to points over the hands were fastened with satin covered buttons extending to the elbow. The fitted bodice was joined to a waltz length skirt, designed of satin and panels of lace.

Her French silk veil of illusion was caught to a tiny hat embroidered with seed pearls. She carried a white orchid.

Candle lighters were Donna Fritz, cousin of the bride, and Don Garner.

Alton Herring Peak of Lubbock attended his cousin as best man. Groomsmen were Jack House and Melvyn Barham, and ushers were Norman Womack and Roland Myers all of Lubbock.

The Delphian Club house was the scene of the wedding reception. Assisting in the house party were Kay Acuff, Nancy Henry, Janice O'Neill and Kathryn Koger.

Following a wedding trip, the couple will be at home in Lubbock. For traveling the bride wore an imported cinnamon embroidered linen two-piece dress with white and tan accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Mrs. Peak is a Lamesa High School graduate and is now attending Texas Tech where she is a freshman majoring in elementary education.

The bridegroom was graduated from high school in Lubbock and is also a freshman in Texas Tech majoring in commercial art. He is employed at Peak's Imperial Cleaners.

String Ensemble To Present Woman Pianist Saturday

The leading woman pianist of Italy, Ornella Santoliquido, will appear with the Virtuosi di Roma Saturday evening at 8 p.m. in the City Auditorium. This is her first time to make the tour of the United States with the group.

This string ensemble is the third presentation of the Big Spring Concert Association, and admission will be by membership card only as for the two preceding programs.

Renato Fasano, the present director, brought the group together from various cities of Italy. This was done after a search for musicians who were artists in their own right. He required that each be a soloist on his chosen instrument, as well as being able to blend his talents with the ensemble to make a pleasing combination.

The ensemble includes six violins, two violas, two cellos, one contrabass, one flute and one piano.

A Bible Thought For Today

Here Goes Some More County Road Money

You will have to delve pretty deep to reach the economic reasoning behind some recent moves on the part of the county Commissioners Court on its so-called road program.

It has been but a few months since an engineer's request for various types of machinery to carry on road building and maintenance was turned down. He was asking too much, said the Court.

And now, with no engineer and no concerted program, there is a vote to purchase a power loader that could cost around $15,000. Has this need developed so suddenly? What brings about the change in so short a time?

But the matter of the machinery purchases takes a back seat to the proposal for road-building. While some members of the Court — a majority of them, at one instance — clung to the belief that no county engineer is needed, it develops now that an arrangement is pending to employ outside engineering, for a fee, of course.

Some 20 miles of new road construction is proposed, if right-of-way is obtained. On two pieces of this construction, or about 10 miles, outside engineering would be used, on the other two projects the "county" would do the job. There may be some differences in the projects, but these haven't been explained. Why engineering on some of the projects and not on others? It is estimated that the professionally engineered mileage would cost a total of $80,000 to $100,000. The engineering fee would be 7 per cent, plus additional cost for inspection. It seems a fair estimate that this service would cost Howard County at least $7,000, for the engineering.

This, we submit, would go a long way toward the employment of a full-time engineer, whose year-around direction would be for building permanent roads. Surely it must be a coincidence, but it develops that the four planned segments of permanent roads break down to about five miles per precinct. This means that each commissioner is getting an identical share of improvements. We like to hope this is where the improvements are needed most.

The simple truth of the matter is that at least two members (and sometimes three) of the Court have consistently obstructed attempts to put the road department on a unified, business basis, despite two election verdicts instructing them to employ an engineer and set up an integrated department. The only conclusion to be reached is that some of these gentlemen are not about to turn loose a little political plum that comes from hiring a few workers and dragging a few roads in the right places.

If at one time they had the argument that an engineering department was costly (and this was never proved, because it never had an opportunity to produce), then they have thrown out their own argument by proposing to employ outside engineering at a fancy cost.

Yes, you have to delve pretty deep to reach the economic reasoning. We haven't gotten that deep yet.

The newest idea is nothing more than another grab at something which is not going to produce to any satisfaction. Howard County is not going to get full value for its road money until a well-planned program is mapped, and is put into trained professional hands for competent execution, with two-bit politicking excluded.

The people of the county will be looking to their own interests if they ascertain definitely from all Commissioner candidates this year how these candidates stand on a business-like road program. And then vote for those who will put one into effect. A differently inclined majority on the court might be the answer.

When A President Becomes Disabled

Saying that when he was in the hospital he thought a lot about the problem of a disabled President, Mr. Eisenhower last week gave his blessing to a study by Congress of how to resolve the doubts which exist on this question. There is, as we know, no law which says how it is to be decided whether the President is disabled, or any law about how, if he recovers, he is to resume his powers.

It was clearly enough the intent of the authors of the Constitution that Congress should lay down the rules by statute. It is clear enough, too, that while the founding fathers did not go into all phases of the problem, what they meant was that the President, if ill and disabled, should pass his powers—but not his office—to the Vice President, and that there should be no question of the President's being able, if he recovers, to take back his powers.

It is a curious thing that Congress has never enacted the law which the Constitution calls for. Part of the reason for this, no doubt, is until President Eisenhower's illness last autumn, there have been only two cases of a more or less disabled President. The first case did not come until ninety years after the government was founded, when until 1881 when President Garfield, who was shot on July 2, lingered on in great pain and virtually unable to read or write until he died on Sept. 19. The next case was that of President Wilson who was stricken in 1919, was for a considerable period disabled and then made a partial recovery.

Congress has not acted, partly because the cases of disability have been quite accidental, so few and far between. There is, however, another reason. It is that men have shrunk from the notion of making it possible that a President could be deprived of his office. The time has now come, however, when the problem, which is by no means insoluble, should be taken in hand.

At the outset, it will be a good idea not to feel that our choice is either to do nothing to regulate the problem or to find a perfect solution for the hardest conceivable case. A solution which would have worked in the cases of Garfield, Wilson and Eisenhower would be worth the trouble of enacting it. It is not necessary that the solution should also work in some imaginary case which was very subtle and elusive.

There are two cardinal questions. The first is who shall determine whether or not the President is disabled. The second is who shall determine whether the President has recovered and whether, in the words of the Constitution, the disability has been removed.

There are, I believe, two principles which make these questions answerable. The first principle is that the Vice President shall never be more than a temporary acting President as long as the President is alive, that the Vice President shall never be permitted to take the oath for the office of President, and that the law shall be unequivocal about the Vice President's duty to step aside if the President's disability has been removed.

Congress can and Congress should clarify once and for all the status of the Vice President. Everything will become easier when that has been done.

The second principle, which ignores the hypothesis of a deranged President, is that the President himself shall be appointed by the statute the one to determine whether he is disabled and whether he has recovered.

There is, quite evidently, no difficulty about this in cases where the President, though disabled, is conscious and is able to affirm his own inability. Nor could there be any difficulty about his recovering his powers. If he is able to reclaim them, he must be presumed able to exercise them.

The somewhat more complicated case would be the one mentioned by President Eisenhower himself—when the President was unconscious and "unable to determine his own disability." Here someone must act for him, as a trustee. I see no need for any complicated machinery. Whether or not the President is conscious is a question of fact about which it is hard to imagine any serious differences of opinion. It would seem to be enough to authorize the Secretary of State, with the advice and consent of the Cabinet, to certify the President's disability. If there were any doubt about it in the White House, how could any Secretary of State possibly conceal the doubt? The basic principle, that the President is the judge of his own disability, would remain in that, if the President regained consciousness and recovered from his illness, he would still have the unequivocal right to resume his powers.

A statute based on these two principles—that the Vice President should not become President, and that the President is the judge of his own disability—would resolve a very large part of the doubt which now exists.

PHOENIX (U)—There was an ominous silence from the back seat of Mrs. Frank Burke's car. She looked around to see her son Randy, 4, peering down the throat of his sister, Linda, 7.

"What are you doing, Randy?" asked Mrs. Burke.

"I'm playing doctor," Randy replied. He was.

Seconds later he came up with one of Linda's front teeth.

Point Of View

J. A. Livingston Economist Sees Sustained High Level Of Business

WASHINGTON (U)—"Don't overlook this. He was right in 1955." That's how an experienced Washingtonian summed up President Eisenhower's Economic Report to Congress for 1956. It's a way of saying, "Don't sell Arthur F. Burns short."

Burns can be described as Eisenhower's "economic man." He's chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. And he was one of the country's outstanding optimists last year.

He didn't about his views. He always measured his words, ever mindful, as one of the country's outstanding students of the business cycle, that cycles sometimes take strange bounces. Thus, the January, 1955, report said: "A continuation of rapid economic growth may reasonably be expected." Then the President—and Burns—went on to prophesy an increase in the total output of goods and services from $360 to $500 billion in the 1955-63 decade. And a year later, the President is able to announce:

"We have reached the threshold of a 400 billion dollar economy." In one year, 28 per cent of his 10-year prophecy has been realized! Vigorous expansion was accompanied "by little change in the average level of prices" (see chart). In spite of year-end cross-currents, the President concludes: "The underlying trend is still upward."

What's back of this judgment? And how much weight should you give it in forming your own judgment on the economy's future? The answer, go back to the beginning of 1955. The 1953-54 recession was history. The Federal Reserve Board was worried about too easy credit. The stock market was booming. There were two important questions: Would the 1955 automobile sell? And would business men come out of their shells—would they invest in new plant and equipment?

Burns, after seeing the 1955 cars, was satisfied they'd go over. This wasn't an economic judgment. This was a consumer reaction. He also was satisfied that if cars sold and if business expansion continued, it couldn't be long before managers of railroads and industrial companies would find themselves short of plant and equipment, and would expand. He was right on both counts. Now a switch has occurred. As the Economic Report points out, the economy is operating "close to full capacity"; expansion is "bound to proceed at a slower rate; and declines have lately been under way in housing starts, automobile production, and other activities."

But these declines "are amply offset by increases elsewhere," notably in "business investment." Thus, the steel industry plans a billion-dollar expansion program in three years. Railroads have piled up orders of freight cars. Machine tool orders have soared.

How dependable are these plans and orders? The recent weakness in the stock market, the uncertainty about the 1956 election—Will it run—all contribute to an agonizing reappraisal of capital expenditures. Further, anyone who has analyzed business behavior in the United States knows that at the slightest downturn in sales, business men who had been pushing like a 70-mile-an-hour wind to get new plant built, suddenly permit builders to take it easy, slow down on needed manufacturers for equipment, or decide to abandon projects altogether. "Maybe we won't need the new facilities after all."

History, however, can be a faulty guide when differences are greater than similarities. American industry has a new consistency. Corporations are much larger and stronger, financially, than in the 'twenties. They have planning departments. They look upon expansion during lulls as a boon, because:

1. Top executives can pay close attention to the problems of building new plant or installing new equipment — they're not so busy pacifying customers who aren't getting deliveries or cajoling suppliers for material.

2. It's smart, costwise, to build when building materials are easy to get, when manufacturers of machinery are not swamped with orders and short of help. Spacing out capital investment has become part of the American way of doing things.

Thus, the Economic Report concludes: "Taking recent developments all together, it is reasonable to expect that high levels of production, employment, and income will be broadly sustained during the coming year, and that underlying conditions will remain favorable to further economic growth." Inference: Spending by business will be an important influence in arresting a contingent slump in consumer goods sales, just as last year the boom in consumer spending, turned business spending around.

The Apostle Paul wrote these words while a prisoner in Rome not long before the headsman's axe brought an end to his courageous career. He was not sentimentalizing. His life showed this attainment: Prisons, beatings, shipwrecks, persecutions could not weaken him, the honors of men did not turn his head.

In a day in which human ingenuity has reached its climax in devising aids to comfort on the one hand and implements of destruction, on the other, comes this imperturbable voice out of the past—"I can do all things in Him who strengthens me." In Christ alone is our hope.

PHILIPPIANS 4:13-14 - "I have learned, in whatever state I am, to be content . . . in any and all circumstances I have learned the secret of facing plenty and hunger, abundance and want. I can do all things in Him who strengthens me." (RSV)

The Apostle Paul wrote these words while a prisoner in Rome not long before the headsman's axe brought an end to his courageous career. He was not sentimentalizing. His life showed this attainment: Prisons, beatings, shipwrecks, persecutions could not weaken him, the honors of men did not turn his head.

In a day in which human ingenuity has reached its climax in devising aids to comfort on the one hand and implements of destruction, on the other, comes this imperturbable voice out of the past—"I can do all things

The Rev. and Mrs. Wayne Dittloff and their three sons came a long way to accept the ministry of the St. Paul's Lutheran Church. For the past year and a half, Rev. Dittloff had been the pastor of the church in West- ton Springs, S. D.

The Dittloffs are natives of Wisconsin. Before the preacher entered the seminary to study for the ministry in Springfield, Ill., he had been an electrical contractor, an IBM operator and a member of the U. S. Navy for two years. He has been a minister for three years. He is to preach his first sermon here this morning at 10:30.

"It is rather soon to make any definite plans here, but I do in- tend to expand the church and there are plans for a new building in the future," Rev. Dittloff said.

The three sons are Wayne, 16, Todd, 13 and eight-year-old Lyle. Wayne collects old coins; Todd is interested in radio mechanics and stamp collecting, while Lyle likes all kinds of toys.

Fishing and camping out is a hobby enjoyed by the entire family. The Dittloffs said they did a lot of camping and fishing in the lakes around Wisconsin.

Lyric Going Dark After 44 Years; Old-Timers Invited To 'Farewell'

Big Spring's first "real" movie house is going dark.

After 44 years of continuous presentation of film, from the soundless, monochrome days of the "flickers," the Lyric Theatre at 110 East Third Street is being closed.

Tuesday night, January 31, marks "The End" for this film palace which was for years the only place of such entertainment in Big Spring.

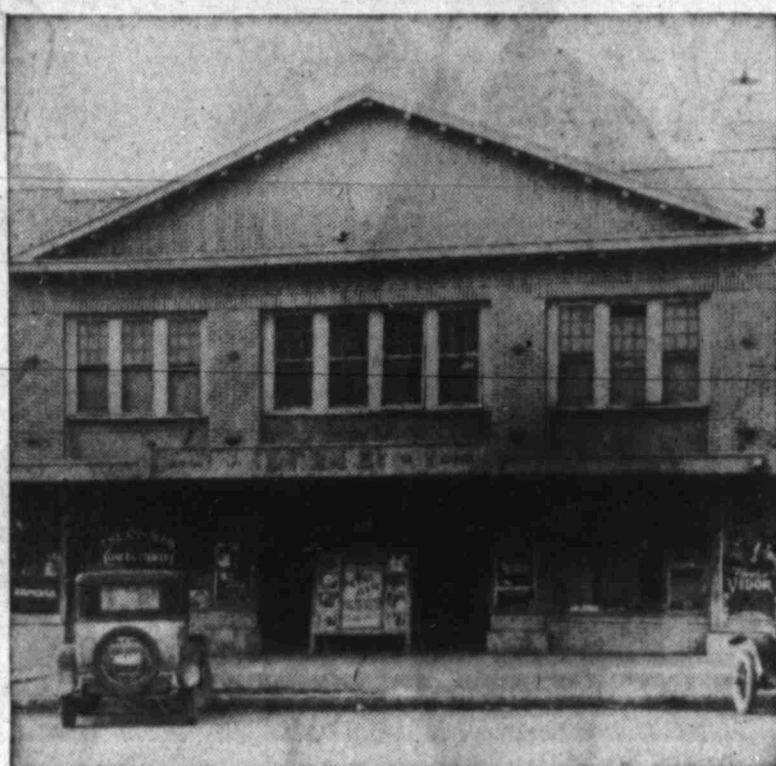

Fittingly enough, the closing program will be, not one of today's color and ultra-dimensional productions, but a favorite of years gone by. Featured will be one of the great Cecil B. DeMille's spectacles, "King of Kings." It stars, some may recall, H. B. Warner and Joseph Schildkraut. It will be in black and white, and will be silent.

The management has announced that the closing had been determined because the Lyric building is not adaptable to installation of today's modern wide screen, special-lens projectors and stereophonic sound systems, and that it feels that higher quality offerings can be screened at the other downtown houses, the Ritz and the State, which are modernly equipped.

Further, it was said that the Lyric building, which is available for lease, could be adapted as a good merchandising location, to enhance the downtown business section.

It was in 1912 that the Lyric Theatre was opened by the late I. J. Robb. For the final three days' closing program, the Robb family is inviting to be the theatre's guests, all persons who were in Howard County in 1912. They can come at any time they like, and perhaps bring back some old time memories.

Memories like the time when there were brought here such spectacles as the first "Quo Vadis." Like "The Birth of a Nation," and "Way Down East." The latter two,

THE EARLY DAY LYRIC
First in West Texas to be built for motion pictures

Incidentally, were special "road shows," with accompanying orchestras.

Or memories of Saturdays when Hoot Gibson or Tom Mix "packed 'em in." Or when there were such famous players as Billie Dove and the Talmadge sisters, Wallace Reid and Harold Lloyd.

Or like the time a forthcoming thriller called "The Bat" was advertised in advance by releasing an artificial flying mammal over the heads of the audience, to startle them out of their seats.

For regular films of the time, the Lyric was equipped with one of those massive Wurlitzer orchestral combinations, which ground out tunes to match the action the first Lyric at the corner of Third and Main, where Zale's Jewelry is now located.

Opening of the "new" Lyric was an occasion in the town. Here was a building seating 400 persons, with specially designed projection booth, with the "buzzard's roost" balcony, with special musical device, and with fancy windows, which opened—French-style, at the push of a metal pole—to give what was then up-to-date air conditioning.

There was even some sound at the old Lyric. It was an Edison phonograph mounted near the screen, and its records were controlled by a string attachment operated in the booth. When synchronization got out of hand, movie and records were stopped until order was restored. One projection machine, too, meant that there was a bit of a lag between reels.

The brick-fronted Lyric, regarded as a "show place," was flanked by the inevitable candy kitchen of the times, and these were the focal gathering place for many of the young folk of the time. The late I. J. Robb presided at the ticket booth, and J. Y., among other chores, ran the projection machine.

For some 12 years, the Lyric was the only movie house in the town. The Robb family added the Queen, on Main Street, in 1924, then in 1928 came the Ritz, first of the houses to be built for sound.

The present State (with the Texan, later closed) were acquired by the Robbs in 1947, and the first drive-in, the Robb Theatre, in 1950. In 1952 came the Jet drive-in. And, during the years of growth, the north side Rio was added.

While the Robb interests at one time were affiliated with the R&R Theatre circuit, the Big Spring properties have always been independently owned and operated by the family. They represent one of the oldest continuously operated businesses in Big Spring.

British Humor Evidenced In 'Doctor In The House'

English films usually have one point in their favor just because they are not from Hollywood. "Doctor In The House" has received kudos from all over this country for its new type of humor and brilliant acting talent.

Kenneth More, Dirk Bogarde, and Kay Kendall play the leads in this picture which is set for the Ritz this week.

It is the story of some irresponsible medical students as they each try to frolic their way to becoming doctors. The story is told from the viewpoint of a serious student who gets several zany students for roommates and then medical school becomes a side line while they have a good time. The whole film is a spoof and is entertainment for all the family. It will play Wednesday and Thursday.

First Run Films On State's List

The State is offering three first run pictures this week. Starting today, a story of the Mau Mau terrorists in Africa is the subject of the picture. It is "Simba, Terror of Mau Mau."

Peggy Castle and Frank Lovejoy star in "Finger Man" Wednesday and Thursday. It is the story of a bottlelegger who turns out to be a helper of the FBI, who is trying to catch a "most wanted" criminal.

"Toughest Man Alive" stars Dane Clark as a secret agent for the U.S. security bureau. He helps to break up a plot to start a revolution in South America. The film plays Friday and Saturday.

10 Calves In 3 Years

DURANT, Okla. (U) — Bryant County Agent John Stogner believes a cow owned by Mark Mills has established a world record. In three years, the cow has given birth to 10 calves. They came as quadruplets, then triplets, then a singleton and last week it was twins.

Tony Curtis As Fighter In 'The Square Jungle'

Tony Curtis carries the lead and Ernest Borgnine and Pat Crowley are the supporting stars in "The Square Jungle" at the Ritz Friday and Saturday.

Curtis plays the part of a boy who turns to a career in boxing in order to pay a fine for his father who is in jail for drunkenness. He is so good at it, that he is easily talked into becoming a full time boxer.

He hires Ernest Borgnine to be his manager and works himself up to the middleweight championship. Love and boxing never run smooth and Curtis' girlfriend, Pat Crowley, leaves him when she learns that his father is a drunkard.

Three years later, when he is champion, he tries to win Curtis back. But he is too smart for her and runs around with another woman. He becomes unpopular, however, when he seriously injures another boxer in a bout.

Gradually, he wins over the fans and his girl to his side through serious good-humored actions. Paul Kelly is also starred in the picture as a tough, but friendly, cop. Borgnine will be remembered for his role in "Marty," an Academy Award contender for 1955.

Newspapers Have A Record Year

NEW YORK (U) — The trade publication Editor and Publisher reports that the nation's press had its best "volume" year in history in 1955, with big gains in both advertising and circulation.

E & P, releasing figures yesterday from its annual yearbook, said total advertising lineage increased more than 10 per cent last year despite a "modest increase" in rates.

Daily newspaper circulation jumped by more than a million copies to a total of 56 millions, largest gain since newsprint rationing ended in 1946.

The publication predicted a continuation of the upward trend for 1956.

'The Square Jungle'

Tony Curtis and John Day fight it out in this scene from "The Square Jungle" set for the Ritz Friday-Saturday. The picture is the story of a young boy who fights to raise money to get his father out of jail.

Ladd, Robinson Among Stars In 'Hell On Frisco Bay' At Ritz

Four accomplished stars start off the film entertainment this week at the Ritz in "Hell On Frisco Bay." The picture is filmed in CinemaScope and WarnerColor.

Alan Ladd plays the type part that first won him fame in Hollywood. He is a gun totin' detective, set to have vengeance for a frame-up that put him in the penitentiary. Edward G. Robinson is starred as gang boss which is also his historic type of role. Robinson is one of the older stars in the film colony and he became famous for the cigar in his mouth and the gun in his hand.

Paul Stewart, a good supporting actor, plays Robinson's right hand man and the woman in the plot is Joanne Dru. Like the other three, Miss Dru's list of accomplishments would cover a considerable number of pictures.

Ladd plays an ex-cop who is on a hunt for revenge. He has just completed a five-year sentence on a manslaughter charge. He was innocent, but big-time politics got the better of him.

He is more successful routing out his enemies and he kills a few and sends the rest to jail. He disdains the aid of his wife who has been unfaithful and gets the help of an old police friend to track down Robinson.

Several killings and fights result before Ladd can get the facts that Robinson did the killing Ladd paid for. Meanwhile, Robinson adds a few more to the list to build up a really strong case.

Everyone in the picture gets to shoot a gun and the dramatic ending has Ladd struggling with Robinson in a speedboat. Fortunately the lurching craft hits a piling and sinks which gives the police boat a chance to catch ex-cop Ladd and Robinson.

CinemaScope and color give the picture an added lift, but the plot is about the same as other earlier "cops and robbers." The picture will play through Tuesday.

'Hell On Frisco Bay'

Alan Ladd, Paul Stewart, and Edward G. Robinson star in "Hell On Frisco Bay" at the Ritz starting today and playing through Tuesday. The picture is filmed in CinemaScope and WarnerColor.

Don't Keep Pace With Police Car

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (U) — Joseph Browning learned yesterday that there's no speed limit for police cars. But he learned it the hard way. He was fined $25 in traffic court for keeping pace with a squad car doing 35 miles an hour in a 25 mile-an-hour zone. Patrolman George Weber remarked, "A lot of people think they can drive as fast as a police car is going, regardless of the speed."

Wanted: Teacher Who'll Row Boat

HARLAN, Ky. (U) — Before the nearby Jesse Creek School can reopen, one of two things is needed—a new bridge or a teacher willing to row a boat. The bridge leading to the school was broken down recently by an overloaded truck. James A. Cawood, county schools superintendent, said yesterday, "We just can't find any teacher who will row a boat across the river."

CHARLES JOHNSON

Charles Johnson is holder of the senior-of-the-week title. Active both in school and church organizations, Charlie is parliamentarian of the Key Club and president of the Senior Sunday School Class at the First Methodist Church.

Sports top his list of favorites, and an evident result of this is his active participation in a great number of sports. A three-year football man, he held the position of first string quarterback on the "A" team last fall. Charles claims football to be his favorite sport. Charles was selected by the team to be co-captain of the basketball team. He plays the positions of pitcher and infield in baseball, and also plays golf, pool and tennis.

After graduation, Charles plans to enter the Naval Academy at Annapolis if his appointment is granted.

Kenda McGibbon and Bennie Compton spoke for today's youth at the appreciation dinner given by the local YMCA at the Corden Country Club Thursday evening honoring Grover C. Good, a man whose life has been thoroughly dedicated to youth and "Y" work. Mr. Good served as general secretary of the local Y until this month.

Helping compose the huge turnout for the occasion Clyde McMahon, Janet Hogan, Sandy Sloan, Val Jean LaCroix, Cecilia McDonald, Margaret Fryar, Marlene Mann, David Dibrell, Kenda McGibbon, Wade Simpson, Mary Sue Hale, Bennie Compton, LeRoy LeFevre, Gay Bounds, Melva Turner, Wesley Grigsby, and Tommie Jo Williamson.

YMCA Week has been in effect for the past week. One of the main goals carried by this special emphasis on "Y" work is to acquaint the public with the work done by its staff and organizations. Margaret Fryar and Johnny Janak partly composed a panel discussion of the program heard over KBST on Tuesday. Sue Boykin and Rodney Sheppard were members of the YMCA Forum which was heard Thursday over that station. Open house was held at the "Y" on Monday night. Parents and visitors were invited to attend the program, which consisted of skits presented by the four HI-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs, and refreshments served by members of Feta Tri-Hi-Y No. 1.

Carol Glenn was master of ceremonies. "When My Nellie Went Away," a skit by the Sophomore Tri-Hi-Y, featured Mary Lane Edwards, Brenda Barr, Barbara Coffey, Trissy Ford, Susan Landers, Brenda Gordan, and Lynn McMe-hen. A second skit describing a men's fashion show was presented by the Sophomore Club. Wesley Grigsby, Lanny Hamby, Johnny Roy Phillips, Wendel Brown, Avery Falkner, and Julius Glickman participated in this act.

A trio that is swiftly growing in popularity, Johnny Janak, Ronnie King and Walter Dickenson, entertained with several numbers. This was from the Senior HI-Y. Eunice Freeman also sang several songs as entertainment from the Senior Tri-Hi-Y. Julie Rainwater accompanied both numbers.

Refreshments were furnished by the Senior Tri-Hi-Y, and members of that club acted as hostesses. Red and white ribbons carrying the message: "Count on Me for Church Emphasis Week" were worn by BSHS students and faculty Wednesday for an assembly in which 14 ministers from the Big Spring Pastors' Association visited the school. Dr. P. D. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist Church, was chosen master of ceremonies. Each minister, when introduced, announced the time schedule of the services offered by his church.

An invitational state-wide speech conference in Corpus Christi is being attended by six members of the speech department. The group left Thursday morning for four days filled with touring the King Ranch boat riding in the Gulf, and seeing a play which features the Dublin Players. A portion of the time, of course, will be given to the speech conference. The group making the trip are J. T. Baird, Gary Tidwell, Rodney Sheppard, Don Shore, and Mr. Dell McComb, speech instructor.

A faculty breakfast was given Tuesday morning at 7:45 in the home economics cottage at which the men did the cooking. Mr. J. B. Whitely, assistant principal, was presented a parting gift in appreciation of the work he has done for BSHS. Mr. Whitely has been employed by the University of Texas.

Final plans for the Follies of '36 are taking shape. The entire cast has been chosen, and the program has been mapped out. Julie Rainwater is musical director of the Follies, while J. D. Adams is cast director, and Rodney Sheppard is student director. Mr. Dell McComb is director. Included in the various acts will be numerous performers. The following are members of the cast: The "Old Maid," a tap routine, will consist of Toni Barron, Sue Barnes, Sylvia Mendolia, Cecilia McDonald, Sue Boykin and Darlene Agee. The Can-Can and chorus consists of Jackie Johnson, Londa Coker, Barbara Shields, Sue Boykin, Lou Ann White, Janet Hogan, Sandra Webb, LaRue Casey, Val Jean LaCroix, Joyce Horne, Sue Arrick, Nancy King, Jean Robinson, Barbara Dunham, and Carol Rogers.

The theme around which the musical will be based is "Oklahoma," and vocal arrangements are being worked out by Eunice Freeman, Gary Tidwell, Walter Dickenson, Ronnie King, Patsy Potter, Rebecca Powell, and the Triple Trio. Proceeds will be equally divided between the Student Council and the Speech Department.

Londa Coker and Carol Rogers were surprised Wednesday with a birthday party given by Barbara Shields and Annette Boykin, at Barbara's home. Sue Barnes, Sue Boykin, Lou Ann White, Anita Gardner, Nancy King, Jean Robinson, Dianne Green, Jackie Johnson, Helen Gray, Kay Jamison, Donna Shirley, Janet Hogan, Jacqueline Smith and Cecilia McDonald were included in the guests.

Friendly competition is being challenged by Home Economics classes for the task of selecting a dream boy from the clubs. Since money is the deciding factor for the winner, each club is busily raising the "precious stuff" by means of selling candy, sandwiches, apples, ebook books, cupcakes — and even ice cream! The contest began Thursday and will wind up at 4 p.m. Tuesday.

The candidates for FHA Dream-boy are: Club No. 1, Ronnie King, first period; Johnny Janak, fourth period; Maxie Carey, fifth period; and Dennis Jones, sixth period. Miss Edna McGregor is instructor of the club.

Mrs. Annen's Happy Homemakers' Club has the following candidates: Stormy Edwards, first period; Gary Tidwell, second period; and Johnny Janak, sixth period. David Dibrell, Tommy Roberts, and John Westbrook, who took the Naval ROTC examination given in Midland last December, have been notified that, from all applicants, they are included in the 3,600 boys chosen in the nation who have qualified to take their physical examination and go before a reviewing board in Dallas on Feb. 7. Four-year scholarships will be awarded to the top 1,800.

Charles Johnson and LeRoy LeFevre, basketball co-captains, presented a consolation trophy to the student body won by them at Brownwood during the Howard Payne basketball tournament. The presentation was made Wednesday at the close of the Church Emphasis assembly.

Dr. A. J. Stoddard of Los Angeles, Calif., who has served as superintendent to schools in all sections of the United States, spoke in the high school auditorium Tuesday morning to students, faculty members, and the visiting Freshman Class from Junior High School. In his outline of school systems, Dr. Stoddard compared the present day educational system with that of foreign and past school systems.

Because of the beginning of the new semester, quite an addition has been made to the student body. Included in the new students are Thomas Scarber, a junior from Henrietta; Marie Clark, a senior from Forsan; Lloyd Harrison, a soph from junior high school; Lorene Mann, a junior from Willson, Ark.; Jerry Farrill, a junior from Mesa, Ariz.; Mary Jane Kilgore, a senior from Tampa, Fla.; Wayne Dittloff, a junior from Westington Springs, S.
