

Plans Completed For Singing Meet

Dawson County Included In Drouth Relief Area

CONVENTION OPENS AT 2 P. M. SATURDAY

Plans are almost complete for the big Plains-Panhandle Singing Conventions here Saturday and Sunday, this week. The convention is to open at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, according to Odie L. Echols, president.

Committees in charge of arrangements announce that the large compress platform will seat 2500 people and loudspeaking amplifiers will be installed so that at least 10,000 people can hear the music from the artists that will be here from all parts of the southwest.

Sheila Gus White and City Marshal Jack Phinizy will have charge of the parking of cars. They have announced that in order to have safety and orderly parking it is necessary that everyone follow instructions as to how and where to park. Let everyone who drives a car onto the grounds pay close attention to parking orders.

Joseph N. Spikes will have charge of ushering. It is his duty to see that all visiting singers are seated first, and that all others who can be seated comfortably under the shed have next attention. Let everyone cooperate with Joe and his fine corps of Boy Scout workers in this matter.

W. W. Beeman, chairman of entertainment, is asking that every citizen who attends this convention come with a well filled basket. Mr. Beeman states that "Dawson county people are hosts to this convention and that it is their duty to see that visiting delegates and visitors are properly entertained and fed." Let's cooperate with Mr. Beeman and be ready to take as many visitors as they may assign us to feed.

The chamber of commerce is getting ready to take care of the registration of all visitors and delegates to this convention. Already this body has received notice that the Stamps Quartet of Dallas, the All-Indian Quartet from Carnegie, Okla., and many other quartets from Ft. Worth, Atlanta, Ga., Wichita Falls, Amarillo, Abilene, San Angelo, El Paso, Clovis, and Roswell New Mexico, Lubbock, Nashville and Lawrenceburg, Tenn., Dallas, and several other smaller points will be here.

No doubt it will be impossible for any Dawson county singers to appear on the program, since so many visitors from all parts of the country will be here for a place on the schedule, but it is our duty as Dawson county citizens to set our hearts to the task for what is expected to be one of the largest groups of singers to meet in West Texas this year.

Maurice R. Ross Fatally Injured In Car Wreck

Maurice R. Ross, aged 19 years, passed away in a Brady hospital on Monday afternoon, June 11, from injuries sustained in an automobile accident on last Wednesday night near Fredericksburg.

Maurice left here the early part of last week with V. Z. Whisenant in his truck for San Antonio for a truck load of vegetables. On their return trip near Fredericksburg the truck was wrecked. Full information of how the accident happened has not been received. Mr. Whisenant was painfully injured but not seriously. Maurice received a broken neck and other serious head and chest injuries. They were carried to a Fredericksburg hospital where Mr. Whisenant was later released but Maurice was brought as far as Brady in a Higginbotham-Bartlett ambulance, but his condition proved so serious that he was unable to stand the trip on to Lamesa.

Maurice is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Ross of Patricia. He was a member of this year's graduating class of the local high school, and had worked during the school term at Wilkes Grocery store.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 at the First Methodist church, with Rev. E. F. Cole, pastor of the First Baptist church officiating. Burial was made in the local cemetery.

Survivors are his parents and four brothers.

The Courier joins with the family's many friends in extending sympathy to the bereaved ones.

Early Morning Fire Destroys Lambeth Gin

Sunday morning about 5:30 the Lamesa Fire Department answered a call to the Lambeth Gin plant.

The fire was too far advanced for fire boys to save anything other than the power plant and cotton house.

According to a recent appraisal by Thos. C. Neislar, Appraisal Engineer of Dallas, the replacement value of the plant was $53,913.79. At the time of the fire Mr. Lambeth had only $10,000 insurance.

As to rebuilding or moving one of his other gin plants to Lamesa, Mr. Lambeth stated he had no definite plans at the moment.

Home Ec Class Finishes Tenth Months Work

The tenth month of work in Home Economics began May 19 and ends June 15. The work this year is very much like past summers work which is not so much the learning of new subject matter as the application of things already studied. It is to teach the girls how to solve the many problems that arise in the home and what which is taught in high school.

An outstanding project of renovating furniture was taken by Alyne McClintock who painted and upholstered a living room suit. This suit is being displayed in Baldwin's Dry Goods, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Another project has been in Collins Dry Goods this week, showing a dress made from bran sacks, by Juanita Hamilton. Many attractive

The American Legion Divisional Convention for this section will meet here Saturday and Sunday the 23rd and 24th of this month. At this meeting it is expected that between 500 and 1000 thousand visitors will come to Lamesa, according to Caryl Baldwin, Post Commander of the local American Legion, which will act as host to the affair.

Committees are busy planning the program and making arrangements to take care of this meeting. Letters of invitation have gone out to every post in West Texas urging attendance. The territory comprises west of Fort Worth to El Paso, south from Amarillo to San Antonio.

The local American Legion post is asking that all ex-service men in Dawson county make ready to attend this affair and to help entertain the guests and visitors that will be here. Local officials in charge of the convention state that they will need the cooperation of every ex-service man in the county in order to make the convention a success.

Further, the citizenship of Lamesa will be called on to help take care of the visitors Saturday night. The hotel accommodations in the city—and every available hotel room will be filled first—are entirely inadequate to take care of the large attendance expected at this convention. Those who have homes to volunteer for guests—bed for sleeping only—and of course the guest will be expected to pay for their sleeping accommodations—will get in touch with Caryl Baldwin, post commander, that a sufficient number of beds may be listed to accommodate all visitors for Saturday night, June 23.

Double Park For Ten Minutes Only

The City Commission has had its attention called to the crowded parking around the square. "There is an ordinance prohibiting double parking," stated Mayor W. L. Marr. Further quoting Mayor Marr, "The City Commission in a meeting Tuesday passed a regulation granting a Ten Minute limit on double parking around the square. The Mayor explained that the ten minute limit was for the convenience of shoppers who would leave their cars to go into a business and secure merchandise to keep them from having to carry their purchases long distances. The Mayor warned that in the event the 10 minute limit was abused, the original "No Double Parking" ordinance would be strictly enforced. People are therefore cautioned to double park no longer than ten minutes.

The Mayor and City Marshall are calling attention to drivers of cars that the speed limit in Lamesa is 20 miles per hour. The City Marshall states that he has noticed quite a lot of fast driving in the city limits and that as a matter of safety it is necessary that all who drive cars slow down and not break the speed limit. The Marshall stated that unless this warning brought results, he would be compelled to enforce the driving ordinance in the city limits.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Key are visiting his parents this week in Dublin.

Things can be made from apple boxes barrels, cans and the like.

CHARLIE SMITH

Mr. Smith, of Runningwater, Texas, is vice-president of the Plains-Panhandle Singing Convention, which will convene in Lamesa, Saturday and Sunday, June 16th and 17th. Mr. Smith will be present to take an active part in the proceedings.

Fred C. Haile Of Dickens County To Run For Congress

With the frank admission that "I was not solicited by anyone to make the race and am running because I want to go to Congress and believe I can do a good job there," Fred C. Haile of Dickens county, has formally announced his candidacy for the post of Congressman from the new 19th district.

Mr. Haile seeks the Democratic nomination, tantamount to election, subject to the action of voters on Saturday, July 28.

"I am not a lawyer," Mr. Haile said in making his announcement. "I'm just a small town business man who knows the problems of the small town business man in the 19th district. I am not appealing to clubs, churches, or fraternal organizations for support. Instead, I am appealing to the average voter, who goes to make up the people of the 19th district—to the individual who may or may not represent churches, clubs or lodges."

Mr. Haile, who is owner of the Spur Mutual Life Insurance Company—an organization with which he started as office boy, worked through all posts and finally purchased—was born in Dickens county in 1901. For the first 17 years of his life he lived on a farm, and a ranch and during the war spent a short time in the army.

Following the war he served three years in the navy, later going to Simmons University, Abilene, where he took a bachelor of arts degree, later augmented by post graduate work in political science in the University of California.

He joined the Spur Mutual in 1926 and has been with that organization every since.

"I announced for this office of my own free will," he said, "and I am paying all my own campaign expenses. I am asking my friends for nothing more than their good will and support at the polls."

6TH STATE APPOINTMENT RECEIVED

County Supt. W. T. Webb has this week received the sixth State apportionment for the county schools. The amount received was $4040 or $1.00 per capita.

SENATOR CONNALLY RECOGNIZES NEED FOR RELIEF HERE

Dawson county was included by the Department of Agriculture at Washington as a drouth county, Tuesday, this week, according to information relayed by telegram to several Lamesa citizens by Senator Tom Connally.

For more than a year, efforts have been made to get Dawson county included by the National government as a drouth county, in order that the necessary relief and highway work might be had in the county. The judge and the commissioner's court, chamber of commerce, the county the Lamesa Luncheon Club, the Lamesa Lions Club, the county agent, the county cotton control committee the First National Bank, the Lamesa National Bank, Mayor W. L. Marr, the Dawson County Relief Commission, and district judge, Gordon B. McGuire, all have made extraordinary efforts to get the county included.

But climaxing the efforts put forth and following close on the heels of a brief compiled by county judge Philip Yonge, setting forth rainfall and cotton production records, as well as other pertinent facts relative to the drouth relief condition in Dawson county, Judge Gordon B. McGuire, sensing the seriousness of the condition in Dawson county caused by drouth, volunteered a telegram to Senator Tom Connally at Washington, urging that he give the matter of including Dawson county as a drouth county his personal attention. Immediately, Senator Connally answered Judge McGuire that he was abiding his wish in this matter and was personally asking the inclusion of Dawson county. A few hours later, Judge McGuire received a telegram from Senator Connally that the job had been done, and Dawson county had been included as a drouth county.

Hats off to Judge McGuire and Senator Tom Connally

What does it mean to have Dawson county included as a drouth county? There are two groups of relief counties named by the Department of Agriculture in Washington. They are styled Emergency counties and Secondary counties. Dawson county has been named as a secondary relief county. This means that the necessary human relief and the highway work in our county will receive the same full benefits as other emergency named counties. Wednesday morning, this week, the following telegram was received by Wm. A. Wilson from Senator Connally explaining the difference in secondary and Emergency relief counties: "Only difference between secondary and emergency for relief purposes is that in latter group Department is purchasing cattle and moving them out of area. Suggest you contact Dr. O. B. Martin, College Station, State Director for the Department as to character of relief to be offered your county," signed, Tom Connally.

Head of Texas Relief Here Wednesday

Miss Marie Dresden, director of Texas relief, Winthrop D. Lane, special engineer with the government, C. B. Brown all of Austin, and Mr. House of the relief office of Howard county were callers at the local relief headquarters Wednesday, inspecting drouth conditions.

Miss Dresden said the inspections were being made to determine the actual need of relief for drouth sections in this area since 15 counties recently had been designated on the secondary list, including Borden, Cochran, Dawson, Ector, Gaines, Howard, Loving, Martin, Midland, Reeves, Scurry, Terry, Ward, Winkler and Yoakum.

Local Checker Players Attend Demonstration

On the night of June 6th, Mr. Nathan Rubin, National Junior Champion checker player of the U. S. gave a demonstration of his ability in Big Spring. Those who had been invited and who attended were Dr. Z. T. Frazier, a checker player of renown, N. P. Cochran, W. B. Burleson, Dr. Burleson, W. W. Kelly, Cecil Speck, and Mr. Krum.

To begin with six tables were lined up in a row, each with a checker board. Mr. Rubin played one side, 6 players the other. Of about 50 experts there, none won a game, only three draws were earned by any and all of the players opposing Mr. Rubin. Mr. H. A. Morrison, ex-state champ, won a draw, Dr. Frazier another and N. P. Cochran another.

After playing six tables for about an hour and a half, Mr. Rubin lined up four tables and played four players simultaneously, blindfolded. Dr. Frazier called the numbers as boards were not numbered and he was probably about the only man there that could do it. In about 21 minutes Mr. Rubin won all four games. Mr. Francis of Tarzan and H. A. Morrison, two of the best players in West Texas were two of the victims. One fellow said afterwards, "there isn't anything impossible any more."

As a closing climax, Mr. Rubin played Dr. Frazier a single game in which he won, although the Doctor gave him a strong battle. It was hoped that the Doctor would get a draw but he was "crushed".

Mr. Rubin, who is only 22 and looks something like Max Maer, may return via Lamesa and give local fans a chance to see him perform here. He is on his way from Los Angeles to the World Fair and will later play for the National Championship in Jamestown, N. Y. August 13th.

TO THE COURIER

Thank you for the courtesy of publishing the excerpts from President O'Neal's Message to the Farm Women of America. Please allow me space to continue this important address.

"The permanency and dignity of agriculture as well as the stability and happiness of country life is in a large measure dependent upon the quality and inherent strength of the farm home. . . . Let us better the conditions in which we find ourselves. We have made a great deal of progress toward national recovery. Let's finish the job and restore agriculture to its rightful place in the economic and political life of the nation. This we all agree can be done thru organization if we have the united support of all farm people.

"For generations, our farm women have been carrying water. It has been estimated that over a period of 25 years, a farmer's wife, carrying water for the average sized family from a well only 100 feet from the kitchen, would travel 2,000 miles and carry 3,500 tons of water.

What a tragedy this is! You women know how earnestly it the desire of us all to change this. You know we want the home as well equipped as the farm and field. You know we want our country homes just as well equipped as the city homes. When we have lacked a few dollars to pay our taxes, we know that you have provided that out of the butter and egg money.

"The big job to be done is to raise farm incomes to a level which will enable farm families to maintain a decent standard of living.

"In 1919, agriculture had a gross income of almost seventeen Billion dollars. By 1932 this income had shrunk to less than six billion dollars, entailing a loss of an average of two thousand dollars per farm family of the nation. The recovery program to date has raised the farm income this year more than a billion dollars above last year. Let's on on and finish the job, and we can only do this through organized effort." Lack of space precludes further excerpts this week, but next week the message will be concluded. Joe. E. Foster.

OUTLAWS of EDEN

By PETER B. KYNE

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—Robin Kershaw, descendant of a pioneering family, rode with Fremont to California, made half a million in the gold fields and sought a suitable location for a cattle ranch. With his bride, who had walked beside a covered wagon in the '49 trek, Kershaw rode into northeastern California. Here he found an ideal valley for ranching and cattle raising. His wife christened it "Eden Valley." Before Eden Valley, which they intended to stock with cattle, and where they planned to build their home, is a less suitable tract, which Kershaw's wife christened Forlorn Valley.

CHAPTER II.—The Kershaws prospered. Robin Kershaw acquires the most valuable lands in Eden Valley. Trouble impends when Joel Hensley, a Texan, and as belligerent and obstinate a man as Robin Kershaw, settles in the lower half of the valley. There is bad blood over fences and water for irrigation. The man "right it out in smoke." Kershaw kills Hensley and the blood-feud is on. Hensley's sons wearing vengeance.

CHAPTER III.—By 1917, Rance Kershaw, his son Owen, and daughter Lorry are all that remain of one clan. Nate Tichenor is the sole survivor on the Hensley side. Owen is killed in the World War. Nate Tichenor returns after an absence of nine years. He goes to help Lorry in her car and finds her father has died of heart disease.

CHAPTER IV.—Silas Babson, from the Middle West, unscrupulous and grasping, controls the Forlorn Valley settlement through his bank. He schemes to build a dam and control the irrigation and hydro-electric possibilities of Eden Valley. His first aim is to secure the heavily encumbered lands of Rance Kershaw's daughter, Lorry. Babson finds surveyors already on Eden Valley lands owned by Nate Tichenor. The banker procures a surveyor to set against Lorry, assuming that they are surveying on the old feud. In this way setting control of the key lands necessary to the project.

CHAPTER V.—Nate, however, has no intention of carrying on the feud. Forlorn Valley buzzes with the news that the two survivors of the Eden Valley saga of bloodshed have buried the hatchet. Nate tells Lorry that he and Owen Kershaw, Lorry's brother, met in France just before Owen was killed. They became buddies, and Nate promised that if he survived Owen he would look after Lorry as a brother might.

CHAPTER VI.—Lorry informs Nate that she intends to run the ranch. He volunteers financial aid. Babson, determined to secure Lorry's lake-site and Nate's dam-site makes legal application for the allocation of flood water to the Forlorn Valley Irrigation district, which he organizes. He figures that through condemnation proceedings he can secure the coveted lands. With money advanced by Nate, Lorry clears up her indebtedness to Babson.

CHAPTER VII.—Nate, who plans extensive improvements on his ranch, finds that he is falling in love with Lorry. Babson discovers that Nate is behind a power project which would mean to ruin all the banker's schemes.

CHAPTER VIII.—Nate assists Lorry in the roundup work on her ranch. He tells her that he loves her. Lorry admits she loves Nate. They become engaged. Together they plan to control the waters of Forlorn Valley and thwart Babson's schemes.

CHAPTER IX.—Babson insists that Joe Brainerd, editor of the local paper, attack Nate as an enemy of the people, about to grab water for power purposes. This Brainerd refuses to do. Nate hires expert legal counsel in San Francisco. Gagan, a leading lawyer, says he believes the act under which Babson is proceeding is unconstitutional. Nate comes to Brainerd's rescue financially. The editor celebrates by punching Babson's head.

CHAPTER X.—Babson, in his desperation, hires Pitt River Charley, a half-breed, to assassinate Nate. The attempt is thwarted, largely through the loyalty of Tichenor's English valet. Charley tells Nate that Babson was the instigator. Nate attempts to address the mass meeting, but at Babson's instigation the crowd maltreats him. Lorry saves him from possible death by wounding several of his assailants with her revolver. She stops a raid on the newspaper office and marches several raiders to jail.

THE STORY

CHAPTER XI

The succeeding week Nate Tichenor spent in a hospital at Gold Run whither Doctor Donaldson had ordered him for observation as to possible internal injuries. When at last Nate came to the Circle K ranch again, Lorry saw that, outwardly at least, he appeared to be normal.

"Doc thought my backbone had been fractured out of alignment," he announced, as he kissed her, "but it was only a couple of ribs sprung loose from my spine. Doc warned me not to move around, but I couldn't stay away. Outlaw that I am, I couldn't neglect you for another week."

"I wasn't ready to be a clinging vine; I'm accustomed to man's work—and if you're worth having Mr. Tichenor, you're worth fighting for. I enjoyed it."

"I'm almost afraid to marry you now," he teased. "You'd be a tough wife to handle in a family row. Have you been arrested yet?"

"No, dear. Joe Brainerd appears to have smoothed over the aftermath of that ruckus. He traded with Babson. Babson loaned him the new plant of the Forlorn Valley Citizen and then had a talk with the men we jailed. Babson levied an assessment to pay for the damages to Brainerd's plant, and Joe absented himself at the preliminary hearing of the case, so Anson Towle waited five minutes for Joe and his counsel to appear and then turned the men loose for lack of evidence. The men I winged are all going to get well, although they'll be on crutches for a month or two; I think they are glad to let the matter drop. We've all had enough undesirable advertising throughout the state."

"As for undesirable advertising, you and I haven't had any of it. We're heroes."

"Oh, do tell me, Nate. I've been afraid to read the papers."

"When a mob sacks a newspaper plant the entire fourth estate regards the act as a direct blow at the freedom of the press, and instantly the light is no longer a private one. The Gold Run Nugget has burned Forlorn Valley to a crisp and so have all the other county newspapers. The Forlorn Valleyites have been called thugs, murderers, bad citizens, rioters, bullies, and cowards. I am advertised as a peaceable, well-meaning citizen and a distinguished ex-soldier of whom the county is proud. I sought to do Forlorn Valley a signal service and was mobbed and brutally beaten and bruised in return. All of the papers have cried out upon the senseless brutality of visiting upon a blameless young man the sins of his forebears—and they have done as much for you. In fact, they've made a heroine of you. You are commended for your great charity in 'wing-tipping' my assailants instead of killing them. You have a nickname. You're Wing-Tip-Lorry Kershaw now."

She turned to him suddenly. "But I am curious to know how you accumulated all the money you appear to have. For you do look like cash money, Nate."

"Well, the fact that I have a few dollars doesn't imply that I'm a financier," he protested. "The Hensleys had great veneration for cash but I'm only half Hensley. My father was a paleontologist. He came up into these hills one summer to hunt for fossils. Nothing would do but he must be our guest and have a horse to ride into the hills and a man to protect him from the Kershaws.

"My mother was twenty-four years old at the time and already beginning to be regarded as a fossil, so father added her to his collection and stayed on in Eden Valley and wrote some books nobody ever read, and resolutely refused to learn the cow business. He did manage to put a little bit of culture and uplift into the Hensleys. I made up my mind to stay out of Eden Valley and forget cows as a first aid to making a million dollars.

"When my mother and aunt died I was the sole heir to the Bar H Land and Cattle company, and the corporation was in excellent shape. There were about two hundred thousand dollars in the bank and no debts; there were twelve thousand head of cattle and the ranch was unencumbered. I decided to sell the cattle and lease the ranch. Rube Tenney, who was in command of the ranch, classed the cattle, so I knew what I had and what they were worth. I wrote my attorney to see your father and try to make a trade. It seemed the fair thing to do to let him have first chance. He'd always wanted all of Eden Valley. So he bought all the cattle and leased the Bar H ranch for thirty thousand dollars a year, for five years, with an option to buy the ranch at any time prior to the expiration of the lease and on very easy terms.

"The result was that early in 1920 I found myself foot-loose and with about a million dollars cash in bank. Now, while I was in France I secured a commission. My captain and I got along splendidly together. I got to know this man and to trust him and admire him. In civil life he'd been general manager of a large New York stock brokerage house. He had about fifty thousand dollars and he wanted to buy a seat on the New York Stock Exchange and go into business for himself. But he didn't have enough money to buy the seat and finance his operations.

"I told him I'd finance him—one hundred thousand dollars in cash against his fifty thousand in cash, his experience and ability, and we should be equal partners. We made money from the day we opened our doors."

"And you say you're not a financier?"

"The lust for money has never overwhelmed me. I find, too, that I love Eden Valley. I'm going to close out my interests in New York and return here in the fall."

"I shall be very lonely while you are away, Nate."

"And that reminds me that I've sent down to San Francisco for a ring and here it is. If it's too big we'll have a tuck taken in, and if it's too small or you prefer some other stone I'll change it." And he slipped on her finger a square emerald worth at least a hundred steers. It was the first piece of jewelry she had ever owned and her hot tears of emotion baptized it; her warm lips caressed it in a silent promise he knew would never be broken.

"Suppose we get married in a hurry and make the New York trip a honeymoon," he said.

She shook her head. "Impossible until dad's estate has been settled. I can't leave her now. I have to work this outfit out of debt, because I can't afford a trousseau until I do. However, dear, you run on to New York, complete your business there, and when you return we'll make those two mergers you spoke of. I'm too busy now. I've got a lot of those early calves still to brand and I'll have to brand about a thousand late calves in the fall. I don't want to leave any worries behind me when we go on our honeymoon."

"And we'll spend our summers in Eden Valley and our winters outside," he suggested.

She leaned against him a little wearily and held him tight but did not answer.

Somebody once remarked that nothing can be of surpassing interest for a period greater than nine days. For forty-eight hours following the unexpected painful and highly dramatic denouement of his plan to sway public opinion against Nate Tichenor and Lorry Kershaw, Silas Babson suffered acutely, not because he was sorry for what he had done but because the effect had been so wholly unexpected and pregnant of disaster to him. After having arranged to prevent the expose of the whole affair in court with probable penitentiary sentences for a couple of dozen hitherto respectable but mercurial citizens, he began to view life with a less jaundiced eye; and when, at the expiration of the proverbial nine days, he felt morally certain that "that Eden Valley gang," as he now referred to Nate, Lorry and Rube Tenney, was going to cling to its ancient tradition and have nothing whatsoever to do with legal reprisals, all of his old jauntness and optimism returned.

He waited two weeks longer and when at the expiration of that period Henry Rookby, looking faintly reminiscent of a potato sprout put forth in a cellar, returned to his labors, Babson left the business of the bank in Mr. Rookby's hands and proceeded to motor forth among the Forlorn Valleyites and argue, them into signing the petition to the county board of supervisors for permission to organize the Forlorn Valley Irrigation district. Having had a surveyor de-limit the areas susceptible to surface irrigation, he knew the identity of every farmer whose signature was necessary for his purpose, so a week's time sufficed to acquire the number of signatures legally necessary, and at the next regular meeting of the board of supervisors, of which Babson was a member, he presented the petition in person and addressed his colleagues at some length and with unusual eloquence on the desirability of favorable action by the board.

The chairman of the board rapped with his gavel. "The pros appear to have their innings," he announced smilingly. "Are there any cons to be heard from?"

A man rose in the rear of the hall, walked up to the railing in front of the dais upon which the board sat, and bowed first to the board and then to the audience. "Mr. Chairman—gentlemen: My name is John W. Gagan, a member of the San Francisco law firm of Brooks, Gagan and Brooks, and I appear as the legal representative of the three riparian owners along Eden Valley creek, to wit, Estate of Ranceford Kershaw, deceased, the Bar H Land and Cattle company, and the Mountain Valley Power company, the last two companies, as is generally known, being owned in their entirety by Mr. Nathan Tichenor. On behalf of my clients, I desire formally to protest to this honorable board against the formation of the Forlorn Valley Irrigation district and will state my reasons briefly."

Gagan immediately proceeded to do so, painting to his auditors precisely the picture that Nate Tichenor had painted to him, challenging Lon Morton to gainsay one single legal statement. Gagan spoke simply, earnestly, arraying his facts in logical sequence.

When he had finished his address Gagan bowed to the board and started to leave the chamber. There was silence until he was half way down the aisle, then a storm of hisses and boos broke around him. Gagan looked back as he reached the door and saw that Silas Babson was on his feet, his hand raised for silence.

"So you're going to refute my statement, eh?" Gagan called back. "Well, before I depart I'll give you and your deluded followers some very good advice, free. The man who acts as his own attorney has a fool for a client."

CHAPTER XII

The board of supervisors granted the petition unanimously and amidst cheers and rejoicings. Babson's speech, in rebuttal to Gagan's, proved to be the masterpiece of his career. He read to the meeting the law under which the district proposed to operate—read it right out of the Code of Civil Procedure, too—and pooh-poohed the idea of a slick metropolitan lawyer trying to frighten honest and intelligent men with crazy bugaboos of unconstitutional law that was and for some years had been embodied in the code. "If this law was unconstitutional," he yelled, "it's unconstitutional would have been discovered before the bill was even submitted to the legislature; and if it hadn't been discovered then the legislature, a majority of whom are practicing attorneys, would have discovered it; and even if the legislature had, unbelievably, failed to discover it, the supreme court, whose duty it is to pass upon the constitutionality of our state laws, would long since have discovered it. Pooh-pooh and a couple of what-nots for the mighty Mr. Gagan! We are not to be frightened by men of straw."

The project moved forward without delay. Sixty days from the date of the approval of the petition by the board of supervisors the Forlorn Valley Irrigation district had come into legal existence, by a very substantial majority of the residents in the area to be irrigated. Silas Babson, tired, but happy and triumphant, was its president, Henry Rookby, who owned ten acres in the district, was the secretary, and the Bank of Valley Center was the depository of the funds of the district.

Within two weeks after the district had come into official being, the state water commission obligingly allocated to it the flood waters of Eden Valley creek. A bond issue was got out within a week; within two weeks the state board certification committee had certified the bonds as legal investment for trust companies and savings banks and, by unanimous vote, Silas Babson was given the job of disposing of them to the highest bidder. A New York house wired in a bid of ninety-one, and after devoting a month to the task Babson decided this offer was one point higher than he could secure locally, so the district closed on the offer and, with the receipt of the money, proceeded at once to spend it.

Although Babson took measures to appraise himself of the return of Nate Tichenor to Eden Valley, his scouts brought him no news of the latter's arrival, although as a matter of fact Tichenor had returned some four months after his departure. He came in over the mountains to the south in a four-passenger cabin plane and landed in the meadow just below the Kershaw ranch-house. Lorry was in his arms before he was half way up to the house.

"Well, I'm all cleaned up in the East," he told her. "How far have you progressed in the settlement of your father's estate?"

"All ready to close as soon as I can find the money to pay the state and federal estate taxes. They aren't nearly so much as I had feared they would be. The cattle, of course, were appraised at the low price existing on the day of father's death—and beef is up to nine and a half in the ranch now and should be twelve cents within a year, I'm told by my cattle brokers. And the federal tax appraiser decided the land has been greatly depressed in value by reason of the diversion of the water to Forlorn Valley."

"That's a favor Babson didn't realize he was going to do you. Is everything on the ranch running smoothly? Nothing coming up that Rube Tenney can't attend to?"

She nodded. "As soon as beef goes to ten cents I'll sell five thousand fat steers, pay the taxes and close the estate."

"Don't. Hold them over till spring and get eleven cents—maybe. I'll loan you the money to pay the taxes. How soon can you marry me?"

"In about three minutes, if we had a license and a preacher handy."

He glanced up at the sun. "Justice, long delayed, maketh the heart sick," he orated. "Likewise marriage—after you've made up your mind. You skip right into the house, climb into your Sunday dress, throw a few things in your old straw suitcase and meet me here in ten minutes. We've just about got time to get over the mountains and into Reno before dark. In California we have to announce our intention to get married and then wait for three days, in case we decide to change our mind. My mind is made up, so we'll take our trade to Nevada and avoid annoying delays."

"You're a man after my own heart," Lorry cried joyously, and came into his arms. He held her close, his finger under her chin, tip-tilting her sweet face toward him, the while he appraised her hungrily, comparing her with the girls of her age in the world he had known before the homing instinct had brought him back to Eden Valley. He thanked God she wasn't soft, that she had high courage, initiative, and the power of instantaneous decision in an emergency; that hers was the old, fierce, unquestioning loyalty that was his own heritage. A man could rely on her always (he told himself), know always exactly where she stood. She was incapable of fibs, evasions, or the tears that camouflage little feminine deceptions. Her code was a masculine one, but of a quality rare enough in this decadent generation—the code of a gallant gentleman, plus that of the very finest of her own sex. Yes, she had character, courage, humor, self-reliance, capabilities of extreme self-sacrifice, tenderness, helplessness—an angel with a touch of the devil in her. . . . Well, better a touch of the devil than a trace of the cat.

"Dear little outlaw, I love you so," he murmured, and kissed her a dozen

He was one of the last of the dinosaurs, and he disappeared from the face of the earth millions of years ago. Now he and other dinosaurs stand as a symbol of the vast age of the crude oils which are refined into Sinclair Opaline and Sinclair Pennsylvania Motor Oils. CHEVROLET DEALERS 83,839 UNITS IN MAY

A total of 83,839 units were delivered by Chevrolet dealers during May, according to figures released to day by William E. Holler, general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company. This total includes Canadian, export and domestic deliveries and represents a substantial increase over the same period of 1933 when 69,125 units were delivered.

"Deliveries of commercial cars and trucks were especially significant," said Mr. Holler. "The commercial car and truck total for May of 15,134 units over-shadows the excellent figure reached in May, 1933, when 10,879 units were delivered. Sales of both passenger cars and trucks improved greatly during the last ten-day period of May and accounted for the impressive retail sales total for the month."

Retail sales the first five months of this year now total 364,872 as compared with 253,263 for the same period a year ago, an increase of over 110,000 units. Domestic truck deliveries for the five months nearly doubled last years figures, 68,207 units being delivered against 34,372 units in 1933.

Dawson County To Make Plans For Texas Centennial

The Texas Centennial Commission met in joint session with its advisory board in Austin, June 6.

Mrs. Carl Rountree, Mrs. W. P. Averett, Mrs. M. C. Lindsey and Mrs. Hardy Morgan are the local members of the board. Mrs. Morgan and Mrs. Lindsey attended the meeting at Austin.

There were about 500 in attendance and there was much enthusiasm on the part of the members to make the 100th birthday of Texas in 1936 one of the greatest centennials ever held.

The commission and the Advisory Board ask the cooperation of every citizen to help make it a celebration in every way worthy of Texas glorious history. They urge that every county continue with renewed effort the beautification program, thereby making Texas a beauty spot to attract the thousands of visitors that will be here in 1936. They also request that a definite effort be made by the schools, the clubs and all organizations to learn and to teach more history of our state. This can be done by study courses, pageantry dramatization, programs, etc.

The place the centennial will be held will not be decided until after September 1.

Dawson county must be represented and it is time we were beginning to make plans. Her past history and her present and future possibilities should be depicted in some way. The local members of the board mentioned above will be glad to hear from anyone having a plan or suggestion.
