Reds Capture Five U.S. Advisers

Texas Senate Passes Resolution Demanding Pardon For Lt. Calley

AUSTIN (UPI) — A Galveston senator objects to the idea if Lt. William L. Calley is guilty of murder then all America must share in his guilt.

This means, according to Sen. A. R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, all Americans are guilty of murder and soldiers in other wars also committed mass murders.

"He may have been doing his duty when he entered the village," Schwartz said of Calley "He may have been doing his duty when he rounded the villagers up. But when he fired into that ditch he quit doing his duty and was committed an act of murder."

Schwartz objected Thursday when Sen. Jim Bates, D-Edinburg, introduced a resolution condeming the conviction of Lt. Calley as "one of the gravest injustices ever to be perpetrated (sic)" and demanding an immediate, full pardon.

"You're trying to get this legislature to say that the six men who convicted Lt. Calley violated some ethical code of conduct themselves and that he had a right to kill those people," Schwartz said.

Bates resolution, which passed with only Schwartz and four other legislators objecting, said "If Lt. Calley is guilty, then many thousands of men who have served before him, and who will serve in the future must share in his guilt."

Schwartz said this insinuates he and other World War II veterans and American soldiers who fought in Korea "also massacred people."

"I share the guilt of a nation that continues a war in Vietnam that I consider unjust. But I do not share Calley's guilt," Schwartz said. "I'll be damned if any resolution of this Senate or the Congress of the United States can make me guilty of firing an automatic weapon into a ditch filled with men, women and children."

Schwartz said he could not vote for a resolution which judges a decision reached in a court of law. He said he would agree to a plea of mercy on Calley's behalf. Schwartz proposed such a plea but the Senate voted against it 18-5.

Smith, Barnes Against Lt. Calley's Conviction

AUSTIN (UPI) — Gov. Preston Smith said Thursday the conviction of Lt. William L. Calley could affect all Americans and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes said Calley should be pardoned.

Smith skirted an actual stand on Calley's conviction saying the court martial "has been very disturbing to all of us, but let me point out that this is not the end of this case."

"There are other channels of appeal for Lt. Calley, and we hope, and urge, that every area of appeal is used by those representing Lt. Calley to be absolutely sure that justice is done in this case," Smith said.

The governor said the final decision in the case "can have far-reaching and long lasting effects on all of us in the nation."

Barnes said the conviction has to create low morale among the men wearing the U. S. uniform in Southeast Asia."

"It is the system that was on trial," Barnes said. "To pick out one man — Calley — and then try him on the television and the front pages of every newspaper in the country is not the American way of justice.

"I'm not saying he was tried unfairly," Barnes said. "I deplore the way the system tried him though, and I do think he should be pardoned."

Barnes said "There were many ways the Nixon administration could have prevented the way the case was handled."

Calley Given Free Run Of Huge Infantry Base

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—Lt. William L. Calley Jr., released by presidential order from the Army stockade, was under the military version of house arrest today with the virtual freedom of this huge infantry base.

The 27-year-old soldier, sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of 22 Vietnamese civilians in the My Lai massacre, returned to his bachelor apartment to the cheers of his neighbors Thursday night.

President Nixon, in an order from the Western White House late Thursday, said Calley should be kept out of prison pending the appeal of his conviction, which could take years.

'light Guard'

Implementing that order, Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, Ft. Benning's commander, placed Calley, under "light guard"—which means one uniformed man—and confinement to quarters, which is equivalent to house arrest.

The guard stays in his apartment throughout the night. Thursday night, for Calley's protection in these early days, two armed military policemen patroled the sidewalk in front of the one-story red brick building and one in the back.

About 15 of the "waiting wives" (their husbands are overseas) who are his neighbors and their children were in the front yard to greet him when an Army sedan returned him home.

No Interviews Allowed

Calley had stepped briskly to freedom under the red brick entrance arch of the stockade and saluted an applauding and cheering crowd of 200 before entering the sedan in which Maj. Kenneth A. Raby, his attorney, waited to shake his hand.

Under the confinement rules, Calley may go anywhere on this huge base, do legal business with his lawyers, eat anywhere, have visitors—but he is not allowed to grant interviews or make public statements.

He is confined to the base, whereas before for 18 months he only had to notify his commander when he wanted to leave base and many weekends relaxing in Atlanta.

John Mitchell Says 'Stop All Wars' Only Way To Prevent Future Killing

NEW YORK (UPI)—Attorney General John N. Mitchell said Thursday he was concerned about how the conviction of Lt. William L. Calley Jr. would be interpreted in regards to other officers and to the Army's chain of command.

The only way to prevent future My Lai massacres would be to "stop all wars," Mitchell said in a television interview.

Mitchell also said the biggest misatke he has made to date as attorney general and "one which has affected the Justice Department most of all, is that I haven't been able to accomodate the press."

The attorney general made his remarks at a taping of the "David Frost Show" to be televised April 7.

Mitchell declined comment on Calley's life sentence for premeditated murder at My Lai. But he said there was a question as to whether actions by "an individual or a number of individuals can be taken out of context and have the Military Code of Justice applied to them."

"Personally, I have a great deal of concern about the total picture as it relates not only to that lieutenant but to others and the issue of the chain of command," he said.

Although he does not believe "anything can go in war," Mitchell said the question of when rules apply "is obviously quite different in wartime and civilian times."

When asked about his mistakes as head of the justice department, Mitchell said there have been "lots of them." He said the failure to accomodate the press has brought "a complete lack of communications where I can get my feelings across and understand theirs."

Pampa Request For Funds At Top Of List

Pampa school district officials learned Thursday the district's request for $100,000 in matching funds for a new vocational technical building is "close to the top of the priority list" of Texas Education Agency officials, according to Supt. Dr. James Malone.

Dr. Malone and School Board President Jimmy Thompson returned Thursday from a visit in Austin with Dr. John Guemple, associate commissioner of education at TEA.

Dr. Guemple indicated to Dr Malone and Thompson the school system will have an answer to its $100,000 request by July 1, and advised the district to proceed with working drawings and submit specifications for bids.

"After our visit with Dr. Guemple, Thompson visited with Gov. Preston Smith in the governor's office concerning Pampa's application for the vocational school. The Governor called Dr. Guemple and indicated his support for Pampa's application," Dr. Malone said.

"I am encouraged by the trip and believe the agency people are convinced of Pampa's need,' Dr. Malone said. "They were complimentary to our plans with the aid of Board President Thompson, who opened doors for us which before had been closed."

Four Persons Nabbed On Charges Of Bank Robbery, Extortion Plot

CHICAGO (UPI)—Four persons have been charged with bank robbery and aiding and abetting a bank robbery in connection with a $118,000 extortion plot in which the wife of a bank president was held at gunpoint in her suburban home. The Federal Bureau of Investigation announced three arrests late Thursday night, about 11 hours after the bank president, Lawrence W. Northrup, turned over the money. The fourth arrest was announced early today.

The first three suspects were identified as Frederick W. Marschke, 31, of Homewood; his wife Joyce, 34; and Robert Manley, 34, of Chicago. The fourth suspect was identified as John Carmen Starble, 25, of Berwyn.

Neither the FBI nor local police agencies would detail what roles the four were suspected of playing in th plan.

Northrup, president of the downtown Hartford Plaza Bank, said in a statement that he received a phone call in his office before noon "from a man who told me that he was holding my wife and no one would be hurt if I put $150,000 in a Buick across the street from the bank within 15 minutes."

Northrup said he talked to his wife in suburban Wilmette on the phone then asked a bank teller to collect the money. He carried the money in two bags to the car.

An FBI spokesman said the money—a later check showed Northrup actually delivered only $118,000—was handed to a slender, dark-haired woman about 30 years old who immediately drove off with a man.

Mrs. Northrup told Wilmette police that a man posing as a department store deliveryman had walked up to the colonial-style home and forced his way into the house after she opened the front door.

She said she was bound by her wrists to the chair and held at gunpoint.

When her captor received word the money had been handed over to an accomplice, the man yanked out the telephone cords and fled, she said.

The FBI said the money delivered by Northrup was not recovered "as yet."

Jobless Rate Moving Back Up To Six Per Cent

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Unemployment moved back up to 6 per cent in the nation during March after two months of slight declines, the government reported today.

The rise from a February rate of 5.8 per cent of the civilian labor force came as the actual number of workers with jobs held steady.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Labor Department said last month's increase in joblessness occurred mostly in the 16-to-24 age range—many of them either entering the labor force for the first time or were re-entering it.

The 6 per cent unemployment rate in March represented a return to the January level, but was still under the 6.2 per cent rate in December—highest in nine years.

Rank and file workers did take home more money last month, the report said. Average hourly earnings went up a penny to $3.36 and their average earnings increased by $1.37 and $123.96 a week, the latter mostly because of the two-tenths of an hour increase in the average work week.

$5 Million Fire Destroys Railway Repair Shops

MARSHALL, Tex. (UPI) — A $5 million fire Thursday night destroyed the 300 by 500 foot Texas & Pacific Railway repair shops and 31 freight and tank cars that were in it awaiting work.

"Fivs million dollars damage seems to be the general opinion," Fire Chief Gene Walker said. "The railroad seemed to have quite a bit of work in the shops at this time. The fire may put them in a bind."

A small explosion started a fire in the shops about 9, p.m. Thursday. The work force had quit for the day at 5:30 p.m. and the shops were empty.

The BLS report said there actually were 5.2 million jobless workers in March, a decline of 270,000 from February. But after seasonal adjustments, unemployment showed an increase of 150,000 to 5 million.

Two Youths Charged With Passing Forged Prescriptions For Drugs

Bonds of $1,000 on each of two counts were set by E. L. "Ed" Anderson, justice of peace, yesterday afternoon when David Wayne Hall, 18, and Gary Carl Thrasher, 17, both from Amarillo, were arraigned on charges of passing forged prescriptions in Pampa.

A local pharmacist advised police that two youths had tried to have filled what he believed was a forged prescription for Tuinal.

George Wallace, assistant police chief, and J. J. Ryzman, investigator, later located the car fitting the description of the one the youths reportedly drove away from the pharmacy on N. Hobart. A search of the car revealed a bottle of pills filled at another Pampa pharmacy yesterday and labeled with the name James Crow. Dr. John Archer, Amarillo, was listed as the prescribing doctor.

An identification of the boys by both druggists indicated that they were the two who presented the prescriptions to be filled, police said. A call to Dr. Archer resulted in the physician's report to police that he had not written either of the prescriptions.

The pair was arraigned for possession of dangerous drugs and placed in Gray County jail.

Pampa Youth Arraigned For Possessing Drugs

Jimmy Lee Anderson, 22, 537 Oklahoma, was arraigned on a charge of possession of dangerous drugs yesterday after tests revealed that one group of four types of pills found in his car contained barbituates.

Anderson's car was stopped in the 100 block of N. Russell for a drivers' license check, and he was questioned later about the pills which were not in a prescription container.

Yanks Seized When Enemy Overran Base

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. B52s today dumped 100 tons of bombs around an Allied base overrun by Communist forces and it was retaken by South Vietnamese forces. The Viet Cong radio claimed five American military advisers were captured when the base fell Wednesday.

Military spokesmen said today's raid on suspected Communist positions surrounding Fire Support Base No. 6, 300 miles north of Saigon and just 12 miles from the Laos-Cambodia border, was the fourth by B52s since the base fell. Three missions were flown Thursday, they said.

A military spokesman in Saigon said there was "very light resistance" today when South Vietnamese infantrymen moved in to retake the base. Twenty South Vietnamese soldiers had been killed and 25 wounded when the base was overrun.

Two U.S. helicopters trying to evacuate some 300 South Vietnamese soldiers and their American advisers from the hilltop base Wednesday were shot down. U.S. spokesmen said one American crewman was killed and another wounded.

The Viet Cong's clandestine "liberation radio" said today five American advisers at the base were captured. U.S. spokesmen refused to comment on the Viet Cong claim. Normally, spokesmen do not report casulaties until next of kin have been notified.

It was not revealed how many Americans were on the base when it was attacked, but earlier field dispatches said six U.S. servicemen in addition to the helicopter crewmen were killed. This was not officially confirmed.

City Delegation Finds Labor Bill Hearing Canceled

Pampa city officials went to Austin Wednesday to attend a hearing on HB 547, but discovered when they arrived the hearing had been canceled.

House Bill 547 is proposed legislation to create a State Labor Relations Board and establish union collective bargaining for city and state employes.

The Texas Municipal League had asked Texas cities to send delegations to Austin to oppose the measure.

Mayor Milo Carlson, City Manager Mack Wofford and City Atty. Bob Gordon went from Pampa.

Officials from many other Texas cities and towns made the trip to Austin to register disapproval of HB 547 at the hearing.

Most of these officials speculated that the author of the bill, Rep. Carl Parker of Corpus Christi, may have had the hearing canceled because of the many TML delegations on hand to oppose the bill.

The Pampa delegation, however, felt the trip was not in vain.

City Manager Wofford said today they discussed the proposal with Rep. Phil Cates of Lefors and Rep. Ben Bynum of Amarillo who told them the general feeling was that the bill, if it comes to the House floor, could not gain enough votes to pass.

They were told, Wofford said, that HB 547 is a continuous type of legislation that comes up from year to year.

The Pampa delegation also visited with Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes who assured them he would work for the bill's defeat.

Wofford also stated their visit to the State Capitol had been held up for 45-minutes because of a bomb scare State House employes were evacuated while a search was made by security police Wednesday afternoon.

Fighting Continues In Pakistan

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Reports reaching India today indicated fighting between rebels and the army continued in a number of areas of East Pakistan. The United States and other governments announced plans to evacuate their citizens from the area.

The U.S. embassy in Bangkok, Thailand, announced an Air Force C130 transport would bring the first load of American refugees out of East Pakistan today, but later said the evacuation had been postponed until Saturday. It gave no reason, but said the daily flights would continue until all Americans who wished to leave East Pakistan had been removed.

At the same time, the British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC) made an appeal for British citizens who can reach the Dacca area to report for evacuation, and in Canberra, the foreign affairs department said arrangements were being made for partial evacuation of Australians in East Pakistan.

A correspondent for the Press Trust of India news agency (PTI) reported from Agartala on the eastern border of East Pakistan that he saw American-built Sabre jets bomb and strafe industrial areas of Brahmanbaria, about three miles from the border.

PTI correspondents strung out along the Indian-East Pakistan border said reports coming in from across the frontier indicated Pakistani army units were pulling back from border positions, apparently to help secure the interior of the country.

BRIEFING FOR VIPS' MRS.

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—First Lady Pat Nixon, wives of cabinet and government officers and top women in government will be briefed Wednesday on domestic affairs.

The unprecedented meeting will be conducted in the cabinet room of the White House by John D. Ehrlichman, the President's assistant for domestic affairs.

Early in his administration, Nixon said he wanted the wives to be involved and to attend cabinet meetings at times. Two cabinet wives, Martha Mitchell and Mrs. George Romney, keep up on national affairs and speak out on them.

Voters To Pick Two In School Election

When Pampa voters go the polls in tomorrow's school board election they will have a choice of seven candidates for two positions. Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. in the Pampa High School Music Building.

For the first time in 9 years, the election place has been moved from the Pampa Junior High School gym and will be held in the new PHS music building. The music building is located on the west side of the high school campus and faces the north parking lot.

Candidates on the ballot are Warren Hasse, Richard Swearengen, D.W. Bond Jr., Irwin T. Winter, Ben Sturgeon and Jimmy Thompson. The Rev. Monroe Woods Jr., is a write in candidate.

Rev. Woods' name will not appear on the election ballot because of a misunderstanding about filing procedures. He was out of the city on a business trip when he learned he would have to personally sign an election affidavit, and found it impossible to make the March 4 deadline.

Seventy-five absentee ballots were cast, the same as last year when 1,305 ballots were counted. In the 1970 election, Bob Carmichael and John Gikas were elected for three-year terms out of five candidates were competing for the two positions available.Candidates were Carmichael, Gikas, Bud Hagan, John Spearman and Bob Wilhelm.

Election judges are N. Park Brown, Arthur Rankin and Ralph Dunbar.

The two incumbents this year, Hasse and Thompson, are both serving their first three year terms on the board. Thompson filed for re-election Feb. 19. Hasse and Winter both filed March 2.

Bond, the second candidate to file, announced his intention to run on Feb. 24. Swearengen filed for office March 1 with Sturgeon announcing his candidacy March 3, one day before the filing deadline.

Colonel Faces Court-Martial

By HOWARD FIELDS

FT. MEADE, Md. (UPI)— Col. Oran K. Henderson, charged with attempting to cover up the My Lai massacre, today faces court-martial proceedings. He is the highest ranking officer charged with My Lai-related crimes.

At preliminary hearings today in a tiny courtroom at 1st Army Headquartrs, Henderson will be asked to enter a plea.

The 1968 incident has led to life sentence at hard labor for Lt. William C. Calley, a subordinate officer.

The 50-year-old commander of the 11th Brigade which made the sweep into the hamlet is charged with dereliction of duty for not conducting "a proper and thorough investigation," and two charges of making false statements to a Pentagon inquiry.

The Army originally charged 25 soldiers with involvement in My Lai, but allegations against 21 were dropped for insufficient evidence.

Capt. Eugene M. Kotouc and Capt. Ernest Medina still face courts-martial. Henderson's court-martial is expected to begin in about six weeks.

The maximum penalty Henderson could receive if convicted on all three counts is four years and three months in prison, the loss of all pay and allowances and dismissal from the Army.

Henderson was in a helicopter 1,500 feet above My Lai when Calley's platoon was advancing.

IN FIRST EXPLANATION

Mutscher Claims He Lost Money Instead Of Making Stock Profit

AUSTIN (UPI) — "I want to assure you that at no time during my six terms in this House have I ever aided or abetted in the passage of any legislation for a financial consideration, directly or indirectly."

With those words House Speaker Gus Mutscher hoped to silence his critics who have complained about his actions in the Texas stock fraud controversy.

Mutscher left the speaker's podium Thursday to deliver his first public statement in connection with the stock scandal that allegedly involves a number of state officials including Mutscher being given payoffs at the same time the House was passing two banking bills. The payoffs came in the form of profits from stocks that were allegedly fraudulent manipulated so as to give the legislators who invested in them a quick, handsome profit.

No Connection

"At no time was there any connection in my mind between any legislation and my private stock transactions," Mutscher said.

The speaker claims he did not profit from the stock investment and, in fact, lost $250,000 by investing in National Bankers Life Insurance Company, a defendant in the stock fraud suit filed by the Securities and Exchange Commission. The money for the purchase of the stock allegedly came from the Sharpstown State Bank, another defendant in the suit and an affiliate of the life insurance company.

Mutscher said the "broad allegations" the two 1969 banking bills passed by the legislature "were enacted to enhance the value of National Bankers Life Insurance Company stock totally disregards the purposes and language of the bills themselves."

No Profits Made

Mutscher claims none of the defendants listed in the stock suit could have profited from the bills. However, Frank Sharp, the president of the Sharpstown Bank and the person who controlled National Bankers Life, strongly favored the bills which would have allowed his bank to escape the control of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. The stock suit also claims it was Sharp who arranged the loans to Mutscher and other Democratic politicians so they could invest in National Bankers Life.

"I assure you that I had no information upon which to base my desire to purchase National Bankers Life Insurance Company stock that was not available to the general investor," Mutscher said.

Mutscher said he bought 10,000 shares of National Bankers Life stock on July 23, 1969. He said he sold 7,500 of the shares on Sept. 11 for a $20,000 profit. On Oct. 8, he said, he bought 17,000 more shares and subsequently lost $250,000. The second purchase came nine days after Gov. Preston Smith vetoed the two banking bills Sharp allegedly wanted passed.

Explains Viewpoint

"Had there been any connection between the bills and the company, I certainly would not have bought a large amount of additional stock after the veto," Mutscher said.

The speaker said he wanted to make such a statement "from the beginning" but was advised by his attorneys to remain silent.

"My family and I have been reassured and at the same time deeply moved by the faith and confidence you have so warmly demonstrated during this period," Mutscher said. "I say to you that your confidence has not been misplaced."

TEAM NEEDS POLISH

DALLAS (UPI)— First string quarterback Gary Hammond, Southern Methodist's No. 1 halfback last season, hit James Lee Robinson for a 61-yard scoring pass during spring workouts Thursday, but Coach Hayden Fry says the team still needs polish on its passing attack. "We had a fine running and defensive scrimmage," however, he said. It was the last SMU spring workout before the Easter holidays.

Senate Alternative Tax Proposal Opposed By Industry Lobbyists

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — A handful of senators, claiming the House tax bill puts too much of a strain on the consumers, are offering as an alternative a corporate income tax and more taxes on beer and cigarettes.

Lobbyists for the beer and cigarette industry along with representatives of the chamber of commerce are vigorously opposing the moves.

"Business already pays a substantial portion of state taxes," said Wade Lorenz of Lake Jackson representing the South Texas Chamber of Commerce.

"A corporate income tax would be a serious detriment to our business climate," said Houston Chamber of Commrce representative Robert H. Brewer.

East Texas Chamber spokesman Quentin Abernathy of Gladewater recommendd teachers pay be frozen and other spending be cut to avoid new taxes.

Roy Evans, secretary-treasurer of the Texas AFL-CIO, supported the corporate income tax plan because he said the consumer already pays too much taxes.

"We are tired of paying through the nose while the giant corporations and the giant insurance companies and the giant banks mint money in Texas while escaping from fair taxation," Evans said. "A lot has been said about a taxpayers revolt, but I truly believe that we are on the threshhold of just such a thing unless this legislature spreads some of the tax burden around."

The testimony pro and con was heard Thursday by the Senate State Affairs Committee which, next week, will consider proposals for taxes on cigars, mixed drinks and admission to rodeos and amateur sporting events such as college and high school football games. Other testimony to be heard by the committee involves a $10-a-barrel tax on beer a 6 per cent tax on oil production and a 9 per cent tax on gas production plus a suggestion for collecting an additional one cent sales tax in areas not collecting a city sales tax.

UAW Agrees To Continue Negotiation

DETROIT (UPI)—The United Auto Workers agreed today to continue contract talks with American Motors Corp., little more than six hours before a threatened strike deadline.

The move came after the union rejected two contract proposals by AMC and had a counter offer of its own turned down by AMC negotiators. Talks were recessed at 1:05 a.m. and it is up to American officials to decide when negotiations will resume.

The strike had been scheduled to start at 6:45 a.m.

SHE'S PREGNANT AND TRAPPED

Teen-Age Runaway Suffering In Despair

By TOM TIEDE

NEWARK, N.J. (NEA)—At her request the girl herein will be called Janice. "Don't say I'm Jane Doe," she asks. "I'm not really dead. I only wish I was."

Janice is 18, blonde, short, pudgy.

Until last year Janice was like a good many of teh kids in large cities and small — "liberated" is the word most commonly used. Long hair which her mother didn't like; old clothes which her father complained about; bare feet, sometimes, which elicited excitement from the principal of her school. Not a bad kid. A confused kid. Out to beat a world in which she had grown up much too fast.

"I didn't like school. I didn't like home. I didn't like anything. I mean, everything was a drag. I remember once my father asked me to wash his car. I mean he told me. I got mad and said I wouldn't. He went out and filled a bucket with soapy water and said I would. I don't know why but I threw the bucket in the living room. Some things broke and it almost ruined the sofa. I'll never forget my dad then. He just walked out. He couldn't hit me, he couldn't yell any more, he couldn't do anything. So the poor old guy, he just walked out."

A few months after, Janice walked out, too. She joined what she calls the street scene, gave up school, took up soft drugs (pot and pills) and became infatuated with a boy on a red motorcycle who worked nights in a supermarket.

Now, half a year later, Janice wished she were dead.

She's pregnant. She's trapped.

She lives in a two-room, buggy apartment on whatever her boyfriend earns at the supermarket. At 18 years old she sits daily in an ancient chair next to a tlevision set and wonders how the heck she got this way.

Her case, of course, is hardly unique. Kids have forever gotten her way mysteriously. But the circumstaces here are a bit unusual. For one thing, she's not married; the trend among young peoople today, according to Census Bureau statistics, is to live together but not get married. For another thing, Janice is aware of her mistakes and is willing to discuss them with a candor that belies her age.

"I was a dope," she says, "I was just a dope."

Sitting uncomfortably on a floor cushion, twisting her hair into tangles, occasionally glancing at a soap opera on TV, the girl says it all with despair:

"Like, I can't blame nobody but myself. Not even my parents. My dad, he's not bad. He works in some shop or something. I don't even know what he does. I think he told me, but I never cared. And my mom, well, after I was 14 or 15 I thought she was a mess. She wouldn't fix her hair, she'd wear those baggy old slacks around the house. She always had this cigarette in her mouth. I didn't have anything in common with her, you know? Is that awful to admit?

"I always figured my marriage would be different (Janice refers to her situation, inaccurately, as marriage). I mean, Larry always made me feel so good. We'd go to a show and then sit in his car. Maybe have some grass. I never wanted to leave him. Each time it was better than before. The more I saw of him, the more I wanted to get married. The more I hated school, the more I wanted to leave home. Like, it got to be the only thing I wanted in the world, to be married to Larry."

To Janice, her courtship seemed a long time. Actually it was less than three months. The couple then decided that they would "do it the right way." Live together. Like marrieds. Only not really. No hangups, no formalities, no hassles.

"You know, I thought I'd never have the guts to leave home and live with him. Only I got pregnant, and there was no choice. (She says she usually took birth control pills, but goofed.) Larry got real mad when he heard about it, but he calmed down. We both decided that maybe it was for the better. So we got this apartment. I think he pays $110 a month or something. And at first it was really nice you know? We even had some parties. And I got out of cooking much by getting TV dinners. So it really wasn't bad. For a while at least.

"I don't know what happened. When you're pregnant, after a while you can't have any sex. Maybe that was it. Anyway, Larry started acting different. We started arguing. I couldn't go out because it was snowy and I was afraid offalling. He got into a wreck with the bike and we had to sell it. We got more doctor bills and some unexpected other things. I couldn't afford the TV dinners and the meals got bad. I don't know. It all went to pieces after a few months. Now I'm worried about Larry even. He talks about leaving. And I guess I cry a lot."

Indeed, she does cry a lot. In great sobs, while repeating her story. In small, quiet whimpers, when pauing for breath. "I'm sorry, I don't mean to bawl."

The girl wipes her eyes with her hair. She looks at the television set.

"You know what I wish. I wish I could go back to school. I was always going to be a cheerleader." She frowns. Pats her stomach. "What a cheerleader I'd make now." Again her face goes wet. "Oh,' she repeats, "I was such a dohpe."

Social Security Income Reports Must Be Filed

Most social security beneficiaries who earned over $1680 in 1970 must file an annaul report of their earnings with the Social Security Administration.

The deadline for filing the report is April 15, 1971, according to Howard L. Weatherly, manager of the Pampa Social Security office. Weathesly emphasized that the report was needed in addition to any Federal or State tax return.

Unless a beneficiary was age 72 or older all months of 1970 or is receiving disability benefits, he is required to file an annual report for last year if his earnings were over $1680. Earnings are defined as wages plus any self-employment insecretary, were declared persona dividends from stock, etc., are not considered as earnings for social security purposes.

Weatherly said the purpose of social security benefits is to replace earnings lost due to retirement, death, or disability. If a beneficiary continues to earn over an allowable amount, which is currently $1680, then some adjustment is made in the amount of his benefits. One dollar of his benefits is withheld for every two dollars earned between $1680 and $2880. If he earns over $2880 he loses one dollar for each dollar earned over that amount.

Weatherly said the annual report is used to determine whether or not payments made were correct and if not to make necessary adjustments.

U.S. Senate Republicans Charge Demos Play Politics With Viet

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Senate Republicans unleashed a partisan counter-attack against Democratic war critics Thursday, accusing them of harpinv, carping, sniping, and "rooting for the other side."

A half-dozen senators, led by Republican Leader Hugh Scott, rose after the opening buzzer to serve notice they would begin following Democratic critics to the floor and rebut their charges on the spot. They accused them of playing politics with Vietnam.

Scott said he would no longer permit the Senate's "sheep herd left" and "neo-isolationists" to go unchallenged. Sen. William Saxbe, R-Ohio, himself a critic of the war, said he was "sick and tired" of Democrats "playing politics" with the war.

The outburst followed passage by Democratic caucuses in both the House and Senate of resolutions urging total withdrawal from Indochina.

A spokesman for Scott said President Nixon and the minority leader, in a telephone conversation earlier this week, had decided that no future Democratic challenge to Vietnam policies would be permitted to go unanswered.

Scott said he would not "permit any senator in this chamber to prey on the emotions of the day and grab for the headlines by using snappy, eye-catching language, while being loose with the facts."

"It appears to me, as one of our nation's major news magazines reported on the war this week," he said, "that some are really rooting for the other side. If they are, they are giving comfort to the enemy and crying the same line of Moscow, Peking and Hanoi."

Saxbe, who has introduced legislation to bar American support for any South Vietnamese incursion into the North, noted he had a son in Vietnam and said he was "sick and tired of the war."

"One thing that distresses me even more, however, is those who continually play politics with this unfortunate war," he said. "I am also sick and tired of that."

He said only the President was in a position to steer the nation out of Vietnam and "we should unite behind the President as he moves with reasonable haste to get us out and keep us out."

Sen. Clifford Hansen, R-Wyo., blasted the "shocking display of intemperate criticism and carping directed both at our country and its allies."

Three freshmen senators joined in. Sen. Lowell Weicker Jr., R-Conn., blasted "irresponsible scambling" among Democrats, Sen. William Brock, R-Tenn., charged "a dirty and ugly campaign to discredit the President of the United States. Sen. Robert A. Taft, R Ohio, said it was "almost humourous to listen to the harping of some of my Democratic colleagues."

AND QUICKER DIVORCES

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI)—The Nevada assembly passed a liberalized divorce bill Wednesday which would reduce residency requirements in the state from six to three weeks.

The measure was approved 25 to 10 and sent to the state Senate after Assemblyman Howard McKissick argued three weeks wasn't a short time when a man and wife TIME WHEN A MAN AND "realize they are no longer animals locked in a cage of love, honor and obey."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America has made substantial progress during the last two years in feeding the hungry.

The food stamp program, which is the government's principal vehicle for helping poor people obtain adequate diets, has expanded dramatically. In the 1970 fiscal year, it covered only 3.6 million persons. This year, it covers 9.3 million. During the 1972 fiscal year beginning next July 1, it will supplement the diets of about 11 million persons.

Moreover, because of legislation proposed by President Nixon and enacted by Congress last year, food stamp sare now given free to the poorest families.

The school lunch program which provides hot lunches for poor children, thus assuring them of at least one nutritional meal a day, also has been nearly doubled in scope.

Total federal outlays for food assistance to the needy have climbed from just under $1 billion in fiscal 1970 to $2.2 billion this year, and under President Nixon's budget would rise to $2.5 billion in the coming fiscal year.

All of this adds up to a considerable advance in an area that should be of urgent concern to every well-fed citizen with a glimmer of humanitarianism. But it's not enough.

In fact, we've done only half the job of eliminating chronic hunger from this land of plenty.

The Senate Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs estimates from 3 to 4 million needy children are still beyond the reach of the school lunch program. Most of them are enrolled in 18,000 inner-city schools that have no facilities for preparing or serving hot lunches.

The committee says there are 12 million families who ought to be receiving food stamps but aren't. Many of thm are in the 1,000 counties that are still distributing surplus farm commodities instead of coming under the food stamp program, which has proved a vastly superior method of feeding the hungry.

12-Month Paid Vacation

Isn't it nice (?) to pay taxes? Sure is. It's even nicer to know where your hard-earned money is going. Like, for example, to young, tanned, able-bodied Bruce Fearing and his common law wife, Carol. One way or another, you are contributing to their 365-day-a-year vacation high in the redwood country of northern California — not because the Fearings are unable to work, but because they refuse to work.

Perhaps you saw the story in a recent issue of Newsweek Magazine. Fearing, raised with a silver spoon, educated at Harvard and Columbia Universities, employed for ten years as a technical writer in New York City, simply stopped working for a living. "For the first time," Newsweek quotes him, "I'm really doing what I want. I just want to live simply out in the country with my family." "Living simply" means a wood cabin, an A-frame barn, two goats, eighteen chickens, no phone, no plumbing, no running water. No garden, either, apparently — because they are supported by Welfare Funds in the amount of $172 a month . . . which sum includes support for the unborn child. (Isn't it strange — the rights of the child include welfare support money, but not the right to live if the mother should decide on an abortion). Of the welfare check, says Newsweek, $50 goes for the payment of "their" 80-acres of land they are buying. "Their" land? Since the American taxpayers are paying for the land, should not it belong to them??

In addition — continues the report—another $48 goes for government food stamps. That means that you are kicking in an additional $48, because every food stamp gets double the value in grub. Aren't we nice to the Fearings?

To his credit, the Humboldt, California welfare director yanked the Fearings off the list; but Fearing went to court, and —need we say?—got back the permanent vacation pay.

That's the way things work according to the rules and regulations of the Health, Education and Welfare people in Washington. If you want it changed, ask your congressman to do something about it.

4,004 New Bureaucrats

There's small reason to wonder why the government bureaucracy continues to expand and the national spending continues to climb. A couple of news items are in point.

United Press International reports that "the Labor Department has assigned 900 compliance officers to assure payment of the $1.30 minimum hourly wage for farm workers."

It seems the bureaucrats have discovered that quite a few workers do not report to Washington that they are working for less than the legally-established minimum wage "for fear of losing their job," according to Administrator Robert D. Moran, "Similarly, many farm operators do not appear to be aware of the requirements which the law imposes."

It just might be that many of the workers know that the farmer can't afford to pay any more and might have to go out of business if he had to pay even the minimum wage. Or it could be that some workers are satisfied with what they are receiving. But the bureaucrats of the Labor Department don't seem to mind that they may put more workers out of jobs and force more small farmers to sell out to the big corporate farmers who can afford to mechanize their operations and then pay more to a lot fewer workers.

The second item is the announcement that Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally is requesting $67.2 million increase for the Internal Revenue Service in its "compliance section." This would finance an additional 3,104 workers to make sure that the last drop of income tax is obtained and for expanded checking on exempt organizations.

While tax payers, large and small, are being forced to cut back on spending in these troubled times, the "new aristocracy" of America, employes of government, just keep on expanding.

Apparently it won't stop until the tax sources are dried up.

New-Found 'Mad Money'

Everybody gets a raise this year, of sorts.

Thanks chiefly to an end to the income tax surcharge and increase in personal exemptions, the average American will have to work only two hours and 37 minutes out of an eight-hour day to pay his state, local and federal taxes, reports the Tax Foundation.

Last year the figure was two hours and 43 minutes. That means an extra six minutes' worth of "mad money" every day.

Don't spend it all in one place.

Question Box

QUESTION: If one couple can live on $100 a month on Social Security, why can't another couple live on $100 a month on welfare?

ANSWER: We are not qualified to say how much a person or a couple can live on. Both the welfare program and Social Security are political programs designed to take tax money from all people to finance those who are unable or unwilling to care for themselves.

Actually, when the Social Security program was adopted, the politicians said it was to be an insurance program, with payments to be based on the amount a worker paid in. The people also were told that when the bulk of persons were covered by Social Security, the Old Age Assistance program would be eliminated. Neither promise has been kept.

Social Security payments were supposed to supplement the savings of the oldsters, who were expected to be able to make some preparations for their declining years. But taxation at all levels has made it more difficult for a worker to save and invest so he can care for himself. If he has acquired savings, government-induced inflation has robbed him of the value of his savings, just as it has reduced the purchasing power of the government payments.

As to whether a couple can live on $100 a month, it is doubtful that any couple can more than barely exist on that amount in an urban area in the present inflationary times. In rural areas, that amount can be stretched by people who can supplement their diets from their own produce. This, of course, also is possible by people who have city lots where they can grow some of their own food.

Much depends on the individuals involved. Some people can "make do" and lead an enjoyable and pleasant life on little money. Others will be in trouble with much more in money, but not the will to make the best of what they have.

How To Get Facts About Drug Abuse

By MAX FRIEDMAN

One of the most dangerous problems that the youth of America faces today is that from drug abuse and narcotics addiction. Never before in the history of America has this problem been so widespread in terms of geographic distribution, by levels of education, and at different levels of income.

The role of the parents in dealing with their children and the drug problem is becoming more vital every day. Any parent who cares about their children should not only know what drugs are and what they can do when misused, but also what the symptoms of their misuse are.

A number of excellent pamphlets and booklets have been prepared by the U.S. Government and various research organizations which give specific details about the drug porblem. Four pamphlets of tremendous importance for learning about the effects of various drugs hve been published by the National Institute of Mental Health, Public Information Branch, Chevy Chase, Maryland, 20015, and can also be obtained from the Government Printing Office (GPO), Washington, D.C., 20402, for a few cents.

These specific pamphlets are entitled:

(1) "LSD: Some Questions and Answers", (2) "Narcotics: Some Questions and Answers," (3) "Marijuana: Some Questions and Answers," and (4) "The Up and Down Drugs: Amphetamines and Barbiturates."

A "must" booklet for concerned parents on the drug problem is "A Federal Source Book: Answers to the Most Frequently Asked Questions About Drug Abuse," and is distributed by the National Clearinghouse For Drug Abuse Information, 5454 Wisconsin Avenue, Chevy Chase, Maryland, 20015.

For the more scholarly inclined, the Library of Congress, Legislative Reference Service section, has prepared a "Selective Bibliographic References: Drug Abuse in the United States," which contains sources from news articles, books, and reports on the drug problem. For teachers who are interested in this subject, the book "Resource Book for Drug Abuse Education" is another "must," an is available from either GPO ($1.25-PHS Publication-1964) or the above mentioned National Clearinghouse for Mental Health Information. While technical in some parts, this book is still a handy guide to many of the problems that people face with drug abuse, addiction, and related issues.

An anti-drug poster sums up the dangers of drug abuse when it says "You only get one mind; don't blow it." The mind or life that you can save by a decent knowledge of the drug problem may be that of your own child. You owe them that help if it ever becomes necessary.

Wit And Whimsy

About the only thing that will give you more for your money now than it did 10 years ago is the penny scale at the drug store.

STRAIGHT TALK:

The Federal Income Tax Needs A Good Overhauling

By TOM ANDERSON

A Southern farmer wrote the collector of Internal Revenue:

"I received your letter about what I owe you. Now be pachent. I ain't forgot you, and as soon as folks pay me I'll pay you. But if this wuz Jedgement Day, and you no mor prepared to meet your God than I am to meet your account, you sho going to Hell."

And that's not a bad idea.

The way taxes are in this country you might as well marry for love. The "Liberals" will never be able to cure poverty, but if prices and taxes continue going out the roof, they're sure to cure wealth. Taxpayers are the only people who don't have to pass a civil service test, be appointed, or get elected, to work for the government.

On Black Sunday, February 25, 1913, the Federal Government was authorized to levy an income tax: 3 per cent to 7 per cent. Some alarmist in Congress argued that there should be a permanent limitation on the percentage, otherwise some day it could rise as high as 10 per cent. He was laughed down. The first year of tax yielded only $80 million. A per capita loot of 82 cents. In 1913, a single man making $5,000 a year paid $20 federal income tax.

At the beginning of World War I, 9 cents of every dollar of income went to the tax collector. At the peak of World War II, it ballooned to 27½ cents. It is now 37 cents. Today, the Federal Government costs us more than $229 billion a year, and state and local governments cost us $100 billion.

If not income taxes, what? Former Commissioner of Internal Revenue T. Coleman Andrews, a great American, thinks the Added Value Tax, now widely used in Europe, might be the answer. Under it, every business firm makes a one-page return, showing the total amount of money taken in from sales during the tax year; the total paid out for goods and services; and state and local taxes. If receipts exceed disbursements, the difference is the "added value" to the products and-or services of the company. All businesses, big, little, co-op, corporate, or individual, would pay the same rate on the added value. Mr. Andrews estimates that at 13.1 per cent, the tax on all "added values" of all businesses would produce as much revenue as all federal income taxes now collected from corporations and individuals. Others think a low, flat rate sales tax is the fairest and best tax.

If the federal income tax is to be retained, it should be drastically changed and made a flat tax rate with no deductions. It could be progressive, from, say, 10 per cent to 50 per cent of gross income, with no deductions to anybody for anything. And "gross income" would also apply to co-ops and others who are in business but claim their net income is no profit. "No deductions" would be hard on the legitimate charities. And the tax simplification would put many accountants out of business. Also many tax lawyers and many of the 70,000 IRS bureaucrats, collectors, flunkies and spies.

But as Mark Twain said: "But no, that would be common sense — and out of place in government."

Loopholes make the progressive income tax much less progressive than it might seem. And it is impossible to close all loopholes. Therefore it is probably wrong to put too much dependence on this or any other one tax source.

Every IRS commissioner, back to and including T. Coleman Andrews, is for abolishing or drastically reforming the income tax law.

Anybody who has ever taken just one smart pill knows that what the Internal Revenue Department is doing is not right, but we certainly have to hand it to them — except for the poor and the super-rich, that is:

Former Treasury Secretary Joseph Barr says the $7,000 to $20,000 income families are paying more than half of all income taxes.

The Rich? What do the super rich care about taxes? Their standard of living is affected not a whit. They can put all of their money in tax exempt government bonds and in tax exempt Foundations and still live like kings. Now this does not mean that you can or should live off government bonds. It takes quite a few at 6 per cent to live like the Kennedys, the Johnsons and the Rockefellers.

With Some Reservation

By INJUN WOODY

Now it comes out that one in every eight Americans would like to pull up stakes and move to another country. This number is twice as big as it was in 1959, before the socialists took over, and is three times greater than it was a generation ago. . .

No wonder! I'll bet the figures are really higher than that. The knuckleheads who keep piling taxes upon taxes, penalizing the industrious and rewarding the shiftless, all for the benefit of propagating themselves into bigger bureaucracies are running out the very citizens who lay the golden eggs. . .

Add to this the number of young people, those who have become disillusioned with the strata of present day politics, who fully intend to leave as soon as they get the chance, and you have a veritable exodus. . .

Their reason for leaving can be determined by viewing the selection of countries they most want to emigrate to. No socialist countries for them — mainly they would like to settle in Australia or Switzerland, practically the only two countries left where free-enterprise ideas still hold sway.

Three out of 10 young adults here between the ages of 18 and 29, with college training, intend to leave as soon as they can reasonably make arrangements to do so. And where does that leave us?

Get 2nd Opinion on Heart Irregularity

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am a professional man and must meet the public. Sometimes in the middle of a public appearance I have to leave abruptly and lie down because I have paroxysmal tachycardia. I am hospitalized for a few hours many times every month because the attacks last three or four hours. I read your book, doctor. Can nothing be done for such as us? My doctor says I have no signs of heart trouble and he wants me to learn to live with it.

That is easy for him to say. My job is in jeopardy because of my sudden unexplained disappearances with my attacks. My doctor says medicine should not be given a good heart — so what can I do? Give up everything?

Dear Reader—I understand your problem well. For years I dealt with pilots who had no heart disease but had an irregularity of the heart that could cause them problems while flying. It was always difficult. Many heart specialists would agree that if a person really had had repeated episodes of heart irregularity that incapacitated the patient, usually some medicine should be given in an effort to prevent the attacks. These are not tranquilizers or sedatives but medicines that have a direct action on the heart muscle.

Why don't you ask your doctor to arrange a consultation with a cardiologist at one of the nearest university medical centers? All reputable physicians welcome a second opinion and help with difficult cases. If for some reason nothing can be done to improve your situation, then you will both feel better about your management and have a better relationship with each other.

Here is an interesting item for people with hands deformed by rheumatoid arthritis. Some of them can be reconstructed using silicone rubber. The joints may not return to perfect function but hands can be made to be more effective.

The operation for the hand involves removing the knuckle joint and replacing it with a hinge joint of silicone rubber. Some patients have improved to nearly 75 per cent of the original efficiency. The rubber joints are expected to outlive the patients.

Dr. James Urbaniak of the orthopedic service at Duke University who has pioneered this procedure cautions, however, that patients with rheumatoid arthritis need a complete evaluation since the disease involves more than just joints. Many patients can be helped by other procedures. The operation has helped in other deformities like those occurring in accident victims or Vietnam war casualties.

Rheumatoid arthritis is not the same thing as wear-and-tear arthritis.

SALT Halt — Though Conversation Continues

Robert Allen

WASHINGTON — In the back rooms, where events are carefully considered and candidly assessed, the once-high hopes for negotiating a strategic arms limitation agreement with Russia have reached a low ebb.

In Vienna the fourth round of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) are underway. The carefully non-committal reports there continue to suggest rational exchanges without the polemics which have undercut U.S.-U.S.S.R. conferences in the past.

A month ago President Nixon's state-of-the world review spoke hopefully of SALT. Three weeks ago the annual military posture statement of the Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird stressed the importance of the negotiations.

It must be reported, nonetheless, that current prospects for the talks are poorer than they have been at any time since the sessions began in Helsinkiin November 1969. At least three factors are contributing to this glum prognosis.

In the first place, the euphoria spread when the Soviets curtailed deployment of their giant SS-9 intercontinental missile has been wholly dispelled. Now the Pentagon has confirmed that the Russians are at work on silos to accommodate new missiles as big or bigger than the SS-9.

The exact meaning of the new silos has not been determined. It appears, however, that Moscow is undertaking some new inititative to improve and and its nuclear strike force. expond its nuclear strike force.

In the text of his foreign policy review Mr. Nixon — who had reportedly been given preliminary data on the new silos — called for weapons restraint, and added: "If the Soviet leaders extend their strategic capabilities, especially in ways that increase the threat to our forces, we would face new decisions in the strategic field."

ALREADY AT IMPASSE — It should also be understood that the arms talks were in an apparently insoluble disagreement — if not already at impasse — when the third round ended in Helsinki. It had become clear that there was no chance for a truly comprehensive limitation on offensive and defensive strategic arms.

An old issue in U.S.-U.S.S.R. negotiations was largely responsible. Once again, as in the past, Russia was unwilling to permit on site inspection of arms installations and, without such inspection, there appeared to be no way to assess the quality of strategic weapons — specifically, the number of multiple warheads with which intercontinental missiles were armed.

In that deadlock over curbing missile offensives the chief Russian negotiator, Vladmir S. Semyonov, proposed a limitation on missile defenses — on ABM systems. The United States had favored such a defense limitation — but as part of a offense-defense package.

With the Soviets apparently installing a new offensive capability, Presdent Nixon has now rejected the 'ABMs only" approach, although it is reported to have advocates in the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., one of the Democratic presidential dark horses, is drumming up congressional support for an ABMs only agreement. He argues that such a limitation on defenses is "Better than no agreement at all."

In his foreign policy review, Mr. Nixon called that a dangerous viewpoint. He said, "The strategic balance would be endangered if we limited defensive forces alone and left the offensive threat to our strategic forces unconstrained."

To the President's general comments, Pentagon experts would add that the U.S. ABM is designed to protect U. S. offensive missiles, while the Soviet ABM system protects Moscow — and that ABM-only restrictions would further imperil U.S. offensive power.

MORE TROUBLE IN MOSCOW — This unhappy situation in Vienna will be further complicated tomorrow in Moscow. There, the long-awaited Communist Party Congress is to convene.

Kremlin leaders, in the view of experts here, have done their best to set the stage for a display of party unity in support of the current party leadership. New initiatives are not anticipated — especially in the potentially difficult foreign policy area.

Already there are speculative reports from Vienna indicating that Russian SALT negotators will not be breaking any new ground for a while. All indications are that Semyonov and his colleagues will play for time — at least for the time being while the congress is in session.

So the short-term SALT prospects are for delay, and the long-range prospects are clouded by disagreements which do not seem to have a solution now. That's what is dismaying the boys in the back rooms.

The Manion Forum

BI MARILYN MANION

DOES IT MATTER WHO WINS?

The rally cry of the anti-war protesters has long been "Get us out of Viet Nam." President Nixon is doing that now — withdrawing American troops — but his program has a hitch that the peaceniks abhor. The hitch is Vietnamization, a process which the President hopes will enable the South Vietnamese to adequately protect themselves from their Communist enemies.

Why is it so important that a Communist victory be thwarted? Aside from American pride, or even the domino theory, what difference does it make whether or not the Reds capture control of South Vietnam? Before you can begin to answer these questions, a bit of history is in order.

Father Daniel Lyons, editor of Twin Circle and an expert on the Far East, provided that history to Manion Forum listeners a few weeks ago when Dean Clarence Manion interviewed him on the air. Herewith, some elemental facts which you may not have caught on the evening news:

"Viet Nam was officially divided in 1954. In 1951, Ho Chi Minh put on what he called a 'land rent reduction program.' This was a punitive tax program which broke the back of all organized resistance in North Viet Nam.

"In 1953 and 1954, he had what he called the 'next phase' of this program and he organized cadres to go around to the villages and set up kangaroo courts. Quotas were set on the number of people to be executed and put in prison. The number was set arbitrarily and they had to fulfill the quota. It didn't matter much who they killed.

"It was a program to terrorize the people to the point where they would be no real opposition left. Finally, in 1955 he had the third phase of his terrorism, and the quota of people to be killed and to be imprisoned was increased 500 pee cent. So that by 1956, in that little country of North Viet Nam, Ho Chi Minh and his forces had killed 100,000 people.

"Now let us turn to the present and the future — what would happen if the Communists won the war? In May of last year, the Rand Corporation published a study which includes hte official records kept by the U. S. government of civilians who have been assassinated in South Viet Nam and who have been kidnapped. In the last four years, there have been 43,936 kidnapped or assassinated. We have many, many times found documents of the Viet Cong and of North Viet Nam saying what they will do when they take over the South. They have published lists and it breaks down into 15 categories of people who will be assassinated.

"It has been estimated that this list, if strictly applied to all of South Viet Nam, would total at least 3 million, so one out of every five would be executed or imprisoned. Do we have any proof they will do this? We know that they did it in the North. We know that when they went into Hue, within one week they killed 10 per cent of all the people in that city."

Who will answer for the innocent victims of "Peace"?

Jordan And Syria Accuse Each Other Of Intensifying Situation

By United Press International

Syria warned Jordan Thursday that new strikes by King Hussein's troips against Arab guerrilla bases in Jordan will have "serious consequences." Jordan accused Syria of allowing guerrillas to shell Jordanian territory from the Syrian side of the border.

The ifficial Jordanian News agency also said an "infantry force" crossed into a North Jordan village Wednesday but was given back into Syria by Jordanian forces. It did not say if the infantry force was Syrian or from the Palestinian Liberation Army.

Jirdan has been threatened by renewed civil war since last Friday when government troops carried out what Egypt and other Arab nations called a "massacre" of guerrilla forces at Irbid. There was renewed violence in Amman Thursday.

The Jordanian agency said Syrian-based Palestinian guerrillas shelled five north Jordan villages Wednesday with rockets and mortars and that the village but was driven back to hit by heavy machinegun fire.

"An infantry force advanced into the police post of the village but was drive nback to Syrian territory by post members and members of the People's Resistance Army (a government supported paramilitary force) in the village," the agency said.

The agency did not explain what it meant by the infantry force and did not indicate if it was from the regular Syrian army or from the Palestinian Liberation Army, th e"regular" army of the Palestinians and which is based mainly in Syria.

The worsening crisis, between Syria and Jordan blew up while Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad was in Paris trying to win west European support fir Egypt in the stalemated peace negotiations with Israel.

Riad emerged Thursday from a conference with President Georges Pompidou and with a broad smile claimed victory in his campaign. He said this and other meetings with European leaders had convinced them that the Egyptian stand was right and the Israeli stand was wring.

Egypt has offered to sign a peace treaty with Israel if the Israelis withdraw from all occupied territories. Israel insists on retaining some conquered land to guarantee secure borders against possible Arab attacks in the future.

The Syria-Jordan crisis overshadowed the peace talks.

The Syrian warning was delivered in Damascus by foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam in a midnight meeting with Jordanian Ambassador Subhi Abu Ghneimeh.

The semiofficial Middle East News Agency (MENA) quoted Khaddam as telling Ghneimeh:

"Syria has information about the deployment of the Jordan army with the aim of striking at commando bases. Any military moves against the Palestinian guerrilla bases in Jordan will have serious consequences for the Arab cause."

Of God And Man

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

Since consumers are having their say in all fields these days, it may be in order for a veteran sermon-listener to offer a few suggestions to preachers.

The ifrst is simply a reiteration of what every good seminary has been trying to teach students for years. Alas, too many preachers seem to forget it after they gain access to a pulpit.

Don't preach too long. Twelve to 15 minutes is a sufficient length for sermons. Twenty minutes is the absolute maximum. Any good that may be accomplished in the early stages of a marathon sermon is dissipated by the rising irritation of the captive audience when a preacher drones on and on.

The second piece of advice is closely related to the first: Get right to the point. Don't beat around the bush with long-winded introductory remarks. Don't digress into irrelevant drolleries. Don't try to impress your listeners with your erudition by quoting copiously from the Scriptures or vogue theologians.

When you make your point, stop—even if you've been preaching only five minutes. Anti-climax is even deadlier in speaking than in writing.

Suggestion number three: Always use the language of the people you're addressing—not the (to them) exotic language of theology. People who are familiar with the Bible, or who read a lot of religious books, can communicate with each other in a kind of jargon that is utterly baffling to most laymen.

The fourth suggestion is: Don't try to water down the Gospel to make it easier for your listeners to believe and accept. If you soft-pedal the supernatural aspects of the Christian faith because you think "modern" minds may find them incredible, you will drive people to seek elsewhere—either in another church or in some weird "occult" practice—for a transrational dimension of existence.

Finally, remember that a sermon should appeal to the heart and will as well as to the mind. The most that rational argument can do is remove invalid prejudices against religious truth. The leap of faith—the decision to risk one's life on the possibility that Jesus really is the way—takes place at a deeper level of the human personality than logic alone can reach.

Thus a good sermon is not just an argument or a moral lecture or a sales talk, but a challenge, an invitation, a dare and a promise.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Despite all of the post-mortems that followed the demise of the supersonic transport project, none that I have seen established the actual cause of death.

Environmental and noise problems mentioned in most of the autopsy reports merely were complications that the SST could have survived except for a fatal mistake.

The mistake was assigning the federal government's role in the program to the Transportation Department.

Being administered by the Transportation Department caused the SST program to become identified in the public mind with transportation. Which is about the worst thing that can happen when you are trying to get money out of Congress.

Conditions in this country are such that anything coming under the heading of transportation automatically makes people nervous and apprehensive.

When we think of transportation, we think of disappearing passenger trains, massive traffic jams, freeways laceratng the cities, airliners endlessly circling Moosejaw while waiting for an open runway in Albuquerque.

In short, when we think of transportation, we shudder.

If that is the worst thing that can happen when you are trying to get money out of congress, the best thing that can happen is to have a project become identified with defense.

The congressional record for approving costly defense projects borders on the phenomenal. It is clear then, in retrospect, that the SST should have been assigned to the Pentagon.

Youths Bake District Show Food Entries

The District I 4-H Food Show will be held Saturday, April 3, in Amarillo with four girls participating from Gray County. County entries are Regina Atwood and Stephanie Eastham; seniors and Elaine Webb and Kelly Dougal, junirs.

Each girl will prepare a dish in one of the four food groups, and set up an appropriate table setting for her dish.

The senior girls must prepare a quick dish which is one defined as one that is prepared and ready for service in 1½ hours.

Objectives of the 4-H Food Show are to help 4-H Club members — Develop leadership talents and to work toward achieving the broad objective of character and effective citizenship and to understand the interrelation of science, nutrition, and food preparation.

They also study the signs of good health and food needs of different age groups, work to develop desirable eating habits and develop skills in buying foods by studying food costs.

They develop skills in managing time and work in planning preparation, and service of nutritious meals and learn to store foods to conserve the nutritional value and for safety.

The winners of each Senior division will be eligible to compete on the state level in June.

Altrusa Members Select Officers

Members of the Altrusa Club of Pampa who attended a noon meeting in the Coronado Inn recently elected new officers and named Mrs. D.B. Jameson as president.

Other officers were Miss Evelyn Mason, vice president; Mrs. Glyndene Shelton, recording secretary; Mrs. Maynard Johnson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W.L. Cox, treasurer and Mrs. C.L. Sullins, director.

Members voted to host an evening for the meeting of the Top of Texas Medical Society in April.

Members discussed the Cancer Crusade Drive, and the Pampa High School Career Clinic, which is sponsored jointly by Altrusans, Jaycees, and the Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Ted Weeks read a request from six Pampa women who had relatives listed as missing in action or prisoners of the Vietnamese. The Pampa's were requesting signatures on petitions to be sent to Vietnam powers.

Mrs. M.Q. Wilson gave the Altrusa Accent on the selection of delegates to the international conference. Memebrs voted to contribute to medical expenses of a Pampa teenage girl.

Mrs. Willard Henderson announced the selection of Pampa as the site of the district nine conference in October.

Presbyterian Church Plans Services

Rev. Martin Hager, First Presbyterian Church pastor, will use "The Roar of the Crowd" as the topic for the sermon at both the 8:30 and 11 a.m. Worship services this Sunday. The text for the sermon will be taken from Mark 11 : 1-11.

The guest soloist this Sunday will be Miss Elena A. Donald. The Choir is under the direction of Mrs. Carol Mackey. Organist, Donnie Jones will present "Adagio" by Mendelssohn as the Offertory.

Junior and Seniro High Fellowships will meet this Sunday afternoon at their regular time. Session Meeting is scheduled for this Wednesday evening at 7 p.m. in the West Room. Choir Rehearsal will be at 7:30 p.m. This Thursday evening at 8 p.m. will be Maundy Thursday Communion services. Rev. Hager will use as his sermon topic "Priests to His God." The public is cordially invited to attend these services.

Beginning this Monday, April 5, the week prior to Easter, Rev. Hager and Dr. Han will meet in the West Room each morning at 10 a.m. for study of the scriptures and prayer. You are invited to attend.

Fabric Styling Welcomes Spring

Excitement in spring home furnishings centers on fabric styling and color, reports Mrs. Jan Slabaugh, Extension housing and home furnishings specialist at Texas A&M University. And getting new emphasis as a fiber is olefin, formerly used on medium-priced upholstered furniture.

Olefin is a very durable fiber thus, provides for easy care. Fabrics made of olefin are now available in brighter, deeper tones — from shocking pink and ginger to the all -time favorites olive and antique gold.

The fabrics also offer great versatility in design, including plaids, stripes, solids, patterns, and prints.

In keeping with today's trend, texture is all-important, the specialist says. Surface interest in olefin is created with nubby and slubbed fabrics, straited textures, chenilles, and textured and patterned jacquards. Mrs. Slabaugh adds that olefin is also used for carpets, which are durable, highly styled, luxurious and easy-to-clean, as well as for upholsteries.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband just told me he doesn't love me anymore and wants to split up. I'm not sure why all this come up, but I still love him and don't want to split up. We have no children. He's a graduate student and I helped put him through school.

He claims there is nobody else. He just wants a divorce. He also says that if we split up he wants to know where I am so he can come over and get his beard trimmed.

What should I do? Hang on to a guy who doesn't want me? Or tell him off and let him go?

TROUBLED IN COLORADO

DEAR TROUBLED: For the moment, don't do anything. A man who demands a divorce but wants his "ex" within shouting distance in case he wants his beard trimmed doesn't sound very mature to me. I'll say this for him, though He sure trusts you!

DEAR ABBY: My sister took up karate lessons on my mother's request for her own protection. My problem is that every time one of my friends comes over, my sister practices some of her karate on them, and they go home black and blue.

If I try to tell my sister to leave my friend alone she bounces me around the room and tells me to shut up as she is a year older than me. Can you help me?

LOSING FRIENDS

DEAR LOSING: Tell her she may have a "brown belt" or a "black one," but if she continues to karate your friends or yourself, you'll belt her! And then do it, Chop Chop!

DEAR ABBY: "SAD DAD" who wished he could get his 18-year-old daughter to hsave her legs should send her to visit my family in Cuernavaca, near Mexico City. She would be in high style with her hairy legs.

My family is an old Mexican family of pure, unmixed Spanish blood. All the women are proud of their hairy legs, and would no more think of shaving their legs than shaving their heads.

At 17, I joined my brother at the University of Texas. When he noticed the hair on my legs (it looked like fur), he said, "Not here, sister. Shave it off, and keep it off!" I did, and soon learned that nearly all American girls shaved their legs.

When I returned to Cuernavaca, my mother and grandmother were scandalized at my hairless legs. They made me wear heavy woolen stockings until my legs were "furry" and presentable again.

When my finance came to Cuernavaca just before our wedding and saw my hairy legs, he nearly gagged but said nothing. Of course, I shaved them the first night away from home, and have kept them shaved ever since.

First United Methodist Church

Services at the First United Methodist Church will be held at 8:45 and 11 a.m. with the pastor, Dr. H. Dewitt Seago preaching at both services. His sermon topic will be, "His Last Visit To the Temple." The Scripture background will be Matthew 21:1-11. Music at the 8:45 a.m. service will be provided by the Carol choir composed of children from the kindergarten and first grade. They will sing "Once to Jerusalem Jesus Did Come" by Rev. William Grime. Ernest Upton will sing an offertory solo, "Open the Gates of the Temple" by Knapp. At the 11 a.m. service, the sanctuary choir will sing "The Palms," by Faure with Gary Tibbits as soloist.

At 6 p.m. the Sanctuary Choir under the direction of Morris Kille, Minister of Music, will sing the Cantata "The Seven Last Words of Christ" by Theodore Dubois. Soloists for the presentation will be Mrs. Glen Cox, Mrs. Mike Case, Ed Juenger, Mrs. Calvin Lacy, Mrs. Malcolm McDaniel, Gary Tibbits and Ernest Upton. Tracy Cary, organist, will accompany the choir with Steve Higdon assisting at the Timpani.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla.—State Rep. R. O. Cassity Jr., during debate about a resolution urging clemency for Lt. William L. Calley Jr.:

"... It is most sorrowful that a few of our misguided citizens should choose to forget that the real victims of this incident were the men, women and children of My Lai."

LOS ANGELES—Herman Tubick, foreman of the jury that convicted Charles Manson and three codefendants, saying he knew nothing of sexual activities among the jurors:

"We have our inside jokes, we may have played around a lot, but as for the hanky panky, I really don't know."

WASHINGTON—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., pushing for a bill to create 150,000 jobs:

"We have 5.4 million workers unemployed today. We cannot stand silent on the hope that something might happen next year."

AUSTIN, Tex.—Rep. Lane Denton, who helped with a commendation that passed the Texas House of Representatives praising the Boston Strangler for population control:

"No one reads these bills or resolutions. If someone gets up and says it's a good proposal, then everybody votes yes without reading it or even giving it a good second thought."

Improvement is liberty since by freedom there are as many possible centers of improvements as there are individuals."

The Weekly Message of Inspiration...

First United Methodist Church

Matthew 21:1-17, 33-46

Whenever we hear of a case in which a person has only a short time to live, we realize how important these last weeks, days, hours must seem to him. No doubt such a person often thinks: Is this the way I want to use this precious time? It was so with Jesus as he "set his face to go to Jersualem." He knew his life was approaching a crisis, and everything he did moved toward the completion of his mission.

The manner of Jesus' entry to the city was deliberately planned. People do not walk up to tied animals that don't belong to them and lead them away unless arrangements have been made. "The Lord has need of them," sounds like a password. The devout Passover crowds would identfy this arrival with the Messianic prophecy of Zechariah 9:9. The choice of an ass instead of a horse would say that this king came in peace, not in war.

When Jesus came to the Temple, He asserted His authority in another dramatic act. He found the outer court filled with booths where animals were sold at inflated prices for sacrifice & money was exchanged at high rates to pay the Temple tax. There was nothing wrong with either the sacrifice or the tax, but it was wrong to exploit the religious devotion of simple people by the excessive charges of the Temple monopoly. With only the force of his righteous anger, Jesus drove the venders from the sacred enclosure, quoting Isaiah that God's house should be a place of prayer. He then responded to the needs of the sick, and after a brief confrontation with the authorities, departed for the night.

When Jesus returned the next day, the priestly leaders were waiting to challenge his authority. This time he replied with spoken parables, one of which is our final scripture reference.

In this time of trouble, Jesus came as the Prince of Peace. He counseled people to love their enemies and to turn the other cheek. If a Roman soldier compelled them to carry his pack one mile, they should carry it two. He advised paying the tax to Caesar and told Pilate that his Kingdom was not of this world.

The response of the nation to this message was nationalistic, not religious. They hailed him Palm Sunday because they thought he came to deliver them from their oppressor. But when he did not start an uprising, they lost interest. They did not want to "repent and believe in the good news."

Again, we note that self-interest blinds men to reality. We should expect the rulers and elders to have been alert to the nations dangers. But they were so incensed by Jesus' threat to their authority and profits that they could not listen to his message. As a result of their blindness, their Temple and city were destroyed, and their nation ceased to exist for nineteen centuries.

We also learn that the judgment of God cannot be escaped. Paul wrote, "Do not be deceived; God is not mocked, for whatever a man sows, that he will also reap." (Galatians 6:7) If accepted and obeyed, Jesus can become the corner stone of a life or a nation. But if rejected and defied, he is the stone that will crush and restroy our cities and towns.

Your Horoscope

YOUR BIRTHDAY SATURDAY: This is a year of expansion, departure from long established habits and personal customs. Changes are smooth but definite, taken deliberately rather than imposed suddenly. Saturday's natives usually have abundant energy. Many of them specialize in food and its handling, others seek mystical subjects for specialization.

ARIES (March 21-April 20): Put your fullest strength to the test this morning; see how much change you can create.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): — A smile costs you nothing, produces all manner of subtle and desirable benefits. Talk soup with friends, findsome way to impart the fun you get from your work.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Get used to the idea of being busy and on the move all week-end with visitors, new contacts, people 'needing' advice. Relatives, neighbors have news and are interested in your comment.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Common sense with a bit of intuition thrown in saves the day. You needn't push matters any faster than they are already moving.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Family ties turn out stronger than is convenient, perhaps requiring the switching of plans, postponing outside activities.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): This can be a most encouraging weekend, in which you take the first steps on a delayed, hoped-for personal project.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your opinions find a larger audience than usual — and may influence your future — be careful of what you say, how you direct it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Don't start any argument, or even reply now. Look, listen, and learn beofre you jump in.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Personal loyalties compel you to take sides without reference to facts, or before you get them straight. Your friends just might be in error.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): —Wait for the full story before settling your schedule, organizing a project for the weekend. There are expectable last minute complications.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): —Your search for the complete standard pattern is hindered now with interruptions and exceptions. Attend to the most pressing immediate questions.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Extend yourself and be generous to those you care about now, while you have so many opportunities.

The Picture that launched Australia's new First Lady on a thousand front pages around the world, right, showed a great deal more of Mrs. William McMahon than is usually seen of politicians' wives in any country. It was the unexpected getting together, Mrs. McMahon later explained, of her thigh-slit evening skirt and a gust of wind as she was leaving Parliament House. In a more accustomed setting, Sonia McMahon is pictured above with her husband and their two children, Melinda, 4, and Julian, 2½.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

The Soviet consumer has had so many promises of better days ahead that a certain amount of skepticism is to be expected concerning current promises by party leader Leonid Brezhnev and others at the 24th party congress.

It is rare to see it expressed at what almost might be considered an official level.

Such was the case in an interview published by the weekly newspaper Literaturnaya Gazeta, put out by the Writers Union, just after publication of the 1971-75 five-year plan, which takes a sharp turn in favor of the consumer.

Subject of the interview was Nikolai N. Mirotvortsev, deputy chairman of the state planning committee.

"How close we are to satisfying demand?" asked the interviewer.

The reply was that the government expected to satisfy the demand for television sets, washing machines, radios, refrigerators, tape recorders, vacuum cleaners and other normally hard-to-get items.

Further questioning disclosed that automobiles will continue to be hard to get, even though Mirotvortsev predicted an offering of 800,000 cars on the market in 1975 as opposed to 124,000 in 1970.

An oddity of the Soviet economy has been that while such luxury items as fur coats or television sets may be hard to get, such essentials as tableware and dishes frequently are impossible.

These are among the items promised in the reformation.

Indirectly, Brezhnev himself indicated some difficulties ahead.

These might come from officials willing to "co-exist peacefully" with shortages or shoddy goods as in the past. Such thinking no longer will be acceptable, Brezhnev warned, and management either will deliver or get out.

WINNER BY A GULP

MONTEREY, Calif. (UPI)—A British sailor has recaptured the milk drinking record for his country by beating an American Coast Guardsman in chug-a-lugging a quart of milk.

Frank Fowler, of Portsmouth, England, downed his quart Thursday in 6 seconds flat, beating previous record-holder George Busby, who swallowed fast but took 6.1 seconds.

Fowler, an engineman on the visiting British frigate Puma, said after winning he's really no milk drinker and prefers warm ale when thirsty.

European Enlistment Option Is Open Again

The United States Army has announced its popular European enlistment option is once again open, according to Sgt. Kenneth W. Baker, Army recruiter for the Pampa area.

Under terms of the enlistment option, young men who have no previous military service may enlist for three, four, five or six-year periods. They will be trained in the Infantry, Armor or Artillery Career Groups before their European assignments.

The Army recruiter also noted that a limited number of applicants may be accepted for enlistment in the 3rd Armored Divison, 4th Armored Divison, 3rd Infantry Division (Mechanized), 8th Infantry Division (Mechanized), 2nd Armored Cavalry Regiment, 14h Armored Cavalry Regiment or 3rd Brigade, 1st Infantry Division (Mechanized.) All are crack combat units of the United States Army, Europe.

After enlisting, the new soldier must complete basic combat training and advanced individual training, or the equivalent, before going on to his new assignment.

Once in Europe, he is guaranteed he will be with the United States Army, Europe, or with the unit for which he enlisted, for a total of sixteen months. At the end of that period, he will be eligible for a new assignment in accordance with the needs of the Army.

Sergeant Baker has more information on this new enlistment option. His office is located at 115 N. Cuyler in Pampa, telephone — 665-2022.

Pampa Coed Attends Meeting In Houston

Miss Susan Ziomke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ziomke, 2529 Aspen, Pampa, is one of eight students from Southwestern University who participated in a study of the development of the international man at the World Issues Conference at University of Houston on March 29-31.

The group was accompanied by William Wingo, assistant professor of German. The student will hear addresses by Sen. Eugene McCarthy, Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr., Dr. Garrett Hardin, Henry Stringer, Chief Simeon Olaosebikan Adebo, and participate in panel discussions involving the speakers, scientists, news commentators, lawyers, engineers, and college professors.

Round table discussion topics included the involved or alienated man in modern society, the purpose of the university in the context of the world, psychology and world order, the status of the world's resources, and world law.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—The "worsening" balance of payments problem, the Laotian "rout," the rejection of the supersonic transport plane, and the "widespread belief" interest rates have bottomed are all chipping away at "the recent bullish psychology on Wall Street," Spear & Staff, Inc. believes. However, "if nothing occurs to further dampen underlying bullishness," Spear says, "expect, at worst, a short-term plateau area in the upper 800's" on the Dow Industrial average.

"The recent mixed bag of reports on Laos and the domestic economy has been readily accepted by the stock market," according to Argus Research Corp. The company predicts a "somewhat choppy" market over the near term, but "investors should continue to maintain a positive investment posture," Argus advises.

The stock market will "soon resume its basic uptrend," Wright Investors' Service says. The company says "there is at least an even chance" the market will fall off some more before the consolidation phase is finished. But Wright continues to feel that both the "fundamental and technical indicators point to a resumption of the basic uptrend well before spring turns into summer and to new recovery highs during the second half of the year."

The technical indicators still and "credence to the opinion that any Setback would be more or less temporary," according to Harris, Upham & Co. The company says that "usually" before a major decline odd-lotters become optimistic and "it is interesting to note that this is not the case at present." The firm believes the continued odd-lot selling indicates "some demand may develop from this sector in the months ahead."

Lee Trevino Gunning For Greensboro Win

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI)— While most of the golfers in the Greater Greensboro Open are point to next week's Masters, cocky Lee Trevino is only gunning for his first victory of the year.

Trevino, the outspoken Mexican-American from El Paso, Tex., who backed up his braggadocio by capturing the 1968 U.S. Open, has already turned down an invitation to the Masters. He's concentrating only on one thing now—shaking his slow start and starting to win.

It took a weird shot that produced an eagle to do it, but Trevino carried a share of the lead into todays second round. He fired a four-under-par 67 Thursday, charging home just ahead of darkness to tie New Zealand left-hander Bob Charles and Miller Barber. They were only one stroke ahead of the bunched-up field.

"Everything's going now," said Trevino, who has come close this year—he was a shot back in the Jacksonville Open two weeks ago and two back at the National Airlines Open last Sunday. Both times, the winner was Gary Player.

Player, the defending champion and striving to become the first man since Arnold Palmer in 1962 to win three tournaments in a row, ran afoul of the 421-yard 13th hole Thursday, driving out of bounds and taking a triple bogey seven for a four-over-par 75.

Right back of the leaders, with a 68, came Jack Lewis, Bruce Crampton, Pete Brown, Dave Eichelberger and Art Wall. In at 69 were U.S. Amateur champion Lanny Wadkins, Bert Yancey, Tom Weiskopf, Billy Maxwell, Bob Wynn and Larry Hinson. A dozen others were at 70.

On No.6, Trevino drove into the right woods and, playing the tricky 25-mile-an-hour wind gusts just right, sliced through the trees to the green, only eight feet from the hole. He sank it for an eagle three.

New York Knicks' Reed Needs A Rest After Atlanta Defeat

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

The New York Knicks are playing the most desirable type of playoff game—the waiting game — and it couldn't have come at a better time for Willis Reed.

The Knicks became the first team to advance to the conference finals Thursday night by ousting the Atlanta Hawks 111-107 and taking the best-of-seven series 4-1. The Knicks now are in the favorable position of resting until the completion of the Baltimore-Philadelphia series.

Philadelphia cut Baltimore's advantage to 3-2 Thursday night with a 104-103 triumph over the Bullets. Elsewhere, Los Angeles beat Chicago 115-89 to take a 3-2 lead and San Francisco upset Milwaukee 106-104 to cut the Bucks' lead to 3-1.

Reed Can Rest

The victory for the Knicks was especially beneficial to Reed, the league's Most Valuable Player last season and riddled by injuries this year. Reed, hobbled with a bad knee and slowed by an internal disorder most of this season, suffered an injured right shoulder in the second half and aggravated the injury with only two seconds left in the game.

The injury was diagnosed as a severe bruise of the deltoid muscle in his right shoulder. But Reed can rest until Monday and possibly longer if the Baltimore-Philadelphia series runs to seven games.

As in the previous games of the series, Thursday's final game was decided by a New York rally and Atlanta mistakes in the final minutes. Reed's two foul shots and a steal and basket by Dave DeBusschere in the last two minutes were the crushing blows after Hawks' rookie Pete Maravich missed a layup and a foul shot that would have crushed the Knicks.

Guerin: Knicks No. 1

"Maravich's missed layup and DeBusschere's steal were the keys of the game," said Atlanta Coach Richie Guerin. "The trouble with our team was that in the last two or three minutes, we haven't been in complete control of our offense. I said before the series started the Knicks were the team to beat and I still say that."

Maravich led the Atlanta scoring with 31 points and Lou Hudson has 29. DeBusschere was high man for the knicks with 29.

Archie Clark dropped in a free throw with 50 seconds left for the deciding point and Wes Unseld threw away a pass in the last five seconds in Philadelphia's victory over the Bullets.

"It wasn't just the effort we put forth, it was the attitude," said Clark, whose 31 points were only one short of teammate Billy Cunningham's game-high "...We knew it was do-or-die. I hope my attitude is as strong mentally Saturday."

Earl Monroe led the Bullets with 26 points but he missed two shots with a minute left as the 76ers pulled ahead.

The Home Court Edge

Gail Goodrich scored 12 of his 33 points in the third period as the Lakers pulled away from Chicago. The Lakers led only 55-54 at the half but outscored the Bulls 31-20 in the third period and held Chicago to 15 points in the last quarter.

The series now moves to Chicago where the Bulls have won both games. The Lakers have taken all three of their home games.

Goodrich, who averaged 17.5 points a game during the regular season, has hit for 31.4 per game in the five games with the Bulls.

Warriors Snap Streak

Joe Ellis connected on a 30-foot jump shot with one second left to give San Francisco its victory over the Bucks. The triumph was the first this season for the Warriors over Milwaukee after 12 consecutive losses.

Jerry Lucas led the Warriors with 32 points and Lew Alcindor also had 32 to pace the Bucks. The teams meet in Madison, Wis., Sunday for the fifth game.

Oscar Robertson had given the Bucks a one-point lead when he scored with four seconds left and then Ellis hit his bomb. Jeff Mullins, fouled while Ellis was shooting, accounted for the Warriors' final point.

"We planned to go to Mullins for the last shot, but they had him cut off," said Warrior Coach Al Attles. "Ellis had had a little problem with his shooting this season but he made the one that counted tonight."

PROTEST BACKFIRES

BOSTON (UPI) — Douglas Bond's protest against the Vietnam war cost him $18 in towing charges.

Bond's only tangible asset, his 1954 Chevrolet, was confiscated Thursday because he had refused to pay his telephone excise tax for two months, the Internal Revenue Service said. The tax bill totaled $3.49.

Bond, 27, admitted he had refused to pay the tax as a protest against the war. He went to the IRS office, paid the tax bill, and was allowed to pick up the car after he paid an $18 towing charge.

Packer Coach Devine Making A Transition

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — The Green Bay Packers and their new coach Dan Devine, who is making the transition from college to the pros, have gathered in Texas' sunshine for a "get-acquainted" weekend.

"We need to get some kind of physical evaluation of the Packers," Devine said Thursday upon his arrival at the University of Texas at Arlington campus, where the meeting will take place. "We have a large number of injuries, some one-half hurt and some three-quarters hurt.

"I want to check too the mental condition of the squad," Devine, former head football coach at the University of Missouri, said.

"We will introduce the new coaches to the old players and the old coaches to the new players," during the four practice sessions Saturday and Sunday, he said.

Devine said the practices will take the place of the Packers' normal rookie camp, but since there is so much getting acquainted to be done, the old timers on the squad are being included.

Some won't make it, however, including quarterback Bart Starr, who is participating in a benefit for cancer research, and at least half a dozen others for various reasons.

Devine said he wants to introduce some basic strategy of the offense and defense which he plans to install in the Packer camp.

"We will be here such a short period and try to get so much done that I will not try to talk to the press at any time during the weekend," Devine said. "I need to spend all the time with my staff and the players."

He said he has not had time to evaluate Green Bay's prospects for the 1971 football season, but "we have some real weaknesses personnelwise," he said.

Devine indicated Starr and Zeke Braikowski, who is listed as an assistant coach, are the one-two quarterbacks at this moment, but he said the Packers will be open to trading for a proven signal caller.

"But if there's one thing I've found out in my two months as a pro coach, it's that in trading you don't get anything for nothing," he said. 'You have got to give up somebody or a high draft choice in order to get real help."

WTSU Ticket Sales Booming For Buffaloes

CANYON, Tex. —Over half of the 1970 football season ticket holders have requested seats for the 1971 campaign.

Wayne Ray, athletic business manager, announced Tuesday his office had received requests for 1,239 seats for the 1971 home schedule, which will include six opponents. There were 2,382 season tickets sold last year.

The Buffaloes, under new coach Gene Mayfield, will compete for the Missouri Valley Conference championship for the first time in the fall of 1971.

MVC foes played at home will be Tulsa, Oct. 2; and Drake, Nov. 20.

Other home games are set Sept. 18 against Lamar Tech, Oct. 9 against the University of Texas at Arlington, Oct. 16 against Northern Illinois and Oct. 23 against Idaho. The Idaho clash has been set as the homecoming game.

Away games for the Buffs in MVC play are Memphis State, Wichita State and New Mexico State. The New Mexico State Aggies have been taken into the conference, but will not play for the conference title next fall. That game has been named by conference officials as a league clash for the Buffs.

West Texas Track Team Will Compete In Austin

CANYON, Tex. — West Texas State's track coach Bob Kitchens will take a small group of athletes with him thi week to the Texas Relays in Austin for the two-day meet.

Kitchens is leaving part of his squad at home, due to the nature of the meet. Most of the events are relays and Kitchens doesn't have enough depth among his distance runners to enter some of the longer relays.

Field event entries from West Texas for the meet will be Steve Butler in the high jump and Warren Snow in the pole vault. Randy Thomas will run the 120-yard high hurdles. Butler has a best this season out of doors of 6-6, although he cleared 6-7 in the Missouri Valley Conference Indoor Meet.

Snow has vaulted 14-6 this season and Kitchens feels the former Palo Duro High School athlete is coming into his own as a vaulter.

Thomas has run the high hurdles in 14.3 this season.

Kitchens will also enter this 880-yard relay of Bill Mason, Larry Hughes, Steve Cone and Tracy Dickson. Mason, who has a 9.5 in the 100 this spring, will also enter that event.

The Buffaloes compete the following weekend in the New Mexico State Invitational at Las Cruces.

All-American Wicks May Go To Portland

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — All-American Sidney Wicks, top draft choice of Portland of the National Basketball Association and Texas of the American Basketball Association, has reportedly come to terms with the NBA team.

Terms were not disclosed, but Wicks, who helped UCLA win its fifth straight NCAA basketball title this season, was seeking a $2 million pact.

Los Angeles television station KNBC said the pact between Wicks and the Portland Trail Blazers was "highly unusual," but the Portland club's spokesman said that is "misleading."

"I would say that anyone coming to that conclusion doesn't know what contracts are looking like these days," said Stuart K. Inman, director of player personnel for the Trail Blazers.

Businessman Sam Gilbert, who represented Lew Alcindor when Alcindor signed for a reported $1.4 million with the Milwaukee Bucks, is Wicks' agent.

Wicks' a 6-8, 230-pound forward, was the second choice in the NBA player draft. Notre Dame's Austin Carr, picked by Cleveland, was the first man drafted.

Wicks led the Bruins in scoring and rebounding with averages of 21.3 points and 12.8 rebounds per game this season.

Record Times In Amarillo

The Amarillo Relays open this afternoon with over 1,800 schoolboys competing for top honors on the track and field. A total of 179 teams are entered in the yearly event with defending champions in each event working hard to keep ahead of their opponents.

Several state records are expected to fall as Plainview's Randy Lightfoot is doing well in the Hurdles and White Deer's Ricky Thurman is almost a sure bet to smash the shot and discus record.

Competition will be held in three divisions, AAAA-AAA; AA-A-B, and B-team.

In conjunction with the track and field events the area golf and tennis teams will be in competition. There are 78 teams entered in the track and field events, 63 in tennis and 38 in golf.

Pampa's tennis team left at 6:15 this morning with high hopes as they defeated White Deer 9-8 earlier in the week. the fourth round of District 3-AAAA golf the Pampa Harvesters moved up two slots better than their former seventh position and will be hoping to improve their edge after the relays.

The first track and field events started at noon today with the shot put and pole vault. The high jump will commence at 12:15 with the discus and long jump to begin at 12:30, the same time as the first running prelims (440 relay). All field events will be completed today.

Finals in all running events in all divisions will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday in Bivins Stadium. Ticket Windows at the stadium will open today and Saturday at 11 a.m. Admission is $1.50 for adults and .75 cents for children.

"Second Season" Opens For The ABA

By United Press International

The American Basketball Association version of the "second season" opens tonight in four cities following an unscheduled shootout in Denver.

The final ABA playoff slot was decided Thursday night when the Texas Chaparrals beat the Denver Rockets 115-109 in a one-game playoff. The teams had finished tied for fourth in the West following the completion of the regular season Wednesday and the one-game showdown for the final spot was arranged.

In tonight's opening playoff action, Virginia, the Eastern Division winner, plays host to the New York Nets and runnerup Kentucky entertains the Floridians. Indiana, the Western Division winner, plays host to Memphis and Utah seven series.

Donnie Freeman scored 33 points and Gene Moore added 28 to lead the Chaps past Denver. Texas, with Freeman leading the way, opened up a 15-point lead early in the game and then held off the Rockets' closing rush. A big factor in the game was the Texas defense which held Larry Cannon, Denver's leading scorer, to 18 points. Cannon averaged over 30 points a game during the regular season.

Virginia, which ran away with Eastern honors, is led by rookie whiz Charlie Scott. The Squires are faced with stopping the Nets' explosive scoring star, Rick Barry.

Kentucky, led by another rookie, Dan Issel, is faced with holding down the Floridians' high scoring guard, Mack Calvin.

Indiana, featuring Mel Daniels, the league's Most Valuable Player, and one of the strongest front lines in basketball, takes on Memphis' Jones Boys—Steve, Wilbert and Jimmy—while Utah, paced by Zelmo Beaty, must contend with Freeman and the Chaps.

Houston Coach Expects Big Results From Club

HOUSTON (UPI) —The Houston Astros will field the best team in their 10-year history when baseball season opens next week, according to Manager Harry Walker.

The team is so good, Walker said Thursday, that Jesus Alou, who hit .306 last season, cannot break into the lineup.

Walker, who begins his thir season as manager, says he is well aware that he has tried to convince people how good Houconvince people ho wgood Houston was in years past.

"It's been like hollering 'wolf' several years, and the wolf wasn't that close," he said. "Now we're ollering 'wolf' and we feel there's a wolf right outside our door."

He said the Los Angeles Dodgers should be favored in the Western Division, but Houston and Cincinnati have the best chances to beat the Dodgers, he said.

Walker called right fielder Cesar Cedeno the best 20-year-old ballplayer he has ever seen.

"He's better than Stan Musial was at this stage," Walker, who was a teammate of Musial's with the St. Louis Cardinals, said. "He has a better arm and better range than Musial, and whether he becomes as great a hitter remains to be seen."

Cedeno, who is batting .358 this spring, provided much of the firepower in Houston's 5-0 shutout of the New York Yankees Thursday. He cracked two singles and a double in four times at bat.

Walker called Doug Rader the best third baseman in the National League and said rookie shortstop Roger Metzger looked like a veteran of 26 or 27 years old even though he is only 23.

Walker said he is also proud of his pitchers. Larry Dierker and Don Wilson head a five-man pitching rotation which includes Wade Blasingame, Tom Griffin and Jack Billingham.

Pistol Pete Quiet About NBA Finals

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—For the New York Knicks, defending champs in the NBA, the season is only beginning. They now go into the Eastern Conference finals.

For Pete Maravich, it's all over. He goes home. And what hurts so much is that he honestly believes he went steadily downhill from the moment his ball club, the Atlanta Hawks, got into the playoffs.

Ordinarily a ballplayer showers in a couple of minutes after a game, gets dressed and is ready to leave quicker than you can say his name.

That wasn't the case at all with Pete Maravich Thursday night after the Knicks finished off the Hawks, four games to one, with a come-from-behind 111-107 win before the customary capacity 19,500 at Madison Square Garden.

Final Quarter Flop

Maravich had a superlative third quarter, hitting seven out of nine at one point, netting 17 points all told and practically single-handedly putting the Hawks ahead, 85-78.

The final quarter was another matter.

Pistol Pete, the rookie from LSU whom Atlanta signed for $1.5 million, popped in four more points in the first three minutes, then shot blanks the rest of the way.

He missed three easy lay-ups and a jumper, including one shot with only 1:24 left and the Hawks trailing, 106-102. That one turned out to be the ball game.

Undoubtedly all this contributed the fact that Maravich lingered in the Atlanta shower room nearly 25 minutes after the contest was over.

'It's Been A Long Season'

It was obvious he didn't want to talk with the press which kept waiting for him. It became so obvious that finally Richie Guerin, the Hawks' coach, walked into the shower room to talk with Pistol Pete.

Maravich eventually emerged and stood in the entrance to the shower room with only a towel draped around him.

He explained how he had been hit twice in the game, onc by Willis Reed in the middle of the chest and the second time on the nose by someone he couldn't identify.

"It's been a long season," he said. "I experienced a lotta things."

"Like what?" somebody asked, pressing him to be more specific.

"You got three days?" Maravich asked. "I'll tell you about it."

He laughed, but it wasn't a happy laugh.

SIGNS INTENT LETTER

CANYON, Tex. (UPI) — Amarillo Tascosa linebacker David Herber has signed a letter of intent to attend West Texas State University, school officials said Thursday. Herber was a first-team all-state player and was most valuable player on the Tascosa team for two years.

Randy Matson Will Compete In Austin's Annual Texas Relays

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Three world record-holders are among the 1,500 athletes gathered in Austin today for the start of the 44th annual Texas Relays.

Finals are set for tonight and all day Saturday.

Among the big names in Austin for the meet are world record holders Randy Matson of shot put fame, Willie McGee of Alcorn A&M who shares the 100-yard dash record, and Curtis Mills of Texas A&M who holds the world record for the 440.

Texas A&M is among seven defending champions in relay events, and there are six defending champions in individual events.

The Aggies will use Mills as anchor man in the short relay races, hoping for repeat victories. Texas A&M last year tied the world record in the 880 relay with a 1.27 time.

At least one relays record—a 16-9 1-2 pole vault mark—is almost certain to fall, since the entry list includes two 17-foot vaulters. They are Ricky Parris of McMurry and Dave Roberts of Rice.

Hurdler Ralph Mann of Brigham Young is another standout competitor. He won the 440 hurdles last year in 50 seconds and is the solid favorite in this year's event.

Speedster McGee will be trying to unseat Mel Gray of Missouri, who won the 100-yard dash a year ago. McGee came in second.

Kansas State will be defending its titles in the two-mile and sprint medley races. Texas-El Paso hlds the current title in the distance medley and four-mile relays, and Texas A&M will defend its titles in the 880 and mile relays, besides the 440.

Harvesters Open District

The Harvester Diamond Crew will open play this afternoon against the Caprock Longhorns in Optimist Park at 4 p.m. The Harvesters finished second best in non-conference action posting an 8 win six loss record.

Borger finished up on the first place spot with a rousing 10 win four loss record entering district play. The Bulldogs will be playing the Amarillo Golden Sandstorm today in Amarillo. Amarillo High has a cellar dwelling 7-8 record.

Tascosa, the favored pick going into the season finished with a dismal 7-8 record also. Caprock, losing one more games than the Harvesters has posted an ight win sven loss posted an eight win seven loss record and will be playing Pampa in Optimist Park.

Tascosa should not be taken lightly despite their losing record as they came back in their last four outings to send their opponents down to defeat. Tascosa will be meeting Palo Duro who are hanging in the cellar with another 7 win 8 loss season.

All sports fans should plan on attending the game this afternoon as Pampa will be trying for a repeat of the San Angelo Tournament where they blanketed Caprock 13 to nothing.

Henry Hamilton Signs With West Texas Buffs

CANYON, Tex.— Henry Hamilton, an offensive center from Killeen, Tex., has signed an athletic scholarship with West Texas State University to play football.

Head WTSU coach Gene Mayfield made the announcement after receiving the signed scholarship.

The 6-3, 185-pounder earned all district honors for Killeen High School, a team which compiled an 8-1-1- record last fall. The only loss was to Odessa Permian, where Mayfield coached last year, and the tie was to Corsicana.

"We feel Henry is the type of player who is a dedicated sort of young man with a chance to grow and become a standout offensive center,"

Television In Review

By RICK DuBROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Network television news documentaries in the 1970s will place more emphasis on substantial contemporary issues, and less on "soft" featurish material according to NBC News boss Reuven Frank.

In short, he indicated, viewers can look ofr considerably fewer NBC news documentaries of the historical, biographical and travelogue kind.

Such shows are not being discounted entirely, but they will be in the minority. In addition, Frank noted in an interview, the monthly "First Tuesday" series on NBC offers some feature material besides the straight, hard-nosed reporting that has won it accolades.

Frank's thinking is reflected in a written outline that says video news documentaries through the 1970s will have "strong social, economic, political, scientific or ecological thrust—programs that will result often in some positive action being taken: congressional hearings, legislation, public initiative, unblocking of previously withheld information."

A sample of the kind of documentary the network will emphasize is a May 2 hour, "This Child Is Rated X: An NBC News White Paper on Juvenile Justice." Another example was last year's fine hour about the plight of migrant workers, a program that stepped on toes and brought hollers. There will be fewer shows like Tuesday's documentary on Scotland Yard.

According to Frank, there are several reasons for the change in the news documentary area. One of his points:

"More and more, the broadcast news organizations,especially we and CBS, are veering away from documentaries that try to avoid facing the problems and irritations of the world. Our horizons have been expanded. A greater percentage of our work in the documentary field will be in expounding some of these problems—not solving, but expounding."

Soft documentaries—such as travelogues and wildlife studies —are becoming more "the concern of organizations that are not the news organizations," says Frank. "Increasingly, we are being pushed into less of the world we live in and more of the world we face."

STROM'S NEW ARRIVAL

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., has decided to name his new baby girl Nancy Moore, in honor of his wife—"a beautiful name in honor of a beautiful lady."

Thurmond, 68, said he and his wife, 24, had agreed that he would get to pick a name if the baby was a girl, and she would have her choice if it was a boy. Thurmond's first wife died in 1960.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Dave Garroway is alive and wl Garroway is alive and well working for a Hollywood radio station.

Kingpin of the "Today" show and pioneer television interviewer on the old "Garroway at Large" program out of Chicago in video's infancy, the tall, erudit personality gave the medium some of its finest hours.

Then in 1961 his wife died, leaving Garroway with three youngsters to raise and a desire to reappraise his life.

"There were 10 different reasons for leaving the 'Today' show," Garroway said recently. "I was tired and wanted to relax. I hoped to take a year off. But one year turned into another. And when I went back to NBC I found the doors closed to me."

In the cutthroat field of network telvision the question invariably is, "What have you done for us lately?"

The fact that Garroway had earned some $12 million for the network was lost in the stampede of new personalities and new bosses upstairs.

Unembittered, Garroway turned to publishing—with disastrous results—a magazine titled "FM Listeners Guide."

"I discovered I'm not a business man," Garroway said easily. "I dropped a bundle in the project. And it took me six years to get out of the magazine business.

"All the while I worked doing commercials, and then later some CBS radio things and a few educational TV projects.

Garroway spent a year in Boston for a desk and couch interview show which, despite its success, was canceled abruptly.

His Hollywood radio show is a combination music and interview show with interesting people and a sprinkling of show business peronalities.

Listeners invariably find Garroway more interesting and intelligent than his guests. His low-key wit and opinions are gems.

Does Garroway miss the big time and the star image?

"Not really," he said. "That was just a residual manifestation of doing the show. But it did seem strange when I got out of a New York taxi one day and the driver asked me quite seriously, 'Hey! Didn't you used to be Dave Garroway?' "

POLICE FORCE JAILED

PETATLAN, Mexico (UPI)— This village 25 miles northwest of Acapulco was without police today. Petatlan's seven-man force was behind bars.

State police jailed the Petatlan lawmen for freeing a homicide suspect without a court order.

News In Brief

'SPEEDER' VINDICATED

CINCINNATI (UPI)—When a state trooper pulled him over for speeding on I-65 near Lafayette, Ind., Charles Castle told the officer "one of us has to be wrong."

When Castle returned home here, he had his speedometer checked. It was accurate. Wedensday he received a letter from the Indiana state police, a sking him t o "pleas disregard the speeding citation issued to you by Trooper Kesterson on Interstate 65."

"It seems that after I drove away this Trooper Kesterson had another trooper using CASCAR radar clock him," Castle said. "And they discovered his speedometer was off."

FT. BENNING, Ga.—Maj. Walter D. Kinard, a member of the court-martial jury that convicted Lt. William L. Calley Jr.:

"We left no stone unturned in our deliberation. We gave Lt. Calley the benefit of every doubt."

HARTFORD, Conn.—Michael James, 27, discussing Calley's conviction with United Press International:

"Calley, he's just an excuse, I mean, the w hole system's at fault. Just like Germany. You've got to question, you've got to do more than just buy the line."

SAIGON—WO. Craig Houser, 21, after a four-day "walk to freedom" through enemy territory, telling about getting picked up by a helicopter from his unit:

"It was the most beautiful sight in the world ... A platoon leader jumped out of the bird (helicopter) and grabbed me. Boy, was I happy."

CLEVELAND—David D. McDonald Jr., an employe of the Fisher Body plant, who lost his $350 ring in a sun visor he assembled:

"We tried to find it. We looked at all the visors, but because of all the padding the ring would not stick out."

HOT PANTS, BUT NOT HATS

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) —A lady may wear "hot pants" on this capital city's streets, but she cannot wear a hat in a theater.

Asked about the legality of the modish short pants in public, police Capt. Lawrence Morris said a search of the statutes indicated no law against them.

"There was, and still is, a law that prohibits ladies from wearing hats in the theater," Morris noted.

BABY'S OK, POP HAS MUMPS

BENTON, Ill. (UPI)—The boys are going to have to wait a while for cigars honoring Joe Browning's new baby.

Browning's wife gave birth Thursday to an 8-pound, 8-ounce son in Franklin Hospital while the father was home in bed with the mumps.

The family doctor says if Browning isn't over the mumps by the time his wife and son are ready to come home, they are going to pass on the road as they change places.

NEWLYWEDS' GIFT

BRISTOL, England (UPI)— Newlyweds Peter and Tessa Floyd were delighted with the 10-foot oak tree friends at Floyd's office gave them. Only they do not have a garden. Floyd asked Bristol city authorities to help. They agreed to plant it on a city-owned beauty spot.

Democratic Leaders Open Drive To Raise Federal Minimum Wage To $2 An Hour

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Democratic leaders began a drive Thursday to raise the federal minimum wage to $2 an hour by 1973 and add up to 7 million workers to new wage-hour law coverage.

Speaker Carl Albert gave the blessing of the Democratic leadership to a bill by Rep. John Dent, D-Pa., that would provide the first increase in the wage floor since Jan. 1, 1968, when it went to $1.60 an hour.

Albert also indicated the minimum wage bill was a part of the Democrats' overall pre-election year plan to emphasize bread-and-butter economic issues—jobs and wages—without waiting for the Nixon administration to make proposals.

"Minimum wage legislation fits into a developing pattern of congressional initiatives to get people back to work, to put a decent wage in their pockets so they can start buying again, and thereby enable industry to gear up to meet the renewed demand," Albert told a news conference.

Dent cheerfully told reporters he expected the administration to oppose his bill, but that he expected it to pass. He said there would be brief hearings in late April and the bill would be ready for House consideration in four or five weeks.

Dent's bill, introduced Thursday, would increase the minimum wage for all presently covered non-farm workers to $1.80 on Jan. 1, 1972, and to $2 a year later. Farm workers, now at a $1.40 wage floor, would go to $1.50 Aug. 1971; $1.60 Jan. 1, 1972; $1.80 a year later and $2 on Jan. 1, 1974.

The bill would extend wage-hour law protection—the minimum wage and 40-hour work week—to all federal, state and local government employes.

Dent estimated the total new coverage in the bill at 5 million to 7 million, although Labor Department figures issued last year showed only 4.7 million public employes now without coverage.

However, the bill also would extend time-and-a-half pay for more than 40 hours of weekly work for fishing, canning, sugar processing, public transit and some other workers now exempt from the overtime law. There was no immediate estimate of how many workers would be benefited by this additional coverage.
