Dinner to honor teacher

Retired Snyder High School agriculture teacher Billy Bob McMullan will be the guest of honor at a dinner tonight marking the official establishment of the Billy Bob McMullan Scholarship Fund at Texas Tech University.

Local organizers of the drive to establish the scholarship will present just over $6,000 to university officials at the dinner scheduled for 7 p.m. at The Shack.

These funds will be placed in a scholarship foundation at Tech with interest earned by the money each year used to provide a scholarship for an SHS graduate majoring in agriculture at the Lubbock university.

Charlie Bell, head of the local committee organizing the effort, said Thursday they hoped to make the first award from the foundation this coming May.

Ask Us

Q. — Why wasn't the Snyder High School band's playing broadcast at halftime of last Friday's game?

A. — Those handling the broadcast noted that when the band is facing away from the broadcast booth, the equipment taken on such out-of-town games will not pick up the sound adequately. They said this was the case last Friday.

In Brief

Fish killed

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A red tide taking its toll on fish off the Texas Gulf coast is continuing to move southward, state officials say.

"Along the Gulf beach, it's killing every fish that's in the surf zone — that's where the waves break," said Chip Volz, a Texas Water Commission spokesman in Corpus Christi.

He said that if the red tide maintains its present course and speed, it could reach Corpus Christi Bay today.

"We still have a massive fish kill in Matagorda Bay and (Tuesday) it was moving into Espiritu Santo (Bay)," he added.

More dead fish and patches of red tide were spotted Wednesday when a helicopter flew along the coast from Port O'Connor to Port Aransas, he said.

The red tide had moved southward to a point about nine miles north of the Port Aransas jetties, traveling about 10 miles since noon Tuesday, Volz said.

Lebanon note

TYRE, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli-allied militiamen clashed today with Moslem guerrillas in south Lebanon, but a U.N. peacekeeping official denied a claim by Lebanese security sources that Israeli helicopter gunships strafed the guerrillas.

Israel also denied the claim. The guerrillas had said three of their fighters were killed and two were wounded in the alleged Israeli attack.

Murder hearing enters 2nd day

A hearing on the "voluntariness" of statements given law enforcement officers by capital murder defendants Dorsie Lee Johnson Jr. and Amanda Lynn Miles entered its second day Thursday with testimony beginning shortly after 9 a.m.

The action has been brought by defense attorneys for the two suspects as part of pre-trial hearings commonly associated with such cases.

Judge Gene Dulaney recessed the hearing just after 6 p.m. Wednesday following a full day of testimony from five Mitchell County law enforcement officers involved in the initial arrest and questioning of the pair.

District Attorney Ernie Armstrong said Wednesday that a total of 10 to 15 witnesses would probably be called to testify before the hearing is concluded.

Johnson and Miles — both 19 years of age and both of Colorado City — are currently under indictment for capital murder in connection with the March 23 killing of Allsup's store clerk Jack Huddleston during the robbery of the Snyder store.

They were initially picked up by Colorado City police and Mitchell County Sheriff's deputies on April 8 following an armed robbery in that city in which a convienence store owner was shot but not killed.

They were subsequently charged with capital murder in connection with the Snyder killing.

Hijacking...

Arab suspect nabbed

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — Authorities arrested an Arab on suspicion of helping four terrorists hijack a Pan Am jumbo jet, a police inspector said today.

The inspector, Javed Mirza, told The Associated Press that Sulman Taraki was arrested Wednesday as he stepped off a plane at Islamabad airport.

Mirza said authorities had been alerted that Taraki may have been involved in the hijacking, but he did not elaborate on what role Taraki was suspected of playing.

Earlier today, the government issued a statement through the national news agency denying local newspaper reports that Taraki was believed to have been the mastermind behind the hijacking.

At least 20 people were killed and scores wounded Friday when four gunmen seized a Pan Am Boeing 747 and held it for 17 hours at Karachi airport. The hijacking ended abruptly when the gunmen apparently panicked and began firing on their approximately 400 hostages.

The government has identified the four gunmen as Palestinians. They are being held at a Karachi army base.

Mirza said Taraki was arrested when he reached the bottom of the airplane stairs, but that an unidentified companion slipped away before he could be detained.

Police followed the second man to the diplomatic office of the Palestine Liberation Organization, Mirza said, but could not enter the building because it has diplomatic status in Pakistan.

Calls to the PLO office went unanswered today, a public holiday in Pakistan.

Mirza and other officials said they could not confirm reports that Taraki was carrying a Libyan passport. He and other Pakistani officials said Taraki was brought to Karachi for routine questioning, but could give no details.

The government said the deputy commander of the air force was appointed to head an investigation into the hijacking. A government statement said Air Marshal Shabbir Hussain Syed, vice chief of the air staff, may appoint whomever he chooses to assist him and has broad authority to take whatever steps he considers necessary.

The inquiry will focus on how airport security was breached, what led to the hijackers' grenade and gunfire barrage on the passengers.

Battered women offered therapy

Group therapy for battered women is now available through the Noah Project in Snyder.

The weekly sessions are being held each Tuesday at 10 a.m. at the shelter's office, but the day, time and place may change to accomodate more women, said Linda Scalf, director of the Noah Project.

The sessions, which began this month, are conducted by Ron Lepard of Big Spring, a licensed professional counselor who has worked with women victims and the men who beat them for several years. He also maintains an office in Snyder.

Scalf stressed that the sessions are strictly confidential and are open to anyone in Scurry County.

Lepard has volunteered his services free of charge, but Scalf said that a small fee--based on a sliding scale--is being charged since research indicates that women who pay for therapy seem to derive more out of it. Fees collected will be donated to the Noah Project.

Rate of payment per session will vary from 50 cents to $2, however, Scalf stressed that inability to pay will not prevent a person from taking part in the group therapy.

At present, the sessions are open only to women, but long-range future plans may also in-

German exchange 'enjoyed'

Ginger Bryan, daughter of Truett and Mona Bryan of Snyder, visited Germany this summer, returning to Snyder with her German "sister," Cornelia Schuetz.

"It was my first trip overseas," Bryan said, "and I loved it. People were really nice and I made some new friends. Cornelia's family was very nice."

She visited Pforrche, Pforzheim in Germany, Cornelia's home city with a population of about 100,000.

"I enjoyed the opportunity. I like being open to new things," Ginger said.

While in Germany, the Snyder girl visited in Munich and also visited a Medieval castle, attended a wedding and took a trip with the Schuetz family.

"I got to know a lot of Cornelia's friends and we hiked about 18 miles in one day during the trip," Ginger explained.

She said she noticed the "little things that were different" while in Germany and that it "hit her" one day while sitting in a cafe that she was really in another country.

She said the food was different as well as the shopping. "I just loved the clothes they wore. It was so trendy."

She noted also some of the differences between the two countries. For instance, teenagers can't get a driver's license until they are 18 and consequently they do a lot more walking.

"I think we are more isolated

Wife Wonders If Husband's Tryst Qualifies as an Affair

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1986 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I've been happily married for 10 years and have two children. I found out last Christmas that my husband had an affair. What a Christmas present!

I have been 100 percent faithful to him; in fact, I was a virgin when we married. I thought we had a good marriage until he started acting strange around me, then I knew something was bothering him. I finally wormed the reason out of him. I asked for all the details because I felt I had a right to know. He said a girl he works with came on to him, so he took her to a club, had a drink or two, then went to her apartment where the incident took place. He said he was not drunk, and knew what he was doing, but nothing really happened — he never completed the act because right in the middle of it he felt so guilty he wasn't able to!

I believe him, but I want to know if you would call this an "affair." Technically, the act wasn't completed, but it wasn't as though he stopped in the middle because he felt guilty. He stopped because he couldn't complete the act. (Am I making myself clear?)

How would you classify this? Did my husband have an affair, or didn't he?

MICHIGAN MISHAGOSS

DEAR MISHAGOSS: According to Webster, an affair is a "romantic or passionate attachment typically of limited duration." As limited in duration as your husband's romantic attachment was, it was an affair. And he is no less guilty because his mind made a contract his body couldn't fulfill.

DEAR ABBY: Re family code words: During World War II, my "little" brother was in the infantry and was being shipped out to a secret destination. How we worried and longed to know where!

Then he sent a letter containing this sentence: "Please say hello to that little old lady who always passes by our house — I can't remember her name."

Well, the lady's name was "Mrs. Solomon." Then we knew he was in Guadalcanal in the Solomon Islands!

Today my "little brother" is 6 feet tall and 65 years old, but I am still his loving ...

BIG SISTER IN SAN JOSE

DEAR SISTER: Your letter should jog a few memories among others who subtly communicated their secret whereabouts during World War II. Readers?

DEAR ABBY: I sure need advice in a hurry regarding wedding reception protocol. I am being married in two weeks. My fiance and I are paying for everything ourselves. Not easily by a long shot, but it's by our choice. (We've been living together three years and have a child.) The problem is that in the latter part of the wedding reception, we thought we would pass "the hat" for any donations people wish to give to help us start our married life a little easier after such a big expense.

My mother and sister are appalled at this suggestion! They say it is very tacky and of low class, and you just don't do that. They say that if we couldn't afford a wedding, we shouldn't have had one. I have been to very few weddings, but some did pass the hat and some did not. Neither way did I find improper or tacky. Please answer in the paper because, like myself, my mom reads your column regularly and this is not a topic I wish to discuss with her again (unless necessary) to save an argument. Thank you and please hurry. Time is running out!

NOT WANTING TO BE TACKY

DEAR NOT: Passing the hat in my opinion would be tacky. Pass the idea, not the hat.

Gold has tumbled $12 an ounce

LONDON (AP) — Gold tumbled $12 an ounce in Europe today, chasing falling platinum prices in hectic trading.

Platinum, which shot up on fears of further turmoil in South Africa, the main producer of the metal, lost $15 in morning dealing to trade at around $570 an ounce.

Dealers said that in climbing well above $600 last week, platinum had moved too fast.

Outline cuts for U.S. budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's civic leaders have a budget-balancing prescription: Cut foreign aid and defense, trim cost-of-living increases for retired people, and raise taxes on beer, wine and cigarettes.

But don't touch Medicare or Medicaid benefits or highway and mass transit subsidies, they agree.

Groups of local leaders and activists, chosen to represent different interests, met Wednesday in all 50 state capitals and played "Debtbusters," a game based on Washington's budget process.

To win: choose among 41 options to find the $111 billion in combined cuts or taxes to produce a balanced budget in fiscal 1991, the same year President Reagan and Congress have promised to erase the red ink.

The Roosevelt Center for American Policy Studies, a nonpartisan foundation, invented the game. Its first nationwide effort was to create a "People's Budget," to be presented today to the chairmen of the House and Senate budget committees and White House budget director James C. Miller III.

"This is a microcosm of America. We had nurses, teachers, small-town bankers, farmers, advocates for the poor, anti-tax activists — even the fire chief of Topeka (Kan.)," said William Galston, who invented the game. "When America speaks, elected representatives should listen to what they have to say."

Most of the states met or exceeded the deficit-reduction goal and 13 of the options — totaling $75.2 billion in savings — were supported by more than half the states.

"There were clear winners and clear losers among the deficit-reduction options," said Galston, the center's director of economic and social programs. "The fact that you didn't get much out of this process ... is a politically significant result," he said.

Reagan says he'll veto any tax increase, but only three Midwest neighbors — Missouri, Illinois and Indiana — avoided all the levies. The game required a two-thirds vote for taxes, the same margin Congress would need to override the president.

By far the most popular choice was increasing the "sin taxes," as levies on beer, wine or cigarettes were supported in 41 states. Nebraska approved $80.3 billion, the most of any group.

There was no support for a surtax on personal income taxes and only one adopted a value-added tax on manufactured goods.

Increasing gasoline taxes or a new fee on imported oil were supported in only a handful of states.

CBS shakeup: Paley in; Wyman out

NEW YORK (AP) — William S. Paley, the 84-year-old founder of CBS, has returned to lead the network after turbulent months marked by hostile takeover bids, a stunning ratings drop and public criticism by some of its stars.

The CBS Inc. board named Paley and Laurence A. Tisch, who controls the largest block of CBS stock, to replace Thomas H. Wyman, who resigned Wednesday under pressure. CBS said Paley would be chairman and Tisch chief executive officer until a replacement could be found for Wyman, who held both posts.

The first word of the shakeup came in a dramatic, ad-libbed announcement by anchor Dan Rather at the end of the "CBS Evening News."

An industry source with access to some occurrances at the board meeting said Wyman came to the meeting with proposals to relieve the tension within the board and the company. The proposals were well-received, the source said, but Paley and Tisch were immovable and irresistible.

The Paley-Tisch faction didn't have a majority of votes, but had 33 percent of the stock and was able to influence the proceedings, and Wyman's resignation was a surprise, said the source, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The moves, during a nine-hour meeting of the 14-member board, would seem to put into jeopardy executives closely aligned with Wyman, who had been president and CEO since 1980 and became CBS' second chairman in April 1983.

Those executives include Gene Jankowski, president of CBS Broadcast Group, and Van Gordon Sauter, president of CBS News and executive vice president of the CBS Broadcast Group.

The meeting came against a backdrop of intense speculation that some directors would try to oust Wyman because of unhappiness with CBS' performance. The network finished second in the prime-time ratings race in 1985-86 after six straight winning seasons.

The CBS management team, including Wyman, Jankowski and Sauter, has come under fire for laying off 700 employees — 70 of them in news — and the decision to cancel the "CBS Morning News" by the end of the year, replacing it with a more entertainment-oriented show.

"I think that everyone will calm down now," Mike Wallace, the "60 Minutes" correspondent, said after the board meeting at CBS' "Black Rock" headquarters. "To have the man who built the thing in the first place back in charge, everyone will welcome that."

Tisch, chairman of the Loews Corp. conglomerate, said, "I think the main job now is bring the company back to the standards and heights that Mr. Paley set for this company over his many years in charge of this company."

Tisch said he will serve until a new chief executive officer is selected.

Paley, a cigarmaker's son who bought a struggling radio network for $400,000 in 1928, controlled CBS for more than half a century as president or board chairman of its radio and TV networks and its film, publishing, recording and other subsidiaries.

His return was viewed by some within the industry as symbolic, and his actual role in the day-to-day running of CBS would likely be smaller than when he ruled the Columbia Broadcasting System with an iron hand.

"Hope you folks can hang on long enough to vote for me come November."

'Family hour' called most violent time slot

WASHINGTON (AP) — Violence is raging on television's family hour at levels exceeding those of other prime-time slots, University of Pennsylvania researchers say.

Violence — "overt and explicit physical threats, hurting or killing in any context" — erupts in the 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. slot, when children are most likely to watch, at a rate of eight incidents an hour, the researchers from the Annenberg School of Communications said Wednesday.

But they told a news conference that prime time's diet of bloodshed and mayhem is overshadowed by the intensity of violence on weekend daytime programs for children and cartoons aimed primarily at kids.

The researchers, who have studied TV violence since 1967, were joined at the news conference by Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill. He urged approval of legislation on the issue.

"Few devices have proven to be as potent a ratings booster as violence," Simon said. His bill would place an anti-trust umbrella over TV networks to enable them to negotiate limits on violent programming.

In the family hour, the violence index was 211.4 in 1967, sank to 101.0 in 1975 and climbed back to levels of 196.0 in 1984 and 182.0 last year. Under the index, the more violence depicted, the higher the score.

The researchers said the drop in the 1970s was largely a result of a violence reduction put in effect by CBS. The average for the time slot over the last 19 years was 150.5.

The late-night slot from 9 p.m. to 11 p.m. had a 148.1 index level in 1967, climbed to 210.4 in 1974, eased down somewhat over the next nine years and then rose to 171.6 in 1984 and 171 last year.

By contrast, weekend daytime children's programs registered 251.2 in 1967, dipped to 192.1 in 1974 and then climbed to levels of 259.2 in 1984 and 223.8 last year. Cartoons had a 251.2 level in 1967, sank to a low point of 196.0 in 1974 and climbed to 259.8 in 1984 and 225.6 last year.

The researchers also said heavy television watchers tended to score higher on tests measuring feelings of gloom, alienation and that the world is a "mean" place.

Dr. Nancy Signorielli, one of the researchers, said in a telephone interview that numerous studies have shown that children who watch heavy doses of television violence tend to behave more aggressively.

Asked if it could be stated flatly that watching television violence was bad for children, however, she said: "You're asking for a black and white answer and with this kind of work it's not black and white."

Clements, White both find favorable polls recently

AUSTIN (AP) — Republican gubernatorial candidate Bill Clements says a new poll shows him with a "comfortable" lead, but Gov. Mark White's campaign says its polls show the Democrat moving up.

Clements, the former governor ousted by White in 1982, told the Dallas Morning News that a recent survey he commissioned showed him leading White.

White campaign press secretary Mark McKinnon disputed that Wednesday, saying their most recent survey and those of other politicians show White rapidly gaining ground on Clements.

Neither side agreed to make the actual poll results public.

In an interview with a News reporter in Uvalde, Clements said a survey by his pollster, Richard Wirthlin of Washington D.C., showed him leading White.

The newspaper Wednesday quoted "campaign insiders" as saying the margin was more than 20 points. It said the survey of 600 likely voters was taken Aug. 23-24 and had a margin of error of plus or minus 4 percentage points.

Clements said the poll disputes suggestions by Democrats that White has closed the gap because of his leadership in calling the Legislature into special session and advocating a temporary tax increase to solve the state's fiscal crisis.

Figuring out what you need

By James Jacoby

The right play in a suit is determined by how many tricks you need. Look at the spade suit in today's deal, which is taken from Frank Stewart's "Contract Bridge Quiz Book" (Prentice-Hall, 1986). To make six no-trump, you will need either three or four spade tricks, depending upon whether the heart finesse works. And your best percentage play is dictated by how many tricks the spade suit must provide.

Step one is to take the heart finesse. If that loses to the king in the West hand, then you are in the unfortunate position of needing four tricks in spades. You must hope that the spade queen is with West and that the suit divides 3-3. So you lead a spade to the jack and pray.

Things are entirely different if East holds the heart king. Now you will win four heart tricks and therefore need only three tricks in spades. You can then afford to cash the king and ace of spades before leading up to dummy's jack. This is an insurance policy against the possibility that East holds the doubleton queen of spades. In bridge, one of the best times to take out insurance is when you are in a slam contract.

Cultural idea...

Home must have comfort

By BARBARA MAYER
AP Newsfeatures

When we talk about all the comforts of home, what do we actually mean?

It's a question Witold Rybczynski, who teaches architectural history at McGill University in Montreal, has answered in a new book, "Home, A Short History of an Idea," published by Viking.

Rybczynski says today's concept of comfort is an amalgam of at least 300 years of history. When we experience comfort at home, we include the past as well as the present. Yet, he adds, there is nothing inevitable about seeking comfort.

"You can live without comfort and nothing terrible will happen to you. Many survive without furniture. We are dealing with cultural values, rather than absolutes," said the author.

The great contribution of the past to today's ideas of comfort explains the success of designers such as Laura Ashley and Ralph Lauren, who hark back to an earlier time in their home furnishings designs.

Though many of these historic associations go back no further than Victorian times, Rybczynski dates the beginning of comfort to 17th century Holland when, instead of servants, the wives took charge of the cooking and other household tasks.

The kitchen became the most important room in Dutch homes, and the wives imposed rules of cleanliness and deportment which led to domesticity.

By the 18th century, all of northern Europe had embraced the concept of the home as the center of private family life, a necessary antecedent to today's comfortable home.

The English Georgian period carried the idea of home further with the English country house. This development made the home a place of leisure for the family and an isolated world into which only the welcome visitor was permitted.

By the mid-18th century, the array of objects considered essential to furnish a room properly were so numerous owners began to rely on the outside help provided by the upholsterer, a forerunner to interior designers, who had expanded his services to include coordination of all interior furnishings.

The 19th century brought many mechanical improvements including better lighting and heating, concern for proper ventilation, and the idea of the efficient and compact bathroom, an American invention, by the way, according to the author.

In a chapter detailing the inventions of the late 19th century, appropriately titled "Efficiency," the author establishes that this period was most influential in setting forth standards currently in use about comfort.

The emphasis on efficient, labor-saving devices such as the electric light (which he deems of major importance in raising standards of cleanliness), the vacuum cleaner and the electric iron, made the lot of the housewife easier.

The development of theories of "scientific" and time-saving methods to do housework, which were promoted in magazines in the early part of the 20th century, also helped usher in today's attitudes about the home and its care.

Today, "we would refuse comfort if it was inconvenient," according to Rybczynski. We prefer all-purpose glasses that can be washed in a dishwasher. In the kitchen we demand convenient appliance placement. Our furniture is comfortable.

Snyder Garden Club opens year

Sixteen members of Snyder Garden Club opened the club year with a luncheon held at Mrs. Leon Sterling's home Sept. 4. Mrs. Forrest Fox presided.

Mrs. J. M. "Doc" Davis, unable to attend, and Mrs. Don Dollins were welcomed as new members. Mrs. Annie Mae Sears is a new life member.

The Martha Ann Woman's Club board member, Mrs. W. T. Erwin, announced the garage sale to be held at Towle Park Barn Sept. 20. She urged all members to participate. The proceeds are used to maintain the clubhouse.

Mrs. John Boren led discussion and heard reports from chairmen of "It's Happening in Texas," the flower show to be a part of the Scurry County Fair.

Mrs. Boren emphasized the SGC is coordinating the event, but the flower show needs public entries. She asks all participants to be able to identify their plants. Rules to enter in the horticulture and artistic divisions are listed in the fair book.

A commercial display (not to be judged), will accompany the show. Participating are Travis Flowers, The Greenery at Safeway, The Flower Shop and Friendly Flowers. Six nationally accredited flower show judges will judge on Sept. 18.

On Oct. 2, garden club members will attend a chrysanthemum tour in Lubbock. The Colorado City Garden Club has invited the local club to attend a wildflower program to be presented by Earl Vaughn, representative of Texas Highway Dept.

Mrs. E. J. McAnally presented the program. She explained mechanics, design and containers for arrangements five inches or under and demonstrated her techniques by using flowers grown in yards and plants from along side roads.

Timber has increased

ATLANTA (AP) — The amount of available timber on private U.S. lands has increased nearly 50 percent since 1950, despite an overall increase in wood use.

The increasing timber inventory is a result of America's successful transition to more intensive forest management, which tends to encourage younger, more readily renewable timber, says Georgia-Pacific Corp.

It says annual planting on private lands increased from 400,000 acres in 1950 to more than 2 million acres in 1983.

New classes opened to fair participants

Two new classes have been added this year in recognition of the Sesquicentennial celebration. Divisions included in the Home Economics area include baked goods and Sesquicentennial cake decorating for professional and non-professional participants. Cakes will be judged on creativeness, uniqueness and taste.

The sewing division of Clothing and Textiles has included a class for heritage dressing. This includes clothing from the past. However, the garment does not have to be currently designed. Entries from the past could include bonnets, aprons, colonial walking skirts or dresses. The annual fashion show will be held Friday, Sept. 19, at 5:00 p.m. Garments entered in the heritage class are eligible for the fashion show. Those entering this class need to summarize details of that particular garment for the fashion show narration.

Further information concerning the Home Economics Division can be directed to Kathryn Roberts, County Extension Agent, 573-5423, County Extension Office.

Varnish in dust-free room

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

A good time to start your varnishing project is when nobody else is in the house. If that's not possible, the least you can do is not begin the job until the room you are working in is dust-free and you are certain nobody will walk into the room for several hours.

The great enemy of varnish is dust. You may not think any is there, but even the tiniest particle of it will somehow find its way onto your newly varnished surface. Select a work area where currents of air are not likely to carry dust across the room, where nobody will visit you to see how you are making out, and where you are sure everything is dust-free. That includes your clothing and the surface of the wood, especially a surface that has been sanded. If you think that is an exaggeration, consider this: Old-time wood finishers were said to have performed their duties only after they had stripped off their clothing!

PUBLIC NOTICE

BRIEF EXPLANATORY STATEMENTS OF PROPOSED

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

GENERAL ELECTION

NOVEMBER 4, 1986

PROPOSITION NO. 1 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 15 proposes a constitutional amendment that would permit the legislature to provide by general law for the apportionment of the value of railroad rolling stock among the counties in which the property of the railroad is located for purposes of property taxation, and would delete the requirement that the Comptroller participate in making the allocation. To comply with both statutory and constitutional law, the apportionment currently is being made by the State Property Tax Board in conjunction with the Comptroller.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to allow the legislature to provide by general law for the apportionment of the value of railroad rolling stock among counties for purposes of property taxation."

PROPOSITION NO. 2 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 33 proposes a constitutional amendment that would replace the constitutional requirement that the subject of a bill be expressed in its title with a mandate that each house of the legislature adopt rules of procedure that would require the subject of each bill to be expressed in its title in a manner that gives the legislature and the public reasonable notice of that subject. Determining compliance with the rule would be the responsibility of the legislature. Currently, a law is invalidated if a court finds its caption is defective. The amendment would provide that past and future enactments may not be held void on the basis of an insufficient title.

The amendment also would eliminate the suggestion that the state's laws be revised every ten years, and instead would provide for continuing revision of state laws.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment requiring each house to include in its rules of procedure a rule that each bill contain a title expressing the bill's subject, and providing for the continuing revision of state laws."

PROPOSITION NO. 3 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 73 proposes a constitutional amendment that would permit the Legislature to authorize any county, city, town, or other political subdivision to use public funds or credit to pay insurance premiums on nonassessable life, health, or accident policies. Due to the prohibition in the constitution against the lending of credit and granting of public money, political subdivisions currently are prohibited from becoming shareholders in associations such as mutual-insurance companies, in which policyholders are shareholders. A nonassessable mutual insurance policy does not allow a company to raise capital by assessing the policyholder an extra amount on a premium. This amendment will allow mutual insurance companies and stock companies to bid for life and health group policies of political subdivisions. Public liability will be limited to the payment of premums specified in the contract.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment allowing political subdivisions the opportunity to engage in and transact business with authorized mutual insurance companies in the same manner as with other insurance companies."

PROPOSITION NO. 4 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 4 proposes a constitutional amendment that would repeal the prohibition against branch banking by state banks and would allow state banks and national banks domiciled in this state to establish and operate banking facilities at locations within the county or city where they are domiciled. The amendment would also authorize the Legislature to permit a state bank or a national bank domiciled in this state to engage in business at more than one place if it acquires a failed state bank or national bank domiciled in this state.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

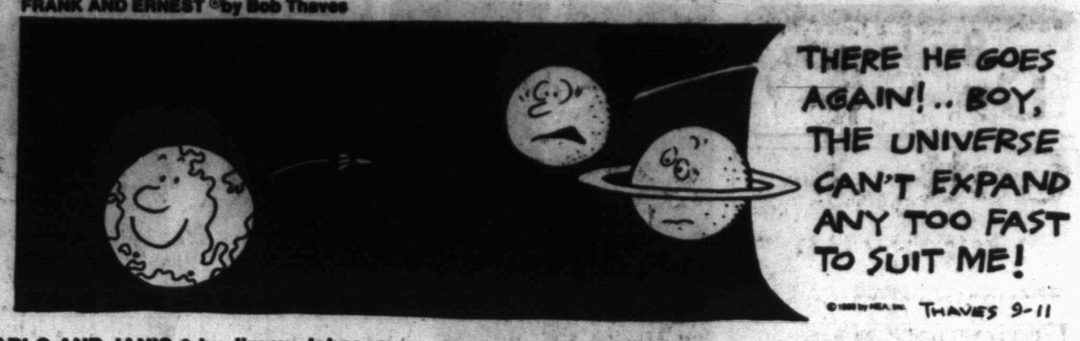

"The constitutional amendment to provide that a bank may offer full service banking at more than one location within the city or county where its principal facility is located, subject to limitations and restrictions provided by law."

Estos son los informes explanatorios sobre las enmiendas propuestas a la constitución que aparecerán en la boleta el día 4 de noviembre de 1986. Endometriosis and fertility

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Four years ago, my daughter, then 21, was diagnosed as having endometriosis. The gynecologist told her there were worse things in life than not being able to have kids. What exactly is endometriosis, and how does it affect fertility?

DEAR READER — Endometriosis is a disorder that has been estimated to affect 15 percent of women. It consists of an area of uterine lining that grows outside the uterus. These endometrial "islands" can be found on the uterine surface and elsewhere in the reproductive tract, as well as in scars, the bowel wall, the lung and even the brain. No one knows what causes this abnormality.

The symptoms depend on which organ is involved, because endometrial tissue outside the uterus follows the same bleeding cycle as endometrium within the uterine cavity: monthly pain, abdominal soreness, intestinal blockage and infertility often occur. As the misplaced endometrium bleeds month after month, it causes cysts that may have to be surgically removed.

With time, women may outgrow endometriosis. Pregnancy seems to correct the problem in some women; in others, the use of birth-control pills may alleviate the symptoms. In its mildest form, it can cause excessive menstrual cramps and heavy monthly periods.

I think it would be difficult to judge whether a young woman like your daughter is infertile because of endometriosis. She might respond to treatment with contraceptive pills, or she might be helped by surgical removal of the out-of-place tissue. In any case, I believe that she needs a second opinion. There may be worse things in life than not being able to become pregnant, but it seems to me that such a comment by a gynecologist is very insensitive.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My son, now 20, was born with hydrocephalus. He is mildly retarded, works slowly, forgets things and has to have directions repeated over and over. Is this to be expected from the hydrocephalus?

What causes hydrocephalus? Did I do something wrong during pregnancy? He was overdue and labor was induced. My nephew also had this problem, but it corrected itself in a few months.

DEAR READER — Hydrocephalus is a disease marked by a buildup of spinal-fluid pressure within the compartments (ventricles) of the brain. The pressure can result from excessive fluid production, deficient reabsorption of fluid or blockage of the normal flow of fluid through the ventricles.

As the pressure increases, it tends to compress normal, soft brain tissue. In infants, the pressure causes enlargement of the head. Hydrocephalus can produce mental retardation and brain damage. The condition is the result of birth defects, infection, injury or tumors.

Surgery, by shunting excess spinal fluid out of the brain, is often successful in minimizing injury to sensitive nerve cells. But the operation must be performed early in the course of the disorder, before brain damage has taken place.

I cannot say whether your son's hydrocephalus was related to your pregnancy or his birth. However, the mental consequences you describe are common.

Dr. Gott's new Health Report on IRRITABLE BOWEL SYNDROME explains the symptoms and management of this common problem. Send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

Inmate wins execution stay

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Just nine hours before he was slated for lethal injection early today, a convicted killer was spared from the Texas death chamber by a federal judge's order.

U.S. District Judge Ross Sterling issued a stay Wednesday in the case of Antonio Bonham, 26, who was convicted of the 1981 abduction, rape, robbery and slaying of a Houston business college instructor, Marie McGowen. Mrs. McGowen, 52, died when she was run over with her own car.

Sterling said he thought the motion for a stay should be denied, but said the request came so close to the scheduled execution time that he would allow more time for the trial record to be studied.

U.S. officers may be searched in Mexico

By The Associated Press

The Mexican government has ordered its police to identify and search all U.S. law officers entering Mexico and to detain those carrying weapons, according to a U.S. Customs Service bulletin.

The bulletin was issued to American law enforcement agencies along the U.S.-Mexico border, and said the Mexican mandate applies to federal, state and local authorities crossing into Mexico, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today.

"Federal police of the Republic of Mexico are instructed by Mexico City to identify, stop and search all federal, state and local law enforcement officers entering Mexico to ascertain if they have weapons or ammunition," the bulletin said. "If such items are found, the U.S. officer will be detained and the items seized."

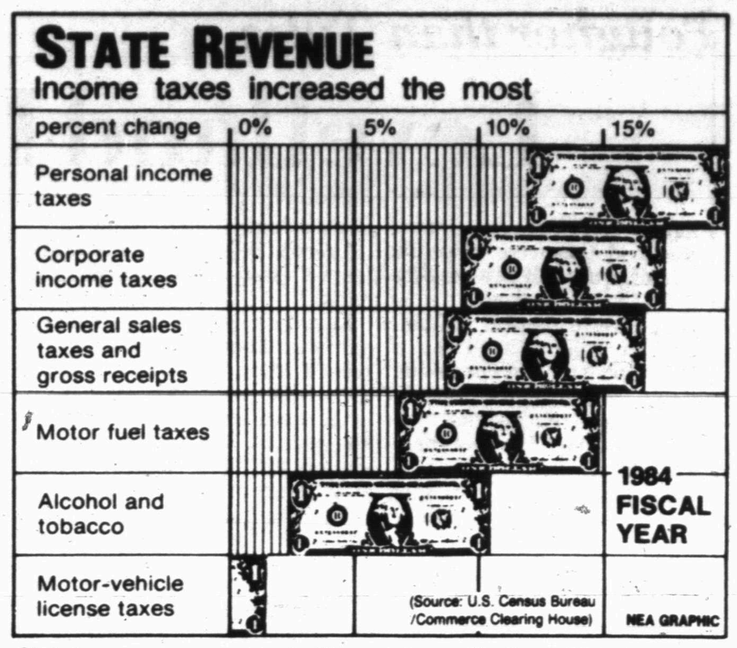

Customs sources in Dallas and El Paso verified the existence of the bulletin, but said they are not yet sure whether the information is accurate, the Star-Telegram said.

The Laredo News also reported that law enforcement officials crossing the border would be searched for weapons. The News said the directive was contained in a telex intercepted by U.S. intelligence sources in El Paso. Webb County Sheriff Mario L. Santos told the News he advised his deputies Wednesday not to go into Mexico. And at the Laredo Police Department, Lt. Ismael Alardin, chief of detectives, instructed his officers likewise, a police spokesman said.

As of Tuesday, detectives were instructed not to go to Mexico without obtaining authorization from Alardin, the newspaper said.

The Star-Telegram said the bulletin was issued Tuesday by customs officials in Arizona and was based on information from informants in Mexico.

Customs officials in El Paso ordered their agents to stay on the U.S. side of the border until further notice, but Drug Enforcement Administration and Department of Public Safety officials said they will conduct business as usual.

State tax revenues rose nearly 15 percent overall in fiscal 1984 with the largest single increases in personal income taxes (up 20.6 percent) and corporate taxes (up 17.4 percent).

Appeals court says 'okay' to publishing civil pleadings

WACO, Texas (AP) — The 10th Court of Appeals has ruled that Texas media have the right to publish information in civil pleadings before the court reviewing the case takes action on them.

The appellate court decision, signed by Justice Bob Thomas, strikes down previous Texas appellate court rulings that none of the paperwork in a civil process is privileged from libel litigation until the specific documents become part of the record of the trial itself.

Thomas wrote that "a newspaper is sheltered by the privilege ... as long as it publishes, without malice, a fair, true and impartial account of the allegations in a pleading which is open to the public's inspection as a part of the offical court records of the case, regardless of whether the court has then taken any action on the pleading."

The ruling, which would extend a right already allowed in criminal cases, came last week.

"I think it has not been challenged that often. But knowing that a court of appeals has issued a ruling that grants some insulation to the media hopefully will encourage a little more free access of information to the public," said Howard Swindle, assistant managing editor of The Dallas Morning News and a director of the Texas Freedom of Information Foundation.

"It is an area that previously was not protected under law, as the reporting of criminal allegations has been," Swindle said. "So any ruling that would add protection to the media in its coverage of allegations contained in a civil suit obviously would benefit the media."

The decision arose from Ruble Langston vs. Eagle Publishing Co., which publishes the Bryan-College Station Eagle.

In the case from state district court in Brazos County, Langston and Trailite Inc., a corporation which manufactured livestock trailers, and Michael Luther, a shareholder and president of Trailite, sued the news company.

The suit centered on eight articles in the Eagle detailing Trailite's dispute with the Internal Revenue Service over delinquent taxes.

The state district court ruling was in favor of the newspaper, and Langston and Trailite appealed the decison to the 10th Court of Appeals.

One of the points of appeal was that the district court erred when it ruled that no libel claim could be based on a fair, true and impartial account by a newspaper of "proceedings in a court of justice."

Langston argued that the petition on which the Eagle reporter based his story was not part of the judicial proceeding because the court had not acted on the pleading.

'Tougher than Tulia...'

Levelland Lobos are formidable

Ragin' Tiger coach Dennis Tomlin said this week that the Levelland Lobos will be a tougher opponent than Tulia was.

"They are a better football team than Tulia. They'll be a tougher opponent. I'm not saying anything against Tulia, though. Levelland has a real good 4A football team and you'd expect them to be better," he said.

Snyder lost to Tulia 20-11 last week amidst a series of penalties, turnovers and a rash of freakish cases of leg cramps.

"We felt like we were the better team," said Tomlin after the game.

Levelland will go into Friday's game at Lobo Field with a 1-0 record after thrashing Lamesa 42-18 last week. The Lobos, a longtime doormat in District 1-4A, were 5-5 last season and are aiming for the playoffs in 1986 after returning 16 starters.

To defeat the Lobos, Snyder will have to stop the Wishbone offense.

"They run a couple of plays off of it, a counter and a power off of it, that really give people a lot of problems. And we can't let them have the long pass," said the Coach. "It will be a real challenge to slow them down."

Toting the ball are senior halfbacks Michael Shepherd, 6-1, 185, and Ron Arrington, 5-10, 156, who runs 4.7 in the 40.

Shepherd ran for 101 yards against Lamesa. Also seeing time in the backfield will likely be Matt Cardenas, a 5-11, 175-junior who had runs of 80 and 32 yards in scampering for 135 steps on just six carries.

Quarterback Jeff James, a 5-9, 165-senior, is "a pinpoint passer," said Tomlin.

Leading the blocking will be all-loop pick Tim Escue, a 6-4, 223 senior guard. Escue, listed among Texas Football magazine's top prospects, also plays middle linebacker for the Lobos.

Snyder has prepared for the wishbone, but otherwise, will make no major changes this week.

"We're planning on taking the same approach as last week. Offensively we'll run the trap and the sweep and defensively we've just been working real hard on making sure of our responsibilities on the option," said Tomlin.

Snyder will go with the same starting lineup, with the possible exception of Toby Ubando, who suffered a sprained ankle in workouts this week. If he can't go, he'll be replaced by Troy Burton at fullback and Brad Gambrell at linebacker.

Tickets for the ballgame are $4 for adults and $2 for students at the gate. They may be purchased for $3 and $1 until noon Friday at the Snyder High School athletic office.

Friday's meeting between Snyder and the Lobos will be their 21st. Snyder leads the series with 13 wins. Their last meeting was in 1979 when Snyder won 24-0.

Berry snubs Thursday game but he'll have to play anyway

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) - If Raymond Berry had his way, the NFL would outlaw games on Thursday.

But Berry will lead his New England Patriots into Giants Stadium tonight to face the New York Jets in a nationally televised game. He has no choice - the schedule says that his AFC champions and the team it beat in the wild-card playoff game last December will play on that day.

Berry doesn't have to like it.

"It's one of the oddest type approaches anyone has ever invented to play football," Berry said of Thursday games, which the NFL schedules for the second and third weeks of the season, plus on Thanksgiving. "Maybe someday they will phase Thursday games out.

"I don't like putting players on the field who are recovering from a Sunday war and then have to go into a Thursday war. It's like a pitcher going nine innings, then you put him out there two days later.

"And fatigue leads to injury."

However, Berry did find something positive to say about this particular Thursday game.

"If you have to play one, I guess this is the ideal time to do it - early in the season," Berry said.

The Patriots come off a 33-3 rout of Indianapolis. New York beat the Bills 28-24 in Buffalo.

"It's tough with only three days to get ready," says Jets running back Freeman McNeil. "It's a good thing we've played a lot before. Our game plan will parallel each other because New England also is operating under the same problem."

Both teams will carry versatile attacks into the game, led by quarterbacks from the vaunted Class of 1983.

New York's Ken O'Brien completed 18 of 25 passes for 318 yards and two touchdowns without an interception against Buffalo, lifting him into the NFL pass ratings lead, a spot he held last year. New England's Tony Eason connected on 18 of 29 for 252 yards and a touchdown and was not intercepted.

McNeil had 72 yards in 21 carries against Buffalo, but he often has trouble against New England's mobile, aggressive defense led by linebackers Andre Tippett and Don Blackmon.

"These are two teams which have always played close, tough games since I've been here," says Joe Walton, in his fourth year as Jets coach. "There's no reason to think it will be any different this time."

SWC players of the week

by The Associated Press

If Thomas Everett and Cody Carlson hadn't lived up to their preseason billing, the Baylor Bears wouldn't be ranked 12th in the nation this week.

Everett, an All-American player in 1985, intercepted two passes last Saturday in a 31-28 victory over Wyoming.

Carlson, who had shared quarterback duties for three years with Tom Muecke, took advantage of a chance to play all four quarters. He was one of the best passers in the Southwest Conference last year but showed another dimension against Wyoming - his running ability.

Carlson, a senior from San Antonio, kept the Baylor offense humming on a day when the defense couldn't effectively stop the Cowboys' passing game. He rushed 15 times for 70 yards and took some tough hits from the aggressive Wyoming defense.

The peformances of Everett and Carlson earned them The AP's SWC Defensive and Offensive Players of the Week.

Everett returned an interception 42 yards for a touchdown and swiped another pass in the final two minutes to preserve Baylor's shaky victory.

Wyoming Coach Dennis Erickson said Everett was the difference in the game.

"I thought we would win but you have to expect that kind of thing when you are playing against great players. And Thomas Everett is just that - a great player," Erickson said.

Everett, who returned a punt for a touchdown to help Baylor defeat the Cowboys at Waco last year, said Wyoming quarterback Scott Runyan was very difficult

Sideline glances...

Tigers working to halt problem with cramps

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

Now that we know what Dennis Tomlin's idea of a scenic drive is, I suggest somebody else pick the spot for lunch.

Ahh, first week of predictions and I didn't lose my shirt. Though our morning coffee sippers got out to an outstanding start, I began with a more diminutive, but keepable, .703. That's 26 right, 37 wrong, in case you're counting.

We'll go with 39 this time out.

If you saw Snyder's opening game with Tulia last week it probably left you with mixed feelings about the rest of the season. On the one hand, the Tigers' offense looked to have high-octane potential. On the other, turnovers and penalties still continue to bother the squad in 1986. And then, there were all of those players going down because of leg cramps.

The coaches and trainers have done everything in their power to stop the problems with leg cramps, though Coach Tomlin cautions he expects to see some of it again this Friday.

"I think it will take until about the third game of the season before we stop having the problem," he said.

Meanwhile, the Tigers are trying everything from a stiffer workouts to padded inserts in their shoes. If you've got any suggestions, you might pass them along.

By the way, Dennis, SDN publisher Roy McQueen says he's had a history of leg cramps and the trick is to eat bananas. Seriously. Says it has to do with potassium.

Whatever. Anyway, on with the picks...

Snyder at Levelland- Coach Tomlin says Levelland is a tougher team than Tulia. If so, Snyder could be in for trouble. But I'm counting on the Ragin' Tigers eliminating most of the mistakes they made a week ago...SNYDER 21, LEVELLAND 13.

Ira at Christoval- After an opening-game loss, it's time for the Bulldogs to get on track...IRA 45, CHRISTOVAL 31.

Sands at Borden County- Sands should be tough, but what the heck, could this be the BC Express? Call it...BORDEN 35, SANDS 20.

Southland at Hermleigh- Hermleigh's first game was called because of a too-wet field. The Cardinals make their debut a week late...SOUTHLAND 31, HERMLEIGH 28.

As for District 2-4A...

Choose Monahans to win its opener, 21-14 over Hobbs, N.M. Also, pick Fort Stockton 35, Alpine 14; Lake View 41, Lubbock High 24; Pecos 14, Carlsbad, N.M., 10; Midland 23, Andrews 7; Abilene High 21, Sweetwater 14; Lubbock Estacado 35, Big Spring 14; and Lamesa 20, Brownfield 18.

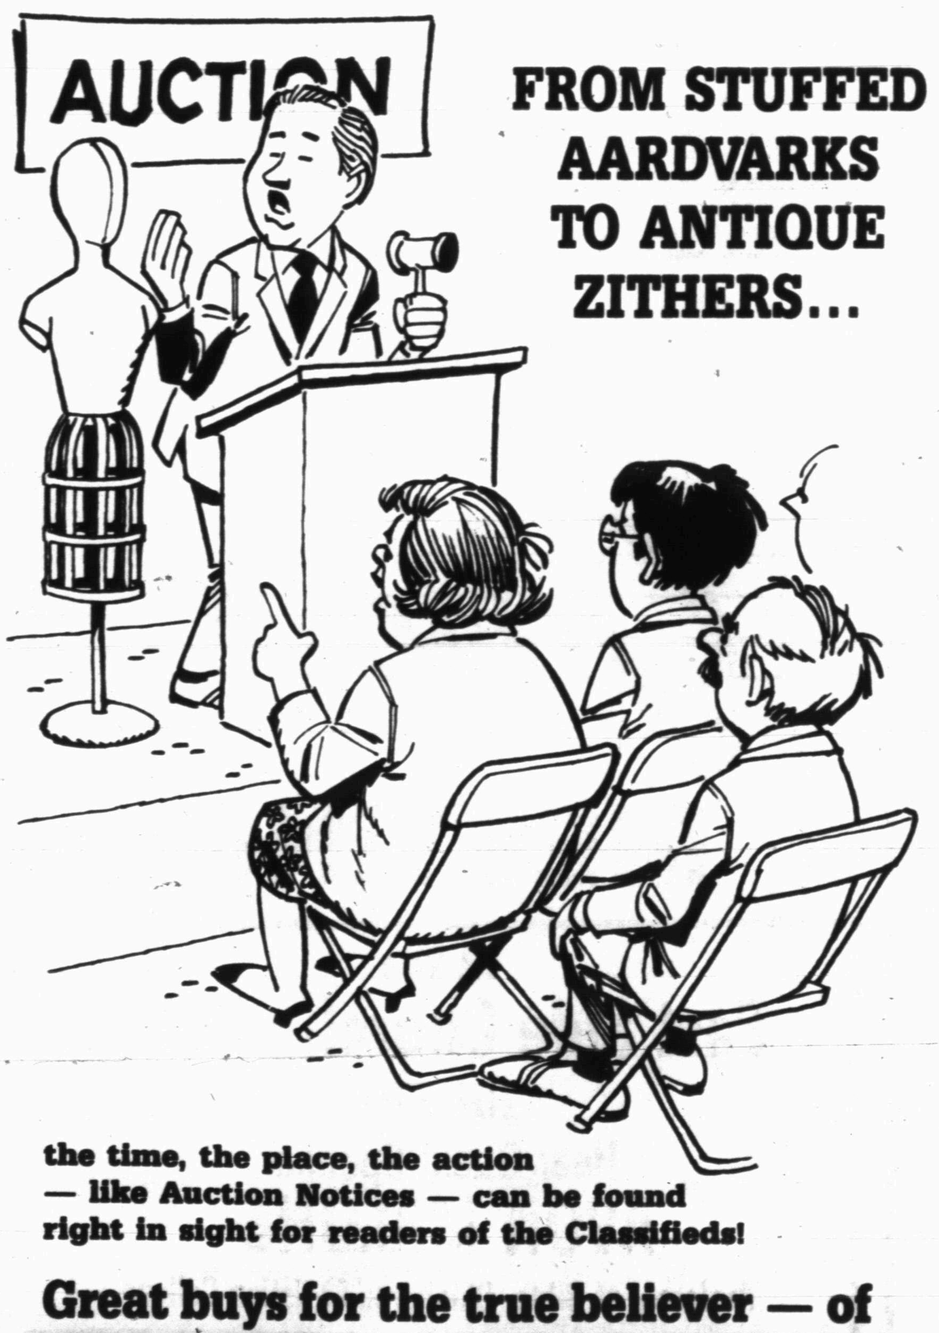

The Southwest Conference...

If you read the fine print following this week's college top 20, you might have noticed that Rice actually got a vote. Wonderments never cease...SMU 24, Rice 6. In other games, pick Texas to stiffle Stanford 21-17; A&M to defeat LSU 31-14; Baylor to losten up Louisiana Tech, 31-6; Arkansas to stop Mississippi, 19-10; TCU to take out Tulane, 23-17; and Texas Tech to fall to 2nd-ranked Miami, Fla., 28-21.

In other games among the top 20, chose Michigan to spoil Lou Holtz's debut with Notre Dame, 21-18 and Washington to squeeze past Ohio State, 21-20. In others, pick this way: Alabama 35, Southern Mississippi 14; Tennessee 21, Mississippi State 6; Georgia 10, Duke 6; Brigham Young 40, New Mexico 21; and Michigan State 17, Arizona State 14.

As for the pro teams...

Give Dallas a two-touchdown advantage over Detroit, say 24-10 and heap respectability on the Oilers with a 20-17 victory over Cleveland. As for the rest: LA Raiders 23, Washington 21; NY Giants 14, San Diego 10 (believe it or not); LA Rams 27, SF 49ers 21; New England 17, NY Jets 14; Cincinnati 21, Buffalo 7; New Orleans 23, Green Bay 18; Miami 37, Indianapolis 12; Seattle 24, Kansas City 14; Minnesota 14, Tampa Bay 13; Chicago 31, Philadelphia 14; and Atlanta 23, St. Louis 13 in an upset.

American League roundup...

AL leaders keep solid edge

by The Associated Press

Boston's Roger Clemens and the California Angels both were struggling.

But they both won Wednesday night. As a result, the Red Sox and Angels each lead their division by 8½ games and trimmed their magic numbers to 16.

California took 14 innings before getting past Cleveland 7-6. The Angels used a team-record 25 players.

"A whole bunch of hard-playing guys got just what they deserved," California Manager Gene Mauch said.

Clemens, leading the major leagues in victories, pitched six innings and raised his record to 22-4 as the Red Sox pounded the Baltimore Orioles 9-4. He won his fifth straight decision despite allowing four runs in the second inning - and has not given up more than five earned runs in any game this season.

California, which has won four straight and 13 of its last 15, maintained its lead over Texas in the American League West. The Rangers downed Seattle 3-2 in 10 innings.

Boston increased its margin in the AL East over Toronto, which was rained out of its game against New York.

In other AL action, Detroit beat Milwaukee 11-7 and Oakland defeated Chicago 6-2.

The Angels sent their game in Cleveland into extra innings by scoring twice in the ninth for a 4-4 tie.

Red Sox 9, Orioles 4

Jim Rice homered and drove in three runs, helping Clemens and Boston to victory in Baltimore.

Clemens gave up six hits and walked two in six innings.

Rice went 4-for-5 and has 20 RBI in his last 14 games.

Rangers 3, Mariners 2

Ruben Sierra's second double of the game drove home pinch-runner Bob Brower from first base, leading Texas over Seattle.

The victory was just the third in nine games for the Rangers.

Jim Presley homered for the visiting Mariners, his 26th of the season. It was his second in two games.

Tigers 11, Brewers 7

Kirk Gibson and Darnell Coles both hit a pair of two-run homers and Detroit pounded Milwaukee in a game featuring an AL-high eight home runs this season.

The Tigers tied team records with six homers in the game and four in one inning.

Mets' magic number nears; NL East almost in the bag

by The Associated Press

It won't be long now. One more win and the Mets' division chase is over.

New York's magic number is two after a 6-1 victory over Montreal Wednesday, hours after Chicago beat second-place Philadelphia 8-7. Any combination of Mets wins and Philadelphia losses adding to two ends the National League East race.

One such combination is a Mets win and a Phillies loss. The Mets play their next game Friday, in Philadelphia.

"We smell the end," Keith Hernandez said. "Right now, we're just looking to get it over with as quickly as possible."

Hernandez and Mookie Wilson hit two-run homers in a four-run first inning on Wednesday and Ron Darling, working on three days' rest for the first time this year, allowed five hits in eight innings.

Hernandez had three hits, and gained five points on his average - to .311. He has hit safely in 22 of his last 25 games, batting .382 over that stretch.

In other NL games, Los Angeles beat Houston 5-1, San Diego beat Atlanta 9-4, Cincinnati throttled San Francisco 14-2 and St. Louis beat Pittsburgh 4-3.

One of the few failures of the Mets' season so far: they couldn't clinch it at home.

"They were very fired up," New York's Gary Carter said of the Expos. "They saw the writing on the wall when they came in here, and they were going to do everything they could to prevent it from happening. No way did they want us to clinch in New York against them."

Friday night, Dwight Gooden tries to wrap it up for the Mets.

"It'll be awesome," said Gooden. "All my life, I dreamed of pitching the clincher."

Dodgers 5, Astros 1

Steve Sax was 4-for-4 and Orel Hershiser and two relievers scattered nine hits as Los Angeles ended Houston's four-game winning streak.

Sax had three singles, an RBI double and scored twice. He has two four-hit games in a week, 18 hits in 28 at-bats and has hit safely in nine straight games.

Padres 9, Braves 4

San Diego broke a 3-3 tie with six runs in the eighth inning and broke its five-game losing streak with a win over Atlanta.

Dale Murphy homered, went 4-for-4 and drove in all four Atlanta runs.

Reds 14, Giants 2

Cincinnati's Eric Davis hit three home runs, giving him 26 for the year, and 10 homers and 26 RBI in his last 22 games. He has hit 11 of his 44 career homers off San Francisco pitching.

Davis became the first Red to hit three home runs in a game since Johnny Bench did it on May 29, 1980.

Ted Power, 7-6, pitched three-hit ball over seven innings in his fifth start since leaving the bullpen, and Cincinnati turned five double plays in the game.

Vida Blue, 9-10, gave up five runs in 3 2-3 innings.

Cardinals 4, Pirates 3

Vince Coleman's ninth-inning triple scored Jose Oquendo with the tie-breaking run.

St. Louis had tied the game in the eighth on an RBI single by pinch-hitter Jim Lindeman.

Cubs 8, Phillies 7

Gary Matthews homered twice and Keith Moreland and Bob Dernier once each as Chicago won its fourth straight game, despite two homers by NL leader Mike Schmidt of Philadelphia.

With the two, Schmidt raised his season total to 34 and his career total to 492, one shy of Lou Gehrig for 14th on the all-time list.

"He (Runyan) ran out of the pocket good and he was so small (5-foot-9) I couldn't find him half the time," Everett said.

Carlson said "It felt good to go all the way. It was a tough day to do it, though, because of the high altitude (7,200 feet) and the way Wyoming was playing."

Utah senator gives kidney to daughter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jake Garn probably will be hospitalized for a week and be able to resume campaigning in three or four weeks after a successful operation to transplant his kidney to his 27-year-old daughter, his doctors say.

Garn, 53, and his daughter, Susan Garn Horne, were both in fair and stable condition at Georgetown University Hospital early today after the surgery of nearly six hours Wednesday, hospital spokesman Tom Sites said.

"The best of our expectations have been met and everyone is fine," said Dr. Baird Helfrich, who transplanted one of Garn's kidneys into Mrs. Horne.

Another surgeon, Dr. Ian Spence, removed Garn's left kidney through an incision stretching from the senator's back to his front left rib. In an adjacent operating room, Helfrich implanted the kidney into Mrs. Horne, who suffers from kidney failure and has been a diabetic since childhood.

"Everything went well," Mary Thiriot, an aide to the Utah Republican, said following the operation, called a nephrectomy.

"The senator is awake, has a bit of a grin on his face. ... He seems very self-satisfied, and happy and peaceful," Helfrich said.

The doctor added that he had spoken to Garn before the surgery about Garn's concern for his daughter and the senator's gratitude that he was able to donate the kidney.

Garn, who flew on the Discovery space shuttle with a National Aeronautics and Space Administration crew in April 1985, also talked with his doctors about science and the senator's interest in the space program, Helfrich said.

"He indicated he had never been familiar with a hospital. He had been born in his own home for $25," Helfrich commented.

Garn interrupted his re-election campaign Tuesday to check into the hospital.

His daughter also was expected to be hospitalized about a week, unless her body rejects the kidney, said Helfrich.

There is a 60 percent chance that could happen, but the rejection can be treated with drugs, he added.

Surgeon considers tranplants a success

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The American doctor who performed bone marrow transplants on 13 Soviet victims of the Chernobyl nuclear accident says he considers the surgery a success although only four of the patients survived.

"It's about as good as we can expect to do," said Dr. Robert Gale, who returned over the weekend from his fifth trip to Moscow since the April 26 accident.

Gale explained that bone marrow transplants can save the lives only of some people who suffer severe radiation damage to their bone marrow, and is unable to prevent death caused by radiation damage to the skin or other organs.

The problem is that it's difficult to tell in advance which patients the surgery will help, he said Wednesday.

Without tranplants, radiation victims with severely damaged bone marrow are certain to die of infections or bleeding because they lack enough marrow to produce blood cells that provide immunity and the ability to clot blood.

Three of the four survivors have been discharged from the hospital, and Gale said he saw two of them on his recent visit to Moscow.

"They look good to me," he said, adding that while the four survivors face an increased risk of cancer because of their radiation exposure, "for the moment we expect them to have a normal life expectancy."

Gale commented on his Soviet patients just before he and industrialist Armand Hammer, chairman of Occidental Petroleum Corp., completed their first successful test of a picture-sending phone link to Moscow.

During Wednesday's half-hour hookup, Soviet technicians and others at the Institute for Automated Systems in Moscow chatted and traded snapshots and medical charts with Gale and Hammer, who arranged Gale's trips to Moscow.

The $8,500 phones incorporate small television cameras to transmit still pictures of people or documents in about 15 seconds over regular phone lines. Transmitting live pictures would require costlier lines or satellites.

The phones will allow Gale and Soviet doctors to keep in frequent, inexpensive contact to follow the progress or study the autopsies of the 203 people who received the highest radiation doses.

Kidnapped baby returned safely to Temple hospital

TEMPLE, Texas (AP) — A woman accused of kidnapping an 8-hour-old baby from a Temple hospital nursery may have been trying to replace the loss of her own infant, police said.

The 19-year-old Temple woman and a man described as her boyfriend were being held in Temple City Jail without bond after they were arrested about 6:30 p.m. Wednesday and the baby boy found safe at a residence west of Temple, said Sgt. Theodore Cruz.

Jeremy Scott Bobo, born at 4:50 a.m. Wednesday and taken from a viewing room at Scott & White Memorial Hospital nursery about 12:30 p.m. when a nurse left the room to check on another baby, was unharmed, police said.

"He's in good spirits," said his father, Hank Charles Bobo, who waited at the hospital with wife, Laura Jean Bobo.

"It was a nightmare, but we knew he would be found. That's the only way we could look at it."

The baby was footprinted to verify his identity.

Police said neighbors and others told them the woman arrested may have been trying to replace a child she lost.

People told us "that she was pregnant and she lost hers through miscarriage," Cruz said.

The suspect matches the description of a woman seen at the hospital Tuesday night, and again Wednesday morning viewing the baby before the abduction, police said.

"The suspect was standing outside a glass window looking at the baby," and apparently went down a hallway, through a door and took the infant when the nurse left the room, Police Chief Tom Vannoy said.

Hospital Administrator Joe Dickson said the nurse told him the baby had been left alone for about five minutes. There were six or eight babies in the nursery, but Jeremy Bobo was the only baby in the viewing area, Dickson said.

Fire safety regulations prevent the door to the area from being locked, he said.

Police said the male suspect may have been waiting nearby in a vehicle. A tip from a citizen led to the arrests.

Dickson said it was the first kidnapping of a newborn from the hospital during his 18 years there. He said 2,000 babies a year are delivered at Scott & White.

The child's disappearance launched an extensive search, with at least a dozen police officers, the Texas Rangers and the Waco office of the FBI participating in a door-to-door search of area residences and the nearby Temple Mall.

"I know there's nothing that could have been done about this," Bobo, now a father of four, told the Waco Tribune-Herald. "We're not blaming the hospital. The police did a great job. We're thankful we got him back."

Peres, Mubarak meet, both ready to expand peace talks

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (AP) — Prime Minister Shimon Peres of Israel and President Hosni Mubarak met today with both sides declaring a readiness to breathe new life into the dormant Middle East peace process.

The two leaders shook hands as they met at Ras el-Tin, a 19th century presidential palace in this Mediterranean port 130 miles north of Cairo.

The palace was the site of the last Israeli-Egyptian summit meeting in August 1981, between Egypt's Anwar Sadat and Israel's Menachem Begin. Moslem extremists assassinated Sadat two months later.

Peres was met at Gianaclis Airport by Prime Minister Aly Lutfy and traveled to the palace by helicopter.

"We shall not permit the peace process to die away or to fade away, and we shall do whatever we can to bring life and spirit to the momentum for peace," Peres vowed in Tel Aviv before boarding an air force jet for Alexandria.

Whether the summit would take place remained in doubt until late Wednesday, when a last-minute accord was reached on a 4½-year-old border dispute. Mubarak had refused to meet Peres until the dispute was settled over the 250-acre Red Beach resort of Taba.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Esmat Abdel-Meguid announced the agreement on Taba and said, "I hope that what we have reached today will open a new page of cooperation and possibilities of dialogue between our two countries, so we can continue the peace process.

"We hope that the upcoming summit ... can end with positivity, which will help to push all efforts to reach a comprehensive and durable peace in the Middle East," he said.

In Tel Aviv, Peres said he hoped the summit would "put an end to four years of cold peace between our two countries."

"Peace remains the most important issue on our national agenda," he said.

Peres also said he would try to "expand the circle of peace in our region while resolving the Palestinian problem."

The prime minister promised his Cabinet before leaving that he would not make concessions on the Palestinian issue, government ministers said. Israel rejects negotiations with the Palestine Liberation Organization and says Palestinians participating in peace talks must disavow violence and endorse the Jewish state's right to exist.

The agreement to submit the Taba dispute to arbitration is expected to lead to the normalization of Egyptian-Israeli relations.

Egypt has agreed to return its ambassador to Israel for the first time since Israel's June 1982 invasion of Lebanon, and to ease restrictions on trade and tourism.

Taba was the major border question remaining after Israel's April 1982 withdrawal from the Sinai Peninsula.

Forgery noted here

Police are investigating a forgery complaint filed by Olney Savings and Loan officials Wednesday afternoon.

At 4:54 p.m., employees of the S&L reported the passing of a check which had possibly been stolen.

The suspect in the case had left the building when police arrived, but it was determined the check had been stolen.

Investigation of the incident is continuing.

City officers are also investigating two misdemeanor complaints filed Wednesday afternoon.

Lou Vickner of 3006 42nd St. filed the first of those at 5:39 p.m.

He told police that his 20-inch BMX bicycle had apparently been stolen from outside his residence sometime between 8 p.m. Sunday and 2 p.m. Tuesday.

Cindy Cox of 2208 Ave. L filed the second theft complaint at 11:09 p.m.

She told officers that her purse had been taken from her 1982 Chevrolet pickup while the vehicle was parked in the 2900 Block of Ave. V earlier in the evening.

In other action, officers jailed two suspects for public intoxication late Wednesday night.

Scientist quits

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — One of the top physicists working on President Reagan's "Star Wars" program has quit, and scientists say the loss will deal a severe blow to the project.

Peter Hagelstein, creator of the basic theory for building an X-ray laser at the heart of the space-based missile defense system, is leaving Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory on Oct. 1, officials said Wednesday.

Hagelstein, who has accepted a teaching and non-military research post at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, refused to say why he is leaving Livermore, a key research facility for the defense program.

But a colleague at MIT, where Hagelstein received his degrees, said Hagelstein had problems with the management style at Livermore, was troubled about working on weapons and wanted to return to an academic environment.

STEPHANIE WEAVER

Weaver is named Miss Congeniality

Stephanie Weaver has competed this past week in the Miss West Texas Fair and Rodeo Pageant. The contestants must live in a 100 mile radius of Abilene, where the fair activities are conducted.

The contestants competed in horsemanship, western attire, public speaking and modeling.

Weaver, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Weaver of Snyder, was named Miss Congeniality Monday night at the PRCA rodeo at the fair. She was sponsored by Bar H Bar Western Wear in Snyder.

Weaver is a freshman at Western Texas College and enjoys participating in AJRA and NIRA rodeos. She has been active in the Scurry County 4-H Horse Club, American Quarter Horse Association, and open horse shows in the West Texas area.

clude men who batter and children.

For now, any individual who feels they need therapy because of this problem can call the Noah Project at 573-1822 and arrangements will be made for them to have counseling, Scalf said.

The sessions last one hour and are designed to help women who are battered to "face it and to get on with their lives," Scalf said. "Group therapy offers support because women come to realize they are not alone."

The group therapy sessions are not limited to women presently living at the shelter. Anyone in Scurry County who fits the criteria of a battered female–married or unmarried–or who knows one may participate.

than they are. A class trip in Germany can mean going to another country. They are exposed to more national events than we are."

She said she values her experience very much. "It was really good for me to be by myself and I learned a lot about people. Everyone is just basically the same."

Her German "sister" has a brother, age 23, and a sister who is 19. This was her second trip to the United States since she had visited in Seattle, Wash. five years ago.

Since her father was a Rotarian, she said she decided to participate in the exchange program. Her choice was between Texas and California and she said she chose Texas. Her brother has been in the U.S. recently as part of an exchange program also.

"I knew a little about what to expect," Cornelia said during her recent visit, "But I found things to be flatter, drier and hotter in Texas than I had realized."

While in Snyder, the German girl attended a rodeo, visited the lake at Colorado City, shopped in Lubbock, saw "Texas" in Palo Duro Canyon and visited Ruidoso, N. M. which she said she "liked real well."

Just before leaving, the Bryans took her to Dallas and Six Flags, among other sites.

"My parents were happy for me to come," Cornelia said. "It has been a great experience for me even though it was my first time alone so far away from home. I am learning a lot."

Islamic Jihad denies action

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Islamic Jihad today denied it kidnapped American educator Frank Herbert Reed in west Beirut and called upon the "real kidnappers to come forth boldly and shoulder the responsibility."

The denial came in a typewritten Arabic-language statement delivered to the west Beirut office of a Western news agency along with a photograph of David Jacobsen, one of four other Americans missing in Lebanon.

Earlier this week, a telephone caller claiming to speak for Islamic Jihad, a Shiite Moslem group espousing the teachings of Iran's Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, claimed responsibility for Reed's abduction and charged he was a CIA spy.

Reed, 53, director of the Lebanese International School in Moslem west Beirut, was kidnapped Tuesday on his way to play golf, the first American abducted in Lebanon in 15 months.

Islamic Jihad has claimed responsibility for kidnapping the other four Americans and four Frenchmen missing in Lebanon, but has said it killed one of the Americans and one Frenchman. Their bodies have not been found.

The American hostages are Jacobsen, 55; Terry A. Anderson, 38, chief Middle East correspondent of The Associated Press; and Thomas Sutherland, 55.

Farm relief offer is expected soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some farm lobbyists and others think the Reagan administration soon may unveil a package of goodies to help farmers just in time for the Nov. 4 general election.

The package, which could be announced shortly before or after Congress adjourns on Oct. 3, was said by one source to be "a remolding of existing programs to help put a good spin" on administration policies as GOP House and Senate candidates face the final weeks of campaigning.

No specifics were suggested except that further liberalization of some credit programs and easing of debt collections by the Farmers Home Administration might be considered. A boost in soybean price supports and an increase in grain storage fees paid to farmers are other possibilities.

One move that reportedly is almost ready would be the appointment of a special assistant to the president for agricultural trade and food aid. The new post was created by Congress in the Food Security Act of 1985 and was to have been filled by May 1.

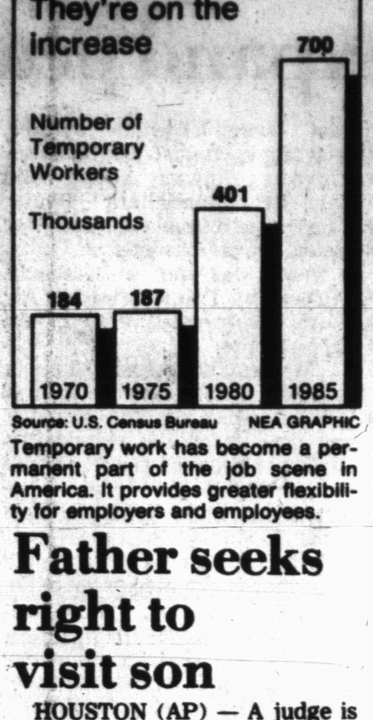

According to sources among farm organizations, on Capitol Hill and in the Agriculture Department, all of whom asked not to be identified by name, the appointment of a special assistant could be of some help in polishing the administration's image among those who feel not enough has been done to boost agricultural exports.

But there are mixed feelings about creating another high-level farm post within the White House.

According to several of the sources interviewed on Wednesday, Agriculture Secretary Richard E. Lyng has been opposed to the idea, maintaining that he is Reagan's farm spokesman and that another would just add confusion and second-guessing.

One source said Lyng would go along with the appointment of a USDA official to the White House job and that one is under consideration: Alan T. Tracy, who is deputy assistant secretary for marketing and inspection services.

Tracy, a Wisconsin native, joined USDA in 1981 as general sales manager and associate administrator of the department's Foreign Agricultural Service.

Temporary work has become a permanent part of the job scene in America. It provides greater flexibility for employers and employees.

Father seeks right to visit son

HOUSTON (AP) — A judge is expected to rule Friday whether a man should have the right to see his 6-month-old son even though he never married the child's mother.

Until then, G. Lyle Poling says he'll continue picketing in front of the Harris County Family Law Building.

"I love that little guy with all my heart," Poling said of his son, Christopher. "Just because I'm not married doesn't mean I don't love my son."

Poling, a 39-year-old salesman from Corpus Christi, said he saw his son until about three months ago, when the child's mother, Annie Combest, reunited with her husband. He then tracked the couple and baby to Houston.

Although Poling and Mrs. Combest had stopped seeing each other before the child was born in March, he said he took diapers and other supplies to the hospital and helped pay the bills.

"I want to make sure he has a good life," he said. "I love him and I want to provide for him."

State District Judge Robert S. Webb III is scheduled to rule Friday on Mrs. Combest's motion that the suit be dismissed on the grounds that Poling has no standing.

Until then, Poling plans to picket outside the law building in downtown Houston in protest of his inability to see his son.

Baylor honors first woman orthopedist

DALLAS (AP) — Dr. Ruth Jackson scanned X-rays and examined patients on Monday, just as she has on thousands of days since she opened her orthopedic surgery practice in 1932.

To visitors, she pointed out the diplomas that line the walls of an examining room in the Oak Lawn clinic she designed at the end of World War II.

And she remembered — her voice still tinged with anger — the day in 1924 when she started work on her medical degree at Baylor University's College of Medicine.

"There were four women in the entering class, and the dean told us, 'You women, we don't want you here. You'll have to make 10 points higher than the men do to get the same grade they do," she said.

Ms. Jackson met Baylor's challenge, and on Tuesday, the same institution — now the Baylor University Medical Center — named its orthopedic library and conference center for the 83-year-old woman who once failed a class because she demanded the right to treat male patients.

She may have lost the battle, she said, but finally she won the war.

She became the first woman accredited by the American Board of Orthopedic Surgeons. Her pioneering book on neck ailments — The Cervical Syndrome, now in its fourth edition — has brought her international praise and dozens of speaking engagements. And her expertise has earned the respect of three or four generations of some Dallas families.

Surgery is the only professional function Ms. Jackson no longer performs; she gave that up in 1974.

In connection with the library dedication, Baylor officials sponsored an open house in the doctor's honor at the orthopedic surgery floor of Hoblitzelle Hospital at Baylor.

But the doctor talked on Monday not about the honor but about her work, smoking one cigarette after another — but not inhaling the smoke into her lungs, she said — and looking intently at X-rays.

"That man is in pain," she said, pointing to bone spurs on the patient's vertebrae.

She complained that joggers do themselves at least as much harm as good and said foot problems are among the ailments she treats most frequently. Neck injuries, she said, have escalated in direct proportion to the hazards of Dallas traffic. She estimated she has treated 18,000 of them.

Her practice is nothing fancy, she said. She cuts her own orthopedic pads for patients' shoes, and she doesn't use any computers or lasers in her examinations.

"All this high tech just drives people up a tree," she said. "When they come here seeking a second opinion, they have been photographed and X-rayed but never touched. The patients just love the fact I will touch them. They trust that.

"He cures most successfully in whom the people have greatest confidence," she said, quoting the Greek physician and writer, Galen.

Company might have overcharged U. S. government

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A tool company and a General Dynamics Corp. engineer have been accused of overcharging the U.S. government, including $2,500 for a cutting device that was available from the manufacturer for $14.35.

Greer Industries Inc. of Fort Worth, a distributor that sells F-16 fighter jet maintenance tools to General Dynamics, Greer president Robert J. Greer, and a Greer manager, Anson J. Walker, were named in the indictment returned by a federal grand jury Wednesday.

The indictment said Greer Industries is a distributor that sells tools actually made by other companies.

Greer and Walker could not be reached for comment.

Harry B. Brand of Fort Worth, an engineer at General Dynamics' Fort Worth division who was named in the indictment, declined comment.

The indictment charged Greer, Walker and Greer Industries Inc. with conspiring since 1979 to defraud the U.S. Department of Defense by overcharging it for drills, cutting tools and other items used mostly for maintenance on F-16 fighter jets, which are manufactured by General Dynamics.

The indictment charged that Greer Industries took Brand out to lunch, gave him gifts and lent him money in exchange for approval of lucrative contracts to supply General Dynamics with tools for the jets.

Brand is an engineer at GD in charge of recommending to the U.S. Air Force what tools should be purchased for the F-16s.

General Dynamics was not charged in the indictment.

The investigation, conducted by the FBI and special investigative units from the Department of Defense and the Air Force, began several years ago when General Dynamics came under close scrutiny from federal officials about its pricing practices.

At that time, a cutting tool made for Greer and sold to General Dynamics eventually was bought by the Air Force for $2,500. The same type of cutting tool, bought directly from the manufacturer in California, cost $14.35, authorities learned.

Studies link teenage suicide to news, TV

BOSTON (AP) — Television movies that try to prevent suicides by increasing awareness of the tragedies may instead have the opposite effect, prompting teen-agers to kill themselves in imitation, a new study concludes.

Another report released today suggests that news accounts of suicides and even feature stories about the subject seem to trigger these deaths as well.

Both studies found increases in suicide attempts and deaths after the movies and news reports were broadcast. However, another researcher noted that neither of them showed that the victims had actually seen the programs.

"I think the important thing we have to do is examine the relationship between those stories and individuals," said Dr. James Mercy of the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta. "We need to know whether a specific teenager watched the program and the effect it had on him."

The two studies were published in the New England Journal of Medicine, along with an editorial by Dr. Leon Eisenberg of Harvard Medical School, who said it's unclear how news and entertainment should handle suicide differently.

"I don't think we should not tell the public that the suicide rate is going up. That would be ridiculous," Eisenberg said in an interview. "Yet if this is right, that may be some sort of stimulus to people who are thinking about it. I don't know what the solution is."
