Eastland Lakes Fish and Water To Be Protected

At the regular meeting of the City Commission Monday it was decided impractical to allow free fishing in Eastland lakes.

It was pointed out that if the lake was not patrolled it would be only a short time until the city's water supply would be polluted and unfit for drinking purposes. Also the supply of fish now in the lake would be depleted to the extent that the citizens would not have this good fishing and recreation place which is now so beneficial and desirable.

The small charge of $2.00 per year and 50c per day for family license fees or a 25c per day single license fee will be put into effect as has been the custom in the past. The age limit for children in a family is 14 years.

An exception will be made, however, for Eastland water users with paid up receipts. Any water user whose water bill is paid up may call at the City Hall and a two months fishing permit will be issued for himself and family free of charge. This, however, will have to be renewed every two months.

A warden will be put in charge of the lakes, not only to collect fees but to protect the property. Only last week it was necessary for officers who had been called to the lake to go and stop bathers who were swimming there.

A state game warden will also patrol the lake to enforce state game laws, and it may be well to announce here that he is said to be doing a good job of enforcing the law. The local man requests those visiting the lake to assist by notifying the city of any violations of either our fishing or sanitary laws, not only to protect our supply of drinking water but to preserve these beautiful outing grounds that are serving our citizens so well.

LIONS ENTERTAIN VISITORS TUESDAY

The regular meeting of the Lions Club was held Tuesday noon at the Connellee Hotel.

A. N. Garner, president of the Ranger club, was a visitor, having come over to extend an invitation to members of the local club to a barbecue to be given them at the Ranger Country Club Thursday night. Every Lion and his wife were invited. The entertainment is in payment of an attendance contest which the Ranger Lions lost to the Eastland club.

B. E. Garner, theater man of Ranger, was also present, having made the trip especially to extend to John Burke an invitation to be present Thursday night.

Miss Ollivette Killough demonstrated her unusual musical ability with two piano numbers for the entertainment of the club.

An announcement was made concerning the effort of all churches to have special programs and attendance at their services Sunday.

GRISHAM REUNION TO BE HELD AT GLEN ROSE

The four Grisham brothers and their families will hold a reunion Sunday afternoon at the home of their sister, Mrs. Alice Lantz, in Glen Rose, honoring their mother on Mother's day. R. N. Grisham and family will go from Eastland. T. F. Grisham, formerly of Eastland, and N. A. Grisham, West Texas Ranchman, will go from Abilene. J. S. Grisham, who is in partnership with Earl B. Mayfield at Tyler, will also attend. Several children of the families are expected to be present from Dallas, Abilene, and other points, making a total of about 25 people for whom preparations are being made.

City manager and Mrs. W. C. Marlow spent the week-end with Mrs. Marlow's sister, Mrs. W. T. Cunningham, who lives near Denton. Mrs. Cunningham returned with them to Eastland to spend the week with relatives.

Nelson Allison, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Allison, is recovering rapidly from a severe illness of last week.

PYTHIANS WILL HAVE CELEBRATION MAY 7-11

May 7-11 will be important days for Knights of Pythias in Eastland and surrounding towns as well as throughout the entire state. An old-fashioned two-day picnic and barbecue will be held at Bass Lake near Gorman Saturday and Sunday, and Grand Lodge will be held at Abilene Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Pythian officials from all parts of Texas and officers of the Grand Lodge will attend the picnic, going from from there to Abilene for the Grand Lodge Meeting.

The picnic is given in honor of the anniversary of the founding of Pythianism. Children of the Pythian home at Weatherford will be present and entertain with vocal and instrumental music. Money received through concessions Saturday will be given to the home.

Grand Chancellor Royal G. Phillips will speak Saturday afternoon.

The Hon. John Lee Smith, of Throckmorton, incoming Grand Chancellor, will speak Sunday afternoon. Other speakers will be Theodore Yarborough, Grand Keeper of Records and Seals, and possibly several other well known local men. An effort is being made to secure the presence of ex-governor Pat Neff.

A special sermon will be heard Sunday morning at the Gorman Baptist Church.

All Knights of Pythias have been requested to attend the Grand Lodge, regardless of whether they are officers.

ROTARIANS FEATURE OPTIMIST DAY MONDAY

"Optimist Day" was featured at the regular luncheon of the Rotary Club Monday. Talks by several members of the club and music by Miss Peggy McLaughlin composed the program of the hour.

J. E. Lewis, John M. Mouser, Frank V. Williams and Jim Horton spoke to the club along "optimistic" lines, several good thoughts being brought out by each of them.

James Horton, president elect of the local club, and Sid Pitzer attended the Rotary convention at Mineral Wells Monday and Tuesday.

A round of straight trapshooting was shot with Mrs. Horton leading the squad with a 22x25.

The Eastland range will be closed next Sunday as the Eastland shooters will go to Ranger where the first monthly Oil Belt tournament will be held.

Breckenridge, Ranger and Eastland are the three towns that will take part.

Steen Herring, 4-year-old son of M. P. Herring, manager of the local A&P store, recently fell from the porch of his home at 611 So. Lamar and dislocated his elbow, but is improving nicely at this time.

Mr. I. N. Poe, who has been seriously ill for some time, is reported to be improving this week.

O. C. FUNDERBURK for Associate Justice Court of Civil Appeals, for Eleventh Supreme Judicial District.

Special Meet of Gun Club Called

All members and persons interested in becoming members of the Eastland Rifle Club are urged to meet Friday evening at 8 p. m. at the Court House.

The object of the meeting is to reorganize the club, elect officers who are active members, determine by vote what should be charged for membership fee for 1932, discuss the financial conditions of the club, and try to arrange things in general that will result in bringing in new members.

The few members of the club at present would like to see the membership grow to at least seventy-five shooters, which heretofore has been impossible due to various differences which have occurred pertaining to the manner in which the club has been handled.

The present members who are dissatisfied with the way things have turned out in the past, can assure those who are interested in the club but have not as yet joined due to reasons stated above, that in the future if there is a rifle club in Eastland it will be run entirely by the active members, and any changes that are made as to rules and regulations, plans for special shoots, and buying of new equipment, will be done so only after the matter is put before the members and approved.

The presence of everyone who is interested in the success of the club in the future is essential at this meeting. Help us advertise it.

Local Ball Club Plays Ranger Team

The Eastland Lone Star Baseball Club will play the first game of the season when they meet the Ranger team at 2:30 Sunday afternoon on the Eastland field east of town.

This recently organized team is managed by Neil Day. Players are Mok Watson, Eb Ligon, Hack Miller, Neil Day, Homer Norton, Elmer Brown, Delmer Brown, Roy Brown, Alton Vaughn, Blair Lewis, Jack Heath, Terrell Coleman, Ralph Simmons, and Ray Morris.

The boys have been working hard the past week, and a good game is expected Sunday.

MUSIC WEEK RECITAL GIVEN HERE TUESDAY

One of the most brilliant musical events ever staged in Eastland was presented to a capacity audience at the Methodist Church auditorium here Tuesday evening honoring Mrs. S. E. Hittson, president Sixth District, T. F. M. C., and Miss Wilda Drago, well known local musician, teacher and director.

Numbers by pupils of Miss Drago, the Drago Octette, the Drago Junior Ensemble, and several local and visiting artists were features of the program. Selections by the Methodist Choir, directed by Miss Drago, were also given.

The recital, arranged by Mrs. W. K. Jackson, Sixth District Chairman, Music Week, T. F. M. C., and directed by Miss Drago, was sponsored by the Eastland Music Study Club, Mrs. Grady Pipkin, president. Gorgeous decorations of flowers and flags were arranged by Mrs. Jos. M. Perkins, Music Week chairman, Mrs. A. H. Johnson and Mrs. W. E. Stallter. Everyone taking part on the program was in full evening dress, the Drago Octette wearing pale yellow silk dresses.

Mrs. Jackson presided and presented the honor guests. Speakers on the program stated that this was the only time a concert representing talent from the Sixth District had been given in any other than a large Texas city, such as Dallas or San Antonio.

MISS SNEED AND MR. BAGGETT WED

Miss Margie Sneed, of Yellow Mound, and Mr. Ralph Baggett, of Gunsite, were married in Eastland Wednesday. After the ceremony, they drove to Cisco, where they visited in the home of the bride's brother, Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Sneed.

Mr. and Mrs. Hester Pungarner, of Pleasant Grove, entertained Thursday night with a supper in honor of the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Baggett will make their home at Gunsite.

ANNOUNCE NEW ARRIVAL

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Scott announce the arrival Wednesday night of an 8-pound baby girl at their home on West Main.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Kenny and son have returned from a ten-day vacation in New Orleans and Texarkana. Mr. Kenny still has faith in Eastland, which he says is in better condition than some sections.

WATCH YOUR STEP

YOU MAY BE THE PERSON TO RECEIVE Free Theatre Ticket

Old folk, young folk, everyone alike, watch your step. Look over the list below and see if you are among those receiving the free theater ticket this week.

If the gentleman whose old suit always looks better after it is cleaned and pressed than the new suit he has just bought will call he will receive a ticket.

If the lady living in the west part of town who walked to church when she had a car just because she wanted to reduce will call she will receive a ticket.

If the gentleman who had to leave his wife and his dignity to chase his straw hat across the north side of the square will call he will receive a ticket.

If the lady who is having such a hard time making her husband believe his shoes hurt his feet will call she will receive a ticket.

If the young lady, who when asking for a blank check carelessly says "just any bank in Eastland or Cisco" will call she will receive a ticket.

If the young man who objects to advertising his intentions will call he will receive a ticket.

Dr. Tanner Leaves For Convention

Dr. H. B. Tanner, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, left Wednesday morning for Mineral Wells to attend the Texas Commercial Executives Association, which is being held at the Baker Hotel there Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

MOTORCADE WILL BE IN EASTLAND SUNDAY

The Broadway of America motorcade will arrive in Eastland Sunday, May 13, at 1:15 p. m. for a short stop before continuing their journey westward. The motorcade is enroute from New York City to San Diego, California, where a Broadway of America convention will be held.

OPERETTA WILL BE GIVEN NEXT FRIDAY

An operetta, "A Rose Dream", by Mrs. Forman, will be given in the high school auditorium Friday night, May 13, at 8:15 p. m. by the South Ward Glee Club. Mrs. A. F. Taylor is director and Miss Loraine Taylor is pianist. There will be no charges, and the public is invited to attend.

The following are personnels of the play and chorus:

Queen: Frances Lane.
Queen's attendants: Mava Lua Crossley, Katrina Lovelace, Gladys Hoffman.

Little Rose, who is lost: Annie Jane Taylor.
Little Rosebud: Margarette Ann Hapeman.

Hop o' My Thumb: V. J. Seaberry.

Elves: Edward Freyschlag, Robert Herron, Charles Lovelace.

Giant: James Metcalf.
Door Fairy: Marie Plummer.

First fairy, who will give solo and dance: Mary Jane Harrell.

Other Fairies: Nelda Beth Woods, Melba Ruth Woods, Marjory Murphy, Frankie May Pierce, Joe Camille Lobaugh. The fairies will do a drill.

Little roses, who will also give a drill: Freda Michael, Margarette Ann Hapeman, Johnnie Lua Hart, Patsy Sparks, Mary Dorothy Pratley, Dorothy Perkins, Nancy Seaberry, Jo Ceil Coffman.

Piano pupils will play between scenes: Johnnie Mae Murphy, Betty Joe Newman, Ray Mildred Hearne, Johnnie Hazel Reese.

Pupils of Miss Loraine Taylor who will read: Jack Stubblefield, Fay Stone, Marjory Ray, Joy Dean Greer, Alda Ray Cissons.

Pretty costumes of crepe paper and tulle will be worn by the children.

TO CELEBRATE 50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mrs. Agnes P. Doyle will act as hostess at an informal home gathering from 5 to 7 p. m. Saturday afternoon honoring her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Schmick, who will have been married fifty years on that date.

Friends of the family are cordially invited to attend during the hours mentioned at the Schmick home at 503 S. Mulberry street.

W. D. SWITZER REPORTED SERIOUSLY ILL

Word has been received here that D. W. (Dave) Switzer, of Mangum, an old timer in this part of the country and well known over the entire county, is critically ill. A brother, Rev. Yeargin Switzer, arrived from Oklahoma Tuesday morning to be at his bedside. Glen Garrett, a brother of Mrs. Switzer, was also called this week from his home in Fort Worth. The many friends and acquaintances of the family are anxiously awaiting word of his improvement.

FLOWER AND BAKE SALE

The A. F. K. circle of the Methodist W. M. S. society will hold a bake sale and flower sale Saturday at Piggy Wiggly's. Orders for flowers are being taken by Mrs. B. M. Cellie, and orders for pies, cakes, cookies and candy are being taken by Mrs. Earl Woody. Get your order in now for Mother's Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Scott and Miss Modell Domyney visited relatives in Gorman Friday night.

Sunday Will Be Special Day In Local Churches

Sunday will be Go-to-Church Day in all Eastland churches.

A concerted effort is being made by pastors and members to have full attendance on Mother's Day.

Special services will be held at every church and in many of the different Sunday school classes. Special music will feature the programs.

Several churches are holding services in the morning for parents and in the evening for young people, in an effort to bring about a closer relationship and better understanding between parents and their children. Everybody is requested to attend both services, however.

A notice signed by the pastors committee appears below:

Go-to-church Day will be observed among the churches of the town next Sunday. Services honoring parents will be conducted at the morning hour, and services honoring young people will be held in the evening. Young people are requested to attend in the morning to honor their parents, and parents are urged to attend in the evening to honor their children. Be present at the church of your choice.

Signed,
M. C. Franklin,
J. Batdorf,
Geo. W. Shearer.

Red Cross Worker Visits This County

Mrs. G. V. Shuman, field representative of the American Red Cross, was in Eastland Tuesday to investigate conditions in the county with reference to the need of Red Cross and other charity work.

Mrs. Shuman was making investigations over the entire county, coming here from Cisco with J. E. Spencer, county Red Cross chairman.

According to members of the local Red Cross executive committee, Mrs. Shuman's purpose in covering the county was the fact that an unusually large portion of flour had been shipped here. Investigations revealed that this was true probably because this section is not primarily an agricultural country, and the excess population left over from boom days made the demand for flour greater.

People are being asked not to make requests for flour unless it is absolutely necessary, and distributors everywhere are being cautioned to inquire closely into every case before giving it away, since a part of the supply may be needed for next winter.

Mrs. Shuman, assisted by Miss Ruth Ramey, county home demonstration agent, took up the matter of furnishing cans for putting up fruits and vegetables to farm people who are not able to buy them. A report on the plan has not yet been received from the Red Cross.

PENNEY EMPLOYEES ATTEND STORE MEET

Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Stire and family, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Beaty, Miss Winnie Snider, Miss Valta Seale and Mr. Allen Sneed motored to Breckenridge Monday night to attend the group meeting of the J. C. Penney Co. employees of the Ranger, Cisco, Eastland and Breckenridge stores.

A bountiful luncheon was spread, after which a program was given for the benefit of the store employees.

Arrangements were made to hold these meetings very two months. The next one will be given at the Eastland store in July, with the local manager, Mr. Stire, in charge.

MRS. B. A. SHORT WINS SUIT AGAINST T. & P.

The district judge of the 32nd district at Big Spring recently approved a judgement against the Texas & Pacific Railroad for Mrs. R. A. Short in a damage suit amounting to $25,000. Mrs. Short formerly lived in Cisco. Her husband was killed some time ago in a wreck between Fort Worth and Dallas. She was represented in the case by Grisham and Patterson, Eastland attorneys.

EDITORIAL

A rumor, which later proved to be unfounded, was afloat Saturday that two Eastland business houses, the only two of their kind in the city, were to close Saturday night.

We are glad to state that an investigation of the matter brought denials of any intention of such action.

The incident reminds us, however, of the struggling times many Eastland firms are having and the look on the faces of the many people on the streets when they tell of this or that business house closing and one, two or a dozen men being put out of work.

There is something to be gained from all this—something of untold and everlasting value.

Regardless of who you are, when a business house closes its doors and one or more people are thrown out of work, you are effected—and you seem to realize it at the time. It is easy to see just at the moment that a payroll has stopped—Those fellows who lost their job can't buy from the firm that is paying me my salary—I wonder when my boss is going to cut my salary or lay me off?

But when you get your check on payday, do you ever give a thought to WHERE AM I GOING TO SPEND THIS MONEY? Will I go to Fort Worth, Cisco, Ranger or Abilene and help some fellow out there hold his job?

If all the people will learn from the present experience that they can help keep the Eastland people on their jobs by spending their money with Eastland firms, it is a lesson of immeasurable and lasting value to themselves and the community.

You may not be effected today, but don't wait until this plague of unemployment has enveloped you—open your eyes, look about you—check up and see if you are helping your neighbor hold his job and thereby helping your boss keep you on the payroll.

Then there are those not on payrolls, proprietors of business houses and professional men—You must keep your patrons employed if you are to expect business from them.

Let's profit by this so-called depression; let's awaken to the necessity of demanding Eastland labor and Eastland products from Eastland merchants and taxpayers.

JOBS

How many wage earners or salaried employees in this country have stayed on one job as long as twenty years? Probably more than most people realize, but very few equal the record of three employees of a New York lead pencil manufacturing concern. One of them, the credit manager, has worked for the same company for fifty-four years, one of their salesmen has been with them fifty years, and one of the factory men fifty-five years. All three are in good health and still in active service. In this same company the average length of service of the travelling sales force is over twenty years. Twelve salesmen, still active, have a total of four hundred and eight years of service, and average of thirty-four years each!

Examples like that help correct our idea that we are essentially a restless people, constantly jumping from job to job. These folks who stay on one job continuously may not get so much excitement out of life, but they certainly get more solid satisfaction and security, and if they are thrifty they are very likely to leave larger estates to their heirs than any of the job-jumpers.

JEWS

It is difficult for Americans to grasp the full extent of the anti-Jewish prejudice which exists in many parts of Europe. In Germany the Fascist movement led by Adolph Hitler has as a part of its revolutionary program the expulsion of all Jews from Germany, and Hitler showed enough strength at the recent election to cause great alarm among the Jewish population.

I have a Jewish friend whose daughter not long ago married a young Jewish banker of Berlin. She wrote home the other day that her husband was closing up his business in Berlin and they were moving to Amsterdam in Holland, and many of the other important Jewish business men and bankers of Germany were looking for more friendly countries to move to.

When we consider the position occupied by Jewish merchants and bankers in America, the honor paid to two great Jews, Cardozo and Brandeis, who are justices of our Supreme Court, the respect in which Jews like Edward Filene of Boston and the late Julius Rosenwald of Chicago, are held, any such program as Hitler's seems incomprehensible to us.

RICHES

Henry Ford once told me the secret of making money. It is to manufacture something which everybody wants, make it cheaper than anybody else can make it, keep on improving the product and reducing the cost of making it, and cut down the retail price every time the cost is cut.

That is a rule that has never failed to work, whether the product be automobiles, newspapers, or bread. The lower the price, the wider the market.

I was reminded of this the other day when I saw a notice that the company manufacturing the highest priced automobile in the world has closed its American factory and stopped trying to do business in this country, while Mr. Ford is announcing a new car which will be cheaper than anything he has yet put out.

The old idea that money can be made only by selling high-priced commodities to the wealthy is responsible for a great deal of our present economic difficulty.

GREED

I am inclined to agree with Prof. Henry G. Russell, of one of the Hartford high schools, who told the Eastern Commercial Teachers' Association the other day that the principal thing the matter with our social and economic order today is an excess of greed. Dr. Russell warned the Teachers' Convention that young people must be taught the dangers of avarice.

"Get the money" without regard to how it is got, seems to be the motto of an increasingly large number of young men and women. It is this idea, fostered by "success" stories, in print and to a large extent in the movies, that is at the bottom of the whole system of racketeering. Organized crime is simply organized greed.

It is still true, as Saint Paul wrote nearly two thousand years ago, that the love of money is the root of all evil. Not money itself, but the love of money. And the only possible corrective to the tendency to put money above everything else is to change our whole method of teaching the young, so that they will learn that it is possible to live happily without money—even more happily, for most people, than if they had money.

LEADERSHIP

The type of normal human beings whose health is always perfect and whose nerves are always calm seldom or never develops leaders or men of genius, according to a report of the University of Illinois Research Laboratories, where scientists have been studying human types for several years.

It is the people who are nervous, uneasy and always looking for something to do who take the lead in new business enterprises and become the geniuses of art and literature, this report suggests. Tall men are much more likely to be of that type than the short, stocky ones. The difference arises largely from physical causes. The internal chemistry of one type is much more variable than of the other. And this leadership type is much more subject to illnesses which have their origin in nervous instability and blood changes, than are the more placid people.

Perhaps the quiet folks who never do anything except follow the normal routine of life are more contented than the other kind, but they don't have half as much fun!

"STATIC"

By J. L. Cottingham.

F. O. Hunter tells me that there is a new singer at the Club Cafe. I do not know what he means but feel sure it must be a girl or Hunter would not have noticed. I think I will tell Mrs. Hunter to make him wear dark glasses when he comes to town. Hunter was the fellow that accused us of pulling out punches.

There is a young lady driving Little Jack Lewis' car. I am glad of that for I feel much safer now when I see it coming. I can see now that the car will travel in a straight line—I thought it had to zig-zag from curb to curb.

Saw Miss Juanita Daniels coming out of the drug store with a package, I hope she is not due to become a blonde. The blonde is back at the Court Cafe—so I heard. Mrs. Hapeman asked me if I had ever seen Jack in there. Of course, I told her no. That question was in the same class as the one Mrs. Krause asked Julius when she came back home. She asked him if he had been stepping out while she was gone. Do you want two guesses on what Julius replied?

Pop Knox has a cane now and can he swing it? Kinney has gone to New Orleans—he took his wife along though, he wont have much fun. Arl Williams says he now wants to get married—get in line girls and don't shove. Virgil Brown has a brown shirt—a fellow named Brown ought to wear a blue shirt or a red one Jim Harrel wants someone to split a five-dollar election bet. Chief Reed says that Winkleman and yours truly are the same size—I was due something from Lee but not as bad as that. Jim Harrel had his initial put on all his shirts so the washerwoman's husband can't wear them. Russell Hill is busy trying to guess Miss Whitfield's age—I believe his guesses are ten years too high. Mrs. Atcheley told me what it was but made me swear not to publish it.

Pentecost has presented my family with another cat—I hope the next person who has cats will give them to someone else. Sid Pitzer needs about a half a dozen cats and I am sure Jack London would like another half dozen.

Carl Johnson and Joe Laurent always go down to their place of business on Sunday morning—they like to find out who looks in their show windows. Row Lawson keeps sitting in the shine chair but never gets a shine. Will Woods has a poll-tax list that shows Jack Lewis has his poll tax paid—Tammany John Seale says he has not—who is right and what difference does it make? Eggs will only be ten cents a dozen whether he did or did not. Fuzzy Furse got his bills out on time this month—he must be losing weight, he never could step that fast before.

Further deponent sayeth not. I thank you.

Tom Harrell spent the week-end at his home here. Mr. Harrell's business has kept him at Tyler the past few months.

Mrs. W. A. Deck was called to Ft. Worth Saturday to attend the funeral of her brother, J. C. W. Brown, who died suddenly Saturday morning. Mr. Brown was a chemist at the Ft. Worth city water works.

himself in this country can do well." This is not a complete answer. To be sure, I have worked. But where did I work the hardest? On a farm one summer (I still ache when I think about it). And in Montana in a construction camp. The hours in each case, were more than twelve a day, and at night we were to weary for anything but bed.

On my farm my income was one dollar a day; in the construction camp it was sixty-five dollars a month.

If I have increased my income it is not because I have worked harder but because I happened to get out of those tough jobs into one that is much easier and much better paid.

If I have used intelligence, it is not greatly to my credit. I happened to have been born in a home of culture. I was sent to college, and my expenses were paid.

Many rich people, who are worried for fear they will have to bear a larger burden in the future, have had all these advantages, plus the added advantage of inherited wealth. When they grumble they give me pain.

Surely, we who have had the best luck in this country are going to be wise enough to recognize it and to assume cheerfully our share of the load.

tures," by Mary Baker Eddy (page 36): "Divine Science reveals the necessity of sufficient suffering, either before or after death, to quench the love of sin. To remit the penalty due for sin, would be for Truth to pardon error. Escape from punishment is not in accordance with God's government, since justice is the handmaid of mercy."

JUNIOR MUSICAL SUNDAY AFTERNOON

A Junior Musical Tea was given by pupils of the various music teachers of Eastland Sunday afternoon at the Community Clubhouse as the opening event for Music Week. The scene was lovely with the flower show decorations.

Mrs. A. F. Taylor was chairman. Pupils of Mrs. Hunter, Mrs. Pitts, Mrs. Taylor, Miss Drago, Prof. and Mrs. A. J. Campbell, Miss Taylor and Miss Bailey were presented. The program was sponsored by the Eastland Music Club.

Mrs. Grady Pipkin, president of the Music Club and Mrs. Jos. M. Perkins, chairman of Music Week, assisted with arrangements and entertainment, and Mrs. W. K. Jackson presided at the registration table. Fifty-four adults and forty-two juniors were registered.

The calendar for Music Week was announced at the close of the program.

The WAY of LIFE BY BRUCE BARTON

WE RICH

A young man, who is vice-president of a New York bank, told me that he dined recently at a fashionable resort.

"All the other guests were very rich," he said. "They were older people, many of them retired. They were shaking in their boots. They were afraid there will be a social upheaval and that their money will be taken away."

I told him I thought these people had a right to worry.

"The social order will not be overturned," I said, "nor will people like your friends be stripped of their possessions. But I do believe that, when this depression is over, the rich will be poorer and the poor will have a degree of comfort and security that they have never possessed before. And this will be better for everybody."

In saying this, I am taking a position which is contrary to my own selfish interests, for, while I am not, and never shall be rich, I have an income that is much above the average. If taxes are higher mine will go up with the rest.

But why shouldn't they? What have I done to deserve as much as I get out of life?

You may answer: "You have worked hard. You have been ambitious and intelligent. Any man who will apply

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

The lesson-sermon subject was "Everlasting Punishment" in all churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, May 1.

The golden text was from Galatians 6:1. "Brethren, if a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual, restore such an one in the spirit of meekness."

Included in the service was the following passage from the Bible (Psalms 1:6): "For the Lord knoweth the way of the righteous: but the way of the ungodly shall perish."

The lesson-sermon also embraced the following citation from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scrip-

SPECIAL PROGRAM AT BIBLE CLASS SUNDAY

A special program honoring Mother's Day will be observed Sunday at the meeting of the 9:49 Men's Bible Class. The public is invited, and members have been asked to bring their mothers, wives or sweethearts. Any person whose mother is not living is requested to bring some old lady friend.

Officials of the class explain that the program will not be in the nature of many Mother's Day observances, as an attempt will be made to eliminate all the sadness from the occasion, making cheerfulness a feature of the program.

Judge Hickman's lecture for last Sunday included both the lessons for that day and for next Sunday, in order that the special program might be arranged for Mother's Day. Ninety-four were present Sunday.

Those in attendance were: T. A. Shanley, A. L. Agate, P. B. Bittle, G. L. Maynard, Mrs. L. H. Barlow, L. H. Barlow, L. W. Ferguson, D. J. Jobe, J. Jones, G. O. Reynolds, W. L. Van Geem, T. M. BAPTIST CHURCH NEWS

The revival, which has been going on for the last two weeks, closed Sunday night with a great crowd present that taxed the spacious auditorium of the church building. Rev. O. B. Darby delivered a message that thrilled the hearts of his hearers, using as a text the two words "He lingered". The Baptist church orchestra, directed by Mr. A. J. Campbell, accompanied by Mrs. T. J. Pitts, added much by the rendition of several beautiful numbers. At the close of the preaching service the beautiful ordinance of baptism was performed. Thirteen of those who had been approved for baptism by the church were baptized.

The revival services have been well worth while, about 20 having been added to the church roll. During the two months that Rev. Darby has been pastor, not a Sunday has passed without additions to the church family or the conversion of some soul, there having been about 35 additions to the church roll altogether. This is a very encouraging fact, and the Baptists of Eastland are very happy and thankful over their growing family.

Pastor's Family Called to Franklin
Owing to the very serious illness of Mrs. Darby's aged father who resides at Franklin, Texas, the pastor and his family left early Wednesday morning for Franklin. The sympathy of the entire citizenship of Eastland go with them on this sad trip.

Mother's Day Program
At 9:45 o'clock Sunday morning in the opening exercises of the Sunday School at the Baptist church, a beautiful Mother's Day Pageant will be presented by the Senior department of the Sunday School, W. J. Herrington, superintendent, before the Senior and adult departments of the Sunday School, which will combine their opening exercises for the morning. This program will be presented in the main auditorium of the Church. Come early and bring your mother.

HOME MAKERS CLASS HAS PARTY TUESDAY

The Home Makers Class of the Baptist Church met Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. W. M. Shirriffs for the regular monthly party. Devotional was led by Mrs. S. D. Phillips. A business session was conducted by Mrs. Shirriffs, and a social hour was led by Mrs. G. V. Simmons. The home was beautifully decorated with roses and ferns from Mrs. Shirriffs' garden.

Refreshments were served to the following members: Mmes W. T. Morgan, C. T. Lucas, Morgan Myers, S. J. Phillips, Claude Maynard, Artie Liles, W. M. Campbell, Earnest Daniel, N. Nash, E. R. Weatherford, G. W. Simmons, W. M. Shirriffs, and two visitors, Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. Carter.

WANDA LOU HARRIS HAS BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Percy Harris entertained with a party Wednesday afternoon honoring her little daughter, Wanda Lou, on her third birthday.

Various games were played by the little guests, and home made ice cream and angel food cake were served as refreshments. Favors were bags of colored candies.

Those present were Carolyn Boggs, Hallie Everett, Harold Leon Everett, Noraine Tunnell, and Louise and Betty Jones. Several of the young guests were accompanied by their mothers.

TO HOLD PLAYGROUND DEMONSTRATION TODAY

A demonstration of playground activities will be held at South Ward school Friday, May 6, at 4 p. m. The children will be shown in all their usual play and exercises.

The boy scouts will be present and have charge of parking the cars. The high school band, under the direction of A. J. Campbell, will furnish music for the occasion, especially for the marching.

This demonstration was scheduled last week in connection with the Better Homes Week programs, but was postponed until today because of rain.

METHODIST CIRCLES HAD JOINT MEETING

The Methodist WMS met at the church Monday afternoon at 2:30 in a joint meeting of the three circles, Mrs. T. J. Haley presiding in the absence of the President, Mrs. Hickman. The meeting was opened with the song, "Take the Name of Jesus with You". Various announcements were

Be Particular About Your FACE POWDER

You should be particular about your face powder. A heavy coating, a "powdery" appearance is objectionable. Your powder should be of sufficient fineness to impart a velvety film that the skin will retain and just light enough to dust on evenly and smoothly. Agnes Sorel Face Powder has these qualities, in addition to an odor which blends with any perfume you use.

Agnes Sorel Face Powder is one of the six Agnes Sorel essentials to complexion care, sold only at the—

The flowers were taken to homes of sick members and friends.

Members enjoying this occasion were Mmes. M. Dulin, Sallie Hill, Maud Braly, A. J. Elliott, E. E. Pettit, W. A. Cathey, Ida Jones, and the hostesses, Mmes. Day, Westbrook and Huddelson. Visitors were Mmes. Horton, Roy Birmingham and Mrs. Crow of Oklahoma.

MAN WHO PLAYED GOD IS COMING TO LYRIC

George Arliss in "The Man Who Played God", previewed here about two weeks ago, is returning to the Lyric Theatre for a two day run, Thursday and Friday, May 12 and 13.

You simply cannot afford to miss this picture. It is the most astounding success of the year. Striking a thoroughly different note in the picture world, its bigness and dignity seem to lift the plane of filmdom one notch higher.

Centered around a theme that is at the same time human and extraordinary, it is a revelation to people in any walk of life.

Arliss is superb as a famous pianist who loses his sense of hearing and consequently rebels against man and God, only to find himself through a strange fate amid a richer and fuller life. You are familiar with Arliss' supreme ability, but you have never really appreciated him at his best until you have seen him as "The Man Who Played God".

He is supported by a strong cast including Bette Davis, Violet Mering, Ivan Simpson, Louise Closser Hale and Donald Cook.

SCALE RUNNERS CLUB HAS REGULAR MEETING

Johnnie Mae Murphy was hostess to the Scale Runners Club Tuesday at 3:45.

After a short business meeting, piano numbers were given by Jo Camille Lobaugh, Marjory Murphy, and Freda Michael. "My New Piece", an article, was given by Betty Jo

Newman. Piano numbers were given by Ruby Lee Pritchard and Johnnie Mae Murphy. Marie Plummer gave the biography of Schubert, and other piano solos were rendered by Johnnie Hazel Reese and Annie Jane Taylor.

Lovely refreshments of sandwiches, potato chips, pies, and grape juice cake, with toy animals for favors, were served to the members present.

WORLD CLUB OBSERVES NATIONAL MUSIC WEEK

The Boys and Girls World Club met in a regular weekly meeting Wednesday afternoon in the M. E. Church. A song of praise was the opening number.

A sing song was conducted in observance of National Music Week. Music week was further emphasized by an interesting talk by Mrs. Fred L. Dragoo, who told of its value, influence and national observance. This was followed by prayer and song. The lesson story was given by Mrs. C. G. Stubblefield. The story was the "Flying Spray", which is a true story of a brave and courageous negro youth who went to sea and became a seaman, and who later went with Admiral Robert E. Peary, when he explored Greenland and discovered the North Pole.

The meeting closed with a junior verse. Those attending were: Rae June Stubblefield, Dorothy McGlamery, Ernest Jones Jr., Julia Parker, Gladys Gates, Mary Nelle Crowell, Anna Jo Tableman, Frances Crowell, Alva Roper, Nora Frances Mahon and Thomas Haley.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Hurley and daughter, Dolores, Mr. J. R. Boggus and daughter, Milabeth, and little Miss Verna Nell Young, of Olden, visited friends and relatives in Thurber Sunday.

SUSAN STEELE BIBLE CLASS IS ENTERTAINED

The Susan Steele Bible Class of the Methodist Church was delightfully entertained Thursday afternoon, April 28, in their classroom, with Mrs. Annie Day acting as hostess and Mmes. Ella Westbrook and Alice Huddelson as co-hostesses.

In the absence of the class president, Mrs. Joe J. Meikle, who is attending the bedside of her daughter, Mrs. McKee, who is ill in El Paso, Mrs. Day conducted a very spiritual devotional. A number of favorite hymns were sung, accompanied by Mrs. Mae Harrison at the organ, which is a gift from one of the members and is greatly prized by the entire class. Some business was taken care of, and a very pleasant social hour was enjoyed.

MAN MADE THE TOWN

by RUBY M. AYRES

She was well enough now to feel that she was about to be taken out of prison; well enough to find the quietness of the little room rather trying; she listened eagerly for his step on the stair.

She could hear him downstairs talking to Miss Starling. It seemed an eternity till he came to her.

"Well?" he said cheerily. "And how are we today?"

She searched his face with eager eyes.

"Are you going to take me out?" He laughed. "Didn't I promise? But let me look at you first."

"I'm much, much better," she assured him earnestly.

After she had been dressed Rathbone lifted her gently in his arms—she was little more than a feather-weight—and carefully carried her down the narrow staircase of the tiny house.

The Creature was standing by the car—a different car to the one Diana had seen drive down the lane when Rathbone last came.

"I'm going to drive you myself," he said as he carefully set her down on the seat of the car where pillows and rugs had already been methodically arranged by Miss Starling.

"That means you're going to sit in front," Diana said disapprovingly.

"That's where the driver generally sits," he answered calmly.

In less than half an hour they were back at the cottage, and Jenny greeted them at the door, her face all smiles, her eyes very knowing as she looked at Diana.

"Have you enjoyed it, Miss?" she asked, and Diana answered: "It was such a little way—it was hardly worth going for."

Rathbone laughed as he carried her upstairs again and set her down in an armchair.

"That's base ingratitude," he said cheerfully. "And I've sacrificed my Saturday afternoon to you."

She met the kindness of his eyes and relented a little.

"Thank you for taking me," she said.

She clung to his hand for a moment. "I'll come again soon," he promised.

CHAPTER VI

Monday was a glorious day.

Diana woke with the throbbing sensation that something good was going to happen. Then she remembered. Dennis was coming.

She asked the Creature an anxious question.

"How long have I been here?"

"Nearly three weeks."

It was a lifetime. Three weeks without once seeing Dennis!

She hoped the Creature would not take it into her silly head to stay at home this afternoon.

But the Creature went out.

"I shall be back by six," she told Diana, "and Jenny will give you your tea. Ring if you want anything."

"I shall not want anything," thank you," but as soon as she was sure Miss Starling was well away she rang the bell.

Jenny appeared readily.

"Did you ring, Miss?" Jenny always asked questions that were already answered.

"Yes, Jenny, if a gentleman calls"—Jenny's smile widened—"show him up to me at once, please."

Four o'clock—she had said half past in her letter—it seemed an eternity as she watched the slow hands of the little clock on the mantleshef.

Presently she dozed a little, awaking with a start to find Jenny, flushed and agitated, standing beside the bed.

"Oh, miss—he's come—and I didn't know if I ought to wake you."

"Bring him up. Why didn't you wake me before? . . . Do I look all right?"

"You look a picture, miss," Jenny lied gallantly.

Then Dennis came.

For a moment Diana could hardly see him. She was blind with emotion, and her heart beat so fast it seemed to be thundering up in her throat, choking her.

Then the mists cleared, and she saw him standing in the doorway, looking at her with eyes that seemed half ashamed, half pitying, half glad! Yes, the gladness was there, and with a little smothered cry Diana held out her arms to him.

"Dennis . . ."

He came over to her and took her in his arms.

"Poor little girl . . . my poor little girl . . ."

She clung to him, half laughing, half weeping.

He kissed her gently as he might have kissed a child, but she seemed contented and lay still, looking at him with big eyes.

"Look at me, Dennis—you don't look at me at all," she said.

He raised his eyes with an effort. "I've been worrying about you, Diana."

She smiled. It was sweet to hear him say that.

"You need not," she told him. "I shall soon be back in London to plague you and quarrel with you again."

He turned his head quickly away, and she said with a sharper intonation, "Is anything the matter? You seem—strange, somehow. Is anything the matter, Dennis?"

"No, at least—" he broke off. "Something is the matter," she insisted. She tried to raise herself, but the effort was too much, and she lay back, trembling and breathing quickly.

"You frighten me," she whispered. "You frighten me."

He held her hand to his face—such a frail, little white hand.

"There's nothing to be frightened about, my dear." He smiled to reassure her. "It's only—I've got to go away for a little while—that's why I came. I had to see you before I went."

"Go—away? . . . Where?"

"A long way, I'm afraid; at least perhaps you will think it's a long way, though it's nothing nowadays—America."

"America—why?"

"America is not so far away," he said, trying to speak cheerfully. "It's only five days now—no time at all."

"How long will you be gone?"

He shook his head. "If you loved me you wouldn't go."

"Do you think I want to go?"

"Yes, I do," she said passionately. "My God, Diana, you're impossible!"

He walked away from her to the window. He was wishing with all his heart that he had not come, and yet perhaps he had never loved her so well as he did now, when she was ill and weak. Her brave attempt to look pretty for his sake cried aloud to his heart for pity.

"I must go, Diana."

She said nothing, she just lay there looking at him with tragic eyes and moved to sudden emotion he lifted her up in his arms and kissed her passionately.

"Don't forget me, Diana."

There was no answering pressure in her lips, those poor little reddened lips, and he said, stung to unjustified anger:

"You think only of yourself. If you had any thought for me you wouldn't be so hard."

"I'm not hard," she whispered. His face grew sullen.

"Good-bye, then." He walked out of the room without another word or glance, and Diana lay there, her face as white as the pillow, straining to hear the last sound of him . . . the very last sound of him.

Then suddenly she came to life. She gave a little strangled cry and tried to get out of bed.

"Dennis . . . come back! . . . Dennis! . . . Dennis! . . . Dennis!"

CHAPTER VII

And then Miss Starling came home and, scared half out of her wits, Jenny told her part of the truth—that there had been a gentleman to see Miss Diana, and that ever since he went away she had been like this, crying and sobbing, and would not be quiet.

"I told you nobody was to be allowed in," the Creature said in cold anger. "However, the mischief is done. Stop howling and go over to Dr. Rathbone's. If he is not there, and I am sure he will not be, leave a message and ask him to come over as soon as possible. . . . Stop howling, do you hear?"

Jenny fled with the sound of Diana's bitter sobbing singing in her ears like the cry of a lost soul.

"Dennis . . . Dennis . . . Dennis . . ."

It was late before Rathbone came over to the cottage.

He walked into Diana's room and stood looking down at her.

She was lying on her back, the thin arm flung onto the pillow above her head, her eyes staring up at the ceiling.

Rathbone spoke her name in a quiet voice, and her gaze wandered down to the level of his face and rested there.

"Well," he said with a smile, "and what have you been doing to yourself?"

"Nothing," she said stonily. "It's what people do to me."

"Oh, it's like that, is it?"

He sat down beside her and took her hand—her pulse was terribly weak.

After a moment he laid it gently down on the quilt.

"Have you been asleep?"

"I had a draught. I didn't want it, but she made me." She shot a look of bitter enmity at the Creature.

"That was quite right," Rathbone said.

He spoke to the creature. "I will come down in a moment," he said, dismissing her.

She went a way, and Rathbone stood looking at Diana.

He had merely tried to rouse her when he had suggested that perhaps she was not worth saving. He understood her well enough to know how her pride and interest would be stung, but now, as he looked at her deathly face and obstinately closed lips, he wondered.

He said quietly, "Open your eyes, and listen to what I have to say."

To his surprise she obeyed at once. "I you are going to lecture me—"

she began, and he interrupted ruthlessly:

"That is exactly what I am going to do. If you had obeyed my orders and behaved like a sensible girl instead of like a silly, wilful child, by this time you would have been well on the road to recovery, but as it is, by your folly this afternoon you have put your self back considerably, and believe me—no man in this world is worth it."

She said breathlessly:

"You don't know anything about it."

"And I don't wish to," he said. "But I give you warning now that unless you give me your word that in future you will do exactly as I have told you I shall write to Mrs. Gladwyn and tell her I must give up the case. I have dozens of really sick people on my hands without wasting valuable time on one who could soon be well and strong if she wished. Do you understand?"

She said with trembling lips:

"You are not very kind I shall die if you give me up."

"Very well, then, there is to be no more nonsense."

"No," she whispered.

"And you will go to sleep and believe that everything will come right in the end. It so often does, you know."

"Not for me."

"Well we shall see." He bent over her, feeling her pulse once more. Her eyes had closed as if the lids were too heavy to control, and he waited for a moment, a gleam of anxiety in his eyes but she did not stir, and he went quietly from the room.

"My aunt wants to take me to Aix," Diana told Miss Starling the next morning, as soon as she had opened a letter that had arrived by the early post.

The creature raised her brows.

"Oh, indeed, we must see what Dr. Rathbone has to say about that."

"He said it already: he said I wasn't fit for the journey. I hate Aix, anyway; people there think of nothing but illness. We went once; last year, I think it was. I was bored to death."

The Creature smiled.

"I have yet to hear you say that you have thoroughly enjoyed yourself anywhere," she said.

Diana considered the point.

"Well, I don't know that I ever have," she admitted. "You look forward to a thing, and then when it comes it's disappointing."

"Half the pleasure of life is in looking forward to things," Miss Starling said, carefully folding one of Diana's silken garments.

"What do you look forward to?"

Diana asked.

"Some day I hope to go to Normandy, but it's more than I can afford at present."

"How much would it cost?"

Miss Starling hesitated.

"I should think every penny of twenty pounds," she said at last. "That would be if I stayed a fortnight of course."

Twenty pounds! Not so much as Diana often gave for one of her frocks.

"Why Normandy?" she asked. Italy is much more beautiful."

"Normandy has associations for me," the Creature said quietly. "I have never been there, but a great friend of mine who died is buried there, and I have always promised myself that some day I will go and see his grave."

"Oh—the man you told me about?"

"Yes, the man I told you about."

"How did he die?"

"He was drowned, saving the life of a little boy."

"That was brave of him."

"He was brave—the bravest man I ever knew."

There was a little silence.

"That's the kind of thing Dr. Rathbone would do," Diana said thoughtfully. She felt a little surprised that the Creature should prove to be so human. "Give his life for somebody, I mean."

"Dr. Rathbone won the Military Cross in the war," Miss Starling said unemotionally.

Diana was silent for a moment; then she said, "I wonder he has never married."

"We can't all marry, and it isn't the only thing in life."

"It must be lonely for him."

"I think he is too busy a man to trouble about loneliness."

"All the same," Diana said obstinately. "I wonder some woman hasn't managed to catch him."

"To catch him? What do you mean?"

"Marry him. I suppose he is quite rich."

"Hasn't he got a sister, or a niece, or anyone who ever stays with him?" Diana persisted.

"I have never tried to discover. It is not my business."

"I think you must try and get a little nap before you have your supper," Miss Starling said practically.

"I can't sleep to order," was Diana's fretful reply.

"You can try," the Creature insisted. "And if Dr. Rathbone comes, wake me—even if I am asleep," was Diana's parting shot. It would be so like the Creature to insist that she was not to be disturbed.

But Rathbone did not come, though Diana lay awake for a long time listening for the sound of his car down the lane. He always sounded the horn when he turned from the main road, and she had grown to know and recognize it.

CHAPTER VIII

The doctor came on the Saturday afternoon in the middle of a thunderstorm.

Diana had been busy thinking about Dennis, who had cabled that he had arrived in New York. She was torn with her emotions at knowing he was with Linda.

The noise of the thunder had drowned the little sounds of Rathbone's arrival, and when he spoke to her she looked up, her face drenched with tears.

"Oh . . . Dr. Rathbone . . ."

She would have been less pleased to see an angel from heaven. In her eagerness she threw the bed coverings from her and sprang up to greet him.

"Oh, I'm so glad you've come."

He laughed and took her hand.

"Glad! Do you always cry when you're glad?" he said. He strode across the room and pulled the window down. The rain was coming in and had made a little pool on the floor.

"Get back to bed and cover yourself up," he ordered. "You'll take cold."

He looked at her whimsically. "And what were the tears for?" he asked.

She brushed them away with her bare hands as a child might have done.

"I think I was miserable. I thought you were never coming again. It seems so long since I saw you."

"Yes, he agreed. "It does seem a long time." Then they were both silent for a moment, looking at one another.

"Why haven't you been all the week?"

"For one thing, I've been busy, and for another, I thought you could do without me."

"Well," Diana said impulsively, "now you know I can't—and that's all about it."

Then again they were silent, looking steadily at one another, while the thunder rolled overhead shaking the stout wall of the little house.

He turned sharply away and stood for a moment staring out at the pouring rain, his big shoulders almost blocking out the window. Then he said, in a matter-of-fact voice:

"I think you might get up tomorrow and have your lunch downstairs. You must be tired of this room. A change will do you good if you don't overdo it." He turned round again. "By the way, any visitors this week?"

"No." In spite of herself, Diana felt she was flushing. She thought that what he really wished to discover was whether Dennis had been again. She said a trifle impatiently. "I don't think people are very fond of visiting you when you are ill."

"You can have anyone you like now, if they don't stay too long," he told her. "It would cheer you up to see some of your friends."

"What friends?" she asked wearily. "You must have dozens."

She shrugged her slim shoulders. "Nobody I really care about—no girls at least."

"A man, then," he suggested half-jokingly.

Diana was plucking the quilt together with nervous fingers. She was quite sure now that he was trying to discover something about Dennis, and with sudden bravado she lifted her head and looked at him.

"He is in America."

"He?" It was with chagrin that Diana realized that Rathbone had forgotten all about Waterman and that he was genuinely mystified to know to whom she referred.

She said defiantly, "The man who came here—before I was so ill again."

"Oh . . . I see. Then perhaps it is as well he is in America," he said significantly.

The tone of his voice angered her; he was treating her like a child.

"I shall never love anyone else," she said, her voice taking a higher pitch of excitement. "No matter what anyone says." She paused breathlessly, but he made no comment, and she went on in the same way: "Aunt Gladwyn says it's indecent to love a married man; she says the modern girl is indecent. I suppose you think so too."

He ignored the last words. He said gravely:

"The fact that a man is married cannot prevent a woman from loving him, but it should prevent her—prevent them both—from behaving foolishly."

CONTINUED NEXT WEEK

Mrs. B. R. Maxey attended a convention of the State Radiographers Association in San Antonio Friday and Saturday. Mrs. Maxey has been serving as secretary for the society, and Saturday was elected first vice president.

Miss Virgie Lee Crossley, Miss Lavinia Whitfield of Gorman, and Buster Martin of Carbon visited Olaf Hampton in Fort Worth Sunday.

A dab of powder here and there is certainly worth the price

You know that a little powder now and then is well worth the money it costs. In fact, compared with the effect, the price is so trifling you hardly consider it at all. Yet the cost of electricity is just as moderate. Consider the examples below. They are typical. Where else does a penny buy more than in electric service? Electricity is cheap—use more of it.

. . . . but where do you get more for your money than in buying Electric Service?

Nothing could be simpler than the construction of a coolie coat. It can be made entirely in one piece or sleeves may be pieced to the one piece that comprises front and back, or if you like you may make the back in one piece with two front pieces attached. The diagram shows how to cut the material for a coat coming to the finger tips. The dimensions are as follows: AB and CD equal 24 inches. AC and BD equal 1 1/2 yards. AE, BG, FC and HD equal 18 inches. EF and GH equal 18 inches. IE, JF, GK and HL equal 10 inches. MN equals 6 inches. Following a pattern cut according to this design you may make ABCD from one piece of material 1 1/2 yards long and 24 inches wide. Beginning at O, which is midway from C and D, slash to the center point Y to make the front opening. Then cut three inches either side from Y to make M and N 6 inches long for the neck opening. The sleeve extensions at either side (IEJF and GKHL) are 10 inches wide and 18 inches long. If your material is wide enough you can cut it all from a piece 44 inches wide. You may, if you like, slope the front edges from M to O and from N to O or you may turn back the material from Y to M and from Y to N to form revers. In sewing the coat together fold over at XZ and join at AEI to CFJ and BGK to DHL in a French seam or fell. Hem or face along OC-AB-DO, the edges of the sleeves, and down the front opening and the neck opening. You may use figured or bordered material or you can make the back and front from one color and sleeves from another.

Hints for the Home

by Nancy Hart

Grapefruit Salad Dressing
1 cup salad oil, 1-3 cup grapefruit juice, 1/2 teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, 1/2 teaspoon sugar. Mix all ingredients and shake in a covered bottle until thick.

The taste and character of such flavorings as lemon, almond, orange, are accentuated and heightened when combined with a few drops of vanilla.

Frozen Custard
Four eggs, one pint of cream, one pint of milk, half pound of sugar, two ounces of chocolate. Put the milk over the fire in a double boiler; add the chocolate, grated. Beat the eggs and sugar together until light, add them to the hot milk, cook one minute, take from the fire, add the cream, and a teaspoon of vanilla. When cold, freeze. This makes a frozen custard.

Cranberry Juice Cocktail
2 cups water

1 cup cranberries
1/2 cup sugar
Pick over and wash cranberries. Add water. Let cranberries cook until they burst, then strain. Next bring juice to a boiling point, add sugar, and cook two minutes longer. Then chill and serve ice cold in beverage glasses.

Fig Pudding
Soak two and a quarter cups of bread crumbs in a third of a cup of milk. Chop a cup of figs and a half cup suet together, add three well beaten eggs, a cup of brown sugar and the softened breadcrumbs, with a half teaspoon of salt. Steam in a buttered mold for three and three-quarter hours. Serve with hard sauce, lemon sauce or egg sauce.

W. M. U. NOTES

"Anne of Old Salem" to be Given
The Dramatic Art Club of W. M. U. is working on a play to be given in the University Auditorium on May 20th. The play is, "Anne of Old Salem". This play is something "new" though it centers around the days when witchcraft was persecuted in Old Salem during the old Colonial days. Anne, a very attractive, lovely girl, with lots of personality has bewitched all the young men of the community. The other girls are jealous, but they go to her for her charm. Laughingly, she gives a charm to each one—but in the end, the old saint, Cotton Mather proves that she is a witch. The story centers around the persecutions and fears held by Anne and the play becomes very dramatic in the scene where Anne's sweetheart, Roger, turns against her (only to save her). Miss Nina Smith is playing the part of Anne, and Mr. Aubrey Forrest is playing the part of Roger. Miss Ruth Marie Hamon is taking second lead, playing the part of Phyllis, a very sweet, refined girl from England, who is in America for love and adventure. Nathan, Anne's brother in a very typical americal fashion wins Phyllis' love and—????? Nathan is being played by Mr. Elmer Kardatzke.

The play is very dramatic and exciting. Work is to begin this week. The play is to be given free and we hope to make a success of it. Watch for further description of character and plot.

New flats are now under construction. They will be of Colonial type and will add much to the play. Special music is also being arranged by Prof. C. H. Kardatzke

Spanish Department has Picnic
A group of students composed of the Spanish students of W. M. U. motored to the Cisco lake Friday afternoon. Boating, teeter-tottering, flying dutchman, and putting on show were some of the sports engaged in.

Several safety pins were given to each person invited. Anytime one person was shrewd enough to get a "yes" or "no" from another he had earned one pin from that person. At the close of the evening Miss Nora Ferguson had the largest number of pins and the prize she was awarded was the privilege of giving a speech to the defeated.

Dean Bailey was a special guest.

Dr. Wilson Visits Oklahoma
Dr. Wilson has spent a week visiting points in Oklahoma. He stopped at Oklahoma City, Bristow, Clinton, Hobart, and Elk City. He spent Sunday at Dacoma, preaching in both morning and evening services. He was cordially welcome at each place and found the people interested in the University.

Tennis "Racket"
The tennis tournament has finally begun. There are six entered in the girl's singles. Eleven are entered in the men's singles. Five pairs are entered in the men's doubles and three pairs in the ladies' doubles. About eight couples are entered in the mixed doubles. We expect to see some real "hot" games. All visitors are welcome to come. No admission will be charged. Seats will be near the court to accommodate the onlooker.

Campus Notes
The past week was Spanish week. The Spanish department had many good times. Saturday night a Spanish program was given by a group of Spanish students. "Sin Querer" a one-act comedy was presented. There was Spanish songs and Spanish music. Everyone enjoyed the program.

Professor Ward has been fortunate in finding a nest of baby cotton-tails in the front campus. He took them home and put them with his tame bunnies. This beats raising tame rabbits he thinks and he has sent one of his classes on an excursion in search of more bunnies.

Music week is being observed by a special chapel program Wednesday. Two of the music students, Miss Sybil Smith and Miss Nancy Mathena played special peices at the meeting of the music club Sunday afternoon. Miss Wyonea Hallenbeck had as her guests Sunday, Miss Ellen Abernathy, Miss Frances Ward, Mr. John McAlister and Mr. Ed White. Miss Ward made a very efficient chaperon. She spent the afternoon horse-back riding from one group to the other.

Prof. Ward and his family spent the Sunday in Gorman.

Saturday night after Belle Lettres Club, Misses Ruth Hamon, Sybil Smith Mabel Abernathy and Messrs. Lester Crose, Arlin Kardatzke, and Elmer Kardatzke enjoyed an ice-cream party in the dining room.

Eek has become quite famous since the writing of his autobiography by Arlin Kardatzke.

The Junior Class is planning to have a Junior reception this week. It will be held at the home of Prof. Barnett.

Miss Purnie Hagan spent the weekend at her home in Gorman. Her niece Miss Helen Hagan returned with her. Mr. Elmer Kardatzke won with his slogan "The Christ of Always for the Youth of Today" a contest given by the Atlanta young people. The prize is a trip to the various historical scenes near Atlanta.

Miss Luella Warren, Miss Irene Smith, Miss Mildred McDowell and her mother Mrs. Louise McDowell were visiting in Olden Sunday.

Chapel Notes
On Wednesday April 27, the Spanish classes gave a very interesting program in chapel. The scripture reading was in Spanish. Several well known hymns were translated and sung in Spanish.

Professor Ward gave a very helpful, interesting but short (???) talk on "Sanctification" in chapel on Friday. The chapel hour on Monday was spent in a very enjoyable song service.

Personal Description
Who—Frances June Seth.
From—Pawhuska, Oklahoma.
Standing—June, "Tiny", lives in Pawhuska, the said land of golden bricks. June is a student of W. M. U. She is a prospective student, especially in "Spanish"; if it were possible for her to have the same teacher through college, she would probably major in Spanish!
Description—June is about 5 ft. 3 in. tall and weighs ?? (perhaps 150) more or less! She has beautiful, black, wavy hair. If she were to live in Texas and wear a bluebonnet, she would probably have less "specks" on her nose. Tiny is a real center. I mean in basket ball! She is a member of the tennis club and some player! She is admired by everyone in school.

CHAPEL NOTES
By Florence Perkins
At the Thursday afternoon assembly hour the Junior class presented a skit from the Junior play, "The Arrival of Kitty". Those who took part in the skit were Ed Pritchard, Marie Shoopman, Raymond Lovett, and Conrad Reaves. Barbara Anne Arnold and Dorothy Day, entertainers in the between act stunts, gave a short tap dance. The students enjoyed this presentation.

Mr. Palm made the announcements, and dismissed the student body.

Mr. John W. Tyndall of Cisco was the speaker at the Monday afternoon chapel hour. His purpose in talking, he stated, was to encourage the students to continue their education after they graduated. Mr. Tyndall's talk was very encouraging and inspiring. We now extend to Mr. Tyndall a cordial invitation to visit our school again.

After the announcements by the various members of the faculty, the students were dismissed.

LOCAL A&P MANAGER WINS SALES CONTEST

M. P. Herring, manager of the local A&P store, is a winner in a sales contest recently held by stores in the Dallas territory, which includes parts of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana. The managers of about 400 or 500 stores participated. The contest was held March 21 to April 16, as compared with four weeks in December. Mr. Herring was one of twenty winners, and will be given a two-day trip to Dallas to attend a convention and entertainment.

Miss Ila Dee Gustafson visited in Strawn Saturday night.

QUALITY TIRES CAN SELL AT LOW PRICES

An interesting story of how efficiencies in manufacturing, economies in merchandising, savings in shipping and elimination of excess overhead enable a concern such as the Hicks Rubber Company to market a quality product at the price usually charged for cheaper merchandise is told by Geo. Harper, of the Harper Tire & Battery Co.

"The Hicks Rubber Company just doesn't have the staggering setup and huge overhead expense that have to be borne by giant concerns," Mr. Harper pointed out.

He referred to the fact that the cost of material is low, especially so in the case of a product composed of cotton and rubber, and called attention to the phrase in Star tire advertisements to the effect that it is the distribution and sales expense that determine the price to the ultimate consumer.

"The extent to which the Hicks organization has cut out the overhead expense and effected distribution economies makes possible, said Mr. Harper, the famous Hicks-Star keynote: "no other company, large or small, retail or mail order, is in as good po-

PRACTICAL POINTERS

There are certain kinds of food that are considered absolutely necessary in maintaining health and strength within the human body; these should be well kept in mind, and never neglected. The humble egg rank among the first and most important.

The egg in itself, contains the necessary food-elements to set its own vitellus aflame with life, and nurse the embryo chick until it is able to walk, eat and breathe for itself—a most wonderful process; I know of nothing in nature more interesting. Everything needed for the young bird is housed within the egg shell, for the life-germ awakened by the gentle heat of the mother's body. And those needed things are elemental factors in the process of growth.

How valuable the egg as a food for humanity! An authority from which I derive much that is practical, states that every human being needs one or 2 eggs daily. The expectant mother certainly should have two eggs daily; even children should have one, at ages younger than puberty.

I recall a visit of a famous Frenchman, a while after the big war; he ate six eggs at a meal quite often, when he was in New York. And, why not? The egg is an essential food for muscle, nerve and brain. May I admit that I, myself, often eat three eggs, properly prepared—for breakfast.

Eggs and milk in daily ration. Add to these a full glass of orange juice—and you have a trio of values that can't be beat! But one devilled egg just at social dinners, or, one hard-boiled one with lettuce, isn't "eggs" at all. I mean two or three soft eggs daily.

One little orange on odd mornings—just as well do without. The same with starveling milk; three or four glasses of whole milk daily is what I mean.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Armstrong and Miss Hazel Fenner, of Stephenville, visited here Sunday in the home of Miss Fenner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Fenner.

Mrs. J. M. Herring, who has been ill in a Fort Worth hospital for some time, was brought back to her home here Tuesday. Her condition is said to be much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Johnston and daughter, Jane, Miss Loraine Taylor and Mrs. A. F. Taylor will leave Friday for Dallas, where Jane will enter the hymn playing contest at State meeting of Texas Federation of Music Clubs.

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Gutherie, of Stephenville, a sister of George Belcher of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Belcher, Mr. and Mrs. Beavers, Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Daniels, Miss Sally Williamson and Jack Berry attended the funeral at Stephenville Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. H. K. McWilliams, of Galveston, arrived in Eastland Wednesday, to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. McWilliams.

Miss France Doesn't Drink

Miss Emilienne Caisson of Soudan, daughter of an attorney at Nice, has been chosen "Miss France of 1932."

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Armstrong and Miss Hazel Fenner, of Stephenville, visited here Sunday in the home of Miss Fenner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Fenner.
