Seed Production Loan Checks Expected To Arrive Here March 20

Farmers of this county again showed renewed interest this week in federal loans as new applications were taken in both Seed Crop Loans and the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation division.

Miss Katherine Boverie, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, which organization has been handling the Seed Production Loans for this county, said that application for loans through this division amounted to $19,250 and that more than 210 farmers had applied for loans through this division, which limits the amounts of its loans to $300 for one person. The average

Miss Boverie also said that farmers whose applications were passed by the local board should receive their first checks within the next few days, the first checks having been issued March 20.

Gold Amounting To $3,200 Turned In Here Last Week

"Well, here's mine." That expression was most common as people turned in their gold this past week, when the surprising figure of $1,800 in gold coins and $1,400 in gold certificates, a total of more than $3,200 in gold was submitted here during the past week in accordance with the President's proclamation.

Patriotism Runs High Apparently in most cases gold was turned over to the banks in this county because of patriotism, following the address of President Roosevelt on March 12. Occasionally, however, the gold deposits or exchanges were made because of fear of the consequences of hoarding.

Contrary to popular belief, the government does not term as a hoarder the person who sentimentally keeps small amounts of gold—$1, $2.50, or $5 pieces of gold. The government is willing that such small amounts be kept by the owners. Most of the gold turned in here was in such sums.

It was reported that one man turned in approximately $300 in gold to the different Wellington banks, carrying small amounts to each bank on different days.

A man living in the vicinity of Dodsonville was also reported to have submitted $1,500 to a Hollis bank in exchange for currency, and several people turned in amounts of $50 and $60 to the four banks and post offices in this county.

Since Collingsworth County is located in the western portion, where silver has always maintained in popularity, it is hardly believable for some persons that $1,800 in gold coins could be out in this county. Gold certificates, more commonly used in general trade were not turned in so fluently as gold coins and most of the $1,500 from this source was already in circulation.

Gold certificates amount to $300 were turned in this week by one man, however, and the bills were said to vary widely in size and date.

On the day that the banks reopened here another man who is not a merchant, brought in and deposited $900 in cash and currency. This money was not limited to gold, but was composed generally, various denominations of silver and bills. He said the moratorium did not hurt him a bit.

Elmer Knox Jones Wins Tennis Title

Elmer Knox Jones emerged this week as winner of the high school tennis tournament which has been in progress for several days.

Doubles are still being played. Twelve persons entered the singles tournament with Lester Campbell winning over A. W. Arnold, 6-1, 6-1; Estes Jones defeating John Ben Castleberry, 6-4, 6-0; Dale Watkins winning over Elmer Goforth, 6-0, 6-1; Dysart Holcomb defeating Marshall Wells, 6-1, 6-3; Elmer Knox Jones beating James Sullivan, 6-2, 6-3; H. A. Holcomb defeating Robert Scott, 6-2, 6-4.

The second rounds closed with Campbell winning over Estes Jones, 6-0, 6-0; Dale Watkins winning over Dysart Holcomb, 2-6, 7-5, 6-3; E. K. Jones beating H. A. Holcomb, 6-3, 6-2. E. K. Jones also played Hugo Hauser, who drew a bye, this round winning 6-0, 6-0.

The finals closed with Jones defeating Watkins 6-3, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3.

Two Liquor Raids Net 33 Gallons

Two raids this week by Sheriff George Corry netted 33 gallons of whiskey.

One of the raids was near Dodsonville and only three and one-half gallons of liquor was taken. The other raid, north of Elm Creek, resulted in the taking of 30 gallons.

Two men were also charged with vagrancy and disorderly conduct Monday night following a raid in Wellington. Both men paid fines amounting to $25.

City Elections Create Interest

Interest in city politics made startling advances this week with the city election only twelve days off and despite the limited number of names on the ticket, politics is a general topic of conversation around town.

The names of Ernest Scott, J. S. Dorn and Ben Hurst have been filed for alderman. W. W. Nealey this week also listed his name for re-election to the office of mayor, which gives two candidates for this office, Deck Wells having been listed last week.

No city poll tax is required to vote in this election, but all persons who vote must have paid their state poll tax.

SCHOOL BOARD

Two Resign; No Names Filed For Election; To Name Teachers

Announcement of the resignation of E. F. Lewis, president, and R. F. Curry from the Wellington School Board was made known today.

Mr. Lewis will be succeeded by Judge Holton and Mr. Curry will be succeeded by John C. Harper, each of whom still have one year to serve before their terms expire. Mr. Lewis stated that his resignation was the result of business interests, which made it difficult for him to serve and Mr. Curry resigned in order to fill the post of secretary, which in the future will include the assessment and collection of school taxes for this district.

The resignations leave five men on the present board and two to be named in the coming election. Those on the present board are L. A. Manzer, J. D. Thomas, Corbett Ford, John C. Harper, Judge Holton. The two men whose terms expire are E. L. Winn and John Forbis.

At noon, Wednesday, March 22, no names had been filed as candidates for the school board. It was indicated, however, that several names would be filed this week.

Board members also announced that teachers for the coming year would not be elected until the new board takes office and holds its first meeting.

Points Of Meet Discussed In Article By Superintendent J. D. Wilson

Plans were completed this week for the Collingsworth County Interscholastic League Meeting to be held in Wellington, March 31 and April 1. For the past two years this county has had 100 per cent representation at the annual meet and this year the event is expected to attract more interest and larger crowds than ever.

should be born in mind that the primary purpose of these contests is to foster in the schools the study of public speaking as an aid in the preparation of citizenship.

These contests exist not for a few schools which may have exceptionally good speakers, but

Sixty Local Men Get Relief Work

Sixty men were being employed daily in Wellington through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation relief funds this week and fifteen communities were also benefitting from the money with a total of 150 persons over the county receiving work from this source.

Leaders stated that funds for April were being sought and application had already been made to the governor, but that it was still doubtful whether the money would be obtained—or the exact amount of the funds, if any.

"Persons having a supply of food and clothing are not eligible for work financed by this money," leaders said. "Only those who rely on the daily wage for their livelihood are eligible. Need and need only is the basis of determining the persons to receive the money."

Warning Issued On Car Tag Payments; No Light Test Law

All automobile, and truck owners should take notice that the emergency extension on these vehicles that have been driven in Texas during the months of January, February or March, 1933 with the old 1932 license tags ends on April 1, 1933. They should pay their license fees not later than April 1, in order to save the penalty.

Should any such owner ask to register later during the year, (if his vehicle has been driven prior to the date he appears at the office of the Tax Collector for registration) he would have to pay the full license plus a 20 per cent penalty.

The Tax Collector does not want anyone to have to pay this penalty through ignorance or misunderstanding and is issuing this warning with the hope that all concerned will get the information.

It is not necessary hereafter to present a Headlight Test Certificate as this law was repealed on March 10, 1933.

Following on the heels of the local Style and Beauty Pageant of this week, the Ritz announces the appearance here on Wednesday and Thursday of next week of "Willard The Wizard," doubtless the most noted magic and illusions presentation in the United States.

Willard on Stage for 50 Years

The show, "Willard The Wizard" enjoys the distinction of being one of the oldest stage attractions known to the theatrical world. It has toured the large centers for more than fifty years, being handed down from father to son. Its reputation is international, having toured Europe and Canada, only returning from a European tour a few months ago. The same show that comes to the Ritz is exactly as has been presented over the world's largest theatrical circuits, that has played to the crowned heads of Europe, and that has brought laughter and furnish thrills for every age, class and sex of the world's population.

Two Tons of Stage Equipment

Professor Willard and his distinguished company carry more than two tons of stage equipment, giving the DeLuxe performers that has made the show world famous. The engagement in Wellington is for two days only, Wednesday and Thursday, giving one matinee and one night performance each day. Manager John Bonner stated to a representative of this paper that he would unqualifiedly recommend the show, to the extent of a money back guarantee. And that it would please all ages.

Management Fulfilling Pledge

On the arrival of Manager Bonner only a few weeks ago, he pledged to the people of this section his loyalty as a citizen, and that the Ritz would furnish the citizenship with as fine entertainment as any city in the country. That he is living up to his promise is certainly verified in his efforts and activities. In commenting on these matters, he stated that another big stage attraction, one with a cast of sixteen people had been booked to appear two weeks from now.

West Ward Parent-Teacher Group Gives Resume Of Work For 1932-33

The founders of the Parent-Teacher Association in America were inspired with love for all children and an ardent desire to give each one its full measure of health, happiness and education and to see that it was equipped to share the responsibilities of life. Year by year since then the followers of these founders have pledged themselves to carry on the work. The West Ward Parent-Teacher Association during 1932-33 has creditably lived up to the examples set by the founders. Service has been the slogan and by keeping this aim ever in mind the West Ward P. T. A. has had a most successful year, and has helped to bind closer together the home, the school and the church.

In the spring of 1932 Mrs. A. C. Boverie was chosen as president for the school year of 1932 and 1933. She at once appointed all necessary committees and these women, by beginning their work early, had fully developed plans by the time school opened in September. Definite programs were mapped out for the entire year and were so arranged as to be both educational and entertaining. The programs were bound into "year books" and copies were sent to Mrs. Stephen Chalmers of Austin, and to Mrs. J. E. Griggs, district president of Amarillo. The latter sent a special letter of commendation and praise for the year books.

One of the first activities of the West Ward this year was to assist in the "summer roundup" in which all of the six year old children of the community who were eligible to attend school were given a thorough physical examination with recommendations for corrective treatments where such were needed. The roundup was not confined to the six year old children but the examinations were also given to others desiring such service.

The West Ward Parent-Teachers cooperated with the sister organization of the East Ward in giving a carnival on Halloween evening. The carnival was one of the outstanding holiday events of the year for it provided whole fun and recreation for both young and old and incidentally netted each of the sponsoring agencies about $32.00.

The West Ward, carrying out the idea of service, has helped the destitute and the jobless and has given clothing, school supplies and food to under privileged children of the town and school district. They have bought equipment for play, such as bats and balls; have given money for the purchase of material to enable the children to enter the county poster contest; and have bought hectograph and other supplies for the use of the teachers.

The attendance has been exceptionally good throughout the year and not one meeting has been missed or postponed. The January blizzard, coming on the regular day did not daunt the members and they turned out for the meetings.

All executive meetings have been held. A good natured spirited competition has existed in seeing which room would have the largest number of mothers present at each meeting. A prize of $1.00 was given each month to the room having the largest number of mothers present.

Founder's Day was celebrated with fitting ceremonies; state and national birthday gifts were given; and a donation was made to the endowment fund.

The annual election of officers was held in February and resulted in the election of Mrs. A. C. Boverie as president. Other officers elected were: vice, Mrs. H. A. Holcomb; second vice, Mrs. Ernest Lewis; third vice, Mrs. John Forbes; secretary-recording, Mrs. Bill Tarter; corresponding secretary, Mrs. G. L. Farrar; treasurer, Mrs. D. G. Ellis; parliamentarian, Mrs. L. E. Gribble.

The work of the year is rapidly drawing to a close but the time will be filled with activities. The publicity record book is being completed; the mothers singing class will compete at the county council singing contest on March 31; the school grounds are being set to grass, flower beds prepared, and trees have been ordered to replace those that have died in the last few years. After one or two more meetings the regular activities will cease for the summer, but during the interval the officers and committees will be Fertilizer tax sales in Southern States during 1932 were only 64 per cent of those of 1929, reports the National Fertilizer Association. Total sales from these states amounted to 2,643,706 tons last year, as against 4,100,351 in 1931 and 5,614,500 in 1930. Fertilizer sales the last year were better, in comparison with 1931, in Florida than any other State, as they were 90 per cent of those for the previous year. In Virginia and the Carolinas sales ranged from 69 to 74 per cent of 1931, but none of the other Southern States reported sales as high as 55 per cent of 1931. In Texas, Louisiana, Georgia, Tennessee and Missouri, however, sales last year were about 50 per cent of the 1931 total.

Reports from Western Texas say the comeback of the horse and mule has been widespread in the last two years in that section, but no shortage of work animals has developed. Cheapness of all kinds of feeds this year has caused many farmers to store their tractors in sheds and hitch up mules that have been roaming unworked in the pastures since the 1920s. The farmers are finding it cheaper to feed livestock than to buy fuel and pay repair bills on tractors. In addition, many banks have refused to make loans to farmers who use tractors.

Hope For "Gold Rush" 10 Miles Of Nacogdoches

A "gold rush" may awaken Appleby, a sleepy hamlet in the pine woods ten miles north of Nacogdoches.

Scenes of bustling activity may be found at the old Santa Ana mine shaft, where workmen are ready to tunnel deep in search of gold. The mine has an intriguing history, part truth and part folklore.

It was 25 years ago that residents of Appleby, whittling before the rustic grocery and discussing topics popular in 1907, noticed a crippled man who approached.

The stranger was a Mexican with one leg about four inches shorter than the other. That was Appleby's introduction to "Hoppin' Bell."

"His name was Bellas, or something like that, and he had a first name nobody could pronounce," said John Boyett, justice of the peace and pioneer of the neighborhood. "So they called him Hoppin' Bell. He claimed to be a nephew of old Santa Ana himself."

Hoppin' Bell wasted little time letting his business be known. He produced a worn map of the section, plotted off to show the location of a gold mine which had been worked by Spaniards years before.

When the Texans were crowding Santa Ana just before the Battle of San Jacinto, according to Hoppin' Bell, a large quantity of gold ore already had been mined. Crafty Santa Ana, realizing he could never get the ore to a smelter in Mexico, sank it into an air shaft.

One corner of the plot was marked with a pistol in an old hollow tree, another with a gun barrel shoved down into the ground, a third with an old-fashioned shuttle in the trunk of a large tree, and the fourth the trunk of a tree with small pines drives through it.

The hole was supposed to be covered with a large rock.

Hoppin' Bell hobbled through the woods for days until he found the first marker. People began to believe his story. When he found a solid rock jutting out of Turkey Creek and showed them shining sands of gold, the whole town joined in the treasure hunt.

Four men moved away the large rock, according to Sam T. Crawford, another pioneer, and a trace of the old shaft was found. Hoppin' Bell died before the digging got under way.

There is a hiatus in the legend from the time of Hoppin' Bell's death to the present day. Three months ago A. S. Bergendahl of Houston leased the land from the Greening family for its oil and mineral content. Mining operations have been under way since time.

An alloy composed of tungsten, carbon and cobalt, which is hard enough to scratch sapphire, is now used for the teeth of saws that have to cut through wood treated with fire resisting or preserving chemicals.

By H. D. W.

My wife turned in her hoarded gold, and my, my did she hate to do it. Her hoard consisted of two $5 gold pieces which were won by The Leader and were awarded by the Texas Press Association for best set advertisements. She had one of the pieces since 1928 and the other since 1929, and she prized them on account of the honor they represented. In fact she was all against turning them in, but I gave her a rousing talk on patriotism and she decided to put them back in circulation. And after they had been turned in, I read a statement from Secretary Woodin in which he said that people would not be forced to turn in $5 coins and keepsakes, and that was what she had been arguing all the time. Oh well, a smart man wouldn't have been telling his wife what to do with her money in the first place.

When you read this I will be in Austin. I wish it could be a month later, for Austin in April is the loveliest town in Texas. The trees are green already, but the bluebonnets will not bloom until the last of next month. Incidentally while I am there I intend to go around to the offices of the Railroad Commission and ask them if they please won't give us a hearing on the gas rate in Wellington. I don't know whether it will do us much good or not, but I am going to see them anyway.

My aunt, Mrs. Rhone Hankins, who lives at Tulsa, is visiting my mother. Sunday I walked in and said: "You know if the wind blew here like it does on the plains I just don't know how I could stand it. I thought that would rouse an argument, because you couldn't see a hundred yards into the field back of the house. Instead Aunt Doll smiled and said: "Well, I don't believe it does blow as hard here as it does at home." That left me practically speechless, and I hardly opened my mouth during the rest of the hour I was there.

Two gentlemen from Kentucky passed through Wellington Sunday and stopped to eat at John Bowers. At least they ate there after they shoveled their way through the front door. They asked John if it blew here all the time like it was blowing Sunday. Do you know what he told them. Instead of telling them the truth, he informed them that frequently it blew like that for thirty days and then got worse. Can you imagine the rosy picture they will paint for the gentle people back in Kentucky when they think of West Texas.

J. V. Sparlin of Lutie is one of the 130 some odd subscribers The Leader has on Shamrock R. 3. He had noticed that we carry real estate transactions each week. Monday he told me that if we recorded all of the transactions that occurred Saturday and Sunday we would have to print extra pages. He said one farmer up in the Lutie community was out looking for his land so he could move his house back on it. Well, the Jewish people don't have anything on us. In olden days they divided their money every fifty years, and we divide our land every spring.

MECHANIC SCHAFFNER REPORTS ON DISCOVERY:

"I never did believe what Conoco Germ Processed oil would do; not until an Essex owner, with 25,000 miles on his speedometer, asked me to check his motor and put in new parts where necessary. It surely surprised me; clearance of pistons was only four 1-thousandths; of bearings only three 1-thousandths of an inch.

"This owner said he had used Conoco Germ Processed oil since the car was new. I have overhauled many another Essex at 25,000 miles, which has not used this oil, and found the wear 50% to 60% greater. Now I recommend Conoco Germ Processed Oil to my friends, and have changed to it in my own car."—Elder Schaffner, Highland, Ill.

Stop Cruel Motor Wear . . . Escape its Painful Cost

Don't Wait Another Day to Drain and Refill With Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil

To a motor, lack of lubrication is cruelty indeed. You are too "humane" to permit it, if only you knew the truth. But motors suffer in silence till costly damage is done. Then you pay . . . and pay . . . and pay.

50% of motor wear occurs in the moments following a cold start. Ordinary oil drains back into the crankcase and leaves the motor dry, till it is pumped back up again. Not so, with Conoco's hidden quart. It stays up in the motor and never drains away.

This is proved. Even with the crankcase empty, due to accident, users of this oil have driven many miles, without damage, on the *hidden quart alone.

Isn't it smart and thrifty to have a *hidden quart up in the parts of your motor, where you are sure it cannot fail? It is so simple to be safe! so foolhardy to be in doubt. Tend to it today. Go now, drain and refill with the *hidden-quart oil. Do it for safety's sake.

NEWS FROM THE STARS

Investigations by Dr. Harlow Shapley, noted Harvard astronomer, following the flare-up of a new star in May, 1925, led him to believe that the phenomenon was caused by the collision of two stars, an extremely rare occurrence.

But the collision which caused the appearance of the new star to earth dwellers in 1925 really happened in the year 1390, according to Dr. Shapley, whose measurement of the distance of the star from the earth indicates that it is so far away that it would take a ray of light 434 years to come to us, although its speed is about 186,000 miles a second.

Such things give food for reflection, although the figures involved can not be even faintly comprehended by the human mind. But it is interesting to contemplate that if it were possible for a being on that particular star to look through a telescope powerful enough to see the details of what is going on on earth, he would not see what is taking place today, but would witness the happenings of 535 years ago—or about 100 years before the discovery of America.

By a similar calculation, if a radio program were broadcast tonight from the star, called Nova Pictoris, with sufficient power to reach the earth, our radio sets might pick it up in the year 2468, but not sooner.

But Nova Pictoris is a relatively near neighbor, as celestial distances go. Our present telescopes bring into view objects from which it would take a ray of light millions of years to reach the earth. And what is beyond? It almost makes one's head swim to think about it. Perhaps that is why the average person seldom thinks about such things.

GIVE BUSINESS A REST

In spite of the difficulties which beset all our major industries at the present time, we find in Congress and in our legislatures political demagogues who would further shackle business and industry by the passage of more drastic laws.

The feat of further unfavorable legislation will undoubtedly have a tendency to delay and in some cases entirely prevent developments which would be undertaken if those interested could feel safer from legislative meddling.

Two principal devices are employed by those whose aim in life is to harass business. One is the imposition of ever increasing taxation; the other is the imposition of ever increasing restrictions under the guise of regulation.

It can not be denied that both taxation and regulation are necessary, if unpleasant, accompaniments of government. It is the extent of taxation and the degree of regulation that are important. There seems to be no limit to the burdens which some legislators are willing to place on the larger business enterprises.

Under present conditions it would be well to avoid making these burdens heavier than they are already. The agitators who clamor for more taxation and more regulation might well take a holiday until business and industry got on their feet again.

SOME HONEST BOYS

Not because honesty among boys is uncommon, but because too much stress is placed on the recording of dishonesty in the news of the day, a little story from Humboldt, Sash., is worth repeating.

Six boys were playing in a straw stack near the town when one of them found a purse containing $2.20. This caused them to search for more treasure, with the result that a total of $94.20 in cash and a check for $41.49 were found in the straw.

Did they divide the spoil and proceed to use it for themselves? They did not. They promptly turned it over to the Humboldt chief of police, who recalled that three men had reported being robbed at this straw stack some time before, and took steps to locate them.

Incidentally, the six boys have established a reputation for honesty which is of much greater value to them than the money they might have easily appropriated to their own use.

AMERICANS ALL

An interesting little study in names is presented by the list of nine New York public school boys who were awarded Pulitzer four-year scholarships at Columbia University, they being chosen from a field of 90 of the brightest in the metropolis.

Their names, in the order of the grades made in the competitive examination, are as follows: Herman Kremer, Halmut Schulz, Thomas Jonaitis, Andrew Chiappe, Jerome O'Neil, John Morrisroe, and Milton Black. It will appear that German, Greek and Italian names predominate, and in fact only two of the boys were born in the United States. Among their fathers are a cook, a waiter, a construction laborer, a milkman and a janitor.

But in spite of foreign names and foreign birth, these boys are now Americans all, with an opportunity to rise to whatever heights their ability and energy can carry them.

A "No, No, No" Club has been organized in Reno, Ariz., which means "no name, no officers and no dues."

"All Our Profits Are Re-Invested In Collingsworth County."

WELLINGTON People . . . Places . . . Philosophy

Well Sir, Richard Cocks tells the best story of this week. Richard has been down in Florida visiting with his brother-in-law, Bob Seeds.

Best Story Of The Week

This is a fish story. While Richard was wandering around the beach he decided that he would go fishing so he contacted a native, who was a fisherman of the old school, and made arrangements to go out with the fellow.

"I reckon we better go and catch some minnows," said the fellow. He and Richard got in a boat and pitched out some line to catch the minnows. Pretty soon Richard caught a fish about eleven inches long, and Boy, was he happy.

"Look here. Man, Man, this is a dandy," Richard said. "Boy, what a fish."

The old man looked over, spat out a stream of tobacco and replied: "Yes Sir, he will make fine bait. I told you there were lots of minnows around here."

Richard says he didn't feel so good after that. Richard really is not a very good fisherman, because he admitted that he didn't catch any of those 100 babies—and a good fisherman would certainly have told about landing a few—even if he didn't catch anything but minnows.

Spring Can't Be Far Behind

Between stand storms there are plenty of evidence that Spring is with us again. Each afternoon a flock of school girls come running down to the post office and invariably they are wearing short sleeve dresses. Daily there is a group of little negro boys, all barefooted, that play on the corner by the Wellington State Bank—and almost everybody you see has a dreamy look. There is something peculiar about Spring weather that inspires you to do absolutely nothing. Here is a rather striking version of the situation that is interpreted by R. M. McCaon:

These days my thoughts go drifting off. I cannot do a thing. The air that's filled with leaves in fall, Is filled with dreams in spring.

A lot of people do not like poetry and a lot of other people like poetry too well. You would never suspect Lee O'Neil and Morris Wells of being poetry lovers. Maybe they are not, but they have one of the finest poems ever written hanging in their office. The name of the poem is "If" and it was written by Rudyard Kipling. If you haven't read that poem you have missed something.

On Keeping Gold Pieces

The people of this section are turning in more gold than anyone thought there could be around here. One reason the amount is running so high is because people are under the impression that they have to turn in souvenir gold pieces. That impression is false. Woodin has stated that the souvenirs may be kept—to the extent of $10. D. D. McDowell will probably be the happiest person to hear of this provision, due to the fact that he has a rare coin—a 25 cent gold piece. Mr. McDowell carries this piece in the back of his watch and has had it for a number of years. Once the coin got lost while he was having his watch repaired and he was certainly upset. Finally he went out behind the store where the trash was burned and sifted the ashes until he found the gold piece, which is so small that it is pretty hard to find.

Bill Lynn also has a rare gold coin. A special issue of $1, made some years ago to finance a national project. This coin cost Mr. Lynn $2.50 and only 10,000 of the coins were said to have been issued.

Some Good Philosophy

The Leader stands pretty good in the opinion of I. T. Goodnight. Not long ago he paid us a visit and to his surprise found that we kept a copy of the Bible conveniently located at all times. Mr. Goodnight was agreeably surprised and said that he really did believe every person should keep a Bible on hand at all times, which is good sound philosophy. The Bible is not only the greatest book that was ever written, but is interesting, instructive and holds between its covers a general education with a lesson for every person; a lesson that can be applied directly every day. Besides all that, it is nice to have a Bible handy so you can settle arguments.

Ben Hurst recently gave an eulogy on dogs. It was a dandy. Ben's philosophy is that "a dog's life" is the life. He says if anyone calls him a dog or a cur, he does not get mad at all. What Ben really contends is that dogs have an easy, sensible life—and after talking a while he sure can make you wish you were a dog.

Hawaii--The Paradise Of The Pacific

By R. L. WEBER

After almost ten years residence in Honolulu one misses its even climate—sixty to ninety degrees, summer and winter—more than any one thing, but one also misses the wonderful moonlight nights with occasional lunar rainbows, the green of the surrounding hills, the changing colors of the sea, the music of the steel guitar and "uke" on the sea wall, the whispering of the wind through the palm fronds, the beauty of the flowers and foliage, the beach at Waikiki, the well, who the deuce started this anyway?

Honolulu, a city of one hundred thousand souls (mostly Oriental) nestles between the mountains and the sea on the Southwest coast of the Island of Oahu, and is a modern city in every respect. The Island of Oahu, the third largest of the Hawaiian group, lies about 21 degrees North of the Equator and 157 degrees West of Greenwich, or about 2100 miles southeast of San Francisco and 3400 miles southeast of Yokohama, Japan, being in fact the "Cross-roads of the Pacific." Large steamers and occasional "windjammers" (sailing vessels) from all parts of the world make Honolulu a port of call.

Probably no other city in the United States has a more mixed population—Japanese, Chinese, Korean, Filipino, Porto Rican, Portuguese, whites of all nationalities, and the Hawaiians live there in peace, each one respecting the religion and customs of the others, tolerant in all things and working together for a common good.

One must know the Oriental to appreciate the workings of the Oriental mind. Not understanding them often results in very humorous situations; here is one that made quite an impression on me: Soon after my arrival in Hawaii I accompanied a hat drummer, an Irishman (?) named Rosenthal, to the large establishment of Yat Loy. The conversation ran about like this:

Rosenthal to Chinese clerk: "Boss no stop?" (meaning is the manager in.)

Clerk: "Yes, boss no stop." (meaning the manager is not in.)

R: "Bymby boss come back?"

C: "Bymby come back I think."

R: "Alright I wait."

About one and one-half hours pass.

R. to C.: "Boss to come back yet?"

C: "Yes, no come back."

R: "Where boss go?"

C: "Oh, he go San Francisco."

Bymby come back I think.

Needless to say, we waited no longer for the boss' return but the Chinese was volunteering no information.

The Island groups really the tops of fifteen volcanoes which threw up lava from the bottom of the sea and the foundations of all of the islands are of volcanic and coral formation. The Island of Hawaii, the largest of the group, is the only one that can boast of an active volcano. Boast? Yes, contrary to general belief, the eruption of Kilauea, the second greatest active volcano in the world, is a tourist attraction and calls for excursions by all available steamers to accommodate tourist and residents alike for the 190 mile trip by sea from Honolulu to Hilo, thence 35 miles by paved road to the brink of the crater, so all who wish may see the Earth in the making.

Hale Mau Mau (Holley mow mow) (House of Fire) as the crater is called, is more than a mile in diameter and I have stood at its rim, too close for comfort, when the lava lacked but forty feet of overflowing. To my knowledge only one person has ever been injured at the crater or by a flow. Pele (Peelee), the goddess of the crater, according to Hawaiian myths, has been kind and the only one injured was a photographer who ventured too close when she was in an off mood and was throwing rocks.

Within hailing distance of the crater stands the Volcano House, modern hotel for the accommodation of those who wish to see the crater and its surroundings by night. Awe inspiring is a mild word to describe the crater by day, and by night—well, words just will not adequately convey the picture. Approaching the crater steam and sulphur fumes are constantly rising from cracks in the rock under ones feet and are conducive to a rather quaky feeling. Then look over the rim into the crater. Imagine if you can, a pot of mush a mile in diameter, bubbling, boiling, shifting, bubbles exploding and fountains spraying as high as 100 feet into the air, spatters hitting the sides of the pot. Now picture if you can this seething mass redhot, yes, white-hot melted rock and you have a faint idea of the fire pit.

The floor (rock) surrounding the crater is covered with Peles Hair. So called because it resembles hair, but it is the cooled strings of lava spray which have floated hair-like from the fountains in the pit. It resembles strings of molasses candy and is glass-like. So much for the crater. Now an attempt to describe the country or mountain-side; though 4000 feet above sea level, because of internal heat, the mountain-side is covered with an abundant tropical foliage. Ferns 20 to 40 feet in height, fuchias in abundance and other tropical plants form a real jungle. One may pass into this fern forest and through lava tubes—tunnels hundreds of feet long and ten to twenty feet in diameter, through which lava once coursed from one crater to the other. Though entirely cold and long extinct one cannot but feel that it might possibly break through again and woe be unto one caught in its flood.

A trip to the volcano would not be complete without a trip over the Kau (Kaoo) Desert—not sand but cooled lava flows of various ages and in various stages of "Earth in the making." As you enter the desert on one of the old flows there is seen a fair mat of grass and ferns and young trees. Next a later flow with its grass and ferns not yet covering the lava; then to one still later showing a small bunch of grass or ferns in some pocket in the rock. Lucky is the one who can then approach a late flow, probably still hot enough to set fire to a stick when pushed down into a crevice.

Many of the old Hawaiians living near the crater still believe that the fire-pit is controlled by the goddess Pele, and tribute is still paid her in the way of offerings of food fruit, and such other gifts as are pleasing to her according to the legend. One could not make many of the old Hawaiians believe that she is not seen shortly before the eruptions on the roads surrounding the crater, generally as an old Hawaiian woman who neither speaks or notices being spoken to.

Another odd superstition of the Hawaiians is relative to the Lehua bloom, a red pom-pom like flower which grows on a gnarled little tree on the mountains. One is warned not to pick them on the trip up as it will surely rain. Pig them on the way down and they make a beautiful lei or wreath.

To the old Hawaiians the day of the Kahuna (Kahoon) is not passed and the fear of being prayed to death by an enemy still disturbs them.

The true Hawaiian resembles the American Indian to a marked degree and I think there is no doubt of their being of the same stock thousands of years ago. I worked for three years in the same office with an Indian (Winnebago) and all this time I thought him Hawaiian as were many of the other boys in the room.

Educator Urged To Act Against School Attacks

MINNEAPOLIS.—A commission which declared the profession had been "meek long enough" urged American educators to go on the warpath against those who "would make children the victims of the depression."

A fighting campaign for public support in ferreting out the attackers, directed by a commission already set up, was advocated in a report presented to the department of superintendence, National Education Association.

So serious did the executive boards of the department and the association, parent body, deem the crisis caused by joint reduction that they ordered continued indefinitely the joint commission which made the report. That group, of which John K. Norton of Columbia University is chairman, was created in January.

At the same time the lay commission of the department, functioning as a liaison agency between the profession and the public—charged in a report there appeared to be an organized attempt "by those who control great wealth to cripple the public school system of America."

Miguel Candela, 12-year-old violin prodigy and Paris Conservatory prize winner, was highly praised by critics when he appeared in New York.

Margaret Mary Reddy of Baxter Springs, Kan., was chosen as the "sweetheart" of Kansas State College by student vote.

Thomas Calen of London was fined for exhibiting pigs whose skins had been colored with rouge, and May.

Eads Now Sells Poultry Guide

An exceptional book full of good chicken sense for the man or woman raising chickens, is to be found in the New "Purina Poultry Guide," just off the press. It's an attractively bound and beautifully illustrated volume of over 100 pages, presenting with unusual freshness and interest the necessary things a poultry owner wants to know, and needs to know, without having to spend much time searching for them.

Stating frankly that no attempt has been made to include all the knowledge there is about poultry, the book nevertheless gives striking evidence that some years of sound experience and information have entered into its preparation. Everyone owning poultry will find in this publication information that will make poultry raising more profitable.

Popular breeds of poultry, care of chicks, battery brooding, producing broilers, tips on raising turkeys, winter care of layers, getting eggs in summer, producing quality eggs, egg to egg feeding plan, feeding ducks, raising tame birds, poultry diseases and parasites, care of hens in batteries, easy way to cull, poultry sanitation—these are some of the essential subjects skillfully presented in an easy helpful style by men who know poultry for the man or woman who raises poultry.

The Guide is priced at fifty cents but for a short time can be obtained by users of Purina Startena from Eads Produce Co. at a substantial discount.

Women Voters In Spain Are Angle For Candidates

Spain's first feminine voting sector, constituting a majority of the electorate, looms as the question mark in the significant municipal elections scheduled for April 23.

All party leaders are angling for feminine support in this initial appearance of Spanish women at the balloting boxes. But none has been willing to predict just where the bulk of the new vote

The electorate will go. The census lists eligible voters at a total of 12,548,499. Of these 6,509,807 are women.

Some leaders believe that party platforms on woman's suffrage may serve as an index to the political trend. Recalling that the socialist party on the left and the Catholic parties on the right, fought long and ardently to speed up the census so that women might vote in the coming elections, these experts argue that the great majority of women's votes will fall into one or the other of these widely separated camps.

Whether this reasoning is faulty will be decided in the election, but all parties agree that the women's votes give the municipal elections an importance and uncertainty rivaling that of the city balloting, which caused the downfall of the monarchy in April, 1931.

The elections will fill half the number of seats in the municipal councils of all cities and towns in Spain. They will be the first municipal elections since the country voted against King Alfonso.

May Use Surplus Crops To Produce Alcohol In U. S.

WASHINGTON.—The possibility of using surplus farm crops for the production of alcohol as an aid to agriculture is being studied at the request of President-Elect Roosevelt.

A report prepared by Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of industrial alcohol, is ready for presentation to Roosevelt.

While Doran would not divulge any details, he said his study had convinced him that the plan "has real possibilities as farm aid which would cost the federal treasury nothing."

The plan centers about legislation to require the use of alcohol manufactured from surplus agricultural commodities in gasoline mixtures for motor fuel.

The president-elect is understood to have had his attention called to the proposal by Henry A. Wallace of Iowa, expected to be the next secretary of agriculture.

position to a genuine love for the classical production of great musicians.

The spelling contest offers valuable training. The ability to spell is everywhere taken for granted as one of the fundamental requirements of an education. A man may "have no head" for mathematics; his penmanship may be almost illegible; he may have neglected literature entirely in his love for science; and yet those with whom he comes in contact increased interest in this source has caused us to believe that we will have to increase our application for at least $5,000 and maybe $10,000 this year.

Farmers and members of the that they were disgusted with the local approval committee stated results being obtained through the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation. Over 200 applications have been taken through this division and 100 of the applications approved—but only three checks have been received.

Other farmers complained because their applications were turned down after being approved and their land titles cleared at a cost direct to themselves.

The general objection to the department seemed to be "too much red tape" and delays attributed to technicalities.

rather to stimulate all the schools to develop in their pupils a talent for clear-cut, sincere and effective speaking before an audience.

The principal who waits to enter his school for a contest until he is able to turn out a winning debating team or a winning declaimer will probably never develop a winner. Moreover, this shows a wrong attitude toward the contest and encourages an unwholesome school spirit.

The contests in public speaking will give a student training by which he will be able to express himself intelligently before an audience.

The choral singing contest gives the student good training in music. Every child should be taught to sing, for the basis of all musical instruction is singing. The ear, the voice, the whole body, the emotions, the intellectual appreciation are all involved in the art of music.

In this contest the choir singing links the school with the community life by including the standard songs and generally used in group singing in the choir list. Choir singing furnishes the natural and effective approach to music appreciation in that the boys and girls learn to appreciate the beauty of their own voices in singing songs of fine musical quality. We believe that every child has the right to inherit some of the fine music of the ages. Give him good songs in his youth and they will be a joy to him through life.

The Arithmetic contest for the grammar grades has revolutionized the teaching of arithmetic in the school where teams are entered in the county meet. This contest creates more interest in arithmetic and teaches the child to think quickly and accurately. Certainly we should lay more emphasis on arithmetic in all of our schools.

The picture memory contest is designed to stimulate in the pupil an appreciation for great work of art, and a desire to know something of the artist who painted them. Information acquired in preparation for this contest will permanently enrich the lives of pupils engaging in it. Winning or losing is of small importance and the memory of success or failure in the contest itself will soon be effaced, but the joy which comes from the knowledge and appreciation of the work of the world's greatest artists is a lasting possession.

The music memory contest is similar to the choral singing contest. The purpose of this event is to cultivate among school children an appreciation of good music, to turn children away from a fondness for the coarser and more meaningless forms of musical com-may not condemn that is in spells any of the words in common use in written communication, there are about 1500 such words—he will be looked upon, by those who know of his failing, as an untrained person. True, such a judgement may be unjust, but it is generally made; and it is this tendency to judge a man's education by his spelling that gives to the subject its importance in school.

This contest is a great help to the school children of this county. It is developing good spellers; thirty-five schools were represented in this contest last year and their papers revealed good training in spelling.

The essay contest requires of the student to write a literary composition on some special subjects. The essay offers the student training and practice in writing. Essay writing constitutes an important part of written English.

The Tiny-Tot's Story Telling Contest is a new contest that has been added to the League events this year. This contest is for pupils regularly enrolled in school, and under eight years of age September 1, 1933. Story-Telling is an art. To tell a story correctly the pupil must put himself into it. Every story that the pupil tells will not only be the story, for it will tell that is in the story will reflect the pupil's personality. To acquire the art of story-telling the pupil must feel the story, and put his whole self into it.

The three-R-contest offers standard training in reading, writing and arithmetic for the grammar grades of the public schools. This is a contest for one and two teacher rural schools. It gives good training in the three R's.

The school exhibit contest gives each school the opportunity to exhibit their work in the following subjects: mathematics, history, English, geography, government, science, health, reading, spelling, penmanship, physical education, art, nature study and fire prevention. The display of school work is important and it gives the school an opportunity to show what it is doing in the field of public education.

The athletic contests meet the requirements for training in physical education. Many of the great lessons of life comes from the games we play in youth. The first consideration in all athletic contests is to lay the foundation for a strong and splendid manhood and womanhood.

In the activities of the school we should keep in mind that "A noble mind lives in a noble body."
