House Sustains Carrier Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House today sustained President Carter's veto of the defense authorization bill, thus scuttling a proposed $2-billion nuclear aircraft carrier he had termed a waste of military dollars.

The vote was 206-191 in favor of upholding the president's veto. A two-thirds vote is necessary to enact a bill over the president's objection, and leaders on both sides of the issue had expected a much closer outcome.

The action sent the overall $37 billion defense authorization bill back to committee for redrafting, this time without the nuclear carrier and possibly with some new funds requested by Carter.

Today's vote marked the first veto challenge of Carter's presidency.

Both opponents and supporters of the carrier had claimed to have the votes for victory, but Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill declared after his own last-minute count that "the president will be sustained."

Carter vetoed the bill that included the carrier on Aug. 17. He described the carrier as wasteful at the expense of other, more vital defense projects.

Although the chairmen of both the House and Senate Armed Services committees joined the intensive drive to override the president, Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and other House Democratic leaders stood by Carter and predicted he would be sustained by a narrow margin.

Carter's veto was the fifth of his presidency and the first to draw an attempt to override, which requires a two-thirds vote in both houses.

It was also the first veto of a major defense program in modern history, triggering protests from many that Carter was interfering with the constitutional duty of Congress "to make rules for the government...of the land and naval forces."

Summit Words Secret

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) - Anwar Sadat and Menachem Begin are talking face-to-face for the first time since Christmas but President Carter is sealing their words at the Mideast summit in secrecy.

The Egyptian president and Israeli prime minister agreed to meet with Carter this morning for their second joint session in as many days.

Carter brought the two leaders together for nearly two hours Wednesday afternoon on a flagstone patio behind Carter's mountaintop lodge.

But there was no word on any progress.

Crawford Seeks Visa

MOSCOW (AP) - Soviet Judge Lev Mironov convicted U.S. businessman Francis J. Crawford today of buying rubles on the black market and gave him the five-year suspended sentence requested by prosecutors. The U.S. Embassy said Crawford is free to leave the country.

There had been speculation he might be held pending the trial of two accused Soviet spies held in the United States and exchanged for them.

Crawford immediately went to the embassy to apply for an exit visa from the Soviet Foreign Ministry. The process usually takes from four to seven days but can be done faster. Crawford said he could leave as early as Friday night.

Disease Probed

NEW YORK (AP) - Medical detectives today are trying to find just what in the teeming garment district of midtown Manhattan caused the bacteria of Legionnaires disease to become airborne, apparently infecting nine persons, three of them fatally.

The mysterious malady, which first surfaced two summers ago after the Pennsylvania American Legion convention in Philadelphia, is confirmed as the cause of death for one person and is suspected in two other deaths. The disease is suspected in six non-fatal cases.

Petitions Okayed For School Vote

The petitions calling for a vote on the possible consolidation of the Hermleigh and Snyder school districts have been certified, and it is now up to the county judges of Scurry and Fisher Counties to call the election.

The certifications were made about 10 a.m. today by Scurry County Clerk Beverly Ainsworth. Scurry County Judge Preston Wilson was presiding over several cases in county court this morning and was not expected to take any action on the matter until this afternoon at the earliest.

Because a portion of the Hermleigh School District extends into Fisher County, Wilson and Fisher County Judge Dwight Lovett must confer and jointly call the election.

The earliest possible date the election can be called is the third Saturday in January, which falls on Jan. 20.

A legal representative of the Texas Education Agency reported earlier that two polling places will be necessary for the voters in the Hermleigh School District because it is a county line district.

One polling place will be needed for the Hermleigh School District voters living in Scurry County and another for those living in Fisher County. A separate polling box will be needed for Snyder voters.

To be approved, the measure must pass in both Snyder and the Hermleigh School Districts. If it fails in either location, the issue is invalidated.

If the consolidation passes, the consolidation would take effect as soon as county commissioners canvass the votes. Implementation of consolidation could then begin immediately.

Political Ambition Cleared By Study

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)- Henry Kissinger says a careful study of the Constitution cleared up his political ambition.

The U.S. Constitution bars naturalized citizens from seeking the presidency, a job the German-born former Secretary of State says he's "most interested in."

But, during a speech here Wednesday, Kissinger - who is reportedly considering a run for the U.S. Senate in 1980 - put his ambition this way:

"I've researched the Constitution very carefully. And there is nothing to prevent foreign-born citizens from serving as emperor."

Co-Op Sets Annual Meet

Midwest Electric Co-operative will hold its annual meeting this evening at the Scurry County Coliseum.

Registration will begin at 6 p.m. and a catered barbecue dinner will be served, beginning at 7 p.m.

The cooperative will elect two directors at the meeting and special entertainment will be provided by Cindy Rataway and the Country Travelers.

All members of Midwest Electric Cooperative have been invited to attend and a number of prizes will be given away.

The SDN Column

The National Republican Congressional Committee's magazine, Congress Today, came up with this essay which it attributes to the noted writer, H.L. Mencken, many years ago. The magazine says Mencken came forth with an amazing prediction of what a future president from the South would look like, to wit:

"On those dark moments when I fear that the republic has trotted before these weary eyes every carnival act in its repertoire, I cheer myself with the thought that some day we will have a president from the deserts of the Deep South...The president's brother, a prime specimen of Boobus Collumnus Rubericus, will gather his loutish companions on the porch of the White House to swill beer from the bottle and snigger over whispered barnyard jokes about the darkies. The president's cousin, LaVerne, will travel the hallelujah circuit as one of Mrs. McPherson's soldiers in Christ, praying for the conversion of some of Northern Sodom's most satanic pornographers as she waves his work, well-thumbed, for the yokels to gasp at...The president's daughter will record these events with her box camera...The incumbent himself, cleansed of his bumpkin ways by some of (Henry) Grady's New South hucksters, will have a charm comparable to that of the leading undertaker of Dothan, Ala."

Foes of the Food and Drug Administration's recently announced intention of severely restricting the use of certain antibiotics in animal feeds say that such a move would cost agricultural producers $700 million per year in increased production costs at a time when net farm income is projected at the lowest level since the Great Depression. The actual cost to consumers, according to the USDA, could run as much as $2 billion in higher meat prices because the antibiotics help keep meat animals healthy, which means that they grow faster and reach the market more quickly. Just about every move made in Washington deflates the consumer's pocketbook. Yet, to hear the speeches and public statements one would think everyone was trying to help the poor old consumer.

Prizes To Be Awarded...

1,000 Expected For Cooking School Here

More than 1,000 Snyder area residents are expected to fill the Snyder High School auditorium to capacity tonight for the Southern Kitchen Cooking School.

The school, which begins at 7 p.m., is co-sponsored by the Snyder Daily News and the Progressive Farmer magazine.

Tickets are required for admission, and only a few remain at participating local merchants. The tickets are free of charge just for the asking.

However, the auditorium will be open to those without tickets 10 minutes prior to showtime, so make plans to be there early for best seats, stated SDN Publisher Roy McQueen.

The tickets have space on the back side for names and addresses. "These should be filled in to be eligible for the many door prizes," McQueen said.

Among the top prizes to be given away will be a microwave oven from Roe's Furniture and Appliance. Also to be given away will be 20 sacks of national-brand groceries. All groceries for the cooking school have been donated by Everybody's Thriftway.

The home economist for the show is Pat Pittman and program coordinator is Joan Powell. The program is designed to show

Q--Why were the property owners in Snyder given a tax raise of 19 cents on the hospital after repeated assurances at the time of the bond election that no raise would be necessary?

A--We could find no record of any assurances or promises that the hospital bonds would not increase the tax rate. In fact, a report published in the SDN of the Oct. 10 meeting of the commissioners court, four weeks prior to the bond election, it was emphasized that the bonds would require tax support. At that time they thought about 14 cents would do it, but as it turned out the bonds required 19 cents.

Snyder Building Takes Big Jump

Snyder's 1978 construction figures took a big jump in August with the hospital project pushing the total near the $7.5 million mark.

The total for the city's fiscal year reached $8,578,652, just under the total of $8,724,872 for all of the last fiscal year. The city's fiscal year ends Sept. 30, which means that a new record is virtually assured.

The August permits included construction costing $3,960,598. Of that amount, the new addition to Cogdell Memorial Hospital accounted for $3,693,948. Most of the remainder came from residential permits, with two for new single-family dwellings costing a total of $109,500 and nine for mobile homes valued at $125,450. So far this year, permits have been issued for 50 new single-family dwellings and 60 mobile homes, plus one multi-family project. These involve a total of more than 150 living units.

The overall construction total for the calendar year stood at $7,471,694 as September began.

Faculty To Treat WTC Student Body

Students at Western Texas College will be treated to homemade ice cream at the annual Ice Cream Social tonight in the Central Courtyard on campus.

Faculty members traditionally prepare the ice cream and serve the students as the two groups get acquainted. The Social will begin at 7 p.m., and the Howdy Dance will follow at 9 p.m. in the Student Center.

The All-School assembly was held this morning in the gym with students introduced to officers of the Student Senate along with some other students and personnel.

Classes in the fall semester began today. Late registration is to continue through Sept. 15.

CLEAN-UP PROJECT--Alfred Kohl, city operations director, watches as machinery picks up some discarded junk in an alley. City crews will continue the alley clean-up project for several weeks, city officials said. They will remove trash and discarded items and give the alleys a general cleaning. (SDN Staff Photo)

Alley Clean-Up Launched

The City of Snyder has launched an alley clean-up project.

City Manager George Patterson said a crew had been assigned to work in alleys throughout the city. Their objective is the removal of trash and rubbish which has accumulated over a long period of time and which cannot be handled in the regular sanitation department containers.

The crew is equipped with a truck and a front-end loader which will enable them to removed large, heavy objects.

The project is expected to continue for several weeks, with the entire town to be covered.

Patterson said residents who have items in the alleys adjoining their property which they wish to keep, should make certain that they are removed before the clean-up crew arrives. The workers have been instructed to remove all junk and trash from the alleys.

dealing with outlaws

Almost four and a half years ago news flashed across the nation that Patricia Hearst, 20-year-old heiress to a legendary newspaper publishing fortune, was seized by kidnappers in her apartment in Berkeley, Calif., where she was a student in the University of California.

In one way or another there have been few weeks that this bizarre incident hasn't been a major news story. First assumption was that the kidnapping followed the traditional pattern of an effort of underworld gangsters to extort money from distraught parents. Huge ransoms were paid in one form or another in seeking release of the victim. But instead of gaining freedom for Miss Hearst reward was in the form of the startling revelation that the supposed victim had joined her captors in waging war on society.

Armed robbery was the favorite form of protest. Miss Hearst was identified as a gun-wielding participant in one such incident. She was later captured and charged with armed robbery. Defense was that she had been an unwilling member of a crime syndicate. They jury didn't believe her story.

She is now doing time for armed robbery. Leaders of the gang responsible for Miss Hearst's seizure, or her partners in crime, depending on which of the several stories one accepts as true, are in custody. The story made headlines again last week. Founders of the Symbionese Liberation Army, mystical name of the criminal organization involved in the Hearst kidnapping case, were in court again.

William Harris and his wife Emily entered pleas of guilty to a charge of kidnapping. The Harrises are already doing time on an earlier conviction. In return for pleading guilty last week seven pending cases, ranging from armed robbery to suspicion of homicide, will be dismissed.

When present prison terms and the one to be assessed in the kidnapping case are terminated by paroles under California law, the Harris couple will be free by 1983.

But the interesting part of the story of last week's court proceeding is that the principals publicly reaffirmed their enmity against the established order. They expressed pride for their part in the Hearst kidnapping because it gave them and their cause the national publicity they want. Spectators in the court room applauded the Harris declaration. Nobody was fined for contempt of court.

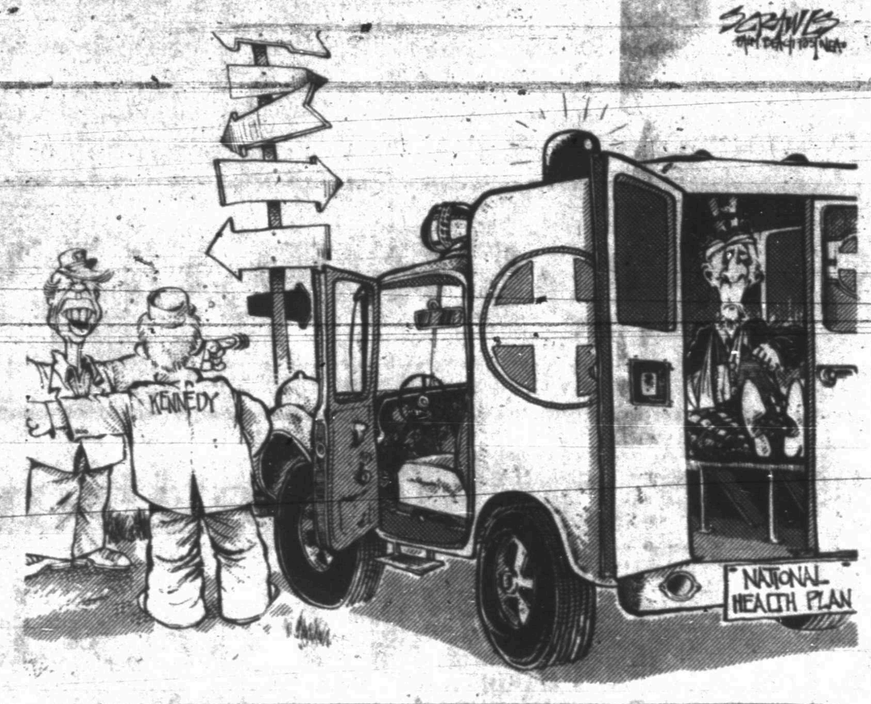
William Harris, self-proclaimed enemy of recognized public authority, may have a point in declaring that he and the movement he heads are the winners.

some can't forget

For a variety of reasons most Americans, no doubt, are more than willing-even anxious-to put the Watergate scandal of 1972-73 in file 13 in the hope that eventually it will gradually fade from the national memory. All but one or two of those convicted for participation in that sordid affair are out of jail. Hopefully most of the principals who have in mind writing books have completed their tasks.

But the central figure seems determined to keep the subject alive. He staged an invitation rally of Republicans at his home in San Clemente, Calif., a short time ago. There are rumors that he will make his services available for campaign appearances in behalf of Republican candidates this Fall.

But a few days ago the prime minister of Australia said he would be too busy to see the former U.S. President on a projected visit at an early date. It could be hoped this may set a pattern. Richard Nixon was lucky. Good taste would seem to suggest that he allow us to forget.



paul harvey

one plus one equals 11

Incentives for sales performance nowadays almost always include something the salesman's wife can share.

Whether a convention trip to the Bahamas or a catalogue selection of premiums which include fur coats and jewelry, this practice tends to motivate the motivators.

Wives share the separations, the preoccupation and frequently the chores of a productive professional career. Surely they deserve some of the fruits of labor.

And if a wife knows that extra effort this month might beget a dividend she can share, she'll get him out there on the firing line even on rainy days.

Yet, though industry has learned how significant is a wife's contribution to her husband's business, the tax collector is only beginning to learn.

You've often heard me quote Homer McKee, the Hoosier philosopher. It was he who said, "One plus one does not equal two when you are dealing with the man and wife equation. In this case one plus one, side by side, equals 11."

That has been my observation and my experience.

Yet our tax system has been very stingy with women.

A wife along on a corporation convention, however she may be included in the business sessions, is presupposed to be on a vacation and expected to pay her own way.

In several businesses with which I am intimately familiar, the home is an office, the wife is at least a receptionist and more likely a bona fide administrative assistant. Yet defending that premise at tax time has been almost impossible.

Similarly, in the settlement of a family estate, the tax collector has tended toward the antiquated chauvinistic assumption that the total assests are solely his.

Only recently have tax courts begun to correct this official myopia.

Example: Bessie and Clarence were married 43 years. Starting from scratch they built a sizable farm operation.

When Clarence died the Internal Revenue Service said all the farm equipment had belonged to Clarence and thus was included in his estate.

However, a federal district court in South Dakota declared, "This court will not ignore this farm wife's contribution to the success of the business as the IRS seeks to do."

Bessie was equally responsible for the farm's success. She cared for hired hands, marketed eggs, helped harvest grain, hauled cattle and kept the books (in addition to raising five children).

The court decreed that half the equipment belonged to her as an equal partner in the farm and the IRS had to refund some $40,000 of estate taxes plus interest.

I am sure the IRS can cite some ludicrous attempts to misrepresent and misuse the family-business relationship.

But there is something very sick about a system which blatantly gives generous rewards to unwed, professional baby-makers while it denies to a legitimate helpmate any consideration for her contribution.

The proper resolution of this inequity, of course, would be to tax all income and all estates on a fixed percentage.

Twenty-five percent should be an ample cut for Uncle Sam in either case.

Then that whole army of tax collectors, tax lawyers and tax accountants could be set free and made available for some productive pursuit.

BOSTON (NEA) - The catalog of goals expoused by the National Governors' Association (NGA) reads like the master plan for a utopian society. Unfortunately, the governors haven't provided much guidance on how we might reach nirvana.

The torrent of rhetoric and resolutions that emerged from the NGA's 70th annual meeting, recently held here, included endorsement of:

Prevention and control of juvenile delinquency, enhanced efficiency and economy in government, improved public education, reduced unemployment, expanded international trade, containment of hospital costs and improved public education.

But the governors' facile policy statements are sadly lacking in dealings with the hard choices to be made, the complex tradeoffs involved and the invariable conflicts that must be resolved before attaining any of those noble ends.

The governors, of course, want to be fully involved in considering the available alternatives. Their resolutions are riddled with demands on Washington officials for consultation, input, cooperation and coordination.

But Congress and the president - not state government - invariably are designated as being solely responsible for selecting the solution, implementing them and assuring their success.

In the always touchy area of financing, the governors are not unlike children away at summer camp. Their letters home include regular requests (if not demands) for money - but seldom specify the intended use for the funds.

"This organization has a less than credible record with regard to reduced spending," New Hampshire Gov. Meldrim Thomson Jr. told his colleagues in a rare moment of candor. "Almost all the resolutions we passed call for more spending."

The governors want federal officials to collect all the money needed to cure our social ills (state tax increases are, by far, the leading cause of gubernatorial beheading at the hands of angry voters) and then to generously turn over the funds to the states.

Moreover, the governors insist that federal financing be accompanied by a bare minimum of regulations or paperwork. Their favorite mechanism for receiving funds from Washington is the few-strings-attached "block grant."

The governors' proclivity for inaction, waffling or outright avoidance of controversial issues is typified by the NGA's stand - or lack of one - on no-fault auto insurance.

Special interest groups have blocked efforts to bring about a mandatory national no-fault law through congressional action, and the governors naturally believe that a federal statute "is not an acceptable alternative to individual state action."

Approximately one-third of the state legislatures have passed some form of no-fault law, while others have rejected that option and some haven't even considered the issue.

The NGA's policy statement on the subject, typically vague, takes no position and offers little guidance. It merely urges the states "to continue to examine the available options and to achieve maximum interstate cooperation in any actions they may take."

In defense of the governors, it should be noted that recent years have seen a marked increase in the number of capable, talented state executives who are providing innovative, imaginative leadership in their prospective states.

That "new breed" of governors was instrumental in abolishing the most outlandish aspects of NGA annual meetings: Lavish parties sponsored by special interest groups and the distribution of free television sets, matched golf clubs and other expensive gifts.

Now the NGA's conduct of its official business has become a logical subject for scrutiny. It's in that field that the governors must find a way to subordinate their egos, political conflicts and ideological differences to provide collective as well as individual leadership.

many marches

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Washington has the dubious honor of being known as the demonstration city of the Country. There are marches on Washington representing all sorts of causes and issues from pacifists, Nazis, bicyclists, Tibetan-Americans, coal miners, bird watchers and what have you.

They come in all sizes of groups, usually a few hundred, occasionally in the thousands, sometimes only a dozen, clamoring at the gates of the Congress and the White House. Their voices are strong, their purposes diverse, sometimes their issues obscure. They have replaced the Vietnam war era with a babble of voices against abortion, human rights abuse, cost of living, air pollution, nuclear power and hundreds of other causes.

Demonstrations of varying sizes are almost a daily occurrence. The total number of demonstrators marching and picketing just on the White House sidewalks leaped from 3,000 in 1968 to about 48,000 in 1977, according to an estimate by the Secret Service. Demonstrations have increased four-fold over the past ten years and in 1977 cost over $5 million for extra police, monitoring hundreds of marchers in the city. They come in various and sundry ways and are so numerous that, in many instances, they are hardly more than casually observed by passersby. Some come by airplane, buses and trains, and others, like the recent participants in the American Indian demonstration, came on foot. The farmers came on tractors and in pickups earlier in the year.

Most any time there is some group assembled representing religious activists, Marxists, Maoists, anarchists, women's libbers, anti-women's libbers, senior citizens, marijuana advocates, ban-the-bomber and foreign students who have seized on President Carter's pronouncement on human rights to protest alleged abuses in their native lands.

The largest recent demonstration was women urging the extension of time for ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment, while a few yards away was another group in opposition. Active at this time are those opposing the development of nuclear reactors. One demonstrator carried a sign, "splitting the atom to boil water is like ringing a doorbell with a cannon."

Demonstrators in Washington are not new, simply because it is the Nation's Capital where decisions are being made. It was the focal point for Women's Suffrage in 1919, the Ku Klux Klan in 1926 and the Veterans' bonus march in 1932. With greater mobility and affluence in America after World War II, demonstrations have become increasingly more frequent. One of the better known in recent years was the movement on Civil Rights in the 1950's, climaxed in 1963 when 200,000 people heard the "I have a dream" speech by Martin Luther King at the Lincoln Memorial.

The Anti-Vietnam demonstrations were not only massive but had a singleness of purpose. It brought a wide cross-section of people to demonstrate -- Democrats, Republicans, Socialists, Capitalists, old and young, rich and poor. Civil disobedience was demonstrated in May of 1971 when thousands literally attempted to stop Government by blocking City streets. Many were arrested in a "sweep" later ruled illegal by the Courts. This has encouraged demonstrators, exercising their right under the First Amendment to the Constitution.

One of the longest lasting protests is the continuous daily Soviet Jewry Vigil in front of the Soviet Embassy. It started in 1970 and has been maintained seven days a week ever since.

There will always be protesters and demonstrators. They have the legal right if they are peaceful and if they do not interfere with the Government's functions or the rights of other people who are visiting our Nation's Capital.

my turn

by john long

The advent of football season frightens me. I am seized with the fear that some 250-pounder will run over me, leaving me a broken, mangled mass on the turf.

Referees seem to have no great love for photographers anyway, and I doubt if the football player would receive so much as even a five-yard penalty.

That's the tragedy of the whole thing. There's little respect for the press these days.

So far, I've been pretty lucky. I've been run over only a few times, and even they weren't very bad. Still, it takes only one big football player to make a tackle in the right way to produce a memorable injury. The worst thing I have received so far has been a grass stain. It is my future I worry about.

I don't dare tell any insurance men I take football pictures. I try not to cultivate the disfavor of any football coaches. I try to be outright cordial to big people.

Mind you, now every football team is capable to fielding huge players. The high school football players in some towns seem almost anemic they are so small. But for those few teams that have big people on them, I try to be extra careful.

I take all the precautions I can. However, one can derive only so much solace from prayer, and the knowledge that one's will has already been made out is of only limited comfort.

Being accidently run over by some hulk is bad enough, but I am beginning to think that some extra big people actually seek out little people and try to destroy them.

That's what galls me.

Little ball carriers try to avoid me because the collision of two small bodies produces injury for each. But the collision of someone big with someone little produces injury only for the little person.

Out there on the field, though, I have in my hand an instrument that can deflect most collisions. If I believe my body is the target of an assault, I flash my camera's strobe unit off and run.

The blinding white light will usually stay in the eyes of the onrushing ball carrier long enough for me to make my escape.

That little ploy has saved me on several occasions.

"What kind of news do you prefer, hard or soft?"

letter to editor

To the Daily News:

Recently I had occasion to be a sponsor for the First Baptist Church Youth Group. Seven sponsors took 42 kids in four vans to Six Flags Over Texas. These kids ranged in age from junior high through college. We ate in restaurants at least five times, played miniature golf, went ice skating, shopped in two large malls, spent two nights in a cabin, spent 12 hours at Six Flags, and spent about 15 hours in the vans just coming and going.

Needless to say, since I had never done anything like this before, I had some misgivings because "You know how kids are." Well-I learned about kids on this trip. They are kind and courteous not only to the sponsors but to each other; they are well-mannered, cooperative and unselfish; they are full of life and filled with the Spirit of the Lord.

These kids answer question "What's this world coming to?" These kids represent the majority of our youth and our world is in good hands and our future is secure.

We don't read about the kids who stay out of trouble often enough and I felt the need to express my appreciation for our young people. A big thank you to Jerry and Judy Neill for the fantastic job they do for our kids and to the First Baptist Church for our wonderful youth programs.

Most of all, I thank God for providing it all.

Opening lead: ♥ 10

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Point count made it easy for everyone to reach six notrump in a regional tournament. North added his 17 points to the 16-18 shown by South's notrump and came up with a 33-35 point total. Enough for six and not enough for seven.

The slam is a good one but the combination of a bad club break and a misplaced queen of diamonds caused some declarers to come up one trick short.

Those who counted the hand carefully made the slam on a squeeze. The first tricks were heart won in dummy, club to the king and ace, second heart won in dummy.

At this point the alert declarers started to prepare a count of the West hand. West had shown six hearts. Three spade leads came next and West followed there. A club to the jack showed West with two clubs. He could not hold more than two diamonds, so the ace and king of diamonds were cashed next. West followed again, whereupon all South had to do was to cash his last two high hearts, discard the 10 of diamonds from dummy and claim. East had to unguard the club 10 to keep the queen of diamonds.

Honest Communication Keeps Love Alive In Middle Years

COLLEGE STATION - Love grows colder as it grows older for some couples. A communication gap is the major culprit, says a family life education specialist.

"The need to love, share and communicate is as critical in later life as in the honeymoon years," explains Dorthy Taylor with the Texas Agricultrual Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

PRIVACY, HONESTY CRUCIAL

"Private, honest communication between husband and wife is the crucial factor.

"The communication gap between generations does not break up families as does a communication gap between married partners," she warns.

THIRD PARTY 'STATIC'

When communications are ruptured, the husband or wife may try to re-open them through a third party.

Usually, "static" from another person only clouds the message.

Some couples complain they have to learn about their spouse's thoughts and interests by listening in on a mate's conversation.

Others say they feel less threatened in open group discussions, where there is less chance of a marital fight, since the group can act as mediator.

However, open discussion of private matters in public is unfair to all concerned, the specialist says.

"Conversations that probe the intimate lives of others is a form of exhibitionism."

TIME, EFFORT NEEDS

"A loving and respectful relationship between spouses has to be nurtured, however," she adds.

Bruce Jenners Have Baby Boy

LOS ANGELES (AP)- Burton William Jenner weighed in at 8 pounds, 7 ounces at birth. But there was no immediate word if the son of Olympic decathlon champion Bruce Jenner planned an athletic career.

Jenner's wife, Chrystie, and son Burton were doing well at Cedars-Sinai Hospital after the birth Wednesday.

Jenner, who picked up his gold medal in the decathlon in 1976, is currently a host on NBC-TV's "America Alive."

GRAND OPENING IN GAIL-While most business elsewhere were closed for Labor Day Pat Porter and Bob Dyess (l and r above) took advantage of the holiday festivities at Gail Monday to celebrate the grand opening of the Sunshine Mercantile grocery store they are operating out of their service station. They also re-opened the town's only cafe which has been closed since July. (SDN Staff Photo)

Store, Cafe Opened...

Gail Winners Named

GAIL - Cowboys from Big Spring, Snyder, Lamesa, Post and Fluvanna converged at Gail Monday for The Gail Labor Day Roping and Barrel racing contests.

Gail also celebrated the grand opening of the Sunshine Merchantile store and the re-opening of the town's only cafe.

Terri Mires of Lamesa won the open barrel racing contest.

There were 82 teams entered in the open roping event. Dave Pool and David Pool of Lamesa took home the jackpot and beltbuckles in that event.

In the 19 and under age group, Steve Beaver of Fluvanna and Ricky Brooks of Welch won the prize.

In the 20 to 39 age bracket Layne Griffin of Gail and Jimmy Sterling of Ira were the best. Joe Cannon of Lamesa and Dave Pool won the 40 and over category.

In draw roping (the cowboys drew for their partners) Hank Thompson of Big Spring and Buck Cratt of Post proved the best matched pair.

Dave Pool and his daughter, Ivie Avory won the parents and offspring roping. Dave Pool and David Pool won the first go around of the go around roping event and Doyle Newton and Cody Newton of Fluvanna won the second go around.

Ten ropers from Post won the community roping contest.

Breaking up the pace was the staging of the Men's First Borden County Speed Classic, more accurately described as an old fashioned foot race. Dave Pool was the fleetest of foot and was named grand champion. Doyle Newton came in second and was dubbed reserve champion. The Sunshine Merchantile Store awarded door prizes in that event. Pool received a door and Newton a T-shirt.

Pat Porter and Bob Dyess, proprietor's of the general store also gave away a car to celebrate the grand opening. Mary Nell Beaver of Fluvanna won what most would call a jalopy. Dyess and Porter also re-opened Gail's only cafe yesterday. Jim Hendricks, who operated the cafe for 23 years retired recently after suffering a heart attack.

Carrying On At The Dentist's

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I don't want to disclose my source, but I know for a fact that a certain dental nurse is having an affair and is using her boss's dental office for her rendezvous.

I think she has a lot of nerve taking advantage of her boss's dental quarters in this way, and I'm sure he would have a fit if he knew about it. She has been working for him for quite some time and he trusts her.

Should I tell the dentist?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: When it comes to dentists, the usual advice is to "Open wide." In this case, I say, "Keep your mouth shut."

DEAR ABBY: May I comment on the letter from the wife who felt threatened by her husband's secretary when she and a girlfriend became self-appointed cheerleaders at the company's bowling games. (Very few wives attended, so the girls went to give the men moral support.)

That wife should smarten up and realize that if her husband's secretary is taking her place at the bowling alley, she may be cheering him on in other areas, too.

Perhaps the wife had been invited first, but refused because, "We can't afford a sitter" or "Bowling is so boring."

I finally figured out that my husband's secretary saw him as a handsome young executive who would handle every emergency, while I saw him as the guy who never remembered to carry out the garbage. Small wonder that when his ego needed pampering, he turned to her and they had an affair. When I learned about it, the shock opened my eyes, and I realized that the qualities that I loved in him when we were first married were still there, and that a baby-sitter was cheaper than a divorce. We saved our marriage by working out our problems together.

And I learned how important it was for me to attend the company bowling games.

I think that wife should take a good look at her marriage. Perhaps if the secretary's behavior makes her feel insecure, she has a reason to be. Sign me . . .

WISER NOW

DEAR WISER: The moral to that story is: "Don't permit a substitute to fill in too often, lest the substitute become a permanent replacement."

CONFIDENTIAL TO J.J.: Every liar is a coward. Putting it simply, most people lie because they don't have the courage to tell the truth.

Are your problems too heavy to handle alone? Let Abby help you. For a personal, unpublished reply, write: Abby: Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dresser Sale To Soviets Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter has okayed the sale of sophisticated oil drilling equipment to the Soviet Union, overriding objections that the Soviets might gain helpful military technology from the deal, the White House confirmed today.

The sale had provoked an intensive debate in the Carter administration with national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski and others arguing against the deal.

White House spokeswoman Patricia Bario confirmed today that Carter had decided to allow the transaction to proceed.

The deal calls for Dresser Industries of Dallas to sell the Soviets a $145 million plant that would produce sophisticated oil drilling bits.

The Commerce Department had issued a permit Aug. 9 for the final item in the transaction, a million dollar electron beam welding machine.

However, Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., wrote Carter asking that the export license be delayed pending hearings by the Senate Premanent Investigations Subcommittee, which Jackson heads, on possible national security implications.

Brzezinski and the Energy and Defense departments had sought to hold up the sale pending a thorough review of government policy on the supply of sophisticated energy technology to the Soviets.

Brzezinzki presided last week at a Cabinet-level meeting concerning a secret Pentagon report critical of the deal, a source who asked not to be identified said. The report by a Defense Department science advisory committee was said to argue that the technology involved in the Dresser deal might help the Russians produce armor-piercing shells.

However, Dresser Industries officials maintained the Soviets would not gain any helpful military technology from the plant.

The new plant would only increase by 10 percent the Soviet drill bit production capacity, which is already the world's largest, J.J. Murphy, a senior vice president for operations, said Wednesday.

Dresser was chosen earlier this year to build the plant after several years of negotiations in which the Soviets had sought bids from other companies in the international market.

The Dresser-Soviet contract will provide jobs for 2,000 man-years of U.S. labor over 13 U.S. equipment suppliers, Murphy said.

Heavy Bets Placed On Gambling Stocks

NEW YORK (AP) - Speculators have been placing some heavy bets lately on the future of the legal gambling business in this country.

Their hopes that the gambling industry can win approval to spread out from Nevada and Atlantic City, N.J., and accelerate its already strong growth rate have inspired a much-publicized bull market for stocks with links to the business.

Wall Street investors, of course, are always busy trying to catch a ride on the wave of the future. This has led to a steady succession of stock-market fads - bowling, mobile homes, CB radios and many more - most of which eventually collapsed.

But the fact remains that a lot of money has been made, at least on paper, in the gambling stocks. According to figures by Barron's magazine, the aggregate market value of 12 gambling-related stocks increased by $2.26 billion in the first eight months of the year.

Caesars World shares gained more than 600 percent in price; Resorts International and Golden Nugget each rose better than fivefold; Playboy Enterprises and Bally Manufacturing tripled; and Ramada Inns, Del E. Webb Enterprises and Harrah's more than doubled.

Most of these stocks have been heavily traded, contributing to a record pace of activity for the year to date on the New York Stock Exchange. Such a booming market would appear to be a stockbroker's dream, since it helps generate extra commission dollars, which are still a basic source of revenues for the securities industry.

But many Wall Streeters profess wariness or downright concern over the periodic outbreaks of "gambling fever" that have hit the market. And in the past few days leading exchanges and brokers have limited or barred altogether any buying of the stocks on credit.

"With recent prices five or 10 times this year's low quotation, anyone who calls these things 'investments' probably thinks a lottery ticket is as sure a thing as a certificate of deposit," said William LeFevre, an analyst at Granger & Co., in a market commentary.

The gambling stocks also have acquired a reputation for depressing the rest of the market whenever they have one of their runups. Because they are speculative, brokers say, they scare some conservative money managers away from the market.

And even though the market is usually thought of as an amoral mechanism that concentrates on dollars and cents and leaves value judgments to others, many brokers evidently feel more comfortable putting their customers into steel or computers than into gambling.

In fact moral, social and aesthetic questions, not just sheer economics, are closely involved in the industry's long-range prospects, just as they are in debates over whether gambling should come to Miami Beach, New York City or other possible sites.

Action Panels Raise Millions

By Harry F. Rosenthal
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Political action committees of special interest groups, a growing factor in American election financing, raised $54 million the past 18 months, a new study showed today. Half the money is in the bank, available for the fall elections.

During the same period, the Republican Party collected $49.6 million and the Democrats $14.4 million, according to the report issued by the Federal Election Commission.

The GOP had $10.5 million cash on hand, with $500,000 in debts; the Democrats had $2 million cash and owed $2.29 million.

The computer study showed that Ronald Reagan's Citizens for the Republic collected more money - $2.1 million - than any other non-party related committee. Two similar conservative groups were right behind.

"The FEC figures released today confirm the alarming trend in the growth of special interest group political money in general and corporate-related political money in particular," said Fred Wertheimer, senior vice president of Common Cause, the citizens' lobby.

"We are rapidly headed toward a new political system of PAC democracy," he added, "with Congress representing the political action committees of America instead of its citizens."

Political action committees cannot be affiliated with a specific campaign, but they can contribute to candidates, raise funds and engage in lobbying efforts.

Wertheimer said that in January 1975 there were only 89 corporate PACs and only eight months ago there were 538. The new study, through the end of June, showed there were 711 such committees.

even the most skeptical member of the audience some enjoyable cooking.

The show is expected to be fast-paced, and it appeals to men as well as to area homemakers. Most of the two-hour show will be concerned with food preparation, but Mrs. Pittman will include some ideas for entertaining, as well.

Other door prizes include $10 in beef from Town & Country Meat Center, a cooking ware set from TG&Y, a microwave cooking set from M&M Electronics, a 5-pound ham from Piggly Wiggly, a case of canning jars from Gibson's, a manicure set from Merle Norman Cosemetic Studio, a 5-pound ham from Furr's.

On stage appliances are being furnished by Roe's and Goodyear. Furniture is courtesy of Hoyt's and the floral arrangements are from Hinshaw's House of Flowers.

Everyone will have something to bring home. There will be individual gift packs containing the newest Southern Kitchen Cooking School recipe book, Southern Potpourri, valuable coupons, and other informative food related information.

Two Mishaps Are Reported

Lawrence E. Lamb M.D.

Fertility in question

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read the letter in your column from a reader who loved her husband but had no more desire for sex even though she had had two children. I especially liked your comments about relaxing and doing what comes naturally.

My husband and I have been married for four years and I have not gotten pregnant and we have never used any means of birth control. I've been to the doctor and he says there's nothing wrong but my husband won't go.

He says sooner or later that I'll get pregnant but I was wondering if maybe one of us is impotent. You said this could happen when you get too involved in performance, or because of fear of failure. If this is the problem, is there a way to correct it?

I'd really like to have some more advice. I've had people tell me everything and it never seems to help. We would really like to have children. My husband is 27 and I am 23. Can you help?

DEAR READER — You're correct in thinking that your husband needs an examination. When it comes to pregnancy, it does take two. You cannot tell by looking at a man or from his performance whether or not he is capable of fathering children. A man may even appear to be "super masculine" and still be infertile.

It is important to clear up your thinking on a few basic concepts. In the male, the production of male hormones, which is responsible for his masculine characteristics, is separate from the production of sperm cells which enables him to father children. The hormone comes from one group of cells and the sperm cells which cause pregnancy come from different cells.

Now you have confused the concept of being impotent with sterility. Impotent is commonly used in reference to the male being unable to sustain an erection to enable the normal sex act. I'm sending you The Health Letter number 3-12 on impotence to give you more information. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

A man who performs normally may still be infertile (sterile) because of the absence of a sufficient number of healthy sperm cells. The only way fertility can be tested in the male is by an examination. There is no way a man would know that he is fertile or infertile without such an examination unless he has already fathered children.

Regardless of your mental attitudes, stress or other problems which can occur and may cause impotence, these factors will not prevent the male from forming normal sperm cells. In fact, men who are unable to obtain and maintain an erection may still have an orgasm which can contain normal amounts of sperm cells.

So what should you do? The best thing is for both of you to go together to a fertility clinic and your doctor should be able to tell you where to go. At the very least, your husband should have an examination for sperm cells. If he happens to have a low number of sperm cells, some medical therapy may be able to boost the count and help him. In any case, you will not have a definite answer until both of you have been adequately examined.

C-City Plans For Upcoming Events

COLORADO CITY-Additional funding, if needed, for the Oldtimers Reunion scheduled for Sept. 15, was approved last night at the chamber of commerce directors meeting. Board members also decided to buy a public address system for chamber activities and to advertise on a tourist guide map called, Wonderful West Texas.

The directors also heard four committee reports. Jolyn Mikow reported that only five booths remain available for the Annual Railhead Arts and Crafts Round Up set for Oct. 28-29. Directors also discussed having a cutting horse contest at the festival but no action was taken.

Bobby Lemons, co-chairman of the County Fair Committee said that a micro-mini tractor pull would be an added attraction at this year's fair. The tractor pull will take place the last evening of the fair which is set for Oct. 6.

George Sweatt told the directors that his committee would be conducting a survey to find out how much shopping citizens are doing out of town and why.

David Marion, chairman of the housing committee asked directors for permission to ask the city council to update that part of the city charter dealing with housing to make the sub-standard housing codes enforceable.

Pageant Beauties Have Texas Ties

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) - The home-state woman in the Miss America Pageant may not be the girl next door ... she could be from out-of-state.

Miss Louisiana, Phyllis Kelly, and Miss Oklahoma, Kendi Lynn Brown, have ties to Texas. Miss Louisiana was born in Texas and Miss Oklahoma was raised in Wichita Falls, Texas.

Miss Texas is from Texas.

Miss Hawaii, Elizabeth K. Lindsey, lives in Hawaii, but she grew up in New Zealand, Tonga, Samoa and Fiji.

Miss Delaware, Janice Anne Albro, still has a trace of a Boston accent. She was raised in Belmont, Mass., and was named Miss Belmont in 1971.

She lost the Miss Massachusetts Pageant that year, but she won warm greetings from Massachusetts pageant officials when she arrived here.

Miss Georgia, Deborah Mosley, and New Hampshire, Melinda Bridgeman, were born in Tennessee.

Miss Washington, Laurie Nelson, left Washington for Nebraska when she was three, but returned to Tacoma two years ago for college.

Miss Arizona, Susan Kohler, was born in Ohio, raised in New Jersey and is attending Arizona State University in Tempe.

Miss North Carolina, Debbie Shook, lived in South Carolina for a while.

Miss Vermont, Lise Volkert, once lived in New Jersey.

Miss Kentucky, Marcia Malone Bell, was born in Cincinnati, Ohio, but moved across the Ohio River to Kentucky when she was 1½.

Your Birthday

September 8, 1978

Dame Fortune will be trying very hard this coming year to help you change your lifestyle for the better. There is one thing that could stop it, and that is if you talk yourself out of letting new things happen.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You will dilute the effectiveness of your plans if you try to implement them piecemeal. Keep your overall aims before you at all times. Find out more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y., 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll have a better chance of success today if you discuss your ideas openly. Someone knowledgeable can prevent you from speculating on the unknown.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Something nice will be happening to you today, but it would be best if you don't talk about it. A resentful person will interpret it as boasting.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You might have your feelings hurt today when told of something another said about you behind your back. Knock down this person's defenses. Respond with kindness.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Just when you feel everyone has let you down, someone will do something for you in a most unpretentious manner to gladden your heart.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) In spite of having many self-doubts today, you'll handle a large issue important to you in a most effective manner.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) All the uncertainty you feel about being able to do a big job will quickly disappear the minute you go after it. Trust your abilities.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It's not likely you'll do too much about an opportunity offered you today. The reason: You'll discuss it prematurely with the wrong party.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you're entering into an agreement today, you had better make sure you have all the facts and double-check even those you think you have.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Errors can easily be made today because your mind is not on your work. If something important must be attended to, try to get a helpmate as a backup.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're quite fortunate that an opportunity will be given you to earn a little extra. You'll need this after being on a spending spree.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Mental fatigue could have your spirits down for a while today, but by late afternoon a good friend will bring you out of the doldrums.

Ballistics Tests Link Murders

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - Investigators are searching a crime-ridden Oklahoma City neighborhood today, where two handguns with a "positive connection" to two of the worst murders in state history were found.

Ballistics tests completed Wednesday proved that the weapons, which were found Sunday, were used in the two murders.

Tom Kennedy, Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation director, said the tests revealed that the guns, one of which had an unusual history as a death weapon, were present at the mass murder of six employees of a southside Oklahoma City steakhouse, July 16, and the murder of the Melvin Lorenz family, about three weeks earlier.

He said one of the guns, a .38-caliber Taurus revolver, was taken in a pawnshop burglary in Purcell the day before the Texas family was shot to death along Interstate 35 a mile south of Purcell.

The gun was the only thing reported taken from the pawn shop, but an innocent looking object, which Kennedy said may be another lead in the murder investigation, was left at the shop.

A straw, Panama-style hat was found just inside the door of the shop following the burglary.

Kennedy admitted the plain, bandless hat might not be too much help in finding the killers, but "somebody might just remember this hat."

Also, officers are continuing to search through the Green Pastures neighborhood in far northeast Oklahoma City, where children found three guns under a tree.

Officers speculated the killers may have ties to the area, an idea that caused apprehension among residents.

"Anyone who comes in this yard is going to get the dogs sicced on them, and that includes you, cops and everybody," one man yelled at members of a special 20-man police force.

"I've been talked to, talked to, and talked to and I haven't seen anything and I don't want to see anything," the man said. "If we knew who dumped those guns that the neighborhood kids found I'd go after them myself. We're tired of all this crime and rhubarb."

Authorities said the isolated neighborhood had been a favorite dumping ground for stolen goods and was the site where the body of armored truck guard was found a few years ago after he was killed in a robbery.

The other gun linked to the two mass murders, a .357 Magnum, had previously been identified as the one taken from the pickup-camper of Melvin Lorenz, who was on his way to his mother's funeral in North Dakota when he and his wife and their 12-year-old son were slain on June 22.

No Progress In Postal Talks

By OWEN ULLMAN
AP Lapor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - With a bargaining deadline nine days away, officials of the Postal Service and three unions are continuing contract talks that so far have failed to narrow their differences.

Special mediator James Healy planned to first meet separately with the two sides today and then call them together for another round of face-to-face bargaining.

Sources close to the negotiations said the unions, which represent 516,000 postal workers, spent Tuesday and Wednesday arguing their case for a larger pay raise before management bargainers.

The Postal Service did not respond to the unions' wage demand, said the sources.

"There's nothing happening to report," one union official said after Wednesday's session. He declined to be named.

A proposed settlement reached July 21 was rejected by union members last month.

A nationwide strike was averted only hours before the deadline when the two sides agreed to a limited bargaining session that would require settlement through binding arbitration if the two sides cannot settle on their own by Sept. 16.

The rejected contract gave workers a 19.5 percent pay increase over three years, including cost-of-living boosts, raising the annual salary of a typical postal worker from about $16,000 to $19,100 by 1981.

The unions, arguing that the wage hike does not provide enough protection from inflation, want to remove a ceiling on the cost-of-living adjustments. Under the previous settlement, the cost-of-living raises could not exceed 9.5 percent over the three years.

A negotiated settlement reached before the deadline would have to be resubmitted to postal worker for ratification. But if settlement appears unattainable, Healy would settle the disputed issues himself.

However, an arbitrated settlement would not necessarily remove the threat of a strike if its terms were unacceptable to rank-and-file union members. Strikes by federal employees are illegal.

Leaders of the American Postal Workers Union, representing 165,000 members, have said they would not consider themselves bound by an arbitrated settlement.

Hogg Building On Register

HOUSTON (AP) - The 57-year-old Hogg Building in downtown Houston is now listed in the National Register of Historic Places.

The eight-story structure, which was known as the Pappas Building for 25 years, is undergoing renovation that should be completed by April 1979, general contractor Frank Glass said Wednesday.

Texas Takes Two From California

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP)- If the California Angels are unsucessful in their bid to win the American League's Western Division championship this year, they'll certainly remember the events of Sept. 6.

The Angels entered the day trailing first-place Kansas City by only 1½ games. But after the Royals turned what appeared to be a certain defeat into a 12-inning victory in the afternoon, California went out and got clobbered in a double-header at night.

Thus the Royals have a three-game advantage over California on the eve of their big four-game series with the Angels at Anaheim Stadium.

The Rangers, who entered play with a team batting average of only .249, made mincemeat of California's pitching staff Wednesday night, rolling up 20 runs on 21 hits on their way to 11-5 and 9-2 victories. Earlier in Oakland, Kansas City overcame an early 7-0 deficit for an 11-8 triumph over the A's.

California's starting pitchers, Nolan Ryan, 6-12, and Paul Hartzell, 6-9, were anything but effective. Ryan gave up seven runs, eight hits and five walks over 6 2-3 innings in the opener while making his first appearance since he suffered a rib injury Aug. 20.

Hartzell allowed six runs, four hits and five walks in two innings of the nightcap. And it could have been worse for Hartzell, who faced three batters, all of whom reached base and scored, in the third.

The Rangers' John Lowenstein lost a home run in the third when plate umpire Bill Deegan called time out because a paper airplane landed on the field as Hartzell made his delivery.

Lowenstein hit the pitch over the right field wall, but the blast was disallowed. He then drew a walk.

All told, six California pitchers issued 17 walks and the Rangers stole eight bases.

Prior to the start of the Rangers-Angels four-game series, Texas Manager Bill Hunter held out hope that his team was still in the race.

"We still have time," Hunter insisted. "We'll know in the next 10 days. I'd like to say when we leave town we're back in the race. We need to win three out of four here and everywhere the rest of the year."

A victory tonight would give the Rangers three out of four, but they still trail the Royals by 7½ games.

Steve Comer, 8-3, was the winning pitcher in Wednesday night's opener.

Snyder Set To Open 1978 Season...

Tigers Begin With Midland Lee

MIDLAND–Snyder High School's Tigers begin a 10-game trek in search of a district title that has escaped them since 1974 Friday, as they venture to Memorial Stadium for an 8 p.m. kickoff against Lee's Rebels.

The Tigers, beginning a third year under Coach Mike Jenkins and staff, have been picked second in District 3-3A behind San Angelo Lake View. They don't intend to set their sights that low, however, but Friday's opponent offers a different situation than league play, and the 4A Midland club will be a tough squad to handle.

"If we play well, it's going to be close," commented Jenkins, "and if we play well and get a break or make a break, we'll come home 1-0."

Snyder will enter Friday's arena with seven offensive and two defensive regulars from an equal-to-Midland Lee 5-5 season. The switch of all-district player Scott Crenwelge from tackle to end represents the only major change in returning starters from last year.

"We had some of our younger kids really come through in the line," noted the coach, "and we're going to put Scott on the end for a little more strength."

Taking the 6-3, 215-pounder's job will be Sam Willis or Tommy Peek. Baron Land will take the left offensive tackle spot, while Mitch Mackey will hold down split end responsibilities. Further inside the line, Cary Welsh returns at one guard and C.B. Edmiaston will man the other. Brantley Kitching will plug the center hole.

Snyder expects good things to come from it's offensive backfield. Second-year man Clay Johnson serves as an experienced quarterback, while quick Richard Crayton comes in at tailback. Bobby Degrate will handle fullback chores, and one of three people, David Lee, Bryan Vincent or John Hanson will grab flanker duties.

Defensively, the Cats will have to count on a number of new faces and some double duty. Crenwelge takes left end, and Mike Hicks will be at right. The tackles are Sam Willis and Morris Anderson. Noseguard will be Toby Neves. Baron Land and Wes Partain will serve as left and right linebacker while Rudy Garza and returnee Sid Sullenger man the left and right halfback duties. Mike Forbes will be a strong safety and Richard Crayton will take the other safety slot.

As for the Rebels, who return two on offense and four on defense from 1977, it will be time for a new outlook with a new coach. The Rebels were one of several teams placed on probation last year for using blocking dummies too early in workouts. Presumably, with its season almost over before it began, and no chance of competing in playoff games, Midland Lee preformed below its high preseason rank in 5-4A.

This year, with new coach Gil Bartosh entering the scene, and the probation filled, the Rebels hope for a better future than the pollsters have given them. One man who thinks Lee will do better than a near-last prediction is Tiger Coach Jenkins.

"I believe Midland Lee is going to do real well this year. Playing a tough, physical team like them will make a football team out of you."

Keeping Midland Lee from getting overly physical will be Snyder's job Friday.

"Defensively, we've got to contain their speed and keep them from getting outside. This is what they seem to do the best. They've got two good fast power runners," informed Jenkins.

Jeff McCowan, a 6-1, 200 fullback, leads the Rebels out of the blocks with the veer. He'll be aided by Ricky Johnson at the tailback spot.

"Offensively, we'll throw some on early downs and try to keep their stunting to a minimum," Jenkins said of Midland's 4-3 defense. "We've added a couple of plays where we can run at them a little more. We'll try to keep them honest inside."

Heading up an agressive defense is middle linebacker Rodney Taylor, who Jenkins called "outstanding."

Overall, Jenkins noted his Tigers were ready for the challenge, and were going to take Thursday to do light work.

"The key is for us to get physically ready," he said. "We're tired coming out of three weeks of two-a-days. We'll let up a little and see if we can't get some spring back in our legs."

Mentally, the Tigers are in good shape, indicated the coach.

"As far as mental assignments we're further along than we've ever been since the present coaching staff has been here. It's the first game for both teams and we're not going to look polished and we don't expect them (Midland) too either. Hopefully, the kids will gain some confidence in what we're doing and in their own ability. We want to improve every week. We're better now than we were before our scrimmages, and we're going to get a lot better before it's all over."

Snyder Back For Sonics

SEATTLE (AP)-Veteran guard Dick Snyder is returning to the Seattle SuperSonics.

Snyder, a 12-year veteran of the National Basketball Association who played five seasons for the Seattle team, signed a one-year contract with the Sonics Wednesday.

A Sonic official said the contract contains no guarantee provision.

Snyder played the past four seasons with the Cleveland Cavaliers. Sonic officials said they agreed to give the Cavs two third-round draft choices, one in 1979 and one undetermined, as compensation for signing Snyder as a free agent.

Snyder played in Seattle between 1970 and 1974 before being sent to Cleveland.

Pastorini Suffers Injury

HOUSTON (AP)-Houston Oiler starting quarterback Dan Pastorini suffered bruised ribs in Sunday's 20-14 loss to Atlanta, spent Tuesday night in a hospital for observation and was listed as doubtful for Sunday's game at Kansas City.

If Pastorini can't play Sunday, rookie Gifford Nielsen would get his second chance to start because of a Pastorini injury. Nielsen was impressive during preseason when he led the Oilers to a 27-13 victory over Dallas while Pastorini was sidelined with a hip injury.

Phillips isn't ruling Pastorini out yet however.

"We won't know what to do until Dan gets back and we can see what he can do," Phillips said. "If I know Dan, he's going to want to play but it will depend on what he can do."

Navratilova Makes Semis

NEW YORK - Top-seeded Martina Navratilova defeated Virginia Ruzici of Romania 6-3, 6-2 to advance to the semifinals at the U.S. Tennis Championships Open.

Navratilova joined Chris Evert, who beat Tracy Austin 7-5, 6-1, in the semis.

In the men's singles, No. 5 seed Vitas Gerulaitis advanced to the round of four by crushing Johan Kriek of South Africa 6-2, 6-1, 6-2, while No. 15 John McEnroe bested giant-killer Butch Walts 6-1, 6-2, 7-6.

In doubles action, the American duo of Marty Riessen and Sherwood Stewart ousted Frew McMillan and Bob Hewitt of South Africa 2-6, 6-2, 7-5.

New Conference Considered

ABILENE (AP)-Eight small basketball-conscious universities will meet in Dallas Sept. 19 to discuss joining a new conference.

Dr. Jesse Fletcher, president of Hardin-Simmons here, said the prospective league would also include Oklahoma City; Houston Baptist; Pan American of Edinburg, Texas; Centenary of Shreveport, La.; Northeast Louisiana of Monroe; Samford of Birmingham, Ala.; and Mercer of Macon, Ga.

All of the schools would qualify for the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Division I.

Gridders Ready...

Area Warfare Begins Friday

At least three area schools are in position to make a run for respective district football championships this season, and the action kicks-off Friday at 8 p.m.

Hermleigh, a constant powerhouse in 3-B six-man ball, leads out of the blocks with a trip to Grady, and Coach Clarence Spieker will be looking for the first of a number of wins which will earn him a second title in four years.

The Cards tied for the zone championship with Highland last year, and fortunately brought back most of that talent in 1978. Top competition is expected to come from Trent and Highland.

Looking towards a repeat championship will be Coach Michael Farda's Colorado City bunch. The Wolves got off to a shaky start last time around, and dropped four straight games before humming through the district schedule, 6-0. They'll be hosting Slaton Friday, and will make an effort to repay the Tigers for last year. Slaton went 9-1 in '77, but the loss of 21 starters gives it little experience to work with in 1978.

Coach Don Bagwell's Roby Lions loom as the third hopeful. Gone are running back Brad Stuart and quarterback Ricky King, but Bagwell thinks his lions can roar with the best of them again this time around, and the pollsters obviously do also. They've given Roby the number one rung on the District 3-B ladder.

The Lions will host Aspermont Friday, trying to build percision skills before the league opener which pits them against second-rated Garden City on Oct. 13.

In other contests around the Snyder area, Rotan buses to Spur, Borden County hosts Klondike, Hobbs hosts Weinert and Ira goes to Divide.

While only listed midway in the 8-A preseason standings, Rotan could make some powerful waves. Speedster Fred Acorn, state 100 yard dash winner, highlights a veteran backfield on offense. The Yellowhammers, with Coach Don Mullins at the helm, have a good shot at opening the season with a win against cellar-seeded Spur of District 4-A.

Borden County, rebuilding under a new coaching staff, will have its hands full with fourth-rated (district-wise) Klondike, but a win Friday could boost the Coyotes up to a high level for the following week when they face second-ranked New Home.

That feeling may well prevail at Hobbs, where new coach Mickey Early holds the Panthers on leash this season. Early and company will be trying to prove that their preseason position - sixth - was a mistake.

Finally, and by no means last, Coach Gary Fox will be looking to start - not end the season - with Divide on Friday. His Bulldogs took only two wins in 1978, and one of them was against Divide. Manned with no seniors, but with a talented group of juniors and sophomores, Ira hopes to start opponent's heads spinning...beginning Friday night.

All area games Friday are scheduled to begin at 8 p.m.

The UCLA basketball team won 88 straight games, from Jan. 30, 1971, to Jan. 19, 1974, with the streak finally being ended by Notre Dame.

Australian Cattlemen Invite Nixon To Meet

By EDITH M. LEDERER
Associated Press Writer

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) - The government doesn't want former President Richard Nixon to visit Australia, and neither do most of the newspapers. But the cattlemen want him to come and tell them how to get more of the U.S. market despite the opposition of American beef producers.

The Australian Cattlemen's Union, one of the country's most powerful lobbies, has invited Nixon to speak Sept. 23 to its annual convention at Surfers Paradise, a resort on the Queensland coast about 450 miles north of Sydney.

The union's national director, Barry Cassell, said a telegram inviting Nixon to speak was sent to San Clemente Wednesday following a telephone conversation with one of the former president's aides. He said no reply has been received yet.

"An address by Mr. Nixon would be invaluable because of his knowledge of the United States cattle lobby," said Cassell, He added that the United States is the biggest foreign market for Australian beef, and the American market is highly susceptible to pressure from American cattlemen.

Last week, the conservative government turned down Nixon's request to make an official visit to Australia and meet with Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser. The government said an official visit would be "inopportune" because of other official visits during September and October.

An aide of the ex-president said he planned to come anyway because "scores of Australian citizens" asked him to visit. A government source, who asked not to be identified, said he would be given a tourist visa "provided it's a genuinely private visit." But the federal police were reported worried that they would have trouble protecting him, even on a private visit.

It could not be learned immediately whether the government would consider the visit private if it included a speech to 1,500 cattlemen.

Church Sets Missionary Conference

Trinity-Dunn United Methodist Churches will begin their third Missionary Conference tomorrow evening at the Trinity Church in Cogdell Center.

There will be a carry-in supper at 6 p.m., followed by the main service of the evening at 7:30 p.m.

On Saturday, a men's breakfast is scheduled for 7 a.m. in the fellowship hall and at 10 a.m. there will be coffee sessions in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Max von Roeder, Lamesa Highway, and in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Overhulser, 3712 Austin. A luncheon for women will be held at noon in the fellowship hall. Another carry in supper at 6 p.m. will precede the main service set for 7:30 p.m. in the Sanctuary.

On Sunday, prayer meeting will be held in the sanctuary at 9:30 a.m., followed by Sunday School at 9:45 a.m. and the maining service at 10:55. Lunch will be served at noon, with the Gold Band Class serving as hosts. The Sunday evening service at 7 p.m. will clost the conference.

Visiting missionary teams will be Phil and Jan Thornton, who have been reassigned to Colombia after a homeland assignment as resource leaders for missionary conferences and workshops in the South Region, and Gary and Carol Hetler, who will be going to the mission field in Paraguay.

Yale President CautionsFreshmen

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) - It is his first year as well, but he is the president. So A. Bartlett Giamatti had some advice for the 1,375 members of Yale's freshman class.

Giamatti, chosen last December to succeed Kingman Brewster Jr. as head of the 277-year-old university, cautioned freshmen Monday against "growing isolationism," urging the students to keep the "public interest" in sight while preparing for careers.

"Our New Triple the Difference Policy is Your Guarantee of Low Prices!"

Everybody's talking about low prices, but we're doing something about it! We're so confident you'll save at Piggly Wiggly we guarantee you low prices with our new TRIPLE THE DIFFERENCE POLICY.
Here's how it works. First shop at Piggly Wiggly and buy 25 different grocery items. Then check the prices on the same 25 items at any other store. If their total is lower, bring in your Piggly Wiggly tape and the other store's prices and Piggly Wiggly will pay you TRIPLE THE DIFFERENCE IN CASH.
At Piggly Wiggly we're committed to offering you quality products at competitive prices.
Meat and produce not included as quality and trim may vary from company to company.

Wally Williams, President

Piggly Wiggly is determined to Fight Rising Costs!

To make sure that we are offering you the most competitive grocery prices we have a new team of Price Watchers. Their job is to go from store to store in your town checking our competition's prices to make sure you save storewide at PIGGLY WIGGLY. And meet Penny The Price Watcher. She is the symbol of this new PIGGLY WIGGLY effort. She and her "real life" team stand behind PIGGLY WIGGLY'S continuing drive to give you low prices you can believe in.

Teachers Tend To Homework

By LINDEL HUTSON
Associated Press Writer

Class is still out for half a million students as teachers tend to their own homework - painting picket signs and sharpening pencils for contract negotiating sessions.

Teachers either struck or continued walking the picket line Wednesday in some of the nation's largest districts - Cleveland, Seattle, Chicago and New Orleans. But in Philadelphia, a tentative agreement could send the city's 25,000 pupils back to school.

Strikes were either in effect or threatened by teachers in Washington state, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Louisiana, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Illinois, Massachusetts, Ohio, Indiana, Vermont, California, Idaho, New York and New Jersey.

More pay was the main topic in negotiations with belt-tightening districts, but fringe benefits and a reduced number of pupils per class also were factors in some areas.

Teachers in the debt-ridden, 182-school Cleveland district decided Wednesday to strike after last-minute negotiations failed to resolve employee demands for a 20 percent pay hike.

Classes for the 100,000 public school students had been scheduled to start Friday. Peter Carlin, acting school superintendent, said every attempt would be made to keep schools open, and more talks were set for today.

Cleveland teachers now make between $9,100 and $18,650 a year. They have not had a pay raise in two years, but officials say no funds are available. The district got a $21 million state loan last week to keep the schools operating.

Gail Seniors Elect Officers

GAIL-The senior class at Borden County High School has elected officers for the 1978-79 school year. They are Pennye Thompson, president; Ray Don Underwood, vice president; Vickie Jones, secretary; Lisa McLeroy, treasurer and Rhesa Wolf, reporter.

Student council representatives are Miss Wolf and Sid Westbrook. Senior sponsors are teachers Joe Copeland and Mrs. Netta Brown.

Car In Mishap Was On 25th

Information accompanying a picture of a traffic accident in Wednesday's issue of The Snyder Daily News indicated that a car driven by LaDonna Halford was turning east onto 25th St. from Ave. W when it was in collision with another car. Ms. Halford's car was headed east on 25th St. when the mishap occurred.
