Corn growers hope Demo leaders will reverse trend

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

DIMMITT - A new presidential administration in Washington D.C. should lead to increased corn prices and greater profits for farmers, the head of the Texas Corn Growers Association said Tuesday.

Carl King said during the association's annual meeting here that the corn industry in Texas is not healthy because producers are not getting the prices they need.

Currently, he said, corn is selling at about $2 to $2.20 per bushel, but producers need prices closer to $3 per bushel.

"It doesn't do any good when you've got an administration in Washington that demands low prices," King said, adding that the new Clinton administration will reverse the trend.

"I know they will. It depends on how much."

King, who updated association members on the group's activities over the past year, also assailed the Bush administration's signing of the North American Free Trade Agreement and the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

The two, King said, are not good for agriculture producers and should be rejected by Congress and reworked to include "fair trade" not "free trade."

If NAFTA is approved as currently written, King said, it could mean the demise of the Holly Sugar plant in Hereford and Dimmitt's sweetener plant.

"We're for fair trade, but we're not for this so-called free trade. There's no such animal," he said.

Instead, he said, "start over again, scrap it (NAFTA)."

King said he thinks there is a chance Congress will vote down the agreement and rework it.

In the meeting's afternoon session, Texas Corn Producers Board chairman Bert Williams briefed members on that group's work, noting that money from voluntary set-aside contributions is being used for a number of purposes, including corn research.

"The challenge for us is to try to make some markets for Texas-grown corn continue to grow," Williams said, adding that, while the board is investigating alternative markets such as the rapidly-growing Mexican food market, it also is maintaining work in traditional corn markets as well.

Corn-fed cattle is very important, he said, adding that the export of corn-fed cattle may be very important to the U.S. trade balance.

Before his presentation, Williams recognized former board chairman Weldon Davis, who stepped down from the post during the group's spring meeting last year. Davis was presented with a plaque of appreciation from the board.

Other speakers at the day-long event included David Senter, a Washington consultant, who discussed the Clinton administration's agriculture policy; John Ford, president of Ford Communications and American Corn Growers Association legislative affairs director, who addressed NAFTA and GATT; and Dr. Pat Morrison, area entomologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Lubbock, who spoke on ag chemicals.

Beautification Alliance sets bylaws, goals

Hereford Beautification Alliance elected officers and directors, adopted bylaws and made plans to sponsor several campaigns during a membership meeting Tuesday evening at Hereford Community Center.

Tonya Klueskens was elected as the alliance president. Other officers will be Ruth McSherry, vice president; Kerrie Steiert, secretary; Diane Hoelscher, treasurer; and Jan Furr, executive coordinator.

Other directors elected include Betty Henson, Audine Dettman, Leo Witkowski, Nedra Higginbotham, Bobbye Riddle, Rosemary Thomas, Nell Culpepper, Patrick Hayes, Clint Formby, Pat Reily, Ruth Knox, Terry Bromlow, and Jeff Brown.

The alliance is planning a community survey in February. It will be published in the newspaper and distributed to businesses around town. A public awareness campaign and a clean-up drive are also being planned for the Spring.

The bylaws state the purpose of the organization being "to promote public interest in the general improvement of the environment of the City of Hereford and Deaf Smith County...to initiate, plan and coordinate sustainable programs in order to implement and maintain the Keep Texas Beautiful, Inc., goals

'Robin Hood' system may still face changes in Senate

AUSTIN (AP) - Senators are ready to pass a school funding plan and send the measure to the House, says the Senate Education Committee chairman.

"I think that we're convinced that the sooner we get something over there, the more of a catalyst that will be for them to organize and either consider that or something else," said Sen. Bill Ratliff, R-Mount Pleasant.

House committees haven't yet been appointed, although representatives have been working informally on the school finance issue. House Speaker Pete Laney said he wants to pass a school funding measure in the first 30 days of the regular session, which began Jan. 12.

The Senate Education Committee approved a proposal Tuesday to continue the "Robin Hood" system of redistributing school property tax money within single or multi-county education districts.

But some committee members said they hope to change the proposed constitutional amendment when it's considered by the full Senate, likely on Thursday.

Sen. Jim Turner, D-Crockett, said he wants to add a provision allowing redistribution of local money statewide by the Legislature, giving lawmakers flexibility. Ratliff said he would favor the change.

The Senate Education Committee voted 10-1 for Ratliff's measure, with Sen. Florence Shapiro, R-Plano, opposed. Ms. Shapiro said she's against the "Robin Hood" system and would have liked the committee to look at other options.

Turner said he voted to move Ratliff's bill out of committee, even though he wants to change it, "in the interest of time." Sen. Chris Harris, R-Arlington, said committee members who supported it Tuesday wouldn't necessarily vote for the final measure.

A constitutional amendment requires two-thirds support of the Legislature and approval by voters on a statewide ballot.

Ratliff said lawmakers must approve a constitutional amendment by Feb. 20 for the May 1 ballot to allow time to inform voters and print ballots.

DSGH medical staff approved by board

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

Deaf Smith County Hospital District directors, in regular monthly session Tuesday night, approved staff privileges for a list of physicians recommended by the medical staff; adopted a risk management plan; heard results of a board self-evaluation survey; and reviewed the mission statement and goals for the hospital's strategic plan.

The board also heard reports from Ron Rives, CEO and administrator; Dr. Jesse Perales, chief of staff; Nancy Griego (RN), quality management; Paul Fowler, chief financial officer; and Scott Anderson, quality systems official of Lubbock Methodist.

Physicians reappointed to the medical staff were: Robert Bidwell, family practice; Robert Clark, general surgery; Howard Johnson, family practice; Nadir Khuri, general surgery; Palani Mani, family practice; Ranga Mani, pediatrics; Duffy McBayer, family practice; Gerald Payne, family practice; Jesse Perales, internal medicine. Courtesy privileges were adopted for 11 other physicians from out of town.

Rives reported to the board that renovation proposals for the hospital were still in the planning stages. An architect is working and tentative plans may be finalized in about 30 days. The plans will be presented to the board for approval, then final plans will be submitted for bids.

The board will be studying proposed renovations totaling over $1 million that includes a professional building and therapy department on the east side of the present hospital facility, a dialysis center, and remodeled nurses' station and OB area. The dialysis center is still being studied.

During the operations report, Rives noted that December was the best month in more than a year "as far as utilization of the facilities is concerned." Total inpatient days was 539 for adults and children, compared to 313 the same time a year ago. There were also 86 newborn infants, compared to 35 a year ago.

Average daily census for adults and children was 17.4 in December, compared to 10.1 a year ago.

Average percent of occupancy was 43.4 compared to 25.2 last year at this time. The occupancy rate is 33.8 percent for year-to-date.

The net revenue for patient services was $585,949 in December and operating expenses were $683,086. With tax funds and other non-operating revenue added to the total, a net income of $102,624 was reflected in the statement.

Directors present for the meeting were John Perrin, chairman; Paul Abalos, Dr. Robert Bidwell, Boyd Foster and Merle Clark. Absent were Mal Manchec and Dr. Stan Fry Jr. Several hospital staff members were present.

Texas, other states, agree to pay for errors in food stamps

WASHINGTON (AP) - Twenty-four states, including Texas, have agreed to cut the error rate in their food stamp payments to settle a $301 million dispute with the Agriculture Department.

The settlement calls for 23 states and the District of Columbia to invest 15 percent of the amount being sought by USDA in improvements in the "quality control" systems used to ensure that food stamp payments are accurately made. Alabama will have to pay only 10 percent.

"We believe the government's interest is better served than by long, drawn-out litigation," Andrew Hornsby, deputy administrator of USDA's Food and Nutrition Service, said Tuesday. Hornsby also said Congress could have erased the penalties altogether as it has done once before.

The settlement was reached a week ago, but the Agriculture Department made no announcement. News of the settlement came from state welfare departments.

The claims, made public last December, arose from quality control audits covering fiscal years 1986-1991. The states, represented by the American Public Welfare Association, contend that the procedures used by USDA are seriously flawed.

"This settlement is in no way saying we think the quality control system is right," said Mary Jo Thomas, director of quality control for West Virginia's Department of Health and Human Services and president of the National Association of Human Service Quality Control Directors.

"We felt we needed to get this behind us," she said. "This backlog of sanctions was looming, plus this is reinvested in the program."

USDA finances food stamp benefits and half a state's administrative expenses. The program this year costs $27 billion and is serving about 26 million people.

The states are responsible for issuing the benefits correctly and are held accountable if errors exceed the national average.

Critics say USDA's auditing system does not account for mistakes that have already been corrected and uses too small a sample to be statistically valid.

New York had the highest penalty, at $112 million. Ohio owed $29.2 million, and California and Georgia each owed more than $26 million.

The other states involved, with their sanctions:

Alabama, $7 million; Arizona, $3.1 million; Florida, $6.3 million; Indiana, $11.2 million; Iowa, $1.1 million; Louisiana, $14.5 million; Massachusetts, $8 million; Minnesota, $269,296; Nebraska, $1.7 million; New Mexico, $3.5 million; New Hampshire, $75,634; North Carolina, $2 million.

Oklahoma, $9.8 million; South Carolina, $14.8 million; Tennessee, $3.4 million; Texas, $7 million; Vermont, $41,746; Washington, $2.5 million; West Virginia, $5.2 million; Wisconsin, $3.6 million. For the District of Columbia, it was $1.5 million.

Deposits at local banks show rise

Deposits at Hereford's two banks totaled $154.6 million at the close of business Dec. 31, 1992, according to statements recently published in The Brand. The total was up more than $5 million over the same time a year ago.

First National Bank had deposits of $82.3 million on the yearend statement. That was an increase of almost $3.2 million over last year at this time. Loans totaled $40.5 million, and assets were listed at $93.2 million.

Hereford State Bank had deposits of $72.3 million at the end of 1992. That total was up $2.4 million over yearend 1991. Loans at HSB on Dec. 31 were $37.4 million, up $1 million over last year. Assets were listed at $79.3 million.

Hereford Texas Federal Credit Union also released its yearend figures. Deposits totaled $24.8 million, and loans were listed at $10.8 million.

Couple fights over $1 million lottery win

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - A Kerrville couple are suing each other over the $1 million the wife won last year in the Texas Lottery, a newspaper has reported.

James Strickland, 52, has obtained a temporary injunction prohibiting his wife, Cynthia, from spending the remnants of her winnings, which she won last fall in the instant lottery game.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Strickland, 35, has filed for divorce from her husband whom she accuses of being an alcoholic and abusive.

The two meet in court next week at a hearing before State District Judge Karl Prohl hearing next Tuesday to consolidate the two actions.

Neither the Stricklands nor their attorneys could be reached by the San Antonio Express-News Tuesday for comment. Kerrville is about 50 miles northwest of San Antonio.

Court papers filed by Strickland show his wife had spent much of the $800,000 in the net payoff of her lottery winnings and that she refuses to disclose what the money was used for or how much remains.

Within a week after he obtained the injunction Jan. 13, Mrs. Strickland filed for divorce, accusing her husband of being an alcoholic, of abusing her and their two boys.

The Stricklands have been married since Oct. 20, 1979.

In his petition for a temporary injunction, James Strickland said he and his wife purchased numerous lottery tickets with community funds, adding that his wife's name was written on all of the tickets.

On Nov. 19, she was declared the winner of $1 million and received a check for $800,000 that was placed in her bank accounts and into her investments because of her husband's life-threatening medical condition, the petition states.

She won the money in a drawing in Sherman, and told officials at the time that she was unemployed and would use the money for her children.

The Stricklands orally agreed to decide jointly on any disposition of the proceeds, Strickland states in his complaint.

Local man shot in Amarillo fight

A Hereford man was listed in critical but stable condition today in Amarillo's St. Anthony's Hospital after he was shot early this morning at an Amarillo motel.

Santos Liscano Jr., 19, of 407 Ross St., was listed in stable condition in the hospital's intensive care unit after he was shot three times in an altercation police say was involved a girlfriend.

According to police reports, officers were called to the Ward Motel, 4600 Amarillo Blvd. East, at 3:40 a.m., where they discovered Liscano lying in front of Apt. D-4. Reports said it was believed Liscano and a 28-year-old man were arguing about a girlfriend when the man shot Liscano three times with a .22-caliber pistol.

He suffered two gunshot wounds to the chest and one to the wrist. The man was arrested and booked into the Potter County Jail on a charge of aggravated assault.

A hospital spokeswoman said Liscano was conscious and talking with his nurses this morning, but was still being treated in the ICU.

Liscano is a 1992 graduate of Hereford High School and played on the football team.

State court eyes home schooling

By CHIP BROWN
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) - The courtroom resembled a playground setting when the Texas Supreme Court heard arguments over the state's right to regulate home schools.

Dozens of parents and their children, many of whom were scribbling in coloring books, listened Tuesday as attorneys argued over the rights of parents to teach their kids at home without interference from the state.

state.

"I know what's best for my children academically and emotionally," said Maureen Arnold, who brought her 9- and 10-year-old sons from their home near San Antonio to watch the court proceedings.

"I want my rights to teach my kids protected," Mrs. Arnold said.

Home schools account for the education of an estimated 30,000 children in Texas, according to reports.

At issue is the compulsory attendance law, which requires school-age children to attend public, private or parochial school.

Home school advocates say their residences basically are private schools and therefore already comply with the law.

The state says there is a difference between home schools and private schools, and that education officials should be allowed to set minimum standards for home schools.

The Supreme Court issued no immediate ruling and took the question under consideration.

James Todd, an assistant state attorney general, said the state wants to protect children from isolated cases of abuse by parents who "disguised their home as a school."

"What we want to know is if the children at home are indeed at school," Todd told the justices.

Todd argued the state should have access to the homes to determine if health and safety codes are being met and if a suitable curriculum is being taught.

"We simply want to set some reasonable guidelines as to whether the home school exists," Todd told the court.

Attorney Shelby Sharpe, representing parents who teach their children at home, says the state has no right to interfere with them.

"The state has no statutory authority to enforce guidelines in home schools," he said. "If the Supreme Court simply looks at the law, this case is a slam dunk."

The dispute dates back to the 1980s, when the state tried to prosecute some home-school parents for violating Texas' compulsory school attendance law.

The State Board of Education adopted guidelines in 1986 requiring home schools to follow health and safety codes, provide a curriculum that meets basic educational needs, and give students standardized tests once a year.

The case now before the state Supreme Court went to trial in 1985. The home schoolers won in district court and in the 2nd Court of Appeals in Fort Worth.

The lower courts said the home schools should be considered private schools. They prohibited state officials from filing charges accusing parents of trying to thwart the attendance law. They also ordered the state to pay home schoolers' attorney fees of $360,000.

The Texas Education Agency and attorney general's office appealed.

Agents monkey with Mexicans seeking gorilla

MIAMI (AP) - A Mexican zoo official and four others who allegedly tried to obtain a gorilla illegally instead bought a U.S. agent in an ape suit.

The five people wound up caged at a federal lockup.

Authorities set up the sting after getting a tip from a Miami primate dealer about a Mexican effort to obtain an ape for a zoo where a gorilla had died.

U.S. agents posing as illegal dealers showed the men gorillas, orangutans and chimpanzees at Miami-area zoos and convinced the men that the zookeepers had been bribed to sell the animals. The men allegedly paid $92,500 for a gorilla.

"We agreed to provide them with the animals with false permits," Assistant U.S. Attorney Dan Gelber said Tuesday. "It was very clear that it's illegal to send these animals without proper documents and permits."

Next, an agent in gorilla suit was put in a cage at the Opa-Locka airport, where Victor Bernal, director of parks and zoos for the state of Mexico, was arrested with two Mexican middlemen when they took delivery Monday, Gelber said.

"It's risky and dangerous to use a real animal, so we had to use a willing substitute - an agent in a gorilla outfit," Gelber said.

Miami MetroZoo curator Ron Magill said, "I'm really surprised anyone could be that gullible. But they fell for it. It just goes to show money doesn't equate with intelligence."

Arrested were Bernal, 57, Eduardo Berges, 31, Jose Luis Alcerreca, 45, and two women who accompanied them, Maria Villada, 29, and Margarita Barrera, 44.

They were charged with trafficking in primates in violation of federal laws protecting endangered species.

They were jailed on bail ranging from $100,000 to $250,000.

Berges told the U.S. primate dealer that a gorilla at the Toluca zoo had died and that the state governor wanted a replacement quickly, authorities said.

The office of Gov. Ignacio Pichardo Pagaza did not immediately return a call Tuesday.

High court stalls murderer's death

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) - A Mexican national scheduled for execution early today for killing a Dallas police officer 10 years ago won a reprieve from the U.S. Supreme Court.

Ramon Montoya, 39, was spared about seven hours before he was to receive lethal injection for the 1983 shooting death of Dallas Officer John Pasko.

On Monday, the high court had ruled against Texas inmates in two significant capital murder cases that should make it easier for the state to put convicted-killers to death. With those cases in mind, state attorneys had expressed confidence Montoya would be executed.

"I don't know what's going on," Bill Zapalac, an assistant attorney general who handles capital cases, said after learning of the high court's decision Tuesday night in the Montoya appeal.

The reprieve was issued by Justice Antonin Scalia, who referred Montoya's petition to the full court for consideration. Scalia's brief order said the stay would remain in effect until the justices decide whether the inmate's request deserves a hearing before the court.

In the appeal that went to the high court Monday, Montoya contended his confession was the result of police interrogation that violated his right to have an attorney present.

"Oh, God. What can I say?" Kay Pasco, of Adel, Iowa, the slain officer's mother, said when told of the reprieve. "Why didn't they bring this up a couple of years ago?"

Montoya's case had prompted requests from the Mexican government and from representatives of the Vatican who wanted Texas officials to stop the execution.

Pasco, 27, was shot in the head as he was trying to disarm Montoya at the climax of a foot chase. Police records indicated Montoya was trying to avoid a 12th arrest in eight years and possible deportation to Mexico.

Montoya would have been the first inmate to be put to death in Texas this year. The 54 executions carried out since 1982 make the state the most active in the nation among states with the death penalty.

State Capital

HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN - To meet a court-imposed deadline of June 1, state lawmakers apparently have cast aside partisan politics and are working with less gridlock to reform public school finance.

If true, it couldn't come at a better time. The Legislature has flunked four attempts to distribute state funds equally among public school districts.

Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and Senate Education chairman Bill Ratliff, R-Mount Pleasant, last week unveiled the latest model for reform, which Bullock called "failproof."

By "failproof," Bullock means this plan will prevent an Austin state district judge from closing all public schools in June, but there's another dimension to that word.

It also means Democrats and Republicans will come together in a two-thirds majority necessary to place a constitutional amendment on the May ballot for voter approval.

Republican-Democrat Plan

Gov. Ann Richards' special session in November failed miserably because of political gridlock; and some blamed it on partisan squabbling, but that's not entirely true. There simply was no consensus to begin with, not even among Democrats.

Bullock, a shrewd Democrat, got the message; he picked Ratliff, a highly respected Republican, to chair the key committee. Now it's a bi-partisan plan from the start, something that rank-and-file legislators might buy.

Put simply, Ratliff's bill calls for a constitutional amendment to legalize county education districts. The CEDs, some multi-county in size, will levy a tax and share it with all public schools in the CED.

If voters reject the amendment, then voters in each CED will also vote on whether to authorize the CED property tax.

If both proposals are nixed by voters in a particular county, that CED will spend no more than $3,470 per student.

Laney Okays House Reform

Meanwhile, House Speaker Pete Laney continued to receive plaudits from members on both sides of the aisle for endorsing sweeping changes in the way the House of Representatives conducts business.

Laney, D-Hale Center, stunned some colleagues by agreeing to changes in House rules that even his critics say will open the chamber to more public scrutiny and fewer legislative logjams.

The proposed changes include new parliamentary rules to ease the crush of bills in the final three days of a legislative session and to ensure that the powerful Calendars Committee conducts business in the open.

"Only Richard Nixon could have gone to (Communist) China; only Pete Laney could have reformed the Texas House," said Rep. Glen Maxey, D-Austin.

No More 3-day Bills?

In previous sessions, more than half the bills passed by the House were passed in the final three days, because of parliamentary deadlines. Under the proposed rules, deadlines would kick in 17 days before the end of a 140-day regular session.

Laney has agreed that the Calendars Committee, where bills traditionally were killed or allowed to languish in private, must vote publicly on each bill within 30 days of receiving it.

Other provisions of the reform measure, which the House considered late last week, include:

■ The speaker will appoint only half, instead of all, of the members of the Appropriations Committee, including its chairman and vice chairman. Seniority will determine the other members.

■ Non-local bills must get final House approval 17 days before the end of the session. Final passage of Senate bills must take place in the House at least six days before the end of the session.

■ Only conference committee reports and Senate amendments may be considered on the fourth and fifth days before the end of a session.

■ On the second and third days before the session's end, the House will limit itself to conference committee reports.

'Revolving Door' Bill

State Sen. David Sibley, R-Waco, has accepted the state prison board's request to halt the revolving-door policy for employees at Texas' parole agency.

Sibley said his office is drafting a bill that would prohibit agency employees from representing convicts in parole hearings for two years after the employees leave the agency.

The Texas Board of Criminal Justice unanimously endorsed passage of a "revolving door" bill recently.

The decision came shortly after federal officials in Waco charged former parole board chairman James Granberry with lying under oath about the extent of his parole consulting activities.

"We're concerned about someone using the good ol' boy network, and that's what this bill is designed to stop," Sibley said.

Other Highlights

■ With drastic budget cuts facing lawmakers and essential services at risk, State Comptroller John Sharp will begin this week disclosing 192 recommendations designed to reduce the state budget by more than $3 billion. "What we are recommending is better than kicking a bunch of old folks out of nursing homes," he said.

■ Responding to educators who support a state income tax to ease budget problems, Lt. Gov. Bullock said: "An income tax is about as likely as the Red Sea opening up and engulfing Texas."

Mummies No Dummies

ESSEX, Conn. (AP) - It may be news to today's sun worshippers that the sun causes premature skin wrinkling, but older civilizations came to this realization thousands of years ago.

When the ancient Egyptians settled into an agricultural life, they developed special cosmetics to guard against the harmful effects of the sun, according to dermatology specialists. These included ointments for the skin and special pastes to protect the eyes.

So while it may appear strange to us that their paintings depict young children with heavy makeup on their eyes, the truth is that careful parents of the time applied the cosmetics to protect their children's eyes from the glare of the sun.

Christine Larson of Bippus Club; Vernice Parsons, Cultural Club; Maudette Smith, Ford Club; Edna Schultz, North Hereford Club; Coreen Odum, Wyche Club; and Carolyn Evers, Westway Club. The presentation will be made by The Hereford Brand during the Annual Appreciation Luncheon scheduled at noon Monday, Feb. 22, at the Hereford Community Center.

Also, nominees for the upcoming district meeting were named. They include Lou Hall, Jewell Hargrave, Sherrie Blackwell, Maudette Smith and Jo Lee.

It was announced that Southwestern Public Service will sponsor several upcoming programs. "Fast Food for Fast People" will be presented at 1:30 p.m. April 27 and the Festive Foods program will be held at 1:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. Nov. 9. Call the Deaf Smith County Extension office for additional information.

Deaf Smith County Extension Homemakers Council members will cater the Annual Camp Fire Banquet Feb. 9 at the Hereford Community Center. Those wishing to volunteer their services are asked to call Johnnie Messer.

Recognized as special guests at the council meeting were Alta Mac Higgins, Nell Pope, Vernice Parsons and Christine Larson.

Representatives of the Bippus E.H. Club, who served as hostesses for the council meeting, gave the opening exercise, "Old Glory", which was a tribute to the American flag.

There were eight extension clubs represented at the council meeting with seven having 100 percent attendance.

Joint program given to Bay View members

Deaf Smith County Library employees, Rebecca Walls and Joe Weaver, presented joint programs for members of Bay View Study Club when the group met recently in the Heritage Room of the library.

Weaver, who has been associated with the library as assistant director for approximately one year, gave a program entitled "Discover Columbus in America." Dressed as Vicente Pinzon, captain of the Pinta, he gave a first-hand account of the journey which resulted in the discovery of America.

In addition, Weaver told of Christopher Columbus' background, the planning and funding of the journey, and other interesting information which he had thoroughly researched in preparing this program. He has presented the program to approximately 3,000 persons, including all of the elementary schools and several high school classes.

Walls, who has been employed at the library for 15 years and has served as librarian since 1988, gave a slide show which was obtained from the DAR organization. She informed the group that there are descendants of Columbus living in Pennsylvania who have established the Boal Family Museum on the Boal Estate in Boalsburg, Pa. Walls explained that the original house and the large wings which were added later are still on the estate.

David Boal, an Irishman, fought in the Revolutionary War and following the war, he was awarded land in Penn's Valley as payment for his service. Approximately 100 years later, Terry Boal married a descendant of Christopher Columbus. The Spanish government offered him the castle in Spain that had been given to Columbus following his discovery voyages. Boal declined the offer but he did visit it.

Walls continued, "On Boal's return to Pennsylvania, he built a replica of the castle chapel using materials, decor, furnishings and artifacts from the original. It currently houses a large collection of papers dating from 1451-1902." Microfilm of these papers is available at Pennsylvania State University.

During the business meeting with Mrs. Juston McBride presiding, members voted to contribute $100 toward the purchase of a video camera for the library which is a Friends of the Library project.

A note from Mrs. Will S. Kerr submitting her resignation was read and accepted with regret. The long-time active member was recognized for her many years of contribution to the club.

Elected to serve on the nominating committee were Mmes. D.N. Garner, W.J. Gilliland and N.C. Hays.

Following the program, Mrs. J.A. Burran served refreshments to those present: Mmes. Dudley Bayne, Charles Bell, R.H. Caviness, W.L. Davis, R.W. Eades, Wesley Fisher, Alton Fraser, Garner, Don Graham, Hays, Charlie Holt, Bob Josseland, McBride, Trow Mims, Carroll Newsom, Austin Rose, Paul Scott, J.R. Allison, Howard Gault and Gilliland.

One of the advantages of being is orderly is that one is constantly making exciting discoveries.

No man who is occupied in doing a very difficult task, and doing it very well, ever loses his self-respect.

Grid legend speaks in Hereford

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

As fast as record books change, it's a tribute to Dick Todd that his name still appears in at least three of them half a century after his playing days were over.

Todd, who was in Hereford Tuesday to speak to the Golden K Kiwanis club, was a star halfback in the 1930s and '40s in high school at Crowell, in college at Texas A&M, and in the pros with the Washington Redskins.

Some things have changed since Todd played.

"When I went up there (to Washington, D.C.), I made $3,500," he told the roomful of Kiwanis--and more guests than usual. "They never did pay much when I was there--not because I didn't do much. But I think they were really good to me."

He played for the Redskins for eight seasons--1939-42 and 1945-48, interrupted by a stint in the Navy--and coached for several more seasons, first as offensive backfield coach and then as head coach.

During his Navy duty, he played football for Great Lakes Naval Station. Those teams played the great college teams and finished in the Associated Press Top 20 both of Todd's years.

Todd was a member of the 1942 Washington team that won an NFL championship, beating the Chicago Bears 14-6 in the championship game.

"When we played Chicago, at that time they had two tackles--you had to run around end every time."

One year, he received a trophy as the best player in the NFL, he said. He had punt returns of 80 and 78 yards which still stand as the third- and fifth-longest in Redskins history, according to a 1991 article in the Washington Post.

"We had pretty good ball clubs at times," he said. "They did the best for me. I've never had anybody greater than they were to me."

His roommate with the Redskins was none other than Slingin' Sammy Baugh, who is now a member of the Hall of Fame.

"Sam was really a good ballplayer and a good friend," Todd said.

In high school at Crowell, Todd was a scoring machine. The 664 points he scored from 1931-34 stands

Todd speaks to Golden K Kiwanis

Hereford's Leo Witkowski (left) stands with former Washington Redskins star Dick Todd after Todd spoke to the Golden K Kiwanis Club Tuesday at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center. Todd, who was a grid star at Crowell and at Texas A&M, ran on the Aggie sprint relay team with Witkowski in 1937.

as the sixth best total in American high school history, according to the National High School Sports Record Book.

That puts him close behind such legends as Ken Hall, the "Sugarland Express," (899 points) and current Baylor fullback Robert Strait of Cuero. Todd scored 16 points more than a kid from Florida named Emmitt Smith (Pensacola Escambia High School). Smith will lead the Dallas Cowboys into the Super Bowl Sunday.

Todd's 53 touchdowns in 1934 is also the sixth best single-season total, and his 105 career TDs is seventh.

Todd's playing skill remains in the memories of those who heard about him, saw him play or played against him.

"I played for Chillicothe (against Crowell) in 1933, and I was a safety," Raymond Higginbotham told the group at the Golden K meeting. "I know where all those points came from. I never did catch him."

Todd lettered in football at A&M for three years--'36, '37 and '38--and captained the '38 team. His teams had good-to-mediocre records under Coach Homer Norton, and he graduated before the 1939 season, when A&M went 11-0 and won the national championship.

"We worked very hard at football," he said. "(though) it didn't seem we could do much to beat anybody."

He was a star at A&M, just one step below teammates such as John Kimbrough, Joe Rount and Joe Boyd--all three All-America selections. Todd was a first-team All-Southwest Conference selection at halfback in '37 and '38. His 72-yard punt return against SMU in 1937 is the sixth-longest in Aggie history.

He was inducted into the Texas A&M Athletic Hall of Fame in 1966, the third year inductions were made.

He also ran track at A&M. He made the sprint relay team as a sophomore and ran with Leo Witkowski, who was then a senior. Witkowski, a Hereford resident, brought Todd up from Crowell to speak to the Kiwanis.

"In the 100-yard dash, if you didn't get a start, you could hardly ever beat him," Witkowski said. "For 25 yards, there wasn't anybody who could beat him. He could stop and he could start; that's what made him a good ballplayer."

Caprock sweeps Herd

Both of Hereford's basketball teams got outscored badly early at Caprock Tuesday, and both went on to losses.

The District 1-4A leading Caprock boys led 14-3 after a quarter and 30-12 at the half, and Hereford never got close to catching up, finally losing 62-36.

The Caprock girls led 17-8 after a quarter and 30-16 at the half. Hereford couldn't make up any ground in the second half and lost 62-47.

The Hereford boys fell to 1-4 in district and 7-15 overall. Caprock remains undefeated in district play at 4-0. The Longhorns are 16-9 overall.

"We shot the ball very poorly," Hereford boys' coach Joe Main said. "We got down and never did get it back. We shot as poorly as we have this season and that's essentially the story of the game."

Hereford hit less than one-third of its shots (15-of-46), including 1-of-10 from three-point distance. They hit 5-of-13 free throws.

"We played pretty hard and played pretty good defense, but like I've said before: It's hard to keep them from scoring when you don't score."

Jason Colston led the team with nine points, and Richard Sandersen added eight. Javier Fiero led Caprock with 26 points.

In the girls' game, Hereford coach Loy Triana said the game plan was to put pressure on Caprock with the press, but that didn't work.

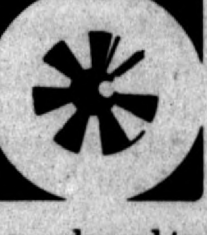

"We didn't play very good defense," he said. "(Also) we had a lot of second opportunities at the basket and didn't take advantage of those situations."

Stephanie Wilcox led Hereford with 10 points and Misty Dudley added eight. For Caprock, Cindy Hayes scored 15 and Mindy Montano had 14.

The Lady Whitefaces still are looking for their first win in six district games. They are 3-18 overall. Caprock is 3-3 and 7-17.

In other District 1-4A games, the Randall girls stayed unbeaten at 6-0

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Question No. 1 for Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson this week was one about his hair, with a followup about his spray. Question No. 2 was about his pet goldfish. Here we go. The Super Bowl hype is off and running.

On Tuesday, a bevy of models promoting a press conference circulated around game headquarters wearing thigh-high dresses that were designed as facsimiles of the sponsor's beer can labels.

When the Buffalo Bills and Dallas Cowboys arrived at Dodger Stadium for their Photo Day interviews, they found some 500 people sitting in the upper deck, cheering on cue for an unrelated commercial.

This, remember, is Hollywood, the land of make-believe, a perfect place for the Super Bowl.

The Los Angeles Police Department provided motorcycle escorts for a dozen or so busloads of media, shutting down freeway traffic at one point and creating instant gridlock for rush-hour drivers.

Hey, this not just any old football game. This is the Super Bowl, a larger than life adventure for all concerned.

That was obvious Tuesday when the players arrived for photo day equipped with - what else? - cameras. "Five or 10 years from now, this will be neat to have," Dallas center Dale Hellestrae said.

They took pictures of each other, pictures of the upper deck fans and pictures of the media.

Well, not all the media. Most of them zeroed in on MTV's Downtown Julie Brown, who arrived with the rest of the 1,000 or so writers and broadcasters.

She was easy to pick out, dressed in black leather slacks, a fishnet top and the only black derby in the crowd.

Lights, camera, action.

HERD

with a 64-33 shellacking of Pampa (3-3), while Borger (4-2) squeaked past Dumas (2-4) by three points, 60-57. In boys games, Pampa (3-1) beat Randall (2-2) 73-62, and Borger (2-2) whipped Dumas (0-4) 62-26.

Hereford hosts Randall Friday. The girls take on the No. 2 Lady Raiders at 6 p.m., and the boys play at 7:30, both in Whiteface Gymnasium. The Lady Raiders (19-4) are ranked second only to Levelland in Class 4A by the Texas Association of Basketball Coaches.

In three sub-varsity games Tuesday at Caprock, Hereford got two wins.

The girls' junior varsity won 44-

22, getting 10 points from Kit Jones. "They played really well," Triana said, adding that the JV's offense was improving in particular.

The sophomore boys led the Caprock boys by about five for pretty much the whole game, and they held on for a 60-59 win, coach Key Harrison said.

The high scorers for the sophomores were Raymond Alaniz with 14; Keith Barrett with 11; and Wade Backus and Terrance High with nine each.

The boys' JV lost 62-56. Hereford allowed five points in the second quarter, but gave up 20, 20 and 17 in the other three. Elijah Walker led Hereford with 11 points.

Southwest Outdoors

with Mel Phillips

Good news--The days are getting longer and the winter of 92-93 will soon be just a memory. It's part of the annual ritual that winter cannot end until the serious outdoorsman develops a bad case of cabin fever and starts day-dreaming about going fishing and hunting. The dreams can be enhanced by attending a good RV, boat and travel show.

Start making you plans to attend Outdoor World '93, scheduled for Valentine's weekend, February 12-14, at the Amarillo Civic Center. Last year's show entertained and delighted some 15,000 people. This year's show finds exhibitor space increased by 35 percent. In fact, it takes the entire Civic Center to house "the largest sportsman exposition between Dallas and Denver."

If your winter fantasies include Alaska, Outdoor World features Mel Gillis from Anchorage. Mel leads a world class hunting operation that includes trophy 10x10 bear, huge caribou and Alaskan salmon that will take your breath away. Stop by his booth or attend one of his seminars and learn more about the biggest state in the union.

During the past three years, Outdoor World has quickly established a new standard for family fun and entertainment for future boat and RV shows. This sportsman show features fishing and hunting seminars that start every 30 minutes at one of two specially designed seminar centers. All seminars are free with admission to the show. Adults get in for $4, children 6-12 years old pay $1, and all kids younger than six years get in free.

Two Canadian visitors hail from Big Sand Lake Lodge. Formed as a joint venture between the Canadian government and the local Indian tribes, Big Sand is headed up by trapper Don McVea and offers an incredible stay in a magnificent handmade log mansion. Superb accommodations, fabulous fishing and outstanding hunting should attract lots of interest from the expected 20,000 visitors to Outdoor World '93.

More information next week on the seminars about having more fun catching bass, walleye and even crappie.

Mel Phillips is an award-winning member of the Texas Outdoor Writers Association. He is an avid hunter, tournament fisherman and host of a Wednesday evening talk show on KGNC TalkRadio 71.

Dallas safety Kenny Gant demonstrated the Shark, the team's big play celebration dance, for her. "There's no right way and no wrong way to do it," he explained. "You just do it."

Teammate Issiac Holt danced with Brown, although it was unclear whether they were doing the Shark or some other ritual. Gant, lugging a microphone around for KDFW, Channel 4 in Dallas, had no time for an evaluation or explanation.

Buffalo linebacker Carlton Bailey took pictures of Brown, then posed with teammates Keith Goganious and Richard Harvey for her. "Don't pay attention to him," Bailey said of Goganious. "He's a rookie."

Harvey sneered at teammates running around with fancy video equipment. He brought an old-fashioned, one-picture-at-a-time camera.

"This is image," he explained. "This involves the imagination. With this, you must imagine what is to the

Then the artist went to work, clicking away with the camera in his right hand and trying to figure out how to turn on the tape recorder in his left.

There was an occasional crisis. Hellestrae and Buffalo linebacker

Mark Maddox had the same problem, one the media throngs in this computer age could understand.

Dead batteries. Harvey chuckled at the crisis. His camera had no batteries and no crisis. Now, if he could just find the on-off switch on the tape recorder.

Jazz takes Portland loss out on Cavaliers

By The Associated Press

The Utah Jazz don't take too kindly to losing at home, and the Cleveland Cavaliers paid for it.

Karl Malone had 28 points and 13 rebounds Tuesday night when the Jazz came back from Sunday's loss to Portland at the Delta Center with a 113-96 rout of the Cavs.

"This has got to be the best we've played as a team for 48 minutes this year," Malone said. "We needed a win like this. If nothing else, we proved we can beat a really good team. We proved some things to ourselves."

After the 124-113 loss to Portland ended a 13-game home winning streak, Malone said he and his teammates couldn't wait to get back to their home floor. Utah's 121-104 defeat at Cleveland on Dec. 19 provided another incentive.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was New York 98, Philadelphia 90; New Jersey 106, the Los Angeles Lakers 91; Washington 104, Miami 102 in overtime; Orlando 120, Atlanta 106; Milwaukee 100, Houston 86; Chicago 123, Dallas 88; and Portland 143, Golden State 133.

Jeff Malone scored 16 points and John Stockton had 14 points, 14 assists and four steals for the Jazz, who led 62-48 at halftime and by 20 points in the third quarter, then survived Cleveland reserve Terrell Brandon's big fourth quarter.

Brandon scored 17 of his career-high 21 points in the final period and hit 10 of 14 shots in the game.

Stockton had three field goals and two assists to give the Jazz a 20-point lead early in the third quarter. Cleveland got no closer than 13 after that despite Brandon's eight field goals and a free throw in the fourth quarter.

Cleveland, playing without forward Mike Sanders because of an arm injury, got subpar performances from its top three players - Brad Daugherty, Mark Price and Larry Nance. Price was 1 for 10 from the field and scored three points. Daugherty scored 14 points on 5-for-13 shooting and Nance was in foul trouble early.

Trail Blazers 143, Warriors 133

Portland, stung by allegations of sexual misconduct by some of its players, beat visiting Golden State for its sixth consecutive victory.

Clyde Drexler had 31 points and 10 assists and three other Trail Blazers scored more than 20 points.

Chris Mullin scored 31 points and Latrell Sprewell a career-high 27 for the Warriors.

Cliff Robinson finished with 26 points, Terry Porter 25 and Rod Strickland 21 for Portland, which made 61 percent of its shots.

Bulls 123, Mavericks 88

Eight Chicago players scored in double figures and the Bulls led by as many as 44 points at Dallas.

Scottie Pippen and Stacey King scored 19 points each and Michael Jordan had 15 in just 27 minutes as the Bulls handed the Mavericks their 34th loss in 37 games.

Nets 106, Lakers 91

Chuck Daly became the 15th NBA coach to win his 500th game as New Jersey won at home.

The victory came easily after the Nets went on a 16-6 third-quarter spurt for a 66-55 lead. The Lakers, outbounded 65-44, got no closer than nine points the rest of the way.

Kenny Anderson led New Jersey with 28 points.

Knicks 98, 76ers 90

New York won for the 17th time in 20 games at home behind Patrick Ewing's 26 points and 21 rebounds against Philadelphia.

The Knicks, who won their fourth straight game, led just 48-47 early in the second half before Charles Oakley scored eight of his season-high 12 points during a 19-6.

Magic 120, Hawks 116

Shaquille O'Neal had 26 points and 12 rebounds and Tom Tolbert established season highs with 24 points and 16 rebounds for Orlando against visiting Atlanta.

The Magic, who got 112 points from their five starters, finished the first quarter with a 15-4 run for a 30-19 advantage and led by at least four points the rest of the way.

Bullets 104, Heat 102, OT

At Landover, Md., Washington handed Miami its fifth straight defeat in overtime this season as Michael Adams scored 25 points, including the game-winning layup with 1.9 seconds left.

Bucks 100, Rockets 86

Blue Edwards' 24 points boosted Milwaukee over Houston, ending the Bucks' franchise-record six-game home losing streak.

A three-point play by Edwards with 5:59 left in the third quarter put the Bucks in front 57-55, giving them a lead they never relinquished.

Red Raiders upset No. 25 UH

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Texas Tech coach James Dickey had nothing but high praise for his team after the Red Raiders upset the Houston Cougars, who had moved into The Associated Press Top 25 poll earlier in the week.

Lance Hughes scored 27 points and Will Flemons made two clutch free throws with 8 seconds left Tuesday night to give the Red Raiders a 78-74 upset victory over the Cougars, who had been undefeated in Southwest Conference play.

Texas Tech (9-6, 1-4 SWC) made 8 of 15 3-pointers, compared to 4 of 15 for Houston (11-3, 4-1), which has made the long range jumper its trademark this season.

"To say that we needed that one would be a huge understatement," said Tech head coach James Dickey, whose club's started at 0-4 after being picked to be contenders in the SWC.

"Will played hard and worked hard the whole game, even though we weren't getting the ball to him very much," Dickey said. "Lance needed to step his game up and he really did a great job. Obviously our freshmen played well too."

Hughes hit four 3-pointers and was 9 for 15 overall from the field. He also made two free throws with 69 seconds to play, breaking a 70-70 tie, then stole the ball and drove for a layup with 45 seconds remaining to hike the lead to 74-70.

Charles Outlaw cut the margin to 74-72 with 23 seconds left, but Lenny Holly's two free throws gave Tech a four-point advantage again.

"We've been working on our free throws a lot lately," Holly said. "Charles Outlaw is awfully intimidating. Coach told us just to relax and take it to him. We felt that if we could cut down on turnovers in the second half that we could win this game."

Anthony Goldwire, who led the Cougars with 21 points, brought Houston to within two points again at 76-74 with 17 seconds left, but Flemons was fouled and made both free throws to wrap up the victory.

Flemons led both teams in rebounds with 10. It was his eighth double-double of the season.

It was Houston's first game since breaking into The AP Top 25 on Monday.

"I was saying Houston deserved to be ranked and they already were. I think they are very deserving of that because they have a great basketball team and I want to give them a lot of credit. I really was proud of the way our guys responded in the game," Dickey said.

Houston coach Pat Foster agreed.

"This was a great game. Texas Tech deserved to win. They really played well," Foster said. "The difference in the game was that they really out-rebounded us really bad and scored a lot of second half points. Our forwards never seemed to get in the flow of the game. They really were beaten on the boards tonight."

Induction plan announced from Cowgirl Hall of Fame

The National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center announces the honorees to be inducted for 1993.

Two women will be inducted as Cowgirl Honorees. They are Dorothy Tomlinson Satterfield of Tucson, Arizona and Janet M. Alley Youren of Garden Valley, Idaho.

Satterfield performed in rodeo as a trick rider, barrel racer and in the quadrille in the early days of the Girls Rodeo Association. Today she is active breeding, raising and showing champion Quarter Horses, qualifying for world champion competitions.

Youren is a world champion rough stock competitor in rodeo, riding bareback broncs and bulls and competing in a discontinued event in women's rodeo, steer undecorating. Her community involvements include being a coordinator for Garden Valley's centennial in 1990 and putting on a historical pageant featuring the settling of Garden Valley.

The two women to be inducted as Western heritage honorees are Wilma Mankiller of Tahlequah, Oklahoma and Gertrude Maxwell of Elk City, Idaho.

Mankiller is the principal chief of the Cherokee Nation since 1985. She models enablement for her people and imbues in them a sense of unity and self-worth. Her goal is—that the Cherokee Nation will be a strong unity of self-governing people.

Maxwell has given herself to cattle ranching, farming, teaching, training dogs and serving as a school principal. She has authored her biography titled My Yesterdays in Elk City.

Induction will take place during the Rhinestone Roundup Weekend, June 17-20, in Hereford, Texas.

For additional information, you may call the Hall of Fame at 364-5252.

Bonsai video viewed by club

"What Is Bonsai?" was the video viewed by members of the Bud to Blossom Garden Club when they met recently in the home of Phyllis Brown for their first meeting of the new year.

The film was produced by Weyerhaeuser Co. and was narrated by Roy Nagotoshi who made all of the bonsai trees in the "Karate Kid" movies.

Roll call was answered by members telling "what I know about bonsai?" and during the brief business meeting members voted to make a donation to the Friends of the Library. The organization is seeking funds to purchase a video projector for Deaf Smith County Library. Also, members sent a plant and get-well wishes to club member Patricia Robinson who recently had surgery.

Refreshments were served by the hostess to Natha Carroll, Mildred Fuhrmann, Wilma Bryan and Ursalee Jacobsen.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently, my neighbor received a deep claw puncture from her pet cat. The pain and swelling which followed were totally unexpected. She went to a clinic near her home at once and received tetanus shot. The emergency room physician administered antibiotics and ordered her to a hospital for follow-up treatment. The doctor there diagnosed the problem as Pasteurella multocida, which my friend was told is a common bacteria-related infection.

She was hospitalized for four and one-half days. Yesterday, she received the hospital bill. It was $10,169. This did not include the doctor's bill. The woman was stunned.

Her room was on the basement level and looked like a prison cell. She could have had a suite in the best hotel in San Francisco with a private nurse in an adjoining room, plus room service and the attendance of her own physician for the $2,000 a day it cost in that crummy hospital.

I am sending my congressman a copy of this letter, but it is a well-known fact that you are the most effective person in the country when it comes to getting the attention of people who make things happen.—L.E., Fremont, Calif.

DEAR FREMONT: Thanks for the compliment, but you are crediting me with more clout than I actually possess. If I had $5 for every person who wrote to me to complain about a hospital bill, I could pay your friend's bill right now.

To help reduce paper use, one junior high class will do all its homework on computer and submit it on floppy disks.

It is no secret that the health-care system in this country is in dire need of overhauling. More than 37 million people in the United States have no health insurance. Unless these uninsured folks are very rich, they are in deep trouble if they should get sick. Those who DO have insurance often find themselves struggling to get through pounds of paperwork and miles of red tape. If anyone has any bright ideas, don't write to me. Write to your senators.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need some advice on how to handle a situation with my new daughter-in-law.

When our son married "Cathy" last year, she asked me how I would like her to address me. I told her that I would prefer to be called "Mom."

It's been six months, and she still hasn't called me "Mom" or anything else for that matter. She blurts out a question or comment without any preface. She calls my husband "Mr." which he feels is too formal, but he is willing to accept it.

Cathy is a wonderful person, somewhat shy and quiet. I'm at a loss as to how to approach her or if indeed I SHOULD approach her at all. My husband says that since it is bothering me, I should ask her again to call me "Mom."

What is your advice?—E. in N.C.

DEAR N.C.: You don't say whether or not Cathy's mother is living. If so, this might be the hang-up. In any event, you might say, "I'd like you to call me 'Mom' and my husband 'Dad' if you are comfortable with that." If she doesn't act on the suggestion, say nothing more about it.

It's no big deal one way or the other.

Gem of the Day: The tobacco industry reports that it provides jobs for 57,000 Americans -- and this does not include physicians. X-ray technicians, nurses, hospital employees, fighters, dry cleaners, respiratory specialists, pharmacists, morticians and gravediggers.

Ann Landers' latest booklet, "Nuggets and Doozies," has everything from the outrageously funny to the poignantly insightful. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $5 (this includes postage and handling) to: Nuggets, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

The highest mountain the Western Hemisphere is the extinct volcano Aconcagua in Chile. Now nearly 23,000 feet, it was once over 24,000 feet high, but its upper part has crumbled away.

Tree to Sea
ATLANTA (AP) - White cedar trees always have accumulated knots, but not just the kind that grow on trunks.

Wood from white cedars once was used to plank ships because of the wood's light weight and resistance to water decay, says Georgia-Pacific Corp., a forest products firm.

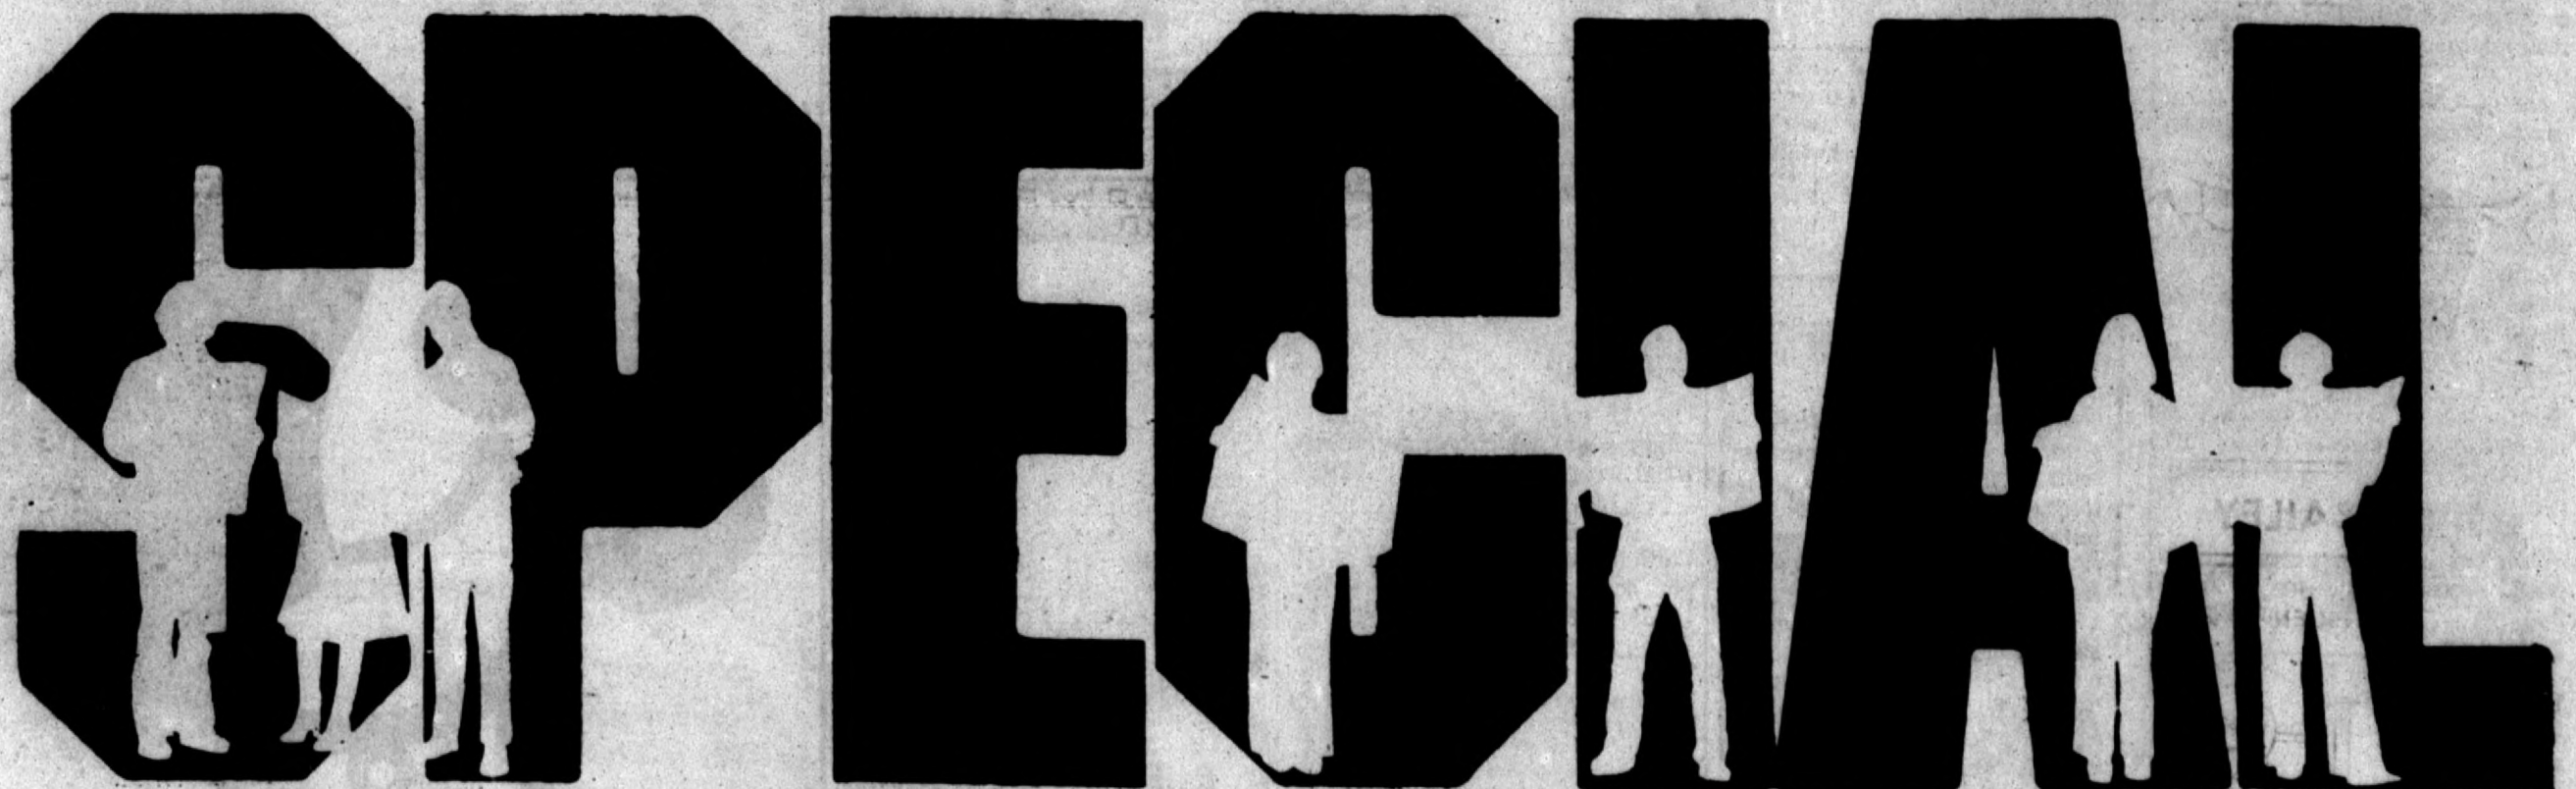

Today, the wood is used to build posts for boat docks, fences and piling. Native to the Atlantic Seaboard, white cedars usually grow along small streams and near fresh water swamps.

The United States has about four million miles of streets, roads and highways.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: My husband is 84. He had surgery for an aortic aneurysm 10 years ago. It was successful, and he is doing well from that. His doctor found blocks in his carotid arteries six years ago. On his last check, they found the blocks had increased. It is hard for us to live under the threat of a stroke. No one ever offers any suggestions or help on this serious problem, just more tests. Do you have any information on this? Quite a few elderly persons have this problem. We have been married 58 years, and he played golf until this past year.

DEAR READER: Disease of some arteries often involves many arteries, not just one. It is not surprising your husband has fatty-cholesterol blockage of the carotid arteries in his neck. Many people are operated on for such blockage, but the surgery is not to be undertaken lightly. Surgery may actually cause a stroke.

At present, studies support the view that if blockage is over 70 percent in a person who has had a previous stroke, or has symptoms caused by the blockage, surgery should be done. That opinion would be tempered by the other medical findings. Those with blockage of less than 30 percent should be left alone, and there is not sufficient data to permit a recommendation on the in-between group.

I'm sure your husband's doctors are monitoring his carotid arteries to see if the obstruction becomes great enough to warrant intervention. Meanwhile, he needs to be on a program to reduce his risk of a stroke. If he smokes, he should not at all. To the extent possible, he should maintain some exercise suitable for his condition. He needs to control his total cholesterol and LDL cholesterol to low levels, and if diet doesn't do it, he may need medicine. His blood pressure must be kept at low levels. If these factors can be controlled adequately, that may significantly decrease any progression of the blockage, or as seen in some patients, such programs may even result in a reversal of deposits.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am a 63-year-old diabetic on insulin and have had a triple bypass, single bypass and carotid endarterectomy. I had a vertebral angiogram a year ago. There was 70 percent blockage in the left vertebral artery. My vision is blurred in the left eye and I am unable to ride a bike, ride an escalator or bend over without getting dizzy. The doctor has me on Ecotrin. I would appreciate any information you can give me on blockage of the vertebral arteries.

DEAR READER: There are four main arteries that supply the brain. The two carotid arteries are on each side of your trachea, near your Adam's apple. The paired vertebral arteries pass through the bony processes of the vertebrae and enter the skull with your spinal cord. The four arteries are all connected in a ring underneath the brain and give off branches to various areas of the brain.

First impression often made with your hands

For AP Special Features

Hands.
"You can't hide them, you communicate with them and, like it or not, you're often judged by them," says Trisha Webster, who models them.

What is a hand worthy of a professional photograph?

Skin texture should be flawless, and veins should not show. Knuckles should be straight and smooth, and the nail bed (the distance between the cuticle and fingertip) must be long.

If nature didn't deal you a perfect hand, there are things you can do to at least make your hands look their best.

"My golden rule is don't ever use your nails as tools," Webster says. She presses elevator buttons with the inside joint of her thumb, dials the push-button phone with a pencil and uses a key to open soda cans.

Other rules of thumb for the nails: -Don't file them too far down on the sides or saw back and forth. This weakens them.

-Place your emery board at a 45-degree angle and file your nails gently on a dark, rolled-up washcloth. This will help you judge the outline of each nail.

-Especially in winter, make sure to keep at least one clear coat of enamel on your nails to protect them from drying.

-Remove hangnails by first soaking your fingertips in water then pushing back the cuticle with a soft towel. Use a conditioning cuticle remover on a regular basis. "A lot of people make the mistake of clipping a hangnail when it's still hard and end up ripping the skin more," Webster says.

-If you think typewriter or computer keyboards are bad for your nails, think again. Moving your fingers on the keys actually circulates the blood in your fingertips and promotes healthy nail growth.

Stuttering Foundation schedules competition

The Stuttering Foundation of America announced today that it will begin recognizing journalists each year for excellence in reporting that furthers the understanding of this complex disorder.

"I am pleased that we can take this important step to further public awareness of stuttering," said Jane Fraser, president of the 46-year-old non-profit organization. "Media coverage has grown substantially in volume and sensitivity in recent years. It is time that outstanding reporters receive recognition."

The first annual Stuttering Foundation of America Awards will be given to journalists in two categories: print and electronic media. They will recognize news stories over the last year that:

-Advanced the public's understanding of stuttering;

-Introduced information on stuttering to a significant new audience.

Print and electronic journalists are invited to submit copies or videocassettes of their news items to the Stuttering Foundation of America, P.O. Box 11749, Memphis, TN 38111-0749. All entries must have been published or aired between January 1, 1992, and March 15, 1993.

In addition to a public announcement on the SFA Award recipients, each honoree will receive a cash award of $250 from the Foundation.

"Many people who stutter have made important contributions to society," noted President Fraser. "Unfortunately, they often have to confront difficulties in the classroom or workplace that result from misinformation. Outstanding journalists have begun to educate the public about stuttering, and we seek to acknowledge and honor their efforts."

Super Bowl munchies easy to prepare, serve

WACO, Texas (AP) - With the Dallas Cowboys headed for the Super Bowl, many television sets will be tuned to the big game Jan. 31.

And of course many of those watching the clash between the Cowboys and the Buffalo Bills will want munchies nearby so they don't have to wander too far from the action to fill their stomachs.

Following are a few recipes Cowboy fans may want to try.

The California Avocado Commission, which claims that the Super Bowl is second only to Cinco de Mayo as an avocado-based holiday, asked the NFL playoff teams for "official" guacamole recipes.

Following is the one the commission helped the Cowboys develop. OFFICIAL DALLAS COWBOYS GUACAMOLE

3 ripe avocados, peeled and seeded
1 jalapeno pepper, seeded and finely chopped

1 ripe medium tomato, finely chopped

1 clove garlic, peeled and finely chopped

1/2 small onion, finely chopped
10 sprigs fresh cilantro, chopped
1/2 t. salt
1/2 lime, juice

Tortilla chips and additional chopped onion, cilantro, radish slices, crumbled fresh cheese or Pasadena rose petals, for garnish.

In medium bowl, combine onion, jalapeno, tomato, garlic and cilantro. Scoop out avocado meat and gently add to mixture. Using a fork, roughly mash the avocado, mixing in all ingredients. Flavor with salt, then lime juice. Set aside a few minutes to let flavors blend. Serve with tortilla chips and other condiments.

To store guacamole, cover with plastic wrap or aluminum foil and refrigerate. Makes 3 cups.

A radio station I was listening to on Monday had an interview with an avid Cowboys fan. He said Dallas creamed Philadelphia, deep-fried the 49ers and next was going to eat Buffalo wings. For other fans who want to take this literally, here's a recipe.

BUFFALO WINGS

4 lbs. chicken wings, cut apart at joints

1/2 c. distilled white vinegar

1/2 c. water

1/4 c. tomato paste

4 t. sugar

1 to 3 T. liquid hot pepper seasoning (or to taste)

1 to 3 t. ground red pepper (cayenne)

Discard chicken wingtips. Rinse remaining wing pieces and pat dry, then arrange in a single layer in 2 lightly greased shallow 10-by-15-inch baking pans. Bake, uncovered, in a 400-degree oven until golden brown (about 30 minutes).

While chicken is baking, prepare sauce: In a small bowl, stir together vinegar, water, tomato paste, sugar, pepper seasoning and red pepper.

Remove chicken from oven, drain off fat and pour sauce over chicken; turn chicken to coat well. Continue to bake, uncovered, turning wings once or twice, until sauce is bubbly and edges of wings are crisp (about 15 more minutes).

"The Clean-up of Hereford" discussed by study club

Jan Furr gave an informative presentation involving beautifying Hereford when members of Calliopean Study Club met Thursday, Jan. 14, in the home of Virginia Holmes.

Furr's topic subject, entitled "The Clean-up of Hereford", is under the direction of the Hereford Beautification Alliance which was evolved from EnCoRe.

Furr stated, "There are several ways in which Hereford can be cleaned-up and beautified, but it is going to take the cooperative, combined effort of each citizen of the city of Hereford. The first goal set forth by the alliance is to clean-up and beautify Hwy. 385 and Hwy. 60."

For citizens interested in participating in the beautification project, contact Furr.

The hostess served rum cake and coffee to those present: Furr, Irene Conway, Faye Holt, Mildred Nobles, Linda Gilbert, Audine Dettman, Kay McWhorter, Dorothy Ott, Katherine Ruga, Mary Fraser, Cynthia Streun and Louise Leasure.

Military Muster

Sheppard Air Force Base, Wichita Falls, Texas - Airman Rene M. Meyer has graduated from the medical material specialist course here.

Students were taught computer operations, requisitioning, document and stock control, warehousing, and related procedures necessary for the operation of an Air Force medical supply account.

Meyer is the daughter of Jose R. and Beverly I. Rodriguez of Route 3, Hereford.

She is a 1992 graduate of Hereford High School.

Fort Jackson, S.C. Columbia, S.C. - Pvt. Oscar M. Pesqueda Jr. has completed basic training here.

During the training, students received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

Pesqueda is the son of Oscar G. Pesqueda, 217 Ave. D and brother of Belinda Ramirez, 233 Ave. B both of Hereford.

The soldier is a 1991 graduate of Hereford High School.

CAR KEYS

Dear Heloise: Nearly all people at one time or another have locked their car keys in their car. I have my own solution for this.

My car keys are on one key ring and my house keys are on another. On my house key ring I have a key to my car door as well.

So, if I lock the car keys in the car I still have a key to open the car door. — Bob Crooks, Baltimore, Md.

Household vinegar is about five percent acetic acid. That's the source of the sour taste.

Discovery consists of seeing what everybody has seen and thinking what nobody has thought.
