Plans For Arms Reduction Abandoned By This Country

WASHINGTON, July 6. (AP)—The administration today abandoned all plans for informal arms reduction negotiations until autumn, convinced nothing could be done in the meanwhile to reconcile the prevailing and persisting disagreements on this vexing question.

This was disclosed by an announcement that Ambassador Norman H. Davis, chief delegate to the Geneva conference, would remain in the United States until early September, when the assembly of the League of Nations will meet.

Protection Of The Public Is Big Objective

Rules For Enforcing Federal Securities Act Promulgated Thursday; Financial Facts Are To Be Bared

Burdens Avoided

Registration Statements Will Be Received And Information Will Be Available To Public At All Times

By WILLIAM L. BEALE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Protection of the investing public without handicapping general business financing was listed as the chief objective of the federal trade commission today in an announcement promulgating its rules for enforcing the federal securities act.

This statement of policy accompanied publication of the list of regulations through which the commission will supervise future security sales, and 37-page registration form on which issuers must tell the commission and the public the financial facts supporting their securities.

To Avoid Burden

The commission said that in approving the rules it had regard for the public interest and for the protection of investors, "but endeavored to place no undue burden either upon general business or upon honest and reputable dealers."

It added that it would receive registration statements beginning tomorrow and that these certificates "with all information contained therein will be available for public inspection at the commission's offices in Washington."

"The commission desired to point out," it said, "that most of the rules and regulations are explicitly required by the securities act.

Rules Experimental

"In some matters the commission has discretion and the rules and regulations in relation thereto are experimental pending actual working experience with the new securities act and will be subject to revision from time to time as experience proves the advisability of changes."

Registration certificates, which encompass the financial background of a business issuing new securities, must be filed with the commission

The Santa Fe office reported an inch of rain fell in Bledsoe.

Early Return To Schedule Of Higher Wages Predicted

DALLAS, July 6. (AP)—An early return of the postal system to the salary schedule on which it operated before recent cuts were put into effect was predicted today by Silliman Evans, fourth assistant to the postmaster general.

Addressing a joint session of the Texas Postmasters association and the Texas branch of the National Association of Postal Supervisors here, Evans said "as business conditions improve over the country, we have a right to expect that the furloughs will be reduced and finally eliminated, and that the original schedule of pay and allowances will ultimately be restored in full."

Dallas Milk War Is Ended By Threat From Government

DALLAS, July 6. (AP)—By hinting at possible federal dictatorship of milk distribution, W. A. Canon, director of markets at Austin for the department of agriculture, today induced milk distributors of Dallas to end a milk war that has been in progress for many months.

Canon came to Dallas when it became known that the federal government, on receipt of many complaints from Texas, was prepared immediately to place all milk distributing plants in the state under a license system and that an administrator was ready to come to the state on call of commissioner of Texas Agriculture J. E. McDonald.

Arrest Of Eight Ordered In Kansas City Slayings

Oklahoman And Five Escaped Convicts Are Named As Ruthless Killers Of Officers

(By The Associated Press)

KANSAS CITY, July 6. — The department of justice today ordered the arrest of Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd, Oklahoma killer, five escaped Kansas convicts, Verne C. Miller, former Huron, S. D., sheriff, and William Weissman in connection with the machine gun slaying of four officers and their prisoner, Frank Nash, at the union station plaza here June 17.

The announcement by director of Police Reppert that Miller and Weissman were known to have had a part in the slaughter was followed today by the appearance of circulars issued by the United States bureau of investigation, asking for the arrest of Floyd and the five convicts.

The circulars were issued at Washington under the direction of J. Edgar Hover, director of the bureau. They named Harvey Bailey, Wilbur Underhill, Ed Davis, James Clark, and Robert G. Brady, who escaped from the Kansas penitentiary Memorial Day, and Floyd.

The circulars bore the pictures of the six men, described them minutely and stated they are sought in the "murder of Otto Reed, chief of police at McAlester, Okla., William J. Grooms, and Frank E. Hermanson, police officers of Kansas City, Mo., Raymond J. Caffrey, special agent of the United States bureau of investigation, and their prisoner,

Texas Faces Threat Of Losing Federal Aid Unless Steps Are Taken To Care For Unemployed

Non-Essential Projects To Be Weeded Out Of Program

WASHINGTON, July 6. (AP) — Strict weeding out of non-essential construction projects from the government's public works program was advocated today by Director Lewis W. Douglas of the budget as he assisted President Roosevelt in scanning the long list of undertakings proposed by the special public works board.

The budget director, talking to newsmen after conferring with the president, emphasized he was seeking caution all along the line in the big expenditure plan, and was urging emphatically that the states be required to show balanced budgets before they be allowed to participate.

Relief Administration Tells Governor That State Must Provide Funds; Bond Issue Up In Election

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 6. — The emergency relief administration has notified Governor Ferguson of Texas that unless that state provides funds for care of the unemployed, federal monies cannot be supplied in the future.

Harry L. Hopkins, emergency relief administrator, said today that advances had been made to Texas on the understanding that a bond issue which comes before the voters in a short time would be approved. He added that unless the bond issue were voted or some other provision made by the state to provide public funds, the federal government could not continue to supply money.

Ratio Is Shown

The emergency relief act provides that the administrator shall supply funds to the states on the basis of $1 for each $3 of public money spent by the state. He has a fund of $250,000,000 for that purpose of which he already has allocated more than $50,000,000.

He also has a fund of $250,000,000 that has not yet been touched which is to be distributed on the basis of actual need.

Committee Is To End Duties

New Welfare And Employment Committee Will Be Certified Tomorrow; New Group Given Approval Of Court

Lubbock county's new Welfare and Employment committee, appointed by the Texas Rehabilitation and Relief commission at Austin, will be certified tomorrow and duties of the Lubbock County Work Relief committee will be ended within the next few days, as soon as a joint meeting of the new and old groups can be held.

Members of the new committee are:

J. O. Jones, chairman; Mayor J. J. Clements and Miss Delia Wilkinson, all of Lubbock; former County Commissioner J. T. Pinkston, Slaton, and Bailey Guess, Idalou.

Outgoing Members

Outgoing committee members, appointed by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to handle work relief under the Sterling administration last November and who have been working at the job ever since, are:

County Judge E. L. Pitts, Spencer A. Wells, A. B. Davis, and Chas. A. Guy, who has been chairman of the group. J. O. Jones and Mayor Clements, members of the original committee, are holdover members under the state commission headed by Col. Lawrence Westbrook.

Committees To Meet

The new committee will be asked to meet with the old committee as soon as possible, Mr. Guy said last night. The new group, under the law, was given approval of the county commissioners' court over a week ago.

At the request of Colonel Westbrook and Governor Ferguson, the outgoing committee will work with the new group until such a time as the new committee sees fit to excuse them from further service.

No Special Grand Jury Will Be Called In Santone Murder

SAN ANTONIO, July 6. (AP) — No special grand jury will be impanelled to investigate the slaying of Mrs. Alma Dell Cabble, 34, whose body was found Tuesday in an apartment, unless the district attorney's office changes its plans.

The statement was made by Walter Tynan, district attorney, after a conference today with Judge W. S. Anderson of 37th district court. Tynan said that he was afraid the state's case against June Woolfolk, 36, negro yardman at the apartment house, who is charged with the crime, might be hurt by rushing it to trial.

President Acts Through His Secretary Of State To Save Meeting; Canada's Delegate Also Is Rescuer

Exclude Problems

Hull Makes A Dramatic Plea For Continuation Of Meet And Disregards The Vote Of Own Delegation

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 6. — The world monetary and economic conference, given up as lost by prominent delegates even as late as this morning, was saved from complete collapse today by President Roosevelt, acting through his secretary of state, and with the assistance of the Canadian prime minister.

A decision to continue the conference, but with monetary and tariff matters excluded, was reached by the steering committee in the second of two meetings during the day.

Makes Dramatic Plea

Acting on last minute instructions from the president and disregarding the vote of his own delegation favoring a recess, Cordell Hull, American secretary of state and chief of the United States delegation, made a quiet and earnest but dramatic plea to the committee for the life of the conference. He was vigorously and promptly supported by R. B. Bennett, the Canadian prime minister.

Georges Bonnet, chief of the gold bloc forces which had brought the conference to an impasse seemingly making a recess unavoidable due to conflict over stabilization of currency, finally found his forces crumbling. In the end he was the only member of the committee to demand an adjournment.

Reach Compromise

The conference was saved not without a compromise to the recalcitrant gold group, however, as the resolution finally adopted by the committee set forth their refusal to consider any monetary questions.

Neville Chamberlain, British chancellor of the exchequer, whom the gold group had regarded as at least lukewarm toward their proposal, responded to the vigorous plea by Bennett, speaking for all the British dominions, and he also

Factor Kidnapers Speed For Border

NEW ORLEANS, July 6 (AP) — Chief of Detectives John J. Grosch said here today that he had received information that the kidnapers of John (Jake The Barber) Factor, of Chicago, were believed to be speeding toward New Orleans en route to Mexico.

In an all-station message, Grosch asked all officers to watch for a large sedan, presumably bearing an Illinois license plate. Detectives were stationed at all highways leading into the city from Chicago.

Warning the officers that the supposed kidnapers were dangerous, Chief Grosch advised them to "resort to any means to stop this car."

Chief Grosch did not divulge the source of his information.

Three Men Are Loaded Into Bus Here Thursday For Transfer To State Pen

WHILE a small crowd gaped, three men, two of them under sentences from this county, were loaded into W. H. Crane's rolling cell yesterday afternoon at county jail. With a carload of eight prisoners, Crane, assistant state penitentiary transfer agent, left at once for Huntsville.

F. N. Hood, under three-year sentence for cattle theft, and L. E. Shankle, who has two years for swindling, were the Lubbock men to board the "one-way bus to Huntsville" here.

The other was James W. Baker, a prisoner brought to Lubbock from Brownfield yesterday. Baker, former Seagraves school teacher, is under a 20-year sentence for his part in a Seagraves bank robbery. Five other prisoners already were in the car, having been picked up in Midland.

Crane, for 35 years an officer and employe of the state prison system, was accompanied by Ray Click, who was described as a West Texas rancher.

The prisoners had chains locked around their necks. Inmates of the county jail called goodbyes to them.

Storm Misses Texas And Turns To Mexican Areas

Lower Valley Likely To Receive Heavy Rains As Result

(By The Associated Press)

BROWNSVILLE, July 6.—A tropical storm which at first swept from the Gulf of Mexico toward the southernmost part of the Texas coast apparently turned south tonight and moved over a sparsely settled section of Mexico between Brownsville and Tampico, in the state of Tamaulipas.

W. J. Schnurbusch, chief observer for the weather bureau here, expressed the opinion the storm moved inland into Mexico at a considerable distance from here. Washington weather bureau advices tonight said the storm apparently had passed inland about midway between Brownsville and Tampico. Concern was felt for the section around Chemal, Mexico, which was reported directly in the path of the disturbance.

Meanwhile, a change to southeast storm warnings was ordered here, the hurricane warnings coming down.

He believed, with others, however, that the lower Rio Grande Valley, although not in the direct path of the disturbance, might receive heavy rains and high water, especially if the storm carried heavy precipitation to the mountains in the direction of Monterrey, Mexico.

In sharp contrast with reading earlier in the day, the barometer here rose to 29.62 and was continuing its climb, the wind had calmed down from a maximum of approximately 35 miles an hour to 22.

At Corpus Christi, 125 miles to the north of Brownsville, J. P. McAuliffe, weatherman, was instructed from Washington weather bureau offices to lower storm warnings which had flown for almost 36 hours. His communication from the capital said that the disturbance was passing "inland on the Mexican coast south of the Rio Grande."

Between Brownsville and Tampico, approximately 200 miles apart on a north and south line, there are very few communities of consequence.

The latest barometer reading at Tampico was 29.55, which was .17 below normal and a drop of .05 in approximately four hours.

The Brownsville reading at 6:45 p. m. was 29.64, a slight rise in an hour.

Kettles Again Start Boiling

Further Business Improvement And Assurances America Is Ready To Go It Alone Bring Market Activities

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 6.—Financial kettles boiled merrily today over fires refueling by further business improvement and assurances that this country was prepared to "go it alone" come what might at the London conference.

Stocks, in a late upsurge, climbed $1 to $6 net. Corn reached new record highs for the season, invigorating wheat and other grains. Cotton closed $1.10 to $1.30 a bale to the good, and minor commodities were mostly firm to strong. Bonds were spurred by the most active buying since early May which was most noticeable among secondary rails.

Interest Lukewarm

Wall Street's interest in the London conference has recently been lukewarm, especially since this government made it clear it could not consent to currency stabilization while its own price recovery was incomplete. News that the big international meeting was to continue, with monetary and tariff questions excluded from the calendar, reached the street early this afternoon, finding the stock market firm, active and seemingly indifferent to what might happen at London. The biggest push in prices came in the late trading when speculative enthusiasm gained broad momentum, swinging into line the industrial shares which had been lagging behind rails and utilities.

American Dark Age Predicted

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, July 6.—Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes tonight predicted an American dark age if the public schools were "devitalized by economies."

"If at this critical stage we continue to deny educational opportunities to literally millions of our children," the cabinet member said, "our country will suffer when those millions, uneducated, undertake the responsibilities of government."

Admitting that many of the schools had been expensive and wasteful, up to 1929, Secretary Ickes said, "all of us were fully as reckless."

Lynn Prisoner Is Being Held In East Texas

S. D. Vowell Is Captured At Kilgore; Held As Suspect In Robbery Of Inn Wednesday Night

(Special To The Avalanche)

TAHOKA, July 6.—Another desperado who escaped from the Lynn county jail June 9 was held tonight, S. D. Vowell having been captured by Chief of Police Bob Goss at Kilgore, according to information received here.

Selmer D. Dick, who escaped at the same time Vowell did, was arrested in Kilgore late last month.

Suspected Robber

Vowell is reported to be held in Kilgore as the suspected robber of an inn Wednesday night. The chief of police said he believed Vowell was the youth who struck Policeman Lloyd Elliott with a sawed-off shotgun there last night, taking the officer's pistol and using it in the holdup. Vowell had Elliott's pistol in his possession when arrested. He said Vowell admitted committing the offenses.

Two hijackers, suspected of being escaped prisoners from the local jail, have been a jump ahead of central Texas officers for a week. A rifle taken from the Tahoka jail was left by two men at Novice, in Coleman county, when they were surprised by officers Tuesday afternoon. Besides Vowell and Dick, wanted for armed robbery and kidnaping in Lynn county, other prisoners escaping from the Tahoka jail were Dave and Luke Trammell, J. R. Romine, Jim Brooks, and Clyde Davis.

More Than 2,600,000 Acres Of Cotton Land Contracted

WASHINGTON, July 6. (AP) — Farmers in 16 cotton states have offered to plow up more than 2,600,000 acres of their growing crop in return for cash benefits and options on government held cotton.

This was reported unofficially today after Secretary Wallace and George N. Peek, chief administrator of the farm act, made an optimistic report to President Roosevelt regarding progress in the acreage reduction campaign begun last week.

The campaign, which was to have closed Saturday, will be extended into next week, due to delays which farm administrators were reported not to regard as serious.

KATY AGENT DIES

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 6. (AP)—A. S. Johnson, 66, executive general agent for the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad here for the last 10 years, died today at his home. He became ill last week.

SAN ANGELO, July 6 (AP)—A score of West Texas peace officers early this morning, following two bloodhounds and armed with two sub-machine guns and other firearms, were "hot on the trail" of two men they believed were the Trammel brothers, Luke and Dave, in the vicinity of Leaday, Coleman county. About 10 o'clock tonight the officers and the bandits engaged in a running gun fight on a hill a mile east of Leaday. The outlaws took to the brush as the shooting began, leaving behind a car stolen from a ranchman of the Leaday community only a few hours before.

One Abductor Helps Him To Gain Freedom

John King Ottley Is Kidnaped On Main Street Of City By Two Men And Carried To A Wooded Hide-Out

$40,000 Demanded

Youth Repents Of His Part In Crime And Releases Banker; Says He Was Promised Large Sum By Companion

(By The Associated Press)

ATLANTA, July 6.—John King Ottley, 65-year-old financier and sportsman, was kidnaped on the main street of Atlanta today by a fruit peddler and a young companion, and four hours later he talked the younger man into helping him escape.

His two kidnapers demanded $40,000 but got less than $10, and one of them—a boy of 17 who told police he was James Pryor Bowen of Lavonia, Ga.,—was persuaded by his prisoner to release him and then accompanied Ottley to the village of Suwanee where the financier telephoned home that all was well.

Boy Is Arrested

The boy, who was arrested, agreed to lead a posse to a retreat where authorities believed they would find the other kidnaper—an older man who is known to Ottley. Ottley said the older abductor often sold fruit in front of his house and that frequently he picked him up in his automobile and brought him to town.

Gentle persuasion by Ottley brought his release. The boy, armed only with a blackjack, was left to guard the financier while his companion returned to Atlanta with a note for Mrs. Ottley. The banker engaged the youth in conversation and explained the consequences of his act.

Tells Of Job Offer

The banker said Bowen told him he came to Atlanta Tuesday and in a welfare home met his older companion. He said the man asked if he wanted to make $10,000. The boy said he agreed but didn't know the nature of the "job" the man offered.

The banker explained to the boy that the crime would be detected and that the consequences would be harsh. Ottley said the boy then agreed to release him and readily followed him into Suwanee.

Ottley said he left home about 8 a. m., today, driving his own car and that he slowed down to turn into a main thoroughfare a man hailed him from the sidewalk.

"Before I could ask him what he wanted he stuck a pistol into my

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE BEAN WILSON
Avalanche Woman's Editor

There is a picture of President F. Roosevelt in the July issue of the Good Housekeeping and near him is a small boy. The two are swimming at Warm Springs, Ga. That small boy is Terry Thompson, jr., of Amarillo, who is a nephew of Mrs. Thompson of this city and who visited here over the Fourth. The young man knew the President when the two were receiving treatment for infantile paralysis at Warm Springs.

• • •

The publication of "Angels and Amazons: One Hundred Years of American Women" by the National Council of Women should serve as an inspiration to women to go on to greater things.

• • •

Ines Haynes Irwin has written this book for the Council and it is said to be the most comprehensive history of the women's movement yet published in this county. The first copy has been sent to Mrs. Franklin D. Rosevelt "who by her wisdom, her courage and her sympathetic understanding is in her own right 'The First Lady of the Land.' The second copy has been sent to Amelia Earhart Putnam.

• • •

This book is said to be a picture of women's accomplishments and progress. There are paragraphs devoted to an audience of the 1840's thrilled, amused or shocked, according to temperament, at the daring spectacle of girls conjuring a Latin verb in a public examination. There is the story of Mary Lyon taking a school teacher's job at 75 cents a week and working indefatigably to get enough money to launch her seminary for girls so that they might have the right to education as men had. There is the story of Harriot Hunt attempted to enroll in the school of medicine at Harvard in 1847 and evoking a storm of protest so that the students held a mass meeting and voted for her exclusion. Lucy Stone, who was refused an opportunity to read her own essay when she graduated from Oberlin in 1852 and who later was in that famous alliance that worked for suffrage, is in this book.

Susan B. Anthony, Lucretia Mott, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and others are in this book. The advance of women in business and the professions is chronicled there.

Such a book should serve as inspiration to women of today to carry on the tradition that has been left to them in the last hundred years. Peace, prohibition, temperance, progress, the fate of schools—many such things depend upon the women. We should be inspired to have a part in promoting these things instead of tearing down the foundations of civilization. This history of women should serve partly to keep women remembering the responsibility that is theirs.

SOME REASONS

YOU may not have much faith in the predictions of Dr. Leonard S. Cottrell, jr., of the University of Chicago that he can predict the success of your marriage, yet you will find yourself confirming some of his opinions on the causes of unhappiness in marriages of which you know.

• • •

After a study of married couples and a compilation of answers to questions put to these couples, he has come to some general conclusions that may not be so very far wrong.

• • •

He believes, for instance, that husbands and wives who love their parents are likely to love each other, while those whose relations with their parents were not harmonious find it more difficult to make adjustments among themselves. He finds that a widowed mother is likely to cause trouble but that couples whose parents are happily married are likely to be happy, also.

• • •

His chart shows that brothers and sister of the wife may decrease her chances for happiness but that an only child, boy or girl, has 20 percent less chance for happiness than those with brothers and sisters.

• • •

If a father advises against a marriage it is a pretty good idea to not marry, his chart indicates, but he finds that a mother's advice means little in the ultimate outcome of the marriage.

• • •

You may not have much faith in Dr. Cottrell's idea that he can predict whether or not you and the boy friend will have a happy marriage, yet the chances are that you can look about and see divorces that you believe have been caused by an interferring mother, the birde's family or for some other reason that he lists.

Youth Of Nation To Speak Out On All Major Problems

CHICAGO, — Young America is going to have a chance to speak out and with the assurance that it will be heard!

Thursday, July 20th, is going to be "Youth Day" at the International Congress, which will be held here July 16-20, under the auspices of the National Council of Women.

A cross-section of American young life will be represented. Girl delegates from large mid-western universities, like Chicago, Northwestern Michigan, delegates from small colleges like Berea and Mills, girls from advanced colleges like Antioch, from conservative old places like Wellesley, from big women's colleges like Smith, Vassar and Radcliffe—these will hold an open forum to tell the world just what they consider is wrong with America, life in general and the depression in particular.

The broad subject of the International Congress is to be "Our Common cause — Civilization." The National Council of Women felt that part of their program should be run by Youth. So they organized this open forum.

To Discuss Live Topics

There will be no sheerly academic discussions. The young women delegates represent the flower of their respective campuses, the all-around girls who have been foremost in hockey, in tennis, in glee clubs and drama groups, have been reporters for their college papers, class officers, heads of large student organizations. In short, the girls who have been thinking and actively taking part in life while in college.

Alice Kelly, of Connecticut College, is going armed with a speech in favor of "Deflating Nationalism." She believes that a too-ardent nationalism has been the cause of fascism in Italy, militarism in Japan and Hitlerism in Germany, and she will advance a plea for more internationalism in our schools and colleges. Marjorie Speigel will be there, fresh from the triumphs of engineering the Junior Prom at Smith. Jean Moore, who is majoring in social studies at Bennington College, and studying art and poetry as a sideline, will weigh the relative merits of late and early marriage, while Jeannette Shambaugh, chairman of the Board of Hall Presidents at Radcliffe, will sail into adult America on their wrong use of leisure and offer some solution to the problems of how best to employ it—an important subject to mechanical America.

Unemployment to Be Discussed

Evelyn Chambers, president of the Political Association of Vassar; Ann Steinbrecker, this year's graduate of Wellesley; Marion Holcomb of Berea, Evelyn Jaffray of Mills, and students from Chicago and Northwestern all will present their individual formulas for making the world more to the liking of Youth. Miss Jaffray, particularly, will set forth her valid arguments why the world owes young folks jobs, along with their diplomas.

However, the entire discussion will not be a one-sided college forum. Tillie Plecanek, Polish milliner; Helen Greible, a colored girl who has just returned from the International School for Workers in Denmark; Matilda Beisman, of Bryn Mamr Summer Schools, and members from the Women's Trade Union League will be present to set forth the viewpoint of Young Americans who must work instead of go to college. Foreign students will tell of the Youth Movements abroad.

Girl Editor on Program

As a finale, Viola Ilma, 23-year-old editor and publisher of "Modern Youth," will sum up the attitude of college students about world peace. When Miss Ilma isn't making speeches, she is engaged in seeking talent—under 30 years old — for her magazine. A brief career in the advertising field, a fling at department store advertising, a season on the stage and two trips to Europe preceded her venture in the publishing field. One thousand dollars apiece, advanced by three wealthy women she knew, provided Miss Ilma with the capital to launch her youth magazine. Her publication now has a circulation of 15,000, pays its printer every month, and its editor is free to make speeches about the problems of the young.

"And there ARE problems!" Miss Ilma states emphatically. "Lack of opportunity to invest their energies and talents in some form of productive effort after they get out of school is fomenting a mighty unrest in Young America. If the economic situation doesn't clear up, there is the prospect to face of a youth revolution within the next two years. So you'd better give Youth something to do!"

Ninety per cent of Ecuador's population is estimated to be dependent in some measure on agriculture for their living.

A New Air Venture For The Lindberghs

Another pioneering venture in aviation is the flight Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh plan to make soon to Greenland, and possibly points westward, to determine the feasibility of a northern passenger-and-mail air route to Europe. The ship they plan to fly—used in their trip to the Orient—is pictured above at the Caldwell, N. J., airport as workmen installed a new 700 h. p. motor. Acting as mother ship for the Lindberghs is the Danish tramp steamer Jelling, shown below at Philapelphia. Captain Oscar Hogstadt, left, is the skipper.

We've taken the words right out of your mouth

"Luckies Please!" You, our personal friends, have been saying it for years. And because it so aptly sums up the Lucky Strike story, we've taken the words right out of your mouth. "Luckies Please!" of course. They please in the quality of their fine tobaccos. They please in the mildness and purity of "Toasting". They please the taste. They please the throat. In every way and always, "Luckies Please!" May we thank you, Mr. and Mrs. Smoker, for giving us this phrase?

West Texans Get New Deal

New Deal In Prices Enjoyed By Texas Ranchers; Second Good Turn Is Being Looked To This Fall

SAN ANGELO, July 5. (AP) — While other agriculturalists await government assistance, the first six months of 1933 end with West Texas ranchmen already enjoying one "new deal" in prices and looking confidently for another this fall.

Wool, mohair, sheep and cattle are estimated to have started more than $22,000,000 flowing into the ranch country of Texas since Jan. 1.

Although slightly more than half of the wool crop has been sold, growers believe the balance virtually is certain to go at the high prices of the season, or 250 per cent greater than last year. This unsold wool includes about 5,000,000 pounds on hand in Texas and from 20 to 25,000,000 pounds of government-mortgaged clips consigned to Boston dealers. Small clips are being sold daily in Texas at from 26 to 28 cents a pound, while the first few sales of government wool in Boston have been in line with the tops paid in Texas.

The estimates, compiled from opinions of various ranch and wool leaders in this section, follow:

Wool sold in Texas has brought an average of 22 cents a pound, or a total of $7,770,000.

Wool yet to sell in Texas and Boston is expected to bring an average of 25 cents a pound for 25,000,000 pounds, or $6,250,000.

Mohair, now virtually sold out, has brought an average of 15 cents a pound for the 6,000,000-pound clip, or a total of $900,000.

Sheep have brought in $1,875,000, based on average prices of $2.50 a head for 70,000 shipped out this spring.

Cattle shipments from the section, including the territory from Midland to Del Rio, Coleman to Presidio, total 250,000 head at an average price of $2, or $5,000,000.

Ten thousand head of horses have been shipped out during the spring at an average price of $30 a head, or $300,000.

The fall sale of West Texas ranch and farm produces may almost equal the value of the spring crops if prices hold up. There will be around 15,000,000 pounds of short wool to go. About 7,500,000 pounds of mohair will be clipped this fall. A half million cattle, 2,000,000 head of lambs and 300,000 old ewes will be shipped out. Add to this the crops of cotton, grain, turkeys, pecans and chickens and the prosperity picture for West Texas is virtually completed.

First Daily Financial Statement Is Issued Under New Government System

WASHINGTON, July 6. (AP)—The treasury today issued its first daily financial statement under the administration's new bookkeeping methods initiated through a "double budget system."

Already the subject of political controversy, the "double budget" appears destined to be an issue in the 1934 congressional and the 1936 presidential campaigns.

The financial statement for July 1, the beginning of the first complete fiscal year under the Roosevelt administration, segregated the "ordinary general expenditures" for government operation, from the "emergency" or "extraordinary" expenditures under various relief acts passed by the last congress.

"The new form of the statement," the treasury said, "will show in a separate group the emergency expenditures under the president's recovery program."

These reports are to be included in the statement on the first and fifteenth of each month.

Under the emergency section there was listed today as having been spent on July 1 for the federal emergency administration of public works a total of $111,617, for industrial recovery $1,540, consevation work $765,944, and Reconstruction Finance corporation $8,412,118.

Ferguson Signs Contracts To Reduce Cotton Acreage

AUSTIN, July 6. (AP) — James E. Ferguson said today he had signed a contract with federal agents calling for a reduction of 40 per cent in the acreage planted to cotton on his farms.

The former governor operates farms in Bosque and Live Oak counties.

The administration, for which Ferguson is spokesman, has urged Texas cotton farmers to cooperate with the federal government in its cotton acreage reduction program.

Owners Of Vehicles Carrying U. S. Mails Are Not Exempt

AUSTIN, July 6. (AP)—The Texas attorney general's department today ruled that owners of vehicles carrying United States mail under contract or on the rural free delivery service were not exempt from payment of the state gasoline tax.

Exemption would be granted if the United States government is to pay for the gasoline either on requisition or by reimbursement of the purchaser, the department held.

It was held in another opinion that gasoline sold to an army post for resale to officers and enlisted personnel also was subject to the state tax unless the sale was made in the pursuit of governmental business.

Crude Prices Start Upward

Fresh Hope For Midcontinent Area Grows Under The Impetus Of Higher Prices Paid For Oil Output

TEXAS, Okla., July 6 (AP)—Fresh hope for an area that has languished for months under low prices for crude oil grew today under the impetus of the second substantial price increase in three weeks.

The new basis of 2,000,000 barrels daily from the midcontinent area carried an average price advance of 25 cents, the new price structure adding $15,000,000 additional monthly income to producers.

Effective this morning many companies began paying 85 cents a barrel top price in the northern half of the area, a flat price of 75 cents in East Texas and on an advanced scale to 63 cents and 65 cents in the two Panhandle Texas districts.

Other purchasers, large and small, were expected to meet the increase today and tomorrow.

Hand in hand with the crude advance came a strong refinery market, with sellers virtually dictating their terms. Quotations yesterday morning were 3 7-8 cents a gallon for the low grade, but by closing time none was available under four cents and marketers were asking 4 1-2 cents as offices opened today.

A full cent advance in refinery prices before the upward movement halts was forecast in some quarters.

Continental Oil company, Ponca City, Okla., was the leader of the upward crude oil price movement yesterday, and was followed quickly by Sinclair-Prairie Oil Marketing company, Barnsdall refineries, Empire pipe line and smaller firms.

The crude price advance was 33 cents a barrel in Oklahoma, 25 cents in East Texas and 27 and 23 cents for the two Panhandle areas. Eastern prices also responded, Pennsylvania grades going 10 and 13 cents a barrel higher, with the Bradford Allegheny top at $1.70 and Ohio prices going up 30 to 33 cents, crossing the dollar a barrel mark.

Inez Merchant Believed To Be Dying As Result Of Crash

VICTORIA, July 6. (AP)—Ben A. Thurmond, 37, an Inez merchant, was believed dying in a hospital here today after his truck collided with two oil field trucks near Inez last night. G. K. Peppers and Frank Gladden, both of Houston, drivers of the other trucks, received only minor injuries.

Thurmond was returning to Inez with a load of ice from Victoria when his truck sideswiped one of the other trucks and then ran diagonally across the road into the other truck.

From 'Way Down Austin Way

Capitol Chatter

By Charles E. Simons

Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, July 6 (AP)—James Shaw, who has served almost six years as state banking commissioner is reluctant to leave Austin to take up his new job as manager of the Texas division of the Home Owners Loan Corp.

Offices of the corporation, created for the purpose of assisting owners of mortgaged property to refinance with the aid of federal funds, will be in Dallas.

Since coming to Austin from Taylor, Shaw has learned to like Austin immensely, he said. He added that while glad to receive the appointment, the hardest thing about leaving will be breaking the ties that bind him to the state capital.

Shaw's attitude toward Austin is similar to many political appointees who come to the capital from other sections of the state and take up permanent residence here when the political wheel of fate turns them out of office.

The troubles that beset home owners will not be new problems to Shaw. He was a director in a building and loan association at Taylor for 20 years and also served as vice president of a Taylor bank.

Shaw says he has enjoyed his years as banking commissioner, despite some difficult situations, especially during the troublesome times early this year when the stability of many banks was threatened.

Shaw virtually was made dictator of Texas banking institutions. He and James E. Ferguson, husband of the governor, worked hand in hand during the crisis. they are political opponents of long standing and Shaw said they didn't make any bones about it, but they agreed to bury the hatchet until the crisis had passed.

Officers Are Elected At Closing Session Of Parley

FORT WORTH, July 6. (AP)—Officers were elected and resolutions passed at the closing session of the annual convention of the Texas division of the National League of District Postmasters today.

Hal M. Knight of Sterling City was named president. Other officers: A. T. Baggett, Midlothian, first vice-president; Virgil Pritchett, Gladewater, second vice-president; Irma Edkridge, Lillian, third vice-president, and Mrs. Martha Luccock, Keene, secretary-treasurer, re-elected.

A resolution was adopted favoring granting of equipment allowance to third-class postmasters and the creation of the civil service status for the third-class postmasters.

Another resolution passed recommended retirement with compensation for third and fourth-class postmasters and also recommended a 5-cent commission to fourth-class postmasters for issuing money orders.

"Keep cool with crisp, light foods"

EVERY ONE has had the experience of eating a heavy meal on a hot day and of feeling loggy and uncomfortable afterwards. In truth, food plays a big part in how we feel.

Crisp, light foods naturally help you feel cooler and fresher. That's why Kellogg's Corn Flakes are so popular when the thermometer begins to climb. Millions of people know Kellogg's mean coolness.

There's good reason too. Kellogg's are crisp, refreshing flakes of corn. Rich in energy—so easy to digest they don't "heat you up." Economical, convenient—no cooking or trouble to prepare.

Countless mothers serve Kellogg's Corn Flakes for the children's evening meal—particularly in summer. It's the kind of light meal that encourages restful sleep.

And no matter how hot or humid the weather, you'll always find Kellogg's crisp and oven-fresh . . . protected by the sealed inside WAXTITE bag. Every package that leaves Battle Creek is guaranteed.

Ballot Forms Being Mailed

Five Proposed Constitutional Amendments Will Be Voted On By Texans At A Special Election August 26

AUSTIN, July 6. (AP)—Ballot forms for the special election Aug. 26 were being mailed out today by the secretary of state to county election officials.

Texans will vote on five proposed constitutional amendments, one affecting the federal constitution and four the state constitution.

The federal question is ratification of the proposed amendment to repeal the eighteenth amendment. Among the state propositions is one that, if adopted, would legalize the manufacture and sale of 3.2 per cent alcoholic beverages.

Repeal of the eighteenth amendment will appear on a separate ballot. The four state questions will be grouped on one ballot.

Prohibitionists and anti-prohibitionists recently selected 31 delegates and 31 alternates to appear on the ballot. The group for repeal of the eighteenth amendment was given first place on the ballot under a heading "for ratification." The anti-repealists were placed opposite under "against ratification."

Other state constitutional questions to be submitted include: county home rule for counties having a population in excess of 62,000; issuance of $20,000,000 in state bonds to aid unemployment relief; extension of the $3,000 homestead exemption to counties where the state tax has been remitted.

San Antonio Man Testifies In His Case For Newspaper

WACO, July 6. (AP)—W. P. Allen of San Antonio testified today in seventy-fourth district court at the eighth day of the trial of his suit to regain control of the Laredo Times or in alternative $280,000. The suit was styled W. P. Allen versus Charles E. Marsh, et al.

In answering Allen's petition, the defendants asserted that any indebtedness to Allen long since had been satisfied and that they had from Allen full receipt and release.

Attorneys in the trial indicated today they expected it to run an additional eight or ten days.

Industry Gets Last Warning

General Counsel States That If Industry Bungles Then Political Control Looms As Certain In Nation

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—A government spokesman bluntly warned American business today that if it fumbles the opportunity for self-government under the national recovery act "the advance of political control over private industry is inevitable."

In uncompromising words Donald R. Richberg, long-time representatie of railroad labor, now general counsel of the recovery administration, said that should the industrial control plan fail it would not be a failure of government, but of the present industrial system, either proving the system fundamentally unsound or indicating its present managers of incapacity to operate it successfully.

Speaks To Merchants

His warning message was contained in a speech to the merchants' association of New York in which was expounded anew the policy of the recovery administration and in which business and labor both were exhorted to come forward quickly.

If the program is not rolling forward within the next sixty days because of holding back by either group, he said, "they will be indicted for incompetence by the suffering millions who are now giving to industrial leadership one more chance —perhaps the last—to justify its authority."

He assured his audience it was not his desire nor the purpose of the administration to politically socialize industry, but that this could not be avoided if business failed to do its part.

Richberg criticized those who hesitate and debate the constitutionality of the new governmental experiment.

Funeral Services Set For Thursday

Last rites for H. R. Black, 63, sheriff of Motley county six years and chief deputy sheriff of Dickens county the last two years, were to have been conducted late yesterday afternoon at the Church of Christ in Matador. Two daughters were expected to arrive by airplane from Chicago.

The death was attributed to heart attack, Sheriff W. B. Arthur of Dickens county said here yesterday.

Deputy Sheriff Black, a resident of Motley and Dickens counties about 40 years, died about 6 p. m. Tuesday in his home at Spur, soon after drinking a glass of ice water upon his return from Roaring Springs, where he had investigated a holdup. Sheriff Arthur then was at Stamford.

Of the two daughters who intended to fly from Chicago, one lives there and the other had left her home in Houston to attend A Century of Progress exposition. A widow, two sons, one at Lorenzo and the other at Moran, and another daughter, living at Spur, are among the immediate survivors. A brother, Arch Black, lives at Matador, and another at Moran.

Deputy Sheriff Black was a Mason.

Protest Against Closing Of Weather Bureau Post Lodged

WASHINGTON, July 6. (AP) — A protest against the proposed closing of the Fort Worth weather bureau was made to Secretary Wallace and weather bureau officials today by Representative Lanham of Texas.

If the bureau must be discontinued now, he suggested that it be reopened as soon as possible. Weather bureau officials took the protest under advisement after assuring Lanham weather information could be obtained expeditiously from the nearby Dallas weather bureau by interests needing it, and the understanding was that some equitable arrangement likely would be worked out for serving Fort Worth.

Ruth's Homer With Mate On Wins All-Star Classic For American Loop

Mighty Clout Supported By His Own Shag

Hand-Packed Junior Loop Stars Beat Nationals, 4-2; Great Crowd Jams Comiskey Park To See Baseball's Dream

BY PAUL NICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

COMISKEY PARK, CHICAGO, July 6.—Out of the shooting stars of baseball's big dream game blazed the mighty war club of the one and only Babe Ruth today to hoist the American League to a spectacular 4 to 2 triumph over the National League in the first all-star game in the majors' history.

Before 49,000 fans who jammed Comiskey Park to see the stars of stars in action, the aging sultan of swat strode to the plate in the third inning, bristling with anger because of a strikeout in his first appearance, and smote one of Bill Hallahan's looping slants into the lower right field grand stand seats. The blow, a line drive that every one knew was a homer as soon as it left the Babe's came with Charley Gehringer of Detroit on base and clinched the game.

Then He Catches One

Baseball's greatest single panorama of stars, hand-picked aces of each league, came from baseball's big show in the back yard of Chicago's White Sox to provide thrills such as Lonnie Warneke's relief pitching and hitting, Frankie Frisch's home run, great catches and hard drives. But the Babe was the biggest showman of them all. His home run specialty won the game, but to top it all off, he raced back against the right field wall to haul down a drive by Chick Hafey in the eighth to save the battle. It was a remarkable catch of a ball labelled as a triple with Frisch on first racing for home. Ruth departed from the battle ground after that, and the throng, excited and roaring, thundered a big ovation to the greatest slugger of them all.

Warneke Ranks Second

As Ruth's long range hit won the game and his great catch helped save it, none of the stars even came close to matching him as the hero of the day, but Warneke ranked second. The Pride of the Ozarks relieved Hallahan in the third inning, halted a rally by forcing Al Simmons of the White Sox to hit into a double play, and scored the first run for his mates after slamming a triple to right that Ruth lunged for and missed.

Warneke allowed six hits and one run in the four innings to muffle the big American League guns. Then there were Lefty Grove, ace southpaw of the Athletics and Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants, who received big ovations for their relief pitching. In three innings, Grove, successor to Alvin Crowder of Washington, who allowed three hits and two runs in three innings, allowed but three hits. Hubbell yielded but one hit in two innings but the damage had been done.

Muggsy McGraw Rushes To Pass Compliments To American Team

Fiery Skipper Of Yesterday Wanted To Win Mighty Bad, But Praises Victors Over His National Leaguers

BY CHARLES DUNKELY
Associated Press Sports Writer

COMISKEY PARK, CHICAGO, July 6. (AP)—After the last ball sank into Rick Ferrell's glove today, ending the baseball classic with the American Leaguers victorious, old John McGraw, leader of the National Leaguers, bounded out of the dugout and shouldered his way through the crowd to the dressing rooms of his conquerors to extend congratulations.

The fiery "Muggsy" McGraw, leader of the New York Giants for thirty years, now sixty years old, wanted to win today's game as greatly as he ever wanted to win anything. He had been lured off the back porch of his home in Pelham, N. Y., out of baseball retirement, to pilot the National League all-stars, and their failure to win was a disappointment.

"Hallahan Was Bad"

"It was splendid game, wasn't it?" he asked. "Hallahan is either good or bad—and he was bad today. They got the breaks and won. We had a couple of chances to even it up or go into the lead but failed. Babe Ruth checked one of our spots when he went to the wall to get Hafey's long fly. I thought sure it was going for a home run.

"Ruth? He was marvelous. That old boy certainly came through when they needed him."

After reaching the dressing room of the American Leaguers, McGraw went immediately to the 71-year-old Connie Mack, extending his hand in felicitation. They chatted for a minute and then McGraw went to the dressing room of the players, where all who knew him greeted him with a friendly "Hello John," and "wasn't it swell?"

Want It Repeated

Both Mack and McGraw praised the spectacle and hoped that it would be repeated annually.

The two leaders were besieged by autograph hunters, this time ball players instead of fans. The players wanted the two veteran managers to autograph their baseballs.

Ruth, who knocked a sizzling homer into the right field stands for the first home run smash of the game, was as happy as a school kid over his feat and the victory of his teammates.

"Wasn't it swell? Didn't we win?" he asked with a wide grin on his face.

But John's Through

While McGraw sat down there in the National League dug out, nattily attired in a brown suit and a white sailor hat, he was looking through the dust of many baseball diamonds—the years when Christy Matthewson was one of his prides, the years of Frank Chance and Johnny Kling, the stars of other days who swept past in his vision.

But McGraw has no desire to return to the game that made him an idol for thirty years.

"I'm through with it. I have quit," he said.

TAKE IT EASY BEFORE YOU HIT THE BALL

Before starting out to play take a half dozen or more practice swings to warm up and get the feel of the club and swing.

Consciously aim at keeping as fully relaxed as possible to avoid against tension in any set of muscles.

Try to remember that the start of the swing must be slow, pushing the club back with the left arm and hand, and not picking it up in a hurry. Wait for the end of the backswing before starting the club down.

There is a turn back, or a shift of the hips as the club starts down, but the shoulder turn must take place slowly and deliberately.

South Plains League Split For Last Half

Winner Northern Division To Play Victor Of South For Second Half Title; Membership Remains The Same

The South Plains Baseball league will be divided into two sections during the second half of the season, winners in each section to play a series for the second half championship, the ultimate winner to play Tahoka for the league championship.

Managers and team delegates met here last night in the first regular session of the second half to recognize Tahoka as the first half champion and to revise and alter several sections of the league constitution.

Under the division of the league, the northern teams will play a round robin schedule for the championship of the north half, meeting the winner of the south half. Thus no team of the northern division will play any member of the southern group until the end of the regular playing season.

Lubbock Is Southern Group

According to the division accepted last night, Lubbock, Tahoka, Slaton and Abernathy will compose the southern bracket, with Morton, Levelland, Enochs and Amherst in the southern branch.

The league membership remained the same. There was no bid for the franchise offered for sale by Morton, whose representative, C. N. Woods, said that Morton would "sell out" to any team willing to buy the franchise, but would not willingly drop out of the league.

It had been rumored that Post was seeking membership in the league, but the caprock town was not represented at last night's meeting.

Started July 4

Games of July 4, which opened the second half of the season, are to be counted in the second half race, since the contests were restricted to teams within their respective groups. The schedule for the rest of the season will be altered.

Games for Sunday, July 9, were arranged last night. In the northern division, Enochs will play at Morton and Amherst at Levelland. In the northern group, Lubbock will go to Tahoka and Slaton will play at Abernathy.

Delegates to the meeting passed on a motion to continue playing only Sunday games during the second half. According to the original schedule, two games were to be played each week.

The league amended another section of the constitution in order to allow each manager to revise his player list for the second half. Each team is allowed 25 players, although it is not necessary for all of them to be listed immediately. Managers are to submit player lists next week.

Morton, Levelland, Abernathy, Enochs, Tahoka, Slaton and Lubbock were represented last night. Amherst did not send a representative.

"The Haig" Leads British Open With One-Stroke Margin With Round Of 72

Leo Diegel Has Best Round Of Day With 70

BY FRANK H. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, June 6. Despite a succession of blistering attacks on par and his lead, Walter Hagen of Detroit, 40-year-old American veteran of the golfing wars, kept in front of field today, at the halfway mark of the British Open championship, with figures of 68-72—140 and a one-stroke margin over his big American rival, Ed Dudley, with 70-71—141 for 36 holes.

"The Haig," as much a favorite of the Scotch galleries as any Briton and now seeking to capture his fifth British Open crown, was as steady as a rock during his second round, with Dudley already in front of him and Gene Sarazen, the defending champion, in hot pursuit. Hagen got his second straight birdie four at the famous "road hole," No. 17 on the old course, to keep his one-shot margin over Dudley and Sarazen staggering on the inward nine.

Sarazen Stands At 145

The champion, out in a dazzling 33, took three shots to get out of the "hill bunker" on the short 11th hole, carding a six. He took 40 strokes altogether over the last nine for a 73 and a total of 145. The question as to whether Sarazen took three or four blows in the sand trap on his "Waterloo" hole became so acute that it was brought to the attention of the championship committee, which ruled three was correct, confirming the champion's six, and stated there was no reflection on the American because of the rumors of a miscount which gained widespread attention in the galleries.

Altogether during the day, ten Americans shot par golf or better under ideal scoring conditions but Abe Mitchell, the 46-year-old private golfing tutor to Samuel Ryder, contributed to a strong British rally with a sensational 68, five under par, for a total of 142.

Mitchell Looks Great

Mitchell's great round, 33 out and 35 in, looked like a certain 67 until he took his only five on the par four home hole. It gave him a tie for third place, two strokes behind the leader, with young Fred Robertson, the British "dark horse" of the tournament who has only been home a short while from a golfing job in the Argentine. Robertson posted 71-71—142.

The American ranks were further split by big Cyril Tolley, British amateur, with 70-73—143 for fifth place, Henry Cotton, pro at the Waterloo club, Belgium, and Aubrey Boomer, sharpshooting French professional, each with totals of 144 and a tie for sixth position.

Thus, there were seven players bunched within four strokes of each other and five more, including Sarazen, were only five shots away. Leo Diegel shot the best American round of the day, a 70, and moved into the group tied at 145 for eighth place. The others were Joe Kirkwood, Syd Easterbrook and William Spark.

Twelve of the fourteen Americans survived the final elimination process, by which the big field was reduced to 61 players who scored 152 or better, in preparation for the final 36 holes tomorrow. Two Ryder Cup stars, Paul Runyan and Bill Burke passed out of the picture with 153 and 159, respectively, while Olin Dutra, the Californian who holds the American P. G. A. title, just got under the wire with 152.

The survivors included George T. Dunlap, r., New York amateur, with the good total of 146, matching the 36-hole cards of Horton Smith and Denny Shute, American professionals, Ross (Sandy) Somerville, Canadian holder of the United States amateur championship, qualified with 151, while Johnny Farrell of New York had 148, Joe Ezar of Waco, Texas, and Craig Wood of Deal, N. J., 149 each.

Sports Beat Reporters In National League Game; American Is Defaulted

Taking a two-run lead early in the game, the J. & J. Sporting Goods company soft ball team of the National league defeated the Avalanche-Journal team, 5 to 3, in a close contest at the Fair Park grounds yesterday.

The American league game, scheduled between Weiss-Truck Terminal and the Lubbock Clearing House association, was defaulted by the Bankers, who have indicated they will withdraw from competition in the league.

In today's games, the Federal Employees are to meet Dee's Coffee Shop at the 22nd street park in the American league game, while Texas Utilities and Kuykendall Chevrolet tangle in the National league.

"Rotarians" Win Over "Kiwanians"

In a tight game featured by fine infield play and close pitching, the Rotary club in the Lubbock junior baseball league defeated the Kiwanians, 7 to 6, yesterday at the 22nd street park.

Davidson and Campbell pitched for the winners, with the Sanford brothers tossing for the Kiwanians.

Hill, shortstop for the Rotarians, executed a fine double play during the game, stepping back to shag what looked like a "Texas Leaguer" and do a somersault to second base, doubling out the batsman at first.

In today's game, the A.B.C. team meets the Lions on the latter's park.

The four teams are sponsored by Lubbock's four civic clubs, and are composed of boys under 17 years of age.

Helen Wills Moody Swings Into Final Action At Wimbledon With Victory At Expense Of German Star; Vines "In"

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 6. (AP)—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody moved serenely along toward her sixth Wimbledon singles title today but the prospect of an all-American final in the famous tennis championships was removed as Helen Jacobs, her fellow townsman from Berkeley, Calif., went down before Dorothy Round in the semi-finals.

Mrs. Moody, playing uninspired but effective tennis, defeated Hilda Krahwinkel, ranking German star, 6-4, 6-3 in the first semi-final but Miss Jacobs then was eliminated by Miss Round, second ranking English player, in an endurance contest 4-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Of the two matches that between the American champion and Miss Round was the most dramatic with the English girl pulling through to victory largely on greater stamina.

There was little for the galleries to applaud in the Moody-Krahwinkel semi-final, the tall German girl—one of the largest women playing tennis — finding herself pitted against a tennis machine which kept returning the ball until the Fraulein sent it outside the lines or into the net.

The German threw caution to the winds on a few occasions and charged the net to count winning points but she could not keep to the pace and Mrs. Moody never relaxed the pressure.

Miss Ryan Loses

The day was not a happy one for American fans as Mrs. Moody herself lost out in mixed doubles as did Elizabeth Ryan, the former Californian.

Paired with George Patrick Hughes, the English Davis Cup player, Mrs. Moody was put out in the quarter-final round by Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree and C. H. Kingsley, veteran English combination, 6-4, 6-4. Miss Ryan and her Spanish partner, Enrique Maier, were defeated by Baron Gottfried Von Cramm and Fraulein Krahwinkel of Germany, 6-1, 7-5.

The doubles play moved to the last stages with only Miss Ryan surviving. Paired with Mme. Rene Mathieu, of France, she will meet Mrs. Elsie Goldback Pittman and Joan Ridley, of England, tomorrow in a semi-final match.

French Stars Win

Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon, defending titleholders from France, won their final brackets in men's doubles and will meet the winner of the other semi-final between R. Nunoi and Jiro Satoh, of Japan, and Baron Von Cramm and E. Nourney, of Germany.

Ellsworth Vines, jr., and Jack Crawford, men's singles finalists, rested today in preparation for their feature encounter tomorrow, the climax of the championships. Vines still rules the favorite to defend his title but the Australian and French champion is expected to give him much more of a battle than he did last year in the semi-finals, where Vines won 6-2, 6-1, 6-3.

Here's A Golf Marathon For You; Beaumont Lad Warms Up

BEAUMONT, July 6. (AP)—A sandy thatched 17-year-old Beaumont lad, Dick Barlow, today claimed the world's one-day marathon golf crown.

He presented these properly attested statistics:

Holes played — 234; twenty-six times around the 9-hole Beaumont municipal golf course.

Elapsed time—15 hours, 5 minutes, including two 30-minute rest periods.

Average for each round—45.

Best round—39; par for course, 36.

Barlow traveled approximately 70 miles on his tour, losing eight pounds from his normal scaling of 130 pounds. He trotted on his first 11 rounds but the day's heat wore him down to a walk later on, although he was able to score a 40 on his last round.

Dallas Signs Flaskamper To Play Second Base For Herd

DALLAS, July 6 (AP)—The Dallas, Texas League baseball club today signed Ray Flaskamper to play second base. Member of the 1929 championship Dallas club, Flaskamper was signed as a free agent.

Flaskamper recently was released by Oklahoma City after his recovery from injuries which had kept him from playing for some time. He will be used tonight in place of Ray Morehart, who has been suffering leg trouble.

NEW YORK, July 6. — Primo Carnera, world heavyweight boxing champion, testified at a hearing today in his bankruptcy proceedings that he has only an automobile and bank accounts of $565 and $66 with which to meet his creditors' claims.

The Irving Trust company was appointed bankruptcy trustee for Carnera's assets at the first creditors' meeting before Referee Peter B. Onley, jr. The next session was set for August 15.

Max Hockmore, Carnera's attorney, said the boxer's purse in the fight in which he won the championship from Jack Sharkey was tied up in litigation growing out of Carnera's managerial difficulties.

Parker And Coen Earn Way To National Clay Courts Finals

CHICAGO, July 6 (AP) — Frankie Parker, young Milwaukee stylist, and Wilbur (Junior) Coen of Kansas City, battled their way into the semi-finals of the national clay courts singles championship tournament, and battled was the word for it.

Parker, top-seeded and the favorite, had to come from behind to get past Berkeley Bell, fiery little star from Austin, Tex., rushing to the net at every opportunity and breaking through Parker's service, frequently, Bell won the first two sets, 7-9, 4-6. He weakened, however, and the methodical Milwaukee youngster won the next three, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

Coen won a place opposite Parker in the semi-finals by staging a fine rally to eliminate Jack Tidball, the hard hitting Californian who holds the intercollegiate title. Like Parker, Coen lost the first two sets, but gained control in time to win, 4-6, 4-6, 6-0, 8-6, 6-3.

Brutal Slaying Proves Climax

Series Of Misfortunes Suffered By Death Victim Unfolded; Husband Declares She Was Very Sick

SAN ANTONIO, July 6 (AP)—The brutal slaying of Mrs. Alma Dell Cabble Sunday in a fashionable apartment house where she had been lured by promise of work was the climax of a series of misfortunes which beset her during her life, her husband, Private George W. (Barney) Cabble of Kelly field, revealed today.

"Alma Dell was a very sick woman when she was killed," Cabble said as he prepared to attend the funeral of his wife. "She had just been released from the base hospital at Fort Sam Houston June 17 following a serious operation on May 13."

While Mrs. Cabble, 34, was being laid to rest yesterday afternoon in a local cemetery a charge of murder in connection with her death was filed against June Woolfolk, 36-year-old negro.

In a written statement to police, Woolfolk told of calling the victim to a temperarily-unoccupied apartment by promising her work in response to an advertisement she had placed. His statement gave all details of the crime, telling of the woman being struck over the head with a length of lead pipe and a milk bottle.

Madical Testimony Given In Trial Is Strongly Criticised

Sharply criticizing medical testimony offered in the case of Cramer McMillan Grant against the United States for war risk insurance, Judge Jas. C. Wilson of U. S. District court yesterday instructed a jury to find a verdict for the defendant.

A long list of witnesses, including numerous physicians, testified. Judge Wilson declared that medical testimony in the suit had no probative value.

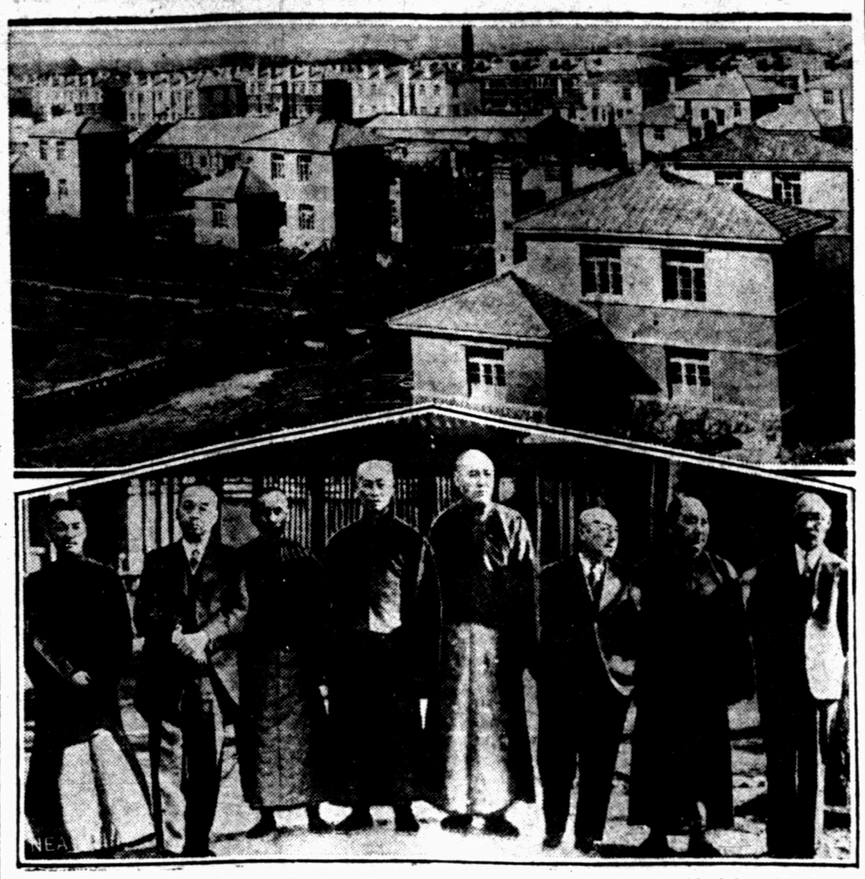

Trial of the case of Earl Clifton Jones against the United States for war risk insurance was begun yesterday. The case was being presented before Judge Wilson.

Suspended Sentence Proves A Close Tether; Vester Ritchie Is In Jail

A suspended sentence proving to be a close tether, Vester Ritchie last night was in county jail as a federal prisoner again. Ritchie was transferred there earlier Thursday from city jail here, where he was held in lieu of payment of two misdemeanor fines.

Ritchie and Reagan Morrison pleaded guilty in United States district court here June 26 of passing a counterfeit bill. The next day Judge James C. Wilson sentenced each to two years in the United States reformatory at Chillicothe, Ohio, and suspended each sentence for three years.

Police July 1 arrested Ritchie in the business district for fighting and drunkenness. He subsequently pleaded guilty in corporation court of each charge and was fined $15 and $10 respectively.

Ritchie was charged with fighting a man who as a witness for the prosecution had testified to receiving a counterfeit note, police said. Harold Mayfield, a filling station attendant here, was the person who accepted from two youths a $10 bill subsequently identified as spurious.

Ritchie, 20, and Morrison, 18, live here.

Where U. S. Power Control Is At Stake

New River, the most controversial stream in America, and the site of a proposed hydro-electric power dam, are shown in this air view. On decision soon to be made by a North Carolina federal court of appeals rests the constitutionality of vital sections of the federal water power act. The Appalachian Electric Power Co., is appealing a decision that the government could regulate the company's construction of dams on tributary streams. The particular proposed dam is indicated in the picture and map, just above the confluence of Little River, shown at the extreme left, with the larger stream, New River, in Virginia.

An Unexpected Benefit

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S Civilian Conservation corps camps are doing something more in the war against depression than even the chief executive counted on when he put his plan into operation.

Not only are they affording employment for many young men and a monthly stipend for dependents back home. In addition, they are pouring a silver stream into the hands of farmers whose lands are adjacent to the camps far removed from centers of population, which naturally gives rise to the wish that we had one near Lubbock.

There are 1,400 Civilian Conservation corps camps scattered where city distractions do not compete. Most of them are not immediately accessible to a railroad station. A lot of them are quite remote. All are being provisioned under the army rationing system with a quartermaster officer in charge.

The average camp takes a great deal of supplies: 18 dozen eggs and 15 gallons of milk a day; fresh vegetables and fresh meat; 175 carloads of flour a month. And except for the flour, most of these provisions are purchased from farmers in the immediate vicinity.

This applies to beef on the hoof, or several beeves at a time. The animals are butchered very much like they are on South Plains farms and ranches. The same is true of sheep and hogs.

Measured by the individual camp, this new avenue of farm revenue perhaps doesn't mean so much. But it does mean for some farmers cash in hand without commissions—and cash is an important item anywhere today.

From a long range view it looks as though the forest camps might be solving the problem of current spending money for many farmer-neighbors.

INDUSTRIAL RECOVERY AT HOME

Printers and publishers of the South Plains area were here yesterday pondering the National Industrial Recovery act as it applies to their business.

In other words, they were engaging in the pastime general over the country in connection with the recovery act—that of butting their heads against a brick wall impressively decked with red tape.

As viewed by The Morning Avalanche, unless other industries have a more workable background than that offered the printing trades the National Industrial Recovery act will wind up in the limbo of forgotten things—comparable to the Hoover "commissions" of yester-year.

And this view is not biased from a standpoint of operations of Avalanche-Journal Publications, because yesterday's problems all had to do particularly with commercial printing establishments caring for the branch of the printing business in which Avalanche-Journal papers are not engaged.

FOREST WORK HELPS

Robert Fechner, director of emergency conservation work, sees some early relief for local relief organizations as result of operation of the President's reforestation program.

Approximately 250,000 men now are enrolled in the reforestation service, he says, and these already have made arrangements for allotment of part of their wages to more than 300,000 families. As soon as the money reaches the latter, he thinks, many families now on relief lists will have their requirements lessened, thus decreasing the demands upon the budgets of local relief bodies.

It is not alone in wages, though, and the effect of these upon relief organizations that benefits are expected. The government is spending millions of dollars in equipping the forest army. Food alone is costing $90,000 a day, while more than $4,600,000 is going for clothing, tents and other equipment and $185,000 for athletic equipment. This money is going into trade channels, thus stimulating many lines of business.

These are results that are not to be despised. It would be unwise, however, to lose sight of the fact that this money eventually comes from the public. As long as the spending continues, business and general conditions will be helped. But when the source of the funds eventually dries up, there may be another story.

The administration expects, of course, that by the time the reforestation work and other public relief projects are completed business will have reached a point of recovery where it will be able to continue without artificial aids. The country will hope that this view proves to be true, but there must remain the possibility that the theory may be upset.

Normal times are when you lose $50 in your berth and the porter doesn't think it a tip.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

THESE boys in the Forest Army camps must be living the life of Riley, however he lived.

First they acquired de luxe toilet sets that almost required a dressing table.

Now it develops they're sleeping 65 cents more comfortably than their brothers in khaki.

• • •

The Civilian Conservation Corps had purchased for it up to June 21 a total of 247,742 canvas cots.

Prices ranged from $3.09 to $3.25 a cot.

Quartermaster Corps specifications for the middle of May stipulated that the Regular Army was not to pay more than $2.45 a cot.

• • •

Orders for these Forest Army cots were handled by the Army Q.M.C. They were not placed en bloc. Rather, they were ordered piecemeal in the various corps areas.

As of June 10 a total of 189,000 cots had been delivered at a cost of $586,512. This figures out $3.10 apiece.

The order placed by the Philadelphia Quartermaster will do for an illustration. It was awarded the National Synthetic Wood Co. of Wilmington, N. C. This firm sold the government 20,000 cots at $3.10 and 5,000 at $3.25.

TRAVEL: President Roosevelt is expected to visit Puerto Rico next winter or spring. As did Herbert Hoover, he will make the voyage aboard a battleship.

One of the ports of call probably will be the Virgin Islands.

Former President Hoover spent five hours at this West Indian outpost and left to declare the Virgin Islands were "the world's most effective poor house."

• • •

CODES: An interesting development is impending in connection with formation of industrial codes.

Newspapers are as liable to regulation as any other form of industry.

Irregularity of newspaper hours is notorious. When a reporter gets on a hot story he may go forty-eight hours or more without sleep to wind it up.

A New York tabloid with huge circulation has established the practicability of the five-day week—possibly excepting a reporter's occasional forays into the realms of smash news.

• • •

SHIPS: Uncle Sam has been a Big-Time Charlie in underwriting sea-going rowboats.

Between 1916 and June 30, 1931, we spent $3,695,000,000 on ship building and operation. And got back $80,000,000. This included the war period, of course, with its infamous "wooden fleet," et cetera.

But we rounded out last year by lending $154,000,000 for merchant ship construction at interest running clear down to 1-4 of one per cent.

• • •

Germany, pleading inability to pay her debts, has just laid a further subsidy on top of her extraordinary merchant marine development of 1932. Japan, Italy and Holland are spending taxes for similar tonnage expansions.

Join the merchant marine and see the world from permanent anchor.

• • •

NOTES: From a five-four observation of the Virgin Islands when Mr. Hoover was there this column would be inclined to offer sympathy to any visitor. . . . Certainly it's no place to spend a vacation. . . . Speaking of the V. I., a letter was delivered to the experimental camp for unemployed women at Bear Mountain, N. Y. the other day which bore the address "Virgin Islands," among other directions. . . . Judging from the news pictures a better address would be c-o the Bloomer Girls.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

THE Stock Exchange is already jittery about what the next congress is going to do to it.

A conservative eastern senator passed through New York recently and left a trail of woe. He told his Wall Street friends the senate will be gunning for their scalps in earnest when it meets again. He said the bill to regulate the Exchange which was drawn but never introduced isn't a patch to what some of the boys have in mind.

Exchange authorities are rather up a tree about it. They don't want to limit trading too sharply for fear it would interfere with psychology. Yet they know the public is back in the market and in a position to get burned in the event of a reaction. If that happens they expect louder yells for their heads than ever before.

• • •

BANKS: The New York banks aren't going to withdraw from the Federal Reserve System but it wouldn't do them a bit of good if they did. New York State is framing legislation along the lines of the Glass-Steagall bill which will be pushed through at the next session of the legislature. The Federal Reserve frying pan will be no hotter than the New York State fire.

Governor Lehman and Banking Superintendent Broderick are both in sympathy with plans for a unified banking system. Their cooperation with the Federal Government is far from accidental. They have decided that the state will not provide a refuge for deserters.

• • •

The New York banks lost nearly a hundred million dollars more in out-of-town deposits last week. They are quite resigned to it now but they hope the worst is over. At the same time they cut loans and investments by $126,000,000 which they trust will prove to someone that you can't expand credit while losing deposits.

• • •

TAMMANY: Tammany is elated over a deal it has just put across with Jim Farley. The arrangement provides that Federal city patronage will be left in Tammany's hands. In return Tammany abdicates from its upstate pretensions.

Still more important, the boys obtained a promise of administration neutrality as between the Tammany and Fusion Mayoralty tickets this fall. That was a valuable victory because Fusion leaders have been counting on support from high quarters.

But Tammany got up too early in the morning for them. They figured Mr. Roosevelt had something to think about besides New York municipal politics. They thought if they said "Uncle" in convincing tones he would leave them in peace. They were right.

• • •

DRUGS: The inside reason for the dissolution of Drug, Inc., was a desire to get from under some real estate leases. United Drug—its subsidiary—has a flock of them and is drifting into legal troubles. Landlords were threatening to sue the whole organization in an attempt to collect from the solvent manufacturing companies. Now the manufacturing companies will be free to pursue their profitable ways in peace.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BARRETT COLVIN, back in New York after four years, meets 20-year-old ELINOR STAFFORD and falls in love with her. Barrett is 35, wealthy and has made a name for himself as an archeologist.

Elinor's beautiful mother, LIDA STAFFORD, has kept the girl in the background, wanting attention for herself. Lida is carrying on a flirtation with VANCE CARTER and is constantly scheming to keep in the good graces of MISS ELLA SEXTON, her husband's aunt, in order to inherit a share of the Sexton fortune. Elinor hates this hypocrisy.

Barrett's half-sister, MARCIA RADNOR, is terrified for fear her husband will learn of an unfortunate episode in her past. Years before Barrett shielded Marcia when a youthful romance ended disastrously, Marcia had a son whom Barrett adopted. The boy is nine years old now. Marcia insists that if her husband learns the truth he will never forgive her.

HAROLD DEXTER, the boy's tutor, threatens blackmail. Barrett, hinting at knowledge of Dexter's past (all of which is bluff), frightens the man into promising he will not make trouble.

At Miss Ella Sexton's home Barrett meets Elinor Stafford again and takes her for a drive.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IX

A few moments later Barrett tucked Elinor into the green roadster which he had had the foresight earlier to order left before his door.

"What a nice car" she murmured.

He was absurdly pleased that she liked it. He settled beside her saying, "Must I take you straight home or can we have a short drive?"

"I'd love to go for a drive!" Elinor answered. The way she said it made Barrett want to put his hand over hers; wanted to do this with a new and shaken intensity. He had found his anesthetic, he realized. The troubles of the past few days that had been haunting him were already growing dim.

"Do you like to drive?" he asked.

"Yes, I do—but not in a glass cage," she answered. "I like open cars in which you seem close to the earth and can feel the wind on your face."

"So do I," Barrett agreed.

Elinor wondered what to say next; she never did know. Barrett, too, was wondering whether she considered him a dull, middle-aged bore. He wished he had learned more about women from any one of them he had known.

She admitted falteringly a moment later, "I'm afraid you'll be bored because I never know what to say—"

He laughed delightedly. "That's good to hear," he said, "because I was afraid you'd be wearied on the same score."

She raised big, amazed eyes to his. For a second he ignored the traffic to look down and his heart told him that she was a darling child and that he was not so old as he had thought. And then all at once they were talking.

She didn't know why it was, Elinor admitted that she always felt constrained at her aunt's. Did he like Miss Smythe? She thought she didn't quite understand Miss Smythe. No, Barrett said, he didn't understand Miss Smythe either. And Craven, she said, made her feel embarrassed too. The way he called out her name when she entered the drawing room. Did he know the picture of the frog in "Alice in Wonderland"? Craven looked so much like that frog!

• • •

Barrett had headed the car down town into the narrow streets that are silent and open to echoes on Sundays, the same streets that hum on working days. Here and there in windows were lights, muted by the late afternoon to pale lemon, but most of the cloud-brushing buildings slept. The comparative stillness made Barrett feel alone with the girl. He doubted (the thought coming to him in a flash) whether most men in the throes of an intense love affair could be as happy as he was at that moment. He felt absurdly content.

He turned the car to a bridge below which the river proclaimed itself in the thickening twilight by holding its unsteady mirror to the lights.

"I've never been here at this hour. I think it's beautiful!" she said softly.

Barret thought, "I knew you would." He did not speak and he knew he did not need to. He had never felt so completely that everything was as it should be. He had a flash of misty memory; the same feeling that had been his as a very small boy with his face against his mother's shoulder. That phase had been short. She had died just after his tenth birthday and within two years is stepmother, Rita, had begun her rule. Rita had never grown quite accustomed to the chills of the northern climate and had remained heatedly Spanish to the end. She had coqueted or ignored but had never seen him as a child. "I've been lonely," Barrett realized with surprise, "and never even knew it!" He was not lonely now.

"I've never talked this way to anyone before," Elinor admitted wonderingly.

Though the words were close to his lips Barrett did not speak them. "I love you!" his heart was crying out. "I love you!"

• • •

The girl was entirely unconscious of all this. She rode beside him, drinking in the beauty of the fading day. Across the bridge in Brooklyn Barrett set his car to a speed in keeping with the sedate hush of the streets. He had always been certain that successful marriages were mad aftr a calm consideration and selection. He had thought often, "If I ever marry it will not be because I have been swept off my feet."

Now he realized that he knew nothing of the mind of the girl who was beside him and yet he wanted—as he'd never wanted anything—to have her by him for the stretch of his life. The conviction had come as suddenly as a lightning flash that suddenly flares to reveal a landscape sidden by darkness.

He had had many interests to which he had given generously of his superb energy. He had thought sometimes, working with his crew and sustained by the hope of discovering a valuable find, that he could never know such absorption in any other way. Now he knew that old hopes had been frail, that all past interests would be paled if he had the chance to care for this girl, to give her everything he had.

"Better go slowly," he warned himself. Aloud he said, "Are you comfortably warm, Miss Stafford?"

"Yes, thank you," she responded in an undertone and not quite steadily. Here beside her was a man who would not lie, who was strong and gentle and kind. As a child she had adored him. Now she was doing it again; willingly, humbly and with all her heart.

"Do you remember giving me a box of candy years ago?" she asked.

"No, I don't."

"Well, one day I was at Aunt Ella's. There were a lot of older people there and you came in and found me sitting on a stool turning the pages—I suppose rather wearily—of 'The Lives of the Saints.' You dropped to the floor beside me to make the most amusing comments on some of the pictures. I'm sure you must have shocked Aunt Ella terribly. Then you went away and half an hour later Higgins appeared with a wonderful box of candy. For me! A pink box with a ribbon on it. I've never forgotten it!"

"I'm glad to hear you say so," he murmured.

"I've never forgotten it," she assured him, "and I never shall!"

• • •

Elinor sat back against the seat, smiling. The relaxation she felt was so good. Usually people, unless she knew them well (and she knew few people well), made her tense.

They passed a corner of the street where the Thropes lived. "Dear Aunt Bessie," the girl thought, "I must go to see her soons" The tenderness that was within her was spreading over wide area. Perhaps she would never have such an afternoon as this again. Well, she could remember it as she had that rosy box of candy and its donor, a young man who had seen a little girl looking lonely and rather forlorn.

It was a strange mood that had come over her—one she did not understand. Perhaps, she reminded herself, she should be talking. Her companion might be bored by her silence.

She turned toward him. "My aunt and uncle live in Brooklyn," she said. Then she flushed. That must have sounded silly.

But he did not seem to think so. "The Thropes?" he asked.

"Yes."

"I like women of Mrs. Thrope's type," he stated.

"She's really wonderful! I love her. She's been very kind to me."

"They have boys?"

"Yes, three of them. Getting along to college age. You'll see them at Aunt Ella's some day, I presume."

Again Elinor hoped as she had a thousand times that Aunt Ella would put the Thrope boys through college. Uncle Jim never seemed to have any luck. Everything seemed to go bad for him. Sometimes Elinor, in her young way, felt that she couldn't endure it if Aunt Ella didn't give the Thropes the help they so deserved. They were so good, so kind, all of them.

Another bridge. That meant not so many moments before they would reach the yawning, canopied door that would admit her to the apartment building she called home and never felt to be a home.

"I've enjoyed the drive so much!" she said as the roadster nosed its way up Park Avenue.

"Really?" he asked probingly.

"Oh, yes, Really!"

"Then can't we go again?" he asked, as casually as he could.

"If you like."

"I do like!" he assured her almost sharply. "I'd like nothing so much as to be one of your friends."

"Oh," she said, "that is so kind of you!"

He put his hand on hers; he could not help the gesture. Elinor returned the pressure frankly and warmly. Barrett's heart turned over.

Letters To The Editor

March Of Alcohol Is Decribed; History Is Recounted

Editor, The Avalanche: Lest we forget, those of us who have lived in pre-prohibition days, should look back 20 or more years and we peer earnestly into the past, we shall see emerging, like a serpent crawling upon the ground and winding its way down through the ages, a great army of ragged, bleary-eyed individuals; some staggering, some reeling and some in their distorted imaginations, fleeing from snakes and demons. A vile creature is leading an army of human derelicts! He carries not a sword or gun but a bottle with which to conquor! His name is Alcohol and he is of the house of Satan. He is the father of harlots and despoilers of homes. The underworld has always claimed him as its own. A liar and deceiver he has always been. Where he was born, no man knows it is lost in the mysteries of the past. Full grown he was when history began. Literature, ancient and modern, tells of his vices.

But look. In this strange army are people we know. There is Noah, and Lott with his sons begotten of his daughters when he was drunk; there is Belshazzer and Herod, and yonder, fiddling as he staggers along is Nero. There is Lord Byron and Edgar Allen Poe. As we look in disgust upon this vision, friends, neighbors, kinsmen, criminals and insane pass in view. In horror we look upon this human wreckage.

But as your eyes are turned backward, do you not see the army halting and its ranks thinning? Something has happened to check its progress. It has been met by the forces of prohibition and checked by the Eighteenth amendment! The saloon and brewery divisions of alcohol's army have gone down in apparent defeat. But the sad thing is that prohibition withdraws most of his forces and goes home to rest, while Alcohol's forces bide their time. Laughing in diabolical glee Alcohol sends his representatives to spread false propaganda among younger people, who know very little about him and his nefarious business.

Twelve years pass; depression is on; many are hungry, and dissatisfied people are wanting a change. Alcohol's followers are telling people that the Eighteenth amendment is responsible for conditions. A new generation with votes has grown up and many are deceived.

Again Alcohol rallies his army and we can hear the thump, thump, thump, in double quick as he marches on to Washington. He must strike before his enemies can muster their forces. He must capture legislative halls while newly elected officers are still popular! Taking state and national capitols by storm, measures are passed, legalizing 3.2 per cent beer—just an entering wedge, to be widened, little by little, until we shall again be in the power of this hideous creature, Alcohol. His barrel factories have been running ever since election, that they might have barrels for the beer that had not yet been legalized. Bars are being fixed up in hotels, in pastel shade so they say, with pretty maids as bartenders, yet we are told the saloon is not to come back.

Shall we allow the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment with no substitute offered? Will the liquor trade be allowed to be placed in the same class with necessities and on the same level with traffic in food and clothing?

Can't you hear again the cry of little children, cold and hungry, because father has spent his paycheck for booze? Can't you hear in the distance, the crash of cars driven by intoxicated drivers? When Alcohol again marches on, can't you hear the crack of pistols as lives go up to meet their maker? Can't you see him filling poorhouses, asylums and jails?

But wait! There's something else we hear above the din! it is the voice of God, warning the drunkards of Ephraim of the destruction of their fair city. And again He speaks as He writes upon the wall of the King's palace, "Oh King, thou hast been weighed in the balances and found wanting." And listen as He speaks through Solomon, "Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise." And again, "for the drunkard and glutton shall come to poverty and drowsiness will clothe a man in rags." Above the confusion, in measured tones, He speaks through Paul—"no thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners shall inherit the Kingdom of God."

Sincerely,
Mrs. Joe H. Smith,
Lubbock.

British quarters pointed out that he resolution drawn up by the com- ittee in no way bound the coun- ies not to consider monetary oblems among themselves, but the estion as to how much of the rld parley had been saved was left sub-committees to work out. Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, July 6. (AP)—The cotton market after ruling comparatively quiet and rather easy during the morning became active and firm in the afternoon, closing at net advances for the day of 23 to 24 points.

The opening was barely steady.

In early trading October eased to 10.27 and December to 10.44, down 8 to 9 points from yesterday's close.

As the weekly weather report proved less favorable than recently owing to dry hot weather and as corn showed a gain of 2 cents a bushel, cotton prices recovered 11 to 12 points to levels 3 points above the close of yesterday.

The market fluctuated uncertainly in early afternoon on liquidation in advance of the acreage report due Saturday but in the late trading became very active and advanced sharply in sympathy with stocks, on news that the London conference would continue, an advance of sterling and on a private and unconfirmed report from Washington that Secretary Wallace had stated he was confident the acreage reduction plan would succeed. Prices made new highs for the day at 10.59 for October and 10.78 for December up 32 to 34 points from the lows and closed at the top with October showing a net gain of 23 points and December 24 points.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 12 to 13 penny points up.

Port receipts 15,189, for week 54,643, for season 8,673,836, last season 10,009,941. Exports 42,214, for week 129,696, for season 7,446,845, last season 8,277,842. Port stock 3,365,782, last year 3,583,022. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 149,743, last year 54,128. Spot sales at southern markets 16,857, last year 4,149.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, July 6. (AP) — Cotton rose more than $1 a bale on a fairly large volume of trading today. After selling off to 10.31 early, October advanced to 10.65 or 27 points net higher and closed at 10.63, with the general market closing very steady at net advances of 22 to 26 points.

The opening 2 points off to 2 points higher and fluctuations during the early trading were irregular.

Liverpool was a considerable buyer during the early trading, and trade demand was again active.

Covering or rebuying by recent sellers supplemented the demand which became more active and general in the late trading when December sold up to 10.62 or within 14 points of Monday's high record. Closing quotations were within a point or two of the best on the more active positions.

Reports of showers at several points in Northwest Texas, may have encouraged a little selling, but some traders thought the weekly report of the weather bureau rather less favorable than expected. Exports today 44,214 making 7,978,287 so far this season. Port receipts 13,972. U. S. port stocks 3,399,789.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, July 6. (AP)—Corn soared 3 cents a bushel today to above all peaks touched in recent years, and finished buoyant at almost the day's top figures.

Persistent speculative buying not only took corn aloft, but also imparted surprising vigor to other grains. Decided enlargement of shipping demand for corn was a stimulating factor, adding to the effect of reports of increased damage to crops by drought, heat and chinch bugs.

Aside from crop developments, buyers found particular encouragement in President Roosevelt's reiteration of his purpose to bring about advances in domestic prices of commodities.

Corn closed strong, 2 1-8 to 2 3-4 cents higher than yesterday's finish, what 3-8 to 1 1-4 up, oats 1-8 to 1-2 advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 15 cents.

Wheat derived independent strength from word of augmented damage to the spring crop, with indications that recent estimates of yields northwest would be curtailed. Oats duplicated wheat action.

Provisions were responsive to upturns of hog values and of grains.

Closing indemnities: Wheat July 85 1-2 bids; Sept. 98 1-2@1-4, 1.05; Dec. 1.00 1-2 @5-8, 1.07 3-8@1.08; May 1.04 1-2@5-8, 1.12 1-2. Corn, Sept. 63 1-2@3-4, 68 3-4@69; Dec. 68 1-8@1-4, 74 1-2@5-8; May 73 1-2, 79.

WALL STREET REPORT

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, July 6. (AP)—Markets moved to a uniformly strong closing today.

Speculation for the rise in stocks became ardent in the last hour when industrials, which had ignored strong rail and utility sections, got up a good head of steam. The net average gain of 24 points put the Standard Statistics-Associated Press composite at 94.1, another new high. Sales reached the sizeable total of 6,574,220 shares.

Stock exchange traders read a generous budget of favorable business news, and also found that the trend of commodities was helpful to equities. Corn raced to new high records for the season pulling wheat after it. Cotton closed $1.10@1.30 a bale higher.

Railroad shares were particularly buoyant.

Utilities made their best bid in the morning. Farm implements and motors finished strongly.

The market's strongest demonstration came after Wall Street had learned that the economic conference was to be continued with contentious monetary and tariff questions excluded. Though many in the financial community were doubtless pleased by this news, assurances that this country was prepared to go ahead with its own recovery program regardless of success or failure at London seemed to exert considerable weight on speculative sentiment.

More Than 175 Men Students Attend Picnic Staged At Buffalo Springs

More than 175 men students, faculty members and visitors, attended the fifth annual get-together of the men of the summer session of Texas Tech at Buffalo Springs yesterday afternoon and evening. It was by far the largest and most successful of similar gatherings in previous years.

Those who went to the picnic grounds in Yellowhouse Canyon in the afternoon enjoyed the swimming. Games were played under the direction of Dutchy Smith and Pete Cawthon, including playground ball and volley ball, with quoits for those who did not care for the more violent exercise. W. L. Stangel was in charge of the chicken barbecue.

Just before the serving, Toby Green of Comanche and Kid Guthrie of O'Donnell boxed three one-minute rounds to a draw.

President J. L. Burke, jr., presided at the informal program following. Prof. W. R. Waghorne led the group in community singing, using a number of popular men's songs.

A number of men were introduced by the president and spoke briefly, or told a story. Among those called on were: J. E. Speer, president of the Tech Alumni group; W. E. Street, Dr. G. C. Clough, J. B. Speer, M. H. Baze, George Heath, Rev. J. O. Haymes, J. F. McDonald, Carl Svenson, Dr. W. A. Jackson, Dr. A. W. Evans, Dean A. H. Leidigh and Dean James M. Gordon.

Three men, George Heath, chairman; Roscoe McWilliams and M. H. Baze, were named a nominating committee to present to the group in about two weeks, a list of officers for the coming year.

Economy Hits Helium Plant

About $5,000 Will Be Cut Off Of Monthly Payroll At The Government Helium Plant In Panhandle City

AMARILLO, July 6. (AP)—Government economy has hit the United States helium plant near Amarillo, slashing approximately $5,000 from the $9,000 monthly payroll.

Several of the plant's employes were cut from the payroll July 1, including F. A. Vestal, assistant superintendent of the helium division, U. S. bureau of mines. He was superintendent of the government's first plant near Fort Worth.

Forty men, including the office manager and several engineers, were included in the cut. About 25 will be retained. The helium division has not been notified by the budget director of the amount of its appropriation.

The navy has approximately 14,000,000 cubic feet of helium in storage now. If the Los Angeles is returned to service, as recently was recommended, it and the Macon will use about 17,000,000 cubic feet a year, which is near the average production of the local plant with three full crews operating day and night, seven days a week.

TARZAN OF THE APES No. 29

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The apes were more than content with Tarzan as their new king. Food was more plentiful. He settled all their disputes wisely. Next he moved the tribe inland to a place undefiled by the foot of a human being. But he spent more and more time away from the tribe.

He tired of the kingship and longed for the little cabin and the sun-kissed sea. As he had grown older, he found his interests were different from those of the tribe. He now preferred the peace and solitude of the cabin to his leadership duties among the band of wild apes.

He had still one enemy. Before he renounced his kingship of the apes, Tarzan wished to subdue the ugly Terkos without recourse to knife or arrows. Terkos one day offended the tribal laws by beating an old female and defying Tarzan's command to stop. So came they to that well-remembered fight!

Never had the ape-man fought so terrible a battle since that day when Bolgani, the king gorilla, had so horribly mangled him. But he won, though he did not kill his enemy. This time he spared, after forcing Terkoz to cry: "Ka-goda, meaning, "I surrender!" And all the tribe heard—and marveled.

Tarzan let him up. Before darkness settled he called the old males about him. "Tarzan," he said, "is going back to the lair of his own people. You must choose another ruler. Tarzan will not return." Thus he started toward his goal, the finding of other white men like himself.

Average Of 64 Per Cent More Flour Bought By Local Firms

Anticipation Of Processing Tax On Wheat Is Given As Cause; Tax To Be Effective On July 9

AN ESTIMATED average of 64 per cent more flour than usual has been purchased by Lubbock wholesale houses in the last 30 days, due to retailers' anticipation of a wheat processing tax.

The average is from a consensus of estimates from five wholesale firms here. A sixth reported it was buying "more" flour. A tax of 30 cents a bushel will be collected, beginning July 9, on all wheat processed for human consumption within the United States. Jobbers have been informed their stocks of all products in whole or part of wheat will be affected the same day the millers begin to pay.

Stocks Increased

Retailers, however, according to information to wholesalers, will be allowed a 30-day period of exemption. Consequently, many retailers have increased their stocks, and retail customers have bought more flour than usual, a wholesaler commented. The consumer, however, will feel the effect immediately to some extent, most retailers basing their price on cost of replacement, while the current market uplift already is a factor, it was said. The average retailer, the jobber said, will not overstock. The flour and other wheat products he has on hand August 9 will be affected.

The processing tax will approximate $1.38 a barrel, 4.6 bushels of wheat milling a barrel, producing an increase of about 34.5 cents a 48-pound sack in retail price, a wholesaler estimated.

Wholesalers will be required to make an affadavit of their floor stocks of all products in whole or part of wheat, from pancake flour to cereals, as of July 9.

Although reports of wholesalers indicated increased buying by retailers was widespread, it was pointed out some retail grocers are unable, because of financial conditions or storeroom limitations, to carry much more than their usual stock. One wholesaler estimated some grocers were carrying 300 to 400 per cent more flour.

Flour sales, excepting to bakeries, are light in the summer months, one wholesaler said. Another pointed out that although flour is not classed as perishable, it is better when fresh, and overstocking affects its quality.

Wholesalers' estimates of their increased buying of flour in the last 30 days ranged from 25 to about 165 per cent.

The processing tax is part of the plan of Secretary Wallace of the United States department of agriculture to build a foundation under the spectacular price rises which have added millions to the potential worth of wheat. Texas' estimated allotment to wheat farmers, who are to receive 28 of the 30 cents paid in tax, is $5,628,000, according to the Associated Press. To each wheat state, on the basis of its average production, will be allotted a definite number of bushels it may contribute to domestic consumption.

From the state's quota, the individual farmer's share of the allotment will be determined on the basis of his average production. He will receive a cash benefit of 28 cents a bushel on his domestic allotment upon his voluntary contract to reduce his acreage, probably 20 per cent. The remaining 2 cents of the processing tax would be used for administrative purposes, it is assumed.

More than a dozen research projects and surveys are being pushed by the department of agriculture in its efforts to find additional uses for cotton.

Beaumont, Cal., banks have started night banking to accommodate workmen on the Los Angeles metropolitan water district tunnel.

Held In Murder

Richard Ragone, 17-year-old Philadelphia, Pa., youth, is shown in the top photo as he appeared in police headquarters at Philadelphia charged with the murder of 9-year-old William A. Reilly, jr. (below), also of Philadelphia. The arrest followed the discovery of the Reilly boy's body, bearing 37 wounds, in Moriah Cemetery, Yeadon, Pa.

Production Line Mounts Steadily

WASHINGTON, July 6. (AP)—The "production" line on the commerce department's domestic recovery charts mounted steadily over adverse seasonal influences at the start of the present month.

The employment and payroll lines tilted less sharply.

Pushing the first of these indicators upward were increases in the turning out of steel ingots, automobiles, electric power, lumber and a number of other industries.

For both May and June, the department's statisticians said, production was "considerably higher" than in 1932 and in June reached the highest level since the middle of 1931.

Woman Is Given Two Years For Slaying Of A Deputy

DECATUR, July 6. (AP)—Mrs. Ida Hunsucker, Quitaque tourist camp operator, was sentenced to two years' imprisonment today on a charge of murder in connection with the death of Joe Brown, deputy sheriff, at Rhome, Tex., Jan. 27.

Mrs. Hunsucker some months ago had been given a three-year suspended sentence for allegedly receiving stolen goods at her tourist camp at Quitaque. As a result of her conviction today, she will have to serve these three years.

Refinery Code Is Favored Thursday

DALLAS, July 6 (AP)—A membership meeting of the Texas Independent Refiners' association today approved the code for operation under the national recovery act prepared recently by the association's board of directors.

It was reported unofficially, meanwhile, that independent refiners of Louisiana and Arkansas planned to adopt a code virtually the same as that of the Texas group, at meetings to be held shortly.

In essence, the Texas code included provision for enforcement of the pipeline divorcement clause of the national recovery act; subtraction of withdrawals from stock from the allowable of those withdrawing; and reduction of imports from allowable of those importing, save under bond ror processing and reexporting; a committee of five members to administer the code.

The Rev. Philip Schmidt, Pittsburgh, Kas., pastor, recently was appointed police judge.
