Skyjackers charged with bomb death

NEW YORK (AP) — Five Croatian nationalists, held on $1 million bail each on air piracy charges after a weekend the pilot called "30 hours of hell," also have been charged with second-degree murder in the bomb death of a policeman.

Federal and local authorities were to meet today to decide who should get first crack at prosecuting the four men and a woman, who used fake bombs to force a New York-to-Chicago Trans World Airlines 727 jet to fly to Paris.

A real bomb the hijackers claimed responsibility for leaving in a Grand Central Station locker here killed a policeman, who was to be buried today.

Police officials declined to comment Monday on published reports that the hijackers also had been questioned about a still-unsolved bombing last Dec. 29 at LaGuardia airport, where they boarded the TWA flight Friday.

The earlier bomb, which killed 12 persons and injured 75, also was planted in a locker.

The hijacking, carried out to gain publicity for the cause of Croatian independence from Yugoslavia, provoked international recriminations on Monday.

The Yugoslav government accused the United States of tolerating anti-Yugoslav terrorists, a charge denied by the State Department in Washington.

United Nations Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim repeated his pleas for international action "against this kind of threat to international life."

Capt. Richard Carey, 40-year-old pilot of the hijacked plane, criticized the handling of the crisis by French authorities. He said the 55 hostages aboard the plane were in greatest danger while on the ground in Paris.

Noting that he and the other hostages believed all along that the hijackers were carrying real dynamite sticks, he added:

"I would like to have had more support from the French.... I was given an ultimatum that restricted the negotiations."

A tape of Carey's talks with U.S. Ambassador Kenneth Rush at the Paris airport showed the pilot telling Rush: "They want to drop leaflets on cities... and for this you are asking that this whole ship could be killed to prove that you can take a stand against terrorism.... Tell us, please, what we are being killed for?"

At Monday's court hearing, a U.S. magistrate set the $1-million bail for each hijacker after a federal prosecutor noted that air piracy can carry a death sentence when it leads to loss of life. Otherwise, the charge carries a prison sentence of 20 years to life.

The four men — ringleader Zvonko Busic, 30, Peter Matovic, 31, Frane Pesut, 25, and Mark Vlasic, 29, all are natives of Croatia long active in the independence movement. Busic's 27-year-old wife, Julienne, a schoolteacher from Eugene, Ore., apparently became dedicated to the same cause after she met Busic in Vienna.

After the hearing, Manhattan Dist. Atty. Robert Morgenthau filed second-degree murder charges against them in the death of officer Brian Murray, killed trying to defuse the bomb left in the locker.

Howard County Commissioners surprised by budget amendments

Budget amendments which seemed to indicate excessive spending surprised County Commissioners Court Monday afternoon.

The spending amendments total $104,000 but County Auditor Virginia Black noted increased revenue, for which no amendments are needed, offset this amount.

With adjustments, Mrs. Black computed the $1.5 million budget was exceeded by $43,432, not $104,000, in unplanned spending.

For example, she pointed to about $34,000 in bond payments which had been budgeted by accident for the coming fiscal year, instead of the current one.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate subcommittee will explore further a charge that an aide in the Nixon White House asked a former Grumman Corp. official for a $1-million campaign contribution in return for promoting the firm's sale of aircraft to Japan.

Witnesses expected to testify later before the panel include the aide, Richard Allen, then-President Richard M. Nixon's deputy assistant for economic affairs in 1972, and some Grumman executives. Allen denied Monday that he had solicited campaign funds, and Grumman denied making any contributions to the Nixon campaign.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said that before the Senate subcommittee on multinational corporations reconvenes hearings on Sept. 24, he will try to find out if the proposed aircraft sale is mentioned in records of a 1972 summit meeting at Honolulu between Nixon and then-Prime Minister of Japan Kakei Tanaka.

Dr. Thomas B. Cheatham, former president of Grumman International, testified Monday that in April 1972 he was solicited for the contribution when he attempted to get Nixon to bring up the matter of Grumman aircraft sales at the upcoming Honolulu summit talks.

Cheatham testified that in 1972 Grumman was trying to sell the E2C reconnaissance airplane to Japan and that he was seeking the help of the Nixon administration.

After talking awhile, Allen walked him through the halls of the Executive Office Building on the way to the door and suggested the project was a difficult one and "people whom the White House made an effort for should be grateful," according to Cheatham.

Cheatham said when he asked Allen what he meant, the presidential aide replied, "I think the E2 is worth about a million dollars" in the form of a contribution to Nixon's 1972 presidential campaign.

Allen told reporters Monday that the charge is "so far out, it's ludicrous. Anybody and everybody knew that I had nothing to do with raising campaign funds."

In Tokyo, Japan's minister of state for defense, Michita Sakata, told a news conference he would investigate the report from Washington.

Allen, who left the White House in 1972 and is now an international economics consultant in Washington, will be called to testify before the Senate subcommittee, Church said.

Cheatham, who has since left Grumman and is a defense consultant, said he told Allen that he was in no position to promise any campaign contributions to Nixon. He said he told Allen he would arrange a luncheon between Allen and higher ranking Grumman officials. Cheatham said he did not attend the luncheon.

Grumman Corp. issued a statement Monday which said Allen visited its headquarters in Bethpage, N.Y., for a meeting in mid-1972 arranged by Cheatham. However, the statement said there was "no discussion of political contributions" then and Grumman made no contributions to the Nixon re-election drive.

Impact statement on Webb AFB will be released Wednesday

The long-delayed environmental impact statement on Webb Air Force Base will be released sometime between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m., Wednesday, Big Spring time, Mayor Wade Choate said this morning, before leaving for Washington.

The mayor said members of the Big Spring delegation had word that it will be made public by the Air Force.

THE IMPACT STATEMENT may give Big Spring its first clue in several months about Air Force plans for the pilot training base.

Local political leaders do not expect the statement to release much information about Webb AFB, however.

After the Air Force announced March 11 that Webb was a "candidate to be closed," Big Spring has awaited the results of the impact study, first due in early June, then postponed to July, then August and finally delayed until September.

The Air Force gave no reason for the delay, which also included the impact statement at three other bases considered "candidates."

Along with the impact statement on Webb, a similar one on a second Air Training Command Base also proposed for closing is expected to be made public this week. This statement will be on Craig AFB in Selma, Ala.

Two impact statements released last week on Strategic Air Command bases proposed for closing gave no hint that the Air Force might reconsider.

The Big Spring delegation, headed by Mayor Choate who is chairman of the Century Club's Legislative Action Committee, will meet with Cong. Omar Burleson, who represents Big Spring, and Senators John Tower and Lloyd Bentsen.

All three have pledged to fight for Webb, with Tower making that strongest statement that Webb will be closed only over his bleeding, prostrate body.

The Air Force is expected to deliver the impact statement to the Texas lawmakers sometime Wednesday morning.

At that time, the Big Spring delegation will discuss the statement with the Air Force and spend the afternoon going over it with Cong. Burleson and Senators Tower and Bentsen.

ON THURSDAY MORNING, the Big Spring delegation will meet again with the Air Force to cover any questions that might have come up. Then the delegation will return to (See Impact, P. 2-A, Col. 4)

Action/reaction: Need parents' help

Q. Is there any way to keep kids from running up and down the steps in the stands at the football game? I bought a season ticket and I can't enjoy the game because of them. It seems like parents just bring the kids to the game and let them go.

A. Dr. Emmett McKenzie, superintendent of schools, said, "I wish I knew an answer to that. We keep people stationed to assist in seeing that persons find their correct seats and that nobody else sits in their reserved seats. However, we really have no control over children or adults walking around. We can only ask that each parent feel responsible for their own children and ask them to stay put as much as possible."

"Well," said the chief.

Quipped one of the police officers, "At least they didn't say, Doris or Chief Bogard. He got top billing."

City to join Bell hike battle

Big Spring will join with cities across the state to fight the rate increase proposed Sept. 1 by Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

City councilmen decided at today's regular meeting to allocate three cents per person, based on the 1970 population, to the Texas Municipal League. The funds will be used to develop a joint case on behalf of all cities affected by Southwestern Bell's rate increase request.

Three prestigious rate consultants, Touche Ross, Hess & Lim, and Bill McMorries, will be considered by the league to handle serious portions of the cities' case. The cost to Big Spring will be around $862.

"The (Texas Utility) commission doesn't want all of us (city representatives) down at the hearing. So we have filed with TML to intervene," said Harry Nagel, city manager. "Southwestern Bell is asking for nine and a half per cent return on its rates. But we have no way of knowing whether they are earning 10 per cent in Big Spring, and only eight per cent somewhere else," he added.

In other business, the council approved final readings on the adoption of the annual city budget, the setting of a tax assessment roll and an amendment of the retail city zoning ordinance to include minor auto repairs.

A consideration of the tax appraisal budget for 1977 was tabled. This will allow further discussion concerning the possible adoption of a joint tax collection agency for the city, Howard County, and the Big Spring Independent School District.

$5.1 million rape suit

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A nurse who was raped, beaten and left for days in a basement of the University of Texas Health Science Center has filed a $5.1 million suit against four top school officials.

The 25-year-old nurse was granted permission last week to file the suit in state court without using her name. She is identified in the suit filed Monday as "a Veteran's Administration nurse."

The suit charges the four UT Health Science Center officials with making an improper investigation of the background of the nurse's convicted attacker before hiring him as a building attendant.

In July, a state district court jury found Eugene Tealer III, 26, guilty of aggravated rape in connection with the Feb. 17 assault on the nurse and sentenced him to life in prison.

Records entered as evidence at Tealer's trial show he was on probation at the time he was hired by the health science center.

The nurse's suit charges that officials hired Tealer "knowing that he was a convicted burglar, without making any investigation into his past conduct or into his propensity for deviant and violent conduct."

The health science center officials named as defendants are Dr. Frank Harrison, president; Robert B. Price, vice president; Paul C. Crall, physical plant director, and Travis M. Flemming, personnel director.

The nurse asked $5,132,900 in damages, including $70,000 for hospital and medical care which she required following the attack in the basement of the dental school at the center.

Trustees fail to fill vacancy, citizens protesting transfers

The Big Spring Independent School District board of trustees tabled action on filling the vacancy on the board left by the resignation of Jerry Jenkins and heard a group of citizens protest the transfer of their children.

The board agreed not to discuss the filling of the vacancy until all board members could be present. All members were present at the beginning of the meeting, but one, Delnor Poss, had to leave for a business appointment.

Jenkins resigned to move to another city. A small, but vocal group, spoke at length to the board concerning the transfer of children who ride bus 62 at the regular meeting of the board Monday night.

"The bus 62 issue is of small consequence unless your children are involved," the Rev. Jerry Golden of the Prairie View Baptist Church, spokesman for the group told the board.

"We think you are disregarding the voice of the rural people because there are fewer people to speak out. It's just like the Gay Hill issue a few years back. I think you may even be in violation of the 14th amendment of the Constitution of the United States. We are entitled to equal protection under the law."

BOARD MEMBERS listened in silence as the injustices were listed. They included the fact that 22 transfers were left at College Heights Elementary while the 44 bus students were transferred to Boydston. The spokesman also said that feelings of the children were disregarded and that action was taken after school started, with little notification.

Mrs. Snyder, Mrs. Penn draw look of local demos

Marguerite Snyder, Baird, committeewoman from the 30th Senatorial District, is facing a political opponent for the first time since 1972.

Pauline Penn, Wichita Falls, is running for the position which includes 29 counties.

This contest will be discussed at a meeting of Howard County delegates and alternates scheduled for 7:30 p.m. today at the Democratic Headquarters, 4th and Rannels.

Also up for discussion is the boiling issue of the state party chairmanship to be elected at the State Democratic Convention in Fort Worth Friday and Saturday.

State Chairman Calvin Guest has drawn opposition from John Henry Tatum, Lufkin attorney.

Democratic presidential hopeful Jimmy Carter says he will stay out of Texas until the state party fight over a new state chairman is set.

Roy Watkins, board president whose own children attended Boydston, expressed alarm when part of the group began to compare the schools unfavorably in opportunity for education.

School officials were quick to deny any basic differences between any of the elementary schools in curriculum and educational opportunity. Dr. Emmett McKenzie, superintendent, told the delegation that "Your point is well taken in asking why the transfers were not moved first to obtain better balance."

"OUR PROBLEM was that if we moved the transfers, it would not have been enough to solve the problem. We would then have had to transfer part of the children on the bus and not all of them. In our opinion, this would have been even worse."

Board members told the delegation that the transfer of students for balance within the system was an administrative duty and not handled by the board. They expressed concern, however, when one of the parents told the board that the first day here child went to the school, he was refused milk. The teacher reportedly told the child, "At this school, we pay for our milk on Monday and this is Wednesday." Board members requested the administration to look into this matter.

The mother told the board, "My son was upset enough about going to a new school without having the teacher tell him he couldn't even have any milk that week."

A length discussion brought assurances from the board that some of the administration to look into this matter.

Carter apparently is caught in the middle of a power struggle for control of the party.

National party chairman Robert Strauss of Dallas has vowed he will stay out of the Texas dispute.

Coahoma begins police force

COAHOMA — The city of Coahoma is starting a police force with one night patrolman.

The city is taking applications at this time "for a good man to work from 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. daily." Anyone desiring to apply should contact the City Hall.

Mayor Joe Swinney said that the council anticipates using the one per cent city sales tax funds for car and salary for the patrolman. The sales tax went into effect in Coahoma in April.

questions of concern brought up by the parents would be investigated. The administrators also said that they may consider allowing no transfers each school year until after the school year begins and they have viewed the balance in the various schools.

THERE WAS no change, however, in the transfer of bus 62 students from one elementary campus to another. The board backed the administration on the decision as the best solution to the problem of imbalance in the system.

In other action, the board approved keeping workmen's compensation with the present insurance firms, expressing approval of the past year's experience.

Tractor bids were awarded to Broughton Truck and Implement Co. on the lowest bids within specifications. Their bid was $4,981.95 on a small utility tractor and $17,000 on a large tractor with front end loader and backhoe. Tractors are for use on school grounds and fields.

It tabled until October any action on changes within the payment schedule to the tax appraisal board. The tax appraisal service was briefly discussed by board members.

BOARD MEMBERS put their stamp of approval on the 1976 tax roll which totaled $176,018,084, up from last year's $171,941,630.25.

They approved the amended budget for last year and heard Don Crockett, assistant superintendent of business, go through the amended budget in detail.

It included total expenditures of $8,182,438, the biggest part of which was payroll costs of $6,526,621.

Resignations were accepted from Mrs. Betty Bancroft, Mrs. Barbara Bolls, Charles Michael Dixon, Mrs. Patricia Schiebel and Mrs. Lillian Valdes, who requested a leave of absence for professional study.

West Texas. Members of the delegation, in addition to Choate, are attorney Ben Bancroft; J. Tom Graham, publisher of the Big Spring Herald; Winston Wrinkle, owner of KBST Radio; Richard Jensen of the Permian Basin Planning Commission; and Dean Allen Gary of the University of Texas at Permian Basin.

Jensen has done the work on the computerized model of Big Spring's own impact statement, and Dr. Gary, an economist, has helped assess the impact any closing of Webb would have on this region.

Following release of the impact statement, the Air Force will gather comments from the public. Written statements from anyone will be accepted. A public hearing will be held in Big Spring in about 30 days.

Major Choate and others have submitted at least eight suggestions for alternative studies. These have been relayed to the Air Force mostly through the Texas lawmakers.

It is not known if the impact study will deal with these suggestions.

Should Webb close, some 3,100 jobs would be directly lost to the city of Big Spring. The annual payroll at Webb is $34 million.

As the situation now stands, the federal funds have been earmarked for use in the demolition of sub-standard buildings, and home and property improvements for low income families.

Federal income tax cuts work against poor folks?

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Federal income tax cuts are a political ploy and work against the interests of poor people, Minnesota Gov. Wendell Anderson has told a Lyndon B. Johnson Library symposium.

The symposium on social programs of the Kennedy-Johnson era resumes today with an address on medical legislation by Wilbur Cohen, former secretary of health, education and welfare.

During Monday's session, University of Texas executive Bob Hardesty read a statement from Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter, who had been invited to attend, along with President Ford.

"If I am elected president, I will try to build on the enduring framework of the Great Society and the New Frontier. I will not abandon the vision of an America where poverty has vanished and injustice is no more," the Carter statement said.

But, he added, "we have been forced to recognize that federal resources are not infinite."

Anderson asserted in his remarks that "Every time they (Congress) have supported a tax reduction, they have created a problem for local officials and a burden for the poor."

He said that when federal funds for state and local programs are reduced because of tax cuts, "property taxes and sales taxes go up, and those are the taxes that poor people pay."

"I hope we can take a commitment from this symposium that we have got a long way to go in this country," Bradley said.

Russian naval buildup cited

DALLAS (AP) — Secretary of the Navy J. William Middendorf II, who came here to name a submarine after Dallas, said Monday the Russian naval buildup has outdistanced the United States on submarines and surface combatants.

Middendorf said the reason for the buildup "is to cut the U.S. off from our allies and to keep us from our raw materials."

He said the Russian navy outnumbers the United States on submarines by 2½ times and by 30 per cent on surface combatants.

"We're going to be way behind in major surface combatants in terms of numbers," Middendorf said. "By 1981, we're going to be closing that gap. The new Harpoon missile system will help us do that."

"We can't catch them on subs. There's just no way we can. But we have the technology of making ours (subs) quieter and that's a big asset."

He said the Russian buildup occurred while the United States was cutting its aging fleet by half and fighting a war in Vietnam.

Middendorf made his comments after appearing before the Dallas city council to announce that one of the Navy's newest nuclear-powered, fast attack subs would be called the USS Dallas.

The keel for the $195 million vessel is set to be laid Oct. 9 at the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp. in Groton, Conn. The sub is scheduled for commissioning in the spring of 1979.

Middendorf said some of the Navy's weakness is a result of the balking public.

"The American public, without a crisis every once in a while, will not spend money for assets under the sea that they never see," he said.

Middendorf said congressional mood has shifted drastically in the past eight months and its members now want to rebuild the Navy.

The secretary termed submarines the "greatest deterrent we've got," and said the subs and the 13 aircraft carriers — down from 26 a few years ago — represent the Navy's primary punch.

Middendorf defended an argument for fewer costly carriers instead of a greater number of lighter, less expensive warships.

"The Nimitz class could take 10 Soviet torpedoes on deck and still be operational in an hour," he said.

Trying to trace info leak

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ethics Committee is making a last-ditch attempt to skirt a possible constitutional confrontation with CBS reporter Daniel Schorr by asking previous witnesses again whether they know who leaked a House intelligence report to Schorr.

One committee member said he was encouraged about the prospects for today's testimony and said "this might make the Schorr appearance unnecessary."

Meanwhile, 35 members of Congress have signed a letter asking the Ethics

Committee to allow Schorr to protect his sources without any threat of punishment.

Rep. John Heinz III, R-Pa., scheduled a news conference for later today to discuss the letter.

Also scheduled to speak for Schorr were reporters Seymour Hersh of the New York Times, Jack Nelson of the Los Angeles Times,

James Naughton of the New York Times and Dan Rather of CBS, along with the president of The Newspaper Guild, Charles Perlik.

Rep. Albert Quie, R-Minn., an Ethics Committee member who has opposed the panel's subpoena for Schorr, said "it's very dubious we'll find out anything. Someone did release the report to Schorr and they've kept quiet about it and I imagine they will in the future."

Hector completes management course

Big Spring businessman David Hector recently completed the Petroleum Industry Management course at Angelo State University in San Angelo.

In recognition of the achievement, Hector received a certificate from the Director of Continuing Education and three hours of college credit in the business school.

Hector, who lives on Gail Route, Box 39-B, is Big Spring area manager for Pool Company.

Initiated this summer as a result of a request from Frank M. Pool, president of Pool Company to Dr. Lloyd D. Vincent, president of Angelo State, the Petroleum Industry Management course was conceived as a natural addition to the company's ongoing efforts to provide the best oil and gas well production services available.

"It takes creative engineering and manufacturing and maintenance to put first class equipment at wellsite, but that equipment is only as good as the trained men and professional management behind it," Pool says. "It's a full time, continuing program, and we're proud of our men. And we're proud of the school."

Dr. Phil Lynch, manager of manpower development, and nine guest lecturers taught during the five day, concentrated short course.

Rated as a senior class level management course, topics included management functions, administration, standards of performance, leadership, organizational development, contract negotiation, budget and cost controls, compliance with various government regulatory agencies, employment and employee relations, wage and salary administration, and benefit programs.

Abilene test city for Exxon cash program

HOUSTON (AP) — Exxon USA is testing a program that would reward its gasoline customers for paying cash.

The company announced Monday that test stations in Abilene, Tex., and Charleston, S.C., will give a five per cent discount to customers using money instead of credit cards.

An Exxon spokesman said the program is in response to a growing consumer interest in such plans.

However, the spokesman said that Exxon expects the credit card to remain an important and popular aspect of petroleum marketing.

Exxon said it would consider expanding the concept after reviewing its effect on sales.

Award given Exxon engineers

DALLAS — Robert H. Rossen with Exxon Production Research Co. in Houston has been named recipient of the 1976 Cedric K. Ferguson Medal by the Society of Petroleum Engineers of AIME.

Rossen will be honored during the awards luncheon at the SPE annual meeting in New Orleans, Oct. 3-6.

The medal is presented each year to recognize the best technical paper on any phase of petroleum engineering written by an SPE member under the age of 33.

The award-winning paper is entitled, "A Regression Approach to Estimating Gas In Place for Gas Fields."

Engineers set meeting

The September meeting of the Permian Section of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers will meet Tuesday in the faculty dining room, in the main building on the campus of the University of Texas at the Permian Basin in Odessa.

A social hour at 6:30 p.m. will be followed by a dinner at 7:30 p.m. Dr. R. S. Schechter, dean of petroleum engineering at the University of Texas, Austin, will address the group on "Chemical Flooding Techniques — Prospects for the Future."

Miss Ford Country will stop in Odessa

Odessa will be a major stop Friday on the Texas Tough Truck Trek, an economy run sponsored by Ford Motor Company to introduce the 1977 F-100 pickup.

Miss Ford Country, Paula Keating, will do the actual driving on the trip, which will cover almost 2,000 miles with presentations in nine major cities.

"By making a realistic economy run under normal driving conditions using a non-professional driver, we hope to emphasize the increased economy we expect from the F-100," a Ford spokesman said.

The test drive, using the 300 CID economy-minded, 6-cylinder engine, will also point up other major improvements for 1977 models such as Ford's exclusive twin I-beam front suspension and the improved protection against rust.

The truck is customized by Goodtimes Inc. especially for the promotion, using an armadillo design due to the creature's toughness and growing recognition as a symbol for Texas culture.

Since being named Miss Ford Country in April, Miss Keating has made many appearances at rodeos and civic events throughout Texas. The Texas Tough Truck Trek will be her first major promotional tour for Ford.

Debate about nuclear energy goes on

Somehow the public debate about nuclear energy goes on, and on, and on. I'm not sure how it could, but it does.

THE ISSUE could become a major one in the presidential election this fall, and even after earthquake prone California rejected overwhelmingly what would have amounted to a ban on nuclear energy, Ohio and Montana may also be facing a moratorium vote.

One recent report by Brookhaven National Laboratory tells us what will happen if this nation does not push ahead with nuclear energy.

A nuclear moratorium by 1985 would cause:

—A drop in the gross national product of 21 per cent.

—A drop in employment by an amount corresponding to the drop in GNP.

—A drop in personal consumption expenditure of as much as 9 to 15 per cent.

—An increase in energy imports by as much as 20 per cent.

The study looks at effects of a moratorium on the New England region and found that they would be "severe."

A TOTAL moratorium would cut energy levels below acceptable levels by the winter of 1978-79, the report contends.

And these are only the short-term effect until 1985. The long-range outlook is even more dismal.

Still the debate goes on.

The last Yank

Art Buchwald

(Art Buchwald was so disappointed he wasn't chosen as President Ford's running mate that he has decided to take a few weeks off. He left behind some of his all-time favorite columns.)

WHEN THE STORY of the Dominican Republic's revolution unfolds, you may hear about a great, unsung hero whose name is Sidney.

Nobody knows Sidney's last name, but the whole course of the revolution would have been changed if it hadn't been for him.

Sidney was an American tourist visiting Santo Domingo when the fighting broke out. As you may remember, President Johnson sent in Marines to protect Americans who could possibly be hurt. Unfortunately, the evacuation went off so fast that in 24 hours there wasn't an American left in the capital except Sidney.

When Sidney showed up at the pier to be taken on board ship, he was stopped by a Marine colonel who said, "I'm sorry, you can't leave, sir."

"Why not?" Sidney wanted to know. "Because we've been sent here to protect Americans and you're the only American left. If you leave, we'll have to pull out."

"Nuts to that," said Sidney. "I want to get out of here. They got a bunch of crazy people in this town."

"MY ORDERS are to keep you here, sir. We made a mistake in evacuating the Americans too fast and now we need you more than you need us."

"That's not my problem," Sidney said. "I want to go on that ship out there."

Two Marine sergeants raised their guns. "It's not possible, Sidney," the colonel replied.

"If the OAS arrived and found no American here for us to protect, we would be in a very sticky position. But you'll be perfectly safe. President Johnson is sending in 10,000 more troops to protect you."

"To protect me?"

"Yes, sir. We're going to build a nine-mile perimeter around you so nobody can get near you. I assure you nothing can go wrong."

Sidney took his bags and went back to the hotel.

The next morning he was visited by the general in charge of the paratroopers. "Are you okay, Sidney?"

"Yeah, I'm okay. But I want to go home."

"Just be patient and everything will be all right."

WHILE THE GENERAL was talking, a platoon set up a machine gun on the balcony. Two tanks were parked in front of the hotel and an anti-aircraft gun was placed on the roof.

"What's all that for?" Sidney wanted to know.

"Just to see that no one hurts you. You're very precious to us."

"Yeah, well, if I'm so precious, why don't you get me the hell out of here?"

"We will as soon as we feel it's reasonably safe. For the moment you're the only humanitarian reason for our being here."

"I don't know what's going on, but all I know is I'm being held as a hostage."

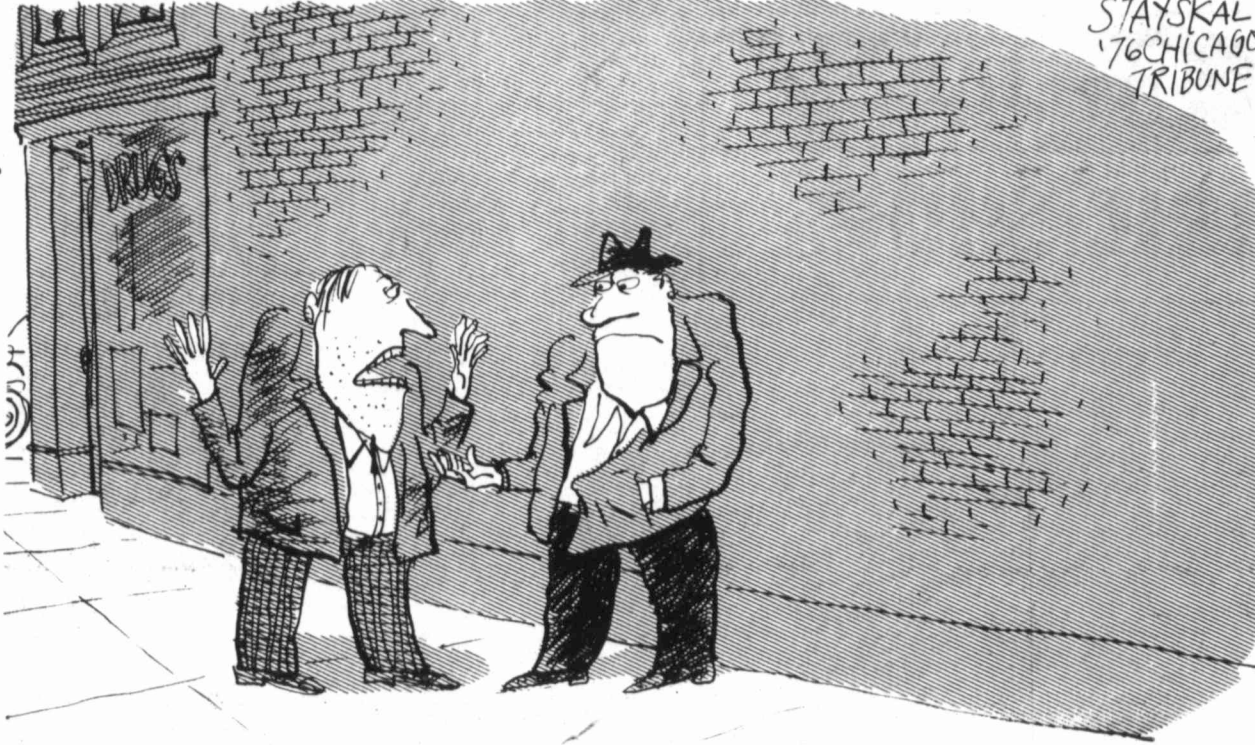

"Sidney, have you ever heard of the Monroe Doctrine?"

"Yeah, I guess so."

"WELL, YOU'RE part of it. Your name will go down in history books with Teddy Roosevelt and Admiral Dewey. When schoolteachers ask their pupils who saved the Dominican Republic from going Communist, the children are going to have to answer, 'Sidney.'"

Just then the phone rang. The general picked it up.

"It's the President, Sidney. He wants to speak to you."

'GEE... AND I WAS JUST ABOUT TO ASK IF YOU COULD SPARE A QUARTER.'

Oldsters need flu protection

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a question regarding swine flu. Would I need the vaccine if I've already had the disease? This occurred in 1918 when I was eight years old. I am now 65. —H.R.

The swine flu virus is not the same one that caused the 1918 epidemic. Any immunity you now have against the earlier one would not help against the swine virus.

It's recommended that oldsters and persons with chronic disease need protection against the newer swine virus, and there is some thought, too, that they should be protected with some of the other vaccines available to combat other flu viruses.

My mail still shows some confusion over use of the word "swine." It's used because the virus resembles very closely that found in swine. The animal variety, however, has not up to now affected man. Another, less confusing term for it is "New Jersey," because that is where it was first detected.

At your age you should certainly consider having the new vaccine.

Virus diseases are what we call "self-limiting." That is, they run their course naturally. The complications, such as those that can occur in persons with chronic health problems, are major concerns. Virus-weakened bodies may fall prey to other infections. Pneumonia is the main lethal complication.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I'm 51 and have had five children. I have never had any problems and no bad veins in my legs. I had a varicose vein operation. My veins were not bad, but I just wanted to have this done. I would like to know what causes the numbness in my ankles up to just below the knee. This happens after I sleep. I am 5 feet, 2 inches and weigh 125. I feel good. —Mrs. J.S.

I'm confused. You say you had no vein problems, but just had surgery to correct varicose veins. I assume it was a cosmetic problem for you.

But whether for cosmetic or other reasons, a varicose vein implies a basic problem. Your morning numbness is undoubtedly related to the circulation problem represented by the varicosities. In such operations the blood supply to the limbs finds another route around the removed vein. This can take some time to be established, and you are probably going through that period.

There are leg exercises that will help speed this up, and you should ask your doctor about them. You should have a post-operative examination within a few months of such surgery anyway. From your letter I'd say you are a bit confused about this varicose vein business, which is treated in depth in my booklet on the subject. If you'd like to have a copy, send 25 cents to me in care of the Big Spring Herald and enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for return mailing.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: About five months ago my husband got an itch on his legs. It moved up to his hips and occasionally to his face. There is no sign of rash, but the itching seems to follow blood veins and they do swell up. He's been taking some oral medicine and having oatmeal baths, but nothing works.

The past three weeks he has had diarrhea, and we don't know if all this works together. We read your column every day. —R.N.

The itching sounds like irritation from fabric in his trousers or from material used in laundering. Have you changed products recently?

The diarrhea is probably not connected with the itching. Could be a reaction to the medication he's using. In any event it should be reported to his doctor.

I have known leg itching to result from working in a dusty environment. One man I saw years ago had such a problem; it was traced to his work in a sugar factory. Only his legs were affected.

Something in the environment is almost always the cause.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How injurious is tea drinking? My sister and I drink six or seven glasses of iced tea a day, some days more. Our mother tells us it isn't good for us, and that tea is worse than coffee. We are waiting for your answer. —Miss L.W.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Our senior youth group is conducting a series of studies on premarital sex. Can you give any guidance on this subject from the Bible? I would welcome your views. —W.T.

DEAR W. T.: The only way in which to fully understand the whole subject of marriage and the sexual relationship between men and women is to see it as God ordained—a picture of Christ's relationship with the Church. The Bible pictures Christ as the groom and Christian people as the bride. It is therefore clear that the marriage relationship is very sacred in God's eyes. If anything comes between husband and wife to spoil that relationship, the world is denied a true picture of the wonderful relationship that exists between Christ and the Church.

A good Bible passage to study in this regard is Ephesians 5:22-33. Notice one thought that keeps recurring in those verses: "Men ought to love their wives as their own bodies" (v. 28); "we are members of his body, of his flesh, and of his bones" (v. 30); "they shall be one flesh" (v. 31). These verses make it clear that what we do with our bodies—our flesh—is very important, because the relationship of two bodies in marriage is similar to our close relationship with Christ. Verse 31 is especially important with its statement: "they two shall be one flesh." The oneness in flesh comes about at the moment of intercourse. That is in fact the marriage act. What happens subsequently in a church service or in a civil ceremony is the seeking of God's blessing on the union and the observance of legal requirements so that the marriage may be recognized by the state.

'One more chance'

Around the rim

Troy Bryant

Do you remember the Danny Valdes photo of the dog riding in the cab of a pickup which appeared in the paper a few weeks ago?

Well, that dog is no longer with us, and neither is the famous FM 700 and Birdwell roadrunner.

Both of the animals grabbed space in the Herald during the past year for being unusual.

THE DOG exhibited his bravery by riding on the cab of a pickup at seemingly unsafe speeds, while the roadrunner dodged cars at the intersection of FM 700 and Birdwell.

The owner of the dog tells us it was taken to a farm where she was to be bred. She apparently didn't like it away from home, broke out of the pen and was run over, trying to get home.

The roadrunner died of an occupational disease, while trying to dodge its last car.

I don't think the fact that the animals appeared in the Herald had anything to do with their deaths.

It's almost time for the Democratic State Convention, round two. At least 20 Big Springers will be attending the meeting in Fort Worth, mainly to elect committee officers and the state chairman.

I RARELY endorse someone publicly, although I usually have a personal preference in political races. But I'm going to vote for John Henry Tatum, Lufkin, for state chairman.

Navy men browbeat

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Shouting profanities, Deputy Defense Secretary William Clements browbeat the highest naval procurement officials this summer into supporting the disputed claim of a gigantic oil conglomerate.

His voluble assault on the officials took place behind closed Pentagon doors. He never expected the public to find out about it. We have obtained a copy, however, of the detailed, confidential minutes.

CLEMENTS ACCUSED an assistant navy secretary and an admiral of dragging their feet on a deal, which could cost the taxpayers as much as $1 billion. "Why in the hell haven't you done it?" he demanded fiercely.

Clements took the side of the Newport News Shipbuilding Co. against his own Navy lawyers. The company is a subsidiary of the huge Tenneco oil and gas combine. It may be merely a coincidence that Clements made his own millions in the oil industry.

The Tenneco subsidiary has been building cruisers, carriers and nuclear submarines for the Navy. The company claims the Navy owes it almost $900 million for construction changes and other cost escalations. A Tenneco settlement could set a precedent for payouts to other companies. The claims come to a grand total of $1.8 billion.

In an hour-long talk with us, Clements denied his past oil industry ties had anything to do with his pressure for a settlement.

"Absolutely not! Hell no!" he spluttered. His only interest, he said, was in getting Navy ships built.

The confidential minutes show that he tried to rush through a settlement

Solid South

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Gerald Ford's top political advisers are now studying a secret President Ford Committee (PFC) poll showing the President surprisingly ahead of Jimmy Carter in Virginia 43 to 41 per cent.

This evidence that the President may fare better in the South than PFC pessimists bargained for has been jubilantly passed along to Republican leaders in Virginia as a "Neck-and-neck" Ford-Carter race. Not even state chairman George McMath was given the actual figures.

THE POLL WAS taken by PFC pollster Robert Teeter of Market Opinion Research who has also completed tabulations in other Southern states with these results:

In Tennessee, regarded as a solid pro-Carter Bible belt state, Carter is well ahead of Mr. Ford, but not enough to rule out a major Ford campaign; in Florida, Mr. Ford runs behind, but not much. Most surprising is Alabama, where Carter leads by only eight points (with a huge undecided vote).

Teeter's findings in Mississippi and Texas conform to the Carter camp claims that Carter will sweep his native Southland.

With the South becoming a battleground, Southern Republicans are lobbying for more attention from the President and his running mate, Sen. Robert Dole.

McMath, for example, vainly rushed an SOS to the PFC to persuade Calvin Guest, the incumbent state chairman, seems to have the edge at this time, and probably several delegates from Howard County will vote for him—for the wrong reasons.

Anytime I ask why someone is backing Guest, the answer is always "to keep party unity" or because "Briscoe endorsed him." Most everyone also says that they feel he has been a bad chairman, but want to give him one more chance.

How delegates vote and why is their business, but I want to make two points.

One, we should elect the best man. The man who is dedicated to working for the party and not just for Dolph Briscoe's re-election. Guest has had a consistent record of doing nothing, except when Briscoe pulls the strings.

AND FINALLY, a vote for Tatum will not jeopardize Jimmy Carter's chances for election in November. Tatum was working for Carter when it was still "Jimmy Who?" and Briscoe, Guest and his bunch were still backing Lloyd Bentsen. Although Carter's campaign manager has urged delegates to vote for Guest (probably to placate Briscoe) that doesn't mean it will hurt Carter for Tatum to be elected.

So, here we go to Fort Worth, braced for a Democrat-style fight, with some Democrat-style unity behind Carter scheduled right after the vote.

on terms favorable to Tenneco. He summoned a dozen admirals and civilian officials into his office on the afternoon of July 13. With fiscal abandon, he opened up on Adm. Hyman Rickover, who has tried to hold shipyards to their contracts without excessive cost adjustments.

Then Clements confided that he had met with Newport News Co. president John Diesel. They discussed a settlement, which happens to be the subject of a legal battle between the company and the Navy. Yet the Navy and Justice Dept. lawyers responsible for the litigation weren't invited to the tete-a-tete.

Glaring at the procurement people in his office, Clements declared: "Diesel wants to settle the overall problems he has with the Navy and get on with the business of building ships."

As a first step, Clements directed that "a provisional payment can be made" to Tenneco on a submarine claim.

IF THE NAVY refused to settle the claims, he warned, then he would do it. He cited as a precedent the Pentagon's celebrated multi-million-dollar bailout of Lockheed.

Asst. Navy Secy. Jack Bowers and Adm. Fredrick Michaelis appeared to be cowed by Clements. "We are going to do it," they told him, meaning they would begin payments to Tenneco.

"Why in the hell haven't you done it?" growled Clements.

Michaelis responded plaintively: "I don't think we will ever get them done as fast as Diesel wants."

Bowers volunteers that he had spoken to Diesel on the telephone. Telephone conversations, grumped Clements, weren't enough. "You have to talk with him directly—eyeball to eyeball," he said.

Dole to appear at the Sept. 11 state party meeting in Richmond. Republican operatives feel Carter failed to capitalize on his own Virginia campaign trip last weekend, coming over weak on television, and that a quick appearance by Dole would exploit that failure. But Dole was committed elsewhere.

SOME DEMOCRATIC leaders agreed, telling us that Carter's attack on Republican Gov. Mills Godwin's handling of the Hopewell, Va., kepone scandal was inept.

"Carter could not know the subtleties of the kepone tragedy" (involving the emission of chemical poisons), one highly-respected Virginia Democratic leader told us. "He looked bad getting into the matter."

A footnote: Outside the South, the most surprising Teeter poll so far shows Carter leading the President by only four points—45 to 41 per cent—in New York, indicating surprising Ford support in the industrial North.

RIBICOFF VS. PARSKY Members of the Senate-House conference committee on the tax reform bill were shocked last week at the emotional intensity of a personal attack on Assistant Treasury Secretary Gerald L. Parsky by Democratic Sen. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut, co-author of the amendment in the big tax reform bill aimed at the Arabs' anti-Israel boycott.

C-C directors backing Webb AFB 100 per cent

The Chamber of Commerce board of directors voted unanimously to back all positive action in maintaining the current status of Webb Air Force Base in Big Spring when it met at noon Monday for its regular meeting.

The vote was taken after a report from Mayor Wade Choate of the legislative action committee concerning today's delegation to Washington D.C. in an attempt to keep the base and to receive the environmental impact report.

Some misinformation had appeared in the community that the chamber was not 100 per cent behind the effort, according to Dr. Charles Hays who made the motion to back the committee.

The committee's delegation to Washington is funded by donations to the budget of the Century Club, which is an arm of the Chamber of Commerce, by private individuals. No tax funds from any government agency are used for the trip.

Statements in an area newspaper attributed to the mayor that court action might be filed was said by the mayor to be quoted out of context and that no court action was anticipated, unless at a later date, the majority of the community would approve such action.

Choate said, in a report to the board: "The delegates to Washington will have the opportunity to personally visit with our Congressional people in assessing the effects of the Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) on Big Spring and the surrounding communities.

"Richard Jensen of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission will also be making the trip with us. Jensen was assigned to the city of Big Spring earlier this year to assist us in gathering information that will be needed to support our own environmental impact study. Jensen has been very helpful in coordinating activities between the Legislative Action Committee and the Department of the Air Force.

"Dean Allen Carey of the University of Texas at the Permian Basin has volunteered his services in assisting us as well. Dean Carey comes highly recommended to assist us in the socio-economic area and has valuable experience in working with matters affecting local economies.

"Arrangements have been made to pick up the draft environmental impact statement from the Department of the Air Force on the morning of September 15th. Once we have the statement, the local group will meet in Senator Tower's office with the Congressional staffs in assessing the statement. After the review, we will then have the opportunity to meet back with the Air Force at 9:00 a.m. on September 16th to ask any questions we may have concerning the information in their statement and how they arrived at their facts and figures.

"Also, we will have another opportunity to advise the Department of Defense and Congress on the significant economic impact the closure of Webb AFB will have on our community."

A letter that will be presented to the Secretary of the Air Force, Thomas Reed, restates the impact closure of Webb AFB will have on Big Spring and the surrounding area. It listed the following information:

The economy would lose $65 million directly.

It would suffer a $70 million loss in secondary economic impact.

The banks and savings institutions would significantly decrease their lending capabilities causing the economic recovery to be slow or impossible.

The schools, including Howard College, would lose one-third of their teachers with the best teachers being the most likely to leave. This would irreversibly affect the quality of education in Howard County.

The schools, city and county would lose their ability to repay obligated bonds causing serious financial difficulties including a serious decrease of fire and police protection.

That the patterns of out-migration of individuals assigned to Webb or dependent on realignment on the social structure of Big Spring creating a long term adverse social impact on Howard County.

Roger Brown, one of the industrial chairmen questioned as to whether this information should be made public, expressed fear for the morale of the community. Mayor Choate pointed out "Facts are facts."

Charles Beil asked if it had been considered that the real stabilization of the economy here was not "agriculture and oil, which have been here forever."

Mayor Choate said, "Certainly, these are essential to the economy and will be here after the other is gone. However, Webb Air Force Base has contributed greatly to the economy for many, many years."

Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery asked if there was anything the average citizen could do to help the legislative action group. Mayor Choate said that a public hearing will be held around 45 days after the statement is released. At that time, any citizen who wishes to speak out on the subject may do so.

The chamber board strongly reiterated that they were behind the effort to keep Webb, that tax funds were not being used in the fight to keep Webb, and that no attorney has been hired and that no lawsuit is anticipated at this time, or at any time without approval of citizens.

Adolph Swartz, chairman of the Century Club, pointed out that the club does not select either the legislative action committee or its delegation, but does fund the efforts in the battle to keep the Air Base. The legislative action committee is named by the Chamber.

In other action, following this report to the board, the chamber heard an offer by Ralph Brooks and the Public Affairs committee to assist the legislative action group in preparing for the public hearing; heard Ray Don Williams report on community development projects including the football game Saturday night between Cisco Jr. College and NMCI to be held in Big Spring; billboards on the highways and plans for a memorial to George Zachariah.

It was suggested that next year's junior college game be held in conjunction with the Punt, Pass and Kick finals.

Clyde McMahon Sr. reported on the status of the keeping of the airlines in Big Spring and was commended for his work. John Arrick told the group that Mrs. Avery would be chairman of the banquet on Jan. 24. He also told of work being done with the BASIC student group of the chamber and organizational plans for this year.

Attending the meeting were board members of both the board and the legislative action group.

They included Clyde Hollingsworth, Bill Pollard, Dr. Emmett McKenzie, J. D. Nelson, Tom Roy, A. J. Stephens, Dr. Henry Butler, Ben Bancroft, R. H. Weaver, Auriel LaFond, Andy

Swartz, Adolph Swartz, Brooks, Dr. Hays, Choate, Arrick, Williams, and Mrs. Terry Hansen, Ralph McMahon, Brown, Beil, Avery.

SUMMARY OF PROPOSED

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS GENERAL ELECTION NOV. 2, 1976

NUMBER ONE ON THE BALLOT (S.J.R. 49)

Repealing Sections 49-d and 49-d-1 of Article III of the Texas Constitution, S.J.R. 49 amends Section 49-c of Article III of the Texas Constitution to provide for and authorize an additional $400 million in Texas water development bonds that may be issued on approval of two-thirds of the members of each house of the Legislature for such water development purposes as the Legislature may prescribe.

The amendment contains a specific prohibition against the use of state funds for the development of water resources from the Mississippi River and also requires that before any single water development project may be undertaken requiring the expenditure of more than $35 million in bond proceeds, it must be approved by resolution of the Legislature.

The amendment removes the constitutional requirement that certain revenues must be used to retire water development and water quality enhancement bonds and removes the constitutional interest rate limit on such bonds.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing an increase of $400 million in the amount of Texas Water Development Bonds that may be issued on approval of two-thirds of the legislature; amending and consolidating provisions of Sections 49-c, 49-d and 49-d-1 of Article III of the Texas Constitution; and repealing Sections 49-d and 49-d-1 of Article III of the Texas Constitution."

NUMBER TWO ON THE BALLOT (H.J.R. 99)

H.J.R. 99 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to increase from $100 million to $200 million the aggregate principle amount of Texas water development bonds which may be issued and outstanding by the Texas Water Development Board to provide grants and loans for water quality enhancement purposes as established by the Legislature.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"A constitutional amendment to increase from $100 million to $200 million the amount of Texas Water Development Bonds that may be issued for water quality enhancement purposes."

Revenue-sharing due okay in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is ready to pass a 54-year extension of the federal revenue-sharing program that would return $41.2 billion to the nation's states, counties and municipalities.

The Senate added prohibitions on discrimination based on religion, age and physical handicaps in programs receiving revenue-sharing money. A final vote is scheduled today.

The current revenue-sharing program expires Dec. 31. It was the hallmark of then-President Richard

Missing child found slain, rape suspected

BEAUMONT, Tex (AP) — A Beaumont youth was being held without bond today on a capital murder charge in the slaying and apparent rape of 10-year-old Ertha Bell Rubin, authorities said.

Her nude body was found face down in a field Monday by the crew of a passing train.

The cause of death was not determined. An autopsy was planned today by the Harris County medical examiner's office in Houston.

Officers combed the weedy area of South Beaumont Monday afternoon after the girl failed to return from a bicycle ride. Her 14-year-old mentally retarded brother told officers he thought he saw a man take his sister into the field where the body was found.

Police Capt. Charles Perricone said it appeared the child had been raped. Charges were filed against Timothy Louis, 17, Monday night. Justice of the Peace Wallace McCasland denied bond.

M. Nixon's "New Federalism" when it was established in 1972 and has distributed approximately $30 billion to 39,000 municipalities, counties and states since then.

No significant opposition to the extension emerged during Senate debate Monday.

In June, the House passed a 34-year extension that would guarantee $24.9 billion for the local and state governments.

Differences between the two bills would have to be worked out in a House-Senate conference, with only a few weeks before the Oct. 2 target date for adjournment for the November elections.

Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, who offered the antidiscrimination amendments to the bill as it was approved earlier by the Senate Finance Committee, said the Treasury Department has refused to carry out "a reasonable civil rights program" in administering revenue-sharing.

The committee bill prohibits discrimination based on national origin, race, color and sex.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., the committee chairman, said the areas added by Gravel's amendment were already covered in current civil rights laws.

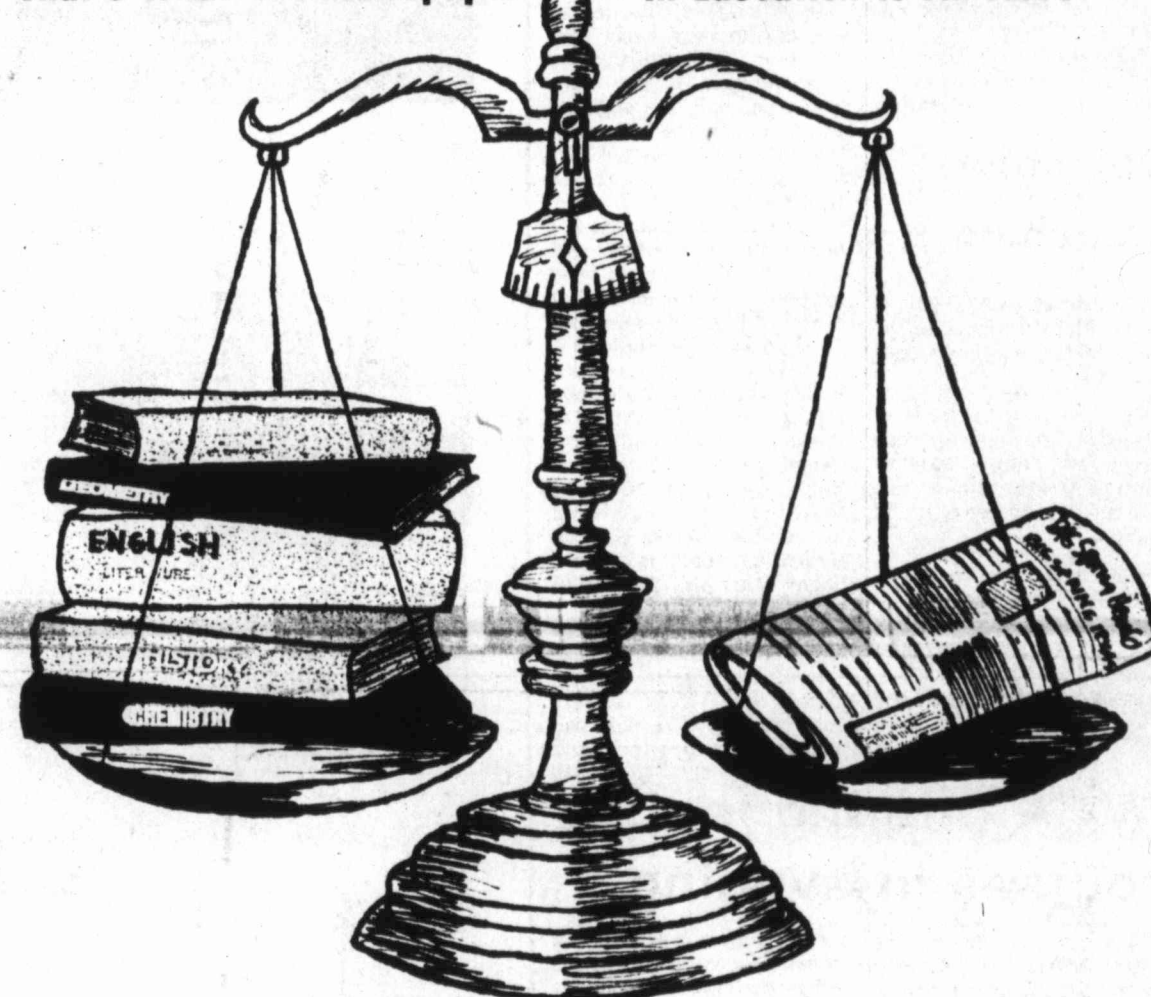

Under both the House and Senate measures, the states get one-third of the money and the municipal and county governments gets the rest.

The House bill provided funding of $6.65 billion annually, but the Senate bill increases that by $200 million each year to cover inflation.

The House included the same basic civil rights provisions in its bill.

BIG SPRING HERALD LIVING TEXTBOOK Conference

Use of the daily newspaper in the classroom

SEPTEMBER 18, 1976

Howard College Science Building

A textbook is a necessary part of classroom instruction, but it can't possibly cover an event or principle or discovery that has developed in the past 24 hours.

Many teachers have found they can utilize a newspaper as a source for information not yet available in the textbook, thus providing a balance between yesterday and today.

How can you achieve that balance? By teaching such events as Water-gate along with the Teapot Dome Scandal, or Skylab alongside man's first efforts to fly.

You can balance the past from the textbook with the now from the newspaper.

Put some balance in your classroom. Try a newspaper.

Ridin' fence

Still roping at 81

with Marj Carpenter

The cowhand leaned against the horse trailer out at the rodeo arena and rolled up his rope. He had just been down in the arena roping a calf.

"I go to a roping somewhere every weekend," he drawled. He turned to check out his horse. "We all kind of follow each other around and rope against each other at different locations," he added.

"Hi honey," he said to a young girl walking by leading a horse. "She's a good roper. Comes out of Abilene," the roper added.

None of this is unusual. Up to this point, I could be talking about any roper in West Texas and Eastern New Mexico.

But Byrel Hittson is unusual. He's 81 years old and still roping. When I heard there was a country roping and out at the arena, I went to the location.

Somebody told me there was a roper in a red shirt that was 77 years of age. Hittson didn't look quite that old, but he had on a red shirt so I went up to him and ask, "Are you 77?"

"Nope," he answered and grinned. "I'm 81."

Born in Breckenridge, he has lived there most of his life. "However," he stated,

Dog gone, search on

"Oh where, oh where has my little dog gone?" This is the question Saturday at the home of Larson Lloyd, 2308 Roberts.

The Lloyd's spent most of Saturday driving up one street and down another hunting a little black dog who answers to the name of Cissy.

"She's an old dog who more or less had the run of the place and slept in a bed on the front porch," Lloyd stated. "She has simply disappeared. If you know the whereabouts of our dog, please call 7-5646."

YMCA offering fencing courses in evening

This fall, the Big Spring YMCA will again be offering an evening course in fencing. Fencing, which is the art of sword fighting, is an exciting, fast-paced sport.

It has been popular with people from all walks of life, including movie actors, statesmen, and fashion models, who learn to fence because they say it makes them more graceful. Special instructors have even taught fencing to physically and mentally handicapped children.

Like tennis, the basic back around 1911, my brother, Onis and I went over to New Mexico and worked awhile.

"Well, actually we worked as cowpokes around over there for about ten years. That doesn't seem like very long now. But it seemed like a long time at the time," Hittson said.

He paused, grinned and said, "We worked mostly around Roswell and Lovington. We worked in that old flat area out there a punchin' cows," he recalled.

Byrel's father, Charlie was one of the very early ranchers in Stephens County. "He thought if we were worth our salt, we ought to go off somewhere and punch cows a while. So we did. But we ended up back in Breckenridge."

When asked what was his best time on a single calf through the years, he laughed, "Oh I'm not too fast — probably around nine. But I've had lots of fun roping."

I asked the longtime roper if his was a particularly good roping horse and he turned to the horse — "Old Baldy here. Yes, I guess so. I call him Baldy, but he has one of those fancy registered names. Let me see if I can remember what it is. Oh yes, Sugar Man Leo. But I still call him Baldy."

His partner started hollering at him from the pickup. "Byrel, Dadgum it, are you getting interviewed again? Just cause you're old, you always get in the papers and

75 aircraft missing past seven years

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Each year people strap themselves in their private aircraft, taxi down the runway, soar off into the sky and disappear. Like Amelia Earhart or Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La.

They literally drop out of sight. The plane presumably crashes but nobody can find it.

Government figures show at least 75 aircraft missing in the United States over the last seven years.

Alaska, where Boggs' plane disappeared in 1972, ranks at the top with 13 missing aircraft in the seven-year period. Other leaders are Washington, 10;

California, 9; Florida, 8; and Michigan, 6.

More than one-tenth of the nation's searches take place in California, which had 65 search missions in 1965, said Civil Air Patrol officer Frank Burnham of Los Angeles. California has 17 per cent of the nation's private aircraft and six of the 10 busiest airports.

Most of the planes missing over Michigan and Florida presumably sank in water. In the West many missing aircraft are probably sitting on mountainsides, not in plain sight but not necessarily lost forever.

Some of those planes in the mountains turn up years later, perhaps spotted by a hunter or hiker or found during a search for another aircraft. Just last year the California CAP found a plane that had been missing 17 years.

The aircraft apparently broke up badly upon hitting a mountain in Southern California and the wreckage fell into crevasses where it couldn't be seen. Heavy snows of a couple of years ago apparently shifted the wreckage or the rocks, and the plane was visible last year.

The Air Force Rescue and Recovery Service at Scott Air Force Base, Ill., coordinates searches in the continental United States, but the CAP puts in about 85 per cent of the flying hours on the searches.

A search is begun whenever an aircraft disappears from a radar screen, is overdue and can't be tracked down at some other airport, or starts giving signals from its emergency locator transmitter.

It is important to find the missing plane right away because Air Force studies have shown that the chances of injured persons surviving go down 50 per cent the first day after the crash and another 30 per cent the second day. After the third day, there is almost no chance of finding survivors.

CAP probes continue as long as there are reasonable leads, but are ordinarily called off if the plane isn't found within 10 to 14 days.

As many as 50 to 100 aircraft may be involved in a search, and each plane is assigned one or more search areas about seven miles wide and seven miles long. The flying is done at the dangerously low height of 500 feet above the ground.

While searching for missing aircraft in California, CAP pilots must sort through the 672 wrecked planes that still sit on the state's mountainsides.

THROUGH the fieldglasses

By Danny Redden

"It was hot, and we like it hot," said Head Coach Don Robbins of the Steers' Monday afternoon practice.

The Steers, all well and healthy (not to mention their 1-1 season record), worked for over two hours on "Snyder Monday."

"We've forgotten the Hobbs game," Robbins said, "we watched the game films Saturday morning to see what we did wrong, and talked about the game, but now all our attention is on the Snyder ball game."

The Steers, now proven capable of winning football games, have not let the win go to their heads, according to Robbins. "Their mood is of a serious nature," said Robbins of his team's attitude this week.

An interesting aspect of the Steer-Snyder clash is the fact that many of the players on both teams are acquainted with each other. They have played against one another since the seventh grade in Junior High, Freshman, Junior varsity and now Varsity football contests.

"It's like playing your country cousin," said Robbins.

In fact, the speediest Tiger back, Clay Peterson, formerly lived in Big Spring. The rivalry will be intense, to say the least.

"Snyder has the biggest ball club we will probably see all year," said Robbins. "They have one BIG line, with 225, 245, 220 and 210-pounders."

Tommy Churchwell, number 22 in the black and gold, and a 164-pound senior defensive back, was named tri-captain for the Snyder game.

Churchwell fought off Hobbs' blockers time and time again, recovered two fumbles, and was instrumental in destroying any composure the Hobbs' offense might have tried to maintain during the second half.

Churchwell is indeed worthy of his honor, but I'm sure that the coaching staff would like to have named the entire defensive squad as well. They put on quite a show.

Well, the second week of "Crystal Ball" picks turned out much better for ol' Starbuck. Yours truly improved his mark

Battle for fourth

Rangers deadlocked

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Baseball fans take little interest in a battle for fourth place, but to the California Angels it is heaven compared to the miserable depths of last place.

Only 3,500 watched the Angels beat the Texas Rangers 6-2 in 14 innings Monday night although the two teams started the game virtually deadlocked for fourth in the American League West.

"To our players fourth place means a lot," said Norm Sherry, under whom California is 27-22 since he replaced Dick Williams as Angels manager. "We were in last place for a long time ... and when that happens fourth can mean a lot."

Dick Drago, who evened his record at 7-7 with 4 1-3 innings of three-hit relief pitching, echoed Sherry's sentiments and added a blast at Williams.

Runnels JH volleyballers beat Snyder

The Runnels Jr. High volleyball team beat the Snyder gold team Monday night, 15-10, 1-15, 15-12.

Head Coach Jane Upton singled out three players as receiving top honors: Cynthia Washington — spiker; Sherry Balack — high point server; and Linda Majors — outstanding overall player.

The team will not see action again until Thursday, Sept. 23, when they will go up against the Snyder black team in the local gym.

STRATEGY — Head Coach Don Robbins discusses the next play with Steer quarterback Bubba Stripling that resulted in the local's touchdown in their 9-0 victory over Hobbs last Friday night.

almost 200 percentage points, from .333 to .530.

That now puts me in a tie for fifth with Werrell's coin.

"Mad Dog" Marj Carpenter jumped out into the lead over "Red River" Finley by a .673 to .653 margin.

In addition to the Big Spring Quarterback Club meeting tonight (see p. 2-B), the Sands, Coahoma and Forsan boosters will all be meeting as well in their respective schools, most of them at 7:30.

The Klondike Booster Club will meet at 8 p.m. in the Klondike Library. Attend your local football-appreciation meeting. They need your support.

The final season-ticket tally for Big Spring home games hit 620, exactly 22 more than last year. The total for individual tickets to last Friday's Hobbs' game is still being one-potatoe-two-potatoed-up by Don Green's army of addition artists.

Green indicated that Snyder had sent 716 reserves seat tickets, and 500 student tickets for the Friday game. These tickets will go on sale Wednesday morning at 8:30, and will be $2.50 for reserved, and .75 cents for students. Students can also buy the tickets at the High School, but their duets will be $1.25 if they wait to buy them in Snyder.

Quote for the day: Jim Baum, radio personality, father, and all-around swell guy, (he paid me $5 to say that), is, and always has been quite a Steer booster. His vintage radio broadcasts of the Longhorn games are considered classics by Baum and one other guy whose name he forgets.

But Baum always attends the Quarterback Club meetings, and does his best to increase attendance by bringing his family and anyone that happens to be in the neighborhood at the time.

One man, at the last QB meeting, made an interesting observation shortly after Baum and his troop came in: "Where'd all the cookies go?" (NOTE: Score is now Reagan 3, Baum 2).

things means a lot to us," Drago said. "We had a lot of problems early in the year with Williams as manager. He didn't know how to handle this team at all. It was unbearable. I had a lot of respect for him before he came here, but now I definitely believe he is a bad manager. Maybe for someone else he can do better."

"For the fans, it's mostly first or nothing, but to the players it's a feather in your cap to finish higher in the standings," said Sherry. Of Drago's performance Sherry said, "He's done a great job on this road trip. He hasn't given up a run in his last three games. He went about five innings at Kansas City and three more at Chicago before tonight."

The Rangers appeared to have a victory in the regulation nine innings on the strength of a solo home run by Jeff Burroughs and the pitching of Tommy Boggs.

Burroughs' 15th homer broke a 1-1 tie and Boggs had a three-hitter going into the ninth inning, but Mario Guerrero doubled home Bruce Bochte to send the game into extra innings.

Angels starter Gary Ross, who allowed only six hits, got in trouble in the 10th, but Drago bailed him out. The Rangers threatened in the 12th and 13th innings but failed to break through.

Mike Bacsik, 2-2, who replaced Boggs to start the 11th, matched Drago until the roof fell in on him and two other relievers in the 11th.

Joe Hoerner replaced Bacsik with one out and the bases loaded and walked Jerry Remy to force in the winning run. An error and a two-run single by Bochte off Steve Foucault brought home three more scores.

Michigan no. 1

Standings shaken

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — "Where do you think you should be ranked this season, that's a different story."

"We should be 10th," he said Monday at his regular news conference. "But don't drop us out of the Top Ten."

Michigan isn't 10th. It's No. 1, despite an uncharacteristically poor defensive showing Saturday when the Wolverines — ranked No. 2 in the preseason poll — beat Big Ten rival Wisconsin, 40-27.

They gave up 426 yards to the Badgers, the most ever against a Michigan team in Schembechler's eight years at the school.

Nebraska, the top team in The Associated Press preseason listing, was tied 6-6 by Louisiana State and fell to eighth in this week's initial regular poll of the college season.

Who's second? Why, none other than Michigan's archrival, Ohio State — by a mere point.

The Wolverines, who collected 28 of the 61 first-place votes, totalled 1,077 points in the vote of sports writers and broadcasters. The Buckeyes had 18 firsts and 1,076 points of the maximum of 1,220.

"I don't care one way or another," Schembechler said, when pressed about his feelings on the poll. "What difference does it make after one game? At the end of the season, that's a different story."

The Wolverines have finished in the Top Ten in each of Schembechler's seven seasons since he moved over from Miami of Ohio. No other team in the nation has finished in the top 10 in each of the past seven years.

Who did Schembechler figure might be No. 1 in this week's poll?

"Probably Ohio State," he said. The Buckeyes trounced Michigan State 49-21.

Pittsburgh, which crushed Notre Dame 31-10, was third in the poll with nine first-place votes and 892 points. Oklahoma got four firsts and 865 points for fourth, while UCLA got the other two first-place votes and wound up fifth with 731 points.

Rounding out the Top Ten are Missouri — unranked in the preseason before clubbing Southern California 46-25, Penn State, Nebraska, Georgia and Maryland.

In the second 10 are Texas A&M, Arkansas, Kansas, Alabama, Boston College, Louisiana State, North Carolina, Arizona State, Texas and Mississippi.

KC's lead cut

American League West

By JOHN NELSON

AP Sports Writer

With a good series against the Minnesota Twins behind him, Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog thought he had the American League West title all wrapped up.

But things suddenly took a turn for the worse Monday night when the Royals dropped both ends of a doubleheader to the Chicago White Sox, 4-3 and 5-4.

The two losses cut Kansas City's lead to four games over the Oakland A's, whose game against Minnesota Monday night was rained out.

"It looks like it's going to boil down to the six games we have left with Oakland," Herzog said. "We have to beat them. That's all there is to it."

Chicago won both contests in the eighth inning and got complete games from starters Chris Knapp, 3-1, and Ken Brett, 10-9, who had to face brother George, Kansas City's third baseman, for the first time ever during the regular season.

Kevin Bell's sacrifice fly in the eighth inning won the opener, and Jim Spencer smashed a three-run homer in the eighth for the nightcap victory.

"Those guys (the White Sox) played like world champions," Herzog said. "We've got to come up with a big win, something to give us a spark. We didn't play poorly tonight. They just came up with the big hits."

In other AL games, Detroit defeated the New York Yankees 3-1, Baltimore nipped Milwaukee 5-3 in 10 innings, Cleveland downed Boston 8-3 and California thumped Texas 6-2 in 14 innings.

George Brett, hitting .338 and battling teammate Hal McRae (.340) all season for the AL batting title, faced his brother five times in the second game, got two singles and scored a run.

But he said there was no special emphasis placed on their first meeting. "The games meant so much tonight that the other things really didn't matter," George said.

Tigers 3, Yanks 1
Rusty Staub and Willie Horton hit successive sixth-inning homers and Detroit starter Jim Crawford picked up his first victory in seven decisions with the help of reliever John Hiller. It was Hiller's 13th save.

The loss, coupled with Baltimore's triumph, cut New York's lead in the American League East to 9½ games.

Orioles 5, Brewers 3
Tony Muser, inserted as a defensive replacement in the ninth inning, smacked a two-run homer in the 10th that boosted the Orioles past Milwaukee. Reggie Jackson had doubled in front of Muser, who hadn't homered since the 1974 season.

Fred Holsworth got his fourth victory without a loss, while Brewer reliever Bill wins pennant

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Amarillo won the Texas League pennant 10-5 over Shreveport Monday night, but Tucker Ashford got the big prize.

Ashford's four-for-four night for the winners was topped by the call from the San Diego Padres of the National League to join the club.

The pennant was the first ever for Amarillo.

The Gold Sox jumped into the lead while winning pitcher Mike Allen was holding Shreveport hitless the first three innings.

Solo homers by Rick Sweet and Jim Wilhelm provided the power, and Bobby Mitchell joined Ashford at four-for-four.

Doug Nelson took the loss for the Captains.

The game was the final of a best-of-five series.

Castro, 4-5, took the loss.

Indians 8, Red Sox 3
Rico Carty, Cleveland's 36-year-old designated hitter, led a 13-hit Cleveland attack with two doubles, two singles and an RBI as the Indians battered the Red Sox.

Dennis Eckersley, 11-12, was the winner with relief help from Dave LaRoche.

Angels 6, Rangers 2

Joe Hoerner walked home Andy Etchebarren in the 14th inning for the go-ahead run, and the Angels exploded four runs to down the Rangers.

Gosh, Bulaich!

Miami spoils OJ's return

BUFFALO (AP) — The pregame excitement circulated around O.J. Simpson and his return to the National Football League. But once the action started, the best running back in Buffalo Monday was Miami's Norm Bulaich.

Bulaich bulled his way to 107 yards and quarterback Bob Griese guided the Miami Dolphins to a 30-21 victory over Buffalo.

Simpson, limited to a single practice after reporting on the eve of the opener, carried five times for 28 yards and caught one pass for 43 more.

"I told you O.J. would play," said Miami Coach Don Shula. "What a hell of a job he did for just suiting up yesterday. (Buffalo Coach Lou) Saban waited all the way until the second play to put him in."

Simpson was rushed into action early when fullback Jim Braxton suffered torn ligaments in his right knee on Buffalo's first series of downs.

"The loss of Braxton kills us," said Saban. "It's funny, we spent the whole nine weeks getting Braxton ready to be the big man in our offense, and he lasts three plays."

Simpson said the loss of Quarterbackers meet tonight

The Quarterback Club will hold its third meeting of the season tonight in the High School cafeteria at 7:30, with a greatly increased crowd expected.

"It's habit-forming," said Head Coach Don Robbins, "we just need to get people coming to them again."

Tonight's meeting should be a dandy. Color films of the Hobb's game will be shown, and not only will they be very enjoyable because of the Steers' victory, but color is always more viewable than black and white.

There will be a verbal scout report on the Snyder

Tigers, the Longhorns' next opponent, and coaches will report on the local games last week, in which Big Spring came out on top with a 5-1-1 record.

Refreshments will be served, and all family, friends and interested boosters of the local team are urged to attend.

Braxton would speed up his return to full-time duty. "I'll just have to get ready quicker," he said. "I felt great. I thought I could have carried the ball more but I understand why I didn't. The coach didn't want me to play tired."

That didn't seem to be a problem for Bulaich, who carried the ball 19 times.

"It was just great blocking by our offensive line," said Bulaich. "I was just reading them and keying off their blocks."

Griese, who completed 13 of 21 passes for 199 yards, said Bulaich may be the fastest back Miami has.

"He's deceptive in how much speed he has," said Griese. "He's a lot quicker than he looks. He doesn't look fast because he's so big."

Griese threw a 30-yard touchdown pass to Nat Moore and spiced two other Dolphin touchdown drives with pinpoint connections that chewed up huge chunks of yardage against the rebuilt Buffalo defense.

Introducing the Average Billing Plan from Texas Electric.

AVERAGE BILLING AMOUNT

ACTUAL USE AMOUNT

If you've ever wished the amount of your electric bills could be more consistent every month — instead of changing so much between seasons — here's your chance.

The Average Billing Plan is being provided by Texas Electric to help smooth out the highs and lows that occur in your electric bills. As the name implies, this new plan enables you to pay an "average" rather than the actual amount used each month. It allows you to pay less during high-use months by paying more during low-use months.

If you'd like a folder that explains the plan in detail, call Texas Electric. Or request one on the comment portion of your electric service bill.

Humane Society fights 'cruel' use of coons

SEGUIN, Tex. (AP) — Officials of the Humane Society of the United States were thwarted Monday in their effort to halt the use of live raccoons as lures for dogs in a popular attraction at the Guadalupe County Fair here.

Bernard Weller, field representative for the humane society, watched the coon dog competition for two hours Sunday. He called the events "downright inhumane, cruelty to these animals (raccoons)."

Weller said he planned to file suit Monday against the fair directors, but County Atty. Elizabeth Jant said she refused to accept the humane society's complaint.

Miss Jant said she considered the matter "an interpretation of the law" and would not file charges against the fair directors "at this time."

She said she agreed, however, to view films of the coon dog competition later before making a final decision on whether to file a complaint. The film, taken by the humane society, was being processed Monday, Weller said.

John Harborth, president of the fair, which ended Sunday, said the raccoon and dog events had no bloodshed and no violence and that Texas law was on the side of the show.

The controversy in the town east of San Antonio erupted over various competitive events in which raccoons were used as lures for dogs trained to track the animals.

Some of the events included treeing, cooning on a log, coon in a hole and coon in a barrel.

"The humane society is unequivocally opposed to these events. This is an exploitation of these animals for the entertainment of this mass," Weller said in referring to the 1,000 spectators at Sunday's show.

Treeing was the first event. In it, a raccoon was placed in a wire cage suspended on a rope from a tree.

Two dogs at a time, about four yards away, were timed from the moment they crossed the starting line until one of them made contact with the cage.

Harborth said about 20 raccoons were used in all the events and that the animals were alternated "every little while."

Items are still needed for the garage sale, said a member. The next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday September 14 in the Lodge Hall.

Suffrage is topic of ABWA skit

The Barcelona Party Room was the scene Sunday afternoon of the fall enrollment event of the Scenic Chapter of the American Business Women's Association. Mrs. Gatlin Jones, event chairman, carried out the Bicentennial theme of red, white and blue. The refreshment table was covered with a white cloth overlaid with red net. A red, white and blue runner ran the length of the table. An arrangement of red, white and blue carnations was the focal point of the table with American flags scattered on the net. Many of the members continued the theme in their dress.

A skit entitled "The Suffragette" was presented by Deloris Albert and Joyce Moore. The skit depicted a suffragette from the 1850's visiting a chapter meeting of modern day ABWA.

The rights and privileges the modern working woman enjoys today were intensified when the 1850 visitory told of the obstacles that confronted them at that time in the history of America.

Following the skit, the ten guests were invited to the enrollment table, where Mrs. Bill Leugoud, membership chairman, answered questions and helped them with enrolling. New members enrolled were Kristi Pierson, Doris Trimble, Joyce McBride, and Elzan Schaffer.

The event concluded with an invitation to all present to visit the chapter's concession stand at May Belle's Flea Market next Saturday and Sunday, September 18 and 19.

Med women join alliance

The Woman's Auxiliary to the Permian Basin Medical Society had its first meeting of the year, Thursday September 9 during a coffee in the home of Mrs. Wallace Hunter.

It was a get-acquainted meeting honoring new members, Mrs. Olan Key, Mrs. Carroll Moore, Mrs. Maurice Watts, Mrs. John Munsell, Mrs. John Fish and Mrs. Benjamin Campomanes.

A short business meeting followed in which the auxiliary voted to join the newly formed Big Spring Alliance of Women's Clubs as a charter member. Reports of the year's activities and meetings were given by the vice president, Mrs. John Hogan. A newsletter report was discussed by Mrs. Clyde Thomas, chairman and the announcement of the availability of cards and stationery for the AMA-ERF fund was made by Mrs. James Kriemeyer, chairman. Mrs. Hunter will attend a workshop 15-17 September in Austin for County Presidents.

The next auxiliary will be at 10 a.m. October 4 in the home of Mrs. Roscoe Cowper.

Prof needs help as problem drinker

DEAR ABBY: I have been reading you for 20 years and have used your common-sense answers to some of life's knottiest problems in teaching my students. (I am a professor in a medical school.)

I have been very successful in the field of mental health, but I can do for others what I can't do for myself. My problem is one of alcoholism and there is no relief in sight. Your article about the man whose sister got drunk and telephoned him at all hours of the night hit home with me because I've done that hundreds of times. I would hope that the sober man would show some compassion for his alcoholic sister because I know so well the hell she lives in.

Abby, have any of your readers had a successful escape from alcoholism?

LIVING, BUT DEAD

DEAR LIVING: Yes! And the highest rate of successes has been with those who have sought help through Alcoholics Anonymous. (And for the spouse or friend of the alcoholic, Al-Anon, and for the children, Alateen.) I know I am beginning to sound like a broken record, but I cannot say enough for this wonderful non-profit organization.

There are chapters in nearly every city, and they're listed in your telephone directory. If you've given them a try and failed, try again. It's no crime to fail—only to quit trying.

DEAR ABBY: When I travel, I like to take my dog with me, which presents a problem because not all hotels allow dogs.

I recently stopped at a hotel where I was made welcome with my pet, and I saw this framed "notice" hanging in the lobby. It tickled me and if it tickles you, maybe you'll run it in your column.

"Dogs are welcome in this hotel. We never had a dog that smoked in bed and set fire to the blankets. We never had a dog who stole our towels, played the TV too loud or had a noisy fight with his traveling companion. We never had a dog that got drunk and broke up the furniture. So if your dog can vouch for you, you're welcome, too."

DOG LOVER

DEAR DOG LOVER: I've been tickled by a version of that notice, but in case some readers haven't, I'll run it. Thanks for a well-deserved tribute to man's best friend.

DEAR ABBY: I met a very attractive, eligible widower last winter, and we've been keeping steady company since. My only complaint is the way he keeps talking all the time about Mildred, his deceased wife. I never talk about my deceased husband. Outside of that, he is a decent man, and we get along just fine.

He has asked to marry me, but this is the way he proposed to me: "How would you like to take Mildred's place?"

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: If he has a sense of humor, tell him that since Mildred is in the cemetery, you don't want to take her place. But if he wants a new life and a new wife, you'll consider it—providing he quits talking about Mildred.

17-year-old Twitty follows father in song

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Jesseca James, daughter of Conway Twitty, is a girl in a hurry.

She's only 17—too young to sign a recording contract without the signature of a parent. But she's under contract and her first single, "Johnny One Time," has just been released.

She's currently on an eight-week national tour promoting the record.

While most girls her age are entering college or getting their first full-time job, Miss James is striving for stardom.

She's a talkative, outspoken, 4-foot-11 pixie who is the reigning world's "Ideal Miss." She giggles, dreams of having 10 children and is called "Jesse the Kid" by her producer.

Her real name is Kathy Twitty, but she doesn't want to use her famous name as a crutch to success. Her professional name was chosen by her father with the help of a baby book.

"People have a tendency to compare, and I don't want to be compared with my dad," said Miss James, who just recently quit her job as a counter clerk at a bowling alley. "I believe in individuality. I want to be able to say I did it myself."

Of course, her father helps guide her career.

"Dad is critical—most critical—of me. But when he says something is good, I believe him. He's had the experience to know what he's talking about. He's a good teacher by knowing what to do. But I want him to be a daddy to me, not a boss or a producer."

She's frank almost to a fault. About hard rock: "A lot of it gets way too deep for me; it's loud and I can't understand the words."

Conditions of foreign women to be discussed

The Federally Employed Women will discuss the conditions of working women in other countries during a salad supper Thursday evening. Special guests for the supper, to be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Veteran's Hospital Room 216, will be Mrs. B.H. Lee of Korea and Tran Phuong of Vietnam. The guests will tell members of the group about special problems they face in their own countries.

30 million doses of swine flu vaccine available Oct. 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly 30 million doses of swine flu vaccine will be available to the public by Oct. 1 and most Americans who want the shots should be able to have them by the end of the year, a government doctor says.

Dr. Theodore Cooper, assistant secretary for health, told a House health subcommittee Monday that the inoculation program should be completed by January.

In addition to the 30 million swine flu vaccine doses expected to be ready by Oct. 1, he said 117 million should be ready for use by December and another 13 million should be prepared by mid-January.

He said a recent poll showed that 56 per cent of the adult population — or about 115 million persons — plan to be immunized. The remainder of the surveyed adults said they have not yet made up their minds or that they do not intend to take the vaccine, he said.

If that is true, Cooper said, there should be enough vaccine for those wanting to be immunized by the end of this year.

Cooper also said health officials expect to determine sometime this week the correct dosages of the vaccine for children under 18 who suffer from chronic diseases that could be aggravated by the flu.

"These young people are in a completely different risk-benefit situation than others of their age, and a higher rate of vaccine side effects can be tolerated in view of their great risk from serious bouts with influenza," he said.

Cooper said the characteristic vaccine is highly effective for persons over 25 years of age, but less effective for those under 25.

Other witnesses before the House health and environment subcommittee which is monitoring the national swine flu inoculation program disputed a government information sheet claiming that "flu vaccine can be taken safely during pregnancy."

Marcia Greenberger, an attorney with the Women's Rights Project of the Center for Law and Social Policy, a public interest law firm, and Susan Marks, a law student intern, said "there have been no tests to determine the safety of the swine flu vaccine either for the pregnant woman or her unborn fetus." They said in the face of "this absence of knowledge, it is hardly correct to boldly assert, as does the government's form, that the flu vaccine can be taken safely during pregnancy."

When Cooper was asked what he would advise an expectant mother, he replied, "I would tell her to take it."

Bridge banged by barge, folds

Truck, car plunge into water

MANCHAC, La. (AP) — The top section of a busy high-rise bridge was hit by a barge Monday and collapsed, carrying with it at least two vehicles and an unknown number of persons.

Witnesses said a tractor-trailer truck and at least one car plunged into the water 56 feet below as a 220-foot section of the U.S. 51 bridge fell out from under them.

Occupants of the car were presumed drowned. The two men in the truck were taken to a hospital — one with a broken ankle, the other with a broken arm.

No one was certain how many cars or persons were missing. There were unconfirmed reports that as many as five vehicles may have fallen in.

Divers searching the wreckage were hampered by swift currents and poor visibility in the murky water.

The two-lane U.S. 51 bridge was on a north-south highway that parallels an uncompleted section of Interstate 55, the main route between New Orleans and Jackson, Miss.

The bridge crossed Pass Manchac, a 40-foot-deep channel between Lake Pontchartrain and Lake Maurepas, about 25 miles northwest of New Orleans.

Two men whose car skidded to a stop at the edge of the gap in the bridge said it appeared that two persons were in an automobile which plunged into the water ahead of them.

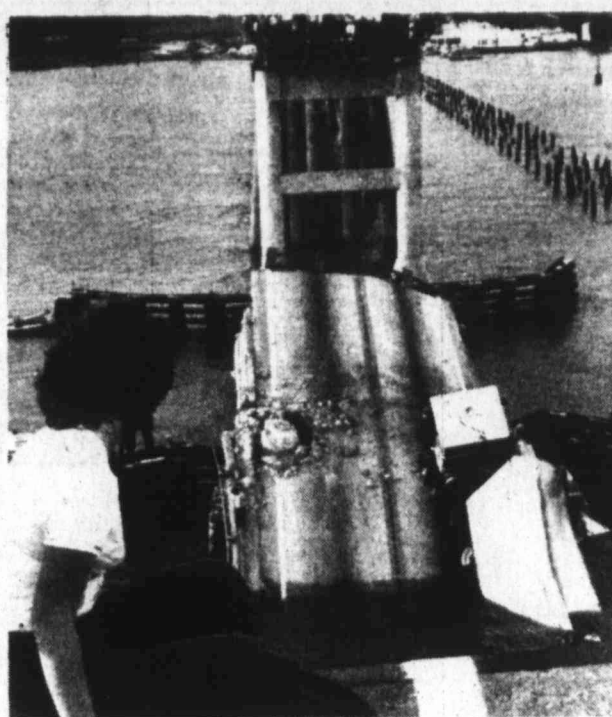

"All I could see was this truck falling, going down with the bridge and the car falling after it," said George Lewis of New Orleans, who braked just in time to save himself.

"I saw the trailer rig go over and then the car behind it went over."

"When I saw the car in front of me go over, I swerved my car to the side. I'd rather run into the side than run over into the water. I stopped my car about one foot from the edge. I was lucky."

Lewis said that a second barge collided with the bridge support, the towboat sounded a frantic blast on its horn.

The Coast Guard said the barge was one of two loaded with oyster shells and being pushed westward from Lake Pontchartrain by the END OF THE LINE — The white line ended here after a barge collided with a high-rise bridge at Manchac, La., knocking out several sections of the span. Several vehicles including a truck-trailer plunged 56 feet to the waters Monday.

CowBelles selling beef-boosting buttons

The Texas CowBelles are selling "Keep Beef King" buttons to help raise money for the beef referendum for the Beef Research and Information Act. CowBelles throughout the nation are selling the buttons to raise $150,000 needed for a bond to be posted with the United States Department of Agriculture for the referendum costs and to support the industry Beef Development Taskforce information campaign.

Each CowBelle organization has been asked to sell a quantity of buttons equal to ten times its membership.

You may purchase a button from any CowBelle — they will have them in their booth at the Howard County Fair or you may buy one at John Davis Feed Store, Jay's Farm and Ranch Store, Security State Bank and State National Bank.

These buttons sell for $1 each and are just a token one can wear saying he or she supports the Beef Research and Information Act. Objective of this act is to enable the beef industry to obtain its own self-help promotional program.

Cotton advertisements on sees on television and in magazines were made possible through the individual cotton producers and their $1 a bale check-off program. Cotton is in demand now and many improvements in cotton fabrics have been made in recent years through research.

It is estimated that $30 million to $40 million a year will be raised, based on a collection rate of 3 percent of sales value. At present, the entire beef industry, the largest segment of U. S. Agriculture, is spending only about $3 million on promotion, education and nutritional research.

"I have a CB radio," Smith said. "When I saw this, I got on with a Mayday and said the top of the Manchac bridge had fallen in."

"When I did that, I could hear those trucks and cars relaying like mad. I'm sure there was some slamming of brakes."

School board votes $7,935 for upkeep

COLORADO CITY — The Colorado City school board approved $7,935 for the upkeep of Wallace school for the forthcoming year at its Monday night meeting.

The building is now an adult training center and senior citizens center.

Although no school students use the building, it is still owned by the school district. Because the district is still obligated to the extent of more than $100,000 for it, School Supt. Lloyd McKee says it is to the advantage of the district to keep the structure in good condition.

Budget for the Wallace Center is $27,545. The balance of the operating funds comes from the West Texas Council of Governments.

The final payment of $102 has been made on the school district's Buford School building, razed a decade ago.

The district no longer owns the land that the school had occupied.

Ex-CIA chief due

SAN ANGELO — Former CIA Director William E. Colby, embroiled in recent controversies over the CIA's covert foreign and domestic spying operations, is scheduled to speak next Tuesday at Angelo State University.

Colby's appearance is part of a lecture tour and is in connection with the University Center Program Council offerings this fall.

The lecture will be held at 8 p.m. in the ballroom of the Houston Hart University Center on the ASU campus.

Admission is free. Colby became involved with CIA operations as early as 1943 when he volunteered to join the OSS, parachuting French-speaking fighting men behind enemy lines in Europe.

After the war, Colby, a Princeton graduate, earned his law degree from Columbia. Finding that a law career did not suit his tastes, he joined the CIA at the outbreak of the Korean War where with the brief exception of serving as deputy and then chief advisor to the pacification program in South Vietnam, he remained until his recent retirement.

His work in the CIA included assignments in Stockholm, Rome and Vietnam until he was named Executive Director-Controller in 1972 and then promoted to Deputy Director of Operations in 1973. In the latter office he headed the Directorate of Operations which is responsible for the agency's covert intelligence-gathering activities and its secret political operations.

He served as CIA Director from 1973 to 1976 during a period when the agency came under attack from some of its operations.
