Reminders Given About Gas, Tires By Local Board

Despite the appeals made by the local War Price and Rationing Board, for everyone to fill completely their application for supplementary gasoline, a number of persons still fail to complete their application before turning them in to the board. The ration board reminds you again to fill in mileage, dates, and other blanks as well as signing the application, before releasing it to the board.

They also remind you to be sure and turn in all part D's of Tire applications.

You are requested to bring in ODT's to receive the first quarter of 1944 allotment of gasoline, so that the board can get it issued and mailed.

$792,000 In War Bonds To Be Sold In 4th Campaign

The War Finance Committee of Texas has already informed us of the $792,000 quota assigned to this county for the Fourth War Loan Drive, which officially opens January 18 and closes February 15.

Of that amount, the letter from state headquarters explained, individual buyers of bonds throughout the county will be expected to take care of $284,000 through the purchase of Series E War Savings Bonds.

County chairman, Carl Rountree, states that there will be a committee meeting in a few days, and plans will be formulated at this time for the campaign.

During the period from January 18 to February 1, only those sales to individual buyers will be reported by the Treasury in its releases on national sales figures as well as the state headquarters in its releases on Texas sales. After February 1 all corporation orders will be included in tabulations.

Securities to be offered during the drive, in addition to Series E bonds, included Series F War Savings Bonds; Series G War Savings Bonds; Series C Treasury Savings Notes; two and a half per cent Treasury Bonds dated February 1, 1944, due March 15, 1970, callable 1965; two and one fourth per cent Treasury Bonds dated February 1, 1944, due September 15, 1959, callable 1956; and seven eights per cent Treasury Certificates of Indebtedness, Series A-1945, dated February 1, 1944, due February 1, 1954.

The National goal has been set at $14,000,000,000 with five and a half billion of that total to be raised by sales to individuals. All bond purchases after January 1 will be counted on the Fourth War Loan Drive quota.

BACK THE ATTACK—WITH WAR BONDS

Dan Y. Davis of Lamesa, has been chosen county chairman for the Celebration of the President's Birthday in the fight against infantile paralysis. This announcement comes from George Waverly Briggs, Dallas, vice chairman for the Texas State Committee. Definite plans for the celebration in this county are now being considered and will be made public immediately.

In making the selection of county chairman Mr. Briggs stated that because of the infantile paralysis epidemic which swept over Texas and many other states during the year of 1943 that a special effort must be made to raise funds to continue the battle against the dread crippler. He calls attention to the "all out" request made by President Roosevelt for the support of this movement to protect the health of the people on the home front and is urging all local chapters throughout the state to bend every effort possible to make the 1944 celebrations bigger and better than in any previous year. This year the celebrations are honoring the 62nd birthday of President Roosevelt.

Mr. Briggs assures his chairmen and chapter members that fifty per cent of funds raised through the celebration will remain with the county chapter wherein the money is raised. The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis was called upon to spend heavily of its funds in the recent epidemic. It sent nurses trained in the Kenney treatment method to hospitals in population centers where the disease struck heaviest.

Keeping Records On Dairy Cows Are Important

Production records are more important to dairymen than to most other farming enterprises in the opinion of O. W. Thompson, dairy husbandman for the A. and M. College Extension Service. He urges farmers who do not keep records to begin that practice with the new year as a means of "doing a better job of feeding, culling and breeding and, perhaps, finding and stopping the leaks which may be taking the profits from their operations."

The simplest way for the average dairyman to obtain accurate knowledge of the production and cost of operating his herd is to become a member of a dairy herd improvement association. Thompson explains that the association's field man, or cow tester, does the

Cooperative Buying Proves To Be Successful

Garden seed, fruit trees, berry and grape vines, tin cans, fresh fruits and vegetables, and material for re-caning chairs are among the many items bought cooperatively by Texas farm and ranch families during the past year.

Surveying cooperative marketing efforts during 1943, Myrtle Murray, specialist in home industries for the A. and M. College Extension Service, recalls that in Harrison County alone rural women bought 17,000 fruit trees and berry vines by pooling their orders through local or nearby nurserymen. Angelina County reported buying 500 No. 1 rose bushes.

Cabbages were bought by the truck load in Throckmorton and Hardeman counties. Mrs. Elmer Davis, chairman of the Hardeman County Home Demonstration Council's marketing committee, reports that 3,000 pounds were bought at two and one-half cents a pound. These women also bought 180 bushels of apples and a truck load of sweet potatoes. In all, 180 families in 19 of the 21 communities in that county have improved their diets and made financial savings through cooperative buying of one or more of these commodities. One hundred and eight cereal mills were bought cooperatively in Johnson County, while 120 dairy thermometers were bought in McCullough County.

An alert marketing committee in Tarrant County, hearing that No. 2 cans were remaining from the WFA canning program, assisted club members to buy 13,500 at public auction. The price was $1.90 per hundred. Dallas County's marketing committee bought 30,600 at $1.90 per hundred plus 20 cents for transportation. The Dallas County Commissioners' Court advanced money for the purchase, and the cans were delivered to the Dallas County Recreation Hall where the cans were distributed by the hostess, Mrs. Neely Huffhines, a home demonstration club woman.

WALHALLA, S. C. — Doing things which most people consider unlucky is Rule No. 1 of Dalhalla's Last Man Club.

Chartered originally by 13 business men, all overseas veterans of World War I, on March 13, 1937, at 8:13 p. m., the club meets 13 minutes after the hour on the 13th day of each month. Dues, 13 cents each, are used to buy a 13 pound turkey for the annual banquet.

But that's only routine. When the 13th arrives on Friday, the club celebrates. Mirrors are smashed by the dozens — or rather 13's—members light cigarettes "three on a match" and walk under ladders carrying the club's black cat mascot which was born on the 13th of the month.

Supper is held 13 miles from Walhalla, 13 paces from a stream at 7:13 p. m.

The club plans to remain active until only one man remains.

Prisoners Work For Freedom

SAN FRANCISCO — Snowy-haired Warden James A. Johnston is proud of his "bad boys." They're helping Uncle Sam.

Unable to go forth upon the fields of battle for the glory of their country — unable, in fact to go forth anywhere — warden Johnston's 300 inmates of Alcatraz prison, on an island in San Francisco bay, are laboring long hours each day on materials for the war effort. They're making lots of things, from warm field jackets for the soldiers, to cargo nets to help load war supplies onto waiting ships.

"They're responsive to all war effort," Warden Johnston said. "Lots of them would like to be in the service, but they aren't so they're doing the next best thing."

Everybody works on "the rock," which receives "maximum custody" cases from other federal penitentiaries. Those not actually at war tasks help maintain the island's buildings, equipment, and sanitation system.

"Recently we received a special commendation from the Navy for our work on cargo nets which were above expected quotas, and the men were all proud of that record," Warden Johnston said.

In addition to laboring on the nets the men are: Handling transport laundry and doing laundry work for Army posts; operating a clothing salvage department for the Army quartermaster corps and repairing and dry cleaning used clothing; operating a clothing factory where field jackets and khaki trousers are made and repairing and cleaning submarine net buoys.

Mrs. U. S. A. Has Post-War Dream

By ARLENE WOLF
AP Features Writer

We had a chat with our preferred prognosticator of post-war plans for women today, and wonderous indeed are the things she saw in her crystal ball. Want a peek? Then put on those rose-colored glasses, girls!

What's that long wavy line there in the post-war foreground? Just thousands and thousands of women queuing up in front of hosiery mills, waiting for the first nylons to roll off the machines. As each gal gets her four or five dozens, she steps into her helicopter, and is whisked to the roof of a lingerie emporium, where real honest-to-goodness lastex girdles and bras with elastic are just waiting to be picked up.

There seems to be quite a bit of confetti in the air, too. Red, green, brown, and white. Those are the remnants of ration books the gals have torn up in celebration of peace.

As soon as the ladies have finished with their shopping orgy, they're going right back to work. No need to stay home. There won't be any servant problem, because no one will need any servants. Homes will be operated efficiently by a series of remote control portable pushbuttons tucked in the handbag. Plenty of room for such a gadget, because no woman need carry cosmetics. Indelible lipstick will really be indelible. Powder will have some sort of adhesive ingredient, and a shiny nose will be just a wartime memory.

If the working gal is late, she'll eat breakfast while flying over to the office in her everyday helicopter—not to be confused with the larger and more luxurious family sky buggy reserved for Sundays and holidays. The helicopter will just fly itself, so she can devote all her attention to coffee and toast—made to order by pressing a button on the instrument panel.

While Mrs. America is doing a day's work, her house is running itself. At precisely 9:30 a. m. an automatic timing device sets off a master vacuum that whisks up any bit of dust, germs, or other foreign matter which might have sneaked into the air-conditioned rooms. At 9:35 a. m. it sprays out furniture polish and rubs it to a nice gloss.

A few minutes before the children are expected home from school for lunch, a button on the remote control board opens the ice-box, whizzes a scientifically balanced food tablet over to the plastic pot of water on the stove, where it expands into a delicious home-cooked lunch.

Now with her housekeeping worries off her mind, Mrs. America can relax and have her own lunch. Into the helicopter again, for a short five minutes jaunt to the best restaurant in the nearest city—four or five hundred miles away, if she's in a hurry.

When the day is over, and six o'clock rolls around, the lady of the future presses another button marked dinner. By the time she gets home from the office, tired and worn from a day of button-pushing, dinner's all ready, the table is set, and all she has to do is eat it. A robot (who asks no salary and supplies his own fuel and gears) does the dishes.

Then for a quiet evening at home. While the automatic sewing machine's doing a little mending, she may turn on the television or the movie machine.

Wait a minute now—the movie machine seems to be stuck. The sound track's repeating something over and over. What's it saying?

Oh, just "Wake up!"
Nice while it lasted, wasn't it?

WAC's Are Filling 150 Assignments At Various Fields

"The story of the WACs to date can be put briefly: They are making history," Lt. Cora Lee Morrow, of the U. S. Army Recruiting Station, in Big Spring, Texas, said today.

"Not only at Army posts throughout the country but overseas as well, the trim olive drab uniform of the Women's Army Corps has come to be recognized as the sign of an efficient and capable job being done, and of a real soldier on duty," Lt. Morrow continued.

"We're getting reports of the Women's Army Corps from Italy, North Africa, England, and every camp in the country where WACs are stationed. Many of them are in positions of key importance, the places where great decisions are made, such as the secretaries to General Eisenhower and to Brigadier General Thomas J. Davis, Adjutant General's Department, at Allied Forces Headquarters in North Africa.

"But secretarial duties in the various nerve centers of the Army administrative machinery represent only one of the many — more than 150, actually — kinds of Army assignments WACs are filling with distinction. In many cases, civilian skills are directly utilized. In others, training by the Women's Army Corps itself equips each woman for the assignment for which she is best suited. So, while a civilian skill or specialized ability is useful, the really important requirement is the ability to learn. And that is an ability many women have already demonstrated to the complete satisfaction of the most exacting."

Danger Lurks In The Back Yard

MULLINS, S. C. (AP) — Cpl. Reuben Rogers served 19 months in a dangerous assignment with an anti-aircraft battery and didn't get a scratch. He came home on furlough, though, and with some companions started chopping down a tree. They stopped a moment to watch some planes pass. The tree suddenly came down with a crash, and a limb hit Cpl. Rogers. He suffered a compound fracture of the leg and other injuries.

Necessity Is Mother Of Music

CAMP CLAIBORNE, La. (AP) — Bass fiddle player Cpl. M. V. Smith wanted to appear in his regiment's musical revue but at the moment he was sans fiddle.

He improvised:
An empty lime drum turned bottom up; a shelter-half tent pole attached to one side of the drum; a tent rope stretched from the end of the pole through a hole in the drum head, and knotted inside; the tone varied by varying pressure on the rope by hand; two strips of wood under the contraption to hold it off the floor; a foot to hold the drum down securely. Presto! a base fiddle and a series of renditions that "stole" the revue.

Because of the wartime demands for strong alloys, the aluminum industry had to discard its peacetime fabricating machinery, and has developed new fabricating facilities at a cost of more than a billion dollars, 80 per cent of which was supplied by the government.

Oranges Are High In Food Value and Have Many Uses

While oranges are plentiful again, homemakers should guard against wasting them—from the time they are selected until the last peel has been used.

There are a couple of things to remember in buying oranges, says Hazel Phipps, specialist in food preparation for the A. and M. College Extension Service. If you want oranges to make juice for tomorrow morning's breakfast, the thin-skinned heavy oranges will furnish the most juice, or if you want some oranges to use in a fruit salad or in segments for other purposes, the heavy-skinned light weight fruit will be the best buy, Miss Phipps says.

A smooth skin free from rough or thick spots is an indication of good orange quality, but, strangely enough, the color of the skin has nothing to do with its quality or flavor. Some oranges bear a stamp "Color Added." Miss Phipps says this is because some oranges from Texas and Florida frequently reach maturity while the skin is still green in color.

The specialist laments that the waste of orange peel is truly tragic. Most people peel an orange and automatically throw away the outside, forgetting that the rind can be used for food. Candied orange peel is a delicacy and ground orange peel in a cranberry relish will be especially good with meats. And orange peel is always delicious in muffins, cookies and cake. It gives a new and tasty flavor.

Oranges which are sound are "individual banks" of Vitamin C, and every person needs a constant daily supply of this vitamin, the specialist says.

Be Sure and Burn Gift Wrappings To Destroy Insects

Enemy troops haven't set foot on continental America, but there is danger of other alien enemies slipping through our guard. According to information from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, many serious insect pests have been discovered among the packing in Christmas and other parcels reaching this country from service men abroad.

Dr. H. G. Johnston, entomologist for the A. and M. College Extension Service, recommends burning this material promptly as the best safe guard against the escape of these dangerous pests. If allowed to escape, he said, the insects concealed in this packing material might create a new hazard for agriculture comparable to those which already have cost Texas farmers large losses in crops as well as money spent in efforts to control destructive infestation.

The danger was revealed when hundreds of living pink bollworms were found in packages coming through such widely scattered ports as Baltimore, New York, Philadelphia, and Houston, the USDA states. Many of the packages examined at the northern ports were on their way to families living in the Cotton Belt. Inspectors also have found rice straw and hulls used for packing in these gift packages. Both of these materials are on the quarantine list because of the danger of introducing rice insects and disease.

The United States is the only big cotton country not generally affected by the pink bollworm, an insect capable of doing as much damage, if not more, than the boll weevil, Dr. Johnston explains. There has been some infestation in a few Texas border counties, but sharp restrictions are maintained against its spread.

To prevent the possibility of the pest getting a foothold from this new source beyond the control zone, the entomologist urges prompt destruction of boxes and packing by fire and not stored or put out with the trash where the insects might survive and find their way to gardens and fields.

All's Fair In Love And Leap Year

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Features Writer

Take a deep breath, girls. Repair those running and jumping shoes for the hurdles—'tis Leap Year.

Of course it's tough. But it's been four whole years since you've had a chance to pick a husband and you have only the rest of this year.

Competition? It's keen. With 8,000,000 men in the armed forces, some 3,000,000 of the younger and most eligible ones aboard and 5,000,000 girls of marriageable age—you need all the fixin's and trimmin's to get your man.

But what's a poor gal to do? He can't scent eau de cologne on a V-Mail letter. He can't see your eyelashes flicker in the moonlight. You've got to trap him by remote control.

The answer is making love through the mails with an okay from Uncle Sam's censor, using some brand new techniques.

If he's the subtle type you must plan your campaign with finesse. Tell him they've just painted your favorite park bench and you've arranged to keep the wet paint sign on it until he returns.

Or—they've chopped down the old apple tree—and who cares about picnics anyway?

If he's looking for somebody to mother him—send him a batch of cookies made with your own little hands (and the help of mother and some good shortening.)

For the right-on-the-brink type who is bothered by the high cost of living, how about a homemade phonograph record with a cute little poem recited by you on how "there won't be any rationing when the war's over, baby—maybe?"

Tell him about so-an-so's corporal (if he's a sergeant with a slight inferiority complex) who has just given her a diamond ring. No, it's not big. But it's the thought that counts.

Don't be timid, girls. Believe it or not, it used to be legal. Back in 188 Scotland passed a law that entitled a girl to propose to the man of her fancy, and if he refused he was fined according to his estate unless he proved he was betrothed to another.

So successful for the females was this law, that similar ones were passed in France, Genoa and Florence.

Ages don't count in this marriage campaign. The surprising thing about the 2,000,000 marriages recorded in 1943 was that it was the very young girls and those between 35 and 40 who said the "I-do's."

This is no time to be coy. All's fair in love and war. Give it both barrels—'cause if you don't ask for what you want, somebody will beat you to it.

Rabbit fur, after processing may be known as any of these: Coney, lapin, French seal, French beaver, ermine, near seal, polar seal, marmotine, erminette or squirreline.

To send an article 600 miles to Lima, Peru, a shipper in Iquitos, Brazil, has had to route it down the Amazon, across the Atlantic to London, back to New York, and south again through the Panama Canal to its destination—about 10,000 miles.

New Order Went Into Effect On Protein Feed January 1

Charles Tarter, administrative officer at the AAA office, has received an order from the state office which supersedes instructions given in November of 1943 which placed restrictions on deliveries of oilseed meal, cake and pellets (protein feed) in this county.

This new order which became effective January 1, 1944, relieved restrictions in part. Anyone can secure protein feed without a purchase certificate if he doesn't use over 500 pounds of it within a 30-day period.

The order applies to oilseed meals produced in Oklahoma, Texas, and New Mexico, except soybean meal produced under Commodity Credit Corporation contracts, designated "CCC Soybean, Form 106, 1943 crop," which is retained by the corporation and the 20 per cent set aside in processor's oilmeal production in January under Director's order number 1.

If a person uses over 500 pounds of protein feeds in a 30-day period, he must have a purchase certificate.

Where a feeder wishes to purchase from a processor, the county committee, before approving the quantity desired shall consider the number of livestock on hand and the minimum feeding requirements for a 30-day period, except for a length of feeding period otherwise approved by the State Committee for the county, less the amount of protein feed on hand. This amount may be adjusted downward providing the feeder has grazing or supplies of other feed available. "This consideration is advisable since the purpose of this order is to secure an equitable distribution of the available protein meal so that feeders may obtain their proportional share," the order explained.
