Methodist Pastor Begins Work Here

The Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Michael arrived in Wellington late last week to make their home, and he preached his first sermon before the congregation of the First Methodist Church Sunday morning. Property Revaluation for City and School District Gets Under Way

Re-valuation of the real and business personal properties for the City of Wellington and the Wellington Independent School District was started here late last week by the George Ehrenborg Company of Dallas under a contract signed recently.

Miss Louise Oestreich was in Wellington last week to set up the local office, which is located in the City Hall. Miss Joan Bumpas is office secretary.

First step in the program will be the measurement of all buildings in the city and school district. This will be done by LeRoy Reagan, of the Ehrenborg Company, who will go from house to house asking for information on construction of the buildings. Mr.

Reagan is gathering the information only, for the appraiser, and he is not setting values on the property.

He will carry an identification card signed by the city manager to identify himself to property owners.

Later on, as work advances others associated with the appraising company will be called in, including a land appraiser, personal property appraiser, and others, Miss Oestreich said.

All work will be under the direct supervision of George Ehrenborg, who is a registered civil engineer, and head of the firm.

In addition to the revaluation work, a complete set of maps of the city and school district will be made.

"The workers ask the co-operation of owners in giving information on buildings, because the more accurate the information given, the more accurate will be the valuation on appraisal," Miss Oestreich said.

Mr. Reagan will include in his survey the measurements of all buildings, including barns, garages and other outbuildings.

Miss Oestreich pointed out that this is strictly a revaluation of everything on the tax rolls. In addition to the house-to-house survey, workers will double check by aerial maps made for the federal government this spring to be sure that no one is missed.

Revaluation of all property will be on the same basis. The survey is strictly impartial and that is the reason for hiring outside professional appraisal firm, Miss Oestreich added.

Inflated values will not be used in determining the new valuation. A basic year will be set by the firm and the city after they have discussed the current and past valuations thoroughly.

The George Ehrenborg Company is recognized as one of the leading firms of its type in the southwest. It has been in business for more than 30 years, and has served more than 250 school districts and cities in Texas, in addition to others throughout the South and Southwest.

It is now working for the Cities of San Angelo and Fort Stockton; the Grand Saline School District; the City and Independent School District of Nacogdoches; and the City of Ocala, Fla. Several additional jobs are due to begin within the next few months.

Twenty Years Between Classes

DAUGHTER, GRANDSON OF CITY COUPLE GET DIPLOMAS TOGETHER

A 37-year-old mother and her 17 year old son graduated together from Prairie Hill High School May 26. They were Mrs. D. J. McFarland and Donald McFarland, the daughter and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Holton of Wellington.

Mrs. McFarland's story goes back to 1929, when, as Marie Holton, she married Mr. McFarland after her sophomore year in high school.

"I always intended to go back to school as soon as I could get around to it," Mrs. McFarland said.

During the years between sophomore and junior courses, Mrs. McFarland kept house for her husband and had a son and daughter.

"Two years ago I decided it was now or never. I wanted to get my diploma at the same time Donald got his. So I started back to school," she said.

"I was afraid it would be hard after all those years, but it's easier — much easier," she added.

At first Donald didn't much like the idea of his mother enrolling in classes with him. Then she started beating him at geometry, and that didn't help. But now Donald is pretty proud of her. He double-dated with her for the junior-senior banquet. Mrs. McFarland took her husband and Donald took his girl.

The daughter, Jeanette, is a sophomore in high school, but she helps her mother over rusty spots. Sometimes it's vice versa. Donald likes to do his homework by himself — what with his mother offering such stiff competition.

After the mother and son received their diplomas together, they, and the seven other seniors, left on the senior trip to Grand Canyon and Old Mexico.

"For twenty years I have wanted to finish school and it has been a wonderful experience," Mrs. McFarland declared.

Mrs. Holton and another daughter, Mrs. Cleve Marchbanks, went from here to the graduation. They were joined there by Mrs. Holton's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Holton of San Antonio.

Eastern Star Installs New 1951-52 Officers

Officers for the coming year of the Wellington Chapter No. 238, Order of the Eastern Star, were installed Thursday evening, May 31. This was a public installation, with guests as well as members attending.

The retiring Worthy Matron, Vera Wilder, opened the chapter and announced the installing officers, who included Eva Starr, principal installing officer; P. E. Starr, installing patron; Bessie Slay, installing chaplain; Bessie Brisbin, installing organist; Hat-tie Scott, installing secretary; and Mrs. Wilder, installing marshal.

Officers installed included Lee Ella Seale, Worthy Matron; Arthur Hennard, Worthy Patron; Mary Jones, Associate Matron; Jack Davis, Associate Patron; Jennie Williams, secretary; Loeva Pierce, treasurer; Marie Harper, conductress; Annie Clark, associate conductress; Ann Wilder, Adah; Edna Rudy, Ruth; Christeena Long, Ester; Willie Wells, Martha; Faye Lee, Electa; Dorothy Davis, organist; Vera Hester, chaplain; Dorothy Nelson, marshal; Joan Flint, warden; and Alf Wynn, sentinel.

Vocal selections were given during the installation by Marguerite Bartlett.

After the installing marshal had proclaimed the officers duly installed, Mrs. Seale made her maiden speech as Worthy Matron. She reminded her officers of the charges given them by the installing officer and assured them that if they heeded the admonitions, provided she strictly observed the regulations governing her official acts, the Wellington Chapter would have a happy and successful period.

Naming of the chapter committees followed.

Mrs. Seale then presented the past junior Worthy Matron, Mrs. Wilder, with the Past Worthy Matron's pin and Mr. Hennard presented the past Worthy Patron, Mr. Wynn, with a gift from the chapter. A record book was presented the Worthy Matron by Mrs. Jones.

For the occasion, the Masonic Hall was decorated in larkspur and red roses.

Approximately 60 members and guests attended. Out of town visitors included Lucille Floyd and son, James, and Peggy Squires of Oklahoma City.

Mrs. W. P. Reding and children, Mrs. Aven Cobb and children, all of Oklahoma City, spent the week end with their mother, Mrs. Bertha Williams.

JUVENILE JET GENIUS—At the age of 13 most boys pipe dream about building rockets and other high-speed conveyances, but Ronald Wheeler, 13-year-old high school student of Ilion, N. Y., has done something practical on the subject. He recently proposed the addition of a third combustion chamber to the ordinary dual chamber jet unit which would greatly increase the speed of jet planes. Jet experts were amazed by Ronald's "remarkable thinking" on the subject, and they invited him to G. E.'s jet center in Lockland, O., where someday his proposal may be put to use.

Adds up to Better Soil and Water Conservation PMA CHAIRMAN URGES ALL-OUT PRODUCTION OF COUNTY FARMERS

How much higher can farm production be pushed? How much more can our acres be made to yield?

The prosperity and strength of our country depends on the answer, says J. A. Coleman, chairman of the Collingsworth County PMA committee, "for only as agriculture is kept strong and productive can the Nation be strong and growing."

In the chairman's words, "The national emergency which calls for an all out production from our farms emphasizes more than ever the urgency of doing all we can to make sure our land will keep on producing an abundance of the food and fiber required for a strong defense and a strong country. Even greater production will be needed in the future to keep pace with an increasing population. Next year defense requirements may well be greater than for this year."

All of this, he points out, adds up to the necessity of more and better soil and water conservation as a foundation for the other things which can be done to step up farm production. Land that has been denuded of its topsoil or cut to pieces with gullies is in no condition for the kind of production needed. Neither will land that has the organic matter worked out of it be in as good a condition for this needed production as land that has been built up by green manure and rotation pastures.

The need to push production higher, in the chairman's opinion, only emphasizes the need for expanding conservation work, and the efforts under the Agricultural Conservation Program are in this direction. He explains that the program encourages and assists farmers in carrying out practices that check erosion, restore fertility to the soil and makes more efficient use of water. The program is in operation in every agricultural county and community in the country.

In the chairman's words, "Because continued production is of such importance to the welfare of the country, the Nation shares in the cost of the conservation practices carried out. It is a program where the Nation and its farmers work together to build a strong defense and a strong country."

Hot-Rod Fishing No Sportsmanship

"The news item the other day about the latest depredation against fish life probably made a lot of people snicker. Maybe even a few thought they might like to try the stunt sometime."

"First off, let's get it straight! This so-called hot rod fishing is as illegal as using dynamite. Because the state law specifically limits the means of taking fish. If it didn't there wouldn't be fish left in our lakes and streams very long."

"Of course, some think it is cute and ingenious for 'sportsmen' to go to the trouble of rigging up a magneto-battery outfit with a rod to charge the water and knock out the fish."

"Real conservationists and sportsmen know that this isn't cute. Frankly, it poses just another threat to our wildlife in an era when the fish and game animals are struggling to withstand the impact of civilization."

"Actually, Texas has just about the most generous fishing laws in the land. There is no closed season on most species and in most areas. There are generous limits on the number of fish that may be caught. There are generous limits on the number of hooks and lines one may use.

"In other words, the laws were designed for the benefit of the Texas folk who like to get out on the lakes and streams. They can still exist indefinitely to that end, providing the populace resists the urge to cheat and furthermore helps to see to it that the other fellow stays within the rules."

Denzil Bevers, who is attending the University of Texas Law School at Austin, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Bevers, between semesters.

By MRS. R. H. ISBELL

Guess everybody noticed that our summer was very short, and winter is here again. Heard several folks in town Saturday wondering if it was going to snow. No it didn't snow, but those large drops of rain Sunday morning sure were cold. We burned our stoves and our coats certainly did feel good even if it is June.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Clifton drove over to Carnegie, Oklahoma, Saturday, to attend the big singing. They saw lots of Indians dressed like they used to dress years ago, and like we read about in our early history books. It was raining very hard over there too.

Mrs. Fred Rodgers was taken to the hospital Saturday night. She was resting better at the last report we had from her. We hope she will soon be well again.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bolton, Jack, Ann, and Joyce Bolton were dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Wright last Wednesday. Mrs. Maxwell returned home from her visit with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Buck Lancaster are in Shamrock this week helping with the arrival at the Missionary Baptist church.

Nell Bolton visited Edna Ellen Wright Thursday night and attended school at Quail with her Friday morning.

Mrs. Edna Maxwell and Charles Wright spent Friday night with Mrs. G. C. Wright.

Next Sunday will be the day services are held here. Come hear the new preacher.

Mrs. Osborne Spear, Mrs. Boykin, Mrs. W. C. Boykin, Mrs. J. P. Cummings, and Mrs. Horace Hallmark were visitors in the C. A. Wright home last Tuesday.

Mrs. Dee Harris visited in the Gollighugh home over the week end and attended the Sunday school here Sunday morning.

Edna Ellen Wright, and Elena Nell Bolton are visiting their aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Clifton, this week.

Dale Needham visited Clyde Gollighugh Sunday afternoon.

CRADLE ROBIN—A blase New Yorker ignored a construction company's deadlines and built her nest right smack in the middle of scaffolding for an apartment house. Before anyone could say Jack Robin-son, Mrs. Robin had laid four eggs. Fuming foremen waited 24 hours, then moved the nest with its two baby robins and two eggs to a safer place. Mama Robin followed along, determined to let nothing interfere with her maternal duties.

ham walking over their cotton field one afternoon looking to see if their cotton was coming up. I hope they are having better luck than some of us are having. Some of us planted when it was too wet, others have theirs covered too deep.

All the children are happy because school is out. It closed at Quail last Friday. The cold weather Saturday made people wonder if it was June or December.

Revival at Pilgrim Church Opens Fri.

Revival services at the Pilgrim Missionary Baptist Church open Friday, June 8, and will continue through Sunday, June 17, the pastor, Rev. Oval Cogdill, has announced.

All the Style of a Formal Wedding

TOM THUMB WEDDING CLOSING EVENT FOR YOUNGER STUDENTS

A Tom Thumb wedding, carried out with all the formality of a society affair, was a close-of-school event for small children of the Quail school May 15.

Ann Messer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Dale Messer, the tiny bride, and Garry Vaughn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Vaughn, as Tom Thumb, had the leading roles.

The young men of the wedding party wore formal suits, and the girls billowy floor-length pastel organdy dresses.

The setting for the mock ceremony was a vine-covered arch ornamented with roses, Candelabra and baskets of iris were used in the background.

To open the program, the third grade students, standing within a vine and rose covered enclosure, rendered, "Minuet in G," accompanied by Mrs. Jack Davis.

Brenda White, dressed in blue, sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

The bride, who entered with her father, Billy Wilson, wore a white slipper satin dress with a long train and fingertip veil of illusion, which fell from a halo studded with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of red carnations.

Freda Bourland was the maid of honor and the bridesmaids

Bonnie Shields, Sherry McGuire, Betty Mosely, Sharon Davis, Linda Wade, Inelda Shields. They wore floor-length dresses of pastel orchid, yellow, and blue and carried bouquets of spring flowers.

The flower girls were Dame Moseley, Jodenna Pate, Pauline Matthews, Phennette Souder, Patsy Norman and Linda Jenkins. Candlelighters were Ameleta Tidwell, Gene Howell, Rita Patterson and Billy Maddox. Richard Welch was ring bearer.

Best man was Walter Neeley, and the ushers Billy Smith, Lonnie Shields, Rodger Messer, John Richards, Thomas Todd and Loyd Messer.

Billy Evelyn Lowe was the mother of the bride and Amelia Rose Morgan the mother of the groom. The minister was John Smith and the rejected suitor James Boen.

Tiny wedding guests were Bonnie Brim, Kenneth Word, Mae Nell Ratliff, Frank Kindrick, Audrey Bounds, Delmer Duckworth, Jerry Stephens, Jackie Hoover, Sharon Davis, John Cummings, Linda Brown, Leroy Prince, Linda Mitchell, Aubrey Bounds, Lajean Harrison, Kenneth Davis, Brenda White, Larry Gollighugh, Cheryl McGill, Larry Smith, Barbara Kirkland, Earl Sexton, Martha Whitehead, Jimmie Finley, Annetta Kindrick, Tommie Roberts., David Condor, Tommie Haralson.

John Driskill was chairman of the production, while Mrs. Jim Lowe and Mrs. Dollie Wilson were in charge of costuming; Mrs. Zella Noble, the wedding preparations; Mrs. Lowell Wells and Mrs. Dorothy Davis, music; Mrs. John Driskill and Mrs. J. I. Morgan, decorations, and Mrs. Herman Moseley, posters.

Rippetoe Strikes Out 16 to Give Dukes Victory

By JAMES POSEY
Kenneth Rippetoe, Wellington's ace hurler, posted his third straight victory Sunday by striking out sixteen, walking two and giving up a total of two hits, as his teammates backed him with seven runs and eleven hits off two Memphis hurlers. The game ended 7-0 for the Dukes.

This victory increased Wellington's first place standing in the Red River Valley Amateur League by one game, and they now hold a comfortable lead with five victories against only one defeat.

Bobby McAlister lead the Duke's scoring and hitting attack Sunday by hitting two doubles and scoring two runs.

In the first inning, Wellington jumped on the Memphis pitcher by getting two runs on three hits which proved to be the winning runs.

Wellington played errorless ball until the seventh inning when the Memphis manager, Burr Pruitt, hit a hot grounder to Jim Bawcom on third base. Bawcom fumbled only momentarily. This was Wellington's only error afiel.

The only strikeout for the two Memphis hurlers was when the second pitcher, Osburn, got a third strike called on B. Tinney, the Duke left fielder. They gave up three bases on balls.

Wellington plays Quannah Thursday night at Marian Airpark with the game scheduled to start at 8 o'clock.

Cottonseed More Plentiful Here

The cottonseed situation is a little easier than it was a week ago, due to a number of farmers in the Wellington area who have finished planting now offering surplus seed for sale, Dick Sweat, manager of the Farmers Co-op Gin said early this week.

"We have had a number of men come by and leave word that they have a few surplus seed at their farms. These are gin-run seed, some of them cleaned, delinted and treated," Mr. Sweat said.

"If this planting gets rained out, however, I don't know what we'll do," he added.

RECALLED TO DUTY

Cars Damaged In Accident

Occupants of both cars escaped with minor cuts and bruises when the 1940 Ford driven by Tom Clement collided with the 1949 Pontiac driven by J. A. Young Friday evening. The accident occurred three miles west of Wellington at the point where the Rolla road turns south, Sheriff Hubert Mauldin reported.

He said Mr. Clement told his the accelerator on his car stuck, and as he left the pavement to continue west on the dirt road, the car swerved and struck the Young vehicle.

Each car had the front fender damaged, a casing ruined, and the hood mashed.

Dukes Win 15 - 0

McALISTER PITCHES TWO-HITTER IN HIS FIRST GAME AT QUANAH

By JAMES POSEY
The Wellington Dukes won their 4th game out of five starts Saturday night by defeating the Quannah nine 15-0 at Quannah.

When Wellington arrived at Quannah they had no pitcher but here came Bobby McAlister, the Dukes regular centerfielder, and he proved that he was an all-round ball player by agreeing to pitch his first baseball game.

When the seventh inning had rolled around Bob discovered he had pitched a no-hit, no-run ball game up to that point, but the first man up in the top of the seventh changed the tide by hitting a single out to short right field, he next man, Wallace, the Quannah third baseman, drilled a hard hit double out into deep center field, but the next two men were out ending the ball game.

Bob struck out nine men and walked only one and gave up only those two hits in the last inning. He contributed to his own cause by knocking a long home run in the top half of the fourth inning.

The top hitters for Wellington was the Duke manager, Sonny Duvall, who got 4 hits for 5 times at bat, scoring 2 runs and driving in 2 others, the other was Ed Bonneau, the Duke first baseman, who got three hits for 4 times at bat, driving in 3 runs and personally scoring 2.

The game was called at the end

Handley, city manager, said Tuesday.

The street sweeper belonging to the city has been repaired and the streets will be cleaned at least three nights a week, and oftener if necessary.

This makes necessary the enforcement of the ordinance providing that all cars parked on the square between the hours of 12:00 midnight and 5:00 a.m. be parked in the middle of the street, and those for a distance of one block off the square who may leave their cars parked between those hours are to park them parallel in the middle of the street.

"This is the only way that we can get to the gutter and keep them cleaned out. We intend to keep the town clean, and the only way we can do it is to have the co-operation of the people whose cars may be involved," Mr. Handley said.

"If necessary, we will sweep the streets every night," he added.

Streets in the residential section will be swept at least once a week, although no regular schedule has been worked out on this.

Violations of this ordinance will be penalized, Mr. Handley said. This ordinance has been on the books since 1928.

At the same time, the council voted to enforce another section of this ordinance, which sets the fire limits on the business section with regard to building construction. The limits extend from the Katy railroad on the north to 10th Street on the south, and Arlington on the east to Amarillo on the west. Specifications which buildings constructed in this area must meet are obtainable from Mr. Handley.

The council also passed a motion that the day officer, Police Chief J. F. Holley, be required to wear a uniform. The Chamber of Commerce recently bought a uniform for the officer and it is due to arrive within a short time.

in their game with the Childress Orioles Sunday, the last report on the team available here. Four runs in the 8th inning broke a 3-3 tie and gave the Orioles the game 7 to 3.

Weellington had shut out Quannah 15 to 0 in a league Game Saturday night.

At present, it looks like the Orioles are the team that Wellington will have to beat. The Dukes now stand one full game ahead of Childress, but that team has a winning streak on, and fans predict that they will continue to improve with every game.

The Dukes have been handicapped by the absence of Manager Sonny Duvall, who will also be out of the game Thursday night. However, he is due back with the team for the Sunday game.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. King of Detroit, Michigan, were guests Monday night of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Leach. They were en route home after attending the funeral of her father, the Rev. I. A. Smith, at Floydada.

The first load of wheat was delivered in Wellington Wednesday, June 6. It was grown on the farm of Mrs. C. M. Terry of Loco. The wheat tested No. 1 60 pounds and was sold to Warwick Feed Store. The price was $2.50 per bushel.

The cotton farmers are holding their breath. More acres have been planted in cotton than ever before. A lot of it is up and out of the ground with two leaves showing in the midst of deep furrows of loose ground. A gentle shower would be welcome, but a hard dashing rain would bring that loose soil down on the tender plants burying them and all of their certified ancestors.

This would not be much of a problem in most years. Good crops have been raised when the farmers had to plant over as much as four times. It is different this year. The Yankees or some element like them have slipped in and bought all of our surplus certified seed. They are going to plant cotton up "Noth this year" if you understand what I mean. The Yankees and the first year cotton farmers may learn a bitter lesson about cotton; but the fact remains that they have put the traditional cotton grower in a crowded pocket. All we have left is gin run seed.

Gin run seed will make cotton; but every experienced cotton farmer knows the disadvantages. First, he does not know what type of cotton he is planting. He knows that the germination factor is unknown. Therefore he plants two and three times as many seeds as he needs. If all of the seeds do come up he has to hire high priced cotton choppers to thin it out for him or else go buy one of these rotary choppers, which is expensive.

Went over and talked to the rural mail carriers at the community building last Wednesday. I have a great admiration for them. It is startling to think what a revolution free rural mail delivery has brought to farm families. I did a bunch of bragging on a number of men who did or are still doing their duty above and beyond the call of duty. I had a lot more in mind; but those I mentioned were Claude Savage, L. A. Moore, Hugh Longino and the late R. S. Montague. And I could not help mentioning A. T. Lentz who went out of his way to perform an extra service for this paper in order that you subscribers could get your paper on time.

Food Specialist OF OPS Here Tues.

The Far West Texas district of the Office of Price Stabilization, in stepping up its price clinic day program, will send price specialists to more than 40 towns next week.

Lubbock district Price Executive C. J. Taylor said the expanded program is to assist all merchants in the 66-county district in bringing their respective firms into complete voluntary compliance with all the OPS pricing regulations.

Alton Taylor will be in Wellington next Tuesday afternoon, June 12 to confer with all types of business men who have questions concerning application of regulations. He is a price specialist in the Food branch in the Lubbock district office, which includes this county.

In cooperation with the local Chamber of Commerce and other civic and business groups, he will maintain offices while here in the County Court Room. Although the OPS representative has specialized in one branch, he will be able to answer most questions concerning all types of business, especially those who sell consumer services. He reminded that consumer services establishments under Ceiling Price Regulation 34, must file their ceiling prices and descriptions of each service with the district Office of Price Stabilization, Broadway Building, 1202 Texas Avenue, Lubbock, Texas, not later than June 16.

Manufacturers, too, were reminded that they must file certain information with the Washington Office of Price Stabilization by July 2. Firms covered by Ceiling Price Regulations 22, 30 and 37 must file.

A price specialist from a different branch will be here on the same day of the week every week during June and July.

Wheeler to Pampa is impassable. The highway from Pampa to Borger is under seven feet of water due to an ancient lake filling up to the brim. No travel is expected over that route until fall. The road will be ruined by that time.

Earl Keller tells me of G. D. Lewellen's theory of how to solve the problem of the smaller lakes. This man lives in the Plainview area. He has a 200 acre lake. The first strata of sand is only twenty feet deep. He plans to dig a pit five feet square and fill it with a pea gravel. On top of this he will put a filter, and Mr. Lewellen thinks that he will drain his small lake in short time. He plans to plant alfalfa.

Perhaps he will. Even so it won't be this year for he is going to have to wait until his small lake dries up. And his theory won't help between Borger and Pampa.

There have been 29 houses moved in from the country since 1949; and there have been 63 new houses built in the last two years.

Notes about the paper: Neeta Ball, that lovely girl who once worked here, has landed a swell advertising job with a manufacturing firm. Bethine Adkins, our society editor, has a beautiful ring on her finger. In spite of these happy events, there is a sense of anxiety in the shop. Our own Dorothy Robertson underwent a major operation last Monday. She is doing well according to reports; but we would like for her to know that all of us are pulling for her. Perhaps a better word would be to say that we are praying for you, Dorothy.

The Dukes have fashioned a smooth operating ball club this season. There is no comparison to the hustle of the youngsters on the club this year and the play of the team last year. Sunday the Dukes played errorless ball to down the Memphis Owls 7 to 0. Rippetoe struck out 16 men while allowing only two hits; but what is perhaps more remarkable he was behind the batter only twice during the entire game.

The rodeo association has bought twenty calves and will start roping every Tuesday and Thursday nights. Also there will be a matched roping contest at Samnorwood Sunday, June 17, with Kenneth Kromer and Bill Towns roping against C. M. Coffee and Johnnie Freeman.

Veterans Direct Loan Program Ends June 30

World War II veterans planning to apply for direct home and farm loans from the Veterans Administration are reminded by the VA that the Direct Loan Program ends by law on June 30, 1951.

VA states that it would scarcely be possible in most instances to process applications before the June 30 deadline that are received by the VA Regional Offices after June 15.

The Housing Act of 1950 authorized VA to make direct loans up to $10,000 at four per cent interest to World War II veterans with which to buy or build a home, or to build or improve a farmhouse. The Act stipulated that VA was to make these direct loans in those areas of the country where the regular GI loans were not available from private lenders. The law further required VA to designate the areas as eligible for direct loans.

Since the program got under way last summer, more than 2,600 counties or parts of counties in the United States have been designated as eligible for direct loans. An estimated 5,000,000 World War II veterans live in these designated areas.

As of May 10, about $90,000,000 of the $150,000,000 authorized for the program had been disbursed or reserved under pending applications for direct loans to veterans.

While the Direct Government Loan Program ends June 30, 1951, the regular GI Loan Program does not expire until July 25, 1951. Both programs are subject to the same minimum down payments imposed by the credit controls announced October 12, 1950.

PANHANDLE RURAL CARRIERS HOLD ANNUAL CONVENTION WED.

The Panhandle Association of Rural Letter Carriers and their Women's Auxiliary met for their annual Memorial Day convention in the community building in Wellington Wednesday, May 30, the activities beginning at 10:00 a.m.

This meeting is held each year in Wellington, the stayed site for the gathering, and includes a business session as well as a memorial service.

Deskins Wells, editor of the Wellington Leader, was guest speaker for the day. In his talk, Mr. Wells pointed out differences in the letter carriers of yesterday and today, the many services they render to the people along their routes, and the part they play in community life.

Mr. Wells also paid a special tribute to Hugh Longino, a retired Wellington letter carrier, who has served this area for over thirty-eight years.

A musical program was also offered, featuring vocal and piano selections by Phil Handley.

New officers for the organizations were elected during the business session. New president is I. E. Byars of Pampa, while Johnny Baird of Clarendon is vice president. H. W. Bremer of Childress is secretary, replacing Claude Savage of Wellington who served during the past year.

New officers of the Women's Auxiliary include Mrs. H. W. Bremer of Childress as president; Mrs. Grace Cartledge of Kirkland as vice president; and Mrs. A. B. Clement, also of Kirkland, as secretary. Mrs. Lee Barry of Briscoe was chosen as delegate for the state convention to be held in Galveston in July.

The women chose several projects to work on for the coming year. These include making cup towels for the crippled children at Warm Springs' Gonzales Hospital, and collecting old eye glasses which may be re-ground for needy people's use.

A social meeting of the Panhandle Association will be held in the Childress Park on Labor Day.

Daughter of County Pioneers Returns For Visit Here

Mrs. M. L. Bullock of Santa Barbara, Calif., is here visiting her cousin, Mrs. Ola Wall, and with long-time friends. She will be here for approximately a week.

Mrs. Bullock is the former Mary Lee Gragg, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Smith Gragg. Her father was a foreman of the Rocking Chair Ranch, and she grew up at Aberdeen.

She left here between 30 and 40 years ago, although she has returned several times since then.

YOUNG DYNAMITE—Peter Saballe, left, waits impatiently for his opponent to get up in the championship bout of the 40-pound class at the recent Navy junior boxing tournament in Annapolis, Md. To some spectators there appeared to be a question of whether it was the force of the blow or the weight of his oversized gloves that sent three-and-a-half-year-old Chris Hartle to the canvas.

Pvt. Groves entered military service in January of 1949. After completing basic training he joined the 69th AAA Gun Bn. at Fort Bliss, where the outfit had recently been reactivated. Last year the 69th moved its big guns East, being stationed at Fort Devens and at its present location, Fort Tilden, New York, a coastal installation on the outskirts of New York City.

Prior to entering the Army, Groves resided with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Groves. He was employed by the Osborn Construction Company in Pampa.

Jerry Maloney, son of Roy Maloney, Wellington, was recently graduated from the basic airborne course of the Infantry School as a qualified parachutist, according to an announcement by Major General John H. Church, commandant.

The course is designed to train volunteer officers and enlisted personnel from all arms and branches of the service as qualified parachutists and glidermen. Students are required to make five jumps from an airplane including one day jump with full equipment.

The airborne course is but one of 21 at the Infantry School open to Officers and enlisted men of the Regular Army, Organized Reserve and National Guard. Courses range from training recruits to be parachutists to training regimental commanders and division general staff officers.

A letter from Mrs. T. J. Jones, Littlefield, this week tells of her son, Pfc. John M. Jones, who graduated from high school here and formerly worked for The Wellington Leader. His address now is: Pfc. John M. Jones, 18365567 3461 Student Squadron University of Connecticut Storrs, Connecticut.

"He was at Lackland Air Base until a few weeks ago when he

He is located about midway between New York City and Boston. He can go to New York City on week ends and stay at the Service Men's Club. There are so many things free to service men and he is having a wonderful time — while it lasts. He is taking clerical work. His

THE FARMERS STORE

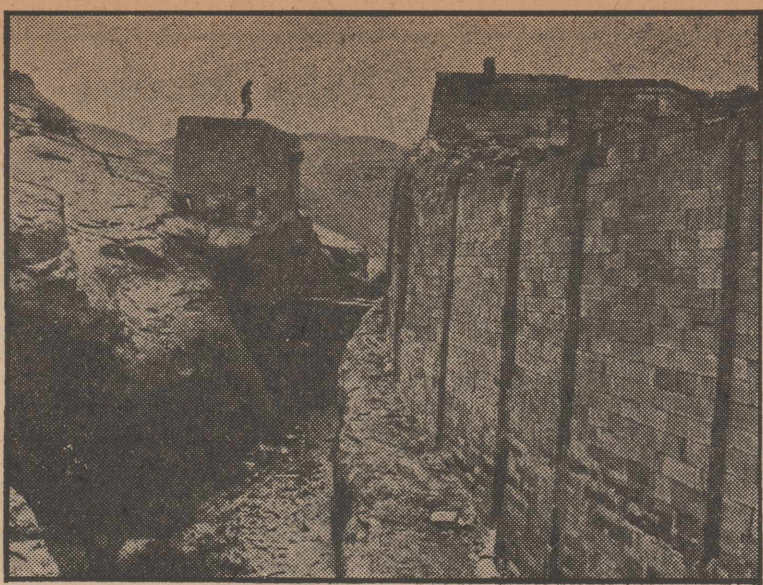

OPS Option Due For Many Small Retail Stores

LUBBOCK — Hundreds of small retail stores in the Far West Texas district of the Office of Price Stabilization will be given the option of continuing to price under the general ceiling price regulation, rather than under the retail regulation, CPR 7, the Lubbock district office announced.

The office said many small retail stores with limited bookkeeping facilities and clerical help would get this option under the amendment which was scheduled for issue early this week.

The Office of Price Stabilization, in announcing that the amendment was forthcoming, reminded that all other retailers selling items controlled by CPR 7 and its amendments must file their pricing charts by May 31 if they want to continue to sell legally after that date. There will be no extension of that deadline, OPS emphasized.

The amendment, according to advance information, will provide that stores selling housewares, no-

DAM OLD—Members of the American Society for the Study of Man view a section of what might be the oldest dam in the world. Located only two miles from the ancient city of Marib, capital of the biblical country of Sheba, the Egyptian ruins are covered with Himyarite inscriptions which may prompt the expedition to excavate the area in a search for relics of a once glorious civilization.

tions, sporting goods, silverware, china, glassware, jewelry, watches and clocks may elect to price these particular items under the GCPR under either of two conditions:

1. The first provision, designed to help the smallest stores, gives the election for these items to any retailer whose overall net dollar volume of sales of everything in his store is less than $100,000. Total dollar volume for this purpose, OPS emphasized, is figured on the sales not only of the housewares, notions, etc., but of the store's entire stock of goods.

2. The other provision, which will meet the situation of the store doing a relatively small volume of business in housewares, notions, sporting goods, silverware, china, glassware, jewelry, watches and clocks gives the election to price those articles under GCPR to any retailer whose net dollar volume from sales of those items is less than $60,000 annually, irrespective of his volume of sales in other lines of merchandise, and even though his total volume of sales is over $100,000.

A third provision, which retains a principle incorporated in CPR 7 as first issued, gives the option to any retailer whose sales of apparel, apparel accessories, shoes, beds and bedding, furniture, yard goods, floor coverings, lamps, radio and television sets, phonograph records, musical instruments, luggage, etc., (all CPR 7 and a few amendment 2 items) are less than $20,000 annually in net dollar volume.

The retailer who elects to remain under the GCPR does not have to notify OPS. The retailer who makes the election simply lets that deadline go by without filing a chart. In the event OPS asks for information, however, the retailer must be prepared to show that he was entitled to make the choice.

Meanwhile, the district OPS officials called attention to the new Ceiling Price Regulation covering service trades. It is estimated that several thousand establishments in the Lubbock district, which includes Collingsworth County, have been removed from the GCPR and placed under the regulation (CPR 34.) It became effective May 16.

The new order will benefit the public by making prices clearly visible in every retail service place. The establishments must post their ceiling prices in a prominent position by June 16. The regulation also requires that ceiling prices must be filed with the district office by that date, too, with adequate descriptions of each service. The mailing address is: Office of Price Stabilization, Broadway Building, 1202 Texas Avenue, Lubbock, Texas.

A partial list of some of the everyday services and service trades concerned: barbers and beauticians; auto, radio and household appliance repairs; laundry and dry cleaning and tailor shops; shoe repairs; parking lots; filling stations; checking accounts, bowling alleys, skating rinks, and golf fees; admissions to amusement parks, and some other amusement and recreational facilities.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Payne of Canyon are here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Wilkins. They will return this week to attend the summer session of West Texas State College.

Morris Pitcher In TSD Baseball

Home for the summer from the Texas School for the Deaf at Austin is Jerry Lee Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Buck Morris of the Salt Fork community.

Morris is one of the outstanding athletes of the school, and during the spring was its No. 1 baseball pitcher.

Excerpts from stories in "The Lone Star," school paper tell of some of the games he pitched.

"With Jerry Morris in the driver's seat, TSD's baseballers manhandled a game with the San Marcos Academy nine on the Silent's field 7-2 on the afternoon of March 20. Morris turned in quite a performance, pitching a 2-hitter, striking out seven opponents. At the plate he made three hits in four attempts and drove in three runs."

"Jerry Lee Morris and J. T. Jacobs are setting a blistering pace for the Silents. They compose the main battery combination and are blasting the record with high batting averages. Morris is tops, connecting for seven hits in 10 trips to the plate for a .700 percentage."

"Held scoreless for three innings and lagging 3-0, the Texas School for the Deaf broke their shackles in the fourth inning and went on to a 7-6 triumph over Pflugerville."

"Jerry Morris held Pflugerville hitless until the fifth inning, despite giving up three runs in the third."

On May 1, the TSD team had won 8 games and lost only three.

CROSEY COMMUNITY CARNIVAL INSTRUCTION, ENTERTAINMENT

The Crosey Community Carnival, to acquaint local residents with new methods in electric cooking, freezing and refrigeration, will be held in co-operation with the H&H Furniture, local dealer, and the Greenbelt Rural Electric Co-operative, Saturday, June 9, at the community building, beginning at 10:00 a.m.

Mrs. John King, manager of H&H, is in charge of arrangements. Here to help with the event is David C. Collier, Crosey district manager, Amarillo.

Miss Carolyn McDermott, home economist for the Tom F. McDermott, Inc., Tulsa, Okla., Crosey distributor for Oklahoma and the Panhandle, will conduct the demonstration and will help local women with any freezing or refrigeration problems they may have.

Miss McDermott specializes in work with Rural Electric Co-operatives, home demonstration agents, and electrical appliance companies over the country. She is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma and has been in her present work for the last four years. She will give demonstrations in both cooking and freezing. Both morning and afternoon sessions will be informal in nature, enabling those attending to get the most out of them.

"And there'll be fun mixed in with them," Mrs. King added. A large quantity of merchandise will be given away during the day. An amateur contest will be held Saturday night at the community building, beginning at 8:00 p.m.

Alvin Horton is in charge. This contest will include only local talent and a variety of numbers will be given.

As an added attraction, the American Legion is giving away a Crosey freezer at the end of the amateur program.

"We extend a cordial invitation to the public to attend our Crosey Carnival, either the daytime demonstrations or the amateur contest, or both. You'll have fun, and you'll be able to solve a lot of your cooking and freezing problems," Mrs. King said.

Removal of the Drummond Paint and Body Shop to the building formerly occupied by the Wellington Collision Service was announced this week by Harold Drummond, owner.

"We are moving to a better and more convenient location, and we will be in a better position than ever to serve our friends," Mr. Drummond said.

In addition to equipment already in his shop, Mr. Drummond will utilize such equipment in the new location as the infra-red baking oven for giving repainted cars a factory finish, and other machinery.

This new location is at the corner of 8th and Ennis Streets.

As a positive example of banker leadership he cited a group of New England bankers who worked out a plan for providing risk capital to small industries in Maine.

"It was a regional group that worked out this plan. You are such a group of bankers," he challenged.

As a case, nearer home, he cited the Tyler Texas Industrial Plan which was conceived and developed by bankers.

Bankers they were the natural leaders of a community and, they, more than any one group, could help "whip this business of centralized authority."

"We must get the prerogative back in our hands, back in the hands of community money and community brains," he said.

He urged the bankers to get out of their offices and declare themselves, take an active part in chamber of commerce work and school board activities.

Public Responds To Driving Laws

The public has responded splendidly to the city's request for more careful driving, J. F. Holley, chief of police, said Tuesday.

"Drivers have slowed down to the speed limit we set, for the most part, most of them are stopping at the stop signs, and more are using hand signals. We appreciate everything you are doing for safety sake," he declared.

Mr. Holley warned, however, that due to the congestion around the Post Office at certain hours, no U turns should be made at that intersection. A sign to this effect will be put up within a few days. Some drivers are still pulling into the Post Office curb from the right side of the street, a direct law violation, Mr. Holley said.

Drivers in doubt about safe driving laws should get the drivers handbook put out by the State Department of Public Safety, available through the sheriff's office.

Also a new McCormick tractor mower to John Robert Henard last week. This is the latest Model 27 mower—with all the good service built in it that previous models have had and some good, new features.

Looks like maybe this cotton planting is going to stick, so we've got the stuff to work it out with. Godevil knives, rotary hoes, fine heat-treated cultivator sweeps, etc.

And our shop is ready to keep that Farmall going. The BEST service you can get anywhere in this part of the country for that FARMALL tractor.

We can see daylight now in our shop—after being about a day behind for the last week or so. Sincere apologies to W. R. Harris, Lee Roark, Chub White, A. V. This doesn't happen often—as we try to keep enough men on the job to keep up closer than that.

I will promise you one thing—we will make you as good a proposition or BETTER than you can get anywhere else as to price or terms on an International Harvester home freezer or refrigerator. It will make money for you, and you'll be better satisfied if you see us before you buy.

Buck Breeding got the new Model H Farmall we had a week ago, and we now have Buck's 1947 H for sale to somebody who wants an unusually good one at a reasonable price. Buck always takes the shirt off anybody he trades with, and the man who buys this used H that I got from him will probably get my pants, too.

The double ring ceremony was read in the Episcopal Church of Carlsbad, New Mexico, Thursday, May 31, at 9:30 a. m. The Rev. R. H. Channon, pastor of the church, read the vows.

The altar was banked with arrangements of emerald fern and palms. Stately white tapers in branched candelabra were placed among the greenery.

Preceding the ceremony, an organ medley was played softly. The wedding party entered to the strains of the traditional wedding march.

Mrs. John J. Johnson served as matron of honor for her daughter. She was attractively dressed in a gown of blue printed silk. She wore beige accessories and a corsage of white spider daisies.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a dress of traditional white Guatemalan wedding cloth. She wore a hat of the same material. Her corsage was of cream rosebuds. For something old and borrowed, she wore a plain gold band and gold cross belonging to her great grandmother. Other white accessories completed her attire.

L. A. Manzer, father of the groom, served as best man.

Mrs. Manzer, mother of the groom, wore a dress of brown shantung with matching brown and beige accessories. She wore a corsage of white spider daisies.

A Penalty For Youthful Careless Driving

One further step toward cutting down the traffic is House Bill No. 581, already passed by the House and the Senate and now ready for the signature of the Governor. This bill, introduced in the House by this district's Grainger McIlhenny, and sponsored in the Senate by Senator Grady Hazlewood, deals with the juvenile part of the problem.

Under the terms of this act, a minor between the ages of 14 and 17 can be fined up to $50 when found guilty of speeding, reckless driving or drunken driving.

Under the present law, such a minor can be treated only as a juvenile delinquent and must either be not punished at all or sent to a reformatory. Since a reformatory sentence is too severe for most offenses of this character, there is at present no practical control over this age group.

Mr. McIlhenny introduced this bill in the belief that an act which provides moderate penalties will be enforced and will go a long way toward the solution of the juvenile driving problem.

Like its counterpart for adults, the bill will need strict but impartial and fair enforcement if it is to work. Its passage is no indictment of youngsters or their driving, for only a small percentage of those who drive are guilty of the offenses at which this law aims. It simply fills a gap in an effort to cut down auto accidents and the terrible toll of life and health they take.

The representative from this district is thinking rightly when he assumes that a law providing moderate penalties, which is enforced as it should be, will do a great deal toward cutting down accidents involving teen-agers. It is already established that the number of car accidents is growing in which one or more teen agers are concerned.

This new law can work — for the same reason that any law with teeth in it works.

A Little Needed Help Can Mean Much at Ellison Park

For many years, Ellison Park has been a source of fun and recreation, all free, for us of the Wellington area. We have accepted it, without thought of giving anything in return, either by payment or services.

It is now called to our attention by the city that Ellison Park's popularity is just about more than it can take care of. In other words, it needs to expand its facilities.

The city has made an offer to any civic organization or group of individuals willing to put in some time on the park — it will furnish the materials for improvement, if the interested persons will do the work. It isn't hard work — principally it would be the building of additional picnicking facilities of a permanent nature. These would be of brick or stone, and rudimentary knowledge of masonry is all that is necessary.

In the past, city employees have done the work at Ellison Park, but during the spring all hands available are busy on such things as surfacing streets, etc. The season when the park's popularity is at a peak is practically here, and the enjoyment to be had from small tract of tree-shaded, grass covered land can be multiplied many times if there are facilities for more people to use.

City Manager Bura Handley can give you the answer in case you want to know what you can do to help improve the park that Col. Ellison so generously gave to Wellington and the surrounding area more than 40 years ago.

Rejected Tax Bill

It is difficult to reconcile the House rejection of the compromise tax bill with the concept of serving the best interests of the state and its people. It looks as if the House was pressurized or mesmerized by a group whose zeal for special aims outweighed its concern for the general good.

That group seeks to put on a big rural road building program, all out of proportion to the development of state highways, and to saddle the burden of the expense largely upon one industry.

Gov. Shivers charged Tuesday, and he doubtless had ample grounds for the assertion, that county judges and commissioners are behind this movement, seeking to gain control of rural road building and the funds therefor, so that, as the governor expressed it, we would have 254 different road building programs. Surely this movement does not represent the wishes of the people of Texas, or any substantial fraction thereof. We believe the governor was eminently correct when he said:

"I don't think the people of Texas want the county commissioners to build their roads in preference to the Highway Department."

Nor do we believe the people sanction the attempt to sock that one industry—natural gas—for the cost of the rural road scheme, with a 200 per cent tax increase. For one thing, it is inequitable, and the vast majority of the American people believe in fair play. For another, the tax would be passed on to the customers, added to their gas bill.

Those who want to mulct natural gas for the cost of this abnormal rural road activity because there is no considerable natural gas business in their rural districts take a short-sighted view. The industrial centers of the state contribute a large share of the cost of schools, highways and other state services throughout the state. Indeed, but for the gas industry, the oil, sulphur and other major industries, the state would not be enjoying the general prosperity it does, and the rural sections would be impoverished.

The compromise tax bill, rejected by the House, fell short of the equality and uniformity prescribed by the Constitution. It imposed a 10 per cent tax on natural gas—a higher rate than any other industry pays—and it overlooked some untaxed industries. But it was about as equitable a bill as could be hoped for. By turning it down the House has marred an otherwise fairly good legislative record for the session. It should either reconsider its action or adopt a substantially similar measure.

Nice Trick if You Can Do It!

The Buck Creek Philosopher

Editor's note. The Buck Creek Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Buck Creek discusses banking again this week, a subject as foreign to him as hard work.

Dear editor:

For a long time I've been admiring the international system of banking and have repeatedly wondered why we can't have some like it here in Collingsworth County. This mornin I picked up a copy of a newspaper which my dog brought in from my neighbor's house. I been trainin that dog for four years to retrieve papers and while he's brought in every thing from tin cans to plow points, this was the first time he turned up with a newspaper, and I took it out to the shady side of the barn and read the latest thing on the international bankin system.

Accordin to this article, Russia owes the United States two and a half billion dollars, and has since the last war when we was allies. Four years ago the U. S. started negotiations, suggestin Russia pay, up. Well, the thing has now dragged along them four years and we ain't no nearer a settlement now than we was when we started. Wantin to do the right thing, we cut the price from two and a half billion to one and a third billion, no use bein hard-hearted. Russia didn't budge. So then we went into a diplomatic huddle and cut it to one billion, droppin the third, and then, figurin maybe the word billion was indiplomatic we cut it to 800 million. But Russia just sits tight, sayin 240 million is all she'll pay, says the stuff she bought with that money is now depreciated almost down to nothin anyway, and the two countries is still arguin about it.

Now what I want to know is why some bank around here don't rise up to the international level? Say I borrow $100, on account of me and the bank is allies in the fight against weeds and I need the money desperately to hire hands. Then this fall when the note comes due, the bank would start international negotiations with me, and after four years of this would cut he loan down to $50, then down to $30, and make a final offer of $15, while all the time I was holdin out for payin only $2.50, pointin out the weeds the original $100 was used to get rid of has long since come back and is now ranker than ever and no right-thinkin man would expect me to pay in full. Come out and look at the weeds, if you don't believe it.

I tell you, the international system would be the salvation of a lot of people. It may be hard on the leader, but it sure is fine for the borrower.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Bible Comment FOR JUNE 10

Christianity's Watchword: 'Be Prepared'

We think of nations preparing for war, children preparing for school, young couples preparing for marriage and campers preparing for possible emergencies yet seldom do we realize that the Christian must also prepare.

The whole story of the found-preparation. Every aspect of the ministry of Jesus, the missionary labors of Saint Paul and the life of John the Baptist yields evidence of readiness.

Think of the boy Jesus obediently listening and learning in Nazareth, equipping himself for that ministry which was to be so short in earthly years but timeless and endless in its truth and blessing.

Nor should we forget the long, silent years of Paul's training for the tasks of a missionary.

John the Baptist also spent long years qualifying himself to serve God to the best of his ability and called upon all men and women to prepare themselves, saying, "Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his paths straight."

In the face of the military preparedness demanded of this country by the world situation, it is more important than ever that America's citizens be spiritually prepared, for nothing in God's providence is accomplished without discipline and preparedness.

Let us all make an effort to remember the preparedness that predated the greatest of all ministries, the ministry of Jesus. And let us all make an effort to achieve preparedness through earnest prayer and a daily life guided by the ten commandments.

Thomas Jefferson was the first U. S. president to send a written message to Congress.

It is irresistible to any fair-minded American working man or woman, and since they are finding a similar attitude in all fields of American business, the agitation of the Socialists, the Communists, and other kinds of purely anti-business or anti-management propaganda, is not leading them astray. But all of us who know the true facts about the humaneness of the ownership and management of our American business system should be determined to get the facts to that two per cent of our population which isn't well informed and has been led astray. It would make our nation stronger and safer, assure an ever-improving prosperity for us all.

All ex-service men who want to go to school under the G. I. Bill of Rights must be attending school the 25th of July, 1951. They must be enrolled in school on that date and be in continuous training until they complete their course, J. S. Coleman, county co-ordinator, has reminded.

"It sometimes takes a month to get all the papers approved so a person can start to school. I would like very much for everyone interested in attending school to see that their papers are in order if they contemplate starting between now and July 25th," he said. "We will be allowed to enroll students each week in July up to the 25th."

A "Must" in The Food Diet

COLLEGE STATION—One whole grain cereal each day is a "must" in the diet, according to Frances Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas A. & M. College Extension Service. Cereals help build strong bodies, she explains, but a more popular point in their favor is their economy.

Miss Reasonover adds, however, that cereals are economical only if the homemaker buys wisely. Read the labels, she cautions. All labels must have a brand, name of the product and ingredients, name of manufacturer, and net contents. Additional information sometime includes the amount of niacin, riboflavin, calcium, and other nutrients included. If the cereal has been enriched, this is usually indicated on the label.

Check yourself, says Miss Reasonover for the quality and nutritive value of the whole grain cereal as well as the price. The weight of packaged cereals should be noted. The specialist points out that cereals that need to be cooked are usually lower priced than prepared cereals, and if they are bought in large size containers even more savings can be realized.

GMC Dealers to Offer Preventative Maintenance Aid

PONTIAC, Mich. — A new preventive maintenance program designed to help truck operators gain greater economy and efficiency in the emergency period ahead was announced today by A. A. Shantz, General Parts and Service Manager for the GMC Truck & Coach Division.

GMC Truck, which originated preventive maintenance for trucks in 1928, put together the new, simplified system after a two-year nationwide survey of company service and retail personnel and dealer service managers to find out exactly what truck owners needed maintenance-wise, Shantz said.

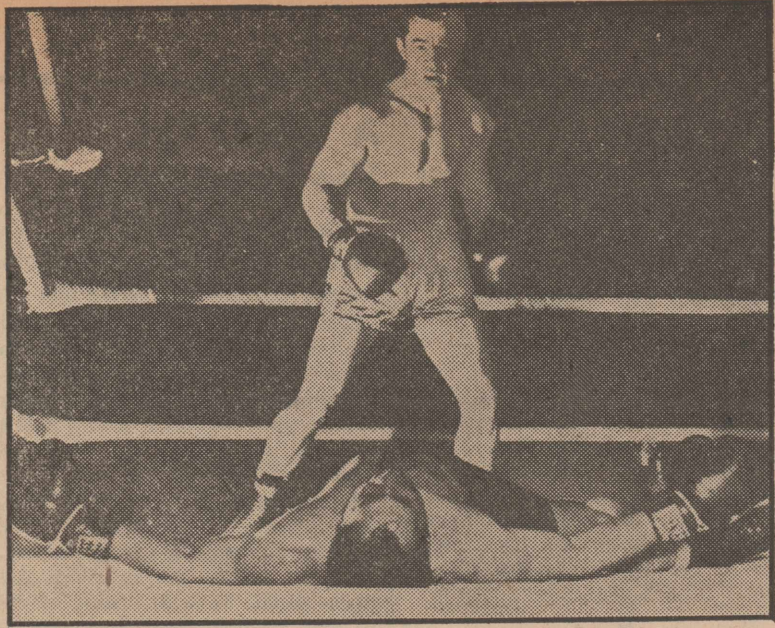

Factory instructors will explain the new program to company field service personnel in a series of 25 meetings across the country beginning May 21, and the GMC service experts will, in turn, present it to the dealers.

Shantz stressed the importance of a PM system to operators in both a peacetime and defense economy, pointing out that in the current period of material shortages, greater effort must be made toward keeping equipment operating without breakdowns and costly road delays.

The new system has extreme flexibility in order to cover the many types of trucking operations, and has been simplified over the former PM procedure so that it ties in closely with modern equipment and trucking methods.

Whereas the previous system had five different services to cover all operations, the new program has an "A" service for gasoline-powered vehicles that have been driven either three to six weeks or 1,000 to 3,000 miles (depending on the type of operation), and a "B" service for trucks driven either three to six months or from 10,000 to 20,000 miles. For Diesel trucks, the two services are placed in effect after somewhat longer periods of operation.

Lord Jim Says--

By Bill Hughes

I once knew a married couple who had everything they could possibly think of. They had economic security in abundance, but they never had peace. It was just one big fight day after day. You see, their spiritual life only extended to being seen in the right clothes, with the right people, in the right church. They were too much of this world, too modern too socially elite, too smart to be bothered with the old fuddy duddy moral concepts of their parents, but what was alright for one of them was intolerable to the other. They were divided. The only common ground they possessed was economic security and it never brought a moments peace or happiness.

On the other hand, I have been knowing another couple who have little in the world of material thing. Their economic security rests wholly upon the skill of their hands, and the ingenuity of their minds, inspired by true faith in God. They are doing a job. They enjoy a common ground of spiritual faith and they discipline their ideas into deeds according to the ten commandments. They have peace. They are happy.

This last couple has known far more about pain and want, tribulation and sacrifice than the first. Yet it only seems to have made them stronger, happier, more at peace, while the lack of these things in the life of the other couple has only produced weakness, selfishness, boredom, unhappiness and war.

Now nobody will deny the need of economic security, but which kind is better? That kind that depends upon material abundance, laws of man, government benevolence and benefits, political pull and coniving, all without benefit of faith in God; or that kind that depends upon the skill of ones hands, the use of ones mind, an honest days work, adherence to principles lived by Christ and faith in oneness with God?

Which one do you think will most soundly support the hope of freedom, a chance to be happy, the obtainment of peace on earth?

Think about it, my masters, because that is basically the issue today, not only at home, but all over the world.

That is the issue you face in the next election.

Farm Storage Facility Loan Program Extended

Extension of the Commodity Credit Corporation program providing loans to farmers to finance the construction or purchase of new farm storage facilities for grains and certain other storable crops was announced today by Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan. The original loan program, initiated in June, 1949, and scheduled to expire June 30, 1951, has been extended through June 30, 1952. As of April 30, 1951, loans totaling approximately $23,400,000 had been approved for farm storage structures having an aggregate capacity of over 85,000,000 bushels.

In making the announcement, the Secretary pointed out that the program will be doubly valuable in the year ahead, serving both to increase farm storage and ease the pressure on transportation facilities, and to do so with a minimum use of critical materials. "The Department of Agriculture," the Secretary explained, "has recommended increased production of several important crops this year. This larger production is needed to meet increased requirements both immediate use and for emergency reserves. To take care of these reserves without putting undue strain on our commercial storage and transportation facilities, we need to expand farm storage capacity in many areas. The Commodity Credit Corporation farm storage facility loan program has been extended for another year to meet this need.

"This extension," the Secretary continued, "will give the farmer financial help in expanding farm storage at a time when steel for building more commercial storage will be extremely tight. Our financing program authorizes loans only on good, sound structures but such structures can be built in great part with on-the-farm lumber and out-of-season farm labor. At this time, when steel is a critical material, that is an important consideration."

The farm storage facility loan program is available to producers of wheat, corn, oats, rye, barley, grain sorghums, soybeans, dry edible beans and peas, rice, peanuts, cottonseed, and flaxseed. Loans are made, up to 85 per cent of the cost of the structure, to any owner-operator, tenant, landlord or partnership of producers wishing to erect a facility which will meet requirements for eligible storage under the price support program. The loans are payable in five annual installments, or earlier at the option of the borrower. Interest on loans is at the rate of 4 per cent per year.

The first installment on loans made prior to July 1, 1951, will become due January 31, 1952. On loans made during the period July 1, 1951-June 30, 1952, the first installment will be due January 31, 1953.

Coleman Urges More Production

SURVEY OF COTTON SITUATION SHOWS WHY MORE LINT NEEDED

Editor's note. The following information on the cotton situation for 1951 was prepared by the cotton branch of the Production and Marketing Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture, and released here by J. A. Coleman, chairman of the county PMA committee.

The situation with respect to the supply of cotton and the requirements or demands for cotton have changed very substantially from a year ago, not only in the United States but in other producing and importing countries as well.

We have moved from a surplus position to a situation in which the prospective supply of cotton is insufficient to provide for increased domestic requirements, including military and defense needs, a stronger demand from foreign countries, and leave enough cotton for end-of-year stocks at the very minimum level considered safe from the standpoint of national security. Because of this deficit condition it was found necessary first to institute licensing of cotton exports and subsequently to establish export allocations as an alternate to much more drastic measures which undoubtedly would be necessary as a result of supplies of this basic commodity insufficient to maintain our strong national economy and provide for the security of this nation.

Where did our surplus supply of cotton go? Why do we find ourselves faced with a shortage of cotton during the same year that cotton acreage allotments and marketing quotas are in effect? To answer these questions we must go back to the beginning of the 1949-50 marketing year for cotton, or August 1, 1949. At that time the prospective supply of cotton in the United States was about 21,452,000 running bales, a 1949 crop which turned out to be 15,921,000 bales, and estimated imports of special kinds of cotton which we do not grow of about 244,000 bales. The estimated disappearance of cotton during the 1949-50 marketing year was placed at about 14,621,000 bales, consisting of domestic consumption of 8,851,000 bales and exports which finally reached 5,771,000 bales. This would result in a carryover on August 1, 1950, of over 6,800,000 bales—1,500,000 bales larger than a year earlier, and more than twice as large as the carryover on August 1, 1948. The surplus was accumulating.

It was because of this rapidly increasing surplus of cotton that Congress enacted legislation to provide for the adjustment of cotton production to the demands of our domestic and foreign markets, to maintain a reasonable reserve, and to provide for the support of prices farmers receive for their cotton at levels fair both to producers and the consuming public. This legislation became known as Public Law 272, 81st Congress, an amendment to the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, under the provisions of which cotton acreage allotments and marketing quotas on the crop of cotton to be produced in 1950 became mandatory.

Under this legislation, the Secretary of Agriculture is required to determine, prior to October 15, the total supply of cotton in prospect for the marketing year and the estimated needs for cotton (normal supply) during such marketing year. If the total supply is more than 30 percent larger than the normal supply, the Secretary is required to proclaim a national acreage allotment and a national marketing quota for 1950 of about 11,750,000 bales of cotton along with a national acreage allotment of 21,000,000 acres.

The law provided specific formulas for the distribution of this acreage to the respective states, counties and farms. Subsequent legislation (Public Law 471, 81st Congress, approved March 31, 1950) increased the total acreage allotted to farms about 21,600,00 acres. But the 1950 crop is currently estimated by the Crop Reporting Board at only 9,711,000 running bales. Only 19,032,000 acres were planted to cotton in 1950 and, principally because of very unfavorable weather and extremely heavy insect damage, the national average yield per acre planted in 1950 is only 253 pounds—26 pounds less than 1949 and the lowest since 1946.

The total supply of cotton for the 1950-51 marketing year is indicated at 16,757,000 bales, 4,695,000 bales or about 22 percent less than a year ago. This supply, made up of carryover on August 1 of 6,846,000 bales, an indicated crop of 9,711,000 bales estimated imports of about 200,000 bales, would just about cover estimated takings of 10,000,000 bales for domestic consumption and increased foreign demand of about 6,000,000 bales or more. However to allow cotton to move freely into export channels and to provide ample supplies for a strong domestic demand, including increased military and defense needs, would practically exhaust our supply and would leave very little cotton, comparatively, for a reserve.

Should there be practically no carryover of cotton on hand at then end of the 1950-51 marketing year, the entire needs for the year beginning August 1, 1951 would have to come out of the 1951 crop. Of which we expect to provide cotton for our domestic use and supply needs of our foreign customers, as much as 16,000,000 or more bales would have to be produced in 1951, even if an attempt is made to build up the reserve to minimum levels.

Under such a condition, the cotton needs for the 1952-53 year would also have to be supplied out of current production. A critical shortage of cotton might result both in the 1951-52 and 1952-53 years if unfavorable weather, heavy insect damage, or other factors should cause yields to be below average. Furthermore, to permit the reserve stocks of cotton to fall below minimum levels in these uncertain times, when we are committed to a policy of increased national defense, would not be in conformity with the security of the nation.

Cotton is a basic commodity in our economy, second only to steel in importance from the standpoint of preparing for a future of which we are at best uncertain.

The shortage situation with respect to cotton, which developed rapidly and somewhat unexpectedly, is not a problem that is confined to the United States. Cotton consumption in foreign countries has been increasing since the end of World War II at a greater rate than production has been increased. The result is that supplies of cotton in major exporting countries other than the United States are substantially below the demands of importing countries.

The new crop this year in most of the surplus countries was sold or even oversold before it was harvested. Conditions in some of the countries have been serious, such as in Pakistan where the markets have been closed and an embargo placed on cotton. Because of overwhelming pressure against insufficient cotton supplies, prices have risen phenomenally.

Since conditions differ so widely from one country to another, the use of such terms as a "world cotton price" is very misleading. Actually, there is no such thing as "world price" for cotton, and prices of cotton in foreign markets, even in normal times, cannot be accurately compared with United States prices for "middleling 15-16" cotton.

Some of the reasons are differences with respect to quality and the end uses to which the cotton can be put; differences in the kind of currency, whether in dollars, sterling, etc.; barter arrangements which are often entirely unrealistic with respect to price; speculative deals, or "under-the-counter" contracts where prices are controlled, as in India; and the fact that little or no cotton is presently available for export. Thus it is seen that the present cotton problem is worldwide in its scope.

The production of 16,000,000 or more bales of cotton in 1951 will require concerted effort on the part of all producers and other interested groups in order to obtain the desired increase in acreage and to assure greatly increased supplies and the most effective use of planting seed, fertilizer, insecticides, equipment and labor. All officials of the Department of Agriculture believe that it is in the interest of cotton producers and the general public that we plan our cotton production programs in such a manner that all contingencies can be met, rather than face the risk that supplies of this universal fiber will be inadequate for our needs.

Present cotton legislation permits 1951 cotton acreage to be used in establishing future farm, county, and state allotments. Existing legislation also provides for cotton price supports in 1951 at between 80 percent and 90 percent of parity, depending on the prospective supply in relation to the needed supply. Present indications are that the support price will approximate 90 percent of parity, the exact level to be determined at a later date.

"Some day I'm going to own a Roadmaster"

ONE thing that interests us mightily is the fact that so many people are stepping up, when they buy automobiles.

We've been looking at surveys, and it seems that just about everyone wants a better car than the one he's now driving.

So we know how you feel, and we'd like to help you make your dreams come true.

We'd like you to discover how fine a fine car can be.

We'd like you to stretch out in the room of a ROADMASTER—feel the luxury of its double-depth cushions—stroke the fine texture of its fabrics.

We'd like you to know the proud levelness of its ride—and its gentle obedience to your hand on the wheel.

We'd like to show you the many extras this custom-built Buick provides—at no extra charge when we come to make out a bill of sale.

But above all, we'd like you to experience two thrills found exclusively in ROADMASTERS.

One is the smooth might of its Fireball Engine. The other is the supreme simplicity of Dynaflo Drive, which is, incidentally, one of the many features included in the price.

We try to hold down our enthusiasm in talking about this masterful beauty.

We might claim—you'll find more room—more comfort—more luxury—a smoother ride—more conveniences—more thrill in a ROADMASTER than in any other car in the fine-car field.

But why spoil the thrill of discovery? Come find out for yourself how completely a 1951 ROADMASTER fulfills the dreams of the car you hope sometime to own.

And let us whisper something to you: The cost of making this step to ROADMASTER ownership is less than most people believe.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.
