

Britain, Soviet Union Suggest Summit Meeting

MOSCOW (UPI) — Britain and the Soviet Union called today for a summit meeting to wind up the European Security Conference and for the early resumption of the Geneva talks on the Middle East.

A joint communique said the four-day visit of British Prime Minister Harold Wilson marked "the opening of a new phase" in Anglo-Soviet relations.

Wilson and Communist Party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev, in a Kremlin ceremony televised live, signed documents providing for regular political consultations and cooperation in trade, technology and public health. They also signed a declaration demanding urgent efforts to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons.

The communique said the talks were held "in a businesslike and friendly atmosphere and in a spirit of mutual respect."

Relations between the two countries were cool after Britain expelled more than 100 Soviet diplomats in 1971 on spying charges.

Wilson arrived last Thursday and his visit was marked by the reappearance of Brezhnev in public after 51 days in seclusion during which he was sick.

Wilson scheduled a flight back to London after a news conference later today.

The Soviet Union has long urged a 35-nation summit meeting this year to climax the Security Conference and definitively establish the post-war frontiers of Europe.

The 14-page communique said the two sides "emphasized the important role which the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe" was called on to play in establishing peace on the continent.

"The two sides are convinced that premises exist for completing the work of the Conference and for holding its third stage at the highest level in the near future," it said.

Britain has been in the forefront of countries pressing the Soviet Union for relaxed East-West contacts among people and ideas in exchange for the summit.

but this was not mentioned in the communique. Nor did Wilson refer to it when he supported the summit idea in a luncheon speech Saturday.

On the Middle East, the two sides expressed their "deep concern at the dangerous situation in the area" and called for a quick settlement based on U.N. resolutions.

"The two sides considered that the Geneva Conference should play an important role in the establishment of a just and lasting peace in the Middle East and should resume its work at a very early date," the communique said.

Britain nominally has supported the step-by-step approach of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger in seeking an accommodation between the Arabs and Israel. The Soviet Union, frozen out of peace moves by this process, is energetically lobbying for support of a formal peace conference.

The two nations reaffirmed the need for detente between East and West and "recognized the importance for strengthening universal peace of the agreements and understandings achieved between the USSR and the USA, including the agreements on the prevention of nuclear war and on the limitation of strategic arms."

'UNAFRAID AND POSITIVE'

Sen. Bentsen Announces Campaign For President

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas announced today he will run for the Democratic presidential nomination, saying President Ford had let the nation drift "from crisis to crisis."

Bentsen, 54, a millionaire former business magnate, made his long-expected announcement in the historic Senate caucus room where numerous candidates have launched their formal campaigns.

In a prepared statement, Bentsen pledged to run "an energetic, national campaign" and said he will bring to it "leadership which is at once candid, unafraid, and positive."

Bentsen, who served three terms in the House, turned to a successful business career and then was elected to the Senate in 1970, is the fifth Democrat to formally announce for the 1976 presidential race.

The others are Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona, former Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia, and former Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma. Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama is considered almost certain to make the race.

Bentsen said he was convinced Democrats will unite behind ideas "that can lift this country from economic recession and political paralysis." He said his party must restore "opportunity at home and moral leadership abroad."

"For too long we have been adrift," Bentsen said.

"This administration, which has been in office since 1969, has failed to govern with either wisdom or foresight. It has bounced from crisis to crisis. It has reacted to the problems of the moment. It is without specific goals. It is without sensible plans."

Bentsen, who tested his presidential ambitions in 36 states last year, said economic recovery was the "paramount issue" and added "that means jobs — jobs at decent wages with a chance to fully develop one's talents."

"Certainly, the most urgent need is to get people back to work," he added.

Bentsen said the United States must "remain militarily secure and a formidable world leader," but called for a foreign policy "which gives as much weight to interdependence as it does to military strength."

"Sadly, this world is not so peaceful a place that we can now beat the guns into plowshares," he said. "Rather, the world today is made up of nation states which fear each other, but which need each other."

Chilly Weather Continues Hold In Local Area

Freezing rain, sleet, and finally snow added to the miseries of a chilly weekend in the Pampa area.

Freezing rain began falling shortly after 9 p.m. in Pampa Saturday, turning to B-B-size sleet which glazed streets and highways in a matter of minutes. Gusty winds kept area residents aware of the 26 degree high.

Intermittent snowfall during Saturday night and Sunday accumulated to a reported four inches in Pampa, five inches in White Deer and seven inches in Amarillo. Official moisture content up until 6 a.m. today was .09 of an inch in Pampa.

Forecasters were predicting possibility for additional snowfall in the area late today.

Icy conditions prompted a travel advisory from the U.S. Weather Bureau Saturday night. Early today, icy conditions persisted in spite of several hours of sunshine Sunday and a high of 35 degrees.

Temperatures fell to 12 degrees early today. The high today was expected to be in the mid-30's, with a low tonight in the lower 20's.

In UPI reports, Freezing temperatures spread across North Texas today. The weather warmed under clear skies during the day but was expected to get chilly again by Tuesday as more cold air moves into the state.

The National Weather Service also said there was a good chance of scattered showers in the western half of the state by then.

Temperatures in the teens were reported in the Panhandle at dawn. Freezing or near freezing readings were reported as far south as Waco which had a 33. Dalhart had a 16, Wichita Falls a 24 and Texarkana and Tyler 32s.

Scattered showers fell Sunday in north Texas but Texarkana led all wet areas with .34 of an inch of rain.

Delay Possibility In Picking Chief?

By TEX DEWESE

With the deadline to file applications for Pampa police chief falling today, a possibility arose unexpectedly this forenoon that there could be a delay in appointment of a man for the post.

City Manager Mack Wofford, who stated Friday he planned to call a closed meeting of the City Commission Wednesday for a final review of applications, said this morning circumstances had arisen over the weekend which might interfere with plans for the Wednesday session.

Wofford, who will be in Lubbock tonight and Austin tomorrow, said he would not know until Wednesday morning when he could get the mayor and city commissioners together for action on the matter.

For one thing, the city manager said at least one of the city commissioners will be out of the city until the end of this week.

Wofford stated, however, he would start Wednesday morning in an effort to call the meeting. He said it would mean contacting commissioners to determine their wishes on conducting the closed session with one member absent.

He added the hope that the appointment could be expedited without further delay and stated there had been no new applications filed to add to the 19 already in hand — six from Pampa and 13 from out of town.

Wofford did say he had a telephone call from Amarillo this morning in which he was informed another application would be "hand-delivered" to him today.

Questioned about it, Wofford said the telephone call was not from Paul Hulsey, who resigned and ended his service as Amarillo police chief last Friday.

Pampa's city charter provides that the city manager "shall appoint all appointive officers or employees with the advice and consent of the City Commission and the appointment shall be made on merit and fitness alone."

As previously stated, it is known that the City Commission is divided on a choice for the police chief appointment.

Indications today were that when commissioners consider the city manager's recommendation for the appointment, it is likely some "give and take" compromising will be necessary before any decision is reached in regard to the "with the advice and consent of the City Commission" provision of the city charter.

The city manager left this afternoon for Lubbock, where he was to meet with Chester Green of the Parkhill, Smith & Cooper consultant engineering firm for Pampa's proposed $1.24 million sewage treatment plant.

Wofford and Green will fly to Austin Tuesday morning, where they will meet City Commissioner Joe Curtis and appear at a 9:30 a.m. meeting with the Texas Water Quality Board to present the final Phase III application for 75 per cent federal funding of the project by the Environmental Protection Agency.

The city manager said he expects to be back in Pampa by 7 or 8 p.m. Tuesday.

President Ford Planning Possible European Trip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has under discussion with his top aides a trip to Europe this year, but probably not until late summer or early fall, an administration official said today.

Ford at first had set his sights on traveling abroad in April, accepting invitations he has received from several heads of state, including Great Britain, France and West Germany. He is also expected to visit China this year.

But the summit meeting with Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev in Washington in June has caused a postponement of Ford's own travel plans.

"The President will not be traveling to Europe this spring," said White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen.

The meeting with Brezhnev has been reaffirmed recently and is part of a back-and-forth series which was begun by former President Richard M. Nixon, who first traveled to Moscow in June, 1972.

Ford issued an invitation to Brezhnev to visit the United States when he met with the Communist party leader in Vladivostok late last year, mainly to negotiate a new strategic arms limitation.

Ford is expected to visit China in either October or November, picking up an invitation he has had for several months. As House GOP leader, Ford saw China with a congressional delegation in 1972 after Nixon's historic trip to the Chinese mainland.

While a final decision has not yet been made, sources said Ford was expected to spend Easter at Palm Springs, Calif., and from there make side trips on the West Coast to campaign for his economic recovery program.

Police Officials Arrest Store Burglary Suspect

Two suspects, one charged with the Feb. 7 aggravated robbery of Piggly Wiggly, are in custody in Amarillo, according to acting chief of police George H. Wallace.

Police department officials here today obtained a warrant from Justice of the Peace G.L. "Nat" Lunsford charging one suspect, Roy Lee Matthews, 18, Amarillo, with aggravated robbery with a deadly weapon. The other suspect is a 15-year-old juvenile.

Acting Chief Wallace said the issuance of the warrant culminated an intensive investigation by police and the Gray County Sheriff's office, which involved the questioning of numerous suspects.

Over the weekend, law enforcement officials also reportedly cleared two auto theft cases involving juveniles.

The burglary of Frank's Royal Bar, involving an adult and a juvenile, was also cleared with charges against the adult pending.

In other investigations, three burglaries of coin-operated machines and paper vending racks which occurred approximately two months ago were cleared with the arrest of two juveniles.

A 17-year-old youth was also arrested for burglary of a coin-operated machine, and an 18-year-old was charged with auto theft.

Several gas thefts which reportedly occurred over the past months were cleared with the arrest of juveniles.

Wallace also stated the recent rash of burglaries is being intensively investigated by the combined efforts of the police department and Gray County Sheriff's office.

Youth Injured By Explosion

Bryan Slagle, 18, 722 W. Browning, is being treated for hand, head and chest injuries sustained Sunday when he apparently attempted to construct a homemade firecracker at his residence.

The youth was treated at Highland General Hospital for facial lacerations, eye and chest injuries and hand injuries before being transferred to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo by Metropolitan Ambulance Service.

Police reports today indicated the youth lost a part of his left hand when he attempted to attach a fuse to the homemade explosive device.

Slagle had apparently heated an ice pick to melt wax used to attach the fuse. The powder was ignited by the pick, causing the explosion, police said.

The Crisis That Wasn't

We have a note from the Washington-based Population Crisis Committee that its honorary chairman, William H. Draper Jr., died Dec. 26, last. The announcement has the germ of a lesson in it. The notion that the earth will one day be occupied by billions of people is an old distortion of a 19th century theory by Thomas Malthus; that is, to say, the notion has been around for some time, but not one of the doomsayers has lived to see the dire prediction come true.

Malthus' idea was that population increases up to the limits of subsistence, but does not go beyond those limits because of war, famine, disease and vice. He condemned the welfare state of his day as tending to aggravate the very evils which it was supposed to remedy. Not unkindly, that society can be improved by moral responsibility. He nevertheless was a pessimist as to its perfectibility. Latter-day neo-Malthusians have used his population-growth theory as an emotional whip to drive unsuspecting academicians into the corral of state control. Strange, how ideas become reversed when politics takes hold of them.

Step By Step

Each new law restricting the ownership of firearms and ammunition moves us nearer to the day when this form of property ownership will be denied the law-abiding, tax-paying citizen, leaving criminals, who will ignore the laws, and the forces of the political state as the sole possessors of firearms.

Each new law restricting the use of private property by its rightful owners moves us closer to the day when ALL property will be totally controlled by the minions of the political state and no private citizen will dare make a move without first obtaining permission from such authorities.

In the current contrived hysteria over the use of hollowpoint or "dumdum" bullets, it is instructive to realize that a law denying police the use of such ammunition can be repealed with the stroke of a pen, but a close study of history reveals that no people who ever gave up the right to own property in firearms ever had that right fully restored.

Dear Abby

Bury the hatchet on George's birthday

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am probably only one mother among many with this problem, but if anyone can help us, Abby, it just might be you.

I have six grown children who have brought me much happiness, but here is the problem. The eldest daughter and youngest son had a falling out with each other four years ago, and they haven't spoken to each other since.

I can never have a complete family gathering because if my son and his wife are invited, my daughter and her family will not come, and vice versa.

I am sure they don't realize what a heartbreak this is to me. Please print this, Abby, and if it doesn't hit home with them, maybe it will help some other more fortunate mother.

PENNSYLVANIA MOM

DEAR MOM: I have always felt that forgiveness is one of man's noblest virtues, and because I feel so strongly about it, I have only two quotations on my desk—both dealing with that subject:

"He who cannot forgive, destroys the bridge over which he may one day need to pass."

And, "Forgiveness is the fragrance of the violet on the heel of the one who crushed it."

I hope your daughter and son start speaking to each other soon, because without communication, there can be no trust. It matters not who SHOULD make the first move, but the one who does will show himself to be the more mature.

I pray your children see this, for their own sakes as well as for yours. Mom, wouldn't it be great if they decided that February 22nd will be the ideal day to "bury the hatchet?"

DEAR ABBY: Why do telephone callers always get preference over customers who shop in person? It's so unfair!

I'm sure many of your readers have had that irritating experience. First they part their cars in a parking lot, or near a ticking meter. Then they fight to get waited on. And when they finally are, the telephone rings and the salesperson says, "Excuse me, please..." and proceeds to take a 15-minute order from the party on the phone. Meanwhile you are standing on one foot and then the other, burning with resentment.

Can't checks use a little common sense and ask the person on the phone to kindly wait until she finishes with her customer?

I hope you find room for this in your column, Abby. If it's happened to you, you'll know how frustrating it is. Thanks.

STANDIN' AND WAITIN'

DEAR STANDIN': I found room for it, even though I'm usually the customer on the phone.

DEAR ABBY: I read your column in the STARS AND STRIPES, and when I came across the letter from "Upset Mother" who was ashamed of her son because he refused to fight, I had to write. This is for her:

Ma'am, I am a career Marine with a total of 8 1/2 years in the service so far. I spent 2 1/2 of those years in Vietnam as a telephone lineman with the Third Marine Division.

If my America goes to war again, I will be there. I have a family to support and I don't want to die any more than the next guy, but I still feel that my country is worth dying for. Ma'am, I am still afraid of a fist fight. Unless I have no other way out, I still run. I do not consider myself a coward, nor does anyone who knows me. Please do not look at your son as one.

There is more to life than a fight. My initials are C.A.J., but sign me...

A FABLE Man's Behavior In Use Of Force

By C.R. BATTEN

In the beginning, God created Heaven and Earth, and a Redwood Forest with all the Birds and Beasts, and saw that it was good. Then He created yet another animal. He gave it a hand, with the ability to grasp tools; and above all, he gave it the ability to reason, to remember, to learn from its experiences, and to discover the natural Laws by which He had created Order in the Universe. He called it Man.

At first, Man foraged for food, and sought shelter from the stronger beasts in caves or in the tops of Trees. Then he learned to make crude tools, and built shelters of bark, and hewed war canoes from the trunks of great Trees.

The other Men with lighter skins came to the Redwood Forest. They had learned to make tools of iron. They had discovered many of the natural Laws that maintain Order in the universe—among them the collection of Law that is called the Science of Economics.

They knew that other Men were coming to their region, and needed building materials for their homes. So they began to cut the Redwood Trees. They used great teams of oxen, and built huge Machines to move the giant logs to mills equipped with larger Saws than any ever before seen.

Those who sawed the lumber profited, and they hired many workers, and they built towns where their workers lived. They built railroads so they could reach further into the Forest. As their towns grew, others came to provide food, clothing, tools, and all the other goods the people desired.

There was Peace, and there was Peace.

Then other Men came and saw the Redwoods, and they said, "Some of these Trees must be preserved for future mankind. If you will save those Trees without cutting them, we will collect gifts from people all over the world and buy them from you. And it was done."

Yet others came from the cities that were built of Redwood and they saw Men cutting Trees, and thought that it was bad. "We don't like what you are doing here," they shouted. "We will pass Laws that will stop you from cutting Trees. From that time forward there was Conflict."

Land and Resources should be the property of all the people, they said. They passed Laws that regulated timber harvests and they created regional planning agencies that were governed by appointed officials who were unresponsive to the desires of the local people.

They gained control of the government that administered the Laws that they passed, and they required that before timber could be harvested an environmental impact report must be prepared, and a permit obtained. They decreed that buffer strips where no Trees could be cut would be left along highways, adjacent to parks, along streams, and on sites where the first Men had built their villages of huts of bark. They built an army of Enforcers to see that they were obeyed.

The costs of complying with their Laws were so great that some lumbermen could no longer continue to make lumber. Some people who did not have Redwood homes could not buy the lumber they needed to build them.

Prices rose so high that those in the cities who could get permission to build homes could not afford to buy the construction materials they needed. Without customers, the prices dropped. The producers closed down.

No one could produce a surplus any more. They could not pay the huge tax levies, and the bureaucracy collapsed. There was rioting, and famine and pestilence, and the population fell, and the towns—the lumbermen had built fell into decay.

The old growth Redwoods that had been "saved" in the parks fell ill and died, and were blown over by storms. The hundreds of thousands of acres of new growth on cutover lands grew to majestic heights.

But those few Men who were left could not enjoy them. They were too busy foraging for food, and building crude huts of bark with primitive tools. They produced no surplus. They had no time to enjoy their environment or their arts.

And it was because, in their greed, some Men believed that they could use the force of legislation to overrule the natural Laws of social behavior that maintain Peace and Order in the Universe.

Going The Extra Mile

Only a handful of the persons who evaded their military obligations during the Vietnam war accepted the administration's offer of conditional clemency in the program which began on Sept. 16.

However, as the initial Feb. 1 deadline approached the Clemency Board had a surge of business, as did the Department of Defense which handles deserters and the Department of Justice which is processing unconvicted service evaders.

The surge of applications for clemency undermines earlier convictions of the Clemency Board that the shirkers from duty were not taking advantage of the nation's benevolence because enough of them had not heard of the government's program.

The last hour rush of persons seeking clemency also pulls the rug out from under arguments of the most militant draft dodgers that the administration's offer is not a generous one. Thousands of persons would not be attracted to it if it were unfair.

Finally, the fact that thousands of persons admit their mistake - and are willing to perform national service to be redeemed - precludes any further concessions to those who erred and expect the nation to apologize for their pusillanimous conduct.

The administration went the extra mile in extending the deadline for clemency from Feb. 1 to March 1. To delay it any more would be to open new national wounds instead of heal old ones.

INSIDE WASHINGTON New Congress To Set Boodle Grab Record

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—The hootin' - tootin' "reform" Congress is setting another speed record in addition to axing potent committee chairmen.

Although in session only one month as of today, both the House and Senate have boodle grabs underway that will add millions of dollars to their legislative and personal budgets.

These unheralded schemes are strictly bipartisan. When it comes to boodle grabbing, there are no party lines. It's all for one, and one for all.

Under these plans, the House's budget would be hiked 16 per cent to $201.6 million as against $173.6 million for the current fiscal year; the Senate to $111.5 million from $106.5 million.

In addition, so-called "joint" Senate - House expenditures would be raised 17 per cent to $53 million from this year's $45.1 million.

But that still isn't the whole congressional budget picture.

Actually, the proposed budget for the legislative branch of the government is a startling $681.6 million - 19 per cent more than this year's $574.6 million.

Included in this overall budget are funds for the Library of Congress, Capitol Architect, Government Printing Office, General Accounting Office and a number of other congressional adjuncts.

Strikingly indicative of the magnitude of this congressional empire is that it numbers more than 34,000 employees.

And it's literally growing by the day.

Industry, construction and business may be in the doldrums, with millions of workers unemployed. But not Congress. It's thriving - and under its new heftily expanded budget will boom bigger than ever before.

Following is how and why:

House Boodle
The staffs of virtually all House "standing" committees and scores of subcommittees are slated to be expanded at a cost of $20.7 million - a stunning 240 per cent zoom over this year's $8.6 million. This does not include another $17.5 million for special and select committees - a 20 per cent hike above the current $14.6 million.

Just how these additional millions will be divvied up among the committees is a tightly guarded secret known only to House leaders - and they are adamantly not talking.

But one revealing example is what is in the works for the "reformed" Ways and Means Committee - which originates all revenue legislation.

Ambitious aim of its new "reform" leaders is to double the committee's staff to 65, as against 30 currently. Of the new personnel, 14 would be paid $35,000 each; 12, $27,000; and the others, clerical assistants, lesser amounts.

Cost of this "reform" is upwards of $1.7 million.

But that still isn't all. Also included in the "reform" is another $300,000 for junkets by the 37 - member committee now headed by Rep. Al Ullman, D - Ore.

This touring at taxpayers' expense is something new for the committee. It was never done under the 12 - year rule of former chairman Wilbur Mills, D - Ark. He ran the committee with a tight rein on its purse - strings - firmly holding down the size of the staff and expenses.

Under Mills, not a cent was ever spent for junketing.

But Ullman is arguing that's necessary so committee members can "keep in touch with the people, to know how they feel about taxes. Social Security and other crucial matters handled by the committee."

Maybe so. But veteran committee men assert they know nothing about the innovation; that they weren't consulted about it. It's all news to them.

Chairman Ullman's ingenious boodle grab has to be approved by the full House. It will be interesting to see what other bombastic "reformers" will do about it - especially the 73 crusading newcomers.

Senate Boodle
A very similar boodle grab is flourishing lustily in the Senate - with the bipartisan backing of 57 (a majority) of the 100 legislators.

They include the Democratic leadership, Republican leadership, and other potent members such as Humphrey, D - Minn.; Benton, D - Tex.; Wicker, R - Conn.; Tower, R - Tex.; Harke, D - Ind.; Thurmond, R - S. C.; Buckley, Ind. - N.Y.; Case, R - N.J.; Fannin, D - Ariz.; Laxalt, D - Nev.; Taft, R - Ohio; Javits, R - N.Y.

Sponsor is Sen. Mike Gravel, D - Alaska, ranking member of the Joint Committee on Congressional Operations, who has quite a spiel in defense of this plan to hike the budget for Senate Committees' personnel by more than $6.64 million.

That's what Gravel claims it will amount to - by an involved process of rationalization and figure juggling.

However, the suave Alaskan does admit that cost of the contemplated enlargement of committee staffs could actually come to more than $31.681 million - some three times greater than his deftly contrived original figure.

One thing is quite certain: if these committee expansions are authorized (highly likely), the cost is far more apt to be closer to $31.681 million than $6.64 million.

That's the usual practice in Congress.

To hear Gravel tell it, whatever the amount, it's fully justified:

"The legislative branch has chosen to reassert itself, particularly as a reaction to Watergate and partly because it's right. We must continue to do so for another reason. The nature of the problems that face us, the economy, energy and the international financial crisis, demand it."

"In a rational, civilized democratic society, knowledge is power. To reinstate an effective system of checks and balances, we must adequately staff the Senate. The solution lies completely within our power and prerogatives. We can help ourselves and the country; we can solve our own problems if we have the courage to act."

Vigorous bipartisan backing for these arguments was voiced by Sen. Bill Brock, R - Tenn., of the Government Operations Committee. Stressing the tremendous increase in the "workload of Congress," he maintained it has "grown so rapidly that many of us find that our personal staffs are heavily engaged in legislative and committee activity."

As a graphic illustration of that, Brock cited the fact that "11 members of my personal staff are presently totally engaged in legislative and committee work."

"This proposal does not provide a simple solution of our personnel problem," asserted Brock. "It will take a concerted effort by all of us, but I believe this is a good step forward. It is a step in the direction of responsible reform. The inescapable fact is that we have very little committee staffs in relation to the legislative responsibilities which we face and the huge responsibility of overseeing the functioning of the federal government."

That's their story, and the legislators are sticking to it - at taxpayers' expense.

Bicentennial Discussion Is Xi Beta Chi Program

In keeping with the Bicentennial Era, members of Xi Beta Chi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met recently at the White Deer Land Museum for a program entitled "High Moments of History." Mrs. Fred Thompson, curator of the museum and chairman of the Gray County Bicentennial, told the history of the museum and explained the different items on display during the tour of the museum.

One of the first scrapbooks of Beta Sigma Phi in Pampa is on display at the museum. The first chapter of BSP was Upston and was chartered in 1952 with 39 members.

On May 15, 1953, Xi Beta Chi chapter was formed with 17 members. From here, more chapters were formed as BSP grew.

Beta Sigma Phi is a cultural and social organization with six chapters in Pampa.

Members stayed at the museum for a short business meeting and Valentine gifts were exchanged. Present were Mmes. Robert Benyshek, Robert Brodin, Dwayne Blakemore, Don Carpenter, Carrell Danner, Sonny Golden, Tommy Hill, James Lee, James Schaffer, Price Smith, Benny Stout, Charles Hatcher, Dean Wilson, Ted Erickson, Jerry Carlson, Gerald Rasco, Jeff Nash and A.L. Leonard.

'Educate, Motivate and Activate' Is Republican Women's Club Theme

The Top O' Texas Republican Women's Club met recently in the home of Mrs. H.F. McDonald. Mrs. J.A. Knox served as co-hostess.

Mrs. B.R. Nunn, president, called the meeting to order. Mrs.

Quentin Williams read a prayer by Peter Marshall and Mrs. Scott Nisbet lead the group in the Pledge of Allegiance.

After the reading of the minutes by Mr. Hadda Moore, secretary, the annual program was discussed by Mrs. McDonald, vice-president. In conjunction with the National and State Federations of Republican Women, the local club will adopt "EDUCATE, MOTIVATE AND ACTIVATE," as their theme for 1975.

Mrs. J.S. Skelly, Jr., legislative chairman, gave the following suggestions for writing to your elected officials:

1. Give your name, who you are, and why you are interested in certain legislation.
2. Use your own words to tell why you are for or against a bill.
3. Keep them informed of your views in letters, not telegrams.
4. Thank them when they please you or do you a favor.
5. Praise them even if they don't have anything to do with your own interests.

6. Don't write form letters.
7. Don't call yourself "taxpayer."
8. Don't send carbon copies.
9. Don't threaten him.
10. Don't write congressmen or senators from other areas and ignore your own.

Mrs. Nunn appointed Mrs. M.F. Roche to the nominating committee along with Mrs. Jim Harris and Mrs. Joe B. Curtis.

The next meeting will be on Thursday, Feb. 27, at 9:45 a.m. in the Hospitality Room of the Citizens Bank and Trust. H. Robert Muns will be the guest speaker.

Miss Kretzmeier Becomes Bride Of Charles Tucker

Miss Paula Sue Kretzmeier became the bride of Charles Randall Tucker at 4 p.m., Jan. 25 at First United Methodist Church, Irving.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Leroy H. Kretzmeier, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie M. Tucker, all of Irving.

THE CEREMONY
The Rev. Earl Harvey, pastor, officiated for the double-ring ceremony before a background of two, seven-branched candelabra on either side of an oval candelabrum, flanked by two basket arrangements of white gladioli.

Organist, Jeanie Alley, provided traditional wedding music and accompanied Rev. Bob Turnispeed as he sang "Charity," and "Because."

THE BRIDE
Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of Chantilly lace over bridal taffeta. The fitted bodice was styled with a Sabrina neckline, natural waistline and long, fitted lace sleeves that ended in ruffles. The bouffant, floor-length skirt, featuring rows of ruffles in waterfall fashion, swept into a chapel train.

Her veil of imported illusion fell from a coil, and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink and red roses, baby's breath and white lace ribbon.

ATTENDANTS
Lauri Johnson was matron of honor and bridesmaid was Robin Frieman, both of Irving. They wore identical maroon velvet formal gowns and carried red and pink roses and baby's breath. Tina Carter was flower girl and ringbearer was Shan Carter, both of Denton. Candelighter was Wayne Kretzmeier, Irving.

Johnny Quill, served as best man and groomsmen was Gary Allen, both of Dallas. Wayne Kretzmeier and Lynn Tucker, Irving, seated wedding guests.

...Miss Paula Sue Kretzmeier

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the church. The serving table, covered with a pink cloth was accented with pink and red bows. Silver appointments completed the setting.

The white wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom and decorated with pink and red icing. Serving cake was Patti Martindale and assisting at the punch bowl was Janette Lynch. Janet Anderson registered wedding guests.

Following the wedding trip to Athens, Tex., the couple will reside in Irving.

For traveling, the bride wore a pink pantsuit and lifted the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

AFFILIATIONS
The bride is a graduate of Winita High School in Irving and the bridegroom, a graduate of Bryan Adams High School, Dallas, is presently employed by AAA Drywall Co.

Patti Martindale hosted a shower honoring the bride recently.

OUT-OF-TOWN GUESTS
Mr. and Mrs. Don Stafford, Mr. and Mrs. Stan Schneider, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kretzmeier, Harold Vimer, Mr. and Mrs. Gale Seat and Carol and Mrs. Lynch, were out-of-town guests attending the event.

Snead Captures SD In Playoff

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — You can pull out all the old clichés of golf — and life for that matter — and everyone fits J.C. Snead.

Sam Snead's now famous nephew is patient, plays well under pressure, is intent on being his own man, considerate to a fault, and best of all he knows how to play the game under the worst of conditions.

J.C. rolled all those virtues into one hectic hour and a half Sunday and made them pay off in a dramatic playoff victory in the $170,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open.

Snead didn't give himself much of a chance when the final round began Sunday, but as the afternoon rolled on so did his game. If you don't believe it, ask Ray Floyd and Bobby Nichols.

Those are the two veteran players Snead tied in regulation play at nine-under-par 279 and then he beat them in four holes of sudden death while fans screamed and a chilly wind whistled across Torrey Pines' seaside South Course.

Nichols, the defending champion and a pretty popular man with a record crowd of 27,000 who turned out for the windup of the sixth event on this year's PGA Tour, was the first to fall, taking a bogey five on the par four, 389-yard 15th — the first of the playoffs.

Problem Light, But Felt At Pampa

By PAUL SIMS

Whereas many schools across the state are watching their athletic programs seriously throttled by inflation's pinch, Pampa has not yet been dealt any critical blow. And nothing indicates things are going to get exceptionally tight for Pampa High's sports teams in the future.

The situation here is not serious, as it is in, say, San Francisco, where all athletic and intramural activity in the schools has ceased. And it is not as bad as the problem several schools around the state are experiencing, evident in the absence of long road trips and making athletes purchase their own equipment.

It's harder for the smaller schools to get by since they operate on smaller budgets and must still pay the same price for gas and equipment that the large schools pay. But even AAA and AAAA athletic programs are suffering, particularly when teams aren't winning and are getting little fan support.

An 8-2 football season last year and another typically successful Pampa basketball season this year has helped this city's sports program get by, wherein many programs in many cities are fighting to stay alive.

"As long as we continue to have fan support and as long as we continue to adjust the cost of tickets, I think we can pretty well hold our own," said Dan Long, superintendent of Pampa schools.

"There's no reason we won't make the budget as long as fans continue to support the program. But we are not immune to the problems of inflation. When you're paying twice as much to charter a bus as you were two years ago, it's got to eat into your operation."

Athletic Director Ed Lehnick is the man most responsible for Pampa "holding its own." Since Lehnick has been at his current position, six sports have been added to the overall program and one of the finest coaching staffs anywhere has been put together. When you've got a good program, it takes a lot more than the current inflation problem to reduce you to mediocrity.

It is the mediocre programs of some big schools and the limited programs of the small schools that have been hardest hit in recent months. It is the localities that have high school and college sports competing for fan attendance which are the most trouble. It is the schools with losing teams which are most likely to feel the bite of inflation.

Even with winning teams and an ideal situation here, Pampa, like Long says, is not immune.

Travel is one affected area. "No, we're not traveling as much. Odessa is as far as we go," Lehnick said. "The amount that each team travels is less overall because of the added sports. We're putting more miles on our vehicles."

What about a radius of perhaps 100 miles? One that would limit the distance a Pampa team can travel. "They don't have a problem in the Dallas-Ft. Worth area. I think they've put a 50 mile radius on their travel. But they have plenty of competition within the city," said the Pampa athletic director.

"I don't think we can do that because of our geographic location."

Amarillo usually turns to one of the cities comparable to them that is a multiple high school city (like Lubbock, which is only 120 miles away). Another advantage they have there is, say they want to send their tennis teams to El Paso, they can send all four on one bus.

Equipment, not travel, takes more money from the athletic budget than any other single thing.

"The big problem we're locked in on is equipment. The only thing we can do is buy less equipment. Two years ago, for example, I could buy sweat suits for 45 dollars a dozen. Now you pay anywhere from $16 to $30.

"We look at the quality of what we buy very carefully and hope it lasts. The increase in activities of girls has created some money problems, but our girls have equipment comparable to what the boys have. We're going to see that they get top equipment."

Lehnick will only purchase the equipment which is not going to wear out after one or two seasons' use. That way you buy less.

When purchasing football helmets, pads, eyeglass protectors and other safety equipment, long-lasting items are not always what are bought. Long said, "We buy equipment that deals with safety. Either we buy the right kind of equipment or we don't participate."

At the conclusion of each athletic season, there is nearly always less equipment than what the team started out with. Filtering hurts the program, says Lehnick.

"That's a problem, one of the biggest problems we have. Keeping up with the equipment is awfully difficult to do. It upsets me to see school equipment in town. When they (athletes) take it, it makes additional problems."

"Some schools are making athletes buy all the athletic equipment at the end of the year. If we don't stop losing equipment, I would consider it. If we get in such a pinch where we would cut down, that's an area we would give consideration."

Overall, the Pampa school system's athletic program is in good shape. But Long, Lehnick and others in positions working with the program are watchful and are using care when dealing with high costs. "Inflation is an important factor in our planning for future athletic activities. It's still a little bit early to tell," said Long.

Kentucky Stunned, 'Bama 1st

By United Press International
Kentucky's Wildcats ran into Tennessee's New York-bred "Bernie and Ernie Show."

Saturday night and as a result, Alabama holds a one-game lead today in the red-hot Southeastern Conference basketball race.

Thanks to a combined 53 points from New York City transplants Ernie Grunfeld and Bernard King, Tennessee upset fifth-ranked Kentucky, 103-90, and knocked the Wildcats out of a first-place tie in the SEC with sixth-rated Alabama, which was putting away Mississippi, 89-70.

"It was one of the great victories in Tennessee basketball history," said Tennessee Coach Ray Mears, "especially considering King's injury and the fact that we had lost three in a row." (King missed practice all week with a knee injury and was a doubtful starter for the Kentucky game).

Thus, should both teams win tonight, the Wildcats with an 11-2 conference record to Alabama's 12-1, find themselves in a rather compromising position of having to beat the Crimson Tide at Tuscaloosa next Saturday just to regain a tie for the conference lead.

Elsewhere among the top 10 teams, only 10th-ranked North Carolina met defeat Saturday, falling 96-74 to No. 3 Maryland. Top-ranked Indiana belied Northwestern, 82-66, for its 27th straight win; No. 2 UCLA downed Oregon State, 74-62; No. 4 North Carolina State squeaked past pesky Wake Forest, 89-87; No. 6 Arizona State clubbed Brigham Young, 99-79, and No. 9 Southern California survived another scare from Oregon, 92-90.

In a game played Sunday, seventh-ranked Louisville overcame a 23-point deficit in the second half to beat St. Louis, 75-68. With 13-23 to go, Louisville trailed, 59-36, and appeared doomed to its first home defeat in 19 games. The Cardinals used a full-court trap defense and the hustle of Junior Bridgeman and Phil Bond to overcome the upstart-minded Billikens. Bond hit 14 points and Bridgeman got all of his 10 points in the last half. Allen Murphy with 12 points and Wesley Cox with 11 also finished in double figures for the Cardinals, now 18-2.

"We were intimidated," lamented Northwestern Coach Tex Winter after the Indiana game. "and that's intimidation with a capital 'I.' Indiana is an awesome ballclub."

Indeed, the unbeaten Hoosiers, still yet to be really pressed by anyone, got 14 points from Kent Benson and 12 apiece from Quinn Buckner and Scott Wilkerson while rattling the outclassed Wildcats into numerous mistakes that put the game out of reach by halftime.

Said Hoosier Coach Bobby Knight: "It was hard to keep an edge in the second half after getting up by 32 points."

Meanwhile, second-ranked UCLA was also extending a winning streak of sorts. Behind a career high 18 points from Andre McCarter, the Bruins rolled over Oregon State for their 79th straight victory at Pauley Pavilion. "I'm not surprised we're 8-1 in the conference," said UCLA Coach John Wooden after the Bruins moved a full two games ahead of Oregon State for the Pacific Eight lead. "I'm more surprised some schools aren't closer."

Third-ranked Maryland retained its half-game lead over No. 4 North Carolina State in the Atlantic Coast Conference race by shooting down North Carolina at Chapel Hill behind a combined 53 points from All-America hopeful John Lucas and reserve

Steve Sheppard. The less dropped the Tarheels into fourth place in the conference.

All-America David Thompson scored 22 points but needed a pair of free throws with five seconds left in enabling N.C.

State to edge Wake Forest, one of only three teams to beat them earlier this season. Thompson had earlier broken an 81-81 tie with a bucket and a foul shot. Freshman Kenny Carr also tallied 22 for the Wolfpack.

INDOOR MARK CRACKED

Stones, Miss Larrieu Shine In Track Meets

United Press International
Judging by the eye-popping performances of Dwight Stones and Francie Larrieu over the weekend, track and field officials may soon be forced to take a fresh look as to what constitutes a world record.

For while Stones was taking his record-setting road show to Oklahoma City for a world indoor best high jump leap of 7 feet, 5½ inches, the petite Miss Larrieu was running the fastest mile ever run by a woman — indoors or out — with a 4:29.0 clocking at San Diego.

But even had Stones not missed in his attempt at what would have been an all-time best of 7-7, that leap, like Miss Larrieu's mile run, would not be recognized as a world record. Why, you ask?

According to the International Amateur Athletic Federation, a world record — in order to be a world record — must be set outdoors. It's not that the IAAF is any great champion of fresh air, but rather the varied sizes of tracks indoors (11-lap, 8-lap etc.) have apparently caused too much confusion in years past to qualify world records.

Regardless of what the IAAF decides to do with her record, Francie Larrieu could at least gain a measure of satisfaction from upstaging the much-ballyhooed men's mile showdown at San Diego between Filbert Bayi, Rick Wohlhuter and John Walker — won by Bayi in 3:58.4.

"I can't believe it," said Miss Larrieu, who only 24 hours earlier set a world "best" 1,500-meter mark of 4:10.4 in Toronto. "I just keep amazing myself. I was shooting for a record both Friday night and tonight, but this is really better than I expected."

After easily clearing 7-5½ on his third try at the U.S. Track and Field Federation championships, Stones moved the bar to 7-7. "That was decent," he said after missing the 7-7 bar for the second time. "But the more I think about it the more I don't think I'm going to make it." He didn't.

Despite being shunted aside somewhat by Miss Larrieu, the Bayi-Wohlhuter-Walker mile was far from a disappointment as Walker clocked 3:58.9 and Wohlhuter 3:58.4 behind Bayi's 3:54.4. It also was the first middle distance loss in over a year for Wohlhuter, the 1974 half in 1:57 or 1:58. But records are not that important, winning's what counts. "In three U.S. mile races now, Bayi has yet to lose."

In yet another meet Saturday night, Marty Liquori, one of Bayi's first indoor victims, won the Knights of Columbus mile at Richfield, Ohio in a rather slow time of 4:05.3. "I'm not in good shape yet," he said later. "I'm not sure I can beat Bayi this year."

Benny Parsons Grabs Daytona Championship

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — If Richard Petty couldn't beat his old rival David Pearson, he wanted to give some help to a former Detroit cab driver who had a chance.

"C'mon, boy, let's go," he signaled to Benny Parsons, trying to catch Pearson in the waning laps of Sunday's Daytona 500 stock car race.

Parsons, an infrequent winner riding a Chevrolet, fell in behind Petty, who was far off the pace due to some unscheduled pit stops, and was pulled along in the draft of Petty's speedier Dodge.

"I saw Richard coming and said to myself, 'Maybe this is the answer to my prayers,'" said Parsons. "I think Richard could have backed out and let me try to beat David by myself. Then I would have faced one of the toughest competitors of my life."

But Parsons' prayers were answered in an unexpected way. Virtually assured of his first Daytona 500 victory, Pearson lost control of his Mercury on a turn into the backstretch and spun out of the lead with just two laps to go.

When he saw Pearson's plight, Parsons said, "I about cried, I ain't kidding you."

He'll answer all your questions, and tell you what it will take to install GAS air conditioning in your home. It's the first easy step toward having your dependable GAS air conditioning installed before the first hot, windy days are here.

A GAS air conditioning system is ruggedly built to cool quietly and efficiently. There are fewer moving parts, and no compressor to break down or wear out. Heat from the steady blue flame circulates a refrigerant through the system to cool the air. It's this simple principle that gives GAS air conditioning its long life with no loss of cooling capacity and easy maintenance.

Seattle Man Dead In Police Gun Battle

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Albert Loges, 58, was in the habit of taking his rifle along when he went walking in the neighborhood and his grocer finally called police.

The result was a gunbattle ending in Loges' death after officers chopped a hole in his hotel room door, shoved their guns through and blasted away. "I wish I'd never called the police," grocer John Kovacevic said bitterly. "I didn't want him hurt."

Loges died at the scene, a crumby, third-floor apartment in a rundown hotel where he had lived for about a year.

"We attempted to talk with him and he yelled something at us, but we couldn't understand what he said," police Sgt. Larry Farrar said.

Loges fired twice out of his apartment window at police and at least 10 times through the door when officers tried to persuade him to come out, they said.

Police chopped a hole in the door with fire axes in order to force Loges out.

Officers stuck a shotgun and a pistol through the hole. Each was fired once, fatally wounding Loges.

Kovacevic was standing outside his store when an officer appeared at the apartment window and shouted, "It's over, it's over."

Then a bystander shouted that Loges was dead.

"Oh there was no need to do that," Kovacevic said.

He turned and walked back into the store, shaking his head sadly. "I wish I hadn't called the police."

"We had no alternative," said Police Chief Robert Hanson at the scene. "We don't like doing this, but when a man comes at you with a gun, you have no alternative."

The tragedy began Friday forenoon when Loges entered Kovacevic's neighborhood grocery carrying a rifle. Neighbors said he frequently carried the weapon when he left his room. Loges asked for groceries and put his money on the counter.

"I told him to take the rifle home," Kovacevic said. "I didn't want anyone to get hurt. I told him I would sell him the groceries if he would not bring in his gun any more."

"He was acting really crazy and I said I was going to call the police if he didn't leave."

COTTON NEEDS CALCIUM — Studies by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station show that calcium is essential for developing strong, well-fruited cotton plants. Calcium helps move carbohydrates formed in the leaves to other parts of the cotton plant where they are used for growth and fruit development. Where calcium is deficient, squares and young bolls often shed and the plant growth stops.

LET'S REMINISCE

Mother Nature Made The Ice

By HELEN M. PAGEL
Copley News Service

There used to be an icehouse on just about every farm in the country, but it would be next to impossible to find one today. Who needs an icehouse with all the automatic refrigeration available at the flip of a switch?

But electricity was unknown on most farms 60 years ago (it wasn't too well known even in the cities and "incandescent lights" were more or less a novelty) and since there was no electrical power to do his work for him, man had to do it for himself.

In the wintertime you kept things cool by simply setting them outside or by putting them in a box fastened outside one of the kitchen windows.

The open top of the box faced inward and could be reached by simply raising the window.

But in the summertime your only alternative, unless you happened to have a springhouse — and not too many people did — was to lower butter, milk, meat and whatever else might spoil, down the well. It kept things cool, all right, but still it wasn't the most convenient arrangement.

Besides, it was more fashionable to have an icebox — one of those huge, wooden, zinc-lined chests with a compartment in the top to hold a square cake of ice. If you lived in the city the ice man kept you supplied with ice, but if you lived in the country you supplied your own.

The only ice-making machine in operation in those days was run by Mother Nature, and she only worked at it in the very coldest weather, so if you wanted ice for summer use you had to harvest it during the winter and keep it frozen until warm weather arrived.

You had to wait until conditions were just right, but eventually there would come a long cold spell and the river would freeze several feet deep. And then the men would hitch up the team to the big bobsled, gather together saws, picks, axes and logs, and away they went.

Usually the boys in the family got to go along, but the girls didn't, and this was one of the disadvantages of being a girl. In those days there was no "movement" to remedy the situation, either.

And maybe it was just as well, for it seems as though so often disadvantages and advantages stick so close to each other that when you remove one you're quite likely to remove the other one right along with it.

It might be a long cold drive to the river, but once there the teams were driven right onto the frozen surface and everybody soon warmed up, what with chopping and sawing out the huge square blocks of ice and then swinging them onto the bobsled.

It was a long hard job, for you had to get as many blocks of ice as you could possibly pile onto the sled. You just couldn't make that trip to the river any more times than was absolutely necessary, and, besides, you never knew when a thaw would set in and put a stop to operations.
