Labor Resents Action Of Detroit Churches HOUSE DEMANDS RESIGNATION OF 'MA'

RESOLUTION IS PASSED BY VOTE OF 56 TO 47

$3,500,000 APPROPRIATION NOW IN HANDS OF GOV. FERGUSON

(By The Associated Press) AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 7.—The Texas house of representatives today demanded the resignation of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson. A concurrent resolution for her to resign, in accordance with her primary promise to Attorney General Dan Moody was passed by a vote of 56 to 47. The resolution now goes to the senate. Prolonged and heated debate preceded passage of the resolution.

(By The Associated Press) AUSTIN, Oct. 7.—Fate of the scholastic apportionment now rests with Governor Miriam A. Ferguson. Both houses of the legislature today adopted with little opposition the free conference committee report appropriating $3,500,000 to supplement the available school fund and increase the per capita apportionment from $11.50 to $14, and no more.

The bill provides that if the 40th legislature finds other sources of revenue for the school fund, that the revenue will go toward paying this appropriation. The appropriation is to be made in three quarterly installments.

Two Names Submitted AUSTIN, Oct. 7 (AP)—Although it is very probable that they will not accept the names of Senators Charles Murphy of Houston and J. C. Strong of Panola county, are slated to be submitted to the senate late Thursday for confirmation as appointees to the state highway commission.

Former Governor James E. Ferguson held conference early today with Murphy and Strong, and John C. Case, member of the highway commission, whom the senate has declined to confirm.

Murphy and Strong said for personal reasons they can hardly accept the positions. Asked if he was still a highway commissioner following his conference with the former governor, Mr. Case said "I don't know."

Just a Reminder AUSTIN, Oct. 7 (AP)—Representatives Brian Pool's resolution is designed to remind Governor Miriam A. Ferguson of her promise to resign after adjournment of the called session, so that she won't forget to keep this promise, as she has other promises.

A motion to adjourn until 2 o'clock was overwhelmingly defeated, but the house voted to recess until 2 o'clock. Had the body adjourned until 2 o'clock, Ferguson forces could have prevented further discussion of the resignation for the day by not attending, thus breaking the quorum of 107 present for the morning session. The resolution introduced late yesterday, would request Mrs. Ferguson to resign immediately.

B. C. D. Backs Move For Special Train

At a meeting of the B. C. D. today the body agreed to co-operate with the Avalanche-Journal company in making their special train for Fort Worth a success. The Avalanche-Journal will operate this train for the convenience of local fans who care to witness the Tech-T. C. U. game on the 30th of this month.

Largest Potash Field In World Found In Terry

What is thought to be the world's largest potash bed has been found southeast of Brownfield in Terry county, say geologists who have been working in the field. There may be oil and gas there, they do not know. But the potash deposit is known to be a reality.

A number of Amarillo-business men have a lease on the property, and in the near future they plan to have the mine worked. It will take many thousands of dollars to do this and outside capital from the East will be sought.

The world has been depending largely on Germany for potash, but the German mines are nothing as compared with the Texas supply. In Germany it is necessary to go from 1,000 to 1,600 feet below the earth's surface to find the potash and this makes the product very expensive. In the Terry county field one may take a post hole bit and dig to the strata in less than two hours.

PLUMBERS WANT NEW ORDINANCE

A suit, voluminous in its charges and allegations was filed in District Court here late Wednesday by representatives of the plumbers of the city seeking a court mandate to force city officials to pass an ordinance governing sewer and plumbing work here.

The suit, which was first reported as demanding enforcement of an ordinance that was at one time on the statute books of the city, or that the same be rescinded, demands a new ordinance, members of the city's legal staff said Thursday. The plumbing ordinance passed some time ago has been repealed for several months. It was said, on the grounds that it tended toward a monopoly of the plumbing business here.

Plaintiffs in the suit filed Wednesday charge among other things, that the city must, under state statutes, pass such an ordinance and while city officials said that such a statute is on the state's books, parts of it have several times been held unconstitutional, as was the case with the city statute. The suit probably will be called at the October term of court. It was said.

Cotton Acreage To Be Reduced Is Plan

WACO, Oct. 7 (AP)—Call for a state wide conference in Waco Saturday to draft cotton acreage reduction measures for submission to the legislature was issued Wednesday from headquarters of the cotton control association.

Another echo from agitation for action leading to better cotton prices came from George B. Terrell, commissioner of agriculture, who accompanied his estimate of a crop of 4,775,000 bales in Texas this season with the prediction that at least 225,000 bales will rot in the fields.

SPEAKERS ARE DENIED USE OF CITY'S PULPITS

MOVE TERMED AS INSULT TO ORGANIZATION BY GEORGE L. BERRY

(By Associated Press) DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 7.—Considering a recommendation to answer "in a very emphatic fashion" the action of Detroit churches in withdrawing speaking invitations to labor leaders was the special order of business today in the American Federation of Labor convention.

Failure of overnight attempts to calm the rising tempest of resentment in convention circles left the discussion at the top of the convention's agenda of unfinished business and sidetracked routine matters for a possible continuation of yesterday's three-hour denunciation of the groups which had closed the city's pulpits to spokesmen of organized labor.

WRECK HOLDS UP WEDDING PARTY

Weddings, automobile wrecks and police calls were working hand in hand in Lubbock early today, but by noon all differences had been settled. The wedding took place on the scheduled hour and the blushing bride and happy groom went their way rejoicing.

Everything would have been well had it not been for the fact that the wedding was one of the early morning variety, and busy business folks had no way of knowing a bunch of cars would be parked in front of a Lubbock residence, so there was a wreck. A car bound for the downtown district took a corner just a little too quickly and one of the parked cars happened to be in its path. Result both cars wrecked—both had to be piloted to the repair shop.

Officers were notified and the young man was told to go and find the man responsible for the wreck and if possible make settlement with him. If he failed, however, he was again to report to the police station where legal aid would be given. Settlement was probably made as the young man has not returned.

Buy A Blanket For A Youngster!

The Westerners—Lubbock High school's scrappy and undefeated football team are badly in need of blankets to protect them from the cold and wet between scrimmages.

The Matadors were given blankets at the start of the season and the time has come now for Lubbock to care for its own athletes.

Members of the company, W. B. Powell and the Avalanche-Journal have already promised to buy a blanket each and S. A. Wells has promised to secure them at wholesale price—$9 per blanket. Twenty-two more blankets are needed.

Bring or mail $9 to the Avalanche-Journal, care of the Blanket Fund editor, to aid in this campaign. Show the boys you're behind them and behind Lubbock high school. Let Go! Kick In! Do It Now!

Banquet Planned For State Board Of Control Here

The Lubbock chamber of commerce will entertain members of the State Board of Control with a banquet at the new hotel on Monday night, October 11, and every man and woman in Lubbock has an invitation to be present.

Members of the board will arrive in Lubbock Sunday afternoon on an inspection tour, and will remain in the city until after the banquet Monday night. They are expected to be busy Monday with affairs concerning Tech college, for it will be remembered this board has almost unlimited authority concerning the school's finances. They are here for the purpose of learning just what the school is doing and what it needs in the way of improvements. The board will later be called upon to pass on budgets for both the college and the experiment farm.

Speeders Rally To Mandates Of Law

Maybe big fines bluffed them, and maybe they did not, but speeders were not so numerous last night and early today. One woman who saw fit to "burn the breeze" was nabbed early today, but she has not paid her fine. Officers told her she had three days in which to make up her mind to enter a plea of guilty, but if at the end of that time she had not paid off a warrant would be issued for her arrest. So far she has not made up her mind.

Two Men Killed By Explosion On Ship

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, Oct. 7 (AP)—The first mate and a sailor were killed by an explosion on the petroleum ship San Leopold which yesterday sent out a wireless distress call ninety miles off Progresso. PENNOCK HURLS SECOND WIN BY 3 TO 2 MARGIN

YANKEES RALLY IN EXTRA INNING; SHERDEL IS HARD LUCK LOSER

(By Associated Press) SPORTSMAN'S PARK, ST. LOUIS, Oct. 7.—Rallying at the close of a hard fought pitchers' battle between Sherdel and Pennock, the Yanks defeated the Cardinals 3 to 2 in ten innings in the fifth world's series game here today. The American leaguers led the score in the ninth and put over the winning run in the tenth inning.

South Paws Start SPORTSMAN'S PARK, ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 7 (AP)—An all-south paw pitching cast was named for the fifth world series game here today. Herb Pennock for the Yankees and Bill Sherdel for the Cardinals took up the left hand battle where they left it off last Saturday in New York. No changes were made by either manager in the other positions.

There was a little apprehension among the fans when the sun disappeared in a thick haze just before time for play. Gray clouds replaced the blue prevailing throughout the forenoon but there was no very distinct threat of rain.

New Record Looms The stands were filled at game time with thousands standing. The customers were making a determined drive for third attendance record in three days. Yesterday's crowd numbered 28,425 breaking the previous day's mark with predictions made that the official count today would show 40,000.

The fans looked at Ruth and held up wet fingers to get the wind direction, with an eye on the right field stands. During batting practice a blind blow toward the plate but when play was started the wind had changed and was blowing from the plate outward.

A last minute change was made in the Cardinal lineup, when it was found that Douthitt, injured in a collision with Hafey yesterday, would not be able to play. Manager Hornsby announced that Holm would play center field and bat first for the Cardinals.

First Inning, Yankees 2-1; Combs up. Strike one called Ball.

Government Aiding In Marketing Cotton

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—The government has extended a $30,000,000 credit to co-operate marketing associations for the orderly marketing of the cotton crop.

A. C. Williams, chairman of the federal farm loan board, assured the cooperative organizations in a message today that the government was willing to extend any "proper credit" for marketing the crop.

AFRAID!

Have you read the story of the tramp, bearded and unwashed, who sneaked into a warm lighted house and found himself in a pink bedroom containing a pink satin bed?

He was wet and cold and tired, and the rosy lights threw a glamour of softness over that bed that could not be resisted. He settled himself nicely in the middle of it, as was, and later when a maid ushered an expected guest into the rosy bower, he held them were greeted by thunderous snores.

He got thirty days in the workhouse and put to work making brooms. But he wagged his head and chuckled merrily as he told his interested listeners all about it. "I tells you it was worth it!" he declared.

The tramp did not know it, but he was being rather sporting. He was willing to take a chance. Not that I am recommending to the public at large to try housebreaking and the quest of pink beds. But isn't it true that we can become over-cautious—that inhibitions in us grow and grow until we are trained "out of faith, out of passion, and out of ambition?"

The "sober second thought" is always essential and seldom wrong, but it is also true that "nothing risked, nothing won."

Perhaps it is safe to travel the middle path where lights may not be particularly bright and where shadows as a consequence may not be so black, but characters are made by experience. And he who is held back constantly by a shivering caution may be missing some of the nicest things in life. The miser who fears to spend a few cents, haunted by an exaggerated dread of poverty in old age, the woman who refuses to have children lest it rob her of health or youth or freedom, the business man who fears new methods lest it upset the stability of a home-grown business.

CARDINAL BOSS SEEKS MEANS TO HALT SWAT KING

ROOTERS ACCORD BAMBINO GREAT HAND AFTER HIS SLASHING DRIVES

By BRIAN BELL

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 7. (AP)—Boards of strategy of the Cardinals today were in conference to devise way and means, if any, to curb the home run activities of George Herman Ruth. As preparations went forward for the fifth and last game of the world's series in St. Louis, the big bat of the slugging Ruth was regarded as a distinct menace to St. Louis' aspirations for the world's supremacy in baseball.

The home run situation was entirely out of control in the fourth game of the series, when Ruth three times hit for the circuit and so inspired his mates that a ten to five Yankee victory made the series all even again.

Diagnosed as Light Attack

Cardinal rooters thought that Ruth's impressive offensive yesterday could be diagnosed as only a light attack on the home team, or that portion of the St. Louis pitching staff, five in number, called to labor during the afternoon. Yankee enthusiasts insisted that it was a stroke of paralysis.

Ruth's record breaking series of long distance blows drew unstinted applause from the greatest crowd ever assembled in a St. Louis baseball park—the paid attendance being 28,825. Many of the assembly came to scoff and remained to cheer. The player with baseball's greatest punch was formally initiated into the order of razzberry before the game, but the crowd paid tribute to his greatness when he showed just how far the science of home run hitting can be developed and jeered at Hallahan when he permitted discretion to pry the better part of valor and walked the Babe on four straight balls in the eighth. The crowd which had properly reached a conclusion that ball game was lost to the Cardinals anyway since home runs, more or less, meant nothing in an affair like yesterday, seemed to hope that Ruth would give future generations something to shoot at by lifting another pitch out of the park.

Fair Weather Promised

The fifth game was promised fair weather with rising temperature. A perfect baseball day yesterday restored confidence in a weather man who had lost many friends. Timidity and plans for today's game went forward without hesitation.

Only fresh pitchers were expected to replace the overworked corps on duty yesterday. Hafey and Denton who did a tumbling act in the fourth inning, completed a recovery that was begun soon after their collision for both distinguished themselves later in the game which developed few Cardinal features. Each hit safely and Denton threw out a runner at the plate.

Penock and Sherdel Favored

For pitching choices today Manager Juggins and Hornsby were expected to turn back to the page of the score book, showing the opening game of the series when Herb Penock downed Willie Sherdel 2 to 1. There was a possibility that Hornsby at the last minute might call on Greiner, Charles Alexander, but Sherdel was regarded as the more likely nominee with Alexander, the Great, saved for service at the Yankee Stadium Saturday. Sherdel has a slow curve and one a bit slower, and while experts agreed his curves can be hit into the right field stands, such a feat is not easy. Penock is rated among the best of American league pitchers and held the Cardinals to three hits in the opening game of the world's series.

Yesterday's result drew the loudest cheers from representatives of railroads under tentative contract to transport both ball clubs and others interested in the current play back to New York, to close the baseball file for the year. Special trains were scheduled to leave immediately after today's game and due to reach New York early Friday evening.

ST. ED GRIDSTERS ENROUTE HERE

Special to Journal

AUSTIN, Oct. 7.—The St. Edward Catholic boarded the train last evening in Austin to journey northward where they will make their destination at Lubbock where they are scheduled to meet with the Texas Tech Matadors here.

According to advices received here it will be the initial contest on the Matador's new gridiron which is located on the Tech Campus. A hard fought game is expected when Coach Jack Meagher's club clashes with the "bull fighters" of the West Texas institution. One victory is attached to the Catholic record, and one defeat. The defeat was administered by the Simmons College Cowboys last weekend—the score being 7 to 0.

Their victory was won over the heavy artillery regiment of the Fort Sam Houston club.

This is Meagher's first encounter with the Tech College and very little is known of the college aggregation "way out west."

TOMMY THEVENOW

Tommy Thevenow, slightly shortstopper for the Cardinals, who has made the experts, who said he couldn't hit look like monkeys as far as the world series is concerned. The youngster, who is one of the finest fielders in the game has been banging the agile better than the Cardinal spitball and has been a bright spot in the classic play this far.

And again the odds in Wall Street switched to the Yanks 3 to 1. Old Wall Street is like the rest of us, she don't know which way to place their outfit.

The Westerners will be playing in London at the same time the Matadors are playing here on Friday afternoon. The Lamasa Tomadors are training hard and consistently for the battle with the Westerners.

Inquiries come in daily pertaining to the outcome of the world series—I wish I knew for probably I would not have to write the squibs for a living.

The cry of the entire Texas Tech student body is "beat T. C. U." and with a few more weeks of work out similar to the Matadors have gone through this week—they will be well prepared for the job.

With sharpened daggers the "bull-fighters" are ready to meet the Catholic strenuous work-outs have been given the Matadors all week. Both the defense and offense departments have been drilled thoroughly and Coaches Freedland and Higginbotham are in good spirits over the game Friday.

Better arrange to get your tickets to the Matador clash soon—they are going fast. The game starts promptly at three o'clock Friday afternoon.

One week from the game Friday the Matadors meet with the Simmons Cowboys on the Abilene gridiron, the game promises to be a real battle. It is the first time the Matadors have backed with the Cowboys.

"Beat T. C. U." is the freshman's by-word at the Tech campus. As a matter of fact the entire student body is crying it aloud—"beat T. C. U."

A special train is being promoted by the Avalanche-Journal Publications for the T. C. U. trip. It will be Tech's chance to show the Southwestern Conference that they justly deserve a berth in the conference.

The T. C. U. game will be the first contest that the Matadors have had with a Southwestern Conference club. A vast army of Tech followers should go along on the trip.

spite continued liquidation of a few specialties. Initial gains of 1 to 3 points were scored by Allied Chemical, Dupont, American Smelting, Woolworth, New York Central, Southern Railway and Baltimore and Ohio.

With the assurance of relatively easy money rates and evidence of strong support at the opening, operators for the rise pressed their advantage, causing a quick retreat of support interests who apparently had over extended their activities in the decline of the past three days.

Many of the issues which had been conspicuously weak rebounded 2 to 4 points in the early dealings, with fresh investment buying attracted by the lower price levels recently established by seasoned dividend paying stocks.

A brisk advance in the mercantile shares took place under the leadership of Woolworth, which mounted 3 points in response to announcement a million dollar gain in September sales.

NEW WITNESSES ARE CALLED IN AIMEE HEARING

(By the Associated Press)
LOS ANGELES, Calif., Oct. 7.—Efforts to obtain new evidence to aid in charging the California-Arizona trial blazed by Aimee Temple Phelps during her absence from Angeles Temple occupied District Attorney Asa Kevins as he summoned more witnesses for the recumination of the evangelist's preliminary hearing today following yesterday's recess.

Leading approval of the new state witnesses Kevins indicated a desire to recount effects of Fred Harrison a deep sea diver, to recover the evangelist's body from Santa Monica bay where she was thought to have been drowned when she disappeared May 18.

Hunt is expected to testify that he was engaged by Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, the evangelist's mother, to aid Harrison in the search for Mrs. McPherson's body, and that he was instructed to continue living after he had told his employer there was no body in the surf.

Kevins yesterday announced discovery of new evidence to prove his charge the evangelist was not kidnaped in the statement of two witnesses from Gila Bend, Ariz., who declare the evangelist passed through there in an automobile during the time she says she was held for ransom.

SAINT AND SINNER

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

CHERRY LANE, tiny, beautiful, is playing the love game with a dozen admirers, including BOB HAT AWAY, a young architect; old MR. CLUNY, her present employer; ALBERT ETTLESON, a married traveling salesman; and CHRIS WILEY, a man of bad reputation.

FAITH LANE, unselfish and womanly, is in love with Hathaway, who comes to Faith for comfort when he discovers that Chris Wiley is also making love to Cherry.

GEORGE PRUITT, rich amateur artist, proposes to Faith while the two are on a Sunday outing, but she refuses him. That evening Faith finds that Cherry has disappeared, taking most of her clothes with her. Before Faith can decide what to do, Mrs. Albert Ettleson appears, and tells the Lane family that she has reason to believe that Cherry and Ettleson have met in Darrow, fifty miles away, and are sleeping in New York.

Mrs. Lane suffers a severe heart attack and is near death. Faith summons Bob Hathaway, and he drives Faith to Darrow, breaking all speed laws, in time to board the limited to New York. A porter conducts Bob and Faith to the stateroom he thinks the runaways are occupying, and just as they reached it, Cherry's voice in a loud scream is heard.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIX

"Faith! Faith! Make him let me out!" Cherry's voice, shrill, rising on the crescendo of a scream, was muffled suddenly, as if by a hand placed over her mouth.

"Let me there, Faith!" Bob Hathaway shouldered her out of the way, and flattened his body against the door of the stateroom. "Open the door, Ettleson! Open right now! We're going to hold this train till you do! Let that girl out, or you'll wish you had!"

"Shut! I call a cop, Boss!" the frightened negro porter whispered through dark blue lips. "He may have a gun. Boss. I wouldn't monkey with him, if I was you."

"We don't need a cop," Bob Hathaway said grimly, hurling his strength against the solid, unyielding door. There was the grating, hoarse sound of a curse, then a hand fumbling at the inside of the locked door. As the lock gave, Hathaway pressed forward into the small room, his face mottled red with anger and exertion.

The tableau held for a moment—Cherry, her silk blouse torn open and half dragged from one shoulder, her topaz eyes wide with horror and fright, the knuckles of one clenched hand thrust into her distorted mouth, whose rouge was grotesquely smeared on upper lip and cheeks; her short copper-and-gold curls dragged forward across her forehead, as if brutal fingers had clutched them; her skirt twisted awry on her slender, boyish hips. And, crouching low against a berth, a big, heavy man, in a peach-colored silk shirt and white flannel trousers, a monogrammed belt buckle pressing into his soft, bulging abdomen; his straight, vaseline black hair falling in dank strings over his blood-strutted forehead; his rage-redened black eyes popping out of a fat, porcine face, his big, startlingly white teeth clamped over his lower lip; the bristles of his short black mustache standing out rigidly like the bristles of a black tooth brush. And in his rigid, out-thrust right hand a dark-blue, snub-nosed, deadly automatic.

Then Cherry, against the bitten knuckles of her hand, screamed again, and Albert Ettleson released his gnawed lower lip to growl a curse at her, without taking his blood-shot black eyes off Bob Hathaway.

"Give me that gun, you damned fool!" Bob Hathaway spat the words at him.

Faith darted under his outstretched arm, into the crowded, narrow stateroom and flattened her body against his. For she knew that she loved him enough to take gladly any bullet that Albert Ettleson, crazy with fear, might aim at him.

"Faith! Faith!" Cherry's fear-frozen body came to life, brushed against the crouching form of the man she had run away with, flung itself into Faith's arms.

"Give me that gun, Ettleson! There's not going to be any shooting built-back to round out the man you've made of things. Get out of the way, Faith—and you!" he threw the word at Cherry, as if he hated the sound of her name.

Faith leaned forward, without exposing Bob's body, although his arms were straining at her, and quite simply took the gun from Albert Ettleson's hand. She dropped it, as if it had been a vanity case, into the wide pocket of her white flannel suit.

"Get your things into your bag, Cherry, and put on your coat and hat," she said in a curiously matter-of-fact voice. "Mama's sick. She wants you to come right home. I told her you were visiting a friend over here."

"Well, what are you going to do?" Albert Ettleson rose to his full height, stiffly, as if he had been half paralyzed. His popping black eyes had not left Bob Hathaway's face. "Not a damn thing—now," Bob Hathaway said with grim regret in his even tones. "For two reasons—you've got a mighty decent wife waiting for you in the Cooper Hotel, and if I killed you—as I would thoroughly enjoy doing, you fat swine—I'd kill this girl's mother, too. But if you ever show your ugly, bloated face in this neck of the woods again, I'll damage it so your wife won't know you. And I don't mean maybe!"

"Did he hurt you, Cherry—darling, darling?" Faith's queer matter-of-factness had melted into tears, as she watched her trembling sister hide the torn, ravaged blouse under the smart little coat, and adjust the saucy little brown velvet hat to the mauled copper curls without a glance into the strip of mirror between the windows.

"No," Cherry quivered. "I didn't mean—Faith, I wasn't going to be bad; honest, I wasn't! He tricked me, Faith—" "Tricked! God, that's good!" Albert Ettleson hitched his white flannel trousers higher upon his soft, belt-dented paunch. "I'm the bird that's been tricked. I'll tell the world! Played me for a sucker, she did! Scheming little hussy! She didn't have no intention of coming clean with me—the little—"

"That'll be about enough, Ettleson!" Bob Hathaway seized one of the man's big arms and twisted it cruelly, so that Ettleson writhed with pain and spat foul curses at him.

"Well, I guess I've got a right to tell my side of the story, ain't I?" Ettleson demanded, rubbing his abused arm with a shaking, too-white, too-well-manneured hand. "I was gonna play square with her—crazy about her! Played me for a sucker, she did! Told me she'd go to New York with me—I was going to get her a chance with Feinbaum, in musical comedy. Sent her a couple hundred dollars I did, that she blew in on clothes! Played me for a grand little sucker, she did!"

"Then raised hell when she found I'd taken a drawing room. Babbed about the Mann Act! Palled the insurance-good-rip stuff on me! Touch-me and I'll scream for help!" "Faith! Make him stop!" Cherry's voice, Faith! He's lying. Faith didn't promise him anything! He—he said he was going to lend me the money for my things and for a trip to New York! I didn't agree to travel with him! I swear I didn't! Believe, Faith! Oh! Oh! I want to go home! I want Mugsy!" She flung her arms about her sister, burrowed her head, like a child, against that deep, splendid bosom.

"All right, Cherry, darling! We're going to take you home! Don't cry so, dear. Bob has his car. We're going right now."

"Oh! hold this train all day!" the conductor bawled at them from the aisle, summoned there by the fear-stricken porter. "Wanna make a charge against this man, Mister?" he urged at Bob Hathaway's elbow.

"No," Bob answered shortly. "No. Let him go. No serious damage done, thank God! Come on, Faith—and you," he scarcely glanced at Cherry. She, she picked up her heavy suitcase, and strode down the aisle with it.

ACTION OF DETROIT CHURCHES RAPPED BY LABOR

No Reason Assigned Mr. Green gave no reason for his declination, which was announced after formal notification by C. M. Vandusen, president of the board of control of the Detroit Y. M. C. A., that the board had voted Monday to withdraw the invitation extended to the labor chief to address a progressive men's rally in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium next Sunday.

Action Termined as Insult George L. Berry, president of the International Printing Pressmen's and Assistants' union of North America and former vice commander of the American Legion, defined the action of the Detroit churchmen as an insult to organized labor, and denounced the Detroit board of commerce, which he charged inspired their action, for having published a letter to ministers characterizing the labor speakers named for Sunday engagements as "men admittedly attacking our government and our American plan of employment."

"The answer to such a charge," Berry declared, "is the fact that 682,000 members of organized labor enlisted in the service of the nation in the world war.

B. C. D. To Finance Club Delegation To Dallas Meeting

At a meeting of the Board of City Development at the Chamber of Commerce rooms this morning it was decided that that organization would finance the girls and boys from Lubbock county to the State Agricultural Encampment at Dallas. This has been the custom for many years.

There will be four boys and four girls from this county who will attend. The boys are to leave next Monday in order to be present for the first session which will be held Tuesday morning, while the girls will leave one week later.

Winners were chosen during the recent South Plains fair. A committee was also appointed to work in conjunction with a committee from the Nazarene Church now arranging for entertainment of their state assembly that will open in this city on October 26. The church is asking the people of Lubbock to give free lodging to the visiting delegates (about 500 in number) though the church itself will arrange to serve them their meals in a body.

Another committee was also appointed to work with county commissioners in their effort to get a right-of-way between Lubbock and Shallowater. The road will not be materially changed, though in some instances it will be necessary to get the road widened to meet with state and federal requirements.

Pro Law System in Canada Fails, Said

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7. (AP)—The system of government control of liquor in Canada is a failure, the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church declares today in a long statement reviewing conditions in the Dominion of Canada since the end of prohibition in Quebec and other provinces.

Summarizing a survey which resulted in this conclusion, the board said government control caused increased consumption of liquor in Canada, great economic loss, increased vice and crime, corruption hitherto unknown in Canada, and an illicit trade as great as that under any prohibition law.

WATERS RECEDING OVER OKLAHOMA

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 7 (AP)—Waters from Kansas floods, rolling southward through rivers in the northeastern part of Oklahoma were the only source of flood alarm today. For the most part Oklahoma was prepared to consider the floods a closed incident—as unpleasant incident reckoned in thousands of acres of crop land laid bare, six lives lost and no end of inconvenience occasioned by hampered traffic.

Muskogee reported Grand river 25 feet above normal at Fort Gibson, flooding low lands and rising steadily. The Verdigris river went out of banks late last night east of Tulsa covering a highway near Claremore and stranding motor parties. The Arkansas river which had dropped a foot during the night at Tulsa was expected to rise two or three feet today with an excess of Kansas waters.

At Muskogee the Arkansas was near the floor of the Spaulding bridge and workmen are fending off drift wood to save it. The Washita continued out of banks, but its excess waters moved rapidly down the stream without further spreading. The North Canadian fed by the same rains last Sunday, continued swollen, but within banks.

Bud Stillman To Wed Daughter Of Canadian Farmer

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP)—Bud Stillman, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Stillman and relative of some of the most prominent families in New York, is engaged to marry the daughter of a Canadian farmer and woodsman, a girl that was once his mother's servant.

Bud is a senior at Princeton University. He says that his wedding to Lena Wilson of Grand Anse, Quebec, will take place soon after he graduates in June. They became engaged last month, just before he returned to college, he said. Miss Wilson is 18 and a blonde. Bud is just at the voting age.

The match has the approval of his family. Bud expects his mother and Miss Wilson to visit him at Princeton, N. J. Miss Wilson is to spend the winter in New York with Mrs. Stillman, getting acquainted with life in fashionable circles of the metropolis.

Girl Helped Mother

Bud met his fiancée seven years ago while she was helping on his mother's great estate at Grand Anse. It was at Grand Anse that Mrs. Stillman met Fred Beauvais, Indian guide, who was ployee of the Hudson's Bay company.

Miss Wilson is the daughter of a French Canadian mother and a Scotch father, who settled in the densely wooded section surrounding Grandmere. He was at one time an employee of the Hudson's Bay company. He died several years ago, leaving Miss Wilson, two sisters, and a brother in an unpretentious home, situated adjoining the great Stillman estate at Grand Anse. The brother, Johnnie, testified in Mrs. Stillman's behalf in the divorce suit.

Bud's reconciled father and mother shopped together for Miss Wilson's engagement ring, which is set with diamonds and emeralds.

Traffic Is Resumed On Crosbyton Road

While all repair work has not been completed officials of the Santa Fe hope to begin operating trains over the Lubbock-Crosbyton branch today. A high embankment and about one hundred feet of track were washed away Saturday and since that time it has been necessary to transfer mail and passengers at a point just west of Lorenzo.

Two team shovels have been at work and by the end of the week the work will have been completed, it is thought.

On the main lines trains are again running on schedule time as a majority of slow signals have been removed.

Reeves Takes County Exhibits To Dallas

Garnett O. Reeves, assistant manager of the Panhandle and South Plains fair and of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, is in Dallas with Lubbock county's exhibit at the State Fair of Texas, which opens for a two week's run on Saturday of this week. Lubbock county is expected to have a very good display, the exhibits having been chosen carefully.

Fatal Mistake?

NEW YORK—Lila Lee is back from abroad with a new black and gold style—one dainty slipper black, the other gold. Either that or she made a mistake in hurrying from her state room to have her picture taken.

Saint And Sinner

"What about my couple hundred bucks and this gold-digger's ticket to New York?" Albert Ettleson bawled after him, his cockiness coming back to him, now that danger had definitely passed him by.

"You go to hell!" Bob Hathaway flung over his shoulder and strode on without stopping.

"That awful man!" Cherry shuddered, when Bob Hathaway's car was again headed toward home—and safety. "Oh, Faith, darling, you and Bob came just-in-time! He was—awful! I never dreamed—I thought he was a perfect gentleman. Honest, I did, Faith! I'd have killed myself before I'd have let him—"

"Shut up!" Bob commanded her sternly.

"Bob—" Cherry began, piteously, reaching out a hand that gleamed ghost-white in the darkness. "Don't you—don't you—love me—any more?"

"Oh, for God's sake, hush!" His voice was like the lash of a whip across her face. She drew back, moaning.

"Don't be too hard on her, Bob," Faith pleaded huskily. "She's been taught a terrible lesson. I don't believe she meant any harm—really—"

"Of course you don't," Hathaway said more quietly, as if he could not bear to lay the weight of an unkind word upon the gentleness of her love for Cherry. "But Ettleson was right. That's the reason—one reason—I didn't kill him or scramble his face for him. She tricked him, planned to work him for all he was worth and keep the only coin with which she could pay him back—her virtue. What's virtue like that worth—that's been bought and paid for but not delivered? Oh, God!"

Without a word, Faith laid a hand gently on his hard-muscled right arm, felt the instant quiver of his response. If she could only cradle his head on her bosom, too—kiss the grim rigidity from his strained, hard face, cool his hot blue eyes with the soft tips of her mothering fingers. She kept her hand on his arm, as though willing that peace and healing pass from her heart to his.

Cherry sobbed herself to sleep during the last ten miles, and had to be shaken gently, like a limp child, when the car drew up at the curb before the Lane house on Myrtle street.

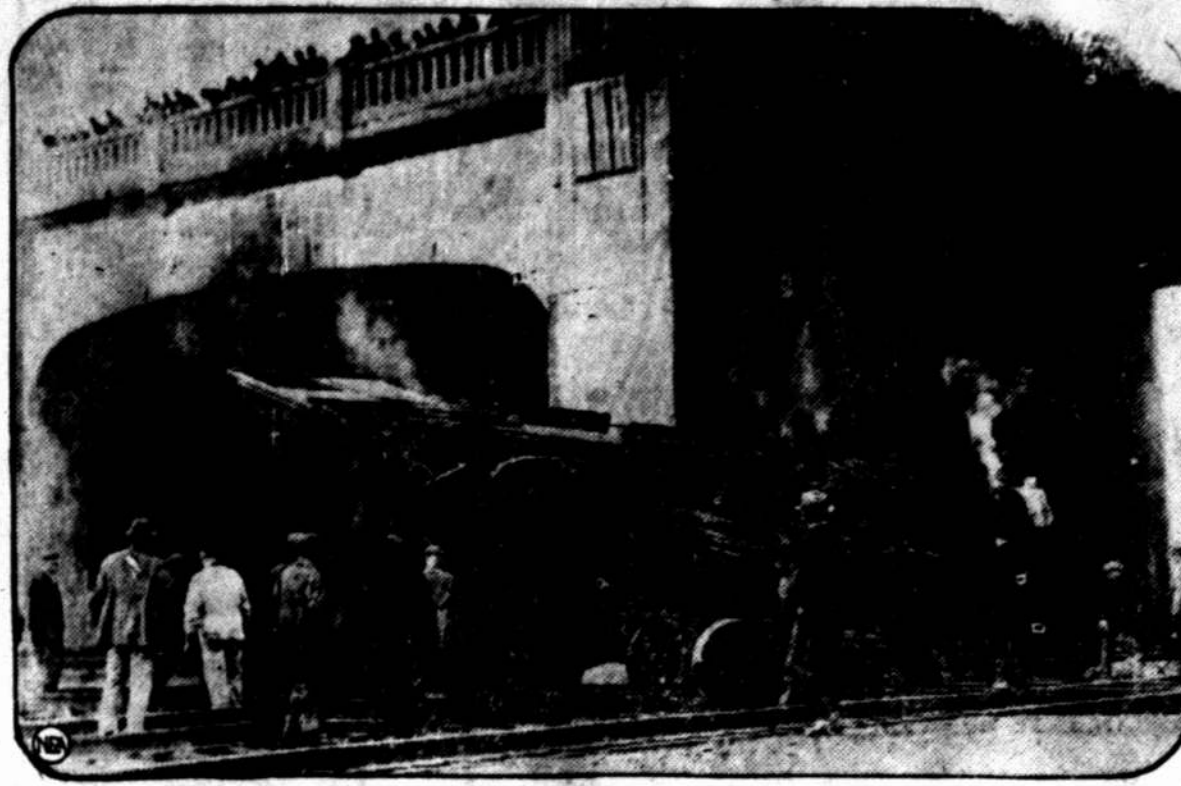

Her round, sleep-flushed face was as innocent as a baby's when she walked into her mother's room. Faith, behind her, clenched her hands with futile anger at the cooling, sweet music of her solitude as she bent over the stricken woman whose eyes blurred open suddenly, then filled with a very glory of love.

"Cherry, honey! Your Mugsy's sick! I hope I didn't spoil a good time for you—ought to have told Mugsy where you were going, honey." Mrs. Lane talking weakly, held up her heavy arms for an instant, then let them drop with a groan.

"Cherry's sorry, Mugsy! So awfully sorry! You and Dad were asleep, and I didn't want to disturb you. Bob couldn't take me out this afternoon, and Fern Boetwick drove over from Darrow and wanted me to go over to

Where Eight Died in Pennsylvania Wreck

Here is the wreckage of the locomotive of the Midknight Express of the New Jersey Central Railroad, which crashed broadside into the Lehigh

Limited of the Lehigh Valley Railroad at Bethlehem, Pa. Eight persons were killed and nearly two score injured, all of whom were in the coach struck by the New Jersey train. The engineer of the express blamed faulty signals for the tragedy.

her house for supper—I won't do it again, Mugsy! Feel better, darling—est?"

Faith could stand it no longer, ran blindly to the living room, where Hathaway was waiting to take her to the hotel where poor little Mrs. Ettleson was waiting for news.

"I can't stand it, Bob!" She flung an arm across her streaming eyes, "I'm sick of lying—for Cherry! But what can I do? Oh, Bob, what can I do?"

"Merry her off as quick as you can!" Again Bob Hathaway put his arm around her shoulders. "I believe she's engaged to me, among others."

Faith whirled out of the comforting circle of his arm and stared at him, dumb with astonishment.

It's the tobacco that makes the cigarette

THE tobacco itself is the thing. The paper is merely to hold the tobacco. That's why a cigarette made with Prince Albert is the grandest home-rolled article you ever put in your mouth. Better tobacco, better cigarettes—that's the long and the short of it.

Buy yourself a tidy red tin of good old P. A. today and roll some corking-good cigarettes. Notice how easily this tobacco rolls. Doesn't fly or flutter if you happen to breathe on it. That's because Prince Albert is crimp-cut. But this is a detail. The tobacco's the thing.

You'll roll 'em and smoke 'em, morning to midnight, with this better tobacco. You'll find them cool—refreshingly cool—and sweet. Mild, too, without sacrificing that body which experienced smokers demand. Roll them with Prince Albert. No other tobacco is like it!

If you like a pipe, try P. A. this way too. P. A. is the world's favorite smoking tobacco. That first wonderful pull on your pipe will tell you why. Never a tongue-bite. Never a throat-parch. Just cool contentment, no matter how often you load up. Get some Prince Albert.

P. A. is sold everywhere. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

MANY TAKEN FROM BESEIGED CITY

HANKOW, Oct. 7. (AP)—Rescue launches and lighters have succeeded in bringing 12,000 women and children to this city from the neighboring city of Wu Chang where Northern and Southern Chinese troops are at death grips. The rescue was effected Sunday and Monday after a previous attempt had failed when the ships were fired on and forced to return, although opposing forces had previously agreed to the rescue.

The northern troops who are holding Wu Chang against the beleaguered Cantonese have permitted the baggard and impoverished element of the civilian population to depart, holding the better classes in the city. Charitable organizations are caring for the rescuees who relate appalling stories of conditions in Wu Chang. They say the people, desperate from starvation, are eating dogs, cats and rats.
