Elliott recovering from attack

Two men were arrested and booked for attempted capital murder last Wednesday night after what investigators call an unnecessary act of violence against 97-year-old L.B. Elliott the same night.

The alleged attackers have been identified as Alfredo Diaz, Jr., 20, and John (Juan) Ybarra, 19, both Colorado City residents.

According to Colorado City Police Chief David Montgomery, on the night of March 29 Elliott made a 9-1-1 call at approximately 9:43 p.m. in reference to two men who had knocked on his front door.

"We were able to determine that shortly before Mr. Elliott made the 9-1-1 call two young Hispanic males had knocked on his front door inquiring about doing some yard work for him," Montgomery said. "When he thought they had left, he went to the back of the house and called 9-1-1 to report suspicious persons."

Montgomery said that while on the phone, the dispatcher taking the call heard Elliott cry out.

"[Elliott] was obviously being attacked by someone," he said.

Elliott was admitted to Mitchell County Hospital with serious injuries, but is currently listed in good condition.

Investigators said it appeared that Elliott had been struck in the face twice and knocked to the floor, kicked in the ribs and stomped in the upper torso area.

Officer Charles Rice, who responded to the call, said he was able to determine that the assailants had entered the residence through an unlocked back door.

Investigators searching the crime scene were also able to determine that after the attack, the suspects went into the living room, grabbed a VCR and fled, he added.

At the time of the attack Elliott's wife, Elizabeth, had already gone to bed, but awoke when she heard the disturbance.

According to Montgomery, a tip from a 13-year-old Hispanic youth helped investigators locate footprints fleeing the area.

"He had noticed two people running down an alley," he said. "When he saw the police lights, he put two and two together, went to the scene and waited until an officer could talk to him."

Investigators were able to trace the footprints to the home of the sister of one of the suspects.

"Contact was made with the sister and the VCR was recovered the same night," Montgomery said.

He added that during this time period, the suspects had already been picked up and charged with public intoxication and minor in possession.

"A description had been broadcast and shortly after, Deputy Sheriff Mike Redwine stopped our suspects and took them into custody," he said.

Although District Attorney Frank Conard will not be pursuing the attempted murder charges, he will pursue charges of burglary of a

Colorado City is officially The Heart of West Texas

Colorado City received official recognition as "The Heart of West Texas" when a resolution calling for the designation was approved by the state legislature Wednesday morning in Austin.

Representatives from the Chamber of Commerce and Colorado City citizens were in attendance to hear the reading of the resolution.

The public is invited to an open house at the Chamber Thursday from 2-4 p.m. to celebrate the resolution. Refreshments will be served.

The idea had originated in 1993, when the chamber pursued the idea of getting Colorado City designated the "Antique Capitol of West Texas." However, during the 1993 legislative session Baird was officially recognized with the honor and local chamber officials began looking for another title.

Because Colorado City already had named its museum The Heart of West Texas Museum, the chamber felt it would be appropriate to seek such designation.

The proposal was submitted to the local office of State Representative Rob Junell and then forwarded to Junell's Austin office to be put into the form of a resolution.

Former Colorado City resident Preston Burchard, who was instrumental in naming the museum, said the reason behind the name is that Colorado City is located near the geographic center of West Texas.

Since then, billboards have been set up along Interstate 20 referring to Colorado City as "The Heart of

Tornado safety practices offered

Recent rainfall and tornado watches are reminders that the season for severe weather is upon us in Mitchell County.

When severe weather threatens our area members of the Colorado City, Loraine and Westbrook Volunteer Fire Departments, Mitchell County Sheriff's Office and the Department of Public Safety are called out as Weather Watchers.

When a tornado is sighted moving in a direction that would endanger residents, the local warning system is activated.

According to Colorado City Police Lieutenant Pat Taylor, the warning system includes sirens located at the corners of Third and Oak Streets and 18th and Hickory Streets. Tele-Media Cable and KVMC/KAUM radio will also give warnings, he added.

Taylor reminds everyone that the signal for an approaching tornado is 12 short blasts of the sirens. An all clear signal of six short blasts will be given once the danger has passed.

The signal for violent weather in the cities of Loraine and Westbrook is a continuous blast of the siren.

Safety and law enforcement officials recommend that every family have a plan of action in case a tornado or other threatening weather approaches.

It is suggested that you have a NOAA weather radio with a warning alarm tone and battery backup to receive warnings. If you do not

Holy Week services to be held

Services will begin each day at noon and end at 12:30 p.m., followed by a meal. A meal will also be offered at 11:30 a.m. before the service.

An offering will also be received at each service. According to Ted Spear of the First Baptist Church, the monies will be used to assist needy persons in Mitchell County.

Father Ray Wilhelm of St. Ann's Catholic Church will deliver Monday's message; Bentley Gwen of Oak Street Baptist Church will give Tuesday's message; Kevin Anderson of First Christian Church will deliver Wednesday's message; Howard Quiett of First Methodist Church will give Thursday's message; and Friday's message will be given by Sammy Contreras of Emmanuel Baptist Church.

Everyone is invited to attend the Holy Week Services next week. If you can not attend, services will be broadcast on cable channel 6.

Hospital board position open

Anyone interested in filing for a position on the Mitchell County Hospital District Board of Directors may pick up a petition at the hospital administrator's office between March 31 and April 11.

The petition must have 25 signatures in order for the applicant to be placed on the May 6 ballot.

Those positions up for election are currently being held by Marion Bassham, Kenneth Rogers, Robert Hoback and Kent Boyd.

Six persons have already picked up petitions for the four available seats.

Bassham, the hospital board's chairwoman, recently announced that although she had wanted to run for another term, she would not do so because she did not believe she would be able to meet the responsibilities of the position.

Early voting for local city council and school board positions will begin April 17 and run through May 2. Voting day will be Saturday, May 6.

Prison smoking ban creates tension

According to Wallace Unit insiders, the only thing the statewide Texas Department of Criminal Justice smoking ban has accomplished is the creation of additional tension among inmates as well as correctional officers.

The legislation went into effect March 1 and was designed to ease state spending, Assistant Warden Jackie Edwards said. It affects both inmates and correctional officers alike, banning them from smoking on state property.

"The state wants to save taxpayers money," he said. "A lot of [inmate health expenditures] are spent on people with tobacco related illnesses."

He added that providing health care for inmates with tobacco related problems is costly to the state. By eliminating tobacco, the state hopes to ease that particular cost, he said.

One Wallace Unit inmate, a non-smoker, said because he is a non-smoker he has neutral feelings concerning the ban.

"I know a lot of people are mad about it," he said. "It's just not the inmates–the correctional officers don't like it either."

He added that he was aware of one incident where a correctional officer was written up for smoking on state property.

Several other Wallace Unit inmates, smokers, said they believed the legislation was unfair and contributed to additional stress inside prison walls.

A correctional officer from the unit said he agreed with the inmates.

"I think [the state] is getting off into something that is none of their business," he said. "However, if it's on state property they can control it any way they want to."

The officer added that the tension among inmates inside the unit has increased since the ban.

"It's not a good situation," he said. "The stress between the inmates and officers has definitely gone up."

One inmate added that he believed that at least one fight a day occurs because of the tobacco ban.

"It's done more harm than good," he said.

In spite of these arguments, Assist. Warden Edwards said he felt

COOK'S CORNER

When I asked Laurie Lowrance to participate in this week's Cook's Corner she told me I should interview Donny—so that's what I did. Laurie helped, too, but Donny seems to do all the cooking at their house now that Laurie's new job as Healthstyles coordinator keeps her busy during the evening hours.

Donny has a relatively new job, too, as auto mechanics instructor for Windham School at the Wallace Unit, TDCJ. It's just that he gets off work at 1:00 p.m., leaving plenty of time for him to cook dinner for Laurie and their two children, Bradley and Katlyn.

Donny & Laurie Lowrance

Donny says he is still learning to cook, since this is a new duty for him. I guess Laurie is his instructor, but sometimes instructors even make a mess. One case in point—Donny was baking a cake one day when Laurie came in from work. He had forgotten to set the timer, so he asked Laurie if the cake looked done and she said yes. He took the cake out of the oven, went to the living room, came back into the kitchen and his cake was FLAT! Needless to say, he wasn't too happy with his "instructor."

Donny has only made steak fingers one time since he started cooking and he says he will never do that again. "It makes such a mess, it isn't worth the time and trouble to chicken fry anything. I'll never do that again," he told me.

Laurie learned to cook around the age of ten. She remembers her mother teaching her to make cakes with powdered eggs she got from her grandmother. She must have learned well—she is the winner of two Bake-offs. She won two years in a row, first for German Chocolate Cake and then for Italian Cream Cake.

The recipe for Donny's Enchiladas below came out of necessity because he doesn't like Laurie's. She dips her corn tortillas in boiling water instead of hot oil to soften them to cut down on the fat in the recipe. He said the last time she made them, he threw them out and told her he and his brother ate them. He didn't tell her the truth for a couple of years. Now that he is cooking, he came up with the recipe that the kids really like because it is not too spicy.

Here are Donny's and Laurie's recipes plus a kitchen tip Donny has figured out since he became the cook at the Lowrance household.

DONNY'S ENCHILADAS

1 1/2 lbs. ground meat
1 large can Wolf Brand chili
1 cup grated Velveeta cheese
Black pepper to taste
1 pkg. corn tortillas
Hot oil

Brown meat with pepper. Add chili, let simmer. While simmering, heat oil in separate skillet, dip tortillas in hot oil for 5-6 seconds (or until it burns your fingers, Donny says). Fill tortillas with chili mixture and cheese. Place in oven proof pan, seam side down. Cover with foil. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes or until bubbly. Kids will love these!

LAURIE'S COWBOY STEW

1 pkg. stew meat
1 pkg. dry onion soup mix
1 can cream of mushroom soup
2 cans water
2 tsp. garlic powder
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. black pepper
4 large potatoes, cubed
3 carrots, peeled and sliced

Brown meat in oil. Put all ingredients in crockpot. Cook on low heat for seven hours. Enjoy!

BROWNIES

2 cups sugar
1 1/4 cup butter
3/4 cup cocoa
4 eggs
1 1/2 tsp vanilla
1/2 tsp. salt
1 1/2 cup flour

Cream butter, sugar and cocoa. Add vanilla. Add eggs one at a time. Add flour. Mix well. Pour into pan. Bake 35 minutes at 350 degrees. Cool 10 minutes before cooking, then dig in!

DONNY'S TIP: Hold your cheese grater under hot water before grating cheese, it will work better.

Raff offers tips on lawn care, insects

By Joe Raff, CEA-AC

Flowers are starting to bloom, grass is starting to green, that means summer is coming soon and I anticipate more phone calls about yards and bugs this spring.

The most common call I received last year was on lawns and yards and what type of fertilizers to use. Well, this is a tough question to answer because the type of fertilizer you use in your yard should be dictated by your soil needs. And the only way you really know what your soil needs are is by a soil test.

I have a boxful of soil bags in the office that anyone can pick up to find out more about their soil. These packets are the same for lawns, fields or whatever you may have.

It costs $10 to find out everything you need to know about your soil, and it will also give you recommendations on what type of fertilizers you need to use. The $10 you spend on your soil test could save you $50-$100 on overfertilizing or using the wrong fertilizer.

The other most common call was on house insects. This is another tough one because (like myself) everyone needs fast, lasting results. Unfortunately, there is not a magical spray, dust or anything else that can deter insects from getting into your home.

The best way to combat these insects is to start before you see them. It's best to contact a reputable pest control company to spray your house now and maybe one more time two or three months later. Be sure to ask them if they belong to the Texas Pest Control Association; that's an indication that the company has a commitment to professionalism and ongoing training.

Best of luck this spring and summer!!!

Susan Everman women meet

Margaret Bourne hosted the Susan Everman Baptist Women's Group of the First Baptist Church in her home on Monday, March 10. The meeting was for the annual Home Mission Study and prayer emphasis for the Annie Armstrong Home Mission offering.

In a video presentation, the group met various home missionaries serving in different ministries in various parts of the world. Jim Henry, president of the Southern Baptist Convention, introduced the study.

First was "Dub" Bryant and Bruce Carman, who are in northwestern Montana, where the outdoor beauty and sporting activities take precedence over other concerns of their lives. Ramon and Idelesia Aleman serve the workers in the oil patch, wheat and cotton fields of Oklahoma.

Richard Harris in West Virginia has a successful truck stop ministry and has a growing ministry reaching the many people who work at the race track. Bill and Lorna Sims in California are evangelism consultants. They and pastor Dan Coker plan activities outside the church, taking the message to where the people are.

Lee and Bonnie McClanahan, Mission Service Corps volunteers, have built 45 churches with the aid of other volunteers. Ken and Belva Wethersby in Memphis, Tenn., are African-American church starters and work with all groups through the Shelby Baptist Association.

Charles and Laura Lee Chamblee in Franklin, Mass. had their small but rapidly growing church blessed by the gift of a lovely church building from the Franklin Gospel Mission, an older independent congregation that was disbanding.

Charles and Daisy Joiner, Director of Missions in Seattle, Wash., have 14 churches in their association. Since it is a pioneer area they use many volunteers, especially in summer for Vacation Bible School and Backyard Bible Studies. Among them, is Debbie Miller, a college student who gives her summer vacation to this ministry.

Esther Burroughs, prayer coordinator for the SBC, closed the presentation with an encouraging challenge to meet the Annie Armstrong Offering goal.

Virginia Dearen conducted the calendar of prayer for missionaries with birthdays on this day.

Members present were Jean Edwards, Doris Carter, Frances Cooper, Billie Margaret Harrison, Jean Hardee, Betsy Aycock, Virginia Dearen, Earline Sellier and Catharine Morris.

By SHEILA PLAGENS

A 97-year-old man gets attacked by two young men—how many of you would say "never in Colorado City"? It did happen here—to L.B Elliott. Thankfully, he had already called the police to report some suspicious behavior, so they got to his home quickly. Elliot credits 911 with saving his life.

As of Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Elliott was still recovering at Mitchell County Hospital. Get well soon, Mr. Elliott!

Our congratulations to State Rep. Rob Junell. Junell recently received the 1994 Citizen of the Year Award given by the San Angelo Chamber of Commerce. The folks in Mitchell County have received our share of Rep. Junell's good works in Austin and it was no surprise to us! I'm glad San Angelo finally woke up and realized the excellent representative we all have in Junell.

Truman and Margaret Bodine

Bodines to begin missionary work

Truman and Margaret Bodine of Colorado City will be commissioned as missionaries during the evening service Sunday, April 9 at First Baptist Church, Colorado City. Sam Pearis, director of Mission Service Corps for the Baptist General Convention of Texas, will be the guest speaker. A reception will follow.

The Bodines have recently been appointed as Mission Service Corps Consultants, a position sponsored jointly by the Baptist General Convention of Texas and the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention.

In this role, they will assist approximately 165 churches in eight associations throughout West Texas in enlisting and training volunteer workers for a variety of ministry opportunities.

The Mission Service Corps began as a result of a challenge from President Jimmy Carter to the Southern Baptist Convention in 1977. Since its inception there have been over 9,000 volunteers assigned to mission opportunities across the United States and around the world. Well over half of the volunteers have been Texans. There are over 2,000 volunteers currently serving.

A variety of homestead exemptions could lower your property taxes!

A homestead exemption lowers the property taxes on your home by lowering its taxable value. If your home is valued at $50,000 and you receive a $5,000 homestead exemption, your home will be taxed as if it were worth $45,000.

Who qualifies for an exemption?

Anyone who owned a home on January 1st (and used it as their primary residence on that date) is entitled to a $5,000 homestead exemption to lower their school taxes this year ... and it doesn't matter if your home is a house, condominium or mobile home. (Counties, cities and special taxing districts may also offer homestead exemption.)

Are other exemptions available?

If you're disabled—or if you're 65 years old or older—you are entitled to an additional $10,000 school tax exemption on your home. And if you qualify for the over-65 exemption, you're also entitled to a permanent, locked-in "ceiling" on the school property taxes on your home. (The ceiling does not apply to county or city property taxes, and those entities may offer other exemptions.)

Do I have to apply each year?

No. If you had a homestead exemption on your home in 1994, you won't need to reapply for 1995 unless your chief appraiser requires it. However, if you haven't received an exemption on your present home—or if you've moved to a new home, you'll need to file for an exemption for 1995. And if you turned 65 or became disabled during 1994, you need to file for the additional exemption.

When and where should I file?

File applications by May 1 at your appraisal district office. If you need more time, contact us at:

Protect your rights! "Render" your taxable Property by April 14th.

A "rendition" is a report to the appraisal district that lists all the taxable property you owned or controlled on January 1st of this year. The rendition form is available at your local appraisal district office...or you may draft a similar form.

Who must file a rendition?

You must file a rendition if you own tangible personal property that is used to produce income—such as the inventory and equipment used by a business.

Are than any advantages to you?

The advantages of filing a rendition are:

You give your opinion of your property's value. If the appraisal district believes the value is higher, it must notify you in writing of the higher value and explain how you can protest that value to the appraisal review board.

You record your correct mailing address so your tax bills will go to the right address. If your bill is mailed to the wrong address, the law still holds you responsible for paying your taxes on time or paying extra charges for late payments.

You can also file a "report of decreased value" to notify the appraisal district of significant depreciation of the value of your property in 1994. The district will look at your property before assigning a value in 1995.

What's the deadline?

The last day for filing or postmarking 1995 renditions is Friday, April 14. You can get an extra 15 days if you ask for it in writing by the April 14 deadline.

Where do you file?

File renditions with your local appraisal district as:

Local woman's trip to India fulfills lifelong dream

DOLLY RAMIREZ with her husband, Ricardo and daughter, Ava. The ladies are wearing outfits that were worn to a wedding reception in India. Dolly says the women in India dress beautifully all the time.

By Susan Dunn

"For years I've been reading, devouring everything of the East; life wouldn't be very interesting if you didn't try new things," Dolly Ramirez said when asked why she was interested in spending a month in India.

From childhood, Dolly has always been eager to learn about other cultures and studied languages in college. She was one of a team of five West Texans sponsored by Rotary Interhational to travel to northwest India this past February. A native Pennsylvanian, she gradually migrated south and has lived in Colorado City for 12 years.

Her trip came about when, after reading a new book about India from the Mitchell County Library, she noticed an article in the Record about Rotary International's tour. At first she said, "They wouldn't take me!" She showed the article and book to her family and a friend, however, and they said, "Why not." The result is an adventure Dolly treasures.

The group's travels took them through the northern part of India, where the terrain is flat and green and the people are relatively affluent. Monsoon season was months away and it only rained twice.

They traveled through the Punjab state, worked their way south to Delhi and Agra to visit the Taj Mahal and had visited 16 towns by their 21st day. The hospitality, warmth and friendliness of the Indian people made an immediate impression on Dolly. As a gesture of welcome, the group was presented with garlands of marigolds everywhere they went.

Dolly stayed with well-to-do families throughout her tour. She says the wealthy have gardens, water filter systems and servants to do nearly everything. Although the lower class has officially been abolished, it still exists in reality and intermingling among the classes is frowned upon.

The lowest class is responsible for menial work such as sweeping streets while the upper class consists of executives, mill and mine owners and engineers, among other white collar professionals. Dolly had to explain her Pizza Hut job of eight years to people as "socially interacting with customers," among other services, as no such job exists for the middle class in India.

Life in India revolves around marriages and Dolly had the good fortune to attend several wedding receptions. Families are highly valued in India. There is no divorce in small villages; there is some, however, in the bigger cities due perhaps to western influence.

Upper and middle class Indian women are esteemed, educated and often artistic. Although arranged marriages are based on financial and educational background as well as physical beauty, in modern India potential mates have the right to veto the match.

Upper class women are expected to cook and raise the children but servants do all the other chores. Dolly says that gray hair is "not esteemed," as people have something akin to "a mother-in-law complex." Upon marriage, a woman takes up residence with her husband's family and, among the women at least, her mother-in-law rules the roost.

Dolly says the young people were so respectful and obedient to their parents that she was "in awe" of them. She says there is probably some delinquency in the lower classes but none is evident in the upper classes, though those children "might be spoiled."

Jewelry for Indian women is considered a necessity and Dolly was often asked why American women do not have much gold jewelry. Dolly estimates that each upper class woman owns $500-$1,000 worth of 22 carat gold and that it is also usual for the middle and lower classes to wear it. Indian women also wear beautifully embroidered and beaded clothes, even for doing everyday tasks, Dolly says.

Dolly has long been interested in the religions of various cultures. While in India she had the opportunity to visit gurdwaras, where the Sikhs worship, and temples, including the Golden Temple in Amitsar, where the Hindus worship

The Rotary Club in India is very different from that in America, or the perception of it is, according to Dolly. Everyone in India knows what the Rotary Club is, for a start, and nearly everyone wants to be a Rotarian, partly because membership includes political pull. Future Rotarians are active in Rotaract and women participate in Inner Wheel.

India's Rotary Club gives wheelchair-tricycles to crippled adults and prostheses and shoes with lifts to crippled children. They have eye camps where cataract and other eye operations are performed and they give away hearing aids to the hearing impaired and sewing machines to widows who need to earn their livelihood.

In America, many people are not as aware of the Rotary Club as a community service organization that stands for the promotion of worldwide cultural understanding and friendship. Dolly plans to take the story of her trip to schools next year so that young children have the opportunity to think about visiting other countries someday.

As for her impression upon arriving home, Dolly says, "You can't say just one thing about India." She is appreciative of the opportunity Rotary International gave her to experience a country of such diverse cultures and landscapes and one well worth visiting.

CCPD looking for three new officers

According to Police Chief David Montgomery the Colorado City Police Department hopes to have three new officers on board by May 1.

Montgomery has narrowed 35 applications down to 12 and is currently running a background check on each candidate before beginning the actual interview process, he said.

"We hope to conduct the psychological testing with the initial interview," Montgomery said. "The results will narrow the candidates down to four or five for the final interview."

He added that psychological testing is a requirement for all officers before they become employed.

Earlier this year, Colorado City was one of thousands of communities across the U.S. to be awarded federal grant monies from the COPS FAST program. The grant is part of a nationwide crime bill signed into law last September by the president.

The monies, totaling $57,498 for Colorado City, have been earmarked to help provide for one additional officer.

The police department will also be hiring two other officers to replace Brian Martinez, who resigned in February amid allegations of misconduct, and Kevin Frizzell, who resigned to take a position with the Mitchell County Sheriff's Department.

According to Montgomery, applicants are being carefully screened in an effort to find the best qualified police officers.

"We're looking for persons with experience, who can present themselves well and their level of community involvement," he said. "Basically, we will be trying to evaluate the applicants' ability to fit in and be a part of the community."

Montgomery emphasized the importance of finding officers who will work well within the community.

"We are a community oriented department and do a lot more on and off duty within the community than traditional police work," he said. "We are looking for officers that are of the same inclination."

habitation and aggravated robbery.

Conard said although attempted murder sounds like a more serious charge, it it only a second degree felony, carrying a maximum of 20 years in prison.

"The charges of burglary of a habitat and aggravated robbery are more serious charges and carry a maximum sentence of 99 years to life," he said.

He added that it was his intent to file charges for the offense committed and felt strongly that evidence supports the charges filed.

The case will be presented at the Mitchell County Grand Jury on April 20 when the suspects will either enter a plea of guilty to some sort of plea bargain or a decision will be made to move toward a jury trial.

"Because of the serious nature of the case, the punishment will be serious whether [the suspects] plea bargain or not," Conard said.

Elliott has lived in Colorado City since the 1920s and is the only living charter member of the Colorado City Noon Lions Club.

"Mr. Elliott is well known and well respected by everyone in the community," Montgomery said. "We are at a loss for words to express our sympathy."

Montgomery added that the incident will be "vigorously investigated by the department and aggressively prosecuted by the District Attorney's office."

TORNADO

have a weather radio you should listen to the radio and television for the latest information.

If a warning is issued you should move into a pre-designated shelter such as a storm cellar or basement.

There are several public storm shelters available, including the basements at Colorado City Hall, Colorado City Fire Department, Mitchell County Courthouse and the First Methodist Church.

If you are unable to reach a storm cellar, basement or public shelter you should go inside a small room toward the center of the house. Closets and bathrooms may also offer adequate shelter. Use a mattress or heavy quilts to protect yourself from flying glass and debris.

It is possible that a tornado may develop before advance warning can be given so always remain alert for signs of an approaching storm.

What forms a tornado? Tornadoes are often caused when thunderstorms develop in warm, moist air in advance of eastward moving cold fronts. These thunderstorms are capable of producing large hail, strong wind and tornadoes.

Tornadoes in the winter and early spring are often associated with strong frontal systems that form in the central states and move east.

In the spring, thunderstorms develop along a "dryline" which separates warm, moist air to the east from hot, dry air to the west. Tornado-producing thunderstorms may form as the dryline moves east during the afternoon hours.

BAN

inmates were handling the ban well.

"We've gotten no reports that they're not adjusting well," he said. "I don't believe the behavior has increased in a negative manner."

He added, however, that he expected the inmates to experience the stress of trying to eliminate an addiction.

"When people are trying to quit an addiction there are certain mental and physical things that they go through," he said. "They've been handling it well so far."

The inmates argue that they feel the decision to use tobacco should be theirs to make.

"I don't think they should tell a grown man whether he can smoke or not," one inmate said. "If they can ban smoking because of second hand smoke, then what's the problem with smokeless tobacco?"

Another inmate agreed and said he felt strongly that the second hand smoke argument may or may not have been valid, but TDCJ could have found a simple solution to the problem.

"Instead of cutting tobacco out altogether TDCJ could have designated an outside smoking area for those who smoke," he said.

The consensus among the inmates is that the state's argument that the ban was an effort to cut back spending on tobacco related health problems is false.

"I don't think it's true because 90 percent of the guys I know complain of hurt backs or hurt legs and these are health problems that have nothing to do with smoking," one inmate stated.

For now, regardless of how the inmates or TDCJ employees feel, the legislation will continue to be enforced, the correctional officer said.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

Mrs. Hammond is right. My previous letter was colored by my past experiences—not knowledge of the specific situation in Colorado City.

I have no reason to doubt that the majority of students in Colorado City are responsible and are learning to become self-disciplined. This is extremely refreshing in this day and time and I congratulate the parents and churches and teachers of Colorado City.

However, negative outside influences do exits. "Forewarned is forearmed."

Perhaps since the equipment has been purchased and installed, and assuming that the students are concerned or offended by its presence, it could just be turned off until an egregious act of vandalism or violence or drug dealing necessitates that it be reactivated?

But then that is up to the school administration, not to Mrs. Hammond or me.

I absolutely agree that the purpose of our schools is the education of our children; it is not behavior modification. Establishing and reinforcing morality and acceptable behavior is (or should be) the purview of our homes and churches. And that distinction apparently is clear here in Colorado City. How wonderful.

Cotton marketing workshop set

The Texas A&M Agricultural Extension Service will present an intermediate cotton marketing workshop on April 6 from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center in Lubbock.

The workshop is designed to help farmers evaluate alternative pricing strategies for their 1995 crop and it is also for those with some experience with futures and options.

Dr. Carl Anderson, extension economist and professor of agricultural economics at Texas A&M, will provide an in-depth analysis of the 1994-95 crop as well as a look at how the 1995-96 crop could develop.

Dr. Jackie Smith, extension economist and marketing specialist at the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, will present a review of options including a simple computer program to estimate theoretical premiums. The stand-alone program will run on any IBM compatible computer and will be provided to all participants.

Participants may pay the registration fee of $20 at the door. Couples may attend and pay only one registration fee.

SUE SEWELL PRESENTED BOB REILY with the Outstanding Community Education Instructor award last Friday at the Wallace Center. Mr. Reily was recognized by the Texas Community Education Association for his work as a GED instructor.

April is National Child Abuse Awareness month

April has been designated National Child Abuse Awareness Month and in an effort to help Mitchell County residents become more aware of the problem, the Mitchell County Child Welfare Board has planned television advertisements, radio interviews and programs for civic organizations.

Jim Bonds, a member of the Child Welfare Board and employee of the Texas Department of Protective and Regulatory Services, said his office receives hundreds of calls about possible abuse situations in the county each year. However, the number of cases actually investigated by his office is smaller.

"We actually have 45 to 50 assignments per year," he said.

According to Bonds, child abuse is not limited to a particular socio-economic group.

"Ethnicity is not a factor; race is not a factor; poverty is not a factor," he said. "It ranges from the most unfortunate individuals to the most respected people in the community."

Abuse is separated into seven different categories. They are physical abuse, emotional abuse, sexual abuse, abandonment of a child, medical neglect, neglectful supervision, physical neglect and refusal to accept parental responsibility.

Bonds said sometimes people are not aware that they are abusers.

"If they knew they were abusers I don't know if they would continue doing it or not," he said.

Mitchell County has an active Child Welfare Board whose function is to promote child abuse awareness and provide financial assistance to children in foster care.

Pickup drawing to be held on July 1

In conjunction with its plans for the High Plains Junior Rodeo, the Colorado City Police Department's Drug and Alcohol Resistance Education program will hold its drawing for a 1995 Ford pickup on July 1, the rodeo's last night of events.

According to Chief David Montgomery, the fundraiser is "within 100 of the break even point" and ticket sales have slowed down over the past few weeks.

He added that the program hopes to actively promote the drawing until right before the Lonewolf Bluegrass Festival.

"It is our intention to get to that break even point and then go into the bluegrass festival aggressively promoting the sales," he said.

The DARE program will also be accepting donations of $20 each up until two weeks before the drawing. At that time 15 semi-finalists will be drawn.

One week before the final drawing, five individuals will be drawn from the semi-finalists. These finalists will be invited to the rodeo on July 1, where they will be awarded DARE jackets and the final winner will be drawn.

The rodeo, which is co-sponsored by DARE and the Chamber of Commerce, will also act as a fundraiser for the program. It is scheduled for June 30–July 1.

Monies from the donations help purchase supplies for the students involved with the program.

Tickets can be purchased at the police department, the Chamber of Commerce, The City National Bank, the credit union, Woods Boots and the Rainstick.

Propazine exemption okayed by EPA

Texas Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry recently announced the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's approval of a specific exemption request from the Texas Department of Agriculture which would allow farmers to use propazine to control weeds on fields planted with grain sorghum.

The exemption became effective March 3 and expires August 1.

According to Mitchell County Agent Joe Raff, the treatment has been approved for statewide use. However, because Mitchell and Runnels counties are homes to an endangered flower additional application restrictions apply to farmers in both counties, he added.

The flower is called the Texas Poppy Mallow, Raff said. This purple flower can be found only in Mitchell and Runnels counties.

Propazine is found in Milo-Pro 4L Herbicide. Before applying the herbicide, farmers are asked to contact the local county extension agents or dealers for information on proper application methods or restrictions.

According to TDA estimates, without the use of propazine the state's sorghum crop could face an estimated loss of $50 million.

By BESSIE ANN VAUGHN

Good day to you. Have your mind and body gotten used to the time change yet?

The consensus around town seems to be, "Don't fool with Mother Nature."

Iva Armstrong says she doesn't like Daylight Savings Time changes, and that all day last Sunday she was pooped.

Juanice Butler said she was still tired from losing the hour and felt like she might have a "hangover."

Margaret Brame reported that she didn't like the change either but in time would get used to it.

Wayne and Lynetta Dubose said thumbs down to the change, but their children, working different jobs, loved it.

Other young people still in the work force like it.

In short, it appears that retirees don't care much for the change, while the younger folks like it a lot.

We will all get adjusted before it's time to spring forward once again.

Lorainians are proud of Michi Atkins, who continues to do wonders for ladies' college basketball.

Michi, a 6'1" junior post player, has led the Texas Tech Lady Raiders to where they are getting mentally tougher as their confidence grows.

Tech coach Marsha Sharp said, "Atkins' emergence to become consensus Southwest Conference Player of the Year and a District VI candidate for Kodak All America has been something special to watch."

Washington coach Chris Gobrecht thinks, "Michi Atkins is going to be one of the premier players in the country next year."

Whether Michi goes on to higher accomplishments in the year ahead remains to be seen. We in Loraine are proud of her accomplishments today and are behind her in whatever she chooses to do in the future.

Way to go, Michi!!!

The Spotlight

This week the spotlight shines on the First State Bank–Loraine, Texas, established 1908 with Mr. S.E. Brown as first president, 1908-1925.

The first bank building was built low on the ground and when big rains came, with water running down the hill, it would flood the building. A new building was built high enough off the ground in 1919 that flood waters were diverted and no longer a problem, and it still stands today.

At one time, the little room at the back was used by cotton buyers and later as a tax office. The interior of the bank has been remodeled several times.

Mr. T.J. Coffee was elected president on May 5, 1925 and C.C. Lasky was elected president on January 10, 1928. (Mr. Lasky purchased bad loans in order for the bank to have capital required to operate.)

J.C. Hall was elected president in 1935 and K.L. Taylor was elected president in 1949, serving until his death in October 1963.

Herbert Mearse became president on January 7, 1964. Mr. Mearse sold the bank to Melvin Booth, Michael J. Vaughn and Robert Sullivan, with these men taking over management on April 1, 1974 and appointed R.B. Bruce as president.

Booth, Vaughn and Sullivan sold the bank to A.C. Humphrey of Stamford. Texas in January 1977. Humphrey, having controlling interest, was elected chairman of the board of directors. Bruce remained president until October 1991.

S.H. Hart was elected president and CEO under Mr. Humphrey on November 4, 1991.

The First State Bank of Loraine merged with Coahoma State Bank in September 1, 1993.

From the old Boston ledger stand-up posting machines to modern day computers, the bank has always stayed up with the times and remains in service today.

There is not enough space to list all the Loraine citizens that have been employed at the bank over the years.

A former ration accounts employee remembers that during the war the bank bought government cotton and savings bonds, along with all the other accounts. A bank examiner came to check the ration accounts; almost all the merchants' accounts were overdrawn and their stamps were not posted in their ration books.

The employee had to gather loose stamps from all the merchants, put them in a brown paper sack and when the chore was over and done with, the rationing accounts of sugar, gasoline and shoe stamps were never overdrawn again. The employee learned well and was later promoted to teller.

Over the many years that the bank has been in business, the merchants, Loraine school and residents in majority have kept their accounts with the bank.

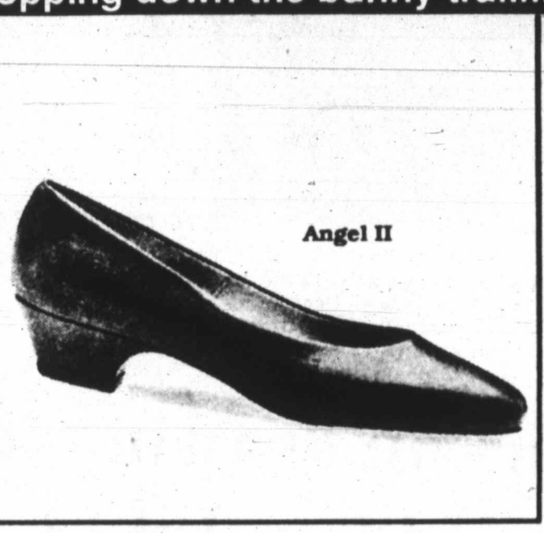

The school did make a change in 1991 and moved their account to Colorado City.

The First State Bank of Loraine is still pleased to serve you.

Tornado Safety

Surviving Nature's Most Violent Storms

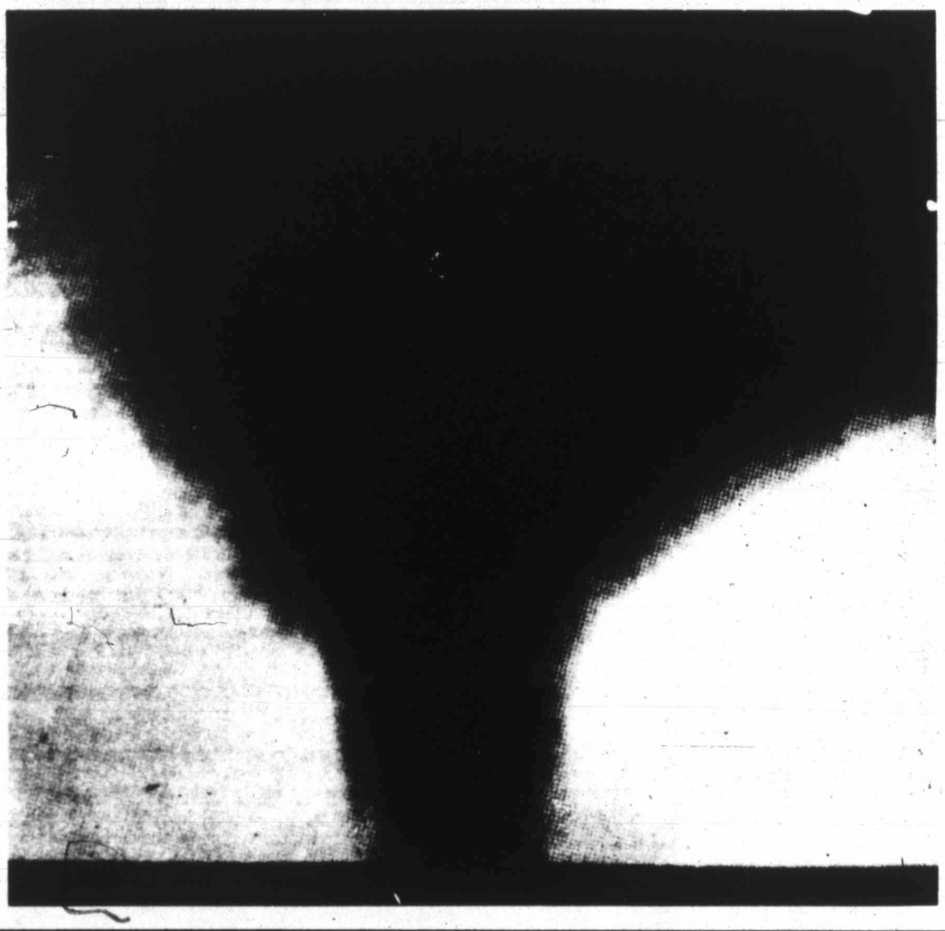

WHEN A TORNADO THREATENS, YOUR IMMEDIATE ACTION CAN SAVE YOUR LIFE!

* Stay away from windows, doors and outside walls. Protect your head.
* In homes and small buildings, go to the basement or to an interior part on the lowest level - closets, bathrooms, or interior halls. Get under something sturdy!
* In schools, nursing homes, hospitals, factories, and shopping centers, go to pre-designed shelter areas. Interior hallways on the lowest floor are usually best.
* In high-rise buildings, go to interior small rooms or hallways.
* In mobile homes or vehicles, leave them and go to a substantial structure. If there is no shelter nearby, lie flat in the nearest ditch, ravine, or culvert with your hands shielding you head.

KNOW THE LANGUAGE!

TORNADO WATCH: Tornadoes and servere thunderstorms are possible.

TORNADO WARNING: Tornado detected, take shelter immediately.

TORNADO FACTS THAT CAN SAVE YOUR LIFE

Tornadoes travel at an average speed of 30 miles an hour, but speeds ranging from stationary to 70 miles an hour have been reported. While most tornadoes move from the southwest to the northeast, their direction of travel can be erratic and may change suddenly.

While hail may or may not precede a tornado, the portion of a thunderstorm adjacent to large hail is often the area where strong to violent tornadoes are most likely to occur.

The tornado's atmospheric pressure drop plays, at most, a minor role in the damage process.

While most tornado damage is caused by the violent winds, most tornado injuries and deaths result from flying debris.

Tornado wind speeds increase with height within the tornado.

Tornado winds may produce a loud roar similar to that of a train or airplane.

Although most tornadoes occur during the mid-afternoon or early evening (3 p.m. - 7 p.m.) they can occur at any time; often with little or no warning.

DID YOU KNOW...

IN APRIL, 1986
a tornado stuck the town of Sweetwater. It blew a car off the road and smashed its rear window. As a police officer helped the driver out of the vehicle, he noticed a drenched kitten on the back seat—although it had not been a passenger before the tornado struck. The kitten's owner came on the scene a few minutes later, and claimed his missing pet.

ON MAY 29, 1986,
twelve schoolchildren in west China were sucked up by a tornado. It put them down again on some sand dunes 12 miles away—completely unharmed.

IN APRIL, 1980
...an entire house in Missouri was carried 12 miles from home.

Tornadoes usually spin anticlockwise in the Northern Hemisphere, clockwise in the Southern Hemisphere.

An average of 708 tornadoes strike the United States each year. In April 1974, 148 tornadoes savaged 13 states in just 24 hours, leaving 315 people dead.

These merchants encourage you to practice tornado safety!

Diabetes manageable with care

By Gus Gross, M.D.

Diabetes mellitus is a very common disorder in the United States. It is the leading cause of blindness as well as kidney failure and the need for hemodialysis. It is also a leading cause of amputations due to diseased blood vessels and lack of circulation to the extremities. Diabetes is a significant risk factor for heart attacks, and the list goes on.

Diabetes has been separated into two major categories, diabetes mellitus Type I, formerly called juvenile onset diabetes mellitus and diabetes mellitus Type II, formerly called adult onset diabetes mellitus. Although they are very different, there is one basic similarity: the body is unable to utilize sugar as a source of fuel and the sugar remains in the bloodstream at very elevated levels.

There is plenty of evidence in the medical literature to suggest that tight control, which means basically keeping the blood sugars as close to normal as possible, can arrest or even prevent blindness. There is also evidence to suggest that the same thing can happen to the kidneys and, therefore, preserve the health of the kidneys. Again, the more compliant and educated patients are about this illness, the more likely they are to do well.

The cardinal signs and symptoms of diabetes mellitus are a frequent need to empty the bladder throughout the day, excessive thirst, excessive hunger and marked weight loss. Once these signs are recognized and the diagnosis is made by your family physician, management may begin with thorough counseling and education on diabetes and a dietary prescription.

Some patients require the addition of a pill to lower the blood sugars so the body can utilize the sugar more efficiently and others require the addition of insulin alone or in conjunction with the oral medication. Once the goals are being met, exercise can be introduced into the equation and again, as diabetes is controlled, the ultimate goal, which is preserving your health, will be met.

Once the diagnosis is made, frequent visits with your doctor for counseling and periodic monitoring and changing of different modalities will be required. As the blood sugar is lowered and the patient has better control over the situation, the visits will become less frequent.

If you have any of the signs and symptoms described above, please check with your family doctor. If the diagnosis of diabetes has already been made, please don't make any changes until you consult with your doctor. Remember, the better controlled your diabetes is, the longer and healthier you will live.

CISD recognized as innovative district

By Kitten Arthur

It seems that in an era of change, education continues to be on the cutting edge. As a result of the change in governors, the state now has a new commissioner of education to head the Texas Education Agency. Those two new faces, coupled with Senate Bill 1 and accompanying amendments, will refocus education—once again—for the next biennium.

Over and over I hear the question from staff and parents, "What will this do to PSI?" Governor Bush is a strong proponent of local school control (as was Commissioner Meno), and Dr. Moses has expressed his support of the PSI program, so it looks as though some sort of initiative will remain in effect, regardless of the program title. And well it should.

Over the course of four years, the Partnership Schools Initiative has proven quite successful. Despite the expected stresses of the change process, Colorado ISD can boast of the following new programs: cooperative learning, learning styles, leadership training, DuPont training for administrators, massive technology training, outcome-based education, suicide prevention, TAAS disaggregation, ADD/ADHD awareness/training, Structure of the Intellect, Integrated Thematic Instruction, Seven Habits of Highly Effective People, the New Jersey Writing Project, curriculum writing, Multiple Intelligences, Discipline with Dignity, Quality School and brain research.

In addition, our entire staff has been able to hear firsthand from the most prestigious educational speakers in the country through PSI. Colorado ISD has moved aggressively toward the 21st century in educating our children with the most recent research available.

The results of the Partnership Schools Initiative are impressive. Scores have risen sharply in a short three years (for which we were recognized this winter), despite fewer instructional days—in fact, PSI schools in the state have a higher percentage gain than their non-PSI counterparts. Our teachers are more cognitively aware of the myriad numbers of new teaching tools, and the typical CISD classroom is mirrored in very few classrooms in this region.

Colorado ISD is recognized throughout the state as an innovative district and we have welcomed large numbers of visitors to our campuses to view those creative programs and schedules. We have instituted all of those new ideas without compromising the curriculum; in fact, we are one of the few districts which requires a full year of computers for all middle school students and 26 credits for graduation. We now offer pre-cal and calculus at CHS, as well as four AP classes. We are encouraging all of our students to adopt the TEA recommended program for graduation and we are looking at new ways to establish that program.

PSI staff development has also turned our professionals into teachers of teachers. In the past four years, teachers and staff from the district have presented more than 40 workshops to the public and to other teachers. Last fall during PSI, our own staff was responsible for all of the teaching for two complete PSI days.

We are well known in Texas and have been recognized by the news media from San Angelo, Abilene and Big Spring on numerous occasions; in addition, one state publication has acknowledged our success. Region XIV looks to us for positive interaction and feedback because they know we are an educated, innovative staff.

One final note about PSI is that this program was one of the few funded ones! In the last 3 1/2 years, Colorado ISD has received more than $33,000 in training fees. Here's the breakdown:

Spring 1992	$ 8,109
1992-1993	11,250
1993-1994	6,300
1994-1995	8,000
Total	$33.659

This money was used for travel, meals, keynote speakers in Abilene, travel/expenses/registration to PSI state meetings, video purchases, seminars and supplies, as well as the support and training from Region XIV. Because we did not receive the money directly, the financial impact of the program may not have been totally recognized.

As the era of PSI comes to a close, I wanted to summarize the gains and successes we have achieved through the initiative. Sometimes we are so close to the day-to-day problems that we don't see the big picture. The big picture is, indeed, impressive and the administration and staff are to be commended.

Mrs. Johnson was happy to find that we listen better than the average 4th grader.

Which isn't too shabby. Especially when you consider how quickly her class responded to our photographer. We said "smile" and they were all teeth.

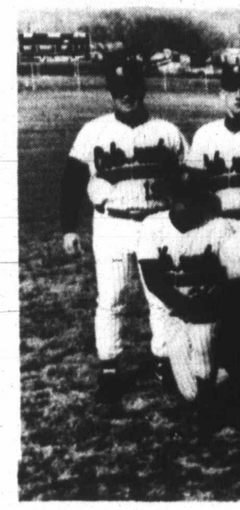

And when Angela Johnson suggested saving paper by not sending return envelopes to bank draft customers, we were all ears. We were also pretty excited when Spud Hammerbacher expressed interest in our new solar energy test project.

After all, it's suggestions like these that are helping us build a brighter future. Which has us grinning from ear to ear.

CHIEF LONE WOLF

By Jim Baum

To have been one of the leading businesses in Colorado City, the store was mighty small. Maybe 10 feet wide and 40 feet deep, recalls Mike Burt. It was located just west of Max Berman's on Second Street. It was Farmer's Candy Kitchen.

The Farmers were Jim, Maud and Roy, two brothers and a sister. And longtime residents will never forget them. Especially Roy. While all the Farmers were about average height, Roy wasn't; he was a dwarf.

Mrs. Bill Rees of Westbrook (Lena Ellett) remembers the first time she ever saw the Candy Kitchen. As a little girl she had accompanied her father to Colorado City on a shopping trip.

"As we went back to the car, I noticed in a [store] window a great mound of white divinity heaped up," she recalls. Moments later, she had maneuvered her dad into the Candy Kitchen. That's when she met the unforgettable Roy Farmer.

"To me he was a living, breathing elf. I dearly loved him and his candy." She wasn't the only one.

Mike Smith, whose father, E.B. Smith, worked in Ed Jones' Barber Shop next to the Candy Kitchen, used to watch the Farmers make their candy in the back of the store.

"It was a lot of work," he said, referring to the Farmers, "but they knew their business and did a good job of it."

Frequently, Smith says, as a boy he would hang around the store and after the last candy would be sold from a display tray, "they would give me two or three little chunks left in the pan."

78-year-old Mrs. Peyton Weaver of Sweetwater is a niece of the Farmers. She says the family actually started out in the bakery business, then gravitated into serving those with a sweet tooth.

"My grandmother, Martha Farmer [mother of Jim, Maud and Roy], started baking at home in the kitchen," Mrs. Weaver told us. The Farmers had moved to Mitchell County in 1904 and started farming in the Buford area. A couple of years later, during hard times, they opened a bakery just north of Colorado Drug on Walnut Street. They featured homemade bread, cookies, cupcakes and rolls.

The decision to open a bakery was a natural for them. 83-year-old Marie Johnson Hale, born and reared in Mitchell County but now a resident of Llano, Texas, says her mother and "Miss Maud" were good friends. Mrs. Hale says a cousin of the Farmers had a bakery and Candy Kitchen in Lamesa. "It was kind of a trade amongst the family," she added.

Mrs. Weaver, the Farmers' niece, says Jim Farmer was the mainstay of the Candy Kitchen. "Uncle Jim used to make that taffy and he would throw it up on a hook on the wall."

Jim may have been the driving force behind the business, but it was Roy Farmer who made a lasting impression. Because of his size, about four feet tall, he had to have extensions on the brake and clutch pedals of his car. Also because of his size, he had to have a box handy at all times as he dished out candy from the glass cases.

"Roy was behind the counter with his little box," recalled Sis Hart Jones, "and he would move it every time you decided you wanted another kind of candy."

Opal Hart Coles, a native of Mitchell County now living in Iraan, also remembers "the little short man."

"He would stand on a box and he had a little hammer," Mrs. Coles told us, "and he would break the taffy candy with it."

Roy also used that little box when he performed another task. Mike Smith says back when downtown Colorado City was busy ("in the farm days"), Roy had a popcorn machine he would roll out on the sidewalk.

"It had a little man on top of it, doll size," Smith stated, "eight to 10 inches tall, and it turned a crank. It looked like the doll was turning the popcorn."

Smith says the machine also had a steam whistle and every once in a while Farmer would sound the whistle, then ring a bell.

"There were a lot of kids who bought popcorn whether they wanted it or not just so they could watch Roy," Smith laughed. "He was a show himself."

Junior Sadler could attest to that. "Roy was the attraction. He got everybody in the store."

But it was the homemade candy that kept the crowds coming back to the Candy Kitchen. "There are so many of us who still drool when we think about the divinity, fudge and all that good stuff," Mrs. Hale added. She says the divinity would be made in blocks about two and a half inches thick and "at least 18 or 20 inches wide." For .25 or .30, "you could get enough to make yourself sick."

It didn't take Margaret Oyler that much to get her fill. "I went in there every day and bought a nickel's worth," she stated. "That was enough for me and one or two of my sisters." She said she liked peanut brittle and fudge the best, but if she had an extra nickel she would "buy the white candy, too."

Junior Sadler was another admirer of the Farmers. His preference was the taffy and he usually bought a nickel's worth. Sadler says the Candy Kitchen had the "best candy on earth," and he really looked up to Roy Farmer.

Literally. "I thought that one day I would get to be as tall or taller than Roy Farmer and then I would be grown."

Roy not only sold candy and popcorn, but the Ft. Worth Star-Telegram, as well. Plus magazines. Sunday mornings were particularly busy at the Candy Kitchen as local residents dropped by to get their newspaper.

There was another reason the Sabbath mornings were busy. "I can remember," Mike Burt told us, "as a kid about 65% of us had a dime to put in the collection at Sunday school. They would put in a nickel and as soon as Sunday school was over they would walk down to Roy Farmer's Candy Kitchen and have a soda pop." And Burt says Farmer knew all the boys by name.

Maud Farmer is remembered by Colorado City citizens of the '30s, '40s and '50s as courteous and very businesslike.

"Maud had the cleanest looking face and features I ever saw in my life," stated Margaret Oyler. "She had a peaches and cream complexion and long hair." Maud also used to make shirts for her brothers.

"She was just a wonderfully unselfish, giving person," remembers Mrs. Peyton Weaver.

No one remembers exactly when the Farmers decided to retire. Perhaps it was in the late 1950s when brother Jim died. A local acquaintance says they had made "a mint of money" with their Candy Kitchen.

"They had bought some land at Iatan," recalls Mike Burt, "and they had a nice income off that. They also built a home at Sixth and Vine."

Roy and Maud, neither of whom had ever married, had lived quietly together through the years. When Roy died in 1962 (at the age of 70), Maud got a woman to live with her. Miss Farmer died in 1967 at the age of 81. Roy and Maud are buried, along with their parents, in the Colorado City Cemetery.

When the brother and sister had retired, they sold the Candy Kitchen to a cousin, Clifford Farmer and his wife, Nina Coles Farmer. They eventually closed the store downtown, but continued to sell candy from their residence at 531 Cedar. A small building on the north side of their residence was used as a store.

It was good candy, but somehow it wasn't the same Candy Kitchen. Maybe the little man with the popcorn machine was just too tough an act to follow.

Tribute to Brandon McCollum

God looked around His garden and found an empty space.
He then looked down upon His Earth and saw your tired face.
He put His arms around you and lifted you to rest.
God's garden must be beautiful.
He only takes the best.
He knew that you were suffering.
He knew you were in pain.
He saw the roads getting rough,
and the hills were hard to climb, so He closed your weary eyelids, and whispered in your ear, "Peace be Thine."
It broke our hearts to lose you,
but you did not go alone.
For part of us went with you,
the day God called you home.

Thanks so very much to the First Baptist Church members who provided our meal and to Bro. Ted Spear for being there for us. Also thanks to all those who remembered us in their prayers and in their thoughts.
