Life of President-elect Believed In Danger; 1,500 Guards Employed To Be On Duty During Visit

(By Associated Press)

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 11.—(P)—Official confirmation of the discovery of a plot against the life of Herbert Hoover and of its frustration by the police was made public tonight by President Irigoyen.

His statement said, "The president of the republic, being desirous of making agreeable the visit of the president-elect of the United States of America and of offering the greatest possible guarantee of safety to the personnel of the illustrious visitor, commanded the police to intensify their observation of dangerous anarchist elements."

"This order was carried out by the division of investigation which, after discreet inquiries and investigations, this morning searched a house in which were found four hand grenades, two cylindrical bombs, one square bomb, dynamite, revolvers, automatic pistols, quantities of ammunition and 150 ten-cent notes—all of which have been placed at the disposition of judicial authorities."

"The police said a room in the raided house contained a detailed map of the railway system, which apparently was used by the plotters in planning their attack."

It was announced tonight that 1,500 guards had been employed on special duty to insure the safety of Mr. Hoover during his visit.

Fired Jury Gets Afternoon Of Rest As Judge Phippen Prepares Message; Hear Arguments Today

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, Dec. 11.—All testimony in the trial of V. Ray Adams, 35, Bartlett Farmer, charged with the slaying of Cyril L. Matthews, Dallas banker, was completed today and a third jury which for a week has listened to a parade of state and defense witnesses was given an afternoon of leisure while District Judge C. A. Phippen prepared his charge.

The law governing the case will be read tomorrow, opposing counsel will make their arguments, and the fate of the Central Texas farmer will rest solely with the men who have heard details of the shooting related to them by pretty stenographers, relatives of both the slayed man and the slain banker, and associates of Matthews and a group of sheriffs and other public officials from the central part of the state, and Adams.

Attorneys probably will require the entire day to make their appeals.

California And Arizona Clash On Boulder Dam Bill

Senate Gets Down To Real Action For First Time On Measure; Settlement Of Conflict Vital To Vote

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—For the first time in the history of the Swing-Johnson Boulder Dam bill, the senate got down to real action today. Passing upon several hotly contested provisions of the measure, including one considered vital to a final vote.

By a vote of 48 to 29 the senate adopted a compromise amendment offered by Senator Bratton, democrat, New Mexico, to fit the amount of water to be received by California from the Colorado river at 4,400,000 acre feet. This was a concession from the figure of 4,600,000 desired by California and an increase of 200,000 acre feet over what Arizona has been willing to concede.

Settlement Is Necessary

The settlement of this controversy was regarded necessary before any progress could be made toward a final vote.

Likewise, the senate passed upon another provision of the bill over which California and Arizona have been at odds in voting down a proposal by Senator Hayden, democrat, Arizona, providing for a seven state ratification of the Colorado river compact under which the waters of the river would be apportioned among the Colorado basin states.

The third question that was up for a vote was decided in Arizona's favor. It provided for the exception of the Gila river in Arizona.

University of Kansas Likely To Close Down; A. & M. Has 29 Cases; 26 States Have 21,238 Cases

(By Associated Press)

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 11.—The widespread prevalence of influenza in various communities of the west led today to the closing of additional schools, while health authorities sought methods of checking the disease.

Almost all reports indicated that the disease was not taking a severe form and few deaths had been recorded.

An epidemic in the Yakima Valley in Central Washington caused authorities at Yakima to order the schools closed there tomorrow and to ban public gatherings.

Denver Has Seize

School officials in Denver estimated that 19 percent of the teachers and 15 percent of the pupils are ill.

With the closing of the University of Missouri at Columbia yesterday until after the holidays, officials of the University of Kansas at Lawrence today began a house-to-house canvass among students to determine just how many were ill. Seventy-five students were in hospitals in Lawrence and two or three were ill at many of the fraternity and society houses. Closing of the schools was not planned unless the situation becomes more serious.

Officials of Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College at College Station, Texas, said 29 students were ill, but that the peak of the light epidemic there had been reached three weeks ago.

BEAUMONT, Dec. 11.—(P)—The whole town of High Island, Galveston county, is fighting a fire now threatening the oil field to the west. Spur Testimony Expected To Be Completed Today

West Texas Utilities Witnesses Finish Tuesday; Arguments Scheduled To Follow; Mood Arrives

Completion of testimony by witnesses for the West Texas Utilities company, in the suit brought by that company against the City of Spur, in the United States district court before Judge James C. Wilson was held Tuesday afternoon. Testimony by witnesses for the City of Spur is expected to be completed early today and arguments heard by attorneys for both parties to the suit, with a possible decision reached before the day is done.

This is the first case to come to trial in the initial session of the federal court here, which opened Monday morning. Criminal docket cases and petitions for reviews of cases in bankruptcy will probably immediately follow this case when finished.

Alvin W. Wood, assistant U. S. district attorney arrived here Tuesday and will represent the government in the criminal cases.

The West Texas Utilities company versus the City of Spur case grew out of attempts on the part of the city to install its own municipal light and power plant, the city alleging that the utilities concern seeks to get a monopoly of light and power facilities and claiming that because of excessive rates charged by the utilities company there, it desired a plant of its own.

General Staff Calls Class of 1929 to Colors In Bolivia; Citizens Offer Their Services to Nations

(By Associated Press)

Press dispatches from widely separated parts of the globe indicate a world startled by the threat of war over the boundary dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay. Even before receipt of substantial confirmation that mobilization already is under way in Bolivia, efforts toward mediation had been made by several world agencies.

The council of the League at Lausanne, the Pan-American conference at Washington and at least one neutral South American country offered their services and expressed the hope that an amicable settlement would be reached.

Washington Agent Denies Rumor

First news of Bolivian mobilization came from Lima, Peru, some versions of the reports stating that only a part of her army had been concentrated. The Bolivian charge d'affaires in Washington said that "no reserves had been called."

Delayed dispatches from La Paz, the Bolivian capital, announced that mass meetings continued in many sections in support of the government's attitude and that volunteers were flooding the administration with offers of service. In Trinidad a full regiment of 1,000 men was organized and many physicians offered hospital facilities and services.

Reports of martial activity also came from Amunio, the capital of Paraguay, where the newspaper El Liberal said many prominent persons were volunteering for military service.

Henry L. Long, Amarillo, Is Held For Poisoning Of Woman; Husband Swears Out Warrant for Arrest

(By Associated Press)

AMARILLO, Dec. 11.—A cafe proprietor who declares he merely played the part of a good Samaritan in giving food and work to a woman who was destitute after separating from her husband was in jail here tonight charged with the woman's death by poisoning.

Henry L. Long, restaurant, was charged on a warrant sworn out by C. R. Hudson, with having given Mrs. Pearl Hudson, 33, a poison tablet which resulted in her death. Hudson said his estranged wife called him to the hospital three days before her death and told him Long had given her a tablet.

"The accusation is an outrage," Long asserted today. "I gave Mrs. Hudson and her 15-year-old daughter free meals to help them and I gave them work when I really didn't need help. I know nothing about medicine and I certainly would not attempt to prescribe it for somebody else."

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

A beautifully shaped mouth can be completely spoiled by neglected teeth. Which is only one of the countless reasons for giving your teeth the most scrupulous care and attention. The other reasons are primarily health ones. It is no unusual thing for a physician to transfer a patient who complains of ailments of various kinds from sore throat to rheumatism, to the tender mercies of a dentist. A neglected tooth can send poisons into the system which are directly responsible for physical ills.

Twice a day is an average attention for your teeth. If you brush your teeth twice daily, and use a good germ destroying mouth wash for a third operation, you can rest assured that your teeth are receiving hygienic care.

Now as for brushing, I shall never cease being surprised at the countless thousands who seem never to have mastered the technique of a tooth brush. Teeth should be brushed up and down as well as from side to side. The inner surface should receive careful care, too. Don't clench your teeth while brushing. Open your mouth wide so that every outside part of the tooth receives its quota of attention. Baking soda and salt are excellent dentifrices. Ordinary peroxide is a fine bleach.

Dental floss is an excellent precautionary aid to good teeth, for it reaches areas that the brush often misses. And as another beauty aid a dental mirror is priceless, for it helps you to catch tiny cavities in plenty of time to receive first aid from the dentist.

As a final suggestion, let me beg you to go to your dentist at regular half yearly intervals. There is no better way to insure beautiful teeth than by subscribing religiously to the stitch-in-time theory. Preservative and precautionary measures are the best guards for mouth beauty.

Uncle Abe Ellison and Mrs. Emma Goin Are Married Last Saturday; Wedding Is Great Surprise

(Special To The Avalanche)

CROSBYTON, Dec. 11.—Dan Cullid has recently accomplished some fast work here which culminated last Saturday in the marriage of one of Crosbyton's oldest citizens, Uncle Abe Ellison, who came to Crosbyton twenty years ago and was married last Saturday afternoon to Mrs. Emma Goin of Lubbock. Mr. Ellison and Mrs. Goin met here about a month ago when Mrs. Goin came here to see her father who was preaching at the local Baptist church.

Uncle Abe Ellison, as he is commonly known, came to Crosbyton from East Tennessee when the wild deer and antelope were plentiful all around Crosbyton and the adjoining counties. Mr. Ellison is sixty-eight years of age and his wife is thirty-five.

Mr. Fred Ellison of Crosbyton was best man at his grandfather's wedding, while Uncle Abe's daughter, Mrs. Lee Murphy, of Crosbyton, was matron of honor. The wedding was a surprise to all of their friends here as each have been living in separate cities.

National Leaguers Advocate Radical Change In Rule

Corsicana Files Protest With Interscholastic League On Cleburne Back

Proposed Rule Is In Favor of Weak Hitting Pitchers

Heydeer Thinks New Ruling Would Save Strength Of Hurlers; Will Eliminate Number of Pinch Hitters

By BRYAN BELL, Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(AP)—A suggestion for the most radical change in the rules of baseball since 1901 was made today by the National League at its annual meeting today.

If the proposal, put forward by President John A. Heydeer, is approved by the American League and the rules committee, weak hitting pitchers will become non-hitting pitchers.

President Heydeer's proposal, which met with the favor of the National League club presidents, probably will be brought up at the joint meeting of the two major leagues in Chicago Thursday. If the American League falls in line, the rules committee could be called to meet and order the changes before the next playing season.

More than 600 pitchers were taken out of games in the National League last season to permit other players to bat for them and Mr. Heydeer thought it a shame that pitchers who were giving a creditable exhibition should be forced from the game to permit a more able batsman to have a chance to hit.

Under the plan as outlined by the National League president, a manager before a game would designate a player to take the pitcher's turn at bat throughout the game. The same player would have to serve as batsman in the place in the batting order reserved for the pitcher, even if a change of pitchers was ordered. The pitcher would be relieved of all batting and base-running duties if his manager so wished.

It would not be compulsory, however, and if a manager had faith in the batting ability of his pitcher he could permit him to take his chances with the rest.

Senior Loop Has Led The National League made four strikes in 1901 and the American League followed suit two years later. Since then no drastic changes have been made. The foul strike rule came into curb the terrific batting following the change in the pitching distance from 50 to 60 feet, 6 inches in 1903.

On the face of the suggestion just put forward by President Heydeer, it is a move in favor of the pitcher in that he can conserve his energies for pitching and fielding duties and will not be subjected to possible injury while batting. However, there is another side. The average pitcher is a weak batsman and in many cases a pitcher has to dispose of only eight hitters, his opponent on the pitching mound not furnishing a very serious threat. If the new rule is put into effect, pitchers will find nine regular batsmen opposing them every day.

President Heydeer was re-elected today for a term of four years, by a unanimous, rising vote. The president admitted after the meeting that he "got a little raise." The salary of the president who also is the secretary and treasurer, is a National League secret, but it is

Teachers To Play In League Tonight

Two games are on the card for the City League Basketball race tonight in the high school gymnasium. The undefeated Teachers aggregation will meet the Business College five in the only men's game and the Myrick Building girls tangle up with the Montgomery-Ward team in the aftermath.

Although the Teachers have been seen in action in but one game this season, the Pedagogues are expected to make things tough for their opposition tonight. The following veterans are likely to see action on the court tonight: Brown, Payne, Lister, Bennett, Perryman and Horn.

Both girls' teams which are to play tonight have been defeated in previous games and as a result are likely to put up a determined fight to stay in the running.

The games will start at 7 o'clock.

LONE STAR TO MEET
CORNICANA, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Plans for the 1924 season of the Lone Star basketball league will be discussed at a meeting in Tyler on Jan. 12, T. H. Fisher, loop proxy, said in a notice received here today by "Dude" Ransom of the Corsicana club.

MARSHALL WINS TOSS
MARSHALL, Tex. Dec. 11.—(AP)—A flip of a coin here today ruled that the Marshall Mavericks and the Port Arthur Yellow Jackets shall meet here Friday for the Texas Interscholastic League high school semi-final football honors.

now believed to be in the neighborhood of $30,000.

Attendance Decreased The report of the president revealed that the 1923 attendance was close to 5,000,000, a decrease of 400,000 from the record breaking season of 1922. New York, Cincinnati, Brooklyn and St. Louis gained in home attendance, while decreases were noted at Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago. Chicago led in home attendance in spite of the slight decrease from the 1922 season.

National League pitchers will pitch white balls next year. The custom of having the umpires rub dirt on the balls to remove the gloss will be abolished. This change has been made possible by manufacture of balls without gloss. It was decided that a white ball is more impressive than a discolored one, and that some times when the dirt is rubbed on the balls some of it gets in the seams and causes the ball to sail.

Pirates Trade Wright To Brooklyn Robins
NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Jesse Petty, left handed pitcher, and Harry Riccarda, infielder, were traded to Pittsburgh for Glenn Wright, shortstop, by the Brooklyn Robins today. At the same time the club announced the unconditional release of Joe Harris, veteran utility player.

Statz Released By Robins To Pacific
NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Arnold "Jigger" Statz, fleet outfielder, was released to the Los Angeles club by the Brooklyn Dodgers. Statz came to the National league club from the Coast league two seasons ago. Terms of the deal were not announced.

School Officials Not Satisfied In Case of Squires

Henderson Says Eligibility Will Not Affect State Race; Executive Committee to Hear Protest

CORNICANA, Dec. 11.—(AP)—A protest of the eligibility of Seaman Squires, Cleburne high fullback, filed with the executive committee of the Texas Interscholastic League is an appeal from the decision of the district committee, which twice had ruled Squires eligible. H. D. Fillers, superintendent of Corsicana schools, said today.

Fillers said that although the district committee had found Squires eligible he was not satisfied all requirements had been met.

Squires, he said, had been ruled eligible by the district committee for the league, said in a message to Abilene, where the Abilene-Cleburne semi-final football game is to be played Friday, that in his opinion the eligibility protest would not affect the state race.

Squires, he said, has been ruled eligible by the district committee and has not played in a bi-district game, hence the Cleburne Yellow-jackets appear eligible for the semi-finals game.

The protest will be considered by the committee at Austin Thursday, Henderson said.

Bear Names Men For Charity Game

LINDOLN, Neb., Dec. 11.—Coach Ernest E. Bear of the University of Nebraska today announced that thirteen football players had accepted his invitation to play with the all-star Big Six team in the Big Six-Southwestern game at Dallas, Texas, New Year's day. The proceeds of the game will go to a crippled children's hospital.

Coach Bear said he had invited about ten other players and expected most of them to accept his invitation. He also said that Coach "Bo" McMillin of the Kansas Aggies will assist him in coaching the Big Six team. The first practice session will be held at Dallas December 26.

The players who have accepted Bear's invitation follow: Ted James, Nebraska, center; Elmer Holm, Nebraska, guard; Merle Zuber, Nebraska, guard; Class Ashburn, Nebraska, end; Harry Lindblom, halfback, Iowa State college; Andrew Olson, Kansas, tackle; John Shannon, Kansas, guard; Don Cooper, Kansas, halfback; Robert Mehrie, Missouri, halfback; Bus Haskins, Oklahoma, halfback; Bill Hamilton, Oklahoma, end; George Lyon, Kansas Aggies, tackle; and Bertrand Pearson, Kansas Aggies, center.

Coach Bear is hopeful that Blue Howell, fullback, and Dah McMullen, guard, Nebraska players on the team which will represent the east in the East-West game at San Francisco, December 29, can return in time to play in the Dallas game.

The proposal of the minor leagues that the majors sell their "farms," and the much tossed about draft proposition were discussed by the owners but no action was taken. A definite stand may be taken tomorrow.

At the institution of the National Association of Professional Baseball Players, the owners favored a five-year program of subscribing $5,000 a year to the association with the privilege of canceling the agreement with one year's notice. The proposition must now be approved by the National League.

At a recent league meeting, it was agreed to start the season on April 10, but at Toronto it was decided to delay the opening one week to conform with the Southern Association.

In And Out Slab Ace of Indiana Pitching Staff Goes To Detroit for Shortstop Tavenor and Pitcher Holoway; Harris Also Trades Off Neun

By ORLO L. ROBERTSON, Associated Press Sports Writer.
CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—(AP)—The sound of the auctioneer's gavel over the person of George Uhle, Cleveland's in and out slab ace, eclipsed the verbal barrage of the club owners as the American League meeting opened today.

Uhle, who has been awaiting his turn on the auction block since the close of the 1923 season, went into the Indians' rebuilding hopper in exchange for Johnnie Tavenor, flashy but light hitting shortstop, and Kenneth Holoway, pitcher, of the Detroit Tigers.

Mineral Wells To Meet Post Eleven

Antelopes to Play Champs Of Districts 3 and 4 In Mineral Wells Next Friday

POST, Dec. 11.—(Special)—Post high school, champion of district one and two, will play Mineral Wells, champion of district three and four, at Mineral Wells next Friday. Post offered Mineral Wells eleven hundred dollars to play at Post but Mineral Wells raised that twenty five dollars and Post accepted the offer.

Mineral Wells defeated Olney last week for bi-district championship while Hereford and Memphis forfeited to Post their right to meet the Antelopes for the deciding game. Plans are being made at this time to obtain permission to play Hereford here December 22 as Post feels that a victory on the field is to be desired rather than a forfeit and if Hereford will agree to play and Roy Henderson will give his permission, the South Plains football fans are assured of one more game before the season closes.

Mineral Wells will be played April 26, and April 27 over the Moortown Course, near Leeds. Two ball four-omes over the 36 holes route will be played the first day with singles at 36 holes the second day.

Succession of Fistic Catastrophies Puzzle Promoters As Promising Pugs Fall By Wayside In Eliminations

Three Best Assets of Fight Business Meet Disaster In One Evening; No Outstanding Heavyweight

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 11. (P)—A gloved fist whips out unexpectedly, some famous warrior of the ring staggers and falls, and in a twinkling is born another "coming champion" from out of the crowd of unknowns.

Promoters hail these upsets sometimes with rejoicing at the prospect of new dynamic "cards," sometimes with rueful grins at the thought of the time and money wasted in guiding the old favorite to a position of prominence. Sometimes the overthrow is so terrific that even the thought processes of promoters are temporarily paralyzed at the shock.

Perhaps no similar period in ring history ever brought such a succession of these fistic catastrophies as the one that followed the opening days of December. Four of the most ballhooped cards in all capillaries went to the wars and came back, sans shields, sans glory, sans everything but head-aches.

Upsets Come Fast
On the same night that Johnny Rizzo, the unofficial winner of Tex Rickard's last heavyweight elimination tournament, battled the much-abused Jimmy Maloney in Boston, the newest light heavyweight sensation from the west, Cuffy Griffiths, fought with James J. Braddock, of Jersey, in the Madison Square Garden arena. Jimmy McLarin stepped out for a pleasant evening in Detroit with a young lightweight from Chicago, Ray Miller.

When the smoke of the evening's fighting had drifted away, the brilliant Maloney had defeated Rizzo out of the decision in decisive fashion. McLarin was a badly battered knockout victim of the Chicago left hooker, and Griffiths still was trying to find out what hit him in the second round at the Garden. Thus in one evening, three of the best assets the fight business possessed were ringed with red. Liabilities just when promoters were counting heavily upon them for the winter marketing.

Five days after the most publicized of the heavyweight contenders, Knute Hansen, opened his campaign for Gene Tunney's old title under the management of Billy Gibson, the chap who piloted Gene to the top. He took a law suit and months of advertising besides $10,000 in cash to acquire the blonde dame.

Knute fought K. O. Christner, the aged Akronite who admits 36 years and isn't afraid of a bald head that glazes in the ring light. In the seventh round Christner tagged the whirling Dancie on the chin with a right hand and Gibson, as he drew and the unconscious Knute to his corner, announced his complete and permanent retirement from the boxing business.

On top of all this, while Tex Rickard trembled a bit in fear of more disaster, Jack Sharkey took on another heavy hitter, Arthur De Rube, in Boston last night after seven months of inactivity due to a twisted knee. The "silent sailor" easily won the decision but looked none too good against opposition that would have been considered "no contest" last summer.

What About Yours?

More than enough tickets have been sold to assure each member of the high school football squad a place at the banquet in their honor Friday night. Superintendent Duncan announced last night. An additional 25 ducats have been placed on sale at the City Drug Store for other football fans who intend to be on hand when the Westerners make their final public appearance of the 1928 season.

No tickets will be sold after Thursday night, it has been announced.

A full round of entertainment is promised for local fans who attend the banquet. In addition to a number of unusual musical renditions, a number of impromptu speeches will be heard, including the co-captains Earnest Dowell and Raymond (Whacker) Barton and the high school coaches, Henry Franks and Del Morgan. Several local business men will speak.

The feature of the evening will be the introduction of each member of the squad and the presentation of the letter men by Coach Franks.

The affair will start at 7 o'clock at the Logan Cafe opposite the high school building.

ONIONS FOIL WASP

LONDON, Dec. 10.—A woman of Cranbourne, says she successfully used onions to effect the effects of a wasp. The insect "got that way" while she was taking a drink. The woman immediately ate six onions, and claims the vegetable checked the inflammation caused by the wasp poison.

Plains Basketeers Meet In Floydada

(Special To The Avalanche)

FLOYDADA, Dec. 11.—Floydada will again be the scene of the annual South Plains basketball tournament, which has become a classic on the Panhandle-Plains and is recognized by schools in this section as the biggest event of its kind, according to Troy H. Jones, coach of the Floydada whirlwinds and letter man from Baylor University.

The exact dates for the tournament will be determined by the dates set for the annual Interscholastic League contest at Lubbock. The South Plains tournament is in its third year of existence, it having been inaugurated by J. C. Wester, former superintendent and coach of the Floydada public schools. The first year there was only ten teams on the South Plains participated in the event but out of the twenty invitations sent out last season by Superintendent Patty there were sixteen teams accepted and took part in the tournament. A noticeable feature of the event is that the winning team has always placed in first ranks at the Interscholastic District Meet. The tournament was held last year on February 3 and 4.

Intramural Games Hold Interest Of Studes This Week

Liberal Arts Team Lead Way In Tournament Among Nonletter Men Of College; 3 Teams Entered

Intramural basketball is in full swing within the ranks of the non-letter men at Tech. With the three principle schools of the college represented in the hotly contested tournament and each team scheduled to play four games, the competition is expected to reach its peak Friday when the championship is awarded. The School of Agriculture, School of Liberal Arts and School of Engineering have entered the race.

Up to date, the Liberal Arts team is heading the other two schools by a safe margin, having defeated the Aggies 33 to 23 and the Engineers by an even more one-sided score of 24 to 2. The Engineers have in turn turned back the Farmers in a close battle, winning by a scant three point margin, 30 to 27.

A host of promising basketball players have been uncovered in the intramural contests. So far the games have proved anything but listless.

Members of the varsity basketball squad are coaching the teams entered in the intramural tournament. Carl Peterson directs the activity of the Liberal Arts quintet, Melvern Hunter is the Engineer's men-

SUMMARY

Market up around $2.50 a bale from last night's close. Evidently the trade has come to the conclusion that a crop of 14,373,000 bales will not glut the market. Trading was exceedingly brisk at times and the undertone at all times was steady. News was encouraging. The Commodity Bureau of Boston issuing a bullish price forecast and estimate of November consumption.

The government's estimate last Saturday of 14,373,000 bales for the total 1929 came as a surprise to many because of its size as it was about 275,000 bales above the average of the private guesses. But the resistance the market has shown Saturday, Monday, and today has been as surprising. It looks as if outside interests are becoming friendly to cotton and together with the reservation of course, that long accounts will come out on the bulge.

Rusk, Texas. While cotton picking is over it will be the middle of January before any new crop work will begin.

Poss. Okla. only a small amount of cotton is yet to be gathered and that is weather beaten.

Certificated stock of cotton at Houston, 14,188 bales.

Exports of cotton today at New Orleans 8,716 bales. Exports all ports today 21,785 bales against 39,697 bales last year. Exports all ports thus far this week 19,788 bales vs. 97,505 bales last year.

WEATHER

The weather map early this morning was dry and cold over the eastern cotton belt and wet over the western belt. At noon the eastern belt was clear to cloudy, the central belt showed considerable rain and the western cotton belt was mostly cloudy to raining. Forecast. Eastern: fair and warmer to partly cloudy and warmer with rains in some portions of N. C., S. C., Ga., Fla., and Ala. Western: La. and East Texas, rain and warmer in southwest portion. West Texas, unsettled, probably colder tonight in Panhandle.

Prices on hogs were unevenly steady to 25c lower. The most decline shown at Chicago on closing rounds. A few markets, after a slow start at 10 to 15c lower levels, closed moderately active at steady to 10c lower rates. The days top of 8.70 was paid early at Chicago. Total offerings were around 147,900 a shortage of 14,000 from a week ago and 3,700 less than a year ago.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 11. (AP)—Broadening out of export demand for corn today at the highest premiums yet this season helped lift the corn market and other grain as well. It was estimated too by a leading authority here that already there has been 30,000,000 bushels more farm use and country marketing of corn than a year ago.

Corn prices finished strong at practically the day's top level, 1 1/2c to 1 7/8c to 2c up, with wheat showing 1 1/8c to 1 7/8c gain, oats 1c to 1 1/8c advance, and provisions ranging from 5c decline to a rise of 75c.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Dec. 11. (AP)—Prices moved quietly forward on the stock market today, in the lightest trading since Nov. 5, the day before election. Some two score issues mounted 6 to 21 points, half a dozen touching new high ground.

While weakened accounts appeared to have been sold out, the public was still too stunned from the disastrous break of last week to be drawn into the market, and the professional element moved cautiously in fear of the traditional second day reaction. A substantial part of the day's buying was due to covering by shorts who were content to take their profits at present levels.

Call money renewed at 8 percent for the first time in just a week, and later fell to 7. Time money, however, was firmer, holding from 7 1/2 to 7 3/4 for the shorter maturities and mounting a quarter point to 7 1/2 for the longer maturities, indicating that the case in call money is regarded as a temporary lull, aided by the treasury refinancing, before the holiday and year-end requirements become acute.

The day's news was not such as to encourage bullish activity. The grave turn in the condition of King George made the market apprehensive of a flood of selling for foreign account. A further seasonal decline in steel mill operations was reported. The Chicago, Minneapolis, St.

Paul and Omaha railway passed the annual dividend on its preferred stock. A stock exchange seat sold at $500,000, a drop of $5,000 from the previous sale.

A favorable development was taking of $3,000,000 in gold from Canada, bringing the current movement to $5,000,000. Bankers estimated that the movement may reach $30,000,000.

Total sales were 3,908,500 shares, the first time transactions have fallen under the 4,000,000 mark in any full session since election. The Associated Press average price of 20 industrial mounted 4.85 points, bringing the rise of the past two days to 9.73, which falls to make up the drop of 9.92 on Saturday alone.

Coppers, steels, rails, motors and utilities were prominent in the day's rise. Federal mining made up 21 points of its 50-point drop of Saturday, while Greene, Canada copper, Du Pont and Radio made extreme gains of 15 points. Radio closed at 320, just 100 points under its high. Packard also made a 15-point gain, selling at 155, about 3 points under its high.

American Telephone sold up about 6 points, and closed 4 1/4 up. Consolidated gas, Chrysler, Nickel plate, and Union Pacific mounted 3 to 4 points, while General Motors, American Can, and U. S. Steel made gains of around 2 points.

Houston Oil fell 7 points, National tea 5, and Wright Aero closed a point lower, after having sold down about 8 points.

Foreign exchanges were featured by continued firmness of Sterling, and a further drop of 10 points in Japanese yen to 45.00 cents. The discount on the Canadian dollar increased from about 1-3 to more than 1-4 cent with the further gold movement.

The former Miss Henderson, member of a family both wealthy and socially prominent, has filed suit for divorce in the local district court against J. M. HIT 'EM AND PAY OFF

Pedestrians do not seem able to get many of the rights guaranteed to them by the laws and the courts, but they find comfort in reading about them, at any rate. The American Motorists Association is calling the attention of the automobile drivers of the country to the decision handed down the other day by a federal circuit court at Washington, in which the rights of the pedestrians at street intersections where traffic is controlled by signal lights were explained from the legal standpoint. The decision said, among other things: "When a pedestrian steps from a curb to cross the street, having a green light, he does so by way of invitation and he cannot be charged with contributory neglect if the signal switches when he is in the street. Caught in this position the obligation rests upon the motorist not only to observe the situation, but to wait until the crossing is clear. Many automobile drivers seem to find that with the shift of the signal they are given a clear right of way against intersecting traffic. In this belief they recklessly start their machines regardless of persons who are already on the intersection. It is the duty of drivers of machines to exercise greater vigilance and care under such circumstances and not only have to have their machines under control, but to stop and wait until the crossing is clear. The opportunity to clear the crossing. Failure to observe these precautions constitutes negligence on the part of the driver, which, in case of accident, is chargeable to him." What is said here with reference to the rights of pedestrians at street intersections applies with equal force to the rights of motor car drivers. Between the red and green lights which give the "stop" and "go" signals, there is a brief flash of amber light which is a signal that the lights are changing and a warning that the intersection must be cleared of all traffic. While the amber light is showing, no traffic of any kind should start into the street intersection, because that brief period is provided for the safety of traffic already in the intersection when the change of lights begins.

The traffic rules are simple, and anyone can learn them if they will only try. The main thing seems to be that people are in too big a hurry, and will not wait their turn at the crossing. Every day we see people walking, who rush into the street long before the green light is shown, and then we see automobiles moving between the green light and the red light, and the result is a collision. The main thing we need to do is to take our time, and not rush into the intersections before the proper time comes. We should take the proper care, and 90 per cent of the accidents could be eliminated.

THE TREK TO EUROPE

American tourists, Charles M. Hayes, president of an automobile club at Chicago, says, are spending more than a billion dollars a year abroad—$1,100,000,000 to be exact down to the very last million.

He thinks something should be done about it, and adds that half of that amount of money would be spent in the United States if we just had an adequate system of transcontinental highways.

Every school child knows that Europe can offer nothing to compare with the splendor of our own Grand Canyon, Mr. Hayes says. "Nowhere else in the world can Yellowstone National Park be duplicated, and few mountain ranges on this planet can match the majestic beauty of our Rockies, Ozarks, Alleghenies and Adirondacks. Yet large numbers of Americans are more familiar with Elmer Fower, Piccadilly and Fujiyama than with Mount Ranier, the Mojave desert or Niagara Falls."

That's good logic, but logic doesn't always explain why people go to Europe; nor does it take account of the fact that a big percentage of Americans who go abroad are seeking the biggest part of the United States. There is a certain distinction, false perhaps, that comes from European travel that doesn't come from travel in this country. Likewise, there are people who prefer the thrill of visiting foreign lands to the prosaic business of running about a country which is home.

All of which need not detract in any way from the quite obvious advantage of a system of adequate transcontinental highways. You can get across the continent now by automobile with not much more trouble than is attendant to driving down town and trying to find a place to park. But with a more uniform and connected system of highways the trip across the continent would be a great many more people. Rather than decreasing the movement of tourists to Europe, it might increase the number of people travelling.

Good roads have been increasing in mileage every year. So has the number of automobile tourists. So has the number of people going to Europe.

MEETING NEW CONDITIONS

"The most practical plan of constructing and maintaining a state system of public highways," virtually has been agreed upon by the subcommittee of Governor Moody's highway legislative body charged with the outlining of a suitable plan for highway development.

The plan, as has been predicted in many sources, follows closely that suggested by R. S. Sterling, chairman of the state highway commission. A bond issue, state-wide in nature, with provisions for the payment of interest and the amortization of the bonds from funds to be derived from a gasoline tax, plus a charge on commercial vehicles engaged in the transportation of freight or passengers for pay, is, in brief, the sub-committee's program.

The bonds at no time would exceed in amount that which a 3c gasoline tax will redeem. There would be provisions for repaying counties for the value of state highways constructed with county funds, and so on.

Basically, the plan is the best that has been proposed for the creation of a connected, unified

A Washington Bystander

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON
WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—One of the "babies" of the seventy-first congress is very apt to prove a precocious infant. While he is a newcomer to public life in Washington, or anywhere else, he is a congressional press gallery veteran of more than a quarter century of mighty strenuous political news getting.

If there is any trick of the trade in senate or house Louis Ludlow, democrat representative-elect from the redoubtable republican stronghold, the Seventh Indiana, does not know, the Bystander would be overwhelmingly surprised.

It's easy to sympathize with the feelings of Ralph Updyke, incumbent republican from the Seventh. To be unseated in a very few years for democracy, does his opponent carried into office by a majority of 6,380 votes when the district also gave Hood. Ludlow was the only democratic newcomer to beat the Hoover landslide except for a contested case in Texas, where normally there are lots of democrats anyhow.

Personal Victory.
In the Seventh Indiana, which takes in Indianapolis, and 22 towns in Marion county, democrats usually have been few and far between. What put "Louis" across undoubtedly was his own personality. Known these many years to the home folks through his news writings from Washington, and the solid support of his newspaper brethren regardless of party preferences.

Incidentally, Ludlow's first elective office was as vice-president of the National Press club in Washington. Having decided he would like the job, he circulated the club membership to that effect, saying he knew of no good reason why he should have it, but wanted it, nevertheless. That so tickled his fellows that he went in a-whopping, became president of the club in due order, developed a taste for public speaking and even blossomed like the rose, editorially speaking.

Also, the political office seeking germ having been merely latent in him as it seems to be in most Hoosier statesmen, he got a yearning for a seat in the house and captured it to the surprise of everybody, including himself.

Born in Log Cabin.
Ludlow is a big chap, six feet three by 238 pounds. He has that political essential of the age of the free log cabin birth in Indiana some 35 years ago, the cabin, according to Louie, having "cracks big enough to admit the lizards from the surrounding country."

He began newspaper work in Indianapolis at 18 and tells with relish how green he was. Sent to inquire as to the health of an ailing parish priest, Louie rang the bell and asked to see the priest's wife for interview purposes.

Louie's battle caused his Washington press colleagues more agitation than the presidential results. He is by way of being the vicarious representative-elect to this group which talks more and votes less politics than any similar number of citizens anywhere. Representative Updyke thinks there may be ground for charging Louie with Indiana, Louie has been so long in Washington.

MANY PEOPLE HAVE TEETH THAT NEVER COME THROUGH

BY DR. MORRIS FISHER

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association
Many people carry in their mouths teeth that never come through the surface of the gum. Sometimes these conditions persist for years without the slightest suspicion that they are there. However, as one grows older, these teeth may become infected or inflamed; as a result, painful conditions supervene and prompt attention is necessary.

X-Ray Means Common.
In Hygiene, Dr. M. S. Strock points out that the teeth of the child in these modern times are likely to come to the attention of the dentist and it is becoming rarer for dentists to discover unerupted teeth in adult life.

Twenty years ago it was unusual for an adult to have an X-ray picture of his mouth. Now, almost everyone beyond the age of 30 has such an X-ray examination made at fairly frequent intervals to make sure that infection is not present at the teeth roots. In making the X-ray picture, the present teeth that have not yet come through the gums will be determined.

the haphazard dentistry of the past not infrequently a tooth was broken in an attempt at extraction, and the roots and the modern dentists promptly remove them.

It used to be thought that a root left in the mouth would work itself to the surface and thus be eliminated, but experience has shown that it is difficult for the mouth to cast off such tissue and that frequently infectious matter forms at the bottom of the root with serious effects to the whole body.

Our Changing Diet.
As a result of evolution and the changing human diet, the need for chewing has grown less and the jaw of man is much smaller than it was thousands of years ago.

The wisdom teeth frequently fail to appear entirely, and in many cases lie in such positions as to injure the teeth in front of them.

In many instances an unerupted wisdom tooth seems to be associated with pain in the head or in the back of the neck and even with earache.

Not infrequently also these teeth become associated with the development of a system of adequate transcontinental highways. You can get across the continent now by automobile with not much more trouble than is attendant to driving down town and trying to find a place to park. But with a more uniform and connected system of highways the trip across the continent would be a great many more people. Rather than decreasing the movement of tourists to Europe, it might increase the number of people travelling.

Good roads have been increasing in mileage every year. So has the number of automobile tourists. So has the number of people going to Europe.

system of state highways. Certainly there can be little objection to the payment of highway bonds from the proceeds of a gasoline tax; nor to the assessment of a charge against commercially operated motor trucks and buses, which make use of the state highways.

Texas haphazard system of highway building is not in keeping with modern demands for a state highway system. The legislature will be wise in following, in principle at least, the program as laid down by the committee.

The Spirit of Christmas as Too Many of Us Observe It

SO THINK WE

We think with the Texas and Pacific railroad asking for an extension of their lines to Lovington, New Mexico, and the Santa Fe extending their lines southwest from Searles, there is likely to be considerable development in that section of country just across the line in New Mexico. That is just another evidence that there is going to be a great amount of business for this section during the next few years. For all of that territory it means a man to change his opinion in the light of new truth is greatly to be desired. But the kind of changeableness which isn't based on new information or on thought denotes a mind that may be broad but shallow. It is capacious but not firm.

THE MIND AGAIN
On the subject of the mind one might well recall the words of the philosopher Berkeley:

"All the choir of heaven and furniture of earth—in a word, all those bodies which compose the mighty frame of the world—have not any substance without a mind."

ELECTION LESSONS
The election is now a few weeks past and there has been time to think about some things in connection with it. The most encouraging aspect was not the selection of any particular candidate. The significant thing was the enormous interest of the American people in the affairs of their republic. The size of the vote justifies a new belief in the possibilities of democratic government. It is to be hoped the renewed spirit will continue to burn.

We think about half the people that we see racing down the streets of Lubbock, as though they were in a great hurry to get some place, could not tell you where they were going if you were to ask them the direct question.

We think most people will have to wake up if they expect their dreams to come true.

We think that every person who is enjoying good health should at least buy a few of the Christmas seals, and help the fellow who is sick. It will mean much, but it might mean one star in your crown that you will not be able to get any other way.

Homer, Greek poet, speaks of "the glory of a firm, capacious mind." Very unfortunate for many of us who have little minds. But those large minds are not much better. They are capacious but not firm. PRESS COMMENT

HOW ABOUT COUNTY PARKS?

It has been said that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." This is very true, as is the converse of the proposition—"all play and no work makes him a stupid one." But anyway, if he should play he should have a fit place to play, and the same is true of his elders. Indeed, all of us like to play and must more or less of it if we are to keep balanced. Of course one may to some extent substitute change of work for play or recreation, but not altogether so.

This brings us to reflect upon the matter of county parks again. A few years ago the legislature of Texas enacted a law making it possible for any county in the state that saw fit to do so to vote a tax "not to exceed 5c on each $100 of assessed valuation of the county for the purchase and improvement of lands for use as county parks which shall consist of not more than four in any one county."

It is also provided that "No such tax shall be levied and collected until the proposition is submitted to and ratified by the property-tax-paying voters of the county at a general or special election called for that purpose, provided a two-thirds majority of the property-tax-paying voters of such county, at an election held for that purpose shall determine in favor of said tax."

Several counties have taken advantage of this law and have voted a tax for the establishment and maintenance of county parks.

The advantages to be derived from county parks are such as to appeal to any one who will give the matter thoughtful consideration. These playgrounds of the people should be used by them in many ways that would be helpful, such as for holding meetings of various kinds where large crowds are to attend; for sports contests, such as basketball, football, etc.; for picnics, public speaking and many other gatherings.

There is no questioning the fact that a county which has a park or two of this kind would appeal strongly to those seeking homes for the reason that they always afford "a place to go." Not only so, but a place that is attractive from the standpoint of beauty, but also as a place for an occasional outing for entire families.

The amount of money required for the establishment and maintenance of such parks is so small that it would hardly be considered a tax. At any rate, the returns are surely worth the investment. Why not have our commissioners submit the county park tax proposition in your county?—Dallas News.

as a bad habit, but one should not condemn the custom as a whole. It all depends upon what you put off. One of the happiest and most successful men the writer ever knew used to say: "Don't do anything today that you can put off until tomorrow—but be sure you know what you can't afford to put off."

Trying to get everything done today or this week of this month is not worth the wear and tear. If you go home with work unfinished, if you have to start on a trip with work left undone, don't let it worry you. Take it up when you get back, at the place where you left off. Do the important things, the few significant, vital things. Take the others up in order. Man was never made to proceed and return like a sky rocket.

Putting off until tomorrow ranks cent a year, but by the time we are a hundred years old it will be getting down to where we can kinder afford it.

We think that this is a great life if you do not believe anything you hear, see or know.

We think that spending money makes one poorer, but with some people it is quite thrilling to really make people believe that you have plenty of it.

We think that there is a place, for a good kicker, but it is on the gridiron and not on the side lines.

We think from what some of the inspectors have been telling about the filling stations that we take part of our gas in conversation, and do not get it all in the tank.

We think the fellow who bet his appendix on where the squeak in his automobile was, is not the first one that ever lost them by difference of opinion.

We think that fellow who has filled out to keep Herbert Hoover from taking his seat as president is probably one of the products of Burbank's notology.

We think it is fast approaching the time of year that one really wishes that they did not have an automobile at all.

We think that very few of us can truthfully say that we have never been on a ship. What about the hardships that you have gone through.

We think this may be a progressive country, but from what the physicians tell us we are still digging our graves with our teeth.

1228 S. 10TH AVE. LUBBOCK, TEXAS
INEA Service Inc. BIRTH NEWLY GROVES "WHEN A GIRL LOVES" LOVE FOR TWO

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Fate introduces JERRY RAY, a shop girl, to ALESTER CARSTAIRS when he crashes his airplane into the camp she is sharing with her roommate, MYRTLE. She likes his pilot, DAN HARVEY, but Alester admires her beauty and shows her attention.

Unable to "buy a gown for a party he has invited her to, Jerry slips one from the store where she works but it is ruined and she is discharged when she confesses. Dan tries to win her, but when he proposes he tells her she does not believe in love but hopes to marry for money.

Alester makes advances which Jerry repulses. But when he learns that she has lost her job on his account, he becomes contrite and uses his influence to get her a place in a chorus.

Rehearsals are hard, but she is befriended by EVELYN STARR, who is in love with JAZZ THANE. Evelyn gives a party at which Jazz takes exception to Jerry's presence. A scene ensues and Dan forces an apology from Jazz.

Alester shows his jealousy, and Dan tells Jerry she is bringing him to her feet but to guard her reputation on account of his family. Alester drives her to Atlantic City for the opening, but Jerry refuses to attend a midnight party. He wants to give the show a try. Angered, he gives the party anyway and invites LEONTINE LEBAUDY to take Jerry's place. A short mention of her in the show and promotion to a special "dance number at the end of the week class" Jerry. Evelyn wants her to go to Boston with her on the train, but Alester insists on driving her there.

Jerry becomes uneasy when he goes by way of Philadelphia and tops at a notorious place for a "lamer" party—although he later sees her to a girl he says is a "tend of his mother."

OW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XL
Jerry's eyes followed Alester as he saw nothing alarming—merely two men at a small table. One of them was engaged in eating, tried chicken. The other was returning Alester's stare. A crooked smile played his lips and settled in one corner of his mouth. He said something in a low voice to his companion who later turned to Jerry. Alester and Jerry saw his features darkened.

But Alester was coming toward her now, getting in her line of vision. He rolled the door closed in haste and grasped her by the arm with fingers that trembled. When they reached their table he seized a flask that had been laid upon it by one of the party.

"What is the matter?" she asked Alester did not answer. It was left for another man to enlighten Jerry. "Alester's seen the Red Terror," he laughed.

One of the girls gasped. "Do you mean that red-headed bootlegger they call 'Trigger Nolan'?" she asked. "Isn't he terrible?"

Alester said back, "his face farther from the light. 'I don't know him,' he said shortly. Jerry knew he lied.

"Oh, I say, we're missing the show," a male voice protested. "Open the doors."

His words were loud enough to be heard by a hovering waiter who accepted them as an order and proceeded to obey.

Jerry could see, across the hall, the two men whose presence had thrown Alester into a state of fear. The act he had requested completely failed to hold her attention. She was getting every word of the unsolicited and suggestive surroundings.

"Oh, do let us go," she implored when the doors were rolled together again. She saw that Alester had lifted the flask to his lips a second time.

"This," he returned briefly, "is all right." His willingness to depart had vanished. Jerry discovered as a half-hour went by and she urged in vain. He turned repeatedly to the flask. It began to worry her, doubly so, when the curt, fine edges of his lowered voice took on a furry overtone.

"Please, Alester," she begged. "I must get to New York. If you keep me here much longer I'll miss my train."

"There's plenty of time," he insisted. "Don't worry. We could leave at daylight and make the train."

"But I want to get some sleep," Jerry begged. "You know you promised."

"You're too old to believe in promises," Alester laughed maliciously. "Don't be a killjoy, Jerry. I won't see you again for weeks. What's a little night out of a lifetime?"

Jerry turned away in despair. Betty had been watching and listening. "I don't think you should urge him," she advised Jerry. "He isn't fit for night driving."

"He hasn't had much to drink," Jerry protested.

"No, but something has shaken him. Wait a while. You can run up to New York in two hours."

Jerry gave in. Time rolled very slowly over her head while those about her enjoyed themselves. They begged her to dance for them and because she felt that she'd go to pieces if she sat there waiting for Alester to take her away she consented.

They applauded her madly and Jerry thought with a catch in her throat of her jeopardized chance to win the approval of a theatrical audience. She made up her mind to appeal to one of Alester's friends to drive her to a railroad station if he refused any longer to leave.

She told him this and that she'd find a telephone and call for a cab if no one there would help her.

"Wait a minute," Alester put her off. "Wait just one minute." He lifted his hand and summoned a waiter. Jerry saw him pass a folded bill to the man and whisper something she could not hear. She sat silent, waiting to see if this had anything to do with her demand.

Soon the waiter was back. He said something to Alester in a low voice. Jerry caught his words, "Baltimore," and "a half hour ago."

Alester said: "Are you certain?" "Yes, sir," the man replied, not troubling to lower his voice now. Alester glanced uneasily at Jerry but her expression did not tell him that she had guessed at the import of the information he had received. "He's afraid of Trigger Nolan," he said to herself. "That's why he wanted to wait until morning to start."

"All right," Alester said to her: "we'll go."

Jerry took hurried farewells of the others in the party and in a few minutes Alester was bumping his car over the rails to the gate, without thought of the possibility of breaking his springs.

Jerry knew he had committed to go only because Trigger Nolan and his companion had gone in the other direction.

She did not give a thought to the sort of impression she had made upon Betty Mortimer. Only one idea dominated her now—to get to Boston in time to catch the train for Boston.

She looked at the clock on the instrument dial and was relieved to know that there was plenty of time. She asked Alester not to drive so fast. His recklessness was breathtaking.

He did not slow up. Jerry gripped the side of the car with her right hand and said nothing more. If this was his way of showing his displeasure, let him show it.

She had not guessed correctly at the truth. Alester did not altogether trust the waiter who had told him that Trigger Nolan had taken the pike to Baltimore.

Jerry ceased to think of danger after a while. Large, soft raindrops splashing on the windshield threatened to slow their progress and gave her a new cause for worry.

"There's a garage just ahead," Alester said, and the car leaped forward in response to added pressure on the accelerator. "We will stop there and put up the top."

Eastern Nations Seek Texas Cotton

DALLAS, Dec. 11.—Demand for Texas bred cotton seed in quantity has arisen in China and Asia. Recent orders to seed breeders here indicate five carloads have been sent from here to Shanghai, China, and another carload is awaiting shipping orders in Szechuan.

The seeds are from farms in Dallas and Navarro counties, and are of the Midland and Lone Star long staple varieties.

It is presumed by local dealers that the Texas seeds are desired for the purpose of producing a harder quality of cotton in the foreign fields.

Greater Development of Agriculture Seen for Dawson County Area During 1929; Much New Land to Go Under Plow

Rains In Territory Bring On Prospects for Excellent Season; Ranges Are In Good Condition

(Special To The Avalanche) LAMESA, Dec. 11.—The rains in Dawson county this fall has placed the very best season in the soils for the winter. Although the rains and weather have retarded harvest of crops it is predicted that sufficient moisture will be conserved for soil preparation here next spring. The grass on the ranges is fine and cattle will feed from them without extra attention this winter according to ranchmen.

Much new land will go under the plow in Dawson this fall and winter due to the excellent seasons making it possible to place them in good breaking condition. It is now estimated that fully 15 per cent new lands will be placed in cultivation for the first time this next spring. According to the presence of land prospects and the sales being made by real estate dealers many new people will move into Dawson county next spring to try their hand at farming on the South Plains. Most new comers are coming from Oklahoma, East Texas and mid-West Texas.

Poor Quality Of Turkeys Blamed For Price Status

The Thanksgiving Market Throws Depression of Prospect for Christmas Buying

The penalty of producing poor quality is driven home with decided emphasis to turkey growers of Texas, in the unnecessarily low market price being offered for that festive bird at this time, according to information gathered from local produce firms and the larger centers of shipping in the state.

The Texas Cattle Shippers association, in a meeting held in Dallas, blame present low-price conditions on the high paying prices before Thanksgiving and the shipping of poor quality of fowl.

"There were 375 cars of turkeys shipped out of Texas to the New York market alone, during the Thanksgiving season," stated C. M.

Park, of the Park Produce company. "I regret that we cannot pay any higher price for turkeys to Lubbock county and South Plains poultry raisers, but do believe that within a few days things will get better. As soon as the market is eased by those who bought poor quality turkeys at the high market level re-perpetrate their losses. I think the price will go up again."

Fay Too Much Thanksgiving Says "The Produce Packer," in speaking of the situation: "Summed up in a few words, it was generally agreed by members of the State Cattle Shippers association, at their meeting in Dallas, that all of them had paid too much for Thanksgiving turkeys, as was proven by the Thanksgiving market, and that in many instances quality was lacking. In fact, it appeared that poor quality turkeys rather than prices which might have been received had led to the demoralized market. This, however, did not apply to all Texas shippers, for some of them reported placing two or more cars without a single rejection on the grounds of quality."

"It was the consensus of opinion of those present at the meeting that live turkeys would have to be bought more cheaply for Christmas than they were at Thanksgiving if they were to remain in business. It was brought out that some 200,000 pounds of turkeys had been carried over from Thanksgiving, which will come in competition with the Christmas offerings. It was further deemed advisable to buy live turkeys only on grades as a step toward better quality. The schedule was about as follows: Ty buy No. 1 turkeys 14 pounds and up and No. 1 young hens, nine pounds and up. Turkeys not meeting these requirements would be taken at the usual discount."

IRISH LUCK

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 10.—An inquest was being held to pronounce the official death of John Cunningham. Without warning the object of the session walked in and halted the proceedings. The Irishman proved that the body recovered from the docks was not John Cunningham of Ash-grove "because I am not dead at all."

Slaton Carrying Postal Campaign

SLATON, Dec. 11.—With the establishment of free city mail delivery in Slaton, January 1, being contingent upon 25 per cent of the patrons having mail boxes up by December 15, the chamber of commerce is aiding postal officials in a campaign to meet the requirements, says J. W. Hood, president. Failure would cause postponement of the service, or withdrawal of authority for it, according to advice received by Postmaster James S. Bates. Patrons will comply however, officials believe.

A LONG JEK

SYDNEY, Australia, Dec. 10.—Francis Birtles has completed a 16,000-mile auto jaunt from London to this city. He traveled only 500 miles by sea. Part of the way he was forced to cut his way through jungle. He had no tire trouble until he had traversed more than 11,000 miles.

QUALITY IS ECONOMY

In almost everything, the above holds true.

In the selection of paints and wall paper it is especially true that good quality pays the largest dividends in satisfaction.

We stock those items in paint and wall paper that win for us continued patronage—satisfied customers.

Some of the men and women in the close-packed ranks were fashionable furs and others shivered in shabby suits. All burst into a spontaneous cheer, despite the gravity of the situation, when the Prince appeared.

He looked well after his hunting trip in East Africa but his face showed the strain of his anxiety and the marks of his forced journey by land and sea for nine days and nights.

At the Palace the Prince met the physicians who have been caring for his majesty.

It was learned authoritatively that they permitted him to see his father.

Other effects, including clothing found in the machine, were identified by the girls. Aldridge was said to have made a statement to Detective Chief J. C. Gunning today in which he admitted abduction and mistreatment of the girls and a string of other crimes that were crowded into the 24-hour period after the girls were released. He statement admitted burglary of a store at Orville, Texas, several residences and business places at So Sota and Garland, Texas, and most offices at Atoka and Calera, Oklahoma. Stamps taken from the post offices were among the property recovered.
