Barbecue battles are fierce

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — It's time for the world championship of barbecuing. The stakes are high: about 250 teams from around the nation have come to town to compete in the 20th annual "Memphis in May World Championship Barbecue Cooking Contest." The three-day cook-off bills itself as the world's largest pork cooking contest and was recognized as such in 1990 by the Guinness Book of Records. Competition is fierce for prize money, which totals $40,000. "When I go, I expect to leave with all the money," said Paul Hood, whose Wildfire Gourmet Cooking Team of Fredericktown, Mo., took the grand championship last year cooking hog shoulder.

WJHS students leave a lasting impression

By RICK WHITE
Managing Editor

Four Watson Junior High School students left a Texas-size impression at a national environmental symposium in New Hampshire.

The eighth-grade students presented a program about soil erosion in West Texas as part of the fifth annual Symposium for Environment and Education May 1-3 in Concord, N.H.

Although WJHS failed to finish in the top four among the 18 schools participating in the competition, the students did take home awards for Best Community Ambassador and Rookie of the Year — plus the respect and admiration of the contest judges and sponsors.

WJHS teacher and project coordinator Tom Boutell said the community should be proud of the students.

During the presentation for the Rookie of the Year award, the speaker couldn't say enough about how impressed the judges were with WJHS students Kyle Atwood, Carmen Flores, Mylissa Thompson and Zac Yanis.

"I want my children to grow up like these kids from Watson Junior High School in Muleshoe, Texas," the speaker said.

Boutell said the compliment gave him goose bumps and left many audience members misty-eyed.

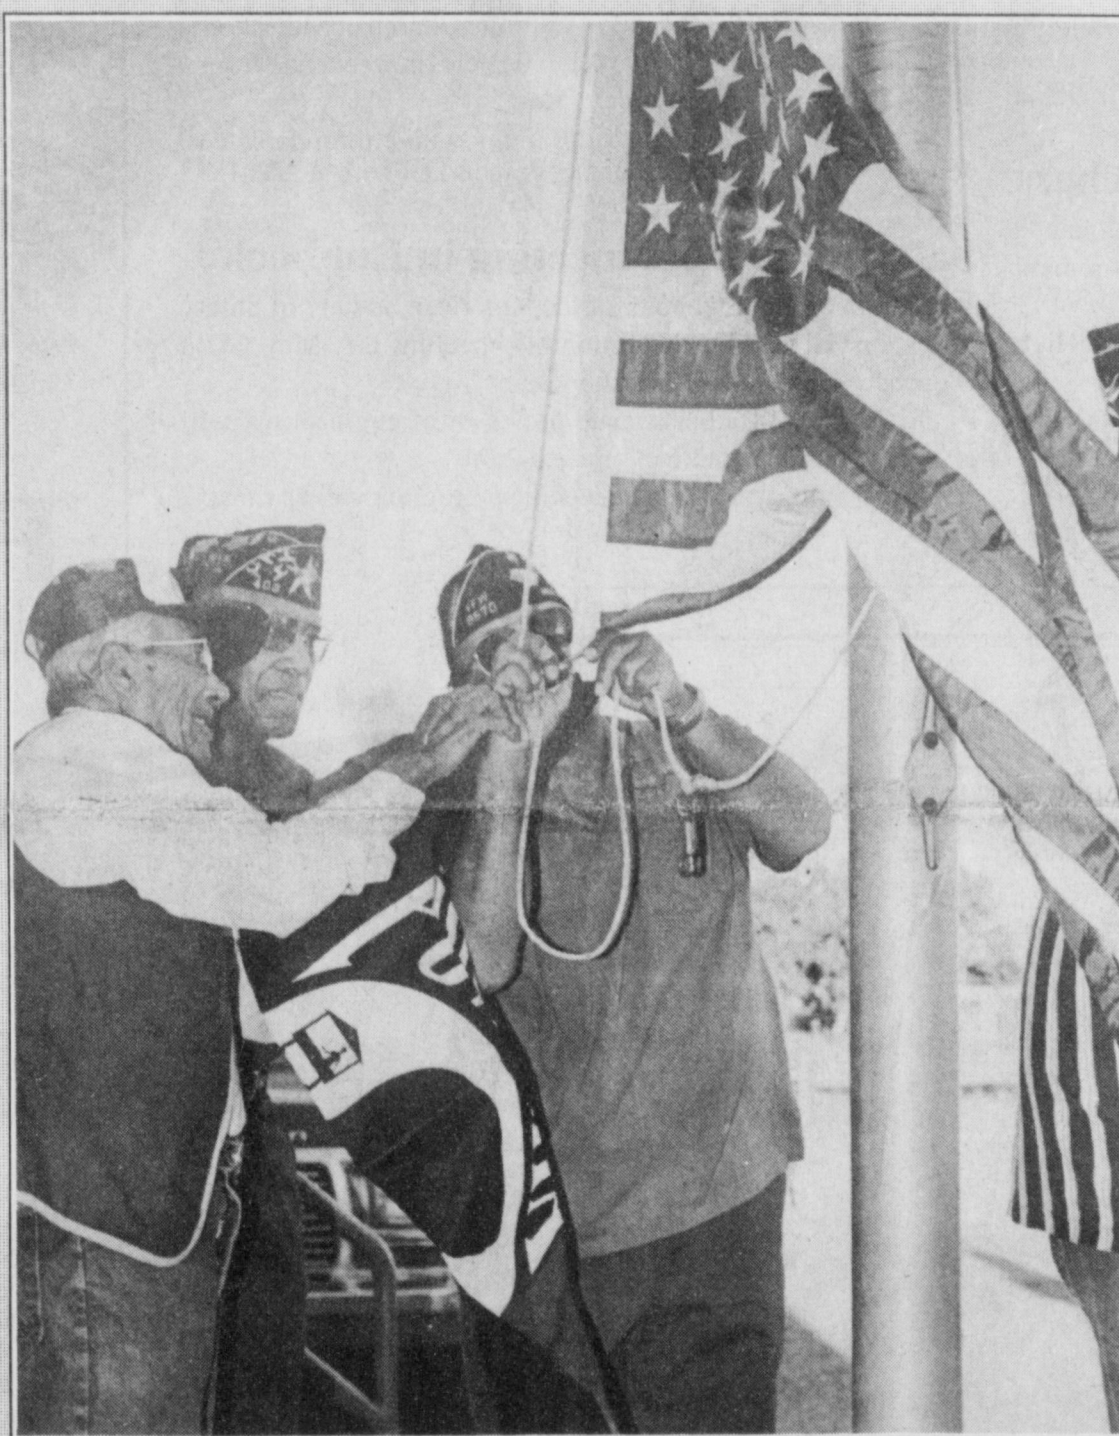

"As far as I'm concerned, we won," Boutell said.

Another judge told Boutell "that it was so refreshing to see how kids that are so proud of their community and where they come from."

Another described the students

Community group plans pro-active tack on substance abuse

By RICK WHITE
Managing Editor

Muleshoe school superintendent Bill Moore doesn't want to wait until it's too late to address one today's most troubling problems — teenage substance abuse.

"I think it's good we're not waiting for a tragedy to happen," said Moore, please that the Muleshoe community is trying to take a pro-active stance toward the substance-abuse problem. "These kids have been lucky they haven't had to go to a funeral."

Civic leaders have banded together to start the Muleshoe Parent's Coalition for a Drug-free Community.

The coalition has raised more than $3,500 in donations to get the program started, bringing in Krish Dhanam, a motivational speaker from the Zig Zigar organization, to talk to students and the community.

Parents and community members interested in joining the group are invited to hear Dhanam's powerful message at 7 p.m., Wednesday, May 20 at the Muleshoe High School auditorium.

He will speak to Muleshoe junior high, high school and the teaching staff earlier in the day.

"People have their heads deeply buried in the sand if they think that it is something that can't touch their family," said organizer Curtis Shelburne, minister of the 16th & D Church of Christ. "I have as big a stake in this as anybody in town because I have three teenagers and another about to enter junior high."

Both Shelburne and Moore said a parent's support group needs to be a broad-based community program and not affiliated with the churches or the school.

Food Pantry to serve Muleshoe's less fortunate

By TERESA STONE
Journal staff writer

Local residents have pulled together to bring Muleshoe another desperately needed social service — a food pantry.

Start up plans are well underway as many local churches have collaborated to help feed the hungry.

"Over the past few years we have known that the government plans to cut back on food stamps and other assistance programs," said Linda Low, a board member of the new food pantry. "We felt that as a community it is our responsibility to take up the slack and keep people from falling through the cracks, especially the elderly. We know we have to look out for each other."

The new Bailey County food pantry, which will be located at the old Leal's at 1542 W. American Blvd., is being organized to help supplement the needs of senior citizens, the disabled, and families with special needs.

A board of directors consisting of 13 members representing eight local churches has been elected. They will meet this month to create formal operational procedures and policies. Currently, board members hope to have the pantry fully operating by this fall.

Bailey County Director of Aging Services Berta Combs said that the food pantry will be filling a much needed service in the community, especially for senior citizens.

"We do have elderly people in Muleshoe going hungry," said Combs. "By the time they buy prescriptions, pay utilities and other bills, there's not always a lot left over for food."

Combs said that although most of her clients receive Medicare supplements for

Saylor appointed to boll weevil eradication board

AUSTIN — Bailey County is part of the Northwest Plains Boll Weevil Eradication Zone, recently finalized by Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry.

Perry also appointed John Saylor of Muleshoe to represent the zone on the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation Board of Directors.

The creation of the zone is geared to allow future eradication efforts to be tailored on a more localized scale for cotton growers with similar planting practices and problems.

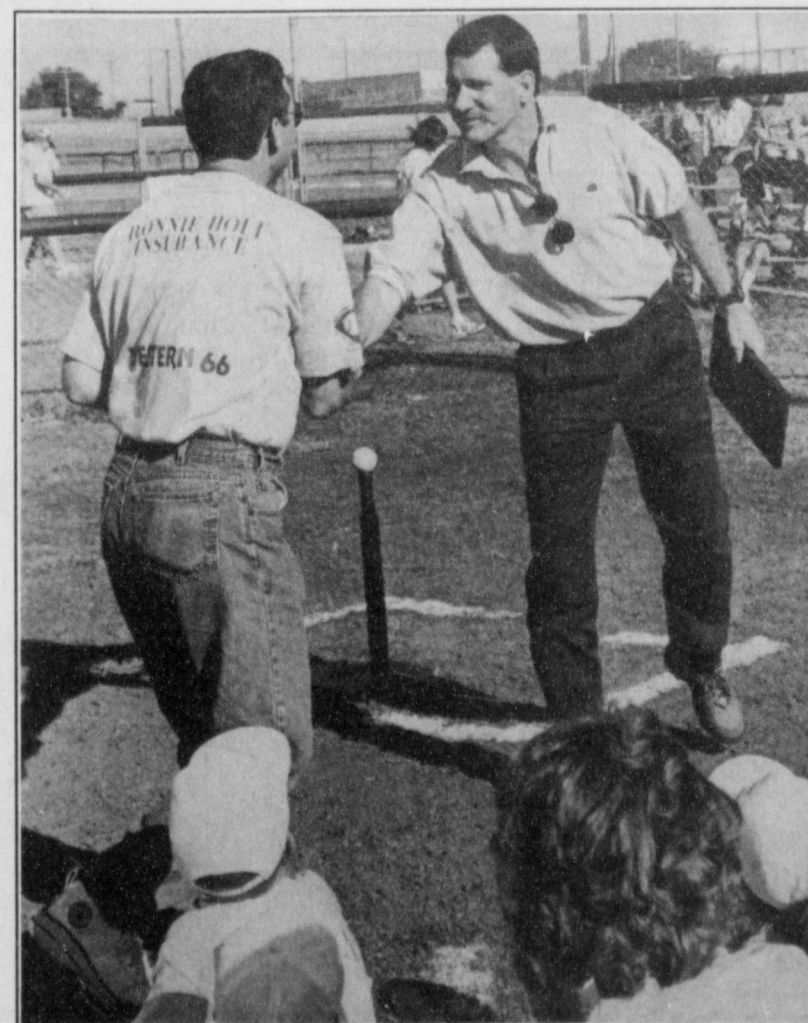

The Northwest Plains zone consists of about 450,000 acres of cotton in five counties: Bailey, Castro, Deaf Smith, Lamb and Parmer.

When cotton producers and the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation agree they are ready to proceed with an eradication program in the Northwest Zone, the Texas Department of Agriculture will set a referendum. At that time, growers and crop-sharing landowners in the zone will vote on whether or not to participate in an eradication program and to approve a minimum assessment.

An election would also be conducted to elect a representative from the zone to serve on the Foundation Board of Directors.

Winnie Berry was born January 17, 1905 in Madison County, Arkansas which is in the beautiful Ozark Mountains. She lived in Madison County until she was 5 years old. Winnie, her parents and her siblings moved to Scranton, Ark. and then to Paris, Ark. where Winnie attended high school.

Winnie is one of twelve children. Three sisters and one brother are still living. Mrs. Berry was born "somewhere in the middle of the bunch." Winnie once read in the bible that a child saves a person's soul. She smiles when she says this because "she's sure her mother is in heaven!"

Winnie married Murphy Berry in 1927. Mr. and Mrs. Berry moved to Odessa, TX where he worked as an apprentice in a machine shop and Winnie worked in a photo studio retouching and painting photographs. Mrs. Berry later managed a mobile home park for her husband while he continued to work at the shop.

Winnie and Murphy stayed in Odessa until their retirement. They settled in Farwell until Mr. Berry was placed in the nursing home in Muleshoe in 1977.

Mr. Berry passed away in 1988. The couple did not have any children.

Mrs. Berry enjoys many hobbies. A picture of Eve's tomb painted by herself hangs on the wall in her living room. The actual tomb is a tourist site which was featured in a 1903 magazine that Winnie found. She also enjoys gardening, sewing, crocheting and reading.

Mrs. Berry is a member of the Muleshoe Church of Christ. She participates in their "55 and Alive" program. They visit, have luncheons and play cards.

Winnie says that the staff of M.A.H.H.A. is very nice. They are polite people who care a great deal. She adds that "they sure know what they're doing!"

If this ol' hat could talk

"Ah, if this ol' hat could talk, it could tell a million stories..." What picture we conjure up thinkin' about an old cowboy's hat. Shading his eyes from the sun, dippin' water out of a creek, fannin' a bronc. It sure captures the romantic image of our Great American Hero.

I'm not certain why the hat is the choice of fashion conscious folklorists focused on flattering the federaly friendly. But it is.

I mean, have you ever heard anyone say, "If these ol' socks could talk..." What would an old sock say?

"Ya know I've laid for days between his gnarled foot and the sole of his stinking boot. It's like being stuck to the bottom of a dumpster. When the duct tape wore thin, everything he walked in slimed it's way inside. Dirt, cow manure, dust, cow manure, mud, cow manure. Well, you get the picture. And on those rare occasions when I saw daylight I was dryin' over a woodstove or airin' my holiness to the four strong winds hangin' on a bob wire fence. It is no life for the fastidious."

Or maybe "If this ol' pocketknife could talk..."

"I've been with Jim Bob since he lost his yella Barlow in the chemical toilet at the ranch rodeo back in '94. If I'd a known how bad I was gonna be treated, I'd a jumped in the bluewater, too. He don't seem to know the first thing about sharpenin' my blade. I've seen paper plates with a better edge. My tip's broke off from the time he tried to take the hubcap off his '69 Ford. One time he got mad and tried to stab a baked potato. Mashed it but never broke the skin..."

Or, "If this ol' moustache could talk..."

"I fell like a rest home for migrating lice. A birdhouse for nesting gnats. A picnic table for the common housefly. I get gnawed on, fondled, tugged, and twirled so much I feel like an easy date."

Or, "If this ol' pocket comb could talk..."

"If I loose one more tooth I'm gonna have to get an upper plate..."

Or, "If this ol' shirt pocked could talk..."

BAXTER BLACK

ON THE EDGE OF COMMON SENSE

"The next time he puts a half chewed cud of Redman in me while he's havin' lunch. I'm gonna prolapse in his bowl of Chili..."

Or, "If this ol' plastic sleeve could talk..."

Whoa, I'm beginning to see why those students of cowboy lore stick with the talking hat. It's hard to conjure up romantic images with a talking hearing aid or a reminiscing corn pad. But even with an ol' sombrero one takes a chance. I can remember getting sick in the back seat of my friend's new car. I found myself walking that fine line between good taste and throwing up in yer hat. It was not an easy decision.

prescriptions and medical care, their portion of needed medicine along with even minimal daily living expenses, can combine to be a heavy financial burden when relying on social security as the only source of monthly income.

Combs explained that many times the only decent meal some of her clients receives is the Meals on Wheels lunch delivered five days a week.

"At least right now we know they are able to get one good meal a day," said Combs. "But just like us, they have to think about eating at breakfast, dinner and on the weekends. The pantry will be a blessing for people that just can't always afford basic necessities such as food."

Senior citizens are not the only ones to benefit from the food pantry. Muleshoe families with and without children that need assistance will also be eligible for food pantry.

"We want to be flexible enough to serve everyone who really has a need," said Low. "We want people to feel comfortable in coming to us, or referring someone to us. As another board member put it, we are friends helping friends. We want people to know that we will be here to lend a helping hand."

"We want it to be a group of parents who get involved with helping kids make the right decisions," Shelburne said. "We know we can't cure the problem, but we can help."

Moore said parents need to know they are not alone.

"Being a parent is the toughest job in the world," Moore said. "Sometimes even though you know you're making the right decision it helps to have positive re-enforcement.

"We hope we can develop some kind of support network to help parents make the tough decisions."

Moore views underaged drinking as Muleshoe biggest substance-abuse problem and is troubled that alcohol is often overlooked as a drug.

"Even one student with a substance abuse problem is too many," Moore said.

MHS beats Friona; gains on Perryton

Muleshoe finally beat Friona when it counted, but it may be too late.

Matt Mason's two-run double and stellar relief from Layne Kemp keyed Muleshoe's 5-4 win against Friona Tuesday in a District 1-3A game at the city ball park.

The win, coupled with Perryton's 5-3 loss to River Road, leaves Muleshoe (15-10 overall, 9-4 in district) one game back of Perryton (14-10, 10-3) for the district's second playoff berth with one game left in the regular season.

Because the teams split during the regular season, a Muleshoe win Saturday against Sanford-Fritch and a Perryton loss at short-handed Dimmitt would leave the teams tied for second and result in a playoff.

Division I baseball signee Zack Matthews was scheduled to run a leg on the Dimmitt's 1600-meter relay team at the state track meet Saturday in Austin.

Friona slugged seven home runs and beat Muleshoe 13-9 in the team's first meeting. Tuesday's win was Muleshoe's first against Friona in district

Jeff Hamilton led off the inning with a walk and first baseman Perry Hanes followed with a double.

Muleshoe added what looked like an insurance run in the sixth when Friona reliever Justin Daniel couldn't find the plate.

After striking out the first two batters he faced, Daniel hit the next two to force in a run, giving Muleshoe a 5-3 lead. Rodney Alanis was tagged out Muleshoe Black scored six runs in the sixth inning and outlasted Friona 14-12 in a junior varsity slugfest Monday at the city ball park.

Rhett Kerby led Muleshoe's 14-hit attack with two doubles and two RBI and reliever Kyle Hahn picked up the win.

Kerby, Hahn, Russell Warren and Danny Ramirez all had two hits each for Muleshoe Black, which finished the year at 7-8.

Hahn, Warren and Travis Tunnell had doubles for Muleshoe and T.J. Hutto legged out a triple.

Hahn allowed five runs in 4 2/3 innings.

For the year, sophomore Mitch Mason led Muleshoe in hitting with a .630 average. Mason had six doubles, two triples, one home run and scored 11 runs in 11 games.

Sophomore shortstop Lucio Soto batted .455 with three doubles, a triple and 19 stolen bases in 15 games and Kerby batted .436 with five doubles and a triple.

■ Signs late after change of heart

Muleshoe senior Amy Locker figured her solid but unspectacular basketball career was over when the high school season ended.

But Lockersoon realized she wasn't ready to give up playing ball.

"I really like being part of a team," said Locker, who signed this week to play basketball at Lubbock Christian University. "This year, we had a great team. It was a lot of fun."

Locker, a 5-9 forward, averaged a modest 5.3 points and 3.5 rebounds a game, but she was the Lady Mules most versatile player.

Muleshoe coach Jim Gruhlkey said he knew he could play Locker anywhere on the court and often did.

"I'm real excited for her because she's finally getting rewarded for all the hard word," Gruhlkey said.

Locker attended a LCU try-out two weeks ago and Lady Chaps coach Miles Waters offered her a chance to play junior varsity.

"I thought I fit in pretty well," said Locker, an honors student who hopes to become a pediatrician. "After the first year, if it doesn't look I could move up (to the varsity) I'll probably give it up."

Locker, a two-year starter, scored a career-high 15 points in the Lady Mules' season-ending win at River Road. She said it gave her the confidence she could play at the college level.

"I want to give it a shot," Locker said.

Locker is the daughter of Fred and Ruth Locker.

She is the second MHS basketball player to sign with LCU. Senior Matt Mason signed with the Chaps earlier this spring.

Muleshoe tied the game with an unearned run in the third off Chieftain starter Jesus Mata.

Kemp also had two hits and Nix added a double. Muleshoe finished with seven hits off a three of Friona pitchers.

From your crop's point of view, the chances for recovery from a hailstorm aren't good. Be Careful Whose Promises You Trust

The phone rang at the house the other evening for the umpteenth time. We were in a hurry to get ready to go to one of the most recent end-of-school activities, but we weren't out the door yet, and the phone caught us.

We're also at that stage of life where phone calls at our house are rarely for Mom or satisfied, I'd get to keep the coverage at a really wonderful price.

Hmm.

We needed to leave, so I passed up this really wonderful offer pretty quickly. (If we'd all adopt the policy that we buy nothing that's hawked over the phone, we might have some hope of reclaiming "our" phones and more of our time.)

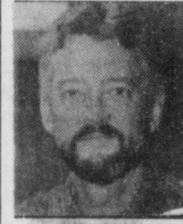

But I'd hardly hung up when I began to wonder. The devil's in the details, you know.

It seems to me that the only way to really adequately test your satisfaction with an accidental death policy is to, well, uh, accidentally die. And if you plan to test the policy ahead of time, that poses a bit of a problem since that sort of death is really ill-advised and hardly accidental. If by some stroke of amazing luck I really did happen to die really accidentally during that three month trial period, well, I suppose I'd be way ahead financially. But I would like to ask those folks what provisions they'd made to get in touch with me to see how satisfied I was with their service.

I see problems with this.

I have a hard time trusting folks who, it seems to me, make promises they can't possibly keep. I'm thankful we serve a God who has never once failed to keep His.

Curtis Shelburne

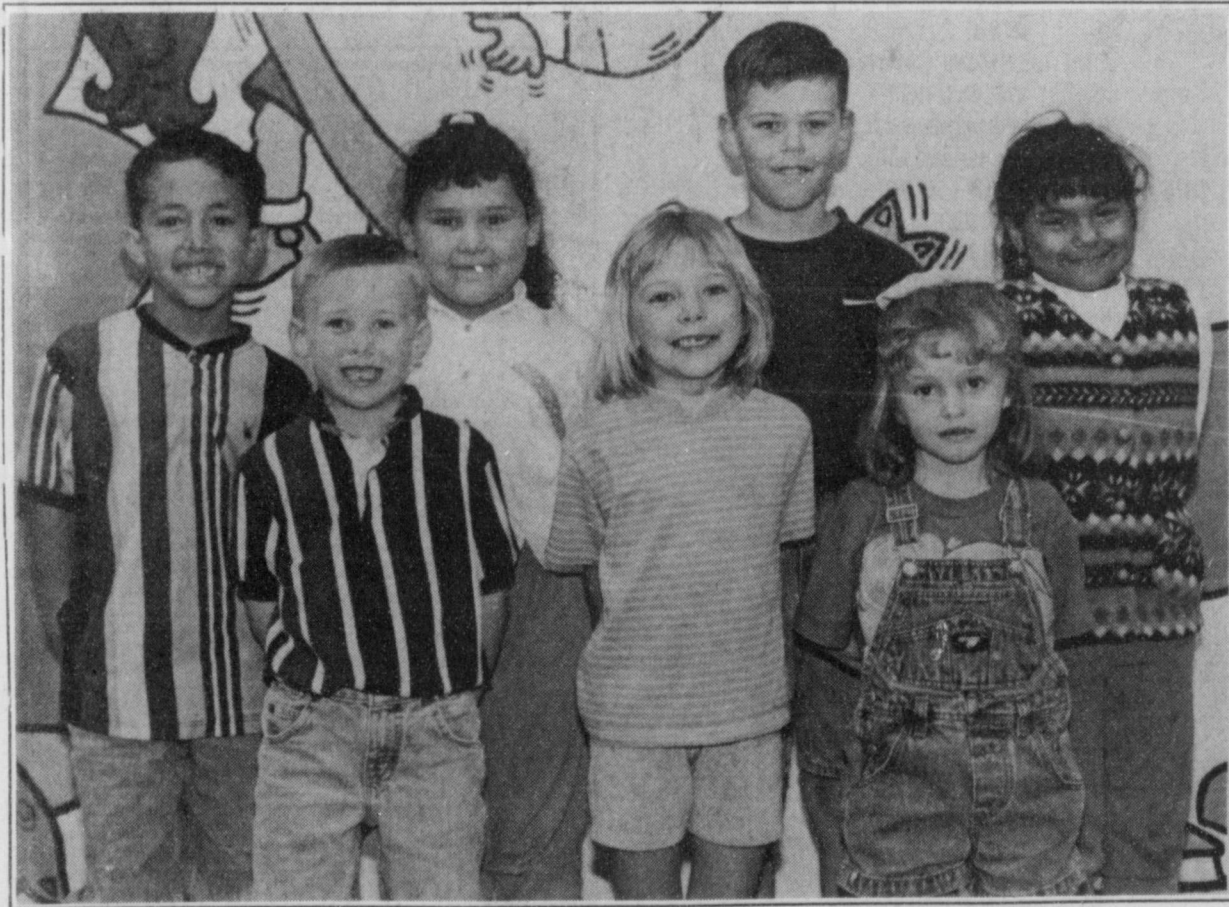

Dad, but I picked it up anyway—and recognized immediately that I was talking to one of the jillion telephone solicitors who conspire to be sure that none of us gets to eat an evening meal or watch a movie or do much anything else at home in unbroken peace.

But it was good news. Wonderful news, in fact, according to the disembodied voice on the other end of the line. I had been approved to receive for a free 90-day trial period $100,000 in accidental death insurance.

And the news got even better. If I wasn't completely satisfied at the end of the 90 days, all I had to do was tell them to cancel the policy. But if I was

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

AN INNOCENT MAN IN PRISON!

UNJUSTLY IMPRISONED, JOSEPH SHOULD HAVE BEEN EMBITTERED TOWARD THE FATE THAT SEEMED TO ENVELOP HIM! WHO COULD HAVE BLAMED HIM FOR DENOUNCING PHAROAH'S CRUELTY AND UNJUST SYSTEM OF IMPRISONMENT IN THOSE ANCIENT DUNGEONS? BUT JOSEPH WAS A MAN WHO TRUSTED GOD'S PURPOSE. HE DIDN'T WASTE TIME BEMOANING HIS DESTINY BUT TRIED IMMEDIATELY TO BETTER HIS CONDITION. (GENESIS 40: 22,23) BECAUSE OF HIS FAITH IN GOD AND GOD'S PROMISES HE SOON BECAME THE HEAD OF THE PRISONERS EMERGING AS RULER OF EGYPT ACCOUNTABLE TO PHAROAH ONLY.

Local EMS continues to give first rate care during emergency situations

This article was submitted by the Bailey County EMS in recognition of national EMS week, May 17-23.

The services provided by Emergency Medical Services, or EMS, are countless and very important.

To better understand the value of the local organization, it is important to know the history of EMS and the Bailey County EMS.

The idea of pre-hospital care had its beginning during the Korean War, where medics were used in the field. The basic training of these medics had a dramatic effect on lowering the mortality rate during the war.

EMS as it is known today began in 1966. In that year, the Department of Transportation initiated reform measures to provide funding to improve pre-hospital care in the United States. They were joined in their efforts in 1973 by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

In the early 1970s, thousands of dedicated individuals and professional organizations, guided by regulatory input from various levels of the government, organized and established local EMS systems.

By the 1980s, the focus changed from establishing EMS systems to developing education programs to provide consistent levels of quality care to the sick and injured.

Due to these diligent efforts of volunteers and paid professionals, there are few places in the United States that when an ambulance is needed, one is not available.

Locally, Bailey County residents have been fortunate to have ambulance services for over 60 years.

The first record found of an ambulance in the county was in the mid 1930s, ran by the local funeral homes in Muleshoe.

Steed Funeral Home of Clovis, NM opened a funeral parlor in Muleshoe, Operating the ambulance service, they used a sedan with the right passenger seat removed and a stretcher to fit in it's in place.

The Ellis family bought interest into the funeral home in 1959 and saw that Muleshoe had an ambulance service until July 1, 1984.

At that time, Bailey County and West Plains Hospital assumed responsibility. The hospital operated the service at a basic life support level until May 1, 1985.

Westwood then took over operations of both the ambulance service and the local hospital.

They hired Randy Watkins, who was the first paramedic in Bailey County, and upgraded to an advanced life support service.

At this time the ambulance building, that is located behind the hospital, was built. This building is still being used today.

On Sept. 15, 1986, Bailey County assumed responsibility of the ambulance service when Westwood left the hospital. On Nov. 11, 1986 the local hospital was forced to close.

During this time, whenever the pagers went off, the crews knew that they were going to Clovis, Littlefield, Portales or some other non-local hospital to get the patient the help needed.

To the relief of the entire community, the hospital reopened Oct. 26, 1987.

At the present time, Bailey County EMS operate an advanced life support system, which provides paramedics, heart monitors, and limited use of some pharmaceuticals.

Dr. Bruce Purdy is the medical director. Every aspect of the ambulance service has to follow Purdy's protocols, which were established to assure quality service.

The Bailey County EMS operates with three full time employees. Jackie Wayne Burris is the director and a paramedic. Gena Orozco is the secretary and emergency medical technician (EMT). Alex Garcia is also an EMT. The employees staff the EMS from 6 a.m. to 5 p.m. taking care of maintenance and upkeep of the ambulances, as well as billing and record keeping.

In addition to the three employees, Bailey County EMS has 12 volunteers. They include one EMT intermediate, six EMTs, 3 emergency certified assistants, and two drivers.

The volunteers rotate on-call shifts between 5 p.m. - 6 a.m. with 5 paramedics rotating on a daily basis.

In 1993 the Three Way community had four volunteers complete the EMT class. They now provide coverage for the south end of Bailey County.
