Commission: Officials hoped to prolong white rule

■ ANC has claimed that force of security members was involved in violence that's killed over 11,000.

Associated Press

PRETORIA, South Africa — South African police gave arms to Zulu rivals of the ANC and trained hit squads in the hopes of prolonging white rule, a judicial commission reported Friday.

The release of the report five weeks before the country's first multiracial elections is a political bombshell. It undermines President F.W. de Klerk's oft-repeated contention that the state has had no role in longrunning violence between the African National Congress and Inkatha Freedom Party.

The ANC has long claimed that a so-called "Third Force" of clandestine security force members was involved in the ANC-Inkatha violence that has killed 11,000 people in the past three years.

Two-vehicle collision leaves four injured

Staff Report

Three adults and a child were injured from a two-vehicle accident at Main Street and Scharbauer Drive about 2:30 p.m. Friday.

Two men were reportedly seriously injured when the dark blue 1981 Chevrolet Citation — westbound on Scharbauer Drive — failed to stop at the intersection according to witnesses, police at the scene said.

The car collided with a grey 1981 Ford pickup — southbound on Main Street — driven by a woman with a child as a passenger, police said.

All four were transported to Midland Memorial Hospital.

Names of the victims were not available late Friday night, as no report had been made.

Richards speaks at area ceremony for Highway 191

By Tonie Miller-Uzzel
Staff Writer

Gov. Ann Richards told jokes and boasted of the state's status as the biggest job creator of any state during her speech at the State Highway 191 dedication Friday afternoon.

Ms. Richards joined local and state leaders in a dedication ceremony and ribbon cutting for the highway. The ceremony was conducted on the top of the overpass over FM 1788 at a point approximately halfway between Midland and Odessa.

Research: Area school districts show decline in property values

By John Powers
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — All three area school districts showed a decline in property values from 1992 to 1993, reflecting a weakened economy, according to figures released Friday by a research organization.

Values dipped 0.2 percent for the Midland district, 1.2 percent in Greenwood and 6.3 percent at Ector County, according to the Texas Research League.

The average for 1,040 school districts statewide was a 2.3 percent gain, with 366 districts reporting a decline and 674 showing an increase.

The Midland and Lubbock education service center regions were the only two of 20 regions that showed a drop in values. The Midland region was down 4.4 percent and Lubbock was off 4.6 percent.

Property values can reflect economic strength, said John Kennedy, a senior research associate with the non-profit league.

"There are only two ways you can get an increase: By new property being added to the rolls, or the value of

Muslims, Croats sign agreement for single federation, push Serbs to join

WASHINGTON (NYT) — Bosnia's Muslim-dominated government and Bosnian Croats signed an agreement Friday that links their territories into a single federation, a move that aims to isolate the Bosnian Serbs and pressure them to make peace as well.

Administration officials said that the agreement was one indicator that an overall peace might be in the offing in Bosnia.

The brightened prospects, they said, are also a result of American and Russian pressures on the Bosnian Serbs to make territorial concessions to the new Bosnian federation.

To induce the Serbs to make peace, the United States and its Western allies are offering to seek the lifting of U.N. economic sanctions on Serbia, which supports the Bosnian Serbs.

The accord creating the new Bosnian federation was signed by Prime Minis-

Security Council vote may revive Mideast talks

Council condemns Hebron massacre; PLO stalls as Seria, Jordan, Lebanon OK talks with Israel.

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The PLO and three Arab nations moved Friday toward reviving peace talks with Israel after the Security Council unanimously voted to condemn the Hebron mosque massacre.

U.S. Ambassador Madeleine Albright told the Security Council after the 15-0 vote that Syria, Jordan and Lebanon agreed to resume negotiations with Israel.

While the PLO did not say it would return to the negotiating table, it took a step toward restarting the talks halted by the Feb. 25 massacre of 30 Arabs praying in a mosque in the West Bank city of Hebron.

Israeli and Palestinian negotiators were to meet Sunday or Monday in either Cairo, Egypt, or Tunis, Tunisia, where the PLO is based, said Israeli sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said

The United States had tried to withhold its support of the resolution until the PLO agreed to resume the peace talks. The PLO, however, insisted the resolution be adopted first.

A controversial clause regarding Jerusalem also drew attention. President Clinton was under pressure by 82 Senators to order a veto of a clause calling Jerusalem an occupied territory. In the end, Albright raised her hand to abstain, not veto, that clause, while approving the rest of the resolution.

The United States and Israel have objected to calling Jerusalem an occupied territory because they want the issue settled in peace talks. Jordan controlled East Jerusalem until 1967, when Israel took it during a war and then annexed it.

It would have been the first time that the United States had exercised its veto power on the council in four years.

The 15 Security Council members dusted off a procedure not used since 1985 to take separate votes on each paragraph of the resolution, first approving the section condemning the attack.

The Council members have argued for three weeks about the Jerusalem clause and a call for stationing "a temporary international or foreign presence" to protect Palestinians in the occupied territories.

All 15 nations approved the clause on protecting the Palestinians in the end, despite their differences.

The United States and Israel, not a Security Council member, are willing to accept an unarmed civilian force, but only in parts of the occupied territories to come under Palestinian autonomy according to the Sept. 13 Israel-PLO accord.

The PLO wants much more, such as an armed international force to protect Palestinians and removal of Jewish settlements from Palestinian population centers.

Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin of Israel has proposed Arab police be deployed in Hebron, provided they are under Israeli authority. And he is considering moving the Jewish settlers in Hebron into one enclave as a compromise with the PLO demands, Israeli army radio and the Haaretz daily reported.

Magazine calls Diana 'dead common' for taste in clothes

LONDON (AP) — Princess Diana tried to become a private person this year — but the public spotlight won't budge. This week, it's fixated on her clothes after a society magazine said she looked "dead common."

The 32-year-old princess handed ammunition to the fashion snipers by turning up Tuesday in an eye-catching jacket, tie and belt decorated with gold elephants to see her newborn nephew, heir to her brother Earl Spencer.

The headline-making fashion debate goes to the heart of the class system in Britain — where you are what you wear. The princess has a very aristocratic pedigree but lacks taste, according to Tatler, a glossy society magazine.

"The Princess of Wales has dismissed her bodyguards, relinquished her public duties and, so it would appear, mislaid her style advisers," the magazine said.

Then it unleashed the ultimate fashion insult, accusing Diana of dressing like a woman from suburban Essex County, reputed habitat of the tasteless nouveau-riche.

Rabid vampire bats kill Mexican boy, 150 animals

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Rabid vampire bats have killed at least 150 farm animals this year in a poor region of the northwestern state of Sinaloa, a university veterinarian said Friday.

Dr. Leonardo Almeida Vega of the Autonomous University of Sinaloa said a team from the veterinary school catalogued about 150 deaths of animals, apparently due to bat-transmitted rabies, over the past two months in the El Fuerte area, some 330 miles south of the U.S. border.

"The figure could be higher," he said in a telephone interview with The Associated Press.

"The central problem is that the people are completely abandoned... They are poor farmers with 10 to 15 animals" who have not used the widely available vaccines against rabies.

He said the team found many signs of vampire bat colonies. The bats spread rabies by mingling the blood of infected and non-infected animals.

He said that if farmers do not take anti-rabies measures, the outbreak could continue in the region and might spread. He said it could also affect human beings.

In December, a boy who had been bitten by a vampire bat died of rabies in the Urique region, about 75 miles northeast of El Fuerte, said Dr. Eduardo Rico Escobar, health coordinator for Chihuahua state.

Officials captured 57 vampire bats, but were unable to find rabies in any of them, he said in an interview Friday.

Rabies is endemic in the Tarahumara Mountain zone, Rico noted, and much of it spread among animals by vampire bats, coyotes and foxes.

A 6-year-old boy was near death Friday in the state capital, Chihuahua, with an apparent case of rabies, Rico said. A positive diagnosis, he said, cannot be made until after death.

Rico said the boy apparently had been bitten by a dog in a rural area south of Chihuahua city, though he said doctors not find marks of such an injury on his body.

WEATHER WATCH

Today to be partly cloudy, mid 80s

Today's forecast calls for partly cloudy skieswith a high 80-85 and southwest winds 10-20 mph, according to the National Weather Service at Midland International Airport.

Tonight is expected to be mostly cloudy with a low 55-60, the NWS said.

Sunday's forecast is mostly cloudy with a 30 percent chance of thunderstorms or showers and a high of 75-80, the NWS said.

Yesterday's high was 84, compared to the record high of 86, set in 1978. The record low for today's date is 21, set in 1965.

STATE

Only a few high clouds marred otherwise clear skies across Texas on Friday as high pressure built behind a weak cool front.

Temperatures warned into the 70s and 80s. At 3 p.m., Dallas Love Field reported 85 degrees and Sanderson had 88.

Winds across North Texas were northeasterly at 10 to 15 miles an hour behind the front, while southerly and southwesterly winds prevailed ahead of the front. West Texas had light and variable breezes.

Forecasters said North Texas would be mostly cloudy today with highs ranging from 78 to 84. Tonight was also expected to be partly cloudy and 57 to 64. Sunday was to be mostly cloudy and windy with a slight chance of thunderstorms in western and central portions and partly cloudy in the east. Highs 78 to 81.

West Texas was to be partly to mostly cloudy with a slight chance of showers and thunderstorms tonight in the Far West, Big Bend and Panhandles. Lows tonight were to range from the 40s in the Panhandles to the lower to mid 50s across the southern sections and highs today generally in the 70s and 80s areawide. Sunday was expected to remain warm.

The forecast for South Texas was for some early morning cloudiness and fog but otherwise fair. Highs today and Sunday in the 80s and 90s and lows in the 50s and 60s.

NATION

Both the Northeast and Pacific Northwest got whacked by winter storms Friday.

A storm system centered in the Ohio Valley produced yet more snow in sections of the Northeast, and the snow was heavy at times.

It fell from the Great Lakes eastward to the middle Atlantic coastal states. Although temperatures remained above freezing in many areas, significant accumulations were found in Michigan and Pennsylvania.

About 2 to 5 inches gathered in parts of Lower Michigan, while the heavier snowfalls in Pennsylvania included 5 inches at Erie, 4 at Punxsutawney and 3 at Pittsburgh and State College.

Strong winds blew across sections of the Ohio and Tennessee valleys, as gusts up to 45 mph caused damage in Ohio's Hamilton County, downing trees and damaging roofs. Gusts got up to 55 mph at Columbus, Ohio, and 46 mph in Lexington, Ky.

Thunderstorms across West Virginia produced strong gusty winds and pea-sized hail at Morgantown.

In the Northwest, a winter storm moving southeast from the Gulf of Alaska produced heavy snow and substantial rain, and the National Weather Service expected it to spread east into the northern Rockies.

More than 1½ inches of rain fell at Quillayute, Wash., while various winter storm warnings or advisories were posted for the Washington Cascades and Olympics as well as the Cascades of Oregon and the northeast mountains of Oregon.

Midland statistics

Pick 3 Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — Here are the Lotto Texas Pick 3 winning numbers drawn Friday by the Texas Lottery:

7-8-1

The following shows the decreases in property values for 1992-1993 for Midland County school districts:

School District	1992	1993	(In millions) %-change
Midland	$3635.9	$3630.0	-0.2
Greenwood	198.4	196.1	-1.2
Ector County	4745.8	4444.8	-6.3

existing property increasing," Kennedy said.

Midland showed declines in almost every category, including single- and multi-family residential, mobile homes, vacant lots, commercial, industrial, utilities and oil, gas and minerals. The district experienced a slight gain in rural real-estate values.

Greenwood had similar figures, except for a gain in industrial real estate, as well as rural land.

Ector County had slight to strong gains in most categories, but big declines in industrial real estate and oil, gas and minerals brought its total down sharply.

Property values are set by local evaluations. If values increase, school boards must vote on whether to reduce the tax rate to maintain the same level of property taxes, Kennedy said.

If a district does not lower its rate, and the gain in valuation revenues is equal to an increase of eight cents or more, taxpayers can vote in a rollback election.

At the extremes statewide, property values increased by more than 100 percent in a district in Jackson County and were down by 44 percent in Kennedy County Independent School District, the research league reported.

Districts in Austin, Conroe, Killeen, Laredo, Round Rock and Socorro reported increases of more than 10 percent.

Among the state's largest districts, Houston had a gain of 0.7 percent, San Antonio a 3.1 percent increase and El Paso a 9.8 percent jump.

Dallas reported a decline of 1.4 percent, Fort Worth a decrease of 3.3 percent and Amarillo a 2.1 percent dip.

SPEECH: Richards speaks at 191 dedication

(From 1A)

Midland County Judge Charles "Bro" Seltzer welcomed the crowd of about 100 people as he told the governor the old rivalry between Midland and Odessa "was settled on the football field."

He said the friendship marker on Highway 191 between the two cities should also point out the partnership between the two communities as they work together to get I-27.

Midland Mayor J.D. Faircloth called State Highway 191 a vital link in keeping the two cities working together with mutual benefit for both. He said Highway 191 was a focal point for Midland and Odessa to work together.

Odessa Mayor Lorraine Perryman said the days of bickering between the cities "have past."

She said officials, as well as citizens, have seen that the two cities "sink or swim together."

Introduced as the "Road King," Ray Stoker — former chairman of the Texas Highway Commission — praised Ms. Richards for her dedication and support for creating good roads and jobs.

Also speaking was Bill Burnett, the executive director of the Texas Department of Transportation. Burnett credited the local communities for their help in getting Highway 191 completed.

As Ms. Perryman introduced the governor, she said Ms. Richards appointed more West Texans to state offices than any other Texas governor.

"She has made the state of Texas the envy of the U.S. in job creation during her term," Ms. Perryman said.

Ms. Richards noted the need to create jobs and enhance economic development in West Texas and said she wants to do something concrete for the Midland-Odessa area.

She boasted of the fact that Texas has been the top state for the past two years in the area of job creation, with more than 500,000 more Texans working now than three years ago.

The governor said Texas will be a crossroads for the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), indicating Midland-Odessa will be right in the middle of the free-trade zone.

"You cannot get there without going through here," she said.

Ms. Richards credited the visionary leadership, who 20 years ago saw the need for the airport and State Highway 191. She called the highway a conduit for future growth.

She also noted the frequency that the road is used, with more than 12,000 vehicles traveling the road daily. She said those drivers are bringing more business and more jobs to the area.

She closed saying "thank heaven for West Texas!"

Following the ribbon cutting — with the assistance of the local chambers of commerce — Ms. Richards greeted residents, signed autographs and spoke to the media about the I-27 expansion and her gubernatorial campaign.

The governor said the I-27 proposals are not completed yet, but she will get a chance to review them with the decision being based upon qualifying data. She said she understood local officials wanted to get a good first impression about their proposal.

When asked how she felt about being in George Bush country, she replied with another question.

"Isn't this the area Bush was beat before?" she said, referring to Bush's unsuccessful bid for a state office in 1978.

Bush, son of the former president and considered a Midland native, is the Republican candidate for governor.

"I don't acknowledge any part of Texas belongs to anyone," Ms. Richards said. "It will be a good fight . . . and a tough race.

"We'll have to talk about credentials pretty soon," Ms. Richards said in regard to Bush's lack of political experience. "You've gotta work and show you know what you're doing."

Regarding county-jail overcrowding due to the shortage of prison space, Ms. Richards said 76,000 beds are being added to the prison system, doubling it from the previous size.

She said she anticipated the crowded conditions of county jails when she decided she wanted to "keep criminals locked up." She called the prison construction an overwhelming task, but one that is making good progress.

Ms. Richards also spoke about crime rates diminishing across the state as well as in every major community for the first time in 10 years. She credited that statistic to law-enforcement crackdowns and the fact that violent offenders serve longer sentences.

WHITE: Commission claims police gave guns to Zulus said tactics used by secret police to create an impression of political instability in the run-up to the April 26-28 elections included providing guns to Inkatha ruffians and instigating train massacres.

"The information indicates the existence of a sinister conspiracy committed to the destabilization of the country and the subversion of the transition to democracy," the ANC said in a statement.

It praised officers who provided proof of what it called "killer machines" within the police force.

De Klerk's National Party has been trying desperately to woo black votes. It has presented itself as the party of stability, blaming the front-running ANC for violence that has split many black communities.

The accusations also seemed likely to besmirch Inkatha's standing as an authentic black alternative to the ANC. Attempts to reach Inkatha officials for comment were unsuccessful.

At a news conference, de Klerk said he had a "clear conscience."

"There's no suggestion in this report that we knew about this or should have known about this. There's no suggestion of government involvement," he said.

The report did not charge involvement by any members of de Klerk's government. But it did contain an allegation that the Cabinet authorized an unusual $340,000 payout to the commander of the secret police unit involved, Vlakplaas, when he was discharged several months ago.

Implicated in the report, more than 100 pages long, was the No. 2 officer in the South African police force and two other top police generals. The report said the alleged activity took place from 1989 until "the very recent past."

The first evidence came to light only last month, the report said, and the senior officers allegedly involved denied any guilt.

De Klerk ordered the officers on immediate leave.

The allegations were announced at a joint news conference by de Klerk, Law and Order Minister Hernus Kriel and Judge Richard Goldstone, chairman of the respected independent commission given the task of investigating political violence two years ago.

The commission said its evidence was strong, but the charges must still be proven in court. De Klerk said he would invite an international task force to investigate.

The commission's report blamed a secret police unit called "Vlakplaas" for a "horrible network of criminal activity."

There was no information on the size of the unit, now disbanded. "The impression I have is that the scale is serious in terms of the number of people whose lives were lost," Goldstone said.

Fourteen lower-ranking police were also fingered, including the former KwaZulu police commissioner Gen. Jac Buchner.

In some incidents in Natal, where KwaZulu is located, the report said survivors of massacres reported that the same people who attacked them later showed up in KwaZulu police uniforms to investigate.

The report alleged that the police, using phony passports, would smuggle weapons in from Namibia and Mozambique, erase the serial numbers, then turn them over to Inkatha leaders in the violence-torn East Rand region and Natal province — site of most of the killing.

ANC president Nelson Mandela has long charged that elements of the security forces were secretly backing Inkatha, the Zulu-based political party headed by Chief Mangosuthu Buthelezi, to use political instability to prolong white minority rule.

There has been a long history of "dirty tricks" and secret operations by South African governments. A scandal in 1991 revealed that the government had secretly funneled money to Inkatha.

Inkatha is boycotting the election and in recent days has threatened to fight to defend a sovereign Zulu kingdom in its stronghold of Natal. It says it does not want to be dominated by a future ANC-led central government.

The investigation began when a police officer, identified as Q, approached Goldstone through an unnamed foreign diplomat and said he had information about "Third Force" activities. Q, described as a veteran, testified only on the basis of anonymity.

The Goldstone Commission, created in part to investigate suspicions that the government was behind "black-on-black" violence, is an advisory panel. It has no powers to subpoena witnesses or prosecute; its reports rarely have led to prosecutions.

PEACE: Muslims, Croats sign agreement

(From 1A)

ter Haris Silajdzic of Bosnia and a representative of the Bosnian Croats, Kresimir Zubac. Then the presidents of Bosnia and Croatia, Alija Izetbegovic and Franjo Tudjman, signed a second agreement that forms a loose confederation between Croatia and the new Bosnian federation.

President Clinton, who presided over the signing ceremony, said, "The agreements signed today offer one of the first clear signals that parties of this conflict are willing to end the violence and begin a process of reconstruction."

The agreements, reached over the last month, remain provisional until the new federation reaches a compromise over territory with the Bosnian Serbs. Only then can a map of the federation's boundaries be drawn.

Because Serbia is eager to see the sanctions phased out, it may now push the Bosnian Serbs to make territorial concessions in Bosnia, several diplomats suggested.

"We're closer now than we've ever been to achieving peace," an administration official said. "Serbia is weary of the sanctions. NATO's willingness to act has changed the dynamics, and Russia is playing a constructive role. But that fact that we're closer than before to peace doesn't mean we're going to get it."

'The agreements signed today offer one of the first clear signals that parties of this conflict are willing to end the violence and begin a process of reconstruction.'

—President Clinton

Friday's agreements, which were signed after an intense mediation effort by the United States, will create a federation on the 30 percent of Bosnia controlled by the Bosnian government and the Croats.

In two years of fighting that has claimed more than 200,000 lives, Bosnian Serbs now control about 70 percent of Bosnia.

Bosnia's Muslim-dominated government, backed by Washington, is urging the Bosnian Serbs to cede about 20 percent of captured Bosnian territory.

"Serbia and the Serbs of Bosnia cannot sidestep their own responsibility to achieve an enduring peace," Clinton said at the ceremony in the Old Executive Office Building.

In many ways, Friday's agreements represent an about-face by the Clinton administration, which originally opposed any carving up of Bosnia.

"It's another step toward partition," said Marshall Harris, a former State Department desk officer on Bosnia who resigned last August in protest over the administration's Bosnia policy.

"I'm gravely concerned that the way we entice them toward peace is by giving them everything they ask for."

Administration officials defended the agreement as the best way to resolve a dismal situation. They denied that they are sanctioning carving up Bosnia, saying they will press the Bosnian Serbs to join the federation.

But a more likely outcome, several officials acknowledged, is that the Bosnian Serbs will form their own state, which they expect to be confederated with or annexed by Serbia.

The administration has long opposed the idea of Serbia's annexing parts of Bosnia controlled by the Bosnian Serbs, but in recent days several American officials have signaled that they would accept it if the Bosnian Muslims did.

Vitaly Churkin, Russia's deputy foreign minister, seemed to anticipate such a move. He said the new confederation between Croatia and the new Bosnian federation would make it legitimate for Bosnian Serbs "to enter a similar arrangement" with Serbia.

Reacting to Friday's agreements, Momcilo Krajisnik, president of the Bosnian Serbs' parliament, told Tanyug, the Yugoslav news agency, that the Muslim-Croatian federation is "an unnatural creation" that will never work.

The Bosnian Constitution signed Friday will form a state with about 15 cantons — some Muslim-dominated, some Croat-dominated, some about even. Muslims and Croats would share power and be responsible for foreign affairs, national defense and commerce.

Jury convicts 2 Tennessee teens in murders of 3 boys

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Two teen-agers were convicted Friday of killing three boys who were abducted and brutally beaten while on a bike ride through their neighborhood.

Jurors deliberated a little less than two days before convicting Damien Echols and Charles Jason Baldwin of three counts each of capital murder. They face the death penalty or life without possibility of parole.

Echols, 19, and Baldwin, 16, were convicted of killing West Memphis second-graders Steve Branch, Chris Byers and Michael Moore.

The three 8-year-olds disappeared May 5 while riding their bicycles near their homes in their West Memphis neighborhood. Their bodies were pulled from a drainage ditch the next day.

The boys were reportedly tied up and beaten, and the brutality of their slayings sent shock waves through their community across the Mississippi River from Memphis, Tenn.

Echols and Baldwin were arrested June 3 after a friend, Jessie Lloyd Misskelley Jr., made incriminating statements to police.

Misskelley, 18, was convicted last month of one count of first-degree murder and two counts of second-degree murder. He is serving a prison sentence of life plus 40 years.

U.S. considers tougher response to N. Korea

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States may reinstate plans for military maneuvers with South Korea and send Patriot missiles there in response to the latest breakdown in nuclear diplomacy with North Korea, President Clinton said Friday.

Rep. Lee Hamilton, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, had urged new defensive preparations for U.S. forces in South Korea. And Seoul, in a turnaround, said it was ready to accept the Patriots and hold the maneuvers.

Clinton told reporters he still was hopeful that North Korea would change course and permit full inspection of its nuclear facilities, resume nuclear talks with the South and end its isolation from the world community.

"If North Koreans decide they do not want to pursue that goal, then we'll have to consider what our other options are," Clinton said in an interview with regional reporters at the White House. "The ball is in their court."

Asked about going ahead with joint military maneuvers with South Korea and sending Patriot air defense missiles, Clinton said, "Both of those options are under consideration."

The White House scheduled a meeting of Clinton's top national security aides for today to discuss the situation in North Korea, where international inspectors this week were blocked from finishing a check on nuclear facilities.

North Korea contends its nuclear sites are only for peaceful research, but the United States and other nations claim they are being used to build nuclear bombs.

The inspection snag has increased the likelihood that the United States and others will push for U.N. economic sanctions against North Korea, a move the communist government in Pyongyang has said would be tantamount to a declaration of war.

"The pattern here has been that North Korea does eventually accede if enough pressure is put on them," Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said on NBC's "Today" show.

"We can't be sure that that will happen again," he added. "All we can do now is ratchet that pressure up and at the same time keep open the opportunity for a negotiated solution."

Hamilton called for a resumption of U.S.-South Korean military exercises and the deployment of Patriot missiles, but added that "the preferred option here in terms of pressure" was pushing for economic sanctions by the U.N. Security Council.

In Seoul, national security adviser Chung Chong-wook said his government would propose reinstating the joint U.S.-South Korean military exercise known as "Team Spirit," which had been suspended to coax the North into allowing nuclear inspections. The planned Patriot deployment also will go ahead now, he said.

Chung spoke after a 20-minute phone conversation between Secretary of State Warren Christopher and South Korean Foreign Minister Han Sung-joo, in which they agreed to study new measures to deal with the dispute.

Last December, the senior U.S. military commander in South Korea, Army Gen. Gary Luck, had requested that Patriot air defense missiles be installed in South Korea as protection for airfields and ports within range of the North's Scud missiles.

New welfare plan lets most parents skip employment

WASHINGTON (AP) — After five years and $15 billion in new services for the poor, only a fraction of all parents on welfare would be nudged into the work force under the Clinton administration's draft strategy.

President Clinton raised expectations for sweeping reform when he promised during his campaign to "end welfare as we know it" and require all able-bodied recipients to take a job after two years on the rolls.

His aides, however, have drafted a plan that initially exempts two-thirds of all parents on welfare from any time limits or work requirements, covering only those born after 1972.

And it takes years before significant numbers of welfare recipients are pushed into a private job or a subsidized work program.

At the end of the plan's first five years, just 200,000 of the estimated 1.67 million young families who will be covered by the new welfare system will either leave the rolls because of various reforms in day care, welfare and health care, or have a parent working in a subsidized job.

The administration argues that it is smarter, in an era of scarce resources, to move carefully and target its reforms on the youngest mothers with the highest risk of long-term welfare dependency and the greatest potential for turning their lives around.

"It is much better to start with a small program that sends a strong signal to new recipients that things are different. And a system that is more easily administered makes a real guarantee that the sanctions are going to be enforced," said a senior administration official who insisted on anonymity.

Agents probe trail of missing military surplus

SISSETON, S.D. (AP) — Federal authorities are investigating allegations that more than $50 million worth of surplus military equipment loaned to American Indian tribes was stolen and resold for huge profits.

Agents have seized more than $10 million worth of boats, trucks and earth-moving equipment. No charges have been filed, but U.S. Attorney Karen Schreier said last week that the investigation was just beginning.

According to court documents filed by federal investigators and to officials familiar with the case, the deals worked like this:

Officials from the Sisseton-Wahpeton Sioux Tribe and the Seminole Tribe of Florida hired businessmen to obtain surplus military equipment in the tribes' name. The material included construction equipment, helicopters and even a machine designed to lay land mines.

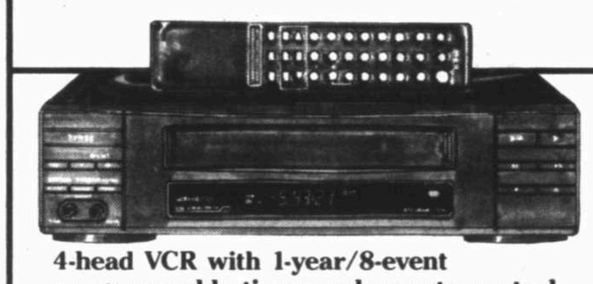

Under federal law, the Bureau of Indian Affairs can loan surplus military equipment to tribes for work such as road construction, Schreier said. If the tribe wants to keep the machinery after 18 months, the BIA can donate it to the tribe.

"The purpose is to make sure it's being used by a government entity and it's not being sold," Schreier said.

But most of the equipment never made it to the tribes; instead, the middlemen sold it for huge profits or used it in their own businesses, federal investigators say. The BIA apparently never checked to see what happened to the machinery.

"Our people are living in poverty, and here we had people out there making millions," said Lorraine Rousseau, a former chairwoman of the 5,200-member Sisseton-Wahpeton tribe who was ousted from office in August, a month after she asked Schreier to investigate.

Jury acquits mother who castrated dad with scissors

Prosecutors: Woman invents Lorena Bobbitt-style defense.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A woman who castrated her husband with a pair of scissors was acquitted Friday of mayhem and assault with a deadly weapon.

A seven-woman, five-man jury deliberated three days before reaching its verdict in the trial of Aurelia Macias, 36, of Los Angeles.

The panel was unable to reach a verdict on a lesser charge of battery filed against Mrs. Macias for the Sept. 20, 1992, attack on her husband, Jaime.

Mrs. Macias, who sobbed when she testified about how she castrated her husband, showed no emotion as the verdicts were read.

Her lawyer argued that she was a battered wife who was about to be raped by her husband and believed her life was in danger when she cut off his testicles.

Prosecutors accused Mrs. Macias of inventing a battered-wife defense similar to that presented by Lorena Bobbitt, the woman who cut off her husband's penis. A jury acquitted Ms. Bobbitt by reason of temporary insanity.

Deputy District Attorney Larry Longo said Mrs. Macias purposely castrated her husband because of jealousy over his affairs. Longo maintained Mrs. Macias did it while her husband slept in a drunken stupor after a party where Mrs. Macias became jealous of her husband's dancing with another woman.

Defense attorney Nan Whitfield said there was no evidence Macias was asleep, and denounced Longo for failing to call the husband as a witness.

Longo accused Mrs. Macias of inventing the battered-wife defense after seeing the Bobbitt verdict.

"The first time she said it was on the witness stand," Longo said of the self-defense claim. "Maybe after watching the Bobbitt trial she thought, 'Oh, that will sound good.' She made up this defense."

Mrs. Macias testified that on the night of the attack her 39-year-old husband tried to force her to have sex while she was trying to give their crying 6-month-old baby a bottle of milk.

"He wanted to have sex with me and I didn't want to. . . . I grabbed some scissors from a drawer and I harmed him. I cut him," she sobbed.

The couple is said to have reconciled since the attack and Mrs. Macias did not want to press charges against her husband.

POLICE REPORTS

Shooting

Two suspects were in Midland County Jail Friday night following their arrests in connection with the shooting of a convenience store clerk, police said.

Duane Robert Belloc, 18, and a 15-year-old male were both arrested and charged with attempted capital murder, police Sgt. David Garcia said.

They were arrested at 1 p.m. Friday in the 1500 block of South Atlanta Street following a tip to Crimestoppers. The caller to Crimestoppers said the suspects were involved in the Wednesday shooting of Ricky Patterson, a clerk at Friend's convenience store, 2110 Front St.

When officers arrived at the South Atlanta Street residence, Belloc escaped on foot, Garcia said. He was pursued by officers who saturated the area with patrol cars and later captured Belloc, he said.

Patterson was shot in the head during a robbery and was admitted to Memorial Hospital and Medical Center in critical condition. His condition was upgraded to stable on Friday, a nursing supervisor said.

"The investigation is continuing and we are still searching for a third suspect," Garcia said.

Bond had not been set at press time.

Weapons

Parents of South Elementary School pupils received letters home informing them that two knives were confiscated from youngsters on campus Wednesday.

According to South Principal Retha Rae Wright, a pocket knife, and a butterfly knife with a sliding blade were confiscated.

She said disciplinary action was taken against students who brought the knives to school, and the knifes were found as part of an ongoing investigation.

Drug arrest

ODESSA — Two Odessans had posted bond late Friday night following a drug arrest. Wesley Mark Bingham, 36, and Melinda Sue Bingham, 24, were both charged with possession of 8 grams of methamphetamine, a second-degree felony.

They were arrested 8:25 p.m. Thursday, after officers of the District Attorney's office executed a search warrant at 3850 Englewood Circle. Estimated street value of the seized narcotic is $2,400.

Although both suspects had posted bond from Ector County Jail, an officer at the jail said she had no information on the dollar amount of the bond set.

Explosives

ODESSA — Some burglars may be in possession of highly explosive blasting caps, according to the Odessa Police Department.

Thursday night, during a burglary of oilfield equipment, a number of electric blasting caps were taken. The blasting caps were designed and manufactured for specific oilfield applications and are extremely dangerous. They are sensitive to electric shocks, friction, static electricity, radio frequency energy and electrical current.

"There is a great potential for these detonators to function accidently," said Detective Corporal Vic Sikes, a hazardous devices technician with the Odessa Police Department's Criminal Investigation Bureau.

Any person with information about the blasting caps should call the police department. Persons who come in contact with the caps should call the police so that qualified persons can properly remove and dispose of them.

Boys shave heads out of love for sick friend

OCEANSIDE, Calif. (AP) — In Mr. Alter's fifth-grade class, it's impossible to tell which boy is undergoing chemotherapy. Nearly all the boys are bald. Thirteen of them shaved their heads so a sick buddy wouldn't feel out of place.

"If everybody has their head shaved, sometimes people don't know who's who. They don't know who has cancer, and who just shaved their head," said 11-year-old Scott Sebelius, one of the baldies at Lake Elementary School.

For the record, Ian O'Gorman is the sick one.

Doctors recently removed a malignant tumor from his small intestine, and a week ago he started chemotherapy to treat the disease, called lymphoma.

"Besides surgery, I had tubes up my nose. I had butterflies in my stomach," said Ian, who'll have eight more weeks of chemotherapy in an effort to keep the cancer from returning.

Ian decided to get his head shaved before all his hair fell out in clumps. To his surprise, his friends wanted to join him.

"The last thing he would want is to not fit in, to be made fun of, so we just wanted to make him feel better and not left out," said 10-year-old Kyle Hanslik.

"It's hard to put words to," said Ian's father, Shawn, choking back tears as he talked about the boys. "It's very emotional to think about kids like that who would come together, to have them do such a thing to support Ian."

The boys' teacher, Jim Alter, was so inspired that he, too, shaved his head.

"You're showing the world and the country what kids can do. People think kids are going downhill. This is the best," Alter said.

He added that Ian's illness has proved to be one of the most important lessons of his class.

Dallas wins much coveted NAFTA secretariat office

DALLAS (AP) — Months of intense lobbying paid off for Congressman John Bryant and Dallas officials, who announced Friday they have been selected over several other major cities as the site for a coveted NAFTA labor office.

"This is an historic decision for Dallas and for North Texas," Bryant, D-Dallas, said at a news conference.

"As the only city in the United States to host a NAFTA secretariat, Dallas will be central to the implementation of the NAFTA and central to our ongoing trade relationship with Canada and Mexico, and ultimately, other nations of our hemisphere and throughout the world."

The secretariat will monitor labor issues stemming from the North American Free Trade Agreement. President Clinton is expected to formally nominate Dallas as the site Monday when high-level trade officials from the United States, Mexico and Canada meet to work out further details of NAFTA's implementation, Bryant spokesman Carlton Carl said.

The three countries must agree on the secretariat's location, but Carl said he didn't expect any hurdles.

"The selection of Dallas as the site of this office, which will oversee labor, wage and employment conditions related to the agreement, shows just how important a player Texas really is," Gov. Ann Richards said in a statement.

Dallas won the nomination over Houston, San Antonio, Denver and several other cities. Bryant has worked with Dallas and administration officials for the last five months seeking to advance the city's bid, Carl said.

Greater Houston Partnership President Jim Kollaer told the Houston Chronicle that "obviously, we would like to have seen it in Houston, (but) as long as it's in Texas, it's a plus for the Texas market."

Dallas said its offer included provisions that would save the three governments $15 million over 10 years. The biggest item is free office space in downtown Dallas.

Other incentives include pro bono legal services, translation services, remodeling and relocation assistance.

Bryant made the announcement with Assistant U.S. Trade Representative Chip Roh; Labor Deputy Undersecretary Jack Otero; and Greater Dallas Chamber of Commerce officials.

The labor secretariat is one of three to be created under the provisions of the sweeping trade agreement linking the economies of the three countries. The pact went into effect Jan. 1 and is being phased in over a 15-year period.

The other secretariats are an environmental secretariat, to be located in Canada, and an overall secretariat in Mexico that will be responsible for coordinating implementation of the trade accord.

The labor and environmental secretariats, envisioned as independent entities, will report to labor and environmental commissions designed to oversee enforcement of NAFTA.

Teacher fired over prayer sues Waco School District

WACO (AP) — A teacher who was fired for allegedly conducting prayers in class has sued the Waco School District, charging she was unlawfully dismissed because of her religious beliefs.

Linda Thrasher was fired Feb. 16 for violating a district policy against religious ceremonies in class.

Waco school board members, who voted 4-2 in favor of the firing, said Ms. Thrasher was conducting prayers in her third-grade classroom at Mountainview Elementary School after she had been warned to stop.

The lawsuit, filed Thursday in McLennan County's 19th District Court, names board members Jill McCall, Bill Boyd, Ralph Strother and Kris Olson. All four voted to fire Thrasher. The lawsuit also names Superintendent Fred Zachary and the school district.

Ms. Thrasher's attorney, Wes Holmes, argues that she did not violate district policy. Holmes claims instead that school officials violated Ms. Thrasher's religious beliefs and breached her employment contract.

"I just think that, factually, she was discriminated against, and I think we're going to be able to prove it," Holmes said. "We think that she didn't violate the policy."

Two board members named in the lawsuit disagreed.

"It's nonsense and we'll see her in court," said Strother, a local attorney.

Board member Bill Boyd, pastor of Austin Avenue Methodist Church, echoed the sentiment.

"It seemed clear-cut to me that she violated written instructions given to her by her supervisors," Boyd said. "Religious beliefs have nothing to do with it."

Mountainview Principal Raymond Weldon had given Ms. Thrasher verbal and written warnings to stop conducting "quiet times" in class and refrain from reading Bible stories to her students.

Ms. Thrasher says she used the quiet times to settle the children down and help them focus, according to her lawsuit.

However, during the February school board hearing, Ms. Thrasher admitted telling Weldon that God's rules supersede man's rules.

Corpus Christi man wins jackpot share

AUSTIN (AP) — For the second time in his life, Thomas E. King of Corpus Christi correctly guessed the six numbers that would win a multimillion-dollar lotto game.

But this time, he played.

King's return was a $15.4 million share of Wednesday night's record $77.1 million Lotto Texas jackpot.

King, 20, claimed the prize Friday.

"He tried to get me to buy him a ticket to California's $54 million lottery a few years ago, but at the time we didn't have the money, King's mother, Florademaya.

King, a native of the Philippines, said the same six-number combination he had guessed in California was used as a base set of numbers for generating his winning Texas ticket. This time, however, he bought nine tickets and had a premonition.

"Three days before the drawing I told mama, 'I'm going to win this one,'" he said in a statement issued by the Texas Lottery

Church speakers to focus on AIDS

First United Methodist Church, Main Street at Illinois Avenue downtown, is presenting speakers who talk about AIDS at 6:15 p.m. Wednesdays in Room 102:

- Wednesday, Pat McClain, representing the American Red Cross, will speak on "Facts and Figures" concerning the AIDS crisis locally, nationally and worldwide;
- March 30 Judy Warren, executive director of Midland Area AIDS Support, will discuss why she founded MAAS, describe the functions of this local organization and answer questions.

All presentations will be from 6:15 to 7:15 p.m. For more information call the church. All are invited to attend.

Tonya mugged

PORTLAND, Ore. — Tonya Harding got her mug shots and fingerprints taken at a downtown jail Friday to begin her life as a convicted felon.

"She was very quiet and demure when she came in," said Jeff Snyder, a Multnomah County community corrections supervisor. "This is a rather traumatic process for somebody to get into.

"This is the walking through the gate into the real world of being on probation."

In a deal with prosecutors, Harding, 23, pleaded guilty Wednesday to conspiracy to hinder prosecution in the attack on rival figure skater Nancy Kerrigan. Harding will serve no jail sentence but was placed on three years' probation.

That probation officially began Friday when she met with corrections officials. The case immediately was reassigned to Clackamas County, where Harding recently moved.

"She'll be calling her probation officer by early next week," said Ingrid Lewis, supervisor of community corrections in Clackamas County. "They'll schedule an appointment."

Upset with Tonya

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Olympic Committee, upset with the Tonya Harding affair, will form a task force to re-examine the federal law that governs amateur athletics.

When the USOC considered a disciplinary hearing against the figure skater, Harding filed a $25 million suit in the Oregon courts. The USOC allowed her to skate rather than allow litigation over a restraining order detract from the Lillehammer Games.

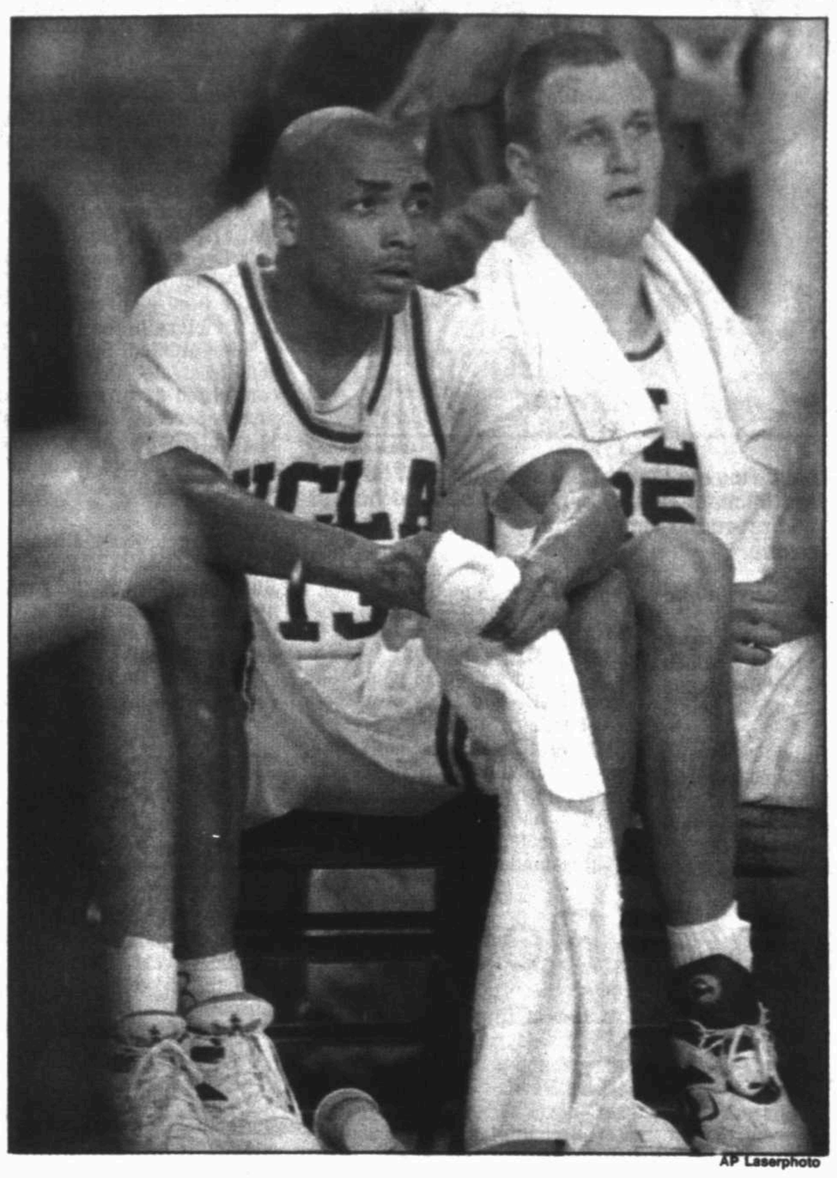

"Never in life again," USOC president LeRoy Walker said Friday as a three-day meeting of the USOC executive council and board of directors began. "We have to have this thing resolved before the Atlanta Games."

UCLA's Ed O'Bannon, left, and Jiri Zidek sit stunned as they watch the final minutes of the Bruins's upset loss to Tulsa in the first round.

Tulsa humbles tradition-rich UCLA, 112-102

■ Golden Hurricane runs to 29-point lead in knocking tradition-rich UCLA out of the tournament in the first round.

By Doug Ferguson
Associated Press Writer

OKLAHOMA CITY — So much for tradition. So much for experience. So much for UCLA.

The Bruins, with 10 national titles in 30 NCAA tournament appearances, made an early exit in this year's tournament when Tulsa ran out to a 29-point lead Friday and hung on for a 112-102 upset in the Midwest Regional.

"As I told our team, this is a humbling game," UCLA coach Jim Harrick said.

Was it ever.

The Golden Hurricane (22-7), making their first NCAA appearance in seven years, scored the first 10 points of the game, led 46-17 at one point and wound up leading 63-38 at halftime.

The 63 points were the most the Bruins have given up in a half all year, and it was just the second time in 92 tournament games that UCLA has given up more than 100. Tulsa won for the second time in eight NCAA tournament games. The only other victory game in a consolation game in 1955.

■ Midwest Regional

"They had a reaction like, 'You guys can actually play,'" said Gary Collier, who led Tulsa with 34 points. "They gave us a little more respect and started playing harder in the second half."

But by then it was too late.

UCLA (21-7) managed to pull to 72-60 before Collier responded with a 3-pointer and a three-point play on the same possession. It was 92-84 with 3:58 remaining, but Shon Tarver missed a 3-pointer and Tulsa made nine of 10 free throws down the stretch.

"I was very embarrassed," said Ed O'Bannon, who led the Bruins with 30 points and 18 rebounds. "I felt like we were a better team than what we showed in the first half."

Tulsa plays Oklahoma State in the second round Sunday. The Cowboys beat New Mexico State 65-55 earlier Friday.

The Bruins, ranked No. 1 at one point this year and making their sixth straight NCAA appearance, were the ones early on who looked nervous, tentative and sloppy.

They missed easy put-backs. They got outhustled for loose balls. They threw length-of-the-court passes that were either intercepted or sailed out of bounds.

Longhorns have priorities in line

■ Texas, one of NCAA's hottest teams, has shown it can play with the Big Eight.

By Doug Tucker

WICHITA, Kan. — Playing Michigan today — not proving their mettle to Big Eight dissenters — is the top priority for Texas.

When the Longhorns, Texas Tech, Baylor and Texas A&M voted last month to join the Big Eight, comments out of places like Iowa and Kansas were less than flattering.

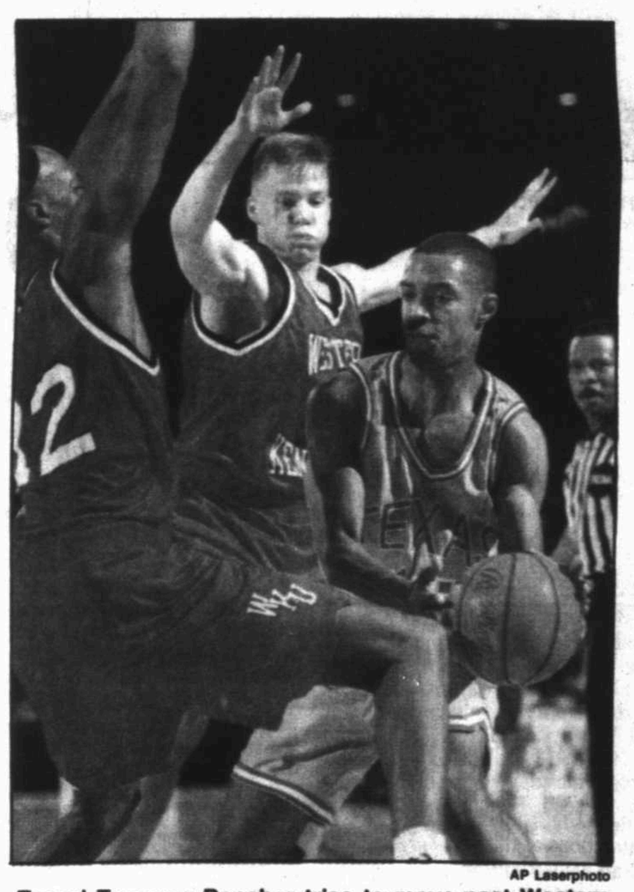

Texas guard B.J. Tyler, the Southwest Conference player of the year, doesn't believe that's a valid point, but won't become preoccupied with proving otherwise.

"We beat Oklahoma this year. We beat Nebraska. They're Big Eight teams," he said. "We're not out here to prove anything to anybody. We're here to prove something to ourselves."

Perhaps they already have. The run-and-gun Longhorns looked unstoppable Thursday night during a 91-77 victory over Western Kentucky in the first round of the Midwest Regional.

Despite any prejudices haughty Big Eight fans might bear, the high-scoring, No. 6 seed Longhorns (26-7) are just about the NCAA's hottest team, winning 19 of their last 20 games behind the versatile guard play of Tyler, Roderick Anderson and Terrence Rencher.

LUBBOCK — The Lady Raiders matured as a team this week in their first-round NCAA tournament victory, Texas Tech coach Marsha Sharp said Friday.

New players, especially, had to overcome the emotion of defending a national championship, she said.

"We grew up a little bit, I think, as a group, and we understand a little bit more today than we did Tuesday about what it takes to hold it together," said Sharp, whose No. 9 Lady Raiders routed Missouri, 75-61.

Tech (27-4), the second seed of the Midwest Region, plays tenth-seeded Creighton at 2 p.m. today in Lubbock.

Creighton (24-6) advanced to the tournament's second round with an 84-73 victory over Bowling Green.

"We're excited about being here and the opportunity to play the defending national champions," Lady Jays coach Connie Yori said Friday. "We understand we have our hands full."

Yori predicted particular trouble from Tech's inside duo, junior Connie Robinson and sophomore Mi-

Chaps rebound to win

■ Midland overcomes disappointment to beat Hagerstown 86-71 and advance to fifth-place game.

By Bill Petitt

HUTCHINSON, Kan. — After both Midland College and Hagerstown College suffered blowouts on the road to the national championship Thursday, each feared a flat performance in a consolation game less than 24 hours later Friday.

Midland, however, patched itself together with a gutty 86-71 win over Hagerstown in the National Junior College Athletic Association Men's Division I National Championship here.

MC now advances to the fifth place game today at 2:45 p.m. against Salt Lake City (Utah) Community College, a 76-66 winner over Chattahoochee Valley of Alabama, late Thursday night.

"It was a difficult game to play when you've got your sights on a national championship and slip up," said Midland College coach Steve Green. "I thought, for the most part, we got off to a good start. They didn't shoot the ball very well. Even when we went

Lee, MHS battle OHS, Mojo

By Amy Wolfenbarger

Midland High hopes to get back on track while Midland Lee would like to keep its engine full of steam as both continue District 4-5A baseball action today.

MHS hosts Odessa Permian at 2 p.m. at Angels Stadium while the Rebels travel to Odessa High for a 2 p.m. start.

The Bulldogs (4-9 overall, 0-1 in league play) had a break from 4-5A action after dropping their opener to Lee 14-3. Midland, however, did not fare too well, losing 11-0 to Hobbs, N.M., Tuesday. Lee, on the other hand, boosted its record to 2-0 in district with a 13-6 win over San Angelo Central Tuesday. The Rebels improved to 9-3 overall with the win.

Lee coach Jesse Benavidez said his team's eyes were opened by a San Angelo squad that rallied back to within one run after the Rebels took a 5-0 lead in the first inning.

Midland High played well enough in Friday's Tall City Tennis Invitational to wrap up the team title before today's final matches. The Bulldogs will have a player in each of today's division A boys and girls singles matches and had both teams in Friday's girls doubles final.

■ Tall City Tennis

"This is our first team title since I've been here so I was very hungry for it, I think more so than the kids sometimes," said second-year Midland High coach Tom Heiting.

Midland Lee took the boys B doubles title and one of its girls will win the girls B singles title today in a match between Rebel sophomores Erin Stanton and Emily Godbold. Today's A singles finals and the girls B singles finals begin at 8:30 a.m. at Midland High's courts.

The boys singles final pits long-time rivals David Stark of Midland Lee against Kevin McIlvain of Midland High. McIlvain beat teammate Shane Burgin in a semifinal 6-2, 7-6.

Arizona avoids first-round loss

Associated Press

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Arizona overcame its recent history of first-round flops, routing Loyola of Maryland 81-55 Friday in the first round of the West Regional behind 32 points from Khalid Reeves.

■ West Regional

Ninth-ranked Arizona (26-5), the region's No. 2 seed, plays seventh-seeded Virginia in Sunday's second round.

Loyola (17-13), seeded 15th and making its first-ever NCAA tournament appearance, never stood a chance against the Wildcats' speedy three-guard lineup. Reeves scored 19 in the first half, and point guard Damon Stoudamire finished with 16 as the Greyhounds trailed by as many as 29 points.

First-round losers the past two years, the Wildcats came out ready this time, forcing a fast tempo and using the fast break to take a 17-point halftime lead. They went on to shoot 52 percent in the second half.

Reeves made seven of his 12 first-half attempts. He and two other starters, Stoudamire and Joseph Blair, remained in the game until just 1:40 remained, despite Arizona's 27-point advantage.

Virginia 57, New Mexico 54

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Harold Deane made two foul shots with 23 seconds left to cap seventh-seeded Virginia's comeback from a 15-point deficit in the second half as the Cavaliers beat New Mexico.

The Cavaliers (18-12) kept New Mexico (23-8) winless in the NCAA tournament since 1974.

Down 54-49 with 2:46 remaining, the Cavaliers scored six straight points, going ahead on Jason Williford's tip-in with 46 seconds left. Charles Smith missed an off-balance jumper and New Mexico was forced to foul, sending Deane, who finished with 18 points, to the line. In a one-and-one situation, Deane made both shots.

Arkansas 94, North Carolina A&T 79

OKLAHOMA CITY — Top-seeded Arkansas got a scare Friday night, but used an 18-2 run late in the game to beat North Carolina A&T.

Corliss Williamson scored 24 and Scotty Thurman had 19 to lead the the Razorbacks (26-3), who were expected to have no trouble with the team with the worst record in this year's NCAA tournament.

It didn't happen that way. The Aggies (16-14) countered every Arkansas run with one of their own until the late going, when the Razorbacks' depth and strength finally took their toll.

No. 10 Louisville 67, Boise St. 58

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Clifford Rozier's 18 points Friday night helped third-seeded Louisville hold off an impressive second-half rally by 14th-seeded Boise State in a victory.

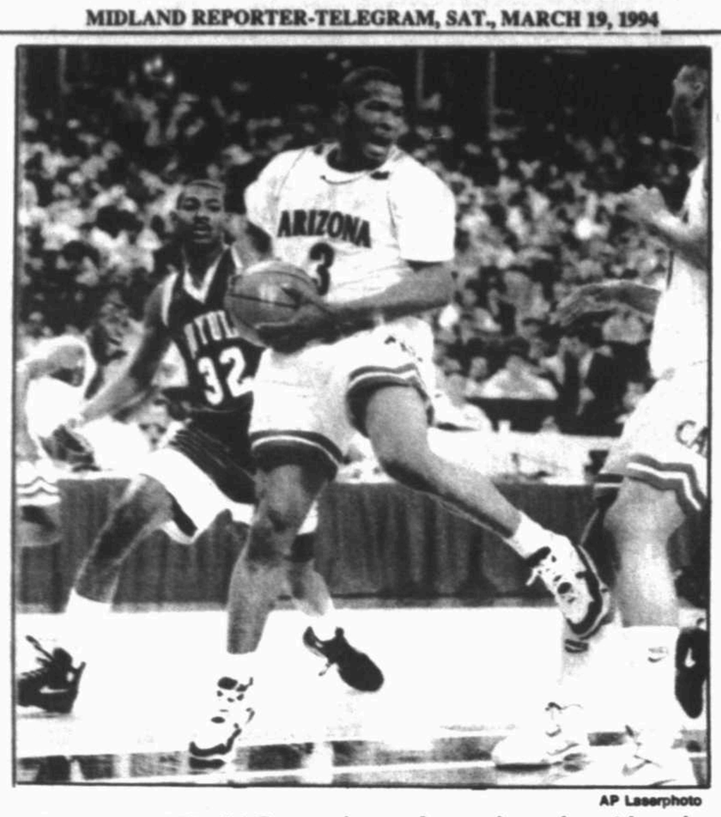

The Cardinals (27-5) got a scare from Boise State (17-13), which used six 3-pointers in the second half to storm back from 22 points down.

After being behind 49-27 with 12:21 to play, the Broncos started to come back with an 11-0 run. Then J.D. Huleen's fourth 3-pointer of the game and one by Damon Archibald cut the deficit to 56-49 with 3:21 remaining.

No. 23 Minnesota 74, S. Illinois 60

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Voshon Lenard scored 18 points and Arriel McDonald 15 as Minnesota beat Southern Illinois.

Minnesota (21-11), seeded sixth, plays Louisville on Sunday. The Gophers, who went on a 20-0 run in the first half, had a balanced attack that featured 12 points by Chad Kolander.

eliminated in the first round twice in the past four years, couldn't offer an explanation.

"That's why it's called March Madness," he said. "It's crazy. I can't explain it. That's just the way it goes."

Oklahoma St. 65, N. Mexico St. 55

OKLAHOMA CITY — Oklahoma State had a hard time finding Bryant Reeves. That made it difficult to put away New Mexico State.

The fourth-seeded Cowboys got just 11 points from Reeves — he took five shots, none in the second half — but were able to pull away in the final eight minutes Friday for a victory in the first round.

New Mexico State's matchup zone frustrated the Cowboys, who committed 22 turnovers and shot just 44 percent. Reeves wound up 10 points below his average, but Randy Rutherford made up for it with 28 points — 16 more than usual.

Georgetown 84, Illinois 77

OKLAHOMA CITY — George Butler nearly took the game over by himself, scoring 14 of Georgetown's last 23 points as the Hoyas defeated Illinois.

The Hoyas (19-11) went on a 17-4 run over the last 6:50. Butler put them in position by scoring 10 straight at one point, and his long jumper with 2:28 remaining gave Georgetown the lead for good, 78-77.

The Illini (17-11) made only one of nine field goals in the final 6:50 and had four turnovers. They still had a chance at 80-77, but Tom Michael missed two 3-pointers, and the Hoyas made their free throws to put the game out of reach.

Michael hit two 3s on consecutive possessions to give Illinois a 67-61 lead, but Butler scored Georgetown's next 10 points to cut the lead to 73-71, and the Hoyas' pressure began to take a toll on the Illini.

Butler led Georgetown with 27 points, and Don Reid had 15. Othella Harrington was held to just 11 points, but he smothered the Illini on defense.

Deon Thomas had 19 points and 10 rebounds for Illinois and freshman point guard Kiwane Garris had 18. Garris and Illinois did a good job with Georgetown's trapping pressure, but there were some lapses.

The Hoyas forced four straight turnovers midway through the second half to go on a 12-2 run and take a 61-56 lead. Illinois beat the press and answered with an 11-0 run of its own.

Kentucky frustrates Tiger star Rogers

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Seventh-ranked Kentucky frustrated Tennessee State star Carlos Rogers into 11 turnovers and a technical foul today in an 83-70 victory in the first round of the Southeast Regional.

■ Southeast Regional

Rodrick Rhodes and Andre Riddick scored 22 points each for Kentucky (27-6). The Wildcats led just 25-24 at the break before opening up an 18-point lead midway through the second half.

The third-seeded Wildcats will play No. 21 Marquette in Sunday's second round. The Warriors beat Southwestern Louisiana 81-59 in the opener at the ThunderDome.

Rogers, a 6-foot-11 senior and a projected first-round pick in the NBA, was held to 15 points, 10 below his average. Kentucky kept constant pressure on him, switching defenses and always putting a body on him, and Rogers did not adjust. When he left the game in the final minute, he went over to shake the hand of Kentucky coach Rick Pitino on his way to the bench.

Marquette 81, SW Louisiana 59

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Damon Key scored 24 points and led a 19-0 second-half run that enabled No. 21 Marquette to pull away to a win over Southwestern Louisiana today in the opening round.

Key scored 13 points in the second half, and Rodney Eford, who finished with 20, had five each in the decisive burst that carried the Warriors (23-8) past the 11th-seeded Ragin' Cajuns (22-8).

Michael Allen led Southwestern Louisiana with 23 points, but the team's second-leading scorer, Byron Starks, was held to seven — 11 below his average.

Allen, shut out for the first six minutes of the game, finally broke through with a 3-pointer to lead the Ragin' Cajuns back from a 12-4 deficit. He scored 10 of the team's 14 points during a five-minute stretch, and Tony Moore's 3-pointer capped a 17-6 surge to put Southwestern up 21-18.

No. 6 Duke 82, Texas Southern 70

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — No team goes to the Final Four six times in eight years by taking first-round opponents lightly in the NCAA tournament.

Duke never has, and it didn't on Friday.

The Blue Devils launched their bid for a seventh trip to the Final Four under coach Mike Krzyzewski with an victory over 15th-seeded Texas Southern.

The Blue Devils (24-5), making their 11th consecutive appearance in the tournament, won their opening game for the 10th straight season and improved to 12-1 in first-rounders since 1955.

Chris Collins made four 3-pointers and scored 17 points as the Blue Devils built a 45-33 halftime lead and were never seriously threatened by the overmatched champions of the Southwestern Athletic Conference tournament.

The Blue Devils led by 22 points before Texas Southern (19-11) trimmed the advantage to 74-64 with a late surge.

Michigan State 84, Seton Hall 73

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Shawn Respert and Michigan State held Seton Hall without a basket for nine minutes to start the second half, and broke away for an victory.

Respert, known for his scoring, had 25 points despite a bandage on his sprained right thumb. But it was defense that quickly turned the Spartans' one-point lead at halftime into a 19-point bulge.

Michigan State (20-11) advanced to play No. 6 Duke in Sunday's second round. Duke defeated Texas Southern 82-70 earlier Friday.

The victory by the seventh-seeded Spartans gave Big Ten teams a 5-1 record in the first round. Minnesota, also in the Big Ten, played Southern Illinois later in the West.

Arturas Karnishovas scored 23 points for 10th-seeded Seton Hall (17-13). The Pirates were just 8-10 in the Big East, and their inclusion in the field of 64 was criticized by some.

Tarheels trip by Liberty

Associated Press

■ East Regional

LANDOVER, Md. — Rasheed Wallace fueled a late run that helped defending champion North Carolina avoid what would have been the biggest upset in NCAA tournament history with a 71-51 victory over feisty Liberty in Friday's first round of the East Regional.

Wallace had six points in a 16-0 surge that helped the top-ranked and top-seeded Tar Heels (28-6) advance to the second round for the 13th consecutive season.

Big South Conference champion Liberty (18-12) made a strong showing for 30 minutes in its first NCAA tournament game. But the Flames were held scoreless for nearly seven minutes down the stretch, a slump that proved fatal to their bid to make North Carolina the first-ever No. 1 seed to lose an opening-round game.

Wallace, a 6-foot-10 freshman forward, led North Carolina with 18 points and 7-foot senior center Eric Montross added 17. Each had 10 rebounds to help the Tar Heels to a 50-31 edge on the boards against the smaller Flames.

Boston College 67, Washington St. 64

LANDOVER, Md. — Gerrod Abram broke a tie by making two free throws with five seconds remaining, and Boston College overcame a miserable first half to beat Washington State in the opening round.

The Eagles (21-10), playing in the NCAA tournament for the first time since 1985, will next face top-ranked North Carolina on Sunday.

Bill Curley had 25 points and 10 rebounds for Boston College, which trailed by 12 in the first half. The Eagles then regrouped after halftime but fell behind by four with 1:40 left.

Malcolm Huckaby then hit a 3-pointer, and Curley followed a Washington State miss with a basket in the lane to put the Eagles up 64-63 with 13 seconds left. Tony Harris' foul shot tied it with 8.8 seconds to go, but Harris then fouled Abram, who sank both shots.

After Harris missed a wild shot from just inside the midcourt line, Howard Eisley made a free throw to give Boston College its final margin.

Eisley finished with 17 points and was instrumental in the Eagles' comeback, just the third time in 10 games this season BC has recovered from a halftime deficit to win.

Temple 61, Drexel 39

LANDOVER, Md. — Aaron McKie bounced back from a listless first half Friday night, and he carried Temple with him.

McKie outscored the entire Drexel team in the second half, getting 21 points in the final 18:20 to lead the Owls to a victory over their Philadelphia neighbor in the opening round.

The third-seeded Owls (23-7) held Drexel to a season-low 27 percent shooting and defeated the Dragons for the sixth consecutive time. Temple leads the series 25-8.

The North Atlantic Conference champion, 13th-seeded Drexel (25-5) was making just its second appearance ever in the NCAA field. The Dragons also lost in the first round in 1986.

This time, Drexel managed just 20 points in the second half. The Dragons' final point total was 24 below their previous worst outing this season.

McKie, a 6-foot-5 senior guard who came in averaging 18.7 points, took four first-half shots and missed them all. But he more than made up for it in the second half, making eight of 11.

Indiana 84, Ohio U. 72

LANDOVER, Md. — Alan Henderson had 34 points and 13 rebounds as Indiana finally won an game for coach Bobby Knight, ending Ohio University's 13-game winning streak with a 84-72 victory.

Knight and the Hoosiers had lost three straight first-round games in the East — in 1986, '88 and '90. Those are the only first-round NCAA tournament losses in Knight's 23-year career at Indiana.

The Hoosiers (20-8) will play John Chaney and Temple in the second round Sunday. It will be the first matchup between the two outspoken coaches.

TEXAS: Longhorns on lengthy winning streak

(From 1B)

Michigan (22-7), the third seed, presents a sharp contrast after losing three of its last five. The Wolverines, missing NBA rookie Chris Weber from the squads that went all the way to the NCAA title game in 1992 and 1993, had to work overtime Thursday night to beat the No. 14 seed, Pepperdine, 78-74.

In the first game at 3:40 p.m. CST, Massachusetts (28-6) takes on Maryland (17-11) in a rematch of their meeting last Dec. 29. That night in Springfield, Mass., the Minutemen stopped the young Terrapins 94-80.

But that was before 6-foot-10 Joe Smith emerged to average 19.6 points and become one of the leading freshmen scorers in the history of the ACC.

"I expect a different game from Maryland than our first meeting," said Lou Roe, who averaged 18.6 points for the Minutemen, the second seed. "They are a better team now. They've been through an entire ACC season. Joe Smith is playing out of his mind, and he makes them a better team."

Smith had 29 points and 15 rebounds in Maryland's 74-66 victory Thursday over Saint Louis.

"Joe has picked up each challenge and really handled it," Maryland coach Gary Williams said. "He is a freshman in name only."

In pregame warmups in the Kansas Coliseum on Saturday night, the most nostalgic man on the court may be Texas center Rich McIver.

A native of Freeport, Texas, McIver began his college career at Michigan before but transferring to Texas.

"I'm pretty sure it's going to feel very strange ... warming up with one team, and looking around at a team you used to play with," the 6-9 McIver said. "But I'll get used to it. I'll have to realize I'm a Longhorn now."

McIver left the Wolverines under the friendliest of circumstances, he said.

"I'll just have to do my best to put it to them," he said with a grin. "If we should somehow lose the game Saturday night, then I'll want Michigan to go all the way and win it."

One thing Texas will have on its side will be the crowd. When an underdog Pepperdine kept throwing in 3-pointers against the favored Wolverines on Thursday night, the crowd turned clearly in favor of the Waves.

"I think the crowd can be a big factor," Tyler said.

The Michigan-Texas match also could be a classic duel between Michigan's strong inside power game and Texas' quick-striking guard play.

"They will try to make you play at a pace that's not comfortable for you," said Wolverine coach Steve Fisher, 18-3 in NCAA play. "We can run-and-gun 40 minutes with them. We've got to pick and choose our battles."

Jo Faurot, organist at the NJCAA Tournament, shows off "the best seat in the house," in the crow's nest above the gym.

Organist combines two loves at NJCAA tourney

By Bill Petitt
Staff Writer

HUTCHINSON, Kan. — The National Junior College Athletic Association basketball tournament has made it possible for Jo Faurot to combine her two true loves of life — basketball and music.

Faurot is the organist at the tournament, playing between night games and during intermission at the Hutchinson Sports Arena.

"It's the best seat in the house," said Faurot from her perch above the crowd in the crow's nest which houses Faurot and members of the media.

"Several years ago a friend of mine that is with the American Legion here called and said that they were looking for someone to play the organ. It's two tickets to the tournament and a chance to see the tournament - out family loves basketball.

"My grandson is in high school and he loves to come here. My husband was a coach at Fort Hays for several years as an assistant coach, so basketball is a big part of our life."

So Faurot travels across the state from the Western Kansas town of Sublett, every March, spending the week with her sister while she stays in Hutchinson.

Faurot began her music background 47 years ago, playing while attending Fort Hays State University in Hays, Kan., in 1947.

"I have played off and on over the years. I play for my church and I accompany both the middle school and high school in Sublett. Ocassionally, I will play a wedding or a private club. Last week I played a wedding where I played music from Guns n' Roses, Elton John, that genre."

While Faurot has never played athletics, she tells that it is still one of her obsessions.

"When I went to school, they didn't have sports for girls like they do in Kansas now, but I played in college for my sorority and have loved the game ever since."

TALL: Midland Lee doubles team wins B final concerned with how his team totals come out because "individually I think we've done super," he said.

The Lee doubles team of Eric Chandler and Kerwin Tolentino beat Clyde's Kevin Miller and Doug Widener in the B finals 6-3, 6-3. Also, Lee's No. 1 girls single player Rae McNiell for the first time took MHS' Bonnie Terrazas to split sets in a quarterfinal match 6-3, 3-6, 6-0. Terrazas plays today in the finals.

The fact that Midland High has clinched the team title won't effect the intensity of today's matches.

"The individual records effect district seedings," Heiting said. "So there are big matches on the line (today). We'll have some quality matches in the finals."

Of the McIlvain-Stark match, Buck said: "They're always close. David's an extremely overpowering type player and it's a matter of whether it goes in or not. They'll probably play about three more times in the next four weeks. Whoever wins this one isn't (necessarily) going to win all of them."

Individual records are considered when district coaches select the seedings for the April 15 and 16 league meet in Abilene. McIlvain is 23-2 on the year. Three matches remain before district, making today's play all the more significant.

The girls A singles final has Terrazas going against independent Tara Stanley from Odessa. Terrazas is 21-7 in matches played this year.

The Midland High girls doubles team of Kallie Kerr and Paige Duncan defeated MHS' Molly Cowell and Sarah Innerarity 6-4, 4-6, 6-2.

"I was especially pleased with my girls doubles," Heiting said. "It was the best they've done so far."

The boys A doubles were won by the independent team of Dung Dau and Jason Everett. They beat Trinity's Doug Scharbauer and Nathan Lawrence 6-3, 1-6, 7-5.

Midland Freshmen High's Terrell McDonald won the boys singles B competition in a pro set, 8-1, over independent Robert Steakley.

4-5A: Bulldogs, Rebels continue loop play

(From 1B)

have to be ready to play every time out," Benavidez said. "People are going to challenge you when you're considered one of the best teams in the district."

That sage advice could come in handy against an Odessa team which is 2-10 and 0-2. The Rebels will have to stay focused on their ultimate goal — winning a district championship — to keep from overlooking the Bronchos.

"We're pleased to be 2-0," Benavidez said. "That's certainly better than starting the other way."

The Rebels will start Lance Watters (2-0) on the mound while sophomore Mark Holly (2-0) will be "in the hole," Benavidez said. Starting for Odessa is Michael Baer (2-3).

The Bulldogs, a young group which is still trying to gain valuable experience, has shown some bright spots throughout the predistrict season. After the loss to Lee, Midland traveled to the Lubbock Tournament and while losing three of four games there, the Bulldogs played well enough to be tied in the 11th inning two two of those teams before losing.

"We played three very good ball games in Lubbock and then we come home and lose like we did to Hobbs," Midland coach Rick Wood said. "Hopefully, you can attribute that to youth. Like I said last night (Tuesday), when you're struggling, everyone wants to give you advice. But we just need to get back to basics and improve on our fundamentals."

Midland is hosting a Permian team which some people think will vie for the third playoff spot in the district behind Lee and Abilene Cooper. The Panthers are 7-5 overall and 2-0 in league play and keeping pace with undefeated Cooper and Lee.

"We saw them in the Tournament of Champions and they seemed to be very aggressive (at the plate)," Wood said. "Towards the end of the tournament, their pitching started coming around. So they ought to be pretty well-rounded by now."

Starting for Midland will be Chad Benson (1-4). Justin York (2-2) will start for the Panthers.

CHAPS: MC never trailed against Hagerstown

into a slump, they never made a real run at us."

"When you're as small as we are and you're aggressive, it's difficult to get up and come back," said Hagerstown coach Jim Brown. "We're real happy, though. We beat one of the best teams in the country and played with the other ones."

The Chaps never trailed in the game, building a quick 9-2 lead in the first three minutes after a John Brown basket with 17:04 in the first half.

Hagerstown, which dropped to 29-6 on the year and was eliminated with the loss, did close the gap to 19-16 after Bernard Hopkins' free throw with 10:28 to play. But MC shut down Hopkins, a 6-7 banger down low who scored 26 points and grabbed 17 caroms in Thursday's loss to Monroe, N.Y., to just five points and seven rebounds in the first half while picking up three fouls.

"Stopping Hopkins was the one thing we tried to concentrate on," said Green. "We didn't know much about them, but we did know that he was a threat. We did a pretty good job on him in the first half. We didn't do much on him in the second half."

Hopkins finished the game with 23 points and 17 rebounds.

Midland forward Steve Walston continued to be a man-child on the boards. Walston, who had a season-high 18 rebounds and nine points in an 83-71 loss to Three Rivers, Mo., on Thursday, grabbed 12 rebounds and scored a team-high 17 points against the Hawks.

"I just wanted to get the job done; I wanted to show everybody that I could put the ball in the hole too," said Walston. "We really focused on Hopkins a lot. I figured if we would bang him around a little bit and make him run, he would tire. I just wanted to play hard against him and let him know that he wasn't playing against one of the softies."

Andre Owens scored 16 points and grabbed 11 rebounds. Kevin Rice finished with 14 points, 12 in the first half. John Brown added 12 points and sophomore reserve Richard Edwards scored six points with a solid performance off the bench.

MC built a 14 point lead in the first half, 40-26 with 1:44 left after a Walston free throw. The Chaps led 43-27 at the break after holding Hagerstown to 27 percent field goal shooting (9-of-33) and grabbing 17 offensive rebounds.

In the second half, Midland stretched its lead to 19, 48-29, after a Walston slam dunk with 17:24 remaining. Hagerstown did whittle the Chap lead to 10, 78-68, with 56 seconds to play after a Damion Cannon jumper, but Owens and Rice made eight straight free throw in the final minute to seal the win.

CHAP NOTES: The 73 rebounds by Midland College set a season-high and could possibly be a school record, no official statistics were available...The Chaps can finish fifth in the tournament with a win over Salt Lake City this afternoon ...With the win, MC improved its all-time tournament record to 11-4 ...Today's game will be broadcast on KCRS (AM 550).

ABOUT SALT LAKE CITY: The Bruins of Salt Lake City Community College are 27-9 after a 10-point win over Chattahoochee Valley Thursday night...The Bears are led by 6-4 guard Chuck Overton, who averages 22.5 points per game and forward Marcel Johnson with 19.2 points...This is the first tournament appearance for Salt Lake after surviving District 13 which saw 2nd-ranked Dixie and nationally-ranked Southern Idaho lose in the tournament.

TECH: Jitters disappear

(From 1B)

chi Atkins. Atkins scored 25 points against Missouri.

"She presents a lot of problems with her physical play on the low block as well as her ability from the high post to do some things," Yori said. "She's a difficult kid to guard."

"I enjoy the aggressiveness," Atkins said. "The more aggressive the game is, the better off I am."

Today's game pits Tech's zone defense against the man-to-man approach Creighton favors.

Sharp said the Lady Jays are big and shoot well. Both coaches expect rebounding to be a key.

"We have everything to gain and nothing to lose," said Creighton sophomore forward Becky Flynn. "They're the ones trying to defend their reign."

UNO inks Mander

Tera Mander, a former Midland Lee volleyball player now completing her senior year at Mandeville, La., has signed to play volleyball with the University of New Orleans.

Mander is currently a Cajunland Volleyball Club player and will red-shirt her freshman year. She chose UNO over Southeastern Louisiana, Tulane and LSU. She plans on majoring in engineering.

The House of Printing Putt and Chip Off at Hogan Park Friday was won by Chris Presley (putting) and David Hughes (chipping).

Alamo captures first in soccer

The Alamo eighth-grade boys soccer team took first place for the 1994 season. Alamo scored 20 goals on the year and gave up only four. The team MVP for offense was Troy Henry. Shane Fisher and Stacy Jones shared defensive MVP honors.

Mansell on pole; Fabi in mild crash

SUFERS PARADISE, Australia — Nigel Mansell won his second pole position for the Australian IndyCar Grand Prix here Saturday at a record speed of 106.053 m.p.h. while the Midland-based Hall Racing Team ran into a little trouble.

Crashes marred Saturday's qualifying session, forcing it to run 75 minutes longer than scheduled. Andretti and Mike Groff, Andrea Montermini and Teo Fabi (Hall Racing) and Japan's Hiro Matsushita hit the wall, with Groff's car suffering the most damage.

Montermini was later forced to pull out of Sunday's race, while the others, including Groff, will drive backup or repaired cars.

Sunday's race will be over 65 laps of the circuit — a total of 181.675 miles, and is the opening event of the 1994 PPG IndyCar World Series season.

Just last week in Big Spring, Fabi set a track record in a test run in Big Spring with an average speed of 108.142 m.p.h., beating the old mark of 107.955 m.p.h. held separately by Indy car drivers Jimmy Vasser and Arie Luyendyk.

Flowers qualifies for swim finals

AUSTIN — Midland High's Howard Flowers was the only local swimmer to survive the preliminary round of the UIL State Swimming Meet here Friday.

Flowers posted a 52.51 seconds in the 100-yard backstroke to qualify for today's finals with the sixth best time in the event. Six swimmers go to the finals.

MHS and Midland Lee had nine other swimmers entered in the preliminaries who qualified for the state meet, but won't get to swim today since they didn't land a top six position.

Kevin Collins of Austin McCallum, 50.01, had the best qualifying time in the 100 back and was followed by Nick Kaschik, Houston Memorial, 50.94; Tony Patillo, Spring Westfield, 51.60; Charles Rogers, Monahans, 52.23; Pat Morrow, Klein, 52.27; and Flowers.

Only two state records fell in Friday's preliminaries. Sugar Land Clements' Stacie Karens set a UIL record in the 200 freestyle with a 1:49.65. Humble Kingwood's boys set a UIL mark in the 200 medley relay with a 1:33.77.

Dodgers nip Phillies

Associated Press

■ Baseball Roundup

CLEARWATER, Fla. — Mike Piazza hit his sixth homer, tying Boston's Mo Vaughn for the most this spring, and Eric Karros had two hits and two RBIs as the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Philadelphia Phillies 7-5 Friday.

Piazza homered to start a three-run fourth inning that put the Dodgers ahead for good. Karros, who in 1992 preceded Piazza as National League Rookie of the Year, went 2-for-4 with two RBIs.

Ramon Martinez allowed three hits in five innings to get the win. Danny Jackson gave up five runs and six hits in five innings.

Marlins 10, Mets 1

PORT ST. LUCIE, Fla. — Bret Barberie, Matias Carrillo and Chuck Carr homered in a 15-hit attack.

Gary Sheffield went 3-for-3 with two RBIs in support of David Weathers, who allowed a run on three hits in five innings. Luis Rivera homered for the Mets' only run.

Orioles (ss) 20, Indians (ss) 8

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. — Baltimore hit six home runs, including five in the first four innings, and led 16-2 after five.

Sherman Obando and Jeff Tackett each hit three-run homers during Baltimore's eight-run fourth. All of the runs came off lefthander Brian Barnes.

Lonnie Smith had a three-run homer in the first off Jason Grimsley, who was removed after retiring just one of eight batters in the inning.

Orioles (ss) 5, Twins 2

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Third baseman Gary Scott made three errors that led to three unearned runs. Mark McLemore's sacrifice fly and Harold Baines' RBI double gave Baltimore a 4-2 lead in the fifth, and Chris Hoiles homered in the sixth off Greg Brummett.

Cardinals 10, White Sox 8

SARASOTA, Fla. — Jose Oquendo had a grand slam and five RBIs, and Mark Whiten added a two-run homer in a seven-run eighth inning.

Jason Bere allowed a run and struck out six batters in five innings, outpitching Rick Sutcliffe. He allowed five runs, but two St. Louis errors made three of them unearned.

Red Sox 10, Rangers 4

PORT CHARLOTTE, Fla. — Mike Greenwell had four hits, including two solo homers, drove in four runs and scored four more.

Andre Dawson hit his fourth homer, and Bob Melvin had three hits and drove in two runs.

Tigers 14, Royals 3

LAKELAND, Fla. — Cecil Fielder broke out of a spring slump with two long homers and five RBIs.

Shawn Hare and Chad Kreuter also homered for the Tigers (9-6), who have one more exhibition victory than all last spring, when they went 8-22-1. Kevin Koslofski hit a two-run homer for the Royals.

Astros 9, Indians (ss) 5

KISSIMEE, Fla. — Andujar Cedeno hit a three-run homer, and Mike Felder had three hits and scored four runs.

Domingo Jean allowed two runs and two hits in four innings, and was the winner.

Blue Jays 4, Expos 3

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. — Dick Schofield hit a bases-loaded single in the 10th inning as Toronto sent Montreal (2-13) to its 10th consecutive loss.

An error by third baseman Shane Andrews set up the winning run. Carlos Delgado then singled off Shawn Holman, Alex Gonzalez walked and Schofield singled.

Athletics 10, Angels 1

PHOENIX — Rookie Carlos Reyes shut out California on two hits over five innings.

Oakland scored five runs in the third inning. Geronimo Berroa drove in the first two with a bases-loaded single. Brent Gates doubled home a run, Scott Brosius added a sacrifice fly and Craig Paquette contributed an RBI grounder.

Mariners 9, Rockies 1

PEORIA, Ariz. — Keith Mitchell hit a 440-foot drive for his fourth home run of the spring, and Jay Buhner, Edgar Martinez and Dan Wilson also homered for Seattle, which has 24 homers in 15 games.

Dave Fleming, Rich DeLucia, Tony Phillips and Bobby Thigpen combined to stop the Rockies on six hits.

Brewers 11, Padres 10

CHANDLER, Ariz. — John Byington summoned back by the Brewers from the minor-league camp after reserve third baseman Jeff Cirillo was injured in the morning, singled home the winning run in the 10th.

San Diego had 18 hits and Milwaukee had 17. Billy Bean went 4-for-4 for the Padres. John Jaha of the Brewers had three hits and two RBIs. Kevin Seitzer added two hits and two RBIs, and Turner Ward hit a three-run homer.

Texas women face Seton Hall

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — There isn't a lot in common when it comes to the women's basketball programs at No. 25 Texas and No. 14 Seton Hall.

It's the established Texas versus the upstart Seton Hall. Uptempo Texas vs. halfcourt Seton Hall. Texas' finesse vs. Seton Hall's physical style and a young Texas team vs. Seton Hall veterans.

The two will come together Saturday in the second round of the NCAA Midwest Regional when fifth-seeded Texas (22-8) and the fourth-seeded Lady Pirates (26-4) play at tiny Walsh Gymnasium here at 2 p.m. EST.

The Longhorns, who start three freshmen, a sophomore and a senior, have won seven in a row, including a 75-67 win over Oklahoma State Wednesday night in the first round of the tournament. They are playing in their 12th-straight NCAA tournament.

Seton Hall, which starts two seniors, two juniors and a sophomore, played its first NCAA Tournament game and advanced with a 70-60 win over Vermont.

"I think it's going to be a great advantage playing Texas at home," Seton Hall senior guard Jodi Brooks said. "Right away when I think of Texas, I think of women's basketball. They have great experiences in the past and it's great to have a team like that in our gym."

While some might think the Longhorns will have to make a major adjustment in the sometimes not-so-friendly confines of the 3,200 seat Walsh Gymnasium, Texas freshman guard Danielle Viglione downplays the court issue.

"We've played in places like this before," she said. "It's (the court) the same size and the basket is the same height."

In reality, the tempo will probably decide the game.

The Longhorns of the Southwest Conference want to play run and gun. The Lady Pirates of The Big East Conference want a halfcourt game.

"I think we have to be a transition team," said Texas coach Jody Conradt, the all-time winningest coach in women's basketball with 642 victories. "We're not very big. We're not very strong. We're not very physical. So therefore we need to outrun people and that has to happen if we push the basketball. This team must dictate tempo and that's not going to change."

Viglione is the major cog in the Texas offense, averaging 21.1 points. The 5-foot-10 guard tied an NCAA record by hitting six 3-pointers in the Longhorns' opening round win over Oklahoma State. She had 113 threes this season.

"I don't think we can just concentrate on Danielle," said Seton Hall coach Phyllis Mangina,

Sampras, Agassi advance to finals

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — Pete Sampras mixed aces, baseline winners, cross-court volleys and overheads. Jim Courier hit one forehand after another.

■ Lipton Tennis

Diversity carried the day. Again. Barely.

Sampras outlasted his childhood friend and longtime rival in a dramatic 18-minute tiebreaker Friday to win 6-4, 7-6 (12-10) in the semifinals of the Lipton Championships.

The top-ranked defending champion, Sampras overcame three set points in the tiebreaker and beat Courier for the fourth consecutive time.

"I didn't think either of us played that great," Sampras said. "I got lucky. That's the bottom line."

But Sampras also showed a complete arsenal of shots. Less lethal with his serve than usual, he was forced to win points from the baseline, where Courier prefers to play.

"I don't mind trading groundstrokes with anyone," Sampras said.

That's one reason he's 22-2 this year, the best start of his career. He'll seek his fourth tournament title this year in Sunday's final against Andre Agassi, who advanced by beating Australian Patrick Rafter 6-2, 6-4.

Sampras is attempting to become the first player to win consecutive men's singles titles at Lipton. He has split eight previous matches against Agassi.

"We've had some pretty entertaining match in the past," Agassi said. "It's explosive tennis when we play.'

In the women's final Saturday, top-ranked Steff Graf, winner of 31 straight matches, meets Natalia Zvereva. Can Zvereva, 0-13 lifetime against Graf, pull off an upset?

"I doubt it," Zvereva said.

The fifth-ranked Courier was eager for an upset, but came up short on too many key points.

"We were both a little tight, especially in the tiebreaker," Sampras said. "We knew what was at stake."

STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE

WHAT IS STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE?

Stockquote Hotline gives you the latest stock prices direct from the wires of the Associated Press. Over 9,000 stocks are listed from NYSE, AmEx, and OTC sources; all available 24 hours a day. You can receive up to 10 quotes with one easy phone call.

HOW TO USE STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE:

1) Call the Stockquote Hotline at 560-2400; enter the category number which is 9988.

2) You will be asked to enter your stock ticker symbol. These are based on industry-standard symbols, which can be found in a Standard & Poor's Ticker guide, or by calling your local stock broker.

3) Once you've entered the numerical code for the ticker symbol, press the Star Key (*) and you will hear the current price and net change from the last Associated Press update; which is a few minutes behind market activity.

4) After the stock is quoted, you will be asked to enter another ticker symbol. You now have 2 options:

• You may request a quote, you will be asked to enter another ticker symbol. You now have 2 options.

• You may request additional information on the stock just quoted by once more pressing the Star Key (*).

Now the volume, high and low will be given, and then you will be asked to enter another ticker code.

• You may enter up to 10 ticker symbols per call.

5) To exit Stockquote Hotline, simply hang up the phone.

Mourning is good for rising Hornets

Associated Press

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Alonzo Mourning scored 21 points, grabbed 11 rebounds and added six blocked shots Friday night, leading the Charlotte Hornets to their fourth straight home victory, 82-78 over the Utah Jazz.

Charlotte, a winner of five of its last six, including three straight on this homestand, beat Utah for the first time in six tries in Charlotte. The Jazz has won 12-of-15 overall.

Mourning, in his sixth game since returning from a calf injury, capped the victory when he blocked Karl Malone's 3-point attempt with 1.9 seconds remaining.

Nets 102, Lakers 90

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — Derrick Coleman scored 25 points and grabbed 18 rebounds, helping New Jersey beat Los Angeles for the fourth straight time.

The victory ended New Jersey's five-game road losing streak.

Kenny Anderson added 21 points and 11 assists as New Jersey won the season series for the second year in a row.

Bulls 87, SuperSonics 84

CHICAGO — Scottie Pippen scored 22 points and Chicago withstood a fourth quarter rally to beat Seattle.

The victory was Chicago's fourth straight and fifth in their last six games. It was also the 10th straight win over Seattle in Chicago Stadium, dating back to November 1983.

The victory was sealed by Steve Kerr's two free throws with eight seconds left.

Hawks 81, Pacers 78

INDIANAPOLIS — Danny Manning grabbed a loose ball for a breakaway dunk with 2.9 seconds to play, sealing Atlanta's victory over Indiana.

The Pacers, shooting for an NBA club record 12th straight home victory, rallied from a 79-74 deficit with 2:40 remaining to close within one point at 79-78.

But Indiana missed three field goal attempts, as well as a desperation 3-pointer at the buzzer.

■ NBA Roundup

Magic 113, Cavaliers 96

ORLANDO — Shaquille O'Neal scored 38 points and grabbed 15 rebounds, leading Orlando over Cleveland.

Dennis Scott added a season-high 28 for the Magic, who solidified their hold on the fourth playoff seed in the Eastern Conference. The Magic hold a 2½ game lead over Miami and three game lead over Cleveland. The top four finishers in the conference get homecourt advantage in the first round of the playoffs.

Timberwolves 100, 76ers 98

PHILADELPHIA — Isaiah Rider hit two free throws with 21 seconds left and Stacey King added a season-high 20 points to lead Minnesota over Philadelphia.

The victory snapped Minnesota's 14-game road losing streak. Their last road victory came on Jan. 12 against Dallas.

Kings 115, Nuggets 103

DENVER — Mitch Richmond scored 29 points and Sacramento outshot Denver 52-37 percent.

The Kings, who scored 132 points in a 21-point victory over New Jersey two nights earlier, had a 43-29 edge in field goals against Denver. They took control with a 25-8 lead with 3:43 left in the first quarter.

The Kings pushed their lead to 45-24 with 7:40 left in the second quarter and led 62-47 at halftime.

Pistons 114, Suns 113

PHOENIX — Joe Dumars scored a team-high 30 points and gave Detroit its only lead of the game on an 18-foot jumper with 3.6 seconds left as the Pistons beat Phoenix.

Charles Barkley, who scored 31 points to lead the Suns, hit a free throw to put Phoenix up 113-108 with 1:09 to play.

Trail Blazers 122, Bullets 104

PORTLAND, Ore. — Rod Strickland scored a season-high 28 points, 16 in the second half, and Clyde Drexler added 28 points to lead Portland over Washington.

Double bogey tightens up Nestle field

Associated Press

ORLANDO, Fla. — Nick Price's last-hole double bogey let three other men slip past him and into a tie for the lead Friday at the halfway point of the Nestle Invitational.

Vijay Singh of Fiji, Larry Mize and Andrew Magee vaulted into a three-way share of the top spot when Price blew the lead by taking four to get down from a greenside bunker on the 18th hole of Arnold Palmer's Bay Hill Club.

"All in all, I'm not unhappy," said Price, a winner last week in the Honda Classic. "If I'd lost the tournament right there it'd be something else, but there's two rounds left."

Singh, who began his American tour career in this tournament a year ago, shared the top spot with Mize and Magee at 137, 7-under-par for 36 holes.

Magee, who won this title three years ago, shot 67. Mize, on the mend from arthoscopic surgery on his right knee only 11 days ago, and Singh each had a 69.

Price, who last week scored his 12th worldwide victory in an 18-month span, was at 138 with Glen Day. Price matched par 72 and Day shot 68.

Michael Allen had three birdies and an eagle on the final four holes for a back-nine 32 and a round of 70. He was among seven golfers at 139, tied with defending champion Ben Crenshaw, Tom Watson, Dan Pohl, Ted Schulz, Paul Goydos and Tom Lehman. Lehman had a 67, Schulz shot 68 and Crenshaw, Goydos and Pohl had 69s. Watson shot a 70.

British Open champion Greg Norman could do no better than 72 and was at 140. John Daly was at 145 after a 72.

The 62-year-old host, Palmer, and Jack Nicklaus both failed to qualify for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday. Palmer shot 78 for a 158 total and Nicklaus a 77 for a 152.

Price, whose 66 set the first-round pace, was cruising along in the lead until he came to the 441-yard finishing hole.

He pulled his drive into the rough and then buried a 7-iron second in the face of a steep bunker. From an awkward stance, he came out 50 feet long, lagged up to four feet and then missed that one.

"Six, as quick as that," he said. "A little disappointing. But I'll take two more scores like that for the next two rounds."

Singh, who tied for second in this event a year ago, holed a 30-yard sand shot for a birdie on the 10th and got up and down from a bunker for birdie-4 on the 12th.

"I'm swinging really well right now," he said. "Obviously, I've played well each time I've come here."

Magee also has an affinity for the Bay Hill layout.

"I have good vibes here," he said after matching the best score of the day. I don't know what it is, but I play well here."

Mize had absolutely no expectations of playing well. He wasn't sure he'd test his knee until the day before the tournament began.

"I was real wishy-washy until Wednesday," he said. "When I did decide to play, I had no expectations whatsoever. I just hoped to be able to finish. Maybe that's why I'm playing so well — because I don't have any expectations and I'm just going out and playing."

■ Golf Roundup

LPGA Standard Register

PHOENIX — Nancy Lopez tied a tournament record Friday with a vintage surge, but fell just short of the lead at the Standard Register Ping.

Kelly Robbins, who entered hoping to make her first cut this season, and Connie Chillemi, who wanted to make par, exceeded their expectations with 3-under-par 70s to share the halfway lead at the $700,000 LPGA event.

The two, who started the second round a shot behind Caroline Keggi, finished at 8-under 138 with a one-stroke lead over Keggi and Cindy Schreyer.

But Lopez, who shaved as many shots from par in one round on the 6,483-yard Moon Valley Country Club course as Robbins and Chillemi managed in two, was in the back of everyone's mind.

"It doesn't change my approach," said Chillemi, who hasn't led a tournament after 36 holes since 1988. "I don't play to beat Nancy Lopez or Kelly Robbins or anybody else. I play against Old Man Par. It's a new tournament each day, and I keep my focus on him and take care of him."

Lopez, who struggled through a 2-over 75 the first day, came back with a 65 Friday to tie course and tournament records set by Amy Alcott in 1988 and matched by Patty Sheehan in last year's third round.

Senior Series

GALVESTON, Texas — Butch Baird fired a 2-under 69 to take a four-shot lead after the second round of the $100,000 Senior Series tournament.

Baird, who led after Thursday's first round with a 65, is 8-under for the tournament heading into Saturday's final round on the 6,296-yard, par 71 Galveston Country Club.

Three players — Dick Hendrickson, Babe Hiskey and Randy Fisk — are tied for second, four shots back at 138.

Hendrickson, who trailed by one shot after Thursday's play, managed a 72 Friday to stay within striking distance. Hiskey fired a 70, while Fisk joined Baird as the only golfers to post sub-70 scores for both rounds, shooting a 69 for the second straight day.

Two players are five shots back, including Walt Morgan and Jimmy Powell. Morgan fired a 72, while Powell shot a 71.

America's funniest Bruce on stage

Frenetic comic to play Midland Hilton

Baum

By Jimmy Patterson
Special Projects Editor

■ Bruce Baum will appear at the Midland Hilton, March 25-26, at 8 and 10 p.m. Tickets are $7 in advance; $9 and $12 at the door.

Glimpse at Bruce Baum and one thing pops into the mind: The guy is a near physical duplicate of David Crosby.

But Baum, a regular on "America's Funniest People," does not sing like Crosby when he gets on a stage. Nor has he ever been sent to prison on weapons charges.

Still, he bears a strong resemblance to the former member of the rock quartet Crosby, Stills, Nash & Young.

Asked to compare Baum's brand of comedy with other stylings and some stand-up buffs may be inclined to say he is much like Gallagher, the mustachioed, watermelon-smashing comedian who relies heavily on props.

Nope, Baum insists, he is not like Gallagher. His audience will never leave sticky. And if they do, "I'll personally clean each and everyone of them."

Baum is the latest comic to visit West Texas, thanks to the Midland Hilton's comedy series, an effort that began in earnest in January with the appearance of Bill Kirchenbauer.

Baum will perform two shows a night, March 25 and 26. Show times are 8 and 10 p.m.

A former law school student who discovered quite by accident one night in 1971 that people would actually pay money to hear him tell jokes, Baum is a veteran of countless television programs.

"Law schools all over the country applauded my decision," said Baum, who, as a former UCLA football player jokingly claims to have "paved the way for Troy Aikman."

Two TV outlets regularly feature the comic. In addition to the weekly ABC show, "America's Funniest People" (Sun-

Will Oscar ceremony turn into Oskar's night?

By William Arnold
N.Y. Times News Service

Moving into the final weekend before the 66th running of the annual Academy Awards, there's little suspense about Monday night's extravaganza.

There's never been a time — except possibly the sweeps of "Gone With the Wind" in 1939 and "Ben-Hur" in '59 — when the winner's circle has seemed so predictable and Oscar parties looked to be so anti-climactic.

At the top of this list of inevitability is a best-picture statue inscribed to "Schindler's List."

Steven Spielberg's 3½-hour Holocaust epic is already the first film to win the best-picture nods of all five of the major pre-Oscar indicators: the New York and L.A. Film Critics, the National Board of Review, the Golden Globes and the National Society of Film Critics.

If it doesn't walk away with this top prize, it will be an upset the size of Truman over Dewey, or the '69 Miracle Mets. No polls or predictions offer a shred of hope for "Schindler's" competition in this category: Jim Sheridan's drama about England's persecution of an Irish family, "In the Name of the Father"; Jane Campion's 19th Century feminist parable, "The Piano"; the big-screen version of the classic '60s TV series, "The Fugitive," and James Ivory's melancholy meditation on the decline of Britain, "The Remains of the Day."

By this same logic, the best director's prize should also go to Spielberg, who has been snubbed by Oscar so consistently he should have an inferiority complex but clearly doesn't. Rarely nominated for his best work ("Empire of the Sun," "The Color Purple") and a bridesmaid for "E.T. the Extra-Terrestrial" and "Raiders of the Lost Ark," this time the boy wonder of the post-war Hollywood era seems every bit as sure in the director's category as "Schindler's List" is in the best-picture slot.

If the 4,755 voting members of the academy do one of their rare director-picture splits, the likely beneficiary will be New Zealand's Jane Campion for "The Piano." She won the New York Film Critics award in this category, and it's possible that voters won't be able to resist making history by naming her Oscar's first woman best director. Robert Altman ("Short Cuts") probably doesn't figure (his film wasn't nominated for best picture), and James Ivory ("The Remains of the Day") and Jim Sheridan ("In the Name of the Father") are distinct long shots.

Holly Hunter, up for both Best Actress and Best Supporting Actress Oscars, stands beside the statue she may soon grow to love.

The best-actress honors of the five big pre-Oscar awards also were unanimous for Holly Hunter. As the mute heroine of "The Piano," she also looks like the surest of sure things for Oscar. Some Vegas oddsmakers, however, have been whispering that she could be the chief victim of a backlash resulting from an obnoxious, self-congratulatory ad campaign that her

'SNL' has lost touch with comedy reality

Comedy writing. It's not really that difficult of a chore.

Good comedy writing? That's quite another story.

Patterson

And it is good comedy writing — or the glaring lack thereof — that is at the very heart of the demise of "Saturday Night Live."

The March 12 edition of the show, hosted by skater Nancy Kerrigan, was one of the most pathetic excuses for comedy to ever try and pass for an "SNL" episode.

Nothing, it seems, goes right with this show anymore; a show that's long past it's prime. That it is over the hill is painfully obvious for those who once enjoyed the cutting edge humor it offered.

"Entertainment Weekly" recently did an article entitled "20 Ways to Improve Saturday Night Live."

The last suggestion, No. 20, was that the show was in need of a better writing team. But it is that fault that should head the list, a list that really begins and ends there. No need to find 20 things wrong. It is merely bad writing which has rendered "SNL" among the worst pieces of entertainment on television nowadays.

Sure there are other minor glitches that could be corrected:

1. With the exception of Chris Farley, David Spade and Rob Schneider, the entire cast needs to be dumped. And that includes Mike Myers, Kevin Nealon and Phil Hartman. Myers has passed his prime and resorts to the same tired old schtick week in and week out; Hartman is simply not funny; Nealon is so bad he can't even read dummy cards on the Weekend Update four years after he first assumed the chore.

2. Sketches need to be about half as long as they are. "SNL" has always carried on a good idea far too long. Bits drag out long after the punchline has been delivered, and because of that, many skits simply die a horrible, boring, unfunny death.

3. Same thing goes for the show itself. It needs to be shortened to 60 minutes. Very, very seldom in the show's entire history have the last 30 minutes delivered even one laugh.

4. If it's a dumb idea, come up with another one. Too many weak-jokes-turned-into-full-blown-sketches find their way onto "SNL." One example being last

Apparently, people haven't tired of Charles Manson

N.Y. Times News Service

"Turning Point" debuted a week ago with Charles Manson, and delivered an 18.1 rating and 30 share to ABC. That made it the highest-rated newsmagazine premiere in history.

It clobbered CBS' "48 Hours," which aired simultaneously in most of the nation. The CBS News show featured a murderer named Russell Obremski. No star power.

Manson even put up bigger numbers than Jeffrey Dahmer, the cannibalistic killer who was interviewed last week on "Dateline NBC."

"Turning Point" won't bring viewers face to face with homicidal maniacs every week, but Manson's appearance on the premiere was no accident. Roone Arledge, the president of ABC News, chose the opening subject deliberately to put his new program on the map.

Arledge's decision may be remembered, years from now, as another milestone in the long descent of television news. The name of his new show might prove to be ironically apt.

Arledge knew the critics would stamp their feet and cluck their tongues, and he was right. He knew the natal adjective applied to "Turning Point" would be "sensationalistic," and it was. He didn't care; he got his 30 share.

That's a milestone all by itself. For many years, network entertainment executives weren't overly concerned with what critics said about sitcoms, dramas and movies — if anything, such critical dismissals as "tacky" and "tawdry" might boost the ratings. Certainly "The Beverly Hillbillies" and "Laverne & Shirley" didn't ride to the top of the Nielsen heap on a wave of critical acclaim.

But network news executives traditionally have been sensitive to press criticism. They were journalists being gauged by other journalists. They craved acceptance from the regal realm of print journalism. They were anxious to secure a network news reputation as an oasis quarantined from the crass commercialism of TV entertainment.

PATTERSON: Program is long past glory days week's lead-in bit where Hartman, in his trademark worst Bill Clinton impression, held a press conference stating that Hillary was now the "former first lady" due to her arrest in the Whitewater scandal. And, Hartman added, Hillary would be unavailable to answer the press's questions, as she was laid up in a hospital, shot while trying to flee from the FBI. This is not funny, folks. This is a desperate attempt by a staff of some of the weakest writers around to play on anything topical they can drudge up.

5. In the show's golden days, the writers knew how to tickle the fine line between cutting sarcasm and bad taste. Very, very seldom was that line crossed. Now, using the above example again, it is crossed regularly. As another example, Kerrigan's participation in a skit of a St. Patrick's Day parade in a depressed, blue-collar town, was not only dumb, but dumb and with bad taste.

6. Dump the dumb commercial parodies. What were once ingenius take-offs are now completely void of comic merit. Crystal gravy? C'mon, is this the best they can do? The word "parody" never even entered into the thought process while watching this.

"SNL" has lost its direction. So bad is it that it can't even live up to the term "lame" any longer. In its heyday, it was the most imitated and influential comedy program on television, copied by not only other TV shows, but by other mediums as well. No one copies "SNL" in the '90s (The '80s were far from the classic form the show took in the '70s, as well).

It's gotten to where it's even sort of embarrassing to watch people who are genuinely funny (i.e. Schneider, Spade) who have to wade their way through the grunge the SNL comedy writing team is cranking out.

"SNL" is dead. Better it RIP ASAP.

BAUM: TV has expanded comedian's audience

(From 1C)

days at 6:30 p.m., KMID-Ch. 2), Baum's films can be seen regularly on VH-1's "Sunday Comics."

It is Baum's film work of which he is most proud. "Dirty Dances With Wolves," a takeoff of two recent full-length motion pictures, and "Bungee Dentist," in which Baum, a dentist strapped to a bungee cord, lives by the credo, "If bungee dentist can't pull it, it doesn't need to come out."

Baum often mixes his short film work with his stand-up performances, adding, though, that the mixture is sometimes lethal where momentum is concerned.

"A major film is considered a success if it gets 10 laughs," Baum said. "A comic is expected to get that right off the bat. People don't expect laughs that quick from a film."

Baum happened on stage at the Comedy Store in Los Angeles once in 1970 and filled the room with laughs. He didn't begin comedy fulltime until his days at the University of California-Davis near Sacramento in 1973. He holds a bachelor's degree in political science from UC-Davis and a masters degree in film from UCLA.

Recently, he has seen his repertoire expand to cover a wider-ranging audience as a result of his success on "America's Funniest People."

Demographics show "America's Funniest People" attracts 3-11 year olds, an audience that, Baum said, allows him to "broaden what I do."

His appeal to older audiences remains intact thanks to the films that appear on the comedy programs on VH-1, Fox, Comedy Central and other forums.

As for his act, Baum likes to try and balance prop-oriented comedy with a smidgen of topical humor.

"I try to hit all areas," Baum said. "I think of myself as a 200 pound circus.

"I try to do a couple of things that are happening (in the news) within the last couple of weeks. People appreciate it when it's hot off the press."

As for handling hecklers, Baum said they're not usually a problem.

"I deal with the situation as it arises," he joked. "Some of them I lash with a wet cane and others I make bark at the moon. Other times I retort verbally. But I've never had to strike a patron."

His lengthy list of credits include an appearance in the motion picture, "Shakes the Clown," and television appearances on "Northern Exposure," "Full House, "A Year in the Life," "Growing Pains," "Uncle Buck," "Comic Stip Live," "The A-List," "Evening at the Improv," and "VH-1 Standup Spotlight."

OSCAR: Support is decidedly for Hanks

film's producers placed in the Hollywood trade papers during the peak voting period.

Should this happen — I think it's extremely unlikely — the beneficiary would likely be Debra Winger for her role as C.S. Lewis' cancer-suffering wife in "Shadowlands." Oscar loves an affliction (and it would beconsolation for losing the last time she was nominated for playing a cancer victim, in 1983's "Terms of Endearment"). As for the other nominees: Angela Bassett as Tina Turner in "What's Love Got to Do With It," is too unknown; Emma Thompson, the housekeeper of "The Remains of the Day," won last year in this category and is unlikely to repeat; and Stockard Channing, as a New York matron in the little-seen "Six Degrees of Separation," is the darkest of dark horses.

The best actor race is a tad more lively, but the overwhelming consensus is still that Tom Hanks, the fired lawyer with AIDS in "Philadelphia," can clear off a place on his mantle. Never mind that Hanks was better in "Sleepless in Seattle," and that "Philadelphia" could have been a lot bette movie. Hanks also has an affliction going for him, his decision to play an unapologetically gay character is regarded as a courageous act, and the Hollywood community sees a vote for Hanks as a means of showing its honest concern about the AIDS cataclysm.

If there is an upset here, it could come on the coattails of a "Schindler's List" sweep, benefiting Liam Neeson who plays the film's Nazi-turned-humanitarian, Oskar Schindler. Daniel Day-Lewis had a big year and also may have an outsi le shot for his work as the unjustly persecuted Irishman of "In the Name of the Father." But Anthony Hopkins, who won in this category two years ago, probably doesn't have much chance as the repressed butler in "The Remains of the Day." Nor does Laurence Fishburne, considered a 20-to-1 shot for his brilliant portrayal of rocker Ike Turner in "What's Love Got to Do With It."

In the best supporting actor race, the smart money is on Tommy Lee Jones. Jones, regarded as one of Hollywood's most versatile character leads, didn't get a deserved best supporting Oscar for 1991's "JFK." And as the pursuing lawman of "The Fugitive," Jones stole the movie out from under star Harrison Ford — the kind of cheeky theft Oscar likes to reward.

If Jones doesn't go the distance, the nod could go to John Malkovich, another much-respected actor's actor who was quite effective as the would-be presidential assassin of "In the Line of Fire." O "Schindler's" curren enough, it could well . Ralph Fiennes, who por villainous Nazi. Leonardo DiCaprio, nominated for his role as the mentally handicapped teenager in "What's Eating Gilbert Grape," and Pete Postlethwaite, the martyred title character of "In the Name of the Father," are less likely to figure into the race.

The most drama at the top end of this year's Oscar ballot is in the supporting-actress race, though most oddsmakers and pundits agree on Winona Ryder, the cheated-upon fiancee of "The Age of Innocence." It's not her best work, but she is Hollywood's hottest young actress and this category has frequently been used to encourage auspicious newcomers (as in last year's win for Marisa Tomei of "My Cousin Vinny").

But none of Ryder's competition can be ruled out. Rosie Perez was extremely good in her serious, change-of-pace role as the traumatized plane crash survivor of "Fearless;" 11-year-old Anna Paquin, the talkative daughter of "The Piano," could also get the encouragement vote; and a quorum of Academy members could well give a large enough consolation vote to one of the two best-actress nominees also nominated in this category: Emma Thompson, as the idealistic defense lawyer of "In the Name of the Father," and Holly Hunter, as the good-hearted bimbo secretary of "The Firm."

The minor categories are harder to predict, but "Schindler's List" could conceivably carry off the majority of them: adapted screenplay, art direction, cinematography, costume design, editing, makeup, original musical score, and sound. However, it seems more likely that other multi-nominated films will get their consolation prizes here: original screenplay to "The Piano," adapted screenplay to "In the Name of the Father," and art direction to "The Age of Innocence."

The polls unanimously favor Hong Kong's "Farewell My Concubine" in the best foreign language film category, but I think there could be an upset in favor of Taiwan's similarly gay-themed "The Wedding Banquet." It's a much better movie than "Concubine" and, more importantly, it's a big U.S. arthouse hit, with a larger profit-to-cost ratio of any of this year's Oscar-nominated films except "Jurassic Park."

If all this anticipated predictability sounds like a prescription for Monday night tedium, remember that the Oscars are famous for upsets, and every ceremony of the past decade has had at least one major surprise — consider 1981, when the longshot "Chariots of Fire" beat "Reds" for best picture.

The Oscar show always manages to come up with a streaker, a protester, a controversy, a flubbed speech or an embarrassingly awful dress or production number to give the proceedings some perverse entertainment value. And with the always unpredictable Whoopi Goldberg as hostess (taking over for Billy Crystal), anything could happen.

The evening is also guaranteed to have at least one emotional high point: the presentation of an honorary Oscar to Deborah Kerr, the much-respected British film star of the '40s, '50s and '60s who holds a record six best-actress nominations ("From Here to Eternity," "The King and I," "The Sundowners," "Edward, My Son," "Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison" and "Separate Tables") but no win.

Among the lineup of presenters are Macaulay Culkin, Nicole Kidman, Whitney Houston, Bernadette Peters, Tom Cruise, Geena Davis, Sharon Stone, Alec Baldwin, Laura Dern, Emma Thompson, Johnny Depp, Anthony Hopkins, Antonio Banderas, Goldie Hawn, Jeremy Irons and Tom Hanks.

'Best Actress' race offers diversity

By Bob Thomas
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES — A rock music icon, a rich city dweller, a mail-order bride in New Zealand, an English domestic servant, an outspoken American poetess — from these diverse roles, Academy voters must choose the actress who gave the best movie performance of 1993.

It won't be easy. The five actresses — four American, the other English and a former Oscar winner — perform at the peak of their talents. And they have prevailed in an industry that is decidedly masculine, as evidenced by the more powerful roles of the nominees for best actor.

The actress race features an unusual record: Two of the candidates have been doubly nominated. Emma Thompson was named for the lead role in "The Remains of the Day" and support in "In the Name of the Father." Holly Hunter was nominated for lead in "The Piano" and support in "The Firm."

Angela Bassett of "What's Love Got to Do with It" first attracted attention in Broadway plays before making her film debut as a mother in "Boyz N the Hood." The Yale graduate followed with her role as Denzel Washington's wife in "Malcolm X" and as mother of the singing brood in TV's "The Jacksons: An American Dream."

As Tina Turner, the actress faced the challenge of portraying a world-famous star and mouthing the bombshell musical numbers to the Turner voice. (Trivia question: What other Oscar nominee sang to playbacks of a star's voice? Answer: Larry Parks in "The Jolson Story," 1946.)

What would Angela Bassett's singing voice sound like?

"Probably shaky," she told an interviewer, laughing heartily. "I would not have wanted that element added to all the others. I sing in the shower like everybody else. I've been in plays where the character has sung. It's nerve-wracking, but it works out. Maybe it's the ham in you that won't let you mess up."

Stockard Channing of "Six Degrees of Separation" seemed destined for stardom in 1976 when she was chosen to appear opposite Warren Beatty and Jack Nicholson in "The Fortune," directed by Mike Nichols. But the movie inexplicably bombed. The Radcliffe-educated Channing went on to play the street-wise Rizzo in "Grease," but her career stalled.

After working in television, theater and occasional films, she took the lead in "Six Degrees of Separation," a play written by a close friend, John Guare. Although she and the play were wildly praised in New York and London, she had no hope of landing the movie version.

"The play became this mega-hit," the actress told Cosmopolitan, "and John Guare came to me and said, 'You're going to do the movie.' And I said, 'John, that's really sweet of you, but get real — there's Meryl Streep, and there's Glenn Close, and there's blah-blah-blah, and that's the way life works.' "

Two years after MGM bought the film rights, director Fred Schepisi told her she would play the role of the rich New York woman who is duped by a young con artist.

"And I sort of lost it," she recalled, "because I realized how very much I wanted the part."

The double nominations for Holly Hunter of "The Piano" signaled the return of an actress to whom stardom apparently means little.

After her Oscar-nominated performance in "Broadcast News" in 1987, she seemed to shrink from her newfound prominence, preferring to act in small theaters. Her film appearances were in flops ("Always," "Once Around"), but TV movies won her two Emmys.

"The Piano" brought Miss Hunter the Cannes prize for best actress.

Playing the role of a Scottish bride with her own set of morals did not require masking her Georgia accent. She speaks not a word in the film, for reasons that are never explained.

After winning the Golden Globe for best dramatic actress, Miss Hunter commented about "The Piano":

"I really did think it was going to be an incredible movie and an extraordinary experience. It is so original and so unique. But I really did think that fewer people would see it."

"I do think that some people, a lot of people — all people (giggle) — see it as a love story. I do think it's a powerful, sensual love story. ... But it can be taken on so many different levels that you could probably take any member of your family, except children, and you'd find it contagious."

After shining alongside her multi-talented husband, Kenneth Branagh, Emma Thompson of "The Remains of the Day" scored on her own with last year's Academy Award for her role as Margaret Schlegel in "Howards End."

Now, she could make it back-to-back acting awards (only Luise Rainer, Spencer Tracy and Jason Robards have done it) or double acting Oscars in one year (never done).

The Cambridge-educated actress brought special knowledge to her role as the head maid, Miss Kensington. Her grandmother had been "in the service" from the age of 12.

"She was under housekeepers who could be really mean and nasty to the maid," Miss Thompson said in an interview. "It wasn't a very nice life for those at the lower levels.

"Miss Kensington is a good and honorable housekeeper, and she looks after her maids. She knows a happy maid is a good maid. She looks after them very carefully."

Like Holly Hunter, Debra Winger of "Shadowlands" underwent an eclipse in her film career. After scoring hits in 'An Officer and a Gentleman" and "Terms of Endearment," she seemed to make a series of bad choices, and wise money was betting she would slowly fade away.

She proved herself in 1993 with two impressive performances — as a mentally immature small-towner in "A Dangerous Woman" and the spunky American writer who marries a famous English writer in "Shadowlands."

Miss Winger has gained a reputation for being outspoken, once slamming co-star Richard Gere and director Taylor Hackford after "An Officer and a Gentleman."

After learning of her nomination for "Shadowlands," she commented mildly:

"I talked with my mother last night. She said, 'If you get a nomination, wake me up.' I said, 'What if I don't get a nomination?' And she said, 'Then don't wake me up.' I gladly woke her up."

Blockbusters don't usually get nod

Associated Press

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — These movies draw the longest lines, ignite the hottest buzz and deliver the heaviest repeat business. They're the movies everybody loves — except Oscar voters.

From "Return of the Jedi" to "Batman" to "Jurassic Park," the Academy Awards consistently refuse to honor some of Hollywood's most popular releases.

In an about-face this year, the box-office hit "The Fugitive" is nominated for best picture and in six other categories. While "The Fugitive" is a longshot for a best picture win, Tommy Lee Jones is a favorite for supporting actor.

The film's inclusion in top Oscar categories says as much about the broad appeal of "The Fugitive" as it does the Academy's biases.

Simply put, the voters don't like thrill-a-minute Hollywood blockbusters. The balloters prefer "important" films about social and personal issues, even if they're comparatively slow-moving accounts of Indian pacifists and Chinese emperors.

MIDLAND OPERA THEATER
Proudly Presents
EDDIE COKER
& Friends
Thursday, March 24-8:00 PM
Allison Fine Arts Auditorium
Midland College Campus

Eddie Coker was born in Texas and raised on cornbread, chicken-fried steak and opera. Opera? Yes, opera. As an 18-year old high school baseball player, Eddie snuck off the field during the seventh inning stretch to audition for a music scholarship. There, in the auditorium of Southern Methodist University's Meadows School of the Arts, a sweaty, spike-clad baritone was discovered. Eddie toured extensively at the outset of his opera career; in 1988, on a whim, he filled in for a colleague in Dallas who was performing opera for children. The kids loved him and Eddie loved introducing arias to third-graders.

SATURDAY, MARCH 19, 1994

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Teamwork can make things happen for you, both professionally and financially. Your exuberance for the task at hand wins the admiration and support of those around you. New economic gains are possible in late spring. Next fall, concentrate on one project at a time for the best results and profits. Trust your instincts when dealing with newcomers. A seemingly prosperous acquaintance could have designs on your money. Avoid get-rich-quick schemes.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: Oscar-winning actress Glenn Close, frontier marshal Wyatt Earp, Swiss-born actress Ursula Andress, author Irving Wallace.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Read the fine print or consult experts before signing on the dotted line. Home conditions could be unsettling. Try to find out the reason without stirring the waters too much.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Positive influences affect your life in the most interesting ways. Give a teen-ager who is anxious about college applications tender, loving care. A little pampering will go a long way. Have fun tonight.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Make allowances for loved ones who may have reached their limit. Take a close look at your social plans. Can you really afford them? A quiet weekend at home proves beneficial.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Look forward to plenty of good cheer this weekend. Work hard on a project that bodes well for the future. You could be the star of a social gathering tonight.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Take control of your life. Activities related to children, affairs of the heart and creative pursuits are favored. You will gain in many ways if you exercise caution. Give loved ones extra encouragement.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Youngsters need protection from themselves as well as from outside influences. Gentle guidance is the key; avoid harsh punishments. Pastimes shared with your mate become doubly enjoyable.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Look after someone's minor aches before they become major. A little sweet talk and personal attention would be very soothing. The trust and affection of those dear to you are priceless.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): If possible, get most of your important work done before lunchtime. Cooperation could be in short supply later on. Financial worries subside. Step back from romance if you have been overly aggressive.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Words are lucky for you today. An impulsive phone call could lead to lucrative weekend employment. Tonight, widen your social circle. You benefit when you get together with more adventuresome types.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A busy day lies ahead. Rise early; get off to a running start. An eccentric individual could complicate your life. Something you have held in reserve can be used to good advantage now.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your sociable mood could attract a new admirer. A relationship begun today may lead to delightful romance. Win raves by entertaining at home. Groom yourself carefully for the occasion.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A reunion with old friends enjoys favorable influences. Avoid actions that could jeopardize your reputation or impair your popularity. Dote on your children; they will return your love tenfold.

Singer Joel hitches ride to concert with fire crew

CLEVELAND — Billy Joel didn't start a fire. The Fire Department helped anyway.

Joel, whose hits include "We Didn't Start The Fire," was on his way to a concert Thursday night when his van was hit by a truck. He wasn't injured, but he was left without transportation. So he hitched a ride in a fire department emergency vehicle, signing autographs for the star-struck crew.

Singer Billy Joel hitches a ride in a fire emergency vehicle.

Assistant Fire Chief Ted Alex said the crew violated department policy by driving Joel to the Coliseum in suburban Richfield, about 15 miles south of the city.

"They probably thought they were doing a public service," Alex said.

Joel's fans might agree. The concert took place as scheduled.

MANILA, Philippines — It was over even before the fat guy sang.

Luciano Pavarotti postponed his Friday night concert in Manila because of a cough. Organizers announced the postponement 45 minutes before showtime.

"He does not like to perform with a voice that is not up to standards," said Carol Nievera, one of the concert organizers.

The show was rescheduled for Monday.

"It must have been because of the pollution," said former first lady Imelda Marcos, one of about 3,000 guests who left disappointed.

* * *

ST. PETE BEACH, Fla. — Movie critic Gene Shalit broke a leg all right. But he was crossing the street, not performing.

Shalit was clipped by the bumper of a passing car Thursday evening. He was in good condition at Palms of Pasadena Hospital. A nurse said he was in good spirits.

Shalit, known for his reviews and his flamboyant moustache, appears on NBC's "Today."

SAN FRANCISCO — A University of California regents committee wants to junk its contract with fallen junk bond king Michael Milken.

The contract allows Milken to use the university logo and to market videos of classes he taught at UCLA last fall. Milken keeps 95 percent of the profits; the school gets 5 percent.

The regents think that's a lousy deal — with a convicted felon, no less. They asked administrators Thursday to try to get out of the contract.

"It's offensive to a lot of people," said regent Ward Connerly.

Milken pleaded guilty to six securities violations and served nearly two years in prison.

SAUGERITIES, N.Y. — Heavy metals fans, dream on. Aerosmith is negotiating to appear at the Woodstock 1994 concert.

"Nothing has been confirmed yet, but we've been talking to them," said the band's publicist, Wendy Laister. "We're waiting to see how the concert shapes up. It has the potential to be an amazing event."

Woodstock 1994 promoters want to hold the concert Aug. 13-14 at the Winston Farm in Saugerties.

A simultaneous concert is slated 60 miles away in Bethel, the site of the original Woodstock festival in 1969. That show already has booked Woodstock alums John Sebastian and Richie Havens.

Aerosmith, a Grammy-winning heavy metal band, has recorded such hits as "Dream On" and "Dude Looks Like a Lady."

On Wednesday night, a black-tie crowd in Washington was roasting but mostly toasting Paul Duke on his retirement after 20 years as moderator of the public television program "Washington Week in Review."

Duke's successor, Ken Bode, said that unlike other political talk shows, this one does not stage "verbal food fights."

"In a world of sound bites and fleeting celebrity, Paul has endured," said Sharon Percy Rockefeller, president of WETA-TV in Washington and a host of the dinner, at the National Museum of Women in the Arts.

Jim Lehrer of the "MacNeil/Lehrer Newshour" noted that "some fool" once divided public television programs into five categories: those that feature English people speaking, animals mating, animals speaking, English people mating and "Washington Week in Review."

Beaming at Duke, Lehrer said, "We are here tonight to honor Category 5."

Faces from the worlds of journalism and politics were seen in the audience and on a film clip shown on a large screen. The clip ended with President Clinton smiling wistfully and saying of Duke's retirement, "Lots of days I wish I could be there with you."

Thoughtful Moments™

Here is a man who was born of Jewish parents in an obscure village, the child of a peasant woman. He grew up in another obscure village. He worked in a carpenter shop until He was thirty, and then for three years He was an itinerant preacher. He never wrote a book. He never held an office. He never owned a home. He never went to college. He never put His foot inside a big city. He never traveled two hundred miles from the place where He was born. He never did one of the things that usually accompany greatness. He had no credentials but Himself. He had nothing to do with this world except the naked power of His divine manhood. While still a young man, the tide of popular opinion turned against Him. His friends ran away. One of them denied Him. He was turned over to His enemies. He went through the mockery of a trial. He was nailed to a cross between two thieves. His executioners gambled for the only piece of property He had on earth while he was dying, and that was His coat. When He was dead He was taken down and laid in a borrowed grave through the pity of a friend.

Nineteen wide centuries have come and gone and today He is the centerpiece of the human race and the leader of the column of progress. All the armies that ever marched, and all the navies that ever were built, and all the parliaments that ever sat, and all the kings that ever reigned, put together have not affected the life of man upon this earth as powerfully and profoundly as has that One Solitary Life.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

■ Church offers seminar

ODESSA — "Neither Greek nor Jew: Cross Cultural Considerations in the 20th Century Church" is the topic of a "Know Your Religion" seminar sponsored by The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

The seminar, which begins at 7:30 p.m. today in the chapel located at 21st and Washington, will feature special guest Stephen K. Iba, an administrator in the church's education system.

He holds a master's degree in educational psychology from Brigham Young University and has completed doctoral course work at the University of Utah.

Cost for the seminar is $4 for adults and $3 for students.

■ Day to honor trustees

Hollowell United Methodist Church, 400 S. Marshall St., is holding its annual Trustee Day at 3 p.m. Sunday.

This is an annual celebration where the church recognizes the members of the board of trustees. The current officers and members include Katherline "Kitty" Joiner, chair: Addison Dean, vice chair; Terrill Littlejohn, secertary and treasurer; and members Anne beaver, Samuel Gibbs, Milton Jones, Howard Moore, Helen Morris and Mamie Williams.

Guest speaker will be Donald L. Jordan, Lea county manager, Hobbs, N.M., who is a native Midlander.

The public is invited to attend the service.

■ Bellview plans revival

Bellview Baptist Church, 1710 N. Big Spring St., will hold revival services Sunday through Wednesday.

Guest speaker will be the Rev. Kenneth Patrick, an evangelist and pastor of First Baptist Church in Big Spring. Guest musicians will be Pail and Christy Newberry.

Service times are 10:50 a.m. and 6:40 p.m. Sunday and 7:30 p.m. Monday through Wednesday. Noon services are planned in the Christian Life Center Monday through Wednesday. A meal will be served at 11:40 a.m.

■ Means to hold revival

ANDREWS — Means Memorial United Methodist Church, 311 NE 2nd St., is holding a revival Sunday through Wednesday.

The Rev. Ed Robb Jr., ministerial member of the Northwest Texas Conference of the UMC, will be conducting the services, which are set for 7 p.m. Revival music will be led by Sandra Shiplet of Midland. Assisting with the services will be the Rev. Earl Blair, the church's pastor, and Jane Kirby, the church's choir and youth director.

Breakfast will be served at 7 a.m. Transportation will be provided upon request by calling the church in advance at 1-523-9852.

■ Chorale to perform

The Concert Chorale of Texas Christian University will present a free concert at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday in the sanctuary of First Presbyterian Church, 800 W. Texas Ave.

Traveling with the Chorale is Brent McCartney of Midland, a graduate of Lee High School, who is now a senior at TCU working on majors in music education and organ.

First Christian Church of Midland is sponsoring the concert.

For nursery reservations call 684-7821, Ext. 37.

For more information call Rebecca Sawyer, 684-7821.

■ Church cites milestone

The officers and members of the Macedonia Baptist Church are hosting a 20th anniversary Appreciation Service on Sunday for the church's minister and his wife, the Rev. and Mrs. O.J. Archie.

The Rev. B. Dunn will conduct the 11 a.m. service and the Rev. C.D. Joiner will conduct the 2:30 p.m. service. Guest speaker for the afternoon will be the Rev. George Garnett II of Odessa.

All are welcome to attend.

■ Church plans services

The Rev. and Mrs. Mike Eddy of Winnsboro will be conducting special services at 10:15 a.m. and 6 p.m. Sunday at Harvest Time Church, 2801 S. County Road 1207.

Eddy is an ordained minister of the Assemblies of God.

The church's pastor, the Rev. Mike Benson, invites the public to attend.

■ Little to be pastor

Elder Lyman Little, formerly of Livermore, Calif., has been called to pastor the Primitive Baptist Church of Midland.

Elder J.E. Barrington resigned earlier this year because of ill health. He has been pastor since January 1961.

Little was ordained in Lindsay, Calif., Sept. 29, 1979. He and his wife, Jane, moved to Midland in February.

■ Deacons to be named

Westside Church of Christ, 4410 W. Illinois Ave., recently appointed three additional elders, and on Sunday, four additional deacons will be installed.

Also, the youth group recently participated in Bible Bowls in Mesa, Ariz., and Albuquerque, N.M..

■ Tent revival is slated

Operation H.O.P.E. is sponsoring a "Hope for the Permian Basin" tent revival Tuesday through March 27 at the corner of East Kentucky Avenue and Fairgrounds Road South.

Revival services will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Sponsors include Donnie and Barbra Brackens and Ken and Dene Redmon.

For more information call 694-3646.

■ Science to be topic

North Koreans walk out of crucial negotiations

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — A last-minute effort to resolve mounting tensions on the divided Korean peninsula collapsed today when angry North Korean delegates walked out of a crucial border meeting.

The walkout threatens a U.S.-brokered deal aimed at resolving the year-long dispute over the North's suspected nuclear weapons program. It also raises anew the prospect of possible sanctions and other retaliatory steps against the Communist North.

"The North Korean attitude is regrettable," Song Young-dae, South Korea's chief delegate, said after the nearly 1-hour meeting at the border village of Panmunjom.

After the walkout, no date for the next meeting was set, and South Korean officials said the current inter-Korea dialogue that had reopened early this month after a four-month lull was thus cut off.

Earlier in the week, international inspections of the North's nuclear facilities ended inconclusively. The U.N. inspectors said they had not been shown everything they asked to see and that therefore they could not conclude that the nuclear program was entirely peaceful, as Pyongyang insists.

Attention is now focused on whether the two Koreas can agree to exchange high-level envoys, a precondition of high-level U.S.-North Korea talks scheduled for Monday in Geneva.

The border talks Saturday were to determine if the U.S.-North Korea dialogue would take place, U.S. Secretary of State Warren Christopher has said.

U.S. and South Korean officials said that decisions on whether to deploy Patriot missiles in South Korea and to revive suspended U.S.-South Korean "Team Spirit" military exercises also depend on the border talks.

The annual military exercises on South Korean soil had been suspended to coax North Korea into letting U.N. inspectors investigate its nuclear program. North Korea denounces the exercises as nuclear war preparations.

During the meeting, the three North Korean delegates grew incensed over repeated South Korean demands for new nuclear inspections and an exchange of envoys. They refused to shake hands with South Korean delegates, a pool report from Panmunjom said.

Before walking out, the North's chief delegate, Park Young Su, threatened that his country would go to war if the world community keeps pressuring it into further nuclear inspections.

"If you acts like that, collision is inevitable and war is unavoidable," Park said. "We are ready either for dialogue or war."

Perry: Russia to play big role in NATO partnership

MOSCOW (AP) — Despite large-defense reductions, Russia will play a major role in NATO's Partnership for Peace, including possible refereeing of disputes in neighboring countries, Defense Secretary William Perry said Friday.

Russia's joining the partnership, a step short of actual membership in the Western alliance, "would be a major event for NATO," Perry said. "Russia is a great power. It's a nuclear power. They would play a very special role."

Perry discussed the partnership with Russian Prime Minister Viktor Chernomyrdin a day after Russia's defense minister announced the nation would join by the end of the month.

The Partnership for Peace was created by NATO to allow former East Bloc nations to demonstrate their commitment to a European alliance without becoming full NATO members.

The Russian government had opposed NATO membership for East Bloc states out of fear that Russia would be isolated against an enlarged alliance. Those objections might diminish if Russia were given the status of first among equals in the partnership program.

Also, opponents of the partnership program in Moscow argue that Russia would cede its position as a major power by lining up as an equal with smaller former Soviet states that are eager to join.

In words apparently aimed at countering that argument, Perry said, "Of all the countries considering joining the partnership, Russia of course, is the largest and has the most resources and can bring the most to bear on the Partnership for Peace."

Perry, completing two days of talks with officials in Moscow, said Russia's focus in joining the partnership will be on her neighbors.

"They have a very great concern with peacekeeping in countries around the border of Russia," Perry said. "I would expect their primary emphasis would be in dealing with those problems."

He added that Russia should respect the independence of her neighbors and embark on peacekeeping efforts only at the request of a host country or the United Nations.

Russia, like other partnership members, would have to agree to share information on defense activities with NATO members and maintain a commitment to democracy.

Perry said Chernomyrdin set no conditions on Russia's joining.

Chernomyrdin, the No. 2 official below Russian President Boris Yeltsin, said Russian and American officials "have come very close" to reaching a consensus on how to destroy chemical and biological weapons that remain in the Russian military stockpile. Further talks on those issues will be held in Washington in June, Chernomyrdin said.

Yeltsin was out of town, canceling a planned meeting with Perry.

The Perry-Chernomyrdin meeting took place in the Russian "White House," its charred facade repaired since the damage incurred in the defeated revolt of last October.

Later, Perry signed an agreement providing for $40 million in aid to Russia for weapons plant conversion, housing for retired soldiers and job training.

Review: Iran appears near brink of collapse, conflict

LONDON (AP) — Iran appears near the brink of collapse and it could become engulfed in civil conflict, according to Jane's Intelligence Review.

"At no point since the early days of the revolution has the political, economic and social condition of Iran been so fragile," wrote James Wyllie of the University of Aberdeen, a security specialist who focuses on the Middle East.

Other Middle East experts were divided about whether civil strife is possible, and one dismissed the prediction of Iran's collapse as "a lot of wishful thinking" by the West.

In the article entitled "Iran — The Edge of the Precipice," which was made available to The Associated Press on Friday, Wyllie said the desperate state of the economy and political factionalism are putting "unprecedented strains" on the fabric of the country.

Fifteen years after the Islamic Revolution toppled Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, he said, "Iran is in a perilous condition and there is a prospect of civil collapse."

President Hashemi Rafsanjani's economic liberalization program has failed to rescue the economy, oil prices are about half the $30 a barrel the government banked on, the Iranian riyal has been devalued by 25 percent, and the government is reported to be up to $10 billion behind on debt repayment, Wyllie said in the Jane's article, to be published next week.

There is evidence of "active discontent" among Iranians who are suffering real deprivation, he said, citing riots since 1992, the most recent last month in the southeastern city of Zahedan, reportedly between Iran's Shiite Muslim majority and Sunni Muslim minority.

In the article and an interview, Wyllie said if there is civil war, it's going to be between the modernizers, in Iranian terms the liberals who support Rafsanjani, and the conservative right, led by Iran's spiritual leader, Ayatollah Ali Khamenei.

Wyllie said Rafsanjani "is beleaguered and isolated as never before," while Khamenei and his right-wing supporters are gaining real power.

Khamenei, who succeeded the revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini after his death in 1989, commands the armed forces. He sent a militia of fanatical young boys called the Baseej, believed to number about 200,000, into the streets last year to enforce Islamic behavior, especially among women, Wyllie said.

CLOCK TRIO

Our clock trio will allow you to know what time it is in any room of the house ... and they're so easy to make, everyone has the time to do it! Just trace the full-size pattern for the clock directly onto the wood and cut the pieces required. Clock movements and hands are available nationwide, but if there isn't a source in your area, we list an address on the plan for ordering them. You can build just one or the whole set!

Send check to: KCS Pattern Dept. P. O. Box 2383 Van Nuys, CA 91409

Distributorships Now Available

PART-TIME INCOME OPPORTUNITY

The Midland Reporter-Telegram has early morning routes which need to be filled with dependable individuals with reliable transportation. Often asked questions:

Is it worthwhile for adults also?
YES! 95% of our Distributors ARE adults! Morning Routes are attractive for:
★ ADULTS who have fulltime jobs, yet want to supplement their income with a steady part-time job!
★ MOTHERS who can't justify a small job AND daycare, because as a Distributor, you don not need daycare!
★ COLLEGE STUDENTS needing a part-time job which will work with classes!
★ SENIOR CITIZENS wanting regular exercise, added retirement income, or just want to work with people, neighbors, and friends!

How much money can I make as a Distributor?
Depending on the size of the route(s), from $350 to $800 monthly, in some cases...even more!

OK...but how long does it take?
The actual delivery takes 1-2 hours Monday-Saturday, and 2-3 hours on Sunday, depending on the size of the route(s). Also some time is needed each month to collect from subscribers. Many Distributors choose to handle some of this by putting envelopes in the subscribers' papers and having payments mailed to them. Some collecting in person will be necessary though, particularly on some routes more than others.

When do the papers have to be delivered by?
Papers must be on the yards by 6 am Monday-Friday, and 7 am on weekend mornings.

Do I ever get a day off?
The job requires a 7-day a week commitment. However, most Distributors do take days off by finding a friend, family member, or another Distributor to substitute for them!

What else?
An initial $100 refundable deposit is required.
