THE OLD STRUVE HOMESTEAD

Struve Home

Homestead Renovated

"This old house has many memories," a phrase from a song of the fifties, might well have been written by descendents of the late George and Olga Struve.

Fields of promising cotton almost surround the old "home place" today but when its three-room nucleous was built in 1900 it sat in the midst of virgin pastureland.

When today's lady of the house, Francine Struve Ramage, bakes bread in the farm house kitchen which was one of the three original rooms, she goes back in day dreams to the time when Grandmother Struve baked her family's bread on the old iron range.

"I wonder what Grandpa Struve would think if he knew I lived here now," she muses.

"He'd be mighty proud," answers her uncle, Walter Struve, eldest child of the George Struves.

Francine and her husband, Charles, moved into the old family home in January 1973 when they began farming the plot which her father, Frank Struve, inherited. They were joined just weeks later by a little son, Michael.

When the young Ramages decided to move into the old farm house it was after a brief visit with renters who gave the place a look of comfort and an appearance that "wasn't so bad."

Emptied of a family's possesions, it wore a different look when Francine and Charles prepared to make it their home.

"Seeing it that way and being eight months pregnant, I was ready to walk away," Francine remembers. "But we started in and worked every day for three weeks."

"It's a lot more liveable than it was when we lived in it as kids," her uncle says. It does, indeed, reflect the look of a home where family togetherness and love are greater values than the handsome structure of a house.

The elder Struve bought the homestead claim southeast of Olton in 1902 from J.H. King. Only 19 years old, he made the purchase for one dollar per acre and 50 head of broomtail horses valued at $10 each.

Homestead requirements demanded he live on the land six months of the year so he moved into the house with the late Bob Norfleet who was living there at the time. After Norfleet filed on his own land and moved out, Struve continued to "bach" at the homestead until he and Mrs. Struve were married in 1908.

Walter recalls his father telling of living in two of the rooms and using the third for a storehouse for feed.

The homestead originally included 570 acres but was resurveyed and Struve came up with 19 more acres, Walter remembers. In 1924, he recalls, his parents made the decision whether to finish paying for their land or building on a room. An additional 378 acres of strip land west of the homestead was bought during the war, he remembers.

Struve worked as a sheep shearer in those early years and rode horseback from ranch to ranch, working all the way to Hereford.

Fifty-five acres of the pastureland were broken so that feed could be planted for the horses. In 1924, an additional 100 acres were broken and the remainder, except for 100 acres, went under the plow in 1926. Small acreages continued to be broken each year.

A lean-to was added to the house and water was piped from the windmill to the lean-to in about 1920, making the Struve home "modern" and convenient.

The Struve brothers can bring back, with their memories, the original home, a "boxed and stripped" structure. Each of the two east rooms had

By Beautician

20th Anniversary Celebrated

May thirteenth was an anniversary for Anita Sullivan for it was on that date in 1954 that she passed her board exams and became a licensed beautician.

The real "truth," she says with a laugh, of when she decided to become a beauty operator "was the last year I hoed cotton. I knew I wanted something else."

Anita studied at Isbell Powell Beauty School in Lubbock and completed her training when only 1000 hours were required. She came home and began working for Peggy Poteet in a little shop north of "the square" next door to where Olton Cleaners stands today.

"If that old shop could talk, it could tell lots of stories," she says remembering.

Peggy still owned an old time permanent machine but they were so near a thing of the past that Anita had not been trained in their use. She remembers giving just one, her grandmother, the recipient.

Anita opened her own shop, "Anita's Styleart" in January, 1956. In the same location today, it had been occupied by a jewelry store. She recalls her equipment was lost in shipment and suppliers "loaned" her odds and ends to use until it arrived.

When she opened her own shop, an aunt worked with her. She does not remember the price of a shampoo and set but thinks it must have been $1.50. She does remember that a set was 75 cents when she began working for Peggy with shampoo and sets costing an additional 50 cents.

Hair pins were still the mode of curling when she first began working and Anita recalls that it was about the first of the next year when Peggy returned from a trip to New York for a Helene Curtis tour with the newest of supplies--brush rollers.

Anita's shop originally had just two "stations" but was expanded to three several years ago. Her original dryers have twice been replaced. Hair do's had to be protected during the drying time with hair nets under the original dryers. They were replaced several years ago by "air-conditioned" dryers. New, more streamlined dryers were installed just a few months ago.

Two former co-workers, Joyce Smith and Barbara McFadden, are now customers in the shop where they once rolled hair.

Working with Anita are Beverly Roberson and Angie Pedroza. Angie worked for a time and then moved away from Olton. Coming here from Shallowater, she found her old station open and returned to work.

ANITA SULLIVAN

Water being a vital ingredient of Anita's work has also provided her with unforgettable memories. The city has been cooperative in informing her when water would be shut off so that customers might not be caught with shampoo in their hair or a permanent in process. Yet there have been some "close calls."

"Instant wax remover" is a description she gives for the after effects of another water experience. Opening up one morning several years ago, Anita's husband Charles discovered the water heater had sprung a leak in the night and flooded the shop. Water stood two inches deep over the back portion of the shop with the gradual floor's slope keeping a bit less water at the front.

"He was going to get it mopped up before I came to work," Anita remembers, "but it took me and him and Joyce Smith and Brenda Schreier till 10 o'clock to get it all out."

Tantalizing Showers Fall In Olton Area

Tantalizing showers have fallen on two occasions during the week. Within the city limits early risers have found wet pavement and small puddles of water standing, but official weather report was unavailable for the press.

A check with farmers each direction from the city has revealed only shower conditions everywhere except the area northwest of the city, where the fall was somewhat heavier.

Mrs. Raymon Carson, possibly in the heart of the heaviest shower, reported .8 inches early Monday morning. Mrs. Travis Walters, also in that vicinity, stated they received .5 inches in the Monday morning fall and .2 later in the week. She explained that it was not a great amount but really helped hold the moisture and she continued "We have the best looking crop...if we can just harvest it!"

North of the city James Cowart did not consider the two showers measurable "Just enough to wash things off, settle the dust, and cool us off."

Mrs. O.E. Patterson, east of the city estimated the showers as "a trace each time" not enough to measure but they did "revive hope."

Reports from the South and southwestern areas were very much the same. Promising cloud cover has reduced temperatures somewhat during the week and has caused farmers and gardners alike to scan the skies expectantly. Some are discussing the long range forecast, which calls for good rains before Aug. 10.

Corina Guerrero Killed In Farm Accident

Last rites were read Thursday, Aug. 1, in St. Peter's Catholic Church for little Miss Corina Guerrero, ten-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jose Guerrero.

Officiating was the Rev. Clarence Huber. Interment was in Olton Cemetery under direction of Parsons Funeral Home.

Guerrero, an employee for many years on the Delbert Howell farm, some eight miles northeast of the city, stated that he was driving up into the field to check a well motor about 9 p.m. Monday. The child wanted to accompany him.

Riding in the back of a pickup truck, she was thrown from the vehicle, when it hit a deep rut. A younger brother also thrown to the ground was not injured seriously.

Rushed to Central Plains General Hospital, Plainview, via ambulance, the child was pronounced dead on arrival. Death was ruled accidental by Justic of Peace Glenn Stone. No investigation into the accident was made by law enforcement officials.

Born July 7, 1964 in Lockney, Corina was a student in H.P. Webb Elementary school.

Survivors include her parents; three brothers, Jose Jr., Luis and Juan, all of the home; two grandmothers, Mrs. Polly Guerrero of Hereford and Mrs. Sosa Bueno of the city; great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Guerrero of Earth.

Beauty Shop

water, the wax from her floor was soon removed.

Anita believes beauty training is more difficult now than it was when she began study. There's more detail, she thinks. Women are more concerned with care of their hair now than then, she also believes.

As a student, when she had completed 300 hours study, she was allowed to fix hair of persons who came to the school as customers. Anita recalls "being scared" when she began.

"I don't believe customers were as kind as they are now," she confides, too. And it's the nice ones that keep you going."

Because her customers are "special," Anita frequently juggles a busy appointment schedule to accommodate a need. Unasked, she even volunteered a few years back to arrive at the shop very early one Sunday to remove the "theatre hair-do" of a cast member in "Arsenic and Old Lace" so that woman might attend Sunday School and church services in her normal hair style.

Hair styles undergo a new trend every year but the "fluff look" of back combing has stayed longer than most styles. Today's short, short fashion has brought the blow comb into being.

The phase of straight hair could lead again, she thinks, to a return of the curly styles of past years. Styles have a way of returning in an old way made new.

"Frosting" has lost is popularity only to be replaced by a new fashion craze where only a two or three inch band of short cropped hair about the face is frosted or bleached.

An old adage of "the cobbler's kids having no shoes" must apply also to beauty operators, Anita believes, for her customers come first and it's her own hair that is "last to be fixed."

STEPHANIE SMITH & MRS. LAUIS HAIR

Cooks Of The Week

School vacation and summertime are special for our Cooks of the Week for it's a time when granddaughter and grandparents have time to be together, to have fun and be loved. Stephanie Smith and her grandmother, Mrs. Lauis Hair share recipes with Enterprise cooks this week.

Stephanie, a seventh grader when school starts, is the daughter of Sydney and Gary Smith of Euless. She has a little brother, Jeffrey, four years old.

The Hairs' first grandchild, Stephanie says she "loves" math. She also names reading as one of her favorite pastimes. She likes to play solitaire and enjoys other table games with her grandparents.

Stephanie's favorite sport is swimming. She also likes to bike.

Ruth became a "career woman" this year, working in the Mini Mall shops. Stephanie, during her visit, accompanies her grandmother to work and enjoys helping do small tasks and errands.

Before she began working at the Mall, Ruth spent much of her time sewing. She has always loved to sew and has made most of her own clothes. While her four daughters were growing up, she made almost all their clothes and has also sewed for Stephanie and her two other granddaughters, Catherine Fancher and Mandy Kendall.

The two share Stephanie's recipes for meatballs and cheeseburger pie. Ruth offers her compliment earning recipe for grape ice cream.

MRS. MARLOS MAY

Mr. May, Miss Hodges Exchange Wedding Vows

Miss Rebecca Ann Hodges and Marlos May exchanged wedding vows Saturday, July 27, in a candlelight ceremony held in First Baptist Church. The Rev. John E. Lewis, pastor, directed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Hodges. The groom is the son of Archie May and the late Mrs. May.

Traditional nuptial selections were presented by Miss Jenny Lynn Gunter, who accompanied Mark Hodges, soloist, brother of the bride, as he sang a medley "Love Story, I Love You Truly, and The Twelfth of Never," preceding the ceremony, and at the conclusion, "The Lord's Prayer."

The altar area was centered with an archway entwined with greenery, white gladoli and statice. Flanking white wrought iron candelabra, entwined with garlands of greenery and accented with satin bows of rainbow hues, were fitted with white cathedral tapers. Baskets of white gladoli, carnations and pink statice were also accented by satin bows in delicate colors.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of white organza over bridal taffeta. Designed with an Empire bodice, it featured a scoop neckline and bouffant sleeves. Re-embroidered double French galoon covered the bodice and cuffs, enhanced with seed pearls. Appliques of lace covered the sleeves and skirt.

The slightly a-line skirt fell into a princess front, while the back was softly gathered and swept into a flowing chapel train, edged with lace.

Her elbow length veil of silk illusion was held in place by a matching re-embroidered lace headpiece, also seeded with pearls.

For "something old" the bride wore a wedding band belonging to her paternal grandmother which was 52 years old having been given at the same day and hour of the bride's marriage. "Borrowed" were diamond earrings belonging to her maternal grandmother. New was her bridal attire, and she wore the traditional "blue."

Atop a white Bible, property of her cousin, Mrs. Bobby Turner, the bride carried a cascade arrangement of pink roses, and white carnations, centered with Catalina orchids, showered with white satin tied in love knots.

Serving as her sister's maid of honor was Miss Donna Hodges. Bridesmaids were Misses Melanie Cowart and Cynthia Light, cousins of the bride. Little Miss Kamber Carson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L.H. Carson, was flower girl.

Feminine attendants wore formal length gowns of pink, green and yellow kettle cloth styled with Empire waists, scoop necklines and flared skirts. The bodice of each was covered with heavy white lace and the puffed sleeves repeated the the lace. Wearing matching velvet headpieces, each carried a basket containing daisies, carnations in various hues, and statice underlined with leather fern.

Serving as best man was Kent Gunter. Groomsmen were Teddy Giddens of Sundown and Mark Hodges, who also aided Jack Richards in seating guests. Candlelighters were Mike Hodges, brother of the bride, and Kenneth Sallee of Plainview, cousin of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Hodges selected a street length dress of pink dacron, with matching accessories. She wore a corsage of white Catalina orchids.

Registering guests was Mrs. Bobby Turner, cousin of the bride.

Immediately following the ceremony the young couple was honored with a reception in Fellowship Hall.

An ecru linen cutwork cloth, underlaid with yellow, covered the refreshment table. The bride's bouquet and attendant's baskets of flowers centered the table. Flanking crystal candelabras were fitted with white tapers.

The traditional three-tiered wedding cake was topped by miniature wedding bells used on the bride's parent's wedding cake. Reception punch was served, using crystal and silver appointments. Presiding were Mrs. Ken Rochen and Miss Melita May, sisters of the groom, and Mrs. Bobby Turner, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. David Turner.

Mr. and Mrs. H.E. Akin of Sudan, grandparents of the groom were among out of town guests, as were Mr. and Mrs. Burnice May, Keith May, Brad May, Robin May, Mrs. Lois Harms, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Aikin, Mr. and Mrs. Butch Aikin, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Rochen, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph May, Marilyn and Mike, Mrs. Maggie Meekma, Mrs. LaVena Gideon and Mr. and Mrs. George Sallee.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of Olton High School and both are students in West Texas State University. The bride, seeking a secretarial science degree, will complete her work this summer. May, will be a junior student, working toward a degree in Agri-Business. Following a short wedding trip, they will be at home in Canyon.

Homestead

outside doors and were used as the "front room" and bedroom.

They also recall gathering 'round the old front room stove to keep warm in the winter and that water in the kitchen would be ice.

Their first "electricity" was provided in about 1926 with a 32-volt windcharger. A gasoline motor provided the energy source when the wind failed to blow. Some neighbors, they recall, had carbide lights but, prior to their windcharger electricity, the Struves used kerosene lamps.

Never was a light unnecessarily turned on and never was one left burning when one left a room.

When a bathroom was added to the house, its fixture consisted of a tub. Water was heated on the kitchen stove and carried to the bathroom. Without heat, it was used only when the weather was warm enough for the bather to endure the temperature.

Wintertime brought back the number three galvanized wash tub. "Then when it came Elsie's time to take a bath, we all had to go outside and stay there as long it took no matter how cold it was," the brothers recall.

Elsie, Mrs. Tom Smith, is the Struves' only daughter. A third son, Gene, lives in Hale Center.

Recalling when the first add-on was made, Walter recalls a Mr. Lilyroth came to do the carpentry work and lived with the family until it was completed. His dad helped with the building.

"Every time a room was added, it was crooked," Francine laughs and the paneling that was about the most recent re-modeling proves her statement. Yet, its not-straight lines do not detract from the liveability of the old home.

A bedroom across the front and north was later added. A utility room and bath, the last addition.

There was no foundation under the old house until Frank had a concrete foundation run. An interior partition of the original three rooms was moved over to make a larger living room.

Walter and Frank recall the early days when a post office, named Estacado, was about four miles from the family home. Because another already bore the name Llano Estacado, the name was changed to Copenhagen and later to Norfleet. Frank has an old post card postmarked "Norfleet."

When a rural route was added out of Hale Center, that old post office was closed and the Struves came to Olton for mail.

When they got their first family car, the Struves recall the trips for mail were made by "just angling across the country." That was also the way they made trips into Plainview.

Walter remembers going horseback into Olton for the mail when he was too small to get onto a horse except by knots tied in a rope which enabled him to climb aboard. He remembers, too, the late R.P. Hair, grocer and postmaster, giving him sardines and crackers to ease his hunger during the long chore.

The first graded road, they recall, came east of the town section past the "Dodson place" and then south to the "Eby place." Things were gradually "squared out" when fences were built.

Struve built the family a large concrete swimming pool in 1927 after Walter had come close to drowning in an outing at Canyon. "He was determined his kids were going to learn how to swim," Walter says. The old pool still stands but age has left his mark and it no longer holds water. Minnows now swim in the pool which provided fun for family and neighbors.

The home place was stuccoed in 1945 and just a few years ago the screened-in front porch was removed, leaving an open wide porch.

Only one tree remains from the long past years but an old half-dugout remains in the back yard where the elder Struve's father-in-law stayed much of the time.

The walls of the old house still hold the sounds of a merrymaking of yesteryears. Both men recall the days when their mother would move all the furniture from the front bedroom for gathering friends to dance and enjoy a life in a simple but happy time.

Surely, as Walter believes, Grandpa and Grandma Struve would be proud to know that love still lives within their home.

Mr. and Mrs. L.B. Kennedy had visiting them last week their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Ayers, Mike and Melody of Anderson, Mo.

Says IH Official

Farm Income Will Level Off

U.S. farm income will level off "at a good high level," and International Harvester Co. executive has predicted.

And crop prices should remain strong "at a slightly lower level" that will benefit livestock feeders "who are having a rough time right now," J.P. (Pat) Kaine, president of IH's Agricultural/Industrial Equipment Division, told 400 IH dealers and customers at a meeting at Villa Inn.

"We see a continuing and increasing demand for U.S. meat both here and abroad," Kaine said as he expressed optimism about the future of the U.S. agricultural economy because of population growth, particulatly overseas where millions of new customers will have increasing purchasing power.

This year, he said, International Harvester is producing 15 to 20 percent more finished machines and 50 percent more service parts than last year, but is still faced with "serious shortages" of both.

To help alleviate the situation, Kaine said, his company has recalled IH people from retirement to expedite parts from suppliers, is buying components all over the world at premium prices to keep assembly lines going, is restricting exports to only 1.8 percent of total production, and is increasing capital expenditures for expanded production. He cited a $14 million investment, announced just last week, which would increase Farmall tractor production by one-third.

The U.S. Will export $20 billion worth of agricultural products this year, nearly 20% of the nation's total exports, Kaine said, and "that's going to buy us a lot of petroleum and other products we must import to sustain our high standard of living."

Commenting on foreign tractors being sold in the U.S., Kaine said his company has never sought import restrictions as protection against foreign competition.

"If we can't build a better machine and provide better service to the U.S. farmer than they can, we don't deserve your business," he declared.

Despite the fact that Americans spend a smaller proportion of their income on food than any other people in the world, Kaine pointed out, "there is a furor over increases in food prices."

He said price controls on food would be "ill-advised" and would "discriminate against the producers of vital food and fibers who have not shared fully in the economic advances of other segments of the economy."

The IH executive criticized "self-appointed defenders of the public good who seek to manipulate our business and personal lives," and "articulate headline grabbers" who seek to destroy American business.

Citing the vital importance of agriculture and agri-business, Kaine said "no single industry has made a more significant contribution to the socio-economic well-being of civilization."

The American farmer, he added, provides the food and fiber that are "the basic needs which must be filled if civilization is to advance. There can be no lasting peace in the world if the hungry remain unfed. A world society of haves and have-nots is unacceptable and immoral."

Summer Camp Safety Urged

One of the greatest experiences in any youngster's life is summer camp, and the State Health Department is moving forward with a program to make them safer than ever.

Health authorities want all these summer memories to be pleasant ones, and the new Texas Youth Camp Safety and Health Act is the vehicle for accomplishing this.

Under the Act passed last year by the 63rd Texas Legislature, an Advisory Council on Youth Camp Safety was created. The State Health Commissioner was delegated as chairman, with 11 persons to be named as members for two-year terms, by the Governor.

The advisory Council's responsibility includes advising and consulting on policy matters relating to camp activities, particularly on the matter of promulgating youth camp safety standards.

Safety and sanitation are the prime areas for concentrating regulatory and enforcement measures. Campers must be provided a sanitary place to live, as well as a safe one.

The law set out specific areas for drawing up rules and regulations. Included are consideration of adequate and proper supervision in all activities by qualified personnel wherever camp activities are conducted. Proper safeguards for sanitation encompass such areas as: proper procedures for food preparation, and serving, healthful and sufficient water supply, and proper waste disposal.

Safety encompasses such things as proper water safety procedures for swimming pools, lakes and waterways, and safe boating equipment; proper maintenance and safe use of motor vehicles; safe buildings and physical facilities and proper fire precautions; safe equipment used in all recreational pursuits; and proper regard for the number of persons using a facility.

Change Of Location Made By Selective Service Office

Colonel Melvin N. Glantz, the State Director of Selective Service for Texas, has announced the change in location of the Selective Service Area Office in Plainview from 118 East 7th Street to the Agriculture Building at 6th and Ash Streets in Plainview.

This area office serves Local Boards Nos. 4 and 45, which have been served from the older location for some time. Glantz indicated that the only change made in the Selective Service Operation in Plainview is the change of the location of the office.

There has been an extensive reorganization of the Selective Service System throughout the nation which has resulted in a reduction in force of personnel and in fewer Draft Board offices that remain open.

Glantz also reminds young men of their continuing duty to register with Selective Service at age 18, even though no one is actually being drafted into the Armed Forces of the United States currently.

Federal Law requires each male to register within a 60 day period, beginning 30 days before the young man's 18th birthday.

Any Selective Service Registrant who has any question about his Selective Service File or about his current duties under the Law should contact the Area Office in Plainview at its new location in the Agriculture Building at 6th and Ash Streets.

Registrars outside the Plainview Office where young men may register are: Mrs. Virginia C. Moss, High School, Olton, Texas; and Mrs. Edna G. Price, High School, Olton, Texas.

If a young man cannot locate a registrar, he may write this local board for forms and register by mail.
