Arson suspected in Art Loft fire

By Helena Rodriguez

A Wednesday morning fire that caused extensive damage at the Art Loft business in Muleshoe, located at 1600 American Blvd., may have been the result of arson.

John Chamberlin, age 22, has been arrested on a charge of burglary of a building in connection with the incident. He is currently being detained at the Bailey County jail in lieu of a $20,000 bond. Burglary of a building is a second-degree felony.

Muleshoe Police Chief Julian Dominguez said, "An investigation is still ongoing. We are still doing some checking. At least two or three other felonies may have been committed during the episode and there could be other charges filed against him (Chamberlin)."

The Muleshoe Volunteer Fire Department was called to the fire at about 5:30 a.m. on Wednesday morning. Approximately 15 people fought the fire, which took about 30 minutes to bring under control, according to John McCutchen of the Muleshoe Volunteer Fire Department.

Muleshoe Fire Chief Donald Harrison said the fire incident is being treated as a burglary and arson and an investigation is being conducted. Harrison said he does not know how long the investigation will last, but said that it has been turned over to the District Attorney's office.

According to Inez Bobo, a co-owner of the Art Loft, the fire probably caused more than $100,000 of damage.

"We don't really know exactly how much damage it caused but we are temporarily closed," Bobo said, adding that insurance adjusters have not determined the value of the damage done.

Bobo owns the business, along with Arline Phelps and Dale Hughes. She said that the Art Loft plans to move to a

Wildlife refuges under review

The Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge is among other refuges across the country that the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is currently reviewing to determine public uses on across the United States this spring and summer.

This is being done to determine if they are compatible with the purposes for which the refuges were established. Incompatible public uses will be modified to make them compatible or will be eliminated. Uses may also be modified or eliminated if personnel or funding is not sufficient to continue the use.

The Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge has determined all refuge uses compatible.

All uses except the refuge grazing program have been identified as categorical exclusions having no significant effects on the human environment and fitting within definitions provided by the Department of the Interior.

Uses determined to be categorical exclusions and are within the authority of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to control include wildlife observation, picnicking, and camping.

"Most existing refuge uses will likely continue," accord-

Heritage Program to recognize Texas farm, ranch families

AUSTIN—The deadline for submitting applications for the Texas Department of Agriculture's Family Land Heritage Program is Aug. 15. The ceremony in January 1995 will mark the 21st anniversary of the program, which recognized farms and ranches that have been in continuous production by the same family for at least 100 years.

"It is a great honor to be able to recognize our long-standing farm and ranch families," said Rick Perry, commissioner.

"This program has been a testament to the endurance and tenacity of the Texas agricultural producer."

Applications for the program are available through county judges and historical societies, as well as the department. For a farm or ranch to qualify for the program, it must be a minimum of 10 acres or have sales of at least $250 a year.

More than 2,800 operations have been honored by the department since the program began in 1974.

"These families that not only represent the history of agriculture but the history of Texas as well," Perry said.

Additional information or applications may be obtained by writing Family Land Heritage Program, Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711; or call (512) 463-7653.

Group to represent rural Texan communities in health debate

The Texas Rural Health Care Reform Group announced that it will work to insure the special needs of rural Texans and small communities are not ignored in the upcoming health care debate in Washington, D.C.

The initiative is part of a non-partisan coalition of farmers, ranchers, businesses, labor, health care providers, older residents, consumers and other rural Texans. The group wants to improve health care coverage and benefits for the more than three million residents of rural Texas.

Rural Texans face many dilemmas and thousands have literally gone without adequate health care for no other reason except that they live in areas not served by medical professionals or facilities.

Rural Texans generally are not as healthy as residents of urban areas and are more likely to be affected by chronic health problems and experience injuries. These conditions are worse for low-income and elderly rural residents.

Even with these great needs, rural Texans use fewer health care services than their urban counterparts. Higher rates of chronic or serious illness often make insurance unavailable because of pre-existing conditions. Many who have insurance worry that their coverage will be cancelled if they use health care services. Texas has 205 rural counties and ninety percent of these are classified as Medically Underserved Areas.

The Texas Rural Health Care Reform Group called for legislation to address the following problems plaguing this area of the state and similar areas around the nation:

*Lack of doctors, medical professionals and health care facilities in rural areas;

*Insurance which is too costly and often higher than urban areas because it must be purchased individually or through a small business;

*Poor public transportation and accessibility to health care and emergency facilities;

*Closure of rural hospitals and clinics which increase pressures and costs on urban medical centers, and ing to Joe Mazzoni, Assistant Regional Director for Refuges and Wildlife in the Service's southwest Region, "because refuge managers have considered the compatibility of refuge uses for many years."

Public uses most likely to be modified or eliminated are nonwildlife-oriented uses unrelated to the refuge purpose, Mazzoni said. Wildlife-oriented uses, such as bird watching, environmental education, fishing, hunting, and tail walking are not likely to be modified or eliminated unless they interfere with refuge purposes.

Mazzoni said that refuges in the four-state Southwest Region range in size from the 2,088-acre Santa Ana NWR in South Texas to the 860,000-acre Cabeza Prieta NWR in Arizona. In addition to compatibility, visitor use of those refuges varies depending upon the accessibility, attractiveness of the natural resources, and facilities and programs offered.

Refuges are established by various laws and executive orders. Many were created under the Migratory Bird Conservation Act of 1929, for waterfowl and other migratory birds. More recent laws passed by Congress give direction on how uses on refuges are to be managed.

The National Wildlife Refuge Administration Act of 1966 and other laws direct refuge managers to allow only those uses that are compatible with the primary purposes of the refuge. A compatible use is an "allowed use that does not materially interfere with or detract from the purposes for which the refuge was established."

hensive benefits and protection from spiraling costs.

Also, the group called for a fair and equitable financing plan to meet the health care needs of all Americans, whether they reside in rural or urban areas of the nation. The Texas Rural Health

Several environmental groups took the Fish and Wildlife Service to court in 1992 to force better compliance with Service standards used to determine if public uses are compatible with refuge purposes. Under terms of the lawsuit settlement, all uses on refuges must be reviewed and, if found to be incompatible, modified or eliminated.

Mazzoni said the refuge managers will also document compliance with the National Environmental Policy Act, analyze the funding and personnel requirements for each recreational use, and report what has been done to comply with the terms of the settlement agreement.

Public comments are welcome on the compatibility process or on the process at a particular refuge. Individuals or organizations may call, write or visit a refuge manager to participate in this process. The public may also contact: Gary Burke, Compatibility Coordinator, Refuges and Wildlife, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, P.O. Box 1306, Albuquerque, NM 87103, (505) 766-8038.

Also Frank Bryce, Information Coordinator, Refuges and Wildlife, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, P.O. Box 1306, Albuquerque, NM 87103, (505) 766-8044.

Although the refuge grazing program is used as a wildlife habitat management tool and has also been identified as being compatible with the Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge's establishment goals, the controversial issue of grazing on government lands and not being conducted solely by refuge staff require that refuge personnel prepare additional environmental documents, subject to public review, to be submitted to Washington, D.C.

The refuge's Environmental Assessment evaluation of the grazing program may be reviewed by the public upon request and comments regarding the refuge grazing plan are welcome.

The public may contact: Don Clapp, Refuge Manager, P.O. Box 549, Muleshoe, Texas 79347, (806) 946-3341. Comments should be received by July 22.

Brock, Carpenter are united in marriage

Mrs. Toby Gene Carpenter

Katherine Jeannette Brock became the bride of Toby Gene Carpenter in a double ring, and-lit ceremony, on Saturday, June 18, 1994. Vows were exchanged at First Baptist Church of Muleshoe.

Brandon Carpenter, brother of the groom of Lubbock, resided over the ceremony. Katherine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kip Brock of Lovington, N.M. Toby is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Carpenter of Muleshoe.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white satin. The fitted bodice, embellished with sequins, lace and pearls, featured a Victorian neckline and large silk bow at the bodice back. The sleeves were designed with large satin poufs at the shoulders, then tapered in translucent bridal lace to the wrist. Lace, sequins and pearls adorned the cathedral length train. The veil was gathered in a pouf to the headpiece that featured teardrop pearls.

After being escorted down the aisle by her father, the bride then detached a boutonniere from her own bouquet and pinned it on her grandmother, Dorothy Brock of Muleshoe in memory of her grandfather, Ernest Brock, who passed away earlier this year.

The bride carried pennies minted in the years of her and the groom's births.

Maid of honor was Laurel Attardi, cousin of the bride of Clovis, N.M. Jennifer Patterson of Lovington and Christina King of Amarillo were the bride's attendants.

Flower girl was Christina Orozco of Muleshoe, cousin of the groom.

The groom was dressed in a black tuxedo complete with tails. A white satin vest and silk bow-tie finished his outfit. He wore a silk boutonniere that featured a teal rose. Best man was Blain Ferris of San Angelo. Groomsmen were Burl Hayes of Arlington and Coby Baldwin of Muleshoe.

The ringbearer was Cassidy Snell, cousin of the groom of Littlefield.

Ricky Morris, step-brother of the bride of McKinny and Casey Wright, cousin of the groom of Littlefield, lit the tapers as Alan Finney of Muleshoe performed selections on his trumpet.

Accompanying Alan on the organ was Jeremy Bruns of Muleshoe. Fran Hamilton of Muleshoe performed piano selections during the ceremony. Ushering the guests were Gino Attardi, cousin-in-law of the bride of Clovis, N.M., and Kevin Wright, cousin of the groom of Littlefield.

A reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church. Registering the guests were Miri Anne Morris of Canyon, stepsister of the bride. A wedding cake was prepared by Donna Wright, aunt of the groom of Littlefield. Serving were Joyce Camp of McKinny and Carolyn Wilson, aunt of the bride of Abernathy.

Also serving were Christie Snell of Littlefield and Amanda Carpenter of Muleshoe, cousins of the groom.

Special guests included Dorothy Brock, grandmother of the bride of Muleshoe and Lloyd Carpenter, grandfather of the groom of Muleshoe.

The houseparty included Mark and Shirley Schobel of Lovington and Priscilla Wood of Carlsbad, N.M.

Montgomery, Gleason exchange wedding vows

On Saturday, July 16, 1994, Mendy Michelle Montgomery and Jay Lance Gleason exchanged wedding vows in Lubbock at the Baker Building, a historical landmark built in 1928 for the symphony orchestra. Dale Cain, a retired pastor from Calvary Baptist Church performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Milton and Mary Montgomery of Lubbock. The groom is the son of Dr. Jerry and Margaret Gleason, formerly of Muleshoe, now residing in Levelland.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride chose a gown that was a white imported Italian make fashioned with a soft scalloped vee neckline complimented with a full-length leg-o-mutton sleeve. Imported. Alencon lace embellished the princess bodice and spilled across the sleeve. Pearls and sequins were encrusted on the surface of the lace.

The sleeves were adorned with demi satin bows centered with cascading pearl and Austrian crystal teardrops. The fitted basque waistline allowed the ball gown skirt to float to the floor and sweep into a full cathedral train.

The back of the gown was complimented with a tuxedo peplum of the Italian satin and finished with the Alencon lace. Insets of the lace adorned with pearls and sequins accented the train of the skirt.

A scalloped Alencon lace finished the hemline of the gown and train. For her hair, she wore a double tiara of pearls accented with a bouffant pouff of illusion. A multi-layer of illusion cascaded from the back of the headpiece.

She carried an arm bouquet of white calla lilies and greenery nestled together with an illusion flop bow. Attached to her bouquet was her grandmother's ring displaying birthstones of her siblings and cousins left to her by her deceased grandmother.

Something old was her grandmother's ring. Something new was her dress. Something borrowed and blue was a blue garter belonging to the groom's mother that she and her daughter both wore.

Marianne Montgomery, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Loretta Jones of Lincoln, Neb., Kara Gleason, Janelle Forgeson, Valinda Wright, all of Lubbock, and Jacinda Watson of Houston, sister of the groom.

Mrs. Jay Lance Gleason

Bouquets were designed by the bride's aunt, Vicki Sessums of Levelland.

Nicky Tollin of Midland served as Jay's best man. Groomsmen were DeJimmy Gleason of Levelland, brother of the groom; Jerry Gleason of Houston, brother of the groom; Monty Montgomery of Austin, brother of the bride; Jay Cale of Muleshoe and John David Agee of Lazbuddie.

Ushers were Nathan Stewart of Austin, Gary Sanford, Brian

Berry of Lubbock and Terry Stienbock of Lazbuddie.

Stacy Haverton of Lubbock registered the guests.

A reception was held in the Baker Building following the ceremony. Donny Allison, formerly of the Nelson's and Class Act, provided music for the ceremony.

Following a week-long west Caribbean cruise, the couple will live in Lubbock. The groom is employed by Montgomery AutoPlaza. The bride is employed at Nail Bizz.

FOR EVERY PROBLEM, THERE IS A SOLUTION

Such a predicament! Stuck in mud a foot deep! What to do? Just sit in despair? Wring your hands? Of course not! There is a solution. Obviously, this is a simple predicament. But what about the enormity of some of life's problems? There is an answer. There is help. God is "a very present help in time of trouble," the scriptures say. Try Him — try Jesus. Feel His presence and let Him speak to you in church

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Summer safety tips for active farm and rural families offered

AUSTIN — Farm and rural families have busy lives, but they also have many leisure opportunities. However, accidents sometimes intrude to spoil the fun. Thousands are hurt and hundreds killed in rural recreational mishaps.

"During the hot summer months, drowning is the leading cause of recreation-related deaths," Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry said.

"According to the National Safety Council, swimming or boating are the usual activities contributing to drownings, though many victims fall into the water unintentionally."

Most people should be able to swim or at least float. Non-swimmers should stay out of deep water and walk with care around docks, pools or ponds. Both swimmers and non-swimmers should be encouraged to wear personal floatation devices while in boats.

And whether it's the local swimming pool or small farm pond, swimming areas should be equipped with a "rescue station." This should include a flotation device, such as a ring buoy or inner tube, a rope and a long pole. Include instructions for mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and where to go for help.

Other water safety rules that should be observed include:

*Don't swim alone or let small children go swimming without adult supervision, even in shallow water.

*Keep swimming places clean and free of debris. Fence your pool or pond.

*If someone in the water is in trouble, act quickly. Throw anything that floats. Do not attempt a hand-to-hand rescue unless you are a strong swimmer trained in rescue techniques.

*Make sure your boat is seaworthy.

*Never overload a boat. In small boats, encourage passengers to stay seated and not move around.

Encourage all boat passengers to wear personal floatation devices and have a throwable personal floatation device available for emergency use.

"Medical help usually takes longer to reach the scene of an accident in isolated rural areas, therefore it is a good practice for farmers, their families and their employees to be trained in first-aid and to be prepared if an accident occurs," Perry said.

Noble

On July 1, Lance Corporal Johnny Mac Noble of the United States Marine Corps was promoted to the rank of Corporal (E-4) or also called Non-Commissioned Officer (NCO). Corporal Noble is the son of Danny and Cynthia Noble of Comanche, formerly of Muleshoe.

He is the grandson of Jim and Bettye Noble of Muleshoe and Francis and Juanell Gable of Levelland.

Corporal Noble joined the Marine Corps on Jan. 4, 1993 and was sent to Okinawa, Japan during September of 1993.

He served with the Marine Expeditionary Unit Service Support Group 31 (MSSG31), which is part of the fighting force of Okinawa from September 1993 to May 1994.

Noble is currently with Headquarters and Service Battalion until he arrives back in the states in September 1994. He will then be stationed in Arlington, Va.

Noble had this to say about the Marines, "The rank of Corporal is the biggest and hardest step for a Marine because now the leadership role and responsibility is demanding for the care of all troops of lesser rank. Being a Marine is hard, but it is the most rewarding thing I have ever done. You have to be willing to give your life for America with no second thoughts."

Local women attend conference

Four women from the United Methodist Church of Christ in Muleshoe attended the Mission Education Events of the Northwest Texas Conference of United Methodist Women.

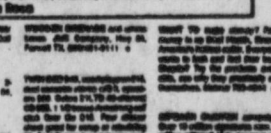

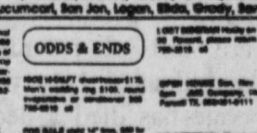

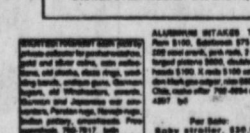

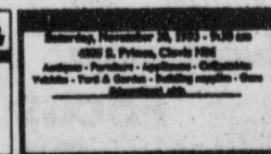

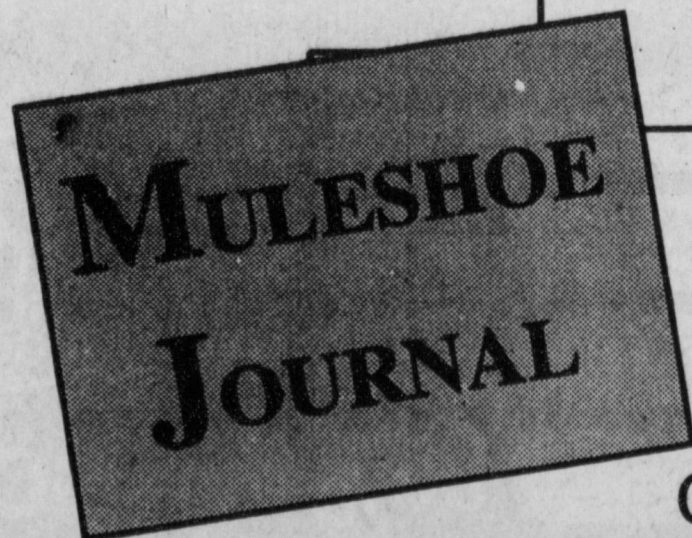

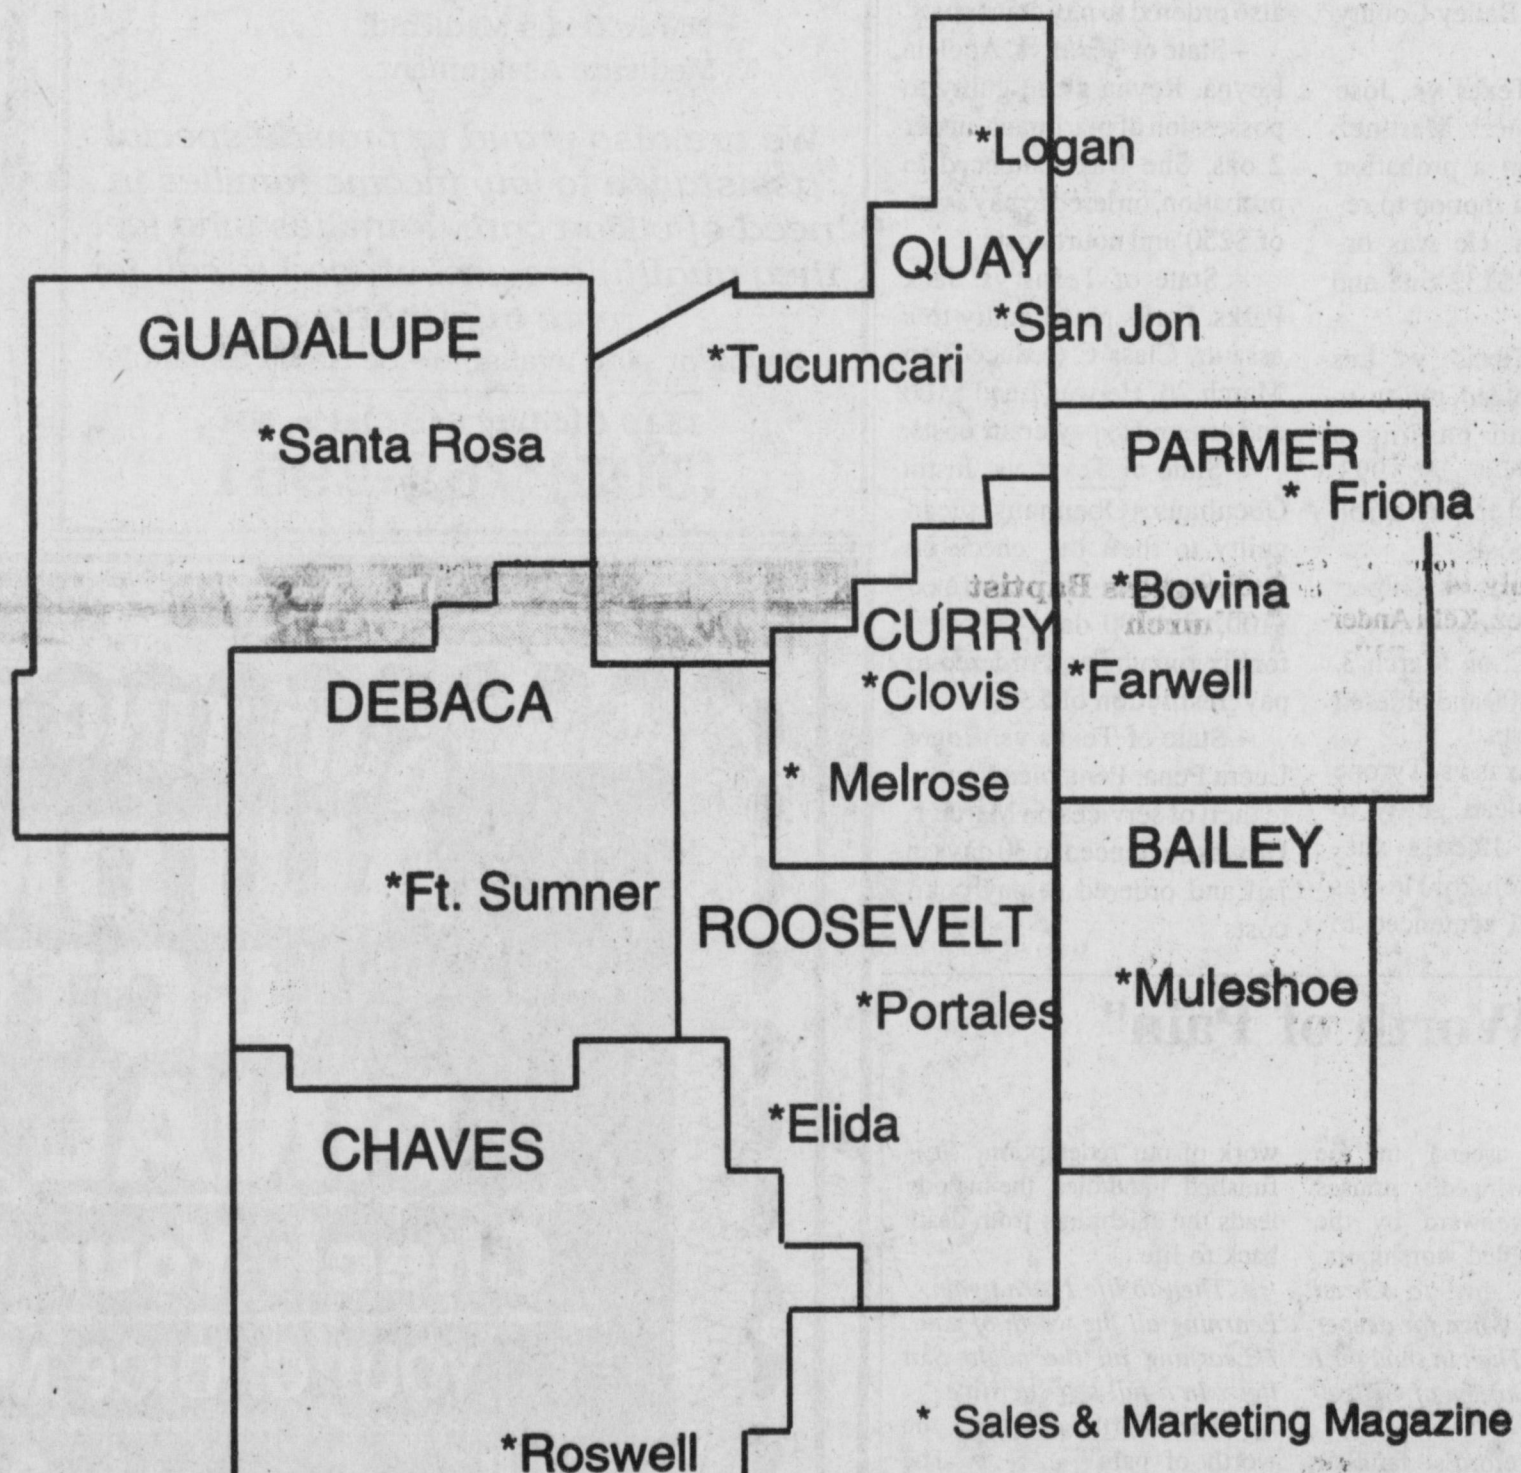

They were Sammy Allison, Mary Lynn Bell, Mary Nell Bleeker and Wilman Smith from the United Methodist. It was held July 8-10 at South Plains College, Levelland.

Women and men who attended the school were involved in worship, singing, sharing, study and fellowship.

Each member spent time in classes, where studies for 1994-95 were introduced. Each topic for study was relevant to the problems and concerns facing Christians in the world today.

Special classes for children were held at Christ United Methodist Church in Levelland. The children experienced stories, games, crafts, and foods from Africa, and were led by Madeline Bodel and Jacque Mauch.

"The Worth of Pain"

The tones ascend in the sanctuary, winged praises launched heavenward by the band of assembled worshippers.

"When my love to Christ grows weak, / When for deeper faith I seek, / Then in thought I go to thee, / Garden of Gethsemane!"

J. R. Wreford's familiar words lead them in praise, work of our redemption, "It is finished," and dies, the melody leads the celebrants from death back to life.

"Then to life I turn again, / Learning all the worth of pain, / Learning all the might that lies / In a full self-sacrifice."

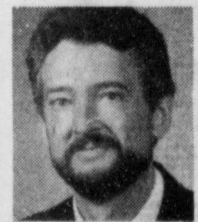

"The worth of pain, the worth of pain" The words echo through the sanctuary and reverberate in the hearts of those present. They are more than empty words to the widow whose life has been so changed by the unwelcome hand of death. Those words are full of meaning to the middle-aged lady whose marriage has died a death just as painful as any physical demise. They mean something to the father who sings them and thinks of the pain of his drug addict son--and his own pain.

None of those singing are strangers to pain. Even the little ones understand skinned knees. Most of the older ones are well-decorated with unseen purple hearts bought by the deeper wounds of life.

On they sing of "the worth of pain," with the assurance of Heaven itself that, for those whose faith is placed in the Christ of Calvary, no pain need be meaningless.

Curtis Shelburne is minister of the 16th & Avenue D Church of Christ in Muleshoe.

Focus On Faith

recalling the scenes of that dark evening in Gethsemane when the salvation of the world hung in the balance awaiting the decision of one weary figure. Through the shades of Gethsemane, past its gnarled olive trees, the thoughts of the worshippers proceed until the eye of faith rests on one man suffering, weeping, praying alone.

The notes of the hymn lead the worshippers up the hill of Calvary to stand at the foot of the cross with Mary and John and the soldiers, a small band of people, a microcosm of humanity, some crying, some gambling, some taunting while the Author of Life tastes death.

But as he pronounces Heaven's verdict concerning the

B.B. King...Live at the Woodlands

One of the most renowned blues musicians of the past 40 years takes to the stage in B.B. King...Live at the Woodlands. The program features several numbers by King, an intimate monologue about his many years in the music business, and a historic closing jam session with Gregg Allman, Buddy Guy, Koko Taylor, Lonnie Brooks, Junior Wells, and Eric Johnson. Singer/songwriter Lyle Lovett hosts.

King will be 70 years old in 1995, but the years have barely touched his vitality. During the taping at an outdoor amphitheater north of Houston, Texas, B.B. King and the band add heat to an already simmering day with "Caldonia," "Playin' with My Friends," "B.B.'s Blues," and more, including his 1970 hit, "The Thrill is Gone."

B.B. King...Live at the Woodlands will be broadcast Friday, July 15th at 9:00 p.m. It repeats Sunday, July 17th at 4:00 p.m. on KENW-TV.

Love Guaranteed with Ed Ford

For the past 20 years, longtime marriage/family counselor Edward E. Ford has been conducting workshops for couples interested in better understanding and improving their marriages. When counseling a couple, he offers them a money-back guarantee — that's how certain he is that he can teach them to improve their marriage. Love Guaranteed features Ford's insights into human interaction, the differing ways men and women view relationships, and relationship building within the context of marriage. Ford offers clear, understandable, and specific steps that couples can take immediately to renew and strengthen their relationship with one another utilizing his "quality time" technique.

Love Guaranteed with Ed Ford airs Saturday, July 16th at 7:00 a.m.

Rough Guide

Nestled high in the majestic Andes Mountains lies Los Nevados, a remote village "off the beaten path" that takes four long hours to reach by donkey from the main cable car depot. Its spectacular view of the rising mountains, the city below, and pristine surroundings make it a paradise for determined tourists. But even the most adventure-seeking tourists visiting Venezuela would never have unearthed this unique facet of the area because most travel programs and tour guide books highlight typical tourist sights and rarely talk about the real local culture. Then there's Rough Guide, a 13-part series that skillfully combines travel and geography with social and political commentary into one fast-paced hour packed with useful information for the world traveler.

Rough Guide airs Sundays, at 11:00 a.m. beginning July 17th.
