Sighted in area

Rare Whooper lost in West Texas

Out in the desolate West Texas countryside where the coyotes roam there may also be a maverick whooping crane.

And the probable presence of that rare bird near here greatly worries U.S. Fish and Wildlife officials, who fear the out-of-place crane might be shot by sandhill crane hunters.

One of the very rare whooping cranes has been spotted at least six times around the Big Spring area and a lot of people are worried about the safety of the bird now that the sandhill crane hunting season is going to open on Sunday.

There are very few whooping cranes left in the world and they are a protected species. Big Spring citizens and hunters are urged to help keep them that way.

Whooping crane has been sighted north of Big Spring, north of Stanton and south of Andrews. Many think it is the same bird and some believe there are actually two of them apparently stopping off in this area during the month of November.

Anyone sighting what they think is a whooping crane should call 267-6536 and somebody there will relay the information to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife officials.

Barbara Ely, a spokesman for the federal agency's Southwest Regional office in Albuquerque, N.M., said Thursday the whooping crane apparently is hanging out with a flock of relatively common sandhill cranes around West Texas lakes.

The hunting season for the West Texas sandhills begins this weekend.

The nearest flocks of the whooping cranes, one of the most endangered bird species in the United States, are wintering more than 450 miles from West Texas.

A flock of 66 cranes is wintered near Port Aransas on the Texas coast, while four "foster" cranes are living with another species of sandhill cranes south of Albuquerque, N.M.

Officials speculate the wandering whooper, which is larger and lighter in color than the sandhill cranes, probably came from one of those flocks — but they can't be sure.

"We're missing three birds from the flock on the Coast and one from the New Mexico flock, so it could be one of those," said Ely. "We really don't know for sure."

"The bird has been sighted with the Texas sandhill cranes around area lakes at least five times," she added. "Two of those sightings we consider very reliable."

It is legal for Texas hunters to kill the relatively common sandhill crane, described as a gray bird, about three and a half to four feet tall with about a five and a half-foot wingspan.

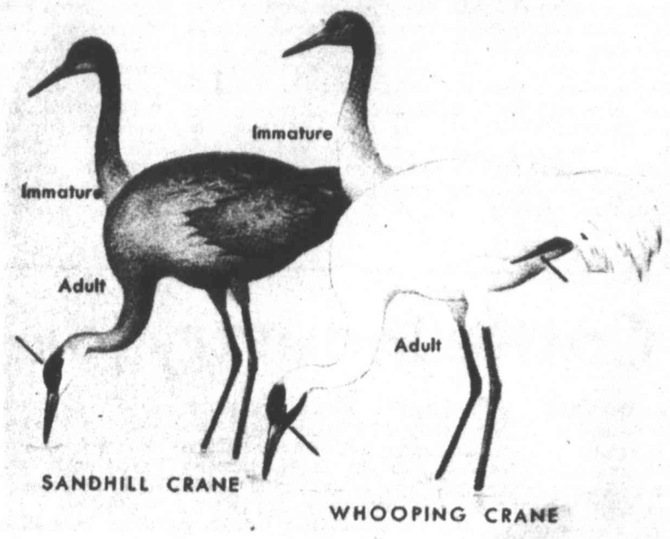

Ely said the whooping crane is white, is about four to four and a half-feet tall and has a seven-foot wingspan. She added that the difference was "very noticeable."

Any unfortunate hunter, however, who fails to discern that difference and shoots the rare bird could face up to two years to prison and a $5,000 fine. The whooping cranes are protected under federal law.

"There is a possibility that more than one whooper is in the area, but we are thinking in terms of one," said Ely. "We want to locate it and see how it is faring before we decide what to do with it."

The whooping cranes wintering near Port Aransas migrate each year from Canada, while the four living with the New Mexico sandhill flock migrate from Idaho.

Five whooping cranes were hatched in New Mexico last year by foster parents — the sandhill cranes — after officials placed the eggs with them in an experiment.

ENDANGERED CRANE — The Sandhill Crane (left) is a West Texas game bird. The Whooping Crane (right) is a West Texas felony, bringing up to two years in prison and a $5,000 fine for killing one. The Whooping Crane, possibly the rarest species in North America may be distinguished by its white color and black tipped primary feathers along with a red face as opposed to the Sandhill Crane's red forehead.

OPEC's 15 per cent oil hike 'disastrous'

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Vice President Nelson Rockefeller says a possible 15 per cent increase in the price of oil reportedly being considered by OPEC countries "would be disastrous" to the world economy.

Such an increase by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, he said Thursday, would "create a new spiral of infltion in the United States."

Rockefeller offered the observation to reporters after an address here to the 22nd annual session of the North Atlantic Assembly.

In his speech, Rockefeller reiterated what the group heard Wednesday from Secretary of State Henry Kissinger — that none of the industrialized nations has developed a sufficient domestic energy policy.

"None of us has explored widely alternative sources (of energy)," he said. "Nor have we undertaken common efforts with the oil-producing nations to develop effective policies to deal with current worldwide economic realities."

The soaring cost of oil in the last three years, Rockefeller said, has had "almost a disastrous economic and financial effect upon both the industrialized and the industrializing nations."

He said uncertainty about the future prices compounds the impact and "brings back the specter of renewed global inflation and further dislocation of needed capital ... for investment purposes and needed employment."

Rockefeller told the representatives of the NATO countries that "we cannot allow energy to become a politically divisive issue among ourselves and to weaken our military and industrial capabilities.

"For all of us, the petroleum issue remains one of the most difficult ones before us."

Draft Reagan move begins

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Two University of Texas law students announced Thursday they were starting a movement in Texas to draft Ronald Reagan as the next chairman of the Republican National Committee.

"We must have an articulate, charismatic party head who will command the attention of the press and who will put (President-elect Jimmy) Carter and the Democrats on the defensive," said Lester Van Pelt III and Howard Hickman.

They said they will send letters to all Texas delegates to the 1976 GOP national convention in Kansas City, urging them to write the Texas members of the national committee to support Reagan for chairman.

Taxpayer gets chance to speak up

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The average Texas taxpayer will have a chance to speak up about proposed changes in the property tax laws, the Property Tax Study Committee said Thursday.

The committee announced a series of public hearings over the proposed legislation, beginning Dec. 13 in Austin. That will be followed by other hearings in Arlington, Midland, San Antonio and Victoria on Dec. 14; in Amarillo, Corpus Christi, El Paso, Longview and Lubbock on Dec. 15, and in Harlingen, Houston and Lufkin on Dec. 16.

The committee planned to complete its tentative draft of the legislation this weekend. A press briefing to explain the draft will be held Dec. 3.

Since February the committee has held eight separate meetings and spent 16 days studying a complete report of the state's property tax statutes.

Administration reorganized

Chamber loses heads

By JAMES WERRELL

Eight months of confused job responsibilities culminated Thursday in the resignation of the manager of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce and the firing of the Chamber Industrial Manager.

Up until 1:30 p.m. Thursday the administrative responsibilities of the chamber had been vested in two men, Tom Roy, industrial manager, and Terry Hanson, chamber manager.

These responsibilities were relegated to one individual, with the help of an administrative assistant and a secretary, at an emergency meeting of the Chamber Board of Directors which began noon yesterday. When the smoke from the meeting had cleared, Hanson had officially resigned, and the board had decided that Tom Roy was not the man for the job.

Both men will leave the chamber effective Dec. 31. A nominating committee to find an executive officer to coordinate both the chamber and industrial efforts was appointed by J.D. Nelson, chamber president.

The committee consists of Roger Brown, incoming president and committee chairman, Clyde McMahon Sr., Bill Pollard, Winston Wrinkle and a representtative to be appointed by the city.

"I was a bit surprised by the board's decision. I really don't know what to say," commented Roy following the hour and a half meeting. "This is the first time I've heard of a man being fired for doing a good job. But I am not bitter; disappointed but not bitter. I realize the board has to do what it thinks is right for the best of the city and I will have to accept that. But they lost a damn good man."

HANSON

ROY

Roy traced the source of Thursday's dilemma to his first day on the job. Recent chamber history shows that previous industrial man Ron Mercer held the top administrative post there. Hanson served as his assistant.

When Mercer resigned late last year, Hanson was designated as Chamber Manager. Roy was taken on shortly thereafter to replace Mercer and was given a position equal in stature to that of Hanson.

"The definition of my job was merely to attract industry to Big Spring. Terry and I were faced with the problem of defining our own jobs. We had dual roles, and that's where the problem began," said Roy.

Incoming chamber president, Brown, echoed Roy's sentiments.

"The cause of the problem was the fault of neither Roy nor Hanson. The structure at the chamber was such that neither individual had defined areas of responsibility," he said. "No one can define the difference between their jobs. There are too many gray areas. The two men were the stepchildren of poor organization."

Hanson did not elaborate on the problems surrounding his resignation, but cited personal reasons for leaving his post.

"I gave my resignation to the executive committee on Tuesday and it was accepted by the board today (Thursday). I have been considering the decision for several months," said Hanson. "The Chamber is what I've done since college and there are other things I want to do."

Hanson approved fully of the restructuring of the managerial post at the chamber.

"I think the restructuring will strengthen the effectiveness of the organization, and will allow better communication between the membership and the board," he said.

Though Roy professes only shock and no bitterness over the situation, he has asked publicly for an accounting of why he was fired.

"The first industry to locate here in four years (Michigan-based Highwood Products Co.) came during my eight months as industrial manager," claimed Roy. "I also think I have helped to establish better relationships with existing industries."

Brown again supported Roy.

"I think the decision to fire Tom Roy will set Big Spring back industrially. We had, in my opinion, a strong industrial effort going. Roy did a fine job and he will be hard to replace," said the next chamber president.

What were the reasons for Roy's firing, and was it an attack on Brown personally?

"Roy fell because he was ambitious and aggressive. Second, he was an absolute optimist," said Brown. "We had worked together very closely and you have to wonder whether this was an attack on me, personally. This organization (the chamber) is not run like a business, but it is a business. The board didn't test this particular matter in a businesslike way, but as a personality conflict," he concluded.

Heiress whisked out of prison

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A smiling Patricia Hearst was whisked out of a federal prison in San Diego early today, but the whereabouts of the convicted bank robber was a tightly guarded secret.

The U.S. marshal's office in Washington confirmed that she was taken into their custody before dawn but refused further comment.

"We have no comment on the movement of prisoners while the movement is in progress," said spokesman Bill Dempsey.

The 22-year-old heiress' lawyers have been trying to get her released on bail pending appeals of her federal conviction. She had been ordered held without bail after her capture in September 1975.

The only other obstacle to Miss Hearst's freedom was removed on Thursday when her father and uncle posted a $500,000 bond for her release pending her trial on state charges of kidnap, assault and robbery. The charges stem from a shooting at an Inglewood, Calif., sporting goods store that occurred while she was a fugitive member of the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army.

Miss Hearst's attorney, Al Johnson, met briefly with U.S. District Court Judge William H. Orrick on Thursday, but refused comment on what was discussed.

Randolph Hearst, the newspaper heiress' father, also refused comment. Reached at his San Francisco apartment, Hearst was asked if he knew where his daughter was. "Even if I did, I couldn't say anything," he said.

Lt. Frank Moe at the San Diego prison said Miss Hearst learned she was leaving just before she went.

"She was smiling and seemed in good spirits," the officer said.

Hearst, president of the San Francisco Examiner, and his twin brother, David, president of the William Randolph Hearst Foundation, pledged their assets to obtain Miss Hearst's release.

Johnson asked Superior Court Judge William Ritzi to reduce the $500,000 bail, but the judge said he would wait to see whether Orrick sets bail.

"If she is released by the San Francisco court, and if bail is substantial in that case, I certainly would consider reduction in bond," he said.

Miss Hearst, now imprisoned at the Metropolitan Corrections Center in San Diego, has spent 14 months behind bars, including time served during her celebrated trial for the 1974 $10,050 robbery of San Francisco's Hibernia Bank.

Orrick told her during sentencing: "Miss Hearst, the violent nature of your conduct can not be condoned. Violence is unacceptable in our society and will not be tolerated."

Miss Hearst, who had been kidnaped by the SLA on Feb. 4, 1974, was defended in an eightweek trial by famed criminal lawyer F. Lee Bailey. She was convicted last March 10 of armed robbery and use of a firearm.

She has since shunned her radical associates and plans to testify against them. Johnson told Orrick she should be released because she cannot be adequately protected in prison from those who might want to stop such testimony.

Action/reaction: Run-down lots

Q. What is the city doing about run-down and vacant property in Big Spring?

A. According to Harry Nagel, City Manager, property owners are encouraged to have their run-down or condemned property demolished in several ways. The city may indicate to the owners that an area firm will tear down the building for materials. They may encourage the owner to demolish the building himself. Some buildings may be eligible for federal funds to pay for the work involved. If the property owner follows none of these suggestions, a complicated legal process to gain permission to demolish can be started.

"It's slow," said Nagel, "But we just want to get the buildings off the property."

Offbeat: 'Because you deserve it'

ST. PAUL (AP) — A judge in St. Paul has received belated thanks from an 8-year-old boy whose adoption he approved in 1969.

"Dear your honor," began the letter to Juvenile Court Judge Archie Gingold from a Maplewood boy. "I thank you for letting my Mom and Dad adopt me."

The letter goes on to tell how happy the boy is, that he has twin sisters, that the family goes camping and skiing and that he is learning to play the guitar.

The boy enclosed a photograph of himself and four pennies "because you deserve it."

Judge Gingold said he wrote back, saying he was pleased to learn of the boy's happiness and that his donation would be used to help less fortunate children.

TV's best: Adult dramas

Two adult dramas dominate the small screen tonight. Both "Revenge For A Rape," on ABC, and "I Want To Keep My Baby," on CBS, air at 8 p.m. "Revenge" tells the story of a man who becomes a lone vigilante searching for his wife's assailants. "Baby" deals with a 15-year-old girl who becomes pregnant and decides to keep the child.

Consumer Price Index spirals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices rose three-tenths of a per cent in October, the government said today. It was the smallest increase in seven months as the nation's inflation rate continued its moderating trend.

The increase in the Consumer Price Index followed a rise of four-tenths of a per cent in September and monthly advances of five-tenths of a per cent during the June-August period.

The Labor Department said October's price increase was the smallest since a two-tenths of a per cent rise last March. Over the past 12 months, retail prices have risen 5.3 per cent, marking the smallest increase since the 12-month period ending in April 1973, when they rose 5.1 per cent.

In a separate report, the department said the purchasing power of the average worker's paycheck rose last month after declining in August and September.

Today's economic reports were brights spots in an otherwise bleak picture of high unemployment and slow economic growth.

Wholesale industrial prices, which are influential in setting the over-all inflation trend, have been rising steadily since May. However, these higher wholesale prices have not yet shown at the retail level.

In October, the consumer price index stood at 173.3, meaning that a market basket of goods and services costing $100 in 1967 now costs $173.30. The index is not adjusted to discount seasonal influences, as are the percentage increases.

Alan Greenspan, President Ford's chief economist, tended to discount the wholesale price trend in a speech Thursday to the Rubber Manufacturers Association. He said "There is just no corroborating evidence" to support the idea of a new outburst of inflation.

Greenspan said the long-term inflation rate is slowing down and, in what appeared to be a warning to President-elect Jimmy Carter, predicted that the downward trend will continue if the government reduces its budget deficit by following "sensible fiscal and monetary policies."

Farm

Cattle industry joy

WASHINGTON (AP) — After years of going through a financial wringer, the cattle industry appears headed for some measure of profit and stability next year, according to the Agriculture Department.

The most important reason for this ray of optimism is that cattle producers, after years of building up their herds, were faced with an inevitable decision to drastically reduce them. They did just that.

Not all cattle producers — including ranchers and farmers with breeding herds and others with feedlot operations — make or lose money in step with each other. There are too many variables in the business for that.

But, generally speaking, the past two or three years have been tough. Simply, when the cattle inventory grew from 112.4 million head in 1970 to a record of 131.8 million on Jan. 1, 1975, there were just too many animals for the beef market to sustain itself.

At USDA's annual outlook conference here this week, various experts in reviewing overall livestock, grain and economic situations appeared to agree that cattle producers are on the verge of a turnaround in fortunes.

None, however, was prepared to say how far the pendulum might swing.

As announced earlier in the week, consumer beef prices after declining substantially in 1976 are headed back up and may set a new annual record in 1977.

Richard J. Crom, head of the meat animal section in the department's Economic Research Service, said that the all-cut average retail price of beef probably will go up 10 cents a pound to $1.49 next year, compared with the estimated 12-month average of $1.39 for 1976.

Beef cost an average of $1.46 a pound in 1975, the highest year on record. But Crom's associates said that next year's price increases probably will be spread out over a longer period than in 1975, when there were wide fluctuations.

This, in itself, suggests a more stable pattern for beef and cattle prices than has existed for some time. As usual, however, Crom and the other experts caution that things can change quickly.

But it is a fact that cattle numbers have been reduced sharply, that beef output has been record high and that sooner or later those factors things have an impact on the supply and prices.

High feed prices in relation to "fed cattle" prices were one of the big problems of recent years. During 1972-73, before the most recent crunch became acute, grain-fed cattle accounted for more than 75 per cent of beef output by packing houses.

As ranchers and farmers sent more old cows, heifers, calves and dairy stock to slaughter in an effort to cut losses, the proportion of grain-fed beef dropped to 52 per cent in 1975. This year, with some pickup in grain feeding, the ratio is about 59 per cent.

Farm markets

NEW YORK (AP) —Cotton futures No. 2 were higher at midday.

Thursday's late demand carried over and caused prices to rise, brokers said.

The average price for strict low middling 1 1-16 inch spot cotton advanced 135 points to 75.43 cents a pound Thursday for the 10 leading markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange.

Midday prices were $1.95 to $2.60 a bale higher than the previous close. Dec 79.60, Mar 80.75, May 80.70.

CB bandits stay busy

CB bandits were active again Thursday.

Mrs. David Poe, P.O. Box 1923, reported the burglary of a CB radio from her car which was parked at the Livestock Auction grounds on North Birdwell sometime between 5 p.m. Wednesday and 8 a.m. Thursday. The CB was valued at $241.44.

Intruders ripped off a CB radio and an eight-track tape player from a car belonging to Sandy Campbell, 1901 Hearn, between 9 a.m. and noon Thursday. The vent window of the auto was pried open while it was parked behind the Radio Shack store. Total loss was estimated at $310.

Another CB was heisted from a car belonging to J.F. Sanders, 1520 Tucson, while it was parked at 506 Gregg. The incident occurred between 1 and 5 p.m. Thursday. Loss was estimated at $175.

A.C. Preston got a real bang out of finding a fuse bomb at 1006 W. 6th. After finding the bomb, Preston notified police who, in turn, notified two munitions specialists from Fort Hood. The military men took the explosive device to a safe place and detonated it.

Tommie Lee Hutchinson, 1100 N. Main, reported the theft of a snub nose .38 pistol while he was at the Ebony Club around 7 p.m. Thursday. Value of the gun was not estimated.

Burglars attempted to break into the home of James E. Pope, 2415 Muir, between 2 and 6 p.m. Thursday. The lock and handle on Pope's back door were broken off, but no entry to the home was gained. Damage was estimated at $5.

Santo Lujan Sr., 1014 Nolan, reported that sometime between Oct. 31 and Monday, thieves lifted $500 in cash from his daughter's room. Officers will investigate.

Burglars stole a leather tool pouch and assorted tools from a Corbell Electric Co. truck while it was parked at IS 20 and FM 700. The incident occurred sometime between 7 a.m. Wednesday and 7 a.m. Thursday. Loss was estimated at $42.

Four mishaps were reported Thursday.

Cars driven by Michael Sieler, 171 A Fairchild, and Larry Knight, 3205 Drexel, collided at Tenth and South Gregg, 1 p.m.

Cars driven by Alison Lea Watts, P.O. Box 2324, and Thomas Camaelio Jr., Fort Carson, Colo., collided on the 100 block of South Gregg, 5:52 p.m.

Cars driven by Terry Ray Ruby, 1307 Colby, and Ronald Travis Myrick, collided at FM 700 and Birdwell, 8:19 p.m.

A car driven by Loren Vay Warren Jr., 207 W. 13th, collided with a gas meter on the 500 block of South State, 4:58 p.m.

'I've never met a mean person'

By MARJ CARPENTER

"I've been on the road in the United States most of the time since 1967 and I've never met a mean person."

This statement was made by Bob Seney, 65, of Renton, Washington, as he came through Big Spring on horseback this morning, leading a packhorse with most of his belongings.

The retired Air Force sergeant said, "I travel like this because it's fun and I meet a lot of wonderful people."

"Trooper, here," and Seney nodded toward his horse he had just dismounted, "holds a record. He has been over 20,000 miles cross country. We've made four trips together."

Seney said, "My horses are about 11 years old, but they sure are good ones," he added.

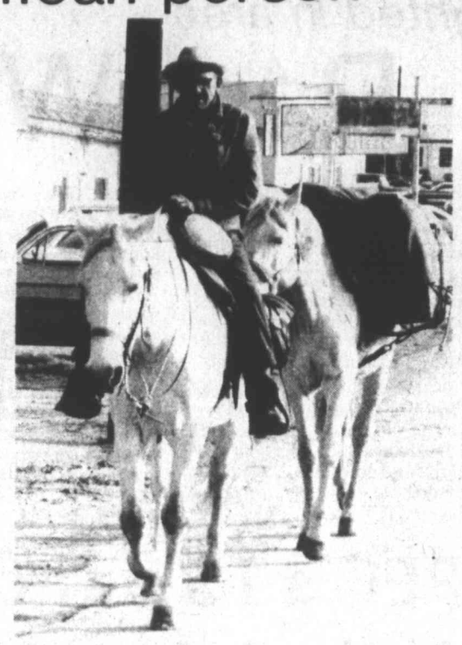

Seney began traveling in 1967 and has been in all 48 continental states. "This is actually my second trip through Big Spring," he said. "I was here in May 1975. I'm on the way to El Paso and on to Arizona."

When asked where he holed up last week during the snow storm, he said, "I stopped and got a motel room in Sweetwater a couple of nights. I usually camp out, but not when it gets that cold."

Wearing faded blue jeans and jacket, his garb was the same as college kids all over the world wear as a uniform today. He pulled an old felt hat down to his ears and his face were sunburned and his lips wind blistered.

A couple of Big Springers came out of a club across W. 3rd and looked over the unusual scene of a cowboy in West Texas.

Seney glanced across the street. "I believe I'll go on over there and have a beer with them," the relaxed traveler stated. "And then I'll be getting on down the road."

LONESOME RIDER — Anybody going to San Antone or Phoenix, Arizona? This retired Air Force sergeant was heading for Phoenix as he jogged through downtown Big Spring this morning with two horses and all his worldly goods.

Sheriff says he's not to blame

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The Cameron County sheriff says he's not to blame for the conditions in his jail discovered when a grand jury made an "unscheduled tour" of the facility.

The grand jury issued a two-page report Thursday saying it found "potential weapons readily accessible and unsafe and unsanitary conditions" in the county jail plus "non-adherence to rules and regulations that common sense would indicate should be followed."

"I know what the grand jury is saying, and I don't blame them," says Sheriff Gus Krause, "But if the commissioner's court doesn't give me the money, there's nothing I can do about it."

The grand jury report also noted jail employes were paid $472 a month.

The sheriff claims it is "ridiculous" for anvone to expect guards making that much money to keep "$4 million worth of bonded prisoners" in a building constructed in 1912 which is "cracking all over the place."

The Cameron County Jail has been the subject of federal and state grand jury probes since a jail clerk and four guards were indicted last month in connection with the escape of three prisoners including a convicted murderer and a man charged with heroin possession being held in lieu of a $500,000 bond.

"This is a problem, and I'm glad the grand jury brought it up so the taxpayers will know the commissioner's court is the one holding us back," claims Krause. "I don't control the salaries, the commissioner's court does."

The report stated the grand jury feels "adequate funds have not been provided to attract and train qualified jail personnel."

"They (commissioners) seem to think you don't need qualified people," Krause continues. "They think all the guy needs to know is how to open and close a lock."

Deaths

DR. W.B. HARDY

Dr. W.B. Hardy

Dr. Wofford B. Hardy Sr., who lived in and contributed to the growth and development of Big Spring for almost half a century, died in a hospital here at 12:25 p.m. Thursday. He had a heart attack two days before, and complications followed.

At the time of his death, he was chief of dental services at Big Spring State Hospital.

Funeral rites will be at 10 a.m. Saturday in the First Methodist United Church, which his father once pastored, and burial will be in the Mount Olive Memorial Park.

Dr. Hardy leaves his widow, the former Ruth Johnson, daughter of a pioneer family; two sons, Wofford B. (Dooner) Hardy Jr., Hudson, Ohio, and James M. (Bobo) Hardy, Erwin, Tenn. Also surviving are three grandchildren, Heather, Pat and Mike Hardy; and a sister, Mrs. Helen Honeycutt, Tahoka.

A native of Matador, Dr. Hardy came here in 1918 when his father was assigned to the First Methodist Church. Graduating in 1922 from Big Spring High School, where he played football, he went to Nashville, Tenn. where he earned his degree from Vanderbilt Dental College in 1926 and returned to Big Spring. He set up his practice on the eve of the historic oil boom, and soon he was caught up in civic as well as professional work. He served a number of years as a Chamber of Commerce director and was also its president. He also was one of the earlier members of the Kiwanis Club, which he served as director and president.

One of his most cherished contributions was his work with the Boy Scouts. In addition to being chairman of the Lone Star District, he also was president of the Buffalo Trail Council during the period when the Scout Ranch in the Davis Mountains was acquired. He had a hand in insisting that it perpetuate its wilderness status as much as possible.

He was one of the ranking members in seniority at First United Methodist Church, which he served for many years as a steward.

A sportsman, he was an avid hunter while health permitted, and he was the inspirer of efforts which led to the creation of the Big Spring Municipal Golf Course.

Professionally, he was a fellow in the Academy of American Dentistry, and had headed the West Texas Dental Association. When he decided nearly a decade ago to retire from private practice, Dr. Preston Harrison, superintendent, persuaded him to come to the Big Spring State Hospital, where a meager dental service was in disarray. During all his years there, the hospital, through his efforts, sponsored an outstanding regional seminar and clinic which drew dentists from all over the state.

Pallbearers will be A.A. Porter, R.H. Weaver, Sherman Smith, Pat Murphy, John Dibrell, Abe E. Bailey, Clyde McMahon Sr., Lloyd Wasson and L.D. Chrane.

Margie Wood

LAMESA — Services for Mrs. Margie Wood, 54, of Lamesa, will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Bryan Street Baptist Church here with Rev. Fred Heath, pastor, officiating, assisted by the Rev. J.P. Jones, retired pastor of the church.

Burial will be in Lamesa Memorial Park under the direction of Branon Funeral Home.

Mrs. Wood died at 2:35 p.m. Wednesday in M.D. Anderson Hospital in Houston following a lengthy illness.

A native of Henderson County, Mrs. Wood had lived in Dawson County since 1938. She was a floor supervisor for Dottie-Dan Clothing Manufacturers. The former Margarine Mixon, she married Henry Wood on Nov. 10, 1937, in Kaufman County. She was a member of the Bryan Street Baptist Church.

Survivors include her husband; three sons, Horace Wood of Menard, Dean Wood of El Paso and Jimmy Wood of Lamesa; three sisters, Mrs. Lois Dyess of Mabank, Mrs. Lily Mae Mayo and Mrs. Reaba Ann Hunt, both of Dallas; six brothers, C.J. Mixon Jr. and George Earl Mixon, both of Mabank, X.L. Mixon, I.V. Mixon, Olen Gene Mixon and A.J. Mixon, all of Dallas; and 10 grandchildren.

C.A. Mendenhall

Claude A. Mendenhall, 75, died at 11 a.m. Thursday in Llano. He was a former Big Spring resident. Services will be 2 p.m. Saturday in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel.

Burial will be in Mount Olive Memorial Park.

He was born August 26, 1901 in Montague County.

Survivors include his wife, three sons, a daughter, two step-children, and a number of grandchildren.

Zelna Brintle

COLORADO CITY — Mrs. H. V. (Zelna L.) Brintle, 63, of Concord, Calif., died Wednesday in California. Service arrangements are being completed at Kiker-Seale Funeral Home.

Born Oct. 4, 1913, she married H. V. Brintle Dec. 24, 1931. She was a former member of the 22nd and Austin Street Church of Christ and had lived in California for more than 20 years.

Survivors include her husband; a daughter, Mrs. J. N. Burleson of Snyder; a sister, Kathleen Palmer of Abilene; and three brothers, Hubert Palmer of Borger, Milburn Palmer of Colorado City and Sam K. Palmer Jr. of Los Angeles, Calif.

The Playhouse elects Curlee

COLORADO CITY — The Playhouse elected Tandy Curlee as their new president when they held an election Tuesday night in the Opera House.

Vice president in charge of production is Mrs. Midge Ledbetter with Mrs. Tricia Taylor named secretary and Mrs. Sue Womack, treasurer.

Larry DeBusk, this year's vice president, was elected to a three-year term as director.

Joe Earnest serves as a permanent legal advisor on the board. Porter Richardson, immediate past president, will be a one-year director. Holdover directors are Mrs. Jolyn Mikow and Bobbie Steakley.

Next year's production season has been tentatively set up for four plays, possibly two of them musicals.

The annual awards dinner will be held early in January, at which time, new officers will be installed.

Sniper won't stand trial

ABILENE — John Jennings (Jack) Allen, 55, accused of the Aug. 29 sniper slaying of an Abilene High School student, Neville Ray King, 16, has been declared incompetant to stand trial.

Jurors announced their decision after hearing evidence from four physicians.

The court is expected to take action which would commit Allen to Rusk State Hospital for the Criminally Insane for the remainder of his life.

Under present state law, two more jury trials must be held before Allen can be institutionalized indefinitely. J. Neil Daniel, 104th district judge, ordered that Allen continue to be held in the Taylor County jail.

Yates fails to post bail

Joseph Yates, 404 E. 6th, was transferred Thursday from the Big Spring Police Department to the Howard County Jail where he was placed under $7,500 bond as set by Judge Coffee for auto theft.

Yates was charged in J.P. Gus Ochotorena's office Nov. 12 with the theft. Yates was also served with a warrant charging him with forgery. The forgery charges were filed in J.P. Bob West's office November 10. Bond for the second charge has not yet been set.

According to the forgery charge, Yates passed a $225 check November 10 at the Sav-Mor Food Store.

Bill Miller is also sought under the forgery warrant. Miller is reported to be in Pensacola, Florida.

Remodeling bids submitted

COLORADO CITY — Two bids for remodeling and renovating Colorado City Housing Authority houses were submitted at a recent meeting. They include Stone Construction Co., Colorado City, $111,425 and Hensley Corporation of Lubbock, $137,711.

Minutes of the meeting were sent to the Dallas office of the Dept. of Housing and Urban Development and must be approved before a contract is awarded, said Housing Authority director, Dennis Walding.

Specifications call for a completion period of 235 calendar days and work will not begin until two months after the contract is awarded.

BSSH meets standards

The Big Spring State Hospital has received notice from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals that the facility has been accredited for a period of two years. The accreditation is the result of an on-site survey last March 22-23 by two field representatives of the Joint Commission's Accreditation Council for Psychiatric Facilities.

The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH), establishes standards of quality care for hospitals, then conducts the on-site surveys to determine the facility's compliance with these standards. This is a voluntary program and is conducted at the request of the hospital.

The two-year accrediation means that Big Spring State Hospital meets these nationally recognized standards of care for quality of treatment. Two years is the maximum period for which a facility can be accredited.

Signing of tax rolls on agenda

Howard County Commissioners' Court will meet Monday at 9 a.m. to sign the tax rolls and consider with Tax Assessor-Collector Zirah Bednar the problems of the county's delinquent tax attorneys.

Other items discussed will include:

A conference on the Coahoma Fire Department with Mayor Joe Swinney; a contract discussion with D.L. Dorland Oil Producers; a discussion with the representative of Blue Cross-Blue Shield; a conference with J.W. Starns of West Texas Title Co. concerning micro-film; and a conference with Thelma Moultrie of IBM concerning replacement of the District Clerk's copying machine.

Also handled by the court will be a conference with Neal Barnaby, County Engineer and a review of bills and correspondence.

One point cleared up in meeting

The meeting between Sen. John Tower and Secretary of the Air Force Thomas Reed Tuesday on Webb Air Force Base cleared one significant question.

That is, which administration will make the decision on base closures?

SENATOR JOHN TOWER

SINCE THE presidential election, the people of Big Spring had been wondering if the Ford Administration would go ahead and make a final decision on an action it had started, or would the final decision fall to the incoming Carter Administration.

Sec. Reed said Tuesday that he personally would make the decision before he leaves office, although he indicated that the decision might not be made public until after Carter's Administration takes office Jan. 20.

The people of Big Spring would like to have a decision made on this matter and end the delays, but they also want a fair hearing for Webb on its merits.

Can this be done on a hurry-up basis?

Truthfully, I don't know. That Sec. Reed told Sen. Tower that a new study had been ordered to determine what it costs to train a pilot at each base is an encouraging sign for Webb.

Given the information which we already have, I cannot believe that an honest appraisal of pilot costs would rank Webb at the higest or next to the highest costs. It is, in fact, more likely to be the lowest, or very close to the lowest.

If this is a significant factor, and it certainly should be, Webb must still have a good chance to continue as a pilot training base.

The Air Force has said that the timetable would be a final environmental impact statement to the secretary by Feb. 8 and a decision by the secretary by the first of March.

Following the election, this wording was amended to say that this was the latest time frame in which this might occur, hinting that it could be earlier.

To me this indicated that the Air Force was anxious to close the proposed bases before the uncertainty of a new administration takes office.

I ONLY hope that if a speeded up timetable is adopted the Air Force will be able to do an adequate job of studying what information and questions were raised in the public hearings. I am somewhat uncertain about this given the repeated and unexplained delays on the draft environmental impact process which finally produced a far-from-perfect document.

And this was given the edge that the Air Force had of actually starting the impact process three months or more before the public announcement. The Air Force surreptitiously conducted the Battelle-Columbus Laboratory "study" of the community in December under false pretenses of its being "routine."

This "study," which actually was little more than a fly over by one Battelle representative, became the heart of the draft environmental impact process. The Battelle representative himself admitted to one Big Spring citizen that the study was inadequate.

Even with a December start, the draft statement wasn't ready to be made public until September, so how is the Air Force going to do a good job on the final study in what will amount to only a month of working time?

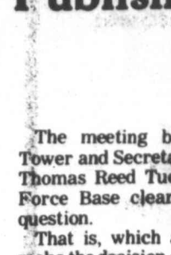

The meeting on Webb demonstrated again Sen. Tower's commitment to this community. He appears to be watching the situation closely and using his considerable influence as a ranking member of the Senate Armed Services Committee to make sure Webb is given a fair hearing.

THE PEOPLE of Big Spring appreciate his efforts. That was shown most vividly by the two spontaneous standing ovations which he was given during his appearance here at the Webb public hearing. The Big Spring High School Auditorium was packed to hear him and Cong. Omar Burleson testify for Webb.

All Big Spring can ask is that political considerations, even those of Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi, be put aside and Webb be considered on its merits.

If that can truly be made to happen, I am confident the Air Force will find a continued mission for Webb.

Rhodesian update

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Meanwhile, in Rhodesia . . .

Let us take a fix on how things are going. At the prodding of Henry Kissinger, Ian Smith agreed to program the ascendancy of the blacks in Rhodesia to the point, approximately two years away, where they would achieve effective domination. We then began hearing about Councils of State and of Ministers, with a white chairman for one, a black majority for the other, and one's attention wandered, even as it did in the old days when we were being shepherded about the beautiful schematic circuitry that would emerge in South Vietnam via a Government of National Reconciliation.

Then, when the gang all met in Geneva, it became plain that all these niceties didn't much matter. Each of the four black representatives wished to sound militant enough to please his constituency. Mr. Robert Mugabe's being those who would really prefer "liberation" through terrorist activity. These are a minority of the black population, to be sure; but their psychic need for bloody satisfaction is not an unrecognized phenomenon.

YEARS AGO, the militant civil rights organizer, Saul Alinsky, commented that precisely the reason for the backwardness of Liberia is that it was handed its freedom (by the United States), and never had to fight for it. That is the justification for wresting power from the white population rather than acceding to power. Violence loves justification, and, after all, the blacks have a long way to go before they catch up with white men in this tribal art. There are still whites who justify the First World War, though they are dying off fast.

At Geneva, it became plain that all the weight of what is left of Great Britain needs to be involved in order to achieve stability, however temporary. But Great Britain does not wish to intervene beyond acting in a kind of clerical capacity — and for this Sir Ivor Irichard is admirably suited, having practiced conciliation at the United Nations, criticizing Patrick Moynihan for speaking a few truths about the pretensions of the Third World. What this led to was impasse, and now Ian Smith has gone home, though the conference continues, and it is expected that in due course all the representatives will return to the bargaining table.

Now the talk continues of "majority rule." What is meant by that is black rule. The notion that blacks speak with a single voice may or may not be valid. No black can help but resent statutory discrimination. Thus one can speak of blacks in Rhodesia desiring the end of racial discrimination with some reason. What one cannot do with equal confidence is suppose that that which probably would replace the existing government is necessarily more pleasing than that government.

The tragedy is that the situation in Rhodesia encourages very little time for ratiocination. The blacks represented at Geneva see, pure and plain, a state liberated from white rule. The whites see a state liberated not only from white rule, but from majority rule of any sort: indeed, they foresee a state deprived of minority rights.

"I sup'pose you're wonderin' how we finally made a profit?"

"Simple! We jus' used good ol' American no-how!"

Even junk food has its virtues

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I want to know if junk food has any value at all. I eat a well-balanced diet and I do not snack to any great extent. In fact, my weight is ideal. I do enjoy an occasional potato chip, corn chip, peanut or pizza. I have heard all of these condemned, but aren't they sources of protein? — Wondering.

Of course they are. Not only protein, but carbohydrates and fats, maybe a vitamin or two.

Food is food, and I believe the term "junk food" has been overused to some extent. The bun surrounding a hamburger in a fast-food spot is, for all I know, as nutritious as one mom serves at home. So is the burger. Corn contains protein, no matter what form it takes. Peanuts are a healthful food. Pizzas, depending on what you order on top, are good sources of all sorts of nutrients.

Some of the quickly-prepared foods may be overcooked and may lose some of their vitamin content. Or they may be a bit soft and lack sufficient bulk as a steady diet. But I believe these factors are minimal.

The danger is that youngsters tend to go off on a single-track nutrition binge, emphasizing the carbohydrate end of the spectrum, washing it all down with oceans of sugar-rich soft drinks. I would call that a junk-food diet. Fortunately young people are active enough to burn off all that quick energy and be none the worse for it.

Whatever these youngsters are eating they must be doing something right. They look to me like the healthiest generation ever to come down the pike, "junk food" notwithstanding.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What about these silicone injections for smoothing wrinkles in the face? I know they are condemned for breast enlargements. Do you advise it? — Mrs. R.G.

No, because of certain risks which, according to a recent report, seem to outweigh the cosmetic benefits.

Dr. Charles A. Vinnik, of Las Vegas, writing in the Journal of the American Medical Association, cites serious medical problems after silicone injections for cosmetic purposes in connection with the face, hands, abdomen and penis. However, he adds, there are individuals with serious disfiguring facial conditions (from accident or disease) in whom the benefits of such treatment may outweigh the risks.

Problems, such as the movement of the liquid to other parts of the body, can occur. The silicone injection procedure for breast enlargement has been discontinued. Note that I am referring only to the injections. Other procedures, in which the material is encased in envelopes and implanted, are acceptable.

Some surgeons have been authorized to use the injection methods for various reasons, but under strict controls and chiefly for study purposes. Minor cosmetic defects (which, in my opinion includes facial wrinkles) are not normally considered justification for use.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a resident here at this wonderful nursing home, which I love very much. My biggest problem is that I'm always constipated. I have pain when I move my bowels. I take quite a few laxatives, but am still constipated and they make me feel weak. I do not have any teeth. Can that be a cause? — Mrs. F.

You don't tell what form your constipation takes, or what you mean by constipation. I suspect your stool is not hard. You don't have dentures (why not?) which indicates that your diet must be on the soft side. Lack of bulk can produce bowel problems leading to constipation.

Tell the doctor what your eating habits are and the nature of your stool. From that he will be able to tell whether a bulk producer or a stool softener is in order. From what you say, I doubt the laxatives are going to be helpful. Have you tried prune juice? It is quite effective.

Look into getting yourself some dentures.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would identical twins have the same fingerprints and footprints? My friends disagree on this. — C.L.

My information is that, while the prints would be very close, they would not be identical. These prints begin developing at about the fourth month of fetal life, and detectable variations can and do occur, even with identical twins.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am the daughter of a minister and I hate it. People expect me to be perfect, and besides, my father won't let me lead my own life the way I want to. I have to bear it, but I sure can't wait to get away from home. Am I Wrong? — S.T.M.

DEAR S.T.M.: I sense a lot of bitterness in your letter, which may cause you harm unless you learn to deal with it and get rid of it. The Bible says, "Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamour, and evil speaking, be put away from you, with all malice: And be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you" (Ephesians 4:31, 32).

I know that people sometimes have unrealistic views of what you should be like. However, you should not behave rebelliously, as you are in danger of doing. You may not understand right now all the reasons for the discipline your family places upon you, but this is actually a sign that they love you. They know that lack of discipline results in great unhappiness because we can't live any way we choose and be completely independent.

Although you are the child of a minister, perhaps you have never really personally come to grips with God's will for your life. I have noted the number of times you use "I" or "my" in your letter. You apparently want to run your own life without any restraints. But the Bible tells us that this is sin, and we will never be truly happy as long as we selfishly want our own way instead of God's.

Ask God to forgive you and to take away your bitterness and rebellion. Then ask Him to help you talk honestly with your father about your feelings, and to give you a real love for your parents.

Talk about tough

Around the rim

Bob Burton

Since coming to Texas, I have been well and duly informed about this state's tremendous collegiate system. Nevertheless, I feel a blow should be struck for the quality education you can receive in the north and the rigorous demands made on students there.

Accordingly, I wrote my brother for the entrance exam he took to get into his eastern college. Here is his reply:

INSTRUCTIONS: Read each question carefully. Answer all questions. Time limit: 4 hours. Begin immediately.

HISTORY: Describe the history of the papacy from its origin to the present day, concentrating especially, but not exclusively, on its social, political, economic, religious, and philosophical impact on Europe, Asia, America, and Africa. Be brief, concise, and specific.

MEDICINE: You have been provided with a razor blade, a piece of gauze, and a bottle of Scotch. Remove your appendix. Do not suture until your work has been inspected. You have fifteen minutes.

PUBLIC SPEAKING: 2500 riot-crazed aborigines are storming the classroom. Calm them. You may use any ancient language except Latin or Greek.

BIOLOGY: Create Life, Estimate the differences in subsequent human culture if this form of life had developed 500 million years earlier, with special attention to its probably effect on the English parliamentary system. Prove your thesis.

MUSIC: Write a piano concerto. Orchestrate and perform it with flute and drum. You will find a piano under your seat.

PSYCHOLOGY: Based on your knowledge of their works, evaluate the emotional stability, degree of adjustment, and repressed frustrations of each of the following: Alexander of Aphrodisias, Rameses II, Gregory of Nicia, Hammurabi. Support your evaluation with quotations from each man's work, making appropriate references. It is not necessary to translate.

SOCIOLOGY: Estimate the sociological problems which might accompany the end of the world. Construct an experiment to test your theory.

ENGINEERING: The disassembled parts of a high-powered rifle have been placed on your desk. You will also find an instruction manual, printed in Swahili. In 10 minutes a hungry Bengal tiger will be admitted to the room. Take whatever action you feel appropriate. Be prepared to justify your decision.

ECONOMICS: Develop a realistic plan for refinancing the national debt. Trace the possible effects of your plan in the following areas: Cubism, the Donatist controversy, the wave theory of light. Outline a method for preventing these effects. Criticize this method from all possible points of view. Point out the deficiencies in your point of view, as demonstrated in your answer to the last question.

POLITICAL SCIENCE: There is a red telephone on the desk beside you. Start World War III. Report at length on its socio-political effects if any.

EPISTEMOLOGY: Take a position for or against truth. Prove the validity of your stand.

PHYSICS: Explain the nature of matter. Include in your answer an evaluation of the impact of the development of mathematics on science.

PHILOSOPHY: Sketch the development of human thought, estimate its significance. Compare with the development of any other kind of thought.

GENERAL KNOWLEDGE: Describe in detail. Be objective and specific.

GOPs in distress

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — In the privacy of the Republican policy councils, the party pros are more distressed over their setback on Capitol Hill than the loss of the White House.

They see the future of the Republican Party threatened by the shattering congressional defeat. They had expected to gain 15 to 50 House seats. Yet of the 252 Democratic incumbents, only seven lost their seats. Two of the unlucky seven were Rep. Allan Howe, D.-Utah, who was caught up in a sex scandal, and Rep. Henry Helstoski, D.-N.J., who was under indictment.

THE DEMOCRATS OVERCAME their losses by taking some Republican seats, with an apparent net gain of two seats. (At this writing, the votes are still being recounted in two races).

In making their private post-mortems, the GOP strategists have acknowledged that the prevailing political winds should have favored them. The Democrats had picked up a number of marginal seats two years ago in the post-Watergate landslide. In the past, the losing party has usually bounced back at the next election and has recaptured the close seats. But of the 74 freshmen Democrats, only two lost the seats they had won in 1974.

The Republican pros had also calculated that the sex-in-Congress scandal would hurt the Democrats. From President Ford on down, the GOP had gone on the offensive against the Democratic Congress. But Republican superstars, Gerald Ford and Ronald Reagan, had campaigned generously for House members. Then, at the last moment, $308,470 was pumped into the 33 tightest races. Still, the Republicans couldn't hold their own.

The results have stirred talk in GOP circles about reassessing the future and restructuring the party. This could lead to some major changes before the Republicans go to the polls again in 1978.

At the same time, a post-election analysis by the Democratic Study Group shows that some new political tactics paid off. These tactics were developed at closed-door meetings that began back in November 1974.

The party tacticians pointed out that the Republicans would regain several marginal seats unless the Democrats began at once to strengthen their hold on them. Thus, the 1974 election had hardly faded from the headlines before the Democratic Study Group and the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, working together, launched a "Get Elected" campaign.

THE CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE immediately began deciding where funds in $1,000 to $5,000 sums would do the most good. The following January, February and March, campaign workshops were held. The Democratic congressmen and their aides were instructed on producing newsletters, media coverage and other self promotion.

The DSG's Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D.-Tex., and executive director John Conlon emphasized that the congressmen not only must work hard, but must appear to do so. This meant they must show up for as many of the 1,300 votes per session as possible. They were also shown that every vote is a potential pitfall or promotion point.

One of the most successful tactics, according to the DSG analysis, was encouraging the congressmen to go out in vans and converted mobile homes like old-time circuit riders to meet with votes in their home neighborhoods. At these sessions, the congressmen listened to the ideas and complaints of their constituents.

The congressmen were also encouraged to organize weekend "town meetings" in out-of-the-way corners of their districts. "Take government to the people," Conlon urged. One of the unexpected victors on November 2, Rep. Floyd Fithian, D.-Ind., held 200 of these meetings.

The Democratic congressmen also used a new polling system, which permitted them to cut costs and take more polls of voting trends.

It appears from the confidential analysis that the House Democrats helped to fashion their own 1976 victories.

WATCH ON WASTE — The Navy recently flew 41 Texas newsmen, public officials and friends of Deputy Defense Secretary William Clements to Groton, Conn., to watch Mrs. Clements write her name on the keel of the nuclear submarine Dallas, now under construction.

Navy officials explained that the signature ceremony is traditional. The special flight cost the taxpayers slightly more than $11,000.

WE HAVE JUST learned, meanwhile, that Rear Adm. Lee Baggett made sure his new car was waiting for him upon his return to the United States from the Mediterranean last year.

He ordered a Navy ship to pick up his new Fiat Spider sports car and the automobile of a staff aide in Naples. The ship hauled both cars, free of charge, to the United States. The admiral and his aide saved about $400 apiece.

A Navy spokesman told us the incident is now under investigation.

DIATHERMY SCANDAL — The Food and Drug Administration has failed to regulate the safety or effectiveness of thousands of diathermy devices, which are used to treat back problems, arthritis, fractures and other medical problems. Instead, the FDA has squandered its resources chasing down one single diathermy manufacturer.

These findings are contained in a confidential report of the General accounting Office, prepared at the request of Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D.-Conn.

Carter, Mahon mull tax cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congessional leaders who met with President-elect Jimmy Carter did not team up to urge an economy-boosting tax cut and Carter gave no indication of a decision, one of the participants says.

Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., said the problem of stimulating business and reducing unemployment was extensively discussed during the three-hour session Wednesday in Lovejoy, Ga., where Carter met with Democratic leaders.

"I did not detect a unanimity of the leadership concerning a tax cut," Mahon said.

Carter has said that if the economy does not begin improving by January, there is a "strong possibility" that he would ask for a tax cut to stimulate it.

Mahon, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee and a fiscal conservative, said he and others told Carter that a major consideration should be restoring business confidence and that Carter appointments would be important in this regard.

"The business community and people generally are uneasy, wondering, apprehensive," Mahon said in an interview Thursday. "If he could get some good strong people for secretary of the Treasury, director of management and budget and secretary of commerce, it would have a stabilizing influence....

Carter has been receiving conflicting advice as to whether he should support a tax cut, a boost in government spending, or neither.

"He didn't talk like a free-wheeling big spender," Mahon said of the Carter meeting. "He talked of a balanced budget over the long range and his desire to eliminate waste, and generally I thought it was a good down-to-earth discussion."

Mahon said Carter gave the congressional visitors his private telephone number and promised that calls at any time would be put through or promptly returned.

"The country is weary of the controversy between the president and Congress," he said. "For the White House and Congress to be of the same party imposes an awesome responsibility on the Democratic leadership. The buck stops with the Democrats."

Lamesa trustees okay policy amendments

LAMESA — Lamesa school trustees called for the bids on two vans, appointed a textbook committee, and approved policy amendments and rule updates on first readings during their regular meeting this week.

Leaves of absence were approved for Gloria Garcia, a first grade teacher and Cheryl Robertson, a seventh grade teacher while extending contracts to Dorothy Singletary for first grade and Virginia Callins, a teacher returning from a leave of absence.

Trustees also okayed several policy updates presented by Supt. Neal Chastain. This included listing the salaries in the policy as aligned with state salaries. They had been listed lower.

Assistant Supt. Fred Weaver reported that three portable buildings have been set up at North Elementary, South Elementary an V.Z. Rogers Schools.

Supt. Chastain also discussed the governor's recently proposed school financing plan. He reported that the governor's committee on resources had set the Lamesa School District values at $217.3 million as compared with the current self-reporting figure of $199 million.

The board decided to call for bids on two 12-15 passenger vans. They also approved the textbook committee. A discussion was held on the Vocational Adjustment Program.

Texan denies bank robbery

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP) — The second man charged in the $44,127 robbery of the State National Bank of Weleetka last July has pleaded innocent to a bank robbery charge.

Melvin Thomas Cook, 32, Houston, Tex., entered the plea Thursday before U. S. District Court Judge H. Dale Cook here then was returned to federal jail in lieu of $ $100,000 bond.

The other man, William Benjamin Bryan, 47, Atlanta, Ga., was convicted of the robbdry earlier this month.

The money still is missing.

Teen killed in Lamesa

LAMESA — Gabriel Ramos, 18, was killed instantly in a one-vehicle accident at North 1st and Lynn Streets at noon Thursday in Lamesa.

The driver apparently panicked when another vehicle pulled in front of him in the intersection.

He lost control of his pickup, which went into a spin and dumped the young driver out. He was pinned between the truck and the curb as the vehicle rolled over completely one time. This was according to city police reports.

Police are still investigating the accident. A cousin of the victim was a witness. He stopped and attempted to render aid, and called for an ambulance.

Revenues up for CRMWD

Revenues of the Colorado River District ran higher in October than for the same month a year ago, although water deliveries were substantially less. The reason was a rate adjustment earlier in the year to meet higher debt service and power costs.

Total revenues of $541,825 in October were $48,000 more than for October 1975. For the first 10 months of the year income was pegged at $5,439,369, according to the monthly revenue statement of the district, or $870,940 more than for the same period the previous year.

Water billings amounted to 1,492,787,000 gallons (actually this was for September deliveries), or 168,866,000 gallons less than for October 1975. For the initial 10 months of 1976, water billings have been for 16,303,747,000 gallons, which is 735,763,000,000 gallons more than for the same period the year before.

Water reserves were up about 1,000 acre feet over a year ago, the Oct. 31 readings showed. Lake J. B. Thomas, with 46,300 acre feet, was up 7,110 acre feet; Lake Spence with 169,590 acre feet, was down 6,230 acre feet.

Rain expected to zip northward

By The Associated Press

Rain was expected to spread northward from South Texas today, covering most of the state by nightfall except in extreme North and West Texas.

Rain fell during the night in South Texas, but amounts generally were less than .25 of an inch. Skies over the norhern half of the state were mostly clear early today.

Early morning temperature extremes ranged from 37 at Dalhart in the Panhandle to 54 at Wichita Falls and Abilene. The rain kept temperatures unseasonably cool in South Texas with Corpus Christi reporting 52 and Brownsville 51. Other early morning readings included 53 at Amarillo, 50 at Texarkana Houston and San Antonio, 51 at Waco, 44 at El Paso and 49 at Cotulla.

Forecasts called for the rain to spread northward today and tonight, ending this evening. Temperatures were expected to be cooler Saturday.

FORECAST

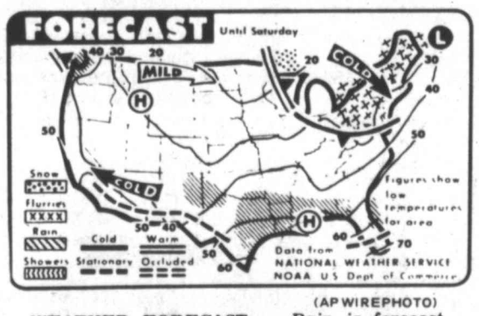

WEST TEXAS: Partly cloudy through Saturday except considerable cloudiness south today and tonight. Scattered showers or thundershowers most sections today and in the southeast tonight. Cooler north tonight and Saturday. A little warmer south Saturday. Highs today 62 to 75. Lows tonight 30 to 45. Highs Saturday 58 to 70.

EXTENDED FORECAST

WEST TEXAS: Partly cloudy Sunday through Tuesday. Warmer Tuesday. Lows 20s mountains and north to 40s south. Highs Sunday and Monday lower 50s north to upper 60s south. Highs Tuesday upper 50s north to near 70 south.

Gilmore cheered by inmates

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Gary Gilmore may be allowed to talk with the girl friend who joined him in an abortive suicide pact while he waits in near-isolation for a board to decide whether he'll face a firing squad.

The 35-year-old convicted murderer, who says he prefers death to prison, was cheered by fellow inmates Thursday as he returned under police escort to the Utah State Prison from a hospital. He was found unconscious in his cell on Tuesday from a sublethal overdose of sleeping pills.

His girl friend, Nicole Barrett, 20, emerged from a coma Thursday for the first time since she was hospitalized in Provo after taking sleeping pills in her apartment Tuesday. Hospital officials said she was recovering but would require treatment for several more days.

Gilmore, told of her improvement, said nothing but appeared relieved, a prison guard said.

He was placed in the prison's infirmary under what Warden Samuel Smith called "as close to solitary confinement as this prison has had in years." Asked whether Mrs. Barrett might be allowed to visit Gilmore, Smith said, "We have not closed the doors completely to that type of communication."

Smith said he has picked the secret five-man squad that would carry out the execution if the Utah Board of Pardons at its Dec. 6 meeting upholds Gilmore's death sentence for killing a motel clerk during a holdup last summer.

The board, originally scheduled to consider the matter the day after Gilmore's suicide try, could commute his sentence, but its chairman has indicated this is unlikely if Gilmore asks for death.

Meanwhile, the Utah State Bar Commission was to consider a complaint against Gilmore's attorney, Dennis Boaz, at a meeting today.

The bar's executive committee earlier said it would take no action on Boaz after informal complaints that he breached legal ethics by having a financial interest in Gilmore's fate. Boaz has acknowledged he plans to write about the case and has already accepted $250 from a British reporter whom he allowed, against prison rules, to talk to Gilmore by telephone.

Boaz again reversed his position on Gilmore's execution Thursday, apologizing to his client for a national television interview in which he said he could no longer support the state execution.

RETURNED TO DEATH ROW — Convicted murderer Gary Gilmore is moved in wheelchair from the University Hospital Medical Center in Salt Lake City, Utah, Thursday. He is being returned to the state prison in Utah where he awaits execution by a firing squad. Prison officials said he was taken to the hospital after he attempted suicide by overdosing on drugs.

'Full of life and broke'

BOTTINEAU, N.D. (AP) — The winter will be warmer for John Crawford, 81, who lives alone in a log cabin near the Canadian border.

Last week John Maynard, editor of the weekly Bottineau Courant, wrote that Crawford is "full of life and broke."

Since then, Crawford's government checks have been reinstated, his property taxes have been refunded and he's gotten free electricity.

"He lives alone in a one-room log cabin without electricity or running water," Maynard wrote. "He also has a car that doesn't run, 18 chickens that will die soon for lack of food and heat, and two frogs he calls his 'best friends.'

"John hasn't eaten meat for a year, or a square meal for nearly a month. He is losing weight and looking at a grim winter."

"I used to get Social Security, but when my brother died I got $2,000 from his estate," Crawford said. "As soon as I put that money in the bank, my Social Security checks stopped coming. I've written a lot of letters to Minot (N.D) and other places, but for three years I never got a cent of Social Security or welfare."

Officials said he could not get regular Social Security since he never paid into it and what was stopped were supplemental benefits.

Following the story, Maynard said:

—$200 in cash and a variety of canned goods and blankets were donated to the recluse.

—A VISTA worker got his signature on a form for $174 per month in supplemental income payments through Social Security.

—The county welfare department put him on the food stamp rolls.

—The county auditor refunded 1975 taxes on his 1½ acres and said he would not be charged in the future.

—North Central Electric Cooperative ran a power line to the lakeshore cabin and wired it free.

—A local club offered to pay Crawford's electric bills for the rest of his life.

—A church group and a group of low-income people got materials and are working to fix the cabin to withstand another winter.

—A women's group offered to clean the cabin and do his washing.

—A barber treated him to a free haircut and beard trim.

Maynard said Crawford, who intends to live in solitude the remainder of his life, survives on fish he catches, what he can produce from a small garden and a few fruit trees, and what neighbors bring him.

Military

Russians build 'Backfires'

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. military intelligence specialists believe the Russians are working on a new tanker plane that would enable the Soviet Backfire bomber to strike targets in the United States and return home.

The development could complicate U.S.-Soviet attempts to set new strategic arms ceilings, analysts say.

The new tanker, a variant of Russia's big four-engine 1176 commercial cargo plane, may be ready for use by the Soviet Air Force in 10 months, according to U.S. intelligence estimates.

The supersonic Backfire is one of what President Ford last month called "gray area weapons systems...creating some problems" in negotiations toward a new U.S.-Soviet agreement limiting strategic nuclear weapons.

U.S. negotiators want the Backfire included under any new startegic arms limitation talks agreement. The Russians have resisted this, contending the Backfire is not an intercontinental-range weapon.

The Backfire is credited with an unrefueled combat radius of about 3,500 miles. Disagreements in the U.S. intelligence community have centered on whether the Russians intend to use the Backfire as an intercontinental weapon.

But the appearance of a new tanker aircraft likely would be taken as evidence that the Russians plan to build a fleet of tankers and use their refueling capacity to extend the Backfire's range. Then the bomber could reach targets virtually anywhere in the United States — and fly back home.

Air Force Secretary Thomas C. Reed said last summer that "every Backfire we see has a refueling probe on it."

Intelligence sources say Backfire pilots have practiced refueling from the older tanker planes inside the Soviet Union.

The Russians have built at least 90 Backfires so far, and U.S. intelligence analysts have forecast an eventual force of about 400 Backfires, armed with the Kitchen air-to-surface missile.

This is a 280-mile range weapon which carries a 2,200-pound warhead, either conventional or nuclear.

Bike riders to circle base

Boys and girls will ride in a bike-a-thon around Webb AFB's perimeter tomorrow to raise funds for the American Cancer Society. Prizes of 10-speed bicycles will go to the boy and the girl who get the most donations pledged by sponsors.

Sign-in-time for the bike-a-thon is 9 a.m. at Social Actions, Bldg. 1107. Riders will travel from there on a 20-mile course around the perimeter road to the picnic pavilion area and return. Each will traverse the course five times to reach the limited distance and end up at the pavilion where refreshments will be served.

Youth from grade, junior high and high schools signed forms at their schools this week promising to take part. Then they have contacted adult sponsors to pledge donations of so much per mile.

The bicycles for prizes were donated by the First National and Security State Banks of Big Spring. Dr. James R. Cave and Al Valdes are in charge of the bike-a-thon. They will receive the donations or pledges collected by the youth from now to Dec. 3 when prizes are to be awarded.

Ribbon-cutting event Monday at new dorm

Monday is the day when Sunrise Hall, the first of the two new enlisted dormitories to be completed will begin to receive its first occupants at Webb Air Force Base.

A ribbon-cutting ceremony is scheduled for 11 a.m. by Col. Jerry S. Grimes, base commander, and other base officials. The enlisted people will begin moving in their belongings immediately following.

Contract for construction of the dorms went to R.M. Wells Co., Inc., of Quanah, Tex., in March, 1975, for a bid of $2,641,000.

Most occupants will share a bath between two bedrooms. However, the upper grade non-commissioned officers will have private baths. Each of the three floors will have a lounge and vending room. A laundry room is on the first floor.

Sunrise and Sunset Halls face each other with a paved parking area between them. Sunset hall is expected to be completed in the near future.

'Good lead' helps Webb sergeant win award

When Webb AFB Sgt. Ralph D. Monson cranks out a story for the Prairie Pilot, he sweats and squirms for a "good lead."

Once he gets the first paragraph out of the way, he blazes through the rest of the story, pounding in facts with two fingers on a manual typewriter.

He then rips the story out of the typewriter, rapidly skims the "typo disaster," throws it on the editor's desk and goes on to something else.

Doesn't sound like a formula for success. But, once again, the method has worked for the 25-year-old NCOIC of the Webb Information Division.

His short and to-the-point report of the Cosden refinery fire, which appeared in the July 23 Prairie Pilot, was singled out last week as the "Best news story of the quarter" by Air Training Command.

This award marks the third time Sergeant Monson has been honored by ATC since his arrival at Webb AFB 27 months ago. He previously won the "best photo of the quarter" for his cover photograph of the Webb Chapel which appeared last Christmas and "best news story of the quarter" for his report last year on the maintenance work-load.

Entries from 14 base newspapers are judged by command officials.

Way cleared for elections in Spain

MADRID, Spain (AP) — The ultraconservative parliament that dictator Francisco Franco left behind him has bowed to pressure for democratic reform and cleared the way for Spain's first free elections in 40 years.

The Cortes, or parliament, by a vote of 425 to 59 with 13 abstentions on Thursday approved government legislation abolishing the appointed, one-house legislature and replacing it with an elected, two-house body.

A two-thirds majority was needed for approval, but the winning margin was much greater.

The vote came two days before the first anniversary of Franco's death, on nov. 20, 1975.

A national referendum will be called to ratify the Cortes' action, and Premier Adolfo Suarez has promised that the new parliament will be elected by next June.

The 44-year-old premier worked out a last-minute compromise with the centrist-rightist Popular Alliance which threatened to abstain on the vote unless plans for distribution of the seats in the lower house by proportional representation were modified.

These critics demanded that proportional representation, in which the seats are allotted in proportion to the total nationwide vote for each party, be replaced by representation according to districts, with each district race decided by a majority vote.

The compromise retains proportional representation as the basic system. But it provides that a party must get a still-undetermined minimum vote to get any seats. And it guarantees a miminum number of representatives — also still undecided — from each of Spain's 50 provinces, regardless of their size.

The lower house of the new parliament will have 350 members. The senate will have 207, four-fifths of them elected by majority vote and one-fifth appointed by King Juan Carlos.

Meanwhile, local newspapers reported that the exiled head of the Communist party, Santiago Carrillo, arrived in Madrid from exile in France. The moderate leftists have threatened to boycott the parliamentary election unless the government lifts the ban on Communist participation.

Star witness mum, two freed

VIDALIA, La. (AP) — Two men accused of the gangland-style slaying of a Shreveport bar owner have been freed by district judge because of a lack of evidence against them at a preliminary hearing.

District Judge R.P. Boyd dismissed the first-degree murder charges against Clifton Guevara and Donald Gardner on Thursday, one day after the state's star witnesss took the 5th Amendment and refused to testify against the men.

"I think there was probable cause for these arrests but I don't think there is cause to bind these men over (to the grand jury)," Boyd said. "I'm going to release them."

Guevara and Gardner, both of Shreveport, had been charged with murdering Russell Griffith Jr., who was shot to death Oct. 16 in an isolated area of Concordia Parish, 30 miles south of Vidalia.

But the case against them fell apart when Jules Ron Kimbel of Denham Springs refused to testify for the prosecution Wednesday and witnesses then placed Guevara in Shreveport at the time of the murder near here.

Concordia Parish Sheriff Fred Schiele had testified that he arrested Guevara primarily on the word of Kimbel.

Although Kimbel refused to testify in the preliminary hearing, the judge heard him and saw him in several hours of videotaped interrogation by sheriff's officers. The tapes were played in court, over defense objections.

However, they were anything but clear. At various points in the tapes, Kimbel said he was nearby when Griffith was murdered, that Guevara was at the scene, that a man he thought was Guevara was at the scene, that he spoke to Guevara, that he didn't speak to Guevara, and that he fired a shotgun into a car and wounded a man.

Guevara testified that he had never heard of Kimbel and that the first time he saw Gardner was when he was arrested.

He also denied having anything to do with the murder of Jim Leslie, a Shreveport advertising executive shot to death in Baton Rouge in July. He had reportedly been questioned about that murder by police.

Asst. Police Chief Emmett McDowell of Shreveport testified that Guevara and his lawyer, Graves Thomas, were at the Shreveport police station a few hours before the murder to get a liquor license for a nightclub Guevara managed.

Other witnesses said Guevara was at a Shreveport lounge at the time the murder occurred.

Seven persons were originally charged in Griffith's murder, including some men from South Texas, but only one person, Gibs Sturgis, remains in custody. He is in Mississippi fighting extradition to Louisiana.

Inquest into death of rights leader about over

PALESTINE, Tex. (AP) — A polygraph expert has told an inquest that lie detector tests indicated a friend of slain civil rights leader Frank Robinson lied when she said the former educator had never mentioned suicide.

The statement by Ralph Maurice Reaves of Athens, commissioned by authorities to conduct a series of polygraph tests, came Thursday in the final day of testimony in the inquest into Robinson's death.

Mrs. Zella Watkins, a neighbor and close friend of the Robinsons, had told the six-person jury earlier Thursday that Robinson had never mentioned suicide.

The shotgun death of the East Texas civil rights leader, whose body was discovered Oct. 14 in the garage of his home, is being investigated to determine whether it was homicide, suicide or accidental.

A team of three attorneys, including one from Atty. Gen. John Hill's office, was to summarize the evidence today for the jurors.

Reaves said Mrs. Watkins underwent two polygraph examinations and he said both times the machine indicated she lied when she said Robinson had never been despondent or mentioned suicide.

"Mrs. Watkins knows more than she has told," said Reaves.

Robinson's widow, Dorothy, took the stand twice Thursday, saying, "I cannot in any circumstances equate Frank Robinson with suicide. He was the most vibrantly alive person I have ever known."

Mrs. Robinson also said she had returned from a trip to Minnesota to find some unusual evidence at her home: holes in the front and back door screens, a tidy kitchen and Robinson's tidy desk.

She said whenever Robinson was alone she usually returned to find an unkempt kitchen area and his desk in disorder.

Earlier in the day, life insurance agent Audrey Campbell, another in a long list of witnesses to be called, told the panel Mrs. Robinson inquired recently about a cancer insurance policy.

Mrs. Campbell said Mrs. Robinson had inquired about the policy but Mrs. Campbell telephoned Robinson the day before he was found dead and discussed policy details with him.

Several of Robinson's friends also told jurors the former educator hadn't acted differently or appeared despondent in the days before his death.

Mary Kathleen Alexander, bookkeeper at East Texas National Bank in Palestine, said Robinson came into the bank Oct. 13 and ordered a special statement of his account mailed to his home.

W. L. Singletary, another longtime friend of the Robinsons, said the shotgun identified as the death weapon appeared to be the same gun he saw in Robinson's closet three years ago.

Cuba has not agreed to aid probe into killing of JFK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief counsel of the House committee on assassinations has denied a report that Cuba has agreed to cooperate with its investigation into the killing of President John F. Kennedy.

Counsel Richard A. Sprague was joined by a committee spokesman in denying the report, broadcast Thursday by NBC News. The network quoted committee sources as saying staff members would travel to Cuba to take depositions and might speak with Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Radio Havana has made no mention of any cooperation.

Southern Baptist Churches

Independence is watchword

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Independence is a watchword of the Southern Baptist churches — a principle that was behind the struggle over admission of blacks at President-elect Jimmy Carter's home church in Plains, Ga.

Although the denomination's national convention repeatedly has condemned racial discrimination and segregation, the national body has no authority over its local churches — 34,901 of them throughout the country.

They're completely autonomous, setting their own rules and policies, picking their own ministers, deciding on who is eligible for membership, admitting them by a congregational show of hands.

Just as many of those individual congregations have modified their positions in recent years to allow blacks to become members, the church in Plains last Sunday took that step.

It had long been advocated by Carter and his family, who 12 years ago had been virtually alone in taking that stand. Most members, however, held out against it until the change came under the spotlight of national attention.

Although a big proportion of Southern Baptist congregations now have open-door policies, most of them remain solidly white, as do many congregations in other major, predominantly white denominations.

In the recent past, the common worship time of 11 o'clock Sunday morning had been called the "most segregated hour" in America, and it still is extensively that way in fact but not policy, despite continuing efforts to rectify the pattern.

Some Southern Baptist congregations "regrettably follow a closed-door policy," says the denomination's president, the Rev. Dr. James L. Sullvain of Nashville, Tenn., but many others are "completely integrated."

Church historian Leon McBeth says statements by Southern Baptist leaders indicate a "new day" and "new attitude" in accepting minority races, but "our actions have never matched our rhetoric."

McBeth, of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, Texas, says the denomination has made "significant progress in race relations," but "racism still is prevalent among us."

Since the national convention and agencies are "officially committed to equality," he says, "it gives some hope that we may gradually begin to practice what we have in the past quarter century at least begun to preach."

Nevertheless, under the Baptist system, no denominational authority can prescribe congregational conduct, nor does the denomination, a congregation or pastor have authority over the religious views of an individual member.

Self-determination is the distinctive tenet, with each person free to interpret Scripture according to his own mind and conscience. Baptists insist on individual independence in beliefs.

While this makes for many differences, the common bond is acknowledgement of Jesus as Lord and the New Testament as the guide to faith and practice.

Two murder convictions approved

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Two murder convictions were approved today by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

In one, the court affirmed the life sentence given Leroy Lafoon, Fort Worth, by a Wichita County jury on a change of venue from Jack County.

In a second case, the court affirmed the 35-year sentences given Jerry Black and the 99-year sentence given Warren Edward Black, both of Dallas.

Lafoon was found guilty of murder in the death of Edith Shores, whose body was found floating in a stock tank in Jack County April 24, 1971. Lafoon also was indicted in the slaying of DeAnn Cloninger, whose body also was found in the tank, but tried only in the Shores death.

Judge Truman Roberts dissented in the opinion saying he thought Lafoon's conviction should be reversed because of a prosecutor's statement to the jury. The prosecutor remarked that "there's a lot of circumstances I would love to have you people know. I'll guarantee you one thing; you return a guilty verdict in this case and then you go out and make a further investigation and you'll be proud of yourself."

'Ministrike' against 16 GM plants gets underway

DETROIT (AP) — About 80,000 United Auto Workers struck 16 key General Motors plants today as bargainers, meeting through the night, closed in on a new national contract.

"It was simply a matter of their running out of time," said one source close to the talks. He said the two sides were "very close," adding a settlement could come "within hours."

While the 16 selected plants were idled effective at midnight, about 100 other GM plants across the country continued operating in compliance with orders from the UAW.

Company officials said the walkout could cripple GM's sprawling 21-state production network within a week and industry analysts have said a GM shutdown would also start hurting the U.S. economy in about a week.

Three assembly or body plants in Michigan became the first casualties of the walkout's ripple effect and were to be closed today. some 13,000 workers would be affected by those shutdowns.

The selective, seven-state walkout — concentrated in the Midwest and particularly Michigan — came after after negotiators failed before a midnight deadline to fashion an agreement covering 390,000 hourly GM employes at more than 110 plants.

"The UAW-General Motors contract has expired," UAW President Leonard Woodcock and Vice President Irving Bluestone annnounced in a brief prepared statement issued to reporters as the strike deadline passed.

Employment of the mini-strike strategy by the UAW is a first for the union over a national agreement. It also marks the first time the UAW has waged two major auto strikes in one year since it first won collective bargaining rights in 1937.

A 28-day strike at Ford Motor Co. last month achieved the industry's pattern agreement. A similar pact was ratified with Chrysler Corp. on Wednesday.

Plants initially idled by the selective strike include six assembly plants, six parts plants and four Fisher Body facilities. Seven plants with 47,600 workers are in Michigan. Of the other plants, three were in Ohio, two in Indiana and one each in New York, Georgia, Illinois and Wisconsin.

The last time GM was hit with a nationwide strike was in 1970, when a 67-day UAW strike turned out to be the costliest in American labor history. The walkout exhausted the UAW's $120 million strike fund and forced the union to borrow another $40 million.

The strike fund presently holds $155 million, down from a record $180 million. The fund was depleted a bit by the Ford walkout, which affected 170,000 workers, and a 39-day strike by 26,000 workers against Deere & Co.

PICKET LINE SET UP AT CADILLAC — United Auto Workers pickets form line across gate at the Cadillac plant in Detroit just after midnight today as key General Motors plants throughout country were struck by the union. A target for settlement had been set for midnight.

HOUSTON (AP) — The new president of the Texas Daily Newspaper Association, which includes 85 member newspapers in Texas, Louisiana and New Mexico, is Bill Hartman of Beaumont, president of Hartman Newspapers, Inc. He takes office Jan. 1.

Richard J. V. Johnson, president of the Houston Chronicle, was elected vice president, and James Allison Jr., publisher of the Midland Reporter-Telegram, was elected treasurer.

Puritanism gains ground in Paris

PARIS (AP) — A court has ordered a porno film burned, and the Paris police have been raiding massage parlors and sex shows as puritanism gains ground again in France.

A Paris court ordered the incineration of "The Experimenter," about an underwear saleswoman in a homosexual Turkish bath, after a complaint by associations representing Roman Catholic families, boy scouts, old people, the deaf and dumb, and even the blind, who argued that the soundtrack was lascivious.

The court ruled the film was "an outrage to public morals" and fined the defendants, including director Serge Korber, $3,280.

Korber and his codefendants appealed the verdict. A decision is expected before the end of the year. If the ruling is upheld, it will be the first filmburning in France since the Nazi occupation during World War II.

The French Society of Film Producers attacked the verdict, saying it set a precedent for censorship of anything officials called offensive.

Korber said he made the "The Experimenter" to make a fast buck after making such serious — and unremunerative — films as "The Fires of Candlemas," the French entry at the 1972 Cannes Film Festival.

But his porno film, although carrying an "X" rating barring viewers under 18 from it, proved to be pretty much of a boxoffice flop, and Korber said he was stunned when the suit against it was filed six weeks after it opened.

The plaintiffs said they chose the film "to set an example."

The government cracked down on traditional Parisian licentiousness when Gen. Charles de Gaulle was president, reportedly at the insistence of De Gaulle's straitlaced wife. The restrictions grew progressively less stringent under his successors, Presidents Georges Pompidou and Valery Giscard d'Estaing.

According to official statistics, half of the 118 French films produced in 1974 were pornographic, and porno films in 1975 took in 25 per cent of the $300 million paid to movie boxoffices across France.

In the last 12 months, however, the government has responded to public opinion polls showing that the relaxation of movie censorship is going down poorly with a lot of voters.

WITH THE HONOR GUARD — Gregory Peck, third from right, is with members of the cadet honor guard during the filming of the final scenes of the movie "MacArthur" at West Point Thursday. Peck is playing the role of Gen. MacArthur.

'MacArthur' returns, women cadets absent

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — None of the U.S. Military Academy's 94 women cadets was allowed to appear on the Plain for this parade because the time was May 12, 1962 — and in 1962 there were no women cadets at West Point.

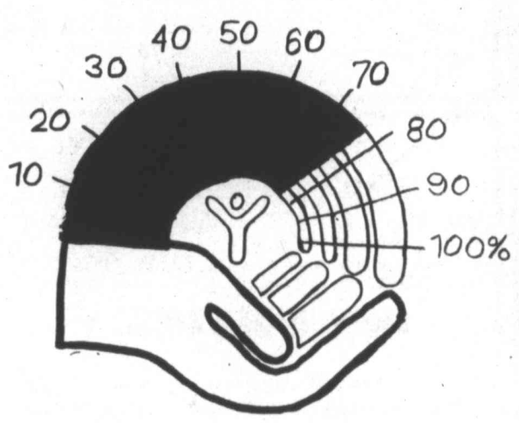

The banishment of the women was just one of the ways that the academy tried to reconstruct history as the cadets marched Thursday to honor the farewell visit of 82-year-old Gen. Douglas MacArthur — as played by 60-year-old Gregory Peck in a movie appropriately titled "MacArthur."

Peck and a film crew of 75, including retired Brigadier Gen. Frank McCarthy, the producer of "MacArthur," came to West Point late Wednesday for the filming of the academy footage that will be the first and last scenes of the movie biography of the controversial military leader recalled from Korea by President Truman in 1951.

After a sleep in the presidential suite and a 5 a.m. call Thursday, Peck was on the parade ground in a business suit and Homberg hat like those worn by MacArthur in 1962 when he paid his last visit to the graystone fortress on the Hudson.

MacArthur, who died two years after the visit, was a 1903 West Point graduate and superintendent of the academy from 1919 to 1922.

The other half got to skip classes to become extras in the mess-hall scene.

UW OBJECTIVE IN SIGHT

United Way donations now total $99,956

The 1976 Howard County United Way campaign has moved to within 24 per cent of its $134,000 goal, UW President Dearl Pittman announced at a luncheon for division workers held at the Spanish Inn Thursday.

Pittman said collections now total $99,956.54. One division, the Combined Federal Campaign, has long since exceeded its goal and several others are within shooting distance of their objective.

Pittman said he hoped that by the time the committee met again in two weeks the '76 drive would be declared an unqualified success.

By divisions, the amount raised to date, with objectives listed in parenthesis:

Out-of-Town, $6,395 ($9,000), 71 per cent; Advance, $15,969 ($33,000), 48 per cent; Special, $4,587 ($5,365), 85 per cent; Employe, ($26,963.34 ($31,000), 85 per cent; CFC, ($26,963.34), 102 per cent; City, School Employes, $5,737.25 ($7,000), 81 per cent; Metro, $315 ($3,000), 10 per cent; County and State Employes, $2,131.77 ($2,500), 84 per cent; Rural, $515 ($1,500), 34 per cent; Women's, $4,506 ($5,500), 81 per cent; and Professional, $6,251 ($9,800), 63 per cent.

Pittman urged his division leaders to renew their efforts and get their co-workers to make certain that all cards had been worked.

"With the Christmas season coming on," Pittman said, "we need to wind this campaign up as soon as possible. The response has been very good thus far."

The United Way office will be closed two days the coming week because of the Thanksgiving holiday — shutting down after Wednesday. It will not be reopened until Monday, Nov. 29.

Scouts sponsor turkey shoot

Boy Scout Troop 1 will sponsor a turkey shoot Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. with a shotgun shell reloader going as first prize.

The shoot will be at the caliche pit across from Hwy. 87 Grocery south of town.

'Genuine Ratepayers' to revolt?

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Public Utilities Commission should listen to ordinary ratepayers as well as highly paid professionals in deciding on Southwestern Bell's request for a $298 million rate increase, says a Dallas homemaker.

"If this hearing is simply allowed to deteriorate into a contest of 'our expert witness versus your expert' and 'our lawyer versus your lawyer'," then Bell and the commission "very quickly will find themselves faced with a genuine ratepayers' revolt," Mrs. Alma Hawkins testified Thursday.

"We think it is absolutely essential that the people of Texas be heard," she said.

"Southwestern Bell can quote a whole alphabet full of bond ratings to justify its need for higher rates," said Mrs. Hawkins, "but if it forces the ratepayers of Texas up against the wall its financial health will not be worth the price of a can of alphabet soup."

Mrs. Hawkins was one of three members of the Texas Association of Community Organization for Reform Now (ACORN) who protested the telephone company's request for a $298 million rate increase.

The statewide organization claims 3,300 members, all of whom are in the "low to moderate" income range.

Mrs. Hawkins said another large Texas utility, Dallas Power & Light, has been able to maintain its bond rating without being authorized more than a 7 per cent rate of return on investment, and "the same figure should be good enough for Southwestern Bell."

A Dallas secretary, Mrs. Samantha Jones, complained that if Bell gets the increase it is seeking, about "13 cents out of every dollar of the telephone bills which ratepayers get will be for 'phantom taxes' which Bell did not pay."

She that adds up to $50 a year for the average customer.

A Houston baker, Jonathan Goff, said, "Telephones are a basic human right, and a necessity these days," but "if things don't change" a lot of people are going to have to get their phones disconnected.

"In my opinion and Texas ACORN'S," Goff said, "the telephone company has no right to price low to moderate income people out of the market."

Goff urged the utilities commission to order Bell to undertake a feasibility study on a plan used in other states whereby customers may obtain phone service for a "limited number of calls each month at a rate lower than the basic monthly residential rate in effect at the time."

He said in California, for example, a customer can make up to 30 five-minute local calls each month for a monthly charge of $2.50.

The ACORN witnesses' written statements were not challenged by Bell's lawyers.

Family week stressed by local Mormon Church

The local Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-day Saints is joining their national church in observing family week starting Nov. 21.

There will be a special television program concentrating on the family on Sunday.

Present and past leaders of the Mormon Church have spoken frequently and profoundly about the need to maintain and strengthen the family unit.

Family life, according to current President Spencer W. Kimball, is "the standard of righteousness" and the basis of the church. "The nation is built upon the foundation of its homes and the home upon its families," he has said.

One of President Kimball's predecessors, the late David O. McKay, once gave this explanation: "Pure hearts in a pure home are always within whispering distance of heaven."

Throughout his long and distinguished career with the church, the late President Harold B. Lee counseled that the home is the basis of a righteous life and no other instrumentality can take its place nor fulfill its essential function.

Many church activities, most significantly "Family Home Evening" programs, are geared to the goal of welding families together through open communication and spiritual growth.

In support of this tenet, Mormon leaders have said "no other success can compensate for failure in the home" and that there can be nothing more precious or enduring than the family.

AUTHENTIC PORTRAIT?
... ask Col. Frank Adams

Some claim authentic portrait comes from Shroud of Turin

Thousands of visitors to the recent Eucharistic Congress filed in silent awe by an exhibit in the Pennsylvania Museum entitled "The Face Of Jesus." They were viewing a negative of the Shroud of Turin which purportedly had wrapped the body of Jesus. In the centre is a positive image of a crucified man in incredible detail.

For the first time the owners, the Royal House of Savoy, had permitted research of the cloth itself by a team of outstanding scientists. In late 1975 a spokesman for this research committee announced, "Seven years of research found nothing to contradict the authenticity of the Shroud."

Scientific sanction was good news for retired Army Colonel Frank O. Adams of Tucson, Arizona. He has spent many years gathering data and giving hundreds of illustrated lectures on the Shroud of Turin.

After being exposed to the existence of this then controversial cloth, he foresaw an answer to a nineteen (19) century old mystery: What did Jesus look like?

Adams was aware that there is no description of the Gallilean in either Gospels or Epistles. Yet innumerable millions of portraits, crucifixes, icons, etc. bore mute witness to an inner hunger for this knowledge by countless men and women throughout the centuries.

The fantastic secret embodied in the Shroud was revealed by accident. It presents to the naked eye a vague outline of the front and back of a man. The brown stains suggest rather than portray. In 1898, it was photographed and these markings were found to be a negative.

Photographic negatives, of course, show reverse shadings; light and dark transpose to opposites. The developing process transposed the blurred, diffused stains into a clear and distinct image of a crucified body with a majestic death mask.

Photographs were used for years of initial research by Paul Vignon. The findings revealed that the markings were not the result of that controversial explanation — a miracle. The brown stains resulted from the action of a suffering body's excretions of urea on elements of the Jewish burial fluid. Researchers, using the same chemical process, have obtained negatives on cloth of a varity of objects.

Colonel Adams knew that a face could be constructed by duplicating the features and their relative measurements to each other; but how about the coloration?

His reasoning was correct. It is almost incredible that the descriptions he found could have rested practically ignored in libraries in Rome and Constantinople for centuries but they had.

The next step was to combine these descriptions, which corroborated each other, with the features from the face on the Shroud. He commissioned a fine artist, Ris Phillips, to integrate them in a portrait. The result is a powerful, virile face; the reddish blonde hair is parted in the middle and falls to the shoulders after the manner of Nazarenes. Also, amazingly, a caliper revealed that both sides of the face on the Shroud are identical; this contradicts the axiom that "in nature the right side of anything is never the same as the left."

There has been an unbroken chain of evidence on the location of this burial cloth since 1354. Prior to the recent, scientific validation of its authenticity one could well ponder, "How can there be a negative on a cloth we know existed at least five hundred (500) years before the invention of photography?"

Before its emergence from a mysterious past in the fourteenth century, there had been unconnected reports dating back to the fourth century.

Adams, in his unravelling of this mystery, presents circumstantial evidence combining artistic and historical data which places the Shroud as early as the fourth century. During the recent research, the committee called in a Dr. Max Frei of Switzerland, an eminent authority in the field of dating by pollen analysis. This process is more accurate than dating by carbon fourteen. He found pollen from plants indigenous to the Holy Land two thousand (2000) years ago.

Evangel Temple shows new religious movie

A "Thief In The Night," a new color film, will be shown at Evangel Temple Assembly of God, 2205 Goliad, Nov. 21 at 7:00 p.m.

A "Thief In The Night" is a motion picture about Bible prophecy. It announces that it attempts to show what can happen when Jesus Christ returns. This story centers around Patty, an average girl caught up in living for the present, with little concern about the future. What happens when this thinking finally catches up with her provides an action-packed, unforgettable drama.

The fast-moving pace includes a young man confronted by a deadly Asian cobra, a young girl's daring escape from jail, and a take-over by "The Imperium" that regards all, who are not properly identified, as enemies of the system.

Filmed on location in Iowa, this picture portrays the Biblical prediction, "There will be no place to hide." "One does not merely view this film, he experiences it. Every thinking person will seriously consider its impact," the local minister stated.

The show was given the "Best of Film of the Year" award by the National Evangelical Film Foundation of Valley Forge, Pennsylvania. The lead actress, Miss Patty Dunning, was given the "Outstanding Female Actress" award at the same time.

The film has been produced by Mark IV Pictures, Inc., of Des Moines, Iowa.

Nazarene Church schedules film

"Corrie: Behind the Scenes with the Hiding Place," a new full-length color release from World Wide Pictures, will be shown at First Church of the Nazarene, 1400 Lancaster, Sunday, November 21. A single showing is scheduled to begin at 6 p.m.

"The Hiding Place," a true story filmed in Holland and other European locations, is based on the experiences of Corrie ten Boom, who, with her father, sister, and brother, provided refuge for countless Jewish families. A secret room was constructed in their home as a hiding place for use during Gestapo raids. The ten Boom's activities were discovered, and they were sent to prisons and concentration camps.

According to Kenneth Bliss, director of distribution for World Wide Pictures, "The Hiding Place" has been extremely well-received, both by audiences and film critics. "Corrie was produced to give people who have seen "The Hiding Place" or read her many best-selling books an opportunity to hear her share many of her memories about her life in Holland, her family, and her lifetime of service to others."

Bliss added that the film "offers a great lesson in the perserverance of a personal faith in a very dark and trying period of world history. Corrie ten Boom, now in her eighties, has a tremendous vitality, a deep spiritual commitment, and a profound love for her fellow man. We believe we have succeeded in transmitting a part of her zest, personality, and source of strength through this film."

Bliss noted that the film includes "interesting sidelights on the experience of the cast and crew during the filming of "The Hiding Place."

The Rev. L.D. Holmes, pastor of First Church of the Nazarene, stresses that the showing of "Corrie" is open to the public free of charge. "We encourage families to plan to attend together, for what we believe will be a memorable experience," he concluded.

There is a way which seems right to a man, but its end is the way to death.
— Proverbs 14:12 (RSV)
Where there is no vision (prophecy), the people perish: but he that keepeth the law, happy is he.
— Proverbs 29:18 (KJV)
And in the last days it shall be, God declares, that I will pour out my Spirit upon all flesh, and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams;
— Acts 2:17 (RSV)

Basic Rights

The Pilgrims came to America for more than land. They risked their lives and possessions to gain the right to worship freely and to live democratically. On these basic principles—liberty and equality—America was founded.

The Pilgrims left us another heritage—thanksgiving. Newly arrived in this alien land, they gave thanks to the benevolent God who guided them across the sea and who would sustain them through their first harrowing years in America.

The meaning of those early days is sometimes lost to us today in affluent America. We may forget that this prosperity is not entirely the product of our own labors, but is also the result of the beneficence of God.

Let us then celebrate our good fortune—in church and at home. Let us give thanks!

Carter, Bush to talk national security today

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Jimmy Carter, after focusing on the nation's domestic problems, is turning his attention to national security and foreign policy as he prepares for the presidency.

George Bush, the director of the Central Intelligence Agency, was flying to Plains today, and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will visit this tiny southwest Georgia hamlet on Saturday.

Vice President-elect Walter Mondale planned to fly from Washington to Plains for today's session and remain for the meeting with Kissinger.

Asked about a report that former Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger would be named as a White House "intelligence czar," Powell said speculation about Carter's choices for his Cabinet and other top posts was "premature."

In Washington on Thursday, Hamilton Jordan told reporters that he and other Carter talent scouts intend to give the president-elect the option of choosing an experienced Washington figure, a black, a woman or a newcomer for each key position.

But Powell said later that Jordan's remark about providing those four options "should not be taken all that seriously."

Carter will make his first postelection trip to Washington on Sunday night and confer with President Ford at the White House on Monday.

Powell complained that the $2 million that the government has allocated to pay for the new administration's expenses prior to inauguration day, Jan. 20, "has placed constraints on us."

The Carter organization, which spent $34.8 million during the primary and general election campaigns and numbered more than 1,500 paid workers at its height, has been cut to about 140 persons for the transition.

TOWERING INFERNO — Flames leap from the 20th floor of the 32-story Occidental Tower building in downtown Los Angeles early today. Nearly 200 firemen from 38 engine companies were called in to fight the blaze.

Sunken ship may hold $5 billion in riches

SAN DIEGO (AP) — It has not been determined who might salvage or benefit from a sunken Japanese freighter that may hold $5 billion in riches, says a former astronaut who claims the ship has been located off the China coast.

Bill Bunton and former astronaut Scott Carpenter, an aquanaut in Bunton's group, confirmed their quest in telephone interviews. The San Diego Evening Tribune said Thursday in a copyright story the ship lies "a few miles off China."

Bunton said negotiations to get China's permission to salvage the Awa Maru are under way in Peking.

"It's against the ethics of the officials of the People's Republic to discuss business negotiations in public," he said. "I just hope they'll understand that I had absolutely no control over the breaking of the story here."

No suggested arrangements for dividing any riches were made public.

Carpenter, who with Bunton was on the Sealab II diving team in 1965, said he "was able to open a few doors for Bill in Washington" on starting negotiations with Chinese officials.

Carpenter said "maybe the Chinese will elect to do most of the actual salvage themselves. Maybe we'll do it all. That's something Bill still has to hammer out with them."

Also in the group is retired Navy Capt. John E. Bennett, navigator of the submarine Queenfish when she sank the Awa Maru in the Formosa Strait in 1945.

The Tribune said the value of gold and other metals, cash and gems plundered throughout Japanese-occupied territory and aboard the ship has been estimated as high as $5 billion, making it the "greatest sunken treasure in history."

Bunton said only $25 million — the value of tin, tungsten, lead and titanium aboard the ship — is confirmed, but he said that a figure of $250 million is "probable," based on the 40 tons of gold, 12 tons of platinum and diamonds.

"The third figure, $5 billion, is possible but, then again, it may be no more than a pipe dream," he said.

Bennett told the San Diego newspaper "it was an eerie sight" as 2,008 people died.

THROUGH the fieldglasses

By Danny Reagan

Cathey and Hawks

Howard College sophomore center Paul Cathey never ceases to amaze me this year on the court. Rising from a "average" year last year in the Hawk forces, he has become a dominant and important part of the Hawk winning machine.

His rebounding is phenomenal. Last night against Temple Junior College he played one of his "average" games of this season, only hauling down 17 rebounds and racking up 19 points.

In addition to the two exciting guards Little and Meyers, the Reggie Leffall and Lowell Walker combo that is good for some great outside shooting, and the back-up hosses, Joe Cooper, Eugene Williams and Jim Ray, the height and experience of Cathey is making for a most thrilling season of local college roundball.

In beating Temple 91-89 last night, the Hawks advance to the 9 o'clock game tonight with South Plains, also undefeated and with a 97-84 blasting of St. Phillips under their tournament belt.

In other tourney action, Ranger nipped New Mexico Junior College 63-62, and Odessa outlasted Midland College 72-69. One more footnote to last night's game: I've never seen a pair of officials who let two teams play rougher than I did last night. They weren't unfair to either team, they called and didn't call questionable fouls on both teams.

But when both benches and the small crowd (mostly Hawk-partisan) come to their feet every other minute, when normally pussycat-like Tommy Walker heckles the striped comics, and Pearl becomes semi-sanguinary, I just feel all is not crackers and coke, if you perceive my drift.

Forsan Buffs! 7:30

Don't forget, (who could?) that tonight in Memorial Stadium, the undefeated Forsan Buffaloes entertain the Balmorhea Bears in a bi-district shoot-out.

Tickets are still available at the gate, and the hot and heavy action should negate any cold weather that might otherwise prevail.

Webb turkey shoot

The annual "turkey shoot" at the base golf course has been reset for a shotgun start at 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

The tournament will be contested at full handicap with the top net finishers getting frozen gobblers. About half the entrants are expected to win turkeys.

Entry fee is $3.50 and golfers must report to tournament officials in the clubhouse by 1 p.m.

Lee-Euless match-up

A coaching rematch of former cross-town rivals highlights the Midland Lee-Ft. Worth Euless Trinity bi-district game in Abilene's Shotwell Stadium at 2 p.m. Saturday.

John Reddell, in his first year at Euless, goes up against Lee coach Jim Acree. Reddell was the coach for Midland High School for four years.

Euless, ranked 10th in the state 4-A teams, racked up 304 points in 10 games while only allowing 69, and finished with a perfect 10-0 record.

Lee, 9-1, scored 235 points, and relinquished 86.

Queens lose 83-61

The Howard College Hawk Queens, playing against a host of ex-All Staters, lost to the Wayland College JV's in Plainview last night, 83-61.

Coach Don Stevens knew that the contest would be a tough one, and indicated that "we were just out of our league."

Whaley, Edwards and Meyer hit double figures for the locals with 16, 12 and 10 respectively, and Sawyer and Batla gathered eight, while Faubion scored seven.

The Queens had difficulty in overcoming Wayland roundball ace Hanston who led everyone with 31 points.

Steers on the road

The BSHS roundballers travel to Plainview Saturday night for a 7:30 contest with the Bulldogs, who just happen to be favored to go all the way in their district.

Coach James Griffin noted last night at the Hawk battle royal that his squad had one of the best practices this season Wednesday, and he hopes to be 2-0 Saturday night so that he can watch the Cowboy game Sunday with peace of mind.

Tech's judgement day

This may be the year to wear red cotton anything.

Or it may be the year for Red Raider faithful to sit at home New Year's day and watch someone else honor the memory of Eli Whitney. The Tech faithful have had plenty of practice with the latter, but seem to be confident of the former.

Whatever the outcome, it sould be one of the best college games on television this season, (even though no one outside of Texas really takes the SWC seriously).

Fifth-ranked Tech drilled for over two hours Wednesday afternoon in preparation for ninth-ranked Houston.

Tech's defense is still hobbling with leg injuries, but middle-linebacker Gary McCright, knee-gored in the Texas game, might see action.

Defensive stalwart Curtis Reed will definitely be out of the game. He broke a bone in his leg in the TCU game.

Head caoch Steve Sloan was happy with the results of the workout anyway.

"It looks like we've got our plan and assignments down well," he said.

Forsan splits G.C.

Actually they won two out of three, but it wouldn't fit.

In the 7th grade boys game, Garden City Jr. High beat Forsan JH 30-24. Ricky Bedwell had 10 points for Forsan and V. Medrano led Garden City with a like amount.

In the 8th boys game, won by Forsan 43-28, Todd Underwood led FJH with 17 points, while C. Halfman had 11 for Garden City.

In the girls contest, Forsan blasted the kittens, 34-9. Monica Dyess had 16 points for FJH, while Lucy Garza racked up the most for GCJH with four.

Forsan's next games are Monday in Stanton at 4:30.

Quote for the day

"We realize once again that we are facing a must situation. We are glad that we had the open date last weekend to get back down off of the ceiling. Texas Tech has a very fine team, probably the best balanced team we've faced all year. It will take another supreme effort on our part just to stay on the field." — Houston Coach Bill Yeoman

ODESSA — The Howard College Hawks overcame a case of the "Juco Jitters," a fired-up Temple Leopard squad, and some very unorthodox officiating to sneak by a 91-89 overtime win in the first round of the Odessa Chamber of Commerce 17th annual Junior College Tournament.

The game started uncharacteristically enough for the Hawks. After two minutes of play, they found themselves down 7-2. However, they roared back, (as they would all night long), in the next minute to take an 8-7 lead by virtue of Mike Little steals, a Lowell Walker block and a couple of good outside shots by Reggie Leffall.

The Hawks displayed a type of nervous hesitation for the first time this year, unable to get the correct combinations in the early going, and after a bruising 17½ minutes of spinning their wheels, they found themselves behind nine points, 37-28 with 2:30 remaining before intermission.

But then came the turning point in the game, when the Hawks realized their capabilities and initiated a superb team effort that was to last throughout the night.

In those final minutes, Paul Cathey beat the entire Temple team on the boards, speedy guard Marc Meyers had a sterling assist, Reggie Leffall missed his chance for a four-point play, but garnered three of them, and with just nine seconds remaining in the initial half, vastly-improved Jim Ray hit an inspired lay-up, and the Hawks screeched to a 41-40 half-time lead.

Reflections at intermission centered around the amazing outside shooting of the Temple Jr. College Leopards. A much smaller team than the Hawks, yet their percentage of accuracy was 15 per cent greater than the locals.

Another unusual stat at the break was a surprising 25 combined turnovers, 18 for the Hawks and 17 for Temple. Mike Little, HC guard who is deceptively efficient, had perhaps his best night as a Hawk, again with little fan fare. He was responsible for eight of those turnovers with steals. He also had eight assists and 21 points on the night.

The second half opened much like the first, the Hawks found themselves down five points, 48-43 after only two minutes of play. But remembering the first half surge, Meyers, Little and Leffall stole the ball three times, and after only two more minutes the Hawks were up again by three, 53-50 at 16:00 left. The Hawks were never to trail again in regulation play, but they were also never to lead by more than four at any time.

Head Coach Harold Wilder used his top three reserves throughout the second half, Joe Cooper, Eugene Williams and Jim Ray. And all three of them performed with determination and skill.

Cooper went high time after time to either block shots or intimidate the Temple shooter. Eugene Williams hit crucial free throws and added height for the boards. Ray's game-by-game increasing confidence paid off in the late going with his quick hands and glue-like defense.

Ray was forced to leave the game with 4:05 remaining when Temple guard Edison Smith landed a cheap blow to his face as the two were going down-court. Smith was ejected from the game for such unsportsman-like conduct, and Ray spent the rest of the game holding an ice-pack to his face.

With 35 seconds remaining in the game, the score was tied at 79-79. Williams hit a bucket from 10 feet out with eight ticks left on the clock to break the ice, but Temple raced back down and tied it up again. The marathon game had lasted almost two hours, and was to go into over-time.

The opening minutes of the sudden death were a carbon copy of the start of both halves. After a minute and a half (there are only five minutes in over-time), the Hawks were again down 85-81. But in just 22 seconds, by virtue of Little steals and baskets, and two Paul Cathey free throws, the Hawks were on top to stay 87-85. With 2:09 remaining, the scoreboard was knotted 89-89, and only two more points were to be added to it all night.

Little stole his final melon of the night and raced down the tartan surface for the winning points, with 55 seconds remaining. Temple had one more chance with 12 seconds left when Danny Salisbery threw up a near-miss desperation shot. But Williams knocked the rebound out to Little, and time ran out as the Hawk bench erupted to inundate the duo at mid-court.

The Hawks had their fifth straight win of the season, 91-89, against no defeats.

Coach Harold Wilder was pleased with his club's effort.

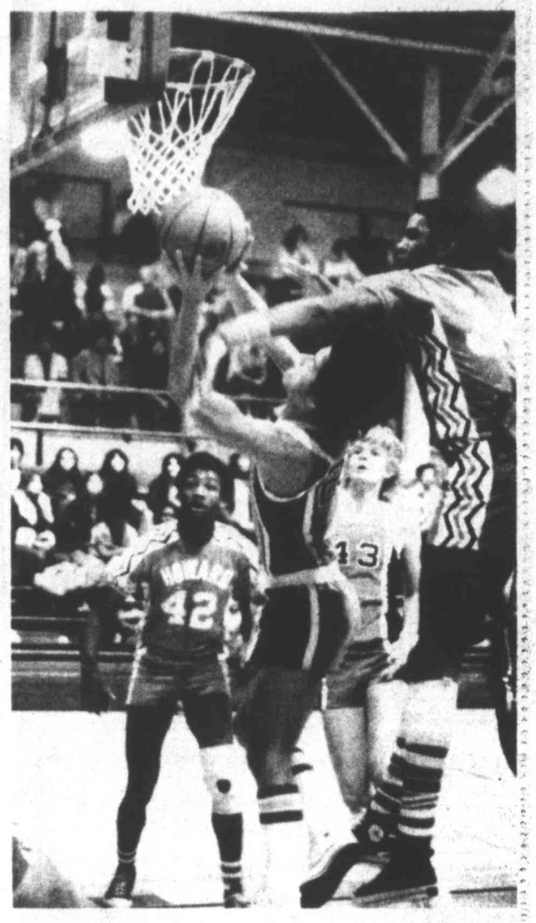

"This was a good game to test our players," he said. "It was close the whole way, we had to play intense ball at all times, no one panicked, and everyone hustled.

"We're beginning to build a number of team aspects, such as passing techniques and unified effort." Wilder concluded.

The Hawks advance to second-round action tonight under the lights of Odessa College Gym at 9 p.m. against South Plains College, who handily defeated Ranger Thursday night.

Steelers' enigma rolling

It was a year in which Pittsburgh was supposed to set National Football League history. The team with the impenetrable Steel Curtain defense last year and the year before, was going to succeed where Green Bay and Miami had failed.

The Steelers, it was expected, would win a third straight Super Bowl.

Now, they may not even get into it. They may not surpass that first hurdle to greatness. They may not even make the playoffs.

Not that the Steelers are to to be written off yet, mind you. But time is growing short for this once-invincible band of behemoths. Naturally, the Steelers, who face the Houston Oilers Sunday, are not writing themselves off.

"We're playing like it's the last game—because every game is the last game for us," says defensive back J.T. Thomas.

If the Steelers are to get back to the Super Bowl, they will either have to overtake Cincinnati, which owns a two-game lead in the American Conference's Central Division, or come away win the AFC's wild-card playoff berth. Even that looms as a difficult task. Pittsburgh is 6-4, tied among AFC runner-up candidates with Cleveland and Denver. But all three trail New England, second-best in the East at 7-2.

Showdown Saturday!!!

By the Associated Press

It's showdown Saturday in Columbus, Ohio, and Los Angeles.

The Minnesotas, Iowas, Californias and Stanfords have all fallen by the wayside again. As usual, it will be Michigan against Ohio State to decide who wins the Big Ten and a spot in the Rose Bowl. And UCLA against Southern California for the Pacific-8 championship and the other berth in the Rose Bowl.

No. 4 Michigan, 9-1 after its untimely loss to Purdue a couple of weeks ago, needs a victory to get a share of the title and a probable trip to Pasadena, Calif., New Year's Day. No. 8 Ohio State, 8-1-1, is unbeaten in the Big Ten and can wrap up first place with a tie Saturday.

Michigan mixes its versatile running game with the passing of quarterback Rick Leach to provide a more balanced attack, but the Buckeyes' have a strong one-two ground attack with massive fullback Pete Johnson and tailback Jeff Logan.

Both No. 2 UCLA, 9-0-1, and No. 3 Southern Cal, 8-1, are undefeated in the Pac-8. Both boast exceptional running backs who have been slowed by injuries. Southern Cal's Ricky Bell will play but UCLA's Wendell Tyler, who has a shoulder injury, may not.

Among other ranked teams, No. 1 Pittsburgh takes the week off to prepare for its showdown with No. 17 Penn State Nov. 26. The Panthers are apparently bound for the Sugar Bowl against Southeast Conference champ Georgia.

No. 5 Texas Tech faces No. 9 Houston in a Southwest Conference showdown with a possible trip to the Cotton Bowl bid in the offing. Maryland, co-ranked No. 6 with Georgia, puts its unbeaten record on the line at Virginia. The Terrapins have been promised a Cotton Bowl invitation if they win.

No. 11 Texas A&M hosts Texas Christian, No. 13 Notre Dame entertains Miami, Fla., and No. 14 Iowa State visits No. 16 Oklahoma State. Both teams are among the five-way tie for first place in the Big Eight, as is No. 15 Colorado, which visits Kansas State. No. 19 Missouri hosts Kansas.

Along with Pittsburgh and Penn State, Georgia, No. 10 Oklahoma, No. 12 Nebraska, No. 18 Alabama and Rutgers, tied for No. 19, are idle.

Most of the top 20 teams are involved in speculation surrounding one bowl or another and the scramble will be on Saturday. Notre Dame is rumored interested in the Gator Bowl, Alabama in the Liberty Bowl, Texas A&M in the Sun Bowl and Oklahoma in the Fiesta, if the Sooners don't make it into the Orange as the eventual Big Eight champs.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1976

GENERAL TENDENCIES: There are a number of delays in getting the various weekend tasks you wish to accomplish, so take them into account before making any plans. Be energetic, generous with others.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Combine creative activities with the practical today and get good results, but schedule your time wisely first. Avoid friction with loved one.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Do not enter into any arguments with an associate or close tie, or there could be real trouble. Keep promises you have made to allies meticulously. Avoid one who has an eye on your assets.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get busy at the tasks ahead of you and don't go off on a trip that could net you nothing but trouble. Don't lose your temper with others.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take care you are not extravagant with money for worthless pleasure that is best forgotten. Stick to that which is tried and true.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A situation at home needs careful and positive attention today so that it clears up nicely. Be more philosophical and gain inner peace.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study personal problems carefully and solve them through sincere application on your part. Clean up odds and ends during spare time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Settle debts with personal friends and come to a better understanding. Study business matters from the financial angle too.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make necessary corrections in outside matters and get on even keel. Not a good day to ask for a favor from a bigwig; bide your time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Forget a problem you have and get to some place where you can advance in your career and have a good time also. Avoid a nuisance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Forget responsibilities for the time being and be happy with congenials. A dear friend can help relieve tensions.

AQUARIUS(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are able to understand bigwigs better now and can also do whatever will make partners happier. Partake in a sport you like.

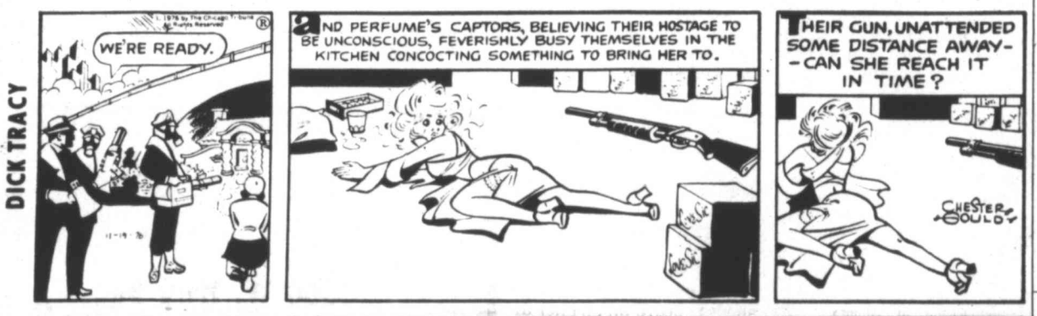

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Although you are busy be sure to study into a new idea you have which could prove to be most practical and usable. Take time to improve health through right treatments.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will have to be taught early to keep any promises made to others, whether of a personal or business nature, simple or involved. Otherwise the great success possible in this lifetime could be lost through deviousness.

Spurs stab K.C.

By the Associated Press

Coach Phil Johnson took his Kansas City Kings into San Antonio for a basketball game Thursday night and left there suffering from shell shock.

"We got bombed," said Johnson after the Spurs blasted Kansas City 129-104 for their sixth straight National Basketball Association victory.

"We couldn't hit a shot. They were going in and out time after time," he moaned after Billy Paultz scored 25 points and Larry Kenon 21, helping the Spurs hand the Kings their seventh loss in eight road games this season.

In other NBA games Thursday night, the Golden State Warriors crushed the Phoenix Suns 131-111 and the Indiana Pacers bested the Detroit Pistons 104-99.

Warriors 131, Suns 111

Rick Barry scored 24 points and Phil Smith 23 in Golden State's romp over Phoenix. Barry scored 12 in the second quarter, when teammate George Johnson grabbed nine rebounds, as the Warriors charged from a 38-35 deficit into a 46-38 lead.

The Warriors held a 21-8 rebounding advantage in the second period.

Phoenix was led by Ricky Sobers with 19 points.

Pacers 104, Pistons 99

Billy Knight led a balanced Indiana attack with 23 points, helping the Pacers overcome a 39-point performance by the Pistons' Bob Lanier and end Detroit's seven-game winning streak.

The game, tied 26 times, was decided when Indiana's Don Buse hit two free throws and a fast-break layup, giving the Pacers a three-point lead with 90 seconds remaining.

Yanks winning Sweepstakes

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees and the Atlanta Braves, who took home the prizes in past free-agent sweepstakes, are still playing the game.

The Yankees signed Catfish Hunter, the first free agent in modern times, on New Year's Eve, 1974. On Thursday, they became the first team with matching free-agent pitchers, adding left-handed Don Gullett to the right-handed Hunter.

When Hunter's auction was held, he was the only player eligible. The law of supply and demand escalated his value to a five-year package worth $3.5 million. With 24 free agents available this time, money isn't being thrown around as readily. Gullett signed a six-year contract worth in the neighborhood of $2 million.

That's a little more than Gary Matthews got for moving south to Atlanta to join the 1975 free-agent, pitcher Andy Messersmith. Matthews, a strong offensive and defensive outfielder, will receive $1.75 million over five years to play with the Braves.

That's not a bad pay raise considering the fact that Matthews made $46,000 with San Francisco in 1975, asked for $65,000 in 1976 but was only offered $60,000 by the Giants.

Don Gullett's closed book

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson closed the book on Don Gullett Thursday, with anguish and disillusionment.

"The name will be dropped. I will never bring his name up again," said Anderson.

"Cincinnati is going to carry on," added Anderson, admitting he was "a little shocked" after learning that the Reds' ace lefthander had jumped to the New York Yankees for a six-year contract worth an estimated $2 million.

The loss clearly cut Anderson deeply. Despite indications that Gullett and his attorney Jerry Kapstein were cool to last-minute overtures by the Reds, Anderson was optimistic to the end that the differences might be settled.

"I've always be very strong on loyalty and I always felt there is a lot more to life than money," said Anderson.

Gullett, 25, was nearing greatness after six years with the Reds, who made him their No. 1 draft choice in 1969. He joins the team the Reds humiliated during a four-game sweep last month that produced a second straight World Series title.

Anti-betting parade flows

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Donald Ruck, vice president of the National Hockey League, was scheduled to testify today as the final witness for the National Football League in its U.S. District Court suit against Delaware's sports betting lottery.

NFL attorneys earlier this week called baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and a parade of pro football officials to testify in an effort to underscore their argument that Delaware's Scoreboard Lottery poses a threat to all team sports by associating them with gambling.

The NFL's suit seeks damages and a permanent injunction against the sports betting game on grounds that it violates trademark and property rights, threatens to undermine the integrity of pro football and violates state and federal laws.

Attorneys for both sides spent Thursday questioning witnesses about one national and two Delaware opinion polls which the NFL presented to back up arguments that state-sponsored sports betting would harm its image through a forced association with gambling.

Finley switches to horse no. 14

OAKLAND (AP) — For the 14th time since purchasing the A's franchise in 1961, Charles O. Finley has changed managers, and Jack McKeon says he is "really very thrilled" to have been chosen.

McKeon, former manager of the Kansas City Royals who piloted Atlanta's Richmond farm club in the International League last season, was given a one-year contract to lead talent-depleted Oakland.

"It's gonna take a little patience," McKeon said Thursday in a telephone interview after returning to his home in Burlington, N.C. "We'll probably have to force-feed a few young prospects into the lineup.

"But you know Charlie. He'll find some way of getting some pretty good ballplayers. He's done it in the past, and he will do it again."

WELL COVERED — Doug Litchen, seventh-grader from Garland, Tex., recently pedaled his way to football practice with his head and face covered with a hood to protect him from the unseasonably cold weather in Texas. Last week-end the Lone Star State was blanketed with snow up to 5 inches measured in some areas.

Redskins over Redbirds?

NEW YORK (AP) — Go figure those nice old men who play football for the Washington Redskins.

Back in October, they were beaten on a flea-flicker play by previously winless Kansas City and everybody was saying they were done in the National Conference East.

But the Redskins picked themselves up off the deck and climbed right back in contention with a muddy Monday night victory over St. Louis.

Then three weeks ago, everyone was writing them off again when they lost to Dallas.

So the Redskins, 6-4, promptly stepped right back in the playoff picture by ambushing San Francisco.

Then last week, they stumbled again, losing to the previously winless New York Giants and again they were written off.

So the Pro Picker steps out on a shaky limb and sees the Redskins returning to life once more, this time with an upset against St. Louis.

Last week's 8-6 record left the season log at 94-45-1 for .676.

The picks:

Washington 19, St. Louis 17

The grizzled Redskins know it's do-or-die now. A loss eliminates them in the NFC East and makes a wild card playoff berth an awfully long shot. Under the circumstances, they will do, not die.

Los Angeles 27, San Francisco

Isn't it about time the talented Rams put things together? There's no better time then this game against the 49ers with the NFC West lead on the line.

Oakland 38, Philadelphia 7

It's wrapup time again for the Raiders who should clinch their fifth straight AFC West crown. Eagles will go with old pro Roman Gabriel at quarterback after Mike Boryla threw four interceptions and was sacked six times by Cleveland last week.

Minnesota 21, Green Bay 6

With a chance to wrap up an eighth NFC Central title in nine years, the Vikings won't let the Packers stand in their way. Green Bay will be without injured Lynn Dickey so backup Carlos Brown will do the quarterbacking.

Cincinnati 30, Kansas City 10

This should be a laugher for the Bengals, who need one after last week's scare against Houston and the toughie against Los Angeles the week before.

Dallas 24, Atlanta 10

The Cowboys just can't seem to get up for the NFL havenots. The Falcons certainly qualify for that role. For them, Dallas won't have to get up.

Pittsburgh 27, Houston 7

Two teams headed in opposite directions. The Steelers have won five straight and haven't given up a touchdown over that stretch. Houston has lost five in a row. They may score a TD but that's about all.

Seattle 17, New Orleans 14

With two victories so far, the Seahawks need one more to equal the record for wins by an expansion team in its first year. The Saints are perfect candidates to provide it.

Cleveland 31, Tampa Bay 14

Everybody talks about New England and Pittsburgh battling for the AFC wild card berth. Don't forget the 6-4 Browns, who have a shot of their own.

Chicago 20, Detroit 7

The Bears are the best 5-5 team you'll ever see. Consider that two of their losses to Minnesota and Oakland were by a single point. The Lions won't get that close.

New England 21, NY Jets 17

The Patriots are hurting and the Jets are getting better. But the twain won't meet this week.

Denver 16, NY Giants 13

The Giants were walking on air last week after winning their first game. But the air's a lot thinner in Denver and the Broncos should bring them back down to earth.

San Diego 17, Buffalo 14

Something's got to give. The Chargers have dropped four straight and the Bills have lost six in a row. The guess here is that Buffalo will fall flat after being so high against Dallas Monday night.

Miami 21, Baltimore 17

The Dolphins are playing for pride and that's tough to beat in the Orange Bowl, even for the talented Colts.

Sports brief

DETROIT (AP) — Marvin Barnes, the Detroit Pistons' problem forward, pulled another disappearing act Thursday — this time failing to show up in court and answering a gun charge. But his lawyer succeeded in getting the case adjourned until Dec. 2.

Barnes, serving his third suspension by the National Basketball Association team, showed up later Thursday for a consultation with team physician Dr. Benjamin Paolucci, who checked his injured ankle.

Attorney Neil Fink represented Barnes before Wayne County Circuit Judge James Canham in Romulus, Mich.

Barnes is charged with having an unloaded revolver in his briefcase as he was about to board an airliner at Detroit Metro Airport Oct. 9.

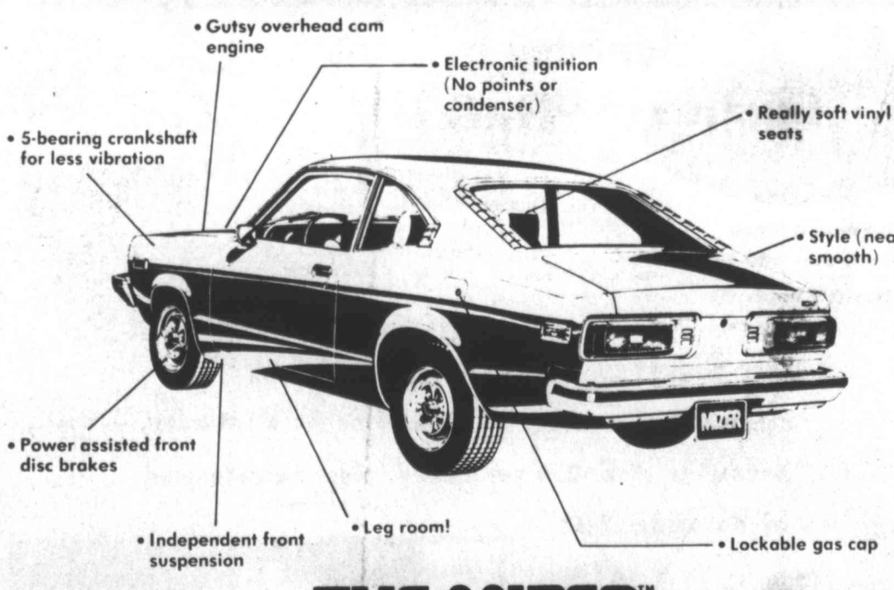

Fink asked for more time, and said he planned to go to Providence, R.I. and consult with law officers about a warrant issued there Monday for Barnes.

IUD pregnancy risk

BOSTON (AP) — The risk of dying from an infected spontaneous abortion is 50 times higher among women who wear intrauterine devices — IUDs — while pregnant, a federal study says.

The researchers say the figures dramatize the importance of women having their IUDs removed at the first sign of pregnancy.

IUDs are plastic birth control devices implanted in the uterus to prevent pregnancy. About 2 per cent of the time, however, they fail, and women become pregnant anyway.

The new study says that unless these women have their IUDs removed at once, they run a greatly increased risk of dying from infected, or septic, abortions that occur spontaneously, unlike those induced by doctors.

The research was conducted by the federal Center for Disease Control in Atlanta. It was published today in the New England Journal of Medicine.

The doctors reached their conclusions after surveying the 50 deaths related to spontaneous abortions that occurred in the United States between 1972 and 1974. During that time, they estimated that 115,000 pregnant women were wearing IUDs and 11.9 million were not.

They found about 15 deaths among every 100,000 women who kept wearing their IUDs while pregnant. Among women who did not have IUDs, there was only a fraction of one death per 100,000.

"We conclude that the risk of death from spontaneous abortion in the United States is over 50 times greater in women continuing a pregnancy with (IUDs) than in those without IUDs in place," the researchers wrote.

Until about two years ago, doctors left IUDs in place during pregnancy, because they feared removal would cause 1dpabortion. However, in 1974, the Food and Drug Administration urged doctors to remove the devices, if possible, during pregnancy because of mounting evidence that they caused complications.

Since then, the number of abortion-related deaths among women with IUDs has declined, the researchers said.

Soap trade-off

LOMBARD, Ill. (AP) — hard water requires more soap than soft water, according to the Water Quality Assn.

In hard water, soap or detergent acts as a chemical means of softening the water. The harder the water, the more soap or detergent must be added to overcome the hardness. Only when the hardness has been overcome can the soap or detergent actually start cleaning.

His drinking buddy is boozing bow-wow

DEAR ABBY: Have you ever heard of an alcoholic dog? I think I have one. Every weekend my husband puts away eight six-packs of beer with the help of Rudy, our 10-year-old cocker spaniel.

I am not putting you on, Abby. It all started when Don (my husband) gave Rudy a taste of his beer. Rudy loved it, so Don gave him some more, and pretty soon it got to be a regular thing. Now after a few beers, Rudy chases his tail, staggers around and finally falls down and goes to sleep.

Can all this beer hurt the dog? Don says it can't. I say it can. Rudy can hardly wait until Friday, and when he sees Don carry those six-packs out of the car, he gets so excited he nearly goes crazy.

I would ask our vet but I'm ashamed.

DON'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: My vet consultant says it is indeed possible for a dog to become addicted to beer. And I think anyone who would addict a dog is a dirty dog himself!

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my boyfriend's taste in clothes for me. When he goes shopping with me, or buys a gift of clothing for me, he always picks out something that's backless or so low in front I can't wear a bra. He also likes dresses that have long slits up the sides and hip-hugger pants that fit skin tight and show the belly button. He gave me a see-through blouse last Christmas and I haven't had the nerve to wear it yet.

I hate to hurt his feelings, but I feel uncomfortable wearing clothes that show so much. Am I too modest? Or do all guys like for their girls to dress this way?

MODEST

DEAR MODEST: All guys are not eager for their girlfriends to put on a skin exhibition. It's your body, and if you're uncomfortable in such get-ups, don't wear them for him or anybody else.

DEAR ABBY: No problem—I just thought you might enjoy a note our young daughter slipped under our bedroom door. It read:

DEAR ABBY: I have this real problem that only you can help me with. See, it's my parents. After 28 years of marriage, they still love each other! (Abnormal.) They still hold hands in public! (Disgusting.) They keep on telling me that they love me! (Humiliating.)

Do you think they should be committed for this? Say, to the Smithsonian Institution?

Signed,

POOR KID FROM UNDERPRIVILEGED MINORITY

DEAR POOR KID: Are you bragging or complaining? I hope you're bragging because your parents are something to brag about.

Clubhouse

Centerpiece

Members of the Rosebud Garden Club will hold a bake sale Saturday from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. in the Highland Shopping Center mall.

The club members are selling chances on a silver bowl centerpiece filled with Christmas candy. A winner will be selected at 5 p.m.

All money from the sale will go toward a fund to buy trees for civic beautification.

AAUW meets

The American Association of University Women met Monday at the Texas Electric Reddy Room.

Ms. Ivah Lou Parker and Ms. Helen Ewing served as hostesses. The sewing table was decorated with a Thanksgiving theme.

Ms. Estelle Anderson of the Treasure Chest Shop presented a program on Christmas crafts which members could make.

The next meeting is Dec. 6. The Foreign Wives Club will be guests of AAUW and will share facts about Christmas customs of their homes.

Members should bring covered dishes made from a foreign recipe and a children's book which will be donated to a children's project.

BPO does

Big Spring Drove 61 of the B.P.O. Does met in regular session Tuesday evening in the Elks Lodge hall.

Plans were made to help the Elks decorate the hall for the holiday season.

The Does will also serve refreshments to the children Dec. 20 after Santa Claus talks with each child and gives each a Christmas Stocking filled with goodies, at the Elks' annual Christmas tree party for members and their families.

The next regular meeting of the Drove is Dec. 7. Officers for 1977 will be elected.

The elected officers will be installed at the regular meeting at 8 p.m. Jan. 4 in the Elks Lodge Hall.

Christmas luncheon is planned

Modern Woman's Forum met Nov. 12 in the home of Mrs. H. M. Rowe for the Thanksgiving program. Mrs. Hugh Duncan presided. The Club Collect and Pledge of Allegiance were repeated in unison.

Plans were made for the Christmas luncheon to be held Dec. 10 in the home of Mrs. S. R. Nobles. Members will exchange gifts and sign Christmas greetings to be sent to shut-ins.

The program was given by Mrs. W. E. Singleton and Mrs. C. R. Moad. Mrs. Singleton spoke on Thanksgiving 18th Century vs. 20th Century. This is not a holiday originated by the Pilgrims but is one of the oldest of holidays. Different dates have been used. The spirit and purpose of the day have always been to gather after the harvest to give thanks. The Pilgrims brought this custom with them when they came to the new world. They gave thanks for the harvest and even more for the friendship of the Indians. Today we still have services of Thanksgiving and the traditional feasting.

Mrs. Moad spoke on the subject of Welfare. The problems our nation faces in the administration of it and of the misuses on the part of some who receive it, and of the benefits needy people receive. She concluded by saying that Thanksgiving is gratitude in action and that it is applying Albert Shweitzer's philosophy when he said "In gratitude for our own good fortune we must render in return some sacrifice of our life for other lives."

Prospectors

The Prospectors Club met Thursday evening in the Club Room at 115 E. 4th Street. Charles Leek, president, presided.

Officers for the coming year were elected. The new president is S. T. Cheatheam; with Harve Williams, vice-president; Myrtle Morris, secretary; C. M. "Bud" Lewis, treasurer; Virgil Perkins, program chairman; Mary Leek, historian; Edith Clark, hospitality; Frances Loftis, publicity; Letha Williams, bulletin editor; Mary Leek, assistant bulletin editor. Directors will be Charles Leek, Desmond Powell, Joe Mitchell, and Virgil Clark. The new officers will be installed at the January meeting.

A social affair was planned for the December meeting, with covered dish supper, followed by an auction. Each member should bring a "white elephant", gift-wrapped, for auction. The proceeds will go to the club and to a charitable organization. This party promises to be fun and it is hoped that all will participate.

Refreshments were served by Barbara Fitts, Alice Webb, and Johnnie Kemper.

Gun raid conducted at magazine shop

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Law enforcement officers have confiscated 12 weapons and arrested five persons in a raid on a magazine shop just three blocks from the federal courthouse.

Charged Wednesday with conspiracy to sell firearms without a license and selling firearms without a license were John Smith, 71; Edward Shull, 46; and three of his sons-Edward Jr., 26, Eric, 24, and Evan, 20.

Charles Lewis, an assistant U.S. Attorney who led the raid, said Thursday a "quantity of ammunition" was seized plus the 12 weapons, including a sawed-off rifle.

"We had these persons under surveillance for several months," said Lewis. "The investigation was conducted jointly by the U.S. attorney's office, the Cameron County Organized Crime Task Force, Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms agents and the Mexican federal judicial police."

The five men were arraigned before a U.S. magistrate who set a $15,000 bond on Shull and $2,000 bonds on his sons.

The 71-year-old Smith was released on a $10,000 personal recognizance bond.

'High' vote in Oklahoma

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 94 per cent of the voters registered in Oklahoma as of last January voted in the Nov. 2 presidential election, the highest proportional turnout in the nation, the Library of Congress reported Thursday.

The study was requested by Rep. Tom Steed, D-Okla., who heads the subcommittee which handles the library's appropriations.

It was unusual, Steed added, because there was no gubernatorial race or Senate race on the ballot. The only statewide race was for a spot on the state Corporation Commission.

But Steed said, "I think the liquor-by-the-drink thing just about offset it."

A liquor-by-the-drink constitutional amendment was defeated.

Oklahoma had 1,929,000 persons eligible to register and vote. Of those, 1,140,000 registered.

The second highest state in comparable voting participation was Iowa with 89.03 per cent; Utah with 86.02 per cent, and Kansas with 83.59 per cent.

Texas third in tourism

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas shot ahead of New York last year for third place in the states' competition for the $75 billion United States travel market, the Texas Tourist Development Agency said Thursday.

The tourist agency said Texas' share of the 1975 travel market was $5 billion, according to the U.S. Travel Data Center.

It was surpassed only by California with $8.6 billion and Florida with $7.1 billion. New York, which had been third for years, fell to fourth with $4 billion of the market.

Included in the study, the tourist agency said, are all round trips of 200 miles or more. This means that the amount some Texans spend traveling within the state is counted in the overall sum.

Texas' $5 billion represents 6.7 per cent of the national market, up a full percentage point from 1974, the tourist agency said.

Bomb threats lead to jail

WEST ORANGE, Tex. (AP) — Two men were arrested here Thursday in connection with bomb threats made this week against the American Bridge Co. of Orange, police said.

Officers said Steve Cunningham, 20, of Vinton, La., and Rodney Lynn Cooper, 20, of West Orange were arrested and charged with making "terroristic threats."

Justice of the Peace Claude Wimberly said $10,000 bond was set for each man. A police spokesman said no bombs had been found at the plant.

Ridin' fence

It's a small world

with Marj Carpenter

Mrs. Leila Meacham, head of the Officers Wives Club at Webb Air Force Base was sitting beside me this week at the Base-Community Council.

She turns out to be a really sure-nuff West Texas girl from Wink, the parking lot capital of the world. For those of you who do not remember the time that Wink made the national news, it was back when it became one of three Texas cities (?) to vote for the old Urban Renewal projects.

The main thing that the project did in Wink was to tear up old vacant buildings and replace them with landscaped parking lots. They had about a block parking lot per store and they made national fame as the parking lot center of the world.

But back in the old days, Wink had some fierce Wildcat football teams that didn't allow anybody to talk ugly about them. They would lay it on you — even if you were a larger school, back when Coach Glen Frasier coached the Wildcats. Leila remembered those days which were in the late 50s.

But there's no way anybody as young looking as Leila Meacham can remember the rip and roaring oilfield days in Wink.

But there are Big Springers who have worked for years in the oil patch who remember. Wink was a tent city back in the Roaring '20s. And they really roared over there. The nearest sheriff was in Pecos and was a fellow named E. B. Kizer.

Kizer had some interesting experiences, including the time he stopped Bonnie and Clyde tearing out across a West Texas highway. When he found out who they were, he just warned them that they were speeding and sent them on their way.

One of his favorite Wink stories was the time he was called to stop a fight between

LEILA MEACHAM
. . .West Texas Charm

an oil patch husband and wife. The husband was mad at the wife because she kept taking the car and not letting him use it. He was beating up the car with a sledge hammer and the wife was screaming and screeching. But the husband informed Kizer that, "It's my car and I'm going to tear this thing apart before she drives it again." He did.

Mrs. Meacham remembers a tale where a northerner (these Yankees around our office say that is the correct term) met one of the Vest boys and came out to visit the ranch outside Kermit.

He was going down an endless road and stopped to ask an old cowhand the way to the ranch, "Hey, feller," he said, trying to talk western, "Where's the Vest ranch?" He was directed on to the location and the house is quite a showplace. He went inside and greeted his old friend. The visitor commented on the grandness of the home. Then the host said, "Oh good, here comes Dad. I want you to meet my father."

The northerner turned to see what he had thought was the cowhand coming toward him. He was kind of embarassed. But he felt worse when Mr. Vest said, "Oh, we've already met. Just call me Feller."

That's the same part of the state where J. Evetts Haley has a zoo out in the endless area between Kermit and Mentone.

One poor soul was driving across there one day when an escaped kangaroo hopped out across the highway. It really upset the visiting motorist. At Mentone, he stopped and notified the highway patrol, "I either just saw a kangaroo or the biggest damned jackrabbit I ever saw in my life."

Sorry about that Leila. But meeting you was lots of fun and it gave me a chance to tell Winkler County tales — out where I have sometimes ridden fence.

Thanksgiving mail info

The U.S. Postal Service will operate on a holiday schedule next Thursday in observance of Thanksgiving Day.

No residential or business delivery will be provided. However, normal holiday service to lockboxes will be maintained, and special delivery service will be provided as usual.

CAP to observe anniversary Dec. 1

The Big Spring squadron of the Civil Air Patrol will join others throughout the nation in observing the anniversary of the founding of the humanitarian organization in 1941.

CAP was founded Dec. 1 by a band of patriotic, aviation-minded individuals who volunteered their services and privately-owned aircraft to assist in America's defense. During World War II, CAP pilots flew more than 24 million miles on anti-submarine patrol and thousands more miles on a variety of non-combatant missions for the armed forces.

Today, the all-volunteer force carries on the work started by those pioneers, flying humanitarian mercy missions, conducting air search and rescue efforts, promoting general aviation and aerospace supremacy for the nation, providing aerospace education and experience to selected youths, promoting international good will, maintaining an emergency communications network, and assisting in saving lives and property in areas of disaster or crisis.

Agreements with Civil Defense agencies in all states provide for CAP assistance in civil defense in case the nation should ever be attacked. To this end, CAP members train in civil defense techniques to maintain a constant state of readiness.

National Headquarters for Civil Air Patrol, official civilian auxiliary of the U.S. Air Force, is at Maxwell Air Force Base, Alabama.

The Big Spring squadron of the Civil Air Patrol meets every Monday night from 7:00 to 9:00 in the Civil Defense Building. Visitors are welcome. The local squadron is planning to move to new meeting facilities at Webb Air Force Base in early December.

Fishing expedition in Honduras viewed

A pictorial report on a fishing expedition to Lake Yojoa in the mountains of Honduras, along with sidebars on the country, was given to the Downtown Lions Club at its Wednesday meeting in the Settles.

Tom Henry and Vic Keyes described fishing in lake water that was so clear that much of the fishing had to be done at night. The lake, situated almost on the Tropic of Cancer, is bounded by mountains and impenetrable jungle. However, in the lower country where their airline landed, there are plantations for raising bananas, pineapples, sugar cane, and in the foothills, coffee beans.

Evidence of the instability of the government was seen in pictures of gun emplacements at two airports at which they landed. The remote lake was impounded as a source of irrigation water for the United Fruit Company, they said.

Ed Shive, president, and Virgil Perkins, district cabinet secretary, led a delegation of Evening Lions Club to visit the Downtown group. Two Christmas projects were announced by President Gary Bradbury — collecting for the Salvation Army Christmas fund on Dec. 11, and participating in the Big Spring State Hospital party Dec. 14. The Lions Auxiliary, he said, was to have a covered dish affair at Pioneer Gas Flame Room Thursday evening.

222 cases pending

District Clerk Peggy Crittenden and County Clerk Margaret Ray sent their monthly totals for October in to the Texas Judicial Council. The figures record the number of cases pending at the beginning and end of each month and the types of dispositions made during that period.

In the 118th District Court, 205 criminal cases were pending at the beginning of the month and 222 pending at the end. Of the dispositions, only one was made in trial of Jay Doug Ingram.

Twnety-five persons were indicted during the month. A total of 1,386 civil cases were pending at October, 1 and 1,398 at the end of the month.

In County Court, 717 criminal cases were pending at the beginning of the month and 694 at the end.

Eighteen pleas were of nolo centendere or guilty, 69 cases were dismissed.

In civil actions, 215 were pending at the beginning of the month, 216 at the close.

Five dispositions were made, 3 dismissed, 2 either defaulted or agreed.

Three hopefuls

ABILENE — Three candidates remain in the field of those being considered for the office of superintendent of local schools in the Independent School District, with indications the board of trustees may decide the winner as early as Tuesday night.

Holiday dinner for city's poor

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Roast 175 turkeys, season with 50 pounds of salt, serve with 700 pounds of potatoes and eight cases of cranberry sauce, and you might have enough Thanksgiving dinner for all of a city's poor.
