MARTIAL LAW THREATENED FOR NEW ORLEANS

Texan Shoots Wife And Four Mexicans, Then Kills Himself With Big Knife

TAFT FARMER RUNS AMUCK WITH SHOTGUN

Coroner Returns Verdict Of Self Destruction After Tragedy

WOMAN LOSES HAND

Widow Blames Quarrel With Husband For Shooting

TAFT, Texas, Aug. 13. (AP)—Charles Hassold, 65-year-old farmer, was found dead in the backyard of his home here today with his throat cut and a butcher knife by his side. Mrs. Hassold was in a hospital with her right hand shot off and four Mexicans, whose names were not known, were slightly wounded by shooting.

Mrs. Hassold received several gunshot wounds in her body.

Shoots Into House

She told officers she had an argument with her husband. She said she ran into a Mexican house on the premises and that as she opened the door Hassold shot through the opening, bird shot striking her and four Mexicans.

Verdict by Coroner Will Frank of Taft was that the death was due to knife wounds self-inflicted.

Later reports were that Mrs. Hassold's hand was not shot off. She had attempted to grab a gun in Hassold's hand as he fired.

Sheriff Investigates

Mrs. Hassold ran a quarter of a mile to the nearest neighbor's home and was taken to a Taft hospital where she was expected to recover. Sheriff Frank Hunt of San Patricio county and Deputy T. H. Gay investigated.

The man and women had argued, it was said, until 3 o'clock this morning over financial matters. Mrs. Hassold owned property Hassold wanted to sell, and Mrs. Hassold had refused her permission.

Child Sleeps in Seat As Bandits Take Car

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 13. (US)—A 3-year-old boy was found sitting quietly in an abandoned automobile here this afternoon almost 24 hours after it had been stolen from Bath, N. Y.

The boy, Edmund Stanton, was asleep in the rear of the auto when it was stolen last night from in front of the Bath hospital. The child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stanton of Nelson, Pa., left him there, while they were visiting their nephew, Arnold Boyce, 15, a patient.

Edmund was unharmed and apparently none the worse for his trip with the auto thieves. The finding of the child and the car ended a state-wide search that started after his frantic parents discovered the theft.

Bobbitt Offers to Resign if Charge Of 'Unethical Conduct' Is Proven

Circular Published Just Before First Primary Brings Reply From Attorney General; Allred Challenged

AUSTIN, Aug. 13. (AP)—Attorney General Robert Lee Bobbitt in a statement issued from his office today offered to resign if charges that he had been guilty of unethical conduct in the trial of a suit here in June could be substantiated.

The accusations, he said, were in a circular given state-wide circulation just before the first primary, declaring that his office had allowed attorneys for a major oil company to advise and work with the state in a suit of an independent operator against the state railroad commission.

Allred Challenged

As an alternative, he proposed that if the charges were found false, his opponent in the race for attorney general, James V. Allred of Wichita Falls, "make public retraction and apology for having circulated false charges."

Bobbitt asked appointment of a committee from the State Bar association to investigate the accusations.

The circular consisted principally of reprints of news reports on the trial of a suit brought by L. C. Thurman, Fort Worth independent operator, against the state railroad commission here last June, emphasizing that oil company attorneys were working with Dewey Lawrence, assistant attorney general, in the trial.

Thurman Wins Suit

Thurman sued for and won the right to drill a second well on a narrow strip 1,000 by 60 feet, in the Darst creek field, leased from Guadalupe county, the permit having been denied him because he had insufficient land to comply with the commission's rule that wells must be 150 feet apart. Recently Thurman sold the strip to the Humble Oil company for an unannounced consideration.

It was explained that oil com-

R-100 LEAVES FOR ENGLAND

British Airship Departs With Engine 'Missing'

ST. HUBERT AIRPORT, Que., Aug. 13. (UP)—The R-100, Britain's big airship, rose from St. Hubert airport at 8:30 p. m. E. S. T. tonight and disappeared down the St. Lawrence valley toward the North Atlantic and England.

The great dirigible was hitting on but five of its six engines, but Squadron Leader Booth, in command, said he did not desire to postpone the departure.

The starboard forward motor was silent as the great dirigible—the largest afloat—moved away from the tall mooring mast at St. Hubert field, on its homeward flight. It was damaged while the R-100 was landing on Monday after a short flight to Ontario, the only flight made during the 12-day stay in Canada.

The loss of the engine's effectiveness was not regarded as a considerable handicap. It was asserted the other five would provide sufficient power for the 3,400-mile voyage to the dirigible's home field at Cardington.

The R-100 moved away from the mooring mast half an hour earlier than the time previously announced for the start.

The huge crowd at the field yelled itself hoarse. Automobile horns added to the terrific noise as the big ship warped away from the tall mast and moved gracefully into the cool, clear night.

The weather was perfect. Good weather was forecast eastward and over the Atlantic for the next few days.

The noise continued for many minutes as the dirigible rose higher into the air. The cheers died out gradually and horns honked and shrieked and were silent as the twinkling running lights, red and green, on the gondolas, dimmed and disappeared.

The airship was visible in Montreal, 10 miles distant, as it gained height and speed and moved rapidly away.

SUN PUSHES MERCURY TO NEW HEIGHTS

Vernon, Waurika, Olney, Memphis Report Marks From 106 to 114

107 DEGREES HERE

Low Barometer Reading Brings Hope of Break In Heat Wave

With almost six weeks of blistering weather already on the books, the prolonged heat wave tightened an unrelenting grip on Wichita Falls and her neighbors Wednesday, sending the mercury up to the season's record for a fourth time here and reaching new peaks in other cities.

The lowest barometer reading in months, 28.00, recorded while the mercury lingered at 107 degrees, presaged some imminent change which the sweating populace felt could only be for the better.

Vernon held her lead in the heat marathon, with a reading of 114 degrees, but residents there looked askance at the unofficial thermometer in the belief that it was exaggerating.

Waurika, Okla., recorded 112 degrees, the record for the year. Registrations differed at Olney but struck an average of 104 degrees, although one recorder stood out for 108.

Memphis broiled at 106 degrees, but tried to like it, that temperature being four points below the maximum. Electra made the same showing during the day. From other towns in the section came reports of similar conditions, adding to the drought suffering and piling up a heat record against the season as the most severe in years.

RAINS DISPEL MIDWEST DROUTH

CHICAGO, Aug. 13. (US)—The drouth is broken.

Rain was falling tonight over regions that have had no rain in weeks.

The storm movement is in an easterly direction. It began just east of the rockies, bringing gentle showers, the rainfall increasing in volume with the movement east.

For three days the temperature had been below normal over most of the country and quantities of moisture collected in the upper atmosphere. A reaction to warmer weather set in and the rains quickly developed.

The tempeature in Chicago rose to 82 today from a high of 72 yesterday. A bright sun shone during the day but tonight the storm and rain clouds gathered.

At St. Louis the first rain in a month fell during the day. Rain was general over Northern Missiuri where drouth had left the country perishing for water. Northward, over Iowa and eastward over Illinois, the rain fell in quntities sufficient to start water flowing in small streams that had run dry. Livestock will be immensely benefited by revived pasturage and late crops will be saved. A late truck crop and increased potato yield will also be assured.

Payne Reads Newspaper Account of Slaying

STINNETT, Texas, Aug. 13. (UP)—A. D. Payne, held for the bomb murder of his wife, read news accounts of his case avidly tonight as he fretted in his cell over the delay in bringing him to trial.

Payne, former Amarillo attorney, and self-admitted "menace to society," said he hoped that when others read the stories of his description of killing his wife they would see the absurdities in his reasoning and avoid the course into which he has fallen.

Captain Frank Hawks Recaptures Transcontinental Flight Honors

CURTISS FIELD, L. I., Aug. 13. (US)—Capt. Frank Hawks broke the transcontinental west to east flying record when he landed from Glendale, Calif., this evening at 6:41 o'clock.

His flying time was 12 hours and 25 minutes.

He beat the Lindbergh record made last Easter by two hours and 25 minutes.

In the crowd of several hundred people waiting for Hawks at the field were his wife; Sir Hubert Wilkins, antarctic explorer, and Lady Wilkins; Clarence Chamberlain, transatlantic flier, and many other notables in aviation. The mayor's committee on reception of distinguished visitors was represented by a delegation headed by George Mann.

Hawks' triumphant flight and landing was made despite a combination that had worried the superstitiously inclined. He sped across the continent on the 13th day of the month in a plane called "The Texaco 13" and with a department of commerce license numbered 13-13.

Hawks took off from the Glendale, Calif., air terminal at 6:16:27 a. m. eastern daylight time, driving down the long runway at terrific speed in his red and white monoplane.

His machine had a possible speed of 250 miles an hour and a landing and take-off speed of 90 miles an hour. He was favored with good weather conditions at the outset. Light cross winds prevailed to Albuquerque, N. M., but he was helped by tail winds that ranged from four to 25 miles an hour.

He reached Albuquerque at 6:04 a. m. (M. S. T.), refueled and was winging away again 15 minutes later. He swooped into Wichita, Kan., at 10:20:38 a. m. (C. S. T.), making the flight from Glendale in six hours, four minutes and 11 seconds, clipping 52 minutes from the record made by the Lindberghs. He said he had been favored by tail winds.

Fifteen minutes for refueling was enough for him at Wichita. He departed at 10:35:52 and sped to the ground at Indianapolis at 1:22 p. m. (C. S. T.), taking off, after another refueling at 1:35, for New York.

CAPROCK GIVES 'JIM' A THRILL

Ferguson Speaks for Wife In Floydada

By HARRELL E. LEE
Associated Press Staff Writer.

FLOYDADA, Texas, Aug. 13—James E. Ferguson came up on the "caprock" tonight to tell the "Ma" Ferguson people of the plains country why his wife should be elected governor.

The former governor still was in the territory of Senator Clint Small's strength in the first primary, but his wife received more than half as many votes as the West Texas senator in Floyd county.

A friend drove Ferguson from Clarendon, in the Panhandle, where he spoke last night. He enjoyed the scenic grandeur as he climbed upon the caprock over a steep, rough, narrow road, but was considerably worried when the driver took one hand off the wheel to point out the remarkable views.

Ferguson's talk was much the same as the others he has delivered since the run-off started. He did not spare his political opponents, prefacing his remarks with an explanation that they had introduced personalities into the campaign with their talk of "honesty in government" and character attacks on "me and my good wife."

The speaker took advantage of his presence in West Texas to state he helped pass the Small land bill

Confession Names Two In Bombing

MURPHYSBORO, Ill., Aug. 13. (AP)—A confession by Paul Montgomery, 25, local aviator, that he was hired by two or three men to pilot his airplane in a bombing raid over the Providence, Ky., coal field early Monday, and that one of the men accompanied him on the trip, was in the hands of department of justice and county authorities tonight.

State's Attorney Fletcher Lewis said Montgomery had named two men, but withheld their names pending their arrest, expected shortly. Reports from some other official sources were that three men had been implicated.

Earlier in the day officials had denied that Montgomery had named any accomplices.

Montgomery's story, according to Lewis, was that after he was hired to go on the bombing raid he was told he and members of his family would be killed if he did not carry it out. He said he received no money but was promised financial reward, the amount not being specified.

The state's attorney said Montgomery confessed that the dynamite bombs dropped on the mining community, but without loss of life or property, were made at the local airport by two men, one of whom took them in a sack and accompanied him when he took off for the 90-mile flight to the mining district before dawn Monday.

Montgomery was quoted as saying he maneuvered his plane so that none of the bombs would land on homes or mining properties where any damage would be done or persons injured. He then returned his passenger to the field here.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13. (US)—Charges that a $1,000,000 slush fund was used in West Virginia to win the Republican senatorial nomination for James Ellwood Jones were made today in Labor, newspaper organ of the railroad labor organizations.

Jones was termed a "hard-boiled anti-union coal operator," who is supposed to be the richest man in West Virginia. Jones had a plurality of 30,000 to 40,000 votes over three opponents for the nomination.

ROSS STERLING IN PANHANDLE

Pampa and Borger Hear Houston Candidate

PAMPA, Texas, Aug. 13. (AP)—Pursuing his contention that honesty in government is the big issue in the campaign, Ross S. Sterling of Houston, candidate for governor, told an audience here today that when he became chairman of the state highway commission after the Ferguson administration, the federal government had withdrawn its aid from Texas highways.

He denied he has fixed $350,000,000 as the amount of his proposed state bond issue and said an amendment proposed by the last legislature provided for an issue of $175,000,000 to be secured by the gasoline tax.

However, he said, "the bond issue is water by the wheel," as an issue when compared to honesty in government.

He said he did not blame voters here for not passing a bond issue last Saturday, because roads should be built from revenue of the gasoline tax.

He denied James E. Ferguson ever gave him assistance in alleged bank troubles, declaring his banks were never in doubtful condition and asserted he was never in Ferguson's office.

STERLING ATTACKS "BATHTUB LIES"

BORGER, Texas, Aug. 13. (AP)—In a short speech here today, Ross Sterling, candidate for governor, attacked what he said were "lies" about his road plan and his bathtubs.

"I am not trying to bond the people, but to unbond them," he said. "I don't believe in making a farmer living 20 miles from a highway pay for it, but to make taxes from gasoline and traffic do it."

He said Senator Pink Parrish, who accompanied him and made the opening talk, had heard the latest report as to Sterling's bathtubs. That the chairman of the highway commission had 29 bathtubs and 22 pianos in his home.

"I know I don't need that many bathtubs, and as for pianos I don't know a note of music," Sterling said. "We have one, however, and sometimes get people who visit us to play it."

Sterling said James E. Ferguson would need "more than 22 bathtubs, more than a dipping vat, to cleanse his soul of things he has said."

Many Flourishing Casinos Attacked in New Drive By Officials

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 13. (UP)—Gov. Huey P. Long today threatened to place New Orleans and two adjacent parishes under martial law if gambling was not stopped immediately. To back up his threat several detachments of Louisiana national guard were ordered held in readiness.

Long said he would hold the troops in readiness until he was convinced city and parish officials had the situation under control.

The parishes concerned were Jefferson and St. Bernardo. Both are suburbs of New Orleans.

Shutdown Ordered

Action of the governor followed orders from Attorney-General Percy Saint for more than a score of gambling casinos in the two parishes to shut down.

"It is better to serve notice on them that I am holding the militia than calling it out," Long said. "It will give them a chance to clean up. Of course, if they don't take advantage of it, that'll be their own look out.

"Anybody that wants to report the operation of an illegal house," he continued, "is requested to get in touch with Col. E. P. Roy, acting adjutant of the state militia, immediately. Colonel Roy has been instructed already what he is to do when such information reaches him."

Coloney Roy refused to elaborate on the governor's statement when questioned.

G. O. P. Dealt Damaging Blows In Four State Primary Elections

By EDWARD L. RODDAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13. (US)—The Norris victory in Nebraska, probable loss of two Republican senate seats, and an unexpected flare-up of prohibition repeal sentiment in Ohio, were the disconcerting primary results facing the Hoover administration today.

Disappointed at the failure to retire the veteran insurgent George W. Norris, the Republican wheelhorses must swallow their pride and support him as the "regular" party nominee in the November elections. This will be a bitter dose in view of his constant assault on Hoover policies, particularly on Muscle Shoals.

Norris may need the aid of all factions as he is facing a worthy foeman in exSenator Gilbert Hitchcock, the Democratic nominee.

The Democrats have high hopes of capturing two Republican seats through the nomination of the blind ex-Senator Gore in Oklahoma and former Representative Robert J.

Jackson and O'Brine Set Goal At 1,000 Hours After Retrieving Record

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 13. (AP)—The world's premier sustained flight pilots, Dale Red Jackson and Forest O'Brine, tonight rode the air above Lambert-St. Louis field in their trim cabin monoplane Greater St. Louis as champions once more.

After breaking the world's refueling endurance flight record at 9:52 a. m., these two veteran skydwellers nosed their craft toward a goal of 1,000 hours in the air. At 4:11 p. m. Jackson and O'Brine had been aloft 961 hours and 40 minutes.

Soon after word had been spread that "Red" and "Obie" had recaptured the record, congratulatory telegrams began to pour in.

A small crowd at the airport cheered lustily, standing in a driving rain to watch the Greater St. Louis sweep gracefully over the field just above their heads.

The celebration in St. Louis consisted chiefly of noise. Fire department sirens sounded, factory whistles were blown, and impromptu noise-making devices added to the din. At the airport aerial bombs heralded the new record.

'JIM' ASSAILS MOODY'S WORK

Panhandle Cities Hear Ferguson

over Governor Moody's veto, pointing out that Moody is one of the chief supporter's of his wife's opponent, Ross S. Sterling.

A "restoration of business management" in the penitentiary system and a firm stand against penitentiary relocation were promised by Ferguson if his wife should be elected. He said the prison system did not lose "a dime" while his wife was governor and declared escapes during her administration were not as many as during three weeks of Moody's tenure.

"Moody put a civil engineer in charge of the prison farms; no wonder the prison system lost money," Ferguson said.

He declared the way to prevent escapes and make convicts work was to pardon those who made good records. He charged Moody acted like "a brute" in refusing clemency in deserving cases.

"My wife made a few mistakes in pardoning convicts," Ferguson said. "All of us make mistakes, but all of the pardons were given in good faith."

He charged that several persons attacking his wife's pardon record were busy seeking to obtain paroles for their friends and clients while Mrs. Ferguson was governor.

Ferguson defended the highway record of the Ferguson administration.

He told his audience his wife was for old age pensions and an elective highway commission. He said the highway commission spends more money and has more business than any other department of the government.

"I am for bringing the government closer to the people," he said.

Again he denounced the highway bond issue, asserting the plan called for all highways to be of concrete and said the "cement trust" would make from $5,000 to $7,000 a mile on the roads.

N'Orleans Faces Martial Law

there were 42 gambling casinos operating openly within a radius of four square blocks in the heart of the downtown business section.

"I do not contemplate putting the militia in action tonight," he told the United Press, "but I most certainly will declare the city under martial law if New Orleans authorities and city police do not close them down at once."

He said he would hold the militiamen in reserve until the police and parish officials presented proof that gambling had been halted.

Governor Long said he had not yet warned city authorities of his action, but said his statement, released to the press, would serve to bring their official notice to the matter.

Racing Attacked

The controversy over gambling in New Orleans started Tuesday when District Attorney Eugene Stanley, in an appeal to New Orleans business men, demanded that action be taken to close the fair grounds, winter racing resort, and Jefferson park, a track in Jefferson parish.

Stanley said free and open gambling, at race tracks and gambling casinos, as it now exists here, was sapping the economic life of the city.

Following Stanley's statement, Attorney General Percy D. Saint last night ordered all gambling places in St. Bernardo and Jefferson parishes closed. More than twoscore resorts were closed.

Saint threatened to bring impeachment proceedings against law enforcement officers of the two parishes if they continued to allow the casinos to operate.

Leader Perez, district attorney of St. Bernardo parish, in an open statement defied Saint to show cause why, "or how," he could institute the proceedings.

Following a conference with political leaders of the two parishes, which are considered Long's strongholds, he issued the order for the national guard to stand in readiness, and a statement to the press to the effect that "Saint was trying to shield his friends, the gamblers in New Orleans."

Oklahoma Demo Lines Hold As Defeated Candidates Pledge Support

'Tom and Bill' Form Alliance While Primary Opponents Forget Campaign Wounds

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 13. (AP)—Two old political war horses of Oklahoma had formed the team of "Tom and Bill" tonight to wear Democracy's colors in the November general races, and their erstwhile primary opponents, both wealthy oil men, had forgotten the wounds of a bitter campaign to join them.

Nearly complete returns from yesterday's run-off primary election found the lead of W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, Democratic nominee for governor, over Frank Buttram, Oklahoma City oil man, swelled almost to the 90,000 mark. Buttram, who had carried on a sarcastic personal campaign against Murray, announced he would support the party ticket.

The lead of Thomas P. Gore, nominated to the senate once more after 10 years of political oblivion, grew to nearly 40,000 and C. J. Wrightsman, Tulsa oil operator who was defeated, congratulated Gore and urged "united support" of the ticket in November.

Senator W. B. Pine, of Okmulgee and Ira A. Hill of Cherokee will represent the Republicans in an uphill race against Gore and Murray. Oklahoma has a 23-year record of never electing a Republican governor, and Hill, to break the precedent, would have to be the beneficiary of a bad Democratic party break.

Apparent defeat of several state officers and close races engaged in by others held attention tonight.

Charles W. Mason, flying chief justice of the state supreme court, seeking Democratic re-nomination, was considerably behind J. Howard Langley of Pryor.

Justice Albert C. Hunt, of Tulsa, fell slightly behind tonight in a close run-off race with Edwin R. McNeill of Pawnee, district judge. Justice Fletcher Riley of Lawton was re-nominated in the first primary of July 29. Only three of the nine justiceships will be voted upon this year, as the court is a continuous body.

TEXAS CROPS IN POOR SHAPE

Federal Report Reveals Farm Conditions

AUSTIN, Aug. 13. (AP)—Cotton and corn were in urgent need of rain on Aug. 1, with the indicated production of those crops still above last year's production, the monthly crop report of Carl H. Robinson, senior statistician for the United States department of agriculture here said today.

Cotton was at a critical stage the report said. A general rain followed by favorable weather conditions could improve the crop while continuation of the dry weather over the northern half of the state could easily couse deterioration.

Corn reports varied from good in portions of the south and southeast, to near failure in the severe drouth areas of the west and east. Most of the corn was ripe but late corn needed rain urgently.

4,496,000 Bale Crop

Indicated production of cotton was 4,496,000 bales compared with 3,940,000 bales a year ago, equivalent to 61 per cent of normal. Corn production was estimated at 64 per cent of normal or a crop of 88,128,000 bushels and an averaged yield of 18 bushels per acre as compared with 86,127,000 bushels last year.

Grain sorghum was estimated at 59 per cent of normal, with the total production 46,368,000 bushels, practically the same as last year. Prospects were poorest in the important northwest counties, and the crop would benefit from a soaking rain. Rice was reported as 82 per cent of normal and the estimated production 8,200,000 bushels as compared with 7,524,000 bushels last year. Tame hay, deteriorating in the last month, was 65 per cent of normal, far below the five-year average. Production was set at 681,000 tons, this indicated yield being the lowest since 1918, with the exception of 1925. A year ago 744,000 tons were produced. The alfalfa condition was estimated at 68 per cent of normal and seed production was expected to be short.

Other Crops

Rain was needed for the broom corn crop in the northwest, but the indicated yield of 1,320 tons was slightly above last year when 1,200 tons were produced. Western peanut acreage was in need of rain, and the condition was the lowest in 15 years, again excepting 1925. Indicated production of sweet potatoes was 6,780,000 bushels, against 7,384,000 last year. The condition of pecans was much better normal, but it was still too early to forecast accurately the final production the report said.

Due to the cold winter, citrus fruits showed poor condition and there was no increase in bearing acreage, but to freezing of small trees. Quality was expected to be good.

The commercial peach crop this year was a near failure. With shipments about over, only 21 carloads have moved, whereas 569 carloads went out last year and 278 carloads the year before. Pears promise about 50 per cent of a normal crop of 325,000 bushels, against 455,000 last year. Apple and grape production promises to be smaller than a year ago.

TEXAS GUARDS POTATOES

AUSTIN (AP)—With the Irish potato industry growing rapidly in Texas, producers are concentrated on plans to keep potato plant diseases and pests out of the state. Producers are considering the advisability of a quarantine against importation of uncertified seed.

Nephew of Wichita Woman Injured In San Angelo Blast

Mrs. H. Thompson, 2206 Taylor, Wednesday received word that her seven-year-old nephew, Wilburn Olsen, had been seriously injured in an explosion of dynamite caps on a ranch near San Angelo. The blast fatally injured E. H. Farrow, Jr., 14-year old son of a Tom Green county rancher who with the little Olsen boy had dug 30 caps out of the ground near where a gas line was laid last year.

Persia Not Expected To Appeal to League

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Aug. 13. (US)—The movement of Turkish troops across the Persian border in an encircling maneuver concentrating on the Kurdish bands encamped near Mount Ararat, is unlikely to culminate in a Persian appeal to the league of nations, it was said here today.

The Turkish attempt to exterminate the rebel Kurds has heretofore met with no Persian opposition, and a Persian appeal to the league would have little effect, since Turkey is not a member. Furthermore, Persia, it is said, would be unable to prove that the country had made a serious effort to control the rebellious Kurds.

Dying Bandit Tells Of El Paso Activities

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, Aug. 13. (AP)—Rudolph Oakley, fatally shot during a holdup today, told police on his death bed that "I'll bet the El Paso police will be glad to hear of my death." He said it would "clear up a lot of stuff down there."

PRICES TROUNCE "COW"

AMES, Iowa.—During June, using New York butter extras as a basis for prices, it would have taken about 200 average Iowa cows to have given a farmer a return of $1,000 income per year above feed costs. But he would have had to milk but 29 producing an average of 350 pounds of butterfat a year.

R. L. BOBBITT DENIES CHARGE

Attorney General Offers To Resign Post

pany attorneys took an active part in the trial at the direction of the court after they had been denied the right to intervene, District Judge George Calhoun having held that as adjoining lease holders their interests were identical with those of the state.

"I have tried," Bobbitt's statement said, "to conduct my campaign in the same manner that I have tried to conduct my office. I have not tried to take unfair advantage of my opponent. Since he has made mention of this circular in his speeches, and since a special press agent was employed to write and circulate the articles (concerning the original trial) in various papers, reflecting on my character and the character of Pat M. Neff, chairman of the state railroad commission, I insist that we call upon the president of the Texas Bar association to appoint a committee of three to investigate these charges.

"If the committee is of the opinion that my assistant did anything wong or unethical in that case, or failed to do his full duty, I will tender my resignation. If it reports otherwise, then I call upon my opponent to denounce as a lie this circular that he has waved before the people of Texas, and to apologize to me and to the people of Texas."

ALLRED CHIDES HIS OPPONENT

ORANGE, Texas, Aug. 13. (AP)—James V. Allred of Wichita Falls, candidate for attorney general, panned his opponent, R. L. Bobbitt of Laredo, incumbent, in a speech today because he did not carry Hill county, where he was born and reared, in the first primary.

"In his opening speech at Hillsboro my opponent said if the rest of the state voted like 'old Hill county' he would be entirely satisfied with the result," Allred said. "If every county in Texas had voted like his home county, I would have led him by over 62,000 votes instead of the 30,000 that I bested him.

He is the only state candidate that I ever heard of as far back as I can look who couldn't even carry his own home county.

"As for myself, I am humbly grateful to my home county which gave me five to one against my opponent."

Primaries Jolt For Republicans

Bulkley in Ohio. Both are strong vote-getters.

Bulkley furnished the greatest surprise of the primaries by winning a substantial victory on his platform of dry law repeal. In the general election, he will face Senator Roscoe T. McCulloch, a dry Republican who was appointed to office, and whose statewide strength is an unknown quantity.

The overwhelming renomination in Arkansas of Senator Joe T. Robinson, the Democratic leader, was virtually a foregone conclusion. He will be re-elected for his fourth six-year term without opposition.

The nomination of John T. Bankhead in Alabama, who defeated Frederick I. Thompson for the Democratic nomination means that he will face Senator Tom Heflin in the November election. The latter must run as an independent, having been ruled off the primary ballot for bolting Al Smith in 1928.

Bankhead is an able lawyer but his conservative policies will make him a good target for Heflin to shoot at, especially his record on Muscle Shoals. Heflin will seek to show that his opponent was tied up with the power interests trying to grab off the government's huge plant.

The Norris victory was particularly significant because the old guard had been gunning for him since he bolted President Hoover to support Al Smith in 1928. Likewise he had the opposition of the power trust, which smarted under his success in keeping Muscle Shoals out of their hands for the past 10 years.

Charles W. Bryan, brother of the late William Jennings Bryan, staged a political comeback by capturing the Democratic gubernatorial.

Police Probe Sudden Death of Beaumont Man

BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 13. (UP)—Officials tonight were investigating the death of W. H. Moody, insurance man, who died here today, after being brought to the emergency hospital last night, seriously ill.

A. F. Davis, who brought Moody to the hospital, was held for questioning last night but was released today. An autopsy was performed on Moody but no official verdict had been returned tonight.

Police Chief E. Kennedy said that physicians had informed him that Moody died of acute alcoholism. He said he did not expect any charges would be filed.

Moody was released from jail last week on a liquor charge, the police chief said.

Moody had been here four months. He formerly lived in New Orleans.

Palestine in Arms Over 'Booze' Epithet

PALESTINE, Texas, Aug. 13. (UP)—A storm of protest was brewing here tonight over the publication in Outlook, an independent magazine of a long article which branded Palestine wetter than before prohibition and states that only negroes and small-fry bootleggers are being prosecuted.

The article is entitled "Booze in Texas." It deals intimately with local conditions and was written by Edouard Angly, Paris, France press correspondent and son of J. E. Angly, president of the East Texas National bank here.

The writer was reared in Palestine.

Strawberries kept from runners last year showed a 33 per cent stronger yield this year, according to the Oregon agricultural service.

Whisky Plant Captured On Iowa Park Road

One man was arrested, a new 50 gallon still was seized, and 64 gallons of whisky confiscated in a sheriff's department raid on a house off the Iowa Park road seven miles from Wichita Falls late Wednesday afternoon.

The still and liquor were stored in a small barn-like structure back of the house. The whisky was held in six 10-gallon kegs and a five gallon jar. The owner of the property and his wife offered no resistance when the raiding party arrived. Charges will be filed against the man Thursday, Sheriff W. G. Bralley announced. He was accompanied on the raid by deputies George Garrett, Charlie Gant, and Dick Morris.

SAD PART OF IT

Stills Beside 'Old Mill Stream' Disabled By Drouth

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13. (US)—The drouth has made many sections of the country dry in more ways than one, it was revealed at the prohibition bureau here today.

It has halted the ancient art of moonshining down by the old mill stream. Manufacturers of illicit liquor are dependent upon a cool and flowing branch to chill the copper coils of the still which produces corn or rye.

With streams dry there has been a curtailed production and soaring prices.

Guinn Williams of Texas is among the four members of senate and house chosen to make an inspection of the Samoan islands for the purpose of recommending legislation for the government of these dependencies. The commission will draw up an organic act, which will form the basic law of the islands and will include a bill of rights. The islands have been governed under local laws which are based on the customs of the people, on laws of the United States and on the common law of England.

FORT WORTH LEADER DIES

Death Takes J. W. Spencer At Age of 75

FORT WORTH, Aug. 13. (AP)—Funeral services for J. W. Spencer, 75, retired banker and merchant, who died at his home here today will be held Friday morning.

Long identified with many prominent Fort Worth institutions, Spencer retired from business several years ago. He had been seriously ill for the past few months.

Stepping into the vice presidency of the Farmers and Mechanics' National bank without previous banking experience from the wholesale grocery business which he owned, Spencer became president of the institution upon the retirement of its founder, John R. Hoxie, from that post in 1894, only a year after Spencer's entry into the bank.

Except for a brief interval, Spencer remained as president of the bank for 18 years, retiring from active business life in 1912. During that period the institution had consolidated with the American National bank. At the time of the absorption of the F. & M. bank by the Fort Worth National bank he was acting chairman of the board of directors.

Spencer was one of the founders of the Fort Worth board of trade.

'BUGS' MORAN QUITS CHICAGO

Deposed Gang Chief Goes To North Woods

CHICAGO, Aug. 13. (INS)—With the flight of George "Bugs" Moran to Minnesota Chicago's police today were satisfied that "Bugs" was out of the picture as far as Chicago gangland is concerned.

Moran, by moving into the North Woods fastness, he is reported to have set up near Brainerd, has violated one of the major laws of gang kings, it was pointed out. He has deserted his guns and as a result any attempt for him to return to racketeering here would most probably result in his death.

With Moran out of the picture, police were attempting to halt Ted Newberry from taking charge of the rich north side bootlegging trade. Newberry, is reported to have established himself on the north side with the aid of Scarface Al Capone.

So far, however, police have been unable to locate Newberry. Police visited the Lantern cafe, where he is supposed to have established headquarters, and found the place closed and locked.

Police also have been unable to pick up any of Ted's gangsters, to get a line on the new bootlegging syndicate reported formed to take over Moran's rich pastures.

It was thought probable here that Moran, after arranging for political protection, would establish himself in the Minneapolis "rackets." But no confirmation could be found.

Police here pointed out that as long as Moran remained away from Chicago, they were satisfied.

NORTH SIDE CLEANUP ORDERED

CHICAGO, Aug. 13. (AP)—A promise to put both gangsters and their lawyers in jail regardless of technicalities was made by Judge John H. Lyle today at a conference with North Side police captains.

Judge Lyle charged the district captains with the task of rounding up all gangsters in their precincts, particularly those listed in the crime commission's "who's hoodlum." "Go out and round them up and we'll clean up the North Side," the judge said. "The public has an idea the courts are technical, but you bring these fellows before me and they will not be turned out."

The judge gave each of the captains a list of the 26 public enemies described by the crime commission, the head man of them being Scarface Al Capone, who was reported to have ousted Bugs Moran from the North Side by installing Ted Newberry as his lieutenant.

George E. Q. Johnson, district attorney, referring to the plan of Chicago newspapers for setting up a special bureau for a drive against crime, said he would be glad to cooperate.

Judge Lyle instructed the police captains to "go through your districts with a comb. Don't be afraid to bring a man in, even if you have nothing against him. If necessary wake me at night and I'll confer with you then about what to do with the prisoners.

"I'll show you that hoodlums can be thrown in a cell. These fellows will have a lot of lawyers. If necessary, I'll throw them in jail, too. I will take the responsibility and if necessary lay my decisions in the lap of the appellate court and supreme courts."

Judge Lyle last week sentenced two gunmen to a year in jail and fined them $300, the maximum penalty for carrying concealed weapons. He denied them jury trials and was criticized by other jurists.

Rio Grande Rectification Proposal Submitted

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13. (INS)—L. M. Lawson, American member of the Mexico-U. S. international boundary commission, submitted to the state department today a plan for the proposed rectification of the Rio Grande which according to estimates would cost $6,106,500. Under the plan the United States would pay 38 per cent of the cost and Mexico 12 per cent.

The plan was worked out by Lawson and Senor Gustave P. Serrano, Mexican member of the commission, and if approved by both governments will be used as the basis of a Rio Grande agreement for rectification.

Man Swims River Daily To Keep Appointments In Canada

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 13. (AP)—Theodore de Mulver of Grosse Point, Mich., couldn't keep his appointment with David A. Croll, his Windsor, Canada, attorney, today for two reasons:

1.—The water in the Detroit river was too chilly.

2.—The police wouldn't let him.

The Grosse Point chief of police expressed De Mulver's regrets to Croll. Only then did the attorney learn that De Mulver, barred by immigration officials from entering Canada, had been swimming the river to keep his appointments.

De Mulver carried his clothes in a rubber bag and had made several such trips before police terminated the expeditions.

A report of findings will be submitted to the committee at Geneva before it is presented to the council. Miss Abbott has been a member of the league's women's and children's committee since 1923.

WHEAT FOR HOG FEED SHIPPED

Carload of Grain Goes to Cass County

FORT WORTH, Aug. 13. (AP)—Shipment today of a carload of No. 1 hard winter wheat, 13.56 per cent protein, from the Fort Worth market to Linden, Cass county, marked an epoch in the Texas grain trade, according to Young Davitte of the Transit Grain company, which made the shipment.

This car of choice grain will be used as hog feed when it reaches its East Texas destination—the first time in many years and possibly in Texas history, when the best grade of wheat has been bought in the open market and fed to hogs.

"This car sold at 97 cents per bushel," said Davitte, "and weighs 60 pounds to the bushel. The price compares with Wednesday's prices on other grains as follows: Mixed corn at $1.12 per 56 pound bushel; barley at 77 cents per 48 pound bushel; kaffir at $1.75 per 100 pounds, and milo at $1.85 per 100 pounds.

"It is expected that large quantities of this choice wheat—there is no other on the market—will now be taken by feeders as well as by feed mills as it is the cheapest feed on the market."

Tillman Grower Markets First Bale of Cotton

Special to The Record News

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug. 14.—The first bale of cotton was marketed in Frederick this season shortly before 4 p. m. Tuesday, Aug. 12, by Garland Thornton, residing in the Sanford neighborhood, southeast of this city. The load weighed 1,700 pounds and was taken to the Williams & Fry gin where it turned out a 411-pound bale. The cotton was raised on the L. F. Briggs farm and about 50 acres were gone over to get the bale. Thornton estimates the cotton will turn out a quarter of a bale an acre.

It was delivered to the Traders' compress and will be handled by the Oklahoma Cotton Growers' association.

Later Tuesday R. F. Whitaker brought a load of cotton which had been picked on his place north of Tipton, but hearing of the Thornton bale having arrived he returned to Tipton with his cotton. He marketed the premium bale at Tipton Monday.

'El Nacha' Arrested With Supply of Morphine

EL PASO, Aug. 13. (AP)—Ignacia Jaso de Gonzalez, known in Juarez as "El Nacha" and morphine queen of the border city, was arrested last night after an investigation by Feliciano Anaya, Juarez secret service agent.

American narcotic agents had been watching her many months in connection with alleged narcotic activities. When arrested the woman had 20 grains of morphine in her possession, Anaya said.

She is the wife of "El Pablote," known as the morphine king of Juarez. She was charged with trafficking in drugs in the Juarez federal court.

Anaya said the woman was back of the drug smuggling operations around El Paso and that she was one of the leaders in the Juarez dope ring.

She was seen frequently crossing the Santa Fe street bridge to El Paso and American officers searched her car thoroughly a number of times but were never able to find narcotics.

"Gang, or big game?"

"Rats and bugs," the defendant asserted. And, slinging his shotgun over his shoulder, Al Lidl went out to the slaughter.

RADIO BOARD'S PURPOSE TOLD

Lafount Explains Aims Of Federal Commission

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 13. (AP)—The aim of the Federal Radio commission is freedom of the air for America, freedom on radio waves high and low and betterment of reception through improved broadcast conditions, Harold A. LaFount of Salt Lake City, member of the commission, said here today.

"It is a plan according to which I like to work," LaFount said. "I believe it to be to the best interests of all to become acquainted with the problems of the broadcaster. Therefore, I have been traveling through Utah, Nevada, and other western states, just visiting around to see what I could learn."

The radio commissioner was questioned as to whether listeners might ever have to pay broadcasters for programs.

"I don't believe you'll ever see anything of that sort," he said. "It is the plan of the commission to keep the air of America free for everyone as is their right."

LaFount said in his opinion television probably will not be used extensively for several years.

"That is," he added, "not as a regular thing in our homes, although at least one station in the country is about to experiment by transmitting radio pictures to receivers in its city."

Biliousness Dangerous In Hot Weather

Don't take any chances with biliousness during this hot weather. For now is the time when it may lead to fever and chills. LITTLE STORIES OF FAST SUCCESSES
[NUMBER NINE] RAMON NOVARRO

His Spanish forebears conquered Mexico . . . won the country in ten brief years. But Ramon alone conquered America, conquered Europe, and all points east . . . in scarcely more than a camera's flicker

For Ramon gave the world a thrill!

And that's the tale of another young conqueror, OLD GOLD cigarettes. New England surrendered in just two months. "You win, OLD GOLD!" said the Middle West. From coast-to-coast the victory spread. And in just one year, OLD GOLD became the country's fastest growing cigarette.

Because OLD GOLD, like Novarro, offered the world a brand new thrill. Finer tobaccos gave a mellower taste. Better tobaccos ended throat-scratch.

A Lady Editor's Pen—Better Than a Rapier—The Marriage Price—Jobs for the Idle—

By EMILE GAUVREAU

Eleanor Patterson, who became editor of the Washington Herald on Aug. 1, loses no time in settling a little matter with Mrs. Alice Longworth. The lady editor inserts a piece on her front page and over her signature to the effect that Mrs. McCormick will take no advice from Mrs. Longworth in her senatorial campaign. "Mrs. Longworth cannot utter in public," writes Editor Patterson. "Her assistance will, therefore, resolve itself, as usual, into posing for photographs."

This will horrify social Washington, but Horace Greeley and Colonel Watterson would have called it good journalism. As a new editor, the former Countess Gizycka wants her paper talked about. She selects the most important figure in Washington society and fires a broadside at her. Mrs. Longworth should be advised to buy a full page advertisement in the Herald for her reply. That is what her father, "T. R." would have done under the circumstances. Making a few important enemies, Editor Patterson will find that her paper will acquire a flavor.

Exponents of modern marriage will view with approval the results of Mrs. Evelyn Marshall Field's Reno divorce. Besides a property settlement, Mrs. Field will receive $1,000,000 a year from Mr. Field. This should maintain her in the style to which she has been accustomed. The courts recognize marriage as a big business. Nowadays a lady's service as a wife can command big pay. Modern wives do not want to work for nothing.

Britain, following Germany, in an effort to check unemployment, has agreed to take up part of the $30,000,000 insurance on two 15,000-ton Cunarders. The construction of these ships was delayed because the London insurance companies were not prepared to underwrite the full amount of the risk. Now, with the government disposing of this difficulty, work will go forward at once. This means employment for thousands in ship-building, iron and steel and allied industries.

Any worthy enterprise in the United States that can give employment to hundreds and yet cannot continue operating for lack of funds should be helped in as liberal a manner as firms in England and Germany are helped. Our employment problem may not be as acute, but we are in a better position to meet it, if we care to use our resources intelligently.

In western farming regions the drouth is so serious that the situation is called to the attention of official Washington. The high temperatures are causing large losses in grain. This in turn pushes up the price in grain futures, making unthinking people in Wall street temporarily happy. But the income of the producer will not be helped by such a situation.

Mr. Woodruff, president of the Coca-Cola company and also president of the White Motor company, says the present business depression is chiefly psychological. Conditions will improve, he says, when we get back to normal vision and normal standards of comparison. That may be so. Thousands of little gentlemen who lost everything in Wall street last fall would say today that being flat broke makes psychology a very impressive study.

Another interesting item of news for the sophisticated New Yorker. Federal Attorney Tuttle offers evidence which indicates that a city magistrate had to pay somebody higher up $12,000 for his appointment. No wonder some of these gentlemen on the bench have been trying to get their buying price back in graft and corruption.

Most anybuddy 'll pay if they've got it, but the trouble is they buy things without havin' it. Speakin' o' the Lingle murder, it used to be a common thing for newspaper editors to lay for one another an' shoot it out long before the word gangster was ever dreamed of.

A New York man who stole a dollar watch the other day was sentenced from 20 to 40 years in prison. Had he taken a more expensive movement he might have been given a more correct time.

Now that roof-sitting endurance contests have begun, it will devolve upon future builders to make their roofs not only rainproof, but foolproof as well.

One of the enigmas of the present generation is that in spite of the prevalence of soap box orators, dirty politics still persists.

The Rights of Children

EVERY boy has a right to a marble game in his own back yard. And every little girl is entitled to a crooked apple tree under which she may spread her dolls and chairs and dishes and play at keeping house.

But the heritage is being removed. Back yards are going. Freedom to romp and dream is giving way to the god of efficiency.

Approximately one-half of all living accommodations being provided by new construction in cities of the United States are apartments, it is indicated by the U. S. labor department's latest study of city building activity. Data for the year of 1929, just made public, show that 48.6 per cent of all families housed in new construction last year moved into the apartment type of dwelling. There was a corresponding decrease in "single" houses.

Apartments may be time and labor savers for adults. They may simplify the business of housekeeping but they complicate the duties of home-making, if there are children in the family.

Four walls are not enough for any child. His kingdom lies outside, where the sun shines and the wind blows and his gang waits. But if there is no yard where he may wander and be contented his vision is going to become as dwarfed as a body which does not know the outdoor world.

A child is happier and healthier, more in tune with life, when he watches the seeds push through the soil in his own garden; when he hears the birds that sing at morning in his own trees; when he has a rope swing from which he can look far into the treetops, and a sand pile to make bridges and dams or mud cakes.

A child who is reared in an apartment house has no room for pets. A dog would be in the way. He can't bring a stray puppy home from school to warm and feed it now and then. Rabbits are beyond the pall.

He can't feel a sense of beauty stirring in his own strange little heart, just because the roses are pink and fragrant on the bushes and the sweet peas are beginning to grow. He doesn't even have a lawn to sprinkle, with the cool fine spray splashing his bare, tanned feet.

Little boys and girls have a thousand nerves to make them wiggle and not one to help them keep still. Apartment houses which boast of the living facilities which they can pack into a small amount of space, may be convenient for adults but plainly they were not intended for children. A red-blooded, strong-legged child certainly isn't going to be content to listen to the radio and read about others' adventures. He wants to go make some of his own.

There are other joys that he misses, too. A kitchenet hasn't much room for a cookie jar. It is too crowded for an eager-eyed little figure to sit on a stool and wait for the magic moment when he or she may lick the frosting bowl. Kitchenets and frosting bowls have little in common.

An apartment doesn't have an attic where a boy or girl may slip away to read through a long afternoon, rain coming down with a steady musical beat, shadows dancing in the corners.

An apartment doesn't instill a sense of pride in a childish breast, when a youngster sees yellow lamps in a little house and knows that it is his house. There isn't much fun in looking at a big brick building and saying you belong some place "up there."

Apartment houses may be convenient for their parents but they are pretty hard on the kids.

"Become as Sounding Brass"

BASING conclusions upon the numerous political campaign speeches delivered recently in this city, it might safely be declared that the great public gets a far greater kick out of a warm personal spat than from serious study of serious problems—and that "kick" is highest objective of life.

It would be hard to find a score of thinking persons who would deny that the country is faced today with economic and social maladjustments which have never been surpassed in seriousness. Presumably, governmental departments manned by elected representatives of the people will be expected to effect remedies for these diseases. No other plan for maintaining its social and economic health has been devised by democracy. Yet one must strain the campaign oratory heard here recently through an exceedingly fine screen of analysis to detect even scattered shreds of constructive thought in the eloquent flow.

To presume that the social and economic complexion of a state may be changed presto by seating this individual or that in the governor's chair is a myth. That chief executive of the state is presumed rightly, however, by the constitution to serve as the guide and mouthpiece of the state's voters in order to effect such changes as the public's collective intelligence deem expedient. For that reason, it would seem that a candidate who expects to be considered seriously for that high office would endeavor to reflect a serious concern with, and study of, basic elements in the prevailing condition within that state.

The exchange of ugly faces and ugly words in a purely puerile fashion and the presumption that such tactics suffice to inform the public on helpful governmental policies do the state little credit.

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Well, anyway, I'm not dancing with tears in my eyes . . . Nearly everyone is . . . Or drinking . . . I mean—and drinking . . . There's that what's-her-name-again? . . . Love-hungry . . . Husband-trouble . . . "Now, don't start analyzing me," she cooed . . . I wasn't analyzing her at all . . . I was merely trying to make gab . . . She probably was, also . . . She shouldn't drink . . . Four old-fashioneds and bing! . . . No woman should drink over two old-fashioneds . . . She had four—and it meant nothing—to have strange drunks plant long, wet kisses on her mouth . . . Pretty picture . . . She didn't think I saw it . . . Probably calls it Living! . . . Maybe it is . . . Wonder what her husband thought when she finally limped in? . . . Funny things, husbands . . . Narrow-minded . . . But she shouldn't drink . . . Maybe she drinks so she won't know what she is doing . . . Why don't they like to know what they're doing?

Darn old sun! . . . What the hell good is it, anyhow? . . . It's good for trees or flowers . . . "You ought to get out in the sun more often," they kept telling me for 10 years, "it will put color in your cheeks" . . . It nearly killed me the past four weeks, that's what it did . . . Sun makes heat . . . Heat makes you crazy . . . Keeps you from sleeping eight hours at a stretch . . . When it's nighttime and you have had sleep your fingers never ache . . . Your eyes never pain you and your bones aren't sore . . . Rotten old sun! . . . Poor little babies suffer so . . . And the people in the hospitals, poor things . . . It's cool when it's dark . . . You can work when it's dark, and when it's dark you can't get carbon-in poisoning . . . The sun will put color in my cheeks, will it? . . . How many people has it put in cemeteries? . . . All the Abbey Club nudes are round-shouldered.

Time evens everything . . . When he finds it out, and he probably will, he will then get a rough idea of what heartache means . . . It was all right for him to crash the other feller's girl two years ago . . . Oh, yes . . . And talk about it, so that the unsuspecting one could be tittered at by the mob . . . Well, things are different now . . . The one he is so knerts about is being adored by of all people, the kid he crossed in '28! . . . And how he laughed when the lad he crossed two years ago cried! . . . It is all so entertaining from the sidelines . . . I like being on the sidelines . . . None of the best-selling novels pack the wallop you get being on the Broadway sidelines . . . I'm a fiend, I guess . . . I get a thrill out of seeing a foul blow evened . . . When they foul you, hit lower, see? . . . Oh, well, everything's fair in Love and Broadway!

Never saw anyone die before . . . Wonder if he knew he was dying? . . . All over an argument in a card game, too . . . So he gets in a fist fight, and he chases the other guy . . . Somebody blows a police whistle and a panicky cop lets go with a .38, which goes through his belly into a shop window! . . . All I kept thinking was: Maybe he has a mother or wife or sweetheart waiting for him to come home . . . And here he is dying . . . He didn't seem to be worried, that's what I couldn't understand . . . Guess it's because you just can't believe you are going to die . . . "Do you suffer much when you get shot?" I asked Dolan, the dick . . . "No," he said, 'it's like a sting, that's all . . . A sting, he said . . . And then Hell . . .

They stopped that story about the daughter of one of New York's biggest department store owners . . . Such a good story, too . . . What do I care whether they own department stores or they are beggars? . . . A woman like her should be glorified in print . . . Twenty years ago her husband had a mess of jack and plus hers they were in the big-time division . . . Then the breaks turned sour, they dropped all their coin, he died, stranding her with kids, and she buys a tiny farm in Colorado with what she has left . . . She's still running it, too, making one of those so-called livings, and won't use any of her influence to be put back on Park avenue where she belongs . . . It must be tough to struggle like that . . . They call it "Guts."

Wonder why the Chase National bank won't give its depositors up-to-date checks? . . . They are still issuing blanks dated for the 1920 era . . . It takes 14 cigarets to write a column sometimes . . . Funny, the legends that are told about a guy . . . There's that new play for the Fall about a newspaper man . . . The first act finale will show a Broadway columnist promising an unwed mother that he won't print about her blessed-eventing . . . Then, after she tells him how grateful she is, and she exits, he is shown phoning to the composing room and instructing them to make it his opening line . . . "But I've never heard of any columnist doing such a foul thing!" I told the authors, who went through my files for gags to insert into their manuscript . . . "Oh, I know that," replied one of them, "but it will make a dandy first-act curtain!"

It must be terrible to have a guilty conscience . . . Heheheh, I must have worried them to death . . . Sent out clown wires to a few intimates simply to remind them that if they knew anything I didn't know for the Monday column to let me have it . . . 'Do you deny what I have heard about you?" I telegraphed them . . . And all of them either phoned or called in person, begging me to go easy with the whip . . . How! . . . Then there's that McClelland Barclay chap . . . Never met or saw him in my life . . . He writes me: "Dear Mr. Winchell. Have I ever run away with something you wanted? You often act as tho' I had. Please let me know. You arouse my evuriosity. Thank you" . . . Somebody probably ribbed him up and used my name . . . That's the way I'm going to get knocked off some day . . . It won't be because of anything I write about a person . . . My big problem is what to do with the type who tells people: "There were no names mentioned in the story, but someone who knows him said that Winchell said it was you!"

Were they glad to see their daddy! . . . And was their daddy glad to see them? . . . There's nothing so kissable as a baby's neck—that part right in back of the ears . . . Ooooh, did I take a bite out of these necks! . . . Babies smell so sweet . . . Baby skin is so sugary, and you can go plumb crazy from the thrill that comes with chewing up their chubby fingers, noses, cheeks and elbows . . . Walda, 3, was so cute with her excited tale of "the hot hot" that came on the train with her from California . . . "So hot, daddy!" she said breathlessly, "was so hot!" . . . "I come home to my daddy, and never leave him no more 'cause I, be baby, love him all much, my poor, poor daddy" . . . Her gorgeous hair and eyes are just like June's . . . And Gloria, beautiful Gloria . . . I can see her 10 years from now when she's 16 . . . Wonder if I'll amount to anything 10 years from now? . . . Anyway, Gloria's proud of me now . . . There was the time at the Professional Children's school and that Paramount scout called to interview kids . . . They wanted one for a Chevalier flicker . . . 'And what's your name?" he asked her. . . "Gloria Winchell!" she replied . . . "Well, well," the man said, "your father isn't the columnist—the dramatic critic?" . . . 'My father," Gloria stiffened, "is a newspaper man!"

"STEP-CHILD"

BY ROB EDEN

Kay Smith can recall nothing of her past, as the result of an accident. She loves Dane Talbot who is engaged to Julie Drew. At a night club with Gordon Drew, Kay goes to the corridor upon receipt of an unsigned note and is met there by a man and woman who apparently know her. Before she can ask any questions, the club is held up, and in the panic Kay goes with the strangers. The man sends her on home because his wife is ill.

CHAPTER XXX

Kay didn't know how, but when she opened the door for Dane she found herself in his arms. He was holding her close, kissing her hair, her eyes, her soft lips. Whispering words she could hardly understand.

"Kay—I thought something had happened—darling—"

His arms were so comforting. She wanted him to hold her forever. Finally he drew her to the couch, and his fingers brushed her hair from her forehead.

"I don't know why I'm talking on like this—I had to see you, dear. Know you were all right."

Kay could say nothing. Do nothing. She was too happy.

"I learned something tonight that I didn't know before." His lips tightened and a spasm of pain passed over his face. Kay saw a blue vein quivering in his temple. His hands dropped from her hair and clenched in his lap.

"Yes, I know now—but it took me a long time to find out—" He was speaking bitterly, passionately.

"I know—I love you, Kay. I've loved you ever since that day I saw you at the hospital . . ."

The girl held her breath.

"Tonight I was almost crazy when I thought you were lost. Nobody else mattered. Julie not at all. I had to come tonight to see that you were all right. I've thought about you day and night for weeks. You've never been out of my mind. I shouldn't be talking like this—but I can't help it. Oh, I know it's useless. You're in love with Gordon. I've seen your love for him dozens of times in your eyes. Tonight, when you looked at him, danced with him—"

She wanted to protest, but couldn't. The words wouldn't come. She seemed to be helpless, paralyzed.

"I know it's all hopeless, but I had to tell you. Of course you never could care for me. You're just a child, and I'm a big brother to you—"

He stopped suddenly. The room was very quiet, except for the ticking of the clock on the table. It grew louder and louder until it was oppressive, disturbing.

Incredulous

"I hope you'll be happy with Gordon—" Dane went on wearily.

"But I don't love Gordon, Dane," Kay had found her voice at last.

"You don't love Gordon?" He was incredulous.

"No—"

"Kay—could you love me—if you tried? Kay! Tell me!"

"I have—for a long time. I was afraid you knew—"

His arms were around her again, and his voice as he whispered in her ear was exultant.

"But, there's Julie—" It was Kay who spoke softly. Dane's arms fell away.

"Yes—Julie," he repeated flatly.

"She'll care—"

"I don't love her, now, dear. I don't, think I ever did. Believe me when I say that, will you? She's lovely, attractive, everything, but I think now I never loved her. Certainly I never loved her as I do you. It's all—so cruel. Meeting you, when I'd already asked her to marry me. It was just a week before I saw you, Kay, that I asked her. My aunt—well, she likes Julie—and I thought I loved her. I didn't know then what love was. I'll go to Julie and tell her. She'll understand."

Kay wasn't so sure that she would, but she said nothing.

"I'll go the first thing in the morning, and explain everything. Now I must go. You've got to get some sleep, and I have to go to the police station and report our losses. Did the robbers take anything from you?"

"I don't know. I left my purse on the chair at the Crystal Palace. There was nothing in it anyway—but a compact and a handkerchief."

They said goodnight, and Kay promised to meet him the following evening for dinner.

He was going to Julie in the morning. This frightened the girl. Julie might—be nasty. But surely she couldn't keep Dane if he did not love her. She must understand that.

She was slipping her crumpled dress over her head, shaking it out before she hung it up when she noticed a bit of paper fall from the bodice. The note which had been brought to her by the waiter. The man and woman in the corridor. Again she read it, remembering now, that she had tucked it in her bosom when the man had come forward to greet her.

They seemed to know her so well. She touched her forehead where the woman had kissed her. The woman called "Marion."

Everything had happened so quickly. The evening had been so confused. First the note, then the man greeting her, the woman kissing her. The struggle to get away.

Uncertain

She was positive, though, that neither the man nor the woman had called her by name. By any name. She hadn't heard the woman speak at all. She had been about to say something when the masked robber had joined the group. Did they really know her? Or had they mistaken her for someone else, as Jim Whalen had?

What would they have said if the masked robber hadn't come just then?

She tried to find something familiar about them. There was nothing except the haunting perfume. Heliotrope, was that it? With lavender. Taking the stopper from Edith's perfume she sniffed it, then put the stopper back. Peculiar that she couldn't decide why she knew this perfume the woman used. She knew, though, that she was familiar with the odor. Whether recently, or in her past, she couldn't tell.

Too happy to worry any more about the note and the perfume, she went to bed and dreamed of Dane.

He loved her. That was everything that mattered. Loved her. From the first, as she had him.

There was a twinge of pity when she thought of Gordon. A flicker of something like fear when Julie came to her mind.

In the morning, she sang as she

Dane was holding her close, kissing her hair, her eyes, her soft lips.

Answers to Questions

Did you ever write a letter to Frederic J. Haskin You can ask him any question of fact and get the answer in a personal letter. Here is a great educational idea introduced into the lives of the most intelligent people in the world—American newspaper readers. It is a part of that best purpose of a newspaper—service. There is no charge except two cents in coin or stamps for return postage. Address Frederic J. Haskin, Director, the Record News Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.

Q.—What proportion of a hog is ham?—N. M. O.

A.—An average hog will yield approximately 13 per cent of its live weight in ham.

Q.—What term describes the shape of the earth?—V. A. P.

A.—The earth is flattened slightly at the north and south poles. The technical term for the shape of the earth is an oblate spheroid.

Q.—Is it true that books in libraries are a means of spreading diseases?—G. W.

A.—Billings, a former medical officer of New York City, holds that 99 per cent of cases of communicable diseases are transmitted from person to person and almost never by books. Many libraries disregard the possible danger from books entirely. Tuberculosis may adhere to books, especially to the saliva-moistened thumbed areas. Examination of library books for mouth bacteria shows streptococci in not more than one in every 20 books. This indicates disease transfer through books is not great.

Every member of the cast of Showboat has a theatrical background.

Q.—What is the new plan of the General Electric company to aid its unemployed?—P. J.

A.—Through equal contributions by the employes and the company, General Electric will raise money for an unemployment fund enabling its workmen who are laid off through business depression still to be kept on the pay roll. Any employe with continuous service with the company of a year or more may agree to pay into a trust fund about one per cent of his earnings for a period of three years, so long as they are 50 per cent or more of his average full-time weekly or monthly earnings. Of the total fund thus created, up to three per cent will be available for the relief of employes or former employes in need. The General Electric company would itself contribute to an equal extent to that of the participating employes.

American Youth Takes Friends For Ride in Old Cab

By BARON GEORGE WRANGEL

PARIS, Aug. 13. (US)—Logan Railey, scion of a wealthy Louisville and Lexington, Ky., horse-breeder, took two friends for a ride in an old horse cab. After the ride was over Railey spent the night in a Paris police station, awaiting a disposition today.

It was all very gay. Railey, who is a sculptor and who formerly served as an usher in a Paris movie theater, dined with his friends and at a late hour the trio promenaded along the boulevard. Near the Gare Montparnasse, they came across a fiacre which appeared to have no driver.

Railey climbed to the box, his friends swept into the cab, and they were off. Police say the trio must have gone to sleep, for when they awoke, the cab was wrecked in a ditch in Arcueil. Police believe the young sculptor's two friends walked back to the city, but Railey unhitched the horse and rode back.

The wounded horse was taken to a stable and his wounds were dressed, but by that time, the police were active and the missing horse was traced to the stable. When Railey appeared to claim the horse, he was taken to the police station.

Elsie Railey, pretty sister of the conductor of the nocturnal tour, paid the cab driver $120 damages for the demolished fiacre, but Railey was detained for police court today, because he had been previously arrested for resisting police.

Spanking Helps Wives, Woman Tells D. Dix

Dear Miss Dix—I wonder where you get the idea that husbands do not spank their wives in this day and age? I have had more spankings that I can count. And I deserve them every one. I am extravagant, gossiping, bad-tempered and willful. My husband supports me in luxury, is loving and kind, and all that he asks is that I do not spend money recklessly and that I do not gossip, and when I do he punishes me. I was spanked yesterday for spending half of the housekeeping money for an evening dress when I have two in the closet that I have never worn and the worst spanking that I ever got was for telling the inside of a divorce case for which my husband had been the attorney.

Now I suppose that you will say that my husband should correct my faults by long talks, tenderness, and so forth. He tried that and it did not work, so one day when outrageous bills came in, he turned me across his knee and gave me an awful spanking. Well, I never spent as recklessly since. I have lapses now and then, but I have improved so that I am unrecognizable and no one knows the reason but me and my husband. And I love a husband who has the courage to make me behave myself. If he had permitted me to ride roughshod over him, we would have been divorced long ago.

I am the only child of wealthy parents and have been spoiled and indulged all my life and never disciplined until my husband did it. If I had had some spankings in my childhood when I needed them, my husband wouldn't have to give them to me now. You may not know it, Miss Dix, but spanking is coming in fashion again and plenty of young wives are getting theirs and they need it.

—SPOILED GIRL.

Answer—Personally, I have always been an earnest and an ardent advocate of spanking. I have seen too many peevish, fretful, whining, disgruntled children who were public nuisances turned into beaming little angels by being turned across some reformer's knee and given a good spank or two to doubt the regenerative power of corporal punishment judicially administered when and as needed.

To talk about moral suasion and appealing to a child's higher nature is all tommyrot. The only way to reach the finer feelings of any self-willed and howling brat is with the business end of a hairbrush or a similar instrument of grace, and if you don't believe it just try it on your Susie or Johnnie the next time she or he gets into a tantrum or refuses to obey, and note results.

The thing that is the matter with the present generation is that it is the offspring of weak-armed mothers who had not the grit to enforce their authority by force when it was necessary, but who tried to persuade their children into walking the straight and narrow way instead of batting them into it. For children are not amenable to ethical arguments, but they respect force. You may talk your tongue off to a youngster trying to convince it of the beauty of righteousness and it will do no good, but if it knows that it will get a good spanking if it doesn't behave itself, it will be a model of all the infantile virtues.

To say that children should never be spanked is as silly as to say that the teeth should be taken out of our laws and that criminals should never be punished. It's the hangman's whip that keeps the trembling wretch in order. Do away with capital punishment and life sentences and murder would be a favorite sport and no one's life would be safe.

And it is the same way with children. It is because so many children know, when they defy their parents and go their own ways, that the worst that will happen to them will be a few tears from mother and a feeble and ineffectual protest from father, that there are thousands of parents who are wringing their hands in despair and moaning out that they cannot do a thing with 13-year-old boys and girls.

Understand, I am not advocating the beating of children. No one is more opposed to harshness toward children than I am, but I think the greatest cruelty that parents can show to their children is to let them grow up undisciplined and uncontrolled. "Train up a child in the way he should grow and when he is old he will not depart from it," said the wisest man that ever lived. And he also gave as the recipe for this the use of the rod.

As my correspondent states, if the parents had done their duty in the spanking line, it would not be necessary for husbands to resort to such drastic measures, as hers has done to correct her faults.

Whether it is desirable that a husband should spank his own wife when she acts like a spoiled child, I shall not presume to say, but I will say that I have seen many cases where I have thought it was needed and where I have wondered at the forebearance of husbands who kept their hands off.

I have seen women wasting the hard-earned money of their husbands on senseless extravagance; women whose husbands lavished every luxury upon them, but who were never satisfied; women who were peevish, fretful and complaining and who appreciated nothing that was done for them, and I have thought that they were just like bad children who needed a good spanking to bring them to their senses and make them behave.

So perhaps if spanking is coming again into fashion, as my correspondent avers, it is a good thing and will save many a divorce.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—How can I get my wife to take an interest in learning housekeeping? Her mother brought her up to be a helpless kitten. She can do nothing except spend money and is terribly extravagant. I have no peaceful home and no money saved. What can I do?

—A MAN WHO FELL FOR A PRETTY FACE.

Answer—The only way that you can get your wife to take an interest in learning to keep house is to serve notice on her that you are going to divorce her if she doesn't. Perhaps if she knows that she is going to lose her job as a wife, as she would lose any other job unless she made good on it, it will make her get busy with the cookbook and the pots and pans.

Marriage is a partnership and is just as much the wife's business to make a comfortable home for her husband as it is his to provide the raw material out of which the home is made and I think any man is foolish and weak who doesn't force his wife to keep up her end of the bargain. Not many women want to lose their homes, and if they knew that their husbands would bundle them up and send them back to mother unless they kept their houses clean and orderly and provided good, well-cooked meals, they would make themselves first-class housekeepers.

It is because men put up with lazy and slouchy wives who never keep anything in order and who never set foot on their table that wouldn't poison an ostrich, that there are so many wives who spend their days living on the bed reading trashy novels, or going to the movies or bridge parties, and whose idea of housekeeping is opening a can and stepping around to the delicatessen for a dab of potato salad and a transparent slice of ham. Non-support is a ground for divorce for women. Bad housekeeping should entitle any man to his freedom from a woman. And she should get no alimony.

But I haven't any tears to shed over a man who marries a girl just because she has a pretty face and without considering whether she had any other qualifications for making a good wife. He deserves all he gets. As a matter of fact, when you pick out a doll all you have got is the right to expect to spend the balance of your life dressing it up, and that is what is happening to you, son.

When men choose wives for what is in their heads and their hearts instead of the kind of complexion they have got, they don't have to complain about their being senseless and extravagant.

—DOROTHY DIX.

"STEP-CHILD" By ROB EDEN

got breakfast for herself. Edith had not yet come in from the hospital. The hurry to get out. The tramp in the snow to the subway. The crowd that milled around her, and forced her up to the front. She clung to a strap, and loosened her coat. Warm, stuffy in the cars.

Her eyes caught the headlines on a paper a man next to her was reading. All about the big night club holdup. Over his shoulder, standing on her tiptoe she read with him, and waited impatiently for him to turn the page.

The story was highly colored, exaggerated, but she enjoyed it. There he was turning the page as best he could. An elbow jabbed her side but she didn't notice it, so eager was she to have him find the right section. Still with him, she finished the story, clinging to her strap all the while.

His eyes were on the paper when she was through. Nothing more. Thousands of dollars worth of jewels stolen. Robbery neatly planned. Robbers in evening clothes, masked. The writer suggested that they had been mingling with the patrons of the Crystal palace all evening, and had timed the holdup exactly. There wasn't a hint of their identities, for their masks had been assumed so quickly.

Her eyes wandered to another page. The society page. Picture of a lovely girl in evening dress. Kay didn't look at the story under the picture. Her attention was caught by an item far down the column.

Before she knew it, the man was folding his paper, and struggling through the crowds to the door. A little more room for the girl, now that he was gone. If she were only sure of that item. But she couldn't be. Something about Julie, that was all she knew. And Julie was very interesting to her then.

Hadn't Wasted Time

When she fought her way through the car to her station, and ran up the stairs, she bought a paper, too. Standing in the snow, she quickly turned the pages. No, it wasn't here. Not in this paper.

The society page. She had run over two pages in her excitement.

She found herself staring finally at the name that had caught her eye, and she read the lines several times before she realized their full significance.

Julie Drew was going to marry Dane Talbot the 29th of December. There followed the place where the wedding was to be, the bridesmaids, the groomsman. But Kay hardly noticed this. Julie had sent her announcement in to the papers. The date of her wedding. And Dane was going to see her this morning about breaking it.

Only last night Julie had decided the day. At least from what she said. Even Gordon hadn't known up to then.

She had wasted no time getting it into the press.

The girl threw the paper into the street, and walked slowly on. She wondered what Dane would think when he saw her. What he would do. Last night so happy. Now—this.

ONE of the important reasons why smart women are so very enthusiastic about Kotex lies in its clever shaping. This is especially desirable in summer, when one so loves to wear thin, soft frocks.

Kotex is rounded and tapered to eliminate awkward bulges.

Kotex absorbs 5 times as much as the finest cotton. And retains its light, delicate quality, even on warm days. It is made of Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding, the material used by 85% of our leading hospitals.

Deposits About Necks of Teeth

When we read the extravagant claims made of the merit of certain tooth pastes and powders we are inclined to smile.

However, these advertisements do a great service in calling attention to the value of keeping the teeth clean, and the circulation in the gums active.

For instance the formation of tartar about the edges of the gums, and the formation of a yellowish white deposit also about the neck of the teeth are so common that very little attention is paid to them.

And yet as some one has well said "Perfectly normal teeth do not have this deposit or pus about the necks of teeth; therefore the presence of this exudate or deposits about the necks of teeth is an indication of an inflammatory change in the gums.

This exudate has been examined and it has been found that such disease as trench mouth, Vincent's Angina, and pyorrhoea are all different forms of this inflammation of the gums due to different organisms.

This is the reason therefore that some cases of "pyorrhoea," as so many of these cases are called, seem to act differently in different people.

The same thing occurs in the organisms that are found in the abscess at the root of the teeth.

Some of these organisms are not very active and do little damage, whereas some are so strong and active that they may do 10 to 20 times as much damage.

The use of tooth powders and tooth pastes used vigorously is bound to be of some help in these cases, by stimulating the circulation and removing part of the exudate.

However the best plan is to visit your dentist at least twice a year, and let him scrape away this exudate, and thus rid you of the infection.

In the majority of cases your dentist will do this for you. If it gets past a certain stage he may send you to the specialist in pyorrhoea, who will likely get the mouth in fair condition again by weekly treatments, extending over two or three months. These treatments consist of getting right down into the sac holding the deposit and draining it out.

Remember, various ailments from simple indigestion to actual heart disease may be traced to this innocent looking exudate on the necks of the teeth.

Widow, 61, Turns to Rum Running When Keeping Boarders Gets Dull

MICHIGAN CITY, IND., Aug. 13. (UP)—A yearning for adventure which caused Mrs. Mary Hurn, 61-year-old widow, to turn from the prosaic work of keeping boarders to rum running in a battered flivver, has landed her in a jail cell.

Clad in an old fashioned calico dress, Mrs. Hurn placidly awaited arraignment on charges of unlawful possession and transportation of liquor. She said that she would tell the judge "A thing or two about prohibition enforcement."

Her life until three years ago, she claimed, had been dull. For 27 years after the death of her husband she supported herself by taking in lodgers. Then she decided to travel, nad made regular trips between Chicago and Detroit, and "other places," with alcohol.

All might have gone on well had not the woman and her companion, William Richards, been arrested in Michigan City as they drove past a stop light, with a load of alcohol.

Mrs. Hurn says that once she was an ardent prohibitionist, in Corydon, Ind., until lured by the spirit of adventure, and convinced that prohibition enforcement was merely a theory, she decided to find out just how easy it was to break the law.

Japanese War Threat Is Termed Unfounded

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 13. (UP)—The Japanese war threat sometimes held before the people of this country, was attacked by William H. Castle Jr., former ambassador to Japan, as unfounded, in a paper read before the institute of politics today.

Castle refuted the argument that trade rivalry might cause a war by showing the balance of trade between the United States and Japan is in the latter's favor, while in China the two nations are not trying to sell the same things.

Fess Names Head Republican Women

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13. (INS)—The action of Senator Fess, chairman of the Republican national committee, in selecting Mrs. Ellis A. Yost, national committeewoman from West Virginia, as director of women's activities of the party organization, caused considerable surprise in political circles here today.

Mrs. Yost, who succeeds Mrs. Louise M. Dodson of Iowa, who resigned as a protest against what she regarded as unfair treatment of her former chief, Claudius H. Huston, at the hands of administration leaders, is the head of the Washington office of the national Woman Christian Temperance union.

With the appointment of Mrs. Yost to the directorship, the Fess organization now is complete.

Habeas Corpus Hearing For Houston Men Delayed

HOUSTON, Aug. 13. (AP)—A habeas corpus hearing for Leonard Bonin, 24, and Tommie Tomlison, 26, under murder charges in the shotgun killing of Olena Wunsche and Edward Stone in May, 1929, set for today, was reset for Saturday due to the death of Sam Polk, Houston attorney.

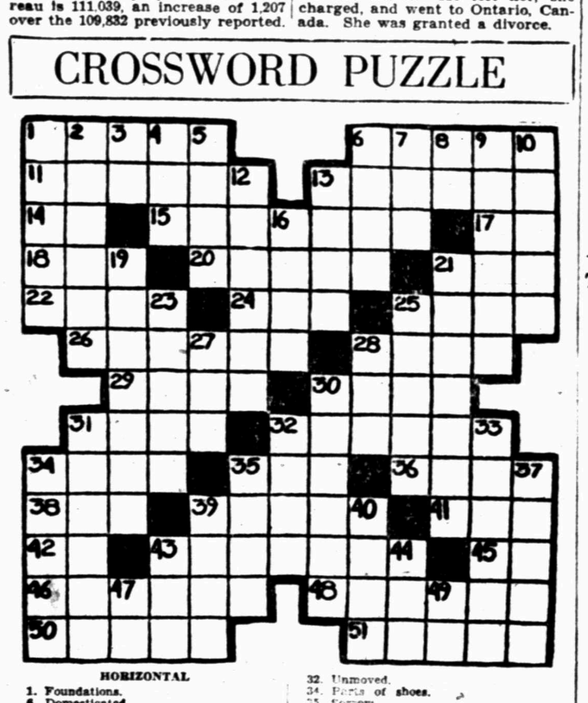

Defense attorneys seek release of the two men because the state refused to accede to bail.

Already five other persons have been arrested and charged with the murder.

It's the Climate

LOS ANGELES.—"It's the climate," is the reason why Mrs. Ruth Marguerita Smythe asked for a diforce. She said she liked California's sunshine, while her husband, Roy Samuel Victor Smythe, pined for the snows. He left her, she charged, and went to Ontario, Canada. She was granted a divorce.

BURNS' HOME RUN IN NINTH DEFEATS SAN ANTONIO, 11 TO 10

ERNIE KOOB STARS IN BOX

New Pitcher Comes to Aid Of Caldwell

By FRED D. THOMPSON

The Spudders scored nine runs off four San Antonio pitchers in a big fifth inning down at the lot Wednesday afternoon, and after the Indians had scored a run in the sixth and another in the seventh to tie the score at 10-all, Jack Burns came up in the ninth inning to slam a home run over the right field fence and give the Williamsmen a 11 to 10 decision over the visitors in the first game of the series.

Meanwhile, the Fort Worth Cats were losing a slugging match to the Houston Buffaloes to enable the Spudders to go into a tie for the league leadership. Waco lost to Dallas in another sunlight game and continued their march downward.

New Pitcher Introduced

Earl Caldwell, who hasn't pitched a good game since he blanked the Beaumont Exporters weeks and weeks ago, was battered from the mound in the fourth inning after he had allowed 11 hits and eight runs, and Wichita Falls thereupon was introduced to its new pitcher, Mr. Ernie Koob, veteran of the diamond who reported here last week from Topeka of the Western league.

Koob's hook proved of immeasurable value to the Spudders. Facing Sam Leslie, the leading hitter of the league, and a corps of other swatters who had found Caldwell easy to fathom, little Ernie yielded only five hits to the Indians in five and two-thirds innings he pitched, and allowed the visitors to score only two runs. He pitched two hitless innings, the fifth and the eighth. In the ninth he got in trouble by hitting a batter to put two on base, but the infield came to his rescue. Then in the ninth Burns' home run saved him from further worry.

Little Ernie's pitching drew the acclaim of the fans, who gave the newcomer a generous welcome into the fold.

Caldwell started the game by walking Ballew. Presto, they scored. On Flippen's infield out Ballew went to second and J. Moore smashed a double into right field to score him. There followed a thrilling double play. The great Leslie grounded one to Levey, who threw J. Moore out at third. Euller returned the ball to Levey and Leslie being off first, Levey pegged to Burns to double him.

Levey Scores on Error

The nimble shortstopper then proceeded to single to left when the Spudders came to bat. He stole second. Storti flied out to left. Fitzgerald grounded out, third to first, Levey going to third. Kloza grounded one to first, who threw to the pitcher but the latter dropped the ball, Levey scoring on the error. Burns grounded out, short to first, to close the inning.

The infield rescued Caldwell in the second, retiring the side with a double play when a runner was on third. But in the fourth the tribe scored four times. Flippen and J. Moore singled. Leslie singled scoring Flippen. Euller dropped Hamilton's fly behind third, J. Moore scoring and Leslie going to third. G. Burns singled through the box, scoring Leslie. Laveque singled to center, scoring Hamilton.

The Indians pecked at singles in the fourth to further embarrass Caldwell. After Carson had flied out to center Ballew singled in the same direction. Flippen singled to left, advancing Ballew to second. J. Moore flied out to Kloza. Leslie singled to left, scoring Ballew, and advancing Flippen to third, and took second on the throw-in. Koob then came in to be greeted by Hamilton's single which scored Flippen and Leslie. G. Burns flied out to Bettencourt for the third out.

Koob then tightened up. In the sixth, singles by Flippen and Leslie and an infield out put a tally over, and in the seventh Laveque's double, Kott's tap to the box which went fo a hit, and a force-out gave them another. But there were no more.

Crouch Starts Rally

After Levey had scored in the first, the Spudders went three whole innings with but two hits off Carson, and not a single score. But they pounced on him in the fifth. Crouch started the big rally with a single to right. Carson let loose with a wild pitch and Crouch went to second. Euller singled to center, advancing Crouch to third. Koob forced Euller at second, short to second, Crouch scoring on the play. Levey beat out a bunt, advancing Koob to second. Storti singled to center, scoring Koob, and when the third baseman let the throw-in from center get by him, Levey also scored. Tom Estell then relieved Carson to see what he could do. He walked Fitzgerald and Kloza to load the bases, and the Indians figured they had better get somebody else. Peery came to the box to be greeted by Burns' hard double to center which scored Storti, Fitzgerald and Kloza. Bettencourt singled to center, scoring Burns. Crouch got his second hit of the inning when he doubled down the third base line, scoring Bettencourt. Peery then was relieved by Hargrove who was greeted by Euller's second hit of the inning, a single to center which scored Crouch. Koob on his second time up in the frame flied out to center, and Levey fouled out to third for the third out.

Hargrove pitched excellently the rest of the way for the Indians, allowing only two hits in the sixth, seventh and eighth. But he lost the game in the ninth. Kloza flied out to right to open the last half, but Burns, next up, tore loose with his home run which ended the slugging match.

The teams meet today in the last game of the series.

WRESTLERS TO MEET HERE

Sport Returns With Match Friday Night

The first wrestling card since Alec Ross brought his boys together here many months ago is promised followers of the sport Friday night at Athletic park when Bert Willoughby and Josh Billings, promoters, open the season with Tsutao Higami, Japanese jiu-jitsu expert, and Red Lindsay, Shreveport middleweight, featured in the main event.

Arrangements have been made with the Wichita Falls Baseball club for use of the park, and the ring, a portable affair, will be located directly behind home plate.

The Jap and the Shreveport grappler will meet in a two out of three falls finish match. Other matches on the card include Sylvio Checco, New Haven, Conn., and Charlie Carr in a one-fall match, and Kenneth Howell and Otis Headrick, Dallas, also in a one-fall match. A third match probably will be added.

Billings, a veteran baseball player formerly with the St. Louis Browns and the Dallas Steers, will conduct the matches here this season as local representative of Willoughby, who holds wrestling concessions in San Antonio, Dallas, and other leading Texas cities. Through his chain he expects to bring the country's best wrestlers here this season.

Tilden Defeats Julius Seligson

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 13. (AP)—Big Bill Tilden today led three of his Davis cup team mates into the quarter final round of the men's singles in the annual Eastern grass court championships.

With the utmost ease Tilden eliminated Julius Seligson, New York youngster, 6-4, 6-4, in a match that created considerable interest among the largest gallery of the week's play in men's and women's singles and doubles. But a Southern youth, Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans, intercollegiate champion, stole the spotlight with a spectacular triumph over Fritz Mercur, of Bethlehem, Pa., 6-0, 6-2. Sutter and Tilden clash in a quarter-final match tomorrow.

Smith had one bad inning in the first when three hits, a hit batsman and an error were combined to score the four Furnitureman's runs. Cope's single in the second was the only man who reached first off Smith in the closing three rounds.

H. Thomas continued his sensational batting pace of the last half by slamming out two singles and a triple in three times at the plate. McCaleb's catch in center field of Walter Ehlert's fly was the fielding feature of the game. NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 13. (AP)—Cotton was lower today, with all months making new low ground for the movement under further liquidation and rather more aggressive selling which was said to have come partly from Wall street and western sources.

The failure of bullish features in the weekly report of the weather bureau to bring in more buying together with the weakness of grain, seemed to stimulate the selling. New October contracts broke to 11.90 or 19 points net lower and closed at 11.93, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 13 to 19 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 3 points to a decline of 2 points.

Selling was attributed partly to liquidation of old long accounts and reselling by recent buyers. The weather reports showed very little additional rain in central and western belt sections and some high temperatures in Oklahoma and Texas, but the selling was said to reflect diminishing nervousness over the crop situation as an immediate market factor, combined with expectations of a decline under the weight of the movement, if trade demand does not soon improve. Some trade buying was reported on scale down orders during the earlier trading, but it was not much in evidence later.

Liverpool cables said hedging and Bombay liquidation in that market had been taken by covering and continental buying. Exports today 15,667, making 75,773 so far this season. Port receipts 15,584. U. S. port stocks 1,587,487.

Futures closed barely steady, 13 to 19 points lower; spot quiet; middling 12.20.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 13. (AP)—The cotton market developed fair activity in today's trading but the price trend was downward and October broke through the 12 cent line to a new low level for the present movement. Stocks Overcome Two Onslaughts By Bears and Stage Sharp Recovery

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 13. (US)—The stock market today staged a recovery which commenced from levels very close to the June low prices. Encouraged by the Tuesday decline, bearish professionals continued to hammer at the market and succeeded in bringing out additional stock during the morning. The recession, however, was short-lived and another attack started with publication of the weekly steel trade review, which had a decidedly blue tone, but this drive, too, met stiff resistance from the market. Buying demand for stocks increased on the slightest weakness and, recognizing the changed internal condition which appeared to have developed many shorts rushed to cover. The covering movement spread throughout the list, the entire market rallying and sustaining its improvement almost to the close.

That the recovery was achieved primarily at the expense of the short interest was evident from the fact that the largest gains were scored by issues in which the bear crowd had been most active. Vanadium, for example, scored a net gain of over 5 points, while Case Threshing Machine was up over 11 points. American Can, which also had been heavily pounded by the bears on the crop-scare, rallied six points from its low of the day and closed up almost four points. General Motors was up a point despite a drastic price reduction announced by Hudson Motors.

The market's inclination to ignore continued depressing news was one of its most encouraging factors. The motor price cut, the discouraging steel news, and further weakness in the grain markets, failed to check the afternoon improvement in stock prices. Steel common rallied over two points net on the day, although its recovery was at least partially due to short covering, since the issue had been a particular target for recent bear selling. Independent steels, however, enjoyed less vigorous comeback from the lows. Bethlehem Steel reached a new low for the year before joining the rally, and Republic approached within a fraction of its previous low. Merchandising stocks participated to a minor degree in the improvement.

As the market during the early weakness approached the price levels of the June bottom, great interest was displayed in observing whether large-scale buying demand would appear as it did in June. One of the largest wire houses turned bullish on supposed knowledge that one of the most powerful banking groups had definitely reentered the market for the first time since the November panic-low of 1929. It was evident, however, that the same banking interests who were large buyers of stocks in June were again absorbing stocks as they approached the June lows. Consolidated Gas, for example, attracted considerable buying when it broke through 100, the subsequent recovery amounting almost to four points. The real test of the market will exist in its ability to hold the higher prices.

The market also saw fit to ignore a further decline in cotton to a new low. Warner Brothers Pictures rallied over a point on indications that its financing has been definitely arranged and other motion picture stocks were also higher. Belief that the chemical industry will take a leading part in the next period of prosperity and that therefore stocks of chemical companies will be among the most attractive investments, was expressed by Brookmire Economic service.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Aug. 13. (AP)—Recent sharp fluctuations have so upset the trades ideas on the price of cash grain that the Fort Worth market was at a practical standstill throughout the Wednesday session. Holders of grain would not sell at the day's sharp declines and buyers could not see any reason for paying above the values indicated in the contract markets. Hence there were few sales posted and those few did little more than indicate a possible meeting ground for buyer and seller. Dealers declared it might require several days for the trade to gain a satisfactory idea of values.

Nominally, exporters were bidding 91¾ to 92¼c for ordinary wheat, delivered Texas gulf ports, while mills were bidding 94 to 96c for ordinary No. 1 hard, delivered Texas common points.

Other grains were in like condition and all quotations are nominal. No sales were made after the full decline at the big markets.

Estimated receipts: Wheat, 73 cars; corn, 1; oats, 3, and sorghums, 3.

Bids and offers on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carloads, delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn—No. 2 mixed, $1.10@1.11; No. 2 white or yellow, $1.13@1.14.
Oats—No. 2 red, 50@51c.
Barley—No. 2, 73@75c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 13. (AP)—Wheat values collapsed as a result of heavy selling here late today and dragged the corn market down to a large extent. The increased selling pressure on wheat came from eastern sources, and was attributed to reports that the Canadian government would not guarantee banks loans to the Canadian growers' pool. These reports had but little apparent effect earlier in the day, but toward the last were made much of in connection with acute weakness shown by wheat prices at Winnipeg.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were nervous, 2¼@2⅜c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 2¼@3c down, oats 1⅝@2⅝c off and provisions showing 15@37c drop.

Sharp downturns in Winnipeg wheat prices more than offset all opposite factors in the Chicago market as the day drew to an end. Emphasizing the influence of advices that the Canadian government has refused to back the Canadian pool financially were statements circulated that Canadian shippers seemed eager to cut prices to a competitive basis with United States wheat.

Corn and oats gave way with wheat, despite general failure of predicted rains except in northern Missouri and eastern Kansas. Commission houses were persistent sellers on price bulges in corn, and the general run of traders were less aggressive than of late on the buying side of the market.

Provisions went lower with grain notwithstanding an upward slant in the hog market.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, Sept. 86⅝c, 91⅛c; Dec. 91⅝@¾c, 96⅛c; March 96¼c, $1.01⅛; May 99¼c, $1.05; Corn, Sept. 93⅝@⅜c, 99c; Dec. 89¼c, 94⅜@⅝c, March 91⅝c, 96⅝c; May 93, 98¼c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Aug. 13. (US)—Some traders were inclined to look for an explanatory statement from the Canadian government following withdrawal of the guarantee of bank funds. The resultant decrease in percentage of value which banks would loan was of course looked upon as bearish. On the other hand, those who foresee a better European demand this year feel that the emergency conditions of a year ago which necessitated the guarantee no longer exist.

With wheat weak and the startling reports of daily damage not present owing to cooler weather, bullish interest in corn has subsided. Nevertheless, news from over the belt continues bullish, with crop reporters stating that rains could do very little for the corn crop now, though they would of course improve fodder conditions.

Thomson & McKinnon say: "Considerable late selling in wheat was due to a statement of the secretary of agriculture that the drought did not threaten any shortage in human food because only about 5,000,000 bushels of corn was so consumed annually. This statement was construed as bearish whereas it actually promised increased demand for wheat."

Daniel F. Rice & company say: "It is to be hoped that the break brings about a pronounced increase in the export demand for wheat, for that is the thing needed to relieve the Canadian situation."

Scott, Burrows & Christie say: "Lack of outside trade is working against the wheat market at the present time as the local professional element are not strong enough to absorb the hedges that are coming into the market."

INSUL UPHOLDS POWER SYSTEM

Government Ownership Plan Opposed

UNIVERSITY, Va., Aug. 13. (AP)—The building up of America's great railroad systems by private initiative and enterprise was offered by Martin J. Insul, president of the Middlewest Utilities company, as an argument against government ownership and operation in a discussion before the round table on business and government at the institute of public affairs today.

These pioneers, he said, not only built railroads, but also developed cities, evolved manufacturing plants, created steamship lines, harnessed water powers, built power plants and covered the country with power transmission, telegraph and telephone lines.

"All these industrial developments are the result of the scientific knowledge and inventive genius of our people—not of our government," Mr. Insul said. "Government is not designed for the purpose of inventing, owning or operating, but to govern to the end that these functions may be for the greatest number of the governed."

The utilities executive was answered by Norman Thomas, former candidate for president on the Socialist ticket.

"Common sense," he said, "to say nothing of the belief in democracy, would suggest that whenever an industry or service is vitally affected by the public interest it ought to be publicly owned and operated for use rather than private profit."

He found little to favor in the present system of regulation. "The best that can be said for regulation is that it is better than nothing," he said.

AIR DERBY MEET CALLED

C.-C. Committee to Arrange For Landings Here

Final plans for the timing and servicing of planes in the Chicago-Brownsville air derby here on Aug. 21 will be made Friday at a meeting of the chamber of commerce aviation committee with Richard Allen of Chicago, it was announced Wednesday.

Friday's meeting of the aviation committee will be called by William N. Bonner, vice chairman, it was announced, in the absence of the chairman, James E. McKanna. The hour will be selected later, in accordance with Mr. Allen's traveling schedule, it was said.

Ships entered in the race will leave Fort Worth on Aug. 21 at 8:30 a. m., Mr. Allen said, and are expected to reach this city about one hour later. The public will be invited to attend the landing at the Municipal airport.

Lining of the ground for the finish here will require the formation of a circle at least 100 feet in diameter, crossed by a line at least 300 feet in length and three feet wide. This line is to be laid with a material easily visible from the air, and will probably be lime, it was stated.

Complete servicing of planes, including water, oil, gasoline, etc., must be provided for in connection with the ships' landing here, according to Mr. Allen. Two timers will be on hand with double split second stop watches, it was announced, to record the arrival and departure of each plane. Order of arrival will be followed by the entries in leaving the local field.

New Hearing On Grain Rates Asked

Grain dealers of Texas will seek a new hearing before the Interstate Commerce commission before Oct. 1 in an effort to obtain amendments to a recent decision of that body affecting grain rail rates in this section, according to plans adopted by a gathering of Texas traffic experts at Fort Worth Tuesday.

Dudley B. Foy, traffic manager of the chamber of commerce, and T. A. Baggett, traffic manager of the Wichita Mill & Elevator company, returned late Tuesday night from Fort Worth. The conference went on record as believing that the decision discriminates against both producers and dealers in this state.

The new rate schedule has been ordered made effective on Oct. 1, but should a new hearing be granted, application of the proposed schedule would be deferred.

A brigade moved up to the frontier from Umballa during the day.

Armored cars and a commissariat outfit were among the contingents which the government is rushing to the tribal war front in what appeared to be a determined effort not only to hold Peshawar, but to demonstrate to the fierce Afridi tribe and their allies the power of the British rule.

Renewal of committee activities presaging the resumption of a full program by the chamber of commerce will be effected within the next few days, according to information given Wednesday by officials of the organization.

Plans for the community's participation in the play-off series and the Dixie series which may become the programs of the Spudders will be considered early next week by members of the sports and recreational committee, of which Horrace Robbins is chairman. That committee also will give attention to the coming high school and Junior college football season, and to the invitation tournament of the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club, it was said.

Plans for participation of this city in the Wichita county fair at Iowa Park in September, and for entertainment of a large group of Northwest Texas farmers here on Aug. 21 and 22, will be formulated by the agricultural committee at a meeting to be held Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. J. N. Sherrill is chairman of this committee.

Reports of progress made toward obtaining the pavement of state highway No. 5 between Henrietta and the Cook county line, will be heard next week by the highway committee, of which W. B. Hamilton is chairman.

STATE: Hoot Gibson in "Roaring Ranch." Lloyd Hamilton comedy and sound news.

STRAND: "Anybody's War" with Moran and Mack. Comedy and sound news.

MAJESTIC: John Boles and Laura La Plante in "Captain of the Guard." Comedy and sound news.

GEM: "The Taming of the Shrew" with Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks. Comedy.

It isn't hard to imagine what must have taken place in the Universal studio just prior to the creation (out of chaos, without form and void) of "Captain of the Guard," now inflicted on those who attend the Majestic theater.

"Boys," says the chief. "We've gotta cut down on expenses. This is a bad business year and this unemployment situation makes it worse, and we've got to make a lotta kale without putting out too much."

"Okay!" chirps a yes-man. "Something good and sexy, eh?"

"Oh, I hardly think so," the Chief grunts, stroking his chin. "Sex is a little too hot for this weather. No, let's have a good mob picture while we can get a mob cheap. Look at that crowd right out there, for instance." The boys look at the crowd—thousands of extras hunting work.

"A few more days, and we won't even have to order 'em to register frenzy. We can just turn the camera on them and save a lot of expense."

"What about a theme song?" anxiously pipes up the seventh assistant director, which gets the whole bunch in another stew. The prohibitive expense of another Irving Berlin song is discussed . . . and somebody has a bright idea:

"Why not get a good old song, something stirring, that isn't copyrighted, and save the theme song expense?" And so the Marseillaise is chosen, and work on "The Captain of the Guard" begins.

John Boles is secured to draw the box-office crowds. It's a good chance to put in Laura La Plante, because it's a costume picture and a few soft ruffles and long hair hide the wrinkles in her neck. And the costumes are those that have been used in all the other pictures of the same period.

It's one of these pictures that has been scrambled together out of a dozen other movies—one in which the hero and heroine insist on singing the theme song everytime they get in danger, with the enemy approaching at every note (hurray for the enemy!) It's one of the poorest pictures yet—and yet the Majestic will probably be packed, and the Universal studio boys will lean back in their mahogany chairs and rub their hands, and say, "Well, I knew it would be a wow! Give it to 'em and make 'em like it."

Those who pine for a good show and who have already seen "Anybody's War" can wait until Friday and see Claudette Colbert at the Strand, or until Saturday, when two which seem to be of the best are billed at the Majestic. "Queen High" with Ginger Rogers in the regular attraction for Saturday, with a special midnight preview (first time in Texas) of "Let's Go Native" for Saturday night. Both are very new releases and indicate by their casts that they deserve patronage. As for the Strand feature, there are three elements which insure its success—the play "Manslaughter", Miss Claudette Colbert, and Fredric March.
