OPERATED BY AN ORGANIZATION THAT HAS UNLIMITED MILLIONS DEALERS LIQUOR, DRUGS, ALIENS

NEW YORK, Sept. 27. (US)—Secret raid on a new outlaw radio station near Coney Island as it flashed coded orders to a rum fleet at sea was revealed today.

Department of justice agents declared the station was operated by the largest rum syndicate in the United States and that the blockade-running fleet dealt in liquor, drugs and human contraband—smuggled aliens. It is backed, they say, by unlimited millions.

Two men were seized, one as he sat at a key sending curt, business-like orders to a vessel lying off the coast. The sender, Malcolm MacMasters, 26, expert radio operator, was discovered to be free under $30,000 bonds as the operator of the huge unlicensed station seized at Atlantic Highlands a year ago.

Raid Brooklyn Building

The raid occurred Friday night at 53 Avenue V, Brooklyn. MacMasters and his companion, Cecil Molyneaux, radio technician, were arraigned before United States Commissioner Nicholas M. Pette in Brooklyn today and each held in $7,500 bond for the grand jury on charges of conspiring to violate the radio act of 1927 by erecting and operating an illegal radio station.

After the arraignment, United

IOWA PARK, Texas, Sept. 27.—Paul Seeds' "Caballeros" of Wichita Falls and the Burkburnett band, directed by E. L. Nichols, tied for first place in the band contest at the Wichita County fair, which closed at Iowa Park Saturday night.

Both bands were scored 94 points and will receive loving cups for their achievement. The awards were made at the closing program of the fair by Col. Earl Irons of Arlington, president of the West Texas Bandmasters association. Miss Allie Goetze, daughter of Karl Goetze, director of the Triangle band and the Iowa Park Ladies' band, was chosen by Colonel Irons as the best soloist. Six bands from Iowa Park, Electra, Wichita Falls and Burkburnett competed in the contest.

Crowds, which trailed by only a few hundred the record-breaking attendance of Friday night, were on the fair grounds for the closing entertainment Saturday night. The rodeo attracted the largest number and sponsors of that attraction reported a record attendance at the Saturday night performance.

Officials of the fair association were jubilant Saturday night as the gates were closed on the 1930 fair. They were particularly pleased with the enthusiasm which residents of other sections of the county had shown in entering exhibits and taking part in the fair program.

Exhibit halls were being cleared rapidly late Saturday night. Fair officials announced that checks for awards to the winners would be attached to owners of the exhibit when it was returned.

RENEWED DRIVE URGED TO FILL CHARITY CHEST

LEADER ASKS SUPPORT FOR REST OF CAMPAIGN

O'Donohoe Declares Hardest Portion of Work Remains

Urging both workers and contributors to revive their efforts toward securing $69,600 for the 1930 community chest after the week-end, John F. O'Donohoe, president of the chest, issued a statement regarding the campaign Saturday evening. The statement is as follows:

"Splendid progress has been made in the community chest campaign but we should not forget that half of the total is to be raised and the second half is likely to be more difficult than the first.

"It is an imperative necessity that Wichita Falls fill the chest. We all know that even at the best we will face hard conditions during the coming winter. It is a situation that ought to prompt every citizen to do his duty, and the workers for the community face a duty that is a challenge to their most earnest efforts.

"In behalf of the chest and those it serves I urge every campaign worker to renew his or her efforts after the week-end rest with enthusiasm and determination. I wish especially to call attention to the workers' luncheon at the Wichita club Monday noon and to urge the attendance of every worker and officer."

The luncheon Monday noon will be the third report luncheon, the campaign having begun Thursday morning.

Sunday has been designated as "Civic Sunday" and all pastors have been asked to mention the chest campaign at their services Sunday morning.

Those in the campaign are as follows, the "sales army," under the DETROIT, Sept. 27. (AP)—Swept along by a heavy breeze, the 18 contesting planes in the 1930 national air tour sped into Ford airport late today, completing a 4,500-mile jaunt through the Midwest and Canadian prairie provinces.

First over the finish line on the last lap from Cincinnati was Harry L. Russell, Detroit, piloting a tri-motored Ford. Russell, who maintained a consistent lead both in speed and reliability throughout the tour, piled up 58,575 points in the scoring system, far more than any other pilot, and was announced winner of the $7,500 Edsel Ford reliability trophy and a $2,500 cash prize.

John Livingston of Aurora, Ill., flying a Waco, landed second, to gain a $2,000 cash prize. Third to land was Art Davis, Lansing pilot, also flying a Waco, and in fourth place came Myron E. Zeller, Detroit, in a Ford tri-motor. Davis and Zeller, who also held third and fourth place in the final tour standings, will receive $1,750 and $1,500, respectively.

Starting Sept. 11 from Detroit, the air caravan flew to 27 cities in the United States and Canada, and returned without mishap to any of the contestants or the 20 accompanying planes.

Eddie Schneider, junior transcontinental record holder and youngest pilot on the tour, landed in eighth place, but was announced winner of the Great Lakes trophy offered for lower powered planes. Miss Nany Hopkins, only woman pilot on the trip, arrived in last place.

SWEET ODOR FOR DOCK EMPLOYES

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 27. (UP)—A sweet odor reminiscent of a boudoir suffuses the air of a loading dock at union station here, giving a touch of gentility to the labors of express company employes.

It is an expensive luxury. One of the employes dropped a bottle of orchid perfume, consigned to a dry goods store, and valued at $1,950. The liquid, distilled in Paris, trickled into the recess of the dock and will give off its rare scent for days.

Leaping barefooted from a window of the courthouse while Sheriff W. G. Bralley and several of his deputies had their backs turned a young woman burglary suspect made good her escape shortly before noon Saturday.

The prisoner had been arrested, clad in a man's clothing, after several shots were fired at her by Deputy Sheriff George Garrett in the Country Club Estates early Saturday morning following the robbery of the W. C. Woody home at 2103 Berkeley drive.

When the bullets ploughed up the dirt near her feet the young woman plunged into a clump of Johnson grass where she was discovered by the officer. Later he recovered near this spot a comfort and a bed spread valued at $60. Mr. Woody also reported the loss of $45 in cash but this was not found.

Shortly before noon Saturday Sheriff Bralley ordered the prisoner brought from the woman's ward of the county jail to his office for questioning. Deputy Garrett took one of her shoes to compare with tracks near the Woody home and the woman was left in the back office of the sheriff with only one shoe on.

Sheriff Bralley stepped into the front office to answer a long distance telephone call and when he turned around he found the suspect had departed by leaping more than 12 feet to the courthouse lawn below.

City and county officers combed the city for several hours but were unable to find any trace of the fugitive.

HOUSTON NEGRO KILLS MAN AND ASSAULTS GIRL

HOUSTON, Sept. 27. (AP)—H. H. Pevataux, 35, of Spring, was slain late tonight and his young woman companion, with whom he was riding in a car on the outskirts of the city, was brutally attacked by a negro who leaped on the running board of their machine brandishing a gun.

Pevataux, who had been commanded to turn into a side road by the negro, attempted to throw the gunman off the running board of the car by swerving it sharply. When the ruse failed, however, the negro fired a bullet into Pevataux's body.

When the car came to a stop, the negro threw the man from the seat and forced the woman to accompany him. After torturing the girl brutally, he criminally attacked her.

Posses of police were scouring the heavily wooded section northwest of the city, where the attack occurred, in an attempt to apprehend the negro.

Three Names in Fifteen Minutes Record at Reno

RENO, Nev., Sept. 27. (UP)—Three names in 15 minutes—believed a world's record—was achieved here today during Mrs. Archie B. Charest's lightning tour of the divorce court.

At 10 o'clock, as Maud A. Tummins, she was awarded a divorce and also the privilege of reassuming her maiden name—Maud A. Mingus. Miss Mingus then was married before 10:15 to Archie B. Charest.

Incidentally, she was beholden to the same judge for all three names, Reno's famous Judge George A. Bartlett awarding the divorce, agreeing to the maiden name and performing the marriage.

She became Mrs. Charest for the second time. She had divorced Charest to marry Tummins.

STOCK MARKET GOES TO NEW LOW GROUND FOR YEAR UNDER BURDEN OF SELLING ORDERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 27. (AP)—The market bowed into new low ground for the year today under another burden of selling orders. However, short covering at the close was considerably more vigorous than in recent sessions and net losses were generally small. A few stocks showed net gains and numerous leaders were off fractionally. Wheat, corn and cotton again weakened.

Nevertheless, the composite final price on 50 industrials, 20 rails and 20 utility stocks was 152.2, eight-tenths of a point under the previous 1930 minimum set on June 24. Volume of trading was large for a Saturday, just exceeding 1,700,000 shares.

Railroads, Oils and Coppers were particularly heavy. More than a hundred stocks of various descriptions set new low prices for the year before the decline was checked. Among them were Pennsylvania railroad, Baltimore & Ohio, Anaconda Copper, Kennecott, Radio, International Telephone, Standard Oils of New York and California, New Haven, Rock Island, Texas Corporation, Missouri Pacific and Republic Steel.

United States Steel, the so-called market barometer, and American Telephone both squeezed to lows for the reaction, but the former was off only 12 cents at the close and Telephone's loss was cut to 62 cents. General Motors and General Electric also closed fractionally lower, but there were losses of a dollar or more in Standard Oil of New Jersey, Consolidated Gas, American Tobacco, Westinghouse and many of the investment rails.

LAKE STEAMER LOST IN STORM STILL MISSING

Coast Guards Watch in Vain for Packet With Six on Board

TWO MEN SURVIVE 16 HOURS BATTLING WAVES

Loss of Third Ship Will Bring List of Storm Dead to 11

MUSKEGON, Mich., Sept. 27. (AP)—Coast guard crews on both sides of Lake Michigan today watched in vain for trace of the fruit packet North Shore, missing since she left St. Joseph, Mich., yesterday morning with a cargo of grapes for Milwaukee. The vessel, a steel hulled motor craft, carried Cap. E. J. Anderson, his bride of four weeks and four men.

Although hope had been held during the day that the North Shore might have found refuge in some other port, this was abandoned as the day passed without word from her captain.

If the North Shore went down in yesterday's 40-mile gale, the toll of the storm has been increased to a loss of 11 lives and three ships.

The death list of the barge Saltor that went down at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon off the harbor entrance here was reduced to five today when two of four men who had clung to a derrick on the vessel were taken off by coast guards. 'World's Best Loser' Leaves U. S. Promising Return at Early Date Fund for Cup Now Totals $3,325

NEW YORK, Sept. 27. (US)—Waving a white handkerchief to cheering throngs on shore, Sir Thomas Lipton, the "world's best loser," sailed today for home in the United States liner Leviathan.

The man whose fifth attempt to capture the America's cup ended in defeat was given the farewell of a conquering hero. As the monstrous ship began to slide slowly into the river, Sir Thomas, leaning over the rail in his blue yachting cap, was met with shouts of "hurrah."

Right to the moment of his sailing, reports persisted that he would accompany the Leviathan back to receive from Mayor Walker the loving cup which his admirers are giving in appreciation of his sportsmanship. Sir Thomas merely said he would be back soon. The fund for the cup had reached $3,325 at noon-time.

Sir Thomas said he hoped to try again for the America's cup next year. Impressed by the $40,000 duralumin mast of the Enterprise, his last opponent, he announced he would probably use a similar mast in the next race.

Seven Thousand Persons Killed 100 Towns Looted and Thousands Women Kidnaped by 'Red' Bandits

PIEPING, Sept. 27. (UP)—Seven thousand persons have been killed, more than 100 villages and towns have been captured and looted, and thousands of women and girls have been carried off for ransom, according to reports from the province of Honan, which are apparently reliable.

Twelve separate bandit gangs, under powerful leaders, have ravaged most of the districts in the province. Many districts were isolated for weeks, and the news is just beginning to come out.

The bandits seemed to go almost insane as the orgy of killing and looting progressed. They destroyed for the pleasure of destroying, even burning growing grain. Isolated farmers were killed generally in the Uhsien district.

WHEAT PRICES CRASH RESULT BOARD THREAT

PRICE LOWEST FIGURE IN THE LAST 28 YEARS

Revolt Brewing Among Members Chicago Board Of Trade

CHICAGO, Sept. 27. (US)—Wheat prices went crashing downward again today in the face of threats to close the Chicago board of trade short-selling operations by the agents of foreign governments.

Wild rumors that the Russian Soviet government is preparing to charter a large fleet of ships with which to dump actual Russian wheat on the markets of the world contributed to the decline at the opening of the trading.

At the lowest ebb of prices, September wheat sold at 74⅜ cents, the lowest figure in the last 28 years. On all futures, prices dropped to the nethermost point for the season.

In the final hour of trading there was some recovery, but the rally flattened out and closing prices were from 2 to 2¾ cents down, outing millions from the values of wheat on the market and in the hands of the American farmer.

Meanwhile a revolt of some proportions was brewing among some members of the Chicago board of trade at what they termed the supineness of the board directors. They assailed the directors for acquiescing in the demand of Secretary of Agriculture Hyde that the Soviet agents be barred from trading in futures.

Right-About-Face.

It represented a right-about-face in the attitude of the board which had contended that the Chicago board was a world market and that nothing irregular was involved in the short selling conducted by the Russians.

S. P. Arnot, a past president of the grain exchange, declared that the request made by Hyde was manifestly inspired by political expediency and a rather undignified exhibition of hysteria." he added:

"There is no law which compels the board to comply with such a request, nor is a compliance dictated by reason or common sense.

"The fact that no request is made for denial of the right to buy wheat in the market emphasizes the lack of logic and the pettiness which characterizes the whole affair.

"The supine acquiescence of the directors to this request is astonishing and regrettable, especially in vie wof the fact that they clearly transcended their authority in the resolution passed.

Regulated by Rules.

"Matters of this sort are regulated by rules passed by the membership and not by resolutions of the board of directors."

Conservatives among the wheat traders today were skeptical of any considerable wheat shipments from Russia, but in the uncertainty of the market the bare possibility that this might be the next move of the Soviet leaders was sufficient to give the traders a fright and send prices tumbling downward.

Two university professors, who recently have been in Russia, locked horns today over the actual conditions existing there in respect to wheat.

Prof. Paul Haensel of Northwestern university and recently of the University of Moscow said concerning conditions there:

"There is a severe bread shortage in Russia."

But Prof. Samuel N. Harper of the University of Chicago said:

Conspiracy Charged

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27. (AP)—Investigation of any activities by American boards of trade and chambers of commerce in foreign grain markets was urged today by Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, who charged a conspiracy existed to discredit the new farm board.

Senator Nye reported on his return to the capital today from the Middle West that the agricultural situation was "the issue" with the people in that territory. He said he believed if the administration would inquire further into the operations of the Soviet government in selling wheat "short" in this country it would be found that some American trade organizations were doing the same in foreign markets.

"I am convinced of operations in the foreign markets as part of the program to depress agricultural prices in order to discredit the farm board," he said.

The North Dakotan said he intended to confer with Chairman Legge of the farm board on this and predicted a drive would be made in congress for legislation to curb operations in the grain exchanges on future trading. He also predicted a revival of the movement for the equalization fee principle of farm relief as a part of the new farm board machinery.

Talk of a revival of the equalization fee came as a surprise made in view of the campaign made in the senate last session by the coalition of Democrats and western Republican independents for the export debenture principle.

Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, has pending a bill providing for strict regulation of the grain exchange.

Third Man Sought for Part in What Federal Authorities Describe as Biggest Oklahoma Swindle in Years

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 27. (AP)—Federal authorities said tonight that additional persons, possibly seven or eight, may be linked with operations of an alleged stock swindle in connection with which Ben F. Fields, Tulsa investment broker, and F. H. McIntyre face charges of using the mails to defraud.

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 27. (AP)—With Ben F. Fields, president of the Fields Investment company, Tulsa, and F. H. McIntyre, president of the Anglo-American Royalties corporation, held to face charges of using the mails to defraud, federal authorities today sought a third person in connection with what they described as one of the biggest swindles in Oklahoma in several years.

Postoffice inspectors said the failure of the royalties corporation, chartered in Delaware, to pay alluring 12 per cent dividends which were promised purchasers of its stock, led to uncovering of the alleged fraud. The identity of the third person sought was not revealed.

Fields was released last night on $10,000 bond, while McIntyre remained in jail. He was attempting to make a similar bond. Preliminary hearing of the two was set for Oct. 15.

Federal officers said they had been unable to compute the exact losses of 90 Oklahoma purchasers of Anglo-American stock, because the promoters were willing to take anything for the stock—farm lands, city lots, stocks and bonds as well as cash—but they estimated the total losses would reach $250,800.

McIntyre asserted today he was "simply a stock salesman," and he implicated Fields as the instigator of the alleged swindle.

"Thrift Is Not a Virtue."

Amarillo Sandies Win Second Game Within Two Days

Norman Crushed 32 to 6 Saturday After Quanah Victory Friday

AMARILLO, Texas, Sept. 27.—Following their 41 to 7 victory over the Quanah Indians Friday, the Golden Sandstorm of Amarillo High school trounced the Norman, Okla., Tigers, 32 to 6, Saturday afternoon on the gridiron at Butler Field. The Sandies proved to be a squad of well-conditioned athletes and showed no ill effects from the somewhat tough battle Friday.

Against Norman, it was a plain case of too much Bufkin and Fowler. Bufkin with his loping offtackle gains and Fowler with his weaving runs through the line ripped off yard after yard. Both men also passed considerable and Bufkin was more than a tower of strength on the defense at backing up the line. He was a raging demon and stopped line plunges time after time with vicious tackling.

Westervelt and Lacrone, Tiger linemen, were outstanding for their work on the defense.

Norman scored early in the fourth period when a long pass, rushing to Franz, was good for 40 yards and a touchdown.

The summary figures of the first half tell the story.

The Sandies gained 198 yards and lost five in 29 plays, while the Tigers lost seven in 17 plays. All the Norman plays from scrimmage were in the first quarter, the Tigers punting out of danger the few times they got the ball in the second period.

The Sandy backs, aided by a perfectly functioning line, again started to run wild. Bufkin got loose early in the quarter for a 66-yard dash over the goal line, only to have the play called back and a 25-yard clipping penalty imposed. This gave the Sandies the ball on their own 38-yard line. They then marched down the field without interruption, Scandlon toting across the goal for a touchdown on a seven-yard tour through the line.

The Tigers opened the fourth period with a desperate effort to score, which was rewarded when, after a 15-yard penalty, Rushing shot a long pass to Franz for 40 yards and a touchdown.

The condition of J. E. Russell Jr., 1304 Broad, was reported satisfactory Saturday night after he had undergone an operation at the Hargrave-Walker hospital Friday.

BURON FITTS TO OPPOSE NEW TRIAL IN PANTAGES CASE

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 27. (UP)—A vigorous fight will be made by District Attorney Buron Fitts to prevent a new trial for Alexander Pantages, millionaire showman, convicted of assaulting Eunice Pringle, a 17-year-old dancer.

Fitts said today that he intends to appeal to the supreme court if the district appellate court, which ordered a new trial yesterday, refused to reconsider the case.

The appellate court cited four major errors in reaching the decision that Pantages should have another chance to escape a one-to-50-year term in San Quentin.

Fitts, according to the decision, was guilty of misconduct in his prosecution of the case and Superior Judge Charles Fricke erred in refusing to permit the defense to introduce testimony as to Miss Pringle's testimony.

Pantages' attorneys said they had "new and sensational evidence" to offer when the case comes into court again and Miss Pringle, expressing surprise at the action of the appellate court, said she was willing to testify against the multimillionaire a second time.

The dancer alleges she was attacked last Aug. 9 when she called at Pantages' office to ask him to book her act.

FAIL TO FIND BODIES FLIERS

No Trace McNulty and Parker, Pilot

CONNEAUT, Ohio, Sept. 27. (AP)—Scores of men and boys, coast guardsmen and sheriff's deputies spent today searching the shore line of Lake Erie from Conneaut to Ashtabula but failed to find the bodies of William McNulty, Columbus salt manufacturer, and Willard Parker, of Cleveland, his pilot, whose wrecked plane was found west of here this morning.

The cabin of the plane, with wings and motor gone, and cover ripped from it, was wedged in a clump of fallen trees at the lake edge and partly hidden by an overhanging cliff. For a mile along the shore, parts of the plane were picked up, but there was no trace of the bodies.

Coast guard boats went out from Conneaut and Ashtabula with their crews closely scanning the water. Three airplanes from Cleveland made a search overhead.

W. Z. Allen, of the Curtiss-Wright Flying service, who has led the search for the men since they took off from the Cleveland Municipal airport at 1:30 a. m. Wednesday, said the condition of the safety belt fastenings in the plane indicated the men might have been thrown out.

Allen said Parker was inexperienced as a night flyer and expressed belief than in the darkness the plane struck the water, hurled its occupants out and crumpled to pieces.

The men had told Cleveland airport officials they were going to Mifflinburg, Pa., by way of Buffalo, but it is believed they had other plans, possibly to fly to a Canadian city.

Concho Wins in Terrapin Derby West Texas Fair

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Sept. 27. (UP)—Head up and tail up, Concho, named for the West Texas river which runs its best when it rains, plowed through mud and water in the record time of 30 minutes to win the first prize of $100 in the terrapin derby at the West Texas exposition here today.

Only a few hundred persons were present, but this did not hamper Concho's form as he made a bee-line for the outer edge of the 80-foot circle. He was urged on by the pleading of J. L. Jackson, his owner and trainer.

Following closely on Concho's heels, came Sheba, a fast female, to win the second prize of $15 for P. P. Burnett.

Next was John Silver, minus one pin, which caused him to gallop unevenly in the dash across the circle to take $10 for Ed Appling.

Rain this morning added pep to the terrapins from dry Kansas, and the preliminary winner dashed through in one hour to take an award of $10. Gasoline was poured on the track and burned to banish the chill.

The smallness of the purse was believed to be due to the fact that West Texans are not educated in the thrills of terrapin racing. Although 300 entries had been announced this morning, the total had dwindled to 146 when the wire was lifted.

CASHIER CONFESSES TO $75,000 FORGERY

CARTHAGE, Ill., Sept. 27. (INS)—George Dachroth, 27, model young man and for the last 10 years cashier of the now defunct First Trust and Savings bank of Nauvoo, has confessed, authorities said today, to forging notes totaling $75,000.

This figure, bankers say, is too low, as the Illinois State bank and Mercantile Trust and Savings bank of Quincy and the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, Chicago, alone hold his paper for some $116,000.

Judge Atwell of U.S. Court Gives Dry Law Advice

DALLAS, Sept. 27. (UP)—Fifteen years ago Judge William H. Atwell of federal district court here liked—and took—a little toddy when he wasn't feeling well, he told 46 men and two women brought before him today for sentence on conviction of violation of the liquor laws.

And occasionally he would like one now, he added.

"But to take it would be a violation of the law," Judge Atwell said. "If I sat up here and drank whisky on the sly, there is not a man here who wouldn't feel that I was the worst kind of a hypocrite.

"Do you think the judge is any better than the average man, that he should break the country's laws while his fellow men keep them? We're all in the same boat."

The veteran and widely known jurist admonished the group that money was no objective and there was no influence in the court in dispensation of the country's justice.

"The man who says that for $5 or $5,000 he can keep you from being indicted or convicted is a liar," Judge Atwell declared. "If I thought I worked with any official less clean than I try to be, I'd either work to get rid of him or get out myself."

Mrs. Hoover as Girl Was Skating Rink Champion

MEXICO, Mo., Sept. 27. (UP)—How Miss Lou Henry roller skated to fame and thereby won the silk umbrella as rink champion of Waterloo, Iowa,—years before she became Mrs. Herbert Hoover—was recalled here today by donors of the prize.

Forty-six years ago, as a pink-cheeked and agile school girl, Lou Henry dashed twice around a big rink in Waterloo in 38 seconds, blowing out 19 candles placed as pylons of the race, to triumph over 100 childhood competitors.

The anecdote was recalled here today by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ackman, farmers near here, who at the time operated a skating rink and creamery in Waterloo.

"I have often thought I would write to Mrs. Hoover and tell her that the person who gave her the parasol was still alive," Mrs. Ackman remarked, "but it happened so long ago and so much has happened since then, she may have forgotten all about it. Skating rinks were a new thing then."

LAKE STEAMER IN STORM IS MISSING

of Muskegon and Harry Smith, of Newark, N. J. Thev had survived 16 hours of battering by waves and the rolling of the wreckage of their craft. Clifford Lane, of Muskegon, who also sought a chance for life by clinging to the derrick, was dead when the coast guards reached the barge at 6 o'clock this morning. They learned also that Clarence Brunett, the fourth man to try to withstand the gale by hanging to the derrick had given up and dropped into the water about dusk last night.

The third vessel caught in the storm was the old schooner "Our Son," last of her type on the lakes. She foundered off Ludington yesterday afternoon and went down after her crew of seven men had been removed by the freighter William Nelson.

Besides Captain Anderson and his wife, those aboard the North Shore when she left St. Joseph were Joseph Tekus, of Milwaukee; Royal Ritcher, of Washington Island and two others whose names were not available. The vessel is 64 feet long and powered with a Diesel engine.

FIND RADIO STATION BIG RUM SYNDICATE

States Attorney Howard W. Ameli said:

"These two are a new type of international character. They have been expelled from France and Great Britain, and now I understand are again wanted by Scotland Yard."

Ameli ordered his assistant, William Cowan, to proceed immediately to Canada to confer with dominion and provincial officials and gather evidence of the ramifications of the syndicate. It is charged the ring used the French islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon as its base, and may also touch at Bermuda.

H. J. Simons, chief agent of the department of justice operatives who have worked on the case for weeks until they had decoded strange messages and traced the source, said:

Biggest Rum Syndicate

"This is the biggest rum syndicate in the country. These two men were working for the ring. I assume they are only employes, although they are experts. McMasters is an alien, but we can't deport him because he is under bail and under charges. He is a Canadian. Agents still are at work, and some day we'll get the higher-ups in this gang."

The raid itself followed weeks of listening in.

For five months radio messages have been sent out on an unauthorized wave length in code. Government radio experts listened. Taking 67 radio bearings with directional finders, the agents found all the lines converged on the house on Avenue V, in Brooklyn. In the meantime government code experts had succeeded in deciphering the messages and operatives were enabled to read them readily.

As a result, the government has transcriptions of numerous messages showing the linking of the station with the operation of the rum fleet.

TALBOT DISCUSSES PARTY'S PLATFORM IN STATE CAMPAIGN

Offers Himself as Hired Hand to Work for Texas

SAYS MOTIVE TO DO SOMETHING FOR STATE

Declares Prohibition Has Not Received Fair Trial as Yet

DALLAS, Sept. 27. (AP)—In accepting the Republican nomination for governor, Col. William E. Talbot of Dallas said today he was offering himself as a hired hand to work for the state of Texas.

"I am actuated by one motive, and that is a desire to try to do something for the state that I have lived in from childhood and which has given me what little I possess in this world," he said.

The candidate expressed his approval of the planks in the Republican platform, adopted at the state convention at San Angelo early this month, and said the platform was "the means by which we hope to arouse the people of this state to the necessity of developing Texas for Texans."

Conception of Duties

"My ideas of the duties of governor are perhaps different from any candidate who has run since I have been in Texas," Colonel Talbot continued. "The governor, according to my conception of the duties, is a hired hand working for the best interests of his state, and not for any political aggrandizement, nor for any added honor to an already full life.

"As a hired hand, there are thousands of other men in Texas who are capable, if the opportunity had come to them, of carrying out a wonderfully constructive program for Texas, and I feel indeed fortunate to have the opportunity of at least putting before the people the plans that I would advocate and try to bring to completion should I be elected."

Concerning prohibition the candidate had this to say:

"Prohibition has never received a fair trial. The burden of enforcing it in Texas has been placed upon the federal government. Texas' own laws are more drastic and more effective than those enforced by the federal government. I would like to see enforcement of the 18th amendment given a square deal in Texas."

Day Nursery Means New Life for Many Wichita Families

By ELEANOR FLEMING

Ten or twelve boys and girls are grouped about their leader—a freckled-faced 7-year-old gamin in a blue dress. "Tell us just one more story, Lucille!" they plead.

But Lucille is already pirouetting across the yard. "Follow the leader!" she cries, and the "gang" is electrified into action. It isnt the back yard of the day nursery—it's a long narrow trail to fairyland, and he that doesn't walk on his tiptoes will not be admitted.

Lucille is always the leader at the day nursery now. The children have forgotten the day when she came, only a year ago—a wild, starving animal who would not even let the superintendent go near her the first three weeks she was there.

In the filthy rags she had lived and slept in for weeks, the child shrunk into a corner and refused to do anything but watch the other children. No one could touch her.

Before long, however, she went to the superintendent of her own accord and plucked at her skirt. "Mrs. Datson, could I take a bath so I could be like the rest of them?" she asked. Thus started the reformation and transformation of what seemed to be a hopeless case in every way.

Place for Play

There are others—10-month-old Tommie, who has only been in the nursery two weeks and still cries while the other babies sleep because he had nearly starved before his mother brought him to the only place she knew would feed him; sturdy little Jimmie who was constantly under a doctor's care the first two or three years that he was in the nursery and who is now as splendid and healthy as his three older brothers; tow-headed boys who roll old tires around in the large back yard and play policeman and fireman and street car conductor; curly-haired baby girls who rock their dolls to sleep; all these are the "family" which lives at 403 Lamar avenue from early in the morning to late every evening, while their parents work, or look for work.

At noon there are from 55 to 75 who bow their heads and give reverent thanks for what is, for many of them, the only real meal they get during the day. Spinach, carrots, a meat or meat substitute, a dessert, and all the milk they can drink is served to them. They have had milk earlier in the morning, and will have another lunch at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

And for this—for a morning and afternoon lunch and a midday square meal—the cost is eight cents per child per day! "Of course we could never do it without the additional gifts which come from various individuals and business houses," said Mrs. F. T. Datson, superintendent. "We are given bread by the bakeries, and the ice cream companies give us a frequent afternoon treat. Otherwise our bill would be higher." During June, July and August, 600 more children were fed than during the same period last year.

For milk, $80 is spent each month—the biggest expenditure of all. "Every child is urged to drink as much milk as possible, but not any is ever wasted," Mrs. Datson said.

Children as Helpers

Instead of the many helpers usually employed in a nursery of the size of the Wichita Falls institution, the older boys and girls are taught to help. The girls sweep and set the tables and dust; the boys wash the windows and mop and do small carpenter jobs.

That is the story to be found within the four brick walls and the board fence at 403 Lamar, but the hundreds of stories that come from the mothers of the children show more than anything else the work being done by the organization.

"My children had starved for two days. I had been taking in washing, but my customers quit and I couldn't find work. I knew you would feed my children while I looked for work," says one.

"If you were to turn my boys out of the nursery, I couldn't keep on," another testifies. "The day nursery has kept my family intact ever since my husband died."

Most of the mothers work for approximately $10 per week and consequently cannot feed their children at home. "Even some of the tiny babies come here in the morning when we can tell that they have had nothing to eat at home," explained the superintendent.

Children whose parents are not working or looking for work are not taken into the nursery, and there are very few cases where both parents are living. "We only do what they cannot do," is the rule employed, and often educational work is done for the remainder of the family through the boys and girls who stay at the nursery through the daylight hours.

A bath—clean clothing—a lunch—a nap in a cool, clean bed . . . not so much to the child whose daily routine includes such items, but to hundreds of Wichita Falls families, the difference between illness and health, death and life, tragedy and happiness.

CAMPAIGNING IN NORTH CAROLINA

FRANKLIN, N. C., Sept. 27. (AP)—Bert Slagle is Democratic candidate for sheriff in this county.

Sam Franks is Republican candidate for the same office.

Slagle, out on the hustings, noted a woman chopping wood. He offered his help. An hour he chopped wood, while the perspiration poured from his brow.

At last the wood was cut and Slagle seated himself on the front porch to rest. The question of his candidacy came up.

"I hardly know whom to vote for," the lady said. "Both you and Mr. Franks have been so nice to us.

"Why, right now Mr. Franks is out on the back porch churning."

Seaton A. Barnes Jr. was awarded $9,650 collision damages against the Southwestern Bell Telephone company and L. W. Kelly, construction foreman, in a verdict returned at noon Saturday before Judge W. W. Cook in the 78th district court.

The plaintiff has asked damages totaling $52,000 as the result of an automobile crash on the Henrietta highway last winter.

The jury awarded $8,000 personal injury damages, $450 for automobile damages and $1,200 for medical bills.

NO CHANGE IN RATES OKLAHOMA INSURANCE EXCEPT FOR NEAR WELLS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 27. (UP)—Oklahoma City's fire insurance rates will not be altered, except near oil wells, C. T. Ingalls, head of the Oklahoma inspection bureau, announced today after the bureau withdrew its application for a flat increase of $1 per $100 throughout the city.

The petition asking dismissal of the application was filed today with the state insurance commission. Had the application been granted, the city would have paid $3,000,000 more annually for insurance, said A. L. Roark, commission secretary.

With the application for increased insurance rates withdrawn, insurance companies will put a present schedule into use, said Ingalls. The schedule provides for higher rates on property near oil wells, the rate to be determined by the proximity of the wells.

No further applications for rate adjustments will be asked of the state insurance commission, said Ingalls.

WICHITA BOYS TO GET CHANCE AT BIG PRIZES

Prizes totaling $50,000 are being offered the boys of America by the Fisher body corporation in a national contest in which the entrants are to build miniature models of the Napoleonic coach emblem used in all "body by Fisher" advertisements, according to D. L. Fritz, of the Fritz Motor company, which is local registration headquarters for the contest.

All boys wishing to enter are urged to report to the Fritz Motor company at the corner of Eleventh street and Scott avenue where they will be registered. Full instructions and drawings will be sent them from the Fisher Body Craftsman's guild at Detroit.

Boys will be divided into two classes, from 12 to 15 years of age and from 16 to 19 years.

There will be four grand national awards, two in each class, which will be a four-year university scholarship, the equivalent of $5,000 each.

The grand state awards will be a trip to Detroit and $50 in gold to the winner in each class in each state and a runner-up prize of $50 in gold.

There will be $10 first prizes and $5 second prizes in each class in each state in the following four divisions: Woodcraft, metalcraft, trimcraft and paintcraft.

There will be a total of 964 awards.

PREDICTED TEXAS FROST FAILS TO MATERIALIZE

DALLAS, Sept. 27. (AP)—Miami, in Roberts county, had a minimum temperature of 40 degrees—eight above freezing—for 24 hours ending at 8 a. m. today, according to the United States weather bureau here.

That's as near as the weather prognosticator fulfilled his promise that there would be frost "in the exposed places of the Panhandle," based on returns.

There were a couple of 42s showing, at Muleshoe and Memphis. Dallas' minimum was 56 and Brownsville reported 70.

Traffic Safety

CINCINNATI—This city has solved the problem of making automobile drivers go slow at dangerous intersections or railroad crossings. Huge thumb tacks are placed in the road near quiet and dangerous zones, and the thoughtless motorists are bumped into keeping their cars at a slow speed until the zone is passed.

Perry Browning, Democratic nominee for sheriff of Wichita county, pictured in one of the planes at the Municipal airport. Mr. Browning holds a private pilot's license.

Meet the man—if you don't already know him, who is to be Wichita county's first flying sheriff, unless the wholly unforeseen intervenes.

He is Perry Browning, who on last July 26 received the Democratic nomination which is all but equivalent to election as sheriff. He takes office Jan. 1.

Mr. Browning will assume his duties with the record of being the first air pilot to hold the office of sheriff here, and one of the few sheriffs in Texas to be so qualified. If there are any others at all in Texas, officials here do not know of them.

He will not be alone, however, among Wichita county officialdom of those able to fly. L. V. Abernathy, nominee for county attorney won his wings during the world war. Mr. Abernathy, however, has done little flying of late years, although he is only a little past 30 years of age.

Mr. Browning, a former cowboy, farmer, oil field hand, oil field operator and realty dealer, began taking lessons in aviation more than a year ago. Within a few months he obtained a private pilot's license and since has done about 80 hours of solo flying. At various times since he has flown to many of the distant sections of the country, including one trip to Detroit. A private pilot's license, it was explained permits the holder to pilot a plane anywhere but forbids the carrying of passengers for hire.

While admittedly an aviation enthusiast and a believer in its future, Mr. Browning declared he will not enter upon the duties of office expecting to introduce revolutionary changes in that regard.

"At the same time," he continued, "there are undoubtedly uses to which the airplane must be put if the cause of law enforcement is to keep pace with progress. For example, it might become especially useful in spotting fugitives fleeing from the scene of crime. If use for the airplane arises, I shall not hesitate to use it.

"The plane likewise might prove serviceable in expediting the sheriff's business if it calls him away from the county seat. By that I do not mean it should be used in transporting prisoners. I doubt if a person could be required legally to enter a plane for the purpose of being transported from one point to another to face a charge."

Mr. Browning does not himself own a plane and has no immediate intention, he declared, of acquiring one.

Woman Battles Armed Bandits And Saves $800

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 27. (UP)—Mrs. J. T. Skeen, Oklahoma City, recovered $800 in a battle with two armed bandits last night in front of her home, near the state fair grounds.

Mrs. Skeen and her husband, operators of a fair grounds cafeteria, were halted by two men in front of their home. They took a purse containing $200 from Skeen and ordered Mrs. Skeen to give up a bag of money she was carrying. She fought the bandits and held to the bag until it was torn from her hand.

The men ran from the Skeen home and jumped onto the running board of an automobile.

The handle of the money bag apparently was weakened by the scuffle for it broke as the men jumped into the car, and fell to the pavement. The men did not stop and Skeen recovered the bag and the $800 it contained.

WICHITA CHAMBER PROTESTS CHANGE IN FREIGHT RATES

A protest has been filed on behalf of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce against granting an application pending before the southwestern freight bureau to allow three stops for partial unloading from carload freight shipments, according to information given Saturday by Dudley B. Foy, assistant manager of the chamber.

The application, Mr. Foy has been advised, has been referred to the standard rate committee of the bureau for recommendation.

At the present time, it was explained, the lesser rate for carload shipments is allowed only when the shipment travels unbroken from point of original to destination. The application asks that the same rate be allowed on such shipments from which partial discharges are made at as many as three points between origin and destination.

In its protest, the Wichita chamber contends that the proposed rate would discriminate against jobbers of such intermediate points as Wichita Falls.

BLANKENSHIP SENTENCED TO 35 YEARS IN PRISON FOR SAPULPA SLAYING

SAPULPA, Okla., Sept. 27. (UP)—Stephen O. Blankenship, convicted on a manslaughter charge early this week in the death of James G. Moss here, was sentenced today to serve 35 years in the state penitentiary.

A feud that had its inception over a liquor raid was blamed for the tragedy that occurred here early last March.

The Blankenship trial was the most sensational case of the opening fall term of district court in Creek county.

MR. X, VERSATILE GENIUS, FACES BUSY PERIOD IN WICHITA FALLS DECLINES TO BECOME HUSBAND

Although Mr. X does not start work officially until Tuesday, he spent a busy day on Saturday selecting the new automobile in which he will travel from task to task and city to city whilst employed in his unique occupation.

Mr. X has chosen the new Chevrolet coach for his car during the coming year and his decision was made whilst in conversation with the mechanics of Fox Chevrolet company.

"Speed, durability and economy," said Mr. X, "are the chief reasons that made me decide on this automobile, but appearance counts too, easy riding is a quality that I look for, as often I drive hour after hour without resting." So Mr. X in his new Chevrolet will be a familiar sight on the streets of Wichita Falls during the coming week.

Hourly come letters asking for the services of Mr. X, and requests that seem at the first glance impossible, but as Mr. X reads them he just smiles that puzzling smile of his, and files the requests away in the order in which they are received.

Mrs. W. L. Hoskins who resides at 1312 North Ninth street wants Mr. X to repair her sewing machine, and a piano is to be tuned for Miss Cloe Stripling of 3316 Holliday street. Finding two stray dogs is another job that has been put up to Mr. X. Ah, here's another: Will Mr. X address members of the Lions club at their regular meeting on Wednesday of next week?" "Sure," was Mr. X's reply, "be glad to, any other club or organization. And I'll give them something interesting."

On Sunday evening, Mr. X will address the members of the Young Peoples Fellowship club at the Episcopal church. He will not say what his subject will be but promises it to be of interest to young and old.

"Looks like they're going to keep me on the jump in this town," quoth he, as he reached for his letter opener and selected a letter from the middle of the pile, reminding the while, "Remember first come first served. I can't be fixing all the radios and electric pianos in Wichita Falls. We must have variety to keep up the interest."

The harder the task the better Mr. X likes it. He does not do the ordinary things that can be done by anybody. Mr. X specializes in the tasks that baffle the ordinary man. Nor is he prepared to undertake to become a husband. He is perfectly willing, however, to be best man or chief usher in an emergency.

Mr. X is in Wichita Falls for the Times and is at the service of any reader of this newspaper. If you have a task for him to do fill out the coupon.

Hears From Spinster

The reason that the husband business is mentioned is due to the fact that he received a little note from a woman who asks that, in the event her proposal is not accepted, her name will be withheld. Mr. X keeps confidences. He publishes the letter without the name.

"I am a spinster, comparatively young and good looking. Your description, published in The Times, just about fits my ideal of a husband. I certainly would like a husband who can be so handy about the house.

"My sisters are all married. Yet not one of them has a husband who knows how to fix a water faucet, clean the drafts of the furnace, fix the vacuum cleaner, or mind the baby, and yet three of them are fathers of babies. Nor can one of them even mend a minor breakdown of the family automobile. Only one of them knows how to change a tire, and he does that amid clumsiness and profanity. In fact, all my brothers-in-law are practically useless in the things that count so much in housekeeping.

One Who Knows How

"The experiences of my sisters long determined me to marry only a man who knows what to do when the mechanics of the house break down, and know the right thing to do at a social affair. Oh, what a jewel such a husband would be, and oh, how rare such husbands are in this world.

"Dear Mr. X, if you are not a perfect ogre in looks and not averse to marrying a girl who is good looking and comfortably fixed, you may consider this a tentative proposal."

"Whatever I do for you," said Mr. X, "is a service to you, free of all charge, given to you without obligation on your part whatsoever, given to you by The Times. Why? Because The Times is something more than a newspaper. Wherever it can, and whenever it can give its readers a new measure of public service, it does so. Gives you the news and service, too.

"First come, first served. Write to me in care of The Times. I tell you here and now, I can fix anything for you. Anything at all. I'm no picker.

"But, dear, dear people, please do not ask me to put in coal or clean out the cellar or basement, wash your windows or any old job.

"As a last word or two before I go out on my job Tuesday, please have the tools ready for me so that I can hustle to work and be gone again to the next job.

"And club chairmen and others in charge of organization programs: If you want me to talk to your membership, I'm the very lad who can do it for you, and I am ready to respond to your call. No charge at all, you know. Just a friendly task. And that goes for ladies' clubs, too."

Railroad men will learn that Mr. X can handle the throttle of a locomotive in the most approved style. A few months ago he took a fast express over the Pennsylvania railroad from Philadelphia to Atlantic City on schedule time.

Ready to Preach

Preachers, desiring to rest awhile, may have Mr. X preach for them. He has delivered sermons in many churches and has always been asked to come back. Needless to say he also teaches Sunday school classes.

First come, first served. The first minister to fill out and mail the coupon—or use the telephone—wins the speaker. More than that, the preacher, if he so desires, can select the text.

Whatever it is you want done, Mr. X will do it and his services are free.

Fill out the coupon and mail it to Mr. X, care of The Times.

GENERAL WOOD NAMED SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVE BRIGADIER GENERAL HINES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27. (US)—Gen. George H. Wood today was appointed special representative of Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, in his new and more comprehensive duties as administrator of veterans affairs.

General Wood who has been president of the board of managers of the national home for disabled volunteer soldiers will be the special representative of General Hines in all matters relating to the administration and operation of the national home with headquarters at Dayton, Ohio. The change was made at General Wood's request.

Col. C. W. Wadsworth, general treasurer of the national home, has been appointed to succeed General Wood as director of the bureau of national homes veterans administration. Hereafter, the national home for disabled veteran soldiers which has jurisdiction over 10 branches will be designated as the bureau of national homes veterans administration.

Show to Be Open Monday Afternoon Auspices Kiwanis

Beckmann and Gerety's World's Best shows late tonight, or early in the morning, will unload their city of wonders in Wichita Falls. Monday afternoon they open their traveling Coney Island at the baseball park under the auspices of the Kiwanis club.

Advance agents have claimed much for the shows, but the claims are made so modestly Wichita Falls is sold on the idea that it is a 'whale of a show.'

They offer 30 shows and 12 big riding devices. Their feature attraction is Jean Libbera, the only living double-bodied man. The second body grows from his chest and is developed even to the finger nails. Supporting Libbera, in the big circus side show, are many other entertaining offerings.

Alice Melville comes with the Melody Maids show, a musical comedy worth while. In this same tent is presented something newer than the talkies. This is 'tel-o-vision,' a startling optical illusion. By clever use lighting effects throw flying shadows toward the audience, which for the instant forgets they are shadows, and dodges. This promotes plenty of fun for the observers.

Cash Miller, veteran showman, comes with his Congress of Human Wonders. It is a collection of strange creatures worthy of a visit. Jack Shafer does more than other magicians. He saws a woman in half in front of his show. Then he steps inside to shoot another through the body.

In the autodrome fearless girl riders race a big Nubian lion. Charles Ellis, a native of the Panhandle, comes along with 'Ranger,' the famous horse from the Hollywood movie studios. Sixty-five freak animals, gathered from American farms, make up another show. C. I. Norris' 'monkeys of the jungles,' as made in the movies, are in the line-up. To add to variety is a horned wild-horse from the mountains of the moon. Thus it is along the expansive midway. There is something to appeal to all.

The 'waltzer,' the newest thing in riding devices, heads the fleet of twelve. It is a massive thing, built of forty tons of steel, and costing outright the modest sum of $50,000. The shows will open Monday afternoon, giving performances afternoon and night all the week.

Maple and sycamore are the favorite woods for the backs or under surfaces of violins. The belly or top is made of soft wood like pine or fir.

Twenty Years Ago Today

From Files Wichita Times

Sept. 28, 1910.

At a call meeting of the city council yesterday afternoon the ordinance requiring that the curbing on Tenth street from Burnett to Lamar be 20 feet from the property line on each side of the street was amended to 18 feet. This action was taken to give more room for the hitching of horses and for automobiles at the four churches on this street, the Baptist, Presbyterian, Methodist and Christian.

Mrs. O. T. Bacon returned this afternoon from Boulder, Colo., at which place she had been to enter her son, Bentley, in the university.

GERMAN REPRESENTATIVE DENIES GOVERNMENT HAD PART IN WAR EXPLOSION

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Sept. 27. (AP)—The German claims representative, Karl von Levinski, today made a further effort to prove the German government in no wise connected with the Kingsland, N. J., munitions explosion, one of the disasters which spurred United States entry into the world war.

Von Levinski presented testimony before the mixed commission hearing American claims for sabotage damage in an effort to absolve the German workman Wozniak in this connection. He testified that the confession of Hermann, another German secret agent, regarding Wozniak was full of contradictions and improbabilities. He declared that the person Hermann described as Wozniak did not resemble the real Wozniak as to color of eyes or hair and spoke English very badly, instead of fluently as Hermann said.

INDUSTRIAL DEPRESSION RESULTS FROM LACK OF PURCHASING POWER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27. (AP)—A lack of purchasing power by wage workers was blamed today in the American Federation of Labor's weekly news bulletin for the industrial depression.

"Theorists may quibble over the distinction between overproduction and underconsumption," the bulletin said, "but no practical person denies wage workers have not the money to buy."

The publication added that if the depression would be ended, principles of high wage and shorter hours must be applied.

Wine and Beer Making in Homes For Consumption at Home Immune From Interference by Dry Agents

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27, (AP)—Wine and beer making in the home for home consumption was declared immune from federal interference today by Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock.

The national enforcement agencies, he said, can intervene only when evidence of a sale has been obtained, as without such evidence no search warrant for a private home can be issued.

Under the law, he explained, the home brewer is liable to punishment if his product is "intoxicating in fact," a point for settlement by a jury, but in any event, he is beyond the reach of the federal authorities unless a commercial feature is involved.

Inspection Tour

Woodcock returned today from an inspection tour of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware and planned to leave tonight for a similar survey in Tennessee.

He said he expected to spend several days in Memphis as personnel conditions in that section demanded attention. If time permits, he will return to Washington Thursday.

These inspection trips, which are planned to include every state in the union, are confined to a survey of conditions within the enforcement organization, and the promotion of cooperation with local authorities and are not intended to include any investigation of actual liquor conditions.

Woodcock reported the situation excellent in Pennsylvania and New Jersey, but poor in Delaware, as that state until a few days ago had been without a deputy administrator for about a month. He said he expected an early improvement there.

Find Ancient City

MEXICO CITY.—Archaeologists have unearthed near Toluca what is thought to be one of the oldest cities in America. It is a pre-Aztec city and is regarded as one of the richest finds in archaeological circles for years. The remains of the city include eleven temples, several pyramids and hundreds of objects of ancient Indian art.

FORMER TELEGRAPHER TULSA FACES SENTENCE OF LIFE IMPRISONMENT

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 27. (AP)—Roy E. Freeman, 39, former telegrapher, faced a sentence of life imprisonment today for the killing of Mrs. Charles Morton last April 28. A district court jury convicted him of murder and fixed his punishment in a verdict returned late last night after two and one-half hours' deliberation.

Freeman shot and killed Mrs. Morton and her husband, a Tulsa sportsman, following a quarrel between the two men over a garage which Morton rented from Freeman. The families were next door neighbors. The defense sought to prove Freeman was insane.

IOWA PARK CHURCH BELIEVED TO HOLD RECORD FOR NUMBER WITH TRAINING CERTIFICATES

IOWA PARK, Texas, Sept. 27.—What is believed to be the largest number of certificates ever claimed by a single congregation in the Southern Methodist church, were awarded last Sunday by the Rev. Paul E. Martin at exercises closing the Standard Training school at the Iowa Park Methodist church.

The goal had been set at 100 students at the opening of the school and certificates were awarded to 107. The total number of credits for the school was 155 of which the First Baptist church of Wichita Falls received one; the Presbyterian church of Iowa Park, two; the Christian church of Iowa Park, two; the First Methodist church of Burkburnett, one; the Valley View Methodist church, four; First Methodist of Electra, three; Sibley Taylor Methodist, Wichita Falls, five; Byers Methodist, six; Floral Heights Methodist, Wichita Falls, four; and First Methodist, Wichita Falls, 20.

It will be recalled that this church obtained 302 credits during 1929, which was the largest number ever awarded in a single church.

Six courses offered during the school were worship, Rev. Paul C. Stephenson; spirit and genius of Methodism, Rev. C. A. Spragins; interpretation of missionary task, Dr. A. W. Wasson; the Bible message of Jesus, the Rev. Paul E. Martin; a study of early and middle adolescence, Mrs. D. A. Cook; adult department administration, Mrs. E. L. Gerhardt. The board of managers for the school was C. A. Spragins, chairman; Paul C. Stephenson, educational director; John C. Murphree, superintendent of training; Erwin F. Bohmfalk, chairman of publicity, and all the Sunday school superintendents and pastors.

KOL NIDRE WILL BE CELEBRATED WEDNESDAY EVE

Kol Nidre services will be celebrated at Temple Israel Wednesday evening with a special musical program and a sermon by Rabbi S. J. Schwab. The services are scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Carrie Wilcox will have charge of the music assisted by Mrs. Fletcher, George Taylor and Miss Ruth Wilcox. Mrs. Flora Greenwood will play Kol Nidre.

Services will also be held Thursday morning, beginning at 10 o'clock and lasting throughout the day. Mrs. Victor B. Lowrey will sing.

Rabbi Schwab's sermon subjects will be "Molding Character" for Wednesday evening and "Beware of False Morality" for Thursday morning. The doors will be closed during the playing of Kol Nidre.

The Jewish people will begin celebration of the day of atonement, known in Hebrew as "Yom Kippur," on Wednesday evening, Oct. 1, 1930. The chanting of the awe-inspiring melody of Kol Nidre in all temples and synagogues will mark the beginning of the fast which ends with the closing service of the following evening. The day of atonement stands as the most solemn and sacred day in Jewish life, and by virtue of its spiritual significanec it carries a signal message to the world at large.

Elaborate Ritual

When the Jews lived in Palestine, the observation of the day of atonement was distinguished by an elaborate ritual. As described in Leviticus xvi, the priests offered sacrifices upon the altar of the temple to atone for the iniquities and transgressions of the entire people. In the presence of a large assembly which filled the temple courts the high priest uttered three confessions of sin: one for his own and the sins of his family, one for the sins of the priesthood, and one for the sins of the entire people. The people prostrated themselves; the Levites sounded the trumpets; and the priests implored God for mercy and forgiveness.

But when the Jews found themselves in a new environment following the destruction of the temple the day of atonement underwent a great change. Priesthood and altar were no more; the pomp of the sacrificial ceremonies disappeared. But the vital ideas of this holy day manifested themselves in a much clearer fashion. Prayer and meditation came to substitute for animal sacrifices. The rabbis of old looked upon Yom Kippur as the completion of the 10 days' penitential period which begins with New Year's day. With great emphasis and force they brought home the ideas of repentance and forgiveness—two doctrines fundamental in all religions and basic in the moral progress of mankind.

Throughout the medieval ages up to the present, the day of atonement continued as a day of serious meditation when man stands before his own soul and his Creator in sincere prayer. The supplications of the day seek to bring man to the mood of self-examination and self-criticism so essential in the life of humanity; they strive to raise man to a moral state where he will resolve to turn from the forces which make for degeneration and pursue those which make for moral progress.

HEAR TESTIMONY ON EQUALIZATION OF RATES GALVESTON AND HOUSTON

HOUSTON, Sept. 27. (AP)—Testimony designed to show the line haul costs between Galveston and Houston was taken today by cross examination in the Interstate Commerce commission hearings of the case involving Galveston efforts at rate equalization.

Data concerning comparative rail terminal expense of Galveston and Houston also was taken.

F. I. Cairns of New Orleans, statistical expert of the Southern Pacific lines, was on the stand most of the morning for cross examination by Maj. Fred N. Oliver, representing the Galveston-Texas City interests.

Major Oliver's question were intended to substantiate costs figures of Robert J. Barry, Galveston counsel, and to show that railroad figures were incorrect. Representatives of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas, International-Great Northern, Southern Pacific, and Santa Fe railroads appearing before the commission yesterday, gave testimony which Houston interests contended showed it costs more to ship to Galveston than to Houston, and that a price should be charged accordingly.

MAN SENTENCED TO DIE AT BROWWOOD APPEALS

AUSTIN, Sept. 27. (AP)—Joe Shields, convicted at Brownwood of slaying his wife and sentenced to be executed for the crime, perfected an appeal to the court of criminal appeals today.

Errors upon which his attorneys rely for a reversal include a statement attributed to the district attorney of Brownwood that there never was "a crime so atrocious" in the county.

Shields shot and killed his wife, from whom he had been estranged, May 16, at her parents' home in Brookesmith. After shooting her, he shot and killed her parents, "Grandma and Grandpa" Shields.

Witnesses testified that he had purchased bullets for his rifle a short time before the shooting which occurred at a little store in the town.

Shields' attorneys claimed that defense witnesses were not allowed to testify as to their impressions concerning the state of Shields' mind. The plea was irrationality induced by his fear that he was going to lose his two children.

SALT LAKE CITY TELEGRAM PURCHASED BY TRIBUNE

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 27. (AP)—The sale of the Salt Lake City telegram to the Kearns corporation, publisher of the Salt Lake Tribune, was announced today by Arthur L. Fish, president and general manager of the Telegram Publishing company. The financial arrangements involved were not stated.

The telegram was established by Perry Heath and associates in 1901. In 1913 the control passed to George E. Hale and in 1920 to Mr. Fish and T. J. Mullin.

The loud shrill noise of the katydid is made only by the male and is produced by raising and lowering the wings.

WILL NAME COMMITTEE TO CONSIDER COMPLAINT AGAINST BISHOP CANNON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27. (AP)—Dr. Forrest J. Prettyman, of Baltimore, said today a committee of clergymen to investigate charges against Bishop James Cannon Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, was likely to be named within two weeks by Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, president of the church's college of bishops.

The charges were sent to Ainsworth by Prettyman, Dr. J. T. Marsten, Richmond; Dr. Costen J. Harrell, Richmond; and Dr. I. P. Martin, Abingdon, Va.

Prettyman, here attending the Baltimore conference of his church, said today they had no desire to rush but intended to see the investigation carried through. He made public a letter from Martin, which said study had convinced him of the correctness of the action in filing the charges under the law of the Southern Methodist church.

The letter was in answer to a statement by Cannon, received by The Associated Press by radio from the S. S. American Legion on which he is returning to this country from Brazil, in which he questioned the legality of the procedure for he had not been consulted before the charges were filed against him.

Chicken Fishing Brings Accusation Against Man Here

The charge of a woman that a man neighbor had used an ordinary fishing pole, line and hook to lift her chickens from her yard to his was being investigated by the police department here late Saturday, according to Frank Burns, chief of police.

Fred Fountain and Chris Jensen, city officers who investigated, said they found one chicken on the man's premises claimed by the woman to be hers. She charged, they said, that the man made the catches after chickens had swallowed hooks baited with worms.

The case was referred to the county attorney's department for further investigation.

RECEIVER NAMED FOR BANK CLOSED AT ALTUS

ALTUS, Okla., Sept. 27. (UP)—O. W. Sage, Osborne, Kan., has been appointed receiver for the closed First National bank of Altus and will arrive here early next week, it was announced today.

The bank was ordered closed recently by the board of directors. The order was signed by E. J. Becker, national bank examiner, last Monday.

Collection of notes for the bank will be made as rapidly as possible by Sage after he arrives in order that regular liquidation proceedings may be carried on.

Appointment of a receiver does not effect possible re-organization of the bank which is being considered by the directors, it was said. No definite action toward re-organization has been taken by the directors.

HARRIS COUNTY MAN IS PARDONED BY GOVERNOR

AUSTIN, Sept. 27. (AP)—Louis E. Tackett, 20, convicted in December, 1929, in Harris county of forgery in two cases and sentenced to two years imprisonment, was granted a full pardon today by Gov. Dan Moody.

Tackett, since a furlough in June, has been working for Houston physicians and has made arrangements to work his way through a medical college. Governor Moody predicated his pardon upon this representation to him by Tackett's employers and added the comment that he hoped Tackett's life "may be happy and useful."

It was the first full pardon granted in more than two months and less than a dozen have been issued since Moody became governor.

DAWES SAYS WORLD BUSINESS SHOULD RESUME NORMAL TREND BY SUMMER OR FALL NEXT YEAR

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Sept. 27. (UP)—World business should resume a normal trend by the summer or fall of next year, Charles G. Dawes, United States ambassador to Great Britain, predicted in an address today at a luncheon of the lord mayor of Belfast in the city hall.

"The business fool of 1929," Dawes said, "was he who had no fear. The business fool now is he who has no hope."

"World depression in business," Dawes said, "is due always to a sudden change in the attitude of the world's people. This changed attitude often is explained in different countries as being the result of diverse causes, including unwise national policies, undue speculation, over-production, under-consumption, and political and social upheavals. These, however, are more the effects of this change of general attitude than the causes of it.

"The truth is that the stock market depression and the following business depression were both caused by the same thing—a fundamental change in the attitude of the average man resulting from sudden loss of confidence on his part, the first public manifestation of which occurs on the stock exchange.

The qualities of mankind, he continued, are only the qualities of the average individual composing it.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27. (AP)—A two-cent cut in the service station and tank wagon price of gasoline and a similar reduction for kerosene will be made by the Standard Oil company of Indiana next Monday.

Wichita Falls Attorneys Serve on Important Committees

JUDICIAL COUNCIL TO MEET IN AUSTIN NOV. 7

Legislation to Put Civil Justice in Reach of All Desired

Bringing civil justice within reach of the "little fellow" will be one of the aims of the Texas civil judicial council, to be translated into bills for proposed legislative action at the second annual meeting of the council in Austin, Nov. 7, attorneys here have been advised.

Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court and Judge A. H. Britain, past president of the state bar association, both of Wichita Falls, along with Judge Fred H. Minor of Denton are members of the committee on judicial statistics which is participating in the formation of plans.

Creation of small-claims courts will be one of the recommendations brought in by one of the six committees now at work, it was said. Other proposals will have the general object of "obviously needed reforms for the simplification of procedure," the council has announced.

The small claims court would provide a forum for the individual now barred from the courts by the small sum of his money involved, by the need of having a high-priced lawyer, and by the delays and the possibility of continued appeals through to the state supreme court in many suits.

Beyond the bills to be drawn at the November meeting here, members of the council have announced they have a larger general program in the making, in the hands of the general committees.

Some of the committees include: Judge R. W. Hall, Amarillo, chairman, committee on court procedure, which is to recommend most of the reform measures for the next legislature.

Subcommittee on appellate procedure: J. H. Barwise, Fort Worth; Civil Appeals Chief Justice James W. McClendon, Austin; and Chief Justice C. M. Cureton of supreme court.

Subcommittee on trial procedure: R. W. Stayton, University of Texas; District Judge P. N. Price, El Paso, and Judge Fred H. Minor, Denton. Mr. Minor is chairman of the house committee on civil jurisprudence.

Organization and fiance: Judge McClendon, Austin; W. O. Huggins, lawyer and newspaper publisher, Houston; Dean Ira P. Hildebrand, University of Texas law school.

Court organization and administration: Frank Andrews, Houston; P. R. Price, El Paso; Senator Walter C. Woodward, Coleman.

Court personnel: Dean Ira P. Hildebrand, Austin; R. L. Ball, San Antonio; Harry Benge Crozier, Dallas newspaper man.

LET'S PACK UP AND GO DE TOURING—By Sam Hellman

About this time Mellish drags himself from under the bus . . .

"I figured something like this would happen," grumbles Joe Davis as the oil can rattles to a stop. "This touring stuff never was anything but the sliced salami."

"Don't worry," says Ira Mellish, hopping from the driving spot. "I'll get her going in a new-born jiffy."

"You'd better hurry," I suggests, "or you'll be doing the job in a diving-suit. We're up to the axles in mud now and sinking fast. If we'd only stuck to the main roads—"

"Don't be a sil on Sunday," snaps Ira, digging tools out from under the front seat. "Only saps take the regular routes. Don't you want to see anything but hot-dog mosques and signboards from contented lumber? All the decent scenery's on the by-roads."

"Maybe so," I admits, "but so far, I've been too busy digging the top of this car out of my hair to enjoy what's going on outside."

"We'll be off this detour pretty soon," promises Mellish, "and onto a stretch of highway that'll make you think you're skating over glass with tallow on your heels."

"Come on," growls Davis. "Get hot. That jiffy of yours is aging fast and I don't propose to stay here until it grows a beard, either."

"Leave it to me," chirps Ira. "There's little about a car that's hidden from me, and that little not for long. I'll have you out of the trenches before you can say Christmas."

"Christmas," says I, "and New Year's, for good measure, and here we still are. Personally I think we've burned out a kitish bearing."

"A what?" demands Mellish.

"That's my opinion, too," plays along Joe. "If I ever saw a case of a burned-out kitish bearing, this is one, in spades."

"Doubled and redoubled," says I, "and believe me, baby, you'll have a tough time getting this bus a-going again. . . . Remembes the time we toured to the Kentucky Derby?"

"I sure do," comes back Davis, who thinks the Kentucky Derby's an iron hat made in Louisville.

"It was a rather unique experience," says I, laughingly. "We'd hardly got out of New York when we sprung a pair of jazzle joints and burned out a kitish bearing. The jazzle joints presented no great problem. With a piece of tissue paper and some paste we'd licked off a two-cent stamp—was it a two-cent stamp, Joe, or—"

"One-cent," corrects Davis. "I remember that distinctly, because I was going to use it on a postal card to cancel an order I'd given a concern out in Akron, Ohio, for lessons in personality."

"Well," I goes on, "we soon had the jazzles clicking on all six, but what to do with the burned-out kitish bearing—what to do? We finally prevailed upon a passing tractor to tow us into the village. The garage keeper there tells us we've got to have a new kitish bearing—"

"What is a kitish bearing?" chimes in Minnie Mellish, at this point. "I never heard of it."

"The kitish," I explains, "is a knobby protuberance midway between the choofus joint and the four-wheel brakes. It's a trifling thing to look at, but it has a great bearing on the activity of the universal joint. In fact, you couldn't conduct a joint without it, even if your conductor was working properly, which it rarely does in such cases. Shall I go on with the story?"

"What for?" inquires the frau, coldly.

"A new kitish bearing," I continues, "was out of the question. The nearest place where our particular make could be obtained was Antafogast, Chile, and we could hardly wait on the parcel post service to that point. The garage mechanic was a good lad and fixed us up temporarily with a piece of hay rope and a box that was lying around the garage . . . How you getting along under there?"

"Who wants to know?" snarls Mellish from his muddy berth below the buzz-wagon.

"The queen of the Belgians," I tells him. "Well, to resume: Two miles further on, the string-and-box effect go blooey and we're again hauled to a garage, this time by a passing ambulance. Again, we're fixed up for the time being, but a mile or two down the road and we're again in trouble. A guy with a couple of horses takes us in tow and we're just about to reach the village when a bird comes along on a bicycle and arrests us for speeding."

"For what!" exclaims Minnie, whose brains you can't tell apart from any other kind of excelsior.

The sap had been lost in his own backyard!

"For speeding." I repeats. "We'd been caught in a regular road trap, but we got out of it cleverly. The justice asks me if I didn't know it was against the law to approach an incorporated village at more than 20 miles an hour. I said yes but was this an incorporated village, and I demand that he show me the incorporation papers. He didn't have 'em handy and nobody in the burg'd ever seen 'em, so he had to let me go."

"That was too bad," contributes the wife.

"A blizard, in May?" queries Mrs. Mellish.

"Hardly," says I. "It was Christmas day when we arrived, a trifle late for the Derby but not too late to share in the rich and rare hospitality of the old South. Ah, to be in Louisville at the Yuletide, when the honk of the julep is heard o'er the land—"

About this time, Mellish drags himself from under the bus, plastered with mud up to his dandruff. "I've discovered the trouble," says he, "but I haven't got the proper tools with which to fix it. Maybe this bird has," adds Ira, as a car comes spluttering from the opposite direction.

The driver stops and takes a look around. Then, without a word, he goes back to his own automobile and comes back with a can of gas. That's been our only trouble—we'd run out of petrol, as they call it in Regis-Under-The-Lyme. In a few moments we are on our way again with an abashed baby at the wheel. Then it begins to rain, as only it can rain in the Adirondacks.

"You're not lost, are you?" asks Davis, when Ira hesitates at a fork in the road.

"That's a laugh," comes back Mellish. "I was born around here and my folks still live here. I know every rock in this vicinity by its first name."

"What," I inquires, "do you call the one you just bumped into—Tessie or Hildegarde?"

For an hour or more, Ira battles around among by-paths and cow tracks. We're all wet to the skin, but he pays no attention to our pleadings to drive us to the nearest shelter. He insists that he'll take us to the old homestead. Finally, however, he gives up and admits he's lost.

"Well," says I, "we can't spend the night on the open road. Isn't that a light over there?"

It develops that it is, and all of us leave the sodden car and make a dash across a field to the farmhouse, which we can barely make out in the rain even when we're standing at the kitchen door. Frantic knocking brings an old woman. The first person she catches sight of is Mellish.

"Ira!" she gasps.

"Mother!" he gasps back.

The sap had been lost in his own back yard!

(We trust that the hints we have given you for touring trips across the Desert of Gobi will be found useful. Too much emphasis cannot be placed on the necessity of having tires on all four wheels and an extra waffle iron in the tool chest. When you see us next in print, we shall be discussing with our usual thoroughness—Ping Pong.)

STAR MAIL ROUTES GIVE GOOD SERVICE TO WICHITA FALLS

Few cities are more adequately served by postal star routes than Wichita Falls, according to information given Saturday by Lon H. Howard, assistant postmaster.

The information concerning those routes was compiled by Mr. Howard because, he explained, numerous inquiries by patrons indicate that many are not informed as to the service given. The first of the routes was established last July 1 and the others since.

There are four such routes operated from the Wichita Falls postoffice, on three of which only first class matter is carried and on the other all classes of matter.

The three on which first class matter is carried are from Wichita Falls to Burkburnett, leaving here at 2:30 p. m. each day; from Wichita Falls to Graham, serving Archer City, Olney and Newcastle, leaving here at 2:30 p. m.; and from Wichita Falls to Stamford, serving Holliday, Dundee, Seymour, Bomarton, Goree, Munday, Weinert and Haskell, leaving at 2 a. m. each day.

The route on which all classes of mail is carried is from here to Petrolia and Byers, leaving here at 7:30 a. m. daily. The service on each of the routes, Mr. Howard stated, is additional to that on railroads.

Mail intended for any of the points served should be deposited so as to reach the postoffice at least half an hour before scheduled departure, the assistant postmaster said.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE

© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC

Corrinne counted three, after she jumped, as she had heard that parachute jumpers did, before she pulled the cord.

Suppose it didn't open! Suppose she had jumped to her death! Maybe the men didn't intend to kill her at all! The thoughts flashed through her mind so rapidly that an eternity seemed to pass before she reached the third count. She ripped the cord, and waited. Had it been hours . . . or seconds . . . wasn't it ever going to open . . . ?

"Oh please, God, make it, make it, make it!" she prayed.

Then suddenly her descent seemed to stop. She wasn't falling. She was floating. The parachute had opened, and she was drifting down from the sky.

She was free! She was safe! Now if she landed all right she could go home . . . to Harry! She wanted the safeness, the reliability and sureness of Harry and the things he stood for.

But a little of the dramatic crept into her thoughts. What would the others think when they found that she was gone? Would the robbers curse? Would Rosalee and Judy be scared? They were safe enough. Since she had escaped the robbers would avoid murder. They wouldn't want to run any increased chances with a girl loose to identify them. Unless, of course, she was killed. Maybe they thought she would be, as a matter of course. Maybe they had fired in the darkness and killed someone.

Oh, it took so long to come down from the sky.

She wondered what was happening in the ship that she had left.

Maybe the robbers had jumped, too. It would be the natural thing for them to do. Or maybe in the darkness they had been overpowered. All the time she was drifting, drifting down!

She did not think of Bob. She didn't want him. She didn't want the people she had just left. She wanted security and safety and something that was solid and lasting . . . as immovable and strong and sure as the Rock of Gibraltar in the old geography book. Sue had said that Jimmy was that way. She wondered why she thought of it now as she went down to earth.

She moved her head and saw a little golden light in the sky. Someone had found the switch. But now the ship was going the other way.

She didn't care. She didn't even think about it. Her head felt very, very light . . . She decided that even without the parachute she could have drifted down to earth, for she was made of air . . .

"Snap out of it," she told herself. "You're going to faint in the air."

Now she was getting closer to the earth. Trees and shadows came up to meet her. She wondered if she would hit a telegraph wire or a chimney. She closed her eyes and opened them quickly, remembering that perhaps she would need to know where she was.

She was near a town, she decided. She saw a telegraph wire just under her and caught her breath as the parachute swung lower.

Next—Corrinne's landing.

Plans for Intensive Campaign for Fire Prevention to Be Made Here By Committee of Junior Chamber

Plans for Wichita Falls' observance of fire prevention week, which begins Oct. 5, will be discussed at a meeting of the junior chamber of commerce committee, headed by Clifford Deaton and tentatively set for Tuesday, according to an announcement Saturday.

The junior chamber was in charge of arrangements last year and the organization carried out the work in such a splendid manner, according to J. L. McClure, fire chief, and Lester Jones, chairman of the fire chief's cabinet, that it was again invited to direct the program. The invitation was accepted on behalf of the organization by Jerry Vinson, president.

Special effosts, it was declared, will be made to carry the campaign into the schools, and to that end the cooperation of school officials has been informally assured. Luncheon clubs, civic organizations, business men, pastors and other citizens likewise will be asked to cooperate.

One unusual feature of the approaching campaign will be the making of good will inspections of business houses by members of the fire department. Firemen, instead of devoting their day off duty to leisure, will spend that time in visiting establishments in the business district and pointing out to occupants and owners any hazards which may be discovered.

Pastors of local churches, according to tentative plans, will be asked to open the campaign by references to its purposes in their sermons Sunday, the opening day. Speakers from the Junior chamber will be available for organizations desiring them, and it is expected that large quantities of literature will be distributed, it was said.

County Red Cross News

The disaster program of the American Red Cross includes cooperation with the agricultural leaders in the drouth situation. The nutrition service has prepared a program for this same situation and offers dietary assistance.

The local chapter of the American Red Cross is carrying a nutrition service again this year. Benefits of the service have been planned to reach the entire community.

The Electra, Iowa Park and Wichita Falls branches of the Wichita county chapter were visited this week by the field director for this area, Mrs. Grace Ashbaugh.

There are many reasons why children are underweight. Two very common ones are actually too small amounts of food, and not enough variety in the diet. Another cause is too little rest. If your child is thin for his height it is well to check on these items first of all.

The nutrition service again will be extended into the public and parochial schools as a phase of the regular health work.

All members of the Junior Red Cross who are planning on sending Christmas boxes to foreign lands must have them in New York by Oct. 25.

The adult program of the nutrition service includes a class for the directors of the public school cafeterias. This class meets regularly the second Tuesday of each month. All interested in the work of this class are invited to come at any time.

Why do we have to think more about our diet than in the days of a past generation?

In that day more lived on farms and the tables were set with an abundance. The choice was made at the table. But when people moved in great numbers to the cities, it was but natural for this procedure to give way to a regimen of a new type. This redistribution of people caused new market conditions. The cost of meats, vegetables, fruits, and other foods, transported from distances and kept in storage over long periods naturally became greater. Inquiry into these higher prices was followed by work of food chemists and nutrition experts. These latter gave results of investigations which enable us to know just what foods provide the right substances for the physiological processes of the body and what amounts of these foods can be combined with others to form a well-balanced diet.

With this new knowledge the present generation may have the food necessary for health and at a cost lower than could have been found in any other way.

CONSTRUCTION OF LAKE NECESSITATES REMOVAL 600 UNMARKED GRAVES

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 27. (UP)—Unidentified bodies in Osage valley cemeteries to be inundated by the lake formed by Bagnell dam be removed to higher ground, Atty. Gen. Shartel has ruled.

The ruling affects approximately 600 unmarked graves.

JUNIOR CHAMBER TO HONOR ALLRED AT LUNCH FRIDAY

James V. Allred, Wichita Falls attorney, who was nominated in the Democratic primary for attorney general, will be honored at the semi-monthly luncheon of the Junior chamber of commerce at the Kemp hotel Friday, according to the announcement of Wilburn Page, secretary.

Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court and for years an intimate friend of Mr. Allred's, will be the principal speaker. Many cases in which Mr. Allred has participated have been tried before Judge Martin.

Other numbers on the program, Mr. Page said, will include a blackface skit by Miss Martha Withers, radio and theatrical entertainer, and music by the KGKO studio orchestra, directed by Cleo Grantham.

INDEPENDENTS TO JOIN FIGHT ON PRORATION

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 27. (UP)—Several independent oil companies prepared today to join the Champlin Oil and Refining company, in its federal court fight to enjoin the state corporation commission from enforcing oil proration rules.

R. M. Roddy, attorney for the Marco Oil and Royalty company, said he would file a suit in federal court late today which probably would be consolidated with the suit already filed by Champlin. The Head Petroleum company is understood to be preparing a similar suit.

Several other smaller companies in the field have expressed dissatisfaction with the present curb and indicated they would take action soon to get the ban lifted.

In the meantime most operators awaited the decision of the state supreme court in the case of the C. C. Julian Oil and Royalty company, which attacked the right of the corporation commission to enforce proration.

The decision is expected the first part of next week. The Champlin suit will be heard Monday in federal court.

DEMOCRATS OF MASS. APPROVE WET PLATFORM

Favor Repeal Eighteenth Amendment and Volstead Act

VOICES OF ONLY FEW HEARD IN OPPOSITION

Brief Remarks of Protest by Winfield Tuck of Winchester

BOSTON, Sept. 27. (AP)—Adoption of a platform favoring repeal of the 18th amendment, the Volstead act and the state prohibition act and generous and abundant expressions of party unity for the coming campaign here were outstanding developments of the Massachusetts Democratic party convention here today.

The only discussion of the platform on the convention floor dealt with the prohibition plank. Brief remarks of protest against that plank were offered by Whitfield Tuck of Winchester. The platform was accepted in its entirety, only the voices of Tuck and a few others being heard in opposition.

Declaring the balance between state and nation had been impaired by the 18th amendment and the Volstead act, the plank asserted:

"We, therefore, to preserve our dual sovereignties, and to end the appalling orgy of crime and corruption, favor the repeal of hte 18th amendment and the Volstead act, and the restoration to each state of the authority to deal with the liquor problem in accordance with the mandate of its citizens."

Pending the repeal of the prohibition law a redefining by congress of the word "intoxicating" used in the 18th amendment, so as to permit each state constitutionally to exercise jurisdiction within its own borders and the simultaneous enactment of a law prohibiting the return of the saloon was asked.

As a demonstration of Massachusetts sentiment, the plank called for repeal of the state prohibition law, saying "such repeal will certainly not result in any greater lawlessness than exists today."

Other planks said the party regretted the present high rates for automobile insurance and recommended a searching investigation; condemned the recently enacted tariff law; demanded repeal of the "national origins clause" of the immigration act of 1924, and demanded action to "bring our judicial machinery into line with the best modern practice."

Republican Platform

BOSTON, Sept. 27. (AP)—The Republican party of Massachusetts, in convention here today, endorsed the party's 1928 declaration of law enforcement and at the same time reaffirmed the pronouncement of President Hoover that those who seek to amend the constitution "are not subject to criticism."

In this form the convention wrote into its platform a plank on prohibition.

Less than half a dozen "nays" were heard from among the 1,600 delegates when Amos L. Taylor, permanent chairman of the convention, put the question of adoption of the platform. There was no debate.

Outstanding among the other planks were:

A pledge to continue economical policies in state and in national government.

A demand for federal legislation to make the hours of labor for women and children in all other states conform to the Massachusetts standard.

Advocacy of the enactment of a federal anti-lynching law and a statement of belief in "absolute equality of all men before the law."

PLANS ANNOUNCED FOR AIR MAIL LINE FROM LAREDO-MEXICO CITY

LAREDO, Texas, Sept. 27. (AP)—Final plans for the establishment of a Laredo-Monterrey-Mexico City air line were being worked out today by the Corporacion Aeronautica de Transportes, the Mexican corporation, which now sends air mail to Brownsville.

The line will carry mail, passengers and express to the border, B. Mata, traveling agent of the company, announced.

Negotiations were under way with a Texas company to connect the Laredo-Mexico City line with San Antonio, thus re-establishing Laredo as a principal port of entry for Mexican air mail.

A feeder line between Monterrey and Tampico also is planned to begin operations about Oct. 1.

JOINER WELL NO. 3 IN RUSK COUNTY WILL BE BROUGHT IN WEDNESDAY

DALLAS, Sept. 27. (AP)—A. D. Lloyd, geologist and locater of the Joiner wells, Rusk county, announced here today that the No. 3 Joiner would be brought in Wednesday.

Uncertainty as to the date caused the announcement, Mr. Lloyd explained. Wednesday was the tenth day since the setting of cement.

A drill stem test, prior to cementing, revealed a saturated core for 65 feet, Lloyd said.

GASOLINE WAR IN DALLAS MAY END IN COURT FIGHT

DALLAS, Sept. 27. (UP)—Out of the squabble over gasoline prices between independent filling station operators and large companies, there loomed today prospects of a legal battle with the announcement that Carl B. Callaway had been engaged as attorney for the independents.

The announcement came on the heels of R. V. Nichols' purported investigation of the gas war for the state attorney general's office. After a conference with independent operators here, Nichols carried his probe to surrounding towns today. Possibility of the Titans of the petroleum industry hauling down their flag of war was found in today's reduction by the Cities Service Oil company, which brought the retail margin to four cents.

Standard to Cut

CHICAGO, Sept. 27. (INS)—A cut of two cents a gallon in the service station and tank wagon price of gasoline and two cents reduction in kerosene will be made by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana effective at the opening of business Monday.

The cut will be made at all points in Michigan, Wisconsin, Indiana, Illinois, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, North and South Dakota, and Kansas except where local adjustments to meet competition already have been made.

Unsound conditions in the oil industry forced the Indiana company's action, Edward G. Seubert, president said.

OFFICERS FAIL TO ESTABLISH MOTIVE FOR DUAL SLAYING

CHICKASHA, Okla., Sept. 27. (UP)—County officials admitted tonight they had been unable to ascertain a motive for the murder early today of Jack Comer, 19, charged against the boy's uncle, former State Senator Ed F. Johns, 62.

After killing the youth as he slept, Johns turned the revolver upon himself, firing a bullet through his heart.

Both Johns and his nephew were dead when Mrs. Johns and two boarders in the Johns home reached the bedroom after hearing five shots in rapid succession.

Johns served two terms in the state legislature, later became liquidating agent for the state banking department and tag agent for the state highway department.

He was defeated for state senator in the primaries of last August.

Comer, who had been adopted by Johns and his wife, had returned from Gulfport, Miss., Friday night where he had gone to enroll as a student in the Gulf Coast Military academy. He informed Johns he did not like the school and the former official sent the youth sufficient money to return home.

Crain and the prisoner were to start on their last lap back to the prison walls Sunday morning in company with Bud Russell, penitentiary agent, who is scheduled to arrive here Sunday morning to return several prisoners from this section to the penitentiary.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 27. (AP)—Refusing to discuss political issues, Dwight W. Morrow, Republican candidate for United States senator from New Jersey, and retiring ambassador to Mexico, stopped here tonight with Mrs. Morrow en route to Washington.

Traveling in a private car, Mr. and Mrs. Morrow were at the union station here from 5:15 to shortly after 11 o'clock tonight.

Mr. Morrow declined to comment on the wet and dry issue, his Senate campaign, his possible candidacy for the presidency and foreign affairs.

"I feel," he said, "that I can not make any public statement while I am ambassador. I am on the way to Washington to confer with the president. Anything I have to say must come after this meeting."

Mr. Morrow also refused to make any statement concerning the office of his successor as ambassador to Mexico. Asked how the baby of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh was, Mr. and Mrs. Morrow smiled and replied, "Just fine."

European Skies Steadily Darkening And German Election Results Most Disturbing of All Storm Signs

By FRANK H. SIMONDS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—For those who are interested in the historical parallel, the recent German election must prove strangely reminiscent of the July revolution in Paris, the hundredth anniversary of which has been observed this summer. Fifteen years after Waterloo the French people swept out of power the Bourbon regime which had been reestablished by their conquerors, cast aside the flag which bore the lilies for the tricolor of the revolution and the empire and thus abolished the last internal vestiges of their defeat and humiliation of 1815.

Now, almost 13 years after the armistice of November, 1918, the German people have disclosed a similar spirit. For the single thing that stands out above all else is the fact that the parties which obtained the votes of far more than a majority of the 34,000,000 electors had declared in their platforms for the three R's which count most in the German mind, namely the revision of the peace treaties, the repudiation of the reparation obligation and the removal of those military regulations which restrict the size and character of German armed forces, alike on sea and on land.

But any attempt to revise the peace treaties, above all the attempt to suppress the Polish corridor, means war, means conflict with Poland in which France as Poland's immediate ally would be in honor bound to participate. Repudiation of the reparations obligation would automatically end French and Italian payments to Britain and the United States and would leave Britain between the devil and the deep sea—that is between the task of shouldering a new burden of nearly $200,000,000 annually, to pay the United States, or a repudiation of the debt which would be contrary to all British practice and policy.

Finally, the removal of the military restraints would leave Germany free to return to her old military strength, insofar as her desire and revenue permitted, and it would automatically abolish the demilitarized zone along the Rhine and bring French and German military frontiers to the Sarre and the Lauter, the point of departure of the victorious German armies of 1870. Further, any such German course would put an end to the discussion of disarmament and certainly open a new era of competition in military strength.

Turning now from the foreign to the domestic aspects of the recent election, certain facts deserve note. And first of all one must remark the amazing solidity of the ranks in all of the older parties of considerable size. What happened was not the result of any change of party alignment by any decisive number of voters between 1928 and 1930.

The proof of this interesting fact is disclosed in the election statistics. Thus the two radical parties, the Communist and the Social Democratic, which together captured 207 seats in 1928, will occupy 219 in the next reichstag. Even the slight shift in the respective shares is of small import, for it is an invariable concomitant of hard times and took place to a much greater degree in the election following inflation and the occupation of the Ruhr.

As to the second group of parties, the so-called Bourgeois bloc, made up of the Center, Peoples party, Democratic, now become States, Bavarian Peoples and Economic, where they held 171 seats in the old chamber they will hold at least 160 in the new, a loss of but 11 seats. Moreover the various minor parties, which had 28 seats in the old reichstag, will have 44 in the new. In sum, laying aside the Nationalists, it will be seen that while there was a slight shuffling among parties belonging to the three other groups, the net change was slight and represented a collective gain of 17 on balance.

When one turns to the two Nationalist factions—indeed become three following the recent split between the groups led by Hugenberg and Treviranus in the old Nationalist party—the difference is pronounced. Thus the two Nationalist groups captured but 46 seats in place of the 73 held by the old united party while the Extreme Nationalists, the Hitlerites or Fascists passed from 12 to 107. This gain, however, was accounted for completely, first by the seizure of 27 from the Nationalists and secondly by the capture of 68 of the 75 new seats, which the size of the vote automatically creates.

More Voters to Polls

What happened then was that something like 5,000,000 more voters went to the polls in 1930 than in 1928 and that rather more than 4,000,000 of them supported the Fascist candidates. Thus a new element was supplied, an element composed in part of voters who had hitherto stayed away from the polls and also in part of the youth casting its first vote. Young Germany and the hitherto more or less inarticulate section combined to give a new orientation to a national election result.

But, significant in itself, this tremendous electoral explosion must also be viewed in its pre-election quite as much as its post-election effect. For it was precisely the fore-knowledge of the drift of popular emotion which explained the sensational utterances regarding treaty revision, the suppression of the Polish corridor and the like. Even the Communist leaders joyfully embarked in the competition with Nationalists, particularly in the matter of reparations repudiation.

Now what does this election result mean practically? In all probability not a little time will pass before decision is made as to the character of the cabinet. The Bourgeois parties may join hands with the Social Democrats making a bloc of roughly 300 of the 576 members of the new reichstag, but defections, beginning with the Middle Class party and the old Streseman Populists would seem inevitable and eventually fatal. On the other hand the effort to make a bloc between Bourgeois, Fascist and Nationalist would probably promote cleavage in the Centre party and certainly alienate the States party, successor of the Democratic, although on paper it too would provide something over 300 votes.

In reality, then, despite all the tremendous explosion the fundamental situation in Germany remains as incoherent as ever. No Nationalist government can now take power, or participate in a government in which Fascist and Nationalist would necessarily supply the major fraction of votes, and subscribe to further debt payments, refrain from pressing the issue of revision of the treaties or do nothing in the military question. Yet anyone of these things could mean war and any attempt at territorial revision would men war.

By contrast the inevitable common action of the Fascist and the Communists, reinforced by the Hugenberg Nationalists, against any Social-Democrat-Bourgeois cabinet would start with more than 200 votes. As far as one can see, then, parliamentary government in Germany is doomed to further ineffectiveness and failure, at the precise time when its past performances have contributed much to swell Fascist election totals.

But just as the revolution of 1830 did not result in the restoration of a Bonaparte or a Republican regime, the German campaign gave no indication of a project for a recall of the Hohenzollerns. Not the ancient monarchy but the Italian dictatorship, not William II but Mussolini found favor in the eyes and words of the amazing Hitler and his hardily less astonishing following. And right here might prove a point of decisive difference between Fascist and Nationalist.

Danger of Fascism

Yet henceforth the world is on notice of certain very disturbing facts. The German republic is in danger, it is in danger of a Fascist putsch, directed by the man who tried and failed at a similar try less than a decade ago. And the men and the political parties equally certain to be responsible for such a venture have publicly and violently proclaimed purposes which carry with them a clear threat of war and a certain upset of European tranquility.

After all it was not the revolution of 1830, but the Napoleonic putsch more than two decades later, that launched France and the rest of Europe on the series of wars which began at Sebastapol and ended at Sedan. In 1830 the memories of the retreat from Moscow and the two invasions after Leipsic and Waterloo were still fresh. Probably for a period of years Germany will still be disclosed under the empire of her far greater sufferings both of the war and post-war time.

Nevertheless no one can mistake the two facts that for the past year, ever since the Franco-Italian quarreling at the London naval conference, European skies have been steadily darkening and that the German election results are, on the whole, the most disturbing of all the many storm signs. Barely 11 years after the signing of the peace treaties in 1920, the people of one great power unanimously and of another by a clear majority have declared for policies which can be fulfilled only by a new conflict.

Under existing circumstances, however, it is far from unlikely that the first step in the campaign to break down the peace treaties may take the form of a renewal of the project to include Austria in the reich, that is a realization of the Anschluss, to which the Social Democrats are even more committed than the Fascists and Nationalists. Such a step would presuppose an understanding with Italy, but this is far from impossible, indeed has been sought by Rome frequently, fortified by the hint that Italian hostility to Anschluss was not immutable.

BRUENING STAKES HOPE FOR SUPPORT ON FINANCE PLAN

PLAN TO BE PRESENTED TO REICHSTAG IN FALL

Center-Fascist Coalition Supporting Program Most Likely

BERLIN, Sept. 27. (US)—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening is staking his hopes for a vote of confidence from the new Reichstag on a radical slash in the government's share of unemployment doles.

To accomplish this he plans to more than triple the workers' unemployment insurance premiums, tax government salaries, and borrow the rest, it was learned tonight.

In this fashion he hopes to stave off assaults from both the right and left and win legislative approval for President Paul von Hindenburg's emergency tax measures that led to the dissolution of the last recalcitrant Reichstag.

It is understood that the Bruening cabinet today completed its deliberations and has made a final draft of the program upon which it will stand or fall when the new Reichstag with its now powerful Fascist bloc convenes.

It was learned that the cabinet decided further general tax increases to cover the 1,000,000 mark government deficit were impossible. Despite opposition that is to be expected from the Socialists, Bruening, it was learned, will propose raising the unemployment insurance premiums from 2 to 6½ per cent. At the same time, it is understood, he will propose a 5 per cent tax on all government salaries.

Center-Fascist Bloc.

In view of this reported program, Socialist support for the cabinet seems highly improbable and a center-Fascist coalition most likely.

The latter supposition is given support by editorial comment in the entire right press, which today began to strongly advocate that Adolf Hitler and his national Socialists (Fascists) co-operate with the present Centrist-Bloc cabinet.

Meanwhile, repercussions of Hitler's fiery testimony at the Leipzig trial today continued to hold the forefront of public discussion.

It was pointed out as significant that Voelkische Beobachter, the official national Socialist organ omits Hitler's phrase describing how head "will roll on the sand" in its transcript of the Fascist chief's testimony.

Angriff, another Fascist organ, attacking the reichsbank for its gold shipments to France, on the other hand, repeats: "This is such an enormity that some heads will have to roll in this connection, too." Angriff adds that the gold should have been used only to purchase raw materials.

The left press continues its alleged disclosures of Hitler's plans, with the Socialist Vorwaerts reporting that the Fascists in a public meeting urged the Communists to join them in a general transportation strike beginning Oct. 2.

The Communist press reports that Hitler is in close touch with Austrian Fascists and that a Hungarian representative has consulted with him regarding making Archduke Otto king of Hungary.

GRAND JURY PROBES HOUSTON JAIL RIOT

HOUSTON, Sept. 27. (AP)—The grand jury today began an investigation of last night's county jail riot, in which 23 men smashed windows, destroyed mattresses and tore plumbing fixtures loose. The rioters finally were quieted by the threat of Sheriff T. Binford to loose tear gas bombs upon them.

The five ringleaders were brought before the grand jury today and that body also went into the jail to view the damage and to make first hand inquiry.

The trouble centered in "tank number two" shortly before midnight. The five ringleaders were placed in solitary confinement and the other 18 men were denied the privilege of the run-around and placed on bread and water.

FRENCH AVIATORS REACH LOS ANGELES SATURDAY

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 27. (UP)—The giant red sesqui-plane, Question Mark, in which Capt. Dieudonne Coste and Lieut. Maurice Bellonte recently crossed the Atlantic, brought the famous fliers from San Francisco to Los Angeles late today for the plaudits of Southern California.

They plan to leave here Tuesday morning for El Paso, Tex., on the next leg of their round-the-United States flight.

TWO WHITE MEN HELD FOR MURDER OF NEGRO

NACOGDOCHES, Texas, Sept. 27. (AP)—Jim White, Negro, was shot to death on the streets of Garrison, 20 miles north of here, this afternoon. Two white men, Buster Whitely and Buell McNeese, were arrested and charged with murder. A third man was under arrest.

IN MARK TWAIN'S COUNTRY

They have a frog rodeo.

By WILL ROGERS

Well all I know is just what I read in the scandal sheets, and what I hold a clinic over as I prowl hither and non. Well Sir I must tell you more about that mining town of "Bodie," Calif. It was one of the famous mining camps of later days, but had been practically deserted for years, but with the demand for gold here lately and the improved and cheaper method of extracting it, there was a revival of the famous old place. Harry Carr, one of the best newspaper men of this or any other coast, had been up there writing wonderful stories of what it meant to a mining town to be convalescing, and about to reach good health again. He claimed the thing was running almost as wide open as one of our big cities, that the gambling and drinking was in a small way on a comparison with New York or Los Angeles.

Well in my times, (I am talking like one of the early Pioneers), I have seen some of the boys foolishly, and at times otherwise, lay a small wager on the outcome of what later would be apparent as a hazardous game. And in passing by I had peeped in under swinging doors and there would be men sipping various nectars. Well Mrs. Rogers and I were just out prowling around. We were working on spoiling a fine old classic, and had been taking a great part of the Scenes on the original site where the play was laid, at Lake Tahoe. Mr. Henry King, our Director, had told me that he had seen just about all of my face that he desired for exterior photographic purposes, and that if I wanted I could head for home, and as they had a few more days work without me I needent be in any hurry to get home. Well that was right up my alley. I bet a lot of you like this too. I love to drive around and look over queer old places, esjecially historic old spots. Well that Country up around in the mountains of California, why you could be there from now on, looking at places that you had read about all your life.

Right under our nose was "Donner Lake," the place where the most famous of all pioneer stories of hardships, why there was where they had spent the winter within 15 miles of the summitt but just too late to get over. Thats where the only case of cannibalism was ever practiced in our country. It was afterwards admitted on the very best of authority that they actually had to resort to the use of human flesh to exist. It was one of the greatest stories of pioneer life. If you havent read the "Life of the Donner Party" you dont know nothing of suffering and hardships. The California Societies are doing a great deal to preserve the spirits and history of these things and they have a fine monument to commemorate the spot. Then we went over practically the route that they hoped to make, from Donner lake to Sutters Fort (now Sacramento) and through the old fort as it is preserved today by patriotic citizens, and it should be but its kinder a travesty on justice that while they kept the Fort, they did nothing for the man, that made the Fort and saved the early settlers. He died destitute in Washington trying to get a little dab of money from our great Government, a mere pittance of what he had spent on preserving the life of some of the early settlers.

There is a story, the life of that fellow Sutter. All the gold was found on his place. He owned all the country, he developed it, he improved conditions there, and yet by the aid of thieves, courts and injustices, he lost the whole thing. Yet he had done more for his Country, real constructive work, than Washington had, up to the time he was chosen to lead our Army. California should haye maintained him in splendor for the balance of his days if he had lived even till Farmers got relief. But you get the life of this fellow Sutter, and it will make any other Autobiography look like the life of an Interior Decorator.

But we got to be on our way. Then we went down through all the old early 49 camps, Sutter Creek, Angels Camp, in Caliveras, thats the exact home of Mark Twains Jumping frog, and really the story that did more to make Twain than any other one thing he ever did. They have Frog Rodeo there every year, Frog Singing, Frog Jumping, and wind up by eating all the frogs that had contested, and everybody wind up with a Frog in their throat. Then Brete Hart was there and all his stories are around in that country, Jackson, one of the early ones, I had made two pictures there previously, and hadent been back for 10 years.

They got a great bunch of folks, Italian Americans, fine citizens, and the most hospitable people you ever saw. Sure glad to see the old place again. Then to Senora, another old timer, but which heid on fine, and is today a real little town. Then over Senora pass. Scenery! Oh, Boy, what views. But its getting late we must get to Bodie. Its away over near the Nevada line in the sage brush desert. My wife was afraid to go, she had read Carrs articles and she was looking for whooping, shooting and gamboleering. Well the poor Devils the night before, just twenty-four hours to correct time announcement, why the Pro-Hi's, had raided the place, broke all the booze in 13 saloons, but 15 men under 1500 hundred dollar bonds, and you should have seen the place this night. Our car was the only thing moving in the town. Indignation meetings consisted of two and three huddled in front of what had been a salloon door. It was still lighted up, but sasparilla was their diet. It was a real surprise raid. The mines hadent opened that day, for they had had no sustenance for 24 hours and couldent work. I talked with them, but it was almost like speaking over the body of a fallen comrade. Their voice was not only reverent but parched. They couldent understand why they out of 120 million people should be discriminated against. Why should they be the only example of Prohibition? They felt that their work demanded as much or more liquid fortitude as is allowed toilers on Wall street. They estimated in low tones the amount of Bootleggers that these officers must have passed in their trip away out in this desert, from San Francisco where they had come. It will always remain in my memory as the saddest one town I ever saw.

RADIO SAVES LIFE OF CHICAGO WOMAN MAN KILLS FATHER

CHICAGO, Sept. 27. (UP)—Radio intervened to save the life of a nurse marked for death by Sidney Sayres, shell-shocked war veteran, who murdered his millionaire father because he fancied the latter had been too attentive to the woman, it was revealed today at the inquest into the killing.

Sayres had shot his father, Rockwell Sayres, 83, and was planning to kill Miss Alma Zschaechner, who had nursed the veteran's invalid mother for many years, when officers cruising in the vicinity were notified of the shooting by an alarm broadcast from the police headquarters radio station. The policemen arrived in time to prevent the second slaying.

In a confession which he prepared three days in advance of the shooting, Sayres told of his plan to slay both his father and the nurse.

A recommendation that Sidney be held to the grand jury under a charge of murder was made by the coroner's jury at the conclusion of the inquest.

JUDGES ANNOUNCE FINAL AWARDS AT WICHITA COUNTY FAIR

Evidence $7,000 Received By Victor Seymour Vice Chairman

MORE MONEY AND BONDS USED IN POLITICAL PLOT

Tracing Signers of Checks And Serial Numbers Liberty Bonds

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—With evidence that at least $7,000 had been sent into Nebraska in a plot to defeat Senator George W. Norris in his campaign for re-election, the Nye senatorial campaign investigation committee today launched a far-flung search for the source of the money.

This amount of money went to Victor Seymour, who resigned yesterday as assistant vice chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, Nye charged.

The money went to Seymour in $1,000 checks over a period of seven months—one for each month—and the drafts were made upon two banks in Chicago and one in New York, Nye declared.

Agents for the committee also are tracing the source of a $500 Liberty bond, which it is charged, went to George W. Norris, 31-year-old grocer of Broken Bow, Neb., who entered the primary against Senator Norris.

More Money Used

Evidence also has come into his possession Nye declared, that much more than the $7,000 in cash and the Liberty bond were sent into Nebraska to defeat Senator Norris in the Nebraska primaries.

Anticipating no difficulty in turning up the signers of the checks as well as the giver of the bond, Senator Nye said once their identity is known to the committee they will be called to testify. A direct clue to the person or group behind the alleged plot against Senator Norris was expected to result.

The serial number of the Liberty bond is being checked. Nye said he would not be surprised if the bond came from the lot which figured in the senatorial investigation of the Continental Trading corporation in the Teapot Dome oil scandal.

Declining to express a positive opinion as to who was back of Seymour and Grocer Norris in the alleged scheme, Senator Nye did say he was "bound to lean to the opinion that the Republican party had a hand in the Norris case."

Plan Perjury Charges

At the same time Nye said he had been advised by U. S. District Attorney Sandall at Omaha that perjury charges will be filed in court against Seymour and Grocer Norris.

Charges that the grocer perjured himself in testimony before the Nye committee at Lincoln. Neb., in first denying he had been prompted by others to file as a candidate and then recanting, will be filed, Nye said.

Seymour in his testimony before the committee last July flatly denied ever knowing Grocer Norris or having any part in his candidacy. Other witnesses in the recent hearing, chiefly Seymour's former stenographer, testified that Seymour did have a part in the plot, Nye said.

Furthermore, there are "five or six" other witnesses in the case, who failed "to tell the truth," and perjury charges may be brought against them, Nye revealed.

May "Come Clean"

After the court move has been made against Seymour and Grocer Norris, these other witnesses may decide to "come clean," Nye said.

Nye said the only clue he has that higher-ups in the Republican national organization had a hand in the plot against Senator Norris was that William E. Murray, on the payroll of the Republican national committee, had been a visitor to Seymour's Lincoln, Neb., office, according to Esther Alton, stenographer for Seymour.

She testified, according to Nye, that Murray under guise of being a newspaper reporter made a survey of the political situation in Nebraska, and wrote a report in Seymour's office. It was not revealed to whom the report was made.

Of the opinion that considerably more funds than the $7,500 already turned up, had been sent into Nebraska to defeat Senator Norris in his campaign for re-election, Nye hopes to gather evidence to that effect from Paul Johnson, of Broken Bow, and others, it was said.

Johnson, according to Nye, has admitted participating in the scheme to put Grocer Norris in the race. A "confession" from Johnson is understood to be in possession of the Nye committee.

TRIAL OF 14 CHARGED WITH RIOT AT SHERMAN POSTPONED AT DALLAS

DALLAS, Sept. 27. (AP)—Trials of 14 men charged with inciting a riot in connection with the burning of the Grayson county courthouse at Sherman last May, tentatively set in district court here for Monday, will not be called until some time in November, Judge Charles A. Pippen announced today.

The cases were sent to Judge Pippen's court on changes of venue.

The courthouse was burned during rioting which followed an attempt to try a negro for criminal assault on a white woman. The negro perished in the fire.

Judge Pippen said he had been advised by the county attorney of Grayson county that he is engaged in the trial of a number of important cases at Sherman and would be unable to be here Monday.

Registered Jersey Cattle Sell at Surprisingly Low Figures at Annual Auction Closing Show at Iowa Park

IOWA PARK, Texas, Sept. 27.—Wichita county's first auction sale of registered Jerseys, held Saturday in connection with the Wichita county fair, was a success in the sense that it attracted much interest and that it helped distribute this section's high-bred dairy stock more widely. To say that it was a success from the financial standpoint is not so easy, for none of the 12 animals sold brought anywhere what it would have brought in normal times, and several sold for decidedly less than they should have even in times like these.

The top price $67.50, was brought by three different cows. One promising bull calf, the registration papers on which had cost $3, went for only $5. Generally speaking, the prices were far, far below the true value of the animals.

The fair officials and those interested in dairying development here are well pleased, however, with the start that was made. They feel that the sale will eventually become an outstanding feature of the fair.

Dairy Judging

Saturday witnessed the wind-up of the dairy judging. There was a large crowd in the judging ring and the comments of the judge, J. W. Ridgeway of Fort Worth, were instructive to all who listened.

The premier honor of the show, the purple ribbon for senior grand champion bull, went to Jack Martin's Bright Lord's Combination. The purple ribbon was won by J. H. Robb of Electra, with his Darline Oxford Pansy. The junior bull championship went to an un-named entry by G. V. Mitchell of Valley View, and W. L. Hodges of the same neighborhood captured the junior cow ribbon with his Bolina's Majesty Ann.

Besides the Jerseys, the Rivercrest farm had a group of Guernseys. In the beef division there were exhibits by Will Burnett, R. O. Harvey, and M. L. Smith.

Woman's Department

The woman's department of the fair, under the supervision of Mrs. A. C. Henson, superintendent, attracted attention of both male and female visitors. Many men were heard to lament that the angel food cake had to be returned to its maker at the close of the exposition. Cheese and butter displays, in the home economic department of Miss Ethel Louise Webb, were also tempting. Nicely arranged rows of canned fruits and vegetables suggested thrift for Wichita county homes, and attested the skill of housewives who had prepared them.

Awards in the domestic science division, of which Mrs. J. N. George was superintendent, were as follows:

Antique Division

First prize for the oldest article was awarded to a hand wrought iron candle snuffer 210 years old, which was brought from England to Virginia in 1720. This was entered by Mrs. C. H. Clark of Wichita Falls. Mrs. Clark also had on display a beautiful blue plate that belonged to a set of dishes carried by wagon from Maryland to California during the gold rush in 1849. Another entry of interest in Mrs. Clark's collection was a small desert plate 150 years old, also of English origin, and an ancient soup tureen. A child's hickory chair brought from Tennessee in 1860 completed a very interesting display entered by Mrs. Clark.

Mrs. Mamie Dale of Iowa Park exhibited an old hand embroidered linen gown yoke made by her grandmother, Mrs. Lydia Weldman, of Berk county, Pennsylvania, in 1810. This is well preserved, is of beautiful and intricate design and is unsurpassed by anything done today.

Lee Tanner's collection of ancient firearms consisting of pistols, guns, bayonets, swords, bullet moulds and other weapons was attractive and received first award.

Mrs. O. H. Crites, of Iowa Park, added to the display by entering two ancient coins; large pennies made in 1830 and 1833. Daguerrotypes, family pictures, were shown in a good state of preservation. A clove apple, possessed by the family for 30 years was one of the most attractive entries in this display. The aromatic odor of the cloves caused many to seek information. It was explained as an ordinary apple filled with cloves, which kept it in a good state of preservation and almost the original size.

Club Exhibits

Exhibits by the home demonstration and 4-H clubs, were called better than in former years. This improvement is attributed by Miss Ethel Louise Webb, county demonstration agent, to keener competition which has developed between clubs and members of the same club. Dairy exhibits, consisting of American and cottage cheese, butter and milk made on the farm, included exhibits by each home demonstration club of the county.

The 4-H pantry exhibit was a model pantry, 320 containers of fruit, 127 cans of leafy vegetables, 120 cans of starchy vegetables, 50 cans of meats, including pork, beef, veal, mutton, poultry, miscellaneous groups of salads, deserts and "time-savers." The display was put up in tin cans labelled and arranged systematically with small samples in glass containers ranged on the top shelf for inspection.

Special displays included 32 pieces of tooled leather entered by Mrs. C. C. Burrows of Iowa Park as demonstrator, with Mrs. I. W. Corder as co-operator. Articles were desk set, bill folds, key rings, book covers, cigaret cases, coin purses, book binders, and ladies' purses. Designs were intricate and in colors, which added to the beauty.

THE WHALE HOUNDS—By James J. Montague

A big tramp come along about a mile off the port bow, an' what does them porpoises do but light out after that an' try to bring it in.

Rolling easily in the blue September sea were four or five whales, a little spurt of vapor now and then rising from one of their black heads, and drifting lightly to leeward. The mate, standing by me on the deck observed them casually.

"There was a time," he said, "when the sight of them fish would have got me all excited. But such of 'em as is ketched today is took by them steam whalers, which shoot harpoons into 'em, and then draws 'em right through a port in the bow, an' has 'em dried out an' stowed in barrels in the time it would have took us to git alongside of one of 'em in a whale boat. There ain't no adventure on the sea nowadays, but adventure ain't much to chase for a man of my time of life. I'm satisfied to take it easy for the rest of my days."

"You've sailed on a whaler, then?" I asked.

"Not only sailed on a whaler, but invented a system of whalin' that might have made me rich if these here modern ideas hadn't come in. Maybe you never heard that I trained the first pack of whale hounds that was ever used in the business."

"No, I haven't," I said, "but I haven't been to sea much, and I really never met a whaling man before."

"Well, most people's heard about me—people who've been in the whale trade that is. If I'd wanted notoriety an' got one of them ghost-writin' reporters to fix up my story for me I'd have a big reputation ashore by now. But my rule was always to go about my business modest an' keep out of these illustrated Sunday supplements."

"If you don't mind my asking I'd like to know about whale hounds. I never heard of them before."

"Oh, it wasn't nothin' much that I done. I just got a idea, that's all. Anybody else might of thought it up, but it just happened that I was the one. I suppose it's my gift for gettin' along with animals. I can manage almost any sort of a critter, like this ship's cat, for instance. Come here, Capstan."

Capstan, thus importuned strolled up to the mate who held his hands in the shape of a hoop. The cat bounded lightly through, then quickly reversed and bounded back again.

"It's stuff like that," said the mate, easily. 'Critters just sort of know my language, or I know theirs, which comes to the same thing. It was that way with the whale-hound business. We had been cruisin' around the South Pacific an' not havin' much luck, on account of the whales all bein' wary an' awful fast with their fins, and the skipper had just about give up an' decided to head for home, when one day I thought up a scheme. Layin' most of the time in a dead calm like we was there wasn't nothin' to do but watch the porpoises playin' around the ship, an' it was while I was doin' that I got my notion. The skipper was easy goin'. an' had took a likin' to me because I was the smartest man aboard, so when I asked him for a whale boat an' two men he said it would be all right. Me an' the two fellers was lowered over the side in among the porpoises, an' I began makin' friends with them right off by givin' them ship's biscuit an' some odds an' ends out of the blubber kittle.

"When they saw I was their friend they got to be mine, like animals asea or ashore will always do, an' they kept follerin' us around as we pulled, till pretty soon we come up to a young whale, no good for blubber or bone, but plenty good enough to practice on. We led them porpoises three or four times around the whale, and they finally got onto the fact that they were expected to sort of round him up, as them cowboys call it, so they just kept swimmin' on around an' nudgin' him with their noses.

"Then we rowed slow back to the ship, an' them porpoises headed that whale after us just like sheep dogs drives in a herd of sheep. I spent about three days trainin' them, with the whole crew lookin' over the rail an' makin' fun of me, an' then one day we sighted a big bow head about three miles away, and out we went again. By that time my fish had got good at the work an' enjoyed it, an' the way they druv that big feller up to our whale boat was a beautiful thing to look at. It didn't take no time to harpoon him, an' get the ship along side, and we spent the next day cuttin' him in.

"You mightn't believe this, but them porpoises lay around an' watched what we were doin' till they understood we really wanted that whale, an' then, after snatchin' hasty bites of the remnants that had been spilled overboard they put off in a bunch for the skyline. Before night the lookout yelled 'Blow' and when we loked out we see another bowhead headin' right at us, with the watter bi'lin' with porposes all around him. They stuck around till night this time, feedin' theirselves up on what we throwed to 'em, but the next mornin' before six bells here they come again behin' the biggest whale any of us had ever seen.

"After that you can see I was a made man on that ship. The captain said I was to have two extra days, an' that if I'd get my mate's papers before the next cruise he'd make me first officer. The whole crew spent all their time talkin' about how rich they'd be after a few cruises, an' I had more tobacco an' carved ornaments from the Fiji islands as remembrances for their gratitude than I could of give away on shore in a month.

"It might of worked out all right too, but the next day a big tramp come along about a mile off the port bow, an' what does them porpoises do but light out after that an' try to bring it in. Poor fellers they was just tryin' their best to please, an' I suppose they figured that the bigger the fish they got the more food we'd give 'em as a reward.

"I don't know how long they worked on that tramp, but through the glass I could see the crew leanin' over the rail an' lookin' into the water, wonderin' I suppose what them crazy fish was tryin' to do. By night fall they was back again, but they was so down hearted by their failure that they wouldn't eat none of the scraps that we throwed to 'em, an' the next morning they was gone, every man jack of 'em, an' we never saw them again."

"You never tried to train another pack of porpoises then?" I said.

"No. Them kind of things sorts of gits around in the sea an' the skipper was afraid I couldn't persuade any other porpoises to work for me. But he did make good by promotin' me to mate. It's him that's the captain of this here tramp we're on. But don't say 'porpoise' to him. He got a reputation for bein' a liar by tellin' that story around, an' he don't like to hear it mentioned no more."

MODEL OF WICHITA IRRIGATED DISTRICT EXHIBITED AT FAIR

Among the many exhibits at the Wichita County Fair, the one that seemed to be attracting the largest crowds and holding the longest attention was the display shown by the irrigation district.

Three booths were necessary to present this display, which consisted of some agricultural products, a beautiful series of about 45 pictures showing points of interest near Wichita Falls and in the irrigated valley. A miniature reproduction of the entire irrigation project was presented in a realistic manner by scaling it to fit an elevated table 14 feet long by 3½ feet wide. Water pipes below the table allowed the water to flow continuously throughout the system. A fresh supply of minnows daily added a touch of realism.

The spillways and other structures were made of tin. This material was also used to construct the lakes and underlay the canal system. Lake Kemp was very natural looking with the gate house and spillway. Both dams were riprapped with small stones.

Below Lake Kemp the winding Big Wichita river was represented, covering the 18 miles to Diversion lake, there the spillway and gates were fashioned in a splendid manner, and a small fisherman sat stolidly fishing through the three days, with the same results, some onlookers declared that they had experienced at the same point.

Near Diversion spillway the south side canal, so named because it is all located on the south side of the river, starts and flows 34 miles, connecting with Lake Wichita and the old system irrigation headquarters, where the 29-mile north side canal begins, was shown with the miniature headgates in evidence and the irrigated valley below was carried out in detail, including the gravel roads, road syphons, bridges and the 825-foot river syphon.

Small cows, sheep, people and cars placed at intervals through the valley further attracted the spectators.

The display was prepared by Paul Powell, superintendent of the irrigation district. Mr. Powell has been with the irrigation district continually since it started and is familiar with all parts of the project.

The booth was presided over by G. A. Remington, general manager of the district; Mrs. Remington, Miss Arwood and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Powell.

CAPT. MATTHEWS LANDS AND RETURNS TO RANGOON

LONDON, Sept. 27. (US)—Fears for the safety of Capt. F. R. Matthews, on a London to Australia flight, were allayed this evening when word came that he had landed at Banmee, near Bangkok. Matthews lost the lead of a day he held over the record of Bert Hinkler on leaving Rangoon.

Matthews made a forced landing at Banmee but was unhurt. He returned later to Rangoon.

'DRY' FORCES DISCLOSE FEAR PARTY CHANGE

Task Will Be Made More Difficult Result of Sentiment

HAS ADVERSE EFFECT ON ENFORCEMENT OF LAW

Woodcock Statement as to Wine Making Regarded Significant

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Federal prohibition officials disclosed fears today that their task is to be made more difficult by the rising tide of anti-prohibition sentiment, as expressed in such political victories as the adoption of a repeal plank by the New York Republican state convention this week.

In revealing his fears on the subject, Amos W. Woodcock, federal prohibition director, reassured the public the home wine maker, unless he sells his product, is safe from federal interference. While this has always been the case, the fact that Woodcock emphasized it the day following the anti-prohibition revolt in New York state was regarded as significant.

Woodcock Statement

Later Woodcock explained the latitude regarding wine making does not extend to home brew inasmuch as the Volstead act forbids brewed beverages containing one-half of one per cent alcohol or more whereas wine must merely be "non-intoxicating in fact."

"Unquestionably," Woodcock said, "the various declarations for repeal of prohibition recently will have an adverse effect on enforcement. The more public sentiment there is against a law, the harder it is to enforce.

"However, I am not concerned with public opinion, but will strive to enforce the law to the best of our ability and in an honest and decent manner."

Republican Leaders Silent

Republican leaders here from the White House down were silent regarding the desertion of New York Republicans to the anti-prohibition cause.

President Hoover thus far has avoided any comment. He accepted today without comment the resignation as United States district attorney of New York of Charles H. Tuttle, nominated as a repeal candidate for governor of New York by Republicans yesterday. Within a few days, Mr. Hoover will launch on a series of speeches in Cleveland, Boston and at Kings Mountain, S. C., but it is not expected he will discuss prohibition. He will touch New York twice going to and from Boston, but he will cross Hell Gate bridge in the dead of night each time and there will be no opportunity for local politicians in New York to obtain his ear.

Capper Statement

Senator Arthur Capper, Republican, Kansas, telegraphed the United Press that New York's views on prohibition do not, in his opinion, represent those of the Republican parties as a whole.

"Certain eastern sections and cities," he said, "are advocating repeal of the prohibition amendment, but such is not the case in the agricultural area where the rural sections and small towns are mostly dry and will continue so, in my own opinion."

C. A. Sorrenson, Nebraska attorney general, telegraphed:

"The action of the New York Republicans is a repudiation of the national platform adopted two years ago. I hope western Republicans will stand behind the platform on the question and to that extent remain real Republicans."

On the Democratic side, Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy and publisher of the Raleigh, N. C., News and Observer, said "a million dry Democrats who voted for President Hoover in 1928 because they believed he would be militant for the dry cause are disappointed because he was silent as the New York Republican convention declared for repeal."

All through the week . . . . to SUNDAY

You don't know how hard people are working, all through the week, to give you the kind of Times you want on Sunday.

There are special writers, building the woman's pages, the farm page, book reviews, the dramatic, radio, financial and other specialized fields of interest —that you may have both variety, and quality, when Sunday comes and you have "more time to read."

There are even special press runs that you may have color-comics.

There are photographers sending in pictures from everywhere; there are correspondents dispatching thousands of words of telegraphic reporting. There are essayists, and novelists, and artists and critics—all working in their special fields to make your Sunday reading more pleasant or more profitable.

And besides all this special effort to make The Times appealing and pleasing to you on the editorial and pictorial sides, there is another aspect of it which readers find both attractive and profitable for Sunday reading: the advertisements.

Here is a world of news of shops and stores; of autos and radios and clothing and drugs and sundries, of new ways of doing things and new things to do with. Is there, any place, a reader so wise, so well-informed, that he can't learn something from the advertisements in The Sunday Times? And the "Classified Section" is all ads—and vastly important it is, too, to many thousands of people.

The making of the advertisements, too, takes all through the week, to Sunday. And the fruit they bear is gathered all through the next week, from Sunday. For Times advertisements plant buying impulses that last beyond the day—that blossom into sales on every day of the week that follows.

WICHITA FALLS' MASTER SALESMAN

THROCKMORTON COUNTY GETS 40-BARREL WILDCAT PRODUCER

Numerous Locations Made as Lack of Water and Proration Continue to Hit Oil Operations in Wichita District

By JIMMIE MAXWELL

With proration in force throughout the various pools and a lack of water on numerous leases, development of the district's oil resources during the week was curtailed to the minimum. New locations were made in all sections of the district, the majority of these being in the shallow pool near Newcastle in Young county, which registered 31 staked out on the different tracts.

A few wells were brought in, while many others were drilled to the sand to wait until pipe line connections could be secured before their completion.

Among the happenings of the week was the bringing in by Seitz-Comegys-Seitz of their No. 1 McKeicham in the southwest quarter of D. T. Yates survey, abstract 1129, in Throckmorton county, estimated at 40 barrels. The well is a rank wildcat 22 miles southwest of the town of Throckmorton and will be the means of opening up a new shallow field in this section of the county. The sand was encountered at 725 feet and 10 feet was penetrated.

Six miles southwest of Orth in section 333, T. E. L. survey, Young county, Maer & Hamilton's No. 1 Bullock tested a sand at 790 feet but failed to make a producer and was later abandoned at a depth of 900 feet. This test was an important one, as in the event of a producer it would give this part of the county a nice extension to the southwest of the same parties' No. 1 producer in section 53, T. E. L. survey.

Operations in Wichita county, which have been practically shut down with few exceptions, added another producer by the completion by Trout and Lambert of No. 8 Overbey in the Sharpe survey south of Iowa Park as a 100-barreler. In addition, three locations were staked out, while a few tests were spudded in.

Cooke county operations centered in the areas surrounding the new Jacobs well in the extreme southeast part of the county. A few locations were made, among them being Hamilton-Massie's No. 2 C. Jacobs in the Strickland survey in abstract 929, near the producer. Last week the well was placed on the pump and it is pumping and flowing 190 barrels.

In the northwest part of the county another producer was brought in by Grant and others, No. B-2 A. J. Dennis in the Bulcher pool, estimated at 75 barrels per day.

Activities in Clay, Wilbarger, Archer and other pools failed to bring anything to the front outside the usual completion of a few wells of the marginal type, and a number of dry holes.

Pipe line runs for the week, despite the drastic proration schedule throughout the district, registered a gain of approximately 511 barrels. The entire run for the week daily averaged 76,628 barrels as compared with 76,118 barrels in the preceding week.

O'BRIEN POOL IN NORTH WARD GETS MORE OIL

New Production Also in Loving County's Deep, High Gravity Area

GASSER COMPLETED IN PECOS VALLEY SECTION

Sinclair No. 1 Dodge in Eastern Howard County Shot Successfully

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Sept. 27.—New oil production in the O'Brien pool in northern Ward county and in Loving county's deep, high gravity, sweet oil field, a gasser in the Pecos Valley pool in Pecos county and the successful shooting of Sinclair No. 1 Dodge in eastern Howard county made this week one of the most active in some time in the West Texas Permian basin.

Southern Crude's No. 1 Cowden, discovery well in northern Ector county, ran tubing after being shut in several days following its heading a daily average slightly in excess of 265 barrels daily over an 11-day period, at a completed total depth of 4244 feet in lime. Fuhrman No. 1 Ford, Andrews county wildcat wet gasser, had drilled to 4205 feet in hard, white lime without further shows. Magnolia No. 2 Hoover, Crockett county wildcat, offered possibilities of light production after shooting a showing from 2038-56 feet. Perhaps the week's greatest disappointment was Phillips-Interstate's No. 1 J. A. Whitten, Schleicher county wildcat, which was ordered plugged at 4922 feet when, after swabbing down, it yielded less than a barrel of oil hourly from a horizon topped over a year ago at 4912 feet.

The latest development of interest in Irion county's shallow, high gravity, sweet oil field was the encountering of a showing of oil at 1653 feet in Williams & Williams' No. 1 Noelke, in section 8, city of San Antonio survey, 3½ miles southwest of production. Eight-inch casing was underreamed to shut off water which was being carried when the oil appeared. J. E. Bristow and others' No. 1 Nutt, latest producer in the area, cemented outside 5 3-16 inch casing above 1453 feet to insure shutting off of water above the pay before running tubing. The well early in the week swabbed twice daily, a total of about 60 barrels, agitation causing it to make small flows.

Gulf No. 13 O'Brien became the best producer initially in the O'Brien pool in northern Ward county when it topped pay sand at 2578 feet, had a big increase from 2595 to 2600 feet and flowed 255 barrels in three hours on a 1¼-inch choke and during 16½ hours ending at 7 o'clock Thursday morning flowed 1805 barrels, open. Gas was estimated at 2,500,000 cubic feet. The well is the farthest east of five Gulf producers in a line and is in section 6, block F, C. M. M. B. & A. survey.

Other Completions

Sid Richardson and others' No. 4 O'Brien, in section 5, block 5, G. M. M. B. & A. survey, which adjoins section 6 on the south, was completed at 2760 feet for 195 barrels of oil daily through 2½-inch tubing. Gulf No. 4 Hutchins, in section 3, block F, prepared to set casing at 2758 feet, producing 50 barrels of oil daily at a total depth of 2780 feet.

No. 1 Reagan & McElvain, Loving county's latest well, owned by Paul and Walter Henshaw of San Antonio and Harry Adams of San Angelo, produced 225 barrels of oil in 24 hours ending Wednesday evening. Production is from the Delaware sand topped at 4248 feet, 16 feet in the Delaware lime, which was reached 1563 feet below sea level. Total depth was 4254 feet. A shot was scheduled. The well is in the east corner of section 84, block 1, W. & N. W. Ry. Co. survey. Joe Rush and associates made a location in the west corner of section 77, block 1, W. & N. W. Ry. Co. survey. Their No. 1 Wheat was completed for initial production of 567 barrels daily after being shot with 180 quarts from 4271 feet, the top of the Delaware lime, to 4308 feet.

Sinclair No. 1 Dodge, in section 11, block 30, township 1 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, in eastern Howard county, was cleaning out to complete after being shot with 300 quarts from 2640 to 2798 feet, the total depth, in brown lime. It swabbed 222 barrels the first 16 hours after the shot. The E. L. Smith Oil company's No. 1-B Coffee, one of the farthest western wells in the Coffee-Phillips pool in Glasscock county, encountered pay from 2293-97 feet, drilled to 2302 feet and filled up 1600 feet with oil in five hours. It was to be placed on the pump. The well is in section 22, block 33, township 2 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, a south offset to Humble No. 1 Arrington, a recently completed producer.

O. J. Perren and others' No. 2 H. J. Eaton, in the center of the east quarter of the west quarter of section 27, block 3, H. & T. C. Ry. Co. survey, Pecos county, encountered an estimated 8,000,000 cubic feet of gas at 1760 feet and drilled ahead. Carl Cromwell and others' (formerly M. M. Rowan) No. 1 University, five miles east and 1½ miles north of the Taylor-Link pool, drilled plug at 1700 feet and was scheduled to shoot an oil horizon from 1780 to 1830 feet with 100 quarts. Among closely watched Pecos wildcats, Humble No. 1 Eckernot shut down at 5035 feet for engine repairs and Pure No. 1 Harrison had drilled to 2118 feet in anhydrite, with streaks of brown lime at 2010 feet. Humble No. 1-B Thompson, flowing sulphur water heavily from 1310 and an increase from 1250-60 feet, had drilled to 1565 feet in grey lime.

Magnolia No. 2 A. C. Hoover, Crockett county wildcat, obtained a showing of oil from 2038-56 feet that tested three to four barrels a day before the test was shot with 60 quarts from 2038-54 feet. The hole filled 750 feet with oil in 23 hours. It then swabbed down in 45 minutes, yielding 20 barrels of oil, but after standing one hour swabbed only three-fourths of a barrel. No. 2 Hoover is in section 2, block FF, two miles southeast of Magnolia No. 1 Hoover, which was completed dry. It is about 15 miles east of the Yates field in Pecos county and about the same distance southwest of the Powell pool in Crockett.

Mid-Continent Oil Activities

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 27. (UP)—As huge gushers continued to blow in on the northwestern edge of the city field oil operators prepared today to renew drilling activity with a deluge of new locations.

Within two weeks seven wells have been completed for over 40,000 barrels daily oil flow, two of which will make over 65,000, if pressure does not decline.

During the same period a dozen new locations have been made, five by the Phillips Petroleum company, three by the I. T. L. O. company and one each by the Plains Petroleum company, Independent Oil and Gas company, Capital Products company, and C. C. Julian Oil and Royalty company.

Most of the work is in section 10-11-3w, although several other tests have been started in sections 2-11-3w, 11-11-3w and 3-11-3w.

The Phillips Petroleum company started first work today on another new test, its No. 1 T. H. Nunn in northwest quarter of 10-11-3w.

The Century Petroleum company, drilling one well on the Wheeler school land and about ready to complete its Jefferson No. 1 well, is blocking off several areas preparatory to starting new work.

Keene-Oklahoma Oil company has started drilling its No. 1 Ohio well in section 15-11-3w. Jones drilling company is ready to spud in on its No. 1 Community well in section 10-11-3w.

The Independent Oil and Gas company, and Phillips Petroleum company, obtained permits from the city building department yesterday to drill three wells in the city limits.

Two wells were added to the city field yesterday. The Anderson-Prichard Oil corporation brought in its No. 4 Roosevelt well, in NE NW NE 2-11-3w, with an oil flow of 735 barrels the first hour. Gas volume was estimated at 15,000,000 cubic feet.

The C. C. Julian Oil and Royalty company completed its third producer in the city field when the No. 3 Walker well was bailed in. It made 508 barrels of oil the first 30 minutes and had a gas volume of approximately 20,000,000 cubic feet. Location is in NW SE SE 10-11-3w.

This well was shut down over two weeks for Julian's alleged failure to purchase a city drilling permit.

TRIO NEW OIL WELLS EXTEND TATUMS FIELD

WIRT FRANKLIN WELL MAKES 2090 BARRELS

Seven Other Tests Near Completion in Oklahoma Area

ARDMORE, Okla., Sept. 27.—Three new producers were added to the new southeast extension of the Tatums field in Carter county during the past week for an initial 24-hour gauge of 3,024 barrels of oil. Seven other tests in the area are down to the sands, and will probably be completed within the next week.

The east boundry of the extension is believed to be found by the Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 1 Mose Dickerson, in the northwest of the northeast of the southeast of 24-1s-3w, which is drilling below 3450 feet. Sands in nearby tests are found between 2,000 and 2,500 feet. However, this test failed to get even a slight show at these depths.

Amos Drilling company's No. 1 Hooks in the southeast of the southwest of the southeast of 13-1s-3w, new producer on the northeast edge of the field, failed to show up for as good a well as was expected, when it swabbed and flowed 216 barrels of oil during initial 24-hour gauge. During the first six-hour gauge it made 125 barrels but slumped during the remainder of the period. Production is coming from solid sand at 2131-61 feet and broken sands found between 2261 and 2216 feet. Total depth is 2276 feet. Gravity of the crude tests 26.9 degrees.

Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 8 Ethel Gill in the southeast corner of the northeast of 23-1s-3w, on the west side of the new extension area and near the old field production, swabbed 718 barrels of oil during initial 24-hour gauge and then started flowing and made 601 barrels during the second period. Production is coming from a series of sand found between 2261 and total depth at 2550 feet.

The banner well of the week was brought in by the Wirt Franklin Petroleum corporation at its No. 3 James Hooks in the southeast of the northwest of the northeast of 24-1s-3w, on the east edge of the area, when it flowed 2,090 barrels of oil during initial 24-hour gauge. It has been shut in for proration and operators are tearing down rotary tools. Production was found in this test in a series of sands between 1996 and total depth at 2085 feet.

Slight Increase Shown in Pipe Line Runs for Week in Wichita District

Pipe line runs from the different pools of the Wichita Falls district for the week ending Saturday, Sept. 27, averaged 76,629 barrels per day, a gain of approximately 511 barrels daily as compared with the previous week's runs.

A glance at the figures from a number of pools shows varying gains when compared with the preceding seven days' output. This increase was not caused by any new flush production from new producers but was created by the fact that a number of companies transferred the greater portion of the prorated oil from the leases to storage of a greater capacity located in the Wichita refining center and other points in the district. Below are the runs by pools:

JONES' VICTORY LEAVES NO DOUBT OF WORLD SUPREMACY

The fellow who said never to take anything for granted in baseball could have included a bit more territory. He might have added football. Since last Thanksgiving day the dope in district No. 1 has been to the effect that the Lubbock Westerners would have a romp in winning the championship. That theory was blasted wide open Friday when the Pampa Harvesters slipped up on the blind side of the Lubbock lads and handed them a 12 to 9 walloping. That defeat does not mean that Lubbock is eliminated. Far be it from such. But Lubbock now must continue its fight with one defeat marked against it and surely cannot afford to drop another decision.

We can't say whether it was Lubbock's weakness or Pampa's strength that engineered the upset at Lubbock Friday, but the latter is more likely to be true, for the Harvesters issued a warning a week ago when they ran up a 73 to 0 score against an Oklahoma eleven. However, the Westerners were in exactly the right spot to be not themselves. They had been touted for nine months as district champions to be. Maybe they took what they heard too seriously. If that is the case, then the Westerners are likely to be double tough for the rest of the way, for the loss to Pampa should have sent home a lasting lesson.

One defeat nowadays doesn't mean by any means a club's elimination from the race, for the chances are against any team playing through an eight-game schedule without a defeat. Back in the old days when the district championships were decided by elimination, that loss would have ruined the season for Lubbock. As it is, the Westerners still have a chance if they can win the rest of their games. Our hunch is that every team in the district is going to get whipped at least once before Thanksgiving day. We can't put our finger on the team that is good enough to whip the club that whipped Lubbock, but as we see it, the chances of Pampa sailing through seven more games without a loss are remote.

A more intimate view of the Lubbock club may be had next Saturday when the Westerners tangle with the Coyotes in Wichita Falls' first league skirmish. We believe that Lubbock's loss to Pampa has not improved the Coyotes' chances a nickel's worth. Football psychology usually works the other way around. The Westerners are likely to be in a mean frame of mind for their second game, because there is no doubt at all that they were sadly surprised by the loss to Pampa. Wichita Falls, too, should be in a better mental attitude for this opening game.

The Coyotes have been among the listeners for nine months to the stories of Lubbock's supremacy over the field. Possibly they might have felt prior to Friday that they didn't have a chance against the Westerners. Their confidence, at least, should have been built up by the game in which they played no actual part, for Pampa proved to the world at large that the Westerners may be powerful, but not invincible. Something else the boys might remember. They went to Lubbock last year conceded little chance to turn back the Westerners. They didn't win but they held the favorites to a 6 to 0 score in as courageous a fight as a Coyote team ever made. Not many of those who played in that Lubbock game of 1929 are back, but enough of them are to recall just what fighting spirit and determination can do.

Just how good the Coyotes are is a matter that can't be decided until Saturday's scuffle with Lubbock. They looked fairly good in losing to Fort Worth Poly in the season's opener and a bit better in defeating Temple, Okla., 32 to 0, Friday. Still, they have not been given a true test. Barry Holton's 1930 edition may turn out to be a high-powered club, or it may prove just so much cannon fodder for the two or three stronger clubs of the district. A victory over Lubbock is not absolutely necessary to achieve the championship goal, but it is much to be desired. It would put the team on even terms with Pampa. If the Coyotes are good enough to hold the Westerners as well as they did last year, you can take it for granted we are going to see some mighty fine football played before the end of the season. For the team that can hold Lubbock undoubtedly is good enough to make a race for the championship, particularly since the Westerners already have a defeat chalked against them.

Wichita Falls should do considerable whooping 'em up this week for Saturday's skirmish. It is the opening game of a gridiron season of more promise probably than any a Coyote team has gone into since 1923. It is undoubtedly the most important opening district contest the Pack has ever faced. Instead of wading into the thing lightly, with Quanah or some of the other alleged weaker competitors, the Holton charges are forced this season to tangle with the favorites right at the jump. Athletic park should be jammed to the rafters with Coyote supporters Saturday. Such a turnout would give the boys a greater incentive than could be provided in any other manner.

STAMFORD HOLDS FROSH OF SIMMONS SCORELESS

STAMFORD, Texas, Sept. 27.—Simmons college freshmen were held to a scoreless tie here Friday by the Stamford High Bulldogs. Coach Lee Walker's men did good work in holding a heavier, more experienced team.

TERRY SETS RECORD FOR TOTAL BASE HITS

NEW YORK, Sept. 27. (UP)—Bill Terry, New York Giants first baseman, set a new major league hit record in the fifth inning Saturday against the Phillies when he made his 254th hit, a single off Phil Collins.

Homans Is Forced To Bow to Genius In Final, 8 and 7

By FRANK GETTY
United Press Sports Editor

MERION CRICKET CLUB, ARDmore, Pa., Sept. 27.—Bobby Jones' boyhood dream of ruling all the golfing worlds came true on the sun-drenched 11th green at Merion Saturday, when the winning putt of his match with Gene Homans clinked into the cup and he won the national amateur championship of the United States, 8 up and 7 to play.

When that last putt dropped and his opponent wrung his hand, the 28-year-old Atlanta barrister became possessor of every major golf championship in the world.

So far as his success over the New Jersey amateur was concerned, it was hollow triumph. But Bobby had proven that he could accomplish what always had been held virtually impossible, and he was a happy young man as he mopped his brow and strode back to the clubhouse jostled by an eager throng of nearly 10,000 shouting golf fans.

Jones, who already held the national open championship and the British open and amateur titles, had set his heart upon winning at Merion.

So far as the final round was concerned it was a typical Jones triumph. Bobby crushed Homans just as he crushed the others who have lost to him in the final round of the amateur championship.

When he won his first amateur title, here at Merion, six years ago, Bob beat George Von Elm, 9 up and 8 to play. The following year, Watts Gunn was the victim at Oakmont and the count was 8 and 7.

Not until 1927 did Jones get another chance to steam-roller an opponent, for Von Elm took his measure at Baltimore. The Atlantan defeated Chick Evans in the finals at Minikahda, 8 and 7.

At Braeburn, in 1928, Bobby downed T. Phillip Perkins, the British champion, in the widely advertised "international final," 10 up and 9 to play.

Homans Starts Poorly

In Saturday's game, Homans was in traps and trouble for the first five holes, three of which he lost. He would have lost the fifth if Bob hadn't three-putted. Gene appeared nervous.

Jones lost the seventh hole when Homans laid him a stymie, and Bob in putting for a half hit his opponent's ball.

A penalty stroke at the ninth where he went into the creek cost Homans the hole and they turned with the new champion three up.

Then Jones began to bear down. He came back in 33 strokes, one under par, and had Homans eight down at the 16th.

Bob won the 10th when Homan's second went over the green. He sank a 25-footer at the 11th for a birdie three and a win. They halved the next two in regulation pars and then Homans three-putted the 14th and lost that one.

The Englewood amateur was in a trap with his second at the 15th and his third was over the green, so that he conceded Jones a six-foot putt which was scored as another birdie three. The 16th also went to Jones when Gene once more three-putted.

It seemed as though the golfing machine from Georgia was in high gear for keeps, but just then the human element entered and Bob lost another hole. From a bad lie Jones chipped too strongly and ran 30 feet past the cup. Homans, meanwhile, had put his tee shot hole high, eight feet from the can. When Bob missed his long putt he conceded Gene a birdie two.

Be it said for Homans that he made a bold putt for a half on the home hole.

Bob strolled up to the first tee swinging a putter before he noticed it and had to ask for a wooden club. The Atlantan's whole attitude during the morning was, "Ho, hum, what a noisy lot of people there are around here." He was cheerful and polite to Gene, but he was just too bored for words.

Finish Is Sloppy

Starting the afternoon with a half in fours, Jones and Homans found themselves surrounded by the largest gallery of the week, estimated at more than 10,000.

They also halved the 20th hole and it looked as though Gene had steadied down, but he three-putted the short 21st and lost it after Bob had played a marvelous recovery shot from a trap to within two inches of the hole.

Gene's drive at the 22nd was trapped and he had to play a safety shot which cost him this hole as well. With Jones nine up Gene braced again and they halved the next two holes in regulation par fours.

Both dropped a stroke to par at the 25th, going over the high, heavily trapped green with their seconds. It was not spectacular golf in any sense. It became apparent that Bobby would not set a new record for one-sided triumphs and his golf was ordinary for him.

They halved the 26th in regulation fours and then when it was nearly over, Homans won his last hole. Bobby pulled his tee shot a bit at the short 27th just enough to topple his ball into a trap. His recovery shot was a trifle too strong. Homans meanwhile had played well on, to within eight feet of the cup and when Jones putted and missed he conceded Gene a birdie two.

The finish was ragged. At the 28th Jones hooked and Homans sliced. Then they plopped side by side into a deep trap. Bob played first and he didn't get out. Gene laced in his ball with a niblick and flew out and over the green and into another trap. Both were on in four and down in two and Bob was dormie eight.

The end came at the 29th. Here the tired Homans sliced his tee shot again and Bob was down by the rough on the left. They both reached the green in two and Gene had to get home a 10-foot putt to keep the match going. It was beyond him, just as matching strides with Bobby always had been beyond him, and a half in fours ended the match.

"From now on, I'm going to play golf for fun," said Bobby with a sigh of relief when he reached the locker room and slumped into a chair before dressing for the ordeal of receiving the tall silver trophy which stood on a table beside the first tee.

"I may play in all the major championships next year and I may not play any, depending upon how I feel.

"But the strain is off now. When it got so I couldn't sleep at nights for worrying about a golf match, then no game was worth it. I felt I had something definite to accomplish and I did it. Now I'm going to enjoy golf.

"And if I take an 11 on a hole I don't care whether or not they say I am slipping. I want to be able to go out to the little course across the street and enjoy a round.

"As for this movie contract report, it is true I have been approached from time to time. There's nothing new about that.

"If any promoter were foolish enough to offer me a million dollars to make a picture, I wouldn't be so foolish as to refuse it.

"If you run across any promoter like that be sure to give him my address.

"As for my business plans, I am uncertain. I had thought at one time that I might be dividing my time between New York and Atlanta, but I am not sure.

"I am leaving for Atlanta tomorrow night and if I don't see another golf club for a long, long time, it will be all right with me."

Perhaps the best way to sum it all up is the words of Gene Homans, the black-eyed, slender youngster from New Jersey:

Coyotes Face Heavy Week in Preparation for Lubbock

EARL ADAMS.

BILL SHORES.

The 1930 world series, opening Wednesday in Philadelphia will provide a few extra thrills for Wichita Falls fans who remember the Spudder days of Earl "Sparky" Adams, Cardinal third baseman; Bill Shores, Athletics' pitcher, and Homer Summa, utility outfielder of the American league champions.

Only one of the trio will be called upon for every-day work in the series. Adams, who is one of the most popular of all former Spudders, is the regular third sacker for the Cards and will be stationed at the hot corner throughout the series. Many baseball men have credited the astounding climb of the Cardinals to the National league championship to the splendid all round play of this former Spudder.

Strangely enough, it was from the St. Louis club that the Spudders obtained Adams back in the spring of 1922. The little fellow then was strictly a shortstop and he was so good at that position in 1922 that he graduated to the Chicago Cubs. At Chicago he was converted into a second baseman, but eventually was passed on to Pittsburgh.

He Moves Again

The Pirates only last winter couldn't find a place for him and again he shifted in a player trade, landing with the club that had originally dug him out of the minors and sent him to Wichita Falls just eight years earlier. He was immediately installed at third base and has been very much on the job ever since.

Shores, who has gradually worked his way into a regular job on Connie Mack's pitching staff, is a Texas boy who spent his entire minor league career on Texas diamonds. At the close of the 1926 campaign, he was a member of the Mexia club of the Lone Star league. A Philadelphia scout spotted him as a comer and enlisted the aid of the Spudders in making the deal. He was bought by Wichita Falls and turned over to the A's in the spring of 1927. He eventually landed in Waco for the simple reason that the Spudders had a powerful staff of true and tried veterans and didn't care to experiment with an unknown. Shores had a big season with the Cubs and was called in by the Macks for the 1928 campaign. The Spudders were in far different straits for pitching talent when mid-season arrived, and Connie Mack, repaying the favor conferred by the Spudders in helping with the original deal, sent down Shores on option of recall. For the last two seasons he has taken on more and more importance in doings of the A's and he's sure to see service in the series, as a relief tosser, if not as a starter.

Summa Disappoints

Summa's major league career has never fulfilled the promise he gave at Wichita Falls. Many fans here rate him the greatest Spudder outfielder of all time, but he has never come through as a major leaguer. Summa was obtained by the Spudders in the spring of 1922 from the Pittsburgh Pirates after a big preceding season in the Southern league. He led the Texas league in batting in 1922 and proved a near perfect player in every respect. Besides his hitting, he could field, throw and run. A bright future was predicted for him when he was sold to Cleveland, but after a year or two as a regular with the Indians, he finally was shoved into a utility role and eventually drifted to the Athletics. Even this season he was waived out of the American league and spent part of the campaign with Portland in the Pacific Coast league, being brought back to Philadelphia after the season was half played.

Besides these three former Spudders, many others who have disported in the Texas league will participate in the classic. The St. Louis roster sounds much like a roll call of former Houston stars. Al Simmons, the Athletics' walloping outfielder, graduated from the Shreveport club, but spent one season at Milwaukee before he earned his spurs in the American league.

All Hack's Fault

Hack Wilson, Cub pineappler, who was released by the Giants in 1925, is responsible more than any other player in keeping the New York team pennantless since 1924.

Sheldon and Roscoe Davis Move Into Semi-Finals as Champion Goes Down

Elimination of the defending champion, Laul Landes, featured the week's play in the all city golf championship now in progress on the links of the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club. Landes fell a victim Saturday to the sharp southpaw shooting of Roscoe Davis, country club player, and went down, 4 and 3. The elimination of Landes marked the passing of the final champion in the tournament and the crown now must fall to a new wearer.

Davis, by virtue of his upset victory, early this week meets the winner of the match between Orion Daniel and Tommy Cochran, paired in the quarter-finals. Cochran and Daniel, the latter the tournament medalist, are scheduled to have at it Sunday to determine Davis' opponent in the semi-finals.

Sheldon Advances

In another quarter-finals match Saturday I. R. Sheldon, finalist in the recent country club invitation tourney, encountered unexpectedly little difficulty in eliminating J. H. S. Bonner. Sheldon's winning score was six up and five to play.

Sheldon meets the winner of the quarter-finals match between Keanon Haley and C. O. Davis. The latter two also were slated to settle their argument Sunday, reducing the original field of 138 starters to four.

Class D Champion

One flight championship was determined during the week. M. P. Rogers defeated Solon R. Featherston, 5 and 3, in the class D final.

W. D. Kennedy has advanced to the semi-finals, along with M. G. Boone and Floyd Putty, in class A. Kennedy defeated Paul Harding, 3 and 2; Boone won from T. P. Duncan, 1 up, 19 holes, and Putty eliminated Erick Gebert, 2 up.

George Putty is the only class B player to reach the semi-finals, having defeated P. Blair, 2 up, in the quarter-finals.

M. Newton advanced to the semi-finals in the lower bracket in class C with a 1 up victory over E. D. Steward, while W. E. Bristol moved into the next to last round by defeating Harry Hines, 5 and 4.

BAKERSFIELD, N. Y., Sept. 27. (UP)—Columbia conquered Middlebury college in the opening football game of the season at Bakersfield before a crowd of 10,000 fans, by a score of 43 to 0. The score at half time was 19 to 0.

Cubs Outplay Class A Team To Score Victory Over Tigers

OLNEY, Texas, Sept. 27.—The Olney High school Cubs refused to recognize the higher classification in the interscholastic league of the Electra Tigers and won a 21 to 7 victory here Saturday in a well played practice contest. The win for the Cubs completely upset the dope.

The first half was scoreless, with both clubs refusing to take advantage of their scoring opportunities, but the Cubs broke loose for two touchdowns in the third quarter and added their third in the final. A series of passing and running plays, featuring the plunging of Graves, who led the Cubs' play at all stages, accounted for the first score shortly after the start of the last half. Only a few minutes later Goode got off a long pass to B. Gilmore, who jogged the remaining 10 yards to the goal line. In the fourth period Goode passed to W. Gilmore over the goal line. Duckworth kicked the extra point after all three touchdowns.

LOCKNEY HIGH DEFEATS PLAINVIEW ELEVEN, 12-6

PLAINVIEW, Texas, Sept. 27.—Lockney High school defeated Plainview, 12 to 6, in a night game here Friday. Duncan of Lockney was the outstanding star of the game. He intercepted a pass in the second quarter and raced 95 yards for a touchdown. He also contributed Lockney's other touchdown on a line buck.

Tennis Union.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 27. (INS)—Union of two famous tennis playing families was made possible Saturday by a marriage license application of John Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J., member of the American Davis cup team, and Midge Gladman, Santa Monica, Cal., star of the nets.

Childress Bobcats Outplay Vernon's Lions to Hang Up 13 to 6 Victory

CHILDRESS, Texas, Sept. 27.—In a game replete with sparkling plays and filled with heart-rending breaks, the Childress Bobcats downed the Vernon Lions here Saturday afternoon, 13 to 6, for the locals' second straight conference win.

After the first five minutes of play, when the Lions made four successive first downs, the Bobcats completely outplayed the Wilbarger county entry, keeping the ball deep in the enemy territory during the greater portion of the game.

The Cats bombarded the visitors with an aerial attack that proved a constant threat, while their end runs and line plunges were equally dangerous. Outside of Vernon's initial bid, the Lions failed to seriously threaten, save for their lone touchdown, which came as the result of a long pass in the second quarter, Williams to Nixon.

In the second half, a series of passes, sweeping end runs and line plunges carried the ball to scoring distance and Groce plunged through for another touchdown. He failed to add the extra point by kick.

Two disastrous breaks robbed the Cats of a much heavier score. A long pass, Davis to Boyd, netted 25 yards and a touchdown, but Childress was called back for offside and penalized five yards. Again the Lions were backed up on their own line. Captain Sikes of Childress broke through to block Nixon's punt, and recovered on the Lion's 8-yard line—another offside penalty for the Cats.

Athletics' Four-Run Rally In Ninth Falls Short of Tie

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27. (AP)—A four-run rally in the ninth inning today failed to overcome the effects of Babe Ruth's forty-eighth and forty-ninth home runs of the season and the New York Yankees defeated the champion Athletics in their final clash of the year by a 10 to 8 score.

Ruth clouted his first homer of the game off George Earnshaw in the third inning with the bases empty, then repeated the feat in the next inning with loaded sacks.

Battle Continues For Positions in Pack's Backfield

Coach Holton Impressed With Strength Both Pampa and Westerners

Only five days of practice remaining before going into the first championship game of the 1930 season, the Wichita Falls High school Coyotes faced a heavy week's work Monday in preparation for next Saturday's contest here with Lubbock High school.

The Coyotes have put two games behind them in losing to Fort Worth Polytechnic, 10 to 6, ten days ago and winning from Temple, Okla., here, 32 to 0, but neither game offered the test that will come in meeting Lubbock's high-geared Westerners here Saturday.

Coach Barry Holton was among the most interested of several thousand spectators Friday at Lubbock, when the Westerners were defeated by Pampa High school Harvesters, 12 to 9, in the first major upset of the 1930 championship campaign, Lubbock's veteran team, that finished a close second to Amarillo last season, has been established as a heavy favorite to win the championship.

Deserved Victory.

"There was nothing in the nature of a fluke in Pampa's victory," Holton declared Saturday on his return to the city. "Both Lubbock and Pampa have wonderful teams, but one of them had to win, and it wasn't Lubbock. All the good things that have been said about the Westerners are true, but they are just as true of Pampa, and the team that beats either of these is going to have to play real football."

The Wichita Falls squad was in charge of Bill Morris, assistant coach, in the Friday victory over Temple, and he was well pleased with the development the team has shown since the opening game, but declared the Temple opposition was not strong enough to give the boys a real test, and predicted that better football would have to be played this week to keep pace with the Westerners.

A full week's work of scrimmage and routine signal drilling has been mapped out by the coaches for practice starting Monday, and it goes without saying that the defense will be groomed carefully to stave off the type of attack the Westerners employed in their game with Pampa.

In Good Condition.

The squad came out of the Temple game in excellent condition, according to Morris, and so far as was known Saturday there was not a single injury of serious nature among the squadmen. B. Daugherty was forced from the fullback post early in Friday's game, but had fully recuperated before the finish.

Chief interest among the fans in the week's practice probably will center about the backfield, where at least seven men to date have shown almost equal ability. Four halfbacks, Bennett Withrow, J. R. Holton, Blondy Smith and Harlan Ray have been fighting a pretty battle for the regular jobs, with Orin Janeway another competitor of more than passing promise. All five of these were used in the Temple game and all came through nicely.

Withrow and Danny Cox apparently are the only backs who can be sure of their jobs. Withrow, besides providing much of the ball carrying power, has cinched his position by developing an accurate goal kicking toe. At least, it is the most accurate the Pack has known in many seasons, and it seems the club finally has found a placement kicker who can be depended upon for a large percentage of extra points.

SOUTHWEST CONFERENCE ELEVENS SCORE EASY VICTORIES

Baylor Fails to Impress in 33-0 Win Over Denton

Longhorns, Aggies, Frogs And Razorbacks Coast To Victory

WACO, Texas, Sept. 27. (AP)—Showing a splendid defense, but a very sluggish offense the Baylor Bears opened their football season with a 33 to 0 victory over the North Texas teachers of Denton Saturday. Never was Baylor able to score on the teachers with a running or plunging play, Denton held Baylor to one touchdown for almost three quarters and several of the Baylor scores were of the very flukey variety.

The first touchdown for Baylor came early in the first period when Charley Morris blocked a punt and Lewter recovered for a touchdown. It was late in the third period when Baylor scored again, Bob Kiersey taking a pass from Jake Wilson and racing about 12 yards for a score. Three more touchdowns came in the final period when Denton grew tired and desperate.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Sept. 27. (AP)—Scoring in the first five minutes of play, Arkansas university triumphantly raised the gridiron curtain with a 27 to 0 victory over the College of the Ozarks before a crowd of 3,500 here Saturday.

The Porkers scored their first touchdown when Holmes shot a 15-yard pass to Chamber, a rangy end, who caught the ball behind the goal line. Dale kicked goal. The Razorbacks shoved their way over the goal line three more times, once in the third period, with Ledbetter carrying the ball, and twice in the final, with Uptmoor and Karr scoring. Dale kicked the extra points.

Frogs 33, Kangaroos 7

FORT WORTH, Sept. 27. (AP)—The Texas Christian university Horned Frogs, 1929 Southwest conference champions, defeated Austin college of Sherman, 33 to 7, here Saturday. It was the third win of the season for the champions.

The Frogs held a 13 to 0 lead at the end of the half, and increased it to 26 to 0 at the third quarter. Lillis gave the Kangaroos their lone touchdown with an intercepted pass in the last quarter. T. C. U.'s final points came in the same quarter.

Aggies 43, Pirates 0

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Sept. 27. (AP)—Revealing little more than the usual football tactics, Coach Matty Bell's Texas Aggies downed the Southwestern university Pirates from Georgetown, 43 to 0, in the opening game of the season Saturday. The Pirates offered little opposition and made only two first downs in the game, while the Aggies totaled 29.

The Aggies' first touchdown came in the opening three minutes of the game, Harling and Floyd carrying the ball down the field on straight running plays. Floyd carried the ball over for the first counter and the Aggies tallied twice in every period excepting the third.

Mustangs 0, Durant 0

DURANT, Okla., Sept. 27. (AP)—Southern Methodist university reserves of Dallas and the Southeastern State teachers of Durant played a scoreless tie on the gridiron here Saturday. The game was dull with the opposing lines battling on even terms.

Both teams resorted to passes when line plays failed to score but neither threatened seriously. The Savages twice advanced to the Mustang 20-yard line and S. M. U. once carried the ball to the three-yard line but lacked the punch to put the ball over for a touchdown.

The vaunted aerial attack of the visitors was inferior to that of Southeastern, the Savages completing 8 out of 21 for 118 yards against three out of 19 for 80 yards for the Mustangs.

Owls 13, Sam Houston 12

HOUSTON, Sept. 27. (AP)—Rice Institute's football eleven came near falling Saturday before the earnest offensive of the Sam Houston teachers, but managed to win, 13 to 12.

The Owls, though showing at times the power and drive of last Saturday, failed too often to turn up with these requisities in the pinches. Additionally, they did not cope successfully with the Teachers' passing attack.

The only dramatic moment in the game was late in the fourth period after White, a substitute back for the Huntsville team, plunged two yards for a touchdown. His mates, upon intercepting a Rice pass, in three straight first downs again brought the ball to that crucial position, then, there stood the chance for a tie. Doyle, idolized at Huntsville, drew back his foot. It failed, the ball being smothered somewhere down among the mass of squirming men. The sturdy White made the only other Sam Houston touchdown, a cross buck for 17 yards in the second period.

AUSTIN, Sept. 27. (UP)—A heavy Texas university eleven, continually strengthened by fresh reserves, hammered its way to a 25 to 0 victory over a stubbornly fighting team from the Texas College of Mines at Memorial stadium here Saturday afternoon.

The university's defense was loose and the offensive lacked the necessary punch to run roughshod over the light team. Dexter Shelley, ace half of the Steers, and Bull Elkins, regular quarter, led the Longhorn attack, although their work was spasmodic.

Kay, ace fullback for the Miners, was carried from the field in an ambulance because of injuries sustained when he crashed into a concrete curb. His injuries were not believed to be serious.

INDIANA SHOE TOSSER WINS NATIONAL TITLE

CHICAGO, Sept. 27. (AP)—First place in the men's singles of the first national amateur horseshoe pitching contest at Lincoln park here Saturday was won by Jimmy Risk of Montpelier, Ind.

Milton Pate of Moline, Ill., was second, and H. Bergal of Dugger, Ind., third.

Bessie Schneider of Chicago was first in the women's singles and Miss Z. Schupan of Chicago, second.

SPUDDERS HANG UP THREE NEW CLUB RECORDS AS ONLY MARKS ESTABLISHED IN 1930 SEASON

While only three new records were set on the standard tables of the Texas league during the 1930 season, all three club marks, the short crop is partially offset by the number of new marks made in the Dixie series. Seven new records were made in the five-game series between Fort Worth and Memphis and six more were tied. All of these in addition to the numerous records of "most performances" for all series Fort Worth already held as the only participant in six previous series, all of course increased by this year's play-off.

Wichita Falls is responsible for all three new Texas league records. The Spudders hammered out 192 home runs, beating the 186 figure set last year by Waco. By making its season hits count for 2,663 total bases and 1,011 extra bases, the Wichita Falls team broke two marks existing since 1925 when San Antonio totaled 2,582 bases and made 946 extra bases. The return to the regulation 154-game schedule after two longer ones accounts for shattering in the record crop. But several of the standard marks were threatened. The Spudders fell only 12 short of the record in season runs. Sam Leslie (SA) actually surpassed the record batting average of .402. Ike Boone's 1923 mark, but did not take part in 100 games and is not regarded as a record maker. Joe Bonowitz (FW) missed by 1 tying Nason's 1926 mark for total chances accepted in left field and Gus Whelan (SA) was only a point short of equalling the league's best fielding average at first base.

The new Dixie series records include some on the adverse side. The last day attendance at Fort Worth, 2,462, was the smallest in the history of the series, the previous low being 2,223 in the seventh game at Little Rock, 1920. Oddly enough, both games were those that decided the championship. Eddie Moore is the first regular in 11 years of Dixie series play to go through a complete series without making a safe hit. In the 1927 series, the two players who shared the second best position for New Orleans, Ewoldt and Murray, failed to hit safe but each played but two games in the four. Eddie Moore went through the whole five games without a blow. However, three names were added to the select list of nine who had previously hit safely in every game of a single series. Tavener (FW), Waddey (Mem) and Hutcheson (Mem) did that this year.

Leslie Mallon, Fort Worth, set three new marks. His series batting average of .611 is a record, beating Irving Jeffries' high of .476 made last year for Dallas against Birmingham. By going to bat 11 times in succession in the first three games without being retired or hitting into a force out, the Panther infielder bested Rigney's run of seven made for Fort Worth against Memphis in 1921. By accepting 12 chances at second base in the last game, Mallon broke the old series record of 10, shared by Turpen (WF), 1927, and Black (Birmingham), 1929.

May (Memphis) set a series record by handling seven changes in the box in the third game and his six assists tied another old mark. Both were held by Whittaker (Fort Worth), 1926. In the second game, the Fort Worth outfield handled 13 putouts, beating the best previous feat of 11, Memphis, 1924, and Birmingham, 1929.

Hutcheson (Memphis) joined Bill Stellbauer, 1921 Fort Worth, and Bert Nishoff, 1922 Mobile, in hitting a series home run with the bases full. There have been 37 home runs hit in this series in 11 years and only three came with the bags loaded. Larman Cox's home run in the ninth inning of the third game is the second that has actually won a Dixie series game. The other was the 10-inning circuit clout by D. Williams of Mobile in the fourth 1922 game. Brazil (Memphis) tied Rigney's 1921 record for five consecutive hits by making as many in the second and third games this year. Eddie Moore tied Calvo's 1924 record of three assists in one series in center field but Calvo played in eight games that year, Moore in but five this year. Tavener, Fort Worth, had already played the most series at shortstop. He has now run his total games to 22 and has made at this position the most putouts, assists, errors, total chances, and double plays.

The following table shows the Texas league records to date and the leaders in each department for the 1930 season.

Jake Atz Not to Return to Dallas as Steers' Pilot, Club Prexy Announces

DALLAS, Sept. 27. (AP)—Sol Dreyfuss, president of the Dallas baseball club of the Texas league, announced Saturday that the club will make a change of managers before the opening of the 1930 season and that he had received the written resignation of Jakie Atz.

Atz was under a one-year contract during the season just completed and finished eighth and last in the full season club standings.

He wrote to Dreyfuss from his home in New Orleans, La., that he wished to make a change and asked that he be freed of his connection with the Dallas club. His resignation was accepted by Dreyfuss.

Atz piloted the Fort Worth team to six consecutive pennants from 1920 through 1925 and during that time, won five Dixie championships, losing to the Southern association pennant winner only once, that being in 1922 when the Mobile, Ala., club was victor.

His streak of good fortune was broken in 1926, however, when Dallas won the flag and Dixie series and since that time Atz has been out of the titular picture. Not since the circuit made it compulsory that a certain number of youngsters be carried on each roster has Atz been able to reach the heights.

Pirates Open Up With Big Splurge To Beat Redbirds

National League Champs Go Down Before Bucs In 11-8 Tilt

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 27. (AP)—A four-run advantage of the Pittsburgh Pirates in the first inning was too much for the tired pennant-winning Cardinals today and the Pirates took the third of a four-game series here, 11 to 8. Score:

Blues Play Crowell and Whites Mix It With Tulsa in Finals of Polo Tournament Sunday

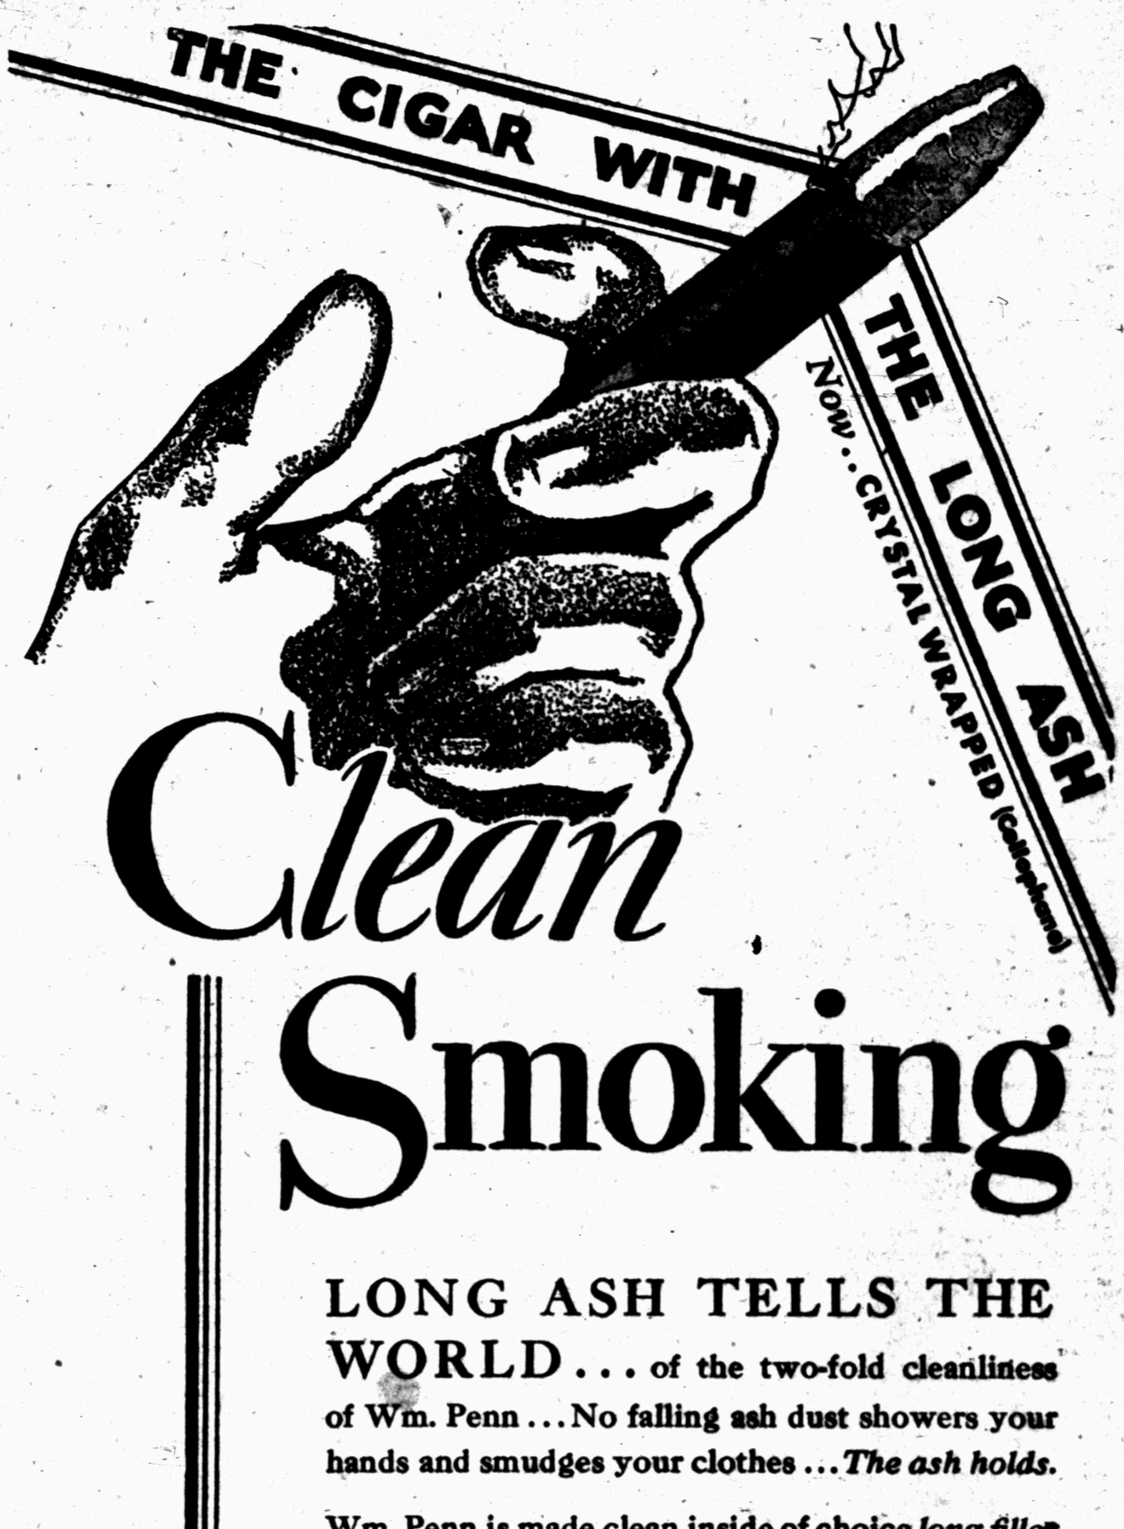

Final matches in the polo tournament sponsored by the Junior chamber of commerce will be played on Clinerowe field Sunday afternoon, starting at 2:30 o'clock. The Wichita Falls Blues play Crowell in the first game for top honors, with Tulsa clashing with the Wichita Falls Whites in the second for the consolation championship.

Sunday's matches are the result of preliminaries played last Sunday in which the Blues and Crowell earned their positions in the top bracket by defeating Tulsa and the Whites, respectively, both by margins of only one goal. Two sets of silver loving cups, donated by Wichita Falls merchants, are at stake in the two games.

Both contests will be regulation affairs, either six or eight chukkers, depending upon the condition of mounts that were slightly injured during the week's tournament and practice play. The Blues, with Stringer at No. 1, Fain No. 2, Robbins No. 3 and Featherston No. 4, will start against Crowell, handicapped by three goals. Robbins and Featherston each carries two goals. The prospective Crowell lineup is Glenn Orfield at No. 1, Roy Berry No. 2, Paul Shirley No. 3 and Bill Berry No. 4.

The Whites, with two officers from Fort Sill in the lineup, will carry a heavy handicap and will be forced to give Tulsa six goals at the start. The Whites will select their lineup from Lieuts. Clyburne and Benson, Wilfong, Coffee, Goss and Fletcher. The Tulsa team will have C. W. Flint at No. 1, Jim Minnick at No. 2, A. E. Kinley at No. 3 and Jim Minnick Jr. at No. 4.

An admission charge of 25 cents for individuals and a maximum of $1 for automobiles will be made, the receipts to help defray expenses of the tournament.

BAN ON RUSSIAN SALES DISTURBING TO WHEAT MARKET

CHICAGO, Sept. 27. (AP)—Instead of proving a barrier against low prices, prevention of Russian government's selling of wheat on the board of trade turned out today to have exactly the reverse effect. Widespread advertisement of demands for the preventive action by United States officials had an evident disturbing influence and in addition, big offerings of Russian wheat at Liverpool were reported.

The result was a rush to get rid of ownership of wheat future delivery contracts, and the Chicago market closed unsteady at the bottom most level reached since 1906, when wheat went below 70c a bushel.

Every kind of grain as well as wheat dropped to new low records today with wheat closing 1⅞@2⅛c under yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1⅜@2⅛c down, oats unchanged to ⅛c off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 40c.

Price breaks today plunged wheat down as far as 37c a bushel under the top quotations commanded this season. The fall was likewise nearly that amount below the price prevailing a year ago. From start to finish, the Chicago wheat market today was semidemoralized, but although trading at times was wildly urgent, business lacked volume a large part of the time, buying being only spasmodic and the course of values depending in great degree upon news about Russia's continuing to upset European markets after being shut out of facilities here.

Corn and rye market changes were a parallel to those of wheat. Orders to sell out corn and rye holdings, and thus put a stop to losses, were numerous. Oats values, although weak, held better than anything else, the oats market being already away below normal, even as compared with other cereals.

Provisions tumbled as a result of the new smash in grain prices and because of fresh downturns in the value of hogs.

SELLING MOVEMENT PUTS COTTON DOWN LIVEPOOL LOWER

NEW YORK, Sept. 27. (AP)—A continuation of the recent selling movement in cotton, was reflected by a further decline during today's trading with new December contracts selling off to 10.40 or 11 points net lower. That delivery closed at 10.41, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 5 to 16 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of 1 to 4 points in response to the relatively easy showing of Liverpool and overnight selling which came partly from the South. The decline to 10¼ cents for new December contracts brought out some liquidation of long accounts, partly on stop orders, and the active months sold about 7 to 13 points net lower during the middle of the morning. This carried the price of new October off to 10.21 and March to 10.68 after which the selling became a little less urgent and the market steadied up a point or two of the lowest for the day and season, so far.

Liverpool cables said the market there was lower under hedging and general liquidation and reported that buyers of cotton cloths and yarns were holding off pending a more stable raw material market.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 27. (AP)—The cotton market was active for a short Saturday session and prices made new low records for the movement and for the season with October contracts as low as 10.12 and middling spots down to 10c. The decline was due to poor cables, general liquidation and rather liberal hedge selling with sentiment responsible to unsettled condition in grain and stocks and commodities generally.

Following an opening decline of 1 to 2 points the market gradually eased off with only slight occasional rallies on a little short covering until October traded 14 points and December 16 points under the previous close. The close was barely steady a few points above the lowest, showing net declines for the day of 12 to 14 points.

Liverpool came in 2 to 3 points worse than due and first trades here showed losses of 1 to 2 points. Prices continued to ease off nearly the entire session owing to hedge selling and general liquidation, October finally trading down to 10.12 and December to 10.35, or 14 to 16 points below the previous close.

There was a slight recovery at the end on a little week-end covering, but the close was barely steady with October at 10.14 and December at 10.38, or 12 points net lower on those months.

Port receipts, 70,045, for season 2,128,103, last season 1,645,754. Exports, 26,846, for season 1,032,282; last season 796,306. Port stocks 2,531,548, last year 1,188,994. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston, 105,120, last year 132,299.

Liverpool Cotton

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 27. (INS)—Spots cotton opened quiet today with prices easier. Sales amounted to 7,000 bales.

At midday, middling fair sold at 7.07d, strictly middling at 6.04d, middling at 5.82d, strictly low middling at 5.72d, low middling at 5.22d, strictly good ordinary at 4.67d, and good ordinary at 4.27d.

Futures were barely steady with October at 5.57d, December at 5.67d, January at 5.71d, March at 5.82d, and May at 5.92d.

Dry Goods Market

NEW YORK, Sept. 27. (AP)—Cotton goods were steady today with business slowly expanding. Burlaps were somewhat easier. Wool goods were in moderate demand. Silks were selling slowly for fall distribution.

Livestock

Midwestern Livestock Review

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 27. (AP) (U.S.D.A.)—Livestock trade around the 11-market circuit this week was featured by sharp price declines on both sheep and hogs. Fat lambs prices were 75c@$1.00 lower, the lowest levels in 16 years, and the decline was also shared by matured killing classes and feeding lambs. Chicago had a late top on fat lambs of $8.00. Supplies of sheep for the week totaled around 526,000, an increase of 130,000 over last week and 129,000 heavier than the corresponding period a year ago.

Hogs are anywhere from 50c@$1.25 under a week ago with closing trade very dull. Medium weight and heavy butchers are moving to the best advance. Total offerings approximated 361,200 against 362,334 last week and 464,306 a year ago.

Cattle trade this week was marked by a forced price advance on fed steers and yearlings with prices on yearlings almost up to the high spot of the season. Meager supplies of fed steers and yearlings more than offset the depressing influence of a sluggish dressed beef trade. Western grass were marketed freely and values on such offerings were unevenly steady to 25c lower. Chicago had a top of $13.00 on choice yearling steers and realized $12.25 on heavy steers. Country demands for replacement stock were not as broad as last week and at some centers prices worked lower. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 235,700 an increase of 12,000 from last week and 64,500 less than the same week a year ago.

FURTHER DECLINES FOR STOCK MARKET OIL SHARES LOWER

NEW YORK, Sept. 27. (AP)—The momentum gained on nearly three weeks of declining prices carried the stock market lower today and notwithstanding late covering the 90-share average broke just under the June 24 low of 154. At the close this composite stood at 153.2, while both the industrial and railroad averages had punctured their old minimums. The utilities held only one-tenth of a point above the group's bottom level of 204.7.

Railroads, oils and coppers drew the fiercest fire, but the general market was weak.

U. S. Steel eased to a new low for the movement at 157⅛, but its range was narrow and its net loss was only ⅛. American Telephone likewise broke through its previous resistance point temporarily, yet it recovered all but ⅝ of its loss. General Motors reduced a loss of more than a point to ⅛.

Standard Oil of New Jersey was particularly heavy, in common with the other petroleum shares, and lost 1⅛ net. Standard of California, after touching a new low, rallied briskly for a gain of nearly 2 points.

In the copper group Anaconda and Kennecott made new lows as did Standard Oil of New York and Texas corporation, in the petroleum division. Radio closed ⅛ higher.

The few stocks up as much as a point included Bethlehem Steel, Woolworth, Vanadium and American Smelting. International Harvester rose ⅝. United Aircraft, Westinghouse, Pennsylvania, Consolidated Gas, Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward were off about one each. Net losses in many rails ranged from one to four.

Foreign exchanges were quiet. Sterling rallied, but South Americans were heavy.

SHARP LOSSES FOR PETROLEUM ISSUES TRADING ON CURB

NEW YORK, Sept. 27. (AP)—Curb stocks explored new low ground for the movement in the short session today before a partial technical recovery converted some losses into small gains.

The finish was very irregular. Quoted values of utilities and investment and holding company issues were generally steady to firm. On the other side was the weakness of the petroleum group, many of which dropped to new lows for the year, and the mixed appearance of miscellaneous industrials.

Sales totaled 375,400 shares, comparatively large for a half day session on the curb.

Despite the sharp losses registered by petroleum issues this week, they worked into new low ground for the movement today. In the late rally Standard of Indiana and Cities Service were the only active oil stocks to advance. Vacuum, Standard Oil of Ohio and Cosden registered new lows, on losses of 1 to 3 points, and Gulf and Humble also were weak.

Aviation stocks were especially weak. Fokker Aircraft sagged to a new low, and aviation of America, and Bellanca lost about 3 points each. Western Air Express moved up 2 points.

Small gains and losses were the rule in the utility group. Electric Bond and Share dipped to its year's low then rallied to close ¼ higher. United Gas, Niagara Hudson Power, and several others made small fractional gains. A feature was Associated Gas A, which moved away from its almost stationary position around 30 to advance 1¼.

THREE YOUNG GIRLS AND THEIR NURSE DROWNED IN MISSISSIPPI BAYOU

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 27. (AP)—Three young daughters of Thomas C. Raley, president of the Getz Exterminator company, St. Louis, and their nurse were drowned in Bellefontaine bayou, a mile west of Pascagoula, Miss., yesterday. The Raley automobile crashed through a wooden guard rail and sank in ten feet of water. News of the accident was received here today.

Those drowned were Jane Elizabeth Raley, 7; Edna Frances Raley, 14; Nancy Lee Raley, 2½ years old, and Maude Christmas, 15, of Iberia, Mo., the nurse, a distant relative of Mrs. Raley.

Raley, who was in the front seat of the car, a coach, crawled out of an open window and dragged his wife to safety. He held her above water until fishermen rescued them 10 or 15 minutes later.

NEW HIGH GROUND FOR BOND MARKET FIRM AND ACTIVE

NEW YORK, Sept. 27. (AP)—High grade obligations of domestic railroad and utilities companies today forged into new high ground in the bond market.

The session developed considerable irregularity.

U. S. governments were firm and active. Canadian Southern 5s, Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s, Kansas City Southern first 3s, Southern Pacific, Oregon Line 4½s and Wabash 4½s reached new highs for the year.

American International 5½s, American I. G. Chemical 5½s, St. Paul Adjustment 5s, Dodge Brothers 6s, Shell Union 5s, all stock privilege issues, moved down from ½ to more than a point.

Commercial Investment Trust 6s soared more than a point to a new year's high. Loews 6s and Schulco 6½s were strong.

Brooklyn City Railway 5s, infrequently traded, advanced 3 points and with Laclede Gas 5½s and Montana tract on 5s A, were the principal utilities to gain new highs. Postal 5s, and Western Union 5s were well bought.

German 5½s resumed its downward course, losing a point. German Central Agricultural bank 6s lost 2½ and other German Industrial and Municipal issues sagged although generally on thin sales. Here was renewed buying interest in French bonds. The 7½s and 7s were very firm. Cologne City 6½s gained more than a point.

FLOYD COUNTY SCHOOLS CLOSE TO ALLOW PUPILS TO HELP PICK COTTON

FLOYDADA, Texas, Sept. 27.—Many of the rural schools of Floyd county have closed to permit the pupils to assist in gathering the cotton crop. If the weather continues favorable many more of the schools will discontinue class work until most of the cotton crop has been gathered.
The shortage of labor in Floyd county necessitates the temporary closing of the rural schools. The price being paid for the staple does not allow the farmer enough margin to hire the work done.

TRIAL OF ASSAULT CASE WILL OPEN HERE MONDAY

The trial of J. D. Berry, charged with criminal assault, is scheduled to open before Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court Monday morning.
A special venire of 75 men has been summoned in the case. Earl Kuntz is defense attorney.

UNSOUND CONDITIONS IN OIL INDUSTRY CAUSE FOR REDUCTION IN GASOLINE

CHICAGO, Sept. 27. (UP)—Unsound conditions in the oil industry were cited today by the Standard Oil company of Indiana as cause for a two-cent reduction in the service station and tank wagon price of gasoline.
The reduction was effective in 10 states—Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, North and South Dakota, and Kansas. It did not apply in cities where reductions already had been made to meet competition.
The new prices in the territory affected range from 14 cents to about 21 cents, it was said. The lowest figure applies at Detroit where cut-rate warfare between competitors has been especially vigorous.

ABILENE MAN TO DIRECT BAPTIST TRAINING SCHOOL

Walter Jackson of the First Baptist church of Abilene will lead the forces of the First Baptist church in the training school which opens at 7 o'clock Monday evening, Sept. 29, it was announced. This training school is a part of the cooperative religious educational program, directed by the county missionary, Rev. E. M. Agee, throughout the entire association next week.
Courses will be offered which will meet the needs and requirements of the teaching service and excellent teachers have been procured to present the various subjects. Mr. Jackson, one of the outstanding leaders in religious education in the South, will have general direction of the school, and will also teach a book on Sunday school work which has just been released.
Other courses offered will be "The First Part of the Manual" by Mrs. W. H. Davis; "Second Part of Manual," by Mrs. I. A. Farris and "Pupil Life," by J. T. Rundell.
After fruit, cowpea, alfalfa and onion stories, it's quite a drop to a grass story, but since grass is the biggest crop in the world and rather fundamental in livestock production, we'll end up in Robert Gillespie's sudan patch in Colorado county. It was worth $2.67 per day to him this summer for his 13 cows that grazed its 13 acres.

WICHITA FALLS STORES DISPLAY HOME FURNISHINGS EVERY TYPE AND PRICE OPEN HOUSE MONDAY

By ELLEN SEE
The Daily Times Staff

If a family is building a home or moving into a new house, the woman of the family, if she be of that usual type of American woman whose home is the end of her dreams, begins planning every nook and corner before the rugs are ready to go down.

No woman of Wichita Falls needs go away from the city to find the most attractive and smartest of new styles or the handsomest and quaintest of old. Walk for instance, into one of the Lamar street doors of Freear's and as you go up that little tilted incline with polychrome wrought iron railings at each side you see the broad center stairs that lead up to the balcony where another rail seems a border to a picture. The glow of soft ivory walls with pieces of rich tapestry hanging like jewels, the color in upholstered furniture and occasional tables and cozy hassocks almost bewilder one at first with a multitude of beauties.

But there is a family of 20 men and women waiting at Freear's during this style show to show the furnishings of "their home." The eight display rooms upstairs have been re-decorated and must always echo to the "oh's" and "ah's" that have been said already during the show. Be sure to visit them, even if it leaves you wondering how you can manage some of the alluring new features.

Outstanding Show Feature

Side by side in the windows at Freear's, you can see two model bedrooms. One is the very latest thing, that 'something different," that the owner of a lovely new home will covet. It is a bedroom suite of walnut with the most exquisite inlay trimming of maple and Carpathian elm. Beside the graceful bed there's the chiffonier where the man may place his toilet articles, the vanity dresser with the dainty bench, where milady may sit before the dazzling array of toilet articles and the night stand with the ever alluring bedtime book. The most modern harmonizing rugs are on the floor.

But ah, for the colonial home! The wonderful old suite in the adjoining window, the property of Harry J. Naylor of Wichita Falls, has a four poster bed with a canopy almost 10 feet high. The wardrobe is massive and the bureau has the marble top associated with the lovely old rooms of ante bellum grandmothers. A "boot blacking box" unknown in this day, is the last piece comprising the suite. If one should separate the articles, it seems that they would haunt the owner's dreams.

Where Freear's store secured the print that makes the hangings and bedspread, is a matter of conjecture. Some designer of material had imagination. The shirred canopy is of rose and rose is the color predominating in the print which is a rich creamy background with the days of the first gold rush, the old clipper schooner, the Texas longhorn cattle, "Pikes Peak or Bust" covered wagons and views of the southern Mississippi landings with steamers loaded with cotton and gentlemen and darkies adorning it. The reproduction of an old fashioned hooked rug is the ideal floor covering with this suite.

As to the eight rooms—well, they advertise "furniture with character." They welcome you each day and from 7 to 10 o'clock Monday night.

Everyone knows the North Texas Furniture company. Its a question if every housewife doesn't turn immediately each Sunday morning to find what the particular bargain is that this house offers to the thrifty "Early Shoppers."

There are interesting groups and ensembles of artistic furniture arranged over the entire store and the personnel of the store will be a hospitality group to entertain every visitor. There have been many guests already and an overflow crowd is expected Monday evening, Sept. 29, when this store with the others cooperating in the style show will remain open until 10 o'clock.

Heart of the House

The living room holds a luxurious two-piece suite, one of the comfortable down filled suites world famed by the name of "Charles of London." There's a handsome wing back chair with delectable linen frieze upholstery and a pull-up chair of solid mahogany that harmonizes perfectly in this room. A console table and mirror of solid walnut, Queen Anne design, an end table of genuine walnut, an Elizabethan occasional table with a beautifully matched grain walnut top, all go to make a living room that with the domestic Oriental rug featured by this company, the correct draperies and softly glowing lamps, is really the heart of a home.

In the dining room a handsome English suite with refectory top table combines the ancient beauty with modern convenience. The suite features linen fold carving and wrought iron drawer pulls and is entirely of oak. Suitable rugs, draperies and all accessories make the group more than attractive.

Lord Shaftsbury, minister of Charles II time, had a reputation as a high liver and was talked of in all courts for the lavish entertainments he gave and the magnificent outfitting of his home. His name gives the Carolean bedroom suite shown by North Texas Furniture company an enticing glimpse of hospitable days.

The solid parts of the suite are gum wood; the carvings are beautiful Australian oak and are used on the small drawers of the dresser, chest and vanity. The sunburst effect on the drawers and panels of the beds is Brazilian rosewood. The lighter wood surrounding this on the drawers is olive wood burl. All wood tops and footboards of beds are rotary cut walnut. The finish is silkote, rubbed dull by hand process.

Women of Wichita Falls and the vicinity will be interested in the bed spreads and draperies in this beautiful setting; they were all designed and made in the modern drapery department of this company.

Linoleum has come to be one of the artistic floor coverings of homes of good taste. North Texas Furniture company specializes in beautiful patterns of linoleum and the house party at the store stands ready to show them.

"Living groups" are an attractive part of the artistic settings at North Texas Furniture company. Reading lamps in soft, glowing colors, small tables where a book may be laid down, a handy book case and a hassock that is just the right height for the reader's comfort.

Windows Worth Seeing

J. C. Man, with his two managers, Mr. Ehlert at the Star Furniture company and Mr. Alexander at Micks Furniture company has worked out windows worth walking far to see. Not only are the windows original in design and artistic in arrangement, but the beautiful pieces of furniture to be seen on different floors of these two stores are something for the city of Wichita Falls to look on with pride.

At the Star Furniture store, one window shows a charming ensemble in a living room with a puffy Queen Anne divan proudly wearing its rose rust tapestry; there's a lovely guest chair in practical green Jo Rope and finishing the richly colored suite is a lustrous gold damask occasional chair. The desk that makes the living room such a really livable place is of Queen Anne design and perfect in its setting. It would harmonize with any room. Made in lovely figured walnut veneer, it is graceful in design and instantly recognized as correct in its early 18th century adaptation. Parchment shaded lamps, with their soft glow and books and flowers complete the ensemble.

Style-wise housewives will recognize a sure friend in the dark Jacobean finish dining room suite in the other window, with the seats upholstered in red antique velour. The 10 pieces, set gracefully on the handsome American Wilton rug are especially suitable to the modern dining. Eleven hosts will show visitors through the store.

Micks Furniture company's center window features a living room with personality. It is gay, luxurious and human with the divan and two chairs in the Hepplewhite style and in lovely coloring. Occasional tables with exquisite lamps and a reading lamp placed enticingly over an easy chair are completed by the Jacobean desk in the background.

In one small window, they show a jaunty dinette suite in sturdy Jacobean oak. The typical early-English linen-fold overlaps stamp the suite is worthy of any home. In the other small window, someone has arranged a resting place for "dad." There's a great roomy chair upholstered in tapestry of alluring color and an ottoman where his weary feet may rest. Back of the chair stands a Governor Winthrop secretary with roomy desk space for best loved books and drawers to accommodate dad's precious papers. A smoking stand with a beloved pipe, an end table where the Sunday Times and Record News is waiting and another table holding books make as cozy a spot as any father of a family would wish. Micks Furniture company will have 10 hosts on the evening of Monday, Sept. 29.

Rugs Featured Here

The Popular Furniture company, owned by Leo Shusterman, has chosen Axminster rugs in pretty designs for floor covering in the two show windows and in one they are exhibiting a walnut bedroom suite inlaid with maple in different tones. The chiffonier is a roomy piece of furniture and the Hollywood vanity accompanying the suite, is one of the newest and most enticing pieces of furniture for a woman. The large unframed mirror assures one that milady's beautifying activities will pass muster without fear of criticism and milady's bench is cushioned in rose. Particular attention is called to the post beds of the pretty suite.

The living room which stands in the other window is a special American pattern with lovely and unusual ruffled edges. It is in lovely woodrose mohair with moquette reversible cushions and panels in the back. Bridge and floor lamps add beauty to the suite and a rug in harmony is on the floor.

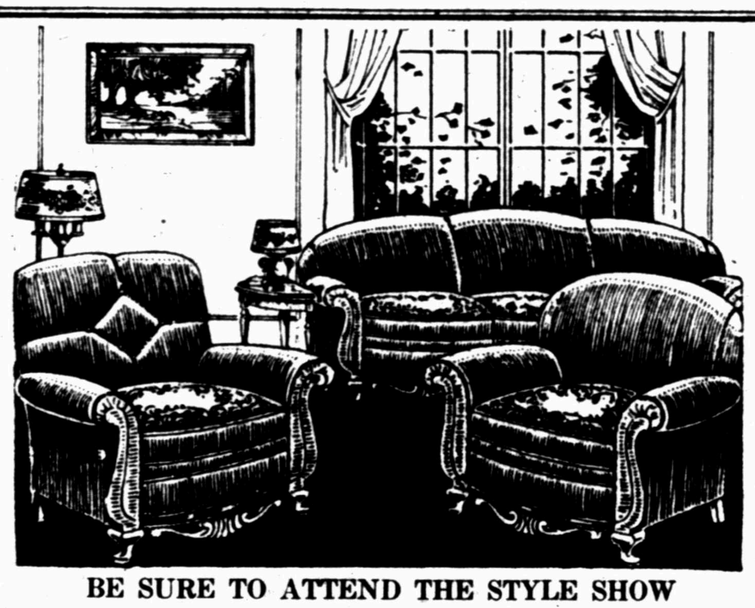

Many Suites Shown

A large lower floor filled with handsome living room and library furniture is just the beginning of the McConnell Brothers Furniture store on Indiana. There are two other floors where the prettiest of dining room and bedroom furniture are shown with all the requisities of home. The enormous show windows this house has installed are the admiration of many a larger town. In each window, a living room, a bedroom and a dining room is furnished. One window shows furniture of just a little higher price than the other.

Living room suites in which one may find complete rest are featured in handsome mohair coverings; great Cogswell chairs with their ottomans add color to the rooms. Fireside benches suggest the coziness of winter evenings; books on occasional tables and a number of beautiful parchment lamps have as a background the

SOMETHING NEW FOR THE LIVING ROOM

The simplicity of line and design which characterizes the new furniture is shown in this living room group. The elaborate ornamentation of other seasons is not seen and in its place are truer proportion and more pleasing lines.

SMART DESIGNS IN WRITING DESK FOR HOME FIND FAVOR

The writing desk, office of the home, where dad does much of his paper work and mother and the rest of the family pen their notes and letters, need not only be a useful piece of furniture out it may be attractive as well.

Some of the latest designs in writing desks are very smart. Made in walnut, mahogany and oak, sturdy flat-top desks, smaller than the average office size, look very chic in the home. They are low and their sharp lines are fascinating.

The new types of home desks patterned after those of the office harmonize with the modern designs of the latest living room pieces. The low height permits the hanging of pictures, prints or other decorations on the wall above, which was not possible with many of the old writing desks.

Secretaries, the high ones too, long have been popular and still are in great demand. Their lines are graceful and they are made in finishes that fit into almost any living room arrangement.

The secretaries, however, were made to be closed when not in use, while the new flat-top designs may hold such useful ornaments as pen sets, telephone, book-ends, ash trays paper weights and the like. Low, smart-looking chairs look well with the new designs.

FOR THE LETTER WRITER

The living room is not complete without a desk. This table desk, with its specious top and commodious drawers and its clean cut lines and beautiful finish, combines beauty and usefulness.

The Hardy Years of Early America Brought Forth Furniture Designs Much in Demand Today

Rugged patriots, wresting a living from a new land, built the first American furniture. Their product was crude and unfinished, but as times became easier, their pieces took on a grace that blended well with their natural simplicity.

The Standish represents the brave spirit of our famous pioneers in its design. Walnut veneers, beautifully figured, adorn all surfaces, with shell carvings for accent, while quaint spool turnings give a dash of early American flavor.

In Wichita Falls and simultaneously in practically every city and town of consequence throughout the United States, the first national home furnishings style show opened Friday, Sept. 26, in several thousand retail furniture stores, to continue for eight days, closing Oct. 4.

This show, the first of its kind ever attempted, is being sponsored by both the manufacturers and retail dealers, not only for the purpose of presenting to the public the latest designs in furniture but to discuss with the visitors their problems of selecting the proper furnishings.

Many Styles Shown

The various stores in Wichita Falls, which have spent several weeks in arranging the show, had their displays in readiness for the public to view when doors were thrown open. New designs and furnishings for every room in the house, pieces that were purchased at the Chicago, New York, Jamestown, N. Y.; High Point, N. C.; San Francisco and other marketing centers are being shown.

Furnishings have been arranged in room settings that the public may gain a better idea of just how they would look in their homes. Salesmen and buyers who attend these markets, where they obtained first hand information on style and construction, are at hand to meet and discuss individual problems with the visitors.

"Retail furniture dealers today are better equipped to serve the public than ever before," said John E. Butts, general chairman of the style show committee, in giving the reason for the exposition. "Many housewives have found the problem of selecting furnishings for their homes difficult.

"That is the real reason the furniture industry is holding the style show. We want the public to realize that their problem is our problem. Salesmen in the furniture stores of Wichita Falls have just completed a training course which has equipped them with invaluable knowledge on how to furnish a home.

Furniture Problems Solved

"Individuals have their own problems. Different room exposures call for slight changes in the general scheme of creating color harmony and balance. The size of the room also demands attention in the selecting of the pieces to get the proper proportions. The public is invited to bring its problems to the furniture salesman to be solved."

In order to accommodate the crowds that are attending the style show, members of the staffs in individual stores will be hosts until Oct. 4 and each store taking part in the style show will be open from 7 to 10 o'clock Monday evening, Sept. 29.

DEALERS DISPLAY HOME FURNISHINGS

baby grand piano that appeals to the lover of music.

In the dining rooms, walnut suites with pedestal tables and mohair cushions stand on Wilton rugs. McConnell Brothers, by the way, have some pretty pieces of tapestry on their walls.

Then there are their bedrooms in walnut with Hollywood vanities and draperies that make women wish to spend even yet a little more money.

Utility Stressed

E. F. Riley, it is said, has always been noted for dependability in his furnishings. In his store at 514 Indiana, he has a main floor that shows living room and bedroom suites in styles and sizes that will suit any room.

Floor coverings are suggested there that will harmonize not only with the furnishings but with the room exposures. The motivating reason behind the National Home Furnishings Style Show is the moral obligation home furnishing plays in the moral obligation of home life.

The proper things may be found at E. F. Riley's. A bedroom suite in one window is interesting enough to keep the daughter of the house at home and without advising an elaborate display, E. F. Riley Furniture company has furnishings that show good taste, good design, harmony of colors, utility and a feeling of restfulness.

Modern Theme

The C. O. Roark Furniture company has the same feeling. Mr. Roark is exhibiting a handsome living room suite with pretty lamps and a quietly ornamental rug in one window with a radio to bring the world into the home. In the other is one of the new walnut bedroom suites designed to make a room comfortable and home like. Mr. Roark has realized that today any American citizen can have what a king could not have commanded two centuries ago and shows the radio to emphasize this thought.

Just any piece of furniture will not do and the staff at the C. O. Roark Furniture company is prepared to help select the most fitting pieces from the interesting stock.

The Deaton Furniture company with windows attractively dressed for the makers of home, is another of the firms that realizes that appearance and comfort add immeasurably to the value of furniture in the home. In this company, expert suggestion is ready to help those who are ready to purchase furniture.

There are handsome living room suites with couches and chairs that make one feel their comfort. The idea that every piece of furniture in a room need not be of the same upholstery is stressed by the members of the staff in this firm and occasional chairs, tables and lamps, are featured to add immeasurably to the atmosphere of home.

The Deaton Furniture company will be ready to show visitors through the store home on open night, Monday, Sept. 29, when there will be a band concert before each store cooperating in the National Home Furnishings Style Show Week.

Monday night, Sept. 29, will be open house and the personnel of each store will be ready to welcome the public for a thorough inspection of the latest in furniture styles.

HOME FURNISHINGS SHOW OFFERED BY STORES IN UNISON

Working in unison for several weeks, owners of the various retail furniture stores named and their department heads in Wichita Falls offer to the public for the first time, a home furnishings style show to be held for eight days. It opened Friday and will continue until Oct. 4.

The show, which is a unit in the event being held at the same time throughout the United States, has the endorsement of all the furniture stores in the city. The heads of the different stores have met in conference several times during the past four months working out the details of the show and arrangements have been made with meticulous care.

Committees selected from the staffs of the stores were appointed to make arrangements for the different features of the show.

"The style show gives the furniture stores the opportunity to meet and discuss the problems of the housewife," said John E. Butts, chairman of the publicity committee in an interview Friday. "It is the first time a joint effort of this kind has been made."

Besides J. E. Butts, the publicity committee consists of the following men: Burton Stayton, Leon Deaton, F. E. McConnell, E. L. McConnell, J. H. Alexander, Leo Shusterman, E. F. Riley, J. C. Man, Walter Roark and Walter Ehlert.

The complete list of dealers participating in the style show is: Deaton Furniture company, Freear's, McConnell Bros., Micks Furniture company, North Texas Furniture company, Popular Furniture company, E. F. Riley Furniture company, Roark Furniture company and Star Furniture company.

ARBUCKLE, Calif., Sept. 27. (AP)—Regardless of any evidence of absent-mindedness, Curtis D. Wilbur, former secretary of the navy is not one to forget his nautical details.

He even remembers a schooner of root-beer he drank 10 years ago. Walking into a drug store here yesterday he handed the clerk a dime he had forgotten to pay for a drink of the beverage a decade ago.

FAMED ENGLISH ACTRESS WILL COME TO AMERICA

LONDON, Sept. 27. (INS)—Tallulah Bankhead, famed English stage star, announced today she had accepted an offer to go to Hollywood to appear in talking pictures. She will leave London as soon as present engagement in the play "Let Us Be Gay" is ended.

She will probably remain in Hollywood for three years.

"The offer was so dazzling it would have been ridiculous to refuse it," she said.

Lightning Drunk

BLUFFTON, Ga.—Dr. B. T. Johnson, telephoning at a local drug store, was struck by lightning during a terrific electrical storm. When he recovered his friends thought he had been stricken with paralysis, because he walked with such a peculiar gait. But it was found that the odd walk was caused by his shoes from which the lightning had torn the heels.

Both Beauty and Comfort in New Dressing Tables

Almost every month something new in furniture for milady's comfort and convenience is brought out. Dressing tables have come in for their share of the designer's attention and interesting developments are continually being involved.

A small dressing table, just the size to fit into any bedroom or dressing room, with a convenient mirror and space for all the little jars and bottles of cosmetics, is the perfect completion for any bedroom and may be seen in a variety of colors and in white.

Milady finds this piece of furniture not only adequate in comfort and convenience, but an addition to the beauty of a bedroom. Moreover, milady finds it the one place where she may sit in comfort on the small chair or bench accompanying, and find that milord has not put his comb and brush and powder, etc., in the midst of her own toilet necessities.

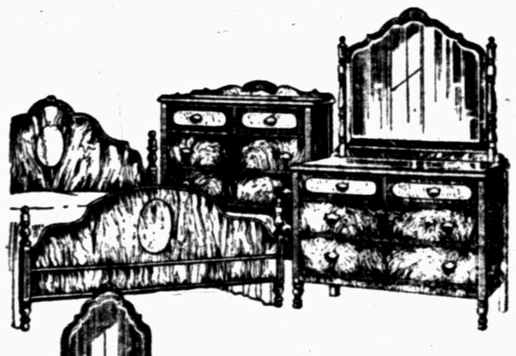

Tiniest Germ

LONDON.—What are said to be the smallest disease germs ever viewed by the human eye were seen in the laboratory of the Westminster hospital here recently. They are so small that they can ooze through the pores of solid porcelain and were discovered after being magnified 1,800 times. They are said to be the germs causing creeping paralysis.

Rice available for export from the three surplus producing areas of Asia, Burma, Indo-China and Siam appears to be nearly 20 per cent greater than in 1929.

Value of Georgia's 1930 tobacco crop is estimated at $16,000,000.

NEW CARD TABLES GAILY DECORATED PARTY INNOVATION

The pleasure of an informal evening of bridge may be more than doubled by playing at one of the bright-colored, attractively decorated card tables. The gay colors add a festive note to the occasion which makes the game much more than just a game of cards.

These decorative sets are seen in all the colors with red, blue, black and green in the lead for popularity. Some of the tables are of plain color while others are ornamented with unusual designs and figures.

There are chairs, really comfortable ones, to go with the tables. Many of these are upholstered and all of them are the right height and make possible a correct although relaxed posture while playing. Instead of hitching up to the table in a chair too high or too low, with the arms much in the way, the bridge devotee may now sit in perfect comfort while the game progresses.

The bridge sets, table, chairs and a lamp, may be made a permanent feature of the furnishings of the living room. A bright colored one may be used to add a gay note in a dark corner. The more subdued ones are easily incorporated into the decorative scheme of the room.

Many of the tables are so built that they may be used for screens when not being employed as tables. The ornamented table top becomes a very pretty screen for in front of the fireplace.

Oak Park, Ill., has fixed midnight as curfew hour for midget golf courses.

BIDDING IN COMFORT

The pleasure of bridge is doubled and redoubled when played at a substantial, attractive table and by persons seated in comfortable chairs. The table and chairs may be made a permanent part of the living room furnishings.

North Carolina has more than a dozen living trees that have witnessed or taken part in historical events.

The new bridge named for Thomas A. Edison, across the Coloosahatchee river at Fort Myers, Fla., will be dedicated Oct. 14.

BRIGHT DRAPES AND RUGS OFTEN TRANSFORM DULL HOME

NOTED DECORATOR DISCUSSES SIMPLE MAKE-OVER PLANS TO IMPROVE INTERIOR OF ROOMS

To decorate and furnish a home properly one must keep two factors uppermost in mind—pattern and color—when selecting its furnishings, said Ross Crane, one of America's foremost authorities on home decoration.

"If pattern and color are carried out harmoniously in rugs, draperies, wall hangings and furniture coverings," Mr. Crane explained, "there is no doubt that a pleasing arrangement will result."

He pointed out that autumn is every bit as important as spring to brighten up the home. Likewise it is time for the June bride who has lived in a furnished apartment following the honeymoon to "have a home of our own."

Entails Small Cost

"Uninteresting rooms may be done over at very little cost," Mr. Crane continued. "Let's take a living room where there is a three-piece taupe suite, the floor covering is of taupe and the draperies are plain as well as the wall hangings. Say the room has an east or northern exposure where less light strikes it in the afternoon when it is used most during the day. There never was thought of decoration in such a room and it certainly is not an interesting one.

"The first thing to consider in redecorating such a room is the draperies. There are many gay patterns in linen, cretonne, glazed chintz and toile that may be purchased reasonably and that will make a big change in the appearance of the room.

"This done, get a couple of small rugs. The rug colors should be dominant ones, say red, mulberry or rose. The room is beginning to take on life already. A couple of pillows covered in rose and green, one at each end of the sofa, will brighten that side of the room.

"Possibly there is need for a new chair of the wide arm type. Keep the rose color in it. A Martha Washington or a Queen Anne will look well in almost any living room. A table runner is necessary always and so we add that.

Color in Accessories

"This brings us to need for color in a lamp. One with a pottery base of ox-blood or deep rose and a shade made either of silk or paper would look nice. Thus far in the makeover of this room there has been little expenditure and the remaining cost will be small.

"Place pictures on the wall—those old funny ones of brown or tan. Lovely and inexpensive prints may be acquired with beautiful frames, the colors to harmonize with the draperies. The room is rejuvenated just by adding a little pleasing contrast. Book ends of green holding books bound in various colors practically complete the work and you will be proud to invite your guests into the living room. If the room is large enough a small nest of tables is always good."

Other rooms in the house, Mr. Crane pointed out, may be done over in a similar manner, keeping in mind the pattern and color scheme. If there is a girl in the family, a chaise longue and a desk with a lamp for daughter's bedroom are almost necessary. A slipper chair for both her and mother add comfort, convenience and a touch of smartness to the bedroom.

"The son's room, too, is important," he said. "He has had hand-me-downs from the rest of the family—reminiscences. He never has had a chair that suited him, and one like his father's would be nice. He needs a desk and lamp in his room, too. Remember that his future taste and ideas of beauty are formed by the things he lives with when he is young.

Styles Are Lasting

Furniture designs offered today, Mr. Crane added, practically never go out of style. Fifteen to 20 years ago, he said, only the exclusive shops had reproductions while now such pieces may be obtained in all stores.

"Years ago we were using golden oak, Victorian mahogany and the like without any period quality and beauty," he said. "Our furnishings were strange and sad medleys. Today we have lovely Duncan Phyfe, Queen Anne, Sheraton and other ensembles that stay in style.

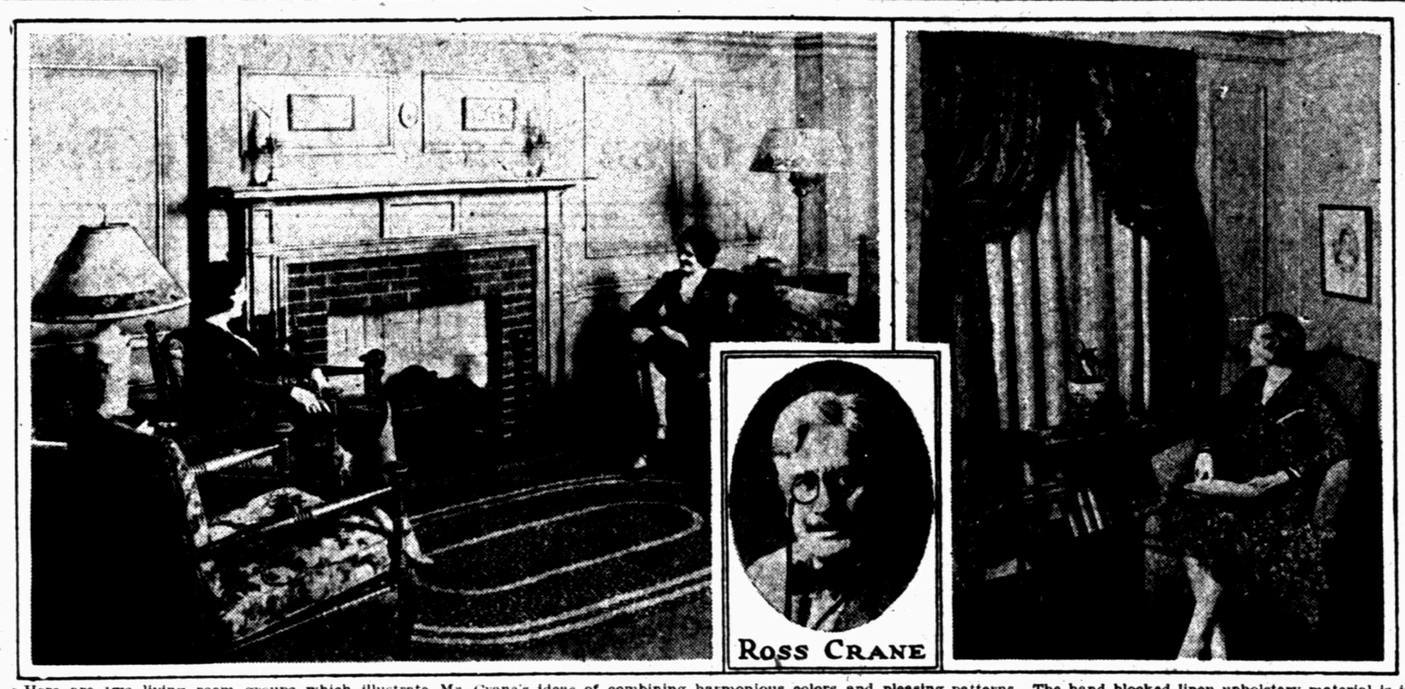

"Perhaps next year Spanish style may be popular, but if one has good period furniture, it never is passe. We may buy reproductions of the 17th century, early American or 18th century Sheraton, Chippendale, Duncan Phyfe and Hepplewhite and different pieces of the same period will look harmonious. Designers, whether French, English or American, had the same spirit in the designs they produced in their times."

KNOWLEDGE OF MODERN CULINARY ART HELPFUL TO GIRL HELD IN JAIL

LAWRENCE, Kan., Sept. 27. (AP)—For the girl who wants to get out into the world, knowledge of the modern culinary art has its advantages.

For example there is Betty Claar, cast into the Douglas county bastile on a burglary charge. Betty got out into the world by picking the cell with a can opener.

LITTLE TOUCH OF 'LIFE' MAKES ROOMS LIVABLE

OAK, MAPLE POPULAR IN FALL PIECES

Furniture designs seen at the recent summer markets and now on sale in early fall, show less tendency toward the startling and over-ornamented, and incline more to simplicity. The unusual is no longer sought after just because it is unusual. Usefulness and beauty are the two things for which designers of the latest furniture have striven.

Simple lines, quality of material and careful construction were kept uppermost in mind both by designers and manufacturers of furniture for all sections of the home.

The tendency towards less ornamentation abandoning the bizarre and freakish, has been in progress for several months but manufacturers first adopted the idea generally in offering their 1930 fall products. Modern suites for dining room and living room, particularly, to fit in with the architectural scheme of new homes, have been changed to the simple and smart lines.

The result has been to offer the public better quality and more durably constructed furniture without an increase in cost. The cost of manufacturing has not increased, experts explained, because the money that was formerly spent in labor in adding ornaments to the pieces has been invested in higher quality and better construction.

The popularity of oak and maple furniture which became evident early this year has not only been maintained but has increased to a considerable degree and many of the latest and the smartest designs in bedroom, living room and dining room suites will be found in these woods.

Chestnut, too, with its striking resemblance to oak, has come into greater use recently. Many small pieces are shown in this wood. Living room suites representing the Swedish peasant type of furniture are made in chestnut.

Early English designs in the oak and early American 17th century in maple have a wide popularity. There is still much walnut and mahogany for the reproductions of Sheraton, Chippendale, Hepplewhite, Adam, Queen Anne—other works of the Georgian age and, of course, our own Duncan Phyfe.

ONLY FOUR FARMERS IN STEPHENS COUNTY ASK FOR SEED LOANS

DUNCAN, Okla., Sept. 27.—Only four Stephens county farmers made applications for federal seed loans to plant winter pastures when the federal seed loan committee met here this week to forward applications to the department of agriculture at Washington.

Loans to buy seed for pasture were made available to drouth-stricken farmers after a visit to Washington recently by the state drouth relief committee.

More than 2,000 acres of wheat have been planted in the county especially for winter pasture, it is estimated. Farmers who needed credit were financed by county bankers, while the county Red Cross chapter bought approximately 500 bushels of wheat for farmers in an area west of Duncan left desolate by a recent hailstorm.

Many Song Hits In 'Sons o' Guns' At Dallas Fair

DALLAS, Sept. 27.—More song hits were registered in "Sons o' Guns", the sensational Broadway musical comedy which is being brought direct to the State Fair of Texas auditorium from New York, than any other stage hit of recent years, according to T. E. Jackson, president of the State Fair of Texas, who journeyed to New York and contracted for the piece.

"Why," and "Cross Your Fingers and Make a Wish," two of the most popular song hits of the year are two of the best numbers in "Sons o' Guns." Many other songs, almost as popular as these two are included in the musical numbers.

A total of 28 songs were written in the preliminary work on "Sons o' Guns." Of this number of songs, there were 16 hits selected and a majority of these numbers are now the reigning musical sensations of Broadway.

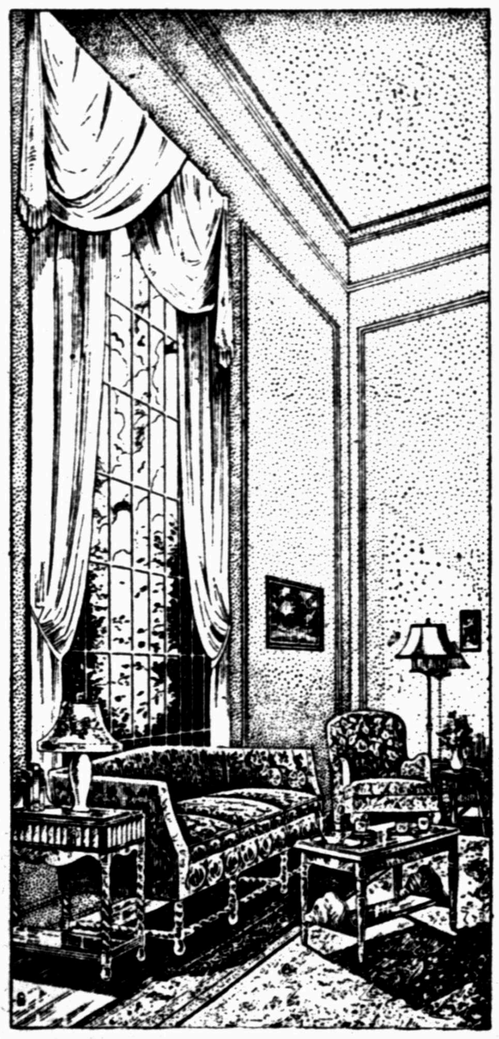

The numerous song hits are well executed in the piece by Jack Donahue, the outstanding star on Broadway, who has made "Sons o' Guns" the biggest Broadway hit of recent years. Donahue and Gina Malo, petite French star, who was recently brought to American shores from France to be starred in "Sons o' Guns," are expected to create the same sensation at the State Fair of Texas as they did in the New York production of "Sons o' Guns."

Plane Parachute

OAKLAND, Calif.—A parachute for an airplane, designed by Dr. J. T. Parr, local dentist, is released by pressing a control lever. This opens a trap-door in the upper wing and the parachute is shot out. The 'chute swings the plane and pilot slowly to earth, and has a landing speed of about 15 miles an hour.

the Woman who wouldn't Talk*

"If there was one thing of which Mrs. Julian was firmly convinced, it was that "she could not hear over long distance."

Even the thought of attempting it disconcerted her.

So her daughter was not surprised one evening, after the telephone had rung, to hear her call excitedly:

"Dorothy! It's long distance—Philadelphia! You take the call. You know I can't hear over long distance."

Dorothy smiled. "Yes you can, mother, if you let yourself. It's as easy as any other call. Try it."

Mrs. Julian shook her head, but turned again to the telephone.

"Hello," she ventured, doubtfully. . . . .

A pause, during which her perplexed expression gradually gave way to a delighted—and wondering—smile.

"Martha!" she exclaimed at last. "This is a surprise! You'll be here day after tomorrow, for a whole week's stay? I am so glad!"

And then, the wonder of it overshadowing even the joy of the coming visit, she continued, "You know, Martha, I can hear you just as well as if you were telephoning from across the street!"

Next day her son-in-law (name and address upon request) wrote a letter to the telephone company.

"Mrs. Julian," he concluded, "is far from being an old fogey, but somehow she didn't know how easy it is to talk and hear over long distance. Don't you suppose there are still many who feel as she did?"

Undoubtedly there are. Long distance service has improved so rapidly in the last few years that those who have not used it recently cannot be expected to know how much like local service it is.

But the "proof lies in the eating." One actual call will tell you more about the ease, speed, and clarity of long distance than we could in a whole book.

For long distance is not only clear. It's speedy. In most cases you are connected with the distant telephone while you hold the line, particularly if you can give the number of this telephone.

It's personal. It is the only way whereby question and answer may be exchanged between distant persons as if they were talking face to face. And it's low in cost. You can telephone 100 miles for 60c—for 35c if you call after 8:30 in the evening!

May we prove it to you?

Send us names of three of your friends in other cities. We will mail you an out-of-town number book giving their telephone numbers, and the cost of a three-minute telephone visit with each.

Then call by number to one, or to all three. We'll let the service speak for itself.

*Based on an actual incident; details upon request.

A. birthday will be observed and after the business and program a social hour will follow to welcome new parents and teachers. All parents and any visitors are urged to attend.

Peggy Piedmont Says

With the first tang of autumn in the air, Kitty, social happenings are looking up again after a long hot summer and season of inertia. Shopping just at this moment is occupying the time of many mothers and their daughters, preparing and repairing the fall and winter wardrobes. Then the new homes and those being renovated, are all coming in for their share of attention, and really housekeepers are much absorbed. Some also having moving problems (for such it is) and there are heaps to be done in the next few months, for we know that with the advent of autumn, winter is looming in the foreground.

The shops are most attractive. Pretty things to wear and the little touches for the outfit that have such strong appeal for the feminine. I say feminine, but mere man is becoming quite as punctilious in the selection of clothes. The correct cut, becomingness and harmony of color is a matter of great moment with him, the hat probably playing the biggest part in the tout ensemble, for hats you know, can make or mar a ravishing outfit.

Clubs, literary and musical are beginning the fall and winter work, and one of the first to announse a general meeting is the Woman's Forum when activities will begin with the annual seated tea at the clubhouse Thursday. At this time, one of Wichita Falls' musical prodigies will be presented on a pretentious piano program, when Claude Simpson Jr., talented son of Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Simpson, will be introduced to music lovers of the forum membership. Young Simpson has made a name for himself at S. M. U. where he was an honor student, and where he is doing advanced work in the graduate school this year, and Wichita Falls' musicians and others who love good music will enjoy the privilege of hearing such a finished artist in a program. The forum announces that only members and out of town guests will be eligible to attend general and departmental meetings this year, and on account of the many splendid lectures and other attractions booked for the season, as well as the interesting programs and social affairs planned, many new members have been added to the already long list.

Looking forward to the annual flower show which the forum sponsors the latter part of October, Mrs. Bert Bean, chairman of the Garden club is already warning women who will have chrysanthemums on display, that now is the time to begin to look after them. The Garden club, while it is a department of the forum, is also of national importance and scope. And under a column entitled "The Man With the Hoe," in the National Garden bureau clipping sheet for autumn is given a few timely hints. Among them is, plant lilies this fall. Many of them do not arrive until late from Japan. Cover the ground selected for them with a heavy mulch so it will not freeze and plant them when you get them. Another is, narcissus bulbs should be planted as soon as you get them. They require a longer growing season than the other spring bulbs. American growers can get them to you earlier than imported bulbs. And another is, give the garden a spading for luck this fall. It will ease the work next spring. The hint also says, "do not waste any autumn leaves. Remember the compost heap," and "save all ashes from the garden refuse and wood ashes from the grate and spread on the garden, particularly the bulb beds."

Gardeners are advised to plant California dog tooth violets, and erythroniums, which are beautiful bulbs and hardy all over the country, a group of unusual beauty is promised those who plant a hundred or so of them. They are also advised to clear off all old dead and vegetable stalks and burn them. They harbor insect eggs for next year. And to order and sow annual seeds. No use crowding yourself next spring.

The Garden sheet advises that any planting that can be done in the fall is that much clear gain over the spring planting season, which is always too short to get all the work planned completed. Perennials that bloom in early summer may be divided and replanted in the fall. It is best to have this work finished by Oct. 1 to give them a chance to grow for a month before hard freezing is likely and become established.

May 2, the club will close activities for the summer with the annual luncheon.

A Christmas luncheon will be given on "The Bible." Indians will furnish an interesting topic for Jan. 23 and Feb. 13 a party will be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dale with Mesdames T. E. Durrett, W. A. Scarbrough, and W. P. Willis, hostesses. Longfellow will be studied Feb. 27 and March 13, Texas day will be observed. Easter program will be given March 27 and April 10 is designated as "Guest day." Lessons on poems and flowers will close the work for the season.

Well I have rambled along at great length and at last must sign off. Don't envy the lot of a social editor my dear. It is either a feast or a famine with us. News piling upon us like an avalanche or the reverse, when hostesses declare that the little bridge was so informal, just a favored few, not worth mentioning at all. So here with the beginning of autumn, we start the scramble all over again. Well, its all in the game of life, isn't it? So, if you are keen on knowing how many parties we have in prospect, and how many lovely girls will be introduced to society this winter, I adjure you to wait patiently please, or mayhap you will merely regard it as a suggestion from—

Peggy Piedmont

WHY CARRY UNNECESSARY BURDENS?

By Kathleen Norris

MRS. NORRIS

Helen Moore is 32. She has a daughter of 9, and a baby boy of 3. She has a devoted husband, and a mother, and a bungalow, beauty, friends, there is a small car in the family — she has everything. Everything —plus arthritis.

After the boy's birth she was ill. Convalescence was slow, and was followed by the lameness, soreness, heaviness that only sufferers from this hideous martyrdom know.

Fortunately, she's going to get well, and without any too heroic measures, either. Rest, plain food, gallons of water, and her own indomitable courage, are already pulling her out. Helen had a terrible scare, but the worst is already over.

Thousands of persons get over threatened arthritis every year, as thousands escape tuberculosis, cancer, blindness —we never hear of them. Arthritis, as a chronic helplessness, grows less and less. But how the mere word does strike terror to the heart!

I know. Because many years ago it was my hard fate to fall a victim to this same "incurable" disease. Deep in my soul, at the present writing, there is a feeling that there isn't any such thing as an incurable disease, but in the year 1913, just before the great war broke out, we all believed strange and stupid things, and I believed that I never would walk the pleasant ways of earth again. Chained to pillows and chair, with nurses rubbing wintergreen oil into stiffening joints, and with a horrible prospect of helpfulness, perhaps even of blindness, before me, I had the dread word "arthritis" for my hourly fare.

Afterward, when I was well, swimming off Copacobada beach, climbing the Santa Cruz mountains, taking 10 small children off for a 10-day holiday, single-handed, then the authoritative voices said that is wasn't the real arthritis, it couldn't have been, because real arthritis is "incurable."

But in 1913 there wasn't any question about it; two of the biggest of the New York authorities pronounced upon it; a Washington doctor, a great German doctor, a San Francisco doctor, and a doctor in Augusta, Ga., found no fault with the diagnosis.

Since then I've found many a healthy, happy person tramping over golf links, batting tennis balls about, swimming, cooking, working hard, after having been condemned to the "incurable" class.

Nature baffles the doctors still; she always will. A symptom will crop up casually to point like an unmistakable guide post to heart trouble, tuberculosis, cataract. And before the doctor has put his stethoscope back into his black bag, and started his Buick, the symptom has disappeared for all time.

This is no reflection upon the heroes of the greatest, the noblest profession of all. If I had 10 sons I would want them all to be doctors. Our own doctor looks to me like a combination of Adonis, Saint Francis and Valentino, when he comes into the room where infected sunburn, sprained wrists, or too many green cherries and milkshakes are writhing in a nursery bed. It was a doctor, and a young country town doctor, at that, who opened the door back to health and freedom for me.

What cured me—for there are arthritis subjects everywhere, and this is all that I can tell them—was returning to the regime of the very beginnings of life. Rest, darkened room, milk—that was all. Nature stepped in, as she always will, and did the rest. The system that hard living, body and soul, had injured, was restored. Curing is only restoring, after all. Tiring working hours, heavy colds, chronic constipation, too much dancing, too much late dining—no woman can add to these the sudden, exciting changes of wifehood and motherhood, and not pay the piper, somewhere. Some suffer in nerves; some pay with a weakened heart or a permanently impaired stomach.

Hundreds, nowadays, pay the saddest price of all; the outraged and overtaxed machine, the delicate bones and worn silken tissues, the depleted blood that should run so pure and red, are not capable of transmitting life. Young wives write me, heart-brokenly. They are well enough—pretty well. That is, they get tired easily, and don't like all the jazzing and dancing and night life as they used to do. But where—where—where is the baby? Two years, three years, five years of marriage, and no sign of an heir.

They've broken the machinery. Tuberculosis is broken machinery. Angina pectoris, and chronic dyspepsia, and colitis, and nerves, simply mean broken machinery. Feed the healthiest little heifer in the world on candy and coffee and cocktails, race her about the country in high powered cars, keep her jumping on her feet all night, and she would not produce healthy calves—or indeed any calf at all.

In the 17 years since my own bitter lesson I have known some 50 cases of "arthritis" to be cured as mine was. Other cases have not reported to me, or have not yielded. I know four cases of stubborn arthritis; only one in a young person. He got a cold, got tired, got tonsilitis, went right on the usual round in a bitter, eastern city winter, got lame—and is trying cures now.

The "kinderkur," as they call my cure in Germany, means just lying still, quiet, resting in body, and more importantly, in mind, listening to some one reading poetry, memorizing things, thinking, drinking a long glass of warm milk—not cold, not boiled—four or five times a day. Lime water or fresh pineapple juice breaks up the indigestable quality of the milk, and plenty of cool water—at least three quarts a day, usually prevents constipation. Helpless, idle and with someone to wait on you; "but I simply can't afford it!" women say.

You could afford it, if the alternative was a lifetime of just that, though.

After two or three, or even four weeks of this, apparently without any result except intense depression, not to say despair, and ravening hunger, life begins again on baby food; spinach, carrots, applesauce, rusk. The destroying poisons have been eliminated, and the reformed system is ready to deal with living on very simple, gingerly terms again.

So much for the material side of it. But in the years that have elapsed since this experience, I have come to see that the mental, the spiritual side of it, was the really important one. It seems to be necessary to get into your own mind and soul a conviction of cure. It seems necessary to feel the truth; the truth that the body is only what we make it. A splendid, light-running, eager machine, or a clogged, broken, crippled burden.

Life, to the arthritic patient, lying quietly in her darkened room, must be without worry, without hate, without smallness; all open and good and fearless. This is earier said than done, of course. Yet it can be done.

She must return to her baby-hood attitude; the attitude of confidence, content, irresponsibility. None of us worried, before we were 8, and yet in that time we had clothes, we had 3,000 nights of sleep, we had nearly 9,000 good meals.

No matter what happens in the family, no matter what you think may happen in the future, fill your mind with poetry, with dreams about lazy vacation trips, with thoughts of English cottage gardens, and the grand canal on May nights. Think happiness, leisure, think serene years ahead, full of picnics and friendship and service. Hold the thought, as our friends in science say—hold the thought of being safe in Fatherly care. We didn't worry as babies, because father and mother were there, and we couldn't do anything anyway.

Father and mother are still there, and we can't do anything about anything, even now. But we know that where science and medicine fail there is a miracle waiting behind the simple words: I am well. My whole being is growing toward cleanness, strength, wholeness."

And if this holds true of that hardening and dry of joints we call arthritis, how can it not be true of every other trouble that assails us? Dyspepsia, headaches, nerves, weariness, sleeplessness, the whole dreary list goes down like Alice's pack of cards, before a resolute grasp on truth; truth that God is all love, that goodness is all health and safety and trust. It is too idiotic, it is too utterly smug, to put poison into our system, to over-tire them and neglect them, to get dirty outside and in, and then to complacently settle down to be a burden on our families with an "incurable" disease.

"Of the unspoken word I am master," says an old eastern proverb. "The spoken word is my master."

You are master of cocktails, rich food, wearisome amusements, heavy colds, constipation, unless you invite them into your scheme. Then they master you.

If the mischief is started, then go at the housecleaning courageously and thoroughly. Get clean and rested and join the enormous army of wiser and happier folk who once heard that dread word "incurable" from the doctors, too.

Purify the human vehicle, as the stern occult phrase has it. And let the wonderful old words of Saint Mark ring back and forth in your heart like the clapper in a bell.

"What things soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them."

If the mischief is started, then go at the house-cleaning courageously and thoroughly. Get clean and rested and join the enormous army of wiser and happier folk who once heard the dread word "incurable" from the doctors, too.

MRS. NORRIS SAYS:

Nature baffles the doctors still; she always will. A symptom will crop up casually to point like an unmistakable guide post to heart trouble, tuberculosis, cataract. And before the doctor has put his stethoscope back into his black bag, and started his Buick, the symptom has disappeared for all time.

Curing is only restoring, after all. Tiring working hours, heavy colds, chronic constipation, too much dancing, too much late dining—no woman can add to these the sudden, exciting changes of wifehood and motherhood, and not pay the piper, somewhere.

Hundreds, nowadays, pay the saddest price of all; the outraged and overtaxed machine, the delicate bones and worn silken tissues, the depleted blood that should run so pure and red, are not capable of transmitting life. Young wives write me, heart-brokenly. They are well enough—pretty well. That is, they get tired easily, and don't like all the jazzing and dancing and night life as they used to do. But where—where—where is the baby? Two years, three years, five years of marriage, and no sign of an heir. They've broken the machinery.

Feed the healthiest little heifer in the world on candy and coffee and cocktails, race her about the country in high-powered cars, keep her jumping on her feet all night, and she would not produce healthy calves—or indeed any calf at all.

The "kinderkur," means just lying still, quiet, resting in body, and more importantly, in mind.

Life must be without worry, without hate, without smallness, all open and good and fearless.

No matter what happens in the family, no matter what you think may happen in the future, think happiness, leisure, think serene years ahead, full of friendship and service. Hold the thought, as our friends in science say—hold the thought of being safe in Fatherly care.

But we know that where science and medicine fail there is a miracle waiting behind the simple words: "I am well. My whole being is growing toward cleanness, strength, wholeness."

Purify the human vehicle, as the stern phrase has it. And let the wonderful old words of Saint Mark ring back and forth in your heart like the clapper in a bell:

"What things soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them."

Hair that sparkles!

No one can deny the importance of having the hair arranged in the style best suited to the individual type. Much of the effect is lost however, unless the hair is kept soft, abundant, lustrous.

A million busy women and girls know the easiest way to keep the hair in perfect condition is with Danderine. The first application will show you how marvelously it removes excess oil from the hair; cleanses it; makes it sparkle with new life and lustre. It's so simple to use Danderine. All you do is put a little on your brush each time you arrange your hair! The consistent use of Danderine will dissolve the worst crust of dandruff; soothe, heal the scalp; stimulate the growth of long, silky abundant hair.

Danderine isn't sticky or oily; doesn't show. It makes the hair easy to manage; holds it in place for hours. "Set" your waves with it and see how much longer they stay in.

In a short business meeting, the resignation of Mrs. Rex Lindsey who has moved to Oklahoma City was accepted.

Mrs. H. E. Kurtz told beautifully the story of Christopher Columbus and the program was closed with the fantastic Italian fairy story, "Gigi and the Magic Ring," given splendidly by Mrs. L. E. McConnell.

In keeping with the Italian theme, the hostess served Italian refreshments with pretty favors on each plate in hand decorated miniature copies of the Santa Maria.

Members present were Mesdames P. B. Curd, Jack B. Dale, R. L. Daugherty, T. E. Durrett, H. A. Glass, Mont Groves, Patrick Henry, O. H. Karr, H. E. Kurtz, Charles Litchfield, L. E. Texas Congress Mothers P.-T. A. Meets in San Angelo Nov. 17-21

By MRS. WILL T. DECHERD
Publicity Chairman

"The New World Challenge to Parents and Teachers" is the theme for the 1930 convention of the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations which is scheduled to be held at San Angelo, Texas, Nov. 17-21. Approximately 2,000 local units, 74 county councils, 53 city councils in 15 districts, with a total membership of 70,789 over the state of Texas, are vitally interested in this, the annual convention of the organization.

Each one of the associations in good standing is entitled to send to the state convention its president or her representative and one voting delegate for every 10 members accredited on the books of the state treasurer. Councils composed of delegates from organizations in membership with the state congress are entitled to one delegate. Members of the board of managers and all honorary officers are voting delegates. Over 800 accredited delegates were in attendance at Waco last November and a large number is expected at San Angelo.

According to Mrs. Noyes Darling Smith, state president of the Texas congress and chairman of the program committee, the convention will offer a vital program of world-wide interest; an opportunity to give and receive practical help through interchange of experiences, plans and methods; a common meeting ground for educators, for specialists in the field of child welfare and for parent-teacher workers; and a finer concept of an age old problem of supreme interest, the building of worthy homes.

Exhibits will feature the San Angelo convention. An exhibit from the national congress of parents and teachers, used in Denver and illustrating the seven cardinal objectives of education which form the permanent platform of the national congress has been promised the Texas congress for this occasion. Other exhibits will consist of the publicity scrapbooks, the local and council yearbooks and the literature exhibit of the national and state organizations. Monday afternoon and every morning and afternoon after regular convention sessions there will be persons at the booths to explain the exhibits.

Another feature will be the daily classes for publicity workers and those for persons interested in program forming. Beginning Tuesday morning these classes will be held every morning at 8 o'clock. The publicity classes will consist of a lecture on parent-teacher activities as news given by an editor or other professional writer and of round tables on instructions for local and district publicity workers and on instructions for publicity scrapbooks.

The program forming section will be divided into six groups—for those desiring to help in making programs for one, two or three teacher school associations; for preschool associations; for grade school associations; for high school associations; for college associations and for Mexican associations.

Dr. Ada Hart Arlitt, director of parent education in Cincinnati university and Dr. Garry Cleveland Myers, head of the division of parental education, Cleveland college, Western Reserve university, Cleveland, Ohio, are two of the outstanding national figures who will make addresses and hold conferences.

Monday morning, Nov. 17, the executive committee composed of the state officers will begin the pre-convention meetings. Later in the morning the presidency, composed of the state president and the 15 district presidents, will meet. In the afternoon the pre-convention meeting of the board of managers will take place, and at the same time the first study of the exhibits will be made. Monday evening at the opening banquet the third annual graduation exercises for those having completed the correspondence course will be held with the past president of the Texas and national congress, Mrs. S. M. N. Marrs, presenting the certificates. Statistics in the state office at Austin reveal that approximately 2,000 registered for the course this past fiscal year.

Tuesday morning the reports of officers will begin the work of the convention, and Tuesday afternoon the summer round-up report will be given by the state chairman, Mrs. C. E. Maddocks, past president of the Texas congress. Dr. Myers will appear at this session also. Dr. Arlitt will conduct a round table on parent education Tuesday afternoon.

Wednesday the state president and the executive secretary will give reports among other officers. One of the features for Wednesday afternoon is a roundtable on child welfare during which Mrs. S. M. N. Marrs will speak on the White House conference. Mrs. Marrs, who is a member of this committee, will be the principal speaker.

Hon. S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of public instruction, will be the speaker for Wednesday evening.

The social affairs for the convention have been limited to the opening banquet, a drive and a tea.

'CAUGHT SHORT' COMES TO GEM THEATER SUNDAY

Marie Dressler and Polly Moran will be co-starred in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's all-talking comedy, "Caught Short," which will open Sunday at the Gem theater with a supporting cast including Anita Page, Charles Morton, Herbert Prior, T. Roy Barnes, Edward Dillon, Alice Moe, Gwen Lee, Lee Kohlmar and Greta Grandstedt.

The picture was inspired by Eddie Cantor's book, "Caught Short."

The comedy team will be seen as Washington Square (New York City) boarding housekeepers who achieve a rapid rise from poverty to wealth as a result of dabbling in the stock market, only to lose all when the Wall street crash occurs. A romance between Miss Page and Morton has an important share in the plot.

Eddie Foy in "My Hero"

Last Word in Realism

"Believe It or Not"

Robert L. Ripley, the "Believe It or Not" man, is rapidly earning himself a place in the ranks of screen veterans. "Rip" has just completed the sixth of his Vitaphone Varieties series. The latest film introduces several of his famous "queeriosities," including Harold MacConeghy, the "clock-eyed" boy, who has Roman numerals 1 to 12 around his eyes.

Dialog by Tarkington

Booth Tarkington has completed the dialog for "The Ruling Passion," which will be one of the next vehicles for George Arliss. It is based on the book by Earl Derr Biggers.

Arliss, whose current release "Old English," promises to rank as the outstanding picture of the year, as his "Disraeli" was of the preceding one, prevailed on the famous novelist and playwright to prepare the dialog on this story for him out of friendship.

Al Jolson is here again in a new picture with new laughs, new jokes, new songs and an entirely a new story, "Mammy" by far his most popular entertainment. Remembering "The Jazz Singer," "The Singing Fool" and "Say It With Songs," that is saying a great deal, but all who saw Saturday's performance of "Mammy" will agree that it is not saying too much.

"Mammy" gives Mr. Jolson the golden opportunity of his career and how he does use it! "Mammy" first of all is made for laughter. It is a comedy with a minstrel show background, great dramatic force but hardly a suggestion of tears.

The story is an adaptation of a play by Irving Berlin and the songs and incidental music are also done by him in collaboration with Jolson. Jolson sings four or five of the best songs of his career in "Mammy," among them being "Looking at You," "To My Mammy" and "Let Me Sing."

The short subjects include the return of that famous comedy team, Chester Conklin and Mack Swain in an all-talking laugh riot "Cleaning Up." Then there is one of those every popular Mickey Mouse cartoons and the latest events in sight and sound in the Majestic talking news. To the patrons interested in golf, there is a shot of Bobby Jones in practice play at Merion, Pa., also a $2,000,000 display of gems at the New York Jewelers association "style" show.

"Way Out West"

The picture is a howling farce which presents Haines as a carnival barker whose attempts at cheating a group of cowboys with a crooked roulette wheel land him on a western ranch on the back of a bucking broncho. He becomes involved in a series of exciting escapades but before the picture is over has proved that he can stand the gaff of the country where "men are men."

"General Crack"

Wichita Falls is soon to see and hear the great actor of stage and screen in his first all-talking picture, John Barrymore, in "General Crack."

Barrymore is seen in a story that baffles the plot-detectives. Sudden twists and turns in swiftly-moving narrative. Surprises and suspense. Action and more action. The surge of passion, the sweep of vengeance. Love scenes that only John Barrymore can depict—fervent, emotional and realistic. Everywhere, John Barrymore has added thousands of new admirers due to his unusual performance in "General Crack."

'The Spoilers,' Rex Beach Story at Strand Theater Through Thursday With 'Monte Carlo' Coming Friday

The set, one of numerous authentic "shots" to be on view in the talking picture adaptation of a famous story and play which the Strand is now presenting, depicts the interior of the "Northern," notorious saloon and dance hall of Nome, during the gold rush days.

It is one of the largest sets ever devised for an all-talking picture.

The Northern was the center of the wild community life in Nome 30 years ago, old miners recall. It was in the largest building in Nome; a rambling two-story affair hurriedly constructed from rough lumber to provide the entertainment needs of the 30,000 people crowded into Nome at the time. Its main boast was a balcony over the dance floor, this balcony being divided into booths in which serving tables and chairs were placed.

Rex Beach centered much of the action in "The Spoilers" around the "Northern," and Paramount, working from photographs and from knowledge possessed by technical directors who were in Nome at the time, has reconstructed the resort in faithful detail. Gary Cooper is featured in the film production.

An unusually able featured cast appears in support of Cooper for "The Spoilers." Included are Kay Johnson, Betty Compson, James Kirkwood, Harry Green, "Slim" Summerville and Lloyd Ingraham. In addition there are over 500 "sourdough" types.

'Kick-In,' Mystery Melodrama to Be Presented by Little Theater as First Play of Season About Oct. 20

Members and patrons of the Wichita Falls Little Theater will be afforded a one-night sojourn in the gang-infested atmosphere of Chicago in the 1930-31 season's first play about Oct. 20, according to information given by F. C. McClung, director.

"Kick In," a mystery-melodrama by Willard Mack, veteran actor and playwright, has been chosen for the opening performance in place of A. E. W. Mason's "Green Stockings," announced a few days ago as the choice for first place on the ensuing season's program. Inability to complete the cast demanded by the English comedy in time to allow sufficient time for its adequate preparation by Oct. 20 accounted for the change during the past week to the Mack story.

"Kick In" was an outstanding success on the legitimate stage with John Barrymore in the leading role. It is one of the latest available mystery plays, and has all the ingredients of popularity with all classes. The exaggerated depravity of underworld life which has been created for many stage and screen entertainments in an exploitation of the "gangland" subject is replaced in "Kick In" with a genuineness of human nature that imparts almost a dignity to the production. Representatives of the gang world are reproduced faithfully as integral parts of the story, but the sense of humor and comedy of situation which may exist even among thugs retain their place in the dramatic composition of "Kick In."

Principal Roles

Jerry Moffett, familiar to all followers of musical and dramatic entertainment here, and Mrs. Nelle Lowery will carry the two principal roles for the coming performance, for which intensive rehearsals are now under way. Mystery elements in the plot will revolve around Mr. Moffett's character of "Chick" Hews, and around the husband of "Myrtle," to be played by Mrs. Lowery. "Molly," the girl who married "Chick" all unaware of his affiliations with the underworld, will be portrayed by Miss Frances Ann Saunders. Paul Barnett, experienced in a repertoire of varied characterizations, will represent the law and order element as police commissioner, aided by W. D. Bent of Burkburnett as Whit Fogarty, the lion of the detective force. Mr. Bent will be remembered for his colorful work in "Outward Bound," given here early in 1929.

Completing the cross-section of metropolitan life "beyond the police station" will be "Memphis Bessie," who will be impersonated by Miss Frances Lomax; Mother Halloran, keeper of the boarding house, to be played by Mrs. A. D. Duck; her daughter, Daisy, assigned to Mrs. C. A. Spragins Jr.; Lloyd Wyatt as a dope-fiend; J. W. Whitelaw, who strong-armed his way into popularity in "White Collars," in the role of the jailer; and a good-natured Irish cop, yet to be announced.

"Kick In" is presented in four acts, requiring two complete changes of stage set and scenery. Preparation for its presentation by the Little Theater has provided for the required changes to be made with the lapse of not more than four minutes, according to Mr. McClung.

Members of the scrip book committee are continuing their distribution of these membership admission books, it was announced, and it was predicted that the goal of 300 would be reached before presentation of the season's first play. Seven single admissions for any season play are provided in the scrip book which sells for $5, and which is its owner's certificate of membership.

"Monte Carlo"

Starting Friday the Strand will present an Ernest Lubitsch production made into a Paramount all-talking attraction, "Monte Carlo," featuring beautiful Jeanette MacDonald and Jack Buchanan.

On the same program selected short subjects and Paramount sound news events.

Glorify Telephone Operator

Now Vitaphone is glorifying the telephone operator. Stanley Rauh, staff scenarist at the Brooklyn studio, wrote "Number Please," a comedy reviewing the rise and fall of one of the hello girls which has just been completed. Sheila Barrett, who understudies most of the stars in Broadway shows, sometimes doing two or three at a time, steps out on her own in this film as the featured lead. Others cast are Leslie Barrie, Arthur Trescher and June Leslie.

Newlyweds to Go East

On this year's program of Vitaphone specials, Withers appears in "Dancing Sweeties," "Steel Highway," "Sinners' Holiday," and "God's Gift to Women."

Plan Another Cruise

So good a sailor did Dolores Ethel Mae Barrymore, infant daughter of John and Dolores Barrymore, prove on her first trip to sea aboard the Barrymore yacht, "The Infanta," that her parents are planning another similar one soon. They will skirt the west coast of Mexico on the next cruise, with large game fish the desideratum.

Fourth Annual Charity Military Exposition and Carnival Draws Large Number Washington Society

By GEORGINA WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—This week-end Washington turns itself over to the army, and flocks to the historic old elm-shaded point which juts out into the Potomac, known as Washington barracks, for the fourth annual charity military exposition and carnival there.

It is the pet of Mrs. Charles P. Summerall, this annual bit of bursting shells and sputtering machine guns, and pounding cavalry that is presented in the late days of September each year. It was Mrs. Summerall's original idea at a mid-western post when she needed funds to build a new recreation hall for the enlisted men, and when her distinguished husband was made chief of staff of the army and brought to the national capital, she in turn brought the idea.

The first year it was only one day, and the crowd boded better things for the following year. And so when the next September rolled around it was extended to a three-day stand, greatly expanded in magnitude and much more widely advertised. (Likewise, we might add with a doleful pat at our cadaverous purse, the admission price was boosted . . . and boosted . . . and boosted again. Great business woman, Mrs. Summerall).

This year, with the precedent well set and the affair grown to such proportions that the railroads ran excursions in, from all over Maryland and Virginia, Mrs. Summerall rather passed the buck as far as actual labor is concerned, and took the white collar job of just directing. The real work she turned over to Mrs. Lutz Wahl, widow of the late general, and Mrs. Hugh Drum, whose husband's name also is well known.

Mrs. Summerall herself contented with serving as official hostess, and had as her guest the distinguished artist, Benedico Osnis, who did the canvas of General Summerall which is to hang in the war department.

The job which the first lady of the army has done in her annual Washington carnival, it might be mentioned, is one which would do credit to any showman the world has ever known. In the three years past, Mrs. Summerall has built up a reputation for the annual affair which draws for the three-day period of this September—no less than 100,000 persons. That, please realize, is a generous crowd for any three world series baseball games.

At first the thing confined itself to a geheral carnival and exhibit of army riding and stunts, but the next year it began to take very definite and positive form as a show. A sort of spectacle was prepared. The "Lost Battalion," and among the features of the performance—aside from painfully realistic scenes of field and trench fighting, was perhaps the most remarkable talk stunt ever presented for public view. In the course of the battle in which the lost battalion was wiped out, a tank crosses the field, and just as it crossed a given spot a buried mine was set off, which blew it eight feet in the air. When it landed it continued on its way unharmed.

Then last year there was portrayed one of the other dramatic battles of the world war, and this year the spectacle was one of the covered wagon days, and the warfare with the Indians.

Today was "Virginia day," set aside particularly for the visitors from the South, and as a special feature of the carnival the very lovely Sue Pollard, daughter of the governor and first lady of Virginia, was the guest of honor.

At the close of the afternoon performance—there are two a day in Mrs. Summerall's conception of what dramatics should be—Miss Pollard reviewed the troops of the war college, and with her distinguished father received the other honor guests of the afternoon.

VARSITY NEWS

By HAROLD C. WRAY

AUSTIN, Sept. 27.—Approximately 5,000 students of the University of Texas have passed through the stages of handshaking, enrollment and class organization and are now well begun on the fall collegiate season. The total registration at this time is about 100 more than it was last year.

Students of the university have access to the new $500,000 Gregory gymnasium for the first time this year. The second building of the Texas ex-students' building campaign, the women's activities building, which was begun last March, is being constructed at a rate faster than that scheduled. The new chemistry building will be ready for next summer school classes. Plans are being made to start construction on the $250,000 Littlefield memorial archway this session, and a new classroom building is to be begun this year. Altogether the program for "Greater University of Texas" campus is proceeding rapidly, but the present student body will be the old "Exes" when the dreams of the university godfathers materialize.

Wichita Falls is again well represented in the university. An incomplete list of Wichita Falls students follows: Wilbur Kent spent a summer of employment in Austin and remains here to attend the long session.

Eczema Caused Eruptions and Disfigurement. Cuticura Healed.

"My daughter had eczema all over her face, hands and body. It broke out in blisters and when she scratched them it caused sore eruptions and disfigurement. Her clothing aggravated the breaking out, and she could not sleep at night on account of the irritation. The trouble lasted about three months.

"I tried most every kind of treatment but nothing helped her. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in a few days the irritation stopped, and in about two weeks she was completely healed." (Signed) Claude Dunson, R. 1, Box 84, Temple, Ga.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

O Lord deliver my soul; oh save me for thy mercies' sake.—Psalm 6:4.

We do pray for mercy; and that same prayer doth teach us all to render the deeds of mercy.—Shakespeare.

TRYING TO LIMIT GOTHAM'S SKYSCRAPERS

The necessity of halting the building of skyscrapers in portions of the city where the traffic they create cannot be satisfactorily handled is being recognized in New York City. There the Regional Plan commission is endeavoring to establish a rule that not over 40 per cent of the ground area in any given district shall be occupied by buildings of over 10 stories.

The commission advises that space on Manhattan Island be allocated as follows: 40 per cent for streets, alleys and rights of way; 10 per cent for parks and other public open spaces; 10 per cent for courts with areas within built-up blocks; 40 per cent for buildings of an average height not exceeding 10 stories.

The metropolis cannot continue indefinitely jamming excessively tall buildings into relatively limited areas. Each additional story adds to the number of individuals for whom transportation must be provided in the street below. The average visitor to New York will wonder if the effort to curb congestive factors has not been already delayed too long.

THE FAIR'S AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITS

In the face of many adverse conditions, the agricultural exhibits at the Wichita county fair at Iowa Park show a diversity and a quality that bespeak the possibilities of the county's agriculture. It is true that the exhibits were hand-picked, so to speak, and that they did not represent an average farm's production. But they show clearly what can be done on the farms of this county when farm owners refuse to be hide-bound and when they apply common sense and the best available information to their farming programs.

The weakness in any local farm program that undertakes to break away from the old order is the lack of marketing facilities for what is produced. As big a gamble as cotton is, year in and year out, farmers look on it as less of a gamble than any of a dozen crops that would, were a safe market provided, pay a much bigger return per acre. Demonstrations of what diversification can do mean little until the marketing problem is definitely solved. The county fair furnishes an impressive demonstration of what can be raised. Some other agency must tackle the task of demonstrating that what can be raised can also be sold at a profit.

THE JOB OF ATTORNEY GENERAL

The attorney general of Texas gets $2,000 annually as salary and the opportunity to collect $2,000 additional in fees. The office usually carries another emolument, if such it may be called, that of being mentioned as a gubernatorial possibility. We do not recall that any attorney general of Texas in recent years, not even Pollard, has failed to gain some consideration for the governorship. Some of them—Bell, R. V. Davidson, Looney—have unsuccessfully sought the higher office. Dan Moody is the only attorney general since Culberson to attain the governorship.

In a letter to the Dallas News, Jefferson G. Smith of Austin urges that James V. Allred of Wichita Falls, Democratic nominee for attorney general, be drafted for the governorship in 1932 or 1934. We have heard others make the same suggestion since Mr. Allred's victorious campaign for attorney general. He is already a possibility.

It would be rude to attempt to dismiss him as a candidate. It would be difficult as well as rude, in view of his consummate skill as a campaigner. But we hope that Mr. Allred will not give too attentive an ear to suggestions such as that made by Mr. Smith. His immediate task is to make Texas a good attorney general. That involves abstention from playing politics. It involves avoidance of the error into which more than one of Texas' attorney generals has fallen, of letting gubernatorial ambition dazzle him to the point where he cannot keep his eye on the immediate task.

We are not at all sure, therefore, that such suggestions as that advanced by Mr. Smith are proper at this time. We hope that Mr. Allred will not take them too seriously. We hope he will realize that his well-meaning friends are doing him a disservice in discussing his political future in that way. His immediate task is to raise the standard of efficiency of the attorney general's office. If he meets the challenge of that task, his political future will take care of itself.

ONE WAY TO CUT THE POSTAL DEFICIT

With postoffice department officials urging an increase in postage rates to wipe out the annual departmental deficit, an interesting suggestion is offered by Congressman Celler, Democrat of Brooklyn. He would have the government derive additional postal revenues by permitting the use of stamps for advertising purposes. Let the postoffice department sell a tiny bit of the stamp's area as advertising space, he urges, and the deficit will disappear.

The idea is not as novel as one might think. Other countries have already adopted it. In France, Germany, Italy, New Zealand and various Latin-American countries, one may find the advertisements of sewing machines, radios, tooth paste and liver pills on the postage stamps. There are many obvious objections to such a plan. Whether there are as many sound objections to it as there would be to increasing the postal rates remains to be seen.

THE VANISHING "INLAND" TOWN

Presidio, on the Rio Grande southeast of El Paso, is now celebrating the fact that it has a railroad. The track-laying crew of the Orient reached the border town last week.

The number of "inland" or railroad-less towns in Texas has been reduced to the negligible point in the past decade. There are less than a dozen of Texas' 254 counties into which no rail system penetrates. Most of the railroad-less counties are in the region northwest of San Antonio, between the Southern Pacific and the Orient lines. Schleicher, Sutton, Kimble, Edwards, Crockett, Sterling, Real and Loving are counties that either have no rail lines at all, or in which the railroads touch only an edge or a corner. Moore county, in the Panhandle, is untouched by railroad lines, but will lose that distinction soon, as one of the Santa Fe's new lines will traverse it. North of the Texas and Pacific, King and Borden counties are the only other ones not served by railroad lines.

A present-day rail map of West Texas compared with one of 20 years ago would reveal that thousands of miles of steel have been laid in the two decades. That section has witnessed more rail construction since 1910 than all the rest of the United States combined. And the end is not yet.

THE OTHER COOLIDGE

There are Republican Roosevelts and Democratic Roosevelts and it now develops that there are Republican Coolidges and Democratic Coolidges. Marcus A. Coolidge, whom Massachusetts Democrats recently nominated for the senatorship, is a distant kinsman of the ex-president who formerly was governor of Massachusetts. His folks, we are told, do not have much to say about the relationship; in the first place it is pretty remote and in the second place they feel that their branch of the family does not need to shine in the reflected glory of the presidential branch.

The Democratic Coolidge, nominated as a wet, is conceded an excellent chance to win. The Democrats are strong enough in Massachusetts to have carried that state for Smith in 1928, and wet sentiment is very strong there.

Marcus Coolidge in his younger days left New England and adventured southward and westward, building up a fortune which was invested in various street railway enterprises. He built the cog-wheel railroad up Lookout mountain, among other things. A quarter of a century ago he returned to Massachusetts and built up a prosperous machine works.

His only previous venture into politics was in 1916 when he ran for mayor of his home town, Fitchburg and won, after a spectacular campaign, by 20 votes. His early ambition was to be a sculptor. Now he has the chance to carve a future for himself in Massachusetts politics.

Restraining the Crowd Mind

By GLENN FRANK
President of University of Wisconsin and Former Editor of the Century Magazine
(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

America must, in the interest of a creative development of her industrial and political future, restrain the tyranny of the crowd-mind over the individual.

This restraining of the crowd-mind will prove no simple before-breakfast job, for latter day America has made it possible for the crowd-mind to function without crowd-contact.

America has invented and is perfecting astounding instruments of communciation. Radio! The talking film! Television! The newspaper! And allied agencies for the quick transference of thought and emotion.

As I suggested in these essays many moons ago, these new instruments of communication have created a new kind of mob that endangers the American future more than the old kind of mob ever endangered the American past.

This new mob, as I have suggested earlier, need not meet in one place and have its emotions recruited by some Robespierre of the rostrum. Its members may sit severally before a syndicated talking screen here and there and yonder. They may read the headlines of revolution or of reaction that are alike designed to create a crowd-mind. They may listen in at the radios of a million homes and halls. These and like devices have enabled mobs to dispense with dramatic assemblies.

With these new instruments of communication and the lately developed techniques of propaganda, the new mob master may sell his ideas quickly to millions who would never take the trouble to attend a mass meeting.

All this is making for a fuller and fuller release of the forces of crowd-mindedness, just when America needs most to restrain the forces of crowd-mindedness.

The social use of radio, the talking film, television and the newspaper is a matter of crucial concern to American statesmanship.

But the only sure safeguard against the new mob lies in a drastically reformed education that shall train the judgments of our sons and daughters so that they will be the masters instead of the victims of the questioning habit of science and immune to the wiles of the designing propagandist.

We must once for all recognize the folly of an education that sets as its purpose the merchandizing of beliefs hammered out by earlier generations that did not face the amazing perplexities and swift changes that beset and baffle present-day Americans. We must educate men for steady going in a rapidly changing world. And we must train them to keep their heads when the crowd goes crazy—whether in a stock market panic or a presidential election.

Poem About Autumn

The melancholy days are come,
The saddest of the year,
When you find your old suit's on the bum,
With cool days drawing near.

There is compensation, however, in the fact that you won't read or hear anything more about sun-cooked eggs, sun-popped pop-corn or sun-baked apples.

The endurance dancers have been at it for about 200 hours, as this is written. In other words, for about as long as an ordinary dance number seems to be to a middle-aged man dancing with his wife.

But the marathoners have this advantage over the husband aforesaid. They don't have to clap for encores and try to appear enthusiastic.

Another Poem About Autumn

My sleeping porch I much adore,
And there on summer nights I bide,
But Friday morning at half past four,
I moved inside.

The Oklahoma lady who became annoyed about something and shot a United States commissioner in the court room told an interviewer that, although she has habitually toted a pistol, she is a Christian.

Reminds us of the story about the ship-wrecked individuals who made their way to a lonely island. Wandering around, they discovered a group of men at a distance and sent one of their number to ascertain if the others were savages. The scout cautiously crept up close to where the men were sitting. Suddenly he heard one of them exclaim, "Why, you double-dashed blankety-blank, those dice are crooked."

"Let us give thanks," he cried, "they are Christians."

And it also reminds us of the story of the Chinese laundryman whose assistant didn't show up one day.

"Where is Wun Lung," asked a customer.

"No work today," was the reply, "he hurt. Chlistian gentleman hit him with brick."

Ignorance

Guileless, innocent Clara Bow,
Your interview pains us heaps
For you pretend you didn't know
That you were playing for keeps.

One of the things that makes us wonder if we aren't getting older than we used to be, is our changing attitude toward dogs. As a boy we were exceedingly fond of them. We usually had at least one and would have had more if it had not been for the unsympathetic attitude of our family who insisted on restricting us to one dog at a time.

We acquired dogs by whatever means were at hand. Sometimes we traded a dog we already had for one that appealed to us more. Sometimes we swapped a good two-bit pocket-knife for one, sometimes we gained possession of a new one by doing the owner's arithmetic for him. We did not, of course, part readily with a dog after we acquired one. Sometimes the family or the neighbors persuaded us to swap off a canine that was, from our own point of view, quite satisfactory. The only time we ever got rid of a dog of our own free will and accord was after it had had an encounter with Geronimo, the same being an old and ill-natured tom-cat that lived in our neighborhood. Geronimo was the only cat we ever saw that not only wouldn't try to avoid a dog, but would go out of his way to encounter one. And when he encountered this dog of ours, he stood his ground and gave battle very earnestly, with the result that we decided that Teddy, which was what the neighbors had named our dog because he was so noisy, was not much dog.

It did not occur to us or to any other dog-lover that we knew, to bother about the pedigree of the animal. We knew in a general way that a dog must have ancestors, but it never struck as a matter to be looked too closely into. You took a dog for what he was, without regard to his family tree. The genealogical data did not concern you. You wanted him for companionship and to chase cats, and to fight other dogs that were not too big, and to greet you joyfully on your return from school. You either trained him to keep out of the house or were made to wish you had. The dog was of no special breed. Usually part spaniel, part terrier and the rest just plain dog, called Spot or Rex or something like that.

Modern Dogs

Well, dogs nowadays are different. Either they are stray dogs, which are infernal nuisances, or they are pedigreed, registered things that are kept penned up or on leashes lest they get to associating with strangers. The result is that there are very few real satisfactory dogs, according to our notion. And there are certainly a lot of unsatisfactory ones.

At one home where we are an occasional guest, they have one of these German police dogs. It is a small home and the dog is, roughly speaking, about the size of a Ford sedan and, from our point of view, just about as desirable as a pet. It is a friendly specimen of caninity. That is the trouble with it. If it were peevish, like many house-kept pets, we would not have to exercise so much self-restraint in dealing with it. And we have too much regard for our host and hostess to haul off and do what we would like to do to it, when it is trying to be friends with us.

And if it isn't one big dog it is apt to be several little ones. That is the case at another place where we sometimes visit. Four or five half-pint canines scampering around, jumping up in our lap.

It may not be the dogs' fault. It may be, as we said above, that we are getting old., But most of the dogs we encounter nowadays give us an endomorphic pain. The more we see of them the more we call to mind the legend of our youthful days about the scource of the tamale man's meat supply, the more we long to test the truth of it. Considering what dogs are nowadays, it would give us joy to ascertain that the legend is based on fact. We know what we would do then.

Soldiers and sailers are both valuble in war time unless they get shot in important places and lose their strength and intrist.

For this reason it is a army's duty to shoot the enemy's army in important places before the enemy's army has time to do vice virtue.

One soldier hiding behind a tree can shoot 10 enemies in frunt of trees before they ever know wich tree it is. This is not considered cowerdly and proves it all depends on if there is a war or not weather you are a brave man or weather you awt to be arrested.

On the other hand a sailer on a battleship has nuthing to hide behind unless it happens to be something on the ship, so whatever it is its not a tree.

If a tree gets blown up while a soldier is in back of it, the soldier mite excape by a miracle and there was some place to run to except just another part of the ship.

If soldiers haff to retreet, the best runners have the best chance, while on the other hand if sailers haff to retreet, the ones that cant swim hardly have time to realize its too late to take lessons.

Soldiers and sailers are useful in perrades to keep in step to the music and stop and start again when the officers yell Halt and Fallwerd Martch.

It seems more serprising to see 20 sailers all in step than what it does to see 20 soldiers, but on the other hand it seems werse to see 3 soldiers out of step than what it does to see 20 sailers.

This proves you dont get much credit for doing something unless its something youre not sippose to know how to do.

Sailers have fund trying diffrent kinds of knotts, but on the other hand they haff to untye them all again.

Its a cinch to wawk behind a band in time to the music, and many fellows would follow a perrade all a ways to the end if they was aloud to.

The closer you are to the music the better it feels, and the men in the band would proberly have the best time of all if they dident haff to carry big horns and things.

Health and Diet Advice

Housemaid's Knee, or Synovitis

Between most movable joints there is a kind of bag containing a fluid that acts as a device for preventing the grating of one bone upon another. This is also true of the knee joint, between the upper and lower legs, and between the kneecap and the joint.

Housemaid's knee is an acute inflammation of the sack or bursa that lies in front of the knee. This disease is often mistaken for an inflammation of the synovial of the knee joint. In the latter disease the kneecap is thrown away forward and there is much swelling at the sides of the knee, when with housemaid's knee the swelling is superficial and mostly in front of the kneecap. The treatment is to rest the knee and to apply cold applications. If pus forms from a chronic infection it may be necessary to have the sac opened to permit drainage.

An inflammation of the synovial membrane or sac of the knee is also a common occurrence most frequently found in those of a rheumatic tendency. In this trouble a large amount of fluid forms in the synovial membrane causing a rapid increase in pain and swelling. If long continued, an inflammation of the entire joint or severe arthritis may result, or destruction of the ligaments of the joints, and even of the ends of the bones.

Chronic synovitis (inflammation of the synovial membranes) often occurs after serious diseases, such as smallpox, scarlet fever, gonorrhea and pyemia. This inflammation may be so severe as to completely and permanently cripple the joint within a few days.

Sometimes the joints may be attacked by tuberculosis. Children are frequently affected with inflammation of the long bones known as "growing pains" that may extend to the joints and produce synovitis.

In chronic synovitis one cannot expect a cure within a few days. This trouble is usually predisposed by a very chronic condition of toxic poisoning. Any focal points of infection should be treated by your doctor, and you should also employ a cleansing fast which may assist in absorbing the toxic materials that are irritating the joints. It is usually necessray to employ an initial fruit fast of from eight to 15 days, followed by a well-balanced diet for about a month, and then a shorter fruit fast of perhaps five days which may be repeated for several months until the inflammation has subsided. It is usually also advisable that your doctor employ some diathermy electric treatments on the joint to assist in bringing a larger blood supply so that the toxins may be absorbed and healing occur.

It is particularly important that during the cure of this disease the bowels be kept from producing more toxins, and I usually advise an enema morning and evening. One should avoid walking on the affected limb until the soreness has subsided, and other exercises should be substituted. Even after a cure has been effected it will probably be necessary for the patient to watch his food carefully for a long time, especially with regard to food combinations, and to avoid the use of foods that might cause excessive fermentation.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Gland Grafting

Question—C. E. F. writes: "I would like to know if it is possible to graft a gland into the body from another body, and thus bring about a cure of a disease."

Answer—Some interesting experimental work has been done in gland grafting, but so far the results do not justify patients in this attempt at a cure, at least, not until every other method of treatment has been used. There is grave danger in any of these operations, and the percentage of good results has been so small that it is a very poor gamble.

Gaining Weight

Question—Mrs. D. D. writes: "Please tell me if this is a correct evening meal for a woman desiring to build up. I often have this for dinner: One lamb chop, carrot salad, glass of milk, rice pudding and one orange. Then, just before retiring, I take a malted milk with an egg in it."

Answer—Mutton chops are to be preferred to lamb chops and the carrot salad can be used with the chops if no sour dressing is added. Milk should never be used at a meal containing meat. This is one of the old Hebraic laws, and is as true today as when Moses wrote it. Rice pudding, which is a bad combination in itself, should not be used with meat or other proteins. Oranges should not be used at a meal, but always by themselves. After eating such a bad combination, you would hurt yourself still worse by using malted milk and egg together before going to bed. If you use such combinations every day, it is no wonder you do not build up faster, for your body is laboring 24 hours of the day to digest food and you will not have much strength left to use for anything else.

NEW YORK.—I see right now that I'm not going to get along with my namesake, Gilbert Swan, the Guayas river aigrette.

If you missed, by some chance, the first chapter—Gilbert was captured in the wilds of South America by Sam Love, reporter-explorer, and I was made the darn thing's god-father whether I like it or not. There, I had hoped, the matter would end; that Gilbert would be locked up in the zoo with the rest of the birds and, now and then, I would drop out to see how he was coming along.

It did seem to me, however, that if I were to have an aigrette as a ward, I should know more about the manners and customs of the bird and so picked up all the volumes I could find on the subject.

Brownsing over these at home, I was in the midst of learning how to catch an aigrette in the first place, when the phone rang.

This was slightly annoying, for I was in the process of improving my mind, which happens rarely. I had learned, for instance, that one goes about with a can of red paint. That when an aigrette one cares to possess is spotted, it is cornered and red paint is daubed upon its wings.

Naturally, the aigrette turns tail and beats it for home on the slightest provocation. But when it gets home none of its relatives can recognize it. It is different from the rest. They all look upon it with scorn and turn it from the clan. It becomes pariah.

All this has a very human sound. It projects the stories of most of the people you know into a jungle background. People who are different; who return after an absence and are found to have little in kind with their friends and relatives are considered "out of the picture." If they are too different, they are shunned, and even tossed into jail because of the radical differences of opinion.

Very well—the aigrette, finding it no longer has a home, goes gladly back to its original captors. Perhaps it wonders what has happened, but it really wants some place to go.

At any rate, I had just reached the point where tears were in my eyes and I was going to send Gilbert back to his gang when, as I say, the phone rang.

"Say, when are you going to send some shrimps around for the bird?" came the voice.

"What—what's this . . . what do you mean, shrimps? As far as the bird is concerned, my only interest is that it was named after me," I stuttered.

"Well, do you want your namesake to die from starvation?"

"Is this the zoo?" I inquired, which was a foolish question because the zoo always takes excellent care of its charges.

"No, the zoo won't call for him for a couple of days. This is Sam Love's residence and that darn thing is keeping us broke buying shrimps."

"How's that?"

"I say that Gilbert Swan is eating $3 worth of fresh shrimps a day."

"Well, that's a darn sight more than I'm doing. I never ate $3 worth of shrimps in my life and you can tell Gilbert for me that he'll learn to eat childs' hash before he's through—and like it."

"You don't know this bird. He not only has your name, but your extravagant habits. We've tried him on fish and sardines and what-not, but he won't touch anything except fresh shrimps and then he gorges. And shrimps are expensive."

"Don't I know it." I came back, fingering in my cash pocket and finding only enough for coffee and sinkers if I set my namesake up to dinner. "Say is this going to keep up long?"

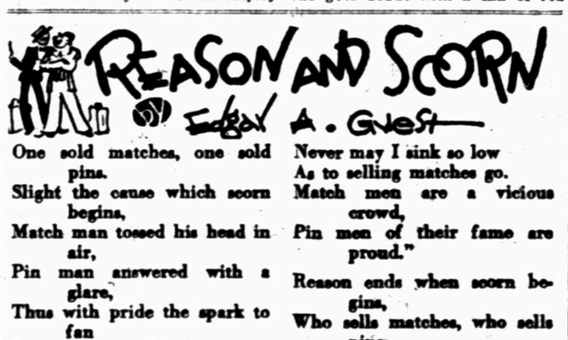

"Naw, he'll be out in the zoo pretty soon. Oh, say—by the way—the zoo may decide to change his name."

"Why?"

"Because we've found out that he's a she."

P. S.—Male or female. Gilbert Swan it is going to remain.

—GILBERT SWAN.

One sold matches, one sold pins.
Slight the cause which scorn begins,
Match man tossed his head in air,
Pin man answered with a glare,
Thus with pride the spark to fan
Fires unquenchable began.

Said the Matchman: "Mine are wares
Vital to this world's affairs.
They're the source of heat and light,
Man's best friends by day and night.
Beggars broken by their sins
Make their living selling pins."

Sneered the Pinman: "Pride have I,
Countless needs my pins supply.
Never may I sink so low
As to selling matches go.
Match men are a vicious crowd,
Pin men of their fame are proud."

Reason ends when scorn begins,
Who sells matches, who sells pins,
What's the difference? Both must die,
Both within the grave must lie,
And when dawns eternity
Neither one will favored be.

Pins or matches, books or bricks,
Pulpit, courtroom, politics,
From them nothing can be had
In themselves that's good or bad.
Worth comes not from group or clan
But entirely from the man.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—No one ought to be surprised any more to learn about anything women are doing, but it is something of an eye-opener to discover the Society of Women Geographers and the many exploits of its members.

Membership in the society, which has its headquarters in Washington is open only to those women who "have done distinctive work whereby they have added to the world's store of knowledge concerning the countries on which they have specialized and have published in magazines or in book form a record of their work."

They've Been Everywhere

Except for the North and South Poles and the top of Mount Everest it appears that virtually every spot on the earth's surface has been subject to visits from these women explorers. Some of them have traveled to far places on scientific work, others to find something to write about and others from no more than an itch to go places.

Harriet Chalmers Adams is the society's president. Recently she was through all the countries along the Mediterranean on a seven-month tour, making a special study of Sicily's historic connection with Spain. Now she is off again, bound for Ethiopia, Eritrea and Italian Somaliland. She has browsed all over the world with her husband, Franklin Adams, counsellor of the Pan-American Union, who now has to stay in Washington.

Mrs. Delia J. Akeley, another member, recently returned from her fourth trip into Central Africa brings much information and hundreds of photographs of forest pygmies whom she studied over a five-month period. The king of Belgium has appointed her to a commission which supervises hunting licenses and other matters in the Congo.

Dr. Harriet M. Allyn of Mount Holyoke college has toured pre-historic sites in Italy, Egypt, Palestine, Syria, Brittany, Spain and the Pyrenees and represented the American School of Prehistoric Research at the excavations in the cave of the valley at Athlit, Palestine. Dr. Florence Bascom of Bryn Mawr, who has been associated with the geological survey since 1909, is working on four geologic folios which will complete folio mapping of eastern Pennsylvania.

Mary Hastings Bradley is going back to Africa, entering from the west coast, penetrating the Cameroons and traveling by Safari to Bangui and Zemlo, where she will study fetish-worshiping natives. After that she is going to Persia and Turkestan. Mrs. Caroline Benedict Carroll, who succeeded her late husband as lecturer on archaeology at George Washington university joined an archaeology group in Mexico this summer after a previous season studying the art of Greek cities in Asia Minor and a motor trip along the trail of Roman conquest in Gaul.

Sally Clark, another member, once saw and shot two black-maned lions at the same time, the only big game hunter who ever did. She mounts here own victims. Not long ago she spent a month on a big game hunt with a woman companion, a guide, 14 negroes, a mechanic and three trucks. Elizabeth Dickey sailed with her husband, Dr. Herbert Dickey, last March on an expedition to the source of the Orinoco river, in which general region they had previously discovered a new tribe of Indians. Mrs. Dickey has been the first white woman to visit several almost impenetrable places in South America.

Marie Poland Fish, accompanied Dr. William Beebe's Bermuda oceanographical expedition in 1929, studying early life history of deep sea fishes. She is curator of ichthyology at the Buffalo museum of science. Malvin Hoffman, a world-famous anthropological sculptor, is undertaking three years of travel and study before reproducing 150 types of the living race of man for the field museum's department of anthropology.

Five Years in Yucutan

Ann Axtell Morris is writing about the things she found out during five years of archaeological work in Yucutan. Caroline Mytinger, in a four-year ethnological painting expedition in the South seas penetrated districts where no white woman had ever been and painted natives who had never seen a paint brush of camera. Grace Thompson Seton has begun a year's trip through Malaysia, Indo-China, Sumatra and Cambodia; he returned last year from one through North Africa. Helen C. Wilson spent two years with Dr. Elsie Reed Mitchell in the Autonomous industrial colony of Kuzbas in Siberia.

That's all the space there is, but it isn't half the story of what these women of the Society of Women Geographers are doing. The organization is international and includes women from 33 countries.

FIRST TERRACES ON NORTH PLAINS SUCCEED

STRATFORD.—Wheat grown on what is believed to be the first terraced land on the North Plains has made four bushels more per acre on level than on adjoining land. Amend Brothers in Sherman county terraced 250 acres last summer with the help of the county agent, Charles T. Watson, and they figure that the cost of terracing was paid for in the first year. Sixty acres of wheat planted in three lakes reclaimed by terracing made from 12 to 15 bushels per acre, and this was clear gain.

GRASSHOPPERS ATTACK TRUCK AND FRUIT

HONDO—Four hundred pounds of poison bran mash was used in a poisoning demonstration near Natalia and Devine, in an effort to rid the truck and fruit trees of grasshoppers. C. M. Merritt, county agent of Medina county and 36 truck growers spread the mash on the truck and sprayed the trees with a poison spray. Three days later the truck growers reported the grasshoppers killed out almost completely.

Cows Tested in Galveston County

ARCADIA—H. Stoneking, who is one of the Galveston county dairy demonstrators who weigh the feed and milk of each cow daily, finds that he has one cow that pays him an income over feed cost of $20.79 and another out of the same herd, purchased for the same price, that pays only $7.51 for the same period of time. If the entire herd were like the first cow he estimated that he would get $9.48 per day for his labor and interest on his investment while if all the cows were no better than the last one he would net only $3.00 per day.

TIMES BOOK REVIEW AND LITERARY LANTERN

THE LITERARY LANTERN

The Literary Lantern burns weekly in the Sunday Times and is intended to throw light on writing around and about the South. Communications for this column should be addressed to the Editor of the Literary Lantern,

There are a number of new adventure books before us today designed primarily for boys and girls of the hero-worshipping age. Some of them are so excellently written that they should appeal to any one who is interested in a good story and would like to absorb a little southern history on the side. Numberless colorful episodes—good material for exciting tales—have often been neglected in favor of the better known historical incidents and characters of the North. Many adventure tales of the revolution introduce the figure of Paul Revere, for instance, but none have been written about the far more romantic Flora MacDonald, whose adventure with Scotland's Bonnie Prince Charlie first marked her off as darling's own. Generally the knowledge of her sojourn in America has been confined to the bare facts as related in dry and dusty history books. Yet her doings in North Carolina were highly romantic and have long lain suitable for use in a historical tale.

In "Meggy MacIntosh" (Doubleday, Doran, $2.00) Elizabeth Janet Gray of Chapel Hill, N. C., has portrayed Flora MacDonald, a brilliant and magnetic woman using the spell of her personality to raise a troop of Highlanders for the support of that same country whose war with Scotland had driven most of them into an unknown wilderness. As one Whig neighbor put it, "With your Gaelic and your battle cries and your tales of old heroism, you've worked a flighty set of folks into a frenzy." With gallant bravery these Scots from the North Carolina sandhills marched and drilled and gathered on the Cape Fear for the march-out. Then came the battle of the Widow Moore's creek bridge—"We swept down," reports a survivor, "through the pines at dawn, pipes shirling, every lad his broadsword in his hand. King George and broadswords! we shoutit." And then they found that there was not much an army with broadswords could do against an enemy that knelt behind stumps and shot." There was defeat and capture for the Highlanders. Many supporters, including Flora MacDonald, returned to Scotland, leaving the new country to those who had seen the necessity of its separation from England.

Scotch Orphan in America

All of this history is woven in with the intimate study of a young Scotch orphan girl, Meggy, who leaves her home in old Edinburgh to seek Flora MacDonald in the Carolina colony. Her contacts with various families in Wilmington and along the Cape Fear river gradually build up in her a realisation of the colonists' struggles and a formulation in her mind of the ideas of freedom and opportunity in the new land. In her individual struggle is epitomized the wavering and painful decisions of many Whigs and Tories. One gains from this book a very fair and unbiased picture of a section of America where the patriots were really outnumbered by those who could not forsake their ancient loyalties. The character of Meggy is a well-executed portrait and there are others of equal reality. The story is told with simplicity and restraint and in a style which has both charm and zest. Also there is plenty of significant and picturesque detail, and this enhances the appeal of any book when judged by an audience of young people. For them and for grown-ups "Meggy MacIntosh" is strongly recommended.

A somewhat similar tale is "Judith Lankester" by Marjorie Hill Allee (Houghton Mifflin, $2.00), being first of all a study of the character of a young girl thrown suddenly into the hardships of pioneer days. In the case of Judith, we have no lonely Scotch orphan, but a beauty-loving Virginia belle, spoiled by her aristocratic grandmother and poorly equipped to undergo the hardships of the Indiana of the forties. The story tells how she meets the conditions imposed by her slavery-hating Quaker family. The background is that of a middle-western community in the days of early railroad building when most people were so busy establishing their material fortunes that they had time for little else. The people are real, the plot is interesting, and the book should divert many readers.

Civil War Days

In "Judith Lankester" we also read of runaway slaves, and slaveholders and abolitionists, clashing over differences of opinion. In "The Trail of Fire" by J. D. Whiting (Bobbs Merrill), we are in the midst of the civil war which these events foreshadowed. This is especially a boy's book and tells the tale—through the adventures of two boys—of the Confederate commerce raider, Alabama, built and launched in England, captained for two years by Semmes, "the terror of the seas," and finally destroyed off the coast of France in a spectacular battle with the Union vessel, the Kearsarge. The narrative is exciting and perhaps it is natural in such a book for the author to take sides, even against his will. The southern idea of the North's popular hero, Sherman, was not unlike the picture here drawn of Admiral Semmes, the southerner. The book is marred by some purple passages, but on the whole it is well-written.

"Freedom's Daughter" (Dutton, $2.00) was written by Gertrude Crownfield of Baltimore, Md. It concerns a Philadelphia Quaker girl in the time of the revolution and introduces several familiar historical characters. The style is overromantic but the events are sufficiently exciting to make the book interesting reading for older girls—and perhaps boys.

Flora Warren Seymour has written the lives of Kit Carson and of Fremont for boys. Herein appears a tale of an even more romantic career, that of "Sam Houston, Patriot" (Century, $2.00). "The Raven," as Houston was known by the Indians, has been the subject of several important biographies for adults. Mrs. Seymour's book is intended especially for older boys, but it will prove interesting reading for anyone, we venture to guess, for it is a very graphic historical account. For instance, Mrs. Seymour's acquaintance with Indian tribes (she is the author of several authoritative volumes about them) fits her particularly well for the relating of Houston's sojourn among the Cherokees.

Boys who are fond of horses will be attracted to "Hoofbeats in the Wilderness," by Arthur M. Baker (McBride, $2.00), a tale of a North Carolina boy and his horse, White Prince, and their adventures over the Daniel Boone trail into the Indian territory. We must add, however, our criticism of the stilted speech of these supposed backwoodsmen who make up the dramatic personae of the book. Historical narratives often err by reason of too many archaisms in the dialog. Mr. Baker has gone to the other extreme, ruled out dialect, and given his characters the preciseness and primness of speech associated with a New England Sunday school teacher. Perhaps this helps account for the book's overmoralistic tone.

Gold Braid and Sabers

The last volume on our list, "West Point Wins" by Lieut. Paschal N. Strong (Little, Brown, $2.00) is not a historical tale, but it is included here because of its vivid description of a cadet's life at West Point, with all the unique and alluring trappings surrounding the life of a student warrior. It is a book for boys, calculated to instill in them ideals of honor and sportsmanship. The author has spent some time in the South and the hero of the story is a cadet from North Carolina.

All of her life
Dingy dressed,
She dreamed of white,
For common and best—

All of her life
Browner than elf,

Saw whited and neat
Her tidy stones

Scanning New Books

By RICHARD MASSOCK

NEW YORK.—At the height of a season when books are falling about him like autumn leaves, a solitary commentator can provide little more than a mere check-list of attractive titles.

We are barely catching up with the critical enthusiasm for "A Note in Music" by Rosamond (Dusty Answer) Lehmann and Edwin Arlington Robinson's new poem, "The Glory of the Nightingales," about the struggle of a scientist and a rich man over a woman, to find Booth Tarkington's "Mirthful Haven" still unopened.

Three inviting volumes of frontier history and narrative, "Westward" by E. Douglas Branch, "Wagons West" by Elizabeth Page and "John Marsh, Pioneer," by George D. Lyman, also must be neglected. We will try to bear it.

Life in Letters

But here is a collection of "Letters of Henry Adams," from the pen of a member of the Massachusetts Adamses, whose family biography appeared in the spring.

Henry Adams (1858-1891), like his forebears, had a leaning toward public life, but he chose to become a Harvard pedagog and editor of the North American Review. He left, as noteworthy books, "The Education of Henry Adams" and an architectural work, "Mont-Saint-Michel and Chartres."

He saw Stephen Douglas, for instance, as "a little beast" and sickly Robert Louis Stevenson, "brandishing his long arms above his head," as likely to be poor company.

Primitive Prudes

As Henry Adams was an exceptional letter writer, so is Margaret Adams an extraordinary investigator of life among primitive people.

Her new book, "Growing Up in New Guinea," is enlightening research into the morals and manners of the natives of the island of Manus. Her account of their sex life is equally as diverting as in her "Coming of Age in Samoa."

On Manus the almost naked people are surprisingly more prudish than the Puritans. Taboos restrict the women especially. There is no love as we know it.

The children, however, because they are born precariously in huts over the water, are protected against fear and are taught to punt their fathers' canoes at the age of 3. They rule the home, "sassin" and even striking their parents with impunity. Yet they are taught industry, prudence, thrift, abstinance and strict respect for property.

Chicago civilization, as pictured in "Al Capone, the Biography of a Self-Made Man," suffers sadly by comparison.

This book, by Fred D. Pasley, a Chicago reporter, is more than a bare biography. It covers the whole record of gangdom and allied politics in the Midwest capital, a dire and bloody record in which a baron of beer-running is made dictator of an entire city.

The Tulsa, Okla., dog pound is to have a lethal gas chamber for the execution of canines condemned to die.

ZOE BECKLEY

Gets High Sign

"Dear Zoe: I am in a dreadful fix. Boyfriend has given me the high sign and I love him very much. Can you tell me how to win back his love? He is quiet and homeloving, I am just the opposite. I am 17. If I was more quiet would it help any?

—MARGE."

Sounds as though the silly season were upon us. Perhaps if Marge takes a pinch of the hair of a graveyard rabbit caught in the dark of the moon and sets it to simmer with some sloeberries a few bayleaves and a twig of—

Oh, no, no. Love potions don't work. No use making believe. And no use either, trying to capture a quiet, homeloving lad if you're the sort of girl who flings her bonnet over the windmill and bids dull care begone. You wouldn't be happy, Marge, with a solemn boy. Don't try it. Let him go.

Informally Steady

"Dear Zoe: There was no agreement to go steady but we went together regularly all summer. Then I went to a party with Joe's fraternity brother but told Joe. He said nothing then but later he suddenly stopped seeing me. I miss him so. I feel all in a muddle and don't know whether to keep on with the second boy or what.

—B. E."

Why sure, keep on with the second boy. And a third and fourth if you're so lucky as to have flocks of them handy. If a boy sees too much of you (or sees you too much) you lose your mystery for him. This is one of the largest and juciest reasons why going steady makes no hit with me. One can't be magnetic all the time—not with one man, that is. But if you have several to change off with, it is like a rest or a shift from one set of muscles to another. The new man gives you new zest, and you start with fresh charg and sense of adventure.

Boys Wanted

"Dear Zoe: We are two pretty girls, neat and well dressed, but can't seem to attract nice boys. Can you help?

—LONELY HEARTS."

Go about. Keep moving. Make all the contacts possible and trust to luck. Parents ought to help their daughters more by giving parties, inviting eligible youngsters for informal suppers or small home gatherings, drives, picnics, boat trips—anything that offers—and by being cordial and friendly.

By the sheer law of averages, if you know a lot of people some of them are going to be attracted to you. The more you know, the better your chances. Boys don't all fancy the same sort of a girl. Every sort has a chance—with somebody. Keep a-going and you'll find plenty.

"Begusted"

"Dear Zoe: We quarreled after going together two years and he went off and joined the coast guards. He comes to town often but his calls are so short. He says he has to catch a certain train and I believe him. But friends tell me he goes with other girls. He says not. Who shall I believe? I love him, Zoe.

—DISGUSTED."

Oh, shucks, do your own thinking and pay no attention to gossipy friends. Be happy and gay whenever you see him, make him glad he came and eager to come again. Have all the other friends you can rake and scrape. This will help to make you indifferent to the impression you are making on him. And the less you care, the more you'll charm him. Self-consciousness produces fear and timidity, which are surefire poison. Charm cannot exist where they are.

Perhaps Too Intelligent

"Dear Zoe: I am 22, intelligent and attractive but seldom admired by the kind of man I like. Older men and very young boys like me. But few eligibles. People are always telling me how nice I am, but if the men I want don't find me so, what's the use?

—BARBARA."

That word "intelligent" gives me a clue. My tip is to soft-pedal the brains and play up the soft, clinging femininity. What do men want women for? Answer: To rest and amuse them, to give them comfort and relaxation, to belong to them utterly, to be dependent upon them.

Only weak men want women who are outstandingly intelligent. I don't mean they always pick dumbbells. But better a dumbell, sweet, appealing, adoring, cuddly and affectionate than a strong-minded sister who can out-think them, outtalk them and paddle her own canoe with one hand tied behind her back.

The happy medium is the all desirable thing. Therefore, if you are intelligent, don't use your brains to talk with but to think with. For if you think, you will know that men (and even boys, unconsciously) want a woman who looks to them for protection. Also they want a haven to fly to when they are hurt, grouchy, tired, hungry or out of luck, a haven that won't give them advice, reproach or arguments, but just opens its arms warmly, and takes them in.

She Has the Tellmees

"Dear Zoe: This may not be in your line because I am a man. But here goes anyway. My wife is forever telling me I no longer love her and asking me why? I do love her but the more she asks me the more I freeze up. I admire her too. Often I am just on the brink of saying so when she beats me to it and then I'm utterly at a loss. Can you give me any advice?—J. D. W."

I can only say that it is deeply rooted in man and woman psychology—this desire to be told and told again, on the part of the woman, and the reluctance to be always repeating what he has already said, on the part of the man. It's because love means so much more to a woman than a man. She just can't help yammering about it.

Don't take it as anything personal. Don't feel awkward about it. Don't feel to blame. Take it as a biological fact. And tell her to write to me.

Meanwhile you're going to find it easier to say, "Matilda, you're a perfect brick, I adore you"—because you understand.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT . . . . . By Robert L. Ripley

EXPLANATION OF LAST SUNDAY'S CARTOON — The Wunderkind of Lubeck: Christian Heinrich Heinecken, the "Wunderkind of Lubeck," was a child of incredible precocity. This is the list of his accomplishments: He spoke at the age of 8 weeks, knew the Pentateuch at the age of 1 year, the Bible at the age of 12 months. At the age of 2 years he knew all ancient and modern history, and had a perfect command of French and Latin, in addition to his native German, at the age of 4. He died in his fifth year, within two months after he was weaned. "No Do," the Famous Puzzle: The honorary motto in the form of a rebus "No Madeja Do." (No me ha dejado) was conferred upon the city of Seville by the grateful King Pedro I of Castille, in the 14th century. The city did not waver in its fidelity to its legitimate ruler at a period when Pedro's fortunes of war were at their lowest ebb, and Enrique II threatened to usurp the throne of Castille. Despres Served 75 Years as a Galley Slave: In 1668 King Louis XIV of France decided to discontinue the manning of galleys by forced convict labor. It was then that the records of the surviving galley slaves were scrutinized and the injustice done to one Rene Despres, who had been a galley slave since 1593, was discovered. There was no record of any crime committed by the old "galerien," nor was there any sentence ever pronounced against him. Upon motion of the Intendant Videcq, Despres received an honorable discharge, and a small life-long pension was assigned to him by way of repairing the atrocious injustice done to an innocent man. See: "Toulon" by Abbe Lagrange. Harry Pidgeon Sailed Alone Across the Pacific: Prior to his voyage in his yawl "The Islander," Captain Pidgeon had never been out of sight of land, nor was his experience ever remotely connected with matters maritime. Yet he built, unaided, and made seaworthy, the vessel on which he has made three voyages across the Pacific ocean, alone. This "landlubber," acquitted himself most creditably of a great maritime task. Reference: "Sunset Magazine," July, 1922. Arthur Saxon, Famous Strong Man: Saxon's performance of lifting 448 pounds to arms length over his head, which I illustrated in my drawing, is but one of many of his feats of strength. Saxon is a world-famous Austrian strong man, possibly the greatest weight lifter who ever lived. This weight lifting accomplishment set a world's record that remains unbroken.

The Story of a Music Master

LIVING in the machine-age should in some measure have prepared the director for what was coming; hundreds of the more astute had seen it in the offing for years, before it actually happened, and in many instances had run for the cover of kindred professions or occupations.

Klinger, however, had stuck, as the saying goes, like a captain to a sinking ship, until the inundation of "canned music" was something that even his stubborn kind of resistance had to reckon with.

No doubt about it, the day of the theatre and moving-picture orchestra was gone. A man had not a chance to earn any sort of decent living for himself and family, if he depended upon a profession that had literally died in its tracks.

In vain the perishing vocation fought for its life. An organization was formed, of which Klinger was vice-president, to combat, by newspaper and magazine advertising, this demise of an honorable profession.

DO NOT PERMIT CANNED MUSIC TO BE SERVED UP TO YOU.
THE BEST IS NONE TOO GOOD.
PUBLIC, DEMAND YOUR RIGHTS!

Of course the public did nothing of the sort, the sound-screen became its own orchestral effect, orchestras died out of the theatre, and at fifty-seven, Otto Klinger, for thirty years director of an orchestra in one of the city's largest temples of entertainment, found himself, incredible as it might seem, out of a job.

THERE was the alternative, desperately clutched by so many of his men, of rushing to the picture studios of California, but even had such an opportunity presented itself, Klinger was not the man to subject his dignity to any such flagellation as that.

Playing on a motion picture lot! Otto Klinger, graduate of a Berlin Conservatory of Music, one-time concert meister of a Nurnberg orchestra and now, for thirty years, director of an aggregation of thirty men, going Hollywood. Never!

Fortunately, it was at a time of his life when his family, containing grown sons and daughters, had agreed among themselves it was best for him to retire.

Rearing three girls and three boys on a scale of decent and substantial living had, of course, not enabled Otto to accumulate, but when the catastrophe of the dissolution of his orchestra came along, there were fortunately, three out of his six children who were earning. Firmin and Max, the two elder boys, steady and showing the results of the spartan rearing that had been theirs, were both draughtsmen drawing substantial wage. Mathilde, the third, daughter, a staid, careful, uncoquettish girl, who so far as the modern flapper was concerned, did not exist at all, was confidential secretary to the German consul.

So, all in all, while in the heart of Otto calamity had descended, his family, including his wife, was of an opinion, secret from him, that considering his age and gouty constitution, it was just as well for him to retire.

The Klingers owned their little home on the outskirts of New York. There were only three children left at a school age. Mrs. Klinger, twenty years younger than her husband, and of firm heroic build, was a housewife of impeccable and amazing capacity for economy.

The Klingers could make out all right.

BUT the effect upon the morale of Klinger was what troubled them. Prepared as the family was for the let-down that inevitably must take place in the somewhat Bismarkian figure of their father, who for thirty years had ruled thirty men, to say nothing of a household, the actual happening was nothing short of appalling.

He became a household tyrant, domineering over the daily routine, interfering in his wife's capable regime, exercising even more discipline with his children.

There came a time, in that little home, when so far as the members of it were concerned, the idea of sending Otto off to a private hospital at some quiet seaside resort actually began to present itself.

That project never took form. The Klingers were too compact a group for that; too grounded in certain rudiments of family solidity, but it does go to show the extremes to which they were pushed, by the overflow of their father's chagrin into the household.

Then Bertha, the fourth child, hit on a scheme that, while it was to increase the household tyranny in many ways, was nothing short of stroke-of-genius.

Secretly, so that not even his wife or children knew it, there had always smouldered in Otto bitter disappointment that not one of his children had followed in his musical footsteps. They were a practical, sensible lot, youngsters any parent could be proud of, and for that matter each and every one founded in a musical education. But among them, with the exception of Edith, who was too young to reckon with, not one of the girls or boys had exhibited outstanding musical talent.

Father must form a family orchestra and they could practice evenings. Mother at the piano, the three boys at the violin, flute and viola respectively, Bertha and Mathilde at the harp and 'cello and little Edith, who was now eight and taking her first lessons, at the violin.

Well, somehow, the idea caught with Klinger like wildfire, and catching, did some tantalizing things to family life, curtailing the outside activities of the grown boys and girls to such an extent that their souls or their evenings could no longer be called their own.

Bad as was the evening-after-evening practising of the group, under the surveillance of Klinger, it was offset by the fact that once more clenched by an interest, something of the old good humor, and normal geniality of the man revived.

Life in the Klinger household was once more livable, as the Klingers put it.

AND then there began to develop the aspect of it all that made the idea of Bertha seem to blossom into something that was nothing short of genius.

Time and time again, conducting this little group of his family orchestra, Klinger began to find himself amazed and delighted by the musical precocity of the mite of a girl playing the third violin.

Within two months, trying to keep down within himself the rising hope and the rising excitement that here in this child was talent, he saw the thin little wisp of a girl superceding her delighted first violinist brother, playing in his place.

Six months later, by arrangement made by Klinger, Edith was taken to the conservatory, there to play before the great Eicher, who pronounced her of outstanding and amazing virtuosity.

That busted up the Klinger orchestra, so to speak.

Six hours of each day, Klinger, who has no more time for his family-orchestra, interested to his fingertips, tender of her youth, adoring of her talent, teaches his youngest, and plans for her musical future.

HERE AND THERE ON THE RADIO WAVES

MANY SINGERS TO COMPETE IN RADIO AUDITION CONTEST

Entrants in the local competition of the fourth national radio audition of the Atwater Kent corporation will sing Monday over station KGKO to determine the best musical artists in this district according to Mrs. Lois Parker, Wichita Falls chairman.

Ten young men and women have already declared their intentions of competing, and Mrs. Parker announces that inquiries have been received from many more, so that she expects between 30 and 40 competitors.

The rules of the audition, which will be held at KGKO broadcasting station on the sixth floor of the Perkins-Snider building, at 9 p. m., provide that each young singer must be prepared to sing three songs. The judges, to be announced on the evening of the audition, will select which of the three songs each competitor will sing. The judges will then hear, but not see the competitors (if this system of judging is agreed upon) and at the completion of the audition the names of the young man and young woman to represent Wichita Falls will be announced.

"There is considerably more enthusiasm this year regarding the national radio audition in Wichita Falls than has been shown during the three previous years," Mrs. Parker stated in announcing the date her committee had chosen for the local event. "We are informed by the Atwater Kent foundation, which, with Perkins-Timberlake, is sponsoring the auditions, that this condition exists generally throughout the country. More than a thousand communities are preparing to hold local auditions such as we are having here, and reports indicate that at least 50,000 young singers have been interested enough to compete. This number approximates the total of those competing in the combined auditions of the last three years.

"Under the conditions of the contests, every singer who reaches the final stage will be assured a year of study under the best masters and will also have money adequate to care for his material needs during this period of study.

"We have met with a very hearty response so far in our work in Wichita Falls and we are anxious to have every ambitious young man and young woman singer understand that he or she is eligible if between the ages of 18 and 25, and providing he has accepted no professional engagements."

Before the Mike

The children are going back to school, daylight saving time will soon be over, and Amos 'n' Andy are resuming their early schedule over a long string of stations—which brings things back to normal again, if nothing else does.

Music runs in the family of Emil Straka Jr., new concert master of the KSTP symphony orchestra, St. Paul. Straka, who stepped from high school seven years ago to the first chair position with the Minneapolis symphony, received his musical education from his father, concert master of the Frank Dana orchestra, in 1895, which later became the Minneapolis symphony. Emil Sr. is known throughout the United States and Europe, and his son is on the way to becoming equally as famous.

Ted Bergman, comedian, who plays "George" in the "Henry and George" skit over the CBS network, is a former wrestler and social and physical director at a boys' camp in New York. His greatest athletic stunt is catching the trains to New York and back each week.

Bob Olsen of KFRC, San Francisco, has a tenor voice that covers a three octave range, from D below middle C to high D. A whole quartet by himself!

The Norman Kerry you hear in the NBC program "On Wings of Song" isn't the Norman Kerry of the movies, as many fans have believed.

Henry Burbig, det Columbya ecter, is maybe more a baseball player, wot? He's turned down two offers to catch for National league teams, he tells us.

Straka

Can a woman be a radio entertainer and handle her home equally as well as she does her program? Della Baker, radio and opera prima donna, says she can. In the old days prima donnas had to sacrifice everything for their careers. They had to live in hotels and jump from city to city. But now radio has enabled her to settle down in one spot permanently, follow her career and run her home just as she likes.

If you like Seth Parker and his philosophical wisdoms over the air, you'll also like "Seth Parker's Album," the latest of Phillips H. Lord's products from Jonesport, Maine. The Century company is publishing it.

New series on the air: "Your Eyes," musical programs, NBC, WJZ network, Sundays at 2:45 eastern standard time.

Van Heusen program, CBS, Thursday at 8, eastern standard time.

Complexion care, CBS, Thursdays at 9:45 a. m., eastern standard time.

Necco Surprise Party, CBS, Saturdays at 6:30, eastern standard time.

CBS in New York has the all-around radio actors—Harry Swan, who once did 11 characters in a one-man drama, and now Lois Gaston, who the other day took nine parts and imitated three animals in a 15-minute skit.

For two years voice teacher at two fashionable girls' schools, then Curt Peterson ups and takes a job in radio for NBC. What can you do with a fellow like that?

More Power Wanted

If WEXAL, WLW's short wave station at Cincinnati, gets permission to use 10,000 watts power, it will hurl the programs of WLW by short wave all around the world, say its owners. WLW wants its programs to be picked up internationally for rebroadcast.

AIR STATION TALKS

(By The Associated Press)

Dr. John H. Becker, conductor, composer, and ultra modernist of music, will serve as guest conductor during a group of programs from KSTP this fall.

Radio dramatics have proved so popular in the Northwest that KSTP has established an entirely separate department for this type of broadcast. Thomas D. Rishworth will be in charge.

The third annual school of the air has been inaugurated over the western chain of NBC.

Biblical history is being reviewed weekly over KGO, Oakland. The program is held Sundays with organ music providing a tonal background.

The two nation-wide networks, NBC and CBS, after operating during the summer on daylight time, go back to standard time Sunday, Sept. 28. Stations which transmit the year-round on standard time will present chain programs an hour later. Stations which used daylight time merely will move back their entire schedule in keeping with the change of the clock.

Beatrice Belkin, coloratura soprano, will make her farewell appearance with Roxy's Gang, before joining the Metropolitan Opera, Monday night, Sept. 29, over WJZ network.

The Big Brothers club returns to WEAF and chain Sunday evening, Sept. 28, after an absence for the summer.

FLASHES of LIFE

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON.—Uncle Sam is off saloonkeepers. He listed 17,835 of them in the census 10 years ago, but this year any such folks will be classified under "other occupations" along with scissors grinders and the like.

NEW YORK.—Norman Pearce, radio announcer, seems to have quite a voice from the endurance standpoint. He talked into a mike for 24 hours straight at a radio fair on various things from capital punishment to the South Sea islands.

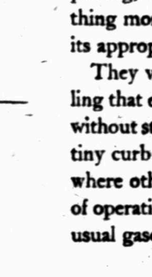

PARIS.—Beltran Masses, Spanish artist, is suing Pola Negri for $5,000 which he claims is due for painting her portrait with a shadowy form of Rudolph Valentino in the background.

LOS ANGELES.—Olga Baclanova, actress, must pay her landlady $353 because of a dog and cat. Mrs. Margarett Fitts set forth that the pets tore rugs and curtains in a rented house. She obtained a judgment.

NEW YORK.—Charles E. Dyrea has presented to the Museum of Peaceful Arts an antique that would still get the owner where he might want to go. It's a 33-year-old automobile that looks like a glorified tricycle, cranked on the side. It used to sell for $1,000.

WASHINGTON.—As a tribute to the memory of Frank J. Scoville, motorcycle policeman killed in a collision with a truck, his last prisoner, arrested for drunkenness, has been freed. Judge Mattingly expressed the hope that Charles Martin would show appreciation for getting out of jail by not appearing in court again as a defendant as long as he lived.

NEW YORK.—Ear phones are to be installed in the $4,000,000 new Riverside church so that worshipers need not have front seats to hear well.

Their Second Honeymoon

The voyage that Ben Lyon and Bebe Daniels are at this writing taking aboard the yacht, "Sultana," might in a sense be considered a second honeymoon, for it is but a few scant months since their first one. The purpose of the trip, off Catalina, is to make scenes for their latest picture, "Ex-Mistress."

BETWEEN the WAVELENGTHS

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
Associated Press Radio Editor

Television, continuing its drive for recognition, is getting into the news columns pretty regularly nowadays.

Both New York and Chicago joined in the latest moves in the demonstration looking toward the introduction of vision via radio.

In Chicago, WMAQ started up its companion short wave television transmitter through which it plans to present a regular schedule of sight broadcasts of some of its sound programs.

In New York there was another display of the Jenkins pictures, with signals being sent to Broadway from W2XCR, Jersey City, N. J. This demonstration was similar to that of last spring, when during a week's tests television signals were sent out by the same station from a television theater, with sound going from W2XCD, Passaic, N. J.

In the New York test, announced as the "first serious effort to put visual broadcasting into the home," receivers were set up at two or three points along Broadway where passersby could get a peek at what was being transmitted. The received pictures, which were accompanied by sound sent from W2XCD, were about four inches square and were described as fair when viewed at short range.

Both direct pickup of images and moving picture films were put on. The film transmission seemed to be somewhat better than the other.

Much stress was given the statement that there was perfect synchronization of sound and sight. This, however, is not the problem with television that it was in the movies. There are no synchronization difficulties whatsoever. It merely is a matter of using two stations, one to carry television and the other to broadcast sound.

Synchronization is done by having two receivers, one for sound and the other for sight and tuning them in to the desired programs.

Of course, there will be the possibility of getting programs mixed up in the future when television transmission becomes more frequent.

Capt. Bill Royle, NBC master of ceremonies on the Pacific coast, is full of talent. He's able to portray characters in English, Chinese, Scotch, Irish nad Negro. Captain Bill was a world war aviator and is now conducting an aviation school in San Francisco.

NOTED ORCHESTRA PRESENTS FRIDAY RADIO PROGRAMS

A program by Eugene Ormandy and his orchestra will be broadcast regularly from KGKO each Friday night at 9 o'clock. The program is an electrical transcription prepared for radio broadcasting by the Judson Radio Program corporation which produces most of the outstanding programs for the National Broadcasting company and the Columbia Broadcasting system. Mr. Ormandy, outstanding violinist and concert master, first came to America in 1921 with the intention of making a concert tour of the country. He was, however, immediately engaged as concertmaster and soloist of the Capitol theater orchestra. He was still with that orchestra when he was invited to become one of the original Roxy gang. In 1925 he was appointed first associate conductor of the Capitol theater orchestra. He remained there until May, 1929, when he resigned to devote all his time to the radio. At the present time Mr. Ormandy conducts the Jack Frost Melody Moments and the McKesson Robbins programs, over the National Broadcasting company.

The concert orchestra under the direction of Eugene Ormandy will present the following program Friday night, Oct. 3, at 9:30 o'clock:

Selections from "Princess Pat".....Herbert
Pulcinello .....Aletter
Chinatown, My Chinatown .....Schwartz-DeFelippi
Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses .....Openshaw
The Beautiful Blue Danube .....Strauss
The Moon Is Low .....Stothart-Savino
The Swan .....Saint-Saens
Overture "Mignon" .....Thomas

QUANAH SOLOIST WILL BROADCAST HERE SUNDAY

Evelyn W. Watkins, tenor soloist, of Quanah, Texas, and well known throughout this territory for his beautiful interpretations of hymns and religious songs will render the second of a series of Sunday concert programs from KGKO today at 1 o'clock. His program will consist of five beautiful old time hymns. The complete program is as follows:

Leave It There .....Timberley
The Beautiful Garden of Prayer....Filmore
My Task .....Ashford
Nailed to the Cross .....Tullar

'Twas a tough climb for Darl Bethmann, NBC baritone, from steel mills to concrete works to school teacher—but he's there just the same.

NEW DANCE ORCHESTRA TO PLAY OVER RADIO STATION HERE MONDAY

With the opening of the fall radio season KGKO, the National Security Life Insurance company station, announces the acquisition of one of the "hottest" and "smoothest" dance orchestras ever brought to Northwest Texas. The KGKO Radiolites as this orchestra will be known to radio fans are past masters in the art of keeping the dancers' feet moving without resorting to the crash and blair type of music usually employed by jazz bands. The object of any group of radio entertainers is to please those who have their receiving sets tuned to the wave of the station to which they are broadcasting and it is with this in mind that the personel of the Radiolites have been chosen. Together they blend into a harmonious whole designed to please the ear of the most critical musician and yet retain that necessary rhythm required by modern dancers. The first appearance of the Radiolites over KGKO will be Monday night at 7:15 o'clock. The orchestra under the direction of Cleo Grantham, contains several good voices and each program presented by the orchestra will be planned to contain as much entertainment and as many novelties as possible.

for WOMEN who go places

the bantam car...smart as a new hat ...thrifty as a housewife

Women find Austin's smart lines appealing, but looking beyond, see something more... the essential good taste of its appropriateness to service.

They value the almost effortless handling that enables them to drive quickly yet without strain... the ease of parking in the tiny curb spaces of the shopping district, where others fear to tread... an economy of operation that saves two-thirds of their usual gasoline, oil, and tire expense.

For the Austin runs forty miles on a gallon of gasoline... costs less than three-quarters of a cent a mile for fuel and tires. So, many families use it as a second car... find that it actually pays for itself by sparing expensive mileage and wear and tear on the bigger car... find they can enjoy two cars at the cost of one.

The cost of the bantam Austin is but $445 at the factory. Let us show it to you at your convenience. Phone or call.

CHECK-UP ON YEAR'S OPERATIONS URGED FOR POULTRYMEN

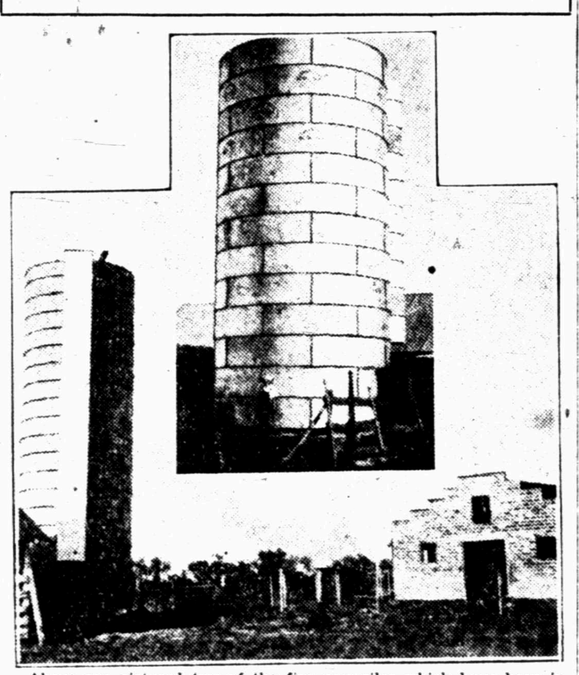

The task of selecting good breeders is one of the most important for the demonstration poultryman in October, according to the poultry calendar of Texas A. & M. college extension service. The calendar for October says:

Hatching season is just around the corner and hens for breeding pens should be selected now. Those doing the year-around system of culling have their four-banded hens, the very best of the flock, from which to choose. Methods of selecting are the same as with culling with special emphasis on vigor and vitality. The breeders should be true to type, without standard disqualifications, of good body size and in the best of health and condition.

Examination of this year's records should tell you a lot about your poultry business. It will tell you where your expenses have gone and where your receipts have come from. By studying it you should find some of your weaknesses. Ask yourself these questions: Have you made the profit you should, about $1 per hen? If not, why not? Were your receipts too low, or your expenses too high? Was your egg production up to standard, and was the production well scattered over the entire year or bunched in the season of low prices? How many culls did you remove from the flock, or did you keep the loafer hens? What per cent mortality did you have? Was it high, and if so, why? Does the inventory show an increase or a decrease in the value of your business? Finally, how can you improve your business next year?

These questions can be answered if you will analyze your record. Your county or home demonstration agent will be glad to go over your records with you and advise ways of increasing your profits.

September thus witnessed a doubling of the number of silos in the county.

In Fisher county 23 cows in demonstration herds have produced fat for 21.4 cents per pound. Sudan grass pasture lowered the cost 5.3 cents per pound and increased the profit $1.25 per head.

SWEET CLOVER A SUCCESS ON ELLIS COUNTY FARMS

MIDLOTHIAN.—Sweet clover pasture increased the milk flow from 17 cows 125 pounds per day within 10 days of the time J. P. Ballew, Ellis county farmer, turned the cows in for grazing. This 15-acre patch of second-year clover pastured 21 head of beef yearlings for 23 days in February; 22 head of milk cows every night until July 10; 14 head of work stock one month; and 200 head of sheep at various times. In spite of this the clover has seeded out about waist high.

Mr. Ballew believes in this crop for pasture, hay and soil building, and declares every one of his 640 acres has had clover growing on it one time or another. He has baled one ton of hay per acre on meadow clover, and recently harvested 15½ bushels of wheat per acre from old clover land. Old cotton land adjoining made 13 bushels of wheat per acre. He will have 85 acres of second-year sweet clover next year.

Another clover enthusiast reported by W.M. Love, county agent, is L. C. Parks of Ennis. From a patch sowed in February he has cut two tons per acre of good hay, and on 4½ acres pastured 15 head of stock continuously from April 1 to July 20.

NEW MARKETING PLAN IS OFFERED FOR CONSIDERATION

A plan for starting a marketing system for the irrigated valley's products was submitted to the Junior chamber of commerce last week by G. A. Remington, general manager of the water districts. A committee has been named to consider the plan and perhaps to recommend means for putting into effect.

Mr. Remington favors a simple form of marketing association as a starter. His plan contemplates the employment of a well qualified man to bring buyers and producers together. Such a man would have the task of keeping not only local buyers, but those from other points, in contact with truck raisers. More and more of the valley's products are being sold to the communities west of Wichita Falls. Truck operators from those points drive to Wichita Falls and obtain truck loads of melons and other products which are sold at various Panhandle and Plains points. Mr. Remington believes that this phase of valley marketing can be systematized and developed.

WARDROBE CONTEST IS ANNOUNCED

COLLEGE STATION.—So successful in economically planning and maintaining wardrobes were the 195 home demonstration club women who acted as demonstrators in 25 Texas counties last year that the extension service announces a state-wide wardrobe contest, believed to be the first in the United States, open to home demonstration club women everywhere. It will be supervised by the home agents aided by Mrs. Dora R. Barnes, extension clothing specialist, who explains that last year the wardrobe demonstrators budgeted the clothing for a single individual or for the entire family according to the financial status of the family and the needs and tastes of the individual.

"It's a big job to clothe a family on a small amount of money if the various members are to be adequately and appropriately dressed," says Mrs. Barnes. "In our extension clothing work we are bringing practical aid to the farm homemaker in this clothing task, and the contest idea is designed to make the work more interesting. Essential factors in the work are the careful planning of the wardrobe in relation to money available; keeping complete records of costs and of each garment; the study of line, color and quality in relation to the wearer; and suitable arrangements for storing and caring for clothes, hats, shoes and accessories."

The new contest calls for preliminary exhibits in the counties with the state finals at A. & M. college in July 1931. The five qualifications for entry are: A wardrobe book and records of year's work; adequate storage space; pictures of storage space before and after improvement; a good foundation dress pattern and dress made from the pattern; and a narrative of the work done and wardrobe budget showing purchases planned and approximate cost. The scoring will be made on the basis of: Record 30 per cent; narrative 10 per cent; picture 10 per cent; pattern 10 per cent; and dress 40 per cent.

YEAR 'ROUND GARDEN MAKES SUBSTANTIAL PROFIT

CAMERON—With an average of six different vegetables for her table every day since March, and with an estimated net profit of $70.35 from produce canned, sold and eaten, Mrs. Floyd Lewis, special year-round garden demonstrator at Corinth in Milam county confidently asserts that gardens pay. She has canned 199 containers of food valued at $57.75, and has sold or eaten $36 worth. She says her total cost of production has been only $23.40.

Working with the assistance of Miss Minnie Bartholomew, home demonstration agent, Mrs. Lewis plowed her garden thoroughly, applied four loads of manure, and cultivated eight times during the season. Of the 20 varieties of vegetables grown, one was new to her, and this was New Zealand spinach, a hot weather green that she says is very good.

A commercial orchard can pay profits in the Hill country, Felix Kneese of Gillespie county thinks, and he points to a sale of $3,000 worth of fruit this year in proof. Proper pruning and thorough cultivation gives him high quality fruit which averaged him 50 cents per bushel above ordinary prices last year.

Up in Rockwall county B. H. Branch planted 1.2 acres to Bermuda onions last spring. He had all kinds of hard luck, got 'em too far apart, had a gully overflow on them, and didn't use enough plants per acre. But the county agent says 121½ crates were sold for $151.25 and that the expense came to $56.35 which is $80.33 net per acre.

EXCEPTIONAL PROFIT FROM SWEET CORN

VICTORIA.—Golden bantam sweet corn planted as a 15-acre demonstration field by J. E. Henry, Victoria county farmer living at Nursery, has yielded 1,505 bushel hampers that were shipped in car load lots to northern markets for a net profit of $1,205.50, or $80.44 per acre, according to H. B. Ross, county agent.

The corn was planted April 9 on light sandy soil with 100 pounds per acre of 4-8-4 fertilizer, and side dressed when knee high with 100 pounds per acre of a high nitrogenous fertilizer. Due to cut and bud worms and a hail storm, the stand was only fair. Shipments started June 13 and ended June 23. The expense items listed include $75 for fertilizer; $37.50 for seed; $75 for rent of land; team and man labor $10.90; and harvesting and packing $100.

PRODUCES BUTTER FAT AT FEED COST OF 11.3 CENTS

CUERO.—Producing butterfat for 11.3 cents per pound feed cost, 11 Jersey cows belonging to O. C. Fitzhenry, dairy demonstrator of Yoakum, paid him $127.80 above feed cost in June or 77 cents per hour for their care. "Good cows, a home mixed ration supplemented with sudan pasture and green corn tops, and plenty of clean, fresh water to drink explains the record," says J. A. Oswalt, county agent.

CATTLE SELF FEEDER SYSTEM WORKS WELL

ROBSTOWN.—Feeding 70 beef yearlings entirely by self feeder, R. B. Humphries, Nueces county farmer, has received five cents per bundle or $40 per acre from hegari fed, and $1 per bushel or $40 per acre from corn in a demonstration supervised by F. W. Hoepfner, county agent. The ration consisted of ground hegari bundles concentrated with ear corn and cottonseed meal mixed in proper proportions in the self feeders. Mr. Humphries plans to feed 150 head in this manner this fall. About 20 farmers are expected to feed out 5,000 head of cattle this winter in Nueces county as compared to 10 men who fed 2,600 head last year.

Not so far from there, in Llano county, it's Chinese red cowpeas that get the praise from two crop demonstrators. Early maturity puts them ahead of the summer drouth, and their upright growth makes them easy to cut and cure for hay, these men say. One of them declares these peas the best he has ever planted and while he doesn't know the yield, says they'll run more hogs per acre than whippoorwills.

They're drilling deep for oil on A. Gulden's place in Tom Green county, but it's alfalfa yields he talks about and not oil. From five and one-half acres in a demonstration started in April 1929 he has cut and baled 875 bales which he says is worth 50 cents per bale.

DAIRYMEN URGED TO STUDY FEEDING NEEDS IN OCTOBER

Special attention to feeding is urged as the chief October duty of dairymen, in the extension service calendar for dairy demonstration herds. The October calendar says:

Some cows will be freshening this month. See that they receive proper care. Separate them from the herd a few days before calving and watch out for milk fever. The young calf should receive its mother's milk for a few days, but should be weaned from its mother and fed milk from a bucket after the first few days.

Do not depend on old stalk and stubble fields for all the roughage the cows will get. See that they are supplied with all the good hay they will clean up.

Fresh cows should be given special attention. See that they get some green feed, the right amount of concentrates and that they have plenty of water in order that they may keep up a good flow of milk until winter pastures are available. This will help to maintain high milk production for a longer period of time.

Do not neglect to clean the yards and spread the manure on the fields. Weigh milk from each cow and record the weights daily.

MANY HARRIS COUNTY FARMS DRESSED UP

HOUSTON—Following the lead of 48 yard improvement demonstrators, Harris county home demonstration club women have just completed a program of rural beautification under the direction of Miss Opal Roberson, home demonstration agent. Trash and rubbish was cleaned out of 85 yards; seven houses were given new underpinning; fences were repaired or built new or gates added at 10 homes; walks or drives were properly laid out and built by 10 women; and 35 outhouses have been screened from view by the use of permanent vines and shrubs. Shade trees to the number of 574 were set out, and 3,986 permanent shrubs and 240 vines planted.

The work was made more interesting by doing it on the contest basis, with Mrs. E. M. Dunks of Huffman community winning among the woman, who made improvements for less than $25, and Mrs. A. H. Keefer of Tomball community leading the contestants who spent more than $25 for their improvements.
