Garner Plans 'Front Porch' Campaign For Presidency

THREE-POWER PACT HITS SNAG

Vice President Highly Pleased With Outlook

He'll Return At End Of Congress To His Home In Uvalde

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—Vice President Garner was reported authoritatively today to be planning a "front porch" campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1940.

Garner's close friends said he had no thought of making public appearences before the party's national convention early next summer. They added he already has turned down numerous invitations to speak and to attend public functions.

Neither is he expected to issue political statements during the months before the convention. He was described by associates as believing there should be no elaboration of published reports he would seek the presidential nomination even if President Roosevelt should try for a third term.

Coming Back to Texas Home

The Vice President will return to his Uvalde, Texas, home immediately after adjournment of Congress. There, his intimates said, he will receive any party leaders who wish to call on him, voicing his views on national issues and Democratic strategy for the next campaign. First, however, he will go on a fishing trip in his auto trailer.

All details of the campaign for the nomination will be left in the hands of E. B. Germany, Texas Democratic chairman. Germany will be free to discuss Garner's candidacy publicly, it was reported, and may confer frequently with the Vice President during the congressional recess.

Garner's associates said he was highly pleased with results of a mail campaign now being carried on by Germany.

When the recipient of a letter replies he favors Garner for the presidency, he is asked to solicit five friends in Garner's behalf.

England Target Of Jap Demonstration

TOKYO, July 31 (AP)—Fifteen thousand Japanese gathered in front of the British embassy today after two mass meetings in which speakers accused Great Britain of refusing to live up to the spirit of her agreement on Japanese right-of-way in occupied portions of China.

The demonstration, similar to that put on by a much larger crowd July 14 on the eve of the British-Japanese conference to settle the Tientsin dispute, followed week-end reports negotiators of that dispute were deadlocked anew.

(Informed quarters in London expressed fear the talks, in which Britain already had acknowledged "special requirements" for Japanese forces in territory under Japanese control in China, were headed for a breakdown.)

Germans Asked If U. S. Woman Held In Prison Camp

BERLIN, July 31 (AP)—The United States consulate general today asked the German secret police whether Mrs. Franz Lem, said to be an American citizen, is in the Dachau concentration camp as charged by her husband.

Lem, who is German, informed the United States embassy in Paris that his wife had been interned at ried on anti-Nazi propaganda. Lem Dachau on a charge of having carsaid his wife, formerly Lili Harrison, was born in New Orleans, April 10, 1914.

In his complaint to the Paris embassy Lem said that both he and his wife had been arrested but that he escaped Dachau July 19.

Lightning Causes Things To Happen In Ben's Bedroom

HUNTSVILLE, July 31 (AP)—Although J. Ben Robinson escaped with relatively slight injuries when lightning struck his house here, he said he did not care for any more such encounters with the elements.

The lightning entered the room through a window near which Robinson was sleeping, burning his hand and face. It also burned a hole in the bed-spread and mattress, melted the bed springs, burned a hole in a screen, burned out an electric fan, split the top of an oak table, set fire to the house, and split a post oak tree.

Five Suspects Held On Story By Hitch-Hiker

Quintet Makes Mistake In Dumping Him From Car

ABILENE, July 31 (AP)—Because they dumped out a hitchhiker at Sweetwater, five suspects were bound back to El Paso today to face hijacking charges.

The quintet—four men and a woman—was arrested here Friday night. Sweetwater police broadcast an alarm after a transient who said he had been riding with them reported the party was armed heavily and he believed they might be driving a stolen automobile.

Persons Identified.

Yesterday the prisoners were identified by K. Carnes, 27, as the bandits who attacked and robbed him last Thursday night. His head swathed in bandages, Carnes viewed the four men and said they beat him insensible and left him for dead on the outskirts of El Paso. Wounds in Carnes' scalp required more than 30 stitches. He said the robbers took $27 from his pockets.

Carnes came here with Harry Moore and Joe Neely, deputies in the El Paso sheriff's department.

Their fingerprints disclosed three of the prisoners were ex-convicts.

A fifth man in the party who gave Fort Worth as his home, was released Sunday evening after officers decided he had no connection with the case. He said he joined the others at Hobbs, N. M.

Deputy Sheriff Neely was due back today from Weatherford, where he had gone to secure custody of Harding, taken there to face a check swindling charge. Moore said they would leave for El Paso this afternoon.

All the prisoners but Harding first were released because no notice had been given they were wanted. Subsequently, Abilene police received a pickup order from El Paso. They found the suspects at a telegraph office awaiting a reply to a wire requesting money from friends.

Un-American Probe Will Be Resumed

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—The house committee on un-Americanism will begin hearings in about two weeks on what members described today as a "wealth of material" about Communist, Nazi and Fascist activities.

Committee agents have been at work since the house ordered continuance of the investigation into subversive activities. They were said to have been especially active in Detroit, Chicago and West Coast cities.

Members expressed doubt the committee would deal to any extent with operations of foreign spies in this country in view of the intensive spy-hunt being pressed by the Justice department.

Four Arrested In Sunday Raid On South Side

Four persons, two of whom had been served with a writ of temporary injunction Friday, were arrested in a raid by Texas highway patrol and county officers at 108 East Tyng at 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

Pearl Taylor, charged with sale of whisky in a wet area without a permit in a complaint filed in the court of Justice of the Peace E. F. Young on Sunday, and Ted Simms, charged with drunkenness, are still being held in county jail. Neither had been arraigned up to early this afternoon.

A woman who gave her name as Mildred Casey, was charged with vagrancy and was released on payment of a fine, as was a man who gave his name as J. M. Ketcham, of Borger, who had been charged with drunkenness, according to records in the sheriff's office.

In the complaint against Pearl Taylor, which was signed by Sam Fort, Pampa agent of the Texas Liquor Control board, it is alleged that on July 29, the day following the issuance of the writ of tem-

Price Tags Put On 2 Racketeers

NEW YORK, July 31 (AP)—One million circulars announcing a city reward of $5,000 for capture "dead or alive" of Louis (Lepke) Buchalter, New York's No. 1 fugitive racketeer, were ready today for nation-wide distribution.

The Federal government also has put a $5,000 price tag on the head of the big-nosed swarthy gang leader.

The circulars were printed as part of a concerted drive by Federal and state agencies for apprehension of Lepke, described by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey as "the most dangerous industrial racketeer in the United States."

The fugitive skipped $10,000 bail two years ago.

Dewey charged the Lepke mob with slaying five men and wounding two others in a "war of extermination" against former associates of the racketeer who knew too much about his activities.

3 Persons Drown In Rescue Attempt On Colorado River

McCOY, Colo., July 31 (AP)—Three persons were swept to death in the Colorado river near Glen Siding yesterday while trying to save a girl who was rescued by others.

The victims were Mrs. Ray Grill, 38, of Yampa, Colo.; her son, Virgil, 12; and William Klumpker, 35, of Toponas.

They went to the aid of Irma Shellmus of Yampa, a niece of Mrs. Grill, when she got beyond her depth in the river. They were dragged into the swift current and drowned.

Farmer Jailed In Slaying Of Kentucky Chief

Surrenders After Six Are Wounded During Siege

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 31 (AP)—Charles Allen, fugitive wealthy farmer of Cynthiana, Ky., was brought to the city jail today by a party of deputies and placed in custody without charges for temporary safeguarding.

Sought since Saturday night as slayer of George M. Dickey, 77-year-old police chief at Cynthiana, Allen telephoned Harrison county Sheriff Victor Ross from the home of a brother, Alvin Allen, in Jacksonville, Ky., today and offered to surrender if guaranteed protection.

A posse, led by Deputy Sheriff Harold McIlwain, left immediately for Jacksonville, a small settlement five or six miles out in the country, and arrested Allen. McIlwain said he did not have a gun with him when he surrendered.

Tells of All-Night Siege

Sheriff Ross said Allen told him he had fired only three shots Saturday night during the siege at the Allen farm in which six men were wounded slightly after the police chief had been killed. Allen hid Sunday in barns, the sheriff said, and made his way to his brother's place after nightfall.

Sheriff Ross said he would go to Lexington some time today and prefer charges against Allen.

"It probably wil be murder," he said, adding he would then have the prisoner transferred from the city jail to the Fayette county prison in Lexington.

Allen was besieged for hours Saturday night after the police chief was slain in front of the Allen place. The police had been called to investigate reports a young girl was being enticed into the Allen barn. Dickey, chief for 27 years, was shot in the back as he stepped backwards from the police automobile.

Republicans Fire On Lending Bill

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—Republicans made a determined Senate effort today to slash from $100,000,000 to $25,000,000 an authorization proposed in the lending bill for the export import bank.

With the adjournment-bent Senate moving slowly toward a final vote on the $1,640,000,000 measure, Senator Taft (R-Ohio), offered an amendment to cut the bank's authorization.

He quoted Jesse H. Jones, Federal Loan Administrator, as saying the bank would not need more than $125,000,000 in order to make all desirable loans. The institution, which aids in financing the sale of American products abroad, previously has received a $100,000,000 authorization and the lending bill would raise the total to $200,000,000.

Charges NLRB Partial To AFL

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—A CIO spokesman charged the Labor Relations Board with partiality for the AFL today—reversing the oft-sounded AFL complaint of pro-CIO bias.

Mervyn Rathbone of New York, president of the CIO's American Communication's Association, testifying against proposed amendments to the Wagner labor act, told a Senate subcommittee his union's experiences with the labor board "in those instances where an AFL union was involved has not been particularly happy."

"The board," he said, has "leaned so far backwards in an effort to be fair to the AFL that in some instances it has actually showed pro-AFL bias."

O'Daniel Invited To See Panhandle

AMARILLO, July 31. (AP)—Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel was urged today by a cowman to get out in the field and see at first hand a section of the state "with almost unlimited possibilities of industrialization"—the Panhandle.

George E. Nance, president of the Panhandle Hereford Breeders Association, invited the governor to join a tour of Panhandle hereford herds to be sponsored by the association Aug. 9, 10 and 11 and promised him, as a special inducement, tours of the plains gas and oil fields on the side.

Nance also invited J. E. McDonald, state commissioner of agriculture, and Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, to join the tour. Roosevelt owns a hereford herd.

K. of C. Chaplain Urges Religious Instruction

Importance of religious training in the schools was the theme of an address by Rev. Patrick J. Haggerty, state chaplain of the Knights of Columbus and president of St. Edward's university, Austin, at an inter-council breakfast held Sunday morning at the Schneider hotel.

The breakfast followed Holy Communion at 8 o'clock yesterday morning at Holy Souls church, when mass was celebrated by the Most Rev. Robert E. Lucey, bishop of Amarillo. The communion and breakfast were sponsored by Pampa council 2767. It was the first inter-council ceremony of its kind to be sponsored by the local council.

First Schools Christian.

Rev. Haggerty said that for the first 50 years of public education in this country, instruction was entirely by Christian schools and during the first century from the founding of these schools, Christianity was taught along with reading, writing, and arithmetic.

This, he said, was based on the Constitution itself and the foundation of democracy rests upon the God-given rights of free speech, freedom of religion, and a free press, as a right guaranteed to every man.

About a hundred years ago religious instruction, the speaker stated, was separated from the public schools, based upon the principle that man, being a material being, religious training was not a concern of the state and the family or various Sunday schools could do that.

Half of U. S. Now Religious.

A federal survey of 1934, Rev. Haggerty said, showed that only 42 per cent of all citizens in the United States were affiliated with any religious organization.

Therefore, the speaker reasoned,

Interest Cut On FHA Home Loans

Families planning to borrow money for new homes on government-insured mortgages will get a lower interest rate beginning tomorrow.

Officials in Washington announced last night the maximum rate on FHA-insured mortgages for small homes would be cut from 5 per cent to 4½ per cent, and that the maximum rate on large-scale rental projects would be reduced from 4½ to 4 per cent. It does not apply to mortgages already insured.

Steward McDonald, housing administrator, said the new rates would extend to the public "the benefits of generally lower interest rates now prevailing in the money market."

Under the new rate, he said, a family could buy a home on terms as low as 10 per cent down and average monthly payments of $5.81 on each thousand dollars.

Voice From Ditch Baffles Crowd At Scene Of Accident

CHARLOTTE, N. C., July 31 (AP)—The crowd gathered at the scene of a bad automobile wreck here, and hampered the police in their rescue work.

A voice from the bottom of the ditch kept saying, "Hey up there, lemme out of here, I'm smothering."

The crowd got out of the way and tried to find out where that voice was coming from.

By the time the injured had been put in ambulances, the light finally dawned. It was a ventriloquist.

The ventriloquist was not identified, either. Slick, that fellow.

Guards Save Payroll From Train Robbers

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., July 31 (AP)—Railway mail guards aboard an Illinois Central train shot it out with three robbers near Dalrey today, wounding and capturing one and saving a $56,000 payroll destined for the army air field at Rantoul.

Driven off by a hail of bullets, two of the robbers escaped in a small black sedan.

The state highway police headquarters here reported a mail clerk was beaten on the head in the fight. The captured robber was taken into Champaign and sent to a hospital.

England And France Seek Russia's Aid

Mutual Assistance Treaty Aim Of Moscow Talks

LONDON, July 31 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain acknowledged before the house of commons today that definition of the term "indirect aggression" was the major snag holding up conclusion of the proposed British-French-Russian mutual assistance pact.

He made this disclosure in a foreign affairs debate a short time after he had announced Britain and France would send military missions to Moscow—probably this week—for staff talks.

"There is no secret," Chamberlain declared, "about the fact that the British government, the Soviet government and the French government combined have not yet been able to agree upon a definition satisfactory to all parties on the term indirect aggression although all three realize that indirect aggression might be just as dangerous as direct aggression and all three desire to find a satisfactory method of providing against it."

(By The Associated Press.)

Dispatch of joint British-French military missions to start immediate staff talks in Moscow was announced today in the house of commons.

Prime Minister Chamberlain said the military talks would proceed "side by side" with current three-power conversations aimed at bringing Soviet Russia into a mutual assistance pact with France and Britain.

In Moscow the Communist party newspaper, Pravda, said Russia was ready to help organize "a real peace front."

Anti-British demonstrations were staged outside Britain's Tokyo embassy amid growing reports of grave difficulties in British-Japanese negotiations for settling the Far-Eastern dispute between the two powers.

Informed London quarters feared the Tokyo talks, initiated after Japan imposed a blockade June 14 on the British and French concessions in Tientsin, were headed for a breakdown.

The negotiations were deadlocked over Japanese demands that Britain surrender about $3,888,000 de-

New Truck Law Effective Aug. 1

AUSTIN, July 31 (AP)—Commendations have outnumbered condemnations more than 20 to 1 on the railroad commission's action barring certain trucks from the highways Sundays and holidays, Jerry Sadler, commission member, reported today.

Sadler, who instigated the move which becomes effective tomorrow, said more than 100 letters and telegrams, mainly from rank and file citizens, automobile clubs and newspapers, had poured into his office since the announcement last week. Criticism has come only from a few trucking companies, he disclosed.

The order removed commercial trucks from main highways connecting populous cities between the hours of 8 a. m. to 10:30 p. m. Sundays and holidays with exception of those hauling perishable commodities. Sadler said he would recommend that trucks carrying newspapers also be exempted.

Houston Couple Beaten; Wife Dies

HOUSTON, July 31 (AP)—Beaten about the head, the body of a woman and her unconscious husband, identified by police as Mr. and Mrs. George Washington Treadway of Houston, were found in a trailer car on the outskirts of town today.

Police said the woman apparently had been beaten with a blunt instrument. The body was in bed.

Physicians said he had but a slight chance to recover.

Identification of the woman was established through a letter from a sister in San Antonio. The man was identified by a social security card. He had been employed as a grass cutter along a railroad right of way.

Living Room Work Discussed At HD Council

Seven communities were represented at the Gray County Council of Home Demonstration clubs which met in the office of Mrs. Julia E. Kelley Saturday afternoon.

Each club reported profitable programs on living room work, as making the living room a more comfortable and serviceable place has been a study of home demonstration work in eight communities in Gray county during the month of July. The council decided to have an educational exhibit at the Tri-State fair in Amarillo in September on properly arranged centers of the living room, such as study and reading centers.

Mrs. Billy Taylor of Wayside club, Council representative to A. and M. short course, outlined the entire trip which was filled in by club members who attended. Mrs. Walter Ehman of Laketon also discussed the address, "The Kind of Parent I Would Like to Be," stated that a parent must have a good understanding with their children, good companionship, confidence, and always be strict but fair with the child. Mrs. Jess Morris of Bell club discussed the theme of the short course, "Land Use Planning," which emphasized the fact that every acre should be made more productive.

Leona Lewis discussed the 4-H program stressing the fact that more responsibility should be given to 4-H members in the home and more recognition for the work accomplished. She outlined one important discussion given by Fred Scott of Dallas, "Living With Others." There are three kinds of people in the world, those who live off others, those who live for others, and those who live with others, she pointed out.

Mrs. H. H. Keahey and Mrs. Felix Stalls with Mrs. C. McKnight as alternate were elected to represent Gray county at the State Home Demonstration Association at Lubbock in September.

Those present included representatives from Bell, Bluebonnet, Kingsmill, Laketon, Sunflower, Wayside, and Wright.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By ALICIA HART
NEA Service Staff Writer

You've been a good girl about sticking to your diet, brushing your hair and keeping the polish on your nails. And you've really learned to put into practice the rules you've read about buying clothes to suit your type and figure. You're chic these days. Others think so, too, because they tell you.

However, are you quite sure that they have as high an opinion of your smartness after they have complimented you as they had before? Think carefully. If you never have learned to accept compliments charmingly, then the answer is no.

Chic or smartness, after all, has to do with you, your manners and mannerisms, as well as with your make-up and clothes. She who says, "Why, I can't imagine why you like this," when someone finishes telling her how nice her new hat is proclaims her lack of poise. And there's no chic without poise.

If you do not know how to accept compliments charmingly, it's high time you learned. Being brusk, almost to the point of rudeness, simply to cover up embarrassment, is a little sad but not exactly excusable.

The ideal way to get into the habit of accepting compliments, thus making the payer of them feel pretty good in return, is to practice with a member of your family or some good friend who won't think you're silly just because you want to correct a fault. Let her tell you how nice you look over and over until you can say, "Thanks so much. I'm so glad you think so—" without feeling embarrassed or looking it.

The only other method is to have two-way conversations with yourself while standing in front of a mirror. Each method will work if you stick to it, firm in your determination to be a poised individual who can look and act as graciously as you really are inside.

Doris Ann Davis Takes Active Part In Kickapoo Kamp

Miss Doris Ann Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mel Davis, 1117 N. Christine, took a prominent part in the Fiesta last week which climaxed the first month of the Kickapoo Kamp season in northern New Mexico.

Doris Ann contributed to the honors of her tribe, the Cherokees, by winning in tenniquoits and softball. The tribes had contests in fencing, archery, and ping-pong and each tribe competed in the sing-song and dramatic productions.

The horse show in which Doris Ann exhibited marked showmanship demonstrated the abilities of the girls in fancy and western riding.

Last week she was one of a group of girls who made an eight-mile trip by horseback up to the highest peak of the Sangre de Cristo mountains where they took part in snow sports and had a taste of winter sports in mid-July. Wild turkey and herds of elk were seen on the trail. Next week a pack trip will be made to an outpost in the mountains which has been established for overnight trips by the camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis were guests of the camp recently on their way back from Colorado.

MODERN MENUS

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Service Staff Writer

Even the plainest of garden truck can stand a few fancy touches now and then. Here's the way the folk in Northern Italy like cucumbers.

Fried Cucumbers

Cucumbers, salt, pepper, fine dry bread crumbs, beaten egg, fat.

Pare cucumbers. Cut into thick slices lengthwise. Wipe dry and season with salt and pepper. Roll in fine dry bread crumbs, then dip in beaten egg and roll again in bread crumbs.

Heat small amount of fat in large frying pan. Saute prepared cucumber slices until they are both tender and brown. Turn gently. Serve very hot.

Green Beans with Cheese
(Serves 4)

One pound string beans, 1-2 cup grated American cheese, 1 tablespoon butter, 1-4 cup rich top milk or light cream, salt and pepper, butter.

Cook beans, Drain, season and add cheese, butter and milk. Place in baking dish, dust with more cheese, dot with butter and place in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 10 minutes.

Onions and Tomatoes with Fried Eggs
(Serves 4)

Two large mild onions, 2 tablespoons butter, No. 2 can tomatoes or 5 fresh tomatoes, salt, pepper and bay leaf, 4 eggs.

Slice onions thin. Saute in butter until almost tender. If canned tomatoes are used, pour off some of the juice and add solid part to the onions. Fresh tomatoes should be peeled and cut in pieces. Season with salt and pepper. Add a very small piece of bay leaf and simmer until most of the liquid has evaporated. Fry eggs lightly in butter and serve on top of the tomato and onion mixture.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, July 31 (AP)—There were scattered strong spots in today's stock market but the list, as a whole, displayed considerable reluctance toward putting a rallying foot forward.

Price shifts in either direction were frequent throughout the generally drowsy proceedings.

Part of the hesitancy was attributed to possibility the lending battle in congress would postpone adjournment of the legislative body. Wall Street, it seems, is always a bit touchy until the lawmakers close up shop and go home and thus preclude passage of the bills which might not be to the liking of the financial district.

Business news continued encouraging, but some thought was given to the idea stocks may have filled the so-called gap between prices and the industrial upswing. Traders had no particular liking for affairs in the far East, although it was doubtful if foreign developments had any marked effect on speculative sentiment.

Western Union came to life and jumped more than a point to a new 1039 high, evidently responding to forecasts of expanding earnings. It eventually slipped from the top. Loft, recent spectacular performer, also turned active on the upside. Chrysler came back mildly after an early dip, as did U. S. Rubber.

Backward were General Motors, Bethlehem, Sears Roebuck, Westinghouse, American Smelting, Southern Pacific, Standard Oil of N. J., Du Pont, Johns-Manville, Eastman Kodak and U. S. Gypsum.

this means that the children of that portion of the population receive no Christian training either in school or at home.

Basis of the establishment of sectarian schools was the shadow of this trend cast years before, Rev. Haggerty explained.

Dictators Would Control Youth.

"The first step of any dictator is to eliminate religion by first getting control of youth," the state Knights of Columbus chaplain declared.

In the democracy of the United States there are today more than two million pupils trained in parochial schools, over 420,000 in high schools, and many thousands in universities, where religious training is a definite part of their education, the speaker said.

Bishop Stresses Civic Service.

Bishop Lucey summarized the address and said that the group communion and breakfast was a public act of worship, bringing a blessing to both the communicants and to the community.

"Be Ye Doers of the Word and Not Hearers Only" was the subject of the bishop's sermon delivered at the mass preceding the breakfast. In the sermon the bishop stressed the importance of all Christians in this modern world to be active in participating in civic, religious, and world affairs.

Laymen's Retreat Announced.

Other speakers at the breakfast were Rev. T. J. Drury of Amarillo, who announced a laymen's retreat to be held August 19-20 at Price Memorial college in Amarillo, and Charles K. Walsh of Wichita Falls, state deputy of the Knights of Columbus, who praised the work of the Amarillo diocese, in the state affairs of the organization. District Deputy J. A. Acker of Nazareth was another special guest at the breakfast.

Thomas Wade, past grand knight of the Pampa council, was toastmaster. Pampa, Amarillo, Nazareth, Hereford, and Umbarger councils were represented at the mass and the breakfast, with a total attendance of 76.

porary injunction, Pearl Taylor "did sell and deliver an alcoholic beverage containing alcohol in excess of four per cent by weight at 108 East Tyng."

A temporary injunction to restrain Pearl Taylor and Ted Simms from maintaining the South Side rooms (108 E. Tyng) as a place where liquor was allegedly kept and sold in violation of state law, was issued from the district clerk's office Friday morning and served by county officers that afternoon.

The defendants were cited to appear in 31st district court here on Sept. 20 and show cause why the temporary injunction should not be made permanent.

Under the writ, the defendants had a 10-day period in which to close the rooms. Following the raid Sunday morning, officers closed the place, county officers said.

Sheriff Cal Rose and Deputies Glenn Carruth, James F. Stewart, George A. Pope, and Texas Highway Patrolmen Captain Jim Line of Amarillo, Byron L. St. Clair and C. D. West of Pampa, were the officers making the raid Sunday morning.

Third Jury Begins Probe

NEW ORLEANS, July 31 (AP)—Grand jury inquiries into troubled Louisiana affairs mounted to three today with the first session of a special grand jury at Monroe to investigate alleged irregularities at Louisiana Training Institute, whose superintendent was recently dismissed.

Another official body, the Orleans Levee Board, was called into session here to look into the $449,000 payment to a local investment firm for work done on refunding bond issues in 1937.

Meanwhile there were so many Federal probers on the scene they were becoming cramped for space in quarters at the customs house and in the Federal building here. O. John Rogge, assistant attorney general, heads these investigators now looking into a half dozen unrelated varieties of alleged law violations.

A Federal grand jury working with him reconvened here today. The East Baton Rouge parish grand jury which has returned 45 indictments against ten persons met again at Baton Rouge with expectations of handing down further indictments before taking a two months vacation.

Grand Jury Asks Resignation Of LSU Supervisors

BATON ROUGE, La., July 31 (AP)—The East Baton Rouge parish grand jury recommended in a report to district court supervisors serving during the regime of Dr. James Monroe Smith, indicted former University president, resign immediately.

The grand jury reported it felt the supervisors had been negligent in their duties and that without this negligence the university would have been spared its current scandals.

Among the indictments already returned by the grand jury, L. P. Abernathy, resigned now as a board member and as chairman of the state highway commission, is the only board member under grand jury charge.

University alumni for weeks have been clamoring for mass board member resignations. Two members have resigned since the scandals broke and one other, Attorney General David M. Ellison, was replaced after he ruled himself as serving on the board illegally.

Those who resigned outright were Abernathy and T. S. Landry, general manager of the state penitentiary.

Cotton Loan Program Temporarily Halted

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—Federal farm officials indicated today the government will withhold announcement of a loan program for 1939 cotton as long as domestic prices remain at or near current levels.

Quotations on the domestic spot markets averaged 9.25 cents a pound last week end, or almost a cent a pound above the rate at which loans were made on last year's crop.

Loans will be held in reserve, officials said, as a price-bolstering measure should quotations begin to drop to near last year's loan rate. The government desires to avoid adding more cotton to loan stocks now totaling about 11,100,000 bales and representing an investment of about $550,000,000.

Lightning Fire Destroys Cotton At Eden Warehouse

The loss was estimated at $50,000. Burt Brewer, 16, was knocked down by the same bolt but he was not hurt. He was 300 feet away from the warehouse. A small fire in a residence five blocks away also was believed caused by the bolt.

A Thin Straw On Whirling Waters

In August, 1914, when war burst on an unaccustomed world, America scarcely believed the news from Europe. It was all so remote, so unreal. The newspapers spread their daily revelations like scenes in a hectic drama, and the first days of the World War unfolded like a play before a fascinated American audience.

We have had a lot of education since then. First, the world is changed, changed utterly from that prewar world that believed in the honor of the pledged word in international dealings as in personal affairs. Many people actually believed that a great nation which had solemnly pledged its word to respect the neutrality of a small neighbor would do so, even to its disadvantage.

We know better now. The war which began 25 years ago, and all the dealings since, have established the new international morality, that a nation does what its leaders conceive to be a good idea at the time, and every man now shares the astonishment of old Bethmann-Hollweg that a nation should insist on the validity of " a scrap of paper." Even Britain, which chose so to regard the guarantee of Belgium, is now revealed as less meticulous about Nine-Power pacts in the Pacific.

The United States knows now that when Europe brews war-broth it may well serve it piping hot at any time. We are serious about the European situation today, we study it as we never did in 1914, for we know that no stupidity, no blunder, no irresponsible and headlong course is too mad to be unthinkable in Europe.

That is why people incline to listen carefully when they learn of the New Federal Unionists, a group now forming to seek to advance the plan of a world-wide federation of democratic nations. It is a thin, small straw on the whirling waters of the world today, but many will grasp at it with the desperation of the drowning, for today we know what we did not know in 1914—the waters are deep and treacherous.

The idea would be to unite free nations in a union bound together by guaranteed civil liberties, mobile and united defense, stable money, an immense free trade area, and facile commerce and communications. Such a coalition would be so powerful economically and defensively, that it is felt others would wish to enter the union, which they would be welcome to do on meeting the conditions.

Perhaps it is a somewhat filmy dream, but it is to the credit of the world that people are still left in it who will not resign it to a dog-eat-dog future that can result in nothing but a new Dark Ages.

How far this movement will get, no one can say. But it is launched at a time when thoughts turn naturally back to August 1914, and review in sadness the results of the era launched in those dread days.

The Nation's Press

WHY?

(Commercial & Financial Chronicle)

Concluding an account of some of the more important of the large number of technological advances since 1929, "The Index," published by the New York Trust Co., remarks:

"As this list of some of the recent inventions and discoveries indicates, new economic frontiers are being created within the United States as the result of the genius and labors of scientists, inventors and research workers in private industry. While the geographical frontier has vanished from this country, it is possible that exploration of these new economic frontiers has only just begun. Their development may open up markets perhaps even vaster than those furnished by the settlement of the great geographical areas so important in the earlier industrial expansion of the United States. Just as the automobile and the radio, both products of invention and research, created new markets and furnished new employment in the recent past, other inventions and discoveries may give us industries with perhaps even greater potentialities.

"In addition, such inventions and discoveries pave the way for the improvement of established products through technological advances and the accompanying expansion of manufacturing facilities. Thus, great industries may arise where none existed, others will be able to produce more efficiently and cheaply, so that more people will be able to enjoy their products, more jobs will be furnished, and the standard of living advanced. That is the road upon which the United States has always progressed."

Why, then, with all these opportunities knocking at the door, is it necessary for us to contemplate an almost undiminished army of unemployed and to record the continuance of depressed conditions in industry and trade generally?

The long list of inventions, discoveries, improvements in production, and more effective organization for getting needed work done is ample refutation of the foolish charge sometimes made that industry is "on strike." It likewise demolishes the equally silly insinuation heard here and there that the American businessman has lost his ingenuity and his initiative.

The truth of the matter is that the best that technology has been able to do (and its progress in some respects is almost incredible) has succeeded in only partially offsetting the higher labor and tax costs (particularly in relation to prices obtainable for products) foisted upon industry by the politicians, and that economic visibility, so to speak, has been reduced almost to zero by the same politicians.

Our problems of the day unfortunately have much more to do with the establishment of economic statesmanship at Washington than with the ordinary processes of business.

Sharing The Comforts Of Life - - -

MONOPOLY COMMITTEE'S OPINIONS

It becomes more and more evident that the so-called Federal monopoly committee is simply a committee of propaganda. They give opinions without giving any evidence. As an example of opinions the committee has stated, "Yet, with resources of man and materials all together adequate to attain the objectives desired by all and to furnish plenty for all, the oppressive fact remains that the economic machine is stalled on dead center."

There never has been evidence submitted by anyone to show that we have resources of men and materials adequate to supply plenty for all of beauty, health, safety, comfort, entertainment, let alone understanding.

This statement of plenty for all is one that has done as much to spread poverty, misery and suffering as any other statement ever made. When people actually believe there can be plenty for everyone, then they naturally believe someone is responsible for their not having everything they want. This causes laws to be made which interfere with production.

It probably is true that we could supply standardized foods and shelter for the present size population, if people were content to live as animals and had no desire for leisure and the finer things of life. We could supply only the very necessities, provided the population did not increase too rapily. And it is an old law of nature that what does not increase decreases. And if the lawmakers think they have a right to legislate so that posterity cannot survive, they are Pagans of the worst kind. Nature intended people to multiply and replenish the earth and when we violate that law, we suffer.

More Unfilled Wants Than Ever

As this column has repeatedly said, there never was a time in all history when there were so many unfilled wants as there are at present. The difference between our ability to supply our wants and our wants are now greater than they ever have been, in spite of the report of the so-called Monopoly Committee. It is evident that the report is nothing but a proposition to sell covetousness, envy and hate in our country, as an excuse for the Administration which has failed to bring about the prosperous conditions promised.

ROOSEVELT'S KNOWLEDGE OF THE SCIENCE OF GOVERNMENT

A contributor, after he has pointed out that the New Deal and President Roosevelt are equally anathematic to the writer of "Sharing the Comforts," sarcastically says, "He (Sharing Comforts editor) knows more of the science of government than Mr. Roosevelt."

I, of course, do not know what Mr. Roosevelt knows about the science of government. I admit that it is an anathema to me to have the New Deal paying about $1,000,000,000 for silver that is not needed. I admit that it is an anathema to me to have the President have the power to change the measure of value of monies at his will. I admit that it is an anathema to me to have the New Deal endow workers in foreign lands by selling them wheat at 20 cents a bushel less than they permit it to be sold to their own workers. I admit that it is an anathema to me to have the government buy millions of bales of cotton and sell it abroad at less than we sell it to our own men for clothes. I admit that it is an anathema to me to have the appointees of the government be the judge of what workers should associate together. I admit it is an anathema to me to have the government say that the slow worker does not have a right to have a job unless he can sell his services at a higher rate per unit of production than the fast worker.

If these things are Roosevelt's idea of the science of government or the science of production I have little respect for him—no matter whether he is president of the United States or not. I am not a Charley McCarthy. I do not think I have to believe things because the president of the United States thinks we can have more by limiting production, paying people for not producing and trying to establish arbitrary prices. I believe in a free competitive system. I believe that everybody should have equal rights before the law; that liberty should not be for a few but for everybody that liberty does not mean, however, that people should get things they do not produce, but they should have the right to enter any kind of a business they choose to enter.

Behind The News Of The Day

By BRUCE CATTON

WASHINGTON, July 21.—If you like to worry over the unaccountable vagaries of the stork, you should drop in at the Department of Agriculture some time and have a chat with Dr. Conrad Taeuber, expert of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Dr. Taeuber has been keeping tabs on the stork for some years now, and he finds that the bird has been doing some odd things to the vital statistics of the United States.

For instance: the 627 counties where the population is increasing the fastest happen also to be the 627 counties which are most generally poverty-stricken and down at the heel . . . the white collar class would soon vanish entirely if it didn't keep getting recruits; its reproductive rate is the lowest of any class in the population . . . all of America's large cities would speedily decline if they didn't keep getting "immigrants" from the farm.

The bureau has figured out a complicated way of measuring population growth rates. It has found that if, in any city, there are as many as 440 children under 5 years of age per 1,000 women between the ages of 20 and 44, the city is just holding its own. If it has fewer than that 440-per-1,000 total, its population is declining. If it has more, its population is increasing.

Population Trends

Bearing that in mind, consider these figures on American population trends.

For urban areas in general, the figure is 384; for rural areas, 686. For cities of more than 10,000 inhabitants it is 342; for cities under the 10,000 mark it is 464. For farms, it is 751; for native-born whites in the country, as a whole, it is 503.

A number of the richest and most populous states are under the 440 mark. These include New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, California, Oregan, Washington, and all of the New England states.

In five cities of better than 100,000 population—Albany, Richmond, Seattle, Oakland, and San Francisco—the death rate went above the birth-rate in 1935-36; the same was true of 150 towns of less than 10,000 population and of 106 cities in the 10,000-100,000 population group.

Yet the population of the country as a whole continues to increase. In fact, the birth rate went up slightly in 1937 and 1938, and the death rate went down. But the births are taking place predominantly on the farms, and not in the cities; predominantly among the poor and not among the well-off.

The farm population rose by 220,000 last year, and now stands at slightly better than 32,000,000. This is entirely due to the birth rate; the "back-to-the-farm" movement ceased seven years ago, and ever since the worst depression year, 1932, more people have moved from farm to city each year than from city to farm.

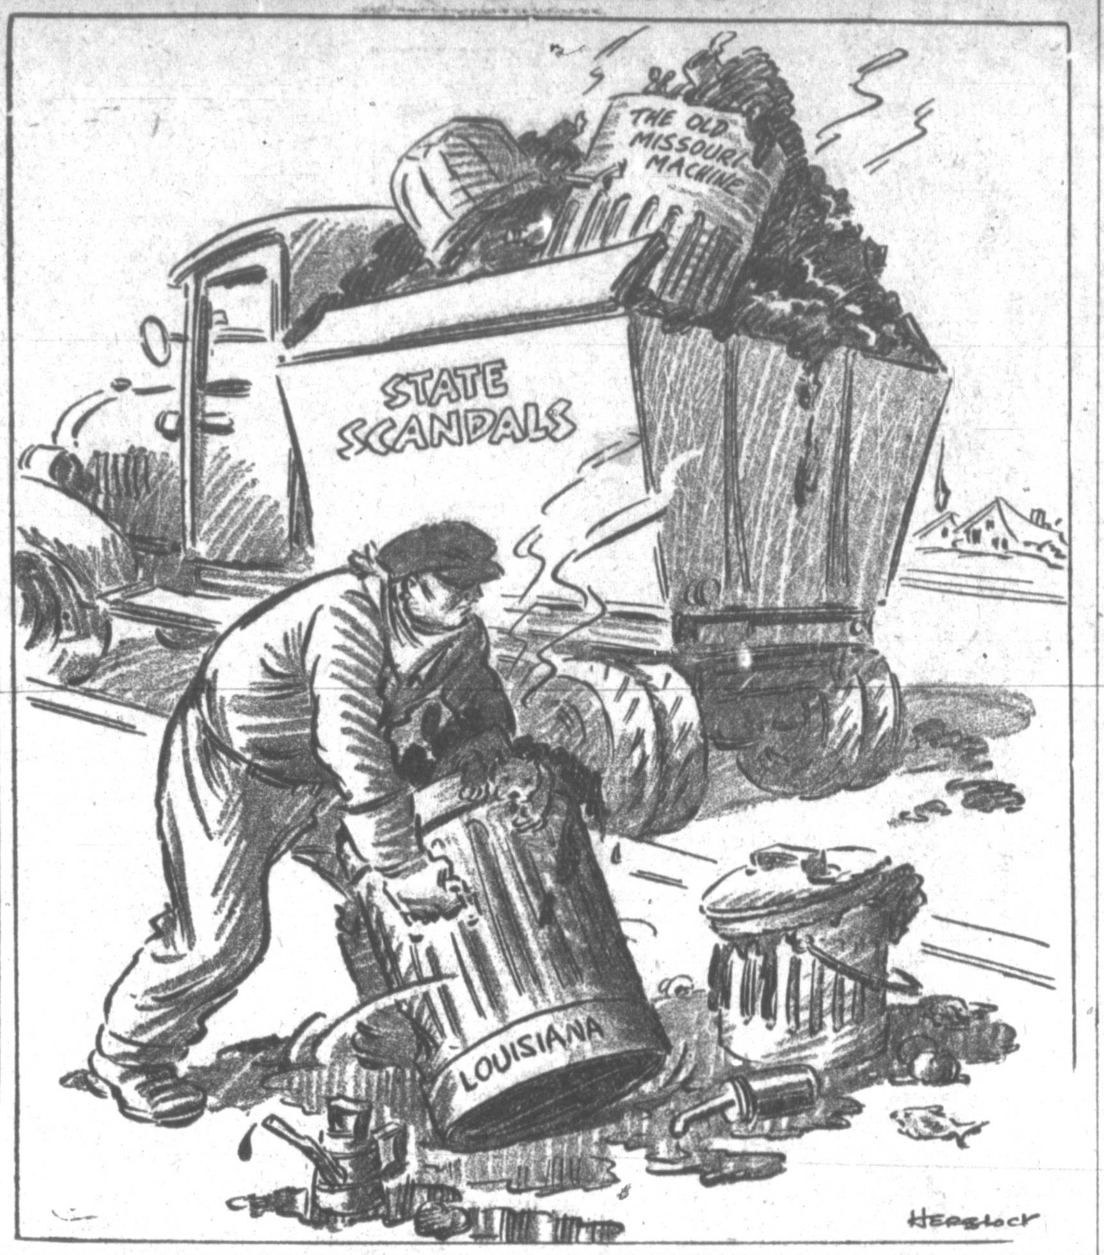
Eugenically, the fact that the poorest counties have the highest birth rate doesn't worry Dr. Taeuber much; the human stock in those areas is plenty good enough. The trouble, as he sees it, is that it is precisely in those areas where most children are being born that the outlook for children tends to be worst.

Schools are few and poor, economic opportunities are scanty. Moreover, a youth growing up in those areas has much more difficulty getting away to a city job than does the youth reared in a more wealthy region.

In general, then, the cities tend to draw young people from the richer rural areas rather than from the poorer ones—which, often enough, have more people than they can support and could profitably send some away.

In a rich farming area, a boy who wants to be a farmer has to have some capital equipment; lacking it, he is likely to head town-wards and look for a job. In a poorer area this isn't true; he can start his farming career as a share-cropper without capital.

NOT MUCH OF AN AD FOR 'STATE RIGHTS'



Around Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS.

HOLLYWOOD — It was something to see: Jack Crosby's streamlined, stalward six-feet-two undulating and swinging in his own version of the hula.

It came about this way. The girl from Hawaii, the Princess Luana (or "Miss Honolulu" when she first came from the islands), was leading 40 grass-skirted chorines in the dance. It was for a thing called "Hawaiian Nights" and I guess it was important. Jack Crosby, who is the dance director and no relation to Bing although he worked on the step-stuff in Bing's "The Star-Maker," thought it was important anyway.

He kept calling, "Put some fire into it! No, no, not! It can't be a regular hula! It's got to be modern! Swing it—with action That's it, SWING it"

Hula in swingtime, eh—and for the first time on any screen Well, that's interesting. Luana and the gals seemed to think so too. Launa halted, at last, to find out how.

"You tell me—I do," she told Crosby.

"I can't tell you," said Jack "but I'll show you."

And he did, and it was (as above reported) something to see. He looked more like a graceful dinosaur than a dance director. The gals—and Luana—looked and then they had their turn to swing it, that's it, SWING it!

Dance directors seldom start out deliberately to be dance directors. LeRoy Prinz, for instance, craved adventure, found it in the Foreign Legion, later in the air during the World War, before settling down to step-metering. Bushy Berkeley, who still can't dance, was an actor first. Jack Crosby was several other things—railroad fireman, miner and cowpuncher and boxer—before he began getting others to follow in his steps.

He had a premonition of what was to come, however. He sensed rhythm, he says, in many things before he knew it would be his life work. Rhythm in the swing of the shovel and pick; rhythm in the choo - choo of the choo - choos, rhythm on the range where he rode herd. And when he took up boxing, where footwork counted—

A vaudeville agent saw him sparring, saw his footwork, saw him as a dancer, signed him up. For six years Crosby hoofed, and hoofed his way finally to Hollywood, where LeRoy Prinz found him and added him to his staff. Fairly recently he has branched out on his own.

But he doesn't dance weekends. Six years ago he married Irene Winder, who like the hunt and fish and golf as much as he does. They live on a valley ranch—and when they can't get away outdoors they follow the popular valley custom (inaugurated, perhaps, by Edward Everett Horton) of adding more rooms to their house.

About that "swingtime hula," he says: "Hollywood won't stand for any rhythm done in the formula of yesterday. It may be an old tune, but it has to be the dance of tomorrow—or no go."

The Family Doctor

Dr. Morris Fishbein

Occasionally an anonymous letter from one of our readers brings up a question which has general interest. For instance, a correspondent from Pittsburgh says

"What causes the nails on the toes to become so hard that I can hardly cut them? They seem to lap one layer over another and then turn almost around and get like a corn. I have tried everything, including sheep suet, olive oil, and all to no avail."

An overgrowth of the finger or toenails is called onychauxis. When the nail gets bent or curved, the condition is called anychogryphosis. Such a condition can be brought about through a variety of causes, including not only chronic diseases affecting the body as a whole, but also irritation from wearing the wrong kind of shoes or socks. In these conditions, the nail is usually thickened at the free end, becomes dark in color, may grow down or turn upward or to one side.

Moreover, the nail substance is hard and is cut with difficulty. Usually the toenail of the big toe is the one first affected. Doctors do not usually advise complete removal of the toe nail in order to take care of this condition. Indeed, the use of frequent hot bathing, with the addition of plenty of soap and water, will soften the nail so that it will be easily cut or filed down.

Simple removal of the nail plate will merely result in the growth of another hard nail from the nail plate. Complete removal of a toenail is a serious performance, and sometimes is worse than the condition of which the writer complains.

People who have eczema or psoriasis or any of the common skin diseases frequently have trouble with the nails in association with such conditions. An actual inflammation or injection around the nails is more serious than a slight hardening or overgrowth. When such an infection is combined with overgrowth, one of the first steps should be the removal of the excess of nail substance.

It is possible for a physician familiar with such conditions to prescribe a solution or ointments which will soften the tissue and remove the excess. However, all of these ointments are themselves capable of destroying tissue and should not be used except under the doctor's direction.

In cutting the nails a clipper is preferable to either a curved or straight scissors, because with the clipper it is possible to remove exactly the amount of tissue that is required and not leave roughened edges.

Italy is utilizing menthane or marsh gas as a gasoline substitute. Fifteen hundred omnibuses use the fuel.

Tex's Topics

By Tex DeWeese

The No. 1 idea of the summer is that of Thomas E. Pratt, retired railroader of Palmyra, Mo. His idea of retirement is to loaf, and nobody can quarrel with that . . . But where Pratt has it on the rest of the loafers is this: he went to work and fitted up a downtown office in which to do his loafing. He fitted it up with a desk, papers, filing cabinets full of old pictures and mementoes, and a jug of drinking water. There he sits, seven hours a day, loafing.

* * *

When old friends want to loaf with him, they come to his office and loaf. They don't bother people who want to work. They don't get under their wives' feet. They just loaf.

* * *

The trouble with loafers is that they get in the hair of people who are working. By setting up an office specifically and exclusively devoted to loafing, Thomas Pratt has done his share toward solving one of the world's greatest problems, and should be awarded some kind of a medal, preferably made of solid gold.

We Americans usually take pride in our skill and familiarity with our automobiles. But nevertheless, J. Stannard Baker, traffic safety consultant for the National Safety Council, thinks most of us are "hams" at the wheel.

* * *

We never really learn the principles of driving a car, he says. We just pick it up "by ear," from what we note others doing . . . The result: drivers who fail to get into the proper lane before turning, drivers who straddle lanes and pay no attention to the rights of others, drivers who zoom out of parking position at the curb without looking to see who is coming up behind, drivers who gabble with others in the car, fail to watch the road, and fail to signal with any decisiveness, drivers who disregard the first and simplest principles of operating an automobile.

* * *

Have you been driving a car for 20 years, and do you think you know all about it? Maybe you're a ham driver, at that . . . Even long-experienced drivers would do well to check themselves once in a while for disregard of the basic principles that must be observed if the streets and roads are to be safe.

Man Arrested On Extortion Charge

BROWNWOOD, July 31 (AP)—Tom V. Wilson, 28, of Comanche, was charged here yesterday with attempted extortion in connection with a letter received by J. M. Siddons, Stephenville auto parts dealer, which demanded $2,500 on threat of blowing up Siddon's store.

Depties Chester Avinger and Howard Becker of Brownwood arrested Wilson Saturday night. Sheriff Jack Hallmark of Brownwood said Wilson, a former employe of Siddons, had made a signed statement.

The sheriff said an arrest in the case was made at a cross-marked spot on highway 84, ten miles east of here between Brownwood and Zephyr, where a dummy package had been left as a trap.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Tombstone, the Town "Too Tough to Die"

WHEN Ed Schieffelin rode alone into the hills of southern Arizona, one day in 1879, the warning of friends still echoed in his ears:

"The stone you'll find will be your tombstone!"

But Schieffelin refused to let even the threat of murderous Apaches halt his search for stones—silver stones.

He found them—a little pile of silver nuggets—between the bleached skeletons of two other prospectors. Nearby he discovered a ledge rich in the metal.

He called his claim "Tombstone," and around it grew a city—"the town too tough to die." In its heyday, around 1881, Tombstone was the "roaringest" of the roaring mining camps, the livest city between the Mississippi and the Pacific. And while the town didn't die, a good many of its 15,000 residents did, many by bullets, a few by hanging.

Money and liquor, gambling and gun fights—by these Tombstone built its reputation. When the silver market collapsed, life grew calmer.

Tombstone is still alive. Although its population has dwindled to 1000, and 60-year-old empty buildings line its streets, it still retains the atmosphere of the past, and tourists peer into its vacant saloons, its deserted theaters.

Ed Schieffelin is buried in Tombstone, near the site of his first claim.

Texas Woman Slain In California Park

LONG BEACH, Calif., July 31. (AP)—Mrs. J. K. Kinikin identified the bullet-riddled body of a woman found in Bixby park Saturday night as that of her aunt, Mrs. Mamie Moore, 47, who, the niece said, came to California from Denison, Texas, eight months ago after the death of her husband.

"Why did he do it?" screamed Mrs. Kinikin, falling in a faint.

Police began a hunt for a man Mrs. Kinikin said had been keeping company with Mrs. Moore.

Three bullets had pierced Mrs. Moore's left breast, another smashed a finger and a fifth grazed her abdomen. Police said three marks on Mrs. Moore's arm might have been made with an ice pick.

Last week in this column it was pointed out that the high price and low yield of the government bonds presented an unstable market situation which is more than likely to require correction, especially if the supply of bonds continues to increase under a deficit financing policy. Continued large additions to the supply must, at some time, strain the market capacity, or willingness, to absorb the bonds on the current yield basis. In other words, there must come a day of readjustment for the price yield structure of the federal debt. What will happen when that day comes?

The answer depends on what the government does at that time. If it does nothing at all, there will be a more or less acute panic in the government bond market as the holders try to cut their losses by unloading. The burden of this loss would fall first on the present holders, including the shareholders of banks and insurance companies. Ultimately, the loss might extend to depositors and policy holders, respectively. There is a government guarantee of bank deposits, and if the loss in the value of an important class of bank assets should lead to losses by depositors, the government would have to sell more bonds in a demoralized market. This does not make a very pleasant prospect.

On the other hand, there might be some sort of government action, and in all probability there would be. At least three different options would be presented. These are: 1) open market operations by the Treasury and the reserve banks to support bond prices; 2) redemption of the bonds from any distressed or alarmed holder in paper money; 3) upward conversion of the debt to a higher interest basis. Each of these steps involves its own peculiar difficulties and some of them involve positive drawbacks. In this and succeeding articles the various options will be examined briefly.

The third option mentioned above, namely refunding at higher interest rates, is the most logical, but also the most unlikely, step. It is the most logical step because it would be a recognition of the fact that the current rates are no longer justified. For some years the capital market has been an abnormal one, since there has been a great accumulation of idle funds and little or no demand for these funds from private enterprise. It has been, therefore, a borrower's market, in which the government has been able to offer very low rates and yet float very large issues. Such a condition is not certain to last indefinitely, and when it ends one result of the change will be a higher rate of interest. Conversion of the debt to a higher rate would be no more than a recognition of the fact that the days of easy money had come to an end.

Such a change would, of course, support the market price of the bonds. It would not necessarily be a permanent condition, for in any subsequent period of lower interest rates there could be a further revision downward, and any bonds issued should contain suitable call provisions that would enable the Treasury to take advantage of the new situation. It would mean higher interest cost for a time, but that additional cost would be offset by the fact that for some years the borrowing has been at abnormally low rates.

The principal obstacle to an upward refunding program would be the political one. Nobody loves a bondholder after he has bought the bonds, and nothing would be easier than to create great clamor and opposition against a proposal to refund any part of the debt at higher interest rates in order to prevent the market price of the bonds from falling. For this reason refunding of the sort described here is so unlikely that investors are not advised to expect it as the way out of the present dilemma.

Borger Gassers Open Series Here Tonight

Oilers Split Doubleheader With Clovis

The Borger Gassers will stage a home-coming in Pampa tonight when they come over for the first of three games with the Pampa Oilers who dropped a half-game into second place yesterday by dividing a twin bill with the Clovis Pioneers. The Oilers took the opening game 7 to 6 in 11 innings but dropped the nightcap, 3 to 2.

Tonight's game will be a home-coming for Al Summers, Gasser second baseman, and Preston (Army) Littrell, Gasser outfielder, both former Pampa players of the old semi-pro days. Then Choppy Spencer, Hack Wilson, and Buzz Ross will also be at home, they having been formerly with the Huber Blackfaces who played many a game at Road Runner park.

Tonight's game with the Gassers will be called at 8:30 o'clock. The Oilers and Gassers will also clash tomorrow night and on Wednesday night before the Oilers leave on a road trip to Clovis, Midland and Borger before returning home on August 11, with Borger again the opposition.

Harrison Glove Protested.

One of the largest Sunday crowds of the season was on hand yesterday when the Oilers and Pioneers divided. They saw base hits, stellar fielding, juicy errors and arguments galore as both teams rode the umpires unmercifully.

Many fans couldn't figure why Lloyd Summers protested to Umpire Enger regarding a glove being used by Harrison, Pioneer third baseman. The umpire started to throw the glove out of the game but Umpire Ethridge, who was umpire-in-chief of the game, ruled that Harrison could use it, so the game proceeded with much bickering.

Harrison's glove was equipped with a trap, which Summers declared was not only illegal but made the glove weigh too much. The trap used by Harrison was a heavy thong joining the thumb and first finger of the glove and protruding beyond the end of the glove. The rule book doesn't mention a thong or trap above the ordinary lacing joining the thumb and finger but it does specify that a fielder's glove shall not weight more than 10 ounces and measures not more than 14 inches around the palm.

'Little Dynamite' Hits.

"Little Dynamite" Eddie Guynes led the Oil attack yesterday, bagging three hits on five times at bat in the opening game and then adding two out of three in the nightcap.

The other Eddy of the team, Eddy Beavers, went into a batting slump over the week-end. He went to the plate 12 times and didn't get a ball out of the infield. He had only one walk. Beavers hit the ball every time at bat but just couldn't get the ball away.

Clovis drew first blood in the wild opener, scoring two in the first inning when Stone was safe on an error by Jordan and Wagner and Smith hit singles and one in the second on singles by Gorman and Barnhill with a stolen base in between.

Four hits, including Bailey's double, put the Oilers on par with the Pioneers in the fourth when Seitz, Summers and Guynes singled.

Grabek went temporarily wild in the first when he walked three and a sacrifice scored one. Then it was the Oilers turn to go ahead. Moss opened with a double and scored ahead of Seitz who hit one over the leftfield fence with plenty to spare.

Bailey Runs Bases.

The Oilers went two in the eighth when Bailey walked and went to second on an overthrow by Ratliff, Pioneer catcher. When the ball rolled into centerfield Bailey tore for third but when he got there Manager Grover Seitz, coaching on third, waved Bailey home. The play caught the Clovis team asleep and Bailey slid under the throw home. It was a beautiful piece of base running and was the play that really gave the Oilers a life later on because Clovis tied the count in the ninth.

Adkins fanned but Christi singled. Then Guynes bungled a perfect double play when he heaved Barnhill's hit wide of Moss. Stone was safe on a sacrafice when Barnhall slid into second as Jordan tried to get him. The play was close and the Oilers clustered around the umpire and protested loudly. Wagner then singled to score the tying runs.

Ratliff walked to open the tenth for Clovis but Grabek fanned Gorman and Adkins and forced Christi to fly out to Seitz who made a great running catch.

The Oilers appeared to have the game sewed up in the tenth when Summers opened with a walk and Guynes sacrificed. Bailey also drew a walk and then Pietras hit for Grabek and fanned after Beavers had flied out.

Vannoy went to the mound for the Oilers and set the Pioneers down in order.

Guynes Comes Through.

The eleventh saw the Oilers open with Moss drawing a walk. Jordan was safe when an attempt to get Moss at second fizzled. Seitz sacrificed the pair. Nell than fanned to make it two away. Summers drew a walk to fill the bases. The first two pitches to Guynes were balls. Then Christi got across a strike and then a ball. His next heave was a called strike. With the count three balls and two strikes on Guynes, the little shortstop hit a screaming single through short to score Moss with the winning run.

Following an erratic start, Frank Grabek pitched nice ball, fanning eight but walking four. He was taken out for a pinch hitter in the tenth and Vannoy went in and received credit for the win.

Christi threw slowballs at the Oilers until they were dizzy swinging at them. He was wild along with his baffling delivery, walking no less than nine. He whiffed six.

Wild Heave Costly.

Vannoy's wild heave of a sacrifice in the fourth paved the way for the Oilers' first loss in eight games. It was also Vannoy's first loss in his last 10 appearances on the mound.

The disastrous inning opened with Smith drawing a walk, Miller sacrificed but Vannoy heaved the ball over Bailey's head and into the foul territory along the the first base line. Smith scored and Miller went to third. Gorman then doubled and scored later on Barnhill's single.

The Oilers crowded two runs across in the fifth when Guynes doubled after Summers had gone out, Beavers went out and Bailey came through with a single. He stole second and scored on Vannoy's single.

An Oiler victory was on the sacks in the seventh but no run was forthcoming. The first two batters went out but Beavers drew a walk and Bailey singled. Vannoy hit to the pitcher to end the threat.

Lubbock jumped into the league lead, a half-game ahead of the Oilers yesterday by taking two games from Midland, 4 to 3 and 5 to 4. Lamesa trampled Big Spring 6 to 5 and 2 to 0 to stretch the Big Spring losing streak to 10 games. Amarillo and Borger divided as Borger took the opening game 8 to 2 and Amarillo came back to win the nightcap 7 to 6.

Six Ruffians To Climb In Wrestling Ring Here

Six stalwart sons of the mat will crawl through the ropes at the Pampa athletic arena at 8:30 o'clock tonight and when a gong sounds the six will tear at each other or gang one or two and they'll battle until only two are left. Then Referee John Nemanic will stop the affray and name the survivors to meet in a main event later in the evening.

Soon after the six clash one is going to get in the road of a wildly swinging fist or be unceremoniously placed under a heap of battling humanity, with his shoulder to the canvass, and that is when he is removed from the melee, leaving only five. Then another is going to get thrown from the ring, dumped or forced to holler quits. That is the pair who will return in a preliminary.

The battling will continue unmolested, excepting for the referee trying fruitlessly to maintain some kind of order, until two or more maulers are removed from the affray. That pair come back in a semi-final.

Survivors of the battle royal will be the main eventers, the toughest maulers in the country—they'll declare anyway.

The six maulers lined up by Promoter Cliff B. Chambers are among the toughest in the nation. They'll be Charlie Carr, a newcomer and already a favorite after one performance; Billy McEwin, Dale Haddock, Pete Belcastro, Frank Wolif, and Jack Adams.

Enid Champlains Try For Second Victory

DENVER, July 31 (AP)—Both Enid's Champlains, Oklahoma semi-pro baseball champions, and Ogallala, Neb., will seek victory No. 2 when they clash tonight in the Denver Post's 24th annual baseball tournament.

Buford, Ga., national semi-pro champion, and the Golden, Colo., Coors are tied for the tournament lead with two triumphs apiece without a loss.

Bobby Riggs Plays At Southampton

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., July 31 (AP)—Headed by the defending champion, Bobby Riggs, and the newly-crowned Seabright titleholder, Frank Parker, America's major league tennis players moved today to the annual Southampton invitation tournament.

For Riggs, dethroned at Seabright, it was an opportunity to show the tennis moguls his victory at Wimbledon was no fluke; for Parker, although he was not expected to play in the singles, it was a chance for him to continue the brand of tennis that may place him on the Davis Cup team again.

Parker played machine-like tennis yesterday at Seabright, culminating seven years of competition there with his first championship. It was gained at the expense of Don McNeill, 21-year-old Oklahoma City star who holds the French hard court title. Parker scored a 6-3, 8-6, 6-0 victory that boosted his chances to regain membership on the cup team. It was his seventh title in eight tournaments.

Neither Parker nor McNeill planned to compete in the singles here, but said they would pair in doubles play. They won the Seabright doubles yesterday by beating Gene Mako and Wayne Sabin, 6-1, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3.

The women stars will play this week in the Maidstone Club invitation tourney at nearby East Hampton. Alice Marble, competing in singles for the first time since her return from her Wimbledon triumphs, heads the list which includes Helen Jacobs, Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan and other top-flight stars.

Dallas Takes Two 1-0 Games From Houston

(By The Associated Press.)

The Dallas Rebels turned with renewed hope today to their struggle with the Houston Buffs for position behind those current pacemakers of the Texas League, the San Antonio Missions.

Two sterling 1-0 victories in a doubleheader opened a four game series yesterday pushed the Rebels within two and one-half games of the Buffs' second place.

The Oklahoma City Indians, despite four home runs, were able to do no better than split a doubleheader with San Antonio, winning the first 8-4 and dropping the second 5-3.

Shreveport's power was too much for Fort Worth and the Sports won 4-3.

The Tulsa Oilers bagged a twin bill from Beaumont 5-2 and 6-0.

Shreveport's win sent the Sports into a tie for fourth and fifth places with Fort Worth.

Cincinnati Reds Slug Out Another Double Win

By BILL WHITE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Business note: There's liable to be a whopping building boom in Cincinnati late next month.

The way baseball hysteria is mounting as their favorite Reds skyrocket towards their first title since 1919, those enthusiastic Ohioans are a cinch to tear down the town when the championship's finally clinched.

For years National league fans have boasted of the tight races in their circuit but the Reds are making hash out of that story this year. Latest evidence is found in today's standings which show the Reds 12 games in front. Even the Yanks aren't that far ahead.

Yesterday the Reds won their third consecutive doubleheader. Bucky Walters took his 18th victory by 9-2 and Billy Myers clouted a four-run ninth inning home for a 5-1 decision in the second of two games with the Phillies.

The three-cornered second place race kept up its dizzy whirl. The St. Louis Cardinals managed to sneak into second place by winning from the Brooklyn Dodgers twice by identical 5-2 scores.

The Pittsburgh Pirates lost the first game of a twin bill by 7-5 to the Boston Bees and were trailing 5-3 when the Sunday 6 o'clock law stopped the afterpiece.

And the Chicago Cubs didn't fare much better than the Pirates, largely because "Old Square Pants"—Carl Hubbell of the Giants—was busy holding them to a handful of hits and winning his fourth of the year, 3-1.

In the American league, the Yankees split a double bill with the Chicago White Sox as George Selkirk pounded out two homers to win the opener, 4-3 and Thornton Lee beat the New Yorkers 5-1 with a seven-hitter in the nightcap. Everybody felt sorry for Ted Lyons in that first one because the veteran made only two mistakes—and Selkirk put both of them in the stands.

The Boston Red Sox finally got that Brown taste out of their mouths when Jimmy Foxx paced them to a 6-4 win over St. Louis with his 25th home run.

Detroit's two victories over the Philadelphia Athletics were notable chiefly because the second game gave Freddie Hutchinson, the coast rave, his first major league victory. He didn't last the entire game but got credit for the 5-3 triumph. Buck Newsom brought home his 12th of the year and his ninth for the Tigers, 14-0, by holding the A's to five hits.

The Washington Senators gave Joe Krakauskas another victory when they slammed out a 5-2 win over the Indians.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ.

NEW YORK, July 31 (AP)—Flashes: Max Schmeling has turned down offers to fight Tony Galento, Red Burman and Lou Nova here . . . Coach Biff Jones of Nebraska is pitching hand tied flies at Colorado trout . . . Benny Leonard, refereeing in the west, is helping polish up Johnny Paychek between assignments.

Today's guest star:

Jack Singer, N. Y. Journal-American: "A Boy Scout, lost in the woods, survived on berries for nine days . . . That's nothing . . . Bill Terry has survived on razzberries for nine years."

At last! . . . Here's a fight you can't lose on, boys . . . Nova is 5-7 in New York . . . Galento is 5-8 in Philly . . . Play the short ender in both cities and go to town on the difference . . . Erie (Pa) fans are riding Umpire James down in the Middle Atlantic league . . . His first name ain't Jesse, is it? . . . Now that Jurges and Danning are back on the job, Broadway is wondering what the Giants are going to use for alibis.

Prof. Neely tells all.

Questioned about his football prospects, Coach Jesse Neely, of Clemson, said.

"We may have as good a team as last season . . . But perhaps we won't . . . On the other hand, it may be better"

That, friends, is what you call covering the situation . . . Prof Neely not only can straddle a fence—dammit, he can stay on both sides at the same time.

Dr. Homer Rainey, president of U. of Texas, formerly was a pitcher for the Houston Buffs . . . The other day Houston asked waivers on him as a complimentary gesture . . . Shreveport claimed him . . . Shreveport said it could use Dr. Rainey—both as a pitcher and as president of the state university.

Nearly half the accidents in Texas as during a five-month survey occurred on Saturday and Sunday. Less than 34 per cent of the traffic moved on those days.

Girl's Softball Tournament Opens At White Deer Tonight

Girl athletes will come into their own tonight when a softball tournament for girls' teams of the Panhandle will open in White Deer. First game of the tournament will begin at 8 o'clock with the Pampa-Edmondson Musketeers meeing Borger's All-Stars. Skellytown and White Deer will clash in the second game.

Drawing the bye tonight will be the Groom entry. They will play the opening game tomorrow night with a team to be selected by drawing after tonight's game.

In exhibition play this season the girls have been showing exceptional ability. Many close games have been played to date and the tournament is expected to be hard-fought.

Although few games have been played in Pampa, the girls have been playing before large crowds at White Deer, Skellytown, and Borger. Not less than 300 fans have witnessed games in White Deer and that record is expected to be broken every night of the tournament.

Two losses will be required for elimination.

Bronson Named Matchmaker For Second Largest Arena

NEW YORK, July 31. (AP)—Local boxing circles were astounded over the week end by the abrupt announcement Jimmie Bronson, a product of Joplin, Mo., had been appointed matchmaker for the Bronx Colliseum, the second-largest fight arena in this city.

For years Bronson has been a sort of show-piece of the boxing industry. Men have pointed him out as he stood quietly in the lobby of Madison Square Garden, perhaps, and told wide-eyed visitors they were looking at an honest prize-fight manager.

For 35 years he's been in a business that is pretty soiled around the edges, and yet, somehow, has managed to keep himself clean and fresh.

Always when a vacancy cropped up on the state athletic commission in past years there would be much talk of rewarding Bronson for his service to boxing, but nothing ever came of it. His friends were beginning to wonder if, after all, Bronson hadn't been too doggone honest for his own good.

So this came as a pleasant surprise to practically everybody, including Jimmie, when a new outfit took over the big shed in the Bronx and chose the dapper little man to run the works. It means that Bronson can go on being honest to his heart's content, and get paid for it, to boot.

Rival managers told some amazing tales about him—how he would advise a boy to give up boxing and make him go back home to Georgia or Arizona, even though the kid was fighting regularly and helping provide side meat for the Bronson table. Jimmie would do it just because he decided in his own mind the kid would never be a champion and that if he continued to fight he would wind up punch-drunk and broke.

A thing like that is, of course, against all ethics of the fight managers' guild. But there probably are some fellows around the country, making good in legitimate business these days, who are glad Jimmie sent them home.

Dick Metz Wins St. Paul Tourney

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 31 (AP)—Looking at Dick Metz's score in the $7,500 St. Paul Open Gold tournament today, you get the idea the game is a very simple pastime after all.

Just hit them down the middle, on the green in two on the par 4's, in one of the par 3's, in three, and occasionally two, on the par 5's and never more than two putts and what do you have? Well, Metz had 270 strokes, which was 18 under par and won first place, as well as $1,600, in the three-day tournament ending Sunday.

But before you relax, satisfied that golf is a push-over, it might be best to contemplate that the Chicago professional's four rounds of 68-66-68-68 broke Harry Cooper's four-year-old record for the open here by a stroke and established the lowest score carded this year in a professional golfers' tournament.

Also it was five strokes ahead of second-place Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., the PGA champion, who collected $1,050. This kept Picard at the top of the year's money winners with $9,527 but Metz rushed into second place with $8,223, displacing Byron Nelson, Reading, Pa., the national and western open champion, who ended up in a tie for tenth and eleventh places with Ernie Harrison, Little Rock, Ark., at 281. They each won $205.

America's Oldest Race Track Opens Today In New York

Appearing suddenly for their annual pilgrimage to the little springwater town in the foothills of the Adirondacks, turf followers realized this is the diamond jubilee of racing's grand old track, a kind of a seventy-fifth birthday party.

Temporarily, at least, the day's opening card featuring the $5,500 flash for two-year-olds and the American Legion handicap for older horses was forgotten in the rush to pay homage to the "Ascot of America."

More important to officials and the racing crowd, is the start today's program will give the track's jubilee. Though nothing special in the way of a celebration has been planned, Track President George H. Bull is around hinting at a possible overnight diamond jubilee handicap for Johnstown, Challedon, Sun Lover, Kayak 2nd and Cravat, among others.

Elmer Layden Leads Poll For All Star Football Coach

CHICAGO, July 31 (AP)—Football fans of the nation continued to pile up a big margin today for Notre Dame's Elmer Layden in the poll to select a coach to lead the college all-stars against the New York pro Giants in Soldier field Aug. 30.

The coach receiving the largest number of votes will head the staff of five coaches.

Sectional leaders in the poll included:

South—Robert Neyland, Tennessee, 203,132; Leo Meyer, Texas Christian, 47,321.

Superstitious Andy Saus Dirty Shirt Helped Win Tourney

PITTSBURGH, July 31 (AP)—Superstitious Andy Szwedko credited a dirty shirt today with helping him win the national Public Links golf crown.

The ruddy-cheeked steel worker, who defeated Philip Gordon, Oakland, Calif., insurance clerk, one up in 36 holes last Saturday at Baltimore, wore the shirt throughout the six days of the tourney—just for luck.

"At San Francisco two years ago I wore the same shirt from the start and got as far as the semi-finals," he explained, "so I made up my mind I'd try it at Baltimore. It was a sad looking garment after the first couple of days, but I kept on wearing it. I give the shirt as much credit as my clubs for the victory."

The 32-year-old champion, who holds a flock of local titles and has played in every national Publinks tourney except two since 1930, laughed aside reports that he might turn professional.

Ford Celebrates 76th Birthday

DETROIT, July 31. (AP)—Without fuss or fanfare, Henry Ford celebrated his 76th birthday anniversary yesterday.

The motor magnate does not allow birthdays to interfere with his routine, and except for a flood of congratulatory letters and telegrams it was just another day in an active life.

Ford shows only through a slight stoop of the shoulders effects of the last 15 years. His keen mind looks to the future as always in his quest for "experience," which he calls the purpose "for which all of us are placed on this earth."

Explaining his good health, Ford says:

"I don't worry. I don't eat too much of anything. And I have faith—faith that what his happened and what will happen is for the best."

Australians Hope To Take Davis Cup

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 31 (Canadian Press)—Australia's Davis cup captain headed eastward to the tennis wars today with the prediction the team "from down under" would win the cherished silver cup and "should be able" to hold it for several years.

The confident captain is Harry Hopman, the Aussies' third ranking player who chooses to be a Davis cup non-competitor because he is "too old" at 31.

Jack Bromwich, Australia's two-handed amateur ace who defeated Hopman Saturday for the Western Canada tennis title, was with the team captain. They expected to remain a day at Banff, Alta., before continuing to Seabright, N. J., to meet Cuba's Davis cuppers.

BEES STING PIRATES

PITTSBURGH, July 31 (AP)—A barrage of cushions thrown by rain-soaked and disappointed fans brought a lively end to a baseball doubleheader yesterday after the Boston Bees had stung the Pirates 7-5 and were leading in the nightcap.

Because of the state law prohibiting baseball after 6 p. m. (E. S. T.) Sunday, the second game was called before a batter had been retired in the opening half of the fifth inning, with the Buccos at the short end of a 5-3 count.

O'Daniel Voices Disapproval Of 'Home-Destroying' Vices

AUSTIN, July 31 (AP)—Legalization of horse race gambling, liquor by the drink, the open saloon, bookie shops, slot machines or pool halls as a method of financing old age pensions and other social security provisions stood condemned today by Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel.

In his radio broadcast from the governor's mansion yesterday O'Daniel also charged "flagrant violation" of gambling and liquor laws in unnamed sections of the state and urged his listeners to rid communities of such "debauching" influences.

"I want to say very frankly that I yield to no man in my advocacy of adequately financing social security," the governor stated. "But I believe the price of financing social security is too high when the price paid must be the licensing of pool halls, slot machines, race horse gambling and re-establishment of the open saloon.

"But the people of Texas had as well know that there are powerful forces at work in Texas today seeking to do all these things, seeking to take advantage of the pressing need of the state for revenue as a means of putting the state into the lottery business, violating the plain intent of the constitution by licensing the sale of liquor by the drink, by legalizing slot machines, and by bringing back to Texas race-horse gambling.

O'Daniel said local peace officers should not depend on the state to enforce state laws; the way to reduce cost of government was to select efficient officials; that individuals inquire into law enforcement conditions in their communities, and that the people should observe all laws, not just the ones they liked.

The governor did not reiterate previous intimations he would call no special session of the legislature to finance pensions which face a difficult future with expanded rolls and no additional funds.

"So long as I am governor," O'Daniel said, "that portion of the constitution which states that the open saloon shall be forever prohibited will be the law of the land unless by two-thirds vote the legislature overrides the veto of the governor.

"Never with my approval will there be sale of liquor by the drink until the issue has been submitted to the people to make such sale actually legal.

"Nor will I ever lend by approval to using taxation as a means of legalizing gambling in this state, regardless of the purpose to which the revenue may be applied. I am opposed to the principle of gambling regardless of whether gambling is effected through bookie joints, horse racing, pool tables or slot machines.

"I am unalterably opposed to all those things which destroy homes and which debauch the youths of this country and never with my approval will any of these things be written into the law of this state."

Easterling Reports To Sports Tonight

FORT WORTH, July 31 (AP)—Paul Easterling, right handed slugger bought by Shreveport from the Oklahoma City Indians, will report in time to play with the Sports against Fort Worth tonight.

Business Manager Jimmy Humphries of the Indians said in Oklahoma City his club would receive Dave Short, .305 hitter with Longview of the East Texas League, in addition to cash in the deal.

Britain Will Show Might

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—A concentration of military might unequalled by any peacetime mobilization on this continent since the Civil war will begin this week in preparation for two great practice battles.

With nearly 70,000 officers and men under arms, the first field army—virtually the entire combat strength of the eastern seaboard from Maine to Virginia—will take part in the war games. From them the army high command hopes to gain new information on such military problems as technique of rapid mobilization and value of mechanicized cavalry in a rough terrain.

Some 24,000 officers and men will mass in the vicinity of the Civil war battleground of Manassas, Va., for maneuvers from August 5 to 19. Major General James K. Parsons will command operations of the 28th national guard division from Pennsylvania, the 29th from Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia, and a "streamlined," highly mobile provisional brigade of regulars.

A score of foreign military attaches will observe the maneuvers, but officials said the chances are nevertheless that foreign governments will not learn a great deal from their reports.

Few of the new type planes, anti-aircraft guns and other ultra-modern weapons for which congress started providing funds last year are ready, it was explained. Some of the equipment dates from wartime 1918.

Bridges May Go On Stand Soon

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31. (AP)—Government lawyers claimed an apparent victory today in the fight over whether Harry Bridges should be called as a government witness when his deportation hearing is resumed Wednesday after a four-day recess.

The west coast CIO chieftain's lawyers have been anxious to call him as his own star witness, near the close of the hearing several weeks from now.

However, James M. Landis, dean of the Harvard University Law school and special trial examiner for the Labor department, said today "Unless the defense interposes new objections, Mr. Bridges can be put on the stand Wednesday."

Bridges is accused of belonging to a group advocating violent overthrow of the government, and on that basis, of being deportable to his native Australia.

SERIAL STORY

WAR AND A WOMAN

BY BETTY WALLACE

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday: Linda resolves not to betray Marcia's trust, manages a second meeting, at breakfast, with Jimmy. But when Mrs. King mentions Pensacola romances, Jimmy's eyes ask a wordless question and Linda's reply.

CHAPTER IV

IT seemed to Linda that the world had receded, that Mrs. King's light words, innocently uttered in a bantering way, had been dynamite enough to explode every barrier she had tried to put between herself and Jimmy Cooper.

The moment was eternity. Then his eyes veered and dropped away. "We must be going," he said heavily. The moment splintered. It was like cold water in her face. She could be sane again.

But as they had promised Mrs. King they wouldn't be late for lunch, and as Marcia tucked in beside her in the car, leaving Jimmy to drive, Linda realized that this couldn't go on. She had been right when she said to Marcia, "I ought to go home." She would go home!

Later, after lunch, when she was alone with Marcia, she'd tell her. Even as the resolve crystallized, she was aware that she couldn't go through with it without wounding Marcia. They had both said too much, this morning in her room. What about Marcia's mother? She'd think it odd. Inexcusable. To have come 2000 miles to attend this wedding, and then to turn around the next day and start back. It was sheer madness without an ironclad excuse.

A little wind ruffled her hair as they drove along, but did nothing to dispel the uncomfortable warmth of her face and the way her eyes were stinging.

Marcia touched her hand. "Look at the field, Linda. Just getting close to it does things to me. It's a thrill every time I drive in, and I know I've driven in thousands of times. Isn't it beautiful?" Her eyes said, plainly, that even one who disapproved must admit its beauty.

Yes, it was lovely. White buildings under the sun. White, well kept handkerchiefs of fields. The blue bay dimpling out there. But it wasn't beautiful if you remembered that from here boys graduated to battlefields.

THEY passed the sentry, and now Linda saw that there were hundreds and hundreds of planes lined up this morning. Wing tip to wing tip, a veritable army of ships. At the sea wall, a huge crane was lifting an amphibian out of the water. Linda remembered then that some Naval vessels were seagoing flying fields. They could steam far out into the ocean, release their planes. . . . It meant that a Naval flyer had to be more than just a flyer. Jimmy must be tops in his line.

"The ones in khaki are the cadets," Marcia told her. "Those sailors are enlisted men. They're mechanics and so on. No use telling you all the ratings."

"I wouldn't remember," Linda said absently. At the other end of the field, a column of marching men was drilling.

Marcia grinned. "That's the new lot of cadets. All burned up because they weren't let loose in a plane first thing. Most of them can't see what good it does to learn to forward march first."

Jimmy said, "See that ship out there? The one that just came down?"

Linda watched as it taxied across the bay. "That looks awfully difficult," she said. Something more was expected of her, so she added, "Is that a student flying it?"

"One student, plus one instructor. He gets in a jam, and we're supposed to pull him out."

"Oh."

"They always do, too. Some of the dumbest ones have put the instructor in pretty tight spots, I can tell you. Once Jimmy had a kid who froze to the stick. Tell her about it, Jimmy." Marcia's attention was suddenly distracted by a tall boy striding across the field. "Look, Jimmy, there's that Brooks boy. I meant to ask you, did he pass the checkoff?"

"He hasn't had it yet," Jimmy answered. "I see you're worried. Go on, little mother of the fleet, go over and hand out some of your softest soap. He's getting cockier and harder to handle every day. If he doesn't change, pretty quick, it'll be thumbs down."

"You're too hard on him! He was a good flyer before he ever came here. He told me how he barnstormed with fairs and things. Really, Jimmy."

"You know better than that. We tell them to unlearn anything they learned before. Flying at a carnival isn't exactly flying for the Navy."

Marcia made a face at him. She waved to the boy and with a quick "Excuse me" to Linda, she was running toward him.

* * *

JIMMY explained to Linda, "Sometimes the kids get the idea that the instructors don't like him. Conspiracy against 'em because, because—well, in this case—because he was a stunt flyer before he came here. Marcia's taken this kid under her wing and tried to straighten him out. But I'm afraid she's listened to his line too long. He's got her believing it, now. She's so darned quick with her sympathies! Every enlisted man on the base who wants to get to her father has learned that telling it to Marcia first is a great idea, if he can do it."

Marcia and the cadet were smiling at each other. The boy wiggled his hands and Jimmy, watching, grunted. "There he goes, giving her the low down on the latest, from his angle. That business you're looking at—like this"—he, too, flapped his hands—"that's flying in miniature, see?"

He grinned. His grin did something to Linda. She murmured, "I don't quite understand all of this. . . ."

"It's easy. About this kid—the Navy doesn't want stunt flyers. All we want is an efficient, competent, clear-headed pilot who can take orders. We don't even want heroes. Dependability is the thing. Consistent, uniform performance. But this kid's got a grandstand complex. Likes to take reckless chances and tell himself what a great guy he is. One of these days he'll kill himself and wreck an expensive Navy ship. That is, if he passes his checkoff. . . ."

And then he was looking down at her with terrible directness. "You aren't listening. You aren't thinking about that any more than I am. Linda, was I wrong, last night? Did I only imagine it or—or did you feel it, too?"

She did not pretend to misunderstand him. The sincerity in his eyes was too real; and the trembling which shook her whole body told her that there was no use in pretending, anyway. "We mustn't even think about it. You're going to marry Marcia, and I'm going home. Today."

"Who's going home?" trumpeted Marcia's voice behind her. She had been running, as usual. It was clear she had heard no more than that. "Linda, have you started on that record again? I'm going to tell Jimmy what's eating you!"

Innocent 'Double' Serves 8 Months For Another's Crime

NEW YORK, July 31. (AP)—The wheels of justice began grinding in reverse today to free from Sing Sing prison an innocent man whose misfortune it was to resemble a holdup man.

He is Philip Caruso, 24, who already has served 8 months of a 10- to 20-year sentence for a holdup he didn't commit.

Acting on information gleaned from the underworld, Detective Lieut. Neil Winberry directed the drama that will open the prison gates for Caruso.

Jack (Jigger) Jacobson, 22, and Morris (Mosey) Gottlieb, 35, both possessors of records showing previous arrests, yesterday were put through a reenactment of the stickup in which two hitch-hikers at gun-point forced Eugene Scamiellino out of his car July 29, 1938, and drove off.

Scamiellino was convinced he erred previously in identification of Caruso as one of them, now pointing instead to Gottleib, who is practically a "double" for the innocent prisoner.

Jacobson and Gottleib, who didn't know Caruso or that he had been imprisoned for the crime, were "very sorry an innocent guy took the rap," Lieut. Winberry said.

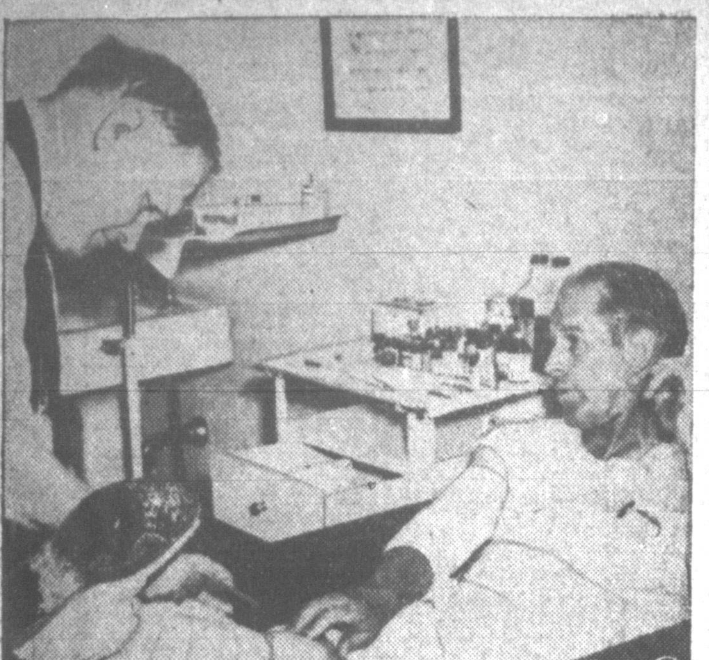
Burned in Burning Up Salt Flats



Ab Jenkins is treated for burns on right leg and right arm in Salt Lake City, where he was taken after new racer, Mormon Meteor III, caught fire while traveling more than 170 miles an hour on Bonneville salt flats. Veteran driver was attempting to establish new records for 24-hour run.

Pal Of Capone Down And Out

NEW YORK, July 31. (AP)—A police report sheet today recorded decline and fall of Peter De Vito, schoolboy pal of Al Capone and once rated by U. S. attorneys as "the biggest racketeer in the strike-breaking business."

One of thousands of poor school children in Brooklyn, De Vito was still unknown at the age of 30 when Capone advised him to buy a truck.

He bought the truck—and a few years later, in 1929, he had 700 trucks, a $60,000 home, and 4,000 employes, among them the toughest "gorillas" in the country.

De Vito made $503,000 in five weeks that year breaking strikes, federal investigators said.

But in 1931 the government seized him on income tax charges. He was acquitted, but was rearrested in court on a charge of carrying an unlicensed gun. He got off again, only to be arrested on another income tax charge. This time he was convicted.

He got a suspended sentence, but the notoriety finished him as a strikebreak king. He dropped out of sight until yesterday.

Picked up on a charge of knifing his brother-in-law in a family row, he had two nickels in his pocket, wore shabby clothes and a three-day beard.

For the last two years, police found, he had been washing dishes in a restaurant for a bed and meals.

In the lockup he collapsed—of malnutrition.

"When I had it," he mumbled, "I took care of everyone. Now that I'm broke, no one will help me."

Coughlin Reveals Threats On Life, Sent In Letters

DETROIT, July 31. (AP) — The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, disclosing receipt of letters threatening his life, yesterday challenged the senders to "carry out your threats, if you dare."

The Royal Oak (Mich.) priest, following his weekly broadcast, said within the last two weeks he had received three letters "setting Labor Day as the deadline," for the threats to be fulfilled. He added he had been receiving threats "for 13 years."

In his radio address he said:

"I am not important, nor is this battle between individuals. Carry out your threats, if you dare; but recognize that this contest is between God and anti-God, between the principles of Americanism and the principles of Sovietism."

Fr. Coughlin said the letters, all anonymous, and vague, had been turned over to postal inspectors.

Referring to the "unfortunate incident" of John L. Lewis' verbal attack on Vice President Garner last week, Fr. Coughlin said:

"Today I must be satisfied with expressing my deep sympathy for the millions of American laborers who necessarily will suffer as a result of their self-appointed leader's intemperate castigation of the lovable John Nance Garner.

"However, this broadcast is not concerned with the suicidal remarks enunciated by John L. Lewis against a gentleman who has been the friend of labor and at the same time the enemy of Naziism, Fascism and Communism."

CINCINNATI, July 31. (AP) — You've heard of the absent-minded professor, but listen to the case of the absent-minded safe crackers—

Investing the robbery of a safe in his insurance office, Herman Harrison discovered it had been cleaned of $15 in cash! a $50 watch and five rings he valued at $1,275.

Then he looked on top of the safe. There were the rings, all laid out by the burglars—and fotgotten.

Two Groups Linked As Blocking Legislation

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—The Senate Civil Liberties subcommittee linked two business groups today with what it called the policy of the Associated Industries of Cleveland, "in thwarting the purposes of the national labor legislation."

Senators LaFollette (Prog-Wis.), and Thomas (D-Utah), declared in a committee report the Cleveland group's activities "were part of a cast campaign organized by the national Association of Manufacturers, and carried out through its members and the affiliates of the National Industrial Council."

34 Injured In Strike Riots At Cleveland Plant

CLEVELAND, July 31 (AP)—Rioting at the strikebound Fisher body plant of General Motors Corporation today injured at least 34 persons, while police attempted to put down the demonstration of club-wielding, rock-slinging pickets with tear gas and streams of water.

Violence broke out as nearly 3,000 pickets massed at gates of the plant after CIO-United Automobile Workers were called to "stop this plant."

Many of those injured were non-striking employes attempting to enter the place. One worker was reported by company officials to be near death after automobiles carrying employes through picket lines had been overturned, and burned.

Turn Water On Pickets.

Tear gas bombs thrown by police were picked up and tossed back by pikets in several instances. When the gas failed to disperse the crowd, police turned fire hose on the pickets.

Police quickly rounded up 12 men from the picket line, loaded them in cars and took them to the nearest precinct station. About 100 police were on duty at the plant today sent there after a CIO organizer had urged all union men to turn out to "stop this plant." When rioting started, 100 more police were dispatched to the plant.

Police Chief George Matowitz said strikers had agreed to a truce pending a union committee conference.

Police Captain Michael J. Blackwood said at least 300 tear gas shells and bombs were discharged in the course of the rioting, which lasted about an hour.

"Rioters had tear gas shotguns with shells which we believe were from Flint, Mich., and tear gas bombs, which we believe came from Pittsburgh," Capt. Blackwood said.

The captain said violence started after a brick was thrown through the window of a non-striker's automobile entering the plant. Fighting was stopped by police at once at that gate, but broke out anew at another entrance, Blackwood said.

From a sound truck came the announcement: "There are 10,000 here today. There will be 20,000 tomorrow, if necessary."

Of those injured, five were given first aid inside the plant before they were taken to a hospital.

Veteran News Man Retires On Pension

NEW YORK, July 31. (AP) — Forty years of newspaper work, many of them in important and exciting roles, end today for Harry French, retiring day west wire editor of the Associated Press.

That prosaic title means French has directed operations of the biggest news-wire circuit in the world—a vehicle of news which in recent years has been extended over approximately 24,000 miles. Today it not only weaves westward but forks up and down the Pacific coast and loops into New England and the south from the New York home office.

Unless an unforeseen flash or bulletin delays action for a few seconds, French will issue the order "Give 'em 30" to his operator on this trunk circuit promptly at 4 p. m. today—for the last time in his career.

As the phrase "Thirty on the day report" speeds many, many times faster than a bullet into the offices of about 1,000 afternoon papers, French is likely to take a sharper bite than usual in his ever-present corncob pipe. Ordinarily it simply means "So long until tomorrow."

But at that moment today French, 58 years old, in the best of health and with only a few vagrant gray strands in his red hair, retires on an AP pension.

It marks the end of 29 years and 37 days of service to the Associated Press.

Mexican Mayor Shot To Death

YUMA, Ariz., July 31. (AP) — Jesus Monje, 50, chief of police and acting mayor of San Luis, Sonora, Mex., south of here was shot to death and his slayer and two bystanders were wounded shortly before midnight Saturday on the eve of a Sunday city election, it was learned today.

Alfredo Herrera, a policeman, said Monje's assassin was Eligo Matus Navarro, his opponent in the election, who was defeated by Monje two years ago.

Herrera shot Navarro in the back as he fled from the scene.

The officer said Navarro shot Monje four times through the chest as Monje tried to reason with him. Two of the bullets passed through the body, one striking Alejandro Barazzo, 27, in the back and the other hitting Pedro Jiminez, 38, a farmer, in the foot.

The wounded were removed to Yuma county General hospital.

The shootings were witnessed by many Americans, the International club in San Luis being a favorite amusement center for tourists.

Says He Drowned Pendergast Aid

Jailed at Clinton, Ill., George Carson, above, 38-year-old itinerant, confessed pushing Edward Schneider, aid of Tom Pendergast, ex-Kansas City political czar, into Missouri river from Kansas City bridge. Police, however, are skeptical. Schneider's body was recovered from river some weeks ago. Carson said pushing was result of fight when Schneider resisted holdup.

An American Legion post at Albany, N. Y., had to call off the fat man's race on its picnic program because no members could qualify.
