Annual Drive Set By United Fund

Torigian Signs Distribution Contract For Local Firm

United Fund goal for 1967-68 year has been set at $30,400 only $240 over last year, president Melvin Jayroe announced after a Thursday morning board meeting.

None of the nine agencies involved have received cuts in their budgets, he said.

Dale Young, chairman of the Budget and Admissions committee had received budget requests and reviewed the proposed budget with the board. Each agency reported their entire income and expenditures at the meeting.

Funding plans were accepted by the board as issued by the committee and a tentative drive date, October 1, was set.

Drive chairman will be announced at a banquet tentatively scheduled for September 1. Chairman for the banquet arrangements is Mrs. John Douglas Pitman. Serving with her are Mrs. Walter London, and Mrs. Glen Watts. At the drive kick-off banquet, work done by the outgoing officers will be recognized.

The outgoing officers deserve a great deal of credit Jayroe said, because last year was the first year in four years that the United Fund reached its goal.

Ed Skypala was drive chairman for the record breaking drive.

Other directors are Wayne Williams, Ed Skypala, Elmore Rains, Rex Lee, Leonard Haney, Mrs. Glen Watts, Jim Arney, and Mrs. O. G. Hill, Sr.

Out going board members are Dean House, Bartley Dowell, Mrs. Sue James, Mrs. Jim Pavelcek, Mrs. Luther Lesly, Roy Faubion, Mrs. Dennis Lomas, Mrs. George Turrentine and Dexter Lillie.

Agencies scheduled with the United Fund project are: Camp Fire Girls, Boy Scouts, Pony League, Little League, Salvation Army, Red Cross, Cerebral Palsy, Council on Alcoholism, and the U. S. O.

Bravo Smokes, little over a year old, has announced plans for expansion of Hereford facilities and the signing of a contract for national distribution of their product, nicotine-free smokes.

Plans for building expansion call for the first phase to be completed by October to meet the needs of the enlarged sales promotion.

The local company, in a joint venture with General Nutrition Corporation of Pittsburgh, Pa., will be marketing Bravo Smokes backed by a half million dollar advertising campaign according to Puzant Torigian, president of Bravos, and David Skakarian, president of General Nutrition, the firm that takes over national distribution of Bravos beginning the first of August.

Texas sales will still be under the present plan and Torigian said that the local firm will still handle inter-national sales in Japan and England. He said that they are now negotiating with Mexico and South Africa for extending sales to those countries.

Shakarian said General Nutrition is committed to purchase the entire output of Bravo factories in Hereford and Uvalde, and will initially sell them to the public on a mail order basis.

The corporation also plans an intensive campaign to merchandise Bravos through drug chains, tobacco wholesalers, health food stores and eventually to chain and department stores.

Little Concern Shown Over Housing by Migrant Worker

Where to put the migrant laborers who come to this area every summer is a perplexing situation. And it's one that receives a lot of bad publicity, perhaps more than its share. The housing situation in Hereford is not a unique one. Several West Texas communities, and of course others in other states, are faced with the same problem of providing housing for the thousands of migrants who through here from the southern reaches of Texas.

How does the housing shape up in the Hereford area?

Untold numbers of laborers have filled the Hereford Labor Camp, and new apartments and facilities provided by farmers and vegetable shippers have also been filled.

A thought shared by some, revealed optimism that the problem of migrant housing would solve itself as the number of migrant workers reduces.

But this situation is not yet in existence; a population check at the Hereford Labor Camp, located south of the city just off U. S. Hwy. 385, reveals that no reduction in the number of residents in the "Little Mexico" community has been seen this summer.

Work available for the migrants has decreased; more of the migrant population is having to look longer and harder for jobs in this area. The result is idleness for some.

The labor camp is by no means the only housing available to migrant workers. Driving out over the industrial regions of Hereford and vicinity, new facilities can be seen. Apartments have been erected for the sole purpose of attracting better workers to packing sheds.

Money invested in housing is money gone, as far as the farmer or packer is concerned. The buildings are by no means any source of income; rather they constitute a large expense.

One of the most extensive housing projects, aimed at providing needed space for a primarily Latin American population, was completed a few years ago. Known as the Buena Vista development, this large block of new housing is owned and operated principally by a local real estate firm. Other land owners also have a share in the development.

Intended to give the migrant labor in this area better housing conditions, the Buena Vista development has provided housing of the duplex and four-plex type, each apartment having sanitation facilities.

Repairs, replacements, all are part of the task of providing housing for the migrant labor situation. A manager for some Hereford housing, himself a Latin American, states the problem frankly and confidently: "They just don't give a damn."

One owner spent $98 for one month's hardware needs — just plain nuts and bolts. Buena Vista furnishes a stove and refrigerator for its apartments; of the original 60 installed, some 27 appliances had to be replaced in two years. The damaged ones had to be junked.

But conditions are perhaps improving. "I think it's getting a little better," says the manager. "We did run some out." Migrants do not create as big a problem as some permanent residences, he asserted. "Migrants don't accumulate a lot of junk," he commented.

Progress Report Given Optimists

Hereford Optimists heard two speakers Thursday describe the needed help to complete museum plans for a late fall opening.

Mrs. J. H. Sears and Melvin Young outlined the accomplishments of the Deaf Smith County Historical committee from the early spring to the present time. Chuck Laing, program chairman, in introducing the guests mentioned that many Optimists already are members of the historical society and that the group wanted a 'progress report' from the committee.

Mrs. Sears pointed out that the theme of the museum had been established to represent and preserve the life of pioneering days, beginning about 1870 and relating up to the present time.

She said that items for setting up the kitchen had all been located except for a straight razor and a strop. A straight razor was volunteered on the spot. Still needed is, the strop.

A cradle used in the first hospital in Hereford (a private hospital devoted mainly to maternity cases) will be used in the bedroom with a grandmother model bending over it.

Another need is a stuffed sofa, circa 1890. A library table for the parlor has been promised. It was used by an early County Judge, Mrs. Sears said.

Plans call for the settings to be as realistic as possible even

Insurance Costs Up-

Texas drivers are going to feel it smart — beginning today — when the insurance man digs down into their hip pockets and pulls the extra dollars out of the drivers' billfolds.

Making no bones about it, one insurance man sums it up this way:

Everything is up, including the costs of settlements. It takes more to repair an automobile now, and the insurance companies have to make up the difference by raising the rates.

Now add that to the fact that more drivers are on the road today than ever before, and more cars are running down the Texas roads than ever before too.

Accidents are occurring in increasing numbers throughout the state as population figures, and consequently density figures, rise.

But insurance men are now coming to the aid of the safe driver, with a new plan to relieve him of his insurance burden and place more of it on the shoulders of the more accident prone driver.

The plan is already in effect, having begun today. Every driver today in the State of Texas started with a clean slate; any offenses going on his record in this year will be reflected in his insurance rate beginning Aug. 1, 1967.

The new demerit program has eliminated much criticized features of the previous attempt to charge poorer drivers. The old program included retroactive penalties, covering accidents and traffic violations which occurred before becoming significant in insurance rates.

Designed to curb the rise in accidents and insurance rates, the new plan has been given blessings by several area legislators.

Major penalty points will apply to such offenses as negligent homicide, driving under influence of intoxicants or drugs, failure to stop and render aid after an accident, driving without a valid license or any felony driving conviction.

Smaller insurance penalties would stem from conviction for speeding and some other moving violations in traffic.

The State Board's new order is estimated to mean a maximum 90 per cent rate increase for those involved in accidents and traffic offenses. Good drivers could expect about 15 per cent reduction in future rates.

In Texas all automobile insurance rates are based upon insured losses and loss adjustment costs.

The Aug. 1 change will include not only an upward jump in the rates for all classifications, but will also see the inclusion of new driver ratings. Also new to the insurance sys-

Drenching Rains Dampen Dry, Dry, Bootleg Farms

By SHERRIN BETTS

Dry, dry Bootleg, where every hundredth of an inch of moisture is prized, is no longer mourning over the drought. Catching scattered rains through out the month and 45 inches last week-end, they got another 2.6 inches of rain Friday night and crops and folks alike are basking in the humidity.

This small bit of moisture ing people's spirits rise. Rain throughout the area was gentle, drizzling from 4 inches in the northeast to over 2½ inches in the far west corner of the county. The most common comment regarding the weather change was "It was just real nice . . ." and "fell real nice."

The Phillip Millers, near Walcott, received 1.5 inches, as did the Herb Schmidts of Westway. The Millers also reported electrical failures during the night. Summerfield felt cheated getting only .8 inches of rainfall.

The northeast area caught the least amount of moisture with 4 inches in Wildorado and Milo Center. Three miles east the Jim Allison ranch got 2 inches Milo Center got 1.5 inches on Thursday night, however. The Jim McCabes and the Bill Ellis farm received .55 and .75 inches respectively.

Easter reported .3 inches of rainfall and 5 fell northeast of that vicinity.

Thursday evening at 5:30 a tornado was reported to have touched the ground 26 miles northwest of Hereford. It remained on the ground only about 1¼ minutes and then disintegrated. No major damage was reported. See RAIN Page 2 tem will be division of the state into 40 areas, compared to the former lines drawn for 26.

Deaf Smith County is a part of a large region encompassing 89 Texas counties. The counties are in the Western part of the state, all having similar population and density figures.

And people aren't getting any better, it seems, in their driving habits. In particular would be the "accident prone" group, whose records consume a goodly part of an insurance staff's time in keeping information up to date.

Some files "would raise the hair on your head," one insurance agency manager explains. This is another factor in determining rates for the entire state.

Liability insurance is now of the 10/20/5 form, as compared to the 5/10/5 of some years ago. The first figure represents $10,000 coverage per person, the second is $20,000 per accident, the third is $5,000 in property.

Fourteen classifications divide the drivers of private passenger automobiles. The highest classification, as far as cost is concerned, is 2C, which reads "there is an unmarried male operator under 25 years of age who is an owner or principal operator of the automobile."

A new classification will be 2D, "there is no male operator under 25 years of age, but there is an unmarried female operator under 21 years of age, and the automobile is not used for business."

4A, 6B and 8 are also new classifications this year. Under the 6A heading will be "no male operator under 25, no unmarried female operator under 21, but there is an operator 65 years of age or over." The $42 fee is a $1 jump from the $41 charged this year. Also to be charged $42 for their liability insurance will be those drivers in the 2D, 6B and 6C categories. These are the newly created classifications and adjustments in their rates. See INSURANCE Page 2 being only in uses of the vehicle, such as for business, going to and from work.

Farm vehicles will have two more classifications, 2DF and 6AF. 2DF will be "no male operator under 25, but there is an unmarried female operator under 21." Under 6AF will be "no male operator under 25, no unmarried female operator under 21, but an operator 65 years of age or over."

A $42 insurance fee will cover the 1A and 1B classifications beginning Aug. 1. In this category are "no male operator under 25, no unmarried female operator under 21, and no operator 65 or over." The $42 fee is a $1 jump from the $41 charged this year. Also to be charged $42 for their liability insurance will be those drivers in the 2D, 6B and 6C categories. These are the newly created classifications and adjustments in their rates. See INSURANCE Page 2

WHAT EMPLOYERS ARE DOING — Providing new housing for migrant labor, some produce men have found it advantageous to provide new living quarters if they are

Little . . .

The developers of Buena Vista have had high hopes for the "community within a community." Paying land prices as high as those found in the city's more affluent residential areas, original plans were for complete development of the area covered by Buena Vista. Promises made to the buyers did not materialize, however, developers said.

Some packers spend several thousand dollars every year, completely redoing the quarters for their migrant labor. The housing facilities just about have to be completely redone to keep them fit for use the following year.

Another manager expresses concern over discipline problems among his tenants; trash swept out the door, vehicles parked in the yard instead of the parking lot, misuse of liquor; all contribute to making migrant housing "run down."

Rent varies considerably on the facilities available. Some apartments, recently completed, cost $20 a week, inclusive of utilities. The cheapest living quarters can be had for $6 to $8.

Free housing is furnished by some packers for their own workers. The facilities include water and electrical conveniences.

Little . . .

Apartment is available to families, dormitory style quarters for single men. Too many persons in one apartment is a major factor in damaging living facilities. Landlords have been forced in some cases to evict tenants who moved other families into their own apartment.

Experience is showing property owners that the solution to the migrant housing problem lies not in providing more expensive facilities, because temporary renters apparently do not wish to care for the property in the manner the owner considers necessary. Bare, easily cleaned facilities seem to be more practical for the mass migratory movement's needs.

can not be made until after a year of observation.

A jump from $67 to $76 will be in store for drivers under the heading "male operator under 25 and either married or not an owner or principal operator of the automobile."

Biggest chunk in any insurance policy would be the liability insurance for an unmarried male operator under 25 who is an owner or principal operator of an automobile. It was $107 and will be raised to $114.

These are the figures for the area surrounding Hereford.

But looking to Amarillo, Lubbock and larger cities in the state, the figures are even more astounding. Liability insurance alone can run as high as $120.

This is the figure for the Houston area, most heavily populated in the state. The $210 is for the unmarried male driver under 25 years of age, who is the owner or principal operator of an automobile.

Lubbock, which is classified Area-10 under the new divisions, has a ceiling of $137 for the same category of liability insurance. The figure for Area 14, Amarillo, is $121.

The 1A, 1B ratings for Amarillo and Lubbock, respectively, will be $43 and $49. These same figures will be applicable to the new classification 2D, the unmarried female under 21 years of age.

2A, the male operator under 25 who is either married or not an owner or principal operator of the automobile, will have rates of $80 and $90 in Amarillo and Lubbock, respectively.

But the figures for the Panhandle area are seemingly insignificant when compared to what is in some for drivers in Dallas and Houston.

The city drivers are clearly the ones who will carry the brunt of the insurance load, since they are the ones who are involved in more of the state's traffic accidents.

The Harris County (Houston) area will charge a fee of $210 for the young male driver; in Dallas it will still be a good sized $183. Rates for the "no male operator under 25, no female operator under 21, and no operator over 65" classifications will be $80 and $70 in the Houston and Dallas metropolitan areas.

Statistics back up the insurance ruling that young drivers be charged more for their liability insurance because they are a bigger risk. Young drivers under the age of 25 have been involved in a disproportionate number of both fatal and non-fatal accidents: In a year's time, 43 per cent of the drivers under 20 were involved in an accident; 30 per cent of the drivers age 20 to 25 had accident and 18 per cent of the drivers in all other age groups had mishaps.

Drivers under 20 make up nine per cent of all drivers, but are involved in 14 per cent of all fatal accidents; drivers in the 20-25 age bracket make 10 per cent of the drivers but are involved in 17 per cent of the fatal accidents.

Insurance cost Texans nearly $439,000,000 for the year now ending. The increased rates will mean an additional $25,000,000. Traffic deaths have risen 13 per cent over this same time last year.

Retail distribution already has been established in several states.

By extending the present Hereford processing plant across the south side of the lot facing Park Ave., Torigian said that the working area would be increased by 50 per cent and that the packaging process will be in view of the sidewalk, with the building continuing the present design with full windows. On the street side.

The expansion is necessary, Torigian said, to meet anticipated needs for filling the one year contract with the health food company.

Bravos will be offered by mail at $5 for a carton of 10 packs, or 200 smokes.

In making the announcement, Torigian said the new contract will bring an estimated $2.5 million to Bravo for this first year.

One head of lettuce is required to produce a pack of 20 Bravo Smokes. The company has contracted for the annual crop of growers in Southern California and New Mexico as well as Texas. 102 men and women are presently employed by the Texas company.

Production is scheduled to reach a rate of 1,000 cases or 6,000,000 smokes each month.

Shakarian said that Bravos are a natural product for General Nutrition. For more than 40 years, the company has specialized in providing products related to fitness, nutrition and health, he said.

December, 1959 when TDC153781 first entered the Goree Unit of Texas Department of Corrections. At that time, representatives from all the major news media were present. They knew the nation wanted to see and read about Candy Barr, the darling of the Las Vegas, New Orleans and Dallas strip joints, as she entered prison. The readers and viewers were rewarded. Candy Barr alternately wept and laughed as she walked through the security gate of the Texas women's prison. Now, six and a half years later, having been free on parole for more than three years, Candy Barr — Juanita Phillips in private life — came back to prison. This time, to make preparations for her appearance at the Texas Prison Rodeo in October.

She had driven from her home in Edna, Texas to meet with Richard C. Jones, director for treatment, to discuss her proposed act (she will sing at the Prison Rodeo) and her costume she will wear (something simple and in good taste). When the business at hand was concluded, she expressed a desire to visit the Goree Unit where she had served three years in prison. There she visited with Warden Velda Dobbs and talked with inmates she had served time with. She posed for pictures and later returned to the Huntsville Unit where she was interviewed by the inmate master of ceremonies for the Prison Rodeo and the inmate editor of the prison newspaper, The Echo. Prison personnel who knew her "back when" were pleased with her visit and even more pleased with her as a person who had adopted a new philosophy of life. She said, "You won't believe this, but right now I am a completely contented and a happy person. I have my daughter, my parents, my family and a host of friends who are good, solid 'square' people. Know what I do in my spare time? I fish." Speaking freely and frankly about her past life, she referred to her eight years of show business as an "unreal thing — the people were unreal — the life was unreal and consequently, I didn't know who or what I was. I was unreal myself." About her three and one half years in prison, the petite, 5-foot-3, 31-year-old blond with blue eyes and almost perfect measurements (36-23-36) says, "I needed the time — I had a big jolt, fifteen years is a long time — but I want to say this — I needed it. It woke me up. Not at first, but after about two years, it was then that I began to realize there was a purpose to life that I have been missing. "You want to know something? I worked in the prison library for a year and that is what started me back on the right track. I started reading. I read everything I could lay my hands on. And, I still have the reading habit." What does she read now? "You name it — Bainbridge, Schlesinger, Hemingway — the whole spectrum. I write poetry too, and I have written two songs I hope to get published in the near future." What was the roughest part of her re-entry into a free society? "The first ninety days. The trouble was me. Although I had taken a fresh look at my purpose in life, I still clung to the idea that society owed me something for having locked me up in prison. Then one morning I said, 'who are you kidding — society doesn't owe you a thing — you owe yourself.' When I started paying the debt to myself, I found that society accepted me and I had a good life. "There were bad times. People were sometimes cruel. My daughter, for example, took considerable ridicule for awhile, and I guess I learned something vital from her. She took the abuse and kept her head high. She is an honor student now, and people have stopped giving her a bad time."

Candy Barr's eyes twinkle with satisfaction as she relates how she was called on at the last minute to help out at her daughter's school play. The teacher had become ill and Candy was asked to take over. She says, "I worked like a beaver. I built scenery, rehearsed the kids and the play went over fine. The audience loved it. At the end, I sang a song I learned at Goree, 'Let Us Pray.' Later the kids bought me a candy dish and I now consider it one of my prized possessions. Success is found in strange places, isn't it?"

How does she feel about returning to perform in the Prison Rodeo? "I'm scared, but I won't let that stop me. This is something I want to do more than anything else I want to put on this show solely for the benefit of the inmates. I understand their problems and what they are up against, and I believe I can help a little. Listen, mister, these are my kind of people. I was one of them, and, in some respects, I still am. I want them to say to themselves, 'Man, if she can do it, then I can. If she can make it on the outside, I can.' And that is exactly why I am interested in doing this. Maybe it will help a little — not me — them."

Will she re-enter show business? "Right now, I would say definitely not. I have no such plans. I have had opportunities — movies and other offers — but I am too happy and contented to spoil what I have. You know something? For a long time I didn't know who I was, then when I found out, I didn't like myself one bit. I changed what I was, and who I was, and now I like me. Yes sir, I sure do."

She walked down the prison corridor to the front door. She signed the visitor's register in the "out" column; told the officer on duty, "I'll see you in October," and, as the security door slid open, she — Juanita Phillips, Candy Barr, No. 153781 — walked out into the free air and toward the parking lot. Like her daughter, her head was Extension specialists' surveys of Texas counties indicates that 94 per cent of the 1965 cotton crop was harvested by machine. This compares with 58 per cent in 1960 and 24 per cent in 1955. More than 30,000 machines were used in the harvest.

REP. ROGERS WRITES

New Business And Industry Wooded By Panhandle Cities

Headlines shout the news of crisis in America's largest cities — of racial strife, rising crime rates, air and water pollution, inadequate transportation systems, overcrowded schools and hospitals, and strained municipal treasuries. As I noted in this newsletter several weeks ago, money is an increasing problem for city governments and the Nation's largest cities have turned with increasing pressure to the Federal treasury in an effort to obtain assistance in solving their problems.

Meanwhile, the cities compete aggressively to attract new industry to provide new jobs for their burgeoning populations and to generate new tax revenues. Cities such as New York are working with business leaders to hold the business-industrial base already developed, and to broaden it.

There are no easy answers to the problems cities face, but it is apparent that millions of residents of huge metropolitan areas, in the city cores and suburbs, desire improvements in the quality of their living. Many of these Americans were attracted to the cities in the first place because the economic opportunities were less attractive in the rural areas and small towns they had called home.

In my views, there is increasing opportunity for areas such as our Texas Panhandle to attract the new business and industry on which a regional economy can be strengthened. We have the people, the community leadership, the climate, the transportation structure, the recreational opportunity so greatly augmented by Lake Meredith and other water projects being developed or in the planning stage, the pleasant life of friendly cities and towns where families can put down roots and feel at home. And we have the rich mineral and agricultural resources that provide the essential raw materials for numerous industrial enterprises.

With local chambers of commerce taking the lead, communities across the Panhandle are scouting for businessmen and industrialists who wish to relocate facilities or build new ones. The Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, to cite an example, has prepared a very attractive brochure based on a recent Texas Parade magazine article, "Amarillo: Space to Space Age." With many color photographs and drawings, the brochure's last page notes that Amarillo is the fastest growing metropolitan market in the Southwest, with a growth rate increase of 22.9 percent from 1960 to 1965. The Panhandle area as a whole can speak in the same terms.

Along with chambers of commerce, the utility companies, rural electric cooperatives banks and other enterprises are working hard to bring industrial development. In my own conversations with business leaders, I have found growing interest for the possibilities of developing new facilities in our area. On the State level, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and the Texas Industrial Commission pursue the search for new business and industrial development.

It is possible that Congress may next year consider some form of incentive plan to assist new plant construction in areas primarily rural in character. Legislation may be proposed providing Federal income tax incentives for such development, although such a measure would be almost certain to draw opposition from huge cities and their Representatives. However, the precedent for tax write-off approaches was set some years ago by Congress in approving a bill advocated by the Defense Department to help disperse defense industries from areas regarded as prime targets in event of enemy nuclear attack.

A good, healthy trend toward non-urban plant locations is developing. All of us need to keep telling the wonderful Panhandle story, and the story of our own towns and cities.

LIGHTING STRUCK TWICE

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Mrs. C. R. Newell and her 8-month-old daughter jumped out of the frying pan and into the fire when lightning struck their home here.

The two scurried across the street to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Allen. About two hours later, the Allen home caught fire — apparently the result of the lightning.

CARRIED AWAY IN QUINCY

QUINCY, Ill. (AP) — Ronnie Olinger was about to resume work on his car, locked and parked at a service station. It had been two weeks since he last worked on it.

Unlocking it, he found the following missing: radiator, battery, radio, three-speed conversion kit, transmission, carburetor, cylinder head, cam shaft and hand tools.

Local Pharmacy Plans Expansion With Building And Parking Lot

With the enlargement of Hereford medical facilities, now two clinics plus the hospital, has come a set of chain reactions. Several additional medical offices were made available; the number of patients increased. Edwards Pharmacy is expanding as part of the chain reaction and now the pharmacy must build a larger building.

In order to make way for the new building, it was necessary to tear down two duplexes, thus the business section of Hereford has expanded to another block. This is proof positive that Hereford is a growing and progressive town.

The contract for the new pharmacy building has already been let and the new location will be the corner of Fourth and Miles. Construction is to begin Monday and it is expected to be completed by September 15.

G. Wayne Edwards, 112 Centre, is owner and manager of the pharmacy and a long-standing Herefordite. Moving from Oklahoma in 1947, he has lived in Hereford eighteen years. Edwards entered the pharmacy business in 1950 when he opened Edwards Prescription Pharmacy at 337 N. Miles Ave., where it has remained until now. The business is well established but as all good businesses do, it is still growing.

Jim Arney, a licensed pharmacist who is presently employed with Edwards Pharmacy, will continue to be Edwards' assistant.

The new location will boast a large brick building with modernized facilities. Special features for the convenience of customers will be a drive-in window for rushed customers and a large paved parking area capable of accommodating 30-35 cars.

Flowers Services Set Monday

Ben Roland Flowers, 76, of 501 East Fourth, died in an Amarillo convalescent home Friday after a long illness. He had been a resident of Deaf Smith County since 1941, when he moved from Oklahoma. Services will be Monday, August 1, at 3:30 p. m. at Gilliland Funeral Home.

Mr. Flowers was born Nov. 26, 1889, in Tennessee. He married Bessie Willard in Oklahoma Dec. 25, 1906.

She survives him, with four daughters, Mrs. Ed Skypala of Hereford, Mrs. A. D. Blythe of Lubbock, Mrs. Elzie Kennedy of Lakeview and Mrs. G. W. Bradshaw of Clarendon; three sisters, Mrs. Nora Simpson of Hereford, Mrs. Ella Dunning of Oklahoma City and Mrs. Seima Haskins of Gotebo, Okla.; a brother, Claud Flowers of Gotebo; 17 grandchildren and 30 great-grandchildren.

Fourth Red Cross Class May Open

Tentative plans are being made by the Red Cross to hold a fourth session of Red Cross Swimming Classes. This session would be for children in the Beginner I group. Classes in this session would begin Monday, August 8, and continue through a two-week period. The possibility of having the classes depends on the number of children wishing to take them. Any parent having children they wish to enroll in the swimming class should be at the Municipal Pool between nine and ten Wednesday, August 3.

The Red Cross has also announced the possibility of having another Senior Life Saving Class if there are enough swimmers who qualify. Anyone interested in the Life Saving Class should also be at the pool on Wednesday, August 3 or they may contact the Red Cross office at 364-3761; Mrs. Rush, 364-1603; or Mrs. Miller, 364-2554.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Let us begin by introducing ourselves. We are the Tena Morris YWA's of the Avenue Baptist Church. We are a young women's organization between the ages of 16-24. Each month we render a service to the community and our project this month was to take a survey of the quality of magazines that our local stores carry.

Because of this survey we wish to commend those few stores who carry only good literature. We wish to thank them and hope that they continue to do so.

On the other hand, we have found in our survey that we are very much concerned with the quality of literature that many of our stores carry. Since these stores deal with people of all ages, we are hoping that they will not continue to aid and abet the low standard of some of our people by the quality of magazines that they carry.

This project has made us vitally aware of the importance that good and/or bad literature can have on the young people as well as the adults.

And as a Christian organization we are hoping that others will join us in this effort to try to improve the quality of reading that our merchants have for sale.

Sincerely yours,
Tena Morris YWA's
Avenue Baptist Church

WINDMILLS KEEP WEIGHT

BROKEN ARROW, Okla. — Modern steel windmills, located to save steps for range cattle, play a part in producing beefier steaks for U. S. households.

Placed so no thirsty steer will have to walk more than a mile president of Aermotor Division of Braden-Aermotor Corporation. The company, which produces more than 90 per cent of all U. S. made windmills, estimates that more than 100,000 windmills are in service in Texas alone cutting cattle weight losses.

Pete Progress

speaking for the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce

Pete came in to discuss the proposed vocational school the other day. With this issue due to come to a vote this fall thought that his views might be shared with you. Pete in his roll as official Chamber of Commerce ambassador tries to keep in view the long range and overall effect of proposals on the whole community rather than the effect on him as an individual.

"The proposed area vocational school," Pete began "will provide Hereford with an industrial development plus. Hereford is in competition with every other community in the nation, and in fact in competition with cities in other nations, for the new industries or expanding industries in our economy. This competition is persevering, it is vicious, it knows no ethics and it uses any advantage that it can get.

"Industry that has decided to relocate or to expand its production facilities is courted with every kind of inducement — tax advantages, training allowances, utilities paid, moving expenses paid, buildings and equipment bought and paid for with public funds to be 'leased' to the industry — and every other conceivable bribe. Hereford has not had to engage in such tactics and my Chamber of Commerce does not subscribe to nor community in which they reside. As they gain new skills and their income increased they take themselves off the relief rolls, they buy more goods, live in better homes and becoming contributing rather than taking members of the society.

"From the community industrial standpoint they become an asset that can be pointed to in contacting industry. If Hereford were to be contacted by an industry needing a pool of skilled or semi-skilled labor it would be difficult to show their availability — though they are available.

"What then is the answer, or at least part of the answer. It seems to me that the proposed area vocational school is a real bargain for the community. Here those high school students who may come from disadvantaged families, those who may have no interest or capability for academic study can gain a skill that is employable, one that will enable him to better his economic position and complete his education.

"Some argue that this will just provide an easy diploma for the lazy, others say that it is not the function of the public. To the first must be commended, some faith in the elected school board of trustees and the trained professional administrators they employ. The school administration has assured that no one will be permitted to enroll in the vocational school with out careful counseling and guidance, that those who are capable of the academic program will be actively discouraged from the vocational program. To the second, it is true that the school must guard against competing with vocational schools in the private sectors, that those who can get vocational training in private schools should. But in many fields, particularly the building and construction trades, there is no school available, no means of getting such instruction nor is there in the auto mechanic field.

"It used to be that young men and women desiring to go into such vocations could enter into an apprenticeship and learn their trade in that way. Some have argued that they no longer are doing this because they are too impatient, that young people want to start at the top.

"I do not believe this to be the case. I believe that government regulation of business and industry has made the apprenticeship system uneconomical and impossible. An industry cannot pay the minimum wage now required while training an employee particularly in the vocations mentioned. These are mostly all small businessmen, businesses that cannot afford to employ non-productive trainees. Certainly big industries are conducting training apprenticeship programs but in their manpower needs and their operating frame they are facing a different cost-productivity picture.

For example in the printing industry, this is a very competitive business operating on a small margin of profit. A local print shop could not possibly stay in business if it had to train its own employees for it would mean not only a salary for an unproductive employee but decreased productivity of the employee doing the teaching. The same would be true of the building and auto mechanic vocations.

"The area vocational schools then would give Hereford area

Michael Serves As Council Planner

Bill Michael, principal of Hereford High School, is on the workshop planning committee for Texas Tech's West Texas School Study Council Summer Workshop which will be held Monday and Tuesday, August 1 and 2. Tech will host principals and teachers from 24 area public schools.

More than 800 educators are expected to participate in discussions on teaching techniques, curriculum content and administrative problems, said Dr. Berle J. Fallon, WTSCC executive secretary and workshop director.

Consultants and featured speakers will be Dr. Dick Foster, Superintendent of San Ramon Valley Unified School District, Danville, Calif., and Dr. Kenneth McIntyre, Professor of Education Administration at the University of Texas.

The program opens with a lecture on "What is Effective

Instruction?" by Dr. Foster at the 9:30 a. m. general session Monday. He will speak on "Individualizing Instruction" at 3 p.m. and will discuss "Adapting to Change" at 7 p.m. Dr. McIntyre will address principals on "Observation Technicques and Guides" and "Supervisory Interview Techniques." He will discuss "Evaluating Pupils' Work" at the 9 a. m. general session Tuesday. General sessions and meetings for teachers will be in Municipal Auditorium. Workshop sessions for principals will be in Coronado Room of Tech Union. A preliminary dinner meeting for principals is scheduled at 6:45 p. m. Sunday at Furr's Cafeteria. Other committee members include Mrs. Bernice Railsback and Mrs. David Pounds, both of Levelland; Dr. Bob Clinton and Ben Brock, both of Snyder; Mrs. Elizabeth Grady and Bill Stanford, both of Plainview; Al Langford, Lamesa and Jerry Crawford, Lubbock.

State Tagged 'Under Achiever' By West Texas Chamber Official

Loyan H. Walker, manager of the agriculture and ranching department of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, told members of the state Interim Committee on Agriculture this week in Amarillo that Texas is behind other agricultural states in promotion of one of its biggest sources of revenue.

"Most of the economic problems of Texas, including West Texas, could be grouped under the general heading of economic development," he told the committeemen and other agriculturists present.

Beef Course Set Monday Evening

Frank C. Litterest will be at the Hereford Community Center at 8 o'clock Monday evening, opening a beef production short course for area farmers.

The course will be at 8 p. m. daily Aug. 1 through Aug. 4. Enrollment fee will be $2. Sponsoring the meetings will be the Hereford High School Vocational Agriculture department.

Among topics to be discussed will be annual cow cost, testing bulls for fertility, culling dry and open cows, dwarfism, bull selection, heifer selection, winter feeding and range management.

A graduate of Texas A&M, Litterest has a degree in animal husbandry. Much of his career has been devoted to livestock production.

keting systems that might be used for further economic and development of the region, and

"3) alternative avenues toward adjustments that will tend to maximize economic development consistent with efficient use of our resources. Funds for research to determine market development potentials in more detail with respect to all aspects of farm and ranch production; agricultural supply, processing, marketing, and distribution sectors of the economy, relative to future population and consumption patterns are necessary for economic growth of the agri-business based economy of the region."

Walker expressed himself saying he didn't believe Texas was spending enough on development of agriculture and agri-business.

"Texas needs adequate research funds to emphasize agricultural research, market development, and economic growth relative to its major industry, agriculture. A large per cent of all the natural fibers produced in Texas, wool, mohair, and cotton, are shipped out in raw form to be processed elsewhere. So are large tonnages of food and feed grains, vegetables and fruit that could be processed for the growing populations of Texas and surrounding states. With additional meat packing, fiber spinning, agricultural processing, manufacturing, distribution, such as agri-business, the gross income, could be increasing substantially."

"The importance of research to the agricultural economy can be seen in the comparison of states, particularly those states that are highly competitive with Texas in cotton, beef, vegetables, fruits and grain production, to the disadvantage of this state. Florida, for example, has increased its gross agricultural product by 125 per cent over the last 10 years, while the increase for the nation has been only 25 per cent. In 1949 Texas and California had similar gross agricultural products. But in 1964 the agricultural product of California exceeded that of Texas by $800 million, an amount which exceeds the value of the beef cattle industry of which Texas claims fame."

"There are serious national agricultural problems in the adjustment of supply and demand. But Texas should not be expected to make these adjustments for the nation as a whole. Rather, Texas should develop its abundant resources of soils, water, people and favorable climate and lead the way to a healthy, prosperous and more efficient agriculture."

In citing research figures, Walker pointed out that California spent $17,771,691 for research. See STATE Page 10

ALLOTMENT TOO MUCH? Farmers Union: 'No' To Surplus

The state president of the Texas Farmers Union told Hereford members of that organization to write down their wants and let them be known if they wished to obtain effective legislation from congressmen and representatives, at a meeting here this week.

Jay Naman, head of the 7,500 member organization, said letters and other written communication are more effective than the word-of-mouth method in educating the nation's lawmakers concerning the wants of agriculture.

In opening remarks before the farmer group at a Thursday breakfast meeting, Naman commented, "I can't effectively serve you as president if I don't know the needs of farmers in your area." The use of written correspondence was stressed by the speaker as being more effective in obtaining desired results than traditional discussion methods.

Jay Naman

"We're interested in filling empty stomachs over the world, but we're also interested in seeing that the farmer gets his fair income," the state president asserted.

Farmers attending the breakfast at the Cason House were told that wheat allotments, already increased 15 per cent for the coming year, may possibly be increased another 10 per cent.

Although the wheat surplus has dwindled sharply, Naman pointed out that serious repercussions could be possible by increasing the 1967 allotment.

"IF WE PLANT an additional 25 per cent acres of wheat, under present conditions, we may be facing overproduction at this time next year," he stated. A large bumper crop is expected this year, he said, explaining that spring wheat had been very good.

"American wheat farmers are anxious to meet foreign commitments," he went on, "but they're not able or willing to provide this at a price below cost of production."

Naman pointed out that farmers might not plant as much as is permitted unless there is some sort of price incentive. He asked farmers to make a conclusion, and then inform congressmen and other agricultural leaders of their stand.

An over-production potential exists in grain sorghum, Naman said, showing the need by farmers to keep feed grain control program.

The cotton research and development program, thought to be dead in a committee at one time, was pulled out through organized efforts of farmers, Naman said. "We thought farmers deserved to be able to vote on this program," he went on. The Farmers Union will not suggest either a positive or negative stand on the issue, but will serve as an educational agency in informing farmers what the bill contains.

LEO WITKOWSKI, president of the local Farmers Union organization, called the farmers to a vote on the increased wheat allotment issue.

Jay Boston moved that no action be taken by the government which would cause overproduction and create surplus; the motion was approved by those present.

In a second vote, farmers voiced their opinion on cutting allotments. The position of the farmer was explained by Castro County farmer Shirley Garrison. When allotments exceed a man's actual acreage, the farmer is sometimes requested to reduce his allotment in some crop.

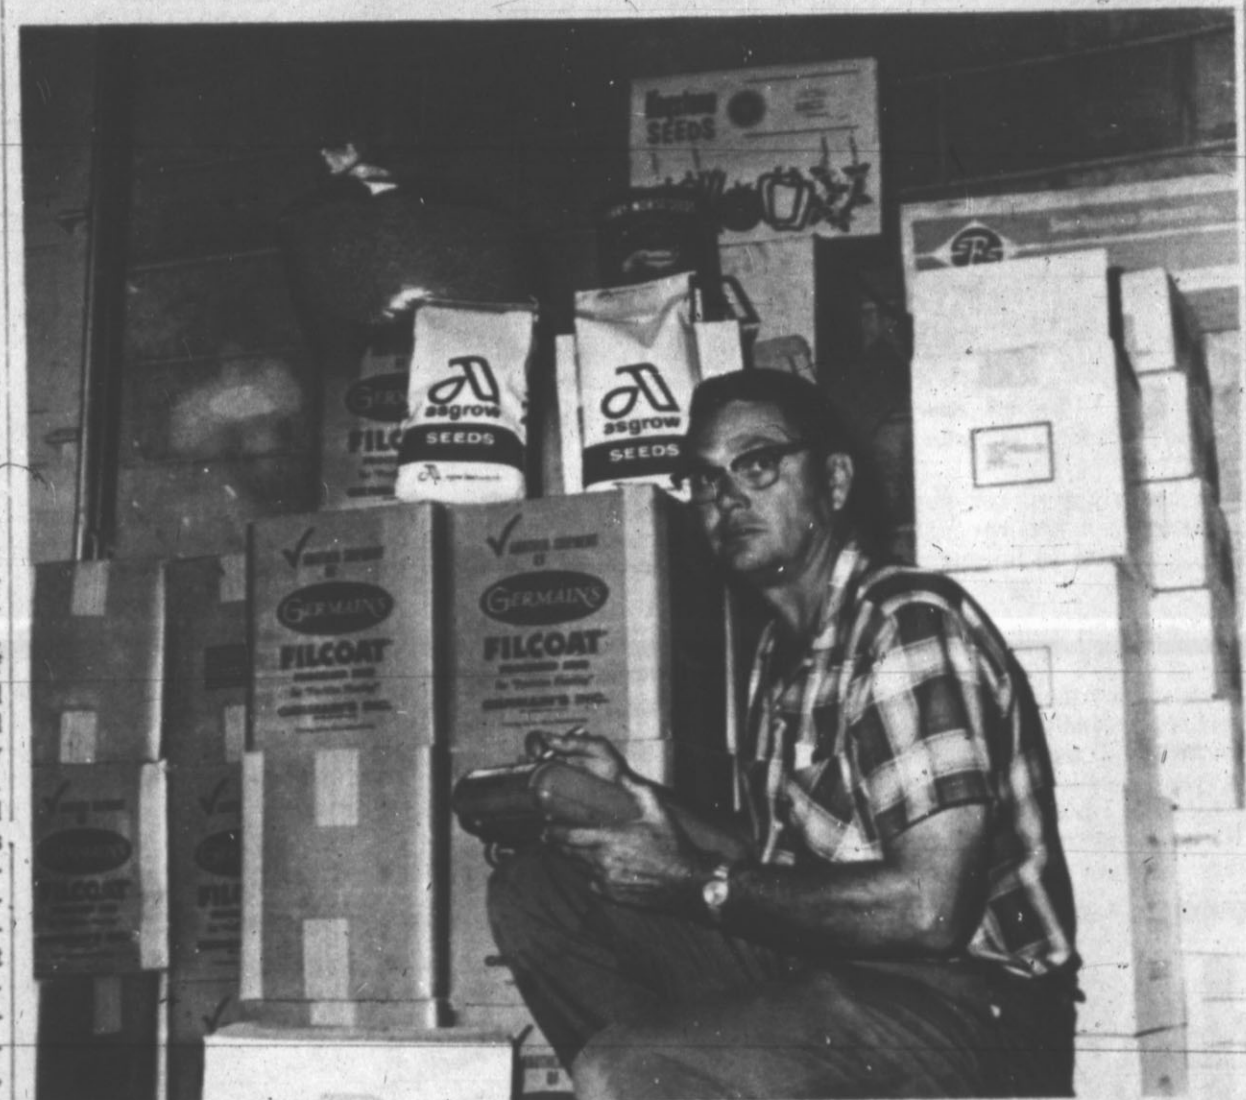

However, double cropping is practiced by many farmers to utilize their land. Irrigated land can sell for anywhere from $300 to $1,000 an acre; a farmer cannot afford to let it stand idle.

CUTTING ALLOTMENT figures down to actual acreage puts the farmer in a bad position if allotment cuts then are made by the Department of Agriculture. A farmer would then be back under his actual acreage, with land costing him money laying empty and not bringing in any income. The seven to ten per cent figure, common for "over allotment," gives a farmer a little leeway in the event wheat, or some other crop, has its allotments cut back any given year.

The Farmers Union group voted that "over allotted" farmers not be asked to cut acreages down to actual tilled acres.

"There is much to be done locally," Naman said, concerning preparation for the upcoming county convention. The county meeting will be followed by the state convention, to be held in November.

Farmers Union has 7,500 family members, and 15,000 votes in the state of Texas. See FARMERS, Page 10

ASC Committee Positions Open

Nominations for membership on Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service community committees are now being taken at the ASCS county office, located in the Agri-Building at 317 W. Third. Any local resident who is eligible to take part in an ASCS farm program may vote and hold office as a committeeman.

The present ASC committee is encouraging the greatest possible participation of eligible voters in this election. Faust Collier, manager of the federal office here, said.

Frank J. Bezner, chairman of the Deaf Smith County ASC committee, explains that farmers who are eligible to vote in the committee elections also have the right to nominate candidates for committee membership. A nomination must be accompanied by a petition, one for each nomination, signed by six or more eligible voters.

Eligible voters may sign as many petitions as they wish; deadline for the nominations will be Aug. 11.

Additional nominations may be made by the incumbent ASC community and county committees.

ENABLING LEGISLATION

Witkowski: 'Right To Tax Ourselves'

Leo Witkowski, local farmer and state president of the Texas Association of Wheat Growers, said the age of "agriculture of surpluses" that most farmers have known will soon no longer exist if the world's population grows as predicted.

Testifying before the Interim Study Committee on Agriculture in Amarillo last week, Witkowski was one of 13 witnesses who came before the state legislators in one of their 12 hearings to gather information on farming and ranching and legislation needed in these areas.

"Let us not become fossilized in our thinking. Agriculture needs new life and can even stand a shot of hybrid vigor," he exclaimed.

Witkowski told the state legislators that the most pressing problem now facing the wheat growers association is enabling legislation.

"We have seen the results accomplished in research and market development and other worthwhile programs. In the last two terms of our state legislature we have worked with citrus groups, rice, peanuts, poultry, pecans, grain sorghum, sesame and vegetables in securing a constitutional amendment to our state constitution which would legalize commodity self help programs."

Only three Great Plains states, Montana, Wyoming and Texas, do not have enabling legislation, Witkowski pointed out. "Montana has been working on theirs and if we are not careful we might be able to brag about getting ours last," he exclaimed.

Organizations have been formed in the states having enabling legislation with the purpose of promoting their agricultural products. Great Plains Wheat Association is spending an average of $350,000 every year for promotion, and Western Wheat Associates is spending about $300,000. Witkowski pointed out that these expenses were in addition to individual state production on farm truck fuel.

GONE ARE THE DAYS Labor Situation Must Be Updated

Farm labor today requires more specialization, a Friona farmer told state legislators who were in Amarillo Wednesday to gather evidence for possible legislation in the coming session of the state's law-making body.

Bruce Parr, who is an extensive vegetable farmer in the Friona area, told the Interim Committee on Agriculture that the days of the "hen, cow and sow" farmer are gone; agriculture is no longer a common labor operation.

Texas Employment Commission is not meeting needs of the farmer, he charged. "The TEC has been an instigator in making unemployment a year round occupation," pointed out Parr, explaining that use of terminology on cards carried by job applicants was not conducive in finding employment.

"I have never had a competent employe who was sent out from the Texas Employment Commission office," he asserted.

"Our modern West Texas farming is a part of the mechanical age which requires semi-skilled and skilled labor. A job on the farm heretofore meant a man with just a strong back for digging ditches and lifting bales of hay. Now a farm owner looks for a man with special training and experience.

"In short, a man applying for a job on the farm should be very competent in one type of work — say mechanics or welding — or he should have a good general knowledge of a farm.

"When a man looks for a worker, he wants one with an alert and experienced mind. Public awareness of this change and state application of this need can help employers to find such labor."

Parr went on to say that the employment commission should be used to help people who will work and people who hire workers to make contact. Instead, it is now being used as an agency for filing unemployment in order to draw compensation, he told the legislators.

"With the provided benefits for unemployment at present, we have a set-up which invites Meeting Aug. 26, the executive committee of the organization probably will not find a dues increase necessary. Naman pointed out. A budget fund drive made by the organization was taking care of expenses not expected in the year past.

INDIVIDUAL FARMER participation is important to the functioning of agriculture in the nation's government, Naman asserted. "It will not do any good if farmers only tell their gripes to each other," he said. "Rather, they should get together and inform their representatives and get those problems to the places where some good can be done."

He asked that the local Farmers Union work to arouse interest in the upcoming agricultural stabilization and conservation service committee elections.

"The way I can help you is to hear from you. When a farmer has a 'bone to pick,' he needs to consult with the county committee and work collectively to accomplish his ends."

Texas is now an associate member of Great Plains Wheat and sends a delegate to all board meetings. It is a non-voting member, however, because Texas can't match funds for research and market development projects.

"In programs of marketing and research of the National Association of Wheat Growers, Texas hasn't been able to contribute its share. I list these to show some of the opportunities we have in promotion of wheat but due to lack of funds we don't contribute our rightful share," Witkowski asserted.

"Some of our friends who object to agricultural enabling legislation have said farmers will contribute to any worthwhile voluntary project. Voluntary contributions have failed for wheat in other states as

A farmer eligible to vote in the committee elections, says the chairman, is generally a farmer who is eligible to take part in one or more of the national farm programs which the ASC committee helps administer. Further qualifications are necessary for those elected to committeemen posts.

The election of community committees throughout Deaf Smith County will be held by mail, as it has been done in previous years. Ballots with the names of nominees will be mailed from the ASC office Aug. 26. Final date for their return will be Sept. 7.

A separate ballot, returned in a separate envelope, will be mailed to wives of eligible farmers. The ballot must be mailed back to the office separately for it to qualify in the vote count.

A certification on the back of the envelopes must be signed and dated to be counted.

In each community election, three community committeemen and two alternates will be elected. The chairman, vice chairman, and third regular member of the elected ASC community committee also will serve as delegates to the county convention to be held soon after the election.

The ASC county committee will be chosen at the convention, open to the public. The date will be announced later.

well as Texas." He cited the Southwest Screwworm Eradication Foundation Committee program as an example. Only after much persuasion on the part of a few men did Deaf Smith County farmers contribute enough to meet the voluntary county quota.

"In this agricultural enabling legislation we are not asking for something untried or unheard of or for tax money; but just the right to tax ourselves to promote our own commodities," he said to the committeemen.

"How often have we heard the remark, 'Why don't farmers do more to help themselves?' These remarks constitute a challenge to farmers, and should not be ignored.

Routine Bills Studied By Chamber Group

A resolution favoring defeat of the Hart-Staggers Packing and Labeling bill was passed 8-1 in a meeting of the government affairs committee of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce in a luncheon meeting Friday at Jones' Restaurant.

Disfavor of the legislation was expressed because committee members thought the law unnecessary. As one committee member expressed himself, "If I can't read the label on the package, then perhaps I deserve to get stung."

Reasons for opposition to the bill were listed by Chamber Manager Bill Thompson:

1) The legislation is not needed. Federal and state laws are already available to handle all complaints; Congress should insist upon enforcement of present laws.

2) It would add to the cost of government.

3) Certain provisions of the bill would be a deterrent to the free enterprise system, and would discourage competition.

4) The bill would curb job opportunities.

Expansion of federal activities was feared by some members of the group.

The motion to favor defeat of the legislation was made by Earnest Langley, seconded by Pauline Howard.

A resolution favoring exemption of school cafeteria workers from the minimum wage legislation now in the Senate, which had been passed by the committee in a previous meeting, was left as it was after the Board of Directors of the chamber had requested expansion of the resolution.

Withdrawal of the resolution, as proposed by one committee member, might possibly infer endorsement of the minimum wage act, members felt. A motion to withdraw the original resolution was soundly defeated.

Committeemen attending included Earnest Langley, Bruce Miller, Melvin Jayroe, Jerry Fowler, Pauline Howard, Dr. Westie B. Owen, John E. McCleskey and Chairman Dr. Joe Whitley. Tom Burdett was a guest of Langley.

Mid-July Notes On This And That

By Mrs. Argen Draper
Home Demonstration Agent

The most refreshing event of the week: Our newest employee at the office is Julie Schroeder. She has been copying some pages that will go in the report of Fourth Grade Money Management.

This essay was written by a fourth grade pupil and as Julie is in this grade, it is very fitting that she copy it for us. Julie has helped us a lot.

Mrs. Hurrn Allen sent the following recipes that make very good products. The carrot relish is similar to the one Mrs. Carrie Mae Doak likes so well.

PICKLED CANTALOUPE

- 2 lb. cantaloupe, peeled & cubed
- 2 C. white vinegar
- 1 stick cinnamon, broken up
- 2 C. white sugar
- 2 T. mixed pickling spice

Tie the mixed pickling spice in cloth bag. The cantaloupe should be firm (not too ripe). Measure after the cantaloupe is peeled and cubed. Soak the cubes in the vinegar overnight. Drain and save the vinegar.

Combine the vinegar and sugar, add the spices (tied in bag) and bring to a full rolling boil. Add the cantaloupe cubes and simmer until transparent. Pack in hot sterilized jars and seal.

For hors d'oeuvres, serve on picks.

CARROT RELISH

- 8 onions
- 8 carrots (tender)
- 2 heads of cabbage
- 6 peppers (green)
- 6 red sweet peppers

Grind the above fine and add 1/2 C. pickling salt and let stand 3 hours. Drain well. Heat:

- 5 C. sugar
- 1 T. mustard seed
- 1 qt. cider vinegar
- 1 T. celery seed or salt

Mix all above ingredients and can cold.

THERE IS A leaflet on carrot recipes at the office. Come by for a copy. This leaflet has many recipes for carrots, carrot bread also.

Too, carrots freeze well. Select smooth tender, mild flavored carrots. Remove tops, wash and peel. Leave small carrots whole. Cut others in 1/4 inch cubes, thin slices or lengthwise strips. Blanch from 2 to 5 minutes depending on the size. (Many people freeze carrots without blanching) Cool, drain, package and freeze immediately. Taken from Frozen Foods, B-175.

MRS. FRED HIGGINS came by the office for some bulletins and asked about pickles made with salt substitute. From the efforts of Miss Maeona Cox, Extension Food and Nutrition Specialist and Dr. Ed Burns, Food Technologist, we get information that processed pickles can be made with salt substitute. The following is the information from our specialist.

A processed pickle is one where the preservation is due to heat and not salt or fermentation. The recipes for dill pickles in our old B-188 "Pickles and Relishes" and H&GB-42 "Making Pickles and Relishes at Home," USDA are preserved by bringing in salt so you can not use them if salt substitute is used.

If the recipe calls for soaking the product in a salt solution even for a short time, it cannot be used. When using salt substitute you must use a recipe that is a quick process.

Combine ingredients for pickling solution and bring to boil, pour over cucumbers which have been packed in jar. Close jar, and water bath process. Any recipe where all ingredients are mixed together and heated before putting in jar may be used also.

Also, the following pickles can be made with salt substitute. Many of the pickles on the market today are process pickles rather than brined pickles, because it is quicker and easier. However, for quality in pickles, nothing can replace the time-consuming brined method.

These recipes can be made with salt substitute:

- DILL PICKLES
(Short Method)
- 2/4 cup sugar
  - 1/2 cup salt
  - 1 quart vinegar
  - 1 quart water
  - 3 tablespoons mixed pickling spices

30 to 40 medium cucumbers, cut in half lengthwise. Green or dry dill. Combine sugar, salt, vinegar and water. Tie spices in a cheesecloth bag; add to vinegar mixture; simmer 15 minutes. Pack cucumbers into hot jars, leaving 1/4-inch head space put a head of dill in each jar.

Heat brine to boiling. Pour boiling hot vinegar mixture over cucumbers leaving 1/4-inch head space. Adjust caps. Process pints and quarts 15 minutes in boiling water bath. Yield about 7 pints.

KOSHER
(Short Method)
Follow recipe for Dill Pickles (Short Method). When packing cucumbers, add 1 clove garlic, 1 bay leaf, 1/2 teaspoon mustard seed and 1 piece hot red pepper to each jar.

DILL PICKLES
Fresh Kosher Style
30 to 36 cucumbers (3 to 4 inches long)

- 3 cups vinegar
- 3 cups water
- 6 tablespoons salt
- Fresh or dried dill
- Garlic
- Mustard Seed

Wash the cucumbers. Make a brine of the vinegar, water and salt. Bring to boil. Place a generous layer of dill, 1/2 to 1 clove of garlic (sliced) and 1/2 tablespoon of mustard seed in bottom of each clean, quart jar.

Pack the cucumbers into the jars. When the jars are half filled with cucumbers add another layer of dill and complete the packing of the jars. Fill the jars to within 1/2 inch of the top with boiling water bath. Pickles will shrivel some after processing. They will later plump in sealed jar.

Note: Salt substitute may be used in place of salt in above recipes.

Duplicate Players Enter Summer National Meet

Five members of the Hereford Duplicate Bridge Club are playing in the Summer Nationals of the American Contract Bridge League at Denver this week. The annual event began Friday and will continue to Aug. 7.

Hereford entrants are Mrs. F. W. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Carver, Mrs. Ann Woodward and Mrs. Don Shipley. They expected to meet former Hereford residents there, including Mr. and Mrs. Terry Kirby who now live in California.

Mrs. Noble L. Ballard and Mrs. Pat Robbins of Hereford won second place in National Charity games at Amarillo Friday evening. In these games, duplicate players over the nation play pre-arranged hands, all on the same evening.

Others who went over for the Amarillo games were the Bill

Dyes, Ed Schröeters and Wheeler Segars.

Mrs. Dye and Mrs. Max Leon were winners in the weekly duplicate games here Thursday. All interested residents are invited to join the club at these weekly sessions in Community Center. Beginners are welcomed and anyone who wishes to arrange for a partner is invited to telephone Mrs. Dick Gholsen.

By the end of the summer, new air-conditioned sightseeing buses, each seating 45 persons, will be operating on the highways of Jordan. The plan is for guides to go along, who speak English, German, French, Italian and Spanish. The buses will operate to Petra, Jerash, Agaba, Bethlehem, Jericho, Samaria and Mt. Nebo.

Golden Weddings

MARRIED 50 YEARS, two Hereford couples are celebrating Golden Wedding anniversaries today although the actual wedding dates fell during the past week. Friends of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Jones Sr. are invited for an open house hour between 3 and 4 p.m. this afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Williamson have sent invitations to a number of Hereford area residents for a reception in their home.

ALL THE FAMILY of Mr. and Mrs. Williamson is expected to be present today, including a great-granddaughter named for Mrs. Williamson, who was Miss Connie Thurman before her marriage in Wise County July 26, 1916. Sons of the couple are Thurman Williamson of Taylor and Henry H. Williamson of St. Croix, Virgin Islands.

AS THEY LOOKED when they were married, each couple is shown in a wedding photograph below recent photographs. The Williamsons have resided in Hereford since 1920 and the Jones moved to Deaf Smith County in 1944, living on a farm until his retirement from active farming five years ago.

HOME OF THEIR SON, L. J. Jones Jr., 201 Elm, will be the scene of the open house honoring Mr. and Mrs. Jones. The son and two daughters, Mrs. W. S. Ingram and Mrs. Kenneth Cass of Friona, and their families will be hosts. Miss Hattie Gollighugh and L. J. Jones were married July 30, 1916 in Wellington.

Mrs. David Hamblen heads Medical Auxiliary

MADAM PRESIDENT . . .

Enthusiasm Brought To Officer's Task

The bubbling enthusiasm of Mrs. David Hamblen aided Project Christmas Card, the annual fund campaign of the Hereford Medical Auxiliary, last year when she was the organization's secretary, and will be an asset as she leads the project this fall as Auxiliary president.

Her term will begin in September and preparations will start immediately for the Christmas project in which the Auxiliary annually raises hundreds of dollars to purchase needed equipment for Deaf Smith County Hospital and to give a nursing scholarship.

It will be Susie Hamblen's third year in the organization of Hereford doctor's wives, which she joined soon after moving to this city from Phoenix, Ariz. Her husband, now in dental practice here, was with the Public Health Service at Phoenix two years.

They had previously lived at Dallas, where they married after her first year in the Carruth School of Dental Hygiene. She completed training there and then served as clinical instructor.

"And I was surprised to find myself acting director there at the ripe age of 21," she laughs. "That happened when the director left for a short time and really left me in charge."

As Susie Loving, Mrs. Hamblen was "born and raised" in Amarillo. After graduation from high school there she was a student at Texas Christian University a year before she enrolled in Carruth School.

Just now her interests center

Rummage sales are being held as a summer project to raise funds for Red Cross youth activities in the Deaf Smith County Chapter. Ralph Knox and Arvis Southward have conducted the sale and plan another soon, aided by other members.

Knox was recently elected vice chairman of Panhandle Red Cross Youth at a conference in Ceta Canyon. Southward was named historian and a third Hereford member, Pam Miller, was elected secretary. They were installed at an area meeting in the Red Cross Combined Service Territory office at Amarillo.

The new area officers are taking part this summer in work at the Red Cross office here, in conferences, school exchange parties, hayrides and swims, all sponsored by other Red Cross organizations. A dance is planned as an event of the coming school year under sponsorship of the Deaf Smith County Chapter.

Miss Weber Is Married In Ceremony At Church

Wedding vows were exchanged in an evening ceremony Saturday by Miss Lucy Jane Weber, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jona Funk, 1808 Elyria, and George Richard Buhkahl, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Buhkahl, 2830 Lipscomb, Amarillo.

The Rev. Angelus Delahunt, S. A., officiated for the service in St. Anthony's Catholic Church. White flowers decorated the candlelight altar area.

Bridal attendants were Mrs. Wayland Smith, matron of honor, and Mrs. Herbert Finney, bridesmatron. David Buhkahl acted as best man for his brother, Mike Baldwin as groomsmen, Larry Baldwin and another brother, Jim Buhkahl, as ushers; all are Amarillo residents.

Wedding music was by Bobby Duke, vocal soloist, and Miss Sharon Cramer, organist. Selections were O Promise Me, Panis Angelicus and the traditional marches.

The bride, given in marriage by her grandfather, was gown in white satin. The long-sleeved, dress, cut on slender lines, was ankle-length with a chapel train attached at the back waistline.

Applied lace motifs encrusted with seed pearls and sequins circled the cameo neckline, bordered the train and formed an inverted-V design above the hem line.

A half-circle of seed pearls held the waist-length veil, edged with lace, to her blonde hair. She carried a white orchid surrounded by Stephanotis.

Her attendants wore street-length frocks of blue with matching slippers and had bouquets of feathered carnations in blue and white.

Mrs. Funk chose for her grand daughter's wedding a pink ensemble and the bridegroom's mother was dressed in navy, both with gardenia corsages.

Following the wedding the couple received congratulations of friends at a reception in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Funk. Pink roses, Shasta daisies and bells-o-Ireland from their garden were arranged for the centerpiece with white tapers tied with blue bows.

Mrs. Joe Booser and Miss Renee Malaut served punch and the three-tiered wedding cake, which was ornamented with blue sugar roses.

The couple left on a honeymoon trip to Taos and Las Vegas, and will return to a home at 407-A Ross Ave.

Mrs. George Richard Buhkahl, nee Miss Lucy Jane Weber

AGAINST YELLOW FEVER

Frankfort, Ky. (AP) — The state Board of Health was created in 1878 largely because of an outbreak of yellow fever in western Kentucky.

Washington might have had its own "leaving tower" if a proposed deep-terracing of grounds around the Washington Monument had been carried out in 1901, the National Geographic says. Test borings later proved that removal of the spongy sand and clay would have undermined the shafts foundation.

GOOD BOOKS FOR SUMMER READING

Two books, we have recently read from the library, have the same theme in common are just right for summer reading. Husband-wife teams realizing that their family-ties were not as strong as they had once been and the families were fast slipping into their independent ways move to do something about it.

The first book, Climbing a Rainbow, by Calvin Horn, the husband of one pair, is set in Northern New Mexico. The second book, The Hills of Home, a Vermont Idyll, is by Kathleen B. Granger, the wife of the other pair, and is indicated has its setting on the far east coast.

Horn, following a trial plan set by himself, wife and seven children, buys and remodels a mountain cabin for summer living. This was a summer adventure!

It was here that the family reunite in a way of life, with all taking part in many and varied activities, as a group and with each having his independent hobbies. Each seemed to have overlapping interests in common. They fished, hunted, hiked, roamed the hills learning about nature and terrain of the country. Horses were added, to the numerous other accumulated pets, and all the family learned to ride.

And since Horn is a student of New Mexico history, especially of its part in the Civil War, he guided tours for the family and imparted much of his knowledge of the historical spots. Often he was aided in this by others who lived in the area.

In the second book, in addition to the family's primary concern of unification, there is the remodeling of an old 175 year old house. The pair and their three children enter into the spirit of a new way of life to restore the 19 room house on a 275 acre plot. It was without electricity, central heating, or water. This was no fun, venture! The family had invested their life savings in it and the husband gave up a Chicago business and the wife, a good income from portrait painting.

There followed years of hard work, hardships, successful and unsuccessful farming ventures, with little fun and play. But the family were happy and became a closely-knit family again. The children accepted the new way of life and hard work and never looked back. Only a few times found the parents discouraged but they always managed to get a foothold and stay on.

When the children grew up, went away to school and jobs or married they put the For Sale sign up. But since big old places do not sell easily, the story ends on a happy note — the husband and wife are still there and in no hurry to change their way of life.

PAPER PRESENTED WITHOUT PIZINGER HONOLULU — A young U. S. Navy lieutenant from Great Bend, Kan., will have a scientific paper he co-authored presented at the Second International Oceanographic Congress in the Soviet Union this summer.

Lt. Donald D. Pizinger, commander of the Pacific fleet tug Mactabi, was senior author of the paper titled "Bottom Current Measurements in the Monterey Submarine Canyon" developed as the basis for a master's thesis at the U. S. Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey, Calif. He was aided by Lt. Peter H. Gatte.

Presented to the National Academy of Sciences, it was forwarded to the Russian program committee which accepted it for presentation at the Congress in Moscow State University June 3.

The Navy said Pizinger, invited to attend the Congress, will not be able to go "because of previous Navy commitments"

In addition, six WAF's from Amarillo Air Force Base, each with a special skill, will go along to assist with the summer program. Half a dozen members of the regular camp staff will be on hand to help where needed.

Bedrolls and suitcases are to be loaded from the Camp Fire Hut, 106 W. Ninth, Saturday afternoon. A truck will be parked in front of the building and girls will put their baggage on it.

They will spend it gaining field experience at the Pennsylvania State Air Pollution Control Division.

ELECTRIC POWER

wherever it is needed!

Motivated only by the needs of the consumer, cooperative electric systems are proud of their efficiency and ingenuity. Recently a co-op hired a helicopter to do a five-week job in two days. Providing scattered consumer-members with electric power often requires extra effort, but we know from first-hand experience that bringing electricity to a new area benefits the entire community.

TRAVELOGUE — Vacation time is here again, and many people are on their way to the scenic point of our country. One of these points is the historic city of St. Louis, Mo. While on vacation with his family, Brand photographer Tyler Vance visited St. Louis, and returned with these photographs of places of interest in that city. They are, (upper left) the oldest railroad bridge over the Mississippi, an old steam engine in the National Museum of Transport, River boats on the Mississippi; a marker commemorating the organization of the St. Louis flood control association; the inside of the Cathedral of St. Louis of France; another river boat; the old capitol building in St. Louis; sunlight reflected from the recently constructed stainless steel arch on the Mississippi waterfront; and (center) the old cathedral framed by the entire arch.

Golden Wedding congratulations to the H. V. Williamsons and senior L. J. Jones, both of whom passed 50th anniversaries last week and are celebrating with families and friends today. And another couple, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. London, are making plans for a party the first Sunday in August to observe an Aug. 5 anniversary.

Not so unusual as they were a decade or so ago when fewer people lived to celebrate 50 years of marriage, a Golden Wedding anniversary is still a very special occasion in any family. But it takes something like the 57 years of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Southward to be really remarkable.

AN AIRLINE hostess now, based at Atlanta, Ga. as she flies with Eastern Airlines, Miss Dyann Duvall has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Duvall, 318 Star, on a 20-day vacation. She left the first of the week for Dallas to visit awhile on her way back to Atlanta.

HOUSE GUESTS of the E. W. Dettmans last weekend were his brother, Arthur Dettman, with his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Frances Hooven, here from Las Vegas, N. M.

Audine and E. W. took their guests to see a performance of "Texas" in Palo Duro Canyon Monday night and couldn't have picked a better time, as Lynda Johnson, the President's daughter, was there that evening so the audience had a double show.

SQUARE DANCING fans are due a treat next Saturday evening when the Sugar Squares of Hereford will host a special dance in the mall at Sugarland shopping center. Clubs from other cities will be here for the big dance and a prize is ready for the group traveling farthest. No do-si-do'er myself, I certainly want to go out and watch that a while. Sounds like fun.

WELL, ANOTHER line dropped, another story spoiled. It was in a recipe this time, and last Thursday's paper carried Mrs. Clifford Trotter's recipe for luscious blueberry dessert

(and the adjective is intentional because I've had a sample or two) with the quantity of one ingredient listed with the name of another ingredient.

The crust for the dessert is made with 1/4 cups graham cracker crumbs, 1 stick margarine and 1/2 cup powdered sugar, mixed well and pressed into the bottom of a pan as the foundation for the blueberry mixture and the cream topping.

If you leave out the graham cracker crumbs, it wouldn't turn out well at all. But any cook could tell at a glance that it just didn't read right, so maybe nobody tried it.

Nobody feels worse about typographical errors, even less serious ones, than we do here at the paper. If you're thinking, "Then don't make them!" you're invited to drop in and be sure an issue gets out without any.

A fraternity party in Amarillo Saturday was something rather special for Mack Cansler and his guest, Ruth Ann Allison. Its host was Joe Batson, in the home of his parents, the J. Ernest Batsons.

THAT FAMILY has been host several days to Lynda Bird Johnson, as the President's daughter stopped in Amarillo on a private tour of several cities in Texas. Joe Batson was her escort to the Paul Green production of "Texas" in Palo Duro amphitheatre early in the week.

Oh yes, the fraternity is Lambda Chi Alpha. Cansler is a student at West Texas State University.

ZOOK DIDN'T FUMBLE

SALINA, Kan. (AP)— Dan Zook is director of the Salina Recreation Department, and he didn't fumble this vital pass when it came his way.

As he waited to cross an intersection, a car swung around the corner with a back door open. Sitting in the back seat was a small boy, in danger of falling out. Zook waved his arms at the mother, who was driving, but couldn't attract her attention, and the youngster tumbled into Zook's open arms.

It was a touchdown catch. Neither Zook nor the boy was hurt.

TO MARRY THIS WEEK — Miss Deanna Fisher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest L. Fisher, Rt. 2, and Chelsea Furrow, son of Mrs. Valdene Holden of Oklahoma City, will be married Saturday evening, August 6, in Greenwood Baptist Church. The couple plans a home in Oklahoma City, where the prospective bridegroom is employed with an oilfield supply firm. He is a graduate of Dell City High School and attended Oklahoma Tech and Springfield Baptist College. Miss Fisher was one of the 1966 graduates of Hereford High School.

Medical Costs Told Old Folks

"Some older people enrolled for doctor bill insurance under medicare may be having difficulty paying the $9.00 quarterly premium," Travis C. Briggs, social security district manager in Amarillo said today. Briggs advises that these people may pay $3.00 or $6.00 amounts covering 1 or 2 month premiums, but should make a payment as soon as possible.

"Older people who are receiving monthly social security or railroad retirement payments have the $3.00 monthly premium deducted from their benefit checks. Others received premium notices last month requesting them to mail in a quarterly payment of $9.00. Payments may be made by check or money order mailed to the Social Security Administration Payment Center in the envelope enclosed with the premium notice."

Briggs said that some people confuse hospital insurance and doctor bill insurance under medicare. He emphasized that the two are separate and distinct. He said that premium payments are for doctor bill insurance and only people who have signed up for it are eligible. "On the other hand, almost everyone 65 and older is eligible for hospital benefits in a participating hospital. In a real emergency, benefits can be provided in many hospitals that do not participate in medicare."

ELEPHANT NEVER FORGETS TO EAT

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)— Knoxville's City Council is pondering the problem of a portly pachyderm who is peerless in his ability to pack away provisions.

In short, Diamond literally is eating himself out of house and home at the zoo.

The council indicated that the elephant's daily diet of five bales of hay, five gallons of oats, a stalk of bananas, 14 loaves of bread and a few crates of lettuce is too much for the city to provide.

They agreed to give Diamond away if necessary.

One problem remains: Who wants him?

Medieval alchemists were not above trickery to impress potential patrons. Unscrupulous members of the craft produced gold by sleight-of-hand and earned grants from the credulous.

Completing the installation of officers for the coming year in Hereford VFW Auxiliary, Mrs. Henry Murrell was installed as senior vice president, Mrs. C. D. Pinckert as conductress and Mrs. Harry Burke as guard at a meeting in the VFW clubhouse Thursday evening.

Mrs. Burke was elected to her office earlier in the meeting, to fill a vacancy. Mrs. Orpha Nickerson presided.

A report on the recent convention of VFW Auxiliaries of the Department of Texas was made by Mrs. Burke, who represented the Hereford group at a meeting in Houston.

Another report, on work in VA Hospitals, was given by Mrs. Nola Ralston. Plans were made for entertaining patients in the Amarillo VA Hospital Aug. 5, when members of the Auxiliary and VFW here will take refreshments and act as hosts.

Others present were Mmes. David Rettman, Leonard Davis and Clarence Hollabaugh.

Manor Scene Of Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Blaylock are at home in an apartment at The Cottage, King's Manor, after their marriage last weekend at Phillips. Mrs. Blaylock is the former Mrs. Exa Hammond, a resident and member of the staff at the Manor.

The marriage is the first of two King's Manor residents since the Methodist retirement home opened here.

The Rev. Hugh Blaylock, Methodist pastor at Phillips and son of the bridegroom, officiated for the marriage Saturday morning, July 23.

Friends at the Manor greeted the couple in their apartment with an old-fashioned West Texas "chivaree" Monday evening after their return to Hereford.

'OLD GIRL' KIDNAPPED
ROCKFORD, Ill. — Kidnappers have been taking the wooden Indian maidens from the Tulocks Woods Subdivision and returning them from time to time.

Perhaps "The Old Girl," as the statue was affectionately known, will also return.

She is missing from the yard of Thomas Carriso's residence. Carved nine years ago by Chief Big Wind near Lac du Flambeau, Wis., she was dressed in a blue cape and looked very matronly.

"I'm very unhappy about it," said Mrs. Carriso. "It's surprising how much you miss some thing. You don't notice it, but when it's gone, the yard looks so bare."

Changing Times Will Be Reflected In Text Books

Text books, like everything else, are due for some extensive changes during the next few years. Right now, the big trend appears to be in the direction of total integration, according to press wire releases.

Take the "Readers", for instance. Jane and John are still popular characters in the books, but we now have the addition of new colored characters: "Mandy" or "Lisa", who is a very nice little girl, and who invites the white girls to her birthday party, where they eat cake and ice cream and have the time of their lives. Final objective: total integration.

Publishers who compile the books point out that other "Readers" are still available, but that the new integrated series is finding wide and popular acceptance; far beyond their marketing hopes, in fact.

So far as we know, no effort has been made to expedite sale of these particular books through allocation of federal aid funds. However, it is a possibility, and may well become a future regulation once the federal school programs get rolling at top speed. To say the least, such has been the standard with FHA and other federal housing projects which serve the nation.

Needless to say, this method will also become a long-range target of the Communists, who are ever alert to spread propaganda through the grade school and high school levels. Such tactics, in fact, are the greatest danger which the nation faces with the advent of federal control of education, which we now have and are likely to have for many years to come. Already, we have bans and restrictions on prayers in our schools, but we doubt if very many parents really wish their youngsters to be indoctrinated in an adverse direction.

At this time, it seems, some group in each and every community should organize a text book league. While they could not screen and pass on all books in the library, they could efficiently and carefully review the fundamental text books, especially in the lower grades, with the idea of recommending books in keeping with the basic thinking, morals and general ideals of the specific community involved.

Only through this or similar action will true American ideals be passed on to our youngsters. Lethargy in this direction is definitely what our enemies want and plan in order to spread their theories.

Automation Hits Farm Areas Too

More and more, we are running into mechanization and its effects, and this will probably be the story for several generations to come.

On the local scene, for instance, we are producing many times over the amount of farm products produced a decade ago—and with less labor than in prior days. The vegetable growing business, for instance, was one of the last fields to face large-scale mechanization; as a result, we find fewer and fewer migrants who trek into the area for seasonal labor. Local merchants complain about losing customers, but the producer really never had it "so good". Industry, well ahead of agriculture, has for many years searched and researched for machines to take the place of men.

The advent of higher production at lowered costs, has done more than any other single factor toward improving the living standards of the nation. Meanwhile, we have faced a population explosion, development hundreds of new machines—and it is still difficult to find competent, reliable help. Without mechanization we would, no doubt, be facing the throes of hunger pains and famine so frequently reported in most other nations around the world. How much further can we expect this trend to hold? With more and more people, more and more machines, will we sooner or later reach a point where only 10 to 20 percent of the population can find employment? Already, this situation has developed to some extent, but mostly in the unskilled classes.

To combat the situation, the government has adopted hour regulations, enforced overtime pay, and established minimum wages. Some people predict 30-hour work weeks; others expect as low as 20 hours within the next decade. The worker naturally must continue to earn a reasonable living for his family—or the whole system will go to pot, due to lack of cash customers.

Some people couple our rising crime wave with the advent of undue idleness of the part of people who once worked from "sunrise to sunset". Whether this holds water or not, it is for certain that all of us must learn to amuse and entertain ourselves with such an abundance of extra time on our hands. To accomplish this, we are building lakes all over the country. New hobbies are being created, and old ones expanded. Sports, once a man's world, now provide recreation and pleasure for both sexes. There is also a definite trend toward the arts; more people are painting, writing, reading poetry, and attending the opera than ever before. Travel is another phase of American life which has enjoyed tremendous expansion, both in the New World and in the Old.

Birth control is a hush-hush answer which may well contribute toward solving the problem, although some fear that it is seldom practiced among the unskilled classes which, they point out, as a possible handicap to civilization, rather than an asset.

New-fangled computers are coming in to their own, and soon the "white collar" workers will face the same problems so recently encountered by labor and skilled labor.

No one seems to have a workable answer, and this especially applies to Congress and to the unions. Two-car families are as thick as fleas on a hound, and many of the people you see have two homes, if you include the trailer or hide-away at the lake or in the hills. As consumers, we've pretty well done our part; unfortunately, the rest of the world wants to buy, but seldom possesses the wherewithal.

So here we sit with all of the necessities, too many luxuries, too much know-how to remain idle, and scared to death that someone is going to come along and take it all away from us. The big question is, "Where do we go from here?"

Court Rules On County Precincts

Of more than passing interest to residents of this area was a recent Texas Supreme Court case involving Midland County, and a County Commissioner who represented 95 percent of the population—while the other three commissioners represented only 5 percent.

While the Supreme Court agreed, 8 to 1, it also held several reservations. They considered the situation unfair representation but, at the same time, specified that other factors than population should be considered in re-districting. Other factors primarily included "miles of county road, taxable values, and geography"—plus "convenience to the people".

Due to lack of definite decision on the Midland County case, it will be settled through compromise, or may even go into the U. S. Supreme Court for a final decision. As we all know, federal courts, in dealing with State Legislatures, have favored the "population-only" rule.

In Deaf Smith County, where we have two large-population and two small-population precincts, the local-level circumstances and arguments have pretty well followed a similar pattern to the decision reached in the high State court. Our conclusion, in fact, was paralleled by their recommendation of considering all factors through which we arrived at minor re-districting by compromise—and we presume most people are happy.

Anyway, we like the phrasing: "convenience of the people". If they could alter it to read "convenience and welfare", it would sound like old times. If this trend continues, we may even live to see one central tax office instead of three, along with other improvements.

Excess Crops To Diminish If Present Trends Persist

By BERT MILLS

WASHINGTON, — Twenty years of food surpluses and of stringent government controls to hold down crop production may be drawing to a close, if present trends continue.

This reversal, from a position of oversupply to one of undersupply, has not happened yet but seems to be developing. Rising demand for all kinds of crops, both for domestic consumption to feed a growing and prosperous population and for export, is bringing a rapid change in the agricultural outlook.

Not much has been said about this prospective switch. The reason is that like most fundamental economic changes, the repercussions will be both good and bad and cannot be fully measured in advance. On the good side, rural America will prosper because of more production on the farm, and good prices. Communities whose economy is keyed to agriculture may expect a shot in the arm. Values of cropland seem sure to rise in many areas.

Consider what has been happening in wheat. Acreage allotments have been raised 15 percent. While no decision has been reached, there is speculation that a further increase will come.

On the bad side, higher food prices are probable in the future. This is fine for farmers but not for city-dwellers. Consumers are complaining now of the rise in their food bill and the outlook is that the trend will still be up in 1967.

Politics a Factor
Republicans are making a campaign issue this year out of the high cost of living, particularly food prices. This is a sensitive point with Democratic leaders, saddled as they are with the unpopular war in Vietnam.

The farm vote is not as important as it used to be but the Democrats are not going to let it go by default. You may be sure that major moves made by the Department of Agriculture between now and November will be weighed for their political effect.

Most Great Society programs are city-oriented, which is smart politics because the power base of the Democratic party lies in the major population centers. Most of the new members of Congress the Democrats elected in the 1964 landslide are from the cities.

Department of Agriculture experts are aware that the probable trend of food prices over the long haul is up. But it would not be conducive to the reelection of many Democratic members of Congress to say much on the subject until the fall campaign is over.

President Johnson, preoccupied though he may be with his Vietnam problems, keeps a firm hand on what Administration leaders say and do. In this season, all plans and pronouncements are reviewed at the White House for their political effect.

School Board Buys Thirty Acre Tract

Despite recent publicity increased pay on feed and the establishment of a plan to purchase hay under the Drouth Emergency Relief program, no information concerning the new plans has been received in offices serving this county, according to Faust Collier, ASC manager, and Walter Johnson, FHA supervisor.

The Commissioners Court Monday set the tax rate at 95 cents, the same figure as last year, took initial steps towards sale of the "Bull Larn" lots, and employed Ed Warren to supervise construction of the proposal County Agricultural exhibit building to be constructed east of town.

Purchase of 27.92 acres of land from W. N. Hodges was announced Tuesday night by members of the School Board in regular meeting. The land will be used in 1957-58, first as a location for a football stadium and athletic field and later, as a future school site.

Topping of Highway 60, from intersection of Highways 51 and 60 west to the Castro County line near Summerfield is scheduled to reach completion by about Tuesday.

Farmers in the western part of Deaf Smith County, along with their parched crops, were today still reeling from the effects of a man-made drought which reached a peak stage this week as natural gas supplies dwindled to a point where they could not start or efficiently operate irrigation wells.

The current budget, based on the new $1.50 rate, calls for $385,337 in estimated costs as compared with a total income of $393,000 leaving a surplus of $7,663 provided the district makes 100 per cent collections.

Three cars of the Santa Fe westbound "81" left the track about one mile east of Hereford early Wednesday morning. No injuries were reported.

Teachers numbered 118 for coming school term.

Out-door wrestling becomes popular, as the sport moves to Whiteface Football stadium.

Jeff Minton wins the City Junior Golf Championship, defeating Charles Seed.

A group of farmers from the Hale County area voted Tuesday night to call for a county-wide election on a proposal which would ask admission into the High Plains Underground Conservation District.

If the election is called and county voters approve the proposal the High Plains district, headquartered in Lubbock will be asked to accept Hale County as a member.

The proposal was formed Tuesday night by nearly 70 area farmers who met at the Hale County Agricultural Center.

Drive by Roland Dreahn's farm on U.S. highway 290 near Hempstead and you'll see two strips of shiny, black plastic along the ground. Cantaloupes are growing up through the plastic.

Looks kind of odd at first. If you stop and talk to Dreahn, he will tell you that so far this year he's harvested 1,490 pounds of cantaloupes from those two rows. Two identical rows — except for the plastic — have yielded a measly 60 pounds to date.

In this light, it doesn't look so odd, it seems almost fantastic instead.

Richardson says benefits of the plastic are getting early yield (and the higher price) and a higher yield. Reason for the higher, early yield is the plastic conserves moisture and absorbs sunlight — allowing earlier planting and faster germination.

Dreahn is using the plastic in a demonstration for the Waller County Agricultural Agent, Burl Richardson.

Dreahn says the plastic keeps his cantaloupes from rotting since they rest on the plastic instead of the ground. The plastic can also be used on watermelons, tomatoes, and most other vegetables, he says.

A peak 24-hour electrical load last Friday caused a shutdown in power affecting the area south of 11th Street. A load of almost 6,100 kilowatts caused fuses to blow and breaker switches to throw, resulting in the power blackout which lasted about 45 minutes.

City Supt. James Feazelle said the light plant generated 109,700,000 kilowatt hours over a 24-hour period last Friday. This was an increase over any 24-hour generation last year. The peak for 1965 was 103,600,000 kwh.

Feazelle said the fuses were replaced with larger fuses and the breaker switch at the plant was thrown. The breaker switch was reset and power was restored.

THE BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his hindwee farm seems alarmed about something he read this week, his letter indicates.

Dear editor:
Most people are so busy earning a living they don't have time to back off and recognize a new trend in governmental thinking when it first crops out, but I found one in a newspaper yesterday which somebody ought to head off before it spreads.

According to this article, a government official was struggling with the same problem every state has, as well as every city and town — how to get more revenue.

"We ought to raise the gasoline tax another cent a gallon," he said, and here's the clincher, "because it hasn't been raised since 1955."

That's what I'm talking about. You mean to say the government is coming around to the idea that a tax rate eleven years old is out of style? You mean they're thinking about going over every tax there is and raising every one that hasn't been raised in a given number of years?

You can see what this will lead to. Take just the gasoline tax. If it ought to be raised automatically every two or three years just to keep from being old-fashioned, you can see what the tax would be 50 years from now.

And since there are hundreds of taxes, most of them pretty well hidden, scattered around on nearly everything you buy, this new trend would let the cat out of the bag.

I tell you, we've got to head this off. Some people are always talking about preserving historic landmarks, why not put tax rates in the same category?

What a shame it'd be to destroy these historic old tax rates and rob future generations of such a splendid heritage.

I hope you will use your influence if you can remember where you put it and nip this in the bud.

Your faithfully,
J. A.

Elsie is her sister and she and little Carmen came to Ohio to visit her three months ago. They decided to visit Regina who had married, Bill Kester when he was stationed in Germany and who had come to Hereford to live. Regina says they enjoyed a wonderful visit together. The sisters left by train last Tuesday to return to Cleveland, Mrs. Eckert will call Regina's mother when she arrives back in Germany and give her the news of her daughter and family.

Mrs. Lynn Kester says that five year old Carmen delighted all with her primpness and her delightful manners. On being introduced to folk here she immediately shook hands with them and when departing she again went the rounds to shake hands.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Kester were hosts for a family birthday party at their home on South Main last Sunday afternoon honoring the "11th" birthday of grandson Mickey Walls. Spending the last week of a three-week vacation at home are the Fred Mulkeys. They were to have spent more time in Hawaii and on the west coast but because of the TWA airplane strike had to shorten their trip and come home via Santa Fe when reservations were suddenly available.

Leaving here on July 11, from Amarillo at 6:00 a. m. they arrived in Honolulu at 12:30 a. m. the next morning on another air line.

Mrs. Mulkey a 5th grade teacher in Shirley School writes the following account of their tour of the islands:

"A trip to Hawaii has been a "dream trip" for a number of years, particularly the past two years. Now, having recently returned from the actual trip, having seen the exotic beauty and enchantment of all the islands, the trip is more realistic but still mostly a "dream trip."

There is a Hawaiian saying: "Aote oe i noho a ike i Hawaii," which means, "You have not lived until you have seen all of Hawaii. This, we can truly say as we winged our way over all the eight major islands. During the flight tour we traveled 860 miles by air, 60 miles by bus, 10 miles by boat and walked two miles. At the end of this glorious tour we returned with memories and pictures of sights, facts, and legends that are indelibly etched in our memories which we can re-live for years to come.

Our "home island" was Oahu, "The Gathering Place,"

Walkiki Beach was just one block from our hotel. From this point we started each of our tours which so enriched our our visit.

Hawaii is a land of contrasts — a vacation land with a reverse twist. It's the 50th State, but visitors find customs of Polynesia, Japan, China, India, the Philippines, Samoa, New England, Korea, and Portugal.

Even though it's part of the United States, every Hawaii vacation has a built-in Ocean trip, either by boat or plane. Hawaii has living legends and the tempo of the peaceful past on remote islands. Even though the Aloha State is sub-tropical, it is frequently cool enough at night to sleep under a blanket. In the land of year-round swimming surfing, and golfing, there's often snow on the high volcano tops.

In ancient Hawaii early Polynesians, living close to nature in surroundings where gorgeous flowers were plentiful, adorned themselves with garlands and wreaths of the most brilliant and fragrant blossoms.

Despite the countless changes in Hawaii living since then, this natural captivating custom is more alive than ever.

Now known the world over as Hawaii leis, these garlands play apart in many phases of island life. The visitor is draped with exotic wreaths as a welcome gesture. Again he receives leis of aloha on his departure from Hawaii's shores. Leis have told the story of lovers and adorned the graves of loved ones. There is always the thought of love or affection accompanying the gift of a lei."

Stationed in Honolulu is a friend Miss Helen Hood who is WAVES. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hood, Canyon and they are long time friends of the Mulkeys. Miss Hood took the Mulkeys in her car to a number of exotic sports including sea Life Islands and The Spouting Horn and to many exciting places to eat. The one right close to Pearl Harbor.

When the Mulkeys boarded their plane to leave, Helen placed the leis about their necks as her final aloha.

Returning to Los Angeles, Cal. there was a visit with relatives and friends including a car trip to Lompoc where they were guests in the home of the Don Smith family. Mrs. Smith is the former Ruth Ann Terry, daughter of Mrs. and the late George Terry. Other points of interest included Disneyland, the Danish colony in Solvang, World Market, Hollywood Bowl, Cultural Centers and the city in general.

administration could do for most farmers is to end the crop controls in effect for about two decades. There has been some speculation about a possible end to the unpopular programs.

There appears to be no chance at all that such a step could come this year but there might be talk about it as a future possibility. It might be good election year politics to drop some hints between now and November that acreage allotments are not going to be retained forever.

The next Presidential election is only a little more than two years ahead. As a long-range goal, the Johnson Administration may be hoping to abandon crop controls in 1968. For the moment, continued relaxation of controls appears to be the most that can be expected.

Milo Center — A Living Revival Of 'Old Fashioned' Communities

By ANN BROWN
Feature Writer

On Labor Day of 1964, the residents north of Hereford gathered at the Pitman elevator for the purpose of formally organizing what was already a thriving community. The meeting began with a traditional western feast of barbecue, beans, and all the trimmings. The meal was prepared and served by the local men under the leadership of Bobby Owen, Arthur Fuston, Hap Higgins, and Bob McQuigg.

After about 300 friends and neighbors had disposed of the feast, they gathered around an improvised platform on the flat bed of a huge grain truck. There was music provided by Bobby Owen, followed by a welcome address by Hardy Benson.

Everyone was asked to register for the "door prize," a twenty-five dollar savings bond, and to suggest a name for the new community. When the votes were counted, Milo Center was the name chosen. Mrs. Bob Veigel drew the bond. The crowd voted to make the meeting an annual affair. Bob McQuigg was elected chairman for the following year.

On September 6, 1965, the new community celebrated its first anniversary with a repeat performance of the barbecue. More than 500 people attended. Joe Hysinger was elected as the new chairman.

Milo Center had its beginning when Bobby Owen purchased the corner of the J. B. Haile farm, at the intersection of Highway 385 and Farm Road 1062, and opened his country store. Mr. Owen's store is called "Pioneer Fertilizer," and fertilizer is his main commodity, but his stock includes almost everything that a farm family might need in a hurry. Mr. Owen, a native of Hereford, makes his home in Hereford with his wife, Betty, and their four daughters: Becky, 15; Barbara, 11; Brenda, 9; and Beth, 3.

Pioneer Fertilizer was opened for business in 1959. In 1962 it was joined by a 500,000 bushel elevator built by Pitman Grain Co. The present manager, Dean Stallings, lives in Milo Center.

with his wife, Jeri, and their two daughters: Kelli, 4; and Kristin, 2.

Phillips Petroleum plans to build a new fertilizer plant just north of the Pitman Elevator on land purchased from the Gene Seely farm. So, the "town" is growing.

Adjoining the "townsite" on the southwest is the Haile caged egg farm. The Hailes have four children: Cynthia will be a senior at Hereford High School this fall; Jimmy will be a sophomore; Bert in the fifth grade, and Bryan in the third.

On the southeast corner is the Robert Veigel stock farm. The Veigels, Bob and Ella Marie, have a son, Steve, 4, and a daughter, Holly, 1½.

The northeast corner of Milo Center is the Luther Lesly farm. The Leslys have four children: Sam and his wife, Susie, farm in the Westway community. John will be a freshman this fall at West Texas State University. Tom will be a sophomore at Hereford High, and Helen Ann is a third grader.

In a three-mile radius of Milo Center are several brick homes that compare quite favorably with homes found anywhere in the United States. In addition to the lovely homes of the Hailes, Veigels, and Leslys, are the homes of the Sammy Wests, Jim Conkwrights, James Higgins, Lawrence Strassus, L. D. Pickering, and the Gilbert Browns, naming only the closest to the "center" of the community.

Yes, the irrigation water on the High Plains has wrought a glorious metamorphosis. Since ours is an agricultural economy, everyone has shared in the blessings. When wheat will yield as much as 80 bushels an acre, and milo 9000 lbs, we have blessings to share with the hungry world. In fact, some of our crops probably wind up in India.

Of course, the average farmer and his wife consider sixteen hours a normal work day, and many work even longer hours. The farm wages and working hours may not be too good, but the fringe benefits are priceless! Thirty years ago the High Plains of Texas presented quite a different picture from what they do today. The fertile top soil of the once prosperous farms had apparently disappeared in boiling black clouds of swirling dust. The average citizen who remained in the desolate wasteland was sadly convinced that his former pleasant way of life was gone forever.

Many of the deserted shacks of the early settlers had all but vanished beneath tons of drifting dust. Only the chimneys protruded from the mounds of sand like sentinels of doom. Here and there a piece of abandoned farm machinery peeped from the apex of a small sand hill. The shifting sands turned some of the barbed-wire fences into overpasses. It was indeed a land of blasted hopes.

Now this once desolate region is considered one of the richest agricultural areas in the nation. It is a veritable paradise of growing crops and palatial homes. All this magical transformation was wrought by one thing only: water! Failing to receive this precious element from the burning skies, the die-hard Texans dug it out of the ground.

Only a little more than two-fifths of Deaf Smith county is under irrigation at the present time — but two-fifths gives a very good account of itself. Some of the land that sold for ten to twelve dollars an acre in 1936 would list for five to six hundred dollars an acre — if it were for sale, now.

In addition to milo grain sorghums, and wheat, that the local farmers raised prior to the "dirty thirties" they now grow abundant crops of sugar beets, potatoes, lettuce, soy beans, barley, corn, cabbage, carrots, onions, sweet pepper, cucumbers, tomatoes, and even a few grapes and pecans.

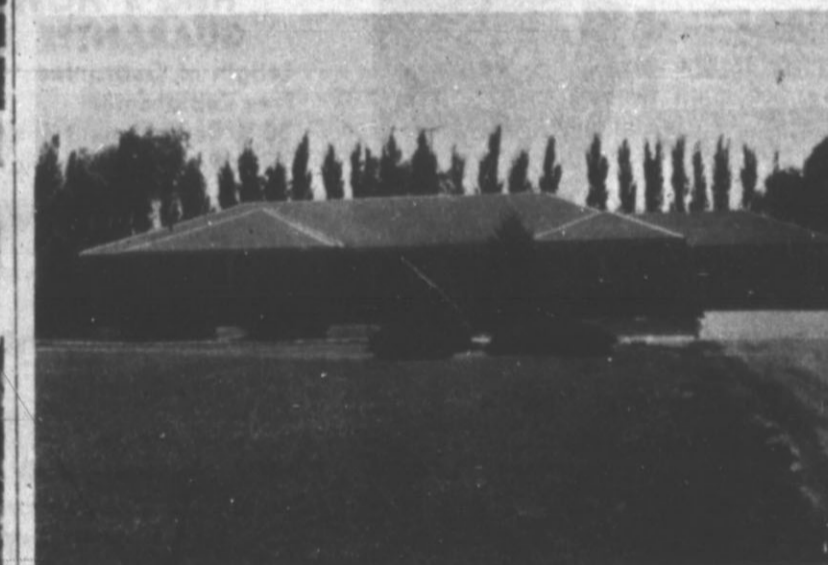

There is a popular theory that our prosperity, paved roads, and fast automobiles have destroyed the small farming communities. On the contrary, the established ones are thriving in this area, and new ones are being born.

Dallas Festival For Texas Youth

DALLAS — Gregory Walcott, motion picture and television actor, will speak each night Aug. 29 through Sept. 1 in the "Texas Baptist Youth Festival" at Six Flags Over Texas, family recreation center between Dallas and Fort Worth.

Expected to attract young people from across the state, the festival is sponsored by the Training Union Department of the 1.7 million-member Baptist General Convention of Texas. Walcott is scheduled to address the young people at 8 p. m. on each of the four nights during a rally at Turnpike Stadium following the day's activities of rides and attractions at the 115-acre amusement complex.

The evening rallies also will feature the singing of a huge youth choir under direction of Lee Roy Till, music director of First Baptist Church, Dallas.

Daily attendance at the festival will be limited to avoid overcrowded facilities. Special price tickets for $2.75 are available from the Six Flags office, with a deadline of Aug. 19. Tickets purchased at the gate will be $3.50. Orders should be addressed to: Six Flags Over Texas, Box 191, Arlington, 76010.

The Baptist event is designed to emphasize spiritual values combined with wholesome Christian amusement for teenagers and other youth.

Special rate tickets may be ordered for Friday, Sept. 2 for those who want to attend both the Thursday night youth rally and to stay over for the Six Flags activities on Friday. No youth rally is scheduled Friday.

Witnesses Going To Dallas Meet

Car caravans are being organized by members of Jehovah's Witnesses here for a trip to Dallas for a district assembly Aug. 3-7, and any interested Bible students are invited to join the group, Leonard M. Robertson announces.

Activity in the local congregation will be suspended for the week while the delegation attends the meetings. Theme of the program is "God's Sons of Liberty" and the entire program will be bilingual to assist the many Spanish-speaking Witnesses from over Texas who are expected to be present.

Mrs. Henry Kuper of Summerfield, whose daughter Lynda is a contestant in Castro County's 75th Jubilee Prairie to Paradise Pageant, called to let us know that Lynda was now running second in the contest.

She is the only contestant from the Hereford area, living barely in the edge of Castro County.

The queen and runner-up will participate in the pageant which celebrates Castro County's history. It will run ninety minutes under the direction of Paul Hagan of Rogers Company. Mr. Hagan is a professional director.

The contestants' votes are based on the amount of tickets they sell so you folks in Hereford and particularly out around Summerfield get your tickets from Miss Kuper and let's put her over the top.

Work is still progressing on repairs and minor remodeling of the old Catholic school building on Sampson Street to be used for the Deaf Smith County Historical Museum. Drop by sometime and look over the work. You will begin to appreciate the efforts now being made by the historical association in setting up a county museum. It won't be the biggest in the world but it will certainly go a long way towards preserving for the future generations, some of the history of the past. Deaf Smith County's history is not old compared to counties in the south and east of the state, and now is the time to "nail it down."

Haven't the rains been nice? With all the humidity this past month, it was inevitable that we would receive some generous rains, but a few people were beginning to doubt it. Like the fellow for instance, who bet that it never would rain again. He claims that three people had already paid off.

We suspect the heat and humidity of the past month has been good for the refrigerated air conditioner business. The old evaporative coolers just can't deliver when weather conditions are such.

Ever heard of a sidewalk clematis?

Down in Madisonville, Texas there is an organization known as the Madisonville Sidewalk Cattleman's Association, advocating 'cowboy boots for cattle owners only.'

—HB—
And here's the qualifications for wearing of boots:

1. Owner of at least two head of cattle — entitled to wear boots.

2. Owner of three head — can stuff the right pants leg in.

3. Owner of four head — can stuff both pants legs in.

4. Owner of six head — can wear spurs; Yippee!!

Penalties for violations:

1. Buy drinks for everyone in yelling distance, then take off boots.

2. Buy drinks for everyone in sight, remove stuffed-in pants leg.

3. Suspension from wearing boots for 2 weeks, remove stuffed-in pants leg.

4. Suspension from wearing boots for 3 weeks, remove spurs.

Officially organized March 25, 1941, the Madisonville Sidewalk Cattleman's Association is probably the only incorporated organization in North and South America dedicated to tongue-in-cheek kidding.

The association grew out of remarks made by the Madisonville Meteor editor, Henry Fox, in his page-one column poking fun at people wearing cowboy boots around town without any need whatever for them, since most of the boot-wearers didn't even keep a milk cow.

The organization marked its 25th anniversary this year and is still going strong.

Jubilee Celebration Plans Announced For Dimmitt

Castro County women will soon don their bonnets and long skirts and the men will give up shaving unless they purchase a Shaving Permit, for a real old-fashioned celebration of the county's history. Celebrations will be launched on August 11 and continue through August 20. Highlighting the Diamond Jubilee will be a mammoth pageant entitled "Castro County: Prairie to Paradise" scheduled for August 12th through 17th, and a rodeo which will begin August 18th and run through the 20th.

Celebrating Castro County's 75th Anniversary will be: Dimmitt, Nazareth, Hart, Easter, and Jumbo, Arney, Summerfield Sunnyside, and Bethel communities. Each town and community will contribute some talent to the pageant's cast of 300. There will be a fireworks display following each performance and a rodeo dance at the area after each rodeo. The pageant begins with early pioneer days and continues through World War II history.

"Ya'll come!" the county says.

ONE MINUTE, PLEASE

THE CHURCH I LOVE IS WEAK, AND HAS NOT YET ARRIVED TO PERFECTION

On the night that he was betrayed, Jesus was in the garden of Gethsemane praying. He returned a short distance and found his disciples sleeping. The Lord said to Peter, "Watch and pray that you may not enter into temptation; the spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak." (Matthew 26:41).

The Lord assured Paul, "My grace is sufficient for you, for my power is made perfect in weakness." The Apostle followed this by writing, "I will all the more gladly boast of my weaknesses, that the power of Christ may rest upon me. For the sake of Christ, then, I am content with weaknesses, insults, hardships, persecutions, and calamities; for when I am weak, then I am strong." (II Corinthians 12:9, 10). God can work in his servants who recognize their weaknesses, shortcomings and sinful condition; and because of these become humble, trusting in the Almighty for strength and wisdom. If we have been deceived into thinking, we, of and by ourselves, are strong and wise, we become haughty and proud.

"God opposes the proud, but gives the grace to the humble." (I Peter 5:5).

The Apostle to the Gentiles wrote, "Not that I have already obtained this or am already perfect; but I press on to make it my own, because Christ Jesus has made me low down." (Philippians 3:12).

So all Christians, though weak and imperfect, continue to work "for building up the body of Christ, until we all attain to the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, to mature manhood, to the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ." (Ephesians 4:12-13).
