Pampa Agencies Renew War on 'Gyp' Artists

By DALLAS DEWEESE

A renewed war on "gyp" artists has been declared by the Pampa Retail Merchants' Association, Chamber of Commerce and city and county law enforcement officials.

The campaign will be directed at "fly-by-night" salesmen and saleswomen who descend on the city, put over their shady deals and vanish with a neat bundle of cash, leaving their victims holding the bag.

Wynne Veale, manager of the Pampa Retail Merchants' Association, said Saturday the revitalized efforts to trip up itinerant vendors is not aimed at legitimate sales persons.

"We have a number of perfectly legitimate salesmen who serve Pampa with well-known products. They comply with all the laws," Veale said, "and we know who they are. Most of them have regular customers and have served them for years."

Veale said, however, there are many "gyp" salesmen who get into the city and ply their trade with fast-talk sales pitches.

"Usually," he said, "we don't learn about them until ater they have bilked their victims and left town."

Veale said the association, the chamber of commerce and thee local police and sheriff departments want to warn the public again so Pampa citizens can recognize the bogus door-to-door salesman and stop him before he gets in his licks and runs.

And here, the authorities say, is the best way to avoid being gypped:

The very first thing to do when a strange salesman knocks on your door is ask him for his identification and city permit showing that he is registered with the city and under a performance bond. Make sure you know with whom you are dealing. If there is any doubt, ask him to wait until you call the sheriff's office, police station or merchants' associatin.

Sheriff Rufe Jordan said Saturday that most of the trouble is with magazine salesmen and salesgirls who pose as working for scholarships. Others say they represent some local charity. Always check them out. Do not buy their story (or their merchandise) unless you are convinced the deal is legitimate.

There are all kinds of salesmen coming in from out of town to sell house siding, roofing, storm doors, etc. Don't let them take you. Pampa has plenty of local businessmen who can provide these services. Why deal with strangers who want their money in advance and nine times out of ten don't deliver what you think you have bought?

Never sign a contract that has blank spaces, don't permit merchandise to be "left on approval." You may find yourself stuck with paying for something you didn't order or didn't want.

Don't be rushed into anything. If a salesman calls at night and you are not sure of his identity, tell him to come back another time; that you want to check him out the next morning. If he's fly-by-night, you'll never see him again.

In all cases you take a big gamble by paying money in ad-

Astronauts Get 'Go' After Trouble

Lt. Col. L. GORDON COOPER Cmdr. CHARLES CONRAD

ON ITS WAY — Gemini-5 glides through space with astronauts Gordon Cooper and Charles Conrad aboard. Ground control gave the astronauts the 'Go' sign for another day and possible completion of their planned eight day voyage after electronic trouble almost ended the flight Saturday.

Chances Good For Eight Day Voyage

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — A faulty electric power system almost forced an emergency splashdown of the Gemini-5 spaceship Saturday but the power stabilized and officials told astronauts Gordon Cooper and Charles Conrad to "go." They had a good chance of making their full eight day voyage.

For more than 4½ hours, the fate of the most ambitious U.S. space flight yet hung in the balance then the pressure of oxygen feeding the electric power fuel cells leveled off and the decision was made to keep going at least into the 18th orbit Sunday.

Saturday night, as the spacecraft passed over the Pacific on its 9th orbit, pilot Conrad powered up the electric system that had been coasting at bare minimum level and kicked the capsule around in a 360-degree sweep of the horizon.

He tried to spot the "little rascal" (rendezvous evaluation pod) ejected from the capsule on the 2nd orbit. He failed.

Conrad immediately powered down again to save electric power.

Command pilot Gordon Cooper calmly slept.

"Everything else is go," Conrad reported.

Space Agency officials stressed the astronauts were completely safe. Backup storage batteries could be used if necessary — although they could not carry the craft through a full eight days for an endurance record.

At the very worst, now they will continue the flight into Sunday, in which case they would return to earth from their 18th orbit and splash down in the prime Atlantic recovery area about 250 miles east of Bermuda.

AT 5:32 p.m. CST, the spacecraft swung into its seventh orbit.

Asked about the possibility of a full eight-day, 121-orbit trip Flight Director Christopher C. Kraft told a news conference: "I think that the chances are very good, yes, that we will. The longer we go the better off we are."

If they do make it all the way, Conrad and Cooper would put America ahead of Russia for the first time in space flight duration, and double the total flying time of American astronauts. It would give Cooper a higher total hours in space than any man in the world, since he logged over 34 hours in the longest of the Mercury project orbital flights.

The veteran Cooper and his rookie copilot got off to a splendid start from Cape Kennedy. For the first time on a manned flight, the countdown went without a single hitch and the launch was right through the "Keyhole" and into a U.S. record maximum orbital altitude of 217.5 statute miles.

But in the second orbit, a heater went out in the oxygen tank supplying the fuel cell. This reduced the pressure, which reduced the amount of oxygen going into the cell, which in turn reduced the reaction of oxygen and hydrogen that produces electricity for the craft.

With the oxygen pressure steadily falling, it appeared for a time that the astronauts might have to come down Saturday, using a Pacific target area about 450 miles north of Hawaii. Preparations were made for such a move, with planes in the area.

But the pressure leveled off at about 71 pounds per square inch, after dropping from the normal 850 to 1,000. Project officials first announced they would extend the flight into Sunday, then said later they were optimistic the full mission could be carried out.

Woman Dies, Two Hurt as Antenna Hits Power Line

An accidental electrocution claimed the life of a 43-year-old Pampa woman at 8:30 a.m. Saturday and sent her husband and son to the hospital with burns on the feet and hands.

Funeral services are pending at Carmichael-Whately Funeral Directors for Mrs. Aubrey (Christella) Drennan of 1702 McCullough.

According to witnesses, Mrs. Drennan and her husband Aubrey and son, Robert, were attempting to raise a television antenna atop their house when it fell across power lines in front of the house. Mrs. Drennan was holding to the antenna and Robert and Mr. Drennan were holding to guy-wires.

When the antenna struck the poles, Mrs. Drennan was apparently killed instantly and Robert and Mr. Drennan were knocked from the house.

Hospital attendants at Highland General said they were in good condition late Saturday night with burns on the hands and feet.

Mrs. Drennan was born Oct. 19, 1921 at Clayton, N.M. and moved to Pampa six years ago. Mr. Drennan is employed as a roustabout with the Mobile Oil Co.

Survivors include, in addition to her husband and son, one other son, Aubrey Jr. of Odessa; four sisters, Mrs. Lou Etta McDonald of Boise City, Oklahoma; Mrs. Neva Cruise of Billings, Montana; Mrs. Lucille King of Clayton, and Mrs. Rose Dyer of Perryton; four brothers, Raymond Baggley of Woodward, Kirk of Tulsa, Kenneth of New Mexico and William of Wichita, Kan. She is also survived by three grandchildren.

700 Blood Donors Needed In Gray, Roberts Counties

WANTED — 700 blood donor pledges by Aug. 30 to contribute blood for use of leukemia victims in Gray and Roberts counties. Contact Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce has launched a project designed to provide a blood fund for treatment of leukemia victims in Gray and Roberts counties.

Eddie Polnac, Jaycee president, and Tom Jeter, project chairman, stated Saturday its purpose will be to provide replacement blood at nominal handling charges instead of the much higher cost of local blood purchases.

The Junior Chamber will be working in conjunction with the Wadley Blood Clinic in Dallas. The clinic is associated with Baylor University and is primarily set up for treatment of leukemia victims. The clinic has the endorsement of Pampa doctors.

The Wadley Blood Clinic will send a bloodmobile to Pampa on Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 1 and 2, to take blood donations from Pampa area residents. Headquarters will be set up in the Education Center of First Methodist Church.

A blood donor pledge card will be found on Page 24 of today's Pampa News. After it is filled out, it should be mailed to P. O. Box 557, Pampa, Texas.

The refrigerated bloodmobile will be accompanied here by two nurses and six technicians to collect the blood donations.

In order to guarantee the sending of the bloodmobile, the pledges of 700 donors must be received by Aug. 30.

The Jaycees are appealing to Pampans and Gray and Roberts County residents to sign blood donor pledge cards which will be available in Pampa and Miami at the Chamber of Commerce, banks and local business establishments. Signed cards may be placed in boxes at these places or they can be

Light Vote Seen Tuesday On City Amendments

Pampa voters will go to the polls Tuesday to make decisions on seven proposed amendments to the city charter.

The voting places will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Ward 1 voters will cast their ballots at City Hall, Ward 2 at the fire station on E. 17th St., Ward 3 at Ward's Cabinet Shop on N. Starkweather, and Ward 4 at the fire station on S. Barnes St.

Anyone with a valid poll tax receipt who lives within the city limits will be eligible to vote. Voters do not have to be property owners.

Deadline for absentee voting fell at 5 p.m. Friday and less than 20 votes had been cast.

Pre-election activity has been on the quiet side. Speakers for proponents of the amendments have visited various civic and women's clubs during the past three weeks. Opposition to the amendments has been marked by little activity.

The last - minute "campaigning" seems to be confined to newspaper advertising urging support of all the amendments and several letters to the newspaper asking questions and opposing some of them.

Election officials seemed to think the Tuesday voting will be light. However, no one ventured a firm guess on the size of the balloting.

Here are the seven proposed amendments on which the voters will make their decisions:

Annexation

1. Shall Sec. 3 of Article I of the existing charter of the City of Pampa be repealed and the following be passed and substituted therefore: "The City Commission shall have the power by ordinance to fix the boundary limits of the City of Pampa; and to provide for the alteration and extension of said boundary limits and the annexation of additional territory lying adjacent to said City with the limits as provided by applicable state law. Also, the limits of the said corporation may be hereafter extended by adding additional territory to the same whenever the majority of the qualified electors of said territory shall indicate a desire to be included within the limits of said corporation in the manner provided in Article 974 Vernon's Annotated Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, 1925."

Segregation

2. Shall Sec. 7 of Article III of the existing charter of the City of Pampa be repealed. (This section would do away with any segregation.)

Tax Money Adjustment

3. Shall the first paragraph of Sec. 1 of Article V be amended by repealing the words "One Dollar ($1.00)" and providing and substituting therefore the following, "One Dollar Fifty Cents ($1.50)" (This would raise from $1 to $1.50 per $100 property valuation the amount of tax money that can be used for the city's general operating fund.)

Terms of Councilmen

4. Shall Sec. 2 of Article VII be amended to read: "The mayor and each commissioner shall serve for a term of two years, except the commissioners for Wards 2 and 4 beginning in Apr-

Deputy Released On $12,500 Bond

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (UPI)— A graying "special deputy," regarded as a pillar of his community, was freed under $12,500 bond Saturday following his arraignment on charges of killing one white civil rights worker and critically wounding another.

Fifty-two-year-old Tom Coleman, father of two grown children, entered "not guilty" pleas to both crimes when brought before Peace Justice J. B. Julian.

Coleman is specifically charged with first-degree murder in the death of Jonathan M. Daniels, 26, an Episcopal seminary student from Keene, N. H., and with assault with intent to kill in the wounding of Rev. Richard Morrisroe, also 26, a bearded Roman Catholic priest from Chicago.

Both men were cut down by shotgun blasts Friday outside a country grocery where they had gone in the company of four Negroes.

Morrisroe is in critical condition in a Montgomery hospital, where he underwent 11 hours of surgery for a massive gun wound of the abdomen.

Showers in Prospect For Pampa, Panhandle Tonight

Another band of thundershowers was expected to move across Pampa and vicinity this afternoon, much like the ones that dumped 2.07 inches of rain on the city Friday.

Black, fast moving thunderheads had Pampans scanning the skies Friday evening and a tornado was reported to have touched down on a farm five miles south of Skellytown.

Damage was reported to some irrigation equipment on the farm.

Temperatures are expected to be in the 90s today after a high of 88 Saturday and an overnight low Friday of 62.

Light showers fell in a rain-dampened chunk of western Texas Saturday and forecasters called for scattered rainfall across most of the state.

There was no relief from the heat, however, as temperatures climbed into the 80s and 90s across the state before noon.

The U. S. Weather Bureau predicted mostly partly cloudy skies and continued hot weather, with a chance of very widely scattered showers for the entire state through Sunday.

The South Texas town of Bracketville had 3.10 inches of rain during the night and early morning, while Sabinal had 1.85 inches for the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. The highest total recorded by the Weather Bureau, however, was .43 inches at Dalhart.

The rains Friday night came from a storm that brought 90-mile-an-hour winds and hail to South Texas.

Overnight low temperatures Saturday ranged from Dalhart's 62 degrees to 80s at Corpus Christi and Palacios.

Cotton farmers and aerial applicators will be keenly interested to know that effective January 1, 1966 any aerial application of weed killing chemical or economic poisons will come under the regulation of the Federal Aviation Agency.

These regulations will go into effect on this date according to Dr .J. D. Price, Leader — Agricultural Chemicals, Texas A&M.

Among toher requirements the following may have particular significance with respect to the use of agricultural chemicals:

(1) "No person may dispense, or cause to be dispensed, from an yairdraft, anv material or substance in a manner that creates a hazard to persons or property on the surface."

(2) "No person may dispense or cause to be dispensed from an aircraft, anv economic poison that is registered with the U. S. Department of Agriculture under the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act of 1947 (as amended) — (a) For a use other than that for which it is registered; (b) Contrary to anysafety instructions of use limitations on its label; or (c) In violation of any law or regulation of the United States."

(3) — (a) "Each holder of a commercial agricultural aircraft operator certificate shall maintain and keep current, at the home base of operations designated in his application, the following records: (1) The name and address of each person for whom agricultural aircrafe services were provided. (2) The date of the service. (3) The name and quantity of the material dispensed for each operation conducted."

Many milo famers, both irigated and dryland, have called about damage done from two insects that affect maize. One is the corn leaf aphia — the other is the corn ear worm. Tre aphid is a double cousin to the greenbug that bothers wheat. The corn ear worm is what gives out sweet corn trouble. Sometimes it looks like milo is ruined by this pest but usually damage is very minor. This is especially true if the damage occurs before fully headed. I've seen slight to moderate damage after milo heads out. The point to remember is that satisfactory kills are almost impossible with our best insecticide. Even is you could obtain a satifactory kill it is doubtful if you would raise your yield by the amount of the cost of spraying.

John Mackie called me a year or two ago about this problem and we advised him not to spray. He did not spray and he tells me his neighbor that sprayed didn't improve this yield one bit.

Panhandle Water Conservation News

By FELIX W. RYALS
Water District Manager

The meeting of the Golden Spread Chapter of the Soil Conservation Society will be held on September 3rd. at Miami. The meeting had been previously scheduled for August 26th. This change was necessary as several on the program had conflicting engagements. All irrigation farmers, dry land farmers and others interested in soil and water conservation are urged to attend. The meeting will get underway at Ferg's Cafe in Miami at 10:00 a. m. on September 3rd. A tour of Washita Watershed sites will be taken during the good projects going on the Roberts County Area that should be of interest to everyone.

The Panhandle Ground Water Conservaton District Office has had numerous calls during the past week in regard to the use of unlined salt water pits. To clarity the situation we are listing Rule No. 23 of the District on Salt Water Disposal Pits: "(a) The use of salt-water disposal pits in connection with the production of oil and gas is hereby found to be causing the pollution of the underground water reservoit by permitting salt water or other deleterious matter to pass from the surface of the ground into the underground water reservoir within the District. (b) The use of unlined salt-water pits for disposal of salt water or other deleterious matter is hereby prohibited."

The District has been checking a number of lined salt water pits during recent weeks. Most of these plastic liners seem to be very durable. Others are lined with a plastic liner that seems to be deteriorating rapidaly and is not strong enough to withstand rough treatment. These liners appear to be leaking salt water on through the bottom of the pit. Producers who have pits lined with this very weak type plastic are urged to check their pits for leaks.

All water well drillers must now be registered with the State of Texas under the Water Well Drillers Act passed by the Legislature. Attorney General Wagoner Carr has ruled that Highway Department employees, who drill occasional water wells, are exempt from registering under the act.

The Texas Water Conservation Association will hold its 21st. annual meeting in Houston on September 26th. and 27th. The Panhandle Water Conservation District will have representation at the meeting.

Drew Pearson the—very vocal on all subjects—news columnist reported in his August 12th. column that the White House Meeting held recently on the Eastern Seaboard Water Crisis may spark a nationwide drive toward federal aid to clean up water pollution.

Pearson also reports that the city of New York does not use water meters for a large portion of its water users. Only a nominal charge has been made to the user for water used each month.

Leonard Glass is cutting his alfalfa crop for the third time this year on his ranch north of Alanreed. This alfalfa was planted last fall and is doing well for the first year of production. Leonard uses a roll-type sprinkler irrigation system for irrigation. He has been well satisfied with the performance of his system. He has approximately 40 acres of alfalfa. It was fertilized with 50 pounds of Nitrogen and 100 pounds of Phosphate. Leonard plans to have the soil tested so that accurate amounts of fertilizer can be applied for maximum production.

Our solution for protecting our soils on slopes where water erosion occurs is to increase the rain-water-intake capacity of the soil by leaving crop residue to the soil surface, soil improvement crops, crop rotations, contour farming and terraces. Terrances will protect slopes and carry excess water to natural drainages or safe outlets. Another way is protect steep slopes by establishing native or improved permanent grasses. This practice has been used more in the Gray County Siil Conservation District in the past fifteen years. Farmers and ranchers have established grass at the rate of 2,500 to 3,000 acres per year to protect our land. In many cases, grass may be more productive than many of our annual cash crops.

Curtis Schaffer, district supervisor, said, "This does not mean that we have found the final answer to full control of soil erosion. Our present practices may not completely stop erosion but will reduce ti more and more as conservation measures are applied."

The Gray County Soil Conservation District provides assistance to all landowners and operators within the district which includes Gray County.

Oppressively hot summer days will usually see an increase of cases of sunstroke, heat stroke and heat prostration.

Sunstroke results from too long exposure to the hot sun, white heatstroke is caused by stifling, oppressive heat, often indoors. Heat prostration is caused by overly, long exposure to heat and humidity, but differs from the other conditions in that the victim generally remains conscious and his temperature falls instead of rising.

Farm Bill Before Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson's $4 billion-a-year omnibus farm bill, bolstered by strong support from both urban and rural members of the House, today was under study by Senate agriculture experts.

The four-year proposal sailed through the House Thursday night on a 221-172 vote that saw a broad cross - section of the Democratic majority rally behind the administration.

Passage came after three days of debate in which Democratic leaders agreed to the removal of a provision that could have resulted in an increase of one or two cents in the price of a loaf of bread. The provision was dropped after it aroused a storm of criticism.

House approval of the four-year bill sent it to the Senate, where Agriculture Committee members planned to study it for several days before meeting early next week to decide when to start public hearings.

The measure would continue government subsidy payments to growers of wheat, cotton, feed grains and wool. It would also set up new programs to retire cropland and stabilize milk production.

Although opposition to the bill was loud, the outcome never seemed to be in doubt.

A Democratic steamroller crushed 23 amendments designed to drastically reshape the farm payments program. Democrats also beat down a Republican effort to kill it out right.

Opponents of the omnibus bill argued that the billions of tax dollars already funneled into agriculture had done little to help the farmer and only saddled the government with a rocketing debt. They described the measure as a retread of "the same tired old formulas."

Supporters replied that if the aid were abruptly severed, chaos would result.

Crosses Score High In A & M Tests

A comparison of 180-day weaning weights of nearly 3,700 calves has been tabulated and released by Texas A&M University's Livestock and Forage Research Center at McGregor. The calves came from 35 combinations if sires and dams. In some cases, both parents were purebred, in others, one parent was pure bred and the other parent a cross-bred. In many instances both parents were cross-bred. The data was compiled for all calves from 1950 through 1964.

Topping the list at 490 pounds, at the end of the 180-day period, are 68 calves from Charbray sires and Charbray dams. Charbray is a cross between Charolais and Angus. Bringing up a close second at 482 pounds, were calves from Charolais sires and Charolais-Hereford dams.

Also high on the list were calves from Hereford - Brahman first-cross mothers and Charolais, Charbray and Red Poll sires. Calves from Santa Gertrudis sires, bred to various cross-bred cows also ranked near the top.

Calve with the lowest 180-day-weaning weight were from Hereford sires and Hereford dams, Angus sires and Angus dams and from Brahman sires and Brahman dams.

The weaning weights were corrected for year, season of birth, sex and age of dam. The data includes breeding of the sire, breeding of the dam, number of calves of each, the 180-weaning weights and the breeding of the calf.

Funeral Directors Announce Plans For New Building

Carmichael-Whatley Funeral Directors announced Saturday the construction of a new funeral home, at 600 N. Ward.

The Colonial structure will contain 12,000 square feet of space and a large parking area adjacent to the chapel.

Also in construction plans are two apartments for employes and their families. Allen Ritter of Amarillo is in charge of construction.

In addition to the chapel and apartments a lobby, two officies and a family room are planned.

Carmichael-Whatley now has five full time employes including Robert, Paul and Bobby Carmichael, Herman Whatley, Harrison Dismukes and G. F. Richmond.

The structure is due to be completed around Dec. 1.

Lots of Noise But Damage Light

An explosion with force enough to be heard across the city and rattle dishes and windows in homes within a half-mile area, caused only slight damage about 8:30 p.m. Friday night at the Pampa Foundry, 701 S. Somerville.

No one was injured and there was no fire, although the fire department on the south side of town was called to the foundry.

But the explosion spurred telephone calls to the police and newspaper from Pampa residents wanting to know what had happened.

The sound of the blast was heard by residents in the far north sections of the city.

Many dismissed the incident as the breaking of the sonic barrier by a jet plane.

Actually, what happened, according to H. O. Darby, owner of the foundry, was workmen pouring hot metal over water in a tube where there was an abundant supply of moisture.

The metal built up steam causing the explosion.

Darby said damage to the foundry was very light.

Development of Property Planned

I. W. Tinney, Pampa building contractor, will appear before the City Commission Tuesday to discuss development of property along Red Deer Creek.

Reappointment of Health Officer Dr. Malcolm Brown for a two-year term is scheduled at Tuesday's regular meeting, according to the agenda released by City Manager Jim White.

Also on the agenda is the expected adoption of a resolution appropriating 30 cents per water meter from Pampa's share of Canadian River Water Authority expenses.

Council Meetings

5. Shall Sec. 12 of Article VII be amended by repealing the words "once a week" in the first sentence thereof and in lieu thereof, adopt "twice each month," and amend Sec. 13. Reading of Ordinances

6. Shall Sec. 15 of Article VII have included therein the following sentence: "It shall be only necessary that an ordinance not an emergency measure be voted on and passed by the city commission two times to make the same effective except those that are required by specific state law to be voted on more than twice, and the city commission may be unanimous vote of those present waive the full reading of any ordinance proposed to be passed, provided each commissioner and the mayor have been provided with a complete and full copy of said ordinance prio to its being introduced for first passage."

City Purchases

7. Shall Sec. 29 of Article VII have the money limit raised from $100 to $1,000 for city purchases without public advertising for bids." (Under the present system purchases of more than $100 must be advertised for bids.) This amendment also would, in most instances, change the public advertising requirement for purchases over $1,000 to seven days.

man employe.

Readers of The Pampa News are invited to vote using the ballot on this page. This same contest was conducted by The News in 1959 and again in 1962 and they proved to be very popular contests on both occasions.

The two top winners (one man and one woman) will receive the title "1965 Friendliest and Most Courteous" and each will receive a $50 cash award in addition to a framed award certificate.

The contest will continue for four weeks and all readers of The News are asked to cast their ballots for the man and woman employe they regard as friendliest and most courteous.

Store owners and managers are not eligible to be contestants —only employes.

Only requirement for voting is that you use the special award ballot which will be found on this page today and will be published in subsequent issues of the newspaper during the champaign. You may vote as many times as you wish as long as you use a ballot clipped from The News. Deadline for balloting will be Friday, September 17.

Winners of the contest will be announced later in September in a special edition of The News, in which the sales and service personnel of Pampa will be spotlighted.

In addition to the top prize winners, there will be 50 honorable mention awards — 25 to the women and 25 to the men contestants.

Voters are urged to get started with their balloting at once by clipping and marking the ballots found in the daily issues of The News.

Ballots may be brought or mailed to The News. Special ballot drop boxes will be placed in the lobbies of the Citizens Bank & Trust Co., The First National Bank and at the Chamber of Commerce office in the Hughes Building.

Jaycee officials point out that leukemia victims require periodic blood replacement in large quantities. Blood costs in the local area run from $30 to $40 a pint, amounts which most families cannot afford over a long period.

The clinic will keep 20 per cent of the donated blood for research in seeking a cure for lukemia. Eighty per cent will be credited to the Gray and Roberts county fund and will be available to victims from the two counties at only the cost of needles, tubes, etc., used in transfusions.

During the past year 14 leukemia victims from Gray and Roberts counties have been treated at the Wadley Clinic.

Persons in Roberts County who wish to pledge and donate blood will be asked to come to Pampa when the blood-mobile is here Sept. 1 and 2, Jaycee officials stated.

County Judge C. E. Haynes and Banker E. D. Daugherty are co-chairmen of the project in Miami.

Pledge cards were distributed at Friday's noon Kiwanis meeting in Pampa. Fifteen pledges were received and members pledged to work with the Jaycees on the project.

Cong, Heat, Terrain Make 3 Faces of Viet War

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Free-lance Newspapers staff writer Sam Stinson covers a two-day ordeal with the Marines of Chu Lai, Viet Nam, and learns that the American fighting man there faces three enemies: the Viet Cong, the temperature and terrain, and his own battle to keep up his morale. This is the beginning of a three-part series on these enemies.)

By SAM STINSON
Staff Writer

CHU LAI, Viet Nam — I just got back from a two-day operation southwest of Chu Lai, about 60 miles south of Da Nang. I believe it was the roughest two days in my life.

The 3rd Battalion of the Third Marine Regiment jumped off in the early morning in an attempt to corner a large concentration of Viet Cong reported massing in the hills southwest of the Chu Lai airfield. We went in at 5:15 a.m. by helicopter to the jump - off point. I managed to get in with the second wave. Each wave carries 25 "choppers" loaded with Marines.

We landed in a wide valley near a small village, where some of the houses were still burning from the pre - strike rocket attack by Huevs (armed helicopters firing rockets).

In addition to the Marine battalion, we also had a battalion of Arvin (Army of Republic of Viet Nam) and a battalion of Vietnamese Marines. The Vietnamese were on our left flank so I saw them only occasionally on the mountaintops to our left.

Capture Injured Cong

American Marines in "L" company on the right rear moved out to explore a small cluster of houses in that direction and immediately came under fire. They captured one Viet Cong whose leg was shattered. But the others got away.

Next, "I" Company on the left entered a small village and set fire to some houses that had tunnels and emplacements underneath. They also captured a Viet Cong suspect, who may or may not have been a communist. He said he wasn't, but told us that the communists did come into the village the night before to conduct political school on the villagers. He also said the Viet Cong were still hiding in the village but we couldn't find them. We did blow up a lot of tunnels, caves and emplacements, though. They may have been hiding in them.

"M" Company, on the right, climbed a high mountain and could observe the valley below which made a turn to our right an died in front of our position.

At this time, about 10 a.m., I found a Vietnamese family lying on a widened dike in the middle of a rice paddy. A young woman, about 18 I think, was having a baby — at least I thought she was, so I got the battalion doctor.

The poor girl was lying on the ground with her legs splashing in the water and mud of the half filled rice paddy. Every now and then she would scream and double up in pain. Then she would extend her legs and splash more mud and water.

False Labor Pains

The doctor decided she was having false labor pains and told her, through an interpreter, that she was not having a baby. He gave her a shot in the arm and told her she would now go to sleep and when she awakened the pains would be gone.

We had to hurry then and catch up with the troops who had kept moving at a rapid pace.

The doctor told me the premature pains were induced by fear and that the girl was only about six to seven months pregnant.

When the doctor and I got to the troops the Battalion Commanding Officer was standing on a hill observing the valley in front through his binoculars. He called in artillery fire from the 12th Marine Regiment.

The first salvo came in low and splashed a rice paddy in our front.

Immediately after the explosion an old man and a young woman carrying a baby came nonchalantly walking through the smoke. They didn't even look at us.

The C. O., Lt. Col. J. E. Muir, then called for another salvo and told them to correct to "down 200 and left 200 yards."

A young first lieutenant in the command post tried to dissuade the colonel from using artillery. He said he could see troops in the Valley. Col. Muir replied, "Well, if there are troops there they couldn't be Marines."

The lieutenant said he could see people wearing helmets, but the colonel said the lieutenant was mistaken, that the troops he could see was Arvins on the hill beyond.

A second salvo screamed over our heads and tore up another rice paddy — it also killed three cows as I discovered when I passed the area a little later.

Third Round Ordered

By this time the young Lieutenant was practicaly beside himself. He was certain that the artillery was falling into our own troops but still couldn't openly defy the battalion commander.

The battalion C.O. then ordered a third salvo of artillery, but before it could be delivered, "I" Company radioed that the 1st salvo had bracketed their first platoon but that no one was hurt.

Lt. Col. Muir then called off the artillery, telling them only, "Cancel fire mission. You are hitting to close to friendlies."

Most of the troops had stopped at this point and most were digging into their C-rations.

At this point I moved down to the left of the line talking to the troops as I went along. I finally stopped with the 1st Squad, Third Platoon of "I" Company, and opened my C-rations too.

Cong Sent Sniper

About this time the word was passed down the line that a water well was off down the hill to our left. One man from each fire team was ordered to collect canteens and fill them for his unit.

Two things happened at this point which changed the operation into a nightmare.

First, the Viet Cong saw the Marines stopped and sent a sniper in with a machinegun directly across from the trees we were under. The rice paddy to our front was about 40 yards wide. The machinegunner set up on the opposite embankment.

The second thing that was bad was that the word came down the line to "move out." Before the guys had their canteens back. This meant that the marines moved out without any water. Most had drank all their water or poured the remainder out in order to start out with full canteens from this point. You can't realize how important this is unless you also realize that the temperature was above 130 degrees, that the highest mountains in the entire area was directly in front of us and included in our objective.

First U.S. nickel, a five-cent coin, was minted in 1866.

vance to a stranger. If you do always get a receipt showing the amount and what your money was paid for.

All kinds of frauds are perpetrated upon unsuspecting householders. There are fake charities, solicitors who use names of local organizations, solicitors with tear-jerker stories of help needed by homes for wayward girls, etc. etc. Check them out.

And as for both salesmen and solicitors for charities or anything, the best rule is to ask questions before they "take" you—not after. It's too late then.

There is the swindler who sends C.O.D. packages through the mail addressed to persons recently deceased.

These C.O.D. articies usually are Bibles, religious articles or the like and they are billed at exorbitant prices because the operators of the racket know bereaved relatives will accept them in the belief they were ordered by the deceased.

Types of itinerant swindlers to watch for include phony tree surgeons, hawkers of fake humus or lawn fertilizers, termite experts and fake roofing experts.

There are fly-by-night salesmen who use extremely low-priced articles for "bait" and then try to switch homeowners to a more expensive product which is inferior.

So, the warning is out again—watch for the gyp artists. Do business only with your known, local firms. Don't contract with strangers for landscaping or home repairs.

Nine times out of ten you can buy or get right here in Pampa any product or service offered to you by a stranger.

Veale also urged Pampans never to give the names of neighbors to a stranger who who knocks on your door. This ininformation many times is use as a "familiarity" approach and even to break into a home where the family is known to be out of town.

Just don't take chances with strangers at your door. When in doubt call the retail Merchants Association, the sheriff's Office or the police.

Don't be a "sucker."

Income Tax Questions, Answers

Editor's Note — This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the Pampa office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published by the News as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q — My wife and I won a week's expense-paid trip to the N. Y. World's Fair in a magazine contest. Is there any tax on what we received?

A — Yes, prizes won in contests like lucky number drawings, TV or radio quiz programs, or door prizes are taxable. You should declare as income the fair market value of your prize.

Q — I will be paying $150 in interest over the next 36 months on my car loan. How do I figure out how much of this I can deduct each year for tax purposes? Can I deduct the full $150 this year, some each year, or the full amount when it is paid off?

A — You may only deduct what you actually paid in interest each year. If you are paying this interest off in equal monthly payments, then you may deduct $4.17 of it for each month you made a payment during the tax year.

Q—I expect to return to collepe as a full-time student in the fall. Since the money I make this summer will be all I'll make this year, can I file a return in September and get my tax refund then?

A — No. Returns cannot be filed until the close of the taxable year. If you file early in January, whatever refund you have coming will be processed quickly.

Q — Last year I was stationed in Viet Nam with the Marines. I didn't know when I filed my tax return that military personnel were entitled to exclude their pay for combat service. Is it too late to claim that exclusion?

A — No, provided you filed you return and paid your taxes on time, you have three years from the due date of the return to file a claim for refund on Form 843, or on an amended return.

OWNER AND CHAMP — Jim Leverich and his champion Brittany Spaniel, Way Kan Jill, admire trophies won by the Panhandles best Brittany. Jill has won the U.S. Open Brittany Spaniel championship.

HOBBY GROWS AND GROWS

'Jill' is Top Brittany

By RAY RODGERS JR.

The purchase seven years ago of a Brittany Spaniel female pup started a Pampan on a hobby which today draws attention from dog owners the world over.

Jim Leverich, 1824 Christine, is the owner of Way Kan Jill, a beautiful brown and white Brittany Spaniel which boasts of a record seldom equaled in the hunting dog world.

Way Kan Jill won the U. S. Open Brittany Spaniel Championship in 1963 and has been a finalist in the same trials in 1964 and 1965. In addition she has placed in 31 field trials, chosen both in 1963 and 1964 as a member of the Sports Afield All-American Bird dog team and has a good chance to be chosen again in 1965, although the magazines selections have not been named.

The dog is also the only Brittany Spaniel in the U. S. which is a champion of record in both the American Kennel Club and Field Dog Stud Book.

Way Kan Jill is just a little short at this time of being listed in the top ten dogs in the United States which are producers of champion pups.

Leverich said that this accomplishment is from only two litters of pups.

He said her next litter of pups due in two months should put her well up in the top ten.

Brittany Spaneils were imported to the U. S. about 15 years ago from France.

Their popularity both as a pet and as a hunting dog has increased radpidly and many hunters consider Brittany Spaniels will someday become the world's most popular hunting dog.

Leverich is proud of his dogs and he has a right to be. However, he is not the only member of his family which takes pride in them. Mrs. Leverich, and their two children, Janie, 18, and Rick 5, spend much time working, feeding and caring for the dogs as Leverich.

Brittany Spaniel pups breed by Leverich all points in the world. Leverich said he has a deposit already made on five of Way Kan Jill's pups which are not due for two months.

Surprisingly, these championship dogs are not expensive. Leverich said he sells pups for $100 each including all shots, and registration papers.

He said that after seven years of raising the pups, training and showing them, he is just now beginning to break even.

"The cost of hiring a trainer and taking the dogs around the country takes up just about all profit," Leverich says.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Goodbody & Co. says it believes the stock market eventually will recover to its all time high, but progress will be slow and tedious.

The company says it feels profit - taking, unsettlement in the steel industry and uncertainty over the international monetary situation will hinder but not stop the progress of he market.

It says the Viet Nam conflict will not play a big role in the trend of the market but it will be no means be ignored.

Bache & Company says it feels there are more gains in store for the market. It says it believes that profit - taking will be prevelant for sometime but bargain hunting on the dips of attractive stocks will be rewarded. It believes that year end earnings reports may well exceed expectations.

L. O. Hooper of W. E. Hutton & Co. believes the stock market as a whole has not been as strong as the good performance of few glamour stocks have made it look. In view of the fact that advances have outnumbered declines in the past 16 sessions, it is historically justified that the near - term upward trend of the market will probably not be as vigorous as expected.

Blancas Leads Carling Championship by One

3 Tied for Second; Palmer Slips to 73

SUTTON, Mass. (UPI) — Homero Blancas, a slender young Texan in his first time around on the pro tour, scored a four-under-par 67 Saturday for a one-stroke lead in the $200,000 Carling Golf championship.

The 27-year-old Blancas, who turned professional on his release from the Army just four months ago, sported a two-round score of 71-67-138 over the par-71 Pleasant Valley Country Club course.

A flock of veterans headed by early leader Mike Souchak, Joe Campbell and Jim Ferree were one stroke behind Blancas at the half-way mark of the tournament.

Half of the competition for the $35,000 first prize was eliminated from the final 18-hole rounds on Sunday and Monday as the field was slashed to those who shot 148 or better.

Souchak, whose score climbed three strokes for 68-71—139, took a typical veterans philosophical attitude.

"I wasn't happy with my game but 71 is better than 72, isn't it?" said Souchak.

Ferree, a 34-year-old North Carolinian, who plays out of Corona, Calif., checked in at 69-70—139 and announced it included the longest putt "I've ever made, or seen or even heard of."

He sank a 95-footer with a "full swing" for a par on the 13th en route to his second-place deadlock.

Sam Snead, last of the big gallery attractions to finish before a record New England golf crowd of 25,575, had a three-under 68 for 72-68—140 and a share of fifth place.

Snead was joined by South Africa's Gary Player at 71-69—140; Claude King of Virginia Beach, Va., 70-70—140, and Miller Barber of Pecan Valley, Tex., 69-71—140. Only one other entry, Ramon Sota of Canotanber, Spain, at 71-70—141, was sub-par at the halfway mark of the 72-hole tournament.

Three of the top pre-tournament favorites were bunched in the 142 class. Arnold Palmer slipped from an opening round tie for second to 69-73—142 where he was joined by PGA king Dave Marr at 73-69—142, Champagne Tony Lema at 71-71—142 and Jack Cupit at 72-70—142.

Defending Carling champion Bobby Nichols maintained a steady pace for 72-72—144 while Jack Nicklaus, the tour's leading money-winner, added a two - over 73 to his opening round 74 for a 147 total.

Nicklaus barely made the cut but a flock of ranking tourists did not. They included Tommy Aaron at 73-76 — 149, Bob Charles at 75-75—150, Bob Rosburg at 74 76—15-0, Tommy Bolt at 74-77—151, Lionel Hebert at 76-76—152, Jerry Barber at 75 76-7 65J,e2rry Barber at 75—1 76—153, Peter Thomson at 77-76—153, and Doug Ford at 79 80—159.

BILLS TRIM JETS, 30-14

GB Buries Bears, 31-14

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Green Bay Packers scored three touchdowns in the second quarter Saturday and went on to bury the Chicago Bears 31-14 for their second successive National Football League exhibition victory.

A sell-out crowd of 47,006, a record for the annual Midwest Shrine game, watched the two teams match bruising defenses through the first period before the Packers marched 43 yards for their first touchdown.

Quarterback Bart Starr, Paul Hornung and Jim Taylor led the Packer of ensive drive.

Green Bay scored twice more before the half ended, on short runs by Tom Moore and Elijah Pitts.

Green Bay added a 41-yard field goal by Don Chandler in the fourth period and scored again on an 80-yard pass from Zeke Bratkowski to Bob Long.

The Bears got two consolation touchdowns in the closing minutes of play with second-year quarterback Larry Rakestraw guiding both drives.

Buffalo jumped off to a 27-0 half time advantage Saturday and then coasted to a 30-14 victory over the New York Jets in an American Football League exhibition game before 16,000 at Rutgers Stadium.

With Daryle Lamonica quarterbacking the defending champions, Buffalo controlled the ball almost throughout the first two quarters, gaining 176 yards and holding the Jets to 17.

Lamonica threw two touchdown passes to Charlie Ferguson and his aerials helped set up two field goals by Pete Gogolak. Buffalo's other touchdowns came on a 35-yard runback with an interception by Jim Dunaway, a 280-pound defensive tackle.

New York, which split its quarterbacking between bonus rookies John Huarte and Joe Namath, scored both its touchdowns as the result of defensive breaks.

Rice Owls Plan To Mix T, I Formation

HOUSTON (UPI)— The Rice Owls, with 20 lettermen returning from last season, plan to be an "all kinds of T" club this fall with a dash of "I"formation thrown in.

The club's 1965 press brochae rleaee said as always, Coach Jess Neely will favor a balanced offense with an average of around 15 or more passes a game.

With the loss of 15 lettermen from last year's team, the Owls have a rebuilding job on hand, but Neely hopes to keep opponents off balance with game-by-game adjustments based on rival's strong and weak points.

Rice will platoon with offensive and defensive specialists while there will be a few key players going both ways, it is likely only key veterans such as Craig Christopher, David Ferguson, Bert Barron and Jim Vining will play more than just briefly as two-way gridders.

The Owls lost three of their top five rushers last fall, but the team should have a good starting backfield of able running ability, including Gene Walker at fullback, Chuck LaTourette at tailback, Doug Nicholson at quarterback and Jimmy Henderson at wingback.

The Owls only hit about 45 per cent of their passes last fall and are anxious to do better this year. Ferguson and Nicholson are expected to lead the aerial attack.

The "overshift six" or "rover" defense is expected to be used by Rice again as its principal system. Neely plans to use three ends on defense this year with one of them—Veteran Bert Barron—in a role of "rover" instead of a defensive guard for that post as it has been.

Neely hopes enthusiasm and team work can offset the worries of a young defensive line.

Handling the kicking for the Owls will be LaTourette and Barron. LaTourette did all of the punting for Rice last year. Barron succeeds graduated Larry Rice, as the point-after and field goal kicker and will probably kick off for the Owls.

The team gets its first test Sept. 18 against Louisiana Tech, a new grid foe for Rice. The Bulldogs return some WU lettermen from a team with a 9-1 record last year.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Wes Parker hit a two-out, two-run homer in the top of the 11th inning Saturday to lead the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 6-4 victory over the San Francisco Giants and back into first place in the National League race.

The victory coupled with Pittsburgh's 3-0 triumph over Milwaukee boosted the Dodgers into the top spot, a half-game ahead of the Braves. The Giants remained in third place, 1½ games off the pace and only a game ahead of fourth place Cincinnati.

Jim Lefebvre led off the 11th with a single to left that finished reliever Bill Henry, who had held the Dodgers off since the eighth inning when Willie Mays' 37th homer tied the score at 4-4.

Ron Fairly bunted Lefebvre along to second and then Parker, who had hit only five other homers this year in 419 at bats, drove Frank Linzy's second pitch over the right field fence.

Mets 6, Cards 2

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jack Fisher, the only New York Mets' pitcher who has been able to beat St. Louis this year, did it for the second time Saturday, scattering eight hits for a 6-2 victory that ended the Cardinals' 10-game domination of the last place Mets.

Fisher, who hadn't won a game in a month, picked up his eighth victory in 24 decisions to become the winningest Met righthander of all time. He has won 18 games in his two years with New York.

Bucs 3, Braves 0

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Bob Friend held the Milwaukee Braves to five hits Saturday as the Pittsburgh Pirates scored a 3-0 victory in a game highlighted by Bill Mazeroski's steal of home.

Friend struck out one and walked two in posting his sixth victory against 10 losses.

Mazeroski stole home in the fourth inning with relief pitcher Hank Fischer on the mound. Mazeroski had walked and moved to third on Jim Pagliaroni's single.

Sens 4, Tribe 2

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Woody Held hit his 14th home run of the season Saturday to lead the Washington Senators to a 4-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Held's two run shot, following a single by Don Lock, broke a 2-2 tie in the bottom of the eighth and gave relief pitcher Howie Koplitz his fourth victory against seven defeats.

The Indians scored one run in the first on a double by Chico Salmon and a single by Rocky Colavito.

Astros 9, Cubs 2

CHICAGO (UPI) — Veteran Robin Roberts coasted to his third straight triumph since coming back to the National League by pitching Houston to a 9-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs Saturday.

Roberts, 38, gave up his first two runs in the seventh inning after pitching previous shutonts over Philadelphia and Pittsburgh after coming to Houston from Baltimore Aug. 6.

The victory was the 279th in Roberts' 17-year major league career, and marked the 34th time he has beaten the Cubs.

Cubs starter Dick Ellsworth, tagged with his 11th loss, was knocked out for the fifth straight time since the All-Star break.

Jim Wynn and Frank Thomas were the hitting stars for the Astros, as they collected five of Houston's 10 hits. Thomas hit a two-run homer in the first inning, his second of the year, and Wynn hit his 16th

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Saturday night game between the New York Yankees and Baltimore Orioles was postponed because of rain. It was rescheduled as part of a Sunday doubleheader.

Bosox 13, Tigers 10

BOSTON (UPI) — Tony Conigliaro belted a home run, triple and double and Tony Horton connected with a homer and two singles tonight to lead the Boston Red Sox to a 13-10 triumph over the Detroit Tigers.

Conigliaro knocked in four runs and Horton three with their heavy hitting as Boston scored four runs in the first inning off Detroit starter and loser Hank Aguirre, who absorbed his ninth loss in 21 decisions.

Willie Horton blasted his 26th home run and Gates Brown his fifth to pace Detroit's nine-hit effort.

Chisox 7, A's 6

KANSAS CITY (UPI)— Al Weis' two-out single in the 11th inning gave the Chicago White Sox a 7-6 victory over the Kansas City Athletics Saturday night for their eighth consecutive win.

The victory went to Bruce Howard, his sixth of the season. Lew Krausse, the eighth and final A's hurler, suffered the loss.

Chicago took a 6-3 lead into the bottom of the ninth, but the Athletics managed three runs on two hit batsmen, a walk, a single, a stolen base, passed ball and a wild pitch. Howard wild-pitched home the tying run.

The Sox had picked up two in the top of the ninth on two hit batsmen, a walk and an error.

Reds 2 Phils 1

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Leo Cardenas singled home pinch-runner Chico Ruiz in the 11th inning Saturday to give the Cincinnati Reds a 2-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

RAY HOPKINS
...Ranger coach

By RON CROSS
News Sports Editor

PERRYTON (Spl.) — Football coach Ray Hopkins hopes to improve on a second place tie in District 1-3A that his Perryton Rangers fought for last year.

Hopkins welcomes four starters and 13 lettermen back for twice-daily practices that will last until Sept. 1.

Hopkins returns two backs and two linemen to a team that will run basically from the Wing T formation with some Slot T thrown in for good measure.

Jim Gobin, an end, D'Allen Miller, a guard, Kenneth Deike, a fullback and halfback Gary Winter are starters returning to the fold this year.

Lettermen include Mike Mitchel, an end; Gary Thomas, Rick Huston and Steve Harmon, all tackles; Joe Halsey, a guard; Terry Darrow, a center; Chris Byerley, quarterback; Al Rupprecht, a halfback and Jerry Clark, a fullback.

Hopkins expects his Rangers to have it tough in the conference, picking Dumas as the league champion, for the fifth time in a row. Hopkins picks Hereford next, then Tulia, Canyon and Muleshoe.

Perryton's main problem will be its lack of depth and trouble in the line, where the Rangers are again shorthanded. In the line Perryton will average only about 165 pounds per man. Hopkins is optimistic about his backfield and expects to have a better balanced running attack with Deike, Winter and Rupprecht going with the signal calling of Byerley.

The Rangers have several bright prospects coming up from a good 1964 B team, in Bob Pearson, Rodger Hefner, Joe Brillhart and Stan Wright.

Hopkins assistant coaches are James Kauffman, Gene Lay, Jimmy Janes and Roy Pennington. Janes and Pennington are also the B team coaches.

Dumas Picked As 1-3A Champ

Although they have only two returning regulars from their 1964 District 1-3A football champions, the Dumas Demons are picked to repeat their feats of the past year.

Hereford barely edged out Tulia for the runnerup spot, Canyon was picked fourth, Perryton fifth and Muleshoe last in the conference.

Dumas coach Bill Spann has 10 lettermen back besides the two starters, who saw plenty of action last year.

The Hornets from Tulia have five starters going each direction and return 15 lettermen. Tulia is a solid third place choice with a good chance score higher.

Canyon with a new head coach, Jim Greenwood, lack in size, speed and depth but are expected to make up for it with a host of returning lettermen.

Muleshoe has the dubious distinction of being picked last, mainly because they have only six regulars and a total of 12 lettermen from a team that was 2-8 a year ago.

Harris Voted Oil Bowl's Best

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (UPI) — Texas, despite a wealth of hard - running backs, had to scramble in the second half Friday night to beat a stubborn Oklahoma team led by brilliant Mike Arnold, 21-13, in the 28th annual Oil Bowl.

An all-time crowd of 17,500 fans saw the game at 15,000-capacity Midwestern University stadium. It was the 20th game between Oklahoma and Texas, which now leads 15-4-1.

James Harris of Brownwood, who rolled up 81 yards in six carries, was voted the game's outstanding back.

Ken Gidney of McKinney was voted outstanding lineman. Gidney, who narrowly edged out Oklahoma's Larry Gosney of Crooked Oak, Okla., made 15 tackles, five unassisted.

Praises Oklahoma

Harris said after the game that Oklahoma tackled better and harder than Pennsylvania stars did in last Saturday's Big 33 game at Hershey, Pa.

"Oklahoma had much more gang-tackling," he said.

Halfbacks Norman Bonner of Dumas, and Chris Gilbert of Spring Branch, Fullback Pinky Palmer of Olney, Bill Bradley of Palestine and Glenn Smith of Houston Waltrip and Jerry Levias of Beaumont Hebert kept Oklahoma's defense scattered most of the evening.

Bradley, however, had to leave the game in the second quarter with a minor head injury.

Arnold did all of Oklahoma's passing, connecting on 7 of 17 for 125 yards, scoring one touchdown and engineering the other.

The Enid efficiency expert scored with two seconds left in the first half to manage the 7-7 halftime deadlock.

Texas' charging line stopped the Sooners with only 35 yards rushing, compared with 249 for Texas.

Texas' margin of victory was scored the first time it got the ball in the second half. Bonner went over on a two-yard run.

Palmer scored the first touchdown on a two-yard run and Levias converted. The final score was by Harris, a five-yard pass from Smith. Harris' kick was good.

HOUSTON (UPI) — Nelson Fox of the Houston Astros was the most difficult player in the national League to strike out in 1964 — fanning only 13 times in 502 at bats for a rate of one strikeout every 38.62 trips to the plate.

Dove Season Opens In State Sept. 1

AUSTIN — The opening salvo in the 1965 wildlife harvest season will be fired at noon Wednesday, September 1, in 183 Texas counties.

That time marks the opening of the mourning dove season in the north zone, which covers about three-fifths of the state.

P. B. Uzzell, wildlife coordinator for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, said prospects are favorable for substantial numbers of the most popular upland game bird in Texas. He said reports indicate a generally good hatch in most areas and that food and water conditions have been adequate, except in a few scattered areas.

The opening mourning dove bombardment at noon September 1 will be reinforced within one week by two distinctive shoots. One will be the traditional white-winged dove shoot in Rio Grande Valley counties, September 4-5 and September 11-12. The other will be an experimental season on teal ducks, September 4-12. Special permits, already issued by deadline, are required for the teal hunt, for which there is a four per-day and eight in possession limit after the first day.

Uzzell cautioned hunters that dove hunting will be permitted from noon to sunset, that the usual regulations involving plugged guns to three shots and such, will prevail, and that the south zone season will not open until noon September 25.

The wildlife coordinator said the best time to hunt usually is late afternoon and that grain fields, wild seed areas and the stock tanks are favored shooting spots. He advised hunters to obtain land owners permission and to avoid shooting on highways or from cars.

The dove limit is 12 a day or 24 in possession, after the first day. The white - winged dove area limit is 12 mourning doves and 10 whitewing, with double that in possession after the first day. Each dove must retain one fully feathered wing until final processed.

Rambling With Red

By RON CROSS

"Increasingly tiresome, stupid and childish."

This was the way one sports writer described the feud between the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Amateur Athletic Union.

Many things have been said at the hearings being conducted by a Senate Committee, but as usual, nothing has been done.

Bud Speaks Out

Sports writers as a whole say the two organizations share the blame for the situation and called for a "super-federation" to resolve the long and bitter feud.

In his semi-weekly column, 'Time Out With Bud,' former Oklahoma University football coach Bud Wilkinson, says that their is a disturbing lack of interest in discussing the really important facts.

Wilkinson feels that Gerry Lindgren, Tom Farrell and Randy Matson will have some interesting things to tell the committee but feels the track stars have become mere pawns in the power struggle.

RON CROSS

Matson, according to his coach has claimed he will quit competition until the issue is settled.

Wilkinson says that athletes like Matsor attract publicity, but sincere as they are, may direct the attention of the committee to the press and the public to the symptoms rather than to the disease.

Cure The Ills

Legislation is now pending in Congress to cure the ills of professional boxing. That the ills exist none will deny, but how their going about it does require some attention.

The original bill tended to interfere with a free press.

The amended bill drops such broad language and aims more specifically at radio and television, including closed-circuit TV. Even with the amendments, however, the bill sets forth a principle that only generates concern in every branch of the press.

In part, the bill lets the commission, after appropriate notice, prohibit the holding or coverage or both of any proposed boxing match if it finds that prohibition is in the public interest.

There is no indication when or if the measure is to go to the full house, but if would seem to bear watching by all who are intersted in freedom-of-information.

FRIDAYS MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Mays, Mathews Help Braves, SF

LOST IN HIS WORK — When Elston Howard, Yankee catcher, chases a foul ball he gives it a little extra. And in this case, it carried him right into the stands.

By United Press International

Willie Mays and Eddie Mathews, the two greatest active sluggers in baseball, are rapidly approaching historic milestones and in the process are carrying their respective teams, the San Francisco Giants and Milwaukee Braves, to the brink of the National League pennant.

The amazing Mays crashed his 36th homer of the season Friday night, tops in the majors, for a career total of 489, only four short of fifth - place Lou Gehrig on the all - time power listing. It also propelled the Giants to a 5-1 victory over the Dodgers, who dropped into second place, one percentage point ahead of San Francisco.

The durable Mathews clubbed home run No. 28 with a man on board in the eighth to break a 2-2 tie, send Milwaukee into first place by virtue of a 4-3 triumph over the Pirates and push his home run total to 473, only two short of that compiled by Stan Musial, whose 475 circuits rank him seventh in the record books.

The Reds remained close behind the leaders by edging the Phillies 3-2 in 10 innings, the Cardinals routed the Mets 8-1 and the Cubs blanked the Astros 2-0 in the second game of a doubleheader after Houston clipped the opener 7-4.

Jim Ray Hart also homered for the Giants off starter and loser Howie Reed and Bob Shaw scored his seventh consecutive victory to boost his record to 14-6. Shaw scattered five hits and struck out five.

Breaks Tie

Joe Torre had lifted the Braves into a 2-2 deadlock in the seventh with his 24th homer, a solo clout, before Mathews applied the finishing touch. Wade Blasingame gained his 15th win in 23 decisions with a six - hit, six strikeout effort.

Jim Coker, a former Phillie, drove in Cincinnati's go-ahead run in the eighth with a sacrifice fly and, after Philadelphia's Johnny Briggs had tied the game in the ninth with a homer, he rode a pitch out of Connie Mack Stadium in the 10th to provide Sammy Ellis with his 16th win. Ellis fanned eight and allowed only six hits.

Ken Boyer homered and tripled and drove in three runs as St. Louis made the most of four Met miscues to rout the beleaguered New Yorkers, who tied the Phillies of 1938, 1939, 1940 and 1941 for the most defeats in four consecutive seasons (425). Bob Gibson coasted to his 15th triumph against nine defeats, whiffing 11 and permitting only three safeties.

Bill Faul, the hypnotic right-hander, cast a spell over the Astros in the nightcap in posting his third victory — and third shutout of the year. Bob Aspromonte smacked a bases - loaded single off Ted Abernathy in the ninth inning of the opener to provide Bob Bruce with his eighth victory.

There's an old saying in baseball that a split doubleheader satisfies no one but the Minnesota Twins and Los Angeles Angels would debate the point today.

Both the Twins and Angels came away satisfied Friday night when they divided a twi-night doubleheader by identical 3-1 scores. The Twins were satisfied because the split kept them eight full games ahead of the Chicago White Sox and Detroit Tigers. And the Angels were satisfied because they apparently have come up with a useful starting pitcher.

Shut out on three hits by George Brunet, the Twins staged one of their patented ninth-inning rallies to win the nightcap. Zoilo Versalles singled, went to third on Rich Rollins' double and scored on a fielder's choice to tie the score at 1-1. Andy Kosco's sacrifice fly put the Twins in front and Sandy Valdespino singled home the third run of the frame.

Sanford Goes Six

Earlier, the Angels saw newly acquired Jack Sanford pitch six strong innings to win in his first appearance in the American League. The 36-year-old righthander had been obtained from the San Francisco Giants earlier in the week. Bob Lee relieved Sanford in the seventh and shut out the Angels in the last three frames. Joe Adcock homered for Los Angeles.

The White Sox defeated the Kansas City Athletics 3-1, the Tigers beat the Boston Red Sox 2-0 and 3-2, the Washington Senators nipped the Cleveland Indians 3-2 and the New York Yankees edged out the Baltimore Orioles 1-0 in other American League games.

Bill Skowron's two - run third - inning homer was the big blow for the White Sox, who ran their winning streak to seven games. Gary Peters won his eighth game of the season although Hoyt Wilhelm shut out the Athletics for the last two innings. Ken Harrleson homered for Kansas City.

Throws Three - Hitter

Denny McLain pitched a three - hitter to win his 11th game and Dave Wickersham allowed three hits and two runs score his seventh victory for the Tigers. Don Wert scored both Detroit runs in the opener —one after a triple and the other after a double. Errors by Earl Wilson and Felix Mantilla made two of the Tigers' runs in the nightcap unearned.

Dick Nen homered after Jim King walked in the top of the ninth to give the Senators a come - from - behind win over Cleveland's Luis Tiant. Ron Kline, who pitched only one inning for the Senators, received credit for his fifth win against three defeats.

WASHINGTON YANKEE— The gift of Mabton, Washington, to the major leagues is New York Yankee righthander Mel Stottlemyre, manager Johnny Keane's most dependable pitcher this season.

HE TAKES A LOT OF PAIN AND...

Jim Hurtubise Still Driving for Racing Gold

By TOM TIEDE

LANGHORNE, Pa. (NEA) — Racedriver Jim Hurtubise spun out of control at the track here the other day and it scared hell out of everyone but him. As in any speedway mishap he could have been killed. He wasn't.

But then he doesn't die very easily.

"Just a bit of bad luck," he whispered as he unstrapped his helmet and began to peel the gloves from his crooked hands. His hands are what you notice first. They are not hands, really, but crippled fragments, the grotesque surrealist art of a surgeon's scalpel.

They are large scars and when he looks at them, Jim Hurtubise remembers.

It was a year ago in another car on another track. Something went wrong then, too. Just a bit of bad luck and the driver was pulled from sanity into a purgatory of unholy flame. Jim Hurtubise was burning to death.

They got to him before he died, however, and somebody commented that perhaps that was unfortunate. Most of the man was charred and beginning to crack like the basin of a dryr iver. Groping arms tore chunks of spoiled skin from his body.

He was not recognizable and grown men at the scene wept and looked away.

What was left of the gritty little guy was taken to a hospital and the morning after the headlines in the public prints announced what all who had witnessed the crash alreay knew: "Hurtubise Near Death."

But he doesn't die very easily.

Burn cases are critical long after normal bone-breaking accidents expose their verdicts one way or another, and the driver was immobile for weeks, conscious of the fact he was not dead but not alive either. Progress was slow, disappointments many, and the pain . . . "beyond my description," admits Jim.

They remodeled Jim like an early American quilt. Patches of skin were grafted from the healthy to the burned areas; some central face features reshaped; the vital organs saved from permanent damage.

But his hands . . . they were ruined forever.

A doctor amputated a finger and apologetically told the patient the following day, fearing the reaction of a man whose hands were his living.

"What did you do with the finger?" Jim wanted to know.

"We're making tests with it," the surgeon said. "Why do you ask?"

"Well,' Jim said impishly, "we do a lot of fishing back home and I never seem to have enough bait. So I figured that maybe that little finger . . . "

Somewhere under the bandages was a 100-m.p.h. grin.

Hurtubise made his own decisions about the hands. Physicians told him they would never be normal, have minimum elasticity, and must be fashioned in one of two ways — with the finger jutting straight out or with the fingers clenched.

"Make 'em crooked," Hurtubise said. "Then I can grip a steering wheel again."

So they made them crooked and sent the patient home after several months' confinement. They warned him against shoveling snow much less automobile racing. They said there would probably always be pain.

And there always is. Shoveling snow or racing. After either, Jim Hurtubise removes gloves wet with blood. Turning a water spigot can break the skin open. A hundred miles in a sprint car is an exercise in torture.

But he stood there the other day, a year after the flames bit his body to the bone and minutes after it almost happened again, grinning shyly and listening to people tell him he should slow down, take it easy, maybe even quit altogether.

"The little squirt," somebody said admiringly. "He's gonna get killed some day."

Not very easily he won't.

JIM HURTUBISE ..."just a bit of bad luck"

NEW NATIONAL MONUMENT

Cowhand Provided Name for Quarries

By RAY RODGERS JR.

With the affixing of President Johnson's signature, the Alibates Flint Quarries will become a national monument site.

Up until a bill was introduced by Congressman Walter Rogers to preserve them as a monument little was known about the quarries which are located on the Coldwater Ranch, 15 miles west of the Canadian River Dam.

Located along the rocky bluffs that overlook the Canadian River in what is now Potter County, the actual vein of high-quality flint runs about 5,000 feet long and from 50 to 400 feet wide.

This remarkable concentration of exposed flint was first recognized in 1925 as a large Indian mining activity by Floyd V. Studer, a nationally known Amarillo archaeologist.

Perhaps that odd-looking word Alibates ought to be explained. It looks like Greek and one would expect it to sound something like Socrates, Polycrates, and the rest of those famous names. But it is pronounced Al-i-bates — not Ah-LIBB-a-teez. They were named after an old Texas cowhand named Allen or Allie Bates. Bates never owned a ranch or mined flint in the area, but lived in an old shack along a creek near the quarries. The creek got the name of Allie Bates Creek and later the flint deposits took on the name of Alibates. Named after him, the old cowhand probably never heard of North American archaeology.

The beautiful rainbow colored flint is probably the only industrial site in the world with so long a record of continuous use.

The Palaeo-Indians mined the flint over 12,000 years ago to hunt Ice-Age mammals. The flint was fashioned into hard rock and stationed on the end of a spear or rod. Perhaps it should be explained here that the bow and arrow appeared rather late in most parts of North America. About five out of every six weapon points that are picked up and called arrowheads are actually dart points, far too broad and heavy to be lashed to anything as slender as an arrow shaft.

To get a better historical perspective of this period, one can take into account that this was 6,000 years before the wheel was invented, 7,000 years before the biblical floods and 9,000 years before the rise and fall of Greece and the building of the Roman Empire and even 10,000 years before the birth of Christ.

So far as is known, this is the only industrial site in the world with so long a record of continuous use, lasting into modern times.

This durable yet workable, flint was used not only for projectile points but also for scrapers, knives, hammers and other tools necessary for early man's existence.

Thousands of years aftert he Clovis Man, who existed 12,000 to 15,000 years before Christ, the Alibates Flint Quarries were the controlling factor in the growth of a Pueblo type culture, (900 A.D. — 1300 A.D.) at this location.

The Indians of this culture were probably the first to mine the Alibates flint on a large-scale operation, although the Clovis Man had done considerable quarrying in the area also.

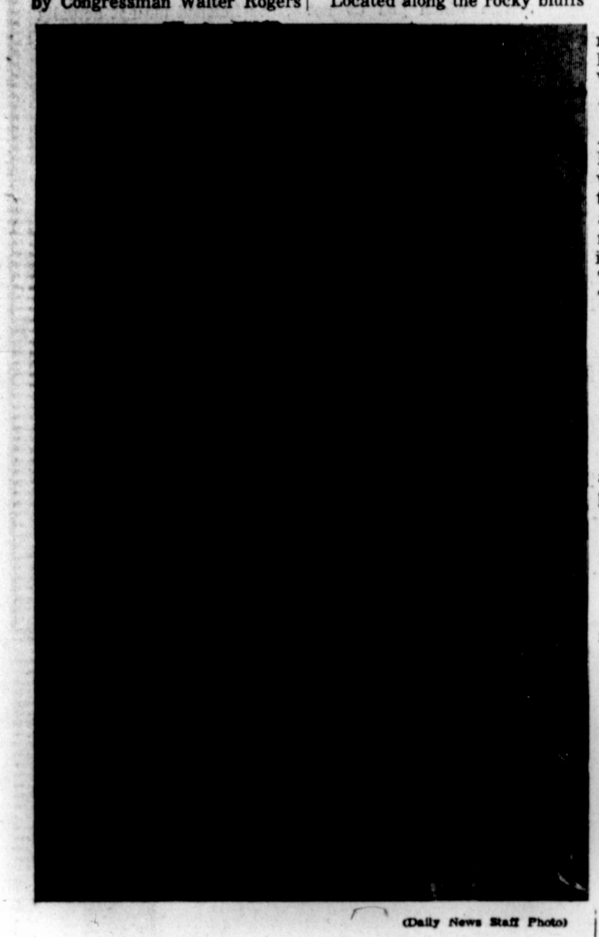

The Indians mined these spear points, knives, arrow points, hide scrapers, and other tools from the flint and then traded them off for pottery, basketry, and other objects to Indians in Wyoming, Montana, New Mexico and Oklahoma.

Then in rather later times, roughly from 1200 to 1400 A.D., the land along the Canadian and a number of its tributary creeks was occupied by town-dwelling and comparatively advanced Indians. Those people were no longer there when Coronado came marching down the Canadian in 1541, still searching for the Seven Cities of Cibola. The only Indians found by Coronado were Apaches of some breed or another, following the buffalo herds on foot living on buffalo meat, dwelling in tiny tepees made of buffalo hide and building their fires out of buffalo chips.

It has not been determined by anthropoligists as yet whether it was those Apaches who chased off the Pueblo dwelling Indians or they just left because of a long drought making it impossible for them to raise their crops of corn and beans and squash.

To the Indians, the flint was the same thing as our iron and steel is to us today.

The bill sponsored by Rep. Rogers of Pampa to declare the Alibates Flint Quarries as a national monument site was passed by the House and Senate and is waiting the President's signature to become official.

ICE AGE WEAPON — The flint-made spear point was used by the Clovis Man, 12,000 to 15,000 years before Christ, to hunt Ice-Age Mammals. The flint was mined from the Alibate Flint Quarries located along the Canadian River.

(Daily News Staff Photo)

FLINT ROCK — Jim Brohenbeck, bureau of reclamation engineer for the Canadian River Dam, is looking over one of the many large boulders of Alibates flint which can be found on both sides of the Canadian. The minning of the flint rock is probably the oldest industrial site in the world with so long a record of continuous use.

DELAYS ACTION

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Friday postponed action until a week from Monday on a House-approved resolution permitting a U.S. showing of a government film about the late President John F. Kennedy.

The film, entitled "John F. Kennedy — Years of Lighting, Day of Drums," will be shown to American audiences for several weeks if the Senate approves the proposal.

Nuptial Mass Solemnized Yesterday For Teresa Mack, William E. Neslage

(Photo by Koen)

Mrs. William Edmund Neslage
. . . nee Miss Teresa Irene Mack

Rev. William Brennan, C.M., officiated the nuptial mass and ceremony at 12 o'clock noon yesterday that united in marriage Miss Teresa Irene Mack and William Edmund Neslage.

The bride is the daughter of Robert D. Mack of 1711 Charles and Mrs. Margaret Sanger Waterman of Gretna, La. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Victor J. Merfeld of San Angelo and of the late Joseph Sanger of San Angelo. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Neslage Sr. of 2005 Charles.

Aisles of St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church were ornamented with tiered arrangements of white chrysanthemums and lemon leaves, as were the entrances to each pew, for the exchange of vows. A fan shaped arrangement of white gladioli formed the background for the white prie dieu on which the couple knelt during the ceremony. On either side of the altar stood tiered poodle trees and arrangements of white gladioli.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in a chapel-length gown of imported cameo peau de soie. The fitted bodice of the gown was embellished with alencon lace motifs and featured a scoop neckline and elbow - length bell - shaped sleeves of alencon lace. Dior bows accented the shoulders of the gown and secured the detachable chapel - length train. White Spanish lace gloves, over 100 years old belonging to her aunt, Mrs. Teresa Sanger Campbell of Kenosha, Wis., complimented her attire. She wore a bouffant elbow-length veil of illusion held by a coif of organza roses beaded with seed pearls and carried a cascade bouquet of white orchids, stephanotis and yellow sweetheart roses.

Honor attendants were Miss Marion Rita Neslage, bridegroom's sister, maid of honor; Miss Paula Jay Wolslager of San Angelo, bride's cousin, Miss Susan Langhorne of Dalhart, Miss Mary Louise Martin and Miss Ann Marie Barnes, bridesmaids, and Miss Carol Campbell of Boca Rotan, Fla., bride's cousin, junior bridesmaid. Miss Neslage was attired in a formal-length gown of yellow and white silk organza fashioned after that of the bride's and carried a cascade arrangement of yellow and white roses. The other bridal attendants were dressed identically in formal - length gowns of pale yellow silk organza fashioned after the bride's gown and carried cascade bouquets of yellow centered white glamelias and salal foliage.

Robert Lawrence Neslage served his brother as best man while groomsmen were the bridegroom's brothers, Fred J. Neslage Jr. of El Paso, and John Edward Neslage, William LaJoie of Dallas, Donald Curry of Canyon and Thomas Ford of Perryton. Sharing ushers duties were William G. Bush of Grand Junction, Colo., bridegroom's uncle, Patrick J. Ormsby of Kansas City, Mo., bridegroom's cousin, Donald M. Olson of Canyon, William Smith of Dumas, Robert Ogilvie of Dallas, Michael Dunigan, Timothy Dunigan and Terrance Dunigan.

Serving the nuptial mass were the bridegroom's brother, Thomas Neslage, and his cousin, Joseph Bush.

Mrs. Jack D. Edwards presented Rosetti's Processional and Recessional and other appropriate selections and accompanied Winton Edd Rowntree, vocalist, as he sang "Ava Maria" by Bach-Gounod, "The Lord's Prayer" by Allen Caron and "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother" by Lambilitte. During the last vocal selection the bride and bridegroom walked to the altar of the Blessed Mother and the bride placed a bouquet of yellow roses on the altar. The couple then knelt on a white satin pillow to dedicate their marriage to the Blessed Mother.

Cord Care

NEW YORK (UPI)—To prolong the life of an electric cord, disconnect the appliance by pulling the plug, not the cord, from the outlet, manufacturers of electrical equipment suggest.

Also, if there is a switch, turn it off before you pull the plug. After disconnecting the cord, draw its full length through a sudsy cloth or sponge. Follow up by rinsing with a clean damp cloth or sponge and let the cord dry before replugging the appliance.

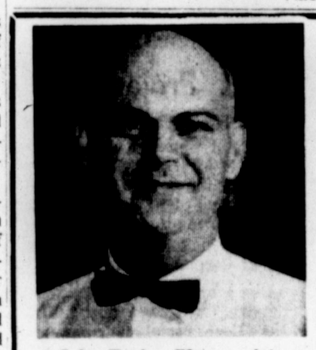

Stretch cotton lace soon may be in production of apparel. A new chemical treatment developed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture makes ordinary cotton lace stretch and gives it a more luxurious look.

Complainers Can Be Own Worst Enemies

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There's a reason why a lot of persons past 60 become chronic compaliners about their health, a Duke University psychiatrist recently explained.

Such complainers frequently "distort and exaggerate" thier growing-old pains because they need a crutch to lean on and they figure that if they complain enough about their health others won't expect too much from them.

The trouble is that the persons who chooses that particular crutch to lean on finds himself more and more alone because family and friends grow weary and depressed by a chronic complainer.

Complainers become a burden to everyone who knows them because most people have enough troubles of their own—and even enough aches and pains—so that they grow impatient if they have to listen to long, detailed accounts of how terrible someone else feels—if the person always feels terrible and always wants to talk about it.

So, if you are past 60, and you think your family and friends aren't as sympathetic as they should be, or if you feel they are beginning to neglect you, maybe you had better do a little checking on yourself.

When a friend or relative telephones or comes to visit how do you reply to that first question, "How are you?" or, "How have you been getting along?"

Do you grab onto it as an opening to go into a long account of the miseries you have been going through, or answer with a sad martyred, "Not too well, but I guess you have to expect that at my age."?

If those are your usual responses to "How are you?" then you've slipped into the role of chronic complainer, ppobably without being aware of it.

Even if you don't feel on top of the world, how about making a stab at pretending that you do? The gallant pretense will endear you to others, and forcing yourself to be cheerful will make you feel a whole lot better than complaining. Just try it and see.

Pampan Weds in Borger Church Rites

Miss Carolyn Ann Helton and George Warren Richmond exchanged double-ring wedding vows in First Methodist Church, Borger, at 7 o'clock the evening of Aug. 14.

Rev. Weldon Butler was officiant at the ceremony. Mrs. E. L. Carrol of Borger, organist, presented traditional nuptial selections and accompanied, Mrs. Jerry Harris of Borger, vocalist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carrol D. Helton of Borger and Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Richmond of 1141 Prairie Dr. are the parents of the bridegroom.

Mr. Helton gave his daughter in marriage. She was gowned in a formal-length gown of peau de soie overlaid with alencon lace.

The fitted bodice featured a jewel neckline accented with seed pearls and sequins and long tapering sleeves that came to petal points over the hands. Her shoulder-lenght veil of French silk illusion was held by a coif of taffeta roses trimmed in seed pearls and sequins.

Dressed identically in waltz-length gowns of mint green peau de soie and headpieces of matching peau de soie roses, bridal attendants were Miss Besty Casey of Borger, maid of honor, and Miss Patti Butler and Miss Janet Helton, bride's sister, both of Borger, bridesmaids. Miss Lori Harvey of Amarillo, bride's cousin, attended as flower girl.

Phil Richmond served his brother as bestman while groomsmen were Rex Wilt and Eugene Young, both of Borger. Sharing ushers duties were Bill Wiman of Borger and Curry Johnson of Stinnett.

Attending as candlelighters were Miss Mary Kay Helton, bride's sister, and Miss Tandy Stewart, both of Borger.

Points of interest in Colorado were visited by the couple on their wedding trip. Upon their return they will make their home at 2218 S. Taylor, Amarillo, and continue their educations at West Texas State University, Canyon.

Mrs. Richmond, a gradute of Borger High School, attended Frank Phillips Junior College where she was a member of Delta Sigma Phi Sorority and secretary-treasurer of the Student Governing Associaton. Mr. Richmond, a graduate of Pampa High School, is also a graduate of Frank Phillips Junior College where he was active in Mask and Mike drama activities and selected "Plainsman of the Year."

Girls Have Exciting Array of Styles

COLLEGE STATION (Spl) — Junior and senior high school girls have an exciting array of new styles from which to choose their back-to-school wardrobes, says Lynn Parks, Texas A&M University consumer education specialist.

Leading off the new fashions are the lively "OP" designs. Knits and woven fabrics are dazzling with dots, wobbling with checks and dancing with stripes. Knits are more popular than even and offer unlimited washability benefits.

Fashion highlights include "sweaterlings" — skinny knit sweater dresses. The dresses are often accented with smart turtle neck collars and come in assorted sizes and colors.

Another notable feature of high school fashions is the coordinated look. Choices range from a dress with one dramatic pleat in the skirt and a bolero-type toplet to a lacy Orlon herringbone sweater with a blending skirt. Lined cotton corduroy jumpers with inverted pleats and frilly blouses are also in style.

Pert touches to complete the coordinated picture might include a fake fur hood that looks just like fox. High socks that go up to or above the knees are still popular.

The Doctor Says

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT
. Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—A recent magazine article said that suntan lotions cause skin cancer. Is this true?

A—You may be misquoting the article. Excessive exposure of the skin to the sun is a factor in some skin cancers. The Food and Drug Administration does not permit the sale of any cosmetics that could even remotely favor cancer of the skin or any other organ.

Q—What is global hysterica? What treatment is recommended?

A—Globus hystericus is a feeling that there is a lump in the throat that is severe enough to make swallowing difficult. There is no lump or tumor but a severe spasm of the muscles in the throat instead. It is caused by an emotional upset. The most effective treatment would be to use a tranquilizer for a few days and find a calmer way of life.

Q—Last winter Novrad cleared up a cough that had not responded to numerous antibiotics. Will continuous use cause any side effects?

A—Levopropoxyphene (Novrad) in the prescribed dosage will not cause side effects in most persons. In a few, however it may cause a skin rash, nausea, nervous tension, drowsiness or dizziness. These usually disappear if the dosage is reduced.

Q—I am a 67-year-old housewife. My doctor says I have a cavernous lymphangioma. He says I can live with it if it doesn't get any worse. What do you think?

A—A lymphangioma is a vessel tumor. It is not malignant. Such tumors usually consist of a group of cysts and so might be called cavernous. If the tumor does not cause any pain or discomfort due to pressure on vital organs no treatment is necessary. If it is troublesome it can be removed.

Q—What is erythroblastic leukemia? Is there any treatment for it?

A—This is a rare form of leukemia in which large mumbers of immature red blood cells are found in the blood. It is highly malignant. Although several found to have a delaying action on leukemia there is as yet no cure.

Q—I'm in my early fifties. My doctor says I have anemia. Could this cause numbness in my arms and legs and tongue or is this due to something else?

A—Numbness with or without tingling in the tongue and extremities is a common symptom of pernicious anemia.

Pioneer Couple Marks 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer G. Frashier
. . . mark golden wedding anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer G. Frashier, southeast of the city, were honored last Sunday at an open house reception in commemoration of their golden wedding anniversary.

The event, held in the home of one of the honoree's daughters, Mrs. W. C. Epperson, 1900 N. Nelson, was hosted by the couple's children, Mrs. W. E. Boudreau of Houston, Loyd D. Frashier of Los Angeles, Calif., Mrs. Claudine Balch, Mrs. Epperson and Gordon Frashier of Denver, Colo.

Mrs. Frashier, attired in a beige lace dress with green accessories, was presented a gold cymbidium orchid corsage. Mr. Frashier received a gold carnation boutonniere. Hostesses for the event wore corsages of gold split carnations while the hosts had gold carnation boutonnieres. Granddaughters of the honored couple wore gold pom pom corsages.

The table, covered with a white lace cloth over gold taffeta, was centered with a crystal bowl holding an arrangement of gold spider mums flanked by gold tapers. A three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a gold bell and a 50th numeral wreath, appointed the table. Gold banana punch, nuts and mints were served with the cake. Presiding at the serving table were Miss Norma Jean Balch of Lubbock, Miss Carol Ann Boudreau of Houston, Mrs. Judy Balch of Abilene and Mrs. Vickie Epperson of Dallas, granddaughters of the honorees.

Attending the guest registrar were other granddaughters of the honored couple, the Misses Alice and Martha Frashier. The gift display was attended by the Misses Elaine, Bonnie and Kathy Frashier and Betty Ann Epperson, also granddaughters of the Frashiers.

Other members of the family serving in the house party were Mrs. Gordon Frashier, Mrs. Loyd Frashier and son Jimmy, Raymond and Larry Boudreau, Elmer Balch and sons, David, Lloyd and Gord, and W. C. Epperson and sons, Gary, Scott and Johnny.

Mr. Frashier was born on Dec. 31, 1882, in Arkansas. He came to the Panhandle in 1921, where he married Miss Alice Gray, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Gray of Miami. The couple was married in the home of the bride's parents on Aug. 15, 1915. Mrs. Frashier was born March 14, 1893, in Higgins, and came to the Panhandle with her parents in 1897.

Some 75 friends of the couple called during the afternoon to mark the occasion. Out-of-town guests attending were Mrs. Tennie Fendrick and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Harris of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Benyshek and children of McPherson, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Byrum and son, David of Miami; Mrs. W. D. Varnon of Skellytown and Mr. and Mrs. Dee Cummings of Panhandle.

Glen Deerings Are Honored on Anniversary Date

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Deering of 429 Graham were honored recently at an open house reception marking the Deering's 25th wedding anniversary.

Hosting the event were the honoree's children, Miss Cynthia Deering of the home, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dickerson of 449 Hughes and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Deering of Lubbock.

Helping mark the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Smith and children, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Futch and children, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Van Kluyve and children, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Scott and children, Mrs. Al Green and children, Mrs. C. L. Crafton and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Malone, Mrs. Lucille Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Ring, Mr. and Mrs. Oren Simpson, Rev. and Mrs. Earl Maddux and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Saltzman, Mrs. Jean Deering and children, Mrs. Ada McFadden, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Deering Mrs. Ola Nabors, Ray Nabors, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Timmons, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Inmon, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Caswell and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lowe.

Off-beat color combinations are the rage of Paris fashion houses. At Louis Feraud for instance, there is a pairing of mustard wools with bright red trims. A canary yellow coat is lined with bright red.

Don't Thump Melons Advise Food Experts

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q — Is "thumping" to see whether a watermelon sounds full or empty the best way to judge ripeness?

A — Experts of the Department of Agriculture say this is an extremely misleading way to judge. They advise, instead, that when you're buying a whole watermelon, look for symmetrical shape and a velvety bloom. Also, be sure it has a dull rather than a shiny surface. A sure method for checking ripeness is the traditional method of cutting a "plug" out so you can see the flesh and sample the taste.

Q — I like rice and want to serve it often. But my teenaged daughter says it has no food value. Is she right?

A — No. Rice is primarily a source of food energy. It provides calories at a low cost. It also contains some protein. It is so abundant in the United States that it is one of the foods donated to needy families in the surplus food program.

Old Toothbrushes Clean Dirty Nails

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR POLLY — My children use their old toothbrushes as fingernail brushes. They find the toothbrushes are easier to hold than the rounded handles on many fingernail brushes.

—KATHLEEN

DEAR POLLY — I keep a sharpened black crayon in one of my kitchen drawers. After a weekly shopping trip I mark the date of purchase with the black crayon on the frozen foods, jars, cans, staples and so on. Items stored on lower shelves are marked on the top for easier viewing. This aids in using up food purchases before they become old, lose flavor or otherwise deteriorate. I also mark drug items and am amazed to find how long I have kept certain items. I just found a bottle of sun tan lotion that is three years old. Polly's Pointers is daily reading for me.

—MRS. D. P.

I am sure we have all learned much from each other and will continue to do so. Peter, my 8-year-old grandson, never has a problem but what he comes running with "I Need a Polly's Pointers."

—POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Here is a little "spoonful of sugar to help the medicine go down." Do your ironing out-of-doors in nice weather. If you have a yard, porch, secluded section of driveway or any spot around the house where you can be shielded from the street, take your ironing board and laundry basket out there and do the ironing. Get a long extension cord, take a little radio, kick off your shoes and don't forget to stand on a large piece of dry board. You will enjoy the flowers and shrubbery and even the birds will hop around and ignore you after a few minutes. After the dampened things have been ironed hang them up to dry on a bush or tree. They will smell especially good when taken into the house.

Marilyn Kay Williams and Jerry Rector Repeat Double-Ring Vows in McLean

Miss Marilyn Kay Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Williams of McLean, became the bride of Jerry Rector, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Rector of Mobeetie, in a double-ring ceremony solemnized July 17 in McLean First Baptist Church.

Rev. Dan Beltz was officiant for the ceremony. Mrs. Glenn Curry, bride's cousin, organist presented a program of traditional wedding selections and accompanied Miss Phyliss Bench, vocalist.

Amber votive candles and bronze mums with greenery, accented by gold satin bows, decorated the wedding scene.

Mrs. Kenneth Wilson of Canyon, sister of the bride, attended as matron of honor and Miss Frances Caulfield of Wheeless, Okla., was bridesmaid. Both were attired in gold dresses accented by white corsages.

Eugene Pierce of Reydon, Okla., served the bridegroom as bestman while Gerald Gudgel of Mobeetie served as groomsman. Ushers were Doule McCurley, Rusty Simmons and Wayne Morris.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a formal wedding gown of peau de soie designed with a fitted bodice of alencon lace featuring wrist-length sleeves, and a sabrine neckline trimmed with re-embroidered alencon lace embellished with seed pearls. The controlled skirt featured side and back pleated fullness, sweeping into a chapel train. The bride's finger-tip veil fell from a pearl tiera. Both the bridal gown and veil were bordered with a band of a alencon lace. She carried a cascade arrangement of gold sweetheart roses atop a white Bible.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in First Baptist Church Fellowship Hall. Presiding at the serving table were Miss Micki Green and Miss Martha Brown while Miss Amanda Dalton attended the guest registrar.

The newlyweds are now making their home in Mobeetie where the bridegroom is employed by the Remco Construction Company. They will make their home at 2813 Duncan, Amarillo, after Sept. 1, where both will continue their educations.

The fashionable set is singing the praises of the "wet look"—vinyl-coated cotton coats. Some are tied at the waist. Many feature contrasting colors.

Couple Say Vows in Lefors Ceremony

Miss Kathy Gatlin, attired in pink lace suit and wearing a corsage of carnations and roses attended the bride as maid of honor. Serving the bridegroom as best man was Douglas Loyd.

Dear Abby....

Widely Spaced Teeth Have Double Meaning

DEAR ABBY: I hope that girl who signed herself "Sefl-conscious" because she had a large space between her two front teeth reads this:

I have the same trouble, and I used to be self-conscious about it, too, until someone told me that a large space between the two front teeth indicates superior intelligence and an active, dynamic personality. Thank you.

PROUD OF MYSELF

DEAR PROUD: If it is a natural space, fine. But if some of the teeth are missing, it may indicate that you have met someone who just can't stand "intelligence and an active, dynamic personality."

DEAR ABBY: Six months ago my daughter was married at a beautiful church wedding. Everything was perfect. After her wedding, she and her husband moved several hundred miles away to live where he had a job. We wrote back and forth and talked on the phone several times, but never visited them.

Four days ago, at 5 a.m., our son-in-law called to tell us that our daughter had given birth to a 7-pound, 8-ounce girl only an hour before. Abby, we couldn't believe it! We had no idea our daughter was expecting. When I expressed utter amazement, my son-in-law said, "You mean M— didn't tell you she was three months' along when I married her?"

I am still in a state of shock. I can't believe that a duaghter wouldn't even tell her own mother that she was pregnant all this time! What did she think —that we would never see her again, and therefore we would never have to know about the child? I am absolutely dumbfounded. How should I handle this situation? Should I go to help her with the baby, or just let things ride?

STUNNED AND HURT

DEAR STUNNED: Your daughter should have told you, but she probably was to ashamed and kept putting it off. Your grandchild is here, so don't dwell on the circumstances. If your daughter asks you to come and "help" her, and if you want to go, then by all means go. But don't carry your "hurt" and resentment with you. To ignore the embarrassing past will help insure a more compatible future.

DEAR ABBY: I work in a large office. A girl I have worked with for a long time is being married next Sunday. Almost all my co-workers received engraved invitations to this girl's wedding nearly a month ago. I didn't get one. This morning she gave me an invitation by mouth. I have already made plans for next Sunday and cannot attend.

Pampans' Son Weds in Rosenberg Rites

In a simple candlelight ceremony on August 7 at the altar of the First Methodist Church in Rosenberg, Miss Penelope Jones Pearce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Pearce of Rosenberg, became the wife of the Rev. Earl Page Cooper, Waitsburg, Wash., son of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Cooper of 1230 Hamilton.

A beautiful arrangement of fujui mums, ivy and leatherleaf was placed to the back of the altar cross which was flanked on each side by the altar candles. A large candelabra holding nine candles was placed on each side of the altar space to complete the scene.

Rev. Weldon B. Morton officiated, reading the story from the book of Ruth to begin the ceremony.

Pre-nuptial music from Bach, Handel and Sibelieus was played by George E. Burdick of St. Barnabas Episcopal Church of Fredericksburg. He also played the wedding marches of Henry Purcell.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a simple, short gown of white satin peau de soie touched with lace at the elbow-length sleeves and at the hem. Fashioned with a softly draped skirt and a fitted bodice, it was completed with a small bow of the self material at the front of the round neck.

She wore short white gloves and carried a small white and gold Testament belonging to her mother. It was covered with a garland of stephanotis Her short, shoulder length veil was attached to a matching garland of stephanotis.

The single-ring ceremony was completed with the singing of "The Lord's Prayer" by Mrs. Leonard Meyer. She was joined in the concluding phrase by the voices of the Sanctuary Choir as they sang from the balcony.

The reception room was the parlor of the church and was graced with a lovely refreshment table covered with a white damask linen cloth. The single ring cake, embossed with tiny pink rosebuds had a center arrangement of pink roselfies and pink candles in a crystal epergne.

Cake squares were served by Mrs. Charles Collum and Miss Ina Cooper of Dickenson and pink cherry punch was poured by Mrs. Bobby Ray Nicholson of Wharton. They were assisted by Miss Christie Ellen Cook of Odessa, cousin of the bride.

An arrangement of pink beauty asters and lily of the Nile was used on the table at the end of the receiving line.

The bride's mother wore a frock of brown lace and silk linen with matching accessories and a corsage of pink roselfies. The mother of the bridegroom was dressed in cream crepe with matching accessories and she, too, had a corsage of pink roselfies.

Mrs. Cooper is a greaduate of the University of Texas and was a member of the faculty of the Devinney School in Denver, Colo.

Rev. Cooper attended Texas A&M College and is a graduate of Texas Weslevan University in Fort Worth and of the Iliff Seminary in Denver. The bride chose a navy dress with red jacket and red assessories for their wedding trip which will take them through Colorado and Wyoming.

Relatives and guests from out of town were from Pampa, Detroit, Waco, Odessa, Fort Worth, Houston, Austin, Dickenson and Paris.

College Students Should Know What They Want

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Yesterday's mail brought me a post card from a highly successful young American mining engineer in Venezuela who holds, in addition to his engineering degree, one in economics.

Before he got them his family despaired over him. His physician father felt disgraced by him. Instead of joining the high school students' scramble for college admission, he had walked out on it. Signing on with the crew of an oil tanker, he spent two years working his way around the world, nosing into it, judging its opportunities. Upon his return he entered college, paid his tuition with the money he'd earned and whizzed though to his two dgrees.

He whizzed through to them because he'd discovered that he wanted them. I make this point to call to your attention the importance of John Keate's new book, "The Sheepskin Psychosis."

If you are a parent who is obsessed by the notion that college admission is the inexorable follow-up to your child's high school graduation, this is the book for you to read — and get your youngster to read, too — so that you can talk together about the wisdom of the immediate rush into college.

"Students who are most likely to remain in college to be graduated are those who know precisely what they expect college to do for them" says Keats.

High school experience isn't one that always equips us with enough knowledge of the world to make available appreciation of what college can help us do in it. It's because our veterans of World War II had acquired that knowledge that they made their outstanding academic records as college students.

That America's college-obsessed parents can't see any alternatives to immediate admission from high school graduation is due, I expect, to our anxious conviction that college degrees equal good jobs. So frightened are we that the child's economic failure is the only possible consequence of a college lapse that we can't allow any time to exise between the high school diploma and college entrance, regardless of the child's readiness for it.

It's the exciting and realistic alternatives presented by "The Sheepskin Psychosis" to this college rush that makes it such a reassuring and valuable book. It warns us that too-hasty rush into college can produce the sense of purposeless drift without choice that results in dropouts and the ending of all interest in education. The book reminds us that choosing creates determination.

Texas HD Assn. Will Hold Annual Meeting in Austin

The annual meeting of the Texas Home Demonstration Association is expected to bring approximately 800 homemakers to Austin on Sept 22 and 23.

Speakers from law, government, home economics, family living, and resource development will address the two-day conference.

Fashion has simmered down to two looks, says Irene Galitzine of Rome. The designer calls them "the day look" and the "evening look" — "that's why the cocktail dress is gone". She adds that the jet age has influenced fashion to the extent that style is international — very much the same in Rome, Paris, New York, or wherever.

School And You

By SUSAN LIGHT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LIGHT: I read your column regularly and enjoy it very much. I was deeply interested in the letter from Mrs. E. H. concerning her slow-learning child. I am a parent of such a child also, and I can only say it's very difficult to get help and to get anywhere with such a child in learning.

In my case, I had a very unhappy marriage. The boy's father is an immature individual and consequently emotionally damaged the boy. The boy is with me now and has settled down to a certain extent, but it is so hard to break through because he's a socially maladjusted child.

I would appreciate hearing from this Mrs. E. H. in reference to the Doman-Delacato program or any other suggestions anyone may have to help my son as he is a physically healthy boy and alert in many things.

—ANXIOUS MOTHER

ANSWER: Because of the confidential nature of this column, I cannot put readers directly in touch with each other. But I shall be glad to publish any letters of general interest I may receive in response to your plea.

The problem of the slow learner is a serious and often heartbreaking one for parents. It is encouraging to know, however, that many of them have overcome it in various ways with the help of teachers, guidance counselors, school psychologists, psychiatrists, family doctors, neurologists, or other professional advisors.

Pinning down the nature of the difficulty—which may be physical, mental, emotional, or neurological—and seeking the right source of help is often the hardest step. The classroom teacher who works with the child day in and day out can often steer the parent in the best direction. As a starter, I suggest you talk with your son's teacher early this fall.

Most teachers have known a number of mothers in your situation or similar circumstances, and they have seen the results in the child's schoolwork. The influence of home life on school achievement should never be understimated. You are wise to recognize the connection.

Incidentally, I hope you didn't miss my recent column in answer to a mother's inquiry about the Doman - Delacato program (published in your paper July 20). I hope you will find the kind of help your son needs—soon.

And watch this column for further comments on slow learners.

Please send your school problems to Susan Light in care of this paper. While she cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

DEAR JULIA: Give her a present "by mouth." Say, "Best wishes."

DEAR ABBY: You would be doing an untold number of new mothers a big favor if you would print these simple rules for visiting a new mother:

(3) If you go, don't stay long.

(4) Don't take children with you.

(5) Don't give a baby dress to a mother who has had her Third girl.

Yank Exploits Beatles, In A Nice Way, That Is

By JOAN CROSBY

NEW YORK (NEA) — The Beatles are being exploited by Walter Shenson, but they don't mind a bit.

Shenson, an American ex-film publicist, produced the Liverpudlians' first and very successful movie, "A Hard Day's Night," and their second, "Help!" which deserves equal success. His exploitation of The Beatles consists in making their films as funny as possible.

"In Hollywood," Shenson said, "there is a tendency to say goodby to actors when filming is done. I exploit The Beatles to the fullest, and they are willing, because we all care. After a picture is finished, we find places where we can add 20 per cent more humor to it. So we dub dialogue to fit.

"With both pictures, we brought the boys to the studio and shown them a rough assemblage of the film. Then we'll find a spot where something is needed and say, 'How about something funny?' They go up to an open mike and start building something right there. They are very quick, sharp boys."

Shenson, whose first production after he quit being a publicist was "The Mouse That Roared" with Peter Sellers, is a big Beatle fan. He enjoys talking about the boys as follows:

"They are so bright and perceptive. After their first picture was so well-received, they came to my office with their manager, Brian Epstein. I asked them if there was anything they wanted for the second picture. They said, 'Well' we know what we don't want.' They decided since 'A Hard Day's Night' was in black and white, their next should be color. The last picture had a lot of screaming fans, so they didn't want any in this. The last picture showed them singing before audiences, and this time they didn't want that.

"The Beatles are not a four-headed monster. They are individuals who dig each other. Those boys really love each other. There is absolutely no competition among them, no desire to top each other. If one boy makes a joke, the others fall down laughing.

"But despite their difference in personality, there are a lot of adjectives that describe them all. They are witty, outrageous, bright terribly talented, rude. They are scary because they have all this and are still in their early 20s. Yet when you are a generation older, as I am, and you are with them, you become their age, they are so compelling.

"They are so close they have developed a shorthand language so that they can be talking about you in your presence and you won't know it.

"Unlike you and me, they can not go out shopping or to a movie. They love movies, so I would give them private screenings of all the lastest. Now each one has his own projector and I lend them prints.

"They can't really go out without being recognized. Paul says he can occasionally, if he sticks his hair under a cap, and dresses casually. We had one scene in 'Help' in which the boys run into a store. We decided to film it on location, using a good Bond Street store. We picked a Sunday, and the boys did their scene. While the crew was changing camera locations to shoot the scene again, the boys stayed in the store. John took one look around — he is furnishing a new house — and said, 'I'll take that and that and that.' In the seven minutes it took for the new setup, John bought a desk, a grandmother's clock the was very proud that it was a grandmother's and not grandfather's clock) and leather-bound sets of George Bernard Shaw and A. A. Milne.

"The deal The Beatles and I have with United Artists calls for three pictures. It's always a challenge to find something new to do for these boys. I don't want to sound pompous, but I feel a great obligation not to louse them up. We'll have a meeting as soon as they get back from their American tour, to discuss their next film. They have bought book by Dick Condon called ' A Talent for Loving.' It's a Western satire, and that may be the next picture. They have already asked me if I can find someone to teach them the 'fast draw.' This is part of kids' loving Westerns, and they are kids. Ringo has also announced to me that he wants to wear all black.

"The Beatles come to my house. I have two little boys and they die because they can't call their friends and tell them who is visiting. Ringo even taught my older boy, who is 12, how to play the drums. My older boy is a classical music bug, but he has pictures of The Beatles all over his walls. However, in one corner, as his rebellion, he has a picture of Beethoven.

"You know what I like about The Beatles? After they finished both pictures, each one came up to me, after seeing the finished product, and said, 'Don't worry. No matter what the critics or public say about the picture, we love it.' Maybe security comes with success, but most successful performers don't say things like that to the producer. That incident sums up the warmth and niceness of these boys."

TV Rooting is Teen, Teen, Teen,

By DICK KLEINER
Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—What's ahead for television? In the next couple of years, the program content will get sillier and sillier. I've been talking with some of the top men in the field, trying to get an idea of future trends, and there is general agreement on these points:

The networks have committed themselves to an all-out attempt to appeal to the teen-age viewer.

What is wanted is far-out settings, with perhaps one "normal" person as a kind of dramatic straight-man. Among pilots being shot, as examples of this, are Andy Hardy On Mars and an unnamed show set in Philadelphia in the year 6,000 B. C.

More and more, the leading characters should be young. You won't see a new show, after this season, with a hero over 25. Among new ones, typifying this trend, is one about a precocious 15-year-old who is a colonel in the Air Force.

Remember the good old days of Empire and The Harbormaster? (Sigh, all sigh).

NORTH, or NOT-SO-BLUE-JAY

He's 13 now and such a typical teen-ager that he combed the back streets of Mysore, India, until he could fine a place that sold Beatle records.

That's Jay North. He's just back from India where he and Clint Walker did a movie which may be called "Maya" or "Maya the Magnificent" or "Valley Of the Tiger."

Gone is the kid who used to make such an art out of brattishness. Instead, Jay is a handsome, sprouting youth who obviously gets a tremendous kick out of being alive.

He wants to go on and become an actor for keeps. But other things interest him.

"Science appeals to me," Jay says. "I like botany and biology and right now I'm studying medicine, all about the human body. I want to go to college and major in astronomy. I have two telescopes and on clear nights I like to go out and look at the stars.

"But I wouldn't want to be a doctor or anything like that. It's a nice profession, but the work is too hard and there's too much responsibility. I'd rather be an actor."

In India, he worked with tigers, elephants and even cobras. He did scenes in swirling river rapids and climbing up rocky mountains. He wanted to bring a baby white elephant back home with him, but mommy put her foot down at that. You can't really blame her.

COLOR TELEVISION BOON TO MEN'S FASHIONS

Color television, says Sy Devore, Hollywood's most famous men's wear purveyor, has been the biggest boon yet to men's fashions—much bigger than movies ever where.

"A man can get close to his television set," Devore says, "and look at the clothes. That didn't matter too much with black-and-white, but color really socks him. The first time Andy Williams wore that V-neck sweater of his, we got a couple of hundred requests for it."

Devore says that, perhaps because of this, studios (movie as well as television) are recently much more conscious of men's clothes.

"Studios used to supply only the girls' wardrobes," he says, "but lately they've begun supplying the men's, too. In several new films, they're doing that—'The Oscar' and Dean Martin's 'The Silencers' are two examples. And on television, Ben Gazzara's new series has a $10,000 wardrobe which I made for Ben."

Earliest sections of New York City's first subway were opened in 1904.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS

TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

The 'Best' of Intentions

THE POPULAR thing to keep on the "good side" of City Hall would be to say you are in favor of all seven of those proposed charter amendments to be submitted to Pampa voters on Tuesday.

We have no quarrel with five of them. The other two admittedly are controversial. These are the ones that have to do with annexation and use of tax money. Proponents say both will be good for Pampa.

Take the one on annexation—it reads like this: "The City Commission shall have the power by ordinance to fix the boundary limits of the City of Pampa; and to provide for the alteration and extension of said boundary limits and the annexation of additional territory lying adjacent to said City with the limits as provided by applicable state law".

"The City Commission shall have the POWER," the amendment says. That word "power" causes us to back off and withdraw at the very outset. It indicates that government wants still more power over individuals. To this we always are opposed. Men who hold political power over anyone or anything always believe they know best. And that is not a point of view reserved to politicians. Most persons in any responsible position feel they know better about what should be done than anyone else.

However, the difference between political power holders an ordinary persons in positions of responsibility is that the political power holder can COMPEL you to do as he says. Ordinary people cannot. For, if a man not entrenched politically makes a decision others do not like, they are not bound to comply with it. They can tell him to go fly a kite.

Also, ordinary people who are responsible are able to affect only a few other persons insofar as any decision they might make is concerned. But a politician is able to inflict his point of view on everyone whether they agree with him or not.

There is no question that our city officials and the men on the city council and charter amendment committee believe with sincerity that Pampa will be better off if it has the power to annex contiguous territory.

However, there are times when residents in outlying districts on which the city casts a hungry eye would vote to reject any proposal to vote themselves into the city. We believe they should have this right.

Under the proposed annexation amendment, Pampa officials would have the right to go out for two miles and annex whatever territory they wish. The city also would be under obligation to provide all city services to the newly-annexed territory. If the city did not provide these services, the territory then would have the right to become de-annexed. But as long as the city provides the same services as the rest of the population receives, there can be no de-annexation whether the residents affected desire it or not.

In wanting to annex more territory, cities see a chance for increased property valuations and more tax revenue. In most cases, cities seeking to reach out for additional territory do so without giving thought to the problems and the unfairness to persons who do not want to be included in the perpetual grab for higher and higher taxes.

One city official says he is inclined to the belief that arguments both for and against annexation are half wrong and half right.

We do not propose to go into all of the claimed merits or demerits of the annexation amendment. There are long arguments on both sides. We simply back off at giving government (of any kind) more power.

Now for the tax money amendment.

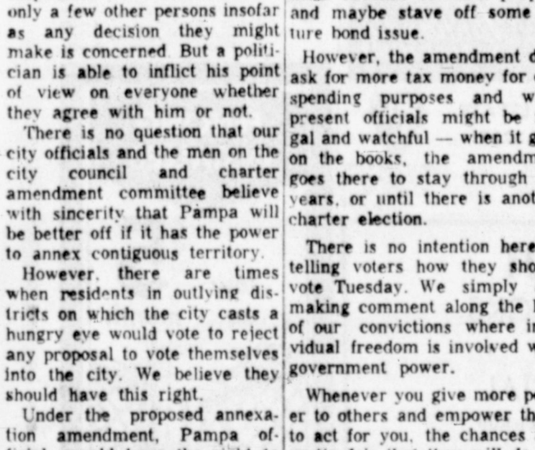

This one would increase from $1.00 to $1.50 per $100 of property valuation the amount of money the city can use for general operating expenses. Proponents say the state constitution now permits a municipality to use up to $2.50 for this purpose, but the proposed charter amendment calls for only $1.50 locally. In fairness, this amendment would not increase Pampa's tax rate in any way. It still would be $1.47 per $100 valuation. The amendment, if approved, would give officials the right to use more of the collected tax money for general operating expenses. This would reduce, it would be hoped, the amount of money now being transferred from water department revenue for that purpose and maybe stave off some future bond issue.

However, the amendment does ask for more tax money for city spending purposes and while present officials might be frugal and watchful — when it goes on the books, the amendment goes there to stay through the years, or until there is another charter election.

There is no intention here of telling voters how they should vote Tuesday. We simply are making comment along the line of our convictions where individual freedom is involved with government power.

Whenever you give more power to others and empower them to act for you, the chances are pretty fair that they will do so. And when they do, they will try to act as THEY think "best." This eventually could result in a total loss of freedom, a total loss of property, the placing of everyone under regimentation.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question: "Why is it held illegal to 'reveal' certain information to the jury? To get a proper perspective of the case, should not the jury know all facts? Why is it considered better to be 'ignorant' than 'informed? How can a person judge anything if he knows only half the facts?"

Answer: The theory behind not allowing all information to go before a jury is to prevent irrelevant and immaterial facts being used to prejudice the jury against the defendant. The fact that a man had been arrested on a traffic violation might not be pertinent to a subsequent charge on which he is being tried, yet it might be built up in some juror's mind to prejudice the case under trial. A previous conviction might not have anything to do with a later charge, although previus convictions usually are considered by the judges in sentencing, after conviction.

However, as with other recent cases, the courts have broadened the restrictions on what information can be given the jurors.

Perhaps the most controversial of recent appellate court rulings is the one which ruled out letting the jury know that a sentence of "life imprisonment" does not mean the person convicted will serve a life term. Although it is common knowledge that in California a life term permits the person to be paroled after seven years, convictions have been set aside when the jurors were told this fact.

Those experienced in criminal trials are convinced that in a murder case, a jury many times would favor life imprisonment if it meant the murderer were to be kept away from others so he could not repeat the crime. But, understanding that the parole officials might free the murderer within a comparatively short time may have resulted in more death sentences than would have been ordered otherwise.

It seems to us the jury which has the task of deciding between a life term and a death sentence should be permitted to know all the facts relative to the sentence it is required to pronounce; and the facts pertinent to the case being tried, including previous convictions of the same type of offense.

Treasury Secretary Fowler Falling Out of Favor with Congressmen

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON —Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler is headed for what could be serious trouble with influential members of Congress of his own party.

Privately, they are sharply critical of his policies.

This is a jarring change for Fowler. As Undersecretary for three years under his predecessor, C. Douglas Dillon, one of Fowler's principal assets was his wide popularity on Capitol Hill. Republicans as well as Democrats regarded him warmly, and that paid off handsomely for the Treasury Department.

This was a major factor in his elevation to the cabinet. President Johnson places much value on Administration officials standing well with the lawmakers.

But in the five months Fowler has been Treasury head, his once-cordial ties with Congress have frayed quite a bit. In that short time, he has aroused the ire of key Democratic members of the Senate and House finance and banking committees.

They are raising three main grievances against Fowler:

—He is inclining increasingly toward a tight-money policy; credit is quietly but steadily being restricted; and the man basically responsible for this is Federal Reserve Chairman William McChesney Martin, outspoken advocate of such hotly controversial restraints. In effect, Fowler is being charged with permitting Martin to determine Treasury policies.

—Timidity and vacillation on taking the leadership in convening a conference on coping with the increasingly critical international monetary problem. Shortly after Fowler took office, he declared flatly against such a conference. Last month, in a speech at a bankers' meeting, he abruptly reversed himself without the slightest indication he was changing course or the reason.

—Lack of firmness and forcefulness in dealing with President de Gaulle and his persistent heavy raiding of the U.S. gold reserve — to a considerable extent with dollars derived from U.S. military and other expenditures in France.

THE OLIVE BRANCH — In an obvious effort to mend his his disarrayed congressional fences, Fowler held a luncheon conference in his Treasury office for a group of his principal backstage critics.

They included Senators Paul Douglas, D., Ill., Vance Hartke, D., Ind., Wallace Bennett, R., Utah, all members of the Finance Committee and Representatives Wright Patman, D., Tex., scrappy chairman of the House Banking Committee, and Charles Mathias, R., Md., Judiciary Committee.

Fowler talked about his announced trip to Europe next month to urge the convening of an international monetary conference. He siad he plans to confer with De Gaulle officials on this, but doesn't expect much encouragement.

"Don't let that dishearten you," Fowler was advised. "You go right ahead and put over that conference whether the French are for it or not. The international monetary system needs drastic overhauling as soon as possible, and if the French don't want to go along, ignore them. They can't afford to stay out, and if they do it won't make any difference."

"The best thing you can do for a number of reasons," said Senator Hartke, "is to pursue a firm course regarding the French. They are in no position to stop you, and that's the way to handle them. Preserve the amenities, of course, but don't give an inch."

After the meeting, several of the legislators were sounded out by a top Fowler lieutenant about the growing undercurrent of criticism toward Fowler. The reply was blunt and direct:

"The feeling is growing that Martin and not Fowler is determining Treasury policy. Martin favors tight money and credit, and that's what has been going on for several months without a challenging word or move by Fowler. The only conclusion that can be drawn is that he approves of what the Federal Reserve is doing under Martin's domination."

"What do you think the Secretary should do?" asked the assistant.

"The best thing he can do," was the instant reply, "is to make it very clear that he emphatically does not agree with Martin and is against tight money and tight credit. With one pronouncement like that, Fowler would completely restore himself on Capitol Hill as a forceful and effective executive and his own boss."

It was also pointed out to the Treasury official that Fowler was given several opportunities the past several months by Senators Hartke and Eugene McCarthy, D., Minn., to do this, but ignored them.

Sharp criticism also was voiced of Fowler's protracted delay in naming a general counsel.

"The word is going around," it was asserted, "that he is looking for a 'Wall Street' lawyer. The Treasury doesn't need a 'Wall Street' lawyer. It needs a first - class lawyer. Period. Fowler has other officials to take care of the Department's fiscal policies. The general counsel's function is to handle the Department's legal problems. For that, Fowler needs a competent lawyer and not a 'Wall Streeter'."

SPARKS — At one of President Johnson's White House briefings on Viet Nam for members of Congress, he expressed concern about the stability of the British pound. Johnson told the lawmakers, "We may have to do something very soon to support the pound. The British are backing us on Viet Nam, in direct contrast to De Gaulle's hostility. So we can't let them down. Their support is of inestimable value to us. Also, if the pound is devalued, that will encourage De Gaulle and others to attack the dollar, and we can't permit that." . . . Frederick Deming, Treasury Undersecretary for Monetary Affairs, is considered a close ally of Federal Reserve Chairman Martin by Fowler's congressional critics. Deming was a Federal Reserve banker before being appointed to the Treasury, and makes no bones of being a Martin follower.

Editor:

On August 24 we will again go to the polls to vote on seven proposed amendments to our city charter. It is of the utmost importance that every citizen vote for or against all of the propositions submitted.

Proposition No. 1: A vote for this proposition is essential for our city's progress. It is almost identical to the one submitted to the voters three years ago, which was turned down. A vote for this proposition can do much to eliminate the parasitic free riders who have for years received city services but have paid no city taxes. Certain selfish interests and organizations have worked unceasingly against similar amendments in the past. It is up to the citizens of Pampa to see to it that this proposition is not defeated again.

Proposition No. 2: It is unfortunate that this amendment was ever added to the original charter and it certainly should be repealed. This can be accomplished now by enough "No" votes and a very worth-while step will have been taken.

Proposition No. 3: In my opinion this proposition should be rejected, thumbs down. Many of our problems can be solved by eliminating existing tax inequities, making fair and just evaluation of city properties, and requiring that all recipients of city services participate in the cost of city government. A vote for this proposition will ultimately lead to increased city taxes.

Propositions Nos 4, 5, 6 and 7: All of these propositions are important, but are to a degree "eyewash." If the members of our City Commission or of succeeding city commissions cannot find time to meet at least once each week, they should not apply for a place on the Commission. If these propositions are passed, Pampa people will be less informed and further cover-up of city business and an increase in behind - closed-doors meetings will prevail. A better image of City Hall can only be had by having an informed public.

I sincerely hope we can get the job done at this election.

Sincerely,
E. C. Sidwell

Editor:

Regarding the forthcoming charter election I suggest a game of 20 questions for Pampa voters:

1. Why an election on Aug. 24?
2. Isn't this the peak vacation season, a time when interest will be at its lowest ebb? 3. Is that the reason this date was picked? 4. If the annexation amendment is passed does the commission plan to annex the Price Rd. industrial section in the near future?
5. Isn't it true there has been no attempt in recent years to enforce the discrimination section of our city charter? 6. Is it not also true that this section has been completely invalidated by conflict with federal law? 7. How did it come about that the same people who sponsored the amendment which deprived the colored people, along with all the other residents of Wards 3 and 4, of the right to choose their own representatives on the city commission, suddenly become concerned about discrimination? 8. Was this amendment an attempt to bribe colored voters into accepting the whole package?
9. Shouldn't the voters be made emphatically aware that the tax alteration amendment would allow the commission to raise taxes by as much as 25 per cent? 10. Shouldn't the commission tell voters how much they plan to raise taxes and why? 11. Won't staggered elections keep the voters from getting rid of bad commissioners at one election and tend to keep power concentrated with the organized oligarchy (The Establishment)?
12. Doesn't the city really need commissioners willing to put in more, not less, time on the job? 13. For instance, wouldn't it have been a good idea to call before the commission some of the disgruntled police officers who quit the force to find out why they really left? After all, they knew about the low wages when they took the job. 14. Does not having three readings of an ordinance give the commission time to think over a new law and allow citizens time to protest a bad one? 15. Since emergency measures can be passed at one meeting, what other difference can the one week make?
16. Wouldn't ability to spend $1,000 at a time without bids mean a lucrative business for a favored few? 17. Wouldn't it increase lobbying by sales people among city employes? 18. Wouldn't it increase the temptation to dishonesty? 19. Isn't the law in this respect already being circumvented by use of multiple purchases over the prescribed amount?
20. Wouldn't the safest thing for Pampa voters be to vote "No" on all seven amendments?

Don't vote yourself a tax raise. It's going to be up to you at Tuesday's election. This tax raise may be used to finance the filter plant which we do not need now. We have plenty of water to last us for 100 years right under the ground. We wonder what this strange urgency is that we must have a filter plant.

The old panic button is being pushed and there is nothing like panic to flush out the jolly dollars. So think it over before you vote yourself a tax raise and lake water. And, incidentally, how about the salt content of that lake water?

Hunt for Truth

BY H. L. HUNT

THE GREAT DEBATE ON CRIME

As the crime rate throughout America continues to rise in a steep spiral, the debate on how to cope with it grows in intensity and the position of the two contending sides becomes steadily more clear.

On one side are those who firmly believe that the chief purpose of our courts, even in dealing with known criminals, should be to administer what is called "social justice" by giving special protection to the unfortunate. Those to be protected are not just the economically unfortunate, but others said to be "psychologically deprived," regardless of their economic circumstances.

Accoding to this view, which is held by many influential judges, especially in the federal courts, and by leading professors of law in our law schools, courts should concern themselves not so much with the punishment of crime as with the protection and hoped-for rehabilitation of the criminal.

Those who uphold this position do not believe in the effectiveness of punishment as a deterrent to crime. They seek to eliminate crime by eliminating inequalities among men. Evidently they regard the many unfortunate people who do not commit crimes, or who are the victims of criminals, as not deserving of the kind of special protection now afforded those accused of crime.

On the other side are law enforcement officers, district attorneys and plain citizens all over the country who are far from persuaded that there is anything wrong with the commonsense principle that punishment deters crime. They see the courts as an agency for legal justice alone, and social problems as best dealt with elsewhere.

LOVING MEMORIES

Your gentle face and patient smile
With sadness we recall.
You had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
The voice is mute and stilled the heart,
That loved us well and true.
Ah, bitter was the trial to part
From one so good as you.
You are not forgotten loved one
Nor will you ever be,
As long as life and memory last
We will remember thee.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore,
As time goes by we miss you more,
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place.

Center Wrap-Up

George Smith, Director
Pampa Youth and Community Center

The next series of lessons which will be offered to the public and our own Center members will be on September 9-24 after school has started. These lessons will be in the form of beginners at both 4-5 and 5-6 p.m. classes. Center members will be enrolled free of charge while non-members must pay an instructional fee of $3. Enrollment for these September 9 classes will be on September 1 on a first come first serve basis for everyone.

With these lessons coming up and all the other activities planned for the school year, now is the time to purchase that membership to the Center. There is always plenty of time to enjoy a membership purchased at the Center for our memberships run for a full year from date of purchase. Not like some other organizations that have a fiscal year, the Center assures everyone of a years participation. Family memberships are only $20 per year or $12 for six months while individual memberships are $8 and $5 respectively.

Among these other activities coming up are the new judo classes, volleyball leagues, basketball leagues, swim lessons, ping pong tournament, trampolining and other gym activities. The future dates for swim lessons are Polywog and ADV. Beginner on Sept. 27 thru Oct. 13, and beginners and intermediates on Oct. 18-Nov. 3. In the planning is an Adult Advanced beginners course in Sept.

All you volleyball players notice that the deadline for entry into the fall league is almost here. Now is the time to secure that sponsor and get all lined out with your players. The fall league is offering a men's, women's and a mixed league. Entry fee will be $12 per team per league and will be due by August 31. At 8:00 p.m. on August 31 there will be an organizational meeting for the leagues where schedules and nights to be played on are set. Leagues are scheduled to kick-off during the week of Sept. 7-11. All teams interested in entering should bring their entry fee by the Center and sign up.

With school coming on fast we thought now to inform you that the Center's schedule changes when school does start. The Center will close for major repairs on September 3-6 and reopen on Sept. 7. The schedule will be open at 4:00 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday; Saturday open from 9-12 and 1-5; Sunday open from 2-5 and closed every Tuesday. Swim lessons are taught from 4-6 p.m. and most other swimming activities are from 7-9:30. Boy Scouts swim is on Mondays from 7-8:30.

Have you seen the new sign of the Center's located North of Furr's on North Hobart St. A bulletin board will soon be erected there too.
