S. F. Hughs, 81 Passes Away Early Monday

S. F. Hughs, 81, retired bakery owner, and a resident of the southwest Panhandle area for 60 years, died at St. Joseph's Hospital at 2 a.m. Monday, August 21. He had been ill two months, and recently his condition had grown steadily weaker. The family home is at 1001 Arlington street.

Mr. Hughs came here 24 years ago from Quanah and bought the City Bakery which he operated until 1945, when he sold the business and retired. At that time, he ended nearly 40 years in the bakery business. Although he was not associated in the business life of the town after that, he continued to be active in the fraternal organizations and church affairs of Wellington.

Mr. Hughs was a leader in the IOOF Lodge as long as his health permitted. He served in its top office, Noble Grand, and in all offices leading to that. He was district deputy grand master of the IOOF, served as chief patriarch in the IOOF encampment and was a member of the Canton.

He was active in the Kiwanis Club during the years he was in business. Mr. Hughs had been a member of the Church of Christ since 1901.

Born in McClellan county on Aug. 17, 1880, Sidney Foy Hughs was the son of S. H. and Mahala Harris Hughs. He came to this area in 1901 and homesteaded a farm in the Sandy community, northeast of Dodson, in the edge of Oklahoma.

Mr. Hughs was married to Miss Florence Perkins at Hollis in 1912.

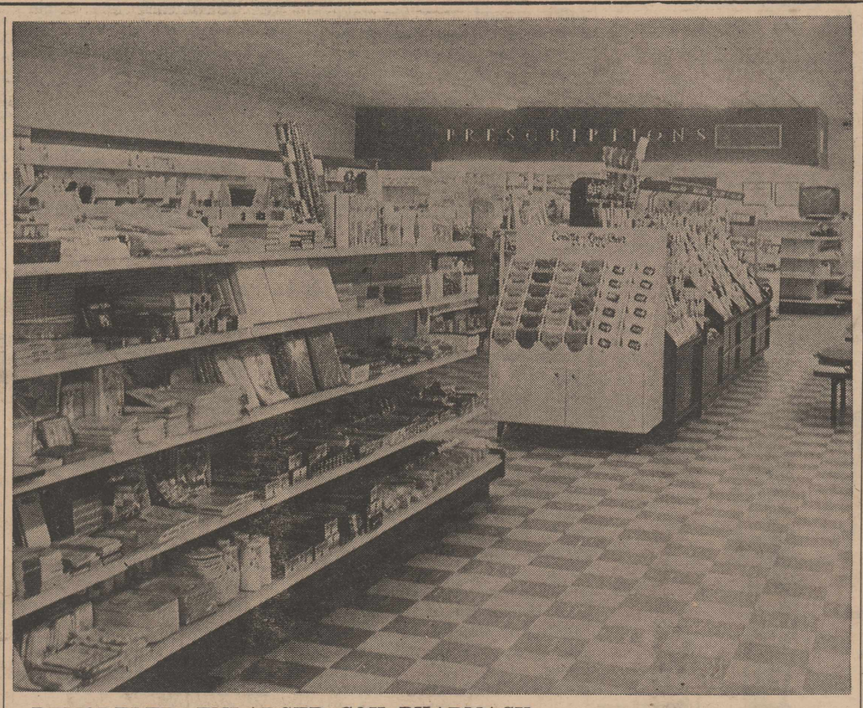

He entered the bakery business upon leaving his farm, living at Childress and Paducah before going to Quanah.

Funeral services for Mr. Hughs were conducted at Bowie Street Church of Christ on Tuesday at 2 p.m. with Min. Grandol Forehand officiating. Pall bearers were Mike Burkhalter, Paul Brewer, A. G. Tyler, M. C. Zeck, Hubert Bowen and Grady Phillips.

Burial was in North Wellington Cemetery under the direction of Kelso Funeral Home.

REMODELED, ENLARGED C&H PHARMACY

This interior photo shows one small portion of the newly remodeled and enlarged C&H Pharmacy, located in the Watkins Building on the north side of the square. The interior is completely new, but the store is serving its customers and friends in the same location which C&H and its predecessor, Cochran Drug, have occupied since 1927, two years after the store was bought by the late A. L. Cochran.

Control Possible

County Cotton Hit With Heavy Weevil Infestation

The heaviest boll weevil damage in the cotton growing history of the county has hit area farmers, and while general infestation is heavy, not all farms in any community or area are affected, County Agent Bob Lynch told The Wellington Leader Tuesday evening, Aug. 22.

The county agent and a majority of gin managers are staying in the fields much of the day keeping check on the appearance or prevalence of weevil, and for the first time, growers are learning that damage can appear almost overnight.

"But when the squares start falling off, you've already had it," Lynch observed.

Many farmers are spraying, using either ground rigs or hiring custom aerial sprayers.

"A lot of cotton has not been bothered at all, especially the younger cotton, but we expect it to move into the younger crop and it should be watched very closely," Lynch warned.

Some fields over the county are damaged as much as 50% and a few have had 80% damage. On a few fields there is no point in spraying because there isn't enough cotton left to spray, Lynch reported.

Some farmers with older cotton having a good setting of bolls may find it does not pay them to spray the three times necessary to control the weevil. They will do about as well to let the weevil get the squares, the county agent said.

He explained how to take a count to determine if the weevil build-up is sufficient for spraying:

Select 100 normal-looking squares at random over the field and examine them for weevil punctures. A puncture made for laying eggs will show up as a tiny wart. A puncture for feeding will be an open hole, and if there is any question, break open the square

Wheat Farmers Vote on Quotas Here Thursday

"Collingsworth county wheat growers will join with other producers throughout the nation on Aug. 24 to decide if marketing quotas will be in effect on their 1962 wheat crop," County Agent Bob Lynch announced. Quotas will be in effect only if at least two-thirds of the producers vote "yes" in the referendum.

There will be five voting boxes in the county, located at the following places: Farmers Co-op office in Dodson; the county courtroom in Wellington; Church of Christ building in Dozier; school gym in Samnorwood; and Red's Shop at Lutie. Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Here are the options in a nutshell:

If farmers vote "yes":

1. The price of wheat will be pegged at $2 per bushel or about 84% of parity for those who comply with program provisions.
2. There will be a mandatory acreage reduction of 10%.
3. Payments will be made

One Bullet for Two Victims in Saturday Affray

Two Wellington negroes were wounded by one bullet in a shooting affray which took place about 12:45 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 19, in a cafe in the Flats. Police Chief Troy Marsh reported.

Allen Barber, owner of the cafe, received a flesh wound in his upper right shoulder. The bullet, going completely through his shoulder, creased the skull of Martin Dixon, as he ducked to get out of the line of fire, Marsh said.

Sheriff John Rainey filed a complaint of assault with intent to commit murder against Jimmy Haywood, who moved to Wellington from Dodson about a month ago. He was unable to make $2,500 bond set by Judge Raymond Horton, justice of the peace, and is being held in Hall county jail.

Marsh said the shot was fired from a .765 calibre German pistol. Officers were told the shooting came up over a $2.40 debt which Barber alleges Haywood owes him.

Both Barber and Dixon were treated for flesh wounds and remained overnight in St. Joseph's Hospital.

City Students Enroll Thursday and Friday

Wellington students go back to classes Monday, Aug. 28, and the enrollment schedule was announced this week by J. L. Harper, superintendent, who at the same time said that with the election of James Stavenhagan as basketball coach, the coaching staff is completed, and so is the faculty as far as is known now.

High school and junior high students will enroll Thursday and Friday, Aug. 24 and 25. Elementary students will enroll Monday, Aug. 28, according to Jack Davis, principal.

Seniors will register Thursday, Aug. 24, from 8:30 a.m. to 12 noon; juniors will register Thursday from 1 to 4:30 p.m. Sophomores will register Friday from 8:30 to 12 and freshmen on Friday, from 1 to 4:30 p.m. The registration fee will be $4.00 per student, Mr. Harper said.

In junior high, the eighth grade will register Thursday morning from 8:30 until 12, and the seventh grade Thursday afternoon from 1 to 4:30 p.m. Sixth grade students will register Friday from 8:30 a.m. until noon. The junior high registration fee is $3.50.

The elementary students will pay a $1.50 fee only if insurance is desired.

Classes will begin Monday morning at 9 a.m.

In announcing the election of Stavenhagan, Supt. Harper said that he comes here from Stratford, a Class A school, where he was basketball coach four years. Stratford plays in a strong district and Stavenhagan's over-all record was reported as good.

A lower-Panhandle product, he grew up at Lelia Lake and graduated from high school there. He played basketball two years at Clarendon College, then played an additional two years at the University of Wichita, Kansas, where he received his bachelor's degree. He also holds a master's degree from West Texas State College, Canyon.

He is married and has three children. The family will live at 1503 El Paso St.

Kenneth Grunewald, elected to the coaching staff recently, will live at 806 Haskell St.

Remodeled, Enlarged

C&H Pharmacy Holds Opening This Week

C&H Pharmacy this week is observing the formal opening of the completely remodeled and enlarged store. At the same time, the owners, Jimmy Cochran and Ham Holton announced its conversion to a complete self-service drug store designed and arranged for the convenience of its customers.

Located in the Watkins building on the north side of the square, C&H Pharmacy has become one of the Panhandle's finer drug stores of a town of any size.

All furnishings are completely new. New lines of merchandise were added and all existing lines were enlarged.

The owners of the building, the Watkins Estate, carried out all phases of remodeling in keeping with the needs of the occupants. The ceiling of the building was lowered to a height now used in most newly constructed buildings.

The partition between the original C&H and the building just to the east was removed and the sales space enlarged by approximately one-third, in addition to greatly enlarged storage areas.

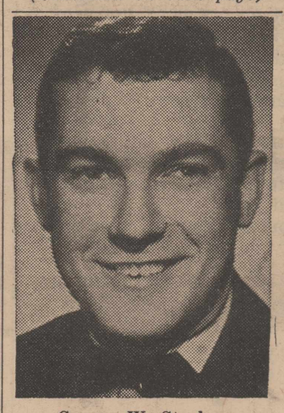

City Barber Shop, which occupied part of the east building, remains in its original location, which also was completely remodeled.

New tile flooring was laid in the remodeled C&H. Walls are finished in pleasing shades of beige and aqua blue. All fixtures are metal, although most are finished to resemble wood. Complete new lighting fixtures were installed.

C&H is now completely departmentalized. New emphasis is given the enlarged china and pottery sections, and the owners announce they are adding nationally known lines of crystal and sterling silver in the near future.

The cosmetics department, along with associated lines of costume jewelry and other items to delight women customers, is near the front. In other sections are the gift

Perryton Ranks First

Rockets Face a Tough, Tough Schedule for 1961 Season

Class 5-AA coaches rate the Wellington Skyrockets near the bottom of the district ladder this season—but they haven't seen those Rockets play and they haven't seen their spirit and enthusiasm.

"I have never coached a team with better spirit," Coach Frank Lindsey declared.

In the annual rating which coaches make of the teams of their district, the Perryton Rangers came up first. The Quanah Indians are expected to rank second and Childress Bobcats third.

In the bottom half, Shamrock, Spearman and Wellington are rated about the same.

Not only do the Rockets face some of the strongest teams of recent history in district play, their non-district schedule also will provide stiff competition.

Perryton was first in the district in 1960, with Quanah second and Shamrock third. Wellington and Childress tied for bottom place.

Perryton lost heavily in manpower this spring, but most of these were seniors and the Rangers have the strength to have a senior starting team each year. The Perryton enrollment is around 700, compared to Wellington's 183 enrollment, Coach Lindsey pointed out.

Another example of Perryton strength is the fact that last year the Ranger B team defeated the Phillips Blackhawk A squad.

Emphasizing a trend in recent years, Lindsey declared: "All coaching is about alike. It's the size of the school and the material available that make the difference."

Childress kept most of its 1960 team and is expected to be stronger.

Twenty-four Rockets are workig out this week. Here is a comparison with other teams:

The Shamrock Irish have 40, according to David Kelly, head coach, and five or six more are expected. Assisting Kelly are Earl Simpson, backfield coach, and Gene Stephenson, line coach. Shamrock will open against the McLean Tigers at McLean Friday night, Sept. 1, a week before the Rockets play their opening game against the Hollis Tigers.

Coach Bill Davis' Quanah Indians are working out 37-strong.

"This is the best team I've ever started practice with. They are all in top shape and are really trying."

Football experience is scarce with the Spearman Lynx, Coach Austin Bowes asserts. He lost 7 men by graduation last June and he is now looking for replacements to fill two places in the backfield and in both tackle positions.

The Lynx will play their first game against the Stinnett Rattlers Sept. 8.

Now for a look at the non-conference games.

The Texas opponents fall in the Class A category, and after this year it is the crew Wellington will be competing with district-wise.

Lindsey also noted that Wellington has a smaller enrollment and less potential material than most of these schools.

McLean Tigers have ten starters back from their 1960 team, and they are picked as a Class A state finalist for 1961.

Playing in Class 2-A, the Tigers are under the tutelage of Derral Davis, head coach, Lloyd Hunt, assistant coach, and R. L. Cline, junior high coach. They are putting in four hours in two-a-day drills.

Memphis, whom the Rockets meet in their second game Sept. 15, are picked as being stronger than ever before. Thirty-four men are working out, Coach Don Lambert said. There are 11 lettermen back from last year's squad, plus three other regulars.

Coach Dunny Goode had 35 Lefors Pirates report for work outs the first day. Other information on this team is not available at this time.

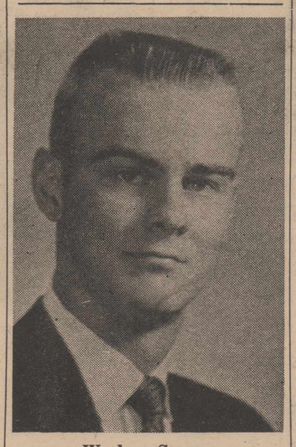

Coach Tom Jinks has 36 Clarendon Bronchos out this year, including 11 lettermen. Jenks is assisted by Coach Fred Hedgecoke, and the Bronchos will open their sea-

Two Injured as Car Flips

Two young Wellington men received painful injuries shortly before midnight Monday, Aug. 21, when the small foreign car in which they were riding overturned two and a half miles southeast of town on the Dodson highway.

Elmer Harold Keller, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Keller, was driving and said he believes he fell asleep, Sheriff John Rainey reported. Dean Keith, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Keith, was riding with him and no other vehicle was involved.

The car turned over twice, as nearly as could be determined, Sheriff Rainey said. Keller was able to walk to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Covey to phone for help.

Both boys were still hospitalized Tuesday evening in St. Joseph's Hospital, where Keller was receiving treatment for a broken bone in one foot and Keith for bruises.

Ford Hurt in Grid Practice

Johnny Ford, 14-year-old Skyrocket, received a broken right knee Monday evening, Aug. 21, during football practice, an injury that will take him out of the game for the entire season.

Ford, a junior, was in the right end position, and the accident occurred as he was blocked during a play.

He will be in St. Joseph's Hospital for three to five days, his father, Jack Ford, said, and following that he will be on crutches for several weeks.

Elaine Yarbrough Chosen 1961 Farm Bureau Queen Saturday

A brunette beauty, Elaine Yarbrough of Wellington was chosen 1961 Collingsworth County Farm Bureau Queen in the annual contest Saturday night, Aug. 19.

Second place in the contest went to Gayle Peeples, also of Wellington, and third to Linda Jenkins, of Quail.

Eleven girls participated.

With Garland Smith of Amarillo as master of ceremonies, each girl was interviewed and this year for the first time each was asked to comment on some phase of current events, either domestic or foreign. She then spoke briefly on "Why I Am Glad My Father Belongs to Farm Bureau."

Elaine, chosen by a panel of out-of-county judges, was crowned by Betty Moseley of Quail, the 1960 county and district winner. One other former county queen was introduced, Mrs. James Braziel of Quanah, the former Kaye Peeples, and a sister of this year's second place winner. She was the 1959 county and district winner and runner-up in the state contest.

Entertainment following the contest was provided by the Quail chorus, directed by Mrs. Lowell Wells, and tap dancing by Nancy Thomas. Les White, Farm Bureau vice president, was in charge of the contest.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Yarbrough, Elaine will be a senior in Wellington high school this year. She will compete in the district Farm Bureau Queen contest in Amarillo Saturday, Sept. 2.

Just one week before she was crowned Farm Bureau Queen, Elaine also was crowned Greenbelt Bowl Queen at Childress.

The second place winner, Gayle Peeples, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Peeples, while Linda Jenkins is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Jenkins. Both will be seniors this year.

Other contestants are Janice Rountree, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rountree; Darlene Rainey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Selba Rainey; Polly Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Clark; Barbara Favors, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Favors, all of Samnorwood; Janice Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woody Wood; Jennifer Singley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jones Singley; and Jolene Groves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Groves of Wellington; and Sherry Crownover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Crownover of Dodson.

Teachers Bill Adds $63,000 in County

Collingsworth county school teachers will benefit approximately $63,180 per year from the teachers pay raise approved by the Texas legislature.

This amounts to an $810 across-the-board increase in salary to all teachers, administrators, supervisors, and others considered professional personnel.

Seventy-nine persons will benefit in the county, a check with schools and the county superintendent's office shows.

Approximately half of these are in Wellington, with 34 white and 6 colored teachers.

The increase will be given monthly or in two lump sums, at the option of the schools.

Wellington teachers will receive theirs in monthly increases, Supt. J. L. Harper said.

Taxpayers' Watchdog

When any of us poor, uninformed private citizens cries out against free-spending government and the unbalanced budget, he is quickly hushed with the reply that the cause of it all is our tremendous defense budget. Defense spending, of course is the white goddess on the pedestal and if one dares question any part of it, the spenders say something like: "Sir, would you sell freedom down the river?" Of course, they can say it in a more menacing tone.

Even a white goddess can have a spot of mud on her skirt here and there, however, it seems. Comptroller General Joseph Campbell, head of the General Accounting Office, sometimes called the "watchdog on spending," reports that the Defense Department cost the taxpayers $30 million by failing to ask for competitive bids on spare aircraft parts; that much of the purchase of some $106 million worth of the parts through negotiated contracts was unjustified.

Well, now, we're glad to find that we do have a watchdog. We hadn't realized it and we're still not convinced that he's on the job all the time. Or, if he is, he doesn't bark very loudly. There must be a few other little, paltry items spent for defense that might be looked into, we imagine. Of course, $30 million more or less doesn't mean much in a modern governmental budget, but a few millions here, a few millions there — they do add up!

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

We hear lots of complaints from the cities about how machines are throwing people out of jobs, and in most cases doing same better.

My New Era neighbor says folks around here are taking the machine age very calmly, though, and are counting on science to waylay our troubles.

Says already we have got a huge battery of electronic check writers in Washington to take care of the more politically potent needy, and no doubt soon we will have home model electronic taxpayers.

New Frontiersmen it seems like have found where it says in the Constitution that it is the duty of the U.S. to abolish poverty in all the world.

My tax-impoverished neighbor says for 180 years we have been ruled by ignorant people who overlooked this passage in the great document.

Says it is going to be hard on politics when we get poverty done away with, though, on account of when everybody gets rich and sassy they will be a heap harder to please.

A gang of meddlers from the University of Michigan are telling it around that two out of three U.S. families are in debt.

My blackballed borrower neighbor says this proves there is discrimination and special privilege in business, and that the debtless one-third are being gypped out of their civil rights.

Says our liberalous leaders will not let this injustice prevail, though, and no doubt will soon edict equal credit for all, regardless of race, religion. politics, or paying habits.

A population expert says the U.S. birthrate is zooming again and he figures this means that folks are hopeful and think big families can be financed.

My shifty neighbor says, well, the federals want to feed, clothe, house, educate and medicate all comers, so there is not much need any more for folks to deny themselves ample posterity.

But since the government naturally controls what it finances, he expects there will be rationing soon, but with only token allotments of Conservative babies.

Right often here lately we get the news that another African tribe has blossomed out as a sovereign and independent nation.

Of which each one comes complete with its own little President, army, U.N. vote, and pipeline to the U.S. taxpayer.

My benignut neighbor says this freedom explosion is glorious and our world saviors are working hard to endow the new countries with all modern conveniences that we enjoy, such as payola, ulcers and parking meters.

It seems our social tinkers just can't stand the sight of the beat-up old cities some folks are living in, and aim to close the gracious-living gap with billions of dollars for urban pump-priming.

My slum-adjusted neighbor says he dreads having to get used to living in some plush abode where a man likely can't even spit on the floor when he feels like it.

Says it's commendable of the government to do away with slums and put up flossier habitations for all, but these won't stay bright and orderly very long unless people are kept out of them.

Seaway Effects on Grain Exports Reviewed

COLLEGE STATION.—Texans associated directly or indirectly with grain storage, inland transportation or exports are advised to keep a close watch on changes which the improved Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Seaway could have on the flow of grain to ports.

John G. McHaney, economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said the Seaway in its first year of operation, 1959, carried 87 million bushels of U. S. grain in direct oversees trade as contrasted with only 4 million bushels in 1958. Too, an additional 27 million bushels of U.S. grain were handled by Canadian Seaway ports for export.

The increase, McHaney said, came at the expense of Atlantic ports and not those on the Gulf coast. Western Europe increased their imports of six grains from the U.S. in 1959 by 43 per cent over the year before. Atlantic ports showed a decline in exports of 31 per cent while Gulf and Pacific ports increased their shipments by some 40 percent.

The economist added that the Seaway has some very formidable limitations. The season of navigation is limited to about 8 months; the Welland Canal is a bottleneck for the entire system; other cargoes such as iron ore and coal may offer stiff competition to grain for the limited capacity of the Welland Canal and many harbors on the lake do not have facilities and water depth to handle large ocean-going vessels. Further improvements, he continued, may change the situation.

McHaney concluded that further increases in grain exports through the Seaway can be expected but the favorable position of the Gulf Coast as contrasted to most Atlantic ports in grain export trade appears to be secure. The Seaway so far has had little effect on grain exports from Gulf ports. In fact, he said, export shipments of grain from these ports in 1959 were nearly double their 1955-57 annual averages. Favorable inland transportation rates to the Gulf plus the fact that many Gulf facilities have been modernized and others constructed during recent years makes their position favorable.

Dove Scarce Through Area, Hunters Report

The dove season open in the North Zone Friday, Sept. 1, and will continue through Oct. 30, both days inclusive, the Texas Game and Fish Commission has announced.

The commission also pointed out that the daily bag limit is 15 and the possession limit is not to exceed 30.

Local hunters report doves scarce in Collingsworth at present, however it is a little early for those that migrate in to begin reaching here. The peak of the population will not come until around Sept. 15..

About the only doves now here are those that wintered in the county.

Hunters were reminded by the Game Commission that shot guns must be plugged permanently to three-shell capacity, may not be larger than 10 gauge, and hunting doves with rifles is prohibited.

Mourning doves, the kind in this area, may be taken from 12 noon until sunset.

Any hunters who may be in the area where white-winged doves are hunted are reminded that the daily bag limit is 10 and the possession limit is 10.

High School Chums Make Wellington Point of Reunion After 20 Years

After being separated for more than 20 years, three high school chums and the sister of one of them picked Wellington for their reunion Friday night and Saturday, Aug. 18 and 19.

They were Mrs. John Walker of Midland, Mrs. Joe Coleman of Odessa, and Lumarion Sumner of Amarillo, but when they went through WHS together, they were Mary Frances Templeton, Grace Moore and Mayme Weir. With them here was Mrs. Earl Nunnelley of Arcadia, Calif., the former Cyd Moore.

They had coffee and called briefly on friends here, but most of their time was spent reminiscing on their school days in the early 1930's.

Mrs. Walker also visited her cousin, Judge and Mrs. R. L. Templeton, while her sister, Mrs. L. C. Hill, is out of town. She teaches history in Midland schools and has three children.

Mrs. Coleman, whose husband coached two of Wellington's district championship football teams, is a housewife, while her sister, Mrs. Nunnelley, owns a beauty shop in Arcadia. Her husband, also reared here, recently opened a grocery store in that California town that is reminiscent of the New England General stores, complete with pot-bellied stove and cracker barrel. It is making a hit in the area.

Mrs. Sumner remains in close contact with Wellington as woman's editor of the Amarillo News.

Conservation Aid to Bobwhite Quail Production

College Station — Bob white quail are one of the most popular game birds in Texas. They are found in almost every area of the state, but some individual farmers complain about not having any on their farm. Ed Cooper, extension wildlife specialist, says that if you like to have quail around the place, provide them with food, cover and protection.

The cheapest and most effective method of providing bobwhite quail with food is to disc strips in old fields and along fence rows. Discing, says Cooper, is often all that is needed to get a good stand of choice quail food, such as doveweed and partridge peas, growing. This practice is inexpensive, but it gives the quail food plants a chance to compete with the more vigorous ones. An application of fertilizer, the same as is used on pastures in the area, will greatly increase the amount of food produced.

Research has shown that long strips of disced land, at least 20 feet wide, are better than square blocks. The best time for carrying out the practice is from February through May, and the soil should be cut only deep enough to turn the grass. Discing once every three years usually produces the best results, Cooper explains.

The disced strips should be near low-growing bushy cover so the birds will have protection from their natural enemies. Cooper emphasizes that quail may not use the choice foods if cover is not available nearby. Also, he adds, it is easier, cheaper and faster to grow plants near cover than it is to develop cover near good food supplies.

Livestock usually will not graze the type of pants which will grow on the disced strips, but if domestic food crops are planted, fencing is required. Native plants are preferable because their seeds usually last longer, Cooper continues. This is important because quail need the food more in winter and early spring when domestic plant seeds have shattered or rotted.

PRODUCING AND FEEDING FORAGE SORGHUM DISCUSSED

College Station — the forage sorghums ,though not as economically important as the grain sorghums, are a major source of roughage for Texas livestock and dairy producers. Sorghum forage is produced in all farming areas of the state acreage has been slightly be-and in recent years, the total low 2 million. The annual production is near 2 million tons.

The forage sorghums produce roughage of excellent quality which may be stored as silage, bundles, hay or pellets. Cattle, sheep and horses make good use of these roughages when fed in combination with other feeds to produce meat, milk, wool and energy. Low-cost rations which produce high gains in the feedlot and utilizing sorghum forage have been developed.

Another and perhaps the most important use of forage sorghum is to provide a reserve supply of feed for winter maintenance and during drouths. When production is above average, the excess may be stored for later use.

In order that farmers and stockmen might have more information on these important roughhage producers, J. R. Quinby and P. T. Marion, superintendents of Texas Agricultural Experiment Substations at Chillicothe and Spur, respectively, have authored, B-965, "Production and Feeding of Forage Sorghum in Texas".

The well-known research workers have prepared a publication which should be of interest to all stockmen who have experienced difficulties in producing enough roughage for their needs. Major divisions of the publication include forage sorghum culture, harvesting and storing, diseases and insects, varieties and hybrids, and feeding forage sorghum.

Copies of the publication are available from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas. Please order by number and title.

Question:

Whose Opportunity Tree

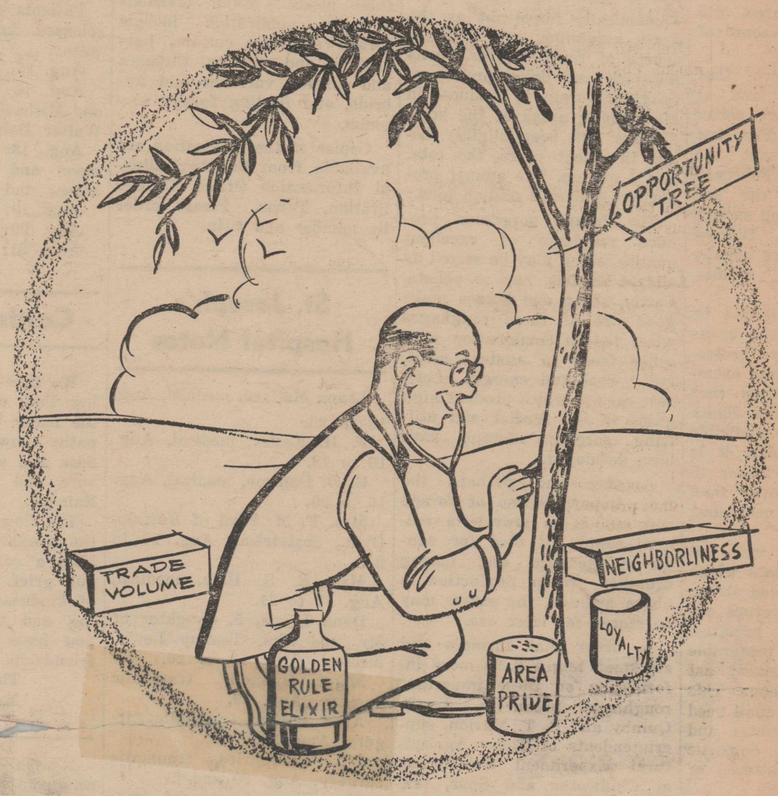

gets your tender care?

As a matter of fact, opportunities do not grow on trees. Most likely this truth has been brought to your attention before.

Opportunities are, rather, the products of hard work, good management...and good neighbors. They flourish especially where the paraphrased golden rule..."trade with others as you would have them trade with you"...is practiced by one and all.

Trade volume...created by the circulation of money among good neighbors within our own home area instead of away from it...is one of the absolutely essential ingredients of growth and prosperity...from which opportunity springs.

Wise selfishness lies not in buying "where we please" but in buying where our real interests are best served...where our trade enriches the economic soil which nourishes our personal opportunity harvest.

SALT FORK SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

Raymond Ward, a cooperator of the Salt Fork Soil Conservation District, is planning to construct a pond for livestock water.

In order to use the spillway as little as possible, he is setting a 10-inch corrugated metal pipe in the dam four feet below the level of the spillway. This pipe will carry the small rains without using the spillway.

This pond will be 19 feet deep plus whatever is dug out in getting the dirt for the dam. The pond will store 10.8 acre feet of water and will be used for livestock water.

Ward was assisted by the technicians of the Soil Conservation Service in the design of the structure.

J. B. Lowe and Mrs. R. E. Lowe are also constructing a farm pond for livestock water.

James Sullivan, a cooperator of the Salt Fork SCD, has recently constructed an erosion control dam on his farm in the Salt Fork community. The purpose of this dam is to stop a deep gully which was eating into cropland of the farm.

A pipe drop was also installed through the dam so as to carry all the small flow through the pipe instead of over the spillway. By the use of the pipe drop the spillway is not used as regularly and therefore its life is longer.

Other cooperators who have recently built erosion control dams are William O'Rear and W. H. Moody.

A widespread interest is being shown this year in brush control by aerial application of chemical hormones. The fact is verified north of the river by the many different ones spraying either mesquite, shinnery oak or sand sage brush.

Polly O'Neil and Hugh J. Grogan each sprayed about a section of shinnery oak for the second time. The per cent of kill has been good and the grass has made excellent recovery.

C. B. Lutes sprayed a large pasture for mesquite. J. O. Coleman sprayed about a section of shinnery with the first application of chemicals. All these men are well pleased thus far with the results of their efforts.

Just as important to the grass as the removal of brush competition is the deferment of the pastures from the time of spraying until the end of the growing season. This allows better grasses to go to seed without being grazed down by cattle.

Soil Conservation Service employees have assisted with technical information and these will supply information or answer questions for anyone interested.

Maximum Up

VETERANS MAY NEGOTIATE DIRECT VA HOME LOANS

Veterans living in a major-ity of the 79 counties in the Lubbock Regional Office area may negotiate direct home and farmhouse loans from the Veterans Administration, Robert W. Sisson, manager of the VA Regional office in Lubbock said recently.

Veterans of World War II and Korea have been given additional time in which to apply for a GI loan by legislation signed recently by the President, Mr. Sisson pointed out.

The new law increases from the present $13,500 to $15,000 the maximum an eligible veteran may get from the government as a direct loan. A total of $1.2 billion over the next six years for use in direct loans by the VA was authorized.

The law provided a phase-out eligibility formula under which a veteran will be eligible for a GI loan for 10 years from the date of his discharge from his last period of wartime service, plus an additional year of eligibility for each three months of active wartime service, Sisson said.

Eligibility of a World War II veteran under the new law may not extend beyond July 25, 1967, in any case, nor beyond Jan. 31, 1975 for any Korea veteran. A veteran discharged because of a service-connected disability will be eligible to apply until these final cut-off date.

The new law provides that eligibility shall not terminate in any case prior to July 25, 1962 for a World War II veteran, nor prior to Jan. 31, 1965 for a Korea veteran, the cut-off dates under the old law.

The direct loans are limited to specifically designated rural areas, towns and small cities where the Administrator of Veterans Affairs has determined that private mortgage money is not available for GI loans, Sisson said.

For further information on the direct loan program, area veterans should contact the VA Regional Office, 1600 19th St., Lubbock..

The party line golden rule

People on telephone party lines have a daily opportunity to practice the principle of the golden rule.

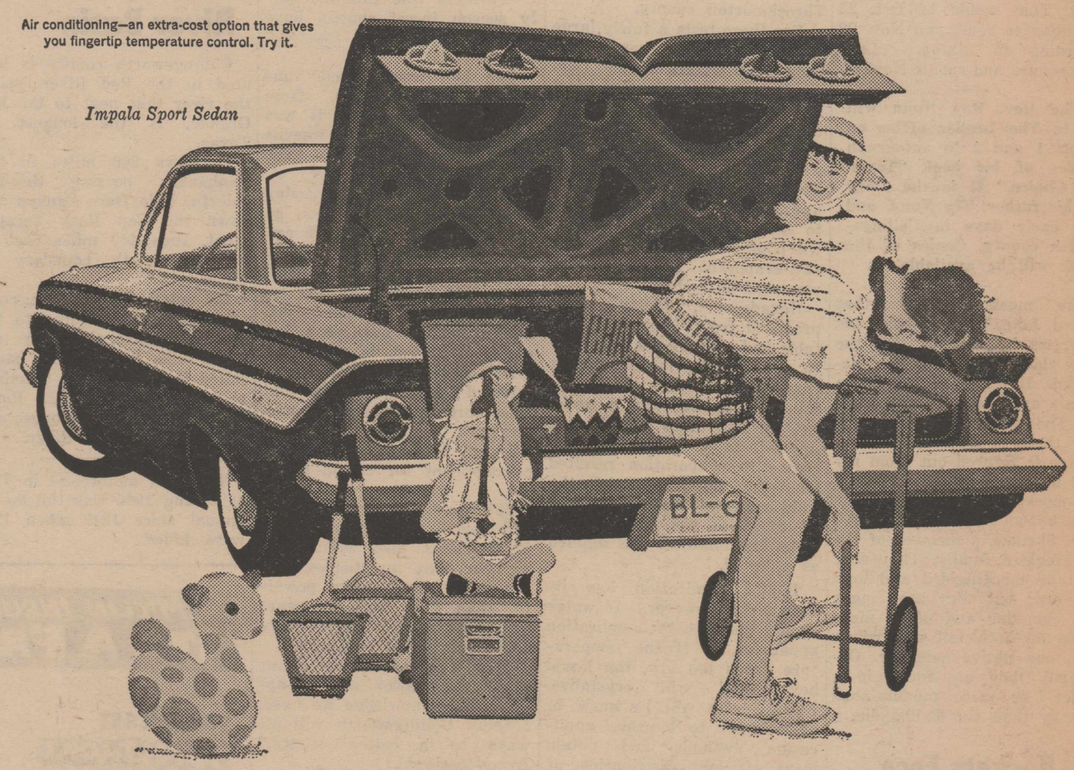

Sometimes, when you pick up the receiver, you expect the party line to be in use. But your call is delayed only when the party line is tied up for an excessive length of time.

So the best rule for party line users is the golden rule. To put it simply "Do unto your party line neighbor as you would have your party line neighbor do unto you."

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

The big free fair is only a week away and the exhibits should be wonderful. We have bumper crops again this year. There will be something for everybody. Start lining up your exhibits now.

We are going to make a tremendous cotton crop even though some fields have been hurt to a distressing extent by the boll weevils. Bob Lynch, says that all this talk about there being no future to profitable cotton farming in this area is unwarranted.

The county agent told The Leader that early planting, early poisoning and clean farming, along with our modern insecticides can combat the weevil successfully. He pointed out instances of early poisoning being done with a ground, applicator while the plants were small at a cost of 80¢ an acre or $4 for five applications. When the plants get big, spraying by airplane is the only help. The story is in another part of the paper.

Building and improvement all over town is the news in Wellington. The C&H Pharmacy is holding the formal opening of their remodeled store in the Watkins building this week. The whole community is proud of the store and the building with the new new look. Congratulations.

L. B. Bratten is planning a welcome and needed addition to the city. He has completed arrangements with the city fathers and we will have a detailed story about the middle of September. Do you know that it is practically impossible to find a nice house to rent in Wellington right now? I know of one young man who plans to sell his home in a nearby town and move here when he can make arrangements. The Leader has run across a number of people in the last two years who have expressed a desire to make their home here. They were couples who were nearing or had reached the retirement age and wanted something quieter than the large city.

Weather in Wellington!

Tuesday afternoon I had the air conditioner running; but writing this column Wednesday morning I became so chilled that I turned on the heater in the bathroom.

Sniffing the first norther on Aug. 22, Earl Keller wanted to know the date of the first frost. That would be Oct. 22 according to some and Nov. 22 according to others. Let's compromise and call it Nov. 10.

The Rev. Roy Nunn will be in The Leader office on Sept. 1 and 2 to autograph copies of his book "Texan by Choice." It is the story of his father, Tip Nunn, and the early days in Collingsworth county. Copies of the book will be available.

The mocking bird that caused John Trew to raise his eyebrows by singing in the snow last February has departed. He was joined by a female and they raised a family. The young learned to fly only three or four weeks ago. I have it figured out from my bird book that these were not the mocking birds most of us have known all our lives. They were Shrikes, a member of the mockingbird family. They sing like the mockingbird and look like one; but they are longer and chunkier and show more white on both tail and wings than our native songster. Ordinarily they are found in a colder or more mountainous country than the Panhandle.

COOL MOVE—Eduardo Jurado has just made a "cool" move and now it's Ilya Chamberlain's (left) turn to counteract it. Actually, both made a cool move when they decided to take the hot chess game they were playing into the surf in front of their homes in Cozumel, Mexico. An inflated inner tube served as table for the chess enthusiasts.

Pasture Specialist

Ted Trew Returns to A & M Service

COLLEGE STATION. — E. M. (Ted) Trew, on study leave since September 1959, on Aug. 15 returned to his former position, pasture specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service on the headquarters staff.

Extension Director John E. Hutchison said Trew had completed all work for a doctor's degree except his thesis at the University of Chicago. His graduate work was in the field of adult education and was made possible by a grant from the Fund for Adult Education.

Trew is a native of Collingsworth county and holds bachelor and master degrees in agronomy from Texas A&M College. He was first employed by the Extension Service in 1943 as assistant county agent in Lamar county. Later he served as county agent in Morris, Cass and Lamar counties and as an associate agronomist with headquarters at Weslaco. He was named pasture specialist in 1952.

George McBee, who has served as pasture specialist during Trew's absence, will go on study leave in September and commence work on his doctor's degree at Texas A&M College, Hutchison said. McBee will do his graduate work in the Department of Plant Physiology and Pathology under a fellowship provided by Anderson, Clayton and Company.

McBee is a native of Eastland county and holds B.S. and M.S. degrees from Texas A&M College in agronomy. He was first employed by the Service in 1910. He served as an assistant county agent and as assistant agronomist at Weslaco prior to his transfer to the headquarters staff in 1960. He was on military leave from 1951 to 1953 and was named assistant county agent for Bexar county after his discharge. He resigned to enter A&M in 1954 and was named to the area position at Weslaco after receiving his master's degree.

Study Ways to Stop Water Evaporation

College Station — Ponds, reservoirs and lakes furnish a necessary water supply for many phases of agriculture and industry in Texas, and demands for this surface-stored water are increasing constantly. High evaporation losses, however, often eliminate farm reservoirs and stock ponds as useful and economic carryover structures.

In an attempt to solve the problem of evaporation losses, researchers have increased studies on the use of monomolecular films. Laboratory information on the value and effectiveness of these chemicals has been estabilshed, but only limited field tests have been made. To help fill this informational gap, the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station conducted a series of field tests in Throckmorton county.

For these tests a fairly large earthen dam was constructed on a small watershed, and twin ponds were constructed just below the dam. Dikes and diversions around the ponds reduced runoff intake, and a sheet of polyethelene on the floors and sides prevented seepage. Water was measured into each of the ponds. One of the ponds was treated with the anti-evaporant and the other was used as a check.

Hexadecanol, a fatty alcohol produced from animal, vegetable and marine oils, was used to provide the monomolecular film. For one test this material was applied as a solid, but for the other test it was applied as a liquid. No decrease in evaporation resulted from the application of the solid material, but a reduction of almost 25 per cent occurred when the material was applied as a liquid.

Liquid application has its drawbacks, however. If water should get into the application apparatus, or if the temperature drops too low, the liquid hexadecanol will crystalize. Future tests will be made in an attempt to improve application methods and obtain more efficient distribution of the material.

A report of these tests has been published and copies of PR-2158 may be obtained from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

A new department with which the owners speak with pride is the camera department, in which both still and motion picture cameras and projectors are to be found, as well as camera accessories.

Always a popular place, the fountain was enlarged—but it was still too small, and Holton and Cochran said this week that five additional booths have arrived and will be installed. Walls of the fountain section are panels of pierced steel in shades of yellow, coral and taupe. Booths are wood-grained metal with beige leather upholstery. Besides fountain items, sandwiches and soups are served.

The pharmacy department, heart of the business, was completely rearranged into a more open, yet more compact plan. Every item of medicine is at finger-tip.

Both owners, Holton and Cochran, have bachelor of science degrees in pharmacy from the University of Oklahoma. One is on duty at all times, and they are on call 24 hours a day.

Associated with the store is Mrs. A. L. Cochran, whose husband, the late Mr. Cochran, founded the business many years ago. Following his death she operated the business until Jimmy Cochran took over its operation. Later Holton became a partner.

D. W. Crawford has been an employee for many years and is completely familiar with every part of the store's operation.

Mrs. Fred Williams began work recently as cashier. In the fountain department are Miss Dorothy Ray, Mrs. Patricia Alday, Mrs. Wade Welch, Miss Delores Sasser, Miss Sammy Thompson and Miss Janet West.

County Cotton

and if it is brown inside, weevil are present.

On dryland cotton, if you find 15 to 20 per cent punctured squares, control measures should be taken. Ten per cent infestation on irrigated fields indicates spraying should be done.

"Farmers who followed early season insect control have practically no boll weevil," Lynch said.

The boll weevil cycle runs in three-week periods, from birth to laying stage, it was pointed out, and the weevils are hatching out in the grub stage constantly.

"A farmer may spray today and get a good kill, then go out in two or three days and find his field full of newly hatched grubs. That doesn't mean that he isn't getting results from his spraying. It just means that a new crop has come out. That is why constant check must be kept in infected fields and it is why at least three sprayings are necessary.

Lynch had one note of encouragement for cotton growers.

"Farmers who remember how boll weevil ran cotton out of East Texas also should remember that insecticides now are many times more powerful than they were 20 years ago, and we know much more about controlling boll weevil.

"Early season control seems to be the answer, and by applying the knowledge we have, I think Collingsworth will always be a cotton county," Lynch declared.

LOOKING AHEAD

by Dr. George S. Benson

The Efficient Mr. Hoover

Every now and then somebody starts a rumor that high officials close to the President want to get rid of J. Edgar Hoover. These whispers are more puzzling and annoying than truthful, apparently, for one of the first acts of President Kennedy upon his election was to notify the nation that he had asked Mr. Hoover to remain at his post with the F.B.I. This action of the incoming administration attested the high esteem generally held toward Mr. Hoover and his effectiveness as the nation's top law enforcement officer.

It is not difficult to trace the general source of Mr. Hoover's detractors. One comes soon to the political far-left, to those who like to warn of "facism" when they tilt with conservatives. Many of the so-called "liberal" political schemers, with their supporting writers and organized groups, hate Mr. Hoover with a vengeance, even as they hate anybody who warns of the Communist menace. They realize that Mr. Hoover with his F.B.I. fights Red subversion where he finds it and never fails to put America's security first. This is just too much for them. They itch for his scalp. .

Authority on Reds

Through the years since 1919, Mr. Hoover has understood Communism as few Americans have. He has followed its fortunes, its shifting positions and meandering "lines". He has observed its underground, watched its party at work, caught its spies and investigated its intellectual hirelings. From time to time he has made important revelations about its dangers to America, and all the while he has enjoyed the confidence of presidents of both parties. He has always encouraged anti-Communist activities; his own book, "Masters of Deceit,' is our best popular study of Communism in action.

Mr. Hoover is primarily a law enforcement officer. He is not a politician. As a "G-man" he is tops in integrity, in patriotic idealism, in belief in the necessity of preserving the American heritage. Typical of Mr. Hoover's viewpoints is the statement appearing in his regular cover letter addressed to law enforcement officials in th F. B. I. "Bulletin" for July:

Ideals for Officers

"It is the responsibility of law enforcement officers to aid in building our country into a strong and respected republic, just as they have historically led the battles against other threats to our safety and security. The law enforcement officer should be respected by both adults and young people alike, and by his example of physical sturdiness, incorruptible morals, and high regard for the principles of our free land, he can do his part in preventing any dangerous trend toward a national weakness. He owes it to his country, his community, his family, and himself.'"

A recent news release from the Department of Justice showed new all-time highs in accomplishments of the F.B.I. In the past fiscal year, fines, savings, and recoveries in cases investigated amounted to $1.34 for every dollar appropriated for the Bureau. Of persons brought to trial by the F.B.I., 96.6 per cent were conviceted, most of them from guilty pleas. The Bureau's laboratory answered requests for assistance that resulted in 244,183 scientific examinations. Fingerprint cards were added to the file at more than 21,000 daily.

Red's Dislike F.B.I.

The report mentioned "continuing, vigorous investigation by the F.B.I. of those elements endangering America's internal security." Because of these services "the Department of State has been enabled to take action against Soviet - bloc officials who have engaged in activities beyond the scope of their official assignments in the United States; and the Department of Justice has been enabled to institute prosecution against persons engaged in espionage activities."

The Communists do not like Mr. Hoover, that is clear. But it is difficult to imagine an American citizen so misguided, ill-informed, and unpatriotic as to suggest his dismissal. I would like to urge that readers of this column write the boss of J. Edgar Hoover (not Mr. Hoover himself) and commend the Department of Justice for the fine work of the Bureau under the direction of Mr. Hoover. His boss is Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy.

Wheat Farmers

for diverting wheat acreage and for devoting it to a conservation use.

4. Additional voluntary reductions may be made.

If farmers vote "no":

1. Price support on wheat will be $1.19 per bushel or 50% of parity for those producers planting within acreage allotments.

2. There will be no limit on marketings.

All farmers who have produced more than 13.5 acres of wheat in at least one of the last three years are eligible to vote, Lynch said.

Complete information on the proposed wheat stabilization program can be obtained at the county agent's office, or by contacting Collingsworth county ASCS office manager Millard P. Brown.

"We do not have a 1962 wheat program now," Lynch emphasized. "That will be up to the farmers to decide on Aug. 24. Therefore, we urge all eligible wheat farmers and their wives to vote."

Early Forage Best Quality

High quality hay doesn't depend on high cost equipment. It depends more than anything else on proper time of cutting, says the writer in Farm Quarterly, Cincinnati published national farm magazine.

For nine framers out of ten, the time to cut is earlier. Earlier than last year, earlier than your neighbors, earlier than June.

Grasses or legumes cut at the early stages of growth are easier to make into hay (or silage) and field losses are lower. Drying is smoother as the heavy stems have not appeared in the crop.

A plant in the early stages of growth, before it has shown any tendency to form buds or flowers, has a high protein and sugar content but as the plant grows, the ratio of nutrients in its tissue changes.

When a farmer cuts hay from a mature crop he harvests more dry matter in a single cutting but the percentage of digestible nutrients in the dry matter is lower.

The difference in productive capacity of old and young forage is well shown by milk production trials run at Cornell University from 1950 to 1958.

In controlled experiments, barn-dried hay cut in early June and fed to dairy cattle yielded from 13 per cent to 21 per cent more pounds of milk per day than hay cut in late June or early July.

Early-cut forage can lie longer in the swath, even suffer rain, and still make good hay, The same treatment will ruin more future cuttings.

Mechanical losses at harvest are greater in an old crop because the leaves dry quicker than the stems and are overdry when the stems are ready to handle. The leaves shatter in handling.

The best time to cut is immediately before the bloom of most grasses and legumes.
