Contracts to Be Let on $3,500,000 Texas Road Work

WEST TEXAS TO GET BIG SHARE PAVING AWARDS

Baylor, Archer, Young and Throckmorton Counties Included

BIDS ASKED ON 218 MILES OF CONSTRUCTION

Contracts Provide for 130 Miles of Hard Surface Pavement

AUSTIN, June 21.—Contracts for the construction of 218 miles of work will be considered at the meeting of the state highway commission here Monday and Tuesday. Cost of the work has been estimated at $3,500,000.

Included in the 218 miles of construction were 130 miles of hard surface paving mostly concrete and bituminous macadam.

Four of the larger projects on which bids are to be opened are in Northwest Texas, in the Wichita Falls vicinity. In Baylor, Archer, Young and Throckmorton counties contracts will be let on a total of 45.5 miles of hard-surface paving. The projects in the four counties will cost approximately $966,000 or slightly less than one-third of the total expenditure.

The largest single contract will be let for the construction of 43.7 miles of rock asphalt surfacing on highway 2 in La Salle county from the Webb to the Frio county line at an estimated cost of $840,000.

To Hear 19 Counties

In addition to awarding the 23 contracts, the commission will hear delegations from 19 counties concerning road problems in the various districts.

The contracts to be awarded and their estimated cost were:

AUSTIN CANDIDATE FOR REPRESENTATIVE BARRED FROM PRIMARY BALLOT

AUSTIN, June 21. (AP)—Victor Machet of Austin, candidate for the Democratic nomination for place No. 2 in the state house of representatives, today was barred from the ballot by the Travis county Democratic executive committee at a secret session. The committee voted to bar him on the ground he was not a qualified elector. Eugene V. Giles, incumbent, had threatened to withdraw from the race if the committee permitted Machet's name to go on the ballot.

Negro Lynched

UNION, S. C., June 21. (UP)—Dan Jenkins, negro, charged with criminal assault on a white woman, was lynched by a mob near here late today. County officers were searching for the negro when he was captured by the mob and before the officers arrived on the scene he was lynched.

SAYS HUSBAND HAMMERED HER

BELLEVILLE, Ill., June 21. (UP)—Because her husband hammered her at will" and refused to come to her aid when a cow stood on her, Mrs. Julius Caesar has a divorce. Mrs. Caesar explained that while she was milking a cow she fell and another cow stepped on her. "My husband stood by and laughed," she testified. "After that I decided I would free myself from Julius."

FLIER COMPLETES NON-STOP TRIP TO MEXICAN CAPITAL

First New York to Mexico City Flight Ever Made Without Stop

CLIPS 12 HOURS FROM LINDY'S TIME IN 1927

Crowds Break Through in Attempt to Welcome Mexican Ace

VALBUENA FIELD, Mexico, June 21. (AP)—Col. Roberto Fierro completed his non-stop flight from New York to Mexico here at 5:05 p. m., C.S.T.

The Mexican army ace, who had left Roosevelt field early this morning, made the distance in about 16 hours and 35 minutes, which was about half an hour under the 16-hour limit he had hoped to set.

The distance was about 2,200 miles and apparently was covered without hitch.

He arrived at the field alone, splashing down into the mud but making a clean landing.

Colonel Fierro missed an escort of planes sent out from Valbuena to meet him. The departure of this escort was indirectly the cause of some confusion about the colonel's landing, for one of the pilots, returning to the field before the colonel had been sighted, and arriving almost at the dot of the hour he was expected, caused everyone to believe that it was Fierro himself circling overhead. It proved

Texas Swelters In Most Severe Heat of Season

DALLAS, June 21. (AP)—Texas sweltered today in the most severe heat wave of the early summer season.

Temple, with 103 degrees, was the state's "hottest," with Paris following close with 101 degrees, surpassing its previous record temperature this year of 96. At Dallas, the temperature was 95 at 2 p. m.

Waco reported a maximum temperature of 94, San Antonio of 91, and Fort Worth, 96.

Heat at Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, June 21. (AP)—The hottest weather of the season was experienced here today at 2:45 p. m., when an official temperature of 97 degrees was recorded.

Highest Mark of Year

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 21. (UP)—One policeman collapsed and thousands of city dwellers suffered under the scorching sun today as temperatures soared to the highest mark of the year.

The heat wave hit this section during the morning and 1 p. m. the thermometer had climbed to 92 degrees. High humidity accompanied the heat.

HIGHEST COURT TO GET WICHITA BOLTERS' FIGHT

Oneal Declares Desire to Avoid Bringing Partisan Strife

The fight of J. R. Ogle and 45 others to get their names printed on the primary ballot in Wichita county as candidates for places on the county Democratic executive committee probably will be carried to the state supreme court direct, according to information given here Saturday.

Judge George Smoot of Wichita Falls, it was announced, has been retained as counsel for Ogle et al.

The proceedings, nature of which has not been disclosed, probably will be filed early next week, it was said further. Probabilities are, it was added, that a writ of mandamus to compel the county committee to order the names printed on the ballot will be asked.

The county committee declined to authorize the placing of the names on the ballot on the ground that the applications failed to state that the applicants were Democrats. Most of those on the list were supporters of the Republican national ticket in 1928.

The fight on behalf of Mr. Ogle

EFFORTS OF FIREMEN TO SAVE COMRADE'S SON HAVE BEEN SUCCESSFUL

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 21 (UP)—Firemen who administered oxygen to Willie Hicks, 8-week-old son of a comrade, were told by physicians tonight that their efforts to save the infant's life had been successful. The child was stricken with double pneumonia and became unconscious. For 18 hours three firemen worked at an inhalator without stopping for rest. They kept up the battle for another 50 hours, stopping to prepare supplies of the compound when their store ran low.

The inhalator was kept at the Hicks home tonight for use in case of a relapse.

WORK ON FIRST OF FOUR DAMS STARTS BY AUTUMN

TULSA, Okla., June 21. (UP)—Work on the first of four dams to be constructed in connection with the Grand Hydro development in northeastern Oklahoma will get under way before autumn, it was announced today.

The first dam, to be known as No. 3, to be built across the Grand river near the mouth of Spring creek five miles southeast of Choteau in Mayes county, will cost $5,000,000.

AS BYRD PASSES CHEERING CROWDS

"Hello Broadway!" Here's an unusual close-up view of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, showing him acknowledging with a wave of his cap the cheers of the thousands who filled the sidewalks and skyscraper windows to hail him upon his arrival in New York. With the hero explorer is Grover Whalen, chairman of the mayor's welcoming committee.

The National Geographic Society's Special Medal of Honor, pictured here, presented to Rear Admiral Byrd by President Hoover at White House ceremonies honoring the famous explorer. The face of the medal (left) bears a profile bust of Admiral Byrd, an inscription, the two stars and anchor of a rear admiral's insignia, and the wings, shield and anchor of a naval aviator. On the reverse side of the medal (right) is a symbolic figure—a winged man conquering the two poles.

TOTAL 634 MILES HIGHWAY OKLAHOMA BEING BUILT

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 21 (UP)—A total of 634 miles of highways in Oklahoma is now being either graded, drained or paved, State Highway Engineer A. R. Losh, said today.

The highway commission plans to have these improvements projects complete before winter, Losh said.

The engineer's report showed that oil is being placed on 302 miles of highway. Seventy-six bridges are under construction.

RICHMOND, Va., June 21. (AP)—"Dick" Byrd came back to old Virginia today to receive the welcome of a conquering hero and a native son.

Thousands of Virginians, their pulses quickened with the peculiar pride of fellow citizens, cheered and shouted themselves hoarse as the man who conquered the icy coldness of polar skies, stepped on the soil of his native state. Through solid walls of eager friends and citizens, Rear Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd rode in triumph and acknowledged the tumultuous greeting with salutes and modest bows. Guns of the Richmond howitzers boomed an admiral's salute.

"It was wonderful, and it's great to be back in Virginia," Admiral Byrd said, as he arrived at the executive mansion for an official reception by Governor Pollard.

The entrance of the admiral into the concourse at the Broad street station was the signal for an out-

NEXT MOVE UP TO CANNON IN TINKHAM FIGHT

Clergyman Not Prepared to Say if He Will Sue For Libel

TO ANNOUNCE DECISION PUBLIC AT PROPER TIME

Shaffer Refuses to Apologize to Tinkham for Criticism

WASHINGTON, June 21. (US)—The next move was up to Bishop James Cannon Jr., today in his "affair of honor" with the doughty Representative George Holden Tinkham, Republican of Massachusetts.

Evidently studying charges Tinkham made yesterday without congressional immunity, the Virginia cleric was unprepared to say whether he would carry out his threat and sue for libel.

Bishop Cannon said he would make known his decision to the press "at the proper time."

The Tinkham statement was a resume of the charges he made in a house speech last Tuesday, touching on Cannon's handling of political funds in the campaign against Al Smith in 1928.

Meanwhile there was considerable discussion over the house speech yesterday of Representative Shaffer, Republican, of Virginia, who defended Cannon and said Tinkham was "unfair, a coward and slanderer" unless he repeated his charges against the bishop without immunity. When Shaffer was speaking Tinkham's statement was already distributed to the press.

Shaffer said today he had no intention of apologizing to Tinkham.

CHICAGO GANG KILLER REPORTED REGISTERED AT CALIFORNIA HOTEL

LOS ANGES, Calif., June 21. (INS)—Search for Frederick R. Burke, notorius Chicago gang killer with $100,000 on his head, today was intensified here with reports that he had registered at the Avis hotel, Pamona, June 4 and again June 5, dates of big jewelry robberies here, and that he had made telegraphic hotel reservations at Hotel Stewart.

Reports in the hands of the sheriff's office did not disclose whether it was a San Francisco or San Bernardino hotel for which the advance reservation had been made, it was stated.

Police reports did not disclose the name under which Burke registered.

WICHITA, KAN., GUSHER TANKS 1,400 BARRELS OF CRUDE OIL IN 24 HOURS

WICHITA, Kan., June 21. (UP)—Wichita's "doorstep gusher," brought just outside the city in an exclusive residential area, tanked 1,400 barrels of oil in 24 hours.

Roads leading to the producer were crowded with the curious.

Many residents of Eastborough are planning to fight any attempt to drill inside the city limits, while others are hoping wells will be sunk on their residential property.

BAGGAGE HANDLER SHOT WHILE REMOVING TRUNK THAT CONTAINED PISTOL

ST. LOUIS, June 21. (AP)—Emil Hagen, a baggage handler at Union station, was shot and seriously wounded today when a firearm in a trunk he was handling, discharged. The bullet struck him in the left chest, above the heart. He is expected to recover. The trunk, a black steamer, had just arrived over the Rock Island from the West.

COOLIDGE TO WRITE DAILY ARTICLE FOR NEWSPAPER

NEW YORK, June 21. (UP)—Former President Calvin Coolidge will contribute a daily article of from 150 to 200 words in length to The New York Herald Tribune beginning July 1, according to an announcement today.

OUSTER SUITS FILED IN SAN ANTONIO AGAINST TWO COUNTY OFFICERS

AUSTIN, June 21. (AP)—Ouster proceedings against Alfonso Newton and R. Neil Campbell, sheriff and tax collector, respectively, of Bexar county, were ordered filed today by Attorney General Robert Lee Bobbitt as the result of his investigation of charges made recently by Bexar county citizens that poll tax receipts were being issued illegally and that aliens were being permitted to vote in elections.

Suit to oust the officials was authorized by Bobbitt after a confidential report had been made to him by his personal investigators, Jack Blalock and Dewey Lawrence, assistant attorneys general. The suit was ordered filed in the Bexar county district court of which San Antonio is county seat.

Poll Tax Situation

The poll tax situation in Bexar county as revealed by the officials investigating, "reflects a condition that is a challenge to the integrity of the government of Texas and a reflection upon the right of franchise in this state. If aliens have been armed, as the evidence indicates, with ballots in Bexar county and if they are being voted to disfranchise citizens of Texas and override the rights of citizens, it is high time that responsibility for such a situation be definitely fixed," Bobbitt asserted.

HUNDRED LEGIONNAIRES VISIT CITY FOR ANNUAL CONVENTION OF THIRTEENTH TEXAS DISTRICT

Legionnaires from the 13th district enjoyed a theater party Saturday afternoon as guests of the local American Legion post for the opening of the district convention here. A dance at Lake Wichita was the entertainment for the evening.

The more serious aspect of the convention was scheduled for Sunday. Following a breakfast at the Holt hotel, the group, consisting of about 100 out-of-town delegates representing posts at Alvord, Archer City, Bowie, Burkburnett, Denton, Electra, Decatur, Gainesville, Graham, Henrietta, Jacksboro, Nocona, Olney, St. Jo, Seymour and Vernon, will meet at the Memorial auditorium for a program.

Read Johnson, regional manager of the U. S. veterans bureau at Dallas, and Wayne S. Goode, state department service officer, will have charge of the Sunday morning meeting, and Mayor Walter Nelson Jr., will give the welcome address. C. C. Kirby, post commander of Pat Carrigan post No. 120 will introduce the distinguished visitors and delegates.

Mrs. John Saunders will sing a solo, accompanied by Mrs. G. Wayne Barker at the piano and Miss Viola Grace Doern on the violin. Mrs. T. B. Couch will give a reading.

Judge Guy Rogers will give the principal address Sunday morning, after which luncheon will be served at the auditorium.

At 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, the business session will open, with Clyde Haden, district committeeman, presiding. Following the business meeting, members of the Ladies' auxiliary will meet in the business council room.

The meeting will adjourn Sunday afternoon.

SHERIFF OF BECKHAM COUNTY OKLAHOMA KILLED BY ASSASSIN WHILE ALONE AT OFFICE DESK

SAYRE, Okla., June 21. (UP)—Sheriff C. H. Phillips, of Beckham county, was slain in his office tonight by an unknown assailant.

He was unarmed.

Officers had no clue as to the assassin nor could they account for the motive.

Sheriff Phillips was sitting at his desk, leaning back in his chair with his hands holding his suspenders when someone knocked at the door.

Three shots greeted his command to come in. He fell backwards with three bullet holes in his head.

Phillips was 48. He was serving his first term as sheriff. The term would have expired Jan. 1, 1931.

He died without making a statement.

Assistant County Attorney John Mayberry told The United Press there was no indication that the officer had been marked by outlaws. Friends said he had no personal enemies.

Townspeople became excited when word of the murder was passed. Half an hour after the shooting, which occurred at 10 p. m., officers had organized a posse that surrounded the town in an effort to capture the assailant.

ONE PERSON KILLED AND OTHERS ARE INJURED IN WEST VIRGINIA WRECK

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 21. (AP)—One person was killed and a number of others injured, at least one seriously, when the engine and one coach of The Sportsman, crack Chesapeake and Ohio passenger train en route from Newport News to Detroit, left the rails tonight at Hawk's Nest, 60 miles from here.

The engine and a combination baggage and passenger coach overturned and two other passenger coaches were derailed.

Homer Haskell of Huntington, W. Va., the engineer, was killed and the fireman was seriously injured. Information from railroad sources here was that several passengers and the express messenger also were injured.

LOUISVILLE MAN SHOT WHILE CLEANING PISTOL

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 21. (AP)—Payton H. Hoge, 41, insurance agent and former national vice commander of the American Legion, was in a critical condition at a hospital here today from a depressed skull fracture caused by a bullet wound. Mrs. Hoge, who was with her husband at their home when he was wounded, said he was cleaning a 45 caliber pistol which dropped to the floor and discharged.

Fear Paralyzes Man Who Falls on Abandoned Track

SOUTH BEND, Ind., June 21. (UP)—For five hours W. T. Mitchell, West Allis, Wis., war veteran, lay paralyzed on a railroad track unable to move or call for help, fearing every moment a train would thunder out of the darkness and cut him in two.

Mitchell fell on the rails when he became ill. Every rustle of grass and every night sound he translated as the noise of an approaching train.

At last a motorist came and lifted Mitchell from his precarious bed and brought him to the Epworth hospital.

At the hospital Mitchell learned that he will recover and that the tracks he lay on is the South Bend, St. Joseph & Southern railroad over which no train has passed in seven years.

FIFTH GUSHER OF YEAR FLOWS WILD IN OKLAHOMA CITY

Breaks Loose After Being Shut In for About Two Hours

GREATER MENACE THAN FAMOUS MARY SUDIK

Scores of Residents to Share Jointly in Profits of Wells

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 21. (AP)—After being shut in about two hours this afternoon because sand choked the separators the Reynolds-Unruh No. 1 Reynolds-Evans, in sw sw nw 1-11-3w, started sand cutting so badly that connections below the master gate gave way and production was running wild.

At first the flow was going about half way up the derrick and was covering the countryside, but this was partly remedied by shutting in the two gates. The well then started flowing wild in the cellar. All roads near the wild gusher were blocked.

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 21 (UP)—The city field's fifth wild oil well of the year was deprived of its destructive liberty early tonight.

After blowing out of control more than two hours, the No. 1 Community well of Reynolds-Unruh company was shut in by crews.

Town Organized As Memorial to Okla. Pioneers

INDIAN TRADING POST, Pawnee, Okla., June 21. (UP)—The Municipal Organization of Oldtown, constructed as a memorial to the old West by Maj. Gordon W. Lillie, has been effected.

"Politics, religion or qualifications did not enter in the election," Major Lillie said in announcing the officials.

Oldtown was constructed after the fashion of pioneer posts of 50 years ago which were familiar to the veteran showman in his youthful days.

The election was held at the call of Gov. W. J. Holloway.

Major Lillie was elected mayor, adding another distinction to his many titles. A city clerk, peace justice, fire chief, street commissioner, marshal and aldermen were elected. A chamber of commerce was organized, adding a modern touch to the frontier town.

GANGSTERS MIX THEIR SIGNALS

INDIANA HARBOR, Ind., June 21. (US)—John Alban, a reputable merchant, was in a serious condition today from gangsters' bullets. It was the man with whom he was talking on the street, a gambler, who was to be "put on the spot," but in some way signals were mixed.

It was just one of those mistakes that will happen.

HORRIFIED SPECTATORS WATCH MAD MAN LEAP TO DEATH AFTER HURLING FIVE OVER PRECIPICE

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 21. (UP)—Raymond Spang, a mad man just released from a sanitarium, took his wife and four children to the top of a tall cliff near New Haven today and threw them to their deaths.

He followed them in a final leap, while horrified spectators at the bottom of the precipice and firemen at the top stood by, unable to intervene.

The homicidal maniac had been released last night from the sanitarium. He gathered his family—two girls and two boys and his wife—and marshaled them for a picnic in the country in celebration of his release.

The cunning of derangement gave the happy family no inkling of the impending tragedy. Spang apparently was normal as he led them through the streets of Westville, suburb of New Haven, and started to climb up the summit of West rock, one of the beauty spots of Connecticut.

Wife Goes First

The long winding paths lead to the top of a tall cliff from which the countryside for miles is visible.

Apparently he caught his wife, Gertrude, at a moment when she was at the edge of the dizzy precipice. Others on the top of the plateau said they saw him kick her headlong over the brink.

Robert Cahill and four companions were witnesses of the start of the tragedy. Too far away to intervene, they saw Spang, as his wife's body turned over and over in her fall, turn to the nearest of the paralyzed children, pick the child in his arms and hurl the body over the precipice.

He moved so swiftly that the others were unable to run away.

GOODSPEED TRIAL GOES INTO SECOND WEEK HENRIETTA

Most of Saturday Devoted To Introduction Character Witnesses

STATE TO CONTINUE REBUTTAL ON MONDAY

Much Conflicting Testimony Arises in Course Of Trial

HENRIETTA, Texas, June 21.—Testimony dragged slowly Saturday afternoon as the first week of the trial of Carl Goodspeed, charged by indictment with the death of A. R. Gooch, Nocona city marshal, came to a close. Most of Saturday was devoted to hearing Denton and Montague county witnesses, who testified as to the good reputation of the slain officer.

State attorneys said at the close of the Saturday afternoon session that they would continue with rebuttal testimony Monday morning and court room opinion was that it would require all of Monday to complete the evidence in the case.

Cross examination of the state witnesses was tedious and objections were frequent. A number of Denton county officials were among the witnesses questioned concerning Gooch's character Saturday.

Opens Wednesday

Testimony in the case started Wednesday morning and has continued through the week with few intervals. More than 200 witnesses were summoned in the case and comparatively few of that number have appeared. Defense attorneys were silent about their plans for rebuttal testimony but a number of defense witnesses remain to be called.

The defense rested its case late Friday with the testimony of the defendant and his wife, who testified that Gooch was shot after he had entered their home unannounced and armed.

Through the testimony of peace officers, the state had sought to show that the weapon was placed in Gooch's hand after he was shot. Testimony on this point also conflicted when Mrs. Agnes Stevens, superintendent of the State Training School for Girls at Gainesville, testified that Mrs. Goodspeed had told her that the officer was not armed and he did not enter the house unannounced. Mrs. Goodspeed was recalled and denied the conversation, repeated by Mrs. Stevens.

RECOVER BODIES OF SIX OF EIGHT LOST LAKE ERIE TRAGEDY

TOLEDO, Ohio, June 21. (UP)—The bodies of six of the eight victims of last Sunday's boating tragedy have been picked out of Lake Erie, but officials tonight were no nearer solution of the mystery of their death.

The body of John Liptak, 24, pilot of the speedboat in which the eight set out for Pelee island a week ago, was found earlier in the week. The five found today were: Charles H. Nauts, collector of internal revenue; Henry Hainbuch, assistant engineer of Lucas county; Frank Miller, former city water superintendent; Franklin B. Jones, wealthy business man and political leader; and Arthur E. Kruse, president of a large mortuary firm.

Lake Erie still held the bodies of Herbert Nauts, son of the revenue collector, and John Myers, owner of the speedboat.

DELAY RECOMMENDATION ON SITE FOR HOSPITAL

WASHINGTON, June 21. (AP)—Director Hines of the veterans bureau announced tonight that the federal hospitalization board had informed President Hoover of a hearing today on protests against location of the new Texas Veterans' Neuropsychiatric hospital at Waco, but said no final recommendation had been made because the matter had not yet been settled.

Hines said the board had withheld final decision because of requests for more time in which to file additional statements. Following their receipt, he said, final recommendations would be made to Mr. Hoover, the location at Waco would be confirmed or the matter would be re-opened.

Labor Saving

MEMPHIS.—Harry Williams is a true inventor. He has a large lake and it kept him busy feeding the fish in it three times a week. So he placed a light near the water at one place on the lake and lighted it at night. Insects flocked to the light, flew into it and fell into the water to be gobbled up by the fish. Now he has a string of lights all around the lake.

OUSTER SUITS IN SAN ANTONIO CASE

Ready for Early Trial

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, June 21. (AP)—Ouster proceedings against Sheriff Alfonso Newton Jr. may be set down for trial at an early date, while no move for an early trial of Tax Collector R. Neil Campbell had been made in the 94th district court today.

Following filing of quo warranto proceedings against both officers by Assistant Attorney General Jack Blalock Saturday morning, E. B. Simmons, attorney for Newton, announced his client was willing to waive service of citation and all other formalities in interest of an early trial. Blalock joined Simmons in the request and said the state was ready to proceed at any time.

WATCH MAD MAN LEAP TO DEATH

One by one their helpless forms were picked up and tossed over the edge. Helen, the oldest, who was 12 and the strongest, probably went first. The others were Lorraine, 7; Raymond, 5, and baby Donald, 3.

As the last child went down the cliff, Spang saw that the body of his wife had caught on a crag part way down.

While a growing crowd of spectators paused around the foot of the cliff, Spang started to climb down the precipice toward his wife's body, apparently with the intention of dislodging it and throwing it the rest of the way.

It took him a long time to let himself down over the rocky face of the cliff and by the time he had come within 50 feet of the body a fireman and others had reached the top, hoping to intervene.

Long Argument

William Hague, who had arrived at the top with a shotgun, fired four shots at the madman, in the hope that the wife was still alive and he could scare Spang off. The shots went wild, one burst almost hitting a policeman who had started down the dangerous climb after Spang.

But Spang was unable to reach his wife's body. He took refuge on a narrow ledge about 250 feet from the bottom.

A fireman, William Barube, was lowered from the top on a rope toward the ledge. Spang shouted the fireman to halt, or he would leap.

Barube tried to reason with him. Spang, not completely bereft of his senses, was able to answer questions and said he was Raymond Spang of Ansonia.

For 15 dramatic minutes the futile struggle of reason against madness went on. Spang had crouched on his ledge, meditating the leap.

Then, poising himself while the spectators looked on fascinated, he made the sign of the cross and jumped to death.

BIGGEST WELL OF NEW WILLIAMSON COUNTY AREA BLOWS IN FRIDAY NIGHT

TAYLOR, Texas, June 21. (AP)—The biggest well of the new Williamson county oil field blew in shortly before midnight Friday when Andy Anderson's Cameron No. 3 on the M. V. Lawrence tract came in as a gusher with a measure of 15,000 barrel production. It is located west of the discovery well and 14 miles south of Taylor. Anderson has brought in three gushers on this 20-acre tract out of three wells drilled.

TWO MEN IMPLICATED IN KIDNAPING ARE HELD

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 21. (UP)—Two men implicated in an alleged kidnaping of Stephen Exarhos, 39, Kansas City club waiter, were held here tonight, as the story of attempted extortion of $20,000 was checked by authorities.

The purported kidnaping was said to have taken place last Wednesday. The men held were Frank Nichols, 35, and Leo Brown, 34.

Charges of kidnaping were filed against the men late today. They were also questioned in connection with the recent kidnaping of Michael H. Katz, wealthy chain drug store man.

ARRIVE BROOKLYN PIER AFTER TRIP IN OPEN SKIFF

NEW YORK, June 21. (UP)—Eric Johnson, 21, and Florence Smith, 24, of Warwick, Bermuda, arrived at the army base pier in Brooklyn today after a 17-day trip from Bermuda in an open skiff.

The trip in the 15½-foot boat which Johnson himself built several years ago started when he and the girl decided, as they were sitting on the beach, to go for a ride. The ride finally developed into a trip to Nova Scotia where Johnson has relatives.

Neither of the couple had any knowledge of navigation and the only nautical instruments they had was a small pocket compass.

SUSPECT ADMITS BURNING BODY IN CAR AFTER WRECK

MOBILE, Ala., June 21. (AP)—With the return of Harold Herbert Schroeder to Indiana to answer criminal charges, authorities tonight sought to establish the identity of the man whom Schroeder admitted leaving in his automobile when he set fire to it near Indianapolis May 30.

Fear that it might have been Jack Sanders of Pritchard, Ala., was expressed by the boy's father today and efforts were made to trace clues to identify the body. Schroeder told authorities yesterday he did not know the name of the man whom he said he had picked up on the road and whose neck was broken in "an accident" near Terre Haute.

Schroeder's statement that his companion, whose body was burned in his car, had said he was from Massachusetts and was en route to mid-western wheat fields had caused the Sanders boy's father to express the belief that it was his son.

Schroeder, who was captured in a vacant lot here yesterday by E. C. Dykes, garage operator, first declared he would fight extradition but later agreed to return to Indianapolis where a grand jury probably will begin investigation of the strange case Monday.

Indiana authorities had charged that what they termed a "torch murder" was a plot to collect a large sum of insurance they said Schroeder carried.

REMOVE DIAL PHONES FROM SENATE SECTION OF CAPITOL BUILDING

WASHINGTON, June 21. (UP)—Old time manual telephones replaced the modern dial 'phones in the senate wing of the capitol today.

The local telephone company had a corps of 30 installators working last night and today removing the dial 'phones from senatorial offices under direction of a senate resolution introduced by Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia.

The senate resolution was so far-reaching that even private newspaper telephones into the capitol press gallery were changed from dial to manual phones.

Irate Passengers Wait for Missing Operator of Bus

BIG SPRING, Texas, June 21. (AP)—Whether the Interstate Commerce commission or the sheriff had jurisdiction was debated here tonight by 14 persons, holders of $32 through-tickets on a motor bus from Los Angeles to Chicago. They were left stranded here when the bus driver disappeared with the bus, leaving them at a hotel.

Four of the party set out today along the hitch-hiking trail.

Other passengers reported that things went smoothly until the bus reached Sierra Blanca, Texas. There the bus shed a wheel. Repairs were made and Odessa was reached Thursday morning.

The driver said there that the bus again needed repairs. He purchased tickets for the passengers on another bus to Big Spring and followed on in his own bus to make arrangements for them at a hotel. The driver informed them Thursday from Sweetwater he would be here Friday to pick them up but tonight, they were still waiting.

Mark Marshall, director of the state railroad commission's bus division, informed the sheriff here that the bus had no permit to operate in Texas.

DAIRY FARMER KILLS HIS WIFE AND SUICIDES

LEXINGTON, Mo., June 21. (AP)—Gene Vialle, 44, a dairy farmer living near Lexington, killed his wife, Mrs. Jennie Vialle, 40, by slashing her throat and then committed suicide at their home today. Vialle had suffered a nervous breakdown following worry over financial troubles.

Several of the 10 children of the couple were playing in the house at the time of the killings.

Vialle and his family moved here from Osage City, Kan., March 1.

TROSPER PARK OIL WELL BLOWS IN AS GUSHER

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 21 (UP)—The Cromwell-Franklin Trosper park No. 6 well blew in late today as a gusher. It flowed 91 barrels the first 15 minutes.

COMPENSATION BILL TO BE TAKEN UP MONDAY

WASHINGTON, June 21. (US)—Facing a threatened presidential veto unless amended, the senate will take up the liberalized veterans' compensation bill Monday as one of the last major pieces of legislation before adjournment.

BOULDER DAM PROVISION RETAINED IN NEW BILL

WASHINGTON, June 21. (AP)—The $10,660,000 appropriation written into the house deficiency bill for starting work on the Boulder dam project, was retained today by a sub-committee of the senate appropriations committee after arguments for striking it out were heard.

Oil Operator Suicides

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., June 21. (AP)—Doug Wilson, Wichita oil operator, committed suicide in a hotel here today by shooting himself in the head. He died within an hour. Ill health and financial difficulties were believed to have prompted his act.

Deaths

W. L. Stewart

LOS ANGELES, June 21. (AP)—W. L. Stewart, 62, president of the Union Oil company of California, died here today of a heart attack. He had been ill a year.

Police Ignore Note To Continue Search For Taunting Slayer

NEW YORK, June 21. (US)—Although the mad murderer of Queens, in another letter taunting the police, declared today that his ghastly mission is ended, the unrelenting search for him continued unabated tonight.

Detectives expressed the conviction that this latest letter—a madder, more lurid document than any of the others—was intended to persuade them to cease their search in order that the phantom slayer might strike again.

The letter, received by the New York Evening Journal, was a scrambled hodgepodge of moving picture plots and penny dreadfuls. The slayer—3-X—identified himself as a member of the secret order of the Red Diamond of Russia.

He said he drew the king of diamonds at a meeting of the council of that order and thus selected himself to travel to the United States to murder the two men, Joseph Mozynski and Noel Scowel, who were traitors to the order.

By the time the letter had been received, he said, he would be out of the United States en route to Europe.

This did not lessen the terror that has gripped the residents of the College Point and Creedmore sections of Queens, where the two murders were committed.

FLIER COMPLETES TRIP TO MEXICO

not to be, and the colonel arrived about half an hour later.

As soon as Fierro's plane stopped, the crowd of enthusiasts broke through heavy lines of troops and rushed toward it. Factory and locomotive whistles and sirens resounded throughout Mexico City. News of the landing was immediately flashed around the capital.

Flying a Lockheed Sirius monoplane named the Anahuac, a duplicate of that used recently by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in his transcontinental flight, Colonel Fierro clipped almost 12 hours from the time made by Lindbergh between Washington and Mexico City in December, 1927.

Colonel Lindbergh, who has estimated his trip would take 26 hours, required 27 hours and 10 minutes from Bolling field to Mexico City.

Secretary of War Amaro and a number of high army officers arrived at Valbuena just before Fierro landed.

A non-stop flight from New York to Mexico had never before been achieved, and the crowd at the airfield went wild over the man who, since the deaths of Capt. Emillo Carranza at the outset of a similar attempt and of Col. Pablo Sidar more recently, has been looked to by his countrymen to carry Mexico's aviation to new triumphs in the air.

Colonel Fierro was accompanied by a mechanic, Arnulfo Cortes.

Dodges Storm

The Mexican ace's record run was made in clockwork fashion. From Roosevelt field he followed a route by Montgomery, Ala., New Orleans, Brownsville, Texas, and Tampico, Mexico. Between the last two places he successfully dodged a severe electric storm sweeping in from the Gulf of Mexico.

A crowd of less than 10,000 persons, braving the rain that had converted the field into a slippery mass of mud, broke through the police lines and guards of soldiers as his plane came to a halt. Rufino Fierro, the colonel's father, who made his first trip to Mexico City from his home in Chihuahua today, waited until the first burst of enthusiasm had spent itself, and greeted his son inside the hangar.

While the colonel and Cortes were receiving congratulations inside the hangar from President Ortiz Rubio and their families and friends, the crowd tried to storm the doors, yelling for another sight of the aviators. News of the landing was heralded through Mexico City by extra editions of newspapers, whistles and sirens.

Cautious Flier

Colonel Fierro has gained a reputation in the Mexican air corps for being a cool, conservative flier. In all his feats he has kept his head and bided his time. In the present case he waited a fortnight in New York until weather reports were favorable.

After a brief rest in the hangar, the aviators, the president and the other officials got into automobiles. Escorted by a heavy police guard they went off to the city.

Ceremonies in honor of the fliers will be held to a minimum this evening, so that they can get to bed early and rest. During the next few days they will be guests of honor at a series of functions.

Fierro's original plans were, after a brief stay in Mexico City, to continue his flight to South America and thence to Africa and Europe. These, have not yet been approved by the war department.

SIX TROPHIES AWARDED AT DE MOLAY MEETING

SAN ANGELO, Texas, June 21. (UP)—Six trophies were awarded tonight by the order of De Molay at the close of its fourth annual convention. Five hundred state delegates were present.

Both the initiatory degree and the De Molay cups were won by Hillsboro. The chapter had a delegation of 42 members at the meeting, however the attendance prize was awarded to the Dallas group, which numbered 50.

Prizes were awarded the San Antonio drum corps, the Dallas drill patrol and the Waco entry in the comic drill parade. Selection of the next convention city will be made later by the executive officers.

PARIS, June 21. (UP)—The unrestrained revelry of the annual Quatz Arts ball, where nudity vies with brilliant costumes was let loose again tonight at the port Versailles.

Two thousand art students and their models began discarding their clothing this afternoon and gilding their bodies with bronze and gold paint such as that used by the Moorish and Saracen hordes that overran Spain in the 15th century.

By coincidence, the king of Spain arrived during the week in which the art students had chosen as the theme for their ball the capture of Granada from the Moors.

The vast dance hall was decorated like the Alhambra palace. The young men and women participants had to undress for the period and prepare themselves for a Rabelaisian time, inasmuch as the program of the Quatz Arts ball calls for chasing Boandil out of the palace in the midst of wild and joyful acclaim.

Wine must be drunk copiously and love be made without pretense during a long night of revelry.

Americans, as usual, were bidding fantastic prices for tickets, and many faced being thrown out by the inquisitorial committee as interlopers, since the ball is confined properly to the students or residents of the Latin quarter.

Cafes of the quarter swarmed since noon with semi-nude queens, bearded moors and men and women in various stages of dress and undress. They were forced to submit to close inspection by the police, who proclaimed that no costumes smaller than a pocket handkerchief would be allowed in the streets.

Once inside the "Alhambra," the festive Saracens and Spaniards had carte blanche to please themselves.

BYRD WELCOMED TO VIRGINIA HOME

burst of cheering that continued unbroken until he passed out to a waiting automobile where other thousands, unable to enter the station, took up the cheering. Through the tumult could be heard the cry "Hello Dick" as some personal friend sought to break through the cheering with a personal greeting.

Admiral Waves Greeting

The solid phalanx started as the admiral waved a greeting to the crowd. Along streets gay with flags, streamers and bunting the admiral's automobile wound its way to Capitol square and the executive mansion.

With the Richmond light infantry blues, a famous regiment and his escort in New York, leading the way, Admiral Byrd once more rode through the milling thousands to lay a wreath on the monument of another great Virginian and explorer, Matthew Fontane Maury, "Pathfinder of the Seas." Here he reviewed his escort—Virginians all—while thousands of admirers joined in the greatest ovation ever given a son of the Old Dominion.

Tired but happy, the admiral retired after the ceremony to "Laburnum," home of John Stewart Bryan, who was also his host after his north pole flight, for a dinner with his immediate family before accepting a sword of honor, wrought in gold and silver, as the gift of his native state.

Looking for Jobs

NEW YORK, June 21. (AP)—Some of the members of the Byrd antarctic expedition are looking for jobs. An employment bureau was opened for them today at a midtown hotel.

Among them are aviation mechanics, machinists, carpenters and surveyors. Most of them served the expedition voluntarily or at minimum salaries, and jobs they left to go exploring are now filled by others.

Like Egg in Storage

WASHINGTON, June 21. (UP)—"I feel like an egg that has been in cold storage for two years," Paul Siple, Boy Scout who accompanied Admiral Byrd on the south polar expedition, told a Boy Scout audience here today.

The ceremony will take place at Gibson's Sagus ranch next Friday evening, the couple said.

JAMES V. ALLRED SPEAKS WEDNESDAY ON STATION KGKO

James V. Allred, Wichita Falls attorney is to speak at 8:30 Wednesday evening over station KGKO in the interest of his campaign for attorney general, it was announced here Saturday. It will be Mr. Allred's first address in his home-town since he opener his campaign several weeks ago.

He will return here Wednesday from a short tour of the western section of Texas. He spoke Saturday afternoon at Celina and Saturday night at Farmersville, and was to return to Wichita Falls, Sunday morning.

His appearances in Collin county Saturday wound up a swing through southern and central Texas which carried him into several of the towns in the Rio Grande valley, into Harris county and the southeastern section of the state.

He planned to leave here by Safeway plane Sunday afternoon for Sweetwater where he will take the train for El Paso for a two-day stay before his return to Wichita Falls for his address, Wednesday evening.

HIGHEST COURT TO GET BOLTER TEST and the others, it was indicated, may attack the legality of all proceedings in the executive committee meeting on the contention that a quorum was not present at the time.

Condemn Committee

Further echoes from the failure the county committee to approve the printing of Ogle's and other's names on the ticket were heard Friday night when resolutions "condemning" the committee's action were adopted at a pie supper at the Valley View school. The resolutions were presented by C. C. Hudson, Iowa Park publisher, and were adopted without a dissenting vote although, according to those present at the meeting, most of those there at the time did not vote.

Various candidates, it was explained, had been invited to the meeting with the explanation that they would be given opportunity to speak briefly in behalf of their claims. John P. Marrs, county judge, presided at the request of C. R. Wofford, it was added.

Mr. Hudson, according to those present, presented the resolution condemning the failure of the county committee to approve the printing of the names at the conclusion of the candidates' talks.

Ben G. Oneal, Wichita Falls attorney and candidate for the state senate, arose immediately after the vote was taken, declared that he did not wish the action to be considered binding upon him and added that it is his desire to conduct a campaign which will avoid partisan dissension within the party.

Joe P. Hatchitt, a candidate for the legislature, then declared that he echoed Mr. Oneal's assertions. E. E. Fischer, a candidate for judge of the county court at law, next sought the floor, but Judge Marrs, ruling that the entire discussion was out of order, cleared the way for a late adjournment.

FIFTH GUSHER OF YEAR FLOWS WILD

Although the well apparently lacked the violence of the famous Mary Sudik gusher that flowed out of control 11 days, it was considered a greater menace. It was located two blocks south of the industrial section of the city's southern suburb at the end of Eastern avenue and only one-half mile north of the rich Lowery lease of the Wirt Franklin Oil company, on which is a large gasoline storage plant.

Pebbles were thrown against nearby workers' shacks and only after two hours of frantic work was the crew able to check the flow. At 6:30 p. m., drillers said the gusher was under control and pipe lines to storage tanks were laid again.

Other Wild Wells

The Mary Sudik, the Sigmon, Venci gushers and a Sinclair gasser have proved spectacles this year by their unruly antics which defied all efforts of crews working with the best known equipment.

Proximity of the well to the city prompted a renewal of discussion of city drilling around which a controversy is being waged. Scores of blocks in this vicinity have been leased for drilling. Townlot owners, envisioning great wealth from oil under their homes, have razed their houses to make room for the derricks. City officials contested their right to drill and scores of court suits testing the city's right to restrict oil development have resulted.

Among the spectators at the wild Community well, in which a score of residents pooled their interest and will receive joint profits, were O. A. Campbell and Bliss Kelly, officials of the city planning commission. They were to leave tonight for Denver, where they will seek counsel at the national convention of city planners on curtailment of city oil development.

Among the four gushers that came in today was the Vincent Sudik No. 1 well. This well was named after the husband of Mary Sudik, whose name was given the famous wild gusher.

THREE MEN SENTENCED TO LIFE ARE RELEASED WRONGFULLY CONVICTED

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21. (US)—Freedom! Home! Friends!

The steel barred gate at San Quentin clicked joyously this morning as it opened this vista to three men sentenced to life captivity within its walls.

Mike Garvey, Harry Lesher and Phil Rohan, wrongfully convicted of a murder in Los Angeles, stepped through the portal and waited impatiently while the details of their release were being arranged in the outer offices. They had been pardoned by Gov. C. C. Young.

Two of them hurried to a train for Los Angeles to greet their mother Mrs. C. E. Lesher 129 North Sichel street, to whom they gave the credit of the long fight for their freedom. These were Lesher and Rohan, half brothers. Garvey accompanied them. Later he will go to Afton, Wyo., to rejoin his wife and child. He will bring them to Los Angeles where the three men will go into the garage business.

BROKER WHO RAN FEW DOLLARS INTO FORTUNE OF $15,000,000 IS ARRESTED FOR GRAND LARCENY

NEW YORK, June 21. (AP)—Once considered a genius in the financial world, Harold R. Ryder, 37, whose dissipations were alleged to have sent his brokerage firm to the wall, was arrested tonight on a warrant charging grand larceny.

Ryder's partners in the firm of Woody & Co., which was suspended Thursday by the New York stock exchange, specifically alleged that he misappropriated $95,687 entrusted him to purchase securities.

When their firm was suspended, they said they could find only a few hundred dollars assets and more than $3,000,000 in liabilities. Ryder admitted that he handled some $7,000,000 of the firm's funds during the past eight months.

Ryder was looked upon with respect "in the street" and was credited with having run a few dollars into a fortune that at one time was estimated at $15,000,000. Recently he became a familiar figure in Broadway's night life and was hailed as a benefactor of chorus girls and colleges.

According to friends Ryder blamed the crash of his firm on the sharp decline in value of Stein Cosmetic stock, which fell from 23 to 8. He and Frank Stoltz, president of the Stein company, were said to have formed a pool in the stock.

Last April Ryder gave Union college at Schenectady $200,000 for a new electrical laboratory. The cornerstone of Ryder hall was laid a few days ago.

POLICE IN CHICAGO READY FOR ACTION AS CLUES DEVELOP

'IRON MAN' ALCOCK REORGANIZES FORCES

Many New Orders Put Into Effect Under New Regime

CHICAGO, June 21. (UP)—"Iron Man" John Alcock stripped his reorganized police for action tonight as the science of ballistics pointed to a solution of the murder of Alfred J. Lingle, reporter victim of a gang assassin.

Capture of Frank Foster, tight-lipped sharpshooter ally of "Scarface" Al Capone, was the immediate object of the rejuvenated police department, for the stubby pistol that ended the life of the reporter almost two weeks ago was traced to him by ballistics experts. By a secret process the chemists brought out the numbers on the pistol which had been filed away by the killer.

First the pistol was traced to Peter von Frantizius, gun dealer to whom the machine guns belonging to Fred Burke, St. Valentine's massacre suspect, were traced. The dealer, whose store is under the hotel where Foster lived, admitted selling the gun to the gangster several months ago.

Champion Marksman

Foster has the reputation of being one of the best marksmen in gangland, yielding the name of champion only to Ralph Sheldon, tubercular gang chief who could bury a dime at 30 paces with a .45 caliber automatic pistol. He also is known as a valuable member of the Capone gang because of his taciturnity. Police found he had fled from Chicago after the Lingle murder.

After transferring 10 captains and reducing 700 of the 900 detectives to uniformed patrolmen, acting Police Commissioner Alcock ordered his men to leave their Sam Browne belts at home hereafter and abolished the summer uniforms of khaki, although those who have them may wear them out.

"The belts and shoulder straps are too handy for a hoodlum to grab in a fist fight," Alcock said of the Sam Browne belts, "and I expect there will be many fist fights from now on."

Among other orders the veteran police chief issued today were that policemen must quit smoking on their beats, keep their coats buttoned and "stand like a soldier" at all times.

Every member of the force was ordered to buy a blue uniform whether he is on patrol duty or not.

"Policemen ought to wear blue, people expect it and it has become a mark of identification," the chief explained.

Milk-Ice Fund Helps Family Afflicted by Two Cases Pneumonia

To have one person in the family suffering with pneumonia is enough to throw almost any family into uncomfortable circumstances for a time. Imagine, then, the serious situation in one Wichita Falls family, none too prosperous to begin with, where both mother and father were ill with pneumonia at the same time!

Three small children, twin girls and a baby, were trying to take care of the house when Mrs. Effie McHam, family relief secretary, found the family. The man had been working at the mill until stricken. There was no milk in the house, and no money with which to buy milk or ice.

Contributions up to Saturday had brought the Times and Record News Milk and Ice fund, only hope for such unfortunates, to a total of $269.08. New doners are:

State Plans to Invoke Law Against Mob Rule as 14 Men Charged With Sherman Riot Face Trial in Dallas

DALLAS, June 21. (UP)—With prosecutors avowing they will invoke the law against mob rule, preparations were made today for the arraignment Monday of 14 Grayson county men, indicted in connection with the lynching of George Hughes, negro, and the burning of the courthouse at Sherman on May 9 last.

Nine of the 14 men are in the Dallas county jail, and five have made bonds of $5,000 each. The cases were brought here on a change of venue. Those under indictment are Alvin Morgan, Cleo Wolfe, C. E. Briggs, Jeff (Slim) Jones, Jim May, Bill Sofey, Horace Reynolds, Jimmie Arnold, Lesslie Cole and J. B. McCastlond, all of Sherman; Roy Allen, Web Purdom, Leonard (Baldy) O'Neal and Jess Roper, all of Van Alstyne.

Assistant Attorney General W. A. Wade, whom Gov. Dan Moody sent to Sherman during the disturbances on May 9 and 10, will assist District Attorney Wm. McGraw of Dallas county in the prosecutions.

The burning of the courthouse and a subsequent reign of terror in the negro district of Sherman attracted wide attention. National guardsmen sent to Sherman by Governor Moody to quell the riot were fired on. The negro, under indictment for assaulting a white woman, was burned to death in the courthouse by angry mob members.

The cases are all set for hearing in Judge Charles A. Pippen's court. It is likely that continuances will be asked by defense attorneys, and may be granted.

Punitive measures have never followed lynching parties in Texas before, but the nature of the disturbances at Sherman aroused many citizens of Grayson county, and grand jury action was demanded.

Fifteen or twenty persons can stand on the inside platform in the head of the Statue of Liberty.

LOCAL LAW SCHOOL EMPLOYS NEW WAY OF QUICK LEARNING

An entirely new method of teaching law to students is employed by the Laverne Somerville Law school whereby the pupils take the course in spare time and diplomas are given in the form of certificates for practicing law after passing the bar examination, it is announced. Twenty graduates finished the course and took the state bar examination during the past week.

The school was organized here by Laverne Somerville, practicing attorney, who discovered a new method of quick learning through the necessity of having to obtain an education in spare time, in January, 1929. More than 100 students were enrolled at the end of the term ending this month. The students include people from every class of life in the city, from boys washing dishes in restaurants to a former editor of a daily newspaper.

The course seeks to increase the memory capacity of the student by intense concentration through a method of increasing the reading speed. The courses include a reading course supplemented with lectures two nights each week on the sixth floor of the First National bank building. The reading course calls for 30,000 pages of material laid out to fit the individual need of each pupil, depending on the amount of preparatory work. A pleading and practice course, primarily intended for graduates of law courses, is included in the school. Several of the practicing lawyers of the city act as instructors in the courses.

A complete practical knowledge of law can be obtained in from three months to a year's time through the method of quick learning, depending on the individual capabilities of the student, Mr. Somerville stated. A number of graduates of the school have passed the bar examination and are practicing lawyers now, he said. The next term of the school begins Tuesday, June 24.

With Candidates Governor's Race

Miller at La Grange

LA GRANGE, Texas, June 21. (UP)—It is the first duty of the legislature and governor to see to a redistribution of taxes so they will fall heaviest upon those best able to pay, Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller told the voters of La Grange this afternoon where he spoke in the interest of his candidacy for governor. He expressed opposition to an increase in taxation and criticized the proposed $350,000,000 road bond program.

"You know where taxes weigh heaviest," he said. "It is upon the little fellow out there trying to put up a home or buy a small farm; it is upon the man whose cattle are in sight and cannot escape it. The foundation of this state was laid by those who tilled the soil and built up the great stock interests. If I am elected governor, I shall seek to remedy the unjust burden of taxation which has weighed upon them."

Highways, which the candidate declared to be one of the greatest developers of the state, should be built upon an absolute cash basis, he said.

Love at Lubbock

LUBBOCK, Texas, June 21. (UP)—Continuing his swing through West Texas, Senator Thomas B. Love spoke here this afternoon in behalf of his candidacy for governor. He stressed the need for the fullest development of the educational system of Texas.

"Practicing the strictest economy and without wasting any of the people's money, I favor placing the educational institutions of Texas on the highest plane of service and efficiency," Love said.

He also touched upon the "attempt to disfranchise the majority of West Texas voters by keeping the names of anti-Smith Democrats off the ballot."

He will remain in West Texas about a week, and will speak next Monday night in El Paso.

Burleson Favors Young

AUSTIN, June 21. (UP)—Former Postmaster General A. S. Burleson tonight issued a statement urging the election of former Congressman James Young of Kaufman as governor.

Of the dozen candidates in the race, Burleson said, only three have a chance to win against Young. Without mentioning any names, he said one of these fought the party head, another remained silent when the party needed every available voice and the third "sulked."

Mayfield at Longview

LONGVIEW, Texas, June 21. (UP)—Modernization of the tax system to bring about a more equitable distribution, rigid enforcement of the prohibition law, a better prison system, an elective highway commission and consideration of labor and education were among the planks in his gubernatorial platform Earle B. Mayfield discussed at a political rally here this afternoon.

Young at Cooper

COOPER, Texas, June 21. (UP)—Renewing his attack on Clint Small a fellow candidate for governor, James Young of Kaufman said here this afternoon that Small's solution to the economic problem is for the farmer to eat less, wear less and work more to let the sulphur, oil and gas interests make big profits without fair taxation. Young would have natural resources and industries taxed proportionate to farms, homes and ranches.

FOURTEEN OPIUM DENS RAIDED BY NEWARK OFFICERS

NEWARK, N. J., June 21. (INS)—Armed with axes and sledge hammers, police and firemen staged a spectacular "surprise" raid in Newark's Chinatown early today, battering their way through doors into 14 opium dens, arresting 75 Chinese and seizing drugs valued at $20,000.

Great excitement prevailed in the "hop joints" as 40 policemen and detectives, and a like number of firemen, descended upon Chinatown, taking the inmates of the opium dens completely by surprise. The raid had been planned for a week. Before word could spread by means of the underworld's "grape vine" system the police were wrecking the entrances to the dope dens. In some places it was necessary to smash through three or four doors to reach the opium "hide outs."

Several times it was necessary for firemen to run ladders up to second stories and entrance was made in this manner.

Half a dozen patrol wagons made trips back and forth from Chinatown to police headquarters for almost two hours. Into the "paddy wagons" were loaded the Chinese prisoners and the drugs and equipment seized in the dens.

Benjamin Stoddert of Maryland was the first secretary of the navy. He entered upon his duties June 18, 1798.

LAMONT DECRIES PROTESTS AGAINST NEW TARIFF LAW

Measure Will Finally Be Approved by Foreign Nations He Says

THIRD CABINET MEMBER TO REPLY TO PROTESTS

Proposal for Handling Complaints New in Procedure

WASHINGTON, June 21. (INS)—Foreign protests against the new Smoot-Hawley tariff were decried by Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont today.

The measure eventually will be approved by all foreign nations, he said, for these reasons:

First—The creation of a semi-judicial body in the reorganized tariff commission to hear complaints from foreign countries and rectify rates;

Second—The growth of both exports and imports in spite of increases in previous tariffs;

Third—The relatively small percentage of our imports to which the protests of our foreign friends apply;

Fourth—The availability of a workable, flexible clause to adjust unfair situations.

Third Defense

Secretary Lamont's statement was the third authoritative defense of the tariff made by cabinet officers in the last few days to offset the rising tide of foreign protestations.

President Hoover himself led the appeal for the bill which he signed and Secretary of State Stimson, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and finally Secretary Lamont have fallen in line to declare foreign protests will be speedily adjusted under the new flexible provision.

In his spirited defense of the 1930 tariff the secretary pointed to the benefits of the new flexible clause.

He said:

"The old one did not work very well. The present clause is more effective in that the commissioners have greater latitude at arriving at differences in costs of production as a basis for adjusting rates.

"If a foreign country believes that any of our tariffs are unduly high and prevent competitive shipment into the United States it can represent its case to the reorganized tariff commission, which in collaboration with the president has the power if the complaint is justified, to rectify the rates.

New Procedure

"This new proposal for dealing with such cases is unique in the world's tariff procedure. No other nation has offered us similar opportunity to present our case where, as often has happened, we believe its duties were unduly high and discriminatory against it. This plan should enable us to meet in a fair manner outstanding cases involving foreign interests."

Tariff revision upward has been the rule in all foreign countries, the secretary declared. He added:

"Much has been made of the protests presented by various foreign nations during the recent discussion. There is nothing new in such protests. Every country, including our own, shows concern when other countries propose increasing their tariffs.

"The United States is not alone among nations in making changes in its tariff levels. Forty of 50 countries have made general upward revisions since 1925, including nearly all of those countries which have protested against the proposals to increase our rates."

Crowd Interest At Highest Pitch Court Adjourns

LOS ANGELES, June 21. (UP)—Like avid readers of crime fiction left in suspense by an unfinished episode of a continued story, followers of the unusual trial in which Otto Sanhuber is accused of slaying Fred Oesterreich, are stranded until Monday at an exciting point in this real life plot.

The judge heightened interest in the trial by reciting to the jury parts of the transcript of Sanhuber's testimony before the grand jury. It was this testimony that the defense had fought bitterly to keep out of the present record.

The document related how Sanhuber, then a young sewing machine salesman in Milwaukee, fell in love with Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich, the widow of the slain man. It related that out of a desire to be near the woman, he took up residence in the attic of the Oesterreich home.

As the Milwaukee garment manufacturer gained wealth, his residences in Milwaukee became finer and each time Sanhuber, under cover of darkness moved along with the Oesterreich family. But though his garrets grew more spacious they remained just barren, dark attic.

Finally Oesterreich retired and moved to California. Sanhuber followed, the narrative revealed, and was living in the attic of the residence in which the manufacturer was murdered Aug. 22, 1922.

"And now," read the jurist, "calling your attention to the night of the shooting of Mr. Oesterreich—"

The crowd leaned forward for the denouement, but Judge Hardy got no further. His adjournment was anticlimaxed. It was another case of "continued until next week."

LAW DOES NOT CONFLICT RULES ATTORNEY GENERAL

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 21. (UP)—The state statute providing that the game and fish commission may pay a bounty for the killing of predatory animals where such action is considered necessary does not repeal another statute providing that the commission may give financial aid to counties to a maximum of $200 annually for reimbursement for bounties, Atty. Gen. J. Berry King said today in an opinion to State Game Warden Van H. Montgomery.

60-Year Courtship

MENOMINEE, Wis.—After living within three blocks of each other here for nearly 60 years, Anton Wick, 69, and Serena Dahl, 67, are now man and wife. The courtship ran throughout the couple's childhood, and ever since the days of their "puppy love" Wick courted his bride.

Pay for Jail Bed

LONDON—When William George Thompson, 81, describing himself as a doctor, was arrested for obtaining money under false pretenses, he asked for a bed in the Guildhall jail. He was told that if he asked for a bed at the police station he would have to pay for it, as a bed was considered a luxury in the jail.

IMPORTANT FARMER SHOULD KNOW HOW TO MARKET CROPS

WASHINGTON, June 21. (INS)—It is fully as important for a farmer to know how to market crops efficiently as it is to produce them efficiently, James C. Stone, vice chairman of the federal farm board told farm boys and girls, through their 4-H clubs, here today.

"For the most part farmers in the past have been content to produce to the limit and let someone else do the marketing," he said. "They have continued to grow blindly, without regard to what their neighbors are doing, with the result that agriculture has not kept pace financially with other industries, which have become highly organized.

The "federal farm board was created to help correct this disparity. Congress said the way for agriculture to gain economic equality is through cooperation on the part of farmers. The board is trying to help the farmers get organized so that they, acting together, may control the production and marketing of their crops and thereby get a fair price for them. It is our opinion that cooperation is the only thing that offers real hope for agricultural prosperity."

Stone said members of the 4-H clubs would be of great assistance to the farm board in developing this program, which will enable farmers, through collective action, to put agriculture on a sound financial basis.

"We feel that the future prosperity of American agriculture rests largely in the hands of the 4-H clubs," he said.

THREE SUSPECTS HELD AS RESULT OF ROBBERY

SEMINOLE, Okla., June 21. (UP)—Three suspects arrested in connection with the $2,700 robbery of the First National bank of Padin, near here, Friday, were held here tonight for questioning by county officers and bank officials. The men held gave their names as Pete Taylor, E. B. Taylor and "Slicker" Moss. E. B. Massey, bank bookkeeper, failed to identify the trio. Other bank officials were to view the suspects.

DELAY IN EXTRADITION OF HARPER FROM MEXICO CITY

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 21. (UP)—Further delay in the extradition of Joy P. Harper from Mexico City to Oklahoma City on an automobile theft charge was seen today in a wire sent Gov. W. J. Holloway by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson.

Stimson said that Mexican officials had advised that the necessary case for extradition had not been made out.

Deputy Sheriff Kean returned here last week after waiting three months at the Mexican capital to receive the prisoner.

MACNIDER GETS CANADIAN POST

Nomination Confirmed by United States Senate

WASHINGTON, June 21. (INS)—A brief, bitter dispute was ended today, with Hanford MacNider of Iowa confirmed by the senate as minister to Canada over the vigorous "personal" opposition of Senator Smith D. Brookhart, Republican of Iowa.

MacNider was reported to the senate by its foreign relations committee "without recommendation" either for or against his confirmation, because Brookhart field opposition on "personal grounds."

The debate in the senate, culminating in confirmation, aired the bitterness between the two Iowans, with Brookhart declaring MacNider led "drunken revels" at American Legion conventions," and Senator Steck, Democrat of Iowa, defending the appointee.

MacNider led the Republican revolt against Brookhart in 1924 which resulted in the election of Steck.

Brookhart declared he opposed MacNider because, aside from personal feeling, he did not believe he was "fitted for any office."

"Too many American Legion conventions have just been drunken revels," said Brookhart. "I have seen this man leading those revels. I know he is to blame for that more than any man in the whole American Legion."

Steck denied Brookhart's charges. "I cannot let that go by unchallenged," said he. "I care nothing for political differences between my colleague and MacNider.

"But when he infers MacNider is a drunkard I will say he does not know what he is talking about. I admit MacNider did drink occasionally, as thousands inside and outside of the senate have done.

"When MacNider came into public life he ceased to drink and has been an absolute teetotaler for the last four years. I defy anyone to deny that."

Accepts Chairmanship

NEW YORK, June 21. (INS)—Ogden H. Hammond, ex-ambassador to Spain, today accepted the chairmanship of the national prison emergency commission, at the request of the governors of 21 states a campaign for a fund for the reorganization of state prisons will be conducted by the commission.

LEADERS IN INDIA WOULD STOP WORK PROTEST ARRESTS

BOMBAY, India, June 21. (UP)—Leaders of the independence campaign were attempting tonight to enforce a complete and paralyzing hartal (cessation of work) as a protest against action of police in breaking up a great demonstration at the Esplanade Maida, where approximately 500 persons, including seven women, were injured.

For the first time since the Mahatma Gandhi's home rule campaign was inaugurated, women stood in the front ranks of the demonstrators and defied police, calling out that they did not fear the dangers of fighting.

They formed cordons around the sikh volunteers who led the procession and demonstration and all displayed great courage in facing the repeated charges of almost 500 foot and mounted police. The women sang and waved flags despite their injuries, because, as Mrs. Gokhale, their leader and a member of the city corporation, explained to the police commissioner, "they do not mind the blows of the lathis," (bamboo sticks). Mrs. Gokhale refused the commissioner's request that the women leave the esplanade.

Six women were taken to the hospitals for treatment after the demonstrators had been driven from the Esplanade Maidan.

The police manifestly did not strike the women intentionally, reaching over their heads in an effort to strike the men demonstrators. The women were injured accidentally.

The demonstration was inspired by the veteran independence leader, Pandit Motilal Nehru, whose presence here caused renewed tension last night. The police had forbidden any assembly or parade at the Esplanade Maidan, but congress leaders organized a procession there during the night.

TWO SERIOUSLY INJURED IN FIGHT IN OKLAHOMA

M'ALESTER, Okla., June 21. (UP)—City Marshal Bert Kelly of Quinton and Jim Wallace were seriously injured today in a fight which occurred at the Wallace home in Quinton.

Wallace, said to have had trouble with his wife, called Kelly. Kelly received several stab wounds when he attempted to arrest Wallace. Wallace was shot three times. He was brought to the county jail here.

DR. GROSS BACK FROM VETERINARY COURSE

Dr. Fred Gross, local veterinarian, has returned from A. & M. college at College Station, Texas, where he attended the annual short course in veterinary medicine and surgery.

Dr. Gross, while there, secured the services of Dr. B. Young, A. & M. graduate, as his assistant at his cat and dog hospital here during the summer months.

Victoria County Gets Big Gasser.

BEEVILLE, Texas, June 21. (AP)—Victoria county was assured a new gas field today after the Llon Oil and Refining company's No. 2 McFadden, in the southern end of the county, was completed yesterday at 3838 to 3843 feet as an estimated 35,000,000 to 50,000,000 cubic foot gasser.

Celebration Here Of June 'Teenth Leads to Charge

The alleged failure of a negro to return with an automobile he is accused of having borrowed for a "Juneteenth" holiday led Saturday afternoon to the filing of a complaint charging him with theft by bailee over $50.

Roy Broadwell, the negro, according to information given by George W. Anderson, assistant district attorney, is being held by Dallas authorities at the request of Wichita Falls police.

The arrest was asked, police said, after K. Arnold had complained that Broadwell had borrowed an automobile and had failed to return with it.

EVENING SERVICES OF FIRST CHRISTIAN TO BE HELD OUTDOORS

With the coming of summer, the First Christian church will inaugurate its evening services on the lawn north of the church starting today. Dr. H. T. Wood's text will be, "Ecclesiastes, the Play With Five Scenes." Seats have been provided so the congregation will be able to enjoy the evening sermons during the hot months.

MUCH LEGISLATION CAUGHT IN CLOSING JAM OF CONGRESS

Republican Leaders Hope To Adjourn for Summer By End of Week

BITTER FIGHT WAGED ON CRIME COMMISSION

World War Veterans Bill To Be Signed Before Adjournment

WASHINGTON, June 21. (UP)—The prohibition and crime investigations of the Wickersham law enforcement commission and many major items of legislation became involved tonight in the usual hazardous closing jam of congress.

Although there are many prospective fights in the offing as there are measures to be considered, Republican Senate Leader Watson and his assistant, Senator McNary, announced hope of adjourning congress for the summer recess by the end of next week.

However, Speaker of the House Longworth expressed the opinion it would be "utterly impossible" to adjourn by the coming Saturday, as leaders had hoped, after a canvass of the situation with members of the house steering committee which determines legislative procedure.

He said he did not think the house would adjourn until the world war veterans' bill is acted upon by President Hoover, as members of that body, along with many senators, want to be here in case the president vetoes the measure. Longworth said after the senate votes Monday it would take at least two or three days to adjust differences between house and senate bills before the measure can be sent to the White House.

Appropriation Cut

The bitterest of the impending contests centers around the appropriation contained in the second deficiency supply bill for the work of the law enforcement commission after June 30.

The administration is seeking a $259,000 appropriation to continue the commission for another year. This item was stricken from the second deficiency bill in the house yesterday on a point of order. It was eliminated because it was an appropriation not previously authorized as is required by house and senate rules.

The senate appropriations subcommittee today adopted an amendment to the bill cutting the proposed fund to $50,000 and specifically directing the commission to spend the money exclusively investigating prohibition and not on any of the many other phases of crime and law enforcement which the commission has been studying. The vote was six to one with Senator Jones, Republican, Washington, favoring the full $250,000.

"I do not think they ought to have a cent, but I was willing to accept the $50,000 fund when it was made to apply directly to prohibition," said Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, who had earlier declared he would fight to prevent any appropriation at all.

Glass Wages Fight

Glass has announced that he will make the same point of order against the appropriation as resulted in it being eliminated from the bill in the house.

Whether President Hoover's prohibition investigation continues or whether it is abruptly halted at this stage will then be up to Vice President Curtis, who will rule on the point of order.

Outlook for the other matters caught in the jam appear to be almost as dark as for the prohtibition commission appropriation. It appears likely that only the world war veterans' pension bill will be salvaged from the wreckage. A vote on it is assured for 5 p. m. Monday in the senate.

Watson states he will then take up the Parker bus bill, but a strong contest is developing against the measure. It is understood Republican leaders will be satisfied if they can make the bill the unfinished business for the December session of congress.

NEWPORT GOSSIP SAYS PRINCE OF WALES TO SEE AMERICAN RACES

NEWPORT, R. I., June 21. (INS)—Despite denials from England that the Prince of Wales would witness the international yachting race between Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V., and an American defender in the Amelrcan cup races here in September, the rumors that he would be a spectator gained more strength today.

The reports, which sprung up a month ago, were revived following receipt of a message to Mayor Mortimer A. Sullivan that the British cruiser Danae would be in Newport from Sept. 12 to Sept. 22.

Tung Oil

LONDON.—In an effort to cut down American imports of tung oil, that valuable preparation for coating airplane wings and other uses, the British Empire has planted large acreages of tung oil trees in various parts of its holdings. Plantations are now being cultivated in New Zealand, Australia, India and Africa.

TEXAS CENSUS LITTLE BELOW SIX MILLIONS

Total 225 of 254 Counties In the State Show 5,097,457

TEN-YEAR GAIN SHOWS MORE THAN 25 PER CENT

West Texas-Rio Grande Valley Sections Greatest Increases

DALLAS, June 21. (AP)—A Texas population of just less than 6,000,000 was the prospect tonight when the Associated Press compiled census returns from 225 of the 254 counties.

The 225 counties which had completed their returns showed 5,097,457 residents as against a total for Texas of 4,663,228 in the 1920 census. The 10-year increase of the counties which had reported was slightly more than 25 per cent. If the same percentage of increase is shown by the 29 missing counties, the state's population will be approximately 5,875,000.

The 1920 total of the unreported counties was 616,819. Among them were Tarant and Hidalgo. Hidalgo is expected to reveal an immense growth as a result of the development of citrus and truck growing, and Fort Worth is larger than all of Tarrant county was 10 years ago. Several unreported counties are in the Panhandle, one of the districts which grew the most during the past decade.

West Texas Gains

West Texas and the Rio Grande valley were the sections which revealed the greatest population increases. The growth of cities was more pronounced than that of counties.

Harris county, boasting Houston, the largest city in the state, had a greater numerical increase than any other county. The Harris county figure leaped 161,133 to 347,800. Harris thus passed Dallas as the largest county in Texas in population.

A few counties showed increases of several thousand per cent. Crane county jumped from 37 to 2,194, Hockley from 137 to 9,297, Winkler, which contains Wink, from 81 to 6,884 and Hutchison, where Borger is located, from 721 to 14,837.

Brewster county, which has an area one and one half times as great as Rhode Island, Delaware and the Distirct of Columbia combined, had 6,619 residents. That was an increase of 1,797 for the Big Bend county, the largest in Texas in area, which for the first time had a resident for each square mile.

All except 54 of the 225 counties revealed increases. Eastland county showed the largest drop, a decrease of 24,524.

Loving was the least populous county reporting with 195 residents. That, however, was an increase during the decade of more than 100 per cent.

APPROVE FACULTIES OKLAHOMA SCHOOLS CALENDAR ADOPTED

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 21. (UP)—Faculties of the six state teachers colleges, the school for the blind at Muskogee and the state school for the deaf at Sulphur, were approved by the state board of education today.

Faculty members were selected by the presidents of the eight institutions.

The board approved a junior college credit of the Conner State School of Agriculture, Warner; Cameron State School of Agriculture, Lawton; Eastern Oklahoma college, Wilburton, and Bacone college, Muskogee.

Certain subjects given by the Tulsa Business college, Tulsa, were approved to junior college credit.

The course of study for the state teachers college on which officials have been working for the past three years was approved. The rearranged plan makes it possible for teachers to obtain thorough study in any specialized field.

The state deaf school at Sulphur was granted permission to name a new building recently erected there. The building will be named Blattner hall, in honor of Supt. W. J. Blattner of the institution.

The board adopted the calendar for the normal schools which provides that the fall term may start either on Sept. 2 or 8.

Denounces Duce

WILMINGTON, Del.—Benito Mussolini is a "new would-be war lord," according to the Very Rev. J. Francis Tucker, rector of St. Anthony's Catholic church here. His statement was prompted by the premier's recent war-like pronouncements in Milan. "I am persuaded that Italian-Americans will turn a deaf ear to it, and shall do all in my power to aid them," the priest said.

Historical Society Will Search For Hidden Treasure and Evidence Forgotten Romances of Early Days

By HARRY A. STROUD
Secretary Historical Society of Comanche County

LAWTON, Okla., June 21.—Members of the Historical Society of Comanche county start out soon in search of hidden treasure, forgotten romances and age-old ashes of a hundred Spanish camp fires whose bright glows shot shafts of light upon steel-clad cavaliers of a day that is done. Into the alluring and ancient Wichita mountains dim trails, which bob up here and there, will be followed in the hope of finding the exact spots where missionaries erected their chapels and seekers for gold sunk their shafts.

Leading citizens of Lawton are interested in the ancient historical background of the mountains, reputed by geologists to be among the oldest peaks on the face of the earth. For years queer stories of hidden wealth, lost mines and unwritten tragedies have passed from mouth to mouth but never has there been an organized effort to pull aside the veil of mystery which has cloaked these silent sentinels. Even the pioneers who came here in 1901 know little of the background of this locality which has one of the most interesting histories on the American continent.

Stories Fabulous Wealth

Professors of history, leaders in education and those representing many lines of endeavor will cast aside the affairs of the moment to follow the leadership of H. W. Bruce, 73-year-old recluse and prospector, who has tramped the streams of the mountain district since 1893 in his search for hidden wealth. From him comes stories of fabulous treasure buried by Spanish miners and he has found and identified many of the spots upon which they built their villages. Bruce's story of the Wichitas would make of it a fairy land and corroborates the age-old legend of the Wichita Indians. According to their traditions the Great Spirit, after he had created all things, made the first band of Indians. Ascending Mount Scott, known to them as Main mountain, he called his people about him and bestowed upon them many treasures. "I give you the buffalo, the elk and deer for meat" the Great Spirit said. "I give you squaw corn that you may raise crops when animals migrate and I give you the bow and arrow that you may defend yourselves and kill the game. I have created for you these mountains and in them I have placed priceless treasures and much medicine. Many of the things I have placed in this mountain you will not use for countless ages but some day they will prove a blessing to my chosen people."

Having thus spoken the Great Spirit lifted himself aloft in a cloud of smoke and to this day the Indians smoke in reverence to their creator. While Prospector Bruce knows very little of Indian legends he knows the Indian people. He first came to the Wichita mountains in 1893, four years prior to the opening of the Indian country. Previously he had resided in historic old Greer county which has been the subject of litigation between several governments. When he arrived in the Wichitas as a mining prospector he saw only Indians and a few cattlemen who had purchased grazing rights on the reservation. There was no national forest, little law and order and he lived the life of one who loves the hills and would pry into their secrets. He has seen men come and go, he has witnessed the digging of shafts here and there and now all have left but this venerable knight of the sour dough who still clings to the belief there is gold in the mountains. Not only is Prospector Bruce confident that there is gold in the mountains, but he claims to have found almost every metal known to the trade. Gems, including diamonds, emeralds and rubies, too, he contends, have been discovered in times past. Radium, platinum, copper, iron, zinc, lead and silver in addition to fine clays, paint pigments and other unclassified ores have been revealed.

Old Spanish Trail

Points of historic interest are commonplace to this veteran of the plains. He can point to many spots where Spanish villages were located and knows well the route of the old Spanish trail used by cavaliers, miners and missionaries who started the exploration in this district before a permanent colony was founded on the Atlantic coast. The old Spanish trail led from Santa Fe, N. M., into the hills and has been traced as far as Mount Scott, where it apparently ended. A Spanish village of size was located near the spot where Medicine Park today stands as an attraction to tourists from everywhere.

From distinctly two separate sources outcrops a story of Spanish bullion which has been secreted in the mountains. One story has drifted into this country from old Mexico. When the Spaniards were driven from this territory by the French they are reputed to have been forced to abandon valuable mines which they had succeeded in keeping hidden from their foes. On reaching Mexico the miners were ordered to return, gather up what gold they had secured, completely cover their shafts and return. When the miners had destroyed all evidences of their work and had loaded 16 mules down with ore and started on their homeward journey they were attacked by Indians and only one member of the party escaped alive. From this Mexican's descendants has come the story with a partial description as to where the gold was captured by Indians. From the Indians comes a story which tells of having made such a capture. Although both stories are vague and dim because of the passing of time it is possible they may both concern the same battle. A Lawtonian is in possession of a mop which was given his father years ago by an aged Indian which is purported to locate vast wealth which was captured by Indians from Spaniards and hidden away. In those days Indians were more interested in the scalps they secured than in the priceless metals which they took from the invading miners. The historical party will be in possession of this map and will make efforts to check the two stories.

Is this hidden wealth a myth or is it real history? That is the question in the mind of the searchers. Prospector Bruce believes the mines did exist and is confident that the story of the Indian massacre is true.

Willing to Repay

LONDON.—Magistrate C. W. Hawkshaw had a case to solve which would tax the wisdom of Solomon. A girl wanted to prosecute a young man for stealing a kiss. The offender was willing to put it back where he got it. The girl refused to accept the return. The case was dropped pending law research by Hawkshaw.

UNEMPLOYED SHOWN BY LATEST TOTALS TO 1,325 FOR CITY

Unemployment figures gathered in the 1930 census show 1,325 men and women who are able bodied and usually gainfully employed are out of work in Wichita Falls and environs, and that 3,507 are out of work in the six counties comprising the third census district, according to figures released by Thomas L. Ball, census supervisor, Saturday.

The total number of unemployed in Wichita county is 1,936. Archer county has 152 out of work, of which 40 live in Archer City. There are 120 unemployed in Bayler county and 118 in Clay county. Wilbarger county has 800 looking for work and Young county 396.

Jack county showed the smallest number of unemployed with only 103. Electra has 253 people out of work; Burkburnett, 91; Iowa Park, 31; Henrietta, 58, and Vernon, 498.

LONDON—To enable American total abstainers to attend the numerous cocktail parties of the season without appearing "high-hat," cocktail "kings" of London have concocted numerous "dry" cocktails to serve them. One is named the "Pussyfoot," after the dry crusader, and another the "Catsfoot." The second named is mildly alcoholic.

BLOW DEALT DRY PROGRAM OF PRESIDENT

Work of Commission Limited Strictly to Prohibition

ONLY $50,000 VOTED TO CONTINUE ITS WORK

Sub-Committee Approves Motion Senator Glass Of Virginia

WASHINGTON, June 21. (US)—President Hoover's law enforcement commission was dealt a blow today when the senate sub-committee of the appropriations committee decided to limit it strictly to prohibition.

By a 6 to 1 vote, the sub-committee approved an appropriation of but $50,000 to continue the life of the Wickersham commission with the express understanding it confine itself solely to prohibition investigation.

Senator Carter Glass of Virginia made the motion. Senator Jones, Republican of Washington, drastic dry and co-author of the famous "5 and 10" enforcement law was the only member of the sub-committee to vote against it.

Glass pointed out the commission in a year's work has only spent $7,000 for prohibition investigation. He charged that it had used huge funds in delving into juvenile delinquency, and other phases of law enforcement of minor significance when stacked up against the raging prohibition problem.

Glass declared the commission was in fact primarily formed to inquire into prohibition conditions and that if it is permitted to continue should confine its labors to that problem.

Jones in pleading for the $250,000 needed to keep the commission in action for another year, declared its job was only half finished and that the funds should be awarded.

He contended the commission had prepared the ground work for its investigation and that it could achieve its purpose in another year's labor.

PARISH WILL SUPPORT SENATOR CLINT SMALL IN RACE FOR GOVERNOR

AUSTIN, June 21. (AP)—Expressing his appreciation of the action of friends in placing his name on the ballot for the Democratic nomination for governor, Pink L. Parish, state senator from Lubbock, today issued a statement advocating the candidacy of Senator Clint C. Small of Wellington.

Parish stated that he believed Small would make the best governor of any of the candidates in the race.

Parish said he would support Small because he comes from the ranks of the common people, was a true Democrat, would make a fearless governor and would be fair and impartial in his dealings with the entire citizenry.

HEAR CHARGES AGAINST KANSAS DOCTOR JULY 15

TOPEKA, Kan., June 21. (UP)—Hearing of charges against Dr. J. R. Brinkley, Milford, Kan., radio doctor, will be held before the state board of medical registration and examination here July 15, it was announced today.

Dr. Brinkley's attorneys appealed from a state supreme court decision to the United States supreme court in an effort to get an order forbidding the state medical board from holding its hearing, scheduled for last Tuesday. Their attempt failed when members of the court refused to grant a further stay order.

CHALLENGE TO POWER TRUST

Ask Explanation of Rates Charged Ontario

WASHINGTON, June 21. (US)—Power trust spokesmen who assailed Ambassador Sackett's speech on high electric rates were challenged today to explain why American householders are charged five times as much as those in Ontario.

Judson King, director of the National Popular Government league, cabled the challenge to George N. Tidd, president of the American Gas and Electric company, at the world power conference in Berlin. He wired it also to James F. Owens at the National Electric Light association convention in San Francisco.

King posed the same question as to rates charged business men and manufacturers, which he declared are likewise much higher than in Ontario. The Canadian province is served at cost by a publicly owned plant.

Denouncing Samuel Insull's attempt to censor Sackett's speech to the Berlin conference, which noted that rates to city householders are 15 times production costs, King said:

"It is amazing to find power officials attempting to control American officials abroad as well as at home."

EPIDEMICS THREATENED IN CHICAGO AS RESULT OF FINANCIAL SITUATION

CHICAGO, June 21. (US)—Health Commissioner Arnold Kegel told a state senate committee today that if Chicago does not get financial relief from the legislature it soon will fall an easy victim to epidemics, the food supply will be unprotected, the milk supply will go without inspection, and people will fear to visit the coming world's fair.

He declared that the operations of the health department, due to the financial stringency, already had been curtailed to such a degree that the safety of the city is threatened.

If the bills for the relief of the city are not passed, he prophesied that the city will be ruined.

His testimony followed that of State's Attorney John A. Swanson who yesterday asserted that if money was not forthcoming from the legislature, the state would have to declare law in the Chicago area in the war against the gangsters.

Separate Expense Accounts

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 21 (UP)—Candidates for state offices must file two separate expense accounts for both the first primary and the run-off primary, Atty. Gen. J. Berry King ruled today in an opinion to Secretary John E. Luttrell of the state election board. The expense accounts must be filed within 10 days after the date of each primary.

DEFENSE RESTS IN IRA M'KEE TRIAL IN LAMESA COURT

LAMESA, June 21. (AP)—The defense rested its case today in the trial of Ira McKee, charged with the murder of W. R. Billingsley at Sparenberg in a holdup last month, without placing the defendant on the stand.

After Mrs. Eula Sherwood and Mrs. Nell Johnson, sisters of McKee, testified that some members of their family were mentally "unbalanced," Dr. J. C. Loveless and Dr. J. H. Bennett told the jury that insanity was hereditary.

It was evident that the defense would plead temporary insanity.

Attorneys said they expected the trial to last until Tuesday.

Much interest has been aroused in the trial, there being more than 650 spectators in the courtroom this afternoon.

MRS. HOOVER SELECTS NEW FURNITURE FOR PRESIDENT'S OFFICE

WASHINGTON, June 21. (UP)—A $5,000 maple desk of early American design, a colorful Chinese rug and eight upholstered chairs, all chosen by Mrs. Herbert Hoover, graced the president's personal room in the White House executive offices today.

The new furnishings, required after the Christmas fire, were selected as a surprise for him and were installed after he left his office last night.

A large silver replica of a sailfish, the game finny quarry which the president sought last February in Florida waters, appeared on his desk today. It serves to remind him, he said, of "pleasant times and pleasant days."

WILL INVESTIGATE STORY PANTAGES WAS 'FRAMED'

LOS ANGELES, June 21 (UP)—The story of Eugene Mozier, former naval mechanic who told San Francisco authorities that Eunice Pringle asked him to participate in an asserted plot to blackmail Alexander Pantages, will be investigated by the Los Angeles county grand jury Thursday.

In an affidavit in San Francisco, Mozier claimed he met Miss Pringle on the street here and that she outlined a plan to "frame" the wealthy theater man.

The story has been denied by District Attorney Buron Fitts, to whom Mozier said he once reported the alleged incident, and by Miss Pringle.

Pantages is under sentence to spend from one to 50 years in San Quentin on conviction of assaulting Miss Pringle when she called at his office to book her dancing act for the stage. Decision on his appeal for a reversal and a new trial is pending.

FIREMEN READY TO STAGE STRIKE

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., June 21. (US)—Well, they've went and got another of them horseless fire carriages up in Tarrytown.

The volunteers warned 'em that if they did, they'd have to start payin' the comp'ny for puttin' out fires.

The taxpayers went ahead and got another automobile engine. So the boys have set a 30-day limit. Fires after that can just burn—or they can pay the boys to put 'em out.

COCK FIGHT BETTING BLAMED FOR SLAYING

PUEBLO, Colo., June 21. (AP)—The gambling activities of Merviv Calhoun, an employe of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, were believed today to have caused his murder by an enemy unknown to police investigators. He was shot to death early today near his home. Calhoun, it was learned from friends, has been conducting fights between game cocks and extensive betting was indulged in a short distance outside of the city limits. Officers expressed the opinion that Calhoun's slaying was traceable to a bettor's losses, but they had no immediate clue.

MOTOR DEATH TOLL IN CALIFORNIA INCREASES

SACRAMENTO, June 21. (US)—California's motor vehicle death toll has been greater during the last five months than during any corresponding period in the state's history.

This was announced today by Victor Killick, statistician of the state division of motor vehicles, in reporting 862 deaths in automobile accidents from the first of the year through May.

Killick said the deaths totaled 38 more than were reported for the first five months of 1929.

American tractors are being used in Algeria.

HOUSE PLANS TO VOTE MONDAY ON WATERWAYS BILL

WASHINGTON, June 21. (AP)—Final action on the rivers and harbors omnibus bill carrying authorizations estimated at $142,000,000 is to be sought in the house Monday when that branch will be asked to accept senate amendments to the original measure.

The house rivers and harbors committee had instructed Chairman Dempsey to ask unanimous consent to accept the senate amendment, increasing the total by about $24,500,000, today, but action was deferred to permit the members additional time in which to study the new projects.

Chairman Dempsey expressed belief there would be little difficulty in obtaining approval in the house now. However, he added, if opposition developed the measure would go to conference and the differences would be ironed out in short order.

Although President Hoover has not indicated what action he would take, it is believed by Republican leaders on both sides of the capitol that it will meet with his approval in view of his long advocacy of improvement of the nation's waterways.

FOUR CHILDREN IN FAMILY DEAD FROM PNEUMONIA

CHICAGO, June 21. (AP)—Pneumonia following whooping cough caused the deaths of four of the five children of Benjamin McKittrick who were at first believed to have been poisoned or contracted a mysterious ailment.

The four children who died were Evelyn, 5, Donald, 3, Raemond, 2, and Paul, 6 months old. Kenneth, 8, is at the hospital in a serious condition, but physicians said today they believed he would recover.

A large new theater is being built in Singapore, British Malaya.

SEEK TO DETERMINE CAUSE OF EXPLOSION TANKER AT BAYTOWN

HOUSTON, June 21. (AP)—Investigations were under way today to determine the cause of the explosion aboard the Standard Shipping company tanker Benjamin Brewster at the Baytown, Texas, wharf this morning in which three men were seriously burned.

Capt. A. Miranda and Hugh F. Cobb, United States steamboat inspectors, from Galveston, were in charge of the investigation.

Kayle B. Home, second engineer, V. E. Boyles and Olaf Standifer, both able bodied seamen, were seriously burned in the explosion which occurred in the fuel tanks of the tanker, below the sailors' quarters. No damage was done to the tanker, although clothing and bedding belonging to the seamen were burned.

The Benjamin Brewster was loaded with gasoline and was scheduled to sail at noon today for Sewalls Point.

DEFIES DEATH THREATS AND WILL TESTIFY AT TRIAL OTTO SANHUBER

LOS ANGELES, June 21. (UP)—John L. Oesterreich, Pasadena realty man and brother of Fred Oesterreich, wealthy manufacturer murdered eight years ago, today defied death threats sent to him by announcing he would testify at the trial of Otto Sanhuber, accused of the murder.

Threats by telephone and mail have come to John Oesterreich in the last few days warning him "if you value your life stay away from the Sanhuber case and don't testify against Otto Sanhuber," the realty man has announced. On the promise of protection by district attorney's investigators he consented to testify.

He will be called Monday to testify as to the maiden name of Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich, widow of the slain man and accused with Sanhuber of the murder. The testimony will be used to clear up statements of other witnesses, state's attorneys said.

NO TANGIBLE CLUE KANSAS CITY CASE CARPENTER KILLED

KANSAS CITY, June 21. (AP)—Possessing no tangible clues, police today sought the slayers of Peter McKay, a carpenter, whose body was found late yesterday in a weed patch near U. S. highway No. 50 and the Blue river east of here.

McKay had been shot three times and his wounds washed, apparently in an effort to conceal the cause of death. Police discovered that McKay was the owner of two three-story apartment houses. Tenants in one of the buildings in which McKay lived, said they had not seen him since Thursday evening.

A front window in the bedroom of the carpenter's apartment had been broken above the latch. His quarters were in disorder. A vest to the suit in which the body was found had been torn to shreds. Bank books in the room showed that McKay had large deposits in various banks in other cities.

Police believed he had been beaten in his room and then taken for a ride."

SEARCHERS ABANDON HOPE FOR MISSING HONEYMOONERS

VANDERHOOF, B. C., June 21. (INS)—Hope that Mr. and Mrs. William H. Albee, young honeymooners lost in the far north, might yet be found alive was virtually abandoned today with the return here of an airplane expedition after flying over the Yukon territory, just below the arctic circle.

American motorcycles are becoming popular in Italy.

The Six Steps up to SUNDAY

THE IMPRESSION INTERVAL

SATURDAY

All the smart home managers of Wichita Falls know just exactly how it is!

Six, oh! so-busy days—dinners . . . theater . . . bridge . . . movies . . . visiting . . . entertaining. Then, as the pre-talky movie writers used to say, comes the dawn of a new day.

Sunday! This long, luxuriously lazy day. Time for the family to get acquainted all over again! Time, too, for those cozy councils in which so many important family plans and purchases are decided upon.

Really do you wonder that for six days folks look forward to Sunday . . . pleasantly anticipate the interval of rest and recreation and new impressions that only Sunday brings!

And—just as in your home!—when they get to this "impression interval," the very first thing they do, in thousands of families right here in Wichita Falls, is to pick up the Sunday Wichita Times.

Over their breakfast coffee, the Sunday Times tells them what the world and his wife are doing. What they are wearing and driving, too, and—well, just everything that Mr. and Mrs. Wichita Falls find interesting.

Nor is that nearly all. For as everybody knows, among its many other features, the Sunday Times publishes the very last word in shopping news, too. And after breakfast, lazily lounging in the living room, Mr. Wichita Falls is in a most amiable mood to discuss that new suit for Junior . . . or perhaps it's a new rug, or an electric refrigerator, or . . . well, here's the Sunday Times to refer to!

Yes, as we remarked at the top of this page, the wise wives who are the purchasing agents for these Wichita Falls homes, know that Sunday is the day to talk over those buying questions.

And, as you look at the many advertisements in the Wichita Times each Sunday, you'll notice that more and more thoughtful merchants, too, are discovering this important "impression interval."

WICHITA FALLS' MASTER SALESMAN

EXPORTERS SOCK TRIO OF HOMERS TO EVEN SPUDDER SERIES

To what extent Texas league clubs will be able to strengthen for the last half drive that begins Wednesday remains to be seen, but we don't think the Dallas Steers will set any worlds afire by adding pitchers such as Grover Cleveland Alexander and Lee Meadows, veterans of 20 years of toil. Meadows already has had a chance and failed and it remains to be seen what Alexander can do. One thing certain concerning Old Alex is that he will draw the cash customers through the turnstiles at Steer stadium. Whether he will prove a good investment in the way of winning ball games is a horse of another hue.

The Spudders, of course, are going to stand pat. It is a mighty good guess that Bill Huff and Carl Williams would make no changes in their lineup if they had the cream of the other Texas league clubs at their disposal. Certainly none would be made until the club exhibited some sort of signs of weakening from its pace of better than .800 baseball, maintained through the last six weeks of play. The Spudder prexy believes there is just one way that the Spudders can be stopped in the second half. "You never know what a series of injuries might do to the best of ball clubs, but if we can keep our lineup intact through the second half, we'll sail through just as we did in the first," he declares.

There's no denying that the Spudders have been exceptionally fortunate through the first half. Seldom can a club travel through half a season with as few mishaps as the Spudders encountered. Earl Caldwell was out for a couple of weeks, Jack Crouch and Walter Euller for a day or two, but all of the others have been as fit as the well-known fiddle from the drop of the hat up to the present time. There's nothing unusual in the fact that the Spudder pitching staff hasn't had a sore arm since the start. No member of any of Carl Williams' pitching staffs has ever had a sore arm. While many other clubs are troubled with pitching arm ailments in the early stages, Williams has yet to have a single one of his pitchers in any season with an ailing whip. Personally, we are willing to give Williams full credit for that fact, but it has been pure good fortune that none of the infielders or outfielders has come up with twisted legs or arms.

Baseball men consider the runs batted in column of the batting averages one of the greatest indications of a player's offensive value. The fellow with the .300 average who drives in runs with long and timely hits certainly is a greater asset than the .350 swatter whose hits are singles and seldom come with runners in scoring position. A glaring example is offered in the Texas league this season. Oscar Eckhardt of Beaumont has led the league in batting from the start of the race. He has been above the .400 mark for the past few weeks. His pace has been faster than set by Ike Boone a half-dozen years ago when the latter established a record with the league's only .400 batting average. But is Eckhardt to be rated in the same class with Boone as a hitter?

Our vote is a negative one. Boone that year not only hit often, but he socked the ball for a great collection of extra base hits and drove in runs in bunches. This week's averages show that Eckhardt has driven in 40 runs, a figure far short of what one would expect from a .400 average. Something like 20 players in the league have driven in more runs than the former Longhorn football phenom. One of these is Len Storti, whose modest batting average of .270 or thereabouts has managed to drive across the plate 46 runs. Larry Bettencourt is almost 100 points shy of Eckhardt in average, but he has driven in 68 runs to Eckhardt's 40.

Position in the batting order has much to do with a player's chances to drive in runs. Of course, the leadoff man is at the greatest handicap. He comes up at least once in every game when only by a home run can he drive in a run. Leadoff men can't possibly rank with the cleanup and fifth and sixth place hitters over a season's play. As well the player on a weak hitting club gets fewer chances to drive in runs than the fellow who is on a heavy scoring team. Considering all these things, the runs batted in figures on Jim Levey and Eckhardt offer an interesting comparison. Levey, with his .270 average and his handicap of leading off, had driven in 31 runs through last Thursday, only nine less than Eckhardt. The Spudders have six players, Storti, Fitzgerald, Kloza, Burns, Bettencourt and Euller, who have driven in more runs than the league's leading hitter.

Eckhardt's inflated batting average is due largely to his ability to scamper from home plate to first base much faster than the average hitter and just a bit speedier than any other player in the league. Eddie Moore, Eddie Hock and maybe some of the other fleet-footed left-handed hitters, who have the advantage of starting from the near side of the plate look faster than Eckhardt. The latter's size makes his running deceptive. He is big and thick-set. He may not appear to be moving, but from the plate to first he is the one fastest man on the circuit. A goodly percentage of his hits are infield taps that he beats out. We are not trying to leave the impression that Eckhardt is not a good hitter. He is. But we don't think he is the hitter his .400 average indicates. It is our honest opinion that the hitting of Storti, Fitzgerald, Kloza, Burns, Bettercourt and Euller has been more valuable to the Spudders than that of Eckhardt to the Exporters.

This week's averages show that three Spudders have scored more runs than their closest rivals. Bettencourt, Kloza and Fitzgerald hold the one-two-three positions. If the club continues to produce runs as it has through the first half, it is likely to wind up the season with some sort of record in that no less than six men will have scored more than 100 runs. Each of the first six men in the lineup is above the 50 mark in runs scored. We doubt if any club of the past has produced a half-dozen men who could score more than 100 runs the same season.

Wiltse Is Victim Of Circuit Blows In 6 to 4 Battle

Two Clubs to Wind Up Series With Double-Header Sunday

BEAUMONT, Texas, June 21.—Three hefty circuit clouts over the left field wall, two of 'em by Hugh Wise, rookie catcher, Saturday helped to wipe out the curse that has hung over the house of Green since the opening of the season and the Exporters beat Hal Wiltse, 6 to 4, to even the series with the champion Spudders, who struggled gamely to make it two in a row over the locals.

With Guy Green in the box the Shippers usually blow sky high, but not so Saturday afternoon, as they fielded brilliantly and socked timely to give the young right-hander one of his few wins this year. Abe Martin, crooked arm, started for the Exporters, but a ripped finger in the fourth sent him to the showers and Guy came to the hillock.

For two innings neither team scored, but in the third the Exporters donated the Spudders a marker. Levey grounded to Easterling, who was playing third, and Pound 'Em Paul threw over Stapleton's head, Levey scurrying around to the hot corner. Storti promptly singled and Levey scored. Fitzgerald lifted to Wade. Kloza walked and Burns sent Storti to third with a sacrifice fly, but Orr grounded out, Wise to Stapleton to retire the side.

Spudders Score Twice

Two more runs were picked up by the Spudders in the fourth frame. After two were out, Wiltse's popuup in front of the pitcher's box fell safe for a hit when Easterling and Martin played Alphonse and Gaston. Levey came through with a double that rattled the left field fence and Wiltse scored. Storti singled to left and Levey scored. Fitzgerald lined to Holley for the final out.

Homers put the Exporters on par with the Spuds in their half of the fourth. Wade, first up, started the fireworks with a crack over the left field fence. Holley walked, and Wise, who is a regular left-handed hitter, switched over right-handed and smacked out a non-stopper over the left field pailings, scoring Holley ahead of him. The next three men went out in order.

Shiver's double and Easterling's single past short gave the Exporters another run and the lead in the fifth after the Spuds had gone out one-two-three in their half. The sixth saw Wise up again and he promptly kissed another of Hal's crooked slants over the left field wall. The Exporters' last run came in the seventh, when after two were gone, Wade walked, hastened to third on Holley's single to left and scored on a double steal. Crouch's peg to Storti going far to the second baseman's left.

Green was having his troubles. But nice fielding behind him saved the day. In the seventh Storti, first up, reached first when Stapleton mussed up his grounder. Fitzgerald pounded a single to center and Storti stopped at second. On an attempted sacrifice, Kloza forced Storti at third. Burns forced Kloza at second and Orr grounded to Stapleton for the third out.

Rally Falls Short

Crouch, Euller and Wiltse went out in order in their half of the eighth, but in the ninth the Spuds threw a big scare into the Exporters. Levey started off by whiffing, but Storti bounced a one-baser over Stapleton's head. Fitzgerald fouled out to Easterling. Kloza stepped into Green's fast one and it rode to right center for three sacks, scoring Storti. Burns walked and the stage was set, but Orr grounded weakly to Green and the game was over.

Saturday's win was the first for the Exporters over the Spudders in six starts. The great Spudder infield continued to sparkle like Kimberly's fairest gem. Storti with three blows led the Spudder offensive. Wise, Wade and Shiver were the chief clubbers of the Beaumonters.

Two games are scheduled Sunday afternoon between the Spuds and Exporters, the first starting at 2:30 o'clock. Caldwell, White or Vincent will get the starting assignments for the Spudders, with Burns, Mallett or Newman going to the mound for the Shippers.

LOOKING AT LARRY FROM THE MOUND

LARRY BETTENCOURT

Just to show you how Larry looks to the pitchers of seven other clubs, who must face the Spudder siege gun through something like 80 more games of the 1930 campaign.

Seriously, the bat that Bettencourt carries to the plate is not as big as the one shown in the photo, even if it does look that way to the enemy pitchers. This particular war club, which is five feet in length, was presented to Larry by the Optimist club a few days ago when the Spudders were guests at a luncheon meeting.

That the Optimists' gift was particularly timely is reflected in the Texas league averages, which show the walloping Spudder as the league's leader in runs scored, runs driven in and home runs.

Outboard Motor Club Opens Season Sunday With Meet at Lake Wichita

An outboard meet that will take the form largely of an Electra vs. Wichita Falls affair is scheduled for Sunday afternoon over the Lake Wichita course as the first of a series of summer speed events planned by the Wichita Falls Outboard Motor club, it is announced by Ralph Harvey Jr., secretary of the organization.

While out-of-town entries are expected from Dallas and possibly Oklahoma City, Wichita Falls and Electra speedsters will monopolize the program of three events, and in view of the rivalry existing between the two neighboring clubs, no other entries will be necessary to assure thrilling competition from the first to the last event of the program.

Three heats of three laps each will be run in the class B, class C and free-for-all events over the course immediately south of the board walk at Lakeside park. No charge additional to the 10 cents entry fee to Lakeside park is to be made, according to the announcement, and all speed fans are invited to attend.

Among the prospective entries are L. L. Taylor, Cy Parker, Perry Wright, Martin and Grounds and Ralph Harvey, all of Wichita Falls, and L. B. Slaughter, Ben Miller, W. T. Waggoner Jr. and Bob Baxter of Electra.

The Wichita Falls Outboard Motor club was organized last year to further the interests of outboard racing and several interesting programs have been staged by the club at Lake Wichita. That of Sunday is the first of a series of events planned for the outdoor season. Officers of the club are L. L. Taylor, commodore; Tom Noble, vice commodore, and Harvey, secretary and treasurer.

PLAYGROUND BASEBALL

New junior baseball teams wanting to enter in leagues must bring lists of players to the park department in the Memorial auditorium by Wednesday, June 25. There will be openings for several teams when the second half starts, and if there are not openings in the leagues now organized, new leagues will be organized so that every boy who wants to play baseball will have the chance. Boys who play in a junior league must be less than 14 years old, while boys who play in a senior league must be less than 18 years old.

INDIANS SEND CHAPLIN TO GIANTS FOR TOSSER AND INFIELDER LESLIE

SAN ANTONIO, June 21.—In the interest of bolstering the punch of the Indians, President Homer Hammond Saturday traded his ace pitcher, Jim Chaplin, to the New York Giants for First Baseman Sam Leslie and Pitcher Ray Lucas. Leslie batted .375 for Memphis in the Southern association last year. Lucas pitched for Toledo of the American association in 1929 and is being recalled from Newark of the International league to be used in the San Antonio deal.

In addition to the two players Hammond received an amount of cash he did not disclose, except to say that it was a lot of money.

Hammond now is attempting to swing a deal for an outfielder.

HOUSTON AGAIN LEADS IN BUILDING PERMITS

DALLAS, June 21. (AP)—Houston maintained its building supremacy by climbing to the top of the list this week with the largest total reported by any city in the state, $433,800. This boosted its yearly total to $8,805,192.

Fort Worth was second with $340,932, and Pampa stepped out of the small city ranks with a total of $262,000, attributed largely to a hospital and ward school additions.

ANSWER ON SCHMELING-SHARKEY BOUT EXPECTED MONDAY

First Conference With Bulow Fails To Gain Results

Boston Gob Declares He Is Willing to Pay Deposed Pilot His 'Cut'

NEW YORK, June 21. (AP)—Conferences bloomed all over town Saturday, lawyers worked overtime, and Madison Square garden promised something important in the way of announcements concerning Max Schmeling's return bout with Jack Sharkey by Monday afternoon.

The final conference between garden officials and Arthur Bulon, deposed manager of the German who won the heavyweight championship on a foul from Sharkey June 12, was scheduled for Monday. After that is over the garden hopes to be able to announce that the last bar to a return match late in September has been removed.

Schmeling is ready to fight if he can gain a release from Bulow's managerial contract which does not expire until Oct. 13. Otherwise he insists that he will remain idle until the entangling alliance with Bulow is wiped out by time. Sharkey is so anxious to remove the stain of his defeat on a foul that he is already on record at the New York State Athletic commission as willing to pay Bulow's 20 per cent share in Schmeling's wages.

NEW YORK, June 21. (INS)—Arthur Bulow, former manager of Max Schmeling, newly crowned heavyweight champion, Saturday conferred for more than three hours with Frank Bruen, Tom McArdle and others of the Madison Square garden forces relative to the proposal that Bulow sell out his rights to the services of Max.

No decision was arrived at, it was announced, and the conference will be resumed on Monday.

LOTT AND DOEG DEFEAT ALLISON AND VAN RYN

LONDON, June 21. (UP)—George Lott 11 of Chicago and Johnny Doeg of Santa Monica, Calif., Saturday scored a surprising four set victory over Wilmer Allison, Austin, and John Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J., in the finals of the Queens club doubles championship. The scores were 12-14, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

Allison, defeated doubles star, neutralized his defeat with a victory over Gregory of Newark, N. J., Davis cup alternate, in the singles finals.

The United States shared a third championship when Miss Elizabeth Ryan, formerly of California, teamed with J. Colin Gregory of England, to defeat George Lott and Mary Greef, 16-year-old Kansas City girl, in the mixed doubles, 6-1, 6-1.

HANDBALL COURT ON TAFT STREET OPENED

Those interested in handball will be glad to know that the handball court located at 2200 Taft street is in first class condition. The court is to be used by the players in the order in which they arrive at the court, with a limit of three games to the team when others are waiting to play. If there is sufficient interest shown by the players, a handball league will be organized, it was announced Saturday from the offices of the recreation division of the city park department.

WAGGONER ENTRY RUNS SECOND ILLINOIS OAKS

CHICAGO, June 21. (AP)—Walter J. Salmon's Snowflake, leading three-year-old filly of the year, added the $10,000 Illinois oaks to her string Saturday, defeating a classy field of her sex and age at Washington park. The Three D's stable's Pansy Walker was second with H. P. Headley's Alcibiades third.

Snowflake stepped the mile and one-eighth in 1:52 and paid $5.52 for a $2 mutual.

SPICER REPEATS AS SOUTHERN GOLF CHAMP

GREENSBORO, N. C., June 21. (UP)—Emmett Spicer, Memphis, Tenn., 1926 titlist in the southern amateur golf tourney, repeated Saturday, defeating Tully Blair, Greensboro, N. C., 5 and 4, in the 28th annual final match over 36 holes.

Spudders Lead Loop Many Departments

Eckhardt Clings to Peak With Average of .417; Wiltse's 11 Represents Greatest Number of Pitching Wins; Other Pace Setters

Oscar Eckhardt of Beaumont, never topped by a regular this season, sent his lead Texas league batting average up to a .417 figure after another week of play, a higher average than was maintained at this time of the campaign by Ike Boone in 1923, the only Texas leaguer to finish with a .400 percentage. Eckhardt's closest trailers are none too close, Gene Moore of Dallas with .374 and Schinkle of San Antonio, .367.

Wichita Falls' lead for the first half is reflected in the club and individual averages, Spudder stars flashing among the leading players in all departments. The league leaders are: Runs, Bettencourt, Wichita Falls, 62; Kloza, Wichita Falls, 58; Fitzgerald, Wichita Falls and Stuvengen, Waco, 57. Hits, Bonowitz, Fort Worth, 105; Schinkel, San Antonio, 101; Eckhardt, Beaumont, 100. Doubles, Fitzgerald, Wichita Falls and I. Burns, Wichita Falls, 26; Eckhardt, Beaumont, 24; Bonowitz, Fort Worth, 23. Triples, Tavener, Fort Worth, 8; J. Moore, San Antonio, 7; Shiver, Beaumont, 6. Home runs, Bettencourt, Wichita Falls, 22; Storti, Wichita Falls and Stuvengen, Waco, 15; Holman, Shreveport and Easterling, Beaumont, 13. Stolen bases, Hunt, Houston, 25; Holley, Beaumont, 21; Easterling, Beaumont, 20. Runs batted in, Bettencourt, Wichita Falls, 68; Hunt, Houston, 57; Stuvenger, Waco, 56.

Wichita Falls has the high club average and leads in team runs, hits, two-baggers, home runs and runs batted in; Beaumont taking the front in triples and in stolen bases.

Tuero, Shreveport, balancing 8 wins against one loss, has the best pitching average of the regular flingers, while Wiltse, Wichita Falls, is the only hurler to win 11 games. Stout of Houston has hoisted his strikeout mark to 81.

Pitchers credited with a victory or defeat, players hitting 200 or better, and club batting through games of Thursday, June 19, follow:

WEEKS PARK COURSE AND PICNIC GROUNDS REMAIN CLOSED START OF WEEK

The Weeks park golf course and the picnic grounds in the park will remain closed Monday and Tuesday, and possibly, Wednesday, it was announced Saturday by C. C. Bunnenberg, superintendent of the city park department. Crews of workmen Saturday were engaged in repairing the damage left by the overflow from Holiday creek, but several more days will be required to complete the job.

Several bridges in the park were washed out by the high water.

McCarthy Repeats

ST. ALBANS, N. Y., June 21. (AP)—Maurice J. McCarthy Jr., former Georgetown star, successfully defended his metropolitan amateur golf championship Saturday, trouncing Pennington Miller-Jones, a club mate at a Green Meadow, 9 and 7, in the 36-hole final match. McCarthy led 5 up at the end of the morning 18.

Lead at Stake in Valley Skirmish On Byers Diamond

Panhandle Longhorns Invade Clay County for Important Contest

WEEK'S AMATEUR SCHEDULE

WICHITA VALLEY LEAGUE
Sunday
Panhandle Refining company, Wichita Falls, at Byers.
Burkburnett at Electra.
Archer City at Iowa Park.

MERCHANTS LEAGUE
Monday
Security National bank vs. Southwestern Glass and Paint company.
W. B. McClurkan & Co. vs. Texas Electric Service company.
Tuesday
P. B. M. company vs. Furniture Dealers.

Lead at Stake

Leadership of the Wichita Valley league will be at stake Sunday when the Panhandle Refining company Longhorns journey to Byers to tangle with Skipper Vincent's second place nine. The contest, which is scheduled to start at 3 o'clock, offers Byers the opportunity to go into a tie with the Longhorns for the league leadership, and it may be taken for granted that the Clay county crew is going to wage its stiffest battle. The game was originally scheduled for Wichita Falls, but was transferred to Byers by mutual agreement of Managers Vincent and Charles S. Cook.

Archer City and Iowa Park offer another interesting tussle on the Iowa Park diamond. These two are deadlocked in second and third places and the Iowa Park nine has clicked off three straight victories after losing its first three starts.

The cellar position is at stake in Burkburnett's invasion of Electra.

Merchants Race

The Merchants league closes a hectic first half race this week with the winner remaining in doubt until the final game is played. The pace setting Texas Electric Service company outfit wins top honors if it is successful in defeating W. B. McClurkan & Co. in Monday afternoon's skirmish, but if the Electrics are beaten, P. B. M. company has a chance for a tie.

P. B. M. company has two remaining games, with Southwestern Glass and Paint company and Furniture Dealers, and needs victories in both to tie the Electrics, if the latter fail to win their final contest.

THESE UNCOUTH PRIZE FIGHTERS! WHAT WILL THEY BE DOING NEXT?

WASHINGTON, June 21. (INS)—Observers at the federal radio commission noted Saturday W. L. (Young) Stribling, Georgia heavyweight, apparently violated the international radio-Telegraph convention of 1927 when he sent a personal message to his wife and mother over the radio Friday night.

Called to the microphone after his knockout over Otto Von Porat in Chicago, Stribling shouted: "Hello, Clara. Hello, Ma. Will be home Tuesday night."

The commission does not believe any complaints will be made against the fighter and indicated he would not be held accountable for his remarks because of his excitement immediately after the fight.

Snake Is Club Mascot

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 21. (AP)—The Memphis Chickasaws keep a snake for luck. The "blue racer" has become a familiar sight in the players' bench. When the boys look over recent Southern association statistics, they agree the mascot is not so bad as that.

Cochrane Topples Rice From Peak in Hitting Averages

Johnny Hodapp and Lou Gehrig Show Steady March on Leaders

CHICAGO, June 21. (AP)—Sam Rice's five-week march at the front of American league batters has been stopped by a championship backstop, Mickey Cochrane of the Philadelphia Athletics.

Crashing out 10 hits in 19 chances during the ninth week of campaigning, Cochrane boosted his average 20 points to .399 and took the lead away from the veteran Washington outfielder, unofficial averages including games of Wednesday disclose. Johnny Hodapp, Cleveland's second baseman, also went on a hitting rampage during the same period and took second with a .396 mark, dropping Rice to third place with his .390 percentage.

It was the first time in five weeks that Rice failed to top the batting list.

Babe Ruth, who with Rice had been monopolizing seven out of a possible nine batting leadership in the junior circuit, hiked his average up eight points to .379, but fell from fourth to sixth place in addition to losing his leadership in runs batted in to his teammate Lou Gehrig, who drove in 18 markers in five games and leads with a total of 67 or seven more than the Bambino. Al Simmons, who ranked second in batting a week ago, fell to fourth with a .386 average, while Gehrig jumped from eighth to fifth place with a .384 mark. Other leaders were Dickey, New York, .370; McManus, Detroit, .361; Burnett, Cleveland, .361 and Porter, Cleveland .351.

Ruth retained three of his leaderships during the hectic week, however, leading in runs with 70, hits for most total bases with 148 and in his home run specialty with 21. Hodapp ousted Rice as leader in hits with 89; McManus and Joe Cronin of Washington were tied in doubles with 19 each; Earl Combs of the Yankees had nine triples while Rice still led in stolen bases with a dozen thefts.

The heavy Yankee barrage finally lifted Ruth and his mates to the team batting leadership during the week. The Yankees increased their team batting average 14 points during the period and have a .314 average. Cleveland, last week's leader, is second with .306. The Yankees also went into a tie for first place in team fielding during the week with Philadelphia. Each team is fielding at a .973 clip.

In the pitching race, Mel Harder of Cleveland mixed matters again by dropping his first game of the season. He held a slight edge with six won and one lost, but Mahaffey of the Athletics and Pennock of the Yankees were pressing him, each having a record of five won and one lost. "Lefty" Grove of the Athletics, sailing along with a eight won and two lost record, is leading in strikeouts with 88.

Carnera and Godfrey Warned Against 'Monkey Business' in Monday's Bout

PHILADELPHIA, June 21. (INS)—George Godfrey, Philadelphia negro, and Primo Carnera, giant Italian heavyweight, who clash in the elephantine bout here Monday night at Phillies ball park, were warned Saturday to "avoid any monkey business."

Frank Weiner, chairman of the Pennsylvania Athletic commission, visited both the fighters, and lectured them. He warned particularly against a foul and said that neither of the fighters would be paid until after the bout and if "anything looked wrong" they would not be paid at all.

He also said no towels could be thrown into the ring. This warning was presumed to be based on one of Carnera's fights on the Pacific coast, which ended when seconds for his opponent, despite the fact the opponent was having this his way, suddenly tossed the towel, signal of defeat, into the hemped square.

A record crowd was predicted Saturday with the seat sale now approaching $150,000. The park will hold 45,000 and a sellout would bring a gate of $265,000.

The 270-pound Italian will receive 60 per cent of the net proceeds and from this must pay Godfrey $10,000.

It was believed Saturday that if Carnera wins cleanly he will be in line for a big shot match outside of New York against either Jack Sharkey or Victoria Campolo. Such a fight would draw about $500,000, it was claimed.

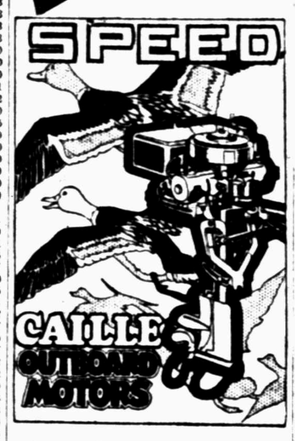

Equipoise Wins Again

NEW YORK, June 21. (AP)—Harry Payne Whitney's Equipoise ran his 2-year-old winning streak to five straight Saturday as he won the Great American stakes and $14,450 at Aqueduct. Carrying the crushing impost of 130 pounds, the Whitney juvenile defeated W. R. Coe's Polydorus by two lengths with Gifford, Cochrane's Hellanthus third. Equipoise was the 9 to 2 favorite.

YOUNG COUNTY PRODUCERS FEATURE PAST WEEK IN DISTRICT

Completions in Shallow Area North Of Newcastle Outstanding Events in One of Quietest of Weeks Recently

By JIMMIE MAXWELL

The end of another week's development of the different pools of the Wichita Falls district failed to find anything of an interesting character brought forth. A few wells were completed, new tests were spudded in and several locations were staked out, but, taken as a whole, the industry spent one of the quietest weeks that it had experienced for some time.

Operations in the Young county pools and especially in the shallow field north of Newcastle resulted in the completion of several wells on the Larimore land ranging from 400 to 900 barrels per day from the shallow sand at 690 feet. In the same area a number of others are on the sand waiting to drill in when pipe line connections are assured.

In the area surrounding the Nash & Windfohr No. 1 McCloud producer east of Graham the usual number of tests are drilling, but so far the result of this development has rewarded their owners with failure to pick up the Nash & Windfohr pay.

Archer county activities were marked by the drilling of several wells in the proven pools and the staking out of a few new locations. Hopes of the uncovering of a new productive pool in the Archer City townsite had a setback during the week by the failure of three tests in the vicinity of the Bo. Minnich well to make wells after testing the 1100 and the 1300-foot pays, both horizons bailing salt water.

North of Muenster in Cooke county three miles the Danciger Oil and Gas company No. 2 Truenbach, in the James Clark survey is showing for a 50-barrel well from a sand at 952 feet. The well is an absolute wildcat and will be the means of opening up another shallow pool in that county.

The usual amount of drilling was done in Wichita, Wilbarger, and Jack counties, but nothing of a sensational nature was reported.

Pipe line runs for the week averaged 107,701 barrels per day, a gain of 3,326 barrels per day when compared with the preceding seven days. With the exception of Young county, where a gain of 1,625 barrels was shown due to the completion of wells in the Riggs pool and the Olney townsite, all other pools remained practically the same as in the previous week.

MUCH ACTIVITY DURING WEEK IN MADILL FIELDS

Several New Oil Tests in Marshall County Started

TWO NEW LOCATIONS IN TATUMS DISTRICT

Reynolds and Others Put 100-Barrel Producer On Pump

ARDMORE, Okla., June 21.—The Madill district in Marshall county continues to lead southern Oklahoma fields in activity and several new tests were started during the past week.

Westheimer-Daube are moving in a machine to drill No. 6 Sullivan-Davidson in the northeast of the southwest of the southeast of the northwest of 30-5s-6e.

Reynolds and others have staked location and are moving in a machine for No. 2 Sullivan-Davidson in the northwest corner of the southeast of the northwest of 30-5s-6e.

Bilbo Oil corporation is rigging up machinery for No. 4 Sullivan-Davidson in the northeast corner of the southwest of the northwest of 30-5s-6e.

Magnolia Petroleum company is rigging up machine for No. 2 West Rutland Bank and Trust company in the northwest of the southeast of the southeast of the northwest of 30-5s-6e.

Longenecker and others are drilling below 350 feet in No. 1 John Park estate in the northwest of the northeast of the northwest of 5-5s-5e, about two and one-half miles northwest of production. Same operators expect to drill two more tests on this same tract.

Bilbo Oil corporation's No. 12 Taliaferro in the northeast of the southeast of 14-5s-5e, has started drilling and is below 75 feet.

Westheimer-Daube's No. 5 Sullivan-Davidson in the northwest of the southwest of the southeast of the northwest of 30-5s-6e, has been plugged and abandoned as dry with total depth at 779 feet.

Reynolds and others' No. 1 Sullivan-Davidson in the southwest of the northeast of the southeast of the northwest of 30-5s-6e, is estimated as good for 100 barrels of oil daily from sand at 650-657 feet. It is being put on the pump.

F. W. Merrick No. 20 Null in the southwest of the northeast of the northwest of the northwest of 24-5s-5e, is being cleaned out with total depth at 700 feet.

Bilbo Oil corporation No. 11 Taliaferro in the northeast of the southeast of the southeast of 14-5s-5e, is drilling below 300 feet.

Drill Past Tools

Hudson and others No. 2 Alice Wilson in the northeast of the southeast of the northwest of 10-5s-5e, about a mile northwest of production, is drilling by tools lost in the hole with total depth at 680 feet.

J. D. Loofborrow's No. 1 Krayeer in the northwest corner of the southwest of 25-5s-5e, southwest of production in the field, is trying to drill by pipe shot in two with total depth at 602 feet.

The Goddard company's No. 2 Marshall in the ortheast corner of the southwest of 20-5s-6e, an old producer, is being drilled deeper.

Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 1 West Rutland Bank and Trust company in the southwest of the southeast of the southeast of the northwest of 30-5s-6e, an old well deepened, is making 60 barrels of oil a day on the pump from sand at 650-661 feet.

Flemming and Kimbrell's No. 6 Null in the southwest of the southeast of the northeast of the northwest of 24-5s-5e, an old well deepened, pumped 115 barrels of oil during late 24-hour gauge. Production is coming from sand at 602-624 feet.

Same operators' No. 2 Null in the southeast of the southwest of the northeast of the northwest of 24-5s-5e, an old well deepened, is pumping 50 barrels a day from sands at 589-601 and 627-630 feet.

Ring and Helman's No. 1 Arbuckle in the southwest corner of the southeast of 25-5s-5e, southeast of production, is shut down at 550 feet.

Two new locations were staked the latter part of the week in the Tatums district in Carter county by C. L. Anderson for his No. 2 Eaves in the northwest corner of the southwest 24-1s-3w and No. 3 Eaves, in the southeast of the northeast of the southwest of 24-1s-3w.

Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 2 E. R. Spigner in the northwest of the northeast of the northwest of 24-1s-3w, on the north side of the new extension, is drilling ahead below 2090 feet after drilling plugs at 2041 feet.

The Trevelyn Oil company's No. 1 Mitchell in the southwest of the northwest of the southeast of 24-1s-3w, about one-half of a mile southeast of production, is drilling ahead below 800 feet.

Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 1 Willie Spigner in the northwest of the southeast of the northeast of 24-1s-3w, a new producer, is flowing around 250 barrels of oil daily. Its No. 1 E. W. Spigner in the southwest of the northeast of the northwest of 24-1s-3w, a recent completion, is swabbing better than 400 barrels a day.

Location Staked

Noble and Olsen have staked location and are building derrick for No. 4 E. M. Rowe in the southwest of the southeast of the northeast of 36-6n-10w, in the Cement field, in Caddo county.

Mid-Kansas Oil and Gas company and Ramsey Petroleum corporation No. 9 Wade in the southwest of the southeast of the southwest of 2-5n-9w, has nine-inch casing cemented at 4067 feet and is estimated as good for better than 1,000 barrels of oil daily from sands at 4067-78 and 4082-92 feet.

Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 4 Gregory in the southeast of the northwest of the southwest of 31-6n-9w, new producer, flowed 28 barrels of oil during late 24-hour gauge while operators were fishing for part of a swab lost in the hole. Production is coming from sand at 3340-48 feet.

Same operator's No. 3 Cement-Edwards in the southeast corner of the southwest of 25-6n-10w, is drilling at 1080 feet in lime shells.

Same operator's No. 3 M. J. A. Sames in the southeast of the northeast of the northeast of 35-6n-10w, is drilling in broken lime at 2305 feet.

Same operator's No. 8 Lindsey in

TEST PROMISES PRODUCTION IN ECTOR COUNTY

Area Apparently Condemned by Dusters May Yield Crude

WILDCATS IN CRANE AND PECOS GIVEN ATTENTION

Activity Continues in World's Deepest Oil Pool

(Special to The Times)

SAN ANGELO, Texas, June 21.—The prospect of production in Ector county one and one-half miles northwest of the Penn pool, in an area that apparently had been condemned by two non-productive tests, overshadowed other developments this week in the West Texas Permian basin. The well with the oil was Skelly-Republic's No. 1 McKenzie, in section 28, block 45, township 3 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey. It topped pay at 3665 feet, had increases at 3685-95 feet and at 3710, where it cleaned itself and headed an estimated 135 barrels. Drilling stopped Thursday at 3710 to connect the well with storage.

The Penn pool at that time had three other tests drilling with oil in the hole and definitely had added two new producers. This increased the total number to 41 and daily production exceeded the 19,000-barrel mark, gaining over 1500 barrels during the week. An important development was the recommendation by Ector county operators to the Texas railroad commission Wednesday that proration similar to that in the Yates pool in Pecos county be placed in effect.

Wildcats in Crane and Pecos counties offered much of interest during the week. C. C. Duffy and others' (Texas Development Co.) No. 1-B Cowden, 660 feet from the south line and 1320 feet from the west line of section 31, block 2, H. & T. C. Ry. Co. survey, topped the brown lime between 2143 and 2150 feet, elevation being 2355, had a showing of gas at 2310-15 feet and had drilled to 2407 feet in lime. The wildcat is about six miles west of the McCamey field and about 18 miles southeast of Cranfill brothers' No. 1 J. B. Tubb. No. 1 Tubb completed its contract Thursday at 3500 feet in lime, but continued drilling. It is understood that Gulf and other companies holding nearby acreage favor making a deep test, possibly to 8500 feet, but whether this will be done had not been learned. The wildcat, in section 8, block B-27, public school land, about 18 miles west of the Church-Fields pool, broke into the limelight when it topped both the salt and lime high and had gas at several points, increasing at 2900-07 and 2930-35 feet to an estimated 10,000 cubic feet. The test never showed much oil, the last showing being at 2995 feet, and at 332-38 feet encountered a small amount of salt and sulphur water. When drilling had reached 3500 feet the gas had declined to around 1,000,000 cubic feet daily and the water to two bailers per day.

Well Tops Lime

Fisher & Lowrie's No. 1 R. D. Webb in Pecos county, three and one-half miles southwest of Phillips' No. 1 Courtney (Pryce & Wilson), a discovery shallow producer 11 miles northwest of Fort Stockton in May, 1929, was credited with topping the lime at 2775 feet, 140 feet above sea level, and slightly higher than the wells to the northwest. It had oil showings at 2803-07 and 2851-61 feet and had drilled to 2937 feet in lime, unchanged. Location is 8550 feet north and 1320 feet west of the southeast corner of section 3, block 203, Tillman & Walters survey.

The world's deepest producing pool, the Big Lake in Reagan county registered its seventh well from a depth exceeding 8200 feet when Group No. 1 Oil corporation's (Texon) No. 3-B University, 8536 fect deep, bailed down 2200 feet and blew in, producing 125 barrels of high gravity oil and 3,100,000 cubic feet of gas during 22 hours ending at 7 o'clock Thursday morning. Gas at 8517 feet blew mud out of the hole almost a week earlier, but the pressure was increased to permit deepening. The well is one location south and two locations east of Group No. 1 Oil corporation's No. 1-B University, discovery deep producer, and is 2240 feet from the south line and 920 feet from the west line of section 36, block 9. It is directly opposite Big Lake Oil company's No. 3-C University, which produced a daily average of 75 barrels during the week ending Thursday morning from a total depth of 8576 feet.

Texon No. 1-B University, 8525 feet deep, has been declining gradually for the last two months, but produced a daily average of 2,828.85 barrels of oil during the week ending Thursday morning. The peak of 3,004 barrels was set in February. Gas has been more steady, around 27,500,000 cubic feet daily. Texon's No. 2-B University, 8489 feet deep, established a new high mark of 1,785 barrels during 24 hours ending Tuesday morning. Its daily average during the week ending on Saturday morning, June 14, was 1,724.52 barrels. Gas remained around 29,500,000 cubic feet, an effort being made to reduce it by choking the well. Big Lake No. 1-C University, the latest producer until Texon's No. 3-B came in, continued to increase, averaging 556 barrels daily during the week ending Thursday morning. Big Lake's No. 2-C University had drilled to 8419 feet. Big Lake's No. 4-C University produced a daily average of 62.60 barrels for the week while fishing for a bit preparatory to deepening from 8220 feet. Big Lake's No. 5-C University, newest deep test to spud in the area, had drilled to 390 feet in sand. Big Lake's No. 179 University, another intended deep test, had reached 3725 feet.

Little Change in Andrews

Tests in Andrews county presented little change during the week. Deep Rock Oil company and others' No. 1 A. R. King, in section 11, block A-46, second producer, offsetting the same company's No. 1 Ogden, the discovery, failed to flow when 2½-inch tubing was run without a packer. While the tubing was being re-run with packer the well made a 30 to 40-barrel head but again failed to flow and was expected to be placed on the pump. A gauge of 425 barrels during 24 hours ending on the morning of June 11 was swabbing instead of pumping as reported last weekend. Total depth is 4454.

Deep Rock and others' No. 1 Hayden Miles, in section 22, block A-46, public school land, one and one-half miles south of the discovery, shut off sulphur water struck at 4396 feet by landing 5 3-16-inch pipe on bottom at 4506 feet and resumed drilling. Deep Rock and others' No. 1 Mathis, in section 4, block A-46, public school land, one and three-quarters miles east of No. 1 Ogden, had drilled to 4591 feet without encountering water. It was making about one-half bailer of oil hourly. Fuhrman Petroleum corporation No. 1 W. T. Ford, in section 16, block A-43, public school land, six miles south of No. 1 Ogden, had drilled to 3510 feet in anhydrite. Penn, Humble and Atlantic's No. 1 Wilson, in section 20, block A-37, public school land, 12½ miles northwest of production, had drilled past 2,000 feet.

Skelly-Republic's No. 1 McKenzie, which struck oil in Ector county almost one and one-half miles northwest of the Penn pool, topped the gray lime at 3170 feet and again at 3355 feet, 94 and 99 feet higher, respectively, than the same formations in Texas-Pacific's No. 1 McKenzie, which it offsets on the south. The T-P test had only light oil shows in drilling to 3870 feet, plugged back to 3775 feet, was shot May 18 with 210 quarts from 3750-75 feet and swabbed dry in 8½ hours, yielding only 45 barrels of oil. Later it swabbed only 1½ barrels of oil hourly and was estimated good for 40 to 50 barrels daily on the pump. Midway between the Skelly-Republic well and the main field, Independent-Tidal's No. 1 Schaar-bauer & Edson, in section 6, block 44, found tight lime in drilling to 3800 feet, was shot May 13 with 200 quarts from 3690 to 3755 feet and swabbed dry in 13 hours, yielding only 10 barrels of oil. Thereafter, it bailed three-quarters of a bailer of oil hourly. A bit was lost in cleaning out to deepen and fishing has been underway about a month.

One of the week's new producers in the Penn pool was Simms-Phillips No. 2 University, located 440 feet from the east line and 330 feet from the north line of the north half of the south half of section 1, block 35. It topped the pay at 3592 feet, had an increase from 3625-45 feet and flowed 50 barrels hourly in drilling below 3685 feet.

Well Tops Pay

Amerada-Skelly's No. 2-B University, in the south end of the Penn pool, 330 feet from the north line and 440 feet from the east line of section 2, block 35, topped the pay at 3610 feet, had drilled to 3670 feet and produced 30 barrels of oil in five hours. Cosden's No. 2 Kloh, diagonal southeast offset to Amerada-Skelly's No. 2-B University and 330 feet from the north line and 440 feet from the west line of section 17, block 44, township 3 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, topped the pay at 3655 feet, had drilled to 3690 feet and produced an estimated 320 barrels of oil in four hours.

Gulf's No. 3-A University, 2310 feet feet from the south line and 1320 feet from the east line of section 2, block 35, topped the pay at 3542 feet and had filled 900 feet with oil in drilling to 3590 feet. Preparations were being made to shoot Humble and others' No. 8 York, which topped the pay at 3660 feet and drilled to 3720 feet. In an early 24-hour period the well swabbed and flowed 62 barrels of oil. It is 990 feet from the south line and 440 feet from the west line of section 16, block 44, township 3 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey. Gulf's No. 1-B Connell, north offset to Texas-Cosden's No. 7 Connell, mile western extensioner of the pool, had drilled past 3630 feet and was producing slightly in excess of 200 barrels daily, as was No. 7 Connell.

Land owners in the vicinity gave a barbecue Thursday when J. D. Wesner's No. 1 L. E. Ratliff (Nicks) was spudded in Schleicher county, a mile and a quarter northeast of Eldorado and 2310 feet from the north line and 2362 feet from the east line of section 77, block LL, T. C. Ry Co. survey. Schleicher county now is getting one of the most active wildcat plays in the Permian basin. Phillips-Interstate's No. 1 J. A. Whitter, in section 35, block LL, T. C. Ry. Co. survey, five miles northwest of Eldorado, had drilled to 6800 feet in sandy shale, unchanged. Late in May it struck 750,000 cubic feet of gas and a bailer of high gravity oil every three to four hours from 6300-36 feet. Indian Territory company's No. 1 O'Harrow, in section 58, block "L," C. H. & S. A. Ry. Co. survey, had drilled to 3860 feet in black shale. Munger-Wilson Oil company's No. 1 Page, in section 40, block LL, G. H. & S. A. Ry. Co. survey, continued fishing for tools at 4912 feet. Teas & Gant's No. 1 Allison, in section 17, block K, G. H. & S. A. Ry. Co. survey, was shut down at 1984 feet for pipe.

P. H. Williams of San Angelo, who drilled the world's deepest cable tool test, No. 1 Ash Brothers in Irion county, to 8900 feet, staked a location for No. 1 W. M. Noelke, 1320 feet from the east line and 200 feet from the north line of section 8. It will be about one mile west and slightly south of Cromwell's No. 1 Tankersley. Cromwell's Nos. 1 and 2 Tankersley, shallow, high gravity, sweet oil production in Irion, continued pumping a daily average of around 75 barrels. The oil is being shipped to the San Angelo Refining company.

Pipe Line Runs of Week Show Gain With Completions Near Newcastle

Pipe line runs from the pools of the Wichita Falls district for the week ending Saturday, June 21, averaged 107,701 barrels per day, a gain of approximately 3,326 barrels daily as compared with the runs of the previous week.

Completion of several wells in the Riggs pool at Newcastle in Young county boosted the runs from that section of the district 1,625 barrels daily over the preceding week's figure. Montague also increased its runs by the completion of some wells in the section northeast of Nocona in the new Bridwell area. All other pools remained practically stationary. Below are the runs by pools:

Pool—	Barrels Daily Last Week	Previous Week
Archer county	19,178	19,052
Baylor county	1,313	1,301
Clay county	775	703
Cooke county	3,530	3,660
Foard county	194	198
Haskell county	59	45
Jack county	3,500	3,733
Montague county	6,879	6,401
Throckmorton county	1,083	1,167
Wichita county	25,330	24,794
Wilbarger county	24,071	23,155
Young county	21,685	20,060
Last week's total	107,701
Previous week's total	104,375	104,375
Last week's increase	3,326

15 DEEP TESTS BEING DRILLED IN LOCAL AREA

Fifteen deep oil tests are now being drilled in the Wichita Falls district, according to a list compiled Saturday.

The list follows:

Clay County

Merry Bros & Perrini No. 1 Martin, located 330 feet from north and west of H. T. & B. R. R. Co., section 61, abstract 230, underreaming 12-inch casing at 1100 feet; 5000-foot test.

Mid-Continent Holding corporation No. 1 H. Body, located 5580 feet from north, 3465 feet from west of Humphries survey, abstract 195; to be 5000-foot test; now drilling at 635 feet.

Temple, et al, No. 1 Edrington, located 150 feet from north and west of the southeast quarter of section 35, H. T. & B. R. R. Co. abstract 759. This reported to be 5000-foot test and is about three miles north of town of Dean. Drilling at 75 feet; will set 12¼-inch casing at 1200 feet.

Cooke County

Gulf Production company, No. 1 Donnell, located 330 feet northwest and 300 feet southwest of the east corner of Guffey survey, abstract 1543. Now drilling at 3100 feet; 5000 foot test.

Childress County

Continental & Sun company No. 1 Johnson, located 660 feet from north and 660 feet from east section 580, W. & N. W. survey, block "H." Drilling at 3360 feet; underreaming 10-inch; 6000-foot test.

Ford County

California company No. 1 Nichols, located 990 feet from north and west of section 238, H. T. C. survey, block A. This is rotary test, contract depth 4000 feet. Now drilling 2378 feet.

Jack County

Magnolia No. 1 Kinder, located 330 feet from north and west of fee land and W. C. R. R., abstract 907. This test to be 4600 feet.

Atlantic McGuire No. 1 O. C. Thompson, located 1750 feet from south 150 feet from west of Fee land in George Hardesty survey, abstract 294. This test to be 3500 feet. Location.

Montague County

American and King No. 1 J. D. Rowland, five miles west of Bowie, located 150 feet from north and west of section 2882, T. E. & L. survey. This to be 3500-foot test. Drilling at 1830 feet.

Throckmorton County

Swenson Oil and Gas No. 1 Swenson, located 2000 feet north and four feet west of southeast corner D. B. & C., No. 173, section C. This test expects to go to the Ellenberger at 6000 feet. Drilling at 4010 feet.

Wichita County

Pat Flynn No. 1 Woodward, northwest of Electra, located 660 feet from east and 990 feet from south of block 178, Waggoner colony subdivision. This to be deep test with no contract depth. Drilling at 3105 feet.

Deep Oil Development company's No. 1 Hirschl, located 8349 feet from south and 300 feet from east line, David Cowan survey, abstract 43; 6000-foot test; derrick erecting.

North Young County

Continental Oil company's No. 1 Whitley, located center of northwest quarter, section 428, T. E. & L. survey. This to be 5000 feet or deeper; drilling at 2300 feet.

Tom Slick (Pritzer & West) No. 1 Williamson, located 330 feet north and west, section 458, T. E. & L. survey. Sandy lime 3827-63, hole full oil; will give it a shot.

States Oil corporation No. 1 McBee, located 800 feet from south and 300 feet from west line, section 451, T. E. & L. survey. This to be 4000-foot test with cable. Drilling at 460 feet.

TWO WELLS IN STEPHENS AREA FIND OIL SAND

Three Operations in Oklahoma Field Nearing Completion

BIG GAS FLOW FOUND IN EMPIRE FIELD TEST

Heavy Rock Pressure Prevents Cementing of Casing

(Special to The Times)

DUNCAN, Okla., June 21.—Two small producers have been completed in Stephens county, while three other operations are nearing completion.

Pierce & Brown have an estimated 30,000,000-foot gasser at the No. 1 Wilkerson B in the southwest, southwest, southeast of 27-1s-8w, an old producer in the Empire area southwest of Duncan, deepened to 1942-65, but have been unable to cement casing because of heavy rock pressure. The gas may be mudded off and the hole carried to a deeper oil sand, and a second well drilled to the newly discovered gas sand.

Owenwood Oil has an estimated 20-barrel well in the No. 12 Massey, in the southwest, southeast, northwest of 12-2s-8w, in the Comanche area, from sand at 2072-95 feet.

Louis Sikes is preparing to shoot his No. 1 Blake, in the northwest, northwest, southeast, southwest of 16-1s-8w, five miles southwest of Duncan, a second time. There was 400 feet of oil in the hole after the first shot. Sand is from 2607 to 2619 feet.

Sikes is drilling at 2680 feet on the No. 1 Wade, in the southeast corner of 8-1s-8w, a wildcat nine miles west of Duncan.

John Fawcett and associates are cleaning out at 1178 feet in the No. 4 Adams, in the northwest, northwest, southwest of 19-1s-8w, in the Gas City area, southwest of Duncan.

Well Shut Down

Pelwin Oil is shut down at 785 feet on the No. 1 Indian land, in the northwest, northeast, northeast of 3-1s-9w, a wildcat nine miles west of Duncan.

Barney Cockburn and associates are drilling plugs to test oil sand at 2258-72 feet on the No. 1 Funk, in the southwest, southwest, southeast of 19-1n-8w, just north of the Oil City field, northwest of Duncan.

W. O. Smythe and associates are rigging up the No. 1 Frederick, in the northeast corner of 31-2n-8w, a wildcat 12 miles northwest of Duncan.

Ross Southard and associates are shut down at 1063 feet on the No. 1 McKinney, in the northeast corner of 25-1n-8w, a wildcat three miles northwest of Duncan.

The Gypsy is standardizing the No. 1 McPhail, in the northwest, northwest, southeast of 1-2s-7w, a wildcat six miles southeast of Duncan. Casing is set to test oil sand at 3948-63 feet.

George Pace abandoned his No. 1 Downey in the southwest, northeast, northwest of 20-2s-7w, and is rigging up to deepen his No. 1 City of Comanche in the southwest, northwest, northwest of 20-2s-7w. Both locations are in the Comanche townsite. The No. 1 Comanche failed to make a well from the 1330-foot sand.

Simms Oil is rigging up the No. 1 Duncan in the center of the north line of the northeast, northeast of 28-2s-7w, just south of the Watkins field a mile east of Comanche.

AMONG THE DERRICKS

By JIMMIE MAXWELL

Bridwell Oil company, No. 1 J. H. Turbeville, is a location, 150 feet from the south and 750 feet from the east line of section 25, Jefferson county school land in Archer county.

L. Trout and others, No. 1 W. P. Ferguson, 150 feet from the north and west corners of the east half of southwest of southwest quarter of block 39, section 1, S. P. R. R. survey, north Archer county, is spudded in and drilling at 450 feet.

Arkansas Fuel Oil company, No. 1 J. H. Robertson, is drilling at 900 feet on its location in the John Lledellynn survey, abstract 256, in Archer county.

Barnsdall Oil company, No. 5 Harry Portwood, in section 1281, T. E. L. survey in southeast Baylor county, is waiting on cement to set before drilling into the sand at 1370-86 feet.

Petroleum Producers and Consolidated Oil, No. 19 W. H. Portwood, in section 1231, T. E. L. survey, Baylor county, is estimated as a 50-barreler from the sand at 1374-1412 feet.

Mid-Continent Holding corporation, No. 1 H. Boyd, located in the E. Humphries survey, abstract 195, northeast of Henrietta in Clay county, is drilling at 750 feet.

Trout and associates, No. 1 H. C. Riggs, is a location 320 feet from the north and 150 feet from the west line of section 2, S. P. R. R. survey, abstract 1102, in Archer county.

Phillips Petroleum and Merry Brothers, No. 1 N. H. Martin, in section 61, H. & T. B. survey, abstract 230, a deep test south of Jolly in Clay county, is underreaming 12¼-inch at 1100 feet.

Bridwell & Mayfield, No. 5 Womack, located in G. C. & S. F. survey, abstract 796, in southwest Wichita county, is testing the sand at 1670-72 feet.

Pat Flynn, No. 1 George Woodward, located in section 178, Waggoner Colony land, nortwest of Electra in Wichita county, is drilling at 3120 feet.

A. Disney and associates, No. 1 Belknap Coal company, in section 6, T. E. & L. survey, northeast of Newcastle in Young county, has spudded in and is drilling at 300 feet.

Temple and associates, No. 1 Eddington, located 150 feet from the north and 150 feet from the west line of the southeast quarter of section 35, H. T. & B. survey in Clay county, is drilling at 150 feet.

T. F. Hunter and others completed No. C-13 J. & J. Waggoner, in the H. George survey, abstract 454, as a 75-barreler from the sand at 1671-74 feet.

Moran Drilling company, No. 1 W. H. Chilson, located in block 5, league 4, Denton county school lands, in the Holliday area of Wichita county, is drilling at 1600 feet.

Rodin & Benton, No. 1 J. Cabe, located in the James Cole survey, abstract 37, in Wichita county, was erroneously reported as dry hole, but is drilling at 1560 feet.

Danciger Oil and Gas, No. 1 Bailey-English, in S. P. R. R. survey, abstract 1217, in Cooke county, is drilling at 1480 feet.

Hammond and Waggoner have location for No. 1 J. & J. Waggoner to be drilled 150 feet north from the west lines of block 9, H. George survey, southwest Wichita county.

Danciger Oil and Gas company, No. 2 T. Truebenbach, located in John F. Clark survey, abstract 194 in Cooke county, is rated as a 50-barrel producer from the sand at 952-60 feet. The well is located about three miles north of the town of Muenster and is an absolute wildcat. The oil tests 40 gravity.

California Oil company, No. 1 W. Nichols, in H. & T. C. R. R. survey, block "A," section 298, southeast of Crowell in Foard county, is drilling at 2388 feet.

A. W. Phillips and associates, No. 1 R. T. Owens, in section 327, block "A," H. & T. C. survey, northwest of Thalia in Foard county, is drilling at 1380 feet.

Akin & Rayzor's No. 1 J. Winkler, located in the Pointevent survey, northwest of Olney in north Young county, completed in the early part of the week as a 100-barrel producer from a sand at 1071-81 feet, drilled to 1091 feet and is swabbing at the rate of 10 barrels per hour.

Atlantic Oil Producing company No. 3 Mrs. Jarnigan, located in W. J. Orrick survey, abstract 217 in the Shaw-Kissinger pool, southeast Young county, is drilling at a depth of 2400 feet.

J. Fred Barron No. 1 J. Kissinger in the J. Conner survey, abstract 57, east of Herron City in south Young county, is drilling at 1350 feet.

Upham Gas company's No. 1 J. A. Jones estate, located in S. P. R. R. survey, abstract 551, Jack county, is drilling at 600 feet. The same company has spudded in on No. 2 Clayton estate in the Mathews survey, abstract 398, and is drilling at 450 feet.

American Refining Properties and George King No. 1 Roland in section 2882, T. E. L. survey, a deep test about four miles west of Bowie in Montague county, is drilling at 1850 feet.

Bridwell Oil company's No. 6 J. A. Dennis in the Finiss Robertson survey, northeast of Nocona in Montague county, is estimated at 100 barrels from the pay at 1709-17 feet and is being placed on the pump.

Edwards & Moore's No. 1 J. O. Crump, located in the northwest quarter of section 962, Throckmorton county, is drilling at 600 feet.

Greene Production company's No. 1 J. Morgan estate in section 3412, T. E. L. survey, south Young county, is underreaming 8-inch at 2800 feet.

Ard and associates' No. 1 Jackson, located in block 35, W. V. F. L. in the west 40 of the south 80 acres of the section in south Wichita county, is drilling at 1020 feet.

Alexander & Snoddy have erected the derrick and are moving in the rig on their No. 1 Neal Wilborn test, located in section 1588, T. E. & L. survey in north Young county. The same parties made location for No. 3 S. R. Jefferys in the southwest corner of the northeast quarter of section 57, west of Orth townsite in Young county.

H. R. Stroube staked out location for No. 1 W. W. Overbey test to be drilled 804 feet west and 300 feet north of the Trout & Lambert No. 4 Overbey well in the Sharpe survey, south of Iowa Park in Wichita county.

H. F. Smith and associates' No. 1 Smith-Groves, located in section 161, T. E. L. survey in north Young county, is spudded in and drilling at 740 feet.

Deep Oil Development company is building a derrick and will move in rig on its location for a 6000-foot test to be drilled 1645 feet north, 150 feet west of the southeast corner of the Pigg lease in John Hirschl land, David Cowan survey, north Wichita county.

SHAW BUYS HALF INTEREST ARCHER TRACT FOR $50,000

Williams and the Primrose Refining company sold to Bert Shaw of the Shaw Oil company their one-half interest in a 40-acre tract out of the J. A. Kunkel land in the McCoy survey in south Archer county, for a consideration of $50,000. The property interest acquired by the Shaw company has on it three wells and a daily output of approximately 100 barrels.

Mid-Continent Oil Activities

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 21. (UP)—The third large producer was added to the Mabel Fuzzell lease in the South City field today when the No. 3 well blew in with an estimated oil flow of 6,000 barrels daily.

CONTINENTAL COMPLETING $1,500,000 IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM

WICHITA PLANT OF OIL COMPANY ONE OF FINEST IN THE STATE IN 'APPEARANCE AND EQUIPMENT

Extensive improvements through alteration and additions which have been under way for four years, have converted the Continental Oil company's refinery here into one of the most modern and attractive refining plants in the country, have already occasioned the expenditure of about $1,500,000 in labor and materials, are now nearing completion, according to information given The Daily Times and Record News by officials in charge.

An average person, driving past the Conoco refinery, on the Burkburnett pavement in North Wichita Falls, remarks upon the unusual cleanliness, orderly appearance of all equipment and buildings, and the excellent general appearance of the property. Even a brief tour of the refinery yard, which covers several acres, will reveal the close attention to detail which accounts for the excellent front presented by the plant to travelers on the highway. Engines performing minor functions at the back of the yard, in almost hidden locations, stand on bases as meticulously clean as the meter cases on the great control board from which all operations of the plant are governed.

Conspicuous Plant

Development of the property has been under way for several years. Beginning with the Conoco park, presented by the old Texhoma company to the city, extending across recreation grounds, a "colony" of attractive cottages for employes, the refining plant yard, and to a large tank farm, the institution is conspicuously well kept in a manner denoting genuine efficiency.

This plant was taken over by the Continental Oil company in March of 1926 by purchase from the Texhoma Oil and Refining company, a concern developed principally by W. B. Hamilton and associates. Putting immediately into practice a policy which had been foremost in Continental Oil company's operations for almost 40 years, the new management began work toward establishing the maximum degree of cleanliness in the plant and on the yard. The process was designed not only to improve the appearance of the property and to facilitate better workmanship on the part of employes, but to modernize the plant gradually from the standpoint of manufacturing processes.

Four years ago, there were 13 old style shell stills, resembling steam boilers, at the refinery. They have been removed gradually, such parts as might be of use salvaged, and all other portions disposed of completely. In their places, two stills of the tube type are now carrying the crude oil which is under conversion to gasoline, kerosene, or fuel oil. The tube type stills and incident equipment now in use represent the latest perfection of machinery for this step in refining, it was said. Replacement of the old stills with the new has been under way since August, 1928, and is just now being completed.

For storage of crude oil, a large number of new steel tanks has been added to the former equipment. The latest addition in this department was the erection of six tanks of 80,000 barrels capacity each. Completion of this unit gives the refinery a total capacity of about 900,000 barrels. During the past two years, most of the larger storage tanks, as well as dozens of smaller ones located nearer the refinery proper, have been finished in the now well known aluminum paint, giving the tank farm an appearance of noticeable brightness. Repainting of tanks will begin soon, however, to prevent smearing of the silver-gray surfaces of oil which seeps through seams of the tank in warm weather. The tanks will be painted black to a point near the top of the wall, and aluminum on the upper tier and roof, it was said.

Boiler Plant Rebuilt

Reconstruction of the boiler house, in which steam for many plant operations is produced, has been completed recently. Material economies in the production of power steam from given amounts of fuel have been accomplished through the installation of the most modern refining equipment.

The treating plant also has been completely revamped for efficient finishing of all fuel oils, and the entire refinery structure has been newly painted.

One of the latest improvements, and one in which employes expressed great satisfaction, is a new change room. Each employe is supplied with two steel lockers, one for work clothing, the other for street attire. The locker room is spacious, well supplied with benches, adequately lighted and ventilated, and opens to a large shower room, where all toilet facilities are provided.

About $10,000 has been spent in the installation of a sewer system and traps for disposal of waste and recovered waste oil. As a means of safeguarding the plant against fire, a modern fire fighting system has been provided. There are six-inch water lines looping the entire plant, and looping separately each department. Fire pumps capable of furnishing through standard fire hose eight streams of water with 125-pound nozzle pressure can be started within 30 seconds by pushing a button at any part of the refinery yard. In addition to the water-throwing equipment, the refinery has installed three portable foam generators, and a large supply of powder for use in them.

Modern Processes

Typical of the strictly modern devices which have been utilized in rebuilding the refinery is the control board, located near the center of operations, by means of which refining processes automatically control themselves. It is 84 feet in length, and accommodates more than 100 meters reflecting the exact condition of materials in all parts of the plant. Pressure, temperature, volume of flow, rate of temperature change, etc., in liquids which are being processed, as well as in power steam units, are not only indicated constantly on these meters, but changes in such steps are effected by minute adjustments of delicate controls placed on the instrument board. For instance, if a steam boiler needs a little more heat, a message is not carried to the fireman to "give 'er a little more gas." The set screw is moved slightly, and 10 degrees more of temperature—the amount of change desired—becomes instantly effective.

The Conoco refinery now has a capacity of about 6,000 barrels, skimming and cracking, daily. Its present products of gasoline, kerosene and fuel oil, although present equipment makes possible the production also of all grades of naphthas and solvents if desired.

The plant has been in constant operation without one day's shutdown since its acquisition by the Continental Oil company, it was stated. It now affords steady employment to 81 men, and has a monthly pay roll of about $15,000. Cottages for 11 families are maintained near the refinery offices. A series of tennis courts are kept in good condition between these cottages and Conoco park.

Thousands of dollars have been spent by the company in recent years in teaching safety methods and for instruction of employes to work and think in terms of safety. During the past 205 days, it was stated, there has not been one lost-time accident among the working personnel. The best previous record was 103 days.

The Conoco refinery draws its supply of crude oil through its own pipe lines, its own pipe line company, and from its own wells in Wichita and adjacent counties.

Furthering the improved appearance of the property, work is now being done to provide a lawn of Bermuda turf from the refinery offices north to the end of the refinery yard. The ground around the office building, and on the residence and recreational property, already is heavily carpeted with grass. When completed, the property front on the Burkburnett highway will be one of the most attractive presented by any industrial plant in this section of the country.

'CARTRIDGES' AT REFINERY WEIGH 272,000 LBS.

Should a 20th century Hercules appear in Wichita Falls, and be casting about for weights to afford his bulging muscles resistance exercises before the morning repast, he might well be taken out to the Conoco refinery on the Burkburnett road just across the river. There are some bits of equipment there which ought to prove heavy enough.

As a part of the processing equipment through which crude oil is forced while being changed to light fuel oils are three immense black cartridges which sit upright, base down, on steel racks so heavy as to be almost solid. Each of these cartridges is about 35 feet in height, appears to be approximately 10 feet in diameter at the base, tapers but slightly at the top, and has walls about eight inches thick. It was formed in Pennsylvania steel mills from a solid ingot of rough steel. For its transfer to Wichita Falls, special railroad trucks and bed had to be constructed, and a routing chosen over railways willing to assume the burden. All this because it flops the giant mill scales over to 136 tons, which is just as much avoirdupois as 272,000 pounds.

Its tremendously heavy walls are purposed to withstand the pressure of from 800 to 1,000 pounds exerted by hot oil liquid and vapor which passes through at a temerature of sometimes 700 degrees. For the erection of these three "cartridges" in place, special derricks, block and tackle, etc. had to be devised, and the process was a very slow one.

While being unloaded from the railroad's special carrier, one of the mammoth tubes dropped a few feet to the ground. Like Moses' rod, it brought forth water in great abundance. A six-inch water main, buried under six feet of solid ground, had been snapped by the impact.

Change in Air Schedules

WASHINGTON, June 21. (INS)—In order to cover territory not at present benefited by air mail service, changes in schedules and extensions of service on a number of air mail routes to Central and South America, were announced today by the post office department.

The route from Brownsville, Texas, to Mexico City and San Lorenzo, Honduras, will be curtailed to end at San Salvador, omitting San Lorenzo.

BUILDING PERMITS

Building permits for the past week totaled only $150, according to F. M. Rugeley, city engineer. This permit was granted to R. Hines for repairs on his residence at 900 Seventeenth street. The total for the month was $142,512, and the total for the year is $986,917.

NEW AUTO TRAILER PROVIDES LUXURIOUS TRAVELING HOME

NEW AUTO TRAILER GIVES COMFORTS OF HOME TO MOTORIST

One of nineteen thirty's outstanding contributions to motor touring—a residence on wheels that includes bedroom, living room, dining room, kitchen and bath, readily attached to any ordinary automobile and built to travel safely at high speeds—is being introduced to migratory America this summer by the Sears, Roebuck and company, retail organization, and has been on display in Wichita Falls.

The caravan is a two-wheeled trailer, known as the Split Coach; the company is offering it to motorists throughout the country in standard, de luxe and custom models. It is sold at about the price of the average small automobile and on satisfactory time payment terms.

By virtue of being without power and engine vibration, the Split Coach has superior riding qualities that recommend it especially to motorists planning long vacation trips. It reduces the motor car's maximum speed by about four miles an hour.

Difficulties Solved

When traveling or "folded up," the coach is the width of an automobile. Stationary and expanded, it is approximately three times its traveling or normal size—a spacious, complete and attractive home in which the family might reside for an entire summer.

Probably the chief problem encountered in perfecting the "trailer" scheme of motor touring has been that of connecting the trailer with the power car in such a way as to insure perfect safety and, at the same time, to absorb all shocks between the two vehicles. This was achieved by a triple coupling device. The main coupling is the "pivot" and "draw-bar." The other two are separate attachments that supplement and support the main coupling.

A relatively wide chassis of special design gives the coach remarkable roadability particularly on curves. Mounted on the chassis are two split bodies from which the coach derives its name. They unfold into a commodious room that has all the equipment of a modern home.

The rear of the vehicle is devoted on either side to cupboard and drawer space. The front is the living room proper. There are four berths, two upper and two lower. During the day the upper mattresses rest on top of the lower ones. At night two steel "berth trays" are lifted out from beneath the lower mattresses and elevated to their upper or night positions. Each berth is six feet, four inches long. Complete privacy is afforded four occupants by a "night curtain" which is suspended from the roof and divides the coach into two equal halves.

Plenty of Space

A large cupboard is provided for overcoats, golf clubs, fishing rods and guns. Underneath the two lower berths are trunk areas for clothing. In the dressing room, each occupant is provided with a drawer for further wearing apparel.

The coach has nine windows, eight of which are windshields designed to permit ventilation in rainy weather. All models are equipped with a roomy refrigerator, completely insulated, draining into the wheel well and with ample space for foodstuffs and ice.

There are two tables, one of which may be used when the vehicle is closed. When it is split, both tables come into use and by a peculiar arrangement heretofore unheard of in vehicular design, may be placed transversely. Similarly, the steel berth trays may be placed across the coach transversely in such a way as to seat ten persons comfortably while the smaller table is utilized for cooking and serving.

A large cupboard having many shedves is provided for groceries and utensils. There are special cupboards for pots, pans, bottles, towels, toilet articles and bathing suits, and even for shoes and overshoes.

The water tanks are portable and easy to refill. Their capacity is more than 11 gallons. They are placed above a wash basin with faucets.

The coach is lighted by electricity from a battery that is conveniently established in a lower cupboard. A gasoline stove likewise fits neatly into a drawer.

IDAHO MAYOR ONE OF 29 CONVICTED BREAKING DRY LAW

COEURDALENE, Idaho, June 21. (INS)—Mayor Herman J. Rossi, former Mayor W. H. Herrick, Chief of Police W. J. Bailey, former Sheriff R. E. Weininger and 29 other men and women of Wallace, Idaho, were declared guilty of conspiracy to violate the federal prohibition law by a jury here today.

The unfavorable verdict for the defendants was reached last night by the jury and was delivered at the opening of federal court today. Judge John J. McNary will pronounce sentence later.

WOULD REOPEN MERGER CASE

Petition Filed by Minnesota Commission

WASHINGTON, June 21. (INS)—The Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse commission today filed a petition with the Interstate Commerce commission to reopen the Great Northern-Northern Pacific railroad merger case, in order to enable it to present evidence showing that many employes of the two roads would be affected if the merger was finally consummated.

This move crystallizes opposition to the order of the commission on Feb. 11 authorizing the unification of the two lines under the name of the Great Northern Pacific. This order was approved subject to the elimination of the Burlington system from the merger and the granting of certain other conditions.

The Minnesota commission alleged the commerce commission's favorable conclusion on the merger was unwarranted from the evidence. It was asserted in the petition that inasmuch as employes of the two lines are not given an opportunity to show how the complete amalgamation would affect them, the evidence presented at the so-called hearing was incomplete and insufficient to justify the finding that it was in the public interest.

The state commission also took issue with the commission's conclusion that the merger would not impair railroad service or operate against public interest insofar as railroad competition is concerned.

"From circumstances and facts respecting the competitive situation between the Great Northern and Northern Pacific we feel that the proposed merger will completely eliminate all benefits accuring to the public from the present aggressive competitive in force between the two lines of railroads," the petition said.

FIVE HIGHWAYS IN COUNTY BEAR HEAVY TRAFFIC

Investment of $2,232,000 Represented in Paved Roads Here

TRAVEL TO WICHITA EASY FOR MOTORISTS

11,336 Vehicles Daily Use State Routes Here, Says D. M. Puckett

On a modern map of Wichita county, five heavy ribbons would be seen leading, as the five points of a star, from Wichita Falls, reflecting the five paved highways which connect all parts of the county with this city.

Judged from a purely local standpoint, the five main arteries of motrized travel have approximately the same importance and reach as their printed representations on the county map. If that map, however, were placed carefully in position upon a similarly scaled state highway map of the Southwest, the full reach of those five ribbons would become immediately visible. In like manner, consideration of the extent to which these out-reaching ribbons of concrete make Wichita Falls one with the entire nation conveys at once a definite impression of their importance to this community.

83 Miles of Concrete

Citizens of this city, Wichita county, the state of Texas, and of the nation have thought enough of travel into and from Wichita Falls to invest approximately $2,232,000 in the construction of these paved highways within the county. Eighty-three miles of reinforced concrete roadway from direct routes to the Red river just beyond Burkburnett; toward Henrietta to the county line, three miles east of this city; toward Archer City to the Archer county line; toward Seymour to the Archer county line; toward Vernon to the Waggoner refinery west of Electra; from the Red river to Electra, and from the Archer county line near Kemp City to Electra, connecting there with the highway into Wichita Falls.

By number, as designated by the state highway department, the road between Wichita Falls and the Red river at Burkburnett is No. 30, leading from this city southwestward to Seymour, Abilene, and to Del Rio on the border. The highway entering from Henrietta is No. 5, connecting Texarkana with Amarillo and Texline. Highway No. 79 leads from Wichita Falls to Archer City, Olney, and to Throckmorton. Branching from it at Olney, No. 24 connects with Newcastle and Graham, where No. 61 provides continuous paved road to Breckenridge, and other points south and west.

State designation is not the only mark to be found upon these Wichita county highways. Road No. 5, entering Wichita Falls from Texarkana, becomes part of United States highway No. 370 at Henrietta, combining there with the highway from Fort Worth under the federal road system, and continuing through this city to Amarillo and Colorado. U. S. No. 70 is the federal designation for the pavement between the free bridge at Burkburnett and Wichita Falls, running on No. 370 to Vernon, and branching off there on state highway No. 28 through Crowell, Paducah, Matador and on to the plains. Another nearby federal route is marked by No. 81, which enters Texas north of Ringgold, coming from Waurika, Okla., and intersecting U. S. highway No. 370 at Bowie.

Aside from its federal and state highway connections, Wichita Falls connects with nearby communities by hard-surfaced county highways. That which leads to Charley is paved to a distance of about five miles from the city, and is graveled from that point to Charley. Another road leading to Petrolia and Byers is paved several miles out, graveled for several more, and on the remainder of its course is of standard grading. From its connection with the Henrietta road just east of the city limits, the Windthorst road is not hard-surfaced, but is of standard grading.

International Roads

While designation of international highways, connecting Canada, the United States, Mexico and Central America has not yet been announced, leaders in highway development in this section of the country have predicted that such steps will be taken soon. Appointment of a five-member commission to chart such routes across this country has been predicted, and Judge W. R. Ely of Abilene, state highway commissioner, is being pushed by Oklahoma and Texas as a member of such a board. Developments thus far reported in this field indicate that the highway leading from Del Rio northward through Abilene, Wichita Falls, Oklahoma City, and thence through Sioux City, Iowa, is being given much favorable consideration for international designation.

All of the highways in Wichita county are of standard reinforced concrete construction save that spanning the western part of the county, from Kemp City to the Red river by way of Electra. That 25.63 miles of road is of asphalt construction, laid on a heavy base of crushed stone. All of the highways within the county are of standard 18-foot width, and flanked on either side by graded shelves about five feet wide.

WICHITA'S FAME AS FISHING CENTER AND 'GOOD PLACE TO LIVE HAPPILY' SPREADS FAR

Wichita Falls is becoming more and more a place in which to live happily, as well as an important southwestern industrial center recognized throughout the country for its accomplishments.

During the past week a well known citizen of this city remarked the noticeable development of sociable commingling among local families, an indication that residents here not only are getting better acquainted but are taking more time to enjoy the community which they labored so aggressively to build.

Scanning the history of civic activities pursued here during recent years for the enrichment of community life, one is impressed immediately with the concerted effort applied by the citizenry to development of the district's various resources. Not only have its numerous oil-producing levels been exploited with great success, its agricultural possibilities discovered and rapidly advanced, its adaptability to poultry raising put to extensive use, but its capacity for providing recreation to resident and visiting populations also has been rapidly developed.

Magazines Boost Fishing

Conspicuous among the improvements brought about since 1920 in the community's recreational resources, and ranking as one of the greatest accomplishments of its kind in the entire Southwest, is the development of ample, well-stocked fishing waters near this city, brought about largely through the efforts of the Izaak Walton league, and its predecessor, the North Texas Fish and Game association.

Recognition already has been given in popular sporting magazines of the country to the unusually good fishing afforded by Lake Kemp, and the two smaller bodies fed by it. One commentator in "Outdoor Life" last summer referred to the Wichita Falls community as offering one of the best fishing grounds in this part of the country. Another authority on outdoor life shortly after that appeared in print with the declaration that Lake Kemp offers the best bass fishing to be found in any lake in the country. The fact that the 22,000-acre lake located in the Waggoner lands was completed only about six years ago bespeaks the work which must have been done in the intervening period to have produced such facilities for good fishing. The explanation lies largely in the relentless efforts of a group of men who first formed the North Texas Fish and Game association, in 1924, and who about two years later reorganized to become a local chapter of the Izaak Walton league of America.

Prominent on the membership of that parent organization, which was perfected about the time that Lake Kemp began to fill, were Ben G. Oneal, L. O. Landon, Jim King, E. G. Hill, Claude Woods, Jim Robinson, Ollie Pressley, James D. Maddrey, Bill Daniels, Alec Lewis, Harris Roberts, Judge C. M. McFarlane, B. B. Greever and others well known here. The organization had for its objective "the propagation, preservation, and protection of game and fish throughout this section of the country."

Acting as an independent unit for almost two years, the association voted in 1925 to affiliate with the national Izaak Walton league. Since that time, its imposing list of accomplishments in the interests of fish and game preservation and propagation has contributed probably more than any other factor in the state to the perpetuation of fishing and hunting in Texas; has greatly multiplied the opportunities for successful angling near Wichita Falls; and has furnished in Ben G. Oneal, its president, a state and national leader in the work of the Izaak Walton league.

Lake Kemp Stocked.

First constructive steps toward providing Wichita Falls with fishing grounds were taken early in 1925, when plans were made for stocking Lake Kemp. At that time, there were no state hatcheries in this part of the state. As a means of introducing a rapid growth of bass in the lake, a shipment of 80 brood bass was obtained from Lake Caddo, near the Louisiana line in East Texas. Proof of the results gained by planting this lot in Lake Kemp may be seen in the comparatively good bass fishing available there as early as 1927.

It soon became apparent that introduction of new brood fish would not suffice to stock the lake heavily, however, for the waters were not sufficiently protected, and their stock of fish suffered extensively. For that reason, a special meeting of the local association was called in order to encourage helpful legislation. It resulted in the writing of a bill by the law and legal committee of the Wichita Falls chapter, called the "Wichita Valley Fish Bill." Following approval of the bill by the local membership, it was introduced to the legislature at Austin by Mr. Oneal, and was passed, signed by the governor, and became effective all on March 6, 1925.

Provisions of that bill are the foundation of the rapid development of excellent fishing in Lake Kemp. It forbids any fishing whatever in those waters during the months of February, March and April; and requires that all crapple less than seven inches long and bass less than 11 inches long must be returned unharmed to the water if caught. Individuals may take 20 crapple or 10 bass each from the waters of the lake daily, provided that the catch does not exceed 20 pounds.

Passage of the Wichita Valley Fish bill provided half of the protection needed—it fixed a limited fishing season, and established limits for the individual catch. A new problem arose through the increasing stocks of fish in Diversion lake and Lake Wichita. The three lakes combined represented 33,000 acres of water which was attracting thousands of anglers daily throughout the entire open season. Adequate patrolling of the area required special assignments of wardens—but the wardens were not available.

Hatchery Opened.

Efforts of the local Izaak Walton league chapter and the chamber of commerce next were devoted to the procuring of a hatchery from which increased supplies of small fish might be obtained for this section. Discussion of the need here resulted in the decision of local Waltonians that a small license fee imposed upon fishing with artificial bait would be wise as well as expeditious. Consequently, Mr. Oneal was appointed to draw up a statewide bill for that purpose. Following approval of the local body, it was presented to the legislature at Austin, and was passed on April 1, 1927. Its provisions imposed an annual fee of $1.10 upon residents for fishing with other than live bait; $5.00 annually upon non-residents; and $1.10 for a five-day license to non-residents. On the smaller fees, issuing officers withhold 10 cents each for handling, and 25 cents is allowed for issuing the $5.00 license. The act provides that the balance of such fees shall be deposited in a fish propagation and protection fund to be used "for the purpose of building and maintaining fish hatcheries, fairly distributed over the state, for the propagation, distribution and protection of fish in the state of Texas."

During the summer of 1927, the governor and members of the game, fish and oyster commission of Texas, visited Wichita Falls and Lake Kemp in order to inspect the needs and adaptibility for a state hatchery. Agreement to establish a hatchery here was made contingent upon a bridge being built across the Wichita river making the hatchery accessible from the Seymour road near Dundee. Members of the Izaak Walton league and of the chamber of commerce staged a hurried campaign, raising $5,900 for the bridge and the hatchery soon became a reality. It is located just below the dam which forms Diversion lake.

Keeping pace in the matter of protection for fish along with development of facilities for their production, the local chapter of the Izaak Walton league has been largely instrumental in procuring, through the state game, fish and oyster commission, the services of increased numbers of game wardens in this district. In addition to this aid in obtaining more adequate patrolling of the three lakes near this city, the Waltonians have carried on a constant campaign of public education in the matter of law observance and the ethics of sportsmanship. Individual members, all of whom work on a purely voluntary basis, have served hand-in-hand with game wardens to promote the maximum development of fishing and hunting facilities for the entire population of this section.

Provision of a Northwest Texas fish hatchery, located near Diversion lake, did not mean an immediate supply of young fish, nor an appreciable maintenance of them even after they became available for the lake waters. The hatchery in the Wichita valley is designed to supply small bass, crappie, bream, etc., for the entire Panhandle. It was not until 1929 that any considerable number of fish was available for Lake Kemp.

Rearing Ponds Launched

Introducing of thousands of young bass annually to the large lake occasioned a new assignment for the nimrods of this district, however. Lake Kemp already contained a fair supply of full-grown fish, whose natures contain no parental instincts to restrain them from wholesale consumption of baby bass. As a result of this hazard, it was estimated that no more than five per cent of the young fry placed in the lake would survive. It was evident that the rapidly increasing number of fishermen who throng the lake during nine months of each year would more than offset so small a rate of increase. With the Wichita Falls chapter taking the lead, Waltonians in this part of the state met the new situation with the construction of rearing ponds at Lake Kemp, Lake Wichita, and at Graham. The ponds constructed by the Graham sportsmen are for use in stocking the city lake at that place.

Two ponds were built about one year ago by the Wichita Falls chapter, at a point a few hundred feet below the Lake Kemp dam, at a cost of about $1,500. Land for this accommodation was procured through a grant from the Wichita Water district No. 1, and a 10-year easement given by the W. T. Waggoner interests. Numerous donations of pipe and other supplies were received from citizens of this area, which with the $1,500 raised by members of the local league chapter, sufficed to complete two model rearing ponds capable of turning out from 20,000 to 30,000 bass of from 4 to 8 inches annually. Placed in Lake Kemp with this growth attained, it is estimated that at least 50 per cent of the fish will survive to make game fish for future years.

Members of the Seymour, Olney and Vernon chapters aided materially in the construction of the first two rearing ponds, both financially and in contribution of personal services. The Izaak Walton league chapter at Vernon, recently reorganized with a large membership, is now making plans and raising funds for the construction of additional rearing ponds, to be located near those already in operation. Committees representing the Wichita Falls and Vernon chapters will make a trip to the site within the next few days to complete arrangements for inauguration of work on the new unit. As a measure of economy, the new ponds will be so located as to be

RENEWED WEAKNESS DISPLAYED IN ALL MARKETS SATURDAY

Sharp Declines in Stock Prices With Wheat, Corn and Cotton Off Low Levels of Season Registered

PART RECENT GAIN IN COTTON MARKET LOST ON SATURDAY

NEW YORK, June 21. (AP)—Cotton lost part of its recent rally during today's trading under realizing by earlier buyers and a renewal of selling promoted by weak cables, further declines in grain and stocks and favorable weather reports.

July sold off to 13.51, making a net decline of 43 points, while the new October declined to 12.85, or 40 points net lower. Closing quotations were several points up from the lowest on covering and the final tone was steady, but the market showed net losses of 26 to 34 points for the day.

The opening was barely steady at a decline of 15 to 24 points.

Some stop orders were uncovered as prices worked lower with the decline extending to 13.16 for the old October and 13.04 for new December later in the morning.

Covering steadied at these prices with the close showing rallies of about 9 to 12 points from the lowest. The closing quotations for July showed a premium of 63 points over the new October compared with a difference of 69 points at the close of the previous day.

Cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 70,000 bales against 83,000 last year and 84,000 two years ago.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, June 21. (AP)—Trading in cotton was fairly active today and the course of prices was downward due first to poor Liverpool cables and later to a fresh decline in silver and weakness in the stock market.

After opening 12 to 17 points down, prices continued to ease off under rather heavy liquidation until at the lowest in the late trading, active months showed losses from the previous close of 37 to 47 points.

Prices rallied 8 to 11 points at the end on shorts covering for over the week-end. The general market closed steady at net losses for the day of 27 to 36 points.

Liverpool came in 10 to 13 points worse than due and first trades here showed losses of 12 to 17 points. At the end of the first hour July traded down to 13.23, October to 12.99 and December to 13.15, or 27 to 32 points below the previous close.

A recurrence of weakness in stocks caused a further decline during the second hour and before the selling was checked July had dropped to 13.10, down 47 points while October declined to 12.10 and December to 13.05, or 37 points on both positions below the previous close.

Prices rallied 8 to 11 points in the final trading on week-end short covering. July closing at 13.21, October at 13.00 and December at 13.13, or 27 to 36 points net lower on those months.

Port receipts 3,388, for the season 8,562,621, last season 9,421,099. Exports 7,039, for season 6,424,181, last season 7,627,166. Port stock 1,709,644, last year 874,134. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 64,145, last year 66,887. Spot sales at southern markets 1,308, last year 1,320.

Liverpool Cotton

LIVERPOOL, June 21. (INS)—Prices on spot cotton was easier in a quiet opening today. Sales were 2,000 bales, and receipts were 1,000 bales.

At noon, middling fair was at 9.11d, strictly good middling at 8.66d, good middling at 8.31d, strictly middling at 8.01d, middling at 7.76d, strictly low middling at 7.51d, low middling at 6.96d, strictly good ordinary at 6.26d, and good ordinary at 5.86d.

Futures were barely steady, with July at 7.22d, October at 7.03d, December at 7.05d, January at 7.08d and March at 7.16d.

Chicago Cotton Futures

CHICAGO, June 21. (AP)—Cotton futures closed: July 13.24; Oct., 13.08; Dec., 13.20.

Cottonseed Oil

NEW YORK, June 21. (AP)—Cottonseed oil was very quiet today, but displayed a fairly steady tone in the face of the weakness in other markets.

There was no sign of selling pressure. Old contracts closed 1 to 5 points lower and new contracts 7 points lower to 2 points higher.

Sales, 2,200 barrels, including 1,900 of old and 300 new. Prime crude, nominal; prime summer yellow spot, old, 8.10; July closed 8.10; Sept., 8.11; Oct., 8.12; Dec., 8.01. New: Dec., 7.63; Jan., 7.75; March, 7.90.

NEW ORLEANS, June 21. (AP)—Cottonseed oil futures ruled comparatively steady today considering the weakness in cotton and other markets. Prime summer yellow oil closed unchanged at 7.10 and prime crude closed at 6.50 to 6.75c. Futures closed barely steady. June 7.18, July 7.15, Sept. 7.25, Oct. 7.30, Dec. 7.30.

WEST BROS. AUTO SALES

NEW YORK, June 21. (AP)—Renewed weakness on wheat, corn and cotton was accompanied by another sharp drop in stock prices today. Bear operators, capitalizing the break in these commodities, pushed a dozen trading shares, including U. S. Steel, American Can, and New York Central, to new lows for the year, the selling appeared professional.

With wheat off a cent and a half or more to the lowest levels of the season and cotton showing an extreme drop of about $2 a bale, the stock market leaders displayed little resistance to selling. Short covering in the late trading cut down some of the losses, but net declines of 2 to 6 points were common.

The closing price index on 90 leading shares stood at 156.2, a loss of 4.6 points and a new low on final quotations since the fall panic. This figure, however, was half a point above the 1 p. m. level of Wednesday. All of the groups represented in the composite index ended the two-hour session below their previous 1930 minimums.

Allied Chemical made the session maximum decline dropping 15 points to 238, a new low for both 1930 and 1929.

Pressure against U. S. Steel quickly sent the stock a full point below its socalled resistence level of 155, although it closed more than a point above the low for a net loss of 2¾. American Can touched 110⅛, or 3⅜ below the 1930 previous low, and finished at the bottom, off 5⅜ on the day. New York Central sagged to 155⅛.

J. I. Case went down to 164¾ against its 1930 high of 362¾.

Foreign exchanges were easy, sterling sagging ⅛. The Spanish pesta was again heavy.

CLOSING IRREGULAR N. Y. BOND MARKET WITH SLIGHT GAINS

NEW YORK, June 21. (AP)—A weak share market and the usual dullness of a short session proved a combination too strong for the bond market to make any material advance today, despite the extremely favorable credit conditions.

The list closed irregular. Moderate strength was shown by best grade rails.

United States governments were quiet. With the inquiry chiefly for liberty 4th 4¼s which sold off at the close. On a few sales, liberty 1s 4¼s, and treasury 3⅜ issues of 40-43 and 43-47 established new highs for the year, the latter gaining ⅛ point.

American Telephone 4½s, off 2¼ points; Atchison 4½s off 2 and International Telephone 4½s off 1¼, lost the most ground among convertibles. International Telephone bonds were at new lows for the year.

Railroad issues moved narrowly for the most part. Erie 5s, Great Northern 7s, Louisville, and Nashville 3½s, Northern Pacific 4s, New York Central 4s, and Pennsylvania 4¼s yielded fractionally.

Utilities were firm.

Weakness of sugar company bonds was one feature of industrial issues. American Beet Sugar convertible 6s sagged 2¼ points to a new 1930 low and vertineties sugar 7s dropped 5 points.

Activity in the foreign group centered in South American issues, most of which lost ground.

THE STOCK MARKET—TODAY AND FOR SIX YEARS BACK

The latest downward turn in the stock market, with a history of fluctuations for the past six years, is shown at a glance in this chart, prepared by Col. Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust company and noted statistician. The solid line represents the market valuation each month during the past six years of the stock of the 25 leading corporations listed above; the dashed line represents the net earnings; the dotted line shows the dividends actually paid. Figuring 1924 levels as 100, one sees that stock prices rose to a high point of 533 before the great crash of 1929, while earnings only advanced from 100 to 293 and dividends from 100 to 284.

"It seems probable," Ayres says, "that the prices of good stocks have assumed a permanently higher relationship to their earnings and dividends than that which they had from 1924 to 1927. In recent years the corporations have largely paid off their bank debts, and reduced or wiped out their bond issues. This has enhanced the relative value of their stocks. Even more important is the fact that the investing public has finally realized that the tendency of leading corporations is to grow from year to year and decade to decade, and to hand on to long-term stockholders large benefits from that growth."

Livestock

Weekly Livestock Review

KANSAS CITY, June 21. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Reaction in the fat lamb trade was the bright spot in the livestock market during the week. Closing rates were unevenly steady to 35c higher with the advance shown mostly at river markets. Choice Idaho lambs brought $12.10 at Omaha and St. Joseph. Matured classes steady; fat ewes selling $3.00@3.50; offerings at 11 markets 194,823 against 239,945 last week and a 182,270 a year ago.

Increased receipts and a rather narrow demand was responsible for a sharp break in hog values. Final prices unevenly 60@75c lower. The late top was $9.65 on choice light hogs in St. Louis. Supplies were 481,705 as compared with 435,620 last week and 467,163 a year ago.

Fed steers and yearlings were under severe pressure and declines of 50@75c were scored at most markets. Choice heavy fed steers $12.75 at Chicago. Most sales ranged from $8.00@11.50 with plain grassy fat steers down to $10.50 at the river markets. Vealers slumped 50c@$1.00. Stockers and feeders dull; unevenly lower. Receipts 186,227 against 182,417 last week and 176,855 a year ago.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., June 21. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Hogs—Receipts, 2,500; market, 5@15c lower; pigs, steady to weak; bulk 160 to 250 pounds, $9.50@9.65; most 100 to 140 pounds, $9.00@9.25; bulk sows, $8.35@8.50.

CHICAGO, June 21. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Cattle—Receipts, 500. Compared with a week ago: Fed steers and yearlings in excessive supply; mostly 50 to 75c lower; around $1.25 to $2.25 under three weeks ago; lowest levels in over three years; light yearlings and she stock showed decline; bulls, 50c to $1.00 lower; vealers, steady; best heavy steers, $12.75; top long yearlings, $12.00; best heifer yearlings $11.00; fat cows and butcher heifer market a semi-demoralized affair all week. Most mat cows turning at $5.50@7.00; grain fed, $7.50, upward.

Sheep—Receipts, 4,000; market nominal. Compared with one week ago: All classes about steady; late bulk sorted native lambs, $12.00@12.25; early top, $12.75; yearlings mostly plain or heavy around $8.00; good to choice kinds, $9.50@10.00; fat ewes, 150 pounds down, $3.00@3.50; top, $3.75.

Hogs—Receipts, 8,000; market mostly 10 to 15c lower in slow and uneven trade; top, $9.60, paid for 160 to 200 pounds; by the week, better grade hogs mostly 65 to 75 cents lower; packing sows, $1.00 lower.

FORT WORTH, June 21. (AP)—The few cattle sold here today were in line with Friday's close which showed a decline for the week on all classes. Steers sold at $6.25.

Few heifers sold from $3.75@6.50. Common heifers and cows cleared from $2.50@5.50.

Few calves sold from $3.00@6.00.

As usual stocker cattle lacking in the day's trading.

Sheep considered steady with not enough on hand to test values.

Trading in hogs were considered steady with a top of $9.00. Bulk of the 175-250-pound butchers sold from $8.50@9.00.

Wool Trades Slow

BOSTON, June 21. (AP)—Trading in wool during past week was a little slower than during the previous two weeks. A fairly large volume of business, however, was transacted and prices were fairly firm. The slower demand made it practically impossible to secure the advances recently made in asking prices. Bulk of the sales continue to be made on 64s and finer original bag territory lines and on 48, 50s quality wools. A fair demand was received on 58, 60s, but 56s grade wools were draggy.

CURB MARKET HAS WIDE ASSORTMENT DEPRESSED SHARES

NEW YORK, June 21. (AP)—Curb market shares attracted little support today, and liquidation, together with fairly active bear selling, was sufficient to depress a wide assortment of issues to new lows for the year or longer. Sales for the two-hour session aggregated 568,300 shares.

The trend on this market appeared to be in sympathy with the downward tendency on other speculative markets, as news developments regarding curb shares were meager. Electric Bond & Share was a target for bear selling, touching a new low for the year at 71½, and closing at 72¼, off more than 4 points. Cities Service was an active feature, and closed about a point lower at 27⅛.

American Gas dropped 7 points to a new 1930 low at 108 and American Commonwealth B. Electric Power and Yight warrants, and United Light A lost about 2 to 4 points. Oils were not very active, but inclined to heaviness. Gulf dropped 7 points to 119, a new low.

In the industrials, Aluminum Company which fell 45 points yesterday, rallied 10 points today, then lost half of its gain. Deere was a weak spot again, declining about 10 points to a new bottom at 85⅛, compared to the year's high of 162⅝.

Cotton Goods Lower

NEW YORK, June 21. (AP)—Cotton goods sales for the week showed a little improvement compared with a week ago as to volume, but at lower prices. Primary merchants are becoming more active in offering new fall lines. Raw silk was steady and unchanged. Burlap markets were quiet. More interest is developing in worsted dress fabrics. Considerable curtailment of production is planned by textile mills for the holiday period of Fourth of July week.

MORE THAN DOLLAR DECLINE FOR WHEAT CORN ALSO SLUMPS

CHICAGO, June 21. (AP)—Accentuating a two weeks record breaking fall in grain prices, all future deliveries of wheat plunged down today to below $1 a bushel. December wheat which alone heretofore held decidedly above the dollar level, tumbled today to 99⅝c.

The market had the lowest general close in many years, being dominated by acute weakness of securities, timely rains in Canada, and a rapid increase of arrivals of newly harvested domestic wheat, augmenting the huge supply left over from last year.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsteady at but little above the day's bottom point and 1¼@3c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ¼@⅝c down, oats ¼@1⅛c off and provisions showing 12@60c decline.

Despite heavy profit taking today on the part of recent speculative sellers, the heat market sold little power to rally.

Prices for corn and oats ran downhill along with wheat. Hot weather likely to promote growth on the new corn crop tended to accelerate the movement of the corn market toward a lower level.

Provisions responded to weakness of grain and of hog values as well.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, July 89¼@89½c; 94½@94⅝c. Sept. 92½@92⅝c, 97⅛c; Dec. 97¼@91¼c, $1.02⅛. Corn, July, 72⅞@72⅝c, bids. Sept 71⅞, 74⅝@74⅞c; Dec. 67@69⅝.

APPEAL TITLE DECISIONS TWO CASES IN OKLAHOMA

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 21. (UP)—Appeals from two land title decisions were filed today in the state supreme court.

Janeiro L. Hanson, et al., appealed from the judgment awarded H. N. Brannon in the Stephens county district court. The suit involved the title to certain real estate in that county.

William W. McMillan and his wife, Lillie McMillan, filed an appeal from the Logan county district court which held that a royalty deed given the Pawnee Petroleum company, et al., was legal.

FRENCH AIR MAIL FLIER SAFE AFTER BEING LOST WEEK

MENDOZA, Argentina, June 21. (INS)—Nearly dead from starvation and exposure, Henri Guillaumet, French air mail aviator, was being treated here after being lost for a week in the resolate fastnesses of the Andes mountains.

Guillaumet started last Friday from Santiago, Chile, for Mendoza, bearing a cargo of mail. Caught in a terrific snowstorm over the Andes, he managed to land his plane on a tiny plateau. The machine was wrecked, but the airman uninjured.

After aimless wandering, racked by hunger and cold, Guillaumet was found by a lonely shepherdess, living in isolation high in the mountains. She supplied him with food and offered him shelter, but he remained only one day, preferring to take his chances on finding his way back to civilization.

He headed in the direction of Chile, but soon lost his bearings. Weak from hunger, he stumbled over the edge of a 400-foot precipice, suffering serious bruises and injuries.

In the meantime, a party of 600 searchers had combed the mountain paths for some trace of the flier. He had been given up for lost when a group of policemen came across the flier, unconscious and half dead, at the spot where he had fallen.

He was rushed to Mendoza by automobile.

MAN WHO FACED BANDITS TO BARGAIN FOR RELEASE BRISTOW COMES TO U. S.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21. (UP)—A man who went into the mountainous wilds of Mexico's west coast to bargain with bandits for the release of J. E. Bristow, American millionaire, will arrive in San Francisco tomorrow aboard the liner Vuatemala.

He is E. W. Eaton, American consul at Mazatlan.

Eaton also had the experience of being bombed by Mexican federal aviators during the last revolution. He had gathered a group of American Nationalists together in an interior town to prepare for the protection and removal, when the federal fliers mistook the gathering for revolutionists and attacked them from the air.

PEGGY HOPKINS JOYCE TO WED, TITLED ENGLISHMAN

PARIS, June 21. (UP)—Peggy Hopkins Joyce, who arrived here recently, will soon marry a titled Englishman, it was said on good authority today.

She departed today for the countryside in an automobile, protesting that her heart was intact and that she has "no intention of falling in love this week-end."

HEAVY TRAFFIC ON COUNTY HIGHWAYS

an aid to safe driving, is now being done by the state highway department here. Highway No. 79 to Olney, already has been completed. Highway No. 30, through Burkburnett to the river, is nearing completion. Work of center-striping all paved roads within this district will be pushed to completion during the next few weeks, it was said. The line which divides the road-surface for two-way travel is drawn by a machine which lays a six-inch strip of hot asphalt upon the concrete, with which it combines through penetration into minute pores.

Amount of Traffic

Officials of the highway department here estimate that traffic on Wichita county highways is about the same now as it was last July, when the last traffic census was taken. Accurate check of all motor vehicles passing over these paved roads during Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday (July 6, 7, 8 and 9) was taken in order to get a reliable average for daily traffic volume. According to the figures obtained, 11,336 vehicles were driven daily over state and federal designated highways within this county, approximately 1,000 of which were registered in other states. Reflecting the frequent exchange of business visits between this city and Iowa Park, Electra, Vernon and surrounding oil producing areas, the highway between Wichita Falls and Iowa Park showed by far the heaviest total, bearing all of 4,231 motor vehicles daily. The next largest number of cars, trucks, etc., was counted on the Burkburnett road, with a total of 2,103 per day. On the Henrietta road, 2,043 drivers were checked for each day. Between this city and Seymour, 1,445 vehicles passed the enumerator's post during a 24-hour period, while No. 79 between Archer City and Wichita Falls, showed a total of 1,514 per day. The total number of Texas cars moving over the highways of Wichita county daily was shown to average 10,400, and those from other states 936.

Headquarters of the state highway department for division 3, comprising about 13 counties, is maintained in this city, affording permanent employment to a minimum of about 25 persons. D. M. Puckett is the supervising engineer for this division.

DAILY PRODUCTION IN OKLAHOMA GAINS 23,880 DURING WEEK

TULSA, Okla., June 21.—Oklahoma daily production averaged 675,580 barrels a day this week, while Kansas made 131,450 barrels a day. This shows a gain of 23,880 barrels a day for Oklahoma and a loss of 2,100 a day for Kansas.

Continental Oil company extended the Oklahoma City field south into Cleveland county when its No. 1 Sudik, in section 6-10-2w, found a show of oil and gas in the Wilcox sand at 6684 to 6693 feet. The Mid-Continent is starting to pinch gasoline production as refiners in other areas are doing. Jobbers are returning to the market and refiners feel better.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Troop 15

The Boy Scouts of troop 15 met at the Highland Heights Christian church, with Robert Ford in charge, as Jack Rudy, scoutmaster, was out of the city. The meeting opened with the pledge of allegiance led by Cecil Pinkston, and the scout oath was led by V. R. Henderson. Each scout answered roll call by giving rank and oath of service. A discussion was held as to the summer's activities. Plans were made for a swimming trip in the near future. The boys were urged to pass tests in order to go before the board of review. Several stunts were given by the different patrols and numerous games were played, among which the "sleeping pirate" was the favorite. The meeting was closed with the scoutmaster's benediction.

Troop 1

Troop 1 met at the Floral Heights Methodist church, having a regular meeting which opened with the scout oath and pledge of allegiance. J. W. Thomas was voted into the troop and he was also initiated. Others initiated were Carl Mulligan, J. B. Garrett and Eugene Daugherty. A discussion was held on respect to the flag and to the scout officials. The meeting was closed with the Lord's prayer.

Troop 10

Troop 10 met at the First Presbyterian church with Paul Woodward, scoutmaster, in charge. The meeting opened with the scout oath and allegiance to the flag led by Kenneth Thomas. Signaling was practiced and games were played, "snatch the handkerchief" being a favorite with the boys. A week from Friday night a treasure hunt was planned and plans were also made for receiving and signaling correctly. The boys discussed a "white elephant exchange" to be held soon. The meeting was closed with Reggie Humphrey in charge.

Scouts in Camp

Since most of the boys were at the scout camp attendance of the troops was decreased. There are about 60 boys at camp. They are from Clara, Cashion, Henrietta and Wichita Falls. Monday morning the second session of camp opens. The boys will meet at scout headquarters and leave at 9:30.

Tuesday is Boy Ranger day. The boy rangers are leaving for camp Tuesday morning at 9:30. The boys are to meet at the Boy Scout office in the Memorial auditorium. A number of reservations have been made. All boy rangers desiring to go to scout camp are asked to call the scout office, 2-2133, not later than Monday afternoon.

Meet in Petrolia

The Petrolia Boy Scouts met Wednesday evening to reorganize a scout troop. There were 15 boys present and several parents. The boys plan to do great things this year under the leadership of Mr. Current.

The scout office urges all troops to send in their meetings for the Boy Scout column as soon as possible each Saturday morning.

FISHING WATERS OF WICHITA WIN FAME

served by the same supply and drain pipes already installed.

For the purpose of maintaining and increasing the supply of fish in Lake Wichita, which is visited by hundreds of anglers daily throughout the open season, new supplies of young fry, and rearing ponds, have been provided during the past few months by the Wichita Falls Waltonian group. Two rearing ponds have been perfected just east of the dam, on which the trolley line is located, near the entrance to Lakeside park. Land was furnished by the Wichita Falls Traction company through a long-term easement, the designated area having two ponds already there, readily adaptable for conversion to rearing ponds. They have been equipped with new boxes, screens, pipes, high wire fences, etc., at a cost of about $1,000, and are now protecting 50,000 young bass which will eventually go into the waters of Lake Wichita.

Other Towns Aid

Some estimate as to the extent to which citizens of this community do their fishing in Lake Wichita may be drawn from the fact that on one day in December, 1929, approximately 340 persons paid for space on the pier at the pavilion. Careful estimates of those who line the shore at various points, suitable to pole fishing, bring the probable number of Lake Wichita anglers to a total of about 1,000 daily.

During the past year, the local Walton league chapter secured two shipments of crappie, green perch, and bass from the federal government. This stock originated in Central America, and added several thousand fish to the prospective catch of the next few seasons. The three bodies of water now abound in bass, crappie, bream, sunfish, and channel cat, as well as the less attractive drum and other varieties.

Work of the Wichita Falls chapter has not been limited to the sponsoring of needed legislation, provision of new supplies of fish, and construction of rearing ponds. Using Mr. Oneal, its president, and a director in the national organization, as a volunteer field organizer, it has brought into existence thriving Walton league chapters at Olney, Graham, Seymour and Vernon and has developed a remarkable degree of district cooperation among the five chapters thus provided for promotion of better hunting and fishing throughout this entire area. When the state game fish and oyster commission was reorganized by legislative enactment about a year ago, the Wichita Falls organization headed the fight for a commission of a least six members, instead of three. When it appeared that a South Texas movement for a three-man commission promised to prevail, the president of Wichita Falls' sportsmen's organization again hurried to Austin as North Texas' advocate in pleading for seven commissioners. The act as passed provides six members for that body.

Within six years following the completion of the dam which utilizes the waters of the Big Wichita river for this valley, Wichita Falls is supplied with unusually good fishing; almost within walking distance to those who have little time for the sport, and with ample provisions for houseboat or cottage-residence only an hour's drive from the city, to those who may count their fishing time by days rather than by hours. For this unusual resource, a large measure of credit is due the local chapter of the national Izaak Walton league. As a further result of these improvements, and the reasonable license fee provided by the law which they proposed and supported, increasing hundreds of anglers from a territory extending far from Wichita Falls in all directions make frequent excursions here throughout the year to enjoy the excellent fishing which has been provided.

LARGE CROWDS HEAR GIRL EVANGELIST AT BURKBURNETT REVIVAL

BURKBURNETT, Texas, June 21.—Large crowds are attending the Assembly of God revival meeting which opened here Tuesday evening in a large tent on South Avenue B. Miss Alpha Fortenberry, the girl evangelist, assisted by her party workers of the Assembly of God church, is conducting the services. Special music is a part of the services.

TRI-CLUB KIWANIS MEETING SCHEDULED HERE FOR JUNE 30

Dr. R. H. Peterson, president, and Don T. Haynes, secretary of the local Kiwanis club, will leave the latter part of the week for Atlantic City, N. J., where the annual Kiwanis International convention is to be held.

One of the outstanding features of the annual convention, "Fellowship Moment of Silence," will be observed this year throughout the United States and Canada in Interclub meetings as well as in the convention itself, and 102,000 Kiwanians on the continent will assemble at the same time.

Wichita Falls, Henrietta and Ryan, Okla., will have an inter-club meeting at Wichita Falls Monday, June 30, at 7 p. m., in observance of this project. Telegrams from Dr. Peterson and Mr. Haynes will be read to those assembled here on that night.

Fate to Shatter Romance of Girl Sailing High Sea

GALVESTON, June 21. (UP)—Adversity plays a winning hand in the story of Fatma Hayzina Petrowitz-De Fleron, 18-year-old Belgian girl.

She is somewhere at sea today, a full share of tragedy behind her. And what was to have been a romantic outcome of her troubles again has turned to unhappiness and monotony.

It all started when Fatma fell in love with Vallerie De Fleron, a seaman steward in Belgium.

She stowed away in his ship. Galveston port authorities took her to jail when the vessel docked here six weeks ago. They told her she would be deported and she attempted suicide. This failed and she repeated the attempt. She was removed to a hospital where she secretly married Vallerie, who is 22 years old.

Deportation lost its terror when she learned Vallerie might go along and they might come to America on formal application for entry.

Fatma sailed aboard the Waban yesterday as it cleared for Antwerp. She smiled happily, knowing that her young husband was stowed away in the Waban. They were turning a trick on a persistent ill fortune.

But the girl did not know that Vallerie was discovered and driven from the ship. Today she would know. A broad expanse of water is behind the Waban and it is heading away from the docks on which Vallerie was left, the port where Fatma had grinned triumphantly at adversity.

EXTRA GUARD PLACED AROUND JUAREZ JAIL TO WATCH AMERICAN

EL PASO, Texas, June 21. (AP)—Soldiers with fixed bayonets walked the jail walls in Juarez today under specific orders to guard J. W. (Jeff) Meers, charged with the murder of Antonio Visconte, bartender, shot to death Wednesday night.

Other than to describe it as a precautionary measure, police officials declined to explain the assignment of infantrymen to augment the regular jail personnel.

The Union of Bartenders Waiters and Hotel Workers were demanding justice be done their fellow-worker in Juarez courts. Meers said he mistook Visconte for Manual Villareal, who, he claimed, killed his father.

BELIEVE ARRESTS WILL BREAK UP CRIME RING

KANSAS CITY, June 21. (INS)—The breaking up of a kidnaping and extortion ring which has terrorized Kansas City business men the last two years and exacted nearly $500,000 in tribute is believed by police to be under way with the arrest today of two men in connection with the abduction and torture of Stephen Exarhos.

The men were arrested on information given the police by the victim. He said he recognized the men before they taped his eyes and tortured him, threatening his life unless he paid them $20,000. He was released when he promised to pay $5,000.

The men under arrest are Frank Nichols, brother of Gus Nichols, notorious Kansas City gunman, now serving a term in the penitentiary at Stillwater, Minn., and Leo Brown.

Pending the filing of charges the men are being questioned in connection with the recent kidnaping of Michael Katz, millionaire Kansas City druggist, who paid his captors $100,000 for his release.

They also will be questioned in the kidnaping and torture of Barney Goodman, real estate man. Goodman, unlike Katz, outwitted his captors and later openly defied them by walking the streets of Kansas City with two armed guards.

PACE GETS VERDICT IN SUIT HERE OVER RICH OIL PROPERTY

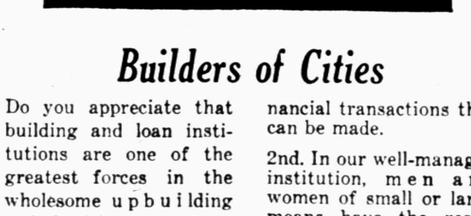

A verdict in favor of George L. Pace and others against the Keystone Production company was returned by a jury in the 78th district court here Saturday afternoon in a suit involving oil property situated near Duncan, Okla., having a value in excess of $200,000, according to information given by court officials.

The Keystone company had sued Mr. Pace and others for a share of the production from and the value of an oil lease. The defendants contended that the Keystone company had permitted a share it previously had held in the lease to lapse.

The jury deliberated about two and a half hours before returning its verdict.

Builders of Cities

Do you appreciate that building and loan institutions are one of the greatest forces in the wholesome upbuilding and healthy growth of our cities all over America? This is just as true here in our home city.

In this connection, three things are certain:

1st. Loans made for building homes, when secured by conservative first mortgages and amply covered by insurance, are the safest financial transactions that can be made.

2nd. In our well-managed institution, men and women of small or large means have the ready opportunity to invest their money profitably and helpfully.

3rd. The returns to the investor are larger with safety, than in almost any other form of investment.

You serve yourself and you serve your community when you put money in our institution.

MRS. GEORGE BARCUS HONOREE AT LUNCHEON

Honoring Mrs. George Barcus, who is leaving Wichita Falls to make her home in Iowa, Mrs. S. J. Holt entertained the Banner Bible class of the Highland Heights Christian church at her home, 1607 Polk street, Thursday with a lovely luncheon. The home was profusely decorated with cut spring flowers emphasizing the class colors, lavender and white.

The dining table was centered with a large elaborately decorated basket filled with white Shasta daisies and lavender sweet Williams.

The favors were baskets filled with assorted mints stressing the color scheme. The honoree was presented with a remembrance card.

A short business session followed the luncheon during which the members voted to buy shades for the windows in their class room.

Those who attended were the honoree, Mrs. J. D. Stephens, Mrs. L. T. Lane, Mrs. F. R. Parker, Mrs. F. B. Mashburn, Mrs. J. E. Glenn, Mrs. Salena Hammond, and the hostess. The guest list included Mrs. Mollie Smith, Mrs. A. P. Hood of Gainesville, Mrs. P. L. Holt and Mrs. E. E. Davis.

Mrs. Holt was assisted in the entertaining by her daughter, Lamont, and Miss Dorothy Parker.

Smith-Downing Wedding Here Saturday Noon

Miss Helen Smith and Horace Downing, son of Mrs. J. L. Downing, were united in marriage in a simple but beautiful home ceremony Saturday at 1 o'clock, with Dr. Gaines B. Hall, pastor of the First Southern Presbyterian church, officiating.

The wedding occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Alexander, sister and brother of the bride, with whom Miss Smith made her home.

The bride was charming in a pink georgette frock with eggshell accessories and a corsage of sweet peas. She wore pearls as her only jewels. For her traveling costume, she wore a grey ensemble with grey accessories.

The house was decorated with Shasta daisies and roses, and the improvised altar was adorned with palms, ferns and candles. Only the immediate families of the bride and bridegroom were present.

Mrs. Grady Fletcher sang "At Dawning" as a pre-nuptial solo, with Mrs. J. E. Hall playing the violin obligato.

Immediately following the ceremony, the couple were guests of honor at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Alexander. Pink and white ice cream and white cake decorated pink roses and love birds further carried out the bride's chosen colors.

A party and shower at the home of Mrs. J. L. Downing Friday evening and a wedding breakfast for the immediate families of the couple Saturday morning at Mrs. Downing's home had also been given in honor of Miss Smith and Mr. Downing. Out of town guests here for the wedding included Mrs. A. B. Turnipseed of Atcheson, Kan., sister of the bride, and Miss Irene Givens of Fort Worth.

Mr. and Mrs. Downing left Saturday afternoon on a wedding trip which will include a visit to Carlsbad cavern. After three months in Colorado, they will return to Wichita Falls to make their home.

Mrs. Downing is a former student of the Wichita Falls High school and is well known for her activity in school and other circles. Mr. Downing is a graduate of the local high school, the Wichita Falls Junior college and the University of Texas.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS

Swimming Class

The Camp Fire Girls swimming class will be held at Westmoreland pool from 8 to 9 o'clock on Friday morning as usual. There were only about 20 girls out on last Friday. We wondered why the attendance was not so large as on the previous week. The class is progressing nicely. Last week the members reviewed the dead mans' float, practiced on the flutter kick and overarm stroke. From the way the girls are progressing it looks as if we might have some entrants in the finals for the state meet in San Antonio. The camp fire swimming meet to be held in September should be very interesting and worth while.

Camp Bulletins Out

The camp bulletins have been mailed to all active Camp Fire Girls. Anyone who has not received one by Friday of this week will please notify local headquarters as we want every girl who is interested to read about our summer camp which will be held at Lake Worth from July to Aug. 3.

Another Adventure

The city-wide "Adventure" for June will be a trip through the Coca-Cola Bottling Works at 418 Ohio on Thursday afternoon. Miss McIlheran will be at the plant by 3 o'clock to meet the members as they arrive.

We hope the plant will be running "full force" so we may see it in operation from the manufacturing of the drinks to the crating of the bottles.

Executive Board

The executive board of the local council met at local headquarters on Wednesday for the monthly luncheon. The camp theme was carried out in the table decorations, program and menu. Campers' goulash, baked potatoes and slaw, topped off with fruit gelatine and home made cake proved a satisfying meal. Louise Rhoads, the 12-year-old girl who has earned some $12 baking cakes, made the cake which was served. Members of her group, wearing white middies and dark skirts, sang a number of camp songs. Mrs. T. H. Lawson, president of the council, presided at the business meeting. Among other things, she called attention to the symposim of talks given at the 1930 biennial conference of camp fire executives which met at Pocono and New York City which she had just received. She offered to pass it around to different council members in order that they might read and enjoy it. Mr. Bebb made the report of plans made for the summer camp.

It was announced that no meeting will be held in July as the executive will be in camp at Fort Worth at that time.

Those attending were Mesdames T. H. Lawson, C. H. Clark, Frank W. Michaux, Wm. McIlheran, mother of the executive, Messrs. Edwin A. Bebb, S. H. Rider, Wallace J. Masters, J. W. Culbertson and Miss McIlheran.

Birthday Honor

The June "guardian" states that members have the rest of the year to complete requirements for the 1930 birthday honor. Those who completed the requirements with the exception of the handcraft, may check up requirements and find out what they lack. Local headquarters was under the impression that requirements had to be completed by the birthday council fire, but this was a mistake.

Exhibit at Library

The Kemp Public library has a camp fire exhibit of handicraft from the local headquarters, in the children's department. The librarian says that the children who come to the library are very interested and are asking for books which tell about things in the exhibit.

Adi-Iwah Group

Members of Idi-Iwah group were the guests of Miss Francis Hyland on Wednesday night and Thursday morning. After a refreshing swim at Sand Beach the girls went to Hyland's home, on Sunset Lane just off the Iowa Park road, for a picnic supper. That night they filled the treasure chest with gifts to be sent to the Philippine Islands. The girls slept out-of-doors, awaking the next morning at 5 o'clock for an early morning jaunt. After breakfast Mrs. Hyland brought the group into the city in time for the Day nursery picnic. Those attending were Margaret Davis, Francis Hyland, Eleanor Weiler, Clarice Clark, Mrs. Hyland, Mrs. F. W. Michaux, Thelma Bridges, Miss Mary McIlheran, Helen Bartholomew and Mrs. Wm. McIlheran.

Ahsonzong Group

The Ahsonzong group met at the home of Gladys Young, 1410 Seventeenth street, Thursday afternoon. A picnic was planned for Friday evening at Cedar park pool at 6 o'clock. Gladys Young gave a piano selection. The girls hemmed cup towels for a handicraft honor.

Next week the group will meet at Mrs. Willis, 1624 McGregor street. Those attending the Thursday meeting were Dorothy Gothard, Lucile Murchison, Pauline and Irene West, Loucille and Mrs. Willis, Gladys and Vivian Young.

Oawakiya Group

The Oawakiya group of Alamo school met on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Margaret Hutchison, 1212 Kemp boulevard. Snaps were put on the felt comb cases for the girls who had brought them.

Plans were completed for the council fire on Friday evening when parts were assigned and several songs were practiced. Refreshments were served to Ina Jo Ogle, Dorothea Whitehead, Alpha Lee Gambill, Faye Robinson, Lucy Bratton, Roberta Guest, Katherine Parnell, Catherine Uttz and Miss McIlheran, who is meeting with the girls in the absence of the guardian, Miss Ruth Mounts.

On Friday evening the first council fire for this group was held on the lawn of the Brandeberry home, 1207 Buchanan. All of the girls in the circle received honor beads with the exception of Katherine Cordell, who has recently joined the group and was initiated as a new member. Ina Jo Ogle gave the group "count," narrating briefly the activities of the group since its organization in March. Dorothea Whitehead, Gladys Brandeberry and Margaret Hutchison lighted the lights of work, health and love in the pretty firelighting ceremony. As the fire began to blaze, the group sang "Burn, Fire, Burn," with the motions. A number of other Camp Fire songs and talks were included in the program, which closed with the singing of "The Sun Is Sinking in the West," as the girls filed out.

The next meeting of the group will e at the home of Gladys Brandeberry on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when plans will be made for the excursion to Lake Kemp on Friday and Saturday of this week.

Mankilo Group

The Mankilo group of Crockett school held their meeting immediately following the picnic for the day nursery children at Boone's park on Thursday. Miss McIlheran taught the girls soap carving. The crossed logs with flame and the Wohelo triangle were used as motifs by several of the girls.

The next meeting will be at the home of Elizabeth McGee, 1106 Travis at 2 o'clock, when projects will be started for the treasure chest. At 3 o'clock the group will go over to the Coca-Cola bottling works where they will join the other groups for the monthly "adventure."

Wokonna Group

The Wokonna group of Zundelowitz High met at the home of Nell Ground, 2104 Polk, on Wednesday afternoon. During the business meeting, plans were discussed for raising money for the group and for an outing at Camp Noble.

Miss McIlheran helped the girls work out symbols to be used for woodblocking on the count books to be made by each member. The hostess served refreshments to Ida Weaver, Mary Elizabeth Largin, Grace Mowry, Thelma Simmons, Harriet Miller, Juanita Arthur, visitor, and Miss McIlheran.

Wenonah Group

Wenonah group will meet at Mary McGaughey's home, 110 Oriole street, Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

ANNETTE SMITH IS HONOREE AT PARTY

Annette Smith, daughter of Mr. Mrs. Conner Smith, was complimented at the home of her parents with a pretty party Friday evening, in observation of her 14th birthday. A pink and white color scheme was featured in the decorations and refreshment plate, and games were played.

Those present were Letha McKinley, Cleo Kimmerley, Fay Powell, Rosa Lee Glazner, Reba Earl Smith, Helen King, Billy Smith, Malcolm Mauldin, Morgan Bell, C. L. King, Buell Jean Morgan, Cecil Bozeman, Truitt Richardson, Jack Spence, Tom Glazner, and Mr. and Mrs. Arch McKinley, Mr. and Mrs. Conner, and Mesdames Minnie Bell, E. L. Kimerley and H. C. Glazner.

MME. TOLSTOY LIVES FOR ART'S SAKE

PARIS.—Mme. Tatiana Soukhotine-Tolstoy, aged daughter of the famed Russian novelist and social reformer, is living in Paris for the preservation of her country's art alone.

Mme. Tolstoy left Russia in 1925, one of the last of Russian nobility to leave, came here and opened the Academy for Russian Painters near the Boulevard Raspail in Montparnasse. Here, with some of the best of her country's artists, she has taught and supported numerous Russian artists, as well as those from Sweden, America and France. Some of her pupils have achieved fame as a result of her training.

Gold Star Mothers Sail

NEW YORK, June 21. (INS)—A party of 231 gold star mothers will sail today on the United States liner President Roosevelt to view the graves of their sons in France.

Among the departing mothers is Mrs. R. B. Gragg of Austin, Texas, who will visit the grave of her son on the northwestern coast of Ireland.

ETHEL—

FORM NEW GOVERNMENT FOR CONTROL OF EGYPT

CAIRO, Egypt, June 21 (AP)—Egypt will be without a parliamentary government for the next five months under a virtual dictatorship headed by Ismail Sidky Pasha.

Chosen to form a new government by King Fuad, the premier at once began drafting a royal decree for issuance this evening suspending the legislature until November.

Sidky Pasha warned the Wafdist party of Mustapha Nahas Pasha, favoring constitutionalism, a group overwhelmingly strong in the elected houses of Egypt, that he intends to obtain tranquility by normal means if possible, hoping the necessity will not arrive for "employment of other measures."

A tense situation prevailed today. There was much bitterness, even including threats against the king. The new cabinet was described as "hand picked."

The Wafdist cabinet of Mustapha Nahas Pasha resigned during the week after differences with the king on a new measure to safeguard the constitution. In a party conference they voted to support no new government which could not command a majority—an obvious impossibility for any government except their own.

The new premier is a member of the "ittehadist" or king's party.

Monday Deadline For Candidates to Pay Assessments

A final reminder that Monday is the deadline for the payment by candidates of their assessments toward the costs of holding the Democratic primary elections in July and August was given here Saturday by Judge Edgar Scurry, chairman of the county executive committee.

Names of those who fail to pay by Monday will be left off the ballot, he said. The assessments total approximately $3,400.

Art's Ideal Man

LONDON.—The ideal man, according to a group of women art students which recently met here, must be a good dancer with intellectual leanings, send flowers, treat his wife as an equal, never wear red ties and, in appearance, he should be tall and dark. Members admitted, however, that ideal men were hard to find.

Kill 40,000 Squirrels

AMBER, Wash.—In a drive to kill crop pests, more than 40,000 ground squirrels were killed in various Washington counties during the spring season. A huge party was held here recently to celebrate the killing. The Amber grange won the killing contest, having shot 1547 squirrels.

THREE U. S. BATTLESHIPS AT CHERBOURG, FRANCE

CHERBOURG, France, June 21. (AP)—The United States battleships Arkansas, Florida and Utah, bearing 1,000 Annapolis midshipmen on a practice cruise, arrived here today.

They were saluted by a battery of the Cherbourg arsenal. The Arkansas, flagship of the cruise, returned the salute.

Capt. George Washington Steele, the United States military naval attache at Paris, accompanied by French naval and port authorities and the American consul, Samuel H. Wiley, immediately went aboard the Arkansas to welcome the officers and embryo officers here.

Vice Admiral Basile, maritime prefect of Cherbourg has arranged a program of entertainment for the midshipmen during the 10 days they will be here. All will have an opportunity to visit Paris.

WOMAN FOUND DYING HUSBAND IS ARRESTED

ELDORADO, Ark., June 21. (AP)—With her skull crushed and neck dislocated, Mrs. Nora Arnold, 30, wife of a farmer of Grannis, Ark., was found lying in a residential street here today. She died on the way to a hospital.

Her husband, Frank Arnold, was arrested when he appeared at the scene after a crowd had gathered. Officers expressed belief the woman either jumped or was thrown from an automobile.

ENDEAVOR TO BRING STATE INTO FEDERAL REGISTRATION AREA

In an effort to bring Texas into the federal registration area, special cards for reports of births and deaths are being sent to all private homes in the city by the U. S. bureau of census through Postmaster O. P. Maricle.

Texas and South Dakota are the only two states outside the area.

Those who have had no births or deaths in their family during the past year are asked to give the cards sent them to some other family in which there has been a birth or death, and special emphasis is given the instruction to send in the cards whether the birth or death has been registered or not.

If 90 per cent of last year's births and deaths have been registered, Texas will be admitted into the federal area. About 85 per cent is the average proportion for Wichita Falls and vicinity, according to Mrs. Linden Jones, who is in charge of the local vital statistics.

Families who do not see their new babies' names in the Sunday paper should report to Mrs. Jones at the Memorial auditorium in order to help check the reports.

VENETIAN ORANGE SKIN FOOD

ARDENA VELVA CREAM

The SKIN should be SOOTHED

LESSON NUMBER THREE—In previous lessons, Miss Arden has described the first two steps in her famous treatment—Cleansing and Toning. The next step is SOOTHING.

A SENSITIVE skin should have frequent applications of rich cream to keep it from early fading and wrinkling. Any skin must be regularly soothed and softened to offset the evils of steam heat, windy weather and uncertain spring temperatures.

The best time for applying cream is at night. First cleanse and tone according to my earlier instructions. Then, when your skin is thoroughly awakened and receptive, cream should be patted on. My Velva Cream is a preparation of great delicacy that is most gratifying to the sensitiveness of a fine dry skin.

My Orange Skin Food is a heavier preparation whose rich ingredients make it suitable for the older skin or the unusually dry, flaky skin. And for scraggy necks and unlovely hollows, there is Adona Cream.

Using the cushion tips of the fingers pat on the cream with definite upward strokes, beginning at point of chin and working upward to the ear, the corner of the eye, the temple, with rhythmic, lifting pats. Smooth extra cream just under the chin where a "crepey" look must be guarded against. Pat for several minutes until the face and neck are warm and glowing.

PREPARATIONS REQUIRED IN THIS LESSON

ARDENA VELVA CREAM
A delicate cream that smooths and refines without fattening . . . . . $1, $2, $3, $6.

VENETIAN ORANGE SKIN FOOD
A rich cream that is indispensable for a thin or middle-aged skin . . . . $1, $1.75, $2.75, $4.25, $8.

ADONA CREAM
To be used liberally on thin neck, shoulders and bust, and scraggy throat . $1.50, $2.50, $3.50, $6.50.

VENETIAN MUSCLE OIL
A penetrating oil rich in the elements which stimulate flabby muscles . . . . $1, $2.50, $4.

VENETIAN ANTI-WRINKLE CREAM
Specially adapted for a quick treatment before going out at night . . . . . $2, $3.50.

ARDEN VENETIAN PATTER
Round and flat, with unique flexibility of handle for accurate patting strokes $5

Then dip your finger in Muscle Oil and pat this directly on lines, on forehead, neck or cheeks to smooth and give flexibility to dry or furrowed skin.

If this treatment is taken the last thing at night, a little of the cream should be left on, especially around the eyes where first fine lines are sure to gather. If you have managed to squeeze in a half hour before dinner for your "patting" you will remove the cream at the end of ten minutes of brisk work with Cleansing Tissues; following that, pat with Skin Tonic to take away any possible greasy look, and then be ready for your make-up. Last month I explained the correct and convenient way of applying tonic or astringent with an Arden Patter which should be part of your regular dressing table equipment.

Another treatment which you must not fail to try when you wish to look unusually lovely for an evening engagement, is the Anti-Wrinkle Treatment. This cream has been specially prepared to produce quick results and you will be thrilled with the real beauty of your skin, if you use it according to directions.

TRIAL OF MAN SET FOR MONDAY HERE IN STABBING CASE

The trial of M. S. Grout on a charge of assault with intent to murder growing out of an alleged affray at Burkburnett in January, 1929, is first on call among cases set in the 89th district court for Monday, according to the announcement Saturday of George W. Anderson, assistant district attorney. Grout is charged with stabbing and seriously wounding Ed Schuffler.

Proceedings seeking the disbarment of A. E. Martin, attorney who formerly resided here, also are set for call during the week. Attorneys for Martin notified the prosecutors, Mr. Anderson said, that they will seek the dismissal of the petition on the contention that the proceedings have not been brought in the manner prescribed by law.

The trial of R. I. Kennedy on a charge of perjury in connection with testimony given at Martin's trial on a charge of barratry several months ago also is set for the week. Martin was acquitted at the trial.

Other cases set during the week, with names of defendants and charges, follow:

Walter Wallace, statutory offense; H. C. Gracy, theft; Frank Walden, forgery; A. C. Varner, swindling and W. S. Kelley forgery.

Pioneer 'Puncher' Here Stitches Famous Brands on Quilt Square

By H. I. KIEFER

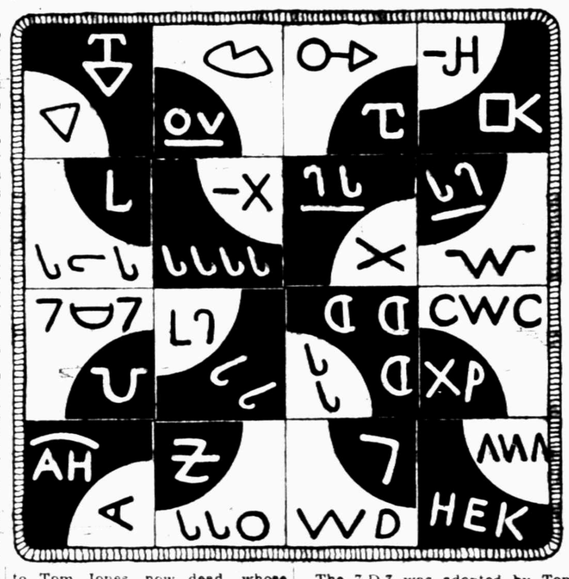

In his day as cow puncher, Bob McFall, former sheriff and pioneer of the West and of Wichita Falls, has branded such a quantity of livestock as would, if placed side by side, reach some little distance.

So recently, without livestock to adorn, he produced something new by "branding" one of the squares intended for a quilt which his mother, Mrs. S. O. McFall, was making. A sketch of the branded square accompanies this article.

Mrs. McFall, incidentally, still is an active and hard worker despite her 78 years. She keeps house for her son and still spends some of her spare moments at quilting. Her artistic ability in that line is exemplified by a quilt of the design shown in the sketch, which she has completed recently.

The entire quilt consists of 20 sixteen-inch squares similar to that pictured. The design is known as the "wandering Jew" and the squares are pieced together in such manner that a continuous symmetrical design is produced. Nine spools of thread were used by Mrs McFall in making this particular quilt.

Mr. McFall attempted to assist his mother in the making of the quilt, and as a result, the square became available for branding. Mr. McFall made the square a trifle too large so that it could not be used in the quilt. So he proceeded to outline famous brands of Northwest Texas into the square. The design is of red upon a white background, and Mr. McFall used green thread for stitching the brands, doing the needle work himself.

Some of the Brands

The triangle, which belongs to Tom Burnett, resident of Iowa Park and a pioneer cattleman for whom Mr. McFall worked as cowboy.

The T-triangle, which belonged to Tom Jones, now dead, whose ranch was on Deep creek.

The OV bar was the brand of the C. C. White ranch which was located along Holliday creek. Ranch headquarters were located near the present site of the Haven park swimming pool.

The rocking M was the brand of Bill Mann, now dead, an Archer county pioneer. John Mann, a son, resides in Wichita Falls.

The OH triangle was the brand used by Cal and Ikard Suggs, both now dead, who held extensive interests in Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma.

The TL was the brand used by Dickey Brothers, whose ranch was located on the Little Wichita river. Later it was adopted by W. M. Coleman, Wichita Falls resident, and is now used as the brand for livestock belonging to him.

The bar LH was the brand of the late J. L. Huggins, Clay county pioneer.

The Box-K was the brand adopted for a ranch situated near the present west city limits of Wichita Falls and owned by Ed Cobb, now dead, and others.

Easy to Make

The 6-9-6 originally was the brand used by Ed Trice, but Mr. McFall later adopted it for his cattle. The brand is one easy to make, Mr. McFall explained. The entire three figures can be branded with one heating of the iron and with three rapid motions.

The L on the left shoulder was the S. B. Burnett horse brand.

The four-sixes was Mr. Burnett's cattle brand.

The bar X is the brand adopted by Sid Webb, now a resident of Bellevue, who formerly ranched in the vicinity of Dundee.

The 9-6 bar was the brand adopted for Mrs. Ollie Burnett.

The lazy X was that used for cattle belonging to John Fore, former Wichita county sheriff.

The 6-9 bar was used upon cattle belonging to Annie Burnett, daughter of Tom and Ollie Burnett.

The flying W was for the ranch operated by Sterl and Bill Morris.

The 7-D-7 was adopted by Tom Roberts, now a resident here, as the brand for his cattle.

The flying U is the only brand of those shown of which Mr. McFall does not know the ownership. A horse wearing that brand strayed to the McFall ranch and efforts to find the owner failed. Mr. McFall kept the horse for several years. He is of the opinion that it had strayed or had been ridden from some distant place.

The L-9 was Jerry Burnett's brand. Mr. Burnett is dead.

The two lazy nines was the brand of the John and Jeff Waggoner ranch, one six being branded on each hip and thigh.

Original Waggoner Brand

The other sixes was that used by Merle Waggoner in the same manner.

The three D's was the original Waggoner brand. It was adopted by Dan Waggoner, and is now used for the Tom Waggoner cattle.

The XP was the brand adopted by Charlie Penner, formerly a resident here.

The CWC was that of Columbus Waller, now dead, famous for his ability to use forceful language.

The half circle-AH was the A. C. Henson brand. Mr. Henson died at Electra several years ago.

The lazy A is the George Meyer brand. Mr. Meyer resides in Clay county.

The Z-cross was the brand of a Mr. Nance whose ranch was located on Beaver creek.

The 6-6 circle was the brand for cattle of Luke Wilson, Archer county pioneer and capitalist, who died about two years ago.

The WD was the brand of cattle on the Warner brothers ranch, which was located on Red river in the northwest section of the county.

The 7 was the Ed Waggoner brand.

HEK was the brand adopted by "Old Uncle Heck" Bazy, a negro who worked for years for S. B. Burnett. He died in 1920.

The open-ANA was John Wheeler's brand. Mr. Wheeler is dead.

BIRTHS

Ten boys and eight girls were listed in the birth registrations at the city health department during the week ending Saturday.

In connection with the birth registrations, Mrs. Linden Jones, registrar for Wichita Falls and vicinity, asked Saturday that mothers who failed to see their babies' names in the list telephone her at the Memorial auditorium, number 2-2183, and report the birth.

The births for the week were:

French Flier Lost in Andean Storm Rescued By Lonely Shepherdess

MEDOZA, Argentina, June 21. (AP)—Succored by a lonely shepherdess, Henri Guillaumet, French air mail aviator, endured the hardships of a plane crash, a fall down a precipice, an Andean blizzard, starvation and days without sleep, and lived to tell the tale today.

An airplane brought him here during the night from a mountain village, Pareditas, where he was discovered yesterday by a provincial police official, more dead than alive. He had been missing for a week, and a widespread search for him would have been abandoned today in the belief that he and plane had been buried in the snows which have fallen in the Andes for days.

A medical examination revealed that the flier was suffering from various injuries, principally severe bruises, incurred when he lost his footing on a mountainside glacier and tumbled 400 feet down a precipice.

Week of Privation

The equal of Guillaumet's story of privation and hardship has rarely been heard here. He set out a week ago yesterday from Santiago de Chile with mail and cargo for Mendoza, Argentine border city. The trip under any circumstances is difficult and dangerous due to the high peaks of the Andes which must be surmounted. On this trip the ship's wings gathered so much snow that it finally made a forced landing on the side of a winter-swept mountain.

The plane turned over and was destroyed, but Guillaumet crawled out of the wreckage unhurt. The blizzard still raged so he spent the night beneath the wings of his plane, remaining awake so as not to freeze to death. Saturday the weather cleared somewhat and he saw an airplane fly high over him. He signaled but apparently his frantic motions were not perceived.

Loses Provisions

Sunday he started to march through the mountains toward Mendoza, hardly hoping he would ever reach there alive. It was then he slipped on the ice and fell 150 meters down a precipice, losing what provisions he had with him and receiving injuries which made every minute until the rescue one of suffering.

Half starved and afraid to sleep, he marched Tuesday and Wednesday over mountain and through snow-filled valleys, until Thursday he stumbled into the presence of a lonely shepherdess minding her flock on the hillsides not many miles from Pareditas. She was amazed but dressed his wounds, gave him food and found him a place to sleep.

Her ministrations partially restored Guillaumet and gave him strength to go further. She directed him toward Pareditas where he finally was discovered Friday by a provincial policeman, who notified authorities and brought a plane there to carry him back to Mendoza.

FLASHES of LIFE

NEW YORK.—One golfer is to make more noises than anybody else when Bobby Jones comes up New York harbor in triumph July 2. Eugene F. Moran, president of the Fox Hills Golf club on Staten island, the first golf course Bobby can see this side of Great Britain, will have a fleet of tugs, all gaily arrayed and whistles blowing, meet Bobby's ship off the island and escort him.

NEWPORT, R. I.—Charles Francis Adams is unlike a previous secretary of the navy who expressed amazement when he found a battleship was hollow. The present secretary can run a ship himself and often has, whether racing yacht or the Leviathan. On Monday he is to be at the wheel of the Yankee in a race of candidates for the honor of defending the America's cup.

WASHINGTON.—A surprise for Mr. Hoover: After he left the office last night his old desk was removed and a new one of maple antique was put in along with velvet brocaded chairs and a new rug, all presents from Mrs. Hoover.

BERLIN.—Male dress reform in hot weather is taboo in the Reichstag. A few members were appearing in their shirt sleeves till the vice president requested that the dignity of the house be preserved.

ATLANTIC CITY.—Napkins on railroad trains will be sufficient for portly travelers to tuck under their chins if recommendations of a committee of the American Railway association's convention are followed. It urges 20 by 20 inches as a standard size, an increase of 20 square inches in area.

AN occasional market trip with a neighbor is a pleasure but having to go every day, sometimes several times a day, is too much in hot weather. Invest in a Frigidaire at the Texas Electric Service Company, 904 Scott, and reduce the number of shopping trips.

IT TAKES so many clothes for business girls to keep well groomed this sweltering weather. You will find it economical to go to the Orchid Shop and buy a sleeveless pastel wash silk. Cool, smart and washable!

THE woman who needs additional vacation shoes will do well to go to the Orchid Shoe Shop and take advantage of their clearance. Two important groups at 6.85 and 9.85 include vacation shoes you need.

THE Hosiery Dept., at PBM's is replete with exquisite summery hose. Sheer chiffon in pastel and sun tones. New mesh hose in sport colors or evening shades. Buy your vacation hose at PBM's, the style store of Wichita Falls.

HERE go the lucky ones! A bride and groom starting on their honeymoon with plenty of cash on hand for a big time. They were foresighted enough to invest in Lone Star Matrimonial Insurance. If you are planning to marry, discuss a policy with the Lone Star at least three months before the big day and you, too, can start your married life on a cash basis. FIVE HELD AFTER TRIPLE SLAYING OVER CARD GAME

ROCKMART, Ga., June 21. (AP)—Accused of participating in a triple slaying arising from a poker game in which each of the victims was shot in the back of the head and the bodies disposed of in gangland fashion, five men were held in jail today on murder charges.

Denied bail, Bill Hulsey, his two sons, Fred and Ray, his son-in-law, Tom Hicks, and L. C. McCullough, were ordered held for grand jury action by the verdict of a coroner's jury. They were accused of killing Cliff Jones, Lige Harper and Ernest McCullough, each about 30 years of age.

Building up a chain of circumstantial evidence, authorities advanced the theory that the men engaged in a poker game and that the victims enraged the Hulseys by winning the greater part of the money at stake. Complications, authorities said, which grew out of the game and attendant drinking led to the slaying and disposal of the bodies in an abandoned well.

WISCONSIN DELEGATION TO ARRIVE SUNDAY FOR TOUR THROUGH VALLEY

AUSTIN, June 21. (AP)—A conference between Gov. Dan Moody and the delegation of Wisconsin citizens, coming to Texas to seek an adjustment of differences resulting from the refusal of Wisconsin to approve the sale of Texas lands in that state, will be held here tomorrow night. Members of the Texas committee, named by the governor to meet the Wisconsin delegation, will attend the conference.

The route the committee will follow in its inspection of Texas lands will be mapped out. It will include a tour of the Lower Rio Grande valley section.

FORMER BANKER ACQUITTED OF GRAND LARCENY CHARGE

KANSAS CITY, June 21. (AP)—After deliberating 20 minutes a jury in circuit court here today returned a verdict acquitting John Laughlin, former cashier of the defunct Waldo State bank of a grand larceny charge.

Laughlin was charged with substituting alleged worthless paper for a $15,000 note in the bank's note case. The case was submitted to the jury at 9:50 o'clock this morning and the verdict was returned at 10:10 o'clock.

The Waldo State bank failed in 1926.

Sentenced to Prison

HOUSTON, June 21. (AP)—Emmett George, 18, of Atlanta, Ga., was assessed a five-year penitentiary sentence by a jury today after a second trial of a robbery by assault charge in which he previously drew a 25-year term.

"Love," Shepherd, with the orchestra.

"Serenade," from "The Student Prince," Shepherd, with the orchestra.

JURY DISCHARGED IN M'CAMY DOCTOR'S TRIAL

RANKIN, Texas, June 21. (AP)—A jury was unable to agree on a verdict in the murder case against Dr. G. C. Fisher of McCamy in district court and was discharged here today. The charge against Dr. Fisher was filed after the death of a woman on whom the state claimed an illegal operation had been performed.

MAN HELD IN HOUSTON FOR SHOOTING RAMPAGE

HOUSTON, Texas, June 21. (AP)—E. Cruz, 31, who gave his address as "anywhere," was in jail today charged with carrying a pistol, assault to murder, disturbing the peace, and intoxication, after what officers described as a shooting rampage.

Police got a call to the effect that a man was brandishing a pistol and terrorizing a neighborhood. They reported Cruz opened fire when they sought to arrest him. They returned the fire, and closed in in the face of wildly flying bullets.

TRINITY LUTHERAN HERE TO BE MERGED GREAT NEW CHURCH

Members of the local Trinity Lutheran church will lose their association with the Iowa Synod, of which they were members, Wednesday, June 25, when the Iowa Synod, the Buffalo Synod and the Joint Synod of Ohio will merge to combine the "American Lutheran Church" and on that date will become members of the merged body with 500,000 other Lutherans over the United States.

The merger is coincident with the 400th anniversary of the Augsburg confession, considered the real beginning of the Lutheran church. This anniversary will be celebrated by the Trinity Lutheran church with special services here next Sunday evening, June 29, at 8 o'clock, according to the Rev. A. H. Muehlbrad, pastor.

WHITEY WALKER FILES APPEAL FROM SENTENCE

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 21 (UP)—W. J. "Whitey" Walker filed an appeal today in the criminal court of appeals from the life sentence he was given in Pontotoc county for his conviction of robbery with firearms.

Walker was found guilty of robbing the First National bank of Allen, in August, 1928, of $2,170.55. He was convicted Dec. 19, 1929.

The Difficulty of Getting Rid of Contraband Goods

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

Between the ages of 30 and 40 many a woman has a love affair.

MRS. NORRIS

If she married in the early twenties, all the novelty and glow of her marriage has worn off then, for the wife. Her babies are out of the nursery and in school. Her husband is absorbed in business. But she is in the very prime of her beauty, and developing mentally, artistically, spiritually, in every direction. She falls in love.

She really does seriously fall in love—often against her will. That is, the serious part of it is against her will; she likes the safe part well enough. She loves the excitement, the sense of importance, the knowledge that somebody likes her immensely, and is maneuvering to meet her, and is making her skillful and subtle presents—going as far with books and flowers and candy as he dares—just as far as she will let him dare.

Women grow newly beautiful, under the knowledge of having inspired devotion. Everything else in their lives fades—wifehood, motherhood, housekeeping, social obligations all are pushed into the background. Of these things they have only a hazy, faint consciousness—although they like the thought of the setting, too, like the background of security and love and comfort.

And often, if there is neglect at home, if coldness has been deepened between husband and wife, if life has grown humdrum and dull, with no real interest or thrill in it, this is the time when a woman frets and weeps herself into believing that she wants a divorce.

Little things annoy her disproportionately. Her husband never takes her to the theater any more, never compliments her, never tells her anything about his business.

And these things rankle: she goes over them bitterly in her heart. Restlessness and resentment possess her; she begins to tell her women friends that she simply cannot stand it—nobody could stand it.

Eventually things begin to move rather fast: divorce is a big word, and an ugly word, but the moment arrives when she has no choice, and somewhat bewildered she goes through the various stages: files things, states things, swears things. One more divorce.

"I had to, Mary. I feel about it just as you do—I loathe it. But Dan was acting like a crazy man, everyone said I'd simply be a fool to try to stick it out any longer.

"The children? Oh, my dear, children aren't happy in a house where there's always quarreling and unkindness. They're better off this way."

And in the back of her mind she thinks, "Harold."

Harold, the handsome, gentle, successful man who is waiting. Harold, who didn't urge her, who never said a mean word about Dan, who is the most generous and dignified and patient man she has ever known. He only wants to comfort her—he only wants to make up to her some of Dan's brutality and coldness.

Sometimes she marries Harold—more often she does not.

The Harolds have a way of gliding out of the picture, about the time the decree is granted. Harold found her fascinating as Dan's wife, tied up to Dan and the children, home and position and social circle. His stolen moments with her, all fragrance and beauty and hurry and daring, were fascinating moments. But now she is alone, and free, and nervous, eager to be reassured and admired and loved—and Harold doesn't feel particularly enthusiastic. Her friends are criticizing her, and she must be constantly told that what she did was right, and that Harold respects her for it.

All the time she knows it was wrong, and that Harold secretly despises her for it.

To give up your husband and children because of a passing passion for another man is despicable; we all know. If she marries Harold she very promptly finds out that he is just another husband; a man with bigness and smallness, virtues and faults. Life is just—life; delightful and amusing now and then, quiet and monotonous most of the time.

Harold stops being a superman, forgets compliments, and can't meet her downtown for tea any more. And Dan exasperates her by becoming nice, all of a sudden, simple and pleasant; the jealous, nervous strain that her neglect and criticism caused him has worn away. Arrangements for the children, partings with them, unavoidable neglect of them, to allow for the new life with Harold, simply breaks her heart.

Love affairs, for wives and mothers, are contraband, and disposing of contraband goods is a nerve-wrecking business. The admirer who hangs on after all the heat of the love-affair has died away, who persists in being mawkish and devoted in spite of chilling hints and broken engagements, is almost as bad as the lover who cools. Divorce is terrible, even to the boldest and noisiest of its advocates, loneliness—unmatedness, is terrible to a loving woman, and to have to coax and lure a man on into marriage when one's eager divorce has cooled his ardor, is humiliating beyond words.

Talk to some of the women who have tried it, if you need convincing. Without letting them know what you are about, put them through the third degree. Their stories are all alike; stories of unhappiness, unkindness, injustice, hardness. That's what they invariably grow to be—hard, resenting the difficulties that their children's claims cause them, resenting criticism, resenting their own misery.

Nine times out of 10—not every time, but nine times out of 10—the road to happiness leads through kindness not to some outsider, some unknown man, but to your husband.

Old, tiresome, matter-of-course Dan would brighten up amazingly under a course of smiles, flattery, whispering, clandestine little meetings for tea or lunch. He would enjoy seeing a radiant smile on the face he loves best in the world, when he unexpectedly encounters his wife downtown. He would love good news when he comes home at night, love to find his girl by the fire, welcoming, pretty, ready for reading or talk.

Many a man drifts away from his wife because, in the fifth or sixth year of their marriage she suddenly begins to take him for granted, hardly speaks to him or glances at him, is bored by what interests him, is wrapped in her own thoughts and interests.

When she adds a lover to the difficulties of this position, when she is all flushes and thrills over the postman and the telephone, because of somebody else, when she is demure and cryptic in his company, then for sheer pride and hurt feelings he is willing to widen the gulf. He is deeply jealous, deeply humiliated, and all the rest follows—the rudeness, the coldness, the inexplicable irritation and shortness that she calls insanity, the absences from home, the skillfulness in annoying and thwarting her, who has made him so wretched.

When any woman faces the wreckage of her own marriage courageously, determined to rebuild it as she would a ruined building—to refurnish it as she would a shabby house, she starts with a tremendous advantage. Society is back of her, her conscience is back of her, the foundations at least are firm beneath her feet. Everyone who knows her as sympathetic rather than critical, everyone who wants to help—instead of standing coldly on the sidelines, watching her plunge deeper and deeper into the marsh. The children's lives need be demoralized; painful and difficult problems of guardianship need not be discussed, and above all, intimate details of the first marriage need not be aired before a gaping world, as a preliminary to the second marriage. Most women love privacy, love dignity in handling their own personal affairs.

The unhappiest wife has one great fundamental consolation; she is a wife, she is playing the game. Even a successful second marriage always carries the cloud of the first failure; her very guests whisper about it—she was miserable with Tom Smith; she divorced him.

The law of happiness is deeper than our own consciousness. Any woman can fight through any circumstances to true happiness. But merely changing the circumstances, merely shifting environment and replacing the persons with whom she comes in contact has little to do with it. It is childish to go through life hunting for the husband who is going to flatter and pamper and indulge her into a kind of fool's paradise; the wives who get real devotion, real appreciation in this life are almost always the women who stick to their bond: "for richer, for poorer, in sickness or in health, for, better for worse, until death do us part."

ZOE BECKLEY'S CORNER

The Spanked Contributes

"Dear Zoe: What means of correction do you think best for children, even boys and girls in their teens? Can you spare a little space for my actual experience of spankings?

—SPANKED GIRL."

The eight-page letter of which the above is a fragment is the most interesting and convincing contribution I have ever read on the moot question "To Spank or Not to Spank." A condensation follows—a better thesis than I could possibly write:

ZOE BECKLEY

"Until I was 15 I did everything I wanted to and was very impudent. Our parents tried reasoning, praising, coaxing, but none of us listened. I became rundown owing to dancing, late hours, etc., and had to enter a hospital to recuperate. One day I refused to obey and after some bad shows of temper I was told I would be spanked. If I rebelled I would be held and receive double punishment. I've done many dumb things but was bright enough this time to know it would be best to take it without fuss.

"I lay over a couch and was spanked in a cool, methodical manner 50 times with a wide leather strap on my bare bottom. I slept on my stomach that night! Nurse told me if a boy or girl is spanked correctly it is impossible for the strap or wooden paddle to injure the flesh or muscles.

"We became good friends again the day after. She told me she had never spanked a boy or girl who did not become her friend afterward. I learned my lesson after one repetition and it was not necessary to spank me again. I know that many of us youngsters are impudent, rash and rebellious that the right kind of spanking will cure us.

"When mother and dad came to take me home when I was well again, nurse surprised mother with news of the spanking, but after a long explanatory lecture, convinced her it was the only way. There has been a big change in our conduct since mother started using the paddle. It is almost possible for her to live with us now in comfort and she looks 10 years younger. Elated with her success, mother told her club of 25 mothers about it and at the next meeting they all testified regarding the wondrous change in their families since they started the spanks, and gave mother a rising vote of thanks! These mothers were not uneducated; many were college grads. They were intelligent enough to try paddles after other methods failed. The proof of spanking is in the improvement of us afterward.

"I hope to marry and have children. They will be spanked if they do the things I did when I was around 15. Boys as old as 17 and even girls of 22 received spankings with excellent results. They should be laid on a bed or a couch, as it is hard to hold a youngster across the knees. There should be no 'Wait till your father comes home.' Dad should be called in only when the child refuses to take the spanking. Mothers should do the spanking; they are fairer. The spankings should all be deserved. It is very wrong to spank unjustly. Most of us are ready to take spankings when they are deserved. Only sorehead boys and girls complain when spanked deservedly.

"I cannot see why mothers stand for some of the things we do, although I realize some parents are to blame by being strict and unreasonable. For a child under 10 the flat of the hand is all that is necessary. Older ones should be punished in proportion to age and offense. I mean the number of spanks that should be given.

"The mother should not be angry when she spanks. It should be in a controlled manner, remembering the great good it will do the youngster. Most boys and girls confide more in their mothers after the spanking. There's no danger of them leaving home on account of spankings if done rightly."

May Right Man Win

"Dear Zoe: Is it possible for a man to win a girl who is engaged to a man her father wants her to marry in order to aid him in business affairs—a mortgage, etc.? Her folks have not seen me and disapprove our friendship. We meet two or three times a week and she sees the other man once. I am not rich but I love her and am experienced, traveled and know the world. I am 28; she 20. We have known each other a year.

—BROTHER."

If she does not love this other man and is going to sacrifice herself to her father's selfishness, for heaven's sake hop to it and win her if you are able to make her happy. The old-fashioned novels and melodramas had the right idea when they showed the misery resulting from marriages made for mortgage motives! I think you ought to tell the girl fully and candidly your feelings and let her be equally frank about hers. If she has a mind, now is the time to use it.

"Excuse It, Please!"

"Dear Zoe: He jilted me and won't apologize, but I love him. Should I try to forget him? It is quite impossible. I love him so. Please help me.

—LOVESICK."

Imagine the executioner cutting off Marie Antoinette's head and saying, "Oh! I'm so sorry I cut off your head, my dear. Do forgive me." And Marie replying: "Never mind, my love, it's quite all right. I was a little peeved at first before you apologized, but I've grown to love you so much that I even enjoy your delightful technique with the guillotine. You can do it again if you like."

That's the only helpful hint I can give you, my child.

Ma-in-Law

"Dear Zoe: I wish you would sometime write a sermon on mothers-in-law. I believe they cause 99 per cent of divorces. My health has failed because of the misery and worry my husband's mother causes by insisting on living with us, although perfectly able to maintain her own home. I worked for years and helped build it and now it contains no joy.

—MARJORIE."

As if I hadn't written my head off on the subject! So has everybody else. By this time every girl in creation ought to know that to attempt to live under the same roof as her husband's mother is the surest way to wreck her married life.

There are many reasons for it, and often neither the wife nor the mother-in-law is to blame. For it is not always flaws in character that brew the trouble, but the fact that two women whose interests are centered in one man cannot get along.

Occasionally the wife's mother can pull off the trick successfully because women do not idolize their daughters in the same way they do their sons. There's no help for Marjorie except to pack her duds and leave quietly for a long vacation.

Love Rather Than Be Loved

"Dear Zoe: For three years I have known a young man of fine character, kind, ambitious and sympathetic, with no bad habits and an excellent position. He surely loves me but I am not sure I love him. I am content in his company but when away from him, doubt creeps in. Would we be happy? There is no one else.—R. A. M."

Believe it or not, the woman who marries a man who loves her but whom she does not love is never satisfied, never happy. It is woman-nature to do the loving. Nothing grows so utterly boresome, often maddening, as love which we cannot return. Such a love gives no thrill and what little comfort it offers is offset by the disappointment of having failed to find the real mate. Restlessness follows, and an eternal quest. It is all very well for a woman of forty to wed the man of fine character. At that age a woman has learned to expect little and be satisfied with peace in lieu of joy. But not a young girl. Wait, and do your searching before marriage, not after it.

Cupid Enshrined

"Dear Zoe—What is there about first love that makes one cling to it so? I know several who have opportunities to marry others, saying they never can find anyone like their first love? Why, Zoe?—FAY A."

Because they do not marry their first loves and therefore there is no chance for disillusionment. A first anything is in a class by itself. No trip abroad is like the first one. No party later in life gives you the thrill of your very first, when you wore the white embroidered Swiss with the rose ribbons and slippers. And no love that matures wears the halo that young love, unsatisfied, wears. Beautiful things are more beautiful from afar. An apple tree thick with blossoms is the loveliest sight in this world. But have that tree in your garden, and see it in all seasons, under all conditions, and you'll not only find that its fruit is sometimes wormy but you'll feel like scolding it for blocking your view of the sunset, or scratching on your window pane nights.

GREECE UNDER VENIZELOS MAKING REMARKABLE PROGRESS

Delusions of Grandeur Have Given Way to Appreciation of Reality as Greece Attains New Accomplishments

By FRANK H. SIMONDS

While attracting relatively less attention than the spectacular return of Carol to Rumania, the signing of a Greco-Turkish treaty of friendship at precisely the same moment is an event of far greater importance alike in the Balkans and in Europe. Actually it ends amicably a war which, with interruptions, has lasted for more than a hundred years. In the 11 decades of struggle Greece has suffered many reverses, but has never given up the struggle.

Today the Hellenic state counts within its frontiers nearly three-quarters of the Greek people. In a century the population has quintupled, the area trebled. Now more than six millions of Greeks live on a territory of 50,000 square miles, a state slightly larger than New York. The larger part of the kingdom of Philip of Macedon, father of Alexander the Great, has been merged with the classical Greece.

True, there have been disappointments. The last Turkish war resulted in the expulsion from the western coast of Asia Minor of nearly 1,500,000 Greeks, the descendants of the inhabitants of the Greek cities which were Hellenic as far back as the Persian wars. But in exchange Greece sent away the Turk settlers in Macedonia and eastern Thrace, and the influx of the Asiatic Greeks gave new expansion to Athens and Salonica.

Work of Venizelos

This Greater Greece is largely the work of one man, Venizelos, the Cretan school teacher, who a generation ago, following the disasters of the Greco-Turkish war of the "nineties," undertook the task which entitles him to rank as the bismarck or cavour of his own country.

The task falls into three parts. The first was the long period of preparation which culminated in the two Balkan wars of 1912-13, one against Turkey, the other against Bulgaria. In the world war the genius of Venizelos was fatally hampered by the pro-German policy of Constantine. Nevertheless Venizelos brought his country to the allied side in time to share in the spoils of victory, which included Adrianople and eastern Thrace right down to the old Enos-Midia line.

Then came the next phase. Thrust by British and French statesmen into Smyrna on the morrow of the Paris peace conference, Greece then began the long war which came within a hairsbreadth of ultimate success, but ended in the collapse of the Greek army, the retreat to Europe and the eventual loss of eastern Thrace, to the Maritza, along with all the Smyrna foothold in Asia. Henceforth the double dream of possession of Constantinople and of Smyrna seemed definitely abolished.

But within the somewhat shrunken area of the Greece of the Treaty of Lausanne, Venizelos began the third phase of his task, the organization of the new Greece, which was still substantially twice as great as the state of 1912. No contemporary statesman faced a graver job, for the new Greece was literally hemmed in on land and sea by bitter foes.

Italy, which had taken Rhodes and the Dodecanesus, islands with a completely Greek population, for a moment seized Corfu and permanently blocked the legitimate aspiration of the Greeks to recover northern Epirus, where there is a considerable Hellenic population. The greatly increased Serb state looked longingly at the port of Salonica, the natural outlet of all of southern Jugoslavia. Bulgaria, for her part, still declined to abandon hope of the recovery of the frontiers which had been promised by the treaty of San Stefano and included Macedonia, eastern and western Thrace.

Step by step the difficult task has been performed. Wisely perceiving that an intransigeant irredentish policy aimed at Italy could only end in disaster and that it was beyond Greek power to recover Rhodes or acquire northern Epirus by force, the Cretan statesman skilfully exploited Serbo-Italian quarrels to bring about a reconciliation with Italy, without sacrificing Serb friendship. Today Greece is assured of Italian aid in case of an attack by Jugoslavia. Long and tedious negotiations have resulted in approximate settlement of the single issue between Belgrade and Athens—that concerning a commercial outlet for the Slavs at Salonica.

With Bulgaria the settlement has not yet come, although conditions have modified much since the still recent date when a collision between Greek and Bulgar troops along the Struma for a moment menaced peace and provoked a vigorous and successful intervention of the League of Nations. Still pending is the question of Bulgarian access to the Aegean over Greek territory, presumably to Dedeagatch. But the return of the Greeks of Asia Minor and the departure of the Turks have permitted the settling of a large Hellenic population in Thrace and Macedonia and the Bulgarians are now only a little fraction of the total population.

Within, the gigantic task of reorganization has been carried forward, the million and a half Greeks of Asia Minor have been settled in the cities and on the land, with the aid of foreign loans obtained through the League of Nations administered by Americans. Trade and commerce have recovered from the paralysis of 10 years of war culminating in defeat and revolution. The Danish dynasty seems definitely eliminated from power. Athens, with its port of the Piraeus, has become a great modern city with a population rapidly approaching a million. Salonica, rebuilt since the great fire, has more than a quarter of a million and is rapidly replacing Constantinople in commercial importance.

Peace Abroad Progress at Home

The Venizelos policy of peace abroad and progress at home has made enormous progress and the republic has lasted for six years. True, there remain Greek aspirations. The hope one day to recover Northern Epirus and the Dodecanesus with Rhodes, the dream of acquiring Cyprus, with its overwhelming Greek population, already turning its face toward Athens—these aspirations endure. But the old dream of restoring the Byzantine empire has disappeared. Delusions of grandeur have given place to appreciation of the reality, and the best evidence of this is the recent Greco-Turkish treaty.

Turning from Athens to Bucharest it is plain that the return of Carol is a matter of domestic import almost exclusively. Carol has simply recovered the right of ruling which was taken from him and vested in a regency which governed in the name of his infant son, Michael, so no question of rival dynasty arises. Moreover, the dominant Peasants party seems to have favored the change, while it is natural for the mass of the people to welcome the idea of a single ruler instead of a cumbersome and unromantic junta.

Despite rumors of an undertaking to unite Rumania and Hungary, an old but purely visionary scheme, it is unlikely that the new king will undertake any ambitious adventure. Magyar hatred of Rumania is too intense to make combination likely. For the Hungarian, the Rumanian is just as much an inferior as the Pole for the German. And, of course, in any combination the more numerous Rumanians would be the dominating element.

Rumania's Minority Problem

Unlike Greece, Rumania has a terrible minority problem. Between the Dniester and the Pruth in Bessarabia she has upwards of a million and a half of Ukranians, counting those of the Bukovina as well. North and west Carol rules over upward of 2,000,000 Magyars, while in the same regions are more than 500,000 Germans. In the Dobrudja there are Bulgarians and Turks and, along the Danube, Serbs. Of the nearly 20,000,000 people of the new Greater Rumania a full quarter million are alien. Rather more if the jews are included, and they are certainly an unhappy and protesting minority.

The largest of the Balkan states, exceeding Italy in area, Rumania is also the richest in natural resources. But at least half the present population lives on lands acquired in the last two decades, lands which were Russian, Hungarian and Bulgarian before that time. Moreover the populations of Austria and Hungary, at least, were in a more advanced stage of civilization and enjoyed better administration.

One gigantic reform, the breaking up of the great estates, has already been completed. The near-revolution of still recent times, which led to the overthrow of the Britanic regime and the arrival of peasant domination has also given evidence of change of progress.

But Rumania is always faced by two deady perils: Soviet Russia sullenly refuses to accept as final the loss of the Bessarabian province, although the population is in decisive majority Rumanian, and Hungary with equal determination looks forward to the recovery of Transylvania and the Banat. Nor has Bulgaria ceased to protest against the seizure of the southern Dobrudja in 1913.

As against these dangers, Rumania counts upon the Little Entente, which binds Jugo-Slavia and Czecho-Slovakia to support her against Hungary, and upon her Polish ally against Russia. France, too, is a quasi-guarantor, although Italy has made desperate efforts to replace her neighbor in Rumanian friendship.

All Rumanian interests demand peace, all Rumanian parties and public men are agreed in pursuing a policy of status quo. Any policy of adventure could throw the whole Balkans and even all Europe into a turmoil. It might also produce domestic upheaval but there is little to suggest that Carol cherishes any such ambitions. For the moment his accession has added a bit of uncertainty to the situation, that is all; Europe is, on the whole, more curious than apprehensive.

ABE MARTIN — ON KEEPING IN THE PARADE

Agnew Prince, or "Aggie," as he wuz affectionately called when he had money, died last week at forty-one from the infirmities of old age. "Aggie" Prince wuz too pop'lar. He wuz left very rich, but the upkeep of his popularity wuz so great that he finally wound up at the poor farm. Popularity is expensive an' agin', an' it burns one up. Popularity takes us from the safer, simpler paths o' life into the brilliantly lighted boulevards o' sham and hypocrisy. It yanks us from the quiet, peaceful valleys o' life an' sets us down on the glitterin' peaks of affluence, an' then takes the ladder away. It lures us from the gentle, helpful influences of home an' chucks us down in the palatial halls of insincerity an' flattery. It surrounds us with the white livered parasites o' society. It makes us sorry we went an' got married, an' ther hain't no tellin' what it'll lead us into. Very few people kin stand up under popularity, an' "Aggie" Prince wuz never a strong boy. He had a "way" an' lots o' money. He never could o' got very fer on his "way," but his bank account would have made it possible fer him to attain any office within "the gift of the people." Lots of fine people are well thought of, well liked an' lots of exceptional people are little known an' little courted, but I'm speakin' o' popularity. Popularity is no respecter of people. The straight lined, gracious hostess has her day jest the same as the movie favorite. The fascinatin' heart crusher with the carnation in his lapel gits his jest the same as the pearl o' the arena. The irresistible promoter has his brief fling, while the magnetic statesman of today may be practicin' law tomorrow. The pop'lar hero goes into the movies today only to open a soft drink parlor tomorrow. Some of our greatest thinkers of today are liable to appear on the same Chautauqua program with a congressman next season. By a very sound an' fer sighted provision of Providence we're all finally found out an' returned to the rear ranks where most of us belong. I've noticed popularity sneakin' up on its victims, an' I've seen the victims at the zenith o' their glory. I've seen popularity recedin', pullin' away, leavin' its victim shiny an' dull-eyed. I've heard ole tired ex-idols say, "Well, I hain't kickin', fer I had my day." That's a purty philosophical way to look at it, but they're not sincere. Nobuddy ever reached the heights o' popularity that didn't double back full o' bitterness an' resentment. The world is fickle, an' popularity is as fleetin' as a stock gamblin' trusted employe.

Never Too Old

LONDON.—Mrs. Hannah Brown, who has lived in the only childhood home she ever knew, the Foundling hospital, has just started on her life's career at the age of 63. She recently painted her first picture, from memory, and it was promptly accepted for exhibition by the royal academy. She has a bright future before her now.

Machine Age Is Menace

LONDON.—Two noted British statesmen, Sir Oliver Lodge and Canon Donaldson, believe that machinery is fast bringing destruction to the human race. Says Lodge: "Unemployment is said to be increasing all over the world, and, as in old days, there is an outcry that machines are responsible. An automatic machine can replace many hand workers; and in a country where engineering ingenuity is plentiful and labor expensive, as in the United States, the use of machinery is growing. We have created the mighty instrument of production, but we have failed to control it," says Canon Donaldson. "For more than a century this monster has corrupted the morals of employers and employed. It is destroying our peace, our happiness, our health."

"Get a Pittsburg"

Sad Plight
of a youth who was in a hurry for hot water

"Seven bells! Just time for a bath and a shave!" . . . turns bathtub faucet . . . a wail of despair rings through the house: "YEOW! I STARTED THE FIRE AND NOW SOMEBODY USED ALL THE HOT WATER! . . . dashes downstairs; finds fire out . . . races up again; covers stove with kettle, pans and pails of water . . . paces floor like a caged tiger . . .

Finally races to bathroom with water lukewarm . . . bathes, shaves, dresses . . . arrives at destination a half hour late with a lame apology; his character soured for days. Such incidents are tragic, deplorable . . . and unnecessary!

By all means, install a Self-Action Gas Water Heater and keep peace in the family. Built like a thermos bottle to save heat (entirely self-operating) a thrifty Gas Storage Heater will bring an unfailing supply of hot water flowing day or night at the turn of the tap. Stop in! A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

He that worketh deceit shall not dwell within my house.—Psalm 101:7.

The cunning man uses deceit, but the more cunning man shuns deception.—Adam Ferguson.

THE SEASON IS SPLIT

The plain duty of the Spudders, it seems to us, is to step out and win the last half of the league season in the same manner that they won the first half. To do so would deprive Spudder fans of a play-off series, it is true, but that is something that, judging from past experiences, it would be wisest to forego. For Wichita Falls has had league play-offs before, and didn't get along so well. Play-off series are all right, in their way, but Dixie series are much more satisfying.

The Spudders have demonstrated that they are the class of the league. Demonstrated it rather impressively, too. Wichita Falls hopes that the second demonstration will be like unto the first.

The fandom of this city and section should see to it that, whatever happens, there is no slackening of their support. The team is entitled to all the backing they can give it. And while league teams play for money rather than for the cheers of the throng, a full measure of public support makes a difference. The baseball public of this section ought to give such support, wholeheartedly.

A MILLION AIRPLANES

A manufacturer of airplanes predicted, in a recent interview, that there would be a million privately owned airplanes in operation in this country at the end of 15 years. In the same interview he predicted that within 15 years the airplane will be the principal means of travel for the public.

Before we dismiss such predictions as idle and fanciful, let's look back and see just one of the predictions made about 20 years ago, about the automobile. In 1910, according to the Louisville Courier-Journal, Chancellor Day of Syracuse university said he was not sure whether the automobile would prove a curse or a blessing. It added nothing to the wealth of the people, he remarked, but on the contrary, absorbed wealth. He thought that its value was limited, viewing it as an adjunct to business, and that its real benefit was in the rest and recreation it provided. He had the view that a good many people held in those days, that the automobile was a rich man's toy.

That was just 20 years ago. The individual who undertakes to say what the airplane will mean in our daily lives, 20 years from now, is more apt to err on the side of conservatism than he is in the other direction.

TEXAS' FIRST 36 CITIES

The 1930 census shows Texas to have 36 cities of over 10,000 population, and here is the way they rank: Houston, Dallas, San Antonio, Fort Worth, El Paso, Beaumont, Austin, Waco, Galveston, Port Arthur, Wichita Falls, Amarillo, Laredo, Corpus Christi, San Angelo, Abilene, Brownsville, Lubbock, Tyler, Paris, Texarkana, Marshall, Sherman, Temple, Corsicana, Denison, Big Spring, Brownwood, Greenville, Harlingen, Del Rio, Cleburne, Palestine, Sweetwater, San Benito, Pampa.

Their total population is 1,816,249, or nearly a third of the state's estimated total. Their total increase since 1920 was 690,099, which is about three-fourths of the increase in the state as a whole. Only two of them failed to gain. Some of them, like Pampa, Lubbock and Harlingen, registered enormous increases over the 1920 figures.

There were many changes in relative rank, during the decade, with the West Texas communities generally moving to higher positions in the list. The gain in West Texas as a whole will be found, when all the figures are in, just about equal to the entire state's gain.

MR. LOVE'S SPEECH

Senator Love's campaign speech here Thursday night was, we imagine, quite disappointing to his local adherents. We thought we observed some evidence of that disappointment. And yet, everything considered, Mr. Love acquitted himself quite creditably. While there was nothing in his speech to convince voters that he should be elected governor, he must be complimented for the manner in which he took fictitious issues and tried to make them appear real, and for the way in which he assumed the martyr pose.

He spoke of prohibition as the one big issue of the campaign. He seemed to be trying to convey the impression that the open saloon would reappear in Texas the next day after election, if he were defeated. In spite of the fact that most of the candidates are as good prohibitionists as he, and that there is only one anti-prohibitionist in the race, Mr. Love seemed to want the voters to believe that he, and he alone, could keep prohibition in the state and federal constitutions.

His speech served to make the so-called Tammany issue more clear. It afforded a definition of a Tammanyite, from Mr. Love's viewpoint. A Tammanyite is anyone who doesn't agree with Mr. Love.

The speech confirmed the impression that many voters had already formed of the Dallas senator, to-wit, that he is one of the most contentious of men, regardless of what he is contending for. It strengthened the belief already widely held, that to elect him governor would be to make useless bickering and snarling the order of things at Austin, to no good purpose.

If we may presume to advise Mr. Love on one point, we suggest to him that, on his trip through West Texas, he lay off the Small river bed bill. His attempt to explain his vote against that bill was a rather unhappy one, and the less he has to say on the subject, to West Texans, the better for him. West Texans understand what forces were arrayed against that bill, and the more Mr. Love tries to excuse his allgning himself on the side of those forces, the worse off he will be.

Considering that he has no real issue on which to run and that he can offer no evidence of his fitness for the office he seeks, Mr. Love made a good showing. His local supporters should find some satisfaction in the fact that he did the best he could with what he had to talk about.

THE M'KENZIE CASE DRAGS ON

Another chapter, an inconclusive one, was written Wednesday when the court of criminal appeals dismissed the appeal of Pete McKenzie, slayer of a San Antonio policeman, who was saved from the electric chair by the institution of insanity proceedings and whose case, since then, has been weaving out of one technicality into another.

After being committed for insanity, McKenzie had to face another trial because the state hospital superintendent made affidavit that the prisoner was sane. The second sanity trial resulted in a hung jury, so that McKenzie is still legally insane. But the state hospitals will not accept him as a patient because, officials say, there are no facilities for confining dangerous criminals such as they allege McKenzie to be. Meanwhile, McKenzie's attorneys contended that McKenzie was insane at the time of his trial for murder and that the verdict in that trial should be set aside and a new trial ordered. This contention was overruled Wednesday by the higher court.

What will be the end of all the rigmarole, no one can say. But the effect of it is much more easily determined; and its effect is to increase public distrust of the courts and to intensify public disgust with the law's technicalities.

THE WAGNER UNEMPLOYMENT BILLS

The bills dealing with the unemployment situation, introduced by Senator Wagner, and passed by the senate, seem to be having hard sledding in the house. No one, certainly not Senator Wagner himself, claims that passage of the measures would result immediately in every jobless individual's being given employment. But the bills do undertake to set up the machinery whereby present unemployment may be reduced and future unemployment rendered less likely and less widespread. The Wagner bills as a whole would go further in dealing effectively with the unemployment situation than any other legislation of the kind in recent years.

The house seems likely to either defeat the bills or to vitiate them by amendments. Not because they lack merit, but because a Democrat wrote them. House Republicans apparently would rather see no legislation at all dealing with unemployment than to see a Democrat get credit for such legislation. And this attitude will probably result in the addition of one more failure to the administration's record.

Towards Living Beauty

By GLENN FRANK
President of University of Wisconsin and Former Editor of the Century Magazine
(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

No end of fun has been poked at me for suggesting in this column that the machine age is beginning to be sensitive to the claims of beauty.

Flippant paragraphers have compared the haunting beauty of the Sistine Madonna to the gaudy colors of the new plumbing flaunted in the colored advertising pages of the magazines.

I am willing to take these jibes, for I think they are pointless, and I am unashamed to say that it is out of these first futile clutchings at beauty in our machine products that the machine age will one day realize a new beauty.

I commend these paragraphs from Edward A. Filene as showing a singularly clear insight:

"Art, to be a force in human life, must be alive. It must be striving for something which has not yet been attained.

"Greek art was beautiful because it was the expression of a living Greece.

"Had the Greeks contented themselves with the copying of ancient and accepted forms, they might have developed extraordinary technique but they could not have become the inspiration to the ages which they did.

"Modern German experts have tried to copy the great mediaeval Madonnas, and have produced, technically considered, some most extraordinary results.

"But they have not produced any mediaeval Madonnas.

"It required something more than technique; it required a mediaeval belief in the Madonna to do that.

"Our machine age, apparently, cannot reproduce this specific enthusiasm and therefore cannot equal the Middle Ages in the production of this specific form of art.

"The Middle Ages, on the other hand, would have produced no old masters, if, instead of trying to put its own living soul upon the canvas, it had tried to copy some art form of the past.

"The arts which are emerging cannot be separated from the human life which is emerging."

Someone—whether a modern Irish or an ancient Greek poet I do not recall—once said that a people can never know beauty until the pots and kettles in its kitchens are beautiful.

The machine age may some day give us a democratized art that invades the kitchen instead of being incarcerated in the gallery.

The Gold Star Mothers

The wires bring news of what the mothers do—
Mothers whose sons the ships did not bring home,
Of tributes paid, of honors done, of scenes they view,
As o'er the tragic fields of France they roam.

We're told the story of their journeyings,
Of pride in grief, as reverently they fare,
But naught is told, the wires no message bring,
Of thoughts they think, the while they visit there.

King Carol of Rumania says he is going to run that country like an American business man would run it, and our advice to him is to carry that out to the extent of letting the queen choose his stenographer.

Diets

We can't recall ever before having seen as much in the public prints on the subject of dieting, as we have seen in the past few months. The idea seems to be prevalent that if you quit eating food, and partake only of orange juice, spinach and toast, you will get fatter if you are thin, or thinner if you are fat, or get well if you are ailing, or stay well if you happen to be already that way.

Lots of times we have thought seriously of giving this dieting racket a try-out. Not to reduce, because we are already reduced just about as far as possible, but just on general principles.

The trouble is, to pick the right time to start in on it. We couldn't start last month, because it was strawberry shortcake time and there was also fresh blackberry pie. We didn't propose to subject our will power to any such ordeal as was involved in abstaining from those things. And we didn't dare start this month, of all months, with green corn coming in. And now watermelons are beginning to make their appearance, and by the time they're all gone, it will be too close to hog-killing time, with all of the gastronomic delights that appertain thereto. And so we have to keep on putting off and putting off.

For, if we ever do start dieting, we are going to stay with it. We are not going to be like a certain party, who makes her breakfast on orange juice and her lunch off a few vitamins and is then so hungry, at ball game time, that it takes 20 cents worth of popcorn to satisfy her. No, sir, when we diet, if we ever do, we won't resort to any such subterfuges.

One Advantage

The only object we would have in going on one of these diets would be to add to our avoirdupois. We could accommodate 30 or 40 additional pounds, it is estimated, without exactly attaining corpulence. But our previous efforts along that line have produced negligible results. We have stoked ourself on carbohydrates until we want to run from them, and our silhouette was not materially changed; it still consisted mainly of angles and attenuated curves.

This business of "avoiding that future shadow" does not apply to us. Our problem is to cast a present shadow that will show.

There is one distinct advantage in this, that manifests especially in warm weather after we have been out in the great out-doors. That is, that such things as chiggers and mosquitoes disdain to take up with us. The chigger's point of view is readily understood. Why should he attach himself to a frame that offers relatively little sustenance, when it is just as easy to take up his residence on someone that offers tender, succulent meat, and plenty of it? If we are out where the chiggers abound, everybody will collect them except us.

Oh, we don't escape entirely, but those that take up with us are the hardy, abstemious individuals that don't give much trouble. Long, long ago, we learned how to get along with these customers. Our system is to treat 'em with kindness, and train 'em to do their feeding at night when it won't bother us.

Often, a night or two after we have been out in the wide open spaces, we awake in the small hours to discover that the chiggers are with us and that they are having lunch. We don't disturb them, just go back to sleep and let them be. And they repay our kindness by letting us alone in the daytime when their foraging might annoy us and interrupt us at our toil. They seem to realize that the amount of groceries available is limited and that they must partake sparingly. Perhaps, indeed, the ones that infest us are themselves dieting, and choose us with a view to their special dietary needs. At any rate, it is a very satisfactory arrangement for us, and seems to be for them.

Keeping Mentally Cool

There is plenty of advice these days, not only on dieting, but on taking care of one's self in hot weather. Just the other day, we noticed where somebody said that the best way to keep comfortable in the summer time was to avoid worry, and to stay mentally cool. It was, we decided, an excellent rule, and we resolved to adopt it. And just a minute or two thereafter, when we were cutting the grass, a stick got caught in the mower.

These folks who tell us to avoid stress and worry in the hot summer time are undoubtedly right about it, but it is sometimes difficult to follow that rule very closely. There are so many things that arise to upset one. In the past few days, just look at the things that have arisen to occasion fretfulness and mental stress. The business about Clara Bow, for instance, and whether she is going to quit the movies, and whether she is going to lose her sweetie. How can anyone remain composed and calm when such momentous questions are impending?

Still, we might be much worse off, on the subject of mental stress. Just think of the Wichita county Hoovercrats!

Before we get entirely off of the subject, we want to record the fact that our method of dealing with chiggers isn't worth a darn with mosquitoes.

They can split the season, they can play at night, 'twill make no difference if the Spudders stay right.

Send for Articles

These health articles have been appearing for years in hundreds of newspapers throughout the United States and Canada. Thousands of articles have been written on the cause and cure of different disorders, and many articles have appeared on various food subjects, and the relation of food to health. Readers who have just begun to read this health column are frequently disappointed because they do not see an article written upon the subject in which they are the most interested. I try to cover all health subjects which will be of general interest so, of course, a long time may elapse after I have written an article on some particular subject before I prepare another article of similar subject. I therefore occasionally publish a list of articles which have been already mimeographed for distribution to my readers. You are entitled to these articles as part of the services which this column is offering to readers of your newspapers.

The following lists of articles are now available for distribution, and you are invited to send for one or more of these articles. Send for the whole list if you like. Just cut out today's article and make a pencil mark at the side of each article you desire and they will be sent to you by return mail. Please enclose a large self-addressed envelope, and also enclose a two-cent stamp for each article desired. This takes care of the postage and helps to pay for the preparation of the articles.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Dry Cartilages

Question—Mrs. F. G. writes: "I am 60 years old and am suffering with what the doctors call drying out of the cartilages. They give me no hope to get better or even find relief. I get around with the aid of a cane. Will you please tell me whether there is anything I can do?"

Answer: You can certainly do a great deal of help yourself if you will change your habits of eating so that you use plenty of fruits and green vegetables. Include in your diet a large amount of gelatin, cut down on meat so that you use it only once a day, and give up starches and sugars entirely for awhile.

Eggnogs

Question—K. G. writes: "Please tell me what should be eaten with eggnogs for a balanced diet?"

Answer: In the first place, the mixture of raw egg and milk is not a good combination, but if the mixture is baked the resultant custard is a good protein food. The proteins of egg and milk seem to combine and are more easily digested when cooked.

Feeling of Suffocation

Question—Mrs. M. writes: "I have at times a feeling of suffocation, especially when I am talking for any length of time. The doctor told me I had nasal catarrh. Would that be the cause of it?"

Answer: You may be suffering from nasal catarrh, but I will guarantee that the real cause of your feeling of suffocation is because you have a weak diaphragm, which is the large flat muscle separating the chest from abdomen. This is the muscle most used in breathing, and if it is already weak it becomes easily tired from the effort used in talking. Get rid of your catarrh through the proper diet, and take deep breathing exercises for developing the strength of your diaphragm.

NEW YORK.—Several of Broadway's most famous and popular clowns and songsters are practically barred from the air because of traces of smut and suggestiveness they have allowed to creep into their radio broadcasts.

One of Broadway's bright and particular pets broadcasted but once, told a couple of his off-color jokes and never got another chance. One of the highest paid songbirds did much the same thing—died of a crude expression.

For gagging to the Broadway mob is one thing, and introducing those sly insinuations to the quiet family circle is quite another matter.

One afternoon, in one of the biggest broadcasting stations, I made inquiry concerning the popularity of Amos 'n' Andy.

"They keep their stuff clean — that's one of the biggest factors in their success," said a young man who is on the "inside." "There have ben several blackface teams on the air, and they all achieved a certain following. But sooner or later some of them allowed certain suggestive things to creep into their routine. If you've ever noticed, you'll remember that Amos 'n' Andy carefully avoid any subject which might be objectionable to any home.

"You have to remember that the radio audience is a home audience, and there are things that parents would just as soon their children would miss hearing about. When an individual goes to a theater, he planks down his money and has some general idea of what he is going to get for it. But the fellow who tunes in depends upon us to do the selecting. And we have to go into every sort of home—liberal homes and conservative homes; religious homes and non-religious homes."

Meanwhile, those gents who rule the Broadway entertainment roost have had more than one occasion to ponder on the sudden and amazing growth of radio performers' popularity.

Idols are being built daily by the millions of fans. The piles of fan mail which come pouring in bring gasps from the oldtimers. A single performer, who pleases children with his nursery tales, may get 2000 letters a day.

Not long ago theater men noticed that during that time when Amos 'n' Andy were on the air, show attendance fell off appreciably. People were staying home and tuning in. The limited audience which can sit in a theater had suddenly been multiplied by millions.

These same theater men realize that, with the films, they will soon have to bid high for the performers who are now establishing national reputations on the ether waves. The pictures, in particular, with their highly diversified followings, have been sending their scouts about the radio studios with one eye to the future.

And the broadcasting stations, realizing their new responsibility, are on the constant hunt for novelty. Stunts that once would be headed straight for the stage and the pictures, now steer their course toward the big broadcasting stations. One innovator left Manhattan the other day to round up a tribe of African tom-tom drummers. When he brings them back it will be to face the microphone, rather than the limited theater audience.

Also, where the star system has obtained in the general entertainment world, the radio continues to build unknowns into celebrities. Results depended not on the past fame of a performer, but rather on a capacity to please the greatest number of listeners.

They're being pretty smart in a lot of ways, if you asked me.

CHARACTER

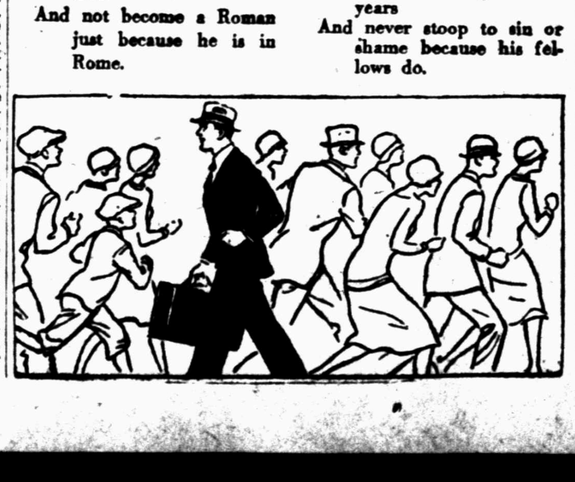

By Edgar A. Guest

Oh, there are forms of cowardice that are not clearly seen,
The rugged hills of character are difficult to climb,
It takes a man to walk the way and keep his record clean,
It takes a man to overcome the dangers of his time.

'Tis easy when in Rome to do as all the Romans do,
To settle down with all their sins and make yourself at home;
But oh it takes a man to stand for what he knows is true
And not become a Roman just because he is in Rome.

To smile at sin and smirk at wrong and let your standards down
Will bring the flatterers to your door and they will call you friend,
But that's a form of cowardice that wins a brief renown,
It takes a man to do the right despite the common trend.

The coward never gives too much; beset by selfish fears,
He runs no risk with poverty by being kind or true;
But oh it takes a man, my boy, to stand throughout the years
And never stoop to sin or shame because his fellows do.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—This is the soda pop season and maybe you'd like to know what you've been drinking as you heave the bottle at the umpire or some other convenient target.

Things are not always what they seem, and neither is pop. Take ade, that's different. You might be able to find a little fruit juice some time in ade—orangeade, limeade, grapeade and ades like that—but not in pop. The food standards committee of the food and drug administration of the United States department of agriculture is trying to arrange things so that makers of ordinary soda pop will not call their product ade, reserving the title to ades for those who put in some fruit juice.

They Do Use the Peel

It is true that some time lime peel oil finds its way into lime soda, some orange peel oil into orange soda and some lemon peel oil into lemon soda, but none of the pulp or juice is used. And the committee is trying to write standard definitions for the various pops, so that there will never be any misunderstanding about it all.

Maybe you didn't know that root beer, birch beer and sarsaparilla are all made with the same flavor and that if you think there is any difference it's because one of the three carries more or less flavor than another. The flavor is oil of sassafras. Sarsaparilla is the extract of roots of certain South American plants, incidentally, and there isn't any of it in sarsaparilla any more than there is in buttermilk.

The committee has sent copies of its proposed definitions to food officials, the trade and others concerned, inviting comment. Inasmuch as these definitions show just what's in virtually every bottle of pop being sold under these names this summer, here they are, verbatim:

Root beer is the carbonated beverage prepared from potable water, sugar (sucrose) sirup, and root beer flavor, with or without caramel color, and with or without harmless organic acid.

Root beer flavor, root beer concentrate, is the beverage flavor in which oil of sassafras and methyl salicylate (or oil of wintergreen or oil of sweet birch) are the principal flavoring constituents, and contains other flavoring substances, with or without caramel color.

Birch beer is the carbonated beverage prepared from potable water, sugar (sucrose) sirup, and birch beer flavor with or without caramel color, and with or without harmless organic acid.

Birch beer flavor, birch beer concentrate, is the beverage flavor in which methyl salicylate (or oil of sweet birch or oil of wintergreen) and oil of sassafras are the principal flavoring constituents, with or without other flavoring substances, and with or without caramel color. Methyl salicylate is the predominating flavor of the product.

Cream soda water, "cream soda" is the carbonated beverage prepared from potable water, sugar (sucrose) sirup, and cream soda water flavor, with or without caramel color and with or without harmless organic acid.

Cream soda water flavor, cream soda water concentrate, is the beverage flavor in which the principal flavor is derived from vanilla, tonka, vanillin, or coumarin, or any combination of them, and contains other flavoring substances, with or without caramel color.

Orange soda water, "orange soda," is the carbonated beverage prepared from potable water, sugar (sucrose) sirup, orange soda water flavor and citric acid.

Orange Oil Is Flavoring

Orange soda water flavor, orange soda water concentrate, is the flavoring product in which oil of orange, or terpeneless oil of orange, is the essential flavoring constituent.

Lemon soda, lime soda and their flavors are just like that, except that oil of lemon and oil of lime—right out of the peels—are used respectively.

When these definitions become commonly known it will doubtless be a great thing for the pop business. So many persons have always thought that the ingredients of pop were so much worse than they really are.

FIND KIDNAPED CASHIER IN VAULT OF HIS BANK

CINCINNATI, June 21. (UP)—Henry A. Green, cashier of the Bank of Reading at Reading, Ohio, near here, who was kidnaped from his home by bandits last midnight, was found, bound and gagged, in the bank today. The bank had not been robbed.

Green was abducted by a gang of robbers who seized him and his wife when they returned home late last night. After binding Mrs. Green, the yeggmen left with Green, intimating they were going to try to force him to open the bank vault.

Mrs. Green managed to free herself this morning and immediately sounded an alarm. A half hour later her husband was found. He had not been injured.

FIRE IN ROYAL PALACE RESULT OF SHORT CIRCUIT

NAPLES, June 21. (INS)—Fire resulting from a short circuit broke out in the royal palace here today.

Fire apparatus from all over the city was rushed to the scene. The blaze was discovered at 8 a. m. None of the occupants was endangered.

The fire is believed to have started in an elevator shaft. It was discovered by servants, who immediately turned in an alarm and roused those occupants who still were sleeping.

It was feared considerable damage would be done to furniture, paintings and tapestries before the blaze could be extinguished.

Amazing Girl

WARSAW.—When little Marie Skotnicki suddenly began to talk in a strange tongue, her parents called in a physician. That gentleman informed them that the child was speaking pure Gaelic. Marie had never been away from home or talked with anyone of foreign tongue. The only explanation offered is that she inherited the tongue from a grandfather who died several years before she was born.

THE CASUAL TRAVEL ER—By Richard Connell

I had reached that state of dressing when a man is at his most defenseless . . .

Recently I paid my first visit to Praha. Praha used to be Prague. Remember the ballad—"the person I pity who knows not the city, the beautiful city of Prague." In case your geography is a bit wonky, Praha is the capital of the lively young republic of Czechoslovakia. Its people, proud of their new-won freedom, have restored their own language to first place. This is fine for them but not so fine for a visitor like me, whose knowledge of their tongue could not be discerned through the telescope that found the new planet. It is a tricky tongue. The man who invented it certainly loved his consonants. Anyhow, Prague became Praha, which is pronounced like a short, surprised laugh.

To aid me to attain my few, simple needs I armed myself with a book, promisingly entitled, "The Casual Travellers' Best Friend, or All the Conversation You Need in Czechoslovakia." It was a volume made like the old-time American passport, just too big to fit into any pocket. Possibly the publisher's idea was that the Casual Traveller should carry it in his mouth so it would be handy in case he fell down . . . well and wanted to shout for help in Czech.

On the train bound for Praha I was too busy drinking in the scenery, etc., to study the book. But I gained my hotel—the Royal Grand Majestic Splendide—without mishap, as it was conveniently situated directly over the railroad yard. In the lobby I spied a fellow guest of unfathomable nationality, who looked like a bearded marshmallow. I am fairly ample myself, but he was ampler, being one of the amplest men I ever set eyes on.

As I was to dine with some rather ornate people, I had to send my dinner clothes out to be pressed, for in transit they had become as wrinkled as the face of an aged Cherokee squaw. This called for no expenditure of Czech on my part. I simply rang for the valet, pointed at the garments and made pressing motions. They are a smart race, these Czechoslovakians, and he caught my meaning in almost no time. I pointed at my watch to indicate that I wanted the clothes back at 7. He replied with a torrent of consonants, mostly "y," to which I nodded and beamed. N. B. When in doubt, always nod and beam.

I had reached that state of dressing when a man is at his most defenseless, namely, in a boiled shirt and high collar, but without nether garments, when the valet brought in the pressed clothes. I inserted myself into the trousers and almost disappeared from view. In those Gargantuan bags, two midgets could have kept house. I divined that they belonged to the stout marshmallow, and I pictured him, at that moment, trying to seep into mine, an experiment bound to result in failure and profanity. I was late, and I had to act quickly. I saw at once that mere pointing would not extricate me from so intricate a predicament. So I turned confidentially to "The Casual Traveller's Best Friend."

Its author, in his eagerness to give it to a waiting world, had omitted any sort of index, so I could not look up the words I desired under "T. Trousers, where are my?" Nor had he arranged the phrases in any particular order, having been apparently, one of those geniuses who pops forth his thoughts under the spur of pure inspiration. So I began a Casual Traveller's hasty tour through the pages.

The first phrase my searching eye encountered was:

"I shall report this matter to the British consul."

As I am an American, this remark hardly seemed to fit my case.

The next phrase was:

"Coachman, will you kindly drive me to (a) the museum (b) the cathedral (c) the picture gallery (d) a good chiropodist."

I rejected this instantly. Had I been driven to a museum in those trousers, they would have kept me there.

The next offering of the Best Friend seemed worth learning, though of scant value in the current emergency. It was:

"Waiter, will you please bring me at once a large beefsteak, and, mind you, it must be well done."

I hurried on. I felt that to say to the valet, even in perfect Czech,

In the lobby I spied a fellow guest who looked like a bearded marshmallow.

"My aunt (uncle) is indisposed and will be unable to come to the table d'hote this evening, so will you please sent to an apothecary for some (a) quinine (b) calomel (c) mustard plasters? might interest him but could not help me. Nor could I hope to further my cause my remarking, "Your price for the (a) postcards (b) earrings (c) blouse is far too high, my good man, but if you will make me a considerably lower price I might be willing to buy it (them)." And he might have thought me a bit strange if I said to him, "It is dangerous to lean out of the train window," or "Are dogs permitted to enter this establishment?" Nor could I hope to retrieve my trousers by observing, "We wish to stop here a moment, guide, to take a snapshot of that beautiful old ruined castle."

Meantime, time flew, and I could see my hosts gnawing impatient knuckles. In desperation I rang for the valet, and pointed tragically at the billowing alien trousers. He, a sad stork of a man, poured out some polysyllables which I interpreted to mean that I had his entire sympathy and that his advice to me, as man to man, was to get a new tailor. In something of a panic, I tried a combination of pantomime and sound. With many graphic gestures I shouted:

"Look here, these are not my pants. Not my pants. They belong to a plump party with whiskers." (Gesture to indicate whiskers.) "I have his. He has mine. He has mine. I have his. Get me my pants. Get me my pants!"

"Ah," said the valet, brightly, in clear American, "so that's what the fat bozo is bellowin' about. I'll get you them pants in five seconds flat. You see, mister," he added, "I thought you was deaf and dumb. Say, have the Giants got a good club this year? I never missed a game when I was a bellhop at the old Waldorf-Astoria. But you want them pants, don't you?"

I said that was the general idea and in four and four-fifths seconds I had them. The valet brought them just as I was in the act of heaving "The Casual Traveler's Best Friend" far out into the railroad yard.

GETTING MY SHARE

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

George was a little disturbed when I told him I had made up my mind to invest in the market, and wanted him to act as my broker. "Your best game," said George, "is to make your money the way you do make it, however, that is, and not try to get rich in a hurry? As things are now I'd hardly know how to advise you anyhow."

"But I don't need any advice," I said. "I know what I want to buy already."

"Yes, but you can't tell how the market's going. I don't want you to lose your shirt. Better wait till by and by when things will be all right again."

"Will you take my order?"

"But by and by when things are all right again prices will be higher, won't they?"

"Of course, they will, but things will be worth more."

"I suppose so, but if I can get them cheap now, at what the financial writers call 'rock bottom' won't I make more money than if I wait till they get to the top?"

"If you buy the right stocks. But how do you know what the right stocks are? I don't, and I've been in this business for twenty years."

"Well I do. I want to buy R. O. T."

"What do you know about it?" asked George, brightening. "Have you got some inside information on it?"

"Not exactly, but I know it is all right."

"Who told you?"

"I'm not at liberty to tell, but the information is good."

"Come clean on this, if you have an inside tip let me in on it. But I don't suppose you have."

"We'll not go into that. Will you take my order?"

"Oh, I guess so. How much do you want?"

"I've got to think that over. I'll call your office tomorrow."

When I called the office the next day they told me that George was out of town, but that his assistant Mr. Badgett would take my order. So I told him what I wanted, and said I would mail a check to pay for it, admonishing him to get it as cheaply as possible. The following day somebody from his office sent me a slip of paper, which, as much as I could understand about it, said that they had bought my R. O. T. at fifty and one-fifth, and would hold it for me.

George came back in a week and telephoned me at once. "I hear you bought that stock," he said.

"Yes."

"Well, it's gone up two points. Shall I sell it?"

"Of course not, hold it."

"Say are you on the inside on that stuff?"

"I know what I am doing."

"All right. If you want any more, let me know."

The next day I telephoned George's office again but he was out of town. They told me the stock had gone up two points more, and I told them to sell it.

In a day or so I got another count," said George, "and I don't know how much you've got of the stock, but I'll take care of you."

After that he went away for a week. Every morning I called up his office and got the latest quotations on my stock, and either sold my holdings or bought them back again. In the meantime I read all the financial columns, and talked to everybody who was investing, and thus became thoroughly informed as to market conditions generally and my own investment in particular.

Sometimes I won and sometimes I lost a little. But there was never a great difference in my bank account. I had begun to take a keen interest in the game, and to talk about it quite professionally to the men with whom I rode into town.

In a week or two, while I still had it, it begun for some reason or other to sag. I thought I would be game, and hang on. But it sagged every day till by and by I found that if I did not hold it till it went up again I should be considerably out of pocket.

So I plucked up my courage and stuck. For a month it dropped by quarter and eighth points till it had shrunk to half it's value.

I was worried and uneasy, but I still continued to hang on.

Then one morning it began to rise, and in a month it had almost reached the point where it had been when I bought it.

That morning I met George—on the train.

To my surprise he said nothing whatever about my investment, talking of golf and prize fights and half a dozen different other things before I got a chance to bring it up.

"Oh yes," he said, "I had forgotten about that. What was the stuff, P D Q?"

"No; R O T."

"Yes, yes. Where is it now?"

I told him.

"Better sell it and get out," he said, "things don't look so good."

"But I don't want to lose all that money," I said.

"Better lose a little than a lot," he replied. "By the way, I never did know how much of that stock we were holding for you. The boys said you kept them pretty busy in-and-outing on it, though. How much did you have?"

"A share."

"A share? One share?"

"Yes."

"And you used up all that time and raised all that hell around the office for one share of stock? Didn't anybody get peevish about it?"

"Well, they didn't seem to be affable always, but when I told them I was a friend of yours and you had asked me to give the firm my business they were obliging enough."

"So all that hoorah was over one share of stock?"

"Certainly, you are anxious to get new business aren't you?"

"For some reason I could never understand why George rose and left me. When I see him now he gives me a mean look, and barely nods. Funny people those financiers are. I can't make them out."

COUNTY FAIR AT MEMPHIS NOT TO BE HELD IN FALL

WELLINGTON, Texas, June 21.—Collingsworth will not hold its customary annual county fair this year, it was stated Wednesday by Mayor Webb Moore. The Collingsworth county fair is owned by the city of Wellington and Collingsworth county on a 50-50 basis. Mayor Moore says he feels sure the city council will not vote to hold the fair this year, and that he has talked with members of the commissioners court who are of the opinion that that body will not agree to finance the exposition.

Mayor Moore said that the city council and the county commissioners were by no means opposed to holding a fair if conditions were more favorable in the county, but that they agreed it would not be feasible to proceed with plans at this time.

New Citizen Was Trying His Best Finally Succeeds

PITTSBURGH, June 21.(AP)—They handed out certificates of citizenship in the federal court building yesterday and everything went along fine until they called the name of Henry Boers Williams.

"Here!" came the loud, distinct response to the clerk's call, but "where" is what Judge F. P. Schoonmaker and his aides wanted to know.

"Henry Boers Williams!" the clerk repeated with a slight show of impatience. Same thing; distinct response, but no sign of the respondent.

"Where is he?" asked the somewhat puzzled court.

"Yeh, where's he at?" queried a deputy.

"Some kinda foolishness; one of them voice throwers," ventured another.

Then somebody discovered Henry Boers Williams, right in front of the bench, standing on tip-toe and trying to be seen.

The new citizen is three feet three inches tall, weighs 80 pounds, was born in Germany and is sure he'll make a good American.

HALL COUNTY CENSUS SHOWS INCREASE OF 11,137 IN POPULATION

MEMPHIS, Texas, June 21.—Hall county has a population of 16,931 persons. This report was received in this city this week, coming from Owen P. Unger, supervisor of census located at the district offices at Plainview.

The report shows an increase of 5,824 persons during the past 10 years, when the 1920 census showed that Hall county had a population of 11,137 persons. The percentage of increase of the population at the present time over that of 1920 is 52.3 per cent, according to information given out by Mr. Unger.

This report was a preliminary report and will be subject to change after another check of the returns have been made in the census bureau at Washington, D. C. There are 1,832 farms in Hall county. The number of persons living in Hall county and usually working at a gainful occupation, who were reported on the unemployment schedule as without a job, able to work, and looking for a job, was 325. This last does not include other classes of persons not at work at the time the census was taken, due to illness or the fact that they have been temporarily laid off.

Charles Farrell and Janet Gaynor At Strand in 'High Society Blues' Nancy Carroll Picture on Friday

Buster Keaton in 'Free and Easy' at 'State' Four Days

One of the outstanding attractions on this week's theatrical program is scheduled for the State theater Sunday when the rollicking satire on Hollywood, "Free and Easy," said to be the most amusing ever conceived in the screen capital, opens a four day engagement.

The one great headlight of the production is the fact that the frozen-faced king of mirth, Buster Keaton, finally thaws out before the "mike," to talk and sing with a voice that is ideally suited to the peculiar and fascinating brand of humor which has made him a leader among comedians in silent pictures.

Keaton, say those who have been fortunate enough to catch preview glimpses of "Free and Easy," not only massages the spectator's funny bone smoothly and continuously throughout eight reels, but has selected as his vehicle, a story that contains real plot value, a feature which lifts this attraction far above the usual slap-stick comedy class.

Big sets—for Keaton to tear up—and a supporting cast of exceptional power, added to Keaton's inimitable work, both vocally and in pantomime, lift "Free and Easy," into the class of pictures of which the public is never quite through with and which are shown again and again by popular request.

Anita Page, Karl Dane, Lionel Barrymore, Fred Niblo, Trixie Friganza, Robert Montgomery, William Haines, Dorothy Sebastian are featured among the big names of the cast.

Following their great success in that rollicking musical picture, "Sunny Side Up," in which their delightful singing and frolicsome antics completely captivated audiences everywhere, Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell are again to be seen and heard in a new musical romance, "High Society Blues," at the Strand theater through Thursday.

Even gayer than in "Sunny Side Up," Miss Gaynor and Charles Farrell reveal themselves as two of the most talented and versatile entertainers in Hollywood. For in "High Society Blues" they invoke romance not only by means of spoken words and action but by song, ingratiating, lilting romantic melodies that are a delight to listen to. There is too a certain charm and distinction to their singing and love making, blending perfectly with the youthful, carefree, romantic tempo of this picture.

The four new song hits introduced by Miss Gaynor and Farrell, the latter accompanying himself on the ukulele, are "Just Like a Story Book," which already bears the stamp of a sure-fire hit, "I'm in the Market for You," "Eleanor" and "High Society Blues."

The strong supporting cast is headed by Hedda Hopper and William Collier Sr., as Janet's high-toned parents, and Louise Fazenda and Lucien Littlefield as Farrell's mother and father. Two other well projected roles are interpreted by Joyce Compton and Gregory Gaye.

"The Devil's Holiday"

It isn't every day that an actress can step out of light, fluffy "sweetie" roles to don the more cumbersome garb of emotional drama—and get away with it to the satisfaction of her public.

But that's just what Nancy Carroll did in "The Devil's Holiday," starting at the Strand theater Friday. Only one doesn't have the feeling that she is getting away with anything. One feels rather, that she is delivering a million dollars' worth of exceptionally valuable acting skill, and delivering it with a power of which no one ever realized she was capable.

In "The Devil's Holiday" Miss Carroll starts with an enforced handicap for the picture discloses her at the outset as an unsympathetic character. She plays the role of a man-hating, gold-digging manicurist in a big western hotel. She connives with farm machinery salesmen to "shake down" wealthy ranchers by the wining and dining route. After getting the prospects in the right "Mood," the salesmen high-hand them into buying their farm equipment.

Paramount surrounded Miss Carroll in this modern American play with one of the most imposing supporting casts yet seen in the talkies.

1—Strand now through Thursday, these lovers come back to you. Janet Gaynor, Charles Farrell in "High Society Blues." It's a three star production.

2—Majestic through Tuesday, William Powell in his latest success, "Shadow of the Law," as thrilling and entertaining as "Street of Chance."

3—Majestic, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Claudette Colbert and Norman Foster in the popular Saturday Evening Post story, "Young Man of Manhattan."

FRUIT FARM NEAR NOCONA ATTRACTS NUMBER VISITORS

NOCONA, Texas, June 21.—The northern part of Montague county has a real fruit farm, known as "The Clifford Fruit Farm," owned by J. C. Weaver. The farm is located near Nocona, and is an example of what can be done in this section on a common farm, provided proper care is taken and scientific methods are used.

Mr. Weaver, who is a successful farmer, has 100 acres set in peach, plum and cherry trees and grape vines. This was done just four years ago. They paid for themselves last year and this year are heavily loaded with fruit, which will bring quite a large profit above all expenses.

This fruit farm, as Mr. Weaver calls it, is a wonderful sight. The plum trees are tied up to prevent limbs from breaking on account of the weight of fruit. "Believe it or not," but 32 plums, all touching each other, were counted on one limb.

Mr. and Mrs. Weaver are naturally proud of their farm and welcome all visitors and say they will gladly give information to any one interested, how to raise fruit just as good and plentiful as they have.

HOLLIS TO PURCHASE WATER WORKS SYSTEM

HOLLIS, Okla., June 21.—The city council has voted to purchase the Hollis water works system in its entirety.

The action was taken after hearing the report of Special Engineer L. M. Bush, following a careful inspection of every detail of the plant and water supply. The city now has one of the best water systems in Oklahoma, according to Mr. Bush, an abundance of water being available at all times, thus obviating any possible recurrence of shortages that have been a source of annoyance to users in the past.

All supply reservoirs and tanks are sealed and overflowing, according to the report, and absolute protection from any foreign substance has been provided, the tanks being under ground and of construction recommended by widely known experts.

Mayor Ross Cox and other members of the council have worked hard to accomplish what has been done in the matter of local water works improvement and are to be commended upon their splendid efforts.

NAVY RECRUITING STATION HERE GETS COMMENDATION

Conditions in the Wichita Falls navy recruiting station were commended by Lieut. J. Y. Dannenburg of Dallas, officer in charge of the division, at the conclusion of an inspection Friday. The Wichita Falls territory embraces the whole of the Texas Panhandle as well as counties in eastern New Mexico and southern Oklahoma. Walter C. Shumate is in charge here.

'LIGHT WESTERN STARS' ZANE GREY STORY NEW FEATURE GEM THEATER

"The Light of Western Stars" romped into the Gem theater Saturday night for its three day run and roped the audience heart and soul with its spectacular outdoor scenes, its heart-throbbing romance, its rollicking humor and its great human thrills. It's Zane Grey as he has never been seen on the screen before—now his he-man heroes talk.

Richard Arlen has his second western role as Dick Bailey, the ranch foreman, whose swaggering proposal of marriage incurs the hate of Mary Brian. Awakened to real love, he works to offset his first bad impression, saves the girl from the sinister plans of Fred Kohler, and brings everything to a thrilling and happy ending. Miss Brian, playing opposite Arlen, is even better in this chacterization than she was in "The Virginian," and the picture, as a whole, is just as spectacular, just as grand, as was that rousing entertainment.

Shocking Wink

LONDON.—The underground railway has removed from the sides of its cars a poster which has caused no little comment because some gossip seekers termed it indecent. It shows an actress entering a bathroom draped in only a towel, while a strange young man, who entered her room by mistake, lies in bed gazing with one eye open. His apparent wink is what caused all the comment.

Bridesmaids' School

LONDON.—Schools for training brides, bridegrooms and bridesmaids who are to figure in fashionable weddings are to be found here. Every movement is taught, from handling the bride's train to which of the bridegroom's arms she takes after the ceremony.

SILVERTON SHIPS 75 CARS OF WHEAT FIRST THREE DAYS

SILVERTON, Texas, June 21.—At the close of the third day of this season's wheat market a total of 75 cars were billed out and all elevators are full. A bumper crop is expected. Day and night crews are provided with some combines, also with some elevators. Machines and markets hit it with a snap like they fully expected to close the season out before the hail hits us here, if hustling and hurry will do the job. It is all done with such swiftness and effielency that it surprises those who have not seen it all going on before. The grade is well up and the total yield will likely far surpass that of last year. Three hundred cars were shipped out last year and it is predicted that it will reach 400 this season. Not only the machine houses but every interest is keen and all business tingles with interest of the needs of the harvest. Highways are lined with trucks, and the loads of "golden grain" are always given the right of way. Even the Fort Worth and Denver is making the harvest their first business. Those who have seen the wheat countries of the state are unanimous in their saying that the wheat in the Silverton territory is the best in the state.

Junior Band to Make Debut at Park Program

Paul Seeds' Junior band, newest musical organization of the city, will make its debut at the Thursday night program sponsored by the city park department this week on the auditorium lawn, according to C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent.

Free movies in the Bowie school district have been temporarily suspended on account of a P.-T. A. program at the Bowie school and revival services at the East Side Presbyterian church, but will be resumed within a few weeks, Mr. Bunnenberg said.

William Powell More Popular in 'Shadow of the Law' at Majestic 'The Rogue Song' Comes Saturday

An ear attuned to audience reaction on the part of the management and the house staff of the Majestic all day Saturday when William Powell opened in his latest attraction, "Shadow of the Law," disclosed the interesting fact that this picture is far and away the most popular of all the Powell hits. Not only was this proved by the careful check upon audience reaction which characterizes opening days at the Majestic but by an attendance count which accredited the day with a new high record in that theater's recent history.

Without disparging the heavy stamp of approval placed upon "Shadow of the Law," by enthusiastic crowds, possibly some credit for this record is due the new cooling plant, one of the two units of which is now functioning for the comfort of patrons.

The story is intensely dramatic throughout, providing novel scenes and keeping the spectator's interest at a pitch at all times.

The cast includes two women well worth seeing, Marion Shilling, a comparative newcomer, recently acquired by Paramount from Broadway, and Natalie Moorhead, the blonde villainess who won acclaim in "The Benson Murder Case." Regis Toomey is also featured in the supporting company.

Rounding out a particularly commendable program, the Majestic offers one of the ever-popular Max Fleischer screen songs, a Paramount Christie talking comedy, "He Loved the Ladies" and what will be of particular interest to many local shriners, complete news shots of the big convention in Toronto.

"Young Man of Manhattan"

One of the most interesting plots ever to be lifted from the pages of a best selling novel to the audible screen, and one with a peculiar appeal to those who find romance and adventure in the "back page" life of the boys who cover the world's great news events, comes to the Majestic Wednesday when "Young Man of Manhattan" opens for a three-day engagement.

"Young Man of Manhattan" tells the exciting story of a young newspaper man's life in gay Gotham with his attractive authoress wife. Those who were impressed by the novel do not need to be told that it is not a recketeering, underworld drama, but a thrilling tale of human weakness in the most tempting city in the world (not barring Paris.)

"The Rogue Song"

Probably the most talked of event in theatrical circles during the past year was the pilgrimage of one, Lawrence Tibbett, renowned baritone of the Metropolitan Opera, New York, to Hollywood for the awful purpose of making a talking picture, not an operatic production. According to the shrewdest of the shrewd showmen and the most fault finding of critics, "The Rogue Song," coming to the Majestic next Saturday, is a talking picture of the greatest merit.

PRISON OFFICIALS HALT AN ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, June 21.—Prison officials frustrated an attempted break last night at the Wynne state farm when four prisoners were found tunnelling their way under one of the dormitories.

A tunnel 18 feet deep, directly beneath a picket fence surrounding the prisoners' sleeping quarters was discovered by a guard. When Capt. Dave Wright and the guards entered the tunnel they found four men in it passing dirt back with a crude shovel and a fifth man putting it in the loft of the dormitory.

TIMES BOOK REVIEW AND LITERARY LANTERN

THE LITERARY LANTERN

The Literary Lantern burns weekly in the Sunday Times and is intended to throw light on writing around and about the South. Communications for this column should be addressed to the Editor of the Literary Lantern.

Of late weeks so many books of southern poetry have come to us that it seems necessary to devote this number of The Lantern to them, even if we do no more than label some of the volumes and give some indication of the contents of each. The assortment is rather varied, ranging from a posthumous work by a gentlewoman of the old South to the vulgar rollicking colloquial ballads of "The Hobo's Handbook." Between these two extremes are many anthologies and volumes of verse by individual but familiar southern poets.

For example, "Swallow Flights" by Mark McKinley Cobb (Oglethrope University Press) is one of those volumes so frequently found on the shelves of southern library collections. This is a typical example of the civil war period publication. Here are the usual portraits of the Georgia poetess and her family, fragments of a diary, "appreciations" and testimonials. The poems, more than a hundred of them, treat, as in the old days, of religious and sentimental subjects in a gentle, dignified manner, after the style and phraseology of the Longfellow school.

As in the old days, too, of "the typical daughter of the old South," the majority of our poetry is written by women. In collections they outnumber the men almost two to one, as witness the list of contributors to "Anthology of Verse" (The Poetry Society of Georgia) and "Unison," a selection from "Choir Practice," edited by Ellen M. Carroll (The Bozart Press, $2). Here there is little difference between feminine and masculine verse, except the quantity. In fact, there is little to differentiate one writer from the next. The ideas expressed by them are sometimes fresh but never fresh enough to stir you to delight. There are lines that please by their graceful phrasing and a happy lilt of music, and it matters little to you whether one poet's name is Jones or another one's Johnson. But how often one wishes for something of experimentation and individuality, even for a phrase which threatens good taste or a thought which is over-virile, anything to break the monotony of just-good writing, anything to give a lift to the general level. Some of the authors do try their hands at subjects from the throbbing and mechanistic present—the airplane, skyscrapers, radio. But these poems are not so successful as the small lyrics of religious turn, brief genre studies of negro life, mild nostalgic rebellions against fate in its modern guises, soft sketches of gardens and whiffs of the sea. With trifles and conceits these writers are at home.

Good Newspaper Verse

The poems in "Unison" are all selected from Mrs. Carroll's poetry column, "Choir Practice," in the Charleston Evening Post. As newspaper verse they are rather good, and that's not saying too much. They are, however, worthy of a more careful proof-reading than has been accorded them in this volume. The Georgia Poetry society did better by its contributors.

Another anthology on our list sails under the pretentious title, "One for Posterity" (Henry Harrison, $2.50). Mr. Harrison has solicited an indiscriminate number of American poets for what each considers his best poem, that one to be preserved for future ages, in the company of all the other "best poems." The authors would, we presume, comply with the editor's conditions of inclusion by purchasing a few copies of the book. "No poet has been discriminated against," says the publisher, and he offers no apology for the uneven quality resulting. A few southern poets answered the open invitation. Their poems, some a little good, some very bad, are fair samples of what unlucky posterity has handed down to it.

"Wings Against the Wind," by Virginia Spates, (The Bozart Press, $1.50) is a first collection by a Texas poet whose verse appears frequently in southern magazines and newspapers. What has been said of the anthologies is true of this book, which shows, now and then, a burst of originality in point of view—as, for example, the simple three-stanza lyric of the crucifixion, "The Centurion at the Cross."

Moreland's Fourth Book

John Richard Moreland's "Newry" (James T. White and company, New York) is his fourth volume of verse and exhibits a steadily increasing skill in the handling of his subject-matter. The question is still how important is his matter. But nevertheless Mr. Moreland has played and continues to play an important part in the southern poetry movement.

"Released" (The University of North Carolina Press, $1) is Anne Blackwell Payne's first published volume, though this North Carolina writer has been represented somewhat prolifically in magazines. Her book holds for us more true poetry than that of any other recent southern volume. Her lyrics are slight but are expressed with felicity and a feeling for the exact phrase. She is not afraid to be simple, to say exactly what she means. Her poems for children are imaginative and not too whimsical, as is the case with so much children's verse. In the sonnets she seems most worth while; the very limitations of the form perhaps draw out her best qualities of restraint and simplicity. The following is a fair sample of her work:

Serenely housed within a narrow place;
Your lips immobile and your laughter done,
And all the welcome frozen from your face.

I look at you so heedless and aloof,
And death would seem too plausible to doubt;
Yet I must have a better thing as proof
Than a ruined temple where the lights are out.

No matter how convincingly you keep
Those same sweet features, you, yourself are fled;
This stillness cannot make me think you sleep,
Nor urge me into believing you are dead.

I saw you go, and stronger than my grieving—
The strangeness and the wonder of your leaving.

Now to be vulgar and smutty and freely amused with "The Hobo's Hornbook, a Repertory for a Gutter Jongleur," collected and annotated by George Milburn of the University of Oklahoma (Ives Washburn, $3). Here are songs and ballads collected from tramps and hoboes all over the country, some of individual and some of communal and impromptu origin. A few of the older ones, like "The Face on the Barroom Floor" and "The Dying Hobo," have come across from Hobohemia in a weakened form to be favorites in colleges and parlors. Others, like "The Big Rock Candy Mountains," have been popularized by phonograph records. But most are new to the "layman," and very entertaining, exhibiting as they do such a fresh and free humor, satire and skepticism. The hobo seems to enjoy nothing better than to parody religious songs, sentimental ballads or his own verses of a serious and lugubrious turn. But now and then he lets the sad tale tell itself as in the song of the young hobo waiting in the bread line—"Sweet Charity"—and finally perishing of hunger during the two-hour service that preceded the handout.

"Ridin' the Rails"

The tramp poet is best when describing railroads and the fascination of trains. In the special slang of the road there are unforgettable things.

Mr. Milburn has done a fine piece of work in collecting from what he pessimistically calls "the last of the ballad makers." We wish though that his attitude of a scholar and his overcarefulness had not necessitated the use of dashes in place of perfectly obvious picaresque expressions, like certain and well known southern fighting ones. And it seems absurd to include the ribald ballad, "Our Lil," for instance, if it must be printed with all its climaxes in dashes and one whole stanza indicated by blanks only. One cannot be too academic and squeamish with such folk-material and still hope to preserve the flavor of the original. Mr. Milburn's notes and introductory essay are informing. The book is well printed but the few illustrations by Walter Siegal are incompetent. A chance wasted for some really good wood cuts!

NEUROSIS
By RICHARD A. CHACE

Oh, let me go. The fight is useless; vain
The struggle for a peace I could not hold.
Knowing too well the little I might gain
Were only hollow when the heart is cold.
And why illusions? Do they choke the pain
Of useless sorrow when the heart is old
To suffering? Do they hide the ugly stain
Of sinful tears? When all is finally told,
What are we building for who thinks free
And brave and strong? What is the distant goal
We march to with a loud and banal song
To rout with words the doubt we dare not see?
Oh, you who urge me, spare me, spare my soul
This empty conflict with a world so wrong.

ENROLLMENT AT BIBLE CLASS OF EAST SIDE PRESBYTERIAN NOW 110

Total enrollment for the daily vacation Bible school at the East Side Presbyterian church last week reached 110 with 15 instructors and helpers, according to Rev. L. R. Hogan, director of the school.

Instruction is given each morning in Bible study, handicraft, Bible stories and music, and a demonstration of the work done during the week will be given at the church Friday evening.

Mr. Hogan, Fort Worth field secretary for the Wichita Falls presbytery, is conducting the Bible school and assisting in a revival which is being held at the church. Rev. E. F. McGaughey is conducting the services for the revival. Vesper services will begin at 8:30 each night this week.

REVIVAL LORY MEMORIAL BAPTIST CHURCH WILL CONTINUE ANOTHER WEEK

The revival which has been in progress for the past week at the Lory Memorial Baptist church, 120 Dallas, will continue another week, with the pastor, Rev. J. L. Walters, doing the preaching, and E. L. Raney directing the music.

Services will be held both morning and evening at 10 a. m. and 8 p. m.

The Sunday morning theme will be "The Keys of Heaven."

The Sunday evening theme, "Be Sure You Touch First Base."

WICHITAN BRINGS BACK SEEDS FOR CITY PARKS AFTER STAY IN ALASKA

Grover Travis, Wichitan, who recently returned after a 15-year stay in Alaska, has presented the city park department a large variety of seeds collected in Alaska. The seeds will be planted as soon as possible, according to C. C. Bunnenberg, park superintendent.

By BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Writer

Unless all signs fail, "Generals Die in Bed," by Charles Yale Harrison ought to provoke a goodsized storm.

Mr. Harrison is another of the ex-soldiers who have suddenly become articulate. In his novel — a relatively short one — he tells what happened to a young man who went overseas with a Canadian regiment and saw about as much of the war as any one man could well see; and he tells it savagely and bitterly, as if possessed by a furious desire to make the ugliest hidden truths commonplace.

At least two episodes in this novel, I imagine, will bring forth indignant comment from those generals who, as Mr. Harrison remarks are destined to die between sheets. One is the story of the looting of Arras.

A Canadian division, says Mr. Harrison, was shuttled back and forth behind the line during the dark days of 1918. No one seemsd to know where to put it; at last it was dropped in Arras, unfed for two days and boiling with a hot anger against the authorities. Arras' inhabitants had fled when a few German shells came over; so the Canadians looted the town, held riotous carnival for two or three days, turned machine guns on the British M. P.'s and finally went up to the line with aching heads and uneasy stomachs.

The other is the story of a fight in which no prisoners were taken. The soldiers, says Mr. Harrison, were told that the Germans had torpedoed a British hospital ship loaded with wounded Canadians, and were advised to be ruthless. They were. Some hundreds of Germans, coming over with uplifted hands, were shot down in cold blood. Later the Canadians learned that the torpedoed ship had been carrying munitions.

Mr. Harrison swears that these incidents really happened. I have no way of checking up on him; I can only say that they make his novel an intensely, shockingly interesting book, which probably will draw some hot rejoinders. The publisher is William Morrow and Co., the price is $2.50.

The Gallipoli Adventure

"Gallipoli Memories," by Compton MacKenzie, is something else again. Mr. MacKenzie got an appointment as staff lieutenant on Sir Ian Hamilton's ill-fated expedition to the Dardanelles in 1915. He has set down his recollections of that dreadful affair, and they make good reading; but the horrible, unspeakable waste of that expedition shines through his writing only occasionally.

It probably isn't Mr. MacKenzie's fault. Instead of describing the fighting, he tells what happened at headquarters. His book is a record of the petty mistakes, the minor discomforts, the red-tape idiocies and the blundering, dunderheaded "muddling-through" policies that this particular headquarters afforded.

He is an ardent admirer of General Hamilton, and he still thinks the expedition might have succeeded if it had been supported properly; but his bood seems to concentrate on the non-essentials, to miss the tremendous central story of the Gallipoli adventure, to subordinate the fighting men to the not-too-efficient staff officers at the rear. I would like to see a review of this book written, say, by an Australian private who fought in the line.

Doubleday, Doran and Company offers this book at $2.50.

Indignant Ex-Tommy Has Say at Last

There is still another war book on this week's list—"War Is War," by an anonymous author who styles himself "Ex-Private X." This author is an Englishman, and the jacket blurbs intimate that this work is on a level with Remarque's famous "All Quiet"; and while it isn't that, it is nevertheless worth your while.

The difference between these two books—now that the comparison has been mentioned—is one of mood. Remarque's book got its tremendous effect chiefly from the fact that its author had lost the power even to be indignant. He wrote his story unemotionally. He had lost his capacity for suffering. The war had hammered his spirit completely flat.

"Ex-Private X" is not like that. He is still indignant; indignant over the things that war does to men, the way it makes them suffer, the wasteful, fiendish way it tramples on their lives and forces them into the abyss. In its way, it is a highly effective protest.

This book is published by E. P. Dutton and Co., Inc., and costs $2.50.

Love Triangle Against Background of War

"Chances," by A. Hamilton Gibbs, is also a war novel; but the war is more a background in this case, and more attention is paid to the development of the story. As a result, the book is perhaps the most readable of the lot.

Mr. Gibbs studies two brothers, each of whom loves the same girl. The younger brother, with his career yet to establish, will not tell the girl he loves her; so, while he is the one she loves, she—being somewhat flighty—becomes engaged to the other in a fit of pique.

Then comes the war. The brothers go overseas in the same brigade. After two years of fighting, they abruptly discover the true state of affairs. Then the guns of the western front hammer down their plans and the tale becomes a poignant tragedy—relieved, at the end, by a moving and convincing up-swing that is very deftly handled.

Practically all of these writing Gibbs people can write well. This author is, decidedly, no exception. Little, Brown and Co., offer his book at $2.50.

Old Noah Raised His Own Wine and Drank It Too—That's Why He Knew All About Animals to Go Into Ark

BY WILL ROGERS

Tired of listening to both sides and don't care what happens.

Well all I know is just what I read in the papers, and in the letters that I get after spouting on the "Raddy-ho", (and say by the way, you know we used to kid Al Smith about the way he pronounced that word,) well we just now come to find out that was right all the time and the rest of em all was wrong. Yes Sir Al was absolutely right. Then these people would write me and say, "Why dont you name some of the words that Mr. Hoover mispronounces?" and then they would name em.

Say, what would I know about them? If thats all the people in this country had to worry about, why we would be sitting pretty fine. If there was nothing wrong with us but our pronunciation we would be well off.

But talking about getting letters from Folks, I have had more letters about my broadcasting a week or so ago on Prohibition than I have on any one of the other subjects, and 98 per cent of them agreed not with the subject so much as the fact that what I had to say about it was that 'We were tired of listening to both sides of the argument and dident care what happened to it.' Well you would be surprised the amount that are really tired of it and wish the whole word and subject would pass out of our every day usage. They have asked me so many of them to try and give them something in print of what I did say, and especially they wanted the real dope on whether the stuff about Noah was on the level or not.

Now it sure was. You know I wrote a little book on Prohibition away back in about 1919. It was called "Will Rogers on Prohibition" and published by Harper and Bro. along with another one called, "Will Rogers on the Peace Conference" and When I was writing this one on Prohibition I remembered that the Bible had a lot to say about drinking and wine, so I borrowed me a Bible, and I started in to read it just to see what I could get that applied to Wine.

Well I really had the surprise of my life, I hadent read over a few pages till I run onto this early story of the wild life of our old original ancestor, Noah. The way the Book started off it looked like I would get what I wanted right off the reel and that if I used all that was said in regard to wine that I would have to issue it in two volumes.

You see thats one wonderful thing about the Bible. There was no censorship in those days. Of course now some of our Churches hold Conferences and cut out certain parts that they think dont belong in there, or change them according to what they think should be said instead of what was said. In other words we are always having somebody improving on the words of the Lord. Thats even worse than a Scenario Writer brightening up Shakespeare.

Then here just the other day I went to that wonderful play in New York called "Green Pastures" and say, by the way don't miss it, its the greatest thing I ever saw. Its the play as you probably know that really enacts all the scenes of the Bible in the every day homely way that the real old down home Negroes think that it is. There is one Character of the Lord, just an ordinary fellow, walking among them and talking to em about like any old Preacher. He offers some of his subjects. "Here Brother Noah, is a good ten cent Cigar." Another time when he was having a tough time with his subjects he says, "This job of being the Lord is no cinch."

Going around with him all the time up in Heaven is old Gabriel, and he keeps saying to Gabriel, "Look out Gabriel dont toot that horn yet." Gab is always shining up the old Alto Horn. Its the most simple, and the most impressive, and the most reverent thing you ever saw done on a Stage. And its exactly like those old Camp meetings that I have gone to down home in Oklahoma, and it comes about as near being right as some of these other more so-fisticated religions that we have. These Negroes take what the Lord said literally and not what they thought he ought to have said, so dont miss that show if you have to go clear to New York to see it.

But what I started in to tell you was about old Noah. Well in this show they got him building the Ark right there on the stage. The Lord is telling him what to put in it, and Noah asks about the snakes, and the Lord says, "Sure we got to have snakes." "Well," says Noah, "Dont you think Lord that we better take a jug of spirits along with us in case one of the snakes goes haywire and bites somebody during the rain. So the Lord told Noah to take the Jug, and then Noah says, dont you think Lord I better take two Jugs. "No," says the Lord. "Only one Jug." "But," says Noah. "Two Jug would balance the boat, put one on each side." "No," says the Lord. "Put the one Jug in the middle of the Boat." So you see everybody seems to be pretty well wise to old Noah. He wasnt hardly what you would call the backbone of the Anti-Saloon League.

You see it was in the early Chapters of Genesis that it reads, "And he became a Husbandman and planted a Garden." You see the minute he got married he started right in raising the ingredients that go with married life. So you see you dont want to prevent wine raising. You want to prevent marriage.

Then it says, "He drank of the wine and was drunk," Not just a little tight or about half loaded, but drunk. And I expect in those days and times among those old Timers, when they admitted anyone was Drunk, I expect he filled the bill. Now The Lord dident seem to mind it, in fact it was on account of his drinking that he picked Noah to gather all these Animals into the Ark, he was the only one that had seen all of em. So Noah just went out and every time he needed another pair of Animals he would just take another drink, in fact two drinks for he always had to have a he and a she, all but a Democrat and its mate. He run out of Wine just as he was looking for the mate to the Democratic He, and thats why there is so few drinkers in the Democratic party. They are the Party of law and decency, all due to Noah running out of wine.

FORMER TEXAS RANGER SUFFERING FROM CANCER KILLS SELF AT EL PASO

EL PASO, Texas, June 21. (AP)—Surviving many battles with smugglers, Indians and cattle rustlers in the Big Bend country in the days when the "law west of the Pecos" ruled with revolver and quick trigger finger, W. M. Ware, 75, former Texas ranger, yesterday shot himself as an escape from the ravages of cancer. A coroner returned a verdict of suicide.

His body was found in a two-room house, where the aged fighter had retired from family and friends. Beside the body was a .45 caliber frontier model revolver, a gun that had barked in many battles.

Ire Ware, a cousin, called on the aged veteran several weeks ago and found him suffering from cancer.

"Billy never killed a man without reason," his cousin declared yesterday, "and he wasn't afraid of man or beast."

The former ranger was born and reared in Uvalde county, enlisting as a ranger when a young man and serving under the late Capt. Pat Nolan. In the seventies and eighties he fought smugglers, Indians and cattle rustlers in the Big Bend country.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE

© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

"What did Bob say?" Corrinne asked Sue, under cover of the general conversation which went around the Merryman living room while the cinnamon toast and steaming coffee were passed.

"I haven't seen him," Sue confessed. "I just forgot."

"You shouldn't say that," Corrinne admonished her. "You ought to say that you decided it would be wiser not to talk to him. That would exonerate you and leave me in the wrong. You're too truthful. But it's all right. I'm going to school to get some books tomorrow and I'll see him then."

"Hadn't you better leave him alone? Let him play with June now."

"Of course, but one nice thing about being a married woman is that all your old boy friends can be nice to you, too, without it meaning a thing. As soon as I get settled I'm going to have a party for that gang."

The evening turned out to be easy and informal, after all, and if Ted had any special interest in the fact that Sarah was with Dr. Burton, he concealed it and was gracious. He seemed to like the young physician instead.

The next afternoon, just after lunch, Corrinne entered Sue's office, the fox furs doing duty this time over a navy blue coat with a cape and exaggerated sleeves, which was topped by a beret of the same material. Her coat revealed a dress of brighter blue and she tapped the floor with a dark blue slipper and played with dark blue gloves.

Sue caught Miss Parsons' and Jack's eyes both on her sister and knew what they must be thinking. Plainly it hadn't taken Cinderella long to locate the best modistes when the prince produced the glass slipper.

Sue, watching her as she talked to Jack, realized with a little pang that cut into the gay bravery she had been showing, that Harry and Corrinne, Jack and Barbara would be thrown together a great deal because of the friendship of the two men.

"I've been to school," Corrinne confided when the others turned back to their work. "And you should have seen everyone stare! That old crank of a principal wanted to ask me what right I had to take such a step without consulting the board of education and then he remembered that Mr. Becker is president of the august body. I saw Bob." She was quieter then. "He's an awfully nice boy and he actually seemed hurt. I'm sorry. But then, it shouldn't bother him. I guess it wasn't any of his business."

"We're having dinner at Beckers' tonight," the boy voice ran on, "and tomorrow night Jack is throwing a dinner because he wants to celebrate for Harry. I don't know how many of us." She produced a blue enamel vanity case set with pieces of rose cloisonne and and dusted a powder puff across her tilted nose. "I have to run along now. As soon as I get my car I'll take you driving."

The buzzer sounded on Sue's desk and she noticed Jack was calling her.

Next—Sue assists with Jack's party.

PRACTICAL RADIO TELEVISION SHOWN ON SCREEN

Latest in television, new projector and larger screen, is shown at top operated by R. D. Kell, television research engineer. Dr. E. F. W. Alexanderson, in charge of this development, is shown beside the complicated projector.

(By NEA Service)

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., June 21—Prospects of practical television seem much closer with the demonstration here of an improved transmission of sight and sound by radio. By the latest development, shown in a theater here, a large audience could see and hear a performer far away on a ground glass screen six by seven feet in size and through a radio loud speaker.

This is quite an improvement over what had been demonstrated in this city three years ago. Then Dr. E. F. W. Alexanderson, consulting engineer of the General Electric company and of the Radio Corporation of America, showed a small group of scientists and newspapermen how far he had progressed in this new science. The image he was able to produce was only about three inches by four. Last fall he exhibited a television image 14 inches square.

Besides being considerably larger, the image Dr. Alexanderson has just demonstrated has the added advantage over his previous examples of registering all the shades and shadows in the original scene, giving both depth and detail to the televised objects.

The process of transmitting a scene by radio and television requires two distinct wave lengths. For television, a wave length of 140 meters is used. For all the sound connected with the scene, a wave length of 92 meters is used.

So far only the head and shoulders of a subject have been included in such transmission. Prospects of covering a greater field of vision depend on further improvement of the light sensitive tubes that are the heart of the television apparatus.

The subject to be televised stands before a television camera, consisting of four light-sensitive tubes or electric eyes, a metal scanning disc with 48 tiny holes along its circumference and a bright incandescent lamp between the disc and the performer.

Converted to Electricity

The revolving disc covers the complete scene 20 times a second, permitting the electric eyes to catch it in minute parts and convert the light so caught into electric impulses. These impulses are thrown out on the carrier wave of 140 meters, while the sound of the performer is at the same time caught by a microphone nearby and thrown out by radio on a carrier wave of 92 meters.

At the receiving end, in the theater, a complicated sound and television receiver is placed 17 feet behind a 6 by 7-foot ground glass screen on the stage. This receiver picks up the radio impulses on each wave length, restores one to its various shades of light and the other to sound, throwing the former on the screen and sending the latter into a set of loud speakers beside the screen.

The ability to throw the received image on so large a screen is due to the use of a new type light valve, based on the invention of Dr. August Karolus of Leipzig, Germany.

Byrd to Tell of South Pole Trip Radio Broadcast

The nation's hero, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, whose two years of adventurous exploration at the south pole culminated this week in one of the most extravagant receptions ever accorded a returning hero, will give his views on the famous expedition next Saturday night, June 28, at 8 o'clock over the Paramount-Publix hour, which has been dedicated to Byrd.

The program will be broadcast over the Columbia chain and will be picked up locally through station KRLD, Dallas. The Paramount-Publix theaters of Wichita Falls, whose cooperation makes this broadcast possible are the Majestic, the Strand and the State.

Local audiences will find this hour of tremendous interest, not only to hear Rear Admiral Byrd relate incidents that befell himself and his little band during their two years stay at the "bottom of the world," but because his remarks can be accepted as preliminary to the showing of the famous film which was made at the south pole itself and which portrays the marvelous adventures that these intrepid explorers underwent. This picture, appropriately titled "With Byrd at the South Pole," comes to the Majestic just four days after the broadcast, on July 2.

Lady Stops Film

LONDON.—Right in the middle of the filming of one of the exciting scenes of "Mooreland Terror" at the Twickenham studios here recently, William Luff, the cameraman, dropped his camera and dashed out of the studios. It was found that a messenger had given him news that his wife had presented him with a baby daughter and that he had dashed off to see her.

Although a bee's wings are believed to beat at a rate between 2,000 and 3,000 times a minute, a British scientist's camera has photographed an insect in flight in which the wings appear stationary.

NEW WISDOMS

Sometimes it seemed to Farmington that he must spring at the throat of this gnarled oak of a man who was so complacent with the mystery of silence

IT was as if, crash! a skyscraper had collapsed. Or a tornado devastated a forest, or a segment of heaven fallen, obliterating everything in chaos.

That was the way Frederick Farmington felt the noonday he emerged from the office of the most eminent diagnostician in New York City.

Crash. Crash. Crash.

Of course many men before him must have emerged from that same office with the same torment of emotions.

But nonetheless, to Frederick Farmington, newly president of his corporation, director of three others of equal importance, vice-president of a bank and treasurer of a railroad, it seemed that never had blow smitten a man so in the midst of life!

In the midst of life, Farmington had just been ordered out of it!

That is to say, out of the rushing turmoil of his day-by-days.

There was no longer any use trying to elude the symptoms. The eminent diagnostician had spared no words. Farmington's left lung had two growing sore spots with a threat of one on the right. It was a matter of getting out of town one way or another, his doctor had informed him with rather purposeful brutality. By way of the Adirondack Express to the pine forests, or by way of mahogany with silver handles.

In the midst of life Farmington had been ordered out of it.

Standing there on the steps of the doctor's office in the gray of November, it seemed to Farmington, with depression clamping down upon him, that possibly of the two ways—ostracism to the Adirondacks or the way of mahogany with silver handles—the latter was preferable.

Life was so jammed and pulsating an affair when you were in the midst of it as Farmington was! Life in the pine forests with the soughing of wind at night and the creaking of trees by day was all right for a two weeks summer vacation of it. But ostracism to it for what the doctor had termed an indefinite period—

It was a matter of weeks before Farmington finally decided upon his alternative. The flow of life was too quick in him. Life too dear in him. Banishment to the pine woods if need be. But not death.

Farmington was not ready for death.

There were worlds to conquer. Earthly fields to dominate. At forty-three he had tasted too much of the elixir of success to relinquish the cup easily. Life. Life. Life. The battle of Wall Street, the conflict of master industrial minds. The shrewd connivings with the picked business men of the country.

Life. Life. Life. Farmington was greedy for it. The life of the executive. The leader. The captain. It was good to live. And so Farmington surrendered to the prospect of temporary exile. . . . with the bitterest pain he had ever known in his life.

In the midst of life, to the silence of pine forest and the long motionless days in a log cabin.

At first there were friends and the days were as clear as steel and the fishing and hunting helped them pass quickly enough, but the camp was on the top of a mountain and the motor roads left off sixty-two miles before you reached it and train connections were bad and the winter season in town set in with a bang, and the friends fell away.

Those were the days when the loneliness first began to settle upon Farmington. The exile. Breathless, deathless days with only a mountain guide, hired to live with him for company, and the stacks of books and a radio machine and a magnificent mechanical piano.

Those were the days when the loneliness began to settle. And the beauty of the forest to recede and the sound of waterfall to beat into his brain with monotony, and the yearning for the tramp of men's feet and the conflict of quick minds and the excitement of the fray to eat and gnaw at him.

The clear, thin, bitingly cold days of the forest. The pellucid nights with stars like silver Christmas-tree balls waiting to be plucked. A waterfall leaping in glory and suddenly frozen there, a shy and startled loveliness.

All part of the loneliness. The devastating, eating, gnawing loneliness of this man of affairs.

Pain in the lungs. Pain in the heart. Days and days of the kind of pain that made him irascible and difficult for even the old mountain guide, rather scornful and oblivious of the ways of men, to endure.

A gnarled old oak tree of a guide. Strange secrets he knew. Out of the forests. The habits of wild things. The call of the loon. The way of the quick-flanked trout. The footfall of the deer. His lore was full of these delicate, lovely intimacies.

He knew the look in the eyes of a trapped fox and was bitter at the women who wore their pelts.

He loved the prickly little mash of pine cones under him and had a pillow of them on his crude pallet.

He spent long days in the woods and came home more silent than they.

Sometimes it seemed to Farmington he must spring at the throat of this man who was so complacent with the mystery of the silence.

Sometimes, watching him sleep through his own sleepless nights, it seemed to Farmington he must fly at his heart. To tear from it the secret. The secret of his capacity for silence.

The silence that was eating into Farmington. Gnawing into him. Making him a little mad with terror of it.

The radio did its part to help. Yanking the outside world into the heart of the forest. And the mechanical piano and the letters from his friends and the hint of the doings of men in the outside world that came with the weekly parcel post.

But those were only moments out of hours. Hours of torment. Hours of trying to read out of the books, to tear out of the piano, something to counteract the loneliness.

Poor Farmington! It is difficult in the haunts of men to learn how to be alone. Farmington frankly had horror of it. He had all his life been the sort of man who would call up a bore of a friend sooner than dine alone. Or sit through a vapid musical show sooner than spend an evening at home without guests. When Farmington so much as travelled from one city to another he took a secretary along for company.

And now, up here in the woods, not even the secretaries would remain for more than a few weeks at a time. Only Farmington and his old guide, who talked back to the birds in noises that resembled their own and who knew secrets of the forests that first had entertained, but after a while began to pall on Farmington.

Two years of this and then, as the saying goes, the house settled. That is, from a nervous, plunging kind of resistance, Farmington receded into a morose kind of acquiescence. Lethargy. Torpor. Or call it what you will. Sometimes days of silence in their little cabin, or the two of them, Farmington and his guide, tramping the woods hour after hour after hour. Silently. There was so little to say. And, strangely enough, so much to observe—quick, fleeting life of the forest. It shimmered with it. Indeed, it kept the senses alert just being on the watch. The perky head of a chipmunk where you least expected it. The slant of late sunlight through trees. Clear, cold music of waterfall. Ever see a pine tree sway in wind? The bob-tailed leap of a rabbit? The wind-polished bole of a poplar? Farmington was the unconscious student in the mystery of this lore. Sometimes the old guide used secretly to smile. Farmington coming home of a dusk with a few choppy words of what he had seen. Mysteries too subtle for many words. Mysteries as lovely as the leap of a deer.

One week before Christmas the great diagnostician, for a fee that would have been ransom for a king, journeyed up to the mountain shack.

The sky and the pines and the silence had done their work well.

The two sores on one lung and the threat of a sore on the other had entirely disappeared. Farmington had won.

Farmington was released from the forest and given his ticket of leave back to the haunts of men.

And Farmington, after weeks of procrastination with himself, did not take it.

There was not much explaining to be done about it. In fact he never even discussed it with his guide. They just sat side by side smoking pipeful after pipeful of silence. The old guide knew, of course. With the sensitiveness that helped him to know the footfall of a deer.

He knew. The peace had bored its way into Farmington. Far, far from the tramp-tramp-tramp of the feet of men, Farmington had heard the footfall of a deer.

And it was worth waiting for to hear the footfall of another. And another. And another. And all the strange, new wisdoms that went with knowing and loving the delicate sound of the footfall of a deer.

THE WICHITA VALLEY FARMER

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF THE FARMER, DAIRYMAN, POULTRY RAISER AND FRUIT AND TRUCK GROWER

COTTON CONDITION VERY SPOTTED HERE, MUCH REPLANTING

Although some cotton in Wichita county is now blooming, most of the crop is from a month to two months behind that stage, at present. Replanting has been necessary on a very large part of the crop, due to the heavy rains, and the acreage on which a stand has not yet been obtained is exceptionally large.

Cotton conditions throughout the county are quite spotted, with good fields showing up in some places in the midst of a number where replanting has been necessary. Generally speaking, Wichita county cotton has had plenty of things happen to it since last April.

Wheat harvest will be finished as soon as the fields are dry. It is believed that the county's average yield is less than 10 bushels per acre, and that the fields where as much as 15 bushels per acre have been threshed are few and far between. A very fair yield of oats is reported, with an unusually large number of farmers putting up the bundles instead of threshing.

Feed crops are doing nicely at present, with indications of a very good yield.

ALFALFA CUTTING OF TON PER ACRE ON M'FALL TRACT

The season's first cutting of alfalfa was made early this month on the J. M. McFall farm southeast of Iowa Park, averaging a ton per acre on the 50 acres. Mr. McFall is keeping the alfalfa for feed. His second cutting will be ready in about two weeks.

The alfalfa is fertilized in an ingenious way, by washing stable manure onto it from the irrigation ditches. In this manner manuring may be done during the hot summer months without danger of burning.

Mr. McFall has a 30-acre patch of soy-beans which is doing nicely.

Hints for Rabbit Breeders

By WM. L. SMITH
Director of Publicity of the North Texas Rabbit Breeders Association

BY WILLIAM L. SMITH

A New Field of Endeavor for the Poultry Keeper

When John Chinaman sent over a few dollars worth of eggs to this country, the American poultry breeders began tearing their hair and demanded legislation to put a stop to it. The rabbit breeders have been trying for years to induce Uncle Sam to put on a little heavier duty on rabbit skins so they can compete with the foreigners that send over 98 per cent of all the skins used in this country. More than 100,000,000 rabbit skins are used annually by furriers in this country. Of this number 55,000,000 are dressed and dyed and made into fur garments. The United States at present produces less than 2 per cent of the pelts required to meet the demand of the American fur trade. The American rabbit breeder is entitled to this trade and at present he is going after it stronger than ever before.

But not for the fur trade is the rabbit in demand; on the Pacific coast all the way down from Vancouver to San Diego you can buy rabbit meat in the stores, the same as chicken or any other meat. The following extract from the bureau of biological survey, division of fur resource (Leaflet No. 4 issued March 1927—Oct. 1927, offers convincing proof, that rabbit meet is becoming popular:

"It is impossible to state with any degree of certainty the number of pounds of domestic rabbit meat consumed annually in the United States, but the importance of this product must not be underestimated. In the city of Los Angeles alone yearly there is marketed more than one million dollars worth of dressed rabbit meat. Several slaughter houses in the Los Angeles district are operated, where from 25,000 to 50,000 rabbits are marketed, and the demand still keeps ahead of the supply."

The poultry breeder has not been faring any too well these last few years and it seems to me that the rabbit business offers him the greatest opportunity he has had in years. He could very easily turn some of his empty chicken coops into rabbit hutches and start breeding some variety of "dual purpose" rabbits. There are a number of varieties of them in the market and the demand is an all year round proposition and not as seasonable as fancy chickens. It is my candid opinion, that poultry breeders will make no mistake in going into the rabbit business. Some of them may have had experience with them. To those that have not, I say: do not rush into the business unless you have learned something about it. I suggest that you buy the best you can afford and then line-breed them or do your own selective breeding, the same as you have been doing with your chickens.

Three or four does and one buck will give you plenty of opportunity for the study of the breed and when you know your "stuff" don't be afraid to advertise, and you will make as much out of rabbits as you have ever done with chickens. When you buy rabbit you pay nothing for waste.

The flesh of domestic rabbit is entirely different than that of wild rabbits. It is highly nutritious and resembles somewhat the white meat, of chicken. It is becoming more and more popular, and all it needs is to let the peope know more about it. A profitable market exists in every community for the sale of rabbit meat, and the skins, just as they are taken from the rabbit, and sent to out of town fur dealers, or tanned and sold to the women or girls of your city. Better look into this new trade, Mr. Poultryman—we will try and keep you posted in this paper on the latest progress of the industry.

Jugged Rabbit Makes a Tasty, Different Dish

Jugged Hare. It has been a long time, I think, since we have had rabbit on our Friday menu, and I am not sure that this recipe has even bee published in any of our columns, though it has been in use for some time.

One medium-sized hare
One-half opound lean round steak, diced in one half inch cubes
Three slices bacon
One medium-sized onion
Three slices of lemon
Two bay leaves and three cloves, put in a small bag
Boiling water
Salt and pepper to taste
Three tablespoons sherry wine seasoning
One can mushroom ends
Three tablespoons flour
One half tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
Two cups boiled rice.

Have hare disjointed, wash well, dry slightly, dip in flour, then brown quickly in hot oil or fat. Season with salt and pepper. As you brown each piece, place it in a roaster if you have one, or if your frying pan is large enough; after each piece has been browned, drain off excess oil or fat and return rabbit to pan. Add the round steak, that has been seared or the slices of bacon may be cut in large cubes, lightly fried or broiled, then removed and the round steak may then be dropped into this fat and seared. Pour this over the rabbit with the bacon fat and oil. Then add onion, sliced fine, with the slices of lemon.

Drop in the spices that have been put in a small cheesecloth bag, then add just enough water to cover rabbit. Put in the oven or it may be kept on top of stove and allowed to simmer slowly for an hour or until tender.

Now remove spice bag and rabbit. Boil liquid down to two cups. Thicken with the liquid that has been drained from a can of mushrooms, cut in small pieces, add Worcestershire sauce, together with sherry wine flavoring, and more salt, if needed.

Return rabbit to gravy to reheat to the boiling point, then serve in a ring of boiled rice.

DAIRY DEMONSTRATION FARM COMPLETES EQUIPMENT

With the completion of the dairy barn and the installation therein of the blooded Jersey cows, the dairy demonstration farm established by the Junior chamber of commerce is now well on its way to serving the purpose of its founders. In the pictures above, the new and modern barn is shown at the top; in the middle pictures is shown a portion of the farm, with John Clark, superintendent, holding up two specimens of the hens; at the bottom is shown the poultry house and a few of the more than 200 White Leghorn pullets which have been reared from chickhood on the farm.

The farm's cut crop has been cut and baled for feed, with a good yield. The clover which was sown on the farm field is up to a good stand, and a heavy pasture of Sudan pasturage was available for the cows earlier in the season.

The patch of cane, beets is a source of special pride. The beets are thriving and it will afford an ample supply of excellent winter feed for the dairy stock. The feed and cotton are doing nicely, with prospects for a fair yield.

P. R. Freeman is manager of the farm and John Hall is superintendent.

Observations

THE DESK FARMER

Recently the desk farmer has been reading a diary kept by a North Carolinian who moved to Texas in 1851 and who traveled on horseback over much of East Texas, looking for a good place to practice law. Wherever he went, the diarist observed, and inquired about, farming conditions, and noted the facts in his diary. In practically all of the counties between Tyler and Houston he found that an average yield of cotton was a bale to the acre, with many sections making a bale and a half, that from 40 to 65 bushels of corn might be expected regularly.

That was in 1851. It would be interesting to go over the same route today and see how many farmers have averaged as much as half a bale per acre in the past five years, how many have made over 25 bushels of corn per acre. Failure to rotate crops, failure to prevent erosion, failure to replace in the soil some of the nutriment the crops took from it have reduced average yields in that section to far less than half those mentioned in the diary.

Land was cheap in those days—the diary records that good bottom land could be bought from $2 to $5 an acre and the farmer whose fields were beginning to be unproductive didn't bother about terracing or fertilizing or rotating, to restore the soil. He simply moved on westward a few miles and bought a new farm. East Texas isn't the only region that has undergone that experience. West Texas, comparatively new as an agricultural country, can profit by the lessons that older regions can teach it.

On a recent trip to Waco, the desk farmer found a very good crop of oats being harvested, and some very promising fields of feed. We do not recall ever having seen as little cotton in Central Texas, and it seemed to us that what there was didn't look very healthy.

We were told, at Waco, that the present prices for milk have the farmers guessing. A few are disposing of their herds, claiming it is impossible to make any money at existing prices, but many evidently feel that dairying is more profitable than cotton. Many are endeavoring to cut production costs by raising their own feed, which piles up accounts for the big acreage in feed crops. We noticed some fields where negari had been broadcast instead of being planted in rows. We noticed some fields where negari had been broadcast instead of being planted in rows. There is a big acreage in sudan grass, also.

"One reason most of the farmers are staying with the dairying business, somebody told us, is that they are 'mad' in a place where they can't quit. That is to say, they have bought their cows on credit and have them partially paid for, so that to sell out and quit would involve losing a good part of what they have already put in. So they are staying with it, and trying to reduce expenses by raising their own feed. There is much dissatisfaction with the dairying situation here, but we can't help believing that the section as a whole will be better off in the long run.

The low prices being paid for eggs here have caused many poultry raisers to quit feeding their hens. To do so probably increases the profit on eggs and it helps bring the price up by reducing production. But those who adopt that method will probably regret it this fall and winter, when the hens fail to do much laying during the season when prices are usually high.

EXCEPTIONAL YIELD OF PLUMS MADE BY BACKYARD ORCHARD

A tree of yellow plums, in the backyard orchard of S. H. Rider at 1706 Lucile, furnishes ample evidence of the fruit-growing possibilities of this section. The tree was loaded almost to the breaking-point with plums of excellent quality and those who saw it consider it a remarkable specimen.

Land Values in Valley Are Affected by Drainage Problem, Say Officials in Letter—Bank Will Not Make Loans

Failure to deal effectively with the drainage problem in the irrigated valley is already affecting land values, and is certain to affect them to a still greater extent, declares a letter from officials of the water districts, addressed to valley land-owners. The letter is one of a series dealing with the valley's drainage problem.

The Federal Farm Land bank has declined to consider applications for loans on valley lands, the letter states, until the situation is definitely remedied. The letter follows:

Since seepage conditions first appeared upon a portion of the district area two or three years ago, it has been evident that the value of the irrigated lands has been steadily decreasing. It is believed that the chief reason for the decrease in the value of land can be traced, either directly or indirectly, to the seepage menace described in previous letters.

Waterlogging of lands is one of the worst misfortunes that can occur within an irrigated area. A dismal picture, indeed, is presented by land that once was highly productive and in a high state of cultivation that has become saturated with too much water. All but the most worthless vegetation will die. Orchards, vineyards, all cultivated crops and meadows that may once have produced abundantly will fail as the ground water gets closer and closer to the plant roots. A man owning one of the best farms in the district will find it becoming of less value to him if it is so situated as to become affected by seepage. Crops failing, the farm soon runs down, houses and barns are left unpainted and unrepaired, the surroundings become unsightly and unhealthy, and the stock is sold because nothing can be produced to feed them. He is helpless, for by his own efforts he is unable to drain the land, and finally the farmer and his family move away from his farm, that may once have been the pride of the neighborhood, and seeks to make a new start in life elsewhere. This picture is not overdrawn. It is one that has occurred in other irrigated valleys of the country before drainage has been undertaken in a cooperative way, and it is a picture that will be repeated on this irrigation project if funds are not provided soon to do our necessary drainage work.

The conditions that have been described above or even conditions of a less serious nature on certain parts of our irrigated lands are having their effects upon the sale value of all irrigated lands in the district. Adequate drainage is necessary for large areas of the lands in district No. 2 and adequate drainage can be provided at reasonable cost under the plan of financing and construction previously outlined.

It is not possible to foretell at this time to what extent the present waterlogged conditions will spread if they are not checked. It is true, however, that unless they are checked that there will be an increase in the affected area. This is always the case in an irrigated section, as the development of an irrigation project proceeds and after waterlogging has once appeared upon the ground surface it continues to spread until the larger portion of the lands within the district are no longer capable of raising crops. Because this is so generally the case a lack of confidence in the valley lands has become apparent.

Under the date of July 3, 1929, M. H. Gossett, president of the Federal Land bank of Houston, wrote our districts No. 1 and No. 2 that the taking of additional applications for loans on all lands embraced in the Wichita Falls irrigation project would be postponed until such time as a remedy is found for conditions reflected by the record of the rising water table in the test wells located in the districts. Prior to that date an effort was made by our districts to have the Federal Land bank treat each farm on the project on its merits so far as values for loan purposes were concerned. We undertook to get the land bank to make an investigation of the water table on each farm and grant or refuse a loan to the owner according to this test on his particular farm. Our efforts in this regard were not successful, however. The Federal Land bank of Houston has held in substance that our seepage difficulties are likely to become general and the fact that they exist at all is sufficient reason for loans to be denied until additional drainage is provided. No part of any irrigated territory can become affected by waterlogging without lessening the loan value of the entire tract.

A previous letter has pointed out that the irrigation works constructed in district No. 2 resulted in an increase of the value of irrigated lands of from 3 to 10 times their value before the irrigation system was constructed.

Since waterlogging on the irrigation system has developed, however, this increase in value of the irrigated area, because of the reasons stated in the foregoing paragraphs, has gradually lessened, although still being greatly in excess of the value of non-irrigated lands. Drainage is necessary to complete an irrigation system, and stabilize the value of the lands subject to irrigation. Just as construction of irrigation works originally increased the values of the lands under the canal so will construction of drainage works now restore them to this value and maintain them at this level. The construction of irrigation and drainage works always stimulates land values and results in a material increase over their value prior to the construction of the works.

MAKES EXCELLENT YIELD OF PARSLEY WITHOUT IRRIGATION

An excellent crop of parsley is being gathered on the farm of F. M. Copeland, southeast of the city on the Windthorst road. Parsley is a new crop in this section and is in excellent demand, Mr. Copeland reports. However, he has offered none of his yield for sale, keeping it for home use.

The Copeland farm is not irrigated, the rainfall this season being adequate without watering. Excellent yields of squash, sugar beets and onions have been gathered.

FIND GOOD DEMAND FOR LOCAL PEACHES, CROP IS COMING IN

Peaches from Wichita county orchards are coming onto the local market regularly just now, with a very fair yield in prospect. Most of the peaches now offered are of the early varieties.

Prices of $1 to $1.50 per bushel, depending on variety and quality, are being paid for the fruit. In view of the shortness of the peach crop throughout the country, better than normal prices may be expected for the local crop.

Elbertas will not be marketed in any quantity until about mid-July, it is reported.

The local plum crop is somewhat above average, and is bringing good prices.

POULTRY PROFITS 11 TO 19 CENTS IN EXTENSION FLOCKS

Local poultry raisers who are cooperating with County Agent G. C. McGown in the extension service demonstrations, reported profits of from 11.18 cents to 19.4 cents per hen, over cost of feed, for May.

The individual figures were, in cents: 11.18, 12, 13.5, 15.3, 18.8 and 19.4.

GATHERS BIG CROP OF CHERRY PLUMS FROM SINGLE TREE

Two 19-inch limbs, each bearing 66 cherry plums, were brought to The Times office recently by M. E. Mackechney, whose place is on the Iowa Park road.

The cherry plum, like most plums, does very well in this region, and finds a ready market wherever offered. It is in demand as a table plum rather than for jam or jellies.

Reed Not Serious Aspirant for Demo Nomination in 1932—Robinson and F. D. Roosevelt Most Likely Aspirants

By MARK SULLIVAN
Political Correspondent Wichita Daily Times and New York Herald Tribune
(Copyright, 1930, by New York Herald Tribune)

One night this month ex-Senator Jim Reed regaled some tens of thousands of fellow Missourians, at a meeting at Sedalia, together with a nation-wide radio audience, with the most enlivening political oration of old-fashioned sort, that had been heard in the country since the prime of William Jennings Bryan. Reed exercised to the full the franchise always possessed by the party out of power, to "denounce and deplore." (The party in power, naturally, having the exclusive franchise for the "we commend and point with prides.") There has rarely been so wholesale a denunciation as ex-Senator Jim's. He denounced the tariff and the radio trust, the naval treaty and the Anti-Saloon league. Of the latter, he said, in one of those fine old-fashioned sentences that give a thrill to the susceptible, "They promised a millennium of virtue; they have given us a saturnalia of vice." The Missouri statesman denounced President Hoover and Secretary Mellon, the "march of monopoly" and the banks and trust companies; the chain stores and, naturally, the Republican party. Ex-Senator Jim even denounced without naming them, some persons very prominent in his own Democratic party, "political jugglers" who are "seduced by the hope of temporary victory into the approval of false doctrines and makeshift expedients." The common intepretation was that this particular "dirty look" from Reed was directed at those Democrats—they are quite exalted in rank—who dictated that a quasi-protective-tariff plank should be written into the last Democratic national platform. The writer of this article knows who that was, but if Senator Jim would not mention any names, obviously the present writer should be even more cautiously reticent.

SULLIVAN

To the writer of this article, Reed's speech had two main points of interest. One was its seeming disproof of a recent theory about the effect of the radio on national politics. The theory, growing up during the eight or nine years since the radio became common, has been that oratory—that is, emotional oratory as distinguished from plain statement—must become an obsolete art; that an oration which gives agreeable thrills to a mass of men together in a hall, gives no thrill at all to an individual listener sitting by the radio in his home. The theory is based on the assumption that a thousand persons sitting elbow to elbow in a room is one kind of audience, which as a mass can be stirred by emotion; but that a thousand persons sitting separately, each in his own home, is an audience not subject to mass phychology, and therefore, is a little disgusted, rather than thrilled, by emotional oratory. Upon this theory has been created another, namely, that a new type of stateaman would come into vogue with the presence of the radio as a campaign mechanism; that men making very plain speeches, like, for example, Grover Cleveland, would prosper, while the sky-soaring emotional type would be eclipsed.

The theory seemed not to be borne out in the case of Senator Reed's speech. Most of the persons within the writer's acquaintance who listened to it over the radio, thought it was quite agreeable.

And yet it is hard to tell. Would any one actually cast his vote, one way or another, because of that scintillating tirade?

The other outstanding and important—in a particular way—aspect of Reed's speech, was the headlines in the newspapers the following morning. In many newspapers the headlines, and in some text, described Reed as an aspirant for the Democratic presidential nomination and his speech as a bid for it.

Both statements were grotesque. Readers—and apparently there are many such—who wish to be well-informed about the Democratic national situation, can safely begin by crossing Reed off the list of the possibilities. Reed himself knows he is not a possibility, and for that reason is, of course, not an aspirant; if he were an aspirant, quite possibly he would not have made so good a speech, for aspirants are cautious, "cagey." A man who thinks he has a chance to get the presidential nomination in either party rarely ever throws all his inhibitions to the wind, rarely opens the throttle and says exactly what he thinks or feels about practically every pertinent question under the sun.

Reed never has been a presidential possibility, though it is a fact he was an aspirant in 1928. That 1928 episode was not a happy enterprise for Reed when he tried, rather desperately to slip in as a compromise between the wet Governor Smith and the dry (who was the dry contender against Smith for the Democratic nomination in 1928? How many readers, offhand, can remember his name?) That 1928 episode alone is enough to rule Reed out now—even if there were not other reasons, which there are.

Reed had been a wet, one of the wettest leaders in the Democratic or any other party; he was, indeed, a hero to the wets. In that role he began his race for the 1928 nomination. Reed's effort along that line came to a natural end in grief, as he should have known in advance, for the wet Democrats knew exactly whom they wanted in 1928. They wanted Governor Smith, and neither Senator Reed nor any other could hope to qualify as even "second money."

When Reed and his managers finally realized this, the Houston convention was under way. There, in the plain presence of the thousand delegates who compose the backbone of the Democratic party in every county in the country, and literally under the eyes of every Democrat of any importance in the United States; Reed, both publicly and privately began negotiations with the drys. As late as 48 hours preceding the naming of the candidate, Reed was holding conferences in closed hotel rooms with leaders and spokesmen of the Anti-Saloon league. That finished Reed as a presidential possibility with both drys and wets. Possibly it was just as well both for Reed and the country. Reed was left free to make the kind of speech he made the other night.

Besides, Reed is 68 years old; by 1933, when the next president will be inaugurated, Reed will be 71; by 1937, when the next president will be still in office, Reed will be 75. And age, in the presidency, counts more than it used to. To nominate and elect a man above the middle '60s (unless the particular example has extraordinary vitality) would be an injustice to the country and a sentence of death to the man.

The real Democratic presidential possibilities for 1932 compose a definite and rather small group. An elder statesman among the Democratic leaders made a compilation of them the other day, the compilation being based, in the beginning, on his own judgment, and being checked up by conferences of the compiler with some of the possibilities themselves. The compiler of this list is, or has been in the past, of presidential caliber himself, though he is now a little beyond the point where fate would be likely to hit upon him. His concern for the Democratic party increases with his years, and it is his conviction that the Democrats have a chance to win in 1932. (The conviction, needless to say, is not shared by Republicans.)

This particular "roll call of the worthies" in the Democratic party includes—or at the beginning of the making of the compilation, included Gov. Franklin Roosevelt of New York; Owen D. Young of New York; ex-Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York; Gov. Albert Ritchie of Maryland; Gov. Harry Byrd of Virginia; Newton D. Baker of Ohio; Democratic Senate Leader Joseph M. Robinson of Arkansas; Senator Walter F. George of Georgia.

Heading that group—and it is appropriate they should—are three from New York; present Gov. Franklin Roosevelt, former Gov. Alfred Smith and Owen D. Young. From these three one may be dropped, solely for the reason that he says he must be dropped. Owen D. Young is and if he should choose to could remain a formidable possibility for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1932. In many ways he is logical. If by 1932 concern about domestic prosperity and foreign trade should continue to be the front of American thinking, Young would be perhaps the most available man in the Democratic party. Young has more friends and adherents than he himself realizes. Any one having contact with Democratic editors and other leaders in the South, is surprised by the frequency with which Mr. Young's name is put forward in kindly approval.

Young, however, takes himself out of the picture. He has said in so many words to a person who had the right to ask, under circumstances making the action formal and authoritative that he will not consider the presidential nomination. One of his reasons, the principal one, is that there is a field, business, which he knows well and in which he can be useful; that he does not know politics and that he proposes to remain where he can function with confidence in himself.

To describe the field in which Young functions and which he prefers, as "business," is to describe it much too narrowly. Young is an economic statesman and the field of economic statesmanship has come to be broad and important. Young, apparently, has dedicated himself to that area in which, under the constantly closer knit fabric that the world is becoming, international relations in the political sense go hand in hand with international relations in the economic sense.

There Young is at home. There he functions with the comfort of a man who knows his own scope and with beneficence to the world. And there Young has said he proposes to remain.

Probably he is wise and probably his decision is for the greater good of the future world. Mr. Young is engaged in an extremely important enterprise looking to the smoother and larger functioning of international relations. That is a work that is open to suspicion, sometimes real, sometimes pretended, from men in the world of politics who make capital out of inciting suspicion against other nations. If Young should enter politics he would inevitably bring his cause with him, to the great disadvantage of the cause. Think how Jim Reed, in Young's own party, and Hiram Johnson in the Republican party, would attack Young and the bank for international settlements and every other enterprise for facilitating international relations. Young, as an aspirant for the presidency, would be torn to pieces as Woodrow Wilson was, and in the carnage international amity would inevitably be set back.

Governor Smith could get the Democratic nomination if he and his friends should determine to go after it. He would encounter less bitterness of opposition now than he did in 1928, and in the election he would suffer less discrimination against him. Religious prejudice seems, to a degree, to run counter to Shakespeare's rule. It does not always grow by what it feeds upon. The phenomenon of religious controversy usually has its climax in its first manifestation. The succeeding waves are milder. All the manifestations of religious feeling in American politics have gone that way. The A. P. A. movement arose about 1887 and was strongest in the early '90s; by 1900 there was little of it left. The Ku Klux Klan has followed to a degree the same law of ebbing; hardly any one believes there is as much potency today in the feeling that inspired the klan as there was five or six years ago. Probably, history will say that the climax of the klan movement was somewhere between 1924 and 1928.

Governor Smith, if he should want to go after the 1932 nomination, would have the advantage of controlling the party machinery; his campaign manager, John J. Raskob, is still the national chairman. Control of the party machinery counts.

But persons well equipped to know former Governor Smith's mind, say he does not want the nomination again. He is a generous man—generosity, "playing the game," has been part of the cause of his political success. And there is a call on his generosity which runs in favor of present Governor Franklin Roosevelt of New York. Mr. Roosevelt, to the endangering of his health in 1928, lived up to a request from Governor Smith that Roosevelt should run for governor of New York on the same ticket with Smith as a candidate for president, with the purpose of strengthening the ticket in New York state. That is the sort of service of friendship that Governor Smith repays. And the friendly attitude of Governor Smith is but one of several factors which work powerfully toward making Governor Roosevelt the next Democratic candidate for the presidency.

Yet, it is by no means certain. The drys in the Democratic party are more powerful and determined than New York City thinks. New York has never at any time given to the drys in the Democratic South adequate credit for the sincerity the drys actually feel. In the ill-fated 1924 national Democratic convention that was held in New York City, the Democratic press of New York, the Tammany followers in the galleries of the convention, and the whole atmosphere of the city, took the view that the dry delegates from the South and West were merely stubborn "hicks," depriving New York City's hero, Governor Smith, of a nomination to which New York thought he was entitled, which New York City felt absolutely he would get. The sincerity of the South, its patience and courage that would hold out in a hostile atmosphere for nearly three weeks, was never understood by New York.

The Democratic South does not think of Governor Roosevelt as a violent wet. But they think of him as a New Yorker, as one having the favor of Tammany, and as necessarily, therefore, to put it in the mildest way, a long distance from dry. It is quite possible for the southern drys to have a candidate of their own and to stand behind him with as much firmness as they did in 1924. There are at least three leaders who could fill this role for the Democratic drys of the South and West. Of the three it is probably safe to say that Senator Joseph Robinson of Arkansas, is farthest to the front. The elevation of Senator Robinson's status in public life is not realized by the public as generally as Washington realizes it. Ten years ago he was merely a senator from a southern state, one of eight or 10 in fairly high esteem. Today and for some years past Senator Robinson has been the official leader of his party in the senate. To take that role and live up to it adequately involves, necessarily, growth. And Senator Robinson's capacity for growth is the characteristic of him that has caused Washington to look upon him with more and more approval, more and more expectation for the future.

A frequent saying of Democratic drys runs thus: "We let the wets have the nomination in 1928 and they did very badly. Now the wets should let us drys have the nomination in 1932, and see what we can do."

Free Ocean Trip

NEW YORK.—Arthur Papp wanted to see Paris and, with only eight dollars, the 16-year-old youth boarded a huge liner and mingled with the passengers for three days without being discovered. On discovery, however, he was allowed to run free until the ship docked in England. Here he was put in jail until a ship set out for the U. S. He was placed on board, made the voyage over safely, and landed here with 25 cents of his original capital.

SLOW MOTION SHOWS CAR CRASHING INTO BRICK WALL

Slow-motion picture cameras, taking photographs at the rate of nearly 500 each second, recorded more vividly than the naked eye could see it just what happens when a 3,000-pound touring car crashes head-on into a brick wall at 37 miles an hour during a test of the blow-out-proof qualities of the General Dual Balloon 8 tire, made recently at the plant of the General Tire and Rubber company at Akron, Ohio.

Capt. Dick Grace, Hollywood's greatest thrill performer, who has crashed dozens of airplanes and automobiles intentionally to make motion picture thrills, drove the car into the wall, the impact of the crash hurling him from the car as he expected.

Captain Grace is shown in the picture at the upper left, rising in his seat at the instant that the car strikes the wall. The tires are flattened out on the wall, the front wheels having been moved forward so that the tires would receive the full impact, and the rims and felloes on the wheels were bent out of shape.

The brick wall is leaning perceptibly in the picture at the upper right, when the car is getting the full force of the crash. The wheels have been forced far back, the frame is buckling and Captain Grace is shown hurled face downward on the hood, his body having been caught by the cowling.

A fraction of a second later, the rebound came, as shown at the lower left. As the car sprang back from the wall, Captain Grace was hurled into the air to land on the ground at the side of the car. The front wheels are now back under the car, in contrast to their position in the picture just above.

A few seconds after the crash, Captain Grace was examining the result of the test, as shown at the lower right. He is showing an official of the General Tire and Rubber company that the General Dual Balloon tires have not been damaged in the least by the terrific blow they received. Captain Grace also is shown in the circular inset.

HERSHEY PLANTING MAKES FAST GROWTH ON ONE LOCAL PLAT

The demonstration plot of hershey, or hog millet, on the Carl Williamson farm is giving evidence of the possibilities of this feed crop in this section. It was planted a little over 30 days ago and is already knee high, with the heads formed.

The Williamson plat is one of several planted at the instance of County Agent G. C. McGown, to try out the crop in this section. Hershey is noted for its rapid growth. It is said that if it is planted on the day a sow farrows, it will be ready to feed by the time the pigs are weaned.

2 DEMONSTRATION HERD COWS PRODUCE ABOVE 50 POUNDS

Two cows in the herds covered by the dairy demonstration reports for May, produced more than 50 pounds of butter fat during the month, according to figures compiled by County Agent G. C. McGown. The best cow's production was 54.7 pounds, and that of the second best cow 50.2 pounds.

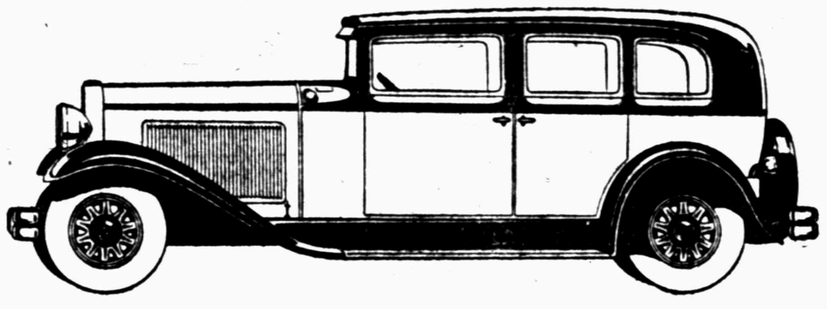

Four cows were in the 40 to 50 pound class, 26 in the 30 to 40 pound class, 38 in the 20 to 30 pound class, and nine produced less than 20 pounds.

Cost of butter fat ranged from 17 cents to 29.6 cents per pound, the demonstrators' reports showed.

WICHITA FALLS

Has a Past, a Present
and a Future

—that every citizen should be thankful for.

The development of our city, rapid as it has been in the past, has only begun. We believe that in the next few years to come we shall witness expansion—opportunities—industrial and financial progress.

Today, even though times are not at their best, Wichita Falls is enjoying prosperity to a degree equal to that of the majority of cities.

For the future much depends upon the wisdom of the individual business executive. Much depends upon the co-operation of productive units. Much depends, too, upon the supporting financial service of banks and bankers who understand the requirements of their customers, who are sympathetic with their problems, and who are devoted to the upbuilding of the community.

The City National Bank has a wholesome belief in the future of Wichita Falls and pledges its aid to the future prosperity of the city.

today

YOU don't have to—thanks to the late Charles F. Brush, inventor of the improved storage battery, which made the self-starter possible.

Dr. Brush applied this same idea of stored-up power to money he made. He placed $500,000 in a Trust Fund, with a trust institution like ours to conserve and invest the principal.

In his will he also utilized modern financial machinery by appointing a corporate executor.

The older method, fast becoming outgrown, would have been to put his money into the hands of a friend or relative as executor and trustee. Always on the lookout for newer and better ways of doing things, it was natural for Dr. Brush to adopt improved methods.

JUST as Dr. Brush devoted his life to useful inventions, we devote ourselves to the useful work of settling the estates of modern-minded men and women in this city, as directed under their wills.

The full benefits of this service to your family and other beneficiaries can best be explained to you in a personal talk with our Trust Officer. We invite you to come in and see him.
