

Fulton Mansion drama- documentary planned

By PAT BLAIR
Fulton Mansion will be the focus of a drama-documentary being planned by the instructional television director of KEDT-TV, Channel 16, in Corpus Christi — providing funds can be obtained for the project.
Gerry Kroloff from KEDT was in Aransas County this past week seeking local support for the project which she hopes to use in schools, libraries, Fulton Mansion itself — and of course, on television.

"It will definitely be aired by Channel 16," Kroloff said, "and by all PBS stations in Texas." She has hopes the program will be picked up nationally: "There is a tremendous national interest in Texas."
Kroloff has already obtained permission from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, owner of Fulton Mansion, to film on-site. Kroloff wants to do a half-hour program that tells not only about Fulton Mansion itself but about the history surrounding it.

"We can make this (Fulton Mansion) a microcosm of the nation at that time," she says. Among points that can be touched through Fulton Mansion — built in the 1870s — are the westward expansion, the growth of Texas, entrepreneurship. She and June Secrist, superintendent of Fulton Mansion which will open as a museum later this year, see the mansion as a showcase for the arts, sciences and technological level of the decade when Col. George W. Fulton had the mansion built.

"It's an almost unlimited cornucopia," Kroloff says of the Mansion. "We might never tap it all."
"We want to use Fulton Mansion," she said, "to help people visualize the whole effect of what was going on in the country at that time and what a tremendous thing this (the Mansion) was. Fulton Mansion," she added, "was the focal point of this community."

The completed drama-documentary, on videotape, will be made available to schools, libraries — and to Fulton Mansion itself — in

PARAMEDICS CAME TO the aid of Mary Simpson of Rockport who was injured when her car and a Chesson Oil Co. truck collided on Hwy. 35 near the SeaAire Shopping Center. Rockport police said the accident occurred about 10:55 a.m. when Simpson, northbound on 35, apparently swerved to avoid collision with another car that turned into the shopping center. Simpson's car skidded into the southbound lane into the path of the truck driven by Wynn Lopez of Lake Charles, La. Simpson was treated and released from a private physician's office following the accident. Rockport firemen were called to hose down diesel fuel leaking from the truck which overturned across the northbound lane of the highway

Tabling of ordinance sought

By LESLIE ABRAMS
FULTON — In a surprise move Tuesday evening, Zoning Committee Chairman Charles Belaire asked the Fulton town council, on behalf of the zoning committee, to table the proposed zoning ordinance indefinitely with the exception of three items, which he asked be taken under consideration for future town ordinances. Those three items include the protection of trees from construction, restricting construction on the bay side of Fulton Beach Road, and restricting the height of structures built along Fulton Beach Road.
The request came during a workshop meeting which followed a special meeting of the council. Belaire gave no reason for the request. He told council members that the proposed zoning ordinance provides for these three items plus enforcement and that they may be extracted as is or enacted under separate town ordinances.

The council agreed to put the request on the agenda for the regular meeting May 10.
During the special meeting Ken Pagans of the marine advisory service discussed the possibility of Fulton obtaining a grant from the Texas Parks & Wildlife Department for outdoor recreational projects. Pagans said there is $3.25 million available in grant funds on a matching basis.
Fulton expressed interest last week in obtaining grant funds to build a bicycle-hiking-jogging path along the water. Pagans recommended getting together with the Aransas County Navigation District and the county commissioners to put together a large project stressing mutual cooperation and benefits. He said the chance of a large cooperative project being accepted is greater than that of a single limited project by one entity. "Combining resources is the key," he said. "By sharing, the cost per entity is less."
Pagans said he could not give an application deadline but urged application as soon as possible to ensure fair consideration by TP&WD.
The ACND discussed the possibility of obtaining grant funds for projects in an earlier meeting Tuesday evening. ACND officials on hand said there was a possibility of working out a cooperative project for Fulton Beach and the park between the Town of Fulton, the ACND and possibly the county, but said they would not make the decision to apply for the grant funds until their next meeting.

Alderman Elgin Dietz made a motion to make application for the grant funds and to contact an engineer to get started on plans for the project on a contingency basis. Pagans said earlier that the application requires a detailed site plan and a quality estimate. He also said that provisions may be made to stretch the town's cost of the project over more than one fiscal year.
Fulton Mayor L.E. Casterline said that Fulton has approximately $116,000 in savings accounts at the bank. County Marine Agent Rich Tillman estimates that construction of an asphalt path will cost approximately $32,000 per mile.
Audience member June Carter asked the council to consider how to pay for maintenance of such a project before deciding to apply for the grant.
The third and final reading of two traffic-related ordinances was conducted during Tuesday evening's meeting. A Loflin-Alderman Leslie Cole motion to enter into a contract with the state for the installation of a stoplight at the intersection of Hwy. 35 and Cactus St. was unanimously approved. The ordinance will facilitate the process involved in securing additional stoplights in the future.

A motion by Dietz to accept an ordinance lowering the speed limit on Hwy. 35 was seconded by Alderwoman Katherine McLester and unanimously approved. The ordinance lowers the speed limit on Hwy. 35 to 45 miles per hour from the south town limits to a point one mile north of the north town limits, except in the school zone where it will remain 35 miles per hour.
The council held the first reading of an ordinance designed to protect Fulton's live oak trees and ground cover from destruction. The ordinance says that any new construction must save 50 percent of the trees on the property with a diameter of 12 inches or more and 30 percent of the trees having diameters of 6 to 12 inches to the extent possible. New construction is to cover no more than 70 percent of the ground cover or any one piece of property. Audience member Jack Carter asked the council who will decide "to the extent possible." He also asked the council to clarify the ordinance so that the preservation of trees on a lot does not restrict the location of the building on the lot. The council decided to let their attorney examine the wording of the ordinance.

On ownership of shell bar

ACTA seeks ruling

The Aransas County Taxpayers Association (ACTA) has asked for a ruling from the attorney general on whether a shell bar extending out from H.E.B. property in Aransas Bay belongs to H.E.B. or the State of Texas.
A certified letter was mailed April 18 over the signature of ACTA President Willis D. Pfeiffer to Attorney General Jim Mattox asking for the ruling and stating ACTA's position contesting H.E.B.'s ownership of the shell bar.
At Tuesday night's meeting of the Taxpayers Association Pfeiffer said Mattox has received the letter.
ACTA member Frank Riordan said he talked to representatives of the Army Corps of Engineers last week and there is "no time frame" on when the Corps will act on H.E.B.'s request for a permit on placement of pilings on the bar.
ACTA's interest in the shell bar began after H.E.B. officials placed some 10-12 posts in Aransas Bay off Live Oak Point. In ACTA's January meeting, Riordan read a letter addressed to the Army Corps of Engineers which claimed, "The purpose of the posts is to deter public access to public water," and asked that they be removed.
H.E.B. constructed a walkway from the land to the bar which lies in the bay just off the company's Live Oak Point Lodge. At the time of the January meeting, the company had applied for a permit for the walkway but not for the pilings. A request has since been made for a permit for the pilings.
In the letter to Mattox, ACTA contends that H.E.B. does not own the shell bar because the original owners of the property did not own that portion of the area. "After the original owners," the letter continues, "the property has been eroded by several hurricanes and storms to the effect that what was once part of the original owners has been lost for lack of reclamation."
H.E.B. claims ownership of the shell bar based on a survey conducted by Urban Engineering of Corpus Christi but does not, the April 18 letter noted, claim the water between the vegetation line and the shell bar.
ACTA is contesting ownership of the shell bar based on definition of "Property of the State of Texas" in Vernon's Texas Statute, 1968, and on three articles of 1982 Texas Coastal Legislation.
Riordan said if the attorney general rules that the shell bar is owned by the state, "we can go to phase two and get the posts down."

Copies of the letter were mailed to Garry Mauro, commissioner, General Land Office; State Sen. John Sharp whose 18th District includes Aransas County; the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers; and to the Aransas County attorney's office.
Riordan added he has talked to the official with H.E.B. in San Antonio who is responsible for the operation of Live Oak Point Lodge. "I talked to him twice, not as a representative of ACTA but as a concerned individual," Riordan said. "He was very noncommittal but very polite."
Guest speaker at Tuesday's ACTA meeting was Jack Groseclose, chief appraiser with the Aransas County Appraisal District, who outlined the appraisal district's duties and the appraisal process for members.
Groseclose also informed ACTA members of legislation currently pending in the Texas Legislature affecting the appraisal districts. He said there is a "strong move on" for a bill that would have appraisal district directors elected by voters rather than appointed by the taxing entities the district serves, which is the present method.
At the same time, two bills have been introduced which would abolish the central appraisal district and turn its duties over to the county governments.
The appraisal district's operating funds come from the taxing entities served by the district, with each tax entity paying on a percentage basis.
Groseclose said the district's 1983 budget is $219,693, an increase of 1.9 percent over the 1982 budget. Statewide, appraisal districts averaged a 7 percent increase of the 1983 budget over 1982.
Groseclose pointed out that the appraisal district in 1982 showed a surplus of $34,724 and returned that surplus to the taxing entities it serves.
Groseclose added the statewide average cost for operation of appraisal districts is $16 per parcel, compared to a cost of $7 per parcel in Aransas County. A recent statewide survey, he added, showed the Aransas County Appraisal District "has come as close to actual market value of property as any appraisal district in the state."
ACTA member Ralph Winkelman reported latest developments in ACTA's

County wants alterations in Bahia Bay road plans

The Aransas County commissioners court met with the contractor and developer of the Bahia Bay Subdivision Wednesday morning, April 27, to continue discussion of the subdivision's roads. The court wants portions of two streets altered before accepting responsibility for maintenance.
County officials became concerned earlier this year over deterioration of portions of the pavement on Estes and Land's End streets in the subdivision due to low elevation and perpetual wetness in the subgrade. A meeting was called in early February to discuss these and other concerns. At that time the county ordered that core tests be performed to determine if materials below the surface were sufficient to sustain wear and tear on the road from trucks and other heavy equipment.
The core study showed that the subgrade in these areas is indeed wet and the county says that the roads must be reinforced in these areas. The roads are currently comprised of a six-inch caliche base with a one-inch top layer of hot mix asphalt, and are built to minimum county specifications.
George Craig, managing partner in the Bahia Bay Development Corporation presented the court with copies of letters from Charles H. Steger, project engineer, and Naismith Engineers, the firm which performed the core tests. Naismith blamed the problem on groundwater and tide water intrusion and Steger, too, blamed the problem on subgrade failure.
The court accepted the subdivision roads with the exception of the portions of Estes and Land's End Streets in question. The county and the developers will decide the best way to bring these portions up to acceptable standards so that they too may be accepted.

Naismith Engineers is currently in the process of rewriting the county's subdivision specifications which will be applied in this case as well as in the future.
Aransas County Judge D. Wendell later read a letter and rate schedule from Naismith Engineers and the commissioners agreed that the firm's rates were acceptable. In other court action, the commissioners approved a request from Aransas County Treasurer Marvin Wix to distribute Aransas County permanent school funds between the Aransas County Independent School District, Aransas Pass Independent School District and Port Aransas Independent School District. The funds are the result of bonds which were invested in several years ago and are now mature. Distribution is based on attendance figures for the three districts. Of the $10,000 originally invested, ACISD is to receive $5,000, APISD is to receive $4,200 and PAISD $800. These funds may only be used to reduce bonded indebtedness or pay on permanent improvements.
Interest earned on the bonds was distributed solely to the ACISD in the amount of $6,235.68.
The commissioners approved a request from LJB Enterprises to cross Fulton Beach Road with a waterline north of the Fulton town limits.
The meeting was later adjourned for a closed session to discuss county tax office personnel.

Editorial & opinion

It's better to forget April 15

Editor's note: The Live Oak Philosopher on his grassy farm has some thoughts on a new IRS ruling this week.

Dear Editor:

Although generally it's better to forget April 15 as soon as you can, there are a couple of announcements by the IRS that caught my attention.

It has ruled that house painters can deduct the cost of overalls as a legitimate business expense because, it said, "They are required as a condition of employment and are not adaptable for general use as ordinary clothing."

This is two-fold news. (1) To farmers and others who like to wear overalls right out in public even though the IRS says overalls aren't adaptable as ordinary clothing. (2) If painters can deduct the cost of their clothes, why can't others? For example, if overalls are deductible because they're required as a condition of employment, how about pants in a bank? I've never seen a bank that didn't require its male employees to wear pants. And come to think of it, some women are wearing fancy overalls straight out of high-toned department stores. The IRS is fixing to increase the national debt.

The other IRS announcement said it has hooked up a phone system that automatically rings the phone every 30 minutes if anybody is behind in his taxes. The thing will keep on ringing till the guy pays up or yanks the thing out by the roots.

I'm in favor of everybody's paying his taxes and if that telephone harassment works, fine. But what's going to happen if some guy gets one of those phone systems himself and sets it to ring every 30 minutes at the IRS office asking: How come some big executives with incomes of a million dollars a year get by without paying any income taxes?

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Confidence building

Despite a cool reception at the Geneva arms limitation talks between the United States and the Soviet Union and a "no comment" by Anatoly Dobrynin, Soviet ambassador to the U.S., the State Department is moving ahead with plans to seek new confidence-building measures with the Soviets.

Although Dobrynin was non-committal when the latest initiatives were discussed with him, he promised to transmit them to his government.

The latest word from Geneva is the Soviets won't agree to have the U.S. proposals "broken out" and negotiated separately from the arms limitation discussions.

The Pentagon, under congressional mandate, proposes the confidence-building moves to reduce risk of accidental nuclear war and restrain terrorists from using atomic weapons.

A report prepared by the Pentagon outlines sophisticated communications steps to keep Washington and Moscow in instant contact on levels beyond the so-called "hot line" U.S. and Soviet leaders can use in times of crisis.

The proposals reflect the conviction the U.S. can and should improve ways of controlling crises that might lead to the use of nuclear weapons and to bar nuclear war starting as a result of accident, miscalculation or misinterpretation.

The hot line was established in 1963 after the Cuban missile crisis almost triggered nuclear war. Contrary to popular belief, it is a teleprinter, not a red telephone. It will remain as a teletypewriter circuit connected by conventional cables and telegraph lines and by space satellites.

These proposals would be worth the cost if they lessen tension and make it less likely the world could be plunged into nuclear war that could destroy civilization:

1. An upgraded line equipped with high-speed terminals on both ends to permit transmission of entire documents without risk of keyboard errors.

2. Joint military communications link paralleling the hot line but with facsimile capability that would connect the National Military Command Center in the Pentagon directly with the Soviet equivalent. It could be used in event of a military incident that required urgent communication, but did not warrant direct contact between heads of state.

3. High-speed data communication links connecting the U.S. Embassy in Moscow with the State Department and the Soviet Embassy in Washington with its Foreign Ministry in Moscow.

4. Agreement among nations of the world to consult in event of a nuclear incident involving a terrorist group.

President Reagan said the proposals are consistent with U.S. goals of reducing risk of nuclear war and pledged to give them his full consideration before making any formal recommendations to Congress.

Federal drug law enforcement in Texas falls dangerously low

By Senator
LLOYD BENTSEN
Federal drug law enforcement in Texas has fallen to dangerously low levels.

Even more alarming are reports that, as the number of federal drug agents in Texas has decreased, drug smuggling along our border with Mexico is on the rise.

The U.S. Customs Service advises me that in recent weeks it has apprehended more smugglers at border crossing points. The Customs Patrol, which enforces smuggling laws between ports of entry, advises me that its seizures of marijuana and cocaine also have increased.

This is especially disturbing in regard to cocaine. Enforcement officers tell me that cocaine seizures as large as a pound are being taken, where in the past only small amounts of cocaine have been in evidence along the border.

Even as drug seizures have risen, the number of Customs Patrol officers in the Laredo and El Paso districts has fallen, from 180 to 105 over the past four years.

From November 1981 to November 1982, the Drug Enforcement Administration also decreased its Texas agents by 14 percent, from 183 to 158. Yet in 1981, I was assured by Peter Bensinger, then acting administrator of DEA, that he was ordering a freeze and that no additional agents would be sent out of Texas.

Drug agents in Texas also are plagued by equipment shortages and failures. Customs Patrol officers at Amistad and Falcon lakes on the Rio Grande used to have 12 patrol boats. They now have only one.

An incident in Starr County further illustrates the problem. In November, two customs patrol officers encountered 15 smugglers, each carrying 44 pounds of marijuana and a .380 caliber Beretta handgun. A gun battle ensued in which one officer was wounded and another severely beaten.

The officers had no bulletproof vests. The pump shotgun carried by one officer jammed after being fired twice. It was one of the Army castoffs, some 20 years old, that these federal officers are provided.

In order to guide in ambulances and reinforcements with his handheld radio, one patrolman had to climb a tree because the radio repeater in nearby Roma had been taken out.

The radio repeater has been replaced, but these officers still have no bulletproof vests and their shotguns are still 20 years old.

I have written the President's Cabinet members in charge of the DEA and U.S. Customs urging them to take immediate steps to remedy the situation in Texas. The Customs Patrol needs more officers and equipment, and the number of DEA agents in our state should be brought up to at least the 183 here at the end of 1981.

The president has made a strong commitment to bring the full weight of federal law enforcement into the fight against illegal drug trafficking.

These problems in Texas should not have developed and I intend to see that they are corrected.

Education problem could become crisis

Other than getting more expensive by the year, American education faces still another problem that could quickly become a crisis.

The latest bad news on the educational front that is causing educators grave concern comes from reports across the nation that fewer students want to become teachers and those who do exhibit low academic ability.

This discouraging information is contained in a report on "The American Teacher" presented by a private organization that publishes periodicals in the educational field.

The report says that "never before in U.S. history has the caliber of those entering the teaching profession been as low as it is today."

Scholastic Aptitude Test scores of college-bound seniors planning to study education in 1982 were 32 points lower than all college-bound seniors on the verbal portion of the test and 48 points lower on the mathematics section, the study said.

Compared to the 36 possible fields of study a college-bound senior could select, those who chose education ranked 33rd in SAT scores, according to the study. Only seniors planning to major in home economics, ethnic studies, or trade and vocational fields had lower verbal and mathematical scores, the study noted.

The number of young people preparing for education as a career has declined steadily for more than 10 years, the report found. Only 5 percent of graduating high school seniors last year said they wanted to major in education in college, a 50 percent drop since 1973.

In the 1986-1990 period, demand for additional teachers will be about 200,000 a year, the report predicts. If current patterns continue, the annual supply will be fewer than 160,000.

A contributory factor to dwindling interest in the teaching profession is that teachers are not happy with their lot and with conditions in their field, especially the salary scale.

Nearly 35 percent of currently employed teachers say if they had to make the choice again, they would not teach. Twenty years ago, only 11 percent of teachers polled said they certainly or probably would not choose teaching again, the report said.

The teaching profession is not keeping up with population shifts within the U.S., threatening the schooling of youngsters in areas of high population growth, according to the report.

And, it concluded, new opportunities for women in a wide range of other professions "are denying education to the choice of the brightest and most creative women."

It would be in the best interest of the nation if a concerted effort were made to reverse conclusions drawn by "The American Teacher" report, if indeed they are as alarming as it indicates.

Let me be optimistic

With no small degree of amusement I've been watching the hassle over the slogan "Texas Riviera"; designating all of South Texas, or just the Coastal Bend? I recall writing earlier that some among us might come up with something a bit more original. To that end I have been wracking my own feeble brain, but no luck.

A week or so ago public relations pro John Nugent came along with "Si Corpus Christi," thereby localizing the slogan. Then a couple of days later a letter writer to the Corpus Christi Caller demanded to know what "Si Corpus Christi" meant. A fair question. But I also know John and wonder how far back in his cheek had he tucked his tongue? Well, what does "Si Corpus Christi" mean? Indeed someone should do better.

Meanwhile I am left to wonder what has become or will become of "City by the Sea," referring to Corpus Christi? Even as the crow flies that city is close to 20 miles from the sea, the Gulf of Mexico. Refugio or Aransas Pass might, with equal justification, make that claim. The only city by the sea, in the Coastal Bend at least, is Port Aransas — which reminds me that between Rockport and Aransas Pass on the Intracoastal Waterway, there is a City by the Sea. No slogan. That's the name of the development. All this brings me back to the idiom of promoters and developers who come up with names like Bahia Bay, Key Allegro Isle and... ah, but the list is too long.

Thankfully it didn't take long in Aransas County for a judge to no bill a deputy sheriff who in the line of duty shot and killed, in self defense, a prowler. By contrast the record wasn't so good in Corpus Christi where it took nearly two months to decide a case in which 14 policemen were charged with misconduct. Thankfully, the cops won. The case was brought by the notorious American Civil Liberties Union and cost Corpus Christi a tidy packet. None of this is intended to hang a halo over law enforcement officers. They are, I suppose, as fallible as the rest of us, the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker... and newspaper columnists.

There are and there have been bad cops, very bad cops, but according to what I read and what my spies tell me, the caliber of men and women in law enforcement today are closer to being professionals than ever before in all history. Not that there is no room for improvement. However if we expect, as we seem to do, people whose job it is to protect solid citizens to be educated, level-headed, diplomatic, trained in psychiatry and a host of other things, well by gum, we'd better be prepared to pay them accordingly.

This last brings me to the subject of pay for school teachers. Since Gov. Mark White's election I haven't been around enough to establish an estimate of his ability. Although I do know that I voted against him while the powerful teachers unions supported him. Meanwhile, even as you and I, Mark knew before the election that he'd never be able to give teachers the pay raises he promised, a 24 percent hike I believe? Blunt and everything but charismatic Bill Clements said as much. Were the union leaders so naive as to believe otherwise?

Here let no one mistake me. I am most definitely in favor of better pay for teachers. There are no more important people in our society, or at least that is the way things should be. However, as I see it, it is not the responsibility of Austin to assume responsibility for better wages, instead the local school districts. Ah, but there are poor districts. True enough, but they all seem to be able to afford a lot of fluff that has nothing whatsoever to do with education.

A couple of years ago, "Texas Monthly" published an article on schools that train teachers. It was revealing and not very encouraging reading. Often I have wondered why certain schools seem to specialize in training just teachers? Well, of course I know. Yet why is it that so few teachers come from major universities, not that one can't get as good an education in a small college as a big one. A good teacher should be as intelligent, as well trained as the young geologist, accountant, attorney or whatever, and should therefore command an equal salary. Is this true? Not according to the aforementioned "Texas Monthly" article, an article which incidentally left teacher college administrators on the silent side.

Here let me be optimistic and hazard the guess that the time will come when these very, very important people will be well paid and in line with that the craft will be considered by students presently attracted to better paying lines of work. This circumstance will be, above all, welcomed by the really competent teachers in the field today, but it may well spell hard times for the teacher mills and their products.

If oil prices continue to fall, state deficit could reach $2 billion

By Senator
JOHN SHARP

AUSTIN — The Legislative Budget Board composed of the Lt. Governor, the Speaker of the House and four appointed members met last fall and set out the state's budget for the next two years. The budget figures they were given to work with were based on rosy revenue projections, and in early January they learned that because of the drop in the price of oil and the drop in the inflation rate the budget projections were $1.5 billion over the revenue actually available over the next two years. This $1.5 billion figure is expected to increase, and I believe that if oil prices and inflation continue to fall this figure could reach $2 billion. My hope is that rather than massive tax increases the Legislature will take a long, hard look at administrative costs and capital construction and try to avoid such a drastic measure as a tax increase of the magnitude it would take to overcome such a deficit at this time.

I have reasons to believe that the economy will turn around. At a time when all households and businesses are drastically cutting back on expenses, I certainly feel that the state should be no different. The state can certainly re-evaluate its budget before even considering a major new tax. If the state budget is tightened and with some innovative financial measures, such as school districts receiving increased shares of the Permanent School Fund (not to be confused with the Permanent University Fund), I believe the situation could be rectified. The mood of most legislators is to avoid any major tax increase, and I feel we have a perfect opportunity to prioritize government spending instead of all of the money the state receives.

One of the critical funding needs, other than education, is highways. S.B. 287, sometimes called the "pothole bill" attempts to address this problem by changing the funding formula for highways to allow the new federal gasoline tax to be used in Texas in addition to current revenues. It also allocates a percentage of those revenues to cities for street repairs and construction. I believe this will help insure that the users of our streets and highways are the ones who pay for those streets and highways. This should also reduce some dependence on property taxes. We must protect our investment in our Texas transportation system by making sure that funds are available to keep our highways from deteriorating.

Governor White will present his proposed budget this week. He is attempting to draft a budget which will require no new taxes, yet still meets critical education funding needs and requirements. I will give you an analysis of that budget in a future column. If you have any suggestions or would like to comment, please write to: Senator John Sharp, P.O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711.

Reducing the knowledge of the looting of America

By SCOTT BURNS

If they didn't "own" the Securities and Exchange Commission, the people who run this corporation would be in jail now.

That's what you would conclude if you did what I did and called the Department of Treasury to obtain a copy of a document that amounts to the annual report for the U.S. government.

Here's the story: Almost a decade ago, the late Sen. Leverett Saltonstall saw that government accounting for its operations was a Byzantine horror that virtually no one understood.

So he proposed, and saw passed, a law that required the treasury to develop a report that would approach the operation of the U.S. government as though it were a corporation with assets, liabilities, revenue and expenses. The report, to be issued annually, would follow what accountants call "accepted accounting principles" as closely as possible to present the true financial condition of the biggest business in America — the federal government.

Those reports have been available since 1975. A few weeks ago I called the Department of the Treasury, Bureau of Government Financial Operations, Division of Government accounts and Reports, Special Reporting Branch, and asked a very helpful person to send me a complete set of the reports.

Not long after, reports for 1975 through fiscal year 1980 arrived in the mail, along with a note explaining, "We are awaiting final approval for the fiscal year 1981 report. When that approval has been given and the report printed, we will send you a copy of that report, too."

Note that this is April 1983. Most corporations closed their books for 1982 on Dec. 31 and are now, months later, mailing annual reports to their shareholders. But the government — the same government that is accelerating tax payments and wreaking havoc by requiring dividend and interest withholding payments — is still working on its annual report for fiscal 1981, which ended almost two years ago!

The delay works to reduce public knowledge of the ongoing looting of America.

At the end of fiscal 1980, our government had some $590 billion in assets. These assets included $21 billion in U.S. Treasury cash, $16.8 billion in International Monetary Reserves, and $16.6 billion in "other cash" (cocaine money at the Miami Fed, perhaps?).

The second largest asset was an item called "loans receivable," a catch-all for government lending of all kinds. Back in the notes to financial statements the report informs us, "Outstanding loans and allowances for losses have been recorded as reported by the various lending agencies. The allowances for losses are presumed to be understated and they are under study." In other words, the assets, which include things like student loans, farm loans, the Export-Import Bank, etc., aren't what they seem to be.

The largest single asset was the $189.5 billion in "military hardware," which included $75.4 billion in aircraft, $59.8 billion in ships, $34.8 billion in combat vehicles, and $15.9 billion in missiles.

It's true, of course, that the real value of some of these assets is understated. After all, creations like the Rayburn Office Building are carried at original cost. So are all the public lands. Similarly, our gold reserves are carried on the books at about $42.22 an ounce — one-tenth their current value.

Unfortunately, no write-up and sale of assets would cope with the rise in government liabilities.

As you can see from the table below, the total liabilities of our government nearly tripled between 1974 and 1980. Our government, an $813.6 billion bankrupt in 1974, went on to become a $2,491.9 billion bankrupt in 1980.

(All numbers in billions)
One of the curious by-products of taking a look at these reports is the realization that the entire public debate on the $200 billion federal deficit is asinine.

Asinine. No other word will do. Between 1974 and 1980, federal debt to the public — the current subject of debate — grew by $362.8 billion, but total federal liabilities grew by $1,940.9 billion, almost six times as fast!

On average, federal liabilities were growing by $323.5 billion each year during this period while the stated federal deficit that has become such a fashionable source of worry never exceeded $66.4 billion (1976).

Condominium presales are going well

Sales at the proposed new Nautical Towers project to be constructed on Fulton Beach Road "are going extremely well," with 30 condominium units — approximately one-quarter of the total — already sold in advance of advertising on the project, according to Jerry Haldeman, managing partner for the developers. The only thing we've done so far," Haldeman said during an interview this past week, "is those three cocktail parties in Rockport, Corpus Christi and Victoria."

An advertising campaign got under way this week, with ads geared for publications of state- and nationwide circulation.

The developers will put the first price increase — approximately 5 percent — into effect as of May 1, and Haldeman said Sept. 15 has tentatively been set as starting date for construction of the project.

The development, to be located on both sides of Fulton Beach Road at the present site of the Paws & Taws Building, is basically U-shaped with a three-story parking garage and 20,000 square feet of retail development on the west side of the road connected by a skywalk to three towers on the east (bay) side.

Two of the towers, which will be 10 to 12 stories tall, will be residential, and plans call for a restaurant extending partway over the water and a hotel-banquet facility.

Bill Holland is architect for the project.

It's not wise to rush into any contract

AUSTIN — The phrase, "Sign your name on the dotted line," can sound quite inviting after you've waited for credit approval on a loan or time purchase. That may be the flattering sign that you're a "good credit risk." But it is not wise to rush into any contract.

If you read any installment contract carefully, you should find a statement in bold type, cautioning: "Notice to Buyer — Do not sign this agreement before you read it, or if it contains blank spaces." The statement also puts you on notice that you are entitled to a copy of the agreement.

In order to meet state and federal requirements in credit agreements, the contract must tell you the difference between cash price and credit price, less down payment and/or trade-in; list any additional charges, such as credit insurance premiums, and spell out the total number of payments to be made by you, as well as the amount of each monthly or weekly payment due.

If you already have insurance that would cover your note amount or the secured property if anything happened to you, or if you have an insurance agent with whom you would prefer to deal, let the creditor know. He cannot require you to buy the policy he may offer.

Be certain the agreement contains the name, as well as the address, of the lender or creditor; the correct date on which you made the note, and the date for final payment. And, if the creditor is taking a lien or other security on your property, make sure that that detail is included in the contract.

If you are negotiating a home improvement, ask to see the "certificate of satisfaction," which the seller must furnish you. But heed the warning that you should not sign the certificate of satisfaction until the work has been completed, and until you know that you are satisfied with it.

That may seem like a lot of detail. But it is not complicated. Just remember to read carefully every section leading to a space for your signature. And be certain you understand it to your own satisfaction.

Most merchants or lending institution officials will be more than happy to answer any questions. In fact, some are exceedingly scrupulous about not allowing you to sign until they believe there is no room for misunderstanding.

Take advantage of the occasion to review the obligation you're accepting. Now that it is all there in black and white, do you honestly believe that the amount and the frequency of payments will not work too much of a hardship on the family budget?

Sometimes, my Consumer Protection Division investigators have looked into complaints of overcharge, only to discover that the interest and payment plans are legal, but hasty consumers had not noticed what a strain the obligation would be until they started paying it out.

If you do have any complaints or questions concerning credit contract rights, do not hesitate to contact a local consumer protection enforcement agency, or the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division.

Permit requests

A permit request has been filed with the Department of the Army, Corps of Engineers by Karl P. Sartore of Spring, Texas to construct a groin that will extend 52 feet into Copano Bay from the applicant's west property line. The groin will be constructed of wood and will project two feet above the water's surface.

A preliminary view of this application indicates that, an environmental impact statement is not required. The application will be processed pursuant to Section 10 of the River and Harbor Act of 1899.

No known endangered species or their critical habitat will be affected by the proposed work.

Aransas Marine Ways Inc. of Aransas Pass has filed a permit request with the Department of the Army, Corps of Engineers to dredge a boat slip and construct a bulkhead in Redfish Bay, adjacent to Allen Boulevard, northeast of Conn Brown Harbor in Aransas Pass.

Approximately 8,000 cubic yards of material will be removed from a 30 by 90-foot area by dragline to form a boat slip. The slip will be dredged to a depth of -12 feet MLT. A 25-by 500-foot area adjacent to the applicant's property will be dredged to the same depth. Approximately 830 feet of concrete bulkhead will be constructed around the perimeter of the property. All material will be placed on upland property. The facility will be used for commercial vessels.

This application will be processed pursuant to Section 10 of the River and Harbor act of 1899.

First week of Little League full of action

Cardinals vs. Cubs

On the first night of Little League play, the Cardinals were taken down 9-5 by the Cubs, who took the lead in the first inning and held the Cardinals scoreless for the next two. Managing two points in the fourth, one a home run by Kevin Patterson, the Cardinals only trailed 5-4 at the top of the fourth, but Cubs' pitcher Jason Moon led off with a homer and had the winning edge. The Cardinals just couldn't catch up and only managed one run in the fifth.

Leading off for the Cardinals in the first, Kelly Lee was struck out. He was followed by Stewart Hargrove and Jeffrey Ferguson, both of whom got to first on balls and stole all the way home during John Lassiter's at bat. Lassiter and Stanley Jones were walked by Cubs pitcher Moon and both were left on base when Mike Canterbury and Kevin Patterson struck out.

Good fielding by the Cardinals took the first Cub at bat, Roland Rios, out at first. Moon was walked by pitcher Lee, then came home after John Sanchez's double. Junior Martinez was tagged out on third, Sanchez came home and Eric Flores walked. Flores stole home, then Mario Hernandez, Martin Garcia and Duane Solis had the bases loaded when Ramon Garcia came to bat and was struck out. Moon struck out Mike Walston to open up the second. He walked John Gregory, then took down Lee and Hargrove in rapid succession.

Rios was up and had a single, Moon was struck out, Rios stole home during Sanchez's bat. Sanchez had a double to left field, then stole third and home. Martinez struck out, Flores had a double and stole third but was left on base when Hernandez struck out. The third inning went fast for the Cardinals, with Ferguson's high fly being caught, Lassiter being tagged out on first and Jones striking out. It wasn't much better for the Cubs. Garza was tagged out on first, Solis walked and was left on base when Garcia and Rios struck out.

Canterbury had a good hit to left field and with the help of some overthrows by the Cubs, then stole his way home before Patterson hit the first homer of the season on a 2-2 pitch. The Cubs had Walston out on first and Gregory walked, then stole second and third but was left on base while Lee and Hargrove handed in outs two and three.

The fourth was clean-up time for the Cubs. Moon led off with a homer and Sanchez had a single. Martinez walked, as did Hernandez. Sanchez came home, Martinez was tagged out on third and Flores and Hernandez made it in during Armando Rios' first at bat. Rios was walked and stole second, but subs John Valdez and Bubba Kellough were struck out.

Cardinal John Lassiter, up to bat after Ferguson was taken out on third, had a good hit and stole second. Ernest Valdes and Canterbury walked, then Lassiter came in for the fifth Cardinal score, but the next two batters struck out and the game was over.

Pirates vs. Angels

In T-ball action Tuesday, the Angels edged out the Pirates 12-10 after five long innings of play in the only game scheduled for the night. It was a close contest throughout, and the score was tied 9-9 after the third and 10-10 at the end of the fourth.

Angel pitcher Chris Callem bagged seven strikeouts and Sean Connelly, relieving Callem in the fifth, got two. David Nesloney, pitching for the Pirates, took down eight batters.

Leading off the game for the Angels, third baseman Eric Miller struck out and Billy Pash, up next, contributed out No. 2 after a hit off the "T" was caught at first by Pirate Raymond Hargrove and Pash was tagged.

Robert Solis made it to first after a hit off the "T" and then went for second on a steal, was almost trapped and after an overthrow stole second and then home for the Angel's first score. Callem was the next batter and was struck out.

Leading off for the Pirates, David Sanchez made it to first after a hit off the "T" into left field. Kevin Pultz was up next and hit a fine double.

With Sanchez and Pultz on second and third, Hargrove came to bat. After three balls, it was "T-time" and Hargrove hit a double into right field, bringing the first two batters home and putting the Pirates out in front, 3-1. Nesloney was up next and got to first but was left without a chance for a run with the next two batters, Donald Nesloney and Jason Phillips striking out and James Phillips being taken out at first.

Pitcher Nesloney hit the first Angel to bat, Bryan Flannagan who took first. Connelly had a single, Mike Adams struck out and Todd Adams had a beautiful hit off the "T". Adams then stole second, third and home, adding a run to those from Connelly and Flannagan and taking the Angels ahead, 4-3.

Following Daniel Garcia's strike out on a 3-2 pitch, P.J. Garcia was hit by the pitcher and took first. He then stole all the way home. When Robert Trimyer struck out, ending the inning, the score was 5-3 with Angels on top.

The bottom of the second was pretty lackluster for the Pirates, with Damon Hargrove and Becky Rocha taking outs on the "T" and William Ferguson striking out on a 2-2 pitch.

Larry Krogsgaard was up first in the third inning and hit from the "T" right to first where Raymond Hargrove took him out. Nesloney hit the next batter up, Shane Stephenson, in the stomach. Stephenson took a walk to first, then stole to third during Joey Hamon's at bat. Hamon hit off the "T" and he and Stephenson came home right before Oscar Pina stole all the way around and added the third point of the inning, bringing the score up 8-3. Gilbert Solis made an out on the "T" and Erick Miller hit off the "T" and got a beautiful fly into center field.

Miller stole home before Pash, up next, made the third out on a hit to first.

Trailing by six points coming into the bottom of the third, the Pirates meant business and they made up the difference before the inning was over. Bobby Evans, Cody Monroe and J.R. Cates got on base with "T" hits and Kenny Welch had a big triple into left field. All four scored, as did David Sanchez, fourth up. Pultz struck out at the "T" and next up was Raymond Hargrove who hit a bona fide homer on his first swing.

Both Nesloneys struck out and the inning was over but the score was tied 9-9. Angel Robert Solis was up first in the fourth and hit a double off the "T". He stole to home during the next two at bats but batters Callem and Flannagan didn't make it to base. Callem hit a fly to second where it was caught, Flannagan struck out on a 1-2 pitch and Connelly's short drive to the shortstop made it to first before he did, bringing the Pirates to bat again.

James Phillips was the only Pirate scoring in the fourth. After brother Jason struck out, James hit a good triple, then stole home before Damon Hargrove hit to the pitcher and was tagged out at first for the second Pirate out. Becky Rocha struck out at the "T", ending the inning.

Angel Mike Adams began the last inning with a strike out at the "T" but Todd Adams came up with a triple next and stole home before Daniel Garcia struck out. Next it was "T-time" for P.J. Garcia and he took advantage of it, hitting to first and then stealing all the way in on three wild overthrows by the Pirates. Robert Trimyer was the last of the Angels at bat for the evening and he struck out, giving the Pirates a chance to catch up, which they didn't capitalize on in their last inning. Sean Connelly struck out William Ferguson first, Bobby Evans struck out on the "T" and Connelly took down Cody Monroe on a full count pitch, ending the game at 12-10.

Blue Dolphins vs. Yellow Jackets

With the highest score of the new season, the Blue Dolphins drowned out the Yellow Jackets, 36-8 in Wednesday night softball. Weak pitching was the Yellow Jackets' main problem and the Blue Dolphins took full advantage of it, racking up an incredible 19 points in the first inning on a combination of walks and some good hitting, including a big homer by Joanne Garcia, who played fine ball all night. The whole Blue Dolphin batting order got two at bats in the first inning and the first five got three before the Yellow Jackets were able to come to bat. An infield fly from Brenda Garcia was the first Blue Dolphin out and batters Sissy Fox and Tanya Sassy were both tagged out by Yellow Jacket pitcher Kristie Arispe.

The Yellow Jackets were looking at a formidable lead and they didn't really get things going until the third inning, though Amy Jarman did come home in the first. Two strike outs by pitcher Lee Larrimore and good Blue Dolphin field work kept them scoreless till Jarman, Elsa Ayala and Arispe came through in the third. Then Mary Hernandez slugged out the only Yellow Jacket home run of the night before the inning was over.

By the third, the Blue Dolphins had racked up five more runs — two from Garcia, and one each from Lisa Loflin, Brenda Garcia and Sassy.

The fourth was another marathon for the Dolphins, with everyone in the batting order getting at least one run. Rhonda White and Dolphin pitcher Lee Larrimore got two. Brenda Garcia's long fly to left field was caught for the first out of the inning and Arispe tagged out Sassy and Fox before they got to first on short hits.

Yellow Jackets Jarman, Adrian Zambrano and Lenae Jones each walked their way through in the fourth to bring the Yellow Jackets up to 8 runs, but the Dolphin infield took out Amy and Elsa Ayala and Larrimore got her third strike out of the night on Arispe, ending the game.

Cosmos, Strikers fall from first place

At the end of regular Intermediate play, last Saturday's soccer action saw the Cosmos and Strikers, both tied for first place, lose and fall to the second and third places, with the Hurricanes taking an undisputed first place standing.

In the first game of the day, the Tornados got it together and slid by the Cosmos 1-0, with John Valdez scoring the only Tornado goal in the last few minutes of the game. Valdez made his scoring kick from way out in the field. A Cosmos defender mis-kicked the ball and landed it in the Cosmos' goal, but aside from that ball control exhibited by both teams was outstanding throughout the game. This was the first win of the season for the Tornados, who now face the Strikers in play-offs.

Outstanding defense was provided by Big Eric Scott and Jerry Krogsgaard for the Tornados and Paul Wilson and Vic Ovendon came through for the Cosmos. Robert Robertson, Eric Flores and James Griffith were outstanding in their offensive work for the Tornados as were Brandi Brundrett, Bubba Kellough and Eric DeWolfe for the Cosmos.

The Hurricanes stormed all over the Strikers and with excellent team play from everyone, racked up a 6-0 rout. In the middle of the first half a nice pass from Charlie Lozano to Miles Adkinson scored the first goal. The beginning of the second half proved to be the end for the Strikers. Within the first minute Lozano added one more goal and a few minutes later, Mario Hernandez scored off a corner kick from Lozano.

Twenty minutes into the second half, Josh Mennen, usually the Hurricane goalkeeper, scored and seven minutes later Lozano got his third goal. Jerry Schibi scored at the last minute of play for the final goal. The whole forward line of the hurricanes was outstanding, with each of the forwards scoring at least once. The Hurricanes will now face the Cosmos in playoffs.

In Pee Wee division playoff games, the Kicks and Rowdies tangled, with the Kicks taking the win 2-0 despite a very close contest.

After a strong attack by both teams, Byron Hailey of the Kicks shot and scored in minute 18 of the first half. Jay Pearson scored for the Kicks and Randy Mennen of the Rowdies had several attacks on goal but just couldn't put one in the net.

Outstanding performances were turned in from Bridgett Brundrett and Joe Zambrano of the Kicks, as well as from Randy Mennen and Chad Lilly on the Rowdies' side.

The Kicks will play the Barracudas this weekend in play offs.

The Aztecs beat Sting 5-0, David Wertz scoring first. Chuckie Nixon turned in a goal a few minutes later and Shawn Lewis scored off of a penalty kick. Nixon scored one more before the first half was over. The Sting came on strong in the second half, led by Wallace

Spurlock and Bobby Krogsgaard. Scott

Seawright scored the last goal for the Aztecs and the win was secure. The Aztecs will play the Chiefs this weekend and the Rowdies and Sting will face off against each other.

The first place Barracudas and the second place Chiefs had the week off this time.

Michael Bohn, Chris Hoover, Joe Zambrano, Anissa Norrell, Stevie Martinez (third row) Bridgett Brundrett, Freddie

Lozano, Hector Salanis, Justin Green, Bobby Stout and Byron Hailey. Not shown is Tyson Taylor.

Poor heat penetration through dense foods and the high heat resistance of a particular mold led the USDA to recommend increased processing times for applesauce and fruit purees. They also recommend that strained (pureed) pumpkin and winter squash no longer be canned at home for the same reason.

"Those wishing to have strained (pureed) pumpkin or winter squash ready for making pies or casseroles should consider freezing the puree instead," says Haggard.

"Now is the time to correct extension bulletin, B-194, 'Home Canning... Fruits and Vegetables,' or other instructions before the canning season begins," she adds.

According to Marilyn Haggard, a foods and nutrition specialist with the extension service, the changes in canning recommendations are based on research conducted at land-grant universities and the Eastern Regional Research Center of the USDA.

"The recommendation to more than triple hot-pack processing times for tomatoes was based on research which indicated that shorter times could be insufficient under certain conditions," says Haggard. Insufficient processing could allow botulism organisms to survive the heat treatment, grow and produce harmful toxins, she explains.

"We consider this especially important since tomatoes are the most popular type of produce for home canning grown by

Recommendations for home canning have been changed

The United States Department of Agriculture this week released new processing recommendations for tomatoes and tomato juice, applesauce, fruit purees and pumpkin. To prevent food-borne illness and the loss of valuable home canned foods, specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service are urging home canners to follow the new USDA guidelines.

The USDA now recommends the following: — The one-step, cold pack method for canning tomatoes should no longer be used.

— The hot pack processing time for canning tomatoes should be increased to 35 minutes for pint jars and No. 2 cans, and to 45 minutes for quart jars and No. 2½ cans.

— The hot-pack processing time for canning tomato juice should be increased to 35 minutes for pint and quart jars, and for No. 2 and 2½ cans.

— Strained (pureed) pumpkin and winter squash should not be canned at home. Instead cubed pumpkin and squash may be canned using a processing time of 55 minutes for pint jars and 90 minutes for quart jars.

— The processing times for applesauce and fruit puree should be increased to

Liquor taken in burglaries

Beer and liquor appeared to be the primary target of thieves in a series of burglaries and attempted burglary of businesses and residences this past week.

Some $300.30 in beer and liquor was taken when Schrenkeisen's on Fulton Beach Road was burglarized between 11:30 p.m. Monday, April 25, and 7 a.m. Tuesday.

Also taken was a stereo with AM-FM radio valued at $299.97 and two stereo catalogs valued at just under $25 each.

Six cases of beer, valued at $21, were taken in a burglary of the Village Center on Fulton Beach Road at Broadway. That incident occurred between 10 p.m. Saturday, April 23, and 6:30 a.m. Sunday.

Burglary of Howard Mack's residence netted $32 in liquor for thieves who broke in sometime between 2 p.m. and 10:40 p.m. Sunday. Also taken was an onyx bracelet, a package of pork chops valued at $6 and two packages of hamburger meat valued at $4 total.

'We're gradually becoming permanent'

By PAT BLAIR

"I got tired of loafing and I enjoy books" is the way LaVerta Dockray explains her involvement with Aransas County's public library where she puts in a few hours every week as a volunteer.

A former junior high school teacher — literature was her subject — she'd also worked in the school library back "home" in Paul's Valley, Okla., so she wasn't exactly without experience when, two years ago, she became a volunteer staff member of the library here.

"There's always something new to learn," she says of the work. "You do it all: checking books in and out, processing new books... You don't have any certain job; it's just a lot of little tasks."

LaVerta was born in Purcell, Okla., "about 30 miles south of Oklahoma City — almost in the suburbs anymore," she says. She received her training to be a teacher at East College in Ada — where she also met her first husband. She has two daughters from that marriage.

She married Clay Dockray a few years after her first husband's death. Clay was a widower, with a daughter. Married for 26 years, the Dockrays tend not to think of their children as "his" or "hers," LaVerta says, but more as "ours." The daughters and their families — there are seven grandchildren — are "kind of scattered now," LaVerta said, with one living in Houston and the others in Paul's Valley, but they're close enough for visits — and for joining LaVerta on trips like the one two of them will take with LaVerta in August to England.

Clay has declined to go along on that jaunt, preferring to stay in their mobile home here in Rockport.

It started out as their winter home here. The Dockrays had vacationed in this area while they were still working and when they retired, they became Winter Texans.

"We first started coming down in about 1973," LaVerta recalls. "We started coming at first for just a month or two..."

Now the Dockrays usually spend from September through April or May in Rockport. "We no longer maintain a home anywhere else," LaVerta said. "This (the mobile home here) is it." The months she and her husband don't spend in Rockport are generally spent just traveling — although this year, even that is a bit different. LaVerta is going to Epcot Center in Florida later this month, then she's planning the week-long trip to England. "I don't know if we (she and Clay) will go somewhere when I get back or not," she mused.

During the summer, she takes a break from library work, but she's already looking forward to coming back to it next fall.

"My main enjoyment at the library is working with the other volunteers and meeting the people who come in," she says. "And I'm looking forward to some of the things we'll do next year."

Most of the people she and her husband know are "winter people," she added: "It makes it interesting, because we have so many places to stop and visit when we travel."

But she and Clay don't consider themselves Winter Texans — not any more.

"We don't have a home anywhere else," LaVerta says. "Really, we stay here most of the time."

"We feel at home here," she said, adding they were comfortable in Rockport from the very beginning. "Clay" likes to fish," she said, "and we liked the coast, we liked the people. We've always enjoyed coming, and every year we're less anxious to leave. 'We're gradually becoming permanent.'"

Failure to yield cited twice

Tickets for failure to yield right-of-way were issued in two accidents this past week in Rockport, according to reports filed by city police.

One ticket was issued to Ronald Leon Kline of San Antonio after his van was in collision with a car driven by James A. Franklin of Rockport Wednesday at the intersection of Liberty and Austin.

The accident occurred about 12:47 p.m. when Kline, eastbound on Liberty, attempted a turn onto Austin and was in collision with Franklin's vehicle as Franklin was proceeding across the intersection on Austin.

Coy M. Willis of Fulton was ticketed for failure to yield right-of-way on a left turn when he attempted to turn into a parking lot off Hwy. 35 North and struck a car driven by Jimmy Wayne Hattenbach of Fulton. That collision occurred about 9:50 a.m. Tuesday, April 26.

No injuries were reported in either accident.

Religion is . . .

Religion in the life of man is a momentary glance from time into eternity.

It is Augustine envisioning his "Civitas Dei" when the City of Man is about to crumble.

It is Pythagoras discerning eternal truths in the framework of a right triangle.

It is Plato grasping Beauty, Truth, and Goodness as eternal verities through human reason.

It is Edna St. Vincent Millay writing "Renaissance" and crying out, "The soul can split the sky in two, and let the fact of God shine through."

It is Socrates saying, "Knowledge is virtue."

It is Newton at 24 discovering the binomial theorem and the law of gravitation.

It is Handel with a paralyzed limb, destitute of money, facing imprisonment, gathering new courage and writing his greatest oratorio, "The Messiah."

It is Paul hearing the voice of his Lord on the Damascus Road.

It is Jesus in terrible agony crying, "Father, into thy hands I commit my spirit."

It is an ordinary man dedicating every fiber of himself to the betterment of the world.

It is Albrecht Durer painting his "Praying Hands."

It is Washington praying alone at Valley Forge.

It is Isaiah changing his purple garments of a prince for the tattered cloth of a prophet to save a nation from chaos.

It is Augustine forsaking a lustful heart and fleeing into the arms of God, and later becoming the Bishop of Hippo.

It is a priest jotting down the last words of a dying marine at Guadalcanal and composing a letter of comfort to a widowed mother in St. Louis.

It is Jesus saying to his disciples, "Take up your cross and follow me."

It is a teacher refusing a gainful salary elsewhere that he may instruct youth in the wisdom of the ages.

It is Mary weeping at the foot of the cross.

It is Clement of Alexandria interpreting the divine Logos as the inspiration for all truth.

It is a father sacrificing a suit of clothes that his son may stay in college.

It is a widow in a tenement taking in washing to support three orphaned children of a former neighbor across the hall.

It is Luther standing firm at Worms saying, "I cannot and will not recant anything, since it is unsafe and dangerous to do anything against the conscience."

It is Francis of Assisi preaching to the birds and the flowers.

It is a man centering his focus on God and not himself, and finding his life changed from a state of worry to a state of wonder.

It is Edith Cavell before a firing squad in Brussels saying, "Patriotism is not enough."

It is a man saying, "My soul is so absorbed in the bigger issues of life that I cannot afford to be jealous and suspicious of any person."

It is the sacrifice of a meal by an American family in order that starvation in China may be averted.

It is a monastery in Clairvaux in love with Christ and married to the church.

It is Servetus burning at the stake in Geneva for the sake of truth.

It is Amos forsaking his flock at Tekoa to preach against hypocrisy at Bethel.

It is Schleiermacher discerning religion as man's feeling of absolute dependence upon God.

It is Katherine Mansfield saying about her literary creations shortly before her death, "Not one of these writings dare I show to God."

It is Thomas Aquinas wedding reason and faith. It is my feeling of humility when I contemplate God as the Life of a universe extending a million light years into space.

It is Deutero-Isaiah discerning the nations as specks of sand when compared to God's majesty and infinity.

It is my little self on a second-rate planet eradicating fear, self-centeredness, resentment, and guilt in order that it may become an instrument of God's energetic redemptive love.

It is the writer of the Gospel of John reporting, "Let not your hearts be troubled; believe in God." Yes, these are all religion. For religion is as big as life and as normal an experience as breathing, eating and sleeping.

MOTHER'S HANDS

Dear gentle hands have stroked my hair
And cooled my brow,
Soft hands that pressed me close
And seemed to know somehow
Those fleeting moods and erring thoughts
That cloud my day,
Which quickly melt beneath their suffrage
And pass away.
No other balm for earthly pain
Is half so sure,
No sweet caress so filled with love
Nor half so pure,
No other soul so close akin that understands,
No touch that brings such perfect peace as Mother's hands.

Home exchange

When changing job locations, employees generally sell their homes and make purchases in the new locations. However, an alternative to the sometimes difficult buy-sell arrangement is the like-kind exchange under Section 1034 of the Internal Revenue Code.

The relocating employee may advertise in the new area or contact a broker who specializes in property exchanges. If the homes are comparable and both parties are agreeable to a transfer the two can simply exchange homes and avoid many buying and selling expenses.

If the two homes are not of comparable value, some monetary award may be exchanged in the transaction.

Obviously, any lien holder on the property must be contacted. This may trigger an increase in interest rates. The house exchange arrangement may prove beneficial to all parties if the details can be worked out.

Texans are younger

Generally speaking, Texans are younger than the rest of the nation. Although the medium age of Texans has been increasing we still are about two years younger than the typical U.S. resident.

In 1980, the medium age for other Americans was 30. Being younger than the nation is nothing new for Texans, however. That's been the case all this century. In 1900, for example, typical Texans were more than four years younger than the overall population of the nation.

Today only six states have a lower median age than Texas. Utah has the nation's lowest median age with 24.

In 1980 the five Texas counties with the lowest median ages had considerably more births than deaths. Although Loving County has a high median age—more than 45, births and deaths were not an age factor. That's because in 1980, Loving County had no births and no deaths.

Stop bracket creep

A bitter lesson in tax policy is in store for millions of American taxpayers who have suffered through a decade or more of bracket creep, perhaps not fully understanding how it works and raises their taxes unfairly.

Although not scheduled to go into effect until Jan. 1, 1985, tax indexing, which would eliminate bracket creep, already is under attack by members of Congress seeking its repeal. The provision is, perhaps, the most important in the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981, which also provides for three years of tax reductions totaling 25 percent.

The coming decade, if anything, should convince taxpayers that bracket creep has taken a heavy toll — perhaps "skimmed" is not too strong a word — off the top of the public's purchasing power.

Under our graduated system of income taxes, taxpayers pay a larger percentage of their income as their income goes up and they move into higher income brackets. It is the combination of this tax system with high inflation that has eroded purchasing power of American families since the early 1970s.

For example, a couple with $20,000 income in 1984 would be in the $16,000-$20,000 bracket where the tax rate is 18 percent. But if the breadwinner gets a 5 percent raise ($1,000) to compensate for inflation, the $21,000 income — still worth only $20,000 — would push the couple into the next higher bracket where the tax rate is 22 percent. This is how bracket creep works.

Under tax indexing, the $16,000-$20,000 bracket figures would be raised by 5 percent for inflation — and the tax rate would remain at 18 percent for a $21,000 income.

This is illustrated in the table below:

	Bracket Creep	Tax Indexing
Income	$20,000	$20,000
5% Inflation raise	$1,000	$1,000
	$21,000	$21,000
Tax on $21,000	2,673	2,584
Tax on $20,000	2,461	2,461
Tax increase	212	123
Percentage tax increase	8.6%	5.0%

The comparison also explains why economists for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, which strongly supports indexing, estimate that for every 1 percent increase in inflation, tax collections go up 1.6 percent.

As has been wisely noted, only politicians love bracket creep. It gives them more money to spend without voting to raise taxes. "Tax indexing is needed," according to the U.S. Chamber, "to keep pressure for discipline in federal spending and tax policy."

If indexing is repealed, the action would especially hurt lower-income and small business people (who file returns as individuals, rather than business entities). They would continue to be taxed at higher and higher rates, whereas taxpayers already in the top bracket would not face further bracket increases. Moreover, the Chamber points out, the value of the personal exemption and the standard deduction, which are relatively more valuable to the lower-income taxpayers, would be reduced by inflation. In short, they would continue to be taxed on inflationary income gains.

If indexing is repealed, bracket creep would cost Americans $90 billion from 1985 through 1988. Unfairly. That's the bitter lesson.

Broadway is my beat

.....with Joey Sasso

There's a new man in Jackie Onassis' life — but his confident boasting about his love for the former First Lady may have already caused a rift between them. Handsome Greek film director Michael Cacoyannis has even jilted his longtime love, actress Irene Pappas, in his headstrong campaign to win Jackie's affections.

Cacoyannis is wooing Jackie with huge displays of red roses and invitations to Manhattan nightspots, insiders say. He constantly jets to New York from Philadelphia, where he is preparing a musical version of Zorba the Greek. "He is head-over-heels crazy about her and is acting like a fired-up adolescent," he told me. "He has made up his mind he is in love with Jackie and nothing can change it." Embarrassed by his impetuous advances, Jackie turned livid with anger friends say, when she heard that Cacoyannis had vowed not to return to Athens without "the beautiful Jacqueline" at his side.

"Jackie sees Michael as old and trusted friend," one of her friends confided to me. "And she was completely shocked when he declared his love. 'She neither expected it nor welcomed it. But she still will go to great lengths to spare his feelings and retain his friendship.' The director's friends fear that he has burned his bridges in Greece by dropping Pappas. "When he left Irene to chase after Jackie he fell out of favor with many Greeks," the insider explains. "When she was married to Aristotle Onassis, she was not a popular person here." Cacoyannis told friends in Athens he was in love with Jackie — and she felt the same way about him. "He made no secret about his intentions. He said he was going to ask her to marry him and bring her back to Athens with him. He even vowed he would not come back without her." But Cacoyannis now has backpedaled on his original boast. "I've known Jacqueline from the days she was married to JFK," he says. "Of course we have a deep friendship and we see each other when we can."

Paul McCartney may be worth as much as $400 million, but there's at least one person who doesn't want a cent of it — and that's the ex-Beatle's secret illegitimate son. "I do not want to go asking him for money. It would not be right," says 19-year-old Philip Paul Howarth of Liverpool, England, who has broken a lifelong vow of silence to discuss the father he has never met. "We have had some incredible offers, me and my mother, to talk about Paul McCartney and how it feels to be his son," says the publicity-shy youth, who refuses to have his photo taken. "But money has nothing to do with it. I have never had any contact with my father. In fact, that is the only thing I have ever wondered about. I often wonder if Paul McCartney knows that I exist?"

Last year, publisher Michael Edrei told me his predecessors produced and published 56 magazines. In less than one year D.S. will be marketing more than 88 titles for newsstand distribution. His national distributors, Warner Distribution and Kable News, have become enthusiastic supporters in a very short period of time. New titles now coming onto the newsstands include "Class," a bimonthly; "Rock" and "Focus," both quarterly; plus a variety of calendars and poster books now in the production stages. "Tiger Beat," the teen magazine, retains its editorial director Sharon Lee, and now in addition to Hollywood star pin-ups always so popular with the readership has added other dimensions with new focus on style, fashion, beauty hints and other service features. During this period, "Tiger Beat" has shown marked increase in sales, and following closely behind this new editorial and pictorial thrust, Madison Avenue substantially increased advertising lineage. "Tiger Beat Star" has received an editorial face-lift as well, and as the sub-head suggests, it remains the best fan mag the mag fan.

Broadway records are falling by the wayside in anticipation of "Private Lives" with Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor in May. Producer Zev Bufman tells us both Liz and Dick will be getting salaries "higher than any other Broadway star has ever received in a play."

Most New York cabbies callously swindle unsuspecting visitors to the Big Apple, shocked city investigators learned. Undercover agents, posing as tourists and air travelers, hailed 51 taxi drivers at random at hotels and terminals, and were cheated by 31 of them.

The "cabscam" probes say the crooked drivers took costly detours, doubled meter charges and shortchanged their fares. Iran into Farrah Fawcett at the famed Gaslight Club the other night. When no one was looking, Farrah whispered to me "Marriage — that's an arrangement by which two people agree to be polite to each other in public."

If you'd like to dine in the presence of celebrities, pay a visit to Laurent, one of New York City's most popular French restaurants. Just recently, for example, we spotted actresses Joey Heatherton and Faye Dunaway, as well as actor Ralph Bellamy and TV newsmen Jim Jensen.

The restaurant consistently attracts one of the finest crowds in the city, according to Monsieur Losa, proprietor. Losa says that one of the house specialties is Escalope de Veau Vallee d'Auge, prepared with Calvados Boulard. We must agree that the delicious apple brandy from France makes this a dish you'll long remember. And for a delightful after-dinner alternative, try sipping Calvados Boulard with soda, a great way to end the meal.

"Living Magazine," a series of five-minute decorating and design programs, now appearing four times per week on Hearst-ABC's Daytime. Hosted by interior designer Joseph Ruggiero, "Living magazine" will explore decorating trends and home entertaining ideas in visits to unique residences. Shot on-location throughout the country, the program includes authoritative interviews with leading interior designers, hosts and decorating and design editors. "Living Magazine" will give viewers an inside look at a broad range of decorating themes. Design basics — windows treatments, accessories and color schemes are highlighted in each program.

Methods are outlined for adapting ideas featured on "Living Magazine" to one's own home. For Hearst-ABC, "Living Magazine" will feature segments on how Washington entertains with Nancy Clark Reynolds and Nadine Kalaschnikoff, a look inside the British Embassy, and updating an old home with Bill Blass and Pearl Nippon. Hearst-ABC's Daytime, the only cable television service designed for women, is available to over eight million subscribers daily from 1-9 p.m. (ET).

Joe DiMaggio was asked to help with a movie script on the life of his late ex-wife, Marilyn Monroe. But Joe jolted producers and said no because it might bring back too many memories.

Sophia Loren may be in trouble with the law in Italy again. The sultry actress, who spent time in jail last year on tax charges, has been ordered to testify before a special crime commission investigating the death of mobster Dominico Balducci. Balducci, a close friend of Sophia's and her husband, Carlo Ponti, has been linked to a secret right-wing society believed to be plotting the overthrow of the Italian government.

ARIES

(March 21-April 20) Stay alert if you want to avert trouble at home. You need to treat a love relationship with kid gloves.

TAURUS

(April 21-May 21) Affectional unions may be torn apart because of your work load. You may be dedicating yourself to projects that are unrealistic while those bearing fruit go unnoticed.

GEMINI

(May 22-June 21) Don't look for cooperation from your mate when it comes to saving money. You'll have to face that rainy day yourself, so be wise and take care of personal needs.

CANCER

(June 22-July 23) A parent could come asking for temporary help which should be taken seriously. Look into your heart before giving a negative response.

LEO

(July 24-Aug. 23) Speculation pays extra dividends. Find the right avenue for your money and you might just pull it off with good aspects smiling your way.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24-Sept. 23) A successful money deal could backfire if you're not careful. Sign documents and agreements in the presence of those who represent your interests.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24-Oct. 23) You may be walking around with a grudge because one you thought was a friend turned out to be just the opposite. Choose companions wisely.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Provide instant answers when put on the spot regarding a financial transaction. You could be holding the key to a bright future. Keep your chin up.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Friends and group activities will not work in your best behalf this week. Try to be a loner. You need privacy to complete an important project.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22-Jan. 20) Household chores and responsibilities could get you down. Do what is necessary and forget the rest. Everything will work out in the long run.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21-Feb. 19) Your creative ability may find expression at a different level. Attempt to contact persons or organizations that cater to the masses and promote your work.

PISCES

(Feb. 20-March 20) Love will come your way in a most unusual fashion. Be ready to accept the challenge of a new situation that could invade your privacy and desire to be alone.

MONTY PYTHON'S THE MEANING OF LIFE, from Universal City Studios. Directed by Terry Jones, written by and starring Graham Chapman, John Cleese, Terry Gilliam, Eric Idle, Terry Jones, Michael Palin. Rated 'R' ★ ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

One thing is certain about Monty Python — either you love them or hate them. Having seen a Python movie you cannot remain indifferent to their offbeat brand of humor, which has gained them a worldwide following as well as organized protests from various groups.

The same is true of their latest effort, "Monty Python's The Meaning of Life." "People tend to either love it or walk out," says Python member Michael Palin.

"Or perhaps they love it so much they walk out — it's too intense an experience for them so they leave." These optimistic comments come from Terry Jones, another member of the group and the film's director.

The Python group seems to thrive on controversy. "We haven't had much opposition to 'Meaning of Life,' and it's a shame actually," says Jones. "Life of Brian" came in with a bit of a splash. People were outside the theater with placards and protest signs, especially in England. Over there local towns can do their own censoring, and there are some towns where it's only now being shown."

"Meaning of Life" is prime Python for Python lovers, as the great question of mankind is seen from the perspective of a fish.

Obviously the Pythons are a zany lot. About the only American equivalent is Mel Brooks, but Brooks hasn't the depth of satire that the Pythons produce.

"I like 'The Producers' and 'Blazing Saddles' much more than 'History of the World, Part II,'" says Palin. "He (Brooks) is such a funny man, and we saw a film made about the making of 'History of the World' and it looked marvelous. But that zaniness never made it to the final movie. It lost all the spontaneity, and the film was bloody awful."

"Oh, Michael's just angry because we had the idea about 15 years ago but we never got around to doing it," explains Jones.

The Rockport Pill

MEDICINE CHEST

Your Professional:
Troy True, Reg. Pharmacist

Who should take vitamins? — H.N.

Paul A. Lachance, Ph.D., of Rutgers University observed that 88 percent of low-income households in the U.S. do not take the dietary allowances of 11 nutrients for which standards have been set. Also gastrointestinal disorders can readily affect the digestion and absorption of nutrients. Cancer and cancer treatments adversely affect nutrient intake by causing loss of appetite, nausea and vomiting. Drugs taken for a number of conditions, including the "pill," can impair absorption, increase excretion, decrease nutrient utilization and cause loss of appetite. The elderly are vulnerable to drug-related nutritional problems.

Why did my pharmacist recommend that I should definitely drink water before and after I take my capsule medicine? — L.P.

The water before acts as a lubricant, and the chaser afterwards insures that the capsule continues to flow into the stomach. Studies have shown that capsules and tablets have remained in the esophagus for up to two hours when not taken with water before and after. Also, sitting and standing is preferred to taking medicine than lying down.

Is it true that birth-control pills decrease the risk of rheumatoid arthritis? — A.R.

A report in the New England Journal of Medicine states that the incidence of rheumatoid arthritis in users of the "pill" is only half that of non-users.

Soap Beat

By Connie Passalacqua

Not many people remember what events transpired on the Nov. 22, 1963 episode of "As the World Turns," but millions will never forget what happened during that telecast. Walter Cronkite of CBS News broke into the serial to announce the shooting of President Kennedy, which had just occurred in Dallas, Texas.

It is inevitable that cataclysmic world events will happen during the afternoon hours on which soaps are aired, and that networks will interrupt the shows to announce them. But this kind of intrusion is the bane of a soap opera addict's existence.

The most recent example occurred on "All My Children." For the past year, "AMC" fans have been gearing up for the fatal climax of the Erica-Kent-Silver love triangle. On a recent episode, two scenes after the gun went off injuring Kent during a struggle with Erica, ABC broke into this crucial episode with coverage of the launching of the latest space shuttle.

However, the tape of "AMC" kept rolling. When the show resumed 20 minutes later, an announcer filled viewers in on what had happened. They missed the all-important Kent hospital death scene, which was undoubtedly played to the hilt by daytime superstar Susan

What happens when reality interrupts soaps

Susan Lucci

Lucci, who portrays Erica. When such interruptions occur, the telephone switchboards at the networks tend to light up immediately. Except for their protests, viewers have no power over what is to be aired and what is to be preempted. The network and its news divisions reserve that right. In recent years network news has broken in to cover the assassination attempts on President Reagan and Pope John Paul II and the assassination of Egyptian President Sadat — all cataclysmic events.

Yet soap fans can only ponder the network's decisions to cover such things as a Reagan press conference and other events of a non-emergency nature. Soap viewers thrive on their shows' continuity — and the network decision makers should take this into consideration whenever an "emergency" takes place.

BRIEFS ON WINE

* Older vintage California wines are hard to come by for a number of reasons. First, because storage of bottles is too expensive for producers to accomplish for more than a short period of time. Also, even the notion of premium vintage varietal wines is relatively new in the U.S., and has only emerged with the growing sophistication of the buying public. Mass producers of wine sometimes don't give vintage dates to any of their bottles. However, the older vintages in California often have still have wines made in the '50's, available at the time of the '82 vintage imports have been given excellent preliminary ratings, though almost all will require the patience of adding bottle age. From Italy, the Barolos of Piedmont are being given top billing for '82 with Amarone and Chianti following close behind in this vintage. From France, the '82 Bordeaux are getting big rave reviews and white burgundies, Rhone wines and Sauternes are also being judged excellent. Red burgundies are still considered quite good. The year old cabernet Mosel and Rhine wines of Germany are good, but can't compare with the '75 excellent education in the and '76 German wines which are excellent and ready to drink now.

Dobson delivers 'Mac' attack on 'Knots'

By Joan Crosby

Kevin Dobson, who spent many years playing Detective Crocker on "Kojak," is happy about being added this past season to the cast of "Knots Landing." He plays Mac, the district attorney, who has also married the widow Karen Fairgate (Michele Lee).

He's also happy that he has a film project at the networks as well as a short independent film on his own, which he's directing.

But all of this pales when compared to the fact that right after our meeting, Kevin was off to see, for the second time, his son Sean — who has not yet been born.

"When he was four months old, I saw him on a sonogram. I knew he was a boy, although the doctor said it was too soon to tell. It turned out I was right. You could actually see him moving in the womb. I could see his little hand and his fingers and do you know what he did? He raised his arms over his head and clasped his hands together in a victory salute."

Can you imagine what wonders are in store for Sean as he gets older and is able to see movies of himself in his mother's womb?

Kevin Dobson

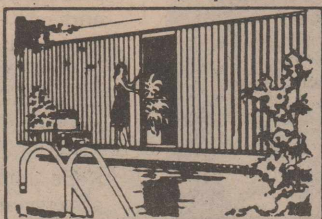

The only setback in Kevin's life — and it's small — is that a scheduling conflict prevented him from a role in the TV movie of Judith Krantz's "Princess Daisy."

Dobson says he loves being on "Knots Landing." "They have allowed me a lot of freedom in working on Mac. He is someone who went to UCLA — the University at the Corner of Lexington Avenue," he says in his New York accent.

"Yeah, Mac has been there. He's from the streets. He was in the Army and then he went back to the streets. I'm looking forward to next season. Viewers can prepare for a Mac attack."

Ask Kate

Lisa's bewitching past

By Kate Woods

Didn't Lisa Hartman of "Knots Landing" and "High Performance" star in "Tabitha"? — R.B.

Sure did. She played Samantha Stephens' grown-up daughter in the 1977-78 sequel to "Bewitched." Robert Ulrich was her co-star.

SAD NEWS — Where can I write to the "SCTV" people? I think their show is the best on TV. If NBC were smart they'd dump "Saturday Night Live" and give "SCTV" a better time slot. — D.R.

I hate to be the bearer of bad news, but the NBC brass aren't nearly as "smart" as you would like them to be. Your favorite late-night series is being pulled from the schedule and will probably be replaced by a music show. The producers are still mulling over an offer to do a couple of prime-time specials for the network next year.

Meanwhile, you can content yourself with catching cast members Rick Moranis and Dave Thomas in the upcoming feature film, "Strange Brew," while John Candy and Eugene Levy are currently working in the Disney movie "Splash," being directed by Ron Howard. You can still direct mail for the whole gang to the production offices, Old Fireball TV Productions Ltd., 110 N. Lombard St., Toronto, Ontario, Canada M5C 1M3.

Lisa Hartman

GREEN AND BEAR IT — Was there ever a movie called "The Boy with the Green Hair"? When I talk about it everyone says I've made it up. — E.O.

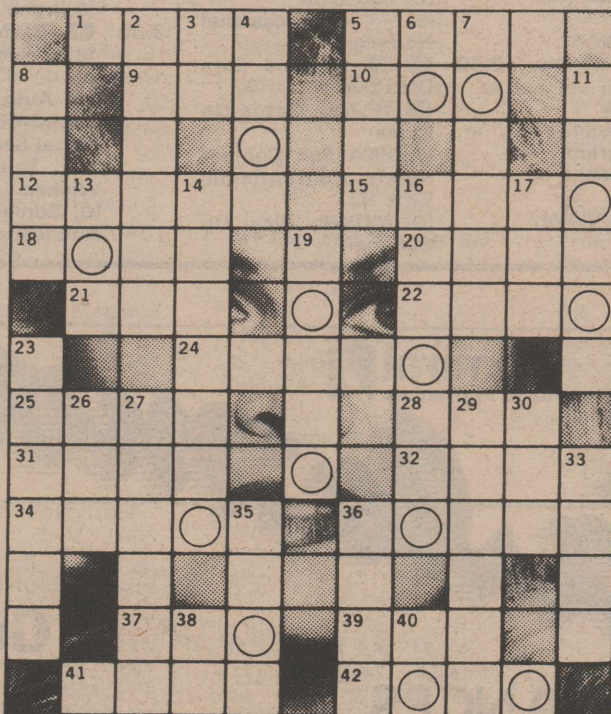

For the information of nonbelievers, "The Boy with the Green Hair" was a 1948 fable about an orphan (Dean Stockwell) who becomes an outcast when his hair inexplicably turns green. Pat O'Brien, Robert Ryan and Barbara Hale also starred.

Ironically, it was the first film of American director Joseph Losey, who was blacklisted in the '50s. He has since worked in England directing many other thought-provoking films, including "The Damned," "The Servant," "The Go-Between," "The Assassination of Trotsky" and "A Doll's House."

Dear Debbie

DEAR DEBBIE:

Please help! Several months ago I met a real estate salesman to whom I was attracted from the very first. We had so much in common it was unbelievable. The most precious of all was our love of the simple things in life. When the night came that I could finally admit to myself and him that I was very much in love with him, he was overjoyed. He told me that he was head over heels in love with me, too. He said we would have to take a day and return to the valley in which he was born. What I feel for him is the strongest love I have ever known. About two months ago he left the office where we met and I have not had a call from him since. I don't believe he lied to me. He's not the type. I'm not sure what happened and it's tearing me apart inside. I feel like someone who has died but walks and breathes. I pray he will call — at least if only to say he has decided to end our relationship.

HEARTBROKEN DEAR HEARTBROKEN:

I emphatize with your pain. Although we humans love romance, we are rational beings. Unfortunately, life doesn't always offer situations that can be explained through cause and effect. I'm not sure how to find your man, but you might try tracking him down, if you haven't already. Just because he hasn't called you doesn't mean that you can't call him. Once you contact him, you would be within reason to ask for an explanation. After all, he might be waiting for just such a call. Good luck.

* * *

My wife has turned into

a workaholic. We used to enjoy our evenings together. Now, if I see her before eleven at night I'm lucky. I've always supported her and her career and I try to have a positive attitude. I would make her dinner when she was going to be home late, did the housekeeping, etc. I think I've created a monster. Do you think she's having an affair? Why has she forsaken me for her job? Please print this letter and your answer as she reads your column (on her way to work!).

DEAR MAN AT HOME

Your wife is telling you that her job is the most important thing in her life. Workaholics don't have time for affairs, so don't let that worry you. She is telling you that her job is the most important thing in her life right now. Workaholicism is the result of several forces: she may feel inadequate; her hard work is an attempt to compensate for her fears. Unfortunately, this hard work becomes compulsive and addictive. Secondly, she simply may be fueled by the desire to succeed. Talk to her. Get to the bottom of her motivations. Once she understands the toll this is taking on you and your marriage, she may change. You may want to see a specialist if she doesn't open up. Find out what may be forcing her onward and then interpret that information into your own terms and life.

* * *

If you have a problem write to Debbie White care of this publication. Although Debbie cannot answer personally, letters of widest interest will appear in her column.

Jeremy, a 9-month-old baby boy, and his parents will join Dr. Alvin Eden along with host Judith Nolte when SPN's "American Baby" explores the different skills of the 9-month-old on May 5.

Also, Patricia Hassid, childbirth education specialist, will discuss the history and purpose of prepared childbirth, that is when the mother is awake and aware during the childbirth, on the same show.

Some of the more interesting movies on Spotlight this week: "North By Northwest" (May 4) — A classic Alfred Hitchcock movie starring Cary Grant. This is my favorite Hitchcock movie — also my favorite Cary Grant movie. The acting, the pacing, the composition and the plot of the movie are all superb. Vote for most hair-raising scene: Grant's run-in with the crop duster.

"Missing" (May 5) — Costa-Gravas' ("Z" and "State of Siege") film in which Jack Lemmon plays a father whose son was killed during a coup in a Latin American country, which resembles Chile. The father, a politically conservative American, finds that the trail of his son's murder and disappearance leads right into the American Embassy. While Lemmon's performance isn't always convincing, the film itself is often compelling. "Missing" is based on an actual account of the disappearance of a young American during the coup that overthrew the government of Salvador Allende in Chile.

"No Nukes" (May 6) — The sentiments are good, but the movie is often not so good. Like many concert movies, there is not too much plot holding this film together. However, the three or four songs performed by Bruce Springsteen and his E Street Band are among the best moments of rock music ever recorded on film.

Steve Martin in "Dead Men Don't Wear Plaid."

"Dead Men Don't Wear Plaid" (May 7) — Steve Martin's bizarre, but interesting send-up of various kinds of genre movies, particularly the detective and the film noir genres. It could be a little less bizarre and a little more funny.
