Dollars at home!

BIG SPRING — The city is trying to keep its dollars at home.

During June, financial records showed that 87.94 percent of the money expended was spent in Big Spring.

Of the $746,681 dollars in checks written by the city, $656,606 were written to city businesses.

Councilwoman Gail Earls said the city has been "sharing the wealth" with the local merchants.

"We've been trying to push shop locally..." Earls said. "Each month (the amount) fluctuates. Since we've started looking at the vouchers, we've been trying to get (city officials) to shop here in Big Spring."

Sometimes, however, prices for merchandise can be double or triple prices out of the city, she said, "and we're supposed to be saving the city money," so money is spent out of town.

Debbie doesn't do Seattle

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — A state advertisement that used a pornographic movie title to lure filmmakers was withdrawn after the Seattle police chief objected.

The ad proclaiming, "Debbie Could Have Done Dallas in Seattle," was run in American Cinematographer magazine by the state Film and Video Office.

The wording was a play on the X-rated movie title "Debbie Does Dallas."

But Seattle Police Chief Patrick Fitzsimons wasn't amused.

"It was absolutely unnecessary to use a pornographic reference to lure business," he said. "That particular film is very demeaning to women. It's decadent."

Christine Lewis, head of the film bureau, acknowledged the chief had a point. She pulled the quarter-page ad, which cost taxpayers $600.

"I'm sorry I ran it," she said Wednesday. "We made an error of judgment and it won't run again."

True Goldilocks story

DALLAS (AP) — A North Dallas woman felt a little like one of the three bears — wondering who had been sleeping in her bed.

In fact, the 27-year-old woman wants to know who lounged on her couch, messed up the bathroom, washed the linens, did the dishes and rang up $1,600 worth of phone calls while she was out of town.

For nearly a week, someone took over the woman's apartment while she was on a two-week business trip. But neither she nor police has a clue to who it was. She since has changed her locks.

The woman, who asked not to be identified, got her first hint something was wrong before she even got home. She got a message that her credit card was being used excessively, even though she had left it in her dresser.

Concerned that someone had broken into her apartment, the woman asked a neighbor to check the doors and windows. Everything looked OK, he told her. Then she got home Tuesday evening.

Two suspected crack houses raided

By RUTH COCHRAN
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — Crack, the drug pervading the streets of America's big cities, apparently has reached West Texas.

Big Spring police and Howard County sheriff's officers raided what they believed to be two crack houses — one just a block from Washington Elementary School — Thursday night, arresting five people.

Police Chief Joe Cook said the raids were the first made in Big Spring for the drug crack, a derivative of cocaine. Cook said the department began to suspect crack was being made in Big Spring about two months ago.

Each of the five arrested Thursday was charged with one count of possession of a controlled substance and one count of possession of drug paraphernalia.

(Police Chief Joe) Cook said it was particularly satisfying to raid the house on Monticello because it is less than a block from Washington Elementary. The drug is highly addictive and dangerous but also very cheap, making children a prime target for pushers, he said.

Those arrested include: Holston Banks, Jr., 23, 1905 N. Monticello; Priscilla Annette Banks, 20, 1905 N. Monticello; Danny Ry Crosby, 29, 508 N. San Antonio St.; Monica Lynn Lockridge, 20, 701 Ohio St.; and Harry Lee Crosby, 36, 508 N. San Antonio St.

Big Spring Police Detective Tony Garcia said he had been investigating both houses, one at 1905 N. Monticello and one at 508 N. San Antonio St., suspecting they contained paraphernalia to manufacture crack.

Garcia said the department received a call Thursday from Crime Stoppers reporting that drugs were being traded in one of the houses. As officers were preparing a search warrant, he said, a second call to Crime Stoppers reported drug deals going on at the other house, prompting the department to get another search warrant.

Officers conducted quick surveillances of each house, then moved in with the search warrants.

Garcia said officers found a substance suspected to be cocaine, as well as the residue from what officers believe to be the manufacturing of crack and the type of equipment needed to make the drug. The house on San Antonio Street, he said, particularly contained a lot of drug paraphernalia.

Garcia said crack, also called crystal and rock, is made by mixing cocaine with baking soda and water and then heating until dry. The remaining mixture, which is crystal in nature, is crumbled with a razor blade and rocks of the drug are sold for as little as $5, he said. Users then either smoke the crystals or mix them with water and inject the liquid, he said.

"It's cheaper (than cocaine)," Garcia said, "but it can kill you the very first time. It's a very dangerous drug."

Cook said it was particularly satisfying to raid the house on Monticello because it is less than a block from Washington Elementary. The drug is highly addictive and dangerous but also very cheap, making children a prime target for pushers, he said.

"I think it's insidious because it is a way to expand the narcotics market," Cook said. "We're making a concerted effort to stem the tide on crack because it is so volatile."

History goes on auction block

EDITOR'S NOTE: Several pieces of Big Spring history go on the auction block this week. They were part of the estate of a pioneer Big Spring businesswoman. Staff writer Lea Whitehead took a look at some of those items and what their owner meant to our city.

You can see the huge mirror that once marked the cigar counter at the Settles Drugs. Plus the drugstore's inlaid wood wall rack that held the latest copies of Screen Romances, Liberty and other popular magazines of the day.

There's a framed Bradshaw Studio portrait of Shine Phillips, taken to grace the back cover of his 1942 novel, "Big Spring: Casual Biography of a Prairie Town." And more of the legendary studio's photographs — burning oil wells from the 1930's, "red" sandstorms, and a print of the "official" portrait of George Mahon, Colorado City, the very first Congressman from the 19th District. (The hand-tinted original now hangs in the Colorado City Museum.)

These items are among the memorabilia that will go on the auction block Saturday to settle the estate of Willard and Tennie Lee "Tot" Bradshaw Sullivan.

Bradshaw Studios chronicled people and events in Big Spring from 1921 until it closed in 1975. The studio was first opened by Tot and her sister Lena May, both barely in their twenties, who astounded a local banker when they Building. Tot married Willard Sullivan, son of a Texas & Pacific Railway engineer, in 1923. When Willard obtained his pharmacist's license, he opened a drugstore on East 2nd Street, then bought the Settles Hotel Drugstore (from fellow druggist Shine Phillips) in 1939 and operated it until 1975. He ran the popular drugstore longer than any other proprietor, much of the time during the hotel's heyday.

LULAC to meet with DA over shooting

By BRADLEY WORRELL
Staff Writer

COLORADO CITY — Key LULAC supporters will meet with the Mitchell County District Attorney Aug. 4 to express concerns about the second grand jury investigation into the fatal police shooting of a Hispanic man.

"I think the time is right now,"

San Antonio civil rights attorney Ruben Sandoval said Wednesday of his motivation for arranging a meeting with District Attorney Frank Conard. Local League of United Latin American Citizens leaders are also expected to attend the meeting.

"I decided it's time to meet with him and get a few things straight," Sandoval said. "He has to understand my motives (and) I have to understand his position."

Sandoval said one of the main things he wants is support from Conard in seeking a second autopsy of Sammy Gomez, the victim of a fatal shooting in May 1988.

But Conard said today he doesn't see the need for a new autopsy into the police shooting of Gomez, a suspect in a sexual assault case.

"We have an autopsy done by a qualified pathologist. I see no reason to ask for another one," he said.

Gomez was shot in the chest, shoulder and back of the head by former part-time Colorado City police officer Billy Ray Williamson after Gomez allegedly lunged at Williamson and another officer with a knife as they attempted to arrest him. A grand jury convened one week after the shooting chose not to indict Williamson.

Conard said the parents of Gomez could choose to seek another autopsy on their own if they chose.

NEW YORK — Suspected spy Felix S. Bloch, left, leaves his father's East Side Manhattan co-op escorted by federal agents Thursday morning. Bloch, a career American diplomat who was Deputy Chief of Mission at the U.S. Embassy in Vienna from 1980-1987, reportedly was filmed by U.S. Intelligence agents passing a briefcase to a known Soviet agent.

Alleged spy: Soviets gave me a lot of money

By RUTH SINAI
Associated Press Writer

The U.S. diplomat suspected of spying for the Soviet Union told the FBI he worked with the Soviets for "many years" and was paid "a lot of money." The New York Times reported today.

Meanwhile, officials in Washington disclosed Thursday that Felix S. Bloch received State Department merit raises of more than $13,000 while he was the No. 2 officer in the American embassy in Vienna.

The raises are given to diplomats whose work is "well above average," said a U.S. official who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The Times quoted an unnamed official as saying Bloch made the admission during his only interview with the FBI on June 22, the day he was placed on administrative leave from his State Department job. He has not been charged with any crime but remains under heavy FBI surveillance.

Bloch refused to discuss his motives or to give details on any spying activities, the Times said.

Three administration sources familiar with the Bloch case said in Washington Thursday night that they had not been told of such admissions.

But a congressional source told The Associated Press the FBI believes Bloch was recruited by the KGB, the Soviet intelligence service, while he was serving at the U.S. Embassy in East Berlin 11 years ago.

The Times said the FBI had received information that prompted major interest in a recent trip Bloch was making to Europe and planned a surveillance operation.

The FBI interviewed Bloch, who told agents he had worked with the KGB for "many years" and that they "paid me a lot of money," the Times said. The FBI also got permission to search his home but found nothing incriminating, the paper said.

Friendly compromise

AUSTIN — Sonia Noyola, 12, of Corpus Christi, has proposed a compromise license plate slogan for the new Texas auto tags. She says the plates should read, "The Friendly Lone Star State."

Environmentalists call for cool heads

WASHINGTON (AP) — Environmentalists say lawmakers should dampen a potentially "volatile situation" along the Gulf Coast pending a court hearing on whether shrimpers must use devices designed to protect endangered sea turtles.

The Center for Marine Conservation sees a need to "lower the rhetoric, lower the threshold of violence, and for cooler heads to prevail" pending this afternoon's scheduled hearing in federal court, said spokesman Tom Miller.

"If a ruling comes down in our favor, we think it's wise to act proactively," Miller said Thursday.

After the 45-day period ends and before the study in completed, shrimpers would be required to pull their nets every 90 minutes, the length of time a turtle can remain alive while submerged.

The National Wildlife Federation is seeking a temporary restraining order that would require shrimpers to resume using the controversial turtle excluder devices.

On Monday, Commerce Secretary Robert Mosbacher suspended enforcement of those regulations for 45 days, after a weekend protest by shrimpers who blockaded ship channels along the

Governor: SSC construction to begin soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements is predicting construction of the super collider could begin as early as November, and backers say the high-energy physics project will bring "immediate jobs for hard pressed Texans."

The Senate agreed late Thursday to spend $225 million to begin building the particle accelerator at a site south of Dallas, while the House has voted to spend $200 million on the project in the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1.

"Investments in basic research pay rich dividends and the Senate today made a big investment in the future of America," said Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas. "It's a good feeling to be over that last big hurdle, to be assured that construction will start on the SSC sometime this fall."

Clements, who met with Energy Secretary James A. Watkins for nearly an hour Thursday, said they discussed "getting construction under way. We're going to do it."

"I wouldn't be surprised if we didn't get something under way in November," Clements said. "Time is running out on us in this regard. We need to get some tangible effort out there on the site."

State of Texas lobbyist Mike Gandy said Clements is confident there are substantial evidences in progress on the project in "we under way by next fiscal year, when debate begins on fiscal aid funding for the high-energy physics project."

Funds for the collider were included in an $18.4 billion energy and water appropriations package that passed the Senate by vote.

"This was a major investment in America's future, that creates immediate jobs for hard pressed Texans and the research that comes from it will create jobs in America's future, increase our productivity, and help restore technological leadership. And it's exuberant," Bentsen said after a vote.

Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, led the project "a daring project almost unimaginable scope."

"The implications for this investment in terms of transportation and medicine and science and productivity, in thousands of new products and millions of new jobs, are not to be measured today," Gramm said.

before the study in completed shrimpers would be required to pull their nets every 90 minutes

On Tuesday, the National Wildlife Federation filed suit in federal court in the District of Columbia, charging that Mosbacher's decision violates environmental protection laws.

"The fact that some shrimpers are protesting doesn't change the law and the secretary knows it," said Steven N. Moyer, the federation's legislative representative. "The law requires protection in the sea turtles and we expect them to get that protection."

Cats break into prison

ANTHONY (AP) — Smokey the cat has finally broken into the big house with help from Warden J.D. Williams.

Corrections officials have been rounding up stray cats and offering them for adoption. Williams was the first to take the fuzzy felines that roam the grounds of La Tuna Federal Correctional Institution.

So far, three of the 10 cats have been caught: Smokey, Catfish and the prison's namesake, TunaFish, said Barbara Pech, president of the Animal Alliance Society of El Paso.

"They were very docile cats and walked up to the people who caught them," she said.

Smokey was the first adopted. Ms. Pech said, adding that other employees of the medium-security prison probably will adopt the remaining nine.

The alliance plans to get live traps to catch the seven cats still at large, Ms. Pech said. For years, stray cats have prowled the prison grounds in this New Mexico-Texas border community, living off mice and handouts from prison workers and inmates. But the prison, troubled first by stray dogs, recently decided to crack down on cats as well.

Prison officials sought help from the non-profit Animal Alliance. Together, they have been rounding up the cats, sending them to be spayed and neutered, and putting them up for adoption.

"This is a beautiful example of humane care by a federal institution," Ms. Pech said. "They saw that it was a problem, and they saw that it was their civic and human responsibility."

The littlest Arvin packs a lot of cool.
179.88

Other than its good looks, you might think there is nothing unusual about the Arvin Air Cooler. Until you turn it on. When you feel its cooling power, you'll know there is definitely something unusual. Because the Arvin Air Cooler packs more cool than any other comparable product.

Arvin's design innovations (shown above) permit higher air velocity for greater cooling efficiency.

The Arvin Air Cooler is so small and light, you can take it anywhere. Because the Arvin Air Cooler operates with either a water hook-up or its own reservoir, you can use it two ways: freestanding or installed in a window.

And the Arvin Air Cooler is quality built for years of trouble-free service. Its galvanized steel body is protected by POLYBOND, an electrostatically applied, appliance-quality finish that won't crack, chip, tarnish or rust.

Call or stop by and we'll be glad to tell you more about the Arvin Air Cooler. It's the best portable evaporative cooler you can buy. Just what you'd expect from Arvin, the leader in energy-efficient cooling for more than 35 years.

House ignores Bush defense priorities when voting on budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House is counting on the Senate to rescue President Bush's defense priorities from a budget bill that would cut virtually every major strategic weapons program.

In two days of votes on a $295 billion defense authorization bill, the House ignored White House and Pentagon lobbying and turned Bush's defense priorities on their head.

It restored funds for conventional aircraft discarded by the Pentagon while suspending most production of the radar-evading stealth bomber. It cut money for the Star Wars missile defense system, stripped funds intended to make the MX missile a mobile weapon and eliminated all of the $100 million provided for the Midgetman missile.

Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said the House had "shredded" Bush's defense priorities to produce "a Michael Dukakis defense bill."

The Senate, meanwhile, only narrowly turned aside a strong bid to freeze research and development of the Star Wars strategic defense initiative. It tabled the amendment offered by Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., 50-47.

But that action may result in the chamber retaining needed leverage to resist House cuts on that and other weapons systems.

The Senate will need all the leverage it can muster when representatives of the two bodies meet in conference to resolve the many differences between the two bills.

Senators are to continue their consideration of the measure next week.

"We are watching the strategic position of the administration unwind step by step on the floor of the House," said Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

"Mike (Dukakis) won the election. No Midgetman. No rail MX... Big cuts in SDI, and slow up the B-2 (stealth) bomber." — Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis

"It is important that we not emasculate this program," Nunn said as the vote neared on an amendment to cut Star Wars by $558 million in addition to the $400 million trimmed earlier by the Senate panel.

"If the Senate does not come out with a reasonable budget on all strategic programs, then we are going to be going to conference in a hopeless situation," he said.

The House adopted its version of the bill, 261-162.

In the final minutes of debate, an unusual coalition of Republicans and liberals turned against the the House approved the change, removing all the money for the single-warhead missile.

The House also revived money for the Navy's F-14D jet fighter and the Marine Corps' V-22 Osprey vertical takeoff assault transport — two programs Bush planned to eliminate as low priority items in a tight-money budget.

Summing up the result, Aspin told reporters that in effect, "Mike (Dukakis) won the election. No Midgetman. No rail MX... Big cuts in SDI, and slow up the B-2 (stealth) bomber."

Dukakis, the Democratic governor of Massachusetts, was soundly defeated by Bush in the 1988 presidential election after a campaign in which the Republican portrayed the Democrat as weak on defense.

As Aspin saw it, the Democratic majority which controls the House carried out the defeated candidate's campaign promises in writing its version of the defense bill.

The House's military spending plan suspends production of the B-2 stealth bomber, priced at about $530 million each, until the Pentagon scales back its $70 billion, 132-plane program, widely viewed as unaffordable in an era of soaring budget deficits.

The bill also requires the administration to show that the stealth can successfully evade radar detection and penetrate Soviet airspace before production resumes.

Bush and Defense Secretary Dick Cheney had lobbied hard for stealth, Star Wars and the other strategic programs.

But the House slashed $1.8 billion from the president's $4.9 billion Star Wars request.

Pyrie Bradshaw recalled the many unusual sights around early Big Spring which Bradshaw Studio committed to film.

"Nearly every day we had to run out to the oilfield to take a picture of one thing or another," says Pyrie. "There were a lot of burning oil wells, and one time a wood rig fell over on a car." They also photographed a "roaring" well in 1937 — "it was blowing salt, they said" — a curiosity that was featured in Ripley's "Believe It Or Not."

Bradshaw Studio had a contract with T&P Railway to photograph train wrecks — "The claims agent would send us to Fort Worth or wherever the wrecks were."

Tot and Pyrie Bradshaw's photos were often used by the Big Spring Herald — still a weekly — in the studio's early days.

In the mid-1930's the two women and their cameras frequently covered arrivals of dignitaries at Big Spring's airport west of town — where four flights a day touched down. Some of the famous people they photographed were actress Ruth Chatterton, humorist Will Rogers, barnstormer "Wrong Way" Corrigan, and the nation's First Lady, Eleanor Roosevelt.

Official portraits of Big Spring's early mayors all bore the mark of Bradshaw Studio. In the twenties, thirties and beyond, grand matrons of the Order of the Eastern Star came from all over Texas for their yearbook pictures, such was the reputation of the studio's work.

Pyrie still has a print of the portrait of West Texas artist H. W. Caylor (1867-1932) — "This was his wife's favorite picture of him," said Pyrie. They covered parties in private homes and often served as "roving photographers" — "catching children mostly." And the studio processed film for amateur photographers who had just discovered "the Kodak."

"Both of us could do anything in the studio," says Pyrie. In the early days, before color film, they were both trained to hand aminer Dr. Patrick Besant-Matthews' version of the shooting "stupid," said he has already begun looking for another pathologist to examine Gomez remains.

Sandoval said he intends to file a motion with Mitchell County District Judge Weldon Kirk to exume the body.

Conrad said he would allow the results of another, independent pathologist to be presented to the grand jury investigation. "Obviously it would have to be a certified pathologist," he added.

The grand jury will take all relevant information into consideration, Conrad said. "I'm going to encourage them to listen to all pertinent evidence."

Sandoval said he will also talk to Conrad about the composition of the second grand jury.

LULAC supporters charged the second grand jury was "stacked" with community members who have ties to local law enforcement and city and county government. That, they say, would make the jury's decision questionable.

Conrad said he still believes the current grand jury would have been impartial, but said the meeting with LULAC officials in June made him more aware of their concerns.

Conrad had mentioned calling a special grand jury to hear the case at the time, but said today he would like to present the case in October when a new grand jury panel will convene. It will also give state investigators involved in the case more time to prepare evidence, he said.

Conrad said discussions with state authorities, including Assistant Attorney General Ned Butler, have confirmed allowing a new grand jury to hear the case is the correct decision.

"(Butler) agreed with me that that's the appropriate thing to do. He's in the same position I am, he can understand their concerns."

"... Obviously if you present it to this grand jury nobody is going to be happy."

At least 30,000 people in New York had lost electricity by mid-evening, but most had power back in less than an hour, according to the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp.

Severe thunderstorms in the state were expected this morning, but the National Weather Service said the rain should clear by the afternoon.

House GOP blocks flag statute until September

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House apparently will begin its August recess without voting on a Democratic-backed statute designed to overcome the Supreme Court ruling that allows flag burning.

The House Judiciary Committee approved the flag protection bill on Thursday, 28-6, with Republican support. But the GOP turned around and made parliamentary objections that blocked Speaker Thomas S. Foley's plan to bring the bill to the full House next week.

Foley, D-Wash., told reporters he would bring the bill to the floor in September.

But the lack of full House action before the Aug. 5 recess hurts the Democrats' strategy of making their argument to the public that Congress should pursue a statute before any constitutional amendment.

The bill includes penalties of up to a year in prison plus an unspecified fine for physically desecrating a flag, and it was drafted to address the high court's decision that existing statutes against flag burning were an attempt to squelch free speech.

"It protects the flag and it protects the Constitution," said Rep. Steny Hoyer, D-Md., chairman of the House Democratic Caucus.

Republicans insist that only a constitutional amendment can overcome the Supreme Court ruling that flag burning was a protected form of free speech.

House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., said GOP refusal to try a statute before a constitutional amendment showed that the Republicans were mostly interested in partisan advantage.

"The people who pose as the most vigilant supporters of flag protection... seem more interested in adding political graffiti to the Constitution than in protecting the physical integrity of the American flag," he said.

House Minority Leader Bob Michel, R-Ill., told reporters that Bush's chief of staff, John Sununu, urged Republican leaders at a White House meeting Tuesday to push the flag amendment because it's a "wedge issue" — one that divides and injures the Democratic Party.

Although to protect themselves politically they're voting for the statute also — 42-1 in the Judiciary Committee — Republicans ridicule the Democrats for pursuing it.

"This bill is essentially useless," said Rep. Carlos Moorhead, R-Calif., who voted for it in committee along with 12 of 13 voting Republicans.

"It's obviously going to get a try. And I may end up voting for it," Michel said, but said it would be "a meaningless vote."

Democratic leaders Thursday defended their position at a news conference, toting along with them the flag that flew over the Capitol on the day Pearl Harbor was attacked by the Japanese. The flag saw service in the European theater and then flew on the U.S.S. Missouri when the Japanese surrendered in 1945.

Judiciary Committee chairman Jack Brooks, a decorated Marine in World War II, said he would sponsor a constitutional amendment if the statute didn't work, but said it would be foolish not to try. A statute could be passed far quicker than an amendment, which requires ratification of the states, said Brooks, D-Texas.

Sheriff's log

The Howard County Sheriff's Department reported the following incidents:

• Jesse Rodriguez Lopez, 19, Sand Springs, was sentenced to 10 years in the Texas Department of Corrections after pleading guilty to theft from a person. Lopez was also sentenced to 10 years for revocation of probation for burglary of a building. The two sentences will be served concurrently.

• Audry Dean Montgomery, 29, Coahoma, was arrested on charges of driving while intoxicated and no driver's license. Bond is not yet set.

• Oscar Saaveda Hernandez, 37, 811 N. Goliad St., was released on $1,000 bond after being arrested on a charge of DWI.

Death

John Talmadge

John Mills Talmadge Sr., 67, Rockport, formerly of Big Spring, died June 30, 1989.

Graveside services were held July 3, 1989, in the San Marcos City Cemetery, San Marcos, with the Rev. Bill Henderson officiating, under the direction of Marshall-Ramey Funeral Home, Rockport.

He was born Aug. 29, 1921 in Pearsall. He retired in 1979 after a distinguished career in Texas school administration, including tenure at the high schools in Crystal City, Boling and Big Spring. While in Big Spring, he was assistant principal at Big Spring High School, the student council advisor, and was chosen as the president of the state student council.

Elks vote no to women members

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Elks club members from around the nation voted today against allowing women to join their fraternal organization. They voted in favor of a membership rule that could make it easier for non-white men to join.

The proposal to admit women was one of the hottest issues at the 125th national convention of the 1.5 million-member Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, which began Sunday.

Donald Dapelo, the newly installed Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks, said the vote was by a show of hands and there was no count.

"I wouldn't say it was close, not at all," said Dapelo. "I'd say it was overwhelmingly defeated."

Approved was the proposal to eliminate a rule allowing any three members of an Elks lodge to reject, or "blackball," a prospective member. Some said that rule made it harder for blacks to join the organization.

Wealthiest owe most back taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the federal government had the staff to audit upper-income Americans, it could collect billions of dollars in unpaid taxes, says a study sponsored by a Democratic group.

People who earn more than $50,000 a year, 12 percent of all taxpayers, owed 40 percent of the $72.5 billion in taxes owed to the government in 1985 but not collected, said the study, which was based on data from the Internal Revenue Service.

The top 3 percent of taxpayers, consisting of those who earn more than $100,000 a year, accounted for 26 percent of the unpaid taxes, said the study financed by Leadership for the New Century, a group of progressive Democrats.

The study was based on detailed audits of 50,000 to 60,000 Americans that the IRS conducts every three years to determine how well taxpayers are complying with the law.

People who earn less than $25,000 a year, 62 percent of all taxpayers, owed 30 percent of the government's uncollected taxes in 1985, the study said. Taxpayers who make $25,000 to $50,000 a year accounted for 31 percent of the unpaid taxes.

Khashoggi posts $10 million bail

NEW YORK (AP) — Saudi financier Adnan Khashoggi has traded his jail cell for a 30,000-square-foot luxury apartment and an electronic monitoring device he must wear after posting $10 million bail.

Khashoggi, who had been jailed in New York since Switzerland extradited him to the United States on July 19, was released Thursday after his brothers posted two $5 million checks.

As he left the federal courthouse, Khashoggi smiled for cameras and promised he would stay in the United States to face charges that he helped former Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos and his wife Imelda defraud the Philippine treasury.

Khashoggi, Mrs. Marcos and another defendant, the California Overseas Bank of Los Angeles, are scheduled to go on trial in March.

Exxon Corp. will follow 'reasonable' directives

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Exxon Corp. promised today to pursue the cleanup of oil-contaminated beaches in Alaska into 1990 if directed by the U.S. Coast Guard, saying it would go along with any "reasonable request."

W.D. Stevens, president of Exxon Co. USA, told a House subcommittee the oil company stands behind earlier pledges to return to the contaminated shoreline next spring "to reinspect the area to assure the job has been properly done, and if not, to put it right."

Stevens said "we intend to more than achieve" cleanup objectives by mid-September and the company intends to go ahead with plans to demolish most of its operation then for the winter.

Coast Guard Vice Admiral Clyde Lusk said the contaminated areas would be surveyed in the spring and if additional work needs to be conducted Exxon would be told to resume cleanup efforts. But Lusk suggested if Exxon disagrees, the government's only option is to federalize the effort and assume responsibility.

Lusk said he had "no doubt" that during the spring survey there will be "disagreements on what should be done."

When pressed by Rep. George Miller, D-Calif., on what Exxon would do if the Coast Guard demanded additional cleanup actions, Stevens stopped short of committing the company to complying with any Coast Guard directive.

"We will follow through on any reasonable request that is made," said the Exxon executive. He said he could not make "an unequivocal commitment" and told the hearing he "would be naive to do that" in light of expected disagreements within the scientific community on what should constitute a clean shoreline.

Concern about Exxon's cleanup plans arose this week after disclosure of an internal company memorandum that implied Exxon will not commit itself to further cleanup efforts next spring.

The memo said current activity to clean oil from an estimated 700 miles of shoreline along southern Alaska resulting from the Exxon Valdez spill will stop Sept. 15 because of oncoming cold weather.

Israelis capture Shiite leader

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli commandos today kidnapped a Shiite Moslem leader who is considered Iran's closest ally and who sources say was linked to the abduction of U.S. Lt. Col. William R. Higgins.

Police said Sheikh Abdul Karim Obeid, 33, was kidnapped from his second-floor apartment in the village of Jibchit, 21 miles north of the border with Israel. A curious neighbor was killed by the commandos, police said.

Obeid is reputed to be the spiritual guide of Hezbollah, or Party of God, in south Lebanon.

However, he has repeatedly denied links with the pro-Iranian group, which is affiliated with factions holding most of the 17 foreign hostages in Lebanon. Nine Americans are among the hostages.

A security source in Lebanon said there was speculation Obeid may have been kidnapped "as a possible swap" for Higgins, who was a U.N. observer when he was abducted, or for three missing Israeli soldiers.

Striking workers return to work

TALLINN, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Ethnic Russians in the Soviet republic of Estonia ended their strike today after officials promised to probe complaints that the Estonian majority seeks to deny them voting rights, Estonian news reports said.

Strike leaders at 30 factories and businesses in the Estonian capital met late Thursday with Estonian President Arnold Ryutyl, who agreed to form a commission to investigate the complaints, said Hary Tiido, a correspondent for Estonian Radio.

The workers went on strike to protest what they claim are discriminatory laws recently passed to preserve the Estonian language and limit voting rights of immigrants. Russian speakers make up a third of the Baltic republic's 1.6 million population.

The laws make Estonian the official language of the republic and require two years' residency to vote and at least five years residency to run for office.

Rafsanjani confident of victory

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Hashemi Rafsanjani, all but assured of victory in today's presidential election, has begun forming a Cabinet that includes economists and technocrats to help guide this troubled nation into the post-Khomeini era, sources say.

There was no word when results will be announced. The government did not say how many eligible voters there are, but the number was estimated at 25 million — about half the population — during parliamentary elections last year.

Iranian leaders and the state media for days have been exhorting Iranians to turn out to demonstrate unity following the death of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini on June 3.

"Each vote cast is a bullet fired at the heart of Iran's enemies," the radical Jomhuri Islami daily said this week.

1989 PROPERTY TAX RATES IN CITY OF COAHOMA

This notice concerns 1989 property tax rates for City of Coahoma. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

LAST YEAR'S TAX RATE:

Experts: No 'culture of poverty'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A report on black Americans attacks the belief that poor people are locked into a self-perpetuating "culture of poverty" that sets them apart from society and saps them of the will to work or sacrifice.

Many of the nation's poor "are hard-working people who save when they can, endure numerous deprivations, worry about the future and urge their children to do well in school and on the job," experts said after a four-year study.

The conclusion was a central finding in "A Common Destiny: Blacks and American Society," issued Thursday by a panel of the National Research Council, an arm of the National Academy of Sciences and Engineering.

Yale economist Gerald Jaynes directed the study, participated in by nearly 100 academic experts. Foundations paid most of the $2.7 million cost.

The report was described as the most comprehensive study ever undertaken of the condition of blacks in America. Its chief finding was that while discrimination still holds blacks back, economic stagnation that took hold in the mid-1970s is the chief factor in a widening gap between American whites and blacks.

Whites have changed their attitudes but not their behavior, and that's another cause of the gap between equal opportunity for blacks and its actual attainment, Jaynes said.

"Whites desire equal treatment for blacks in society, but many are reluctant to put this desire into practice in their personal life," he told a news conference.

"This is a great improvement over 45 years ago, when majorities of whites openly supported segregation or discriminatory treatment of blacks, but the divergence between principle and practice frequently means that social institutions do not produce the equal opportunity that Americans desire," he said.

As for the "culture of poverty," the report disputed the assumption that poverty is perpetuated from generation to generation as children learn self-indulgence, have low aspirations in school and lose any ability to sacrifice for the future — qualities that lock them in poverty.

Most poor families move in and out of poverty several times over a lifetime, which would not happen if such a condition existed, the report said; the chronically poor are only a minority of all poor people.

Moreover, "many poor people do not exhibit the stereotypic set of characteristics supposedly constituting the culture of poverty, such as apathy and an unwillingness to defer gratification."

The report also cited studies which found no difference in the values and goals of people who are poor and those who aren't.

The "insecure and deprived conditions of life of poor families, when long continued, do result in 'cultural' differences from well-to-do and secure families," the report said, but those differences vanish when the poor are given economic opportunity and the incentives to live better.

Approaching tour

LONDON — Veteran British rock star Paul McCartney announces a nine-country, 23-concert tour opening Sept. 26 in Oslo, Norway. The former Beatle will tour with his wife, Linda, and other musicians from his latest "Flowers in the Dirt" album. Further dates in the Far East and the Americas are expected in 1990.

Private writings of Truman to be published

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A collection of Harry S. Truman's personal writings, which the former president said could only be published after he and his wife had died, is set for publication in October.

Warner Books announced the publication date for "Where the Buck Stops," a collection of previously unpublished personal and private writings by Truman, president from 1945-1953.

In the September issue of Writer's Digest, New York literary agent Scott Meredith says he is collaborating with Truman's daughter, Margaret Truman Daniel, in editing the writings.

Chapter titles include: "Why I Don't Like Ike," "My Favorite President: Andrew Jackson," "Becoming a World Power: Dropping the Bomb." Other chapters treat the American Revolution, treatment of the Indians, and Truman's thoughts on George Washington.

BLUE HILL, Miss. — Annie Slater stands on the front porch of her mobile home in Blue Hill, Miss. recently and tells what it is like to have to depend on rainwater from the roof collected in a 55-gallon drum or to have to haul it from a nearby creek. Publicity about the residents' plight has brought offers of help from as far as Florida and Alaska.

Country responds to needs of community

BLUE HILL, Miss. (AP) — This poverty-stricken rural town has received pledges of toilets, sinks and bathtubs from Florida to Alaska for residents who only a few days ago had to haul water from a muddy creek.

"We've come a long way in a short time, but we've still got a long way to go," said Jamie Cole, who with her husband have led a decade-old fight to bring the community of about 40 homes into the 20th century. "It's a warm feeling to know people still care about each other."

Running water came only a week ago to the town of weathered shacks and mobile homes sprinkled along a twisting gravel road in southwest Mississippi.

Until then, most residents hauled water from a creek or collected rainwater from rooftops.

Federal money was used to pipe water into the community, and appeals by Cole and others resulted in a donations to pipe the water from the main line along the road to front porches of each home.

But there progress has stopped. "There are about 20 homes that have no inside plumbing, so they are still getting their water for cooking and bathing from the outside tap," Cole said.

"Many of these people are old and they have no money to take care of the problem themselves," said Cole, whose family has a private well. "Without help, there is little they can do."

News coverage focused on the community's plight resulted in at least 25 calls from groups and individuals offering donations of fixtures and money, Cole said.

"A man in Florida has said he may provide water heaters, a woman with an advertising agency in Kentucky pledged commodes, and a man in Ohio has said he can help us with fixtures and possibly to install sewer lines," she said.

If the pledged fixtures show up, the major need would be plumbing work for the homes, obtaining fittings to install fixtures and a sewage system.

Perhaps the most impressive offer, Cole said, came from officials with the Alaska State Housing Authority.

"We have 150 substandard, low-income housing units we are demolishing and replacing them with newer units and as a result we will have fixtures and items we will be surplus," said Ray Price, the authority's executive director in Anchorage. "Rather than put these items in the shelf or auction them off, we felt it would be best to send them down to those who need them."

"As you know, our state has been through some tough times the last few years and we have rural communities here — we are not oblivious to what these guys are going through."

Mike Wadell, the authority's project manager, said officials were negotiating with Federal Express to transport tubs and other fixtures to Memphis, Tenn., and with a truck line to haul them to Blue Hill.

"You really don't think people care that much any more but now you see that they just needed to be made aware of your problems," said Mary Moore, who is raising her three sons in a mobile home in Blue Hill.

Moore said water had been piped inside her trailer "and you cannot believe how thrilled we are. But we are the lucky ones."

John W. Engerd, who owns a furniture plant and store in Berlin, Ohio, called offering his help with plumbing and fixtures, but said he may end up financing septic tanks and field lines.

"There are always people heading to South America or somewhere else to help out," Engerd said. "When I read about their problems, I thought it would do more good to help someone right here at home."

Capital gains tax: More than rich vs. poor

NEW YORK (AP) — Many of the economic considerations of a proposed capital gains tax cut now have become obscured by politics and reduced to a question: Would a cut be a gift to the rich at the expense of the poor?

Some studies say it would be, the reasoning being that most capital-gain dollars, or financial gains on appreciation of long-term assets, are earned by the wealthy. Internal Revenue Service figures document it.

Those figures show, for instance, that in 1986 the group with total income of $1 million or more earned more than one-third of all capital gains. The percentage often has been cited in defense of the rich vs. poor argument.

Less often cited are data from the same source showing that people with medium or low income constitute nearly 18 percent of capital gains earners, and that they might fare worse than the rich.

Moreover, says Ron Utt, former deputy director of the Office of Management and Budget, those figures must be read with a very serious caveat: that some relatively poor people may become "rich" once in their lives.

Once is enough, however, statistically to catapult them into the higher brackets.

Utt, now a fellow at the conservative Heritage Foundation, observes that even relatively

The tendency to view capital gains, and capital gains taxes, as affecting only the rich led to obscuring another economic consideration when the tax was raised from a maximum of 20 percent to a maximum of 28 percent in 1986.

That increase did indeed im-

...some relatively poor people may become "rich" once in their lives.

poor people can be hit hard by capital gains. Who? An elderly widow selling her home, a parent selling stock to pay for a child's education.

It also might be a hard-working citizen who sells a business, or almost anyone who tediously saved a few thousand dollars in a mutual fund, or a divorced couple selling a home into which they had poured hearts and dollars.

For one year, the year in which they disposed of their assets, they became rich for tax purposes, forever leaving their imprint on the national statistics and their own financial well being.

fact the rich; it was, after, all a 40 percent increase. Often overlooked then, and now, is the fact that under the old rules the taxes of many low and middle-income taxpayers amounted to only 14 percent. They too jumped to 28 percent, doubling in one legislative swipe.

That was part of the increase. Because of legislative action at the state level, or because state tax rates were based on the federal model, state taxes also rose, some between 100 percent and 200 percent.

An economic consideration often referred to by supporters of a capital gains tax cut is the injustice of taxing people on capital gains income never earned. The tax is applied quite literally to the inflated value of assets.

But while taxing people on inflation may be unreasonable, it is seldom pointed out that the assets involved may have grown more swiftly because taxes were deferred until sold. That observation also seems to have been forgotten.

Important also, is the potential significance of capital gains taxes for the United States as a global competitor. Capital gains taxes are not universal; they are rare, restricted mainly to such industrial giants as the United States — which has the highest — Britain, Sweden, Canada and France.

In a 1987 report, the accounting firm Arthur Andersen pointed out that West Germany, Belgium, Italy, Japan and the Netherlands exempted long-term capital gains. Also exempting them were Hong Kong, Singapore, South Korea, Taiwan and Malaysia, all on a fast track to industrial might.

Mother educates children at home

DEAR ABBY: Please help me. My daughter has taken her children out of public school to teach them herself. I called the Board of Education, and I was told it is legal to use a home-study course for children.

Abby, my daughter didn't graduate from high school herself. She was very headstrong and refused to attend classes, so when she was old enough to quit school, she quit.

Her children are 7, 8 and 12 years old, and they've all had difficulties with their studies. The 7-year-old is repeating first grade next year, the 8-year-old has just completed two years in the first grade, and the 12-year-old will have to repeat the fifth grade.

This home-study course requires only 4½ hours of schooling per day, and I doubt if these children will get the education they need in this little time. Also, my daughter is not teacher.

She says she wants her children to have a good Christian education, free from drugs and the bad influence of classmates whose upbringing she considers inferior to her children's.

I told her that I do not approve of isolating her children in this manner, but she insists that I don't know what I am talking about. Please give me your opinion for the sake of these children. — WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Some home-study programs have worked very well; others have not. It depends upon the competence of the teacher. (It's usually the mother.)

In view of the problems your grandchildren have encountered thus far in school, I suggest that they be tested for reading (and learning) disabilities — regardless of whether they are taught at home or in a public school.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter was born with a cleft palate (harelip). At 4 months of age, this birth defect was corrected beautifully with surgery. She's now 2½ years old and the thin scar under her nose is barely noticeable.

Before her surgery, I took pictures of her and was not ashamed of her defect. I thought she was just as beautiful as my other children. The other day we were looking through the family album, and my husband said he thought we should put away the pictures of our daughter before she had her surgery.

I don't see anything wrong with showing our daughter, and others, those pictures. What do you think, Abby?

Would parents who have had children with facial abnormalities that were later corrected please respond? Better yet, any readers who were children who saw their "before and after" pictures, please respond. — COMMONSENSE MOM

DEAR MOM: I would put those pictures away until your daughter is old enough to make that decision herself. You had the abnormality corrected because you didn't want her to be "different"; since it was corrected and no longer exists, I see no point in immortalizing it in a family album. Readers?

DEAR ABBY: I am a senior citizen. Several years ago, I made arrangements with my bank for a safe deposit box to be jointly shared with my son. All the paperwork completed, I never gave it a second thought. I have had an account with that bank for 43 years.

Yesterday when my son went to the bank to remove an item from our safe deposit box, he learned that he did not have access to it! The card with his signature on it was not on file. Fortunately he discovered this yesterday, phoned me immediately and it was straightened out.

Abby, I am writing this to suggest that everyone who has a safe deposit box pay a test visit to the bank to ensure that he or she has access to it. SENIOR CITIZEN, CORONA DEL MAR

Away from home, eat with care

WASHINGTON (AP) — Summer means vacation fun for millions of Americans, but vacation travels can also include some unpleasant time for those unlucky or uncautious enough to encounter travelers' diarrhea.

This malady affects 20 percent to 50 percent of international travelers, according to the World Health Organization and the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization.

For people from industrialized countries visiting less developed nations, the condition reportedly affects about one traveler in three.

In its summer issue of "Food News for Consumers," the Department of Agriculture reports that travelers' diarrhea is slightly more common in younger people than older ones, indicating that some immunity may be acquired over the years.

The illness is usually of a relatively short term, and results from eating or drinking contaminated food or water, USDA observes. In addition to diarrhea, victims often suffer from abdominal cramps, nausea, bloating, fever and overall discomfort.

The bugs that cause diarrhea don't bother local residents who have become used to them, medical experts say, but they can be a severe jolt to visitors' unsuspecting constitutions.

In addition, travelers are also experiencing changes in climate, time zone, lifestyle and eating habits that may contribute to the upset.

The water supply is usually the culprit in travelers' diarrhea, according to Dr. Steve Ostroff of the federal Centers for Disease Control.

But avoiding the malady requires more than just not drinking the water.

Water used in preparing foods and beverages, washing salads and other items, washing the hands or brushing the teeth can spread the illness, said Ostroff.

All foods should be thoroughly cooked to avoid problems, especially meat, poultry, fish, eggs and vegetables.

Indeed, the Department of Agriculture said new research indicates that warming something so it's hot to the touch may not be enough to kill dangerous bacteria.

Bacteria can multiply rapidly at room temperature, so a good rule is not to eat items that have been sitting out for longer than two hours, the department suggests.

Strange Sea Creatures

Sand dollars

The velvet-like covering you feel when you touch sand dollars consists of short, movable spines. These help them move around and bury themselves in the sand.

When alive, sand dollars can be brown, green or purple. When dead, they bleach white.

If you find the dead skeleton of a sand dollar, break it open near the center. Out will fall five V-shaped teeth!

Sea Urchins

Alive

Dead

Dead sea urchins lose their quills. Their skeletons are called "tests." When you shake them, you can hear their teeth rattling around.

Sea urchins have quill-like spines to protect them and help them move. A small "button" on the top of the animal senses light and dark. If you wave your hand over them on a bright day, they will wave their quills. They also have tiny tube feet on their undersides.

In their adult form, their bodies usually have five sections. They live in rocky, protected areas near the shore or on the ocean floor. These slow-moving grazers are usually more active at night.

The Mini Page thanks the National Aquarium, Washington, D.C., for help with this story.

Sea cucumbers

Sea cucumbers have leathery skin, not a spiny covering. It's hard to see their five-section pattern.

They have a circle of "arms" around their mouth. When threatened, some sea cucumbers are able to throw up their insides. While their attacker goes after the insides, they creep away. Then they usually grow new insides!

Starfish

Most starfish have five arms, or rays. Some have more.

Starfish don't have to worry if they lose an arm. They will grow a new one.

Starfish eat a lot. They like clams, oysters, small fish, crabs and dead animals. They can do a lot of damage to oyster beds.

When attacking an oyster, a starfish wraps its body around the shell. It forces the shell open and squirts in a chemical that makes the oyster relax. The starfish then forces its stomach outside its mouth, into the shell and digests the oyster.

Echinoderms

All of these animals are echinoderms (ih-KYE-nuh-durms).

They have tubes for feet. Their tubes connect with each other inside their body. If taken out of water, they become limp because water is not flowing through.

The term echinoderm means "spiny skin."

In their adult form, their bodies usually have five sections. They live in rocky, protected areas near the shore or on the ocean floor. These slow-moving grazers are usually more active at night.

What You Might See by the Sea

Crustaceans

Crustaceans (krus-TAY-shuns) are animals with shells they "molt," or shed when they outgrow them. They also have legs with joints.

Most have pale blue blood caused by the mineral copper. Humans have red blood, caused by the mineral iron.

Most crustaceans eat dead or dying material.

Here are just a few of about 30,000 different kinds.

Blue crab

Crabs

Crabs move sideways. They have eyes that work like periscopes. Some can swim; others cannot.

The blue crab is the most popular one for eating.

Fiddler crabs

The male fiddler crab has one claw that is larger than the others. He uses it for fighting during the mating season. All of the female's claws are the same size.

Sand crabs

Sand crabs are also called ghost crabs because they can disappear so suddenly. They are sand-colored and move very quickly in a sideways direction.

Barnacles

There are two kinds of barnacles. The acorn type lies flat. The gooseneck has a stalk. A barnacle cements itself to an object. It cannot move but has tiny openings at the top with little featherlike legs that kick food into its mouth.

Hermit crabs

Hermit crabs make no shell of their own. They pick out a deserted one, back in and hook themselves in. When the shell becomes too small, they look for another. They eat decaying flesh and even each other.

Sandbugs

Sandbugs are sometimes called mole crabs. They do everything backward — swim, move, walk and dig.

Beach fleas

Beach fleas are leapers that live on decaying beach trash and seaweed.

Man-of-war

The Portuguese man-of-war is a dangerous animal. It is not one animal, but a colony of thousands of separate animals, all working together.

It paralyzes small animals and even fish with its stinging tentacles.

It can be found on the Atlantic Coast from Florida to Cape Cod.

Jellyfish

You can see through a dish-shaped jellyfish. Most are colorless.

They move by opening and closing their mouths and squirting water. Do not touch one. Its tentacles can sting.

Horseshoe crabs

Horseshoe crabs aren't crabs at all. They are related to spiders. They have not changed in millions of years. In the U.S., they are found only on the Atlantic Coast. Many people confuse them with rays, but they are harmless. What are these things you find washed up on shore?

A skate's egg case.

A skate is a fish. It lays a black, leathery egg case with prongs that anchor it to the ocean floor. The cases are also called mermaid's purses.

A whelk's egg case.

A whelk is the largest of the sea snails. Whelks lay strings of egg cases. When they hatch, out crawl hundreds of tiny versions of the adults.

Wives are gaining on their husbands, but still earn much less

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wives' incomes have increased nearly twice as fast as their husbands' in recent years, but the man is still the major breadwinner for most families, the Census Bureau reported Tuesday.

Between 1981 and 1987 the average earnings of wives jumped 23.3 percent, while husbands' income climbed 11.8 percent in the same period, according to the study "Earnings of Married-Couple Families: 1987."

That brought the average income of wives to $13,245 in 1987, compared with $29,154 for husbands.

"More of them (wives) are working year-round, full time, instead of part time," explained Census statistician Robert W. Cleveland. "Also, more women are in professional and technical jobs which tend to have better pay," Cleveland added.

One factor in this change, he said, is the tendency of women to have pursued more education in recent years.

In addition, said Cleveland: "I think there is more equal treatment, things are not as discriminatory for women. The opportunities are more available for them now than in the past."

Still, wives continue to lag behind their husbands in income.

Wives working full-time at least 50 weeks per year averaged $18,929 in 1987, only 57 percent of the $33,305 earned by husbands who worked full time 50 weeks or more.

Recent government statistics for all men and women, married and unmarried, showed women averaging 65 percent of men's income, somewhat more than the 57 percent for full-time working wives.

Wives are more likely to have to take time off to tend children, or to have delayed careers during child rearing, than women in general.

Indeed, the effect of children may be noted in the incomes of wives by age, as reported in the study.

The most rapid income rise between 1981 and 1987 was among wives aged 35 to 44, who saw their average jump 31.5 percent, more than triple the 9.8 percent increase for husbands in the same age group.

"In that age bracket, the kids are grown, the women can enter the labor force and... start working full time," Cleveland said.

For all wives, those with no children averaged $14,256 in 1987, compared with $13,067 for women with children aged 6 to 17; $12,163 for those with children under age 6; and just $10,732 for those with children in both age groups.

Husbands averaged $31,636 for those with children aged 6 to 17; while those with some under 6 and some 6 to 17 averaged $29,564. For those with children under 6, average income was $28,181, and it was $27,755 for husbands without children.

Ghost crossing

LILLEHAMMER, Norway — State highway department spokesman Ceir Haste stands in front of a road sign to warn motorists of a haunting hazard — ghost crossing. The red and white triangular sign is placed near a vacation cabin seen in the background, which is reputed to be the site of numerous unexpected incidents. The sign meets national standards, but the idea was not cleared with the highway department main office.

Abilene double-dips Senior 'Stars

ABILENE — The Big Spring Senior League All-Stars lost two heartbreakers to the Abilene Southwest All-Stars Thursday night at Rose Bud Park, thus sending the Abilene team to the sectional tournament in Carrollton.

Perhaps the first game was the most heart-breaking.

In that game Big Spring exploded for 10 first inning runs, only to falter in the end, 13-11. In the second game Abilene escaped with an 8-7 win. The Abilene pitcher got out of a bases-loaded jam, fanning a Big Spring batter for the third out.

ABILENE 13, Big Spring 11
Big Spring came out smoking in the first inning against Southwest. Big Spring hit the ball so well that Abilene used three pitchers in the first inning alone.

Abel Hilario led off the inning with a base hit. Next Gerald Cobos, John Downey and Steven Robles, all walked, scoring Hilario with the first run of the game.

Next first baseman Joe Conaway really lit up the scoreboard, when he blasted a grand slam, giving the visitors a 5-0 lead.

Next Kevin Rodgers singled, and scored on starting pitcher Mike Lucio's base hit. Hilario, up for the second time, walked, and Downey again walked. Shortstop Pat Chavarria then doubled, scoring Luico and Hilario, giving Big Spring an 8-0 lead. Third baseman Gerald Cobos capped off the inning with a two-run blast, giving Big Spring a 10-0 advantage.

But Big Spring was quiet from that point, scoring only in the sixth. Meanwhile Southwest batters began to hit the ball. They chased Lucio from the mound in the third inning, after he had surrendered nine runs on five hits. Cobos finished up and took the loss. He allowed four runs on three hits.

A fatal inning for Big Spring came in the fourth. Cobos had already walked one run in, and had the bases loaded with two outs. An Abilene batter hit a fly to center field. But the center fielder dropped the ball, and two more runs scored.

Big Spring's final run scored in the sixth. Mark Arguello and Chavarria singled. Arguello scored from third on Cobos' fielder's choice.

ABILENE 8, BIG SPRING 7
Abilene played long-ball in the rubber match, hitting five round trippers against Big Spring hurlers Shane Myrick and Arguello. Myrick started and went two innings. He allowed five runs on seven hits. Arguello took the loss, allowing three runs on five hits, striking out six.

Big Spring scored a run in the first when Hilario walked, stole second and third, and scored on Downey's base hit. Abilene added a run in the first to tie the game.

In the second Big Spring scored four runs to go on top 5-1. Conaway and Rodgers singled, and Pat Martinez walked, loading the bases for Hilario. The Big Spring second baseman then blasted a grand slam homer, clearing the bases.

But in the bottom of the inning, Abilene tied the game thanks to three homers in the

In the fourth Big Spring added a run. The ever-present Hilario singled, and eventually scored from third on a passed ball, tying the game at 6-6.

Abilene added two more runs in the bottom of the sixth, taking a 8-6 lead into the top of the seventh, Big Spring's last bat.

Cobos led off the Big Spring seventh with a base hit. He scored on Conaway's single, cutting the deficit to 8-7. Next Rodgers and Martinez walked, loading the bases for Arguello with two outs.

But the Abilene pitcher fanned Arguello on a 3-2 count, giving Abilene the sectional championship.

Texas pokes leading national prep rodeo

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — Tahlequah, Okla., cowgirl Donna Barnes on Thursday set the pace in the pole bending competition during the second go-round at the National High School Finals Rodeo with a time of 19.87 seconds.

Barnes was one of two cowgirls to break the 19-second barrier in the rodeo featuring more than 1,200 rodeo competitors from high schools across the United States and Canada.

Barnes, the 1987 NHRF champion in pole bending, also now leads the Top 20 in her event and is expected to advance to Sunday's championship round with her combined time of 39.61 seconds.

In bareback riding on Thursday, James Boudereaux of Hackberry, La., rode to a 75-point score and Steve Dollarhide, Wikeup, Ariz., took a score of 77 points in saddle bronc riding.

Bull rider Junior McManus, Monticello, Ariz., also posted a 77-point score to lead his event.

The cutting event also produced exceptionally high scores in action on Thursday. Nichole Bentz, Arroyo Grande, Calif., finished first with her score of 145.5 points and Cliff Prince of Palatka, Fla., turned in a score of 146.

The competition at the Colorado State Fairgrounds here features about $100,000 in scholarship money.

In all-around standings Renee Wood, Alamogordo, N.M., vaulted into the No. 1 position. Wood, who is also campaigning for NHRF association student secretary, placed second in the first round of barrel racing and fourth in goat tying. After early Thursday competition she also was third in barrel racing.

Diver does a first, but loses

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Mark Lenzi became the first American diver to complete a 4½ front tuck somersault in competition — and lost at the U.S. Olympic Festival Thursday.

Lenzi, 21, of Fredericksburg, Va., received his second-lowest score of the day for the dive off the 3-meter springboard and wound up seventh.

"I didn't get a very good takeoff," Lenzi said. "I need to get a good hurdle to take the dive, and I didn't get a good hurdle. My tuck was fine, but I think I came out a little early. It felt pretty short. I don't know how short it was. But I didn't fail it."

Mark Bradshaw, of Columbus, Ohio, won the men's preliminaries and Wendy Lucero of Aurora, Colo., took the women's event.

Kathy Arendsen pitched the first perfect game in festival women's softball, then Peter Meredith threw one on the next field. That brought the no-hitter total here to four.

Arendsen, of Holland, Mich., fanned 11, including the first six batters of the game, in beating the winless North 5-0. She didn't permit a ball out of the infield.

"This was my first perfect game this year," she said. "I've had a couple of no-hitters, but I always find a way to screw it up."

Meredith, of Elkhart, Ind., has had no screwups at the festival and is 4-0 this week. He got the second festival perfect in men's softball as the East defeated the North 10-0, striking out 11 and has 39 strikeouts in four games. He has not allowed a run in 23 innings.

The perfect game was the first since 1985, when Jimmy Moore defeated the South, 1-0.

"I was hitting spots today," Meredith said. "I came in a little rusty; I hadn't been getting a lot of velocity behind the ball, and I was pushing it. But now I'm coming in with a bit of heat" on the ball.

Louise Ritter got some heat for applying for permission to compete in track and field, which began Thursday night with the half-marathon. But the eight head coaches at the festival voted 7-1 against Ritter, the high jump champion at the Seoul Games.

That came after a news release late Wednesday night said the addition of Ritter was "a tremendous boost" to the track and field competition.

"I think the coaches felt we weren't in a position to deviate from the normal selection process," the festival's track and field commissioner, Phil Henson, said. "There's always a danger that when you open a can of worms, how do you close it?"

"This is not intended to be an all-comers meet."

The half-marathons were won by Olympian Bruce Bickford of Waterville, Maine., and Judy Bogenschutz of Oldenburg, Ind.

Erika deLone of Lincoln, Mass., won two tennis gold medals. She teamed with Susan Somerville of Dearborn, Mich., for the women's doubles crown, then won the mixed doubles with Rick Witsken of Carmel, Ind.

Deirdre Herman of Lawrence, Kan., lost in both doubles matches but won the women's singles. The men's singles title went to Robbie Wendell of Sunnyvale, Calif. The men's doubles crown was won by Chuck Coleman, Lake Wylie, S.C., and Cary Lothringer, San Antonio.

Minnesota teammates Jason Miller and Peter Hankinson scored third-period goals to give the West a 5-3 victory over the North in hockey.

By The Associated Press

"He has all the tools to be a pro quarterback," Lions coach Wayne Fontes said Thursday. "Sometimes, when a young man comes from that background, he just becomes a winner. He's been the most accurate passer so far. He gets better with every practice."

Peete, 23, comes from a solid sports family. His brother, Skip, signed with the New York Jets as a free-agent wide receiver in 1987, and professional golfer Calvin Peete, competing in this week's Buick Open 30 miles to the north, is a second cousin.

His father, Willie Peete, is the Green Bay Packers' offensive backfield coach.

"The way I'm approaching this camp is I have as good a chance as anyone to become the starter," Peete said. "Every practice, I'm practicing like I'm going to be the guy. Why not try to be the best?"

Many observers called Peete the steal of last spring's draft when the Lions selected him in the sixth round. During a star-studded career at Southern California, Peete set career records for pass attempts (1,081), completions (630) and passing yards (8,225).

Peete finished second to the Lions' No. 1 draft pick, Barry Sanders of Oklahoma State, in last year's Heisman Trophy balloting. While he was disappointed not to be drafted earlier than the sixth round, he was glad Green Bay was one of the teams that passed on his services.

"That was the best situation," he said. "I felt, and my dad felt the same way, that it wouldn't be a good situation as far as morale goes to play in Green Bay. Especially considering I'm a quarterback and where he coaches."

"You never know how the players would react to that situation. When I became the starter, a lot of times players would get jealous and say this or that. I didn't want to get caught in that situation."

At USC, Peete led the Trojans to Pac-10 titles and Rose Bowl berths as a junior and senior. In his final season, he was Pac-10 offensive player of the year when he completed 61.5 per cent of his passes for 2,654 yards and 18 touchdowns.

Peete, also a top baseball player in college, passed up a contract with the Oakland Athletics to play football.

In other training camp news:

Phoenix Cardinals
The Phoenix Cardinals waived six players, signed veteran cornerback Carl Carter and veteran defensive end David Galloway, and agreed to contract terms with two free agents, cornerback Ron Fellows and defensive tackle Mark Dwyer.

Cardinals general manager Larry Wilson also said that veteran defensive lineman Steve Alford has been placed on the "physically unable to perform" list after undergoing surgery Monday night for a bleeding stomach ulcer.

Alford, a third-year pro, still is hospitalized in Phoenix and may be sidelined up to two months, team officials said. Wilson said Alford's illness was a factor in the decision to bring in Dwyer, whose previous NFL stops were at Chicago, Dallas and Denver.

Fellows, a nine-year pro, played from 1981 to 1986 with Dallas and the last two years with the Los Angeles Raiders.

Cincinnati Bengals
Four unsigned veterans sat out the start of required training camp workouts Thursday: offensive lineman Max Montoya, wide receiver Eddie Brown and tight end Rodney Holman, all chosen for last season's Pro Bowl, and center Bruce Kozerski, selected as an alternate to last season's Pro Bowl. All were starters for last year's Super Bowl team.

Denver Broncos
The Broncos announced the signing of veteran nose tackle Andrew Provenza, leaving six players missing from camp.

The absentees are linebacker Simon Fletcher, kicker Rich Karlis, cornerback Jeremiah Castille, safety Steve Atwater and running backs Bobby Humphrey and Melvin Bratton.

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. — Dallas wide receiver Kelvin Martin pulls in a pass during a morning workout.

Houston Oilers

Veteran wide receiver Curtis Duncan agreed to terms with the Oilers.

The agreement with Duncan left the Oilers with veteran running backs Mike Rozier and Allen Pinkett and defensive end William Fuller still unsigned.

Duncan, a 1987 10th-round draft choice out of Northwestern, was third on the team last year with 32 receptions and 302 yards.

The Oilers said they also have agreed to terms with third-round safety Bubba McDowell and fifth-round nose tackle Glenn Montgomery.

New Orleans Saints

Starting running back Dalton Hilliard agreed to terms, leaving New Orleans with four unsigned veterans and four unsigned draft choices.

The Saints also signed free agent guard Doug Marrone and cut free agent nose tackle Dave Ammons.

Thompson leading Buick Classic

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (AP) — Australian Wayne Grady had every right to think he'd used up a lifetime of bad luck last week in the British Open.

But there's just no end to the Grady was tied with several golfers at 5-under-par 67, two strokes behind leader Leonard Thompson, heading into today's second round of the $1 million Buick Open. Mark O'Meara, Brad Fabel, Don Shirley Jr. and Richard Zokol were at 66.

The trip from Scotland to Michigan, which should take less than a day, took almost three. As a result, Grady didn't arrive at Warwick Hills, about 55 miles north of Detroit, until Wednesday afternoon, too late for a practice round.

When he showed up for the first round Thursday, he discovered the pro shop had sold out of yardage books. Grady, who finished second to Ken Green here in 1985, thought he had an old yardage book in his bag. Wrong again.

"We eyeballed it today," Grady said. "I was very lucky. I didn't hit the ball too well, but I putted the spots off of it."

"I've got to get my mind on golf and what's at hand."

After leading the British Open for almost two rounds, Grady finished two strokes behind Calcavecchia in the four-hole playoff. Greg Norman, also in the playoff, picked up on the final hole.

"I've got to look at it in a positive light," Grady, who turned 32 on Wednesday, said. "I still don't feel like I lost because I was never behind at any stage. I know I finished second, but I feel like I won it."

"I think I stood up well under the conditions and I feel very good about that."

Grady says the most important

misery golf can dish out, both on and off the course, as Grady has learned in the days since his playoff loss to Mark Calcavecchia at Royal Troon.

Reds finally stop losing streak

By The Associated Press
The Cincinnati Reds are finally in the black. But the team picked by many to win the National League West hardly has a Rosey future.

"It'll take a miracle to win the West," Manager Pete Rose said Thursday after the Reds ended their longest losing streak in 23 years. "I know that. ... You know that."

With what amounted to a concession speech out of the way after the Reds had beaten the San Diego Padres 6-1, Rose praised the effort of his players.

The Reds took a 1-0 lead in the second when rookie Rolando Roomes homered off Greg Harris, 3-6. Roomes also singled home a run as part of a three-run sixth.

Roomes hit his sixth homer after Rose told him to look for a curveball from Harris.

Murphy's home runs equalled a record shared by 13 other players. The last to do it was Andre Dawson of the Montreal Expos on Sept. 24, 1985.

The six RBIs matched a record shared by nine other players, with Dawson's 1985 game the last time it was accomplished.

night, has hit five homers and driven in 14 runs in his last nine games. He has 11 home runs and 54 RBIs for the season.

It was the 29th multiple-homer game in Murphy's 12 major league seasons. He is the second Brave, and the first in over a century, to hit two homers in one inning. The other was Robert Lowe of the Boston Braves in 1884.

With the Braves trailing 1-0 against Atlee Hammaker, 6-6, Jeff Blauser led off the sixth with an infield hit. Lonnie Smith walked and Giants manager Roger Craig brought in Jeff Brantley to pitch to Murphy with a 2-1 count. Murphy hit the next pitch over the left field wall.

Twins crown struggling Orioles

By The Associated Press
The Baltimore Orioles are doing it again. They're getting close to another record for futility.

Baltimore lost its eighth straight game Thursday night, 10-6 to Minnesota. If the Orioles fall tonight in rookies more than any team in the majors, can match the mark of nine consecutive losses by the 1953 New York Yankees and the 1970 Twins. The major league record for losses by a first-place team is 10 by Pittsburgh in 1932.

Baltimore's lead in the AL East slipped to four games — its smallest since June 17 — over Toronto and Cleveland. The Yankees are sixth, just 6½ games behind.

The Orioles have lost the first seven games of 14-game road trip. They were swept in four tries at Oakland and lost all three at the Metrodome.

Baltimore loaded the bases with no outs in the first inning, but Roy Smith struck out Ripken and Mickey Tettleton and got Jim Traber on a grounder. All three batters disputed balls-and-strikes calls by home plate umpire Derryl Cousins.

"I'm sure they're frustrated and that crossed my mind," Smith said. "But I wasn't going to say, 'I've got them in my back pocket.' No way."

Smith, 6-4, set a career-high for victories. He is the best-supported starter in the league, getting more than six runs per outing, and the Twins are 13-5 when he pitches.

Kent Hrbek drove in three runs for the second straight day and Kirby Puckett got three hits, including a two-run single.

The Twins scored four times in the sixth inning for an 8-0 lead and chased Pete Harnisch, 1-4.

Craig Worthington hit a two-run homer in the Orioles' seventh and Mike Devereaux hit a three-run homer in the ninth.

Angels 8, White Sox 5

In California, Chili Davis and Jack Howell hit three-run homers in support of Jim Abbott and the Angels beat Chicago for their eighth victory in nine games.

The White Sox outthit California 13-5, but still lost for just the second time in 12 games.

Davis' 14th home run capped a five-run first inning and Howell hit his team-leading 15th homer in the sixth.

Abbott, 9-6, gave up four runs on 10 hits in seven-plus innings. Bryan Harvey got two outs for his 14th save.

Melido Perez, 7-11, allowed all the Angels' run despite giving up only four hits in 5 2-3 innings. He walked five batters, and four of them scored.

Red Sox 7, Royals 2

In Boston, Kevin Romine homered and doubled as the Red Sox ended Tom Gordon's seven-game winning streak. Kansas City lost for the fourth time in five games.

Romine, who has been back-and-forth between the Red Sox and Triple-A Pawtucket five times in five years, hit his second major-league homer.

Gordon, 11-4, allowed five runs on eight hits and four walks in 5 1-3 innings. He lost for the first time since May 28 when he was a reliever.

thing for him to do now is to put Troon out of his mind.

"We're playing for a million dollars here," Grady said. "That's worth concentrating on. I played well last week, but I've done a good job of keeping my mind off it. I think I've done a good job."

The key to Grady's first round in the Buick Open was a hot putter. He rolled in seven birdie putts — from 20, 20, 40, 25, 30, 25 and 40 feet.

"If I walked the length of the putts I made today, I could probably have gotten back from Scotland without flying," Grady, who needed only 26 putts, said. "That's the best putting round I've ever had."

Grady's game has been improving steadily for the past two years. He feels his game really came into its own in May at Dallas and in June he notched his first PGA Tour victory, the Westchester Classic.

The Buick Open is Grady's 20th PGA start this year. He has been in the money nine times and ranks 29th in earnings with $274,770. And that would climb considerably if he should pocket the winner's check for $180,000 this week.

Still, it's hard to shake the fact that he's finished second 27 times in his career.

"The game goes in cycles," Grady said. "It's a funny thing." But nothing to laugh about.

Thompson, seeking his first victory in 12 years, had seven birdies on the back nine Thursday, then missed a 15-foot putt on the 18th hole for bogey and a 65.

"There's no strategy the first 63 holes here," Thompson said. "Just fire at the flag. This has always been a nice golf course. I don't believe the scores shot here. It's a putting contest, somewhat."

First-round play was suspended for 1 hour, 35 minutes by a thunderstorm. Rain also delayed the start of the afternoon rounds by 45 minutes.

Players said the rain didn't affect play on the well-drained course.

the middle period, beat the East 6-3 in the other game.

Gymnastics began and the men's all-around crown went to Lance Ringnald, who last year became the youngest member of the men's Olympic gymnastics team in 20 years. Ringnald, 19, of Albuquerque, scored 9.85s on the parallel bars and high bar.

The East got a 47.65 in the floor exercise from its six members to win the team gold.

Robert Helmick, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, said Thursday that more than $2.1 million has been awarded to American athletes in a new aid program.

Helmick explained how the first major portion of funds allocated for the development and training of potential Olympians has been spent. A total of $16 million has been dedicated to the project, leading up to the 1992 Olympics.

So far, $2,193,465 has been awarded to both elite athletes and rising competitors, including a pair of Olympic wrestling champions, John Smith and Bruce Baumgartner, who won gold medals at this festival.

"We're still not getting enough money to really support our elite athletes the way they need to be supported," he said. "We're investigating some additional programs — special competitions, the possibility of a (federal) income tax check-off, and proceeds from another Olympic coin act."

FOR A REAL EDUCATION, TAKE TIME TO READ YOUR BIBLE

In that busy life of yours, so rigidly apportioned among work, home maintenance, TV, PTA meetings, the bowling league or whatever, try to find time to read your Bible; even if it's only one chapter at a time. It contains a great many elements for our education and well-being. It's history, with the story of the earliest days of the world, faithfully handed down through the generations. It's geography, inviting fascinating comparison between the Middle East and Mediterranean lands, then and now. It's a prescription for better living, with its rules for behavior toward our fellow human beings. It's a great comfort, bringing us guidance and solace in times of trouble or sorrow. All in all, it's the world's most perfect collection of writings, and if we know how interesting and helpful it can be, we will somehow manage to find the time for it.

'God is concerned about your financial problems'

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I feel like I'm in a pit a hundred feet deep because of debt. I know I don't have anybody to blame but myself because I haven't been very careful about money, but now my problems are beyond me. I've even thought of just running away to another state. Is God concerned about things like money? — S.C.

DEAR S.C.: In the long run you would only be hurting yourself (as well as stealing from your creditors) by trying to flee from your problems. We never really solve our problems by trying to flee from them or pretending they no longer exist.

Yes, God is concerned about money; you might be surprised, in fact, to see how often the Bible refers to money and how we use (or misuse) it. Why is God so concerned about our use of money? One reason is because how we use our money often shows what we're really like inside our hearts. How we use money, for example, indicates what we think is important in life. Jesus said, "For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also" (Matthew 6:21).

What can you do? First, get help from someone who can help you deal with your money problems in a practical way. Many cities have community agencies (often funded by the United Way) which can show you how to set up a budget and develop a realistic plan for paying back your debts. You may be surprised to discover your problem is not as bad as you thought, if you will discipline yourself and take some practical steps.

Second, turn your life — including your money — over to Jesus Christ. I cannot guarantee that God will suddenly take away your money problems (although he wants to assist you with them by getting the help you need). But he will help you put money and things in their right place, so you can avoid getting into this trap in the future.

'Pastors for Peace' head for needy in Nicaragua

SAN JUAN, Texas (AP) — After converging here late this week, a convoy of 27 supply-laden trucks called the "Pastors for Peace" caravan was scheduled to head for Nicaragua to help meet needs of its people.

Driving a pickup truck loaded with items ranging from medical supplies to musical instruments, the Rev. Robert Holmes of Helena, Mont., a retired United Methodist minister, said: "It's a cooperative venture and an effort to build bridges with people we do not believe are in any way a threat to the United States."

The convoy, sponsored by the Interreligious Foundation for Community Organization, is carrying an estimated $1 million worth of goods for Nicaraguan people deprived by ravages of civil war and hurricane.

Schism

Lefebvre's movement proves frustrating

By MARY BETH SHERIDAN
VATICAN CITY (AP) — A year after the first major Roman Catholic schism in a century, the Vatican admits it has been unable to curtail the ultra-traditionalist movement of Marcel Lefebvre, the rebel archbishop.

Both sides say Lefebvre has gained thousands of followers since he was excommunicated for consecrating four bishops in defiance of papal orders.

Cardinal Paul Augustin Mayer, head of a papal commission charged in July 1988 with keeping traditionalists in the church, says many bishops resist a Vatican effort to make the old Latin Mass more available.

"Among traditionalist Catholics there is an attitude of desperation, and because of that an ever-greater number of them consider returning to Monsignor Lefebvre as the only possible response," the West German cardinal said in an interview with the Italian Catholic monthly 30 Giorni (30 Days).

Some Catholics believe the church should be cautious with compromise. Church sources said the presidents of the bishops' conferences of England, France, West Germany and Switzerland told Pope John Paul II in May he was going too far in wooing traditionalists.

Lefebvre, 83, rejects the reforms of the 1962-65 Second Vatican Council, including acceptance of religious freedom, celebration of the Mass in local languages and interfaith cooperation.

John Paul said after the schism June 30, 1988, that followers of the French archbishop faced excommunication unless they renounced him, but even the threat of expulsion, the church's gravest punishment, has not hindered the movement.

Spokesmen for Lefebvre said only 16 priests had left his St. Pius X Fraternity, based in Switzerland, since the split with the Vatican and 34 had been ordained, bringing the number of priests to 222.

They said the number of faithful had increased by 10 percent to 15 percent. The papal commission serving traditionalists, Ecclesia Dei, said attendance at Lefebvre churches in many areas had grown by 30 percent.

"An overall view of the statistics would indicate this partical challenge is not being effectively met on the part of the official church structure," said a Vatican official familiar with the work of Ecclesia Dei, speaking on condition of anonymity.

French rebel Archbishop Marcel Lefebvre is shown during the consecrations of new bishops on July 30, 1988, a step that prompted his excommunication.

He said the Lefebvre movement was "growing in leaps and bounds" in the United States and expanding in France, Australia and South America. Ecclesia Dei officials say the attraction of the renegade movement is mostly its use of the 16th century Latin Tridentine Mass, which was suppressed after Vatican II. In the new Mass, the local language is used and the priest faces the congregation instead of the altar.

Cardinal Mayer said in the interview with 30 Giorni that many bishops have ignored the pope's request a year ago to make "full and generous" application of a 1984 decree allowing the Tridentine rite to be used in special circumstances.

"Lay people know this and their response — in England, France, America — has been to turn to the St. Pius X Fraternity of Monsignor Lefebvre," he said.

The Lefebvre movement claims millions of sympathizers and Vatican estimates put its membership at 100,000 to 1.2 million. The Roman Catholic Church has about 850 million members.

An official at the U.S. National Catholic Conference of Bishops familiar with the traditionalist issue said privately the "vast, overwhelming majority" of American Catholics support the new Mass.

He also said the Lefebvre movement goes far beyond preference for the Latin Mass to embrace "social, economic and political stances."

Lefebvre is an ardent anti-communist. Some officials of his movement say they doubt the Holocaust, in which the Nazis killed 6 million Jews during World War II. In May, a Frenchman accused of crimes against humanity as head of a pro-Nazi militia was captured in a French priory run by Lefebvre followers.

In October, the Vatican recognized the Fraternity of St. Peter, a traditionalist order led by a former Lefebvre official. The fraternity, with 18 priests and 30 seminarians, encourages Lefebvre's followers to return to the church.

Ecclesia Dei has granted special permission to more than 150 priests to use the old Mass, and has received scores more requests from priests who chose to ask the Vatican instead of their local bishop.

Vatican efforts to blunt the impact of his renegade movement have irritated Lefebvre, making it unlikely the church will be able to heal its first major schism since the Old Catholics left the church in 1870 over the issue of papal infallibility.

"They are waging an indecent war against us," Lefebvre was quoted as saying in 30 Giorni's latest issue. "How is it possible to have a dialogue with these men?"

Church briefs

Special singing set for Sunday

Birdwell Lane Baptist Church will conduct its fifth Sunday singing, from 2 to 5 p.m. Activities include special singing and singers. After the singing, dinner will be served. The public is invited to attend.

Anniversary celebration slated

Members of Eastside Baptist Church, Sixth and Settles streets, will observe the church's first anniversary as an independent Baptist church.

Festivities will begin Sunday morning. Lunch will be served at the church. Schedule of services are as follows: Sunday school — 9:45 a.m.; morning worship — 10:50 a.m.; training union — 5 p.m.; evening worship — 6 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

Vacation Bible School offered

The following churches will conduct Vacation Bible School.

• Iglesia Bautista Central, 2105 Lancaster. Classes will be conducted Monday through Friday, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Children in grades first through ninth are invited to attend.

Bible study and several activities will be offered.

• Northside Methodist Church will offer bilingual classes Monday through Friday. Registration will be Monday at 6 p.m.

Children ages three through 12 are invited to attend classes, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

For additional information, please call 267-2871.

Bombing victims to be honored

AMARILLO — The Peace Farm will conduct a commemoration of the victims of the 1945 bombing of Hiroshima, Japan Aug. 6 at 8 p.m. at Medi-Park Lake, Amarillo.

"It is fitting that we honor the people who suffered the worst fate humanity has yet devised, and that we work to prevent future nuclear devastation," said Ellen Gruver, a Peace Farm staff member.

The Peace Farm, a nuclear disarmament advocacy organization, is located directly across Highway 60 from the Pantex nuclear weapons plant near Amarillo.

Participants will construct and decorate lanterns, which will be floated on the lake at dusk. Bishop Leroy T. Matthiesen, a member of the Catholic Diocese of Amarillo, will speak during the ceremony.

The service will include songs, readings, and a presentation by Amarillo school children dedicated to Japanese school children.

The event is not intended to spark controversy or espouse a political position, but rather to take a positive step for peace and solidarity around the globe, officials said.

For more information, please call the Peace Farm at 806-335-1715.

Church to conduct youth rally

College Park Church of God Youth Ministries will sponsor a youth rally today at 7:30 p.m. in the Worship Center.

Kurt and Gina Rhouton, from the Church of God, Paris, will conduct the rally, which will feature music, a devotion, and Christian fellowship.

Church officials say they hope to reach an attendance goal of 50 teen-agers in each activity conducted throughout the weekend. Participants that are ages 13-20 are invited to attend.

On Saturday, a parent and youth luncheon will be conducted at 11:30 a.m. in the fellowship hall. Parents and teens are asked to bring a covered dish.

Activities will continue throughout the evening at Comanche Trail Park with a cook-out, games and fellowship.

Kurt will teach the teen-age Sunday School class at 9:30 a.m. He will minister during the worship service at 6:30 p.m.

The church offers Sunday School classes for all ages at 9:30 a.m. Morning worship and children's church begins at 10:30; evening worship is at 6:30; and mid-week family training hour is conducted at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday.

For more information, please call 267-8593, or 267-2975.

Church plans summer festival

Cat ordained as minister

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Teddy is an ordained minister who can perform religious services, marry people and baptize them — provided he doesn't get distracted by a mouse.

Teddy happens to be a calico cat who got a preacher's credentials after the Better Business Bureau in Huntsville decided to check out a mail-order business.

Kathleen Calligan, Teddy's owner and the president of the Huntsville Better Business Bureau, said she spotted an ad in a free-circulation newspaper for United Christian Church and Ministerial Association in Cleveland, Tenn.

Ms. Calligan filled out an application for her cat, mailed in $20 cash and waited about a month. Teddy received his preacher's license last week by return mail.

Ms. Calligan stressed that nothing illegal was found with the way United ordains people, or pets. But she added that she sent in the bogus application to point out the nature of the business.

"I don't want to say this is good or this is bad, but they just ordained a cat. This could be Charles Manson," Ms. Calligan said.

The founder and president of the United Christian Church & Ministerial Association rejected her criticism, saying Ms. Calligan lied and fraudulently obtained the license.

"I can't check all these licenses. This is a master liar," the Rev. H. Richard Hall said of Ms. Calligan's application.

The Better Business Bureau office in Chattanooga, Tenn., has received a few calls about Hall's organization since the beginning of the year, according to John Myers, president of the office.

"We have questioned them about whether this is a diploma mill," Myers said. "They offer phony credentials."

Myers said such licenses granted through the mail give the false impression that the holder has been through a post-secondary school education.

Hall said his organization checks out most applications, but this one slipped through.

While Ms. Calligan did not state that the applicant was a cat, she did provide enough unusual information to raise questions, she said.

On the application, Ms. Calligan wrote that the applicant's birthdate was April 2, 1989, and that the cat's calling to the ministry was "to make people happy and not hunt birds."

She listed two Huntsville preachers as references to be contacted. Both had been briefed on the application and were told to tell United officials that the applicant was a cat. Neither was contacted, Ms. Calligan said.

El Paso church fights rumors of Satanism

EL PASO (AP) — Symbols of Christ and his Apostles on vivid stained-glass windows at the Congregational Church of Hope have been the targets of bullets, baseball bats and stones.

The Protestant church, with roots reaching back to the Pilgrims, is battered by rumors that its windows depict satanic symbols and it does the devil's work.

"Someone is spreading rumors — lies — about us," said the Rev. Arlin Larson, minister of the East Side church at 2400 George Dieter. "Someone is damaging our reputation and slandering one of God's churches. Consequently, some people have done damage to our building because they believe these lies."

For three years, the rumors have grown and spread through the neighborhood. Most neighbors are familiar with the gossip.

"Isn't that the church where they sacrifice the dogs and cats?" 15-year-old Danny Molina asked.

Lilly Rios said: "The windows — with their weird drawings — and the fact that the church is usually unoccupied and quiet makes you wonder. Some of the things people told me made me a little curious and even a little scared and cautious. Some people have told me that they kidnap and kill babies."

"But nothing out of the ordinary has taken place. I'm starting to think that the rumors of that being a Satan-worshiping church are overly exaggerated," Ms. Rios said.

The Rev. Mike Hamilton, chairman of the Eastside Clergy Association and pastor of St. Timothy Lutheran Church, said he inspected the windows after hearing the rumors — and concluded the rumors are absurd.

"With 12 Christian symbols (on the windows) and a cross out front, you certainly can't be a satanic church," Hamilton said.

The church at one time mailed 12,000 fliers to neighbors explaining the nature of its Protestant beliefs. And it published booklets explaining the origin and meaning of the windows.

A red-winged ox on one of the windows, rumored to have occult significance, has been broken several times. Hazel Wingo said she donated that window to the church in memory of her son, Daniel, who was killed 10 years ago. The ox is the symbol of Luke, one of the Gospel-writers.

Larson, 44, said the church's front window, which depicts the "Lamb of God" as the symbol of Christ, is another source of rumors.

"Some people say it appears to be a goat and that Satan worshipers worship goats. I really don't know about that," he said.

All of the church's 19 stained-glass windows were donated by church members. They cost $500 to $2,000 each.

Larson said all of the windows have been vandalized at "some point or another." They've been covered with a plastic coating to keep them from shattering.

The last broken window was in March, when someone broke into the church. A bullet went through a window last fall.

The church has insurance, but church members are afraid their policy will be canceled or their rates increased.

The windows were designed and made by the Griffin Stained Glass Studio, in El Paso.

Owner Willis Griffin said: "The windows are modeled after Christian symbols that have been used for 12 centuries and are directly out of the Bible. I really cannot explain the vandalism other than the fact it is based on the ignorance on the part of the people who have decided that it is satanic, but it is based on ignorance and superstition."

The church is about 10 years old and the windows were installed about five years ago. Larson said the vandalism began about three years ago when the neighborhood around the church became settled.

"We have had a lot of threats made over the phone. People call to ask what we are, and we try to tell them that we are a Congregational church and often they don't know what that is," Larson said. "So, we explain to them that, for example, EL PASO — Rev. Arlin Larson stands in front of his church's stained-glass windows that have been rumored to depict Satanic symbols.

the Pilgrims (who fled religious persecution to help settle the New World) were Congregationalist, and that we are much like the Presbyterians and the Methodists.

"Basically, we tell them we don't know anything about satanism or anything like that."

About 70 people, ranging from senior citizens to young families, attend the church on a typical Sunday. The church conducts Bible study, choir practice and other typical church activities, including egg hunts on Easter. It is also a polling place during elections.

Larson said anyone is welcome to visit the church.

Church members are saddened that children who used to play around the church are prohibited by their parents from coming near the building.

"That's really sad," Mrs. Wingo said, "because we even call the parents to try to explain about our church and some don't even want to listen."

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF APPLICATIONS FOR WASTE DISPOSAL WELL PERMITS

POWER RESOURCES, INC. (PRI), Five Post Oak Park, Suite 1400, Houston, Texas 77057 has filed an application with the Texas Water Commission (TWC) for Class I Underground Injection Control (UIC) permits to authorize continued operation of an existing waste disposal well (Proposed Permit No. WDW-280) and a proposed waste disposal well (Proposed Permit No. WDW-281) and associated surface facilities in accordance with existing underground injection control regulations. Waste disposal well WDW-280 is currently operating under TWC Emergency Order No. 89-29E. The wells are to be used for underground injection of nonhazardous industrial wastewater generated from the production of electrical power at the Big Spring Cogeneration Plant. Wastes authorized to be injected shall consist of the following wastestreams: (1) cooling tower blowdown; (2) wastewater generated by the demineralizer unit of the water pretreatment process; (3) wastes generated during closure of the well and associated facilities that are compatible with permitted wastes and the reservoir; (4) other associated wastes such as ground water and rainfall contaminated by the above listed wastes, spills of the above listed wastes, and wash waters and solutions used in cleaning and servicing the plant systems and fluids associated with the demineralizer unit of the water pretreatment process; and (5) other associated wastes which are compatible with the permitted waste streams and reservoir.

Injection is to be into the San Andres and Golieth Formations in the approximate subsurface interval between 3,070 and 4,150 feet for WDW-280 and into the San Andres and Golieth Formations in the approximate subsurface interval between 3,050 and 4,050 feet for WDW-281. The maximum allowable injection rates for WDW-280 and WDW-281 are: 250 gallons per minute; 10,000,000 gallons monthly; 131,000,000 gallons annually. Surface injection pressure for WDW-280 shall not exceed 800 psig for a period of one year following the date of issuance of the permit and 675 psig thereafter. Surface injection pressure for WDW-281 shall not exceed 675 psig.

WDW-280 is located approximately two and one-half miles northeast of the City of Big Spring, Howard County, Texas. WDW-281 will be located approximately three-fourths of a mile northeast of the City of Big Spring, Howard County, Texas. WDW-280 and WDW-281 are further located as follows:

WDW-280 is located approximately 1650 feet from the north line and 1650 feet from the east line of the T&P Railroad Survey, Block 22, Section 39, Township 1 North (longitude 101° 23'30" west, latitude 32° 17'13" north).

WDW-281 will be located approximately 200 feet from the east line and 1600 feet from the south line of the T&P Railroad Survey, Block 22, Section 39, Township 1 North (longitude 101° 25'25" west, latitude 32° 16'30" north).

The Executive Director of the Texas Water Commission has prepared a decision which, if approved by the Commission, will authorize the operation of these waste disposal wells under the terms described above.

Legal Authority: Section 28.028 and 27.018 of the Texas Water Code as amended and 31 TAC Chapters 305 and 331 of the Rules of the Texas Water Commission.

No public hearing will be held on this application unless an applicant who has received notice of the application has requested a public hearing. Any such request for a public hearing shall be in writing and contain (1) the name, mailing address and phone number of the person making the request, and (2) a brief description of how the requestor, or persons represented by the requestor, would be adversely affected by the granting of the application. If the Commission determines that the request sets out an issue which is relevant to the permit decision, or that a public hearing would serve the public interest, the Commission shall conduct a public hearing, after the issuance of proper and timely notice of the hearing. If no sufficient request for hearing is received within 30 days of the date of publication of the notice concerning the application, the permit will be submitted to the Commission for final decision on the application.

Information concerning any technical aspects of these proposed permits can be obtained by contacting Richard E. Merritt, P.O. Box 19867, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78761, Telephone 512/463-8532. Information concerning participating in hearings may be obtained by contacting the Public Interest Advocate, Cynthia Hayes, at P.O. Box 13087, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711-3087, Telephone 512/463-8030.

Issued this 25th day of July, 1989 Brenda W. Foster, Chief Clerk Texas Water Commission 6214 July 28, 1989

Names in the news

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Former tennis star Bjorn Borg is finding his touch may not be as deft from the boardroom as from the baseline.

Borg said Monday he refused an offer of $4.6 million in capital to rescue his struggling fashion business, which was built on an estimated $75 million in earnings from his 10-year tennis career.

Borg, 33, said he turned down the money to help Bjorn Borg Design Group because it meant surrendering financial control of his companies. Borg said he was negotiating other financing to keep his business afloat.

His business produces a line of BORG designer fashions, fragrances, shoes and accessories, and has real estate interests in Sweden.

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Baseball Commissioner A. Bartlett Giamatti has gambling on his mind, and it's not all Pete Rose. South Carolina legislators have started a drive to get the commissioner to clear the name of "Shoeless" Joe Jackson, who was tainted by the "Black Sox" scandal 70 years ago.

Jackson, a Greenville native, was among eight members of the Chicago White Sox accused of throwing the 1919 World Series to Cincinnati. They were banned from baseball for life.

The state Senate approved a resolution asking Giamatti to reinstate Jackson as a "member in good standing in organized baseball."

Jeanne Dixon's Horoscope

SATURDAY, JULY 29, 1989

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: news anchor Peter Jennings, dictator Benito Mussolini, novelist Booth Tarkington, naturalist Charles William Beebe, Labor Secretary Elizabeth Dole, comedian "Professor" Irwin Corey, actor Richard Egan, U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld, Sen. Nancy Landon Kassebaum, composer Sigmund Romberg.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): If you want something done today, do it yourself. Although you are surrounded by willing friends and neighbors, they lack your special knack. A compliment from an old friend is a real ego-booster.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You see the silver lining in a cloud and plan a campaign to benefit from it. Expect some ups and downs when it comes to romance. Travel only if you can truly afford it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20):

Comparison shopping will yield fine bargains. Group entertainment looks more exciting than going it alone this weekend. The relaxed atmosphere adds to your enjoyment. A candid chat closes a generation gap.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): By going places together, loved ones develop a feeling of family unity. Listen attentively to offspring. Avoid someone who tries to impose their will on you. Use any excuse to slip away.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Develop a long-range program that you will want to follow. Boredom can cause slip-ups; vary your routine. If you remain calm in times of crisis, others will admire you even more.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Loved ones who know your weaknesses may try to take advantage. For most of you, financial speculation is a no-no. Stick to tried-and-true methods. Romance takes an interesting twist.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your ability to communicate brilliantly brings you new recognition. Share the limelight with the deserving. A private matter demands immediate attention. Give mate tender loving care. A great evening to dine out.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Attend to important tasks early in the day. A friend could appear with a tale of woe. Try to help this person solve his own problems. Romance begins to heat up again.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Refuse to put any more money into a losing venture. You have your own future to think about. Get expert advice from higher-ups. Call a far-away friend after hours to save money.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Prepare to meet a difficult situation head-on and tension will almost disappear. Trust your instincts. Mate or friends mean well but may not grasp the whole picture. The decision is yours!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): A short day trip looks like fun. Choose your traveling companion carefully if you hope to combine business with pleasure. Jot down money-making ideas for future use. Ask someone influential to back a pet project.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Try to bring calm to the home front. Spend time with someone who has missed your presence. Difficulties will only add excitement to the love game. Curtail spending so you can afford a vacation.
