Francis Hall Freed in Trial for Choir Singer's Death

TWO BROTHERS OF MRS. HALL IN ACQUITTAL, TOO

Long Trial for Murder Of Mrs. Mills Ends In Defense Victory

OTHER TRIALS LATER

Trio Still Stands Accused Of Death of Hall, The Minister

COURTHOUSE, SOMERVILLE, N. J., Dec. 3.(AP)—Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens were acquitted today on charges of murdering Mrs. Eleanor B. Mills. The jury returned its verdict at 6:49 after more than five hours deliberation.

The last verdict was returned by 6:48, and court was adjourned at 6:52 o'clock.

When the first announcement was made, Lieutenant Commander Arthur Carpender, a cousin of Mrs. Hall's who was sitting immediately behind her, reached over and put his arms around her.

Kin Kisses Mrs. Hall.

Robert Neilson, a relative and a member of counsel for the defense was the first to congratulate and kiss her. Then came Timothy Pfeiffer who was her attorney four years ago and who also had a part in the defense.

Mr. Pfeiffer next shook hands with Willie whose face was wreathed in smiles and with Henry Stevens, brother of the other two.

"My bothers and I are very glad after four years of gossip and false accusations to have had this opportunity to face the situation in open court," said Mrs. Hall in a statement issued through her counsel, Robert H. Neilson.

Defendants Elated.

"We are glad to have personally gone on the witness stand and submit ourselves to thorough cross-examinations and to have obtained complete vindication through the verdict of a Somerset county jury.

"The testimony o fthe witnesses have been broadly distributed daily through the public prints and we believe the verdict will have full approval throughout not only New Jersey but the United States.

"We shall not be able personally to acknowledge the many kind letters we have received and we shall give this word of thanks to their writers."

"That is all," said Mr. Nellson after he had distributed the statement.

"Mrs. Hall is through being a public character," he continued.

Bail to Be Asked.

Application for bail for Henry Stevens, Willie Stevens and Henry Carpender will be heard by Justice Charles W. Parker tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Although acquitted on a charge of murdering Mrs. Mills, the Stevens brothers and their cousin are under indictment on a charge of the murder of the Rev. Dr. Hall.

Henry Carpender was indicted with his cousins on both charges and has been in jail as have Henry and Willie Stevens.

Mrs. Hall has been at liberty under bail granted under both indictments.

A commotion was caused in the court room when a newspaper reporter tried to leave the room after Judge Parker had ordered all doors closed.

"Bring that man here," commanded Judge Parker. The reporter tried to struggle free of three bailiffs, who grabbed him and started to take him to the bench. After an explanation by the reporter Judge Parker dismissed him with a reprimand.

Court Room Excited.

The incident, coming immediately after the verdict, caused more excitement in the court room than did the announcement of the acquittal.

The names of Henry Stevens, Willie Stevens and Mrs. Hall were called in succession and Frank Dunster, foreman of the jury gave the answer "not guilty," after each of the names.

Two Stalwart Elevens Battle Here Today For Bi-District Title When Coyote Meets Bulldog On Gridiron

By BLONDY CROSS

With all the color and glamor of two major college elevens striving for the championship of their conference, the Crimson and Black of Wichita Falls high school and the Maroon of Ranger sweep onto the battle-scarred Spudder gridiron Saturday afternoon at 2:30 in quest of the West Texas football diadem.

Two stalwart elevens, the cream of their respective sections athletically, clash in sturdy moleskin warfare today for the supremacy of districts one and two, University of Texas interscholastic league, and the privilege of carrying on in the state championship marathon next week in semi-final strife with the victor of the Cleburne-Oak Cliff intersectional game.

Ranger Wins Often.

Ranger, by right of conquests over San Angelo, Eastland, Abilene, Breckenridge and Cisco in district two, invades Wichita Falls to do battle with this city's "black juggernaut," a driving machine which has ridden to the championship of district one over the gridiron charges of Quanah, Electra, Vernon and then Lubbock's hardy Westerners.

Once has Ranger been defeated in conference strife thereby later causing a tie for the championship of its district, but twice did Blair Cherry's Bulldogs turn back its deadlock adversary to capture the championship.

Wichita Falls has not tasted the bitter dregs of defeat in battle with schools that fly the Lone Star state colors but thrice have Alvaro McCallum's Coyotes fallen victim to the smashing attacks of powerful non-conference teams.

So both Ranger and Wichita Falls, in the common parlance, "know how to lose," and in their having suffered early-season setbacks, each team has been steadied under fire, bettered and improved from the psychological aspect of the game.

Great Crowd.

Two jaunty elevens, modes of offense quite similar, styles of attack open and of the running variety, will face each other today before the greatest gathering of gridiron enthusiasts that has ever streamed through the turnstiles of Spudder park. It is difficult to estimate the size of the multitude that will witness the encounter.

Two special train loads bearing Ranger cohorts will swing into Wichita Falls this morning. All morning and part of the afternoon hundreds will come overland from the towns and cities surrounding Wichita Falls, for this game is not only a game in which the football prestige of Wichita Falls is at stake but it is a game that carries with

As quickly as the decision was given 20 or more police swarmed into the ring to maintain order until Flowers and the new champion could get to their dressing rooms. The verdict first drew a round of boos but the crowd quickly broke into cheers.

U. S. WILL HELP FIGHT TO KILL COTTON FLEAS

Buchanan of Texas Gets Aid Of $30,000 Included In Farm Bill

OTHER IMPROVEMENTS

$50,000 Added to Give More Accurate Information On Crop Total

HOUSTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—According to a special telegram from Washington to the Houston Post-Dispatch, the federal government will appropriate $30,000 for the next year to fight the cotton flea, which did such heavy damage in Texas and other states this year. The item, the telegram said, is in the annual agricultural department appropriation bill, to be reported next week, and is in addition to an appropriation of $270,440 for fighting the boll weevil and other cotton pests, as appropriated last year.

Buchanan Does It

The item was put in, the message recited, by Representative Buchanan, Texas, only southern member of the agricultural subcommittee of the appropriations committee drafting the bill. The other southern member, Lee of Georgia, is ill.

The bill will carry an additional $50,000 appropriation to increase the force of the department's estimators, so that in statements of conditions and estimates the department puts out during the cotton season, it can include a classification to show the grade of cotton.

This would be obtained at the gins and the purpose is to make the cotton forecasts show how much of the crop will be marketable.

Much Cotton Hurt

Mr. Buchanan is urging the appropriation, said that in this year's crop there are probably 2,000,000 bales of such low grade cotton as not to be tenderable under the cotton futures act.

Including this cotton in the forecasts makes it appear there will be much more cotton than actually will be merchantable, thus depressing the price.

MUCH TAXABLE PROPERTY NOT PAYING SHARE

State Tax Commissioner In Report to Governor Tells Facts

ASSESSMENT TOO LOW

Nearly Five Billion Dollars Worth of Property Not On Rolls

AUSTIN, Dec. 3.(AP)—Approximately $4,597,918 of assessable property in Texas is escaping taxation, there being but $3,602,217,082 assessed for 1925 and approximately the same amount for 1926, while investigation has disclosed that there is in Texas more than $8,500,000,000 worth of taxable property, Edward Edwards, state tax commissioner, informed Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson Friday. He submitted his biennial report to the chief executive.

In tangible holdings of railway, bridge and ferry companies operating in Texas in 1925 and 1926 amounted to $75,181,116, the commissioner reported, compared with assets of 1924, over tangible assets amounting to $74,930,922.

1925 Figures Cited.

The commissioner explained that the last final figures available were on 1925, the 1926 tax rolls not being complete. He called attention to the inequality of taxation as provided by the statutes.

Only 164,775,924 acres about 40 per cent of the value, were assessed for a total value of $1,429,379,131, or $8.67 an acre. City and town lots were rendered for a total valuation of $1,004,471,483, or an estimated 28 per cent o fthe value. Livestock was listed as follows: 1,594,270 horses and mules, at $93,856,285; 4,934,130 cattle at $63,650,321; 5,309 jacks and jennets at $187,827; 2,958,004 sheep at $10,797,604; 1,658,432 goats at $3,157,475; dogs, 10,260 at $212,701; 546,702 hogs at $2,052,848. Average price for horses and mules was $32; for cattle, $14; sheep, $2, goats $2; hogs, $4, while dogs were valued at $20 each.

1,091,670 Autos.

There were 1,091,670 motor and other vehicles rendered at $109,715,094.

Goods and merchandise were rendered at $202,860,456; material and manufactured articles, $23,589,640; tools, implements, machinery, $55,408,492; steam engines and boilers, $14,720,740; amount of money of banks $7,170,222; amount of credit of banks, $9,467,189; amount of money other than banks $21,325,598.

Only $950,213 of bonds and stocks were rendered, and $874,906 of capital stock was reported. The value of all property of companies and corporations was rendered at $14,720,740 and miscellaneous property rendered totalled $136,119,799.

The number of shares of state and national bank stock was 799,334 with a value of $7,984,366.

Mileage of railroads was 16,835 with a value of $148,906,504, with a rolling stock valued at $27,306,520.

Intangible assets of railroads were valued at $74,708,495.

Telegraph and telephone lines reported a mileage of 19,729 valued at $20,859,950.

Steamboats, sailing vessels, pipelines, etc., were valued at $21,212,532.

Autos Underassessed.

Commissioner Edwards reported that the loss in the value to the taxpayers on underassessed automobiles was from a half to a billion dollars if they were assessed at half their value.

Goods, wares and merchandise were assessed at $202,860,456, while records of the state fire insurance commission showed more than $750,000,000 of merchantile insurance on stocks in the old line insurance companies alone, Edwards said.

Money on hand from every source returned for taxation for 1925 was $37,731, 042, but records of the banking commissioner showed there was deposited January 1, 1925, with state and national banks, $652,861,509.

Amount of credits (bills receivable) subject to taxation was $40,760,697, but, Edwards said, he went into the subject far enough to learn that the credits far exceed $1,000,000,000. "Under the law taxing such property, one has a right to strike a balance between what is owing him and what he owes. I cannot say what the result of such a balance sheet would be," he said.

Stock Escapes Tax

More than a billion dollars worth of corporations (domestic and foreign) assets in Texas are unaccounted for on the tax rolls, he said.

State and national banks rendered for taxation $71,954,336, but records of the banking commissioner show these institutions have a combined capital and surplus of $133,565,879.

Peacock and Ape

BY MME. LISBETH

Bird and beast contributed their bit to the making of this somewhat unusual dress. Peacock and ape both were sources of inspiration in its decoration.

The material employed is chiffon velvet printed to represent the tail feathers of the peacock. The fringe at the bottom of the skirt is made of monkey fur. A set-in vest of white satin modifies the deep V in the bodice of the garment. The fullness in the skirt is placed low and set on in pointed effect. The sleeves are also cut to a point over the hand and the neck is finished with a rather wide turnover collar.

Long sleeves are so popular this season that they are even being worn in evening dresses. They are usually loose and flowing, combining lace and sheer crepe in a decorative manner.

In the Lelong midseason collection recently seen in Paris tiers and pleated ruffles were effectively used to soften the lines of many crepe frocks. Some wide armhole effects are also to be seen in this collection used in dresses as well as coats.

Black crepe satin afternoon dresses were featured conspicuously, and also black foundations worn with long white tunics in characteristic Lelong fashion, accompanied by black coats.

There were also many youthful dresses which are made of small-patterned crepes on a black ground or are trimmed with black, accompanied by straight black coats lined with black.

Vivid Dream of Friend Foretells Borger Chief's Death In Detail

DALLAS, Dec. 3. (AP) — The story of a vivid dream in which the killing of Night Chief Police Irl Rigney at Borger was visioned almost as it actually occurred, was told here today by William Brasher, a close friend of Rigney's.

Brasher, who is a former Dallas policeman, recently worked as a special officer with the rangers at Borger.

Tuesday night, Brasher related here, he dreamed that he and Rigney were raiding a gambling resort at Borger, and were attacked by a gang.

"It was the most vivid dream I ever had," said Brasher. "As though it were real, but yet in the dream, Rigney and I saw we would have to shoot it out with them and started "smoking" them up.

"One of them shot my left arm off and I dropped my pistol, but picked it up with my right and continued shooting.

"As I fired my last shot, I turned around to ask Rigney to reload. But my friend Rigney lay on the floor, dead."

Brasher says he woke up yelling and his left arm was so sore he had to place cold towels on it and could not sleep for several hours.

The next morning he read in the newspapers that his friend Rigney had been killed at the very hour of the dream.

MAN NAMED AS SLAYER OF CHIEF RIGNEY DIES

BORGER, Dec. 3.(AP)—M. F. "Toughey" McWilliams, who died here early today from bullet wounds received in a street gunfight Tuesday night when Police Captain Irl Rigney was killed, is said by police to have fired the fatal shot.

Statements today by three men held in jail in connection with the shooting and by two eye witnesses, names McWilliams as the slayer. His gun was snatched from him as he fell during the fight and has not been found.

McWilliams denied he fired the shot. His body is being held here, pending word from his brother at Hearne, Tex.

Held Under Guard

McWilliams, held under guard since the fatal shooting of Night Police Chief Rigney here Tuesday night, died at 6:45 o'clock Thursday morning.

McWilliams was shot once in the chest and once in the hip during the fusillade and was said to have been wounded by Rigney, who fired as he lay mortally wounded in the street.

Developments since Wednesday have given a new aspect to the affair, police say. They now believe that one or two other men and not McWilliams fired on Rigney, who was first shot in the back and then through the body near the heart. Two men are being held for investigation.

No Weapon Found

McWilliams remained in a semi-conscious condition from the time of the shooting until he died. Police said they found no weapon on him and that McWilliams denied he had done any shooting. He died apparently without knowledge that anyone had been killed.

Police say Rigney was walking in the rear of McWilliams to overtake and arrest him on a charge of being drunk, and had come within a few feet of him when the shooting began.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—Adv,

Mexican eagles are very rarely found in this section of the state.

Permit Declined Harvey Shead

No Brief Prepared, Is Court's Reason for Refusing Hearing

AUSTIN, Dec. 3. (AP)—Because no brief had been prepared, the supreme court declined to permit Harvey Shead of Fort Worth to file application for writ of habeas corpus in the supreme court to compel the Tarrant county district court to fix the bond of W. O. Stone, barber, charged with kidnaping. Shead is to prepare a brief and submit it with the application court attaches announced.

Stone, recently extradicted from Oregon on complaint of his divorced wife, is charged with having kidnaped his own daughter from his former wife and is reported from Fort Worth to have said that he would "rot in jail" before he would divulge the place where his daughter is in hiding.

BANK CLERK DISAPPEARS

Sees Examiners Perusing Books and Has Not Been Seen Since

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 3. (AP) Rush H. Parke, 30, bookkeeper for the American Savings Bank and Trust company of Memphis, Tenn., has disappeared, leaving shortages in his accounts which may reach $100,000, according to a report made to police today by officials of the bank.

Parke, entering the bank yesterday, saw bank examiners at work over his books. Excusing himself, he left the office and has not been seen here since.

The bookkeeper's action paralleled the case of Courtney Gilsson, teller for the Bank of Commerce and Trust company here, who disappeared several weeks ago leaving shortages reaching nearly half a million dollars. He has not been found.

CLASS TO GET MORE ROOM

Young Peoples Class at First Christian Will Use Main Auditorium

"What Ails Our Youth" is not the foremost question up at the First Christian church just now, but rather, "Where can we put their growing class?" Next Sunday morning the class taught by J. S. Dickey will assemble for their program and lesson in the main auditorium of the church. No class room seems to be big enough to allow them to carry on their ever enlarging program of activities. They have a class orchestra and will use the grand piano and pipe organ in the musical program of the young people Sunday at 9:30 a. m.

The Men's Bible class has been meeting in the church auditorium but they plan to move out in order to allow the larger quarters to be used by the Dickey Young Peoples class.

The officers of the class are: president, Charles Bennett; Raymond Strong and Miss Margaret Stone, secretaries; Gage McDermitt, treasurer; social secretary Miss Dorothy Reed; Paul Rutledge president of the Young Peoples council.

The class will have as special honor guests Sunday morning the members of the Coyotes football team. "The Fearful Quartet," made up of four boys of the class, will sing.

The class puts out a snappy news sheet regularly, called "Judge Dickey's Class Record."

Attacks; Attacked

I PLEDGE ALLEGIANCE TO THE FLAG

—of the United States, and to the republic for which it stands, one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all." Together with this lovely legend of freedom, the school child learns: that the gorgeous bunting of these United States, there is no flag more beautiful; than "The Star Spangled Banner," there is no anthem more inspiring; that the government of this nation there is no power more just and strong.

The pupil becomes a citizen, but the fairy tale stops. The superiority of the white race, and of Americans in particular, becomes his religion. He places the flag at his altar, and, forgetting his own spotted record, calls on God to guard it from the unclean touch of the Filipino the Chinese, and the alluring Italian.

He establishes tariffs and immigration laws, fearful that a better product or a lower wage changes the nation's financial prosperity. He allows his secretary of state to prohibit a distinguished Russian diplomat from passing through the country, troubling lest a new thought penetrate the nation's smug intellectual prosperity.

When the American Legion, the Grand Army of the Republic, and the Brothers and Sisters of the Mexican war get longer, the time may be ripe for a Krishnamurti of freedom to write a different oath: "I pledge allegiance to no flag, lest to any nation which gives freedom to itself, and fairness to the world."

THE FRIENDLY FRAT. EFS

Alexander Crosby, editor of a weekly paper issued by students of San Diego, Cal., college, is under fire for penning an editorial which veterans' organizations deemed to be an attack on the pledge of allegiance used in many public schools. Crosby has promised to print a retraction and apology. The editorial and its author are shown.

STUDENT SHIP EXPELS FOUR

Pranks of Several Students In 'Floating University' Bring Action

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3. (AP) Collegiate! Yes, the steamer Ryndam, American university afloat which left New York last September with 508 students—75 of them co-eds—is collegiate.

That is the word brought here yesterday by six of the students who arrived on the liner President Cleveland from Kobe, Japan. Asked why, they said they "agreed to resign from the tour at Kobe."

Recent dispatches said four students were expelled from the ship while it visited Japan.

The rules of the floating faculty prohibiting the co-eds from being on the hurricane deck after dark and the mysterious appearance of the skull and cross bones of the jolly Roger at the masthead one morning had something to do with their resignation, but just what they declined to say.

They are Wendell C. Goodard of New York; Harry R. Addison of Cleveland; Duncan MacMartin of New York; Frank T. Morgan of New Haven, Conn.; Enos Richardson of New York and George E. Tierney of Philadelphia.

As the President Cleveland was leaving Honolulu for San Francisco Robert Heilburn of St. Louis and John R. Davidson of Boise, Idaho, who also left the Ryndam at Kobe, couldn't resist the appeal of Hawaii, jumped overboard and struck out for shore being picked up by a customs launch and taken back to the city.

WICHITA, Kan., Dec. 3. (AP) The Wichita Beacon today says that seven students who were sent home from the ship Ryndam which is making a trip around the world as the university afloat, were dismissed because they insisted on visiting the royal suite of the Imperial hotel, carried off an image of Buddha from a temple and finally engaged in a free for all fight with Tokyo police.

The story which is based on a letter from a Wichita student aboard the ship to his parents, says there were 20 students in the party which was started after shore leave had been grantd at Tokyo.

The students first went to the Imperial hotel and upon learning that the imperial suite was not occupied insisted on visiting it. Hotel officials explained that they were sacred to royalty, but the students refused to take "no," rushed the guards, battered down the door and swarmed through the rooms.

Pull Down Image

Having satisfied their desire to sit in royal chairs and lie on royal couches, the story goes on, the celebrating students again took their way down the street until they came to a Buddhist temple. They entered the temple and while the trembling priests looked on they pulled down an image of Buddha and started off with it.

At this point the police were called and after a street fight the students were turned over to the officials.

The 20 students were tried by the student council. Seven were dismissed and the others were confined to the ship for various periods.

Tax Collector Expects Rush

Elaborate Arrangements To Handle Late License Seekers

Elaborate plans are being arranged at the county tax collector's office for taking care of the late rush of automobile license requests. Experience has proved that hundreds of motorists will wait until the last few days to get their license, thereby creating considerable congestion in the tax office during those days.

A new booth is being built at the west end of the court house hall on the first floor which will be used exclusively for the issuance of motor vehicle licenses. Several additional clerks will be put in this work for the last few days. December 31 is the dead line for the procuring of motor licenses.

LET'S BOOST FOR OUR HOME BOYS!

Can a Successful Business Girl Be Happy With Kitchen Duties?

Will the Successful Business Girl Be Happy, Giving Up a Mahogany Desk for Pots and Pans? Should a Man of Forty-six Marry a Woman of Twenty-six?—Making a Hit With the Girls.

Dear Dorothy Dix:—I am a 24-year-old business woman and earn a good salary doing the sort of work that I like. A fine young man wants to marry me. I love him, but he earns very little more than I do, not enough for me to have the luxuries and the good clothes that I now have.

When I look around I see that the girls of my crowd who have married are tied down with babies, that they have to drudge in kitchens, that they are shabby and look ten years older than I do, and I wonder if the girl who swaps a good job for a wedding ring doesn't make a poor bargain. What do you think? CLARA.

Answer: It depends upon the man, and most of all, upon the woman's point of view.

There are husbands who wouldn't be worth the price if they were selling at 10 cents the bunch, but there are likewise husbands who are priceless and for whom women might give everything that the world holds of ease and luxury and still feel that they had got a bargain.

Also there are domestic women who find their only happiness in pots and pans, and who are better off married to any sort of husband than they would be not to be married at all. And there are other women who love their freedom better than they ever will any man and who will always, in their secret souls, prefer a key ring to a wedding ring.

Your problem is one that many other competent young business women are contemplating now, for it is no longer true that every girl is dying to get married and ready to say "yes" to the first man who pops the question to her. Nor does every girl pine for her own little home and her own gas range. The modern young business woman who has worked up to a good position and who is drawing down a fat pay envelope is wondering what she is going to get out of matrimony that will pay her for all that she gives up if she exchanges a mahogany desk for a broom and a scrubbing brush.

If she is head over heels in love the girl lets sentiment overrule prudence, and she marries the man, only, alas, frequently to regret it. For when romance pales and the hard sledding of matrimony sets in the woman who has been used to having her own money and to dress well and to going to places of amusement and to working in a crowd instead of within the shut walls of her home only too often rebels against the restrictions of matrimony.

As is witnessed by the testimony of a large department store who recently said that out of every five girls in his employ who get married, three came back asking for their old jobs within two years.

So you do well, Clara, to consider long and earnestly before you exchange your job for a husband. For one thing is certain: You cannot have your cake and eat it, too. If you marry you must pay the price of maatrimony, and unless you are willing to do housework and make a man a comfortable and happy home, unless you love him enough to sacrifice uncomplainingly your longing for good times and pretty clothes, you have no right to get married. It is a dishonest thing for a girl to marry a poor man and not to accept cheerfully the conditions of life which his income places upon her.

So don't marry your man unless you are a good enough sport to play the game. Don't marry him unless you feel that you can put as much effort and ambition into learning to be a good cook as you did into being an invaluable office woman. Don't marry unless you feel that his love is worth more than all the money in the world. Don't marry him unless you feel that you would rather have baby arms around your neck than a string of matched pearls.

For the wife and mother is never paid in dollars and cents. Love is the only coin that is current with her, and if she doesn't get that she isn't paid at all.

DOROTHY DIX.

"It makes a difference where you shear a lamb," says perspicacious Pearl. "On a farm you get wool; in Wall street, velvet." By Gettler.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a man 46 years old, cultured, widely traveled and in a comfortable position in life. I have never wished to marry until now, but lately I have met a young woman who comes up to the ideal of the wife of whom I have always dreamed. But she is only 26. From your experience in life, do you think it wise for me to marry her, provided she is willing, or is the difference in our age an insuperable barrier to happiness?

Answer—You cannot count age in terms of years. It is a matter of character, of disposition, of health and spirit. Also of sex, because a woman, physically and emotionally, is nearly always much older than a man of the same age. Therefore, I see no incongruity in a man of 46 marrying a woman of 26.

At 46 a man who has not spent himself in dissipation is still young. He is still a boy at heart and he belongs in the same age class as the woman of 26, for at 26 a woman has come to herself. She is mature, fully grown, with her tastes and ideals formed. She is ready to settle down and begin the business of life.

The question for you to ask yourself, Mr. Bachelor, is not how many birthdays you have had, but what the years have done to you. Have you formed little fussy, peculiar habits? Have you accumulated "ways?" Does it upset you to have any one move your brushes from one end of the chiffonier to the other? Are you finicky about your eating?

If you have, then don't ask any woman of any age to marry you. Stick to your club, where you can have all your little pecularities catered to, and don't make any woman miserable by having to adjust herself to your whims.

But if you can read your paper in any chair that happens to be handy and can eat what is set before you without asking any questions, pop the question. And Heaven bless you.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a boy of 16 and not bad-looking, but for some reason I do not make a hit with the girls. There are other boys who are not as handsome as I am, but the girls run after them. Should I try some caveman stuff, or what?—JOHN R.

Answer—A boy's looks, provided he is clean and well-pressed, have nothing to do with his popularity with girls. It is only on the screen or on the stage that he-beauties make a hit with women. In real life they prefer men who are just manly looking and who do not poach on their preserves of beauty.

Girls like to monopolize the good looks, and they do not yearn to go out with boys who institute an invidious comparison and who cause the onlookers to exclaim: "For goodness sake, look at that sheik with that dowdy little Sheba! What do you suppose he sees in her that made him pick her?

So, son, don't depend on your looks to get you anywhere with girls. Cultivate an agreeable personality. Read and study, so that you will have something interesting to talk to them about. Learn how to dance well. Cultivate a nice line of jolly. Be good-natured and reasonable and don't try to "high-hat" girls and look as if you were paying one a great honor when you took her out. Above all, don't try the caveman stuff. No boy of 16 has the technique to get away with that.—DOROTHY DIX.

STORY OF HALL CASE LONG ONE

Trial of Rector's Wife Based On Events of Four Years Ago

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Dec. 3. (AP)—Most of the testimony in the Hall-Mills trial, which ended today after one month's march of witnesses to and from the stand, was based on events of four years ago.

Mrs. Eleanor B. Mills, pretty soprano Protestant Episcopal church of St. John the Evangelist who aspired to rise above her surroundings and carried on a clandestine love affair with the rector, the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, was found slain with him, beneath a crab apple tree near De Russey's lane, on the outskirts of New Brunswick, on September 16, 1922.

Throat Slashed

Her throat had been cut and she had been shot in the head in three places. There was one bullet wound in the head of the minister who lay beside her. Calling cards of the minister's, and letters in which he had declared his affection for her, were scattered near the bodies.

They had been last seen alive on the evening of September 14, 1922, when the minister told his wife, Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, member of a wealthy and aristocratic family, that he was going out to straighten out a bill which Mrs. Mills had incurred for a hospital operation. Mrs. Mills, leaving her home in a two-family house on a side street, said "follow me and find out" when her husband, James, asked where she was going.

Mrs. Hall and her brothers William and Henry Stevens, were questioned repeatedly. William, familiarly known as Willie, made his home with her, but spent much of his time at firehouses.

Henry, formerly an expert marksman, was living at Lavallette, 52 miles away where he spent his time hunting and fishing.

Mrs. Gibson Enters

Three weeks after the killings, Mrs. Jane Gibson, who raised pigs on a farm two miles from the crab apple tree, announced that she had been riding her mule down De Russey's lane that night, had heard shots, and had seen Mrs. Hall there. The grand jury in November, 1922, adjourned without having returned indictments.

Rumors of new evidence had become an old story after four years, and the arrest of Mrs. Hall shortly before midnight on July 28, 1926, created a furore. She was charged with the murders and held in Somerville jail until July 30, when her release in $15,000 bail was ordered. On the same day State Senator Alexander Simpson of Jersey City, a sharp-tongued advocate, was appointed special deputy attorney general to conduct the prosecution. Members of the Jersey City police force were brought to Somerville to carry on the investigation which had been in the hands of the state police.

Brother Arrested

Willie Stevens and his cousin, Henry de LaBruyere Carpender, a Wall street broker, were arrested on August 12, and denied bail. The April grand jury was suddenly recalled on September 15 and the three in custody, together with Henry Stevens, were indicted for murder in two counts in less than 10 hours.

The trial of Mrs. Hall and her brothers began on November 3. Presentation of testimony was completed at noon on December 1, after the state had called 101 witnesses and the defense 84. The hearing of the charges were filed with sharp exchanges among the lawyers.

The state charged that Mrs. Hall knew of the clandestine love affair between her husband and the sexton's wife and that she and her relatives had committed the killings as much from wounded pride as from the enraged fury of the woman scorned. State's testimony was directed to show that members of the congregation carried reports to Mrs. Hall that she communicated with her brother, Henry, and went to the scene with him and Willie to confront her husband with letters written to him by Mrs. Mills.

Mrs. Gibson, who had fainted on the opening day of the trial, and was found to be suffering from kidney disease and cancer, was brought from a Jersey City hospital to testify in a court room which for the time looked more like a clinic. From a cot placed near the witness stand and with physicians and nurses in attendance, she told her story, placing Mrs. Hall and Henry and Willie Stevens at the scene. This was the first time she had accused Henry Stevens.

She Swears It's True

When attendants were covering her face preparatory to carrying her through aisles of people to the waiting ambulance she tore away the sheet and raising on one arm pointed at the defendants and screamed, "I've told the truth, so help me God and you know it." The jury had just been taken from the room.

Three finger print experts testified for the state that one of the marks on a calling card, said to have been found four years ago, near the minister's feet was that of Willie Stevens.

Other witnesses told of having seen Henry Stevens in New Brunswick on the day after the killings and of suspicious and incriminating acts by the defendants.

All three of the defendants went to the stand to deny the charges against them and stuck to their stories under cross-examination. Mrs. Hall was subjected to a merciless attack by the special prosecutor who sought to plumb all her emotions with his repeated references to the husband, who he said had been untrue to her. She maintained that she had had complete confidence in him, that his devotion to her had never changed and that even in the face of his love letters to Mrs. Mills which had been read into the record together with those he had received from the choirister she was not certain that he had been guilty of anything wrong.

Alibi Main Defense

The defense of Henry Stevens was based on an alibi while finger print experts called by the defense pointed to eight places in which the disputed marks on the calling card did not correspond with the print of Willie Stevens' finger. It was charged that the finger print had been an "after thought," placed on the card this summer. Witnesses were produced to tear down and deny the circumstantial evidence which the state had presented and in its summing up the defense pointed an accusing finger at James Mills.

On December 1, when all testimony had been submitted, Simpson made an unsuccessful motion for a mistrial. He charged that the jury had decided to acquit on the second day of the trial, that several members had been asleep during the trial sessions and that they had been improperly guarded. The motion was denied.

The "black eye and red nose" campaign proved so successful that an unusually peppey parade is expected for this morning. The announcement that Ranger will bring 1000 rooters to the game will probably tend to increase the support of the local team, judging from the ticket sales and the corridor conversations of the last few days.

The parade will start at Eleventh and Indiana at 10 o'clock this morning.

RED AND BLACK

Boys at High School Painted Up Patriotically

Practically every boy of the 444 enrolled in the High school cooperated beautifully Friday in a "colorful" scheme instituted in the school as a pep stunt preparatory to the big game Saturday with Ranger. A cerise nose, painted wtih Sister Sally's lipstick, and an ebony eye, not acquired in the usual manner of black eyes, was the decorative feature of every boy at the school. C. C. Frazee, physical training instructor at the school and pep sponsor pro tem, presented the matter in assembly Thursday, and the matter was enthusiastically taken over by the boys. Some were even more artistic in exterior decorating, with their large W. F. H. S. on forehead and cheeks. A few of the more daring girls even succumbed to the urge adorned their faces with a little more lipstick than common.

THE PROBLEM

Draw one continuous chain of circles across the face of the chart, observing the following rules:

Begin at any number you wish in the extreme left-hand column. Proceed either directly to the right, or straight up or down, except that four sections of the chain may be drawn to the left, wherever you can place them to advantage (but not more than four), until you reach the extreme right-hand column. The chain must end in this column either upon reaching it, or with putting a section in the column. It is not compulsory to draw any sections toward the left, but a privilege to take advantage of if you wish. You may run either one, two, three or four sections toward the left, or none at all as desired.

Each section of the chain must consist of either three, four, five or six circles. By sections is meant three, four, five or six circles in a straight line.

The problem consists of drawing your chain so as to obtain the greatest sum total of numbers within the circles.

Those submitting the greatest correct sum totals of numbers in circles will be awarded the prizes in accordance with their respective totals. That is, the contestant submitting the largest correct total of numbers circled, according to the rules herein laid down, will be awarded the first prize and so on.

Wherever a section of the chain is drawn to the left, or in any case where two sections, or part of sections, run parallel, there must be at least one row of figures between them, so as to preserve clearly the course of the chain. By parallel is meant where two sections run alongside of each other. It is permissible for two corner circles to touch obliquely.

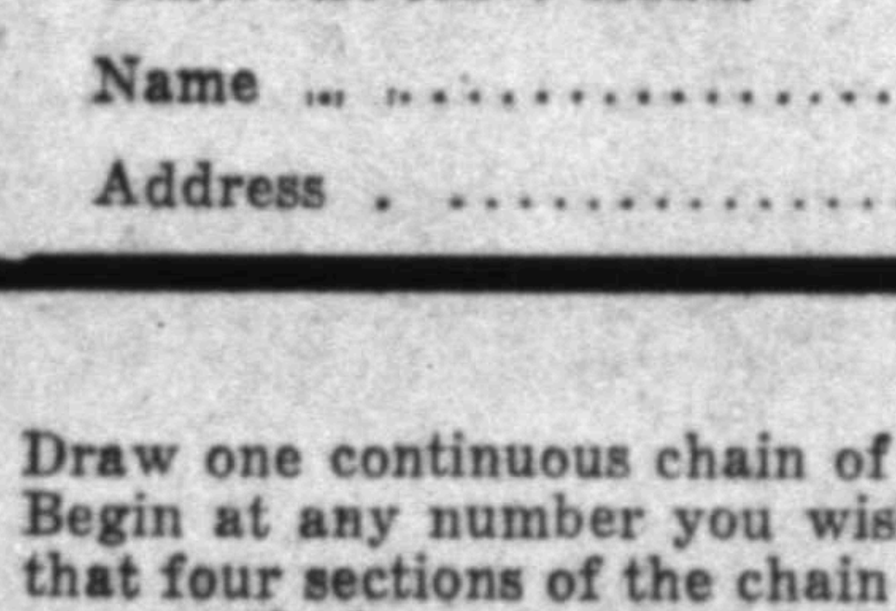

In determining the number of circles in each section, count the last circle in one section as the first in the next, but totaling the figures encircled to the numbers in the corner circles are to be counted but once.

Contestants should inclose with their charts a list of the numbers encircled, showing the even numbers in one column and the add numbers in another. This memorandum will expedite checking up the totals.

Any error in stating the sum totals of the numbers obtained will disqualify the chart. Otherwise, it would make it necessary to check every chart submitted, regardless of how small a total was shown, in order to ascertain if any error had been made. Use pen or pencil, but be careful not to obliterate the figures.

In the event of ties on this puzzle, the rule for eliminating such ties as prescribed in the original contest will be effective.

ILLUSTRATION

The accompanying chart is merely shown to give a general idea of how you may make your chain. It will be noted that the chain in the illustration starts at 46 in the left hand column and runs down four numbers in the small illustration. You may begin at any number you wish in the above large puzzle chart and go either up or down or like starting at 56, the last number in the first section in the illustration, go directly to the right to 86, 95, etc. Likewise, in ending, you could either stop, as at 90, the first number in the last section in the right hand column, or continue by ending with a section of either three or five circles, either up or down or to the left or for not more than five numbers.

Address all Communications to Puzzle Manager

In the event of ties on this arrangement of the puzzle the rule for eliminating such ties as provided in the rules in the first period will be effective.

The attention of those solving the puzzle under its present arrangement is called to the following provision in the general rules:

The prizes in this contest will be awarded for individual effort. While it is permissible for members of a household to work together, or several friends, it is not permissible for more than one of them to send solutions of the puzzle. The Record News reserves the right to reject any solution which it believes has not been submitted under proper conditions. The Record News also reserves the right to finally decide any other questions which may arise; and those engaging in the competition are understood to agree to this rule.

"Proper conditions" include the following: Should two people working together each submit a chart, or should one or more contestants submit a chart, or charts, they received assistance in making from another contestant who is himself submitting a solution, the solutions of those involved, either in receiving or rendering assistance, will be regarded as amenable to this rule. All working papers used in solving the present arrangement of the puzzle must be preserved, and each one submitting a solution must furnish on demand satisfactory proof that the solution was the result of his own individual, unaided effort, or was not obtained through the assistance of someone else who also submitted the solution.

Solutions submitted in violation of the foregoing through a misunderstanding of the rules may be withdrawn with prejudice to those rendering assistance provided immediate notice of such withdrawal be given the contest department by the contestants submitting them. This also covers solutions of the second puzzle.

Childress Hogs Sell For Record

Price 12 1-4 Cents Leads All American Markets For Week

CHILDRESS, Dec. 3. (AP)—A carload of Childress county hogs had the honor of carrying off the highest price on any American market when sold this week.

The hogs brought 12 1-4 cents a pound at Fort Worth, where packing house buyers graded them super-excellent. The price was 10 cents a hundred above any other market.

The animals were raised by W. D. Durfey, who said he fattened them by permitting them to range in two fields planted in alternate rows with peas and corn. They were six months and 20 days old and averaged 209 pounds each.

Max Hahn of Dallas bought the hogs. The price was a dime above the next highest in the country. A batch at the Chicago stockyards brought top money at 12.15 a hundred Thursday.

VIEWS OF A PUBLISHER

COLONEL ROBERT E. McCORMICK is the publisher of the Liberty Magazine and the Chicago Tribune. It goes without danger of controversy that the Chicago Tribune is one of the great newspapers of the world and the Liberty Magazine, which was started in May, two years ago, claims a circulation of 1,200,000.

Colonel McCormick, not long ago, decided to see America first. He had visited all the countries of the foreign world and then it occurred to him that it might be valuable for a publisher to see his own country. He could not see America without seeing Texas, and he made his first trip to the Lone Star commonwealth. This is what he said after having taken a birdseye view of the land of the Alamo.

"Seeing Texas is almost like seeing an empire within itself. This southwestern country, especially Texas, has impressed me a great deal. I am making a land cruise of the United States, going where I please, whenever I please, without consulting a schedule."

Colonel McCormick made his land cruise trip across the state and at El Paso he turned his face to the Pacific ocean, where he will visit Los Angeles and San Francisco and later the Puget Sound cities. It would take him six weeks to see Texas. It would take him six months to view all points of interest in Texas. It would take him a year to get into close touch with the manifold industries of Texas. It would take him a life time to gather material for a history of the southwest, this land of the Alamo, which has known six flags and six civilizations and is just in the infancy of its growth.

Yes, the Colonel caught the spirit. Texas is an American empire. Some day the people of Texas will recognize the fact.

MONEY BACKED WADSWORTH

SENATOR James W. Wadsworth of New York had plenty of money behind him in his race which ended in his defeat by Robert F. Wagner, democrat. His committee spent $173,153 and yet their candidate went down in defeat by more than 150,000 majority. He had many backers. Clarence H. Mackey, one of the richest Catholic laymen in America, contributed $10,000. All the Whitneys were contributors. Chauncey M. Depew and Otto H. Kahn were contributors.

As for Ogden Bliss who was defeated for governor, money contributors to his campaign fund were the Rockefellers, father and son. Wadsworth's friends contributed and lost. Now away down in Maine the enemies of a republican candidate for senator are protesting against his nomination because his friends spent $8000 in the newspapers telling the voters why their favorite would make an ideal United States senator.

There is a lot of bunk in politics and many of the bunkists advertise themselves as reformers. Advertising is a life of trade. Publicity is the thing. If a candidate wishes to reach the voters of a commonwealth by the newspaperh advertising route, how wuold it be possible to make it a crime?

SPEAKING OF THE AUTO

IT is said that the great plants turned out 4,000,000 passenger cars and trucks in the first ten months of 1926, a new high record, and now the prophets are saying that 4,500,000 cars will be the output for the year.

They do not predict that 1926 will be a record breaker in the matter of output, but they do predict that the point of saturation has not been reached in the United States.

Speaking of output, in 1925 and 1924 these prophets predicted that the point of saturation had been reached. They were false prophets. Their pipe dreams did not come true.

Cotton slumped in the American producing belt this year, but they are buying new cars everywhere under southwestern skies.

TIME AND THE TIDE

INTRODUCING THE IRISH

As for the Irish, you do not travel far or long in the Green Isle before you make a discovery.

There is the Irishman from the north. He is the man from Missouri. "You must show me." Cautious, conservative, if he has any power of political or business organization, he will go far. If Henry Ford were an Irishman, he would hail from the north of Ireland.

There is next, the ballad-singing Irishman, the poet, the orator, the famous romantic actor, who tells his love stories, make you cry one moment, laugh the next. He is usually from the south of Ireland. Type of soldier of fortune, harpist, enthusiast, the man from the south is the world's greatest poet, prophet and friend, loyal, but always with troubles unnumbered dogging his steps; though at times 'tis his amusing business in life to make merry and forget.

Lastly, in your travels on the "Old Sod," you come across the familiar bog-trotter, of middle Ireland. This gentleman is as a rule given to silence, and while he is not exactly dumb, tends in that direction. As a matter of personal policy, he listens, but you are not sure that he approves. If he really possesses great imagination, he takes particular pains to conceal the fact, and never do you catch him bubbling like champagne.

All in all, the Irish race comprises, then, soldier of fortune, entertainers, poets, prophets of good or ill tidings, depending on north, south or west; good sportsmen all, intensely individual, loving dearly a fight or a frolic; with the gift of Irish blarney dividing honors with cold practicality.

Mixing all these ingredients into a delicious stew, you now see why so often everything is at sixs and sevens with the Irish.

Human Nature Topics

WHAT'S IT ALL ABOUT?

A professor at Johns Hopkins after experimenting for two years has discovered that "high frequency sound vibrations," are capable of destroying life and cutting down the number of red blood corpuscles.

"High frequency sound vibrations," is the scientific way of describing what you and I would call "noise."

The object of the experiment was to find out how much noise would kill a minnow and bring a well-fed mouse down to the point where I resembled a tenement house geranium.

In order to accomplish this, the Doc says, he was forced to generate a "frequency of 300,000 cycles a second."

Through a clerical error he neglects to state just what he means by a "frequency of cycles."

Scientific men are often careless in this respect. They sprinkle their reports of experiment with the slang of the laboratory, which places the average reader at a distinct disadvantage.

Nothing contributes more to the success of a scientist's meaning than knowing what he is talking about.

Getting back to the report, we learn that the noise produced by the "frequency of 300,000 cycles," finally caused the minnow to cash in its chips, and sent the mouse running round in circles like the Hall-Mills defense, looking for an alibi.

It cost the Doc $600 to render the minnow null and void, and $45,000 to get the mouse to a state of mind where it began to regret that Columbus had ever discovered America.

I have never been a Cal Coolidge in the matter of passing round the justly celebrated currency of our fair land, and far be it from me to make any attempt to crab the Doc's expense bill; but spending 6000 bucks to kill a minnow and an additional 45,000 berries to reduce a mouse to hysteria, does seem a trifle excessive. I don't know much about minnows, but I am slightly acquainted with the habits, customs and style of feed of the average mouse. A mouse is perpetually on the verge of emotional insanity. Under normal circumstances it's erratic and jumpy. The slightest noise precipitates a brain storm.

It may be that the Doc, unfortunately, was called upon to experiment with a strong-minded and exceptionally iron-nerved mouse that refused to start at the least hint of vibration. It must have been something like that, for he, himself, tells us, it took two years and 45,000 beans before the mouse broke down and sobbed like a child.

Nevertheless, I maintain the job could have been cheaper and quicker. The Doc could have packed his mouse-trap, aquarium and sound ruler and journied to New York, walking around a day or two with a pet in each hand to the accompaniment of the sound of clanging ambulance gongs, the grinding of brakes, the clatter of flat-wheeled trolleys, the backfire of auto trucks, the rumbling of elevated trains, the roar of subway cars through sidewalk gratings, the treble trill of traffic cops' whistles and the daily dust of the riveter's machine and the gangster's gun.

At the end of that time the Doc could have climed aboard a train headed for Baltimore, with the minnow and the mouse in the baggage coach ahead, and his only expense would have been his fare there and back.

KELLYGRAMS ..... By Fred C. Kelly

One of the most difficult jobs on earth is to have a really original thought.

If a man lived alone on an island, Robinson Crusoe fashion, it might be easy enough. He would not be subject to the countless influences which tend to make each of us think the same as our associates.

If you don't read the same newspaper as your neighbor, or as a friend in another part of the country, you at least read one containing exactly the same news dispatches, presented in about the same form.

In shopping for a suit of clothes, you deal with a merchant who buys from one of a group of manufacturers who meet every so often to decide what the season's style tendencies shall be. Your clothes do not represent your own taste so much as what somebody else thinks will be most profitable.

Since we are all subject to the same stimuli, is it any wonder that the result is a shocking similarity of thoughts about nearly everything?

This standardization thinking produces strange phenomena. It even accounts for the tendency of most speculators to lose money in the stock market. Many a man who thinks he is picking up securities at a bargain, is astounded to discover that he has bought at almost the exact peak of the market. Likewise, when he finally becomes discouraged and sells, he probably receives the lowest prices of the year. This is not mere coincidence, but the thing most likely to happen.

When stock prices are rising, it is because all news about them and about general business is optimistic. Since we all hear this same encouraging news, naturally most people decide that stock prices are going to go still higher. They buy, intending to sell to somebody else at a profit. But the same influences that made one man buy, had the same effect on thousands of other people. You can't sell at a profit to your neighbor, because he is in the same boat. He, too, has already bought. Everybody is now waiting for a chance to sell. With no more buyers in the market, but only sellers, how can prices rise?

Much the same thing happens when stock reach bottom. People sell at a loss because they are discouraged or scared. But the same news which scared one, acts in the same way on all the rest. When you have thrown your stocks overboard at low prices, everybody else subject to gloomy news has done the same thing. Prices can go no lower because there are no more sellers.

Whether monkeying with the stock market or not, we sooner or later pay a penalty for thinking standardized thoughts.

BO BROADWAY ..... By Josef Van Raalte

NEW YORK. (EFS)—Frank E. Campbell is Broadway's Big Boss Embalmer.

Frankie mingles with the mob on Luminous Lane. He is always chipper, and gay. He never repines. Life on the Lane is brief at best, and sooner or later they all come Frankie's way, so why worry?

Frank is the father of a new style of undertaking. None of the "grim black stallion" stuff for him. He sticks his head round the door with a smile on his face and a cheery wave of the hand, and the sick man whispers: "Come along, Frank; it's a pleasure."

Brother Campbell is the gent who some years ago ran the following advertisement in one of the New York papers:—

"In his last illness, my husband called me to his bedside, took my hand and said: 'Don't forget Dearest, Trafalgar, $200!'"

Trafalgar $200 is Frankie's telephone number.

Sometimes Broadway refers to it as "Trifle-vulgar, $200."

But Frank doesn't mind that. His motto is: "When they're kiddin' they ain't kickin'."

Broadway got all excited the other day over its 300th birthday anniversary. Conjecture swept up and down the street: "What is Frankie goin' to do for the anniversary?"

Did he fail the bunch? Has he ever failed 'em?

He smeared the morning and evening editions several days before the festivities with great big ads: "Give a thot to Bro'dway!"

There's genius in the line. There's genius in Frankie—Bro'dway's Big Coffin and Crepe Kid.

* * *

Brother Campbell is always on hand when wanted. Did he renig when Valentino met his untimely end? He did not. He knew what was in store for him. For three days the mob stormed the bronze doors of his Conservatory, smashing the plate glass windows and littering the walks with fruit skins and the cast-off ends of sandwiches.

What did Mr. Campbell do? He smiled benignly. A Valentino doesn't die every day.

When there's a big blowout at any of the charlotte russe hotels you'll always find Brother Campbell on hand with his cheery smile and his glad, effulgent look of grave, where is thy victory, death, where is thy sting!

* * *

The Paramount theater at Forty-third street and Bro'dway happened, by the merest accident, to be completed and ready for the first night audience the day the 300th anniversary was held.

Some business rivals said that Adolph Zukor and Jesse Lasky waited 300 years to see whether Bro'dway was going to be a success before finally deciding to erect their $17,000,000 Paramount home on its present site.

That, of course, was mere jealousy.

And it has nothing to do with the subject in hand.

Everybody's in town who amounted to anything was invited to the premier performance at the Paramount, and besides, Bruce Barton, Frankie Campbell showed up.

The only reason I mention that is to give you some idea of Frankie's standing on Press Agent's Paradise.

* * *

It's always been the same way. I recall that when George Randolph Chester died—the author of "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," Frankie "looked after" the arrangements.

And it was George Randolph Chester's widow who later had to appeal to the courts to get him to make his ball-bearing adding machine behave itself.

Think of it! Wallingford's widow in a jam with an undertaker, and Blackie Daw nowhere in sight!

Anyway, the court straightened things out. Frankie finally footed the bill on a machine that wasn't so bloomin' exuberant, and that was that.

Bro'dway's greatest asset and most signal failing is its faulty memory.

Fortune for Picture Alarms British Folk

"Pinkie," a Portrait bought by Americans for $377,000.

LONDON.—Englishmen are distraught over the loss of another valuable painting to the United States—a painting that has been sold at such a huge sum nobody in England was able or cared to bid higher.

"Pinkie," by Sir Thomas Lawrence, auctioned off from the Michelham collection, has brought 74,000 guineas—approximately $377,000. Duveen Brothers, international art brokers, who bid in this painting, are of course sending it to New York. The price is a record breaker for a public auction of pictures. Last year Romney's "Mrs. Davenport" sold for $300,000.

"Pinkie" was only one of the pictures auctioned off at this sale. Prices, to the alarm of British art lovers, were sensational. Two panels by Boucher brought in the neighborhood of $225,000. "A Portrait of Miss Tatton" by Gainsborough sold for $280,000, the sum being 500 times more than the sum the artist received for his canvas.

Painted in 1795, "Pinkie" is a full-length oil portrait of Miss Mary Moulton Barrett, a daughter of an old Isle of Wight family, and aunt of Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

TO RUSH WORK FOR AIR TEST

U. S. Planes Will Take Off On Pan-American Trip December 15

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 3. (AP)—Three sets of mechanics will work day and night if necessary to condition the army's five amphibian planes for the Pan-American flight, scheduled to leave here December 15, Major Herbert Dargue, flight commander, announced today.

The three-shift day may become necessary as three of the planes which were due to arrive this morning from the factory in New York have not yet been received.

Two of the five planes have already been set up and one of them has been tested, but both are now partially dismantled to strengthen the hulls of the pontoons in order to prepare them for the extra 2000 pounds of gasoline, oil, baggage and other accessories which the planes will carry around South America.

Major Dargue also announced that the entire force of the third attack group, now stationed at Crockett, Galveston Island, probably would come to San Antonio for the hop-off. If not the pilots of the group are likely to meet the flight at Brownsville, he says. 'Dead' For 'Left' Causes Mixup

Burial Arrangements Made On Receipt of Erroneous Telegram

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Dec. 3. (AP)—"But I do not want to be buried. I want to be cremated—after I'm dead."

This was the statement of very much alive Bernice Dennis, who arrived last night from Portland, Ore., to be greeted at the local station by an ambulance, weeping relatives and friends who had already completed her funeral arrangements.

The unusual mixup was caused by a mistake of a single word in a telegram received by Miss Dennis' sister, Mrs. L. A. Ward, of this city, who directed funeral arrangements.

"I never expect to be so lauded again," Miss Dennis said after viewing the wreaths and flowers her many friends here had sent. "And all because 'left' was changed to 'dead.'"

The text of the telegram received by Mrs. Ward was "Bernice died at 4 p. m., arrive there Thursday." On the wording of the message the sister presumed Miss Dennis was dead and she at once made arrangements for the funeral without sending any inquiry to another sister who resides in Portland and who sent the telegram here.

Crisp, Easily Digestible

WHEN FRIED IN COOKLITE

Doughnuts cook crisply — thoroughly, and without saturation—when fried in Cooklite. These advantages, affording lightness and digestibility, are the result of the low melting point of this new 100 Per Cent Cotton Seed Oil Shortening. It thus serves all frying purposes. Highly nutritious, yet tasteless and odorless—your cakes, pastry and breads retain their delicacy of flavor. Crisp, creamy—just the right consistency for all baking purposes.

7 NEW FACES IN U. S. HOUSE

New Names to Be Called When Congress Convenes Monday

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—Seven names not heretofore on the rolls of 69th congress will appear when it convenes next Monday while an eighth, that of Harry B. Hawes of Missouri, will be called in the senate instead of the house.

Of the newcomers five take up their duties on Capitol Hill for the first time and two return after an absence of one session.

The five strangers are:

David W. Stewart, elected to the senate for three months to fill the seat from Iowa, left vacant through the death of Albert B. Cummins.

Arthur R. Gould, elected from Maine to fill the senate post of the late Senator Bert M. Fernald.

Harry L. Englebright and Richard J. Welch, who fill vacancies caused by death in the California house delegation.

John J. Cochran, who takes the place of Hawes in the Missouri house delegation.

The other two names are familiar on Capitol Hill. David L. Walsh returns to fill the seat of Senator William M. Butler, while former Representative Frederick W. Dallinger takes the place of the late Representative Harry I. Thayer of Massachusetts. By changing from house to the senate Hawes replaces George H. Williams as the junior senator from Missouri.

In the filling of these vacancies the Democrats gain two votes in the senate through the addition of Walsh and Hawes, who won in the last election the seats Butler and Williams were holding by virtue of appointments. The Repuublicans, however, gain a vote in the house as Englebright, a Republican, takes the California seat held by the late John E. Raker, a Democrat.

PUPILS FACE SUSPENSION

Two Teachers Asked to Resign in Whitewashing Of Principal

EUGENE, Ore., Dec. 3.(AP)—As a sequel to the drenching with white wash of Principal J. G. Swan of Eugene high school yesterday several students faced indefinite suspension and two members of the high school faculty were asked to resign. This was decided today at a meeting of the school board.

Swan was deluged with the bucket full of white wash as he stood on the platform of the assembly hall yesterday. The white wash had been concealed high above the stage and a rope leading to the outside was attached to the bucket. At a signal from some one inside the assembly hall the rope was pulled from the outside and the white wash poured over the principal.

FIGHT WILL BE CARRIED INTO OPEN

Both Bulldogs and Coyotes Adepts at Aerial And Running Game

it the hopes of sportsmen who reside in the territory encompassed by district one, and district one pins its faith on Wichita Falls' Coyotes to flaunt the Crimson and Black victory colors in the teeth of their valiant foe from West Texas and battle onward to the gridiron throne of Texas.

Spectacular Battle

But whatever be the numerical status of the multitude that jams the Spudder brandstand to overflowing, it will be well repaid for its trek to the sidelines of the battlefield today. For never is there expected to be unfurled a more spectacular moleskin clash, never a more thrilling gridiron drama than when Ranger's fleeting Maroon engages Wichita Falls' rolling Crimson and Black.

That the mail will be carried by air, the most sensational mode of gridiron advance, a goodly portion of the time is a certainty. Both teams have proved themselves highly effective at the overhead game.

Ranger carries a streaking menace in the swift Buster Mills, nimble-footed quarterback, who has torn off tackle for numerous sprightly advances the current season, who was feared more than the entire Ranger team by the powerful Cisco Loboes, who was a Nemesis to the aspirations of many sturdy West Texas elevens.

Mills Versus Francis

In hopes of balancing Ranger's Buster Mills, Wichita Falls throws into the breach, Coyal Francis, iron man of the Coyote backfield, and second to none in North Texas footballdom as a ball carrier. Francis, though not as fleet as the galloping Mills and perhaps not as colorful, has ripped many a strong defensive line asunder and sorely bruised, both in body and sprit, belligerent opposition tackles, for Francis skirts the short wings of the adversary as does Mills, not as sensationally, but just as cruelly.

Then in Reeves, Ranger bullet at halfback position, Cherry sends into the affray a dashing athlete, even swifter than Mills, but not as versatile, a speedster who once off to a start may never be headed.

In effort to balance the running Reeves, Wichita Falls has Mitchell, perhaps his prototype, swift as a deer, a fighter from whistle to gun and a deadly mall carrier in a broken field.

In the air, to cope with Mills' sharp and accurate heaves, Wichita Falls sends Perk Ray, a marksman arrow-true, one who is unswerved, nor nerved, by rushes from the opposing detachment as he picks his receiver and sights his rifle shots to virgin territory.

In the forward defense at a tackle, Ranger's Garland Hinman, acclaimed the greatest lineman in West Texas, faces the midgets, Hunkie Ray and B. D. (Red) Ewing ,two of the grittiest little fighters all North Texas can produce. As Hinman looms above his co-workers in Ranger's front intrenchment, Hunkie Ray and Red Ewing are expected to stand out with him on the Wichita Falls side of the scrimmage sector, little but, in prehistoric vernacular, LOUD.

Skirt Coyote Ends?

Coach Cherry earlier in the week declared he will clip Coyote wings. Perhaps he was joking. But should Ranger's race-horses in reality endeavor to circle the Wichita Falls terminals very often, the battle will be carried far out into the open and will reach a spectacular stage that can be second only to a dazzling aerial drive. For in the mites at Spudder flanks, Melvin McKinney and Ewing, Wichita Falls boasts a well-coached and deadly-fighting pair of athletes. Efforts to skirt these ends with Wichita Falls' secondary defense, no matter which side of the line the tide is turned, consisting of a halfback, a fullback, and a roving center, bearing in to take the brunt of the drive will produce numerous thrilling tackles for the edification of the hosts in the stands.

Ranger, in fact, probably will be forced into the open should Cherry's husky youths begin assaults on the Coyote line, for the center of that forward wall composed of Captain Dobson, Hobbs and Brown is capable of throwing up an impenetrable barrier. Flanked by the hefty Downing at one tackle and the scrappy H. Ray at the other, it is not likely Ranger will make many inroads into Wichita Falls' territory on old style football.

The Coyote Chances

Wichita Falls' chance to hold its goal line inviolate depend on the ability of its secondary defense to break up Ranger's aerial launches, to halt the Bulldogs' wing-skirting forways and off-tackle thrusts, and the ability of Wichita Falls' tackles to sift through on these open formations.

What are Wichita Falls' offensive weapons? They are a battering attack by Francis ,who can run with the ball also, a driving attack by Mitchell who can do more than run with the ball (he flies,) a plunging and running attack by Perk Ray or Edmonson, a running attack by Allred and an overhead game in which any one of several players figure on the hurling end.

Mills, whose educated toe has averted disaster for Ranger times innumerable, is expected to do the punting for Cherry's team. Also, Mills' accuracy at dropkicking will serve as a dire field goal menace.

McCallum has several fairly capable punters. Just who will do the kicking has not been divulged. Hunkie Ray has been drawn back from tackle on many occasions to punt out of danger.

WACO WHIPS HOUSTON, 35–0

First Team Scores After Scrubs Are Halted By Strong Line

WACO, Dec. 3. (AP)—Footsore and weary from three grueiling contests in 10 days, the Waco high backfield stars found the Houston San Jacinto line and secondary defense a veritable stonewall, and when the sluggish Waco regulars did start a drive in that first quarter, their best efforts were usually halted by a fumble, but then Coach Tyson decided to send in his fleet, ambitious second string stars, and that was just too bad for Houston. For the team from the banks of the bayou which stopped the regular backs for the first quarter and even outplayed Waco in the first period was literally swept off the field in the last three periods, the Tigers advancing into the semi-finals of the state race of 1926, by the amazing count of 35 to 0.

Alabama To Make New Title Bid

Southern Champs to Invade Pacific Coast for Battle With Stanford

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.(AP)—Alabama's crimson tide football champions of the south for the third straight year, will make its second straight bid for post-season honors if the team goes through with the proposed new year's day game with Stanford's Pacific coast championship eleven at Pasadena, Calif.

Since 1916, this contest, featuring gthe tournament of roses celebration has become an intersectional classic.

Alabama was victorious over Washington last new year's day in a thrilling game, 20 to 19, and has a chance to establish a record by winning from Stanford. Only one other university, California, has appeared in the tournament game two years in a row and the golden bears, after beating Ohio State 28 to 0 in 1921, were held to a tie the following year by Washington and Jefferson.

In nine tournament contests since 1916, the Pacific coast's representatives have won four, with one triumph each going to the middle-west, east and south. Two games ended in ties.

L. THEO UP IN AIR

Bellmont Declares Scribe All Wet, "Texas Willing to Play Porkers"

AUSTIN, Dec. 3. (AP)—If the University of Arkansas is so anxious to get Texas on her football schedule she should be willing to play the first game at Austin, stated L. Theo Bellmont, athletic director of the University of Texas, in commenting on an article by Plem Hall in Thursday's edition of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, to the effect that Texas was preventing the Razorbacks from scheduling games with conference member teams because the Longhorns refused to meet the Porkers.

Bellmont denied that Texas was evading any issue in the matter as charged by Hall. Acting upon orders from the athletic council, Bellmont last year offered the Razorbacks a home and home contract to start in 1926 with the provision that the first game be played in Austin. In reply to the offer, Ben N. Wilson, chairman of the athletic board of Arkansas, made the following statement.

MINORS WOULD PAY LANDIS

Bushers to Take Up Matter of Salary for Commissioner

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Dec. 3. (AP) Minor league baseball, having taken up a large part of Judge K. M. Landis' time since he was appointed to supervise baseball in 1919, now wants to pay part of his salary.

The 25th annual meeting of the National Association of Professional Baseball clubs, which convenes here next week, will find the minor league offer before it as soon as it meets. Heretofore the majors have paid all of the judge's salary, although the minors have called upon him to untangle difficulties on numerous occasions.

TOP O' MORN STUFF

By Blondy Cross.

A LARGE AFTERNOON IS IN STORE FOR SOME 30-ODD YOUNG ATHLETES, THEIR COACHING STAFF AND SEVERAL BOISTEROUS BALL BUGS.

* * *

No football game in Wichita Falls has created more interest than the Coyote-Ranger embroglio at Spudder pasture today.

* * *

MORAL SUPPORT

West Texas for years has taken its football seriously. Wichita Falls is just beginning to learn. McCallum's eleven has not realized the support of the city in manner that it should. Season after season, game after game the Wichita Falls team has played to a small flock of ardent followers, so small in number that placed on the sidelines of a west Texas gridiron, say Ranger or Cisco, those enthusiasts would be engulfed and lost completely in the mammoth crowds that turn out to cheer their teams to victory.

* * *

But as the 1926 grid season nears its end, Wichita Falls fans are coming to an awakening. For the 1926 Crimson and Black eleven, regardless of whether or not it turns back the powerful invaders this afternoon, will go down in Wichita Falls sports annals as the greatest all-around moleskin machine ever developed at Wichita Falls high school.

* * *

The odds, calculated on statistical comparisons of strength, are slightly favorable to Ranger this afternoon. Coach Blair Cherry has brought to Wichita Falls a steady, versatile, well-drilled team that in all-around mechanical ability has the edge on the Crimson and Black of Bud McCallum.

* * *

THAT'S FOOTBALL

That Wichita Falls will lose the game, however, is NOT a foregone conclusion. We shall not capitulate to our usual week-end impulse and endeavor to predict the score. But we will declare that Ranger will not find the McCallum-coached eleven anything similar to a soft spot in Ranger's drive toward a Texas football championship. A Ranger victory this afternoon would not surprise. A Coyote triumph would not be a miracle.

* * *

AND WHY THE ODDS?

It is true the Ranger stalwarts have ripped their path to Wichita Falls in more rugged campaign than has brought the Coyotes to the crest in combat for the championship of two great football sections. Ranger has been afforded tougher competition than has Wichita Falls in its titular drive and has come away practically unscathed. Naturally one would infer the Bulldogs are better fitted to cope with a championship contender than are the Coyotes. But if ever pure, dogged fight won victory for an inferior team than Wichita Falls' colors will fly on high tonight when the curtain rings down over that storm-tossed battle at Spudder park today. For the Wichita Falls eleven has been inspired to battle to the last gasp and then still go on fighting.

* * *

COYOTES REALIZE TASK

McCallum's sturdy Coyotes realize they clash with a faster and stronger team today. They know that on comparative performances of the past they do not rank as the equal of the speeding West Texas machine that has rolled victoriously over stronger teams than Wichita Falls can muster. Yet, you cannot tell a one of these gritty youngsters that their colors will be dragged in the dust, torn and broken this afternoon by a superior team. They have eased along all season, taking each game slowly, but increasing momentum as they rocked on awaiting this, the supreme moment—today when by sheer fight and courage they hope to wrest victory from a vaunted invader that every sports critic in the state of Texas ranks as a two to three touchdowns more effective team than the Wichita Falls Coyotes.

* * *

Few followers of the scholastic game put any stock in purported Coyote strength. They admit Wichita Falls has its greatest team and then ask, "What of it? Wichita Falls' greatest team is not great enough!"

* * *

More Power to Our Nine

And if that were the only reason it would be sufficient reason for this writer to hope—no, pray, that Alvaro McCallum's under-dogs find power enough this afternoon to smash back a touted foe in decisive rout.

* * *

PERHAPS NOT

Somebody's been trying to tell somebody else the Waco Tigers haven't much of an offensive this season. That 35-0 victory over Houston Friday, of course, doesn't count, nor does that early-season 101 win from Corpus Christi. The declaration, made by our friend, Pop Boone, was based on that 27-10 licking Tyson gave Temple the other day. Pop witnessed the encounter.

* * *

COYOTES BOOSTER (?)

Oak Cliff fans are pulling for the Coyotes to upset the dope and drub Ranger. There are two reasons. Oak Cliff expects to wallop Cleburne and then desires a breathing spell in the semi-final. In other words, it's figured by Leopard enthusiasts the Coyotes are the easier of the teams that clash at Spud park this afternoon. The other idea is of the revenge variety. Leo Baldwin and company did something or other to Oak Cliff back in 1923.

* * *

Jinx Tucker, it will be remembered, is a critic who declared at the start of the season that little could be expected from Wichita Falls this year in a football way. Perhaps he's correct as far as state championships go, but another solemn prayer is offered that the Coyotes pull through some way and meet Waco so Jinx can be sure of seeing whether or not McCallum's lads can play football.

Missouri Valley Schedule Ready With Series of Big Games Booked

DES MOINES, Iowa, Dec. 3(AP) The Missouri valley conference football schedule for 1927 was virtually completed by the athletic directors in an all-day session here today except for the Missouri-Washington negotiations and a few open dates by the two Oklahoma teams.

Sixteen big non-conference games are on the valley program for next fall, including five big ten conference contests and four with eastern teams.

Nebraska's heavy intersectional schedule with Syracuse and New York university coming west and the Corn Huskers visiting Pittsburgh kept the other athletic directors busy matching dates and the Missouri-Washington dispute added further uncertainty. Coach Edmonds of Washington, and Professor Manley, faculty representative of Missouri held numerous conferences during the day with Athletic Director Brewer of Missouri, and a tentative date of October 15 was agreed upon for the annual contest between the two premier Missouri institutions. It still awaits definite approval.

The faculty advisers marked time today, awaiting the problems to be submitted to them by the athletic directors at tomorrow's session, when the coaches met by themselves and with the athletic directors to discuss the shift play and other prospective changes in the rules.

Many of the coaches in the valley conference expressed themselves as in favor of following the western conference in adopting a two-second stotp after shifts, though admitting that it would vitally affect the offensive of every team in the group.

Reagan Defeats Zundelowitz 7-0

Dickey Scores Touchdown In Last Period of Hot Battle

Reagan junior high grabbed first honors Friday against Zundelowitz junior high at Spudder park in the inauguration of athletic relationship between the two schools. Reagan's football midgets triumphed over Zundelowitz, 7 to 0, in a great fourth-quarter rally.

The teams had fought each other to a standstill through the first three periods. Dickey of Reagan got loose in the last quarter and broke over the goal line. Shortly before the game ended, George of Reagan raced 75 yards around an end and was ruled down two yards from the goal. Time was up before another play could be called.

RAIN WON'T HURT MICKS.

Warm Weather May Slow up Notre Dame in Trojan Tilt.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Dec. 3. (AP)—Rain, in so far as the moisture itself is concerned will not have any effect on the outcome of tomorrow's intersectional football clash here between the Rockne men of Notre Dame and the Trojans of the University of Southern California, in the opinion of a lobby full of coaches and football authorities from all over the country.

The only element which could have decided effect is warm weather. That authorities agree would slow up the men from Indiana.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3. Mrs. Schommell who, holds several long distance records in eastern waterways, said she saw no "immodesty" in competing without the regulation bathing costume. It has been described as "disgraceful" however by Mrs. Clemington Corson, first mother to swim the English channel.

Mrs. Schommell said she would spread 10 pounds of grease over her body. She claimed she would then be more amply clad than most of the other contestants.

SPUDDER NAGS GO TO MARKET

Diamond Deals Start Popping Next Week at Minor Meeting

Spudder moguls Saturday morning were wending their way toward the minor league baseball meeting scheduled next week. Lots of choice baseball tidbits will be popping soon for the edification of the hot stove leaguers, because it is quite likely Prez Gardner and Sec. Asirey will make several turnovers for new Spud talent.

A number of Spudders probably will be put on the market. Gardner is on the lookout for infield and pitching material.

The Spud prexy pulled out Thursday. Airey left the city Friday afternoon to meet Manager Carl Williams in Dallas from where the duo will tag it on to Ashville.

RAY A SWITCHMAN

Houston Heave Shuffles Box Cars, Atz After Him

HOUSTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—Ray Pipkin, Houston pitcher, it has just been discovered, loads up a three-story dinner pail each night and goes to work as a M. K. T. railroad switchman in the yards at Houston.

A report that Jacob Atz, manager of the Fort Worth Panthers, is flirting with Pipkin for his 1927 baseball aggregation, resulted in this brief excursion into Pipkin's thrifty private life during the off baseball season.

Color apparently is given the report by Pipkin's record this year which shows that he won three times from Manager Atz's club and lost but once.

Pipkin, who owns an automobile and lives at a hotel, chucks his business suit each night in time to get to the serious business of shuffling box cars by 10 p. m. After 6 a. m. he has nothing much to do except to get ready to do it all over again.

Henderson Holds Up For Parker

Football League Director Defends District Three Head

AUSTIN, Dec. 3. (AP)—Wylie A. Parker, principal of Dallas Forest avenue high school, Friday was warmly defended by Roy Henderson, athletic director of the Texas University Interscholastic league.

Henderson said that Parker, who is chairman of the executive committee of district three of the league, had been unjustly criticised in connection with eligibility charges brought against Dallas Oak Cliff, football champion of district three.

The state executive committee Thursday upheld the action of the district three committee in declaring eligible Roy Lumpkin and Homer Balcome, Oak Cliff players.

"When the ineligibility charges brought by Forest avenue came before the district three committee, Mr. Parker disqualified himself, because the protests were brought by his school," Mr. Henderson said. "After three of the four other members of the district three committee certified Oak Cliff as the champion eleven, Mr. Parker notified me of the committee's action, and expressed the hope Oak Cliff would go through to the championship.

"Basis for the hearing held here Thursday was the minority report of the district three committee signed only by R. L. Paschal, principal of Fort Worth central.

"In the case of Lumpkin, five members of the state committee, T. H. Shelby, R. A. Cox, B. C. Tharp, I. I. Nelson and V. I. Moore, voted to sustain the district three ruling, and three members, R. A. Law, Roy Bedichek and I, voted not to sustain."

OLNEY CAGERS OUT

15 Basketeers Answer Coach Herm's First Call to Practice

OLNEY, Dec. 3.—Fifteen basketball players reported for the first workout of the Cub cage squad Wednesday afternoon to Coach O. P. Herm.

With a number of experienced players on the squad, the Olney high school basketballers are expected to go far toward the district championship this year.

Hankins, a last year's letter man, is out of the preliminary practice because of typhoid.

An effort is being made through the Olney Rotary club to bring the county and district basketball tournaments to this city.

Buffs Go In For Rookie Flingers

Houston Cops Seven Recruits And Then Buys Vernier From Saints

HOUSTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—Pres. Fred Ankenman of the Houston baseball club announces the acquisition of Pitcher Al Vernier of St. Paul. Seven other pitchers are on the Bison roster who have come from lesser leagues or from semi-pro ranks. Last week the Buffs announced the acquisition of Dorey and Lefty Irwin. Dorey is a semi-pro from Illinois who was sponsored by Nick Bellegie, a local fan. Irwin was brought on the recommendation of Johnny Kane. Lefty had a fine year with Ottumwa, of the Mississippi Valley league, in 1926.

The Buffs have annexed two pitchers from Fort Smith of the Class C Western association. Paulson, a big right hander, and Gerald Myers, a southpaw. Paulson has had several years experience and may make the grade. Myers, a left hander, will be a sophomore in organized ranks next year, and it is possible that he will need another season before he is ready to take his turn on a class A mound.

A pitcher named Moore, who is reputed to have been the class of the curvers in the Rio Grande Valley league last summer, is another Bison prospect. He was brought from the Mission team during the fall. Tex Carleton, the speed ball pitcher from Austin, is also on the Buff roster. Tex pitched fine baseball at times last summer, although he was not very consistent. Henry Hardaway, a Fort Worth amateur, completes the list of recruit boxmen.

Two other hurlers will be making their debuts in Houston uniforms, but both have had experience in the class A.A. International. These men are Scheuberg and Boyd, who were with Syracuse last summer.

CLARENDON, Dec. 3. — The Clarendon high school Bronchos swept over the Canyon Eagles here today, winning a brilliant game, six to 0. The contest was staged before the largest football crowd assembled here this season.

By the victory the Clarendon high school won the championship in B class football for the district. NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 3.(AP)—The cotton market was much more active today but prices showed a more decided downward trend and made new lows for the season and for a number of years past. The weakness was due partly to lower cables and good weather but mainly to liquidation of the long interest, reported weaker spot basis, a falling off in the trade demand for contracts and large private crop estimates. Two such estimates were issued during the day, one making the crop 18,313,000 bales and the other 19,115,000. After an early decline of 11 to 13 points the market continued to decline until prices showed losses of 20 to 21 points late in the morning. Large mill takings of 558,000 bales caused a moderate rally near noon but the larger of the two crop estimates issued after that hour caused the market to turn easy again and by the middle of the afternoon the market showed losses of 24 to 29 points. The market continued to decline during the late afternoon. The price level finally showed losses of 34 to 37 points compared with yesterday's close.

At the start as Liverpool came in six to seven penny points lower than due, prices opened nine to 13 points lower and at the end of the first half hour December traded at 11.88, January 11.91 and March 12.06, or 11 to 13 points below yesterday's close. Prices continued to decline until near noon. December trading at 11.79, January 11.83 and March 11.97, or 20 to 21 points net lower.

Following a noon rally of about six points prices weakened again on the big crop estimates until December finally traded at 11.67, January 11.70 and March 11.85, or 34 to 37 points below the previous close. The close was a few points above the lowest. Exports for the day totaled 62,496 and for the week 497,642 bales.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.(AP)—The cotton market showed increased activity and weakness today on continued southern hedging, liquidation and local selling inspired by increased estimates of the crop. Prices for all active deliveries this side of next May broke through the 12-cent level, January declining to 11.67, or 32 points net lower and nearly a cent below the high price of last week. January closed at the lowest, the general market closing steady at net declines of 30 to 34 points.

The market opened barely steady at a decline of four to nine points under overnight selling orders with a renewal of southern and local selling the latter promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables. Substantial demand developed as July approached the 12½-cent level which held the mid-day market for a time. It was gradually supplied, however, and selling became more aggressive after publication of a private report estimating the yield at 19,116,000 bales.

Stop orders were uncovered as the market worked lower, the break extending to 11.90 for December, 11.91 for March, and 12.12 for May in late trading. Last prices were within a point or two of the lowest. All months made new low records for the season, although the decline brought in a good deal of covering and some fresh buying on scale down orders.

Private cables said the buying limits were being lowered in the Liverpool market and that while demand for cotton cloth from India was improving, China trade was poor. Other cable advices stated that spinners of American cotton in Lancashire had been advised to increase their running time from 24 to 35 hours per week, and that the minimum price scheme for yarns made of American cotton had been abandoned.

Another private report estimated the crop at 18,313,000 bales and ginning to December 1, at 14,980,000 bales.

Port receipts today 72,684; U. S. port stocks 2,770,320; exports 68,496, making 4,325,261 so far this season.

FORT WORTH, Dec. 3.(Texas Market News Service)—The United States shipped Thursday 549 cars of potatoes. Colorado 62, Idaho 55, Washington 44. Arrived Fort Worth today seven cars, diverted one, unloaded three, on track 15. Market dull but prices unchanged. Carloads delivered Texas common points, north western whites and russets United States No 1's, $2.95@3.10. Considerable inferior stock affecting sale of best grades.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.(AP)—Heavy buying of General Motors and Baldwin Locomotive which closed at net gains of 4½ and 5 points, respectively, featured the resumption of the upward movement in today's stock market. Easier call money rates, prompt oversubscription of the $50,000,000 issue of Standard Oil of new debentures, favorable trade reports and the establishment of a new 1926 high record by French francs, all had a cheerful effect on speculative sentiment.

Weekly mercantile reviews forecast an unusually heavy volume of holiday trade which is already being discounted by chain store and other merchandising issues. The usual week-end realizing was light in volume, final quotations in the active issues being around the high levels of the day. While pools continued to furnish the main impetus for the advance, there were indications of a good reinvestment demand in some of the high grade dividend paying stocks.

The spurt in Baldwin coincided with the announcement that the road had received an order for 20 enfines from the Baltimore and Ohio, buying of General Motors was on the large scale and based on the belief that spring sales of cars will be surprisingly large. Passing of the Paige-Detroit dividend failed to slow up the advance. Wall Street also heard talk of a possible merger of Chrysler and Packard, and of the possible introduction of the former into the General Motors family, but thes slacked confirmation.

Rails were unaffected by the announcement of a 7½ per cent wage increase to eastern trainmen. Curiously the revival of rumors of a collapse or rearrangement of the "Nickel Plate" merger plan was accompanied by a brisk demanad for some of the stocks involved. Erie common advancing to the highest price in eight years while Chesapeake and Ohio showed an extreme gain of over three points.

U. S. Steel common crossed 150 for a net gain of more than a point. Among the many new high records established during the day were such diversified issues as Freeport Texas Sulphur, Westinghouse Air Brake, American Home Products, American Piano preferred International Harvester, Texas company (new), Jewel Tea, Porto Rican tobacco, International Business Machines and Auto Sales preferred.

Oils were slightly reactionary one block of 122,000 "rights" to purchase common stock of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey changed hands at 2 3-16. Texas and Pacific Land Trust, which recently attained a new record peak at 1,245, sold today at 1,1000. Electric Refrigeration and Stromberg Carburetor touched new 1926 lows.

Call money renewed at 4½ per cent and held steady at that figure all day. Time money and commercial paper were unchanged. French francs climbed above 3.90 cents for the first time this year. Demand sterling held fairly steady around $4.84½, but most of the continental rates showed moderate improvement.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.(AP)—Wheat values had a general downward slant today owing a good deal to ice conditions threatening to interfere with the Canadan crop movement. Chicago closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ½ to 1c net lower, with corn ⅛ to 1⅛c down, oats ⅝ to ⅝c up, and provisions varrying 20@22c decline to 5c advance.

Corn went lower with wheat and as a result of profit taking on account of the recent sharp bulge in the corn market. Oats advanced because of more attention given to likelihood of a reduction soon in the oats visible supply total.

Provsons were responsve to weakness both of corn and hog values and of the coltton market as well.

A New Type of "A" Battery Eliminator

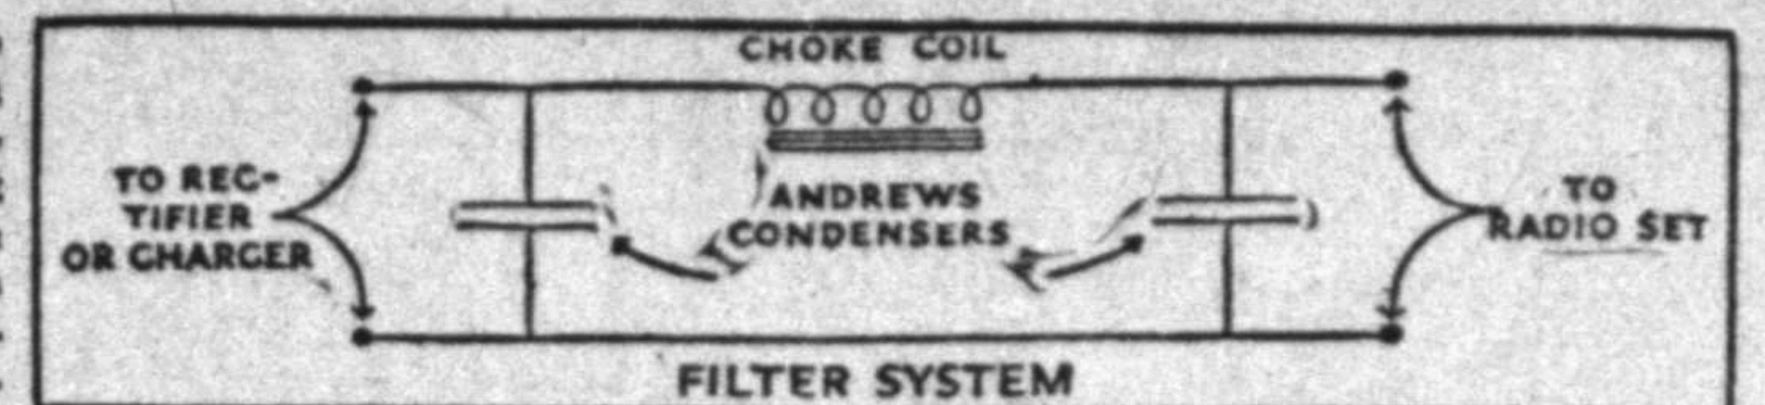

Fig. 1

It may have appeared strange to many radio fans that so large a number of satisfactory "B" Eliminators have been placed on the market but that no similar device for the elimination of the "A" battery has previously appeared. This is certainly not because an "A" Eliminator is not in demand.

The discharged storage battery was doubtless responsible for much disappointment on the evening of the Dempsey-Tunney fight. It is safe to predict that more will originate from the same source when interest centers upon the Army-Navy game. A storage battery always picks out the psychological moment to be discharged.

As a well known writer has said, "The industry has been gazing yearningly at the light socket these many years." The fact is that the problem of "B" elimination was solved first because it was much easier than the elimination of the "A" battery.

It is of course quite easy to convert alternating current, (which is the kind supplied almost everywhere) into direct current. Many satisfactory rectifiers, such as the Tungar bulb type, the Balkite electrolytic type and other similar devices, have been available for many years. Unfortunately, however, the direct current which these rectifiers deliver is not continuous and uniform but pulsates or varies in its amount 60 to 120 times each second.

Smooth Current a Problem

If a radio set is operated on such a pulsating current it will hum like a small sawmill. The problem is to convert this pulsating direct current into a smooth direct current that does not vary in value. This is done in the "B" Eliminator by means of a small filter composed of choke coils and condensers. Because the current is small and the voltage high the condensers required for the "B" Eliminator are of relatively small size and can be made of rolled up layers of paper and tinfoil. It would, however, take a radio fan with much enthusiasm and even more money to attempt the construction of a paper and tinfoil condenser which would be large enough to filter current to supply the filaments of the average radio set.

When 201-A type tubes are employed from 50 to 100 times as much current is required for the "A" supply as for the "B". The capacity of the condensers used for filtering out the hum becomes larger with the increase of the current to be filtered.

Condensers also store less energy at the six volts required for the "A" supply than at the high voltage of the "B" supply. On this account the condensers required for the "A" current filter must have thousands of times the capacity of those used in "B" Eliminators. An "A" Eliminator constructed with paper condensers would be beyond the financial reach of all except the Rockefellers, Morgans, and a few of the most successful bootleggers.

Even the electrolytic condensers, using aluminum plates in suitable solutions, although their capacity is much higher than paper condensers for a given size, will not supply the tremendous capacity necessary for "A" Elimination on the average set.

The solution of the problem has awaited the development of a condenser having a capacity of a much higher order than any previously known. Such a condenser, capable of crowding a tremendously large capacity into a very small space, has now been developed as a result of a long period of research. This is known as the Andrews electrolytic condenser.

An Entirely New Principle

A very careful search of the patent office records in connection with several patent applications which cover this device indicates that the principle as well as the structure is broadly new. It consists of a number of metal plates immersed in a solution which has practically no chemical action upon them. It differs from previous electrolytic condensers in that substantially no oxide film is formed upon the positive plate. The dielectric or the insulation between the plates results from the presence of gas in or on the surface of the plates. By this means the poles of the condenser come very much closer together than they do in other types, and the capacity increases directly as the poles come closer to one another.

Having such a condenser, it becomes an easy matter to construct a filter system that will convert the pulsating current of a rectifier or charger into a smooth, uniform direct current, which will not produce any hum in the loud speaker when it is used to light the tubes.

The circuit employed is shown in Figure 1. It is a well known circuit and is used in many "B" Eliminators. It is known as a "brute force filter" as contrasted to a "tuned filter" such as the grid circuit of your radio set. The new element which makes this old circuit suitable for "A" elimination is the tremendous capacity of the two Andrews condensers, placed one on each side of the choke coil.

The choke coil and the condensers both act to smooth out the current to a uniform value, preventing an excess of current flowing through them at one time and storing the excess until the current supplied by the rectifier is below its average value, at which time the filter system gives back the energy that it previously stored.

A commercial "A" current filter which will smooth out the output of an ordinary battery charger so that it can be used directly to operate the set without the use of a storage battery in any form is now being marketed by the Abox Company, 215 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, under the name of the "Abox Filter". A cross-sectional view of this device is shown in Figure 2.

Figure 3 shows how a standard charger, such as the Balkite or Tungar, etc., may be connected through the Abox to the radio set to operate it without the use of an "A" battery. No changes whatever are required in the set. The output of a standard Balkite or Tungar 2 or 2½ ampere charger is enough to operate six 201-A tubes.

True Light Socket Control

To turn on the set it is only necessary to turn the switch at the light socket, turning on the current to the charger. The set is turned off at this point also and it is not necessary to use the "On" and "Off" switch on the set. A 5 ampere Tungar charger with an Abox Filter will furnish the current for fifteen 201-A tubes. It is also possible to use a trickle charger such as the Balkite ½ ampere trickle to operate up to ten 199 tubes.

Although the voltage regulation of the Abox Filter is such that it is impossible to burn out 201-A tubes which are operated from it, this is not the case with 199 tubes, and if 199 tubes are used a voltmeter must be employed and the rheostat on the set adjusted so that the voltage on the tubes is not too high.

This filter system can also be employed for the operation of the filaments of radio tubes from 110 volt direct current supply. It filters out the commutator ripple and also acts as a voltage regulator to protect the tubes against excessive voltage. A resistance must, of course, be used to reduce the 110 volts to the 6 volts required for operating the tubes.

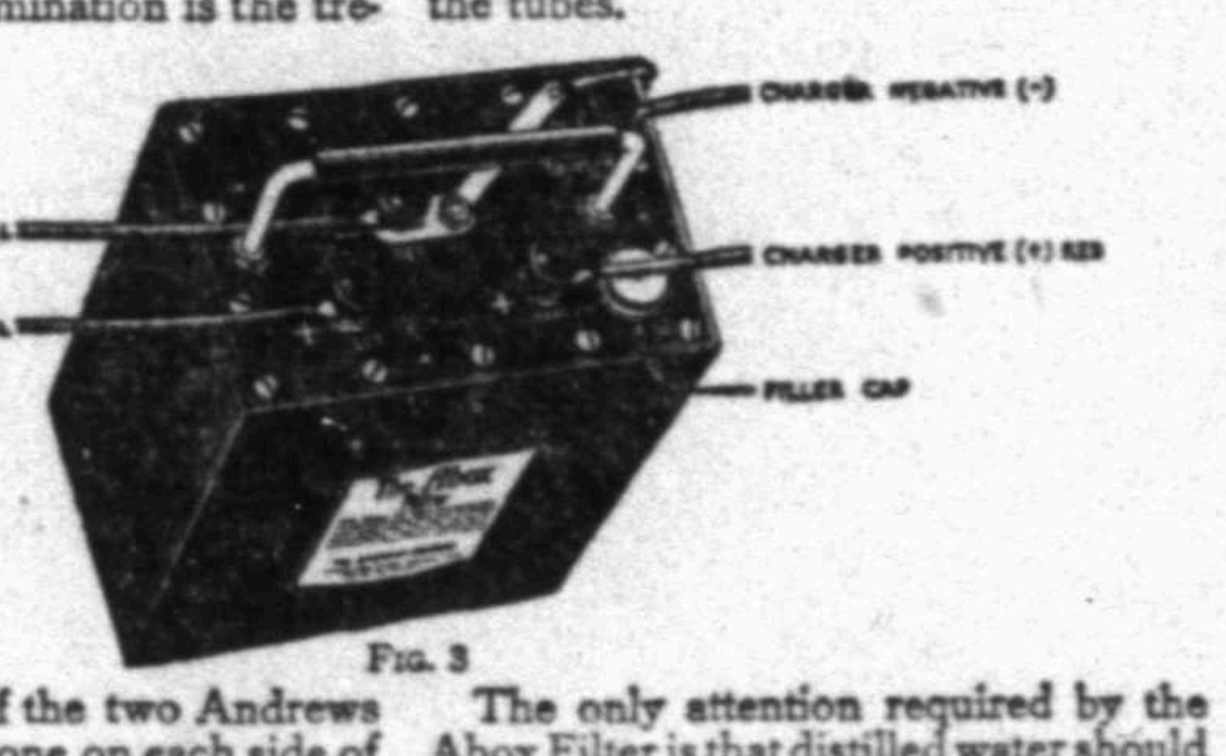

Fig. 3

The only attention required by the Abox Filter is that distilled water should be added two or three times a year to replace evaporation. Unlike a storage battery, there is no reason why the Abox Filter should deteriorate if allowed to stand unused for long periods of time, and its life when used continuously should be very long.

It is shipped dry in a cardboard carton. To put it into service it is only necessary to fill it with distilled water.

500 DADS AND SONS MAKE MERRY AT BANQUET

HOFFMAN AND HALL ADDRESS BIG GATHERING

Affair Sponsored by Optimists Club Goes Off In Excellent Style

It was strictly a boys' affair Friday night when 500 or more men and boys of Wichita Falls met at the Junior High school cafeteria for the annual Father and Son banquet. It was sponsored this year by the Optimist club. Fathers departed from the staid demeanor of every-day and became kids again, wearing paper caps and whistling encores to the program. Sons became real personages, having much attention directed toward them and feeling somewhat important in being the cause of all this festivity.

The Optimist club left nothing undone in arranging the program and the bountiful feast spoke well of cafeteria cooks.

The Lions band led the program with an excellent concert, and Alva Wilgus led the congregation in songs that are songs, as the boys would say.

After invocation by Rev. S. A. Barnes and a fine dinner, Toastmaster Bert King introduced Luther Hoffman as the headliner on the program.

Mr. Hoffman announced he would speak on the "Great American Boy," but he digressed sufficiently to bring out some telling stuff on the dads as well.

Sometimes the fathers and sons have a great deal of difficulty finding each other," Mr. Hoffman said, "father is sometimes negligent and does not give the time he should to his own son, but on the other hand, son frequently forgets that after all, father is working 10 to 15 hours a day providing the home and the clothing and the school for son."

The practice of referring to dad as the "old man" was stoutly defended by the speaker who declared that it was only a way the son had of referring to his dad in terms of affection.

Mr. Hoffman punctuated his talk with several good stories to the effect that father is not so smart after all and that he is liable to make honest mistakes, just as the son may make mistakes, and that the real spirit would be that of more consideration toward each other.

Two boys responded to the leading address, Isidore Cohen reciting a very appropriate piece of poetry, and Raymond Strong giving an excellent address on the subject of "Better Understanding."

"Many of the sorrows and tragedies of life are done to misunderstandings," the last speaker stated, "and frequently father hurts a boy's feelings when he corrects him in the wrong way. And sons sometimes do not understand that father is really trying to help him. Let us all pray God for better understanding."

Miss Adele Ray sang a song entitled "When Daddy Sings," and Alva Wilgus led another sing-song in which all joined heartily.

The toastmaster introduced C. Ed Hall, of Oklahoma City, a man high in Optimist club circles, as the final number on the program. His subject was "Our Men to Be."

Mr. Hall opened his address by stating he did not believe that American people understand the relativity of value. He referred to constant boasting of wealth in money, lands, buildings, railroads, and oil wells, but after all, he said, the real wealth of the nation lies in the sons and daughters of the land.

"I am frequently reminded of the boy problem," Mr. Hall stated, "and I declare to you people that we have no boy problem in this country, but we do have a serious man and woman problem."

"Speaking of problems, I may call your attention to the big problems of the world; of world peace, of world finance and world prosperity; and I assure you these problems will be solved by the future of the nations—the boys of today. That is our problem to give them an heritage that will make them capable of meeting the responsibilities of the world of tomorrow."

The toastmaster announced that thanks and appreciation is extended to the many persons who had helped with the program.

The Kiwanis club was represented by J. L. Jackson; Fred Hooper and Luther Hoffman represented the Rotary club; Joe Dickey and Fred Ripley the Lions club.

Theft Frustrated On Denver Street

Attempt to Rob Servants' House Ends Without Any Loss

City Officers Dick Morgan and Polly Perdue answered a burglary call at 810 Denver street late Friday evening and found evidence of an attempted theft of the servant quarters there, but evidently the thief was frightened away before he accomplished his purpose.

A rear screen had been cut away and a handkerchief was found nearby, bearing a laundry mark. Occupants of the house stated that a man had come to the door a short time before and asked who lived at a house across the street, giving a house number that did not exist.

Two Fords, a touring car and a truck collided at Holliday and Eleventh streets early Friday morning and three occupants of the touring car and the driver of the truck narrowly escaped serious injury. Both cars were overturned.

Carrol Fields, 1401 Bell street, and J. J. Nipper, 3202 Garfield, occupants of the touring car, were pinned underneath the wreckage and were extricated by police.

J. H. Haines, driver of the cement truck, was also imprisoned in his cab when the truck overturned.

MORE FAKE BILLS FOUND

$5 Note Brought In By Merchant at Burkburnett

Further evidence that a counterfeit ring is probably operating in this section was disclosed at city police headquarters Friday when a merchant of Burkburnett brought in a cleverly raised $5 bill and reported it had been passed on him. The merchant did not remember who gave him the bill.

The bill was more cleverly penned than the $10 note taken at the time a man was arrested here Thursday night. It was a $1 bill raised to a $5 and was so ingenious that it took close inspection to note the fraud. The $10 note recovered here was raised from a $1 bill, but was crude in workmanship and evidently was intended to be passed only in isolated places where a getaway could be made if the bill should be detected.

Again Police Chief George Hodgins sounded a warning to all merchants and cashiers of Wichita Falls and adjacent cities to watch the bills that are offered them.

Wichita Falls prides itself on doing things in the style of cities not only of the same size but of those several times as large. But in the matter of large subscriptions to the Community Chest this city is still somewhat in the small town class.

Less than half of this number were thousand dollar donations, the others being for more than that amount.

HOMESTEAD CASE

Bernstein-Hobbs Case Tried In Court Here.

The civil suit of Mrs. Anna Bernstein vs. Ralph Hobbs et ux. was brought to trial for the second time in 89th district court Thursday morning and the case occupied practically the entire day, going to the jury late in the evening. The jury was excused until 9 o'clock this morning when they will report a verdict.

This case created a great deal of interest on the first trial as it involves the Texas homstead law. The suit is for collection of a $2000 note given in 1919. It represents a mechanic's lien on the homestead of Ralph Hobbs and had passed through several hands before finally becoming the property of Mrs. Bernstein.

Dear Folks:—

This old earth is still moving 'round at the same old pace, but us humans on it are sure going faster. When we figure it out, the next thing to the earth that keeps going steadily and continually is Century Tires.

It wasn't so long ago, when we all thought ourselves some speed hounds with a horse and buggy. A little later we got our auto and 20 miles per hour and 3000 miles out of our tires maybe. Now if our car don't go 60 miles and our tires 15,000 to 20,000 miles we are disappointed. Century Tires will not disappoint you.

Come in and let me show you.
