Suspect Jailed In Hood Death

POLICE OBTAIN CONFESSION IN ASSAULT CASE

Man Held for Assault On Woman Makes An Admission.

FILED ON MONDAY

Formal Complaint Probably To Be Lodged Against Him Today.

Police last night had built up what they termed a "cast iron" case against the man held in connection with a criminal assault on a young married woman of the city early Saturday morning in an uptown rooming house, and had transferred him to the county authorities where formal charges will probably be filed Monday morning. Instructions were given the county jailer that no one was to be allowed near him.

In an oral statement to Chief of Police George Hodgins and Special Investigator Sam Spence Sunday he acknowledged that the woman in the case was in his room in a Seventh street hotel early Saturday morning. But he would make no further statement or allow that to be reduced to writing.

Further Identified.

In addition he was identified by a taxi driver as the one who had given him instructions to go for a woman at an address on Tenth street early Saturday morning, and bring her to the rooms. The woman had come with him, he stated, bringing her baby with her. At the end of the drive she had paid him herself, the fare amounting to 60 cents. Some time later in the night, the taxi driver stated, the man had hired him again at his stand uptown and told him to drive back to the rooming house. The man went inside but returned a moment later and had him drive around town and back to the address on Tenth street, as if he were looking for someone. It is the theory of the police in this connection that when he found the woman gone from the room he tried to find her and intercept her before she reached her home again.

An occupant of a nearby room at the house early Saturday morning testified to having heard the cries of a baby at about the hour of the alleged attack and to have heard a noise as of a man and woman quarreling.

Second Man Freed.

The second man held in connection with with the case was released by the officers yesterday after he had testified and made a statement to the effect that Friday night he was badly intoxicated, but had rented a room and paid for it for the night for the man charged with the assault, also leaving him a dollar to pay for his breakfast in the morning.

As it stood last night, police were fairly sure of their ground. The story told by the woman and her statement implicating the man, this statement later being followed by positive identification, in the opinion of Chief Hodgins, rings true, and is supported by other evidence gained in the investigation.

The man turned over to the county yesterday is about 28 years of age, [illegible] a wife and two children [illegible]. He was arrested early [illegible]ning following a com- [illegible]woman living on Tenth [illegible] had attacked her after [illegible] a room in an uptown [illegible]se, presumably to find [illegible]who, it had been repre- [illegible]r, was in an intoxicated [illegible]and needed help. Follow- [illegible] attack, the woman states [illegible] was taken back home, carrying her two-months-old baby in her arms.

The husband of the woman told police yesterday that the man now under arrest was well known to him, having worked with him as a rig builder out of Olney. The husband was in Olney at the time of the alleged attack.

College Youth Slain In Fight With "Friend"

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—John Klasinn, premedical student of the University of Chicago and son of a wealthy Kansas ranch owner was slugged and fatally beaten here this morning by friends of a young woman he addressed on the street.

Archie Cahlini, 21, a checker and sweetheart of Inez Parise, Chicago, who admitted he inspired the assault and four youths, some of whom confessed participating in the attack, are under arrest.

James R. Mitcham, 21, also a premedical student, who like Klasinn was to be a junior in September, was also beaten. Mitcham's home is in Fort Worth, Texas.

Although he was struck by a stone and knocked down, Mitcham escaped and called the police, who later found Klasinn, who was Mitcham's roommate, in a dying condition, his head having been crushed. Near the injured man the police picked up a razor, which he is believed to have used in an attempt to defend himself.

Friends of Klasinn explained that the student had been working at a barber shop and evidently was taking the razor home with him.

At the apartments where Klasinn stayed, fellow students said they did not believe him capable of insulting a girl anywhere. He was bashful and avoided co-eds at every opportunity, they said.

Cahlini and his companions are alleged to have attacked Klasinn after the latter spoke to the Parise girl, who with her two sisters, Dolores, 14, and Irma, 13, were standing on the front porch of their home talking to Cahlini. A granite paving block was found near the scene of the assault.

LOWER RATES ON T-P ASKED BY SHIPPERS

Dallas Claims Its Control By M-P Justifies a Reduction.

DALLAS, Aug. 23.—Even though the Missouri Pacific, which now owns controlling stock of the Texas and Pacific, does not elect to operate the two properties as a single line, Texas shippers should be given the benefit of the one line, lower freights on shipments from the Texas nad Pacific in other parts of the Missouri Pacific system "as the public's hare of economies that can be obtained by operating these railroads as a single unit."

This, in substance is the reply made by Albert Reed, commerce counsel for the Dallas chamber of commerce, to the position of the Texas and Pacific in the case now before the Texas railroad commission in which Dallas asks for single line rates.

The issue, as Mr. Reed sees it, follows: "Is there such control of the Gulf Coast Lines, the International Great Northern and the Texas and Pacific existing in the Missouri Pacific railway as would give that company sufficient power to effect the economies obtained by operating all these railroads as a single unit?"

If that power and control exist, Mr. Reed adds, then the shipping public is entitled to the benefits thereof.

The testimony of J. L. Lancaster, president of the Texas and Pacific, before the commission in this case is cited by Mr. Reed as an admission that the controlling stock of that line is vested in the Missouri Pacific and that the Missouri Pacific could, if it desired, exercise complete control over the properties of the Texas and Pacific.

The two executives plan leaving Monday morning on an inspection tour of the northwestern branch of the Katy.

COPS END BOYS' "HIKE"

Take One of Youths Back to His Father; Others Turn Back

WACO, Aug. 23.—Four Bell county youths, hiking north, were overtaken on the Dallas road today by city detectives who were looking for one of them at the request of his parents. They brought the boy who [illegible]s wanted back to the city hall where his father arrived shortly to take charge of him. Hardly had the father and son gone away again before two of the three remaining hikers drifted into the police station on their way home, disheartened by the return of the first.

Frank Coy, Jr., in Hospital With Concussion Of Brain.

Frank Coy Jr., aged 12, was still unconscious at an early hour Monday morning but was not believed to be critically injured as a result of a fall down a flight of steps at Lake Wichita late Sunday night.

The boy, who lives at the Stratford hotel, was running near the high embankment at the lake and lost his balance as he neared the top of the steps. He tumbled to the bottom and was hurried to the hospital when it was found he was badly hurt.

He was suffering from a concussion of the brain, it was thought, and may have a fractured skull although this is not regarded as probable.

SANDUSKY, O., Aug. 23.—(AP)—The ku klux klan has unequivocally committed itself to a fight for fundamentalism in religion, Clyde W. Osborne, grand dragon for Ohio, declared in an address at a district meeting of the organization near here last night. "We will take up the torch as it fell from the hands of William Jennings Bryan, carrying on his fight for the religion of our fathers," he said. Exactly how the klan will pursue this course probably will be determined at the national meeting of grand dragons at Buckeye lake, a resort near Columbus, next week.

Elbow Grease and Fists Another Way to Settle Traffic-Smash Disputes

Another good way to settle a traffic accident dispute is with your fists.

This, at least, was one common point of agreement Sunday afternoon between a service car driver and the burly pilot of an expensive roadster, who battled it out for a few minutes after bending fenders on the Henrietta road.

Both cars were inward bound and the near-disaster came as the service car attempted to swing around the roadster which was weaving back and forth across the road. The argument that followed grew more heated until the drivers canned the jawing and got down to real business.

The service car driver was by far the smaller of the pair, but in the fisticuff that followed he had the better of it. The civilian, who was fully six feet tall and weighed 200 pounds or more, picked himself up from underneath his rival's machine before half a dozen blows had been passed, and when the war was over it was the concensus of experts at the ringside that he had been outpointed by a decisive margin.

Cooler heads separated the pair before serious damage was done and both machines were driven in under their own power, presumably for repairs at each pilot's expense.

4,000 OUT FOR FINAL UNION CHURCH MEET

Excellent Musical Program Helps Wind Up Services At Bellevue.

ATKINSON SPEAKER

First Christian Church Pastor Takes Text From Psalms, 139.

More than 4,000 people heard the last of the August community religious services at Bellevue park Sunday night, the audience being possibly the largest that has gathered for any of the serivces. Rev. Milo Atkinson of the First Christian church, was the speaker, choosing as his subject: "The Practical Significance of Divine Presence."

An exceptional music service which included negro spirituals by a quartet from the St. John Baptist church and songs by George Taylor was provided.

The text was from the 139th Psalm, "Thou art acquainted with all my ways. There is not a word in my tongue but lo, oh Lord, thou knowest it altogether. Thou understandest my thought afar off."

God's Presence Real.

"Men may explain by various reasons why they do not go to church or read the Bible," the minister began, "but the biggest reason is that these things make them conscious of the presence of God. Many do not enjoy His presence. The reality of God's presence certainly is apparent to any thinking man. Men may not know my ways or knowing, they may not understand, but God knows and understands.

'To the modern man who can make a moving picture machine it should not be a difficult thing to believe in a God who is acquainted with 'all of my ways.' But God's knowledge and intimacy of His presence with man is not limited to a knowledge of man's actions. There is not a word in my tongue but thou knowest it all together. There are innumerable words that fall from human lips. Many of them have little or no meaning, and oftimes words of serious import are misunderstood and sadly misinterpreted. In my relationship to God, however, I am not subject to any such limitations. Whether it be an idle word, a vile word, a blasphemous word, or whether it be the tenderest word of human sympathy, the purest word of holy love, it is fully known to the Almighty."

Easily Understood.

"Again I say, to the man who built the phonograph that makes such an accurate record of human words, it should not be difficult to believe in the God who knows and understands every word of my mouth. Even more intimate yet than this is the presence of God to man. 'Thou understandeth my thought afar off.' I may make an effort to conceal my thought from my fellow man, or even if I am earnestly endeavoring to make known my thought, I may find it impossible because of human limitations to make my thoughts understood. No such hindering limitations stand between me and God. Many a man who recognizes the conventions and proprieties of civilized society will be careful in his conduct and circumspect in his speech, but he may assume that in the realm of his thought he is absolute sovereign and none may know, but even in this inner chamber of a man's secret thoughts and motives the Almighty enters with understanding intimacy.

"A few years ago we had scarcely ceased to wonder at the marvels of the X-ray with which a man could look at the very bones of his own body, when a more wonderful thing was achieved in making a photographic record of the human brain. So delicate was this instrument that the difference was easily discerned between the impressions made by a brain in anger and that of a man who was contented and happy. Should the modern scientific man who masters this subtle thing he calls the X-ray stumble at the thought that Almighty God could record the inner thoughts of every man?

What Influence.

"When we face the facts of the divine presence what is the influence it has upon us in our daily lives? Does it fill the human heart with haunting fears and constant dread, like the criminal hounded by detectives, or does it fill the soul with sweet contentment and constant encouragement? The answer to my question depends upon the individual's attitude toward this Divine presence.

"If a man be at enmity with God his way is out of harmony with the ways of God, his word contradictory to the teachings of God, his thoughts contrary to the purposes of God, then well may his soul be filled with dread and the consciousness of a divine presence be a terror to him. But that man whose ways are in keeping with the will of God and whose speech is acceptable before the Almighty and whose secret thoughts will bear the scrutiny of the searcher of hearts shall find his most constant satisfaction and richest encouragements are to be found in the knowledge that God is everywhere and always present.

SAYS U. S. TO JOIN COURT

Spudders May Not Be Able to Beat Out Cats, But They Gave Texas a Lot To Think About In Last Week's Games

DALLAS, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Staging of the "old one-horse shay" act by the Houston Buffaloes was the outstanding and most disappointing development of Texas league play last week. The immortal "one-horse shay," be it remembered, collapsed, and went to pieces all at once. Be that as it may, it did not have a thing on the Bisons, who, after furnishing much of the dash of the second half of the race, failed to win a game last week. At the start of the week's play, Manager Marvin Goodwin's lads were in second place, three games behind the Panthers. At the end of the week they were in fourth place, eight games behind the Cats, and hopelessly out of the running, for it is hardly conceivable the Bisons can overcome such a lead with but three weeks play.

Signs Before

Signs of disintregation in the Buff machine have been apparent for some time. Carlisle Littlejohn and Burns, young pitchers, have not been effective for a month, while the injury of two weeks ago that put the veteran Del Gainer out of the lineup, was a severe blow to the pennant hopes of Buff fans.

Development of the Wichita Falls Spudders, as a possible menace to the Panthers, was another interesting feature. "Buddy" Tanner's athletes won six of seven encounters and leaped from a tie for third place with Dallas to the runner-up position.

Tit for Tat

Friday, the San Antonio Bears whipped the Spudders six-four, after Wichita Falls had won eight straight games. The Bruins achieved this feat by collecting 13 blows off Jimmy Brett, and Morgan. Saturday, however, the Spudders came right back and whipped the Bears, 5-4, though they were outhit by Bob Coleman's outfit. Sensational catches were turned in by Manager Tanner and by Howard Fitzgerald, former Texas Longhorn star. Tanner is getting up in years, but he is yet capable of playing a neat game around the keystone sack.

From present indications, Jakie Ata's Fort Worth Panthers are safely "in." Only the most startling series of upsets imaginable will prevent the Cats from winning their sixth consecutive Texas league pennant. Four games and a half in the van of the Spudders at the close of last week's play, with practically every man on the club swatting the horsehide on the nose, and with a pitching staff breezing along easily behind stellar support in the field and at the bat, the Cats are hardly likely to crack. To the contrary, they are apt to become even harder to beat as the season wears on, for no one has ever denied that Fort Worth is now and has been for the past several years represented by great aggregations of "money players," athletes who show their best form when the going is the roughest and need the greatest.

3 SEAPLANES START FRIDAY TO HONOLULU

Third Ship Reaches Frisco After Forced Landing At San Pedro.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—(AP)—The PN-9 No. 1 third naval seaplane which will attempt a non-stop flight to Honolulu next Friday landed at Crissy Field at 5:50 p. m., after being forced down at San Pedro by an oil leak.

Light Showers In Many Sections Of C. Texas End Heat

AUSTIN, Aug. 23.—Austin had a brief but heavy shower of rain Sunday afternoon, which was sufficient to break up the second game of the double header at the local ball park; to lay the dust and to break the hot weather which prevailed earlier in the day.

It was estimated approximately a quarter of an inch of rain fell here.

BUDA, Texas, Aug 23.—Light showers here Sunday afternoon broke the heat of the day and gave promise of heavier rain during the night. Clouds were banked in the east. The shower was sufficient to lay the dust and revive the grass, but unless followed by more rain will be of little benefit to crops.

PFLUGERVILLE, Texas, Aug. 23.—A trace of rain fell here during Sunday afternoon and there were indications heavier downfall might follow.

MANOR, Texas, Aug. 23.—Manor had a shower Sunday afternoon, in what appeared to be a general light rainfall throughout this section, with heavy showers in some sections.

Five Prisoners Walk Out of Jail

ATOKA, Okla., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Five prisoners walked out the front door of the Atoka county jail early today. County officials said that either the door was not securely locked, or one of the men had a key.

GULF FISHERMEN SAFE

Coast Guards At Galveston Report No Distress Calls Received

GALVESTON, Aug. 23.—Fears of Houston relatives that the electrical storm and squall of Saturday night might have endangered fishing parties that had come here for the week-end were apparently groundless as coast guards today reported they had had no distress calls.

Although the phone at the San Luis Pass station, 30 miles west down the island, was out of order, that vicinity is little frequented by week-end fishermen.

THE WEATHER

"I'm glad I've got that court plaster on my chin, because people look at it an' don't notice my patch."

LYRICS OF LIFE.
By Douglas Malloch.
The Fullness Thereof.

Earth, and the fullness thereof—
And a fullness of complainin'.
You'd think there wasn't a bit of love,
And there wasn't a thing but rainin'.
How easy it is to just forget
The joy we've had and the folks we've met,
But I have found it, I'm glad to say,
A rather good world the whole of the way.

Earth, and the fullness thereof.
And never your eyes you open
But you see some sort of a sky above
And you find some cause for hopin'.
For even a sky that's gray, say I,
Is, anyway, a sort of a sky.
I've had my trouble, but I've come through it;
It always had some sort of handle to it.

Earth, and the fullness thereof.
Is a good old Scripture sayin',
Woman ain't always a turtle-dove,
And our job ain't always Mayin';
But I've always said, and I still insist,
There never would be a pessimist
If he stopped to think of the joy in the worth,
Of the earth, and of all of the things of earth.

IDENTIFY TRAIN VICTIM

Mangled Body on Tracks Near Waco Is that of Post Oak, Man

WACO, Aug. 23.—The mangled body found Saturday on the I. & G. N. tracks at Tekla switch, near Waco, was today identified as that of Matt Hand, 26, of Post Oak, 12 miles south of Bremond.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hand, his parents, viewed the body this afternoon and identified it as that of their son, who left their home Wednesday.

MINNICK RETURNS

S. H. Minnick, sergeant of the city police force who has been confined to his home with illness for the past six weeks, was able to be down town for a brief time Sunday.

ONE OF MEN FINDING BODY IS LOCKED UP

Police Not Yet Ready To File Charges But Have Clues.

FACTS DEVELOPED

New Information Brought Out Sunday In Investigation.

A single arrest and a more settled conviction on the part of police officers that they have a murder case to deal with and not an accident were the developments Sunday in the investigation of the death of W. A. Hood, American Refining company workman, who was found shortly after 12 o'clock Friday underneath a railroad bridge in North Wichita. He was in an unconscious condition and died a few hours later.

The arrest came in the detention and booking for investigation of the proprietor of a store near the scene of the affair. This man, in the original aspect of the affair, was one of the first to discover the body of Hood underneath the bridge. With another man he went to the scene, saw the man lying below them and called an ambulance and the sheriff's department.

New Facts Developed.

Yesterday's investigation developed several facts, however, two or three of which contrafute statements of the storeman and which led finally to his arrest.

Hood went to the American Refining company plant north of the city and took a bath shortly after 10 o'clock Friday morning and left there with more than $60 on his person.

What wasn't known until yesterday was that Hood took a North Wichita street car back to Wichita Falls and left it at about 11:30 at the corner of Eighth and Ohio. His unconscious form was discovered about an hour later under the bridge.

Why, after just coming from the refinery, he should see fit to make the trip back again is one of the unanswerable angles of the case to the police.

Written statements from a man and his son, both witnesses to the discovery of the body, and from the man under arrest show discrepancies in several important details regarding the discovery of the body and the action of the man under arrest following the discovery.

Not On Bridge

It is the belief now that Hood's body was not even knocked off the bridge; that by some means or other the "highjacking," if such it was, occurred beneath the bridge. In support of this contention it is pointed out Hood was a heavy man and that in falling the more than 20 feet his body would have been more broken up and bruised than it was, it actually showing hardly a bruised spot other than the place on the head from which he died and which is believed to have been the work of a sandbag or billy club. Then too, the body was found too far underneath the bridge to have fallen there.

And, the police think this a cardinal point, a package of cigarettes and a box of matches were found with the cap and Hood is known never to have smoked.

With the strengthened convictios that they have just touched the inner working of the attack that brought about Hood's death, police are working harder than ever on the case, and believe that by nightfall tonight they will have something more to say regarding its solution. Questioning of the man under arrest is expected to provide still other developments.

MAGEE'S THIRD COURT FIGHT HIS HARDEST

New Mexico Editor Is Now Facing Murder Charge In East Las Vegas.

EAST LAS VEGAS, N. M., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Carl C. Magee, Albuquerque editor and principal in New Mexico's politics, on Wednesday will enter his fourth fight in the courts of the state, this time on a charge of murder.

The Albuquerque editor left here yesterday for his home after he had been accused of being the slayer of Lasseter by a complaint and after he had posted a $10,000 bond.

Former Judge Leahy, whose fistic onslaught upon Magee in a hotel here Friday night brought about the shooting, is painfully injured at his home here with his left arm broken by two of Magee's shots.

Mayor Sees Great Future For Next Year's Open Air Union Church Services

In closing the last of the open-air community services at Bellevue park last night predictions for a still greater season for the idea of community religious gatherings in Wichita Falls for next year were made by Mayor R. E. Shepherd and Rev. Milo Atkinson, pastor of the First Christian church, and speaker for the evening.

Mayor Shepherd, in a brief talk preceding the sermon last night, promised the co-operation of the city officials in any plan that might be worked out by the pastors' association for the services for next year. Just what scope these plans might assume, however, was divulged by Rev. Atkinson who stated that seats for 10,000 people or more with modern loud speaking amplifying equipment to reach into every corner of the park would be possible and probable for the opening of the services next summer.

It was pointed out that in the four meetings held in August of this year the congregations every night numbered considerably more than 4,000 people. Without amplifying equipment and a sounding board back of the pulpit it would have been impossible for the speaker to make himself heard by more, however.

This condition will be remedied by next year.

Roberts' Pitching and Bodie's Batting Get Victory For Spudders, 5-3

PING BOOSTS HOMER TOTAL WITH 2 MORE

Meanwhile Big Jim Hurls Great Game and Bears Leave With Tails in Ice.

Behind the steady pitching of Big Jim Roberts and the hitting of Ping Bodie the Spudders took the third and final game from the San Antonio Bears by the total count of 5 to 3 Sunday afternoon at Spudder park. This gave the Spudders the best two out of three from the Bears, and ten wins in the last eleven games on the home lot.

Roberts held the Bears hitless for five innings, and whiffed seven batters. Ping Bodie, frolicking Spud first sacker, had a great day in the game. The first sacker smacked out a single and two home runs. He was given one free pass to first. The two non-stop blows ran his total for the season up to 33.

The Spudders were in great form and the game was run off with but one bobble, and this was committed by Chief Nason, San Antonio left field gardener. The Spudders' scores were due largely to home runs.

Two Homers in First.

The Spuds piled up a two-run lead off Bob Couchman, when the old warhorse met with the bats of Ping Bodie and Alex Metzler. After attempting to bunt Metzler caught one and drove it over the double decked right field fence for a home run. Two men were then retired, and Ping Bodie drove No. 33 over the left field fence.

With this lead to the good Jim Roberts breezed through the first five innings without being touched for a hit. In these five innings only two men reached first base, Boos and Meyers, both on walks.

The Spudders ran their total up to four in the sixth inning, Distel beat out an infield hit to short. Fitzgerald grounded out, Ditsel taking second. Ping Bodie then sailed No. 33 over the right center field double decked palings, Distel trotting over the pan ahead of him.

Rosenthal Gets Homer.

Si Rosenthal smashed one over the left field fence for San Antonio's first run. This seemed to rile up the big right-hander of the Spud tossing department, and he shut down on the scoring for that inning. Washburn fanned. Wirts went out, Query to Bodie, and Boos popped out to Query.

The Bears counted the remaining pair of their scores in the eighth inning. Warwick batted for Couchman and singled to center. Mike Gonzales popped to Tanner. Meyers bunted down the third baseline, and was tossed out at first. Warwick taking second. Nason singled to center, and Warwick crossed the pan. Clark lined a double against the right field wall scoring Nason. Clark was tagged out when he overran second base on his hit.

Ice Game in Eighth.

The Spudders iced the game away in the eighth inning with another tally. Metzler walked. Distel sacrificed, Washburn to Clark, the latter covering the bag. Fitzgerald grounded out, Metzler taking third. Bodie was passed deliberately by Collard who decided he would rather face Scrap Iron Tanner in he pinch, but the Spudder skipper upset the dope with a long hit to right center. Rosenthal knocked it down after a hard run and held Tanner at first, and Bodie at third, but Metzler scored.

Steers Here Today.

Salps Conley will lead his Thunderless Herd into the Spudders' own back yard today for the first of a three-game series. As a personal guess we would say that Tanner uses Robert Osborn. El Paso wonder, against old Karl Eberhard, Spudder heaver of other days.

Houston, Minus a Catcher, Compelled to Give Up Battle, 9-0.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 23.—Skipper Atz' champion Cats won a double header from Houston Sunday, 10 to 1 and 9 to 0, the second game being a forfeit. "Lefty" Johns pitched superb ball in the first game keeping six hits well scattered. Peel's home run was the only score for the visitors. Fifteen hits, featured by Edington's home run with the bases full in the third, mounted the Cats' score to 10. The second game was declared forfeited to Fort Worth 9 to 0 when Manager Goodwin was unable to send his team to the field, being minus a catcher. Catcher Goff struck for the second out in the first inning and objected strenuously to Daly. Daly ordered him to the bench. Goff directed some remarks to Daly, who stopped the game and ordered Goff out of the park. The ball game went ahead. Compton filled out for the third out. Catcher McCurdy is in the hospital suffering from the results of a "bean ball." Manager Goodwin asked Daly to re-enter the game, for he did not have a catcher. Daly refused, and after Skipper Jake Atz walked out to the field, Daly announced he would have to forfeit the game as Houston could not take the field. Score:

Millions Dies Of Indigestion

Most Common, Yet Insidious of Fatal Diseases, Strikes Like Lightning and When Least Expected.

Protect yourself by strengthening your digestive organs with Ferraline—then eat what you please without trouble.

Nature, with Her infinite wisdom, has provided in Ferraline a quick and sure relief for the millions who are living in constant fear of that dreaded disease—Indigestion. Ferraline is not a concoction made by man but is a strictly natural product, and contains the essential elements which Nature has provided to strengthen and tone up the weakened organs of digestion.

Indigestion and weak blood march hand-in-hand. No dyspeptic can have pure rich blood until his digestion is made perfect again. Stomach disorders always weaken the blood and weak blood causes anaemia, weakness and nervousness.

If you have had warnings of Indigestion do not delay another day to accept the positive guarantee that your money will be promptly and cheerfully refunded if the very first bottle of Ferraline does not give you relief. Don't be misled into believing that heart-burn, gas, bloating, constipation, biliousness, sick stomach, heart and kidney pains will gradually go away. These are danger signals warning you that the dread disease, Indigestion, is gradually sapping your very life. Regenerate your digestive organs at once with Ferraline, then you can eat three good meals every day without discomfort. A 10-day's treatment of Ferraline will cost you only One Dollar at your druggists. The Ferraline Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Adv.

Majors Soon to Concede Pirates As New National Champions

PIRATES AND GIANTS SPLIT DOUBLE BILL

However, Pittsburgh Continues to Hold Lead By Five-Game Margin.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates drew an even break in a twin program with the New York Giants today, winning the second game 3 to 2, after tossing the opener 7 to 4. Pittsburgh continues to lead in the National league flag race by a five-game margin. Rawlings, a New York castoff, drove in the winning run for the Corsairs. A crowd of 55,000 saw the games, thousands of others being turned away. The grandstand was sold out an hour before the first game started and the crowd was so dense that police stopped traffic blocks from the grounds.

New York won the first game through timely hitting against the veteran Babe Adams in early innings. Meusel, who was hit by a pitched ball, scored the first run in the second inning on singles by Terry and Jackson.

Adams Retired.

Bunched hits in the following stanza by Frisch, Young, Meusel and Terry brought about the retirement of Adams, in favor of Sheehan, after three runs were registered. A single by Kelly gave the Giants another tally before the side was retired. Sheehan yielded two more runs in the fifth inning on singles by Young, Meusel and Terry and the pitchers' wild throw.

Kent Greenfield held the Corsairs helpless until the eighth when he blew up without warning. With one out, Wright, Grantham, Smith, Moore, Bigbee and Rawlings hit safely, four runs resulting. Scott was rushed int othe box. It was said afterwards that Greenfield strained a muscle in his right arm during the inning.

Inability to hit with men on bases proved costly to the Giants in the second game as they got only two runs out of 13 hits off Morrison and Oldham and 13 of their number were left on base.

Rawlings Hits Winner.

The Giants got off to a one-run lead in the first inning on Southworth's single. Frisch's infield out and Young's single. Pittsburgh tied in the fourth when Traynor singled, took second on Meusel's fumble and scored on Wright's double. New York regained the lead in its half on a base on balls to Jackson and singles by Hartley, Fitzsimmons and Southworth.

In the seventh Grantham singled, took second on Gooch's out and scored the winning run on a single by Pinch-er Hitter McInnis. Bigbee ran for McInnis, took second on Moore's sacrifice and came home with the winning run on a double by Rawlings.

CASTOFF WINS GAME FROM DETROIT, 6-4

Pitcher Who Couldn't Make Boston and New York Teams, Wins.

DETROIT, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Alex Ferguson, Boston and New York castoff, held Detroit to four scattered hits and Washington won today's game 6 to 4, a home run by Stanley Harris in the seventh, scoring Ferguson and Rice, gave Washington the runs that were the margin of its victory. After holding Detroit to two hits up to the ninth, Ferguson faltered, allowing two hits and passing two men. Marberry who relieved him, pitched one ball. Rigney driving it to Rice in deep right field for the last put out of the game. Score:

Iowa Park Drubs Record News 7-1

The Iowa Park club defeated the Record News club Sunday afternoon by the total tabulation of 7 to 1. The game was nip and tuck until errors and base hits in the eighth let four runs in for Iowa Park. Dahl, Iowa Park pitcher, whiffed ten of the Record News batters. Reid, of the Record News, and Van Horn, of Iowa Park, led the hitters with three hits in four times up. Thorne had a big time at third base, accepting ten chances without a bobble. The Record News team is open for a game next Sunday.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 23.—(AP)—For the third successive day Cleveland defeated New York by one run, today's score being 7 to 6. Both Shocker and Karr, who started the game, were knocked out of the box. Speece who replaced Karr did not allow a man to reach first. Pennock was also effective until the ninth when J. Sewell reached third when Combs let his single go through him. Burns was passed purposely and with Spurgeon at bat a wild pitch scored Sewell.

Ruth made his 14th homer of the year, Karr being the pitcher. Score:

Says Lively Ball Hasn't Been Tamed

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(AP)—No change in the so-called lively baseball has been made in the National league with the knowledge of officials, according to a statement by President John A. Heydler. Commenting on an opinion expressed by John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, that the manufacture of the ball has been altered within the last few weeks, Mr. Heydler said: "It was my information that even if the manufacturers wanted to change the balls this year it would be impossible for them to do so, since the machines on which the balls are wound had been set at a certain tension which could not be lowered. Also, it must be remembered that most of the clubs are well stocked with balls and will receive no new consignments this year.

NATIONAL HEALTH AND HAPPINESS.

Herbert Hoover is a Californian. He is one of the able and popular members of the Coolidge cabinet. He made a trans-continental tour in July. He found prosperity everywhere in the west. He found the western world on wheels. This is what he said in a newspaper interview, speaking of the western people:

"I found them camping out in their automobiles in the hills and valleys west of the Mississippi. It is estimated that five million are so encamped and by the end of the summer the people who have thus enjoyed the out doors will exceed twelve million."

This compelled the editor of the New York Times to remark the vacation habit is not merely an evidence of prosperity; "it is an important contribution to national health and happiness." If Herbert Hoover found millions of westerners in July camping out in the hills and valleys west of the Mississippi he should have covered the hills and valleys of New England in August.

He should have covered the Canadian provinces; he should have taken a close-up view of the famous lake states—Michigan and Wisconsin and Minnesota. He should have toured the White mountains, the Green mountains, the Adirondacks, in fact all the mountain resort sections east of the Mississippi river.

All the tourists of the middle west know the great highway which leads from Chicago and Detroit to the Canadian provinces where there is a moisture which does not come with local showers. Canadians are thrifty. They are wise when it comes to making money. They are making the American tourists "feel at home." They furnish him light wines and beer with his meals.

It is a three days' run by motor vehicle from New York to Quebec and a four days' run from New York to Montreal. Montreal is the greatest city from a commercial viewpoint north of the Canadian border line. It has a population of 650,000. Quebec from the historic viewpoint is the most important of all Canadian cities. It has a population of 125,000.

Prohibition is not an issue in these French Canadian cities. The government has a monopoly of the liquor business. It issues permits for the sale of light wine and ale and beer and the profits go into the treasury. American tourists are supporting the schools and building the highways of the French Canadians.

American tourists who go to Europe are assisting the people of France in the payment of their war debts and debts of all kinds. And yet there are French statesmen who insist upon the cancellation of the war loans made by the United States government to the republic of France in war time. It is said that there are 400,000 American tourists on the continent of Europe this year and not a single tourist who has the price ever overlooks Paris and its gay life.

MAINE ON THE MAP.

Now a project has been let loose by Dexter P. Cooper and associates of New York to generate 700,000 electric horse power by harnessing the tides of the Bay of Fundy in two inlets near Eastport, Me. Engineer Cooper estimates the cost of the project at about $75,000,000 and he believes construction could be completed in five years.

He says that the project is feasible from an engineering standpoint and the most promising development in the electric world in a decade. He plans that the flow of the tide shall be regulated by a system of enormous gates and a state-wide referendum is to be taken in Maine on September 14 to decide whether, if the scheme is carried out, the sale of power outside the state shall be permitted.

Canadian lawmakers refuse to permit the sale of power outside of the Canadian provinces. This is one reason why Andrew W. Mellon and his associates have planned to spend $75,000,000 in the near future in the super-power business in French Canada. In all the New England states private enterprize harnesses the lakes and the rivers and generates power.

This is the reason why New England is the home of factories large and small and the wealth of the world has poured into the pockets of New England for many decades. Now the Carolinas and other states are taking the lead in harnessing their rivers and mountain streams and rapidly becoming among the foremost of the manufacturing states of America. And why not Texas?

"BLOOD IS THICKER THAN WATER."

And now what is known as the Aluminum Trust has invaded Canada. It is of American parentage. Its ramifications are world wide. An immense amount of power is controlled by the company in the United States and now the water power concession it has obtained from the French-Canadian government is said to be worth milions.

This company is immensely wealthy with total assets in excess of $150,000,000. It is said the last balance sheet on file in the financial postoffice of Canada shows a surplus of nearly a hundred million dollars. There has been no balance sheet made public since 1921.

The Canadian combination represents a union of the Mellon and Davis interests and the Duke and the Price interests and the Canadian papers say that it is one of the most powerful combinations of capital that has ever invaded the Dominion.

It should be remembered that the United States offers a market for aluminum larger than the combined markets of the rest of the world. This company will practically control the aluminum business of the United States and its super-power holdings in Canada will make the combination a dominating influence in all the provinces of the Dominion.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.

The Great Secret.

Who, even ten years ago would have foreseen a time when moving pictures, synchronized with the voices of the actors who made them, could be broadcast for hundreds of miles without wires?

Who would have dreamed twenty years ago of the journey of a doctor to attend a patient 500 miles through the air in the space of a few short hours?

Who would have believed it possible to print in a newspaper pictures of events a thousand miles away, and to have the paper on the street and for sale to its readers within a few hours after the events had happened.

This present age of physical miracles could be only dimly predicted by people who live in the past.

Wonders will be done by the human mind five, ten, fifteen years in the future of which none of us today can have any possible conception.

Just recently scientists who have been taking solar observations announced that there are two elements in existence which are as yet undiscovered.

Suppose these elements, when they are isolated, and put to use prove as valuable as radium and helium, which have only been known, in very modern times.

Tennyson in "Locksley Hall" tells us that he glimpsed into the future as far as human eye could see.

But the future is a direction of low visibility. What it holds for us we cannot even guess.

A convulsion of nature may throw up a whole archipelago of islands in the Atlantic or the Pacific, at the same time destroying cities which have taken ages to build.

A south wind, blowing steadily for four or five days, which is quite possible, might combine with an extremely high tide to inundate the lower part of the great city of New York, and put an end to business for a week.

A man now living, and thinking, may possess the magnetism and the colossal selfishness to become another Napoleon.

Speculating on the future is an entertaining pastime. But it is not helpful, unless together with the speculation one does what he can to make it better.

That, fortunately is possible, provided no unforeseen calamity intervenes, and the world goes on as we have every reason to expect that it will.

We do know from past experience that there is an excellent prospect of reaping the harvests that we have sown, that money put into the savings bank is likely to yield interest, and that intelligent plans are likely to work out—probably more satisfactorily than we can foresee at the time we make them.

The future is the great secret, yet we have grounds for the belief that it can be made more pleasant by our efforts and care. The past is our only clue to it. But it is a sufficiently reliable clue to be well worth following up.

DRILLING THE GOLDEN SANDS.

A recent issue of The Oil Trade says the petroleum industry of the United States at the present is completing about 80 oil wells daily, which represent an expenditure of $1,340,000 a day or more than $930, a minute for drilling equipment. For the full year 1925 it is estimated a total of about 24,000 oil wells will have been drilled, involving the purchase of drilling equipment valued at $385,000,000.

In addition the companies are called upon to lay out large sums for labor and for other supplies incidental to the transportation and storage of oil. Oil Trade says that the cost of drilling an oil well ranges from $5,000 to $100,000 and averages about $26,000 per well drilled for the entire country. Of this amount about $16,000 represents drilling equipment and supplies.

At present it is stated there are about 4,500 wells drilling throughout the country and about 1,300 rigs up on new locations. This brings the new well operations up to an aggregate of 5,800 and the new operations represent $92,000,000 invested in equipment and materials.

Oklahoma leads all states in the number of wells drilled. Oil Trade says it costs about $35,000 to drill a well in Oklahoma, of which $22,000 represents equipment and supplies. Oklahoma will probably have drilled about 6,000 wells for the twelve months ending December 31, 1925, which means that in this state alone approximately $130,000,000 will be spent for drilling equipment this year.

Texas, with a potential demand for drilling equipment this year aggregating $80,000,000 ranks second to Oklahoma. Oil Trade has made an estimate that a total of about 5,000 wells will be drilled in Texas in 1925 at an estimated cost for drilling equipment of $16,000 per well.

"On account of the thin sands encountered in East Central Texas sensational gushers have proven very short lived, especially in the Mexia field" is the verdict of the publication referred to in the foreword of this article. For Texas as a whole the estimated average cost of drilling a well to the producing sand ranges from $25,000 to $50,000 but it is believed by the editor of the trade newspaper that $16,000 represents a fair average to apply to the entire state as the net cost of drilling equipment.

California, he says, ranks third on the map as a potential buyer of drilling equipment with a probable demand this year of $54,000,000. For the state as a whole the estimated average cost for drilling equipment per well is $60,000. There are about 440 wells drilling throughout California at the present time but the net result for the year will probably show about 900 new wells completed.

Arkansas, Kansas, Louisiana and Ohio rank in the order named after Oklahoma, Texas and California. Tennessee is the smallest buyer of drilling equipment. According to Oil Trade the dry hole hazard in drilling is roughly about 25 per cent for the entire country, which means that if the wildcatters drill 24,000 wells this year 6,000 of these will be dry holes.

At a total cost which averages $26,000 per well these dry holes will cost the oil industry about $156,000,000. Oil Trade says all of this amount is not dead loss as about $42,000,000 worth of equipment can be salvaged leaving a net loss to the industry of $114,000,000. Texas should win first place in 1926.

WONDERS OF SCIENCE.

A great English scientist has dislodged the alpha particles from radium at a speed equivalent to more than 10,000 miles a second. Now he is using them to bombard electrons, atoms and other minute and elusive things. The funny thing is that these alpha particles are so small that no miscroscope can possibly disclose them. The layman will wonder how the scientist knows they are there—especially when they run so fast.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE.

Virgo.

Today's planetary aspects are fairly good and indicate a moderate degree of success along conservative lines. They are more auspicious for work of a mechanical or an inventive nature than for ordinary commercial occupations. There are no very stimulating vibrations, but an atmosphere will exist—creative of a desire to reflect, study and experiment. In business affairs, no departures from the accustomed field of activity, especially as there will be sensed a desire to do well those tasks which ordinarily prove monotonous, and your daily routine will assume a more cheerful aspect than usual.

A child born today will, physically, leave very little to be desired, as its phenomenal recuperative powers, backed by a strong and vigorous constitution, will enable it to overcome both effectually and effectively and slight ailments from which it may suffer. Its disposition will be amiable and willing—too much so for its own good, as external influences, either for good or for bad, will dictate its actions and conduct. The great difficulty with this child will be lack of will power and determination. Consequently, every effort should be made to surround it, in its early days, with good wholesome environment.

If today is your birthday, you have a host of friends, who all think very highly of you as a result of your generous disposition, your affectionate nature, your farsightedness and the accuracy and reliability of your judgment. You are eminently fair and just in your dealings with others, and your word is as goos as your bond.

You are, although possibly not a performer, very fond of music, and your opinion, in this essential, is highly valued. You possess much ability and talent and have delightful conversational powers, as you are amusing, instructive and solicitous, for the happiness and welfare of those that love you and whom you love.

Slays One, Tries To Kill Two Others

TUCSON, Ariz., Aug. 23.—(AP).—James Dodson was shot and instantly killed in his real estate office here late yesterday by Albert Shackelford, who surrendered to Chief of Police Jack Dyer. He also attempted to shoot Dodson's brother and another man, but the revolver failed to explode. Shackelford was a candidate for mayor of Douglas, Ariz., in 1921.

FORESTS STILL BURNING

NELSON, B. C., Aug. 23.—(AP).—A fire that Friday destroyed the town of Boundary, in American territory near where the Columbia river crosses the line between Canada and the United States, was yesterday reported under control. Back firing was credited with saving the village of Waneta, in the Pend Oreille valley in British Columbia, north of Boundary.

2 HURT IN FREIGHT WRECK

SALIDA, Colo., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Two trainmen were seriously injured when a freight train was wrecked last night on the Denver and Rio Grande Western railway tracks about two miles from Buena Vista, Colo., and eight miles from the scene of the collision of two passenger trains on the same line on Thursday.

Chapman Says His Pal Did Not Slay Ben Hance and Wife

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 23.—(AP).—Gerald Chapman when informed yesterday that Ben Hance and his wife were murdered August 14 near Muncie, Ind., and that his longtime confederate, George (Dutch) Anderson, was accused of it, declared that Anderson "was incapable of such a rotten deal."

The news, which had been withheld from Chapman by the state prison authorities, was carried to him by his counsel, Frederick J. Goehl of New York, and Nahtan O. Freedman of this city.

Told that Hance, in his dying statement, had said it was Anderson and Charles (One-Arm) Wolfe, who did the shooting, Chapman, referring to Anderson, exclaimed:

"Why the man wouldn't be within a thousand miles of that place. It would be the last place in the world he would go to."

HOW IT STARTED

Calling It a "Crest."

It is interesting to know that the word "crest" for the heraldic emblem which in Europe manifests a family tree and which in this democratic country is occasionally found on a lady's stationery, or perhaps her motor car, had its origin in the barnyard.

The crests which we know in modern life are engraved reproductions of the original "crest" worn on the helmet of a fighting ancestor. Occupying the highest place on the helmet, it was the stuffed bird or bowknot or other insignia which constituted his crest by which the heavily armored knight was recognized and known by his friends.

And it was from its position on the helmet that the crest received its name, for the original crest is the tuft or comb found on top of the heads of birds, most familiarly, the comb of the cock, our friend of the barnyard.

Gunmen Kill Tenth New York Officer

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(AP).—The killing yesterday of Patrolman David A. Sheehan in a fight with three robbers was the police department's tenth human sacrifice to gunmen since January 1, 1924, and closed a week of heavy casualties.

Three other policemen were wounded Thursday, one of them seriously. Yesterday's fatality was the second of the month.

Forest Fire Loss Is 2 to 6 Million

BOONE, N. C., Aug. 23.—(AP).—The two-day forest fire on Grandfather mountain in the Blue Ridge range continued yesterday to send up columns of smoke but the flames had been extinguished except in scattered places.

Unofficial estimates place the timber damage at figures ranging from $2,000,000 to $6,000,000.

WOMAN LEGION CHIEF DIES

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 23.—Mrs. Carolyn Talbot of Ketchikan, Alaska, national chaplain of the woman's auxiliary of the American Legion, died here yesterday. She was born in Grand Rapids, Mich., 56 years ago.

IRRIGATION

The Irrigation District's Present to Mr. Waggoner.

If it is a fact that Mr. Waggoner is leasing the land bordering on Lake Kemp for camp sites then it will be of interest to calculate roughly the increase in value of his lands on account of the building of the lake.

The flood rights for Lake Kemp were sold to the irrigation district for about $15.00 per acre. If we take this as establishing the value of the land then we have a basis for comparison.

If the land is now being leased for $25 per acre per year and money is worth 10 per cent then this leased land is making a return on a value of $250 per acre.

We are informed that these leased tracts run back approximately 1,000 feet from the flood line of the full reservoir.

The total length of the shore line of Lake Kemp is about 125 miles. We understand that only about half of the total length of this shore line is to be divided into leaseholds. This being the case we have a strip of land 62 miles long and 1,000 feet wide.

Such a strip of land would contain about 7,450 acres which at $250 per acre is worth about $1,860,000.

The same amount of land at $15 per acre which is all it was worth before the building of the big dam, would be valued at about $111,750, or an increase in value on account of the money spent by the irrigation district of about $1,750,000.

Mr. Waggoner should have a very kindly feeling toward the folks who have made him a present of such a sum of money.

From Mr. Waggoner's standpoint there can be no question about the irrigation project being a success.

Missing Indian Heiress Is Found

VINITA, Okla., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Maude Lee Mudd Gordon has been found. She is with her mother and two half sisters near Coffeyville, Kan., is was disclosed here yesterday.

The Indian heiress left her husband, Earl Gordon, in Los Angeles, because they couldn't "get along," an announcement by William Simms, United States probate attorney and her guardian, stated. Annulment of the marriage will be sought.

Zionist Meet In Vienna Is Heckled

VIENNA, Aug. 23.—(AP).—The assemblage of anti-semitic demonstrators or so-called "peoples' convention," was held yesterday afternoon in accordance with a program, but disturbances which were feared did not eventuate. The Hankenkreuzlers numbered about 15,000 and shouts of derision—"out with the Jews," "down with the Jews"—were about the strongest words used.

RAIL SHOPS BURNED

Loss Is $350,000 as Flames Sweep Southern Railway Plant.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 23.—(AP).—Fire sweeping through the Coster shops of the Southern railway late yesterday destroyed the planing mill, coach and freight car repair shops and partially destroyed the paint shop, entailing a loss of probably $250,000 in buildings, cars and equipment.

The fire started in the freight car repair shed and spread quickly. Low water pressure hampered fire fighting forces. No check of cars lost has yet been made.

The attack was launched with such suddenness that only his quick eye and steady nerves saved him.

Her highly trained, athletic little body braced, she had moved almost imperceptibly to spring with the quick, noiseless bound of a wild animal, the gleaming knife she flashed from her fouta driving straight at his breast.

The keen point was within an inch of his heart when he caught her wrist with fingers of steel, jerking her violently backwards. And as she reeled his arm closed swiftly round her, gripping her quivering body till she wondered if her ribs would crack under the merciless pressure that seemed to be crushing the very life out of her. Gasping for breath, she stared up at his livid, passion-distorted face while, slowly and cruelly, he tightened his hold on her wrist until the pain of it was more than she could bear and a low moan broke from her as her hand unclosed, dropping the knife which fell with a soft thud onto the carpet. For a moment she braved him, her wild eyes fixed on his, her bosom heaving tumultuously. Then, all at once, her despair she went limp in his arms, weeping as he had never heard a woman weep before.

But the sight of her tears did not move him, and, with a terrible laugh, he flung her on the rug at his feet.

"Allah have mercy on thee, little fool," he cried furiously, "for thou shalt have none from me."

She heard the crash of the door as it slammed behind him, and for long after he was gone she lay where she had fallen, writhing and moaning in an agony, sobbing as if her heart would break. What had she done! O Allah, what had she done, what madness had come to her? With evil spirit had tempted that she should steal the weapon from the trophies in the outer room, should strive to kill the loved one who had loved her once? She had schemed his death whose life was more precious to her than her own—no, no, not she, but that wicked spirit that had forced her hand that had fled forever in that awful moment when she realized what she had so nearly achieved. If she had hurt him—O Allah, if she had wounded him, her master, her lord! What if he had been cruel—all men were cruel, and was she not his to do with as he would? And whatever he did she could only love him, love him until the madness that had come to him, too, passed, and his love turned to her again. Some day he would know that she had not lied to him, that she had never known her footsteps were tracked that morning she had gone to him, never known the treachery intended that had made her seem so false. Just now, in her madness, and to anger him, she had feigned to know more than she really knew, had let him think she held the key to the knowledge he desired. But the Moor's hiding place was all she could tell him—that, and nothing more. For what had she to do with the secret workings of the man who had, ill-used her from babyhood, whose image was mixed with dim, faint memories that were like shadowy dreams of a time when gentle hands had touched her, and a sweet, sad voice had crooned the half-forgotten lullaby that still fitfully haunted her? And what, also, had she to do with the brutal, Arab-speaking Alman, whose lustful eyes had filled her with sick terror? Because of some curious feeling she could not define she would not betray them, but they were nothing to her, who had lived only as a slave amongst them, who had endured a life of misery and revolt until he—the stranger-lover whose magnificence had dazzled her—had come to open her eyes to love. And for those few short hours of happiness he had loved her, too! O Allah, turn his heart and make him love once more—make him know, and believe, and trust her once again!

Face downwards on the thick, soft rug, she prayed, weeping until she had no more tears to shed, until, broken and spent with emotion, she lay exhausted, her tired brain throbbing, her weary little body bruised and aching with the violence of his powerful hands.

Did life mean nothing but suffering, she wondered as her mind turned slowly to the past weeks of agony that had seemed to her like a living death, that had made of her a thing insensible to everything but the memory of the joy that had been torn from her. Callously they had told her of her lover's fate, and her frenzied sorrow had only provoked their anger.

And, as day succeeded day, she had lived with only one thought, the hope that soon she, too, would be beyond the cruelty of the human fiend who had tortured her even when she was a helpless child. She had always feared him, always shrunk from him with an instinctive feeling of horror and loathing. But hatred she had never known before had come to her when he had lied, boasting of the deed that had broken her heart and made her see him stained with her lover's blood.

Her lover! A great sob shook her. No lover would have done what he had done to her last night. His love was dead. And when he came again . . . Shivering, she dragged herself to her feet and stood looking about her sorrowfully, panting with the little shuddering sighs that still escaped her lips.

When he came again love would give her strength to bear whatever he might choose to do. For nothing now could kill the passion that was burning like a living thing within her.

Her sad eyes, roving listlessly, passed over the scattered jewels she had scorned, to wear till they rested at last on the knife he had left lying on the rug where she had dropped it. With a moaning cry she snatched it up and, hurling it with all her strength into a far corner, stumbled to the divan and fell prostrate, burying her face in the cushions.

CHAPTER V.

"The last camp, mon cher."

To Caryll, sitting moodily on a hummock of sand with his back turned to the morning wind and sucking at a pipe which obstinately refused to draw, Saint Hubert's voice sounded almost aggressively cheerful.

He was not, by any means, feeling cheerful himself, and the consciousness of his own dog-in-the-manger attitude—which he was honest enough to admit was schillish to the last degree—did not tend to make him any more so. But how the dickens could one be expected to be cheerful in the midst of such poisonous surroundings, he argued with himself. It was all very well for Uncle Raoul, who liked the country, and who seemed to revel in the "abomination of desolation" through which they had passed. But, for himself, he was sick of the sight of sand, sick of the endless days of uninterrupted monotony—for he did not consider as a relief the two occasions when they had halted to accept hospitality offered them, the first time by the marabouts of a desert zaouia, the second by a local chief of distinction.

Since the day they had left Touggourt he had found the journey a tedium and a weariness beyond expression, and there had not yet been the chance of a shot at anything. And to cap his dissatisfaction there was the memory of that futile exhibition of a few days ago, when fifty or so of his father's tribesmen had arrived to relieve the escort that had come with them from Touggourt; a damned circus parade that had made him go hot and cold all over with sheer discomfort and annoyance, that made him go hot and cold again now as he thought of it. A proper fool he must have looked, with a horde of maniacs galloping all round him yelling like demons and blazing off their rifles with sublime indifference to life and limb! A ridiculous waste of ammunition. Honor to his father's son—good lord! he could have done without the distinction, cheerfully.

His fair face flushed sensitively as he knocked out his pipe with unnecessary violence, and muttered a tardy and unintelligible reply to Saint Hubert's remark.

The count turned from watching the baggage camels that were being loaded up and sat down near him, lighting a cigarette with difficulty. "What did you say?" he queried, screening a match from the wind with both hands. Caryll dragged his coat collar higher, and dug his heels petulantly into the sand.

"I said—thank the lord!" he said, shortly.

Saint Hubert smiled with his usual patience.

"By all means," he agreed serenely. "I'm not going to pretend that the journey has been particularly amusing, especially for one who, like yourself, is not interested in the country. I'll admit it's a dull route we've had to follow. But it gets more interesting further on. And, once we are settled down in camp, there will be more distractions and less monotony. You will be able to get at those famous gun cases of yours, and you will find your father's wonderful horses more than interesting."

Caryll scowled, and shot a quick look at the lazily extended figure beside him. Was he being laughed at? What the devil did Uncle Raoul mean by talking to him as if he were a discontended child who had to be propitiated with toys and offers of amusement! But Saint Hubert's face was guileless and, far from appearing concerned with his companion, his whole interest seemed centered on the breaking up of the camp. Usually by this time in the morning the camel caravan was already on the way. But today there was no need for any early start. The traveling equipment would not be required in the Sheik's camp, and the baggage train was preparing to make the last stage of the journey an easy one and to wander in leisurely at their own sweet will, relieved at last of the necessity of erecting tents and cooking dinners. Some of the camels were already loaded and stalking aimlessly about in peevish discontent; others, still on their knees, were roaring and snarling as bundles were adjusted and ropes tied and retied, loosened and tightened again by the arguing crew of noisy cameleers whose clamor rose raucously above the protestations of their ill-tempered charges. A scene of apparently inextricable confusion, with white-clad, barelegged figures darting hither and thither herding back some overzealous beast who had wandered off too far in the wrong direction, or racing with a forgotten package to toss it up triumphantly on the top of an already corded load, from which it was torn again, with jeers and execrations, to be passed from hand to hand until it found a final resting place.

A confusion, however, which had a certain method of its own, for order dawned slowly out of chaos under the able direction of Saint Hubert's Arab servant, Mohamed, a slim, wiry-looking Kabyle, who had been his personal attendant for the last ten years in succession to Henri, who, married and the father of a family, had been promoted to the stewardship of the count's property in France.

At the far end of one of the horse lines Caryll's man was busily engaged in grooming the magnificent stallion the Sheik had sent to his son. Unabashed by the group of interested and criticizing tribesmen clustered round him, the young Englishman continued his work with nonchalant indifference, keeping up the while a running fire of jovial badinage that was totally incomprehensible to his audience, but which, mixed as it was with a few French and Arabic words he had managed to acquire, was reducing them to paroxysms of mirth.

And, from time to time, his own good-tempered laugh rang out cheerfully. Saint Hubert waved nicotine-stained fingers in his direction.

"Williams, at any rate, seems to thoroughly enjoying himself," he remarked. "He is popular with the men already, and Mohamed is loud in his praises. The Lord only knows how he manages to make himself understood, though Mohamed, as you know, has a smattering of English. But he generally seems to get what he wants. The men had a fete last night—after you were asleep and snoring, mon cher——"

"I wasn't asleep," snorted Caryll. "As if anyone could have slept through that beastly racket!"

Saint Hubert laughed softly. "Weren't you?" he rallied, 'then you were making a very good pretense of it. Well, anyhow, I went to have a look at them—they like it when one takes an interest—and there I found your Mr. Williams rigged out in burnous and turban, and looking a really desperate young cut-throat, banging away on a tom-tom in most approved style and roaring some music-hall song or other at the top of his voice to the enormous delight of all concerned. I'm afraid he wasn't as glad to see me as the others were—but I told him to carry on with the good work and enjoy himself. He's certainly taken wonderfully to the life and seems to have found his metier. He will make an admirable traveling man one of these days. I've half a mind to seduce his young affections and beg him from you when this trip is over, Caryll."

Caryll followed his gaze with an almost wistful look in his eyes.

More Truth Than Poetry

RANK TREACHERY

There is much to be said for some insects:
The bee, though his temper is high,
Is useful to man through the fact that he can
Help out with the honey supply.
The ant, though I hold that his praises
Are something too much overstung,
Is a diligent mite and an uplifting sight
For the eyes of our slovenly young.

But the most of these mean little creatures
That encumber the planet, we find,
Are so base and unfair that they will not play square
With even their own insect kind.
The aphis will prey on the locust,
The beetle will badger the moth,
The whole crawling brood is with evil imbuel—
And cut from the same wicked cloth.

For instance; the men who raise peaches
And fruits of that kind in the west,
In conducting a fight on a dangerous blight
Produced by a wee insect pest—
Have brought bigger insects to help them,
And these, which are mustered in force,
Regard it as sport to eat up their own sort
Without any qualms of remorse.

We hold with alliance of species,
That man should unite unto man
And bug unto bug, be he cricket or slug.
And that each should be true to his clan.
The bug that will war on his fellows
Is engaged in a dastard pursuit,
Which must ever abide lost to honor and pride—
A wicked and treacherous brute.

Legal Notices 91

The State of Texas, county of Wichita, notice is hereby given that by virtue of a certain order of sale issued out of the county court of Wichita county, at law, Wichita county, Texas, on the 10th day of August, 1925, by Alma Y. Miller, M. F. Yeager, deputy, for the sum of $468.79, and costs of suit, under a certain judgment in favor of D. G. Gray, trustee for the Griswold Oil Corporation, bankrupt, in a certain cause in said court No. 7062, and styled D. G. Gray, trustee for Griswold Oil Corporation, bankrupt, vs. Lewis Oil Corporation of Texas, a corporation, and placed in my hands for service, I, Fred K. Smith, sheriff of Wichita county, Texas, did on the 10th day of August, 1925, levy on certain real estate and personal property situated thereon in Wichita county, Texas, described as follows:

E. corner of 14.5 acre tract, herein described; thence east 944 ft. to a stake which is 2,514.6 ft. north of the S. E. corner and on the E. boundary line of Jackson-Hadden survey; thence south 852.1 ft. with the east line of Jackson-Hadden survey 852.1 ft. to the place of beginning, containing 14.45 acres more or less, except a parcel of land heretofore deeded by Chas. F. Linder to Crude Oil Marketing Company, described as follows: Beginning at a stake on the E. line of the Jackson-Hadden survey, 2,168.1 ft. north of the S. E. corner and running thence north 348.5 ft. to a stake; thence west 944 ft. to a stake on the east line of the right of way of the W. F. & N. W. Ry Co. thence following down the E. line of said right of way 21 deg. 27 min. east 178 ft. thence south 25 deg. east 193 ft. thence south 30 deg. 17 min. east 229.1 ft. thence north 31 deg. 39 min. east 223.2 ft. thence east 566.6 to the place of beginning, containing 7 and one-half acres. Together with all improvements and all personal property, to-wit: 6 galvanized oil tanks, 5 small steel oil tanks, 3 large Stell oil tanks, one brick office building, one brick engine house, one brick boiler house; all stills, and connections; all pipe line belonging to said property, located on the above described property, and levied upon as the property of Lewis Oil Corporation of Texas, a corporation, and held by me by virtue of an attachment as described in said judgment; and that on the first Tuesday in September, 1925, the same being the first day of said month, at the court house door of Wichita county, in the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, between the hours of ten a. m. and 4 p. m. by virtue of said levy and said order of sale, I will sell the above described real estate and the personal property thereon situated at public vendue, for cash, to the highest bidder, as the property of said Lewis Oil Corporation of Texas.

And in compliance with law, I give this notice by publication in the English language, once a week for three consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale in the Wichita Falls Record-News, a newspaper published in Wichita county.

Houston Manager And Team Given Stiff Penalties

FORT WORTH, Aug. 23.—As a result of the forfeit to Fort Worth by Manager Marvin Goodwin of the second game of today's double header, following the parking of Catcher Goff in the first inning by Umpire Daly, President Doak Roberts of the Texas league used drastic measures in punishing the offending club and players here today, shortly after the sudden end to the scheduled games.

Manager Marvin Goodwin, who refused to continue without Goff being returned to the field to catch, thereby causing Umpire Daly to forfeit the game to the Cats, was fined $200 by President Roberts for allowing the game to be forfeited. The Houston baseball club was also fined $100 for not having a sub catcher on the field, who could relieve Goff.

Goff, one of the most fiery-tempered players in the league, who has several times of late figured in run-ins with umpires in various parks of the league, who caused today's disturbance by objecting so strenuously to a called third strike that he was ejected from the park, was suspended for the remainder of the season.

President Roberts announced that it was a regrettable incident, the Houston club should be unable to put forth a complete team, and that the huge crowd of 9,000 fans should be disappointed in not seeing both games and for that reason such drastic fines and penalties were needed. Byron Lackie, Fort Worth high school star, was on the Houston bench in uniform at the time, but Manager Goodwin refused to use him in the game.

Catcher McCurdy, who was sold to Chicago a short time ago, is now in a hospital at Mineral Wells, recovering from the effects of a "beaning" suffered in the final game at Wichita Falls, leaving Goff to do all the Houston catching. Goff was temporarily suspended two weeks ago in Houston for throwing his catchers glove at Umpire Daly in the tenth inning of the final game of the series there, when Daly made a decision at first base that allowed the Cats to score what proved to be the winning run. At that time, Houston was but two games behind Fort Worth. Now, the Cats are ten games in front of Houston.

MACKS 3; SOX 0.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Home run smashes by Al Simmons and Bing Miller, the latter with a man on base enabled Philadelphia to shut out Chicago, 3 to 0, today, making their second straight from the locals. Sam Gray, ace of the Athletics' pitching staff, was in fine form and held the White Sox to seven hits, four of which were made by Bib Falk. Ted Lyons also pitched good ball, the two home runs being the only heavy blows off him. Simmons' blow was his 22nd homer of the season. The White Sox were without the services of Manager Eddie Collins, who is in a hospital as a result of straining a ligament in his leg during yesterday's game. Collins will be unable to play for at least a week. One of the largest crowds of the year, about 42,000, witnessed the game. Score:

GIANTS, WHILE STILL FIGHTING, ARE NEARLY OUT

McKechnie Crew Favored To Romp Home in Last Six Weeks of Play.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Major league baseball tonight was almost ready to concede the claims of at least one new championship contender.

Five full games ahead of the Giants after an even break with the four time champions today, the Pirates will leave New York tomorrow with the Giants' opposition temporarily crushed. Had the home club succeeded in matching its remarkable feat of 1921 by standing off the Pirate rush, the outlook for the McKechnie entry would have been less promising. For Pittsburgh leaves after a fifth game with the Giants to face a new menace at Boston, where Dave Bancroft last week led his Braves in a rally from the depths of last place to six victories in eight starts.

Brilliant Pitching.

Brilliant pitching performances chased one another in such rapid succession that only 27 runs were made against the revolting Braves by New York, St. Louis and Cincinnati. But Pittsburgh will be able to face the new ordeal with the confidence of an impressive lead and the satisfaction of delivering a stunning blow to the Giants from which they are not likely to readily recover.

The schedule, which has but six more weeks to run, will lend its aid to the Pirates in their march. After the series at Boston and at Philadelphia, they will return to the home grounds for the remainder of the season except for two series with St. Louis and Cincinnati.

Athletics Smashed.

Smashing of the Philadelphia attack in the American league at St. Louis and Chicago, coupled with a determined push on the part of the Washington Senators threw the American league race into doubt again. Four straight defeats pushed the Athletics off the peak as St. Louis and Chicago collaborated in wrecking Philadelphia pitching that was supported by uncertain fielding at the crucial periods of the contests. A recovery yesterday against the White Sox saved the Athletics from a total week's failure and confined Washington's margin to a single game.

Third place teams in both circuits put on spurts without endangering second place tenants. Cincinnati backed up dependable pitching by pouring heavy batting volleys into the ranks of Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Boston clubs, while Chicago, without an abundance of bingles, brought enough safe blows out of the bag to support mound exhibitions hardly less brilliant than these of Redland hurlers. Both clubs won five of their seven games.

Refinery Team Beats Frederick

The American Refinery club did Sunday afternoon what others in the Twilight league here have failed to do: beat Frederick, Okla. The refinery outfit swamped the Oklahomans under a 13 to 3 count.

Charley Hefner, who has taken Coyal Francis' place at second base while the regular second sacker is in the hospital, was the only one to hit a home run, but Raymond Windham collected three hits, and Curly Christian hit four out of five.

Ronie Glidewell started wild, but settled down in the first inning and pitched shutout ball the rest of the way. He had Frederick on his hip and but few hits were combed from his slants.

Score by inning:

American Refinery	314	110	021—13
Frederick	300	000	000— 3

Batteries: Barret, Faulkner and Wade; Glidewell and Horton.

JUDGE KAY URGES MEN TO REBUILD

Should Make Conscience, Brain and Body Better, He Says.

NEED TO BE REBORN

Speaker Tells Hearers Only Way Is to Ask Master Humbly for Aid.

"It is high time that every sensible man should make a beginning to build into his conscience, into his brain and body the foundation for a better man," Judge John C. Kay told 311 men at the Kay Bible class at the Strand theater Sunday morning.

Judge Kay's address in full follows:

I don't much like that old time Presbyterian doctrine of predestination. The reason I don't like it is because I have always had a sneaking notion that there was a good deal of truth in it. The biologists are teaching us nowadays that a man's life and his conduct are controlled by the little microscopic body cells that have come down from the remotest of his ancestors. They teach that his life is limited and his efforts are limited by the character of the cells he has inherited. If this is true, then it becomes important that we select good ancestors.

Saint Paul was a very proud man. While one of the most humble of the followers of Jesus of Nazareth, yet there were times when his pride would shine forth like a beacon as when he straightened his shoulders up and said he did not come from any little one-horse village, but from a city that was no mean city and again he said that he was a Roman citizen. Now he was down at a little seaport town when he got his call to go to Macedonia or Macedon. It is quite a wonderful little town. He was thinking, perhaps, about going to Asia among the people of Persia, India and Arabia and among all that vast population which had made their homes to the south of the Great mountains. He did not go there. If you would like to know why he did not go there, read Sir Edward Arnold's "Light of Asia" or Kipling's "Kim" and find out. Paul wanted to go among a great people. Even as he stood there at this little seaport, he knew that it was from that very port that Ulysses had embarked. He knew that the Trojan war had been carried on from there. He knew that the white feet of Helen of Troy, the woman whose face had sunk a thousand ships, he knew that she had also been there. So I like to think that Paul was glad to go among a strong people. I like to think that there is rejoicing in heaven when a strong man or a strong people adopt Christianity. He turned his eyes toward Macedon. Ah, what a country was the Greek country. There the young Marathon runner had run 19 miles; there Leonidas with his 300 had laid down their lives at the little mountain pass of Thermopylae; there in the camp of Phillip had been born the great Alexander who had captured the world and more and most all there lay the bones of Socrates and of Plato and Aristotle and many another mind that had enriched and will ever enrich the world.

Further westward upon the banks of the Tiber was the new made grave of Julius Caesar and many another great Roman that lived in their history. It was to such a people that Paul turned with the Christian religion; it was to such men that he carried it and it was such men that accepted it, so that our New Testament was written in the language of the Greek and our world-wide church movement began with the Romans. What a vision he must have had as he turned toward these people and toward these great forces. Such a great man, I mean a great, great man, a great physician, a great teacher, a great philosopher, a great man, who had mapped out for his life work the betterment of man, would he like to come to Wichita Falls to work and to live? Because this lesson was not written for Alexander, he was already dead; this letter was not written for Socrates, he was gone; not for Caesar, he was not there; but for you and me. I am asking you this morning, would a great man turn his thoughts and his attention to Wichita Falls; would he come here, or would he reject us as heaven seems to have rejected, temporarily at that time, Paul's mission to Asia; would he come here? I think the answer to that question lies in this, whether a great man would visit us, whether he would live with us, whether he would work with and for us, depends not upon our wealth, not upon our pride or our humility, but it depends and must ever depend, as I think, upon what we think, upon the condition of our mind, upon what and upon that, that we are thinking.

Now, what does the Wichita Falls man want? Does he feel like that he needs more money? I do not know that we are any worse than any other people about that; a good time, "whoop 'em up," and have a big time. Do you know that was about the smallest net that a fish was ever caught in. I think the devil has to have a net with meshes smaller than a minnow sein to catch fellows who are just satisfied with having a whale of a good time. Now you take that home with you; that will stick, all right. That will stand up when it rains and when it snows.

Is it to be educated, is that the ambition of Wichita Falls people? It depends on the kind of education. I notice a lot of magazines and some of the Christian papers these days are calling it religious education. That is a mighty dangerous word and covers some very rotten theology. We do not need religious education for there are all kinds of religions in the world. What we need and must have, or perish, is Christian education. That ought to be the goal or at least one of the goals set for ourselves here in Wichita Falls. That is the kind that Paul believed in, that is the kind that the New Testament believed in.

Or is our goal still more selfish than that, that we want to build up a great family. I never did dig very deeply or very far back into my family tree. I was afraid I might find something. Yet it is a fine thing, as I indicated in my opening remarks, to have a fine set of ancestors, but what can you do about that? Nothing, that is a door that is forever shut. The thing for you to do is to become a great ancestor yourself for those who follow after you. If Paul believed in the doctrine of these body cells that I am talking to you about, and I sometimes think that he did, because he carried his message to the strong and the great and the brainy, the leadership of the country, as well as to the poor and the humble and unfortunate, I say if he believed in such a doctrine as that, then if you haven't got a great family, it is time that you begin to have one. It is quite a wonderful thing to think about that you and I are here this morning as the representative of a family that has come down from beyond the deluge. It is quite a wonderful thing to think about that, whatever I am, poor as I may be, sinful as I may be, weak as I am, whatever I am, I am the sum of all the gain and all that has been gained by the people of my blood since Noah's time. The Bible is full of that kind of doctrine, that I have come a long, such a long, long distance. The Bible likes to tell about David and his ancestors; the Bible likes to tell about Noah and his ancestors, the Bible gives with infinite care the ancestors of Jesus Christ Himself.

Now it is pretty bad, it is pretty much of a failure, it is pretty much of bankruptcy that nature and the wheat fields and corn fields and springs of water have labored for thousands of years and yet you and I after all that effort should be a mere scrub. I am not giving you this body cell doctrine as my doctrine. I am using it merely as an illustration. I do not indorse it or condemn it. I don't know enough about it either way. But, if the doctrine of the Bible is true, or if the other doctrine I have mentioned is true, then it is high time that every sensible man should make a beginning to build into his conscience, into his brain and body the foundation for a better man. How is he going to do that? Paul and all the Apostles told us that the only way to become a new man, whether you take the doctrine of the Bible or the doctrine of the philosophers or both, is to become a new man in Christ Jesus. That is all the way I know by which a man can be made whole, by which the weakness of his ancestors, the weakness of his history and his sin and his shortcomings can be wiped out, is to become as a little child and go to his Master in humility and in shame and consecration and say I would be born again. That is the only doctrine that reached above the dangers pointed out by the Bible; that is the only doctrine that reaches above the dangers pointed out by the philosophers and scientists, is for a man to hear and know those same words that were said to a great man by night, "Thou must be born again."

Home Run Crop Is Cut in Big League Play, Is Report

Two American Teams Go Through Whole Week Without Circuit Clout.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—(AP)—An early frost seems to have blighted the late season crop of home runs, which for two weeks has been less than half the midsummer total in the major leagues.

From a weekly total of nearly 60, the list this last week has fallen to 45, eight more than last week. Whether the magnates are putting the lively ball into the ice box to cool it off and make it heavy with moisture or having the manufacturers widen its horsehide trousers, as John McGraw intimates, the sluggers are having a tough time.

Two of the American league clubs went home runless all week—Cleveland and Chicago. Detroit got only one. In the National league St. Louis and Chicago got only one apiece.

The New York Giants lead the National league clubs with 93 for the season and the St. Louis Browns lead the Americans with one less.

Cotton Worm Is Found in Haskell

HASKELL, Aug. 23—W. P. Trice, county agent of Haskell county, states that the cotton leaf worm has appeared in section here and means are being used to combat the pest. With continued dry weather and the excessive heat that has been experienced for the past few days no great amount of damage is expected. However, if showers should fall during the next few days, the infestation may be expected to spread with resultant heavy damage. County Agent Trice is busy advising the Haskell county farmers how and with what to spray their cotton to exterminate this pest.

W. G. Pope, who resides north of Haskell, brought in what is said to be one of the finest watermelons produced in this section in some time. While its weight is only 67 pounds, it is the shape and color of the melon that renders it as near a prize winner as the rules governing seem to demand. The variety of the melon is the Triumph.

ITALIAN FLYER DELAYED

Attempted Flight to Japan Held Up Temporarily by Weather.

MANILA, Aug. 23.—(AP).—Commander Francesco de Pinedo, Italian aviator, attempting a flight from Italy to Japan, landed at Antimonon, Tayabas province, today to await more favorable weather for the hop to Manila. Fear for his safety had been felt after he failed to reach Manila seven hours after taking off from Cebu.

FOUND GIRL IN CAGE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 23.—(AP) Two attendants in the psychopathic ward of the general hospital here are spending most of their time today trying to keep clothes on 23-year-old Josefa Saenz, Mexican girl, who was found demented, naked and imprisoned in a wooden cage in the cellar of her parents' home.

The girl is in good physical condition, is exceptionally muscular and showed no signs of ill treatment, but she tears off clothes as fast as they are put on.

For more than ten years Josefa has been kept in a cage. Mrs. Maria Saenz, the mother, said. They came here from El Paso a year and a half ago, carting the cage with them, Mrs. Saenz declared. The condition in the Saenz home was discovered by charity workers.

Matsuda's Crown At Stake in Mat Meet Here Tuesday

Tony Ross will endeavor to wrest the welterweight mat championship of the world from Matty Matsuda next Tuesday night at the wrestling arena in the best two out of three falls.

Ross is but a quarter of a pound over weight, and should be able to get this down by Tuesday night.

In the first match Jack Gorman will wrestle Sylvia Checo. The latter is the welterweight champion of the U. S. navy, and has for a long time been trying for a match with Matsuda.

Should he show to be a good match for the Jap he will probably be hooked up with Matsuda in the following week's card.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 23.—(AP)—William M. Johnston of San Francisco, won the Newport challenge bowl for the third time today when he defeated Brian I. C. Norton of St. Louis in the final round of the invitation tournament on the Casino courts, 6—3, 6—3, 6—3 in a match requiring 59 minutes to complete.

Johnston and Clarence J Griffin of San Francisco won the doubles title by defeating Ray Casey of San Francisco and Brian I. C. Norton, 6—2, 6—1, 5—7, 3—6 and 6—1.

Husband, Poisoned by Wife Who Loved Another, Pleads Release of "Other Man"

CAIRO, Ill., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Slowly recovering from the poison given him by his wife, who desired her freedom so that she could marry an ex-convict, William Hethman yesterday pleaded successfully with the authorities for the release of the "other man" so that his erring wife would not be prosecuted for conspiracy with intent to commit murder.

Mrs. Hethman admitted administering poison to her husband in his coffee ,causing him to become violently ill, so that she might marry Oscar "Red" Amos, an ex-convict. Amos was arrested Friday on charges of conspiracy against Hethman's life. He was released today, however, after Hethman had pleaded that he be freed if his wife was to be prosecuted jointly with him.

"She was doped or she never would have tried to poison me," Hethman told police. "I love her and want her to continue to live with me and take care of the children."

Amos was ordered to leave the city and never to return by State's Attorney Wilbourn.

$1,000,000 IN UTILITIES OF STATE SOLD

Stone and Webster Buy Control of Western Public Service Co.

HOUSTON, Aug. 23.—The purchase by Stone and Webster of controlling stock in the Western Public Service company, which operates numerous public utilities throughout South Texas, was announced here yesterday by George H. Clifford, district manager for the Stone and Webster interests in Texas and Louisiana.

The stock was purchased by the Eastern Texas Electrical company of Beaumont, which is owned by Stone and Webster, Mr. Clifford said.

While unable to give the exact figures, he asserted that the deal involved more than $1,000,000.

The Western Service company had $1,500,000 in preferred stock and $1,000,000 in common stock, he said. "More than 50 per cent of the stock was bought at par value."

The properties operated by the Western Public Service company are: Electric light, water and ice plants at Calvert, Alvin, Dayton, Cleveland, Navasota and Somerville; electric light and ice plants at Kosse, Conroe, Sour Lake, Liberty, Huntsville, Groveton, Trinity, Hempstead and Caldwell; electric light plants at Anderson, Lyons and Bremond; ice plants at Bryan and Hearne, and wholesale power distribution at Hull and Daisetta.

The newly acquired property will become a part of the Texas and Louisiana district of Stone and Webster, under the management of Mr. Clifford.

The Houston branch of Stone and Webster operates the Houston Electric company and the Houston-Galveston interurban. This district includes numerous other street car and light properties in Louisiana and Texas.

Chicago to Pause For Lawson Funeral

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—(AP)—The city for which he gave a brilliant life of generous service will pause tomorrow as the funeral rites for Victor Fremont Lawson, late owner and publisher of the Chicago Daily News, and one of America's outstanding journalists are observed. Services in the New England Congregational church of which Mr. Lawson was a member, will be held at 11 a. m.

The funeral sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Dr. Ozora Stearns Davis, president of the Chicago Theological Seminary and a close friend of Mr. Lawson.

In accordance with Mr. Lawson's wish, the services will be marked with simplicity. There will be no service at the residence. Burial in a north side cemetery will be strictly private.

At a special meeting of the city council yesterday, termed by Mayor Dever "unique in the history of this body," the mayor and city council members were appointed a committee of the whole to attend the church services in honor of Mr. Lawson.

Mr. Lawson died Wednesday evening as a result of heart disease induced by overwork.

Bancroft's Remains Start for Chicago

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—(AP)—The body of Edgar A. Bancroft, American ambassador to Japan, who died at his post, was taken from the Japanese cruiser Tama here today and placed aboard a train for Chicago, where burial will take place.

As the flag draped casket was borne from the cruiser, her guns boomed a salute, which was answered from the United States receiving ship at Goat Island. At the embarcadero a parade was formed, consisting of 100 Japanese sailors, American sailors, Marine and coast artillerymen. On an artillery caisson the body was escorted through a portion of the business district.

President Coolidge was represented by Admiral Dayton and the state department by John K. Caldwell, United States consul general at large, in a group of honorary pall bearers.

NEWSPAPER TO TAKE LEAD IN W. J. B. MEMORIAL

Philadelphia Record Starts Campaign for National Monument.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 23.—(AP).—The Philadelphia Record tomorrow will take the initiative in forming a committee to finance and erect a national memorial to William Jennings Bryan. The Record solicits the support of citizens and newspapers throughout the nation and names as the prospective chairman of the committee, Josephus Daniels, publisher of the Raleigh News and Observer, secretary of the navy in President Wilson's cabinet and firm friend of the great Commoner.

Always Remembered.

The Record says:

"Mr. Bryan will be remembered, without formal reminder of his achievements, for his influence upon the lives of his fellow citizens; for his long, ardent and untiring defense of the rights of the common people against the encroachments of privilege. For his vigorous promulgation of the social precept finally embodied in the Eighteenth amendment; for his earnest advocacy of peace and for his militant stand, at the climax of a life fraught with critical moments in behalf of Christianity as he interpreted it against what he conceived to be the attacks of science.

"These things will be recalled, we say, long after his errors have been forgotten. The beneficient influence of the man, his earnestness of purpose, his mirculous sway over millions of his fellow citizens, are some facts that must be recognized even by those who do not agree with his political or social theories or entertain his religious convictions. He was a great American.

"The Record has observed reports from Tennessee of a movement to found there, as a memorial to Mr. Bryan, a college dedicated to opposing the theories of evolution.

A Mistake.

"Such a movement, unless it is intended to be merely of local character, would be an egregrious mistake.

"Unquestionably, the services of Mr. Bryan to his countrymen should be recognized by the erection of a national memorial—not to Bryan the fundamentalist, to Bryan the prohibitionist, or to Bryan the democrat, but to Bryan the fearless crusader; to Bryan the statesman. It should not be a narrow, bigoted title from any group, clique or clan, it should be an all-embracing expression of the sentiment of the country to the financing and erection of which all Americans big enough to recognize strength of character, exceptional ability and dogged persistence in obeying the dictates of conscience, whether they be political friends or foes, may contribute."

French Pilots On Ocean Flight Soon

Paris, Aug. 23.— (AP)— The French veterans, Lieutenants Francis Colix and Paul Tarascon, both maimed in the war are going to jump off for their 30-hours air flight to New York, confident of success, but ready for a wreck at sea and 15 days adrift waiting for help. They have arranged to lighten their 420 horsepower plane so it will float indefinitely and will carry compressed provisions and an apparatus for the distillation of sea water. Their machine, including 3,000 liters of gasoline, will weigh four tons at the start.

The first ballast to be dropped will be the running gear when they reach the sea. If they are forced to descend on the ocean, their plans is to cut away the cloth of the lower plans so that their ship may ride steadily and cast out a canvas anchor to aid this. They can thus float for several days.

NEGOTIATIONS COLLAPSE.

HANKOW, China, Aug. 23.—(AP)—The Anglo-Chinese negotiations looking to the co-operation of Chinese police in the defense of the foreign concession, collapsed abruptly today when native officials suddenly presented a demand for $75,000 indemnity for the killed and wounded in the riots of July 11.

It is reported the Chinese chamber of commerce has been notitfied officially to intensify the anti-British boycott.
