Third, Seventh Join To Wipe Out Major Resistance West Of Rhine

Three Big Cities Fall In Slashing Armor Onslaught

By EDWARD D. BALL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE U. S. THIRD ARMY, March 20.—The Third Army, climaxing the most spectacular day's successes in its history, made a junction with the U. S. Seventh Army 12 miles west of Kaiserslaughtern late today.

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's troops disposed of the remnants of the German Seventh Army which had escaped across the Moselle river after the enemy's Falaise Gap disaster of last summer, and with the U. S. Seventh Army bottled up much of the remains of the German First Army inside the Rhine-Saar pocket.

Third Running Wild

These feats have been accomplished in eight days by the greatest armored onslaught in history.

Third Army troops were running wild against collapsed German resistance. They entered Kaiserslautern, the enemy's main supply base in the Saar basin, and plunged on to the Rhine, capturing the ancient town of Worms and reaching Mainz on the west bank of the river.

Armor and infantry raced practically without opposition for numerous gains up to 11 miles. The dash to the three German cities eclipsed anything accomplished by the Third Army even in its rampage across France last summer.

West Rhine Nazis Crushed

With only scattered and isolated islands of Germans left in the Rhine-Saar noose, today's sensational spurt meant the end of any organized enemy opposition on the whole Third Army front west of the Rhine.

The entire Saar basin, upon which the Germans depended for much of their coal supply, now is lost to the enemy. His remaining positions in the Siegfried and Hunsbrueck lines are untenable.

Mainz, a city of 160,000 population at the confluence of the Rhine and Mainz rivers, was reached after a spectacular dash by the Fourth Armored and 90th Infantry divisions working together.

A city comparable to Aachen,

Third Army Has Most Spectacular Day In History

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Wednesday, March 21.—The U. S. Seventh and Third armies formed a junction in the Saarland yesterday in a great coordinated assault that virtually wiped out the last German resistance west of the Rhine and captured the historic cities of Saarbruecken, Zweibruecken and Worms.

Contact between the two armies was made at a point about 12 miles west of Kaiserslautern by elements of the Seventh Army's Sixth Armored division and the Third Army's 26th Infantry division.

The Third Army, which drove through Kaiserslautern, reached the ancient Rhine-bank city of Mainz.

Seventh Takes Two

Saarbruecken, a city of 135,000 population and the capital and economic center of the industrial Saar, fell to Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Seventh Army as did Zweibruecken, 17 miles to the east.

Worms, on the Rhine about midway between Mainz and Ludwigshafen-Mannheim, was seized in a lightning stab by the Fourth Armored and 90th Infantry divisions of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army.

The sensational drive by the two American armies operating in unison disposed of the German Seventh Army and bottled up much of the German First Army—the last two enemy armies west of the Rhine.

Under the unrelenting assault, the enemy's defenses in the Saarland salient collapsed and Nazi troops were attempting to flee eastward by the thousands under a storm of explosives from American warplanes.

West-Rhine Evacuation

The fall of Saarbruecken and Zweibruecken fore-told the possible swift evacuation of all Germany west of the Rhine.

Saarbruecken fell to the 70th division, which crossed the Saar, sliced through the Westwall and stormed the city from the west against light opposition.

Zweibruecken fell to the Third division, which had breached the Westwall after three days of fierce fighting.

The comparatively easy conquest of the two stubborn cities dramatically symbolized the complete collapse of the Nazi defenses of the Saar-Moselle triangle.

Thousands of Germans were captured, one front dispatch saying that the Third Army alone bagged possibly 20,000.

Nazi Resistance Falters

At the same time, German resistance east of the Rhine seemed to falter and Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' U. S. First Army broadened its east-bank bridgehead to 24 miles with advances

Yanks Move Rapidly In Panay Drive

By JAMES HUTCHESON
Associated Press Staff Writer

MANILA, Wednesday, March 21—Maj. Gen. Rapp Brush's 40th division infantryman captured the important Iloilo airdrome on Panay island Monday in a swift eastward drive into the outskirts of the capital city.

Another column spearing northward 25 miles from the beachhead overran the broad coastal plain, captured the towns of Janiuay, Pototan and Barotac Nuevo and established contact with a strong guerrilla band which had done much to clear the southeast section of the big central Philippines island.

Enemy Confused

Gen. Douglas MacArthur said in his communique today that the Yanks were "taking full advantage of the enemy's confusion" as they swept rapidly north and east from the beachhead established at dawn Sunday wtth naval and air support.

Heavy fires were observed in Iloilo, indicating the enemy was putting the torch to the city of 90,000 inhabitants. Iloilo, one of the best prots in the central Philippines, was badly damaged by Japanese naval guns and American demolition squads when the enemy captured the city early in 1942.

Bridge Is Captured

The 40th division Yanks captured Carpenter's bridge over the Iloilo river on the eastern approaches.

Guerrillas on Luzon, meantime, scored an important triumph by capturing San Fernando in La Union province, a major port just north of the American beachhead on Lingayen gulf. The Japanese garrison was wiped out.

San Fernando was a vital shipping point for the Japanese. From there they sent metals from the rich Benguet mountains to Japan.

Thirty-Third division doughboys drove north 10 miles from Aringay to seize Bauang, six miles south of San Fernando. Two bridges along this coastal road were captured before they could be blown up by the retreating Japanese.

Push On For Baguio

Other Yanks pressed closer to the Philippine summer capital at Baguio, due east of Aringay, and pushed farther into the enemy's

475 Planes-Also Downed

Carrier Planes Pounce On Hidden Nip Navy In Secluded Inland Sea

By MORRIE LANDSBERG
Associated Press Staff Writer

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Wednesday, March 21—American aircraft flying from the mightiest carrier fleet ever assembled attacked the Japanese fleet in the empire's inland seas Monday in one of the boldest exploits of the war, and damaged 15 to 17 enemy warships, including one or two battleships, and destroyed at least 475 planes.

The enemy fleet thus was hit in its home waters for the first time, but no actual engagement between surface units was announced.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced the daring attack today in a communique which said preliminary surveys of damage showed that two of three aircraft carriers, four light carriers, two cruisers, four destroyers and various other war vessels also were included in the bag.

Six freighters were sunk and a number of ground installations were destroyed.

Not A U. S. Ship Lost

Admiral Nimitz said the brilliant raid inflicted "crippling damage" on the Japanese fleet which was decisively whipped last October in the second battle of the Philippine seas.

Although Nipponese fliers made many attempts to bomb the American armada, not a ship was lost. One ship, not identified as to class, was seriously damaged, but is returning to port under its own power.

"A few others sustained minor damage, but all are fully operational," Admiral Nimitz said.

The Pacific fleet, whose planes twice routed the Japanese fleet last year, swung northeast after a day of destructive attacks on the enemy airforce on Kyushu, southernmost of the Japanese home islands. One hundred enemy planes were destroyed there.

On Monday, Adm. R. A. Spruance moved ships of his Fifth fleet into position from where Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher sent his carrier planes—Hellcats, Corsairs, Helldivers and Avenger torpedo-bombers—in the first seaborne attack on the home bases of the enemy in the Japanese inland sea.

The report of the sinking of six small freighters and damaging 22 other ships, the latter mostly combatant vessels, was described as only preliminary. This indicated the likelihood of even greater damage or a revision of types of

Flak Said Main Raider Trouble

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Hamilton W. Faron, Associated Press correspondent, was aboard a warship of Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher's task force which climaxed a two-day carrier plane assault on southern Japan by tearing into Nippon's fleet hiding out in the Inland sea. Here is his account, based on reports from returning fliers.)

By HAMILTON W. FARON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH ADMIRAL MITSCHER'S TASK FORCE, March 20—American fliers, back at their carriers after dealing crippling blows to the Japanese fleet hiding out in Nippon's Inland sea, reported today anti-aircraft fire was more a problem than the enemy airforce.

Losses of American planes were extremely light and these mostly were due to flak. One squadron reported it was not opposed by a single Japanese plane. Another was hit by flak "heavy enough to walk on," in the words of one pilot, and enemy fighter planes opposition also was strong.

30 Ships Sunk, Damaged

The carrier planes sank or damaged 30 enemy ships, including damage to between 15 and 17 warships. They also destroyed at least 475 Nipponese planes.

Most of the Japanese fleet was caught within the 240-mile-long Inland sea and sent scurrying to shelter.

Repeatedly, Japanese planes attacked Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher's warships but most of the raiders were shot down without inflicting damage.

One Ship Badly Hurt

(Adm. Chester W. Nimitz in a communique from Guam March 21 disclosed one American warship was seriously damaged but was able to move away under her own power.)

The American planes loosed rockets, bombs and bullets at their targets. They knocked out hangars. They blasted aircraft factories and other installations on Kyushu island which has scores of air bases.

Japanese warships hit included a Yamata class battleship, a battleship converted into a carrier, three large carriers, four small carriers, two cruisers, four destroyers, a destroyer escort and a submarine.

Lists Differ Slightly

(Faron's list differed slightly from that set forth in Nimitz' March 21 communique which gave the 15 to 17 ships damaged as one or two battleships, two or three aircraft carriers, two light carriers or escort carriers, two escort carriers, a light cruiser, four destroyers, a destroyer escort and a submarine.)

Reds Open Final Assault On Flaming Pomeranian Capital

By ROMNEY WHEELER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Wednesday, Mar. 21 Russian troops wiped out the Germans' powerful bridgehead on the east bank of the Oder river opposite Stettin yesterday and laid the flaming Pomeranian capital open to a final assault by capturing its last outpost of Altdamm, 70 miles northeast of Berlin, Moscow announced last night.

Far to the east other Soviet forces, rolling up both ends of the partly-flooded East Prussian pocket southwest of Koenigsberg, captured the ancient bastion of Braunsberg and fought down the last two miles to Heiligenbeil, the enemy's only remaining stronghold there.

Pocket Compressed

Scoring gains of up to five miles the Russians compressed the pocket to 15 miles in length and no more than four miles from the sea at its deepest, swept up 40 towns and hamlets in addition to Braunsberg, took more than 4,000 Germans prisoner and captured upward of 300 guns, Moscow said. At least 5,000 Germans were slain.

The Germans said that two powerful Soviet armies had opened new offensives in the south, sweeping through northwestern Hungary within 58 miles of the Austrian frontier on the road to Vienna, and smashing through upper Silesia and across the Moravian frontier into Czechoslovakia. These operations, not confirmed by Moscow, would have the effect of forcing large-scale German withdrawals along the southern end of the Eastern front and are aimed at the mountainous area of southern Germany and Austria where the Nazis, according to some reports, may make a final stand after the defeat of their armies on the Reich's northern plains.

At the same time the Germans said that Marshal Feodor I. Tolkukhin had hurled 200,000 of his Third Ukraine Army troops, and supporting armor, into a new offensive in northwestern Hungary, sweeping within 58 miles of the Austrian frontier on the road to Vienna.

Moscow has not confirmed this operation, which the Germans said began last weekend, and created a "temporary critical situation" for the Nazis. Berlin said the Russians were beyond Tata, which is 10 miles southeast of the big Danube river stronghold of Komarom (Komarno).

Another German broadcast indicated that Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukraine Army had smashed across the Moravian-upper Silesian frontier into Czechoslovakia in a drive outflanking Moravska-Ostrava, Czechoslovakia's third city and gateway to the Moravian gap leading to Vienna and Prague.

The Germans told of fighting near Troppau (Opava), two miles inside Moravia, and 17 miles northwest of Moravska-Ostrava.

Moscow dispatcthes said meanwhile that Russian shock troops, fighting inside besieged Breslau, upper Silesian capital 100 miles

New Bedford Labor Experiment Is Charged As Manpower-Draft Lobby

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—The War Manpower commission's national labor-management committee today charged that the controversial New Bedford labor division program was undertaken "for the purpose of lobbying Congress in support of compulsory service legislation."

Splitting sharply with WMC Chairman Paul V. McNutt over its recommendations for settlement of the month-old dispute, the committee declared in a statement.

"The New Bedford (Mass.) operation appears to have been used as a lobbying device by certain government officials in Washington who favored national service legislation.

Would Show Need

It further appears that New Bedford was singled out to be used as a 'guinea pig' to attempt to persuade the country and the Congress that the voluntary system had broken down and that compulsion must be accepted.

"At one stage WMC proposals were ruled out by a War department representative."

The committee bluntly called on McNutt "to revoke immediately the 'forced release' order in New Bedford, wipe the slate clean and start out again on a fresh basis—a basis which is most likely to produce the necessary tire fabric and duck yarn."

McNutt, the committee said, declined to accept this and other recommendations, "which were made on four different occasions."

McNutt's Statement

Several hours after the committee made its charges McNutt, in a statement, said that "until such time as the community of New Bedford submits a plan which gives concrete evidence that the staffing of the critical tire plants (there) will be accomplished without delay, I have no alternative but to continue the application of the WMC national program of war service transfers in New Bedford."

McNutt said that no plan agreed to "by all interested parties" has

Bombs Rain On Nazi War Areas

LONDON, Wednesday, March 21. (AP)—RAF Mosquitos attacked Berlin for the 29th consecutive night last night after perhaps 5,000 Allied heavy bombers during the day had rained explosives on German communications, oil plants and submarine yards while lighter warplanes raked German troops.

Striking at dwindling sources of Nazi oil supply, 400 U. S. Eighth Air force bombers attacked a natural oil refinery at Hemmingstedt on the Danish peninsula and raided Hamburg's much-battered port and its Blohm-Voss submarine yards where the latest type of U-boats reportedly are being constructed. An oil refinery in the Hamburg area also was hit.

Rail Yards Pounded

In double blows at railroad yards feeding the Rhine front, RAF Lancasters first attacked Germany's largest rail yard at Hamm, traffic gateway to the Ruhr, and Halifaxes bombed the Recklinghausen yards which handle supplies for Rhine troops and coal cargoes for central Germany.

Then American fighters escorted RAF heavy bombers to an unidentified target in northwestern Germany—an unusual procedure.

Roaring up from Italy, Fifteenth Air force Fortresses and Liberators smashed at rail yards at Amstetten and Wels on the main line from Vienna to Munich, and Regensburg, after a record assault on German rail installations Monday.

For the third consecutive day more than 1,000 bombers and fighter-bombers ranged over northern Italy and Yugoslavia.

Army Court Martial Convicts Negro Wacs

FORT DEVENS, Mass., March 20. (AP)—Four negro Wacs today were convicted by an Army general court martial of violating the 46th Article of War—refusal to obey orders of superior officers. They were immediately sentenced to serve one year at hard labor and to be dishonorably discharged.

The verdict was announced by the court after an hour and ten minutes deliberation.

The four had contended that they were ordered to do menial work in Lovell General hospital "because of their color."

The sentence also ordered the four deprived of all pay allowances due and to become due.

They are Pvt. Alice D. Young, 23, of Washington, D. C., Pvt. Anna C. Morrison of Richmond, Ky., Pvt. Johnnie Murphy of Rankin, Pa., and Pvt. Mary Green of Conroe, Tex.

Wage Guarantee Study Ordered

WASHINGTON, March 20. (AP)—President Roosevelt today ordered a study of plans for a guaranteed annual wage, described by the War Labor board as "one of the main aspirations of American workers."

He told his news conference the inquiry—requested by the WLB—will be made by the office of mobilization's advisory board of 12 headed by O. Max Gardner, former North Carolina governor.

The board is composed of public, labor, farm and management representatives.

Sub-Committee Named

Gardner announced later that the following sub-committee would make the study: Eric Johnston, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the U. S.; Philip Murray, chairman of the CIO; Albert Goss, head of the National Grange, and Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, labor and manpower expert.

At the same conference, held an hour earlier than usual and confined for the first time in months exclusively to domestic phases of the war, the chief executive:

1. Stood by War Mobilization Director Byrnes and his midnight curfew, but indicated he wasn't planning any action against New York for relaxing the ban.

2. Promised a statement Friday

Brothers Pays Assault Levy

M. A. Brothers, 39, former policeman, who pleaded innocent Monday to charges of aggravated assault Friday midnight of a returned combat veteran temporarily stationed at Lubbock Army Air field, changed his plea to guilty Tuesday afternoon and was assessed a fine of $50 and costs by County Judge Walter Davies, according to County Attorney Syrian E. Marbut.

It was reported that Brothers paid the assessment.

Charges By Army Man

Capt. Dick F. Tucker, 23, a combat flier, had charged that Brothers struck him with a blackjack after Brothers and a fellow officer stopped him and several friends Friday night on a Texas Tech driveway. Brothers admitted in a signed statement that he struck the officer but only after what he said was an attempt to resist arrest.

Authoritative sources said last night that the officer's condition was good and that his wounds were not as severe as first supposed.

Tucker Status Unknown

There was no announcement from military officials as to whether Capt. Tucker had been charged with drunk driving, an offense for which police booked him after the purported "beating."

Brothers accepted Saturday Chief of Police Don Reeder's request that he resign following an intensive inquiry by Reeder.

Churchman Demands Summary Execution Of Hitler-Himmler Gang When Caught

By JOHN F. CHESTER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 20—A demand by the Archbishop of York that "the master criminals Hitler and Himmler and their gang" should be killed on the spot when captured was followed today in the House of Lords by official disclosure that the War Crimes commission already is screening Nazi prisoners for trial.

The archbishop, Dr. Cyril Garbett, broke into the war crimes debate to declare, "sometimes justice has to take precedence over mercy," and asked instant death for Hitler and Himmler "by those who catch them," stern treatment for their torturing subordinates, and punishment for the whole German people.

Lord Wright, chairman of the United Nations War Crimes commission, immediately arose with a statement that orders had been given to Allied armies to hold, not shoot, any criminals they captured. He added, however, that the commission definitely had decided to treat Hitler and other "major criminals as murderers, assassins, thieves, torturers and the like."

Viscount Simon, speaking for the government as Lord Chancellor, reported lists of criminals were piling up as the armies pushed deeper into Germany. He confirmed also that these men were being screened out of the prisoners passing through the Army sieve, segregated, and held for trial.

The British government, Lord Simon said, was "working behind the scenes with great intensity" to deal swiftly with those charged as criminals.

The Archbishop of York based his demand for instant death of the Nazi leaders on the ground that "public trial with its excitement and sensation" should be avoided.

Reciting some of the horrors he said he had learned about in Holland only last week, including the beating to death of a 10-year-old boy, the archbishop contended that not only master criminals but their subordinates who relayed or carried out their orders should be killed.

"I am thinking," he said, "of the horrible tortures in concentration camps, of the burning of women and children in that church in southern France where the whole population was massacred, of the crimes which no man ought to commit, however strong the orders given to him."

Two 'Criminal Records' Brought Into Agriculture Fund Appeal

WASHINGTON, March 20. (AP)—Testimony that two Agriculture department sub-officials had "criminal records" was submitted to the House today along with a bill to appropriate $833,801,932 for the department.

The bill, which reflected appropriations committee opposition to proposals of the budget bureau for cuts on farm benefit payments, followed the usual pattern of agriculture appropriation bills.

But its accompanying testimony on police records, and on complaints that the Commodity Credit corporation had bungled some food purchases to the extent of spoilage, provided the House with new debate material.

Two Are Identified

The men referred to as having had criminal records were identified by their superiors in the CCC as:

Edmund G. Benser of Bethesda, Md., former chief fiscal officer of the CCC's office of distribution. Committee hearings included a list of police records up to 1934, involving allegations of bigamy and embezzlement. The records showed a release in one case, dismissal in another, no disposition in two and a one year probated sentence in another. Frank Hancock, head of the CCC, said Benser was employed by the CCC until Feb. 26, that "I advised him" to resign;

Joseph Hatch, acting chief of the CCC's program liaison branch. Hancock said he was not familiar with Hatch's case and the committee record showed no details. Ralph W. Olstead, CCC vice president, testified "it is my understanding that his case has been reviewed repeatedly by the departmental office of personnel, by the secretary of agriculture, and by the war food administrator, and that he has been confirmed in the position he now occupies."

Deals In Commodities

The CCC buys and sells, lends on and otherwise deals in commodities. Handcok said it is now investigating the background of all employes handling money or responsible for goods and inventories.

Committee hearings brought out that one-twenty-fifth of the food acquired by the CCC was lost by spoilage, that 180,825 cases of eggs were diverted to animal feed and 399 carloads of potatoes were lost through spoilage.

The appropriations committee, in reaching the present form of the bill:

(1) Heard testimony by Ivy W. Duggan, governor of the Farm Credit administration, that farm land costs have gone up 43 per cent since the middle of 1939.

Two Proposals Declined

(2) Turned down two proposals of the administration that payments to farmers be curtailed. One of these proposals was to cut benefit payments on 1946 crops to $200,000,000 (the current level is $300,000,000). The other was to trim the benefit figure on 1945 crops from $300,000,000 to $290,000,000.

(3) Recommended $60,000,000 in loan authorizations for the Rural electrification administration, as compared with $150,000,000 suggested by the budget bureau.

(4) Recommended a $40,000,000 farm tenancy loan fund, embarking $25,000,000 of it for returning servicemen. The budget bureau had suggested a $50,000,000 total.

(5) Approved continuance of the school lunch program at an estimated cost of $50,000,000.

Dinner will be served at the church at noon, followed by the conference at 1:30 p. m. All church officers are to have written reports ready for delivery at the meeting.

Food Course Starts At Tech Tonight

Second in a series of non-credit food production and conservation courses will begin at 7:30 o'clock tonight in room 102 of the home economics building, Texas Tech, it was announced by Mrs. Gladys Holden, adult education teacher in the home economics division at Tech.

No fee will be charged for adults who wish to enroll and classes will be of two hours duration. Other class meetings are scheduled at 7:30 p. m. March 28 and April 4 in the home economics building.

Mrs. Holden, who will instruct students, said Dr. W. W. Yocum, professor of horticulture, was consultant in food production and assisted victory gardeners to solve problems when the class was conducted before. It is hoped he will serve in the same capacity for this course.

CHILEAN SHIP SINKS

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 20 (AP) The 2,500-ton Chilean steamship Mapocho caught fire and sank today after leaving Iquique with 153 passengers and crewmen. Twenty-eight persons were rescued by a lifeboat of the steamship Alondra, but there was no word of the fate of the others.

NAM President Raps Deficit Financing

HOUSTON, March 20. (U.P.) — Ira Mosher of Southbridge, Mass., president of the National Association of Manufacturers, declared in an address here last night that "the government's policies of unlimited spending and deficit financing can lead only to national bankruptcy."

"Let's throw down the guantlet and fight for what we believe in, for what we know, and against this so-called inevitability of socialism," Mosher urged a group of 250 Houston business and industrial men.

The NAM head called on business managers to "stick their necks out and tell patriotic America that irresponsible labor leaders are using strikes at the expense of war production to gain larger power."

Joined By Robey

Dr. Ralph Robey, associate economist of the NAM and business editor of News Week magazine, joined Mosher with an appeal to the nation's 3,000,000 employers to devise their own postwar plans without the government's help.

"Tell the new dealers to go to hell," he shouted.

Robey labeled the government's 60,000,000-job postwar demand as "just plain damned nonsense" and decried the administration's "planned postwar economy."

The economist said he had heard "the idea of 60,000,000 postwar jobs so much I'm damned sick of it."

Robey said there would be only 58,500,000 "potential" workers after the war. Two million of these, he said, will be in the armed forces and not looking for jobs. Another 3,000,000 workers, he said, will be accounted for by "frictional unemployment"—those out of work because of reconversion or for other reasons.

Ex-POW Group Not To Make Stop Here

Unsuccessful in an attempt to obtain an appearance here of 12 former prisoners of war who are speaking in various cities, Mrs. J. H. Stiles, executive secretary of the Lubbock county Red Cross chapter, announced it would be impossible to schedule these persons for a visit to Lubbock.

Telephone calls were made to Amarillo and Dallas and information was received that itinerary of the group is limited to 31 cities in the United States and two in Texas, Dallas and Houston. The former prisoners are speaking under war department approval.

Interest had been shown in bringing the group here at a recent meeting of families of prisoners of war and Mrs. George Young, chairman of the Red Cross prisoner of war committee, and Mrs. Stiles had undertaken the project.

Approximately 125 Lubbock county men are prisoners of war.

Provisional Bishop For Area Is Named

Rt. Rev. Geodrich Fenner, DD, of Topeka, Kans., bishop of the diocese of Kansas, has been appointed provisional bishop of the Missionary District of North Texas of the Protestant Episcopal church by Bishop Henry St. George Tucker, DD, according to information received Tuesday by Rev. John A. Winslow, minister of St. Paul's Episcopal church.

Rt. Rev. Fenner will serve as bishop of this district until October of 1946 when another bishop can be elected. Rev. Tom Sumners of Houston was elected for the place but declined several weeks ago.

The election of a bishop became necessary because of resignation of Bishop E. Cecil Seaman who is now living at Phoenix, Ariz., for his health.

THE FACTS OF LIFE
Stocking
IN WARTIME

BREV MODITE DUCHESS

Because many of our customers do not understand why obtaining hosiery is so difficult, we publish herewith, a letter, in part, recently received from the Wayne Knitting Mills, makers of Belle-Sharmeer stockings.

Perhaps some of the facts revealed here concerning the dire hosiery situation, will help you realize that we are doing the best we know how in distributing stockings fairly and squarely.

BELLE-SHARMEER
Stockings
In All Leg Sizes

Hanna-Pope & Company
Lubbock, Texas

Gentlemen:

It is our opinion that no completely equitable method of distribution of hosiery exists nor can be devised, simply because there are not enough pairs of Belle-Sharmeer stockings to supply the demand. Every conceivable method has already been tried, but all have failed because the supply is too small. Consumers generally do not understand conditions which produce the short supply. These are:

"MANPOWER—Hosiery production is not an 'essential' industry. Skilled labor is scarce and continues to become scarcer."

"RAW MATERIALS—Silk and nylon yarns have gone 100% to war. Only rayon can be used in hosiery. But rayon is war material too. The armed services, Lend Lease, United Nations Relief and export require huge quantities of rayon. Only a small percentage of what is left is set aside for hosiery making."

"During 1942-3-4 the hosiery industry received but 8½ lbs. of rayon for each 10 lbs. of silk and nylon used in 1941. Currently we are getting only 7 lbs. of rayon for each 10 of silk and nylon used in 1941. One pound of rayon makes only half as many stockings as does a pound of silk or nylon."

"FINISHED HOSIERY STOCKS—1944 shipments of full-fashioned stockings were 25% smaller than of 1940, the last peace-time year. There were 139,000,000 fewer pairs of stockings to be sold. There will be another decrease of at least 18% in 1945 at present rate of yarn allocation. Less than 10% of all stockings are 51 gauge."

"TO BE SPECIFIC ABOUT BELLE-SHAMEER—There are three plants for producing Belle-Sharmeer stockings. One has been closed for three years for lack of raw materials. We can make today less than 50% of normal peace-time production."

"It is our hope that public knowledge of the above facts will bring about a better understanding of the tremendous difficulties with which hosiery departments are struggling. We feel that Belle Sharmeer dealers have done an excellent job with the inadequate supplies available to them, and that they are not fairly subject to criticism for a condition not of their making."

Yours very truly,

WAYNE KNITTING MILLS

Statewide Oil Allowable Order Allows Increase In West Texas

AUSTIN, March 20 (AP) — A statewide oil allowable order for April, calculated to result in actual production of 2,170,278 barrels of crude daily, was announced today by the Railroad commission.

Although average net daily allowable was put at 2,305,128 barrels, a 5.85 per cent estimated under-production will reduce calculated flow to 2,170,278 barrels or 278 more than certified by the Petroleum Administration for War.

The overall allowable, including natural gasoline and distillate, next month is 2,332,592 barrels or 2,952 more than the PAW certification for all petroleum liquids.

24 Producing Days

The April order stipulates 24 general producing days and 24 for East Texas. This month there were 25 general producing days and 25 for East Texas. For April the Panhandle remains exempt from shutin days.

Basic field allowables were charged very little by the commission for April. Because there is one less calendar day and one less producing day for most fields this month average net allowable will be changed only fractionally.

Principal changes in net allowables were for the Hawkins and Keystone Ellenberger fields. Hawkins was reduced from 40,313 barrels as of March 17 to 37,193 beginning April 1. Keystone Ellenberger was increased from 5,700 barrels to 7,600.

Purchase Nominations

Nominations for purchase of 2,356,356 barrels daily in April were placed before the commission at a statewide proration hearing earlier today.

The nominations, an increase of 21,258 barrels daily over Mardh nominations, compared with a recommendation by the Petroleum Administration for War that Texas produced 2,170,000 barrels daily of crude next month, a 10,000-barrel increase over March certification.

All of the PAW increase was certified for West Texas fields and operators in that area including Gulf and Sinclair-Prairie informed the commission they could produce more oil. These companies asked for an increase of 2,400 barrels daily in the Keystone-Ellenberger field. Sinclair-Prairie also suggested an increased allowable in the Ownby pool.

Cut In Hawkins Asked

Humble Oil and Refining company sought a reduction of 3,000 barrels daily in the Hawkins field on an explanation that part of the market for its present 38,000-barrel allowable had been lost.

Commission engineers reported a bottomhole pressure increase in the important East Texas field. The pressure on March 1 was 998.19 pounds per square inch, an increase of 3.35 pounds or an increase of .3035 pounds per million barrels of production.

H. P. Nichols of the East Texas Oil association suggested the commission continue efforts to divert part of the sweet oil demand from the East Texas field to other pools producing similar oil.

He said that from 45 to 50 per cent of independently owned East Texas wells were not equipped for pumping and when pressure reached the point where gas leaves the solution these producers "will be up against it."

Daily water reinjections in East Texas were 363,276 barrels in February, an increase of 19,410 barrels daily over January, commission engineers reported.

San Angeloan Resigns As Top Man For Gulf

HOUSTON, March 20 (AP) — Resignation of H. L. Stone as general counsel and member of the executive and finance committees of the Gulf Oil corporation was disclosed today by board chairman W. L. Mellon of the Gulf oil companies.

The announcement said Stone also resigned as executive vice president and general counsel of the Gulf Refining company, and as director and general counsel of all other principal Gulf companies, but would continue in exclusive employ of the Gulf as consulting counsel, with headquarters in his home town of San Angelo.

More Expense Money For FDR Is Asked

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP) —President Roosevelt recommended today that Congress appropriate $93,872,900 for expenses of the War Manpower commission in the year beginning July 1.

This is an increase of about $24,000,000 over the present year. The boost is largely for adding 596 local employment offices to the United States Employment service. These will provide employment facilities for returning veterans, as contemplated by the G. I. Bill of Rights.

Nazis Capture Yank But Buddies Free Him, Get 19 Krauts

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE U. S. 10TH MOUNTAIN DIVISION, In Italy, March 16. (Delayed)—A German raiding party's capture of Pfc. Malford G. Heimer of Frost, Texas, a couple of weeks ago set off an action in which his buddies killed seven Germans, captured 19 and rescued him.

The skirmish marked one phase of the 10th Mountain division's successful assault on Monte Belvedere. Heimer said he almost caught up on his sleep during captivity.

Napped During Fight

"I took a nap while the fight was on," he said. "If you don't believe it here's the raincoat one of the Krauts threw over me while I was sleeping."

The fight started when Heimer, wrapped in a blanket, investigated a noise in a house near his foxhole. The next thing he knew four Germans had him covered.

"They just poked rifles in my face," he recalled, "made me drop the blanket and started taking me to the house."

The Germans barricaded themselves in on the main floor of the house. Other enemy troops were on a ridge above the house. Grenades, mortars, machineguns and 75-millimeter guns were used upon the house for an hour.

Begin To Surrender

S/Sgt. Theodore B. Reinero saw one Nazi break for the house from out front and killed him. Two wounded men in the ruins started yelling "surrender" and a squad moved in. S/Sgt. Charles E. Ernst, Los Angeles, rushed three Germans with no fight left. Three more crept out of a haystack and surrendered.

"Then we heard Heimer yelling to quit shooting, that they wanted to surrender," Reinero related. "One Kraut was in the doorway and eight more followed him out. I can't figure out why they quit, they had a lot of stuff in there."

The rest of the 19 Germans surrendered with three machineguns.

Bureau Powers Bill Is Passed

AUSTIN, March 20. (AP)—Passed to final reading in the Senate today was a bill by Sen. Jesse Martin of Fort Worth limiting the powers of state bureaus and commissions.

The bill which members refused to consider immediately on third reading and final passage permits courts to go behind the orders of agencies when the orders are appealed.

The courts are now limited to a determination of the legality of orders.

Exclusion Plans Fails

The Senate defeated attempts to exclude from the bill's provisions the State Unemployment Compensation commission, the Public Welfare department, railroad commission, liquor board and insurance commission.

Urging approval of his measure, Martin asked the Senate to "give the folks at home full rights to appeal from decisions of state boards."

"Turn this bill down and in the next three or four years you will force folks not only to thumb their way to Austin to get hearings but you will compel them to go to Washington also to appear before bureaus," he said.

Opponent's Views

Sen. T. C. Chadick, an opponent of the Martin bill, asserted its approval will "turn the liquor traffic and the giant corporations loose in Texas."

Other Senate and House developments before both branches adjourned until tomorrow to permit continuation of committee hearings:

The House by a one-vote margin refused to print on minority report a bill striking the word "knowingly" from the liquor law clause stipulating a penalty for the sale of intoxicants to minors by beer permitees.

State-Owned Railroad

The House adopted a resolution authorizing a five-member committee to investigate financial reports of the state-owned railroad between Rusk and Palestine, now leased to the Texas and New Orleans railroad, to determine if the lease is not earning money for the state it may be cancelled.

The House began consideration —which ended temporarily when the House adjourned—of a joint resolution for submission of a constitutional amendment making more flexible the legislature's authority to administer the program for financial aid to dependent children.

SPINSTERS, 1945

WE HAVEN'T read many articles from Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt's pen since we do not scan papers that contain "My Day," but the First Lady said something in a recent press conference which has endeared her to us from now on. In setting out the difference between an old maid and a spinster, Mrs. FDR explained that an "old maid is a woman who couldn't have married even if she had wanted to while a single woman is one who could have married but didn't want to." There's fine distinction there which often is overlooked, especially by married women.

There aren't many unmarried women in their thirties who haven't suppressed the desire at one time or the other to slap a matron who, in smug voice set forth her views on a spinster as being a neurotic, unfulfilled woman. The pity of it is that many married women are neurotic too, and whether a woman is married or not, the same sort of thing happens to her when she doesn't get what she wants.

When you stop to think about it, a married woman who because of children or religious conviction, is tied irrevocably to the source of her unhappiness is a little worse off than her spinster sister, who can analyze what ails her without hurting anyone but herself, and do something about it.

THE case for spinsterhood is presented in an article in the April issue of Coronet magazine. Spinsters are a beleaguered minority and all the derogatory clinches about them are the creations of the powerful majority, the married women, the article continues.

Women possess as diversified natures as men and if some do not marry their reasons for not doing it are usually just as natural as other women's reasons in favor of it. Men of the same temperament are called "natural born bachelors" and are considered charming and useful members of society. But how many natural born spinsters are considered either charming or useful? We ask you.

A married woman's whole pattern of life is constructed around her husband, and when she loses him—either temporarily to a golf or poker game, or permanently at his death—the keystone is removed from the arch. While the married woman is fretting at being a golf widow, or bowling widow, the average spinster is developing resources of her own, learning to adapt herself to all kinds of people and situations. Contrary to popular belief she knows better how to spend her time than a married woman, for she always had to think it out for herself.

Unless the single girl is downright grotesque, she gets self-conscious in talking to her friends' husbands, because for some reason women who think her too unattractive to rate a proposal apparently think their husbands are dopes enough to be attracted to her. Spinsters would be a lot happier if the suspicious married world would take the heat off, relates Coronet.

Even women who don't exactly have to fight 'em off can usually arrange to get married if they really want to. A spinster, is therefore usually a girl who realizes that a husband can be a "ball and chain" just as much as a wife. Undoubtedly too, a large percentage of the 500,000 divorcees in this country today would have been happier as spinsters, and might even have been spinsters, had they not been frightened by the reputedly horrible alternative.

We feel better now.

YOUTHFUL BEAUTY

THERE is a magical power in the words "young beauty." They seem to hold a key to romance, to love, to success. And the look of glowing youth in a pleasant face is one of the chief claims many women have to appearing young.

The high winds and sun out here on the Plains sometimes wreak havoc with the human skin, leaving it dry and lined. The problem may be partially met by supplying the deficiency and various firms have manufactured creams to aid nature in restoring the oils so essential to skin beauty.

Listed in those that are meeting with success in this venture is Frances Denney which had created "Oils of the Wilderness," which contains lipoids (fatty substance, according to N. Webster), which can be absorbed by the skin to aid the functions of the cells, and according to its sponsors "will bring about youthful beauty." The average normal skin requires from 20 to 40 minutes to absorb Oils of the Wilderness and when a skin appears old or dry, scaly or withered it should be used every day.

About the nicest thing about it is that it is within the price range of almost every women who might be interested. Only a short time ago it was extremely scarce and very, very expensive.

Reporters On Iwo Recount Battle And Necessity For Taking Island

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The bloodiest campaign of the Pacific war was fought for Iwo Jima, a tiny island 762 miles from Japan. The U. S. Marines suffered total casualties of 19,938—probably more than a third of the total number engaged. What was it that cost so high a price and was the island worth it? In the following dispatch two United Press war correspondents who covered the Iwo Jima action from D-day on tell why we had to have the island and why the Marines found it the toughest job in their history.)

By LISLE SHOEMAKER and MAC JOHNSON
United Press War Correspondents

(Copyright, 1945, By The United Press)

IWO JIMA, March 20—The battle of Iwo Jima had gone past its third week. It was getting toward dusk and a group of Marines who had been in the front lines almost continuously were about through work for the day.

They had fought all day for the ground they held, but as the sun started to go down they saw more work still ahead of them. Ahead were lots more Japanese in pillboxes and caves. The Marines looked at them for a minute as though trying to decide whether to keep going. Finally one tired man said:

"To hell with 'em; we'll kill 'em tomorrow."

One Day Like Another

That's the way it was here. One day was just like the next one. They were all spent killing Japanese in slow, bloody fighting. No picturesque charges with flags flying. No Hollywood battles with our side winning every skirmish and the enemy turning out to be cowards. Just day after day of killing Japanese—and taking your losses.

The Marines who hit the beach here on D-day were as lean and hard as a well conditioned prize fighter. Many of them had been in other battles, all of them had been on strenuous maneuvers. Yet by the time the fighting neared an end almost every man had lost weight—usually between 10 and 25 pounds. The sheer manual labor of killing about 21,000 Japanese did that to them.

Expect Nothing Else

Nobody from the generals and admirals on down expected anything else. We didn't walk into a trap here. We knew from the start how tough it was going to be. That's one reason Marines were picked to do the job.

What made it so tough? Here are a few of the reasons:

The Japanese knew we were coming. The going-over that they got from our planes and surface ships told them that. Since last June Iwo has been hit several times by our carrier-based planes. It was bombarded at least three times by our surface ships. It was hit for 74 consecutive days by our land-based bombers.

To escape that the Japanese went underground. They built concrete blockhouses with walls 40 inches thick. They dug into caves. They constructed concrete basins that looked something like cisterns and put concrete covers over them with just enough holes for their mortars to fire through.

Only Two Landing Places

The Japanese knew to the last yard exactly where we were going to land because there are only two places on Iwo where you can make a landing. There is a southeastern beach and a western beach—a total of about 3,500 yards of landing space. In the early days of the campaign 2,500 yards of the beaches couldn't be used because the Japanese were plastering every foot of them.

Here's how the enemy worked it. He set up his artillery positions so that he did not even have to know where the Marines were. There were thousands of such artillery posts. They could make mortar shells walk up and down the beach at will. Many of these Japanese mortar men got their first glimpse of a Marine when a group of our men stormed his position and threw a grenade at him. But the Marines had fought their way to him through a deadly hail of fire, and most of the time our men were fighting uphill. The Japanese were looking down their throats every step of the way.

Volcanic Ash Tough

The day the Marines hit the beach they began to find out about the sand on Iwo. It is a volcanic ash which oozes out from underneath your feet. You can't dig a foxhole in it because the walls cave in. The only way the Marines could get cover was to dig a hole, reinforce the sides with sandbags and make a dugout. They had to do that under cross fire from the high ground and a hail of machine gun bullets which seemed to lace every foot of the beach.

It was a weird sight to see the Marines moving forward those first few days through a haze. Every time they made a dugout in the sand sulphur smoke began to ooze out and at times it became worse than a heavy fog.

"If there's any hell on earth, this is it," said one Marine as he tried to peer through the smoke and find the enemy.

Worse At Night

By day it was bad, but by night it was worse. As soon as it became dark the Japanese came out of their holes and started moving behind our lines. Suddenly the Japs would appear at the edge of our positions and start throwing grenades. Many a Marine looked up from his dugout at night to see a Japanese standing there ready to bayonet him. Hand to hand fights went on through the night, and there was no rest around the front lines. In the morning the Marines would move out of their positions to see how many Japanese had been killed in the night's fighting. There were surprisingly few bodies left because the Japs carried away most of their dead and wounded. It gave you the feeling that you were fighting a phantom enemy.

It took 26 days to kill the Japanese, and there wasn't any other way to get rid of them. Few of them surrendered, and it may be a long time before we know exactly how many of the enemy died on this tiny island. There are lots of them, for instance, lying dead in the caves that our grenades sealed up on the slopes of Mt. Suribachi. Altogether there probably are about 21,000 dead Japs on this island.

Had To Have Base

Our own casualties are 19,938—4,189 dead, 411 missing in action and 15,308 wounded. It's a high price, but there was no other way to do it. We had to have Iwo Jima as an air base for fighter planes and a place where Superfortresses could make emergency landings on the long run from the Marianas to the Japanese homeland.

Because we have won Iwo Jima the fires will burn brighter and longer in Tokyo, Nagoya, Osaka, Kobe and other places where the enemy forges his weapons. The capture of Iwo Jima has made the road to Tokyo lots easier for the men who will carry on the gallant fight that the U. S. Marines made on this bloody little stretch of hell.

Police Investigate San Antonio Death

SAN ANTONIO, March 20 (U.P.)—Police were investigating today the mysterious death of 38-year-old Jack Tindall, a well known and colorful San Antonio character.

Tindall died late yesterday in the county-city hospital, where he was brought after being found unconscious in a tourist cabin. The man's family has requested an autopsy. The body was sent to Eastland, where final rites were scheduled for today.

Tindall's widow is a part owner in the famed Black Cat restaurant.

ALLEYS INEFFECTIVE

LONDON, March 20 (AP)—The Tokyo radio said today that special "fire alleys"—often over 100 yards wide—which had been prepared in Tokyo and other Japansee cities had proved ineffective in halting the spread of conflagrations started by recent U. S. Superfortress raids.

British Bride Of GI Likes American Sodas

PARIS, Tex., March 20. (U.P.)—The best thing about America is chocolate ice cream sodas.

That's the opinion of Mrs. Doris Haight, British bride of an American GI, who has arrived in Texas to be near her husband, Cpl. Russell Haight of Camp Maxey.

"I like Yank ice cream best," the British girl told a reporter today. She was happily eating her sixth chocolate ice cream soda of the day during the interview.

Mrs. Haight, whose British accent is the marvel of Camp Maxey, met her husband when he arrived in England after going through the raid of Dieppe as a soldier in the Canadian Army. He proposed on their third date, she said, "that's the Yanks all over"—and she thought it over nearly three years before accepting.

Committee Approves Agricultural Program

WASHINGTON, March 20. (AP)—The House Appropriations committee today approved a $300,000,000 agricultural conservation program for the 1945 crop year, an increase of $10,000,000 over a budget bureau recommendation.

Following are approxiate figures presented by the department as to the payment expected to be earned in the various states in the year ending June 30, 1946; for soil conservation practices:

Oklahoma $7,141,000; Texas $21,850,000.

Promotion Of Gulf Ports Recommended

NEW ORLEANS, March 20. (AP)—Former Governor Sam H. Jones recommended here last night a program of "salesmanship and promotion" in the South to "convince industrialists that they can ship through gulf ports more cheaply than through those of the North Atlantic."

He told members of the Gulf Ports association at a dinner meeting that "the natural destiny of gulf ports has been unfairly thwarted to serve the northeastern economic area."

'Please Fence Us In' Is Officer's Plea

DALLAS, March 20. (U.P.)—If they rented living quarters on the basis of clever ads, one Dallas major could change his tune to "Home Sweet Home" today.

Here's the ad he ran under "wanted to rent" in the Times-Herald:

"Please fence us in—a furnished room, apartment, or closet."

Bomber Losses Less Than Two Out Of 100

WASHINGTON, March 20. (AP)—American heavy bomber losses to enemy action in Europe during 1944 averaged less than two planes for every 100 sent on combat missions.

A War department report today said the actual average loss rate for the British-based Eighth Air force and the Italy-based Fifteenth air force amounted to only 1.7 bombers for each 100 planes.

In February, when 20,682 bombers were sent out, the loss rate dropped to the lowest in the history of the aerial offensive against Germany — nine-tenths of one plane for every 100, or nine planes out of 1,000.

Not Everybody Is Happy With War News Policies

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J.—One government policy which still is subject to a considerable amount of criticism is that dealing with the handling of war news.

While it is of course virtually impossible to satisfy everyone, war news officials face the job of convincing more than a third of the people that good reasons exist for releasing only as much news as is now being given out.

GALLUP

Fifty-five per cent said they thought the government was giving as much information as it should about the war. Thirty-six per cent said they did not think so. Nine per cent were undecided.

The people who follow the war news most carefully—those in the higher educational levels—are the most critical. In contrast, those who have not gone through high school are inclined to be the least critical of the amount of news they get.

It is likewise notable that people 50 years of age and over are more inclined to be critical of the government's news policies than is true for younger people.

"Soft-Pedaling" Hit

The chief criticism, far and away, is that information is withheld, delayed unnecessarily, or soft-pedalled.

The dissatisfied people who make this criticism say they think the government should not soft-pedal the news or be afraid of printing the blunt truth, no matter whether it happens to be good or bad.

A sizable proportion, in fact, said they would like to get more of the bad news and more details. Comments which field reporters took down in this connection run like these:

"Let us have more of the details . . . Give us the horrors . . . the news about real conditions in battle . . . the whole story . . . We want the bad news as well as the good . . . We can take it."

There is also dissatisfaction with the amount of news about our losses, the pushbacks, casualties, and ship losses. People in this group said they would like to see the government publish more of this news, or publish it more promptly.

Sources Are Criticized

A good many people also told the field reporters that they don't like the way censorship works, that "we should not be getting our news through other countries."

This apparently stems from the fact that foreign news services or foreign newspapers have 'scooped' U. S. newsmen on important news stories in the past.

One elderly man in New York City said, "Give us as much news as Churchill gives his people . . . Why should we have to get our news from the other side?"

Finally, there are the people who want more news about our foreign policy, any commitments abroad, our post-war intentions in connection with other countries.

There were comments like these: "Let's have more news and details about the big conferences . . . I'd like to know more about our dealings with the neutral countries . . . We ought to be told more about China and Argentina . . . Can't we have more news about our dealings with the neutral countries?"

McCabe Takes City Recreation Job Here

It was announced Tuesday that H. J. McCabe, dean at Lubbock Senior High school, Monday accepted the position of athletic director of the city recreation department for June, July and August.

McCabe will supervise all athletic activities of the department, including tennis, badminton and various softball and baseball leagues.

Last summer, 10 men's and eight women's softball teams, four senior boys' and six junior boys' baseball teams were active, said A. C. Hamilton, superintendent of the recreation department. In addition to those four leagues, the department hopes a girls' league will be active this summer.

Dobie In Limelight For Stand On Negro Attendance At University

AUSTIN, March 20. (U.P.) — J. Frank Dobie, outspoken author-professor at the University of Texas, was in the limelight again today. He was denounced in the Texas House of Representatives and castigated in a statement by Lt. Gov. John Lee Smith for reported advocacy of admitting negro students to the University of Texas.

Dobie beat his critics to the punch with a statement that he had been misquoted about what he told a negro meeting in Fort Worth.

Gives Statement

Dobie's version is:

"I said that after attending Columbia university in New York a while I became accustomed to negroes in the classes and would have no objection to seeing them in the University of Texas or any other university. I said that I advocated better schools for negroes in Texas. I think that their college at Prairie View guaranteed to them by the Texas constitution, should be very much improved. I said, however, that I would not advocate at present abolishing the color line in the Texas public educational system."

Rep. Jo Ed Winfree, Houston, opened the attack on Dobie in the House of Representatives in a "personal privilege" denunciation. Rep. J. B. Sallas, Crockett followed with the suggestion that regents release Dobie from his employment at the state university and let him go to the faculty of Sam Huston college (a negro college in Austin.)

Smith Comments

The lieutenant governor's statement said Dobie's attitude was not surprising.

"More than a year ago," Smith said, I publicly asserted that there was a definite move on foot to bring about social equility with the negro race in the South and that the movement was being encouraged by certain university people.

"This was vehemently denied at the time but Dobie's statement proves my assertion to be based on truth. Should the negro be admitted to the university, of necessity he would be admitted to the various social activities of the school. Prof. Dobie's lame explanation does not remove the vice from his admitted assertion that negro students along side of whites would not be objectionable to him. He did thus approve erasure of the color line in our largest state school.

"Irresponsible statements of this nature by a university professor do immeasurable harm and can create strife and discord between races."

Smith and Dobie engaged in a heated discussion over political matters two years ago.

Bill Foster, Waco, closed the house discussion with the remark that house members had voted for the "right to work" bill which "permits the negro to work with us."

New Air Routes Are Sought By Braniff

DALLAS, March 20 (AP)—Braniff Airways, Inc., has applied to the Civil Aeronautics board for permission to provide mail, passenger and cargo service from Houston to Chicago via Little Rock and St. Louis and from Houston to New Orleans via Galveston and Beaumont.

Charles E. Beard, Braniff vice president, said one application was for two routes between Houston and New Orleans, one by way of Beaumont-Port Arthur and other via Galveston.

NAMED TO FOUNDATION

AUSTIN, March 20, (AP)—Dr. R. L. Sutherland, a director of the Hogg Foundation for mental hygiene, has been elected to the national committee for mental hygiene. Dr. Sutherland has directed the program in Texas since 1941.

Corpse Takes Train To Louisville For Look At Relatives

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 20 (U.P.)—Page the Office of Defense Transportation.

A dazed L. & N. ticket agent has issued a two-way ticket between Nashville and Louisville . . . for a corpse.

The purchase was made by a negro man who backed his request with the reasoning:

"I figures it will be cheaper to send the corpse to Louisville than for them 17 relatives to come down here to see him and eat up all my ration points."

Biggest Warship In World Is Christened

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., March 20 (U.P.)—The world's greatest warship was christened here today, but it won't be floated until a balky tide gets around to playing the full role assigned to it in the ceremony.

The ship is the 45,000-ton supercarrier Midway, from whose decks one day will fly a brand new kind of warplane designed to give the enemy a brand new kind of trouble.

Built in a drydock instead of on the conventoinal ways, the Midway was to have been floated at precisely 8:43 a. m. CWT by the simple expedient of admitting sea water into the dock.

But the tide didn't come through with its full contribution to the proceedings. By calculation, the tide should have been high enough to float the blocks-long craft at 8:43. The way it turned out, however, the tide was four inches short, and the actual floating of the Midway was therefore delayed.

Navy officials said they expected the tide to make up the missing four inches later today or early tomorrow. Meanwhile, the christening went on as scheduled.

TITO'S SON VISITS

Maquis Joe Makes Own Record And Is Adopted By Texans

By A. I. GOLDBERG
Associated Press Staff Writer

IN ALSACE—Maquis Joe of Kokomo killed his first German when he was 17 for two reasons—he didn't like the German and he needed the German's gun to be a soldier in the Maquis.

Joe is John G. Topsent, now 20, of Colmar, a six-foot two inch Alsatian who speaks an ingratiating English, has killed at least 11 Germans "for sure," is proud of his Cousin George Baer who is a technical sergeant in the U. S. Army in New Guinea, and wants to visit the United States.

He has an uncle, Henry Baer, a philatelist, in Nassau street, New York City. Uncle Henry is George's father.

More than that, he says, "I have lots of friends in the United States now, from all over. They adopted me."

Young Topsent, now a warrant officer in the French Army, is the son of doctors. His mother is an Alsatian, his father a Norman.

Maquis Joe was a killer because he had to be. Near Luxeuil on July 1, 1942, he crept up on a German sentry, stabbed him to death with a knife, buried him in the woods, and he had his gun.

Joe was only 16 when a group of six British and two French paratroopers landed in his area in southern France. He helped guide them to a German garrison post.

The toll that night was 52 Germans.

After Joe got into the Maquis and killed a few more Germans he got to be a personage. By the time the Seventh Army landed in southern France he was leader of 60 Marquis.

The 36th "Texas" division drew him as a guide. He was a good one and that's one of the reasons he can claim he has a lot of friends, from all over. The 36th adopted him and gave him that tag, Maquis Joe from Kokomo.

There's another friend in the United States he would like to see. She is Miss Jeanne K. Farney, of Foxcroft, Middleburg, Va., a teacher of French in a school there. She is the sister of his godmother.

Statewide Proration Hearing Is Ordered

AUSTIN, March 20 (AP) — The railroad commission today ordered a statewide proration hearing in Austin on April 18 for taking testimony upon which to base a May production order.

Another order of the commission stipulated rules for the Midland farms pool, Andrews county, including 800-400 spacing, 40-acre proration units and an allowable formula based 75 percent on acreage and 25 per cent on wells.

COCOA PRICES SET

MEXICO CITY, March 20. (U.P.)—Government decree today fixed cocoa prices for the whole country. Prices to the public ranged from 46 cents a pound for tabasco to 38 cents for sanchez.

VFW Renews Appeal For Rotation Plan

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—The Veterans of Foreign Wars today renewed its plea for rotation of furloughs to provide 30 days leave in the United States for all soldiers having 18 months or more of foreign service.

In a letter to Secretary of War Stimson, the VFW's national legislative representative, Omar B. Ketchum, said:

"Surely there are enough replacements and transportation to grant relief to personnel who have been in continuous service, and much of it combat for three years or more."

New Carbon Black Prices Authorized

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—OPA has authorized "adjustable" prices on carbon black sold to the Defense Supplies corporation.

Final prices will be determined upon issuance of a new regulation which will grant higher ceilings for channel black produced under emergency high-cost conditions to meet the government's demand for this essential ingredient of military tires.

OPA said the critical shortage of carbon black has forced producers to use abnormally costly materials and expensive methods of production. The pending price order will cover only supplies produced under such conditions.

Veterans Of Western Front Arrive In U. S.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., March 20 (AP)—More than 1,700 American soldiers who served on the Western front were returned to the United States disembarked today from a troop transport at the Hampton Roads port of embarkation.

The ship brought 725 wounded, injured and sick men and 1,000 rotation troops—soldiers who will be given 30 days leave and then assigned to duty in this country. Each of the nation's 48 states was represented among the ship's passengers.

The patients, both litter and ambulatory cases, were removed to the Camp Patrick Henry evacuation hospital. They will later be transferred to Army general hospitals nearest their homes.

Plow-Up Of Guayule Plans Is Rejected

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP) The House appropriations committee overruled a budget bureau recommendation today by declining to approve funds to plow under 10,000 acres of guayule rubber plants.

In reporting out the Agriculture department appropriations bill for the 1946 fiscal year, beginning July 1, the committee said it was following a course decided upon by the Congress in continuing the guayule program in operation.

The use of domestic silver for silverware, pens and pencils, church goods, jewelry, watch cases, and other non-essential items has been restricted to 50 per cent of the usage rate of 1941.

'Those Who Gave Up Died', Col. Reed Says Of Jap Imprisonment

DALLAS, March 20. (AP)—Lt. Col. Emil Patrick Reed, Brownsville, surgeon recently freed from a Japanese prisoner of war camp, today recalled two years and nine months that began with the March of Death and ended in liberation by American Rangers on Jan. 30.

He summed it up this way in an interview:

Keeps Working

"Those who gave up died. I kept on working the whole time I was a prisoner to keep living."

Col. Reed is visiting his wife and three children, Elizabeth, Virginia and Pat, jr., who have been living here with Mrs. Reed's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. English.

The Bataan hero doesn't know how many miles the march of death covered. He remembers that American prisoners began walking at 5:30 p. m. one day and stopped at 3 p. m. five days later.

They were allowed to stop "two or three times" for a "few minutes."

All he had to eat during that time was a few handfuls of rice, leftovers from the food of Jap soldiers At one time on the march he ran to a caribou wallow, digging his canteen full of the mucky water. Into this filthy wetness, he dropped one or two drops of tincture of iodine which he had with him.

Dranks Muddy Water

When he could stand the thirst no longer, he drank the muddy water.

For two months they were kept at Camp O'Donnell, then were moved to Cabanatuan.

During more than two years of internment, the colonel said that the prisoners ate within a few hundred yards of latrines and the cemetery, in which Americans who died were buried "about two inches" beneath the soil.

Reed ate dog, monkey and lizard and would have eaten them more often had they been available, he said. Others, he continued, ate cats and rats. One dish the prisoners consumed was decayed fish which they ground into a powder and cooked.

The American sense of humor was present even there, said the colonel.

Americans Joke

"Zero" or "the pearly gates" ward, jokingly referred to by the Americans, was the room of the crude hospital in which the most seriously ill patients were put.

Almost every morning naked bodies of the dead were to be seen, lying where they had dropped, Reed said.

For part of the time he was in charge of the out-patient department of the hospital. In this work he saw men who could still walk; men who were suffering from malaria, beri-beri, dysentery, or some nutritional disease.

The colonel said a lack of vitamin B in the men's daily diets was so acute that the eyesight of many was affected.

He recalled two Japs who showed kindness. One the Americans called "Big Speedo" because he had picked up the English word "speed" and would always say "speedo" when he wanted them to hurry. Red said Speedo was unusual in that he would permit the prisoners a few minutes rest at work, and that he had never seen the Jap strike a prisoner.

Attempts Improvements

The second Japanese was an officer who attempted to make some improvements and changes at Cabanatuan, but who was soon replaced, said Reed.

Other Japs, "dumb, driver brutes," used "two by two" boards to beat Americans, and the prisoners called these clubs "vitamin sticks" because "they gave you energy to get out of their way," said Reed.

He sketched this additional picture:

On work details the men were not allowed to squat as they labored in the fields. All internees were required to bend from the waist without bending their knees. Many fainted.

The U. S. medical officers kept a list and graded their sick on just how sick they were. The Japs always demanded more men for a work detail than there were well men in the camp. Those least sick had to work.

"You can imagine how hard it was to grade sick men, or to send one of the ill in the field to work. But we had to do it," said Reed.

After his short leave here Reed will report to San Antonio for a physical checkup in an Army hospital. He then will be given a more extensive leave, after which he will report to a redistribution center for another assignment.

MISS BRAZIL—Louise Burnett (above), chosen from 100 aspirants to portray, "Miss Brazil," will dance and sing in a movie about the pan-American good neighbor policy.

Cardinals Might Shift Into Ohio

CAIRO, Ill., March 20. (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals have decided to move to a dry land training site "somewhere in Ohio" if Manager Bill Southworth can find a suitable spot.

President Sam Breadon announced today that Southworth is looking for a place and that the squad will leave here if satisfactory arrangements can be made.

The World Champions, who opened spring training yesterday, found the outfield of their park under four feet of water with prospects it would not drain within the training period.

BOROWY SIGNS AND LINDELL JOINS YANKS

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 20. (AP)—Hank Borowy, right handed flinger who had the best earned run average on the New York Yankee staff last year, signed his 1945 contract today. Outfielder Johnny Lindell, who hit an even .300 in 1944, also arrived in camp.

Several bus loads of wounded soldiers watched the Yanks as they drilled out of doors for the fourth straight day.

NEW YORK GIANTS HAVE WARM WORKOUT

LAKEWOOD, N. J., March 20. (AP)—Candidates for the New York Giant team sweated four hours in 80 degree temperature today.

President Horace Stoneham said Outfielder Joe Medwick, suffering from dislocation of his sacroiliac, would be sent to New York for medical attention if he failed to show improvement tomorrow.

DUROCHER TEMPTED BY BONUS PROMISE

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N. Y., March 20. (AP)—Even though he watched Leo Durocher practice around second base in today's outdoor workout at the Brooklyn Dodgers camp, President Branch Rickey didn't hesitate to announce he would give the manager a bonus of $1,000 if he played that position in the first 15 games of the season.

"And I don't think I'll ever have to pay him the money," Rickey added. "I have him tagged as an active ball player in March and an inactive player in April."

"I'll fool him," Durocher declared.

BROWNS BOSS WELL PLEASED WITH TEAM

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., March 20. (AP)—Despite adverse weather and late-arriving players, Manager Luke Sewell is pleased with the condition of his St. Louis Browns after one-week's training.

"Our men are pretty far advanced," he said. "Things are moving pretty well."

The club has been training indoors for several days because of wet grounds.

Sewell said he "wouldn't be surprised" if Denny Galehouse, one of last year's pitching stalwarts, does not play ball this season. Galehouse is on an essential war job in Akron, Ohio.

PHILS PITCHING LOOKS GOOD TO FITZSIMMONS

WILMINGTON, Del., March 20. (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies are either well fortified with effective pitchers or need some hitters.

Manager Fred Fitzsimmons watched two of his teams, the Blues and the Jays, go scoreless for five innings.

The lone hit for the Jays was George Broome's triple off Dick Barrett. The Blues had three singles, one off Chetkovitch and two off Charley Ripple.

CROWSON REPORTS TO ATHLETICS SPRING CAMP

FREDERICK, Md., March 20. (AP)—Thomas Woodrow Crowson, who won 12 and dropped 6 pitching for the Toronto Maple Leafs last year, arrived today in the Philadelphia Athletics' training camp.

Connie Mack regards Crowson and Lou Knerr as his leading candidates for the A's fifth starting pitcher to help with Ross Christopher, Don Black, Jes Flores and Louis (Buck) Newsom.

PIRATES SIGN UP ACE PITCHING PAIR

MUNCIE, Ind., March 20. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates solved most of their pitching problems today when Rip Sewell, 21-game winner last year, formally signed his contract, and Max Butcher, who won 13 for the Bucs in 1944, reported to camp.

Infielder Frankie Zak, who had been dickering over salary terms, informed the club he was signing and would report as soon as he gets a release from his present job.

A newcomer in camp was Joe Scrivner, 20-year-old right hand hurler from Lia, O.

CUBS LOST AGAIN IN LOST RIVER FLOOD

FRENCH LICK, Ind., March 20. (AP)—The Chicago Cubs worked out in a huge pavilion here today as heavy rains again sent Lost river over its banks and onto their playing field. Manager Charley Grimm said he planned to work Andy Rafko in right field just in case slugger Bill Nicholson, who has not yet reported, is unavailable by the time the season opens.

DYKES BEAMS OVER WHITE SOX INFIELD

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., March 20. (AP)—Jimmy Dykes beamed today as the Chicago White Sox came up with an infield that may take over the full job this summer. Bill Nagel, a rookie, performed creditably at first base, and Dan Reynolds, a product of the Yankee farm system and drafted by the Sox, reached camp. Dykes expects Reynolds to be the regular shortstop. Tony Cuccinello, at third, and Leroy Schalk at second, both veterans, round out the quartette.

TRIBE GROOMS ROOKIE FOR KELTNER'S POST

LAFAYETTE, Ind., March 20 (AP)—Vice President Roger Peckinpaugh didn't even know Al Chirocki's age when the Cleveland Indians brought him up from their Wilkes-Barre farm this year but the 21-year-old infielder today became heir apparent to the third base job with Ken Keltner's induction into the Navy.

He presents a precious guarantee of season-long availability in the form of a medical discharge from the Coast Guard.

BRAVES PLAY JIGSAW INTRA-SQUAD BATTLE

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP) The Boston Braves played a nine-inning burlesque game today with only two days of practice under their belts at their Georgetown university camp.

With catchers pitching, hurlers playing the outfield and outfielders on the infield, Catcher Clyde Kluttz pitched a 9-6 win over Catcher Phil Masi.

Three more players reported, Outfielders Stanley Wentzel and Michael Ulisney who hit .316 and .318 last year for New Orleans and Hartford, respectively, and Infielder Stephen Schemo, who batted .306 for Hartford.

SENATORS' STAFF IS BOLSTERED BY SOUTHPAW

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP) Mickey Haefner, only southpaw pitcher, joined the Washington Senators today, bringing the total number of players in camp to 24.

Haefer's arrival completes the team's mound corps with the exceptions of Alex Carrasquel, veteran Venezuelean, and Larry Burger, New York semi-pro, both of whom are expected soon.

RAIN HINDERS TIGERS PLANNED HITTING DRILL

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 20 (AP) — Rain hindered the Detroit Tigers' practice session today, as a scheduled batting practice had to be called off.

The squad was increased to 20 with the arrivals of Shortstops Joe Hoover and James (Skeeter) Webb, Second Baseman Eddie Borom, and Outfielders Roger Cramer and Ed Mierkowicz.

LITWHILER IS INDUCTED

Giants Loom As Stronger Team

LAKEWOOD, N. J., March 20 (AP)—Manager Mel Ott refused to guess where his New York Giants would finish this year, but he did predict today that ace relief pitcher Ace T. Adams would not appear in as many games as in each of the past three seasons, when he toiled in virtually every tilt. That is another way of saying that the Giants will present their best hurling corps since Ott assumed control in 1943.

"The addition of Ray Harrell, 20-game winner from San Francisco, Loren Bain from Minneapolis and Bill Emmerich from Rochester, plus the return of Van Mungo, discharged from the Army last winter," Ott said, "should bolster our mound staff and give us seven starting pitchers. Bill Voiselle should repeat his great 1944 season and Harry Feldman and Lefthander Ewald Pyle have looked good in practice thus far. Adams, of course, will be the chief fireman.

"We should have a better all-around team than the one which finished in fifth place last October. Our infield is steadier, our outfield is stronger, especially in reserves, but catching is the weak link. If we can come up with another good catcher to help out Ernie Lombardi, and another utility infielder, we're apt to make trouble for the rest of the league."

Ott expected his sophomore infield of Phil Weintraub at first, George Hausmann at second, Buddy Kerr at short and Nap Reyes at third to function more smoothly this year.

"With a full season behind them, Hausmann, Kerr and Reyes should overcome their nervousness which hampered their play last year. Kerr has gained weight and added power to his hitting while Weintraub should bat in close to 100 runs if he avoids injury. Billy Jurges, if he arrives, and perhaps Roy Nichols, with Jersey City last year, will be our utility infielders."

The Giants outfield as in the past, will supply most of the power at the plate. Mel, himself, will play right field. Joe Medwick, the club's leading hitter last year, although presently nursing a sprained back, has the left field post cinched, while Johnny Rucker and Leon Treadway will fight it out for center field. Those four, together with Bruce Sloan, Charlie Mead, Dan Gardella and Steve Filipowicz, give the Giants eight picketmen.

Ray Berres and John Toncoff, a rookie from Jersey City, are the other receivers.

Sporting News Names All-American Cagers

ST. LOUIS, March 20. (AP) — Averaging six-feet-five and capable of scoring 75 to 80 points per game, the 1944-45 'All-America' basketball team selecter by the Sporting News consists of Wyndol Gray, Bowling Green, Ohio, and Howard Dallmar of Pennsylvania, at forwards; George Mikan of DePaul at center, and Bob Kurland of Oklahoma A. & M. and Arnold Ferrin of Utah at guards.

Six-foot nine Mikan and seven-foot Kurland were hailed by the Sporting News as two of the outstanding players of the year. Both are cetners but can fill any position.

Snead, Nelson Tied Again, Another Playoff Due Today

CHARLOTTE, N. C. March 20 (AP)—Sammy Snead and Byron Nelson, the two top men in golf, wounded up all square today in a see-saw 18-hole playoff for first place in the $10,000 Charlotte Open golf tournament.

They fired three under par rounds and will play off tomorrow at 12:30 p. m. c.w.t.

For the second straight day Snead staggered home for a deadlock after having the top prize of $2,000 in war bonds in his grasp, along with a couple of tournament winning records. Each finished the regulation 72 holes in 272, 16 under par.

Again it was the relatively easy 17th hole, a 490-yard par five built for the slugging Snead that cost him the tournament trophy. There he hit his second shot out of bounds, into parallel Roswell avenue, then topped his third shot before dropping a 7-iron near the hole and sinking a 7-foot putt for a five, against Nelson's birdie four that squared the match.

The lead changed hands four times. Nelson built a two-up margin by birdying the second and third holes, but lost the margin with a six on No. 4 where he topped a bad lie for his first double bogey in weeks.

Snead went ahead with a 25-foot putt for an eagle three on seven, and Nelson, keeping a promise that he would have no bogeys on No. 9 where he lost last year's tournament, got the stroke back with a par three on the hole while Sammy was taking his fourth bogey there in five rounds.

Nelson went one up when Snead missed the short 12th green but Snead picked up shots on 14 when Nelson pushed his drive into the woods and on 15, with a birdie three.

It was the second playoff meeting of the two foremost shotmakers now in business, Snead having beaten Nelson one up in 19 holes at Gulfport, Miss., last month.

HOUSTON, March 20. (AP)—Billy Deeg, former Texas welterweight champion, will meet Tony Garcia of Sonora in the eight round windup to the Paul Altman-Kid Filipino main event here next Tuesday, Promoter Ralph Smith said today.

Less Travel Booked In National League

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—A 154-game schedule for 1945 that will involve approximately 3,500,000 fewer passenger miles than a similar program in 1941 was announced today by the National League.

Ford Frick, president of the National loop, says his athletes traveled 6,485,395 passenger miles during the campaign that closed a few months before Pearl Harbor. This year he estimates they will occupy railroad seats for not more than 3,000,000. Neither year includes World Series mileage.

In addition, Frick is preparing letters to his club owners, urging them to compress the remaining four intra-sectional visits into the three allowed for inter-sectional trips.

The New York Giants already have arranged for only three trips to Boston and to Philadelphia.

The campaign opens Tuesday, April 17, with the Giants at Boston, Philadelphia at Brooklyn, Pattsburgh at Cincinnati and St. Louis at Chicago. On April 20 the remaining four clubs will have their home inaugurals with Brooklyn at New York, Boston at Philadelphia, Chicago at Pittsburgh and Cincinnati at St. Louis.

The season ends Sunday, Sept. 30, with each club having entertained its home constituents on 12 different Sundays and on at least one holiday.

Ratliff Picks Three Half Mile Leaders

Harold V. Ratliff, Associated Press sports editor, picks the 880-yard run at the state track and field meet this year as the race to watch, and picks the one-two-three finishers in the big meet for this event, but not in their respective orders. Time alone will tell how well Ratliff is able to pick the winners.

Here is Ratliff's comments:

We want a ringside seat when they run the half-mile in the state Interscholastic League meet this year. It's going to be one of the greatest races of all time.

You have Rhea Nichols, the Adamson (Dallas) star who won at Austin last year; Don Sparks, the Fort Worth Tech ace who was regional champion in 1944 in the same meet with Nichols, and Gordon Moore of Jefferson (San Antonio). All three have been running the 880 in around 2:04.

In last week's Southwestern Exposition meet at Fort Worth Nichols and Sparks ran in different heats. Nichols won his in 2:04.8; Sparks took his in 2:05. Had the boys been in the same heat it's likely they would have hit around 2:03.

Army Veterans Beaten In AAU

DENVER, March 20. (AP)—Four war-wounded veterans drew plaudits of the crowd for their game but losing battle at the National AAU basketball tournament tonight, as Fort Warren, Wyo., took a 76-44 win over Bushnell General hospital of Brigham City, Utah.

While 3,000 fans cheered them on, the recuperating veterans, all wearers of the purple heart, played basketball that would have won from any but a topflight quint.

The four — Duncan McDonald, John Gailey, Sid Manning and Harold Lester—scored 30 of their team's 44 points, aided by some sterling floor work by one of their officers, Lt. Gilbert Tobler.

Respectful attention followed humor in city auditorium as the Army heroes took the floor. In the evening's opening game Twentieth Century-Fox gave the Hollywood touch to their lop-sided triumph over the Sterling, Colo., Mitchell-Pontiacs.

In the last two minutes, with Twentieth Century holding a 50-point lead, Bill Putnam, Hollywood guard, suddenly sat down on the court and calmly watched his mates finish out the game.

Twentieth Century won, 74-21, and made two field goals after Putnam staged his sit-down strike.

The Peoria, Ill., Caterpillars, who put Pratt-Whitney of Kansas City out of the reckoning 63-39, gained some followers with their rapid-fire play-making and aggressive defensive play.

The other three games were one-sided contests between teams given only a long shot chance to upset any of the eight seeded clubs.

Modesto, Calif., Junior college, swamped the Cleveland Allmens, 69-47; Fort Wayne, Ind., Moose Lodge, whipped Camp Claiborne, La., hospital, 62-50, and San Francisco Athletic club disposed of Bennett Drug, Billings, Mont., 66-41.

Wilson Takes Pair Over Sanders Clubs

The Wilson Wranglers took both ends of a double header over the Sanders Steers in the Lubbock grade school volleyball league Tuesday afternoon, the boys winning an easy 61-14 victory and the girls romping to a 51-33 win in the other game.

Odessa Plans Strong Junior Ball Circuit

ODESSA, March 20. — Junior baseball is looking forward to a booming season in Ector county this year, and six former professional players, including two ex-big leaguers are going to manage teams.

Les Nunamaker of Penwell, who played for Cleveland in 1920; Rollie Fairbairn of Odessa, who pitched for the White Sox in the same period; Fred Pipkin of Penwell, Max Thomas and John Butler of Odessa, former Texas Leaguers, and Jim Payne of Odessa, who once played in the Western league have already started organizing teams.

Other ex-pro players in this area are reported interested in directing American Legion nines. Snipe Conley of Texon and Jodie Tate of Lamesa, who played in the Texas league, are expected to line up teams.

Tate was also a well known figure in the days of the West Texas-New Mexico league, where he was a popular manager.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Buses are overburdened as never before. A crisis is near. With more men, tires and gas going to war, present service can barely be maintained. Each day brings greater loads. When you must travel locally, let this be your creed:

1. Do Not Ride in Rush Hours, except to and from your job.
2. Have Exact Fare Ready, saves time and fuss.
3. Move Back When Driver Asks, speeds your ride.

This simple creed will work wonders.

A New "War Of Nerves"

"Waste Of Cigarets" Frets Nazis

THAT there is more than one form of "war of nerves" was indicated with the arrival on these shores the other day of a story about strange conferences being held between U. S. and German army officers in France.

When the Germans hotfooted it across France for the Rhine valley last year, about 25,000 of their comrades were left behind in each of St. Nazaire and Lorient, and about 50,000 more in LaRochelle and the Gironde estuary south of it. There they remain in "pockets," surrounded by an overwhelming number of American troops.

From time to time, the Americans fire on the Germans in these pockets, especially whenever the "master race" boys congregate. Sometimes the Germans fire back, but not too often, because they are short of ammunition. The American theory is, of course, that the Germans might just as well remain in the "pockets" and support themselves—instead of being made formal prisoners—since they can't do any harm. So occasionally it becomes necessary for conferences between our officers and German officers in "No Man's Land," to discuss evacuation of civilians and similar matters.

The "war of nerves" story brought out that at such conferences German officers habitually smoke one of their three-cigaret daily ration, puffing it "clear down to the butt," while American officers "chain-smoke," taking a few "drags" from each cigaret, then toss the rest into a nearby fire.

This action on the part of Americans makes the Germans furious—but also impresses them, psychologically, with their unenviable position.

Not bad, not bad!

Our Chemist Benefactors

THERE is no better way of visualizing the tremendous contributions that chemistry has made to medicine in recent times than by comparing the drugs considered most important today to those which held top rank a few years ago. The differences are startling.

In 1910, the Journal of the American Medical Association took a poll of professors of medicine in leading medical schools. In the considered judgment of these teachers the 10 most important drugs were ether, morphine, digitalis, diphtheria anti-toxin, smallpox vaccine, iron, quinine, iodine, alcohol and mercury.

All of these drugs play a major role in medicine today. But the professors of 1910 would have been at a loss to know what to make of the list for 1945. It begins with penicillin, the sulfonamides and anti-biotics—all brand new products of the laboratories. The value of blood plasma, next on the list, only began to be appreciated with the present war. Quinine, ether, morphine and digitalis are familiar drugs which have held their own. But the 1945 list concludes with another flurry of new preparations: the arsphenamines, insulin, hormones, and the vitamins.

Other scientists and physicians, no doubt, would rank drugs differently and might well put such things as alcohol and mercury back in their accustomed places. But there can be no question that the chemical compounds used to treat and heal mankind have changed with startling speed and that they are still changing with every passing day.

That "Gift To Little Men"

AMONG the day's voluminous pile of press releases issued by the various agencies, departments, bureaus and divisions of the government of the United States to newspapers (despite paper and manpower shortages) was one recently labeled "for immediate release." It said:

'Selling more than 90 pieces of construction machinery and farm equipment each hour was a big job and a job well done by the U. S. Treasury office of surplus property's well trained crew at its recent sale of surplus property held in Kearney, Nebraska."

The release went on to mention the "real service" being rendered by these matchless servants of the public good, to laud the Treasury's "fast action," plus other comments, to wit: "The buyers apparently like the fair and square way in which the sale was conducted."

It is almost unnecessary to point out that this release was prepared by the Treasury department's own matchless regiment of the New Deal's armies upon armies of press agents, all paid for, of course, by John Taxpayer.

The only comment that occurs at the moment to describe this sort of thing is Bruce Barton's remark:

"Conceit is God's gift to little men."

The One Minute Sermon

No man hath seen God at any time. If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and his love is perfected in us.

Hereby know we that we dwell in him, and he in us, because he hath given us of his Spirit.

And we have seen and do testify that the Father sent the Son to be the Saviour of the world.

Whosoever shall confess that Jesus is the Son of God, God dwelleth in him, and he in God.—1 John 4: 12-15.

THE STORY: At the age of 10, Frederic Chopin's dexterity at the pianoforte has already made him a person of note in the little Polish village of Zelazowa Wola. Count Skarbek, owner of the village, has requested that he play in a public concert at Farsaw. Frederic confides in Professor Elsner that he and his young friends have been having secret meetings and when they grow up intend to fight for the freedom of Poland, which is under the rule of the Russian Czar. Elsner is sympathetic, dreams of the day when the Paris musical world will acknowledge Frederic's genius.

V

THE CONCERT

THE excitement of preparing for Fritzchen's first public performance had its effect on Mamma Chopin. She was put to bed with a fever and it was thought she would not be well enough to attend. "I am not sick," Mamma said. "How perfectly ridiculous."

She called for Fritzchen and the boy went into the bedchamber and stood alongside Mamma's bed and took Mamma's hand.

"Frederic, did they tell you Mamma was sick?"

"That is a terrible think to tell you. Look at me. Does your Mamma look sick?"

"No, Mamma."

"I am not sick yet they won't let me get up. What am I to do? I am as well as anybody but to them that doesn't make any difference, I must still do as they say. Well, I will do it, of course, I am not so stubborn. I will do it if only to show them. But when they say I am sick, then I don't know what to say, I want to laugh in their faces. Fritzchen, my darling, your Mamma can laugh as hearty as any of them."

She laughed and Fritzchen joined in the laughter.

"—Now, my darling, there are just one or two things I must tell you."

"Yes, Mamma."

"—Your Mamma is not sick. That is the first thing. But do I have to tell you that? You can see for yourself. Now the next thing. Fritzchen — the night air is not good for you. You will please see that your coat is tight about your neck, and do not open it, whatever you do."

"I won't open it, Mamma."

"—Well, then I am sure you won't. Now, my darling, kiss your Mamma on the cheek."

Frederic placed his lips on her warm cheeks that were wet with tears.

"—NO, Fritzchen, I am not crying. Why should I cry? This is all such nonsense. My children — they are all beautiful, talented children—every one.

"—Well, there is only this to say — when you walk out on the stage and you see all those people in front of you, looking up at you, you must not cry, or run away. Hold your head up, firm. Fritzchen, show me exactly how you are going to hold your head up."

"I will hold it like this, Mamma."

"—Yes. Firm. And always, no matter what happens, hold your head up. And when you play, Fritzchen, remember you are playing for your Mamma and your Papa and for your dear sisters, who are always proud of you, and for Professor Elsner. Nothing—nothing in the world must make you forget that."

"I won't forget it."

"— I will be thinking of you, Frederic, all the time—every moment. I will be thinking of nothing else. Yes, another thing, I had almost forgotten. Count Skarzek will be there, he will be in a box, on the side of the stage. You can be sure he will have his eyes on you. Well, that is nothing to be afraid of. It might be a nice thing, Fritzchen, when you have finished, to take a step or two toward the box where he is and make a special bow to him—"

"But why should I bow to him, Mamma, and not to all?".

Mamma puckered her lips. "Fritzchen, the Count is a very very great man."

Frederic said. "Yes, but he is not so great as Professor Elsner."

Mamma could not sleep; she could not even close her eyes. She tossed and was very restless. All her thoughts were of the concert. Would Fritzchen remember all she had told him? Her ears were alert for the sounds of the returning carriage. She heard nothing but the wind in the eaves.

One thing she had managed to do before they had put her to bed, a perfectly well woman; she had managed to see that Fritzchen looked his best. She and Papa had laid out the money for the very finest velvet trousers and new shoes and a handsome smock with a broad collar and sturdy strings with which to keep the smock in place about the child's neck. He wore mittens, too, for his fingers must be warm if they were to be limber.

At last! They were home at last!

Mamma sat up. She flung the bedcovers from her, but, on second thought, pulled them back, then shouted: "—Well! Are you there!"

Fritzchen was at the door first. Mamma saw by the light of the candles how his eyes glowed. She knew the concert was a success.

"—It was, wasn't it?"

Pappa Chopin, his high hat still on his head, was in the doorway.

"—Well, don't any of you say anything?"

"I wasn't afraid, Mamma."

"—No, no! Don't tell me that. I know that! What was there to be afraid of? But how was it? How did the people act? Did they applaud? That's what I want to know. Did they applaud? Well, don't you open your mouth? Don't you say anything?"

"They looked at me, Mamma. Well, not so much at me. But they all looked at my new collar!"

Sugar Beet Planting Time Here Discussed

If planting of sugar beets is delayed until April they will come up with the weeds, rather than before them, according to Dr. A. W. Young, head of the department of plant industry at Texas Tech, who supervised planting of 12 varieties of the beet on three acres of the Tech farm Monday afternoon.

A continuation of an experiment that is carried on by the department to test beets for sugar content and their resistance to disease, testing will be increased this year by the addition of five seed treatments and three kinds of fertilizer.

Dr. Young said work plans of the department of this year were to plant and cultivate the beets so as to eleminate hand work previously done. Mechanized work will be done by cross-blocking or cross-cultivation.

CEMETERIES PROPOSED

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—At least one national cemetery in each state, territory and possession, and as many more as necessary, would be provided under legislation introduced by Sen. Hill (D-Ala).

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

DEAN C. BREWER, 76 and Lavinia Allen, 68, of Augusta, Me., were married in Portsmouth, N. H., a few days ago.

Fifty years ago Dean and Lavinia were sweethearts in Burtts Corner, New Brunswick, but somehow, like so many young loves, the romance flickered out and the two drifted apart.

Last summer, Brewer, who never married, took a trip to the scenes of his childhood and met the 16-year-old granddaughter of his former sweetheart, who told him that her grandmother was now a widow, living in Augusta.

Brewer visited the Maine capital last Christmas, looked up his "girl friend" and fell in love with her all over again. She returned the sentiment—and marriage followed.

BRANDEIS

When interviewed both "guessed" that maybe they had been in love all the time anyway and that their belated marriage was something that should have taken place half a century ago.

* * *

I clipped the story out of my paper and sent it to a niece of mine.

She is 22 and quite in love with a young lieutenant who proposed to her and wants to get married right away.

She is thinking very seriously of marrying him, but there's a hitch.

Five years ago, when she was 17, she was "crazy in love" with a boy and they were going to get married.

But, somehow, just like in the case of Dean and Lavinia, the romance faded. He went away and she hasn't heard from him in years.

But every so often she thinks of him. And whenever she meets other fellows she instinctively compares them with the chap who was her ideal man five years ago.

As long as I am not mentioning her name I don't think I am violating any confidences. So I'll tell you what she wrote:

"Do you think I should marry this lieutenant? I like him as much as I ever did any man since J . . . I really think I love him. But with J . . . . always coming into my mind, do you think I can ever be happy with any other man? Do you think that love comes only once into one's life, or can a person love more than once? T . . . . is such a fine boy that I would hate to make him unhappy and to find that I'd be mentally unfaithful to him after marrying him."

* * *

NOW, what would you say in a case like that? Frankly, I don't know.

But, when I sent my niece the clipping about Dean and Lavinia, I wrote her as follows:

"I can't tell you whether a person can love more than once, because nobody knows what love is. But I do know that marriage is not only a matter of love but also a matter of duty.

"If you think that the boy can make you happy and if you will consider it your duty to make him happy, then I can see no reason to become an old maid just because you are living in a dream.

"Quite a few years ago I thought I was in love and that romance went by the boards. Last week I met the girl of whom I had thought quite often. I spent an hour with her and she told me of her husband and her three children. I looked and I listened. And I congratulated myself that I had escaped a life which would have been utterly miserable."

Well, I hope that Dean and Lavinia will have many years of happiness.

Fumbling Costs Tires

WPB Chemical Division Bungles

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE utter failure of the Chemicals division of the War Production board to recognize or anticipate the need for one ingredient of rubber tires—carbon black—has thrown into jeopardy all transportation facilities for our armies at the front and the back-up-the-boys establishment at home. It is probably the most troublesome industrial breakdown of the war.

Responsible officials have tried to hush-hush the crisis. But it has become so grave that it has drawn the attention of James F. Byrnes and the Mead committee, which has taken over the Truman investigation. The War Mobilizer has organized overnight a special inter-agency group to remedy the situation, if possible. The senatorial sleuths will assess the blame, and seek assurance that it can't happen again—here.

When von Rundstedt struck the Allies last December, the nation's tire factories were manufacturing 16,000,000 units annually, capacity performance then. The High Command, after severe losses of tanks, trucks and heavy artillery in the Battle of the Bulge, increased the quota for 1945 to 28,000,000.

TUCKER

The Army and WPB immediately arranged a $70,000,000 program for new plants and extensions, but these cannot get into production until early autumn. As a means of overcoming the scarcity quickly, management and labor in the tire industry agreed to operate seven days a week for a hundred days.

Every agency involved in turning out the increased military requirements did its part, except the Chemicals division of WPB. Every agency, including the Rubber division of WPB, warned that there would be a greatly increased demand for carbon black.

This ingredient, made from the soot of burned oil, provides the hardening qualities and composes about 30 per cent of the tire. There can be no production without it.

The chemical experts, however, remained cynical about the seven-day working week attaining the higher goals fixed by Army, Navy and other WPB planners. They maintained that the program was fantastic from the mere standpoint of industrial operation. So now there is not enough of the vital substance to permit the expanded output.

CLASH: The seven-day week has already been cut to six, and it may soon drop to five. Army spokesmen estimate that they are losing at least 40,000 tires a month because of the shortage. With our European forces poised for the knockout blow, the deficiency may prove fatal to quick defeat of the Nazis.

Civilian consumers will also suffer. It had been agreed to make 20,000,000 units for home consumption in 1945. The total may be reduced to 10,000,000 or less. As a result, many passenger cars otherwise available for use may have to quit the road. Trucks needed for hauling food, personnel and materials for military manufacture may have to be laid up.

What the Mead investigators want to know is why WPB Chairman J. A. Krug, who has authority over the Chemicals and Rubber divisions, did not knock their heads together in the early days of their clash.

DISPUTE: Vice President Harry S. Truman has become the innocent victim of a disagreeable Senate controversy almost before he has mastered the difficult problem of presiding over the testy old men who sit in the upper chamber. He has been accused of referring the Missouri River Valley Authority bill, a counterpart of TVA, to the wrong committee from supposedly ulterior motives.

Principal critic of the Vice President is Sen. Jim Murray of Montana, author of the MVA measure. Pointing out that all proposals for the Tennessee experiment had been considered by the Senate Agriculture committee, he insists that his program should have gone to that group. He has been quite sharp in his comments during floor discussions. Although he is from Missouri, the VP has been put in the position of seeking to hamstring the scheme.

Truman referred the Murray measure to the Senate Commerce committee, headed by Sen. Josiah W. Bailey of North Carolina. His somewhat conservative leanings have been advanced to support suggestions that there is a conspiracy against this new public power development. On his part, the North Carolinian has retorted in pert language to the man from Montana.

MVA belongs to Commerce under Senate rules. TVA bills went to Agriculture because, when the question first came to the fore 25 years ago, the idea was to use war-built Muscle Shoals solely for making cheap fertilizer for the farmer. As a result, subsequent schemes to broaden the program were referred to the same group. Moreover, in the days of Republican rule the late George Norris chairmaned Agriculture, and his colleagues gave him priority in dealing with utility bills. So Truman simply followed the "regular order." He has not switched to conservative and anti-CIO.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

DONNYBROOK Fair is about to have its counterpart on the home front, with every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost.

The angry clash and name-calling between management and labor in Detroit is only a starter, according to New York economists. The prospect of an early peace will cause a mad scramble for security in all segments of our industrial system.

Th fight "to have and to hold" will be aggravated by new shortages, inflation, contradictory federal policies, class conflicts and bitterness among Pacific veterans' families occasioned by the fear that they will be left in the lurch while the rest of America gets set for the postwar period.

Military production chiefs dread that the first drastic cutbacks in war contracts will bring a new stampede of workers into so-called permanent trades.

LEMAN

To impress on men and women not to desert the assembly line, the War department this week is releasing an official movie to theaters which later will be run off in Victory plants—The Enemy Strikes—composed in large measure of captured Nazi films showing Americans as they are crushingly defeated in the Battle of the Bulge.

The picture is filled with snapshots of burning jeeps, tanks and supply dumps. It contains more close-ups of mangled and dead United States troops than have ever been exhibited on the screen, including American prisoners, hands and ankles bound, who were butchered by Nazi machine guns. The object is to bring home to the public that we cannot let our boys down by relaxing the war effort and that, even when Germany is beaten, there is still Japan.

"If I could only make everyone realize that our job is not finished," declares Brig. Gen. Stewart Reimel, New York regional production chief. "Today—after the Battle of the Philippines—Japan has six battleships, six to ten aircraft carriers, 10 to 15 cruisers and innumerable smaller craft.

"She has 4,000,000 regular troops, comprising 100 infantry divisions and several armored divisions. One million recruits are in training; her Manchurian and Chinese puppets have raised 1,000,000 more. In all she has 6,000,000 fanatical soldiers between our men and victory."

We derive a mean satisfaction out of the fact that for years we have been making money on politicians, who have supplied us with material for hundreds of paragraphs.

We've followed the war news rather closely and we don't recall an instance in which the enemy repulsed our forces except at "enormous loss of men and materials."

Stokes Explains Why Isolationism Is Dead

New War Super-Imposed On Old

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

PARIS.—New wars and old wars intermingle in this country. They have fought back and forth across France for centuries. That is a simple fact of history.

There's another simple fact, too, but it strikes you suddenly, with the compelling force of the present one, as it struck me at Reims, where the trenches of that other war curl and twist down below for miles and miles as you fly over that country.

STOKES

The compelling fact is that the United States now has an old war here. That ought to have real meaning for the future. It should end our isolation as a national credo forever. For there is an old war, and we couldn't keep out of this second one. We probably will never be able to keep out of another one, the modern world being what it is and our interests being what they are, unless we do something positive about it.

Explanation Remembered

In that last respect we can find some hope. I remember the explanation for this isolationism given by former Sen. Bennett Clark of Missouri. He told how after the last war, he went to Paris on leave and went out to see Versailles. He told how, after he walked about the palace, looking at the pictures, seeing one triumphant warrior entering Chateau Thierry back in the 13th century, and another victorious chieftian entering Chamont in another century, and so on and on, all being at places where he had fought.

"I looked around there and I said to myself, 'Bennett, they've been fighting over those same places for centuries. What business has a boy from Missouri got away over here? I'm going back where I belong.'"

"Never again" was natural then. It was the first experience and comparatively short one, and much easier for us.

THE United States became involved in another war. The American Army this time had no foothold on the European continent. But it made one — on the beaches of Normandy.

I looked down the other day on those beaches where young Americans had plunged from the sea on to the continent. An officer who had been there in those desperate days told me about it all as we looked down from the plane, flying very low. No old trenches were here as we followed the trail back to Paris. But there were mementoes of this war, still fresh—bombed rows of houses and buildings about Caen where the British had such a fight of it; the tracks where the tanks had joined in the combat of modern behomoths, twisting and turning, so you could almost visualize it, the shell holes, round scars of bombs dropped from the sky, gun emplacements, square little wounds in the earth, still resisting the cool comfort of the grass.

Will They Remember

It is peaceful country now. Cows and sheep stood patiently in the fields. People moved about their ordinary affairs.

The American boys came this time with machines of terror spewed from American factories. They came in far greater number. They marched across this land as conquerors, and are still marching to the north, but at a terrible cost, to themselves and to the enemy.

They want to go back home when the job is done. It is hard to think they won't remember.

NATIONS on this continent know how America, like a mighty tornado, can sweep her strength upon Europe. The Japs also have learned on the other side of the world that America can reach to the uttermost ends of search, even when her young men must be landed on bare beaches in the face of galling fire.

These boys have known the world and have learned how small it is. Even though they like their own part of the world best, they know they can cross an ocean now in a matter of hours. They know others can do it. Their sons should not have to come back to fight across their paths, as did the sons of the father who lived in trenches like those about Reims. If they do, there's no hope for us.

British Ministers May Visit U. S.

LONDON, March 20. (AP)—Food Minister John J. Llewellin said today that he and the minister of war production, Oliver Lyttelton, might go to Washington soon to discuss Britain's meat and food supply situation, but added that no definite decision had been made.

Llewellin said he considered the recently-announced cut in American meat supplies to Britain as "still fluid," and indicated there would be no cut in that meat ration at least until all factors have been weighed.

"We are still getting our meat from Argentina," he said. "Otherwise the meat ration would have to come down."

FDR Asks Funds For Developing Valley

WASHINGTON, March 20. (AP)—President Roosevelt asked Congress today for a $4,480,000 appropriation to prepare plans for developing the Missouri River valley.

The money would go to the interior department, which would prepare plans and specifications for initial works authorized by a Flood Control act. It also would permit continuing investigations for working out the general plan approved by the same act.

STOCKS STUMBLE BADLY

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—The stock market today suffered another of its worst stumbles in nearly two weeks. Transfers of 920,000 shares compared with 1,070,000 yesterday.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off .7 of a point at 60.8, widest dip since March 9. Of 943 issues appearing, 696 were down against 247 up or unchanged.

Conspicuous casualties included Atlantic Coast Line, M-K-T preferred, Reading, Laclede Gas preferred, Gimbel, Standard Oil (NJ), Texas Co., General Motors, Chrysler, Goodyear, Sears Roebuck, International Telephone, Eastern Air Lines, Du Pont and Johns-Manville. Modest gains were retained by Pullman, May Department Stores, American Telephone and J. C. Penney.

Western Union "A" was off ¾ at 46½ although a special 10,000-share offering of this stock at 46½ was quickly oversubscribed.

Among curb losers were American Cyanamid, Cities Service, United Cigar and Cuban Atlantic Sugar. Pansteel was an exception with a point advance. Turnover here was 310,000 shares versus 360,000 Monday.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—After early gains of as much as 20 cents a bale the cotton market turned easy today on scattered liquidation and hedging to close at or near the lows for the day. Final prices were 5 to 15 cents a bale net lower.

Mills were buyers on the scale-down. Demand for May contracts by spot firms was attributed partly to covering operations against Spanish purchases of cotton. The bureau of census final 1944 crop ginnings report of 12,194,806 bales was larger than anticipated. Ginnings were approximately 164,000 bales under the official crop estimate but traders had looked for a decline of 200,000 to 300,000 bales.

Futures closed 5 to 15 cents a bale lower.

yet been submitted.

He added, "if the officials of the CIO and the AFL and the New Bedford management will agree to and submit an alternative plan signed by all parties and which in our judgment will do the job of staffing the tire plants, we will be willing at that time to lift the forced release program."

Reiterated Proposal

McNutt's offer to eliminate the program under these conditions was a reiteration of a previous proposal by him.

The New Bedford dispute arose when WMC "ordered" a considerable number of textile workers there to jobs in the high priority Fisk and Firestone tire cord plants in New Bedford. Eighty-nine of the first 90 workers picked refused to transfer.

The forced release program calls for lowering employment ceilings on less essential firms to channel some of their workers to war production.

The committee said it "profoundly regrets" the disagreement with McNutt, and added:

Convinced of Effort

"We are convinced from the clear evidence, painstakingly reviewed during half a dozen long meetings, that there was an attempt to create a situation which could be called a failure of the voluntary method, so that force could be used.

"We resent this attempt to involve conscientious citizens of New Bedford in what they were told was a true recruitment program, only to have them find in the middle of their effort that such was not the case."

Western Front

Mainz is the largest and oldest German center yet assaulted by the Third Army.

The Fourth Armored division also made the plunge into Worms, a city of 42,000 population, 16 miles north of Mannheim.

Word was lacking immediately at headquarters whether the Rhine bridge at Worms, which at last accounts still was standing, had been captured. However, bridges at other points along the Rhine have been blown up in the faces of Patton's onsurging forces.

Worms is known throughout the Protestant world as the scene of the trial of Martin Luther, who defied the emperor and the pope.

The Tenth Armored and 80th Infantry divisions teamed up for the assault of Kaiserslautern, which has a population of 70,000. Pilots of the 19th Tactical Air command, flyin over Kaiserslautern at rooftop level in midafternoon, reported the streets were lined with people waving white flags and that one American column had entered the city.

Complete Disorder

The 19th flew approximately 700 missions during the day, slaughtering the routed enemy forces which were on faltering courses toward the Rhine. At least several hundred of motor and horse drawn vehicles were destroyed.

Pilots said the 30-mile autobahn (superhighway) stretch between Kaiserslautern and Ludwigshafen was packed solid with German columns and every kind of conveyance, including pushcarts and wheel-barrows. When the planes finished strafing, the entire autobahn was littered with burning wreckage.

Carriers Batter Japanese Fleet

ships blasted by the Yank bombs and torpedoes.

This is the preliminary report from Admiral Spruance, who was in tactical command of the fleet forces:

Sunk: Six small freighters.

Damaged: One or two battleships, two or three aircraft carriers, two light aircraft carriers or escort carriers, two escort carriers, one heavy cruiser, one light cruiser, four destroyers, one submarine, one destroyer, seven freighters.

Many Installations

American planes also destroyed a large number of installations, including hangars, shops, arsenals and oil storage facilities.

The communique did not specify which parts of the inland sea were the targets of the raiding aircraft. The inland sea is bounded on three sides by three of the Japanese home islands—Kyushu to the west, the southern portion of Honshu to the north and Shikoku to the south. It is clogged with scores of small islands.

Likely targets were Sasebo and Nagasaki, naval bases on Kyushu. Sasebo is by reputation one of the four great naval bases of Japan. It has a large fleet anchorage with extensive machine shops and repair facilities as well as several drydocks and considerable arsenals.

At Nagasaki there are additional facilities for fleet anchorage.

Imperial Fleet Through

The bold foray into the heart of Japan's dwindling sea power undoubtedly will mean the erasure of the imperial fleet as a source of opposition in the future.

Carrier planes may have hit enemy ships undergoing repairs of damage suffered in the Japanese fleet's grandiose but unsuccessful three-pronged attempt to break up the invasion of the Philippines at Leyte last October.

In June of 1944, in the first battle of the Philippine sea, Mitscher's airmen located the Japanese grand fleet apparently moving to threaten the American invasion of Saipan, and sank or possibly sank eight warships. Not an American ship was lost.

Heavy February Blows

The defiant Pacific fleet planes twice raided Tokyo in February with devastating effect, wiping out 667 Japanese planes.

This startling report came in a communique telling of further mopping up by the Marines on Iwo Jima and new air raids on Chichi Jima in the Bonins and other targets.

Admiral Mitscher, overall commander of the task force, said only a few days ago that the Japanese fleet could not now overwhelm "even a fraction of our ever-growing fleet" and said the enemy's only sanctuary is the empire's inland seas.

Those inland seas are where the Americans found the Japanese fleet.

The attack came as sections of the Japanese homeland still smoldered from the first major beating dealt inland sea cities by U. S. carrier planes. Mitscher's carrier struck the southern homeland Sunday and Monday.

Five German counterattacks were repulsed at Hindenburg square in the southern part of Breslau, a city of 630,000 and the Reich's eighth largest.

The Germans reported that Red Army units fighting to clean out pocketed German garrisons on their Baltic flank had made new penetrations toward the Polish port of Gdynia and nearby Danzig on the Gulf of Danzig.

Braunsberg, a stronghold of the Teutonic knights in the middle ages, was taken by troops of the Third White Russian Army after the Germans, trapped in the shrinking East Prussian coastal pocket, were reported to have opened coastal dikes and turned the lowlands into a big lake in an effort to halt the Soviet drive. The Russian Army newspaper Red Star said the Germans were unable to put up organized resistance.

Premier Marshal Stalin's order of the day announcing capture of the important communications center, 32 miles southwest of besieged Koenigsberg, revealed that Marshal Alexander M. Vassilevsky, 47-year-old chief of the Red Army general staff, was commanding the Third White Russian 9rmy. He succeeded the late Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky, who was killed in action last month.

Basilan Under Control

Americans on Basilan island, 12 miles south of Zamboanga, captured the town of Isabela in a combined overland and amphibious operation.

MacArthur said Basilan "now is under our control."

Liberators dropped 106 tons of bombs on Formosa aridromes and raked enemy holdings in the central Philippines, while patrolling of the blockaded China sea netted a 10,000-ton tanker damaged and a small freighter sunk, the latter north of Formosa.

Meat Inspection Bill Favorably Reported

AUSTIN, March 20 (AP)— The House public health committee has given a favorable vote to a meat inspection bill which accords the State Board of Health wide powers of compulsory enforcement.

This bill, developed in a subcommittee headed by Rep. Sam Sellers of Waco, is a composite of three bills tendered by Rep. Roger Evans of Denison and one bill by Dan Kirby of El Paso.

Asserted need for meat inspection regulation developed from an investigation conducted on order of the 48th Legislature which named Evans chairman of a committee to look into charges that diseased animals were being sold for human consumption.

Under its terms the sale of meat for human consumption from animals suffering from visible diseases and diseases communicable to human beings, is prohibited. The state health officer is given authority to examine all cattle, swine, sheep and goats before they are slaughtered and require stamping with a specific label before meat can be sold.

An appropriation of $100,000 is set up to enforce the law. A penalty of $100 to $500 provided for violation.

Mandalay Falls To British And Indians

CALCUTTA, March 20 (AP) — Mandalay, Burma's second city, fell today to British 14th Army troops.

King George VI hailed the conquest as a "notable landmark" of the war in a congratulatory message to Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, supreme Allied commander in Southeast Asia.

The fabled city was secured after British and Indian troops crushed the last, fanatical resistance in thick-walled Fort Dufferin, last Japanese stronghold.

Feller Takes Over Great Lakes Squad

GREAT LAKES, Ill., March 20. (AP)—Chief Specialist Bob (Rapid Robert) Feller, just returned from two years afloat with the U. S. Navy, began rounding up players today as he took over as manager of the Great Lakes Naval Training baseball team.

"This material looks fair," he said tonight. "We have some former professional players and some good college boys."

Then he added: "My old teammate Ken Keltner will be here tomorrow. He'll be out there with us."

Feller said he had no schedule as yet, but intended to get at least one game with each of the 16 major league teams and the eight teams of the American Association, as well as any others he can pick up. He said he planned to start workouts April 1.

Asked if he intended to pitch, he said: "I surely do. I'm in fair shape now. But I haven't played any real tough ball in more than two years. I played a game now and then, but it wasnt much."

Slaton Pilot Sets Up Own Rescue Plan

SAN FRANCISCO, March 20. (AP)—Seven minutes after Ensign Jack Edwards of Slaton, Texas, ditched his plane in the sea off the Monterery coast, he was safe aboard a transport ship.

Edward's fighter plane developed engine trouble yesterday on a flight from the naval auxiliary air station at Monterery. Realizing a crash landing was inevitable, he headed toward the transport, cruising off the coast, and "dunked" the plane beside the ship. He was picked up immediately, and later was taken off the transport by an air station crash boat.

Ensign Edwards was back in the air today, in a new plane.

Airline Officials Find Missing Molars

DALLAS, March 20. (AP)—A set of lower dentures arrived back in Dallas via American Airlines late Monday and local airline officials breathed a sigh of relief. Since Sunday morning they had been tracking the missing molars, finally located in a Los Angeles laundry.

Deplaneing at Dallas, their feminine owner left them behind on a plane bound for the west coast, and flatly refused to leave town until they were returned.

Car-Truck Collision Snaps Phone Lines

PLAINVIEW, March 20 (AP) —Telephone service was disrupted here today as the result of an automobile-truck collision.

The careening truck ran into a telephone pole, snapping the cable.

O. M. Cruch, local wire chief, estimated 500 telephones were put out of operation and that two days would be needed to repair damage.

C. H. Mathis, driver of the automobile, suffered facial cuts in the accident. The truck driver, John Dennison, of Brownfield, was uninjured.

SHELL GAME—A "message" that traveled thousands of miles finally reaches the ear for which it was intended. Mary Ida Mouery of St. Petersburg, Fla., got a big sea shell from her boy friend in the South Pacific, with instructions to listen to the whispering in the shell. Judging from her expression in photo above, the "message" was a welcome one.

Record Gate Expected For Conn-Louis Bout

NEW YORK, March 20. (AP) — Promoter Mike Jacobs predicted today a gate of $7,000,000 for the anticipated postwar return bout between Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis and Challenger Billy Conn.

Jacobs, the country's leading fistic promoter who recntly observed his 65th birthday, estimated receipts from persons actually seeing the scrap at $2,000,000 (ringside seats are expected to be priced at $100) with the remaining $5,000,000 coming from television rights.

The existing record gate is the $2,658,660 contributed by the 104,943 fans who saw the second Gene Tunney-Jack Dempsey fight at Chicago in Sept. 1927.

Shell Explosion Is Fatal To Youngster

McALLEN, March 20 (AP)—An Army corporal's seven-year-old son died today after both his hands and his right foot were blown off by a 37 mm shell that exploded while he was playing with it.

Yoakum county authorities asked Lubbock police radio station KGZW to broadcast description of a man believed to have stolen more than $100 from a Denver City movie theater, where he was employed.

First Lt. Ernest L. Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Reid of 2615 Elm, narrowly escaped death Monday when his unarmed Cub airplane was shot down over the Rhine, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Chaplain and Mrs. William H. Foster, jr., former residents of Lubbock, arrived here Tuesday for a visit with Chaplain Foster's parents, Dr. and Mrs. William H. Foster of 1803 Twentieth. Chaplain Foster, formerly assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian church and pastor of the Locust Street chapel, has been stationed at Treasure Island since September, but was recently assigned to a "Sea Bee" battalion.

Crawford Freed On Theft Count

Debbs Crawford, 23, was found innocent Tuesday afternoon of automobile theft by a 99th district court jury which deliberated approximately two hours.

The case went to the jury at 3:15 o'clock after defense counsel chose to place no one on the stand. The state had rested at 11 o'clock with the testimony of eight witnesses.

Crawford was tried on an indictment which alleged that he stole a 1942 Plymouth sedan Jan. 12 at Houston from O. M. Longnecker. The car was recovered shortly afterward at the Charley Huff place four miles east of Lubbock by deputies sheriff Earl Horton and Raymond Land.

Woman Identifies Him

Mrs. Huff took the stand and identified Crawford as the man who appeared at the Huff home and asked permission to leave his car there while he managed for a wrecker.

Crawford, who is under a variety of other charges here and at various points in West Texas, is under indictment in connection with the theft of another car. The case has not yet been set for trial.

Represented by District Attorney Burton S. Burks, the State's witnesses were Mrs. Huff, Rosie Rhoades of Brownfield, O. M. Longnecker and Mrs. Longnecker, deputies sheriff Land, Horton and Tom Cannon and Burks himself.

No Defense Witnesses

The defense had subpoenaed three witnesses from Fort Worth and one from Orange but did not present one of them, resting without offering evidence. The firm of Nelson & Brown represented the defendant.

Disposition of the case completed criminal trials for this week in the court of Judge G. V. Pardue.

The Crawford jury comprised R. M. Pennington, Glenn Speer, W. H. Seiderman, L. S. Winn, Paul Dennis, L. D. Woods, Harry McDaniel, C. J. Quinlan, Clem Clutter, T. A. Pate, J. W. Hamilton, jr., and Marion Tucker.

Third Army Drive

measuring up to 4,000 yards.

On a day of crushing defeat for German arms, Gen. Eisenhower himself boldly pointed toward the sector of the Reich presumably next marked for destruction, broadcasting a proclamation warning all German civilians and foreign workers to flee from the great Ruhr industrial area.

This 600-square mile region just across the Rhine from three Allied armies—the U. S. Ninth, the Canadian First and British Second—is Germany's industrial heart and now that Silesia and the Saar have fallen under Russian and American avalanches, is the enemy's last big unconquered industrial area.

Air Forces Pound Ruhr

Allied air forces have been pounding the Ruhr for weeks and it was battered again yesterday as part of the mighty Western front assault.

The attention of medium and fighter-bombers and fighters, however, was directed mainly at mauling the Germans fleeing from the Saarland in wild disorder.

Enemy columns were bombed and strafed continuously and at least 3,000 German motor vehicles were knocked out with bombs, rockets and bullets, adding to the air forces' terrific toll of the last three days.

The junction of the Third and Seventh armies pocketed thousands of Germans in a sack ten miles long and eight wide extending about ten miles east of Saarlautern to about three miles east of Homburg.

Tremendous Losses

There was no way to estimate the number of enemy troops who might be in this encirclement, but it was evident the enemy was suffering tremendous losses in manpower.

A few days ago Field Marshal von Rundstedt's First and Seventh armies in the Saarland were believed to total more than 80,000 men. These forces now have been chopped into pieces — countless little isolated groups. Those not yet cut off from the Rhine were in headlong retreat.

Associated Press correspondent Edward D. Ball said all opposition on the Third Army front west of the Rhine had ceased. The Germans' remaining positions in the Siegfried and Hunsbrueck lines facing the Seventh Army southeast of Zweibruecken were outflanked and untenable, making a quick withdrawal compulsory if not already too late.

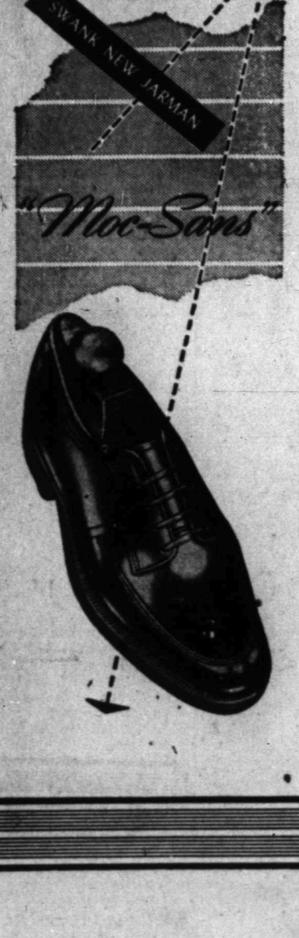

The base of the remaining enemy salient on the west bank of the Rhine was only 45 miles and at its deepest point, somewhere east of Zweibruecken, it was less than 40 miles.

The post-midnight announce- of the link-up of the American Third and Seventh armies was the first disclosure that the Sixth Armored division had been transferred from Patton's forces to Patch's command. To accomplish the junction the Sixth Armored, commanded by Maj. Gen. Robert Grow, made a northward sweep of 12 miles during the day.

Nazi Crisis Shaping Up As Yanks Slash On Into Disordered Lines

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

Lagging advices from the Third and Seventh American Army fronts in the Saar-Palatinate box west of the Rhine make it difficult to appraise the Nazi collapse fully; but it is black enough for the foe even by German accounts.

SIMPSON

They picture the American First Army striking heavily southward along the Rhine from the Remagen bridgehead east of the river in an operation obviously linked with the Third's left flank at Coblenz on the west bank. It holds potentialities of new Rhine crossings that would start caving in east bank defenses even before what is left of the German armies west of the river can reach it for escape.

First Pushes Along River

The German account said First Army elements had bored seven miles up river to the vicinity opposite the west bank town of Andernach. That would mean that the northern end of the Rhine valley plain between Coblenz and Andernack had been reached. It is across that limited flat land on both sides of the Rhine that the east-west stem of the six-lane military autobahn highway runs to cross the river and Third Army forces are already lined up on the west bank ready to spring across.

There was partial Allied confirmation of the First Army push up river to pave the way for a Third Army crossing below Coblenz. It is a logical development, and one filled with gravest possibilities for the enemy.

Breath-Taking Speed

The fall of such vital Nazi hubs as Worms and Kaiserlautern and a score other key points to fast charging Third Army columns while the Seventh plowed through the Siegfried line on the south unchecked came with breath-taking speed. Nothing short of complete and utter confusion and a spreading sense of impending total defeat within Nazi ranks could account for it.

It is at least possible that the decisive crisis for Nazi Germany is shaping up rapidly along that critical Coblenz-Karlsruhe sector of the Rhine under circumstances that could make the river itself relatively impotent to hold back the flood tide of power approaching it from the west and north. With the Rhine line already punctured in the center at Remagen, days, even hours, may tell whether it cannot be already written off as a serious obstacle to delay in complete German collapse in the west.

Increase In Funds Of WMC Is Asked

SALT LAKE CITY, March 20. (AP)—"I wish some more young fellows would follow me out here and go to work," remarked 99-year-old Joseph Manning as he boarded a bus today for the Clearfield Naval Supply depot where he will work.

Manning, who claims to be an ex-indian fighter and Civil war veteran, applied at the U. S. Employment office for war work last Friday but put off starting the job so he could attend a dance over the weekend.

Franklin Rites Are Planned At Dallas

DALLAS, March 20. (AP)—Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Mrs. Mattie Ross Carter Franklin, wife of the late William Wallace Franklin, professor of oratory at Baylor university before the turn of the century, who died yesterday at her home here.

Mrs. Franklin came to Texas in 1880 and lived at Marshall and Tyler. She was survived by two daughters, a son, and three grandchildren.

Treatment Of War Criminals Cited

LONDON, March 20 (AP)—Major war criminals including Hitler will be treated "as murderers, assassins, thieves, torturers and the like," Lord Wright, chairman of the United Nations War Crimes commission, declared in the House of Lords today.

He made the statement after the Archbishop of York told the house that spectacular trials should be avoided and that the principal war criminals, once caught and identified, should be put to death on the spot.

"When the commission added Hitler to its list," Lord Wright said, "it was as an ordinary criminal, and the commission was not thinking of political crime. There was evidence, however, that the murdering of people in gas chambers was a deliberate scheme under the direction of a single, organizing mind. If that were brought home to Hitler, why should he not be indictable as a murderer?"

The Archbishop of York pleaded against sensational public trials.

In the category for instant death, the archbishop put "the master criminals Hitler and Himler and their gang who have corrupted Germany and ordered these hideous crimes."

GOERDELER SAID ALIVE

BERN, March 20 (AP) — The Swiss newspaper Dei Tat, quoting "informed sources" in Berlin, said today that Dr. Karl Goerdeler, whom the Nazis had announced was killed for his role in the bomb attempt against Hitler last July, still was alive and was being held in reserve as a possible peace petitioner.

Optimist District Chief Speaks Here

Guest speaker at the luncheon of the Optimist club Tuesday in Lubbock hotel was Bill Pierce of Dallas, governor of district 7 of Optimist International, who lauded the part played by the service clubs of the nation in the war effort.

He said that service clubs have been leaders in war bond, Red Cross and other drives and have made themselves indispensable in wartime. Pierce also praised the Lubbock club for its work with boys.

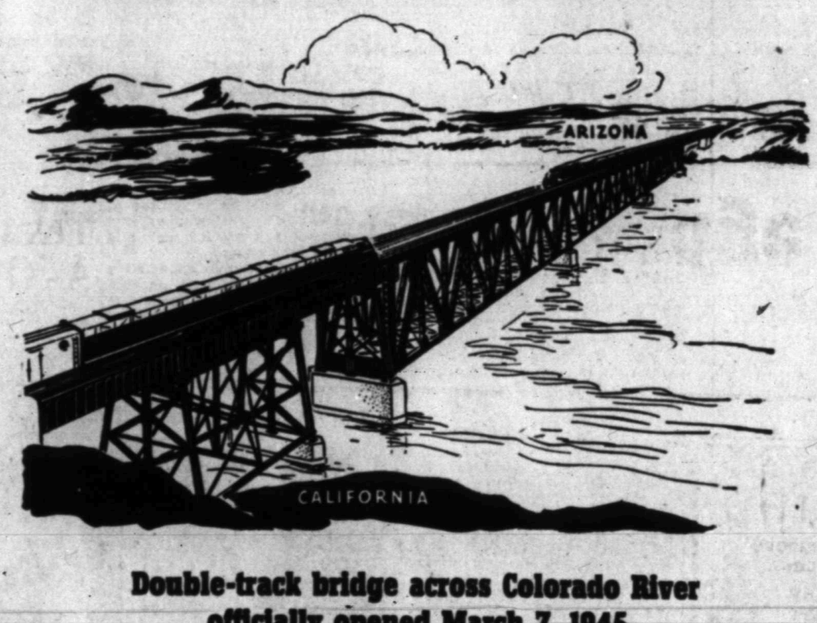

"But we have a great problem on our hands in helping to provide jobs for the returning servicemen," he said, adding that it is up to all service club members to do their part in this great undertaking.

Pierce was introduced by Syrian E. Marbut, past district governor. President M. L. Shepherd presided.

New Santa Fe Bridge Speeds War Traffic

Double-track bridge across Colorado River officially opened March 7, 1945

Santa Fe trains are now rolling across a new double-track steel bridge near Topock, Arizona, speeding up vital war traffic along the route to Tokyo through California's ports of war.

This new Santa Fe bridge removes the "bottle-neck" created by the old single-track bridge it replaces and has ample strength to take care of future requirements as to weights to be imposed on it.

★ The new Topock bridge is an impressive engineering feat, but it is only one step in Santa Fe's program of plant improvement—started long before Pearl Harbor.

Bigger yards, Centralized Traffic Control, faster grooming of equipment in the shops and new freight locomotives all add up to better, faster service to California's ports of war and an even higher standard of service in the days of peace to come.
