JURY SENTENCES ALSUP TO 10 YEARS IN PEN

Six Injured, One Perhaps Fatally, When Auto Overturns On Burk Road

B. FREEMAN NEAR DEATH IN HOSPITAL

Barber's Neck Broken, Skull Fractured in Crash Near City

WIFE SERIOUSLY HURT

Car Runs Into Ditch, Strikes Post and Turns Over Several Times

Six persons, all of Burkburnett, were injured, one probably fatally, when an automobile overturned late Sunday afternoon on the Burkburnett road about three miles from Wichita Falls.

Barney Freeman, 37, barber, is given no hope for recovery. He received a fracture of the skull, a broken neck, fractures of both collar bones, a fracture of the right shoulder blade, and a crushed chest. Every rib in his body is broken.

Mrs. Myrtle Freeman, 25, Barney Freeman's wife, is suffering from a probable fracture of the skull and possible internal injuries. Her condition is serious.

Others Injured

Vic Ivy, 31, received severe cuts on the head, arms and legs, and has a dislocation of the shoulder.

The other three occupants of the car were less seriously hurt. They are Fred Brookman, employe of the Star Publishing company at Burkburnett, who sustained a deep gash in the forehead and other cuts on the head and body; J. R. Leath, who received a broken rib; and Bubbles Leath, J. R. Leath's wife, who received only minor cuts.

The automobile, according to witnesses, was traveling toward Wichita Falls, when its driver apparently lost control. The machine plunged into a ditch beside the road, continued its course for some distance and then crashed into a fence. It overturned several times before coming to a stop.

Police Hold Car Owner

Freeman, according to investigation of police here, was driving the car, which belonged to Brookman.

All were taken by passing motorists to the Wichita General hospital here. The condition of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman and Ivy was of a nature to require their remaining at the hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Leath left after having their injuries attended. Brookman was taken into custody by police here after several stitches had been taken in his head injury. He was lodged in the city jail on a misdemeanor charge.

The automobile was demolished.

Texas Confederate Vets To Assemble Today

FORT WORTH, Oct. 4. (AP)—Another mobilization of "soldiers in gray" will be under way here Monday night when the strains of Dixie and rebel yells herald the arrival of Austin and Houston delegates to the 40th annual state reunion of United Confederate veterans.

Plans for the reception of 2,000 visitors, including veterans of the civil war, sons and daughters and others, were discussed here today at a joint meeting of veterans, sons and daughters chapters.

Victim of Hit-and-Run Driver Is Identified

FORT WORTH, Oct. 4. (AP)—Apparently the victim of a speeding motorist who did not stop, the cut and bruised body of a man found late Saturday night on the south side near the Santa Fe tracks was identified today as that of John W. Key, 56, Fort Worth.

Theory that the man met his death at the hands of murderers was scouted by Justice of the Peace Walter Prichard, who conducted an inquest.

Accidents

RIFLE BULLET SPLITS BOY'S LIP AND NOSE

An accidental discharge of a .22 rifle almost cost the life of a 14-year-old boy here Sunday afternoon as he left his home on an intended bird hunt.

The boy, J. T. Hurt, 14, is at the Wichita General hospital with a bullet wound extending from his upper lip to the center of the forehead. The .22 lead slug entered the lip, and after coursing its way upward through his nose emerged from the flesh over the forehead. His condition is not serious.

The youth had reached the front yard of his home, 2606 Lebannon road, when he stumbled. The jolt of his fall set off the gun. The father, T. L. Hurt, rushed the boy to the hospital in an automobile.

FIREMAN HURT WHEN EXTINGUISHER EXPLODES

The explosion of a fire extinguisher, charged with acid chemicals, inflicted painful injuries Saturday night to the face, body and arms of Tom Darnell, hoseman at central fire station.

Darnell accompanied the chemical truck to a small fire at Seventh street and Ohio avenue. He had played a stream from the extinguisher on a burning automobile. The extinguisher apparently became clogged. He placed it on the ground and was tapping the nozzle against the pavement to unclog the line when the extinguisher exploded.

The heavy brass cap of the container was hurled against Darnell's chest and glanced against the muscles of his upper arm. Glass from an acid bottle inside the extinguisher struck him on the cheek and neck, inflicting cuts.

The shell of the extinguisher was blown over a two-story building by the force of the blast and landed nearly a block away. The sheet metal of the extinguisher was ripped from its riveted base and was torn from end to end. Darnell was attended at the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital.

AXE FALLS FROM LADDER TO INJURE LABORER

A. Alonzo, 30, section laborer at Archer City for the Wichita Falls and Southern, received two severe cuts there Sunday afternoon when an axe he was carrying fell as he climbed the ladder of a boxcar.

The injured man was brought to the Wichita General hospital here. He has a gash over his eye and a cut in his arm. He said that the axe fell against his face when it slipped from his hand. His condition is not serious, attendants said.

Hospital Wants Name To Reveal Charities

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 4. (US)—Changing the name of Harbor View hospital to one which would identify it as a charitable institution became a possibility today.

This was revealed when it was learned the board of directors had discussed the change with the staff last week.

The change is favored because the institution, under its present name, is popular with patients who feel no stigma from taking advantage of charity—the charity angle not being stressed.

Click Murder Trial To Be Opened Today

GEORGETOWN, Texas, Oct. 4. (AP)—The case of Ray Click, charged with the slaying of A. W. Walker on the streets of Llano Sept. 11, 1930, will be called in the court of District Judge Harry Dolan here tomorrow. A special venire of 150 men has been ordered.

Click was tried in Llano and given 50 years in the penitentiary, but won a reversal by the court of criminal appeals. The case was sent here on a change of venue.

Oil Company Buys Vast Leases in Venezuela

NEW YORK, Oct. 4. (AP)—George W. Steele, of New York, one of the organizers of Consolidated Caribbean Oil corporation, said that since the first of the year the company had acquired consessions, leases and options on more than 1,100,000 acres of oil land in Venezuela and Colombia. Pending negotiations the company has obtained further options on additional large tracts which are said to total nearly 5,000,000 acres.

FAREWELL ADDRESS

NEW YORK, Oct. 4. (US)—Evangeline Booth, commander in chief of the Salvation Army, who will sail Friday for a two-month tour of Europe, will speak tomorrow night at a farewell gathering at the Army Centennial Memorial temple.

A. F. L. SUGGESTS MEASURES TO AID JOBLESS

Wage Maintenance, Shorter Work Hours and Assured Jobs Urged

DEMAND 2.75 BEER

Executive Council Lists Steps Necessary to Meet Situation

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 4. (AP)—Wage maintenance, shorter work hours and assured employment were demanded today by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor to meet winter unemployment, which it estimates at 7,000,000.

In its program, placed for approval before the federation convention here, the council said it foresaw modification of the Volstead act. It promised to continue its fight for a 2.75 per cent beer.

First on its legislative program for the coming session, it placed a measure to limit the use of court injunctions in labor disputes.

Sales Tax Opposed

Opposition to a sales tax was voiced along with approval of higher taxes on "great wealth."

Philippine independence was favored, as was a federal coal commission to regulate the bituminous coal industry. Bankers who advocate wage cuts were sternly criticized.

Wage maintenance was described as a levee against further unemployment, but there was no mention of recent wage cuts among several leading industries.

In its program for those out of work the council recognized the need for relief, but made no reference to federal funds in this connection.

It said ample provision for the needy should be made in every community "both from private and municipal sources."

From a summary of compulsory unemployment insurance systems in England and Germany, the council concluded such legislation was "unsuited" to the American wage earner.

Blast at Employers

Coupled with this, however, went blasts at owners and employers of industry for failing to "offer either a plan or a remedy for the evil of unemployment."

They would be the blame, the council said, if compulsory unemployment laws were enacted.

"It must be work or unemployment insurance," the council said,

Disorder Marks Chile's Presidential Election

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 4. (AP)—One man was killed and several were seriously injured in the voting in Santiago today as Dr. Juan Esteban Montero, conservative, took a slight lead in early returns from Chile's presidential election.

The casualties in Santiago occurred when a group fired on the Montero headquarters. Heavily armed patrols rode through Santiago streets.

Trouble also was reported in Iquique.

Student Kills Self After Lovers' Quarrel

HOUSTON, Oct. 4. (AP)—Despondent over a quarrel with a young girl, Joe Wood, 21, Rice institute student, committed suicide at his home here at 3:15 a. m. today.

The youth, a gaping shotgun wound in his head, was found in the kitchen of his home shortly after members of the household heard the report of a gun.

Justice of the Peace Campbell R. Overstreet returned a verdict of suicide.

Fishing Fleets Renew Old Maritime War

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Oct. 4. (US)—Ancient maritime rivalry between Britain and Denmark flared anew in the North sea today when fishing fleets of the two countries clashed in the North sea, 90 miles off Gaadye light, in the neutral fishing area.

Tonight a Danish naval inspection ship was steaming to the scene of the conflict that developed into nothing more serious than a somewhat ludicrous tug-o'-war.

Electra Citizens Subscribe Funds to Organize New Bank

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Oct. 4.—Announcement was made Sunday that the $50,000 capital stock and the $12,500 reserve fund needed to organize a new bank in Electra had been subscribed by local citizens. Committees have been working hard the past two weeks to raise the amount.

A proposition has been made to take over the assets and liabilities of the First State bank which closed its doors Aug. 20. If the plans adopted by the newly elected board of directors of the proposed bank meet the approval of the depositors of the old state bank, the new institution will be a certainty.

These plans make it essential for all depositors who have $100 or more in the state bank to agree to a reduction of 30 per cent in their deposits. The balance of 70 per cent will be paid to them in full on the deferred payment plan. Ten per cent will be available upon the opening of the new bank and 15 per cent of the balance will be paid each quarter until the 70 per cent has been taken care of. In addition, $288,000 worth of charged off

MARLENE DIETRICH'S LOVE SUIT LIKE SCENARIO EXCEPT THAT STAR'S HUSBAND RETAINS LOYALTY

Mrs. von Sternberg's Alienation Claim Due For Court Airing Today

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 4. (AP)—A movie plot come to life, with prominent movie personages playing the leading roles.

That describes the situation involving Marlene Dietrich, German film star, accused by Mrs. Riza Royce von Sternberg of alienating the affections of her ex-husband, Josef von Sternberg, a situation which may reach its climax after the case is called for trial in a New York court room tomorrow.

Trial Not "Talkie"

There will be no studio cameras or microphones to record the scenes of this drama. Even if these customary Hollywood eyes and ears were present, it is highly probable that two of the drama's principals—the actress and her "discoverer"—will not be there in person.

They are jointly working on a new picture, scheduled to go into production soon.

A second suit against Marlene accuses her of libeling Mrs. von Sternberg, in an interview in an Austrian newspaper.

Although Miss Dietrich was served with notice of the suits last April when she arrived in New York from a visit in Germany with her husband, public knowledge of them did not come until four months later. And in a peculiar way.

Alimony Caused Trouble

The twice-married, twice-divorced wife of Von Sternberg had him haled into court because he was in arrears in his alimony. The director's explanation for his delinquency was that his ex-wife had harassed him by threatening damage suits against "a certain lady."

He tried to avoid naming the lady, but questioning in the contempt proceedings brought out the name of Miss Dietrich.

Von Sternberg was accused by his former wife of allowing Miss Dietrich to open accounts in Los Angeles stores in his name, and of furnishing an apartment for his "discovery."

The libel action asserts Miss Dietrich told an interviewer that Mrs. von Sternberg had been an undutiful wife, that Von Sternberg planned to divorce her if she didn't divorce him, and it further is alleged that Marlene said Mrs. Von Sternberg had attempted to have her pictures boycotted in America.

"Absurd," Says Actress

Miss Dietrich called the charges "absurd, false and unwarranted" and she said that she preferred the publicity to the payment of a single penny.

Mrs. Von Sternberg is asking $500,000 in the alienation suit and damages of $100,000 because of remarks she attributes to the actress.

The scenario in the Von Sternberg-Dietrich-Von Sternberg case differs somewhat from the ordinary movie scenario triangle. The accused "other woman" does not have an enraged spouse.

On the contrary, the actress' husband, Rudolph Sieber, who came to America when the suits were revealed, declared that as a "good and loyal friend of Mr. Von Sternberg he sympathized with him in the attack being made against him" in the two suits.

Her Progress Rapid

The spotlight of public interest has been focused on Miss Dietrich because of her enviable position as one of Hollywood's first ranking stars, a place she reached, with Von Sternberg's aid, in the short space of a year.

Von Sternberg selected Miss Dietrich to play opposite Emil Jannings and her success was so great that he brought her to this country to appear in English talkies. She has been in three here, all of them directed by her mentor.

Senate to Hear Price Testimony on Tuesday

AUSTIN, Oct. 4. (AP)—J. B. Price of Bastrop, judge of the 21st judicial court, will go on trial before the Texas senate Tuesday on six charges of negligence and incompetency preferred against him by the house in connection with his approval of fee accounts filed by three sheriffs of his district.

The three sheriffs involved have been indicted by the Travis county grand jury for extortion in filing and receiving allegedly excessive accounts for fees and mileage in criminal cases.

Fascists Rally After Leaflets Attack Regime

ROME, Oct. 4. (US)—A gigantic Fascist demonstration broke up early this morning after staging an all-night parade in support of the government after an unidentified plane, believed to have flown from Corsica, had dropped anti-fascist leaflets over Rome.

Leeds Plant Swept By Disastrous Blaze

LEEDS, England, Oct. 4. (US)—Leeds' second serious fire within two weeks today destroyed a $700,000 wallpaper manufacturer's plant. On Sept. 17 flames wiped out a block in the business section causing damage estimated at $1,000,000.

Three Oklahomans Die As Airplane Crashes

SEMINOLE, Okla., Oct. 4. (AP)—Three men were killed here late today when the plane in which they were riding crashed and burned.

The dead: Eddie Autrey, Seminole; Harry Moore, Seminole; Jack Whitney, Wewoka, pilot.

Here's the Cast in Hollywood's Unfilmed Drama

Law Enforcers Undecided as Wine Brick Sales Drive Starts in Wichita

Company Plans Campaign to Market Compressed Grape Concentrate in Wichita Falls District

Wine grape bricks, the subject of numerous tumultous prohibition rows in various parts of the country on several occasions, have arrived in Wichita Falls!

W. O. Baird, representative of a wine brick company is in the city, and announced Sunday night that a distributor for Wichita Falls and this section will be selected Monday.

The heads of local law enforcements were at a loss when asked, "What can or will be done about it?" Chief of Police Dick Morris declined to make an expression on the subject until he had determined the legality of sales of wine grape bricks, other than to say that if the product contained more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol it would be illegal, and that purchasers who made wine from the concentrate would be violating the national and state prohibition laws.

Sheriff Awaits Ruling

Sheriff Perry Browning declared insofar as he and his department were concerned no action would be forthcoming. Any action which his department may take, he said, will be after receiving instructions from the district attorney's office. In the event that the district attorney or the attorney general arrives at a decision the sale of concentrate grape bricks are unlawful, the sheriff's department will enforce the law, he said.

Mr. Baird's concern, the California Wine Brick company of Helena, Calif., manufacturers the brick, containing the essence of grape, in probably the largest winery in the country. The concern also legally manufactures certain fermented wines for religious use.

The concentrate brick, he explained, is entirely within the bounds of prohibition laws, both state and federal. He said that of the numerous test cases made of the company's sale of grape essence not one had ever held. In fact, he declared, the grapes used in the manufacture of wine bricks are

PIONEER DIES IN IOWA PARK

Mother of First White Child Succumbs to Illness

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Texas, Oct. 4.—Mrs. Margaret Corrigan, 94, mother of the first white child born in Iowa Park, died at 7:20 o'clock this evening at the home of her son, Tom Corrigan.

Funeral services will be held from the Tom Corrigan home at 3:30 p. m. Monday with Rev. C. C. Davis and Rev. E. F. Lowrance, officiating. Burial will be in Highland cemetery, near Iowa Park.

Mrs. Corrigan came to Iowa Park with her husband, the late Tom Corrigan Sr., in 1888. The son, Tom Jr., was born in 1889.

She was born in Weston, Platt county, Mo.

Besides the son, Mrs. Corrigan is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Eva Thompson, LaPryor, Texas, Mrs. M. A. Hartline, Elk City, Okla., and Mrs. Rosa Fleming, Camden Point, Mo.

Ex-Janitor Charged In Laredo Shooting

LAREDO, Texas, Oct. 4 (AP)—Juan Trevino, 30, janitor at Laredo High school, was instantly killed this morning with a shotgun. Antonio Villareal, former janitor at the high school, was in jail charged with murder.

Testimony at the coroner's inquest was that Trevino was cranking an automobile in front of his house when Villareal approached him with a shotgun in his hands. He suggested they go hunting and raised the gun. The gun was discharged, according to evidence.

Fire Sweeps Business Area in Texas Town

MABANK, Texas, Oct. 4. (AP)—Estimated damage of $8,000 was done here early today as fire swept the business section. The fire broke out in the Aston building.

Other buildings damaged were the Odd Fellows hall, Texas Power and Light company, Hardy Tailor shop and a dental office.

Firemen extinguished a second fire in cotton yards shortly after 5 o'clock this morning. Of the 3,000 bales in the yard only 18 burned.

BRAZIL CREDITS

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 4. (US)—Financial circles today reported that American bankers have offered the Bank of Brazil $10,000,000 in credits.

THOMAS EDISON GROWS WEAKER

Wizard Loses Ground in Fight With Disease

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 4. (AP)—Anxiety increased throughout the world today as Thomas A. Edison continued to grow weaker.

"Mr. Edison is gradually losing strength," said a bulletin issued by his physician, Dr. Hubert S. Hower. "He did not have a good night. It is increasingly difficult for him to take nourishment."

Messages of solicitude came from far and near, including two cables from Pope Pius XI asking for latest reports on the famous inventor's condition.

The stamina that buoyed up the "Wizard of Menlo Park" during a long lifetime of labor appeared to be ebbing away under the onslaught of a four-fold ailment. He has been suffering from uremic poisoning, gastric ulcers, diabetes and bright's disease.

An attack of indigestion late Friday added to the gravity of his condition.

The inventor, who has recovered repeatedly from sinking spells to demand a cigar and go out for his habitual automobile drive, seemed to be losing some of his spirit. His nights are restless and in the daytime he shows a tendency to sit quietly—a tendency wholly unlike the robust scientist of former days.

The messages from the vatican were disclosed this afternoon and recalled the occasion last year when Edison sent a richly decorated dictating device of his invention to the pope. Later the pope sent him a gold medal.

The inventor sent an answer to the pope's messages, declaring Mr. Edison and the family "sincerely appreciate the deep interest of the Holy Father" and giving the latest information as issued in Dr. Howe's bulletin.

EX-OFFICER FOUND GUILTY IN SLAYING

Verdict Declares Negro Slain With 'Malice Aforethought'

NEW TRIAL ASKED

Martin Commends Jurors And Attorneys in Trial of Case

John Alsup, former Fort Worth police officer, was found guilty of murder and assessed 10 years in the penitentiary by a jury which returned its verdict Sunday afternoon at 4:40 o'clock before Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court after almost 20 hours of deliberation.

Alsup was placed on trial before Judge Martin last Monday morning by change of venue from Tarrant county in connection with the killing of Isaac Tate, negro, following the attempted robbery of the First State bank of Polytechnic in Fort Worth on April 10, 1930. The defendant admittedly killed Tate and another negro after they emerged from the bank under fire from another officer who had been stationed inside the building. Alsup was charged with having framed the bank robbery in order to qualify for a heavy reward by killing the bandits.

Family Hears Verdict

Confident almost to the point of complacency throughout the trial, Alsup was visibly taut and nervous as he entered the courtroom Sunday afternoon to hear the verdict. It was the fifth time during the past 18 months that he has awaited jury action which would pronounce his guilt or innocence on a murder charge. He was acquitted in the case of the first negro's death after two trials. Twice he had been tried for Tate's death before facing the local jury last Monday. One trial resulted in a hung jury, another in a conviction which the criminal court of appeals reversed and remanded. Alsup blanched noticeably, and for a moment became almost rigid in his chair, as Judge Martin read the jury's decision.

The defendant was accompanied Sunday by his wife, their two children, a boy and a girl, and Alsup's sister. Only as the court addressed himself to the jurymen in appreciation of their services did the convicted man and his relatives seem to realize that the jury had declared him guilty.

The jury in its verdict found Alsup "guilty of murder with malice aforethought." The verdict was signed by W. W. Whatley, foreman.

Attorneys Otis E. Rogers and Leo Brewster of Fort Worth immediately filed notice of motion for a new trial, and announced that the motion will be made formally Monday. At their request, Judge Martin announced that the September term of the 89th district court will be

East Texas Field Exceeds 400,000

KILGORE, Texas, Oct. 4. (AP)—For the first time since inauguration of the 185 barrel per well proration order two weeks ago daily production in the East Texas field had exceeded the 400,000 barrel mark.

Production for Saturday as announced by Brig. Gen. Jacob F. Wolters, commandant of the martial law zone, was 401,894 barrels from 2,169 wells. Total number of wells in the area was given at 2,221. A few reported no production.

Second Child Near Death From Poisoning

AMARILLO, Texas, Oct. 4. (AP)—A 2-year-old youngster lies at the point of death here today, poisoned by food that killed his twin brother. He is Roy Grider, son of a Rock Island trainman.

The boy's twin brother, Ray, died Saturday as a result of the mysterious poisoning.

Both boys and their mother were stricken ill last Sunday soon after dinner.

The parents are unable to recall what the family ate at the fatal meal.

A. F. L. SUGGESTS RELIEF PLANS

Wage Maintenance and Beer Are Advocated

asserting much of the trouble in the nation's industrial mechanism was due to the "unequal distribution of the nation's income."

Only 1,000,000 persons would remain to be taken care of this winter, it was concluded, if the 3,000,000 employers, excluding farmers, would only employ on an average of two additional workers each.

Building Urged

Extension of the public buildings program, the strengthening of unemployment agencies, preferences for workers with dependents and keeping young persons in school were additional steps suggested to help alleviate the unemployment "crisis."

The federation has already gone on record as favoring a change in the liquor laws to permit 2.75 beer and the council said it had been seeking to bring that about.

"It is generally understood that a bill will be introduced at the next session of congress providing for some such modification of the Volstead act as has been repeatedly proposed by the American Federation of Labor," the council reported.

Adding it would give such legislation full support, the council said indications were that public opinion was undergoing a marked change and that the Volstead act would be amended to permit beer "at the forthcoming session or at some future session."

Coal Problem

Disappointment that the president had failed to call a conference of bituminous coal miners and operators was expressed and support pledged to a bill to put the industry under government regulation.

The industry, the council said, has shown by its sordid performance" that it is unable to rescue itself from the mire and distress of cut-throat competition."

A federal labor board to gather basic data bearing on wage earnings and to make constructive suggestions was proposed.

Comprehensive planning to avoid future depressions was stressed. The council said national economic conferences would disclose the way.

"We have therefore," it said, "repeatedly urged upon the president of the United States that he call a national economic conference to find the way forward."

Alsup Given 10-Year Term

extended to such a date as will permit the defense lawyers to present their motion, and for the court to act upon it. The October term of court opens Monday.

Martin Thanks Jurors

"Before you go, gentlemen," the court said to the jury, "I want to tell you that I have tried many capital cases, and I don't think I have ever tried one in which the jury paid closer attention to the testimony, or seemed to be more attentive, more patient, than you have all been in this case. I want to thank you for your services."

Judge Martin also commended Defense Attorneys Rogers, Leo Brewster, and Garland Flowers of Fort Worth for their services to the defendant, and expressed his appreciation to them on behalf of the state.

"These young men were appointed by the court at Fort Worth to defend this man, who declared himself unable to employ counsel," Judge Martin said. "They have represented him ably and well. I desire publicly to commend that spirit in members of the Texas bar, which prompts them to give without pay the best service of which they are capable."

District Attorney Jesse Martin of Tarrant county; his assistant, W. L. Parker; and District Attorney Sam B. Spence of Wichita county comprised the trio of state's attorneys who prosecuted the murder charge against Alsup. In his argument to the jury, Attorney Martin asked that the death penalty be imposed.

Two and a half days were required last week for the selection of a jury to try the case, more than 100 men being questioned before the 12 jurors were obtained. Trial of the case was replete with sharp clashes between opposing lawyers, Mr. Rogers twice drawing fines for contempt of court as a result of his remarks about the Tarrant county district attorney. The defendant testified on his own behalf during a three-hour period Friday.

Arguments of the six lawyers were completed about 9:30 o'clock Saturday night.

Walther League Holds District Rally Here

Member societies of zone one, Lone Star district of the Walther league, held their 12th semi-annual rally at St. Paul's Lutheran church here Sunday afternoon. Representations were present from the Vernon, Clara and Wichita Falls societies.

A principal action of the convention was to change the title of the zone to the "Radiance" zone. The meeting was opened with a devotional service led by the Rev. C. M. Beyer, pastor of the church here. Carl Kuehn delivered the address of welcome in behalf of the St. Paul's Walther league.

Arthur A. Hingst of Vernon, president of the zone, presided. The president delivered his semi-annual message. An essay, "Youth," was read by Arthur A. Kramer, Wichita Falls. John D. Rieger sang a solo.

The Rev. Beyer delivered a special sermon, "A Walther Leaguer's Duty Toward His Church," over KGKO Sunday evening.

Rio de Janeiro Unveils Giant Statue of Christ

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 4. (US)—Rio de Janeiro today began a week's festivities commemorating the unveiling of what is claimed to be the largest statue of Christ in the world. The statue, equal in size to the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor, stands atop Corcovado rock, 2,300 feet above the city.

Legal Forces Of Uncle Sam And Al Capone Prepared For Battle

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyt., 1931, by Universal Service, Inc.)

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 4.—Alphonse Capone, prohibition's gift to Chicago, who is "Snorkey" to his intimates, and "Scarface Al" to the magazine writers, "goes to bat," as the boys say, Tuesday morning to face the legal pitching of your Uncle Sam.

He is charged on a whole raft of counts with violation of the income tax law. It was to these charges, along with a joblot of accusations relative to compound fractures of the prohibition act, that Alphonse Capone pleaded guilty last summer.

The plea was under the terms of a deal alleged to have been made with certain of the government authorities that would have let Alphone Capone down with about two years and a half in a federal hoosegow, which a man can do standing on his head.

Like Baseball Deal

It was like the time a bunch of ball players got together and decided to throw a game to the opposing club for a financial consideration. They took in all hands on the deal except a big Swede who played center field. They left him out because they thought he didn't count, anyway, and they would save his "cut."

The Swede innocently hit five home runs, and ruined the plot.

Well, it seems that in making the deal with Alphonse Capone, they left out the judge, James H. Wilkerson, of the federal court. Furthermore, it seems that the judge heard rumors of the deal, and he said, in effect, "Oh, is that so?" with the accent on the "that."

He said he wanted it distinctly understood that it is impossible to bargain with the federal court. Alphonse Capone's legal representatives were fearful that if they stood pat on the plea of guilty, Judge Wilkerson might "throw the book" at their client. Meaning that he might have given Alphonse Capone more time than any man could do standing on his head.

Plea Withdrawn

So they withdrew the plea of guilty, and substituted one of not guilty, and Alphonse Capone goes to trial before Judge Wilkerson and a jury Tuesday on the income tax violations.

Alphonse Capone never made an income tax return in his life, but your Uncle Sam claims that over some six years he had an income of $1,038,654. Your Uncle Sam claims that Capone owes $215,000 in income tax.

Your Uncle Sam claims that Capone gleaned the income aforesaid from "rackets" of one kind and another—liquor, gambling, and whatnot, for Alphonse Capone is accounted the most notorious "racket man" in these United States. Or should I say prominent? The difference between notoriety and prominece is only a matter of a few millions of dollars and a lapse of time.

Now liquor, gambling, and whatnot are illegalities as you well know if you read your law books plain. But that makes no difference to your Uncle Sam when it comes to his income tax. Alphonse Capone himself was never a "muscle man" like your Uncle Sam in the matter of "rackets" although I have heard it said that Capone has displayed imposing "muscle" in his time.

Uncle Sam's "Muscle"

Your Uncle Sam's "muscle" is the income tax, and it is the strongest "muscle" ever conceived. Your Uncle Sam "muscles" himself in on bootleggers, bookmakers, gamblers, and possibly on burglars if they are honest enough to make an income tax return, and pay him his "cut" promptly.

Of course many of this gentry would hold out on your Uncle Sam, and fail to inform him as to his share, and in that event your Uncle Sam has to go after them. Thus he has gone after Alphonse Capone. Your Uncle Sam has noted for several years with sorrowing heart the apparent affluence in which Alphonse Capone has lived, and has finally said:

"Well, where's mine?"

Your Uncle Sam is, in effect, now suing Alphonse Capone for a divvy of the proceeds which it feels certain he has obtained by illegalities the past few years, and he would also like to punish Alphonse severely for holding out on him.

Apparently certain representatimes of your Uncle Sam felt that two years and a half in a federal "sneezer" would have been the severe punishment desired, although the average citizen may be somewhat bewildered by this dickering with a man who has been accused of about everything but the assassination of Abraham Lincoln.

Matter of Expediency

It was, I presume, regarded as a matter of expediency by the certain representatives. With Alphonse Capone doing two years and a half, standing on his head, under a plea of guilty to charges of conspiracy against the prohibition act, the prohibitionists could have drawn a long breath, and said:

"Well, we got him."

The valiant upholders of your Uncle Sam "muscle" privileges, per the income tax, on "rackets," could have puffed out their chests, and remarked:

"Well, we got him, too."

It would have avoided the no inconsiderable cost of the trial that begins in the federal court here Tuesday, with the government bringing in witnesses from far and wide who are expected to testify to such expenditures of money by Alphonse Capone for automobiles, houses and lots, and luxuries of one kind and another, as would argue a very considerable income.

Some of the witnesses are said to be old associates of Alphonse Capone who are expected to tell of his sharing in the proceeds of various "rackets."

Panel Summoned

A panel of 100 jurors, mainly from Illinois towns outside Chicago has been summoned, and Judge Wilkerson will have them before him today, Monday, afternoon for preliminary questioning. It is believed that it will take some days to select the jury.

It is up to your Uncle Sam to prove that Alphonse Capone had an income. The exact nature of the defense is not known, but it is said that Alphonse Capone will contend that the earnings of the various ventures attributed to him really went to his brother, Ralph Capone, and to one Jack Guzik, who have already pleaded guilty to income tax violations.

Also it is said that the defense will assert that Alphonse Capone is now busted flatter than the Bank of the United States, and that one reason he pleaded guilty last summer is the fact that he didn't have the good old sinews of war to carry on any further. He will be represented in court by a brilliant attorney named Michael J. Ahern who has been his lawyer for years, assisted by another able lawyer named Albert Fink.

Your Uncle Sam is well fortified by what the boys call "tongues," or lawyers. They will be headed by United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, who is accounted a fine, conscientious exponent of Blackstone.

Capone Makes "Show"

Now of course you know quite well that if this defendant was John Q. Smith, or Hobart P. Fedink, charged with failing to kick in income tax to your Uncle Sam, the case certainly wouldn't attract enough attention to warrant the arrangements that have been made in Judge Wilkerson's courtroom for the accommodation of 50 newspaper reporters.

I mean to say income tax cases are no novelty. Not even when they involve the amount represented in this case. Your Uncle Sam is always rounding up his delinquent creditors, and making them settle, and the most important of these cases rarely get over a few paragraphs in the public prints.

The fact that it is Alphonse Capone they are trying in this instance is what is attracting nationwide attention to the courtroom in the federal building of Chicago. The public sees in this trial a haling to the bar of justice of the most publicized man in the United States.

As a strictly legal proposition, Alphonse Capone, until about 10 years ago a chubby Italian youngster running the streets of Brooklyn, is being tried only for his failure to account to your Uncle Sam for his earnings. But the public imagination sees Alphonse Capone on trial for a lot of things that anyone would have difficulty in proving. For high crimes and misdemeanors from petty larceny to responsibility for some of the 500 killings in Chicago the past few years.

Test of Strength

I would say that in Chicago the trial is being taken far more casually than elsewhere in the country Outside Chicago many persons seem to feel that the trial is by way of a test of strength between the majesty of the United States government, and Alphonse Capone, which is not strictly the truth.

It is not the truth because Alphonse Capone, in his plea of guilty last summer, admitted the strength and the majesty of the United States government. He capitulated, so to speak. I rather imagine that what he is striving for now is as much modification as possible, although having gone to trial he now stands a chance of beating the case entirely. The same chance that every defendant is assumed to stand when he appears before the bar of justice.

In Chicago, I find many citizens who seem to feel that Alphonse Capone has been "built up" by the public prints beyond his desserts. They seem to feel that the importance of the coming trial has been exaggerated. Some of them think Alphonse Capone should have been bustled off to the federal corral and on his plea of guilty, and forgotten, in the intrests of the common weal, though at the same time they applaud the stand of Judge Wilkerson in refusing to permit bargaining with a federal court.

Judge "Tough Break"

This Judge Wilkerson is what the underworld terms "a tough break." A former state legislator, he has been in public life for years, and has always been accounted a zealous laborer in the vineyard of the public good. As a federal judge he is learned, fair, but uncompromising, as he has demonstrated.

He once chucked a Cook county sheriff into jail and fined him heavily, because this sheriff was said to have been showing favors to pair of wealthy beer runners who had been sent to his jail by a federal court. The sheriff had been letting the prisoners gallivant about pretty much as they pleased.

Alphonse Capone will not appear in Judge Wilkerson's court tomorrow when the judge questions the veniremen, or potential jurors. He will be there Tuesday when the trial starts, and the government of the U. S. A. is accountable for Alphonse Capone during the period of the trial, which may be weeks and weeks.

The government of the U. S. A. will provide escort and guard for Alphonse Capone as he journeys to and from the courtroom from his citadel called the Hotel Lexington. He is enjoying his freedom under bond. It is understood that after the jury is selected it will be kept together at all times during the trial.

'Scarface' Al Ready for Big Court Battle

Boys Club Adds New Activities

Several new activities will be added this week to the Boys' club program, according to Marvin Robertson, director of the organization.

Monday night parents of the boys in the club will have the privilege of seeing the Boy Scout picture, "The Scout Trail," which will be shown in the club gymnasium.

The first class of a series of boxing lessons will be held in the gymnasium immediately following the showing of the picture. Elmer Wininger is instructor.

Tuesday night the regular classes in mechanics and radio crystal set making will be held. Wednesday night the second series of classes on advanced radio will be started by J. R. Martin. C. W. Ridling has just finished the first two weeks of the advanced class.

Also to be started Wednesday night are the English classes for boys who are not attending school. About eight boys are expected to join the class, it was said.

The show card writing class will be held as scheduled on Thursday night. On Friday night, however, another subject, mathematics, will be added. This subject will follow the electricity class. Curtis Cook is instructor.

During the evening a basket ball game will be staged between the Boys' club team and the quintet of the Floral Heights Presbyterian church. The game will be called at 8:30 p. m.

Dalhart Wolves Beat Texhoma Eleven, 26-7

Special to The Record News.

DALHART, Texas, Oct. 4.—The Dalhart Wolves won their third game of the season when they defeated the Texhoma eleven 26 to 7, but the contest was costly to the local lads. With several of the second string men in the lineup the Wolves permitted the Texhoma boys to make the first score of the season against them. This is the second time in two years that the goal line of the local boys has been crossed.

Captain Ribble was injured again in the Texhoma game and is likely to be out for at least two weeks. Other star performers of the Wolves suffered minor injuries and the team is considerably shaken up. Next week Coach Blake Bolton sends the locals against Panhandle here. The following week the Clayton team plays in Dalhart and after that the Wolves will battle the Tucumcari boys at Dalhart.

Yeggs Fail to Open Cleaning Plant Safe

Knob knockers attempted to enter the safe of the Wichita Cleaning and Dye Works, 1101 Tenth street, Saturday night, according to police. Their efforts, however, were unsuccessful. The combination of the safe had been battered away and the handle broken off.

Detectives O. A. Robertson and Luke Hart expressed the opinion that the job was by amateurs. Entrance to the building was secured after a window had been broken open. Nothing other than the safe was harmed. A number of valuable furs were not taken.

Several suspects in the case had been arrested Sunday. They had not been connected with the attempt, however.

SKATING RINK OPENS

The Aztec skating rink opened Sunday night for the winter skating season under the new management of R. U. Flatt and Roy Higginbotham. The rink will be open Monday, Wednesday and Thursday nights with the formal opening for Saturday night. The rink will be open every night but Tuesday and Friday nights.

ELECTRA BANK PLAN OFFERED

Funds Subscribed for New Institution

assets will be placed in trust for the remaining 30 per cent.

Persons having deposits of less than $100 will be paid in full upon the opening of the bank to make the plans effective, all the depositors will have to approve.

Beginning Monday morning, the plans will be presented before the depositors, and if matters are arranged satisfactorily, the new bank will open in the near future, in less than a month and perhaps within 10 days.

The proposal is practically the only solution to the situation, officials state. Members of the new board of directors state that if the depositors fail to comply with the plans, the old bank will continue to be liquidated by the banking commissioner and the depositors will receive in all probability much less than the 70 per cent of their deposits being offered by the new organization.

The new bank is a subject which vitally concerns the entire community as well as nearby rural communities, leaders in the movement explained. The 32 stockholders who have already subscribed stock in the new bank are among the leading citizens of the town, it was pointed out. It has been said that these men did not necessarily desire to create a bank but the situation was forced upon them.

Electra can not continue indefinitely without a bank, business men assert. The lack of a bank has crippled trade in the Electra area to a great extent.

If the depositors approve the plans, other details will be worked out and a charter will be applied for. The new bank would be known as the First State bank in Electra and should not be confused with the name of the old bank which was the First State bank of Electra. The board of directors chosen by the stockholders of the proposed institution include A. T. McDannald, R. Y. Smith, Mrs. Louise Williams, H. A. Decker, H. M. Tarlton, J. G. B. Totten, M. R. Stipe, T. H. Parmley, and Al Robb.

Wine Bricks Go On Sale in City

grown in the grape district financed by the federal government.

The federal farm board recently appropriated several millions of dollars to the aid of grape growers in California. The action has resulted in considerable criticism of the farm board, although funds so appropriated are said to be loaned to grape growers, similar to loans made by the board to members of other branches of the agricultural industry.

In defining the legality of grape concentrate, Mr. Baird declared that it is entirely within the law for individuals to make wine for home consumption. The company, he declared, violates no law, as does neither the venders of malt extract, hops and yeast, or grapes.

But, in the event law enforcement bodies attempt to make a prohibition case of sales made by the company, he said, the matter is turned over to the concern's legal department, headed by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, formerly of the federal prohibition department legal staff.

The distributor for Wichita Falls will carry a stock of grape bricks and will sell not only to grocers and other dealers, but direct to the consumer, it was explained.

Wichita County Names Singing Delegates

ELECTRA, Texas, Oct. 4.—The Wichita Singers association will be well represented at the Oklahoma-Texas singing convention to be held in Vernon, Oct. 10-11. H. E. Wilson, Electra, president of the county association, Mrs. Byrne Shofner, Electra; Sterling Gwinn, County Line; Lee Copeland and W. B. Johnson, Burkburnett, are the delegates. The association joined the Oklahoma-Texas organization last month.

Pan-American Group To Study Trade Ills

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4. (AP)—A vigorous search for a tonic to offset the pernicious ills of depression will be opened here tomorrow by trade authorities of the 21 American republics.

Gathered for the fourth Pan-American commercial conference, the delegates will devote the week to a thorough study of the trade and industrial problems of the western hemisphere.

TWO SMALL FIRES

Two minor blazes called out the fire department here Sunday night, but failed to cause damage. A gas stove exploded at the home of C. O. Froman, 2606 Fillmore. The blaze was extinguished before the arrival of fire equipment. At about the same time a grass fire occurred at Maple switch, the rail crossing on Grant street.

State Deaths

DAVID E. MILLER

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 4.—David E. Miller, pioneer resident of Frederick, died early Saturday morning at the home of his son, J. L. Miller, south Fifteenth street. He was 91 years of age.

Funeral services will be conducted at the First Methodist church here by Rev. R. B. Moreland, pastor. Burial will be made in the city cemetery.

Former Wichita Falls Pipe Line Contractor Drowns in Mobile Bay

J. Elmer Maunder, 38, former Wichita construction contractor and brother of John Maunder here, was drowned in Mobile Bay late Sunday afternoon, according to dispatches from the Associated Press. Mr. Maunder, president of the Maunder Pipeline Construction company of Dallas, was a member of a fishing party and in a skiff which turned over. Search for the body, futile Sunday night, will be resumed Monday.

Mr. Maunder headed a pipeline construction company here for several years during the height of the oil boom. He had been in Hattesburg, Miss., directing construction work there befors the accident. His mother, Mrs. Anna Maunder, who made her home with him in Mississippi; two sisters, Mrs. Anna Bishop and Mrs. Jack Stride, New York, and the brother here survive. The entire family at one time lived in Wichita Falls.

MAUNDER CRIPPLED IN RECENT MISHAP

DALLAS, Oct. 4. (AP)—J. Elmer Maunder, 38, who was drowned in Mobile bay today, was associated for a number of years as contractor with the utility firm of Pundt and McGehee of Dallas.

At the time of his death he was working on a gas line and gas distribution system between Jackson and Hattiesburg, Miss.

Maunder also did extensive work for the Public Service corporation of Texas in the Panhandle region.

Maunder was injured severely two months ago when heavy pipe rolled on his leg. He was still using crutches at the time of the accident.

Oklahoma Bandit Forays Leave Trail of Five Dead in Cities

Eight-Year-Old Child Among Victims as Gun Battle Follows Attempted Hijacking

TULSA, Oct. 4. (UP)—Three bandit forays in Oklahoma Saturday had resulted today in the deaths of five persons, one an 8-year-old child, and the wounding of his mother.

Eight-year-old Raymond Butler and a bandit, Carl Higgins, of Tulsa, were killed at Oilton, near here, when two robbers attempted to hold up M. D. Butler, a druggist. Butler and the bandits engaged in a gun battle.

The little boy died from wounds received by a stray bullet and his mother received a shot in her back. The second bandit, believed wounded, escaped. A suspect was arrested in Tulsa Sunday.

Bandit Kills Self

Mrs. Butler was carrying jewelry valued at $3,000 in her purse and Butler had $1,000 in drug store receipts in his possession.

Faced with certain capture, Lloyd Abbot of Hutchinson, Kan., wanted for murdering a man while holding up a dice game, fatally shot Thomas Googin, 26, of Junction City, Kan., his companion, and then committed suicide in a field near Enid.

Abbott and Googin fired at Elmer Hutchinson late Saturday when the deputy sheriff attempted to question them as auspicious characters on an Enid downtown street. Hutchinson returned their fire and engaged them in a running gun battle. Enid streets were filled with stray bullets, caroming from business buildings and sending bystanders scurrying to cover.

Pair Surrounded

The pair was surrounded in a field near Enid, where Abbott shot Googin and then turned the gun on himself as possemen closed in on them. Abbott died instantly and Googin succumbed in an Enid hospital.

Sheriff George Caraway of Barton county, Kan., said Abbott killed Tom Robinson, near Chase, Kan., last Monday night while robbing a dice game.

Googin's father came here today to claim his son's body.

Charles Evans, 46, coal miner at Carbon, seven miles east of McAlester, died from wounds received at the hands of five masked bandits who held up the poker game in which he was participating.

Evans was struck over the head with a butt end of a revolver and shot twice in the legs when he attempted to resist the robbers. After shooting Evans and severing an artery so that he bled to death, the bandits escaped in two automobiles.

The sum of $1.19 was found in Evans' pockets.

Lindberghs Transport Plane Damaged by Boat

SHANGHAI, Oct. 4. (US)—The takeoff accident at Hankow in which Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh were thrown into the Yangtze-Kiang river when their plane capsized ended their survey flights for the flood relief commission, it was announced today.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindbergh are bringing their damaged plane back to Shanghai aboard the British aircraft carrier Hermes. They are expected here tomorrow night. The Hermes will stop en route at Nanking to pick up their baggage.

Their black monoplane will be shipped to the Lunghua airmail airdrome of the China National Aviation corporation for repairs. Before resuming their vacation flight, the Lindberghs are expected to return by air to Nanking.

Panhandle of Texas, Inc. Has Exhibit at Fair

PAMPA, Texas, Oct. 4. (AP)—George Briggs, manager of the Pampa Board of City Development, has gone to Muskogee, Okla., to supervise the showing of an exhibit placed there by the Panhandle of Texas, Inc.

The exhibit is one of three that are being shown at various fairs over the Middle West and Southwest.

The exhibits will be shown in the future by some one connected with a Panhandle chamber of commerce, in order to cut expenses.

Dumas Gas Rates Cut By Utilities Concern

DUMAS, Texas, Oct. 4. (AP)—This city has received a voluntary reduction in gas rates from the West Texas Utilities company amounting to one-third. The rate for the top "step" was formerly 60 cents a thousand cubic feet. It is 40 cents for the first 5,000 feet under the new schedule.

The reduction resulted from a conference of city officials with gas company officials at Abilene. The new rate will become effective Nov. 1.

Dead Man and Claude Resident Confused By Insurors

CLAUDE, Texas, Oct. 4. (AP)—No man ever expected to live to see this.

A. R. Colvin of Amarillo called at the cafe owned by T. H. Baker of Claude, and inquired for Mrs. Nettie Baker. "I have a check for $1,000 on her husband's life insurance policy," Colvin said.

"But I am her husband." Baker explained.

Then they started checking up. The T. H. Baker whose insurance policy was payable lived at Alanreed, only 40 miles away. The names, ages and beneficiaries of the Bakers were identical.

Poincare Makes Strides Toward Restored Health

SAMPIGNY, France, Oct. 4. (AP)—Former Premier Raymond Poincare is progressing normally toward complete recovery from his recent illness here, Mayor Georges Godin said today. The mayor said there was no reason for alarm.

The former premier was able to receive several visitors yesterday.

TEXAN SHOOTS WIFE AND SON

Farmer Mistakes Pair for Auto Thieves

ABILENE, Texas, Oct. 4. (UP)—Firing upon two persons whom he supposed to be thieves, J. H. McCraw, tenant farmer, early today shot his aged wife to death and seriously wounded his son, Herman, 34.

The shooting occurred at the McCraw home nine miles north of here. The son returned home late, went to the garage and started his father's truck.

Mrs. McCraw, 62, went to meet her son. The elder McCraw, sleeping in a room adjoining his wife's, was aroused by the sounds. He looked out of the window and saw the two figures moving about.

McCraw emptied both barrels of a 12-gauge shotgun and killed his wife instantly. The son, wounded in the arm and shoulder, was expected to recover.

No charges had been filed against the farmer tonight.

M'KINNEY DEALER SHOT TO DEATH

M'KINNEY, Texas, Oct. 4. (AP)—Pearl Smith, 50, automobile dealer, was killed by an unidentified person near his home today shortly after midnight. No arrests had been made by Sheriff Ed Blakeman who is investigating the slaying.

Smith had closed his place about midnight and driven home. After putting his car in the garage he had started for his house when shot down. Pistol shots took effect in his chest, hand and near the heart. He died in the city hospital a few minutes later without being able to make a statement.

Funeral services will be held Monday. He is survived by a widnow and a number of children.

Druggist Injured as Two Machines Collide

ALPINE, Texas, Oct. 4. (AP)—Carl Weiss, Marfa druggist, was in a hospital here as a result of an automobile collision near here last night. His condition was reported serious.

Dudley Jennings, El Paso, occupant of the second car, was badly cut and bruised. Both cars were demolished.

FOOD INSPECTION

Special to The Record News

ELECTRA, Texas, Oct. 4.—State food inspector Holton was in Electra during the past week making examinations of all grocery stores, drug stores and cafes. He reported that the general conditions in Electra were favorable although he found several cases that needed to be remedied. He also insisted that every one who handled food in public places have a health certificate. Chief of Police J. T. Taylor accompanied him on his rounds.

Forum Sponsors' Art Exhibit for Flower Show

Members of the Woman's Forum will sponsor an art exhibit in connection with the annual flower show to take place at the Woman's Forum clubhouse in November. Flower pictures will be particularly welcomed although landscapes also will be a pretty addition to the theme of the exhibition. Artists may sell their paintings on commission at this exhibit, if they so desire, and all local artists are urged to prepare work of the character mentioned.

Needlework is another form of art that will be exhibited and contributions are requested. Quilts may be shown and sold on commission, and if enough dolls should be offered, the department may sponsor a doll booth.

Mrs. Walter Killingsworth, chairman of the art department, telephone 2-1607, Mrs. Luther Hoffman, 3200, and Mrs. W. P. Killingsworth, 5845, will give information as to the kind of exhibits desired and the time and place they must be presented for entrance.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

We feel that we know more at the present moment of the 18th amendment that we ever knew before. When that amendment was passed, it was so new to our experience that we regarded it as a temporary thing. Personally we were not much concerned.

◇ ◇ ◇

But one of our family happens to be studying government and when she began praising the constitution of the United States as the most marvelous document ever drawn, we remarked quite casually that it had a number of amendments.

◇ ◇ ◇

Whereupon we were sat upon. We were carried in oratory from the framing of the constitution down to the latest amendment and when we recklessly stated we had too many laws that were not obeyed, we were emphatically told it was the fault of the people and had it pointed out where we ourselves had erred.

◇ ◇ ◇

We made wild statements and were told of Russia, Italy and England and had it affirmed that America had yet the most perfect form of government. It was graphically told us just how the 18th amendment was passed (for by this time in self-defense, we had revolted against that amendment) and our arbiter asserted that the only error made was that state convention rather than state legislation should have acted upon it. Not that the later was not constitutional, but that the former reached the people.

◇ ◇ ◇

Then being quizzed on relative merits of these two bodies, our 16-year-old progeny delivered us a lecture, quoting a judge who had declared the amendment unconstitutional and telling us the result of investigation.

◇ ◇ ◇

Awed as we were, we began to think that she was cut out for a lawyer rather than Hollywood, for which she had declared, and as she argued louder and faster and with much more reason than ourself, we decided to change the subject. We remarked airily, "Too many laws anyway; people pay attention to the vital ones. Too many rules in school."

◇ ◇ ◇

A flood of information descended on us concerning improvements in modern schools. They are getting better all the time, she said. The honor system is being installed. "Now public schools didn't amount to much when you went to school, mother."

◇ ◇ ◇

I hung my head. "Well I thought I had a fair education with high school and a small college," I said, but she broke in "I don't mean that. Now you were brought up on the pin drop system. Everything had to be so still you could hear a pin drop."

◇ ◇ ◇

"Well, I don't know about that," I began again. "Why mother," she said. "you told me about the excitement when you crawled up the aisle." (Why do we ever tell our escapades?) "When you went to school, you were told you must be quiet." "Well, heaven knows, they don't tell you that," I said.

◇ ◇ ◇

"No," she said; "the principle now is not to go by rules . . . There's not a rule saying you must do this or that. If a teacher is a successful one these days, she has to be able to make things so interesting pupils do not want to do wrong."

◇ ◇ ◇

"Here endeth the history lesson," I said—"but I want the last word. I think it's a pity that the same system can't be worked with the bad boys of the United States—the citizens who are not interested."

Major Francis Grice D. A. R. Names Conference Delegates

A patriotic program and a business meeting when delegates were elected to the state conference meeting in Houston Nov. 2-5, marked the first autumn meeting of Major Francis Grice chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at the Woman's Forum clubhouse Saturday at noon. Mrs. E. C. deMontel, regent, presided with Mesdames Walter Bachman, C. Y. Holbrook, Carrie Joline, Winthrop Rogers, Claude B. Woods, E. B. Bailey, C. E. Borland, Charles Birk and Ruth S. Cain as hostesses.

Autumn's royal colors of purple and gold furnished the motif for the decorations; tall purple thistles, bachelor's buttons, masses of goldenrod and fluffy ageratum made a gorgeous setting.

Following the routing business opening the fall session, delegates to the state D. A. R. conference were named as follows: Mesdames P. J. Pond, Ruth S. Cain, E. T. Duff and Guy Rogers. Alternates named included Mesdames G. Taylor Buchanan, S. Y. Ferguson, Winthrop Rogers, C. E. Deaton, Walter Bachman, Wilbur Newberry, Fred T. Couper, C. E. Borland, Sterling Crumpler and J. L. Waggoner.

Patriotic Program

Mrs. Carrie Wilcox was at the piano when the patriotic program opened with "The Star Spangled Banner." Miss Sarah Sue Denny gave a splendid address, "Know Your Constitution," remarkable for its appreciation of and lesson on that marvelous doctrine.

A delicious luncheon was served to the following members and guests: Mesdames E. C. deMontel, J. D. Robertson, Guy Rogers, Clarence Apple, Clark A. Wilcox, Carrie E. Wilcox, J. R. Hyatt, A. H. Carrigan, F. W. Fischer, G. D. Fox, M. M. Garrett, A. W. Beavers, Luke McCrory, Sterling Crumpler, G. K. Wilson, Louise Bristol, C. E. Deaton, Paul J. Pond, J. E. H. Railey, Henry C. Fulcher, J. E. Hall, Wilbur Newberry, G. Taylor Buchanan, J. L. Jackson, J. L. Waggoner, D. G. Whitney, Fred T. Couper, Walter Bachman, C. Y. Holbrook, Carrie Joline, Winthrop Rogers, Claude B. Woods, E. B. Bailey, C. E. Borland, Charles Birk and Ruth S. Cain; Misses Sarah Sue Denny and Nell Gibbs.

Bridge Lecture at Forum Tuesday

Mrs. Willis E. Maxson will renew her series of bridge lectures Tuesday morning at the Woman's Forum clubhouse, when she will talk on the take-out double and the correct leads.

A brief resume of the most important details of the two previous lessons will be given when the meeting opens at 10 o'clock. Mrs. Maxson, who has finished a course under one of the most prominent teachers and who is an excellent lecturer and thoroughly familiar with her subject, will conclude her talk at 11 o'clock and will direct the play at different tables until 12:30, when a dainty luncheon will be served.

These lectures are open to the public. Enthusiasts on contract may entertain their friends at tables, whether they are members of the Forum or not.

Mesdames Ruth Kirksey, 7230; O. W. Harvey, 3958; R. H. Peterson, 9820, and Horace C. Lankford, 2-5619, will take reservations until Monday afternoon.

Electra Girl Wed to New Mexico Man

Special to The Record News

ELECTRA, Texas, Oct. 4.—Announcement has been made of the marriage on Thursday, Sept. 24 of Grady Jarmon of this city to Miss Iva Joe Jennings of Hobbs, N. M. The wedding ceremony was read by the justice of the peace at Frederick, Okla. The bride had been visiting her sister, Mrs. Walter Hyman in Electra. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Jarmon. He attended the local high school. The young couple plan to make their home in Electra where the groom is connected with his father in the Jarmon transfer and storage business.

How Do Sportswomen Manage?

Cup winners can't be quitters. The woman in any field of sport must take her sporting chance with Nature. Any strenuous match may bring on her monthly sickness. But there need be no pain! Midol always meets this emergency, as all active women should know. It will block periodic pain for hours.

And Midol is as harmless as the aspirin that stops your headaches. (It is non-narcotic.) If you want your next monthly period to begin and end without even a moment's discomfort, just ask for Midol at any drug store. Tuck the little box in your purse and be ready.

'Africa' Topic Of Study at Epworth Meet

"Africa" was the topic for discussion at the regular weekly meeting of the Floral Heights Methodist Epworth League Sunday evening.

Miss Mary C. Boone talked on "What a Congo Village Looks Like" and "What We Have Today in Africa" was the subject of a talk by Miss Helen Simpson. Two stories of the mission work in Africa were told by Travis Lee and Miss Nell Reed.

Following the opening song service Miss Simpson opened a series of sentence prayers, and Mrs. Claude Simpson closed the prayer.

Those present were Estell McPhail, Paul Carpenter, Helen Simpson, William Donnell, Mildred Johnson, Elizabeth Allbritton, Billie Leslie Stimson, Travis Lee, Mary C. Boone, Nell Reed, Helen Robertson, Leon Deaton, Beth Perkins, Corrine Perkins and Mrs. Claude Simpson.

PACIFIC FLIERS NEARING GOAL

Pangborn-Herndon Plane Heard Over Aleutians

SEATTLE, Oct. 4. (US)—With more than half of their perilous non-stop flight across the north Pacific behind them, the plane of Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon Jr., American aviators, was reported heard over False Pass, Unimak island in the Aleutian chain, at 12:55 p. m. (Seattle time).

Undaunted by a heavy fog hovering over the district the fliers roared over False Pass and continued in a southeasterly direction bearing down over the vast expanse of the Gulf of Alaska toward Seattle.

The report, first word of the two adventurers since two hours and 39 minutes after they left Sanushiro beach, Japan, at 2:01 p. m. (Seattle time) Saturday, was received by the naval radio station at Bremerton from the St. Paul island station. It had been relayed from a small radio station at a cannery near False Pass on Unimak island.

The plane was not sighted due to a heavy fog but little doubt was felt by local aviation experts that it was the trans-Pacifice plane, since no other craft were reported in the vicinity at that time.

The plane had been in the air approximately 23 hours when heard over False Pass, indicating the fliers were winging toward their destination at an average speed of about 117 miles an hour.

Since it was calculated their speed would increase as their gasoline cargo diminished, it was estimated that their big Bellanco monoplane would be over Seattle around 6 o'clock tomorrow morning.

"The boys are right on their course and are making excellent time," N. W. Connor, state governor for the National Aeronautical association said. "It looks like they'll make it, although they still have a hard pull ahead of them."

Weather reports received from northern points by the Boeing field weather bureau indicated Pangborn and Herndon will have to battle fog and rain during most of their flight southward from the Aleutians.

Memphis High Eleven Lightest in Years

MEMPHIS, Texas, Oct. 4.—Members of the Memphis High school football squad as a whole average around 160 pounds or less according to Coach Nolan Walter. The team this year is the lightest the local school has had in several years. The heaviest team that could possibly be started would not average over 160 pounds, the coach stated, and the regular lineup each week runs about 155 pounds average.

The weights of the players are as follows: Capt. Curtis Bourland, 169; Bill Snaders, 200; J. C. Hill, 148; A. R. Evans, 135; Jake Leggit, 167; Jack Sitton, 145; George May, 150; Charles Flannery, 140; J. W. West, 152; B. F. Shepherd, 135; Clifton Stewart, 173; Boyd Dixon, 150; Cecil Stargel, 140; Ronnel Melton, 145; Jack Davis, 164; Gordon Walker, 144; Blanton Bagwell, 164; Buster Leslie, 128; Kenneth Oren, 160; J. P. Boles, 168; Gayle Green, 140; John Smith, 155; and Jack Norman, 139.

BLESSED EVENTS

Eggs Left by Picnickers In Sun—You Guess The Results

Special to The Record News.

NEWPORT, Texas, Oct. 4.—picknickers left a bucket containing a dozen eggs at a camp site west of Newport about two weeks ago.

The camp site is on a high hill and a tree stands beside the spot where the bucket was left.

The place remained deserted, except for occasional passersby who noticed the bucket but thought nothing of it until a few days ago.

Then a farmer coming to town happened to stop his car at the camp grounds. He heard a familiar chirping sound.

He sauntered over to the little tin bucket and inside of it he was amazed to find several baby chicks crying for a mother. A half dozen of the eggs were intact.

Supposedly the heat from the sun had made an incubator of the bucket, so carelessly abandoned by the campers in their haste to depart.

BABY KILLING SUSPECT HELD

Vincent Call Captured With Woman Companion

NEW YORK, Oct. 4. (AP)—Vincent Coll, sought in connection with the shooting of five children on the upper East Side last summer and two more recent crimes, was arrested with a woman companion today in a raid by Bronx detectives. Five other men were taken later.

The six alleged gangsters were questioned regarding the killing of Joseph Mullins on Friday morning and a bomb explosion that night in a garage during the seizure of a truck load of beer.

In the Harlem child shooting, in which Coll had been named by detectives, one little boy was shot to death and four others wounded.

Late this afternoon two motor loads of detectives armed with shotguns drove up to Bathgate police station with Coll and a young woman picked up with him in Manhattan.

Coll, flashily dressed, had eluded police for weeks by growing a moustache and dyeing his blond hair black.

Shortly after his detention, other officers rounded up "Tuffy" Adina and the others in the Bronx.

Police last August broadcast a general alarm for Coll in connection with the killing of Michael Vengalli, 5, while at play in a street of "Little Italy."

Instructions went out to the entire police force to bring Coll in "dead or alive."

At that time rewards totalling $30,000 were offered for arrest and conviction of the gunmen who, at the close of a midsummer day, sped through the street and mowed down the five children.

Acetylene Drums, Believed Used in Opening Bank Safe, Fished From River

Wichita, Archer and Baylor county officers Sunday afternoon fished from the waters of the Wichita river about four-and-a-half miles west of this city two empty acetylene gas drums, according to Sheriff Perry Browning, while continuing their search for a safe stolen from the Dundee bank last Jan. 16.

The site at which the empty drums were recovered is near the home of Kelly Hunt, who was arrested last week and charged with burglary in connection with the Dundee robbery. Importance was attached to the recovery of the empty tanks from the river bed, officers said, because they formerly had received information that the missing safe and several empty acetylene drums had been rolled into the river.

Sunday's search for further evidences of the bank safe having been brought to the location near this city was directed by Sheriff Arch Holmes of Baylor county and Sheriff Fred McDaniel of Archer county, according to Sheriff Browning. They were assisted by the local sheriff and Deputy Pat Allen.

Long metal rods were used by the officers in prodding in the water as they endeavored to locate the objects believed to have been dumped there. It was indicated that a further search for the safe will be made at the same place.

Near the spot where Sunday's investigations were made, officers last week found part of a safe dial and portions of melted metal, along with money wrappers and a burned nickel. Erwin Spicer and Hunter Russell, both already under sentence for burglary elsewhere, were charged with burglary in connection with the Dundee bank robbery. The same charge was lodged against a fourth man not yet apprehended, it was said.

COYOTE-CHILDRESS FOOTBALL SPECIAL—Ride the special train next Saturday to Childress. Let's all back the Coyotes in their opening game.

WHEN WINTER COMES

IS YOUR house packed to the eaves with tremendous stores of flour . . . meat . . . clothing . . . and other supplies to carry you through the long winter?

Not very likely!

But if not, won't you—like the butterfly that played all summer without a thought of the cold days to come—won't you be in danger of facing famine, months before spring comes round again?

Certainly not!

When wintry winds are blowing their coldest, and the storm is wailing like forgotten banshees on the roof-top, the chances are you may be eating juicy strawberries from Costa Rica and fresh asparagus from Florida. For the day of storing up supplies against the barrenness of winter has gone forever.

It passed when America ceased to be a lot of scattered communities, and became a nation united by swift lines of transportation.

As you read the advertisements telling you just what the stores contain for you, fresh to your order, remember that here are the inexhaustible storerooms of today . . . storerooms that have banished forever the anxieties that went with the snows of yesteryear.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

This bureau does not give advice, but it gives free information on any subject. Often, to be accurately informed is to be beyond the need of advice, and information is always valuable, whereas advice may not be. In using this service be sure to write clearly, state your inquiry briefly, and enclose two-cent stamp for reply postage. Address the Record News Information bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q.—What city is called the Pittsburgh of the West?—A. R.

A.—Pueblo, Colo.

Q.—What is the school population?—C. L. B.

A.—The total American school population is approximately 31,000,000.

Q.—Should the word, junior, after a man's name be started with a capital letter?—B. D.

A.—If the word is spelled out, a capital is not used. If the abbreviation is used it appears as Jr.

Q.—How much are $4,000 in German marks worth?—W. S. B.

A.—If they were issued by the old German Reichsbank, they have no value. The new reichsbank is worth a little over 23 cents.

Q.—Can near beer be made at home?—S. A. D.

A.—This is quite an elaborate process and can not be done at home. The averabe homemade beer contains from 4 per cent to 6 per cent of alcohol.

Q.—In what county are the sources of the most rivers?—C. K.

A.—Randolph county, West Virginia, claims that more rivers have their origin in that county or nearby than in any known place in the world. From this high land, streams flow in practically all directions.

Q.—Who appointed Mahatma Gandhi and what salary does he receive?—M. J. B.

A.—Mahatma Gandhi is the leader of the national party of India which seeks entire self-rule and political independence from England. He is self-appointed. Gandhi combines a highly spiritual conception with political plans. He does not receive a salary.

Q.—Why is j dotted?—R. C.

A.—The consonant j did not appear in the Latin and other alphabets of western Europe until the 16th century. It had been represented by the letter i. In manuscripts the letter i was carried slightly below the line to indicate that it was being used as a consonant. This form crept into the alphabets.

Q.—Why is a cross formed by the light of a street lamp when viewed through a window screen?—A. M.

A.—The bureau of standards says that the appearance of four light rays from a street lamp when viewed at night from a window is a diffraction phenomenon, arising from the wave nature of light, namely bending around obstacles and interfering.

Q.—How is a hunting dog broken to gunfire?—H. O.

A.—Breaking a dog to gunfire is usually accomplished when it is quite young and is done by gradually accustoming the dog to the noise of the fire. A small arm is used at first and is fired at some distance from the dog, gradually working up to closer distances and larger arms.

Q.—Is it not true that the expression, great horn spoon, is evolved from the spoons made from the horns of Big Horn Sheep?—R. V.

A.—Authorities differ in regard to this, but the Cook Museum of Natural History has spoons of this type in its collection and it seems probable that the expression was evolved from the horn ladles which were in common use by the Sioux and other tribes before trade utensils from the whites were available.

Q.—Why is Peter Russell denied entry by the United States and England?—M. J.

A.—Peter Russell inadvertently or otherwise, missed the ship on which he was employed at Cork, last April. He stowed away on another ship bound for Boston, and upon its arrival was refused entry because of conflicting information regarding his birth. He was deported, but was refused entry into Britain. Later investigation proved him to be a Scotsman, and he has at the last writing, sailed for his home in Fife.

California, it is reported, may build a dirigible larger than the Akron. Probably a piece of subtle propaganda to call attention to the wonderful California air.

Some people are born great, others achieve greatness and still others understand what the gold crisis is all about.

It's a funny world, this! In this country hard times are blamed on the tariffs. In England, for lack of them.

If some people could change their minds, says the office sage, it would be a good thing.

The Meaning of Riches

IN MISSISSIPPI there is a 75-year-old lady who is suing for a share in New York's $50,000,000 Wendel estate; and the other day, talking about the lawsuit, she remarked plaintively, "I'll wish I was younger, if I'm going to get the money."

There is something very human about that remark, and something rather pathetic. To come into great wealth is the buried dream of all of us; but we want it while we still have desires to satisfy and dreams to fulfill and years to waste. To grow suddenly rich at 75 is better, probably, than not to get rich at all, but it is not a great deal better. For youth is not on the market, and when the last flicker of youth has vanished there is not a great deal else than the ordinary person wants to buy.

Indeed, this attitude explains a great deal, when you stop to think about it. It explains why get-rich-quick schemes always have flourished, and always will. It explains why there are always plenty of people to buy lottery tickets, and dreams of the lucky stroke of chance that may enrich them. It explains why decent young men occasionally turn into embezzlers and defaulters. It explains why a gold rush will recruit men from all over the world.

An industrious and gifted man can very often make a huge fortune in business. But he can't make it all at once, and that is the whole trouble. For, when we dream about being rich, we don't put it far in the future. We want it now, while we have vigor and long years and bright hopes to squander. The long climb up the ladder, looked at from that angle, sometimes seems impossibly tedious.

And this is true, too, whether one's desires are noble or base. The man to whom a fortune is only a means for gratifying his appetites will quite naturally want the money for the leisure it will bring him, for the release that it will mean from petty cares and mean demands, for the doors that it will open to the things of the spirit.

And that, of course, is where life always seems hard and cruel. Unless a man is the especial favorite of the gods, things won't work out as he wishes. We dream of money, which is another way of saying that we dream of complete freedom; but we have to put in long years of service first, and if we can't find our compensations in serving we are out of luck. Riches and youth do not go hand in hand.

Lindbergh's Influence

JUST how much Colonel Lindbergh's flights may do directly for the famine sufferers of China is problematical. Indirectly, however, they will probably prove worth more than anything that any one else can do.

Lindbergh, when you stop to think about it, is remarkably like Midas. The difference is that whereas whatever Midas touched turned to gold, whatever Lindbergh touches turns to front page news. By flying over the famine districts the young aviator will focus world attention on China's plight in a way that no one else on earth could do. He has the magic touch. He can compel us to think about China's famine.

That, in the end, will mean a great deal to the famine relief campaign. The hungry coolies who stare up at the strange plane in the sky will never realise just how much that plane is doing for them.

Taxing Wealthy Estates

THERE is a tremendous amount of sound sense in Senator David A. Reed's recent proposal that the estates left by wealthy men on their death should be taxed right up to the point where the heirs would have to go to work to support themselves.

The proposal is especially surprising coming from Senator Reed. It smacks of radicalism, somehow, and Reed is a conservative who is usually looked upon as a representative of the viewpoint of the rich. But he is in earnest about this program, and it merits a lot of serious attention.

Not only would it mean added revenues for the federal treasury; it would tend to prevent the steadily-progressing concentration of wealth in the hands of a few great families. The "sons of the wild jackass" in the senate, who seldom find themselves in accord with Senator Reed, ought to see eye to eye with him on this.

Quotations Worth Noting

Wages in America are generally conceded to be on a higher level than elsewhere, but the average industrial wage throughout the country is no more than $25 per week.—Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor.

◆ ◆ ◆

By 1950 at the rate we're now going the disbursements for veteran relief will equal if not exceed the total cost of our expenditures during the world war.—Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs.

◆ ◆ ◆

The fact that so many persons in America are wealthy should aid that nation in overcoming the present economic depression.—Count Alexander Tolstoy.

Home owning is more than the provision of domiciles; it goes to the roots of family life, public morals and standards of living.—President Hoover.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Can't get that weird Woollcott story out of my mind . . . The one he penned in that mag a coupla issues ago . . . One night, it seems, a young girl living in a country house down Louisiana way was startled out of her slumbers by the sound of carriage wheels beneath her window . . . She looked out and saw a hearse drawn by four horses . . . The driver with a prominent scar and other spooky features removed his high hat . . . He walked under her window and said: "Are you ready?" . . . The girl became hysterical on her bed and later she looked out the window to make sure she was dreaming . . . For three nights the same horrible dream visited her . . . The following year she was in one of the New York department stores . . . She tried to enter an elevator which already was crowded with shoppers . . . The elevator man looked at her—he had the same scar, prominent beak and other ghostly features of that hearse driver in her dreams! . . . He said to her: "Are you ready?" . . . She backed away in terror and the door closed . . . She watched the elevator indicator record the car's descent . . . A few moments later she learned that on that trip the elevator fell and all its occupants were killed! . . . What a face-fuzz lifter that is!

Reminds me of the one I heard the other night, a true one, however . . . About the baron and baroness, well known in town . . . A year ago the baroness died . . . Recently the baron returned to New York . . . He met a young and pretty princess, who visits the city often . . . She dined with him at his place . . . She was so young, so alive, so full of zip! . . . He asked her to dine again, a week later . . . This time she was glum and dull . . . "I don't understand," he said to her. "Last week you were so merry, you made me so happy. Tonight you are blank. What's the matter?" . . . "I don't know," she said as she stared, "but when you were getting the cocktails, I went into your room and opened a jar on the dresser and took some of your snuff to see if I'd like it." . . . "My God!" he shrieked, "that isn't snuff! Those are my wife's ashes!"

That Belle Livingston gal is up to her tricks, again, I see . . . From her Reno quarters she sends the most engaging letters to clients . . . She writes them that she has learned from experience that Americans want real novelty in their entertainment when they pay for it, and, second, not to take any more chances with padlocks . . . She promises "smart" entertainment and environment plus games of chance, a fine orchestra, perfect cuisine, etc. . . . She concludes with this come-on: "You need not join the gay divorce colony to enjoy the freedom of Reno. But if you must—why, I shall hope to make more pleasant your six weeks' stay." . . . Funny piece in that Irish rag, which discusses the columnists . . . It tells how people can, after all, do without certain things—and how a weekly magazine went out of business because a columnist quit it . . . And that 50 other columnists gathered to devise some means of assisting him . . . During the meeting, it appears, the chairman asked: "Why is it that the columnists have so many enemies?" . . . And one replied: "We have no enemies—but our friends hate us!"

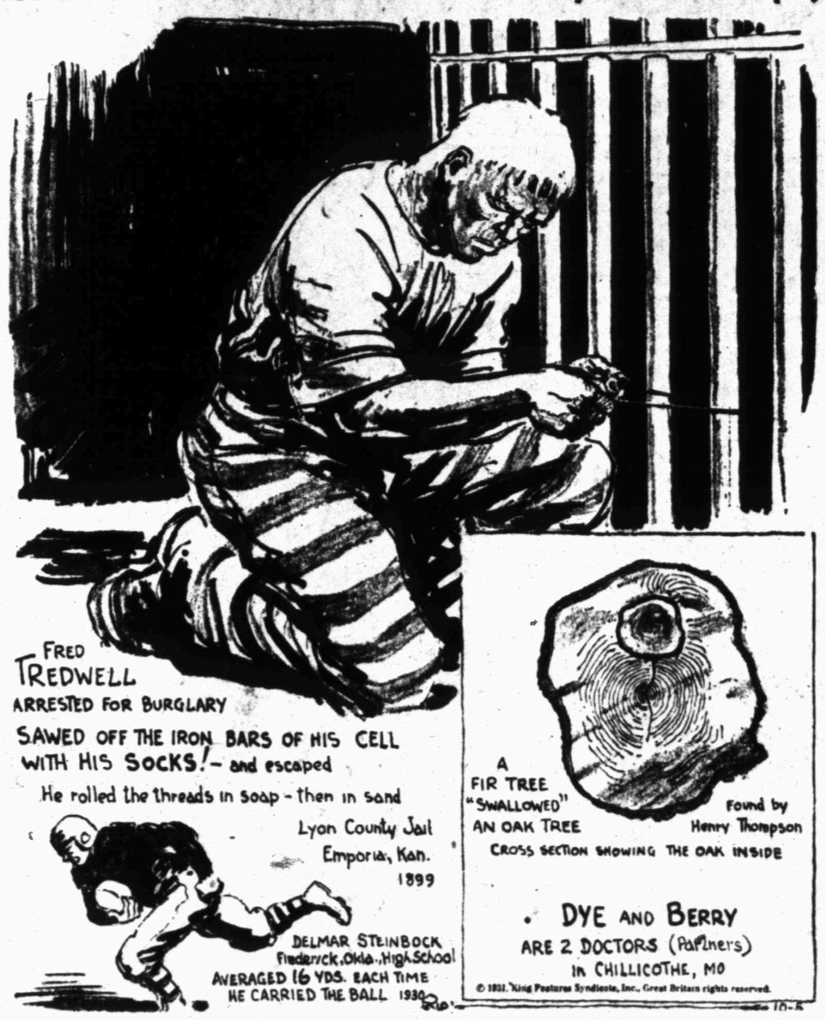

Oh, I dunno . . . If some of us didn't have so many friends we'd never be able to collect all the dope it takes to fill the daily pillars . . . I am rich with friends, I think, considering all the help they give me . . . It takes a heluva lot of friends to put one of those Monday columns together—then there's Tuesday's, Wednesday's, Thursday's, Friday's and Satdee's . . . I've never asked a star to appear with me on my broadcasts whom I've annoyed . . . Those who favor me are those who like me . . . Kate Smith, frinstance . . . Long before she ever clicked on the air waves, a music publisher asked me to give her a break and put her on . . . Kate was practically obscure then . . . I wanted "names" . . . But I put her on . . . And now, they tell me, she is one of radio's topnotchers and has as much money as U. S. Steel once had . . . They can't tell me I haven't a lot of friends . . . And not because of the favorable comment I might give them, either . . . What can I give George M. Cohan? . . . He went on for me once . . . And now Cab Calloway insists that if the radio listeners really liked him that much he wants to go on again—and as soon as possible . . . So I've booked him to repeat his wa-hoo-ha-ing in the Cotton club manner on Oct. 13 . . . I could discuss "friends" for hours . . . I've never lost one I wanted to keep!

I don't savvy the Mayor's complaint, at all . . . I meant that part of it when he asserts that the "special writers" have given him the bad name of being a wisecracker . . . Well, perhaps he isn't a wisecracker. But he is a wit, and whenever I was lucky enough to jot down his quips exclusively they helped make my pillar breezier . . . Surely he will not disown the crack he parented at the Chevalier dinner on the Sabbath eve . . . When he declared that he was happy to be home again—even if it is "to pass thru town" . . . When he argued, in that interview, that many reporters misquoted him for the sake of a story, he had good cause . . . I once asked him why he never denied the statements if they were not true . . . "Because I do not want to cost any reporter a job," he said . . . I know, too, of two reporters who lost their posts because they offended Jimmy, and he phoned the newspaper owner and urged him to reinstate them, anyway.

There's Hoover, frinstance . . . He's a columnist at heart . . . During his talk to the legion in Detroit he never credited Garfield with a nod or bow . . . And Mr. H practically used word for word of Garfield's plea to the G. A. R. vets of 50 years ago—when he discussed pensions . . . Reuben, the delicatessen man, has learned another lesson . . . One of his bus boys was taken ill recently . . . The head-waiter told Reuben that the bus boy revealed signs of amounting to something . . . "Why not send him to your doctor and take care of him?" suggested the headwaiter, "he will be grateful and be a faithful employe!" Reuben's doctor charged $90 (to Reuben) for his services . . . He also suggested hospital treatment . . . Reuben got the boy a semi-private room . . . Which cost Reuben $100 . . . When the chap was discharged from the ailing room he called on Reuben . . . "They tell me," said the fellow, "that the air is bad in this country. And that I ought to go back to Germany" . . . "Oh, I'm sorry," said Reuben . . . "Teh?" snapped the chap, "but you owe me two days' pay. Kick in!"

Well, maybe I should toss a coin and decide . . . So I can always say that the Fates made me do it . . . I mean about that 4-minute specialty in "Star Dust" which E. Ray Goetz and Cole Porter are threatening to do to relieve the Broadway monotony . . . Funny, at that, if I do appear in that show . . . For "Star Dust" is my favorite melody and I've plugged it so much in the col'm . . . It isn't any risk, at all, when you consider Cole Porter is the composer . . . "What Is This Thing Called Love?" . . . "Love For Sale" and "Where Have You Been?" . . . All grand tunes . . . In "Star Dust" Porter has bunched another group of melodies that they'll whistle, hum and thrill over . . . Hmmmm, "Star Dust" . . . I can hear the other critics, jealous because I will have a holiday from the alleged shows, saying things . . . The big stiffs! . . . I can write my criticism for them right now . . . Like this: "'Star Dust' opened last night. Peggy Wood is the star and Winchell is the dust."

EXPLANATION OF SATURDAY'S CARTOON

WRESTLING CHAMPION OF THE WORLD FOR 40 YEARS—Milon of Croton, in Ancient Greece, was wrestling champion of the world for four decades. Within that time he carried away the highest honors in wrestling in six Olympic games, seven Pythian, 10 Isthmian, and nine Nemean games. He was a man of almost legendary strength and the feats credited to him tax belief. He finally found his master in a shepherd named Titorme, who bested him in an encounter on the banks of the river Fidari, about the first half of the fifth century, B. C.

THE GIRL WHO WON

By May Christie

Young and vivacious Nollie Day, public stenographer at an exclusive New York hotel, is befriended by the wealthy Mrs. Judson, a widow. One evening, Nollie goes to the theater in place of Mrs. Judson, where she meets handsome Tony O'Brien. She reveals her own identity but Tony does not hear her. Later in the evening she refrains from repeating her explanation for fear that Tony would lose interest when he learned the truth. Next day, Tony telephones and learns Mrs. Judson has gone abroad. Disbelieving the report, he comes to the hotel. He looks at Nollie without recognition but she believes it is because he has discovered her masquerade. Before Nollie can reach him, he disappears. Nollie secures a new position as secretary to Jack Brilling of Galbraith & Co. Miss Galbraith, Brilling's fiancee is jealous when Brilling takes Nollie to dinner and warns Nollie against overstepping. Brilling tells Nollie he loves her.

Miss Galbraith enters the office just as Nollie frees herself from Brilling's embrace. Nollie is discharged.

CHAPTER XX

"You poor, persecuted kid! It's the funniest story I ever heard! And the most rotten!"

They were in suite 809 of the Hotel Luxor—Nollie, and the speaker, Mrs. Jinny Judson.

The latter added, as an afterthought: "I ought to have warned you before I sent you there. I ought to have let you know that Madeleine Galbraith is jealous as they make 'em!"

"I shouldn't have told you so much—," stammered Nollie.

But Mrs. Judson was interested in this girl, and soon had wormed out of her the happenings at the office that had led to her exit.

"So Jack Brilling picked on you to take the place of his secretary while the girl was on her vacation? He was caught by your pretty face, of course. He's as impressionable as they come."

"Truly, I didn't encourage him. It was all a surprise—," Nollie broke off, afraid she had said too much.

"So—he did try to make love to you?"

Well, what was the use of hiding anything from the kind, inquisitive eyes of this woman?

Sooner or later she'd hear a distorted version, anyhow. And, after all, it was she who had given Nollie the letter of introduction to the firm.

"I did my very best and worked late, and everything."

"And Jack Brilling was on your track? But of course he was. He's not a bad sort of a fellow, but he's weak and vacillating."

"He seemed quite nice, until—"

Under Mrs. Judson's questioning, out came the tale of the suggested apartment on Riverside.

"By golly!" breathed the hearer. "Can you imagine such nerve?"

"I can't. It took me by surprise. I should have left the office anyway."

"Even without the untimely arrival of the fiance?"

"Certainly."

Mrs. Judson lit a cigaret. She leaned back in the armchair in her suite. She said: "You're a valorous little soul, Miss Day, and I like you. But you've got the sort of looks that do attract men. And, without any money of your own, or people back of you, or anything, that's going to make it hard for you in a sense."

Before Nollie could comment on this, she continued: "Hard with the women, that is. If I'd known that you were going to work with Jack Brilling, I could have told you the Galbraith woman would be madly jealous. That engagement's been dragging on for a long time. He got his promotion in the firm because of it. He knows on which side his bread is buttered, right enough. I don't think he'll break with Madeleine Galbraith, because in his own way he's ambitious. You are a nice child. You could have made a lot of trouble between them if you'd happened to be vindictive."

"You mean he doesn't love her, then?" asked Nollie.

"Love? What's love? A lot of moonshine!" commented the widow, cynically.

Then suddenly she sat up in her chair. "Great guns! I'd almost forgotten the letter!"

She made a swift move over to an open trunk. She rummaged among her papers.

"I've been so busy listening to you that I overlooked the reason I wanted to see you!"

She found what she was seeking. She went back to her armchair by the open window. She beckoned Nollie to come over nearer.

"You bad girl, you! Leading a young man on!"

"Who do you mean?"

"The young man at the theater!"

Nollie's heart missed a beat. Her breath caught. At this late date, could it be word from none other than—Tony O'Brien?

It was! He had really thought that she was Mrs. Jinny Judson, gone abroad! They had not told him the exact hour of her sailing, either on the telephone (when he had called her up) or at the information desk of the Hotel Luxor.

"It's a scream. He's crazy about you. But why on earth didn't you let him get in touch with you after?"

Nollie had flushed scarlet. She felt a criminal. At best, she'd been an impostor.

But Jinny Judson took the whole thing as a joke. "I couldn't make head or tail of it at first, though I was tickled pink. I don't think I've ever received such a charming epistle. It's for you of course, although it was adressed to me. I didn't understand that right away until I got a note from my old friend, Mr. Hiram."

She kept Nollie in suspense, chattering like an amiable parrot.

"This is addressed to the Hotel Luxor, you see. It followed me on to Paris."

"Such an intriguing name!" Her eye turned to the final page, "Tony idently kissed the Blarney stone. But I like young men to be enthusiastic."

"I explained to him I wasn't you," said Nollie desperately. "I told him twice. I thought he heard. And it was only later in the evening—when we'd got sort of chummy—that I realized he still thought that I was you—and—and—it was awfuly wrong of me, of course—but for once in my life I wanted to live up to my clothes—to be—somebody—"

She felt ashamed. But, tremendously keyed up, none the less, about Tony's letter.

"I understand. Cinderella transformed. I don't in the least blame you for having a bit of fun," smiled Jinny Judson tolerantly. "What was he like? Young, naturally? Good looking?"

"Oh, yes, awfully," breathed Nollie, her eyes like twin stars and unconscious that she gave her secret. "Mrs. Judson, believe me, he was the best looking young man! And most charming!"

"Ha! So? Then read this letter and you'll see the thought is mutual, my dear. If I'm not mistaken, your Adonis fell for you as hard as you for him."

Nollie read the letter through. Her hands were shaking.

It was written in a bold, decisive hand. It was just the sort of letter one would expect from a Prince Charming.

And Irish, too, in its contradictory, comical phrases that yet held real feeling.

Hurt at her departure but longing to se her again! Reproaches mingled with his admiration . . .

"Did you answer this?" ventured Nollie of Mrs. Judson.

"I? Of course not! I would have sent it on to you but I didn't know your whereabouts . . . and anyhow I was returning son. But we'll set this matter straight!" And smiling gaily, Mrs. Judson headed for the telephone.

Despite Nollie's protestations she called up the number on the corner of his letter . . . Then she turned, hanging up the receiver as she did so, her face falling.

"Can you beat that?" she said disappointedly, "just as I want to play fairy godmother to you both, he's off on his vacation!"

TRAIL DRIVERS MEET OCT. 8

Old Cowboys to Gather at San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 4. (AP)—Plans are going forward for the 17th annual reunion of the Old Trail Drivers' association here Oct. 8, 9 and 10.

Cowboy music, old time dances, talks by old cattlemen who still have memories of the old trails will feature the reunion, according to President George W. Saunders.

After registration Friday morning, the meeting will be called to order by President Saunders to hear the invocation by Chaplain Bruce Roberts, the welcome addresses by Mayor C. M. Chambers and E. T. Laubscher, president of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce, and the response by former Gov. Pat M. Neff. A short business session will follow. Speakers on the afternoon program of the first day include Claude Carter, Col. Ike T. Pryor and President Saunders, who will deliver his annual address.

Speakers Saturday include J. Frank Doble, who will talk on "Tales of the Cow Camp"; R. A. Boyce, Travis Jones, H. L. Kokernot and A. B. Blocker. Memorial services for departed members will close the morning session.

Saturday night the association's annual grand ball will be staged at the municipal auditorium, with Jim Mills and B. P. Darnell calling the dances.

A barbecue is planned for Sunday afternoon after the Old Trail Drivers hear the Rev. P. B. Hill, assistant chaplain, and Miss Ellen Schulz Quillin, director of the Witte museum.

SAYS CHISHOLM TRAIL MISSED TEXAS

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Oct. 4. (AP)—After tracing the old cattle trails through West Texas, George W. Saunders, a cattleman and for 55 years student of range history, declares that the famous Chisholm trail, named in ballad and song, did not exist in Texas.

Some of Mr. Saunders' information was furnished by Fayette Tankersley, pioneer Mertzon cattleman. Tankersley traced the Goodnight and Loving route, which in part has been confused with the Chisholm trail.

This route, Tankersley relates, ran from the Concho rivers in the San Angelo section to the New Mexico state line. Then the counties were not organized, but the route extended through territory which is now Tom Green, Irion, Reagan, Upton, Crane, Ward, Winkler and Loving counties.

"Texas has four well-defined cattle trails," Saunders declares, basing his assertions upon his own experiences and the actual statements of such pioneers as Tankersley. "They were the Goodnight and Loving, the Wilson to Wilbarger, the Cameron to Montague and the Live Oak to Kimble.

"The counties on the Cameron-Montague trail are Cameron, Willacy, Hidalgo, Brooks, Kennedy, Kleberg, Nueces, Jim Wells, San Patricio, Live Oak, Bee, Goliad, Karnes, Wilson, Gonzales, Guadalupe, Caldwell, Hays, Travis, Williamson, Bell, Coryell, McLennan, Bosque, Hill, Johnson, Tarrant, Denton, Wise, Cook and Montague.

"The trail from Wilson to Wilbarger passed through the counties that now are Wilson, Bexar, Kendall, Kerr, Gillispie, Kimble, Menard, Concho, McCulloch, Coleman, Callahan, Shackelford, Throckmorton, Baylor and Wilbarger.

"The trail from Live Oak to Kimble went through what are now the counties of Live Oak, McMullen, La Salle, Dimmit, Zavala, Uvalde, Real, Edwards and Kimble.

"I have traveled all the four main Texas trails except the Goodnight and Loving and I think I am correct in my claims. If proven otherwise, I will submit to corrections. I invite any old-timer who drove herds up the trails from 1867 to 1877 to make corrections but will not listen to any one using borrowed thunder. If my 55 years' research work is wrong I want to know it. I have been doing this research work since 1874, collecting for preservation the true Texas history of the cattle industry, including the trail-driving period. My object is to keep Texas history straight.

"I am only one of the 40,000 cowboys who have taken up this work as a side issue from my own business. I have investigated many reports and found them false. I gathered over 300 sketches for my book, 'The Trail Drivers of Texas,' interviewed these trailers and many others.

"I found some calling all the trails Chisholm trails, but in each case, they did not know why. The fact that the Chisholm trail connected with the Texas trails probably accounts for the error," he said.

Memphis Receives Postoffice Plans

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Oct. 4.—Blue prints for the postoffice building on which bids have been asked, have been received by Postmaster W. M. Owens from James A. Wetmore, acting supervising architect for the treasury department. There are 25 sheets of the plans and with them is a detailed specification book giving the requirements of the job.

Blue prints of the structure show it to face north and have one floor and a basement. It will face 81 feet and nine inches on Main street and 54 feet and 10 inches on Seventh street with a back extension where a loading platform for mail trucks will be built. The basement will be 10 feet deep from finished floor to finished floor.

Bids on the building will be opened on Oct. 20, and in the specification book the time of completion of the contract calls for 300 calendar days from the date of receipt of notice to begin the job which will be issued by the supervising architect to the contractor.

Texas Woman Injured In Frederick Crash

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 4.—A collision between the northbound Frisco passenger train and an automobile on the outskirts of Davidson Saturday morning may prove of serious consequence to Mrs. M. L. Littleton, of Austin, Texas.

Mrs. Littleton, her husband and daughter were entering Davidson in their car, having come to this section for the cotton harvest, and were proceeding east across the Frisco tracks when the collision occurred. Front end of the car was demolished, but it did not overturn. No one else was hurt.

Mrs. Littleton was given first aid in Davidson, after which she was brought to the Frederick Clinic hospital.

Cheese in Place of Meat

In Europe, Asia, and even in South America, cheese is eaten very largely in place of meat, while in America it is used somewhat as a condiment, being used for flavoring dishes, or eaten in small quantities with crackers or bread near the end of a meal. Various cooked cheese dishes are served at after-the-theater suppers.

It is such a well known fact that these cooked cheese dishes produce nightmares that one of our first weekly comic pictures published in America was about the adventures met with in "Rarebit Dreams." It is unquestionably true that cooked cheese does not digest as readily as that which is not cooked, but part of the trouble is caused by the improperly cooked toast and other starchy foods which are used at these late supper meals. The diner has perhaps eaten a hearty dinner three or four hours before, and the stomach is still laboring with the evening meal.

Many people who have had unpleasant experiences with these cooked cheese meals get to believing that cheese is bad for them and that it is an unhealthful food.

Cheese makes an excellent substitute for meat, but should not be used in addition to meat. Cheese should always be accompanied by raw green vegetables as it is very concentrated and needs this type of food to provide the needed bulk and vitamins. While milk is slightly alkaine forming, but when we separate it into the curds and the whey, the curds are acid forming and the whey is alkaline forming. Since the latter is thrown away, it should be replaced by the greens.

The making of cheese in Europe must be considered an art, and requires great skill in order to produce and repeat a certain required flavor. In America cheese making has developed into a science, and there is little of domestic art about it. We now produce more cheese than any other country, but there is doubtless something lost which is found in the virtually home-made cheeses of the old world.

The size of the cheeses vary greatly, some of the smaller varieties being only a few ounces, while the larger types will even reach 235 pounds. The art of cutting the larger cheeses, so that they will always present a fresh and unspoiled surface for a long time, is considered quite an accomplishment.

Cut cheese may be protected from drying by covering the cut surface with oiled paper or a cloth wet with brine and standing in a cool place.

Cheeses are manufactured in an almost endless variety of shapes, colors and flavors, each part of the world having its own particular fancy. The art of cheese making seems to be almost universal, as every race has found that milk in the form of cheese can be kept a long time and is very handy to carry in traveling. Even the Japanese, who are too crowded in their picturesque islands to raise cows, have a kind of cheese manufactured in much the regulation manner by souring soy bean milk.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Color Blindness Usually Hereditary

Question—"Color Blind" writes: "Please tell me if there is a cure or a treatment for color blindness. Can it be overcome by a study of colors?"

Answer—Color blindness is practically always congenital and is hereditary in most cases, but it may occur from disease or accident. The exact cause of this phenomenon is unknown although there are several theories. Color blind people sometimes recover more or less spontaneously, but no cure has yet been devised which will prove effective in all cases.

Skin Elimination Treatment

Question—Miss E. asks: "How can I use Epsom salts to improve my skin elimination? Will they reduce me?"

Answer—It is better to use a restricted diet for reducing; however, Epsom salts may be used to induce elimination through the skin and in this way may be helpful in reducing your weight. The best way to take these baths is to take a warm shower first, then rub the dry salts into the skin and follow this with a cold shower. This regimen will promote skin elimination.

Dryness in Mouth

Question—Mr. Lynn R. inquires: "Would like to know what causes a very dry mouth when I wake up in the mornings. Mine gets so dry at times that I can scarcely get it moist."

Answer—The dryness in your mouth when sleeping is more likely due to the fact that you sleep with your mouth open, which may be caused by habit or by enlarged tonsils or adenoids. If you can find out the trouble exactly, I will be pleased to send you my advice and instructions.

Electra Rotarians Hear Athlete

Special to The Record News

ELECTRA, Texas, Oct. 4.—Morris (Monty) McDannald, captain of the 1931 Tiger football squad, was the principal speaker at the Rotary club luncheon Friday at the Armilda hotel. Captain Monty asked the cooperation of the Rotary club in getting the town to back the team and attend the games.

B. M. Dinsmore, president, presided at the luncheon. "America" was sung as the opening selection and C. P. Engelking led the invocation. Ray B. Dickey was in charge of the program which included a singsong led by J. G. B. Totten; trombone selections by Warden Sanderson of the high school orchestra, accompanied by Miss Ruth Smith; talk by Mr. McDannald; and the quarterly report given by Ray B. Dickey, secretary. A board of directors meeting was held following the luncheon.

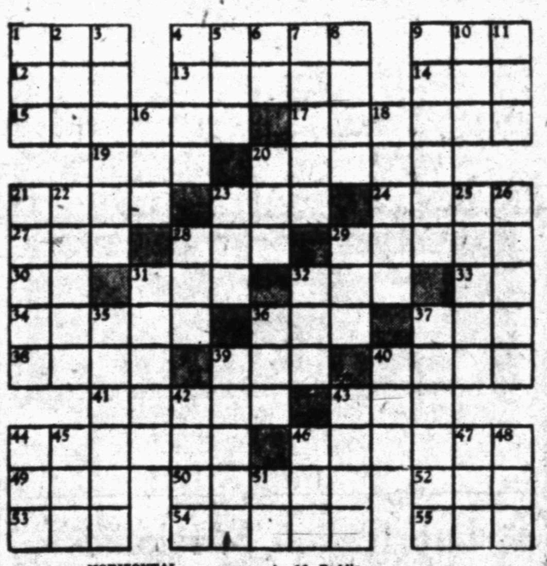

Stone Work Starts on Wellington Courthouse

Special to The Record News.

WELLINGTON, Texas, Oct. 4.—Stone work upon Collingsworth county's new $180,000 courthouse now under construction in Wellington will be started this week and laying of brick will go forward shortly thereafter, it has been announced by Chas. Shoblom of Amarillo, superintendent in charge of work here for Christy-Dolph Construction company of Dallas, general contractors for the building.

Fifty men are now working upon the construction of the building and have been busy for the past four weeks in building forms and running concrete. Three carloads of cut stone have been placed on the ground during the past few days, while reinforcements and lathing materials are all here. The building is taking form rapidly and no time will be lost unnecessarily in the construction program, according to the superintendent.

CARDINALS AND ATHLETICS RESUME WORLD SERIES TODAY

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED THOMPSON

By a little stretch of the imagination, the Rambler considers his debut as a football prognosticator last week a howling success.

Out of 10 guesses as to the outcome of games, only three were in error. A fourth was wrong, but the margin of error was so slight that the Rambler didn't lose any sleep over it. We refer to the Henrietta and Iowa Park game, which we predicted would result in a scoreless tie. Well Henrietta won it, 6 to 0. We didn't miss it very far.

The three guesses that were wrong were terribly wrong, we admit. The biggest upset in football circles in these parts last week, we venture, was Grandfield's victory over the Vernon Lions. We had doped the Lions to win by something like 32 to 12, and we still believe they could have done it had it not been for overconfidence. Our secret operative informs us that the Lions last Friday were woefully swell-headed, and that it cost them the game. The Lions came out on the weak end of a 19 to 13 score, and apparently deserved the beating.

Our second mistake was in doping Childress to whip Hollis, Okla., 12 to 6. Well, our conscience is clear, anyway. Childress had yet to win a game, and we received private information that the Bobcat lineup had been changed, and that the line seemed more powerful. We knew Childress to be a weak sister, but we had no idea the team would collapse as it did against Hollis. In case you've forgotten, Hollis whipped Childress, 25 to 0.

It appears that my prediction that Childress would win was not exactly received with a burst of cheers in Hollis. Indeed, some souls in Hollis who misunderstood the inner workings of this great modern institution called the newspaper, thought The Record News correspondent in Hollis was responsible for that vile prediction getting in the paper. Consequently, when a gang of Hollis football fans saw it in print, they went around to out correspondent, Mr. W. I. Giles, with threats of tar and feathers, if not an outright lynching. Giles writes me that he "finally convinced the fans that he had not been consulted by Fred Thompson and not being able to call any of the bets offered, they immediately made up the price of a telephone call to Wichita Falls for the purpose of placing the responsible party on the mat."

But I got called on the mat indirectly. You see, we have rewrite men on newspapers, guys that answer the phone and take stories while us great minds sit at the desk and edit the stuff they write. So the wrath of Hollis, via the telephone, was expended on an innocent rewrite man. Gee, it's great to have rewrite men, sometimes.

But really, we based our prediction mostly on the law of averages; just as we are still convinced that the Cards are going to take the measure of the Athletics in the current world series. Childress had been losing one after another. We doped that they were due for a win.

Since they lost to Hollis, they'll be due to win next Saturday, when they play the Coyotes. But they won't.

Our third error was in picking the Coyotes to beat Ardmore by one touchdown. But we think this old corner scored a moral victory there, because most of the bugs around here thought the Ardmore eleven would be a set-up and that the Coyotes would win by at least three touchdowns.

We also think the Coyotes came through with a moral victory. Any team that leaves the field at the half 13 points behind, and comes back to score three touchdowns is plenty good.

But the Coyotes have got to get better, especially on pass defense, and on the little matter of making extra points. The Ardmore eleven whipped the Coyotes by superiority in these two departments. We have not talked to Barry Holton since the game, but we know he's going to the practice field today with one main thought on his mind: pass defense.

And it wouldn't hurt to start planning some means of making extra points other than place-kicking. The Coyotes haven't got a place-kicker on the team worth shucks.

Having given the sad side of my life over the last week-end, we might as well give the bright spots. We really did approximate some of the scores. Now take Olney, for instance. We had them doped to beat Bowie 50 to 0. The score was 52 to 0.

Chillicothe we figured would beat Munday 32 to 0. The score was 45 to 0.

Our prediction: Crowell 48, Seymour 0. The score: Crowell 32, Seymour 0.

Our pipe dream: Archer City 25, Megargel 6. The bitter truth: Archer City 38, Megargel 0.

The Rambler's idea: Electra 18, Nocona 12. Ah, sad reality: Electra 36, Nocona 0. (Whoops! Fell off a little there).

According to the seer: Quanah 50, Gould, Okla., 6. The hard facts: Quanah 75, Gould 0.

We hope our tons and tons of readers get as much kick out of this prediction stuff as the Rambler does. But let it be understood that the Rambler takes sole responsibility for the predictions. We're bound to be wrong at times, and we don't want any innocent correspondents slaughtered.

Pups Win Grid Battle With East Siders, 13-0

After playing scoreless football until the last three and a half minutes of play the Fighting Pups put over two touchdowns to defeat the East Siders 13 to 0 on the East Side football field Sunday afternoon. It was the second Pup victory in two weeks over East Siders.

The Pups took the ball on the East Side 15-yard line and carried it over on four plays, Keyes added the extra point. Roland Dixon, former Coyotes, Junior college and Amarillo Junior college star, then intercepted a pass and after shaking off several tacklers, stiff arming and twisting down the field for 65 yards went over the goal line, dragging two East Siders across the line with him. The playing of Dixon and Keyes featured the game for the Pups while Captain Fisher and Baumgardner were outstanding stars for East Side. The Pups expect to play Burkburnett All-Stars next Sunday and any independent team wishing a game with the Pups and are interested in entering the planned Independent league should write to Joe Deal or Mack Turner in care of the Wichita Daily Times and Record News.

GRIMES MAY OPPOSE GROVE

Hoover to Toss First Ball to Start Contest

By HENRY M'LEMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4.—Bounded on all four sides by the spirit of brotherly love for which this city is famous, the Philadelphia Athletics and the Cardinals of St. Louis spent a quiet Sabbath planning new ways and means of humiliating each other on the morrow when they meet in the third game of the 1931 world series.

While the good burghers of Philadelphia rocked on their porches and sang simple folksongs, the A's and the Cards, in the order named, repaired to the bandbox that is known as Shibe Park and sharpened their weapons. Each club worked two hours at batting, fielding and base running and each, true to the finest traditions of the national pastime, announced that nothing short of an attack of bubonic plague could stop them on Monday. The series count now is one-all.

It is amazing what a little victory will do for a fellow, or fellows. The Cardinals, sparrows after the first game, are nothing short of eagles now. They worked with a vim and zest, and talked of nothing but their triumph on Friday. That, and the way they are going to smack the A's tomorrow, the day after that, and the day after that. Tell them the odds are still 2 to 1 against them and they laugh.

Adams May Play

Sparky Adams, sawed-off regular third baseman who did not get in the first two games because of an injured ankle, said the ankle felt "almost right" and he hopes to be in there swinging tomorrow.

Adams' hopes are likely to be fulfilled, for Gabby Street said the little third-sacker was almost sure to start. If he does, the Cards' chances will be brightened, for Sparky is a deadly hitter in the pinches and a flawless fielder.

The gate crashers who wormed their way into the Athletics' practice had eyes for no one but Lefty Grove, in whose mighty left arm most of the Philadelphia hopes are centered. Grove wore a blister on his pitching finger in winning the first game in St. Louis Thursday, 6 to 2, and according to some reports was definitely out of the series save as anything more heroic than a relief pitcher. Maybe so, but the king of left-handers (or right-handers, for that matter) looked anything but a sick man in practice today. True, he had a blister about the size of a pea in the middle pitching finger, but he took his regular cut at bat, although Connie Mack, head man of the A's would not allow him to pitch.

Grove May Start

It is our opinion—and we are not alone in this—that Grove will be on the mound tomorrow. If he isn't, George Earnshaw, who lost the second game on Friday despite a six-hit performance, is likely to get the call.

Of course, there is the chance (and a pretty good one, too) that Connie Mack will see fit to start that curve ball artist, Rube Walberg, whose left-handed slant won him 20 games during the regular season, or Waite Hoyt whose baseball "savvy" and streaking overhand delivery makes him a tough man to beat.

There is little or no doubt concerning the Cardinals' pitching choice. Unless Manager Gabby Street has been kidding the boys, he will call upon that old master showman, Burleigh Grimes. The same old Grimes with the toughest whiskers and the meanest scowl in baseball. A baleful glare and stubborn beard, however, are not all Grimes has in the way of pitching equipment. In the first place, he has the stoutest fighting heart in baseball. The more you turn on the pressure, the harder Burleigh bears down. Second he has a spitball, he has speed, and he has a vast amount of cunning, collected over a 15-year span in the majors.

Hitters Overdue

It might be fortunate for Grimes and Grove, however, if they don't get the call tomorrow. For it's just about time that some of the big boys, or siege guns as we believe they are called, start unlimbering their artillery. And unlimbering when hits means runs. What we mean is that Simmons and Hafey, champion sluggers of the American and National leagues, respectively, and Bishop and Bottomley, are long overdue. In the two games played to date, Simmons and Hafey have amassed the magnificent batting averages of .125. Bishop, A's lead-off man and usually as tough to keep off the bases as any man in baseball, has got exactly one hit out of 10 times at bat.

Bottomley, out to redeem himself for his miserable showing in 1930, has been able to get but one hit in seven times up. His average is .143, which couldn't be properly classified as devastating.

Tomorrow would be an excellent day for these sluggers to come to life, for President Hoover, members of his cabinet and high diplomatic personages will be in the stands. The president is scheduled to throw out the first ball, an act he performed in creditable fashion last year.

The weather forecast was for ideal playing conditions. Shibe park not the most spacious place in the world, is entirely sold out, which means that between 35,000 and 40,000 customers will sit in on the festivities.

Young Hunter Killed By Gunshot Wound

CAMERON, Texas, Oct. 4. (AP)—Amos Salach, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Salach of Northelm, was found dead in a pasture near his home late yesterday. Death resulted from a gunshot wound.

Young Salach had left home earlier in the day to go hunting.

Grid Fans Await Class A Conference Opener This Week

PACK TANGLES WITH BOBCATS

Breckenridge Eleven Plays Electra Friday

Class A high school elevens in the interscholastic league's district No. 2 put behind another assortment of practice games last week, and now await with feverish interest the formal opening of the championship race next Saturday, when the Wichita Falls Coyotes meet the Childress Bobcats at Childress.

The Coyote-Bobcat affair will be the only league skirmish of the week-end.

Other teams in the district will continue the practice routine. The outstanding practice game probably will be the Breckenridge-Electra game. The battle will be staged at Electra. This game will give fans of this section an opportunity to see the powerful Oil Belt eleven that has bowled over all opposition so far.

The Quanah Indians take on the Gould, Okla., eleven at Quanah, while the class B Seymour team will play at Vernon.

Last week's games provided fans with more than enough to talk about. The toughest tussle, without a doubt, was the Coyotes' game at Ardmore, won by a single point by the Oklahomans after the Pack had exhibited remarkable stamina in the last half after the first half found them trailing by 13 points. The score was 20 to 19. The game could not be regarded as an upset, however. A few had doped the Ardmore eleven to be a set-up after its crushing defeat by an Oklahoma City High school team, but those in the know really expected a hard fight, and Coaches Holton and Lindsey were more than pleased at the showing the Pack made.

Vernon Is Upset

The real upset of the week was provided by another Oklahoma team, this one from Grandfield. Catching the Vernon Lions in a more or less overconfident mood, the Grandfield backs swept down the field in the last period Friday to score a touchdown and defeat the highly-touted Lions, 19 to 13. Vernon is ranked with Quanah as the powerhouse of the district, and its defeat in the practice game was quite a surprise.

The Quanah Indians, still full of dynamite, lived up to their reputation of never scoring less than 70 points in a game, and bowling over the Gould, Okla., team, 75 to 0.

The Electra Tigers, believed by many to be holding something back and planning to be the big surprise of the district, took on the Nocona Indians at Nocona and licked them, 36 to 0. The game was played Saturday. In addition to indicating a powerful Electra offense, the Tigers' success shows what the Noconans lost when the backfield of Zachary and company graduated last year. Had the Indians been bolstered by these boys, the result might have been a little different.

Hollis Whips Childress

Apparently his honor, the Rambler, was the only one who thought Childress could defeat Hollis, Okla., for the Oklahomans, playing on their field, blanked the Texans, 25 to 0.

Childress' defeat, however, should not be taken too seriously. A team's mood changes when a championship is at stake, and the Bobcats may be expected to put up a great scrap this week when they open the chase with the Coyotes.

Chisox Take Lead In Chicago Series

CHICAGO, Oct. 4. (AP)—Donie Bush's White Sockers continued to treat their National league cousins very rudely this afternoon, and by hammering three of the Cubs' star hurlers for a 13 to 6 victory, took the lead in the Chicago city series. The American league White Sox have now won three games to the Bruins' two, and need but one more victory to take the title.

Red Faber, and Charley Root, opponents in the opening game of the series, went at it again this afternoon, and again Faber was the victor. He was not in at the end, Ted Lyons having replaced him. Score:

Second Football Coach Added at Littlefield

Special to The Record News.

LITTLEFIELD, Texas, Oct. 4.—The Littlefield Wildcats are coached by two men this year, Coach Tucker and Sid Hopping.

Hopping played as a Wildcat when he was in the Littlefield High school. Later he played at Junior A. & M., Arlington, Texas. This is Mr. Hoping's first year of coaching.

Coach Tucker is entering into his sixth year with the Wildcats. He coached one year at Sonora, Texas, before coming to Littlefield. He is a former student and football player of John Tarleton college at Stephenville. With the coaches and the team Littlefield has this year a great deal is expected of them.

SOUTHWEST CONFERENCE MARATHON OPENS SATURDAY

Putting of Shot Adds Snap to Boots

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 4. (AP)—There is little similarity between tossing a 16-pound shot and kicking a 16-ounce football, but Clarence Munn, who excels at both jobs, thinks they are related.

Munn, who is captain, guard and star punter on the University of Minnesota eleven, was the 1931 Big Ten shot-put champion.

His theory is that the crouching spring of the right leg in putting the shot is a great developer of the muscles along the back of the leg that put the final wallop in his seige-gun spirals.

Last fall Munn averaged 40 yards beyond the scrimmage line on 47 punts, including two that were blocked.

This fall Munn is trying for more height, to enable his ends to cover the kicks, without sacrificing distance.

Notre Dame and Northwestern Play Leading Roles in Midwest Games

By HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The second big Saturday of the 1931 football season has passed into the record books with Notre Dame and Northwestern playing the leading roles in the mid-west, Texas in the southwest, Southern California and St. Mary's in far west, Tulane, Georgia Tech and Vanderbilt in the south, and Fordham, Georgetown and Western Maryland in the east.

The Ramblers of Notre Dame, making their first start under the coaching regime of Hunk Anderson, took two periods to get started against Indiana and then looked just as powerful and formidable as they did under Knute Rockne. The Ramblers won 27 to 0.

Northwestern, with Pug Rentner and Ken Meenan leading the way, rushed over three touchdowns in the first period before the Cornhuskers of Nebraska got their bearings and then coasted in to win 19 to 7.

Stars in Midwest

Other highlights of the day in the midwest were the work of the Pitt Panthers, whose crack halfbacks, Reider, Clark and Heller, tore Iowa's line to shreds in a 20-0 triumph; Minnesota's victory over Oklahoma A. & M. 20-0! and Oklahoma's victory over the Southwest conference member, Rice, 19-6.

In the far west, Southern California, rallying after its defeat by St. Mary's of Oakland a week previously, battered away at Oregon State's line for an easy 30-0 decision. St. Mary's followed up its triumph over Southern California with a 14-0 verdict over California, unloosing a forward passing attack that had the Golden Bears bewildered. Santa Clara stopped five Stanford threats before finally giving way in the fourth quarter to lose, 6-0. Washington, Oregon and Washington State turned in conference victories over Montana, Idaho and the University of California at Los Angeles, respectively.

In the Southwest, the champion Texas Longhorns bowled over Missouri of the Big Six 31-0, but Texas Christian succumbed to the strong Tulsa eleven of the Oklahoma "Big Four," 13-0. Southern Methodist and Baylor turned in easy wins over non-conference opponents.

Tulane Wins

Another Southwest conference representative, Texas A. & M., invaded the south only to lose a 7-0 decision to Tulane. Georgia Tech revealed power to spare in checking South Carolina, 25-13, and Vanderbilt's heavy line played a big part in the Commodores' 13-0 victory over North Carolina. Tennessee, Florida, Maryland, Duke and Alabama checked in with conference wins.

In the eastern sector, Tommy Mills' Georgetown outfit staged a furious last quarter rally to bury Western Maryland under a 27-7 count, thus ending a string of 27 games in which the Terriers had not met defeat. Fordham flashed an unexpected powerful offensive in beating West Virginia, 20-7, and Washington & Jefferson defeated Carnegie Tech for the first time since 1927, 10-7. Navy had all kinds of trouble in downing William and Mary, 13-6, Geneva surprised Bucknell with a 14-14 tie but all the other "big shots" came through in more or less easy fashion.

Rochester Beats Saints 2-1 to Increase Lead

ST. PAUL, Oct. 4. (AP)—Rochester, International league champions, took a commanding lead in the little world series by defeating St. Paul, 2 to 1 today. The Redwings hold an advantage of three games to one.

RHINELAND WINS SECOND

Visitors Beat Sullivans, 4 to 2

Rhineland took the second straight game from the Sullivans Grocery club Sunday afternoon at Katy park when August Loran, Rhineland ace, bested Steve "Iron Man" Franklin in a torrid pitchers' battle by the score of 4 to 2. None of the six runs scored off the two pitchers were earned. The small handful of fans who gathered for the game witnessed one of the greatest exhibitions of fly shagging ever seen in Katy park with the six outfielders of the two clubs going far and wide for well spanked baseballs to drag the pitchers out of holes time after time. While every outfielder in the game came in for his share of honor, Lois "Speedy" Anderson and Malcolm Mauldin stood out for Sullivans Grocery while Peyson stood out for Rhineland.

Aulcy "Pepperbox" Thorn and Steve Franklin divided four of the Sullivans' five hits off Loran between them to lead the Wichita Falls attack. A. Kuehler, Peyson and Wilde led the Rhineland attack with two hits each. Both pitchers kept the hits well scattered over the nine innings with errors losing the game for Franklin while wildness proved to be Loran's chief handicap. In the special race after the game, Lois Anderson, the pride of Wichita Falls' sandlot baseball, won over Pruitt, Rhineland speed king. The Rhineland runner was kept out of the game to keep him fresh for the race, while Anderson ran after playing a hard game and then had to break through the middle of two runners who crowded him in at the start to win by about a four-foot margin. RICE OWLS TO MEET STEERS

Arkansas Razorbacks Take On Mustangs

By BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Oct. 4.—The Southwest conference championship football marathon will be inaugurated Saturday at Austin and Fayetteville with rugged competition forecast.

Slightly shocked over yesterday's results when Texas Christian, the Texas Aggies, and Rice were thumped by intersectional opposition, the Southwest is ready to forget and center future interest on the title grind.

Brimming with confidence because of last week's 31 to 0 victory over the University of Missouri, the University of Texas Longhorns, 1930 conference champions, start their title defense Saturday against the Rice Owls. Rice's highly advertised running attack failed to click against the University of Oklahoma yesterday, the Owls losing, 19 to 6.

Rice should fear Texas. The Longhorns are set and waiting to blast with their best football Saturday in an effort to square accounts, for Rice was the only team to defeat Texas last year, winning, 6 to 0.

Steers Look Great

In Saturday's game, Texas looked the part of a real championship team. An impregnable Texas front wall had Missouri's offence helpless throughout. A powerful running and aerial attack battered Missouri's defense into complete submission. Only once did Missouri's offense creep beyond Texas' 45-yard line, and that was late in the fourth period when Coach Littlefield had his third and fourth string players in the lineup.

Rice, however, should make it interesting for Texas. Any squad with 42 former all-state high school players on it should be able to play powerful football. Rice's forward wall and backfield are composed of experienced players, reinforced by a wealth of reserves almost the equal of first stringers.

Even in defeat, Rice's running attack proved a continual menace against Oklahoma, but inability to gain consistently proved fatal. To score their touchdown against Oklahoma, the Owls unleashed a 69-yard drive with Thrasher going around end for a 21-yard gallop to a touchdown.

Game at Austin

Texas and Rice emerged from last week's combats minus serious injuries, and will enter Memorial stadium at Austin Saturday ready for a Southwest conference classic.

The other championship struggle will be at Fayetteville where the Southern Methodist Mustangs battle the University of Arkansas. The Mustangs stopped Simmons yesterday 27 to 10 without uncovering their more powerful football. With victories over North Texas Teachers and Simmons, S. M. U. could not be in better condition for a conference opener. Weldon Mason and Bob Gilbert featured Southern Methodist's victory over Simmons with their running and passing game. Early season games indicate that Coach Morrison of S. M. U., is going to mix numerous ground plays with his aerial attack this year.

Arkansas university won its second game of the season, beating Hendrix college, 19 to 0. Ledbetter scored two of Arkansas' touchdowns on powerful smashes through the Hendrix line. Arkansas scored 13 first downs against Hendrix's two. The Razorbacks played consistent all-round football, but will have to play even better this week to smother the versatile Southern Methodist aggregation.

Intersectional Games

Two intersectional games will rival the championship combats in point of interest. The University of Iowa will invade Dallas for a game with the Texas Aggies. Texas A. & M. dropped a 7 to 0 game last week to Tulane on a rain-soaked New Orleans gridiron. Iowa, reputed to have a strong team, will find the Aggies in a bad mood and anxious to atone for last week's defeat.

Defeated last year 7 to 2, the Baylor university Bears will seek revenge against Centenary Saturday at Shreveport. A brilliant aerial game gave Baylor a 23 to 0 victory over St. Edward's. It was the first game this season for Baylor. Esco Walter, Raymond Alford and Raymond Reeves riddled St. Edward's defense with their aerial attack. Walter's passing accounted for two touchdowns.

Stinging from their 13 to 0 defeat yesterday by the University of Tulsa, the Texas Christian Frogs will pick on easier opposition this week, meeting Austin college from Sherman. T. C. U. stopped Austin 33 to 7 last year. The Frogs are overwhelming favorites to repeat.

Bailey-Moline Nine Defeats Hulen, 9-7

The Bailey-Moline baseball team, Wichita Falls sandlot champions, defeated the Hulen, Okla., nine at Walters, Okla., Sunday afternoon, 9 to 7.

McDuffy and Moore pitched for the Wichitans, with Jim Janeway doing the receiving. The Hulen team called upon the pitching talent of Snyder, Cannon and Kazzar. Poludas was their backstop.

Allison led the Bailey-Moline attack with four hits out of five trips. McAfee also was vital in the slugging, with a home run.

NOT SATISFIED

Steers' 31-0 Victory Was Not Enough; Coach Plans Stiff Drills

AUSTIN, Oct. 4. (AP)—Not satisfied with the showing made by the University of Texas in its game yesterday with the University of Missouri, despite the Steers having proved themselves masters of the situation at all stages, piling up a 31 to 0 score, Coach Clyde Littlefield today was planning a hard week of practice in preparation for the game here next Saturday against Rice institute.

Littlefield said the team showed some improvement over the preceding week but that he was not at all satisfied with the way it worked. The blocking showed little advancement while the team failed to function smoothly as a unit in running through its plays, he commented.

Most of the efforts this week will be directed to coordinating the offensive to make the action of any eleven men in the field more cohesive.

The Texas team came through with only two injuries and they were of a minor nature. Sparks, an end, and Captain Baumgarten, guard, sustained torn knee ligaments that were expected to keep them on the sidelines during the first two or three days of practice.

FLOWERS IS 'UNSUNG HERO'

Grimes Sheds New Light on 'That Ninth Inning'

By BURLEIGH GRIMES
Pitcher of the St. Louis Cardinals

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4. (US)—Now about that ninth inning!

After hearing about six miles of conversation of one of the most peculiar plays a world series ever saw, I am inclined to believe that Jake Flowers is the unsung hero of it all.

And instead of being threatened with being a goat, I think Jimmy Wilson also deserves praise, instead of criticism.

Naturally when Moore struck out some of the players started to leave their positions. But not Flowers. He stuck right in the vicinity of third base and was there to take Wilson's throw when it came. Had Jake started for the clubhouse, the ball would have gone sailing into left field and two and possibly more runs would have scored.

Jake is a quiet soft-spoken fellow and didn't lose his head when excitement was rife. Furthermore, Jake insists that while he did not have his foot on the bag when he took the throw, he did touch the runner as he came into third, which would have retired the side. But the umpire ruled otherwise.

Now as for Wilson, in the heat of the excitement, the fans seemed to have forgotten that he made a marvelous pickup of Hallahan's pitch which hit the dirt. Had that ball gotten away from him the situation would have been even more serious when Bishop came to bat. Wilson was in motion toward third base and when he saw a runner going there, he threw the ball to Flowers from instinct, I guess, more than anything else.

No one will deny that Hallahan's last pitch to Moore was wild and what we have to be thankful for is that Moore struck at it.

But I am not very much interested in post mortems. We won the game—which is the most important thing.

If we win tomorrow—we will be leading the A's for the first time in two world series. And when a team can come from behind to take the lead it's pretty hard to head them off.

Naturally I hope to get the pitching assignment. But at this writing I don't know whether I will or not.

OLNEY TO OPEN LEAGUE DRIVE

Cubs Meet Burk Friday in First Conference Tilt

The championship race in the class B interscholastic league district No. 3 will start in earnest this week-end, when the Olney Cubs, sole member of the conference that hasn't participated in league warfare this season, meets the Burkburnett Bulldogs on the Olney field.

Chillicothe and Crowell last Friday opened their conference season, Chillicothe by drubbing the Munday eleven, 45 to 0, and Crowell by taking the measure of the Seymour Panthers, 32 to 2. The impressive scores piled up by these two teams strengthened the belief that Olney's Cubs, which for years have swept right into regional competition with little effort, will have a fight on their hands this season.

Bowie Gets Drubbing

That they will be able to stand the gaff, however, was indicated last week when the Cubs, to whom Henrietta forfeited its regular league battle, trounced the Bowie High school team in a practice game, 52 to 0. The Wichita Falls Coyotes, a class A competitor, was able to score only 38 points against the same team.

The scrapping Archer City Wildcats continued to sit on top of the heap with two victories. In their first game the Wildcats beat Munday 26 to 0. They followed this up last week with a 38 to 0 victory over Megargel.

The Burkburnett Bulldogs, who won their conference opener with Henrietta two weeks ago 25 to 0, engaged the Fairview eleven in a practice game Friday and won it, 19 to 0.

In addition to the Olney-Burkburnett affair this week, the schedule will find the Archer City Wildcats meeting their first stiff competition, the Crowell eleven. The game will be played at Crowell. It need not be said that the Wildcats will put up a fight, but the odds are all in favor of Crowell.

The Munday eleven is scheduled to play the Henrietta team, while Megargel journeys to the home of the Chillicothe Eagles. This game probably will be one-sided in favor of Chillicothe, as Megargel has yet to score a point this season.

The ninth member of the district, Seymour, originally was scheduled to play Fairview, which dropped out of league competition. Instead the Seymour eleven will journey to Vernon this week-end.

Committee Meets Today

B. C. Shulkey of Olney, district three head, announced Sunday a meeting of the executive committee will be held today at Megargel for the purpose of passing on the eligibility of all players in the district. While the meeting is in session, he said, the winner of the Seymour-Megargel game of two weeks ago will be determined. The teams battled to a scoreless tie, but the decision will go to the team that makes the most first downs; or, in case these are even, the team making the most 20-yard penetrations. If these, also are even, the game will be awarded the team making the most yardage.

Arthur W. Briggs, dean of Missouri athletic directors, has started his 20th year at Southwest State Teachers college, Springfield.

Phone Your Classified Ads to

Our courteous ad taker will receive your Classified Ad and help you to word it, then our collector will call the next day. These accounts are "accommodation accounts" for the convenience of our patrons in transacting business over the telephone.

Classified Ad patrons desiring to have ads charged must have a telephone listed in their own name. No book record is made by the publishers on account of the great number of transactions, hence the necessity of collecting promptly.

Correction of errors in Classified Ads must be made before the second insertion. No allowance will be made for more than one incorrect insertion.

Cancellations and adjustments regarding errors should be telephoned to the Classified Ad department between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m.

Ads accepted for afternoon paper up until 11 a. m. same day.

Morning paper up to 6 p. m. for the following morning.

Sunday paper up to 7 o'clock Saturday night.

Same copy in both papers.

THE CLASSIFIED DEPARTMENT IS OPEN ON SUNDAYS from 4 to 8 p. m. and telephone orders for classified ads to be inserted or to be discontinued will be accepted.

Exceptions: Want Ads will be accepted over the telephone for all excepting the following classifications: Situations Wanted and Wanted to Rent. Ads for these classifications are cash with the order and will not be accepted over the telephone.

The Times reserves the right to classify all Classified Ads under the appropriate headlines and to revise or to withhold from publication any ads deemed objectionable.

Two Revival Services Open Sunday in Electra

ELECTRA, Texas, Oct. 4.—Two revivals opened in Electra, Sunday morning, Oct. 4. Rev. Charlie R. Nichol of Clifton started a two-week revival at the First Church of Christ, Main and Summit streets. He is a former president of Thorpes Springs Christian college and is a Bible scholar of note. On Monday and Tuesday nights he will lecture on "The Holy Land." He has traveled extensively in the Holy land and is well informed on the subject. Invitations have been extended to other communities as well as to citizens of Electra to attend the lectures. Services will be held nightly at 7:15 and Ben Taylor of Vernon will lead the song services.

Rev. Finis Lewis opened a revival at the Assembly of God church Sunday. His sister, Miss Georgia Lewis will lead the singing. Rev. Mr. Lewis makes his home in Tulsa, Okla., and has conducted several revivals during the summer.

Gift Watermelons Cost Memphis Man Dearly

MEMPHIS, Texas, Oct. 4. (AP)—Horace Tarver, local druggist, paid high for four watermelons which a friend sent him from Arkansas. The melons weighed 120, 101, 90 and 85 pounds respectively, and it cost Tarver $9.32 to get them out of the express office. Tarver then wagered another friend that he could not carry the largest melon around the public square without setting it down. Tarver lost, to add to the cost of the gift from Arkansas.

New Feeding Method Used in Quanah Area

QUANAH, Texas, Oct. 4. (AP)—Local stockmen are using the newly developed method of creep-feeding for spring calves.

A pen is built near a watering place into which is an opening large enough for a calf to enter, but barring a cow. A creep-feeder similar to a so-called drop feeder for chickens is erected and filled in the pen and the calves can eat their fill without the cows feeding. Cowmen say that the calves soon learn there is feed in the pen and are quickly fattened for market by this process.

School District Boasts Oversupply of Money

PAMPA, Texas, Oct. 4. (AP)—And once upon a time there was a school district that had more money than it needed.

Citizens of the Hopkins school district in Gray county voted recently to cut school taxes from $1 to 50 cents on the hundred dollar valuation.

"The trustees had more money then they knew what to do with," said Supt. John B. Hessey. "They had more than $22,000 in the treasury."

Schools Closing for Cotton Picking Rush

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 4.—Manitou schools closed yesterday for two weeks, until the busiest season of the cotton harvest shall be over. Other schools in the county have been closing for the last few weeks, as the demand for pickers increases.

Loveland schools dismiss each afternoon at 2 o'clock, so that students may assist in gathering the opened crops.

Real Unemployment

SHANGHAI.—Other countries that have unemployment problems should take solace from the plight of China. Latest figures set the number of unemployed persons in the country at nearly 200,000,000, or nearly half of the nation's population. This unemployment has greatly added to the ranks of the beggars.

ROAD FIESTA PLANS GROW

Vernon Monument to Be Unveiled

Special to The Record News.

MANGUM, Okla., Oct. 4.—Old cowboys and trail-drivers from Mangum and vicinity will attend the unveiling of a monument at Doans' Crossing near Vernon, Texas on Oct. 21 and 22.

The ceremony will be charge of George Saunders, San Antonio, president of the Old Trail Drivers association, and Mrs. Bertha Doanne Ross of Vernon.

Mrs. Ross is sponsoring the erection of the monument and the marking of the Chisholm trail through Wilbarger county. She is the daughter of the man for whom Doans Crossing over Red river was named.

Will Rogers and Gov. W. H. Murray will be invited to attend the unveiling.

Shortage of Rock Delays Road Work

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, Oct. 4.—A rapidly diminishing supply of native rock of sufficient hardness to be used in paving highway No. 51 south from Quanah to Pease river is slowing down the work on this highway. The huge crusher is shut down temporarily while "rock hounds" are searching the countryside for rock. The gyp formation of the majority of rock ledges makes it unfit for road construction. Contractors state it may be necessary to ship rock in to complete the road.

About six miles of paving have been completed.

Cotton Premium Planned For Frederick Carnival

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 4.—The plan of the Frederick Chamber of Commerce to offer a premium on cotton marketed in Frederick during the two days of the Cotton Carnival to be held here Oct. 22 and 23, was endorsed by the committee in charge here Friday afternoon.

Farmers will be paid a premium of one cent a pound for their cotton, and given trade scrip in exchange. The scrip will be good for merchandise only the two festival days, at the participating stores.

Cotton will be classed in a central office, paid for in the scrip, and then exhibited in the business section of the city.

Memphis Schools Enter Exhibit in Hall Fair

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Oct. 4.—Plans are being made by the junior high school and the west ward school to enter an exhibit at the Hall County district fair to be held here, Oct. 7. The fair board has offered the local schools a booth, according to the local teachers, and a large exhibit is expected to be shown.

Various exhibits of school works will be included in the display, it was stated, consisting of the outstanding work done by the students.

The schools invite the public to visit the booth during the fair and to see a sample of their work.

BIBLE CLASS HEARS DANIEL

Paul's Mission to Philippi Described

Famous events in traditional and authentic history which occurred at Philippi and Troy were reviewed by Roy J. Daniel before members of the Kay Bible class of the First Methodist church Sunday morning in discussing the apostle Paul's introduction of Christianity to Europe.

Numerous ancient military campaigns which moved through Troy and about Philippi were discussed by Mr. Daniel as a background for the presentation of Paul in a missionary role at Philippi. Paul's small company was referred to as "the smallest but the most significan caravan of the many which passed through those olden cities."

Mr. Daniel's talk was in part as follows:

"The ancient city of Troy in Asia Minor witnessed the departure of many Asiatic expeditions to Europe, and also the arrival of many European expeditions to Asia. It was located just across the North Aegean sea from Macedonia, or in modern Rumania, the country of Queen Marie. Of all those expeditions none was so small in personnel as that of Paul, nor was any so far reaching in its effects and destiny as was Paul's.

"You may recall how the Greeks invaded Asia Minor and besieged the walls of Troy for 10 years. The Trojans were unable to drive the Greeks away, and the Greeks were unable to scale the walls of the city. So after 10 years the Greeks tricked the Trojans with a wooden horse. The Greeks built a huge horse of wood and placed inside it a number of bold Greek soldiers. The main body of Greeks went on board their ships and sailed away supposedly for home but in reality just out of sight of land. The Trojans came out of Troy and upon the plain to view the large wooden horse. They shot their arrows into it, and some wanted to burn it. But others wanted to drag the horse into the city. Their wishes were carried out and into the city went the horse. That night the Greek soldiers inside came out of the wooden horse and opened all the gates of the walls. The Greek forces returned under cover of darkness, and marching in through the opened gates captured the city.

Battle of Marathon

"In 490 B. C. Darius gathered a host of Persians, and sent them into Europe to conquer Greece—they were commanded by his son-in-law, Mardonius. The Greeks had only 10,000 Athenians to fight but they had the genius, Miltiades, to command them. At the battle of Marathon the Greeks took the offensive and won by their bravery and valor although greatly outnumbered.

"Ten years after Marathon Darius was dead, but his son Xerxes determined to complete his father's task. Near Troy he collected vast quantities of provisions, and gathered an army of several hundred thousand men from all parts of his great Asiatic empire. The Greeks made their stand in defense at the pass of Thermopylae. But treachery aided the Persians. A Greek traitor revealed to Xerxes a hidden path leading over the mountain to the rear of the pass. A detachment of Persians marched by night and took up position behind the Greeks. Persian officers lashed their men to battle with whips while Leonidas and his three hundred Spartans fought till spears and swords were broken. Xerxes gained the pass of Thermopylae but only after every defender had been killed. On a monument on the battlefield was written: "Stranger, go tell the Spartans that we lie here in obedience to their commands."

"Less than 150 years after the Asiatic-Persian attempt to invade Europe, there was led into Asia through Troy the avenging expedition of Alexander the Great. Alexander came from Macedonia and landed near Troy. He won in rapid succession the battles of Issus and Abela, where was decided the fate of the Persian empire. The Persian king fled eastward until he was murdered by his own men. Then Alexander took charge of the once powerful Persian empire.

"The Crusades were military expeditions undertaken by the Christians of Europe for the purpose of recovering the Holy Land from the Turks. Europe had become Christian while Asia had become Moslem. Men in Europe wanted to make pilgrimages to the scenes of Christ's life on earth but could not do so with the Holy Land under Moslem control. The first crusade passed near Jerusalem but before attacking it they marched barefoot in religious procession around the walls, with Peter the Hermit at their head. By assault they gained entrance to the city, and then massacred their enemies without mercy. They went "rejoicing and weeping to the tomb of our Savior to adore and give thanks."

Expeditions of Force

"All those expeditions I have described to you were military in character and included thousands and thousands of armed men. They were expeditions of force and might and power. With the passing of the centuries there has also passed the causes of those expeditions. Many lives were lost, much property destroyed, many racial and religious fires started and fanned into flames. The great Troy witnessed the coming and going of them all.

"Then just a few years after the death of Christ there went to Troy Paul, the leader of the smallest yet the most important expedition that ever passed through Troy—either into Europe or from Europe to Asia. Paul had just a few companions with him. Paul said he went into Europe in response to a vision where he saw a man in Macedonia, crying out and beckoning, 'Come over into Macedonia and help us.' The ambition of Paul's life was to carry the gospel to Rome and then go on to Spain. Sailing from Troy, Paul passed some islands and landed in Macedonia at Philippi.

"Philippi was a city of some historic renown itself. It was near Philippi that the Roman republic came to an end. Brutus killed Julius Caesar by stabbing him at the foot of Pompey's statue and then left Rome, gathering the forces of the republic at Philippi. Augustus the nephew of Caesar was named in Caesar's will as the heir and successor. Anthony, Caesar's friend and the orator who stirred up the Romans against Brutus, joined with Augustus and together they led their forces against Brutus at Philippi, and Augustus became the first recognized Roman emperor and Rome the republic became Rome the empire. Philippi was named for Philip, the father of Alexander, and the man who really began to make Macedonia the world power she became.

"After his arrival in Philippi Paul and his companions went to a religious meeting held outside the city on a river bank because the city had no synagogue. The religious meeting was a meeting of Jewish women. One of the outstanding women of Philippi was a Jewess by the name of Lydia. Lydia was a business woman. She operated a successful shop in Philippi—she was a seller of purple. She heard Paul preach, and became a believer in Christ. She offered the use and hospitality of her home in Philippi to Paul and his companions, and they accepted her generous offer. The first convert to Christianity in Europe was thus a Jewess, a woman of the business world in Philippi.

"The far-reaching effect of Paul's expedition into Macedonia is that from Philippi the gospel was carried to Rome and to other parts of Europe, and then from those parts of Europe the gospel came to the American shores with the colonists who braved the Atlantic and won the American continents, both north and south, from the savages and from the wild forces of nature.

"The church that Paul founded at Philippi always loved Paul. In the later years of his ministry, when Paul needed help and was in prison, the church at Philippi aided him with their prayers and voluntary contributions. One of the mainstays of Christianity is the passion for social welfare and betterment, and that good quality the church at Philippi had to a remarkable degree. In our day let us bear in mind that the ideal all-round Christian man or woman is the one who has that passion for social service, yet at the same time has the love for beauty and truth the Greeks possessed, and also has the will to conquer that the noble Romans gave the world."

At the Theaters

By ELLEN SEE

MAJESTIC: "My Sin," with Tallulah Bankhead and Frederic March. "Strange As It Seems," by John Hix, Charlie Chase comedy, Krazy Kat cartoon and talking news.

STATE: Edward G. Robinson in "Smart Money," with splendid supporting cast; short features, cartoon and talking news.

GEM: Marlene Dietrich and Victor McLaglen in "Dishonored." Leather pushers series comedy and Paramount screen song.

A person of most magnetic charm appears before Wichita Falls audiences at the Majestic through Tuesday in the person of Tallulah Bankhead, daughter of the senator from Alabama. Tallulah, however, has made her own name famous. In England they raved over her, and her lovely eyes, her rich throaty voice and her grace and expression will make her one of the favorites in America.

◇ ◇ ◇

We've heard a deal of her tempestuous nature; she doesn't look it in the picture. And in the picture, "My Sin," she plays opposite Frederic March whose usual touch of lightness, even after he had entered the play as a lawyer and Harvard graduate gone bad in the semi-tropics, adds much to the play. We always hurrah for March.

◇ ◇ ◇

The plot is not brilliant with novelty. Somehow one can tell at the very beginning just what is about to happen. But for all that, it was Saturday, when we saw it, a favorite with the audience. The news reel and the Krazy Kat comedy and the Charlie Chase comedy were also favorites.

◇ ◇ ◇

Tallulah has not only a speaking but a singing voice. Her voice is her greatest charm. All support is good, but Larry Gordon, the millionaire who loved Tallulah, only expresses sorrow by a hunch of the shoulders.

Annual Fire Cost $4.50 Per Capita

Writer Tells How Blazes Are Prevented

By W. DEE NELSON

We read much in the papers from time to time about calling on congress to reduce certain taxes. Yet there is one tax that amounts to $4.50 for every man, woman and child in the country which congress cannot reduce. If we want it reduced we must do it ourselves. It is our annual national fire loss.

This tax is so great that it amounts to more than we spend on our navy every year. It is more than double what it cost to build the Panama canal. It is terrific!

Even the carefully compiled figure of nearly half a billion dollars does not cover the entire loss. That is only the past that can be covered by insurance. And you pay your share of it whether you carry fire insurance or not; for the merchant from whom you buy must carry insurance on his goods, and he adds the cost of that insurance to the price of the goods you buy.

Constant Danger

Then there are other things that burn which cannot be insured and cannot be replaced. Among these are priceless historical documents; heirlooms of all kinds; the very records that make it possible for the business man to conduct his business intelligently and profitably. Nobody can definitely estimate the value of these things—yet when fire strikes they are among the things most easily destroyed, and their loss means disaster in many cases. Commercial rating bureaus report that nearly half of the business concerns that lost their records in fire are forced out of business as a result of that loss.

And the fire danger is no remote thing. Every minute, day and night, a fire starts somewhere in this country. Even some of our finest buildings suffer from it, for fire records show that in case of a conflagration even the best of buildings either are seriously damaged or lose their contents, or both. Two fires have started somewhere just since this talk was begun. Where will the next one start?

Nobody can tell—but everybody can help to keep it from starting on his premises by being just a little more careful. For National Fire Protection association reports show that some 80 per cent of our fires are preventable by carefulness.

Let us give you a few simple rules that will help to reduce the fire danger in your home and in your place of business. First of all, remember that anything that causes or transmits heat can start a fire. There doesn't have to be flame. Heat will do the trick. So be careful about electric light globes, for they get hot and become dangerous if anything inflammable is left near them. Fire takes 10,000 human lives annually and many of the fires that cause deaths are started in homes through carelessness in the use of electricity for lighting or other purposes.

Be sure that electric or gas irons are turned off whenever you leave them. It is always uncertain how long you will be gone.

Have all gas and electric connections in your place inspected by competent men to make sure there are no leaks or weaknesses.

Never use gasoline for cleaning or other purposes in the building. Pilot lights on stoves or water heaters have often caused fires by igniting the fumes from gasoline so used. And the fumes of a single gallon of gasoline have the same explosive power as 83 pounds of dynamite!

Open gas flames mean danger. If you use a gas heater, be sure to have a screen across the front, and never turn it so high that the flames reach the screen.

Do not replace a burned-out electric fuse plug with anything but another fuse-plug. The "blowing out" of a fuse means that more electric current has gone through it than is safe on the wiring system, and the thing to do is to find the cause of the "blow-out" and remedy it, not to put something in place of the fuse that will not give the protection the fuse did.

For Smokers

Never look for a gas leak with a flame light of any kind. Use an electric torch for that purpose.

Do not throw away a burnt match that has any fire left in it at all. Make sure the last spark is dead. A safe rule is to break the match before throwing it away.

Watch where you leave cigar and cigaret butts. They often continue burning and ignite something else. Over $30,000,000 of our annual fire loss is traced to smokers.

And finally, keep your premises clean of rubbish, dirt, and piles of papers. Chief Daugherty of the fire department recently published accounts of fires started by spontaneous combustion in piles of old newspapers.

Half a billion dollars worth of property—10,000 human lives—untold values in priceless or irreplacable records—that in brief is our annual fire toll—our sacrifice to the fire fiend, and most of it made on the altar of carelessness. And the only way we can reduce the loss is by being more careful and encouraging our neighbors to be more careful too. Let the National Fire Protection association message take hold of you this year as never before, and let us reduce this annual fire waste which has grown to be a national disgrace as well as a personal peril!

RITES SAID FOR C. P. WILLIAMS

Services Held Sunday for Church Leader

Funeral services for C. P. Williams, 77, prominent worker in the Church of Christ of this section who died early Saturday, were held Sunday morning from the chapel of the Merkle Undertaking company. The Rev. L. S. White, pastor of the First Church of Christ here, officiated.

The body was forwarded to Decatur, Texas, his former home, for burial.

Mr. Williams had been active in church work since 1874. His activities during his religious career centered at various times in several cities of Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma.

He came to Wichita Falls about a year ago. Since that time he had made his home with his daughter, Mrs. A. L. Albin, 1209 Taylor street. He died at the daughter's home after an illness of seven hours.

He is survived by four daughters, in addition to Mrs. Albin, Mrs. T. H. Stepp of Cement, Okla., Mrs. J. B. Duncan of Wanett, Okla., Mrs. J. L. Pool of Gainesville, Texas, and Mrs. L. L. Albin of Shawnee, Okla.; and four sons, J. W. and J. E. Williams of Los Angeles, Calif., and W. L. and C. P. Williams Jr., of Shawnee.

Advertising Club to Hold Meeting Tuesday

Members of the Ad club will give their attention Tuesday noon at the Kemp hotel to the preparation of programs for their meetings during the ensuing several months, according to the organization's bulletin to its membership.

The state convention to be held at San Antonio on Oct. 11, 12 and 13, also will be discussed, and efforts will be made to assure the attendance of several members of the local club.

Kiwanis to Have Fire Prevention Program

National Fire Prevention week will be observed in the program arranged for the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis club at the Wichita club Monday noon, Roy E. Carter of the Junior chamber of commerce having been secured as the principal speaker for the occasion.

Entertainment will be furnished by pupils of Mrs. Harry L. Gross, it was announced.

PROBE CALLED AT FREDERICK

Petition Asks Investigation Of County Crimes

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 4.—A court order for the convening of a grand jury here Oct. 13 was issued Saturday morning by district Judge Frank Matthews.

The action proceeded from a petition presented to Judge Matthews by J. S. Brown, bearing more than 100 names of tax-paying voters in Tillman county. The petition asked that investigation of the commission of all crimes in the county be made, and by law, caused the grand jury call to become mandatory upon the court.

A panel of 18 names was drawn for jurors, from which 12 men will be chosen as grand jurors, and serve in the session presided over by the district judge, who will charge the jury on the lines of its investigation. Presentation of evidence is under the charge of district attorney, A. C. Chancey, and indictments will be returned by the panel.

C. E. Haas, court clerk, drew the following names for the panel:

E. H. Curry, Tipton; G. A. Duncan, Frederick; L. S. Hemphill, Frederick; W. E. Kimble, Frederick; B. S. Brown, Frederick; J. H. Carpenter, Frederick; G. W. Mitchell, Manitou; J. C. Crockett, Loveland; P. A. Platner, Hollister; F. C. Minter, Hollister; Dell Burrows, Hollister; C. B. Bailey, Davidson; B. C. Hoover, Manitou; C. E. Pinnell, Grandfield; H. A. Vernon, Tipton; W. E. Hickerson, Grandfield; C. H. Goodpasture, Tipton; E. H. Blasdel, Loveland.

Last Rites Said For I. H. Steed

Funeral services for I. H. Steed, 58, who died at a hospital here Saturday following a brief illness, were held Sunday afternoon from the chapel of the Merkle Undertaking company. Dr. S. S. McKenney, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiated. Burial was in Rosemont.

Mr. Steed had been a merchant here for 22 years prior to about a year ago.

Pallbearers were T. J. Rowland, J. T. Ryan, R. H. Clark, Ed Mize, J. B. Whitman, C. Q. Arnold, L. N. Jernigan and F. T. Tipps.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. L. B. Hill and Miss Dorothy May Steed of Corpus Christi, Texas; four sons, L. D. Steed of North Dakota, Ross Steed of DeKalb, Texas, and G. D. and J. B. Steed of Wichita Falls; and three brothers, N. A. Steed of Groom, Texas, and Pinkey and Eli Steed of Ada, Okla.

Shamrock Lions Club Resumes Its Luncheons

CLARENDON, Texas, Oct. 4. (AP)—Sam M. Braswell, district governor of Lions International, said the Shamrock Lions chapter had reconsidered its action to drop affiliation with the international association, and that weekly luncheons had been resumed.

The Shamrock club voted in July to sever its connections with the international organization, and to return to its former status as a "booster" club. The club was organized several years before it affiliated with Lions.

T. C. Davis will continue in the office of president, A. C. Hallmark as secretary, Braswell said.

All Highways Out of Shamrock Are Closed

SHAMROCK, Texas, Oct. 4. (AP)—All the state designated highways out of Shamrock are closed. It is necessary to detour to enter or leave this city in any direction.

Both highways through Shamrock—state highway No. 4 running north and south, and No. 75, or U. S. 66 highway, running east and west—have been closed for paving and traffic is following detours.

Contractors are getting ready to hard-surface the north and south road, and it should be opened some time this fall. The east and west route will not be completed entirely across the county before Jan. 1, or perhaps next spring.

THEATER MOVED

Special to The Record News.

RULE, Texas, Oct. 4.—The Rule theater, owned and operated by S. H. Leon of this city was moved this week to Sweetwater. The theater will be opened in that city the latter part of next week. Dorsey Looney of this city will be manager of the theater.

BURK HOLDS TRADE FETE

Festival Draws Huge Crowd To City

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, Oct. 4.—Crowds variously estimated at from 5,000 to 10,000 attended the second Burkburnett free rodeo and farmers trades day here Saturday.

An even larger number of people than attended the first free rodeo, given on Sept. 5, Saturday watched cowboys from Texas and Oklahoma ride the wildest broncos, steers and mules to be found in the surrounding country.

Since the first free rodeo, the rodeo grounds have been fenced, corrals, bandstand and bleachers built, and many other improvements made for the safety and comfort of the hundreds that viewed the rough riding contests. An auctioneer was furnished free to auction off livestock, farm implements and farm produce brought in by the farmers.

Heavy Trading

Although the auction at the rodeo grounds was not as successful as it was expected to be, heavy trading throughout the day in the business district more than made up for the slack, and made the trades day a success.

The rodeo and farmers trades day on Saturday, Oct. 3, and on Saturday, Sept. 5, were sponsored by 52 business firms and professional men in Burkburnett. The success of these shows has been largely due to the efforts of the managers, Wid Phillips and Guy Willis, and to W. F. Billingslea, editor of the Burkburnett Star.

November Program

The next Burkburnett rodeo and farmers trades day to be held in Burkburnett will be the annual American Legion rodeo, combined with the farmers trades day show, on November 11.

The program Saturday was as follows:

10:00-11:00—Calf roping and bronco busting.

11:00-12:00—Arena thrown open for riding by children.

12:00-3:00—Trading, swapping and selling.

3:00-3:30—Auction sale of livestock and other farm produce by Col. O. E. Powell of Randlett, Okla.

3:30-5:30—Steer riding, bronco busting and mule riding.

7:00-8:00—Concert by Hickville bank and Burkburnett Cowboy band, directed by E. L. Nichols.

Quanah Business District Grows

Special to The Record News

QUANAH, Texas, Oct. 4.—Despite the "repression" Quanah's business district is growing, four new grocery stores, a barbecue sandwich shop and a cafe being the additions within the past month.

Mack S. Allen of Longview, Wash., built and equipped a modern barbecue and sandwich shop, at the corner of Sixth and Main, with gas barbecue spits, and latest electrical refrigeration units.

S. E. Green of Vega, Texas, has opened the Club cafe, 109 Main street. This cafe had been closed for several months. The building and furnishings have been redecorated and additions made to bring this cafe to among the best small cafes in this section.

Garnet Jones, formerly connected with the Foxworth-Galbraith Lumber company, opened a cash and carry grocery at 134 West Second street.

Phillips & Son, composed of C. W. (Bill) Phillips and his son, Earl, are operating a new grocery at the corner of Second and Main in the building formerly occupied by the J. R. Wilson grocery.

The Wheat grocery owned by Sam Wheat is located on King street between Second and Third.

Ben Riley, who for several years has operated the North Groesbeck community store, has moved to Quanah, and installed a grocery in the Moran building, at 317 South Main, opposite the court house.
