New Year Celebrated In US

'More Everything' Due In Congress

By FRANK ELEAZER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Rep. Harold C. Ostertag (R-N.Y.) says the word for the coming session of Congress undoubtedly will be "more." More defense is mostly what Ostertag had in mind for the new year.

He might have added more noise, more bickering, more investigations, more viewing with alarm; more efforts by more members to hook more pet projects onto the defense bandwagon; more official inspection trips, along about the end of winter to sunny places like Hawaii and the Panama Canal.

Also, more of a gap than ever between hope and performance on economy, a balanced budget and a tax cut.

None of this is any reflection on the 435 House members (less five vacancies as of opening day) and 96 Senators who will be returning to their desks on Jan. 7 for the second session of the 85th Congress.

It's just the way the seltzer fizzes. Like most everything else it all can and will be blamed first on Sputnik and second on Republicans, or Democrats, as the case may be, depending on which party you happen not to belong to.

So as of New Year's Day here is the congressional outlook in aspirin box:

Missiles: Ask, and it shall be given. Nothing is too good this year for our missile makers. Scientists once again will be spoken to, and kindly. President Eisenhower wants to spend about 40 billion dollars in the new fiscal year on defense. What's already worrying him is how to keep the Congress from giving him more. Last year it was just the other way around. Soviet Party leader Nikita Khrushchev, obviously, is Ike's best lobbyist. Too bad he isn't around to answer some of the questions at the innumerable hearings into how come Russia was first.

Tax Cut. Quit kidding yourself and each other. Count yourself lucky taxes aren't going to be raised. With the budget at a peacetime high (74 billion dollars is what it looks like now), and revenues declining, there's no room for a tax cut, no matter what the wishful thinkers are saying.

Offsetting Economies: This is another laugh, April 1 style. Congress claimed to have cut the President's money requests last year by billions, and what came of it? Nothing. Spending rolled along. And last year the word was "economy." This year, remember, it's "more."

Farm Price Supports: Benson wants authority to lower them. The farm bloc doesn't know what it wants except that this isn't it. Dairy state congressmen hope to repeal Benson's recent order cutting supports under milk. As for the deal they may have to make with other farm interests to put that one across, your guess is as good as anybody's. One thing is certain. It will cost money.

Postal Rates: They'll go up for sure this time. You may as well lay in some of those pretty new red, white and blue four cent stamps for letters of complaint to your congressman. Blame this one on Sputnik II. Uncle Sam will need the extra half billion dollars yearly which a rate increase would produce.

Civil Rights: Plenty of talk about this, with a Sputnik angle here too. The idea is that rights abuse in this country plays into Communist hands and that Little Rock did us more damage abroad than Laika, the satellite dog. But no new civil rights legislation, pro or con, is in the cards now.

Tariffs: Boring as it sounds, this is important, and one of Congress' hottest battles this year will be what to do about them. Ike wants continued authority to negotiate mutual reductions, so trade with our friends will be freer. But Congress has been listening lately to the protectionists who say the

Jaycees Have Meeting

According to Johnny Campbell, president of the Pampa Jaycees, the New Year's Eve meeting held by the organization, was "exceedingly good considering the hinderances of a holiday."

Some 40 members of the Jaycees, along with five or six guests, enjoyed a letter which had been received by the club from John and Rosalind Steele, English students who visited in Pampa last summer.

Campbell stated that they are now married and living in Birmingham, England. The Steeles stated in the letter that since they had seen the US from within the country, they had a much better light on the behavior and culture of Americans. They also expressed their appreciation of their visit in Texas and Pampa.

No business was handled in the meeting, which was the regular noon luncheon session in the Palm Room of the City Hall, other than the appointment of a committee to take down the Christmas street decorations. Plans have been made for the group to meet in Johnson's Cafe at 7 a.m. Sunday and proceed from that point. R. F. MacDonald was appointed chairman of the group.

The next meeting is scheduled for Tuesday noon in the Palm Room.

No Area Mishaps Here Yesterday

No accidents were reported on roads and highways in the Top o' Texas yesterday, according to Sgt. E. G. Albers of the Highway Patrol.

In making the report this morning, the sergeant stated that with "Operation Deathwatch" rapidly drawing to a close, there has been no report of traffic fatalities in the area since the operation began on Dec. 21. The operation, by the Texas Highway Patrol, is scheduled to end at 11:59 tonight.

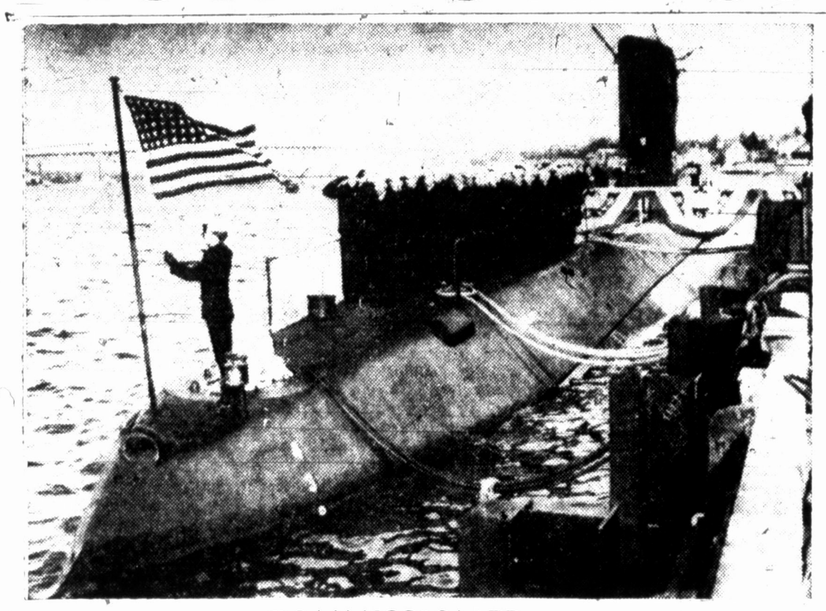

Since Dec. 21, a total of 15 persons have been injured in the nine accidents reported in the Top o' Texas, according to Sgt. Albers. He said that all of the injuries occurred in five accidents and that the other four accidents involved only damage to the vehicles.

Commission In Session Today

The Gray County Commissioner's Court was to have met this morning at 10 for the regular first-of-the-month session in order to approve payment of routine bills.

No other business was announced before the meeting; however, the group was expected to accept and discuss bids on pick - up trucks which will be designated to different precincts.

This meeting will also include winding up the final business of 1957 which may have been incomplete.

Holiday Is 'Chilly' Over Most Of US

By UNITED PRESS

A white, chilly New Year greeted much of the nation's central section today, curtailing holiday travel in the Central Plains, the upper and mid-Mississippi Valley and the upper Great Lakes.

Three to 18 inches of snow accumulated Tuesday and today across Kansas, Nebraska, northern Missouri, northern Illinois, Wisconsin and lower Michigan.

A near zero cold wave swept over Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, and eastern sections of Nebraska and Oklahoma hard on the heels of the snowstorm.

Hazardous Driving

Weathermen and highway authorities warned motorists driving conditions would remain hazardous through the snow belt today. Most of the early New Year's Eve traffic fatalities were concentrated in the storm area.

The snowstorm spread as far east early today as parts of Pennsylvania, and weathermen predicted rain and colder weather in the northeast with snow flurries likely in northern New England. Clear skies were seen for the Southeast.

Occasional rain was expected along the Pacific Coast from northern California through Oregon and Washington.

The leading edge of the cold wave was expected to push into Dixie during the day, with weathermen warning of a hard freeze in Alabama and Mississippi by tonight.

States Buried in Snow

Northern Illinois, southern Wisconsin and Michigan were buried under the heaviest snow accumulations this morning with Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., reporting 18 inches, Grand Rapids, Mich., 11 inches and suburban Chicago 6 to 7 inches.

Congress Asked To 'Save Circus'

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Emmett Kelly, the eminent clown, has been appealing to congressmen to save the circus, meaning not any particular circus but all of them.

Seems that circuses are in a cost-price squeeze, like the farmers and you and I, and that they may just fold their tents and disappear unless somebody does something. That's pretty bad, but clown Kelly can relax.

All of the other circuses may fold, but the biggest circus of them all will be in business as usual in 1958 playing to capacity crowds. That will be the congressional circus which appears annually here in Washington. There is no other like it nor any chance that it will go out of business, come inflation, deflation, depression, peace or war.

Three Rings Insufficient

Three rings will not oe enough for the congressional circus which opens here next week. Consider the high wire, aerial and acrobatic acts which must be put on—and the clowns. The administration will require two or three rings, at the very least, for one of its new acts which it promised the voters some weeks ago would be part of the show.

This act is only slightly more difficult than the Indian rope trick which, itself, generally is regarded as impossible. It will be to persuade congressmen facing a November election to make big economy cuts in programs especially dear to hard-boiled pressure groups, such as farmers and veterans.

Another act which will be followed closely by newsmen through the United States will be that one

Quiet New Year's Celebrated Here

Pampa residents welcomed the New Year in in a quiet and orderly manner, as far as the local police department is concerned.

Jim Conner, chief of police, reported this morning that the only activity of the police department last night was receiving reports of a stolen car and a fight.

Albert King, 813 S. Cuyler, told officers at 11 last night that his 1951 Ford was taken from near the LaNora Theater while he was at the show. He stated that he had left the keys in the car.

King located the car on Atchison street at about 11:30 p.m., Conner said.

A fight was investigated by the officers last night and Conner stated that a charge of aggravated assault is expected to be filed against one of the participants tomorrow.

Deputy Defense Chief Says 1958 Is 'Year Of Promise'

WASHINGTON (UP) — Deputy Defense Chief Donald A. Quarles said today that 1958 is "a year of promise" for the United States despite the challenge of Soviet military might.

Quarles, top man in the Pentagon in the holiday absence of Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy, said in a New Year statement that Americans should enter 1958 with "determination, and confidence."

At the same time, he stressed the nation must not lose sight of mounting military challenge, "calls for our best efforts."

Other officials both in and out of government sounded a similar theme.

Sen. Styles Bridges, head of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said Americans must face the new year with a sense or urgency that will require "mankind's most magnificent performance."

AFL — CIO President George Meany warned the country will be confronted in 1958 with a situation "as crucial in its own way as Pearl Harbor." He called for greater military and foreign aid expenditures even at the cost of an unbalanced budget.

Quarles said, "the Soviet launching of their Sputniks and rattling of their ballistic armor pose a challenge that may well be a blessing in disguise."

They have re-alerted the free world to the dangers we must face and have brought national defense back into first place in the minds of our countrymen."

Ike 'Feeling Fine' For New Year

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Jan. 1 (UP)—President Eisenhower was reported today as "feeling fine" as he began a new year that was certain to bring new and heavy pressures on his physical and emotional stamina.

Eisenhower still has another medical examination to undergo before he is given a clean bill of health for the mild stroke he suffered Nov. 25.

The President made what appeared to be a speedy recovery and has maintained a steady, but at times abbreviated work schedule since early December.

The "feeling fine" report came from Press Secretary James C. Hagerty who was a New Year's Eve dinner guest at the Eisenhowers' farm home.

The President planned a relatively quiet holiday today, devoting part of his time to further work on his state of the union message which he will deliver to Congress on Jan. 9.

Eisenhower put in a long session Tuesday with Budget Director Percival F. Brundage and James R. Killian, the President's new scientific adviser, on the big defense budget. It is reported to total about 40 billion dollars.

He also has to put the finishing touches on the overall budget which is expected to hit about 74 billion dollars. Though the budget probably will be the highest in peacetime, indications were that it will be a balanced one and not require any new tax boosts.

The budget and state of the union message were only part of the extremely busy season ahead of Eisenhower. In addition to the annual economic report to Congress, the President also must work on a number of special messages which will go to the House and Senate in January and February. These cover a broad range of subjects from science education to agriculture.

Queen Honors Many On New Year List

LONDON (UP)— Queen Elizabeth II honored a Negro boxing champion, a ballet dancer and a scientist today in her annual New Year's honors list.

Hogan (Kid) Bassey, 25-year-old world featherweight champion, was made a member of the Order of the British Empire. He is a Nigerian who came to England six years ago.

She also bestowed the Order of Commander of the British Empire on ballerina Alicia Markova and sculptress Barbara Hepworth and the highest feminine order, Dame of the British Empire, to novelist Rose MacAulay.

She bestowed knighthood on William R. J. Cook, the scientist who commanded forward operations in Britain's Christmas Island hydrogen bomb tests last summer. Cook, 52, is deputy director of the Atomic Energy Authority's atomic weapons research establishment.

The queen presented the rank of officer of the Order of the British Empire to another sports figure, Dai Rees, captain of the British Ryder Cup team that took the golf trophy away from the United States for the first time in 24 years.

In all the queen named 708 persons prominent in public affairs, business, the arts, science, education and sports. Mostly it was a routine list despite recent discreet criticism in the press that royal accolades had become overly dull.

It appeared that the queen in issuing this light might be marking time to await final legislative action on a bill which would completely reorganize Britain's feudal system of peerages.

The bill would admit women to the House of Lords and also permit appointment of life members without the right of succession. If, as expected, the bill is passed, the queen would have the responsibility of naming members of her own sex to the peerage for the first time.

Holiday Traffic Death Count Climbs Slowly

By UNITED PRESS

The year 1958, with its promise as the dawn of the space age, arrived today with most Americans celebrating in a safe and sober fashion.

The holiday traffic death count climbed slowly, despite a severe snow storm that slicked highways and made driving hazardous throughout the nation.

At 6 a.m., e.s.t. the United Press counted at least 12 deaths in traffic wrecks, three of them in Illinois and two each in Wisconsin and Ohio.

The Illinois victims included an unidentified motorist who was killed when his car was struck by a speeding passenger train at a Chicago crossing during a snowstorm. The conductor of the train died moments later of a heart attack blamed on the crash.

The National Safety Council had predicted 130 traffic deaths for the New Year holiday period which began at 6 p.m. Tuesday and ends at midnight tonight.

The estimate compares with the 80 highway fatalities "normal" for a non-holiday period at this time of year.

The safety council issued a special statement advising that "nature has stacked the cards against the drivers on this New Year's and the best safety device on earth is intelligence."

Deaths in Heartland

Most of the early traffic deaths occurred in the nation's heartland where a snow storm and cold wave got the New Year off to a dismal start.

Readings plunged below zero through much of the Midwest from three to seven inches from sections of northern Missouri across northern Illinois, Wisconsin and into Michigan.

Weathermen warned of hazardouse driving conditions throughout the area today.

Cold wave warnings were issued for Iowa, Missouri, Kansas and eastern Nebraska and Oklahoma.

The inclement weather tamed the New Year's celebration somewhat in the Midwest, but there was no dearth of merrymakers in the East and West.

In New York, the Stork Club boasted its holiday crowd was "bigger than last year," and among the celebrants was former Democratic Party chieftain James A. Farley.

The Latin Quarter was filled to its 600 capacity to top off "one of the biggest years we've had in 20 years." Red Buttons headlined the entertainment.

No Evidence of Recession

"You'd think there was no recession" said an official of the Copacabana as he eyed a capacity house of 600 persons buying "plenty of champagne." Louis Armstrong headed the show.

However, the smaller and more intimate night spots in New York reported business as "fair, but not as good as last year."

In the West, the Ambassador Hotel's Cocoanut Grove in Los Angeles hosted a sell-out crowd of 900 persons, and in Las Vegas, Nev., hundreds of person shelled

Mothers To Visit Sons In Red Prisons

NEW YORK (UP)—Three middle-aged mothers carrying hand-knit wool socks and pictures of the family take off (at 12 noon) today for Communist China to visit their three imprisoned American sons.

"I feel wonderful," said Mrs. Hugh F. Redmond of Yonkers, N. Y. "It will be a happy new year for me."

Mrs. Redmond, Mrs. Mary V. Downey, of New Britain, Conn., her son, William Downey, and Mrs. Philip G. Fecteau of Lynn, Mass., were scheduled to leave Idlewild Airport aboard an American Airlines plane for Los Angeles. There they will board a Pan American World Airways flight for Honolulu and Hong Kong, arriving in the Chinese border port on Monday. Hong Kong time, to begin a two-week visit.

Mrs. Redmond has not seen her only son, Hugh F. Redmond Jr., 38, since 1946 when, a wounded and decorated veteran of World War II, he went to China to work for an export-import firm. He was sentenced to life imprisonment in 1954 as an American spy and is now under house arrest, with two Roman Catholic priests, also American, in Shanghai.

Mrs. Redmond said her son was married in Shanghai to an American girl in 1949. His wife came to the United States in 1950 "when the trouble started" and is now living in Wisconsin, "eagerly waiting" for the husband who was refused an exit visa to follow her home. Mrs. Redmond said. She said Mrs. Lily Redmond had decided against making the trip to see her husband at this time, but she declined to say why.

John Thomas Downey, 27, and Richard George Fecteau, 30, disappeared in 1952 on a flight between Japan and Korea, where they were serving as civilians with the U.S. Army. They were later found to have been captured and were also sentenced as spies, Downey to life imprisonment and Fecteau to 20 years in prison.

The British news agency, Reuters, quoted Fecteau last September as telling a group of visiting American students that he had been an employe of the United States' Central Intelligence Agency, as the Chinese Communists charged.

The three men are among the last six Americans known to be in Red Chinese prisons.

Motorist Pot-Shots 2 In Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (UP)—An unidentified motorist, apparently drunk, drove through the streets of down town Miami early today, taking pot shots at pedestrians with a pistol or rifle. At least two persons were injured.

Terrified witnesses told the Miami homicide bureau the gunman picked his targets at random as he drove slowly through the darkened streets filled with New Year's revelers.

They said he was driving a 1948 dark Buick sedan. They could not tell if the gunman was a man or woman, white or Negro.

The victims were not immediately identified by police, but one was a Negro, shot down while walking home in a Negro district, and the other was white, wounded near the Negro district.

Police said it was possible there were other victims who had been ambushed and fallen unnoticed. Patrol cars searched the area for the gunman's car and possible other victims.

A citywide manhunt was ordered.

Extension Of City Limits Is Discussed

Late action in the meeting of the City Commission yesterday was limited to a discussion of the extension of the city limits to include two blocks of Country Club Heights.

The ordinance to extend the city limits has been held up on final passage by the commission until an agreement on the paving of Harvester along the north side of the addition has been made between the developers and the city.

The addition is located between Browning and Harvester, east of Red Deer and the developers, White House Lumber Co., have requested that the two blocks on the east side of Red Deer be brought into the city.

A decision on the addition is expected from the commission at next Tuesday's meeting.

If it comes from a Hardware Store, we have it, Lewis Hardware.

To Southwest's Economy

Drought's End Significant In 1957

DALLAS (UP)— The end of the drought was probably the outstanding event in the Southwest's economy during 1957, and it meant almost as much to the city dweller as to the farmer and rancher, the Federal Reserve Bank said today.

The spring rains, which filled reservoirs, eliminated the necessity of rationing in many cities and provided sufficient water for industrial purposes, the FRB said in its year-end report.

For the farmer and rancher, it meant improved crops and pastures. The heavy rains — which almost became a liability instead of an asset — also put water so deeply into the ground that subsoil moisture was built up. This will especially be good for winter wheat in the 1957-58 season.

District Includes

The 11th District of the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas includes all of Texas and parts of Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

The Southwest's economy should be better than the nation as a whole during 1958 the Federal Reserve Bank said, but everything was not rosy.

The oil situation is one of the dark clouds on the horizon. An oversupply of oil has brought about a "sharp deterioration of supply and demand relationships in the petroleum industry."

This oil situation will be one of the problems during the coming year. Other problems "appear to center on a lower level of activity in durable goods industries" and reduced new industrial construction. This may possibly be offset, however, by increased residential building and gains in consumer and government expenditures.

Ample Evidence

"Economic conditions in 1957 in the Southwest offered ample evidence of the benefits of a diversified economy, as strength in some sectors clearly outweighed declines in others," the bank said.

"At the close of the year, the Southwestern economy appeared to be operating at an advanced level, although some margin of unused capacity had developed, particularly in durable goods."

Of equal importance as the water and oil situations, although not so highly publicized, were the increases in personal income, employment and consumer demand.

"Industrial activity remained strong during the first three months of the year. Construction activity gained strength most of the year, particularly in school, public works, and highway building, while capital investment in the Southwestern area failed to keep pace with the levels of investments in the previous two yars," the FRB said.

Red Skelton's Condition 'Satisfactory'

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UP) — Comedian Red Skelton greeted the New Year today from his bed at St. John's Hospital where he rallied from the shadow of death following a severe "cardiac-asthmatic" attack.

Hospital attendants reported that the famous redhead was in satisfactory condition and said he was able to "joke a little." He was stricken Monday night at his Bel-Air home.

Skelton's wife, Georgia, visited the comic Tuesday night on the eve of the New Year but then went home to be with their children, leaving her husband resting comfortably.

The couple's nine-year-old son, Richard, is suffering from leukemia and Mrs. Skelton said he needed her care. There were reports that the Skeltons received disturbing news about their son's condition shortly before Skelton's seizure.

The comedian was reading a script for a coming program when he was stricken. His 10-year-old daughter, Valentina, found him on the floor gasping for air.

Unconscious — his lungs filling with fluid — Skelton was rushed to the hospital and placed under an oxygen tent. He showed rapid improvement and was resting quietly a few hours after reaching the hospital.

Dr. Garth K. Graham, the 43-year-old entertainer physician, said that Skelton was "one step" away from death when his daughter found him.

After tests Tuesday, Dr. Graham said there was "absolutely no suggestion of coronary thrombosis." He said that Skelton had suffered from asthma for years.

Cold Covers State

By UNITED PRESS

Cold weather covered the entire state today, but forecasters said temperautres will begin a gradual warmup Thursday.

A Canadian cold front blew through the state Tuesday and on out into the Gulf of Mexico Tuesday night. It set off light to heavy rains as it moved through the state and dropped temperatures down to 14 degrees at Dalhart and Salt Flat. Laredo and Galveston reported the warmest overnight readings each with 44 degrees.

Skies were partly cloudy to cloudy along the coast and in the lower Rio Grande Valley today and clear over the rest of the state. The clear to partly cloudy weather will continue through tomorrow.

The heaviest rainfall reported in the state for the 24 hours ended at 6 a.m. today was 1.02 inches at Brownsville in the southernmost tip of Texas.

Other rainfall reports included Kingsville .85, Beeville .80, Corpus Christi .75, Cotulla .52, Laredo .48, Victoria .47, Palacios .34, Galveston .24, Texarkana .19 and lesser amounts at Beaumont, Houston, Lufkin, and College Station.

Low overnight readings around the state early today included Lubbock 18, Wink 19, Midland 20, Amarillo and Childress 21, San Angelo 22, El Paso and Wichita Falls 23.

Roberts County Livestock Show Saturday

(Special to The News)

MIAMI — Roberts County's tenth Annual Junior Livestock Show will be held in Miami Jan. 4, at the former White House Lumber Yard from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at which time C. J. VanZant of Mobeetie will judge the show.

This show is sponsored by the Men's Service Club, which will award cash prizes and ribbons. Other prizes will be awarded by Miami merchants.

Five 4-H boys, Paul and Alan Thompson, Russell Maddox, Bill Breeding, and Randy Day, will show ten calves. In the past year, Roberts County boys have shown calves at Fort Worth, Houston, Amarilo, San Antonio, Pampa, the State Fair in Dallas and San Angelo. County Agent Victor Joyner is the 4-H Club Adfisor.

Seven FFA boys, Jerry Roberson, Larry Rogers, Henry Turner, John South, Robert Shaw, Terry Cill and Sam Harris, will show nine pigs which will be Black Poland China, Chester White, Berkshires, and Hampshires. Founder Of Houston Paper Dies Tuesday

DALLAS (UP) — Charles A. Myers, a pioneer newspaperman who founded the Houston Chronicle, died in a Dallas hospital Tuesday at the age of 79.

During World War II, Myers served briefly as Office of Price Administration Rent Director for the Dallas district.

Funeral services are scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Thursday in the Sparkman-Brand chapel in Dallas. Burial will be in Hillcrest Memorial Park.

During his news career, which began in 1901 in Texas, Myers owned or had interests in papers in Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth and Shreveport.

Other Interests

He also had varied other business interests, but was known chiefly for his ability as an organizer and stabilizer of newspaper properties. It was this ability that resulted in his being called on in 1917 to reorganize the New York Evening Mail. He did the job in two years and returned to Texas.

Myers, who lived in Dallas at the time of his death, began his news career in Texas when he and Marcellus E. Foster founded the Houston Chronicle. The late Jesse H. Jones later obtained an interest in the paper and eventually became sole owner.

NEW YEAR

out $25 each at "strip" hotels to see Betty Grable, Joe E. Lewis, Judy Garland, Harry Bellafonte, Donald O'Connor, Sammy Davis Jr., and Dorothy Kirsten.

While millions of Americans greeted the New Year in night clubs and corner taverns, others welcomed 1958 with devotions at church, including all-night watch services in many cities.

Foremost in the minds of many persons was the international race for the conquest of space. The old year saw the first step toward that goal with Russia's launching of two earth satellites. And 1958 promised even more dramatic space developments.

Police forces throughout the nation, however, were concerned with a more down-to-earth problem — holding down the traffic death toll.

Police Leaves Cancelled

Police leaves in many states and cities were cancelled in order to marshal as many men as possible in the fight against highway slaughter.

Denver police were ordered to crack down on "moderate" drinkers on the theory they caused the most traffic accidents. Authorities in Peoria, Ill., offered free taxi service to drinking drivers.

The nation's first family, President and Mrs. Eisenhower, spent their New Year's Eve holiday like many of their fellow Americans, with a quite gathering of old friends at their Gettysburg, Pa., farm home.

in which the administration will attempt to relieve the anxiety of Congress and the voters about the suppressed Gaither Report on national defense. It will be an effort to persuade the people that the report did not say that the Communists easily could blast the United States back to the Dark Ages because U.S. defenses have lagged and Communist weapons have burgeoned.

Band Will Blare

The circus band will play and on the high wire the administration will put on its 1958 spectacular the effort to balance a Sputnik era budget without recourse to higher taxes in an election year.

Best of all the Democratic acts scheduled for the new Congress is a juggling number by contortionists. It will be in pantomime to explain how to reduce agricultural surpluses by greatly increasing price supports to high rigid levels which, inevitably, will persuade farmers to increase production of surplus crops.

Another good spectacular will be billed simply as "labor." The script and action are not perfected but it should be a dilly. It is possible that it will deal with a situation created by recent legal action in which it was found that spending union money on political occasions with great political impact was not against the law which forbids spending union money for political purposes.

And there will be clowns, scores, maybe hundreds of them.

Mousenik Project Is Protested

AUSTIN, Minn. (UP) — Eleven high school boys and a Roman Catholic nun today faced a possible court injunction that would take the mouse out of their "mousenik" rocket project.

The Humane Society in Washington said Tuesday it would seek a court injunction to prohibit use of mice and other animals in rockets launched by the group which calls itself the Austin Rocket Society.

The young rocketeers, coached by Sister Duns Scotus of the St. Francis Order, Tuesday fired a mousenik successfuly 800 feet in the air — but with an artificial mouse.

The boys were able to bring their rider back "alive" when a parachute mechanism worked perfectly. They were not as fortunate Sunday when the "mousenik" carrying a live white mouse named "Ulysses" fizzled on its launching pad.

The Humane Society said its order would be directed at the boys, their parents, and Sister Duns Scotus. A spokesman said a Minnesota lawyer had been retained to seek the injunction.

Meanwhile, the boys, who had expected their artificial mousenik to soar to a height of 2,000 or 3,000 feet Tuesday, planned another launching Sunday with a live mouse aboard.

The boys decided a pipe which split at about 400 feet was the only flaw in their rocket. With that problem solved, their mousenik should zoom into space and if all goes well a live mouse will parachute back to earth.

Financial Status Of Firm To Be Investigated

DALLAS (UP) — A court of inquiry will be held here Thursday to investigate the financial status of Texas Portland Cement Co. of Orange, Dist. Atty. Henry Wade revealed Tuesday.

The hearing will be at 10 a.m. in the court of Justice of the Peace Glenn Byrd.

The chief witness was expected to be James Knott, former secretary-treasurer of the company, who resigned last month.

Wade said in a prepared statement that a preliminary investigation made by his office showed that 400,000 shares of stock in the company had gone to officers for services rendered and with no cash involved.

Wade said the hearing was prompted by phone calls from numerous small stockholders in the Dallas area to investigate the company, which was incorporated in May, 1955, and began producing cement in April, 1957.

Man Fined On Property Charge

J. A. Parker, Pampa, pleaded guilty to a charge of destroying private property yesterday afternoon in Gray County Court. The charges had been filed by Elizabeth Parker, Pampa.

Parker was fined $25 plus court costs and made restitution for the damaged property.

LOYD WATERS ... Saturday Speaker | ROBERT WARREN ... Friday Speaker | FRANK SNOW ... Thursday Speaker

Pampa Youth For Christ Schedule Youth Revival

A youth revival sponsored by the Pampa Youth for Christ will be held Jan. 2-4 at 7:30 p.m. each night at the Central Baptist Church.

Members of the Pampa Youth for Christ council who will speak are: Robert Warren, Thursday night; Frank Snow, Friday night; and Loyd Waters, Saturday night.

Special music on Thursday night will feature the Chapel Choir of the First Baptist Church, conducted by Joe Whitten, and hymns sung by the Miliron Trio, composed of Marilyn Myatt, Barbara Lunsford and Nancy Stevenson. The special music will feature different groups each night. Pampans were urged by the council to attend the revival meetings.

Recent projects of the Pampa Youth for Christ have been Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets for needy families of Pampa and a Christmas service and fellowship at the Hobart Street Baptist Church where Brother Jonah Parker of the Macedonia Baptist Church was the main speaker.

El Paso Gas Rate Raise OK'd

WASHINGTON (UP) — El Paso Natural Gas Co. today has permission to raise its wholesale rates about $16,500,000 on the condition that it file a bond assuring refund of any amounts later disallowed.

The Federal Power Commission granted the permission to the El Paso, Tex., firm Tuesday. Last July the FPC suspended the proposed increase and ordered a hearing. According to law, suspensions cannot last longer than five months, and the El Paso company asked that the rates take effect Jan. 1.

The FPC has not yet ruled on the company's request for an increase. The upgraded prices would affect 28 wholesale customers in Arizona, California, New Mexico, Nevada and Texas.

Ike Gives Texan Appointment

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UP) — President Eisenhower has named Malcolm R. Wilkey of Houston, Tex., assistant attorney general in charge of the office of legal counsel at the Justice Department.

Wilkey has served as federal district attorney for southern Texas since 1954 and resigned to accept the new position announced Tuesday. Wilkey succeeds W. Wilson White who was recently named as assistant attorney general in charge of the newly created Civil Rights Division. His appointment is subject to Senate confirmation.

Houston attorney William B. Butler was given a recess appointment to succeed Wilkey as district attorney. Both Butler, a former FBI agent, and Wilkey are Republicans.

Education: Eisenhower has twice taken a licking on federal aid to build schools. Now he's back with a plan for federal scholarships, and other aids to train more of the scientists we need in the contest with Russia. (Sputnik again.) The senators so far seem more amenable to this than the House.

Statehood: This plan will be dangled, as usual, before Hawaii and Alaska. As usual, it will be snatched away in the nick of time to prevent passage. However, this won't be done without due consideration. One or more inspection groups will certainly make an on-the-spot study at sunny Waikiki, probably sometime near Easter. Alaska they will turn down without even looking.

Khrushchev Boosts Party Domination

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

Nikita S. Khrushchev is strengthening Communist Party domination of all Russian governmental, military and economic affairs.

At the same time, Khrushchev is strengthening his own personal authority as first secretary of the party in control of its machinery.

The operation has been in progress for several weeks. It has been marked by a number of transfers of government and party officials and by increased emphasis on the role of the Communist Party as the supreme power over all aspects of administration in the Soviet Union.

The effect is to restore the situation which existed between the death of Josef Stalin in 1953 and Khrushchev's sensational denunciation of Stalin in February, 1956.

No Stalin-era Restoration

It cannot be said that the Stalin-era situation has been restored. Stalin made himself the sole authority in the government, the armed forces, economic affairs and the party itself.

Khrushchev is making the central committee of the party and its ruling presidium the supreme authority.

Of course, Khrushchev is at the head of the committee and the presidium. And it appears that his position is unchallenged. But there is no sign that he either wants to be or could be a dictator like Stalin.

The increasing authority given the Communist Party is a confession that Khrushchev's attempt to liberalize Russian life after his denunciation of Stalin was a failure.

Liberalism Can Be Dangerous

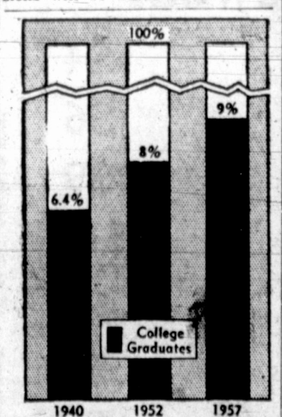

Even a little liberalism can be dangerous in a country like Russia. First intellectuals and workers got too enthusiastic over the loosening up of the dictatorship. Then Georgi K. Zhukov, made defense minister and restored to his one-time status of Russia's No. 1 war hero, got obstreperous. He wanted no Communist Party interference with his direction of the armed forces, even though he had been a Communist since his youth.

Now, since Zhukov has been ousted, the armed forces are being subjected to strict party control, and Communist indoctrination of officers and men is being intensified.

The newspaper Red Star, organ of the Soviet ministry of defense, disclosed recently that officers, from generals and admirals down, had been directed to devote at least 50 hours a year to political courses — lectures on communist party history and doctrine. These lectures are to be supplemented by home study.

WASHINGTON — Adm. Jerauld Wright on a report that the Defense Department was going ahead on a project to develop a nuclear-powered airplane:

"We can't say when any decisions will be made on it."

EDUCATIONAL LEVEL UP —Figures recently released by the Census Bureau survey show that the educational standard of the American worker continued to advance during the past five years. At the time of the survey, last March, the average worker had finished 12 years of school, compared with 11 years in 1952 and nine years in 1940. The percentage of college graduates (see Newschart), among workers aged 18 to 64, reached a new high.

Garrison Commands Rangers

AUSTIN (UP) — Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Department of Public Safety, again has assumed direct command of the Texas Rangers, it was announced.

The Public Safety Commission revoked a policy adopted Sept. 1 which placed the Rangers under regional commanders.

Several legislative protests, particularly from the Senate, followed the September reorganization.

W. E. Dyche, chairman of the Public Safety Commission, said because of the "unique nature of the . . . Ranger force, a unit of only 51 officers charged with the responsibility of statewide criminal law enforcement, this change to a single command is essential.

"After a period of trial, the commission feels the reorganization of the Department of Public Safety, with this exception, accomplishes the objectives of rendering a more efficient service to the people of Texas," he added.

LONDON — English newspaper correspondent Patrick O'Donovan in relating his experiences as a Christmas guest in the village of Stone Ridge, N.Y.:

"No one mentioned Mr. Dulles, or the War of 1812, or thought it anything but entertaining to meet a foreigner, or complained about the taxes or agonized over Socialism. There are people who dislike Americans. . .They should come here (Stone Ridge) in winter time."

MOSCOW — A. Glagonravov, one of the Soviet's chief earth satellite scientists, in summing up Russia's scientific achievements in 1957:

"The future of Soviet science is closely tied with the conquest of the cosmos. As Tsiulkovsky (a 19th Century Russian scientist) predicted, Soviet man will become a citizen of the universe."

Knack To Washing Winter's Woolens To Maintain Their Bright Fluffiness

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

Drawers and closets are beginning to fill up with the bright, colored plumage of winter sportswear.

Vivid, knitted caps, sweaters, scarves and mittens add warmth and color to winter's neutral landscape. Other mothers share my discovery that a brilliant accessory or two added to a little snowbird's outfit makes it easier to keep track of our chick in a covey of children all bundled to their chins.

The practical matter of maintaining the showy sportswear usually falls to the homemaker. Knitted wools or blends insulate against the cold more efficiently when they are clean and fluffy.

When the fibers begin to mat or soil, it's time to wash the garment or have it dry-cleaned. Most of today's wool knits can be safely laundered in cool or lukewarm water by using either special or ordinary detergents. Avoid hot water and severe scrubbing or agitation; dry carefully.

Shape of things to come after they're washed is insured by stuffing gloves with tissue, tam with a plate and knitted cap with a balloon.

All bright - colored or dark items should be hand-washed and rinsed repeatedly on their first washing to flush away excess dye and "establish" the color.

In multicolored designs, such as Scandinavian-type sweaters, practice of a few precautions during the drying time will help avoid "contact" dye stains.

Stuff sweaters with a turkish towel to keep back and front separated and to hasten drying.

Stuff each sleeve with a small towel. Tissue paper stuffing can be used in small mittens or caps.

All knitwear should be blotted in a towel after washing. Lay wool sweaters flat for drying away from heat; blends of manmade fibres and wool may be hung up to dry if the synthetic fibers predominate.

Drying frames are not essential, but they are a help, especially for socks.

The heavy ribbing of turtlenecks, waistbands and cuffs tends to stretch from wear. To restore the snug fit, baste along the ribbing, using a blunt needle and heavy thread of a contrasting color to that of the ribbing.

Draw up the thread to shape to the proper size, tie and then launder. When the sweater is dry, snip the drawstring and pull it out.

Caps and berets or tams can be dried to shape. Slip a tam over a plate; use an inverted bowl or a balloon inflated to headsize for caps.

When washing water - repellent "shells" made to go over knit mittens, be sure to rinse out all the suds. They act as a wetting agent if left in the fabric. The same caution holds true for other washable, water-repellent garments.

Mufflers that come in close contact with face, neck and mouth will require frequent laundering, too. If they are super-long, to avoid stretching hang them lenthwise on one line to dry.

Medical Nurses Have Yule Fete

(Special to The News)

LEFORS — The medical nurses of Highland General Hospital held their annual Christmas party with a covered dish supper Tuesday Night in the civic center.

Those present were Mmes. Edna Spinks, Delois Silvey, Siyble Cash, Humphreys, Beulah Wells, Barbara Walling, Beverley Russell, L. Young Adult Class Gives To Nursery

(Special to The News)

LEFORS — Groceries were given by the Young Adult Class of the Lefors Methodist Church for the benefit of the Community Day Nursery in Pampa, instead of the usual gift exchange at their Christmas Party held Monday night, in Fellowship hall.

Guests arriving early engaged sang Christmas carols, after which games consisting of "Bible Names," "Toothpick game," "Coolie," "Tick-Tack-Dough," and contests were led by Mr. Raymond Barnes.

Those present were Mmes. L. R. Spence, Ruth Mayberry, Wanda Williams, D. D. Willis, Raymond Barnes, and Messrs. and Mmes. Jim Hall, James Jinks, Wesley Daniel, Bill Tell, Bill McBee, and Otis Parker.

Makes Friends Manners

If you have accepted an invitation to a large affair, and find at the last minute that you can not go, wait until the next day to telephone your hostess offering your apologies.

She will be so busy right before the party and during it that she would probably much rather hear from you the next day.

New Mascara For Pretty Eye Appeal

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Mascara does something for a girl's eyes, no doubt about it. But one thing it shouldn't do is smear or slide down her face.

It should also be easy to apply. It should go onto the lashes neatly, quickly and with a minimum of fuss. But usually, it doesn't. The bruss pokes into one eye, the stuff collects in gobs and gets all over the fingertips.

Knowing this, one famed beauty expert has developed an automatic mascara applicator that looks like a lightweight, slender gold-colored fountain pen. It projects just enough mascara for one applicaton, then reloads automatically for the next use.

Because it is in pencil form, it colors, curls and waterproofs the lashes all at once, the maker claims. It comes in black, brown, royal blue, emerald green and navy blue so that a girl can match her eyeshadow if she likes.

These are days when no girl need feel apologetic about using eye make-up. Like lipstick, it's socially acceptable.

Guarding Angels!

These beautiful musical angel motifs are easy to embroider on a child's crib cover or as panels for the nursery wall. No matter which way you embroider them, they are sure to watch over your little one during day or night.

Pattern No. 5527 contains hot-iron transfer for 6 motifs; material requirements; color chart.

Send 25 cents in COINS, your name, address and the PATTERN NUMBER to ANNE CABOT, Pampa Daily News, 372 W. Quincy St., Chicago 6, Illinois.

Have you a copy of our 1957 Needlework ALBUM? It contains fifty-six colorful pages showing many pretty designs; plus directions for making 3 crochet items

Versatile cosmetics do much to enhance a woman's features. However, only plenty of rest, proper foods and exercise will give you a basically healthy skin.

A Dessert for the Holidays

With fruits at their plentiful best in the fall season can you think of a better after-dinner dessert than a cool, tart salad made of mixed fruits and topped with a piquant dressing.

Citrus fruits are plentiful, and so are bananas. The large juicy grapes that flood your mouth with a cooling tartness make a happy addition. You can add other ingredients like avocado, salad greens, walnut halves or even some canned or frozen whole fruits.

But it's the savor of the dressing which will really capture the fancy of your guests or family. This is a famous dressing from a celebrated chef whose name cannot be revealed. But when you taste it you'll know that it's a master blend of spicy ingredients which endows your salad—any salad—with a tongue-tingling rapture.

MANHATTAN FRUIT SALAD

½ cup RealLemon
1 tablespoon sugar
3 large oranges, peeled and cut into sections
2 bananas, peeled and sliced
1 avocado, peeled and cut into wedges
16 black grapes
Salad Greens
Walnut halves

In a bowl, combine RealLemon and sugar. Add fruits; toss lightly and chill. Arrange chilled fruit on crisp salad greens. Sprinkle with walnut halves and serve with your favorite fruit salad dressing. Makes 4 servings.

PIQUANT REALEMON DRESSING

½ cup salad oil
½ cup RealLemon
1 teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley
1 teaspoon chopped pimiento
1 teaspoon chopped green pepper

In a jar, combine all ingredients; shake until thoroughly blended. Chill. Makes about ¾ cup.

Master Point Night Played By PD Club

Pampa Duplicate Bridge Club met for Master Point Play in the basement of the Episcopal Parish Church on Monday evening with seven tables playing a Howell Movement.

Taking top honors in the north-south positions were Mrs. Greeley Warner and Mrs. Frank Roach, first; second were Mr. Greeley Warner and Mrs. Jack Merchant; third were Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Richmond.

Placing high in the east - west positions were Mrs. W. L. Loving and Mrs. Louis Burns; second, Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Rowe; and third, Mrs. Harold Gregory and Mrs. Joe Rowell.

The bridge club will resume its meeting place in the Parish Hall, 727 W. Browning next Monday night at 7:30 and cordially invites the public to play with them. It was also announced by Mrs. G. F. Richmond, publicity chairman, that dues will be payable at the next meeting.

Blooming in the stores already are brilliant rose-printed shoes. Nice for wear now or later, with dark blue silks.

Wayside Members Have Yule Fete

The annual Christmas party for the Wayside Club was held in the home of Mrs. J. T. Rogers recently with 20 members attending.

Mrs. J. S. Fuqua conducted the business meeting during which, a report was read concerning the Christmas box, which the club had sent to Boys' Ranch.

Games were played and gifts were exchanged.

Hostesess for the party were Mmes. J. T. Rogers, Jack Osborne and Virginia Horton.

Members attending were Mmes. Andy Smith, T. B. Rogers, Skeet Rogers, Alvin Reeves, A. B. Caruth, W. R. Dunn, Paul Caylor, Homer Taylor, J. S. Fuqua, H. B. Taylor, Jack Sloan, Clint Caylor, Hunky Greene, J. L. Chase, W. F. Taylor and Wood Osborne.

SPENDING RISES IN '57—The lines showing disposable income and expenditures ran almost parallel during 1957, indicating the rate of spending just about kept pace with the rate of income increase. Americans spent about a fourth of their income for food, much of it for higher cost of services connected with food.

'57 Big For TV, Worrisome For Movies, Busy For Stars

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—The year 1957 was big for TV, worrisome for movies, and busy for the stars who trouped the world keeping their names and faces before the public.

Some made headlines by getting married.

Marlon Brando startled Hollywood with his surprise trip to the altar with Anna Kashfi (Joanne O'Callaghan?). Bing Crosby's May-December nuptials with Kathy Grant raised numerous eyebrows.

Also wed during the year were Susan Hayward and attorney Eaton Chalkley; Natalie Wood and Robert Wagner; Sophia Loren and Carlo Ponti; Shelley Winters and Anthony Franciosa; Henry Fonda and Italian baroness Afdera Franchetti; Rex Harrison and Kay Kendall; and Merle Oberon and Mexican industrialist Bruno Pagliai.

Bad Teamwork Year

Separations, marital and otherwise, also made news. It was a rugged year for teams. Martin and Lewis broke up as well as Abbott and Costello. The Liberace brothers, Smiley and George, went their separate ways.

Marriages hit the rocks. Rock Hudson and Phyllis Gates saw their lawyers, as did Esther Williams and Ben Gage. Among other shattered marriages were the Jeff Chandlers, Ginger Rogers and Jacques Bergerac, Ingrid and Rossellini; Lana Turner and Lex Barker.

Also shedding mates were Mickey Rooney, Gene Kelly and Diana Dors.

Kim Novak gave the wolf pack hope by splitting with long-time boyfriend Mac Krim. Maybe she couldn't take the name Kim Krim.

It was a bumper year for babies. Gale Storm, Rosemary Clooney, Elizabeth Taylor, Mrs. Jackie Cooper, Gina Lollobrigida, Pier Angeli, Yvonne DeCarlo, Ann Blyth, Vera Miles and Mrs. John Kerr all welcomed newcomers.

Sorrow, Death, Scandal

Marilyn Monroe lost her expected baby.

Death took its toll among TV and film folk, too.

Louis B. Mayer, one of Hollywood's great pioneers, died during the year. Humphrey Bogart, Oliver Hardy, Louis Calhern, Norma Talmadge, William Eythe, and character actor Gene Lockhart also met death.

Biggest news from Hollywood in 1957 was the Confidential magazine scandal trial which rocked the town. The trial, however, did not live up to advance notices as only two stars — Maureen O'Hara and Dorothy Dandridge—appeared in court.

Marie McDonald caused an uproar when she allegedly was kidnapped and abandoned on the Mojave Desert.

Jayne Mansfield broke innumerable hearts by announcing her engagement to muscleman Mickey Hargitay. Rita Hayworth admitted she plans to marry producer James Hill. And Zsa Zsa Gabor managed not to become engaged to anyone.

Most significant news of 1957 was Desi Arnaz' purchase of RKO studios to make video films. The handwriting was on the studio walls—it read, "Look out for TV in 1958."

AWOL Sgt. Writes 'Credo' In Explanation

EDITOR'S NOTE: Air Force Sgt. David E. Dwyer, 43, went AWOL from his Pentagon job last month to seek a desert paradise in Arizona. On Dec. 16 he and his wife Emily gave themselves up to the FBI in Phoenix, Ariz. Back at his job here while the Air Force decides what to do about him, Sgt. Dwyer wrote the following "credo" to explain his "affinity for the wilderness."

By SGT. DAVID E. DWYER

WASHINGTON (UP)—For quite some time I have been the object of comment, public and private, and finally it has been noted in the press that I am to be the object of a "psychiatric" test.

While I have accepted the many comments and questions passively, I feel now that a need exists to point out certain fallacies in the concept of normalcy as generally accepted.

People group themselves into because man feels the need of other men around him and at the same time he hires police officers to protect himself against his fellow men.

Dwyer Refers

It appears to me that man has deviated from the normalcy in which his god created him. One might refer to it as a universal aberration in which man may inadvertently commit suicide.

Man contemplates the spiritual aspect of his being in a structure safe from the sounds of wind and rain. He does this by the calendar and clock, thus satisfying the regimented needs of his soul.

Did Christ worship in this manner at Gethsemane?

Does modern man search for the love and strength of his creator, alone, under the vast and infinite majesty of God's open sky?

Man Creates

Man created his own wilderness of self, and he has created the means of destroying himself.

Does he have the fortitude to escape this wilderness for a single month, or week, and within gun, search for the world that was made by his God — the world of beautiful and magical sights and sounds?

In event of some final war, is he personally prepared to survive without his environment of concrete and automobiles?

What has happened to his pioneer spirit that made our country great?

Houston Has Its Worst Murder Record In History

HOUSTON (UP)— Houston is finishing 1957 with its worst murder record in its history—135.

The new all-time murder record for "Murdertown, U.S.A." was set Sunday night in a fashion fitting to its reputation—a Brownsville man — Antonio Rich, 30 — shot down in a tavern because of an imagined insult.

Rich died under the gun of a total stranger, over a remark that witnesses said was made about somebody else — if it were made at all.

The 135th murder of 1957 in Houston topped the previous mark of 134 that first brought the "Murdertown" title in 1952.

Rich was in Houston to visit his mother.

Raymond Zapata, 47, a welder, was charged with the murder of Rich.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. — Mrs. John E. Doot Jr., commenting on the eating habits of her two-year-old son who had just returned from the hospital where he was treated for eating pins, pills and shaving lotion:

"John's not a fussy eater; he doesn't eat much but just about everything."

DETROIT — Former Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson in denying he trimmed military spending in the 1958 fiscal budget:

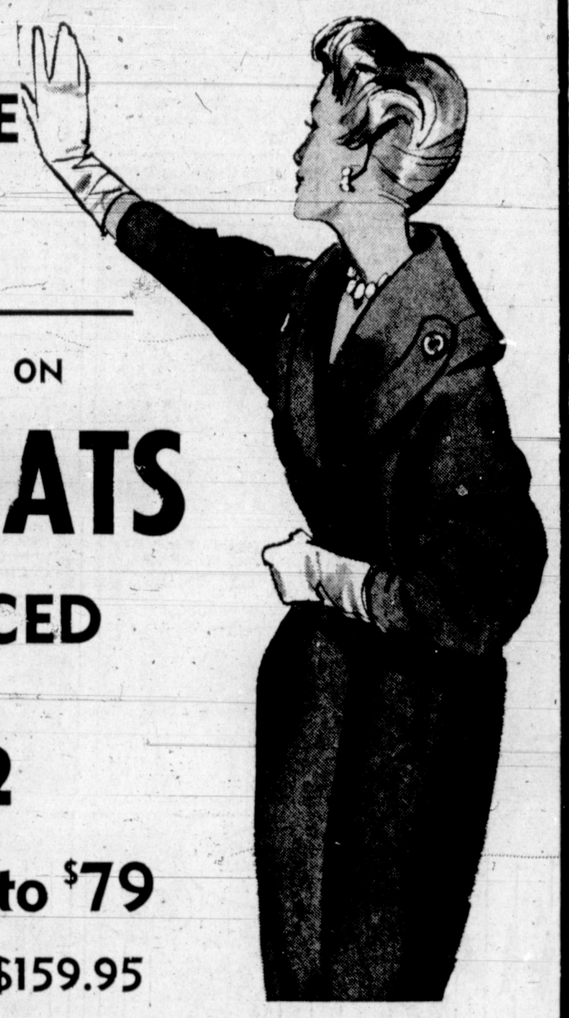

"That's a lot of poppycock. I believe in balancing the budget but I believe in taxing people to pay the way."

Harvesters Club Elk City, 82-59

Next Game Slated Friday In Home Encounter With Phillips

Pampa's Harvesters kept their winning streak alive last night as they handily walked over the Elk City, Okla., Elks, 82-59, to mark their 12th consecutive victory of the season.

Scoring 21 points in each of the first three quarters, the Harvesters never trailed during the entire game. The Elks came closest to the Pampa quintet at the end of the initial quarter when the score stood at 21-17. At halftime the margin had widened to 42-26 and going into the final quarter the Harvesters led 63-42.

In the first meeting between the two teams, the Pampa five took the victory, 95-82.

Center Mack Layne led the Harvester scorers for the evening with a total of 21 points, tossing nine field goals and three free throws. Ranking second to Layne was Ray Stephenson with 17 points and Bill Brown with 13 points.

For the Oklahomans, Max Savage led his team and also gained high-point man for the night with 23 points, followed by Ferrell Johnson with 11 points and Frank Marburger with nine points.

In team scoring, the victory moved the Pampa total for the season to 966 points, averaging 74 points per game.

Next game slated for Pampa will be Friday night when the Harvesters will host the Phillips Blackhawks in Harvester Field House at 8 p.m. Following the Phillips game Pampa will open District 3-AAAA action on Jan. 7 when they host the Amarillo Sandies.

Boys Cage Programs Resume

The Kiwanis Club boys basketball program gets underway again tomorrow evening as all school gymnasiums will be open from 6:30 to 9.

Conducted for boys in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades, the gyms will have adequate sponsors for the boys, aided by the Pampa basketball coaches.

Beginning in the near future a program of inter-school play will begin, pairing separate grades in officiated games. Boys may attend either the closest school to their residence or the school of their regular attendance.

In addition to Thursday evenings, the programs are conducted each Saturday morning in all gymnasiums from 9:30 until 12.

All boys interested are invited to attend.

Folley Slated For Sawyer

WASHINGTON (UP) — Heavyweight Zora Folley, a whopping 4 to 1 favorite who is hoping for a title shot this year, will be after his 17th straight victory tonight victory tonight when he faces Garvin Sawyer of Cincinnati in a nationally-televised 10-round bout.

Folley is a hard-punching 26-year-old from Chandler, Ariz., who has not lost a bout in more than two years and is ranked second among the heavyweights.

He had a banner year in 1957, scoring 10 victories in a row, including six knockouts. The last time he was beaten was on Dec. 1, 1955 when Jack Johnson stopped him in the fifth round. His only other loss in 40 bouts also took place in 1955 when he was knocked out by Johnny Summerlin.

Sawyer, 22, has not had nearly as much experience as Folley. A former national AAU and International Golden Gloves heavyweight champion, the young Cincinnati boxer has fought professionally only 17 times. He won 13 of those bouts and lost four.

During the year just ended, Sawyer won four bouts and lost three but he has been improving rapidly under the handling of manager Tom Tannas and advisor Jersey Joe Walcott.

Up to now, Sawyer has been concentrating on body punching and undoubtedly will stick to that style in tonight's televised (ABC) bout at the New Capital Arena since Folley doesn't especially like that type of attack.

In addition to the advnatage Folley will have in experience, he also probably will have a five-pound pull in the weights. Folley weighed 194 pounds in his last start while Sawyer checked in at 188½.

Redwings Climb To Fourth

By UNITED PRESS

Slowly but surely the Detroit Red Wings are climbing back into contention in the National Hockey League, and an old hand, Gordie Howe, is leading the way.

Howe fired home a pair of goals Tuesday night to pace the Red Wings to a 3-2 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks that moved them into a fourth-place tie with Toronto.

Howe's second goal of the game, which proved the winner, came at 10:47 of the final period and drew the loudest ovation of the season at Olympia. Forbes Kennedy registered Detroit's other goal.

Eddie Kachur and Pierre Pilotte each scored his first goal of the season for the last-place Black Hawks.

The victory kept alive the Red Wings' six-game unbeaten streak on home ice.

It was the only game scheduled Tuesday night.

Forty-Niners Sign Players

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)— The San Francisco Forty Niners Tuesday announced signing three college seniors, including Charley Krueger, Texas A&M tackle, who was elected to the United Press All-America second team this year.

Others signed by the professional football league were end Fred Dugan of the University of Dayton, who caught a touchdown pass for the East in the annual East-West Shrine game, and Charley Brueckman, University of Pittsburgh center and line backer who also played in the Shrine contest.

Brueckman placed on the United Press All-America third team and Dugan received honorable mention.

Krueger, whose home is Caldwell, Tex., is 6-foot-4 and weighs 230. He was a 1957 draft choice of the Forty Niners. Dugan and Brueckman were picked last year but both had another year of college play.

Florida Takes Gator Bowl Cage Tourney Title For Third Time

College Basketball Roundup
By UNITED PRESS

While most everyone else was out making merry on New Year's Eve, Florida's basketball team was busy making the necessary shots to earn it the Gator Bowl Tournament championship for the third time.

Joe Hobbs was the key man in Florida's 76-53 victory over Georgia at Jacksonville, Fla., Tuesday night, scoring 24 points that enabled the Floridians to avenge a 66-60 defeat at the hands of the Bulldogs earlier this season.

In a consolation game, Clemson jumped to an early lead and then coasted to an 85-65 triumph over South Carolina. Vince Yockel paced Clemson with 26 points while Bob Frantz was high man for South Carolina with 20 points.

Notre Dame made good on eight free throws in the closing minutes to lick Northwestern, 71-66, at Evanston, Ill.

The Wildcats trailed by 15 points at intermission but battled back to tie the score and then go ahead, 62-61, with less than five minutes remaining. With time running out, however, Northwestern pressed and fouled repeatedly and Notre Dame capitalized on the free throws in the last three minutes to clinch the game.

Center Joe Ruklick of Northwestern was individual high scorer with 22 points. John McCarthy led the Irish with 19 points.

Junior Tennis Finals

MIAMI BEACH (UP) — Blond Chris Crawford, net rushing artist from Piedmont, Calif., and Brazil's Maria Esther Bueno today shared top honors in the 11th annual Orange Bowl junior tennis championships.

Crawford staged his second upset in two days Tuesday when he ran up a five-set victory over favored Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, winning the No. 1 singles title, 3-6, 3-6, 6-2, 6-2, 6-3.

Miss Bueno, considered a leading future Wimbledon threat, defeated Gwyneth Thomas of Shaker Heights, Ohio, the second ranked U.S. Junior girl, 6-4, 7-5, for the Girls Junior Singles crown.

After losing the first two sets, Crawford made a strong comeback against second-seeded Buchholz, and rallied again with a fast net game to win the deciding fifth set. The day before, Crawford knocked off top-seeded Robert Delgado of Los Angeles in the semi-finals.

Mike Neely of Atlanta and Frances Farrar of Palm Beach, Fla., won the 15 and under boys and girls division titles. Neely defeated Francisco Castillo of Hamtramck, Mich., 6-4, 6-0. Miss Farrar turned back Cindy Golbert of San Juan, Puerto Rico, 6-3, 6-1.

In the 13 and under divisions, Charles Pasarell of San Juan, Puerto Rico, defeated Alfredo Alvarez of Mexico City, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3 for the boys title, while Peachy Kellmeyer of Charleston, W. Va., defeated Marita Torros of San Juan, 6-1, 6-1, for the girls.

Final Facts And Figures On Today's Top Bowl Classics

The bowls, seven of 'em, will be overflowing with almost 400,000 football fans today when the college gridiron game ushers in the New Year with a colorful program in the nation's sunshine belt.

Football's annual fiesta begins at 1:30 p.m. e.s.t. when Oklahoma and Duke kick off in the Orange Bowl and goes right on into the moonlight for the night Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla.

Here's how the odds-makers see the big ones:

National Champion Ohio State (8-1) favored by 19 points over Oregon (7-3) in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif.

Navy Picked

Air-minded Navy (8-1-1) picked by just one point over Southwest Champion Rice (7-3) in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Tex.

Mississippi (8-1-1) favored by 2½ points over Texas (6-3-1).

Oklahoma (9-1) picked by 10 points over Duke in the Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla.

In smaller day games, Louisville (8-1) tangles with Drake (7-1) in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex., and Prairie View (6-3) plays Texas Southern (7-3) in the Prairie View Bowl at Houston, Tex. Under the arc-lights at Oriando, it will be Mississippi Southern (8-1) against East Texas State (8-1) in the Tangerine Bowl.

The Orange Bowl game will be nationally televised and broadcast by CBS, starting at 1:30 p.m. e.s.t., and the same network will carry the Cotton Bowl at 4:15 p.m. e.s.t. The Sugar Bowl game will be carried on a nationwide radio-TV hookup by NBC, starting at 1:45 p.m. e.s.t., with the Rose Bowl following on the same network at 4:45 p.m. e.s.t.

Prospects for weather were generally good on all bowl fronts, although in Florida overnight showers might precede the football action.

The day's largest crowd, more than 100,000, will watch Ohio State try to give the Big Ten its 11th victory in 12 meetings with a Pacific Coast Conference foe in the Rose Bowl. The national champions, with a rugged ground attack spearheaded by halfback Dor Clark and fullback Bob White, is the heaviest favorite in the 44-year history of the Pasadena spectacle

Passing Duel Expected

A capacity crowd of 75,504 is anticipated for the Cotton, where Navy quarterback Tom Forrestal and Rice's King Hill are likely to engage in a passing duel. Navy has been jolted by the possible loss of star guard Tony Stremic, who was injured in a scrimmage last week. Rice finished its season in high gear, winning its last four games to take the Southwest Conference Crown.

Oklahoma will be out to atone for its only loss of the season, the streak-busting upset by Notre Dame, at the expense of Duke in the Orange Bowl before about 75,000. The Sooners also have injury problems, with first-string quarterback Carl Dodd on the shelf, and Duke is emotionally geared for an upset.

The prospect of good weather and impressive workouts have stamped Mississippi the Sugar Bowl choice over Texas before about 80,000.

Morrow Wins Sullivan Award

NEW YORK (UP)— Bobby Joe Morrow, the sprinter who won three gold medals during the 1956 Olympic Games, today was named winner of the National Amateur Athletic Union's James E. Sullivan Memorial Trophy for 1957.

The AAU presents the award annually to the amateur athlete "who, by performance, example and good influence did most to advance the cause of good sportsmanship during the year."

Morrow, a 22-year-old senior divinity student at Abilene Christian College, was the first choice on 213 of 586 ballots cast by sports authorities who took part in the poll. With five points given for a first-place vote, three for second and one for third, Morrow collected 1,548 points.

Four other Olympic champions finished closest to Morrow in the voting.

Tom Courtney, Olympics 800-meter champion from Livingston, N.J., was runner-up with 122 first-place votes and 1,021 points.

Harold Connolly, Olympic hammer throw champion from Boston, was third with 78 first-place votes and 748 points. Tommy Kono of Sacramento, Calif., Olympic light heavyweight weightlifting champion and only non-Russian to win a title in the 1957 world championships, was next with 71 firsts and 719 points. Glenn Davis, Olympic 400-meter hurdles champion from Clinton, Ohio, was fifth with 27 firsts and 353 points.

Shockers Defeat Elks' 'B', 50-44

Pampa's Shockers added another victory to their slate last night as they battled from behind in the fourth quarter to down the Elk City "B" team, 50-44.

Getting a slow start the Shockers trailed 13-2 at the end of the first quarter and 30-15 at halftime. Going into the final period of play the Pampa sophomores had narrowed the margin but still trailed 41-37.

Leading the Shocker five was Mert Cooper, who netted 18 points for the night, followed by Craig Winborn with 16.

For the Elks, Johnny O'Dell led the field with 12 points, with Mike Johnson ranking second with 11.

The outstanding play of the evening came in the closing seconds of the first half as Karl Kitto hurled a shot from past midcourt, scoring two points as the buzzer ended the quarter.

The victory marked the ninth straight for the Shockers, having had their only loss in the first game of the season to the Claude Mustangs.

Next game will be at 6:30 Friday against the Phillips "B" team, followed Jan. 4 with the Amarillo Yannigans. Both games are scheduled for Harvester Field House.

Looking Into 1958 Sports

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP) — Starting with bowl game victories today for Ohio State, Oklahoma and Navy, here's a peek into the sports future for 1958 and some of the things you muscle buffs can expect to witness:

Boxing

Sugar Ray Robinson will regain the middleweight crown by knocking out Carmen Basilio at Chicago Stadium in March. Archie Moore will retain the light heavyweight crown and Floyd Patterson will stiffen a couple of stiffs.

The heavyweight champ will get into trouble with world boxing organizations because manager Cus D'Amato will refuse to fight the top listed contenders on the theory that they are IBC-controlled.

Baseball

Cincinnati will move to New York and play in the Polo Grounds. Milwaukee will retain the National League pennant in a stretch battle with St. Louis while it will be the Yankees all the way in the American League—as well as in the World Series.

Willie Mays will regain the National League batting, homer and most valuable player titles. Ted Williams will repeat as American League batting champion, Mickey Mantle will be the home run king and Gil McDougald finally will win most valuabe recognition.

Golf

The old guys will have one last big year as Cary Middlecoff cops the Masters. Sam Snead at long last wins the U.S. Open (We can dream, can't we?) and Doug Ford takes the PGA. Harvie Ward will return from a year in sackcloth and ashes to take the Amateur again.

Basketball

The Boston Celtics will mop up everything in pro basketball while Kansas wins the NCAA championship. Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain will be the player of the year. (Chalk eater.)

Tennis

Althea Gibson will swat the ladies into limbo all over again while Ashley Cooper of Australia slams the men. The Aussies, as usual, will retain the Davis Cup in a common canter.

Horse Racing

Old Pueblo (no relation to My Old Kentucky Home) will capture the Kentucky Derby by a nose over the favored Nadir. Willie Hartack will be the number one jockey—again.

Football

Notre Dame, which hinted at the future by edging Army and ending Oklahoma's skein, will bounce back to the top as mythical national champion. The Cleveland Browns will get all sorts of revenge by clobbering Detroit in a playoff for the NFL pro title.

Hockey

The rocket-powered Montreal Canadiens will sweep through to the National Hockey League championship and then add the Stanley Cup.

Track and Field

Nine guys will break four minutes for the mile—and 99 others will have excuses why they didn't.

Galloping Dominoes

A guy who used to be my friend will make 12 straight passes while I'm betting he don't.

Summary

Short year, huh?

What Happened To Bierman

BERNIE BIERMAN
By UNITED PRESS

Just before Bernie Bierman took over as head football coach at Minnesota in 1932, a wag described the lusky Gophers as "beautiful but dumb." Just two years later, when Minnesota had won the national championship, the same wag said, 'now they're just beautiful." In all, Minnesota under Bierman won five national and six Big Ten titles. But things never were quite the same after he returned from duty with the U.S. Marines during World War II. He resigned in 1950 after one of the worst campaigns in Minnesota history and Bernie's worst in coaching years at Montana, Tulane and Mississippi.

Whatever happened to Bernie Bierman? He's still at Minnesota, now 64 years old, as professor emeritus of physical education.

Lefors Basketball Tourney To Get Underway Tomorrow

LEFORS —The Lefors Round Robin Basketball Tournament starts here at 2 p.m. tomorrow and will continue through Saturday night.

Five teams are entered in the tournament with the winner to be determined on a percentage basis. All teams will play each other.

Teams entered in the tourney are McLean, Canaidan, Briscoe, Miami and Lefors.

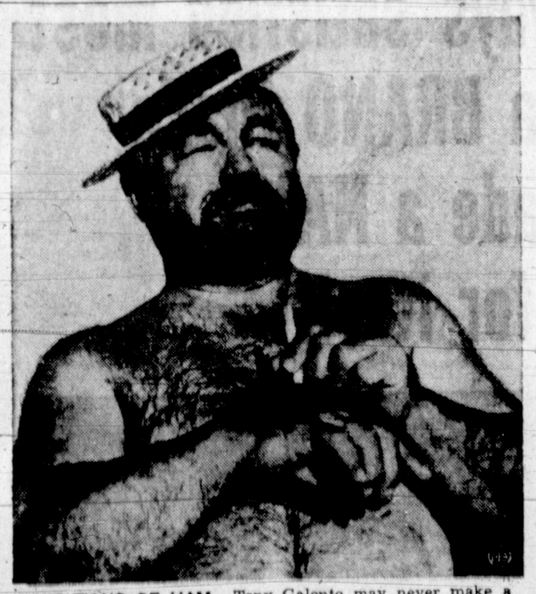

Champion, runnerup and sportsmanship trophies will be given in both boy and girl divisions. The sportsmanship winner will be determined by a committee. The two outstanding players on each championship team and the outstanding player on each of the other teams will receive a miniature trophy.

Admission prices are 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students for each session. Tournament tickets good for the entire tournament are $2 for adults and $1 for students.

Referees will be Otto Mangold and Weldon Trice of Pampa.

MILAN, Italy (UP)—All players of the Fiorentina football club were fined 10,000 lire ($16) today by the Italian Soccer Federation for hiding the ball toward the end of a championship game against Milan last Sunday. Milan won the game, 2-1.

TWO TONS OF HAM—Tony Galento may never make a calendar picture or a shaving cream ad, but the former world heavyweight championship contender most certainly looks the part of the rough character he is playing in a motion picture being filmed in the Florida Everglades. Real tough.

Safety Not Easy

What causes an accident?

Many sources report there is no answer to this question.

Some will say it's carelessness, stupidity, or complete desregard for one's own safety.

Whatever the concensus of cause, accidents continue to be frequent, much to the annoyance of victims.

Statistics by the Health Information Foundation prove that accidents occur to people who have been exposed to safety training and constant safety propoganda over a period of years as well as to non-safety indoctrinated individuals.

True, persons who disregard any type of safe practice invarably end up victims in serious or fatal accidents more frequently than persons who try to do the safe thing.

A man who sticks his hand inside a moving machine, or passes on a curve, or tries to lift too much weight is begging for injury.

These types of accidents happen every day, and those who witness or hear of the accident question the victim's intelligence at the moment the accident occurred.

As an on looker, we can generally observe clearly the cause of the accident and look upon the victim as a dolt for falling prey to such a ridiculous injury.

When a person deliberately performs a careless act there can be little sorrow for his resulting injury. The person who doesn't care about safety is in a class by himself.

Also in a class by himself is the person who follows safe habits at work, home and play, and still receives an injury.

How is this case diagnosed? Why was he injured? How did his accident happen?

In most cases it is carelessness. A moment of mental blackout; failure to check, failure to see or failure to know are three common excuses offered by accident victims afterwards.

Carelessness is without a doubt the biggest cause of accidents to both those persons who practice safety, and those who don't.

What causes carelessness?

Non-perfection of the human race!

"It is human to err," is an overworked statement used to cover a multitude of mistakes, but it probably explains better than anything else the cause of accidents.

Of course there is still the "wild one" who expresses little concern for safety in any form and who believes the more dangerous the venture the more prestige the violator receives.

A simple retort to this thought is that there is no prestige to lie in a casket amid weeping relatives and friends.

Naturally there can be no intelligent sanction given to accidents in any form, or resulting from any cause.

Accidents are foolish folly resulting from momentary carelessness by those who know better—and disregard and stupidity by those who don't care.

"It can't happen to me," is the last joke told by thousands of citizens every year.

tion in the world's existence. They can't be eliminated,

Accidents are natural. They are an everyday functbut their frequency of occurence can be controlled.

The person who follows safety practices religiously day after day almost certainly will have a serious accident during his lifetime if statistics are to be believed.

However, for those who know nothing of safety or choose to ignore it, the way is open to instruct and convert them to join the ranks of the safety-minded persons enjoying the fruits of safe habits.

"Accidents happen to the safest of persons less frequently than persons who are less careful," could be a statement found in a multiple choice test, but there should be no question of choice between safety and accident.

Following the safety path is not always easy, but adhering to safe habits can mean a longer life, and freedom from fear, concern, anxiety, pain and sorrow.

Political Strife Seen In 'Sputnik Session'

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The legislative program which President Eisenhower has prepared for submission to Congress next month is expected to provoke the fiercest political strife since turbulent Truman days. It will probably become known as the "Sputnik session," for debate will be dominated by that Communist specter in the skies.

Despite proposed increases in national defense appropriations, especially for missiles and scientific research, many Democrats and Republicans believe the amount too niggardly. Whereas the Administration will ask for only a few billions for expansion, the opposition talks of figures ranging from $5 billion to $10 billion.

No White House spokesman has yet envisaged the emergency in the terms of two influential Senate leaders — Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, who says that "We must work as if there would be no tomorrow" — or Senator Styles Bridges, who offers "blood, sweat and tears" instead of high automobile tail fains and rugs with a deep pile.

EXPECTED ATTACK — The equivocal agreements reached at Paris amidst Administration acclaim will come under heavy bipartisan attack. Although Secretary Dulles will have his defenders — he will need them — our major Allies' hesitancy at accepting American arms and their eagerness to parley for peace with the Russians have disillusioned even so-called "internationalists."

There will be demands that the United States concentrate on building a self - contained "Fortress America," with the billions now spent on foreign economic and military aid devoted to that project. This idea becomes popular whenever beneficiary nations fail to reinforce us in defense of the Free World, as during the "Korean police action."

RESENTMENT — Several politically powerful groups on and off Capitol Hill have already expressed resentment of other phases of the Administration's program. They are the farm, labor, veterans' and liberal blocs. They oppose any economy moves which will affect them adversely, and they have been long entrenched in the legislative foxholes.

Secretary Ezra Taft Benson, for instance, will ask for a general lowering of farm price support payments, in line with his recent administrative action in cutting subsidies on dairy products. In view of record production of several major crops, he argues that the broad farm program begun in the Roosevelt regime has been a complete failure.

DISCOURAGES SURPLUSES — With White House support, he seeks to discourage surpluses through less attractive incentives, lower retail prices and consequent increases in consumption. But it is doubtful if measures embodying these ideas could even be reported from Senate-House committees for a test vote on the floor.

Ironically, Sputnik has fortified the farm bloc with new arguments against scarcity. In view of possible war, they contend that huge surpluses have become a defense weapon. They suggest that food and fiber be distributed throughout this country for possible emergencies, and that they also be shipped to our Allies overseas.

SHIES AT PROPOSALS — Labor's spokesmen have already denounced the proposals for Federal supervision of their "internal affairs," as outlined by Secretary James P. Mitchell. With threats of increased political activity in 1958 and 1960, when the unions will again lean to the Democratic side, they expect to frighten Congress out of any action on this problem.

The "liberals," led by the Stevenson - Harriman - Williams faction, will try to block any curtailment of what they call "social projects." It is their contention that the nation can afford to finance both military and domestic expansion.

Thus, unfortunately, politics being what it is, the American Congress will present to a divided world a spectacle of disunity rather than "togetherness."

The Nation's Press

BASIC ISSUE
(Industrial News Review)

Senator Holland of Florida recently had some forthright things to say about the effort to extend the federal wage-hour law to retailing and to certain other service enterprises which have been exempt ever since the law was first passed some 20 years ago.

The basic issue, as the senator sees it, is whether we shall permit further encroachment upon local and state affairs by a centralized federal government which is already too large to be efficient or economical, and too powerful to be soundly democratic.

In the course of his talk, he brought up some interesting quotations out of the past. In May, 1937, President Roosevelt requested the wage and hour legislation for those "who toil in factories." Then the President, whom no one could term anti-labor, stated that "...there are many purely local pursuits and services which no Federal legislation can effectively cover."

The wage-hour bill was introduced in the Senate by the liberal Senator Black — now a Supreme Court justice. Senator Black said at the time: "It is not intended to, and does not, attempt to provide by federal legislation the fixing of minimum wages and maximum hours of employment in all the varied peculiarly local business units of the nation."

Retailing is a "local business unit" by any definition. An outlet of the biggest chain system in the country must compete on the local level, and deal with local needs, desires, and conditions. The reasons which caused retailing and the other service businesses to be exempted from the federal wage-hour law in the beginning are as valid today as they were then.

Mac's New Year's Wishes For Readers

By HENRY McLEMORE

MADRID — If Madrid had a store that rented an Aladdin's lamp I'd go get one, give it six or seven healthy rubs, and wish for all my readers that during the New Year they would:

Never have to stretch out their legs between cold sheets.

Always find a dime in the coin return holder when they used a public telephone.

Get their car ashtrays out on the first yank, and back in place with the first push, when they emptied them.

Never find themselves behind someone who has just bought a year's supply of groceries in a supermarket.

Always find a parking place the first time down the block.

Never have an elevator pass them by when they ring.

Never hear or read a politician's promise that wasn't made in all sincerity with no thought of the effect on the vote.

Always remember to buy a new toothbrush before the old one looks as scraggly as a hobo's chin.

Never lose the soap in the bathtub.

Buy most of the things they want without first looking at the price tag.

Never get a sour grapefruit.

Never spill a glass of water at the table.

Think of the retorts they would have liked to have made at the moment and not two days later.

Always to have to advertise in the Found columns and not in the Lost.

Find at least two dollars in the trouser pocket of an old suit of clothes, or under the cushion of an overstuffed chair.

Always find a motion picture seat on the aisle and not have to grope, stumble and step on people trying to get to one in the exact center.

Find something to laugh about every day.

Be able to go to a record shop and listen to the record they are thinking of buying without waiting for two hours.

Never be asked to empty the garbage.

Always hit the proper combination of hot and cold water in the shower on the first try.

Catch nothing that an aspirin won't cure.

I could think of a lot more wishes for my readers but if all these came true they'd be happy enough.

She says: "There's no room for so-called 'bargains' on a budget. We can't afford to risk our money on products that haven't proved themselves."

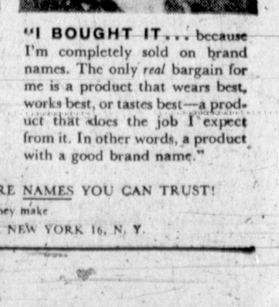

She's always satisfied most with a BRAND that's made a NAME for itself!

MANUFACTURER

"I MADE IT... and I know that the success of my business depends on how well I make it. If people aren't satisfied they'll stop buying. That's why I make sure that only the best materials and workmanship go into any product bearing my name."

DEALER

"I SOLD IT... and I was confident it would please my customers. I've found from experience that well-known brands always do. I don't have the same confidence when I sell an unknown product that hasn't proved itself. I just don't like to take the risk."

CUSTOMER

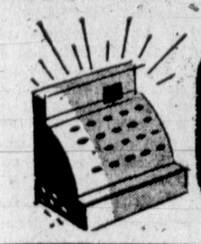

"I BOUGHT IT... because I'm completely sold on brand names. The only real bargain for me is a product that wears best, works best, or tastes best—a product that does the job I expect from it. In other words, a product with a good brand name."

CHICAGO — Dr. William L. Thomas in a warning to the American Anthroplogical Assn. that the world's natural resources will never hold out at the present rate of use:

"In a few thousand years, our era will be referred to as the age of waste."

RICHMOND, Ind.— Arthur Pippen, who refused medical aid for his sick 11-year-old daughter for religious reasons, giving permission for an appendicitis operation on the girl when told by Sheriff Edward Cordell "the law" wanted her to be taken to the hospital:

"My church preaches that we must obey the law."

SANTA MONICA, Calif.— Charles Lee Guy III, 19, as he was sentenced to one to 10 years in prison for the slaying of his mother's former fiance:

"You can put a man behind bars and you can perhaps teach him a trade, but unless his heart is in it, it won't do him any good."

CAT NAP—When George Pierce Jr. decides to take a snooze it is truly a cat nap as his pet kitty curls up on Georgie's legs to enjoy the rest period. Little Georgie's father, George Sr., is a staff photographer on the Memphis Scimitar and just couldn't resist shooting this appealing picture.

What Kind Of A Year Was 1957?

By DOC QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)—What kind of a year was 1957?

Strange and other-wordly, but withal comforting in creature behavior, human and animal.

The beep of the Sputnik was heard in the land—loud and clear. Mrs. William B. Weaver, of Bloomington, Ill., said she heard it one 5:30 a.m.—through her iron bed frame. "Three short beeps and a long."

Mrs. Cecelia Kuehn, of Chicago, said she picked up the signal on her hair curlers. Not so much a "beep" as a "brrrrt." Ruined her sleep.

Moscow Radio was audible, also. It said the Soviet satellites were not violating the nations' sovereignty by flying over them—actually, the satellites were up there in the sky and the various countries were moving under them as the earth turned.

And Lloyds of London, never an outfit to shirk duty, moved into space by insuring a British housewife against the chance that a Sputnik would hit Her Homey. Annual premium: $3.50. Payoff: $14,000.

Hospital Plans Innovations

Science marched on. In Kassel, Germany, diaper - change signals were planned for a new children's hospital. Special hydrometers on the cribs will sound an alarm and flash a red light when too much humidity is registered.

And a Shrewsbury, England, barber installed a traffic - light service for customers to show how things are inside the shop—a red light means "No chairs, long wait;" yellow "Just a few minutes;" green "Come on in."

The Germans, ever groping, ever experimenting, announced that drunk hens lay two-to-one more eggs than sober ones. The Bavarian farming institute at Veitschoecheim made the announcement after feeding 60 test hens wine in place of their daily water quota.

Hen Lays In Technicolor

Animals generally were in fine fettle in 1957. In New Albany, Ind., John Hubbuch's little red hen began laying turquoise green eggs. In Trento, Italy, a local cow became $150 richer when it ate its owner's life savings. In Richmond, Va., hunter Bill Jordan stuffed a wounded duck in his pocket, where it pecked a cartridge that exploded and shot Jordan in the heel.

Two chimpanzees, Betsy of Baltimore and Congo of London, both well-known artists, opened an exhibition of their paintings at a London institute. In Washington, a sea serpent at the National Zoo confounded experts by laying a dozen eggs whereas the books called for it to give birth to live snakes.

What To Look For On TV-Movie Front In '58

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—What to look for on the TV-movie front in 1958:

More more movie theaters will close as TV runs away with an increasingly large segment of the national audience.

Disappearance of "B" pictures. Movies will stick with super-colossals such as "Sayonara" and "Peyton Place" and Grade "Z" exploitation horror pictures.

An increase in sales of film backlogs from major studios to TV, thus hurting further the long-suffering boxoffice.

Several versions of "Don Quixote" as Mike Todd, Orson Welles and two European producers race to complete the epic.

A possible merger of MGM and 20th Century-Fox Studios.

Closing of Universal - International Studios—last of the big lots to convert to TV films.

The sale of Republic Studios to NBC-TV.

Economy drives in both TV and pictures with severe personnel cuts at the stuidios.

Boom in Tapes

A boom in electronic tape recording for TV shows, increasing the clarity and reproduction of network shows — a big improvement over today's "hot kinescopes" which are seen via film. shows, but its parent organization, RCA-Victor, sees no cut in cost of color TV sets. The network also offers 'The Shirley Temple Story Book' for the coming year in addition to two new horse operas and an adventure series titled "Northwest Passage."

CBS will introduce a lady cop in "The Sergeant and the Lady" series and a flock of new situation comedies which will make a comeback in 1958.

ABC Completes Addition

ABC will truly become a third "major" network with the completion of a 30-million dollar addition to its Hollywood studios. The Web also will add Orson Welles to its team of performers, along with Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca.

Look for several musical-variety shows to drop from sight as a result of low ratings.

Hangover Remedies

Hangover, N. — Something remaining from a previous time or state.

"Ohhh, Bro-Therrr, my head."
—Aristotle

By DOC QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)—Most people don't understand the nature of the problem. They tend to think it's all in the head.

That's not true. A goodly portion of it is in the stomach. not to mention the side-effects on the nerves, muscles, liver, lights, magneto, and central heating.

With these things in mind, it is well to take steps, that is, for all those who are able to take steps. There are some who maintain they can't even get to their feet.

For these latter cases, the indicated procedure is to follow the ancient precept of Materia Medica, as written by Hippocrates: "Leave them lay."

For Quick Relief

For all others, it is a pleasure and public service, at this season, to present a reminder of some of the standard remedies for the hangover, time tested and based on simple scientific facts:

1. Atmosphere—gulp it, a lungful at a time. If there is a balloon handy, it is well to rise above the smog level.

2. Exercise. Go for a brisk bicycle ride—if you can find a brisk bicycle.

3. The old-fashioned rain barrel. Soak your blazing head in it.

4. The old standby cures. There are many of these. Here's one: a half cup of barreled turkey gravy into which mix two ounces of vinegar, a raw egg, and a scoop of orange ice. If you can't get orange ice, use vanilla ice cream. Swallow in one gulp, and stand back.

5. Swallow a small butterfly net. These are on sale at all responsible drugstores in the handy duodena size.

Aspirin May Help

6. Take two aspirin tablets, in a gallon of hard cider—or, if you prefer, in a beer stein full of dry martini. It makes little difference which liquid is used; the important thing is the aspirin.

7. Read the preabmle to the Constitution upside down 40 times. To get upside down, hang from either a trapeze or a parallel bar. If the bar looks familiar, it may be the same one you were parallel to last night. If you don't like the preamble, try 'Gray's Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard.'' It may suit your mood better.

8. Call up the office. Say: "I have a severe strep throat." Go back to bed and to sleep. Try to dream you are lying face down in a snowdrift.

9. Try a counter-irritant, on the outside. Get a massage with poison ivy.

10. Get a sledge hammer. Use while standing in 10 feet of water.

Taxpayer Assistance Day Mondays

Every Monday morning will be Taxpayer Assistance Day at the Pampa Internal Revenue Service Office starting Jan. 5, 1958, according to Wiley E. Davis, administrative officer of the local office.

Davis gave five guidelines for preparing you 1957 income tax return:

1. Read your insturctions carefully. This saves time, trouble, and money. You often find that you are eligible for deduction that you were not aware of.

2. Get your records ready early.

3. Figure your tax return as soon as possible. 60 per cent of taxpayers have refunds coming and many other taxpayers owe very little tax. You don't worry about your income tax return on April 15 if you file on January 15.

4. If you hit a snag, call or come in to the local office on Monday morning. Taxpayer Assistance Day. We will be glad to answer your questions. Unfortunatley, the Internal Revenue Service does not have sufficient personnel to help taxpayers do their accounting. We are able to serve many more taxpayers by simply answering questions and showing taxpayers where to put the figures on the tax return.

HONOLULU — Lt. (J.G.) Richard L. Kline, one of four survivors of a Navy plane crash off Hawaii in which two men were killed and 17 are missing, when asked if he thought he would make it through:

"Sure. I knew I'd make it. I had my wife Barbara waiting back here for me. Yep. I knew we'd spend Christmas together.

Fish Was Both Father And Mother

NEW YORK (UP)—A hitherto unthought-of uncertainty as to the future of the earth's inhabitants applies only to those who are masculine of sex.

Nineteen females of a particular kind of fish managed somehow to take over the biological function of the male while retaining their own. That is, they gave birth to offspring of which they were—biologically—both father and mother.

The fish is lebistes reticulatus. They are multi-colored little critters which can be found in tropical waters around the world. They are "live-bearers:" their reproductive means are not dissimilar to ours.

Appeared in Aquarium

Eighteen of the 19 were descendants of the 19th. She appeared in an inbred aquarium stock. When she gave birth to young for whom there definitely had never been a father, it was first called parthenogenesis.

That means the development of life from unfertilized eggs. This happened more than five years ago. Since then, scientific study of this fish and of the 18 in her female line of descent, has shown conclusively that it wasn't pathenogenesis but functional hermaphroditism.

It isn't entirely unknown in nature but is exceedingly rare and, so far as had been known, was confined to a few tribes of a few of the lowest forms of life of the sea. But lebistes reticulatus is a complex, high form of life.

Discovers Gifted Female

Dr. H. Spurway, now of the Indian Statistical Institute of Calcutta, discovered the original abnormally gifted female and has been seeking the answers ever since. There is no doubt whatever that the 19 females produced the phenomenon 39 times, with a total of 287 young.

An atomical studies of the females revealed that 18 of the 19 were entirely female of structure But tellular examination revealed masculine reproductive tissue which presumably provided fertilization of the eggs.

Science has no idea, of course, whether the phenomenon occurs in the fish in nature. The impossible difficulties involved in studying the life cycles of Lebistes Reticulatus in their native habitat need no emphasis.
