Armistice Day, 1918 To Armistice Day, 1938!

Twenty years of peace for the United States! What chance is there for it to endure for us and become permanent for the world? Read the feature article elsewhere in this edition by Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University and also president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. He has an inside view of all steps, past and present, that have been taken to promote world peace. No living writer is better qualified to write on the subject and The News is pleased to be able to bring this timely article to you.

SCHOOL OFFERS VARIETY PROGRAM FRIDAY NIGHT

Musical and various other activities of the Loraine school will be on parade Friday night of this week when a program which includes a high school band concert, singing by the high school choral club, music by the grade school rhythm band and singing by the junior choral club. The program is to start at 7:30 and the public is invited to attend without charge. The purpose of the program is to acquaint the public with the various activities of the school.

BULLDOGS OVERWHELMED BY YELLOWHAMMERS

Although the Loraine Bulldogs were overwhelmed by the Rotan Yellowhammers 41 to 13 last Friday night they put up one of the greatest fights of the year. Every Bulldog covered himself with glory in that game. Smith and Swan, two bruising half-backs for the Yellowhammers, are plenty good. Smith is the hardest man to stop in the district this year and the Yellowhammers should go on to win the district crown with ease.

The Yellowhammers, with A. Smith carrying the ball most of the time, made a touchdown in the first few minutes of play and kicked goal for the extra point. After receiving the kickoff after touchdown the Bulldogs punted to Rotan's 35 where a Rotan back fumbled and Loraine recovered. A pass to Rhodes for a first down and Tom Ray lugging the mail to the ten-yard line and another pass to Rhodes put the ball across the double stripe for a touchdown. The try for extra point failed and the score was 7 to 6. A few minutes before the first quarter ended Rotan with Smith on an end around play went over from the 11 for the second touchdown. Try for the extra point failed. Smith made another touchdown in the second quarter and at the end of the half the score was 20 to 6.

Early in the second half Walker scampered 37 yards on an off tackle play but was pushed out of bounds only a yard or two from pay dirt. Jack Allbright took it the rest of the way for the touchdown and Walker converted for the extra point. The Yellowhammers scored again in the third quarter and twice more in the fourth.

First downs favored the Yellowhammers 18 to 7. Loraine completed 8 out of 25 passes and had 1 intercepted. Rotan threw 2 passes, both incomplete. Loraine punted 6 times for an average of 30 yards and Rotan punted twice for an average of 20 yards.

The Bulldogs put up a much better fight than the Yellowhammers anticipated.

The Bulldogs will be idle this week unless a workout game is secured. They have been working harder than usual this week getting ready for the Merkel Badgers at Merkel next Thursday afternoon. That game will determine whether the Bulldogs or the Badgers are to occupy the cellar provided the Roby Lions take the Badgers into camp Friday of this week.

Good Attendance At Water Meetings

The water conservation meetings announced last week drew good crowds at both Seven Wells and Looney. Other meetings have been announced for Bauman Thursday night of this week, Longfellow Monday, Valley View Wednesday, and Lone Star for Thursday night of next week. A meeting is being planned for Loraine within the next week or two.

Everyone in these communities interested in conserving water is invited and urged to attend the meeting in his community. A full explanation of the plans for conserving water under the ground and on top is given at the meetings by competent authorities on the subject.

HOSPITAL NOTES

The three and a half month old baby girl of Manuel Chabaz died Monday a short time after being brought to the hospital. It suffered a severe attack of pneumonia.

There are two cases of scarlet fever in the Herman Miles home. J. L. Stewart is suffering from an infected hand caused from injuries received recently at the oil mill in Colorado.

Dr. and Mrs. Bruce Johnson, accompanied by Dr. Homer Johnson of Crane, visited in Fort Worth the past week end.

AGED MEXICAN DIED WEDNESDAY MORNING

Aljiso Arebalo, past 80, who lived on the Marshall Sanchez farm, died Wednesday morning following a brief illness. Burial is to be made today in the local cemetery.

PRIZE OFFERED TO BEST GUESSEER

Dr. Bruce Johnson is offering a prize of $2.00 to the person who guesses nearest the number of people to visit the hospital Sunday afternoon during open house, and $1.00 to the second best guess. Leave your guess at the hospital when you visit it.

THREE YEARLINGS DIE WITHIN FEW HOURS

W. M. Yarbrough is at a loss to know what caused the death of three yearlings on his farm last Friday. All three of the animals died within a few hours of each other. Mr. Yarbrough says perhaps the cause of the deaths could have been from eating tender shoots from maize stalks that came out after the recent rains.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Hawes of Clint, Texas, spent the week end here with Rev. and Mrs. M. H. Godfrey.

Johnson Hospital To Open Sunday

Open house is to be held at the Dr. Bruce Johnson Hospital Sunday afternoon between the hours of 2 and 4:30, at which time everyone is invited to visit and inspect the new hospital.

Outside construction and part of the interior work has been finished for a few weeks but the varnishing of the interior was not finished until a few days ago. The furniture arrived a few days ago and has been arranged in the rooms. Work started August 12.

The structure is of rock veneer with hardwood floors throughout. It contains ten rooms, four bedrooms with three large enough for two beds each if needed, an operating room, X-Ray room, Cystoscopic and laboratory room, bath room, office, linen room, and reception room.

At the present time equipment for major surgery has not arrived but will be added in the near future. Recently, however, Dr. Johnson has added new equipment to his X-Ray room and is now prepared to take X-Ray pictures of any part of the body. Other new equipment includes a Basal Metabolic Sanborn machine used to take the rate of metabolism of tissues.

The building itself is very attractive both inside and out and the people of Loraine are indeed proud of it and are congratulating Dr. Johnson for building it.

DISTRICT COURT OPENED MONDAY IN COLORADO

The fall term of Mitchell county District Court opened Monday morning in Colorado with Judge A. S. Mauzey of Sweetwater on the bench.

According to district clerk J. H. Ballard the grand jury will have only minor criminal cases to investigate.

The criminal docket has been set for the fourth week beginning November 21. Civil cases requiring juries will be heard beginning next Monday. Judge Mauzey will hear non-jury civil cases this week.

W. J. Coon Buried Saturday

Funeral services for W. J. Coon, Loraine grocery merchant for many years, were held Saturday afternoon at three o'clock at the Baptist Church with Rev. M. H. Godfrey, Rev. M. F. Richardson, and Rev. C. E. Jameson officiating. Interment was in the Loraine cemetery under direction of G. W. Hendrick.

Mr. Coon died Friday about noon following a brief illness. He had not been in good health for several months but his condition did not become serious until a few days before his death.

William James Coon was born at Corona, Mississippi, February 25, 1867. He was married to Miss Della Banks at Yantis, Texas, July 26, 1903, to which union three daughters were born.

Mr. Coon came with his family to Loraine in 1911 and had been engaged in the grocery business most of the time. A few years ago he sold his business and retired from active business until about three years ago when he again assumed control of the store.

Mr. Coon was active in civic affairs of Loraine. He was always for anything that would benefit the town and community. He was a member of the Baptist Church and was an active member until his health failed.

He is survived by his wife, three daughters, Mrs. C. L. Giffers, San Antonio, Mrs. Bertram Grey, San Angelo, and Mrs. Lee Dorn, Colorado, one brother, Tom Coon, Farmersville, Texas, and three sisters, Mrs. Ida Dosssey, Whitewright, Texas, Mrs. Sallie Taylor, Hope, Arkansas, and Mrs. J. H. Valentine, Cooper, Texas, and two grand children.

Pallbearers were J. L. Pratt, Earl Jackson, T. J. Green, Paul Stewart, Plez Beaty, and C. G. Naylor.

H. B. Derryberry of Loraine and E. E. Smith of Colorado attended a convention of rural carriers in Waco last Saturday.

Hospital Owner

DR. BRUCE JOHNSON

During the early hours of January 16, 1909 a second son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson of Loraine, who was named Bruce Harris after the late L. B. Walker.

As small boys Dr. Johnson and his older brother Dr. Homer Johnson now of Crane, had yens for operating on birds with their mother's butcher knife. These childish tricks inspired their parents to educate them to become physicians and surgeons.

At an early age Bruce entered Loraine public school, having as his first teacher Miss Burnice Board. From that time until his senior high school year he spent his winters in school and summers working on his father's farm. In the fall of 1925 his parents moved to Abilene where the two older boys entered McMurry College and the younger boy, Dale, entered Abilene High School. Bruce finished his high school work in the McMurry Academy with honors. By attending college during summer terms Dr. Johnson received his Bachelor of Science degree in three years.

Having his entrance application readily accepted he entered Baylor University Medical school. During his freshman year he pledged and was initiated into the Phi Chi Medical fraternity. During the last four months of his senior year he was granted an internship in Dallas Methodist Hospital. In the spring of 1934 he received his Doctor's degree. During the next year he interned at Dallas Methodist Hospital. To better equip himself for general practice he took additional intern work at Parkland Hospital, Dallas, the largest charity hospital in Texas and is considered to offer the best internship of any hospital in the South.

When he decided to start practicing medicine he chose his own boyhood town, Loraine. He came here December 10, 1935.

SCHOOL BAND TO IRA MONDAY NIGHT FOR CONCERT IN INTEREST OF PROPOSED CHEESE PLANT

The Loraine High School Band which recently won a loving cup in a marching contest at Abilene, is to go to Ira next Monday night for a concert. W. W. King is director of the band. The band is to be accompanied by a group of men from the Loraine Chamber of Commerce who will explain to the folks of that community the merits of the proposed cheese factory for Loraine.

Alonzo Phillips has been selected to deliver the message at Ira. There is already quite a bit of interest at Ira in the cheese plant here but Snyder keeps urging the folks of that community to join in with them if Loraine falls down.

An effort will be made Monday night to convince the Ira folks that Loraine really intends to go ahead with the plant. The last account we had some 220 farmers have subscribed for stock in the association. The directors want at least 300 before actual work is started.

GIN REPORT

The four Loraine gins reported Wednesday at three o'clock a total of 5,421 bales ginned. The report was divided as follows: Loraine Gin Co. 1180; Cooperative Gin Association 1712; Producers Gin Co. 1825; East Gin 704.

Loraine-Roscoe Left Out of New District Alignment

According to announcement in daily papers Wednesday morning there will be no more District 6-B after this year. The Inter-scholastic League officials in re-aligning the districts for next year for football purposes left Loraine and Roscoe off the District 6 list.

Next year a group of schools with more than 500 enrolled, now playing as class A schools, will be grouped into class AA. Schools with an enrollment from 200 to 500 will be grouped in class A. Schools with enrollment from 150 to 199 will be permitted to enter class A districts by three fourth vote of members.

B conference schools will be grouped into those with an enrollment less than 200. Loraine and Roscoe are the only schools in the present 6-B district that do not have an enrollment of 200 in high school. These two schools may be permitted to enter the new 6-A district, which includes Colorado, Snyder, Rotan, Roby and Merkel, by a vote of the members.

GRAND JURY INDICTS EIGHT FIRST FEW DAYS

The first few days of district court, which opened Monday, saw the grand jury return indictments for eight. Of the eight indictments five were for forgery, two for driving while intoxicated, and 1 for cattle theft. Only about half of the defendants have been apprehended.

Van Boston of Westbrook is the grand jury foreman, with the following composing the jury: W. I. Barron, P. G. Fuller, C. F. Glass, Douglas Burns, B. A. Falkner, E. B. Hale, E. C. Hall, Mark Sam Bullock, E. T. Strain, A. L. Young, and J. H. Carlock.

Tuesday was appearance day for the civil docket, and Judge Mauzey set the R. B. Lovejoy Vs. Coca-Cola Bottling Co. case for trial next Monday. A damage suit with A. B. Allen as plaintiff and D. Selvidge as defendant is also set for Monday.

Six divorces have been granted to the following: Oma Caswell Vs. L. C. Caswell; Blanche Johnson Vs. Earl Johnson; W. C. Lady Vs. Fay Elizabeth Lady; Earl Webb Vs. Allie Marie Webb Evelyn Dorn Vs. Lovie Dorn.

Rome-Berlin Axis May Crumble

If Germany Is Given Colonies

By Joseph W. La Bine

Foreign

At best, Germany, Italy and Japan are unnatural bedfellows with nothing in common except totalitarianism and a grudge against the world. Flushed by her imperialistic victory at Munich, there is every reason to think Germany might abandon Italian and Japanese alliances if they stood in the way of her march to world power.

First step in this direction has been taken by Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler in presenting African colonial

GERMANY IN AFRICA

Of onetime German possessions (shown in black) France holds mandates for Togoland (1) and the Cameroons (2); Great Britain has minor interest in both. British South Africa (3) holds mandate for Southwest Africa (4), and Britain a mandate for Tanganyika (5). Angola (6) is held by Portugal.

demands to Great Britain and France. What Hitler wants—and probably will get—is return of Togoland, Cameroons, Southwest Africa and Tanganyika, held under League of Nations mandate by Britain and France since the Versailles treaty.

If they pay this price for peace, Britain and France will also agree to German arms equality. British-French gain through such a transaction would be German friendship and an understanding that Italy had better confine her imperialism to the Mediterranean area on pain of combined German-Franco-British opposition. Moreover, Il Duce would be forced to withdraw from Spain.

Next Der Fuehrer may turn his eyes to Japan, which now controls one-time German islands forfeited after the World war. Since Hitler's aggressive imperialism makes one conquest merely an appetizer for the next, moreover since self-pitying Germany looks angrily at any nation which controls large territories and resources, Japan may find her Chinese conquest threatened.

Nor do observers overlook the chance of a German-Italian breach over Hungary's Czechoslovakian claims, now handed to the Rome-Berlin axis for settlement. Mussolini, Hungary's friend, wants Czechoslovakia dissolved, moreover wants Hungary to get the common border with Poland which she desires. But Hitler, temporarily angry with Hungary and anxious to preserve a path to the east through Czechoslovakia, will fight partition.

Transportation

U. S. railroads, arguing before President Roosevelt's fact-finding committee, have claimed a 15 per cent pay cut is the only solution to their problem. Labor, which threatens to strike if the pay cut is enforced, says better management will do the trick. Without waiting for the fact-finding commission to report, railroad management has taken the matter into its own hands on three fronts.

Northwest—Before the interstate commerce commission have appeared stockholders of two huge lines, Chicago & North Western and Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific. Their plan: Physical consolidation of the two roads, immediately effecting operating economies of $10,000,000 a year and hastening normal recovery of the two roads.

Southwest—An I. C. C. examiner has recommended reorganization of the Missouri Pacific line with sharp reduction in its fixed interest debt. Also recommended is consolidation of owned properties being operated as the Missouri Pacific system, excepting the Missouri-Illinois railroad.

South—Placed before the I. C. C. is a plan for merging the Gulf, Mobile & Northern railroad with the Mobile & Ohio line. Chief opponent is Burlington railroad, which owns 27.7 per cent of G. M. & N. stock.

Chief significance of mergers and reorganizations is (1) that railroads will become economically sound; (2) labor will suffer through decreased employment, though wage levels probably will not be cut; (3) scores of small communities, originally built to follow the railroad's line of expansion, will find themselves isolated without rail service.

Defense

Knotted inseparably in recent news have been Japan's conquest of China and world democracy's attempts to strengthen their military-economic positions against German-Italo-Jap aggression. Though England and the U. S. have been rubbing noses in their trade pact negotiations, October of 1938 will be remembered primarily as the month when America first stood up and barked at modern imperialism.

Within 24 hours two barks came from Washington. First was President Roosevelt's precedent-shattering condemnation of nations employing force (Japan), exile (Germany) and repression (Italy) as instruments of national policy. Next day, on the heels of Japan's conquest of Hankow, the state department made public a 21-day-old protest to Tokyo against violation of China's "open door" policy.

This was but percussion in the new American overture of preparedness. Chiming in are plans to strengthen military and naval forces so that "the Western hemisphere may work out its own interrelated salvation." To the north, at Kodiak, Alaska, the navy is quietly preparing two bases accommodating at least 200 long-range patrol bombers.

Thus, if Britain and France deny it, the U. S. admits Japan has become the Far East's No. 1 power and bids fair to dominate the Pacific unless stopped. Although Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek will continue battling Japan in the hope his foe will eventually commit military and economic suicide, there is little likelihood that China's door will be reopened to Western nations unless Japan wants it. For a preview of things to come, democracies need only look at Manchukuo where seven years of Japanese proprietorship has both closed and locked the door.

Trend

How the wind is blowing . . .

TIME CLOCK—Film actors earning up to $1,000 a week, and all extras, now punch time clocks each morning under new union contract with provision for overtime work.

'BANG' WARFARE—Japanese troops patrolling streets of newly captured Canton, disperse terrified Chinese by merely pointing their guns and shouting: "Bang!"

U. S. LANDLADY—Women hold 25 per cent of all U. S. jobs (apart from domestic service), are beneficiaries of 80 per cent of all life insurance, own 50 per cent of all corporate stock, operate 60 per cent of savings accounts.

British royalty symbolically corresponds to the U. S. flag. Since the Czech crisis proved Great Britain's empire is becoming vastly independent, a little flag waving is entirely proper. First, King George and Queen Elizabeth announced a state visit to Canada and probably to the U. S. Latest news is that the popular, 35-year-old duke of Kent becomes governor general of Australia next year. To fun-loving Kent and his wife, beautiful former Princess Marina of Greece, Australia will mean virtual exile from their favorite diversion, London night life. Though English papers discreetly failed to mention it, part of the U. S. press called Kent and his wife victims of royal jealousy. The claim: That slim, elegant Marina is usurping Queen Elizabeth's rightful place as ruler of British fashion. At Australia's lonely Canberra, where Kent will receive $50,000 a year, not a single night club will help break the tedium of this "British Siberia."

Miscellany

At Anaheim, Calif., miles of surplus third-grade oranges were dumped when federal diversion funds ran out, leaving the $8-per-ton price unsupported.

How the United States Has Kept the Peace for 20 Years

An Article for Armistice Day
By NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER

WHEN the last gun sounded on the morning of Armistice Day, November 11, 1918, the civilized world drew a long breath, satisfied that "the war to end wars" had come to a close and that war was ended for all time. Thoughtful men realized, however, that the idea of using war to settle disputes between nations was buried deep in the consciousness of men, and that it was doubtful if the lessons of the World war would be sufficiently clear to turn the thoughts of men to a newer and more intelligent course of action.

What were the lessons of the World war?

First—that 10,000,000 lives were sacrificed in the war that was fought to end all wars.

Second—the loss in money was equally staggering. In 1920, the Carnegie Endowment published Ernest L. Bogart's book "The Direct and Indirect Cost of the Great War." He stated that the direct money cost was $186,233,637,097, and the indirect cost $151,812,352,560, a total of $338,045,989,657. These figures do not include the cost of human lives and vitality.

Third—that wars engender gigantic economic problems which affect the conquerors as adversely as the vanquished.

The history of the past 20 years of attempts to keep the peace among the nations of the world is known to all adults. The inception of the League of Nations and the difficulties which befell it are a matter of record.

CORDELL HULL

The Pact of Paris.

One of the most vital actions taken by the United States in behalf of world peace and international law and order was the signing of the Pact of Paris by some 62 nations. The pact "abolishing the conception of war as a legitimate means of exercising pressure on another state in the pursuit of national policy, and removing all recourse to armed force for the solution of international disputes and conflicts," is a significant milestone in the slow and halting cause of human progress. Public opinion in this country should demand that the United States never repudiate the principles of this pact.

The world, particularly the American world, is slowly awakening to the fact that under the Twentieth-century conditions nothing of importance can happen to any people on any continent without having some effect, and often very great effect, on every other people on earth. Early in June, 1938, in speaking to the State Bar association at Nashville, Tenn., Mr. Secretary Cordell Hull made the most significant, the most forward-facing and the most constructive speech which has been made by any public officer in the United States since 1920. It may well be that that speech is to mark a turning-point in this epoch of world history.

Mr. Hull said: "It is my firm conviction that national isolation is not a means to security, but rather a fruitful source of insecurity. For while we may seek to withdraw from participation in world affairs, we cannot thereby withdraw from the world itself. Attempts to achieve national isolation would not merely deprive us of any influence in the councils of nations, but would impair our ability to control our own affairs."

"Solemn contractual obligations are brushed aside with a light heart and a contemptuous gesture. Respect for law and observance of the pledged word have sunk to an inconceivably low level. The outworn slogans of the glorification of war are again resounding in many portions of the globe. Armed force, naked and unashamed, is again being used as an instrument of policy and a means of attaining national ends through aggression and aggrandizement. It is being employed with brutality and savagery that outrage and shock every humane instinct.

"There is desperate need in our country, and in every country, of a strong and united public opinion in support of such a renewal and demonstration of faith in the possibility of a world order based on law and international co-operative effort."

Thus spoke the statesman looking facts in the face, turning his back upon empty and meaningless formulas and facing the future with insight and with courage. But there is no time to be lost. The familiar public policy of "Wait and See" will not do. The time has come for quick, courageous and constructive leadership, and it is possible now for the American people, in the spirit of that declaration, to offer it, both to their own advantage and for the rebuilding of the broken foundations of world prosperity and world peace.

Isolation Not an American Policy.

The superstition that our traditional policy is one of isolation is contradicted by every fact in American history from the time of Benjamin Franklin to the present day. We have not only never been isolated but we have sought every opportunity to explain our life, our institutions, our ideals to peoples in other parts of the world, and particularly to the peoples of France and of Great Britain. What was Benjamin Franklin doing while spending 22 years of his life in Paris and in London? What was Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, doing when sitting in the gallery of Versailles yonder and listening to the debate on the Declaration of the Rights of Man? What was John Adams doing, living in London and explaining the new Federal Constitution to the British people? What was being done by our great constructive secretaries of state from that time almost to this—John Quincy Adams, Daniel Webster, William H. Seward, Hamilton Fish, Elihu Root, every one of them a powerful force in the affairs of the whole world, every one of them offering helpful co-operation, constructive criticism and guidance on behalf of the American people?

If by a policy of isolation is meant that our people intend at every possible cost to refrain from war, well and good; but that is not isolation: it is something quite different. We are now dealing with the real underlying forces, forces of thought, forces of opinion—the forces which move men in their social, economic and political life.

It is habitual with certain of our public men who hail isolation as a policy to quote a sentence from President Washington's farewell address and another sentence from Thomas Jefferson's first inaugural. Indeed, what they usually do is to quote the sentence from Jefferson's first inaugural and ascribe it to Washington's farewell address. Both men were effective exponents of the policy of international collaboration and co-operation, and what those two sentences meant was a warning not to become involved in the Napoleonic wars, which some years later we managed to do in the form of the War of 1812. We do not realize how powerful has been the movement among our people not only to co-operate in maintaining prosperity and peace, but in offering leadership and guidance and counsel to that end.

Run your eye back over the history of the last 40 years.

The Czar's Appeal.

It is a little more than 40 years since there was issued in the name of the Czar of All the Russias the most extraordinary appeal to other governments that the world has ever heard. It is a classic document entitled to rank with the very highest, inviting those governments to come forth and counsel together as to ways and means of collaborating to preserve the peace of the world. The result was the First Hague conference of 1899. President McKinley rejoiced at the possibility of accepting this invitation and sent to that conference a delegation of outstanding Americans, at whose head was Andrew D. White, statesman and educator. It was the American delegation which saved that conference from hopeless failure, because, when the governments could not agree upon some of the largest phases of the questions submitted to them, it was the American delegation which pro-

Few men are better equipped to write of world affairs than Nicholas Murray Butler, the president of Columbia university, who is also the president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. Dr. Butler has been awarded the Nobel Peace prize, has been given degrees by universities the world over. He has had an inside view of all of the steps in foreign affairs taken by the United States and other nations since the Armistice of November 11, 1918. His library at 60 Morningside Drive, New York, contains a valuable collection of books by the leading statesmen of all nations, many of whom are his personal friends. The adviser of Presidents and Prime Ministers, Dr. Butler is as optimistic today as when he counseled with Andrew Carnegie on the problems of educating public opinion for world peace more than a quarter of a century ago.

NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER

posed that they should agree upon bringing into existence a Permanent Court of Arbitration. That was done. The court was set up and in a year or two it began to function. Next came the invitation of 1908.

There is hardly an American who knows how far our public opinion went at that fortunate time, almost exactly 30 years ago. It was on June 4, 1910, that this joint resolution was on the calendar of the house of representatives at Washington.

A Real Program for Peace.

The resolution was to authorize the appointment of a commission in relation to universal peace:

"Resolved—that a commission of five members be appointed by the President of the United States to consider the expedience of utilizing existing international agencies for the purpose of limiting the armaments of the nations of the world by international agreement, and of constituting the combined navies of the world an international force for the preservation of universal peace, and to consider and report upon any other means to diminish the expenditures of government for military purposes and to lessen the probabilities of war."

What happened to that remarkable resolution? It passed the house of representatives by unanimous consent. It went to the senate on June 20, and four days following, it passed the senate also by unanimous consent, and was signed by the President of the United States. So the government of the United States was then proposing to lead the way to the establishment of an international police force for the protection of international law and international morality. Was that isolation?

It is vitally important, not only for America but for the whole civilized world to realize what our people and our government were unanimously prepared to do then, and to bring them back to be prepared to do it now.

Strides Toward Peace.

Great progress was made, although by different methods and in various directions, between 1919 and 1929. Steps were taken now here, now there, to improve international relations and international conditions. I shall always believe the untimely death, first of Dr. Stresemann and, then of M. Briand to be largely responsible for checking the constructive movement which was then going forward. Immediately thereafter came the world economic and monetary crisis in which we still live and which holds every nation in its grasp. It is a complete illusion to think that there is a French crisis and a German crisis and an English crisis and an American crisis and an Argentine crisis. There is a world crisis, which expresses itself under different conditions and limitations in each country, but at bottom the causes and their effects are absolutely one and the same.

Understanding those facts and looking them in the face, why have we not been able to make progress in solving these questions? Why is it that the world is going on using up the savings of a thousand years and borrowing against the possible savings of generations to come? Why is it that we have been unable thus far in any considerable degree to co-operate to check the growth of these destructive forces, economic and social, every one of which makes for the undermining of prosperity and for temptation to destroy peace? Why is it?

There met in London, at Chatham house, in March, 1935, 61 of the leading personalities of the world, statesmen, economists, bankers, industrialists, diplomats, coming from a dozen countries. They spent days in intimate consultation as to how to answer the question which I am now asking. To the great surprise of themselves as well as of everyone else, those 61 men, with different backgrounds and different points of view, agreed unanimously upon a program of economic and monetary reform. That program, simple and easily understood, has been enthusiastically accepted by the International Chamber of Commerce and by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, and those two bodies are now working day and night in their quiet way to press it upon the attention of the public and of the governments in order to stop the policy of "Wait and See" and to get something done. Any observer of human nature, and of government must know that the longer we "Wait and See," the more ammunition we present to dictatorship in whatever form it may show itself.

An Age-Old Problem.

We permit these forces to repeat themselves generation after generation, century after century. We look at them as if they were utterly new, as if the world had never heard of them before; and yet in one way or another, from the time of ancient Egypt, man has had to deal with this problem in some one of its forms.

We are face to face with that and it can only be solved in one or two ways. If I may contradict myself, the first way will not solve it. It may be solved by force, which means a temporary solution only, or it may be solved by reason. The minorities problem is not new. Fortunately, France has been very little troubled with it. But look at Great Britain: Angles, Saxons, Danes, Normans, Scots, Celts. War after war for 500 years and then finally they found a solution. They can all live in peace and quiet and order together.

We in America have had a very grave minorities problem with our colored people. It led to a vast civil war which almost disrupted the nation, and it took 70 years before it came to a climax. So, when you see these minorities problems elsewhere, in Asia, in Africa, in Eastern Europe, do not forget that we have had no end of experience with that problem and that there are only the two ways of dealing with it: by force, which does not settle it, and by reason, which will settle it. Time, good order, kindly feeling, high-mindedness, moral standards and faith in human nature are necessary.

As one goes about the world today, he must be impressed with the discouragement which is felt everywhere. That is not the way to solve anything. Pessimism is the last resource of the coward. Optimism, faith in mankind, belief in ideas, courage and willingness to call upon your fellow-men to come up out of their little narrow personal environments and to show themselves citizens of their nations and of the world, to constitute a constructive force that, instead of making this Twentieth century of ours the end of an era, will show that we have been able to make it the beginning of a new order in a peaceful and a prosperous world.

Charming, Practical All-Day Dresses

THESE two designs are so good looking and slim-lined that you'll enjoy wearing them for shopping and runabout as well as at home. Make in percale and calico, and in challis, jersey or crepe. Both are easy to make as boiled dressing. Each pattern includes a detailed sew chart.

Buttoned Down the Front.
This softened version of the classic shirtwaist has fullness over the bust and a slight blouse at the waistline, which makes it easy to wear as well as to work in. The skirt has a nice flare to it. Shrugged shoulder sleeves and white cuffs and collar add to the crisp, smart look, and make it more becoming. You'll find the capacious patch pockets very handy!

For Large Figures.

Here's one of the most becoming and comfortable work dresses you ever had on, if you're in the 36 to 52 size range. Every detail is designed to give you freedom of movement, and to make you look thin. The armholes are ample. The darted waistline looks slim without being tight, and it blouses just a bit for greater ease. The scalloped front, braid-trimmed edges and white collar (with long lines, becoming to full faces) trim it up just enough.

The Patterns.

1618 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. With long sleeves, size 16 requires 4 1/4 yards of 39-inch material; 1/2 yard for contrasting collar and cuffs; 2 yards of braid. With short sleeves 4 1/4 yards.

1624 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 4 1/4 yards of 39-inch material; 1/2 yard for contrasting collar; 3 yards braid for trimming.

Fall and Winter Fashion Book.
The new 32-page Fall and Winter Pattern Book which shows photographs of the dresses being worn is now out. (One pattern and the Fall and Winter Pattern Book—25 cents.) You can order the book separately for 15 cents.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

SYNOPSIS

Young Rex Hale calls on Casper Kneeland, friend of his father, in New York, and finds him proudly successful but strangely preoccupied. He tells Hale of his wife's death while insane, invites him for the summer to Halcyon Camp, his home on Long Island, and promises him he will be "useful" as his secretary there. Hale is joined at lunch by Fred Ainsworth, an unpopular college mate, also at Halcyon, who leaves him with a feeling of unpleasant mystery. He is met at the train by Mrs. Wilbur Nash, whom he questions about the menage, and experiences a disturbing premonition. The premonition is barely eased by the comfortable hospitality of Hosanna, Kneeland's elderly sister, and her friend, Ruth Forbes, middle-aged sophisticated. In his room, Hale finds a soiled paper, printed, "This place dangerous." Hale meets the rest of the strange group—Dr. Craig, psychiatrist, friend of Bert Kneeland, nervous young son of Casper, and beautiful but moody Joan Kneeland, niece of the house. Ainsworth drops in at his room, questions him about his reactions, and tells him of Bert's hopeless love for his heiress cousin, and that Mrs. Forbes is down and out. The whole group seem to get on each other's nerves. Later, Hale sees Hosanna hurriedly meeting a shabby man in the woods. The maid tells of the recent poisoning of a cat and dog. Mrs. Nash suggests that Ainsworth has some hold on them. Returning from a swim, Hale finds in his room a clever sketch of skull and crossbones. Kneeland arrives for the weekend, also curious about Hale's reactions and asks him to be his substitute host, a "life of the party," and meanwhile try to solve the mystery of the behavior of them all. Bert confides in Hale his growing annoyance at Craig's nightly visits and endless talks of cadavers he preserves in his locked laboratory, taken care of only by himself, and Hale advises the boy to discourage the visits. He finds another sketch of a cobra coiled to strike, with the caption, "Why wait for this?"

The next fortnight was spent by Mr. Kneeland's new employee in an occupation one of our distinguished Presidents has described as "watchful waiting." He mingled. He cultivated every member of the group, even Ainsworth. He was reasonably successful in concealing his growing dislike of that young man, though he frequently intercepted and returned Ainsworth's barbed darts at his employer. He also interrupted without hesitation, and side-tracked, many of Craig's lurid medical yarns. He went on numerous motorboat excursions with Bert and was pained to find the youth increasingly nervous and fidgety.

He took frequent walks in the woods and along the shore with Joan or Mrs. Spencer Forbes. Miss Hosanna explained that she herself had all the exercise she wanted, around the house. She had. She was up early and late. She was constantly busy. Hale picked up her balls of silk or wool in her rest periods. He played frequent games of desperation or backgammon with her. He listened respectfully to her dietetic theories and her reiterated statements that all the dishes he liked best were "poison." He became increasingly popular with Joe, Banks, and Rose, and won Jane's heart by friendly attention to Daisy. He successfully concealed his interest in the fact that the animal, so robust when she arrived, was now in a low state of health. She moped and objected to petting. He had two more long talks with Casper Kneeland. Once Kneeland again referred to his wife's tragic death. "She had puerperal insanity," he explained. "She tried to give me another son, and it finished her. I haven't spoken of it since, not even to Bert. Can't bear to talk about it."

Hale took care of all letters to Casper Kneeland which came to Halcyon Camp. He wrote a number of letters of his own. Two of these were addressed to distinguished psychiatrists he knew, one of them in Chicago and the other to whom he had once been of some service—in Paris. Unostentatiously and with considerable ingenuity he secured the fingerprints of most members of the household. Those prints, when developed, might lead to the discovery of the mysterious artist at Halcyon Camp, and the writer of the anonymous letters.

His collection of letters and sketches had grown. There was a sketch of a grave and a tombstone with his name on the latter. There were dancing skeletons labeled in the same way. They reminded him rather uncannily of his dream, after the first office interview with Casper Kneeland. There was a large sketch of a skull. It was treated with a phosphorescent preparation and grinned at him brilliantly from the foot of his bed one night, after the lights were off. There were more misspelled notes, urgently repeating the advice of the original note that he leave Halcyon Camp. On one occasion there was a frog in his bed. Later a colony of ants were sheltered there. Several nights after this half a dozen wasps were let loose in his room. Twice his room was upset—his bed dismantled, the furniture overturned, a whirlwind of newspapers and torn scraps tossed about. Once Rose discovered this and cleaned it up. Hale made no explanation, and the maid's manner was distant for several days. The other time he found the litter first and cleared it away himself. Why should someone be so anxious to get rid of him? He didn't tell anyone about the petty persecutions, but he was increasingly irritated by them. Meanwhile, he chafed mentally under his apparent lack of the "progress" Kneeland wordlessly demanded. He held himself in a tight rein. "I've got to learn all I can learn about the characters and interests of these people," he reminded himself. "I'll turn them inside out before I get through with them. But not yet."

The objects of his special study were the two younger Kneelands. He was increasingly disturbed about them both. Bert was riding for a nerve crash. He was increasingly moody and erratic.

But it was Joan who was Hale's greatest interest. He walked, swam, talked with her daily. He danced with her at night. They discussed countless subjects with apparent intimacy. Yet he never felt that he really knew her. If she had been the victim of a desperately unhappy love affair, she might have looked and acted as she often did—like a detached being, wandering in space. At such times it was impossible to interest or amuse her. At others she was animated, almost gay. There were hours, even days, when she was as natural with him as she was with Bert. There were other hours when she teased him unmercifully. She professed herself young Hale. He had started something. He rather wished he hadn't. The whole thing might be nothing but a mare's nest. He had given it entirely too much importance in their talk. He returned with his plate, meditating on the best way to let down the exuberant youngster at the other end of the table. Before undertaking this he swallowed a cup of coffee. He felt better. Simultaneously Joan entered the room. Both men were startled by her pallor and the dark circles under her eyes, but she seemed in good spirits. She smiled and nodded, and Hale hurried to the sideboard to serve her. He always moved with surprising lightness and agility for so large a young man.

"A little of everything?" he asked as he raised dish covers. "Heavens, no," Joan shuddered. "You ought to know by this time that I'm never interested in breakfast. Only a slice of hot toast and a glass of orange juice, please. And yes, Rose, I'll have some coffee. Thanks."

Hale brought her the toast and orange juice and returned to his own breakfast, feeling soft-pedaled.

He was impressionable. It had not taken him long to discover that

"It's only eight twenty now," he said under his breath. "I've already told him I thought I'd drive to New York with him! You see, Joan, our uncle has given me one of these government emergency jobs, to keep me busy during the summer. I myself must find the work for my little hands to do. Today I'm going to trace down a rumor that some North River coal-heaver is fastening his shirt to his trousers with one of our Uncle's patented safety catches. That's in direct violation of the code. If I catch him at it there will be something doing in the industrial world."

"If there is, it will be the first time this summer," Kneeland groaned. But he swallowed his third cup of coffee with resignation and winked at Joan.

"Thanks pretty well of himself, this lad," he told her. "Did you hear him calling you Joan? And before he had been in the house three weeks!"

"Did I do that?" Rex looked surprised and then thoughtful. "I suppose it was because I always think of her that way. Where do you want me to stop, Uncle Cass, the days I'm in town?"

"I suppose you might as well come to the house," Kneeland said resignedly. "I'm in it nights from Mondays to Fridays. I have a dinky there to keep the place in order and get my breakfasts."

"He may keep you there, too, if you never speak before nine," Joan contributed.

"And if he occasionally stops speaking after nine," Kneeland muttered. "Your luncheons and dinners you can take wherever you like, Rex, as I do."

"I wonder if I like the name of Rex," Joan mused aloud.

"Of course you do. It's a beautiful name. You'll find that it comes very trippingly from the tongue."

"Isn't it rather pretentious? I thought only young men in books had it."

"There are a few poor devils in real life who struggle along under it, too," Rex confessed with sudden gloom.

"If you're going to New York with me, young man," Kneeland broke in, "you will be at the front door in five minutes."

"And in five pieces in ten minutes. I know. Will you excuse me, Joan? I'll break a lance for you during the combat of the day. Or perhaps it will be only the springs of Uncle's car. I think I'll drive."

He raced upstairs for his hat, raced down again, flung himself into the roadster. Joe had left at the front door, and seized the wheel. Kneeland lumbered after him, and Joan stared after them both. What inexhaustible vitality that young man had! It was impossible to think of him as ill or suffering; and yet he had been both, and that very recently. She herself felt like a rag. She decided to go back to her room and rest a bit before the bathing hour. The bathing hour seemed to take a lot out of her. She went upstairs with dragging steps.

In the speeding roadster the two men were silent. Kneeland was observing Hale's driving and deciding that it was all right. The younger man's thoughts were on the girl he had just left. She had looked really ill this morning. Her beauty was dimmed by her pallor, but the pathos of it made her more appealing to him. Her eyes looked as if she had not slept. Which, of all the strains in that sinister camp, was the strain that was consuming her?

These somber thoughts continued to occupy his mind until they arrived in New York.

Hanging Shelves You Can Make of Spools

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

A letter received from a reader says, "I have found so many helpful things in your Book 1—SEWING for the Home Decorator, I wonder if you have any ideas on fixing up spools? I have in mind the spool book shelves and corner shelves they used long ago." It's probably the general revival of Victorian ideas in decoration that has started everyone thinking of spool shelves.

We seemed to remember that the shelves we had seen years ago in old parlors were put together with colored cords. We tried this but the shelves were not rigid as the cords stretched. So we used wire and the result has been a substantial set of shelves strong enough to hold reasonably heavy articles.

A little less than 12 1/2 feet of wire was used for the shelves shown here. Two sizes of spools were used. Shelves, spools, wires and all were finally painted to match the brightest tone in the room color scheme—in our case it was peacock blue. There are picture directions like these on every page of Book No. 1—SEWING, for the Home Decorator. If your house is your hobby, it will be full of thrills for you. Don't go through the holidays with shabby curtains or slipcovers. This book illustrates every step in making new ones. Book 2: Novelties and Embroidery, shows how to make dozens of Christmas gifts from odds and ends of material. Books are 25 cents each. If you order both books an interesting quilt leaflet is included free. Address Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplains St., Chicago, Ill.

Device Sounds Alarm to Warn Family Before Fire in House Gains Headway

Within a few seconds after fire breaks out in your home the household can be warned by a howling alarm which is simply screwed into a light socket, says Popular Mechanics. This detector utters an unmistakable shriek if the temperature in the room rises at a sustained rate of 15 or 20 degrees per minute. This "rate-of-rise" thermostat will catch the fire before it has reached dangerous proportions, yet will not cause false alarms from ordinary changes in room temperature due to weather or winter heating of the building.

Plugged into a ceiling socket in basement, attic or closet—danger spots for fires in the home—it will detect any sudden surge of heat almost instantly. The rate-of-rise feature is operated by a small air-expansion chamber with an extremely sensitive diaphragm which bellows out when the temperature rises in the air chamber and closes an electrical contact. There is an additional thermostat which, in the event a smoldering, slow fire has not activated the alarm, will sound the howler when the room temperature reaches 150 degrees. The signal operates on alternating current and uses about eight watts. A tiny neon lamp consuming four-tenths watt shows that the current is on. The detector readjusts itself after the fire is extinguished and need not be replaced. Extension howlers and detectors can be connected for remote alarms.

Lake Okechobee, Florida

Lake Okechobee in Florida is circular in shape, and about 30 miles in diameter. It is, with the exception of Lake Michigan, the largest fresh-water lake wholly within the United States. It lies immediately north of the Everglades. At mean level it has an area of 468,880 acres. Early explorers believed the lake was fed by subterranean streams or large springs. A few years ago this theory was more or less exploded by investigations at low water; these failed to disclose any such source of supply. It is believed that Okechobee relies entirely on rainfall.

NORODY'S BUSINESS

BY JULIAN CAPERS JR.

AUSTIN—Legislators who made their campaigns this summer on a platform of "economy in the State government", will get an opportunity to make good on that campaign promise when the new Legislature starts in to make appropriations for the fiscal year beginning Sept. 1, 1939.Sen. John S. Redditt, of Lufkin chairman of the special senate economy committee, and his aides, have about completed their long task of looking into all the State departments, and writing an appropriation bill that will cut out unnecessary employees, do away with overlapping and duplicating functions of government, and save some money. But they will not recommend any pay cuts for state employees, because they have found Texas does not pay any higher average salaries to its workers than other Southern states. Redditt hopes and believes his committee can present a bill that will lop off about $3,500,000 from departmental appropriations each year of the biennium, and that additional reductions of about $1,500,000 can be made in the eleemosynary, educational and judiciary appropriations.
This would result in a total saving of around $10,000,000 for the biennium, or cut of $5,000,000 a year—the maximum figure which has been suggested by those who know anything at all about State government. Redditt and his committee feel this can be done—if the Legislature will do it—without any material reduction in the quality and scope of necessary governmental functions. It would be sufficient to take care of the State's share of the social security program not yet financed, and possibly the teachers' retirement obligation. Whether the affected departments can muster enough strength to keep the legislature from making the reductions remains to be seen.Power Agreement Reported NearNegotiations between officials of the Colorado River Authority and the Texas Power & Light Co., for the sale of the latter's plants and facilities in 14 Central Texas counties to the CRA are reported progressing favorably, and informed sources expect to see the deal completed. John Carpenter, head of TP&L, who has always believed in a policy of compromise and negotiation instead of fighting when interests conflict, offered to sell the properties of TP&L in the natural territory if CRA to the latter, and withdraw from the field, as a better plan than a costly war between CRA and TP&L in the area. The policy which Carpenter has found so successful in maintaining good relations between his concern and the public is also being adopted nationally by some of the larger utility concerns, notably Electric Bond & Share Co., which according to Washington dispatches, has out a plan under the Federal holding company act voluntarily to break up its holdings of integrated companies, through the ef-forts of C. E. Grosbeck, chairman of Electric Bond & Share.Washington InterestedRumors that some solution of the problem of "dumping" of Mexican expropriated oil into the Texas market, and seizure without payment of American and British oil properties by the Mexican government, may be earing in Washington, were current here this week, following the visit of Ernest O. Thompson Chairman of the Railroad Commission and Chairman of the Interstate Compact Commission, with President Roosevelt at Hyde Park. Roosevelt, it is said, summoned Thompson, whom he regards as the best informed oil administrative official in the nation, and the red-headed Texan is said to have discussed both problems fully with the President.
If a commission to arbitrate the oil property seizure is named by Roosevelt, best informed sources here regard Thompson as almost certain to represent this country.
Meanwhile, Mexican "dumping" was one of the chief topics of discussion among oil men who gathered at San Antonio for the Midcontinent Oil and Gas Association's convention, and officials of the North Texas Oil and Gas Association announced they would vigorously press their charge of violation of the Federal Anti-Dumping Act, in an effort to halt imports of confiscated Mexican oil.Aged Judges ProblemFrom several lawyer-legislators this week came a suggestion that may result in an effort by the next Legislature to provide a retirement act for Texas high court judges similar to the Federal judges' retirement act passed by the last congress. They pointed out that the Texas Supreme Court and the Court of Criminal Appeals are both handicapped at present by the prolonged illness of one judge on each court, which has prevented either performing the duties of his office for many months. The same situation frequently arises in the Courts of Civil Appeals, but a state law permits the Governor to appoint a special commissioner, when a judge on the latter courts is incapacitated. The judges apparently never feel like resigning until death calls them, and the work of the courts suffers as a consequence. A retirement provision, carrying a lifetime pay arrangement for judges after certain age limit is reached, would prove an economy in the long run, the legislators point out, through saving in operation of the courts.Capital Punishment RowGov. Nominee W. Lee O'Daniel picked one of the most highly controversial issues in Texas, when he told San Antonio reporters he favored abolition of capital punishment in Texas, but didn't know whether he would recommend such action to the Legislature or not. Members of the Board of Pardons and Pardon immediately replied with a statement, declaring capital punishment is a real deterrent to criminals, and prevents lynching.
They pointed out that so long as criminal assault cases occur in Texas, there will be capital punishment, whether by law or by mob rule, and asserted abolition of capital punishment would be a big boost for a Federal antilynching law, which Southern congressmen and senators have fought off successfully for years.HAPPENINGS AT BAPTIST CHURCHThings are moving along very nicely at the Baptist church. Our Sunday school is making a good average. The offerings are good and the preaching congregations are a great delight to us.
Next Sunday morning our subject will be "Shall we preach the word of God in this time of doubt and confusion or shall the preacher drift with the times and be popular?" A great deal is being said about the great men—men who are broad minded, liberal in their thinking. If it is popular to do it—if the majority want it let them have it—but what say the word of God?Anyway come to the Baptist church next Sunday. Hear for yourself and remember that it will be just a gospel sermon—no personalities—just Bible.The hour for the evening serv-

Clinics will begin operating under the plan November 1, at Beaumont, Port Arthur, Galveston and Corpus Christi.Other cities over the state are studying their local venereal disease control problem and will qualify for assistance as soon as they appropriate the local funds prerequisite to state financial participation.The state funds have been allocated the State Department of Health by the United States Public Health Service under the provisions of the LaFollette-Bulwin-kle bill passed by the 75th congress. No funds for venereal disease control have been appropriated by the state legislature and this lack of state funds curtails
the amount of USPHS funds which can be allotted for the program in Texas. The present program, therefore, is a small one designed to cope with the program as adequately as possible in view of the limited funds available.The municipal venereal disease clinics are charged specifically with treating venereal diseases among the indigent class at no cost to the indigents. Blood tests are run and treatments secured for all indigents found syphilitic.Doctor Cox states that free arsenicals for the treatment of syphilitic indigents are being distributed to more than twenty rural and semi-rural sections of the state where no clinics are in operation."Our present venereal disease program is the opening wedge to control of the genito-infectious diseases. The funds available are totally inadequate to care for the venereal disease problem in a state that has six and a half million population and probably three hundred thousand persons infected with syphilis. It is of the utmost importance that the state legislature, at its next session, appropriate money for venereal disease control. Our Federal funds will be greatly curtailed next year if a state appropriation for venereal disease work is not forthcoming to supplement them. Without adequate funds the program inaugurated at this time will collapse and our statewide venereal disease control program will be almost at a standstill," Dr. Cox concluded.COTTON GINNING REPORTCensus report shows that 16,

HIGH SCHOOL CHORUS

The High School Chorus has worked hard since school started. We think we have accomplished much, considering the time we have had to practice. There are about forty-two of us, and we expect to do big things for our school during the year.

This coming Friday night, November 4, there will be a free program here in the auditorium. It will be a miscellaneous program, of all the different music departments of the school. In our chorus, we have learned some American, Spanish, and Italian songs. We shall sing some of each of these next Friday night. We have a girl's trio and a boy's quartet, too. We are proud of them. Come to our program and hear them sing.

West Texas Fair Association, Inc.

Mr. Ed Williams
 Superintendent of Schools
 Lorraine, Texas

Dear Mr. Williams:
 I trust that you will pardon the delay in writing to express to you our sincere appreciation and thanks for the services rendered by your band and pep squad in the West Texas Cotton Festival parade during our Fair. We sincerely appreciate this splendid cooperation.

Very truly yours,
 Merle Gruver, Manager

Friday at 12:45 we had two short pep rallies. First was the campaign rally for the candidate speeches for each Queen and King. Each class had some short program which proved to be very comical but good advertising as well.

Following this candidate pep rally we had a short pep rally for the Bulldogs. We tried to pep them up before going to Rotan Friday night. The Bulldogs have done well this year considering what they have been up against.

The Bow Wows have worked hard trying to please the football fans with our formations. We have heard compliments as well as criticisms on them and appreciate both.

R. L. Mahoney: How are your marks Roy G.?

Roy G.: They're under water.

R. L.: What do you mean under water?

 Roy G.: Below 'C' level.

Betty Johnson: Why hasn't your boy friend been coming to see you the last few days?
 Wenola Martin: I penalized him ten nights for holding.

Mr. Williams wrote to a mail order house: "Send me one of those electric lawn mowers on page 569 and if its any good I'll send you a check."

The following reply came back promptly: "Send us the check and if its any good we will send you the lawn mower."

Royal: I put a tack on teacher's chair yesterday.

Gene: I bet he won't sit down in a hurry.

Royal: No, neither will I.

Sophomore News

It seems that Royce Mahon has more to learn. Oh yes he knows that when you're bad you go to some place (uh he called it) but it seems he's never just yet heard the real word. Well, anyhow Royce, we all must learn so suppose you ask "Shorty." He knows all the answers—I think.

We are getting rather impatient because they don't give Louise and "Shorty" that prize cake so—well, they might give us one bite or at any rate. Oh yes, we're sure they will get it, but the trouble is the other classes are equally so. Anyhow we're still hoping and working and we will back them to our utmost until the end.

The Junior News

We have some really good news for you this week. The junior play has arrived! The name of the play is "When a Woman Decided." The cast of characters, which as yet have not been selected, includes five girls, and three boys. We will start work on the play next week probably and before you can blink an eye, you shall see before your very eyes a first-rate, three act comedy. Watch for further announcements.

When you go to the polls to vote for your favorite king and queen, would you be so kind as to vote for Betty Johnson and Truman (Johnny) Walker? We will assure and guarantee you the best looking couple in high school. How about it?

If anyone should ever tell you that the students of L. H. S. seem dull, dreary, and minus pep just tell them they don't know what they're talking about. Some day when you hear that we're having a pep rally, just happen to be around. Why, we all get so full of pep, we almost ran the teachers crazy trying to calm us down. It's when our good ole' band starts playing and our good ole' pep squad starts yelling, that you just can't keep from getting "that certain feelin'!"

In a certain class last week, we, the juniors of Lorraine High School, were actually accused of going to be school teachers—because we're so absent minded! Teh, teh! that will never do for us jitter-bugs, so snap out of it, and get that "wandering" mind of yours down to business.

This is just prophesying of course, but Tuesday is going to be a hard day. Remember, it will be the "day after the night before!" And what that will be nobody knows. We hope!

Introducing the Seniors

"Stop," "Look" and "Listen" We are bringing to your attention this week a very popular young lady of the Senior class of '38-'39. She is none other than Miss Helen Marie Compton who was born December 23, 1921. She is 4 feet, 7 inches tall, weighs 126, has blond hair and brown eyes. She is a member of the pep squad, the Latin Club, and the Home Ec. Club.

Helen has attended two schools. She attended Bauman school from the third grade through the sixth grade. The remainder of the time has been spent in Lorraine school.

Helen plans to enter a beauty school next year and dedicate the rest of her life making ugly ones pretty and pretty ones beautiful. She will be another "beauty operator." Helen enjoys all kinds of sports and she enjoys writing letters and collecting pictures. Helen is liked by all.

L. H. S. Band

The band got several new overtures this week and two new marches. We are proud of our new music and are working hard to learn to play it.

The band advanced from class D to class C this year. We won second division last year, and hope to win a better place in class C.

The band did not make a formation at Rotan Friday night, because we did not have a chance to practice. But we were on the side lines yelling for the Bulldogs.

FARM CASH INCOME HIGHER IN SEPTEMBER

Austin, Texas, November 1.—Farm cash income in Texas during September rose substantially over the preceding month, but the increase was less than the usual seasonal gain, according to Dr. F. A. Buechel, assistant director of the Bureau of Business Research, University of Texas. As a result the index of farm cash income dropped more than three points from August to September. He said that in comparison with September last year the drop in farm cash income was considerably more abrupt—from 88.4 a year ago to 66.3 during September of the current year or 25 per cent.

"The computed farm cash income, exclusive of Government subsidies, representing about 90 per cent of actual farm cash income was $75,667,000 in September, compared with $100,957,000 during the corresponding month last year," Dr. Buechel said. "During the base period upon which the index of farm cash income is computed, 1928-1932, the average September farm cash income was about $114,189,000. For the first nine months of the current year farm cash income as computed by this Bureau was $274,648,000, compared with $368,331,000 during the like period last year, a decline of more than 25 per cent."

"The current relatively unfavorable showing of farm cash income in Texas is mainly the result of the decline in production and price of cotton. Since this crop dominates farm cash income during this season of the year, unfavorable comparisons are expected to continue through October and November at least."

BAPTIST CONVENTION IN DALLAS NOVEMBER 8-11

Dallas, Texas, Oct. 29.—Texas Baptists meeting in their annual sessions here November 8-11 will hear reports from their war-ravaged mission fields throughout the world, particularly in the Orient.

The important report on foreign missions, in which the State's 660,000 members of the denomination are keenly interested, will be brought to the convention at an afternoon session November 10. Baptist headquarters here recently received the news of the bombing of the Stout Memorial Hospital at Wuxow, Kwangai, South China.

Trade Speaker

Cordell Hull, United States secretary of state pleaded for international good will and understanding Tuesday, November 1, when he spoke at a world trade dinner featuring the National Foreign Trade council convention in New York city.

The Wuchow Hospital is the largest maintained overseas by Southern Baptists, with whom the Baptist General Convention of Texas is affiliated. Among Texans there were Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Beddoe of Dallas and Rev. and Mrs. Rex Ray of White-wright. The institution has been doing double duty as a base hospital for wounded soldiers and as a haven for sick refugees.

The convention—the largest gathering of its kind in the world—is expected to draw 12,000 delegates to this North Texas city. Sessions begin Tuesday evening November 8, and end at noon Friday, under the presidency of Dr. J. B. Tidwell of Waco, professor of Bible at Baylor University.

Challenging the general meeting in interest are two preliminary sessions. The Woman's Missionary Union will hold its forty-eighth annual convention beginning Monday afternoon Nov. 7, under the direction of Mrs. B. A. Copass of Fort Worth. President. The annual pastor's and laymen's conference will also begin meetings Monday afternoon with George J. Mason of Dallas presiding.

The important roles of church women and laymen in carrying on the manifold activities of the denomination in Texas—including the ministry of healing in hospitals, Christian Education and home and foreign missions—will be thoroughly discussed and plans for the next year's activities will be made.

Outstanding at the laymen's conference will be discussions of "Texas Baptists and the liquor question" by Jeff Davis of Dallas and a talk on "America and the Nations—a picture of this bewildered world" by C. B. Jackson.

RATS CAUSE LOSS OF MILLIONS ON DOLLARS

College Station—The answer to the rat problem that costs Texas around 20 million dollars a year lies in systematic, community-wide eradication campaigns, U. S. Department of Agriculture Bureau of Biological Survey rodent control workers believe.

In addition to the monetary losses caused by rats, the spread of typhus, which has increased from 5 Texas cases in 1928 to 453 in 1937, is laid to the rodent.

Eighteen Texas counties are cooperating in a gigantic rat control campaign that will reach its climax on November 9 when some 20,000 pounds of poisoned bait will be distributed. The counties make up district 11 of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service, and the program is under the supervision of R. S. Miller, extension district agent.

Rats are very numerous in these counties, and an annual loss of 2 million dollars is estimated to occur from rats there.

Those from this community who have been selected to attend the Baptist convention in Dallas next week includes Mr. and Mrs. Gray Taylor of Pleasant Valley.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

The Singing Kettle.—When a coal stove is used it is foolish to allow the teakettle to be empty at any time. One always can find a use for boiling or very hot water.

Keeping Mustard Moist.—Dry mustard mixed with milk instead of water will not dry out but will keep moist until it has all been used.

Table Linen.—To keep white table linen from turning yellow, wrap it in a fast-color blue paper.

Try Vinegar.—Wipe the pantry shelves with a cloth dipped in vinegar. It gives a fresh and pleasant atmosphere to the larder and repels flies.

Cleaning Oven Dishes.—Marks on fireproof oven dishes can be removed by rubbing with common salt while the dish is still hot.

This is the time of year when town and rural folk are getting ready for winter. Your car is as important then as now. Give it a thought. Be forehanded. Favorite Recipe of the Week

CHILLY fall days and cranberry relish go together. Tart relishes do so much to perk up the meat roast. Raw cranberries and fruits put through the food chopper are simple to prepare and inexpensive. No cooking and can be put up for future use in sterilized glasses covered with paraffin.

Cranberry Orange Relish

The aristocrat of relishes. Particularly good with all meats, hot or cold.

1 pound (4 cups) cranberries
2 oranges 2 cups sugar
Put cranberries through food chopper. Slice oranges, remove seeds and put rind and oranges through chopper. Mix with berries and sugar. Let stand for a few hours before serving. This easy, popular uncooked relish can be put up for future use in sterilized glasses covered with paraffin.

Cranberry Horseradish Relish
Mix chopped raw cranberries with grated fresh horseradish in proportions of 3/4 cranberries to 1/4 horseradish. Serve with meats.

Wait, Mother—Ask Your Doctor First

Lesson for November 6

HONORING OUR PARENTS

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:12; Luke 2:46-52; John 19:26, 27; Ephesians 6:1-4.
GOLDEN TEXT—Honor thy father and thy mother: that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee.—Exodus 20:12.

The splendid obedience of parents to their children has been pointed out as one of the remarkable developments of modern life. No, we have not made a mistake in writing or in typesetting. We mean just what we say—the obedience of parents to their children. In all too many homes God's order has been reversed and instead of honoring and obeying their parents, children (both young and old) have taken the place of "boss," and mother and father must obey if they want peace and rest.

The need for our lesson of today is both great and acute. The future happiness of hundreds of thousands of children (Eph. 6:3) and the present welfare of thousands of neglected and boss-ridden parents will depend on the intelligence and faithfulness with which this lesson is taught in our churches, and the honesty of heart with which men and women study and receive its truth.

I. The Command of God (Exod. 20:12).

The first and most important consideration to come before us is—what is the mind and will of the Maker of us all regarding this matter of the relation between parents and children? His words are plain—we are to "honor" our fathers and our mothers.

The word "honor" carries with it a great many things, but perhaps the three outstanding elements are respect, obedience, and affection. We should look up to them with high regard, obey them as long as they have the authority over us, and show true affection for them.

II. The Example of Jesus (Luke 2:46-52).

The fact that Jesus was God manifest in the flesh only enhances the glory of His conduct. He who is divine presents an example of obedience and consideration both as boy and man which we do well to emulate.

1. As a boy (Luke 2:46-52). The boy Jesus, increasing "in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man," (v. 52) had come to His twelfth year and with His parents had gone up to Jerusalem to celebrate the Passover. There moved in His heart the conviction that He must now be about His Father's business—an altogether proper and commendable purpose but one which resulted for the moment in separation from His parents. This was far more serious than a physical separation, for we read that they did not understand Him (v. 50).

Tragic indeed are the consequences of our failure to understand our children. Notice, however, that Jesus did not withdraw Himself from their watch care, nor refuse to obey them even though they failed to understand Him. Equally tragic are the results of hasty and bitter separations brought about by the disobedience of children.

2. As a man (John 19:26, 27). The value of our lesson will be greatly reduced if we see only the responsibility of children while they are young. We are the children of our parents as long as we and they live. Being grown up and having a family of one's own does not relieve one of the precious responsibility of care for one's parents. Jesus was dying on the cross, His brethren apparently still regarded Him in unbelief, and His mother now needed a son to care for her. Even in His dying agony Jesus remembers to commit her to the care of His beloved disciple, John. One marvels at the carelessness and hardness of heart that will permit men and women who have time and money for everything else and yet will neglect their aged parents and even shunt them off into a public institution for care. Notice the promise that accompanies the command of God (Exod. 20:12; Eph. 6:3). If that is the reward of those who do right, what do you think will be the punishment of those who disobey God?

III. The Admonition of Paul (Eph. 6:1-4).

This matter of honoring and obeying parents "is right," says Paul. It is the Lord's way. Only if parents command their children to do wickedness would there be ground for disobedience to parents. Apart from such circumstances every parent has the right to expect the child's obedience.

There is tremendously important truth on the other side of the picture. Parents are not to provoke their children to anger, to disrespect or disobedience. How much we need God's grace at that point. It is so easy to say and do things that needlessly irritate our children. It is so convenient to nag at a careless child. Often we expect more of them than their age will justify. We are apt to punish them in a spirit of anger or revenge and thus to destroy the value of discipline. May God help us, who are parents, that we may take to heart this part of our lesson. Our children are our most valuable possession.

Star Dust

★ Western West Point

★ Gary Cuts Speed

★ Sub Holds the Fort

—By Virginia Vale—

IN HOLLYWOOD there is a man named Jack Schulze who is one of the wizards of modern times, and it's dollars to doughnuts that you haven't the faintest notion who Jack Schulze is. He's art director for Edward Small Productions, which United Artists releases and here is a brief account of his latest exploit.

Small, producer of "The Duke of West Point," assigned him to a simple little task—just to transport the United States Military Academy from West Point to Hollywood. And Schulze did it. That is, he built in Hollywood so perfect a replica of the academy that the West Point graduates who have come in herds to visit the set felt that they were right back in college.

Perhaps you'll be interested in knowing how it was done. A camera crew was sent to West Point to make films of practically every inch of the academy. That ran into almost 50,000 feet of film, which showed the buildings, the grounds, and was a record of the sort of life that is led there. That's a lot of film, when you consider that the average feature picture, that runs for about an hour and a quarter, is 9,000 feet.

Each morning, before shooting a particular scene, Director Alfred E. Greene goes to his projection room and looks over pictures made under similar circumstances at West Point—pictures showing a day in the life of a cadet. Then he goes to the same spot on the set—there it is, waiting for him, whether it be in the mess hall or on Flirtation walk.

West Point's Michie stadium had to be reproduced for the picture's football game; Art Director Schulze and a crew of workmen did this in the interior of Pasadena's famous Rose Bowl. There's an ice hockey game too—and that set was built in the Polar Palace, where Hollywood's stars go skating in their spare time.

Army experts approved the story of the picture. Its author, George Bruce, spent many weeks at West Point as the commandant's guest, and made volumes of notes for his story.

Gary Cooper, star of "The Cowboy and the Lady," likes to putter. So, not long ago, he settled down with his car—one of those rakish foreign models, eight years old—to do a bit of tinkering. He was getting only 5 1/2 miles to the gallon of gas; something had to be done about it.

He did it. He gets four miles to the gallon now!

Twelve years ago Hal Roach threw Wheeling, W. Va., into a dither, when he arrived there looking for a double for Baby Peggy. He finally chose Mrs. Wyn's little girl, Nan.

Nan is now one of CBS's prize singers. She opened at a New York night club. She received a carload of floral tributes—among them a huge bouquet with which was enclosed an old photograph of her made up as Baby Peggy.

Bob Burns, substituting for Bing Crosby as master of ceremonies on their radio program during the summer, did so well—with a lot of help from a lot of other swell people—that the program stayed in third place in the popularity ratings.

Now that Bing has returned he's giving more attention to his farm. He has six acres in the San Fernando valley, and it's a real farm. Instead of a swimming pool (fancy a movie star without one!) he's building an extra-special barn. He's going in for the best farm equipment that money can buy, and he's going to market potatoes.

Those popularity polls are interesting. Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy hold their program in first place among the hour-long broadcasts; "The Radio Theater," Monday nights from Hollywood, is second. The Vallee Varieties is fourth of the big shows, Major Bowes' amateurs are fifth.

Malibu used to be the place where a motion picture star simply had to have a beach house. Then the directors discovered it, and the stars sold out and went elsewhere. Along came the writers, and the directors sold. Now the writers are moving—and Malibu is perfectly lovely and quiet.

ODDS AND ENDS—Don Wilson is a busy man these days; he's on two transcontinental programs and is making travelogues at Universal. Benny Goodman's to make his classical debut in January at Carnegie Hall in New York, where he gave his sensational debut concert last winter. Alan Mowbray ("There Goes My Heart") announced that he wanted to be adopted by America, so that he could have a native town of his own; eight cities promptly took him up on it. Anne Shirley and her husband, John Payne (who is one of the Paynes of Virginia and likes to have people remember it), are off to Roonoke on a deferred honeymoon.

WHAT to EAT and WHY

C. Houston Goudiss Describes Food Value and Versatility of Gelatin; Outlines Its Many Uses in the Diet

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

WHEN we try to appraise the nutritional values of any one food in comparison with others, as a rule we have a difficult task. Most foodstuffs are composed of so many different substances that what is lacking in one will be supplied by another, and making comparisons may therefore be misleading as well as futile. But there is one food which is outstanding, not only because it is far less complex than most others, but because it is no exaggeration to say that without it, some of us might not be alive, and those of us who are alive would obtain far less enjoyment from our daily existence.

That food is gelatin!

What Is Gelatin?

Gelatin is a protein food which has no equal as a carrier, binder and "extender" of a wide variety of other nutritive materials. Chemically, it is classed as a colloid, which means that in solution, it can be removed from its solvent by filtration.

It is because of this that it is so useful in producing smooth, delicious ice creams and other dainties, free from ice crystals. Gelatin is an almost pure protein—a kind of protein known as an albuminoid. It is not a complete protein, because it is deficient in three of the amino acids that are necessary both to support growth and repair body tissues. In this it differs from meat, cheese, fish, eggs and milk, which are known as complete proteins.

It cannot be used as the sole source of protein in the diet, because those three missing amino acids are necessary for the formation of new body tissue. But it is especially rich in lysine, one of the protein building stones that is particularly important in the diet of children. Experiments indicate that no other amino acid can take the place of lysine and that it must be furnished by the food if adequate nutrition is to be maintained.

That coupled with the fact that it is non-irritating and easily digestible accounts for the large part it plays in the diet of infants and young children.

Contrary to old wives' tales, gelatin is not made from hoofs and horns. In fact, there is no gelatin in hoofs or horns. It is extracted from connective tissue in the skins and from the bones of food animals.

Every homemaker who has made soup by simmering a knuckle bone for hours, and has found the soup "jellied" after standing overnight in the refrigerator, has prepared gelatin on a small scale. The same principles are followed by the gelatin manufacturer, only he operates in a much larger food kitchen, and each step of the preparation is scientifically controlled so as to insure a uniform finished product. Gelatin is sold in two forms: the unflavored, granulated product which requires the addition of flavoring, and when used for dessert purposes, sweetening; and the gelatin dessert powders which contain added sugar, color, flavor and fruit acid. So popular are these convenient gelatin desserts, that about 10,000,000 pounds of gelatin are used annually for this purpose.

From Infancy to Old Age
Nutritionists recognize gelatin as a food possessing many unique advantages in the daily diet, and it is prescribed by physicians for a variety of special diets. New-born babies, for example, are sometimes given a gelatin-sugar-salt solution which provides readily available protein to raise the protein level of the blood. When an infant cannot readily digest milk, owing to the formation of hard curds, the doctor may recommend the addition of 1 per cent of gelatin dissolved in the milk. This usually causes it to be assimilated easily and satisfactorily.

When it comes time to change a baby's food from liquids to solids, gelatin also proves useful, for its soft, semi-solid texture makes an excellent transitional food.

With toddlers and school children, gelatin—the carrier and "extender"—provides a splendid method for offering foods that are disliked. Vegetables that draw forth protests when presented in the usual fashion are eaten with relish when molded into a sparkling lime- or lemon-flavored salad. The coarse texture of certain raw vegetables, such as carrots and cabbage, or the tart flavor of some fruits, may likewise be modified by serving them in a gelatin base.

And it doesn't require statistics from nursery schools to tell mothers how readily children eat gelatin desserts when they are brilliant with color and flavored with

Building, Maintaining Healthy Teeth

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
It is an alarming fact that almost every adult in this great land of ours is affected by some form of oral disease, and that more than 90 per cent of our school children have decayed teeth. A prominent medical authority made the statement that if dental decay became rare, instead of almost universal, more than half of all sickness would be eliminated.

Remarkable and widely heralded advances have been made in our knowledge of how to control and prevent many dangerous and debilitating diseases. A decayed tooth is a poison factory, distributing its noxious product to every part of the body. In the body, that poison attacks and centers in the weakest spot. It may lead to neuritis, rheumatic ailments, dyspepsia, or duodenal ulcers. It may even be a contributing cause of heart disease.

Only a small percentage of our population is yet aware of the far-reaching effects of teeth upon health. There is a close relationship between healthy teeth and healthy bodies, and between decayed teeth and sickly bodies.

By learning something of the importance of caring properly for the teeth, some men and women of middle age look and feel younger than their parents did at the same age.

I have endeavored in many of the WHAT TO EAT AND WHY articles, which have appeared in this newspaper over my signature, to point out the close relationship between diet and dental disease; between frequent and thorough brushing of the teeth with an efficient dentifrice so as to remove all food particles, and strong, beautiful teeth.

I have received many letters from readers of these articles, showing that homemakers are eager for sound, authoritative advice on the proper care of the teeth. To help these and other readers to know how to properly care for their teeth, I have prepared a booklet on BUILDING AND MAINTAINING HEALTHY TEETH which I am offering FREE, because I feel so strongly that this information should be in every home, knowing as I do, that the salvation of the human race may lie in saving their teeth. Spend spare moments profitably with your crochet hook and some string and add charm to your home with crocheted accessories that match! Interesting to make and inexpensive, too, you could make either chair set or pillow alone or make a pillow with matching scarf ends. Can't you see what attention they'd attract at a bazaar? Pattern 6168 contains charts and instructions for making the set; illustrations of it and stitches used; materials needed.

To obtain this pattern, send 15 cents in stamps or coins (coins preferred) to The Sewing Circle, Household Arts Dept., 259 W. 14th St., New York, N. Y.

orange, raspberry, cherry, strawberry or other well liked flavors. Every mother knows this from her own experience—and I rather suspect that many mothers describe these attractive molded desserts as the prize to be won in return for cleaning the plate of the main course!

In the Reducing Diet
Both men and women who are counting their calories, in an effort to avoid overweight, or to reduce, can profit by taking gelatin salads and desserts, which satisfy hunger without providing unwanted fuel value.

In cases of digestive disturbance, gelatin is frequently recommended because of its bland taste, and because it leaves no residue in the lower intestinal tract.

This same splendid food is also advised by doctors when a high protein diet is desired to speed growth, or during convalescence from an illness. Gelatin may be added to broths, milk, fruit and vegetables, and these, in turn, may be incorporated in solidified gelatin.

Indeed, this many-sided foodstuff has come to play such a wide and varied role in nutrition, not only by itself but by enhancing the value of other foods, that it must be numbered among the products that help to increase national health and vigor.

Drop a Bayer Tablet in water—it starts to disintegrate in 2 seconds—hence is ready to "go to work" rapidly

This Quick Dissolving Property of Genuine Bayer Aspirin Explains Fast Relief

If you suffer with headaches or the pains of rheumatism or neuritis, keep the above picture about genuine Bayer Aspirin in your mind. Especially if quick relief is what you want.

For the way a Bayer Tablet works in the glass is the way it works when you take it. It starts to dissolve almost at once—hence is ready to "take hold" of the rheumatic pain or headache with astonishing speed. Relief often comes in a few minutes.

Always ask for "BAYER Aspirin"—never ask for "aspirin" alone.

LIVESTOCK SHIPMENTS DECLINED IN SEPTEMBER

Austin, Texas, November 1.—During September total shipments of livestock from Texas to Fort Worth stockyards and interstate points were only slightly below those of the corresponding month last year, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. Shipments of cattle increased, while forwardings of calves, sheep, and hogs declined in comparison with a year ago.

Reports from about 1,500 Texas shipping points show total shipments of 7,678 cars, compared with 7,718 cars during September last year, a decline of less than 1 per cent. Cattle shipments, 4,328 cars, were up 8 per cent from last year; shipments of calves, 1,694 cars, declined 8 per cent; hog shipments, 589 cars, also were down 8 per cent, and shipments of sheep, 1,067 cars, were off 13 per cent.

Receipts of Texas cattle, calves and hogs at the Fort Worth market were substantially below September last year, but receipts of sheep at this market increased sharply.

READ THIS BEFORE YOU VOTE NEXT TUESDAY

On account of the way the primary ballot was marked I do not think the election was fair. They threw out the Landers box but counted the Lorraine box which should not have been done. They went ahead and allowed Watlington's name to go on the general election ticket for next Tuesday. My friends have asked me to allow them to mark his
