SCURRY COUNTY CHAIRMAN HONORED—Jean Everett, Scurry County Historical Commission chairman, was presented the Texas Historical Commission's award for Outstanding County Commission Chairman at the annual conference in Brenham. Making the presentation is Gov. Bill Clements, and at right is Mrs. Argyle McAllen, chairman off the THC awards committee.

Historical Commission Honors Scurry Leaders

Jean Everett and Dr. Harry Krenek of the Scurry County Historical Commission won two of the top awards during the Texas Historical Commission's annual Historic Preservstion Conference in Brenham.

The conference was attended by county commission delegates from throughout the state.

Mrs. Everett was named Outstanding County Historical Commission Chairman and Dr. Krenek was named Outstanding County Historical Commission Committee Chairman.

The awards were presented by Gov. Bill Clements.

Mrs. Everett was cited for her work in the preservation field by helping organize a non-profit county heritage organization to work with the county commission, and for raising funds for preservation projects through such events as "Night at Rockledge Farm." The Scurry County Historical Commission, under Mrs. Everett's leadership, organized Historic Scurry County, Inc., to help preserve property of historical significance in the county.

Dr. Krenek won honors for his leadership in the preservation and restoration of the 1893 Dodson House. He served as chairman of Historic Scurry County, Inc., which in turn, served as the vehicle for accepting title to the Dodson House and restoring it on a permanent location.

The Texas Historical Commission sponsors the competition among county organizations to encourage the work of the local organizations and increase public awareness of heritage preservation activities in Texas.

The annual conference is a reunion of county commission members and other Texans interested in preserving the historical treasures of their towns, counties and state. The Texas Historical Commision is the state agency responsible for leading and coordinating heritage conservation programs.

TOP COMMITTEE CHAIRMAN—Gov. Bill Clements presented Dr. Harry Krenek of Scurry County with the Texas Historical Commission's award for Outstanding Committee Chairman.

President May Appear At Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — A governor prosecutor said today that President Reagan may testify in the trial of John W. Hinckley Jr., accused of trying to assassinate the president nearly 13 months ago.

Chief prosecutor Roger M. Adelman, standing with a hand microphone before 90 prospective jurors at the start of Hinckley's trial, said of Reagan:

"There will be testimony about him or you will hear testimony from him. I think I will leave it at that."

A White House official, who asked not to be identified, said no decision had been made how Reagan would testify. The president could decide to testify on videotape rather than make a personal appearance at the trial in U.S. District Court.

Adelman said two other victims of Hinckley's shooting spree outside a Washington hotel, retired Washington policeman Thomas Delahanty and Secret Service agent Timothy McCarthy, might be called as witnesses.

The prosecutor did not mention White House press secretary James S. Brady, who was the most seriously wounded of the four men Hinckley is accused of shooting. Brady, who was shot in the head, underwent months of hospitalization and several operations and is still partially paralyzed.

Hinckley, 26, the son of a wealthy Colorado oil executive, was brought to the courtroom today under security precautions so strict that he says "I feel like the president myself."

Hinckley's chief defense is that he was insane, and thus not legally responsible for his actions, when he shot Reagan March 30, 1981.

About 90 prospective jurors passed through airport-style metal detectors to enter an ornate, 200-seat ceremonial courtroom in U.S. District Court where jury selection began this morning for Hinckley's trial.

'Time Running Out'...

British Fleet Nears Islands

By The Associated Press

The British war fleet neared the Falkland Islands today, and its commander warned the Argentines that time is running out. Most British papers predicted an attack on the islands "within days."

"South Georgia was the appetizer," said Rear Adm. John Woodward aboard the Royal Navy carrier Hermes. "Now this is the heavy punch coming up behind ... This is the run-up to the big match which, in my view, should be a walkover."

Press Association, Britain's domestic news agency, said British government sources indicated British commando teams would be landed on the Falklands for reconnaissance missions by Wednesday. But British military experts told The Associated Press they did not expect a major landing for at least two weeks, until the 1,500 Royal Marines aboard the British task force are reinforced by some 3,000 commandos and paratroopers en route to the South Atlantic.

Argentina's ruling military junta claimed early today that its forces on South Georgia were continuing to fight and said the British announcement that Argentine troops there had surrendered were "absolutely false."

The British Defense Ministry denied a report in the Times of London that a commando team had already landed in the Falklands to pick a landing site for an invasion.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher told the House of Commons Britain's recapture of South Georgia Island Sunday "in no way alters" her desire for a peaceful settlement with Argentina. But she warned repeatedly that "time is very short" and said in a television interview Monday night, "It's obvious you simply cannot go on sitting there forever."

British defense analysts said the war fleet's next step probably would be an air blockade around the Falklands archipelago, 250 miles off the Argentine coast, to cut off supplies and reinforcements to the estimated 9,000 troops Argentina put ashore there after seizing the British colony on April 2.

In Washington, Argentine Foreign Minister Nicanor Costa Mendez asked the Organization of American States to demand that Britain withdraw its fleet from the South Atlantic, while Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. said the withdrawal of Argentine troops from the Falklands in accordance with the U.N. Security Council resolution adopted April 3 is "the surest guide to a peaceful settlement."

The OAS meeting gave Costa Mendez a prolonged standing ovation, in which Haig did not join, but did not even applaud the American secretary of state.

Costa Mendez said Sunday night that Argentina was suspending peace negotiations with Britain because of the British attack on South Georgia, but U.S. officials said Haig is still hopeful a diplomatic solution can be arranged. President Reagan in a speech Monday said the U.S. mediation effort would continue because "the search for peace is the surest way to preserve all that we cherish."

No Compromise Seen On Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — With budget talks between the White House and Congress grinding to a halt, administration officials and House Democrats are blaming each other for failure to reach a bipartisan compromise.

"The American people should be relieved and delighted to know that (President Reagan) doesn't have any plans to waver and wobble and feebly cave in to calls for expediency under the guise of compromise," said Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan, a negotiator.

Negotiator Rep. James R. Jones, D-Okla., replied, "If the president is rigid in the view that no significant change is necessary in his economic program, then there is no hope for compromise."

A flurry of charges Monday preceeded what may be the final stages of the talks. Negotiators were expected to meet again privately late today at the White House.

As the month-long talks progressed, sources reported the negotiators moved from hope of reaching a detailed compromise on Reagan's embattled budget to an attempt last week instead to settle for broad targets. Now, there are doubts that agreement can be achieved on general targets for tax increases and spending cuts.

If the talks collapse or end inconclusively, that would mean the Republican majority in the Senate and the Democratic-controlled House would begin work quickly on their own alternatives to the unpopular spending plan Reagan submitted to Congress Feb. 8.

Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., who has maintained an upbeat public stance on the budget talks, acknowledged Monday that he was "somewhat discouraged" by the situation.

Sources said without the Social Security reduction, the most recent worksheet prepared for negotiators projected a 1983 deficit of between $100 billion and $110 billion.

Food Service Bids Are Due

Snyder School Trustees are scheduled to open bids for 1982-83 school food service at a special session tonight.

The meeting is set for 7:30 p. m. in the board room of the school administration building.

Following the opening of the food service bids, the board will continue its series of budget study sessions.

The SDN Column

These are not exactly good times for politicians. The gripe rate has not declined---in fact, it may have grown. But the interest in voting seems to be subsiding. Few people, except those with special interests, seem to listen to candidates anymore.

There is a reason for this, of course. We think it is the changes in communications that have occurred since the days Pat Neff toured the state in a Model T Ford to campaign successfully for the office of governor. Television administered the crowning blow, although it was on its way before the tube became a household item.

Back in Pat Neff's day, people assembled to see and hear a candidate because there were few events competing for their attention. There was no television to watch in the home, no little league baseball, committee meetings, etc. Radio was beginning to get its wings, but hearing a candidate broadcast a speech and reading statements in a newspaper merely sharpened the interest in seeing what he looked like.

Ironically, television, which held promise as a medium for getting the political message to people quickly and with a minimum of travel, did itself in years ago. People get addicted to certain regular programs, and if a candidate dares pre-empt one to make a speech, he brings down the wrath of viewers who prefer soap operas, old movies, etc. to hearing what a candidate has to say.

The analysts say that viewers who watch a certain program only two or three times a season will always plan to watch it the day, or night, a candidate buys that time slot for a speech.

There was a time early in this nation's history when a candidate's chances were enhanced if he happened to have been born in a log cabin. Later, as log cabins began to disappear, being born on a farm rather than in town was considered a good recommendation.

This is not the case today. Also, many candidates used to dwell on pledges that they would use expertise from the business world in performing the duties of their respective offices. Such promises are considered good campaign fodder these days, but successful candidates do not necessarily follow through because a lot of their constituents won't stand for it. They want it business-like as it applies to other people, but not for any facet that might affect them personally.

Ask Us

Q.—Why are Snyder people paying so much more city sales tax than those in other towns its size?

A.—The sales tax revenues in Snyder are greater because sales of taxable items are greater. All pay taxes at the same rate, but the more retail sales of taxable items, the more sales taxes a city will receive.

5 Defendants Held

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — All five people charged in the slaying of U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr. were in area jails today awaiting their scheduled arraignment Wednesday.

Jamiel "Jimmy" Chagra, the convicted narcotics trafficker accused of paying for Wood's slaying, was the last to arrive and was sent to the Federal Correctional Institute at Bastrop on Monday in lieu of $1.1 million in bonds.

Chagra, 38, of El Paso; his attorney brother Joseph Chagra, 35; his wife, Elizabeth Chagra, 28; convicted hitman Charles V. Harrelson, 43, and Harrelson's wife, Jo Ann, 41, are scheduled to be arraigned Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. before U.S. Magistrate Robert O'Connor.

The Chagra brothers are being held in Bastrop, Elizabeth Chagra and the two Harrelsons are being held at the Bexar County Jail.

Committee Hears Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — As Stuart Greenfield of Miami tells it, he and his family were setting out for a Memorial Day weekend on the water when armed Internal Revenue Service agents stormed his boat and held the Greenfields captive for six hours.

Ten years later, in a quiet Amish community in Oakland, Md., an IRS-led force of 29 men, armed with shotguns and semiautomatic rifles, seized the home and cabinet shop of Dwight Snyder. Since then, says Snyder, his wife has spent time in a mental hospital and his 5-year-old daughter has had trouble sleeping.

In each case, outlined Monday before a House Ways and Means subcommittee, the IRS was intent on seizing property to satisfy unpaid taxes. And in each case, the IRS offered a different story than was told by the taxpayer.

Terrorists Kill Italians

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — A regional government official, his chauffeur and a gunmen were killed and a banker and his driver were wounded today in terrorist attacks in Naples and Milan. And five Sicilians were killed and six seriously wounded in Mafia warfare.

Three terrorists, one of them a woman, shot and killed Raffaele del Cogliano, 38, a commissioner of the Campania regional government from the Christian Democratic Party, and his chauffeur on a busy Naples street, police reported.

Alamos Trial To Begin

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The federal government's five-year dispute with a non-denominational religious group about wage regulations goes to court Wednesday.

The Labor Department filed a complaint in 1977 against the Tony and Susan Alamo Christian Foundation in Alma. The department said several hundred people who worked in the organization's 32 businesses weren't paid minimum wage or overtime benefits. It seeks $15.5 million in back pay.

U.S. District Judge William Overton is to hear the case in Little Rock.

The foundation says the workers donate their time as volunteers or associates. Adherence to federal wage and hour regulations would violate the foundation's First Amendment rights to practice religion, it says.

Evidence Growing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Astronomers are gathering increasing evidence that a powerful "black hole" spewing huge amounts of energy exists at the center of the Milky Way galaxy.

Measurements of different types of radiation coming from the galactic center indicate a massive object sucking in dust, gases and possibly even stars, scientists said Monday at an American Institute of Physics meeting.

A black hole is believed to be a massive object, such as a large star, that collapses into itself and concentrates its matter and gravity.

Although the galactic core is not visible because of intervening cosmic clouds, indirect measurements indicate an object that could have a mass between 100 times and a million times that of the sun.

Graphic Print Exhibit Is Set

Graphic prints from the Evansville, Ind., Museum of Art will be shown in the Scurry County Museum at Western Texas College in a feature exhibit opening early in May, Sharon Sutton, museum director, has announced.

These prints have been made available to the local museum through the Blaffer Foundation of Houston and will remain through the month of May until about mid-June. They will be followed by a map collection from the Amon Carter Museum in Fort Worth.

The museum's current feature is "A Golden Age of Painting" on loan from the Blaffer Foundation. This collection of 16th and 17th century paintings by Dutch, Flemish and German artists is to remain through Friday.

3 Bodies Recovered

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa (AP) — After five days of firefighting and digging, authorities have recovered the last three bodies from a huge mound of corn and concrete left by an explosion at a grain elevator.

The bodies of two men killed in the Tuesday explosion were recovered Thursday and Friday and the last three were found Sunday.

The powerful blast at the AGRI Industries elevator threw chunks of concrete a mile and buried the men under tons of corn.

HOLY KINSHIP—One of the most important 16th century paintings in the "Golden Age of Painting" exhibit in the Scurry County Museum is this oil known as "The Holy Kinship." The unknown artist was attempting to portray all the relatives of the Holy Family in one painting with the greatest interest in the immediate family. The museum will be featuring the "Golden Age of Painting" through Friday.

Scientists Develop Tests For Diseases

DALLAS (AP) — Scientists say they may have found a way to diagnose two dreaded illnesses — Huntington's disease and manic depression — before their symptoms appear.

Until now, doctors have waited for overt symptoms before beginning treatment. In the case of Huntington's disease, the researchers' discovery could allow parents to know they have it before bearing children.

Both diseases are inherited and both bring devastating symptoms which affect both the patients and their families.

Huntington's disease is an inherited degenerative nerve disorder considered incurable. Victims may not know they carry the disease until they have children. And their children have a 50-50 chance of getting it.

Scientists also believe that manic depression is inherited, although it isn't known how it is transmitted. The violent swings of mood it brings — from unfounded euphoria to deep gloom — lead one of six sufferers to suicide.

A research team at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School thinks the illnesses may leave "genetic markers" — distinct and recognizable flaws — in skin cells and red and white blood cells.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Is my blood pressure low?

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My blood pressure has always been around 110 over 70. But now it runs 90 over 60 to 104 over 68. I have been eating foods with a lot of iron to help. What can I do to build this pressure up or do I really have a blood pressure problem?

DEAR READER — If you don't have any symptoms you don't have a problem.

You may be interested to know that 90 over 60 is normal for entrance into flying training for the military. And unless you feel faint or have a tendency to faint those low pressures are probably better for your health.

There is a general misconception about normal blood pressure. It starts with the idea that normal is the most common finding. But in our society the most common finding is enough fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries to cause heart attacks and strokes. Who wants that?

While 140 over 90 for adults is usually considered the upper limit of normal, people with pressure in these levels have a higher incidence of heart attacks and strokes. In terms of risk of heart disease people with pressures of 105 over 75 or less) have the least chance of developing heart disease or other complications of fatty-cholesterol deposits.

Eating a lot of foods with iron will not affect your blood pressure unless you have an iron deficiency anemia. I'll give you the same advice I learned from one of my professors of medicine when I was a medical student, "The first thing a patient should do when he finds out he has low blood pressure is to go home, get down on his knees and thank God he has it."

The proper range of blood pressure in terms of health and high blood pressure management is discussed in The Health Letter number 15-8, Your Vital Blood Pressure, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I was sure I stopped growing before I was 14 and at that time I measured 5-feet-11. Around that time I had become depressed and wasn't eating right or exercising. A year later I measured myself again and I was an inch shorter. Now at age 20 I am almost 5-feet-11 again. Could this have happened or might I have measured wrong?

DEAR READER — Measurements are tricky things. That is why statisticians insist on several measurements and selecting the average or most common result. In other words, you should expect some variation from the method itself.

And you change height during the day, as much as an inch. In the morning before you start jarring those little discs that are the cushions between the vertebrae you are your tallest. By evening as these are flattened by the days events you are shorter.

During the selection of the astronauts I was amused by some of the candidates jogging and working out all day and coming to my office to be measured in the evening. The requirements were that you couldn't be over 6 feet. The astronaut couch in the space vehicles would not accommodate anyone taller. Those who were a half to one inch too tall were desperate, as you can imagine.

To Service...

Eastern Garners Temporary Rights

MIAMI (AP) — Officials of Eastern Airlines, looking for a foothold in a lucrative international market, won the right to take over South American service from troubled Braniff International for a year after a last-minute offer prompted a rare night session of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Monday night's action in Washington came just as Braniff said it could no longer afford to fly the routes. The board voted 5-0 to award Eastern the service for a year, rejecting a competing, weeks-old offer from Pan American World Airways.

Both carriers wanted six-year leases on the routes, and the aviation board said it would continue to study the long-term implications of those joint operating agreements.

"I will sleep well tonight," a relieved Sam Coats, Braniff's vice president for domestic and international affairs, said in Austin, Texas.

Eastern spokesman Jim Ashlock called the ruling "refreshing," but Pan Am's Pamela Hanlon found it odd and hurried.

The board's decision gave Eastern the toehold in a profitable international market that it had been seeking for some time.

"It's mighty refreshing for all of us at Eastern to finally get in front on a major international route case," said Ashlock, reached at home in Miami. "We're confident that our proposal is solid, good enough and enough in the public interest that it will prevail."

Eastern's offer, which did not include service to Brazil and Venezuela, was not finalized until just before CAB offices in Washington closed at 5 p.m. Monday. The board responded by holding what spokesman Alan Pollock called its first evening session in seven or eight years.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Deviating from your blueprint today could lead to making mistakes, and there is a chance that you might have to do the work over again. Follow the rules.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be aware of your limitations today and don't try to do something for another that you may not be able to handle. One can't be an expert in all areas.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It will prove wiser to make minor concessions today in order to appease your mate than to take a rigid position where opposition exists.

Here is another hand from "More Killing Defense at Bridge." You get off to the lucky opening of the three of hearts. East's queen falls to South's ace and South runs off four spade tricks. You have to discard on the fourth spade.

Your first thought is to simply let a small club go. Your clubs look useless indeed.

Hugh Kelsey has you look further. South needs six or seven points in clubs for his two no-trump opening. If he holds as many as three diamonds he can be sure of four spades, one heart, two diamonds and two clubs for his nine tricks. Therefore, you must play him for just two diamonds if you want to beat the three no-trump contract.

Now your discard is clear. Chuck a diamond. Declarer will attack diamonds and you must win the second one and lead a club. Your partner is sure to get in with a club to lead a heart. Your three hearts will beat the game.

Why couldn't you have ducked a club and made the same play? Because South could cash his ace-king of clubs after you ducked the first diamond and then throw you in with the ace to force you to play a heart to his jack or a diamond to dummy.

Pat Walker's counselors, who really do care about their patrons, taught me how to eat the things I like, but properly.
Years ago I lost 56¼ lbs. on the Pat Walker program. Their SYMMETRICON unit provided firming and toning.
Today I feel marvelous, younger and more energetic than ever. Because Pat Walker's cared, I still have my perfect figure.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE with Major Hoople

at wit's end

by erma bombeck

The tourists are coming! The tourists are coming!

This year, for the first time, the number of foreign visitors to the United States exceeds the number of Americans traveling abroad.

For those of you who have traveled extensively, I beg you to have compassion for these pilgrims who climb off the plane having consumed 18 hard rolls and a plastic chicken.

Those brave adventurers who balance a 35-pound camera around their neck and a tote bag filled with jelly beans which their travel agent told them the natives would accept in exchange for the privilege of taking their picture.

Those gypsy nomads who cringe every time they have to flash their passport. (If they look like their picture, they're too sick to travel.)

Those truth seekers who have studied the history, economics, politics, and power structure of America through satellite television and know two words: Matt Dillon.

Already, I could cry for them.

Some bus tour will tell them the No. 1 not-to-be-missed historic site is in White sands, N.M., where the space shuttle, Columbia, recently landed. It has a few rattlesnakes, land mines and porta-potties, but you'll never forgive yourself if you go home without seeing it.

Another tour guide will charge them $40 a head to ride a mechanical bull in Texas and experience a "typical American evening out." They will be served barbecued ribs at a long table by a waiter who speaks only Spanish.

The itinerary will undoubtedly include a tour of a plastic factory where a showroom will have a prominent sign, "WE SHIP ANYWHERE," a trip through a bowery where they can see an American derelict, and a visit to the cave where Jesse James and his gang were reported to have hidden out. (Please use flash and set your cameras at 160th of a second.)

They will load up on "American" food: tacos, pizza, egg rolls and Polish sausage, and buy a cowboy hat they don't have the nerve to wear home.

The high point will be Disneyland, where they will pay $8 for a 53-year-old mouse on a T-shirt and meet other tourists in line waiting for rides.

They will go home convinced they have "seen American."

What a shame. All you tourists, and you all know who you are, can take my picture by five genuine American garbage cans for a bag of jelly beans. How about it?

Dear Abby

Square Guy Needs a Gal To Round Out His Life

By Abigail Van Buren

©1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I read the letter from the guy who says he's 24, decent and can't find a nice girl. Well, I'm 35, decent, and I've been looking for a nice girl longer than he has. I could tell you stories about past dates you wouldn't believe.

I've been stood up on dates more times than I can count. I took a girl out to a nice restaurant, wined her and dined her, then she excused herself to go "powder her nose" and never came back. I met a gal at a party once and she gave me a phony address and a phony telephone number.

I'm 6 foot 6, average-looking, Italian and Catholic.

I tried a dating service and was sent a hooker. I've gone to church socials, tall clubs and discos. No luck. I swore off singles bars forever because all the "single" women I've met there were either separated, engaged or out cheating on their husbands.

I'm polite and love to dance. I'm not a drinker, I don't take drugs and I'm not gay. I have a good job and I'm ambitious. All I want is a woman who's reasonably attractive, intelligent and sincere. So where are all the decent women hiding?

SQUARE AND FRUSTRATED

DEAR SQUARE: You sound too good to be true. If you love to dance, join a square-dancing club. You'll meet attractive, wholesome, lively men and women, and singles are welcome.

DEAR ABBY: I am physically unable to father a child, and my wife and I are considering artificial insemination. Our question: Are there pictures of the donors on file at the sperm bank? We would prefer that the biological father of our child have the same physical features that I possess. Or is that too much to ask for?

TALL, DARK AND BROWN-EYED

DEAR TALL: Inquiries from the laboratories I researched disclosed that although pictures of the donors are not available, facts concerning their physical characteristics are. This includes race, blood type, hair color, eye color, physique, complexion, etc. Medical and family background are also included, as well as information disclosing the donor's I.Q., education, and musical, artistic and athletic abilities.

DEAR ABBY: I am retired, have a good income and am in good health. I play golf every day, have a roof over my head and have a supermarket to shop for food without having to farm and raise it myself.

I have an electric stove to cook my food, and a washer and dryer to do my laundry instead of a washboard and tub. I have nice clothes and shoes on my feet and don't have to go barefoot as I did when I was a child. I have a nice bathroom and don't have to go outside in the cold as I did when I was a child. I bathe in a bathtub with plenty of hot water whenever I feel like it instead of in a washtub behind a pot-bellied stove on Saturday night as I did when I was a child.

I am not locked up in prison or a mental hospital as some people are. I am free to go where I want. I have a television set and stereo that kings could not enjoy years ago.

I have a car for transportation instead of a horse and buggy. I was married for 22 years to a woman who was as beautiful as a movie star. I went through World War II without a scratch. Talk about heaven. America is heaven!

THINKING OUT LOUD

DEAR THINKING: Thanks for giving us all something to think about.

'Operation Jobs' Nets Many Illegal Aliens

WASHINGTON (AP) — Immigration officials say "Operation Jobs," a series of raids on work places in nine major cities, is off to a good start toward its goal of catching and deporting thousands of illegal aliens in well-paying positions.

A task force of 400 agents launched the raids Monday morning. By day's end, officials of the Immigration and Naturalization Service said initial reports indicated as many as 1,000 aliens had been caught. Final figures were not immediately available.

The ultimate goal of the program is to put unemployed Americans in the jobs now held by the illegal aliens. INS officials say it differs from normal enforcement work because the agency has carefully selected work places where it expects to find aliens making well over the federal minimum wage.

"We're not after busboys and janitors," said Joseph F. Salgado, INS's director of enforcement.

The raids already have drawn criticism from Hispanic groups. Arnold Torres of the League of United Latin-American Citizens said last week that the raids would help perpetuate the "lie" that illegal aliens are responsible for high U.S. unemployment because they take jobs from American citizens.

"We're watching them very closely this week. If they violate the due process rights of these people, we may sue them," Torres said Monday.

The INS allowed reporters to accompany agents in Chicago to observe a raid at Newlywed Foods, a bakery. Agents covered all the doors to the factory as the day shift workers were leaving and the night shift entering.

They stopped workers who, as one agent said, appeared to be Hispanic. Some had proper identification. Others had no identification, or counterfeit cards. About a dozen were arrested. Two said they were earning $5.13 per hour.

The INS agents said they had caught 45 illegal aliens making as much as $8 per hour in an earlier raid on Terracotta Industries in Chicago.

But spokesman Vern Jervis said it was too soon to tell whether the raids would succeed in placing unemployed Americans in the jobs that had been held by aliens. The INS is hoping that local employment officials and labor unions will help do that.

In addition to Chicago, the special raids occurred in Detroit, Newark, New York, Denver, Houston, Dallas, Los Angeles and San Francisco, Jervis said. The cities were selected because they have high unemployment rates and high concentrations of alien workers.

U.S. Tested Nuke Device

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The United States tested a nuclear device 1,890 feet below Pahute Mesa for the British government, the Department of Energy said.

David Miller, a spokesman for the department, said the device was tested Sunday as part of an agreement between the United States and Britain, and had a yield of between 20 and 150 kilotons. A kiloton is the equivalent of 1,000 tons of dynamite.

It was the 14th joint test between the two nations since 1962, Miller said.

DE Students Take 1st Place

The Chapter Free Enterprise Project of the Snyder High School Marketing and Distributive Education program earned first place honors at the 36th Annual State Deca Career Development Conference held last weekend in Corpus Christi.

The group's project will be representing SHS at the National DECA conference in Chicago this June.

The project, jointly sponsored by DECA and the Phillips Petroleum Company, consists of three main sections.

The first section contains essays of 500 words or less, written by each of the local DECA students and titled, "What the Free Enterprise System Means to My Future."

For the second part of the project, students participated in a panel discussion titled, "What Happens to the Profits a Business Earns?"

The third section of the project entailed one outstanding project to inform others about the free enterprise system. To fulfill this requirement, the local group sponsored "Free Enterprise Week" earlier this year in Snyder.

Winners in the state competition are chosen by representatives of the Phillips Petroleum Company. For first place in the state, the local chapter received a $100 cash award.

National project winners will be awarded shares of stock in the Phillips Petroleum Company.

Chairpersons for the Free Enterprise project were Jill Donelson, Sherry Holt and Ann Melton. SHS Marketing and Distributive Education Coordinator, Jim Rosson serves as advisor for the local DECA chapter.

Patriots Snap Up Sims To Launch NFL's Draft

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Ken Sims, a 265-pound defensive tackle from the University of Texas, was chosen by the New England Patriots today, as they had announced previously, as the National Football League began its two-day draft of college talent.

The only question about the 6-foot-5½ Sims in what has been termed a lean year for potential pro talent was an injury to his leg and ankle suffered last November which kept him out of Texas' last two regular-season games, along with the Cotton Bowl.

Some scouts have called this year's crop a "one-man draft," and Sims is the man they were referring to. Hailing from the tiny community of Kosse, Texas, Sims possesses a great combination of speed, strength and agility and won the Lombardi Award as nation's premier lineman in 1981.

The type of player who can dominate the line of scrimmage, Sims made 81 solo tackles last year, assisted on 29 others, had 10 sacks, pressured passer 32 times, broke up four passes and forced six fumbles.

Even before NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle had formally announced the Patriots' selection, Sims was being escorted to the podium, where he posed with the commissioner for photographers. Rozelle held a New England jersey with Sims' name and No.77, the number he wore in college.

Moments later, Sims and Rozelle were joined by Billy Sullivan, owner of the Patriots, who earned the No.1 draft pick with a 2-14 record in 1981.

"I'm happy to get this over with," Sims said of the waiting. "I'm happy to be a Patriot and look out next year, the rest of you fellows."

Then, Sims, trailed by a phalanx of newsmen and photographers, left the room for a brief news conference before flying to New England.

The selection of Sims opened the first of 12 rounds. The 28 NFL teams have 15 minutes to make their selections in each of the first two rounds and five minutes in each round thereafter.

While Sims was occupying the attention of most people in the Grand Ballroom at the New York Sheraton Hotel, the Baltimore Colts were pondering their first-round pick.

With 6:08 of their 15 minutes remaining, the Colts selected Johnie Cooks, an imposing 240-pound linebacker from Mississippi State. Cooks has tremendous range and can play inside or outside linebacker. He had 24 quarterback sacks in his career.

The Houston Oilers went for Mike Munchak, one of two offensive guards from Penn State who were expected to be early selections. The 265-pound Munchak, who missed the 1980 season following knee surgery, gave up his last year of college eligibility to qualify for this year's draft.

The Atlanta Falcons took fullback Gerald Riggs of Arizona State, a 225-pound power runner with tailback speed. "A complete football player," says Darryl Rogers, his college coach. Riggs' Arizona State teammates call him "Gerald Campbell" because of his immense 28-inch thighs and the fact that Earl Campbell is his idol. Riggs rushed for 891 yards on 148 carries last year, a 6.0 average.

The feet contain one-fourth of all the bones in the human body and the efficiency of the foot is due to its arrangement of 26 bones and 137 joints into multiple elastic arches and levers, according to New York podiatrist Dr. Steven Baff.

Nolan Ryan Solves His Own Problem

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Les Moss, filling in for Mel Wright as a Houston Astros coach, says all pitchers should be blessed with Nolan Ryan's problems.

"He was in the 90s all the way, even in the eighth and ninth innings," said Moss after viewing Ryan's fastballs during the right-hander's 6-2 conquest Monday night of the St. Louis Cardinals. "The mistakes he makes he corrects himself."

Ryan, who had been off to his worst major league start, notched his first triumph in five decisions with the backing of heavy Houston hitting.

In Monday's only other National League contest. the Pittsburgh Pirates handed the Atlanta Braves their fourth straight defeat by rallying to a 6-4 victory.

"Once we had the lead, I was able to challenge the hitters," said Ryan after finishing with a four-hitter in which he made 137 pitches. "I needed the work. You just have to be positive about it."

Riley Believes Break Will Benefit Lakers

By WM. R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

Coach Pat Riley believes the nine-day break the Los Angeles Lakers had between their last game and tonight's playoff opener with the Phoenix Suns was more welcome than dangerous.

"I think the rest has helped us immeasurably," said Riley. "Norm Nixon was having a little problem with his knees, tendinitis. Jamaal (Wilkes) and Kareem (Abdul-Jabbar) were totally exhausted.

"We could be a little rusty in the beginning, but I think we'll work our way through that. The rest was worth any problems we might have with rustiness."

The Lakers, champions of the Pacific Division, haven't played since their regular-season finale a week ago Sunday.

Meanwhile, the Suns became only the fourth team to rebound from a 1-0 deficit to win a best-of-three National Basketball Association playoff series when they defeated the Denver Nuggets 124-119 in Denver Saturday night.

In another Western Conference semifinal opener tonight, San Antonio is at Seattle.

The second games of the two Western and two Eastern series will be Wednesday night. In the East, Boston plays host to Washington and Milwaukee is at Philadelphia. The Celtics and 76ers won Sunday's opening games.

Riley said the Suns "have played exceptionally well" recently with a revamped starting lineup that includes centers Alvan Adams and Rich Kelley.

But the Lakers coach added that "they're going to have a difficult time matching up with us with that lineup. That puts Adams on Wilkes."

A former Phoenix starter, Walter Davis "is getting production in less minutes," Riley said. "When he comes off the bench, they go right to him. When he comes in you better get your pants hitched up and shoes tightened because he's coming right at you."

Garvin-Satterwhite Win Pump Jack Event

The D. Garvin-H. Satterwhite combination came in with a 65 in the second round to finish with a total of 132 to take the championship in the annual Pump Jack Two-Man Invitational Partnership golf tournament at the Snyder Country Club.

Finishing in the runnerup slot were L. Anderson-D. Copeland with a 134, and finishing third were K. Lawrence-R. Pearson with 138.

In the first flight of Division I, the team of D. Holt and D. Holt finished first with a 151, followed by H. Lacik-J. Lacik with with 156. Tied for third were B. Hargrove-J. D. Hinton and D. Donelson-K. Wadleigh with 158s.

In Division II, there was a tie for first in the second flight between D. Sealy-R. Hardin and J. L. League-J. Simpson at 158. Also finishing in a tie were R. Baker-G. Pierce and J. LaRoux-C. Arnn for third place with 159.

In the third flight, D. Walton-R. Logan finished first with 167, and there was a tie for second between M. Treadaway-B. Holland and M. McBride-R. Mosley with 169.

17 Post-Season Grid Games Are Certified

MISSION, Kan. (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association Post-season Football Committee has certified 17 post-season games for the 1982 season, the NCAA announced.

Sixteen of the bowl games also received certification last year, and the Aloha Bowl was added to this year's list, released Monday. The 16 post-season events generated about $23.5 million last year for NCAA member institutions.

The bowl games, their sites, dates and EST starting times are:

The Aloha Bowl, Honolulu, Dec. 25, 7 p.m.; Bluebonnet Bowl, Houston, Dec. 31, 8 p.m.; California Bowl, Fresno, Calif., Dec. 18, 4 p.m.; Cotton Bowl, Dallas, Jan. 1, 2 p.m.; Fiesta Bowl, Tempe, Ariz., Jan. 1, 1:30 p.m.; Garden State Bowl, East Rutherford, N.J., Dec. 18, 12:30 p.m.

Gator Bowl, Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 30, 9 p.m.; Hall of Fame Bowl, Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 31, 2 p.m.; Holiday Bowl, San Diego, Dec. 17, 9 p.m.; Independence Bowl, Shreveport, La., Dec. 11, 8 p.m.; Liberty Bowl, Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 29, 8 p.m.; Orange Bowl, Miami, Jan. 1, 8 p.m.

Peach Bowl, Atlanta, Dec. 31, 3 p.m.; Rose Bowl, Pasadena, Calif., Jan. 1, 5 p.m.; Sugar Bowl, New Orleans, Jan. 1, 8 p.m.; Sun Bowl, El Paso, Texas, Dec. 25, 3 p.m., and the Tangerine Bowl, Orlando, Fla., Dec. 18, 8 p.m.

The NCAA said the dates and times of the bowl games are subject to change.

Cold Spell Is Ignored By Red Sox

CHICAGO (AP) — Winning streaks — like most cats, dogs and horses — are color blind. But while animals are reluctant to change masters, winning streaks are not, exchanging their White Sox for Red Sox in the blink of an eye.

"It wasn't cold at all. It turned out to be a beautiful evening," Boston Manager Ralph Houk said Monday night after his Red Sox overcame 40-degree temperatures and brisk winds to sweep a doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox 3-2 and 5-0. It extended Boston's winning streak to seven games.

The Red Sox-White Sox doubleheader, both make-up games, were the only American League contests played Monday night.

"When we went 8-0 (the first eight games of the season) I was not overly concerned. Now we've lost four straight and I'm not overly concerned either," said Chicago Manager Tony LaRussa. "This is April."

Clements Calls Special Session

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The hard-to-kill state property tax will come under legislative fire again when lawmakers come back into special session May 24 at the invitation of Gov. Bill Clements.

Clements and Speaker Bill Clayton predicted Monday the session could last as little as two days. But Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, recalling past failures to abolish the tax, made no predictions.

"This is a real complex issue that the last two regular sessions and one special session have been unsuccessful in dealing with. I'm not sure I share their optimism," Hobby said.

Clements announced the special session Monday after a closed-door meeting with Hobby and Clayton.

Clements said he would not open the session to any other topics.

Clayton filed a proposed constitutional amendment today that would repeal the state property tax. The proposal also would distribute the remaining funds in the tax fund to the 17 colleges covered by prior law.

"The purpose of this legislation is to assure that no person has to pay a state property tax," Clayton said. If approved by the Legislature, it would go on the Nov.2 ballot.

Damage Reported In Fire

Units of the Snyder Fire Department answered a fire call in the 400 block of 24th St. around 11 a.m. Monday.

According to reports, they found a minor fire in a washing machine in a trailer house owned by Billy Hafner at 418 24th St. Only minor damages were reported in the incident.
