

THREE THOUGHT DEAD IN CAVE-IN HOUSE PUTS O.K. ON FRENCH AGREEMENT

REPRESENTATIVES APPROVE OF OFFER ON WAR TIME DEBT

VOTE IS 236 TO 111 FOR SIX BILLION DOLLAR SETTLEMENT

GOES TO SENATE HARD FIGHT IN PROSPECT TO GET BILL BY TOGA WEARERS

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The house approved the French debt settlement Wednesday by a vote of 236 to 111. It now goes to the senate where a hard fight is in prospect.

Administration leaders hope to pass the measure in the senate before the summer adjournment which is expected about the end of June. But the opposition which Senator Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, is to lead creates complications.

For one thing, some of the opposition senators want a scheme by the administration to rush the ratification through congress in order to strengthen the hand of Premier Briand who is having some difficulty in "selling" the plan to his parliament.

11 to 2 Shot Wins Great Derby

Can't Be Bothered Over Big Winnings

LONDON, June 2.—"Too busy—too much work to do to discuss the matter."

This Robert Bishop, plegmatic 50 year old head of the policy department of Messrs. Hartley, Cooper, and Company, London, insurance brokers, described his feeling when he heard that he held the winning ticket in the great Calcutta sweepstakes on the Epsom Derby and had won $600,000.

DURKIN WANTS TO DEFEND SELF

SHEIK GUNMAN FIDGETY OVER DELAY IN GETTING TRIAL STARTED

CHICAGO, June 2.—Martin J. Durkin, the sheik gunman, grows restless with the slow process of selecting a jury to try him for murder, and is threatening to follow the lead of Gerald Chapman and take the case into his own hands.

He intimated as much at the close of the second day of the trial when adjournment of court found only half a dozen jurors accepted tentatively to hear the evidence against him for killing Federal Agent Edward C. Shanahan.

"I'm going along terrifically slow," Durkin then announced that he expects to be his own star witness. "My attorneys are trying to talk me out of it, but I'm going to get up there on the stand anyhow," he said.

"I want to tell the truth about the whole thing," Durkin's defense will be that he shot Shanahan to save his own life, not knowing that the officer had a warrant for his arrest on a charge of stealing automobiles.

Marty's mother is in court with him but she is the only one of many women who have figured in his hectic career to follow him to court. His two wives and the sweetheart he deserted for wife number two are conspicuous by their absence.

Hair Tonic King Marries His Bottler

DES MOINES, June 2.—A romance in hair tonic led two notable enemies of falling hair to the altar Wednesday.

Fred W. Fitch, millionaire manufacturer of the barber shop treatment which bears his name and Miss Gertrude Westberg, former chief bottler at the Fitch plant here, were married quietly at Esthway, Mo.

A common interest in producing a tonic to prevent or cure baldness brought Fitch and Miss Westberg into a close business association when she joined the Fitch organization more than a year ago.

A few months later Fitch's wife divorced him, charging that he had shown improper interest in his head bottler, and had given her 1,810 shares of hair tonic stock.

Gillott announced that the case would be brought to trial at an early date "to determine whether the anti-saloon league is above the law."

Only three persons identified with the McPherson hunt were at the Venice beach. Mrs. Minnie Kennedy has given up the search.

$12,000,000 IS LOST AS FAVORITE TRAILS IN MUD BIGGEST RACE

HALF MILLION PEOPLE SEE CORONACH SPLASH HOME

BY CHARLES McCANN, United News Staff Correspondent. EPSOM DOWNS, Eng., June 2.—While his 77-year, white whiskered owner, Lord Woolavington, sat comfortably at home in Berkeley square watching the news and some half million others stood dripping uncomfortably in a terrific downpour which drenched the Downs and turned the track into a quagmire, Coronach, sturdy brown son of Hurry On-Wet Kiss, splashed to an easy victory in the 14th renewal of the derby, greatest of racing classics, Wednesday.

Caked with mud so thick that the colors were practically indistinguishable, the rest of the field, including the heavily backed favorite, followed five lengths behind.

The nearest was Lance Gaye, an outsider, owned by W. Singer, a former American, now naturalized, which finished a short head in front of the Earl of Derby's Colorado, the favorite, backed to the extent of some $12,000,000.

Johnny Childs, King George's jockey, rode the winner and was the only jockey who was not splattered with mud to the eyebrows. Childs got his mount's nose out in front when the barrier was sprung and made the pace all the way, Coronach whose staying qualities had been seriously questioned, winning in a canter.

Lord Woolavington, better known as the former Sir John Buchanan, the distiller, was too infirm to journey to Epsom and witness his colt's triumph.

Coronach paid 11 to 2 for those who wagered at starting price, but the big bookmakers declared sadly that the colt had been heavily backed in the winter books before ability to go the derby distance of while and a half was brought into question by the experts.

Incidentally, 17 morning newspapers turf experts gave Colorado as the winner, and only one picked Coronach.

The race was won in the slowest time recorded for 35 years, 2:47 4-5. Sea of Umbrellas.

Hundreds of thousands who caught a damp glimpse of the race through the black sea of umbrellas and the opaque rain will talk more about their own sufferings than of the outcome.

Thousands have not reached their homes tonight. Buses and automobiles are stuck hub deep all the way from here to London. Hundreds of heavier vehicles were unable to stir from the mire of the parking space which accommodated or rather trapped some 50,000 cars.

Former Americans owned the second and fourth horses to finish, but the fact that the Lord Astor's Swift and Sure finished fourth, just out of the money, was a blow to the pocketbooks of many tourists from the United States who witnessed the derby.

This was Lord Woolavington's second derby victory, his Captain Cuttle winning the famous stakes in 1922.

When the moment for the start of the derby came and the barrier went up, the usual drumming thunder of hoofs changed to a squishy splashing as the pack went around the perilous turn and up the long, soggy stretch, with Coronach kicking mud into the faces of his pursuers.

Jockey Childs, riding easily in his saddle and merely guiding his mount, won his first real derby this afternoon, although he is 40-years of age and has been astride favorites for two decades. He won the war-time substitute derbies at New Market.

REFUSE NEW TRIAL TO "CANDY KID"

SENTENCE PROBABLY MONDAY FOR RICHARD REESE WHITTEMORE

BALTIMORE, Md., June 2.—The supreme court late Wednesday refused a new trial to Richard Reese Whittemore, the "candy kid" who was found guilty of murder in the first degree.

Whittemore faces hanging or life imprisonment. Judge Eugene O'Dun said he would sentence Whittemore when Edgar Allan Poe, his counsel, returns from Princeton, probably Monday.

Whittemore killed Robert Holtzman, Maryland penitentiary guard while escaping from that institution where he was serving 15 years for robbery.

He was arrested after a sensational chase in New York following a series of holdups and robberies which are believed to have netted the dapper bandit and his gang about $1,000,000.

A jury which tried him at Buffalo for the murder of a bank guard, disagreed and he was tried here for the murder.

U. S. War Fleet Wins Sham Battle

SAN PEDRO, Calif., June 2.—The United States battle fleet won an overwhelming victory Wednesday over an imaginary enemy represented by riddled targets and float wreckage somewhere off Catalina island.

A swift flying signal brought the first boom of broadsides from the line of ten battleships maneuvering in battle formation and firing at targets 12,000 to 18,000 yards distant.

Within ten minutes after Uncle Sam waved his mailed fist across the Pacific, the "enemy" had been reduced to scattered bits.

The ships, manned by 15,000 sailors, fired 800 tons of shells in the seven salvos comprising the practice firing.

"Our night trip over the Baltic was a reckless piece of ballooning," van Orman, who won the race with Walter W. Horgan, his assistant pilot, said in describing his 535 mile balloon journey from Antwerp to Solvesberg, Sweden.

BUTTE, Mont., June 2.—Hope was abandoned late Wednesday that any of the three miners caught in a cave-in on the 1,900 foot level of the West Colusa mine here yesterday afternoon can be rescued alive.

Sliding rock has delayed the rescue crews. Shift Boss J. Stewart Henderson was making his round when caught under the fall of hundreds of tons of rock.

Henry Leppala and Joseph Langner, the others entombed, were mining at the point of the cave-in. Leppala, 19, shouted to rescue workers last night that timbers saved him, although he was badly hurt and he knew the other men were crushed.

He has answered no more calls and safety first engineers believe that he has died of suffocation if not from injuries.

Fashion Notes
Wedding Gowns
Georgous and simple wedding gowns are being shown by all the leading modistes for the June bride. For the country wedding lighter stuffs are used rather than the formal brocades and heavier silks. Taffeta, crepe, georgette and chiffon are all very popular.

The tube style dress is passe and the soft diaphanous material is ruffled and draped and flounced in many charming ways.

One of the most beautiful wedding dresses is of silver lace over white taffeta with a veil of tulle and silk baddeau.

A new scarf is about a foot wide around the throat but has deeply pleated insets at either end which can be used as a shawl when thrown back.

The new feather collars have taken the place of fur neckpieces. They come in all pastel shades but for street car tan or grey is usually worn.

Penick, of Stamford, according to a letter received yesterday by W. K. Dickinson, vice-president of the highway association.

The highway is one of the most important highways coming into Lubbock, according to Dickinson. It traverses the old Fort Worth, Breckenridge, Stamford, Spur, Crosbyton, Radis, Lorenzo and Idalton.

"We must do our part in getting the road paved," Dickinson said. "When we get a hard surfaced road down between here and Dallas, we will get the bulk of the travel between Florida and California that comes thru Texas."

The meeting will open at ten o'clock June 10 and the delegates will enjoy a chicken barbecue and fish fry at Lake Sellers near there at lunch.

The meeting is to be an important one, Penick stated in his letter when he urged all towns along the route to be well represented.

Local men who hold official duties with the association are: W. K. Dickinson, vice-president; S. E. Cone, director; A. B. Davis, Publicity and Promotion committee; R. J. Murray, By-Laws and Constitution committee, and the Legislative committee; Joe Griffith, Advertising committee.

TEXAS TECH BUYS FOUNDATION JERSEYS

Following is an article from the Texas Farm and Ranch for May 29: "Flowerdale farm, Dallas Texas, recently shipped to Tech Technological College, Lubbock, ten very excellent jersey heifers and yearling bull to head the herd. These animals are intended for the foundation of their jersey herd. They were sired by Noble's Rosette's Gamboge No. 194635, a blue ribbon winning the hortic democratic national convention in New York. "I considered the skullop a necessity for many years," Bryan explained. "The nerves in my head were injured many years ago by my sitting in the sunlight and it affected my sight. "Even when sitting under a brilliant electric light these nerves have been affected. "But I figured they had had a score of years of rest and I ought to

The bull chosen to head the herd, Flowerdale's Sybil's King No. 247723, is a double grandson of Partiot's Sybil, she by a son of the much famed Sybil's Gamboge, highest priced jersey bull ever sold, and out of Noble's Champion Gauntlet, second highest tested daughter of the wonderful sire Noble of Oaklands No. 95700. By United News. NEW YORK, June 2.—Mrs. Elsie Hinman Dula, recently separated from her husband, Robert Lenori Dula, Wednesday filed in surrogate court a suit contesting the will of her father-in-law, Robert B. Dula, former multi-millionaire and vice-president of the American Tobacco company.

CITY DADS FROWN ON STREET PEDDLER

CONFERENCE OF OFFICERS HERE VOTES TO BAN THEM AT ONCE

The city ordinance forbidding street peddlers on the paving and within the fire limits of Lubbock will be enforced to the letter as a result of a conference held here yesterday between Chief of Police T. E. May, City Manager Bill Perkinson and Tax Collector R. A. Holland, at the police office.

The officers agreed that these peddlers are a public annoyance, and especially is Chief May eager that those pushing carts along the paving and attracting children into the streets with their wares, including, in the most part, toys and confections, be restrained from this practice as the children in running to the carts too often subject themselves to injury by speeding motorists.

Reckless Drivers May See Jail Here

Reckless driving must go!

Chief of Police T. E. May yesterday declared that while rigid enforcement of traffic laws has been made here in an effort to halt reckless drivers in their mad rush, the results have not been too promising and how he wants to put the punishment to a more severe point. Jail sentences and heavy fines will probably be the punishment meted out to the offenders, and "light fines" will be ancient history in the police office within a few weeks if a sudden letting up of reckless driving is not made here, Chief May indicated.

CORRECT NUMBERS FOR LOCAL HOUSES

CAMPAIGN TO BE STARTED BY CITY MANAGER ABOUT JUNE FIFTEENTH

House numbers in Lubbock will be corrected when a campaign to be started about the 15th of this month by Bill Perkinson, city manager, has been completed.

The numbers will be supplied by the city and those houses bearing wrong numbers will be located and correct numbers given, Mr. Perkinson said.

The city manager will make the house numbering program fit into a program that will be started at the same time to make an absolute check on every water plug and connection in the city and to determine the exact location of every electric service meter supplied by the city. The work will be done over a period of about ninety days, Mr. Perkinson said.

POPULATION

More census figures, brought up this time to June 30 of the present year and every city eagerly scans the list to see how far it has moved along in the great race for population. New York has its approximate six millions, Chicago its three millions, Philadelphia its two millions, and so on through Detroit, Cleveland, St. Louis, Baltimore, Boston, Pittsburgh and the rest, down to the cities that fall modestly below the 100,000 mark. But not too modestly, for all of them are growing in varying degree, and all are proud of their growth. American cities cannot help growing, any more than a healthy child with its normal ration of food, air and sunshine. Nature has given this favored nation its place in the sun, and ordinary exertion will easily provide its daily bread. Some grow a little more slowly than they would like, others a little too fast for their own good, but all have some measure of that growth which means progress and development rather than decadence. Too much, however, is made of population in most American communities. Rapidly increasing numbers enable many people to make money in real estate, and benefit many lines of business. But their benefit to the average citizen and to the community as a whole in the long run is greater if the growth comes slowly enough to be assimilated as it comes, without lowering standards of public and private life. Many Americans are coming to regard excessive size as a misfortune rather than a blessing, and to prefer life in a small community. Far better they say, to live in a town of a few thousand, where there is neither great wealth nor great poverty, where there are neither palaces nor hovels, where the struggle is not bitter and a man knows his neighbor, than in a teeming metropolis of millions.

WAS IT JUSTIFIED?

The taking of human life, whether that of a fellow man or of oneself, has, since the earliest days of mankind, been completely abhorrent to his conception of proper conduct. Religion and logic have all preached against it. Countries and states have legislated against it, with more or less effectiveness. Murder, under this regime, still remains as abhorrent to mankind, but suicide has gradually grown into more and more favor. At least the general public expresses only regret and not condemnation for many of the suicides reported. It is not hard to analyze the reasoning which has led to this changed attitude. For instance, a recent case in New York City has attracted much attention because of its peculiar circumstances. It concerns the double suicide of a father, 62 years old, and a daughter, 22, hopelessly paralyzed since birth. The father, a machinist, after the death of his wife a year ago, had been under the mental strain of working hard and then coming home at night to care as best he could for his daughter. During the day she was alone, likely to fall or suffer some other accident and this contingency preyed upon the mind of the father. Their poverty precluded the retaining of a nurse or other attention for the daughter. Gradually the father became nervous, a victim of insomnia, weighted down by his burdens—fighting a losing fight—and afraid every day that he himself would die and leave his crippled, orphaned daughter with no one to care for her. So they both committed suicide. It constitutes a nice point for argument. Perhaps their act was not entirely justified—but it is really such a terrible thing? Does religion, or reason contend that these two should have continued to live, in agony of mind and spirit and body, indefinitely? Can it be that they will be harshly judged in the Beyond?

It is, of course, a rhetorical question, expecting no answer, for none is possible. No one can know the answer. It is part of the great riddle of existence—an existence which is sometimes remarkable for its complete lack of justice and understanding.

AERIAL FOREST PATROL ENDS

It is rather a shock to the public to learn that forest patrol by airplane is to be discontinued this year. The air patrol for forest fires has been carried on with army planes lent to the forest service by the War Department. Scout planes left over from the World War were used. The last of these, it is said, are rapidly approaching the end of their usefulness. Dangerous deterioration demands their discontinuance before they go to pieces. "Why not use new army planes?" asks some inquisitive citizen. Because there aren't enough of them. In the very season when the planes are most in demand for forest patrol they are also most in demand for training the nation's future military fliers. However, nothing but too rigid economy seems to prevent the Department of Agriculture from taking over this work, which rightfully belongs to it instead of to the War Department. By 1928, it is suggested, it may be possible for the forest service to rent or lease commercial planes to do this important patrol work and give the much needed and extremely useful prompt fire warnings.

In the meantime, unless some solution is found at once, our forests must go unprotected for one year, so far as air scouting is concerned. That may mean a financial loss greater than the cost of immediate purchase of the necessary planes.

PSYCHISM IN WASHINGTON

The national capital is having a "medium probe" in connection with a bill to bar fortune tellers from the District of Columbia. A surprising amount of psychism, amateur and professional, is being uncovered. Table tipping and other abnormalities of the seance room are said to be common in high governmental and social circles. There is an epidemic of spiritualistic seances. A senator's wife is quoted as saying in defense of mediums and fortune tellers: "These important people who have gathered in my home have carried on dozens of conversations with spirits, in many of which I myself have taken part. At these 'circles' there was no paraphernalia whatever, but only a young girl in a deep trance." She has never found a dishonest medium she says. Houdini, the professional magician, insists that the mediums and fortune tellers are all frauds. Other critical students of such matters usually divide themselves between those who intentionally delude their patrons and those who are self deluded. Modern psychology shows how easy it is for persons of certain mental types to accept their own abnormal experiences as evidence of spirit communications, and for others to be imposed on by such phenomena. Fortune telling and necromancy—trying to read the future and trying to communicate with the dead—are two of the oldest arts in the world which refuse to die out with the advance of civilization. Some good may be done by them, but more harm.

ONE REASON WHY LAWS ARE NOT RESPECTED

Mr. Earl Carroll, a theatrical magnate, of New York, employed a nude model in a bathtub as an attraction and publicity stunt during a party given by him some weeks ago in New York at his theatre.

Upon being questioned, Mr. Carroll found himself subsequently indicted for perjury and at his trial, the government placed a number of witnesses on the stand to testify as to the absence of clothing on the part of the stage star.

An interesting point in the trial was the attitude taken by the lawyer for the defense. He was very sarcastic in referring to those who told the truth under oath and charged them with being ungentlemanly in accepting the hospitality of, and then testifying against their host.

The defense seemed to rest its case on the belief that any man would lie, under oath, rather than tell the truth when it damaged his host. This assumption exists among a certain class of law breakers but is entirely unwarranted when applied to any man of even moderate character. It is a dangerous doctrine lodged in the minds of many alleged gentlemen.

One reason the laws of the United States and the laws of the States and the ordinances of the cities are not respected any more is because too many people are willing to tell the truth, and juries are willing to take the truth with the weight it should bring. They look upon the mind of witnesses as coming from a prejudicial angle very often, and this kills the influence of the witness's testimony on the jury.

We are more and more inclined to believe that the jury system is a failure and that witnesses be given the assurance by judges that they have the protection of the laws of the state for truthfulness, and on the other hand have the prosecution by the state for perjury.

A lie is plenty bad, but a sworn lie is even worse. It is at least a double lie, and one may be evidently worse than one, even though one may be a white one.

FALLS TEN STORIES AND LIVES

The exceptional event becomes a matter of comment. The reader will probably give little for the life of a person falling from a five or ten story building, but within the past two weeks, two individuals in America performed this feat and lived with comparatively trifling injuries. In New York a window cleaner, working on a ledge at the fifth floor, lost his balance and fell toward the pavement below. He landed on passerby, killing a girl and injuring her companion, but escaping with only a broken arm himself.

More spectacular and incredible is the story from Charleston, N. C., where the wife of a physician, losing her footing while watering a flower box on the tenth floor, crashed through the window and fell to the sidewalk below. Her fall was broken by a glass awning and her only injury was three fractured ribs. She never lost consciousness and chatted with her husband a few minutes after the accident. Her experience disproved entirely the ancient theory that a person falling from such a height loses consciousness.

POLAR EXCURSIONS

Captain Anton Heinen, famous dirigible expert, in commenting on the flight of the Norge, says: "I never had any fears for the safety of the Norge. The Los Angeles, now being perfected at Lakehurst, could make the trip every week without special hazard. It won't be long before airships are carrying crowds of 75 and 100 persons on excursions to the north pole in perfect comfort and safety." Yes, and we suppose that they will scatter all their banana skins and paper napkins around the pole such as they do in the summer resorts here. Furthermore they will probably be disappointed because they can't carve their initials on the pole itself.

The Real Final Examinations

HERE AND THERE

Horrors of Next War

Charged with the duty of preparing for a world conference on the limitation of armaments, a commission representing all the great powers excepting Russia is in session at Geneva. The difference which such a conference must face are tremendous.

Although all nations profess to be genuinely desirous of finding a way to prevent future wars, all are busy with research and experiments which are developing the most deadly engines of destruction that the world has ever seen. Electricity and chemistry are playing at large part in these developments.

Sir Frederick Soddy of England declares that "if mankind continues to pervert the inventions of science to destructive purposes, civilization in the twentieth century will commit suicide."

Radio control of ships and bomb-carrying aircraft is being rapidly perfected. New and deadlier gases are being compounded. A new discovery is said to have increased the possible effects of bombs a hundred times. Russia is experimenting with firing disease germs from artillery and dropping them from airplanes.

In a recent report the British Society for Chemical Research said: "What happened in the late war is mere child's play compared with what will happen between industrial and scientifically advanced powers" in the next clash of arms.

Major General Fries, head of the American chemical warfare service, declared that this form of offense "will be fifty times more deadly and effective in any future conflict than it was in the world war."

Will the world's statesmen be able to devise a plan whereby the indescribable horror and destruction of another great war may be prevented? Or, will so-called Christian nations finally destroy one another?

JAPANESE BRINGS SUIT

Because the name "colored" only applies to the negro race, Henri O'Harris, a Japanese in Altalona, Ill., brought suit against a wealthy publisher when he was referred to as a "colored man," although O'Harris is of dark color.

WORLD TOPICS

That Executive Order

President Coolidge's executive order authorizing the employment of state, county and municipal officers in the federal service has precipitated what promises to be one of the hottest fights in the history of Congress. Attorney General Sargent holds that the order is entirely legal, but many sound lawyers in Congress contend that it is altogether unconstitutional—some dry leaders among the number. They deny that certain provisions of the Draft act give precedent for the order, because these provisions were authorized by Congress, and the President has no such authorization.

The question seems to be one of state rights, but it is held that the order is for the purpose of enforcing a constitutional provision, for which the army and navy could be utilized if necessary. The chief argument against it comes from representatives from states where the Federal law is not enforced.

President Coolidge, however, is in a position where he can not afford to back up or back down, and he seems to be determined to give it a fair trial, at least—if Congress consents.

"Peace" in Morocco

Peace has come to Morocco at last—but at a awful price. The real inside story of this subjugation of a nation makes a mockery of the principle of the "right of self-determination" for which a hundred thousand American boys have suffered and died and for which Americans gave "until it hurt"—and are still paying heavily in taxes.

With little Moorish villages wiped out by bombs and poison gas, entire tribes practically annihilated by overwhelming French and Spanish troops, the duplicitous leader of the Rif, Abd-el Krim, after years of hard fighting to preserve the integrity and individuality of his country has been drawn into the affair directly.

It is much like the peace that came to Oom Paul Kruger in South Africa—after the Boers were practically all killed off and the females of the species annihilated.

But few Americans participated in this slaughter and it is to the credit of the United States that it has not been drawn into the affair directly or indirectly through the League of Nations or otherwise. The whole proceeding is abhorrent to American traditions and ideals.

Johns Hopkins Jubilee

Plans for the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Md., have been laid and it is planned to have a celebration worthy of the great institution and the notable contributions it has made to the public welfare. Within its confines and thru its direction great strides have been taken during those fifty years toward a cleaner and healthier world. The name, Johns Hopkins, has been so constantly identified with progress of this character that the public is thoroughly acquainted with the extent of its public service and extends to the institution its best wishes for an even more successful fifty years to come.

Since Valentino started the style and women adopted it, side whiskers are again on display by fashionable men in London. After all, there is no reason why men should not be just a smattering like women. Nature intended they should have whiskers—but what will become of the poor barbers and safety-razor makers?

So Think We

We think that a lot of people absolutely work themselves to death just for a little leisure.

We think the gas companies are certainly losing their pep. It is known that there is an oil well in the Arctic, but still there has been no gas connections to the North Pole according to the reports coming back from that country.

We think that it takes a lot of dollars to support our government, but we would rather have it that way than to have to support our dollars like France does her francs.

We think that nearly all high school graduates are really brighter than they look in their pictures.

We think the old saying that there is always room at the top is really nothing much to it. Take the incident of the North Pole. The nearer you get to it the less room there is.

We think that an educated man earns four times as much as an uneducated man, but he also has forty times more ways of spending it.

We think that the borrowers of trouble never have any trouble renewing their loan, and not even have to pay the interest.

We think that if congress really wants to give relief to anyone, they should adjourn and go home. That would relieve more people than any measure that they might seek to pass.

We think it would be nice and refreshing to hear a new argument either for or against prohibition. It has been the same old thing for the past fifty years, and we do not know how much longer.

We think that it has just about simmered down to the point that capital punishment means nothing more than one reprieve after another.

We think the fellow that is always raving about the grandeur of nature should come in contact with a skunk, and see how wonderful nature can pour it on.

We think that if the men had to do the cooking and the general housework that there would be demand for more of the modern conveniences than there are at this time.

We think the people of Lubbock should rally to the support of the Chautauqua. It is brought here each year for the refinements of the programs and Lubbock and the educational feedback people are responsible for sale of a certain number of tickets.

We think that if the people of this city are to show their proper appreciation of the efforts of the prominent citizens of this city in bringing high class entertainment to the city, they should buy Chautauqua tickets, and relieve the committee from any financial responsibility.

We think we should begin now to make the South Plains Fair a real fair. It should be the biggest that we have ever had, and we are sure that it will be. There is one thing sure we should put stress on the dairy herds of this country, and give the fellow with good milk cows every chance to get in on the premiums.

We think that most people agree that laws should be obeyed but they are made for other people.

We think that the present dress styles are picking for the mosquitos.

We think it is possible that the North Pole will not get stuck up on account of so much publicity.

We think that the June bride can proceed to bride.

It Is Reported

That Littlefield is preparing to go strong to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention at Amarillo.

That Sunday was a record breaker for automobile accidents.

That there is one certain remedy for sunstroke, and that is simple—come to the South Plains.

That people come to Lubbock every day from Slaton to drive over the paved streets of this city.

That Lubbock has many bog holes in the streets. We need more paving. It is impossible to build them up and keep them up with the natural dirt. Pave some more.

That it will take a lot of gas to put the gas proposition over my lawn.

That lightning never strikes the same place twice. That may not be, but we have known several fellows who have been thunder struck several times.

HARLEY SADLER BASEBALL NINE TO MEET HUBBERS HERE FRIDAY; SKIPPER ALLEN TO CATCH FOR SHOW COMPANY

Yes, Sir! And it will be a least the most comical if not the best ball game of the season when the Hubbers tie up with the stage nine, Harley Sadler's Own company of baseball players. Don't think that because they are of the show variety that they do not have the ability to stage themselves on a baseball diamond. Just think about "Little" Patterson, the lad that pitched many games for the Hubbers last summer on the mound with Skipper Allen receiving for him for the Harley Sadler leads when things don't look so funny. And that is just what the line up will be as far as the battery is concerned.

Gate Receipts For Scouts.
Not only will it be a good ball game but the entire gate receipts will be given to the boy scouts to be used on their new grounds at Post. Admission for the game will be set at 25 cents. It will be worth that to see Skipper Allen play among real stars, speaking of the stage stars.

WASHINGTON FALLS Elk City Dogs INTO FOURTH PLACE Here for Races

The Yankees came from behind twice to win two games against the Senators and increase their lead in the American league race Wednesday. Tony Lazzeri's homer broke up the first game which New York won 9 to 5. The Yankees nosed out the second 5 to 4, despite 5 errors.

The defeats put Washington down to fourth place, Chicago passing the Senators by beating the Browns, 6 to 5, making four runs in the ninth. Detroit split a double header with the Indians, thus losing a chance to get well into the first division at Washington's expense. A rookie named Wells shut out Cleveland with five hits in the second game after the Indians had made 18 hits and won the opener, 13 to 1.

An even break was the best the Athletics could get at Boston, losing to the Red Sox by a 5 to 4 score and beating Ruffing 5 to 1.

The Braves slaughtered seven Brooklyn pitchers in winning both ends of a double bill, 12 to 5, and 12 to 11. Burris, Borwn, Mann and Hargreaves contributed home runs, the second game going 12 innings during which Boston made 23 hits and the Robins 13.

The Phillies and Giants divided before a Sesque-Centennial crowd, the visitors taking the first 5 to 4 and dropping the second 7 to 2.

The Cardinals uncorked a lot of latent hitting strength at Chicago and beat the Cubs, 14 to 6. After Hack Wilson had driven in 3 runs with a homer in the first, Hornsby started a six run rally with another in the second.

Vic Keen of the Cardinals broke a finger on his pitching hand in the first inning, while Fothergill of Detroit was also badly hurt Wednesday.

WINS Marathon at Sesqui-Centennial

PHILADELPHIA, June 2.—Running from Valley Forge to the Sesqui-Centennial exposition grounds here over the full marathon distance, Clarence De Mar, the veteran Melrose-sprinter, won the Sesqui-Centennial marathon Wednesday in 2 hours 46 minutes and 56 seconds. He led the field of nearly 100 starters.

Albert Michelson of Port Chester, N. Y., and Frank Wendling of Buffalo, were second and third respectively.

LAST CHANCE FOR TEAMS TO COME INTO LEAGUE FRIDAY

The meeting will be held promptly at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening at the Avalanche building.

Lockney Called Game Off With Lubbock Hubbers

After scheduling a game with the Hubbers the manager of the Lockney Independents called the game off yesterday morning declaring that a part of his club was ill with a case of the mumps and would be unable to meet the Lubbock nine. Allen attempted to arrange a game with the Plainview nine, after the Lockney conflict came up, but was unable to do so.

A good work-out was taken yesterday afternoon preparing for the game with the Hereford club next Sunday, and games with the Amarillo nine during the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention on June 21, 22, and 23.

Noble May Fly In Blimp From Rome To Tokio

ROME, Alaska, June 2.—While Colonel Umberto Nobile believes a dirigible flight from Rome to Tokyo is possible, the commander of the Norge has made only fragmentary plans for carrying out the idea.

"The report that I would undertake such a flight in September is incorrect," Nobile said, who has reached Nome from Teller with five Italian members of the Norge's crew, said Wednesday. "I understand the rumors arose from the fact that at that time I was sent to Japan by the Italian government to direct the work of assembling a new airship that was built in Rome for the Japanese navy."

"I must add that this brilliant idea of a trans polar flight from Rome to Tokyo arose in my mind during our last trans polar flight and it is not absolutely impossible that some day it will be fully realized."

Nobile declared that four flags instead of three were dropped at the North Pole from the Norge.

"Just prior to my departure from Rome I was invited to attend a solemn meeting and was presented with the cardinal colors of the city of Rome by the governor," he said, "with the request that I personally drop the flag at the North Pole, and I did and at the present time there are the American, Italian, Norwegian and City of Rome flags there."

"No doubt one or all of them may be carried away by currents and found off the coast of Greenland at some future date."

Preparations are now under way here for a banquet and public dance to be given in honor of Nobile and his crew Sunday.

GERTRUDE EDERLE TO TRY IT AGAIN

MISS EDERLE, who is accompanied by her father and sister, will try again to swim the English channel. She announced that William Burgess would replace Jabez Wolff as her swimmer from Cape Nez, the middle of July.

Harold F. McCormick's intention of sailing was a surprise. He was on his way to visit his wife and to tour the continent.

Checking Up On The Hubbers

And still the Hubbers are undefeated, having battled in eight games for the season and won every one. Three teams have scored on the Hubbers. "Tighten Up" Sheppard continues to lead the hitting row with an average of .473 with 14 bingles out of 29 trips.

Hubbers, as a whole, are hitting better than the last check made on them with the average at .313 and this one gives them an average of .321.

"I'll Decide Who Jack Will Fight" Says Tex Rickard

By FRANK GETTY.
United News Staff Correspondent.
NEW YORK, June 2.—Rickard put his feet on his big mahogany desk Wednesday afternoon, tilted his hat down over his eyes and smiled knowingly down an expensive looking cigar while the boxing world stared on his door step, eager for news about the forthcoming heavyweight championship fight—if any.

Indifference, feigned or otherwise, was the promoter's reaction to the boxing commission's demand that Jack Dempsey sign for a Wills fight before June 25.

"I'll tell you Jack'll fight, and when he'll fight, when I get ready," drawled Rickard. "Say, boys, Jack's in great shape, even if he was a bit sick these a few days ago. Let me tell you about the champion, and let's forget about his opponent for a while."

Tex, who returned Wednesday from a conference with Dempsey, waxed enthusiastic over the heavyweight champion's return to ring form.

"I think he'll whip whoever he fights," predicted Rickard. "And do you know, I believe Jack'd rather it was Wills than Tunney."

The promoter said he would not appear before the boxing commission at its meeting tomorrow.

"I won't be ready before next Tuesday to tell them my plans for this fight," he said.

Rickard speaks of "this fight" as nonchalantly as though such a thing as a difference of opinion over the matter did not exist.

"You seem pretty confident that things will come out your way," it was suggested.

"Well, Dempsey has left the business of arranging his next fight entirely up to me, so I should think that settled," replied Tex. "Will his opponent be Wills or Tunney?"

"Yes, sir, I should think it certainly would be one of those two boys," answered Rickard with a grin. "And, behind this grin, the man who holds the heavyweight situation in the hollow of his hand kept his most interesting thoughts concealed.

Reading between the lines, it becomes apparent that Rickard has made up Dempsey's mind and is merely sparring for time while he arranges the necessary financial preliminaries which play such an important part in the heavyweight championship match.

Tex knows that as long as he keeps mum others will go on talking about the fight.

Go ahead and roll 'em with P.A.

IF YOU'VE never rolled a cigarette with Prince Albert, you're like a fellow standing in line on pay-day. You've got something good coming to you! Good? Well, that word's hardly strong enough. You've got more downright roll-your-own pleasure coming to you than you ever thought possible.

Cigarettes made with Prince Albert taste great. They smoke so cool and sweet, you'll want to make one right after the other. They're fragrant as honey-suckle. Never bite the tongue or parch the throat. The Prince Albert process attended to that little item right at the beginning.

Because, P. A. makes the best little home-rolled cigarette ever. No better cigarette tobacco than Prince Albert ever curled up in a paper. It's crimp-cut and stays put. Doesn't flutter to the floor as you roll it. This is just a detail, of course. The taste is the big thing.

Get a tidy red tin or a toppy red bag of P. A. today. Make yourself some wonderful cigarettes. For variety, try a load or two of this same, wonderful tobacco in the bowl of your old jimmy-pipe. No matter how you smoke it or where, Prince Albert is a grand little pal.

KANSAS HARVEST BEGINS SOON, BUT CALL FOR IMPORTED LABOR TO GATHER BUMPER CROP IS NOT SO INSISTENT

By HAROLD ANDREWS
United News Staff Correspondent

KANSAS CITY, June 2.—In another two or three weeks the Kansas farmer will begin harvesting his contribution to the bumper wheat crop of the southwestern wheat belt which has been conservatively estimated at between 350 to 400 million bushels. This is a vast increase over last year's yield.

Using the estimate of the conservative authorities at the Kansas state agricultural college, of this unprecedented crop, Kansas alone will produce between 120 to 150 million bushels. And other reliable authorities place the figure much higher. The yield last year was 75,000,000 bushels.

Included in the estimate of the southwest's yield are Texas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Nebraska. Texas already has begun its harvest and probably will produce 25 1/2 million bushels. Oklahoma, where the harvest moves next, promises about 20,000,000 bushels, Missouri 15,000,000 and Nebraska 40,000,000 bushels.

L. C. Call, dean of the Kansas state agricultural college, and one of the foremost authorities on crop conditions, believes the Kansas crop has been over-estimated. He points out that a stretch of dry, hot weather would reduce the crop several million bushels. The wheat is not in a critical condition, but needs rain.

Strangely enough the farmers this year are not worrying over a labor shortage. There was a time when his cry for hired hands could be heard from Miami to Maine.

Among the herds that responded included the college boys as well as the men who were sent out by the employment bureaus along West Madison street in Chicago and other cities. Now, fortunately the farmer declares, getting help is the least of his worries. The coming of combines into more popular favor, particularly the Kansas wheat farmers, will mean a reduction in the number of harvest hands imported this year.

According to Dean Call much labor will be needed to harvest the 1926 crop. But it is an outstanding fact in the wheat development of Kansas that the farmer is growing independent of imported labor during the harvest season. Because of the relatively dry present season the wheat is grown without undue amount of straw, a condition which also helps the farmer in the harvest process.

Of more evidence is the shortage of freight cars and the prospective price at which the freight car shortage is critical. The extraordinary wheat crop has created a shortage of storage facilities which, in the opinion of J. C. Mohler, secretary of the state board of agriculture, will face a large part of the crop on the market early.

SAYS MOSCICKI IS FIGUREHEAD

NEW PRESIDENT OF POLAND EXPECTED TO GIVE WAY TO PILSUDSKI

By United News
WARSAW, June 2.—The hectic career of Professor Ignaz Moscicki—variously known as a rebel's son, a world famous inventor and once a fugitive from his country—has reached a climax in his election to the presidency of Poland.

Warsaw Tuesday night was aware of this professor's elevation to the presidency, in which office he will be the puppet of Josef Pilsudski. Warsaw received news of his election with a calm that was almost disinterested.

Moscicki will be president for a day, say the politically wise of the capital—long enough to shoulder the blame for any mistakes of the transition period—and then he will step aside when the constitution of Poland has been re-written to suit the dictator. And Pilsudski will take over the office along with the power which in reality will be his all along.

Moscicki was election president upon Pilsudski recommendation. Oath of office will be administered Friday, whereupon the cabinet will resign and Bartel will be designated by the president to form the new government group.

Helen Wills Is Under Weather

By United News
PARIS, June 2.—Genuine alarm lest Helen Wills, American women's tennis champion, is entering the French hard court championships unfit to do her best exists among the young California girls' admirers. Many even fear that Miss Wills will not reach the finals of the women's singles, where she would meet Suzanne Lenglen. The organizers of the tournament in which the foremost international tennis stars are entered, are postponing preparations for a Wills-Lenglen final, until they see how Helen fares against Miss F. E. Colver, of England, and Miss Didi Vlastod.

All this because the Californian is suffering from a cold which she cannot shake off, and because Helen's friends declare she has been playing too much tennis and needs a rest. Miss Wills won her match against Miss Colver, of France, Wednesday, 6-3, 7-5, but appeared extremely "stale" and was obviously hampered by her cold.

NEW HAMPSHIRE PRIMARY TO SEE MOSES OPPOSED

CONCORD, N. H., June 2.—New Hampshire's political campaign, involving the question of whether U. S. Senator George H. Moses is to be returned for a third term, is getting under way.

The Republican state primary election will be held on Sept. 7. Because New Hampshire is a Republican state by a substantial majority, there is little question but that Senator Moses, if renominated, will be elected in November.

His opponent at the primary will be Robert P. Bass, former governor and recently a member of Legislature from Peterboro. Bass represents the progressive wing of the Republican party; Moses, the "regular" Republican.

Bass was Governor in 1911 and 1912 and was one of the "seven little governors" who in 1912 memorialized Theodore Roosevelt to be a candidate for the Presidency. In that campaign, Bass quit the G. O. P. and was titular head of the Progressive Party in this state and its candidate for U. S. Senator in 1913. When the Progressive Party collapsed, he returned to the Republican fold and was elected to the Legislature as recently as 1923.

Senator Moses always has been a straight-party man. He was first elected to succeed to the seat of Dr. Jacob H. Gallinger in 1918 and served the remainder of the latter's term. In 1920 he was re-elected for a full term, which he is now completing.

HOMER D. WADE CONFERS WITH DAVIS

Homer D. Wade, of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, was here yesterday to confer with A. B. Davis, manager of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, concerning plans for Lubbock participation in the Amarillo convention program, and was enthusiastic in his expressions about the program and prospects for the convention being bigger and better than any held by the organization.

Mr. Wade stated that the fact that Amarillo has enjoyed the finding of a great oil field and is becoming one of the industrial centers of the state has not altered the interest of the people of that city in all of the interests of West Texas and that they will be prepared to entertain the convention in a manner that will reflect credit on the entire section served by the organization as well as that city in particular.

The Mexican was lodged in jail and late in the afternoon Sheriff Claude Warren of Matador arrived to take charge of the prisoner, who he returned to Matador to await trial.

TELLS HOW HE GOT HIS MULTI-MILLIONS

JOE LIETER TAKES STAND TO KEEP PEERESSES FROM CASH BOX

CHICAGO, June 2.—The story of how one American multi-millionaire got that way was told under oath by the multi-millionaire himself Wednesday when old Joseph Leiter took the witness stand to defend himself against the proceedings of his sister, Lady Marguerite Hyde, countess of Suffolk and Berks, to have him ousted as a custodian of his father's $50,000,000 estate.

There was a touch of Horatio Alger nado dash of Buffalo Bill about the yarn that Leiter spun.

Beginning back some 40 years ago when he was a poor little rich boy, the so-called "Yankee spendthrift" revealed to the court and the society women who had assembled for this high point in the trial, that he had not always worn broad white vests and carried a gold headed cane.

There was a time, he said, when he served as office boy and polished the handle of the big front door. And another time he peeled potatoes and carried water on a Wyoming ranch, learning the business from the ground up, or as Leiter said, with a smile, "from the broncho down."

His testimony is designed to prove that he is really capable of handling the big estate, which Lady Marguerite and other titled sisters from Great Britain are attempting to take away from him. Leiter denied that he has merely "fallen into the wealthy" and showed how he had toiled to fit himself for his later responsibilities.

"I was born," he said, "in Michigan boulevard about where the Auditorium hotel is now."

Leiter is 57 years old now, he said. His first job after finishing school was a humble post in his father's office.

"I made myself generally useful doing odd jobs," he said. "The first real job I had was helping to remodel a building in Washington street."

Later his father sent him to Wyoming in a buckboard and he "hired his father wanted him to learn his different businesses thoroughly."

As a cowboy his duties were to peel potatoes and carry water and helping with the branding at round-ups.

"I believe these early experiences fitted me for my responsibilities," he said in answer to a question.

Lady Marguerite listened attentively while her brother reviewed his early life under the guidance of their "self made" father, the late Levi Z. Leiter.

The elder Leiter was one of the "empire builders" of the west. He amassed a huge fortune in cattle, department stores, coal mines and Chicago real estate. The court row over the estate by his heirs, with its dazzling array of nobility and wealth is proving to be about the most interesting Chicago "society event" of the summer.

PLAN VISIT TO BIGGEST OIL FIELD

LUBBOCK DELEGATION TO WEST TEXAS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE CONVENTION, JUNE 21, 22 AND 23 WILL BE THE GUESTS OF THE CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE OF PANHANDLE AND PANNA ONE DAY OF THE CONVENTION WHILE THEY ARE CONDUCTED ON AN EXCURSION THROUGH THE WORLD'S LARGEST OIL FIELD, ACCORDING TO A LETTER OF INVITATION FROM THE PANHANDLE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE WHICH WAS RECEIVED YESTERDAY, URGING THE LUBBOCK DELEGATES TO BE PREPARED FOR ONE OF THE BIGGEST TREATS OF THE CONVENTION WHEN THEY MAKE THE EXCURSION.

This feature which will be well worth the trip to Amarillo is only one of the many treats which the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce have worked out for visiting delegates to the biggest convention ever held in the Southwest.

The letter from Panhandle reads in part: You are possibly aware that few cities in the state have made the rapid progress within the past few months that Panhandle has. Our population now being around 8,000 and growing by leaps and bounds. This, of course, is occasioned by the fact that we are the distributing center for the Carson and Hutchinson county oil fields, which is generally conceded to be the largest in area in the world.

"Our local Chamber of Commerce is joining with the same organization of Pampa, our neighboring city to the east in making an excursion through the world's largest oil field one of the days of the convention, and we want to urge you to have some of your people arrange to make this trip with us. You will see a sight that you have no conception of even though you may have been located in the midst of some of the big oil fields of our state. At a later date the exact schedule will be mailed you, and we ask that you hold yourself in readiness for the call."

"Again we urge you to be our guests, during the big convention, and if there is any information that we can give you relative to this great section of the state, do not fail to call on us."

Bob Collier, publisher of the Slatonian, was here yesterday looking after business and was a visitor at Avalanche office.

W. J. Baldwin, of Lockney, was here yesterday looking after business.

ROB BANK AND ESCAPE, DALLAS

QUARTET GETS $12,000 AND LOCK BANK MEN IN VAULT

By United News
DALLAS, June 2.—Police and county officers in this section of the state are searching for four bandits who at 10:45 o'clock this morning held up and robbed a suburban bank here of more than $12,000 in cash. The bandits were seen to pass through Grand Prairie, a small village west of Dallas, about an hour after the holdup.

Walking into the bank when several customers were making their deposits, left over from Monday, Memorial day, the robbers coolly ordered every one to raise their hands and forced them to walk slowly to the west of the building in order not to arouse suspicion of passersby and locked them in the vault. Systematically scooping up all money in sight, the bandits fled in a small touring car.

Petersburg Bank Robbery Fails

By United News
LOCKNEY, Texas, June 2.—The First State bank of Petersburg, near here, was robbed of approximately $350 by a lone unmasked bandit shortly after 9 o'clock Wednesday morning.

The youth, who was captured shortly after the holdup, admitted that he had been goaded into the deed by moving pictures of a bank robbery.

R. A. Jeffries, cashier of the bank, said that he kidded with the youth when ordered to place the money in a sack and let the would-be hijacker depart with money in security but as soon as the youth was out of the building he notified officers and the boy was caught within less than an hour after the robbery.

All of the money was recovered. Less than 2 per cent of the registered laborers in Belgium are idle.

BIG VARIETY OF CROPS BEING RAISED THROUGHOUT LYNN COUNTY THIS YEAR; HAS BETTER PROSPECTS THAN EVER

Special to the Avalanche.

TAHOKA, June 2.—Lynn County farmers are growing a wider variety of farm crops here this year than usual. Cotton is the principal cash crop for farmers here, but many of them are finding that other types of cash crops pay equally as well and better in some instances. Last year this county led the plains by a large amount in the production of cotton, making over forty two thousand bales. Present prospects indicate a much larger yield than for this coming fall, but in addition to the cotton prospects other crops are doing equally as well.

Feed crops of various kinds have been planted in large tracts over Lynn county. The earliest of these crops is corn, but on an average most farmers of this county are not devoting many acres to corn, further than enough to fatten the home supply of meat hogs. Maize, kafir, dars, speltz, higar, fetivita and all types of cane are being successfully grown. A number of these crops especially selected as they are short season drought resisting varieties that grow under most any condition.

Wheat and other small grain crops over Lynn county were confined mostly to pasturage. Few farmers have devoted more than a few acres to these crops this season for grain, while on the other hand many of them have small tracts of small grains that made excellent late winter and early spring pasture for work stock.

Sudan grass is finding much favor over this section as a pasture crop. Farmers here are of the opinion that it pays them well to break up more of the regular pasture land and plant it to crops of all types, while one fourth the number of acres planted to sudan will actually give better results as a pasture crop.

Some few farmers of this county are growing their own sorghum for molasses making, while in a few instances Lynn county farmers are raising tobacco successfully. Broom-corn, millet, alfalfa, peanuts, cow-peas and many other crops are being raised with good results, but these crops are not so general as other varieties.

Farm crops are not all that are receiving care and attention from farmers here. Home gardens and truck patches are also being cared for on practically every farm of the county. Vegetables of most any kind that will grow in a temperate climate are found in gardens here. Many of these vegetables are now beginning to bear, while others are just up well and starting on a rapid growth.

Melons of all types, pumpkins, and similar crops are raised in large quantities. Fruits and berries are showing a fine prospect. Grapes are making a larger crop than common. In many instances farmers were of the opinion that the fruit crop was totally destroyed by the late freeze, but this not the case generally. Some orchards have been greatly damaged, while plums, cherries, pears and all types of berries, grapes as well as some peaches and apples will make extra good yields.

Canners and sealers are found in the majority of Lynn county homes. These are not only used to can the fruit and vegetables for winter use, but many cans of chicken, beef and pork are also canned.

More attention towards promoting a live at home program is being given by farmers here than ever before. The majority of them have their own meat hogs, chickens, milk cows and one or more young bees to hatch this coming fall. In this manner they are able to have fresh foods in season and canned foods of all types taken from their own farms during the remainder of the year. By giving more attention towards growing a better variety of farm crops Lynn county farmers are in better financial condition and in better financial standard of living than common.

SLATON TERRITORY HAS BETTER CROP PROSPECTS THAN EVER BEFORE

SLATON, Tex. June 2.—That the Slaton territory has the best prospects for a bumper cotton crop, that there have ever been on the Plains since the growing of cotton was started here, seems to be the opinion of the farmers who have been interviewed. They say that they have had the best of seasoning in the ground before the cotton was planted and that the recent showers have caused the cotton to come up and grow faster than ever before seen at this time of the year. Without another drop of rain falling over Slaton in the growing season, the cotton would mature and make a fairly good yield, they say, but with showers from time to time, the cotton will make the greatest returns ever seen here.

D. F. Eaton, Lubbock County Agent was in Slaton today and he affirmed the growers' statements. He said that he had the finest of prospects at that he expected the greatest cotton crop ever seen on the Plains for this year.

Farmer Suicides Near Littlefield

Special to the Avalanche.

LITTLEFIELD, Texas, June 2.—T. E. Stucky, a farmer living 4 miles east of Littlefield, was found dead at his home Sunday morning. Justice of the Peace Christian held an inquest and returned a verdict of suicide. He reports that a shotgun was placed in the mouth of deceased and discharged, blowing off the left side of the face and head. It is reported that Mr. Stucky and his wife had disagreed on Saturday. Her brother, J. E. Mitchell, came up then and a difficulty arose between the men, resulting in Mrs. Stucky going home with her brother. Sunday morning they returned to the Stucky home to talk matters over and try and adjust differences. They found Stucky dead, as above, Stucky left a widow and two small girls, of whom he was always very proud.

visitors on Monday afternoon before the banquet.

The big membership drive is just another forward movement of Wellington's 1926 program. Building permits for the year have already exceeded three hundred thousand. A sewer system which will give service for every home within the city limits is now under construction. The city is now being piped for the use of natural gas and the construction proves the natural gas company will commence the laying of their pipe line within ten days. A state marked numbering system is now being worked out and with an unusual good season in the ground at this time and cotton and corn at a good stand it is believed that Wellington and Collingsworth county will make greater strides in 1926 than any previous year of its history.

O'DONNELL VOTERS TO DECIDE ON $65,000 BONDS

The voters of O'Donnell will determine on June 8th whether or not they will issue sixty-five thousand dollars in water bonds. The purpose of these bonds to be for building and installing a complete water system for this city. Up to the present time the individuals of the city have supplied their own water supply by means of private wells, but the continued rapid growth for the past two years makes this system inadequate.

At the same election the voters will also decide whether or not they will issue funding bonds in the amount of eighteen thousand dollars. These progressive steps only reflect the attitude of the citizens of this town, who are keeping O'Donnell one of the most progressive towns over this section.

Slaton Will Have Newest Phone System

SLATON, Tex., June 2.—According to a wire received by the Slaton Chamber of Commerce from P. K. It is expected that the new type of equipment will be in the form of the common battery, the type used in most cities at this time.

Mr. Baker's wire stated that he expected to pay a personal visit to Slaton within the next two weeks, to confer with officers of the Chamber of Commerce and members of the City Commission, relative to the installation of the new system.

CREW STAYED AT POSTS FOR 72 HOURS, SAYS SECOND IN COMMAND

By United News.
NOME, Alaska, June 2.—New details of the flight of the dirigible Norge from Spitzbergen to Alaska have been revealed by members of the ship's crew upon their arrival in Nome from Teller.

The United States Coast guard cutter Hazel returned from Fort Clarence bay Tuesday with Colonel Umberto Nobile, commander of the Norge, and five of his Italian companions.

Natalie Cecioni, second in command of the dirigible, declared that the Italians in charge of the Norge's motors did not leave their posts for an instant during the 72 hours of flying which ended on May 13.

"All the men were ardent smokers too," said Cecioni, "and as smoking was prohibited, it made their tasks all the more difficult. There were food boxes beside each motor and the men were always on the alert for signals for Nobile regarding regulation of the ship's speed."

"The Norwegian members of the crew worked two hours and rested four."

Cecioni said that after the arrival at Teller the men "smoked to their hearts content and slept 16 hours before commencing work of dismantling the Norge."

The others who reached Nome were Master of Balloons Alessandro Audriani, Audriani Attore and Cereati Attilo. They crossed 14 miles of ice from Teller before reaching a spot they could board the cutter.

ANCIENT BERLIN LANDMARK IS NOW BEING REPAIRED

By ERIC KEYSER.

(United News Staff Correspondent)
BERLIN, June 2.—The Brandenburg Gate, one of Berlin's historic landmarks, is undergoing repairs.

American tourists, following their Baedeker's have immediately upon their arrival here sought a view of the impressive arch,—only to find it hidden by a mass of scaffolding. The Prussian goddess of victory, sitting atop the gate and for nearly a century driving her four-horse chariot toward the East, has been removed to a studio for repairs.

Located at the end of the historic Unter den Linden, the Brandenburg Gate has been associated with all important phases of modern German history. Napoleon rode through it after his victories over the Prussian armies 120 years ago.

Sixty years later the Prussian army marched through the pillars of the gate, returning triumphant from the Franco-Prussian War. Later, the field-gray regiments passed through its shadow, reviewed by the Kaiser, to return four years later, defeated and disheartened, and to be received by President Ebert with his famous "defeated but not vanquished" utterance.

Afterward the tide of revolution passed over the gate leaving it scarred with bullet-marks. Then it witnessed the funeral procession of the late President Ebert and the triumphant entry of President Paul von Hindenburg.

Traffic now flows through its wide archways unceasingly. But the middle arch is never used. The asphalt covering is gray and dull, thrown into relief by the tire-polished surface on its sides. Since President Hindenburg came through it a year ago, no wheeled traffic has been allowed under it.

The royal fugitive in Doorn no doubt still cherishes high hopes of riding through the center arch on his white charger.

WHAT MY NEIGHBOR SAYS

Is of interest to Lubbock folks

When one has had the misfortune to suffer from backache, headaches, dizziness, urinary disorders and other kidney ills—and has found relief from all this sickness and suffering, that person's advice is of untold value to friends and neighbors. The following case is only one of many thousands, but it is that of a Lubbock resident. Who could ask for a better example?

Homer A. Pace, district manager, No. Equal Hosiery Mills, 1502 Avenue I, says: "My kidneys acted too freely; nights I had to get up several times to pass the secretions. I was also annoyed with a mean, dull hurting in the small of my back. Doan's Pills were recommended to me and I am glad to say they soon regulated my kidneys and rid me of the backache."

LAUNCH SANITARY SURVEY AMONG ALASKA NATIVES

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, June 2.—A government expedition to study health and sanitary conditions among Alaska natives in territory seldom if ever visited by white men left here today.

Two trained medical investigators, two trained nurses, a cook, engineer and servant will enter the Yukon via the Tanana river, to be gone at least four months.

According to Dr. H. C. Devighne, the territory to be visited consists of 1,000 square miles on the lower Yukon and its tributaries, inhabited by native Eskimos, Aleuts and Indians. Dr. Devighne is territorial health commissioner.

"What the expedition will find we do not know," Dr. Devighne said. "We hear rumors of epidemics among the natives from time to time and we want to get at the facts. We have planned this expedition for several years. A report will be made to government departments when the survey is over."

A permanent clinic for natives will be set up at Fort Yukon, following the completion of the survey Dr. Devighne believes.

BORAH BOOM BEARS FRUIT

COOLIDGE SUPPORTERS PLEDGE THEIR ALLEGIANCE TO VERMONT

By United News.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Already the Borah presidential boom is bearing fruit—for President Coolidge, Tennessee republican leaders called at the White House Wednesday and assured the president that if he desired re-nomination in 1928 he could count on the delegation from the celebrated fundamentalist state.

This kind offer, it is reported brought only a knowing smile from the silent man of the White House who is never more silent than when another term is suggested.

The haste with which the pledge of support followed the trumpeting of the Borah candidacy illustrates the grip of the president on the regular party organization from now on the trains running into Washington will be loaded with politicians hopeful of presidential favors, who

College Girls Today Are Better Than of Old

DENTON, Texas, June 2.—College girls of today are, in most respects, finer than the girls of their age forty years ago, according to an estimate expressed Tuesday morning at the 23rd annual commencement exercises of the College of Industrial Arts by Dr. Charles W. Dabney, of Houston, president emeritus of the University of Cincinnati.

Dr. Dabney characterized the modern girl as "franker and more natural, but not less moral. She is, he said, less conventional and not as graceful as her grandmother, but just as true and much better educated." The theme of Dr. Dabney's address was "The Spiritual Element in Education." This he considered from a practical standpoint. The speaker contrasted the individualistic realistic stories of human society and scored heavily the former.

Dr. Dabney gave his audience a detailed analysis of society, pointing out its needs and the means of meeting them. He pointed out that the best means of accomplishing anything for society lie along the lines in accordance with the eternal laws of nature and God.

Dr. Dabney declared that the home, the church, and the school must cooperate in administering religious training to the children. He branded as "harmfully erroneous" the theory that moral training may

STOCKS WHEAT COTTON

New York Finance

By WALTER MOCKLER. Written for The United News. NEW YORK, June 2.—Call money eased to four per cent at the close Wednesday at the stock market justified all the bullish predictions made Tuesday. Industrials rallied from Tuesday's moderate setback very well with substantial gains all along the line. Rails were quiet, mainly because of further sharp selling in Michigan in retraction over results of the dividend meeting at which only the regular dividend was declared.

Strength in the industrial division was distributed equally among the various groups. General Motors was higher following news that Morgan had placed $9,000,000 or the company. Fisher Body was also sharply higher. Specialties worked to the fore, especially those that had been very much in the doldrums since March. All in all the tone of the market indicated renewed confidence on the part of longs.

The French franc dropped 3 1-2 points although the house of representatives ratified the debt settlement. This means little at this stage of the game, however. The senate had yet to pass on the matter but inasmuch as the basis of the agreement is strongly favored in America, and denounced in mank French quarters as an "American made agreement," the test will come when the French chamber of deputies takes up the task of approving the measure.

This situation renders rather premature any talk of a French loan at this time. One story Wednesday had it that France might be expected to float a loan of $100,000,000 or so in the near future. In response to banking quarters it was impossible to find any one with definite

New Passport Ruling on Border

EL PASO, Texas, June 2.—New passport regulations governing individuals communicating between Juarez and El Paso entered the second day of existence here today.

Displacing the card bearing the identity of the bearer in former years, the new rule calls for a letter carrying the picture of the bearer, together with name and a physician's certificate "attesting the healthfulness of the owner."

Mystification was present at the city hall in several instances as applicants sought passport privileges under the new regulations. Sam Johnson, negro, queried the clerk as to whether it would be necessary to have a passport pitcher "or mah baby?"

"Is she a baby in arms?" the clerk asked. Sam shifted his feet and transferred his hat from hand to hand. "Well, sometimes," he grinned. "What do you mean sometimes?" rasped the clerk.

"Well, I holds her in mah arms when shes in town, but shes out of town just now," Sam blurted out. "How old is she?" patiently asked the clerk. "Twenty-six—same as I," Sam explained. He was instructed to secure a "pitcher" of his "baby" if he wanted to have her accompany him across the international bridge.

A white woman complained that the bridge officials refused to allow her to cross without her husband despite her assurance that she "was boss in the family and her husband admitted it."

FIRST BUSINESS HOUSE IN LEVELLAND IS BEING REPLACED BY BRICK

LEVELLAND, June 2.—The first business house built in the county seat of Hockley County, and owned by T. W. Bowers, the first business man in Levelland, is being moved to another part of the business section and replaced with a modern brick structure.

At the time this frame structure was built, T. W. Bowers did not realize within three or four years the county seat, which was then nothing more than haunts of the white face cattle, would be the benefit of small farmers.

Woman Politician Attacks Mrs. Catt

By United News. PARIS, June 2.—Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, leader of the national woman's party of the United States, who rushed to Europe on the Aquitania to support the application of that group for membership in the world suffrage congress, has arrived here and issued a denunciation of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, her one time protegee.

Mrs. Belmont's attack on Mrs. Catt was precipitated by Mrs. Catt's attack toward admission of the national woman's party of the United States to the world suffrage congress. The woman's party's application for membership was rejected Monday.

Mrs. Belmont said that she had offered 50,000 francs to help defray the expenses of the suffrage congress, but had withdrawn her offer when she learned of the action against the national woman's party.

The Wife Who Wasn't Wanted

DOROTHY A. F. MARCELL

Copyright, 1925, Warner Bros. Pictures Inc.

"THE WIFE WHO WASN'T WANTED" with Irene Rich in a picture which is a masterpiece of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

It is Bob Manning's twenty-first birthday and a dance has been given for him at the Country Club. The hour is late and the party is breaking up. Diane Bledsoe is urging Bob to join a small company which is going to Calkin's Inn. Marjorie Patterson, who is in love with Bob, hears Diane's pleadings and is fearful lest Bob will yield to the temptress. She declines the invitation of another boy who offers to escort her home, saying she can accompany Mrs. Manning, Bob's mother.

"Don't argue, Billy. You know I wouldn't if I could." And Marjorie calmly walked away from the discomfited youth to pause in the doorway as Diane grew more persistent.

"Come on, Bob. Be a good sport. I'll show you the time of your life at Calkin's Inn."

Marjorie's eyes rounded. It was as if she could not believe her ears.

"Oh, Bob!" she cried. The group on the porch turned. Gazing straight at Marjorie, Diane seemed to read a challenge. Suddenly she shrugged her shoulders and gave a derisive laugh.

"So that's why you can't go, Bob? I didn't know that I was trespassing. Don't let me interfere."

"A loyal henchman, Theo lifted his heavy lids and grinned. "If she has strings on you, don't let us lead you into mischief, old fellow."

Bob flushed and his temper flared as he stared back at Marjorie. But if that day he entered manhood's estate, youth has its pride.

"You must tell me, dear," persisted Eileen.

"Nobody has any strings on me," he declared hotly. Diane tittered. It was an aggravating titter.

"Well, then?" she inquired of the universe. Ignoring Diane and the rest, Marjorie moved towards them.

"Bob," she said with an air of proprietorship, "you can't go." Again Diane's giggle was a belch to Bob's temper. What right had Marjorie to dictate to him? Determination seized him.

"I will go." "You can't go, Bob," insisted Marjorie, careless of the amusement of the group about them.

The commanding note in her voice seemed to exasperate him. Whether he was headed to Calkin's Inn or Hong Kong he would teach Marjorie that she could not boss him.

"Who'll stop me?" he blurted. "I'm going to do exactly what I please." And as the group moved towards Theo's car he calmly passed Marjorie by.

For an instant it seemed as if she would follow him, but with an effort she restrained herself. Bob, having had his way, took little comfort in it. Even at the edge of the porch, he hesitated as if half minded to turn. However that imp of mischief, Diane was not slow in sensing what was taking place.

of an aspen before a storm. But Marjorie would not surrender. Stubbly, she fought back the tears which brimmed her lids. In this, she was so successful that Eileen suspected nothing, when catching sight of her little neighbor from the door, she hurriedly joined her. Beautifully gowned and fairly radiant over the outcome of Bob's party was Eileen, tonight.

"Where's Bob?" she inquired promptly. "I've looked for him everywhere. I was certain I would find him with you. John can't get away to call for you, so Bob will have to take us home."

Her unhappiness hidden by the shadows of the porch, Marjorie did not trust herself to speak.

"Everybody enjoyed themselves, didn't they dear?" continued Eileen, enthusiastically. "Especially during that last dance. And the dinner! Demonst fairly outdid himself. Did you ever taste anything more delicious than that ice?"

Still Marjorie was silent. "And those French pastries, did you try them?"

Marjorie had, but now sorrow had embittered their memory. "The punch, you liked that too, didn't you?"

Engrossed as she was in the evening's delights, so one sided was the conversation that even Eileen marked it. Casting a sharp glance at Marjorie, she suddenly seized her by the shoulders and twisted her towards the lights.

"Marjorie, you are crying! What is the matter, dear?" Stiffing a tell-tale sob, Marjorie shook her head.

"Tell me, is it about Bob? What has he done?" Still Marjorie shook her head. She was no tattler tale.

"You must tell me, dear," persisted Eileen. "I'm his mother. I have a right to know. You both mean so much to me—maybe I can help —"

"Bob's gone," sobbed Marjorie suddenly. "Gone—gone where?"

"To Calkin's and—with—with Diane Bledsoe." "With Diane Bledsoe?" Dilemma of care and sympathy that you claim to be Diane, this mother's tones were no compliment to you.

"To Calkin's Inn—alone?" "No, not alone. They took a crowd and went to dance." "No matter," said Eileen with decision. "I don't approve of Calkin's Inn. I don't approve of dances at this time in the morning. I don't approve of—well—hurry—and get your wraps I'll send for my car. We'll stop and get Bob on our way home."

A few minutes later and they were off on the trail of Theo Bledsoe's car. It was plain that the more Eileen thought of Bob's trip to Calkin's Inn the less she liked it. And could she have glimpsed Theo's car at that moment she would have found warrant for even greater anxiety.

Half asleep, Theo was in no condition to drive. Under his drowsy guidance the car swerved so badly that even Diane was moved to objection.

"You drive, Bob," she urged. "Theo is driving like a boob." Bob shook his head, lost in his own thoughts. Again the car swerved crazily, and Diane grew determined. "Theo," she cried, "you drive enckoo. Let Bob take the wheel." And to Bob: "Change places, honey. He'll ditch us sure and spoil the wonderful dance I'm going to have with you."

Reluctantly Bob shifted to Theo's place. "There; this is better," whispered Diane, thrusting her arm about Bob's shoulders and snuggling up to him. "You drive as if there were some brains in your nut. Now show me what you can make the old bus do."
