A well tilled farm is more valuable to the owner and the community than an oil gusher.

BRYANT-LINK COMPANY.

As the summer days begin to dawn we have that lazy feeling, just how to explain this feeling our words are inadequate. We suppose the negroes version was about right he said "he dident know just what was the matter with him I eats all right and sleeps all right, but has no desire to work."

Well it takes the warm long days to make the crops grow and they certainly are growing. We have never seen prettier cotton than our farmers have. Their crops clean, they certainly are doing their part and we feel sure that, He who silently watches and helps will see that the harvest is sufficient for our needs. When we think of the past we remember many times when it looked as though West Texas was losing and that people could not make permanent homes hre, but from those perilous days the people have ever emerged stronger and braver and ready face any condition that might arise. Such a country with such people can not fail and we now look forward to the days when every farm will have all the modern improvements that makes the home so comfortable and attractive. We are always more glad when we pass by a well arranged and kept home. The life of the nation is dependent upon the homes. No wonder sometimes the boys and girls will leave home in their teens. What attraction is there for them? But we are so glad that there are so many real homes where trees are planted and kept and flowers are blooming, and God is not known, no home will be happy without Him. The flowers may bloom the trees wave their branches in the breeze and the birds may nest and sing in these same trees and yet f the Christ principals are not there, there can be no permanent happiness.

The Home, the State, the Nation, the world, must stand on these principles or fall without them. We are optomistic. We believe in the future. But we started in to talk about home building in my boyhood days. I had day dreams of my home when in manhood I thought would make me master and my day dreams would be realized. I built this castle between two mountains whose snow capped summits towered above the thunder roars and nestling between these giant hills I saw a valley just wide enough for farm and meadow through which a clear stream fed by the mountains snow eternally sped on towards the sea and whose water sported trout and perch just waiting for my rod and reel. And flowers bloomed along its banks of every hue and kind and squirrels skampered from bough to bough of the spreading trees and wild game waited for my days watched until it was a full blown rose and you could behold its real beauty and enjoy its matchless perfume?

"It takes a lot of love in a place to make it "Home" money cannot buy a home. Piles of brick, stone and marble may be placed together by the most skilled builder until they have cost a million and yet it is not a home. It is generally the cottage where loving hands have worked together and loving hearts have to the same ideals that are real homes.

Young man, young woman do not be satisfied until you have a home of your very own "be it ever so humble"

Now this was intended to be an add, but the writer forgot business for higher, better things. But our invitation is as ever we want and appreciate your business. Our merchandise we think is the best, our business thus for in 1922 has been good for which we thank you. We should all be conservative, but to us there is sound of business prosperity. Come on with the crowds to the store whose motto is, Quality First.

EDD POTTS ACCIDENTALLY SHOT HIMSELF WITH PISTOL

Edd Potts narrowly escaped serious injury Wednesday when a pistol was accidentally fire in the C. Hogan store. The pistol was in a counter drawer, and while opeening the drawer the gun in some manner was exploded, the ball passing through a plank and striking Edd. However, the force of the shot had been spent, making only a blue spot in striking Edd.

REVIVAL MEETING IN PROGRESS AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

A revival meeting commenced Sunday at the Presbyterian church, conducted by Rev. Lowe, the pastor. The services are being largly attend, and will continue throughout the week.

Rev. Lowe is an able preacher, and his sermons in this revival are having a telling effect. Everybody is urged to attend and receive the benefits of the daily services.

NINE CARS OF HOGS AND CATTLE IN LAST SHIPMENT

Six cars of hogs and three cars of ttle were included in the coopera- tive shipment which left Spur Monday of this week.

This will be the last cooperative shipment to be made until after the summer season. Several hogs, we are informed, died from the heat while being loaded in this shipment.

County Agent Johnston went with the shipment to the Fort Worth market. This cooperative marketing plan has been worth thousands of dollars to Dickens county people,and the plans for cooperative, systematic marketing should be placed on a permanent basis.

BAPTIST PROTRACTED MEETING CLOSED LAST SUNDAY NIGHT

The Baptist meeting conducted by Rev. Matthews, of Plainview, closed Sunday night. During the progress of the meeting there were 24 addition to the church. At the close of the meeting contributions were called for and approximately $450 subscribed to pay the preacher, singer and pianist, the individual subscriptions ranging from $25 down to $1.

To those who attended regularly the meeting was recognized as a great revival, and its effects of lasting good to the church and community.

TOWNSEND WITHDRAWS FROM RACE FOR REPRESENTATIVE

Please publish in your paper that owing to the fact it is necessary for me to devote my entire time to other business, I will have no time in which to make a canvass of the District for the office of Representative to the Legislature. I therefore withdraw from the race. I am taking this step solely for the reason stated as I am firmly of the opinion that I would be elected should I choose to neglect my business in order to make a canvass of the District. EMANCIPATION DAY CELEBRATED IN SPUR MONDAY, JUNE 19

Emancipation day, Monday, June 19th, was celebrated in Spur with a big barbecue of beeves, goats and pigs. Colored ball teams from Jayton and Aspermont were here and with the Spur team played some fast games, Aspermont carring off the honors. There were more white people on the grounds than colored, there being two tables prepared for the whites while one table sufficed for the negroes.

Speeches were made by Attorneys Wilson and Wohlford and Dr. Grace.

OUR HIGHWAY CRISIS

The State Highway Commission will meet at Austin next Monday to allot the Texas share of the appropriation for Federal highway aid which will be made available by the bill in the final stages of enactment in Congress. As has been the case in the past this allotment will consist of meeting with Federal and State aid the bond issues of counties for projects within their borders. The commission, so far as possible attempts to have projects completed which will contribute toward the final creation of a state highway system.

But we are still far away from a State highway system. We have constructed about 2,500 miles of improved highways with Federal aid during the past four or five years and there are scarcely 100 miles of it in a single stretch of road. Nearly 2,000 miles more under construction or projected and when they have been completed the situation will be little better. Under the ideal of the Federal highway law Texas is to have a State highway system of something like, 12,000 miles of connected improved highways. But the idea seems a long way off so long as we continue the patchwork method of spending Federal and State money in highway construction that we have followed so far.

The Highway Commission and the State Department can not help it. The highway officials are doing the very best they can and the truth is that they have been doing well in the circumstances. The trouble is with our laws and our system. It was necessary to exempt Texas from the provisions of the last highway law in order to make any Federal aid available to us. The exemption was for three years, and the new bill will extend this so that it will be four years from next November. That means that the Federal Government will continue to appropriate money for Texas in spite of our patchwork method for another four years. But because Congress influenced by political considerations, is willing to permit us to continue our patchwork methods for another four years is no reason why we should be willing to continue them any longer than is necessary. We to change our methods for that reason, and We are more interested in having a connected highway system in Texas than the Federal Government can possibly be, and we ought to change our methods forthat reason, and not because of any provision in the Federal laws. The considerations which have impelled the Federal Government to make such laws ought to impel us to adjust ourselves

We are facing a highway crisis Texas, and that is why the friends of highways have organized the Texas Highway Association. This association proposes to meet this situation, and every progressive citizen in the State should join it. And every progressive newspaper should enlist in the campaign to bring this matter to the attention of its readers.—Star Telegram.

THE FUNERAL OF A CITY

A city that had once been lively, progressive and prosperous, suffered an attack of civic anemia and declined until it reached that condition where it was generally referred to as "a dead one."

It was on its way to the cemetery.

Hiram Hogitall, whose motto, "get it while the gettin's good," is sufficent introduction, dug the city's grave.

The firm Pinhead, Pessimist & Grape Hanger embalmed the remains

The firm of Selfishness & Swinesnout, who had always been so busy feathering their own nest that they never had any time for city's affairs donated the city's shroud.

Pinchem & Pennsqueezer, who never believed in advertising furnished the coffin.

Old Pompous Purseproud, who never gave a penny to a public enterprise, drove the hearse.

A select quartette from the Clique Club sang the Doxology.

The Rev. Mr. Mossback preached the funeral sermon.

Mr. Home Town Knocker donated the tombstone and old Billy Bellyacher carved the epitaph.

Messrs. Doolittle, Croaker, Puttyhead, Rearback, Wetblanket and What-the-Use acted as pallbearers

The only person who had no official part in the obsequies was Mr. Live Wire, who got off the train by mistake and attended the funeral because there was nothing else to do between trains.—The Corpus Christi Evening Times.

Sheriff Bob Goodall, of Clairemont was in Spur Monday afternoon. As an usual thing sheriffs and peace officers are avoided, and too often make themselves "formidable" objects, but Bob Goodall is "different." He encourages friendships and sociability, but in performing his official duty he has distinguished himself as an officer who "goes and gets 'em." He has held the sheriff's office four or five terms in Kent county, and his tenure of office will probably be prolonged until such time as he resigns or wilfully disregards the "ethics" of his official position.

WORDS OF WISE MEN

Faithful are the rebukes of a friend.

Silence is as great an art as speech

They are rich who have true friends

Grasp no more than thy hand will hold.

Ignorance is the mother of superstition.

Interfere not in the quarrel of others.

Humility often gains more than pride.

Where the river run deepest it runs quietest.

MAN'S INCONSISTENCY

An imitation of man and a sweet little woman, his wife, were in a certain store. Wife, picked out a dress which she wanted and probably needed and hubby appeared on the scene and said "no you don't need that, you can get along without it and can't afford it, of course." This sweet little woman was embarassed and decided she didn't need it. But he went on the grocery side and bought two pounds thick Penn's tobacco, paying $2.40 for a week's spitting which was about the same price of the dress which would have lasted a year or more. Oh, consistency, where art thou?—Exchange.

A CORPORATION THAT POSSESSES A SOUL

CORPORATIONS are popularly supposed to be Frankensteins without a soul. It appears that the Cotton Belt Railroad has that sublime intangible essence. For the Cotton Belt, so we are informed, is the only line in the state that has made a 1-cent per mile rate for the Confederate Veterns' reunion at Richmond, Va.

We call that rate deduction a gracious concession. And yet we do not know whether "gracious concession" is the proper phrase. Let us rather say that the Cotton Belt realizes that railroads of the South, like the younger generation of the South, owe these veterans the affection that one bestows on men who stood manfully on the battlefield for what they considered the right.

High up in the Cotton Belt management there must be some one who believes that, even if republics are ungrateful, no corporation should be so busy with its business as to be unable to respond to the finger touch of genuine sentiment.—Times Herald.

Miss Ruth Glasgow, who has been attending Baylor University the past term, is now spending the summer vacation with Mrs. Glasgow. Miss Ruth is making rapid advancement in her college life, is a most deserving young lady and has the congratulations of many friends in her recognized advancement.

HOW TO MAKE FARMING PAY

A large cottoh crop means a small price and less money for farmers.

All successful farmers, grow their living at home, keep out of debt, and make cotton a surplus crop.

Diversified farming encourages self reliance, promotes independehco and insures prosperity.

A crop of eight or ten million bales of cotton this year will bring 20 to 25 cents per pouhd.

A crop of twelve or fifteen million bales will bring 10 cents per pound or less. Which will you have?

Cotton is not the only money crop. Fruits and vegetables, livestock, poultry, eggs and dairy products bring money.

Make the farm self-supporting and make the world pay a profitable price for the coming cotton crop.

This will make farming prosperous and put all business on a sound basis. —Geo. B. Terrell.

Leon Donaldson, seventeen years of age, died June 3rd, at his home north of Dickens after a portracted illness of tuberculosis. The remains were interred in the Dickens cemetery.

PRESERVING EGGS FOR HOME USE

As a general rule eggs drop in price during the spring and summer months, and go up in price during the fall and winter months. For this reason it has been found practical to preserve eggs when they are cheap for home consumption, when they are high in price. It is not practical to preserve eggs as a commercial under taking, because the eggs must be sold as preserved eggs and not be sold as perfectly fresh ones. Preserving low priced eggs for home use makes it possible to sell the high priced eggs in the fall and winter.

Infertile eggs are the only ones to preserve, and these infertile eggs should be perfectly fresh. In warm weather they should be collected twice a day and placed in the preservative as they are collected. Dirty shell eggs or bad eggs or cracked ones should not be preserved. Eggs that float when placed in the solution are not fresh and should be discarded.

When the shell of the egg is only slightly soiled, a cloth dampened with vinegar may be used to remove such stains. When eggs are purchased, they should be carefully candled because one bad egg may spoil the rest in the container.

Of the various ways of preserving eggs, the water glass method is considered the best. The present price of sodium silicate (water glass) is from 25 to 35 cents a quart. At this price it will cost approximately 3 cents per dozen to preserve eggs. Do not use solution second time.

Use one quart of sodium silicate to nine parts of rain water that has been boiled then cooled. Place in a five gallon jar or crock. This will be sufficient to preserve 15 dozen eggs. Place the crock containing the eggs in a cool and dry place, well covered to prevent evaporation. Two or three sheets of waxed paper covered over and tied around the top of the crock will prvent evaporation. Eggs may be placed in the solution as gathered. At least two inches of the solution should cover the top eggs. If evaporation reduces the liquid, add enough to keep the required two inches above the eggs.

Sodium or water glass can be purchased in most any drug store. Where it is impossible to get this, tne lime water method may be used. This is not considered quite as satisfactory as the water glass method, because in some instances eggs so preserved have tasted slightly of lime. This may be due to the fact that some eggs have more thin and porous shells allowing the solution to penetrate thru the shell.

Shake two pounds of unslacked lime with little water and add five gallons of water that has been boiled and allowed to cool. Allow the mixture to stand until it appears clear and the lime has settled. Then dip the clear lime water out and pour over the eggs until the top layer is covered by two inches of the mixture, We prefer an earthenware jar for the container.

Use perserved eggs that were put up in the solution in the summer first, bcause they will not keep as long as those preserved in the spring. Eggs will keep from spring until winter in either of the previously mentioned preservatives. Before boiling preserved eggs, puncture a small hole in the large end of the egg penetrating the air space, thus allowing the air in the egg to escape when heated and prevent the cracking of the shell. The yolk and white of preserved eggs do not possess the firmness of fresh eggs. Age deteriorates the membranes. Preserved eggs do not possess the firmness nor the vor of fresh eggs.

Preserved eggs cannot be sold as fresh eggs, They must be sold for what they really are. They are chiefly for home use, and are also an economical factor in reducing the cost of living. Eggs in the spring selling for fifteen cents a dozen may be preserved at additional cost of 3 cents and used when fresh eggs are selling for at least fifty cents and sometimes more per dozen. Storing eggs as a commercial proposition requires cold storage facilities.

Storing eggs in cold storage is a business in itself The great danger lies in the fact that when eggs are purchased a certain percentage are bad, unless they are removed by careful candling, they are apt to spoil the entire case. A cold storage plan can only keep the eggs the way it is put in. The charges are reasonable but the danger lies in the fact that it is difficult to buy good fresh and infertile eggs for cold storage.—F. W. Kazmeier.

OUR GREAT STATE

Texas Spur:

Mr. Editor:—On a Southeast run from Spur to Austin it is about 500 miles—thence to Brownsville 500 miles, making a total distance from Dickens County to Brownsville by rail about 1,000 miles. Ninety-five per cent of all this vast area is rich and cultivable land unknown to cost of fertilizers, and when in some future day these lands will be producing on some parts all the staple crops of the earth great indeed will be the vast annual volume of production of Grand old Texas.

On our trip to Austin last week fighting out the last round of the Spur Differential it was a grand sight to see many thousands of acres of corn in full silk and tassel and thousands of acres of shocked oats in the fields between Waco and Austin. Cotton, however, had been rained out and was just showing up, while our cotton on higher lands from Cisco, to Spur, was 4 times as large as the Waco cotton.

Our "Differentail," and "two line reduction" suit was tried out and closed before the Railroad Commission on Wednesday last the 14th. We asked no favors nor granted any but Justice, before the Court in our last show down, and feel assured that in a few days the people of Dickens County will read a decree of Court lifting this freight graft from their backs which all have been paying for 12 years and 8 months. Turn Dickens County loose.

Sincerely
F. N. Oliver.

BASE BALL DOPE

The Dickens Shinnery Twigs defended their record Saturday June 10th by letting the Crack Matador team down with a 9 to 1 defeat. Matador's only score came in the first inning. A hit was mode and was stretched to a double owing to a nuff by second baseman Dobbs. The next man hit a single and scared the man from second.

Otto Austin, went the whole route for the Twigs while Matador used two twerters.

WATCH DICKENS CO. GO

Not for years have we had such prospcts in this county. Never has diversified farming tided over such stringent times. If you have not done so, do not think this is purely propaganda, but ask your neighbors and a large per cent you will find have been taking advantage of a number of new methods.

As an example take poultry raising over the county. Heretofore poultry has had only a fancy with a few people a source of a few eggs with others and a matteer of no interest whatever to the balance. Have you noticed this year the chickens, flocks of them on every farm and around every home? It just means that Dickens County folks will have several thousand dollars of extra money that never came from that source before.

This week's cooperative shipment went out with seven cars of cattle and hogs and thre cars of catle owned by Mr J.. B. Morrison. The seven cars of hogs and cattle simply means fifteen thousand dollars for Dickens county. Never in the history of this county has there been so many hogs shipped, and never at a more opportune time, for every line f business has passed over the rocks in the past two years.

This year we face the finest prospects we have had for a long, long time. Catton and feed stuff were never better at this stage, but in spite of this, let us not forget times past.

With the start and interest shown in the past wo years, Dickens County can increase her earning capacity one hundred per cent. Make every home really owned, stocked with pure bred livestock, improved with painted buildings—and lived in by a prosperous and happy people.

Let us pull together for a common good.

WHY THE FARMER SUFFERED MOST

Of course the farmer has suffered more than anybody else in the recent depression. In any panic of any kind a mob always suffers more than an organized, unified, fighting force—and farmers now sell as a mob rather than as a unit. When the prices of manufactured goods and mineral products such as coal and iron began to drop in 1920-1921, manufacturers and mining industries curtailed production and continued their policy of gradual and orderly selling. The farmers, on the other hand, continued to "dump" their products on the market regardless of price or demand—and of course the more they dumped, the faster their prices dropped.

The Chemical Bank of New York has recently issued a remarkable table showing that as a result of this policy, the real value or purchasing power of an average acre of farm crops last year was less than it had been in any previous year since 1866.

In compiling this table, the Chemical National Bank proceeded in this way:

st, it took for each year the value or selling price of ar farm crops, as shown by the States Department of Agri—corn, cotton, tabacco, wheat , potatoes, buckwheat, hay, rley being the ten crops aver- together before in this way.

condly, the actual purchasing wer of a dollar in each year was next determined. Average prices of standard commodities or goods in the five pre-war years 1910-1914 were taken as a basis. Now then if we assume that a dollar should buy as much in any year as it bought in the years 1910-1914, how many dollars per acre would the farmer then have for his crop? On this basis, the Chemical National Bank finds that while the farmers got $35.74 per acre for his crops in 1919, this amount was enough to buy only $16.30 worth of commodities on the basis of their 1910-1914 prices. Again, while the farmer's average crop values dropped from $35.74 per acre in 1919 to $14.52 in 1921, this $14.52 would buy last year only $9.30 worth of other things, based on their 1910-1914 prices—less than in any other year for 50 years.—Progressive Farmer.

DEAD 300 YEARS

Henry Allen Wilson, secretary of the New England Anti-Tobacco League said in an address at Portland:

"Carefully compiled statistics show us that for every cigar a man smokes he shortens his life three days, while for every cigarette he shortens it a week."

At that point a prominent Portland physician arose in the rear of the hall.

"Are those statistics absolutely accurate?" he asked.

"Absolutely sir." said Secretary Wilson. "Why?"

"Because it's rather important," explained the physician. "You see, if your statistics are accurate, I've been dead more than 300 years."

CAGE THE ROOSTER

The good old summer time is here—also the spoiled eggs. In spite of the fact that farmers are warned every season against the great loss that they are likely to sustain by reason of their failure to arrange for production of only infertile eggs during the hot weather eggs in various degrees of decomposition are constantly being marketed and no attempt whatever is made to separate the roosters from the rest of the flock, on a vast majority of the farms.

It does not seem that it would be a difficult matter to provide a pen and the roosters might be confined during the summer months and this would insure eggs that could be guaranteed by the seller. This would have an appreciable effect upon the price. At present the price is fixed with a certain per cent allowed for bad eggs in order that the dealer may not lose on the transaction.

Even though every effort is made to gather all of the eggs each day, it sometimes happens that hens steal their nests away and a number have been laid before the hiding place is found. Such eggs should not be marketed if a farmer wants to build up a reputation for strictly fresh eggs, but they may be used on the home table and will probably be found all right of the eggs are infertile.

Now is the time to cage the rooster—South West Plainsman.

SAFETY FIRST ON THE FARM

Every day we are confronted with the above slogan in its application to the protection of human life. It flashes before our eyes as we cross the dangerous railroad track or as we mount the stairway in the large buildings of the city. Did it ever occur to you that "Safety First" is a mighty good watch word for our farming operations?

The old dairy cow and the industrious hen have proven to be mighty good friends of the farmers during the past two years which have been most trying as regards making "ends meet" on the farm. These good friends are placing farming operations on a safe basis. Through the sale of their products many farm homes have been made comfortable and food and clothing secured that otherwise would have been impossible.

Don't you think it time we admit that a mixed diversified system of farming is the safest and sanest after all? The small daily cash returns enable you to buy your necessities without borrowing money, enable you to "live at home" and enable that boy and girl to contribute to their support with out missing these valuable hours in the school.

Look over your community and you will find that the family in the best condition in your neighborhood is the family that has been milking some good cows and "keeping" some laying hens. —Melrose (N. M.) Messenger.

POLITICAL AFFAIRS ABROAD

New York, June 4.—Political developments abroad are more reassuring now that international bankers have taken matters in charge. The first steps in Germany's economic rehabilitation have been taken with considerable promise of success for future efforts. It has been found that Germany could not accomplish the impossible, and the tendency now is to rearrange conditions so that they will be brought within the limitations of what is actually possible. On the other hand, Germany herself is being induced to do what she declared to be impossible. The main thing is to stop the printing presses and to make a supreme effort to balance her budget. It is going to cause her a considerable wrench to do this, but however painful that may be, it will be infinitely better than a collapse.

The point to be borne in mind is that a step forward has been made, and from the American point of view it will lead to the recovery of the exchanges an the main revival of American export business. It may be that the Genoa conference has marked the beginning of the regeneration of Russia. It probably has, but what the next move will be no one seems to know. One thing that can be depended upon is that in the course of time Russia will again recognize the existence of economic law. There has never been genius enough in the world to successfully defy nor to evade it, and there is certainly no hope that kind in Russia to-bonus looms up again more menacing than ever, with the possibility of adding $5,000,000,000 to $7,000,000,000 to the burden upon the country. It seems probable that the bill as now framed will be passed by the Senate, but that it will be vetoed by the President, with the chance that it will be repassed over the President's veto.

Equally serious from the political standpoint is the tariff debate now going on in Congress. The further the debate progresses in the Senate the more it is realized what an unsatisfactory bill it is. The country wants a revised tariff, but not one of the kind that is being offered. The essential points of a tariff are, first, that it shall be a revenue producer; second, that it shall accord sufficient protection to industries that would otherwise face ruinous foreign competition; and, finally, that it shall be flexible at least to the extent that it can be used for bargaining purposes with countries that might otherwise discriminate against us. The new tariff bill goes so far beyond these requirements that it can only act as a burden upon American consumers.

Superintendent of Public Instruction—Ed R. Bently, Hidalgo County; S. M. N. Marrs, Travis County; Jefferson G. Smith, Upton County.

Commissioner of Ariculture—George B. Terrell, Cherokee County.

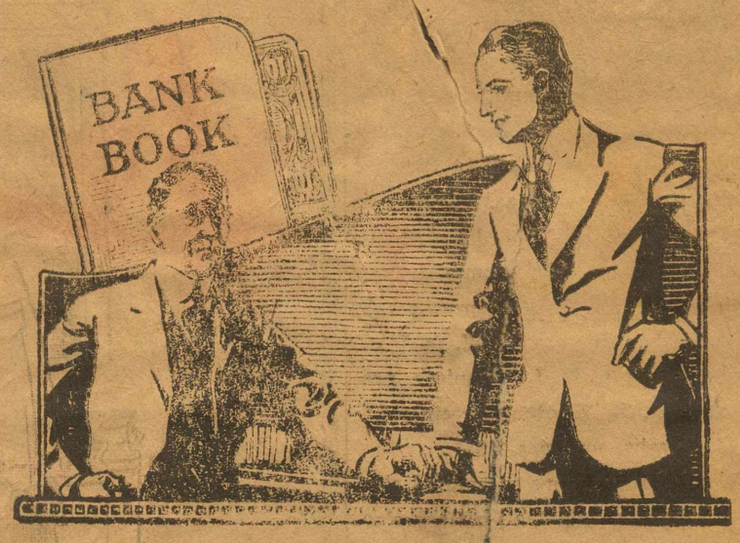

The following test and requirements were adopted by the state committee:

"1. Such person shall be a white Democrat.

"2. Such persons shall take a pledge that he or she will support at all times and vote for in the general election all the nominees of the Democratic party in the general primary election, including nominees for National, State, District, County Precinct and all other offices.

"3. Such person shall have supported and voted for in the last general election, if he or she voted at all, all nominees of the Democratic party, and no person shall vote in such general primary elections who, in the last general election, voted for, gave aid, support or comfort to any political party or the nominees of any political party other than the Democratic party."

In speculating on the political situation of Dickens county, it now appears that a single primary will definitely settle the question of county nominees in all offices except possibly that of public weigher of the Spur precinct. The campaign is now beginning to warm up and most every voter is determining how he will vote.

ANNOUNCES FOR JUSTICE OF THE PEACE

The Texas Spur is authorized to announce R. L. Bass as a candidate for Justice of the Peace of Precinct 3, subject to the Democratic primary election.

Mr. Bass has withdrawn from the race for County Judge to enter the race for Justice of the Peace. The qualifications for each of these two offices is practically the same and having studied and read law for practice and to qualify for the offices of both county attorney and county judge, R. L. Bass is eminently qualified to preside in Justice Court, and if favored with the office promises to perform his duties with diligence, without fear or favor and in accord with the law.

We ask voters in the primary to give the candidacy of Mr. Bass a due consideration in selecting a nominee for Justice of the Peace.

OUSLEY NOT A CATHOLIC

Spur, June 21, 1922.

Oran McClure, Esq., Spur, Texas.

Dear Mr .McClure:—Quoting from a letter just received from Mr. Clarence Ousley, candidate for the United States Senate:

"I have a letter from a friend at Quanah saying some people inferred from what I said in my speech at Quanah on th night of May 6th that I am a Catholic. I am enclosing copy of remarks I recently made at Decatur, which are similar to those I made at Quanah, on race prejudice and religious intolerance, from which you will perceive that I was merely defining the right of every man under the constitution of the United States to worship God as he chooses.

"As a matter of fact I have been a member of the Baptist Church since my youth, although I deem it unbecoming if not politically reprehensible to proclaim that fact in seeking office."

Yours truly.

CLIFFORD B. JONES.

F. N. OLIVER WITHDRAWS FROM THE JUDGE'S RACE

Many yvotrs of the county will be surprised and disappointed to know that Judge F. N. Oliver has withdrawn from the county judge's race. This withdrawal now leaves it up to Brummett and Collier, R. L. Bass having also withdrawn to enter the campaign for justice of the peace of this precinct.

There is no question but that Judge Oliver "was in the running" and personally we would have been glad for him to have "stayed in to the finish."

G. W. Dodson, Tom Dodson, Lon Kizziah and one or two others of the Tennessee Valley community were in Spur last Saturday as a special delegation representing the politics and political situation of the north end of the county. They have gathered data and information from every quarter and are in position to give out the exact results of the approaching primary election even at this early date.

S. H. Nally, a prominent citizen of several miles east of Afton, was in Spur the past week. While here Mr. Nally called in at the Texas Spur office and had his name enrolled on the subscription list. He reports everything now in the very finest shape in his section of the country, with prospects of making the biggest crops of the past years.

J. J. Hickman, of McAdoo, was here Monday greeting friends. Mr. Hickman failed to file his application in time to have his name printed on the ballots, in his candidacy for county commissioner. A number of McAdoo people will be greatly disappointed in this, because they circulated a petition asking the man to become a candidate.

$100.00 REWARD

I will pay $100.00 reward for information leading to a conviction of the theft of a car from Dr. Earnest at Spur, March 13th. The car has been located in Croton Breaks, and is stripped of all parts from raditor to hub caps. The thief may be located through some knowledge of these parts.—G. L. Barber.

Kay Combes, with the J. L. Jones Company of Girard, was in Spur Thursday of this week and while in the city was a very pleasant caller at the Texas Spur office. He reports business good in Girard and states that crop conditions of the surrounding country were never better and more promising of bumper yields than at the present time.

SHERIFF BARBER BRINGS IN A STOLEN AUTOMOBILE

This week Sheriff Barber had hauled into Dickens the remains of a stolen Buick automobile which he found in a secluded place in the Croton Breaks, three or four miles from any habitation. The car was at the bottom of a deep canyon and was stripped of everything removable. The car was stolen from Dr. Earnest in Spurla st March. Sheriff Barber discovered the car some time ago and has been watching it for any developments. He is offering a reward of $100 fo rthe party or parties who stole the car.

ALL CANDIDATES MUST PAY ASSESSMENTS BY JUNE 26

All county and precinct candidates who filed applications for a place on the democratic ballots for the July primary, must pay the amounts assessed against them to meet election expenses, on or before next Monday, June 26th. The assessment must be paid to County Chairman Jas. F. Williams, Spur, Texas.

The Terrell election law prohibits printing a candidate's name on the ticket if this assessment is not paid within the stated time limit.

WITHDRAWAL

To my many friends of Dickens County who have tendered me support for the office of County Judge I beg to say a removal from Spur and other circumstances over which I have no control impels me to withdraw from the race. My gratitude I hold for my friends is more than I can express.

Sincerely,

F. N. Oliver.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Moore and children, were in the city Saturday from their ranch home, spending the afternoon here shopping and visiting with friends.
