Cabinet Change Seen

JESSE JONES MAY BE MADE SECRETARY OF TREASURY

BY DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan 23. (AP)—Democrats in congress reported today they had heard from apparently "authentic" administration sources that Jesse Jones, RFC chairman, may become secretary of the treasury.

JESSE JONES

It was said that Henry Morgenthau, present secretary of the treasury, may be made a confidential adviser to the president.

One congressman, who keeps abreast of developments in government financial circles, said he was reasonably sure the change already has received some consideration from President Roosevelt. Another added that it was "a 100-to-1 shot that it is under consideration."

Rumors of impending cabinet changes have circulated repeatedly as the presidential campaign takes shape. Postmaster General Farley is expected to step out before very long, to confine attention to his Democratic chairmanship.

DECLARED ILL-FOUNDED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23. (AP)—Belief among some Democrats in congress that Jesse Jones might replace Secretary Morgenthau at the treasury was declared ill-founded today at the White House.

The reports were discounted to some extent, however, by the fact that the president has just renominated Jones for two more years as chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

One leading Democrat, who desired to remain anonymous until the matter becomes a bit less nebulous said:

"The transfer, if it is made, might

SNOW IS DUE TO FOLLOW, FORECAST

TEMPERATURE GOES TO 56 BELOW IN POINT IN MINNESOTA

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Jan. 23—Sub-zero temperatures and whistling winds from the Canadian northwest doubled their toll of human lives today as they swept from the Dakotas to the Atlantic.

At least forty-eight dead were counted in a dozen of twenty states covered by the Arctic blast.

Heavy snow was due to follow tonight or tomorrow, and the weatherman was uncertain when real relief would come. Slowly rising temperatures were predicted for tomorrow or Saturday in the mid-west as the Arctic wave moved eastward.

WEATHER WARM HERE

Pleasantly warm weather prevailed in Lubbock this morning, although the official forecast called for lower temperatures Friday.

The mercury stood at 49 degrees above zero at the West Texas Gas company plant south of town at 11 o'clock. Minimum temperature there last night was 26 degrees.

Centers Over Mid-West

The gravest cold still centered over the mid-west, with 56 below zero at International Falls bridge in northern Minnesota the worst on the continent, but zero chill extended from the Rockies to the edge of New England and south to Tennessee and North Carolina.

Thermometers between 25 and 35 below zero in Minnesota and Wisconsin, and from 10 to 20 below in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Eastern Kansas, Nebraska and the Dakotas.

Two Below In Gotham

From Ohio eastward the mercury sagged below zero as far as New York City, where the column showed 2 below, and the harbor sent up clouds of steam because the air was so cold.

Across Pennsylvania and New York, leaving snow and ice locked highways, the wind ripped into New England and tore the Nantucket shoals lightship adrift from her moorings off the Massachusetts coast.

Closes Up Activities

The freakish frigidity closed schools and factories, halted automobile traffic, blocked or delayed rail transportation, broke innumerable plate glass windows, caused widespread hardship, innumerable fires, hundreds of traffic accidents and intense suffering for birds and beasts.

The weather was not entirely

Party Leaders Of Opinion President To Veto Bonus Bill

BUT MEASURE IS EXPECTED TO BE PASSED BY BOTH HOUSES OVER HIS REFUSAL; HAS TEN DAYS IN WHICH TO MAKE UP HIS MIND

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23. (AP)—Intimates of President Roosevelt hazarded the guess today that he would veto the baby bond bonus bill which reached his desk from congress yesterday, but the president himself gave not the slightest hint of his attitude.

On Capitol Hill, where the measure swept through the house yesterday, 346 to 59, after previously passing the senate, 74 to 16, leaders reiterated that the veto question was merely academic, so far as the fate of the bill is concerned.

Confident Of Passage

Legislators were so confident that the bill would pass over a veto that they were already speculating as to whether Mr. Roosevelt will demand new taxes to finance the payments to veterans.

According to the lowest estimates, $1,000,000,000 will be needed within a few months if the bill becomes law. The government, after passing out baby bonds, of $50 denomination, to pay off 3,500,000 adjusted service certificates, will stand ready to cash the bonds next June 15.

While the ultimate cost is estimated at $2,491,000,000, bonus leaders continued to insist that holders of only about $1,000,000,000 will

Questions On Bonus Answered

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Here are answers to some questions frequently asked in connection with the bill to pay off adjusted service (bonus) certificates in cashable $50 bonds:

Q.—If I hold a certificate how do I apply for bonds?

May File Application

A.—An application may be filed with the veterans' administration in Washington at any time before the certificate matures in 1945. A veteran may send his application personally or through a representative prescribed in regulations yet to be issued.

Q.—If I haven't applied for a certificate, may I do so?

A.—Yes. The application should be sent to the same place.

Suppose Death Intervenes

Q.—Suppose death intervenes after application for bonds is made?

A.—The application will be valid if the veterans' administration finds it bears the bona-fide signature of the applicant and discloses an intention to claim the benefits of the act. If death occurs after application is filed but before receipt of bonds, the bonds will go to the estate of the veteran.

Will Certify Amount

Q.—What happens after bond applications are filed?

A.—The veterans administration will certify to the treasury the amount of $50 bonds due a veteran. The amount will be the full 1945 maturity value of the certificate minus the principal of any loans outstanding against it and any unpaid interest accrued prior to Oct. 1, 1931. If a veteran owes any interest for loans after Oct. 1, 1931, it is cancelled.

Q.—Suppose this interest is owed

BY BURDETTE JOHNS
(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press)

LONDON, Jan. 23 (AP)—The body of King George V was returned to London this afternoon for the four days lying-in-state in the capital of his former empire.

Only a few hours earlier, a sad farewell had been accorded the dead monarch at Sandringham, where his reign came to an end shortly before midnight Monday.

Thousands In Streets

The ten-car royal funeral train pulled into the smoke-encrusted King's Cross station at 2:45 p. m. while tens of thousands of Britons packed the adjacent streets.

They stood, waiting silently and mournfully in the chill air, to pay their last tribute of revenue to the man they had honored in life with loyalty.

An honor guard from the three fighting services—the army, navy, and air force—stood rigidly at at-

Ashes Of Kipling Placed In Abbey

LONDON, Jan. 23. (AP)—Rudyard Kipling was buried today alongside other immortals of English literature.

While the body of his sovereign, the late King George V, was being borne to Westminster hall, the ashes of Kipling were placed reverently in the dim and quiet poet's corner of Westminster abbey.

In the shallow depth of earth below the tiling, scored with inscriptions to many a great name, the bard's dust will mingle with that of Chaucer, Spenser, Samuel Johnson, MacCauley, Tennyson and Browning.

BRITISH NAVAL MANEUVERS CRITICIZED

ITALIAN LEADER GIVES VIEWS OF LEAGUE OF NATIONS TODAY

BY ROY P. PORTER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Premier Mussolini carried his diplomatic war controversy deeper into the League of Nations council today by striking out against the five-power mutual aid agreement and British naval maneuvers in the Mediterranean.

One of his spokesmen asserted the leader would protest the assistance pacts of Great Britain, France, Turkey, Greece and Yugoslavia as an "Anti-Italian alliance."

WORD BATTLE BREAKS OUT

RUSSIAN DIPLOMAT IN CENTER OF DISPUTE IN LEAGUE

(By The Associated Press)

GENEVA, Jan. 23—A sharp battle over Communist and Fascist foreign policies and the right of an American republic to break diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia broke out in the council of the League of Nations today.

Mamim Litvinoff, foreign commissar of Russia, declared to the council that Japan, Italy and "another European state" are fostering aggressive policies of "the utmost danger to world peace."

Demands Explanation

He demanded that Uruguay explain to the league exactly why it broke off diplomatic relations with the Soviet government on the grounds that the Moscow government was fostering communistic activities.

Alberto N. Guani, the league representative of Uruguay, answered heatedly that the time had come for nations to take up measures of defense against the policies emanating from Moscow.

Protests Reference

Baron Pompeo Aloisi of Italy protested against Litvinoff's references to Italy.

Litvinoff had referred to Italy's "act of aggression."

Baron Aloisi answered "Italy has no need to provide motives. Italy has no need to find excuses for an action which she has taken openly in view of the imperative need of Italian civilization and stability."

For his part, Senor Guani declared the Moscow program was calculated to destroy "families, religion, the social order, and civilization itself."

Children Aid In Delivering Baby

GOP MEMBERS DECLINE TO STUDY ACT

ONLY DEMOCRATS ARE ON COMMITTEE TO CONSIDER BILL

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—Serious friction over the new administration farm program developed in the senate agriculture committee today when Republicans refused to serve on a subcommittee to study the soil conservation plan and Senator Smith (D-SC) reluctantly accepted the chairmanship.

Smith, who is chairman of the full agriculture committe but who deferred to Senator Bankhead (D-Ala) to introduce the soil-improving subsidy measure in the senate, told reporters after a closed committee meeting:

"I'll support this bill when it conforms to the constitution."

Smith said Senators McNary, of Oregon, the Republican leader, and Norris (R-Neb) declined to serve on the sub-committee of five which was named to study the plan and report back to the full committee by Saturday.

There is fashion news in this evening costume designed by Schiaparelli. The little jacket, worn over a violet velvet dinner gown, is made of a new "blotting paper" wool in a shade of pale rose which is reflected in the suede gloves. A trimming of braid and brilliants accents the pockets. The mannequin's smooth coiffure is topped by a hairnet held in place by jeweled feather-shaped combs.

It always works

Just do what hospitals do, and the doctors insist on. Use a good liquid laxative, and aid Nature to restore clocklike regularity without strain or ill effect.

A liquid can always be taken in gradually reduced doses. Reduced dosage is the real secret of relief from constipation.

Ask a doctor about this. Ask your druggist how very popular Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has become. It gives the right kind of help, and right amount of help. Taking a little less each time, gives the bowels a chance to act of their own accord, until they are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin contains senna and cascara—both natural laxatives that form no habit. The action is gentle, but sure. It will relieve any sluggishness or bilious condition due to constipation without upset.

PAVING IS TO BE APPROVED

CITY COMMISSION TO TAKE ACTION ON WORK TODAY

City commission, meeting in City hall this afternoon, is expected to pass a fourth and final ordinance on city paving undertaken with the aid of Works Progress administration labor and funds.

If funds are available for all of the paving, when completed the four projects will have covered approximately 170 blocks.

Hearing To Be Given

Prior to passage of the ordinance, a protest hearing for owners, whose property borders on the paving contemplated, will be given. Sections of streets affected by the proposed ordinance are:

Seventh street, from Avenues J to M and from Avenues Q to T; Eighth street, Avenue Q to College avenue; Ninth street, Avenue Q to College avenue; Fourteenth street, Texas avenue to Avenue O; Fifteenth street, Avenue H to College avenue; Seventeenth street, Avenues M to Q; Eighteenth street, Avenue H to Texas avenue and Avenues Q to T; Twenty-third street, Avenues S to T; Twenty-ninth street, Avenues S to T.

Avenue F, Main street to Fourteenth street; Avenue G, Seventeenth to Nineteenth streets; Avenue K, Fourth to Tenth streets and Sixteenth to Nineteenth streets; Avenue N, Thirteenth to Sixteenth streets; Avenue S, Nineteenth to Twenty-third streets and Twenty-ninth to Thirty-fourth streets; Avenue T, Twenty-eighth to Twenty-ninth streets and Broadway to Seventh street; Avenue V, Nineteenth to Twenty-eighth streets; Avenue X, Broadway to Sixteenth street.

Main street, Avenues P to Q; Dixie Drive, Nineteenth to Twenty-first streets.

To Consider Ordinance

Also on the docket for discussion by City commission will be a proposed ordinance concerning sanitary regulations for keeping livestock and hogs within the zone inside corporate limits of Lubbock.

A report from the traffic safety commission, headed by Durwood H. Bradley, will not be ready for presentation, said Bradley Wednesday. Mayor Ross Edwards had announced two weeks ago that members of the commission, who are to suggest changes in the city's traffic regulations, might be ready to submit their findings.

League Districts Are Changed Up

FIVE SCHOOLS ADDED; OIL BELT IS MADE INTO LARGER BODY

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 23.—Schools in the class "A" football conference of the University of Texas were reshuffled today to provide more balanced schedules and accommodate five additional entries.

Meeting yesterday in closed session the league executive committee reviewed protests against a proposed rearrangement, made a few changes in the tentative revision and ordered the redistricting plan into effect.

Oil Belt Changed

Major changes were in the Oil Belt district, the northeast-central area and in the Rio Grande valley. Schools in the valley were grouped into a separate district to make room for three additions, McAllen, Pharr-San Juan and Weslaco.

Old district No. 3 comprising Big Spring, San Angelo and Sweetwater, was abolished and the schools transferred to a revised district No. 3 containing Abilene and other Oil Belt entrants.

Divided Into Two Groups

Ten schools in the northeast-central division were divided into two groups, Denison, Gainesville, Bonham, Paris and Sherman into district No. 5 and Denton, Greenville, Highland Park, McKinney and Sulphur Springs into district No. 6.

Cleburne's application for inclusion in the Fort Worth district was denied and Temple's request that Mexia be substituted for Bryan in the Temple district overruled.

Districts under the new plan follow:

1. Amarillo, Borger, Lubbock, Pampa, Plainview.
2. Childress, Electra, Quanah, Vernon, Wichita Falls.
3. Abilene, Big Spring, Breckenridge, Brownwood, Cisco, Ranger, San Angelo, Sweetwater, Eastland.
4. Austin (El Paso), Bowie (El Paso), Fabens, Ysleta.
5. Bonham, Denison, Gainesville, Paris, Sherman.
6. Denton, Greenville, Highland Park, McKinney, Sulphur Springs.
7. Central, North Side, Polytechnic, Stripling, and Masonic Home of Fort Worth and Mineral Wells.
8. Adamson, Technical, Forest Avenue, North, Sunset and Woodrow Wilson, all of Dallas.
9. Gladewater, Kilgore, Longview, Marshall, Texarkana, Tyler.
10. Athens, Henderson, Jacksonville, Lufkin, Mexia, Nacogdoches, Palestine.
11. Bryan, Cleburne, Corsicana, Hillsboro, Temple, Waco, Waxahachie.
12. Austin, Kerrville, and Breckenridge, Harlandale, Thomas Jefferson and Vocational of San Antonio.
13. Conroe and Jefferson Davis, John H. Reagan, Milby, Sam Houston and San Jacinto of Houston.
14. Beaumont, Galveston, Goose Creek, Port Arthur and South Park (Beaumont).
15. Corpus Christi, Kingsville, Laredo, Robstown and Victoria.
16. Brownsville, Edinburg, Harlingen, McAllen, Pharr-San Juan, Weslaco.

Little Mex From San Antonio Gives Canzoneri Trouble

NEW YORK, Jan. 23. (AP)—Tony Canzoneri, the gentleman farmer from Marlboro, N. Y., still stands out as the undisputed ruler of the lightweights but the menace of the tropic threat to his position seems to be increasing.

Brecio Garcia, a courageous Mexican lad from San Antonio, Tex., earned respect as another "comer" from sunny southern climes last night before he finally succumbed to Tony's punches.

Canzoneri, tuning up for a title defense in the spring, took on Garcia in a ten-round non-title bout at the Star Casino. He won by a technical knockout in the ninth but only after a stiff battle.

Garcia's willingness to stand up and punch with the champion and his courage under severe punishment earned him the cheers of the capacity crowd of 3,500 and a place on the list of probable future challengers along with Indian Hurtado of Panama and Pedro Montanez of Puerto Rico, who have been cutting wide swaths through the ranks of the lesser lights in the division.

Both fighters were above the lightweight limit, Canzoneri weighing 138 and Garcia 137.

Pampa Is To Have Race Track Built

PAMPA, Jan. 23. (AP)—A race track will be the first fairground park project to be started here, WPA officials have advised.

The track will be five-eighths of a mile. It was selected as the project which could be started quickest and with the smallest material cost. Erection of a fence and grading at an expenditure of $13,765, will employ 45 men for six months.

The race track will be at the new park site one mile east of the city limits. A grandstand is to be sought later. Applications have been made for an administration building, gymnasium - auditorium, display structures, landscaping, dam and other buildings.

Matronly Solon Is In Favor Of Races

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23. (AP)—Rep. Norton (D-NJ), author of a bill to legalize horse racing in the District of Columbia, says she never placed a bet.

In fact, the matronly legislator says she is opposed to horse race gambling.

"But one has to take a realistic viewpoint," she says. "There is and will be racing and betting. And, if the people of the district want racing, I see no reason why they shouldn't have it."

Mrs. Norton believes it better to have legalized racing and betting here than for Washingtonians to bet with the bookmakers.

The famous old Benning track has been idle since 1908, when racing was banned. If congressional approval is obtained, plans have been announced to build a $2,000,000 plant there.

Westerners To Play 2 Games This Week

Coach Goober Keyes' Lubbock Westerner cagers, who have lost only one game so far this year while winning about nine, face a couple of important engagements on their home court this weekend.

The first, scheduled to start at 7:30 o'clock Friday night, will be with the Amarillo High school Golden Sandies. It will be Lubbock's fourth Panhandle League game, and the Westerners' fourth victory if they can duplicate their work against Amarillo last week. On the Sandie court, Lubbock took a decisive 28 to 17 victory.

The Clovis, N. M., High school Wildcats come here Saturday night to oppose the Westerners.

H. & S. Cowboys Defeat Buffaloes

ABILENE, Jan. 23. (AP)—The Hardin-Simmons Cowboys defeated the West Texas Teachers of Canyon in a fast basketball game here last night. Although behind 10 points at the intermission, the Teachers rallied in the second half and advanced to within three points of the Cowboys, Carol Benson's four field goals in the period kept the Cowboys ahead. He led scoring with 16 points. The teams will meet again tonight.

GOLF MEETING SET

DALLAS, Jan. 23. (AP)—The Central Texas Women's Golf association will hold its next meeting at Glen Lakes Country club here Feb. 19.

Mrs. R. E. Winger of Fort Worth scored an 84 over the rugged Brook Hollow Country club course here to win low gross for the field in the association's tournament yesterday.

Low net was taken by Mrs. H. R. Stroube of Corsicana with an 82.

A field of more than forty players, representing Dallas, Fort Worth, Corsicana and Waco, participated.

SHOTWELLS GOOD SHOTS

LUFKIN, Tex. (AP)—The Shotwells are good shots. Mrs. Winnie Shotwell, her son Jean, and her grandson Ned each shot a deer within an hour.

FENTON FALLS TO STRONG MAT MAN

STRATTON'S UNBROKEN RUN OF VICTORIES HERE MAINTAINED

Lightning Rod Fenton had his sails set last night and tried consistently, although viciously and illegitimately, to crack Walter Stratton's long and unbroken run of mat victories, but his best efforts against the strong man from Iowa resulted in one score for him, two against.

About two thousand customers jammed the Auditorium last night, approximately half of them having purchased tickets through local civic clubs who turned the money over to the Crippled Children's council fund. Several would-be fans were turned away after all seats were taken.

All Finish Matches

They saw a better than average wrestling program, the three matches of which ended in decisive victories. There were no draws, and the fighting was active, if not altogether legal.

More interesting and better appreciated than the main event was the Dory Detton-Danny McShain semi-final, or special event.

Mr. Detton, the fair-haired favorite from Utah, proceeded, in no uncertain manner, to give Mr. McShain, the 100 per cent villain from Oregon, what is commonly known as The Works.

As a result Mr. McShain faces a drastic dental bill, the price of several pieces of adhesive tape and a good rub-down.

Danny Gets His

The wild Irishman started after Detton like he starts after most opponents, but Detton has changed since McShain met him last. After taking about fifteen minutes of uncouth punishment, inflicted partly by a heavy ring with a large and rough setting on one of the McShain fingers, Detton tied Danny up in a knot, relieved him of the ring and proceeded to Get Rough in a Large Way. It lasted 21 minutes.

He slambanged Danny till kingdom come, or until McShain wished it would come, with uppercuts, vicious pokes to the chin and jaw, then floored him, sat upon his chest, a knee across each shoulder and poured fists into the McShain countenance with alarming force and speed while Referee Pat Dowdy slowly toiled the count and tried to pull the punishing Detton from his vanquished foe.

McShain was as definitely and as positively licked as he ever was.

Bozinis Plays Rough

Nick Bozinis, mild - mannered Greek anywhere but in the wrestling ring, who sometimes fights clean and more frequently the other way, was greeted by a chorus of boos when he marched to his corner. His face fell, and so did Al Szazs a few minutes later. That greeting must have decided Bozinis' course of action, for he lit into the quiet-tempered Szazs and never let up until he had applied the "back-breaker" and left the St. Louis Hungarian limp and twisted.

A new referee worked this one, Ace Abbott from Amarillo, and he had a busy 9 minutes. So furiously did Bozinis work that Szazs never got started. He never fixed a hold, never got in a poke.

Dutch Mantell didn't show up to referee the main event last night because he was lashed firmly to a sickbed in Amarillo, and held down by a couple of wrestlers and a doctor who are trying to cure him of the flu.

Farley Gets Job Done

But a prominent individual from Amarillo took Mantell's place, and Cal Farley, former runner-up for the world's welterweight wrestling champion and well known in sports circles, was loudly acclaimed and applauded. He did not interfere too much with Fenton's and Stratton's work, letting them go probably because he, like the majority of fans, could work up little sympathy for a man of Stratton's power and ability who would "take" the fouls inflicted by Fenton.

The first fall ended after 19 minutes of rugged work, Fenton doing the rushing, carrying the fight and dealing out considerable discomfort. The other boys in the dressing rooms said that Fenton had been "laying" for Stratton, and hoped to be the first to put him away in this circuit.

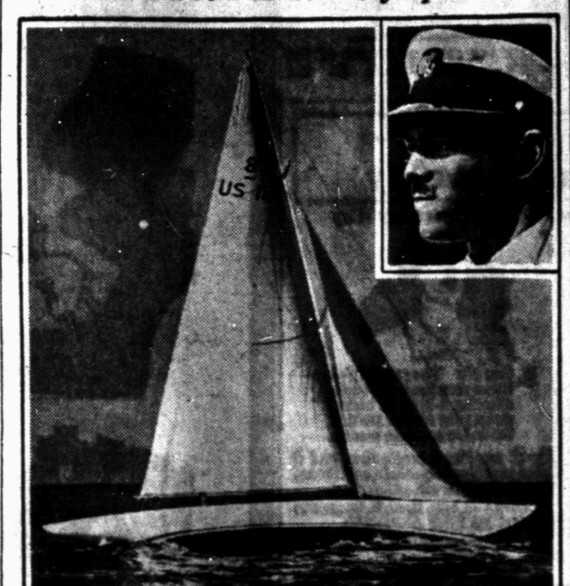

Three solid drop-kicks, as fast as Stratton could get up and before he could get set for the next one, dropped him, and Fenton swarmed over him for the fall.

Easy Windup

Fenton rushed madly in the second fall, hoping to wind it up in a hurry. He bothered Stratton with a leg strangle, fixed it three times, and tried to excavate Walter's eyes with a continual gouging. After 7 minutes, however, Stratton placidly fixed the nelson, did the merry-go-round and that was that. Before that, Stratton had instigated a campaign of battery and assault all his own, and the uppercuts he handed out sent Fenton crashing to the mat, sometimes on one ear, sometimes on the other.

Five minutes was all Walter needed in the third fall, and he might have done it in less. He had whipped Fenton in the second, and his work was cut out for him in the third. He took it easy, letting go of a leg hold with which he might have won, then almost laughingly caught Fenton's legs in the drop-kick, crushed him down.

Sails Set For The Olympics

Olympic Games sailing tryouts are to be held during the tenth annual midwinter regatta off the port of Los Angeles, Feb. 12-16. With Owen P. Churchill, inset, and his famous Angelita, 1932 Olympic champion shown under a stiff breeze, seeking the right to again represent America in the 8-meter class, the tryouts also include the 6-meter and monotype classes.

SPORTOMETER by COLLIER PARRIS

TOO BAD old Dutch Mantell couldn't be here last night. He would have gotten a big kick out of refereeing for nothing, and it must have irked him considerably when doctors and Cal Farley ordered him to bed.

But Cal Farley, the Amarillo tire-changer, was a first class sustitute. Farley, one of the most successful business men in the Panhandle, until a few years ago widely recognized as Public Enemy No. 1 to the welterweight wrestling gentry of the world, runner up twice for the world's champion, was mighty white to take Mantell's place. He donated his services, got nothing for the trip. A generous gesture.

Farley was greeted loudly and sincerely by the fans, and he refereed a nice game. Of course there were the squawkers in the nickel bleachers who wouldn't be satisfied if the supreme court and a squad of G-men were refereeing, but that's to be expected.

Farley and the wrestlers who came down from Amarillo said old Dutch has been going so hard and last lately, and all the time on the verge of physical breakdown, that he just came to the stopping place. Until noon Wednesday, although Cal had removed him to the Farley mansion and put him to bed, Dutch thought he'd make it. Even after Cal got here yesterday afternoon he said he wouldn't be surprised to see old Dutch come wobbling in, although he had been practically tied to the bed posts.

It was a good show, a fine crowd. The crippled children's fund benefitted some $500, thanks to the perserverance of members of the American Business and Lions clubs. They sold at lot of tickets, did a good job.

MR. WALTER OKESON and his crew of football rule makers will be meeting soon to go over the book of regulations and a couple of reams of resolutions and suggestions for new rules. They'll ponder for a couple of days and announce the changes which will go into effect next September.

They are not likely to make many changes. They are expected to modify the "slow whistle" rule, or to let the rule revert to its 1934 status. It was tried out last year. Some coaches liked it, others did not. At the New York meeting of coaches, they voted against it, so it may come out of the book.

There have been numerous suggestions by football minded persons which will be considered by the rules committee. One of the most important of these, which is doomed to die with little consideration, is that made by the eastern football officials association anent the scoring system. The officials suggest that a point be awarded for each first down, that the try for point after touchdown be eliminated.

"Games should not be won or lost as a result of success or failure to kick goals after touchdowns," the officials association argued in their brief.

But did you read Saturday morning's story giving the result of a poll of outstanding coaches conducted suddenly by the Associated Press? The vote was about 9 to 1 against "such outlandish suggestions as awarding a point for each first down. Why, my goodness, etc., etc." The coaches, it would appear from a minority poll, are strongly against the recommendation made by the eastern officials association.

It was significant, however, that the majority of coaches opposing the suggestion were big shots who got that way because their teams happened to have a big year. A couple of losing years, during which their clubs made a lot of first downs but few touchdowns, might serve to change their opinions. In several instances last season, some of the teams which went so far were not considered as fundamentally sound as some which didn't.

As pointed out in this column a few weeks ago, Texas Tech, for instance, would have won all but one of its games in 1935 had a point been allowed for each first down. Loyola at Los Angeles would have beaten Tech anyway, but there wouldn't have been any tie games and Tech wouldn't have lost to Arizona and Detroit.

Still, the proposal by the eastern officials is not so drastic when you think about it. The big pay-off would continue to be on touchdowns. The fair thing about the first down suggestion is that it would minimize the costly "breaks" of football. Two many good teams are beaten on the breaks.

THE SUGGESTION is chided somewhat wittily by Prexy Ander-

WOLVES AND ANVIL CHORUS HEARD AT CORNELL AND SYRACUSE; DEFEATS BY COLGATE BURNING UP ORANGE BACKERS

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—Gil Dobie's future, if any, as Cornell's head football coach isn't the only athletic subject agitating the collegiate "hot stove league" in the snowclad section of upper New York State.

Lately there has been some outcry for Vic Hanson's scalp at Syracuse, where the failure of teams coached by the former All-America end to beat their arch-rival, Colgate, is an irritating factor among followers of the Orange.

May Not Get Far

Hanson's support is considered so strong his personal popularity among the athletes so great, that criticism of his regime may not go very far for the time being. The youthful Orange coach, bested annually by Colgate's Andy Kerr in the annual up-state "big game," nevertheless knows that the anvil chorus sounds like.

The situation in which he finds himself is typical of American football, where the ability of the non-combatants to "take it" is sharply limited.

There Six Years

Hanson has been head coach at Syracuse for the past six years after gaining a spectacular reputation as an end. In that same period the Orange has taken an annual licking from its Maroon neighbors.

Twice Syracuse teams have gone into the annual joust unbeaten, only to emerge on the short end. But the answer, say Hanson's friends, is that Colgate has consistently had stronger teams, not that there are

EXHIBIT PLANS MADE HERE

W. T. C. C. PROGRAM IS APPROVED IN CITY ON WEDNESDAY

Decision to accept the general plan of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce for regional exhibits at the Texas Centennial exposition in Dallas was made at a meeting of district 2 leaders yesterday afternoon at Hilton hotel. Clifford B. Jones of Spur presided.

In an after-session meeting, 14 directors of the WTCC named a committee of seven to prepare the district 2 unit of the display, a 36 x 8 feet exhibit portraying agricultural development in West Texas. The appointed committee will select its own officers and will be advised by directors of the district.

Members of the committee are: Culver Hill, local advertising man; A. B. Davis, chamber of commerce; Dean A. H. Leidigh, division of agriculture, Texas Tech; Dean O. V. Adams, division of engineering, Texas Tech; Don L. Jones, superintendent state experiment sub-station; R. E. Dickson, Spur, superintendent state experiment sub-station; H. S. Hilburn, editor Plainview Daily Herald.

Thirty towns were represented, 26 of them in the district. They were: Abernathy, Anton, Brownfield, Dickens, Dimmitt, Farwell, Floydada, Friona, Lorenzo, Littlefield, Levelland, Lubbock, Muleshoe, Matador, Olton, Plains, Post, Plainview, Petersburg, Quitaque, Ralls, Silverton, Slaton, Spur, Texico, N. M., and Wolfforth, Vernon, Stamford, San Antonio and Dallas, the latter towns outside the district.

Need Is Explained

D. A. Bandeen, Stamford, manager of W.T.C.C., outlined the need of the district to be represented at the Centennial. He said the district had been asked to exhibit the agricultural development of West Texas. He pointed out that 50 years ago there were less than 3,000 people in the 54 counties in this section and that the 1930 census showed over 600,000. Lubbock county 50 years ago had 23 residents. The district in 1900 had 13,000 inhabitants; in 1930, 204,000.

Texas Tech is contributing a 14 by 14 foot relief map showing the district, towns, roads, soil types, etc. Slogan is "West Texas—Raw Material Capital of the World."

Nichols Urges Cooperation

Ray H. Nichols, organization president, urged all towns in the territory to "take part in a world's fair," at a low cost. It will be in the agricultural building at the Centennial. He urged those present to "get the spirit of those pioneers of Texas," who founded this great empire.

J. A. Rix, assistant secretary, announced 67 were present from 30 towns in the district.

Chairman Jones talked briefly before the close of the program. J. A. Moore, Dallas, superintendent of the agricultural division, said the exhibit would be ready by the opening date, June 6. Mrs. H. B. Carroll, Dallas, of the publicity department, also was introduced.

Short Talks Made

Short talks were made by Dean A. H. Leidigh and Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Tech.

Directors present during the meeting and attending the director's meeting later were E. F. Harmon, Dimmitt; J. W. Richards, Olton; T. J. Crawford, Friona; Paul Whitfield, Anton; W. J. Chesher, Littlefield; Percy B. Ralls, Ralls; R. L. Brown, Muleshoe; Ray Pinson, Abernathy; C. F. Anderson, Slaton; Zeke Fowler, Dickens; J. D. Hamlin, Farwell; Hamlin Overstreet, Texico, N. shortcomings in the Syracuse system.

Agreement Is Seen

Meanwhile prospect of an upstate "Big Three" agreement, involving a renewal of Cornell-Colgate gridiron relations to complete the triangular entente with Syracuse, also is being discussed. Syracuse and Cornell celebrated a football reconciliation three years ago after a lapse of more than 30 years. Cornell broke off with Colgate in 1924, terminating a colorful and natural rivalry.

Some steps have already been taken but it may be another year or two before Cornell and Colgate get together.

Dobie's position at Cornell remains uncertain but the signs now point to the exit of the veteran Scot from the domain he has ruled since 1920. Cornell, in short, contemplates a thorough re-organization of its football setup as part of the new athletic administrative program.

son, the Abilene sports reporter, who pokes the following fun:

"It amazes me that I never before thought of getting in the spotlight by any ideas for overhauling the legislation. Today I am mailing the following ideas, arrived at after a consultation with Prof. Hal Phwit, faculty athletic representative of Kibosh college, to the rules committee:

"Stage a fifty-yard footrace between the tackles after each touchdown, the team of the winning sprinter to receive credit for a point. This would give the tackles a little more personal notice, and speed up play at the position.

"Make the game faster by eliminating all officials, who kill time by blowing whistles and marching around with the ball. Smaller teams especially will applaud this suggestion, since the officials' fees frequently exceed the gate receipts.

"Allow four points for throwing all non-working press box visitors over the goal posts in the first quarter, three for the same act in the second quarter, two in the third quarter and one in the fourth."

This latter suggestion by Mr. Anderson hits the spot, and all working press boys should applaud it loudly. Nothing is so disconcerting and out of place as a loud-mouthed grandstand quarterback in a press box with nothing to do except tell the scribes how to write their yarns and call the next play for the offensive team—unless it's a whole squad of the grandstand quarterback's friends and relations. We have attended games—not here, thank Heaven—where members of the working press have been crowded out to the top roost of the nickel bleachers.

APPLICATION RECEIVED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23. (AP)—The Federal Communications commission has received application for a construction permit for a new 100-watt, unlimited-time radio broadcasting station from: Dorrance D. Roderick, El Paso, Tex.

STATION USED BY BRINKLEY

FORMER KANSAS GLAND SPECIALIST SAYS HE HAS AIR ACCESS

BY P. D. ELDRED,
Associated Press Staff Writer

DEL RIO, Jan. 23. (AP)—The powerful Mexican radio station Dr. John R. Brinkley operated for medical and political broadcasts at Villa Acuna is no longer owned by the former "goat gland" specialist but he admitted today he still has ready access to its facilities.

Before trouble with the Mexican health department caused him to lose the 150,000 watt border station, it was known as "XER," but its call letters under the new management have been changed to "XERA."

Attention Recalled

Attention was recalled to the station by reports that the U. S. federal communications commission, involved in a controversy over political oratory, is considering quick action on an application to "pipe" an address of Georgia's Governor Talmadge to Mexico for broadcast over the station. Gov. Talmadge is a bitter opponent of the "New Deal."

"I don't own the station," Dr. Brinkley explained. "I have only certain privileges over the station as a purchaser of their time. I understand through the station owners that application is being made through the federal communications commission for permission to lay wires into Mexico for the broadcast.

"The station has time for sale to anybody—Roosevelt, Talmadge, Democrats or Republicans. The owners solicit time through my good offices but I do not manage the station; don't own the station."

The former Milford, Kansas, physician is operating a hospital in Del Rio and he claims business is so heavy it prevents him leaving there to direct his fight before the United States circuit court of appeals at Oklahoma City to regain the right to practice medicine in Kansas.

The Kansas medical board in 1930 revoked his license to practice medicine in that state, where he had operated a hospital at Milford for 13 years. The board found him guilty of "gross immorality and unprofessional conduct."

After he moved his plant to the Mexican border and started his broadcasts over the Villa Acuna station, the Mexican health department fined him 600,000 pesos and shut down the station. Villa Acuna is just across the Rio Grande from Del Rio, where Dr. Brinkley had his studio and hospital.

Mexican authorities said the heavy fine was assessed for allegedly violating restrictions on advertising certain medical practices and failure of Brinkley to submit his speeches for Mexico City approval as he had pledged in obtaining a permit to broadcast.

E. O. Crosby of Villa Acuna, president of the company operating "XERA" at present, said today he knew of no plan to broadcast the Talmadge political address but under Mexican law, he cannot refuse to sell time on the air to anyone.

"Dead Week" Is On Again At College

Red finger nails and several days growth of beard again appear at Texas Technological college as students express their defiance of "dead week." Examinations will begin Saturday and extend through Friday, Jan. 31.

Students resolved last year to make such defiance a mid-year tradition, to be carried out because of restrictions during the week preceding examinations and during examination week.

The tradition demands that men wear old clothes and refrain from shaving and that women wear red finger nail polish and hair ribbons.

The week preceding examinations is termed "dead week", because extra-curricular activities are barred.

HEARING CALLED

AUSTIN, Jan. 23. (AP)—The railroad commission has called a special hearing on the Pickett ridge oil field in Wharton county for Jan. 31. Special waste prevention rules and regulations were scheduled for consideration.

BRIEF SPORTS

Effective Plan

NEWARK, N. J.—Mrs. Cathryn Cook, 31, a nurse, complained to court officials that her husband, Charles, made a practice of taking her false teeth in order to keep her home nights.

She was granted a decree for separate maintenance and $10 a week alimony.

Adding Insult

COLUMBIA, S. C.—As if going to jail wasn't bad enough, passengers in Columbia's police patrol wagons are going to be charged a taxi rate for the ride.

Mayor L. B. Owens instructed Police Chief W. H. Rawlinson to "see that a 50-cent charge is imposed on everybody who rides to the city jail in the patrol, provided they are convicted in the recorder's court."

Signs Of Spring

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. — Tornadoes and robins spell an early spring to Meteorologist C. E. Hadley.

Deadly windstorms such as have struck the southland recently don't generaly come until March, and their early arrival, Hadley believes, foretells an early spring.

Less scientific but more pleasant is the presence of hundreds of northbound robins here.

Mean Business

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Alabama's new highway patrol means business.

First the troopers nabbed the chauffeur of Lieut. Gov. Thomas E. Knight for driving with an out-dated license. He bought a new one.

Next, Gov. Bibb Graves was stopped because of a faulty tail light. He was released on a promise to buy a new one at the next town.

Today, Pitt Tyson Maner, private secretary to the governor, was after new tags for his car. A patrolman warned him he was driving with a dealer's license.

Stop, Thief!

AUGUSTA, Ga.—The dignity of Augusta's police department was at stake today as officers hunted an unidentified thief who stole a radio car and a patrolman's motorcycle.

The crime was particularly embarrassing because it was committed only a few feet from the police headquarters. Several hours later the motorcycle was found, but the automobile still was missing.

Prosperity Proof

TRENTON, N. C.—For the first time since 1929, this town is getting ready for a tax levy.

Holding that the depression is over, Mayor F. R. Collins says it's about time for Trenton to resume its normal functions.

When bad times struck in 1929, Trenton authorities quit assessing, and since then the town has got along without paid public officials.

HAS MORE TROUBLE

POST, Jan. 23. (Special)—Misfortunes have not come singly for Mrs. John B. Slaughter, pioneer ranch owner here.

Last week she lost her handsome country home on the U-Lazy S ranch, 15 miles south of here, by fire. Treasures and momentoes, gathered in her half century of residence in West Texas, went up in flames. Loss was estimated at $50,000.

Wednesday morning, her Packard automobile, in the garage of her son Jay B. Slaughter, in town, was destroyed by fire. The garage also was destroyed.

New King Edward Is Owner Of 6 Planes

LONDON, Jan. 23. (AP)—King Edward VIII, who flew from Sandringham to London Tuesday, owns six airplanes.

He took his first flying lesson in 1929 and flew solo for the first time following year. While Prince of Wales he frequently used airplanes to keep engagements and a number of times flew across the channel to Le Bourget field, France.

"Almost Miracle The Way Gly-Cas Restored Health"

Declares Mrs. Davidson: Kidneys Regulated, Rheumatism Driven From Her Body After All Else Tried Had Failed In Her Case

"Just a single box of Gly-Cas was miraculous in the manner in which it went to the very source of my health troubles," said Mrs. R. C. Davidson, 67 Washington Drive, San Angelo, Tex. My kidneys were so disordered, back was weak and I could hardly do anything. Too frequent action caused me to rise many times at night, my sleep and rest was broken continually and it seemed my entire system was wearing out generally. The poisons in my system had the best of me before I realized it. Rheumatism settled in my limbs, my flesh swelled and burned and I suffered intense pain continually until at last I was persuaded to try Gly-Cas—it proved to be the one REAL medicine of them all."

MRS. R. C. DAVIDSON

"Gly-Cas actually gave me the health I feel nature intended," she continued, "My kidneys were regulated, the poisons were fast eliminated from my system and that deadful swelling and pain of rheumatism has vanished. Never have I seen a medicine to do its work so well. My back is now strong, I sleep fine the entire night through, and those years of miserable suffering are now at an end. I cannot praise Gly-Cas epough for it is a real blessing to all sufferers."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Malsey Drug Store, 1219 Broadway, and by all leading drug stores in surrounding towns.

Gly-Cas $1.00 per box—6 boxes $5.00. Add 2c postage for each box ordered. Send money orders made payable Mark Halsey Drug Store. Don't send cash. Checks not accepted—No C. O. D. Mail Orders.—Adv.

The PLAINSMAN Says:

That Girl on Broadway says if the country is in the condition they say it is, she can't understand why the Republicans want to accept the responsibility of running it.

Some people think suicide is morally indefensible while others think it's all right for a fellow to drive like a drunk Indian as long as he doesn't hurt anybody but himself.

RAY H. Nichols, editor of the Vernon Record and president of West Texas Chamber of Commerce, dropped a good thought while he was here yesterday. He illustrated his point in this way:

A group of boys were enjoying themselves riding their bicycles up and down a wide paved driveway abutted on each side by a concrete wall. A half-wit lad was watching their fun.

One of the cyclists missed the driveway and ran his wheel into the concrete wall. Of course, the wheel stopped.

Gravely, the half-wit remarked, "Thet's as fur as you can go that way".

Applying the story to his point, Mr. Nichols advised that the nation has "gone as fur as it can" on government subsidy and that it's high time we put our resources to work to bring back national prosperity and to sustain it.

The Plainsman agrees with that theory on one condition, namely, that the nation's farmers be given the same protection, by some sort of a revised, legal AAA, the tariff gives the eastern manufacturers.

We think it time for the government to pull slowly out of the business of building golf courses and passing out the dole except in dire cases; it should continue road building and other lasting types of construction as long as necessary, but should give business the opportunity to absorb the unemployed as rapidly as possible.

The sooner we adopt such a national policy, the sooner we'll reach what we call normalcy.

THE Plainsman doesn't mean that all forms of government depression aid should be bitten off short—stopped like turning off an electric light.

But he does mean that it's time we began to get ready to commence to start stopping a lot of the emergency practices which have run us into a heavy national debt and begin beating back the angry waves of an unbalanced budget.

We've got to start sometime, and with business showing a decided gain The Plainsman sees no reason why the government should not begin gradually turning the spigot off.

The song "Red Sails in the Sunset" makes a nice companion for "White Sales In January".

That Man on Avenue Q says the Republican bosses will never be quite satisfied until the Supreme court rules the President's Thanksgiving proclamation unconstitutional.

THANKS to Judge George Washington Dupree for sending a sticker for The Plainsman to paste on his car windshield, reading:

"Make Your Plans Now To Attend The Texas Centennial Exposition In Dallas", with nary a mention of the other parts of the state where real Texas history was made.

The judge sent word that he knew where we could get these stickers in lots of 1,000, so's to pass them along to friends.

Much obliged—but The Plainsman will take vanilla!

Has anyone in Lubbock or on the South Plains ever met Britain's new king, Edward VIII?

That isn't as far fetched as it sounds, since the king, when Prince of Wales, visited twice in United States, many times in Canada, and met hundreds of Americans.

He also met many American soldiers in France, when he nearly drove British intelligence officers screwy by running off and getting himself in danger zones on the Western Front.

If anyone reading this does know the king, however, slightly, The Plainsman would like to talk with him. There is a great interest here, as elsewhere in the world, over what kind of an egg Edward really is.

A WIRE from Spencer Ashton Wells, from New York where he is buying ribbons and things for his store here, reads:

"First news of King George's death came in tabloids at dinner around 8:30 p. m. I went back to the hotel around 11:30 wanting details and after waiting still no legitimate paper edition available but later editions of tabloids had more details. This for your information. Why all this, I don't know, but you figure it out. Regards. Wells".

Never having had New York newspaper experience, The Plainsman doesn't know the why of this situation but has an idea.

Eleven-thirty p. m. in New York is 5:30 a. m. in London and possibly the Atlantic cables were tied up sending messages of condolence to the royal family from the President, Secretary Hull and scores of other bigwigs. Usually, cables are available for news transmission at any time but the U. S. government can commandeer the cables any time it wants to — and occasionally, in moments of importance like King George's death, does commandeer them.

This is just a guess — and it may be a bum one — but it's the only way The Plainsman can figure it.

WELL, well and well. Here's a letter from Jack Dempsey — and signed by Jack, too, because the signature is the same as the one on an autographed picture presented your humble servant several years ago by the old Manassa Mauler.

And it says:

"May I send you greeting from New York?

"I want you to know that during the past week I had the pleasure of meeting in person one of your fellow townsman, Al I. Glassman, in my restaurant.

"Sincerely yours, Jack Dempsey".

(Note to Morris Levine: Looks like old Al is "doing the town" while in Gotham. Reckon he'll forget he went up there to buy a little stock?)

Thanks!

Ah, For The Stripling Heroes Of Yesteryear! Still That Throb Of Rapture When Your Favorite Tosses His Locks

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 23.—Time was when a girl could write a fan letter to her movie hero and know that the answer wouldn't be dictated by his daughter. But that was away back in the days of post-war flapperism, F. Scott Fitzgerald, young love, and young idols. And young ideas.

It may be that my concern in this matter is ill-founded, and that young ladies of sub-deb years really like touches of gray on the temples of their stars. Perhaps they don't care any longer whether the screen heroes are married, or how many times they have been married, or how many children they're sending to college.

The fact is, anyway, that the average age of the screen's most popular romantic leading men is 36.

Rudolph Valentino was 26 when, in "Four Horsemen" and "The Sheik," he thrilled the hearts that beat under middy blouses in 1921. Richard Barthelmess was 25 when he played in "Broken Blossoms" in 1922, and Monte Blue was 25 in "The Birth of a Nation." Henry B. Walthall's flowing forelock was black and crisp then, too.

Remember Back When . . .

Douglass Fairbanks was only 30 in "In Again, Out Again." Remember Charles Ray in "19 and Phyllis"? And Conway Tearle? Jack Holt was a heavy in westerns at 24, puffing out his cheeks to look sinister. Look at 'em now!

Disregarding the taste of today's adolescent fans, who do not seem to mind a few toupees and false teeth, what's going to happen when additional years bring on celluloid senility?" There's a large, alarming gap between the ages of Freddie Bartholomew and his palsey-walsey, Victor McLaglen. There was even quite an interval between the births of Dick Powell and Spanky McFarland.

Tottering Oldsters

To get right down to vital statistics, Fred Astaire is 35; also John Boles. Spencer Tracy is 37; Richard Arlen, 36; Fredric March, 38. Richard Dix will never see 40 again; Leslie Howard (now busy playing Romeo) and Warner Baxter are 42; William Powell and Edmund Lowe, 43; anud Ronald Colman, 44.

Clark Gable and Gary Cooper are only 34; Charles Farrell and Dick Powell, 33. Bing Crosby and James Cagney are 31; James Dunn and Henry Fonda, 30.

To be sure, there are a few personable young romantics who'll be seen more this year, and perhaps for a good many more years to come. The only really sensational discovery, though, is Errol Flynn.

Like Father . . .

Some sons of famous writers are doing very well in Hollywood. Romer Gray, son of Zane, is tapping on a Paramount typewriter, and Finley Peter Dunne, jr., hangs his hat over at Universal.

Gilbert Wright, son of Harold Bell, is making up a story to fit the song title, "Boots and Saddles." Ring Lardner, jr., is fitting words together for David Selznick. Will Rogers, jr., has bought and is editing a weekly newspaper in Beverly Hills.

John and Maurice Geraghty, sons of Tom Geraghty, once the highest-paid scenarist, are pounding out original stories.

Rake! Fawney!

"In motion pictures," asks Herbert Mundin sorrowfully, "did you ever hear of an English butler named Jones or Brown? Or one called William or Frank? You have not.

"Now I have had a long and reasonably honorable career as 'is Lordship's man in pictures, and I never have drawn anything but leftover names. I am, by turn, Hitch, Pym, and Miggles. Then I am Waghorn, Phipps, and Taggleberry. Sometimes I'm Bibby, or Bridges. Right now my name is Rake. That's right—Rake. I'm supposed to be Ronald Colman's valet."

Lady Known As Annie

They've changed the name of the Mae West picture from "Klondike Lou" to "Klondike Annie." Or Miss West changed it. She just didn't like the name Lou, and used Annie instead—a great surprise to executives when it was discovered there was nary a Lou in the picture.

"San Francisco Doll" was considered, but discarded because of previous experiences. For other pictures, tentative titles of "New Orleans Belle" and "St. Louis Woman" brought howls of civic protest.

COMMENDATION FOR DOCTOR HARTMAN

Discovery of a new and painless treatment for teeth, by Dr. Leroy L. Hartman of Columbia university, New York, promises to be a great boon to the human race.

True professional man, Doctor Hartman has proven his formula and presented it, without reward, to the profession of dentistry although he could have made himself fabulously rich by keeping it a secret and finally selling it.

Everyone knows that here-to-fore "painless dentistry" has been more of a term than a truth. Doctor Hartman's method, proven beyond doubt, will permit a dentist to do his work absolutely without pain to the patient and "painless dentistry" has become a fact rather than a fancy.

Aside from making dental work easy on the patient, Doctor Hartman's formula should become further important. With the fear of pain removed, thousands of Americans, who never go to a dentist until they are forced to, will adopt the practice of going frequently, keeping their teeth in as good condition as possible. That will be a boon to dentists, who may expect their business to increase as a result of the formula. Because they will pay more attention to their teeth and try to keep them in as good condition as possible by frequent visits to the dentist, those thousands of people likely will sidestep many diseases and forms of illness directly traceable to bad teeth. And that will help the race, also.

Too much praise cannot be given the Columbia man for his findings and for the long, tedious hours of work which must have attended proof of his discovery.

His work, we think, will go down as one of the most important scientific discoveries of the age.

Dutcher's News And Views OF WASHINGTON

Dutcher

(Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.)

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—The report of the "regional adustment" survey of last year, in which agricultural experiment stations of 48 states collaborated with scientists and officials of AAA and other Department of Agriculture bureaus, is the "bible" of officials now seeking to work out details of the domestic allotment-soil conservation program with which they hope to replace the Agricultural Adjustment Act, knocked out by the U. S. Supreme court.

Purpose of that survey was to recommend systems and schedules of farming and ranching for various areas which would check soil depletion or erosion and at the same time stimulate farm practices which would lower production costs.

Estimates were made to the effect of such program on production and the probable change in terms of acreage.

On the basis of results, AAA seeks to judge the most desirable goals for total acreage and total volume of production of specific commodities, and, according to H. R. Tolley—prominent now in administration farm councils—must work out the best possible compromise as between:

1. The need of farmers for adequate prices and income.
2. National consumption needs.
3. Condition of soils and various farm management problems in each region.

700 Areas Catalogued

About 700 type-of-farming areas were catalogued. General recommendations for the big key areas are, in part, the following—and bear in mind that it's proposed to pay farmers for their share in making the changes:

CORN BELT—Reduction in corn and oats; increase in soybeans, hay, and pasture; decrease in number of hogs; substantial increase in dairy cows and milk production; moderate increases in beef cattle and sheep. Resulting increase in hay and milk production would be especially marked in lake states region.

SOUTH: Decrease of cotton acreage below normal level; increase in total crop land, pasture, and all southern feed crops except corn. Considerable increase for all kinds of livestock production—chiefly to improve living standards.

GREAT PLAINS AND PACIFIC NORTHWEST WHEAT REGIONS: Decrease in pre-AAA wheat acreage; removal of low-yield wheat land from production. Increase of feed production in hard winter wheat, spring wheat, and Pacific Northwest areas.

RANGE REGION: Chiefly, a slight decrease in number of cattle from the low level prevailing in either 1930 or 1935, with increase of hay production to provide more winter feed. In a ten-year period it is believed that stabilization of cattle and sheep populations in this area at or near present low levels would result in improvement of ranges, with a consequent increase in yield of meat and wool relative to number of head. For irrigated areas, continued cultivation of about the same number of acres is recommended.

NORTHEAST: Probably desirable to stabilize agricultural production at about present level. More milk could be produced, but an increase isn't recommended in view of the market situation.

Acreage Changes Proposed

Estimates as to acceptable goals of production have yet to be worked out, taking into account other factors, such as price and demand. But the following approximate changes in national total production have been proposed, chiefly on the criteria of methods of production and soil conservation.

Crop land: 355,000,000 acres, as against a normal 360,000,000.

Corn: 2,250,000,000 bushels, against a normal of 2,510,000,000.

Oats: 1,100,000,000 bushels (long-time recommendations, 1,200,000,000), as against 1,130,000,000.

Wheat: 722,000,000 bushels (long-time, 788,000,000), as against 878,000,000.

Cattle: 136,000,000 hundred-weight and 143,000,000 (long-time), as against 132,000,000.

Hogs: 134,000,000 hundred-weight and 141,000,000 (long-time), as against 151,000,000.

Cotton: 14,000,000 bales and 14,600,000, as against 15,600,000.

Milk: 13,000,000,000 and 14,000,000,000 gallons, as against 11,600,000,000.

Hay: 110,000,000 and 115,000,000 tons, as against 83,000,000.

Cotton Boost Over 1935

A recommendation of 38 million acres of cotton would mean about 11 per cent less than the 1929 acreage, but 34 per cent more than the 1935 acreage under AAA. Wheat acreage would be about 23 per cent under 1929 and about the same as 1935.

While these figures may serve as a rough working base or even as a possible goal, they are by no means to be regarded as a forecast of what AAA is likely to propose at the outset of a new program.

HIGH COURAGE

by Jeanne Bowman.

SYNOPSIS: Now that Anne Farnsworth has found refuge in the home of her old Finnish nurse, Tecla Sorki, near Astoria, she feels safe from her "relatives." These last are apparently the heirs of Luke and Lucinda Farnsworth: Anne has learned that she is not their daughter after all, and that she was not even adopted. Instinct tells her that Tecla knows at least part of the secret; now Tecla has asked if she may tell John Neuman Anne's story.

Chapter 18

NEW PLAN

Anne looked at the man standing before her and surmised something in his eyes she had never seen in Rob's during the weeks of her bereavement, a tender compassion without pity.

"I'd like to tell him," she agreed, wondering at the sudden trust she was placing in this stranger.

"Always we tell John," Tecla declared.

Anne remembered Tom Farley's ridicule of the fishermen's trust in John Neuman. She realized now that it was not because he was a college man, and spoke both the language of the fisherman and of the cannery owner, but because there was a sympathetic wisdom about him which invited confidence and trust.

"I need advice, Mr. Neuman," Anne continued.

"You need food, first," interposed Tecla, and ladled the fish stew into heavy crockery bowls, cut thick slices of home made bread, disappeared into a dark closet to return with a jar of huckle-berry jam.

Anne surveyed her bowl with apprehension, as she sat down at the table in response to Tecla's order. She dipped a spoon into the savory mess, toyed with cubes of red salmon, onions and potatoes which floated about in the creamy liquid then tasted it.

"Why . . . it's good," she exclaimed with such surprise that both John and Tecla laughed aloud.

"You think Tecla, give you something not good?"

Heartened by the food, Anne turned to the fresh ordeal of retelling her story. But somehow, with the attentive John as listener, her troubles seemed of less and less importance.

"And so," she concluded, "now that I know that I'm neither the daughter nor the heir of Luke Farnsworth I want to hide away until I can decide what I'll do with my future."

"And this man, his Rob Crocker, what will he think of your running away?"

"Mr. Crocker understands," Anne said tonelessly, "he . . . that is, we are not going to be married."

"But—" Neuman was interrupted by Tecla, who spat out a word.

Weeks later, Anne was to find that phrase in the little English-Finnish dictionary she was studying, but by then some of the heartache had been numbed by time and she knew Tecla had been right when she classified Robert Crocker as a "gold-digger."

"But of course Farley and the Farnsworths are going to want to know where you are," observed Neuman, after a pause. "They'll probably start a search for you if you don't tell them something."

"I hope not," Anne said, "and I don't believe they will. They're going to be so glad to be rid of me without my demanding any more of their worldly goods that they'll leave me alone."

"I don't agree with you," he countered frankly. "I believe they are going to want to know where you are so they can watch you. You don't know the entire contents of the will. Of course they believe they can cut you off from a daughter's share, providing you haven't been adopted as a daughter."

"What do you mean?" queried Tecla with interest.

"When people adopt a child, they go before a judge, and papers are drawn up."

"You see, Tecla," Anne explained further, "Tom Farley says there are no papers and none can be found, so it can't be proved that I'm legally adopted. Of course that won't matter for five years, and within that time I may be able to learn something more about my parents."

"So," murmured Tecla.

"Not that I care for the money," Anne hastened to say, "and if I

"Because, you are not yourself!"

IT is all so simple, too! That tired, run-down, exhausted feeling quite often is due to lack of a sufficiency of those precious red-blood-cells. Do Women Really Consider Electrical Conveniences?

We say Yes! Because other women know what's convenient ... notice things that mere man passes by. They notice colors that have faded ... silks that have lost their original lustre ... small conveniences that are improvements over the things that were new even a few months ago. They notice lighting in the homes and shopping places. And because they know that other women notice these things more of them are turning to better lighting. It's more now than a single cord and globe. Design, beauty, convenience, and adequate illumination are in the picture.

CREDIT CHIEFS RE-ELECTED

FARM CREDIT LEADERS HOLD SESSION ON WEDNESDAY

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Jan. 23.—S. A. Lindsey of Tyler was re-elected chairman of the board, and A. C. Williams was re-elected general agent of the Farm Credit administration of Houston and president of the Federal Land bank of Houston, at the annual meeting of the board Wednesday.

Dwight P. Reordan, president of the Federal Intermediate Credit bank of Houston; Tully C. Garner, president of the Production Credit corporation of Houston, and Sterling C. Evans, president of the Houston Bank for Cooperatives, also were re-elected, as were all other officers of the several units.

Annual Reports Given

The annual reports of the permanent units of the Farm Credit administration were discussed and plans for the current year's work formulated. In commenting on the services rendered by the Farm Credit administration, Williams said:

". . . During the past year the Farm Credit administration of Houston continued to be the main source of agricultural credit in Texas. There was a steady increase in the operations of the Production Credit corporation and Production Credit associations, the Bank For Cooperatives and the Federal Intermediate Credit bank during the year.

"In contrast with the emergency demands of 1933-34, most of the applications to the land bank in 1935 represented normal financing. With the improvement in the outlook for agriculture, there was a noticeable increase in the sale of farms acquired by the land bank and in the demand for loans to finance the purchase of other farms."

The board was re-elected. Its members: S. A. Lindsey of Tyler, chairman; R. S. Rodgers, of Lubbock; S. P. Britt, of Shamrock; B. L. Sanders of Corsicana; E. J. Kyle of College Station; J. R. Owens of Dallas; and Jake Schwartz, of Uvalde.

KING RETURNED

tention on the purple-carpeted platform as grenadier guardsmen carried the oaken coffin from the black and purple funeral coach.

The guardsmen placed it on a royal horse artillery caisson for the procession through the streets of central London to Westminster hall.

There, the great folk of the land were assembling for the lying-in-state ceremonies.

Edward Accompanies Body

The new king, Edward VIII, who accompanied the body of his father, already had communicated to the house of commons the declaration: "I am resolved to follow in the way he has set before me."

The gun-carriage which rumbled into position outside the railroad station on the freshly-sanded driveway was the same one which had conveyed the body of George's father, King Edward VII, to its burial place.

Crown Atop Coffin

Atop the great coffin rested the imperial crown, glittering in the splendor of its 2,000 diamonds and other precious stones. It was imposed on a purple cushion.

It was one of the rare times when the public has had the opportunity of viewing this symbol of its monarchy in the streets.

The new King Edward assisted his mother, the widowed Queen Mary, to alight from the train.

Start Long Walk

Then he fell in beside his three brothers, the Dukes of York, Gloucester and Kent, and the Earl of Harewood, husband of the princess royal, for the second walk of the day behind the coffin.

The royal brothers previously had walked the two-and-a-half miles from the church at Sandringham to Wolferton station.

Together they set off afoot for Westminster hall, three miles away.

Not only the streets but the rooftops and windows were packed with the mournfully silent watchers as the cortege turned to the right down Euston road.

The cars occupied by the widowed queen and the three royal duchesses, followed the procession only a short way, then turned into a side street and drove to Buckingham palace.

COTTON TAG CASE

the Pass Cotton company, both at Littlefield, bought the "cotton," the first, 20 bales; the other, 40 bales.

Drafts Honored

The two drafts given, approximating $2,500, were honored in cash at the First National Bank of Littlefield.

It was not until the 60 bales were ready to be shipped by his company said Darwin Prince, manager of the Texas Compress and Warehouse Co., that the cotton was found "nonexistent."

Numbers on the cotton tickets had been changed to this year's numerals, the Bankhead certificates for tagging had been "crudely" forged, and the cotton samples had been faked, Prince explained.

Federal authorities were brought into the case when the forged Bankhead certificates came to light.

Comparison of identifications among the persons before whom the "seller" had appeared indicated at least two are involved in the case.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Jan. 23 (AP)—Wheat advanced early today, responsive to firmness of the Liverpool and Rotterdam markets. Severe cold over domestic winter wheat territory continued to be a stimulating factor.

Opening 1-8 to 3-4 higher May 1.00 7-8 to 1.01, wheat then held near to these limits. Corn started unchanged to 1-4 higher, May 60 1-2 to 60 5-8, and for time being altered little.

BONUS MEASURE

call for cash on or immediately after June 15. Some others say the quick demand for cash will total $2,000,000,000, despite the fact that veterans will draw 3 per cent interest if they hold the bonds.

The president, who made no provision for such expenditures in his budget, has intimated that he feels new taxes will be necessary if extra-budgetary expenses are incurred.

Prefer No New Taxes

Many legislators, however, would much prefer not to levy new taxes on their constituents in a campaign year.

With Mr. Roosevelt's own legislative leaders lined up behind the measure, there was much speculation as to what effect the whole problem will have on the November elections. Politicians tried to figure how the voters will feel if, as many predict, the president vetoes the bill, and his supporters then override him.

The president has ten days in which to decide. If he does not sign or veto within that time, the bill becomes law. In the meantime, he has sent it on a routine journey through the veterans administration for a checkup. Thus, it is likely to be several days before he takes action.

for selfish purposes is attempting to choke to death the very spirit that has saved the nation in its greatest crisis."

"We should not be frightened," he said, "at that word which is being flapped at us today like the white folds of a shroud—'experiment.'

"America itself was an experiment. First an experiment in facing the unknown terrors of an ocean; then the experiment of conquering the savage and the wilderness; then an experiment in government of the people by the people, an experiment which the monarchistic governments of the old world called a foolish and fantastic dream. Foolish and fantastic it may well have seemed. But what a glorious realization we have seen."

First Signature Of New King To Army

LONDON, Jan. 23 (AP)—The new king's first signature as "Edward RI" (rex imperator) was attached last night to a message to the army in which he said:

"I shall be strengthened in the discharge of the great responsibilities which lie before me by the confidence with which I know I can rely on the unswerving allegiance of all ranks of military forces of the crown throughout the empire."

Eleanor Powell Is To Take Rest Cure

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—The twinkling toes of Eleanor Powell, reputedly the fastest tap dancer on the stage, today were stilled by "complete nervous exhaustion."

Miss Powell, who missed her first performance in 10 years at yesterday's matinee of the musical show "At Home Abroad," is confined in a private sanitarium in Crestwood, N. Y.

For at least two months she must forego work of any sort, Dr. Ernest A. Lopez having prescribed total relaxation as the only cure.

Lid Clamped Down On Miami Gambling

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 23 (AP)—Its illegal gambling lid clamped tight today, this winter resort city virtually told its thousands of winter visitors their excursions into the realm of chance must follow legalized betting lines.

"Gambling will not be run in Miami," said Safety Director A. J. Kavanaugh after plain-clothes detectives, backed by uniformed officers, descended suddenly on two establishments yesterday.

Cotton Market

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 23 (AP)—Inflationary talk following passage of the bonus influenced active buying today at the opening of the cotton market here and futures advanced from 3 to 8 points.

Speculative interests re-entered the market and contracts were picked up in all months except January. Liverpool came in about as due and a quiet but steady market was reported there.

March at New Orleans, opened at 11.40, May at 11.18, July at 10.83 and Oct. at 10.43 and a few points were added during the early dealings.

The census bureau reported ginnings to Jan. 16 as 10,949,688 bales, or approximately 480,000 bales under the total yield estimated for last season on Dec. 1.

Prices leveled off during the morning, holding early gains, but not extending them any. More cotton pool operations were reported at New York, but neither buying or selling by this agency was discerned at New Orleans.

March sold at 11.40, May at 11.18, July at 10.85 and Oct. at 10.44.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 23. (AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, unchanged to 11 higher on trade and commission house buying and the scarcity of offers. Jan 11.60; Mch 11.47; May 11.24; Jly 10.88; Oct 10.48; Dec 10.47.

The market remained fairly active later in the morning. Liverpool continued to buy after the close. Prices worked up another point or two with March advancing to 11.50 and October to 10.49. The market showed net advances of 6 to 10 points at mid-day except for January which was available at 11.50, or yesterday's closing quotation.

Trading was active at the start with a good trade demand for near months while there was buying of later deliveries by brokers with foreign and commission house connections.

Selling of Jan and May was reported through brokers who sometimes operate for the pool. After selling at 11.80 at the opening, Jan eased off to 11.78, or 2 points lower. Other positions, however, held generally steady.

The report of the census bureau showing 10,949,688 bales ginned prior to Jan. 16 against 9,376,715 last year attracted very little comment during the early trading.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 23. (AP)—Recovery forces retained their grip on the stock market today and buying flurries lifted prices fractions to 2 or more points.

Demands for some of the aircrafts, rails, mines and industrial specialties broadened exceptionally during the morning hours. The ticker tape was in arrears for a few minutes at times. Profit taking was in evidence, however, and dull periods accompanied realizing.

While there may have been a little inflationary stimulation back of the advance, commodities did not confirm this. Wheat and cotton were moderately improved. Bonds were steady. Gold currencies, including the French franc, moved against the dollar in early dealings, but they fell back later.

Shares of Douglas got up about 2 points to a new high, along with several other issues. Columbian Carbon gained 4 and Case, Westinghouse, Nickel Plate preferred and Union Pacific were around 2 higher. Many of the oils, steels, motors and utilities were only slightly ahead.

Strict Discipline Breaking Rebellion

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23 (AP)—Solitary confinement and a bread and water diet were counted on today by Alcatraz prison officials to break the rebellious spirit of "striking" prisoners.

Already 25 of the 100 men who howled a demand Monday for expanded privileges had capitulated to the strict prison rules, Warden James A. Johnston said.

Johnston said most of the ringleaders of the "revolt" had been identified and that "they will be dealt with accordingly."

U. S. C. C. CALLS A FARM CONFERENCE

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 23. (AP)—Harper Sibley of Rochester, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, said today he had called a conference of farm leaders to be held Friday and Saturday in Washington, in the hope of evolving a non-political, long range agricultural program to replace the AAA.

Sibley, who addressed the New York State Agricultural society's annual dinner last night, said that Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, and Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange, were among those who would attend.

"This program must not be developed in a hurry," he said. "For three months I have been traveling about the country and everywhere I have found farm leaders urging a thorough study of the situation before any more legislation is enacted. I'm not so sure that the politicians will be as thorough as the farm leaders want."

The national chamber of commerce leader suggested to the state group that a program of state soil conservation, carried on by the states with federal grants, was the best solution.

AFRICAN WAR

took definite form, a new committee was called to consider the proposed oil-coal, steel-iron embargo against the aggressor nation in the East African conflict. Its deliberations concerned principally the potential effectiveness of such measures in retaliation for the fascist invasion of the Ethiopian kingdom.

Reports from the actual war frontiers carried conflicting news of Italian victories vigorously denied by Ethiopian sources.

The mutual aid agreements which brought Italy's prospective denunciation were disclosed yesterday by British foreign minister Anthony Eden. They provide a pooling of military, naval and aerial resources in event of any Italian attack.

Injured Students Said To Be Better

Two students of Texas Technological college, injured in a collision at Broadway and Avenue T Wednesday afternoon, were reported resting well today at West Texas hospital.

Jack Nowlin and Harold Fulghum were riding a motorcycle east on Broadway and Mrs. H. C. Nott of 1913 Dixie drive was driving a heavy sedan north on T. The collision was at 5:05 o'clock, said Lewis Kittrell and Bill Mabray, City motorcycle patrolmen who investigated. There are no stop signs at the intersection.

Suffers Brain Concussion

Nowlin, a third-year student of arts and sciences and whose home is at Cleburne, suffered concussion of the brain and contusion of the left leg. Fulghum, sophomore in the school of arts and sciences, suffered of a badly lacerated face, a wrenched back and possible internal injuries. He had registered from Terrell.

Neither Mrs. Nott nor her young daughter Frances was injured.

CABINET CHANGE

result in Secretary Morgenthau becoming a confidential adviser to the president and playing a role similar to that of Col. Edward M. House in the Wilson administration. His close association with the president would fit him admirably for such a position.

Fisher Groomed For Post

"It might put Charles T. Fisher, jr., or C. B. Merriam, RFC directors, in charge of the RFC. Fisher is reported to have been taking on added duties that might indicate he is being groomed for promotion."

The change, it was pointed out, would mean additional prestige and power for Jones who still might influence RFC policies since the treasury secretary is an ex-officio director of the corporation.

Would Aid Reserve Bank

At the same time, as head of the treasury, Jones would be in a position to assist in formulating the program of the Federal Reserve board, which was ordered reorganized and given increased authority to control credit and banking under the 1935 banking act.

Jones was an appointee of President Hoover. He handled billions of dollars of loans to aid private enterprise in the depression.

Jones Suited For Post

One Democratic representative argued that on the basis of his past record, Jones could carry into the treasury the respect and confidence of both big business and "the man in the street." He described the RFC chairman as sufficiently liberal to command the support of liberal elements and yet not leaning so far in that direction as to alarm conservatives.

The same informant said he welcomed talk that Jones might be designated secretary of the treasury because "there is no man in the country better qualified to handle the heavy financing program ahead of the department."

Museum Group To Meet Here Today

only of Democrats—Smith, Bankhead, Murphy, Iowa; Pope, Idaho, and Hatch, New Mexico—immediately went into session and decided to call Secretary Wallace and Chester Davis, who administered AAA, for examination at another closed session later in the day.

To Make Some Changes

Coincidently, the house agriculture committee, at a closed meeting on the new legislation, decided to hear Davis tomorrow. Chairman Jones (D-Texas) said "there will be some changes" in the bill but declined to forecast what they might be. There were indications language might be added to specify that the present measure is to be followed by a permanent program based on state cooperation.

It was learned the senate committee discussed the constitutionality of the measure at length. Some argued it could be framed to conform to the Supreme court's AAA decision; others, including Norris, contended otherwise.

Bankhead said McNary suggested public hearings on the bill, but no action was taken on this point.

"We've been studying this subject two years," Bankhead said. "Who can tell us anything we don't know?"

FUGITIVE CAUGHT

pistol on a bed and surrendered without resistance.

Morgan was en route with Scrivenor to Paris, where he faced counterfeiting charges, when the abduction occurred.

The agent said that while in a traffic jam on the outskirts of Paris, the prisoner seized his pistol and made him drive to Queen City, where Scrivenor picked up his wife and children.

Mrs. Scrivenor and the children left the car after the prisoner drove back to Paris, and, Morgan said, Scrivenor continued across the Oklahoma line. After escaping near Bowchito, Morgan spread the alarm and a wide search was started for the fugitive.

Federal officers said Lindbergh kidnaping law violation charges which provide a possible death penalty, would be filed against Scrivenor.

Sheriff Hardegree said Scrivenor might also be charged with robbery in connection with taking $35 from Morgan.

The sheriff said members of Scrivenor's family would not be charged with harboring a federal fugitive, adding they had cooperated in every way since the kidnaping occurred.

Scrivenor's father revealed, Sheriff Hardegree said, that his son had served two years in Granite, Okla., reformatory for assisting a prisoner to escape and second degree forgery. He was admitted to the institution in December, 1928, the sheriff quoted the elder Scrivenor as saying.

Arkansas Seeks To Halt Meningitis

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 23. (AP)—Arkansas sought to reach across the border into Oklahoma today to keep meningitis out of Fort Smith.

Citizens of Fort Smith petitioned Oklahoma health officers to stop a walkathon at Moffett, Okla., just across the Arkansas border, because of the danger of meningitis. Oklahoma health department officials sent Dr. M. R. Byers and two inspectors to confer with Fort Smith health officials.

No meningitis cases have been reported at Moffett, but cases have been diagnosed in Fort Smith.

From Texas came word of another Oklahoma meningitis death. Beaumont, Texas, said Orland George Bauer, 15, Texhoma, Okla., died of meningitis at nearby Nome, while on a visit. Health officers reportedly were considering closing the Nome school.

Local Men Injured In Plainview Blast

Frank Worley and Milton Leach, employes of the Lubbock Machine Co., working in Plainview, were slightly injured there yesterday afternoon when an acetylene tank exploded in a cleaning plant.

The two men were treated at the Plainview sanitarium for bruises and eye injuries. It was said that neither would likely have a permanent impairment of their sight. Worley received a finger injury in addition to eye injuries.

The men were welding a storage tank when the acetylene tank let go, throwing a 50-pound tank on top of a building.

TEST IN GAINES STILL SHOWS GAS

Still showing between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 cubic feet of gas per day, the Walsh & Adams No. 1 Averitt, three miles northwest of Seminole, Gaines county, was reported drilling at 3,250 feet. It is in sand and shale.

Clogged hole at 3,132 feet has apparently been cleared by lowering casing to 3,142 feet. Test is located in block 226, block G, W. T. Ry., survey.

TEST BELOW 4,835 FEET

Drillers in the No. 1 E. H. Jones being drilled by Washlentmaier and York & Adams, are hopeful of striking the salid lime top shortly. Latest report shows the bottom below 4,835 feet, in lime and anhydrite.

Some lime was found at 4,300 feet and a thick stream at 4,690 but the pay has not been touched. It is on the ranch of Dr. E. H. Jones of New York and Seminole, in section 414, block G. C. C. S. D. & R. G. N. G. railway survey. It is 17 miles north and west of Seminole and 22 miles west of Seagraves.

PLAY IN COURT

mised to give exactly the same exhibition that shocked the raiders, "even to portraying kisses with the same fervor and duration."

Timony squirmed in deep disgust yesterday while a police stenographer, Arthur M. Custer, droned over his shorthand notes on the play's dialogue, supposed to be light comedy.

"Let's play some bridge before dinner," read the bored witness.

"Early to bid and early to raise makes Jane a dull girl."

There wasn't even a smile in the courtroom audience.

"My gosh," Timony blurted, "the play can't be that sour, can it?"

Silence, whether of assent or not.

The monotonous reading was resumed.

"If my husband found out, he'd have convulsions."

"Yeah, and he'd probably use 'em to shake up a cocktail."

Timony sighed and mopped his brow.

"I guess we should have been arrested," he murmured. "Ain't there any way we can stop him?"

Custer's transcription disclosed the comedy was much ado about two neglected wives, whose husbands attempted to entrap them by hiring college chums to impersonate women. The "women" were abducted by the wives and a bedroom scene brought down the curtain.

COLD WEATHER

without good for it brought higher prices in the grain and livestock markets, jammed hotels with suburbanites too timid to risk the journeys home, flooded coal and clothing merchants with rush orders and caused a severe shortage in the ear-muff, scarf and mitten industries. The cold had little affect on most airlines and schedules generally were maintained.

School Children Marooned

School children were marooned in at least nine states. In Ohio 604 pupils were marooned for several hours before half of them were rescued. The other 300 spent the night with 14 teachers in Staunton school, near Troy.

Near Cynthiana, Ky., 100 children were obliged to remain in school over night. A school bus was ditched at Pewaukee, Wis., and the children spent the night at nearby farm houses.

Chicago and many suburban schools were ordered closed. In a country schoolhouse near Waukegan, Ill., 20 pupils were held in the building for several hours after the heating plant failed. Some of the younger children were in danger of freezing before deputy sheriffs and state police broke through the snow drifts to rescue them.

All-Time Record Set

The all-time record low temperature for Chicago—a minus 23 degrees established Dec. 24, 1872—stood in danger of being eclipsed as the weather bureau predicted the mercury might drop as low as 25 below. Early today the temperature was 18 below.

Minneapolis set a new record low in the 45-year-old history of the weather bureau there with a minus 33.5 degrees.

CHILD IS FROZEN

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 23. (AP)—Raymond Russell Harling, two months old son of a WPA worker, froze to death in his crib Wednesday because, the father said, there was no coal to heat the house.

Ask any man who wears Nunn-Bush shoes just what he thinks of them . . . you will receive an answer indicating such genuine loyalty that it will surprise you . . . one of the main reasons for such loyalty is the feature of them being "ankle-fashioned" to over come gapping at the ankles and tipping at the heels . . . again we say ask the man who has worn them before just what is the best shoe for men . . . he will say.

Defendant Winner In Damages Action

Judgment for defendant in the damage action of Mary Elizabeth Barrier against Sidney Claiborne was returned by a 99th district court jury Wednesday afternoon after 10 minutes deliberation.

Judge Clark M. Mullican's charge to the jury was based on nine special issues, none of the remainder of which was to be answered if the first received negative response.

The first question was: "Do you find from a preponderance of evidence and in the light of attending circumstances that the defendant at the time and place and on the occasion in question was operating his automobile heedlessly or in reckless disregard of the rights of the occupant of same?" The jury answered, "I 5".

Miss Barrier was injured last year when riding with defendant's daughter in an automobile driven by Claiborne.

Judgment for defendant in the cause of Oscar Lykes against Temple Trust company and others was allowed by Judge Mullican. The case had been reversed and remanded by the court of civil appeals at Amarillo. It was a suit to cancel a loan contract on the grounds of usury.

Teachers To Decide On Issuing Booklet

Issuance of a yearbook giving information of Lubbock county rural schools will depend on decision made tonight at a meeting of the Lubbock County Rural Teachers association at 7:30 o'clock in the chapel of the First Methodist church.

The teachers will consider adoption of by-laws and a constitution.

Three group meetings will be conducted, and permanent chairmen for them elected.

A. L. Faubion will preside and V. Z. Rogers, Lamesa superintendent, will be principal speaker.

HIGH COURAGE

by Jeanne Bowman

have to fight for it, I don't want any of it. Now all I want to do is rest and forget about everything that's happened. But if you think they'll trail me here I'd better go away."

"No," Neuman answered, too hurriedly, "No, you're going to be safer here than almost anywhere else. Tecla, you had a brother south, or east, or somewhere didn't you?"

"Yes," answered Tecla, "he is far away, why?"

"Couldn't you intimate that Anne, here, was his daughter? Our people would probably know it wasn't true, but should anyone ask questions, they'd identify Anne that way.

"We're clannish people," he explained, apologetically, "but if you'll study our history you'll understand. From earliest times we were so surrounded by enemies we learned to trust only our own people and to build up fortifications of silence against outsiders. They'll protect you with these.

"Now the Lee Farnsworths, I understand, have moved to Portland and I imagine the Tom Farleys will spend their time there, also. Do you know many Astoria people?"

"No, I've scarcely been here since I was a child."

"Then we have only your car to consider. Of course they could trace that. The woman at the service station had an inkling of who you were when you screamed. She'd gladly tell everything with elaborations." She thought a moment. "How does this sound? You say you were born in Crescent City. Wouldn't it be the natural thing for you to go there in an effort to trace your parents? Then suppose I drive your car down their right away, tonight, or rather this morning, as it's past midnight now. I have a friend in the garage business there. He can either leave it in his garage or drive it back to Portland over the inland route.

"In this way, if the car has been traced they will believe you drove along the coast road to Crescent City, and disappeared from there."

Anne didn't need words to express her belief in the plan. She leaned back in her chair, suddenly tired. This man who had saved her from the river by his quick thinking, would handle this new dilemma with equal skill. She need worry about nothing for a time.

"Better you go to bed," observed the watchful Tecla, and hurried away to prepare her room.

"I don't know how I'll ever thank you," Anne venturued, as she accompanied John to the door, "and I do so need to be free from those people."

"You can thank me by not worrying while I'm away," returned John. Then he smiled, caught her hand in a firm clasp, and hurried down the stairs.

Anne stood at the door a moment, looking down on Union Town, scattered lights blinking in the darkness. A far away clock chimed the hour of two. At two o'clock last night she had been lying in her bed, reading to fill the empty hours.

But she had not been altogether unhappy. Rob and security lay ahead. Now she had nothing, and despite Tecla, she was nobody, just Nikki. But Tecla had said she was never to say that again, and surely with John Neuman willing to spend the night driving south for her she wasn't without friends.

Without friends? She turned as Tecla came into the room, a hot water bottle in her hand. She filled this at the stove then motioned Anne to follow.

Wearily Anne obeyed, climbing steep wooden stairs, turning down a hallway and into a cubicle-like room where Miina, smiling sleepily, was spreading the bed with fresh linen.

Anne couldn't help noticing the linen, hand woven, the edges of the pillow case and sheet frosted with hand made lace, inches wide.

As soon as she had slipped into her night robe, she found Tecla waiting, hot water bottle disguised in a knitted wool bag. This was arranged and rearranged until the nurse was satisfied.

She turned off the light, dropped the lone window of the room, letting in a gust of rain-washed air, then with a pat on Anne's shoulder and a "sleep well," she tiptoed out as though her charge had already obeyed her command.

"Sleep well," echoed Anne, to herself. As if she could ever again sleep at all. Bits of sentences, spoken that day (or was it the previous day) spun through her consciousness. The loyalty and love of the servants, the triumph of Sharlee, the queer hatred of Charlotte, and poor, troubled Lee, who had defied his wife, probably for the first time in his life, to safely convoy Anne out of her home.

Rob! But she must not think of him. Only, how could she help it? He had been shocked by what she had told him.

(Copyright, 1935, by Jeanne Bowman)

Anne gets a new name, tomorrow.

Beware The Cough

From a common cold

That Hangs On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements common to many remedies; such as, Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, fluid extract of Licorice Root, fluid extract of Wild Cherry and Menthol, but also has fluid extract of Ipecac for its powerful phlegm loosening effect, fluid extract of Cascara for its mild laxative effect and, most important of all, Beechwood Creosote is perfectly blended with all of these to reach the source of the trouble from the inside. Creomulsion can be taken frequently and continuously by adults and children with remarkable results.

Thousands of doctors use Creomulsion in their own families as well as in their practice knowing how Creomulsion aids nature to soothe the inflamed membranes and heal the irritated tissues as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled. Druggists also know the effectiveness of Beechwood Creosote and they rank Creomulsion top for coughs because you get a real dose of Creosote in Creomulsion, emulsified so that it is palatable, digestible and potent for going to the very seat of the trouble.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations and especially those stubborn ones that start with a common cold and hang on for dreadful days and nights thereafter. Even if other remedies have failed, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund every cent of your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Don't worry through another sleepless night—phone or go get a bottle of Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

Hale Center Gin Is Burned Last Night

HALE CENTER, Jan. 23. (Special)—Fire destroyed the Halbrook gin here last night. Of the $10,000 estimated loss, only $3,000 of it was insured.

G. T. Halbrook, owner, was sleeping in the gin office and awakened to find the entire structure enveloped in flames. The fire department was called, but its efforts to extinguish the gin were ineffectual. No cotton was lost, however.

The gin, which had been in operation today, turned out 498 bales since the cotton season began. There are two other gins here.
