Five Texas Ports Now Open To Traffic For Full 24 Hours Because Of Necessity And Also Convenience

(By The Associated Press)

EL PASO, Apr. 18. For the welfare of its people and to further good relations between the United States and Mexico, the Mexican government has taken new steps to prevent smuggling into the United States.

Javier Larrea, representative of the treasury department of Mexico, conferred here today with Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury, on problems confronting customs services of both countries.

To Place Soldiers

He announced Mexican authorities would place soldiers at strategic points in the El Paso territory to assist in stopping smuggling into the United States. The closing recently of a resort opposite Fabens, Texas, and 30 miles south of El Paso, was described as part of the new program.

"This is being done," Larrea said, "for the welfare of the Mexican people and for the good of relation between Mexico and the United States."

Inspects Work

Mr. Lowman said his visit to El Paso was for the sole purpose of inspecting customs work in this territory and to talk to the Mexican offfical, and had no connection with the opening of certain Texas ports along the lower bounudary for 24-hours daily.

"Only the ports at Brownsville, Hidalgo, Laredo, Del Rio and Eagle Pass will be allowed to hold open 24 hours daily," he said. "All other

Pampa Printer Is Held For Bigamy

PAMPA, April 18. (AP)—Dawson P. Parker, 32, a printer, is in jail here, facing a charge of bigamy.

Records in the court house at Lubbock show Parker wed at Slaton in 1928 and was wed again in February, this year to the daughter of a prominent Pampa citizen without divorcing Mrs. Parker No. 2, who now is in Baxter, Mo. Mrs. Parker No. 2, in a letter to authorities here, says her husband was divorced when they married at Slaton.

Parker has waived preliminary hearing and his bond has been fixed at $25,000.

Federal Employment Service Is Reorganized By Secretary

WASHINGTON, April 18. (AP)—The federal employment service was reorganized today by Secretary Dosk in an effort to recrease the number of jobless.

Under the new plans, effective immediately, a director will be in charge of each state and the District of Columbia to cooperate with state agencies and to act as coordinators between employers and employes.

Amarillo Negro Near Death After Running Amuck Friday

AMARILLO, April 18. (AP)—As a result of running amuck here early Friday, Dave Thomas, negro porter, tonight was at the point of death.

During his wild dash Thomas received internal injuries, which required a major operation.

The porter was rushed from the city jail to a hospital late Friday.

Officers believe it was a crash through a porch roof that caused the injuries.

Tales Of Massacre Are Told By Thirty American Refugees

Penniless, Tragic And Nerve-Shattered, Survivors From Nicaragua Arrive Saturday In New Orleans

BY T. S. ADAMS

NEW ORLEANS, April 18. (AP) — Thirty Americans, men, women and children, tragic and nerve-shattered, arrived in American waters aboard the steamship Cefalu today, refuges from the latest outbreak of banditry in Nicaragua.

Many of them were penniless and with nothing left save the clothes they wore. They docked at New Orleans tonight, bringing with them tales of massacre and guerilla warfare.

Bodies Arrive

The bodies of two of the nine Americans killed in the Nicaraguan bush during the past week, lay in the hold of the Cefalu, whose pennants flew at half staff as she steamed up the Mississippi river.

These were marine Captain H. C. Pefley, Philadelphia, slain at the head of a detachment of guardia nacional trying to beat off a bandit attack on Puerto Cabezas, and William L. Selser, formerly of Jackson, Miss., and Hart, Ala., Standard Fruit and Steamship employe, who was killed from ambush, Sandino forces fell on a group of plantation overseers gathered at Logtown the same day and slaughtered four of

Hoover Quite A Fisherman; Cares Of Office Laid Aside While He Engages In Sport

(By The Associated Press)

ORANGE, Va., April 18.—President Hoover rested tonight before an open fire at his Virginia mountain camp after an active day spent fishing in the Rapidan.

The chief executive laid aside all cares of office and spent the afternoon with his companions angling for trout. The day was clear and warm but as night came on it became necessary to light the fires in the camp.

The president caught 20 mountain trout—the limit allowed under Virginia law. He caught 12 fish this morning and eight this afternoon. These, together with a large catch by other members of the presidential party, were eaten tonight at dinner.

Mary McCormic And Mdivani Married For More Than Week

SANTA MONICA, Calif., April 18. (AP)—Prince Serge Mdivani and Mary McCormic, opera star, have been married more than a week and honeymooned in three states, they said upon their return here today.

Mdivani, who was divorced in Paris recently by Pola Negri, screen actress, declined to discuss where the marriage took place.

Clocks Of 17 States To Change Time April 26

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, April 18.—Sometime after midnight next Saturday, more than one-fourth of the population of the United States will lose an hour of darkness to gain an hour of daylight when 17 states will observe daylight saving time in some form.

Clocks in all parts of the country will be pushed ahead one hour to conform with the new time which officially begins at 2 a. m., Sunday, April 26. In most localities, daylight saving will end at 2 a. m. Sunday, September 27.

The Merchants' Association of New York which has just completed a survey of the observance of daylight conservation throughout the United States and Canada, reveals that in in 1931 the plan will be used by 437 cities and towns in the United States. This marks an increase of five communities over 1930. In Canada, 47 cities will observe daylight saving.

Despite attempts of rural legislators in Connecticut to prohibit the observance of daylight saving by law, making it

Talks To Be Made Today From Pulpits While Speakers Are Set To Make Addresses To All Civic Clubs

BY PROCLAMATION of Mayor J. J. Clements, the annual cleanup and paint up campaign will begin here Monday and continue through April 30, civic, religious, educational and other institutions participating in the program to increase sanitation and beauty in Lubbock. W. B. Atkins is chairman of the campaign.

W. B. ATKINS

Lubbock Boy Scouts competed in a nail-pick Saturday in connection with the cleanup campaign members of the seven troops removing nails, wire, bolts, and similar articles from the streets. The collected bits were sacked and hauled away by trucks.

The 1930 Texas trophy in the national cleanup and paintup campaign was awarded Lubbock. The trophy was a 12-inch silver loving cup and became a permanent possession.

Subjects akin to "Cleanliness Is Next to Godliness" will be used in some Lubbock pulpits this morning in connection with the cleanup program. In other churches, members of the camapign speakers committee will appear. Representatives of the speakers committee also are to speak before service clubs, women's groups, in the schools, and at other assemblies.

Committee Named

The general cleanup committee is composed of Chairman Atkins, D. Jarrett, Roy Furr, A. Sansom, Joe Nisler, W. G. Alderson, Paul Sherrod, Otis Felty, Mrs. W. B. Price, and Mrs. Hub Jones.

Mayor J. J. Clements is chairman of the municipal committee and Clark M. Mullican, judge of ninety-ninth district court, of the speakers committee.

Youth Drowned In Palo Duro Canyon

AMARILLO, April 18. (AP)—The first drowning of the season occurred here today when 12-year-old George Leroy Paul lost his life in a lake in the Palo Duro canyon, 12 miles south of the city.

The body was recovered after a two-hour search.

He had gone to the swimming hole with four friends from his boy scout troop. Only one could swim.

He disappeared while paddling in the water and did not rise to the surface again. The frightened youngsters tried to rescue him for some time before calling ambulances and divers from Amarillo.

Siamese Royalty Speeding Eastward For U. S. Visit

ABOARD THE ROYAL SIAMESE Special in Canadian Rockies, April 18. Scenery Being Assembled For 1932 Campaign

Many Prominent Party Leaders Are Being Mentioned During Preliminaries As Possible Presidential Timber

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The lights and shadows of the field on which the 1932 struggle for the presidency will take place gradually are being set these days.

Although the party conventions will not be held for more than a year, hardly a week passes without a development which may be reflected in the campaigns for nomination and election. Through it all, too, runs the realization of practiced observers that the setting might be radically shifted by unexpected twists.

Preserves Silence

That President Hoover wants and can get a renomination apparently is being taken for granted by his friends. He has held his political peace and the expectation in Washington is that he will continue to do so, for the time at least.

Meanwhile, speculation on the Democratic nominee buzzes on and on. The latest element entering in was the week-end news about Newton D. Baker, indicating he would do nothing to win nomination but would accept it if the convention chose him.

Cox In Running

Simultaneously from Ohio came reports that Governor White and former Governor Cox, the nominee in 1920, were about to join the number of other aspirants for Democratic nomination. Cox has been receiving more notice since his speech before the hectic Democratic national committee meeting just after congress adjourned.

Governor Roosevelt, of New York, long since has been out of the "favorite son" class of possible

Family Wiped Out In Crash

Four Are Killed As Train Strikes Car; Small Baby Is Only Survivor; Is Not Expected To Live

(By The Associated Press)

ROCKY FORD, Colo., April 18.—A fast passenger train that swept down on Charles Clemons and his family at a detour road crossing near Rocky Ford today snuffed out the lives of four persons. Only a baby survived when the train crushed the Clemons car.

The baby was reported at a Rocky Ford hospital to be critically injured.

The child's mother died in the hospital less than an hour after she was brought here in an ambulance from the scene of the accident.

The dead:

Mr. and Mrs. Clemons, a son, 10, and a daughter 12.

The names of the dead children and the baby could not be learned immediately.

Fishing Trawler Sends Out SOS; Cutter Is Sent To Aid

BOSTON, April 18. (AP)—The fishing trawler Comber sent out an SOS at 7:30 tonight, giving her position as about 400 miles out of Boston near Georges Bank. The coast guard cutter Agassiz, about 90 miles away, was immediately ordered to her assistance, but further effort to raise the Comber by radio to find out what was the matter failed. Apparently her radio had gone dead.

Pioneer Veteran Of Amarillo Dies Saturday; Former Pastor

AMARILLO, April 18. (AP)—P. N. Adkisson, 85, Confederate veteran and pioneer evangelist, died here today. For many years Rev. Adkisson was a circuit rider in North Texas and New Mexico.

Rev. Adkisson was born in Knoxville, Tenn., but grew to early manhood in Georgia, where he joined General Joe Wheeler's cavalry and trailed Sherman to the sea. At the close of the Civil war he came to Texas. He had been a resident of Amarillo for more than 40 years.

Explosion Is Fatal To Two

Oil Fires And Explosions In Oklahoma And Texas Claim 15 Lives In 60 Hours; Tonkawa Blast Latest

(By The Associated Press)

Oklahoma and Texas oil field fires and explosions killed and burned to death 15 persons over a period of 60 hours, ending with a blast in the Thomas oil field, southeast of Tonkawa, Okla., Saturday, when three men died in a nitroglycerin "shot" blast.

Twelve of the fatalities were caused by an explosion in a Wichita Falls, Texas, refinery, and two fires in the Kilgore, Texas, ares.

Two Die Saturday

Homer Wysong of Tonkawa, Okla., Albert Vershear of Enid, Okla., and William Knode, home unknown, perished in the Tonkawa field explosion early yesterday.

Claude Upchurch, J. W. Smith and R. C. Holcomb were fatally burned Friday night in the Kilgore field when oil tanks on the premises of the Upchurch and Allen No. 2 Brightwell well caught fire, probably from a lighted match in the hands of a cigarette smoker.

Was Part Owner

Missing Amarillo Child Is Found With Pampa Friends

AMARILLO, April 18. (AP)—Gertrude "Babe" Kyser, 12, who disappeared two weeks ago, was at the home of her parents here today, having been located with friends at Pampa.

The child had been sent to a grocery two weeks ago by the mother, Mrs. Arthur Kyser, and had not been seen by the family until Saturday when the parents hurried to Pampa after being notified by police that the girl had been found.

"She went to Pampa with some acquaintences," the father said.

Young Negro Taken From Jail And Lynched By Mob

(By The Associated Press)

UNION CITY, Tenn., April 18.—George Smith, 18-year-old negro accused of attempting to attack a white girl, was taken from jail here today by a crowd of men and hanged from a tree in the county courthouse yard while hundreds of persons thronged the grounds.

Sheriff J. D. Hubbs and Deputy Sheriff J. F. Holloway said "a great big crowd" assembled in front of the jail about mid-afternoon, forced their way in and dragged Smith out after smashing the lock on the jail door.

"We did all we could to protect the negro," Holloway said, "but we didn't want to take his place." He added he saw no guns in the crowd.

The lynching was accomplished quickly and most of the crowd dispersed in orderly manner. The negro's body was cut down 45 minutes later and taken to a mortuary.

Smith had not been identified definitely as the attacker.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Luther Johnson, of Union City, said he "doubted" any arrests would be made.

C. R. Foreman Stands Charged With Murder In Connection With Affair; Released On Bond Of $5,000

(Special to The Avalanche-Journal)

SPUR, April 18.—J. N. Edmonson, 31, shot by C. R. Foreman, father of Miss Elsie Foreman, 19, for whose death Edmonson was charged with murder, died in a hospital here early this morning.

Edmonson's death was hastened by his attempt last night to take his own life by swallowing a small quantity of rubbing alcohol, according to attending physicians.

New Charge Filed

Charge of murder was filed against Foreman this morning following the man's death. The girl's father was out under $1,000 bond on a charge of assault with intent to murder in connection with the shooting of Edmonson Thursday. Foreman waived examining trial on the murder charge and was released under $5,000 bond, signed by seven prominent Dickens county citizens.

Funeral services for Edmonson will be held at Plainview Sunday afternoon. His body was removed this morning by his father, W. W. Edmonson, who lives 15 miles northwest of Plainview.

Nurse Locked Out

The nurse attending Edmonson at the hospital last night told officers that she came back to his room and discovered that she had been locked out. She climbed into the room through a window and found a bottle beside Edmonson which contained rubbing alcohol. The nurse and Sheriff W. B. Arthur put the man back to bed. Edmonson's condition rapidly became worse after the exertion and efforts to save his life failed.

Annual Affair Carded Friday And Saturday

Eighteen Counties Expected To Send Representatives To Compete In Contests; Dr. A. W. Evans Director

Eighteen counties and two independent school districts, Lubbock and Plainview, will have more than 700 school students at the annual district 2 interscholastic league contests to be held Friday and Saturday, April 24 and 25 on the Texas Technological college campus, Dr. A. W. Evans, director general, announces.

EVANS

"We are expecting at least 2,000 people to be here including the contestants, their relatives, friends, other students, teachers and others," Dr. Evans declared. "There has been a steady growth every year and I believe we will have a larger meet than we had last year."

Officials Named

Dr. Evans announced the following meet officials, all Tech faculty members:

Prof. W. A. Jackson, head of government department, debate director.

Prof. John T. Shaver, associate professor of education, declamation director.

Miss Annah Jo Pendleton, professor of speech, extemporaneous speech director.

Prof. R. A. Mills, professor of English, essay contest director.

J. O. "Dell" Morgan, assistant director of physical education, athletic director.

Prof. W. P. Clement, associate professor of education, junior declamation director.

Miss Johnnye Gilkerson, assistant professor of physical education for women, director of volley ball for girls.

J. W. Jackson, instructor in government, in charge of typewriting contests.

Prof. W. R. Waghorne, head of music department, in charge of music memory contests.

Schedule Given

The following is the schedule of the contest:

Friday, 8 to 10 a. m.: Registration in lobby of administration building for all literary, athletic and volley ball events; 10 a. m., declamation contestants meet in room 220; debate contestants meet in room 302; 10:30, preliminaries in all declamation contests, both high school and rural schools, also boy's and girl's debate contestants.

Friday 2 p. m.: Preliminaries in tennis, volley ball, 100, 220, 440 yard dashes and 880 yard run, shot put, running high jump, broad jump, pole vault, discus and javelin at athletic field; extemporaneous speech preliminaries and semi-finals in debate; 3 p. m., three-R contests.

Friday night: Finals in declamation contests for senior and junior boys and senior and junior girls, in college gymnasium.

Saturday 8:30 a. m.: Typrwriting tournament; 9 a. m., finals in rural declamation for senior boys and girls, junior boys and girls; music memory contest, room 310.

Saturday 2 p. m.: Typewriting tournament concludes; finals in all track and field events including rural pentatheion; semi-finals for all events and finals in all events not otherwise provided for.

Apen To Public

"All contests open to the public such as the finals in declamation and debate are free with the exception of athletic contests," Dr. Evans said. "We are making a small charge for the Saturday afternoon events at Tech Field."

A large number of pre-registrations are coming in, Dr. Evans said.

Winners in the district meet go to the state contest at Austin in May. A portion of their expense are to be met by the state interescholastic league.

Besides the two independent school districts entered in the meet, the following counties will send competitors: Andrews, Bailey, Borden, Cochran, Crosby, Dickens, Dawson, Floyd, Garza, Hale, Hockley, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Terry and Yoakum.

Here's Good News, Men! Author Says Women Will Never Rule The World

By NEA Service

LONDON, April 18.—"Women will never dominate the world. If that ever happens, then civilization must perish."

Such is the opinion of G. K. Cheserton, famous editor and author, who thinks that the woman's place is in the home and the more she is out of it the more difficult situations she creates for man to compete with.

"Not long ago women rose from the fireside and declared in a chorus that they would not be dictated to—and so they became typists," he says. "If man had glorified the household tasks and said, 'How wonderful is woman's performance of these tasks, how magnificent!' feminism would not have run wild.

"And about woman's new freedom. Woman hasn't freedom. She had much more freedom in the home. At least, there she had the liberty of throwing furniture about. She could vary her work with her moods. Now she has become a slave to her employer."

Levelland Scouts Are Given Awards

Seventeen members of the Levelland Boy Scout troops were given awards for accomplishments in scouting Friday night at a sitting of the Levelland court of honor.

D. T. Jennings, scout executive of the South Plains area, attended the ceremony and aided in the giving of the awards.

The following boys appeared before the honor court:

Lacy Burleson, John Potts, Thurman George, tenderfoot rank; Raford Bowers, Floyd Gravitt, Johnnie Gravitt, second class; Alton Lindsey, star award; Francis Tubb, eagle award.

Lewis Cole, Bruce Taylor, Carrol Cannon, Alton Lindsey, Sanford Jinkins, Viencent Vialle and J. L. Adams, merit badges.

Boys' Week Is Being Planned

Meeting Will Be Held Today At Presbyterian Church To Lay Plans; Scout Official Will Visit Lubbock

Plans for locally observing national Boy's Week, April 25 to May 2, are scheduled to be made at 2 p. m. today at a meeting of the Lubbock district Boy Scouts' committee, D. T. Jennings, scout executive, announced yesterday. The meeting is to be held in the young people's room of the First Presbyterian church.

Arrangements for holding the regular quarterly meeting of the South Plains area executive committee here Wednesday, also will be formulated, Mr. Jennings said. Gunner Berg, director of volunteer training for the national Boy Scout council, of New York, is scheduled to address the regional committee during its session. The meeting opens at 3 p. m., local scout officials announced.

Will Arrive Wednesday

Mr. Berg, who is expected to arrive Wednesday morning, is to confer with Texas Technological college relative to the establishment at the school of a scout leaders training course for which college credit would be given.

Another scout meeting is set for Lubbock this week, according to Mr. Jenning's schedule. It is the monthly session of the district court of honor, which is to be held Friday night in the district courtroom of the county courthouse. In addition to the making of scout awards, an inter-troop knot tying contest will be held during the sitting of the honor court. Patrols of eight scouts each will represent each troop entered in the competition.

AMHERST, (Special).—John H. Wood, local attorney, who has been ill for some time, was taken to a hospital at Muleshoe. He expects to be able to return in about a week. Meantime his law partnership with Lee J. Marks has been dissolved, Mr. Wood announced.

Annual Meet Of East Texas C-C Set Today

Two United States Senators From Texas And Governor Ross Sterling On Program At Marlin Convention

(By The Associated Press)

MARLIN, April 18. (AP) — Texas' two United States senators and the governor will participate in the fifth annual convention of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, opening here today and continuing through Tuesday.

It will be a cosmopolitan gathering with participants and spectators in attendance from all sections of Texas, those from other districts than the East Texas area coming as interested well-wishers.

Members of the Texas legislature accepted an invitation to attend and will come from Austin in a body aboard a special train Monday.

Morris Sheppard, United States senator, will address a mass meeting at the First Methodist church Sunday night, his subject being "Christianity, the Basis of Modern Society and Government."

"The New East Texas," will be the subject of an address by Tom Connally of Marlin, junior United States senator, Monday morning, and Governor Ross S. Sterling will deliver his address Monday afternoon.

A unique feature of the convention will be appearance of a delegation of East Texas Indians from the reservation in Polk county of the Alabamas, the only surviving tribe of Red Men in the Lone Star state. They are descendants of the days of General Sam Houston, when a little band of Indians was permitted to settle near Livingston with Houston's admonition to keep their own counsel and "beware of outside influences."

There will be entertainment for all tastes, including golf tournaments, dances, banquets, sight-seeing tours.

Class Days And Picnics In Store For High School Students During Spring

Commencement Will Be Held In May For Seniors

ANNUAL observance of class days and picnics are events toward which high school students are looking now to fill the time preceding the actual commencement activities scheduled for early in May.

With the district interscholastic league contests during this coming week-end and the annual exhibits on April 29, 30 and May 1, the last of a series of spring major events will be rolled off the school calendar. After that, there will be a time for the outings, examinations and other routine connected with the closing of a term and the graduation of seniors.

The school exhibits and interscholastic league events will take in students throughout the system. Other activities are limited to the high school section.

Annual Occasion

The exhibit is an annual occasion that has been observed near the end of the spring term for several years. At this time, each school and each room places on public display posters, notebooks, samples of drawing and other crafts, themes, examination papers to show the projects and routine work that have followed during nine months.

During three days this exhibit will be open to the public and it will be open again in the evenings with teachers and pupils in specified groups serving as hosts.

Sophomore Day Held

With these students went the faculty sponsors, Dan Powers, G. E. Dawson, Sam Leifeste, Mrs. Emmett Burford, Miss Reta Wallace, Miss Lula Elkin, Mrs. Ada L. Wolfe and Miss Lillie McKinney.

During the day the sophomore flag flew unmolested over the high school and members of the class flaunted their colors to bring recognition of their observance.

Junior Day, which is set for April 28, is to be more elaborate in detail. A queen will be crowned at an afternoon picnic, which will be held somewhere in Yellowhouse canyon. The class flag will be unfurled at sunup to fly over the school during the day and again class colors will be in evidence.

Selection of the queen will precede the picnic by a few days. Anyone may enter candidate and balloting will be secret. The queen's name will not be announced until she is crowned and a closed car will be used to transport her to the picnic grounds in a further effort to guard this secret.

She will be crowned, in all probability, by the class president, Mack Scoggin, or the head sponsor for the class, M. E. Witt.

Other sponsors who will be expected to participate in the observance of Junior Day will be E. M. Barnett, E. J. Lowery, J. W. Reid, Miss Lucille McCanne, Mrs. R. P. Johnson and Mrs. J. O. Morgan. Maxine Russell is class secretary.

On Senior Day, members of that class will be in charge of an assembly program, the last for the current year, and the following a ceremony.

Court Docket Set For Week

Thirteen Felony Cases Will Be Given Attention, Eight In 99th And Five In 72nd District Court

Lubbock county's criminal docket for the week of April 27, consisting of 13 felony cases, was announced yesterday by Durwood H. Bradley, district attorney.

Eight of the cases are set for trial in 99th district and the other five have been assigned to 72nd district court, but may be transferred to the 99th if that court has ample time for all of the trials, Mr. Bradley said.

Cases set are as follows: State vs. C. C. Kenemore, theft by conversion; State vs. Harry Hamilton, driving automobile while intoxicated; State vs. Floyd Tucker, child desertion; State vs. Dale Nicholson violation of the prohibition law; State vs. Finis Nicholson, violation of the prohibition law; State vs. Bill Burns, burglary; State vs. Whit Latta, violation of the prohibition law; State vs. Mrs. B. M. Porter, perjury; State vs. Hub Johnson, violation of the prohibition law; State vs. C. C. Kenemore, perjury; State vs. Buster Johnson, burglary; State vs. Bob Robertson, theft of chickens.

BUY PAINT and EXPERT ADVICE

The paint industry each year has made it increasingly easier for home owners to do "little jobs around the place." The Boss painter will attend to the more important undertakings, but you can freshen up a line of fences, or make flower boxes and trellises glisten in the sun; you can do over chairs and tables and wicker furniture; you can make a gloomy pantry or closet smile once more, and varnish, enamel or lacquer an ice box that has seen years of service, until neighbors think it is new.

It is characteristic of the modern merchant to sell more than paint, more than varnish, more than enamel, more than lacquer, etc. With the bargain comes helpful advice, friendly counsel, information which will make it easier for you to buy and easier for you to do the work.

Come down some day, and prove that it is an important truth of modern merchandising.

Last Meeting Of Year Held By P-TA Body

Shallowater Association Ends Successful Year; Report Is Given By Delegates To The Meeting At Lamesa

SHALLOWATER, April 18. (Special).—The local Parent-Teacher association held the last meeting of the year yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the study hall, completing a very successful year's work. The program was as follows:

Work of the home economics department was displayed by two of the students, Freda Fisher and Nola Mary Hollyfield. This is the first year of the home economics department and the work was commended by Superintendent R. L. Hooten as being far above that of the average first year work.

Inspiration Gained

Two delegates, Mrs. O. L. Malone and Mrs. A. E. Dry, attended the recent district meeting at Lamsea, gaining inspiration and new ideas for another year's work.

The following report was given at Lamesa by Mrs. Dry is indicative of our work:

"The Shallowater P.-T. A. was organized September 10, 1928. The first year we did not affiliate with the state, but the second year we had 20 paid members. This year we have 35 paid members.

"We had planned a summer round-up of all school children, but due to the fact of losing our building by fire, we could not conveniently get all children together until school began in the fall. All examinations were made October 6, 1930.

Carnival Sponsored

"Friday night, October 31, a Hallowe'en carnival was sponsored by the P.-T. A. at the club house, which netted us $87, this going to the different school groups. Two quilts were made and sold for about $30. This money went to general fund. Each group bought what was needed for their rooms, such as pictures, hectograph, flowers and other equipment.

"From the general fund money was taken to purchase 200 towels to be used by the students. The P.-T. A. pays for their laundry and thereby enables each child to take a shower each week at a set time.

"We also made awards to winners of first and second places in our local interscholastic league tryout.

"We have beautified our school grounds, setting out 125 trees, as well as shrubs, small flowers and grass."

Plan Wider Program

Mrs. Dry concluded her report by saying "we are planning a wider and better program next year."

During the business session, a junior-senior banquet was planned for Friday night, May 8, to be held at the school building. Committees were named as follows: Menu — Miss Edyth Wynn, Mrs. M. F. Stephens, Mrs. O. L. Malone; assignments—Mrs. R. L. Hooten, Mrs. Fisher and Mrs. Dry; china and silver—Mrs. Lang Anderson, Mrs. A. F. Rasor, Mrs. Arnold; program—Miss Theresa Lawrence, Mrs. Rasor, Mrs. Hooten; decoration — Mrs. Copeland, Miss Lena Maggang, M. F. Stephens; general manager — Mrs. Rasor.

The picture went to the high school group for having the most members present.

New officers were introduced by the past president. Superintendent Hooten expressed his gratitude to the P.-T. A. for its accomplishments during the year and to the retiring president, Mrs. Jess Hardy, he presented a pen from the association in appreciation of her work.

Crop Improvement Subject Of Thesis

"Methods and Improvement of the Major Crop Plants," is the subject of the thesis which L. M. "Lonnie" Starr, graduate student in the school of agriculture at Texas Technological college, has submitted to Dean A. H. Leidigh for his M. S. in agronomy degree. Starr is the first student in the school of agriculture to work for an M. S. degree.

Subject matter included cotton, small grains, grain sorghums and corn. Each subject was treated along five lines: Relation of the crop to the soil; relation of the crop to the climate; adaptability of the crop itself; methods of planting by state experiment stations and the U. S. department of agriculture; relation of the crop to economic conditions and markets.

Mr. Starr has been majoring in agronomy in his post-graduate work under H. J. Bower, head of the department of agronomy. He also has been doing valuable research, according to Professor Bower and his work has been reflected by the extent of the thesis.

Two Agronomy Students To Receive Degrees At Tech

Two seniors in the school of agriculture at Texas Technological college who are majoring in agronomy, are among the class of about 25 who will be given their B. A. degrees in agriculture this spring, H. J. Bower, professor and head of the agronomy department said.

The students are John Wherry and Bill Clutter. Both have devoted considerable time to their outside work and have made good scholastic records.

Just what they will do after graduation, they have not decided, Professor Bower said. Both men have had offers of employment by agricultural groups but whether they will accept these or not, is not known.

There are seven juniors who are majoring in agronomy who will form the senior class next fall, provided they return to school in September.

City Health Officer Gives Out Data On Flies; Says Zoning Is Only Way To Down Breeding

Dr. Rollo Says Now Is Time To Begin War On Pests

"THE only way for Lubbock to be entirely rid of flies is to pass an ordinance that will get rid of cows and horses within the city limits."

This was the answer of Dr. J. W. Rollo, city health officer, to a question as to what could be done to rid the town of flies this summer.

Lubbock, he explained, has an ordinance that prohibits more than one cow to a lot within the city limits. It also permits one team of horses.

Rollo

"Cows and horses are the great breeders of flies," the health officer explained. "Three hundred flies can hatch in a cubic inch of manure. More flies can be hatched in a stable yard with manure than can be killed off in a summer, if they are left to hatch eggs undisturbed."

The eggs of flies will change from an egg to a full grown fly in from nine to ten days.

Greatest Disease Carriers

Flies are the greatest carriers of disease, the health officer said. Flies walking across the face of any person suffering from a germ disease, can pick up the germs and transmute them to other persons. Typhoid, infantile paralysis and cholera infamtum, among other diseases, are easily carried from one sick person to another.

Persons with tuberculosis, whose spleen is exposed, endanger others if flies are in the sick room, for flies will carry the disease to others.

Changes Made Here

Many chagnes have been made in the sanitary situation in Lubbock in the past several years and there is not nearly as much danger from flies transmuting disease because there are fewer flies and fewer breeding places.

The installation of sanitary outside toilets has been one factor in this, Dr. Rollow said. This installation, covering several hundred, has removed that many breeding places.

"We have a better collection system of garbage now than we have had," he went on. "We collect twice a week in the residential sections. I hope that we can have still better service, probably this summer.

Negroes Aiding

"We also have had splendid cooperation in the negro section of town by the screening of houses, better care of garbage and the like. The teachers in negro schools have waged a good war against unsanitary conditions, churches and organizations have helped and that part of town is much cleaner."

Dr. Rollo has set a slogan "swat the fly" as the goal for the summer. He is seeking to have persons given even closer cooperation with the city in the matter of garbage collections than ever before.

"If any one finds that their garbage has been missed by the collectors, if they will call the health department, we will attend to it," he said.

Persons who own livestock within the city limits are asked to cover the manure with lime. By the judicious use of lime, a natural disinfectant, much danger from flies breeding can be eliminated.

Gives Out Information

Suggestions for householders in helping to combat flies were given by Dr. Rollo. They include:

"Screen all windows and doors and keep screens tight."

"Keep doors open outward."

"Wrap up those articles of food that are to be put into garbage cans."

"Keep your yards clean."

"Do not throw articles of food on the ground or outside the door."

"Keep dishes of food covered."

"Kill the flies as soon as they appear in the house."

"Do not let flies in sick rooms, especially with communicable diseases."

"Burn promptly all soiled clothing or articles from sick rooms."

"Put all cans that contained food in sacks or newspapers as soon as the food is removed, and place in the garbage cans."

Debaters Near End Of Season At Texas Tech

Ten Contest Already To The Credit Of Student Teams; Only One More Event Set For This Year

With ten debates to their credit and only one more planned for 1931 the forsenic season of Texas Technological college is nearing an end for Tech debaters. It is planned for a girl team to go to Canyon sometime this spring where a mixed team will debate on the tariff question. One co-ed from Tech and one from West Texas State Teachers college will present the affarmitive while two other women from the same school will uphold the negative.

Starting the season with a number of seasoned debators, Miss Annah Jo Pendleton, acting head of the speech department and director of debate, developed a number of good teams. In the opening engagement with a team from England last fall on the question, "Resolved, That the Principle of Democracy Has Been Tried and Found Wanting," the Tech squad won on a vote by the audience by a small margin. The decision was based upon percentage of change of opinion. Bill Sewell and Wayne Castleberry defended the negative for Tech.

Alvis Ellis and O. O. Williams, persenting the affarmitive of the democracy question, lost the next engagement with Simmons university team. The only freshman debate ever to be held on the Tech campus was the next engagement when Garland Smith and Carrol Thompson presented the affarmitive of the question, "Resolved, That the Nations of the World Should Adopt a Policy of Free Trade." No decision was rendered in this debate which was held with the Amarillo Junior college of Amarillo.

Lost At Abilene

Castleberry and Sewell, upholding the negative of the tariff question, then lost to the Abilene Christian college and McMurry college, both of Abilene. Both engagements were held there.

At the Pi Kappa Delta debate fraternity meet in Waco last month, Ellis and Castleberry represented Tech and engaged in four contests. They lost to Trinity university, Howard Payne college and Abilene Christian college, but won over Texas Christian university. All debates were on the tariff issue.

The last debate to be held here this year was last week when Ellis and Frank Ward, presenting the affarmitive of the tariff issue, won a unamious decision over a team from West Texas State Teachers college of Canyon.

Although complete arrangements have not yet been made for the Canyon girls debate, it is hoped to hold the debate within the next few weeks, Miss Pendleton said last week.

Mahoney Says Shrubs And Trees Damaged In Frosts Can Be Saved By Watering

Trees and shrubs damaged by the frosts during the latter part of March, following almost unprecedented warm weather of January and February and portions of March, can be saved, C. H. Mahoney says.

Most of the shrubs and trees that were damaged by the frost can be saved if people will do two things—water them and cultivate the ground," Mr. Mahoney, professor of horticulture in the school of agriculture at Texas Technological college, says.

Growth of these were checked by the unexpected freeze following the warm weather, he explained. Fir trees and the like were green all winter. They are now showing brown, but if proper care is taken, the color will change gradually, he said.

Typhoid cases in drought-stricken areas of Missouri more than doubled in the latter half of 1930, as compared with 1929.

Which Policy is Best?

When an insurance man comes to see you and talks his business, you may be very much inclined to grow impatient with him—not see him at all, perhaps.

But, to an important extent, he is doing his best to safeguard you from yourself.

To do without fire insurance is as short-sighted as to do without life insurance. Indeed, insurance of all kinds is man's best protection against what he pleases to call either "fate" or "ill-luck."

THINK of having your car serviced in one place! You can now get gas and oil, washing and greasing, tires and tubes, batteries and brakes attended to without wasting a lot of time—unsatisfactory running from one place to another.

We installed Firestone One-Stop Service two years ago, and we don't hesitate to say it's the greatest forward stride ever undertaken by any tire service station.

We provide everything your car needs except mechanical repairs—do it better than it's ever been done before. We have the latest, most efficient Firestone equipment, and our men are specially trained.

One of our men, Mr. D. G. Hale just returned from the factory where he has spent seven weeks. Come in and let him show you how a tire is built.

Our costs are moderate. You couldn't find better service if you searched the town or paid double. These are strong statements—as strong as we know how to make them, but drive your car in and see for yourself how true they are.

And when you need tires, remember we sell the greatest of them all—Firestone—the sturdy, reliable tires that hold all world records for safety, speed, endurance and mileage.

From Wichita comes a rumor that is of interest to West Texas baseball lovers. So far as we are able to ascertain, the rumor is well founded and is to be taken seriously. Organized baseball in West Texas is seen by outstanding promoters of the game.

It is really the big shots who are behind the move this time, and no fooling. Everybody who has followed Texas League baseball knows of John J. (Honest John) McClosky, original founder of the Texas league and known as the "father of the Texas League." He is credited with organizing more baseball leagues than any living figure in the game, and he is starting a move to put West Texas on the map in a baseball way.

* * *

J. Alvin Gardner, president of the Texas League, is interested in the move and is offering full moral support. He has been asked to manage one of the proposed teams but says his connections in the Texas League forbid other associations.

The proposed West Texas league will consist of at least six teams, including Lubbock, Pampa, Amarillo, Plainview and Borger. One other town, not yet named, will be considered. McClosky, a pioneer figure in the baseball world, is at present residing in Louisville, Ky., but he is in constant touch with F. E. Mathews of Wichita Falls, an old timer in the baseball business. In a recent letter to Mathews, McClosky said he had refused an offer to join a major league club as scout because he would rather return to the game as manager, and hearing that a fertile field awaited development in West Texas he immediately got in touch with friends in this state. In turn, Mathews has written influential citizens in the town mentioned above and it was expected definite organization would start within a few weeks.

If backing can be found in all of the cities, it is McClosky's idea to open the season May 15. The West Texas league failed to organize in 1929 and left that territory without organized baseball for the first time in several years. The Wichita Falls club maintained a team in the old circuit, at Abilene. The last year of the West Texas league was a lean one, financially, and there was little encouragement for continuation.

Judging from letters of fans and other interested parties, there is considerable interest in baseball in this region this year. We believe that if handled right a league of sorts could be organized and prove to be a successful venture. With live wires behind the league, in the league and for the league, such an organization could hardly fail in an area where there is no baseball. It has taken West Texas and the South Plains a long time to become baseball educated, and graduation exercises have not yet been held, but if the national pastime is ever to get a foothold here, it is high time something was being done about it.

If a league were organized in West Texas and successfully handled for a season it is natural to believe that Texas League teams and even the major leagues would become interested, perhaps take over the various clubs as farms for inexperienced Texas and major league players. Such an ivory farm plot would in time develop into a good Class C or D league.

Right now, however, is the time for Lubbock to get behind the City league. It has been organized, managers selected and soon will be ready to function. At the two meetings of managers and interested parties, most of them prospective players, much interest has been shown. There will be eight clubs in the circuit playing season will begin on or about May 15. There is enough baseball talent in Lubbock to warrant fairly good games, and with the standard price of admission set at 10 cents, one dime, spectators should turn out in great numbers. The money derived from admission ticket sales will go into a league treasury and no individual will profit by the season. It takes considerable money to buy balls, bats and to pay ground keepers and ticket takers and it will take the cooperation of the people of Lubbock to keep the thing going.

This department begs to correct an error that appeared in Saturday morning's Avalanche in which it was stated that Pinkey Lowrey was coach of the Lubbock High golf team. We have since learned that E. M. Barnett is the Westerner golfers' coach. Our apology to both men.

Panthers Resume Win Streak To Beat Spudders; Galveston Is In Winning Role As Indians Commit Six Errors

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, April 18. — The Dallas Steers made it three straight over the Shreveport Sports here today with a 7 to 5 decision. George Murray, right hand ace of the Dallas mound staff, was in trouble several times but had the ability to pitch out of tight situations. Underhill started for Shreveport and hurled five innings of winning baseball, but the Steers got to him in the sixth for four runs to put the game away. Raymond Radcliff, Dallas castoff, now first sacking for Shreveport, led his mates in hitting with four wallops, one a homer in the ninth inning.

ERRORS LOSE FOR TRIBE

SAN ANTONIO, April 18.—Six errors against seven hits is too much of a handicap to win a ball game, and the San Antonio Indians, unable to come through with the stick, were defeated by the Galveston Buccaneers Saturday afternoon, 6 to 4.

In the face of these blunders and light hitting, however, the Tribe was offered many opportunities by Ernie Evans, who pitched for the Buccaneers and staged an Indian parade as he issued ten bases on balls.

Philadelphia Handicap Race Is Won By Sun Beau, Easily

HAVRE DE GRACE, April 18. (AP)—Sun Beau, six-year-old stake campaigner, won the Philadelphia handicap and $9,000 for his owner, Willis Sharpe Kilmer, before a crowd of some 25,000 here today, and increased his total winnings to $276,819.

The son of Sun Briar-Beautiful lady, outclassed a field of five other entrants, winning by a length and a half, despite the 129 pounds he carried. Paul Bunyan and fortunate youth were next.

The time for the mile and one-sixteenth was 1:44 4-5.

Tech Matador Cagers Of 1931 To Make Unanimous Return To Courts In 1932

With Herschel "Tad" Tadlock of Amarillo, for two years a star track and basketball player, as captain, the 1932 Tech Matador basketball team will have for its candidates every one of the players who wore the Scarlet and Black on Tech's court in 1931. Clarence Hodges, 1931 captain and high scorer; A. Crews, A. F. Darr, Haden Moody and Kelsey, forwards; Leon Fisher and H. Baker, centers, and Tadlock and Dunn, guards, made up the regular players last year and Coach Crip Golightly announces that they will all return for next season play.

Whether or not the veterans will earn the right to compose the starting lineups next winter hinges about the results of the present intramural basketball tournament waging on the campus. A number of players who appear headed for basketball stars are looming as prospective starters next fall.

Y. M. C. A. Cagers In Upset To Defeat Army Team

The Fish team of the Liberal Arts League coached by Ernest Dowell, won its fifth straight victory yesterday when it defeated the Juniors of the same league, 40 to 9, continuing on its undefeated way in the Texas Tech intramural basketball tournament.

The Sophomores of the Liberal Arts League and the Y. M. C. A., of the Independent League were victorious in yesterday's program, the Army dropping its first game since the season started to the Y. M. C. A., 26 to 15. The Soph Arts won, 13 to 8, over the Seniors of the same league.

The work of one Lefty Bryant was largely responsible for the overwhelming victory gathered by the Fish Arts yesterday. Lefty dropped in nine field goals to take high scoring honors and to set an individual record in scoring up to date. Holmes and Hale were effective in the Fish attack. Puckett, Howard, Klein, Stidham and Coker scored for the losers.

Coach Darr's Soph Artists and Reeves' Seniors waged a defensive game, finally won by the Sophs, 13 to 8. Robinson and Robertson with two field goals each were leading scorers for the winners, while Jones and Dallas scored fieldgoals for the Seniors.

In the upset of the day's program, the Y. M. C. A. cagers, coached by A. Crews, rose to win their third game of the season by tramping the strong Army team, 26 to 15. Cummins and Poole scored 19 points between them to lead the scoring.

New Tennis Wins Won By Van Ryn

(By The Associated Press)

PINEHURST, N. C., April 18. — John Van Ryn, medalist Philadelphia netman, today added championship honors in the men's and mixed doubles to the singles title he won yesterday to make a clean sweep in the North and South Tennis tournament.

The Philadelphia teamed with Frank X. Shields, New York, to defeat Dr. Jack Wright and Carcel Rainville, of Montreal, Canadain Davis cup players, 6-3, 9-7, 7-5, for the men's doubles title.

His partner in the mixed doubles was Mrs. Van Ryn. They defeated Virginia Rice, Boston, and Clifford Sutter, New Orleans, 6-3, 3-6, 6-6, in the championship match.

Longhorn Tracksters Garner Laurels Over Little Rivals

AUSTIN, April 18. (AP)—The University of Texas track team had little difficulty in copping honors here today in a sextuple meet with Daniel Baker, Howard Payne, Southwestern, San Marcos and St. Edward's university.

Texas scored 67 points. Its closest rival was Daniel Baker with 28 1-2. The other teams finished as follows: Howard Payne 24 1-2; Southwestern 19 1-2; San Marcos 19; St. Edward's 6 1-2.

Lexington Handicap Race Is Won By Tannery On Saturday

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 18. (AP)—E. F. Prichard's Tannery, backed by many Kentuckians a year ago as a Derby hope to beat Gallant Fox, came through with a triumph over the field in the Ben Ali handicap, $3,000 added, the feature event of the first day of spring racing here today.

The chestnut son of Ballot led George Collins' Thistle Ann, winner of the inaugural handicap at Bowie, by a length and a half.

John King Thinks Umpiring Great Fun; Oil Riches Fail To Retire Veteran Ump Whose West Texas Career Known Here

HOUSTON, April 18. (AP)—When John King, that picturesque erstwhile foeman of all left-handers, calls 'em in the Texas league this season he'll be out there in his baggy blue usit in preference to pursuit of the leisurely life of a wealthy oil man.

King, one of the legion who "got a bad break" in the majors, bought up some leases on land around Kilgore, Tex., his home town, at 25 cents an acre. Then the first gusher in the new east Texas field came in and he became suddenly a rich man, growing riche evrery time a new spray of black hit the top of a derrick.

Alvin Gardner of Wichita Falls, president of the league, thought the new status might make King give up his indicator.

"After John showed me those deposit slips for the money he had in the bank I asked him if it would change his mind about umpiring," said Gardner.

"I'd rather be an outstanding umpire in the Texas league than a big oil producer in east Texas—especially with the price of oil where it is,' he told me violently."

King's dislike for portsiders, whom he considered mainly responsible for his failure to "make" the big leagues, led him once, Gardner said, to take back a 25-cent piece he had given a beggar when he noticed the mendicant was left-handed.

Houston And Galveston Romp Off With Opening Day Gate Laurels; Poor Families To Profit In Port City

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, April 18. — Unofficial figures released here today by President Alvin Gardner of the Texas league showed Houston the winner of the Class A attendance prize for opening day crowds, with Galveston winner of the Class B prize.

Texas league cities are divided into two divisions for purposes of the contest, the four larger cities in Class A and the four smaller cities in Class B.

Houston Draws 10,504

At Houston 10,504 fans paid to see Friday night's game here, while at Galveston Wednesday 7,981 fans welcomed Texas league ball back to the Island city.

Other figures Class A: Fort Worth, 10,341; Dallas 9,287; San Antonio, 3,000 (estimated).

Class B: Beaumont, 6,209; Wichita Falls, 4,500 (estimated); Shreveport, 4,500 (estimated).

Houston and Galveston will receive handsome trophies, as well as $250 each from the Texas league.

The relief fund for the benefit of needy Houston families will receive $500-$250 from the league, and an additional $250 given by President Fred Ankenman of the Houston ball club.

Perry's Protractor Winner As Gotham Racing Is Begun

NEW YORK, April 18. (AP)—With only a featherweight in the saddle, Luis Perry's Protractor stepped away from a classy field of veteran sprinters to win the historic Paumonok handicap and $6,300 today as the 168-day metropolitan season opened at Jamaica.

Sidney Hebert, up on the Perry sprinter, rated the colt back of the pace for three-fourths of the journey and then sent him out in front with a bound that turned back the bid of the turf's best in the stretch.

New Members Are Sought For Band

Efforts will be made to increase the membership of the city band to 45 or 50 musicians, Z. D. Davis, director, said yesterday. The organization, formed a month ago, now has an enrollment of 25 members, according to the director.

"We are anxious to get as many new members as possible," Mr. Davis said. "Our only requirement is that our members must not belong to any other band in the city. It is our hope to build up a creditable musical organization."

Rehearsals are being held on Monday and Thursday nights of each week at the Rex theater, accordin, to Mr. Davis. He requested all persons interested in joining the city band to get in touch with him at his home, 2322 Eighth street, or with J. B. Morrisett, president of the organization.

Goodman Hopes To Use New Ball To Win Championship And To Show His Victory Over Bobby Wasn't A Fluke

OMAHA, Neb., April 18. (AP) — A bronzed veteran of the golfing wars at 21, Johnny Goodman looks to the new larger and lighter ball to help him retain his two major golf ambitions.

They are, first, to win a national amateur or national open championship, and second, to convince the sports world that his startling victory over Bobby Jones at Pebble Beach in 1929 was not the fluke victory of a "lucky kid."

"I have found that my drives with the new ball are almost as long as with the old one, and my approach shots are far more accurate.

"In putting I am hitting the ball a little too hard, as witness my play in the Houston, Tex., tourney, but hard work will remedy that," he says.

Goodman's program for the coming season calls for his participation in the national open and national amateur meets, with the Trans-Mississippi, Western amateur, Nebraska state and Omaha city tourneys as supplemental affairs of which he is less certain.

Dr. O. F., Willing, the portly Portland, Ore., dentist, and Charley Seaver and George Voigt are on Goodman's list as the most likely tough opposition in the 1931 amateur crop.

He minimizes the chances of Jimmy Johnston to regain the crown he won in 1929, and regrets the passing of Bobby Jones from the amateur ranks.

Orphaned at 12, Goodman partially supported nine brothers and sisters with his earnings as a caddie before the skies cleared and he found time to compete in tournaments. Even then he did his competitive playing on a strict basis of economy, living in a portable house during tourneys, as contrasted with the usual luxury of entrants in such affairs.

Tigers Finish Second, Pampa Team Is Third

Nowell Scores 13¾ Counters To Take High Point Honors; Sandies Score 40½ As Burl Bufkin Ends His Career

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, April 18.—Burl Bufkin, Amarillo High school football, basketball and track star, ended his sensational athletic career before a home audience here today to lead his teammates to victory in the third annual Panhandle Olympiad. The Golden Sandstorm scored 40 1-2 points, while Slaton, nearest competitor, chalked up 27. The Pampa Harvesters were third with 24 1-2.

Bufkin won the 100-yard dash, the 440-, and was anchor man on the Sandie team which won the mile relay.

Nowell Does Well

Nowell, of Slaton, took first in both hurdles, second in the 220-yard dash, and earned three fourths of a point as a member of the Tiger second place relay team to win high point man honors. Windom, of Spearman, followed him closely with 12 counters.

Only two new records for the meet were hung up. Bufkin's 52.4 seconds in the 440 and Windom's leap of six feet one inch in the high jump.

Ninety two individual prizes were distributed by the Globe-News, sponsors of the meet, and Amarillo business men.

Abilene, Snyder, Big Spring Win District 8 Meet

ABILENE, April 18. (AP)—Nabbing seven of a possible fourteen first places, the High school Eagles today scored 54 points to win the track and field meet of district 8. Snyder was runner-up with 15, and Big Spring third with 21.

Rain fell at intervals through the morning and the early afternoon and the heavy going helped to preserve all district records but one.

Reid Breaks One

Cecil Reid, lanky Big Spring athlete, galloped the mile in 4:48.3 for the single new mark.

Jack Smith, of Abilene, with 15 points nosed out his team-mate Howard Green, whose total was 14 1-4, for individual honors. Greenfield, of Snyder, and Joyce, of Colorado, who divided laurels in the weight throwing contest, and McClinton, of Snyder, dash and hurdles star, were other high scorers.

ELECTRA WINS IN DISTRICT 4

WICHITA FALLS, April 18. — Electra High school won the District No. 4 interscholastic league track and field meet championship here today by scoring 29 1-4 points to 29 for Wichita Falls; 15 for Olney and 13 1-2 for Graham.

Individual honors went to James Williamson of Wichita Falls who scored 18 points as a result of first places in the 100-yard and 440-yard dashes and 220-yard low hurdles and second in the broad jump.

SAN ANGELO CHAMPS WIN

SA NANGELO, April 18.—Featuring the 1929 and 1930 national and state high school relay champions, San Angelo captured five first places and amassed 66 points to win the track meet of District 18 of the university interscholastic league here today. Eden was second with 34 1-2 points and Sonora third with 22 1-2 points.

The meet was held in the rain.

Nunn-Warren Co. Plans Special To Carlsbad Caverns

PAMPA, April 18. (AP)—A special train, sponsored by the Nunn-Warren Publishing company of the Texas Panhandle and Eastern New Mexico and carrying hundreds of Panhandle people, will be run from Pampa to Carlsbad Cavern, at Carlsbad, N. M., May 2 and 3.

Special rates of less than one-way fare have been made for the special train, according to Dave Warren, manager of the excursion. The train will leave Pampa at 9:30 o'clock Saturday night, May 2, and return to Pampa by 7 o'clock Monday morning.

"The Nunn-Warren company is sponsoring the trip to afford the individual of average means an opportunity to see this wonder of nature," Warren said.

GOLD STRIKE DEPORTED

PRESIDIO, April 18. (AP)—Reports have reached here of a rich gold strike in the Palomir section of Mexico on the Concho river, 85 miles south of Presidio.

Hundreds of Mexicans, men, women and children are washing out nuggets and flakes of gold taking from the soil into the thousands of dollars daily said Victor Perodi, mine operator of that section. Two brothers washed out $36.30 in three hours, he said.

Laugh Team Of Altrock And Schacht Turns To Frowns

Famous Clowns Of Diamond, Unfitted By Temperaments, See Rift Widening

Washington's Duo Of Funny Men Fail To Make Their Peace

BY WILLIAM BRAUCHER
NEA Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 18. Among the phenomena to watch during the baseball season that has just begun to swing along with springtime vigor are those two super-buffoons, of the diamond — Nick Altrock and Al Schacht, coaches and clowns of the Washington Senators. If you watch carefully enough, there is a chance that you may see one of them get killed.

Nick and Al, to borrow a popular word, have gone phht! Almost any day you may hear of Nick popping Al on the chin with a boxing glove that is loaded with nothing funnier that a horseshoe. Or it may be the other way around—there is a chance that in their little soft-ball game, Al may toss a comical 10-pound shot in the general direction of Nick's noble dome. They just don't get along.

How it started and who is to blame remain untold mysteries. But the fact is that these clowns go through their comedy acts day after day, bringing roar of laughter from the stands—and each hoping down in his heart that the other has lumps in his gravy.

Story Investigated

Your correspondent investigated at Biloxi, where the Senators trained, having heard toward the close of last season that the two had decided to get as far away from one another as Kamchatka is from Tallahassee. I found that whenever Nick was, Al wasn't. Once they found themselves in the same room with several of the Washington baseball writers, and Nick suddenly had to go and see a fellow about a dog.

There was a well-confirmed rumor to the effect that last year during one of their clown-boxing exhibitions, the two actually swung real haymakers at each other, and brought them right up from the floor, and no foolin'.

During their winter vaudeville trip, the favorite diversion of the rest of the actors on the bill, it was said, was watching Nick and Al try to push one another into cavernous trap doors off-stage.

Things being as they are, there is more than a chance that they will be trying to bend bats around one another's ears in the form of wooden neckties before the season has gone very far along.

"It's their temperaments that clash," say some of the baseball writers who have been intimate with the two for years. "Nick is sort of easy-going as a rule, but Al is on fire with ambition. Altrock does his stunts on the ball diamond and after he is through he remains in the background. Al is a great fellow to be pushing himself to the front, to keep in the public eye. Al gets sore because Nick doesn't push himself along more. Nick gets sore because Al pushes himself too much. They just can't seem to be friendly."

Nick, by the way, was once one of the best left-handers in the American League. Pitching for the White Sox of 1906, "the hitless wonders," Altrock helped the team to win a pennant and hurled two fine games in the world series with the Cubs. He won the first, 2 to 1, beating Mordecai Brown, and lost the second, 1 to 0, again opposed by Brown. He set a fielding record that stood for years, accepting 11 chances, of which three were putouts and eight assists.

One of the stories told about Nick as a pitcher was his deceptive throw to first base. He used to walk runners deliberately and then nip them off the bag. Nick used a little psychology in this, taunting runners with "sticking too close to the bag," then suddenly trapping them as they accepted his dare to, "take your foot off that bag and you're a dead baby."

Work Goes On

Nick drifted to the minors after his day with the Sox was done. Always tricky in his handling of a ball, he practiced while at Kansas City, and soon "Germany" Schaefer, who was doing a similar clown stunt in the majors at that time, invited Nick to come along and become part of the act.

After Schaefer's death, Nick carried on alone with his shadow-boxing, ball juggling and other stunts for a year. Then Schacht came to the Washington club as a pitcher. Clark Griffith soon decided that as a pitcher Al would make a better clown, so he teamed up Nick and Al as coaches and entertainers. In their years with the Senators they have drawn thousands to the park.

Their "tempermental clash" does not seem to interfere with their work. This year they have been carrying on in the same old slapstick way that delights the fans.

But, as I said before, watch for the hay-makers.

Race Of Certified Hubbies Sought

Modern Hubbies Must Be Able To Do Lot Of Things In Plan Of Frenchman; Qualifications Are Listed

By NEA Service

PARIS, April 18.—If you can't do the 440 in one minute, a running broad jump of three yards, a standing jump as high as your hips, a running high jump as high as your shoulders and climb a fence seven feet high, you're not fit to be a husband.

Those are some of the qualifications the ideal husband who would protect his wife, must have, according to Dr. C. C. Pages and his associates who are seeking a race of certified husbands.

A wife is likely to be accosted by men of the type who turn and run at the sight of opposition, and also of the type who stop at nothing. In order to combat these men the ideal husband must be physically qualified or his married happiness is at stake, the doctors believe.

To train himself, the husband should do twenty minutes of wrestling with an adversary ten pounds more than his own weight, should carry a 140-pound sack of wheat around for a short time, and do a lot of swimming each day.

RANGE CONDITIONS GOOD

SAN ANGELO, April 18. (AP) — Range conditions in the Guadalupe Mountain section of New Mexico are good, according to J. Thomas, forest ranger.

Cattle came through the winter in good shape and prospects are good for a large calf crop this year. Some of the calves are coming now, but in the Guadalupes most of them are due around July 1.

Jim Bausch Decathlon Winner Over Buster Charles As Pair Of Records Fall At Lawrence

Wildcats Also Win Honors In Mile Relay; Longhorn Team Gallops Quarter Mile Just Under Record Holders

By CHARLES A. GRUMICH
Associated Press Sports Writer

MEMORIAL STADIUM, LAWRENCE, Kas., April 18. (AP)—Officials who juggled figures all day, tonight decided James A. (Jarring Jim) Bausch and not Wilson (Buster) Charles had won the Decathlon of the Kansas relays, adding unexpected climax to a day of brilliant performances that included the shattering of two inter-collegiate relay marks.

Bausch, who thus defeated the National A. A. U. Decathlon champion, was entered in the meet under the colors of the Kansas City Athletic club.

Indian Starts Easily

Charles, an Oneida Indian student at Haskell Institute, won the national championship last year at Pittsburgh, and in the first five events of the Decathlon, conducted yesterday, far outdistanced the field. Bausch scored heavily in today's field events, however, and the final score was Bausch, 7846.2203; Charles, 7744.1205.

A swarm of midwestern and far western athletes who participated in the relays also eclipsed numerous meet records.

A. C. C. Does Well

Runners for Abilene (Texas) Christian college stepped the 2-mile college class relay in 7:45.5 for a record eclipsing the 1930 mark of the Pittsburg (Kansas) Teachers, who placed second today. The former record was 8:02.4.

Abilene Christian also won the one-mile college relay, the quarter-milers sprinting the distance in 3:21.3, three seconds over the record held by Oklahoma Baptist university.

The University of Texas quarter-mile quartet was only five-tenths of a second over the carnival record for the mile relay, in 3:20.5.

Can't Get In

Man Attempts To Enter Prison

HASTINGS, Neb., April 18. Ralph Myers is having a hard time getting into prison. He was sentenced to 18 months in the reformatory for forgery. The reformatory refused to admit him because he was not a first offender. Then he was sentenced to the penitentiary and, after he had started habeas corpus action, the court ordered him back to the reformatory. The board of control then sent him back to the penitentiary. The court then ordered him back to the reformatory. Now Ralph thinks he ought to be freed.

State Library Organizer Has Service Plan

Recommendations Made Here For Improving Of Lubbock County Library By Miss E. S. Goree Of Austin

Suggestions for improving the Lubbock county library system were made late last week by Miss E. S. Goree, of Austin, state library organizer, during her visit here.

General description of the ideal county library and specific recommendations regarding the Lubbock system were made by Miss Goree in her conference with Miss Rutillia Eubank, county librarian.

Officials Advised

The duties of the state library organizer, who is a member of the staff of the state library at Austin, are to travel about over the state aiding in the establishing of new county libraries and aiding and advising officials in charge of the libraries now in operation.

"The purpose of the county library is to afford literary service to all people of the county in which it operates, taking in both rural and urban populations," she said. "The state system is striving to reach that ideal situation in the 13 Texas counties now having tax supported organizations.

Opportunities Cited

"The Lubbock county library offers the largest field for service of any of the county libraries now in operation in Texas," she said. "The large area and resources of the county, in conjunction with the natural position of Lubbock as the economical and cultural center of the South Plains, affords great opportunities in library work.

"In order that the Lubbock county library may give more efficient service, and to more nearly approximate the county library ideal, which is to give equal book service to both rural and urban populations, the local library has three vital needs:

"First, it needs the wholehearted support and backing of the public. Secondly, it needs more adequate housing facilities, enabling the offices and book collections to be in the same building, not several blocks apart as is the case at the present time. Thirdly, the Lubbock system needs an automobile, or book truck, to travel over the county and distribute books to people who do not have ready access to the main library in Lubbock, or the branches in Slaton, Idalou and Shallowater; and to give the librarian a means of personal contact with her patrons.

Depend On First

"The two latter needs are dependent upon the first one."

In order to meet the requirements of the state library system and fulfill the suggestions of the library organizer, Miss Eubank issued an appeal to the people of the county to give their fullest support to the system.

"The building up of a commendable library system will be of immeasureable value to the community, and will reflect credit upon Lubbock county now and in the years to come," the librarian said.

Contests Are Held At Tech

Thirty-Two Freshmen Students Of College Enter In Annual Affair; Winners Announced By W. L. Stangel

Thirty-two freshmen students in the animal husbandry classes of the school of agriculture, Texas Technological college, competed in the fifth annual Freshman Livestock Judging contest, W. L. Stangel, head of the department, said in announcing winners.

H. McArthur, Spur, with 684 points out of a possible 800, won first place in the judging. He was awarded the gold medal offered by the college book store.

Other winners were: J. D. Strickland, Silverton, 671; Jesse Young, Cotulla, 658; T. Gentry, Big Lake, 650; W. Harral, Port Stockton, 649, and M. Leslie, Lubbock, 648.

There were 10 classes, as follows: beef cattle, dairy cattle hogs, horses and sheep.

"The number this year was 32 or about four more than last year," Professor Stangel said. "It represents about 40 per cent of the total enrollment of freshmen in animal husbandry.

"More interest was shown this year than ever before. We are gradually increasing our work along this line."

East Texas Oil Men Confer In Austin All Day Saturday

AUSTIN, April 18. (AP)—A group of East Texas oil men conferred all day today in an effort to compose differences over proration of the new fields.

Carl Estes of Tyler, who had led the fight against proration, attended, as did his attorney, Dan Moody, former governor. Among those here favoring proration were C. E. Hardwicke of Fort Worth, attorney for the central proration committee, and C. F. Roeser and Ed Landreth, Fort Worth oil men, who have interests in East Texas.

Oil Lease Broker Seriously Injured In Longview Mishap

LONGVIEW, April 18. (AP)—Albert "Red" Matheson, 26, oil lease broker, was critically injured today when he fell from a fourth-floor window at a hotel here. Officers were investigating reports of eye witnesses standing on the street below that he appeared to have been pushed through the window; but Jack Christie, house detective at the hotel, said he believed Matheson had simply sat on the window ledge and lost his balance.

Physicians expressed doubt that Matheson would recover. His chest and shoulders were crushed.

Refugees Arrive

Selser's co-workers.

Suffering Shock

The only two survivors of the Logtown attack, James Lloyd and Cathey Wilson, both of Fayetteville, Tenn., also were among the Cefalu's refugees. They were under care of a physician for nerve-shock.

These two saved their lives by "playing dead" among the bodies of their co-workers while bandits looted and burned Logtown. When the bandits withdrew at dark, they made their way by separate routes through the jungle to reach the Wawa river and Puerto Cabezas, where they collapsed.

Looting Watched

First reports of renewed Sandino raids came in word from Logtown that the commissary there was being raided and that one or more had been killed.

W. L. Selser, Jackson, Miss., fruit company employe, immediately started into the interior with four of the Nicaraguan national guardsmen to investigate. From a distance, hiding in the brush, they saw the looting of Logtown and hastily returned to report to Captain Pefley of the marines. Pefley took six guards and Selser and his party and they returned to Logtown on narrow gauge motor cars, the only means of hasty travel through the jungle.

The bandits, hiding along the tracks, opened a volley of fire, instantly killing the marine captain and mortally wounding Selser, who was rushed back to Puerto Cabezas by the guardsmen. Selser died aboard the Cefalu, which was standing by in the harbor on Tuesday.

With the national guard in retreat, news reached the port of general raiding and looting of villages, and marine Lieuteant Clyde Darrah, aided by Ralph Beardsley, a civilian, prepared for another advance on the interior with reorganized guardsmen.

The detachment composed of 16 men, traveled on a flat car, piled with sand bags, behind which machine guns were set up to assure passage through the jungle snipers. As they left Puerto Cabezas, word was received that the raiding party numbered not less than 500 men equipped with the most modern machine guns and other arms. On the basis of these advices, the fruit companies hastily send word to their overseers to abandon the great plantations in the interior and bring all Americans to the coast.

But the move was checkmated. Sandinistas not only cut off Lieut. Darrah's detachment by burning bridges behind him and tearing up railroad tracks, but a large force swooped down on Moss Farm, near Logtown, where the plantation overseers had gathered to perfect plans for the evacuation. Four American plantation overseers — Rip Davis, John Bryan, William Bond and Hubert Wilson—were killed in the surprise attack. Their bodies were mutilated beyond recognition.

Public Necessity

Permission for the five Texas ports to adopt the 24 hour basis was granted for reasons of "public necessity and convenience," he said, pointing out that roads development in Mexico had resulted in a heavy increase in automobile traffic into Mexico in the vicinity of the five cities and demand for new hours on the bridges.

"This problem does not exist elsewhere on the boundary," He said. "Traffic at other ports is being handled satisfactorily."

Divorce Action Of Estelle And Jack Is Looming Nearer

SAN FRANCISCO, April 18. (AP)—Hope that Jack Dempsey, former champion heavyweight boxer, and his wife, Estelle Taylor Dempsey, motion picture actress, could be reconciled and would discontinue plans for a divorce appeared to have been abandoned today when their attorneys announced they could not agree.

Robert E. Burns of Reno, Dempsey's attorney, and Joseph E. Scott of Los Angeles, representing Mrs. Dempsey, met in the law office of John and Joseph Taffe here and spent the entire morning discussing demands of their clients.

Chicago Broker Planning Flight

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., April 18. (AP)—Capt. Roy W. Ammel, Chicago broker, who waited almost 10 years until he thought he could afford to attempt a solo flight to Paris and then was prevented from taking off last fall by weeks of bad weather, will try again next month, officials at Roosevelt Field heard today.

After he was finally forced to abandon the trans-Atlantic venture last November, Captain Ammel made a non-stop solo flight to the Panama Canal zone from New York. Subsequently he cracked up in Panama and was badly injured.

While his Lockheed low-wing monoplane was being rebuilt at the factory at Burbank, Cal., Captain Ammel, recovering from his injuries, was studying navigation. He was expected here with his airplane in about three weeks, ready to take off for Paris. He plans to start about May 15.

Port Project Is Under Way

Brownsville Port Which Will Cost $6,000,000 And Valley Has Sought For 30 Years Has Been Started

(By The Associated Press)

BROWNSVILLE, April 18.—Work on the $6,000,000, 25-foot port project for which this city and the rest of Lower Rio Grande Valley have been working for thirty years has been started.

T. W. Foreman, associated engineer at the office of the United States district army engineer at Galveston, has arrived and started the surveys. He brought six engineers with him, and said he will have this work finished in about two or three months.

To Ask For Bids

When the surveys are finished bids will be asked for the dredging, trestle work, and other construction, and the project will be started.

Foreman was in charge of the experiment work on this project by the government three years ago, before it was accepted as a government project. Close to $600,000 was spent then, mainly on the jetties. Foreman said this money was well spent as the channel into the Gulf through Brazos-Santiago pass had deepened itself until it is now 14 feet deep. It was only six feet then.

The government is to spend $2,158,000 on this project, and the Brownsville Navigation District has voted $3,500,000 in bonds to finance a channel to the city of Brownsville. The government has appropriated $150,000 annually for maintenance.

Local Flier Has Completed Tests

Bolstered by only three hours and 15 minutes of instruction in the air, Art L. Chase, 18, of 714 Avenue V, Saturday afternoon passed solo flight tests and a written examination at municipal airport to qualify for a private pilot's license.

R. W. DeLaney, inspector for the aeronautics division of the United States department of commerce, supervised the tests.

Chase is the only student to qualify for a private pilot's license here since establishment of municipal airport, according to his instructor, G. J. Moore, licensed transport pilot, of Lubbock.

The Lubbock youth, a graduate of the local high school, set an unusual mark when he soloed after only three hours and 15 minutes in the air, according to Moore. Chase has completed 11 hours and 55 minutes of solo work, Moore said.

The solo flight Saturday afternoon was made in a Waco-10 owned by W. E. Martin. Chase began study to become a pilot near the end of February.

Owner Of Liquor Cargo Is Under Arrest In Montreal

CORPUS CHRISTI, April 18. (AP)—Arrest of Marvin J. "Big Jim" Clark in Montreal, Canada, in connection with the recent seizure of liquor valued at $120,000 at Beeville was announced here today. United States customs officials will seek to have him extradited. They said he was owner of the liquor seized.

Clark was identified as the man in charge of landing liquor from the rum runner I'm Alone, sunk by the coast patrol in the Gulf of Mexico two years ago.

Corpus Christi Jailer Shot By Two Attempting To Escape

CORPUS CHRISTI, April 18. (AP) County Jailer W. J. Bennett was shot and seriously wounded tonight when two prisoners made a break for liberty. Leo Cody, held on a burglary charge, was captured before he got clear of the building but M. E. Tennyson, held on a forgery charge, made good his escape.

Joe White, night guard, was locking the prisoners in their cells for the night when he was felled with a milk bottle. The men took his pistol and keys and started for the outside door, where they were met by the jailer, who drew his gun.

GOOD RAINS SEEN

SAN ANGELO April 18. (AP) — General rains covered this section today, aiding both farmers and ranchers. About one-half inch fell in San Angelo and heavier rains were reported in many other parts of this area. Small grains will be benefitted and grass will be brought out on the ranges. Moisture averaging nearly one inch fell in fifteen counties.

People of Germany ate over 8,000,000 pounds of American pineapples last year.

High Schools Enter Tourney

League One-Act Play Contests Will Be Held In Abilene On Monday; Winners Will Go To State Meeting

Ten high school groups will be in Abilene Monday at Simmons university for the regional one-act play contest of the Texas Interscholastic league.

Lamesa high school, winner of the Lubbock competition recently, will present "Trifles," the winning play here, Mrs. Carrie Wood Stephens is director. Members of the cast include: Delores Bradfowd, Ethel Lewis, Richard Davis, Cecil Tune and Nelson Williams.

Other schools and their plays and directors are: "Confessional," by Breekenridge, Virginia McKenney; "On Vengeance Height," Crowell, I. T. Groves; "Ile" by Ballinger, A. P. Ligon; "Judge Lynch," by Lometa, Raymond Howard; "The Valiant," McLean, John Harding; "The Sweet Meat Game," Seymour, Alice Dawson; "Submerged," by Sweetwater, Veda Wells; "Submerged," by Plainview, Eppie Irons, and "Dregs," by Toyah, John H. Yoe.

Miss Willie Ray McDonald is manager of the event. There will be first, second and third places, the winner going to Austin May 7-9 for the state tourney.

Four regional mets are being held Monday, at Abilene, C. I. A. at Denton, Southwest Teachers College at San Marcos, and Sam Houston State Teachers college at Huntsville.

Cleanup Drive

The program outlined for this year's campaign is virtually the same as that followed last year, according to Chairman Atkins. The 1930 campaign lasted 12 days.

City Is Divided

The city has been divided into eight districts for inspection purposes. The districts, the chairmen of the inspecting committees, and the clubs from which the committees will come, respectively, follow:

District No. 1 Avenue M to College avenue; Nineteenth street to Fourteenth street; Mrs. N. L. Peters, chairman; University Women.

District No. 2, Avenue M to Avenue A; Nineteenth street to Fourth street; Mrs. W. L. Baugh, chairman; Atheneum club.

District No. 3. Seventh street to First street; College avenue to Blackstone avenue to Avenue M; Mrs. Arthur Brown, chairman; Daleth Delphians.

District No. 4. Fourth street to First street; Blackstone avenue to Avenue D; Mrs. A. T. Biggers, chairman; Lu Beta Delphian.

District No. 5. Nineteenth street to Thirty-fourth street; Avenue Q to Central avenue; Mrs. Alvin Hendricks, chairman; Junior Twentieth Century club.

District No. 6. Nineteenth street to Thirty-fourth street; Avenue Q to Texas avenue; Mrs. E. L. Bank, chairman; New Era club.

District No. 7. Nineteenth street to Thirty-fourth street; Texas avenue to Avenue E; Mrs. W. A. Jackson, chairman; Sorosis club.

Inspection Monday

The first inspection will be made Monday and the second April 28. Plans for Monday's inspection provide that women of the inspection corps will inspect front yards and Boy Scouts the backyards and alleyways. A final review will be conducted the closing day of the drive, April 30.

Eight women's clubs and the Lubbock Boy Scouts were represented at a meeting last week of inspection committee chairmen.

Buttons to be worn by workers in the camapign will be districted when it gets underway. Chairman Atkins said that he expected to issue more than 6,000 of the insignia.

The municipal committee, of which Mayor Clements is chairman, will obtain and supervise operations of trucks for the cleanup. Homer D. Grant and George E. Benson are other members of the committee.

Speakers Listed

Rotary—George Dupree, Roscoe Wilson, C. C. Crenshaw, W. A. Jackson, R. J. Murray, and J. I. Kilpatrick.

Kiwanis—E. L. Klett, W. C. Rylander, George P. Kuykendall, Owen McWhorter, H. D. Woods, and Dr. Fred Standefer.

Lions—Dr. S. S. McKay, Dan Blair, Robert Bean, Jess Levens, Benjamin Kucera, and E. L. Pitts.

American Business club—R. H. Hester, Ben Powell, Wyatt Hester, Victor Bennett, W. S. Ruffner, and C. A. Sheffield.

Speakers are scheduled to appear before the four service clubs at their regular luncheons this week, Chairman Mullican said.

Accented In Schools

The cleanup program will be accented particularly in the public schools, General Chairman Atkins said. Silk American flags will be awarded to the six ward schools for the showing made in their respective districts.

Each pupil will be given a questionnaire to be filled by the parents, specifying the amount and nature of work done at the home during the campaign. Rating of schools in the competition will depend principally on the reports from parents, and general appearance of the territories, the general chairman explained.

The negro and Mexican schools will compete for a $5 award.

An essay contest will be conduct-ed in junior and senior high schools in connection with the cleanup. Cash awards of $5 each will be given winners in each of three divisions designated as follows:

No. 1, sixth and seventh grades; No. 2, eighth and ninth grades; No. 3, tenth and eleventh grades. Miss Dorothy Lomax is chairman of the judging committee.

The awards committee is composed of B. Sherrod, Neil H. Wright, R. J. Murray, Rev. W. P. Jennings, and R. F. Hinchey.

The Boy Scout troop supervising the district receiving the highest rating will receive $15 in cash. Second and third prizes of $7.50 and $5 will be given to troops.

A pageant will be presented by Campfire Girls of Akipsia group before the Lions club Tuesday and the American Business club Friday as a part of the cleanup and paintup program. The six six-minute presentations will be in costume.

Girls who will appear in the pageant under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Conner, guardian of the group, will include:

Maxine Burrus, Beth Holland, Luella Benson, Mathalie Fulton, Maxine Hensley, Voncille Shelby, Margaret Powers, Elva Laura Hall, Lorena Odom, Christine Smith, Kathrine Davies.

Scout Troop 3 Contest Winner

By gathering 135 pounds of rubbish per active scout, Boy Scout troop No. 3, sponsored by the First Baptist church, yesterday won first award in Lubbock's second annual "nail pick-up."

A total of 13,164 pounds of junk, ranging from nails to flivver wheels and dilapidated bed springs, was gleaned from Lubbock streets by the 100 scouts who participated in the contest. The rules of the competition forbid the workers from collecting discarded articles not found in the streets.

Keen Competition

Keen competition between three troops featured the all-day contest. Troop No. 4, sponsored by the First Presbyterian church, placed second by averaging 133 pounds of junk per active scout in the troop. Troop No. 2, sponsored by the First Methodist church, was third with an average of 132.7 pounds.

The results of the campaign were surprising in that more than double the amount of rubbish gathered last year during the first nail pick-up, was turned in yesterday, according to scout officials. In 1930 a total of 5,789 pounds was accumulated by the seven troops. The winning organization last year averaged slightly more than 99 pounds per active scout.

Stacked On Lawn

The gleanings were transported in city trucks to the city hall where it was weighed. Each sack was tagged with the number of the troop gathering the junk. The entire lot was stacked on the lawn in front of the city hall.

In the mobolization contest, Troop No. 8, sponsored by the American Legion, was winner of first place. The troop had 100 per cent of its membership entered in the contest at 8:30 a. m., to official opening time. Troop No. 4, placing second in the nail pick-up, was second in mobilization with 95 per cent of its members present; troop No. 6, sponsored by the Cumberland Presbyterian church, was third with a rating of 90 per cent.

Winning troops in yesterday's contest be awarded penants Friday night at the regular monthly meeting of the Lubbock district court of honor. Winners of first, second and third places in both events will receive awards.

Maria Jeritza Sues Novelist After Publication Of Works

VIENNA, April 18. (AP)—Viennese dinner tables were entertained tonight by those guests who had spent most of the day in a crowded courtroom listening to the testimony in Maria Jeritza's suit against Roderich Mueller Guttenbrunn who, she charges, lampooned her and her husband in his novel, "Riff-Raff."

At one point in the proceedings the court was cleared while the judge read passages from the book describing what the neue freie press calls the "Love Life" of the Heroine, Grete Levita, in whom the metropolitan prima donna contends, the author caricatured her.

Appropriation To Be Talked

Dr. Paul W. Horn Declares That Funds Totaling Almost $1,000,000 For Local School Are Sought

Action on the appropriation measures in the state legislature now in session at Austin is expected to be taken this week, Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of Texas Technological college, said yesterday. The measures include a biennium appropriation of nearly a million dollars for the local school.

The senate Monday will vote on the bill which includes a $250,000 item for the construction of a new building at Tech during the next two years.

Later in the week the house votes on the same measure which does not contain the building item.

With the measures widely apart on many items, it is expected that a free conference of committees of the two houses will be held at which the differences will be ironed out. Dr. Horn said he was hopeful that the senate bill would be adopted by the free conference.

Democratic nominees. Moves have been made in widely separated sections for the organization of "Roosevelt for president club."

France Announces

Opposition to President Hoover within his party has not crystallized into putting up any candidate against him. Former Senator France, of Maryland, has announced for the Republican nomination; but Senator Goldsborough expressed the opinion Maryland Republicans favored a Hoover renomination.

Democratic Marylanders again are backing Governor Ritchie to head the party ticket.

Among southern leaders, the name of William Gibbs McAdoo is being heard anew.

Another dry, backed by numbers of the prohibitionists in the party, is Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, vice-presidential nominee in 1928.

From time to time, the suggestion is heard that Alfred E. Smith be nominated again. He has refrained from any statement of position, but said he would be present at the party convention. Whether he will back Governor Roosevelt, who thrice put his name in nomination, may be a deciding factor there.

Both are for repeal of prohibition. John W. Davis, nominated in 1924 after the celebrated Smith-McAdoo deadlock, recently predicted an opponent of the national dry law would be named again next year.

an offense to show other than eastern standard time on timepieces publicly displayed, daylight saving will be observed by banks, offices, stores and factories in thirty-three Connecticut cities.

Maine has a similar law, but 12 of the state's largest towns will observe daylight saving. Three New Hampshire cities will effect the observance.

Daylight saving is also extending to the south as is shown by the adoption of the new time by Pensacola, Florida.

CLOSE TESTIMONY

KERRVILLE, April 18. (AP)—Testimony was finished today in the trial of B. H. Hunter and his sons, Bert, Skeet, and Jamie, for the slaying of John Conner, former police chief, at Uvalde, December 20. Court was recessed until Monday.

Second Victim

and he did not kill me. I did it, myself, friend."

Gave Up Hope

Physicians had despaired of saving Edmonson's life before he made the alleged attempt to take his own life, according to officers. One physician was of the opinion that peritonitis set in yesterday afternoon, Sheriff Arthur said.

Edmonson maintained his innocence, in connection with the death of Miss Foreman, verbally after he was put back to bed, according to Sheriff Arthur.

"I want to die—I have nothing to live for. People always will say that I killed Elsie. I didn't," Edmonson told the Dickens county sheriff just a few hours before his death.

Cause of Miss Foreman's death last Sunday in a Crosbyton hotel has not been determined. Edmonson told officers that he found her dead beside him when he waked up at 11 a. m. Sunday morning. They were registered at the hotel as man and wife. The man told officers that he and his companion had drunk a quantity of bootleg liquor the night before Miss Foreman's death.

Panhandle Press Ends Convention

PLAINVIEW, April 18. (AP)—The Panhandle Press association at the final session of its annual convention today selected Amarillo as the 1932 convention city. Convention delegates were guests tonight at a banquet given by the Amarillo News-Globe.

T. A. Landers of McLean was elected president; Van W. Stewart, Perryton, vice president; and Lyman E. Robbins, Memphis, was reelected secretary-treasurer. T. E. Johnson of Amarillo and J. M. Noble, Canadian, were elected directors.

Resolutions were adopted urging establishment of an experiment station in the Panhandle area to dispense data useful to wheat growers, urging creation of a state park in Palo Duro canyon and indorsing the work of Panhandle-Plains, Inc., a regional co-operative publicity and immigration organization.

Village Destroyed By Fire; Valuable Logs Also Are Lost

LONG LAKE, Wis., April 18. (AP)—The village of Tipler, five miles north of here, virtually was destroyed by fire today. Twenty two of the 31 buildings in the settlement were razed. One and one half million feet of logs, valued at $40,000 were burned.

Included in the buildings burned were the general store and post office and the Chicago Northwestern railroad's station. Thirty flat cars on which the logs were loaded also were consumed.

Nearly $10,000,000 is to be spent for new school buildings in Prague, Czechoslovakia.

Santa Fe Has Water Plants

Water Softened At 32 Points On Slaton Division, Says F. C. Hamilton, Chemist Of Clovis, New Mexico

The Santa Fe has 32 water softener plants on the Slaton division, F. C. Hamilton, Clovis, chemist who has charge of the work on the division as well as in New Mexico, said while on a visit here.

"We have 14 plants on the old Slaton division and when the Santa Fe took over the Orient we added about 18 more," Mr. Hamilton said. "The Orient had its own system of water treatment and so far we have continued to use it."

"There are five plants, including Lubbock, from Slaton to Farwell. The rest are scattered over the division.

Use Chemicals

"We use about two car loads of chemicals over the division each month in the treating of water for use in engine boilers. Each plant has a slightly different treatment as there are no two waters alike."

Employes of the department in charge of stations must thoroughly understand the methods of softening water. On the plains the water is hard and because of alkali content it is not safe to use it in engine boilers so it has to be treated and the alkali removed. Otherwise the salt would crust the boilers and tubes and the cost of removing it would be several times that of treating it. At the same time the wear of the hard water on the boilers and tubes is lessened by the softening process.

Mr. Hamilton was here to start J. S. Lane, a veteran employe of the department, as head of the Lubbock plant. He succeeds J. S. Stratton who has been here since 1920. The latter has not been assigned to another station.

Two Unidentified Bodies Are Found By Searchers In Fire

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 18. (AP)—Forest fires, which have burned over thousands of acres of timber and brush land in northern Minnesota and Wisconsin, had taken a toll of two lives tonight.

The bodies of two men, apparently overtaken by the forest fires ravaging in that vicinity the last two days, were found late today in a burned over area near Morse, Wisconsin. The bodies, unidentified tonight, are believed to be those of woodsmen or fishermen.

People say: "I would have the house done over, inside and out, if it didn't take so much time, didn't cost so much." We pride ourselves on the fact that our men not only work QUICKLY, but never "muss up" the place in the usual sense. For example, furniture is covered with special cloths. And it doesn't take long because of the large force we can put on the job.

CLEAN-UP PAINT-UP

ALL LUBBOCK JOINS In This National Event

THE CIVIC PRIDE CRUSADE

This is everybody's battle. If one family neglects to buckle on the bright armour of civic pride, that street will suffer and the dragon of neglect will creep into the neighborhood. Indifference and procrastination have more far-reaching effects than most people understand. A slovenly house and grounds reflect the entire section. Garbage under a beating sun can start a disease epidemic that will sweep a town. The Clean-Up. Paint-Up, and Fix-Up Crusade is therefore a crusade in behalf of everyoneand the entire country.

Act today! Join the forces for a better and cleaner city. Remodel that kitchen! Build a new porch! Paint the garage or mow the lawn! Have your house re-wired electrically for better service. Get that extra plumbing job that will mean so much to your comfort! There are hundreds of things to be done! There are thousands of people to do it if all work. It's your civic duty to start cleaning-up, painting-up and fixing-up. Start today! Help make Lubbock a better city!

BRAY FOOL, BRAY

When you get up in the morning
Feeling blue and got the grouch,
Because your clothes are dirty.
And the knees are bagging out.

Please listen while I tell you
For there's nothing else to say,
If you want them done up spink and span
Just take them down to BRAY.

Now, BRAY, you see's a tailor,
And he has a tale to tell,
As how he has a tailor shop
And is doing pretty well;

But BRAY is not a bragging
Yet he does the best he can,
He's making all the men look good,
Except his wife's old man.

Now don't forget the number,
It's laid down in the book,
And all the wires in this town,
Are running to his nook.

So if you cannot bring your clothes,
Try and get BRAY on the line,
And he will call there for them,
At any old time.

Corps Of 1931-32 Lubbock Schools Staff Announced

ld San Anton' To Celebrate 95th Anniversary Of San Jacinto Battle

nnual Fiesta Is To ee Colorful March Through Streets

BY W. A. OWNBY
Central Press Correspondent

AN ANTONIO, April — All arements have been completed for Antonio's annual Fiesta de San nto celebration.

eginning Monday, April 20, there be a continuous round of colorpageants and other forms of sements until Saturday night, il 25. The chief event will be the ual Battle of Flowers parade on day, April 24, in which the milit, fraternal, civic and other patic organizations will take part. he crowning event of the day will n address that evening by Gov- r Ross Sterling of Texas at the ual press banquet.

ommemorate Mexican Defeat

he Fiesta de San Jacinto is held ommemorate the battle of San nto, fought near Houston on il 21, 1836, and which resulted in defeat of the Mexican army un- General Santa Ana by General Houston and his band of Texas nteers.

far back as history goes, San nio always has held a springcarnival. Legend also has it the gay Spanish cavaliers stag- a springtime festival at the nish governer's palace in the when Texas was under the nish rule.

uring the time that the empire he southwest was being ruled by different nations, the "first citi" gathered at the palace of the rnor to pay homage to springthe goddess of promise and perity.

t in 1891 San Antonio was stirby an event—the coming of Benin Harrison, president of the ed States. It was a question what San Antonio could do roperly entertain the chief exive of the nation. That question answered by a Chicagoan, so ory goes, when W. J. Ballard ested that the San Antonio obthe anniversary of April 21—date of the president's visit—anniversary of the birth of the e of Texas. This idea was adopt- a mass meeting of the citizenand a resolution passed fixing celebration "after the manner he flower carnival of Nice and nes."

he former custom of also having g to rule with the queen has revived, and while the identof each is supposed to be guardtil the last minute, it is gen- known that members of pio- families who have had much with the growth and develop- of San Antonio and Texas are ed to these coveted positions.

NEWS LETTER MAILED

Announcement of the Texas Tech coaching school, which will be held for two weeks beginning August 3, is being mailed out to leading papers throughout the Southwest by the publicity department of the college.

Wallace Wade, who recently transferred from the University of Alabama to Duke university, and James Phelan, of the University of Washington, will have charge of the school, the only one scheduled in the Southwest this year. Each day's mail brings enrollment blanks from all parts of the nation. Practically the entire coaching staffs of all Southwestern conference members have signified their intentions of participating in the course.

IS VISITOR

George Waldo Mueller, head of the personnel department of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company, of St. Louis, visited on the Tech campus yesterday. He conferred with Dean W. J. Miller, of the engineering school, various members of the engineering faculty, and students.

MEETING IS CALLED

A. Y. W. C. A. meeting has been called for tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Y. W. office. Miss Wilder is secretary of the Tech branch.

Plans for a week-end retreat for old and new members, which has been scheduled for next week, will be discussed. All members of the cabinet are urged to be on time.

TO MAKE TRIP

Texas Tech's Matador band will go to Plainview tomorrow to represent Lubbock at the Rotary convention to be held in that city. Newell Hughes, Lubbock, registered in the school of liberal arts, is manager of the band. The Lubbock Rotary club will furnish transportation. The group will leave early tomorrow morning.

Dr. W. A. Jackson, head of the Tech government department, is president of the Lubbock Rotarians.

DEADLINE IS SET

Saturday, May 9, has been set as the deadline on all orders for senior caps and gowns. In order to take advantage of the reduced rates this year, all seniors and faculty members are urged to make reservations before the deadline is reached.

Orders for approximately 2,300 invitations were placed last week. These were the final orders for all invitations.

TO TEACH PAINTING

Carl Redin, a landscape painter of national reputation, has announced that he will open a class in painting tomorrow at the college. The size of the class is limited, and all whom are interested in taking the course are asked to see Mrs. James Goodman.

Mr. Redin was formerly with the University of New Mexico, at Albuquerque.

STUDENTS IN PLAY

Several Tech students will take parts in "The Rock," a three act Biblical drama which will be presented this evening at 8 o'clock, at the First Methodist church. This was the prize-winning drama in a contest sponsored by the religious section of the National Drama League of America.

The local production is sponsored by the young people's department of the church. Fiske Miles is director. Special scenery and costumes will be used with a full stage setting.

TO FIRE MATCH

Meeting for the second time this year, rifle teams from Texas Tech and the Texas school of Mines, El Paso, will fire a .30 calibre rifle match tomorrow afternoon. The match will be held from 3 till 5 o'clock. Firing will be on the local .30 calibre range. It will be a four position match.

Students and faculty members, as well as townspeople, are invited to attend.

RECEIVES INVITATION

Professor C. L. Svensen, head of the department of engineering drawing, has received an invitation from the chairman of the division of engineering drawing of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education, H. M. McCully, to speak before its annual convention next summer. The convention will be held from June 17 till June 19, at Purdue university. "What may be done to broaden the field of service of the engineering drawing department," will be the subject of Mr. Svenson's talk.

S. J. Boller, assistant professor of engineering drawing also will attend the meeting.

TO SERVE AS JUDGE

Miss Annah Jo Pendleton, acting head of the Tech speech department, has been asked to serve as a judge in the final oratorical contest which will be held in Amarillo next Tuesday. This contest is sponsored by the Amarillo News-Globe, and the winner will go to the state contest in Austin. All orations will be on the American Constitution.

RETURNS TO TEACH

Professor F. A. Kleinschmidt head of the Tech architectural department, has just returned from San Antonio where he attended national convention of the American Institute of Architects.

Mr. Kleinschmidt obtained many ideas and suggestions which will be of aid to his department, he said.

TAKE OVER STOCK

MIDLAND, April 18. (Special) — Continental Oil company, took over the Tonkawa refinery at Pyote this week through purchase of outstanding stock. It is expected the capacity will be enlarged, as it is reported that Continental owned 50 per cent of the Tonkawa stock before full ownership April 15.

First Baby Born In An Airplane

Lindy is the name of this little chap who little realizes as he sleeps the hours away that he is the first baby in this wide world born in a speeding airplane. He is shown with his mother, Mrs. Alex Miller, an Indian woman, who lives at "Mile 214" on the Hudson Bay railway. Mrs. Miller was being rushed by plane to a hospital at The Pas, Manitoba, when attendants found that they had to turn the cabin of their plane into an emergency maternity ward. Both are doing exceedingly well.

Cotton — Week End Trading Is Fairly Active; Livestock — Heavy Receipts Cause Declines; Grain — Wheat Soars To Season's Level

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, April 18. (AP)—Trading was fairly active in the short week-end session here today and the price trend was moderately upward mainly due to week-end covering and buying on the prospect for unsettled weather in the belt. Liverpool was slightly worse than due and prices opened 1 to 3 points down. As the weather map indicated unsettled weather and the long distance weather forecast was regarded as unfavorable the market promptly rallied due to covering by shorts and more or less trade buying and prices advanced 10 to 12 points from the lows. During the second hour there was a reaction of about points on realizing but the market firmed up again in the final trading making new highs 14 to 15 points above the opening lows. The close was steady, the general market showing net gains for the day of 10 to 13 points.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, April 18. (AP) — Cotton showed continued steadiness today on a renewal of trade buying and covering which may have been coupled with a little commission house demand. No special feature in the week-end news was mentioned in connection with the advance, but the recent steadiness of the market was supposed to have unsettled the confidence of sellers, and led to considerable covering or rebuying. July contracts sold up to 10.56 or 13 points net higher and closed at 10.55 with the general market closing very steady at net advances of 11 to 14 points.

The opinion was expressed in some circles here that the advance toward the end of this week was due largely to the appearance of trade buying on the declines and reports of small spot offerings with a steady basis in the south. The steadiness of the futures market in the face of recent declines in securities is also supposed to have made some impression on sentiment and there has probably been some buying for a rally as well as covering by shorts.

Stock Market Ends Dispirited Week With A Ripple Of Short Coverings

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, April 18. (AP)—The stock market refused to be seriously upset by the wild career of Auburn Auto today and ended the dispirited week with a ripple of short covering.

Pivotal shares, although heavy during the first hour and a half, paid comparatively little attention to Auburn's 41 point plunge, limiting their losses to fractions in most instances. Bears, perhaps because they heard nebulous rumors of an attempted short squeeze next week, but more likely because they decided the market was getting oversold, accepted profits in the late trading and gave a strong tone to the final dealings. Sales approximated 1,300,000 shares, just double last Saturday's turnover.

U. S. Steel advanced in the first ten minutes, but then was struck by fresh selling orders which put it down to the new bear market low of 130, off half a point. A late recovery by the industrial leader was rapid and it closed at 132 3-4, up 2 1-4 net.

Livestock

MIDDLEWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, April 18. (AP)—Receipts of cattle around the eleven market circuit this week numbered 185,173 as compared with 174,596 last week. Excessive receipts at most markets together with an unstable condition at eastern dressed markets caused values on fed steers, yearlings, heifers and mixed yearlings to decline 50-1.00 below prevailing levels of a week ago. Chicago reports that values have dropped back to a par with those of 1926. A few Texas grassers sold at 4.75@6.15 at Kansas City and St. Joseph. Stockers and feeders declined in sympathy with killing cattle and values are mostly 50-75 lower, the bulk selling at 5.75@7.50.

Aggregate number of hogs totaled 430,862 against 397,553 last week. Most points around the circuit show declines of 15-35 on offerings scaling 250 lbs. and down while heavier weights are 15-25 lower.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, April 18. (AP)—Hogs—100, no rails; most truck hogs 5c higher; good to choice 170 to 240 pound truck hogs 7.50; few light lights 7.75; packing sows mostly 6.35, or steady.

Cattle 1,325, including 25 calves. Today's trade nominal. For week: slaughter steers mostly 50-75c lower, spots 1.00 lower; slaughter yearlings around 50 to 75c lower; butcher cows mostly half dollar lower; cutter and low cutters about steady; stock yearlings 25c to 1.00 lower; slaughter calves around 50 to 75c lower. Week's top: strong weight fed steers 8.00; fed yearlings 7.60; fat cows 4.90; practical top heavy fat calves 6.00; choice medium weight vealers 8.00. Bulk prices: slaughter steers 4.25@8.50; better grades fat yearlings 6.25@7.40; butcher cows 3.25@5.00; low cutters 2.25@2.75; heavy slaughter calves around 5.50 down; stock yearlings mostly 5.75@6.50.

Latest Beads Fashion Would Make Hump-backs Of Feminine Wearers

By NEA Service

LONDON, April 18.—Style leaders have put on the market strings of beads which promise to make hump-backs of wearers if they don them for any length of time. The beads are the size of golf balls, and are made of glass. The beads are to be worn with long skirts. They will be "chokers" in all sense of the word, as their weight around the throat is exhausting. Yet, in spite of the discomfort, many women are wearing them because they are the latest wrinkle in the fashion world.

Didn't Win

Excited Man Lays Down Royal Flush

MANANOY CITY, Pa., April 18.—Louis Pieri, cigar store owner was playing poker and drew one hand in a million. The dealer gave him a royal flush. In his excitement Pieri threw cards on the table, face up, automatically rendering his hand valueless as far as winning the pot went. Although he held the highest possible hand in the game, he din't win a thing with it.

Specialist To Speak In City

First Methodist Church Will Be Scene Of Address To Be Delivered Dr. Ray Balyeat, Allergic Diseases Expert

Sufferers from Allergic diseases, including hay fever, asthma, sick headaches and various forms of skin disturbances, are expected to receive the last word in medical advice here on Tuesday evening, May 5, when Dr. Ray M. Balyeat, of Oklahoma City, appears in public lecture.

Sponsored by the Lubbock County Medical society, Doctor Balyeat comes to Lubbock designated as one of America's outstanding authorities on Allergic diseases. He is a member of the medical school faculty fo University of Oklahooma and only recently appeared in an address delivered before the American Medical society, in convention at Boston.

Meeting At Church

The educational building at First Methodist church has been secured for the lecture here, Dr. Allen T. Stewart, president of the society, and Dr. R. L. Powers, secretary, said. Doctor Balyeat, in addition to his address, will use moving pictures and lantern slides to further explain his remarks.

Doctors Stewart and Powers pointed out that the lecture is for laymen, as well as for physicians, and will be presented in terms that can be understood by those unitiated in the study of medicine.

The lecture will begin at 8 p. m.

Two Lubbock Men Join Force Of Oil Company; To Midland

MIDLAND, April 18. (Special) — The California Company has increased its force of employees in Midland by half a dozen men and women during the past month. Two from Lubbock, W. P. Gunn and Pennell C. Kelley were transferred to Midland this week. California has its own laboratories and sample rooms here, as well as large office space in the Petroleum building.

More American cigarettes were smoked in Birtish Malaya last year than in any previous twelvemonth.

Grain

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, April 18. (AP)—Demand for wheat and milo was good at the week-end on the Fort Worth cash grain market while corn, oats and kaffir were dull.

Quotations basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Wheat No. 1 ordinary 81 3-4@82 1-2; No. 1 hard 14 per cent protein 82 1-2@83 1-2; No. 1 hard 15 per cent protein 83 1-2@84 1-2.

Corn No. 2 mixed 71@72; No. 2 white or yellow 73 1-2@74.

Oats No. 2 red 42@42 1-2; No. 3 white delivered Texas group one points 41 1-2@42.

Barley, No. 2 nominally 56@57.

Sorghums No. 2 milo per 100 pounds 1.31@1.33; No. 2 kaffir 1.22@1.23.

CHICAGO, April 18. (AP) — Despite a handicap from weakness shown at times in stocks, wheat soared today to above the season's previous top price level. Active buying of wheat for Europe, about 2,500,000 bushels from North America including some United States wheat, acted as a stimulus, and so too did announcement that France had enlarged the quota of foreign wheat that millers would be permitted to use. In addition, drouth continued over the spring wheat belt both of this country and Canada, with dust storms in Canada reported as the worst that so far have prevailed.

Wheat closed strong, 1-8 cent off to 7-8 up, corn 1-8 lower to 3-8 higher, oats unchanged to 1-8 advance, and provisions unchanged to 8 cents decline.

Road Projects Being Started

Lubbock Will Have Through, All-Weather Connection To Motley County Towns When Highway Is Completed

Two road contracts in Motley county, south of Matador, are being started by contractors on highway 18 which eventually will give Lubbock a through, all-weather connection with Motley county towns and to towns along U. S. highway 62, the Carlsbad Caverns U. S. Highway association's tri-nation route.

W. W. Van and Sons have the contract for two bridges on No. 18 between Matador and the Dickens county line. One is across the South Pease river and the other Dutchman's creek and the total distance for the two bridges is .197 of a mile. Cost, as announced by Guy R. Johnston, construction engineer for this division, is $57,150.09.

At the same time, Huddleston and Work, Crosbyton contractors, have the grading and drainage contract for the same highway. Distance is 12.785 miles and the contract price is $73,586.47.

Hall county has also two contracts, one of 10 1-2 miles from the east side of the road district to Hulver and the other from Turkey to the road district line, a distance of 14.5 miles.

More men and fewer women enroll at the University of Missouri for the second semester of the 1930-1931 school year.

Wants Check For Cash, Not Kisses

Because "a girl can't be expected to live on kisses," June Day, Chicago night club hostess and actress, has sent a lawyer to see her former husband, Kenneth Jopp, scion of a prominent Boston family, to obtain a real check. She says Jopp gave her a check for "1,000,000 kisses," then divorced her. Miss Day was known as Frances Holden on the British and American musical comedy stage a few years ago. Photo shows Miss Day and Jopp when they still were happily married.

Few Changes Are Made In Coming Year

Total Of 169 Teachers And Administrative Officials Are Named; Six New Faces To Be Seen Among Staff

The 1931-32 teaching staff of Lubbock public schools has been selected with the exception of an assistant coach, M. H. Duncan, superintendent, announced Saturday.

A total of 169 teachers and administrative officials will be employed by the system during the coming year, heralded as one of the most active the city has ever known, due to the fact that full-time daily schedules will be back in operation with the completion of the new $630,000 high school building.

Five Changes Made

Only five changes were made in the staff for the coming year, one new teacher being added. The new teacher added was Miss Amy Adrian who is to teach physical education.

The most important change is that of W. B. Chapman succeeding Henry Frnka as head athletic coach and teacher in the high school. W. C. Watts is to succeed H. L. Farrar as science teacher, Miss Velma McCandless is to take the place of Miss Lucille McCann in the Spanish department of the high school. Other changes are: Mrs. A. H. Thornton instead of Mrs. K. N. Clapp in junior high and Mrs. H. W. Broughton in the place of Mrs. Helen Sparks in Central Ward.

WTCC Plans Gaining Momentum

Reduced Rates To Be Offered To Convention

Candidates For Directorate, Young Women To Appear In Pageant, And Contest Entries Are Announced

PLANS for the thirteenth convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce here May 14, 15 and 16, gained additional momentum last week, as candidates for directors posts, young women to appear in a pageant, and entrants in an interscholastic speaking contest were chosen by member-cities.

Reduced railway rates for the convention from points in Texas were decided upon at a meeting of Texas general passenger agents at Brownsville, April 10, according to T. B. Gallaher, general freight and passenger agent of the Panhandle and Santa Fe railway, of Amarillo.

Three Seek Confab

Sweetwater, runnerup for the convention last year, has announced that it will bid for the 1932 assembly of the regional chamber. Mineral Wells and Dallas previously had reported that they would attempt to obtain next year's convention.

Miss Christine Carter, sophomore at Texas Technological college here, will represent Henrietta, and Miss Ariens Sanger, assistant in the office of the Sweetwater Board of City Development, will represent Sweetwater in a pageant which will be presented here the second night of the convention.

Floydada and Slaton previously had announced that they would send Miss Marie Strange and Miss Bettie Pack, respectively, as their representatives in the presentation.

Pageant Written Here

The pageant, "The Spirit of Progress," was written by and will be directed by Miss D'Laural Beville of Technological college. It will be presented on the college athletic field here.

Scenes in the pageant, which will portray history of West Texas, will be centered about the court of "Miss West Texas," who will be crowned by Charles E. Coombes, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, as the opening event of the production. "Miss West Texas" has not been chosen.

Mineral Wells has made the first entry in the My-Home-Town interscholastic speaking contest to be held in connection with the convention, entering Waldo Fletcher.

Winner To Compete

Joe P. Witherspoon, who won the contest for Wichita Falls last year, will represent that city in this year's platform competition. Affiliated cities and towns have named the following directors to be elected by the general assembly for 1931-32 at the convention here, according to Convention Manager Hopkins:

Big Spring, B. Reagan; Brady, G. C. Kirk; Clarendon, T. D. Nored; Eastland, John M. Mouser; Floydada, O. P. Rutledge; Fort Davis, W. S. Miller; Fort Worth, Amon G. Carter, T. B. Yarbrough and Van Zandt Jarvis; Miami, L. G. Christopher; Panhandle, M. B. Welch; Portales, N. M., Coe Howard.

Post, A. G. Surman; Ralls, P. B. Ralls; Ranger, J. E. Meroney; Santa Anna, Fred W. Turner; Seymour, Lem Ballows; Slaton, W. H. Smith; Snyder, O. P. Thrane; Throckmorton, Garland Eubanks; Vernon, R. H. Nichols; Wichita Falls, W. B. Hamilton, A. H. Britain and Walter D. Cline, and Dalhart, W. J. Casey.

Fares Announced

Fares to be offered for the convention from Texas points, as reported by Mr. Gallaher to Maury Hopkins, assistant manager of the West Texas chamber and convention manager, follow:

For distances to 349 miles, fare and a third; from points located 350 to 449 miles from Lubbock, fare and a fifth; for distances of 450 to 599 miles, fare and a tenth and for distances of 600 miles or more, one fare plus $1.

These tickets will be on sale May 12, 13 and 14, bearing final return limit of May 18, Mr. Gallaher said.

Bus lines are preparing to announce convention rates also, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at Stamford has been notified by J. C. Carrington, manager of the Texas Bus Owners association, of Austin.

Expected to be an attraction of considerable proportions, the pageant to be presented here includes color, romance and tradition of early Texas in its first section. A motif of "Texas Under Six Flags" will be executed in this scene, groups of young women of affiliated cities representing France, Spain, Mexico, the Texas republic, the Confederacy, and the United States.

To Show Development

In the second section "West Texas Today" will be the theme. This will portray the beginning of the present development of West Texas and will present an early West Texas scene in which there will be covered wagons, ranch chuck wagons and the pioneer West Texas dance. Then will come a symbolic presentation of the factors that have contributed to the progress and prosperity of West Texas—cotton, grain, poultry and dairy products, livestock and oil.

Concluding the 90 minute program will be a section picturing the future in which "Education and Industry" will be the motif. This will be in keeping with one of the paramount objectives of the convention, stressing the need for industrial development in West Texas.

Invitations Sent

Invitations have been sent to each of the 27 colleges and universities in the territory, as well as to the towns in West Texas and eastern New Mexico affiliated with the regional chamber, to chose young women as their representatives in the historical pageant.

Announcing that it had cast its sombrero into the ring as a candidate for the 1932 convention of the West Texas chamber, Sweetwater indicated that it would be well represented at the assmbly in Lubbock.

The Sweetwater Board of City Development has started preparations for a delegation to Lubbock, the group to be accompanied by the Sweetwater municipal band, which is official musical organization of the Texas department of the American Legion.

The Gypsy Girls, another Sweetwater group familiar to West Texas convention delegates, will come to the convention here, according to John Hendrix, secretary of the Sweetwater organization.

Chief among those working to bring the 1932 meeting to Sweetwater is R. C. Crane, president of the West Texas Historical society.

There Are Dresses Here At Most Every Price —Many Now At Decided Reductions

Regardless of the price you have in mind, there are dresses here just now that will fit into your plan. Recently we have made decided reductions on a great group of decidedly attractive new spring garments. Other assortments have been arranged from new arrivals that are priced at below regular. All in all, the woman who loves pretty things will be able to adorn herself from these offerings at a most moderate figure—one that is well within the reach of every purse.

Three Special Priced Groups, All New, This Springs Purchases, Correct in Every Style Detail

Here are three fine groups chosen from our new spring purchases—dresses that are correct at the moment—dresses that offer wide range of choice—dresses that every woman should see. Really they are decidedly unusual values, garments that you would never expect at such severe reductions this early.

Dresses For $17.70

Regular $24.50 values—a price itself special for in former seasons these same garments were $27.45 and $29.85. Fine solid and printed crepes in both light and dark shades—an assortment of fine spring styles that give you all the new silhouette effects and trimming ideas, choose them now at only $17.70

Dresses For 19.90

Here are fine crepe georgette and printed silk garments — styles that give you the unusual—garments that are entirely correct and new. There are both misses' and women's sizes and styles—travel, sport and afternoon styles. All represent regular $29.85 values. They are priced now for $19.90

Dresses For $26.60

Fine French Room creations—light airy spring shades in crepes and prints — dresses that feature the lacy blouse effects in coat type garments—dresses from some of New York's finest designers. All were regular $39.85 values. The sizes are mostly to 20—you can choose them now at only $26.60

Extra Value At $14.85 Regular

New arrivals in Janelle and other garments are featured at this very popular price. The styles are all most unusual, featuring the vogue for mid season as well as sport wear. Light airy colors predominate. Sizes are well assorted—really values that will look "special" at $14.85

New Garments In Fine Silk At $9.85

New garments have been added to this assortment also—printed crepes in good quality that include the new Polka Dot patterns that promise to be decidedly in favor. These styles are smart—colors correct for now and later wear. You'll find the assortment most interesting at..... $9.85

New Nelly Don Frocks Are Ideal For House, Sport And Street Wear.

These smart new creations from Nelly Don are designed for every day-time occasion. New arrivals have swelled our showing until every conceivable type garment can be chosen now for both spring and summer occasions.

Fine Cotton Prints Range In Price $1.95, $2.95, $3.95

These are the cleverest Nelly Don's we have ever shown—styles that are the most unusual—colorings and trimmings decidedly new. There are garments that every woman loves to wear for so many day-time occasions—garments that fit correctly, give wonderful service — all bear a guarantee of fastness as to color. At these prices you can choose several.

Freshmen Of Tech Crown Miss Gowan As Queen Last Evening

Court Is Made Up Of Other Young Women Who Were In Race For Election; Dance Is Large Event

Mona of the House of Gowen from Estelline was crowned Queen of the sixth freshman class of Texas Technological college Saturday evening in the annual class dance at the Uptown Dance Palace. Her escort was Matt Seymour, of Waco, class president.

The Dance Palace was decorated to represent an imagined bottom of the sea. Russian thistles were colored in imitation of sea weed, and green and white streamers hung from the ceiling of the building, which was dimly lighted.

Queen Revealed

At ten o'clock six freshman boys slowly carried in a platform upon which rested a hugh shell. As they placed this in front of the orchestra pit, a large paper fish lettered with "34" was suspended from the ceiling. Leading the procession was Matt Seymour, dressed as King Neptune and carrying a three-pronged spear with which he prized open the shell to reveal the queen. The shell was white lined with green and Miss Gowan wore a white chiffon evening gown with train of green velvet.

Her only ornament was a string of crystals.

Immediately after the revealing of the queen, the court appeared, coming in couples and meeting at the shell. The young women were nominees in the election for the queen and immediately after they and their escorts assembled, Lonnie Langston, sponsor, crowned Miss Gowan with a circle of brilliants.

These Form Court

Those in the queen's court were Miss Evelyn Heatly and Walter Storrs; Miss Tina Alexander and Homer Hall; Miss Josephine Carraway and Felix Ballenger; Miss Elinor Aycock and Edgar Hull; Miss Ruth Norman and George Cowan; Miss Dorothy Griffin and Drew Dickson; Miss Mildred Price and Sam Spacek; Miss Harriett Roach and Jess Rogers; Miss Beatrice Casteel and Worth Gamel; Miss Opal Parmer and Charles O'Neall; Miss Harriet Swain and Andrew Freeman; Miss Louise Garrison and Henry Long; Mrs. Burdett Cox and Lonnie Langston, sponsors.

Representatives to the court from the sophomore class were Miss Jean Shelley Jennings and Theo Hazelwood; from the junior class, Miss Virginia Bacon and Robert Taylor, and from the senior class Miss Emma Jean Martin and James H. Dallas.

Mrs. Mary W. Doak, dean of women, Mrs. R. M. Chitwood, assistant dean, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Sparks were special guests.

Music was furnished by Frank Stone's Collegians.

There was an attendance of about three hundred persons.

DR. MYERS

Doctor Myers' Dailu Column On Child Welfare

BY GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

DISCERNING MOTHER

"DEAR DR. MYERS: Let me thank you for your fine article in the Sioux City Journal. You understand that children as well as parents are people. You realize that few families have a purse, a cook, and a parlor maid, but that most mothers have to be all these things for themselves. You know that the day has only 24 hours. You know that parents suffer fatigue and temper and other human frailties.

"I have three daughters. The oldest will be five next April, the second will be two in April, and the youngest is five months old. The oldest is a very easy child to raise. She could say 'mama' at six months, laced her own shoes at two and a half. I believe she could have done it sooner without mistake if she had had laced shoes. She does nearly all my marketing now, remembering two or three articles, never making a mistake. She leads in play and plays happily with every one from the laundress to the neighbor's baby.

"She is obedient in what I call a positive way, that is, she nearly always minds when I tell her to do something, but frequently keeps on doing something I ask her not to do. However, thanks to your articles, I have almost ceased to give orders and have substituted requests. She has never been jealous of her little sisters, has no fears, goes to the doctor's alone to be vaccinated and has never asked, 'What can I do?'

"But I have noticed that my little daughter is pretty 'bossy' with her playmates. How can I stop this? She says something, then tells them what to reply, and much of their play is carried on in this way. She is impatient also. My remedy for this is calmness and it has some effect, but not as much as I wish it had.

"The second child is more of a problem. She is anti-social. Frequently plays by herself when other children are here, does not talk much and only learns to say the few words she wants to use. She is obedient.

"I believe this child is brighter than the older one. How can I stimulate her interest in people? There might be a fine philosophical question involved as to whether living in Gopher Prairie one might not happily turn one's eyes on Athens, but I do not want her to live in a looking glass.

"The only thing in any of your articles that I have found impractical is the one where you advise parents never to allow the small child to damage books. I distinctly remember having linen books, and I am sure I

Stage Is Set To Present Play Here Monday Evening By Little Theatre

Final arrangements have been made for presentation of the charity play, "The Intimate Strangers", Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the Palace Theatre, according to the director, Arthur L. Brown. The Little Theatre is sponsoring this play and the entire proceeds are to go to the United Charities and the Salvation Army.

Ticket sales have been carried out through the week-end and a large crowd is expected for the performance on Monday evening, those in charge have announced.

"The Intimate Strangers" is a three-act comedy by Booth Tarkington and a small town railway station and home are backgrounds for action.

A cast of local people, some of whom have had considerable previous stage experience, has been chosen for this show. In the order of their appearance tomorrow evening, these are: R. L. (Bob) Stephenson, W. O. (Dan) Daniels, Mrs. Alfred B. Strehli, Miss Alene Spears, Audrey Brown, O. W. Ribble, Mrs. W. C. Rylander and Mrs. J. H. Eubanks.

Officials of the Lubbock Little Theatre have been promoting this production and have sponsored the ticket selling campaign during this week-end. Mr. Daniels is president of this company and Arthur Brown is vice-president. Mrs. G. E. McCelvey is secretary, Mrs. France Baker is treasurer, L. Wesley Read is chairman of finance, Mrs. B. C. Dickinson has charge of advertising, Mrs. R. A. Mills is in charge of properties with F. A. Kleinschmidt as stage manager and C. W. Ratliff as publicity chairman. Play readers for the organization are Don Murfee and A. M. Hill.

Among those in the play cast who have had previous Little Theatre experience are Mr. Daniels, Mrs. Strehli, Mrs. Rylander, Miss Spears, and Mr. Ribble, Mr. Brown has had a number of years of professional stage experience and Audrey Brown has appeared with the Harley Sadler company.

Although their experience has not been with the Little Theatre, Mr. Stephenson and Mrs. Eubanks have had considerable amateur stage experience here and in other Texas cities.

All who are connected with this production are donating their time and such expenses as they have in order that the entire amount of the proceeds may be used for the charitable organizations of Lubbock. This will be the only Little Theatre production of the year.

Merry Bidders Of City Entertained

Mrs. K. Carter entertained for members of the Merry Bidders Forty-two club in her home at 1412 Avenue L Friday afternoon.

Five tables were arranged for the games. Pansies were featured in score pads and tallies.

Guests included Mesdames R. H. Moore, J. N. Nislar, A. B. Davis, E. P. Norwood, F. V. Brown, Guion Gregg, W. C. Rylander, Temple Ellis, S. A. Henry, J. H. Moore, E. C. Young, W. O. Stevens, L. B. Exhibit Of Etchings Will Be Shown By Club; Have Shows

Members of the Lu Beta Delphian chapter are sponsoring a picture show of wood cuts, sculptoring and engraving on Wednesday and Thursday evenings of this week at 8 o'clock in the Tech Engineering building auditorium. F. A. Kleinschmidt, head of the architectural school, will explain the processes. A silver offering will be made.

During the week the chapter is to sponsor an art exhibit of etchings. This will be in the engineering auditorium, also.

Raw silk exported from Japan last year weighed 63,643,333 pounds.

Installation Of Officers In P-TA Will Feature Events For This Week

Installation of officers in several parent-teacher associations of the city will be events of note in the calendar of club and social events for Lubbock this week.

Routine affairs for organizations will fill the week for local women. A detailed list of announcements includes the following:

MONDAY

Members of the First Methodist W. M. S. will meet in circles as follows: Circle 1 with Mrs. J. W. Watson, 2124 16th street; Circle 2 with Mrs. C. E. Maedgen, 1823 Broadway; Circle 3 will meet at the church; Circle 4 with Mrs. Minnie Jackson, 1616 Avenue Y; Circle 5 with Mrs. W. D. Each Club To Have Member On Committee

Incoming Presidents From The Federated Clubs Named On First Committee For Further Appointments

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Woman's Editor

GENERAL policies for entertaining the Texas Federation of Women's clubs here next November 10 to 12 were outlined and a general committee was appointed to start arrangements Friday noon at a luncheon attended by presidents and presidents-elect of women's clubs at the Hilton hotel.

This meeting was called by officials of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and was presided over by C. E. Maedgen, president of that body. Presidents who could not attend sent representatives from their clubs.

A committee, composed of incoming presidents of Federated clubs, was appointed at this meeting. Members of this group will select representatives from their respective clubs to act on a central committee to make arrangements for the Federation entertainment in November. These club representatives will select a chairman to head all arrangements for the convention, according to a decision reached in the session following the luncheon.

Chairman Named

The president-elect of Lubbock's pioneer Federated club, the Twentieth Century society, was appointed temporary chairman of the committee named at Friday's luncheon and will preside at the meeting of that body, those attending the meeting voted. A report is to be heard from this committee soon on appointments to the Federation steering committee.

Representatives of clubs, other than those affiliated with the Texas Federation of Women's clubs, who were at the meeting, pledged support in the entertainment that Lubbock shall offer to club women next fall.

Those who attended the meeting were Mesdames J. H. Howze, O. R. Copeland, S. B. Haynes, O. L. Peterman, George Field, J. H. Hankins, William Dingus, J. H. Goodman, R. L. Douglas, C. E. Maedgen, R. S. Williams, E. L. Robertson, James H. Kimmell, E. L. Banks, C. M. Ballenger, Mary W. Doak, C. M. Hinds, George N. Atkinson, J. S. Johnson, Misses Jonnie McCrery, Margaret Weeks, Janie Ruth Shepherd, and Blanche Bean, A. B. Davis and Garnet Reeves.

Contest Is Inaugurated In Lubbock Girl Scout Troop 2

A contest between patrols in Troop 2 of the Girl Scouts was initiated Friday evening in a meeting at the First Christian church. The contest is to last for three months.

Those who attended this meeting were Mary Barker, Mildred McClain, Doris Gore, Margaret Ruth Wilson, Evelyn Cook, Merla May Horton, Pauline Smith, Inell and Frances Creel, Thelma Meador, Winona Cook, Etolie McLeod, Bess Brown Lomax. The lieutenant, Christine Anderson, and captain Mrs. C. C. Mansell, were in attendance.

Maggie And Jiggs Club Party Is Given By F. McCrummens

Mr. and Mrs. Frazier McCrummen entertained for members of the Maggie and Jiggs Forty-two club in their home Friday evening.

Games of forty-two were played and at the close of the evening an ice course was served. Guests were Messrs. and Mesdames J. C. Oslin, O. C. Moore, W. H. Trice, D. Williford, L. D. Casey, A. T. Cocanougher and J. D Hinson.

Definite Program Is Announced For Educational Rally Here

The Woman's Angle

Avalanche Woman's Editor

TODAY we are running, a few columns over, an interview with Mrs. Jack W. Loeb, the woman who belongs to more clubs in New York than any other woman. She is a veteran among club women who go in for things with a serious purpose; she belongs to 49 clubs; she attends them and is, in fact, as much of an organizer as a joiner.

The interview is being run because most club women are going to be interested in reading it, we believe, and yet this is an opportunity I can't resist to say that 49 clubs are too many for any woman in the world to be affiliated with.

Women's clubs certainly have a place in every town, particularly those with a purpose, but no one should make club life the whole of existence, Mrs. Loeb does not, she assures us. She has breakfast with her husband. She spends her evenings with him and gives some time to her home. And, even though she is in a position to belong to these clubs and to hire someone else to run her home, 49 clubs are to many for one woman to have affiliation with.

To me, the most ideal of club women is the one who has a home and family and who places these interests above any society. We have them in Lubbock. Club work is fascinating to them, it is interesting, but it must always be subordinated to the interests of their husbands and children. And that is as it should be.

Of course, I suppose, most of us have no desire to belong to 49 clubs. Think of the energy necessary to attend the meetings. Maybe I'm terribly lazy, but that is a job I wouldn't have and that is speaking as a club woman because I belong to three and can't possibly get around to each of them once a month because of the time they consume.

Seriously, Mrs. Loeb may be doing a good job of running her home while she is attending all of these club meetings, but if she is her home requires less time than most of them.

This isn't a treatise on the old back-to-the-home movement for women. The good old days when a woman couldn't do anything except stick around the house rearing a large family, cooking and washing clothes is past, since women have found that they can be wives and mothers and preside over happy homes without being slaves. Most women realize that they are more interesting and better prepared to care for a home if they have contacts, if they read and exchange ideas with other women—if they have some club life. But the average woman—and even most of those who are not in this average class—is going to curtail her club work considerably more than Mrs. Loeb has done.

VELVET SASHES

REMEMBER the old days when we wore velvet sashes? They're back. Every printed summer dress will have its velvet sash, a stylist says this spring.

WE LIKE THIS

AND now that we have got ourselves all involved in vitamins and everyone is eating them while few know why, we are faced with the further dilemma of eating manganese.

Someone has the theory that four twenty-fifths of one percent of manganese in the diet appears responsible for mother love and a lot of editors have taken time out during the last few weeks to advocate feeding women more manganese.

And now here comes one advocating that men be fed something too, since women aren't the only people lacking in the milk of human kindness and brotherly love and all of these other things included in the term mother love.

Which provides me with an opportunity, feminist that I am, to offer the writer some congratulations. To believe some people, women are a hard, cruel lot making life miserable for a group of long-suffering men. And life isn't that bad.

REMEMBER THE GIRLS

WHILE we are looking forward to our women's conventions next fall and making plans for them, we should not forget the state meeting of high school girls which is taking place in Lubbock the last of this month and the first of May.

As with other meetings of this sort, Lubbock isn't going to have an opportunity to offer a lot of entertainment because the girls have a full program outlined, but what opportunity we do have should be accepted.

This is the Homemaking Educational Rally of Texas High schools which meets here April 30 to May 2. At that time it is expected that several hundred high school girls are going to visit Lubbock.

And, of all our conventions, this one is going to be made up of young women of the most impressionable age. What we offer to them will be accepted with all of the enthusiasm of youth and their meeting will offer to an older generation an opportunity. This convention should not be limited in interest to any one group—high school, college, or mothers of high school girls. It should hold interest for every woman and school girl in the city.

Arrangements Made Through Lubbock Body

State Education Division Has General Charge Of The High School Girls' Meet To Be Held First Of May

DEFINITE programs have been arranged for the various meetings which will make up the annual Homemaking Education Rally of Texas High schools here April 30 to May 2.

This rally has grown out of the annual Girls' Clothing contest which has been attended by high school girls over the state during the last eleven years. It includes the contest and additional educational features which are in home economics courses in high schools.

Working with the state educational leaders, a committee of local citizens has arranged this program, which is expected to be attended by about five hundred high school girls.

The rally is conducted under the supervision of S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of public instruction; Miss Lillian Peek, state supervisor of home economics education; Miss Bernice Mallory, assistant state supervisor of the home economics education, and Mrs. W. A. Craddock, secretary, with the local assistance of the home economics departments in Texas Technological college and the Lubbock High school.

Subordinate Social Life

Social features have been arranged to complement the regular program of the rally, although the educational purpose of the meeting is expected to supercede contests and other features in interest.

In addition to the arrangement of exhibits, there is to be a meeting of home economics clubs on Thursday, the first day of this rally. Of the four pupils that each school will be allowed as delegates to the meeting, one will be elected to attend this home economics club meeting.

The following day will be devoted principally to judging, with the closing program on Saturday morning. The entire program is divided into three parts: state club meeting; individual entries and group entries.

Individual entries may be in child care and guidance, clothing and posture, foods and hospitality, household decoration and furnishing. Group entries will include exhibits of play suits, layettes and publicity portfolios.

A drive over Lubbock which will include the new high school building, the home economics building at Texas Technological college and the textile engineering building there will precede a tea at the Tech home management house on the first afternoon of the meeting. A banquet will be served on Friday evening, compliments of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, and program features will be furnished by local talent on Saturday morning. The Lubbock Parent-Teacher council and the chamber of commerce are assisting in the sightseeing tour.

Mrs. Jennings Chairman

Mrs. Walter P. Jennings is chairman of the central committee on arrangements here and her committee members are Miss Gertrude Daniel, Miss Margaret W. Weeks, Mrs. Walter W. Royalty, Miss Blanche Bean and Garnet Reeves.

Mrs. Richard L. Douglas is chairman of the banquet committee, which is composed of Mrs. W. H. Bledsoe, Mrs. C. J. Wagner, Miss Jonnie McCrery, Miss Ella Mae Lyle, Miss Jean Dorral and Miss Nell Parmley. The Saturday morning committee program has Miss Weeks for a chairman and is composed of Mrs. Edna Buster and Mrs. Bob Russell.

Mrs. Royalty, president of the Lubock Parent-Teacher council is chairman of the committees on transportation and information and she will have as her assistants members of the parent-teacher associations here. This group will also arrange for an information desk for the delegates. The publicity

Mrs. Jack Loeb Is Champion Clubwoman Of The World

BY PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, April 18.—"Yes, I suppose I am the world's champion clubwoman. If I belong to more clubs than any woman in New York and there are more clubs here than in any other city, then it must be so. But don't think I'm ashamed of being a 'joiner.' In most cases I was an organizer.

"Clubs are the finest advantages women have today . . . they're a college, a finishing school, for women. Clubwomen keep more up-to-date, look better, live longer, are healthier, and take more pride in their homes and their families than their usual sisters . . ."

Meeting to Meeting

Mrs. Jack W. Loeb speaking. A new edition of the clubwomen's register had just showed her to be the clubbiest woman in New York, and she had left an important meeting to tell about her membership in 49 organizations. She talked hurriedly, though, and looked often at her watch. For in exactly 15 minutes she had to dash for another meeting.

"Yet, there are 49 in all . . . . I wasn't quite sure just how many there were, so I just had my secretary check up on them for me. I suppose you want to know how I find time for them. Well, they're my career, my life, and I work hard at them . . . three or four meetings a day sometimes. Committee meetings, too, and papers to be written and social work to be done. I'm an officer of some sort in most of them and president or past president of many.

"People say I must have been endowed with unusual vitality. That isn't true. It's the work that keeps me on my toes."

Her Souvenirs

Vitality she certainly has, anyway. Small, plump, snowy-haired, her brown eyes sparkle with animation. Her luxurious home off swanky Riverside Drive is filled with evidence of her gregariousness. Cups, medals, pictures, diplomas tell how she began clubbing in her girlhood, how she organized the Police Women's Reserve, how during the war she was the second woman in uniform, worked for suffrage, traveled widely, dabbled in politics.

She is the wife of Jack W. Loeb, one-time theatrical partner of William Fox. He is retired now, and spends most of his time at just one club. But he sympathizes with her activities, even admires her political diligence despite the fact that she is an ardent Democrat and he is a Republican state committeeman. The only topic on which they can't converse amiably is the tariff.

No Children

"No," continued Mrs. Loeb, "I haven't any children. I wish we did. But like all other clubwomen who have none of their own, I've devoted a lot of my life to the interests of other children . . . 18 years of social service work, and I'm president of an orphan asylum auxiliary. But I think most clubwomen have as many children as other women, and I'm sure they care for them better, on the average. Club work teaches them the best methods of care and training . . . and any women who neglected her family would

MRS. JACK W. LOEB—CLUBS ARE TRUMPS WITH HER

Mrs. G. E. McCelvey, Jr., Is To Be On Program At State Meet

Interest In Musical Groups Is On State Federation Meeting In Session At Temple During This Week

Interest of musical circles in Texas is centered this week on the sixteenth annual convention of Texas Federation of Music clubs which convenes in Temple from Tuesday through Saturday.

Mrs. G. E. McCelvey, jr., is a representative from the Lubbock Music club and she is to contest in the soprano senior group.

Mrs. J. O. Montrief, of Fort Worth, is finishing her second year as president of the State Federation. General arrangements for the sessions are in charge of Mrs. R. E. Wendland, of Temple.

Cadman To Appear

High lights in the convention include a lecture recital by the distinguished American composer, Charles Wakefield Cadman, best known for his adaptations and interpretations of music of the North American Indian. Mr. Cadman is to be honor guest at a luncheon Thursday at which Mrs. McCelvey is to sing. Mrs. John F. Lyons, prominent in music circles in Fort Worth, who has visited in this city, will also be a guest of honor at the luncheon at which Mrs. Robert Wylie, of Abilene, who is state chairman of the department of American music will preside.

The feature of Thursday evening will be a presentation of an opera, "The Flower Fair of Peking", by the Harmony and Arion choruses of Fort Worth, directed by Sam Losh. This opera was composed by William J. Marsh, of Fort Worth. Fifty voices and a fifteen piece orchestra will be used in the presentation.

Entertainment

In the afternoon on Thursday Mr. Cadman is to give a lecture recital.

Entertainment during the convention includes a drive and tea at Baylor college, Belton, a pioneer tea, courtesy of Temple City Federation of Women's clubs, Mrs. Walker Saulsbury, presiding, and a garden dinner and comradeship luncheon.

The convention opens Tuesday with a luncheon to be attended by district presidents and vice-presidents of the state and districts. Mrs. J. D. Turk, of Amarillo, is to be one of those in charge at this meeting.

Culture Of Bulbs Discussed Friday When Club Meets

The culture of bulbous flowers was the theme for a meeting of the Lubbock Garden club Friday afternoon with Mrs. A. H. Leidigh, 2101 17th street.

H. J. Kendricks talked on "Dahlias" and a discussion of "Water Gardens and the Making of Garden Pools" was given by Miss Mabel Erwin. Mrs. J. B. Jackson discussed "The Growing of Gladioli".

The president, Mrs. George N. Atkinson, presided during a business session, and it was announced that the rock garden in the Lions park will be sponsored by the club, under the direction of Mrs. E. L. Reed. A committee on the repression of the distribution of circulars made a report.

The next meeting will be conducted at the State Experiment farm near Lubbock on May 15.

Quarterly Bridge Club Party Given

Mesdames Maple Wilson, Charles Rush, Rufus Rush and Carl Slaton joined in entertaining for members of the Congenial club and their husbands Friday evening in the Wilson home at 2409 Broadway.

This is a quarterly social attended by club members.

Tables were arranged for bridge games. Fred Caylor made high score for men and Mrs. H. L. Allen high score among women, while Mrs. M. C. Butler was high in a cut.

Guests were Messrs. and Mesdames Vernon Brown, T. J. Foster, W. H. Crunk, E. C. Henley, Harry Hunter, Howard Pearson, K. L. Riggs, Will Morgan, Caylor, Harry Miller, Dr. and Mrs. G. C. Turner, Dr. and Mrs. R. L. McAlister, Mesdames Byron Brown, W. S. Moss, and Messrs. Rufus Rush, Charles Rush, Carl Slaton, and H. L. Allen.

Lubbock County Girl One Of Two To Represent Texas This June At Washington Meeting

Club Delegate

MISS BESSIE MOORES

Boys Club Representatives Are From Same Counties With 4-H Delegates Who Were Chosen

COLLEGE STATION, April 18—Bessie Moores of Lubbock and Trula Morrow of Wellington are the two farm girls named as Texas representatives of 4-H girls' club work for the National 4-H Club Encampment at Washington in June. Miss Bess Edwards, assistant state home demonstration agent of the Extension Service, Texas A. and M. College and the United States Department of Agriculture, has announced.

By curious coincidence the girls hail from the same counties as the boy representatives previously announced, Jim Potts, a Lubbock county boy, and Buster Worley, who lives in Collingsworth county. The expense of the boys' trip is borne by the Texas Bankers' Association while the girls' expenses are defrayed from profits from the boys' and girls' club refreshment stand operated each year at the Farmers Short Course at A. and M.

The girl winners were selected from a field of more than 1,200 entrants in this fifth annual contest, judging being on the basis of excellence in the productive demonstrations of gardening, dairying and poultry keeping, food preservation and preparation, clothing construction and home improvement activities.

Bessie Moores, a girl with four years club experience, shows profits for the past year above cash outlay of $521.27 from productive demonstrations under supervision of Miss Ruth Stockton, Lubbock county home demonstration agent. In addition she did all her own sewing and most of that of the entire family; canned 99 containers of food, and took a leading part in re-making the farm home into a more livable place by improving the living room and her own bedroom.

Quilt Is Quilted By Women In Loyalty Club On Friday

Loyalty Club members quilted a quilt for a family whose home recently burned Friday afternoon at a meeting with Mrs. T. T. Fisher, 805 Avenue M. Mrs. J. W. Hayworth had the club devotional and Mrs. L. J. Akers led in prayer.

Those who attended were Mesdames S. M. Bonds, Akers, J. P. Middleton, Hayworth, W. E. Lowery, H. W. Diebel, W. J. Slover and T. T. Fisher. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Middleton at 1604 Avenue Y.

Mesdames W. O. Stevens, W. C. Rylander To Entertain

Mesdames W. O. Stevens and W. C. Rylander are to entertain the 24-42 club at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon in Mrs. Stevens' home, 1405 Avenue O.

Young People To Give Play This Evening

"The Rock" To Be Presented At First Methodist Church This Evening; Students To Have Part In Drama

"The Rock", prize winning religious drama from a contest eight years ago conducted by the religious division of the National Drama League, is to be presented at the First Methodist church this evening at 8 o'clock. The play is under the direction of Fiske Miles and is being presented under the auspices of the young peoples department of the church.

Settings of the play are taken from Biblical times. It is a three-act production. Scenery is by Doris Baugh and Evelyn Sowell. Music is to be furnished by the church orchestra under the direction of J. B. Galland.

The play reveals the character development of Simon Peter, a character played by Richard Cavett. Other characters are: Adina, his wife, Melbria Pirtle; Deborah, her mother, Evelyn Sowell; Ucal, her uncle, J. W. Timmons; Mary of Magdala, Eileen Graves; Pandira, a Greek, Garland Smith; Titus, a Roman officer, Carol Thompson. Agur, a physician Preston Connor and servants.

did not care for them very well, yet I love good books now.

"Last may I thank you for keeping citizenship in its proper place. Of course, we want our children to be good citizens, else they could not be happy. I deplore the tendency of many 'modern' and usually childless experts to idealize the heartless, soulless, efficiency machine and to deprecate the things that make life pleasant."

Answer: Your letter encourages me more than I can tell you. The things you say I have done I have tried very hard to do, but was not sure anybody appreciated them.

The sympathy and insight in regard to your children almost overwhelms me. Indeed, I hesitate to offer you any advice with the picture of the family and an understanding father you portray. I just wish Mrs. Myers and I could drop in on you some evening and share the atmosphere.

Just go on doing the lovely things with your children you have been doing, and they can't go wrong.

Graduates Are Open To Work

About Half Of Agricultural Class At Texas Tech Has Something Definite To Do, Dean Leidigh Says

"About 50 per cent of the graduates of the school of agriculture are open to professional employment," Dean A. H. Leidigh of the school, said in response to a query as to what the graduating class would do after completing scholastic work.

"I think that about half of the graduates already know what they are going to do," the dean said. "Some of them will go back to their farms and others have jobs or have just about completed arrangements for jobs.

"By the first of October, if not before, all of the graduates of the school of agriculture will be employed, I believe."

Dean Leidigh explained that some of the graduates had set their minds towards a definite goal in their professional work and they were not planning to deviate much from that goal. A number have chosen special research or other lines of agricultural work and if an opening is not available by the time school closed, these students probably will wait a bit before making a permanent connection, he indicated.

Of the 38 graduates of the school of agriculture up to the 1931 class, Dean Leidigh said, only two are not now engaged in some form of agricultural activity.

Two Visitors Attend Sanders Aid And Hear Bible Teaching

Fourteen members and two visitors attended a meeting of the Sanders Aid society Friday afternoon in the Church of Christ at 5th street and Avenue G.

Mrs. C. A. Bickley taught the Bible lesson.

Visitors at this meeting were Mesdames B. R. Brady and Palestine Miller. Members of the society who attended were Mesdames W. L. Brady, Bickley, Tom Foster F. A White, J. W. Bull, D. C. Young, B. Parks, L. D Walls, J. T. Hart, E. M. Anderson, A. D. Threadgill, C. E. Kirby, Carl Peters and Stephen A. Claye.

be a social outcast with us.

"I love my husband and he comes first in my life. Why, I'm even obedient, and proud of it. Busy as I am, I believe I see him more than most women. I'm always up at 7 o'clock, do a little writing, breakfast with Mr. Loeb, and drive him downtown. I always call for him in the evenings, too, and we have dinner together, and generally the whole evening."

There is, she admits, not a little competition among women "joiners." But she condemns the movement both for its snobby attitude and its great expense. The average woman, she believes, should be a member of only two or three clubs at most, and work hard in their interests.

Clubs are always trumps in the life of Mrs. Loeb, but not one on her list of 49 is devoted to social frivolity such as cards or dancing, though she loves both as pleasures to be indulged privately. Her organizations are of serious intent — for the study of virtually every subject from the arts to politics, sociology and parliamentary law. They range from the Ray Current Event Club, Inc., the Portia Club, various foundations and commissions, to the Godmothers' League, Life as a Fine Art, and the Women's Organization for the Free Synagogue.

She has long been a leader in women's groups seeking civic reform and is a member of city, state and general federations of women's clubs. She directs an hour's program every week on a radio station. In 1918 Mrs. Loeb decided to go to school again, and took a law degree at New York University. She was the first woman to present movies for the study of Bible stories and supervised them for three years in her capacity as chairman of the Council of Jewish Women. She is proud of the fact that a tree already has been planted for her in the Honor Grove of Central Park.

"Well," she continued, "I came by this sort of thing naturally, enough. My mother was one of the busiest clubwomen of her time. There were only a few dozen clubs in existence in those days, while now there are 484, but my mother was very active.

"I was born in Pottsville, Pa., practically a country girl. But I went to finishing school and we traveled all over the world. From my earliest days in club life I was known as a perfect beggar in charity work. I dared to ask for anything, and generally got it. I seem to have lost the knack now. Besides, I'm too busy. If someone wants me to sell tickets to a benefit, I just buy them myself, and let it go at that.

Night Clubs Out

"I believe in women. I think they're fine . . . they stick together better than men do. Clubwomen really are doing something, and they have something to say. They can talk faster and straighter than men, and have learned to think on their feet.

"They're better wives and mothers, and pride if nothing else would make them so. They don't live out of cans, or dress sloppily, or have breakfast in bed at noon. Clubwomen haven't time to be night club women.

"You'll excuse me? I have a meeting now. And I'm always punctual."

Girls Rally

committee is composed of Misses Blanche Bacon and Bean.

Exhibits for the rally will be arranged on the first day, beginning at 8 o'clock in the morning and the meeting of home economics clubs will follow at 1 o'clock in the Matador Ball room of the Hilton hotel. At 2 o'clock the drive is to start and it will be concluded with a tea at 4:30 o'clock.

There is to be a theatre party in the evening at the Lindsey for the girls.

Judge On Friday

Friday's program begins at 9 o'clock with the judging and this will continue through 4 o'clock in the afternoon at the Hilton hotel. A banquet will be served at 7 o'clock in the evening at the Dubbock hotel. At this time greetings will be extended to the delegates from the chamber of commerce, and the parent-teacher associations. Miss Nell Parmley will sing, the Amarillo Home Economics club will appear in a feature, the High School Boys chorus will sing, state home economics leaders will be introduced and several other novelty numbers will be given.

Speakers for this program will be M. H. Duncan, superintendent of public schools here, and Tom Garrard, a representative of the state board of education.

The final program of the convention is to be on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the Lindsey theatre. This program will open with music by the Lubbock High School band. Grand entries will follow and these will be followed by musical selections by the Lubbock High School Glee club, directed by Mrs. L. J. Von Tungeln.

Mrs. Jennings and Dr. Paul W. Horn will make welcome talks and there will be an entertainment feature by students in the physical education department of Texas Technological college. A style review and announcements by Miss Peek will conclude this program and the convention.

Mrs. John Morrison Will Be The Next Hostess To Society

Mrs. John Morrison is to be the next hostess to members of the As You Like It club in her home. The meeting will be on April 29.

Mrs. H. J. Crawford entertained the club last Wednesday in her home.

Woman Slaps "Masher" And Film Fans Get Extra Thrill

By NEA Service.

COLUMBUS, O.—Movie fans attending a local theater received a thrill that wasn't on the program. Miss Edith Ryan startled the audience when she rose in her seat and slapped a "masher" in the face "as hard as she could." She described the man as "an old guy who sat next to me." The man said something about seeing the manager, but Miss Ryan left without waiting to see what happened next.

Former U. S. Soldier Wins Seat In House Of Lords

LONDON.—The seventh Viscount of Exmouth, who as Charles Ernest Pellew served the United States in two wars and was a professor at Columbia University until his aged father bequeathed him the title in 1923, has won a place in the English House of Lords. The viscount, who was born in England, went to America when he was eight years old. He fought in the Spanish war and served as a member of reserves in the World War. He has been in England several years awaiting readmission to British citizenship, which made him eligible for the House of Lords.

Audition Director For North Texas Named

Mrs. Wylie Is In Charge Of Radio Singers

McMurry Music Dean Will Be Director Of Contests In The North Texas Area; Winner Gets Cash Awards

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Mrs. Robert B. Wylie, dean of music, at McMurry College, Abilene, will serve as North Texas state chairman for the Fifth National Radio Audition, the nationwide search for young and unknown singers conducted under the auspices of the Atwater Kent foundation of Philadelphia.

Because of the interest manifested in auditions in Texas and to make it more convenient for young singers, the state has been divided into three parts, North Texas, Southeast Texas and Southwest Texas. There will be three state organizations and three state auditions.

To Search For Singers

Mrs. Wylie announced she would begin immediately the organization of a campaign in North Texas to search for singers with the intent that at least one of these songbirds may share in the final distribution of the $25,000 in cash awards and ten musical scholarships offered the national finalists in the audition.

Mrs. Wylie goes into this work fully equipped to carry it through not only because of her close association with things musical in the state, but because she served as state chairman for the national audition in 1930. She has sent out invitations to a number of distinguished persons to serve with her on the state committee.

The Fifth National Radio Audition, like those that have preceded it, is a comprehensive campaign throughout the country to find the nation's best young singers and provide them with opportunity for fame and fortune. Any young man or woman between 18 and 25 years, inclusive, is eligible to compete. The search is conducted through a series of elimination tests.

Along Auto Row In Lubbock

Brief Bits Of News About Automobile Dealers, Sales And Activities Of The Industry In Local Circles

FORDS VISIT HERE

A caravan of Ford commercial machines winding over the state and featuring Texas made bodies held considerable interest along Lubbock's automobile row Wednesday and Thursday. Coming from the Panhandle after parading in the streets of Amarillo and Plainview, the caravan, composed of 15 different types of bodies on varying motor powers and wheelbases, occupied more than a block in traffic Thursday morning here and lined the curbs on each side of the Ford Motor Company plant for two days.

NEW EXPERIMENTS

C. A. Martin, factory representative, was in charge of the Ford caravan, which went from here Thursday at noon to Slaton, Brownfield, Tahoka, and other points on the South Plains before returning to Dallas after two more weeks of parading. Included in the layout of commercial bodies were some new experiments by Ford. An ambulance and hearse, mounted on heavy chasses and with extra heavy bodies, featured the new step by the builder of Fords. Other recent steps include the building of a police patrol wagon and numerous new truck bodies.

"BETTER TIMES HERE"

While new and used car deliveries for the past week in Lubbock fell short of the previous week by a considerable margin local dealers were prone to remain optimistic, believing that "better times are here" with such force as to merit the unloading and assembling of several car loads of new machines.

SELL TWO NEW CARS

Scoggin-Dickey Oakland and Pontiac Company reported the sale of a new Pontiac 4-door sedan to O. R. Walker and a Pontiac 2-door sedan to Walter Clark. One used machine completed the week's sales. The company unloaded a car load of new automobiles last week-end.

SELLS 4 NEW CHEVROLETS

George P. Kuykendall, proprietor of Kuykendall Chevrolet Company, announced the sale and delivery of four new machines last week. Two were passenger cars, one, a standard coupe, going to the South Plains Pipe Line company, the other, a 5-window de luxe coupe, going to S. J. Oliver of Lubbock. The Chrystal Ice company purchased a commercial chassis and cab and a truck chassis. The company sold eight used cars off the block.

MEETING IS HELD

Visitors with the local Oakland and Pontiac dealers last week and present at a meeting in the Hilton Hotel were Sam Braden, sales promotion manager, H. F. Wilson, service manager, L. M. Cope, district representative and Clark E. Sloan, field representative, all of Oklahoma City, R. W. Losey, Oklahoma City zones sales manager, conducted the meeting. Local representatives and Frank Boerner and Flynn Thaggard, Pontiac dealers at Floydada, and Hill of Hill Motor Company, Lamesa, were present at the meeting.

L. K. Marshall, service technician for Oakland and Pontiac, of Pontiac, Mich., was a visitor with Scoggin and Dickey last week.

SELLING USED MACHINES

Bending efforts toward moving used cars last week, the Ratliff-Rogers Buick company and Hub Motor Company, the latter dealing in Chryslers, disposed of eight used machines last week. No new car sales were reported, though the dealers appeared optimistic in regard to future sales.

DELIVER NEW FORDS

Two new cars and four used machines were delivered by Lubbock Auto Company last week, local Ford dealers. A standard coupe was sold to Johnson and Claton, ranchers, of Gale, Texas, and a 2-door sedan went to W. A. Myrick, Jr.

Waco Will Entertain Texas Supervisors Of Postoffices

Waco will entertain the post office supervisors of Texas at the annual convention of tha tassociation May 7 and 8, John Green, superintendent of mails at the Lubbock postoffice and vice-president of the association, announced. Lubbock entertained the convention last summer, when Mr. Green was named vice-president.

Other officers are: M. D. Carlisle, Houston, president; George Wallace, Waco, second vice-president and C. O. Watson, Dallas, secretary-treasurer.

Philadelphia Boy, Nine, Reads 101 Books In Year; Out For A Record

By NEA Service

PHILADELPHIA, April 18.—Nine-year-old Linwood T. Lawrence, Jr., possibly isn't so worldly wise as some of the rest of us, but he has started out to be one of the best-read boys in the country.

Linwood has read 101 books in the past year, and his reading has had no harmful effects on him. To the contrary, he stands second in his class at school.

Linwood's father is an instructor in biology, and encourages his son's extensive reading.

"If I thought his reading was doing him harm I would not encourage it," he says. "I believe it is a good idea when so much emphasis is being placed elsewhere on athletics to assist in his development along intellectual lines. His reading has increased his ability to concentrate and widened his interests."

Ralph O'Neil, Commander Of Legion, To Be Here Friday

National Officer Will Visit With Lubbock Post; Men From Other Posts Invited To Reception, Program

A TOPEKA attorney who last year was elected national commander of the American Legion, Ralph Thomas O'Neil will be a guest of Allen Brothers post, No. 148, from 11 a. m. until 2 p. m. next Friday.

Following a reception at the Legion home, Commander O'Neil will speak there, after which a chow-line will be served, according to tentative plans. Posts in this—the eighteenth—district have been invited to be represented at the reception for the national commander, according to Glen Hess, commander of Allen Brothers post.

The national commander is expected to be accompanied by his secretary, the national adjutant, and another Legion attache, on a national tour to contact posts.

Veteran Official

Commander O'Neil served as vice-commander of the national Legion in 1927, after serving as Kansas department commander in 1926. He was chairman of the department's legislative committee from 1919 to 1926.

The Topekan also was chairman of the Legion's national Citizens' Military Training camp committee in 1929, and was a member of the national defense committee for 1930.

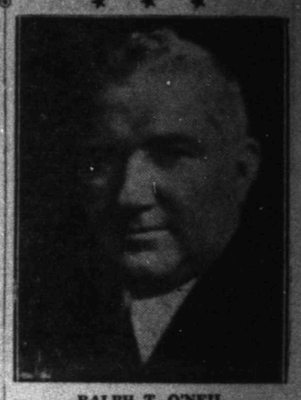

Entered War in 1917

Entering World war military service in August, 1917, O'Neil attended the reserve officers training camp at Fort Sheridan, Ill., where he was commissioned as first lieutenant in infantry, November, 1917, and was assigned to the eleventh infantry, fifth division.

Going to France in 1918, he served with that group during all of its activities, which included Vosge sector, Toul sector, the St. Mihiel offensive, and the Argonne drive. Advanced to a captaincy in Argonne forest in October, 1918, O'Neil subsequently received divisional citation for service in action. He was discharged July 7, 1919.

Dr. G. C. Turner left Saturday for St. Louis where he is to attend a meeting of the American Society of Orthodontists during this week.

Enter The Clean-Up Drive

LUBBOCK'S annual Clean-up and Paint-up campaign, starting tomorrow and continuing for the following ten days, presents three unusual aspects this year. It not only envelops the general need of a city-wide, spring improvement campaign—but it also covers the city's defense of the state cup, won last year, the need for a spick, span appearance in the face of coming conventions, and the opportunity for employing men and boys who otherwise will go without jobs.

As the housewife finds need of scouring and redecorating the home with the coming of spring, so the progressive city realizes the necessity of improving the nooks and corners, the lawns, back yards and vacant lots before the advent of summer. It is a municipal task which annually presents itself and must be accomplished for the good of everyone.

Plan today to enter into the spirit of the 1931 Clean-up and Paint-up campaign. Get your part of the project started tomorrow to quicker complete it and also to set a good example for your neighbor.

Lubbock wants to keep the trophy handily won last year, wants to present an attractive front to coming convention visitors and needs to employ many workers otherwise idle.

And on top of that, it is to the benefit of the city's health and peace of mind that we have a clean, sanitary community ready to greet the summer months.

Practical Health Problems

THE CROSS-EYED CHILD

"Good eyesight is the birthright of every child." At birth vision is very imperfect, but after a few weeks the child begins to notice objects, and his vision improves. As his eyes develop, normally, he begins to see objects with both eyes, he has binocular single vision. If his eyes are badly farsighted, or more especially if one eye is badly farsighted and the other near normal, he will be unable to "fuse" the objects seen with his two eyes. He will lack the fusion sense which keeps both eyes working together. As a result he will see clearly with the one eye, and neglect the image of the other, and this eye crosses. Eyes are not crossed by measles, whooping cough, and other diseases of childhood, unless there is present the underlying reasons stated above.

About 95% of all cases of crossed eyes occur between the ages of one and four years. It is thought that fusion of objects seen with the two eyes begins about the end of the first year of life, and fusion training is completed about the end of the sixth year. The fundamental principle involved in treating these cases, then, is fusion training. Hence we see the importance of treating these cases early.

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is one of a series of articles being written for the editorial page of the Sunday Avalanche-Journal by members of the Lubbock County Medical society. Readers may write The Avalanche-Journal, requesting articles on certain subjects and may send in any health questions they seek to have answered.)

Early Treatment Urged

The time to begin treating a crossed eye is as soon as it crosses—if possible, within a few days or weeks. The treatment should begin with a very careful examination to determine the state of the eye. This can be done accurately, only after a few drops of medicine have been placed in the child's eye, which will relax any strain present, so that the eye is not straining to the utmost when the examination is made. The doctor can determine the total disturbance, and will be able to direct his treatment properly. Usually it will be found, as indicated above, that the child is farsighted in both eyes or in one eye only, and frequently with astigmatism in one or both eyes. In such a case, the proper procedure is to place accurately fitted glasses on the child. Some may think it foolish to place glasses on a small child, but we assure that a child a year old or over can and will wear glasses with ease. In very early cases, properly fitted glasses will usually suffice to correct the "fusion sense", and therefore correct the crossing. In cases that have gone on for a few months or even years considerable difficulty is encountered. Active means of fusion training and training of the crossed eye will have to be instituted. In all these cases the utmost of care and cooperation on the part of the mother is imperative.

Should Not Wait

We frequently see children eight, ten or twelve years of age and older who are brought for treatment of a crossed eye. Parents have been advised by friends, and occasionally by doctors who do not deal with eyes in particular, to wait until the child is older before having the eyes treated. Results are always bad. In over 90% of such cases the crossed eye can see only about one-tenth normal, and cannot be improved by any means. These eyes can be operated, and straightened, but they cannot be made to see very well.

The important things to remember about crossed eyes are:

(2). Properly fitted glasses will relieve many cases at this stage.

(3). After they have been crossed for some time, and especially after the child has passed his sixth year, glasses alone will seldom correct the crossing.

(5). A crossed eye is a blind eye, so far as seeing clearly is concerned, it sees about one-tenth to one-fifth normal.

Low Wages Responsible

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Even though I have quoted it a couple of times already, may I begin by setting down a remark recently made to me by President Melvin A. Traylor of the First National bank of Chicago, in support of his contention that a general wage cut is a necessary precedent to prosperity's revival?

James Couzens

"We must not confuse an arbitrary fixed wage in dollars and cents with a real wage in its purchasing power. Employers must be as quick to recognize the real wage in a rising market as labor must be to recognize the real wage in a falling market. Business cannot prosper if costs eliminate profit; and labor cannot work as fully as it should if capital is denied a proper return."

Today's market being a falling one, as to the level of commodity prices, it was the obligation of labor to recognize it, and to recognize collaterally the justice of a corresponding wage reduction that President Traylor sought especially to emphasize in his talk with me.

"AND IT would be," said Senator James Couzens of Michigan, "sound enough economic reasoning if it were a fact that labor were being adequately paid at the higher commodity price level. But I maintain that it was not, and that the inadequacy of wages at that time was largely responsible for the industrial slump we have been experiencing.

"Being underpaid, labor (which is to say, consumers in general) had not the buying power which it ought (and was entitled to have had, unsold products consequently piled up and the usual evils of over-production (in other words, under-consumption) ensued.

"It is correct to say that the maintenance of the higher level of wages on into a period of lower commodity prices is equivalent to a general wage increase. And that is exactly what it required to improve conditions. So much improvement would not now be needed if wages had been advanced a great deal sooner."

"THE TROUBLE with the average industrial employer," complained the Michigan senator, "is that he wants to gobble, for himself, the whole benefit of any economy he effects in production, or any economy which is effected for him.

"The employer should have his share. The inventor should have his. The consumer should have his share, also.

"But the worker ought not to be forgotten.

"The employer wants to share with no one. Sometimes competition forces him to concede more or less to his customers, but he never yields a thing to labor until labor simply wrings it out of him.

"This seems to me the worst stupidity of the capitalistic system.

"Consider," exclaimed the senator, "all the vast economies very recently wrought by the mechanization of industry! Then consider the unemployment they have caused, due, of course, to the employers' policy of turning the saving entirely to their own account, instead of shortening hours in conformity with the reduced amount of time required to accomplish, by new methods, the old results."

THIS RAISED the question:

Is continuation of the established wage for, say, a standard working day of eight hours, the equivalent of a pay increase, in the event of the shortening of the standard to, for example, six hours?

It seems to be so considered by a majority of employers.

"It is not," answers Senator Couzens.

"An employe who is inadequately paid for his day's work is inadequately paid for a day's work, whether the day is of eight or of six hours.

"Under existing conditions he does as much work in six hours as formerly he did in eight. A continuation, nevertheless, of the eight-hour schedule is what causes so much unemployment. All of which brings us back to what I have just been saying—that the employer has taken advantage of the whole two-hour margin to add to his own profits; the worker has had no advantage from it whatever."

IS IT NOT rather surprising how suddenly the movement for a general wage cut has developed?—ostensibly in the interests of a revival of industry.

"I doubt if it really is as sudden as it appears," replied the senator.

"Probably there has been an undercurrent in the direction of a reduction for quite awhile, and it has just come to the surface.

"No doubt, at the beginning of the slump, when industrial leaders were called together and asked to pledge themselves to maintain wages and keep their working forces as nearly intact as possible, they complied in tolerably good faith and quite generally had the moral stamina to stick to their compact with considerable persistency.

"Gradually, however, they have been weakening, have grown mighty tired of seeing balance sheets so regularly 'in the red'.

"Stockholders, too, have been clamoring.

"First came dismissals of workers, but without wage reductions.

"Now the bankers' advice is being sought. Bankers can see only figures, and the only figures they can see now, that offer any opportunity for subtractions, are wage figures. Hence this latest counsel: '"Cut wages".'

"BANKERS!" said the Detroiter, with a slight sneer.

"Statesmen!

"Economists!

"They all have given us their ideas concerning the best plan of improving the present situation.

"But there is just one plan that not one of them has suggested. That is some plan to prevent the same thing from recurring about every so often."

The senator did not repeat it this time, but he once told me:

"If the capitalistic system is to last, it has got to end unemployment."

The New York Stock Exchange is to erect a $10,000,000 annex. It will be known, undoubtedly, as the house that jack built.

A THRILLING MYSTERY STORY ✦ by MILES BURTON

READ THIS FIRST

After the theft of the famous Hardway diamonds, and Inspector Brooks is killed, Sir Edric Conway, police commissioner, puts his young friend, Dick Penhampton, who is in love with pretty Alison Weatherleigh, on the trail. Disguised as Captain Blackwood, a down-and-outer, Dick gets a job from a gang leader known as the Funny Toff, who Dick does not see, but hears his maniacal laughter. His first mission is to a deserted house at midnight, where he discovers the dead body of a crook named Herridge, who originally stole the jewels. One of the diamonds has been placed on the man's breast. Dick again hears the frightful laughter of his unseen employer. The placing of one of the diamonds on the body discloses to Dick that he is known by Funny Toff. He feels a sudden wave of shame at the realization. Inspector Pollard has been on the trail of the jewels. Dick is called in Sir Edric's office to tell Inspector Pollard, who is working on the case independently of Dick, about finding Herridge's body with the diamond.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 20.

Sir Edric laid the diamond on his desk, and Pollard eyes flashed as he glanced at it. How did this remarkable discovery fit in with his theory? How did this Mr. Penhampton, the man who had reported the loss of the necklace, the friend of his chief, happen to stumble on this body in such a remote spot? But it was not his business to ask questions at this moment.

"You would like me to inspect the body, sir?" he asked impassively.

"I should," replied Sir Edric. "I've rung up the police surgeon, and he will be here in a few minutes. You had better take a car and take him with you. Mr. Penhampton will show you the way."

"Very good, sir. I'll make arrangements at once," said Pollard, leaving the room.

Sir Edric smiled. "I shouldn't tell Pollard anything about your adventure, if I were you, Dick," he said. "If he knows you've been playing amateur sleuth, it'll probably antagonize him. I'll break it gently when he comes back to report. I'm sorry to have to send you off again like this, but we can't leave that body hanging about all day."

"Oh, that's all right!" exclaimed Dick cheerfully. "It's part of my penance, I suppose."

The drive down to Rainham took place in silence. Pollard appeared to be disposed to ask no questions until he had seen what was to be seen for himself. The party left the car at the police station and proceeded across the marshes on foot, Dick acting as guide. In the grey light of the morning the place lost nothing of the desolation. A clinging mist enshrouded everything intensifying the impression of loneliness.

They made their way to the ruined house, over which a stolid constable was mounting guard. "Nothing been touched, I hope?" asked Pollard, as the man saluted.

"No, sir, I've done no more than glance inside," replied the constable.

Dick led the way in, closely followed by Pollard and the doctor. The body lay as he had last seen it, prone on the table, even more horrible in the subdued daylight. Pollard walked up to it and looked intently at the distorted face.

"Pussy Herridge, by all that's holy!" he exclaimed.

Alison contrived to see a good deal of her father during his stay at the Hotel Magnificent. They were genuinely attached to one another, and any time they spent together was enjoyed by both. Indeed Alison only paid these long visits to her aunt at her father's especial wish.

"I'm a dull old stick, my dear," he had said to her once. "It isn't good for a girl of your age to spend her time in the depths of the country, with only an old fossil as her companion. You'll be getting romantic and running away with the postman or something."

"I shan't do anything of the kind!" interrupted Alison indignantly. "Fancy having to live with a man who has to get up at five in the morning!"

"I speak metaphorically, my dear" continued Dr. Weatherleigh patiently. "No doubt there are other males in the neighborhood of Lestridge Hall whose duties do not involve such uncomfortably early rising. The point is, my dear, that you would be far better employed amusing yourself in London."

Since money was no object to her, Alison found, after a while, that amusement in London was not difficult to obtain. But it was only after she had made the acquaintance of Dick Penhampton that she altogether ceased to regret the life at Lestridge Hall. She was still glad to return there at intervals, but London had become for her the center of attraction. This change in her attitude may have caused her some scruples of conscience; she had at times a secret dread that in her prolonged visits to her aunt she might be thought to be neglecting her father. This it was that led to her visit to the Magnificent every afternoon of her father's stay in London.

The afternoon was the only time which he could spare for her. As Dr. Weatherleigh often explained to her, he hated London, and only came up from Lestridge Hall when the pursuit of his hobby made it absolutely necessary. Consequently, he was in the habit of crowding everything that he had to do into the shortest possible time, in order the sooner to be able to return to the country again.

"I shall be a very busy man for the next few days," he said at the first meeting with his daughter, on the day of his arrival. "My mornings will be spent in visiting the museums, and I have no doubt that I shall be obliged to lunch with several of the curators. In the evening, I have appointments to dine with various of my fellow-students, or with one or other of the so-called learned societies. That means that only my afternoons will be free, and then, my dear, if your social duties will allow you to come to tea with your old father, I shall be more than pleased to see you."

"Of course I'll come, every afternoon, if you'll let me," Alison replied. And she kept her word.

But it was not until the Tuesday following the death of Pussy Herridge that she made any further mention of Dick. And then, suddenly, when she and her father had finished tea, she referred to him abruptly. "I've asked Dick Penhampton to call for me here this evening," she announced. "We're having dinner together."

"Dick Penhampton?" repeated her father. "Well, I admire your taste. From what I saw of him the other day I should imagine that he would be an excellent partner for a tete-a-tete. You two see a good deal of one another, don't you?"

"Oh, a fair amount," replied Alison casually. "He and I get on very well."

Dr. Weatherleigh chuckled. "I believe that he has usurped the place in your heart that I once feared would be occupied by the postman," he said quietly.

"Father dear! I'm surprised at you!" exclaimed Alison. "How can you be so hopelessly Victorian? Why, you'll insinuate next that I'm walking out with him, or some such obsolete expression. Even you ought to know that one can be seen out with a man nowadays without being suspected of caring for him."

"Methinks she doth protest too much," remarked her father slyly. "Why shouldn't you have fallen in love with him? He's a very decent fellow, from all I can see."

"Oh, well, if you will have it, I do care for him," replied Alison defiantly, with flaming cheeks. "It's unfashionable, I know, and all that, and all my set would think I was mad if they knew that I'd admitted I really cared for anybody. And, what's more, I think he cares for me, in a way."

"You'll never persuade me that love will ever go out of fashion," said Dr. Weatherleigh gently. "Well, my dear, I'm very glad to hear of it, and if matters come to a head,

Pioneer Lubbock Doctor Recalls Early Times On S. Plains; Here 30 Years

OLDEST practicing physician in Lubbock in point of years of residence here, and second oldest on the South Plains, Dr. M. C. Overton Thursday celebrated quietly his 30th Anniversary as a resident physician of Lubbock.

"I came to Lubbock 30 years ago Thursday," Dr. Overton said as he sat in his office in the Lubbock Sanitarium and Clinic and recalled the early days on the South Plains. "I came from Louisville, Ky., to Texas and got off the train at Childress.

Rode the Mail Hack

"From there I rode in the mail hack to Matador. We made the trip in one day. At Matador I got on another hack and went to Floydada. Had a small trunk with me and because the hack for Old Emma, where I was bound, was so crowded I did not get a chance to leave for several days. From there I came to Lubbock.

Lubbock at the time Dr. Overton came here, had about 150 inhabitants he said. There were two physicians here when he arrived and both of them later went to other towns. Dr. Overton remained. One of these physicians was Dr. L. C. Wayland, who is now practicing in Plainview. As far as he recalls only Dr. Wayland remains of the early day South Plains physicians.

"There was an old blacksmith shop in the second block west of the courthouse square, about where the Minter-Gamel store now is. It was vacant and had been for a long, long time. No one seemed to know the owner. I got some lumber and made a fence and kept my horse in there," Dr. Overton said.

Hospital Is Started

In 1908 a hospital was opened in the fall of the year, Dr. Overton, who had started the Overton addition, gave the physicians starting the place two lots on which to build. "The Painter's Hotel is the old hospital building," he stated.

Some four years later, about 1912 or 1913, Dr. Overton started another hospital in what is now the Lydel hotel, on Texas avenue just north of the Hotel Hilton. Later he closed it out.

"The building that is now the Tourist Inn, on Texas avenue north of the city hall and on the other side of the street, was built for a hospital. I built the building and Dr. C. J. Wagner, my partner, operated it. It was called the West Texas Sanitarium."

The present Lubbock Sanitarium and Clinic came into being about 1918 and the present group of buildings began. This was in 1918 and in 1920 Dr. Overton joined the staff.

Buggies Popular

When the pioneer physician came here, the only means of travel was by horse and buggy. Livery stables abounded and teams were hired out to traveling men and physicians. The renting of teams to young men who were out courting a South Plains belle was also a profitable business.

Pioneer physicians, Dr. Overton said, had to keep a string of horses for their work. In addition to this, the doctors used to rent teams from the liverymen.

Had to Travel Far

Physicians were frequently called to travel long distances in those days, Dr. Overton said, to see patients. He frequently traveled 60 to 75 miles out from Lubbock to see a patient. There were other longer trips but trips of 30 to 50 and 60 miles were common.

"Say there was some one out on the New Mexico line who was sick at one of the ranches," Dr. Overton said. "A cowboy would start for Lubbock to get me. He would stop at every cow camp along the road and tell them he was coming here for a doctor.

"When I started, all I had to do was to drive to the first camp. There I found a fresh team waiting for me. I would drive another 20 miles or so to the next camp and another team was there and so on, until I got to the ranch."

Owned First Private Car

Dr. Overton claims the first privately owned automobile in Lubbock.

"Rolle Burns," he said, "had the first car. He used it as a service car between Lubbock and Plainview. But I had the first privately owned automobile in Lubbock. It was a two-cylinder Buick, cranked on the side, and did not have a top or a dashboard or windshield. I bought it in 1912. When I gave up my horses for the automobile I had eight horses."

The doctor paused for a moment as if in deep thought. Then he smiled and added, "Every morning I used to go out into the yard and line up those eight horses and select the one I wanted to use for the day."

When he first came here Dr. Overton found the country was mostly a ranch country, with only a few small farms. There were almost no towns.

"The only town between Lubbock and Plainview was Hale Center" Dr. Overton said. "There was no Lamesa, Abernathy, Brownfield, Post, Spur, Tahoka, Crosbyton, Ralls or any of those towns when I first came here. Old Emma as we called it was county seat of Crosby county. There was Matador and Floydada and Slaton and on down to Big Spring.

Lived All Over Country

"My patients lived as far west as New Mexico. They lived all over this country."

It is said of Dr. Overton that up to within the last ten years or so, he brought more babies into the world in Lubbock and on the South Plains than all other physicians combined. It is said of him that up to about 1918 his name was attached to birth certificates twice and three times to those of all other physicians.

With the coming of more physicians into the country, both in Lubbock and the South Plains towns, Dr. Overton has had more time to devote to study. The result is that he has become a specialist in children's diseases, handling only cases of children up to about the age of 14 years. He regularly takes special courses along these lines in the larger clinics of the north, east and south, devoted especially to that particular line of work.

Men and women at whose birth he officiated a quarter of a century or so ago, are now bringing him their own babies for study and treatment. There is a constantly increasing number of instances of this kind and Dr. Overton is wont to recall with pleasure the days when these men and women as children were his particular study and care.

Dr. Overton has a son, Dr. M. C. Overton, Jr., who is making a name for himself at Slaton, where he has established his own practice.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor: In the issue of April 16 there appeared an article regarding the Posey school children at the County Park on the day before, in which I received too much credit for the picnic, or rather the barbecue.

To Mr. Henderson goes the biggest amount of credit. He furnished the beef. J. M. Morrison furnished the wood required to barbecue the beef. To J. L. Benton goes the credit for the lemonade and polly pops. I furnished only the bread for the occasion.

To O. O. Burleson and Robert Schultz goes the credit as masters at the pit where the barbecue was prepared.

The ladies of the community furnished the cakes and other delicatessens for the occasion.

If you will make this correction, it will be very much appreciated by me.

Thanking you in advance for this favor, I am,

Yours very truly,
P. G. Meading,
Slaton, Texas.

Film Stars Turn Shoulders On New Arrivals Getting Jobs In Hollywood

BY DAN THOMAS
NEA Service Writer

HOLLYWOOD, April 18—There is one spot in sunny California that really has quite a frigid atmosphere. That spot is Hollywood, movie capital of the world.

Thermometers out here indicate that it gets quite hot at times. But visitors from the east, particularly celebrities, will tell you that eastern blizzards are nothing as compared with the icy receptions accorded them in the celluloid hamlet.

Edna Best

It's strange, this attitude Hollywood takes toward newcomers. It goes raving mad over those who have gained reputations in other fields. Night after night parties are given in their honor. They are taken everywhere. But when it comes to doing any work, they get the same cold shoulder that is given to the thousands of starving extras. They are liked immensely for their sociability. But as working companions they just aren't given a tumble.

This frigidness all started with the coming of the talkies. Prior to that time Hollywood greeted everyone with wide open arms. Those already here knew that the new arrivals weren't seeking their jobs. But it was a different story when the talkies came along. Stage players were imported by the scores and each new arrival replaced an old-time film player on the screen.

ANN HARDING

Naturally the movie folk frowned when the visitors hit town. Then the early spotlight stars began to adopt the same attitude toward new arrivals from the legitimate stage and also from other walks of life—if the other persons showed any tendency for grabbing a studio berth.

A FEW who have settled here during the last three years have weathered the icy storm and have made good. Among them are Maurice Chevalier, Ann Harding, Ruth Chatterton, Constance Bennett, Chester Morris, Joe E. Brown, Fredric March and Jack Oakie.

But a great many others have gone back to their previous walks. Some of this group couldn't seem to make the grade before the exacting cameras and microphones. But the majority of them were literally chased away by the icy atmosphere which prevailed around them.

It has been only a few weeks since Edna Best, charming young English actress, left everything behind her without even saying goodby. Miss Best had been signed to play opposite John Gilbert. Tests were made and she proved satisfactory in every respect. Then came the morning that shooting was to start. Miss Best didn't show up. The company waited for an hour and a half when a telegram was received at the studio from the actress then en route to New York and London. She couldn't stand Hollywood, she said, so she was going home to her husband.

Ruth Chatterton

EVELYN LAYE, another prominent English actress, followed almost the same procedure. She did take one picture, however. But the day it was finished she departed for England, in all probability never to return to Hollywood.

Scores of others came out here with fat contracts, were given luxurious dressing rooms or offices but they weren't given a chance to do anything. Consequently they prayed that their options would not be taken up so that they could return home—and in many cases these prayers were answered.

MUST FACE TRIAL

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., April 18. (AP)—Dr. F. R. Dolson, ousted health superintendent of Nowata county, must stand trial for an alleged assault with a deadly weapon on State Health Commissioner J. N. Bilby at the Oklahoma capitol Feb. 20. Dolson, alleged to have drawn a pistol when Dr. Bilby refused to reinstate him, was bound over to district court by justice Carl Traub. He denied the charge. No shots were fired.

ARMORY SEIZED

GALVESTON, April 18. (AP)—Armory of rifles, pistols and ammunition was seized yesterday by police when they forced their way into an apartment occupied by two men and two women in a downtown rooming house. The men, who said they were from New York, were held on technical charges.

Mark Twain's Famed Satire Showing Here

Ruth Chatterton Will Appear In "The Right To Love" At Lindsey Thursday; Palace Offers War Picture

ADD the comedy of Will Rogers to the wit of Mark Twain and something is bound to pop. And that something does pop in the form of "A Connecticut Yankee", which begins a four-day run at the Lindsey today.

Retaining all the satire and subtle humor that made Mark Twain the prince of American humorists, and augmented by up-to-the-minute American wisecracks, the picture promises to be the outstanding laugh hit of the year. Advance reports hail this talkie as the best that Rogers has done. His version of the famous satire has been modernized and contains many original wittiisms of the cowboy comedian's own authorship.

ROGERS

"Modern Mark Twain"

Rogers, Oklahoma cowpuncher, presidential timber, stage star, comedian, unofficial American ambassador to any and everywhere, has been called the modern Mark Twain. His performance in "A Connecticut Yankee" strengthens his claim to the title.

An old-time favorite of the silent screen, William Farnum, will be seen in the picture as King Arthur. Myrna Loy is, quite naturally, cast as Queen Morgan Le Fay, the vampire. Others in the cast include: Maureen O'Sullivan, Frank Albertson, Brandon Hurst and Mitchell Harris. Davis Butler was the director.

Ruth Chatterton Coming

Another outstanding feature on this week's thater calendar will be "The Right to Love" with the incomparable Ruth Chatterton in the leading role. Probably unequaled in dramatic characterizations on the talking screen, she plays upon the emotions of her audience with superb genius in her latest production. It will be at the Lindsey for three days starting Thursday.

Miss Chatterton will be remembered for her remarkable portrayals in "Madam X", "Sarah and Son", "Anybody's Woman" and "The Laughing Lady."

O'BRIEN

In "The Right to Love" she is not confined by the limits of a single portrayal but enacts two distinct roles, in one stepping from the trusting innocence of girlhood to the mature philosophy of motherhood. Paul Lucas and Davis Manners head the supporting cast. "The Right to Love" is a drama of life rescued by love—a story of emotion—the eager joy of young romance—the rendering sorrow of death to the father of her child—the passion of mother love—hatred—desire—and the bitterness of disillusionment.

Sea Story Showing

The current attraction at the Palace is "The Seas Beneath". It started yesterday and continues through tomorrow. The story is of war of the conflict of a woman-spy with a man-spy. On the deck of an American "mystery" ship—its hidden gunners waited to open fire on a certain U-boat which cruised about them. On that U-boat her brother and her lover prepared to come to the surface, unaware of their fate. She makes a desperate effort to warn them of the impending danger. The consequences and developments furnish the dramatic climax for "The Seas Beneath".

George O'Brien is in the male lead and Marion Lessing, a new Hollywood "find", plays opposite him.

Comedy Billed

Cohen and Kelly, whose antics at Atlantic City, Paris, and in Scotland, have brought laughter from thousands, are coming back again. This time it is in "The Cohens and Kellys in Africa" and advance information has it that this is their best comedy to date. It shows at the Palace Tuesday and Wednesday.

George Sidney and Charlie Murray head the cast, which includes Vera Gordon, Kate Price, Frank Davis and Lloyd Whitlock.

Their adventures in the jungles of Africa with cannibals, wild animals and harems furnish a comedy that promises to be a knockout.

MURRAY

"Big Money" with Robert Armstrong in the leading role will be the offering at the Palace Thursday and Friday.

Feature At Lyric

Although they have been shown in Lubbock previously, three outstanding talkies will be presented at the Lyric theater this week, giving Lubbock moviegoers who missed them the first time, a chance not to miss out.

Starting today at the Lyric will be "Hell's Angels" with James Hall, Jean Harlow and Ben Lyons in the leading roles. This is one of the outstanding aviation pictures ever produced. The air sequences are packed with dramatic thrills. If you like war and air pictures don't fail to see "Hell's Angels". It continues through Tuesday.

"Follow Through" is the attraction Wednesday and Thursday at the Lyric. Buddy Rogers and Nancy Carroll head the cast. It is a love story with golf playing an important part.

Friday and Saturday at the Lyric "Painted Desert" with Bill Boyd in the leading role will be presented.

THE BOOK SURVEY

"American Caravan" Gives Yearbook Of Literature Of Nation For 1930

LITERAURE, in this scientific age has laboratory workers, too.

Writers, especially young writers, are every trying for new styles and new effects, fusing words in mental retorts, trying to synchronize literature with contemporary life, endeavoring to tune in on the current wave length.

"American Caravan," a year-book of American literature edited by Alfred Kreymborg, Lewis Mumford and Paul Rosenfeld, is a collector of some of their results. The 1931 volume is the fourth, and its bulk is quite impressive.

Thirty-eight authors are represented by novelets, short stories, poetry and essays. The quality, if not sustained, is high.

America's Promise

"American Caravan IV" opens with a short novel by Robert Penn Warren, "Prime Leaf," which well may serve as an example of what story material lies in this country. The subject of cooperative marketing for example.

Here is told the struggle to keep alive a tobacco growers' association. Old agricultural ways against new ideas, night riders and born-burnings are modern elements of dramatic conflict on the farm.

A new form of writing is exemplified in "The Apostate," by Herbert B. Bernstein. Described as a motion picture scenario, it attempts to show in a series of scenes, without dialog, man in the power of the machine age. An engineer "worships the electrical god" and is struck down by a man-made bolt of lightning when his edvotion to his power plant wavers toward a woman.

Those who prefer conventional stories and verse need not look here. Nor is there much humor. The dominant note is seriousness, the expression of ideas. The book does show what newcomers are doing and provides an outlet for unfolding talent, such as that of William Faulkner, Evelyn Scott, Robert M. Coates and other growing writers.

"Men Women, And Conflict"

ARKANSAS and Idaho have new three-month divorce laws and Nevada, to meet the competition, has reduced its residence requirements to six weeks. That makes "Men, Women and Conflict," by Judge George A. Bartlett of Reno, especially timely.

For in his book, Judge Bartlett defends easy divorce. His views on birth control and the place of love in marriage are based on experiences and observations in the more than 20,000 cases that have come before him. And he tells some of the intimacies of Reno.

A Somewhat Involved History

ONE of the year's funniest books is "1066 and All That," by W. C. Sellar and R. J. Yeatman. It is a thin, gayly-illustrated little book presenting an outline of English history as a sadly befuddled school boy might write it, and there is an almost incredible number of laughs in it. There is no sense in trying to review it in detail; it is very funny, and is published by E. P. Dutton & Co.

Startling Is This Analysis

SHORTLY before the Great War, Professor Usher's "Pan-Germanism" startled the world with its analysis of Germany's political ambitions. Bruce Hopper's "Pan-Sovietism: The Issue Before America and the World," just published by Houghton Mifflin Company, is no less startling in its presentation of Soviet plans and policies, and in its domination. It gives an up-to-the-minute analysis of the actual functionings of the Soviet Government, of the economic and industrial back groud for the Five Year Plan, and of the outlook for the future.

Preparations On For Wheat Harvest Work

Business Conditions Said To Be Improving In The Northwest Part Of Texas And In Oklahoma Over Crop Prospects

(By The Associated Press)

WICHITA FALLS, April 18.—The prospect of a bumper wheat crop that is predicted to make the business and drouth depression a thing of history over Northwest Texas and Southwestern Oklahoma, is beginning to have its effect upon business conditions, report bankers and merchants.

Flour mills and elevators at Childress and Chillicothe, idle for several years because of wheat being discontinued by the farmers, are now being repaired and will be ready for operation by July 1. The railroads are also beginning to check up rolling stock and power to get them in order to move the big crop.

In Good Condition

Wheat is in good condition. The acreage is larger than ever planted and prospects are that the yield will run from 25 to 40 bushels to an acre.

The heavy movement will give the railroads an enormous amount of tonnage. Much new harvesting machinery are now doing considerpanies manufacturing harvesting machinery are now being considerable advertising in daily and weekly newspapers over this area.

Wheat is jointing rapidly and within ten days most of the fields will be waist high. It is said that the heads are large and well filled. The recent freeze did little damage to wheat.

Six Of The Seven Seed Breeders Of West Texas Live On South Plains; Burroughs Planning On Big Increase

Six of the seven certified grain sorghum breeders in West Texas reside on the South Plains and three of them in Lubbock county, James A. Burroughs, of the Sunset Seed farms, said in announcing his intentions to increase his acreage for the growing of certified seeds to 400 for the 1931 season.

Mr. Burroughs last year raised approximately 250,000 pounds of certified seed. He has around 14,000 pounds left, maize and kafir. The rest has been sold mostly to South Plains and Texas farmers, although there have been some shipments to other states.

"I have about 500 acres on my farm, including leased land and I expect to put out 400 acres for certified seed," Mr. Burroughs said. "I will plant kafir, maize, hegari and shumac. The latter will take the place of red top, and it is, in my opinion, a better seed than red top."

Besides sorghums, Mr. Burroughs will sow cotton seed although he does not raise certified cotton seed for sale.

"The only certified breeder of grain sorghums who is not on the South Plains is W. W. Cunningham who lives in Haskell county," Mr. Burroughs said. "The reason why grain sorghums do so well on the South Plains is that we can bag the seed and thus insure its purity. In most of the state off the Caprock they cannot bag the seed.

"I rather think there will be more certified breeders this year than ever before. There may be 14 or 15 more breeders. I have not heard from Mr. Miller about that."

Other breeders are: Alva Dunn, Lamesa; W. M. Pool and Son, Sudan; Jess Roberson, Hereford; Pat Nix, Lubbock and W. A. Goeth, Lubbock.

South Plains Predicted As Jersey Center

Pioneer Breeder Of High Grade Stock In Areas Sees Efforts Repaid; Says 10 Years To Find Increase

"Within ten years there will be more high grade Jerseys in this section of West Texas than there are to be found in the Isle of Jersey," S. A. Guy, San Antonio, who founded the Caprock Dairy at Crosbyton ten years ago, and who was recognized as the "father of the Jersey breeds" of the South Plains, said in a recent visit.

A little over ten years ago, Mr. Guy, a self educated man who had made money in the oil business, came to the South Plains and settled in Crosby county as the scene of his operations. He was planning establishment of a Jersey farm and bought the best stock available.

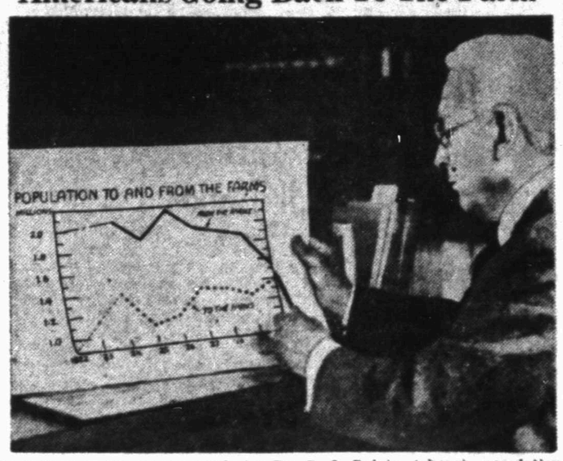

Sold At A Sacrifice

But the farm did not pay and after investing a small fortune and finding no sale among dairymen for his high class pedigreed cattle, he sold out at a sacrifice and moved away. "I regretted my loss here on the Plains" he said in speaking of his early experiences.

"What I have found here on this trip to the Panhandle-Plains dairy show has made me feel amply repaid for what I did ten years ago," he said

Americans Going Back To The Farm

According to the survey made by Dr. C. J. Galpin (above), population expert of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, farm population shows an increase for the first time in ten years. The chart shown above reveals that during the year 1930 as many people went back to the land as left for cities.

Steer Grows Up

Foard County Man Has Big Fellow

QUANAH, April 18. (AP)—Leslie McAdams, rancher in western Foard county, says he believes he has the largest range steer in West Texas.

The steer, a three-year-old Shorthorn of grade breeding, is 5 feet, 5 inches tall, measures 9 feet, 6 inches from nose to tail, has a heart and flank girth of 7 feet, 7 inches, and measures three feet around his neck, in the bell collar position. The animal has not been weighed, but cattlemen estimate his present weight at1,800 pounds, although he is not fat.

The steer was raised on the range, and received the same treatment as other cattle on the ranch.

State Fairs Will See Exhibits Of Panhandle, Inc.

AMARILLO, April 18. (Special)—Five state fairs in the middle west have offered free space to the Panhandle of Texas, Incorporated, to show exhibits of the products of farms in the 32 counties comprising the Panhandle country, Howard A. Ferguson, general manager, announces.

"We will have exhibits at between 12 and 16 fairs," Mr. Ferguson said. "We do not know just how many there will be.

"We plan to have two trucks for our exhibits. I think we will start out some time about the middle of August."

Offered Free Space

The fairs at Spencer, Ia. Huron, S. D.; Mason City, Ia.; Oklahoma City, Okla., and Muskogee, Okla., have announced the Panhandle of Texas, Inc., could have free space for exhibits, Mr. Ferguson said. In addition the state fair at Dallas and the Houston fair will give free space.

"Last year we had to pay for these fairs," said Mr. Ferguson. "Now they tell us we can show free because they consider the exhibit an educational exhibit. Some other fairs have reduced their charges one half."

It is planned to print a 32-page rotagravure edition of between 75,000 and 100,000 copies. This paper will be given free to those who show an interest in the section.

Wheat Shipments Being Planned For

Both the Santa Fe and Fort Worth and Denver railroads are beginning preparations for the 1931 wheat season in West Texas, local officials state.

Cars suited to handling of wheat are being stored on the blind sidings and storage tracks of the Fort Worth and Denver north of Wichita Falls and from Estelline to Lubbock and Plainview. Dimmitt also is receiving considerable attention. "We are getting ready," R. E. Stroup, local Denver agent, said.

At the same time the Santa Fe has begun on the Slaton division, R. F. Bayless, local general agent reports. The branch lines out of Lubbock are receiving their quotas now.

The Panhandle division around Amarillo also is preparing for the wheat rush.

Cattle Movement Will Start Soon

Movement of cattle from the South Plains to the Flint Hills of Kansas around Cottonwood Falls, Emporia, Strong City and between those towns and the Osage hills in Oklahoma, is expected to start about the last week in April, R. F. Bayless, general agent here for the Santa Fe, announces.

D. M. Devitt, president of the Mallet Land and Cattle company, has ordered 35 cars to be at Whiteface, in Hockley county on the Bledsoe branch, for movement about April 28.

The Spade ranch, another large shipper, will move its cattle on its properties near Ropes to Lebo, Kas., and nearby towns. No date has been set for the setting of stock cars to this company's loading stations.

Other towns on both the Seagraves and Bledsoe branches of the Santa Fe probably will have their early movements within the next week or ten days. For the most part, Mr. Bayless said, these orders go through the office of the division superintendent at Slaton and are not handled here.

Tropical Fruits Blooming In College Greenhouse Now

Four tropical fruit trees in the greenhouse of the Texas Technological college have fruit on them and several also are in bloom at the same time. C. E. Russell, of the horticulture department, says.

The college has a lemon tree in bloom, with some fruit on it and two orange trees, with both small and medium sized fruits. There is also a grape fruit tree with fruit.

FIRE DESTROYS CHICKS

Prospects For Crop Looming Brightly Now

Eaton, Bower, Jones Aver Chances For Yield Better This Season Than In Past Several Years

BY J. SAM LEWIS
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

AGRICULTURAL conditions in Lubbock county at this time are good, with probably more ground under cultivation than ever before and with better sub-soil moisture conditions than for a number of years.

But the splendid prospects may lead to the undoing of many farmers if they begin to plant their grain sorghums and cotton too early. Too early planting may cause a large loss of seed, especially if cold weather comes or too much rain, agriculture leaders say.

Freeze Did Little Damage

Grains at this time are in need of some moisture. Wheat is good, but the late March freeze did some damage. Just how much damage, agricultural leaders are not willing to estimate at this time.

"Wheat looks good" says D. F. Eaton, county agent. "It needs rain. Oats are up and looking good, but they too need rain. Winter barley is up and growing but we do not have much rye here in Lubbock county. I do not know just the extent of the damage by that freeze."

Advises Against Early Planting

Some farmers are already planting early grain sorghums. Mr. Eaton does not advise this, explaining that it is better to plant sorghums after about the middle of May than in April. Germination of seed is delayed frequently by too early planting and often the seed rots and dies because of weather conditions.

Cotton may be planted the latter part of April, after about the 20th of the month, without as much danger from loss as earlier planting, according to Mr. Eaton. However, delay until the first week in May will not be amiss, he said.

"There will be an increase in grain sorghums in Lubbock county," said the county agent. "You do not see any stocks of feeds on the farms. There is no carryover.

More Sorghums Planted

"Lubbock county is in need of a surplus of feeds from year to year. We do not have any this year and for that reason there will be more sorghums planted this year than ever before, in my opinion."

"I would like to urge all farmers to treat their grain sorghums for smut before planting. It is easy to do it and it may save a lot of trouble and loss. Copper carbonate can be used. It only takes two or three ounces to treat a bushel of sorghum seed, not nearly as much as cotton seed."

Damage to wheat will be slight according to H. J. Bower, agronomy department head at Texas Technological college, if a rain comes soon. "Frost set back the wheat but I do not think the damage is very extensive," he added.

Mr. Bower is conducting two variety tests this year, one of 30 acres of milo maize and the other 30 acres of cotton. He has not planted either test.

Putting In Few Acres

Farmers who have started planting of grain sorghums have only put out a few acres according to Don L. Jones, superintendent of the state experiment station. "They are doing this because they will need a little feed early," he explained. "They figure that they can get enough early feed to get them by until their regular crop will come on."

It is still too early to plant cotton or grain sorghums, the state experiment station head said. May is better for both than April.

Wheat damage, according to Mr. Jones, is caused by a combination of dry weather and freezing weather. Wheat that was starting to joint or to boot was harder hit than the shorter wheat.

Conditions Excellent

Ground conditions are excellent at this time. While rain is needed to start off crops, there is nothing to indicate drouthy conditions, Mr Jones said.

Farmers, for the most part, have made their acreages for planting crops all ready. A few are awaiting more moisture, he said.

Cotton seed is pretty well sold. There will be a large number of farmers who will plant certified or pure seed for the first time. Most of these men are planning only a small acreage, less than 15 acres. Generally, farmers of a given community are planting the same kind.

Acala, Mebane and Kasch are the chief varieties for the county. Lubbock, Wolffarth, Shallowater and one or two other communities have ordered car loads of certified or pure seeds.

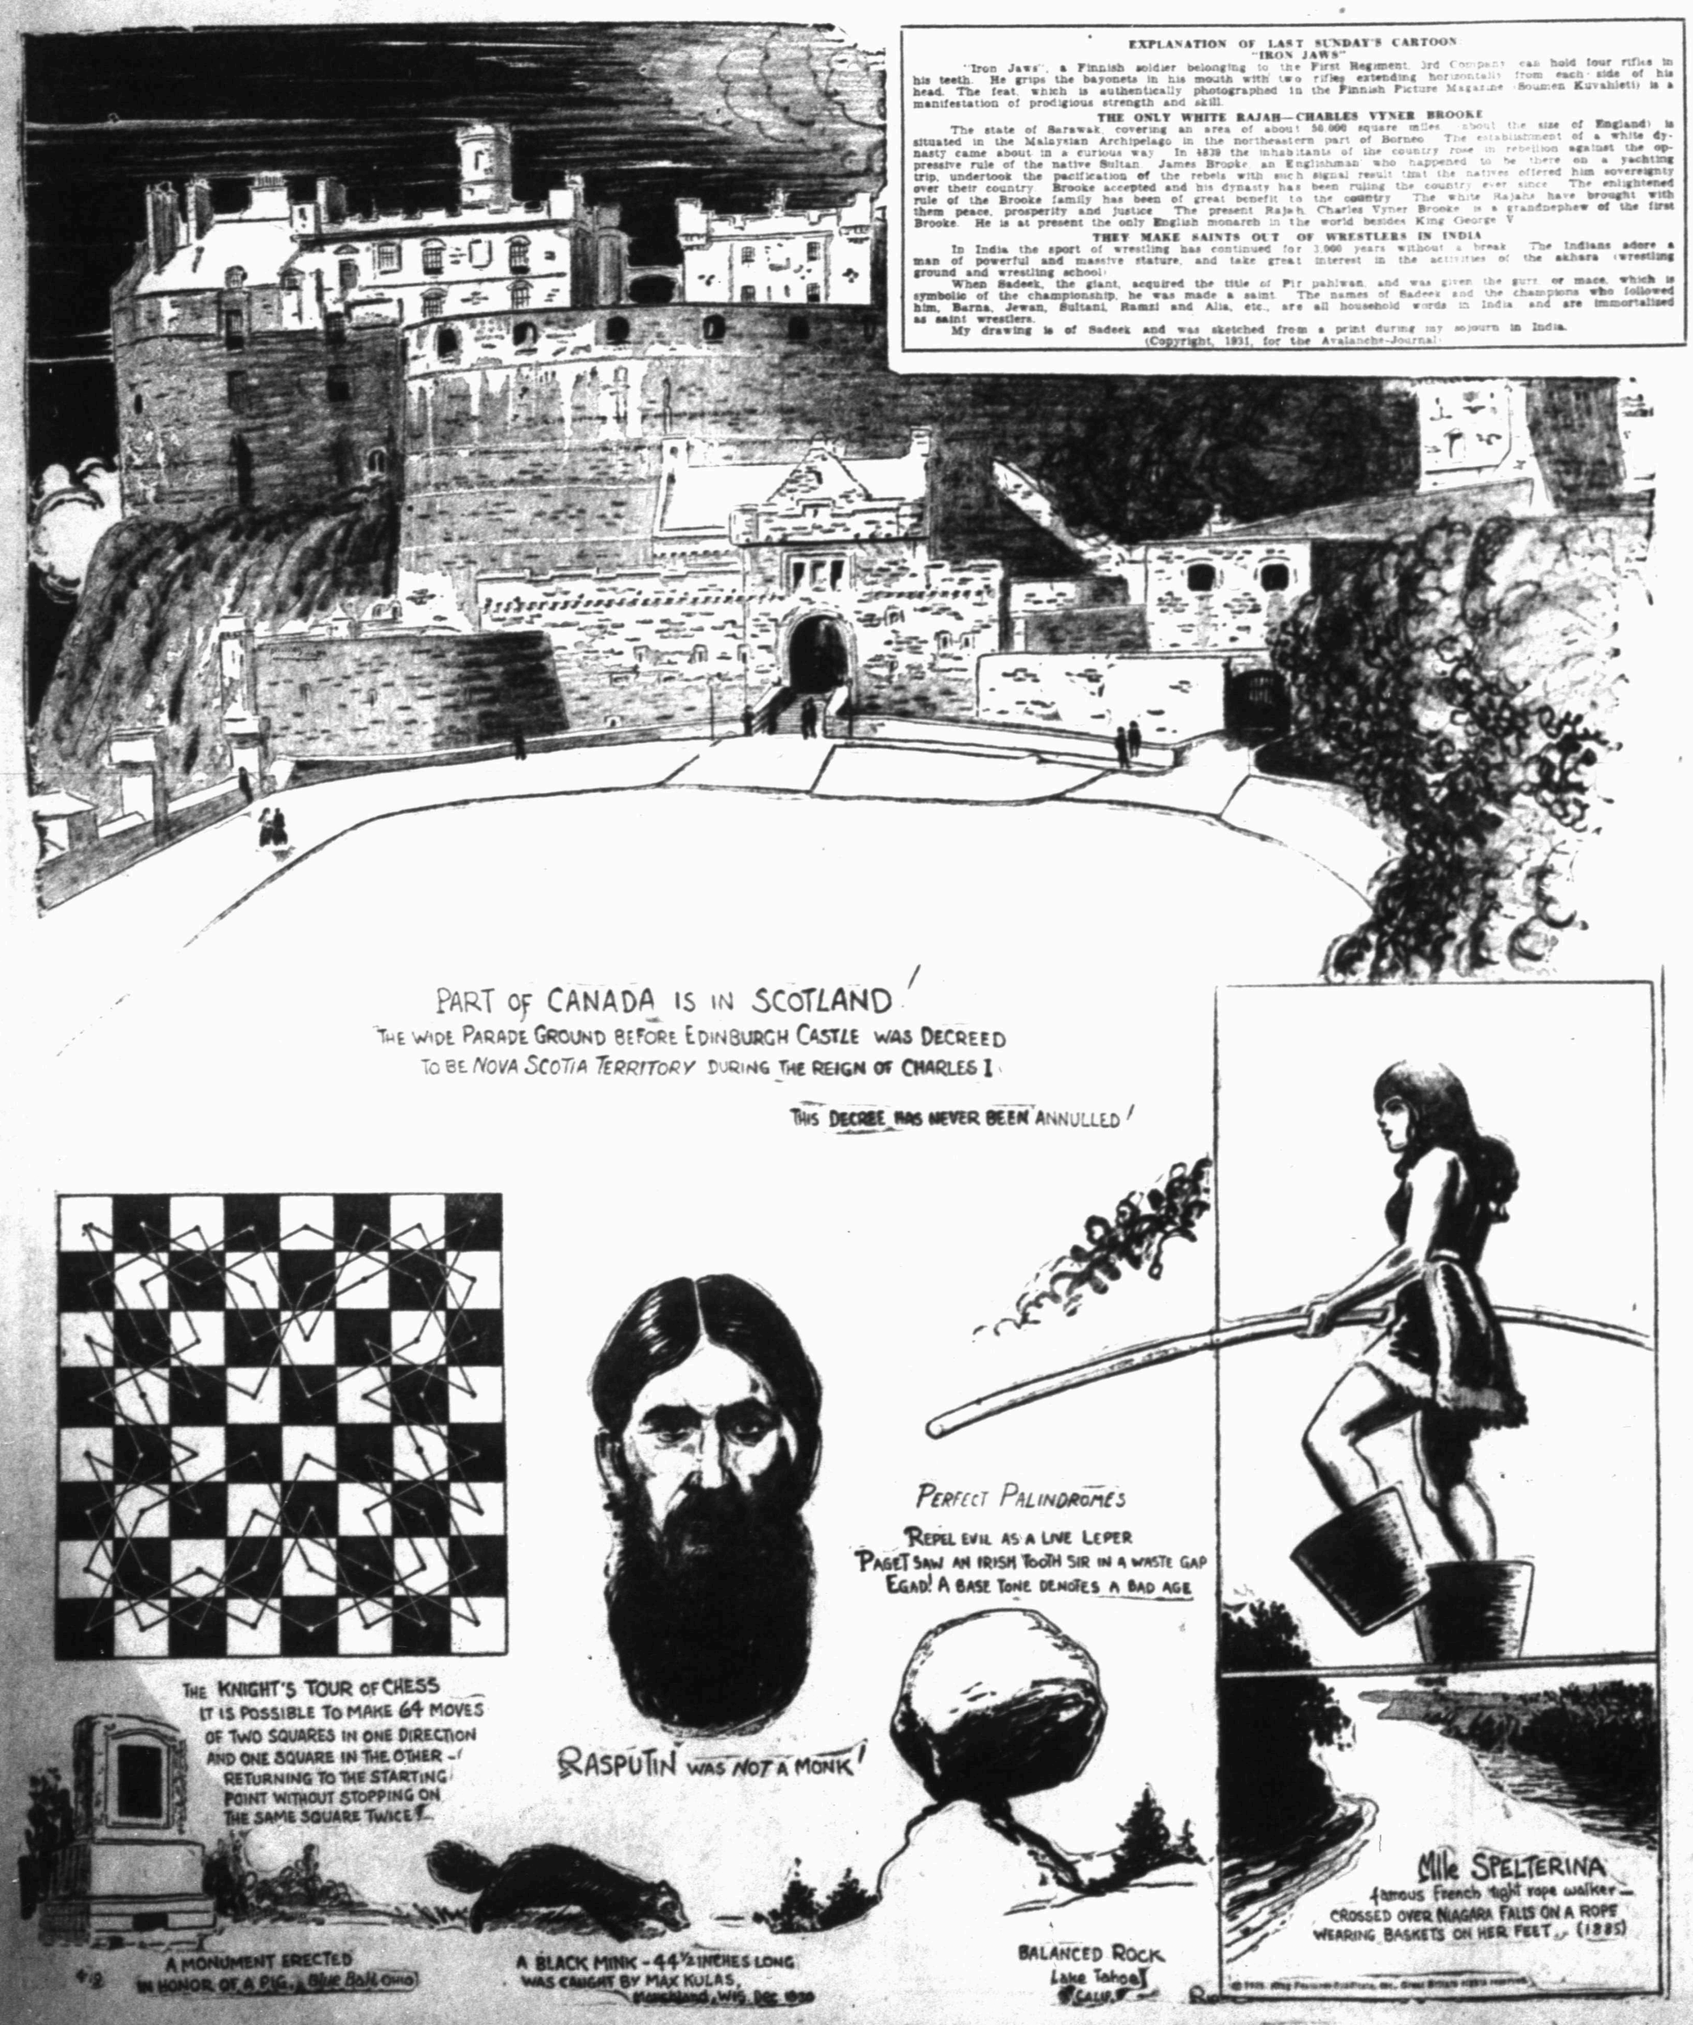

Wheeler County Man Plans To Open Up Pure Seed Farm

Tom Montgomery, of Wheeler, Wheeler county, one of the well known farmers and seed men of the east side of the Panhandle, has secured a supply of certified grain sorghums seeds from the Lubbock Experiment farm and is planning to open up a breeding farm and seek state certification, Don L. Jones, superintendent of the farm, says.

This will be the first certified breeder of grain sorghums in Wheeler county, in the event the state plant and seed board finds Mr. Montgomery complies with state regulations.

Mr. Montgomery is a brother of Harry Montgomery, Associated Press staff writer and bureau manager at Amarillo.

THE ONLY WHITE RAJAH—CHARLES VYNER BROOKE

The state of Sarawak, covering an area of about 50,000 square miles (about the size of England) is situated in the Malaysian Archipelago in the northeastern part of Borneo. The establishment of a white dynasty came about in a curious way. In 1839 the inhabitants of the country rose in rebellion against the oppressive rule of the native Sultan. James Brooke, an Englishman who happened to be there on a yachting trip, undertook the pacification of the rebels with such signal result that the natives offered him sovereignty over their country. Brooke accepted and his dynasty has been ruling the country ever since. The enlightened rule of the Brooke family has been of great benefit to the country. The white Rajahs have brought with them peace, prosperity and justice. The present Rajah, Charles Vyner Brooke, is a grandnephew of the first Brooke. He is at present the only English monarch in the world besides King George V.

THEY MAKE SAINTS OUT OF WRESTLERS IN INDIA

In India the sport of wrestling has continued for 3,000 years without a break. The Indians adore a man of powerful and massive stature, and take great interest in the activities of the akhara (wrestling ground and wrestling school).

When Sadeek, the giant, acquired the title of Pir pahlwan, and was given the gurz or mace, which is symbolic of the championship, he was made a saint. The names of Sadeek and the champions who followed him, Barna, Jewan, Sultani, Ramzi and Alia, etc., are all household words in India and are immortalised as saint wrestlers.

My drawing is of Sadeek and was sketched from a print during my sojourn in India.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Tinies dropped into a store to eat a little lunch. Once more they found an interesting thrill and everything was good. Big bowls of rice, just steaming hot, were brought. "Gee, I'll eat a lot," cried Blowny. "I am sure I'll stuff, although I never should."

A lot of other food came, too, and most of it was something new. When everyone had had his fill, one of the Tinies cried, "That was as good as it could be, but American food tastes best to me. I know I've eaten much too much." And then he slowly sighed.

Once more they sauntered down the street and smiled at everyone they'd meet. "I like the pretty costumes of some Chinese," Carpy said. And then he spied two little boys who, in their play, made lots of noise. One of them looked real cute. He had a queer hat on his head.

Kind Scouty said, "Well, howdy do!" The next thing that the Tinies knew, the little lads were running just as fast as they could run. "You scared them," said the Travel Man. "You're strangers here. That's why they ran. If they had only stopped to play, it would have been real fun."

When it began to grow real dark, one Tiny asked, Where will we park tonight to get much needed sleep?" The Travel Man said, "Well, I have a hunch that you may like, so to a nearby place we'll hike." He took the lead and into line the Tinymites all fell.

Real shortly they were in a place where, with a smile upon his face, the Travel Man said, "This, my boys, will answer very well. We'll have to sleep on blankets thick, but you will find that is no trick." And when they all had crawled in Coppy shouted, "This is swell."

(The Tinymites see some coolies at work in the next story.)

Rotarians Gather In Plainview Monday, Tuesday

Between 800 And 1,000 Are To Be Present

Arrangements Complete For Entertainment; Leaders Of Organization Will Take Part In Program

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

PLAINVIEW, April 18.—Arrangements are complete for the 41st District Rotary Conference to be held in Plainview Monday and Tuesday, April 20 and 21, according to Grady Shipp, general secretary of the conference.

Between 800 and 1000 visiting Rotarians are expected in Plainview when the program begins Monday morning. Local committees reported today that all plans were well under way and particular attention has been given details in providing for the convenience and comfort of the representatives from the sixty-one clubs in the district. J. C. Owens, conference treasurer, announced 519 registrations received to date, which is the largest of any previous conference.

Roth Speaks Monday

Great interest has been expressed throughout the district in the address of Almon E. Roth, of Palo Alto, California, President of Rotary International which will be the feature event of the two-day program. Mr. Roth will speak at 11:25 A. M. Monday. The Plainview conference is one of the three to be honored by the personal appearence of the International President this year.

Early arrivals at the conference will be greeted Sunday night at an informal reception at the Hilton hotel, conference headquarters. Prominent Rotarians will make addresses at various Plainview churches at the Sunday evening services.

Register On Monday

Registrations will be in order Monday morning prior to the opening of the first general session at 9:45.

Maury Hopkins, president of the Plainview club, will call the conference to order at 10 a. m. and extend a welcome to which H. C. Anderson of the Ranger club will respond.

Raymond H. Nichols, governor of the 41st district, is scheduled for an address at 10:25. Governor Nichols has devoted much time to conference preparations and his address is heralded with great interest among the hundreds of Rotarians with whom he has associated during his term of office.

Mr. Roth's address will follow announcements and presentation of past district governors and special guests.

To Hold Group Meetings

Monday afternoon will be devoted to group meetings beginning with luncheons at 12:30. Vocational service, club service, community service and international service will be subjects of discussion at four separete group meetings. Each group conference will be presided over by a past district governor and outstanding authorities on these particular phases of Rotary have been assigned to take part in the programs.

At 7:30 Monday night an informal dinner and entertainment will be held at the municipal auditorium which will be followed by dancing at the Hilton Hotel and Elks club.

A club executives breakfast for all club presidents and secretaries will open Tuesday's activities at 7:15 a. m.

An address by Allen Street of Oklahoma City, Past District Governor 12th District Rotary International will feature the morning general conference session which will include presentation of resolutions and nominations of candidates for district governor. Lewis D. Fox of Fort Worth, N. S. Holland of Breckenridge and R. E. Jackson of Denton will also appear on the morning's program.

To Hear Reports

Following a general luncheon at the municipal auditorium reports of conference committees will be held, cities desiring the 1932 conference will extend invitations and the election committee will announce the district governor nominee.

Outstanding on Tuesday afternoons program will be an address by Walter D. Cline, of Wichita Falls, the first District Governor of the 41st District and past first vice president of Rotary International.

Group singing during the general sessions will be led by R. E. Shepard of Wichita Falls.

To Hold Dinner

An informal dinner at 7:30 Tuesday night honoring the district governor nominee and the International president and their wives will be the closing event of the conference.

Special arrangements are being made for the entertainment of visiting Rotary Anns and a musical tea at the Plainview Country Club Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock will be the high spot in the ladies' activities.

Golf, tennis, swimming, sightseeing trips and other special forms of entertainment have been planned.

The Plainview Chamber of Commerce, Board of City Development, Lions Club, Kiwanis Club and other civic organizations are cooperating with the local Rotary club in planning for the entertainment of the visitors. Special decorations will adorn the streets, business houses and meeting places.

Lubbock Club To Have Full List Present

Tom A. White In Charge Of "On To Plainview" Group; Tech Band To Lead Parade On Monday Morning

LUBBOCK Rotarians are to attend the Plainview convention in a body, according to plans made by the club officials during the past week. The club members will leave here early Monday morning. Tom A. White is chairman of the "On To Plainview" committee and is in charge of the delegation.

Accompanying the Lubbock delegation will be the 40-piece band of Texas Technological college. The band will lead the parade of the local Rotarians through the streets of Plainview Monday.

A majority of the Rotarians will spend the entire day in Plainview Monday, many of them returning on Tuesday for the second day's events.

No regular meeting of the club will be held this week, the Plainview trip accounting for attendance.

Damage To Shrubs, Trees From Plant Lice Not Big

Damage to shrubs and trees, especially fruit trees, from aphids, or plant lice, is not as great now as it was before the last of March, in the opinion of Professor Charles H. Mahoney, head of the horticulture department at Texas Technological college.

"The damage can be checked by the proper treatment," he said. "If one gets after them with a spray, their devastations can be checked."

During March Professor Mahoney said he had heard many reports of the damage by aphids to trees and shrubs, especially arbor vitae. "I have not heard of much damage since," he added. "The freeze killed most of them. There are several treatments that can be given that will stop their work."

Expect 150 Visitors For Retail Mercnants Convention

Business Men Will Be Here For Conclave

Elaborate Preparations Are Being Made For Lubbock To Entertain Guests During Big Three-Day Meeting

MORE than 150 out-of-town business men, including some of Texas' most prominent retailers, are expected to attend the annual convention of the Retail Merchants' Association of Texas, and its three affiliated organizations, to be held in Lubbock, May 25, 26 and 27, according to Paul Sherrod, chairman of the special arrangements committee.

Elaborate preparations are being made by the chamber of commerce to entertain the city's guests during the three-day period, Mr. Sherrod said. While the convention primarily will be a business meeting, provisions for affording recreative features on the program are being made by the local committee in cooperation with officials of the state organizations, he said.

Chiefs To Attend

Concurring with the Retail Merchants' association in the meeting here will be the Associated Retail Credit Men of Texas: Texas Retail Credit bureaus, and the Texas Service Grocers' association. Carl Mueller, Austin, is president of the Retail Merchants' association; Paul Katzmark, San Antonio, is head of the credit men's organization: G. D. Wendt, Temple, is president of the state retail credit bureaus, and Karl W. Cullum, Dallas, is chief of the service grocers' organization. All of the executives have indicated they will attend the Lubbock convention, Mr. Sherrod said.

The business program for the conclave has not been announced, but with the exception of a few minor details has been completed, the chamber of commerce has been informed. Robert Stern, credit manager of A. Harris company, of Dallas, is general program chairman.

To Meet Separately

The four groups will meet separately during the first morning of the meeting, according to tentative arrangements. A joint luncheon will be held at noon and ni the afternoon the visiting delegates will be given an automobile ride over the city. The ride will end at Texas Technological college where the business men will be shown through the engineering building nad will attend an athletic shog to be staged by Technological college athletes, under the direction of Coach Pete Cawthon.

Tuesday, the second day of the meet, the groups again will hold separate sessions, but will meet together Tuesday night for the annual banquet of the ossociation. Wednesday, the final day of the convention, individual and joint sessions will be held.

Seek Big Attendance

Effort will be made to get as many retail merchants as possible to attend the Lubbock meeting, according to E. L. Robertson, president of the Lubbock Retail Merchants' association. The program is being arranged to appeal to the merchants as well as the credit men.

"We are expecting a large turnout of South Plains business men," "One of our arguments, used in gaining the state convention for Lubbock, was that merchants of the South Plains territory would attend the sessions. It is now up to us to make good our word."

Lubbock obtained the state meeting only after four or five years of effort, Mr. Robertson pointed out. Last year, 27 Lubbock members of the organizations attended the convention at New Braunfels for the purpose of getting the convention, he said.

Several cities have indicated they plan to send large delegations to Lubbock, according to Mr. Sherrod. One of the largest groups is expected to come from Mineral Wells, one of the cities seeking the 1932 convention.

Assisting Mr. Sherrod on the general committee in charge of arrangements are W. O. Daniels, W. W. Rix, J. B. Hassell, jr., and R. C. Smith. Sub-committees, with the following as chairmen, will be appointed later: Mr. Daniels, arrangements; Mr. Rix, women's entertainment and music; Mr. Hassell, reception and transportation, and Mr. Smith, local and state attendance. Mr. Rix and Mr. Smith will be in charge of entertainment and stunts.

Bamberger Boy Is "Real Bamberger"; Mixed-Up Babies In Doubt No More

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, April 18.—Blood will tell, as two families have found eight months after the Watkins-Bamberger baby mix-up was a national sensation.

And the Solomon decision of Dr. Arnold Kegel, young Chicago health commissioner, ranks as somewhat of a twentieth century duplication of the sagacity of the ancient king of the Jews.

Both families, the William Watkinses and the Charles Bambergers, are satisfield the children are theirs, said Dr. Kegel. The Bamberger boy has taken on the facial and statute aspects of two other children, three and five years old, and of the parents. The Watkinses no longer live in Chicago.

The Watkins-Bamberger "mix-up" began last June when boys were born in the same hospital on the same night to Mrs. Watkins and Mrs. Bamberger.

When the Watkinses went home from the hospital, two weeks later, they found an adhesive on their baby's back, bearing the name "Bamberger," and the Bamberger child was marked "Watkins."

The Watkinses complaint tossed the baby mix-up before the public in page one headlines. Joseph Sabath of divorce fame was called upon to settle the question. Dr. Kegel finally took a hand and introduced seven other physicians.

Through blood tests and physical measurements, the health commissioner adjudged which was a Bamberger, and which a Watkins. There was some grumbling but the adjustment stood.

"No, we're tired of the affair and want to be left alone," was Bamberger's remark when asked about his eight-months old son. But he smilingly added. "He's a Bamberger."

Tech To Send 25 To Session

Journalism Students Are To Attend Southwestern Journalism Congress; Busses Are To Be Chartered

Texas Technological college will be well represented at the Southwestern Journalism congress at the University of Texas in Austin next month following the recent announcement that 25 students will attend. Accompanied by Cecil Horne, Tech journalism professor, and Miss Lucille Gill, member of the English department and sponsor of the Tech Press club, the students will leave here April 30 and will return May 4.

To cut down expenses and to provide a more convenient way of traveling, two busses have been chartered for the trip. Reasonable rates have been offered, according to those in charge.

An interesting program has been worked out for the two-day session, May 1 and 2, according to word from Austin. Miss Faye Foote, Tech student from Sudan, is secretary of the student organization. Mr. Horne is one of the officials. James Strange, Tulia, Frank Emison, Brownwood, and Eva Rob Watkins, Seagraves, have been appointed to work out all trip arrangements and complete plans will be made this week.

On Sunday, May 3, the group will visit in San Antonio, returning to Lubbock the following day. Class absence excuses will be provided for students makting the trip.

Special Courses Offered By M. H. Duncan In Tech

M. H. Duncan, superintendent of the Lubbock schools, will teach three courses in education at the annual summer school session of Texas Technological college, it is announced by Dean James Gordon of the college of Liberal Arts.

DUNCAN

Courses taught by Mr. Duncan will be: Foundations of Method, the Group and Study Method and Classroom Organization and Control.

"The courses will cover the theory and practice of classroom procedure followed in the Lubbock public schools," Mr. Duncan said in a discussion of his work for the course. "Teachers everywhere are more and more seeing the wastefulness of the old recitation method where the child memorizes and repeats, to the teacher the contents of the text book.

"The new method is based on the idea that children learn to do by doing and it thus seeks to create a situation where thy have the opportunity to practice the things we would have them learn, especially the proper study procedure, in order that they may build for themselves correct study habits."

In the first course Mr. Duncan will use as a basis Kilpatrick's "Foundations of Method" and in the second Maguire's "Group-Study Plan" and Monroe's "Directing Learning in the High School."

CUT AIR RATE

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 18—(AP)—The Oklahoma-Texas air lines announced today that 20 per cent reduction on round-trip fares between Oklahoma City, Wichita Falls and Lawton, Okla., effective immediately. The company which took over the route abandoned by the Braniff Airways, Inc. will operate on a schedule of one round-trip daily.

Foreign Student Likes Texas Tech

BY MARSHALL FORMBY
Tech Correspondent

GOING abroad, even to attend school, probably would mean a glorious adventure to any American youth, but to Sol Olim, Lithuanian youth now enrolled at Texas Technological college, it is the realization of a desire born years ago in Europe—the completion of a study of engineering and chemistry.

"I like it all ver', ver', much." Olim stammered in broken English when asked his opinion of the United States, American customs and the people in general. "I like it all but the sandstorms and prohibition. In France we have wine with almost every meal."

Sister At Slaton

The young Lithuanian registered at Texas Tech March 23 for the spring term. He has a sister at Slaton and chose the school here at her request. He has other sisters at Birmingham, Ala., and Cleveland, Ohio. He came here from Toulouse, France, where he had attended school for two years.

Another thing worries Olim—why the opera is not more popular in America. "In France," he says, "everyone goes to the opera, even the peasants and lower classes when it is possible."

Picks Up English

Although he had spoken very little English before coming here, the youth is "picking it up" with alarming rapidity. "I have not been here long enough to know much about this country," he said, "but I like America fine and especially Tech. In France, I studied engineering, chemistry, math and drawing. Here they make me take many other subjects. While it takes four years for a degree, it takes but three there."

Born in the small country of Lithuania, Olim received his primary education in the public schools of that country, with the exception of a few months he spent with some of his relatives in Russia. His mother owns a small tract of land there on which is raised potatoes and other truck products. Two years ago he went to Toulouse, France, where he studied at the University of Toulouse until coming to Lubbock. Cost of attending that school in comparison with Texas Tech is about the same, he figures.

French people drink lots of wine, but little alcohol, he points out, and rarely do you see anyone drunk. As for the sandstorms, they don't exist in France nor Lithuania. Outside of the sandstorms, though, he is pleased with the climate of Texas.

Olim intends to obtain his degree in engineering at Tech before returning to Europe. Following this he will practice engineering in either France or Lithuania. He worries very little, however, about where he will work, for besides speaking English, French and his native tongue, Lithuanian, he speaks Hebrew, German and Russian.

WOMAN CONVICTED

LINDEN, April 18. (AP)—Mrs. Elmer Walker, 30, of Texarkana, yesterday was convicted of robbery with firearms and was assessed a five-year penitentiary sentence. Her husband pleaded guilty on the same charge and was given a seven-year sentence by the Cass county district court. They were charged in connection with the holdup robbery of the Richey Motor company at Atlanta, Texas last November. Three youths, Gilbert Tedders, Melvin Morris and Tom Nixon, charged in connection with the robbery also, were tried April 13.

Maid Inherits Fund From Mistress

NEW YORK, April 18.—Adele Aubin, for 22 years in the service of Mrs. Rebecca Witherell, has just been willed $110,000 at the death of her mistress—and she says she'll still continue to work as maid and companion of Mrs. Witherell's sister, Emma Thorne. Mlle. Aubin came to America from Paris 25 years ago.

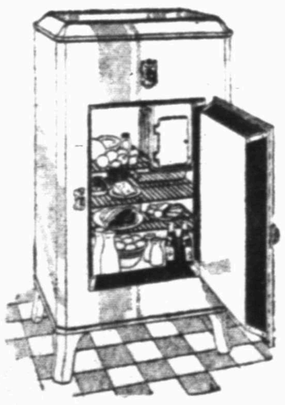

TO HOLD HEARING

WASHINGTON, April 18 (AP)—The radio commission has decided to hold a hearing later on the application of Kirby Lee Horton and Lee Colvin McConnell, of Clovis, N. M., for permission to erect a broadcasting station with 1310 kilocycles and 100 watts power, time unlimited. No date was set.
