

2 potential waste dump sites far from Scurry

Attempts to find land for sale in Scurry or adjoining county which would serve as a disposal site for low-level radioactive waste have proved unsuccessful, state officials say.

In line with this, potential land sales have been identified in two other Texas counties a considerable distance west and south of here.

This was the report given Monday morning by Tom Blackburn, a public relations officer for the Texas Low-Level Radioactive Waste Disposal Authority based in Austin.

"There are two areas where we have found land for sale which meets our criteria," Blackburn said. These potential "sites" are in Hudspeth County located in far West Texas near El Paso and Dimmitt County located southwest of San Antonio.

Potential dumping sites would comprise approximately 300 acres, agency personnel have indicated.

The search for a waste site area was narrowed in July to 16 counties in Texas including Scurry and four neighboring counties.

Since that time, protests have been raised here by concerned citizens as well as elected officials comprising both the commissioner's court and city council.

When asked if agency officials were no longer considering the local area as a potential site, Blackburn said "If we could find land for sale which meets the criteria, Scurry County would of course still be considered."

As part of the requirement for such a sale, however, he noted that all rights to the land must be acquired, both surface and mineral.

The "mineral" stipulation, he indicated, had considerably narrowed the sale possibilities for such oil-producing counties as Scurry.

"At this point, we're not very optimistic," he said regarding a possible land sale in this or adjacent counties.

Others under consideration by the agency included Borden, Garza, Howard and Mitchell in addition to Knox, Baylor, Haskell and Throckmorton Counties.

Earlier indications were that the agency had hoped to have a final site selection by the middle of October. Blackburn said Monday it will now likely be after Jan. 1, 1984 before this decision is reached.

Ask Us

Q. — How long before the city condemns that burned out house on 30th St. near Ave. M?

A. — City officials report a 90-day notification process has been completed for a structure at 1106 30th St. and it is expected to be torn down by city crews in the near future. In such cases, property owners are given the 90-day period to begin renovation on burned structures. If they do not do so, the city then has the option to tear the house down.

Mini subs probe for plane

WAKKANAI, Japan (AP) — Two Soviet mini-submarines probed waters off Sakhalin Island today as the Soviet Union pressed its secretive search for the South Korean airliner it shot out of the sky with 269 people aboard, officials said.

In the United States, memorial services were conducted in Missouri and Connecticut, and the Idaho statehouse was draped in black to honor those aboard Korean Air Lines Flight 007 when it was shot down Sept. 1 after flying into Soviet airspace over Sakhalin.

In other developments, the Republican National Committee chairman said President Reagan's handling of the crisis has softened his "trigger happy" image and the editor of the Soviet Communist Party newspaper Pravda criticized his country's armed forces for delaying acknowledgment that Soviet jets shot down the Boeing 747 with heat-seeking missiles.

1st black woman wins title

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Like her predecessors, Miss America 1984 will face many questions, from her opinion of the Soviets to whether she dyes her hair. But as the first black to reign, Vanessa Williams also expects queries about her race "because I am making waves."

The 20-year-old from Millwood, N.Y., said she has a goal for her year as the 57th Miss America: "I want to show there is no difference between a black and white Miss America."

Black leaders across the country hailed her historic victory in the pageant, a 62-year-old American tradition that barred minority participation for its first three decades.

"It's good that another of America's cultural and social institutions has ripped down a curtain that excluded American women who were young, gifted and black," said the Rev. Joseph Lowery, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Herd levels have decreased

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Agriculture Department expert predicts that when the nation's cattle herds are rebuilt again, they probably will not reach the record of 132 million head set on Jan. 1, 1975.

Ronald A. Gustafson, a livestock economist in USDA's Economic Research Service, says in a new outlook report that the cattle herd cutbacks of recent years have left a surplus of grazing land that will not be utilized fully in the near future.

"While herd expansion will likely be slow — not really starting until 1986 or 1987 — the present forage area on farms and ranches could allow for expansion to 120 million to 124 million head," he said.

Domino teams to seek repeat

The deadline to enter the 3rd Annual Domino Tournament is Wednesday with the winning partnerships from both previous events planning to compete again.

The tournament will run Thursday through Saturday as part of activities planned in conjunction with the 19th Annual Scurry County Fair.

Past winners include the teams of J.J. Hall and George Richardson, who took honors at the first event, and Elbert Jones and Henry Treat, last year's winners.

Tourney officials say both teams have registered to play again.

This year's tournament begins at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in the Scurry County Coliseum. The coliseum and adjacent grounds will be the center for all fair activities here, which open to the public at noon Thursday.

A myriad of exhibits and fair competitions will then continue until 10 p.m. each night of the fair.

Activity at the coliseum should start Tuesday, however, as fair booth construction gets underway and the first entries for fair competitions begin to be accepted.

The playoff for the domino tournament is scheduled Saturday at 10 a.m.

Registration for the event is being conducted through the continuing education office at Western Texas College. An entry fee of $10 per team is asked.

The winners will be awarded a clock trophy and a dinner for themselves and their wives compliments of The Shack restaurant.

Second place winners will be awarded a trophy also. Individuals with questions may contact Jerry Baird at WTC by calling 573-8511, ext. 240.

Heavy rains drench South Texas

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — One woman drowned in San Antonio and authorities used boats to rescue motorists from a section of flood-drenched Interstate 37 in Atascosa County as heavy thunderstorms drenched the South Texas area.

In Houston today, torrential rains flooded streets and underpasses, stalling cars and stranding rush-hour motorists, said Dick Hawkins of the Harris County Civil Defense. School was canceled in the Alief and Stafford school districts.

Several homes in southwest Houston also reported several inches of water inside, Hawkins said.

"In some places, we've got 4- to 5-foot of water in the roads. There are cars that have been flooded out and blocking the intersections and the usual rush-hour fender benders, but nothing serious. Things have pretty much come to a halt," he said.

Josephine Quintanilla, 17, drowned in the car she was driving Sunday night when it got stuck in high water, San Antonio authorities said. Two children in the car, ages 11 and 13, escaped.

Relatives told police that Ms. Quintanilla was pregnant. Her car went into the San Pedro Creek about 5:30 p.m. Sunday, said patrol Sgt. Alan Langford.

"The whole thing was underwater — the street and all," he said. "It was just a matter of getting out into the current and getting swept away."

Stretches of Interstate Highway 37 and U.S. Highway 281 near Campbellton, in Atascosa County, were closed early today after 5 to 7 feet of water gushed onto the roadways after eight hours of downpour, authorities said.

Authorities used boats to rescue an undetermined number of drivers who were stranded by the high water, said an Atascosa County sheriff's dispatcher who asked not to be identified.

"There are quite a few stranded vehicles out there," the dispatcher said.

A flash flood warning was posted for Harris, Fort Bend, Brazoria and Liberty counties. A flash flood and flood watch was in effect for Southeast Texas, the upper coast and a small part of south central Texas.

Fire contract report slated

Further discussion and probable action is due here Monday night regarding a contract under consideration by the City of Snyder to provide "when needed" fire protection for neighboring Borden County.

It is included among an eight-item agenda which the council will discuss during a special called meeting beginning at 6 p.m. at city hall.

An executive session to discuss possible litigation against the city is planned at 6 p.m. with the council to go back into public session at 7 p.m.

Regarding the fire contract, Borden County officials have requested the local fire department be on call for possible fires occurring in the eastern half of the county.

At the regular September council meeting Sept. 5, city councilmen agreed in concept to the plan, but asked City Manager John Gayle to work out details of the agreement with Borden County Judge Van York.

He is to report the results of his and York's meeting Monday. City staffers have also prepared a preliminary fire contract to be considered.

—Other agenda items before the council Monday include:

—A public hearing for a zone change requested by L&W Developers in the Noble Heights Addition. The request involves changing an area from R-1 to C-1 zoning and involves the proposed construction of apartments there.

—Reviewing appointments to the Planning and Zoning Commission. With the recent adoption of a new zoning ordinance in See CITY, page 7

U.S. Senate expected to reject nuclear freeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposed nuclear weapons freeze faces an uphill test in Congress this week with supporters saying the Korean airliner crisis makes its approval more urgent and opponents saying the episode dims its already bleak prospects.

"I don't think the nuclear freeze resolution would have passed the Senate" before the plane was shot down, Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., told reporters as the Senate Foreign Relations Committee prepared for a vote Tuesday on the issue.

"I think it has less chance now," added Percy, chairman of the committee and an opponent of the freeze.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., a principal supporter of the freeze, said in a speech last week that the Soviet downing of the Korean airliner shows that "since we can't trust the Soviets, we need a verifiable agreement ... to reduce arms."

The House-passed nuclear freeze resolution is one of several arms control proposals to be considered by the committee, including a measure with 45 sponsors that calls for a "build-down" of nuclear warheads — scrapping two for each one added.

National Security Adviser William P. Clark told the committee Aug. 2 that the administration, which opposes the freeze, was working on plans to implement the build-down and would present them before Tuesday's meeting.

After an administration briefing on the issue last week, however, Sen. Larry Pressler, R-S.D., chairman of the arms control subcommittee, said the administration "remains unprepared on this issue."

Percy, on the other hand, said that Kenneth L. Adelman, director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, told him Friday that "they felt they had made some very great progress" on the issue.

"Several meetings with the administration have led me to believe the build-down is a realistic proposal," Percy said.

Whatever resolution the committee approves, he predicted, would state as its objective "to destroy every single nuclear weapon on Earth."

Percy also said the committee plans hearings soon on a Democrat-sponsored resolution designed to hold President Reagan to a 60- to 90-day time limit on the commitment of U.S. Marines.

Border aid is to be sent elsewhere

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Much of $94.8 million in federally guaranteed bonds awarded to a Texas firm in a Reagan Administration program to expedite aid to depressed border areas will most likely be spent in Europe and Asia, the El Paso Times has reported in a copyright story.

At least $80 million of the money described by the administration as border aid will help Global Marine Inc., the world's fourth largest builder of offshore drilling rigs, pay for its construction projects elsewhere, the newspaper reported Sunday.

Noel DeWinter, manager of budgets and analysis for Global Marine, said he expects the Houston company will sell more than $100 million in bonds to private investors.

While Global is obligated to pay off the bonds, the federal government guarantees payment if Global defaults.

DeWinter said a maximum of $14 million of the $94.8 million in bond proceeds may be spent in Brownsville, the newspaper reported.

Meredith Armstrong, spokeswoman for Vice President George Bush, said she was unaware the money from Global's bond sale would probably not be spent in Brownsville.

"It disturbs me a great deal that this money will go elsewhere," she told the Times. "I understood the grant was for money to be used in Brownsville."

Bush headed the administration's task force assigned to deal with border problems.

Ms. Armstrong had reported Tuesday that $94.8 million in federally guaranteed bonds would pay for an off-shore drilling rig that Marathon-LeTourneau Inc. is erecting at its Brownsville shipyard and $8 million would go for other Texas border aid.

Global Marine Deep Water Drilling Inc., a subsidiary, does have a 20 percent share of a $70-million drilling rig being built by Marathon-LeTourneau at Brownsville, DeWinter said.

"We could use it (the bond money) for that but we probably won't," he said.

Ms. Armstrong said the money would assure the continued employment of more than 500 workers in Brownsville.

But the Times reported that a Marathon-LeTourneau spokesman said Friday that it builds rigs for Global Marine, which provides the financial guarantees. Marathon-LeTourneau, the spokesman said, had not applied for $94.8 million in bond money and referred the newspaper to Houston-based Global Marine.

DeWinter said the Reagan administration's claim was "not correct at all," the Times said.

Most of the money — maybe all of it — will help Global Marine pay for drilling rigs under construction in France, Finland and Singapore, DeWinter said.

The newspaper said it talked to DeWinter Friday.

The administration, acting through the federal Maritime Administration, approved the company's 1979 application for federal guarantees on bonds to finance construction of three drilling rigs in Pascagoula, Mississippi.

"When the Reagan Administration came to power, they slowed the Maritime Administration's loan guarantee program," DeWinter said. "We had already started construction, so we paid for the rigs out of our own pocket."

"The (bond) money's a little late, as you can see, but we can put it in our general coffers because that's where it came from to begin with."

Ms. Armstrong, Bush's press aide, said she based her announcement earlier in the week on information given to her by the U.S. Department of Transportation.

DeWinter also disagreed with the administration's claim that it expedited the decision to approve Global's application.

"My understanding is that they had some left, and with the approach of a new budget year, they saw they had to use these federal loan guarantees or they wouldn't get them again," he said.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Diverticulosis diet

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband has been diagnosed as having diverticulosis. He has several pockets, some quite large. He is on a diet of no seeds and no raw vegetables that would be hard to digest, such as carrots and cabbage.

Since being on this diet he has improved some. But he has spells when he cannot work. His stomach becomes sore and bloated, he becomes constipated and he fatigues easily. An enema and very low-key activity for a day or so gets him back to normal.

Will he always have these spells? Are clear water enemas as often as once a week harmful? Are there other dietary factors? We have been increasing fiber in his diet. Is this wise? Would something like Metamucil daily be beneficial or harmful in the long run? How do nerves affect this condition if at all?

DEAR READER — From your description of your husband's symptoms — gas, distention and constipation — it sounds as though he also has a spastic colon. Many authorities think the distention causes the pockets of the colon. The pressure literally causes a blow out or rupture in the wall of the colon causing the diverticuli.

Unless you have a complication such as inflammation, perforation or bleeding, diverticuli are usually asymptomatic. But the condition is often combined with a spastic colon.

You are moving in the right direction. I recommend a gradual improvement in bulk in the diet, if none of the three complications I mentioned are present. Metamucil and other bulk formers are useful in this way.

You need to find out which foods cause gas and distention. Milk is sometimes a cause. Coffee is a frequent irritant of the digestive system. That includes the decaffeinated form. I would recommend stopping all coffee, tea, colas and carbonated drinks and any foods identified as causing gas. He should do this while increasing the bulk in his diet. Smoking should be stopped.

A tap water enema once a week if needed is not likely to be harmful.

You will better appreciate what your husband should do from reading The Health Letter 5-6, Diverticulosis, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Two years ago I began a slow diet, my own. I ate the same, although emphasizing steaming foods rather than frying, with smaller portions. At the same time I worked on an increasingly demanding exercise program. The results have been rewarding, most of a 25-pound beer belly is gone. I am 37, 6 foot 2 and was 228 pounds. Now I'm 200 pounds.

My question is, can one also have fat feet? Can one literally drop a shoe size as well as a waist size? I ask because my seasonal footwear — boots, ski boots and the like — now require a heavier sock and still feel loose.

DEAR READER — Your feet are affected by body fat. And many people who are overweight tend to have an increased retention of body water. It is common for a person who loses weight to develop loose shoes. As bony as feet appear to be, they do contain fat.

Congratulations on the success of your sensible program. And use two pairs of socks for your feet — one lightweight and one heavy if two heavy ones are not comfortable. That also helps to protect against blisters and discomfort. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Generations of quackery delayed emergence of electro-physiology as a science.

Itinerant healers with their magic boxes of flashing lights and dancing dials hoodwinked the culpable with extravagant claims and some profited handsomely.

Now when electrical science and biological science discover that pulsing electromagnetism really does heal hurts, it takes some explaining.

But now more than a hundred formal medical papers have been presented and published affirming that we will make bones grow and thus heal fractures with electrical stimulation.

Healing can be accelerated in a fractured joint with a device which appears as simple as an electric vibrator — strapped to the injury during the patient's sleeping hours.

Dr. Clinton Compere, Northwestern University, writing in the AMA Journal, says, "the use of pulsing electromagnetic fields and direct-current stimulation for the treatment of delayed and nonunion fractures is proving to be a major advance in traumatic orthopedic surgery."

That's just part of it. "Now," he adds, "there appears to be a definite healing effect with regard to low-grade infections."

It's beginning to sound like Star Trek medicine when broken bones which have refused for months or even years to heal are placed in a pulsing electromagnetic field — and promptly heal themselves.

No surgery, no discomfort, no side-effects. In orthopedics, few challenges have been more frustrating than congenital pseudoarthrosis, formation of a "false joint." Now this disabling disease responds dramatically and unequivocally to electrical and/or electromagnetic stimulation.

Thousands of patients have experienced a success rate of 90 percent plus in healing nonunion fractures "electrically."

Used in combination with bone-grafting, the combined therapies have a phenomenal success rate of 98.5 percent.

The classical surgical repair for a fracture which fails to "grow back together" has sometimes involved bone grafting or patching with plates and screws. Always with these repairs there was the risk of infection and other postoperative complications.

As of eight years ago we began experimenting with inducing weak electrical currents into the tissue and the result — with no risk to the patient — is that fibrocartilage in the fracture is calcified (replaced by bone).

As of November 1979 the use of pulsing electromagnetic fields for this purpose was approved by the FDA, is now becoming generally available.

Law officers believe Lucas

AUSTIN (AP) — Wandering handyman Henry Lee Lucas, who now claims to have killed 156 people, has told law officers that his first victim was a schoolteacher he killed when he was 13 after the woman spurned his advances, the Austin American-Statesman reported.

Lucas has given investigators such vivid details of the killings that they have no reason to doubt him, according to a report in the Austin American-Statesman.

"This guy's not crazy," an unidentified law officer was quoted by the newspaper in a story published Sunday. "He's very sane, very smart and very cold-blooded."

Lucas, 47, is jailed in the North Texas town of Montague, where he is awaiting trial in the slaying of 80-year-old Kate Rich of nearby Ringgold. He has been charged with four other slayings in Texas and one in California.

After his arrest in the Rich case, Lucas told authorities he had killed about 100 women in 16 states.

The officer said Lucas recently told authorities his first victim was a schoolteacher he killed when he was 13 and living in Blacksburg, Va. He said Lucas claims to have killed the woman and hidden her body in the mountains after she spurned his advances.

Burglary among reports

Snyder police are investigating a variety of complaints, including one residential burglary, reported over the weekend.

Jay Cox of the Eastridge Apartments called city police at 11 a.m. Saturday and filed a burglary report in reference to the theft of $650 worth of stereo gear from a residence in the 2700 Block of Ave. F.

Cox told investigators that the stereo equipment had been stolen from the residence while he was living there in March or April of 1983.

Charles Bollinger of 1706 Ave. R filed a theft complaint at 3 p.m. Saturday.

Rural fire

Snyder firemen were called to a rural grass and wood fire reported on property owned by Morris Light. The fire was noted two miles east of Indale at 2:45 p.m. Saturday.

According to fire officials, damage from the blaze was confined to the grass and a sizeable number of railroad ties stacked in the area.

According to reports, four hubcaps, valued at $80, were taken from his 1979 Chevrolet Corvette while the car was parked at Snyder High School Friday night.

V.L. Buchanan of Rt. 2 Snyder filed a second theft report at 8:02 p.m. Saturday. He told investigators that a power jig saw, two 100-ft. extension cords and several hand tools had been taken from a house behind the VFW Building in North Snyder.

Total value of the missing tools was listed as $405. Jesse Falkenberg filed the weekend's third theft report at 2:37 p.m. Sunday. He said a refrigerated air-conditioning unit had been stolen from the Bethel Baptist Church at 1708 Ave. E. No value was set for the missing window-type air-conditioner.

The weekend's lone criminal mischief report was filed by Paul Jaramillo at 7:27 p.m. Sunday. According to reports, the windshield of Jaramillo's 1978 Ford pickup had been broken out while the truck was parked at the Scurry County Coliseum earlier in the evening. Value of damage to the truck was listed at $300.

City police also jailed five persons for public intoxication and three for DWI during the weekend. One of the suspects charged with DWI was also charged with misdemeanor possession of marijuana and one of the DWI suspects was charged with one count of disorderly conduct.

Special group aids in search

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Sally File receives 30 calls a day from mothers hunting the babies they gave up years ago and from now-grown children searching for their natural parents.

And the organization she helped create five years ago to help in adoption searches has resulted in 254 reunions between families.

By law, the state Human Services Department cannot give out information about adoptions. It cannot tell a woman who adopted her infant; it cannot tell a man who his mother was.

But it can — and does — refer people interested in making the search to Mrs. File's nonprofit group, Operation Identity.

The organization was founded by Mrs. File, 39, and a friend. Both had a difficult time dealing with the official seal of secrecy as they searched for what Mrs. File calls a "biological family."

"I spent $5,000 fighting the courts and everything else. I was angry. I thought it was emotional blackmail that I had to go through to find my own heritage," she said.

In her search, she had developed contacts, had found sympathetic officials and had found loopholes in laws, and she believed she could help others avoid much of the frustration she had gone through.

"So I and a friend my age who had found her biological family advertised. Sixty people showed up for the first meeting," she said.

Most people begin their search with only sketchy information — a birthdate, a birthplace, perhaps the last name of their natural mother.

But Mrs. File said adoption papers and a lot of records have information and most searches last only a few months.

"Our fastest search was 17 minutes, our longest one five years," she said.

Mrs. File estimated 60 percent of the people who ask for help are adopted, while another 30 percent are natural parents and the rest are adoptive parents "who realize the need of their children to know the background of the natural parents."

Most people hunt for biological families, she said, "because it's a natural need to know who allowed you life regardless of the circumstances."

But, she said, before Operation Identity helps anyone with a search, "we tell them it could be a bad situation. It could be rape, it could be incest, it could be a case of abuse ... Before they start, they must say to themselves that they're ready for an unpleasant situation or rejection."

She also says the organization will not expose the natural mother to anyone unless she wants the contact.

Seven searches the organization aided ended with the relative being found, but not wanting any contact. One was a woman who had been adopted; the other six were the natural mothers.

"They had not told anybody, they had not told their husbands and they were not willing to," Mrs. File said.

But she said a large number of mothers who gave up children years ago now wanted to be found. She said often at the time their child was born, they were young, unmarried and under pressure to give up the baby.

Some of them since have initiated their own search. Often the search will not be active, but the mother will send a notarized letter to the state where records are held, relinquishing confidentiality and allowing the state to tell their children who they are if asked.

A large number of the people searching are looking for brothers and sisters.

DEAR ABBY: If you don't mind, I would like to give that 13-year-old girl who is ashamed of her house a few encouraging words.
I'm a 15-year-old girl whose family is well-off money-wise, and we live in a very nice house.
My friend, "Pam," lives in a house that could use lots of repairs, and her family does have money problems. But Pam is my best friend, and she always will be, no matter what.
To tell you the truth, I spend twice as much time at Pam's house as Pam spends at mine.

DEAR ABBY: When I read the letter from the young girl who was ashamed to invite her friends over because she lived in a dump, I relived my own teen-age years.
I also lived in a "dump," and was so ashamed of it, I had my dates pick me up at a girlfriend's house, which I tried to pass off as my own. When they brought me "home," I would say good-night on the porch, and as soon as they were out of sight I'd walk to my own home alone in the dark.
When I was 17, a 19-year-old "college man" from a well-to-do family called for me at my girlfriend's house, but when it came time to take me "home," he drove right up to my "dump"! I was so embarrassed, I started to cry. Then he said very gently: "Honey, I've always known where you live, but it doesn't make any difference in the way I feel about you. Your father is a decent, hard-working man who's giving his family the best he can afford." (My father worked in the coal mines in West Virginia.)
Then he said, "Why be ashamed of a humble home? More good people have come from humble homes than from mansions."
I've never forgotten those words, nor the beautiful college boy who spoke them. He died last year, after giving me four wonderful children and 49 of the happiest years of my life. Sign me...

Girl Down in the Dumps Can Clean Up Her Act

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to the 13-year-old girl who is crying the blues because she lives in a "dump". There is something you can do to make your home look better and make you feel better.
When I was 16, I left my aunt's lovely home and went to live in my father's "dump" in another state. (My mother died when I was 5 and my aunt raised me.) My younger sister (14) and I pitched in and cleaned "the dump" up.
The wooden floor was so rough that we got splinters in our hands from wringing out the floor mop. I washed, starched, ironed and mended rotten lace curtains, using a flatiron heated on a wood-burning stove because we couldn't afford electricity.
My sister and I cleaned up the yard and kept the place looking as nice as possible without spending any money because we had none to spend. When my boyfriends came to call, I never apologized for my home because I knew I had done all I could to make it presentable.

Jim: "Here we find them at six spades following an artificial two-club opening by South. During the course of the bidding North responded five diamonds to South's Blackwood and East doubled. West dutifully opens the jack of diamonds against the slam."

Oswald: "South's slam bid over East's double has clearly indicated that South holds just one diamond. For this reason (as Reese points out) even though dummy plays a low diamond, East should rise with his king to lead back the 10 of hearts and knock out dummy's ace if possible. South plays his queen. West covers with his king and dummy's ace is knocked out. Now South can run off all his black suit winners, but must lose a heart at the finish."

Jim: "That diamond-heart combination play is a tough one to make, but if East doesn't make it, South will ruff the second diamond, draw trumps, cash the top clubs and the rest of his

"The Philosopher's Pupil"

THE PHILOSOPHER'S PUPIL. By Iris Murdoch. Viking, 576 Pages. $17.75.
"And how is Ennystone, and how is everybody? Isn't it funny to think that you've all been leading your quiet little lives here while we've been having the most amazing time, we must tell you all about it."

So gushes Judy Osmore, back from a month in Florida. In an Iris Murdoch novel any such assumption about quiet little lives is liable to be a sly joke — as is the case in this rich and entertaining work.

For during the Osmore's absence Ennystone, an English spa town, has been seething with chaotic passion, caught up in one of its "funny times," when grave spiritual hazards, bewitchment and demons are rife.

Before the "funny time" reaches its climax and the turmoil subsides, there will have been a brush with drowning, a small riot, attempted murder and suicide.

The setting and characters are described in piquant detail and the action is related by a narrator, N, of whom we know little except that he's enough of an insider to know virtually everything, yet is detached enough to perceive the wonderful irony of events.

Several old Quaker families play a central role in Ennystone's life. Among them are the McCaffreys, of whom "there are quite a large number in the story," as N puts it mildly.
George McCaffrey, who is the noisiest and most violently unhappy of them, is nonetheless much loved and seemingly capable of making most women believe they can save him from himself. But George, the philosopher's pupil of the title, wants to be saved by his former teacher, the philosopher John Robert Rozanov, who still obsesses him.

Rozanov causes a stir by coming to visit Ennystone and becomes a focus for the fascinated adoration of many other residents. But the old man is preoccupied by philosophical self-doubts and cares little for most of them.

In orbit around this mesmerizing pair are other various, barely compatible McCaffreys, George's mistress, a "perfectly rotten priest," and the philosopher's waif-like granddaughter.

As the novel progresses, its characters are caught up in an increasingly complex web of overlapping interrelationships — mostly involving unrequited love. The relationships, true to life, are ambiguous, shifting and illogical. Some characters struggle through to happy solutions, others do not. But for most of them, it seems, "love, even without hope, was a joyful energy." The book is full of this joyful — and thoughtful — energy.

'Horns stun Cats, 20-7

The Texas Longhorns surprised even their most optimistic boosters by dismantling strong Auburn and displaying that they, indeed, are the team to beat for the Southwest Conference title in 1983.

The Longhorns haven't earned the SWC first-place trophy since 1977, but they showed Saturday in a 20-7 victory over Auburn that they have the defense, the offensive line, the running backs, and, yes, the quarterbacking to be considered for national honors.

Texas was ranked No. 3 by The Associated Press going into the game and No. 2 Oklahoma was defeated 24-14 by Ohio State, so the 'Horns have a good chance of sliding into that spot behind No. 1 Nebraska.

In other games, Texas A&M's Alan Smith tied an NCAA record and broke Tony Franklin's SWC record with six field goals in a 38-0 victory over Arkansas State, Arkansas blanked New Mexico 17-0, Baylor remained unbeaten with a 20-6 victory over Texas-El Paso, Texas Christian fell 20-3 to Kansas State, Rice lost 24-10 to Louisiana State and Houston outlasted Lamar 42-35 in a wild Astrodome shootout.

Here's how it looked around the SWC after Week III:

HORNS HOOK AUBURN

AUBURN - Texas replaced all its question marks with a solid strapping of Auburn.

Rob Moerschell and Rick McIvor had moments of brilliance at quarterback, replacing Todd Dodge.

The Texas defense stopped the Auburn wishbone cold and put four class running backs on the field.

"We realized Auburn was good but we just wanted to show people how good we were," said defensive tackle Tony Degrate of Snyder.

Auburn halfback Bo Jackson put it best: "I felt like I was stamped by a herd of cows."

AGGIES 'KICK' INDIANS

COLLEGE STATION - There's just something about doing it barefoot that makes Texas Aggie placekickers great.

Alan Smith, following in the tradition of barefoot booters Tony Franklin and David Hard, kicked an NCAA-record tying and an SWC-record shattering six field goals in a 38-0 blanking of Arkansas State.

Smith's 57-yard field goal with seven seconds left got him into the record books.

The SWC record of five field goals in a game was set by Franklin and four other kickers own the NCAA record.

Smith's field goals traveled 44, 45, 42, 33, 59 and 57 yards.

BEARS BITE MINERS

EL PASO - Baylor kept its offense under wraps in its 20-6 victory because Texas Tech had its entire coaching staff watching from the press box.

"Tech's staff was in the press box and we know they are waiting to ambush us down in Waco this week," said Baylor coach Grant Teaff. "It will be a tough game."

Tech had the week off.

Baylor received a scare when ace receiver Gerald McNeill suffered a hip pointer on a touchdown pass reception. He was held out the second half but is expected to play against the Red Raiders in the SWC opener for both teams.

"Our defense played very well against Texas-El Paso," said Teaff. "We knew it would be a hornet's nest down here and it was but it is still a victory."

FROGS MASHED BY WILDCATS

MANHATTAN, Kan. - "We get our fannies beat," was the way Texas Christian Coach Jim Wacker described it.

"We had too many turnovers (five) and we can't do that against SMU next week," Wacker said after TCU's 20-3 loss to Kansas State. "We've got a lot of work to do. We've got to find out who our best 22 players are and go with them."

TCU meets SMU at Amon Carter Stadium next Saturday in an SWC opener for both teams. Unbeaten SMU was idle.

TIGERS RIP OWLS

HOUSTON - Rice coach Ray Albarn and Louisiana State coach Jerry Stovall disagreed over the difference in the 24-10 LSU victory. To Stovall, it was LSU's explosiveness that resulted in a 21-point third quarter.

Albarn says it was Rice's fumbles that set up the Tigers. "A lot of little things happened to get us rolling," Stovall said after the Tigers escaped a 3-3 third quarter scare to beat the Owls as expected. "I liked that explosiveness, but we need to be more aggressive and confident."

Albarn figured the Owls beat themselves. "They (LSU) didn't do anything - that's what they did," Albarn said. "I can't find any fault with our effort. The kids did all we asked them to and more."

COUGS' OFFENSE SAVES DAY

HOUSTON - "Our defense wasn't any more ready to play than the man in the moon," Houston coach Bill Yeoman said, sounding like a loser after the Cougars whipped Lamar 42-35.

But the Cougar offense overcame a sluggish first half, erupting for four second-half touchdowns en route to Houston's second victory in three outings.

RAZORBACKS STUN NEW MEXICO

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. - Despite two wasted first-half scoring opportunities, Arkansas struggled to a 17-0 win over New Mexico, thanks to the efforts of quarterback Brad Taylor, who scored one touchdown and set up another.

The Razorbacks ended New Mexico's 108-game scoring streak that dated to 1973.

A 1-yard sneak by Taylor gave Arkansas a 10-0 lead in the second quarter.

As Cowboys win again...

Same script, twist to ending

IRVING, Texas (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys used the same script with a new-twist ending to remain one of three unbeaten teams in the National Football League.

The victim of Dallas' "Rip Van Winkle" this time was the New York Giants, who seized the lead like previous Dallas victims - Washington and St. Louis - before succumbing.

The dozing Cowboys awakened from their slumber late in the second quarter Sunday to fashion a 28-13 victory thanks mainly to an alert, big-play defense. The National Conference Eastern Division leading Cowboys, who have lost the first quarter in each game, trailed the Giants 3-0 but struck for two touchdowns late in both the second and fourth quarters.

"We're not trying to wait until the last minute on purpose and be Superman," said Dallas wide receiver Drew Pearson, who had six catches for 80 yards. "But as long as we can pull it out in the end - it is a plus and the bottom line is, we do win."

After the Giants' rookie placekicker Ali Hagi-Sheikh had kicked a 31-yard field goal for a 3-0 lead in the first quarter, Dallas struck for two touchdowns in the final two minutes on short passes from quarterback Danny White to tight end Dough Cosbie.

The Giants narrowed the 14-3 halftime deficit to 14-13 in the third period on Butch Woolfolk's 1-yard run and another short field goal by Hagi-Sheikh.

The Cowboys, stumbling offensively, secured their third victory without a loss on two big defensive plays within twelve seconds of each other in the final six minutes.

Dexter Clinkscale intercepted a Scott Brunner pass and dashed 68-yards for a touchdown.

Safety Michael Downs then picked up a fumbled kick off on the ensuing play and trotted 10 yards into the end zone for the game-clincher.

In Sunday's other games it was Seattle 34, San Diego 31; New Orleans 34, Chicago 31 in overtime; Green Bay 27, the Los Angeles Rams 24; Pittsburgh 40, Houston 28; San Francisco 42, St. Louis 27; New England 23, the New York Jets 13; Washington 27, Kansas City 12; Atlanta 30, Detroit 14; Buffalo 28, Baltimore 23, and Minnesota 19, Tampa Bay 16 in overtime. Last Thursday night, Cleveland defeated Cincinnati 17-7.

Steelers 40, Oilers 29

Walter Abercrombie caught a 30-yard TD pass and ran 50 yards for another score and Gary Anderson kicked four field goals as the Steelers ripped Houston. The Pittsburgh defense also intercepted Oilers quarterback Archie Manning four times.

Redskins 27, Chiefs 12

Joe Theismann's second-half touchdown passes of 12 yards to Don Warren and 39 yards to Clint Didier helped the Redskins rally from Kansas City's 12-0 halftime lead. The Chiefs' points came on four Nick Lowery field goals.

Falcons 30, Lions 14

Steve Bartkowski of the Falcons threw three touchdown passes, two to Alfred Jackson covering 54 and 36 yards, and finished with 366 passing yards while fullback William Andrews rushed for 150 yards against Detroit.

Phillies squeeze Cards; gain top spot in East

by The Associated Press
The Philadelphia Phillies put the squeeze on the St. Louis Cardinals...

and it enabled them to squeeze into first place in the National League East.

"That was a big run out there," said Philadelphia Manager Paul Owens after Ivan DeJesus' suicide-squeeze bunt drove in the game-winner in the seventh inning to lead the Phillies past the Cardinals 5-4 Sunday.

The victory gave the Phillies a one-game lead in the NL East over the Pittsburgh Pirates, who lost 5-2 to Montreal. Both the Phillies and Pirates have 13 games remaining.

Meanwhile, the National League West remained a virtual two-team race between the Los Angeles Dodgers and Atlanta Braves. The Dodgers lost 6-3 to San Francisco, but nevertheless maintained a 3½-game lead when the Braves also lost, 4-2 to San Diego in 13 innings.

In other NL action, Houston beat Cincinnati 4-1 and Chicago edged New York 6-5.

Steve Carlton, 14-15, gave up eight hits in seven innings, struck out seven and walked three to move within one of the 300-victory plateau, a level reached by only 15 other pitchers.

Al Holland took over in the ninth for the Phillies and recorded his 21st save.

Expos 5, Pirates 2

In Pittsburgh, Al Oliver and Terry Francona delivered run-scoring hits in a two-run fifth inning as Montreal halted a six-game winning streak by the Pirates.

Pittsburgh starter Rick Rhoden, 11-13, took a 2-1 lead into the fifth and quickly got two outs before Andre Dawson tripled. Oliver followed with a single and Francona then delivered a triple to break the tie and enable the Expos to salvage the third game of a three-game series.

Scott Sanderson, 6-6, worked the first 5 2-3 innings for the victory and got relief help from Bob James, who earned his fifth save.

Giants 6, Dodgers 3

In San Francisco, Joel Youngblood drove in four runs as the Giants beat the Dodgers and completed a three-game sweep of the West leaders.

San Francisco starter Mike Krukow, 11-9, gave up but five hits, including a leadoff homer in the ninth by Derral Thomas, before leaving. Greg Minton gave up two more Dodger runs on a single by R.J. Reynolds before Gary Lavelle came on for his 18th save.

Padres 4, Braves 2

In Atlanta, Ruppert Jones slugged a two-run homer in the 13th inning to lead San Diego over the Braves.
