PRESIDENTIAL TOUR — Ugandan President Idi Amin waves as he tours his lawn sitting on a chair borne by four British businessmen at a party Friday night in Kampala, Uganda. A Swedish businessman follows behind, holding an umbrella in the manner of servants who once shielded tribal rulers from the sun. The party, attended by hundreds of diplomats, marked the opening day of an Organization for African Unity ministerial conference.

Yugoslavia Crash Is Fatal To 16

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Sixteen persons were killed and 37 were injured Saturday when an express train crashed head-on into a local passenger train unloading at a suburban station.

The casualty figures were given by Dragan Milovic, head of the investigating team. He said a preliminary examination indicated that human error caused the disaster.

A railway guard at the station told authorities that he heard the station master give several orders for the standing train to leave the station but it delayed because there were over 100 pieces of baggage to be unloaded.

Miladin Trkulja, a passenger on the local train, said he heard the station master shout, "Men jump out of the train, a train is coming!"

Trkulja added that he and his girl friend climbed out through a window seconds before the crash and were unharmed.

According to the initial investigation, the express was travelling at 40 miles an hour when it plowed into the local train at the Zemun Police station six miles northwest of downtown Belgrade.

Authorities said the local was scheduled to stop in the station for only one minute but remained longer for the unloading of baggage.

The express, en route to Sarajevo from Belgrade, is allowed to pass through the station at 50 miles an hour and the investigators said there was proof that the engineer applied the brakes when he saw the other train ahead.

He was detained for questioning along with a station official.

Rescue workers said all of the killed and injured were on the local train and three of its cars were destroyed. It was on its way to Belgrade from western Yugoslavia.

Premier Djemal Bijedic and other government officials went to the scene of the accident.

Last August, an express train carrying homebound vacationers derailed near Zagreb and 150 persons were killed. Two engineers were later charged with "grave criminal action" and are awaiting trial.

Reviewing the Big Spring Week

Little Miss Anonymous was getting off to a great start, surrounded by all the love and attention which someone denied her by dumping her into a trash hopper. The 8-lb. baby girl was found by two yard attendants at Barcelona Apartments Thursday after someone had deposited the freshly born infant in the dumpster in broad daylight. Still there were few leads as to whom the mother might be or how the baby got there. Except for a good pair of lungs with which she protested vigorously, she might not have made it.

This recalls a similar case here three decades ago when a mother gave birth to a child, put it in a shoe box, wedged it into the fork of a tree in a thicket that now is Birdwell Park, then calmly went back to work. Luckily, children on a hike were attracted to the tiny cries, and the baby was rushed to a nearby hospital, not only surviving, but with gusto (and restored to its mother).

Our area got amounts of rain varying from a quarter to three quarters of an inch through Friday, and despite several days with excellent cloud cover, the throttle never locked wide open. The showers, however, were extremely helpful to pastures, and in some areas was enough to almost cinch a cotton crop. Garden and lawns benefitted, but not the cities. They are selling so much less water this summer that it may present financial problems for them.

Six Young Women Avenge Alleged Rape Of Friend

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Six young women, apparently seeking to avenge a friend's rape, armed themselves with knives and attacked a Daytona Beach man, police said Saturday.

"They were revenging the rape, that's what they were doing," Det. Don Walters said.

John Dotson, 20, was reported in satisfactory condition at a local hospital with multiple stab wounds. Police said a man had gotten into the car of a young Daytona Beach woman early Friday morning, held a razor to her neck and raped her. In the struggle, the woman was cut with the razor and required 16 to 22 stitches, police said.

Sands Motel Is Robbed

A man described as a white male, with a stocking over his face, robbed an attendant at the Sands Motel with a knife about 10:20 p.m., Saturday, escaping with an undetermined amount of cash.

The bandit was believed to be about 20 and might have been wearing a false mustache. He was about 5-10 or 5-11 and weighed about 150. He was wearing dark pants and a yellow t-shirt. City police are investigating.

SOME RISK OF RAIN

Partly cloudy with a 30 per cent chance of rain today.

Abandoned Tot Is Thriving

The baby girl found abandoned in a trash bin at the Barcelona Apartments here Friday morning continues to thrive, attendants at Malone and Hogan Hospital said Saturday afternoon.

The infant was in reasonably good shape when her cries attracted Marcus Lerma, a caretaker, to the garbage bin. She had been slipped into a paper bag and tossed into the half-filled container by someone who may have driven through the grounds of the complex.

Police, working on a few scanty leads seeking to discover the identity of the girl's mother, said they would appreciate any information anyone could give tracing the lineage of the child.

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you are on Medicaid, a congressional staff study says, you are at least twice as likely to undergo surgery to correct a medical ailment as the general population.

But the man in charge of state Medicaid programs at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare disputes these findings.

The study was done by the staff of the House Commerce Oversight and Investigations subcommittee, which received replies to a questionnaire from 26 states.

The study concludes that much of the extra surgery received by Medicaid patients is unnecessary, but does not say how much is unnecessary or why these people have more surgery.

Last week the subcommittee ended three days of hearings into unnecessary surgery. Claims were made by some doctors that as many as 3.2 million operations in the country may be unnecessary, resulting in 16,000 deaths and costing $5 billion.

The study on Medicaid surgery concludes only that "there is a higher proportion of unnecessary surgery among the Medicaid population than the population as a whole."

All 50 states were asked in June to provide the number of operations for the general population and under Medicaid for all surgical procedures, tonsillectomies, hysterectomies, and cholecystectomies, or gall bladder operations.

Data from the 26 states replying showed there were 18,716 operations per 100,000 persons under Medicaid and 7,940 per 100,000 for the general population — giving a rate of Medicaid surgery 236 per cent of the rate in the total U.S. population.

Under Medicaid, states help pay for medical bills of poor people as well as elderly people.

Generally, the study showed Southern states — especially Mississippi, Arkansas and Alabama — had the lowest rates of surgery for Medicaid patients.

Dr. M. Keith Weikel, head of the Medical Services Administration for HEW, has complained to subcommittee staff that its statistical base is wrong, leading to an erroneous conclusion.

But Elliot Segal, special assistant on the subcommittee, told Weikel the figures are "the best available in the United States today."

The survey said that even though the data was incomplete, it "should be representative of all state Medicaid programs."

Finland Trip Set By Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford will go to Helsinki, Finland, July 30-Aug. 1 to take part in the 35-nation summit meeting of the European Security Conference, it was announced Saturday.

The President is expected to leave Washington by next Saturday on the Helsinki trip which is understood to be the forerunner to additional stops in Bonn, Warsaw, Bucharest and Belgrade.

Mrs. Ford is expected to accompany the President on the 10-day trip.

The Helsinki trip was announced after the European Security Conference delegates finally reached an agreement Friday on the charter that the leaders of the member nations will adopt at their Helsinki meeting.

The charter has been under negotiation for more than two years.

The White House said in a statement issued by Press Secretary Ron Nessen that the President's presence in Helsinki "reflects our view that the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe final document, which includes declarations of political resolve and intent on a broad range of East-West issues, represents a positive step in our continuing efforts to build a more stable and productive East-West relationship."

An advance team is already in Europe making plans for the presidential trip, which has been tentative for some weeks while the Security Conference delegates were overcoming last-minute conflicts in the charter negotiations.

Ford plans to be back in Washington in time for a previously scheduled meeting there with Japanese Prime Minister Takeo Miki on Aug. 5-6.

APOLLO TO STAY ALOFT UNTIL THURSDAY Space Fliers Go Separate Ways

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo and Soyuz unlinked and slowly drifted apart Saturday, ending two days of unprecedented comradeship and cooperation in space.

"Mission accomplished!" shouted Alexei Leonov, the Soyuz commander, as the Apollo sprang free 140 miles above the Atlantic Ocean.

"Good show," answered Thomas P. Stafford, the American commander.

The orbital union lasted for 47 hours and 17 minutes. The undocking came at 11:26 a.m. EDT.

Stafford and his crewmates, Donald K. Slayton and Vance D. Brand, lingered near the Soyuz for a time, delicately guiding their Apollo craft through a series of experiments.

BEAMS OF LIGHT Leonov and Valeri Kubasov watched as the larger American craft fired beams of light at the Soviet spaceship in a study of the rarified atmosphere in space.

The spaceships will gradually move further apart during the day Sunday. Then, the Soviets will fire retro-rockets to settle their craft into the embrace of earth's atmosphere. The Soyuz will parachute to a south central Russian plain early Monday morning.

Apollo will continue its flight until Thursday. Like two friends reluctant to part, the spaceships separated once and then came together again in a test of the docking system jointly designed by the two countries.

Both undocking exercises were televised to earth from the Apollo craft.

As the American ship first backed away, the Soyuz slowly reeled, its solar power panels giving it the appearance of a perfectly gliding bird.

Precisely firing control rocket thrusters, the men of Apollo turned their craft into a miniature eclipsing moon for the watching Soviets.

The Apollo eased outward, toward the sun, casting its shadow on the Soyuz below.

Leonov and Kubasov aimed a camera at the sun, using Apollo's shadow to capture photographs of the solar corona, an envelope of gases usually blocked from view by the fiery brilliance of the sun.

When the craft were separated by 160 feet, the Apollo swung back to reunion.

The redocking was to retest the tulip-shaped docking collar jointly designed by the two countries. This time, the Soyuz docking device was the "active" half of the system. It was cocked and ready to grasp and seal itself to the Apollo's retracted collar.

The docking test, reuniting the craft after 32 minutes apart, was successful.

Apollo and Soyuz were together again for about three hours and Stafford gave the Soviets what he called "a little present of music."

Then he played a recording of the song "Hello Darlin'" sung in Russian by Conway Twitty.

Apollo mission control told Stafford "that sounded like it was from far western Oklahoma, around Klev."

Then it was time for the final parting.

The Soviets unlatched the docking collar and the ships swung free. The five space voyagers said little as they parted.

The two days of Soyuz and Apollo union, the first linkup in space of mankind's two spacefaring nations, was conducted in an exhilarating atmosphere of friendship.

The spacemen shuttled back and forth between the two ships, sharing meals, exchanging gifts and beaming to earth televised views of their fellowship.

62,000 MAN HOURS NEEDED TO BUILD Famed Ship's Replica Insured For $1 Million

CHICAGO (AP) — A model of the USS Constitution, Old Ironsides, that took 62,000 man hours to construct and is insured for $1 million, finally has been taken from the basement of its builder and put on Bicentennial exhibition.

"My wife says if I start building another boat she will leave me," says 79-year-old Louis Kuebler.

Kuebler and a friend who died before the project was completed researched for more than a year before starting the model in a basement workshop in 1932. They chose a 1-24th dimensional scale of the historic naval frigate now resting at dockside in Boston Harbor.

The ship is 12½ feet long and 11½ feet from the keel to the top of the highest mast. Dies and tools had to be handmade by Kuebler to reproduce to the precise scale everything from the 52 bronze cannon that actually fire, bilge pumps that pump, the commodore's cabin with its copper bathtub, each tiny link in a 24-foot anchor chain to the Irish flax sails stitched with surgical needles. Thirteen different woods and seven different metals were used in construction of the ship, whose bottom is sheathed in copper from the original firm of Paul Revere.

The model was completed in 1957. "I had it insured for $100,000 and kept it in my basement, just getting a kick out of looking at it — it was like part of the family," said Kuebler.

Recently, the model was sold to Ronald White, a management consultant and Alf G. McConnell, a mortgage banker. They promptly had it insured for $1 million.

Purchase price was not disclosed, but Kuebler referred to the $100,000 insurance he had on it and said, "I'm satisfied with what I got."

The model of Old Ironsides had its first public appearance in the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. of Chicago.

High Time For Reform

Sen. John Tower has joined with 70 Senators and Representatives in sponsoring the National Food Stamp Reform Act.

Based on his appraisal, the act is sadly, yes urgently, in need of reform. Noted the senior senator from Texas: "What began 10 years ago as a modest federal project funded at $40 million has mushroomed into a fiscal monster that will devour $5 billion of the taxpayers' money this year."

"Use of food stamps has increased from one of every 439 Americans in 1965 to one of every 13 Americans today, and the growth of the program is likely to be even more astronomical in the future. Under present regulations, one of every four Americans is eligible for food stamps, and that could easily grow to one of every three Americans."

The proposed reform act, he estimated, "would save taxpayers at least $2 billion each year while at the same time increasing the benefits to genuinely needy food stamp recipients by as much as 29 per cent."

Under the guidelines proposed, the complicated system of income deductions (which make it possible for families making as much as $20,000 a year eligible for food stamps) would be wiped out along with a lot of other loopholes. Stamps would be denied able bodied persons without small children and who are not willing to work. Monthly reviews would be required; the program would be transferred from the Department of Agriculture to HEW to eliminate administrative duplication. At the same time, truly needy recipients would have their benefits raised automatically 29 per cent, and the elderly needy would get special consideration.

It is sheer folly and an almost criminal waste of taxpayer resources to permit the program to proliferate to the benefit of the greedy instead of the needy. This (reform act) ought to have top priority.

An Envious Position

Showers of the past week were not general enough to warrant generalizations, but they certainly did nothing but improve the agricultural outlook.

Those spots which receive from three-quarters to an inch of moisture just about have wrapped up assurance of a good crop. At the least, along with the remainder of the area, they have bought time that the crops and pastures can go before having to have more rain.

We now are in the position of experiencing another bumper year if we can catch that one good rain before the end of this month or by the middle of August. Even without it, we're likely to make a pretty good crop—and that's an enviable position to be in.

My Answer

Billy Graham

You often talk about God's will. Well, I can't believe that my present state of affairs is what God plans for me. I'm afraid, I'm withdrawn and my life is filled with trouble. How can this be God's will?

V. J.

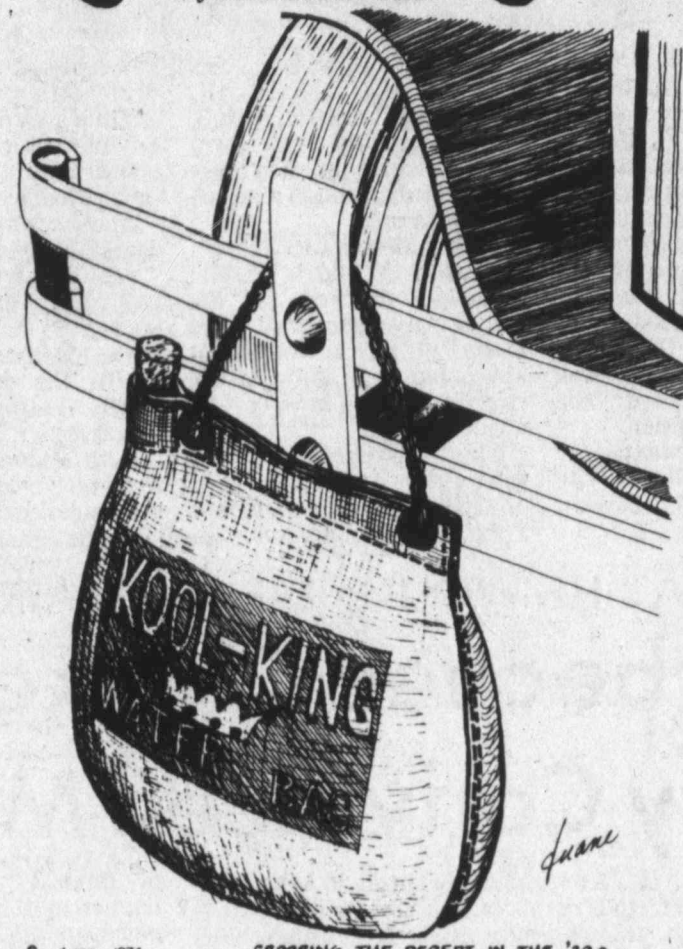

I suppose it's very natural to equate health and happiness with the will of God. Certainly God want the best for us, but it may well be within the limits of His permissive will that we go through trouble. He sees the end result and gives us the confidence that Job had, feeling that "when he hath tried me, I shall come forth as gold."

Even fear can be used of God to equip us for our tasks. What is needed is the right attitude toward it. We can't let fear push us into the many avenues of escape which a frightened mind can fabricate.

Bishop Fenelon said: "The trying things which you fancy come between God and you will prove means of unity with Him if you bear them humbly. Those things that overwhelm us and upset our pride do more good than all that which ex-

Crisis

Marquis Childs

NEW YORK — To one recently in England, what is happening in New York offers a striking parallel. In each instance the head of government, Prime Minister Harold Wilson, Mayor Abraham Beame, is struggling to stave off bankruptcy against the demands of unions so powerful they hold the economy in pawn.

THE STAKES are, of course, infinitely greater across the Atlantic. As the pound and the London stock market fall to new lows, the future of Britain as a viable European partner and a trading center of the world is in question.

Yet it is a difference in degree rather than in kind. The threat of bankruptcy and breakdown in New York, the nation's largest city, can be seen as a prophetic warning for other metropolitan areas where rising costs in the public sector — wages, pensions, services — have outrun the ability to pay.

THE DESPERATE recourse has been to sink deeper and deeper into debt. That way out is now foreclosed for New York City since, with a staggering debt of $14 billion, the banks are saying no until Mayor Beame carries out certain reforms.

Of this amount $6 billion is in short-term indebtedness, a large part of which must, in banking terminology, be rolled over each year with increasing resistance by lenders and higher interest rates. The unhappy mayor finds himself between the devil and the deep blue sea as the unions fight his every gesture of economy. When Beame ordered a reduction in garbage collectors, the sanitation union pulled up a wildcat strike. As garbage piled upon the sidewalks, Fun City — remember John Lindsay? — became Stink City.

MINISCULE CONFLICTS bring dubious victories. The mayor called an end to the 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. summer workday and restoration of 9-to-5 hours. Victor Gotbaum, director of the State, County and Municipal Employees' Union, threatened to order a walkout at 4. He finally yielded and thousands of workers pouring out of the Municipal Building shortly after 5 p.m. muttered in resignation or anger over being deprived of a privilege they had won in collective bargaining. The root causes go much deeper. Municipal pensions, half of the last year's pay at the end of 20 years, and their abuse, are fundamental.

BASIC IS the welfare load with welfare checks more generous than anywhere else and corruption reported on the same scale. The great in-migration of blacks from the South and of Puerto Ricans, beginning 5 years ago, created a solid bloc struggling against poverty and the inroads of crime and decay in the city's streets.

Services have long outstripped the ability to pay. New York maintains 18 separate hospitals and here, too, strikes and the threat of strikes have been disruptive.

The city colleges charge no tuition and any graduate of the city's high schools may enroll, regardless of qualifications. Minor economies such as cutting back the size of police and fire forces have produced violent protest with discharged police blocking traffic arteries.

THE ANSWER, thus far, seems to be to apply new nuisance taxes on business and the service trades with the inevitable result of speeding the exodus to nearby suburbs.

A recent study by the New York Times showed that the increase in property taxes has drastically outstripped real estate values with the true value of real estate increasing 1 per cent over the past 10 years while property taxes rose 21 per cent.

Tide Of Good News Swells

NEW YORK (AP) — The recent trickle of promising economic news turned into a flood this past week. From the Commerce Department came news the nation's real Gross National Product fell only 0.3 per cent in the second quarter, compared with the first quarter plunge of 11.4 per cent.

This, according to presidential spokesman Ron Nessen, was almost proof positive that the economy has bottomed out and "is beginning to go up."

Further laying the groundwork for an economic recovery, the government reported that business inventories declined a record $2.97 billion in May. It was the fourth monthly decline in a row, and was taken as a sign that businesses are unclogging their stockpiles of unsold goods and soon will be ready to step up production and hire back workers again.

Linked to that, the Federal Reserve reported its index of industrial production — considered a crucial and accurate indicator by economic forecasters — rose in June for the first time in nine months.

The Commerce Department's personal income statistics, meanwhile, showed the effects of one-time $50 payments to Social Security, railroad retirement and supplemental security income recipients distributed last June. Personal income in June rose a record $30.6 billion, and much of that money should spur sales in sagging consumer goods markets.

With the apparent beginning of an economic recovery also came government statistics showing a welcome cooling in inflation. In the second quarter, the annually adjusted inflation rate was 5.1 per cent, the lowest since the end of 1972, and a sharp drop from 8.4 per cent in the first quarter, and 14.4 per cent in the final quarter of 1974.

These developments also sent the dollar strongly higher all last week, reaching new highs against the West German mark, Swiss franc and several other European currencies.

The dollar's gains were also bolstered by news that New York's First National City Bank raised its prime lending rate 1/4-point to 7 1/2 per cent, making dollar investments by foreigners that much more profitable. The week's blue spot, though, was the government statistic showing housing starts fell 5.2 per cent in June to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.07 million units, following a 15 per cent gain in May.

It was further reported that average mortgage rates, which dipped below 9 per cent recently, moved back above that mark again. With the average home now costing about $38,000, according to industry estimates, the latest government statistics raised the question whether the Ford administration's balancing act of fighting inflation while spurring an economic recovery might work for some industries, but not housing.

Housing and Urban Development Secretary Carla Hills remained optimistic, stating she believes a housing recovery is under way and should carry through 1976, but HUD does not expect that housing starts will increase without fail every month.

WEEK'S BUSINESS

- GNP decrease only small fraction of first quarter slide
- President's spokesman says it's proof economy gaining
- Inventory decline taken as another sign of goods demand
- Inflation also shows sign of cooling its long heat
- But housing starts decline as a trouble spot

Wants 'Uni-Sex' Exam

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My wife and I would like to know what your thought is on our question.

I am 35 and she is 33. We went to a gynecologist to have an examination for my wife, but the doctor said I was not allowed in the examination room. My wife would not consider this, so she did not have the examination. For 13 years we have gone in together for examinations to our doctors, whether for me or for her. What do you think? — Disgusted

I see nothing particularly wrong with the practice, although you must admit that it certainly is not a widely accepted one. Also, I can readily appreciate a reluctance in your wife's physician to go along with this.

I assume your wife's previous doctor has either died or has moved, or you have moved to a new location.

You say your own personal physician allows this. I suggest you ask him about it, since he agrees to the practice. He might very well be acquainted with a gynecologist colleague who allows it for women patients.

My personal feeling is that it is rather unnecessary. Your wife can easily provide you with a firsthand account of the examination and its results.

Finally, there are always moments when a physician requires absolute privacy in discussion with his patient. This is quite understandable, and if your wife's doctor feels strongly about this matter, you should, I think, respect his feelings.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to have your new booklet, "Vaginitis: The Hidden Ailment," for which I am sending 25 cents to you in care of the Big Spring Herald and enclosing the required stamped and self-addressed envelope.

I hope it covers my problem — yeast infection, which has bugged me for years. — Mrs. T. W.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a woman in my mid-20s. For many years now I have been troubled with a vaginal yeast infection. I have had cauterization, hoping this would help kill the inebrious yeast permanently. But this gave only temporary relief.

Do you know any way this can be cleared up for good? — Mrs. E. F.

The use of the "pill" is a common cause of this nuisance, and if either of you is on it, it would be worth your while to discontinue it temporarily to see if there is any improvement.

And women with this problem should also be checked for diabetes, since recurrent vaginitis of this sort can be an early symptom.

I cover this subject of yeast infection rather extensively in my new booklet, and along with it most of the other various and sundry disorders of the vaginal tract. I hope it will help Mrs. T. W. in understanding her problem more completely.

Yeast is a fungus, and often in chronic cases the cause is a disturbance in the membrane chemistry that allows it to flourish. Adjusting this chemistry that allows it to flourish. Adjusting this chemistry can bring permanent relief.

Several years ago I used the story about the truck driver who stopped periodically and beat on the sides of his trailer with a baseball bat.

YOU KNOW—the one who was delivering a huge load of canaries and had to keep'em flying or the truck came to a standstill.

Well, Bobby Harris, my drinking cousin, said he told that one to some of his scientific friends, and they spent an interminable time arguing whether keeping the canaries in flight would make any difference.

They decided it wouldn't, but I suggested that Bob ask them if it would help if all the canaries flew in the direction the truck was moving.

Handbags for men may be the next blow to us fuddy duddies, a British fashion expert insists.

"When you get right down to it, what's the difference between a handbag and a briefcase?" one fellow-worker asked.

"A fat lip," said that advertising whiz Oliver Cofer.

I don't exactly know how Sonny Bono feels about Cher's recent track record, but I suspect when he heard about her leaving Greg Allman after nine days of marriage it could have been:

"Cher and Cher alike."

ATTENTION WESTERN music expert Daddy Don Brooks, you know the guy who used to slurp his coffee. There really was a boy named Sue.

LONDON — London is now working on a problem that New York City has yet to seriously deal with. And that is what to do about dogs that do things on the sidewalk. This great metropolis has street inspectors who walk around their respective boroughs citing people whose dogs "have fouled the foot-paths."

ONE OF THE GREATEST of all London's street inspectors is Mr. William James Parr of the borough of Camden. I saw Mr. Parr on television one night making his rounds and asked if I could accompany him for a few hours the next day. He kindly consented, and we met in front of the Camden town tube station.

Mr. Parr is a middle-aged, modest man who neither glorifies his work nor puts down his job. If he can make London a cleaner place for people to walk, he feels he is earning the taxpayers' money.

THE LAW IS specific. "No one in charge of a dog shall allow it to foul the footpath."

Mr. Parr pounds the pavements every day, and when he spots a person and a suspicious dog he follows them at a respectful distance. Only when the crime is actually committed will Mr. Parr approach the person and identify himself as a street inspector. "I wish to inform you of what I have seen." He'll point to the evidence and then will recount the details of the incident. Finally he will say, "Do you wish to challenge that?"

WHATEVER THE PERSON says Mr. Parr writes down in a book and promises that the statement shall appear in the report.

"You don't want them of their constitutional rights?" I asked.

"No, I don't. It's not necessary when one deals with dog fouling."

"Suppose the person denies the dog belongs to him?"

"THAT'S WHERE observation is terribly important. If the dog is not on a leash but obeys the person's commands, it's obvious it belongs to the person charged. If then asked if there are any mitigating circumstances the person would like to plead."

"Such as?"

"Perhaps the dog has been constipated and fed a physic or a conditioning power and can't control himself. I tell them all these facts will be reported to the town clerk."

"Would you spare a friend or a politician whose dog you caught in the act?"

"CERTAINLY NOT. That wouldn't be fair."

"What reaction do you get from a person who has been cited?"

"Most people say, 'Oh, I'm terribly sorry.' A few say, 'Why aren't you ever here when Stover's dog fouls?'"

"A dog lover would turn in his neighbor?" It was my turn to be shocked.

"I'm afraid so."

The Herald's proof-positive reader, Sitty Landers, noticed all the principals in the Scopes evolution trial are now dead except Sue K. Hicks, 79, a retired circuit court judge who lives near Sweetwater, Tenn.

Sue, a member of the prosecuting team, wrote the warrant for Scopes' arrest. Is the trial where Johnny Cash, a history buff, picked up the idea for his "golden" record?

Dog Problem

Art Buchwald

ONE OF MR. Parr's biggest problems is that he is the only one in the borough authorized to catch dogs fouling the walks.

"Most of the offenses," he told me, "take place at 7:30 to 8:30 in the morning and then in the evening at sunset."

"When you follow a person and a dog, how can you be sure the dog will break the law?" I asked him.

"You have to have a sixth sense about these things," Mr. Parr replied.

WHEN A PERSON is cited, the town clerk then decides whether to bring it to trial. Most people, Mr. Parr said, pleaded guilty and throw their dogs on the mercy of the court. The fine could be as much as $40; but the person, unless he has a compulsive dog fouler, is never fined more than five or ten dollars.

Camden is considered a high dog density area, and yet Mr. Parr has never lost a case. He also has never been bitten by a dog or an owner. It is typical of England that, despite the dangers of his profession, Mr. Parr does not carry a gun. Yet he performs one of the greatest services known to mankind. If New York City only had 10 tall men like him.

Rate Boost Worrisome

NEW YORK (AP) — A persistent rise in interest rates overshadowed evidence of a strengthening economy in the stock market this past week, leaving prices with a moderate loss.

The market struggled upward Monday and Tuesday to reach a new 15-month closing high. But after that its course was almost straight downhill.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks gave up a gain of better than 10 points posted over the first two sessions and finished with a net loss of 8.68 at 862.41.

Tuesday's close of 881.81 marked a new 15-month high for the average. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index dropped 1.46 to 93.20 over the week, and the New York Stock Exchange composite index was off 64 at 50.07.

Declining issues outpaced those advancing 925 to 901 among 2,034 traded on the NYSE.

Big Board volume continued heavy at a daily average of 22.76 million shares, compared with 22.46 million the week before.

There was no scarcity of favorable news on the economic outlook.

On Monday the Commerce Department reported business inventories had taken a record $2.97 billion drop during May.

Analysts generally viewed that reduction as an important step toward clearing built up goods from the pipelines of the economy to open the way for resumed production.

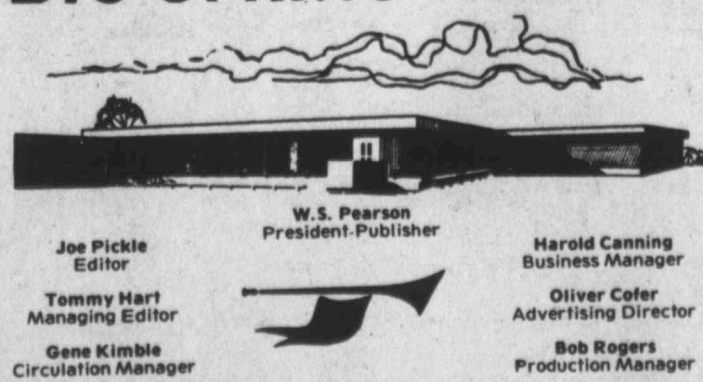

Late Tuesday the government also listed a gain in industrial production during June — the first month in the plus column for that key statistic since last September.

Cinematographer's Wife Recalls Early Days Here

By MARJ CARPENTER
Mrs. Ernest Laszlo, the former Rosa Nelson, returned to Big Spring this week for the first time in over 35 years, and told about her Global experiences as the wife of one of the foremost cinematographers in the world.

"I have seen, tasted and drank it all," Mrs. Laszlo said in describing her experiences in Hong Kong and Tokyo, Mexico and South America, London, Paris, Vienna and many other places.

Visiting in the home of one of two close friends who were schoolmates here, Mrs. Laszlo said, "I wouldn't have come back except that I wanted to see Ruth and Martha." She was speaking of Ruth Harding and Martha Moody.

"I'm glad I came back. It brings back lots of warm memories. We're going to ride around Big Spring and note the changes," she added.

Her husband, Ernest Laszlo, now a free lance director of cinematography, was for years under contract with Paramount and for 32 months was president of the American Society of Cinematography.

He was nominated for an Academy Award seven times and won once. These nominations were for photography in such movie greats as "Airport" (No. 1), "Ship of Fools", Judgment at Nuremberg, "Inherit the Wind" and "Fantasia Voyage". The Oscar went to "Ship of Fools."

"His favorite of that group was probably 'Inherit the Wind' because it starred Spencer Tracy and Fredric March and they were two of his favorite actors," Mrs. Laszlo recalled.

"His favorite actresses are probably Dorothy Lamour, in whose home we often visit, and Julie Andrews, whom he called one of the greatest ladies. Incidentally, Dorothy Lamour can still wear her original sarong. We often sit around our backyard swimming pool together."

"My husband is in Dallas working on a movie about the future called 'Logan's Run' and that's the closest I've been to Big Spring in years, so I came on down for a few days."

Mrs. Laszlo has already rejoined her husband in

SCENE FROM AIRPORT — Helen Hays is shown in one of the scenes from the original "Airport." It was one of seven movies photographed by Ernest Laszlo that was nominated for Oscars. Laszlo's wife, Rosa, is a former Big Spring resident and returned here this week for a visit.

Dallas. She said, "I've followed him to locations all over the world and I'm glad I did. I am proud of him. He refuses to photograph the nude shows or the violent shows. He directs photography on good pictures."

A LONG WAY
It's a long way from Big Spring high school to her home 15 minutes from Hollywood and Vine and the experiences which Mrs. Laszlo has had. "I played tennis in high school and competed on a dirt court up at Abilene. I remember Mother and I moved to California for her health."

"I finished high school out there and went to work in the secretarial pool at the Los Angeles Examiner under William Randolph Hearst."

"I certainly was not his personal secretary. One morning he said, 'Good morning young lady.' That was our one conversation," she laughed.

AT TENNIS MATCH
"I was playing tennis when I met Ernie. He was a Hungarian immigrant and didn't speak very good English. But he was very athletic — had played soccer in Hungary and also played a good game of tennis. We began to go together and got married. Mother wasn't too happy that I'd married a man that couldn't speak good English. She died shortly after that and I hope that somehow she knows it turned out well."

Mrs. Laszlo's father was Beauregard Nelson, who was a locomotive engineer for T&P. "He was of English extraction and in all of my travels, London was definitely one of the favorite spots," she added.

"Ernie's mother didn't like the way things looked in Europe after World War I so she sold the family silver and other items and came to America. They went through Ellis Island and Ernie could remember the humiliation of being fumigated there. Also, somebody stole his new overcoat. But he was glad to get to America. He also remembered riding the train from New York to California and could not believe that it was that far across one country," Mrs. Laszlo laughed.

WAS DISAPPOINTED

"He went home on one of our trips and was very disappointed. Hungary is now under the Russian orbit. He doesn't expect to go back again. He said that he hoped I would not be as disappointed upon revisiting Big Spring. And I'm not disappointed. I'm glad I came."

"If I hadn't learned to play tennis here, I'd never have met Ernie. It's strange the things that change our lives. I can remember going to Mrs. Robb's old show here for ten cents and watching the Million Dollar Mystery and the Perils of Pauline. I never knew how close I'd end up to the movies."

She added wistfully, "A lot of the old movies were great. The first one Ernie photographed was Howard Hughes' 'Wings.' She fingered a Mexican gold piece hanging around her neck on a chain and said, 'Vera Cruz was a good movie. He photographed that. That's when I got this goldpiece.'"

NOW DIRECTS

"Of course, he's photographed so many and nowadays he only directs the photographers."

Mrs. Laszlo said that he was a great admirer of such photographers as Loyal Briggs and such persons as Walt Disney and many others.

"He's still doing lots of films. One of the most recent was a Rock Hudson film in New Mexico. Hudson was hurt there when he lost control of an antique car and drove into a building. That was not in the script."

Because of her early association with Hearst, she was asked her opinion about the Patricia Hearst case. "I'm often asked that," she stated. "I think she's dead and that many of these other things were from somebody impersonating her."

"I could talk on and on. I've been so lucky. We've had such an interesting life. We have one daughter and she lives close by. We've known so many famous people and done so many wonderful things. What else can I say? I'm glad I came back to Big Spring and passed this way again."

TEXAS CROP Cotton Making Good Growth

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — The sorghum harvest is nearly complete in South Texas and the crop is maturing rapidly over Southwest, South Central and Southeast Texas, Dr. John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says.

The 1975 sorghum crop should be considerably larger in Texas than that of last year as many farmers switched from cotton because of poor market prices, he said. However, Hutchison said yields in South Texas have been down because of dry spring weather.

Sunflowers, a relatively new crop that has been planted in widespread sections of the state, are maturing rapidly in most areas, he said. Some early fields are being harvested.

Most pastures and ranges have good forage for livestock, Hutchison said. A good hay crop is also being made in most sections.

District agricultural agents gave these reports: Panhandle: A few fields of wheat are still being harvested. Yields have been good and prices are increasing. Corn, sorghum and sunflowers look good. Onions are being harvested. Yields and quality are good. Feedlots are filled to 75 per cent of capacity.

South Plains: Water is being applied to crops grown under irrigation. A good onion crop and early potatoes are being harvested. The second cutting of alfalfa is complete. Some sunflowers are being sprayed to control sunflower moths. Some counties need rain.

Rolling Plains: Alfalfa is producing good to excellent yields. Greenbugs and midge are infesting some sorghum fields. Cotton is making excellent growth although fleahoppers, thrips, aphids and boll weevils are increasing. Guar, soybeans and blackeyed peas are making good progress.

Broomweed infestations are widespread.

North Central: Peanuts and soybeans are making good progress. Hay making remains active although showers last week caused interruptions. A short peach crop is being harvested.

Northeast: Cotton is in bloom and boll weevil numbers are generally heavy. Corn is in the roasting ear stage. Vegetable and peach harvesting remains active. Most of the tomato crop has been harvested.

Far West: Crop and range conditions continue to improve in some areas but a general rain is needed. Cotton and sorghum are making good to excellent growth. Marketing of early lambs is about complete.

West Central: Cotton is making good growth. Sorghum prospects are good in most counties. Peanuts are making good progress although the crop is late because of weather conditions. The pecan crop is being damaged by webworms and other insects. Most pastures and ranges need rain.

Central: A few counties are still dry despite recent rains. Cotton is making good growth and early fields are in bloom. Infestations of the lesser cornstalk borer are increasing in Comanche County. Hay crops are producing good yields.

East: Cotton is blooming. Corn is in the dough stage. Producers are harvesting hay between showers. Watermelon harvesting is active. Walnut caterpillars are damaging the pecan crop.

Southeast and Upper Gulf Coast: Harvesting of corn and sorghum has started.

CRUMPLED BY TRAIN — A pickup with a tire caught in a private road railroad crossing was crumpled and thrown from the track early Friday morning. Juan C. Parras, 409 Benton St., told Texas Highway Patrolman Bill Priest he had gone for help at 2:28 a.m. Friday. A westbound train rounded a curve and collided with the unoccupied pickup, Priest said. R. W. Cagle was the conductor. The wreck site is northeast of Farm Road 700 and IS-20.

Azores May Leave Portugal Orbit

PONTA DELGADA, Azores Islands (AP) — Independence from Portugal is being considered openly in the Azores islands. But political and military leaders have predicted the final break won't come unless there is a virtual Communist takeover in Lisbon.

Nonetheless, a break from the central government could prove perilous for Portugal's leftist military leadership at a time when the country already is shaken by internal political strife.

Pressure from the nine green islands in the Atlantic 900 miles west of Lisbon already is so strong the central government has agreed to give the Azores partial autonomy. Details of a program are expected soon.

MAY NOT SUFFICE — The ingredients, however, for a possible unilateral declaration of independence indicate even autonomy may not suffice after years of what Azoreans consider abuse, lack of financial help and treatment as second-class Portuguese.

Portugal's leftist revolution has had far less impact on the lifestyle and politics of the Azores than on the mainland.

The islands' conservative Roman Catholic population is firmly opposed to communism, almost 180 degrees away from leftist trends in the mainland. The Centrist Popular Democrat party (PPD) in the Azores is the political force.

On the mainland, the PPD finished second behind the Socialists with 26 per cent. Communists, a poor third on the mainland, were even less powerful in the Azores, finishing with only 2 per cent.

The islands court American and Canadian tourists, play their own music, sometimes speak their own language and continue their own culture.

Any open rebellion might prove too costly and too difficult militarily for the Lisbon government to put down. Portugal has fewer than 2,000 troops stacked up against 300,000 Azoreans.

School Budget Due A Look

FORSAN — School trustees here will consider the budget and tax rate and sign a two-year depository pledge at a meeting starting at 7 p.m. Monday.

Plans for the old gym and the state school financing plan effective Sept. 1 will be discussed.

Purchase of a tennis-ball machine and a request from Berea Baptist Church for use of a school bus will be considered.

Bids on a vehicle will be opened.

Grant Teaff Is Speaker

Grant Teaff, head football coach at Baylor University, will be the speaker for the annual summer meeting of the Baylor Ex-Students Association at Midland. It is set for 7:30 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall of First Baptist Church in Midland.

Also due to be at the meeting is John O'Hara, formerly a coach at Midland Lee and now a line coach at Baylor, along with Catfish Smith of the Bear Club and Ray Vickery of the Ex-Students Association. Teaff will project highlights of Baylor's champion football team for the 1974 season.

Reservations should be mailed to Midland Baylor Club 3004 Lockhead, Midland 79701 (or by calling 563-0550), said Jim Sale, president.

WEEK

Congratulations to the Texas League champs, who now are District Little League champs, having beaten Midland Northern 3-0 in a series of shutouts to the title.

Our downtown and other business areas soon will be blossoming colorfully with arrival of 40 Bicentennial flags. The decorations will be up until the end of November when Christmas decorations will take over, then go back up until July 4, 1976. Happy Birthday us (or US)!

Coahoma and the Howard County Water Improvement and Control District No. 1 are now at peace. The city last week paid the final of a $29,414 judgment granted in a suit brought last year. Coahoma had made a $12,471 payment, withholding the balance pending an appeal, which also was dropped last week.

Texas Water Quality Control Board has filed a suit against Cosden Oil & Chemical Company, alleging it has not complied with anti-pollution measures and asking $1,000 a day. Interestingly, Cosden is at work on the project (a lake, which necessitates looping a 42-inch CEMWD main supply line around it) at a cost of around a quarter of a million bucks. Maybe it will be completed by the time the case comes up for hearing.

Howard College enrollment appeared to have ended with an enrollment of 280 for the second six-weeks period of the summer session, which compares with 283 a year ago, when a second-half peak was reached. Prospects are good for a large sign-up in the Autumn. Incidentally, Lettie A. Acos, RN, director, is now taking applications for the two-year RN program at the college. Deadline is Aug. 16.

It was 25 years ago Thursday 8:15 a.m., when James A. Waters walked into the new VA Hospital, shook hands with the superintendent, Dr. L. B. Andrew, and signified the beginning of the hospital's ministry. An anniversary celebration will come later.

Rep. Mike Ezzell, addressing the quarterly meeting of the Big Spring State Hospital Volunteers, had a bit of good news Thursday. Gov. Briscoe passed over the $12.1 million biennial appropriation.

The Historical Survey Committee has announced that the State Historical Commission has approved a medalion for the J. & W. Fisher building. This may not ring a bell with the younger generation, but old timers knew of this fabulous store which had customers as far as New Mexico, San Angelo, and Canyon. Its slogan, "the store that carried everything" was no idle boast. It even served as a bank.

Cosden officials were in Carville, La. last week to help celebrate an unusual milestone for the Cos-Mar polystyrene plant which is operated jointly with Borg-Warner. The plant has completed seven years and one million hours without a lost-time mishap.

FROM THE NOTEBOOK: It had to be a good week for the Don McKinneys, who got the word their son Larry Dou was chosen to spend nine weeks in Washington, D.C. on the final phases of his Ph.D. in oceanography; that their daughter Molly (Mrs. Mark Foss) had got a teaching job in Burlington, Colo.; received a nice rain or the farm; and found some cattle that had been missing for nearly a month. . . . Word of the "Let Freedom Ring" program here has reached all the way to Maryland, and that state's Bicentennial commission is due to send envoys here to talk with Mamie Lee Dodds, director (and borrow the costumes), and how about that Burlington, Ill. flap in which the fire marshal protested painting fire plugs because they would be hard to find (though firemen were supposed to know their location); anyhow pictures of the Big Spring Bicentennial plugs were sent as an example.

August Reunion

Men who served in the 69th Infantry Division are being alerted to the reunion Aug. 21-23 at Norfolk Va. Gathering with the "Fighting 69th" will be the 661st tanks destroyer and the 77th tank battalions. The 69th was activated at Camp Shelby, Miss. in 1943 and drove its drive across Germany from Koblenz to a link up with the Russians at the Elbe 4:40 p.m. Wednesday, April 25, 1945. Further information may be obtained by writing Clarence Marshall, 101 Stephen Street, New Kensington, Pa. 15063.

Opposition Mounting To Indira At Home

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — She has kept the lid clamped tightly on India's volatile political system for nearly a month, but despite her enormous newly acquired powers, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi still has to reckon with current and potential opposition forces.

Experienced observers in major Indian cities believe her crackdown on press freedom and opposition leaders June 26 was just the first step in an escalating scale of repression that will be required to maintain her emergency rule.

"The situation cannot just stay put," said a well-known government analyst in New Delhi, commenting on statistics that nearly 7,000 political opponents and other people regarded as threats to her political and economic policies had been arrested.

TWO CHOICES — "Mrs. Gandhi must either liberalize or take more repressive steps. I think she will choose the latter," he said.

Others believe the tougher the daughter of the late Jawaharlal Nehru acts in changing the democratic course set by her prime minister father, the more likelihood of a revolt.

These current and potential trouble areas are seen likely to cloud the future of the 57-year-old Mrs. Gandhi.

Her new economic policies helped win the acquiescence of the hungry masses because prices of essential foodstuffs dropped a few days later. But prices have already started to rise again and experts doubt any economic miracles will be performed.

DISSENT STIFLED — Mrs. Gandhi's arrest of every prominent political opposition leader in the country quickly stifled dissent, but gave authorities the responsibility for their lives, and some of these men, revered in their own areas by millions, are known to be seriously ill. The death of any of them in captivity could provoke popular agitation.

Gurney Trial To Jury

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — After a long trial thick with tales of corruption and attempted cover-up, the slush fund scandal case involving former Sen. Edward J. Gurney heads for a jury this week.

For 86 days, jurors sat and listened as 105 witnesses paraded to the stand to testify in the bribery-conspiracy trial of Gurney and three other persons.

Among those testifying were Gurney himself, who swore he had no knowledge of an illegal fund-raising scheme, and young fundraiser Larry Williams, who claimed Gurney knew.

Following closing arguments, which begin Tuesday, the jury will retire to sift through testimony and 500 exhibits in evidence.

The formal charge against Gurney, ex-aided Joseph Bastien and former Federal Housing Administration officials K. Wayne Swiger and Ralph Kountz is conspiracy to raise a $233,000 political slush fund for Gurney by promising builders favored FHA assistance in return for payoffs.

Gurney, a 61-year-old Republican who won national attention as a member of the Senate Watergate committee, also is accused of bribery, accepting unlawful compensation and lying to a federal grand jury.

Quints' Mom To See Babies For First Time

DALLAS (AP) — The one-day-old quintuplets' father was excited, their mother was tired and their doctors were optimistic Saturday.

Dr. Charles Rosenfeld, part of Friday morning's 20-member delivery team, said he was "exceptionally pleased with the condition of the babies," four girls and a boy.

"I tell the parents that the prognosis is an hour-by-hour, day-by-day proposition," said Dr. Rosenfeld, who is supervising the babies' treatment in Parkland Hospital's intensive care unit for infants where the cost is $150 per child a day. The couple is covered by insurance, a hospital spokesman said.

Dr. Jack Pritchard, who also helped with the deliveries and is now caring for the mother, Mrs. Debbie Davis, said she will see her babies for the first time Sunday.

"Her first words when she was told she had five babies were, 'Oh, no,'" Dr. Pritchard said.

"She has realized that her lifestyle has abruptly and completely changed," said Dr. Pritchard who added that Mrs. Davis, 20, is tired but in good condition.

The father, Jerry Davis, 21, spent Friday night at the hospital and said Saturday he was still excited over his new family.

"I've had all the excitement I can take in one lifetime," he said. "I wouldn't want to put her through it again and I wouldn't want to go through it again myself."

Asked if he wanted more children, Davis said, "Not for a long while if we ever do."

"At least I haven't had any calls from the zero-population people yet," Davis said.

A hospital spokesman said the couple had chosen the name Casey for the boy. The girls have been named Chelsea, Charla, Chanda and Christa but the names have not been assigned to each girl as yet.

Davis, stranded in a hospital elevator while the babies were being delivered, said, after hearing the news, "I think we're going to have to get another house."

Davis makes about $175 a week as a mechanic at a Dallas equipment company. He and Debbie married three years ago after being high school sweethearts in nearby Lewisville where they still live.

Fairview Area Is Hit By Heavy Rain, Hail

Rain clouds hanging over the county brought mixed results early Saturday night. In the Fairview community, eight miles north of town, 1.7 inches were measured. Hail five miles north of Big Spring stripped some cotton. A few cars were reported flooded by rain. Up to half an inch fell in Big Spring and it proved to be a gentle fall.

At Forsan and Moss Creek Lake, just sprinkles were reported.

Coahoma received an estimated 0.25 of an inch. Five miles north of Coahoma, 0.4 of an inch was registered. Only 0.1 of an inch was felt one mile north of that city.

One mile south of the Luther Post Office, the reading was 0.3 of an inch; at Vincent, 0.3 of an inch. In Stanton, 0.7 of an inch was the mark showing on the gauge. South of here, the Bernard Houston place caught one-quarter inch. Further south, more fell.

Not a trace fell in Lamesa, although four miles west of Lamesa, rainfall was heavy.

The rains, accompanied by brilliant lightning and thunder, became harder around 10 p.m., in Big Spring, posing some problems in low areas for motorists.

Crash Kills Woman, 76 Major Role In Rescue Try Taken By Nixon

Mrs. Bert (Zola) Lockett, 76, of Mullin, was fatally injured in a car-truck accident near the Snyder city limits Friday morning.

Mrs. Lockett died en route to a Lubbock hospital, following the mishap, which occurred about 25 feet north of the city limits about 10:40 a.m.

The vehicle Mrs. Lockett was driving was southbound on U.S. 84 when it was in collision with a truck-tractor and trailer also southbound on the highway, according to a preliminary report.

The driver of the truck, Guy W. Steiwig of Plainview, was uninjured in the accident.

The body is at the Wilkins Funeral Home in Goldthwaite.

Mrs. Lockett moved to Mullin in 1899 and was a Methodist.

Survivors include her husband; a son, Carroll Lockett of Lubbock; and three grandchildren.

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon was "really affected" by the tragedy of a fatal traffic accident he happened upon, his son-in-law says.

But Edward Cox also said Nixon still was able to take charge of unsuccessful attempts to save the lives of three Marines—two Californians and a Texan—who died in the smashup.

"It really affected him. The tragedy of it really struck him," Cox said Friday in a telephone interview.

Nixon, his daughter, Tricia, and Cox were returning to the former president's estate at nearby San Clemente from the golf course at Camp Pendleton when they came to the scene of the head-on collision that claimed the lives of the three Marines.

The victims were identified as Cpl. Ramiro A. Delgado Jr., 20, San Antonio, Tex.; Sgt. David A. Vanal, 28, Oceanside, Calif. and Sgt.

Larry W. Grrise, 24, San Clemente, Calif.

Nixon ordered his car stopped and spent about an hour at the accident scene, trying to aid the three servicemen, Cox said.

Cox said the accident occurred about two minutes before Nixon's car reached the scene Thursday afternoon. Secret Service agents accompanying Nixon were going to pass by the wreckage "but the president saw the accident and said right away, 'Stop. Stop the car.'"

Cox said a warrant officer was directing the rescue attempt and that Nixon asked him, "Can we give you any help? We've got first aid equipment."

"Yes sir, we sure can use that," the officer replied.

Cox said Nixon then took charge of the rescue attempts and ordered the Secret Service agents to call for a medivac helicopter to aid two injured Marines in one car. They died later at a hospital. The one Marine in the other car died at the scene and was "not a very pretty sight," he added.

One of the Marines in the second car was trapped in the vehicle, his foot wedged against the brake pedal, Cox said. Nixon ordered one of the Secret Service agents to get a crowbar from his car to free the man.

Cox said that as he, his wife and Nixon left the accident scene, the former president "looked out the window and said, 'You know, those two fellows were going off the base and looking forward to a good time. They were in their dress blue uniforms.'"

The former president was concerned about the two men and called the camp commander "first thing in the morning" to learn of their conditions, Cox said.

Bystanders at the crash recognized Nixon but paid no special attention to him as they worked to aid the victims, Cox said. When Nixon and the others left, a warrant officer and a captain saluted and shook his hand, he added.

Mystery Is Cleared Up

PONCA CITY, Okla. (AP)—Lyde Marland, widow and former stepdaughter of former Oklahoma Gov. E.W. Marland, has returned to Ponca City, ending a 22-year-old mystery.

Mrs. Marland got into her 1949 Studebaker in May 1953—12 years after the death of her husband—and left town. She hasn't made a public appearance since.

Mrs. Marland, now 75, is living at the Jens-Marie Hotel, carefully avoiding publicity, venturing from her room only occasionally.

"I saw her in the lobby yesterday," a hotel employee said. "But she doesn't come out often." She has refused interviews and avoided photographers.

"She said she wanted to get away from her family," the owner of the hotel said. "She wasn't ill, she just seemed like a person who wanted to live a normal, happy life."

Mrs. Marland and her brother, George, were adopted by oilman E. W. Marland and his first wife when they were children.

MOVING DAY — This little sedan struggles under a major load that includes mattress, bedstead, fishing rods, trunk and pictures. Inside it looks equally packed during a trip along the fast lane of Interstate 8 in San Diego, Cal.

AND A BRUISED IMAGE Wallace Laying Low, Nursing Busted Leg

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — George Wallace, like Brer Fox, is layin' low these days. There's a briar patch out there he'd as soon not get into just now.

Democratic party officials denounce his candidacy, polls cite his slipping popularity, state legislators pushing his bills wait in vain for his support, reporters prowl his home turf digging up allegations of lack of leadership, and fellow governors question his physical stamina.

Wallace, all the while, stays in his family quarters at the governor's mansion nursing a broken leg and a bruised image.

While other declared and undeclared 1976 presidential candidates (Wallace is both, having declared he's in but will wait a while to "announce") covet every inch of newsprint they can get, the man with a message for the masses turns away reporters by the droves.

What about all those charges of neglect and poor administration? Wouldn't he like to answer them?

BY PHONE He would not. But after 10 days of badgering he consented to anyhow, sort of, and by phone rather than in person.

"Just asking the question is insulting to the people of Alabama and I resent that," he said. "The people of this state are just as intelligent and have just as much knowledge about government as the people of any state in the union."

"They elected me three times, which was unprecedented in this state, and elected my first wife once, which was four straight administrations. They elect me over and over again. Why do they do that if I'm such a bad governor? That in itself ought to answer all those questions."

Maybe, but apparently not to the satisfaction of all. Wallace explains his reluctance to be interviewed by saying it wouldn't be fair to accommodate a national reporter after turning down Alabama reporters whom, he says, he hasn't been able to see because he's been too busy.

The Alabama press, however, has not questioned Wallace's availability for interviews so much as to wonder just what it is he's been busy doing, running for president or running Alabama.

He hasn't been seen or heard from much this year down at the capitol, even when Wallace-backed bills go down the drain in the legislature. At one recent special session his entire package of eight bills, all dealing with utilities, died without a word from George.

Yet, say the local papers, the governor somehow finds the time for lengthy visits at home with out-of-state politicians.

His visits to the capitol have become so infrequent, in fact, that when he does go to the office he finds a good many strangers there. His staff has grown in recent months, prompting wisecracks in Montgomery about his "sprawling bureaucracy."

At a picture-taking ceremony not long ago Wallace confronted an unfamiliar face.

"How are you, honey?" "Fine, governor. I work for you."

"Oh, yes. Good to see you again."

HEALTH DISCUSSED Wallace's silence and long absences from view also prompt obvious speculation about his health, especially since his late June accident.

"My health is good," he said. "Of course I cracked my shinbone, but most of the folks who know the type of hard exercise I take wonder why I haven't done it before now. It's inconvenient, that's all."

Has the experience given him a sense of vulnerability? Wouldn't a similar freak accident slow him down if it should happen in the course of a campaign?

"No. I don't feel vulnerable, and yes, of course it would slow me down. But it wouldn't slow down my ideas, about what I'm talking about. It's not necessary in a campaign to show up at every whistle stop. That day is gone."

OLD SETTLERS RUG ON DISPLAY Bob McCracken duplicates medallion

Commemorative Coin Duplicated On Rug

Bob McCracken is one person who will remember the Howard-Glasscock Old Settlers reunion, which has its annual get-together in Comanche Trail Park Aug. 1.

Bob, a member of a long-time Howard County of the Old Settler's 50th reunion, designed and marketed by his cousin, Coy Joe McCann.

So he took a picture of the coin, had it blown up to approximately three feet square, then sketched it on canvas. This was the easy part of what turned out to be a 37x37-in. latch-hook rug which duplicates the commemorative coin.

He will have it on display at the reunion this year, but it's not for sale. One reason is that it has about $150 worth of materials in it, not counting his time in applying some 73 strands of wool yarn, which represents 22,500 pieces of yarn and knots.

This is a hobby with him, but happens to be his first rug. His previous work, done for relaxation, was mostly on pillows. Bob lives with his mother, Mrs. Ethel McCracken, at 503 Douglas.

Work By Greene And Chamber Nailed Down Hospital Site

By TROY BRYANT

On July 17, 1950, 25 years ago last week, James A. Waters, then 25, walked down the north corridor of the newly completed hospital to the registrar's reception room and became the first patient of the Big Spring VA Hospital.

That was the highlight of more than five trying years whereby City of Big Spring and Chamber of Commerce officials struggled to win designation for Big Spring as the site of a then proposed VA Hospital.

It all began on Oct. 9, 1944 at a Chamber of Commerce Board meeting, when Chamber Manager James H. Greene reported to the board, "we might stand a chance of obtaining a Veterans' Administration Hospital, and this is the time to make application."

Some of the members were cool toward the idea, but a motion by Joe Pickle and Joe Pond to send a representative to Washington to present an application carried.

ATTEMPTED BLOCK
A steering committee was appointed and in April, 1945, Greene and others learned that Big Spring was on the verge of being named. One other city, trying to get the hospital themselves, knew of the pending approval of Big Spring and began throwing obstacles. They pointed out that Big Spring had no north-south railroad to the VA, but Big Spring proved that practically all VA patients arrived by automobile or ambulance. Big Spring was attacked on its population and other counts, but in May the okay came through.

Then, a neighboring city had a photographer take a picture of cockleburs growing in the bed of Moss Creek Lake, one source of city water supply. The VA held up the public announcement for a second look.

The city commission pledged priority of supply for the VA hospital on June 11 and on July 9, the announcement that Big Spring was given final approval.

Rep. George Mahon was instrumental in getting the approval and despite some other efforts to discredit Big Spring by neighboring cities, Mahon and Gen. Omar Bradley, VA chief, assured the city that they were satisfied with their choice.

VOTER APPROVE
Big Spring voters expressed their approval by overwhelmingly approving a bond issue for the purchase of land in the LaLoma Addition on South Gregg.

More than a year later, on Jan. 20, 1947, the U.S. Army Engineers announced that Robert L. McKee's bid of $5,642,650 had been accepted and that construction was to begin about June 15 of that year.

It wasn't until Jan. 30, 1948, that ground was finally broken for the facility. Mrs. F. A. Farquhar, Big Spring, turned the first spadeful of dirt at the ceremonies. Mrs. Farquhar's daughter, Army nurse Lt. LaVerne Farquhar, was killed in World War II at Anzio, Italy. The 255 bed hospital was by far the biggest construction project in 1949, being over 600 feet long, 96 feet high, and containing six floors for patients and two more levels for equipment.

HOUSING SHORT
When the hospital neared completion in 1950, Big Spring faces a critical housing shortage as employees of the hospital began seeking places to live. It was estimated that in February, 150 houses and apartments could have been filled within a week if they were available.

Following the completion and outfitting of the hospital, Waters became the first patient. He was an ex-Marine who was accidentally shot in the back in Hawaii while on leave after fighting through three South Pacific campaigns without a scratch.

The hospital was officially dedicated on September 10, 1950, with Dr. L. B. Andrew, first hospital manager, and Gen. Carl R. Gray Jr., Administrator of Veterans Affairs, being special guests.

SEVEN REMAIN
Seven present employees of the VA Hospital were among the original staff assembled early in 1950. Members of the original staff are Bill Bell, supervisory medical technician, laboratory; Russ Hoover, Chief, Recreation; Raymond Cooper, laundry supervisor; Genevieve Flippin, information clerk and switchboard operator; Crescencio Padilla, electrician; O. A. Davis, cook foreman; and Billy Scott, Food Service foreman.

The hospital opened with 43 medical beds and 41 surgical beds for a total of 84. Twenty-five years later, there are 255 general medical and surgical beds and with the completion of the Nursing Home Care Unit later this year, 10 more beds will be added to the total. There are 250 regularly scheduled volunteers.

The hospital has grown and now has 352 employees, with a payroll of $5,282,800. Annual budget at the hospital is $6,844,811. Since the first patient was admitted, 73,150 patients have been hospitalized at the hospital and 103,563 outpatients have been treated since the program began in 1950.

VOLUNTEERS VALUABLE — In 25 years of operation, the Big Spring VA Hospital has relied heavily on the work of volunteers, such as Mrs. Mary Dige, a volunteer from the Officer's Wives Club at Webb Air Force Base. She is reading a newspaper to Marion E. Freeman, Abilene. There are 250 regularly scheduled volunteers who make the patients' stay more enjoyable.

Patients are working on the model as their Bicentennial Project, for display at the Howard County Fair.

DALLAS — At the close of the Civil War, Americans began to challenge the natural physical barriers that barred their way to the West, and embarked on the "Era of Exploration."

The Dallas Museum of Fine Arts will present the first comprehensive survey of early landscape photography from this period in an exhibition slated July 23-August 31.

"The Era of Exploration: The Rise of Landscape Photography in the American West, 1860-1885" captures the remarkable spirit of six of the pioneers of this medium. They were exploring the technical possibilities in "camera art" at the same time adventurers opened new territory in this country and geographers saw new forms in nature.

Symbol Is Family Service Center Has Long-Range Plans

The Big Spring High School Steer Band's version of a teenage Uncle Sam has been chosen as the official bicentennial symbol of Big Spring.

Bicentennial co-chairpersons Mrs. Janell Davis and Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery approved the idea of a youthful bicentennial symbol after conferring with band director Bill Bradley and band members on the planning committee of Campus Revue.

"We feel that a young Uncle Sam will be an ideal way to portray America's strength and vigor during her 200th birthday celebration," band officers stated at the meeting. "We hope that Sam will serve as a catalyst to get patriotic spirit going and to get Big Spring citizens involved in the many bicentennial activities."

The concept of an adolescent "Sam" will become reality on Aug. 28 when try-outs will be held. The young men chosen will be available for speaking engagements at the various service clubs and organizations in Howard County. He will also be a central part of Campus Revue '76, theme of which is "Play It Again, Sam."

15 Students Pass Test

Fifteen students in the Howard College Vocational School of Nursing program recently received results from the State Board Test Pool Examination. There were no failures among the local group. The Howard College grade average was 542, compared to the state average of 489.

Mrs. Michael (Sherry) Henderson of the local school finished among the top ten scorers in the tests, which were conducted at the municipal auditorium in Austin. In all, 1,147 candidates passed and were issued vocational nurse licenses.

A total of 1,485 candidates wrote the licensing examination, which is developed by the National League for Nursing Inc., and is now used by most of the states. Of the 1,485 candidates, 95 were males.

Mrs. Gloria Keller Hart, who attended the Dallas Vocational Nursing Program in Dallas, achieved the highest score of 737.

There were 122 schools, including Howard College, represented in the 1975 examinations and 17 of them had no failures. Averages of the schools ranged from 571 to 441.

Creation of a complete "Center For Living" by 1980, to offer a complete range of social services to individuals and families, was set aside as the long-range goal of the Howard County Family Service Center at its regular quarterly meeting Thursday.

Mrs. Mary Joe Cowper, president, described the goal as a comprehensive plan to serve the families of Howard County. "It not only provides goals for the Center, but it also supplies guidelines against which to measure agency progress," Mrs. Cowper said.

Phils Run By Astros

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Larry Christenson pitched a four-hitter and Johnny Oates drove in a fourth-inning run to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 1-0 victory over the Houston Astros Saturday night.

Christenson, 5-1, gave up a fourth-inning single to Greg Gross, a seventh-inning double to Cesar Cedeno and ninth-inning singles by Cedeno and Bob Watson on his way to his fifth straight victory. He struck out seven and walked two.

The Phillies pushed across the deciding run against Larry Dierker, 8-10, when Mike Schmidt walked, moved to third on Garry Maddox' single and scored on a sacrifice fly by Oates.

Core Of Cowboy Defense Retires

DALLAS (AP) — Bob Lilly, the core of the Dallas Cowboys' "Doomsday Defense" for the past 14 seasons, announced his retirement Saturday saying that to continue playing would risk permanent injury.

"It's kind of sad. I'll tell you what it reminds me of. When I went off to college...leaving home," Lilly told the Dallas Times Herald in revealing he will not report with other veterans to the Cowboys training camp Sunday at Thousand Oaks, Calif.

The 6-foot-5, seven-time All-Pro tackle said his decision was influenced by recent medical findings that he risked permanent injury—perhaps paralysis—if he continued to play with bone spurs on his neck.

Before the medical reports, Cowboys' Head Coach Tom Landry had urged Lilly to return for another season. Once Landry learned the dangers, he recommended his one-time superstar quit.

Before the injuries took their toll, Lilly, 35, played in 196 consecutive regular season games. He was an All-American at Texas Christian University and was the first draft choice ever of the Cowboys franchise in 1961.

Bill Melton opened the second by reaching first on third baseman Don Money's error. Travers got the next two batters on easy fly balls but Jerry Hairston kept the inning alive by beating out a single to deep short. Brian Downing walked, filling the bases and Kelly followed with his first career grand slam.

Jesse Jefferson, 2-4, was the starter and winner but needed help in the sixth inning—first from Dave Hamilton, then from Rich Gossage. Gossage recorded his 14th save of the year.

LEADS TIGHT RACE BY ONE Oklahoman 1-Putts 7 Straight Holes

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Rookie Danny Edwards birdied his last two holes for a 69, broke out of the most tightly-packed, massive jam of players the tour has seen in years and took the lead Saturday in the $200,000 Pleasant Valley Golf Classic.

The 24-year-old Edwards put on a fantastic exhibition of scrambling—he one-putted seven holes in a row at one stretch—on his way to a three-round total of 207, six-under-par, on the hilly, windswept, 7,119-yard Pleasant Valley Country Club course.

The wind was a major factor in turning this into probably the tightest race of the season. At one time or another in the third round, eight players either led or shared the lead. At one point, 12 players were locked within one stroke of each other at the top.

"I've been out here for 13 years and in all that time I've never seen anything like this," said Dom Mirandi, the veteran official scorer for the tour.

Edwards finally solved it with his two closing birdies. He hit a seven iron just two inches—on the ball—the short of the cup on the 17th hole and jerked a massive yell from the gallery announced at 30,750 with his long, curling putt of about 35 feet on the final hole.

Lee Elder, the second-round leader who has a habit of playing very well in this tournament, Ben Crenshaw, Rod Curl and Mac McLendon were tied for second, one shot back at 208. McLendon, enjoying his best year as a pro, had a 70, Crenshaw and Curl matched rounds of par 71 and Elder slipped to a 73.

10TH WIN IN ROW Red Sox Rout Rangers, 8-0

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Denny Doyle's three-run homer climaxed a six-run sixth inning that powered the Boston Red Sox to their 10th straight victory, an 8-0 rout of the Texas Rangers Saturday night.

Right hander Rick Wise, the distance for Boston, scattering seven hits to raise his record to 12-6.

One out later, Cooper tapped back to pitcher Bill Hands, 5-6, who threw wide to first for an error. Hands wild-pitched Rice to second and Carlton Fisk grounded to third baseman Lenny Randle, who threw wide of first for the third error of the inning. Rick Burleson's double to right scored both runners.

Jim Umberger replaced Hands and intentionally walked Dwight Evans. Stan Thomas then took the mound and Doyle greeted him with a shot into the right field seats for his second homer of the season.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tom Paciorek's wild throw gave Pittsburgh the tie-breaking run in the ninth inning and Rennie Stennett added a sacrifice fly as the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-3 Saturday night.

Manny Sanguillen opened the ninth against Mike Marshall, 5-7, with a single. Mario Mendoza bunted for a sacrifice and was safe when first baseman Steve Garvey threw wide of the base.

Tigers Trim Kansas City

DETROIT (AP) — Aurelio Rodriguez hit reliever Doug Bird's first pitch for a grand slam home run in the sixth inning Saturday night to lead the Detroit Tigers to a 10-8 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

Detroit trailed 7-4 before Ben Oglivie opened the sixth with a double and Willie Horton singled him home. Jack Pierce's single off Marty Pattin and a walk to Leon Roberts then loaded the bases with one out. Bird took the mound and Rodriguez, who had singled for a run in the second inning, blasted his ninth homer of the year.

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Cowboy defensive end Pat Toomay has been traded to the Buffalo Bills of the National Football League for an undisclosed draft choice, the Dallas Times Herald said in Sunday's editions.

Harold Wilder, Howard College head basketball coach and athletic director announces a somewhat new format for next year's ABC Basketball Tournament, Jan. 7-8-9.

The three-day event will run Thursday, Friday and Saturday instead of the first of the week schedule employed last year.

Teams to be competing are defending champs Panola, Cisco, newcomer Ganado Community College of Arizona, and host Howard College. The Arizona five replaces New Mexico Junior College.

Bill Sears, newly named Stanton High varsity basketball coach, watched his son handle the catching chores for Midland Northern Friday night against the Texas All-Stars at the American League Park.

Danny Weir is keeping busy on the moto-cross scene after competing in the recent Hi-Noon-sponsored Firecracker $5,000. He made a quick trip to an Oklahoma race, followed by a few days off, then on to the New York circuit.

Youngsters attending the Texas Rangers vs. Cleveland Indians contest in Arlington Wednesday will receive a pair of red, white and blue wristbands suitable for use in all sports.

The wristbands are complete with the Ranger emblem.

John Ralston greeted the smallest number of rookies in his four years as Denver Bronco head coach when camp opened up last Saturday at Cal Poly in Pomona, Calif. Veterans reported the very next day.

With Otis Armstrong, Jon Keyworth, Floyd Little and Bobby Anderson plus veteran Charley Johnson of Big Spring guiding the team, the Broncos hope to vastly improve on the 39 TD's of last season.

Denver breaks camp Friday, Aug. 8, returning home for its first exhibition game against Baltimore. The Broncos will then set up headquarters for the pre-season duration at their regular training facility in Adams County near Denver.

Suit Ends On 'Rule'

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A U.S. District Court suit challenging the National Football League's Rozelle Rule wound up Saturday after 55 days and nearly 12,000 pages of testimony.

U.S. District Judge Earl Larson, who is hearing the suit without a jury, set a schedule for written briefs to be filed by attorneys and said he should receive the full case by Sept. 25.

Judge Larson said it might be November or December before he is ready to rule on the complicated suit, which contends the Rozelle Rule violates the Sherman Antitrust Act.

An appeal is almost certain and Larson volunteered in court two weeks ago that 1978 might be a likely date for a final decision.

Must Integrate Courses By Sex

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has changed its mind and agreed that schools must integrate their physical education courses by sex.

Its 215-178 vote Friday ended the threat of a loophole in the sweeping rules implementing a 1972 law banning sex discrimination in education, which take effect on Monday.

The so-called "Title 9" rules would require equal access at all levels of sports, except those such as football or basketball involving hard contact, to both women and men.

Must Integrate Courses By Sex

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House last spring, however, accepted an amendment by Rep. Bob Casey, D-Tex., to a $7.9-billion educational bill to let local schools decide which physical education courses were appropriate for both women and men and which could remain for men only.

The Senate refused such an amendment, the conferees couldn't agree and Wednesday the House by a one-vote margin, 212-211, reiterated its support for the Casey amendment.

The Senate continued its opposition to the amendment Thursday by a 65-27 vote and the House backed down Friday.

Texas won, 3-0.

Texas Awarded District Title

By CLARK LESHER

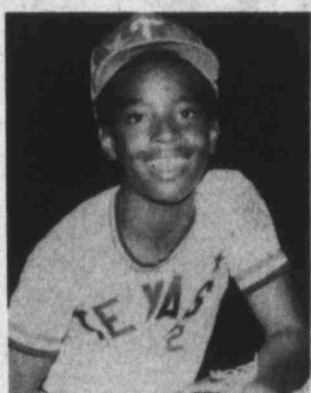

Two errors plus Dickie Wrightsil's graceful one-hitter permitted the Big Spring Texas All-Stars to nose out Midland Northern, 3-0, for the District Little League Championship here Friday night at the American League Park.

Watched before a following of some 3,000, Wrightsil had his no-hitter cleared with two outs in the bottom of the sixth. Losing hurler Michael Feldt connected for a single.

Wrightsil got the next Northern batter to ground out and Texas leaped with joy. The left-handed Wrightsil controlled Northern mostly on a drop delivery sandwiched in with fast pitches. He threw the curve ball only twice.

History repeated itself as Wrightsil fired a 9-0 one-hit win over Midland Eastern in the district opening round last Saturday.

Wrightsil's overall record for the year including regular season games is 11-0. Both Wrightsil and Feldt turned out to be strikeout artists. Feldt fanned 15 of 26 faced while Wrightsil blazed his ball past 12 of 21. Texas broke the game wide open in the second frame as Edward Vela's fly to leftfield was misjudged. The ball dropped safely to the ground, sending both Greg Jones and Johnny Doporto Jr. home.

Jones and Doporto had reached the base path on single drives.

Northern's second error in the fourth helped push home Texas' third and final run of the six-inning contest. With two outs, Johnnie Abreo singled, stole second and advanced to third on a Northern miscue. Vela's tap singled in Abreo.

Abreo also had a helping hand in moving Texas into the finals by firing a 10-0 no-hitter against Midland Tower Wednesday night.

Jack Barber, district 3 administrator, presented the trophies, given jointly by First National Bank and Security State Bank, to both clubs following the completion of the contest.

Texas will now go to San Angelo July 29 for a bi-district one-game.

CAMP INSTRUCTION — Harold Wilder, Howard College varsity basketball coach and athletic director, holding jersey, will be camp director for the week-long Camp of Champs starting Monday. The public will be able to view camp night games Monday through Thursday from 6 to 11 p.m., at the Hawk gym.

BIG SPRING HEADS LIST

Camp Of Champs Starts Monday

By CLARK LESHER

To help establish a good athletic foundation and promote basketball in the West Texas area, the Third Annual Howard College Camp of Champs becomes a reality Monday.

Camp checkout time will be 4 p.m. Friday.

Youngsters may attend from fifth grade through junior varsity. Registration is set from 9 a.m. to noon Monday in the lobby of the men's dorm on the campus of Howard College.

Upon signing up, the youngsters will receive a free camp T-shirt with Camp of Champs embroidered on the front. The bulk of campers is expected to come from eighth and ninth graders.

Big Spring will enroll 15 campers followed by 12 from Lake Jackson, Tex., with several coming from Snyder. New Mexico plans to send a delegation drawing from Hobbs, Logan and Aztec, with the latter traveling the farthest, being some 650 miles away.

Harold Wilder, Howard College varsity basketball coach and athletic director, will again serve as camp director. After observing camps he was a member of in Oklahoma and New Mexico, Wilder decided to bring this type of instruction home with him.

Wilder coached four years at Abilene High where he compiled a 101-36 won-lost record. Over a five-year stretch at HC, he has won 20 or more games each season and sports a 133-47 won-lost record.

Other staff members include: Leroy McClendon, Hawk assistant basketball coach; Cadey Hagood, head of the physical education department for the Big Spring schools; David Middle, Brazoswood head basketball coach; Ron Plumlee, former Big Spring High varsity basketball coach; James Griffin, Big Spring High varsity basketball coach; and Delnor Poss, an outstanding teaching fundamentalist and renowned basketball official.

Scott Hatfield, Hawk manager and VTR operator, will serve as camp trainer.

Mike Mitchell, head coach of the national champions Western Texas College, will be present for Tuesday's morning session. He will talk on basketball tips.

Youngsters are to be divided into two groups. Those in the eighth grade or less will be graded on a Little League level with ninth graders or higher, a member of the Big League.

Wilder and his staff will assign only five players to a team whereby the individual may gain valuable game experience. League contests are booked each night through Thursday from 6 to 11 p.m. at the Hawk gym. Championship games will be played from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday. All-Star teams from both leagues are to be named.

Video-tape highlights of certain games will be available so campers may study themselves in action. A weight-training program for off-season will be explained.

Campers will be housed in the college air-conditioned dorm and fed by the college. No special equipment is required. Each youngster should bring practice needs such as shoes, shorts and shirts.

Other camp activities include: bowling, miniature golf, ping-pong, chess, checkers, dominoes and free movies. A certificate of participation will be awarded to each camper at the end of the final day.

In each of the two previous camps, the maximum number of entrants was 60, but the response this year has been so great that no set figure will be imposed. The current entry list shows 65.

LOOK AT STARS

Cards Back Home

The Big Spring Cardinals, 20-5, are back in town today as guests of a twin bill with the strong-minded Odessa Stars.

Game time is 1:30 p.m., at Steer Park.

Card manager Chico Rubio will rely on two of three hurlers, Orlando Olague, Jody Flores or Frankie Rubio to toe the rubber.

The Cards had their 15-game winning streak wiped clean by the same streaking Stars, June 29. Losing the opener, 5-1, the Cards shot back to win the finale, 4-2.

Game win number 20 was attained by the Cardinals last Sunday, though dividing a pair with host Pecos. Olague shut out the Pirates on four hits in the opener, 7-0, but the Cards lost the nightcap, 2-1. Rubio, though, fired a losing cause five-hitter. Andy Gamboa was the Cardinal leading batsman against the Pirates, going two for three in both contests.

Probable Cardinal lineup: Joe Martinez, catcher; Pat Martinez Jr., first base;

Sammy Rodriguez, second; Billy Pineda, third; Felix Martinez, shortstop; Jesse Zapata, leftfield; Gamboa, centerfield; and Benny Marquez Jr., rightfield.

Reserve strength lies with Arthur Valdez, Tony Martinez and Joe Cadenhead.

No One Likes Losing Team

BELLINGHAM, Wash. (AP) — "I just can't stand watching losers," the teenager said in a loud voice as she and a companion stalked from the sparsely filled stands at Civic Field, home of the Northwest League's Bellingham Dodgers. The gate they took, however, led to the concession stand rather than the exit.

If they returned, they saw the Class A minor league baseball team break the modern major league record of 23 consecutive losses set by the Philadelphia Phillies in 1961 and match the all-time mark set in 1899 by Cleveland, then in the National League.

The Dodgers, with an 0-24 record, also have broken all records for losses at the start of a season.

Everyone from the fans to the players, to Manager Bill Berrier to longtime major leaguers Dixie Walker and Ron Perranoski, now batting and pitching coaches in the Dodger organization, agrees the problem is a combination of youth and inexperience.

All the players are fresh out of high school and their ages range from Ed Fajardo's just-turned-16 to Ken Zepponi, the oldest on the team at 19.

"I feel right now, the only thing that has been hurting us right now is inexperience," Berrier said. "We're just too young."

"All the other teams have at least some college graduates or some ex-

Double A or Triple A players on their roster. So, we find ourselves being outgunned right now," he said. "It's just like a 10th grade sophomore trying to compete against a senior and you can't do it."

Berrier also has a half-dozen Latinos on the team, only one of whom speaks English, and admits there is some problem with morale. "But that's my job and if I can cope with it I guess they can cope with it too. Our perspective here isn't to win. Our perspective here is to teach the fundamentals. As long as I keep that perspective in mind and keep teaching, everything is going to work out."

Among his top prospects, Berrier numbers outfielder Myron White, 18, of Los Angeles, one of the most sought-after prep football stars in California.

White attributes the Dodgers' plight to "umpires, sometimes hitting, bad plays—you make a lot of mistakes—it's just inexperience. It might be because of the high school coaches, too. They might not have taught you enough."

With more than 55 games to go "we should win one, at least," White said.

That one victory is of primary importance to Walker.

Walker said he told the team before its doubleheader loss to Portland this week, "Keep your chin up, bear down and do everything in your power to break this thing because it is a very difficult thing to come out of a bad slump."

"Once you get the momentum going it's just as easy to keep it going that way. What you need right now is a victory so battle like the very devil to win one because you need to break the ice and do it soon."

Houston Checked

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Troubleshot Tom Hilgendorf stopped the Houston Astros Friday night, allowing the Philadelphia Phillies to slip by for a 7-4 victory.

Hilgendorf, who admits he made it back to the big leagues because the Phillies needed a steady reliever, has become the club's hottest pitcher with a nifty 1.62 ERA over the past six weeks.

"There's no doubt about it," the 33-year-old lefty said after the game. "If it wasn't for the injury to Tug McGraw in spring training, I wouldn't be here."

"But I can pitch, I was the top reliever in Cleveland and I can help the Phillies." In the last 25 innings of work, he has not allowed an earned run, and Manager Danny Ozark has been calling on Hilgendorf to handle the tough ones.

After starter Jim Lonborg struggled through the early innings, Ozark sent Hilgendorf out to open the sixth. The Astros were leading 4-3, but Hilgendorf held them off until Gene Garber came in to get Cesar Cedeno for the final out.

Besides his pitching, Hilgendorf also contributed a single to the winning effort.

Thomas Still Not In Camp

CARLSLE, Pa. (AP) — Duane Thomas, the talented but moody running back, didn't join the Washington Redskins' veterans camp in training camp Saturday because of a contract dispute.

Thomas, a free agent since May 1, and his attorney, Osborn Caldwell, met with Redskins president Edward Bennett Williams Friday but no agreement was reached.

Thomas reportedly made between $50,000 and $55,000 last season when he played out his contract.

Thomas, 28, has rushed for only 442 yards in his two seasons with the Redskins, serving chiefly as the backup to Larry Brown. The talented Thomas has been discarded by Dallas, New England and San Diego after run-ins with management. He came to the Redskins from San Diego in 1973 in exchange for a first-round draft choice in 1975 and a second-round choice in 1976.

Tony Depressed In Playing AAA

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — A decade ago Tony Conigliaro was a baseball star, his sizzling swing having socked 104 home runs in less than four seasons with the Boston Red Sox.

Today, after a 1967 injury at the plate and numerous comeback attempts, the 30-year-old outfielder shares dingy locker rooms and long bus rides with another Red Sox team — Boston's Pawtucket farm squad. "I figured AAA was just a notch below the majors," he said in the locker room of the Charleston Charlies before a game this week. "It isn't. It's depressing."

In the game that followed, his team lost 2-0 to the Charlies before 762 persons. Conigliaro stepped to the plate four times, but was unable to muster a hit.

The Revere, Mass., native was playing with the Boston Red Sox at the age of 19, the fans adoring his hitting prowess. But on Aug. 19, 1967, a pitch fractured his cheekbone and damaged his eyesight.

Although he tried twice to return to the major leagues, he was forced to give up and return to his motel and nightclub businesses.

Then, last year, "somehow the hole in my eye closed. It healed. And, my eyesight returned to 20-20," he recalled. "I decided to give baseball another try. I had to."

The Red Sox gave Conigliaro another chance. But he pulled a groin muscle and batted a measly .120. Boston gave him a choice: quit or go to Pawtucket.

Now he's hitting about .240 with two homers, but he has a promise that Boston will call him up for the last month of the season.

"I'm satisfied with that. I know I can still play, I can

ATC Tourney At Webb AFB

The ATC Central Division Fast-Pitch Softball Tournament will come to Webb AFB, Aug. 8 through 10. Webb will serve as host for the double-elimination event.

Other teams to be represented include Randolph and Lackland, both of San Antonio, Laughlin of Del Rio, and Reese of Lubbock.

Play will be held on the No. 1 diamond located north of the base exchange building. Winners of the Central, Eastern and Western will enter the ATC Championships at Columbus, Miss., Aug. 13 through 15.

A MEMORABLE FIGURE — Dizzy Dean, who died a year ago, is shown, left, in the mid-1930s when he was baseball's greatest pitcher and its most productive gate attraction. At right, he's shown in 1971 when, although he had slipped from the national spotlight, his impact endured most markedly in the style and legacy of laughter he left behind.

'LONG FOUR YEARS' Perry Outduels 'Catfish', 1-0

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — After Gaylord Perry had shut out the new York Yankees on four hits in the Texas Rangers' 1-0 victory, the veteran righthander summed up his season with a bit of humor in the Ranger dressing quarters.

"It was," said the drawing North Carolinian, "a long four years in the first half of the season."

The Friday victory was only the eighth against 14 losses for Perry this season and just his second since coming to the Rangers from the Cleveland Indians last month.

"The All-Star break was the best thing that could have happened for me," he said. "After I pitched Friday in Boston (manager) Billy (Martin) told me to just go ahead and go home and get my family moved to Texas then relax and forget about baseball."

"It was good to get away for a while. That's the first time I've had four straight days off like that in a long time and I definitely think it helped. I felt like I had better stuff tonight than any other time this season."

Perry and Yankee ace Catfish Hunter were locked in a scoreless pitching duel through the first six and a half innings before rookie second baseman Mike Cuddage singled home the only run of the game in the Ranger seventh.

With one out, Lenny Randle walked and after Jim Spencer lined to right for the second out, Toby Harrah poked a single through the right side to send him to third. Harrah's hit was only the fourth off Hunter and Cuddage quickly followed with the fifth, a single to right that scored Randle.

Perry was in trouble only in the ninth when Rich Coggins singled and Roy White doubled with two out to leave men at second and

Dizzy More Than Hillbilly, More Than Ball Player

EDITORS NOTE: A year ago this week, Dizzy Dean, one of baseball's most colorful characters, died. In the following article, a former reporter remembers some of the incidents which endeared Dean to millions.

By CURT SMITH
AP Writer

He was more than just a hillbilly, more than a baseball player. To millions, he was an authentic folk-hero, oft-remembered and revered, especially among the country folk who spoke his rural twang, mirrored his homespun humor, sensed the small-town values which stirred him.

Few who heard him, or remember his weekly baseball telecasts, will ever forget Ol' Diz, all 300 pounds of him, ambling up the rope ladder to the broadcast booth, stuffing popcorn in one hand and guzzling pop from the other, belting out his rousing trademark ballad, "The Wabash Cannonball."

Dizzy Dean died a year ago this month. Though he had in recent years slipped from the national spotlight, his impact endured, most markedly in the style and legacy of laughter he left behind. His death on July 15 was nationally mourned, a final tribute to the unhip, uncultured Ozark boy.

Immortalized, the subject of prose and verse, Diz became a legend, despite an education which ended in the second grade. "And I wasn't so good in first grade neither," he once said.

Dean was a product of his region and times; indeed, he came in time to symbolize them. The son of a migratory cotton picker, he became a hero to the Depression downtrodden, escaping what they had not, living what they could only dream.

For a memorable period in the mid-1930s he was baseball's greatest pitcher, its most productive gate attraction. The records of that era do not do his life justice. To the end, when he was buried in the small town of Bond, Miss., Dean retained the common touch.

"His philosophy was doing a fellow right," said his brother, Paul, who combined with Diz to form the sport's most famed pitching duos. "He never saw a man he didn't like or respect, and I never saw anyone who didn't respect or like Dizzy."

Charitable and flamboyant, unschooled but wise to the ways of the world, for 40 years Ol' Diz was a figure around whom fame fit comfortably.

Few could remain impartial about him. To some he was the supreme braggart and popoff, the unwitting clown. To many more he was a first-rate showman, a figure of Bunyanesque proportions.

By themselves, Dean's pitching feats did not make him the idol of millions. What made him so beloved, and so ridiculed by those who disliked him, was his plain and unpolished manner.

Diz pitched for the St. Louis Cardinals during the 1930s, helped make their rollicking Gas House Gang a household word and then became a broadcaster. Stories about him abounded, some more fiction than fact.

One widely circulated yarn about Dean involved Dwight Eisenhower, who asked him one day why Dean had let himself balloon to 300 pounds. "I'll tell you, Mr. President," he is alleged to have said, "For the first 20 years of my life, I never had enough to eat, and I ain't caught up yet."

The unadorned manner of the man was even more revealing, especially when he worked as a broadcaster.

He mangled the language so badly that school teachers protested. A new lexicon of baseball terms evolved. To Dean, a runner didn't slide, he "slud." A fielder didn't throw the ball, he "threwed." He would announce, "The runners are now returning to their respectable bases."

He was an enduring relic. For those who feared that nothing would remain as it had, Dizzy Dean was proof to the contrary.

To be sure, he could be insufferably vain ("I may not have been the greatest pitcher ever, but I was amongst 'em," he would say). Part egotist, part gambler, Dean was a man.

The 38mpg rabbit.

Good news at last! Volkswagen happily introduces the Rabbit. The incredible new car that gets 38 highway miles per gallon and 24 in the city (according to the 75 model Federal EPA tests).

Good news travels fast, too. The Rabbit'll do 93 miles per hour (we strongly suggest you obey all speed limits) and has the power to scoot from 0 to 50 in just 8.2 seconds.

And, since the engine's mounted sideways, the sub-compact Rabbit has all the head and leg room of some mid-sized cars. It also has a hatchback, front-wheel drive, and VW's unique rear stabilizer axle.

All backed by the Volkswagen Owner's Security Blanket with Computer Analysis.†† See the new Volkswagen Rabbit. And drive happily ever after.

Thackery is trying to hitch a ride, but Mrs. Thackery assures him that there is not room for one more in the miniature car.

Their grandchildren are high school and college students in San Diego, Calif. and Ann Arbor, Mich. so they are not sure at this point just who will get to sport around in the mini-car.

"I guess if we have a tiff, Lee can drive around the backyard in it instead of going to the dog house," Mrs. Thackery laughed.

The Lee Thackerys, after knowing a salesman who consistently bought American Motors cars every year, began to purchase their cars from American Motors and now own five. Thackery said, "We think they're fine."

There were 27 of the mini-vehicles given away in the nation during the contest. Thackery sent in a card to Detroit that he picked up at Jimmy Hopper's three months back.

Judge To Decide Rate Case Monday

AUSTIN (AP) — Argonaut Insurance Co. will learn Monday whether it can raise medical malpractice premiums without giving the 90 days' notice required under a new law.

Retired Criminal Appeals Judge Wesley Dice said Friday he would rule at 1:30 p.m. Monday on Argonaut's suit to nullify the new law.

Dice announced at the conclusion of a two-day hearing on Argonaut's motion for a temporary injunction that he would take the case under advisement, study the briefs over the weekend and rule Monday. Argonaut contends the law, effective June 3, is unconstitutional because Argonaut had the right before June 3 to raise its rates immediately, so the law is illegally retroactive to 90 days before that date.

Mary Joe Carroll, Argonaut's lawyer, said the company had no effective rate at all on June 3 because it had suspended writing malpractice insurance pending a study. The firm lost $83 million on malpractice cases across the country last year, she said.

Executive Asst. Atty. Gen. John Odum told the judge, "The law in this case is simple. It became effective on June 3. It says, 'Hereafter, if you want to raise your rates, you're free to do so, but you've got to give your policyholders 90 days' notice.'"

Odum said the company had failed to exhaust its administrative remedies before the State Board of Insurance before going to court. It is the normal procedure in law, he said, that those remedies must first be exhausted before one has the right to maintain an action in court.

Also, he said, the purpose of granting a temporary injunction is to maintain the status quo until a full hearing on the merits may be had at a hearing on a permanent injunction. But a temporary injunction in this case would not maintain the status quo—it would allow insurance companies to increase their rates many times over with no notice to policyholders, who may want to shop elsewhere during the 90 days, he said.

Mrs. Carroll argued that the status quo was the situation that existed before the law attempted to take away the company's right to raise its rates immediately.

The judge asked Odum, "Are you saying any policies issued would be new contracts issued under the new law? Now where did the rate come from applicable to that new law?"

Odum said the rate in effect before the new law was the new rate.

"They've been totally incapable of showing irreparable harm," Odum said. The judge must consider "the harm that would be done to the policyholders, the hospitals and finally to the patients of this state" if the temporary injunction is granted, Odum said.

Contest Is Set Aug. 2

The Howard County Farm Bureau queen contest will be held in the Howard College auditorium, starting at 8 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 2.

Seven girls are now in contention for the title won last year by Cherri Ingram. Other candidates will be considered.

To be eligible, a candidate must be between 16 and 22 years of age and her parents must be members of the Farm Bureau. Entries will be judged on talent as well as looks.

Ed Cumble of Bronte will serve as master of ceremonies of the program. Those interested can call U. Howard County Farm Bureau office for information.

'Dignity Of Death' Is Denied Some Patients

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—A nationwide survey shows that many nursing home patients are ignored by doctors, overmedicated and refuse to eat regular meals. Still, a federal official says the results are better than expected.

Dr. Theodore Cooper, assistant secretary for health of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, said, "It's really not as bad as I'd expected when we went in to find out how bad it was."

Cooper was describing to newsmen at an HEW-sponsored seminar Friday the results of the HEW survey, which he said is now ready for printing. Some of Cooper's remarks were in a prepared text to which he referred but did not read.

He said the survey, based on unannounced visits by doctors to 300 nursing homes serving 283,000 patients, showed:

—Physicians tend to concentrate on the preservation of life rather than the "dignity of death" and they "just dumped their patients into nursing homes and forgot them."

—In some instances, over-medication resulted when physicians failed to discontinue orders no longer needed. "In another case, there was not clinical evidence...to indicate the need for prescribing some potentially dangerous drugs."

—Patients' records were incomplete, mixed up or not signed. "In many cases, attending physicians underreported many impairments such as loss of sight, hearing, and amputations as well as senility or chronic brain syndrome."

—Eighty-nine per cent of the patients had their menus planned for them in writing, but 51,666 refused more than half the meals served them. "Only 27 per cent were offered appropriate substitutes," he said, adding that one out of five nursing homes had more than a 14-hour span between breakfast and dinner.

"I am thoroughly convinced that the quality of care in nursing homes throughout the country would be much higher if physicians had taken a personal interest in the management and care of their patients in these facilities," Cooper said.

"The survey has made it abundantly clear that there is much work ahead for us all," he said. "The greatest problem in our federal regulations is that they fail to achieve what they were designed to accomplish."

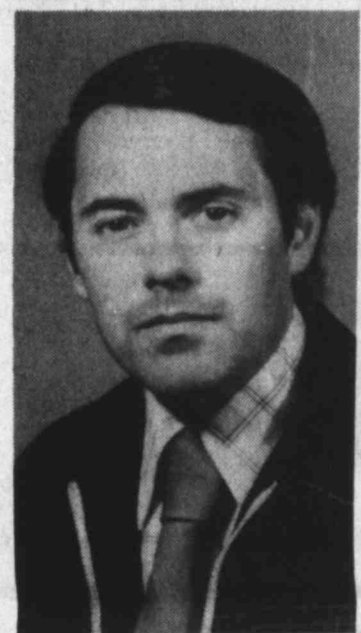

He said the department would emphasize programs that increase the quality of nursing home care and that encourage home care for more elderly people.

Surrender Film, Man Is Told

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—India's supreme court has ordered a filmmaker to surrender all prints and negatives of his unreleased movie satirizing Indian politics as corrupt.

The producer, a member of Parliament from Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's Congress party, said his film "Story of a Chair" is "against all bad politicians of various hues and shades."

He has appealed to the supreme court to reverse a censors' decision barring exhibition of the film on grounds it promotes disaffection and lawlessness among the people. The court has yet to decide the merits of the case.

But its order to producer Amrit Nahata to turn over the original pending the appeal was seen as another reflection of a new atmosphere since Mrs. Gandhi imposed press censorship and jailed her political opponents in a June 26 crackdown.

New HSU Veep Is Appointed

ABILENE — Dr. Ross Johnson, formerly associated with Hill Junior College, has been named a vice-president at Hardin Simmons University here. He will be in charge of student affairs.

Johnson succeeds Dr. Alvin (Bud) Austin, who is joining the staff at the University of California-Northridge. Johnson is a native of Hobbs, N.M. He graduated from Seminole, Tex., High School in 1956.

The Information Ministry banned another film popularly interpreted as an unflattering biography of Mrs. Gandhi last week, after it had played to full houses for six months.

When he finished the film in March and presented it for approval, he said, the censor board handed him a list of 51 objections, most of them based on the contention that criticizing politicians incites people to lawlessness.

Bicentennial Town Crier

The patriotic service at First Methodist Church sounded spectacular. Marilyn Newsom's great voice was featured, and the audience was given the chance to reaffirm loyalty with the Pledge of Allegiance. Church-wide support for Bicentennial has been inspiring indeed.

Gerri Atwell, curator of Heritage Museum, reports the commemorative coins will be shipped late this month. The Captain Marcy bicentennial logo will decorate one side, and the Liberty Bell will be on the reverse side. It is hoped by prexy George Zachariah that demand for these coins will bring in visitors to the museum who haven't found time to come before. There's always something interesting to view at the corner of 6th and Scurry, and the current Texas Ranger exhibit is no exception.

The Big Spring-Howard County Bicentennial logo is to be found on more than coins, however. Florence Compton borrowed the original art work last week so that it could be included on the cover of the 1975-76 Music Study Club yearbook. Florence's cover for last year was such a success that club members demanded an encore. Arnold Marshall also asked permission to incorporate the logo in the Howard County Fair program cover. September will be here before we know it!

Delbert Downing, Scurry County bicentennial chairman, dropped by to compare notes and share ideas. He feels Scurry residents are getting a late start, but if enthusiasm can be generated, Delbert's extraordinary speaking talent can do it. He had over 100 key people at his organizational meeting. Good luck, neighbors!

Maxine Shaffer must think Towne Crier is flag-happy! But the orders keep coming and since Maxine holds the city hall purse-strings (very graciously) for Big Spring-Howard County Bicentennial Commission, we consult with her often. Ray Alexander keeps coming up with more flag-buyers, which pleases the commission. What better way to show we are a designated bicentennial city? Call if you are interested.

Polly Mays and the Friends of Howard County Library are setting a fine example with their Horizons '76 effort. Watch for the new outdoor billboard that will let you in on the latest news at the library. Neat!

Tidbits — Gene Reynolds, high school instructor, has promised to round up some history on Scout Troop No. 1, which is reported to be the first Boy Scout troop west of the Mississippi. Quite a distinction... Dr. Emmett

McKenzie gave us a hint recently about a bicentennial project he hopes to see materialize for our schools. Noting his success in getting our fireplugs uniquely decorated, we have no qualms. This would be designated for fifth through eighth graders, an important segment of our school population... Sounds like a broken record, but don't forget to list your club or organization bicentennial project on the master calendar at Big Spring Chamber of Commerce. Help us avoid conflicts as much as possible! (Good work so far, Carol H.)

VA Will Help Track Records

Eligible persons should not let a lost birth certificate or marriage license discourage them from applying for veterans benefits, Jack Coker, Veterans Administration regional office director, advised today.

Coker pointed out that for some time now, less formal proof of marriage or birth has been acceptable when this information is required to establish claims for higher benefits.

OFF TO THE RACES
... Clyde McKimney and son, Todd, turn homing pigeons out

'I Shall Return' — To Big Spring

By MARJ CARPENTER

Homing pigeons always come home, and those owned by Clyde McKimney come home to Big Spring.

Clyde, who came to Cosden last year after graduating from Angelo State, raises homing pigeons and racing pigeons for fun. "It's not a money making project in this part of the world. There are only eight members of the Midland Racing Pigeon Club," McKimney stated recently.

"None of us knows why homing pigeons come home, but they do. There are clubs and organizations who breed these particular pigeons and keep records. The difference between a homing pigeon and a plain old pigeon that sits around the city auditorium is about the same as the difference between a thoroughbred race horse and a donkey," McKimney added.

He and his wife, Jeannine and his son, Todd, compete their pigeons in races involving birds from Amarillo, Lubbock, Snyder, Sweetwater, Midland and Odessa.

McKimney is no casual hobbyist and has researched his field. In Belgium, he notes, racing pigeons is a national sport; in that country there are an estimated 350,000 fanciers. In the United States there are 250,000, but of these only about 22,000 are racing pigeons.

The homing instinct must be exercised and encouraged. "When a group of pigeons are let out at the same time and timed on yards per minute some of them will really take off first. They are timed with intricate equipment and marked in at home with a racing clock."

They average about 40 or 50 miles per hour and sometimes will fly 500 miles without touching down. One time, McKimney let his birds out at Eldorado and immediately retraced 108 miles in an attempt to beat his birds home. When he reached the lofts behind his home in Big Spring there were the two pigeons waiting to be trapped. They won.

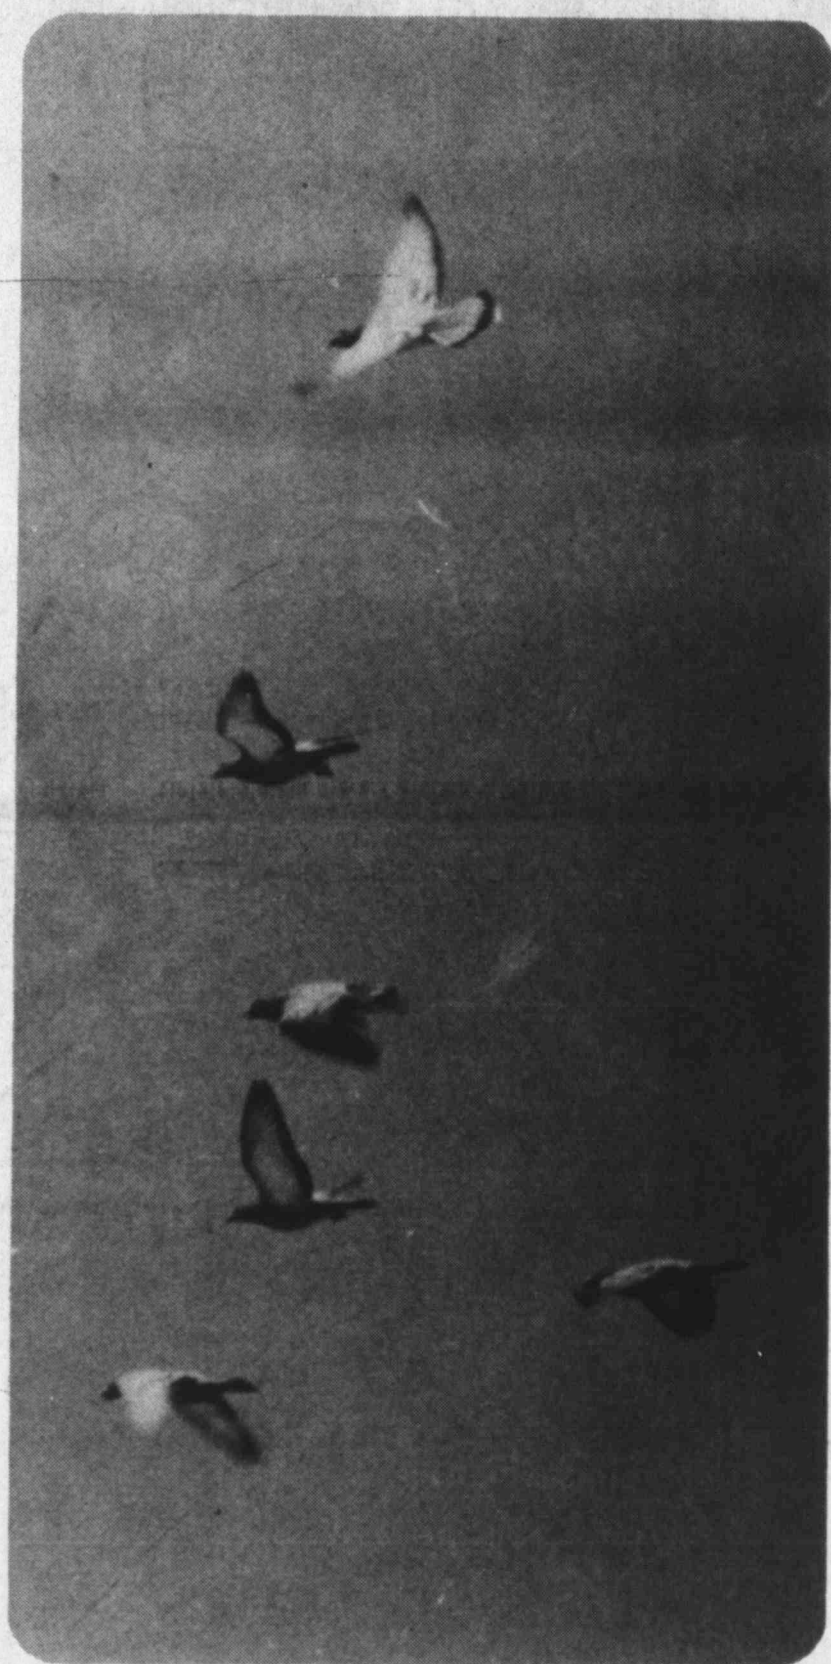

His wife is a special education teacher in the local schools, but helps him with the hobby.

The earliest record of a pigeon dates back to Egypt in 3000 B.C. There are several hundred species of the pigeon, which is of the dove family.

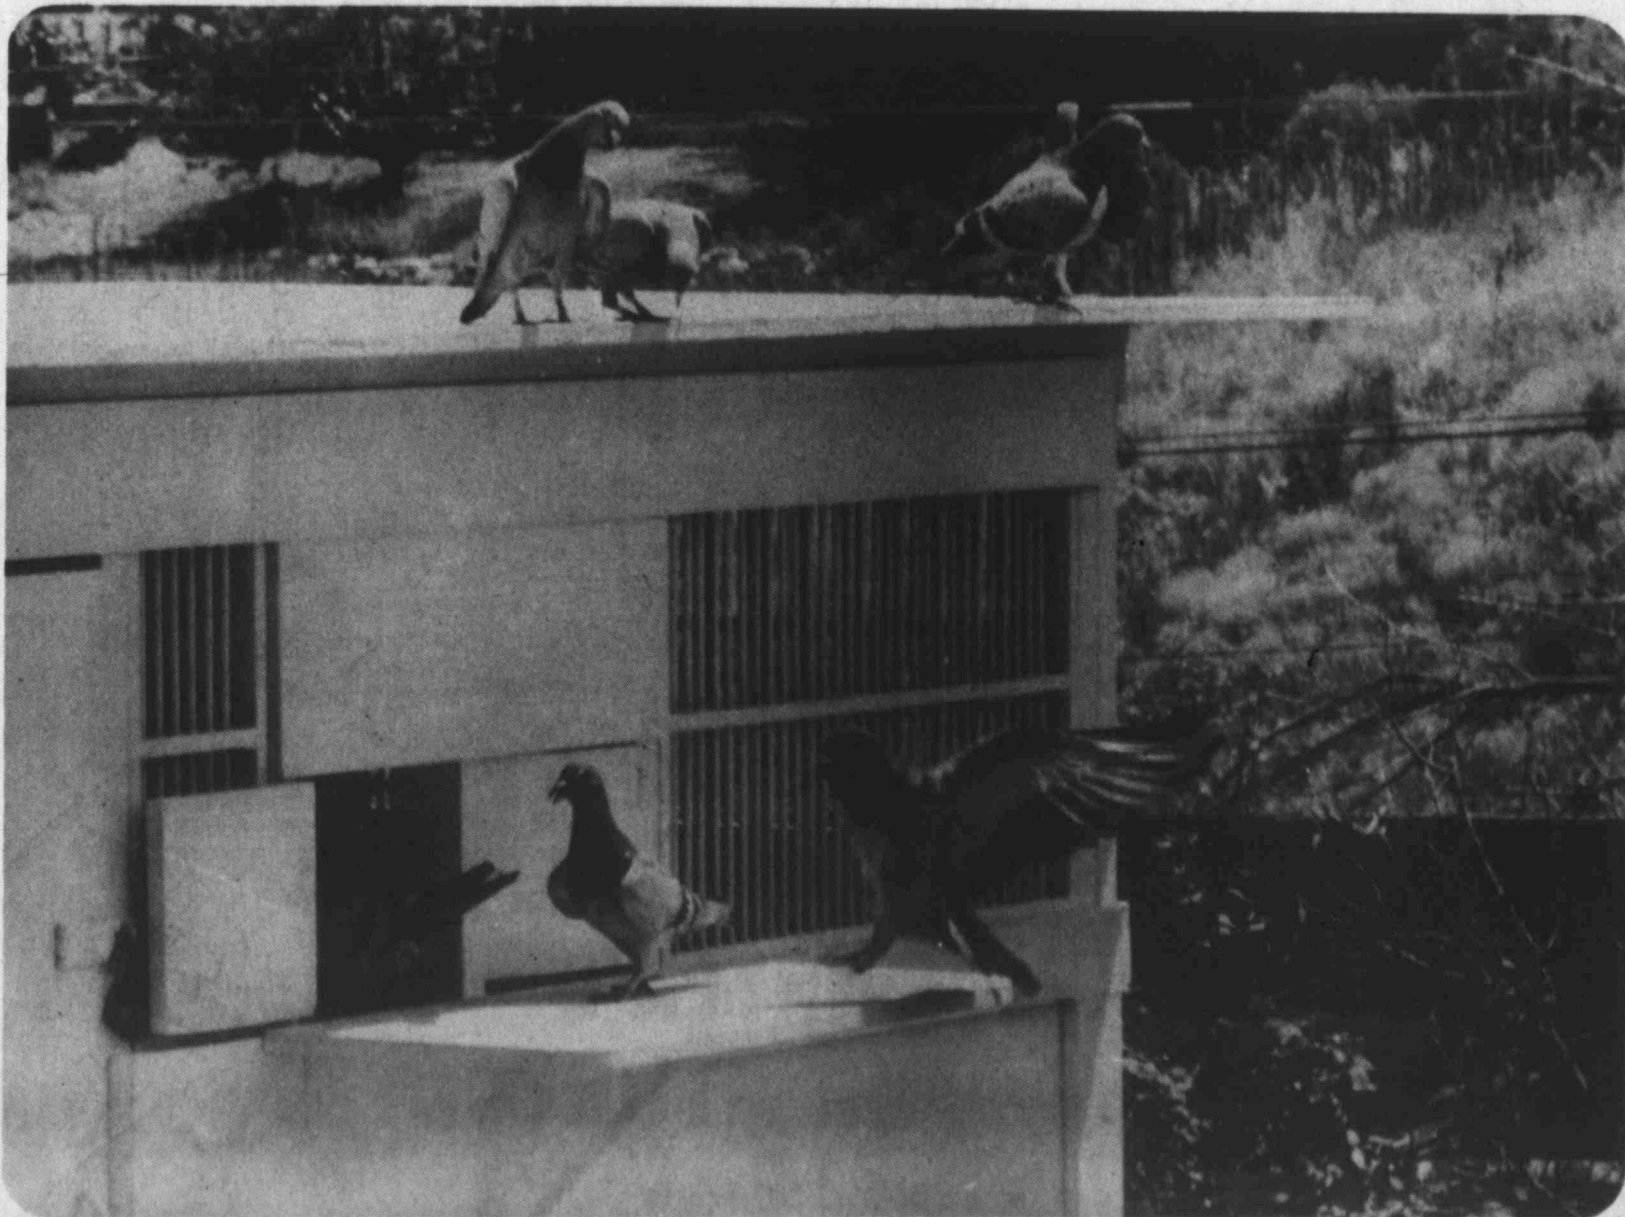

The homing pigeon can be trained to carry messages and has so performed for armies and navies of ancient and modern history. During WW II, for instance, the U.S. reportedly used thousands of them so effectively that the Germans trained a force of falcons to attack them. It is estimated that approximately 95 per cent of the messages got through in all sorts of conditions. McKimney says you rarely lose a homing pigeon. "They usually return."

The life span is 18 years and the record for a homer is 32 years. A homing pigeon can race ten years with the prime period from ages 2 to 6 years.

"Somebody paid $10,000 for a special pigeon sold last week at a sale in Wichita Falls," McKimney stated. "Mine aren't that high class. They're $100 birds. But it is an interesting hobby. I ordered my first two birds out of a newspaper ad when I was a teenager at Rotan. And I've enjoyed working with them ever since."

MRS. GRADY EUGENE RAY

Vows Exchanged In El Paso Ceremony

Miss Glenna Jo Gruetzmacher became the bride of Grady Eugene Ray in a candlelight ceremony held Saturday evening in the Ford Chapel of First Baptist Church, El Paso, with the Rev. Dick Maples, pastor, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Glenn C. Gruetzmacher, Acton, Mass., and Mrs. Jo Nell Gruetzmacher, El Paso, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Ray, 1612 Indian Hills.

The altar setting was enhanced with spiral can delabra entwined with greenery flanked by arrangements of white roses, gladioli, and daisies. Nuptial selections were performed by Miss Maralee Gilderloos, organist, and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Jones of Big Spring, vocalists.

Carrying a bouquet of white roses, gladioli and daisies accented with greenery tied with white satin streamers, the bride was attired in a formal gown of white Quiana jersey. The bodice featured a rounded neckline and capped sleeves embellished with lace. The A-line skirt extended to a full-length train, and trimmed a sheer floor-length lace-edged veil of illusion, which fell from a lace covered headpiece.

Miss Carol Gruetzmacher was her sister's maid of honor, and Mrs. Paul Surface of Ithaca, N.Y., was the matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Trisha Hammond, Fort Worth; Mrs. Jim Thompson, Lubbock; and Miss Courtney Peck. They were attired in floor-length yellow crepe dresses designed with yellow Chantilly lace sleeves. They carried bouquets of daisies, gypsophila and greenery tied with yellow and white satin streamers.

Serving as best men were John Weeks, Big Spring, and Rick Parr, and groomsmen were Steve DeGroat, Don Smelser and Wayne Foglesong, the latter of N. Hollywood, Calif. Ushers were Louie Llamas, Joe Stair, Jeff Gabbert and Joe Wardy.

Toya Turner of Fort Worth and Natalie Nichols of St. Augustine were the flower girls and Weston Nichols, also of St. Augustine, was the ring bearer. Altar taper lighters were Edward Nichols, St. Augustine, and Tony Turner, Fort Worth.

The bride is a Senior Design Major at the University of Texas at El Paso and is employed by Dillard's as a display designer. Ray is a Big Spring High School graduate and May graduate of UTEP, where he was affiliated with Kappa Sigma Fraternity. He is associated with Southwest National Bank in El Paso. The couple will reside at 140 Shadow Mountain, E. 27, El Paso.

Prior to leaving on a trip to Los Angeles, Calif. and Las Vegas, Nev., the couple was honored with a reception at the church, where refreshments were served by Mrs. Tony Dean, Big Spring; Miss Vickie Daniels, Miss Linda Wiley, Miss Terrie Bartlett and Mrs. Jim Schuchard, all of Lubbock. Crystal and silver appointments were used on the table, which was covered with a yellow cloth overlaid in white lace. An arrangement of yellow and white daisies in greenery centered the table.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Dick Turner, grandparents of the bride, and Mrs. O. B. Long, all of Garrison; C. H. Gruetzmacher of Sinton, grandfather of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Turner, Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. Neal Nichols, St. Augustine; Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Milam, grandparents of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Gilmore, also grandparents of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Dunagan, and Mr. and Mrs. Tony Dean, all of Big Spring.

Friday evening, the bridegroom's parents hosted a dinner at the Downtown Holiday Inn for members of the wedding party and out-of-town guests.

ENGAGED — Mr. and Mrs. Ike Rupard, Rt. 1, Box 174, announce the engagement of their daughter, Christy, to Glen Ferguson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Ferguson, 1510 Vines. The couple will be married July 24 in the Ferguson home.

Bridal Shower Fetes Johnston

Miss Zina Johnston, who will be married to David Wood, was honored with a bridal shower Thursday in the home of Mrs. Johnnie Hooper, 2105 Runnels.

Cohostesses were Mrs. Robin Smith, Mrs. Joann McDaniel, Mrs. Angie Merrell, Mrs. Jane Knox and Mrs. Mary Ben Wright.

'Starlight Specials' In Amphitheatre

MR. AND MRS. CLIFFORD SMITH

Those summer variety specials, pitched for informality and enjoyment, are coming up in about another week when the "Starlight Specials" are held in the Comanche Train Park amphitheatre.

As usual, the event opens with an old-fashioned Gospel singing at 8:30 p.m. with all churches in the area invited to take part. Frank Wentz is director of this activity. "Fiesta Night" comes Aug. 5 with Lydia Molina as director. An added feature is the sale of hot burritos starting at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 7 has been set as Western band night with Joe Dunn as chairman. Mrs. Jerry Grimes is over-all chairman and can book anyone who would like to participate on any of the events. Information also may be had at the Chamber of Commerce office.

A week from Monday 10 Boy Scouts from Abilene, carrying U.S. and Texas flags which has flown over the national and state capitols, will start from the ruins of the Butterfield Stage line's Pinery Station near top of Guadalupe Pass and ascend 3,500 ft. vertical feet to the top of Guadalupe Peak. There they will plant the flags, along with the Bicentennial flag, to commemorate the Bicentennial at Texas highest point — 8,751 feet.

The Texas Commission on the Arts and Humanities will receive $410,454 from the state to support its 1975-76 programs of resources development, education and touring projects. The original bill had $581,000, from which the governor line vetoed $170,546, which largely was for salaries and administrative support for programs in schools. A committee had pushed for $2,844,000 to overcome 53rd rank out of 55 states and territories in support of the arts.

The Texas Historical Commission will train four young college graduates for positions as directors of small museums. This will be a one-year program combining extensive practical experience with the orotical learning in all phases of museum operation. The program comes from a national grant. Information may be had from Cindy Sherrell, director of museum services, Box 12276, Austin 78711.

A reminder that Preston's Jones' "Oldest Living Graduate" will be presented July 20-21 by the Dallas Theatre center in the Texas Tech University center at 8 p.m. This colorful drama has a West Texas setting.

Attending the bride was her sister, Mrs. Andrew Swartz, matron of honor, and bridesmaids, Mrs. Raymond Hattenbach, sister-in-law of the bride, Ms. Candy Cannon of Lubbock, and Mrs. Jack Cathey Jr. They were identically attired in floor-length halter dresses of yellow rose print organza designed with a flared sleeve jacket. They wore garden hats accented with a small cluster of yellow sweetheart roses, gypsophila and ivy. Their bouquets were of greenery in crescent shape trimmed with maize ribbon.

Serving as ushers were Jack Cathey Jr., Ronnie Malone, Ernie Daugherty, Andrew Swartz, Raymond Hattenbach and Lonnie Hattenbach of Las Cruces, N.M. Acolytes were James Hattenbach and Kevin Hattenbach, brothers of the bride.

Immediately following the ceremony, the couple was honored with a reception in the Parish Hall. The refreshment table was covered with a white satin cloth overlaid with white lace. Crystal appointments were used.

Dear Abby

Wearing Jewelry On Job May Risk Health

DEAR ABBY: I am the plant manager of a large industrial company employing over 3,000 men, and their safety is my concern.

Enclosed is a letter that, I am told, appeared in your column about 10 years ago.

How much would you charge us to reprint this letter in our company paper? It could prevent accidents and perhaps save lives. Respectfully,

CHICAGOAN

The column: "DEAR ABBY: I am one of those foolish wives who insist that my husband wear his wedding ring at all times. My husband is a maintenance mechanic, and this is what happened. Yesterday, I received a call informing me that my husband was at the hospital! While jumping off a construction truck, he caught his ring on a piece of metal, and his finger was practically torn off. I was told he was lucky he wasn't killed since he lost his balance and fell under the wheels of the truck.

"Abby, please print this in your column as a warning to other women who want their husbands to wear their wedding rings to work.

AL'S WIFE: "DEAR WIFE: Thank you for your letter. And while we're on the subject, read this one:

"DEAR ABBY: When my husband and I were married we had a double-ring ceremony, and he promised he would never take his wedding ring off. And he never did. After a few years he gained a little weight and couldn't get it off. My husband was an electrician.

"Well, to make a long and very tragic story short, his wedding ring wore a tiny hole through his insulated glove and a fatal contact was made. He died instantly. When his lifeless body was examined, the only sign of injury was a small burn where his wedding ring encircled his finger.

ELECTRICIAN'S WIDOW: Be my guest. No charge. (P.S. And the same goes for any other company that would find it useful.)

Grapes May Provide Income When Oil, Gas In WT Vanish

VAN HORN, Tex. (AP) — When oil and gas run out in West Texas, the University of Texas system might use some of its vast land holdings to raise grapes for wine.

Agricultural officials believe vineyards could improve the value of much of the arid two million acres in West Texas.

"In the past, we have been able to lease the land mainly to ranchers for grazing cattle, sheep and goats. But we hope that by finding new agricultural uses for the land, we can increase its value," says Billy Carr, land agent for university lands and coordinator of the grape growing project.

The West Texas land, held in trust by the university system, is an endowment from the state. Texas A&M University receives a third of the proceeds from the Available Fund. The fund represents income from the land.

When gas and oil, discovered in 1923 on the lands, is gone, grapes may provide supplemental income from the property, Carr said.

Potential vineyard sites have been determined by temperature ranges first, said Dr. William Hazard of the Space Data Laboratory at Balcones Research Center, which is in charge of finding suitable sites.

Polar-orbiting satellites have taken infrared photographs of West Texas, and Army helicopters filmed specific valleys and canyons of the university's lands.

Remote, electronic sensors on the land verified temperatures, Hazard said. This information was filed in a computer with soil temperature, hail intensity, wind intensity and other data.

The total estimated yield for different grapes varieties and hybrids, and a cost-benefit analysis of the likely profit or loss from vineyards was conducted.

Dr. Michael Kilby, extension horticulturist of Texas A&M, directs planning, cultivating and management of the 12-acre demonstration vineyard started after the information was collected.

Each type of grape grown on the two plots, one on a hillside and one on flat land, will be evaluated during the next three years. Hazard said the temperatures are similar to that of a valley near Fresno, Calif., which he described as a prolific grape growing region.

"We need to closely evaluate and monitor each type of grape even though we know that they will grow here," Kilby said.

"Each type of grape we planted is known to be a good wine variety, but the character of the grape is determined by the local conditions and we need to know precisely which types will produce the best wine."

Several irrigation systems will be tested, and information on pruning, trellising, and fertilizing for each variety will be collected, Kilby said.

Texas wineries may buy the grapes, to be ready in three years, Hazard said.

University of Texas Lands, UT Austin's Balcones Research Center, Texas A&M's Agricultural Extension Service and Evergreen Farms, a large producer of irrigated crops that leases university land near Van Horn, are cooperating in the project.

EMBEZZLED $500,000 Dallas Bank Officer Sentenced To Prison

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas bank officer who allegedly embezzled more than $500,000 was sentenced in federal court Friday to a five-year prison term to be followed by three-years probation.

Donald P. Flynn, 50, a former senior vice president at Republic National Bank here and formerly of Tulsa, Okla., pleaded guilty to one count of falsification of bank records and another count of misapplication of bank funds.

Flynn said most of the money went to help other persons whose loans would have gone into default.

U.S. District Court Judge Sarah T. Hughes told Flynn at the sentencing, "I don't think anybody has come before me who has caused more loss of money."

Judge Hughes said that according to Internal Revenue Service reports, Flynn had personally received more than $200,000 of the money.

The two-count indictment claimed Flynn created a fictitious bank account and converted $7,000 of Republic's money to his own use.

But bank officials estimate the bank's losses between $600,000 and $700,000 over a 13-year period.

Flynn moved from Tulsa to Dallas in 1958 to join Republic as a vice president.

Punjab Settling In Fresno County

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Fresno County, spiced by the languages, customs and cultures of many nations, is getting an added dash of curry-flavored piquancy from a minor wave of immigration from the Punjab region of India.

An estimated 300 Punjabs, most of them immigrants within the past three or four years, live in the Cantua Creek and San Joaquin communities. They have been arriving at the rate of about 60 a year.

They follow the Sikh religion and most were mainly land owners in India, and very well-educated.

CHILDREN'S CORNER

Books Can Make Nightmares Nice

By SUSAN CONLEY

Children's Librarian
Going to bed at night in a dark room can be a scary time. Every child has imagined a bogey man in the closet or a monster under the bed.

For some children, the scariest monster may be the "thing" that lives under the bed.

Of course, leaving your bed means that the "thing" could grab a leg and pull you under. The only way to escape its grasp is to take a big leap out of bed and a flying leap back into bed.

CLOSET CREATURE
Some children hear ghosts at night. Sounds seem to be magnified when a child lies awake listening. That plus a child's imagination can create some wild monsters. The best way to calm these fears is for a parent to take the child on a flashlight tour of the house, from attic to basement.

Other children will say that their monster lurks in the hallway or in the closet. The moment the light goes out and Mom and Dad leave the room, it appears. Slowly, it creeps up to the bed.

In order to calm a child's fears, it is necessary to change the horrible monster into a friendly monster. Books at the Howard County Library can help.

"Ghost in a Four Room Apartment" by Ellen Raskin is exciting. This ghost plays the piano, moves furniture and throw things through the air.

WILD THINGS
"There's a Nightmare in My Closet" by Mercer Mayer has a happy ending. A little boy is afraid of the nightmare that stalks him from the closet. The nightmare is just as afraid of the little boy. So the boy invites the nightmare to sleep with him and they both have pleasant dreams.

"Where the Wild Things Are" by M. Sendak contains many scary monsters. Their long claws and sharp teeth look very dangerous. But Max is not afraid and makes them behave.

The books present children's fantasies in a humorous fashion. The monsters all have a friendly smile underneath their harsh exteriors. Any boy or girl should be braver after reading them.

How to select the right nursing home.

We Americans are not just living longer, we're living more useful, productive lives. But an increasing number of the chronically ill, the old, the convalescent, need some place other than the hospital and their home where they can receive personal health care, round-the-clock attention and the opportunity to continue to live their lives with meaning. As your community extended health care facility we want to help you make the right decision. Here are some guidelines: see your family physician to determine the kind of care needed; feel free to visit our facility; ask us for our costs in writing and financial advice about Medicaid; examine all of our facilities; check our food quality; verify our safety features; and finally, observe how our residents spend their time. There's a lot more to selecting the right nursing home. We want to help. If you have any questions, please call or visit us.

Roads Built In Jamaica

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — There are more than 5,000 miles of "drivable" roads in Jamaica, an island about the size of Connecticut. This amount of mileage is explained by the fact that Jamaica is very mountainous and the roads wind around peaks, hills and valleys.

legal options in the latest court battle over food stamps, but it's uncertain whether the department will carry on the fight after a string of defeats in related cases.

If it appeals and loses — or if it drops the legal fight — the department—USDA—is faced with a complicated and very expensive task in following court orders to make food stamps a nutritionally sound program. Over the past several years the department has been continually embroiled in court cases over food stamps. The department has lost most of them.

Last month the sharpest and most far-reaching legal attack yet was endorsed by the U.S. Circuit Court in Washington, which ordered the department to upgrade its food stamp allotment system.

The court agreed with the Food Research and Action Center—FRAC, a consumer advocacy group, that USDA has been in violation of the law in not assuring recipients are able to obtain a nutritious diet.

In a decision very critical of some USDA procedures, a three-judge panel gave the department until Oct. 10 to implement new rules. Some 19.6 million persons currently receive stamps, coupons purchased for a sliding discount based on income. The court said most recipients do not receive enough aid to buy what they need to eat.

"Congressional intent is frustrated if the program is administered so that a substantial number of eligible households do not receive sufficient coupons," wrote Judge J. Skelly Wright in the decision.

John A. Harris, a USDA attorney, says the department may seek a rehearing of the case before the full U.S. Circuit Court, or may appeal to the Supreme Court.

Immediate compliance seems unlikely unless the Department of Justice rejects attempts to push an appeal.

Court rebuffs like the June 12 order are not new to USDA.

Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz was the target of four suits before he released funds to implement the Women, Children and Infant—WIC—free food program in 1973.

For years, FRAC has been in courts all over the country suing local school boards in an effort to make USDA-subsidized school meal programs available.

But most court action has centered around the food stamp program. Food stamp ranks swelled to nearly 20 million this spring as the nation's recession victims looked to the government for aid. The program was serving about 13 million in the years prior to the recession. Government experts estimate that as many as 40 million persons are eligible for the stamps.

Kon Pollock, director of the Food Research and Action Center, spends much of his time suing USDA to force extension of federal food assistance.

"The department does not have a very enlightened secretary," says Pollock. "He is not known for helping poor people."

Butz counters that social welfare programs are not his job. He wants to rid USDA of all food programs that are not part of the over-all department plan to keep farm prices high while increasing exports and expanding crop research.

That, says Butz, is his job. A nutritionist at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare — HEW, who asked to remain anonymous, says of USDA officials: "They worry about moving food, not about healthy people."

The food stamp program was created in 1961 to rid farmers of crop surpluses

"in a beneficial manner ... and to raise the level of nutrition among low-income households," said Judge Wright.

"The situation has completely changed now," said Butz in a recent interview. "The department doesn't have any surpluses except some milk. Food stamps have really become a welfare program."

He proposed food stamps be placed in HEW along with most other federal assistance programs.

The Ford administration recently shelved USDA proposals for sweeping reforms which might have increased food stamp assistance to the poor.

"They're taking a closer, longer look in the White House at all benefit programs," said a source at USDA. "They didn't want us to paint them into a corner."

Food stamps cost the government $5 billion in the fiscal year ended June 31, and Butz has been complaining that food assistance eats up too much of the USDA budget.

The department recently has taken the offensive on the food stamp controversy, issuing reports that thousands of students, persons living in communes and some middle-class families have lied their way onto food stamp rolls.

Many errors have been administrative, department figures show. One study showed 15.7 per cent of all recipient dollars went to "households ineligible for the program. However, almost half of these were to households which would have been eligible had the registration requirement been met."

"We're attempting to cut out the chiselers," Butz said.

Two attempts to deal with students and commune dwellers were ruled unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

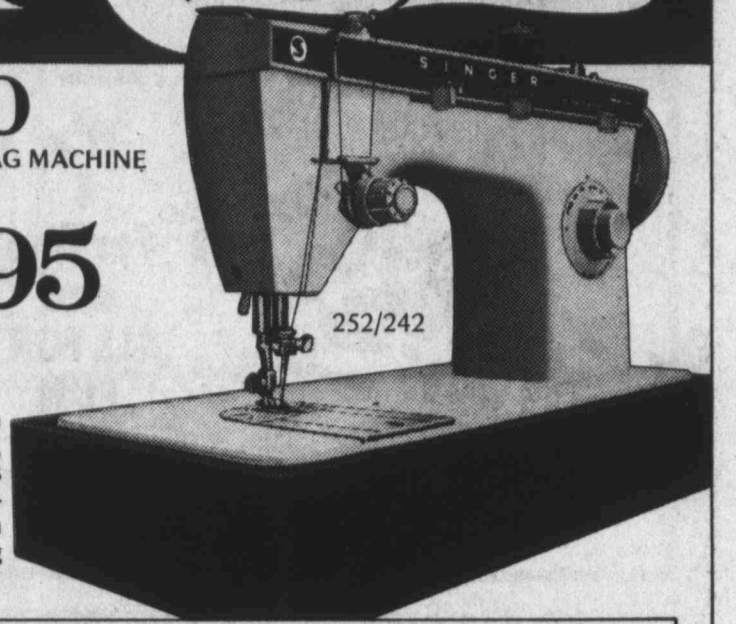

One, the so-called "hippie household provision," denied stamps to anyone living in a house with one or more unrelated people. It was ruled unconstitutional in a 1973 decision.

Another regulation would have disqualified anyone in a household where there is a person over 18 years old who is a dependent of a parent not eligible for stamps. While it would have forced many students off stamps, it also would have eliminated some welfare recipients. The rule was thrown out on a narrow, 5-4 vote, and another version now is in effect.
