

No 1973 Presidential Tax Hike, Nixon Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon said today "there will be no presidential tax increase" in 1973 but argued that "congressional overspending" might make one necessary.

Holding a 40-minute news conference in his Oval Office, Nixon also declared that Vietnam peace talks are "in a sensitive stage."

FIGHT SPENDING
And he said that his search for the quickest possible settlement will in no way be affected by the fact that a presidential election will be held Nov. 7.

Nixon, in discussing his tax policy, said he will rarely visit the campaign trail until Congress adjourns because he wants to remain in Washington to "fight the battle against rising spending."

He promised a succession of veto messages aimed at last-minute legislation that exceed his budget goals.

The President was first asked for a response to charges by some Democrats that his administration has been corrupt.

He responded by listing such charges made by Sen. George McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee, and said some presidential advisers had suggested he respond in kind.

HIGH BROW
He said he rejected such advice because "I'm not going to dignify such comments."

As for what McGovern has been saying, Nixon declared "I think responsible members of the Democratic party will be turned off by this kind of campaign."

Nixon also fielded questions about the U.S.-Soviet grain deal and the bugging of Democratic National Committee headquarters at the Watergate building.

GRAIN DEAL
Addressing himself to allegations that grain exporters profited from advance information about the $750 million grain agreement, Nixon said the FBI was looking into the matter and asserted, "if there has been any impropriety, any illegality, we want to know."

He pictured the grain accord as beneficial to the nation, saying it would add a billion dollars to farm income, create thousands of jobs, save taxpayers $200 million in grain storage charges and help ease the country's continuing balance of payments crisis.

As for the Watergate affair, Nixon repeated that he had no personal knowledge of what was going on there and said he is convinced no principal figures of his campaign committee were party to the bugging.

Recalling his probe of former State Department official Alger Hiss as a member of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, Nixon said that inquiry was "basically a Sunday-school exercise" compared to the FBI's Watergate investigation.

He reported that 133 agents tracked down 1,800 leads and conducted 1,500 interviews in preparing the case that led to grand jury indictments of seven men accused of participating in the break-in and bugging operation.

Reminded of his promise to reduce the burden of property taxes, Nixon said he will give top priority to aiding the elderly. He said one million retired persons with incomes of less than $2,000 a year pay an average of one-third of that sum in property taxes.

Nixon termed this "fiscally wrong and morally wrong" and said his first legislative request next year would deal with that area.

The President said his goal will be to ease the property tax burden without raising other taxes.

Questioned about busing to achieve racial balance in the schools, Nixon called anew for legislation to halt court-ordered busing.

NEW CONGRESS
He said a new Congress might act quickly on this subject in 1973.

"That I would prefer," he said, describing the congressional route as "easier and quicker."

But if all else fails, he said, he would back a constitutional amendment to achieve the same end.

At one point, Nixon became a bit philosophical about his role as acknowledged front-runner in the presidential campaign.

Noting his large lead in public opinion polls, he said he has cautioned his aides, "Don't rely on the polls."

The problem for a candidate who is far ahead in the straw votes, he noted, is to get his supporters to the polls on election day.

BIG VOTE
"What we need above all else," he said, "is a big vote."

In answer to a question, Nixon renewed his support for the administration's welfare reform plan, killed Wednesday by the Senate. He said he will renew his request for such legislation in 1973 and argued that he would not approve any program that would add to welfare rolls.

He said reform plans "by our opponents" would do that.

PAY CONTROLS Wholesale Prices Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices of a broad range of wholesale food, industrial raw materials and manufactured products rose an average of three-tenths of one per cent last month, the government reported today.

The report by the Bureau of Labor Statistics said the increase included a rise of six-tenths of one per cent for farm products, processed foods and feeds, while industrial commodities increased two-tenths of one per cent.

The report said that in the past three months, wholesale prices rose at an annual rate of 6.7 per cent compared with 4.9 per cent rate in the first and second quarters of the year, and that food and feeds soared at an annual rate of 17.4 per cent in the third quarter.

In the 13 months so far of President Nixon's wage-price controls, wholesale prices have risen at an annual rate of 4.3 per cent, compared with a rate of 5.2 per cent in the nine months prior to the controls.

The September increase brought the government's Wholesale Price Index up to 120.2 of its 1967 base of 100. This means it cost wholesalers $120.20 last month on the average for goods worth $100 five years ago.

The index was up 5 per cent in the past year, the bureau said.

In food, the report said, fruits and vegetables declined six-tenths of one per cent in September but were up 33.3 per cent from a year ago; meats, poultry and fish dropped five-tenths of one per cent for the month and were up 12.1 per cent over the past year; egg prices shot up 15.7 per cent in September and were 6.6 per cent above a year earlier; milk increased seven-tenths of one per cent for the month and was 3 per cent above a year ago.

Among industrial prices, textiles were up two-tenths of one per cent for the month and 4.2 per cent for the year, leather products rose eight-tenths and 18.3 per cent respectively, fuels increased five-tenths and 4.3 per cent, lumber prices rose three-tenths for the month and 10.6 per cent for the year.

Plump Duck Waiting For His Chance

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's a plump white duck named Cuddles living at the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts these days waiting for his chance to face the footlights.

He hasn't made it so far, because he is understudy to his mate, a female with the equally improbable name of Otto, and Otto hasn't missed a performance of the musical "Pippin" since it opened Sept. 20.

They are living in a corner of the huge backstage area of the Kennedy Center opera house with a lamb named Rosemary, turned three weeks old today. Rosemary has just joined the cast, having replaced another named Pebbles, who was six months old and getting too big for the role.

Rosemary sleeps in a playpen and is still on a bottle, although she does nibble grass when allowed to gambol outside. The ducks take a daily constitutional in one of the half-dozen pools which flank the center.

In the musical, Pippin—a character based on the son of Charlemagne—moves in with a young widow who has a son, Theo, played by Shane Nickerson, 8.

Theo has a pet duck which he carries around. The duck dies offstage, and Theo runs in tearfully holding a stuffed duck which closely resembles Otto.

Trying to console the little boy, Pippin brings him a lamb which Theo scornfully rejects. "That's no duck, dummy," Jack Gilbert, the animals' handler, explains that there's a second reason for having two ducks in addition to the possibility that Otto may miss a performance in the run here, which ends Oct. 14, or the subsequent one on Broadway.

If a pair of ducks is separated, he told a reporter, the two may pout and even die, so the pair is kept together.

More Than 15,000 Register To Vote

Wednesday, 60 more were registered to vote, the Howard County tax office reported, making the total 15,010.

In order to cast ballots in the November General Election, citizens must obtain a permanent 1972 voter registration certificate before 5 p.m. Friday, if they apply in person.

However, blank voting applications will be available on a table located outside the district tax assessor-collector's office in the courthouse all day Saturday. Those should be filled out and mailed. Those filled out and left for clerks in the office will not be accepted as valid, District Tax Collector-Assessor Zerah LeFevre Bednar cautioned.

Nab Suspect In Sex Case

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Detectives early today questioned a 23-year-old man they termed "a very good suspect" in the Aug. 31 slaying and sexual mutilation of May Emma Davis, 85.

They said the man, arrested Wednesday afternoon for "unlawfully carrying a dagger" gave them an oral statement revealing "facts of the case that only a person involved would have access to."

He led officers to an abandoned house on the east side of town and pointed out a plastic garbage bag buried in an old pile of clothing, detectives said.

Investigators said the bag may contain a missing part of Mrs. Davis' body. Police began questioning the man about the Davis case after they found an attaché case filled with pornographic literature in his possession, they said.

Mrs. Davis, a widow who lived alone, was found beaten to death on the floor of her kitchen.

Approve Bill To Pay Off Election Debts

AUSTIN (AP) — A Senate committee quickly approved today bills to pay off the state's election debts and to build an $8 million school at Fort Worth for the mentally retarded.

The House Education Committee approved a Senate-passed proposal to allow Midland to pull out of the Permian Junior College System.

Another Senate committee listened to State Insurance Commissioner Clay Cotten and a University of Texas professor defend the present system of setting auto insurance rates. They said open competition would not be any better.

A bill approved by the Senate finance committee would appropriate $350,000 in state funds to finishing paying costs of the May-June election primaries. A total of $2.15 million already has been spent on the election.

The Fort Worth school will be built on 274 acres with 374 beds to be ready within 18 months.

A $1 million appropriation for the school was vetoed by Gov. Preston Smith in July, but the governor recommended this week to the special session that it provide $8 million for the first phase of construction, which eventually is expected to cost $25 million.

Cotten told the Economic Development Committee, "My personal opinion is the present (auto insurance) system, on an average, serves the citizens of Texas well."

Odessa Ex-Con, Wife Charged With Murder

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — An Odessa man pleaded guilty and drew a life sentence in one murder case and was charged in another Wednesday.

District Court Judge Charles Lindsey passed sentence after Johnny Emanuel Meadows, 34, entered the guilty plea in the June 17, 1971, strangling of Gloria Sue Nix Green.

The new murder complaint, filed at Odessa, accuses Meadows in the death of Linda Ann Cougatt, who disappeared in 1968 from a laundromat there. It also charges his wife Delores in this case.

Officers said they were looking for Mrs. Meadows in the area around Bloomfield, N.M.

Dist. Atty. John Green from Odessa, in Ector County, offered in evidence during a brief trial here a statement given questioners by Meadows earlier in the day to the effect that he had been "searching for my wife for 96 days" before the killing of Mrs. Green.

He went to the O&L Well Service Co. in Odessa that day, walked into the office where Mrs. Green was working and "she became my wife in my own mind," Meadows said.

"I attempted to take her home to the children," he said, "and she did resist and I struck her."

Meadows told how he took the unconscious Mrs. Green to a club and left her tied with electrical cord in the bathroom.

He went to buy some shoe polish "which I was going to use later by painting myself to look like a Negro man," he said.

Meadows said he returned to find she had escaped her bonds and run into another room of the club, where there were several people.

"I caught her and pushed her into the bathroom," he said "I

UW Campaign Is Spurting

The United Way campaign to finance 14 community agencies took a healthy surge on the basis of reports Wednesday.

Latest figures showed $67,326 toward the $113,000 goal, or 60 per cent of the target.

The totals include another partial report from Cosden Oil & Chemical employees, also a final report from the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company reporting a 100 per cent participation. Although the number of employees at the phone company is slightly less than a year ago, the total amount of giving increased.

Robert Hickson, campaign chairman, and Morris Robertson, United Way president, met Wednesday noon at Holiday Inn for a Dutch treat luncheon with division leaders to survey the campaign status.

Alton Marwitz, area chairman, has exceeded his goal and still is not through with his canvassing. J. D. Nelson's big gifts division is coming along well, as is Tom Locke's employe division. Reports are still due from the public employe division and the Combine Federal Campaign. Hickson set another report meeting for Oct. 25.

OK Bill To Let Midland Get Out Of Juco System

AUSTIN (AP) — The House Education Committee approved a Senate-passed bill today that would allow Midland voters to disannex themselves from a junior college district that includes Odessa.

Rep. Steve Burgess of Nacogdoches cast the only negative amendments when the time came for a vote.

Rep. Tom Craddock of Midland said Midland voters were the only ones who voted in an election to put the Midland Independent School District in the junior college district and therefore they should be the only ones to vote on the disannexation.

The bill now goes to the House floor, where Rep. Ace Pickens of Odessa said he will offer amendments allowing Ector (Odessa) County voters to participate in the disannexing election and requiring the ballot in Midland County to carry separate items on creation of a Midland County junior college district and authorizing a maintenance tax for that district.

Pickens discussed the amendments at length before the committee, but no member of the committee offered those

City Definitely Has Drug Problem, Check Reveals

By JOHN EDWARDS
Operation Crime Check, the Chamber of Commerce service established Sept. 18, has "proved one thing," Ronald E. Mercer, chamber manager, said Wednesday. "Big Spring does have a drug problem."

Despite a mistakenly unlisted phone number, Crime Check has drawn an average of six to eight calls nightly and frequent day time calls.

No one has reported burglary, theft or vandalism to the service, a telephone hooked to a tape recorder. Several persons have told about use and sale of marijuana.

Last week, two persons mentioned a pusher selling unnamed "hard" drugs.

Wednesday, a Southwestern Bell Telephone representative said calls for the phone number "flooded" the switchboard over the weekend. Why was this number unlisted, the telephone company wanted to know.

Now, the error has been corrected, and persons may get the number, 263-6789, from telephone information personnel, Mercer said.

So far, no adult male voices have been recorded. Most callers have been male or female teenagers, Mercer said. Adult females have called Crime Check, also.

Some calls were pranks. Others "chickened-out" or were interrupted, Mercer said.

Only a month old, the $200 reward for arrest and conviction has not yet been given to anyone. "It won't be a true success until we're able to pay the reward," Mercer said.

Contributions are to pay for rewards. The chamber purchased the equipment at a cost of $250 and pays the telephone installation and monthly phone bill.

Through the service, the chamber's Drug Abuse Task Force is offering citizens opportunity to report crime privately and anonymously.

In order to collect the possible reward, persons should leave a code name like "Agent 10." Only the person hearing the tape recording will know your code name.

After a conviction, a person should come by the chamber office and give their code name.

Information may be reported anytime. The tape recording device is checked every day and messages are immediately relayed to law officers.

THOSE HARDY PIONEERS

A Life Of Courage, Faith And Privation

By ARTHUR RIBBEL
Copy News Service

The paths of the pioneers to the West were strewn with hunger, fear, dangers, privations and death which seem to be forgotten in this age of high living, comforts and high speed.

But from such hardships there was bred a race of courageous, industrious and hardy generations of men and women who came to California by sea and by land, following the oft-times perilous course of manifest destiny.

PRIVATIONS

One terrifying incident of the pioneers, or even a few of their privations, were more than borne in a lifetime by present-day westerners.

In a rare, unpublished and uncirculated autobiography, James H. Skinner, 1842-1915, grandfather of Mrs. Earl Humphrey of Sylmar, Calif., lifts the curtain on some of those dangerous and agonizing moments on the way West and in the West.

Skinner came by sea, around fearsome Cape Horn, on the 450-ton sailing vessel, the Brooklyn, out of New York for San Francisco, in February, 1846, as a small boy along with a group of other Mormons... "in a good staunch tub of a whaler with few accommodations or conveniences." Storms, seasickness, close confinement, mountain-high waves, hardtack, "salt junk," heat, becoming, fear and death lay beyond for the passengers as they cleared New York Harbor for the six-month voyage.

HATCHES DOWN

The ship was "tumbling and rolling" even before it reached treacherous Cape Horn; the hatches were battened down, and an angry and tumultuous sea wracked the ship without mercy. He witnessed the burial at sea of a fellow passenger.

"It seemed at times," Skinner related, "as if every minute would be our last."

"The captain went below and spoke these grave words, which confirmed the cold fears of the huddled passengers," Skinner said:

"My friends, there is a time in our lives when it is fitting to prepare to die. That time has come for us for I have done all I can do. Unless God intercedes, we must go down."

Skinner recalled that a passenger replied: "Captain, we were sent to California and we shall go down there."

FAITH

"These people have a faith I do not have," remarked the captain as he returned to the deck. "The ship was battered by another storm off the Horn, but arrived safely at Yerba Buena (Good Grass), as San Francisco was then known, in July, 1846. He described the now-glamorous city as "a wild country, barren and dreary... covered with chapparal, manzanita and poison ivy, with very little water."

Skinner saw San Francisco burn down five times, the first and second times when the town was a mere tent village.

"It is a grand, and at the same time, an awful sight, to see a large, well-built city go up in smoke and flames," he wrote. "Before the fires stopped burning, materials were brought in to build anew."

NO STORES

His family sought their destiny at Beaver Valley, Utah, which he described as a "barren waste, with no stores."

"What with providing something to keep life in the body and clothes to cover our persons, to build a shelter to protect us from the cold winter storms and the summer heat, building roads, grubbing sagebrush, making water ditches, guarding against Indian raids and herding our stock, we were kept pretty busy," was his matter-of-fact recitation of some of the problems of a pioneer.

BRAVE WOMEN

And the pioneer women... "You women, who think you have hard work to do now, know little of what the women of the early settlers had to pass through," he penned.

"... Baking on an open fire-place with skillet and frypan; no carpets or rugs on the floors; no stoves; few conveniences to work or cook with; no sewing machines; houses not good enough to keep out cold; no bedclothes to keep warm at night and few regular clothes."

"There were Indian fights and Indians stole his family's cattle. "Hunger, cold, scant living, meager or poorly clothed; sleeping on the cold, hard ground; scout duty; herding cattle from sunrise to sunset; log houses, flour scarce..."

CONTENTED PEOPLE

However, he saw goodness and benevolence through it all. "I will say people were more united and contented, and enjoyed themselves more in those times than they do today (1915)," he wrote.

"There wasn't that class distinction that there is now. The people weren't after that almighty dollar as they are today. Today all are trying to see how much more money they can get than their neighbor. That brotherly love that we had then is gone."

"Pride and vanity... how much longer will it last?" (His words, prophetically, possibly could apply on this day in 1972.)

Sleeping Through Sermons Reported On The Increase

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Political Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The old channel of church communications, the "sermon," is coming in for some hard knocks these days. But efforts also are going on to beef it up.

Varying approaches to the matter range from steps to put more quality into pulpit preaching to experiments with scrapping it entirely.

It's a "time of flux" in Sunday services, says the Rev. E. T. DeLaney, of Minneapolis, executive secretary of the American Lutheran Church's Commission on Worship.

Many parishes are trying new methods as sermon substitutes, such as "dialogues" with the congregation, multimedia presentations, dramatic skits. Some pastors, to fill the spot, subscribe to "canned" sermons.

On the other hand, work is going on to upgrade the art of preaching itself.

"A good sermon is the most effective way of communicating the Word of God in today's society," says Roman Catholic Archbishop John F. Whealon, of Hartford, Conn. "There is no substitute for it."

Sometimes the sermon gets partly sidelined by the current of new techniques.

"Jazz, dramatic readings, interpretative dancing and discussions are replacing the sermon in some churches," the Rev. Robert H. Lauer, a Florissant, Mo., pastor writes in Christianity Today.

But, he says the problem is not with the preaching method itself, but its frequently ambiguous content. He urges more simple, authoritative preaching focused on Christ.

Seguin Board Is Honored

The board of education of the Seguin Independent School District has been selected "Outstanding School Board of Texas" for the 1971-1972 school year. This selection was announced at the annual joint convention of the Texas Association of School Administrators and the Texas Association of School Boards in San Antonio.

The remaining five Honor Boards which were also recognized at this Sunday evening banquet session were the boards of education from the Fort Worth, Midland, North East, North Forest and Vega School Districts.

The Seguin board developed and circulated a set of written policies which govern the operation of the school district, fused the various ethnic groups, both teachers and students; constructed two small junior high schools to allow for a more warm and personal environment for the students during the critical early teen years; gained Full accreditation received from the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges after raising standards and increasing the budget; installed elementary central libraries with full-time certified librarians.

The board also added 41 additional teachers to the system at a cost in excess of $250,000; reduced the pupil teacher rates from one teacher for every 34 students down to one teacher for every 25 students; added 21 new courses to the curriculum.

Among Roman Catholics, Archbishop Whealon says that "undeniably we are getting better sermons today, but we still hear far too often the complaint from the pews that the sermon didn't help very much."

"We have to do something about that."

With this objective in mind, a National Congress on the Word of God was held in Washington, D.C., Sept. 5-7, sponsored by the Catholic University of America.

The coordinator for the affair, the Rev. John J. Burke, director of the university's Institute for Pastoral Communications, says a major trouble with modern sermons is that they deal too much with psychology, sociology and political theories rather than on spiritual nature of people.

"The sermons that touch people are those that touch people that Jesus is their Savior," he says. "They want to know the meaning of their lives in the context of their struggle for significance."

The Rev. Ross Blake, an Ithaca, N.Y., Presbyterian pastor, says preaching would be immensely better if church members would let pastors know that they appreciate the sermon as a prime aspect of worship, and would offer specific reactions and suggested ideas or problems they want discussed.

Coast Beacon Proves Lure

Now only a monument to the pioneering seagoing days of old, the Port Isabel lighthouse is one of the most popular tourist attractions in the Rio Grande Valley.

Sunday's Texas Star magazine has an interesting article on the Beacon of the Rio Grande which was welcomed by Union gunboats, pirates, Mexican raiders and adventurers who frequent the Texas Gulf from 1852-1905.

Also in the Star, Jerry Conn takes a look at a side of the Texas governor that most people don't know exists — "Preston Smith, humorist." He has a surprisingly sharp sense of humor of his own brand and frequently tells jokes on himself.

Eastland's postmaster conceived the idea of replacing a window in her Post Office with a mosaic of stamps telling much of the history of our nation. This amazing woman and her creation are visited in the supplement.

Star Hostess Mary Faulk Kooch has hints for after-the-game entertainment. Her tasty recipes include Snappy Barbecued Lamb Riblets, Corn Bread and Cherry Dreams which could give a lift even to the losing fans.

Promoted by his birthday, editor and publisher Gordon Fulcher takes times to reflect some of the more impressive periods in lifetime in this week's Star Comment.

TAX EVASION SCHEMES SHOCK

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Internal Revenue Service Commissioner Johnnie M. Walters says shocking instances of tax evasion schemes by giant corporations have been discovered by the IRS.

Walters told a meeting of tax executives here that a team-audit program had revealed schemes such as kick-backs and illegal payoffs to avoid tax payment by large corporations.

The agency is recommending criminal prosecution and tax penalties where applicable, he said.

"It is unbelievable that large publicly-held corporations engage in such schemes. But they do," Walters said. "This is flouting of the law — deliberate, willful attempts to avoid and evade taxes with full knowledge of both what should be done and the result of what is done."

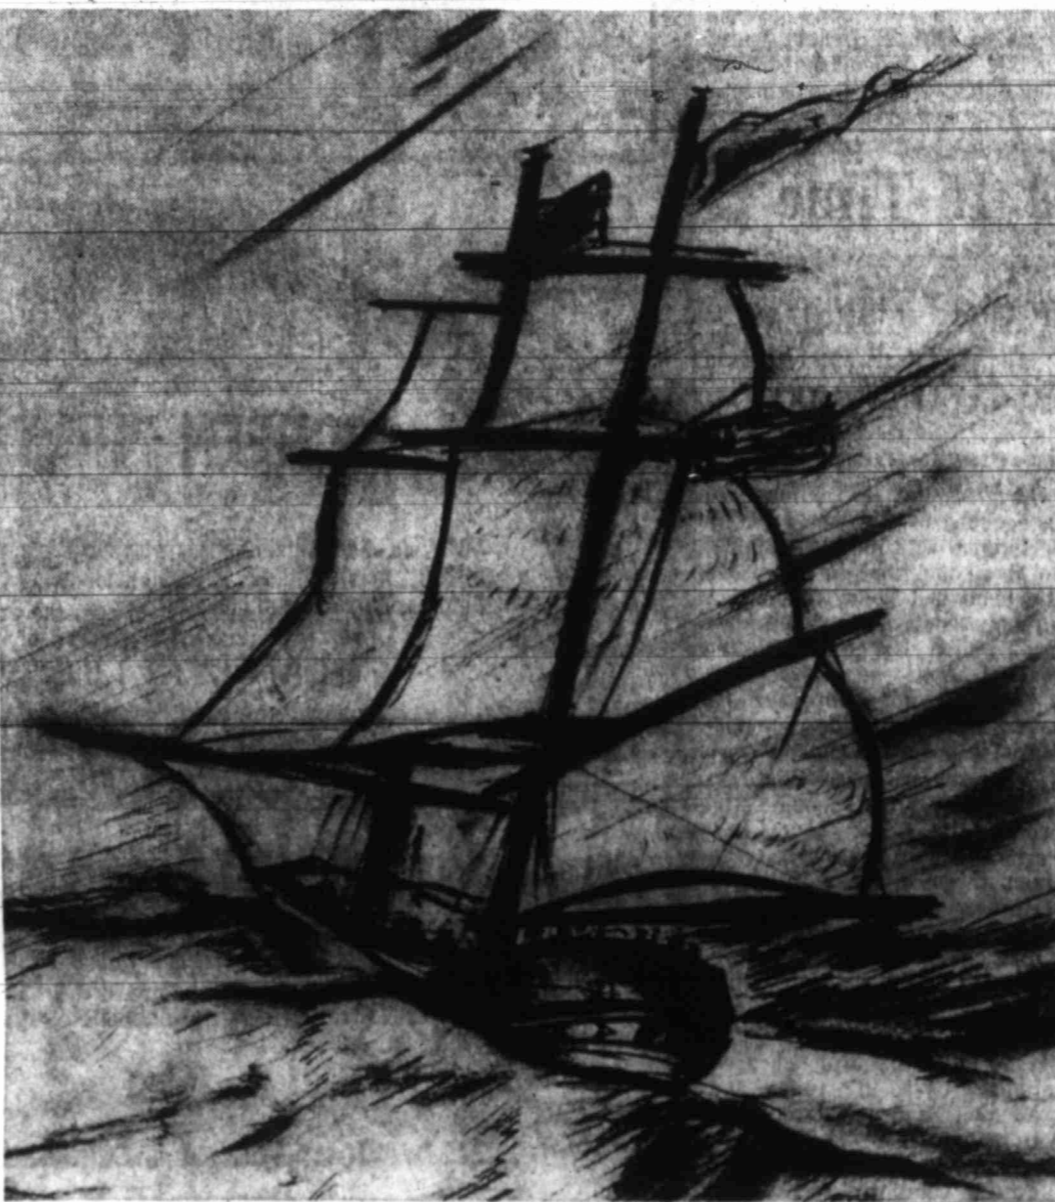

JURY VERDICTS BY 10 ADOPTED

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court adopted several new rules of procedure Wednesday, including one that permits verdicts by only 10 jurors in civil cases.

The new rules are effective Feb. 1, 1973. The court also said verdicts may be reached by only five jurors in cases in which the jury consists of six members.

The effect of the new rule is to prevent hung juries in most cases.

The 1971 legislature refused to adopt less than unanimous verdicts, but the State Supreme Court, through its rule-making power, accomplished this with its new standard.

Will Have To Drill Deeper For Gas Reserves In Texas

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas still has tremendous natural gas reserves yet to be discovered but an authority on the subject says explorers will have to drill deeper and deeper.

F. E. Hoglund, East Texas Division manager for Humble Oil & Refining Co., says 90 per cent of the gas discovered so far in Texas involved depths of less than 15,000 feet while more than 75 per cent of the undiscovered reserves are at depths ranging from 15,000 to 30,000 feet.

Of the nearly 585,000 wells drilled so far in Texas, only about 1,000 have been 15,000 feet or deeper.

COMBINATION Hoglund says a combination of economics and technology has limited gas discoveries at the deeper depths.

Subsurface data is limited in that seismograph accuracy deteriorates to a degree with depth, thus making potential gas reservoirs harder to recognize.

Depth escalates drilling costs dramatically.

The average cost of Texas wells of 5,000 feet or less has been $26,000 but those of the 10,000 to 15,000-foot bracket have averaged $315,900.

Hoglund says about 800 wells have been drilled between 15,000 and 20,000 feet with an average cost of $953,900 and that 200 more between 20,000 and 25,000 have averaged $1.5 million.

"Only two have been drilled between 25,000 and 30,000 feet and their average was $4.2 million," he said.

HIGHER PRICES "It is very evident that gas prices will have to rise to give incentive to drill for these deeper reserves."

Hoglund has made a detailed study of the depth factor involved in estimates made by a special gas supply committee for a National Petroleum Council energy study. The committee estimated potential Texas gas reserves yet to be discovered at 183 trillion cubic feet.

"The significance of the potential is that over 75 per cent of it is below 15,000 feet," he said.

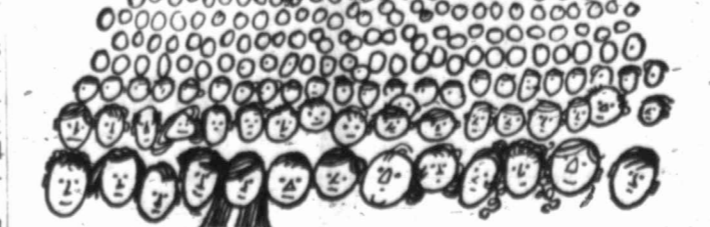

Significant deep gas discoveries have been made in the Delaware Basin area of West Texas but Hoglund says the potential is general over the state.

"The potential exists in East Texas, the Gulf Coast area, and in South Texas," he said.

He added that few people understand what the developing oil and gas shortages means to Texas.

OUTLOOK Reserves can best be illustrated, he said, in terms of remaining supply based on current rates of production.

Texas oil reserves, he said, declined from over 15 years of supply in 1965 to only 11 years outlook, he said.

An Ex-Steady

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

JUST TOMMY: (Q.) Tommy broke up with me a month ago. I didn't want to, but he said he had a new girl friend. We had been going together eight months. We agreed to be friends.

I can't be friends with Tommy. I want to hold his hand or kiss him. I've been going out with other boys. I don't want to kiss them. I want to kiss Tommy. Not a one of them has called back, and I don't blame them.

What can I do? I'm miserable. — Linda in Louisiana.

(A) You are acting like too many ex-steadies — both boys and girls — do. You are concentrating on Tommy, not on the boy you are out with. That ruins your fun and his, too.

It was a month when you wrote. It is longer now. The more time passes, the more you will be able to look at Tommy as just a friend and the more fun you will have going out with other boys.

NOT A NIECE: (Q.) A month ago my sister asked me to let her dress me up

Child Support Payments Rule

AUSTIN (AP) — A Texas judge can increase a divorced father's monthly child support payments as a means of making him pay delinquent amounts, the Texas Supreme Court ruled Wednesday.

The high court said it was standard practice to let a father who was behind in his child support payments avoid a jail sentence by paying the amount owed.

"An order such as the one here reviewed amounts to an accommodation to the delinquent father," the court said.

If the father failed to pay the full monthly payment—current support plus the extra amount toward the delinquency—"the order may be enforced by contempt," the court's opinion said.

The court upheld a Dallas district court order adding $50 to the child support payments of William James Ranford until a $2,000 delinquency was repaid.

Second Ex-Wife Must Pay His First Ex-Wife

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A judge has ordered the second ex-wife of Gerald Paul Glickman to pay his first ex-wife $8,532.80 in alimony and child support.

Court documents showed the decision stemmed from a unique arrangement in which the second ex-wife and Glickman agreed to the payments in exchange for the divorce between Glickman and his first wife.

Glickman later married and divorced Mrs. Glickman No. 2. Mrs. Glickman No. 2 sued Mrs. Glickman No. 1 because her former husband was considered "uncollectible."

A court spokesman said Glickman now lives with his mother.

City Manager Of Dallas Quits

DALLAS (AP) — Scott McDonald, 64, city manager of Dallas since 1966, is retiring Dec. 28 and will be succeeded by Asst. City Manager George Schrader, it was announced from City Hall.

Schrader, former city attorney of suburban Mesquite, joined the Dallas city government in 1962 as a design engineer for the Public Works Department.

Bankers Deeply Divided On Economic Questions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reform of the world monetary system has begun on an optimistic note. But finance ministers and central bankers from major nations left the annual International Monetary Fund meeting still deeply divided on key economic questions.

The United States helped clarify the issues by making a specific proposal for revamping the system. But financial officials of other countries yielded little to the U.S. during the week of meetings.

There was general agreement on mechanics of the system. Most everyone agreed that money-exchange rates in the future should be more flexible and be able to swing more widely in value than before to prevent recurring monetary crises.

The disagreements appear to be centered around how the major nations will adjust their balance-of-payments deficits or surpluses. The United States wants just as much economic pressure put on a country in surplus as it does on a nation in deficit like itself.

The U.S. proposal was avoided by the other finance ministers. There was little agreement on economic sanctions or any kind of penalties on a country in surplus.

Another point of division is the large glut of dollars held by countries overseas. The United States at present will not convert the estimated $50 billion excess dollars into gold—since it has only $10 billion in gold.

Other nations are worried that this amount may increase and have proposed a ban on further dollar accumulations above certain amounts by foreign governments. The United States strongly disagrees, wanting no controls at all on movements of the dollar.

There is also division on the role of gold in the system, with the United States wanting the metal to be phased out as the standard of value for the dollar. But other countries, notably France, still believe that gold should play a role in the system, although a diminished one.

BAR HOPPING ON A HORSE

FORT MORGAN, Colo. (AP) — A 31-year-old woman was arrested in downtown Fort Morgan on charges of drunk driving — on a horse.

Police said Elaine Greene was arrested Monday night after riding a horse through one bar and into another.

Witnesses said it took four police officers to persuade her to dismount. The policemen ended up walking her to jail when she refused to stay in the patrol car, officers said.

She was released after spending a night in jail, police said. Officers did not know what happened to the horse.

Pension Plan Is Scrapped

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The Hickok Manufacturing Co., a leather goods producer, said here that the pension plan for its 120 employees has been scrapped.

Lawrence H. Flynn, a Hickok employee would not be able to receive a pension but instead would get a refund of their pension contributions, plus interest. Employees already drawing pensions will have their payments cut by about 12 per cent, Flynn said.

Ed Schultz, president of the Hickok Employees Union, said he would file a grievance about the suspension with the National Labor Relations Board.

Hickok is a subsidiary of the Tandy Corp. of Fort Worth, Tex.

Give It Time

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My 4-year-old son developed Legg-Perthes disease in the right hip over a year ago. He has been in a leg brace since except for a period from February to April. The doctor thought at the time it could come off because of the rapid healing.

Then fluid developed on his hip and he was put in traction in the hospital 11 days, and the brace went back on.

Now the doctor says it will have to stay on until fall and perhaps longer. My question: the few people I talk to who know anything about this disease (two to be exact) say there is an operation that can correct it.

When I mentioned it to my doctor (orthopedic), he said there was not. Please, what do you have to say about it?

Why does it affect more boys than girls? What is the cause? And why does it seem to happen to super-active children? — Mrs. R.L.

Legg-Perthes is a form of osteochondrosis — an interference with the blood supply to the bone, and in this case the bone just below the hip. A similar condition near the knee is called Osgood-Schlatter disease. And when, less often, it appears in other areas it takes on other names, equally hard for people to remember.

I'm rather surprised that you found even two people who professed to know about Legg-Perthes. I conscientiously write about these diseases a couple of times a year or often because a steady stream of letters comes from folks whose youngsters develop "this disease I never heard of."

Anyway, there is necrosis and the bone in the affected area softens. Give it time and protection, and the circulation will resume and the bone will harden and be strong again.

But the bone, while weakened, MUST be protected or it will be damaged and deformed. That's the reason for the brace. (Sometimes a cast or even a wheelchair, is ordered.) Time then cures the trouble, but there is no other way to do it, no way to hasten it.

The people who told you about surgery were confused. There are cases in which the bone is damaged and surgery is necessary to do what repairing is possible — but that's not the same as being a cure for the disease.

The exact cause of these diseases is not known, but it is assumed that some injury is probably involved — which, if true, would explain why more boys than girls and why more active youngsters are more likely to have this trouble.

Rest and protection is the ONLY cure. And one must beware of the amateur "expert" who insists that exercise will do it. It won't. It CAN do permanent harm.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a high school student, 15. For about a year and a half I've been dragging myself around and am almost always tired and run down. I get plenty of sleep and eat good foods. I was always under the impression that low blood sugar was a disease of older people. Can a person my age be afflicted? — J.H.

Yes, low blood sugar can bother people your age — but why jump to that conclusion without considering some more likely causes? You mention none of the many troubles that go with low blood sugar.

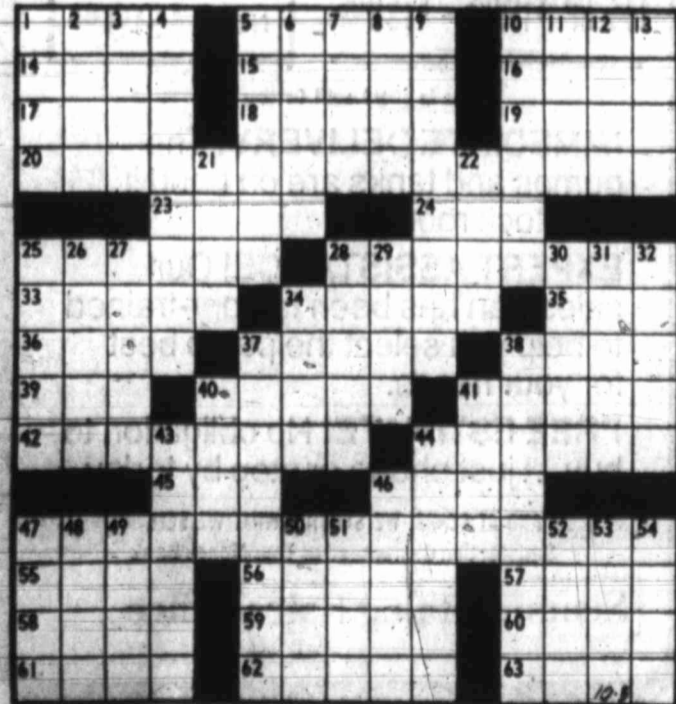

If you're sure your trouble is physical and not just being bored (you'd be surprised how "tired" bored people can be) you'd do better with routine tests for anemia, or low thyroid, or that sort of thing.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How long before marriage should one take birth control pills? — G.W. Allow one full month.

What are ulcers? How should they be treated? What can you do to help rid yourself of ulcers and stay rid of them? For answers, read Dr. Thosteson's helpful booklet, "How To Heal Peptic Ulcers and Keep Them Healed." For your copy write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Sexagenarian Fifi d'Orsay Is Happier Now Than Ever

Capley News Service
HOLLYWOOD — In "The Follies," an award-winning musical in which she's featured, Fifi D'Orsay's something like this:
 "I was a sexpot. I'm a sexagenarian. Wow! What a difference!"
 She said the same thing off stage over dinner, between a matinee and evening performance, going on to explain that the difference is more than the obvious.
 For today, at 68, Fifi is happier than she's ever been in her life; more at peace than she ever was in her 20s when she was Hollywood's "French Bombshell."

BORN CATHOLIC
 "Now I've found peace of mind," she said, "because I'm with God. I was born a Catholic, but for many years I was a prodigal daughter."
 "I've learned, though, that when you are resigned to God's will, you have peace of mind."
 "You don't suffer and go around being miserable the way I used to."
 "Now when I have two weeks vacation from 'The Follies,' I go out all over the country and talk to women's clubs and various groups and tell them about my wicked past and how I've adjusted to a new life."

FIFI D'ORSAY
 "I've found peace of mind"
 Fifi, 68, past-wicked or otherwise, began in Montreal, Canada, where she was born into a French-Canadian, French-speaking family.
 Booked as "Mlle. Fifi," she was appearing in vaudeville in an act entitled "Ten Dollars a Lesson" when Will Rogers came backstage to see a friend and was introduced to her.
 As a result of the encounter, when Rogers went to Hollywood in 1929 to make his first picture, he asked that she be cast in it too. And thus she became Hollywood's "French Bombshell."
BACK HOME
 "I'm back on my old ground," Fifi said nodding toward Los Angeles' new Shubert Theater across the way where "The Follies" was playing.
 "This Century City (location of the theater) was the Fox lot, you know, and I was under contract to Fox for five years."
 "At first, I thought it was wonderful, but then I made a big mistake and asked for my release. I was making big money on the road, and then I'd have to go back to the studio for my lousy $400 a week."
 "Four hundred dollars a week! Now, to me, that's a lot of money, but then I thought it was nothing, so I asked to be released from my contract."
 Will Rogers not only provided Fifi with an entree to Hollywood but also with very good advice which, unfortunately, she didn't always instantly appreciate.
 "He was so unassuming, so unpretentious, so wise and so witty," she recalled. "He had such a wonderful philosophy."
 "Once I remember I said to him, 'Now I'm young (I was about 20 years old maybe) but when I get to be 50 or 60 will I worry about getting old?'"
 "Will Rogers said to me, 'Fifi, getting older doesn't mean getting old. You can be old at 23 if you don't know how to live and let live. Or you can be young at 60 if you have the right outlook."

LONG TIME
 "It took me a long time to understand what he meant," Fifi, the self-proclaimed "prodigal daughter," found her present peace of mind and the happiness she radiates from the stage a few years ago, when someone gave her a book, "My Daily Bread."
 "That book is what I go to bed with now," she declared. "Write that down. It's important. I learned from it that, if I accepted God's will, I'd be happy."
 "What do you see when I'm on stage? Tell me. What do I project? Happiness? That's right."
 "I should be happy, because I call myself a miracle. I'm a show business glamor girl at 68. I left here Jan. 1, 1971, to join 'The Follies,' and now I'm back in Hollywood with a prestige show."
 It was in October 1970, that Fifi heard that Broadway producer Hal Prince was in Los Angeles scouting for stars for a show he had in mind.
 "I auditioned for him," she said, "and he told me, 'Gee, I like you, but there's no part for a French girl in my show.'"
 Nevertheless, Prince encouraged Fifi to audition for him a second time in New York which she did so successfully that "Follies" lyricist Stephen Sondheim wrote a song especially for her and added it to the score.
 "However, when 'The Follies' opened in Boston, I was so unhappy I almost left it."
 "Remember, I am only featured. I'm not the star. And not to see my name on the marquee hurt me so I was miserable."
 "Only my faith and prayers got me through until I realized how lucky I was. I went to Our Lady of Victories Church where the priests were French-Canadian and spoke to me in French."

ACCEPTS WILL
 "They told me, 'Fifi, God has a reason why you should be in this show. Accept His will.'"
 "And they were so right. I've had such opportunities, just because I'm in 'The Follies.'"
 Fifi paused to accept compliments from fans who surrounded her table, to sign autographs.
 Then she exploded:
 "I'll be damned if I feel more than 48!"
Liquor Price Fixing Fines
 WACO, Tex. (AP) — Seven persons pleaded no contest to charges of liquor price fixing here Tuesday and were fined $500 each.
 U.S. District Court Judge Jack Roberts assessed the fines after the seven changed their pleas from innocent to no contest. The judge said the court considered their plea that of being guilty.
 Judge Roberts said the fines could have gone as high as $50,000 for each.
 The seven who pleaded no contest are G. B. Clifton, Tex. Cole, Billy Dicorte, J. B. Zeller, Zelma Deckle, Johnny Fdal and Mrs. Woodrow Colley.
 Three other liquor store operators, indicted in the same charge, have not changed their pleas of innocent and are scheduled for trial Oct. 16.

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband (I'll call him Louie) pleases me in every way. He's kind and generous, doesn't drink or chase, and he has been a wonderful father to our children. He has always been a good provider. He owns a small construction business and we have a lovely home, two cars, nice clothes and money in the bank. I have never had to work outside the home, and I do his bookkeeping.

My problem is my relatives. They are always making dirty remarks about how "ignorant" Louie is. (Never to his face.) It's true, Louie can sign his name, but that's about all. As a child he was poor, and sickly, and he never made it through the third grade.

Please tell me what to say to my relatives who never pass up a chance to tell me how "ignorant" my husband is. (P.S. When my college educated brother needed a loan, who do you think gave him the money? My "ignorant" husband.)

SATISFIED WITH LOUIE
DEAR SATISFIED: Try this: "There is a vast difference between an "ignorant" person and an "uneducated" one. Louie may be uneducated, but he is far from ignorant. Many educated people are ignorant, and there are many who have had no education to speak of, but are intelligent. If Louie's lack of education offends you, why don't you just leave us alone?"

DEAR ABBY: Is there such a thing as a compulsive talker? If so, my wife leads the parade. She talks incessantly from 8 a.m. until 10 p.m. And then she wonders why she's tired all the time.

Isn't it a fact that talking continuously uses up much energy and makes the talker tired?

STOP THE SANTA ANA WIND
DEAR STOP: In answer to your first question: Yes. There is such a thing as a compulsive talker. And you will usually find them married to people with ulcers, high blood pressure and nervous indigestion. And yes, continuous talking can make one tired.

But not half as tired as those who have to listen to it.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "stumped" struck a responsive chord in me. I, too, knew a church elder and pillar of the community who was in the habit of being "affectionate" with women and young girls.

On his 74th birthday he kept asking me for a "birthday hug." Finally, he pulled me into an empty room in the church and gave me the most obscene hug I had ever experienced. I was only 13, and he was my Sunday school teacher.

Naturally I was shocked, and the guilt and shame of that "birthday hug" haunted me for years. I never even told my mother. I was so ashamed and frightened.

Abby, I've read your column since I was a child growing up in Chicago, and I'm sure young girls today still read your column as I did then. Should this be printed, I hope all adolescent girls who have similar experiences will do themselves a favor and tell some adult they respect and trust. Much self doubts and shameful feelings would be dispelled if they did. IANNE

CONFIDENTIAL to "Hopeful," the 15-year-old male who has been praying daily. ("Whatever ye ask in prayer, believing, ye shall receive.") Please send me your name and address. I am familiar with your "problem" and I think I can help you. It will be kept absolutely confidential.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 89706, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069.

Opening lead: Ten of ♥

A correct reading of his opponents' distribution provided South with the information required to uncover a winning line of play and thereby salvage his six no trump contract which was momentarily threatened by an adverse division in clubs.

Altho North's hand is worth 19 points including distribution, usually sufficient for an immediate jump shift response when partner opens the bidding, the presence of a potential misfit caused him to adopt a more cautious approach initially. He contented himself with a temporizing one round force by responding with two clubs. South's rebid of two no trump shows roughly the equivalent of an opening no trump bid [the actual range is 15-18 high card points].

North was now determined to reach a slam and made one more try for a suit contract by bidding three diamonds. When South merely returned to three no trump, North abandoned further exploration and proceeded directly to six no trump.

West opened the ten of hearts, the deuce was played from dummy and East won the trick with the king. The latter shifted to the nine of spades and South put up the ace. Declarer appeared to be on the verge of success, for with any normal division in clubs, he could expect to take five club tricks, two diamonds, two hearts, and three spades:

He tested the clubs first by cashing the queen and then leading over to North's jack. When West showed out, discarding a heart on the second round—South's trick total was temporarily reduced to 11. Declarer had several things going for him, however. East was known to have five clubs and his shift to the nine of spades presumably marked West with the outstanding length in that suit. If this were, in fact, the case—neither opponent could protect diamonds as declarer cashed out his side winners and the diamond suit would ultimately produce a 12th trick for South.

The ace and king of clubs were cashed on which South discarded the deuce of spades and the deuce of diamonds. West realized from his partner's shift to a high spade, that he would have to retain his holding in that suit. He put off his discarding problems temporarily by disposing of his remaining hearts—the nine and ten.

South now cashed the ace of hearts and led over to his queen. West was obliged to give up the six and seven of diamonds. The king and queen of spades came next on which dummy parted first with the three of diamonds and then the four of clubs as both opponents followed suit.

West was known to have started with one club and four hearts. Since he was presumed to hold the fourth spade, this would indicate that he also began with four diamonds. Since he had already discarded two cards in that suit, the outstanding diamonds appeared to be divided two-two. The king of diamonds was played followed by a small one to North's ace. When East's queen dropped, the jack of diamonds took the last trick.

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY:—My husband (I'll call him Louie) pleases me in every way. He's kind and generous, doesn't drink or chase, and he has been a wonderful father to our children. He has always been a good provider. He owns a small construction business and we have a lovely home, two cars, nice clothes and money in the bank. I have never had to work outside the home, and I do his bookkeeping.

My problem is my relatives. They are always making dirty remarks about how "ignorant" Louie is. (Never to his face.) It's true, Louie can sign his name, but that's about all. As a child he was poor, and sickly, and he never made it through the third grade.

Please tell me what to say to my relatives who never pass up a chance to tell me how "ignorant" my husband is. (P.S. When my college educated brother needed a loan, who do you think gave him the money? My "ignorant" husband.)

"stumped" struck a responsive chord in me. I, too, knew a church elder and pillar of the community who was in the habit of being "affectionate" with women and young girls.

On his 74th birthday he kept asking me for a "birthday hug." Finally, he pulled me into an empty room in the church and gave me the most obscene hug I had ever experienced. I was only 12, and he was my Sunday school teacher.

Naturally I was shocked, and the guilt and shame of that "birthday hug" haunted me for years. I never even told my mother, I was so ashamed and frightened.

Abby, I've read your column since I was a child growing up in Chicago, and I'm sure young girls today still read your column as I did then. Should this be printed, I hope all adolescent girls who have similar experiences will do themselves a favor and tell some adult they respect and trust. Much self doubts and shameful feelings would be dispelled if they did.

CONFIDENTIAL to "Hopeful," the 19-year-old male who has been praying daily. ("Whatever ye ask in prayer, believing, ye shall receive.") Please send me your name and address. I am familiar with your "problem" and think I can help you. It will be kept absolutely confidential.

DEAR ABBY: Is there such a thing as a compulsive talker? If so, my wife leads the parade. She talks incessantly from 8 a.m. until 10 p.m. And then she wonders why she's tired all the time.

Isn't it a fact that talking continuously uses up much energy and makes the talker tired?

STOP THE SANTA ANA WIND
DEAR STOP: In answer to your first question: Yes. There is such a thing as a compulsive talker. And you will usually find them married to people with wipers, high blood pressure and nervous indigestion. And yes, continuous talking can make one tired.

But not half as tired as those who have to listen to it.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from

Declarer appeared to be on the verge of success, for with any normal division in clubs, he could expect to take five club tricks, two diamonds, two hearts, and three spades.

He tested the clubs first by cashing the queen and then leading over to North's jack. When West showed out, discarding a heart on the second round—South's trick total was temporarily reduced to 11. Declarer had several things going for him, however. East was known to have five clubs, and his shift to the nine of spades presumably marked West with the outstanding length in that suit. If this were, in fact, the case—neither opponent could protect diamonds as declarer cashed out his side winners and the diamond suit would ultimately produce a 12th trick for South.

The ace and king of clubs were cashed on which South discarded the deuce of spades and the deuce of diamonds. West realized from his partner's shift to a high spade, that he would have to retain his holding in that suit. He put off his discarding problems temporarily by disposing of his remaining hearts—the nine and ten.

South now cashed the ace of hearts and led over to his queen. West was obliged to give up the six and seven of diamonds. The king and queen of spades came next on which dummy parted first with the three of diamonds and then the four of clubs as both opponents followed suit.

West was known to have started with one club and four hearts. Since he was presumed to hold the fourth spade, this would indicate that he also began with four diamonds. Since he had already discarded two cards in that suit, the outstanding diamonds appeared to be divided two-two. The king of diamonds was played followed by a small one to North's ace. When East's queen dropped, the jack of spades and South put up the South was now determined to reach a slam and made one more try for a suit contract by bidding three diamonds. When South merely returned to three no trump, North abandoned further exploration and proceeded directly to six no trump.

West opened the ten of hearts, the deuce was played from dummy and East won the trick with the king. The latter shifted to the nine of spades and South put up the

ROZELLE SPEAKS TO SUBCOMMITTEE

NFL Opposes Blackout Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Football League has said there is no such thing as a television blackout, then gone on record as opposing a bill that would lift the blackout for pro football fans.

"NFL home territories are no longer blacked out on television on Sunday afternoons even when the home team is playing a game at home," NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle told a Senate subcommittee Wednesday.

A bill eliminating local blackouts of home games "does not deal with blackouts," Rozelle said. "It is an effort to prescribe by statute what NFL games must be telecast in what area on what occasions."

Rozelle, accompanied by three NFL team executives, was joined in opposing the measure by Walter Kennedy, National Basketball Association commissioner; Robert Carlson, American Basketball Association president; and Don Ruck, vice president of the National Hockey League.

Two witnesses, both identifying themselves as football fans, supported the bill that would allow home games to be televised locally if they are sold out 48 hours before the contest is to begin.

The three-day hearing ends today with several witnesses, including Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn; Dean Burch, Federal Communications Commission chairman; Roone Arledge, president of ABC Sports; John A. Schneider, president of CBS Broadcast Group; and David Foster, president of the National Cable Television Association Inc.

Like Justice, Judge In Florida Is Blind

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Like justice, the new judge of the Duval County Court is blind.

"I put my blindness on the line at the inception of the campaign," Louis Corbin said Wednesday, the day after winning the nonpartisan contest in a runoff.

Corbin lost his sight at age 6 in a shotgun accident. He said he doesn't feel it will handicap him in judging people or evidence when he takes office in January.

His opponent in the race, Iven Lamb Jr., had said a county judge must act as a coroner and "view the body." Blindness, therefore, is "certainly not a qualification," Lamb contended.

Corbin replied that practice is obsolete, with the county medical examiner's office or a private physician determining cause of death in most homicide cases.

He said he had been able to handle a varied law practice, including civil and criminal cases, well enough and has been earning his own living since he was 16 years old.

Corbin, 33, with his wife and two children, Coralee, 11, and Lesley, 9, joined other winning candidates in receiving congratulations at the courthouse Tuesday night.

Corbin said in his law practice, he depends upon his secretary to read the mail and documents. She also does research.

All of Corbin's files and office records are kept in braille.

"There are no braille law books," he said. "But if I want to cite cases, I get them transcribed into braille. As a judge, I plan to have standard instructions in various type cases put into braille."

As for judging evidence in a case, Corbin sees no problem.

"I can hold an object. Papers and documents can be read to me," he said. "A photograph might present the only problem, but they are merely supportive evidence in any case and I think I could gain the significance of a photo by questions of the attorneys for both sides."

And if he found a case he couldn't handle, Corbin said he would trade it to another judge.

NEW POSTER GIRL TAKES OVER — Blonde, blue-eyed Paula Pfeiffer, 5, of Tulsa, Okla., left, gets a kiss from Carmen Doneka, 9, of Ft. Wayne, Ind., as Paula takes over as the National March of Dimes Poster Child at ceremonies in Newton, Mass. Carmen, who served as the 1972 poster child, turned over the tiny crown to the new poster child.

District Near To Bond Goal

With two-thirds of the year gone, District 4, which embraces counties in this area, is three-fourths of the way toward its goal in United Savings Bonds sales.

The district had its best month of the year in selling $201,688 during August, reported Larson Lloyd, district chairman. This brought to $1,064,387 the sales for the year, of 76 per cent of the total goal.

Three counties have accounted for the extraordinary showing, including Andrews with a $42,098 August, pushing its record for the year to 139 per cent; Dawson with sales of $29,163 in August to reach 116 per cent of quota; and Martin county with 112 per cent of its yearly goal. Gains in 93 per cent of the wayward Howard, the largest purchaser, 83 per cent.

Sales in August with cumulative figures in parentheses and percentage of goal follow:

Andrews $42,098 (883,494) 139; Borden $533 ($4,271) 21; Dawson $29,163 ($115,790) 116; Fisher $3,446 ($43,320) 87; Gaines $7,766 ($74,926) 93; Howard $56,368 ($416,689) 83; Martin $1,956 ($33,706) 112; Mitchell $15,391 ($77,340) 51; Nolan $115,007 ($118,884) 44; Scurry $29,363 ($106,057) 71. Texas sales are 72 per cent of the annual goal.

The afternoon board conference was called to deal with the student walk-out which began last Friday and has seen approximately 400 students remain out of classes after approximately 250 walked out Friday and the school was closed at 2 p.m.

The board also decided to investigate the possibility of playing the Ector Homecoming game Saturday in the afternoon.

A total of 125 students remained out of classes Wednesday.

GREAT LIFE FOR PENGUIN

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Many zoo-bound penguins may dream of having such a summer.

But few dreams could match the summer a William Land Park Zoo penguin had this year — lounging around Folsom Lake and eating all the fish he could swallow.

Frank O'Connell, a zoo employe, said someone lifted the 18-inch penguin from the zoo weeks ago and left him off at Folsom Lake, a recreation area about 70 miles northeast of here.

"He had a fantastic time here," said Terry Alton, a state park official, after zoo employes caught the penguin and took him back to captivity. "He had one million acres of water all to himself and all the fish he could possibly eat."

Lyne Closer To Plateau

DENVER, Colo. — Reigning world champion all-around cowboy Phil Lyne moved closer to the $50,000 mark in winnings over the weekend, the Rodeo Cowboys Association said.

Lyne, of George West, Tex., finished first in calf roping at the Ak-Sar-Ben rodeo in Omaha, Neb., winning $1,372, and was second in bull riding at the state fair rodeo in Oklahoma City for $988. His winnings total $49,843. Lyne may be the second cowboy in history to win more than $50,000 in a single year. Larry Mahan, who reigned as world champion all-around cowboy from 1966 through 1970, topped the mark in 1967 and 1968. Mahan set a winnings record for a single year in 1969 when he won $57,726. Lyne has a chance to beat the record if he continues winning at the present rate, the association said.

Leaders in the various events are: All-Around — Lyne $49,843, and Mahan $30,639; saddle bronc riding — Mel Hyland, Surrey B. C., $24,104, and J. C. Bonine, Hysham, Mont., $21,342; bareback bronc riding — Joe Alexander, Cora Whore, $28,823, and Rusty Riddle, Mineral Wells, $21,016; bull riding — John Quintana, Eugene, Ore., $21,066, and Mahan $16,353; calf roping — Lyne $2,973, and Barry Burk, Duncan, Okla., $23,732; steer wrestling — Roy Duvall Warner, Okla., $21,457, and Tom Elliott, Peyton, Colo., $18,359; GRA barrel racing — Jeana Day, Woodward, Okla., $11,777, and Gail Patska, Norman, Okla., $11,703; and Terry Himes, Big Spring, Tex., and Beulah, Colo., eighth with $4,950.

DRIVING IS LIKE PLAYING RUSSIAN ROULETTE Million Texas Autos Uninsured

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Driving a car in Texas is like playing Russian roulette with your family's standard of living.

In some counties, three of the pistol's six chambers are loaded.

The risky situation results from this fact: About a million Texas autos—one in five—are not covered by liability insurance.

Severe accidents caused by drivers of some of these cars have inflicted injuries requiring thousands of dollars in hospital care—and nobody able to pay.

CRIPPLED
"There is just no end of pathetic situations," says T. G. "Cap" Ferguson, a Texas Department of Public Safety officer who manages the DPS' Safety Responsibility Bureau.

Ferguson is in charge of enforcing a state law that—in essence—provides a way to make drivers pay for the injuries and property damage they cause.

Ferguson's ability to make that law work, however, was crippled last year by a U.S. Supreme Court decision.

Statewide, 79.5 per cent of all private passenger cars in Texas are covered by liability insurance, according to the State Insurance Board. The board's statistics show the odds are about one in four that if you collide with an auto in Dallas, San Antonio, Houston, Lubbock or Midland-Odessa, the other driver won't have a liability policy.

COVERAGE CHEAP
In Webb County (Laredo), almost two-thirds of the cars are not insured, and 48 per cent of the autos in El Paso County and the Lower Rio Grande Valley are uninsured.

Legislators have wrestled with the problem, but have come up with nothing more drastic than a requirement that auto policyholders must be offerred uninsured motorists coverage.

Uninsured motorists coverage is cheap—about $6 a year. But it doesn't solve the problem. You can't collect unless you were 100 per cent free of blame for the accident. Your insurance company can go to court and try to prove you were at least partly at fault so it can deny your claim. And finally, uninsured motorists coverage pays only for injuries, not for the cost of repairing damaged autos.

It's particularly hard on an injured motorist if the other driver is so poor that he is "judgment proof"—meaning he is unable to pay even if a court orders him to.

HOPELESS CASE
"There is one case I recall," Ferguson said. "The accident happened between San Antonio and the Valley. Several people were hit head-on by a carload of migrant workers. They were injured very severely, and there was one death. It was a very tragic situation. There was no way in the world to collect—a total loss. One of the injured had a head injury, and I would imagine his hospital bills were in the thousands of dollars."

They (the Volkswagen passengers) may have been indigent themselves. It was a hopeless case.

Even what seems like a small loss—say, $300—may be ruinous to those who barely eke out a living.

MUST PROVE
"It's tragic to see where a poor person runs into another poor person. They have no insurance and can't afford a lawyer. They just don't have the ability to recover losses," Ferguson said.

The Texas Safety Responsibility Act requires persons involved in accidents in which there is injury or property damage of $100 to report to the DPS whether they have liability insurance. One must prove he is able, either through insurance or through other liquid assets, to pay $10,000 per person for injuries, up to $20,000 in any one accident, plus $5,000 for property damage. The DPS also can require posting of security to pay accident costs. Failure to prove financial responsibility or to post security subjects a driver to suspension of both his driver's license and his auto license plates. The DPS also can suspend licenses and plates if the person at fault in an accident fails to pay what a court orders him to.

HEARING
But the U.S. Supreme Court ruled last year it is unconstitutional to suspend one's driver's license or auto registration under a safety responsibility law without a hearing on whether one actually caused an accident.

A 1953 Texas Supreme Court decision, however, said the DPS could not make such a finding. Ferguson hopes the 1973 Legislature will amend the Safety Responsibility Act to permit DPS determinations of fault.

Until then, however, the DPS can continue suspending licenses only in a limited number of cases, such as those in which motorists have failed to obey court orders to pay accident victims.

DO NOTHING
Ferguson said the U.S. Supreme Court ruling has made it hard for injured Texans to collect anything from uninsured drivers because they no longer have the DPS' license suspension power for leverage.

"They (the at-fault drivers) know about the decision and say 'the heck with you.' They talk to a lawyer, and he says, 'They can't do anything to you,'" Ferguson said.

He gets dozens of letters each day like this one from Longview: "Please inform me as to the steps I can take to get compensation from a driver who demolished my vehicle in a wreck in which my son was hospitalized with a concussion. It is my understanding that he was not carrying insurance.

"We just write them back," Ferguson said, "and say we can't do anything until the legislature amends the Safety Responsibility Act to allow us to determine fault."

Ferguson said the court decision also prompted numerous drivers to cancel their insurance—"I guarantee you they have dropped their insurance right and left."

SOLUTION?
And he quarrels with the insurance board's estimate that 79.5 per cent of all Texas autos are insured. "I bet it's not over 70 per cent and it's dropping all the time."

What's the solution? A legislative committee last year recommended the so-called "Virginia plan," in which one would pay $60 extra for his license plates if he did not have insurance. In effect, the money would be used to provide uninsured motorists coverage for other drivers.

But that proposal received no action. And it had defects—some drivers would cancel their insurance after obtaining plate, avoiding both premiums and the $60 charge.

The committee said by implication that insurance is too expensive for low-income Texans, particularly since few would be allowed to pay their premiums on the installment plan.

"For many drivers, lack of payment schedules is an effective denial of insurance," the panel said.

House Overrides Veto Of Rail-Pension Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — With quick and decisive votes, Congress has overridden President Nixon's veto and granted 900,000 retired railroad workers a temporary 20-per-cent increase in pension payments.

Nixon vetoed the bill at noon Wednesday; by midafternoon, the House had voted 353 to 29 to override the veto, and a few hours later, the Senate voted 78 to 5 to override.

In both cases, the margin was far larger than the two-thirds majority required to upset the veto. The action means that the bill has become law.

The President said in his veto message that the pension hike would hasten the bankruptcy of the railroad retirement system. He protested that the bill provided no way to raise the extra funds for the higher payments.

Congress passed the bill last month in order to extend to retired railroad workers the same 20-per-cent increase voted earlier for Social Security recipients. Railroad workers are covered by a pension system separate from the Social Security system.

Nixon had reluctantly signed the Social Security increase after protesting that he thought it too high. It was attached to a debt-limit bill he needed in order to continue government operations.

During the Senate debate, some senators agreed with Nixon that the railroad fund is in shaky financial shape and said

Congress next year must find some way to make it solvent.

WANTS TO BUY COLOSSEUM

ROME (AP) — A Californian wants to buy the Colosseum for a million dollars. Rome is holding out for a billion — at least.

A real estate agent, Miss Fausta Vitali, is here from Laguna Beach, Calif., with a contract signed by Thomas Merrick and a check for $10,000 as a down payment on the most majestic monument of imperial Rome.

Merrick offered to put up another million for repairs and restoration, then charge visitors an admission fee and split the take 50-50 with Rome's city administration, which is heavily in debt.

"This man's proposal cannot possibly be taken into consideration," the superintendent of antiquities Gianfilippo Carettoni, protested indignantly. "No fee will ever be charged for admission."

Then he added that anyway it might be several years before the jagged ruin could be made safe for visitors. It was closed as a precautionary measure a week ago.

Another official asserted, "The Colosseum should be worth a billion dollars."

Cheese? Sour Cream, Too? The Linbergs Will Love It!

By BARBARA LORD

If a recipe calls for cheese or sour cream, chances are the Jack Linbergs will like it. If it calls for both, that's even better, and if it calls for neither, Mrs. Linberg (Peggy) will probably add it anyway.

That's the kind of cook Mrs. Linberg is. She adds, subtracts and substitutes until a recipe suits her palate. If she likes it, her family will like it. Their tastes are remarkably simple; they like anything.

L. Linberg is Chief of Administration at Webb AFB. The couple has one son, Davy, aged 1½, who has been reared on a diet as varied as any child could wish. He eats everything his parents eat and is used to the spiciness of Mexican or Italian foods as well as traditional American dishes.

"I can't remember when I haven't sewed and cooked," said Mrs. Linberg. "Cooking has just been part of life forever. I love it, but I hate cleaning up afterwards." She has been cooking for a long time in a lot of different places.

As the daughter of an Army colonel, Mrs. Linberg has lived in many sections of this country and world, and her cuisines reflect a cosmopolitan upbringing.

"I'm not sure what 'gourmet cook' means," said Mrs. Linberg. "I've never considered myself a gourmet cook, but I do fix a lot of things that aren't common. They just happen to be things we enjoy."

The freezer is an essential household item for Mrs. Linberg. When she's in the mood to cook, she isn't content to make one evening's meal, but more likely will make double batches of several recipes and freeze most of it for future use. She is a woman of many interests, and her days are apt to be filled with several activities. By utilizing the freezer, there is seldom an evening when the Linbergs don't sit down to a hot, home-made meal.

LIKES SPORTS

"I don't think I'd enjoy cooking as much if it interfered with my sports or other activities," said Mrs. Linberg. "When I have a freezer full of already prepared foods, I can relax more at other events. There are so many foods now that can be made ahead and frozen, and still taste the same weeks later."

Mrs. Linberg enjoys entertaining, and Mexican food is a favorite cuisine for guests. "But it's such a horrible mess to prepare," she said. "You have to dirty every pot and pan in the house. I've found that most of it can be made ahead of time, and that way, it doesn't look like a tornado went through my kitchen by the time guests arrive."

The Linbergs have guests for dinner three or four times a month; sometimes for informal dinner parties, and sometimes, just for drinks and games. As with her everyday meals, Mrs. Linberg seldom gets fancy in her refreshments, but guests can always depend on something good. When she's home, Mrs. Linberg is often found at the sewing machine where she creates clothes for herself as well as her husband. She remembers not long ago when patterns for men's clothes were impossible to find, and is glad they are finally coming on the market.

Aside from cooking a n d sewing, Mrs. Linberg would prefer to be involved in some outdoor activity, and her abilities in most sports seems to come naturally. She bowls, snow skis and plays golf, tennis and softball. During summer months she taught swimming at the base and served as president of the Women's Softball League. She could spend weeks at a time camping and backpacking, and never tire of the exercise.

"Jack and I are both ready to learn any new sport that anybody can teach us," said Mrs. Linberg. She recently added paddle ball and water skiing to her interests. L. Linberg is involved in most intramurals at the base.

CERAMICS

When she finds a free minute at home, Mrs. Linberg also enjoys ceramic work and crocheting. Several ceramic pieces accent the home at 1908 Morrison, and her crocheting prowess is providing purses for several Christmas gifts. Other activities include Officers Wives Club, for which she serves as second vice president and assistant treasurer; a n d OWC bowling league, which she serves as treasurer.

Mrs. Linberg was born in Japan and "reared around the world." She attended two years at Radford Women's School, Radford, Va., where she started in home economics a n d switched to psychology and sociology. Plans for the future include completion of her degree work. L. Linberg received his bachelor's and master's degrees from Virginia Polytechnic Institute in Blacksburg, Va.

Fruits Are Fast, Easy Dessert

Need an instant dessert? Keep canned peaches or canned fruit cocktail on hand. Both will keep indefinitely if stored unopened in a cool, dry place. Once opened, however, they should be kept covered and refrigerated.

One of the nice things about these canned fruits is that they are ready to serve. You can use a little imagination, though, to vary the servings.

Canned cling peach halves are delicious when served hot. They can be heated in a saucepan in their own syrup. They can also be added to an oven meal in the last 15 minutes of baking time. Or they can go under the broiler for 5 minutes.

Sliced peaches are easy to use with other fruits in compotes and salads. Bake them in a pie, serve them a la mode, or add them to coleslaw or tossed salad greens.

The kids will love canned fruit cocktail served in parfait-styled desserts. Alternate layers of fruit cocktail and yogurt in a tall glass. Instead of the yogurt, you can substitute vanilla pudding or softened ice cream, tapioca or even a whipped topping — whatever suits the taste.

CREAMY FRUIT SALAD MOLD

1 pkg. peach-flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 cup plain yogurt
1 cup canned peach chunks
½ cup peach syrup
Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Stir in syrup drained from canned peaches. Slowly blend into yogurt. Chill mixture until slightly thickened. Fold in canned peach chunks. Pour mixture into a fancy-shaped three-cup mold. Chill until firm.

PEACH CRUNCH

1 No. 2½ can sliced cling peaches
½ cup butter
½ cup graham cracker crumbs
½ cup brown sugar
1 cup pecan meats, broken
½ tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. nutmeg

HEROES IN THE ROUND IS A MEAL IN ONE SANDWICH Layered with thuringer, chicken roll, Swiss cheese, plus more

Youth Rate Sandwiches As All-Time Favorites

By OPAL CRANDALL
Capeley News Service

The food tastes of most young people are simple and uncomplicated. They look with just as much favor on sandwiches as they do foods in the gourmet category. Their primary requirement is plenty.

A sandwich assembling party is an easy way to feed young people. The ingredients for sandwiches can be partially prepared and placed together on a table. Popular choices are heroes and sloppy joes. And don't forget the dessert, for most young people have sweet tooth.

The sandwich and dessert recipes featured today are substantial enough to appeal to appetites of both the young and the young at heart.

HEROES IN THE ROUND (Makes 2 large heroes, about 12 servings)

4 cups well-drained sauerkraut
1 bottle (1-oz.) creamy Russian dressing
¼ cup chopped parsley
1 medium cucumber, pared and thinly sliced (1 cup)
Salt and pepper
1 round loaf of Italian bread, 7 to 8 inches in diameter

Butter or margarine, softened

Letuce
¾ lb. sliced thuringer
4 rectangular slices Swiss cheese, halved
½ lb. sliced chicken roll
1 jar (4 oz.) pimiento, drained and split

Sweet gherkins

Toss and chill: kraut, dressing and parsley. Season cucumber with salt and pepper.

Cut bread horizontally into 6 slices. Lightly butter each slice. For each hero, use 3 slices bread and assemble simultaneously on 2 separate plates. Layer first with letuce, ¼ of the kraut mixture, ¼ of the thuringer and cheese. Add second slice of bread and layers of letuce, remaining kraut mixture, chicken roll, cucumber and pimiento. Top with third slice. Wrap and chill heroes 2 to 3 hours before serving. Cut into wedges. Serve with gherkins.

No Soggy Crust With Some Flour

To prevent berry juice from soaking through the bottom crust of your berry pies; causing them to become soggy; sprinkle the bottom crust lightly with flour before adding the filling.

"Living happily and successfully in the world today may take from our youth the enjoyment of yesterday," said Mrs. Fay Newman, speaking to Texas Delta Delta Chapter, Phi Sigma Alpha, Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Johnny Winham, 608 Runnels.

In her program, "The Forgotten Arts," Mrs. Newman said modern conveniences such as radio and television have caused people to forget the "gentle powers" of beauty, time, the past, pity and laughter.

"In these changing times there are many things people no longer do that used to be a natural part of life," said Mrs. Newman.

Mrs. Barnett discussed highlights of the recent convention of the Association of Desk and Derrick Clubs of North America which she attended in Tulsa, Okla.

If Husband's A Candidate Do Try To Be A Lady

By JANET STATHAR Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Republican Congressional Committee has some advice for candidates' wives: Watch your cigarettes, lay off the gum and never look bored.

And bow your head during the entire invocation. Those tidbits of political etiquette appear in the recently published "Wives' Manual," a 10-page booklet which tells spouses of GOP candidates the do's and don'ts, of ladylike behavior on the campaign trail.

"Considerate women never let smoke waft in another's face; they never leave butts burning in ashtrays," advises the manual. "Discriminate women never smoke on the street or when dancing; they never let a cigarette dangle from the lips or exhale through the nose."

Such admonishment ruffles the Capitol Hill chapter of the Women's Political Cause which takes on the Wives' Manual in this month's newsletter, "Equal Times."

"The role of the candidate's wife is clear," said "Equal Times" in an editorial. "She is totally submerged in her husband's identity."

Featured, on the cover of the Wives' Manual is a beribboned girl elephant wearing a smile, red lipstick and a pants suit.

The booklet was written by Mary Ellen Miller, special assistant to Congressional Committee Chairman Rep. Bob Wilson of California. She was aided by several wives of Congressmen.

To women whose husbands are running for the House of Representatives the manual suggests: —Never talk loud, or argue about your husband or his political positions with anyone. Steer clear of controversial statements.

—Applaud as though you mean it. —When your husband is speaking, watch him proudly. Never appear bored, even if you have heard the same speech repeatedly. —When sitting on a stage, or at the head table, either cross your ankles or keep your knees together. —A steely hand shake is unladylike. —Never let your picture be taken while holding a cocktail glass or a cigarette. —It is safer not to drink liquor. But each candidate knows his own district, and probably what the reaction might be.

—Melody Makers" from Jack and Jill Kindergarten, a group of singers who performed a medley of songs.

Guests at the workshop included several of the organization's department officers and delegates. They attended from Corpus Christi, San Antonio, Waco, Dallas, Henderson, Amarillo, El Paso and Austin.

American Gold Star Mothers, Inc. was chartered in 1929 with a membership of 65. Today there are more than 700 chapters throughout the country. Membership is composed of women whose sons or daughters died in the line of duty while serving in the Armed Forces of the United States.

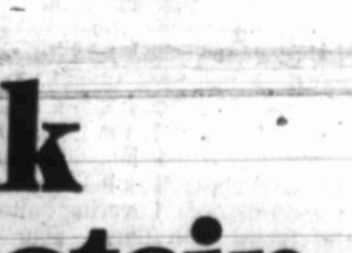

Nationally, the club promotes service and fellowship. Chapters assist at patriotic functions, offer aid to veterans and their dependents whenever possible, and help men and women who were wounded or incapacitated during military service. Their goal is to perpetuate the memory of all whose lives were lost.

ALL WALKS OF LIFE No. 1 Drug Problem? "Alcohol," Says Expert

"Alcoholism is our number one drug problem," said Shelby Parnell, speaking Wednesday to members of the 1953 Hyperion Club during a luncheon at Big Spring Country Club.

Parnell, who is Alcoholic Counselor at Big Spring State Hospital, said that addiction to alcohol or other drugs is usually caused by tension, stress or anxiety, and it takes empathy and understanding on the part of friends and family to help a person recover from this type of drug abuse.

"Alcoholism is no respecter of station or status," stressed Parnell. "There is no stereotype that becomes an alcoholic." An added danger to alcoholics, according to the speaker, is that some of them also are addicted to reducing pills, sedatives or tranquilizers. When these are consumed in combination with alcohol, it can cause a "very bad reaction, possibly death."

Parnell, who was introduced by Mrs. John Taylor, concluded his talk by explaining the counseling and services available at Big Spring Hospital for alcohol addicts as well as users of other types of drugs.

Mrs. John Taylor and Mrs. James H. Taylor were welcomed as new members of the club. Mrs. George McAlister Jr. and Mrs. Ralph McLaughlin will be hostesses for the next meeting. At that time, a guest speaker will discuss "Women in the Military."

Few Showers Along Coast

Occasional showers cranked up along the coast today and patches of fog cloaked parts of South and East Texas in early morning.

Clear skies over the rest of the state were expected to give way to occasional clouds and occasional showers by evening, and a new cool front approaching far West Texas promised a little cooling there.

Fog hung low around such places as Houston, Lufkin, College Station, Beaumont, Port Arthur, Victoria, Corpus Christi, Alice, Cotulla and Laredo.

Most of the forenoon showers fell from around Freeport to Corpus Christi and eastward over the Gulf of Mexico.

Temperatures near dawn ranged from 54 degrees at Midland and 55 at Lubbock up to 73 at Corpus Christi and 75 at Galveston. Top marks Wednesday afternoon went as high as 91 at Wichita Falls, 92 at Alice and 93 at McAllen.

Overnight lows down to 46 were expected in the Texas Panhandle while milder weather lingered in other sections.

Church's Friday Program Moved To 6:45 P.M.

Dr. Ralph Langley's evangelistic programs, which extend over Sunday night, got off to a rousing start at the Baptist Temple here Wednesday night.

Dr. Langley will give a visual sermon in his 7:30 p.m. service this evening, using as a theme "Christ Is My Pilot."

The church's Friday evening service will start early enough (6:45 p.m.) so that those attending can see the Big Spring-Ablene High football game. A sports buff himself, Dr. Langley will be on hand for the contest.

Dr. Langley spoke to members of the Big Spring High School Bible Class this morning. He is also speaking during luncheon meetings at the church.

The evangelist is pastor of the Willow Meadows Baptist Church in Houston, one of the city's largest. It is located near that city's Astrodome.

CHINA OPENS UP On The Trail Of 'Hong Kong Flu'

By ARTHUR C. MILLER
Copley News Service

HONG KONG — A few winters ago when a deadly virus influenza called Hong Kong flu swept around the world causing hundreds of deaths and millions of runny noses, one of the most perplexing questions facing world health authorities was how such a virulent strain of virus had developed and where it had come from.

Although this British colony received the dubious distinction of having the virus named after it, medical researchers eventually came to the conclusion that the new virus had in fact originated in China.

ISOLATION
But because China was then in one of its periods of self-imposed isolation, and because China had not yet joined such international bodies as the World Health Organization (WHO) which coordinate international medical activities, there was no easy way to trace and study the Hong Kong flu bug.

Now, as the season of high temperatures and stuffy heads has arrived again, all that is changing.

For the first time, China is actively encouraging outside medical and health authorities to join in cooperative efforts with Chinese doctors to pinpoint and study some of that country's more interesting health questions.

Not the least of those is the issue of whether or not there are special circumstances or conditions in China which could cause new and lethal viruses like the Hong Kong flu bug to develop.

DANGER LINGERS
The question is more than academic. An outbreak of a mild influenza has been felt in Hong Kong for several weeks now. Whether it is some new variant is not yet known, and because it has been so mild there probably will not be much effort made to identify it.

But the danger is still there that next time it will be another strong virus like that now known as Hong Kong flu.

The problem is not only of finding cures or ways to combat the new virus strains.

Considerable effort has been made to find ways of lessening the impact of Hong Kong flu-type influenza epidemics. Medicines are now available should another epidemic of the same virus threaten.

The bigger problem is that of knowing when and why the viruses change or mutate into new forms.

"Every two or three years," says Dr. W. K. Chang, a virologist at Hong Kong's Queen Mary Hospital, "a virus will emerge as something slightly different from the previous virus. But it is impossible to predict when or where the outbreak will occur or how the virus will change.

GREAT SURPRISE
"Because of this characteristic metamorphosis among viruses it came as a great surprise when it was found that the Hong Kong flu virus was so very different."

What would help, virologists agree, would be a chance to study viruses at the point where important new strains emerge — and for Asian viruses that means China.

Although only preliminary research has been undertaken so far, it already is clear to medical authorities that past cases of new viruses that have had a worldwide impact have broken out initially in southern China.

It also is increasingly clear that some of those more virulent viruses come from diseases which originally affected animals and birds.

OUTLINE OF PROBLEM
"We have the outline of the problem," says one virologist working on China-originated viruses, "and now we hope we're going to get the detail."

Part of that detail could well be supplied by two Australian doctors who have been invited by the China Medical Association to assist Chinese doctors in investigating areas of South China where new viruses are believed to develop.

One of the most important questions the visiting Australian doctors will be attempting to answer is whether or not there is anything unique in the life-style of the Chinese or the life pattern of the animals in the areas where new influenza viruses tend to appear.

LOFTY QUESTION
Even if that lofty question cannot be answered, this initial cooperation between the Chinese and outside medical authorities is bound to have many positive results.

For one thing, the visiting Australian doctors will be given an opportunity to learn just what China's own virologists have been doing and what they have learned. The visitors also are being given an opportunity to study firsthand what other and possibly unique viruses exist in China.

MOST IMPORTANT
Finally, and perhaps most important, China's decision to seek international cooperation in studying the virus problem probably means Peking is going to become an active participant in WHO and other international medical and health organizations.

And that means that if another Hong Kong flu epidemic that has its origins in China should emerge, world medical authorities will be able to move much faster in tracing the source and nature of the influenza.

China Rips Strategic Arms Pact

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — China's first policy speech in the U.N. General Assembly hit the Soviet Union, the United States and their newly ratified strategic arms limitation agreements, but it was harder on the Russians than the Americans.

Chinese Deputy Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua told the 132-nation assembly Tuesday that the pacts were not "a step towards nuclear disarmament" but "the beginning of a new state in the Soviet-U.S. nuclear arms race" because they neither limited the quality nor required the destruction of such arms.

He spoke the same day President Nixon and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, in Washington formalities, brought into force two pacts signed in Moscow May 26 — a treaty limiting each country to 500 defensive missiles and an executive agreement putting a five-year freeze on offensive missile stocks.

Chiao's 65-minute speech in the assembly's general debate was the first since the Chinese Communists replaced the Chinese Nationalists in the United Nations last year.

He alleged there was "Soviet-U.S. collaboration for world domination" and said that for the United Nations to regain its prestige, it must "free itself from the manipulation and control by the big powers."

Two of his positions struck observers as new. He came out for review and possible revision of the U.N. charter, opposed by the other major powers but favored by many smaller countries, and he called for "a Mediterranean of the Mediterranean countries," free of the foreign fleets of "the two superpowers."

He endorsed the Sept. 11 Viet Cong proposal for a three-part transitional government in South Vietnam, saying "it shows that the Vietnamese side has no intention to impose a Communist regime" there.

He also accused the United States of "openly supporting aggression by Israeli Zionism" in the Middle East. But he blamed both superpowers for the situation of "no war, no peace" there and, in an obvious reference to Egypt's ouster of Soviet advisers in July, declared that the Arabs had "taken determined action to shake off superpower domination."

Chiao also blistered four past Soviet disarmament projects. "War is inevitable so long as society is divided into classes and the exploitation of man still exists," Chiao said.

Rap Repairman Of Odometers

HOUSTON (AP) — A grand jury here investigating the rolling back of car odometers indicted a speedometer repairman for perjury.

O.B. Johnson, who testified before the jury Sept. 20, was charged in the two count indictment with lying when he said he never gave invoices showing other work done when he rolled back the odometers and that he had not rolled back odometers on any cars sold as new.

The indictment alleges that Johnson rolled back the odometers of two new cars used as demonstrators belonging to Jimmie Green Chevrolet on Sept. 18 and 19 and issued phony invoices showing other work

KATHERINE BERRY SAYS...

FURR'S HOME ECONOMIST

As a modern homemaker, you are concerned with providing your family the most nutritious meals possible at the lowest cost. Your concern is not new...it has faced mankind for a long time. Essential foods needed for proper nutrition are often overlooked in today's rushed society.

There are seven (7) basic foods that will insure your family of getting the nutrition they need. Included in the basic seven are green and yellow vegetables, citrus fruits, tomatoes, potatoes, fruit, milk, cheese products, cereals or breads, fish, eggs, poultry and meat. A balanced diet including some foods from the above listed items are necessary to produce energy and other healthy body needs. Proteins compose the main building materials of the body. Protein intake is the regulator of child growth, energy and health. Be sure your child receives a generous amount of this body building element. One of the most important "complete proteins" is meat. The average family spends one-third of their food dollar on meats. When buying beef look for the PROTEIN label. You always get taste and tenderness when you buy PROTEIN beef. Seventy-eight percent of all PROTEIN beef cuts can be dry heat cooked, compared to only twenty-two percent of other beef. Even round steak can be broiled or oven roasted. As a homemaker this means you will have a larger variety of beef cuts to plan meals around. You also will save cooking time because PROTEIN beef cooks in less time and PROTEIN beef will be done to your liking. You do not have to cook PROTEIN beef longer to get tenderness, as you did in the past with other beef.

HOUSTON (AP) — Testimony continues today in state court where Arthur N. Hill, a former Houston policeman, seeks reinstatement on the force.

Hill and another officer, Jack McMahon, were suspended after being charged with beating a prisoner to death and injuring another in a 1970 incident at the Galena Park police station.

Hill and McMahon were acquitted of murder charges in state court. A federal court later cleared them of violating the civil rights of Conner and his companion, Larry Taylor.

William P. Cannon, Hill's lawyer, referred often to transcripts of witnesses' previous testimony Wednesday in efforts to show inconsistencies.

Turn Off Unused Lights, Says Oil Firm Expert

HOUSTON (AP) — An energy authority says such everyday things as "turning off unnecessary or unused lights can help the present energy situation."

Dr. Robert J. Howe also suggested the possibility of "maintaining our homes somewhat cooler in the winter and warmer in the summer."

Howe, coordinator of energy policy development for the Humble Oil & Refining Co., urged "application of more advanced technology and the elimination of waste of energy."

Howe, addressing the 66th annual convention of the American Land Title Association said Wednesday that because of trends caused by "environmental and economic pressures" for the next five to 10 years some Americans are going to be limited in the types of fuels they can use.

"For example," he said, "certain consumers who may prefer to use natural gas will be obligated to use other fuels to meet their needs in the future."

And he said during this period, "we will become increasingly dependent upon imported foreign oil and gas."

"We must accelerate the development of oil, gas, coal and nuclear power to meet the needs of the next decade," he said.

He said the country must complete the development of technology for synthetic fuels production and nuclear breeder reactors.

Also, he said, "We must press our research efforts for a new, non-mineral energy sources, such as nuclear fusion and solar power for the 21st century."

"If these goals are achieved, the United States and the rest of the world can look forward to continuing progress through the effective use of energy," he said.

Among the acres that need attention immediately, he said, are increased incentives to increase oil and gas production.

Howe said environmental problems which are delaying the development of vital energy resources must be resolved in a reasoned, balanced approach.

He said this country must not become too dependent on fuel imports.

Tower Defending His Voting Record

HOUSTON (AP) — Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., seeking re-election, says his Democratic opponent, Barefoot Sanders, is "conducting a totally negative campaign."

"He offers nothing constructive, no positive programs, and he refuses to discuss the crucial issues that face our state and nation," Tower said at a news conference Wednesday.

Defending himself against Sanders' attacks on Tower's attendance record in the Senate, he said, "My voting record in recent years is far above that of George McGovern, whom my opponent supports for president."

Tower said Sanders missed 266 record votes in 224 legislative days during a four-year period when he was a state representative from Dallas.

"My opponent has criticized me for accepting honorariums for speaking engagements," the senator said. "I find this somewhat curious considering the fact that during the last four years, Sen. McGovern has collected more than twice what I have in honorariums and my opponent thinks he should be president of the United States."

"The big issue is who can effectively represent Texas in the U.S. Senate. A ranking minority leader has more influence than a freshman majority leader. I'm a Nixon lieutenant and have access to the White House. There is no question but that I can be more effective."

Tower said it was unusual for him to respond to an opponent's charges.

"I will ignore him for the most part unless his distortions get so flagrant I have to set the record straight again," Tower said.

Venue Change For Accused

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — One of the four persons charged with the so-called Jacksboro stock-tank slayings had her trial for the murders moved out of Wichita Falls Wednesday.

Doris Brown of Lake Worth accused in Jack County in the deaths of Edith Shores, 42, and DeAnn Cloninger, 37, was scheduled to go on trial here Oct. 16 in Judge Stanley Kirk's 78th Dist. Court.

But Kirk granted a defense motion Wednesday for a change of venue during a pretrial hearing on grounds of excessive publicity in the recent trial of Leroy Lafoon.

Lafoon, a Fort Worth resident, was convicted of murder last month in the death of Mrs. Shores and given a life sentence.

Charged with Lafoon, and Mrs. Brown are Charlotte Hamilton Lafoon and Ralph Brown, both of the Fort Worth area.

F111s GET CLEAN BILL OF HEALTH Fly Only A Few Missions

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. most of the nearly 50 swing Command gave its con- wing planes have arrived at the Takhli air base in Thailand. The command reported that a clean bill of health today after six days of tests and sent the F111s attacked an air de- fense center one mile south of Dien Bien Phu and a railroad between Hanoi and China. The command acknowledged several F111 strikes had been scheduled for Tuesday night and Wednesday morning, but were canceled because of severe weather associated with Typhoon Lorna.

The F111s are billed as "all-weather" fighter-bombers and the same day their raids were supposedly canceled, other fighter-bombers without all-weather capabilities, such as F4 Phantoms, logged 120 strikes over North Vietnam, according to the Command's communique.

When asked for an explanation, a spokesman said, "The weather conditions where the F111s would have flown were more severe than in the area where the other aircraft were able to fly."

The F111 has been enveloped in controversy ever since it first entered combat in March 1968. The first six F111s that arrived in the war zone then were grounded several times because of flaws. They flew only 55 missions before they were returned to the United States that same year after two mysteriously vanished and a third crashed from mechanical causes.

The Command reported that Air Force, Navy and Marine fighter-bombers of all types flew more than 150 strikes across North Vietnam Wednesday, about half the average daily number because of bad weather.

More U.S. B52 bombing raids were carried out in the Saigon region. The eight-jet stratofor- tresses launched 30 strikes to the north, east and south of Saigon, hitting at enemy staging areas and war stockpiles in a new campaign to foil Communist plans for an offensive in the region.

Action across South Vietnam was light and scattered. The Saigon command reported 80 enemy attacks, 63 of them by rockets, mortars and heat-seeking missiles, during the 24-hour period ending at daybreak today.

SOUTH PLAINS WINNER — In the barrow division of the South Plains Fair in Lubbock last week, the winner was a hog shown by Guy James of the Coahoma 4-H Club. He is shown with the grand champion banner and trophy that he won at the event. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ovis James.

Survival Depends On Pool Philosophy

HOUSTON (AP) — A shipping company executive says water transportation can provide needed service to industry and that present barriers to development can be eliminated.

John R. Pyron, vice president of Sea Land Services, Inc., addressed the 46th annual Propeller Club convention and American Merchant Marine Conference Wednesday.

He said survival of the United States shipping industry depends on its ability to pool manpower, resources and capital to make known problems and solutions to the public and government.

"Carriers in other modes of transportation who have united to produce and expand their cause will continue to receive preferential treatment over the water carriers unless something is done to change the trend," Pyron said.

He said the old adage "out of sight — out of mind is critically true for the water industry," adding:

"If we don't make known our problems and recommend solutions, and if we don't make known our benefits and potential benefits to shippers, then we are not going to survive."

"As water carriers we have one distinct disadvantage. No matter where you live or work in the United States, you always see trucks, trains and airplanes so everyone is aware of their presence and importance."

"But in the water industry, few people realize that domestic transportation also is handled via water."

"The first thing we need to do is for all of us to develop a positive attitude that water transportation can provide needed service to industry and that present barriers to development can be eliminated."

Dr. Paul H. Reinker, vice president of Babcock & Wilcox, Nuclear Power Generation Division, told delegates it is time for the United States to capitalize on nuclear-powered vessels to support the rebuilding of the merchant fleet.

"There is no question that the ultimate answer to many of these problems affecting merchant shipping is the eventual widespread use of nuclear ships," he said.

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., told delegates that "because of poor planning by the federal government, the United States has recently become an energy deficient nation."

"The result of this situation is that as our energy requirements increase over the next few years... this increasing deficit will be largely made up by importing petroleum from abroad—specifically from the Middle East," Tower said.

Caylor Art Show Answer To Collectors' Prayer

When Navy Capt. and Mrs. Howard N. Duff were taking in the Texas Centennial in 1936, they visited Fort Worth where a Will Rogers-room had been set up for the occasion.

DESERTED HOMESTEAD — The loneliness and pathos of a deserted homestead on the harsh West Texas frontier is one of the paintings which are now on display at H. W. Caylor exhibit at Heritage Museum.

In it were four paintings by H. W. Caylor, who captured on canvases the West Texas frontier around the turn of the century. He was impressed and somewhat surprised to learn that when she was growing up here (as Pauline Melton) she lived across the street from the Caylor's. Three years later, their phone rang and it was her sister, Mrs. Frances Boyle, asking if the Duffs wanted to buy a Caylor.

"Who's Caylor," he asked "He's the artist you were so wild about at Fort Worth."

So the Duffs snapped it up, and when a short time later, it was revealed Mrs. Caylor was selling the remaining works of her husband, the Duffs bought the last three.

His enthusiasm for Caylor paintings might have remained a private indulgence had he not visited a major collection of Fredric Remington and Charlie Russell paintings in Tulsa, Okla.

"Why, we've got better stuff at home," he told his wife.

Convinced that Caylor works ought to be better recognized and preserved for posterity, he persuaded institutions to lithograph Caylor's work. This idea collapsed and he and Mrs. Duff agreed that if color reproductions were to be made they would have to do it.

REPRODUCTION As a starter, he had their "Passing of the Old West," a picture of a cowboy coming upon a barbed wire fence on what had been open range, recreated in actual size. With nearly a thousand dollars tied up in a stack of prints, he was ready to set about marketing them when suddenly he was recalled to active duty with the Navy. And so for years, they lay dormant in the Duff basement — but not his interest in Caylor paintings.

In 1962 he sat about trying to catalogue Caylor's. He was able to locate a number here several in the Reynolds collection at Fort Worth, and some in the Slaughter family at Dallas. Those supposed to have been in the George West family eluded him until an Air Force friend visited in the Duff home.

CATALOGUES PAINTINGS "Where did you get the Caylor's?" the friend wanted to know.

"How did you know they were Caylor's?" Duff shot back.

"Well, I married a West, and they have a lot of them," his visitor replied. Thus, Duff was able to pin down paintings from Fort Worth to Kent to San Antonio and Kerrville. In all, he has catalogued about 80 pictures.

He and Mrs. Duff maintained a regular correspondence with Mrs. Caylor, whom they visited on occasions, and out of this friendship he was given a couple of sketch books of the artist. This week, Duff has been able to pick out sketches that match some of the paintings at Heritage Museum.

A case in point is the only charcoal example of a Caylor, loaned by Mrs. Harry Middleton. The sketched head of a cowboy, with notes about being seated on a watering trough with a horse beside him, appears on one of the pads. In another place, Caylor apparently had an idea for four paintings, and from one of these Duff has identified the genesis of "Old Texas," an eight-foot canvass.

Duff had planned a trip from his Edmonds, Wash. home to Oklahoma City in October to approach Dean Kraker, director of the Cowboy Hall of Fame art museum about trying to work out a Caylor showing, when he heard through his brother-in-law, Brent Melton, that Heritage Museum was arranging just such a show.

"It was like an answer to prayers," he said. This week he has been one of the most enthusiastic visitors at the museum and brought along not only copies (which are available) of Caylor but also some examples of photographic reproductions of the works. These are also on display.

JUNIOR BAR OF TEXAS Opposed To Creation Of New Law Schools

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — The state Junior Bar of Texas says it is opposed to creation of new law schools because the supply of lawyers now exceeds the demand.

Larry Montgomery of Fort Worth, president of the 8,000-member association, said the junior bar will urge the Texas College and University System Coordinating Board to reject requests for new schools.

The overabundance of lawyers in Texas has reached "the crisis stage," the group said in a report to be presented to the coordinating board Oct. 20.

The report was prepared by a committee headed by Paul Hubbard of Waco. It was the result, Montgomery said, of a seven-month investigation of the subject.

"Much evidence indicates that the current demand for new lawyers in both the United States and Texas is less than the current output," the report said.

"This excess supply of licensed attorneys could well result in a deterioration of the ethical standards inherently necessary in the profession... and would result in a tremendous waste of both money and manpower.

The imbalance between the increased output of new attorneys and the demand for attorneys has reached the crisis stage and the resulting danger to the public is obvious and imminent."

Montgomery said schools which would be most affected by the opposition are Texas A&M, North Texas State and the University of Dallas, all in some stage of planning a law school.

The report urges the coordinating board "to refuse approval of all such proposed schools," and asks the legislature "to refuse to allocate any funds for such proposed schools and to restrict the universities and colleges proposing such schools from spending any public money therefor."

The oversupply of lawyers, the report said, tends to "drive down the economic rewards" along with the profession's "high standard of ethics."

It appears, the report added, "that there is no alternative but to oppose the creation of additional law schools within the state and likewise to oppose the increase in size of existing law schools."

Investigating HUD Offices

DALLAS (AP) — The U.S. attorney's office here has confirmed that Dallas and Fort Worth are among 10 major cities under investigation in possible criminal activities in Housing and Urban Development programs.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Andrew Barr said the investigation in the Dallas-Fort Worth areas had been underway about 10 weeks.

Barr said, "The FBI and the Internal Revenue Service with the cooperation of the top administration and local HUD office in Dallas and regional HUD office in Fort Worth are conducting a vigorous and intensive investigation of abuse and corruption of HUD housing programs."

"The activity will be continuing for some time and focus primarily on the Dallas area, although there will be some investigative work in the Fort Worth area."

The investigation concerned HUD employees, real estate people, mortgage people, builders and contractors, Barr said.

Besides Dallas, HUD Secretary George Romney named these other cities where grand jury investigations are in progress: New York, Newark, Philadelphia, Detroit, Chicago, Columbia, S.C., Los Angeles and Washington, D.C.

AN EYE FOR AN EYE — A three-millimeter square television camera containing 1,024 transistors, left, is the heart of an electronic system which images onto the skin of blind persons. It has been developed to help the blind "see." The experimental system, which took eight years to develop, is the product of Dr. Carter C. Collins, right, and an associate. The device is mounted on a vest-worn electronic apparatus, connected to electrodes taped to the subject's stomach.

Uvalde Schools Face Funds Loss

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Public schools in Uvalde, Tex., where Mexican-Americans once boycotted classes for six weeks, face the possibility of loss of all federal funds, it was revealed Wednesday.

Health, Education and Welfare officials said the development arose from alleged discrimination against Mexican-Americans in the Southwest Texas school district.

HEW regional attorney John Stokes of Dallas said Uvalde schools already are barred from applying for new federal grants, pending a hearing set for about Nov. 13.

All HEW funds could be ordered terminated if it is found after the hearing that the school district has violated provisions of the Civil Rights Act, Stokes said.

He said HEW is seeking to terminate all federal funds to the district unless it meets federal civil rights guidelines.

HEW's civil rights office has found "quite a number" of violations by the school district involving alleged discrimination against Mexican-American pupils, Stokes said.

He said the district was asked to correct the situation last July, but school officials denied any responsibility.

"They have been very unwilling to negotiate with HEW," Stokes added.

Ramsey Muniz, the Razi Unida candidate for governor, brought up the issue Wednesday in a speech to more than 200 San Antonio Junior College students.

He asserted that all federal funds have been withdrawn from the schools at Uvalde, home of Democratic gubernatorial nominee Dolph Briscoe.

Mexican-Americans are discriminated against in Uvalde, Muniz declared. He added that with discrimination in Briscoe's home town, "imagine the discrimination that's going to exist in the state of Texas under Briscoe as governor."

1970 WALKOUT Both Stokes and Uvalde school officials said that so far, no federal funds have been withheld, although the district cannot apply for any new program at this time.

"We're getting all our money regularly as in the past," said Uvalde School Supt. R. E. Byrom.

Uvalde schools, which receive nearly $1 million a year in federal money, were the scene of a Mexican-American walkout that lasted six weeks in 1970. Up to 400 Mexican-American pupils, out of a total of 3,650, took part in the boycott through the end of the school year. Officials say the district's enrollment is slightly more than half Mexican-American.

FOUND FAULT Stokes said the district has failed to take into account the language and culture of Mexican-American children and failed to provide them with equal access to schooling.

Among other complaints, he said, was an alleged failure to have bilingual, bicultural teachers working with Mexican-American pupils.

He added that the school district was found to discriminate against Mexican-American teachers. HEW also found fault with the way the Uvalde system runs two largely Mexican-American elementary schools, Stokes said.

STAMPING OUT A MASTERPIECE

It took seven years—982 "off hours"—and 11,271 stamps to complete Eastland's unique Post Office window mural, a masterpiece of creativity by the talented Mrs. Marene Johnson. In the 6-by-10 foot colorful mosaic, the stamps themselves tell much of the history of our nation. The window includes every type of postage and postage imprint, including franked mail, says Mrs. Johnson who retired as Eastland's vivacious woman postmaster in 1968. In the Texas Star, Sunday, October 8, we feature Mrs. Johnson who has spent her lifetime doing worthwhile civic work in her community. Says Mrs. Johnson of the postage stamp mural, "It's my gift to students interested in world history and geography through philately." All this plus much more, Sunday, October 8 in...

STATE LABOR UNITS SMARTING AT HIS ORDERS

Meany Steaming Toward Confrontation

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany is steaming toward a confrontation with state labor units smarting at his orders to repeal resolutions urging the defeat of Richard Nixon.

Meany reportedly has ordered a half-dozen or more state labor councils to abandon "dump Nixon" campaigns on grounds that such efforts violate the national federation's policy of neutrality in the presidential campaign.

"I don't have the authority to rescind the resolution. I'm going to work on it but we are busy trying to elect a U.S. senator down here and if I can find time, I'll do it," grumbled Oklahoma AFL-CIO President Henry L. Likes in a telephone interview.

IT'S INCREDIBLE

"It's incredible," said a staff member of another state AFL-CIO council that has urged defeat of Nixon. "Everything Meany does is neutral in behalf of Nixon."

"Frankly, I don't think Nixon has gone anything for the working man," said North Carolina AFL-CIO President Wilbur Hobby, who has not received an order from Meany but was expecting one because of the "dump Nixon" resolution adopted by the state convention Sept. 14.

He said he hasn't decided what to do because he can't flout the wishes of the state organization, but "neither am I supposed to go against national AFL-CIO policy."

President John F. Henning, of the 1.5-million-member California state AFL-CIO has ordered an emergency state convention Oct. 19 in Sacramento to take up Meany's order to rescind that group's anti-Nixon resolution.

Unconfirmed reports said similar Meany orders were going to AFL-CIO leaders in Minnesota, Nebraska, Iowa and Texas, whose state labor conventions had sought to skirt the neutrality edict by refraining from endorsing Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern, but calling for the defeat of Nixon.

WHOLE CABOODLE

The Colorado AFL-CIO openly challenged the Meany-inspired neutrality policy and en-

List Names Of Prisoners

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., says the North Vietnamese have supplied him with the names of five U.S. airmen being held as prisoners who were listed as missing in action by the Pentagon.

But a Defense Department spokesman said only two of the five were listed as missing and the other three already were known to be prisoners.

The spokesman said Kennedy caused "unnecessary anxiety" to families of prisoners by making premature disclosure of their names "in an inaccurate form." One of the five was listed as in the Navy when actually he was in the Air Force, the Pentagon said.

The five names released by Kennedy are: Lt. Cmdr. Dale V. Raebel, Orange Park, Fla.; Lt. J. G. David A. Everett, St. Simons Island, Ga.; Lt. Cmdr. Theodore W. Triebel, San Diego, Calif.; Capt. Jerome D. Heeren, Brookings, S.D.; and Cmdr. James O. O'Neil, Las Vegas, Nev.

Kennedy said he was told the five are in prisoner-of-war camps.

Power Plant Suit Scheduled

HOUSTON (AP) — A suit scheduled to start here Oct. 10 seeking to enjoin the construction of a cooling system for the giant Houston Lighting & Power Co. plant on Cedar Bayou has been postponed until Feb. 19.

The Environmental Protection Agency has asked U.S. District Court Judge Owen D. Cox to stop the power company from building a cooling pond on Alligator Bayou. Judge Cox, who turned down a request for a temporary injunction against construction earlier this year, postponed the suit Tuesday.

The EPA says the present cooling system planned by HL&P will result in environmental damage to Trinity Bay.

The company plans to draw water from Galveston Bay near the mouth of the Houston Ship Channel, use it to cool its generators at the plant, and then let it out into the relatively unpolluted Trinity Bay.

dorsed McGovern. Meany then went into federal court in an effort to place the Colorado AFL-CIO under trusteeship. He lost, but plans to appeal.

In the letter to Likes of Oklahoma, Meany wrote: "In my judgment, to call for the defeat of one candidate is to call for the endorsement of the other. It is a violation of policy to endorse either candidate."

Likes denied that the Oklahoma anti-Nixon resolution constituted a McGovern endorsement. "The fact is that we con-

Watergate Ban Issued

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica has prohibited any more Watergate "outing" case by anyone connected with it.

Sen. George McGovern said he doesn't think the ban applies to him, but he would speak out anyway. "I will not allow myself to be muzzled or intimidated by any politically motivated directions from Richard Nixon," he said.

Judge Sirica's ruling, issued Wednesday, applies to the Justice Department, the U.S. attorney's office, the FBI, other law enforcement agencies, the service enforcers, all witnesses and all potential witnesses and attorneys.

They are prohibited "from making any extrajudicial statements to anyone, including the news media."

WITH WELFARE REFORM SHELVED Clean Up Items In Social Security Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — After shelving the key question of welfare reform for as long as eight years, the Senate is moving toward a final decision on the massive Social Security welfare bill.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., manager of the 969-page measure, said the Senate is over the decision not to put any of three rival welfare-reform plans into effect but to provide for tests of all them.

This could mean that no effective reform will take place for as much as eight years, if the House goes along with the test idea.

Meanwhile, the costly and rapidly expanding program of aid to families with dependent children will continue pretty much as at present.

The AFDC rolls have tripled in the past 10 years and it is this program that most often is cited by critics of the welfare mess.

In voting 46 to 40 for the amendment by Sen. William V. Roth Jr., R-Del., to test the three plans, the Senate junked the welfare program which evolved from many months of work in the Senate Finance Committee.

This would have required many of the parents now on the AFDC rolls, mostly mothers, to trade their welfare checks for jobs under a new federal agency.

However, the Senate in a long series of votes retained some peripheral provisions dealing with welfare families in the Finance Committee bill.

They would set up a big new day-care program to make it possible for more welfare mothers to go to work; provide work bonuses and wage supplements to try to induce welfare recipients to take jobs and employers to hire them.

Can't Force Hair Trims Of Students

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — There is a place in life where the law stops and just people starts, a federal appeals court says in a ruling in which it "strained" to decide what is just: A college education with long hair or no education because of it.

"The place where the line of permissible hair style regulations is drawn is between the high school door and the college gate," the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said Wednesday, holding that Tyler, Tex., Junior College has no right to require students to wear short hair.

"From that day hence, only the presence of an unusual set of factors can justify regulating the length of his hair as a condition precedent to his right to continue to avail himself of public educational opportunities," the court added.

Judge Charles Clark of Jackson, Miss., writing the majority opinion, admitted that he drew some of his commentary — the line where the law stops and people start — from the late Nobel Prize-winning author William Faulkner.

It was an en-banc decision, requiring the votes of all the 15 judges on the circuit. Six disagreed with Clark's commentary.

The case began when Joe Richard Lansdale and two others tried to register for the 1970 school year and were refused admittance because their hair styles did not conform to the school's dress code.

A lower court upheld Lansdale's right to attend the school wearing his hair long, and the school appealed to the 5th Circuit.

The main point which split the judges was an earlier ruling by the 5th Circuit, which refused to give a high school student the right to wear his hair long if the school insisted on a short haircut.

"Today, the court affirms that the adult's constitutional right to wear his hair as he chooses supersedes the state's right to intrude," Clark wrote.

Judge Bryan Simpson, concurred but said he felt both Wednesday's decision and the earlier one dealing with high schools should be reviewed.

"This court en banc strained mightily and conscientiously over these two cases," Simpson said.

"The net result of the effort is unfortunately not a glorious one. Our stance as a court emerges as unsatisfactory — because it is arbitrary and inconsistent — to members of the court with directly opposing views. Surely these are grounds for re-examination of both decisions."

Judge Paul Roney summed up dissent when he said, "I see no distinction between high schools and junior colleges..."

Galveston Trash 'Sickout' Might Cost 190 Jobs

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Some 190 city employees may be fired today if they do not report to work.

The 190 members of Galveston City Employees Local 656 began a "sickout" Monday.

City Manager John Unverferth has said the employees cannot legally strike and face dismissal under a city regulation that provides for dismissal after three days absence without permission.

City hall volunteers manned six trucks Wednesday which gathered garbage from some residential areas of the city.

The 15 volunteers were paid time and a half.

The absent workers are protesting a city council change of the city's employees' pension plan. Many employees called in sick.

The council granted last month about 700 city employees 5 per cent pay increase—1.3 per cent in cash and 3.5 per cent contributed to the pension fund. Employees previously paid voluntarily into the pension fund.

The union members demand the entire raise in cash and continuation of voluntary contributions.

No Decision On Draft Plea

HOUSTON (AP) — The appeal of a draft conviction of a Louisiana man has been heard by the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals but no ruling has yet been made.

Joseph E. Steiner Jr., 25, of Columbia, La., was convicted and sentenced to a 30-month prison term here last Feb. 16.

Hearing arguments on the appeal Wednesday were U.S. District Court Judges Charles Clark of Jackson, Miss., Walter Gwin of Tuscaloosa, Ala., and Homer Thornberry of Austin, Tex.

Steiner first stayed his criminal trial through civil appeals, asking that the draft board be enjoined from inducting him.

U.S. District Court Judge Allen B. Hannay of Houston denied that motion and it was affirmed by the circuit court.

That cleared the way for Steiner's February trial in Hannay's court. A jury convicted the Louisiana State University graduate and Hannay assessed the prison term.

Steiner is free pending the outcome of the appeal.

Steiner held a student deferment four years and then applied for an agricultural deferment on the basis of his own ership of a Louisiana farm.

This was denied and then sought reclassification on basis of hardship, claiming he provided for his aged grandmother. He then sought conscientious objector status after getting his notice to report for induction.

STOLEN GOODS

Crack Down On 'Fences'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Officers began a crackdown Wednesday night—largest of its type in city history—on alleged "fences" for merchandise stolen in South Texas burglaries.

Operating with warrants, more than four dozen policemen began search and seizure strikes at 22 homes here following a two-week investigation in eight counties, officials said.

San Antonio police Inspector Jack Hutton said the case began developing with the recent arrest of six narcotics addicts who have committed "millions of burglaries they can't even remember."

Officers said search warrants already had been executed at 11 suspected "fence" locations in addition to the 22 served Wednesday night.

Texas Rangers and local police said the investigation leading to the raids involved at least 65 burglary cases in the counties of Comal, Medina, Real, Gonzales, Guadalupe, Wilson, Bexar and Bandera.

About half the warrants made out for Wednesday's operation actually were drawn for narcotics possession, police said.

Hutton explained that some of the six arrested addicts reported selling stolen merchandise for cash or trading it for narcotics.

"But at some of the places, they could not recall specific items they 'turned' there, so we drew the warrants up for narcotics," he said.

Among items sought were motorcycles, automobiles, stereo equipment, television, guns and household appliances.

Folk Tunes Heard By Lions Here

Downtown Lions got an exposure Wednesday to Irish airs, and loved it.

Wesley Boyd, native of Belfast, Ireland, sang a variety of folk tunes from his native land, including "Galway Bay," much to the delight of the club in its meeting at the Settles. He was accompanied by his wife, Margaret. Mr. and Mrs. Boyd are associated with Dr. Ralph Langley, Houston, in an evangelistic meeting this week at Baptist Temple.

Read Statement At Murder Trial

EASTLAND, Tex. (AP) — The murder trial here of Harold Ray Powers, 25, entered its second day today after the state was allowed to read a purported statement from the defendant concerning the crime.

Powers is charged with shooting and knifing to death Gordon D. Bengston Jr., 42, of Boston, Mass., in Dec., 1970. Bengston's body was found in a ditch near Brownwood.

The first witness after a nine-man, three-woman jury was chosen Wednesday was Texas Ranger H. R. Block, who testified he took a statement from Powers after Powers was arrested in connection with Bengston's slaying.

After almost an hour of discussion between both sides concerning the admissibility of the statement, presiding Dist. Court Judge Earl Conner Jr.

ruled the document was admissible.

Brown County Dist. Atty. George Day read the 3 1/2-page statement, which he said was from Powers, to the court.

In the statement read by Day, Powers was quoted as saying he shot Bengston once in the back of the head with a rifle. Powers said Bengston had complained to him about being stranded on a country road when Powers' station wagon broke down about 2:30 a.m. Dec. 1 after the two men drank beer together earlier.

Powers also was quoted by Day as saying he struck Bengston twice with the rifle before slashing his throat with a knife.

Powers then took money and a motel key from Bengston before hitching a ride to nearby Brownwood, according to the statement read by Day.
