Pullout trade-off explored

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — Nicaragua's offer to trade a pullout of Cuban advisers for a withdrawal of U.S. advisers from Central America "seems reasonable" and should be explored at upcoming talks, Honduran Foreign Minister Edgardo Paz Barnica said.

But Paz Barnica, who says he detects an apparent softening in Nicaragua's position, insisted in an interview Monday any such deal must be part of a regional agreement that includes a reduction in armaments, a halt to arms traffic, and elections in Nicaragua.

And, the Honduran said, "I think Nicaragua is only playing — to make the goals of the Contadora peace initiative go down the drain."

Paz Barnica has been a key figure in regional negotiations that grew from the peace efforts by the four Contadora group countries — Mexico, Panama, Colombia and Venezuela.

The group takes its name from the Panamanian island where foreign ministers from the four countries launched the peace drive last January, primarily to ease tensions between Honduras and Nicaragua.

Paz Barnica also said he believes the United States would send combat troops to help his country if it were invaded by leftist-led Nicaragua.

In Washington, U.S. officials, who declined to be identified, said Cuba's recent offer to negotiate withdrawal of its military advisers from Nicaragua is insincere and unverifiable.

Cuban President Fidel Castro maintains he has sent 200 military advisers to Nicaragua, but American officials say there are about 2,000, with another 4,000-6,000 Cuban construction workers, doctors and teachers stationed in Nicaragua apparently available for military duty.

Nicaragua's Sandinista leaders accuse the Hondurans of supporting anti-Sandinista guerrillas fighting in northern Nicaragua from bases in Honduras, an allegation denied here.

The Hondurans accuse the Sandinistas of armed border provocations and of supplying leftist guerrillas elsewhere in Central America, particularly in El Salvador.

The U.S. and Honduran military have begun joint exercises that eventually will involve up to 5,000 Americans and 6,000 Hondurans, some not far from the Nicaraguan frontier.

President Reagan says the exercises will demonstrate what he called U.S. resolve to defend Honduras.

Top Sandinista leader Daniel Ortega Saavedra, in proposals similar to those of the four Contadora governments, issued a six-point plan July 19 calling for the withdrawal of all foreign military advisers from Central America.

Ortega spoke specifically of the Honduran-Nicaraguan confrontation, but any withdrawal agreement presumably would cover the approximately 50 U.S. military advisers in El Salvador as well. Honduras now has about 175 U.S. military advisers.

Asked about the advisers trade-off idea, Paz Barnica said, "to me that seems reasonable — to withdraw all advisers — military, security and similar types."

Suspect sought

Police were looking for a man who held up the CIC Loan and Rental Co., 905 S. Main, about noon today.

The man was described as black, about 5 feet, 9 inches tall and wearing sunglasses. He was armed with a pistol and may have fled with another man in a white-over-red, two-door car.

Details were not available by press time.

Drugs 'way of life' for Midland teens?

They gather around kegs of cold beer after football games in the early fall. They may stop by to meet a few friends and smoke a couple of joints late in the afternoon. They cruise by during lunch periods.

Whether at the north end of A Street, The Wall on Tealwood, or a private barn off south Rankin Highway, these social gatherings are a part of the life of Midland freshman and high school students.

Cruising Main Street U.S.A., circling the drive-in fast food spots and congregating in parking lots probably are a major part of most memories of growing up in a small town.

But for students at Midland High School, the social gatherings have been a more organized procedure for several years.

The Outlaws and Bootleggers, with T-shirts and jerseys, business cards and a bank account, have arranged many parties over the years. Until teachers realized the clubs' functions primarily were centered around week-end beer busts — and the administration stepped in — announcements of club meetings were rigged on the public address system and notices were pinned on bulletin boards in hallways and classrooms.

While some parents who know about the social gatherings look on them with concern, many are unaware they exist at all.

"A lot of parents think their kids are at the (now defunct) Youth Centers," one frustrated mother said. "If they even knew what was going on, I'm not sure they'd care."

At The Wall, located on the north end of Whitney Drive behind an undeveloped residential area directly east of Midland Park Mall, predominantly Lee High School students could park in the mall's lot and be transported through an alley in the back of a pickup to and from The Wall and the mall. The 7-foot high wall, traditionally covered with grafitti, was repainted in May by members of Young Life — who hoped to clean up the image of teenagers by cleaning up the profanity.

Today, the colorful names of who's in love with whom, colleges and Classes of '83, have succumbed to the sordid scrawls once again.

Police occasionally patrol the area, but they don't come around enough, said a resident of the neighborhood, who admitted she frequently called in complaints when the gatherings became excessively large and noisy.

"Those kids out there are driving high-priced cars," the resident said. "They are not your typical southside students. Both of my daughters (in freshman high and high school) were approached in the halls of this school system to buy drugs. Are we going to let this type of individual, no matter how much money they have in their pocket, run this neighborhood? These kids are the popular ones. The Outlaws are looked up to. Most of them are in honors classes. We've got football players out there, too — and they're supposedly in training. They all are under-age and maybe if there are older ones out there, they're contributing to the delinquency of minors."

"We run ragged from the time we get on 'til we get off," Patrol Sgt. Terry Garner said. "Kids just aren't a priority. Most of these officers, well, it hasn't been so long since they've been there."

While minor arrests for possession of marijuana have been made, Garner said police patrol the areas where kids hang out only when they receive complaints.

Frontier Airlines to fly from Midland to Denver

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

The 13th ranked airline in the country will begin non-stop service from Midland Regional Airport to Denver Nov. 18.

The announcement came this morning from D. Mark Schumann, manager of Frontier Airlines editorial services, during a news conference at City Hall. Frontier will schedule two daily non-stop flights from Midland to Denver, and also two stops at Abilene. Times and rate schedules will be posted later, said Schumann.

This should give Midland connecting service to the West Coast which had been missing since Continental Airlines was taken over by Texas International and the Los Angeles flight eliminated.

Schumann said Frontier will use Boeing 737 jets that seat 110 persons. He was not sure about how many persons will be employed at the Midland airport, but said it would be between 10 and 20. Frontier employees in other cities will be given the first chance to transfer here.

"We've been looking at Midland-Odessa for several years," he said of the decision that came a few days ago. "At this time we see a void in northbound air service to Midland.

Twenty West Texas counties to get drought disaster aid

By PATRICK DEAREN
Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Twenty drought-stricken counties in West Texas were declared a federal disaster area this morning by the United States Department of Agriculture.

The announcement was made by Congressman Tom Loeffler and a spokesman for Sen. John Tower's office.

The disaster declaration will make farmers and ranchers in the designated counties eligible for the emergency loan program administered by the Farmers Home Administration. It also triggers Section 451 (E) of the U.S. tax code for farmers and ranchers, which defers tax liability for one year on income received as a result of forced liquidation of cattle, sheep and goat herds.

The announcement was met with mixed reaction by area officials.

"It's going to help us a lot in Crane County," Crane County agent Willie Stumberg. "The biggest advantage to that program is the tax benefit we're going to get off it."

"To the farmers, I don't know if it's going to mean a whole lot right now," said Andrews county agent Robert Roark. "Our landowners here are all pretty large operators and I think it's going to depend on where they've been getting their money over the last few years...The crops we have are just not going to make it except for some irrigated cotton. We have about 2,500 acres of irrigated cotton here. The rest is dryland."

"It's going to mean a short reprieve," said Upton County agent Kent Powell. "We still need the rain. But we're sure appreciative of Secretary (of Agriculture John) Block releasing that, I tell you."

Martin County Judge Bob Deavenport, who recently returned from an aid-seeking trip to Washington with Texas Agriculture Commission Jack Hightower, was cautiously optimistic.

"It'll help," he said. "It's no cure-all, but it'll help some people.... It's a step in the right direction and could possibly result in the implementation of other programs.... But at the present time, the Farmers Home loan program does not necessarily offer an advantageous interest rate to all borrowers."

Looking up as Dallas paramedics carry one of two women found dead Monday from a retirement apartment complex are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Towne. The cause of the deaths is believed to be heat-related, as temperatures in the Dallas area hit the one-hundred degree mark. Autopsies are scheduled.

Officials blame heat for deaths

DALLAS (AP) — Authorities here say that the deaths of two elderly women whose bodies were found in separate units of a retirement complex here could be attributed to temperatures of more than 100 degrees and a malfunctioning air conditioner.

The official cause of their deaths probably will not be determined until the completion of autopsies scheduled today, said a spokesman for the Dallas County medical examiner's office.

Police said the windows of both apartments were closed and the doors were locked. They said Violet Carver, 76, and Oma Yost, 80, both semi-bedridden, apparently died of heat stroke.

"They died of nothing more than pure heat prostration," said Sgt. A.R. Brooks. "When we went inside (apartment) 206, it was like a furnace, like a heat blast. It had to be 110, 120 degrees."

Their bodies were discovered shortly after noon Monday when a private nurse found Mrs. Yost in apartment No. 206. Firefighters who checked other units in the complex then found Mrs. Carver's body in apartment No. 202.

"It was very hot inside those apartments," said Don B. Kirby, medical examiner's field agent. "Heat stroke is certainly one of the things we will be looking at. It probably got up to 115 degrees" inside the apartments.

One investigator said it appeared that the two women died sometime Sunday afternoon.

Both police and elderly residents of the 43-unit Cornerstone Retirement Village said that neither the owner of the complex nor its manager had made a concerted effort to make all the residents aware of the air conditioning problem. The air conditioner went unrepaired for three days.

Some residents said they were unaware of a problem until their apartments began heating up at mid-morning last Friday. The high temperature for Dallas was 100 on Friday, 99 on Saturday, 99 on Sunday and 101 on Monday.

After the air conditioning failed, some residents opened their front windows and were using fans. Many lived in constant fear of burglars and had "shut themselves up," said police Cpl. J.K. Hull.

Officials said they could not determine how high that temperatures may have risen in the apartments over the weekend. But field agents from the medical examiner's office said measurements taken 45 minutes after the doors had been opened showed the temperature in Mrs. Yost's apartment at 97 degrees and in Mrs. Carver's at 90.

"To me, this borders on almost being total negligence," Brooks said. "These people (the owner and manager) knew there was nothing but old people on fixed incomes living here. I couldn't last 15 or 20 minutes in these apartments with them shut up."

Gene Slivka, The owner of the complex, arrived at the complex about an hour after the police. He said the repairs on the air conditioner were being made as quickly as possible, and that he had depended upon his manager to inform the tenants of the difficulty.

Unusual weather creates hazards

By DEBORAH ZABARENKO
Associated Press Writer

Unusual weather patterns that hurled storms, floods and record-breaking heat at the nation are now being blamed for more suffering: rattlesnake bites, surfing accidents, death-dealing mosquitoes, hay fever and even the plague.

Dry weather coaxed rattlers out of the Rockies and damp heat made a perfect breeding ground for encephalitis-carrying mosquitoes in the East.

Storms and high tides changed the shape of beaches in California, sending surfers crashing into newly formed sandbars, resulting in broken backs. And wet, cool weather in New Mexico fostered plague-carrying rodents.

El Nino, a recurring phenomenon involving Pacific sea temperatures, currents and trade winds, has been blamed for the unusual weather.

Long known to South American fishermen, El Nino refers to the Christ child, because it usually occurs around Christmas time. This year, the child stayed until July, spreading unseasonal rains, killing heat and storms across the land.

Meteorologists declared the 1983 edition of El Nino dead last month, but the aftermath continues.

In the East, hay fever sufferers will face higher pollen counts and a longer season of wheezing, sneezing and sniffling.

"People are really going to get it around Labor Day," said Walter Jinotti, a medical technologist at Middlesex General Hospital in New Brunswick, N.J., and president of the National Association of Allergies. "In an average year, you'll get three weeks of irritating pollen levels and it'll peak at 150. This year, the irritation should go on longer and the count will peak at 200."

The bad news is blamed on a moist spring which encouraged a large crop of pollen-producing ragweed, Jinotti said.

Spinal injuries, including broken necks, are more common this year along the California coast, as surfers deal with the weather-altered coastline.

"We've started to see kids running out into the water and doing a shallow surface dive and hitting the bottom," said Dr. John Skinner, 52, an internist at Newport Beach, Calif. "I really love to surf, and I have seen a lot of (spinal) cases in the hospital, so we've been trying to make the public aware of the hazard."

In New Mexico, bubonic plague — known as the Black Death in the Middle Ages — claimed this year's third victim Monday, one of a record 24 cases reported, said Dr. Jonathan Mann, state epidemiologist. The previous record of 16 was set in 1975, Mann said.

Officials speculated the unusually wet, cool spring produced ideal conditions for rodents that carry plague-bearing fleas.

The 1983 plague death rate, including the 13-year-old boy who perished Monday, is lower than in recent years — about 12.5 percent compared with the average 16 percent of all cases — because of prompt diagnosis, Mann said.

Tropical Storm Alicia drifting west across Gulf of Mexico

MIAMI (AP) — Tropical Storm Alicia, the first named storm of the 1983 Atlantic hurricane season, was drifting west today after forming in the north-central Gulf of Mexico, forecasters said.

The storm packing winds up to 50 mph was moving west at about 6 mph, said officials at the National Hurricane Center, and conditions were favorable for Alicia to strengthen.

Storm warnings may be required today along portions of the Texas coast, the forecasters said.

Alicia was centered about 300 miles east of Corpus Christi, Texas, at 6 a.m. EDT today.

"Probabilities indicate that the Texas coast remains the most likely area that will be affected by Alicia during the next 72 hours," the National Hurricane Center said early today.

Small craft from Brownsville, Texas, to the mouth of the Mississippi River were warned not to venture far from port.

The National Hurricane Center said an Air Force reconnaissance plane flew into the storm this morning and found that barometric pressure at the system's center was unchanged.

If Alicia's maximum sustained winds reached 74 mph, it would become the season's first hurricane.

Frontier sets Midland flights

"Frontier has been expanding steadily in the past few years," he said. "We look for markets to refill buckets of revenue."

Larry Bell, president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, noted one of the chamber's top priorities since he took office 1½ years ago was to expand air service at Midland Regional Airport, and primarily to the West Coast. "This fits that need," he said.

Denver is the hub for Frontier and passengers will be able to transfer to that airline's flights to cities throughout the west, northwest and midwest. Frontier operates 124 daily departures from Denver.

"We consider ourselves a major office center for the oil industry," said Bell, "as does Denver and Casper, Wyo." He noted this service would fit the businessman's needs and also those of vacationers and skiers who travel to the Rocky Mountains.

Frontier flies to Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport, Houston Hobby and El Paso. It goes as far east as Columbus, Ohio, and Atlanta, Ga., and west to San Diego, Los Angeles, Oakland and Sacramento, Calif., Eugene and Portland, Ore., and Seattle and Spokane, Wash.

Counter space, baggage handling and landing fees have not been arranged, according to Schumann.

Frontier will become Midland's fifth major airline carrier. Already serving the Permian Basin are American, Continental, Muse and Southwest. Also providing service are two commuter lines: Trans-Central and Air Midwest.

Twenty counties in West Texas named drought disaster areas

Congressman Loeffler, meanwhile, hoped the declaration would make a dent in the problems of area farmers and ranchers.

"This one-year deferral of tax liability," he said, "hopefully will allow for time within which the rains will fall and the ranchers will be able to re-purchase their livestock herds without any tax liability as a result of the forced dispersal which is occuring now due to the devastating drough in West Texas.

"I will continue in my efforts to pursue an adequate, responsible and and expeditious feed assistance program."

Sen. Tower expressed similar sentiments.

"I am pleased that the USDA has recognized the severity of this drought which literally has devastated over 20 counties in West Texas," he said. "I am concerned, however, that today's action by USDA will not completely address the need of our farmers and ranchers and I, along with my colleague Congressman Tom Loeffler, await further word from USDA on any additional relief which may be available."

The designated counties, all of which were submitted for consideration to the Secretary of Agriculture by Texas Governor Mark White, are Andrews, Brewster, Coke, Crane, Culberson, Ector, Howard, Jeff Davis, Martin, Midland, Mitchell, Nolan, Pecos, Presidio, Reagan, Sutton, Terrell, Upton, Ward and Winkler.

A spokesman for Congressman Loeffler's office said additional counties possibly could be added should the governor request such.

Drugs 'way of life' for city teens?

"We're short on manpower and because of the amount of calls, generally we don't get up there too often. Usually, just sending a patrol car does the job. It disperses the crowd.

(Kids) will always have a place," Garner said. "When we start frequenting it more, and have several busts, they'll just change their place.

"We're not dictating to them," he continued. "We're not trying to be Gestapo-type police — we've all been there before. We're not going to bother them as long as they're good."

The gathering of teenagers in parking lots, however, prompted several Midland shop owners to post signs prohibiting loitering.

Results of a drug usage survey, given to high school juniors in February, indicated alcohol and marijuana are the most frequently used drugs by Midland youths.

The survey, given to 814 of the 1,044 juniors in Midland public schools, found the number of students who have never used alcohol or marijuana was above the national average. Midland students who use either drug on a daily basis, however, use it more heavily than students do on the national average.

According to the survey, conducted for a thesis by Wanda Mohr, a graduate student at The University of the Permian Basin, 76 percent of the students responding reported using alcohol. Marijuana is used by 37 percent of the students, the survey indicated.

Use of other drugs, such as psychedelics, tranquilizers, heroin, Demerol, Codeine, Qualuudes, LSD and cocaine, were reported to be used less in Midland than the national average.

"There is good news and bad news," said Midland Independent School District Superintendent Dr. Joseph Baressi, who conducted a similar survey two years ago with results being "basically the same".

According to Baressi, the good news is Midland students on the average use drugs less than students do on the national average.

"The negative news is the fact that we have 8.3 percent of our students saying they use marijuana daily. If you take 8 percent of the 3,000 or so students in our high schools, that's 275 teenagers," Baressi said, adding he thought the use reported by juniors represents that of all high school students.

"That's a sizeable population that's running around stoned."

A little more than 6 percent of the juniors responding in the survey indicated they use alcohol on a daily basis.

"I don't like figures," Bob Savage, director of the Palmer Drug Abuse Program, said. "I don't believe that can be surveyed. How are you going to ask someone who is doing something illegal or morally wrong, in their opinion, about it?

"Let's just say it's more popular to get high than it is to not."

According to Baressi and Ms. Mohr, the survey is about 95 percent accurate. Control groups were retested with similar results.

Ms. Mohr stated in her thesis that school trustees gave her approval to do the survey in order to obtain concrete figures on the "epidemic" use of drugs by students.

Baressi said the results gave his survey, also taken by junior students in February, "more credibility." His survey had been criticized by those who felt he had a vested interest in having a low student drug usage, he said.

Results indicated students who use drugs and alcohol use them in cars more than at school. Students from families with combined incomes of more the $64,000 tend to drink more than others, although Ms. Mohr said that probably is because children of wealthier parents have access to "more cars and can get away and drink more."

The survey also indicated students who work outside the home or are involved in extra-curricular athletics tend to use alcohol and drugs more, probably because of increased peer interaction. Those with jobs also would have more money with which to buy drugs, according to the survey.

"Parents in this area have given their kids so many things," said Greg Hammond, former head of rehabilitation at Teen Challenge. "They've given them everything they need to enjoy life. But parents have trouble realizing their kids' problems are just as important as mom's and dad's in real life."

"One girl's parents would give her, every Friday night, $100," said Rod Seals, Teen Challenge's Outreach supervisor. "They'd say, 'Go out and have just a dandy time. Booze it up and party it up with all of the wealthy people.' There is a lot of money floating around and a lot of dope to spare."

"Starting at the age of 13 or 14, they are thrown into an adult world with the emotions of children," one mother said. "No wonder at the end of the day they need a drink or a joint.

"That's where Midland's type of adult social life has led to," she said. "(A student) can get just as drunk in clothes from Neiman-Marcus as she can in clothes from K-Mart."

WEDNESDAY: Help for the drug user.

One hurt as rock-throwing mars airline strike

HOUSTON (AP) — A rock-throwing incident left one person injured in the first reported violence of a Continental Airlines mechanics strike as a "substantial" number of workers threatened with loss of their jobs broke ranks and returned to work.

Some employees who showed up Monday but reported late were told their jobs had already gone to "permanent replacements," according to union and company officials.

The union said most workers were observing the strike at Continental's Los Angeles facilities but acknowledged the slippage in strike participation elsewhere. They still predicted victory in their battle for higher wages, improved benefits and job security from the nation's eighth-largest air carrier.

The members of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, which represents 2,000 mechanics, flight kitchen workers and cabin cleaners, walked off their jobs at 12:01 a.m. EDT Saturday.

No new face-to-face talks have been scheduled. But Meredith Buell, spokesman for National Mediation Board in Washington, said board mediator Robert J. Brown was to meet with both sides today in Houston in an effort to resolve the dispute.

Continental spokesman Bruce Hicks cautioned, however, that "the meeting is not a negotiating session. It is merely to explore the issues."

He would not estimate how many union members were ignoring the strike, saying only that "a very substantial" number reported to work at Denver and Houston, the company's main hubs.

Jim Collins, an outside publicist hired by Continental, said that "over 60 percent of those scheduled to come to work have returned to their jobs."

The airline had warned striking mechanics to return Monday or risk being replaced permanently.

Wilbur Spurlock, general chairman of the union's District 146, said about 60 percent of the airline's 350 mechanics reported for work in Houston, while up to 30 of Denver's 103 mechanics went back.

In Los Angeles at least 95 percent of the 628 mechanics stayed off the job.

Three injured in explosion

TYLER (AP) — Three people remained hospitalized today after they were injured in an explosion at a northside residence here that was heard a mile away.

In serious but stable condition after Monday's blast were Lucille Monroe, 69, and Don McDaniel, 50, who were flown to a Houston hospital. They were treated earlier at Tyler's Medical Center Hospital for lacerations and second- and third-degree burns. Jerry Gee, 24, remained at Medical Center Hospital in satisfactory conditions.

Mrs. Monroe smelled natural gas upon returning home after a day's absence, said a neighbor. She called McDaniel, who lived down the street, and asked if he would see what the trouble was, police said.

The explosion apparently occurred when a switch was flipped on inside the house, an investigator said.

Former chief's trial to start

PECOS (AP) — Selection of a jury began today in the trial of a former Alpine police chief charged with forcibly rescuing three vehicles that the Internal Revenue had seized from him earlier in a dispute over back taxes.

IRS and U.S. Treasury Department agents seized three of William Hardaway's vehicles March 9. Hardaway failed to pay about $1,500 plus penalties and interest on self-employment tax for 1977 and 1980, the IRS said.

He maintains the IRS owes him and his wife, Penny, about $1,200 plus interest because of overpayments.

Archbishop to meet with pope

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Archbishop Patrick Flores and Pope John Paul II plan a private meeting in Rome next week to discuss what role the Catholic church should play in the future of South and Central America.

Flores, the president of the U.S. Bishops' Committee for Latin America, plans to leave here Monday for a three-month visit to Italy which will include joining 100 U.S. bishops in a four-week session to discuss new developments in theology, scripture and canon law.

Flores said he has allotted high priority to giving young men in Third World countries some financial assistance to enter the priesthood.

Man has heart transplant

HOUSTON (AP) — A 22-year-old man was in satisfactory condition after undergoing a heart transplant using the anti-rejection drug cyclosporine, approved by the Food and Drug Administration for 35 transplants at the Texas Heart Institute, a hospital spokeswoman said.

A surgical team performed thetransplant Monday on the man, who who was suffering from complex congenital heart anomaly, said Hazel Haby.

The recipient had undergone two prior surgical corrections, but his activities were "severely limited," Ms. Haby said.

Doctor: Woman would commit other 'violent acts'

Linda Burnett

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A psychiatrist says a Texas housewife convicted in the slayings of five people almost certainly would commit other violent acts, but corrections officials described her as a "model inmate" who "read her Bible daily."

Jurors planned to begin deliberating today whether Linda May Burnett should be sentenced to death by injection or life imprisonment.

Mrs. Burnett, 35, spent almost four years on death row before her first conviction was overturned on appeal in December.

She was found guilty of capital murder Sunday in the July 1978 slaying of Martha Jean Phillips of Woodward, Okla., one of five people found bound and shot point-blank in a mass grave.

During Monday's punishment phase, prosecutors called a Dallas psychiatrist who said he thought there was a "99 percent probability" the Nederland housewife would commit further violent crimes.

Dr. Clay Griffith, who conceded he had not examined Mrs. Burnett, used a personality profile outlined by prosecutors to conclude that she had a "severe anti-social personality disorder."

Griffith classified her as a sociopath, saying the slayings were premeditated and precipitated only by "some kind of inner urge."

"The main thing is that it is an execution-type killing," he said. "This really is the worst kind of killing there is."

Defense attorneys called three corrections officers as character witnesses, including the warden of the Texas Department of Corrections unit where Mrs. Burnett spent two years.

"She was very obedient...she was what we would call a good prisoner," said warden Lucille Plane of the TDC's Mountain View unit in Gatesville.

A matron at the Jefferson County jail, where Mrs. Burnett was transferred after her conviction was overturned, described her as a "model inmate."

"We have never had any trouble with her," matron Willie Wright said. "She was kind to other people who seemed to be having problems. She studied and read her Bible daily."

Mrs. Burnett's first husband, Hubert Miller, testified that she once shot him in the neck for no reason and that she wounded herself with a shotgun when she was pregnant with their first child.

Prosecutors contended Mrs. Burnett helped her boyfriend, Joe Dugas, abduct and kill the family members from a Winnie, Texas, farmhouse because he blamed them for the breakup of his marriage.

Both Mrs. Burnett and Dugas were sentenced to death for the slaying of Mrs. Phillips' 3-year-old son Jason, but Mrs. Burnett's conviction was overturned.

White: Reagan's policies 'probably embarrass' Tower

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White says he's "got lots of things to do without worrying about Reagan," but the governor adds the president's policies probably leave Texas Sen. John Tower "embarrassed" and in political hot water.

The Republican senator, up for election next year, might want to steer clear of the Republican president, said White, a Democrat.

"Tower's got to be embarrassed" with Reagan's "uncaring" attitudes, the governor told reporters Monday. "How can he say anything? He's got to be like a groundhog on this deal."

Among the "uncaring" Reagan policies attacked by White were the president's attitudes toward Hispanics, border areas hit by economic woes and West Texans facing severe drought.

White trailed Reagan to El Paso on Saturday to give the Democratic Party's official response to the president, who is searching for Hispanic support for 1984.

It shouldn't take Tower long to figure out that "this ol' boy (Reagan) is getting me in trouble," said White.

"It's making it real easy for me to campaign (for Democrats) in Texas, in areas that have historically been been Republican," he said.

The West Texas drought area, represented by Republican Tom Loeffler in Congress, is among the GOP areas that White says Democrats could fare well in in 1984.

Hispanic support will remain on the Democratic side despite Reagan's overtures, according to White.

"I thought it was so funny. We saw our president out there in El Paso just jump and down and say he endorses an effective bilingual (education) program," said White. "Go look at his budget cuts, 30 percent cutbacks in bilingual education."

Reagan's "uncaring" attitude also has hurt border residents wrestling with economic problems caused by the Mexican peso devaluations, White contended.

Air Canada federal hearings begin

FORT MITCHELL, Ky. (AP) — The five crew members of an Air Canada airliner that burned June 2, killing 23 passengers, are expected to testify today in a federal hearing to pinpoint the fire's cause.

Pilot Donald Cameron, co-pilot Claude Ouimet, three flight attendants and two passengers were scheduled to testify today, the first day of hearings arranged by the National Transportation Safety Board.

Gregory Karam, an air traffic controller at the Greater Cincinnati International Airport, also is expected to tell investigators how he helped Cameron land the burning DC-9 through radio instructions.

The plane made an emergency landing at the Greater Cincinnati airport after fire was discovered in the area of the rear lavatory. The four days of testimony are expected to focus on the plane's electrical system.

Talks resume in phone company strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiating teams for American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and three striking unions are back at the bargaining table for the first time since a nationwide strike began 10 days ago.

There have been informal discussions since the unions walked out of talks on a new three-year pact Aug. 6, but the teams have not met formally around the negotiating table.

Both sides, however, agreed Monday to resume formal talks here today.

"Obviously, those face-to-face talks loosened it up enough that both sides agree the negotiating committees might be able to produce some movement," said Duayne Trecker, spokesman for the Communications Workers of America, the largest of the unions with 525,000 strikers.

Pic Wagner, spokesman for AT&T, said the parties still were far apart, but "both sides agreed the formal meeting might be helpful in defining areas of possible movement."

"The fact that we're going back to a formal table makes us feel a little more encouraged than we have the past week," said Arthur Perry, a negotiator for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, which has 100,000 members in the strike, including 40,000 employees of Western Electric manufacturing plants who joined the strike Sunday.

Perry differed with the other parties' assessment of the talks by saying, "I've never felt we were far apart."

"We aren't any closer together but it's been agreed the place to discuss our differences is at the bargaining table," said John Shaughnessy, president of the Telecommunications International Union, the smallest union involved in the strike with 50,000 members.

Inspector general has plans that will increase funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Social Security system could collect an extra $1.4 billion over the next five years if state and local governments made retirement-fund deposits according to the schedule developed for private businesses, the agency's inspector general says.

The new money would be on top of the $19 billion a year that states and local governments already pay into the fund on behalf of their employees.

It would also be in addition to the extra $1.8 billion that is expected to be generated by a new payment schedule for state and local governments that is set to begin in January, according to Richard Kusserow, inspector general for the Department of Health and Human Services, which includes the Social Security Administration.

In a letter made public Monday, Kusserow urged the retirement fund's trustees to support legislation in Congress that would require state and local governments to use the private-sector deposit schedule to add the other $1.4 billion. This timetable requires deposits at varying times depending on the size and degree of computerization used by the employer.

Kusserow said he was unhappy with a system adopted by Congress and due to take effect on Jan. 1, 1984, that calls for semi-monthly deposits by all state and local units.

Ruling expected in hearing

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Taxpayers could pay an extra $100,000 daily for each day of delay if a federal judge grants a temporary restraining order to halt underground excavations at the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant, an expert witness has testified.

Boy's body discovered in oven

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A woman has been accused of killing her 20-month-old son, who apparently burned to death when he was bound and placed in a hot oven, authorities said.

Ellen Therrien, 27, of the St. Bethlehem community northeast of Clarksville, was charged Monday with first-degree murder in the death of Charles Therrien.

The baby apparently died from massive burns over his entire body, said Dr. James Bellenger, the county medical examiner.

Lawyer can't decide next move

CHICAGO (AP) — A lawyer for a company convicted of selling about $16 million in aircraft parts to the Libyans says he is uncertain whether to appeal, seek a new trial or ask that the verdict be set aside.

"We're very disappointed ... and we're considering what course of action is left to us," lawyer Myles Ambrose said Monday after Tencom Corp. of suburban Northbrook and vice president Donald Malsom, 32, were convicted by a federal jury of conspiracy, failing to obtain export licenses and falsifying export documents.

Prosecutors said Malsom faces a maximum sentence of 96 years in prison and that Tencom could be fined up to $1.48 million. Ambrose said Tencom was innocent of wrongdoing, citing "confusing" federal regulations governing the transactions.

New York takes families back

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A growing availability of emergency housing is allowing New York City officials to take back some of the 300 destitute families shipped to New Jersey, delaying a legal suit.

Essex County Executive Peter Shapiro said Monday that the number of homeless families New York City put in motels in Newark, East Orange and Jersey City has declined to 194. New Jersey officials, who had filed suit to block the relocation program, asked that the legal action be postponed and a judge agreed to put off for more than a month a hearing on the dispute.

Jack Deacy, a spokesman for New York City's Human Resources Administration, said officials were able to take back the families because "housing is opening up."

Boy rescues 300-pound man

MADEIRA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — An 80-pound seventh-grader being taught how to surf fish by a vacationing teacher says he panicked, but still managed to rescue a 300-pound man who was felled by a stroke in chest-deep water.

Danny Alpert, 11, from nearby Seminole, stands only 4-foot-7 and weighs scarcely 80 pounds. But when 61-year-old Jerry Rogan of Thunder Bay, Ontario, slipped into the water Saturday while fishing in the Gulf of Mexico, the youngster managed to drag the man 40-feet to shore, officials said.

Rogan, who was listed in guarded condition late Monday at Lake Seminole Hospital, probably would have died if not for the youth's efforts, doctors said.

Two dozen churches vandalized

LEWISTON, Maine (AP) — Two men accused of spray-painting two dozen churches of various denominations in weekend vandalism sprees left symbols of Satan, including "Babylon" and "666," authorities say.

Dennis E. Friel, 34, of Bowdoin, and Donald A. Lagasse, 29, of Lisbon Falls, entered no plea to charges of aggravated criminal mischief at their arraignment Monday before District Judge Damon Scales and he continued the case to Sept. 20.

The number "666" was spray-pointed on a Bowdoin church Sunday night. District Attorney Janet Mills said it may have been a "copycat" offense, perhaps involving youngsters.

Mission extended to six days

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sixth day has been added to the next mission of the space shuttle Challenger, which is scheduled to be launched Aug. 30 from Cape Canaveral, Fla., space agency officials say.

The mission was extended from five to six days to allow ground-based crews to check the ability of the Tracking and Data Relay Satellite to communicate with the shuttle, space agency officials said Monday. Testing the satellite's communications systems has taken longer than expected, causing a 10-day delay in the launch date.

Greenpeace fights capture of whales

SEATTLE (AP) — An aquarium wants to capture 100 killer whales for breeding research and display in a "living classroom," but environmentalists are fighting to halt a plan they say is aimed at making money.

Sea World, based in San Diego, says it would keep 10 of the whales at its aquariums in California, Cleveland and Orlando, Fla., while the rest would be held a few days and released after being used for research, said public relations director Jackie O'Conner.

If a federal permit is approved, Sea World would capture the whales off the coasts of California and Alaska, she said. "We are quite confident that the permit will be granted."

But opposition to the $1.25 million, 10-year plan led Sen. Slade Gorton, R-Wash., to request a public hearing on the permit. The National Marine Fisheries scheduled the hearing today.

About 60 people have signed up to testify — including Sea World officials and members of such environmental groups as the Greenpeace Foundation, Harold Alabaster, a fisheries service spokesman, said Monday. Written testimony will be accepted until Aug. 26.

Greenpeace, which sent seven anti-whaling protesters to Siberia earlier this summer, says it is sure it can block the permit.

"We're going to nip this application in the bud," said Alan Reichman, the group's Seattle coordinator.

Also opposing the permit are Washington Secretary of State Ralph Munro, a key figure in adoption of a ban on the capture of the whales in state waters, and the Moclips Cetalogical Society, a conservation group based in Friday Harbor.

Greenpeace sees "a lot of contradiction and hypocrisy" in Sea World's application and its subsequent statements, Reichman said.

"There seems to be a big gap in credibility there," he said, pointing to capture methods, actual need for the marine mammals and extensive tests on the 90 whales that later would be released.

Shark may have been cause of girl's injury

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) — A 16-year-old girl, possibly attacked by a shark, was hospitalized in good condition after surgery to treat severe cuts on her foot.

Jill Redenbaugh, of Virginia Beach, was attacked Monday by something that took "a two-inch chunk out of her instep and another chunk out of her Achilles tendon," said Jack Kownsend of Dahlgren, whose family was staying at a cottage here.

Kownsend and Ernest T. Singleton of Fredericksburg were on the beach shortly before noon.

Kownsend and Singleton said they did not see what attacked Miss Redenbaugh, but doctors thought it probably was a sand shark.

Pope ministers to sick at site of miracle cures

LOURDES, France (AP) — After addressing what he called the lack of moral values, political freedom and faith in the world, Pope John Paul II ministered to hundreds of suffering people who came to this town of miracle cures.

In what may have been the most moving part of his 30-hour pilgrimage, the pontiff on Monday abandoned his bullet-proof car and walked through rows of sick and dying people, many so feeble their friends or nurses held their arms out so they might touch the pope.

John Paul chatted with those who could sit up, leaned over and kissed those who could not and laid his hands on bandaged and paralyzed legs as he worked his way slowly to the tiny grotto where the Virgin Mary is said to have appeared 18 times before Bernadette Soubirous in 1858. The 14-year-old Bernadette was canonized in 1933.

"The Lord can and wants to draw good from evil," the pope later told about 2,500 sick gathered around the grotto. He urged them to "love life, and to make it blossom again in you, as much as possible, as a gift from God."

More than 4 million tourists visit this small town in the French Pyrenees every year, including about 60,000 people afflicted with diseases. Many of the sick come hoping to be cured by drinking or bathing in the waters from the spring in the grotto.

John Paul never mentioned the word "cure" during his sermons, an indication of the church's tolerent though ambivalent attitude about the waters' reputed healing powers. Nevertheless, a special medical committee set up by the church has officially recognized 65 miraculous cures here over the years. The last one was in 1976.

Monday's personal contact with the sick was the pope's only walk among the faithful, a journey he made despite a chain of apparently related, anti-church violence here and in neighboring Toulouse.

Immediately preceding John Paul's trip to this popular Roman Catholic shrine — the first ever by a pope — an avowed anti-clerical group bombed a statue of Pontius Pilate along the Stations of the Cross about 200 yards from where the pope spoke Sunday night.

The offices of a Roman Catholic newspaper were damaged by arson early Sunday in Toulouse, and the window of a Catholic printing press there was shattered by a bullet.

The attacks were punctuated by telephoned and mailed threats against the 63-year-old pontiff. Police charged three people with setting the bomb and rounded up dozens of other suspects, including Basque separatists and French anarchists.

Security was tight for the visit. But the mood was festive as more than 100,000 people in summer dress, many waving banners in the yellow and white papal colors, jammed a field across the Gave du Pau River for an outdoor Mass Monday celebrating the bodily assumption of Mary into heaven.

Washington skeptical of Cuban proposal to withdraw advisers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cuba's recent offer to negotiate the withdrawal of its military advisers from Nicaragua is being viewed with considerable skepticism here because U.S. officials believe the proposal is both insincere and unverifiable.

The officials, who asked not to be identified, said they tend to dismiss the proposal, insisting that Cuba has at least 2,000 military advisers in Nicaragua while President Fidel Castro claims there are only 200.

Castro said late last month he would be willing to withdraw Cuba's advisers from Nicaragua if the United States would pull out its own military personnel from Central America.

Initially, President Reagan said Castro's proposal deserves the "benefit of the doubt," adding that the American show of military force in the region had induced the Cuban leader toward a more conciliatory posture. Now, however, officials say they believe Castro's offer was insincere, noting the big discrepancy between Cuba's and Washington's estimates on the number of Cubans in Nicaragua.

One official said Castro apparently was trying to "hoodwink" the United States into withdrawing all of its advisers from Central America in exchange for the pullback of only 10 percent of Cuba's advisers in Nicaragua.

Castro, meanwhile, has called the United States the main threat to peace in Central America, claiming that the dispatch of naval forces to both sides of the isthmus and the deployment of up to 4,000 U.S. troops in Honduras represent a "gross and repugnant threat" to the region.

In addition to the estimated 2,000 Cubans directly involved in assisting the Sandinista armed forces, officials say they believe many of the 4,000-6,000 Cuban construction workers, doctors and teachers stationed in Nicaragua are available for military duty as well.

Officially, however, the Reagan administration has not publicly rejected Castro's offer despite its misgivings. Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said over the weekend the United States is in contact with Cuban officials on Castro's offer.

"We are looking for deeds and not words," Speakes said. Reagan said during his visit Sunday to Mexico that the U.S. goal for Central America is to free the region of superpower competition.

"We will consider it a beautiful day in the history of that region when all foreign elements, including our own, may be safely withdrawn," Reagan said.

Contributing to administration skepticism over Castro's sincerity is a reported incident three years ago in Grenada, where several hundred Cubans have been sent to help construct a 9,800-foot airport runway.

Chad's president says he's ready for talks with Libya

N'DJAMENA, Chad (AP) — President Hissene Habre said today he is prepared to hold direct negotiations with Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy to end the Chad war, but would not talk to rebel leader Goukouni Oueddei.

Habre told a news conference that his only quarrel is with Libya, "which today is in military occupation of half our country...in contempt of the conscience of the international community."

He said Goukouni, who leads a Libyan-backed rebel regime based near the Libyan border, speaks for only one of many "mercenary elements" recruited by Khadafy for the invasion of Chad and can not be regarded as a valid negotiator.

During the weekend, Libyan and rebel forces halted their sweep through Chad's northern wastelands, apparently to avoid any fight with French troops stationed in strategic positions to support Chad's government.

Habre addressed some 100 Chadian and foreign reporters for more than an hour.

He used the news conference technique of France's late President Charles de Gaulle, taking many questions in succession and then replying to those that suited him.

The French-educated Habre spoke in French and never faltered or appeared at a loss for words.

French people oppose sending forces to Chad

PARIS (AP) — An opinion poll published today in the daily Le Quotidien de Paris shows 53 percent of the French oppose sending forces to help the government of Chad resist a Libyan-backed insurgency.

The poll conducted by the opinion firm IFRES showed 28 percent favored intervention and 19 percent had no opinion.

The survey was taken Aug. 10-12 as France announced it was sending 500 military advisers to Chad to back up the shipment of military equipment it has poured into the impoverished former French African colony to support the government of President Hissene Habre.

Opposition leader Nkomo ends self-imposed exile, returns home

HARARE, Zimbabwe (AP) — Opposition leader Joshua Nkomo returned from five months' self-imposed exile in London early today to a low-key welcome, an 80-minute customs search and a political future under attack by the government.

Airport customs officers body-searched the 6-foot, 300-pound independence hero, rummaged through his luggage and confiscated a video cassette player, a television, videotapes and a jar of English honey.

Nkomo, who fled March 8 saying the government had ordered his assassination, remained calm.

Nkomo, 66, said in London he made no "secret deal" with rival Prime Minister Robert Mugabe, who said last Friday Nkomo would not be jailed if he were prosecuted.

American landowner abducted

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — An American landowner has been abducted by leftist guerrillas who seized him as he got off a plane in a southwest jungle town, a Colombian radio station reports.

Radio Caracol quoted military sources as saying the victim, identified as Martin Stimbr, was seized Monday by members of the Colombia Revolutionary Armed Forces, a pro-Soviet group that operates in rural areas.

The privately-owned radio said Stimbr was abducted when he got off a plane near San Jose del Guaviara, a southwestern town in a jungle region about 370 miles from Bogota.

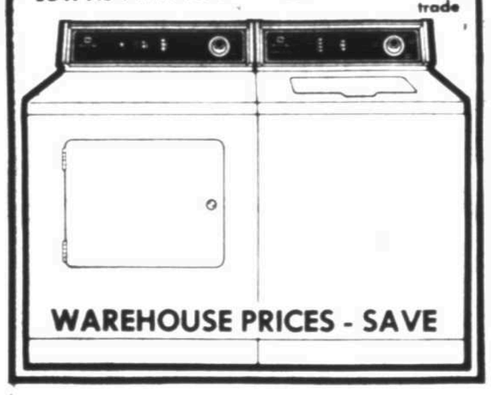

The report said Stimbr had been threatened previously with abduction but reported no demands or other details.

Yemen leaders open summit

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — The presidents of pro-Western North Yemen and Marxist-governed South Yemen have opened a summit to discuss a possible merger of their nations, which have enjoyed steadily improving relations.

The Qatar News Agency said the meeting of the Supreme Yemeni Council, which will review a draft constitution outlining the merger, began Monday after South Yemen President Ali Nasser Mohamed arrived in the North Yemen capital of Sanaa where he was greeted by President Ali Abdullah Saleh.

Border skirmishes flared between the two countries in the 1970s, but relations have improved and they signed several cooperation agreements and formed a committee in 1981 to chart a merger course.

Cubs, Randy rip Dodgers

By BRUCE CASTLEBERRY
Sports Writer

It had all the ingredients of big league baseball.

There was the San Diego Chicken, clowning and leading the throng of 2,418 in cheers. There was the big offensive show put on by both teams. There was action by the bushel.

And voila, there were the Midland Cubs making the clutch plays time and again, and beating the San Antonio Dodgers 8-6. Leading the way was red-hot Randy LaVigne, blazing the trail to victory with a four-for-four evening and providing the winning blast in the eighth, a lead off solo shot that disappeared in the darkness over the right field fence.

Midland, 21-31 and in last place in the Texas League West, is eliminated every way but mathematically from the race, but the Dodgers are hot on the trail of El Paso. However, Midland played the spoiler role flawlessly in handing San Antonio a loss that pushes their chances of catching the Diablos into a corner.

THE CUBS showed plenty of character in doing so. Scotti Madison got things going early with a two-out, two-run homer in the first to put San Antonio up.

Midland was determined not to let this one get away. After the Dodgers added another in the second, the Cubs went to work.

After Mike Anicich got on by an error and LaVigne rapped his first hit, a single, Carlos Lezcano stroked a double to score both. Midland stranded him and gave up another run in the third, but answered with one in the bottom of the inning.

Midland starter Doug Welenc found his groove about then and began to vex the Dodgers. In the meantime, the suddenly potent Cub offense was busy scratching back into the game.

THIS TIME, Tom Lombarski provided the punch. After fanning in his first two trips, Lombarski notched a two-run single into right that scored Jeff Rutledge and Bill Hatcher. Then Lombarski really applied himself and swiped second.

W elenc tired in the seventh, walking Dodger left fielder Stu Pedersen. After the next two batters flied out, designated hitter Dale Holman powered a homer to left that put San Antonio back up, 6-5. Welenc was lifted for Bill Johnson, who has been erratic at times but was overwhelming the rest of the way in picking up his fourth win against four setbacks.

Hatcher singled in the Cub seventh and stole his way to third. Then Lombarski grooved a single to score Hatcher and tie the game. Lombarski was stranded, but it was no problem. Johnson retired the Dodgers in the eighth, then stood back to watch the Cub offense.

It didn't take long. LaVigne's 13th homer gave the Cubs the lead for good. Lezcano drilled his second double and scored with two outs when Hatcher singled. Johnson shut the door in the ninth, putting San Antonio down 1-2-3.

Tonight Ron Richardson, 2-9, will attempt to end the Dodger series on a similar note against Ken Howell, 7-11.

CUB PRINTS: Look out, Bruce Springsteen. Tom Lombarski may be the next great singer from New Jersey after rendering a terrific version of the national anthem before the game...Other musical highlights included Jim Wright, George Borges and A.J. Hill helping the Chicken play bat on a version of Eric Clapton's "Tulsa Time"...Lombarski and Rutledge were involved in a strange play that caused errors to be charged to each. Rutledge couldn't handle Larry See's shot to start the second, and the ball bounced to Lombarski, who picked up and fired in the general direction of first. See later scored...Rick Baker's 54th steal is thought to be a Cub record...Dodger pitcher Richard Felt picked two batters off first, but threw two away trying to get more. Call it even...

Rebs, Dawgs sweat it out

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Assistant Sports Editor

You couldn't tell it from the heat, but the first signs of fall arrived in Midland Monday as both Midland High and Midland Lee hit the football practice field. "The Season" is less than three weeks away.

All 5A schools must work out in shorts through Friday this week and the pads will come Saturday. But hard work has begun with both schools hoping to find thumb's worth of improvement over last year.

The memory of last fall still is sticking in the minds of Lee and Midland High coaches when both missed a state playoff berth by the margin of a thumb. MHS, Lee, San Angelo and Odessa High all tied for second place in District 4-5A last year with San Angelo earning the second place playoff berth on the basis of a coin flipoff.

The coaches at the two local schools were generally pleased with what they saw Monday.

"It's really hard to tell anything at this date, but the kids reported in excellent condition and I don't think you could ask for a better first day. We had good hustle and intensity," said Lee head coach Spike Dykes.

MHS HEAD boss Pat Culpepper said, "Right now it's just a matter of breaking down summer lifestyles. Every year at this time I feel like checking the magazines for those little ads that say, 'Insurance man needed.' But this will all pass and I think our kids reported in pretty good shape."

Both schools had to face summer casualities Monday, but no one seem to be giving up the season with the losses.

At Midland High, Gary Browning, who came out of the spring as Culpeppers' starting defensive end, has decided not to play football this year and tight end Denis Cano, who was in the battle for the No. 1 job, has discovered a heart murmur and did not work out Monday. Cano's future is unknown right now. Receiver Terry McGowan, who had a great spring game, failed to pass three solids and will not be eligible this fall to play football.

Lee also faced some losses. Jeff Motley, who came out of Dykes' spring training as the No. 1 quarterback, will be out from five to six weeks with a shoulder seperation. He was operated on last Thursday after an accident on a three-wheeler. Dennis Matta and John Abbott are now locked in a fight for the starting berth. Lee may also lose the services of projected rover starter Danny Smedley, who may move to Colorado.

Both teams face a heavy schedule of workouts and activities over the next three weeks.

LEE FANS will get their first view of the 1983 Rebels Friday, Aug. 26, when they host Andrews in a 7:30 p.m. scrimmage at Memorial Stadium. The Bulldogs of MHS will face Lubbock Coronado at 3 p.m. Aug. 26 in Lubbock at Coronado's practice field.

Both schools will have a keen interest in those sessions since MHS faces Andrews in Andrews on Sept. 9 in a regular season non-conference game. Lee opens the season on the road Sept. 2 at Lubbock Coronado.

The teams will be given formal introductions to the public in special rallies. Midland High's annual "Super Dog Night" will be held at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 27, at Memorial Stadium. Lee's annual "Chicken Feed" rally is set for Tuesday, Aug. 30, at the Lee High fieldhouse.

Midland football fans also seem to be getting in the mood for football. The Midland athletic office, located at the northeast corner of Memorial Stadium, reported Monday that there has already been a $1,000 increase in ticket sales over last year. Season tickets for one or both schools may be purchased by the general public at the athletic office until Aug. 27, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, Monday through Friday.

For the first time in history, Midland schools will have 11 home games with a special feature Sept. 15-16. MHS will host Lubbock Estacado on Thursday, Sept. 15, and Lee will host El Paso Eastwood on Friday, Sept. 16, the first weekend doubleheader in Midland football history.

Cowboys in romp

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys dominated Los Angeles 30-7, yet a rookie from Dallas who plays for the Rams drew the most attention.

For as Gary Hogeboom and Danny White of the Cowboys controlled the airways Monday night in the National Football League preseason game, the leading rusher was Eric Dickerson, the 1982 All-American from Southern Methodist.

Hogeboom, in his fourth season with Dallas and starting his first game as a pro, sent the Cowboys off to a 10-0 first quarter lead.

He completed nine of 13 passes for 106 yards and had a 17-yard scoring pass to Doug Cosbie.

White, the regular starter, came on to hit nine of 14 for 98 yards and Glenn Carano hit four of nine for 40.

The Rams offense sputtered and might have died if it weren't for the 218-pound Dickerson, who gained 67 yards on 14 carries to lead all rushers. He did, however, fumble at the Dallas 6 when the Rams' offense had its best scoring chance.

At the end, the only Los Angeles touchdown was contributed by LeRoy Irvin, who intercepted a White pass and ran it back 80 yards.

Former Ram, Rafael Septien, kicked field goals of 25, 36 and 50.

After the game, even talk in the Dallas dressing room was of Dickerson.

"He is going to be one of the best," said winning coach Tom Landry. "He could make the difference for Los Angeles. He could change things for them."

Star running back Tony Dorsett of the Cowboys, said, "Dickerson is going to be a good one, and he should not get discouraged because he is not starting. Take it from someone who was in the same spot seven years ago."

Although the second man picked overall in the NFL draft had played briefly against San Diego in the opening preseason game, he suffered a bruised back on his second rush.

Veteran Jewerl Thomas is listed as the starter at halfback with the fast and powerful rookie from Southern Methodist his backup.

After the Dallas tussle, Dickerson commented, "I feel this was my first pro game under my belt. I have the potential to break a long run and that's what the fans like to see."

His longest gain against Dallas was 17 yards.

Los Angeles quarterback Vince Ferragamo experienced a night to forget. He played the first half, threw 16 passes, completed only three for 29 yards and had three intercepted. Two of the latter set up Dallas scores.

Both clubs play again Saturday. Dallas, 2-0, is at home against Pittsburgh and New England visits Anaheim.

Rams starting tackle Irv Pankey suffered a torn Achilles tendon and is out for the year.

BRUCE CASTLEBERRY

Giannoulas still 'unknown'

By BRUCE CASTLEBERRY
Sports Writer

If the folks who make the decisions at American Express are smart, they'll get to Ted Giannoulas somehow.

The scenes in the American Express commercials are quite familiar. A strange, usually unfamiliar face greets the screen, saying "Do you know me?".

Not many would recognize Giannoulas if he passed on the street. But just about everybody knows who the San Diego Chicken is. However, Giannoulas is the brains and the man behind the big beak.

The Chicken paid a visit to Cubs Stadium last night, bringing his own special brand of humor to one of the 225-250 stops on his hectic schedule. Sunday the Chicken was in Burlington, Iowa. Tonight he flies to Peoria.

This Chicken is an airborne one.

It's been ten eventful years in the evolution of this rare bird. Giannoulas was 18 when the flight began. At 28, he shows no signs of being grounded.

"Believe it or not, this is my tenth summer," Giannoulas said before last night's 8-6 Midland Cubs victory over the San Antonio Dodgers.

It is difficult to believe, as the Chicken has spawned a whole new fashion in the world of sports and especially in the world of baseball. Accept no substitutes - the Chicken is the real thing.

It all began in March of 1974 for the diminutive Giannoulas. A native Canadian, he was living in San Diego and was hired by radio station KGB as "a one-week, promotional gimmick." Giannoulas donned the feathers for the first time and passed out Easter eggs at the San Diego Zoo, bearing the KGB logo. Giannoulas made $2 an hour.

This year he will make considerably more, but there was a time when it appeared the Chicken would be permanently plucked.

"I was looking for a way to get into Padres games free," said Giannoulas with an almost straight face, "and my career was hatched." He contacted the Padres and performed at a few games with tremendous success. The Chicken was on his way.

But before long, the Chicken was in great demand. His unique talents ("I see myself as a comedian - a fuzzy Harpo Marx") soon got nationwide publicity, and a big future loomed.

But KGB was not prepared for Giannoulas to spread his wings. They felt the Chicken was their nest egg of publicity, and wanted to check the Chicken. No dice. Giannoulas was fired, and taken to court over what KGB felt was their domain. Trouble in the hen house.

But KGB apparently laid an egg. The ensuing legal battle, which lasted nearly 18 months, kept deciding in favor of the Chicken. Giannoulas had flown the coup for good.

"The courts came out and ruled me a free-agent Chicken," Giannoulas said, "KGB kept appealing, but one court after another went against them. They were trying to keep me from being my own Chicken. If anybody was going to jail for wearing a Chicken suit, I wanted it to be me."

Consequently, after the cock-fight was over, Giannoulas/Chicken had what he considers to be his greatest moment: "My grand re-hatching at San Diego Stadium in June of 1979."

The rest, as they say, is history.

Competitors at many ballparks have come and gone, but the Chicken remains the big bird of bucks. "As for the others, they deserve to be put on waivers," says he. "It's like Mickey Mouse or Donald Duck." Indeed, there is only one Chicken. Phorget the Philly Phanatic or the Rootin Tootin Ranger. Giannoulas rules the roost.

The Chicken plays at all sports, but as a northern bird he favors hockey. Baseball and basketball, according to the winged one, are the games most conducive to his craft.

Giannoulas is single, but probably has more experience around small children because he incorporates them into his performance. "I enjoy children. My favorite ages are from 2-5. I play off certain fans, especially little infants. Most kids respond.

"It's a labor of love," he continued. "I don't know what I'd rather be doing."

The rigors of being constantly on the road could be enough to make one bird-brained, but not Giannoulas. "I'm tired in the morning when I get up, but I'm never tired mentally. I can deal with it. I can't get tired of having fun."

After another 4-5 years, Giannoulas says he'll "hang up the wings. Retire to a stud farm. The Chicken Ranch," he laughed.

As for the American Express idea, they had best leave home without it. Giannoulas doesn't perform out of character, meaning few know the man behind the bird. But everybody knows that the Chicken is a bird of a different feather.

COM scores big win in WT swim

The City of Midland Swim Team won the West Texas Invitational Swim Meet by almost 1,000 points over second place Odessa Aquatic Club. COM compiled 1,824 points to Odessa's 930½.

Five COM athletes earned age group high point honors. It was a COM sweep in the 10-Under division were Kelly Delany and Maria Huff took top awards. John Green won the 8-Under individual title while Becky Simpson took honors in the 13-14 girls and Susie Simpson in the senior girls competition.

Other team places were Amarillo Aquatic Club, 625; Red Raider Aquatic Club of Lubbock, 341; and the Swim Club of Abilene, 188½.

Barnes, Youngs win

Ed Barnes and Wayne Youngs won Green Tree Country Club's Gusher golf title Sunday with a 1-up victory over Harry Bettis and Royce Woolard in the championship match.

The tournament was a member-guest matchplay affair and Jeff Stoltz and Gearld Zachery teamed to win the championship consolation prize with a 5-3 victory over Mark Stoltz and Steve Brown.

One of the top matches of the day, however, came in the fourth flight consolation match where Chester Farmer and Gordon Stafford finally won a 1-up decision over Dale Hamilton and Marv Ginzel after 27 holes.

Splits mark TL doubleheaders

By Associated Press

Tulsa edged Shreveport 6-2 in the opener of a doubleheader, but the Captains came back to squeeze out a win in the nightcap, 5-4. Arkansas whipped Jackson 8-1, but the Mets returned to eke out a victory 3-2 in the nightcap in Texas League action Monday night.

A contest between El Paso and Beaumont was postponed due to rain.

LaVigne's homer, his 13th of the year, broke a 6-6 tie. He went four for four.

Tulsa compiled four home runs in the first game, including solo efforts by Jorge Gomez in the third and fifth innings. Randy Asadoor hit a two-run homer in the second. Chuckie Canady had a lead-off homer in the third.

The winner was Mitch Zwolenski, 12-10. The loser was Craig Chamberlain, 3-7.

In the second game, Jeff Blobaum came on in the sixth inning with bases loaded and the Captains ahead 5-3. He gave up a run-scoring single to Jerry Neufang, then struck out Greg Tabor.

In the seventh inning, Blobaum came back to complete his fourth save.

Starter Bengie Biggus got the win for Shreveport. The winning win for the Captains was knocked in by Bob O'Connor in the fourth with a two-run double.

Jackson's designated hitter Kevin Mitchell scored one run and doubled in another to give Jackson a 3-2 victory over the Travelers and break a six-game winning streak.

Mitchell doubled in second baseman Rick McMullen in the top of the ninth to break a 2-2 deadlock in the nightcap. In the fourth inning, Mitchell had tied the game at 1-all when he doubled and scored on a single by first baseman Mike Bishop.

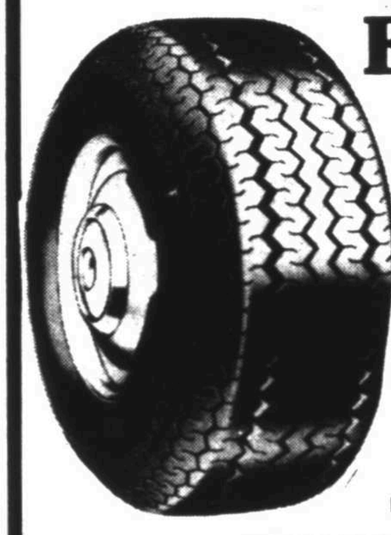

Bill Latham, 4-2, was the winner for Jackson. Jackson had 10 hits off four Traveler pitchers while allowing six hits. Byron Ballard picked up a save. Steve Winfield, 6-5, was the loser in relief.

Jackson's other run came in the seventh when right fielder Sergio Beltre scored on a double by shortstop Vance McHenry.

Burns blanks Yankees, 1-0

Brewers' Haas puts hole in Red Sox

By Associated Press

Moose Haas was unpredictable. Britt Burns was merely unbelievable.

Moose Haas pitched eight shutout innings for his seventh consecutive victory and stretched his string of scoreless innings to a club record 26 as the Milwaukee Brewers defeated the Boston Red Sox 2-0 Monday night on Ben Oglivie's two-run single in the first inning.

"I really haven't changed all that much. I still throw an 88-mile-per-hour fastball. But I've incorporated other things, like changing speeds," said Haas, who hasn't lost since June 10 and is 11-2 after compiling a so-so 61-57 record in his first six seasons.

Meanwhile, Burns made his first start since July 31 after a stint in the bullpen and fired a three-hitter as the Chicago White Sox nipped the New York Yankees 1-0. In his last start, the Yankees routed him in the second inning.

"The main problem I had is I lost my dad a couple of years ago," Burns said. "My father was my main source of motivation. It's been tough to find another source."

The bullpen, where he allowed only one run in three relief stints, was just what he needed.

"My problem was getting fired up and it really helps when you're in a situation when you've got to get them out for two or three innings. It gets you pumped up," Burns said.

The torrid race in the American League East remained as tight as ever, with five teams bunched within 1½ games. The Baltimore Orioles beat the Texas Rangers 6-4 and lead by one game over Milwaukee and the Detroit Tigers, who lost to the Kansas City Royals 6-4. The Yankees trail by 1½ games and are one percentage point ahead of the Toronto Blue Jays, who edged the Cleveland Indians 3-2.

"Watching other pitchers around the league I've seen them having success by changing speeds," said Haas, who was replaced by Peter Ladd after Wade Boggs opened the ninth with a double for Boston's fifth hit. "I don't know who I talked to about it, but it's something you have to find out for yourself. I mean knowing the right pitch to throw at what time. If you don't go out and try it, you'll never learn. I just decided we were going to try off-speed pitches in different situations."

White Sox 1, Yankees 0

At New York, Tom Paciorek hit a sacrifice fly in the first inning and Burns made the run stand up. He struck out seven, did not walk a batter and allowed only singles to Omar Moreno in the first and ninth innings and a double to Larry Milbourne in the eighth after retiring 17 batters in a row. Burns outdueled Dave Righetti, who saw his six-game winning streak snapped despite pitching a five-hitter and striking out 11.

Orioles 6, Rangers 4

At Arlington, John Lowenstein's three-run homer highlighted a five-run sixth inning as Baltimore posted its third consecutive victory. Lowenstein belted his ninth homer — his first since June 8 and his fourth against Texas — off Mike Smithson after singles by Cal Ripken Jr. and Eddie Murray for a 3-0 lead. Ken Singleton walked and was forced by Rich Dauer, who went to second when Smithson hit Lenn Sakata with a pitch. Rick Dempsey's RBI single chased Smithson and Dan Ford's sacrifice fly drove in the fifth run. Pete O'Brien hit a three-run homer for Texas.

Royals 6, Tigers 4

At Kansas City, Frank White drove in three runs with a second-inning single and a sixth-inning triple to help the Royals erase a four-run deficit. Detroit starter Larry Pashnick was clinging to a one-run lead when he opened the sixth inning by walking Willie Aikens and Amos Otis. White greeted Doug Bair with a triple to give the Royals a 5-4 lead and Willie Wilson singled White home. Winning pitcher Larry Gura gave up all four Detroit runs in the second inning, including Larry Herndon's 17th homer. Aikens homered for Kansas City in the fourth.

Blue Jays 3, Indians 2

At Cleveland, Indians reliever Jamie Easterly walked Willie Upshaw with the bases loaded in the ninth inning to break a tie and give the Blue Jays their fourth consecutive victory. Dave Collins opened the ninth with a single off Dan Spillner. Easterly walked pinch hitter Damaso Garcia and Lloyd Moseby's bunt single loaded the bases with none out. Easterly then walked Upshaw on four pitches. Moseby, who had three hits and raised his average to .321, drove in Toronto's other two runs with a fifth-inning double and extended his hitting streak to 20 games, one short of the club record.

A's 5, Angels 0

At Oakland, rookie Gorman Heimueller pitched a four-hitter for his first major league shutout and complete game. The 27-year-old left-hander, who spent 6½ seasons in the minors before joining the A's on July 12, struck out seven, did not walk a batter and retired 19 batters in a row between the second and eighth innings. The A's scored three runs in the second off Geoff Zahn. Carney Lansford had the first of five consecutive singles and Bob Kearney drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single. Mike Heath homered in the fourth.

Twins 7, Mariners 4

At Seattle, Frank Viola survived a shaky start — he allowed two-run homers to Ron Roenicke in the second inning and Richie Zisk in the third — and combined with Ron Davis on a six-hitter. Scott Ulliger's two-out single snapped a 4-4 tie in the fourth inning and Tom Brunansky homered in the seventh.

First subsidized housing bill in three years faces rocky road in Congress

By Vic Ostrowidzki
Hearst Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — A $10 billion federal housing bill, containing an experimental voucher prospoeal which some members of Congress fear might develop into a multi-billion dollar program similar to food stamps, faces a rocky road in the Republican-controlled Senate.

The first measure in three years to provide new funds for subsidized housing, the bill, which passed by the House last July, is "ill-conceived, misguided and counter-productive" according to its principal opponent, Sen. William Armstrong, R-Col. Armstrong insists that this era of "staggering deficits" is not the proper time "to embark on new and untested concepts."

"Especially concepts which create powerful political pressure for explosive growth and costs," Armstrong told his colleagues last month when the persuaded the Senate to delay action on the omnibus measure until after the August recess.

Specifically, Armstrong objected to proposals which called for new housing vouchers he described as "food stamps for housing," rehabilitation and development grants not targeted to the most needy and hikes in subsidized rents.

THE FEDERAL government provides housing assistance to some 5.6 million housing units and 13 million people. Funds have already been approved for construction of another 364,000 units by 1988.

Though President Reagan has asked for additional funds for new housing, the Senate bill calls for outlays of $12 billion above the president's five-year request.

Though funded by the federal government, public housing is owned and managed by local public housing authorities and rented to low-income households which pay no more than 30 percent of their incomes for housing costs.

Because rents are too low to cover costs, the federal government pays a share of ongoing operating expenses, as well as the entire costs of initial construction and subsequent improvements to rundown units. Federal expenditues for all these purposes totaled $2.6 billion in 1982 — up from $860 million a decade earlier.

THE $10 BILLION authorization would support approximately 208,817 units, including 7,500 public housing units.

The measure would limit the rent contribution of tenants in assisted housing to no more than 25 percent of their income, down from the current 30 percent established by in 1980.

The bill would also prohibit from calculating in tenant income such items as the value of food stamps, Social Security payments received by an elderly family sharing housing with others, and any public assistance payments specifically designated for shelter and utilities.

The measure would require that at least 30 percent of the families living in assisted housing be very-low-income.

The strongest opposition to the housing bill comes from those who oppose its proposal to establish a voucher system under which low-income families could shop for their own housing.

The program would work this way: public housing authorities would provide certificates or vouchers to eligible families to cover the difference between 30 percent of their adjusted income and the cost of a rental housing units.

A "payment standard" based on the rental cost of modestly priced standard quality housing of various sizes and types in a particular area would be used to determine the size of federal subsidy to be provided.

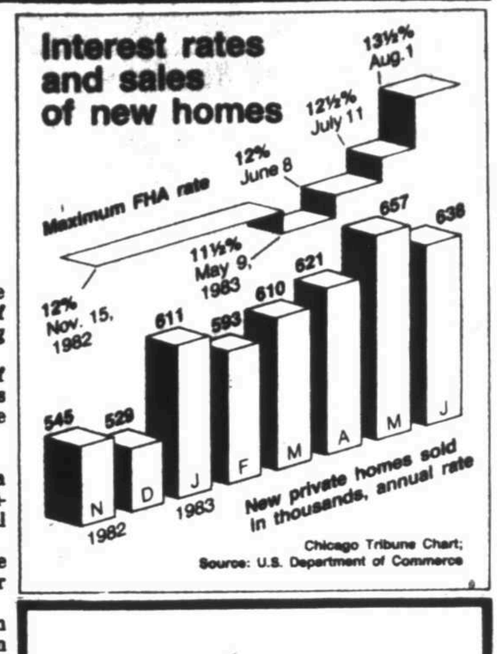

A PARTICIPATING family could choose a unit with a rent above the standard but it would not receive any additional subsidy and would have to absorb the additional cost.

The program is being sold as the best way to reduce federal housing costs on the theory that it is cheaper than the current practice.

Armstrong said the Senate's postponement of action on the measure is "a victory for the taxpayers who have been footing the bill for billions of dollars being thrown at the unmet housing needs in our country without ever coming close to solving the problem.

Armstrong said that the "disasterous experience" with government housing programs argues strongly that it would be most unwise to start any new programs without the most careful study and extensive hearings.

"Most of these programs involve long-term obligations with enormous potential for undisciplined expansion and abuse," he said. "A time of staggering deficits is hardly the time to embark on new and untested concepts which create powerful political pressures for explosive growth and costs."

Mid-Cities bank holds up well

By LESLIE HAINES
Business-Energy Writer

Deposit totals have held up "surprisingly well" at the new Mid-Cities National Bank after two weeks of operation, according to the bank's executive vice president and cashier, Brooks Akins.

Akins said Monday there has been some new account and new loan activity at Mid-Cities, which opened August 1 following the collapse of Metro Bank. The bank's assets are $28.8 million with deposits at $24.5 million and loans of $7 million.

Mid-Cities' board of directors has chosen a new president for the bank; his name will probably be announced later this week, Akins said. The successful candidate was recently employed as an executive officer at another Midland bank.

Mid-Cities' staff is currently reviewing the good loans assumed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation with the intent of buying some of them back, he said. The FDIC assumed $20.2 million in loans from Metro Bank when it failed July 29. The federal agency is working to collect Metro Bank's non-performing loans and sell the good ones to other banks or investors.

The loan review process will take two or three more weeks, Akins said. If Mid-Cities decides to buy back some loans, it will probably re-write them with new terms, he added.

Since Mid-Cities opened under new ownership two weeks ago, the bank has lost about $2.9 million in deposits. FDIC spokesmen said earlier such a drop is not unusual when a bank fails and is then taken over by new owners.

Most of the deposit drop is attributable to matured jumbo certificates of deposit which have been removed from the bank, Akins said. "Two or three other institutions here currently are paying more interest than we are," he said.

The FDIC team in the process of liquidating the assets and non-performing loans of the old Metro Bank has made arrangements to move into new offices at Midland Regional Airport in the near future. The team has been operating out of space in the Mid-Cities building.

Metro Bank was closed July 29 when the state banking commission declared it insolvent because of large loan losses. The FDIC is charged with liquidating the assets it purchased from Metro at that time. It has already collected about $1 million on notes which came due in the last two weeks.

City OKs 101 building permits

Builders and contractors received 101 permits in the first two weeks of August from Midland's Department of Permits and Inspections. These permits represent $4,151,101 in valuations.

Total valuations for the year to date now stand at $110,381,405.

The city issued 52 permits for new single family houses; 27 of them to Deter Construction, Odessa. Deter is building homes in the $35,000 to $40,000 price range, all in the 1600, 1700 and 1800 blocks of Pueblo Drive in 349 Ranch Estates.

New commercial projects included permits issued to Modern Floors for a recreation room at Washington Park; Car Wash Systems of Texas, 807A S. Midkiff; J & K Construction, 4826 Billingsley; Roy Rotan, temporary facility for Community National Bank, 619 E. Florida; Larry Lumpkin & Associates, 4415 N. Garfield, convenience store; and Tusha Buildings, for an Avis Rent-a-Car facility at Midland Regional Airport.

Commercial alteration or remodeling construction is still steady in the city. Area Builders received two permits for finishing interior lease space at ClayDesta National Bank Building for work totaling $222,700 in valuation. The company also received permits for remodeling the first floor at Midland Memorial Hospital and adding a two-story classroom building at Midland Christian Fellowship, 2301 W. Indiana.

HBF Construction received permits to do alterations at Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity, 1412 W. Illinois, and to finish lease space at the Western Building, 1031 Andrews Highway. Builders Interests will do the same for an insurance office at 4305 N. Garfield.

Other commercial alteration permits went to: Kirkpatrick Kontractors, office space at 106 W. Ohio; Robert E. Carrens, 601-603 W. Missouri; Courtyard at Midland Park, 4410 N. Midkiff, space D2; and Flatlander, for the Golden China Restaurant at 4400 N. Big Spring.

Texas American earns more during first half

Texas American Energy Corporation said Monday its earnings from operations in the second quarter and first half of 1983 continued to improve over results for the similar periods in 1982.

President William F. Judd said the company's more advantageous financing arrangements, which were restructured in July, should begin to have a positive effect on consolidated earnings in the third quarter of the year.

The Midland firm said for the six month period ended June 30, net income was $1,375,000 or .20 cents per share, compared with income of $169,000 or 2 cents per share in the same period a year ago. Consolidated revenues increased as well, up to $116.7 million versus $114.8 million in the same period in 1982.

Working capital provided by operations for the six months was $12.6 million compared to $11.2 million a year earlier.

Judd said the earnings improvement was particularly significant in light of the impact of a warmer than usual winter for the company's gas utility service area in central and western Kentucky. The utility's earnings' decline was more than offset by improved results from the oil and gas exploration and production subsidiary, Texas American Oil.

For the second quarter ended June 30, Texas American experienced a smaller loss than in the same quarter of the previous year and a sizeable gain in cash flow. In the quarter, the company lost $1.2 million or 18 cents per share, compared with a $1.8 million loss during the same quarter in 1982.

Consolidated revenues were $43.3 million versus $45.1 million the previous year. Working capital from operations in the quarter was $4.6 million compared with $1.9 million in the same quarter a year ago.

TAE announced in May that its earnings for the first quarter of the year were up 29 percent from the same quarter in 1982.

The company said in July it had successfully restructured its bank debt and secured two lines of credit totaling $64 million. Both lines were priced at lower interest rates than in previous arrangements.

The credit was established at several lending institutions in Texas, including InterFirst Bank Dallas and Southwest National Association, Houston, as well as with Citizens Fidelity Bank and Trust in Louisville, Ky.

OPEC oil production reported above ceiling

NEW YORK (AP) — OPEC oil production has surged past the cartel's self-imposed ceiling of 17.5 million barrels daily for the first time, and at least two members are exceeding their individual quotas, an industry journal reported Monday.

Petroleum Intelligence Weekly said it estimated the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries is producing "surprisingly close" to 18.5 million barrels a day, an increase of more than 3 million barrels daily from April.

The New York-based journal did not identify the sources of its information. Most OPEC countries do not publicly disclose figures on current oil production.

Many analysts had expected OPEC production to rise this summer from the depressed levels of last spring, in part because of economic recovery in the United States and in other oil-importing nations. OPEC is expected to accommodate the increased demand for its oil b raising its production ceiling, possibly at a special meeting this fall. Or, it could raise its prices.

The 13 OPEC members had agreed last March to limit their overall production to 17.5 million barrels daily for the rest of the year. Each member except Saudi Arabia accepted a limit on its own output, with the Saudis agreeing to move their production up or down as needed to bring world oil supplies into balance.

OPEC reaffirmed that agreement at a meeting in July. Its next regularly scheduled meeting is Dec. 7.

Petroleum Intelligence Weekly said OPEC production rose to 17.4 million barrels daily in June from 16.9 million in May. The journal said it had no firm figures for July, but estimated that production so far in August was near 18.5 million barrels daily, mainly because of a big increase in output by Saudi Arabia.

It said Saudi production is now near 5.5 million barrels daily, compared with an estimated 4.5 million in June. Ahmed Zaki Yamani, the Saudi oil minister, had said last week that his country was producing about 5 million barrels a day.

Petroleum Intelligence Weekly also reported that Nigeria, which had exceeded its assigned production limit in the April-June quarter, raised its output to about 1.7 million barrels a day in July from 1.5 million in June. Under the OPEC agreement, Nigeria is allowed sales of 1.3 million barrels a day. The trade journal added that Nigeria has cut back to about 1.4 million in August.

Iran was reported producing more than 2.5 million barrels daily, compared with its quota of 2.4 million.

'Gas-roots' effort shaped

Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — A grass-roots campaign pushing for congressional approval of natural gas decontrol legislation took shape Saturday with roughly 38,000 volunteers walking door-to-door in 11 states.

Paid for by the Natural Gas Supply Association, the Alliance for Energy Security targeted 15 congressmen, including House Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Fort Worth, the association announced Monday.

"When they hear from their constituents, they listen more," said NGSA spokeswoman Sherry Kaplan.

The association decided to invest $1 million in the effort, which involved volunteers passing out literature among neighbors, after polls indicated pockets of support for decontrol, Kaplan said. Specific volunteers in each congressional district were contacted at random, she said.

Kaplan said the association is considering expansion of the campaign to other congressional districts where support appears strong, but plans are not yet set.

Natural gas deregulation bills, aimed among other things at lifting price controls on gas found before 1978, rest before the House Energy and Commerce Committee and the Senate. Congress reconvenes Sept. 12.

Midlanders get peek behind Iron Curtain

People they met seemed 'grim, downtrodden'

By RICHARD ORR
Staff Writer

Webb and Jane McDaniel returned from vacation this summer with a peek at life behind the Iron Curtain — and a better appreciation of this country.

The Midland couple spent seven days in Russia and two in Poland as part of a 17-day overseas tour that began in England and ended in Holland.

Along the way they saw some of the "show spots" of life under communist rule. "It was breathtaking to come up on the bridge over the Moscow River and see Red Square," said McDaniel. "Everything looked hand-polished — especially the golden cupolas of St. Basil Cathedral."

The streets were neat and litter-free, the sidewalks kept clean by women with brooms. There was no sign of air pollution. And Moscow boasts an excellent public transportation system where a ride to any point in the city costs the equivalent of eight cents.

"Moscow and Leningrad are very clean, as are the subway systems in both cities" he added.

"But," said Mrs. McDaniel, "there are no individual neighborhoods as we know them here — just miles and miles of high-rise apartments. There are individual houses in the rural areas, but they're drab and unpainted."

A tour guide told them that on the average, a family of four shares a three-room apartment and that one of the country's goals is to have four rooms for a family of four by the end of the decade.

Medical care and education are free, employment is mandatory, emigration is difficult and religious freedom is more image than reality.

A Jewish man told of applying for immigration to the U.S. and finding his employment terminated after the government agency for which he worked learned that he wanted to leave.

"Many other problems developed for him," said McDaniel. "His application was not approved and his wife divorced him during the ordeal.

"He has since become re-employed by another agency and is grateful. He said it is common practice for the police to check ID cards. If a person is not employed or is not exempted from employmemnt for such reasons as health or having small children, he is put on notice to get employment.

"If this is not done in a reasonable time, he will be subject to punishment and, in some case, may be sent to labor camps in Siberia."

The McDaniels noted a scarcity of automobiles on city streets and a paucity of consumer goods in the stores.

On the question of consumer goods, McDaniel said the purchase of small items such as childrens' books was fraught with bureaucratic tangles.

"The procedure is to get in line to make your selection. Then after getting a cost slip from the attendant, you get in another line to pay the cashier. After which, you get in another line to present your receipt and receive the merchandise."

While hotel and other accomodations were adequate for the most part, said Mrs. McDaniel, "the toilets don't work very well and things looked nicer on the outside than they actually were on the inside."

Prior to entering Russia, McDaniel said they were forced "to hand over any publications that might be derogatory to the USSR, including magazines such as Newsweek, Time and U.S. News and World Report.

"The guide was asked why the magazines had to be turned in, and she said she didn't know.

"There are not many cars in the USSR. To purchase one at a cost of 5,000 rubles (one ruble equals $1.60) requires a 5-to-10-year period to save this amount, with both husband and wife working. I never asked about credit."

"They pretty much took us where they wanted us to go," said Mrs. McDaniel. "But I think we could have gotten into a cab on our free time and gone anywhere we wanted."

The McDaniels found the people of Russisa less friendly than those in Poland, where the only evidence of the Solidarity movement they saw were the "V" signs flashed by children upon seeing the tour bus.

About the only signs of Westernization they experienced were Pepsi Cola and a rendition of "Swanee" at a Russian folk festival.

For the most part, the people they encountered seemed "grim and downtrodden," said McDaniel, adding:

"Bibles and religious publications are not permitted for sale or distribution. One guide said religion is 'quite free.' Yet it's my feeling that people can go to church, but the consequences are such that few people are willing to suffer the consequences of personal harassment and difficulty in job and university placement. There are a lot of cathedrals, but few active churches."

Despite differences produced by opposing ideologies, the McDaniels found that the milk of human kindness is universal.

One morning McDaniel stepped into a washroom on the main floor of a hotel and saw a woman attendant. "She recognized my uncertainty and pointed me to the facilities.

"As I walked past her, I handed her a felt-tip pen and said 'souvenir.' She graciously accepted it and smiled. While washing my hands, I noticed she had stuffed something into my back pocket. It was two small bars of pink soap.

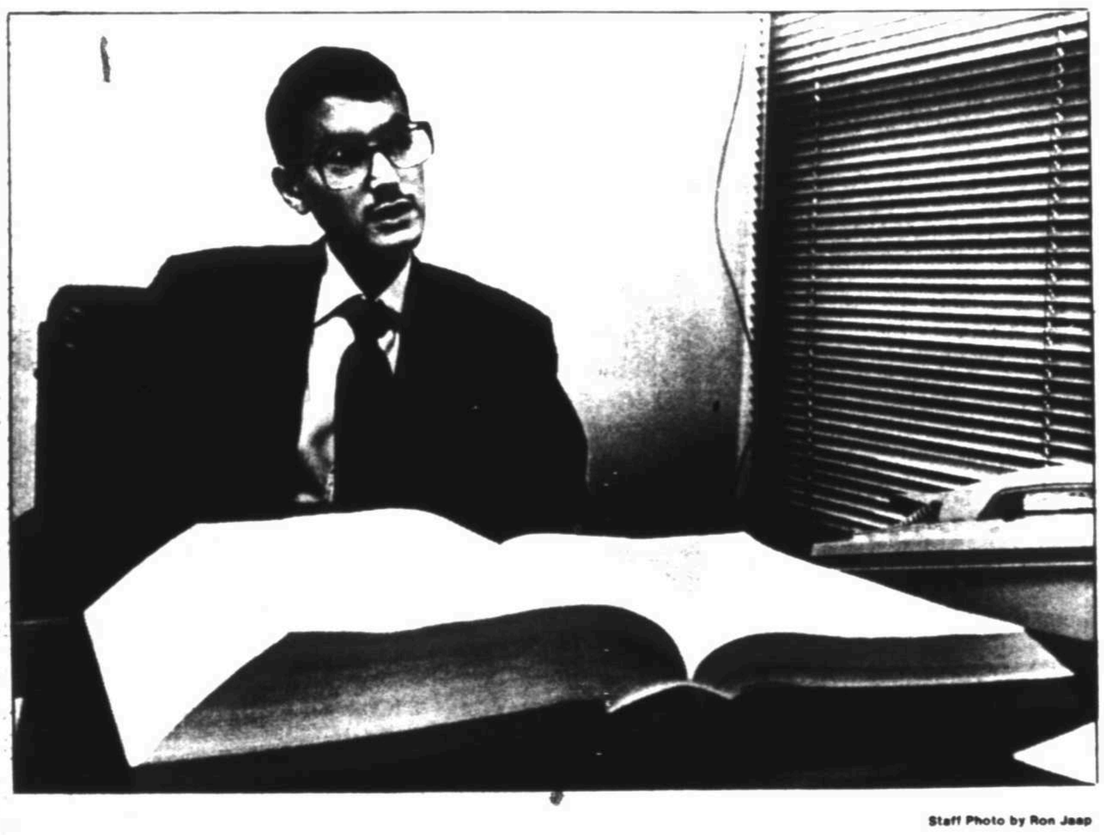

"It was a fine gesture on her part. Since then, I have relived that moment several times. You see, smiles don't occur very often in the USSR, and I shall cherish that one for a long time."

Doctor happy to be back practicing in Midland

Staff Photo by Ron Jaap

Having returned to Midland after 11 years, Dr. Robert Vogel is content in his hometown practice. "I don't know where I'd be if I hadn't thought about coming back," he said. "Just like medicine: if I hadn't gone into medicine, I don't know what I'd do."

When he left Midland 11 years ago, he knew he would return.

There have been changes in the town since he grew up just as there have been changes in him. The switch from medical school to residency to actual practice is one of more responsibility, but Dr. Robert Vogel doesn't mind.

He's happy to be home.

"I don't know where I'd be if I hadn't thought about coming back," the 28-year-old said. "Just like medicine: if I hadn't gone into medicine, I don't know what I'd do."

Following four years at Rice University, where he was a Phi Beta Kappa, four years of medical school and three years of residency in internal medicine, all in Houston, Vogel arrived in Midland July 23. He established his practice in internal medicine with Dr. Richard Reese.

A 1972 graduate of Lee High School, he remembered old school days — such as when Goddard Junior High School sat alone in north Midland. He remembered the flooded dirt road in 1968 that led to the school.

"A lot has changed and a lot has stayed the same," he said. "What is remarkable is the amount of building. But the attitudes are the same. This is probably still a conservative town based on oil."

He said he is amazed at the number of old friends who also have returned to the Tall City, although most of his patients are friends of friends rather than personal acquaintances.

"I've been surprised at how many of my friends are actually here," he said. "I think, over the last couple of years there has been a trend for more Midlanders to come back to Midland."

Even though it's fun to get together with old buddies for a game of tennis, being in Midland has other advantages, he said.

"I'm a pretty happy-go-lucky guy," Vogel said. "I'd probably be happy elsewhere. But I always knew that I wanted to come back to Midland. I didn't really want to go solo. I've always preferred to join someone. But if this hadn't worked out, I would've joined someone else or I would have gone solo."

His carefree attitude leaves when he discusses his patients and health.

"You have to have your priorities," he said. "And number one is your patients.

"There is a big difference between residency and private practice. There is a lot more responsibility being a private physician. Being a resident, you can always get additional help from experts in the field. So far, I worry a lot more about my patients."

Monday afternoon, his last patient wasn't a patient, but the worried daughter of a woman Vogel is treating. He spent time with her to discuss her mother's condition.

"There is a lot of uncertainty," he said. "For most doctors, there is a big transition from residency to becoming a doctor. A lot are going to a new town, a new system and they're not as informed in the economic and financial aspects. I feel very fortunate to come back home where I know the city and a lot of people. The transition for me has certainly been as smooth as possible."

After 4 a.m. risings, jogging four to six miles, and being at the hospital at 6 a.m. to check charts during his residency, his hours are still hectic.

"There were no certain hours," he said. "I'd stay there until all of the patients' problems were taken care of. Many times, I wouldn't be on call but I had a sick patient and I'd just end up staying with him all night."

Last week, Vogel covered for four other physicians. His hours were long but he didn't skip his routine morning jog.

Monday morning he did. But when asked if he would don his running shorts at the end of the day, he smiled and said: "I ran at noon."

"School was pretty long and drawn out," he said. "I find running is good physical and mental therapy.

"I've always been pretty much sports-oriented and science-oriented growing up," he said. "The 11 years of training down in Houston has been pretty medical-oriented. I don't know lots about other things."

He enrolled in a two-evening real estate class and said he hopes to squeeze in — between beeper-calls — some courses at Midland College.

He is a constant reader, and while some may call it studying, his reading is his life, he said.

With board examinations coming up in September, he said he's ready.

"The best preparation for that test has been my practice. You can read about this kind of thing all you want, but it's nothing like seeing it."

Magic: Coming home looking as good as when you left

For years I've heard the phrase "the magic of Hollywood," but it wasn't until recently I figured out what it really means.

Granted, only on the silver screen do drivers actually find parking places within eight blocks of their destination. And only in the minds of script writers do the good guys always win, the bad guys always get what's coming to them, and the boy always gets the girl. And everyone knows televison is the only place where brothers and sisters aren't constantly trying to assassinate each other and children actually respect and listen to their parents.

But all that is not really magic. It's fantasy.

Magic is the actress who can wake up after a night's sleep with her make-up still perfectly applied. When I do it I end up with more make-up on the pillow than on my face, raccoon eyes and hair that is flat on one side and sticks straight out on the other.

Magic is the model who can walk along the beach, her hair streaming behind her in the wind, and come away with her curls "tousled." Two minutes in a West Texas wind and it takes me a week to rake a comb through my hair.

Magic is the career woman in commercials who returns from work in the evening looking as good as when she left that morning — no wrinkles, no runs, no errors.

Magic is pants that never crease at the lap, shirts that never come untucked, shoes that don't get scuffed.

Miraculous is the woman who can spend eight hours running around in four-inch heels and go dancing that night.

Only one of Charlie's Angels can cry without having mascara run down her cheeks, drink a glass of champagne without leaving lipstick on the rim or scratch her way out of a cave-in without breaking a nail. Of course if I got paid $50,000 a week to look glamorous I might be able to play four hours of tennis without sweating, too.

However, I'm just a lowly reporter. During a typical day at work recently I attended several hours of meetings in the morning and spent my lunch hour reporting on a traffic accident, chasing down a fire and checking out a report on the other side of town. Infinitely proud of myself, I then returned to more meetings in the afternoon, only to be told rather tactlessly my appearance left something to be desired.

I'm lucky if I can find a few spare minutes to grab a Coke and a bag of potato chips, much less look in a mirror. My idea of a well-balanced lunch is something I can juggle while driving or taking notes. And a neatly-pressed change of clothes, makeover, manicure and hairdo are fantasies I'd live out on the weekends if I weren't too exhausted to go out.

Some women can do it, and I must admit they have my undying admiration and awe, not to mention envy. No matter what they have been doing they always appear fresh and neat. Even their hair looks starched.

Me? I go in streaks. After a few days under the influence of a glamorous woman — like my mother — I'll grit my teeth with determination, buy a few new outfits and do my best to look like one of the Ewings on "Dallas." Fortunately temporary insanity is just that, and in a few days it's back to sensible shoes and comfortable clothes.

Considering my circumstances and temperament, an acceptable cross between neatness and comfort is about the best I can manage. So next time you see a harried and somewhat flustered reporter, no doubt running a bit late, don't judge her appearance too harshly. Wonder Woman I ain't.

Rumor about bones is no rumor

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — A hermit who pleaded guilty to murdering two men whose bones were found in an abandoned Central Texas well now says he shot one body only after it was dead and killed the other man in self-defense.

Henry Burton Merrill, serving concurrent 20-year terms in state prison, told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram that he started rumors that there were bodies in abandoned water wells to frighten off thieves in the Lake Whitney area of Central Texas.

"With no intentions of ever killing anybody, I started the rumor, just more or less as a joke, but it really got to be a joke," Merrill said.

But when law enforcement officers heard the rumor in August 1982 in the form of an anonymous tip, they found a well full of bones and debris less than a mile from Merrill's home.

Merrill pleaded guilty in December to slaying Tommy Dale Rogers, 42, of Cleburne, and Bobby Carroll Walker, 34, of Rio Vista. Hill County District Attorney Dan Dent said Merrill gave authorities a statement about the killings. Merrill says now, however, that he killed only Walker, and that was in self-defense.

Merrill said he pleaded guilty to the slayings because he was afraid he wouldn't have received a fair trial, that he would have been sent to Rusk State Hospital or sentenced to death.

Jerry Van Pendley, 37, accused of being Merrill's accomplice, pleaded guilty to one count of attempted murder and received a 10-year probated sentence. He was treated at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Waco, where he was released in January.

Last month, Pendley was arrested in Bosque County in connection with another slaying. A grand jury declined to indict him, and he was freed.

Merrill now claims Pendley killed Rogers for insurance money in spring 1980 and that Pendley forced him to shoot the body after Rogers was dead.

"So I shot him in the heart and in the head with my pistol. I shot a dead man," he said.

He says his life was threatened because he knew too much about the well and the people who wanted to collect an $80,000 policy on Rogers. Dent said the Texas Rangers investigated that possibility but found no insurance policy.

As for Walker, Merrill said: "He'd poked his rifle in my belly with the safety off. I killed him in self-defense. I'm not interested in discussing that because I'm going back through the courts."

Merrill insists there were three skeletons in the well and that the third belongs to an "unknown" person. Officials first could not determine how many bodies were in the well and medical examiners finally concluded the remaining bones belonged to animals, Dent said.

Merrill contends the lab reports were altered to show only two bodies. "I'm going to pursue exhuming the body of the unknown person," he said, laughing. "I think that would be quite interesting."

The unknown man "wasn't killed there. He was killed somewhere else and hauled there," Merrill said.

Merrill said a civil suit he filed against Hill County Sheriff Brent Button was intercepted before it reached federal district court in Waco, but the court clerk's office said the suit had been received. U.S. District Judge Lucius Bunton recommended last month that the suit be dismissed as frivolous.

The suit claimed, among other things, that Bunton refused Merrill a haircut before his court appearance and that the jail had no night lights. Merrill also argued that he shouldn't have to post bail for three murder counts if there were only two skeletons. Merrill has asked for an appeal.

He said he also has written F. Lee Bailey asking to be interrogated on his "Lie Detector" show.

Merrill, 53, says he now is planning a screenplay about his life and wants Kenny Rogers to play his part. He is writing an autobiography called "The Joke of the Well" and is attending school to sharpen his spelling and writing skills.

His prison cell is a far cry from the riverbank on which he used to lay his mattress. In winter, he lived in a granary.

"I don't think I was what you call a hermit because I had lots of friends," Merrill said. "I was living like I wanted to live and doing what I wanted to do. And I wasn't hurting anybody. I sure wasn't on welfare."

Group's moving to next town causes squabble

ANTHONY (AP) — The local housing authority has decided to stay next-door in New Mexico, ignoring Anthony, Texas, Mayor Adrian Baca's pleas for the wayfaring group to return home to Texas.

Adrian Baca

"The board belongs in Anthony, Texas, but it still is in New Mexico," Baca said after the defecting housing board declined to return from its new office in neighboring Anthony, N.M.

Monday, on the final day of Baca's 15-day ultimatum to the board to "come back to town," the housing authority remained in New Mexico. "We're staying put," board chairman August LaVora said. "And there's no need for us to move now."

LaVora's board had butted heads for four months with Baca over his attempts to usurp its powers by setting housing authority policy in this farming town of 5,000 about 20 miles north of El Paso, and regulate the political makeup of the board, which is non-partisan.

Baca had stacked the board with two of his staunchest supporters, and has vowed to fill the last three posts next year with those who are "more in harmony with the things we stand for."

Baca, 46, is "a little dictator of the Mesilla Valley," and wants the "ultimate power in his town," LaVora said.

The board now is housed in the offices of John Keithly, who was Anthony mayor from 1979-81. There is no mayor or town office in Anthony, N.M., which is provided police protection by Dona Ana County authorities.

Baca told the housing board in a July 31 letter they had broken Texas law by moving the authority out of his jurisdiction.

In response, the board amended its bylaws Thursday to allow the authority to put its office anywhere within a five-mile radius of the Texas town. Anthony, N.M., where the new board office is located, is three blocks from the Anthony, Texas, town hall where the board used to be housed.

The board's move is not without precedence, LaVora said. The situation is similar to border communities such as Texarkana, which is in both Texas and Arkansas, he said.

But Baca said the board's decision to ignore his plea to return to Texas is "a blunder." He also said he had promised not to meddle in board affairs.

Baca blamed the U.S. Housing and Urban Development regional office in Dallas, which oversees the board's operations, for meddling in town affairs. HUD "encouraged them to break the law, with no malice certainly, but they nonetheless...said to them 'you can move to New Mexico,'" he said.

The squabble over the housing board also has spread into Baca's personal affairs. LaVora charges Baca owns many of the prospective rental units in Anthony that could be used for low-income families.

Baca owns 15 apartments in Anthony, the most of any individual, and said, "I could very well ask for and receive the rent supplements from HUD, but I have refused to participate in HUD. Never once have I participated in HUD."

Break-ins result in more than $40,000 in losses

Eight theft and burglary complaints with reported losses in excess of $40,000 were among the cases being investigated by city police today.

The largest haul came with the theft of $33,000 in bundled building materials taken from an apartment complex under construction at 516 N. Loop 250. The theft was reported by the Campbell Housing Co.

Thirteen vacuum cleaners worth a total of $2,405 were reported taken over a four-month period from the Kirby Vacuum Cleaner Co. at 700 Andrews Highway.

A movie projector, jewelry and a Timex watch were among the items taken in a break-in of the Macelin C. Armendariz residence, 1506 Club Drive. Total loss was placed at $2,640. A window was broken to gain entry.

Police Round-up

In another burglary complaint, Mario Torres of 1501 S. Atlanta said jewelry and a Ruger Blackhawk .357 caliber revolver worth a total of $1,045 were taken from his home. Entry was gained by breaking a window.

Snow skis, tools and a $300 tool box were reported stolen during a garage burglary reported by Charles Smith of 4509 Lanham. The items, worth a total of $1,600, were discovered missing Sunday.

Six mobile home tires valued at $150 were taken from under her mobile home, Sue Henderson of 1300 Cottonflat Road told police. The tires had been stored under the home.

James T. Jones of 1602 N. Fort Worth told officers that tools, paint and a lawn edger disappeared from his garage after the door had been left open. The loss was placed at $215.

And Billy Williams of No. 4 Sun Dial East reported a storage building at 2900 W. Kentucky Ave. was broken into sometime in the past two weeks. Missing were fishing equipment and a Sears 3½ horsepower motor worth a total of $875. Entry was gained by sawing the lock off the door.

UTPB to offer new degree programs

Three new bachelor's degrees in finance, marketing and land management were approved for the University of Texas of the Permian Basin by the UT System Board of Regents recently.

The programs require approval of the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System before they can be implemented.

Regents authorized bachelor of business administration degrees in the three areas since they are considered consistent with the institution's general thrust toward supporting the area's business and industrial interests, according to a UT System spokesman.

In other action regents approved a recommmendation that students with at least 54 semester hours of college or university work can be registered as regular admission students. Legislation in 1969 which created UTPB specified that only student with at least 60 semester hours of college work be admitted to the school.

The limitation was eliminated this year by the 68th legislature.

Regents also approved a fiscal year 1984 budget of $8.2 million for UTPB, including $7.4 million in educational and general funds, $700,000 in auxiliary enterprise funds and $66,000 in gifts, grants and other funds.

Vocational tests to be given at MC

Aptitude Inventory Measurement Service (AIMS) of Dallas will offer three testing periods at Midland College this fall, according to AIMS President John Gaston.

Persons may register to take the AIMS testing Sept. 16-18, Oct. 21-23, or Nov. 11-13 on the MC campus.

Participants will gain information on which vocations they will find most satisfying, which college majors or technical fields they should consider, which schools to attend and what occupational pitfalls to avoid.

By discovering his or her aptitude profile early in life, a young person can choose the most appropriate high school or college subjects and has time to interview people in the recommended career field.

Persons as young as age 13 and through high school may profit most from this testing, although it isn't unusual for persons in their mid-30s or older to take the tests.

Testing takes a full day and three hours on another day. A conference which gives results and full explanatory materials is conducted in the last part of the three-hour period.

Additional information and applicatons for AIMS may be obtained from Dr. Robert Hawkins, MC testing counselor, at 684-7851, extension 123.

Meeting planned on diabetic care

The American Diabetic Association will sponsor a town hall meeting on innovations in diabetic care at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Medical Staff Conference Room at Midland Memorial Hospital. The public is invited to attend.

All aspects of control will be discussed including new insulins, new methods of giving insulin, realistic diet plans, the role of exercise and self blood glucose monitoring.

The program will be given by Jerome Fischer, endocrinologist; Barbara Walz, head nurse for the Diabetes Center and Antoinette Holford, clinical dietician-diabetic educator, all of San Antonio.

The three will address MMH physicians, nurses and dieticians during continuing medical education programs Wednesday.

Central Y to offer dance classes

The Midland Central YMCA is offering Country and Western dance classes from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Mondays, beginning Sept. 12, and ending Sept. 26.

Fees are $20 per couple for members and $30 per couple for limited members. Interested persons may register at the Central YMCA at 800 N. Big Spring St.

The dances, to be taught by Susie Hitchcock, will include the Cowboy Two-Step, Cotton-Eyed Joe, Kicker Polka, Dallas Two-Step, Jitter Bug, Butterfly Waltz, Western Swing and the Cowboy Hustle.

Man goes beserk, kills woman, girl

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston man called his estranged wife to ask for a ride to the hospital, then went berserk when she arrived and killed another woman and a girl, police said.

The bodies of Wanda Means and Latashia Fowler, 3, were found stabbed to death Monday afternoon, police said.

They said the man's estranged wife, 21-year-old Mona Eden, was stabbed twice but escaped andsummoned help. She was in stable condition at Ben Taub Hospital Monday night.

Police said the man called Ms. Eden Monday afternoon and said he needed to be taken to a hospital because he almost had cut his hand off.

Seniors illustrate real-life experience in artwork

By DAVID LEE FORREST
Lifestyle Writer

The artistic talents of many Midland senior citizens were in the spotlight recently at the Midland Senior Center Art Show and In Center Sale.

Most of the arts and crafts displayed were created by seniors enrolled in the city-sponsored center's art classes and craft groups.

Paintings of nature scenes and farmhouses were the most common works in the show. The seniors prefer landscapes, according to LaVoe Peeler, volunteer art instructor with the center.

"I do prefer to do old houses and outdoor scenes," said Marie Caldwell, who had a number of oil paintings in the show.

A few of the paintings are based on experiences the artists have had.

One work, "The Blizzard," a painting of covered wagons rolling through a snowstorm with a horseman leading them, was based on a childhood memory of 75-year-old artist Annis Brazeal.

She said she rode in such a caravan traveling from Coleman County to Greenville, New Mexico with her family when she was 3 years old. Her uncle rode as scout for the wagon train, which was hit by a blizzard on the Texas Plains during its 30-day trek. Her father suffered from exposure during the storm.

"I remember a lot about that trip," she said. "I sure remember when we met the blizzard. I thought my daddy was going to die.

"I have always wanted to do a picture of it and this is it," she said. She has been drawing since she was a child.

"I remember I started with a pencil when I was 5 years old."

Many of the persons exhibiting in the show, however, had never even painted before attending classes at the center, Mrs. Peeler said.

"I know they have a real good time. It's a wonderful pastime for them," she said.

"I started because I was a widow and needed a hobby," Nettie Garrett, an artist, said.

"I didn't have time to do it," Mrs. Caldwell said, before she worked from her job as a beauty operator. "I throughly enjoy it now."

Another artist, Grace Stockton, said she came to the center and noticed others working on pictures.

"I looked over the shoulders of people who were painting and I said, 'I could do that.' Of course, when I started I found it wasn't so simple," she said.

Other goods for sale were stitchery and craft items, ceramics and baked goods.

Annis Brazeal, right, discusses one of her oil paintings, "A Letter from Home," with friend and fellow senior center artist Nettie Garrett.

Khaki "dust gloves" with colorful yarn pom-poms attached to the palm, red-painted fingernails and a bead sewn on one finger to look like a ring was one of the more unusual craft items at the sale.

Although some afghans and quilts were on display, sewing is not one of the center's most popular activities currently, according to Bernice Hughey, stitchery coordinator at the center.

"We have real good sewing machines and plenty of material, we just need more hands," she said.

She believes young people, more so than seniors, are interested in crafts such as quilting "because it's now an artform rather than a utility thing."

The show and sale was rated a success by Marge Holland, center director.

"The art people really sold a lot of paintings," she said. "I believe it was our best sale ever."

"The quality of senior citizens' (art) is as good as you'll find anywhere as a group," Mrs. Peeler said.

June Crosby, who began as the center's first art instructor in 1972 and taught there for five years, agreed with this assessment.

"I would not classify this as a senior citizens' art show," she said. "This is just a good art show."

Refrigerator keeps family together

By ERMA BOMBECK

If I had to name the greatest single contribution to the closeness of the American family, it would have to be the refrigerator.

It cools the entire home in the summer, thanks to kids who stand in front of it with the door open. It stores dirty dishes and bowls with nothing in them, thus saving the wear and tear on the dishwasher. It's a twilight zone for half-eaten suckers and old bubblegum. It's a message center for the entire family. (My husband got such a start when he saw a draft notice until he realized the message was over 30 years old.) It has recorded more fingerprints than are housed in the FBI. It's the hub around which the family's social life centers.

Then why don't I love it?

Because I am sick of fighting my way through crowds to stand there and spend hours trying to find what I am looking for. Who has that kind of time? I'm old. I have to get on with my life.

I have never understood why mothers lock the freezer with the key which they "hide" in the lock, and yet have an open-door policy with the refrigerator.

Really! When was the last time a kid ever filched a 17-pound frozen turkey and took it to bed with him? Compare this to the fact that I haven't had one leftover all summer that has made it through the night in the refrigerator. (The last time I grabbed a cold pork chop out of my son's mouth which I was saving for pork fried rice he accused me of making an attempt on his life.)

So, I had this idea. Well, actually, it wasn't my idea. I got it from my husband. So we can keep track of what is in our safety deposit box, he keeps a list. When we take a document out of the box for our taxes, he records it on a little sheet of paper. When we return an insurance policy or our passports, we write it down. In one glance, we know what is "in" and what is "out."

I figured it should work with the refrigerator, so I posted the contents on the refrigerator door and asked the family if there were any withdrawals to mark them on the sheet.

A cabbage roll had seven ins and outs, signifying no one knew what it was until they bit into it. Some smart-aleck withdrew 35 Bing cherries and two peaches and returned 35 Bing cherry seeds and two peach pits for "inventory." A box of baking soda was withdrawn and returned with the words, "Needs work!" beside it.

Probably the most pathetic entry listed under "withdrawn" was ice cubes and a note beside it, "Would have returned same, but don't know what you use to make them."

He's 27 years old. Probably too old to educate.

Soroptimist International of Midland chartered

Soroptimist International of Lubbock recently chartered a new Soroptimist club in Midland at a banquet recently at the Petroleum Club.

Soroptimist International is a classified service organization for professional and executive business women. The first Soroptimist club was organized in Oakland, Calif., in 1921 and has grown to 75,000 members in 70 countries. The women in these clubs represent more than 3,500 occupations and professions. They are united by their achievements and by their desire to provide community service.

Membership is by invitation and is based on a classification principle which assures a membership representative of the business, professional and institutional life of the club's community.

The type of service the clubs provide depends on the needs of the particular community, Margaret Taylor, charter president of the Midland club, annnounced at the banquet. Shelters for abused women and children, volunteer work with the disabled, nutrition assistance, drug programs for youth and seminars on career opportunities and money management are examples of work the organization performs. Each year, Soroptimist International of the Americas raise and contribute more than $3 million to their selected projects.

Margaret Taylor

Soroptimist International of Midland's goal is to become an important part of Midland and contribute to the quality of life in the community through service, Mrs. Taylor added.

Charter officers for the club are Margaret Taylor, president, Sara Lawson, vice president, Sandra Mock, secretary, Yolane Hartsfield, treasurer, Barbara Goolsby and Sharron Hutchison, directors and Jana Cox, delegate.

DEAR ABBY

Grieving mom has message for youths: Cocaine kills

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Last Feb. 12, my dear friend, Beverly, called to tell me that Kurt, her 25-year-old son, had died of an overdose of cocaine. I was shocked!

At Kurt's funeral, the minister read a letter that Beverly had written and asked him to read at the service.

I have Beverly's permission to send it to you, Abby, because in her words, "If it saves just one life, it will be worthwhile." – KURT'S GODMOTHER

DEAR READERS: Here's Beverly's letter (in part):

... "All of us share a terrible grief, and now I want to share my feelings with you:

"Kurt died of an overdose of cocaine. At first I couldn't even say those words, but now I want to say them over and over again so you, his friends, will not forget them. Since Kurt's death, almost all of you have said to me, 'If there is anything I can do for you, please let me know.'

"All right, I am letting you know what you can do, not only for ME, but for YOURSELVES. Please take care of your precious bodies and make a solemn promise that what happened to Kurt will never happen to you.

"Since this happened to Kurt, many of you have told me that you have used cocaine, but you won't use it anymore. I am not only asking you – I am BEGGING you to stop! It's too late for Kurt, but it's not late for you.

"Don't hurt yourself. Don't hurt your family. Don't hurt your friends. We all loved Kurt so much we don't want to believe this nightmare. But it is true. It happened!

"Cocaine kills.

"If Kurt's death can save just one of you, he will not have died in vain."

DEAR ABBY: I am getting married soon and have made arrangements to have our wedding ceremony videotaped.

I don't want to risk having our expensive video ruined by crying babies and unpredictable toddlers, so I have tried to make sure there will be no small children at the ceremony. That doesn't mean I don't like kids. I love them. But not at my wedding.

This is my wedding, my expense and my choice, so I wrote "No children, please," on all the invitations addressed to those with small children. Now I'm getting response cards back from these people with the names of their children written in!

Abby, what gives them the right to bring their children when I have asked them not to? Our church has no nursery. I checked.

What can be done to keep the kids out? – UPSET IN UPLAND, CALIF.

DEAR UPSET: Short of posting guards at the door to prevent anyone from smuggling a child in, nothing can be done.

To ignore your request is inexcusably rude. Discuss this with your clergyman.

DEAR ABBY: To the 49-year-old divorced man who raised his kids, and now finds he is not willing to raise someone else's: Did it ever occur to him to look for someone his own age, someone whose kids are also grown and "out of the nest"?

He might even find a better bed partner in that age group because she doesn't have to worry about getting pregnant!

Sign me ... SIXTY AND STILL SEXY IN BEND, ORE.

Deputy moralizes in stories

HEBER SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — He's played drums in nightclubs in 22 states and picked cockleburs to raise quick cash in Little Rock. He's a sheriff's deputy, a city councilman and, now, a published writer of short stories for children.

Richard T. "Beaver" Johnston, who has written for fun six or seven years, had his first book, "A Beaver's Tale," published in 1981. The story tells the adventures of a group of animal characters with names like Squirrel, Possum, Skunk and Beaver. Through Beaver, the narrator, the others learn how to cope with obstacles in life and find that friendships can help one through the tough times.

"Each story culminates in a message, like be kind to your neighbors," Johnston said in a telephone interview. "I use it as a tool to give ideas and morals that I think kids should know."

Known as Deputy Johnston when he's on duty with the Cleburne County Sheriff's Department, Johnston, 36, has had more time to write since late April. Injured last summer during a struggle with a man he was trying to arrest, Johnston is recuperating from back surgery to repair a disc broken in his neck.

Johnston has been a deputy for four years and is serving his second two-year term on the Heber Springs City Council. Before he moved back to his hometown in north-central Arkansas, he served a four-year stint in the Navy, traveled the country as a professional musician and studied journalism for three years in college. He found the cockleburr-picking job by answering a newspaper advertisement for field hands.

"That was a real humbling experience," he says.

His father's illness brought him back to Heber Springs. After his father died, Johnston took over running his 180-acre cattle farm outside town.

BUSINESS/INDUSTRY NOTES
An introduction to the page

The Business/Industry Notes are published by the Midland Reporter-Telegram as a service to the businesses of the Permian Basin and beyond.

Three pages are devoted each week to the Business/Industry Notes (B&I pages): a double page spread on Sunday and one page on Tuesday.

The advertisements seen on these pages are directly related to the stories and photographs. Through a six month contract (26 weeks), businesses are given constant exposure to the literate public.

The stories and photos compliment the advertisements, giving the reader an in-depth view of the business. The reader is exposed to specific details and pertinent information not otherwise found on a small advertisement.

Midland houses between 3,500 and 4,000 businesses, reports the Midland Chamber of Commerce. With this amount of competition, constant exposure each week, for 26 consecutive weeks, can only promote interest to help a perspective business.

The businesses of the Permian Basin are as fascinating as they are numerous. Currently, teh B/I notes are graced with businesses such as an executive charter service, lingerie shops, numerous restaurants, auto and truck shops, camera shops and a behavioral hypnotist.

Any and all businesses are encouraged to join the Midland Reporter-Telegram's Business and Industry Notes, regardless of the nature of the business. All businesses, corporate or independent, are invited to consider this opportunity.

For further information contact the advertising department of the Reporter-Telegram at (915) 682-5311. The staff would be happy to quote prices and discuss potential story material. Call 682-5311 and let the Business/Industry Notes work for you.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Wednesday, August 17, 1983

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Frontiersman Davy Crockett, motion picture pioneer Samuel Goldwyn and Mae West were born on this date. Also sharing your birthday: actor Robert DeNiro, tennis' Guillermo Vilas and actress Maureen O'Hara. Love relationships flourish in the months just ahead. Travel brings both luck and romance. Admit a secret longing. Mate basks in your confidences. A new idea or contract could produce extra funds in February. Think about your financial security before making any drastic changes. Financial compromises are worth pursuing. The employment picture will become clearer after the next few weeks. Your family deserves more of your time and attention.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Do not permit someone to penalize you for finishing work ahead of the pack. Secrets can be uncovered if you persevere. Postpone making a decision if those involved try to hurry you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): An intriguing new job possibility is part of the picture. Do not let a friend's callous remark depress you. He or she is ignorant. Think about your future financial security.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A refund or settlement eases a money shortage. Family dispute should be put on the back burner until everyone has cooled off. A benefactor enables someone creative to work without undue pressure.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You are placed in a position where you must choose between hurting or being hurt. Your sense of humor helps you get through a difficult time. New career doors open.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A mistake can be rectified if you act immediately. Prove to yourself that you have the self-discipline you need to succeed. Business enterprises pick up. An employer adds to his workforce.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Surprising developments at work make this is day of decision. A part-time job helps your finances, but is not a permanent solution. Use you talents where they will earn quick cash.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Expect the unexpected today! An early morning TV show could give you a money-making idea. Follow through immediately, seeking the advice of someone reliable. Romance should be delightful.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Go out of your way to please someone who has been kind to you in the past. You can and should take or additional work. Influential person will be impressed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Do not count on others fulfilling their promises today. Interruptions and distractions are at a peak. Those who rely on their own efforts win the loudest applause. Start a special savings fund.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Take a chance on someone and you win a new friend. Your boss drops hints. Pay attention! Set a good example for small fry by reducing your spending.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Use your energies constructively. You would be wise to ignore someone who gossips at work. Chances are, this person is not talking about you. Be generous with the deserving.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): An older person does you a good turn. Resolve to return the favor as soon as possible. Member of opposite sex sees you in a new light. Remain calm and friendly.

CBS shows on two hours later

NEW YORK (AP) — Something good has been happening Tuesday nights on CBS this summer, only this time, it's two hours later.

"On the Road with Charles Kuralt" will be broadcast at 10 EDT, and "Our Times with Bill Moyers" at 10:30, mostly as an experiment to see how the back-to-back CBS News productions do with a network, rather than local, lead-in show.

Robert Altman's theatrical film, "Health," will precede Kuralt and Moyers, tonight only.

The two programs have done extremely well — probably better than anyone expected — at 8 and 8:30, and they'll go back to that schedule Aug. 23.

In fact, only one new summer show, "Buffalo Bill," the NBC sitcom, has enjoyed a bigger audience, on average, than "On the Road." And "Our Times" is fourth, behind "The Hamptons" on ABC.

"On the Road" attracted 23 percent of the 8-8:30 audience through seven installments, and Moyers' "Our Times" 20 percent, and that can't be hard for the network to swallow. During the 1982-83 season that ended in April, CBS shows in the 8-9 slot had about 22 percent of the viewers.

Neither Kuralt nor Moyers are on CBS' fall schedule — both shows leave the air after Aug. 23 — but there has been talk recently of working one or both of the correspondents into the lineup after the first of the year. The format might be changed, and other CBS News people could be involved.

A lot depends on what happens tonight.

"On the Road" and "In Our Times" are contrasting shows in nearly every way imaginable — subject, style, pace, presentation. Yet each complements the other in a remarkable manner.

Kuralt, tonight, talks about cowboys and clotheslines, unusual mailboxes and Maude Callen, who still cares for people in Pineville, S.C., 32 years after she was the subject of a photo-essay in Life magazine. Moyers' subject is trouble in the Philippines.

Kuralt's sensitive, thoughtful approach enables him to say things that might sound corny coming from others. "The clothes give color and spirit to the American landscape," he says in the first segment tonight. "I ask you, is there not art in these towels of Ohio ...?"

Moyers is thoughtful and sensitive in another, perhaps more persistent, way, and cares altogether as much as Kuralt.

Opening lead: Ace of ♠.

At the beginning of June, Jay Feigus of New York sat down to play in the Reisinger Pairs Championship, the premier event of the Eastern States Regional Championships. That is not remarkable in itself, were it not for the fact that Jay has played in every Reisinger event since it was first played in 1929! At 90, he is planning to win the event next year, for Jay is still a pretty shrewd bridge player.

Jay has won the Vanderbilt Team Championship and many regional titles. This hand is from the Von Zedwitz Gold Cup Pairs Championship of 1948.

The auction might not measure up to today's scientific scrutiny, but it was certainly effective. North judged that his top spade honors were worth a slam try, and Feigus liked his honors in partner's second suit enough to venture on.

West led the ace of clubs and shifted to the six of diamonds. Declarer decided that it was from top of nothing and that the finesse was doomed to failure. So he rose with the ace of diamonds and ran all his trumps, coming down to four hearts in dummy and three hearts and the ten of diamonds in his hand.

Among his last four cards West had had to keep the queen of clubs to protect against the table's jack. East had to guard against the ten of diamonds, so he had to let go a heart. Now declarer simply cashed two high hearts, then overtook the jack of hearts with dummy's ace, and dummy's fourth heart was the fulfilling trick.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? Union sinkhole

When the U.S. Interior Department first advanced plans to turn Union Station in Washington, D.C., into a visitors' center for tourists, there were solemn promises that the project would not cost the taxpayers a penny.

But pledges of private financing were never fulfilled. In the 15 years since the plans were announced, $75 million in public funds have been expended on the deteriorating old train terminal.

Although the visitors' center opened in time for the 1976 bicentennial celebration, few tourists bothered to use it. Now the center is closed, a victim of flooding and structural defects.

As you might expect, Interior Department officials have quietly withdrawn from the field, licking their wounds. But bureaucracy, like nature, abhors a vacuum. The U.S. Department of Transportation has rushed in to fill the breach.

In figuring out ways to spend money on Union Station, the Transportation Department makes the Interior Department look like a model of fiscal rectitude. Amazingly, Congress has approved transportation officials' plans to spend another $110 million in federal funds to transform the station back to a passenger train depot.

Why must the taxpayers put up so much money for renovation? After all, the cavernous station was built in 1907 to serve many more trains than the 43-a-day now using a terminal in the basement.

A better idea would be to sell the station to private interests with the proviso that the terminal remain in the basement. This would rid the government of a white elephant and eliminate a bottomless sinkhole for public funds.

Higher education?

In contemplating the problems of education in America, one should for a moment ponder the argument advanced in a lawsuit filed by four University of Arizona football players against the National Collegiate Athletic Association, which imposed sanctions on the university for violating NCAA rules.

Among those sanctions are prohibitions against Arizona's participating in bowl games following the 1983 and 1984 seasons and against games being televised during the course of those seasons.

The suing players say that since the infractions took place before they arrived on campus, the sanctions unfairly "infringe upon their rights to seek a professional football career."

The suit says nothing about their rights to pursue an education free of commercial pressure or the recruiting excesses of big-time sports, but at least it's candid about what they — and presumably the University of Arizona — believes they're really there for.

Another View:

King's dream lives

Legislation to honor the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. with a federal holiday has been introduced in every Congress since the Nobel Prize-winner civil rights leader was slain in 1968.

The bill got its first chance at becoming a reality recently when the House of Representatives passed the measure. The Senate is expected to approve the holiday when it returns in September from its August recess. The only stumbling block is President Reagan, who has said he is reluctant to approve another costly day off for federal workers.

A series of emotional speeches preceding the House vote noted that this month — Aug. 28 — marks the 20th anniversary of that memorable moment when King led a massive civil rights march in Washington and delivered his celebrated "I Have a Dream" speech.

"Martin Luther King's day must be a day for all Americans because Martin Luther King's dream is the American dream," Sen. Edward M. Kennedy testified at a House hearing on the bill.

Yet President Reagan has said that while he favors honoring King in some fashion, it should not be on a workday. Indeed, he has pointed out that Abraham Lincoln and Thomas Jefferson have not been so honored.

The bill would designate the third Monday in January as a national holiday, commemorating King's Jan. 15 birthday. It would become the 10th paid federal holiday a year.

The Congressional Budget Office has estimated that it would cost $18 million a year to give federal workers another paid holiday. Yet that seems a small price to pay to make such an important statement of this country's commitment to civil rights. Fifteen states already have made King's birthday a state holiday and proponents of the idea have pursued it with unflagging dedication.

Mr. Reagan signaled that he might reconsider his opposition. Some advisers are urging him to back the measure to boost his low standing among blacks and other minorities. That might be par for the political course, but the president should sign the bill proudly, not for his political interests but to send a message to those who still have faith in King's vision that some of their dreams can be realized.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Tues., Aug. 16, the 228th day of 1983. There are 137 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Aug. 16, 1977, singer Elvis Presley died at his home in Memphis, Tenn., at the age of 42.

On this date:

In 1777, American troops defeated a Hessian force under British command at what is now Bennington, Vt., during the Revolutionary War.

In 1914, the British Expeditionary Force landed in France during World War I.

In 1948, baseball great Babe Ruth died in New York at the age of 53.

And, in 1960, Britain granted independence to the colony of Cyprus.

Ten years ago: A Libyan hijacked a Lebanese airliner with 125 people aboard and forced it to land at Israel's Lydda Airport, where Israeli security agents overpowered and captured the hijacker.

Five years ago: The Carter administration modified a proposed fighter plane and missile sale to Iran, forcing the Shah's government to accept an older system.

One year ago: The "Saturday Review," a renowned literary magazine, ended publication after 58 years.

Today's birthdays: Sportscaster and former pro football star Frank Gifford is 53 years old. Singer Eydie Gorme is 51.

Thought for today: "The golden age only comes to men when they have forgotten gold." — G.K. Chesterton, English writer (1874-1936).

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Meals program hard to swallow

WASHINGTON — Reporters aren't lobbyists, nor should they be. But sometimes the press does influence legislation. This is the story of an inquiry from my office that kept a bad law off the books.

Jack Anderson

It began with a lawsuit by a group of elderly and handicapped tenants of federally subsidized housing in affluent Westchester County, N.Y. They had been forced by their landlord to pay for meals whether they ate them or not.

The trouble was that some of the tenants had digestive problems and literally couldn't stomach the institutional meals they were required to buy. Others simply preferred their own cooking — but couldn't afford to pay for both sets of meals on their limited incomes.

So the tenants sued to get out of the mandatory meal program.

One tenant, 85-year-old Mary Arundell was forced to pay $90 a month for meals, so she decided she'd at least try them. "I immediately found I had trouble eating the... food," she stated in an affidavit. "It disagreed with my stomach and I frequently gagged. Nevertheless, I usually tried to eat some of the evening meal, because I could not afford both to pay for the 'Meal Service' and to buy and cook my own suppers."

The tenants had legal precedent on their side. Courts in Colorado and California have ruled against mandatory meals in subsidized housing. The Colorado tenants argued successfully that the meal payment was in effect an extra rent charge and therefore in violation of the law that limits subsidized tenants' rent to 30 percent of their income.

Faced with the virtual certainty of an unfavorable court decision in the Westchester suit, landlord interests successfully lobbied Congress for an innocent-looking amendment to the Omnibus Housing Bill of 1983. The amendment, buried in the 150-page bill, stated:

"Nothing in this section authorizes the Secretary (of Housing and Urban Development) to prohibit a required meals program, nor shall any provision of the U.S. Housing Act of 1937 be deemed to prohibit such a program or to require that payments under such a program be considered part of the rental charge for the unit."

In short, HUD would be powerless to stop landlords from requiring their subsidized tenants to pay for meals whether they wanted them or not. The Westchester tenants' lawsuit could be thrown out of court.

Alerted to this legislative sneak attack, my associate John Dillon called the office of Rep. Fernand St. Germain, D-R.I., chairman of the subcommittee where the amendment originated.

St. Germain's aides were flabbergasted. They said they had assumed the amendment was a "defensive action" designed to keep landlords from canceling meal programs — in other words, a legal protection for the subsidized housing tenants. "It was never the intent of this amendment to impose meals on people," a staff member said.

Working quickly and quietly, St. Germain pulled the amendment out of the housing bill before it reached the floor for a vote. The landlords will now be unable to force their hard-up tenants to buy meals they don't like and can't afford.

This may not be the way the legislative process is supposed to work. But an estimated 150,000 elderly and handicapped tenants across the country will no longer be forced to pay greedy landlords for an unwanted program.

DERAILING DOPE: Narcotics traffickers and illegal immigrants are showing an increasing taste for an unlikely means of entering the United States from Canada: the railroads. The switch to Amtrak is due in part to the tighter surveillance of airports, landing strips and coastal entry points.

So customs and immigration authorities have quietly stepped up their enforcement activities on the three daily trains between Canada and the United States, with the cooperation of Amtrak, the Mounties and local police.

NO DOCUMENT DEAL: President Reagan's assertion that he knew nothing about any pilfered Carter campaign material in 1980 has history on its side; I can vouch for that. In 1976, President Ford's Republican regulars controlled the seats, floor passes and other coveted perquisites at the Kansas City convention.

Access to the convention floor is a crucial means of courting delegates, and Ford's men were determined to keep the Reagan operatives off the floor no matter how unfair the tactics had to be. I had a high source in the Reagan camp who had readied a whole packet of documentary evidence on the Ford people's heavy-handed tactics. But before the story could be discreetly leaked, it needed the candidate's OK. The word came back from Reagan's suite: "The Old Man doesn't want to play that way."

INSIDE REPORT:

Reagan, Volcker likely to meet

WASHINGTON — Deepening fear at the highest levels of the Reagan administration that the Federal Reserve Board is threatening to choke off the economic recovery may lead to a fateful one-on-one meeting between Ronald Reagan and Paul Volcker soon after Labor Day.

If key officials at the White House and Treasury have their way, a well-briefed president will talk to Volcker in more precise terms than the generalities used before he reappointed him Federal Reserve chairman June 18. This time, Reagan would make clear that he is not afraid of economic growth and indeed welcomes a boom.

Rowland Evans

Robert Novak

But so unequivocal a stance by the president, necessary to make a meeting with Volcker more than empty ritual, is far from assured. Reagan is confused on economic policy as at no time in his presidency, thanks to the cacophony of conflicting advice. Indeed, the Fed's tilt toward austerity reflects non-stop collaboration between Volcker and Dr. Martin Feldstein. As chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, Feldstein has marched to his own drummer since arriving here a year ago.

Vague unease among congressional Republicans turned to alarm last week when indicators of housing and other economic activity started slipping. Rep. Jack Kemp, chairman of the House Republican Conference, warned the Fed of "bold, swift and bipartisan" action by Congress to forestall a "credit crunch."

Much the same attitude is expressed privately inside the administration, where fear exists that Volcker's tight-money policy may abort the recovery in 1983 as it did in 1981. But politically-minded officials realize there is no margin for error this time; an aborted recovery will guarantee defeat of Reagan or any other Republican in 1984, no matter whom the Democrats nominate.

"Paul Volcker is going to do it to us again," one deeply worried economic policy-maker, who has been a consistent critic of the Fed chairman, told us. Similar concern is shared by Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan, who endorsed Volcker's reappointment.

Assuming the Fed is traditionally pliant, why does not the president simply take Volcker to the woodshed and tell him to ease up? Because at this time Reagan scarcely knows what he wants, thanks to the economic jumble pouring from his advisers.

Feldstein is a Harvard don who acts as though he were on a two-year visiting professorship here with no requirement for loyalty to the Reagan administration, much less concern with Republican fortunes. White House aides believe they at long last have muzzled his public calls to slow down the recovery, but none has any illusions that Feldstein has been restrained in his daily discourse with Volcker. Indeed, two senior administration officials confide they fear Volcker may have gotten an erroneous picture from Feldstein of what the president really wants.

Volcker's harping on the need to attack budget deficits with tax increases, a policy area beyond his responsibility, exactly mirrors Feldstein's position. Both, therefore, are in opposition to administration policy, which rules out any major tax increase. What's more, a Treasury memorandum demolishes the Volcker-Feldstein claim that budget deficits push up short-term interest rates.

There is no doubt that Don Regan, the only other administration official besides Feldstein to meet with Volcker regularly, faithfully represents the president's views in those talks. But both Reagan and Regan persist in a monetary Catch-22: while committed to economic growth and opposed to austerity, both demand that Volcker restrain M-1 (a notoriously quirky indicator of the money supply); that has the unintended but nevertheless inescapable effect of pushing up interest rates and slowing recovery.

James A. Baker III, chief of the White House staff, has led the president out of similar policy cul-de-sacs. But his grasp of monetary policy is admittedly shaky and his interest in economic affairs tenuous. Thus, the task devolves on a Baker lieutenant, Richard Darman.

Supply-siders have considered Darman the pro-tax devil, partly because of his architect's role in the 1982 revenue boost. But he has informed Kemp that advocates of economic growth and booming recovery include Ronald Reagan, Jack Kemp and Dick Darman.

That may seem strange company for the protege of Elliott Richardson, beau ideal of liberal Republicanism. But Darman, who holds a degree in economics and actually understands monetary policy, is free of totemistic attachments to budget deficits or M-1. He is also a practical politician who understands there is no margin for error in preventing a recurrence of 1981. It is no exaggeration to say that whether or not the president lays down the law to Volcker soon after returning from his Santa Barbara respite could determine this country's course in the years ahead.

LETTERS

When silence is consent

To The Editor:

Three cheers for June Dotson who periodically reminds us of our responsibility for those who cannot speak for themselves. But it's sad that "animal rights" receive more support in this column, in this town, in this country, than do the rights of an unborn child.

Don't want to talk about this subject? Don't want to see any photos of aborted children, right? Too ugly.

I'm dreaming of a billboard standing high between Odessa and Midland, owned by a pro-lifer with money enough to put a huge message, changed seasonally, that tears at the hearts of people until they quit ignoring the issue.

There must be two main reasons why anyone could deceive themselves into believing abortion is humane or right: A root of selfishness that goes deathly deep or ignorance of the facts. Abortion is murdering a tiny human that is definitely alive (because it is growing).

The reasons are endless: Inconvenience mostly. It's too hard, the child doesn't fit in with plans. So it dies because someone has been convinced that it's only "fetal tissue."

Come on Planned Parenthood and other abortion suggesters, why don't you show pictures of how the story really ends? Why aren't all women considering abortion warned of the guilt, told that the quivers from within are not just contractions but a tiny person fighting for its life? Life that is still stupidly and redundantly being debated over and over while millions of silent victims tally up?

Does this offend you? I'm a pro-abortionist turned anti-abortionist because someone offended me by laying the whole truth in front of my eyes. Step out pro-lifers and tell people the whole truth, write letters, leave pamphlets, support the pro-life groups here. Silence is consent.

Water issue

To The Editor:

In reference to State Rep. Tom Craddick's article entitled "Federal assistance needed for future supply of water" which appeared in the "Speaking Out" column in the Aug. 7th Midland Reporter-Telegram, Rep. Craddick stated that an aggressive water conservation program by both irrigation farming and municipalities is being carried out in West Texas.

Yes, it would be wonderful if this were true for it is badly needed and long overdue. We should consider the methods that are used in Israel where groundwater supplies are taken only at the natural replenishment rate.

Apparently Rep. Craddick neither attends the hearings of the Natural Resources Committee of which he is chairman nor does he bother to read the reports they publish. If he did either, he would realize that the major water problem voiced by the citizens of West Texas was water contamination caused by oil field pollution.

The city manager of Kermit was quoted in another West Texas newspaper the same Sunday in an article on water as stating "Oil field pollution is the greatest threat for this region." Yet, Rep. Craddick never once mentioned it in his article; instead he talked about sewage.

Rep. Craddick personally told me that everyone knows that once an old oil field goes into secondary recovery you write off the water because it will be polluted under existing methods.

If he is truly worried about the critical water problems of West Texas he will address this issue.

A put-down

To The Editor:

Talk about sexist put-downs. In the recent TV show "Emergency Room," Sarah Purcell said to a fellow doctor: "I'm not just an R.N. you can play patty-cake with in the elevator; I'm an M.D. like you."

What a slam at all the registered nurses of America. Let's hope Proctor & Gamble Productions, the sponsor, receives thousands of complaints about this. In fact all nurses, male and female, should just wash their hands of buying anything from Proctor & Gamble!

Three cheers for Midland Independent School District Board President Bill Jackson and the other school trustees and administrators who are committed to seeking the best teachers and administrators available, whether those teachers and administrators are promoted from within the district or hired from outside the district.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Alcohol can raise blood pressure

Dear Dr. Solomon: I am 59 years old and have never abused alcohol. In fact, I would classify myself as a moderate drinker. At my last physical examination, my doctor told me that my blood pressure was a little high and he suggested that I cut out all drinking for about a month and then come back and have my pressure checked again. I have a lot of confidence in my doctor, but I would just like to know if this kind of advice is given to other patients. — Leonard, Hutchinson, Kan.

Dear Leonard: There is conflicting evidence concerning the effect of alcohol on blood pressure, but the findings in one study have shown that alcohol may cause an increase in blood pressure in men your age. I assume that is why your physician suggested you abstain from alcohol for a while.

Dr. Stephen P. Fortmann, of the Stanford Heart Disease Prevention Program, found a relationship between alcohol consumption and blood pressure in men over 50 years of age, but not in younger men. If abstaining from alcohol reduces your blood pressure, you may be able to avoid the need for antihypertensive medication.

Dear Dr. Solomon: My sister tells me that her pediatrician recommends to all of his families that they keep a bottle of syrup of ipecac in the house in case a child swallows something accidentally. When should this be used for a small child? — Margaret, Miami Beach, Fla.

Dear Margaret: Syrup of ipecac is a nonprescription medication that is often used to treat poisoning. However, it should not be used without the recommendation of a physician or of a poison control center in the community.

For Malcolm, Augusta, Maine: What you refer to as noise pollution is not necessarily limited to factories or machine shops. Loud music and snowmobiles, for example, are other sources of noise that may have harmful effects.

The most obvious concern, as you note in your letter, is the threat to hearing, but noise pollution also produces stress. Many people show a physical response to noise, such as an increase in heart rate and blood pressure.

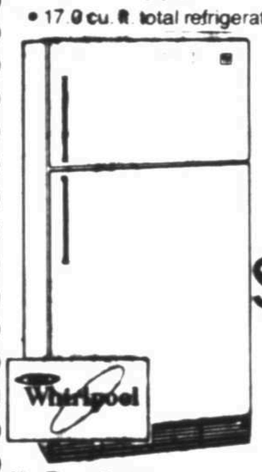

(If you have a medical question, write to Neil Solomon, M.D., 1726 Reisterstown Road, Baltimore, Md 21208. Dr. Solomon cannot give personal replies but will answer as many questions as possible in his column).

Metromedia wants ruling overturned

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Metromedia Inc., the defendant in the Christine Craft sex discrimination trial, has asked a judge to overturn a jury's award of $500,000 to the former Kansas City anchorwoman.

Metromedia lawyers contend there was not enough evidence to submit the case to the jury, and that the damage award was excessive. Oral arguments were scheduled for today on Metromedia's request that Judge Joseph Stevens Jr. overturn the jury's verdict, which said the station was guilty of fraud.

Ms. Craft had filed a $1.2 million lawsuit against Metromedia, former owner of KMBC-TV, contending she was demoted from the station's anchor desk in August 1981 because she was "too old, unattractive and not deferential enough to men."

She refused to accept the demotion and returned to California, where she had worked before being hired at KMBC-TV.

On Aug. 8, jurors made the award to Ms. Craft on her contention that Metromedia had defrauded her by telling her she was hired solely for her journalistic skills.

The jury found that Metromedia did not violate equal pay laws when it paid Ms. Craft less than KMBC-TV's male co-anchor.

In documents filed in U.S. District Court, Metromedia also urged Stevens to disregard the jury's recommendation that Metromedia be found guilty of sex discrimination in its treatment of the 38-year-old anchorwoman.

The sex discrimination finding was a recommendation because under federal law, a judge must enter the final ruling on such a claim.

Paul Simon, Carrie Fisher tie the knot

NEW YORK (AP) — Songwriter Paul Simon finally captured his princess charming and is marrying actress Carrie Fisher in New York City, the Daily News reported today.

Simon and Miss Fisher, who has won fame as Princess Leia in the "Star Wars" trilogy, were to marry today "in a very private ceremony," the News said.

The paper said the wedding would be performed by a rabbi with Miss Fisher's divorced parents, actress Debbie Reynolds and singer Eddie Fisher, and her brother, Todd Fisher, attending.

The News said Simon had asked Miss Fisher to marry him a few days ago and obtained the marriage license Monday.

The News said Fisher will give the bride away.
