Stuyvenberg Castle Guns Announce Arrival of Second Belgian Heir

Populace Jubilant Over Birth of a Son to Princess Astrid And Crown Prince Leopold

BRUSSELS, Sept. 7. (UP)—A prince, second direct heir to the throne of King Albert, was born today to Princess Astrid and Crown Prince Leopold of Belgium.

The child, christened shortly after birth, bears as his first two names Baudouin Albert, and is named after his grandfather, King Albert, and his grandfather's brother, Baudouin, who died tragically before Albert came to the throne.

King Albert was god-father to the baby, who now bears as his full complement of names, Baudouin Albert Charles Axwl Marie Gustav. He weighs eight pounds and 11 ounces.

A salute of 100 guns fired from the grounds of Stuyvenberg castle at 4:25 a. m. today announced the arrival of Prince Leopold's second child.

Leopold and Astrid's first child, born Oct. 11, 1927, is a girl, the Princess Josephine Charlotte.

Princess Astrid and the baby are reported in excellent health.

Prince Leopold was at Dixmude, attending ceremonies attendant upon unveiling a monument to General Jacques, when he was informed of the birth of his first son. He left Dixmude immediately by automobile and arrived at the castle in time to join other members of the royal family and receive their congratulations. Others at the castle were Princess Ingeborg of Sweden, King Albert and Queen Elizabeth. The queen arrived late, but was present at the birth.

Announcement of the new prince's advent was greeted joyfully by the people. At every theater and cinema performance the announcement was repeated, the national anthem was played, and the populace cheered.

U. S. WAR ACE DIES IN CRASH

Air Meet Ends in Tragedy As Ship Falls

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7. (UP)—Capt. John O. Donaldson, 34, fourth ranking American ace in the world war and president of the Newark Air service was killed today when his plane failed to come out of a spin and crashed during the American Legion air meet at the municipal airport.

He died about two hours after he had been taken to Mercy hospital with two fractured legs, fractured ribs, a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Donaldson was giving an exhibition in a Travel Air biplane owned by Mrs. Opal Logan Koontz, former wife of a vice president of Tiffany's New York society jewelers. He put his plane through a barrel roll, a wing-over and some loops at an altitude of 2,000 feet. Then he put his ship into a spin. It had made four turns when, at an altitude of 1,500 feet, he tried to bring the plane out of the spin.

The plane refused to respond, turned over on its back and fell to the ground. Donaldson was pulled from the wreckage unconscious and was taken to the hospital. At 1:25 p. m. he succumbed to the multiple injuries.

Physician Recovers From Crash Injuries

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 7. (UP)—Dr. Morris Fishbein, prominent Chicago doctor and health lecturer, had recovered completely from slight injuries received late yesterday when the motor car in which he was riding with his wife and Dr. E. H. Carey, of Dallas, Texas, was wrecked near here.

The trio were taken to Trinity Lutheran hospital for treatment of their bruises and cuts. Dr. Fishbein, however, suffered a dislocated back and a slight concussion, making him irrational for a short time.

JUNTA TROOPS TAKE SANTA FE AND ROSARIO

Aged Ex-President, Ill, Held Prisoner At La Plata

CABINET FORMED

Populace Rejoices as New Government Takes Control

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 7. (AP)—With the Hipolito Irigoyen government unseated by an army-navy rebellion last night and the ageing former president held a prisoner, the movement spread today to a number of other provinces in the republic.

Troops of the revolutionary junta took control of Santa Fe and Rosario, the two principal cities of Santa Fe province—the 12th infantry holding Santa Fe and the 11th occupying Rosario.

Reports from the city of Santiago in the province of Del Estero, say that when news of the revolution in Buenos Aires was received 2,000 persons paraded streets and shouted for the new government, police attempted to disperse them but afterward joined the manifestation.

Other demonstrations which brought the communities over to the side of the junta were held in the cities of Mendoza and Parana and in La Plata, where Irigoyen is held a prisoner in the barracks of the 7th infantry.

Salas Resigns

In the province of San Juan, Lisandro Salas, who was the federal interventor in the provincial administration under orders of Irigoyen, anticipated the fall of his government and resigned, leaving a free hand to the opposition. The Irigoyen policy of federal intervention is considered one of the things that brought about his downfall.

Meanwhile, the capital is under a strict martial regime with the leader of the revolt, General Jose Evaristo Uriburu, as provisional president with a civilian cabinet.

The ex-president, who is elderly, is both a patient and a prisoner at La Plata. He is suffering from pneumonia, aggravated by the excitement and discouragement which have come to him in the last few days, and has a high temperature. Two physicians were at his bedside all last night, under orders from the new government to give him all possible medical care. He was assured by Colonel Giordano, in charge of the provincial troops, that he would be well cared for and guarded against violence.

Irigoyen Flees

The story of the former president's adventures yesterday is dramatic. He kept inside during most of the disturbed week that brought

Death Closes Long Career Of World Famous Thrift Exponent

NEW YORK, Sept. 7. (US)—Simon William Straus, banker, philanthropist and life-long exponent of thrift, died early today in his suite at the Ambassador hotel.

Death was caused by myelogenous leukemia, an insidious disease that slowly destroys the white blood corpuscles. Mr. Straus, who was in his 64th year, had been suffering from it for the past three months.

At his bedside when he died were Mrs. Straus, their three daughters, Straus' brother, S. J. T. Straus, and the attending physician, Dr. Milton B. Rosenbluth.

Resigned Post

Straus was chairman of the board of S. W. Straus and company, one of the largest investment banking houses in the country with principal offices in New York and Chicago and branches in every large city throughout the country.

Straus relinquished presidency of the company he founded and became chairman of the board in 1928.

Wichita Pupils Shoulder Books Today As Schools Reopen For Fall Session

The official close of what youngsters term "the only good part of the year" was celebrated Sunday in Wichita Falls, for Monday will mark the opening of another school term and the return of last year's pupils, with about 1,000 more of them in the classrooms of the city's 17 schools, due to the addition of 929 6-year-olds to the scholastic census.

Pencils and tablets, rulers, paste, paint boxes, rubber erasers, bookstraps and numerous other articles necessary to the school boy and girl enjoyed unprecedented popularity in the city's stores over the week-end and merchants are anticipating even greater sales of school supplies during the opening week of the fall term.

Buildings Improved

Pupils in the first six grades will report to their respective ward schools, while those in the seventh and eighth grades will enroll at the two junior high schools. Ninth, 10th and 11th grade students and those preparing to enter Junior college will enroll at the Junior college building.

Students in eight of the city's 13 ward schools will return to find their school buildings changed in several respects, a $100,000 program of renovation, improvement and addition having been carried out during the vacation months. A new six-room unit was added to Huey school and four-room units have been added to Fannin, Barwise, Alamo, Benjamin Franklin and Washington schools. A cafeteria-auditorium was built at Franklin school while Washington school will reopen with a new cafeteria. A total of about $5,000 was spent in new cafeteria equipment for the various schools and in laboratory equipment for the Reagan junior high school.

Scholastics Increase

A raise in the amount of tuition for the Junior college and the suspension of athletics in the college will probably cut down any possible increase in enrollment, but the number of students is expected to approximate last year's college roll, Dean S. H. Rider said. Large increases are anticipated in all other schools and the total scholastic census will be by far the largest in the history of the city, according to school officials.

DAUNTLESS

Eighty-Two-Year-Old Vet Keeps Nerve on Eve Of Third Wedding

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 7. (UP)—"Eighty-two years old and spry as ever"—that was the way Lunsford L. Pinnell, a civil war veteran, described himself tonight on the eve of his third marriage.

WHERE AND WHEN STUDENTS REPORT

Pupils in the first six grades will report Monday morning at their respective schools at 9 o'clock. They will be allowed to return home before noon after enrollment and classification. Their books will be on their desks and classes will open Tuesday morning.

AL SMITH MAY BACK ENTRIES

Political Season Opens In Ten States

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7. (UP)—The political season is upon the country, starting this week. Henceforth elections will rival the world series and the football games for public interest until early November.

President Hoover's supremacy in congress is in the balance. Most attention so far has been centered on a few spectacular senatorial and gubernatorial contests, but in the final analysis the important battle is for control of the house of representatives. This is because Democrats have little chance, according to most experts, of capturing a voting control and organization of the senate. The minority party has high hopes of capturing the 53 house seats necessary to overcome the present Republican majority, and to that goal a campaign of major proportions has been launched.

Hoover Takes Lead

The Republicans are no less determined to retain the 30 normally Democratic seats they won in 1928 and 40 or 50 others in districts where the Democrats have energetic organizations at work. Their campaign, too, will be a major one, with President Hoover personally leading it off with four speeches in October.

On the other hand, it has been reported that Alfred E. Smith is to emerge from his political seclusion to campaign for the Democratic candidates. Such action from the 1928 standard-bearer would have the effect of tremendously stimulating the attention of a public which recently has been directed chiefly on problems of the depression and such events as the French transatlantic flight and the Argentine and Peruvian revolutions.

TEN STATES HOLD PRIMARIES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7. (AP)—Maine elects tomorrow and 10 states hold primaries during the week to chose party candidates for national and state offices.

Voters in the New England state will decide whether Wallace H. White, Republican, or Frank H. Haskell, Democrat, shall represent them in the senate.

Maryland Democrats at the same time will be renominating Albert C. Ritchie for governor, while the Republicans are assenting to the choice of Mayor William F. Broen-

Dallas Youth Held On Murder Charge

DALLAS, Sept. 7. (UP)—Joe Palazzolo, 17, faced formal charges of murder tonight following the fatal shooting of W. L. Apperson, 38, and the wounding of two other men late Saturday, in an argument over a small quantity of sausage.

The youth admitted firing three shots when Apperson entered his father's grocery store and began an argument with his father over some sausage. The boy's father, Sam Palazzolo, and Apperson began struggling. Joe said, and he opened fire on the customer with a pistol.

The first shot struck the youth's father in the arm, another struck T. H. Nulisch a bystander, wounding him slightly, and another struck Apperson, who walked a short distance from the store and fell dead.

Third Crash Victim Succumbs to Injuries

WEATHERFORD, Texas, Sept. 7. (AP)—Injuries received in an accident early Friday that cost the lives of two other persons proved fatal today for Walter Fant, 25, son of W. S. Fant, president of the First National bank of Weatherford. Fant, whose skull and backbone were fractured, died here early today.

Miss Coral Mae Dunn, 21, of Mineral Wells was killed instantly and Herbert Smith, 21, of Weatherford, died two hours after the accident, which occurred on the Bankhead highway five miles west of Weatherford. The automobile in which the two men and young woman were riding overturned at a curve.

VICTORIA, B. C., Sept. 7. (US)—"Japan is a peacefully inclined nation and will ratify the London naval treaty," said Count M. Soyeshima, many years a member of the Japanese house of peers, on his arrival on the Hiye Maru today.

STRICKEN CITY UNDER THREAT OF PESTILENCE

Gangrene Spreads Among Thousands of Storm Injured

ANTI-TOXIN NEEDED

First Relief Expeditions Fight Way Into Santo Domingo

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, Sept. 7. (UP)—Fear of pestilence gripped Santo Domingo today as relief workers labored to restore sanitary conditions in this hurricane flattened city.

Gangrene spread rapidly among the thousands of persons injured in Wednesday's storm, Director Johnson of the Haitian general hospital declared. Dr. Johnson, active in the swiftly mobilized relief work, said anti-toxin was badly needed.

One shipment is due tomorrow from Philadelphia, coming by airplane, but from the reports of doctors, this will be insufficient.

Burial parties went about the gruesome task of burning bodies of the storm victims. The last computation placed the figure at 1,500 bodies which had been cremated.

Bodies Burned

The workers today burned bodies where they found them. They could no longer be gathered in piles, due to putrefaction in the tropical heat.

Medical men, who said the danger of pestilence was serious, began giving anti-typhoid inoculations at police headquarters today. Other vaccinating stations were organized.

Surgeons operated with butcher knives or other kitchen utensils.

They frequently were forced to work without anesthetics. Lack of supplies and surgical equipment brought about this reversion to the primitive.

Amputated limbs were thrown into the sea. The stench of the dead was horrible.

Relief Arrives

The people were alarmed at false rumors of a new storm reported forming to the south, near Trinidad.

Medicines and food have arrived on relief ships and by airplane, but the supplies are inadequate. The tens of thousands of homeless are being offered rations to keep them alive.

Lack of running water in Santo Domingo hampers the work of restoring cleanliness to the flattened city.

Mains were broken by the hurricane and streets under which they run were buried deep in fallen buildings.

Estimates of the material damage, rising steadily, were placed at $25,000,000 today, nearly double the earlier estimates.

The death toll mounted into the

Three 'Spooning' Bandits Captured in Chicago

CHICAGO, Sept. 7. (US)—Three youthful bandits who had been specializing in holding up spooning couples along the North lake shore were captured after a gun battle with deputy sheriffs, and one was wounded, probably fatally, early today.

He is Wesley Subotke, alias Walter Holub, 24, of North Chicago. The other two, who confessed to a series of crimes, identified themselves as William Wassong, 22, and Charles C. Meyers.

WASHINGTON GREETS FLIERS

'Marseillaise' Rings Out As Heroes Land

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7. (AP)—A red plane settled down easily at Bolling field today and Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte stepped out to meet the welcome of the capital.

The official welcome began even before the French Paris to New York fliers left the Question Mark. Coste and Bellonte, looking fresh and calm, sat quietly for a moment before rising to shed their flying clothes. Then, trim and neat in dark blue suits, they stood looking down and Jules Henry, charge de affaires of the French embassy, swept his hand upward in a wide arc and introduced George Akerson, representing President Hoover.

Akerson smiled a welcome and said one, too, but it was lost in the roar of the crowd which was massing about the plane. Coste smiled and responded in English:

Hoover Jr. in Group

"I am grateful that the president has sent you to greet me. Please return to him my greetings and express my appreciation."

The fliers held an impromptu reception before they climbed out of the plane that carried them across the Atlantic a few days ago. Most of the official welcoming delegation thrust up hands to them. Major General Fechet, chief of the army air corps, followed Akerson and Herbert Hoover Jr., took Fechet's place in a line that was beginning to form.

A group of officials and diplomats surrounded the fliers as they

Discovery of Human Skeleton May Solve Final Andree Problem

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 7. (AP)—The sealing vessel Isbjoern reported today it believed it had solved the final mystery of the Salomon August Andree polar expedition—what became of the body of the third member.

The sealer, which has on board the party of newspaper men, said it had found a human skeleton believed to be that of Knut Frankel and more of the remnants of the Andree camp on White Island.

Early last month an expedition headed by Dr. Gunnar Horn visited the island on the sealer Bratvagg and found two bodies— those of Dr. Andree and Nils Strindberg. Some bones in a boat first were believed to be those of Frankel, but later proved to be only a polar bear's bones.

The new searching party said it had found a number of scientific instruments, weapons, pieces of the basket from the Andree balloon and Frankel's notebooks. They said the camp was in excellent order and they believed the explorers died from some sudden catastrophe, such as a blizzard.

This news brought word from Oslo that the finding of the additional Andree relics had given a fresh turn to the situation. The memorial service for members of the ill fated expedition probably will be postponed until it is known whether the Swedish warship Svenskund is to await at Tromsoe the arrival of the Isbjoern. The latter cannot reach Tromsoe before next Sunday as it is having motor trouble and can go only at half speed.

PRO-STERLING GROUP BRINGS OIL TO WATERS

Houston Editor Seen As Probable Choice For Chairman

'JIM' MAY ATTEND

Delegates Walk Softly In Face of Reviving Problems

GALVESTON, Sept. 7. (UP)—Bent upon a harmonious procedure at the stae Democratic convention which opens Tuesday, the vanguard of delegates arrived here today.

Friends of Ross S. Sterling, gubernatorial nominee, gathered in pre-convention conferences and made plans to throttle any signs of discord that may be carried to Galveston from the primary campaign.

The nominee is striving to heal the sores of the bitter campaign in which he won the nomination from Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, and has urged his partisans to lay down their arms and unite in a solid front.

Huggins Picked

W. O. Huggins, militant editor of the Houston Chronicle, competitor to Sterling's Houston paper, is considered the likely choice for state chairman, because of his efforts in behalf of the Sterling cause.

Senator Walter C. Woodward, of Coleman, who has been in conference with Sterling in Houston for the past two days, is reported to be the candidate's choice for temporar chairman of the convention. He is slated to deliver the keynote address Tuesday.

Conversation among the delegates today centered on the platform, the road bond issue and selection of the various committees. The statewide bond issue, one of the chief targets of the campaign, is scheduled to form one of the controversial subjects of the convention.

Jim May Come

Another rumor, that James E. Ferguson, husband of Sterling's opponent in the run-off primary, would attend the convention, caused anxiety among the faction striving for a harmonious meeting.

Opposing sets of delegates from Dallas county, one headed by Thomas B. Love and supporting Sterling, and another led by Maury Hughes, member of the state executive committee and pledged to support Mrs. Ferguson at a "rump" session in Dallas, offered another problem for convention leaders.

No word had been received from the Fergusons, however, and it was doubtful if they would attend the convention. Leaders also were confident they would be able to cope with any of the other differences.

Many of the delegations supported local "pet" issues and it was likely that many of them would find their way into the final draft of the party platform which will be adopted at the convention.

Papal Activities Deny Rumors of Illness

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 7. (AP)—Far from being at the point of death, as some Berlin newspapers have reported him, Pope Pius today spent a Sunday of normal activity.

It was even more than normal, for he began with a lengthy audience to Monsignor Borgongniduca, papal nuncio to the kingdom of Italy, to discuss many matters such as the Argentine revolution, the nomination of a successor to the late Cardinal Gamba, as archbishop of Turin, and relief for the churches stricken in the recent earthquake.

After luncheon and a siesta the pontiff took an automobile ride in the vatican gardens.

REBELS TAKE FRESH FIELDS

Argentina Military Revolt Sweeps Provinces

about the outbreak and after the cabinet ran up the white flag to the oncoming revolutionists last night no one knew where Irigoyen was. Some reports said he had fled to a cruiser for refuge.

Eventually it was learned the president had dashed from his home in a motor car after receiving word that the revolt had triumphed, loyal police holding up traffic near his home for several minutes. Police on the side of the revolutionists pursued the car and intercepted it at La Plata, where Irigoyen, so ill he had to be aided to alight from the car, was taken first to the provincial capital house and then removed to the infantry barracks for detention.

He asked immediately for a bed and after conversing for a few minutes with the officers present wrote a brief resignation and handed it to the commander of the 7th infantry, Lieutenant Colonel Yrusta.

Crowds Gleeful

Enthusiastic crowds swarmed gleefully through Buenos Aires all night after the exciting change in government.

One group went to Irigoyen's home and removed all furniture to the street, there piling it up and burning it. The houses of former Foreign Minister Oyhanarte and of other Irigoyenist leaders also were ransacked.

A new cabinet was organized last night and one of its first acts was dissolution of the congress and proclamation of martial law. Today it appointed army and navy officers to govern the various provinces pending eventual return of the country to civilian government.

The casualties resulting from last night's shooting in front of La Epoca and at the Plaza Congreso were placed tonight at 15 killed and 188 wounded. The skirmishes occurred when unidentified civilians, presumably Irigoyenists, opened fire on the revolutionary soldiers. The troops retaliated with machine guns, spreading panic among the great crowds massed in the busy streets of the capital.

While most of the looting and ransacking was of a political nature, with inflamed crowds burning possessions of the former administration, several men took advantage of the confused situation to raid the treasury department of the state railway. When they reached the moment to allot the loot they had a shooting affray of their own.

URUGUAYANS LEAVE PERU

LIMA, Peru, Sept. 7. (AP)—It was learned unofficially today that the Uruguayan legation intends to withdraw from the country and will leave for Montivedeo Wednesday. The motive has not been learned. Meanwhile, the Cuban minister will take care of Uruguayan interests.

The military junta which took over the Peruvian government following the recent revolt still is making changes in the country's foreign service. The resignation of Celso Pastor, Peruvian minister to Berlin, has been accepted, while the foreign office has cancelled the appointments of Manuel Elias Bonnemaison, minister to Japan, and Santiago Bedoya, first secretary of the embassy at Vatican City.

alighted. Among the group were Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary of commerce, Pierre del Boal, of the state department, the Belgian ambassador, Prince de Ligne and Rear Admiral William A. Moffett.

'Marseillaise' Rings

The army and navy band had been playing at intervals before the Question Mark appeared out of the northeast and now it boomed into the "Marseillaise." Coste and Bellonte stiffened. Hats were swept off and hands went up in salute.

The crowd had wafted quietly enough for the Frenchmen to appear but once Coste and Bellonte were on the ground they began to swarm out toward the plane.

A path was cleared for a White House car. Coste, Bellonte, Akerson, Captain Charles R. Train and Jules Henry climbed in and started to the French embassy. There they found a crowd that filled a block in both directions awaiting them. The aviators went into the building without pausing but immediately reappeared on a second story balcony. The cheering continued without interruption and three encores were necessary to satisfy the spectators.

The fliers had been at the embassy only a little while before they decided to go for a drive around the eight mile speedway and through Rock Creek park.

'Kidnaped' Witness Talks Over Radio

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 7. (UP)—An important witness in the secret probe of the state highway commission, who was spirited away by state troopers at Shreveport last Friday, spoke over the radio tonight, signalizing the first notice to the general public of his whereabouts in 76 hours.

Samuel Irby was the witness and he was introduced to the radio audience by Gov. Huey P. Long, who was delivering a radio address on behalf of his campaign for the Democratic nomination to the United States senate.

Irby acknowledged that he had been arrested by state police early last Friday a short time after he had appealed to Shreveport police for protection, but said he had been released and was in hiding for the last 24 hours.

Youth Killed When Old War Relic Backfires

HOUSTON, Sept. 7. (AP)—A Houston youth was killed and another was injured seriously early today when an old cannon, a civil war relic, backfired when charged with a load of powder at the Houston Yacht club.

Raymond R. Stone, 22, died as a result of injuries received when he placed a quantity of gunpowder in the cannon and it became ignited. Harold Moffett was at the point of death late today as a result of powder burns.

Straus Succumbs To Long Illness

Nicholas Roberts has since been president. It was emphasized today that the death of Mr. Straus will work no immediate change in his organization.

He first became ill in the spring of 1929 and while in Europe at that time suffered an attack that necessitated his return to this country. In October of 1929, he underwent an operation for gall stones and for a time was said to be improving.

The disease that caused his death, according to Dr. Rosenbluth, first became evident three months ago. Since then Straus had been sinking slowly.

Funeral Tuesday

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the Temple Emanu-el, Sixty-fifth street and Fifth avenue. Interment will be in Cypress Hill cemetery.

Straus was born at Ligonier, Ind., Dec. 25, 1866, a son of Frederick William and Madlon Goldsmith Straus. After an education in the public schools, Straus entered his father's mortgage and loan business in Chicago in 1884. The firm was first known as F. W. Straus and company. When the father retired, Straus took over the management.

Straus is recognized as originator of the first mortgage real estate bond. Many of the leading buildings in the chief cities of the country have been financed by his company.

In 1915, he founded the American Society of Thrift and wrote weekly articles on thrift and elimination of waste. He also wrote the book, "History of the Thrift Movement in America."

He was one of the first directors of Jewish charities in Chicago.

He was married on April 25, 1893 to Miss Hattie Klee of Pittsburgh. Mrs. Straus survives him as well as their three daughters, Mrs. Herbert S. Martin, Mrs. Louise Celestin and Mrs. Vladimir S. Rachevsky.

ing, of Baltimore, to oppose the incumbent in November. No senatorial election falls there this year. National issues have played little part in contests for nomination to the house.

South Carolina Democrats, who dominate, participate in a run-off primary Tuesday which will determine whether Cole L. Blease goes back to the senate or is replaced by James F. Burnes, who he defeated in 1924.

Veteran Opposed

Ibra C. Blackwood and Olin D. Johnson, Spartanburg attorneys, are in the run-off for the gubernatorial nomination.

In Louisiana meanwhile will come the answer to "who is stronger, Senator Ransdell or Governor Long?" They seek the Democratic senatorial nomination, which means election. The senator, who came to Washington 31 years ago when his tempestuous opponent was six years old, has based his campaign on his record. Long has shouted that Ransdell "has been sleeping in Washington for 30 years."

With Senator Lawrence C. Phipps retiring, Colorado Republicans vote Tuesday on whether to put up William V. Hodges or George H. Shaw to succeed him. Their contest has excited the state, Phipps supporting Hodges as against other party powers in the state who favor Shaw.

Senator James Couzens has Chase S. Osborn, former governor, against him for the Republican senatorial nomination in Michigan that day. The Michigan anti-saloon league is friendly to Osborn. Thomas E. A. Weadock is unopposed as the Democrat who will have it out with the winner in November.

New Hampshire Candidates

In New Hampshire, Senator Henry W. Keyes and the two representatives, Fletcher Hale and Edward H. Wason, are unopposed for Republican renomination. Albert W. Noone and Amos N. Blandin seek the Democratic senatorial candidacy.

Vermont, Arizona and Washington also hold primaries Tuesday but no senator's term expires in those states. Three men seek the Republican nomination for governor in Vermont, W. Arthur Simpson, Stanley C. Wilson and John W. Gordon.

Representative Lewis W. Douglas is unopposed for Democratic renomination to the house from Arizona. Gov. John C. Phillips, Republican, is up for re-election. The Democratic gubernatorial contest is among four candidates.

Three of Washington's five representatives have opposition, with John W. Summers, Republican, and Samuel B. Hill, Democrat, unopposed. John F. Miller, after seven terms, has to overcome Ralph H. A. Horr, a wet, to win Republican renomination. Representatives Albert Johnson and Lindley H. H. Hadley, Republicans, each have four opponents.

Five in Race

Georgia holds the only primary Wednesday. Senator William J. Harris seeks renomination by the Democrats and is opposed by former Gov. John M. Slaton. To win the nomination amounts to election. Only three of the states' 12 representatives in the house are opposed. There are five candidates for governor.

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Sept. 7.—George Allen and Mon Coffer, escaped Wilbarger county prisoners, were captured by Harmon county officers at Hollis, Okla. Coffer has been returned to Vernon, and Allen was detained in the Oklahoma town to face a burglary charge. He is reported to have been arrested after a man was seen burglarizing a house. thousands as bodies were found. Conservative estimates placed the dead at more than 2,000, while the injured totaled above 7,000 persons.

The hospitals were filled. Military tents dotted the torn landscape. The homeless were without shelter.

More than 40,000 families were estimated homeless in Santo Domingo and vicinity, worst hit by the great wind. The hurricane apparently struck the old city, lying squarely in its path, and affected but little of the rest of the country.

Charles B. Curtis, the United States minister, requested the temporary assignment of Maj. Cary Crockett, aide to Gov. Theodore Roosevelt of Porto Rico, to continue in Santo Domingo in connection with the relief work. Governor Roosevelt, however, refused.

Fight Currents

He said he could permit Crockett to remain another week, but that his return to San Juan then was imperative. He suggested Enquieue Ortega, Porto Rican engineer, be placed in charge of the relief organization.

The steamship Catherine has arrived with relief supplies. Major Crockett sent a wireless to La Romana for two tow boats to assist other ships coming into the port. They have had difficulty in overcoming a swift current in the Ozama river.

The steamer Midas is due, bringing 11 electrical experts with tools, medical supplies and clothing.

The Santo Domingo government meanwhile is seeking to ameliorate the suffering of the homeless. Reconstruction plans will be considered as rapidly as possible, and appropriations made for new structures. Less than 400 buildings out of the original 10,000 were left standing by the terrific force of the wind.

Several new wells will be started in this field within 30 days. The Sinclair Oil company was expected to extend a pipe line to the field within the next few days.

Excitement was at a high pitch and operators were here from all over the state to see the new well and looking for acreage for drilling purposes. The well was the best completed in Cooke county in two years.

Nebraska Guests Honored At Lovely Dinner Party

The autumn social season fell into swing Friday night when Dr. and Mrs. Charles William Wallace entertained at the Woman's Forum clubhouse with a lovely dinner party honoring their house guests. Those who are visiting in the handsome Wallace home are Mrs. Wallace's mother, Mrs. N. B. Berggren, her sister, Miss Victoria Berggren, and brother, Henry Berggren, with Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Berggren Jr., and their little daughter, Gertrude, of Wahoo, Neb. Mrs. Wallace's parents were Nebraska pioneers of 1868 who acquired land and helped establish culture in that state.

The table at the clubhouse was set with lovely green crystal, which with the great bowls of pink roses and graceful sprays of green ferns made a perfect setting for serving the delicious menu. About the rooms were huge baskets of zinnias in every pastel shade cut from their gardens and presented by Dr. and Mrs. O. B. Kiel to Mrs. N. B. Berggren Sr., whose attractive personality won all the guests.

At the large table, with the host and hostess and the house party, covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Bert Bean, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Britain, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Carrigan, Mr. and Mrs. J. Walter Caldwell Jr., Judge and Mrs. W. W. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Daniel, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hamilton, Dr. and Mrs. O. B. Kiel, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Humphrey, Dr. and Mrs. Q. B. Lee and Miss Frances Brooks.

At a smaller table carrying out the same dainty colors, little Miss Gertrude Berggren was hostess to Martha Britain, Josephine Bell, Olive Daugherty, William Hamilton and Martin Hamilton.

Following the delightful dinner, games of bridge and dominoes were played at tables prettily prepared in the library. Miss Victoria Berggren was winner of the high prize for ladies and received a handsome green and gold candy jar. Mrs. W. B. Hamilton was presented the trophy for second score, an address book with a colorful Godet figure on the cover. Judge Britain won the high prize for men, a handsome Italian desk set in leather binding and J. Walter Caldwell Jr., second, two sets of bridge cards in an embossed leather folder.

Through Mrs. Berggren's courtesy, Mrs. Wallace loaned the lovely basket of zinnias at the forum clubhouse for the first autumn Junior Forum luncheon Saturday.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

With the opening of the dove season, hunters and huntswomen began flocking to the fields. There were doves killed that were not needed to fill the dishes at "dove dinners."

An editorial writer Sunday wrote of laws broken in the dove season. Those were state laws. But the numbers of birds slain just for the sport, sounds rather like breaking another law.

We know a girl of 15 who will not touch a dove though she is a gourmet when it comes to other game. She has heard their morning voices and to eat one would seem to her like eating something with a spirit.

There seems to be a killing spirit inherent in most small boys and one who will not kill is a "sissy." We know a Tennesseean who, as a boy killed cats, dogs, frogs and took a slingshot at any birds that might come along.

There's a new sort of grasshopper this year; it has short wings and a fat body and he curls up those wings and hops out as if he'd attack you—looking more like a tarantula than anything else. They are the greatest sport to small boys who have met them than anything we've seen. Eventually the grasshopper meets his death.

But that Tennesseean who killed for the pleasure of killing as a boy is a farmer with his land posted now and he neither hunts nor allows any one to destroy life on his place. There are birds of every sort and coveys of quail that would make a hunter's paradise.

And we know a man who went on a deer hunt and when the noblest animal of all was driven close to him, he said he lowered his gun. He could not kill him. "Why we don't need him for food," he told himself.

We read a great hunter's memoirs once. He told of the joy he had in the hunt; but in age, he had given it up. He went after his game with a camera, rather than with a gun. The sport he had from his long hunts did not compare with that derived from catching pictures of animals beautifully poised.

Killing meat for food has been going on since time began. But killing for sport is another thing. A feeling of prowess comes into a hunt but that is not in the vicious killing done by some small lads.

It is a blessed thing that time changes most of them. A change in the spirit is a thing that comes like the wind in the night—no one knows from whence.

For flies and ants and devils-horses, we have no pity. We somehow cannot feel the pathos of the loss of life to the teal or the greenhead and tell ourselves we know they have no spirit.

Each winter we have sent to us a number of pheasants and the only feeling we have then, is one of pleasure in the prowess of our hunter kinsman.

Yet in killing what one means to eat and killing more than is needed, there is a difference. Is there a wrong and if so, where does it begin?

Wedding Plans Announced At Pretty Bridge

Complimenting her daughter, Elizabeth, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Royl Wood Jacobs is scheduled as an event of Sept. 21, Mrs. George R. Tucker entertained with a delightful bridge party at her home on Roberts avenue Saturday afternoon.

The spacious living room was alive with garden flowers, and formed a pretty background for the dainty gowns of the ladies. The hostess was charming in blue crepe, while the honoree was very attractive in blue printed chiffon.

Pink and green, the chosen colors of the bride-elect, were in evidence everywhere. The tallies and score pads used in the games carried out the idea of the honeymoon trip, and the dainty card table covers and mints were in the color motif. At the conclusion of the games, Mrs. Emmett Quillin was presented with the high prize, a beautiful imported box of toilet soap and bath crystals. The second high score was won by Mattie Lona Vincent, who received a set of bronze celluloid bridge cards. Lora Eichelberger was consoled for low with a pretty box of bath powder.

A delicious refreshment course of heart-shaped cakes in green, with pink wedding bells for ice cream was served. The plates held the announcement cards, which were imitation engagement rings, and concealed "some inside information."

Those attending the party were Misses Virginia Allen, Faye Brown, Lenna Davis, Mattie Lona Vincent, Monty Anderson, Lora Eichelberger, Lucile Campbell, Marie Beatty, Elizabeth Wright, Thelma Pross, Mesdames Fay C. Hardeman, Carl Yeager, Emmett Quillin, Lucile Scott, Lewis Welchell, the hostess and honoree.

VERNON STARTS DROUTH SURVEY

County Relief Organization Completed

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Sept. 7.—Organization of the Vernon drouth committee and formulation of plans for a survey of Wilbarger county were completed at a session of the committee at the chamber of commerce offices here Friday.

M. K. Berry, local banker, was elected chairman of the committee. Other officers are: H. O. Colley, vice chairman, R. B. Gibson, secretary.

The survey of conditions was started at once with the drafting of a questionnaire. This questionnaire inquires into the number of families needing help, loans of families, taxes due, feed and seeds needed to make the next crop, and general prospects for making a crop next year.

Harmon Harvests Big Alfalfa Crop

Special to The Record News.

HOLLIS, Okla., Sept. 7.—The 1930 alfalfa crop of Harmon county is proving to be one of the most productive in the history of the county considering drouth conditions existing this year. Yields of seed from nine of the largest growers in the county has reached approximately 2,000 bu., all of which have been sold at an average of from 12½ to 13c per pound, together with 15 to 20 car loads of good marketable hay. All of the hay harvested so far this year has been bought at home and in adjoining counties west of Hollis in Texas, prices ranging from $16 to $20 per ton. It is hoped that two more cuttings of hay may be had before the season closes.

The cotton crop conditions are the most discouraging ever had in the county. In some sections of the county there are many acres that will never be entered for any purpose except to plant in wheat. Other fields where it was hoped to harvest at least a quarter of a bale per acre are now being ravished by web worms to such extent that the farmers do not expect to pick very much cotton. Conservative estimates place the years' yield at about 10,000 bales.

Frederick Surveys Postoffice Site

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Sept. 7.—First actual work on Frederick's new postoffice building began Saturday forenoon when H. A. Perkins, engineering agent of S. A. Sulentic, surveying contractor, of Topeka, Kan., began surveying the government site, east of the Hotel Frederick. This plat will show the water and gas lines, telephone and electric lines, and other facts which it is necessary to be known before an architect can draw up plans and specifications. It is expected that a contract will be let so that work can begin within the next six months.

Knox County Welcomes New Agricultural Agent

He is a graduate of A. & M. college of Texas has served the Crosbyton school as vocational agricultural teacher and has also had practical experience along agricultural lines.

Mr. Jones has devoted the time since his arrival to getting over the county as fast as possible, getting acquainted, and picking up the work where his predecessor, C. L. Wilson left off last week. Mr. Wilson goes to take a position with the Texas Power and Light company.

Mr. Jones plans to push the work along the same lines as that worked out by previous agents. The county is well organized in this work having had four county agents and the same number of home demonstrators, all of whom have remained several years each.

Among the numerous helpful activities planned for the near future Mr. Jones stated is a poultry demonstration to be held at the county poultry demonstration farm near Rhineland on Sept. 22. Poultry specialists from A. & M. are to speak, as well as district demonstrator.

The clinics were sponsored by the home demonstration clubs of the county, and for children seven years of age, or younger. The clinics were held at: Carl, McKnight, Westview, Edgeworth and Purvis Hill.

During the five days 255 children were given complete examination, which was entirely free, and the mothers were given helpful advice and literature on health. Of the 255 examined only 21 were found who were free from physical defects. Five were found who were seriously in need of treatment at the crippled children's hospital at Oklahoma City, and arrangements were made of entering those needing attention.

NOW and ...THEN

Bribery, Then Murder
Mr. Youngquist's Lament
Disowning a Mother

By EMILE GAUVREAU

Paying and receiving bribes for judicial jobs is bad enough. But there seems to be something more serious than that behind at least one case in the investigation of New Lork's bench. It is charged that Magistrate Andrew Macrery was actually beaten to death because he refused to pay the final "instalment" of an alleged $30,000 bribe, the price of his appointment. This will not surprise honest citizens who have followed the revelations to date.

All roads may not lead to Rome, but all roads of crime lead, eventually, to death. Sooner or later, the grafter, the blackmailer, the racketeer, is "put on the spot." But the modern criminal, rubbing elbows with the pistol politician, is willing to take his chances and face the prospect of death as nonchalantly as Claude Lindwine faced it at Sing Sing Thursday night when he said:

"It's just like going on an exploring trip. The good part is that I won't have to walk back. Let's go."

Mr. Youngquist, assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition prosecutors, makes the discovery that the present force is "pitifully inadequate" to stem the flow of illicit liquor into the country. He appeals through the radio for state aid in making enforcement "real."

Mr. Youngquist's forces will continue to be pitifully inadequate, even though he employed five times the number of prohibition officers that he does today. When a people resent and oppose a law, enforcement is impossible. There is only one sensible way out: immediate repeal. The longer the 18th amendment remains a part of the constitution of the United States, the more criminal the country will become. And as the downward path is easy it won't be long before justice and virtue become obsolete terms in the vocabulary of Americans.

Disowning a mother is about the lowest form of cadism there is. Two society matrons are now being sued by an aged lady who claims that these women are her true daughters, but that they have avoided acknowledging the fact for social reasons.

If acceptance by society involves the repudiation of one's parents, then society has lost its right to be respected. Culture is not snobbishness. Those who think it is are either as ignorant as the set they ape, or know what society really stands for: hypocrisy, sycophancy and egotism.

The illness of unemployment and unrest breaks out like a boil in various spots on the globe. The Peruvians overthrow their government. The government of Argentina is threatened by insurgents. In Brazil, the president is barricaded in his home behind a heavily armed guard and fears the army has turned against him. In Cuba unrest has reached a disturbing point. South America, which kept out of the world war, feels the effect of it as an innocent victim.

United States Attorney Tuttle calls for the bank books of a number of New York judges and politicians. In the income tax law he has a sharp weapon and if he cuts into the place where the money is in certain quarters, he will give the metropolis a shaking up. Anything is likely to happen if the complete truth of New York's graft comes out.

Murder statistics are beginning to startle Paris. Within the last six months the number of murders committed by women there varies between three and four a day. The French law recognizes murder done because of marital infidelity or premarital infidelity as legitimate. That may explain the statistics.

Jim Davis, candidate for senator in Pennsylvania, tooted a clarinet in the old home band the other day. On the assumption, perhaps, that next to promises, music is best to soothe the voter.

According to the latest yachting dope, the Shamrock will find it is in for no bargain sail.

A "talkie" with dialog entirely in sign language has been filmed for deaf mutes. At that we'll wager it won't be as dumb as many "talkies" we've seen.

"Football" should be spelled with capital letters this season. Just for the sake of over-emphasis.

Talking a Bit Too Much

IF YOU could lay end to end all of the editorials and special articles that have been written about the current business depression you would have a mass of verbiage of most depressing length.

In fact, as the days go on some people are beginning to suspect that we are spending altogether too much time simply in talking about the depression. A superabundance of talk seldom did anything or anybody any good; it may be that our "hard times" have had about all the vocal attention they need.

Among the people who feel that way is Mr. Paul Shoup, president of the Southern Pacific railroad.

Mr. Shoup was in Kansas City the other day and reporters asked him what he thought had caused the industrial depression, and how long it would last. He replied to them as follows:

"Why waste time trying to find out the cause of the present business depression? What difference does it make? These periods of depression come along, they last a certain time, and go. They're about due to go now. When things are at their worst, it generally is about two months from that time that the change comes."

There is a lot of sound sense in that remark. Sometimes it does seem as if we have become a nation of talkers, and nothing has indicated this quite as clearly as our conduct during the past 10 or 12 months.

The stock market smash, Heaven knows, was bad, and so was the overproduction that revealed itself in certain big industries about the same time; but is there any doubt that we have, on the whole, made the effects of both of these disasters a good deal worse by eternally talking about them? By this excess of talking we have worked ourselves up into a pessimistic frame of mind which has intensified the depression. We have scared ourselves more than the facts warranted.

All of this doesn't sit well with Mr. Shoup. His remarks that the way to meet hard times is to prepare for the better times that are sure to follow; and to illustrate this philosophy he points out that his railroad is now spending $12,000,000 to build a bridge over Carquinez Straits to replace the car-ferries formerly used. Actions of that kind speak louder than words.

Henry Ford remarked recently that prosperity will be back with us before we know it. He meant, of course, that we are worrying more than we need to worry, and that we shall continue to worry after all reason for worry has passed. Mr. Shoup very likely would agree. So, probably, would a good many other Americans who are getting tired of a superfluity of words.

The High Price of Yachting

BETTY CARSTAIRS' nonchalant announcement that she has spent more than $500,000 in the last few years in her attempt to wrest the speed boat championship from American hands is an illuminating commentary on the expensiveness of this particular brand of sport.

Indeed, yachting probably stands today as the most expensive sport available. There is simply no limit to the amount of money that an enthusiast can pour into it. The sailboats that competed for the honor of defending the America's cup cost over $1,000,000 apiece. A pleasure yacht like Vincent Astor's or J. P. Morgan's can cost $200,000 a year simply for upkeep.

Nevertheless, the poor man can have his whack at it, too. For a few hundred dollars he can get a boat and outboard motor that will take him over the water at a dizzy clip. For a little more he can buy a neat cabined cruiser or sailboat. Yachting is an aristocratic sport, but it does have a democratic side.

A Notable Performance

DIEUDONNE COSTE and Maurice Bellonte, by virtue of their latest feat, ought to stand pretty well up toward the head of the list of men who have flown across the North Atlantic.

The east-west crossing, because of adverse winds, is far more perilous than the flight from America to Europe. The army fliers made it, years ago, by stopping at Iceland, Greenland and Labrador. The Germans now in this country also split it up into short legs. Two other planes have got across, but each had to come down long before reaching its destination.

Coste and Bellonte, however, followed their schedule with Lindbergian accuracy. They deserve all the plaudits this country and their own are giving them; and it is especially gratifying to reflect they come from the land that sent Nungesser and Coli out on the same perilous route.

A Silver Lining

THE present business depression is not exactly enjoyable, but it does have a brighter side.

For example: The mutual savings banks of the nation reported that during the six month period ending July 1 their deposits gained $274,000,000, whereas a loss of $83,000,000 was reported for the last six months of 1929. People are saving their money nowadays, instead of drawing on their savings for stock speculation. To that extent, at least, the stock market crash has been a boon.

Similarly, big business organizations are being forced to adopt more efficient measures. The prosperity of 1929 and preceding years bred a good deal of slackness and lost motion; this is being eliminated, and in the long run business will be the better for the depression. This, of course, is cold comfort to the worker who has lost his job. It does, however, indicate that the cloud has a silver lining.

Ambassador Gerard forgot to include John Barleycorn among the 94 go gitters who rule this country. It's refreshin' even to bump into a little dash o' false modesty these days.

On Broadway

From Sunset Gun

My heart went fluttering with fear
Lest you should go, and leave me here
To beat my breast and rock my head
And stretch me sleepless on my bed.
Ah, clear they see and true they say
That one shall weep, and one shall stray,
For such is Love's unvarying law . . .
I never thought, I never saw
That I should be the first to go;
How pleasant that it happened so!
—DOROTHY PARKER.

Things That Knock Me Cold

My dear Mr. W.: We carried in the Sunday edition of the Sandusky, Ohio, Register a story which may be among the things you never knew before. I am sending it along to you. When I turned in the story I was quite pleased that this Dr. C. A. Winchell of Sandusky had told me you were his cousin. Seems you moved from Michigan when you were little. I believe your father's name is Ralph. The managing editor is skeptical about the real blood ties. — Helen Arrowsmith."

Things I Never Knew Before is correct, madam. And my father's name is Jake.

Some Pun, No Kid

Jack Shuttleworth observes that the last of the Hatfield-McCoy feudists who died in West Virginia last week was 86 years old. Which goes to show what fresh air and pure feuds will do.

Of All Things!

Printer's Ink is herewith thanked for a hearty chuckle. It tells about a watch company that went in for radio advertising—and they wanted a theme song expressive of timepieces. Finally they decided on a ditty entitled: "Every Little Movement Has a Meaning All Its Own."

But the song was vetoed by the broadcasting company because it was "too suggestive!"

And they fry fish!"

Oop!

The Hollywood Gossip dep't of The Pathfinder has this to report: "James Rennie, husband of Lillian Gish . . . "

Things I Never Knew Till Now.

The Big Stylists!

The August 25th issue of the N. Y. Eve'g World says among other things: "Finding nothing in the front, they proceeded to the rear, where they found two automobileerocccaachcyyyi."

Add Sillies

Then there's the one Phil Baker passes along. About the Scot who had to leave his dying wife to get her a drink of water. As he left the room he cautioned: "If you feel yourself slipping, dear, blow out the candle."

The Retort Terrible

Hoy Lawlor from Hollywood reports that when John Gilbert once remarked that the Greatest Garbo had no brain, Greta snapped: "He has every right to his opinion since the day I mistook him for an actor."

On the Other Hand

Emile H. Gauvreau editorials, about Mr. Mencken's recent marriage in this manner: "Mencken, who scored the institution of marriage as a refuge for morons, finally is married himself. All of which proves that a critic who carps at institutions is generally one who finds himself shut out from it. The writer who fails turns editor. The incompetent actor becomes a playwright. The man who can't write plays reviews them."

Charles Dillingham, once a fine dramatic critic, is reincarnated as a distinguished play producer; George Bernard Shaw and St. John Ervine, renowned critics, write successful shows between; play reviews, and George M. Cohan, who is hardly an incompetent actor, writes great plays.

Gag

And there's Joel J. Levenson's report from Worcester, Mass., to prove that business is just as anaemic in the provinces. Two cloak and suit lads met on Worcester's Main Stem. "So ull right, Jake," said the first dialectician, "I'll pay you in a few weeks, is dot ull right?"

"Is it ull right, he asks?" replied the other shoulder-shaker, "uff cuss! Any bill paid wit'in four mont's is like a cash sale now!"

In the Name of Art—Landry

"Dear Walter," affectionately writes A. M. Botsford, of the Publix Theaters and Paramount Pictures Company, "regarding that Art Landry curtain speech: 'We all thank you for your applause, which we assure you goes to our hearts and not to our heads.' To my certain knowledge, George Dewey Washington has been making this speech in Publix theaters from coast to coast in these same words four times a day, seven days a week for the last three years.

"So that, Art Landry either took it from George Dewey Washington recently, or George Dewey Washington took it from Art Landry over three years ago. In any event, it's just another illusion shattered concerning Broadway sincerity."

Aren't We All?

Continuing from where we recently left off regarding O. O. McIntyre's distaste for "gossip," it might interest that touring contemporary to know that The American, his New York paper, advertises him in this manner: "He is a typical New Yorer . . . industrious gatherer of the odd items of news, information and gossip."

The Hellinger You Say!

Give some people an inch these days and they build a miniature golf course!—Walter Winchell in The Daily Mirror, August 20.

"Give a man an inch," murmurs Texas Guinan, "and he'll start a miniature golf course.—Mark Hellinger in The Daily Mirror, Sept. 1."

Why, Miss Guinan!

On the Make

The Sharon, Pa., Herald's representative interviewed Rudy Vallee (the chap who has replaced Mary Pickford as "America's Sweetheart"). Part of the interview follows: "We showed him a clipping of Walter Winchell's 'On Broadway' in which was stated that during an interview with an Ohio paper, Rudy said that he especially disliked Winchell. The statement was laughingly discredited by Rudy who said they are the best of friends."

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The answers to questions printed here each day are specimens picked from the mass of inquiries handled by our great information bureau maintained in Washington, D. C. This valuable service is for the free use of the public. Ask any question of fact you want to know and you will get an immediate reply. Write plainly, enclose two cents in coin or stamps for return postage, and address The Record News Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, director, Washington, D. C.

Q.—When a man is not sure whether an occasion calls for a tuxedo or full dress clothes, which should he wear?—F. R.

A.—He should wear the swallowtail. It is not a question of being overdressed. The swallowtail is appropriate for either formal or informal occasions, while the dinner jacket is not.

Q.—How much coffee does the United States import?—C. S.

A.—About 1,400,000,000 pounds of coffee are imported annually.

Q.—What is the most popular American dish?—S. M.

A.—An association of restaurant owners took a ballot on this and the results indicated that apple pie holds this distinction. It has been estimated than on an average the American at middle life has consumed something like 7,638 pieces of pie.

Q.—Are freight trains ever a mile long?—C. C.

A.—Many freight trains are now a mile in length.

Q.—Are any viking ships still in existence?—F. S.

A.—In Oslo, Norway, is preserved a viking ship more than 900 years old. It is 80 feet long and 16 feet wide. In its sides it has 16 portholes showing that it was manned by 32 oarsmen.

Q.—How large are the lakes of Killarney?—W. E. B.

A.—The lower lake is five miles long and three miles wide. The middle lake, known as Torc, is two miles long and a mile wide, and the upper lake is 2½ miles long and a half mile wide. The upper and lower lakes are dotted with lovely islets.

Q.—Swallows have a nest on a window cap of our veranda and are hatching eggs. Will there be time for the fledglings to learn to fly? I calculate it will have to be done within seven weeks.—F. E. P.

A.—The bureau of biological survey says that the birds described are probably cliff swallows, and that the period of seven weeks is not too short for the young to be ready for their flight. Incubation ordinarily requires two weeks, the young birds remain in the nest two weeks, and have then three weeks left to develop their strength, which is sufficient time. It is likely that this is the second brood of the summer.

Q.—What is a Yarborough—N. P.

A.—It is a hand of 13 cards, none of which is above a nine. The odds against holding such a hand are 1,827 to 1. It is named for an Englishman who held the hand.

Q.—Is there such a word as "acceptillation"?—L. K.

A.—We do not find the word as you spell it. Acceptilation, in Roman and Scots law, means a verbal release of a verbal obligation.

Q.—What statue fell from its pedestal in a Washington, D. C., park early this summer?—J. R. B.

A.—On June 6, 1930, the statue of Nathanael Greene fell from its pedestal in Stanton park.

Q.—When was meat first shipped in refrigerated condition?—W. W.

A.—Refrigeration, in the modern sense, was invented in 1861, but it was some years before it became satisfactory for transportation purposes.

Q.—Did the Indian Chief Osceola die in a Florida or in South Carolina?—M. C. K.

A.—Osceola and his companions were seized by Gen. Jesup while holding a conference under a flag of truce. The loss of freedom and brooding over the manner in which he had been betrayed broke Osceola's spirit and he died a prisoner at Fort Moultrie, Fla., in January, 1838.

Q.—What will take the printing out of flour bags?—O. S. H.

A.—To remove printing from sacks, boil them in a mixture consisting of a tablespoonful of kerosene and two quarts of soap suds. This treatment will take out the colored lettering as well as bleach the bags.

Q.—What is the oldest bank in New York City?—H. D.

A.—The Bank of New York and Trust company, which is 146 years old.

Q.—What is a "fleche"?—H. G. O.

A.—Fleche is an architectural term which in France signifies any spire, but in English usage is limited to a small slender spire which is placed upon the ridge of a roof of a church and not upon a tower.

Q.—Who were the "Fifth Monarchy Men?"—L. O. F.

A.—They were a puritan sect in England, which for a time supported the government of Oliver Cromwell in the belief that it was a preparation for the "fifth monarchy" that would succeed the Assyrian, the Persian, the Greek and the Roman.

The Record News Offers A Booklet on Meat

About one-fourth of the edible portions of animals used as meat in this country are the so-called choice cuts. The other three-fourths are the less expensive cuts, but if properly selected and prepared they are healthful, delectable, and for the most part equal in food value to the choice cuts. The use of less expensive cuts, and the use of left-over meats and the by-products of meat cooking, like gravy and soup, are essential steps in planning the economical use of this great food staple, which is the largest item of expense in the average household budget.

Send for a copy of The Record News booklet on meat and learn how to know the various cuts of meat and the best methods of preparing them. Scores of recipes for all kinds of meats.

GRAHAM LISTS 1,200 STUDENTS

Public Schools Receive Record Enrollment

Special to The Record News.

GRAHAM, Texas, Sept. 7.—The Graham public schools opened last Monday with the largest enrollment in their history. Both buildings are crowded and plans are being made to secure additional space. About 1,200 students have enrolled in the three schools, high school, east ward and Shawnee. The high school enrollment is 320, the largest number that has ever been enrolled at one time. Shawnee has an enrollment of 487.

The junior high school and lower grades departments are crowded, but the crowded condition is not due to the addition of pupils from the outlying districts recently consolidated with the Graham district, but to an increase in local children enrollment. Last year the average attendance for all grades was 994 and for the high school 295.

Two new features have been added this year at the high school. A course in physical education has been started in order to comply with a new regulation of the state department of education, directed by Coach Byron Rhome, and the girls by Miss Ruth Brown. Another new feature is a course in public speaking which is to be taught by Miss Lovie Lewis.

About 40 children are coming in each morning on the new school bus.

Antiscorbutic Lemons and Limes

When Europeans first began to explore the lands across the ocean it was not unusual for their boats to return to the home port with from 40 per cent to 90 per cent of the crew disabled with scurvy. In many of these old vessels a lemon or lime would have been worth its weight in gold, as these fruits are a positive preventive of this disease. When the fact became known, all of the British vessels were required to take lime juice along on long voyages to prevent the sailors from contracting the dreadful scurvy. For this reason, many British seamen are still known as "limies."

Neither the early Greeks nor the Romans were acquainted with lemons for they were not introduced into Europe until the 12th century, when the Arabs introduced lemons into Spain.

Lemons are very prolific. One tree has been known to produce as many as 3,000 lemons in the year. Although about 7,500,000 boxes of lemons a year are used on the North American continent, it is quite likely that the lemon will continue to become more popular as its health value becomes better known.

The chemical composition of limes and lemons closely resemble each other. Both of them contain large amounts of vitamin C, and are valuable for anyone who is deprived of fresh vegetables over a length of time. The fruits form the basis of many healthful summer drinks, but they should also be used during the winter months when fresh vegetables and other fresh fruits are not as plentiful. The best way to use them is mixed with water as a drink between meals. If you prefer the beverage sweetend you may add a little honey or brown sugar.

The principal minerals found in lemons and limes are lime, magesium, potash and phosphoric acid. For this reason, even though the fruits are acid to the taste, their final action on the blood stream is to make it more alkaline.

Those who are on a milk diet and have a tendency to billiousness often find it a good plan to take a teaspoonful of lemon juice just before drinking the milk.

It is often a good plan to substitute lemonade or limeade for a meal when you are not hungry. Many people find that a glassful of the ade taken the first thing in the morning after arising gives a pleasant taste to the mouth and stimulates the appetite for breakfast. Lemons make an excellent dentifrice to use on bleeding gums. The juice may be squeezed on the toothbrush and a little salt sprinkled on. Used in this way it has a remarkable effect in toning up the gums and improving circulation and cleanliness of the mouth.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Falling Hair

Question—H. F. writes: "I have been told that falling hair is caused by thyroid gland trouble. Is this correct?"

Answer—There is, no doubt, a close relationship exists between the growth of hair and the function of the thyroid gland. Those who have an insufficiency of the thyroid secretion usually become fat and have a poor growth of hair, while the thin person is usually of the hyperthyroid type and has plenty of strong hair.

Colitis

Question—Mrs. O. L. writes: "My son, 21 years old, is suffering from colitis. The doctor says it will take a long time to cure him, and that he must not eat meat. He is not living at home, but in a boarding house, so I cannot regulate his diet. How best can I help him?"

Answer—Tell your son to move from the boarding house, as it is the last place in the world where he can get a special diet such as he requires for the cure of colitis. The doctor was right when he said it would take a long time to bring about a cure, but wrong when he said that meat produces colitis. "Colon-itis" simply means inflammation of the colon, which comes from dietetic errors of all kinds. I advise your son to eat in a restaurant or cafeteria where he can select the proper foods and thus follow the menus which appear in this paper every Friday.

Condiments

Question—Mrs. C. D. asks: "Is a moderate use of condiments very harmful? I find it hard to prepare meals without using a little spice, vinegar, etc."

Answer—Spices and condiments stimulate the flow of digestive juice, and if they are used at all they should be used at a meat meal. Those who suffer from hyperacidity already have more acid than they know what to do with, and anything which will excite an additional flow of hydrochloric acid is bad for them.

Sudden Hunger

Question—Reader asks: "What is the cause of sudden hunger? If I do not eat the minute I feel hungry I become terribly weak. I am also under-weight."

Answer—Most people will have a feeling of gnawing when their stomachs become empty, although this is not true hunger. This gnawing or empty feeling often makes a person nervous and he will suffer from the delusion that he is suddenly quite weak. He will then believe that he feels strength immediately upon eating. Food cannot give you any real strength until after it has been in the body for at least four hours. For your under-weight, I would advise you to select your food very carefully and not try to "stuff" to gain. Just keep your diet well balanced.

Frederick Plans Cotton Festival

Special to The Record News.

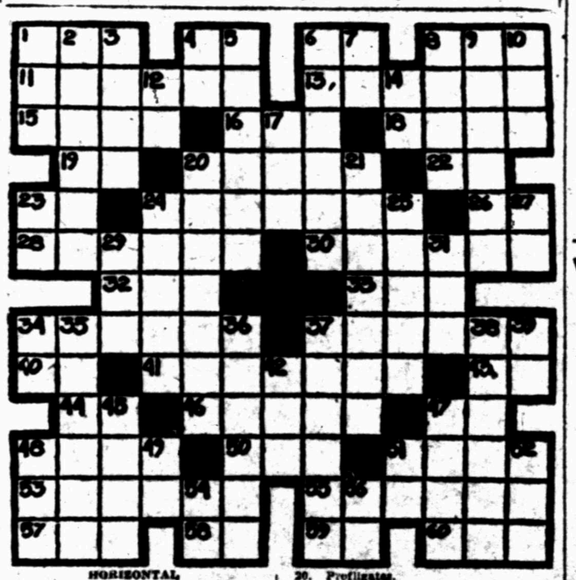

FREDERICK, Okla., Sept. 7.—When the matter of the Oklahoma Cotton Festival was discussed at a meeting of the directors of the Frederick Chamber of Commerce it was decided to hold one again this year on plans similar to that of last year with the exception that it shall last but three days this time. No professional entertainers are to be employed. Last year $500 was spent for outside entertainment.

Texas cities are also to be invited to enter candidates in the contest for Cotton Queen. Last year this was limited to Oklahoma only. If some of the cities which are represented by a queen desire to put on stunts advertising their community they will be given an opportunity.

Matter of a style show will be left up to dry goods stores and other establishments of this city.

School opens Monday. Why not rent your bedroom or apartment to teachers or students? A small want ad in The Times and Record News may bring results.—Adv.

SPUDDERS CLOSE SEASON WITH THIRD LOSS TO FORT WORTH

CATS SLUG OUT 12-9 VICTORY

Roberts Allows Only One Blow in Five Frames

By FRED D. THOMPSON

The Spudders closed the Texas league season Sunday by dropping the last game to Fort Worth, 12 to 9, and giving the Cats undisputed title to the series, three games to one.

Milt Steengrafe and Earl Caldwell divided mound duty for the Spudders, while the Cats used Roberts, Haynes and Terry. The game was featured by heavy hitting of the Cats in the last four frames off Caldwell, and a similar barrage by the Spudders off Haynes and Terry in the final innings.

"One-Hit" Roberts

"Red" Roberts pitched excellently, allowing only one hit, a single by Levey, in the five innings he worked. Steengrafe allowed five hits and two runs, one of them being Roberts' home run over the left center field fence in the third. Cox' double scored Fowler in the second for the first run off Milton.

The Cats bounced 11 hits off Caldwell and scored 10 runs in the last four innings. The Spudders fell on Haynes for a five-run rally in the sixth. A feature of the game was Burns' line drive in the ninth, the ball bouncing from the center field fence for a home run, scoring Burns and a mate who was aboard.

And so it's all over, until Wednesday, when the Cats and Spudders mix it for the championship of the Texas league. Hal Wiltse, slated for mound work in the first game of the play-off was reported in better condition Sunday, the ankle injury improving somewhat. The second game will be played here Thursday, with the series being completed in Fort Worth beginning Saturday.

THE FINAL STANDINGS

Final standings of the Texas league teams for the season including Sunday's game follow:

Team—	W.	L.	Pct.
Wichita Falls	95	58	.621
Houston	89	65	.578
Shreveport	86	65	.570
Fort Worth	84	69	.549
Waco	68	81	.457
Beaumont	68	84	.447
San Antonio	60	93	.392
Dallas	58	93	.384

Sunday's game, last of four that meant nothing in the final second half standings, was as dull as the preceding three had been, with the exception of the first five innings, when both sides were getting relatively excellent pitching. To open the sixth, Caldwell fanned Clark. Gribble singled, Fowler struck out, and then Cox hit a home run, scoring Gribble and himself. Tavener grounded out, Euller to Burns.

They Pounce on Him

In their half, the Spudders pounced on Haynes. Caldwell doubled to right. Levey singled to left, and when Clark let it roll through him Caldwell scored and Levey took second. Storti lined out to short. Fitzgerald hit his 50th double of the season, scoring Levey. Kloza drew a pass. Burns fanned. Bettencourt singled to center, Fitzgerald taking third. Robertson walked, filling the bases. Euller singled to left, scoring Kloza and Bettencourt, and advancing Robertson to second. Caldwell grounded out, short to first, for the third out.

Buckley singled to center to open the seventh. Haynes doubled to right, advancing Buckley to third. Brown singled to center, scoring Buckley and Haynes. The next three went out in order.

Levey tripled against the left center field fence to open the Spudder half of the seventh, and scored when Haynes unloosed a wild pitch. The rest of the inning was uneventful.

In the eighth the Cats scored five. Fowler fouled out to Kloza. Cox singled to center. Tavener singled in the same direction, and when Fitzgerald threw the ball past Euller, Cox scored and Tavener took third. Buckley walked. Meyers batted for Haynes and drew a pass, filling the sacks. Brown was out on an infield fly. O'Connell doubled to right, scoring Tavener and Buckley, and sending Meyers to third. Clark singled to left, scoring O'Connell, and took second when Kloza couldn't pick it up. Gribble fanned for the third out.

Lanky Bill Terry retired the Spudder side by strikeouts in the last of the eighth, Larry Bettencourt, Caldwell and Levey being the victims.

Fowler doubled to right to open the ninth. The infield retired Cox, Fowler taking third. Tavener sacrificed to center and Fowler scored after the catch for the last Cat tally.

Burns' Home Run

In the Spudder half, Geygan, who took over Storti's job at second in the ninth, singled to center. Fitzgerald grounded out, second to first. Kloza doubled to right, scoring Geygan. Burns then drove one against the center field fence, and it bounced for a home run, scoring Kloza and himself. Bettencourt walked. Robertson flied out to left and Euller lined out to short and the last game of the Texas league season was over.

CARDS, TIGERS LEAD MAJORS

Each Team Wins Five, Loses None During Week

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Despite the heavy clouting of the New York Giants and the Boston Braves, it was the St. Louis Cardinals and Detroit Tigers who ran away with the weekly honors. The Cards and the Tigers each won five games without once meeting defeat to lead their respective leagues.

The Cardinals had things all their own way in the National league, for Brooklyn's three victories and two defeats in a short schedule were good for second place while New York and Boston tied for third, each winning six games and losing five. Cleveland and Philadelphia gave the Tigers a somewhat closer race. Each was defeated once, the Indians winning seven games and the Athletics six. Washington came in fourth with five victories and two setbacks.

Giants Lead in Hits

The New York Giants were far ahead in slugging, cracking out 138 hits for 79 runs. The Braves tallied 60 times on 105 hits while the Cleveland Indians, with 57 runs and 100 hits led the American league. Washington took second place in the junior circuit slugging competition, making 39 runs and 70 hits, a record that nearly every National league team passed.

The Giants drove out 10 home runs to top the majors in that respect while the Athletics topped the American league with seven, a mark equaled by Brooklyn, Boston and Chicago in the National.

Defensively, the two leaders outshone all rivals, each had only 16 runs scored against them in six games. The Athletics, with 18 opposing tallies in seven games, was their closest threat. The Cards topped them all in fielding as well, making only two errors. Cleveland committed seven misplays, three above the American league leaders, Philadelphia and Washington. Pittsburgh kicked away 14 chances.

Chisox Are Weakened

The Chicago White Sox proved the weakest of the teams which had difficulty in getting runs. Chicago tallied only 15 times in seven games. The Boston Red Sox made only 18 tallies and lost seven straight games while Cincinnati was third from the bottom with 19 tallies.

Penn Needs Strong Line

(Editor's note—This is first of series of stories on football prospects of outstanding teams.)

CAPE MAY, N. J., Sept. 7. (AP)—Pennsylvania's hopes for a successful football season this fall depend on the strength of its line.

If the new head coach, J. R. Ludlow Wray, and his aides, can weld a strong forward wall out of the inexperienced material available, Penn adherents look for a national ranking eleven on the banks of the Schuylkill. Such formidable opponents as Wisconsin, Kansas, Notre Dame, Georgia Tech, Cornell and Navy are on the schedule.

In the bracing air of Penn's seaside camp the progress of sifting and testing is already well under way. With the exception of Paul Riblett, an end; and John Oslen, a tackle; the entire first string line was graduated. Mort Wilner, skillful quarterback, also is among those not available but Coach Wray has three complete sets of backs headed by Capt. Dick Gentle of Brookline, Mass., and the real problem is up front.

The schedule, games being at home unless otherwise indicated: Oct. 4, Swarthmore; 11, Virginia; 18, Wisconsin at Madison, Wis.; 25, Lehigh; Nov. 1, Kansas; 8, Notre Dame; 15, Georgia Tech; 27, Cornell; Dec. 6, Navy.

'Poison Twins' Lead Pirates To 9 to 7 Victory Over Chicago Cubs

CHICAGO, Sept. 7. (AP)—Paced by the "Poison Twins," Lloyd and Paul Waner who have been particularly poisonous to the Cubs, the Pittsburgh Pirates won the final game of the season from the National league champions today, 9 to 7. A three-run rally off Guy Bush and Bud Teachout in the eighth inning, gave the Pirates their margin after the Cubs had come from behind to assume the lead. Paul Waner notched a pair of triples and propelled in four runs, while Lloyd drove in another pair. Each scored once. Score:

BRAVES, PHILS SLIT

BOSTON, Sept. 7. (AP)—The Braves and Philadelphia slit a double-header of pitchers battles here today. Philadelphia won the first game, 1 to 0, and the Braves took the second 2 to 1.

The Phillies won the first game on only two hits. Their single run in the first inning was sufficient to beat the Braves, who wasted seven hits trying to score on Phil Collins.

The reverse was true in the second game, when Ray Benge outpitched Socks Seibold. Benge allowed only five hits to Seibold's eight, but his bases on balls to Rabbit Maranville and Buster Chatham were fatal, for each of these diminutive infielders scored. Scores:

IOWA PARK, Texas, Sept. 7.—Smoothing and leveling of the fair grounds at Iowa Park are now in progress. Old bases for oil pumps and foundations for buildings are being blasted and torn away, rough places are being scraped and leveled by the combined efforts of the four commissioners precincts.

The dimensions for the livestock building at the fair have been put at 60x200. It is to be a frame building with sheetiron covering, open sides and closed ends. The finance committee is working upon this now and a report is expected within the next few days.

Dr. Gordon Clark, chairman of the entertainment committee, held a meeting of his committee with representatives from Burkburnett and Wichita Falls at which time it was decided to start the fair with a big parade of decorated cars Thursday morning, Sept. 25. There will be given first ad second cash prizes for the best decorated cars in this parade. There will be contests for bands in which several adjoining counties are expected to compete. Colonel Irion of North Texas Junior A. & M. college at Arlington, will be the judge of this contest. Old fiddlers and harmonica contests will add further interest to the musical program.

Friday the Wichita Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce will have charge of the program and will furnish the entertainment. Saturday has been designated as Electra and Burkburnett days, at which time they will furnish several stunts and the major portion of the entertainment.

BARRON TALKS ON REFORMS

Legislation Must Touch 'Inner Lives'

Naming prohibition and legislation to outlaw war as two of the greatest reformations that have failed so far "because they have not touched the inner lives of the people," John Daniel Barron Sunday morning told the members of the Kay Bible class at the First Methodist church that "any reformation that does not issue from or lead to a transformed inner life cannot be permanent."

Mr. Barron's subject was "Reformations that Fail" and was based on the religious reformation effected by Josiah, king of Judah in 621 B. C., at the time when Judah was in dire need of sweeping religious reform, when the people had given their allegiance to many gods and were practicing idolatry "with both hands."

Reformation Failed

"The king went on a wrecking campaign and when he had finished the foreign gods were in ashes," Mr. Barron said. "Their sanctuaries were demolished and their priests were on the run. He restored pure worship to Israel once again. But the reformation was short lived. Josiah enforced it by force of arms, but when he was put to death the old gods came marching back. The reformation which was so great in purpose and seemingly so successful at first, failed in the end.

"Josiah was justified in his legislation against the impure religion, but he failed just at the point we often do. His reformation did not touch the inner lives of the people. It was built on the sand and was washed away in time. Legislation, or outward reformation, is but the clearing of the road. Left to itself, it will fail. It must be supplemented by an inward growth, an inward reformation.

"Let us note a reformation that is struggling for birth in the world today. I refer to changing the method of settling disputes among nations. Can it be effected by legislation? Most certainly not. Legislation will be necessary, but far from effective within itself. It is but one effort in a long series of efforts. The fate of the peace pact at the London naval conference is an illustration. The nations signed the pact, agreeing to outlaw war, but at the naval conference the pact was disregarded and nations continued to build up their armies and navies. The reformation of the peace pact was not effective. It was a piece of legislation built on the sand.

Legion Too War Like

"The reformation of the war method will never be effective until the war-mind of the world is changed to a peace-mind. The inner lives of men must be changed. Pacts are but scraps of paper when the passions of men are set afire. Treaties within themselves are like placards tied to tails of jungle tigers notifying all other beasts that tigers' teeth and claws will tear no more flesh. The American Legion ought to be one of the most powerful organizations in the country for promoting the peace-mind; yet how disappointing it is. I fear its total results are a detriment to peace rather than a help.

"At the last Armistice day parade in Fort Worth an old man was cheering wildly along with the rest of the crowds. The band was rendering the masses temporarily insane; the ex-service men were on parade. Then his hilarity ceased. He had been watching the masked face of war; it was thrilling, beautiful, cheerful. Then he saw the mask lifted for a brief moment. A car of ex-service men passed. One was without an arm; another without an eye, and still another without legs. The old man pulled out a handkerchief, wiped his eyes and said: 'Oh, but that's the hell of it!' If we could see more of the hell of it and less of the pagentry and attractiveness of it, we would all be less inclined to resort to war. No reformation of war will be permanent until the causes of war are destroyed or controlled. External legislation may defer it but it cannot prevent war.

Prohibition's Fate

"Another instance in which external reformation has failed to a large extent in our own day is the 18th amendment. It was intended to effect one of the greatest reformations in the history of the world. Its goal was noble, namely, social control of the liquor traffic. But as a piece of legislation the reformation was external. It was necessary, or something similar. It did not make the nation dry, but it was a powerful means of helping the nation to grow dry. But for some reason it did not touch the hearts of the people. Public opinion was not put behind it. It was a reform at the top which has not fully developed at the bottom.

"We have not reached the goal we set out for. The adoption of the amendment was but the initial step; it but cleared the road for further progress. That great gains have been made is without question, but the point is clear that prohibition can never be made a reality by legislation alone. Like all other great reformations, it must have the support of public opinion which will be withheld or given on the merits of the reformation itself. Not policemen, but the wishes of the people, will decide its success or failure. We can put it down in our caps that if we depend solely on the law, prohibition will fail, for the law is but an instrument of the people, and if the people do not want prohibition or have no convictions on it, then the instrument is in a dead hand."

Which would you choose

Poverty and love or riches and unhappiness?

Pretty Celia Rogers, daughter of divorced parents, was faced with the perplexing problem of choosing between a life of poverty with her working mother and a life of luxury with her wealthy father.

Celia's mother, estranged from her husband for many years, had worked as a seamstress to put her daughter through school.

Then her father, whom Celia had not seen since babyhood, returned to claim her. Mrs. Rogers agreed it was best she should go with him.

But Celia—well, read for yourself what happens to her in "Heart Hungry," a startling unusual story of life and love, heartache and happiness, beginning Friday, Sept. 12 in The Wichita Daily Times.

MAJESTIC: John McCormack and Maureen O'Sullivan in "Song O' My Heart." Charley Chase comedy, screen song and sound news.

STRAND: "Animal Crackers," with the four Marx brothers. Grantland Rice sportlight, screen song and sound news.

STATE: John Wray in "Czar of Broadway." Short subjects and sound news.

GEM: "The Divorcee," with Norma Shearer. Comedy.

"Song O' My Heart" is better than could be expected. Skilful directing and photography has made of it the best of that type of movie which capitalizes on the popularity of one personality, or in this case, one voice.

Because John McCormack is its chief drawing card, the story is simply a vehicle in which he may sing the songs the public has liked best. It is kept from being obviously a commercialization of his voice by choice of a remarkable supporting cast, a decent plot with a minimum amount of hokum, the beautiful Irish settings and adroit directing.

Without seeing the movie, it would be difficult to believe that 11 songs could be worked into one hour and a half show without it resembling a recital or revue. There are not too many songs, however—it's not the theme song type, anyhow.

It may be that a little Irish ancestry is necessary to a complete enjoyment of "Song O' My Heart." Even the Scotch, however, cannot help but succumb to the charming 18-year-old Maureen O'Sullivan, who is a real discovery. "Song O' My Heart" being her first picture ...nor to 11-year-old Tommy Clifford, who won his part by his very impudence to Director Frank Borzage.

Borzage found Maureen O'Sullivan in a cafe in Dublin one evening, decided she was the exact type for his picture, and immediately signed her up. Since completing "Song O' My Heart," she has been featured in "So This Is London" with Will Rogers and is today on the threshold of success. She is as fresh and winsome as the colleen in the story was supposed to be—a sort of combination of the Janet Gaynor and Mary Brian types with none of the faults of either.

When the director began his hunt for the little brother, three children were suggested by a teacher in the National school, Chapelized, Ireland. Tommy Clifford, not even selected by his teacher, expressed his grievance by yelling "Teacher's pets!" at the three who had been nominated. His consistent annoyance of the teacher, director and classmates finally penetrated, and he was given the part.

McCormack's best song is "Ireland, Mother Ireland," although the others are alleged to have more "popular appeal." It is to be regretted that the same people who would have fought to pay $2.00 for a seat in New York a few weeks ago are so indifferent about attendance here that the Majestic management will lose what little faith was left after "The Rogue Song" and "Disraeli" flopped. "Song O' My Heart" should be a box office success, just on general principles, if Wichita Falls expects to get the best pictures on the earliest release dates.

World in 'Crying Need' of Modern Reformer, Martin Tells Bible Class

"The world is in crying need of a modern reformer who will be able to brush off the dust from the Book of Books, who will turn the people away from their idols to the worship of the living God," Judge P. A. Martin told the members of the Men's Bible class of the Floral Heights Methodist church Sunday morning.

Judge Martin's talk was based on the life and works of Josiah, the young king of Jerusalem and one of the first reformers of which the world has any record. His address follows in part:

"The world at various times has been blessed by the lives of men who are classed as reformers. One of the first of whom we have an record is Josiah, the young king who reigned at Jerusalem for a short time and met a tragic death at the hands of Egyptian invaders of his country before his reformation had been fully accomplished. Briefly told, his reform began with the discovery of the forgotten book of the law (Deuteronomy) in the rubbish of the temple, by one of the priests. A scribe was called upon to read it. In turn he told of its contents to the king. The king, seeing how he and his people had all gone astray after the gods of the heathen tribes around about them, clothed himself in sack cloths and ashes for a season; bitterly repented himself and then commanded all the people to repent and destroy their idols and worship Jehovah the true God of Israel. He restored the feast of the passover to the Jews, and, in form at least it remained until the present day. So Josiah may be classed as a real reformer. He reformed himself and his people for the time being.

Continual Reform

"So much for the history involved. But there is a sad feature connected with this, as with many other lessons of the Old and the New Testament. The Jews went back into sin as soon as he died.

"The sad feature of it is that humanity is always needing to be reformed. A great reform sometimes outlasts the life of the reformer but more often it has died when he died, as it did in the death of Josiah.

"Reform has become a word 'to conjure with' in the politics of the nations of the world and many are the so-called 'reformers' who have ridden the crest of political waves of thought with banners inscribed with the magic words 'reform' and many have been the mistakes and even crimes committed in the name of reform. Humanity goes on rising and falling like the tides of the sea; now turning, in a period of extremity to the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob and the Man of Galilee and now worshiping at the shrines of strange gods: the god of pleasure, or of wealth or of ease and luxury.

"In the city of Chicago last month I attended the greatest meeting of great men I have ever seen together; great judges and lawyers from all over the United States and some 250 from overseas; and the great object and subject of the meeting, the burden of all thought and the desire of all present was 'reform' of one sort of another. Everybody wanted some sort of reform. Few indeed had any particular remedies to promise but all sensed a need of reform; all sounded an alarm but few there were who laid out lines of defense or provided armor against threatened invasions of our sacred rights.

"And yet it seems to me that there is a great similarity between our situation and that of the old Jews in the days of Josiah. The sacred Book of the Law is not lost in the rubbish of the temple it is true, but is it not practically lost to the use of the family in these modern days? It may be read by all, it is true, but is it read by even a majority of the people? We have erected no temples and shrines to Baal and Ashtoreth, as the Israelites did, but are we not building temples of pleasure and palaces of luxury that mock the regal splendor of those of the palmiest days of the ancients? And in all these things are we not forgetting our responsibility to our God?

Bread Lines and Yachts

"I observed the other day that the yacht Corsair was stranded upon a sand bar somewhere on the New England coast. It was casually said that it was built at a cost of over a quarter of a million dollars; built for the pleasure of its owner and his family. In the same paper there was an account of bread lines forming and soup kitchens established for the unemployed in many American cities. I am not criticizing the owner for owning such a yacht. He has a right to enjoy his wealth that way if he wants to and I have no doubt that he will contribute as much as any living man to the suffering poor of his country, for he is a patriot, as I understand, but the contrast is drawn simply as an illustration of how modern wealth is dissipated for pleasure rather than finding its way into more useful channels.

"We are indeed living in a strange age. The business world is paralyzed. Big financial institutions have vaults filled to bursting with wealth which they are afraid to invest—want of confidence everywhere. Millions of idle men walking the streets or hitch-hiking along the highways—bread lines and soup kitchens being established in the centers of population—and at the same time spending more money on pleasure than any people under the sun ever did.

"Have we buried our religion, our Bible, our faith under the rubbish of modern pleasure and forgotten the words of the Man of Nazareth, 'Do unto others as ye would that men should do unto you'?

"The world is in crying need of a modern reformer who will be able to brush off the dust from the Book of Books; a Hilkiah, the priest, who will find it and open its pages, a Shaphan, the scribe, who will read it and a Josiah, the king, who will turn the people away from their idols to the worship of the living God."

'Man' Subject Of Science Sermon

The lesson-sermon subject in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday was "Man."

The golden text was from Psalms 119:65,73. "Thou hast dealt well with thy servant, O Lord, according unto thy word. Thy hands have made me and fashioned me."

Included in the service was the following passage from the Bible: "For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens" (II Corinthians 5:1).

The lesson-sermon also included the following citations from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 302): "The material body and mind are temporal, but the real man is spiritual and eternal . . . Continuing our definition of man, let us remember that harmonious and immortal man has existed forever, and is always beyond and above the mortal illusion of any life, substance, and intelligence as existent in matter."

Rotarians Make Talks To Boys Club Members

Four members of the Rotary club made short talks Sunday at the meeting of the Rotary Boys club, the first speaker, Joe Emold, presenting an interesting comparison between the opportunities offered boys in Russia and those in America. Mr. Emold lived in Russia until he was 18 years old.

Other speakers were John C. Coffey, Alfred Burnside and J. E. Duncan, who urged the boys to "keep their eyes open" and to enter school with the idea of liking their work, since the boy is the one who receives all the benefits of the education offered him. George Taylor, musical director of the club, opened the program with a number of songs. Durwood Givins, a member of the Boys club, gave a 15-minute impromptu talk on what he saw on the trip taken last week to Fort Worth, when a large number of the boys were taken at the Rotary club's expense on an educational and recreational trip.

William B. Ward, director of the club, announced that classes in woodwork, radio, telegraphy, wood carving, soap carving, basket weaving and harmonica playing would be opened in the boys clubrooms within the next 10 days.

WHAT DID DARWIN TEACH?

Editor, The Record News:

Seeing the picture of Mr. Darwin and what Mr. Ripley in his Believe It or Not had to say with reference to Darwin not teaching the human family came from monkeys in The Record News of Aug. 2, the question came to me, "What Did Darwin Teach?"

If Mr. Ripley is not given the right-of-way and the liberty of saying what he wants to say, (right or wrong) for the people to read and absorb (right or wrong) hiding behind the "fully protected," giving no one the right to speak out upon the subject, I shall be pleased to show from Darwin himself just what he did teach with reference to man's progenitors.

We let Mr. Darwin now speak for himself: "In forming a judgment on this head with reference to man, we must glance at the classification of the Simiadae. This family is divided by most all naturalists into the Catarhine group, or the old world monkeys, and the Platyrhine group, or new world monkeys."

I am just wondering which of these monkey groups man belongs, or did Darwin teach that man belongs to any monkey division? We shall let him say: "Now man unquestionably belongs to the Catarhine or old world division. There can consequently, hardly be a doubt that man is an off-shoot from the old world Simian stem; and that under a genalogical point of view, he must be classed with the Catarhine division." Now let's reason a little. If man is, as Mr. Darwin says, an off-shoot from and is genalogically connected with the Catarhine group of the Simiadae family, and if this Catarhine group to which man, as Mr. Darwin says, belongs, and if this Catarhine Simian stem is the old world monkeys, what is this but teaching that man is genalogically connected with and is an off-shoot of the old world monkeys?

But we hear from Mr. Darwin further in this matter: "Every naturalist who believes in the principles of evolution, will grant that the two main divisions of the Simiadae, namely, the Catarhine and the Platyrhine monkeys"; and believe it or not, I want the reader to hear Darwin for Darwin knew more than Mr. Ripley what he taught with reference to man's pedigree. Hear Darwin: "And as man from a genalogical point of view belongs to the Catarhine or old world stock, we must conclude, however much the conclusion may revolt our pride, that our early progenitors would have been properly thus designated." Now say, did Darwin teach that we came from monkeys? I will let him answer: "Not only in all these characters which he possesses in common with the whole Catarhine group, but in other peculiar characters, such as the absence of a tail and collosities, and in general appearance, we may infer that some ancient member of the anthropomorphous sub-group gave birth to man." Just when man's anthropomorphous progenitors lost the tail, whether it was before or after this Catarhine monkey group gave birth to man, Mr. Darwin does not tell us, but hear a little more from Darwin. Will you? "The early progenitors of man must have been once covered with hair, both sexes having beard and pointed ears, furnished with a tail, arboreal in habits, and classed among the Quatrumana, and at an earlier period the progenitors of man must have been aquatic in their habits. It has long been known in the vertebrate kingdom one sex bears rudiments of various accesory parts; and it now is ascertained that at a very early period both sexes possessed true male and female glands. Hence some remote progenitors of the whole vertebrate kingdom appears to have been hermaphrodite or androgynous." Now aren't these big words? Mr. Darwin knew the average reader would never know what he really teaches here. Mr Darwin means to tell us that away back yonder when the human family's Catarhine Anthropomorphous progenitors were covered with hair, provided with a tail with their pointed ears had quit their oceanic home washed by the heaving tides, and got to living in trees, well, away back yonder somewhere during the prehistoric days, man's progenitors possessed both the male and female reproductive organs in the one and the same individual. Any thoughtful reader of Darwin's statements here can see that his androgynism and hermaphrodtism is diametrically opposed to the Bible statement, "So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he them, male and female created he them." (Gen. 1:27). This does not sound like the one and the same individual was both the male and the female, does it? Just at what period in the evolution of this hermaphrodite or androgynous family the separate male and female reproductive organs were evolved, hence the male and the female organs as we have them now, Mr. Darwin did not tell us.

But to be honest with Darwin, is to let him speak as to what he taught. Hear him more: "In the class of mammals the steps are not difficult to conceive which led from the ancient Monotremata to the Marsupials; and from these to the early progenitors of the placental mammals, and we may thus ascend to the Lemuridae; and the interval is not very wide from these to the Simiadae. The Simiadae then branched off into two great stems, the new world and the old world monkeys." Now listen to what Darwin says: "From the latter at a remote period man, the wonder and glory of the universe proceeded. Thus we have given to man a pedigree of prodigious length, but not, it may be said, of a noble quality. If any single link in this chain had never existed, man would never have been exactly what he now is. Unless we willfully close our eyes, we may, with our present knowledge, approximately recognize our parentage; nor we need feel ashamed o it."

For the proof of all these quotations from Darwin, the reader is referred to "Origin of Species" by Darwin complete in one volume, published in 1896, chapter six.

Now if the above from Mr. Darwin himself does not teach that the human family came from, yea, descended from the old world monkeys, his language is meaningless and empty, and is like a blasted nut, the shell is there but the kernel is wanting.

"The fool hath said in his heart, There is no God." (Ps. 14:1).
